The copy filmed here has been reproduced thanks to the generosity of:

National Library of Canada

The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustratad impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche shall contain the symbol ⟶ (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the symbol ▽ (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

L'exemplaire filmé fut reproduit grâce à la générosité de:

Bibliothèque nationale du Canada

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles suivants apparaîtra sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole ⟶ signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole ▽ signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. Les diagrammes suivants illustrent la méthode.

PREFACE.

I have to apologize for some delay in the issue of this new edition of the MUNICIPAL MANUAL—a delay arising from various causes, but chiefly from the magnitude of the task and the difficulty of preparing a law book which shall be at the same time suitable for the use of laymen. I trust that my professional brethren will bear this in mind should they be tempted to consider some of my notes as too elementary, while, on the other hand, if any municipal officer thinks that too much space is taken up by the citation and analysis of decided cases, I beg him to remember that the interpretation of the Municipal Act, like that of other Statutes, must ultimately devolve upon Judges and lawyers, and that it demands a large and rapidly increasing share of their time and attention. Of this every diligent student of our Reports must be aware. Two facts afford an illustration. In the last preceding Edition of this Manual—issued in 1889—there are cited less than 1,200 Canadian cases on the Municipal Act. This gives an average of thirty cases per annum for each of the forty years which had then elapsed since the passing of the original Municipal Act in 1849. The number of Canadian decisions cited in the present Edition is 2229,—an increase of more than 1000,—representing an average in each of the past eleven years of nearly one hundred reported decisions per annum upon the Municipal Act alone, irrespective of cases on the Assessment Act, the Municipal Drainage Act and cognate Statutes.

The task of consolidation and annotation has been rendered more difficult, not only by the (apparently unnecessary) amendments which are made to the Act every Session of the Legislature (a), but also because of the mysterious and algebraic forms in which many of these amendments are made,—viz., by cutting one or more words out of the middle of a section, or by sandwiching into it a few meaningless parts of speech, so that, until these disjecta membra are united by diligent annotation, it is impossible to determine the effect of the alteration (b). In order to embody some of the more important of these amendments, especially those relating to municipal elections, it has been found necessary to reprint thirty-two pages of the MANUAL, and to substitute these for the pages originally printed. Other amendments—which it was impossible to include without reprinting the entire book—will be found on pages 1013-1019.

(a) See pp. 987-1012, post. During the two and a-half years which have passed since the Revised Statutes came into force (December 31, 1897) no less than fifty-two pages of the Ontario Statutes have been taken up by amendments to the Municipal Act alone.

(b) See for example 62 V. (2) c. 26, ss. 1, 2, 3, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, etc., post, p. 988. 63 V. c. 33, ss. 1, 4 (1), 6, 7, 12, 13, 14, 15, post, pp. 994-999. 63 V. c. 33, s. 47, post, pp. 1006-7. affords a striking instance of this "crazy-quilt" method of amendment.

Part II of the MANUAL—containing the Assessment Act, the Municipal Drainage Act and many other important Statutes relating to municipal matters, with notes, forms, etc.—is already in preparation, and will be issued as soon as possible after the next Session of the Legislature.

It remains only to thank many friends to whom I am greatly indebted for counsel and assistance in the preparation of this book. Among them I should especially mention the Honourable Judge DILLON, of New York, Sir JOHN BOURINOT, of Ottawa, and PH. BADOUIN, Esq., of Montreal, who kindly authorized me to make extracts from their valuable works (c). His Honour Judge MACDONALD, of Brockville, who revised the note on the Statutes relating to payment of the expenses of Administration of Justice in Ontario, (d) ALEX. BRUCE, M.A., Q.C., of Hamilton, and Z. A. LASH, Q.C., of Toronto, who revised the forms of Debenture By-laws (e), and ALLAN M. DYMOND, Esq., Law Clerk of the Legislative Assembly, who has read the proof sheets of the entire work and prepared the General Index (f).

PREFATORY NOTE

ON THE

HISTORY OF THE DEVELOPMENT OF MUNICIPAL INSTITUTIONS

IN THIS PROVINCE.

Three years before the passing of the Constitutional Act of 1791 (a) the Province of Upper Canada had been divided into four Districts by a Proclamation (b) issued on July 24th, 1788, from "our castle of Saint Lewis in our City of Quebec" by GUY, Lord DORCHESTER (better known to us in Canada as Sir GUY CARLETON (c)) "Captain General and Governor-in-chief of our said Province of Quebec."

The Districts thus constituted were :—

I. LUNEBURG (d) "bounded on the east by the eastern limit of a tract lately called or known by the name of Lancaster, protracted northerly and southerly as far as our said Province extends, and westerly by a north and south line intersecting the mouth of the River Gananoque (now called the Thames) above the rifts of the River St. Lawrence ; and extending southerly and northerly to the limits of our said Province, therein comprehending the several towns or tracts called or known by the names of Lancaster, Charlottenburg, Cornwall, Osnabruck, Williamsburg, Matilda, Edwardsburg, Augusta and Elizabethtown" (e).

II. MECKLENBURG (f) extending from the western limits of Luneburg to a north and south line intersecting the mouth of the River Trent at its discharge "into the head of the Bay of Quinty" (Quinte) "and therein comprehending the several towns or tracts called or known by the names of (b) See Thomson & Macfarlane's Statutes of U. C. (1831), p. 23.

(c) Col. Sir Guy Carleton,—who was a friend of Gen. James Wolfe, and who afterwards became one of the best of our Canadian Governors,—came to Canada with Wolfe in 1759 as Quarter-Master General, and was one of the principal engineer officers in charge of the operations against Quebec. He led a successful expedition against Pointe aux Trembles on July 21st, 1759; but apparently was not present at the engagement of Sept. 13th, when Quebec was captured. In April, 1760, he was one of the British force which, under General Murray, successfully resisted De Levis' desperate attempt to re-capture the city. Having returned to Canada in 1766, he was its Governor thenceforward till 1788, and during this period was the successful defender of Quebec against the attack of General Montgomery and Benedict Arnold in December, 1775. In 1782 he succeeded Sir Henry Clinton as Commander-in-chief of His Majesty's forces in America. In 1786, he became Lord Dorchester and was again sent to Canada as its Governor-General, an office which he held till 1796. His family name is borne by one of our Counties (Carleton) ; and two townships,—North and South Dorchester, the one in Middlesex, the other in Elgin,—recall his title. See PARKMAN—"Montcalm and Wolfe," Vol. II., p. 190, 224 ; KINGSFORD—"History of Canada," Vol. IV., p. 224, 229 ; Vol. V, c. 5 ; Vol. VI., c. 1.

(e) It would seem that these townships (which still bear the names here given them) must have received these names between November, 1786 (the date of McNiff's map, which is referred to in note (b) to s. 598 of "The Municipal Act," post, and July, 1788, the date of this Proclamation. "The township of Lancaster" is mentioned in an Ordinance of April, 1788 (c. 3, s. 8), "For promoting Inland Navigation," but the Editor has not been able to discover by whom or when any of the above names were given ; and His Honour Judge PRINGLE, of Cornwall, who has made the early history of these townships a special study, says :—"It is not known when these townships,—(which were designated by numbers in McNiff's map)—got their names."—"Lunenburgh, or the Old Eastern District, its Settlement and Early Progress," (Cornwall, 1890), Chap. VIII., p. 46. Charlottenburg may have been so called after George III's Queen, Charlotte Sophia of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, or, perhaps, after the Prussian town which bears the same name. Osnabruck (Osnaburg) is a town in Hanover, the birthplace of George I.

(f) As to the reason for this name, see the preceding note.

Pittsburg, Kingstown (sic), Ernestown, Fredericksburg, Adolphustown, Marysburg, Sophiasburg, Ameliasburg, Sydney (sic), Thurlow, Richmond and Camden."

III. NASSAU (g), extending westerly from Mecklenburg "to a north and south line intersecting the extreme projection of Long Point into the Lake Erie," and

IV. HESSE (g), comprehending "all the residue of our said Province in the western or inland parts thereof; of the entire breadth thereof from the southerly to the northerly boundary of the same."

The westerly boundary of the Province was at this time the middle of the Detroit and St. Clair Rivers and of Lake Huron (h).

For the purpose of Parliamentary representation, and also for militia purposes, (i) these Districts were afterwards divided by a Proclamation (j) of Governor Simcoe, dated July 16th, 1792, into the nineteen original Counties (k) of Upper Canada, viz., Glengary (l), Stormont, Dundas, Grenvill (l), Leeds, Frontenac, Ontario (consisting of "Isle Tonti," or Amherst Island, "Isle au Foret," or Gage (now Simcoe) Island, Grand (or Wolfe) Island, and "Isle Cauchois," (or Howe Island)—Addington, Lenox (l), Prince Edward, Hastings, Northumberland, Durham, York, Lincoln, Norfolk, Suffolk (m), Essex and Kent. It was not, however, until 1849 (more than fifty years later) that the County succeeded the District as a division for municipal and judicial purposes (n).

The four original Districts,—re-named at the opening Session of the First Parliament of Upper Canada by 32 Geo. III., c. 8, the "Eastern," "Midland," "Home," and "Western" Districts,—had, by Jan. 1st, 1800, been increased by sub-divisions (consequent upon their growth in population and the accretion of new territory) to eight, the Johnstown, Niagara, London and Newcastle Districts having been thus formed (o). In 1816, the Ottawa District was set apart by 56 Geo. III., c. 2, out of the Counties of Prescott and Russell. In 1849, when the County first became the unit of division for municipal and judicial, as well as for parliamentary purposes, there were twenty Districts in Upper Canada, viz.:—the Eastern District (which included the Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry); the Ottawa District, (Prescott and Russell); the District of Dalhousie, (Carleton County); the Johnstown District, (Leeds and Grenville); the Bathurst, (Lanark and Renfrew); Midland, (Frontenac, Lennox and Addington); Victoria, (Hastings); Prince Edward, (Prince Edward); Newcastle, (Northumberland and Durham); Colborne, (Peterborough—then including Victoria); Home, (York—then including Ontario and Peel); Simcoe, (which corresponded with the County of Simcoe—Muskoka not being yet organized); Gore, (including Wentworth, Halton and part of Brant); the Niagara District, (Lincoln, Haldimand and part of Welland);

(g) Among the ancestresses of Geo. III. were a Countess of Nassau and a Duchess of Hesse-Darmstadt. Count William of Hesse-Hanau was Geo. III.'s cousin; and regiments raised in Hesse-Hanau and Hesse-Cassel were among the (paid) allies of His Majesty in his war with the revolted American colonists for the possession of this country. (k) "County Lieutenants," answering to the Lords Lieutenant of English counties, were appointed by Governor Simcoe in and for each of the nineteen Counties established by this Proclamation. To them was committed the organization and command of the militia of the County, and the magistrates thereof were appointed on their recommendation. A list of the first County Lieutenants thus appointed is given at p. 142 of a most interesting history of the Western District, entitled "Harrison Hall and its Associations," by His Honour Judge WOODS, of Chatham, Ont.

(m) Suffolk appears to have included the territory which now forms the Counties of Middlesex and Elgin.

An interesting map of the organized part of Upper Canada in 1798, prepared by D. W. SMITH, Esq., then the Acting Surveyor General, is republished in the Report for 1891 of DOUGLAS BRYMNER, Esq., Dominion Archivist. An undated but apparently earlier and even more interesting map is in the possession of JAMES BAIN, Jr., Chief Librarian of the Toronto Public Library.

the Talbot District, (Norfolk, and the remainder of Haldimand); the Western District, (Essex, Kent and Lambton); the London District, (Elgin and a portion of Middlesex); the Brock District, (Oxford, including part of Brant); the Wellington District, (Waterloo, Wellington, Grey and part of Perth), and, lastly, the Huron District, which included part of Middlesex and all the then organized portions of the present County of Huron (p).

GOVERNMENT BY COURTS OF QUARTER SESSIONS (1788-1841).

From the formation of these Districts by the Proclamation of 1788 down to the passing of "The District Councils Act" in 1841, (q) the management of local affairs in each District, including much of the work afterwards entrusted to municipal councils,—was committed to the several District Courts of General Quarter Sessions of the Peace, composed of magistrates appointed by the Governor or Lieutenant-Governor in Council.

In 1793, and for some years thereafter, the Court of General Quarter Sessions for the Eastern District held its meetings twice a year at New Johnstown (now a mere hamlet in the Township of Edwardsburgh, three miles east of Prescott) and twice a year at Cornwall (r); the Court for the Midland District, in like manner, at Kingston and Adolphustown alternately; the Home District Court quarterly at Newark (Niagara-on-the-Lake), and the Court for the Western District quarterly "in the Town of Detroit," with an additional (special) annual Session at Michilimackinac, (now "the British Landing" on Mackinac Island,) in that part of the then Province of Upper Canada which is at present included within the boundaries of the State of Michigan (s).

The powers of these Courts of General Quarter Sessions included (inter alia) the erection and management of court-houses, gaols and asylums; the laying out and improvement of the highways; the making of assessments therefor, and also "to pay the wages of Members of the House of Assembly" (t); of regulations to prevent accidental fires (u); the appointment of district and township constables (v); fixing the fees of gaolers (w), of town or parish clerks (x), and of pound keepers (y); the appointment of street and highway surveyors (z), and inspectors of weights and measures (a); the regulation of ferries (b); the establishment and regulation of markets in various towns—e.g. Kingston in 1801 (c), York in 1814 (d), Niagara in 1817 (e), Cornwall in 1818 (f), Perth in 1822 (g); the granting of certificates to applicants for licenses to sell liquor (h), and to ministers or clergymen of "dissenting" congregations, authorizing them to solemnize marriages (i), etc.

THE "PARISH AND TOWN OFFICERS ACT," (1793).

The germ of our democratic system of municipal institutions—which has now so completely superseded the former oligarchic method of government through nominees of the Crown—may be found so far back as 1793 in the Statute 33 Geo. III., c. 2, entitled "An Act to provide for the Nomination and Appointment of Parish and Town Officers within the Province." This Statute enabled any two of His Majesty's Justices of the Peace by their warrants to authorize the constable of any "parish, township, reputed township or place" to assemble, on the first Monday in March (afterwards changed to the first Monday in January)—in each year, the inhabitant [ratepaying] householders of the parish, township, etc., "in the parish church or chapel, or in some convenient place within the parish," etc., to choose, for the ensuing year, a parish, town or township clerk, two assessors, a collector, a number—(repeatedly increased)—of overseers of highways and fence viewers, a pound-keeper and two "town-wardens." If there was a parish church with a duly appointed minister, he appointed one warden, and the "town-meeting" (j) elected the other, the two being in that case styled "church-wardens."

Beyond simply electing these officers to carry out the laws made by Parliament, the meeting had no legislative power except to determine the height of lawful fences, (and by a later Act (k)) "to ascertain and determine in what manner and for what periods horned cattle, horses, sheep and swine, or any of them, shall be allowed to run at large, or to resolve that they or any of them shall be restrained from so doing." (l) For extracts from the minutes of some of these "town-meetings" see CANNIFF'S "History of Ontario," pp. 454, 471, 481, 492. The earliest meeting which he records is one held at Adolphustown, the date of which, as given by CANNIFF, is 6th March, 1793, though the Act did not come into force till July 9th of that year.

The two wardens thus elected (or elected and appointed) became "as a corporation to represent the whole inhabitants of the township or parish," with power to sue, prosecute and defend on behalf of the said inhabitants; but (except as aforesaid) they were without any legislative powers.

The Justices of the Peace for the District, in their Quarter Sessions assembled, retained, as above indicated, all the authority. In case of non-election by the ratepayers they appointed the Town Officers, and in every case they filled any vacancies occurring during the year by death or removal. (m)

MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT IN CITIES AND TOWNS.

As towns arose, and markets were established therein, the Quarter Sessions of the District were further empowered to make for these towns "such prudential rules and regulations as they might deem expedient" relative to watching, paving, lighting, keeping in repair, cleansing and improving the streets, regulating the assize of bread, slaughter houses and nuisances, firemen and fire companies; and also for enforcing the laws relative to the inspection of weights and measures, and to horses, swine or cattle running at large in the town (n).

Gradually, however, the power to regulate these matters in towns was transferred to representative bodies annually elected by the resident [male] householders under the name of "Boards of Police." To these, from the very first, were granted additional powers, e.g., to appoint the town clerk, treasurer and street surveyor, assessors, collectors and bailiffs and to fix their remuner-

(j) "The town-meeting of New England played a most important part in the education of the people in self government. There all the qualified male inhabitants met together, and discussed and decided a wide range of matters of local concern. Why was this system not introduced in its entirety into Canada? It is frequently supposed that the reason was that the British Government—taught by the experience of the revolted colonies—feared the town-meeting as a school of independence. It is true that town-meetings were suppressed in Nova Scotia in 1770, the very year that Boston town-meeting, under the guidance of Samuel Adams, was leading all the other "towns" of Massachusetts, in opposition to the government of King George. This may accordingly have been one of the reasons why the local government established in Upper Canada took the shape it did. But there is another and still more important reason, that has hitherto been overlooked. It is that it was not the example of New England that was directly before the eyes of the first settlers in Upper Canada, but the example of the neighbouring State of New York. It was from thence that most of the U. E. Loyalists came. Indeed an old settler writing in 1818, expressly describes [CANNIFF,—"History of Ontario" p. 159], the system of government established in 1791, and the years immediately following, as 'a constitution similar to that which they (the old settlers) had lost during the Rebellion in the Province of New York.'"—Prof. ASHLEY'S Introduction to "The Ontario Township," by J. M. McEVOY—Toronto University Studies in Political Science, 1st Series, No. 1.

(l) "'What shall be a lawful fence?' and 'What animals shall be free commoners in the township for the year?' were the only questions concerning which town-meetings might really legislate; but they might and did discuss far weightier matters. Public sentiment on the largest public questions was here fostered. This, however, was not so important or valuable as the quality of mind which was developed. Little as was their law-making power, it was enough to show every man present the real necessity for laws, how laws were made, that laws were simply rules which ought to be the most advantageous that could be devised for the community and that the community had an undoubted right to change these laws if they saw that a change would be an improvement. It was the conception of law that was fostered in the men of Ontario by their town-meetings which led in a large measure to the establishment of Responsible Government in this Province."—McEVOY—"The Ontario Township," p. 20.

ation; to make assessments for purchasing real estate for the use of the town, and for procuring fire engines, aqueducts, and a supply of pure and wholesome water; for lighting, paving and repairing the streets; to regulate and license victualling houses and public exhibitions of showmen and mountebanks; to regulate carts and carmen, wharves and quays, the weighing of hay and the measuring of wood; to prevent riding or driving on sidewalks or at an immoderate pace, the firing of guns and pistols, squibs and fire-balls, injury to shade trees, the pulling down or defacing of sign boards, indecent inscriptions on buildings, walls and fences, encroachments, on streets, etc., and "generally, to prevent vice and preserve good order in the town," and "to make such rules and regulations therefor as they might deem expedient,"—with power to enforce these by inflicting a penalty of one pound ten shillings for violation of any by-law or ordinance of the corporation. (o)

Still larger powers were granted by the Acts incorporating certain cities and towns: e.g., to Toronto in 1834 (p), Kingston in 1838 (q), Cornwall in 1846 (r), Bytown, Dundas, London and Brantford in 1847 (s): and their municipal government was vested in a Mayor and Common Council, the Mayor being chosen by (but not in every case from) the Council.

In 1847 was passed a general Act (t) enabling the inhabitant householders of any town or village not specially incorporated to elect "Police Trustees" who were empowered to enforce within the town or village the regulations now contained in s. 747 of the present Municipal Act,—regulations which (mirabile dictu) have remained on our statute books unamended for more than fifty years!

IN RURAL MUNICIPALITIES.

Municipal affairs in rural localities, however, still continued to be managed by the General Quarter Sessions for the District, acting through the officers appointed under "The Parish and Town Officers Act" (u) and the amendments thereto, as consolidated and re-enacted by "The Township Officers Act" of 1837, (1 Vict., c. 21).

The contrast—thus becoming continually more marked—between the measure of local self-government accorded to the urban as compared with the rural elector, was one which could not fail to produce in the latter a feeling of profound dissatisfaction,—which indeed was not wholly without cause. Mr. McEvoy, in his interesting paper on "The Ontario Township," says: (pp. 20-22).

> "A full and careful study of the 'orders' of the different District Courts of Quarter Sessions would, I believe, do very much to explain and justify the irritation which was so prevalent during the time that these Courts exercised their taxing and regulating authority. The Court of Quarter Sessions was composed of the magistrates of the District. The London District consisted of some thirty-two townships, which may be roughly described as those now constituting the Counties of Middlesex, Oxford, Huron, Elgin, Brant and Norfolk. At some of the sessions of this Court . . . twenty-three magistrates were present; but the usual number was from six to eleven. . . . All the public funds available for the building of roads and bridges in six Counties were in the hands of these eight or ten men appointed for life by the Government. In the matter of roads and bridges they were indifferent and incompetent; they neither knew the needs of the District nor were sufficiently anxious to supply them to make them at all fitted to open up a new country. In the matter of gaols and other public works these Courts were invested with large authority. They procured plans and estimates for the building of gaols and court houses of whatever dimensions they deemed fit, erected these buildings and ordered the people to pay the expense thus incurred. Their Worships also ordered what fare the prisoners should get, and contracted for the supply of provisions; they ordered what fees the District Officers should receive; they had control of public charity, and occasionally they voted a pittance for the relief of an unfortunate pauper. They exercised the right of granting or withholding authority to solemnize marriage,—ministers of any but the English Church being allowed to perform this ceremony only after much trouble and annoyance. Besides this large statutory authority, they might venture upon almost any stretch of power; and no one was willing or able to make question of their actions. A body of public officers with such large and unrestricted powers would now be considered . . . somewhat dangerous, even if its members were annually subject to popular election. But the magistrates who exercised these enormous powers in Quarter Sessions were life-appointees of the Government, and often had very meagre qualifications for public office. Many of them were old army officers, and most of them men of sufficient income to render them indifferent to the hardships and wants of the average hard-working settler."

"THE DISTRICT COUNCILS ACT" (1841).

The first long step in the direction of popular government in the rural Districts of the Province was the passing, in 1841 (the year of the Union of Upper and Lower Canada), of "The District Councils Act" (v). By this Statute the inhabitants of each District were, from January 1st, 1842, constituted a municipal corporation; and the persons qualified to vote for township officers under "The Township Officers Act" (w) were empowered also to elect representatives to a "District Council" in which was vested (x) the power to pass by-laws relative to roads, bridges, public buildings, schools, and the expense of administration of justice, to determine the remuneration of all District and township officers, and (for these purposes) to levy taxes upon real and personal property within the District. To these elective Councils were now transferred (y) all the powers theretofore vested in the Courts of Quarter Sessions relative to highways and bridges or works connected therewith, the appointment of road surveyors and other road officers, and the right to levy taxes for any purpose connected with the subjects over which the District Council was thenceforward to have jurisdiction.

This important Act, "which established the municipal system in Upper Canada," was introduced during the first Session after the Union by the Honourable S. B. HARRISON, then Provincial Secretary for Upper Canada (z).

(x) See s. 39 of 4-5 V., c. 10. (y) Ibid., s. 51.

(z) A very interesting sketch of the public life of the Hon. S. B. Harrison is given by His Honor Judge WOODS, in "Harrison Hall and Its Associations" (pp. 12-13, 29-30). From it, from Rev. Dr. SCADDING'S "Toronto of Old," and from DENT ("The Last Forty Years") we learn that before coming to Canada in 1837 he had taken his degree at Cambridge and had already attained some distinction at the English Bar. His edition of "Woodfall on Landlord and Tenant" was well and favourably known to the profession both here and at home; and he was also the originator and compiler of an "Analytical Digest of all the Reported Cases determined in the House of Lords, the several Courts of the Common Law in Banc and at Nisi Prius, etc., from M.T. 1756 to E.T. 1843, including Crown Cases reserved; in Four Volumes;" the precursor, in fact, of our beloved "Fisher's Digest." In 1839 he became Private Secretary to the Lieutenant-Governor of Upper Canada, Sir George Arthur, and in 1841 Provincial Secretary for Upper Canada in Lord Sydenham's Cabinet, and member for Kingston in the First Parliament of United Canada. Besides "The District Councils Bill" referred to in the text, he introduced the first general School Bill for U. C., and moved the celebrated Resolutions of Sept. 3rd, 1841, respecting Responsible Government in Canada, which "constitute, in fact, the articles of agreement upon that momentous question between the executive authority of the Crown and the Canadian people" (TODD'S "Parliamentary Government," p. 56.) In 1844 he was elected to the Second Parliament of Canada as member for Kent (which, as well as Hamilton, had rejected him in 1841); but he resigned his seat before the first Session of that Parliament, on account of the decision of the Administration of which he was a member to transfer the seat of Government from Kingston to Montreal. He was thereupon appointed Judge of the Surrogate Court, and (later) District Judge for the Home District (including Toronto) where he died in 1867. "Conscientious scruples as to the infliction of capital punishment prevented him from accepting a seat on the Superior Court Bench, but upon the County Court he conferred a new dignity by becoming one of its Judges." Dr. SCADDING says: "The memory of Judge Harrison as an English gentleman, genial, frank and straightforward, is still cherished among his surviving contemporaries."

The late Sir FRANCIS HINCKS, then member for Oxford, tells us in his "Reminiscences of my Public Life," that the Governor (Lord SYDENHAM) had strongly recommended that municipal institutions should be established in Canada by the Union Act, (Imp. Stat. 3 & 4 Vict. c. 35). (a)

He says (p. 63):

> "Clauses with this object were included in the Bill sent by him to England (b); but during the discussion in the House of Commons they were withdrawn, as being more properly a subject for local legislation. Lord SYDENHAM thereupon introduced into the Special Council an Ordinance for their establishment in Lower Canada, and framed it so as to secure, (as far as that was in his power) that this Ordinance should not become a dead letter. The Municipal Bill introduced into the Assembly during the first Session of the first Union Parliament, was substantially the same as the Lower Canadian Ordinance; and it soon became apparent that there would be formidable opposition to it. The Conservatives of Upper Canada, led by Sir ALLAN MACNAB, were strongly opposed to the extension of popular control over the local affairs of the people. The Lower Canadians were prejudiced against the Ordinance of the Special Council and had no desire to support any measure emanating from a Government to which they were in strong opposition. The Hon. ROBERT BALDWIN [then one of the members for Hastings] grounded his opposition to the Bill on the provision for the appointment of the warden, treasurer and clerk, by the Crown instead of by the municipal bodies; and I believe I am correct in stating that his opinions were shared by the Reformers generally. At an early stage of the proceedings, the Lower Canadian Ordinance was referred to the Committee of the Whole on the Upper Canada Bill, with the view to having them made alike in all essential points. This rendered it impossible for the Government to yield to the Upper Canadians on points that were deemed essential for Lower Canada, and it was soon formally announced that that if any important amendments were made in the Government Bill it would be withdrawn."

Some of the divisions upon the Bill were exceedingly close; and the clause providing that wardens should be appointed by the Crown was only carried by the casting vote of the chairman of the committee (c).

Speaking in support of the third reading, Mr. HINCKS said:

> "The honourable and gallant knight from Hamilton [Sir ALLAN MACNAB,] and the honorable and learned member for Lennox and Addington [Mr. J. S. CARTWRIGHT], say this Bill is republican and democratic in principle; and that if it be adopted the people will have almost uncontrolled power. At the same time we are assured by the honourable and learned member for Hastings [Mr. BALDWIN] that it is 'an abominable bill,' 'a monstrous abortion,' 'that he views it with detestation.'" ("Reminiscences," p. 66.)

(a) The following passage from Lord DURHAM'S famous "Report" of Jan. 31st, 1839, shows that in so recommending, Lord Sydenham was only following in the footsteps of his illustrious predecessor:—

> "Instead of confiding the whole collection and distribution of all the revenues raised in any country for general and local purposes to a single representative body, the power of local government and the application of the funds arising therefrom should be entrusted to local management. The establishment of municipal institutions for the whole country should be made a part of every colonial constitution." . . . The Provinces would have a right to complain if the powers of local management and of distributing funds for local purposes were taken from the Provincial Assemblies only to be placed in the yet more objectionable hands of a general Legislature. . . . I should prefer that the Provincial Assemblies should be retained with merely municipal powers. But it would be far better, in point both of efficiency and economy, that this power should be entrusted to the municipal bodies of much smaller districts; and the formation of such bodies would, in my opinion, be an essential part of any durable and complete Union."

(b) The Bill was drafted chiefly by the Hon. JAMES STUART, then Chief Justice of the Court of Queen's Bench for Lower Canada, who, for his services to Lord DURHAM and Lord SYDENHAM, was afterwards created a Baronet of the United Kingdom. DENT.—"The Last Forty Years," Vol. I., pp. 422.

But as Sir JOHN BOURINOT has most justly observed; (d)

> "Imperfect as was the Act of 1841, it marks the commencement of a new era in the municipal government of Canada. In the course of a few years it was amended; and the people at last obtained full control of the election of their own municipal officers."

THE BALDWIN MUNICIPAL ACT, (1849).

In 1843 the Honorable ROBERT BALDWIN (e) then Attorney General for Upper Canada, introduced a General Municipal "Act to provide for the incorporation of Townships, Towns, Counties and Cities in Upper Canada." The Bill passed its third reading in the Legislative Assembly, and was sent up to the Legislative Council, from the seclusion of which it never emerged; and a fortnight before the close of the Session the Baldwin-Lafontaine Government (all but Mr. DOMINICK DALY) resigned office on account of their differences with Sir CHARLES METCALFE over the then burning question of Responsible Government (f).

It was not until March, 1848, —during a Session which ended on March 23rd, that the second Baldwin-Lafontaine Government was formed. Early in the following Session (1849) Mr. BALDWIN re-introduced (with some amendments suggested by the experience of the preceding six years) the Bill which the Legislative Council had killed in 1843; and it speedily passed into law as 12 V. c. 81, entitled "An Act to provide by one general law for the erection of Municipal Councils and the establishment and regulation of Police in and for the several Counties, Cities, Towns and Townships and Villages in Upper Canada."

Another Statute (g), passed in the same Session after reciting that by reason of the subdivision of the Districts of Upper Canada their boundaries had in many cases become identical with the boundaries of Counties, that there was no longer any sufficient reason for their continuance, and that it was therefore expedient to abolish the territorial division of the Province into Districts, and, "following in this respect the example of the mother country," to retain only the name of "County" as a territorial division for judicial as well as for other (including municipal) purposes provided that the District Gaols, Court-houses, Grammar-schools and District Officers should thenceforth belong to the Counties and Unions of Counties (20 in number) mentioned in the Schedule to the Act (h); and by c. 80 of the same Session, all previous (local) Acts of incorporation were repealed, as well as most of "The Townships Officers Act" (i); "The District Councils Act" (j); and "The Police Trustees Act" (k), with the amendments thereto respectively.

These Statutes, however, were only ancillary to the principal Act viz., the General Municipal Act (12 V. c. 81) which not only incorporated all the most valuable provisions of the Acts thus repealed, but also with a prescience which shows it to have been the work of a master mind sketched, in outline at least, the frame-work of the municipal system of Canada as it has since continued to this day.

It would not be too much to apply to the comprehensive and statesmanlike enactment known as "The Baldwin Municipal Act of 1849," the words applied to the (English) "Municipal Corporations Act, 1835" (l) by the learned editors of the last edition of Mr. Arnold's treatise thereon, and to say that "it may be regarded as the Magna Charta of municipal government" in Canada

To how large an extent it forms the basis of our present municipal law will appear from the notes to many sections throughout this volume.

Although it has been amended at every Session of Parliament from 1849 till now—though it has been seven times consolidated, and on each occasion to some extent re-cast the changes made in it during the past half-century have been chiefly in the direction of amplification and detail. Never has the principle of local self-government been more fully carried out than in the Act of 1849; and if, during these fifty years, the powers of municipal councils have been extended to many subjects not at first foreseen and therefore not provided for, they have, in respect of other matters, been since then curtailed. Especially since Confederation there has been a tendency to transfer to officials appointed by the Executive Government and to bodies such as Boards of Health, License Commissioners and Police Commissioners—of a less directly representative and popular character than are our municipal councils—certain of the powers which were formerly exercised by these councils or by their officers.

(e) The best extant sketch of the Honourable Robert Baldwin is that by the late JOHN CHARLES DENT ("The Last Forty Years," pp. 71-82 et seq.). The complete history of Mr. Baldwin's life still remains to be written. It would be a record of that most eventful and interesting period of Canadian History during which the battle for Responsible Government in this Province was fought and won under the leadership of a high-minded gentleman, who emphatically deserves the title of "a Christian politician."

Furthermore, the Baldwin Act and its lineal descendants have in their turn become the progenitors and paradigms of the Municipal Institutions Acts in force to-day in nearly every Province of the Dominion. This will appear more fully upon a careful examination of the various Provincial Acts, and especially of the corresponding or cognate sections of these Acts which are noted and referred to in the Comparative Table printed on a previous page of this Manual.

POPULAR MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT (1849-1858).

Notwithstanding the forebodings of many who regarded the Acts of 1841 and 1849 as the first steps in a downward career which must end in handing over the government of the Province to demagogues and rebels, the municipal history of Canada from 1849 onwards does not indicate that these successive gifts of self-government to the common people produced any such result. It is true that the limits within which the newly constituted municipal corporations might legislate, the mode in which they could legally contract, the procedure at elections, and the extent to which the corporate body was bound by the acts of its officers and of the members of its municipal council, required—as, indeed, such matters still sometimes require—to be defined and explained by judicial decision (m). Also, it must at first have been difficult for those who, —as members of the Courts of Quarter Sessions—had so long been accustomed to consider themselves ex officio the governing class, to realize that in this altered condition of affairs men chosen by and from the people were entrusted with discretionary powers in regard to matters which His Majesty's Justices of the Peace had formerly determined, sometimes, (it may have been thought) with but scant regard to the popular will.(n) Nevertheless, the municipal machine seems to have run with less friction than under a regime which had denied to the ratepayers any direct control over the disposal of the taxes which they contributed for local purposes; and the Legislature, in the Sessions following that of 1849, found it expedient to extend, instead of curtailing the powers entrusted to the municipal corporations.(o) In one instance, however, this democratic idea was carried too far. The introduction into the sphere of municipal politics,—by the 13-14 V., c. 65 (1850),—of a share in the regulation and control of the traffic by retail in intoxicating liquors was a mistake. It exposed the members and officers of local councils to influences which were, in very many cases, of an undesirable character; and it tended on the whole—especially in urban municipalities—to deteriorate the morale and lower the status of these representative bodies. Yet it was not until 1862 (p) in the case of cities, nor until 1876 (q) in the case of other municipalities, that the last vestige of jurisdiction relative to the granting of certificates for liquor licenses was transferred from the municipalities to independent Boards:—in the first case (cities) to the Commissioners of Police, and in the second (all municipalities) to License Commissioners appointed by and responsible to the Executive Government of the Province.

THE CONSOLIDATED MUNICIPAL ACT OF 1858.

The Consolidation of the Statutes in 1858-1859 is the next landmark in the history of the development of our municipal institutions. There had been, indeed, four prior collections of the Provincial Statutes, viz.: those of 1818 (r), 1831 (s), 1840-1843 (t) and 1842-1845 (u); but "The Consolidated Statutes of Canada" and "The Consolidated Statutes of Upper Canada," which were brought into force on December 5th, 1859, by Proclamation dated November 9th in that year (v), embodied the results of a more complete and thorough revision than up to that time had been attempted. The body of Provincial law therein contained had been carefully winnowed—out of more than three thousand Acts of Parliament passed since 1792—by a Commission composed of men all eminent in the legal profession (w), and having at their head the Honourable J. B. Macaulay, who had been a member of the Statute Commission of 1840-1843, and had but recently retired from the office of Chief Justice of the Court of Common Pleas.

In the exercise of their powers to alter and improve the form and language of the Statutes which they consolidated, the Commissioners seem to have approved and acted upon the principles expressed in a Report of the Commissioners who had shortly before this been appointed in England for the Consolidation of the Imperial Statute law:

> "Brevity and perspicuity are to be attained in Acts of Parliament—as in all other compositions—only by observing the rules of grammar and logic. . . . All that is wanted is that those who draft these Statutes should be firmly resolved to use a plain and proper style, to choose with care the proper words to express their meaning, and never to use a word that is not wanted. Above all, it should be assumed that they are writing for persons of ordinary candour and intelligence; and it should not (as is now the practice) be thought necessary to provide in terms against every foolish and unworthy quibble which unfair or unreasonable critics may possibly suggest."

With their first report—dated April 19th, 1858—the Canadian Commissioners submitted a new Municipal Bill, which, during the following Session, passed both Houses of the Provincial Parliament, received the Royal Assent on August 16th, 1858, and came into force on December 1st of that year. This Statute (22 V., 1st Session, c. 99), which is entitled "An Act respecting the Municipal Institutions of Upper Canada," will frequently be referred to in the following pages as "The Act of 1858." With reference to it the Commissioners report (x) that they "have therein attempted a more concise mode of expression than the one theretofore in use." "The Statutes at large," they observe, "exhibit two peculiarities which many have considered to be defects, viz.: (1) long sections with numerous provisoes and redundancy of words (g) and (2) language used in the future instead of the present tense—even when the latter would be more appropriate. The suggested remedy for the first is distinctness of subjects, short clauses and sentences and the avoidance of tautology in words or in ideas. . . . The remedy for the second is the adoption of the present instead of the future tense, . . . a mode of expression which prevents the frequent use of the auxiliary verb 'shall,'—sometimes for the purpose of placing a verb in the future tense, and, at other times—(even in the same sentence and still more frequently in the same Act)—for the purpose of expressing obligation or command."

Facility of reference and clearness of arrangement were further secured in the new Municipal Bill by breaking up the unwieldy sections of the earlier Acts into short, numbered paragraphs, and by the liberal use of head-lines and side notes (z); and in order that "The Municipal Act" might form a sort of compendium of the provincial statute law on the subject of municipal institutions, certain provisions theretofore scattered throughout other Acts were now for the first time included therein (a).

But, though in all these respects the new Statute was vastly superior to its predecessors, the Commissioners made one change in its form which ultimately proved to have been a decided alteration for the worse.

The sections of Mr. Baldwin's Act relating to the several classes of municipalities;—townships, counties, police villages, incorporated villages, towns and cities—followed one another in this their natural and logical sequence, and the enumeration of the powers of these several classes of municipalities took somewhat the form of an arithmetical progression. The thirty-first section of the Act of 1849 specified the matters in respect to which by-laws might be passed by township councils. By sections 59 and 60 it was provided that a village council should have all these, together with certain (enumerated) additional powers. Next came the town, which was to have all the legislative authority already conferred upon the village, and also jurisdiction in respect to certain other subjects with which a village municipality would have no need (and had accordingly no authority) to deal (b). Next came the city, with all the powers of the township, the village and the town, and also with certain other powers peculiar to itself (c).

The concluding portion of the Statute, (Division vi., ss. 108-211), contained certain miscellaneous provisions, most of which were applicable to all classes of municipalities.

An arrangement so simple and so perspicuous might fairly have been adopted without alteration; but the draftsman of the Act of 1858,—attempting to improve upon Mr. Baldwin's arrangement,—succeeded only in impairing its excellence. A zeal for brevity (in itself most commendable) may possibly have (g) "In respect of form, a conventional language, both verbose and obscure, had, by long practice, come to be considered almost essential in composing Acts of Parliament; so that the persons engaged in drawing up Bills have felt themselves debarred from the use of a plain and concise style. In respect of matter, the legislator is frequently not aware of, or is indifferent to, the extent to which his proposed measure will affect other branches of the law, or he is not aware of the exact state of the law with which he proposes to deal, or he omits to state distinctly to what extent the new measure is intended to repeal or supersede the existing law. Again, when an evil is felt, the remedy is usually applied only to the particular case in which the inconvenience has been perceived, instead of amending generally the error or defect which has produced the result complained of. Perhaps, however, the chief cause of confusion is the way in which hasty and inconsistent amendments, ill-assorting with the rest of the measure, are made while the Bill is going through Committee. The proposers of these amendments have often only their own objects in view, and do not consider how far they will affect other parts of the measure itself. The promoter of the Bill too often assents to alterations and changes of which he does not approve, merely for the sake of averting a protracted opposition; and thus the Bill often comes out of Committee in such a form as to justify the expression of Lord TENTERDEN that though the Legislature cannot be deemed inops consilii, yet we may lament to find it magnas inter opes inops."—Second Report of Her Majesty's Commissioners for Consolidating the Statute Law of England, dated March 5th, 1856.

obscured his perception of the fact that lucidity is at least equally essential—at all events in an Act of Parliament the practical working out of which must be entrusted chiefly to men destitute of such professional training as might enable them quickly to grasp and clearly to comprehend the effect of its numerous provisions. In consequence of this ill-judged rearrangement, those portions of the Municipal Act relating to the "General Powers of Municipal Corporations" have, in every Consolidation from 1858 to 1892, been repeated, re-enacted, amended and multiplied according to the form which was inaugurated in and by the Consolidated Statute, until they became at last the despair of municipal councillors and even of lawyers,—"a mighty maze and all without a plan." The attempt,—however imperfect—made by the present Editor in the last revision of "The Municipal Act" (R. S. O. 1897, c. 223) to reduce to some semblance of orderly arrangement this chaotic conglomeration of heterogeneous clauses, may, it is hoped, be considered to have been at all events a step in the right direction.

LATER MUNICIPAL LEGISLATION AND CONSOLIDATIONS.

To discuss at any length the subsequent Consolidations of the Municipal Act (d) would be to tax unreasonably the time and patience of the reader and the space at the disposal of the Editor. But it may be observed, in passing, that judges and lawyers (at all events) should be grateful to the draftsman of "The Consolidated Municipal Act of 1873" (e) for having introduced the practice (since then uniformly adopted) of inserting at the end of each section in a consolidating Act, references to the original Statutes and sections from which it is taken or made up, and of adding a Schedule in tabular form, showing what disposition has been made of the various sections of the Statutes consolidated, superseded or repealed.

The history of the Consolidations of 1877, 1887 and 1897 is recorded at pages 3794-3796 of the R.S.O. (1897); and the intervening Consolidations of 1882 and 1883 require no special comment. The following may, however, be noted among the more important Municipal Statutes of the past forty years:—

The Local Improvement System,—foreshadowed in 1853 in an Act which related only to the construction of sewers in cities, towns and villages (f)—was, in 1859 (g), made applicable in cities to "the opening, widening, prolonging or altering, macadamizing, grading, levelling, paving or planking of any street, lane or alley, public way or place or of any sidewalk therein on a petition of at least two-thirds in number and one-half in value of the owners of the real property to be immediately benefitted thereby." But it was not till 1882 (h) that power was conferred upon municipalities to make "local improvements" upon the initiative of the Council or its officials, without any petition from the ratepayers to be assessed therefor.

In 1872 (i) was passed "An Act for the prevention of Corrupt Practices at Municipal Elections," copied almost verbatim from the Imperial Statute of 17-18 V., c. 102, and now embodied, with but little alteration, in ss. 245-256 and ss. 381-383 of "The Municipal Act."

Voting by ballot at Municipal Elections was introduced in 1874 (j). In 1876 the same system was applied to the voting upon Debenture By-laws (k); and in 1877 (l) the provisions of "The Voters' Lists Act," passed during the preceding Session (m), were made applicable (with certain amendments) to the preparation of lists for the municipal as well as to those for Provincial elections.

The culture of "fancy franchises" began in 1874 with the creation of the Income Voter (n): produced in 1877 "An Act to give the right of voting to Farmers' Sons in certain cases," (o) and finally(?) in 1884 (p) evolved—as one of the great moral forces of the day—the Female Elector.

A growing and dangerous tendency on the part of municipal councils towards the granting of bonuses out of public funds received a necessary and wholesome check in 1880 by ss. 16 and 17 of the Act 43 V., c. 27, which required—in order to the validity of any municipal by-law for granting a bonus in aid of a railway or for promoting any manufacture—the assent of the majority of all the ratepayers entitled to vote on the by-law (q).

The Act 45 V. c. 24 (1882), marks the end of a long battle over the subject of market fees; and another important Statute of the same Session is c. 29, "An Act to establish a Provincial Board of Health and to give increased powers to Local Boards of Health."

"The Ontario Tree Planting Act" was passed in 1883 (r); and, finally, the law empowering the council of any local municipality to prohibit the sale therein of liquor by retail was re-enacted in 1890 (s), having, however, been in force prior to Confederation as part of the Municipal Acts of 1853 (t) 1858 (u) 1859 (v) and 1866 (w).

THE PRESENT MUNICIPAL DIVISIONS OF ONTARIO.

An article on the development of municipal institutions in Ontario may fitly conclude with a list of its present municipal divisions (x).

The "Act respecting the Territorial Division of Ontario for Municipal and Judicial Purposes," (R.S.O. c. 3), enumerates, as the forty-two counties which already possess a complete municipal organization, the following:—

I.—Brant (a).

Consisting of the townships of—(1) Brantford (b), (2) Burford (c), (3) Dumfries South (d), (4) Oakland, (5) Onondaga (e), (6) Tuscarora; the city of Brantford (f) and the town of Paris (g).

For municipal purposes the city of Brantford is separated from the County.

The County Council Divisions of the County of Brant, as arranged and defined by the Commissioners appointed under "The County Councils Act, 1896," (59 V. c. 52, ss. 28-35) are as follows:—

Div. I. Tp. of South Dumfries, and the North Ward and King's Ward of the Town of Paris.

II. Tp. of Brantford and that part of Brantford Tp. east of the Grand River.

III. Oakland, Brantford Tp. west of the Grand River, and the Queen's Ward and South Ward of Paris.

IV. Burford Tp.

II.—Bruce (a).

Consisting of the townships of—(1) Arran, (2) Albemarle, (3) Amabel (a), (4) Brant, (5) Bruce, (6) St. Edmunds, (7) Carrick, (8) Culross (b), (9) Eastnor, (10) Elderslie, (11) Greenock, (12) Huron (c), (13) Kincardine (d), (14) Kinloss (e), (15) Lindsay, and (16) Saugeen, together with all of the peninsular tract (x) The local municipalities enumerated under the name of each county are those territorially situate therein; but the cities and towns separated (for municipal purposes) from the counties in which they are territorially situated are severally specified. Appended to the names of the various municipalities is a list of the Statutes and proclamations under which they have been incorporated, their municipal boundaries altered, their municipal status raised, etc., or by which they have been otherwise affected. In the preparation of this list the Editor has received much assistance from the valuable "Index to Private and Local Law affecting Incorporated Bodies," prepared by Philibert Baudouin, Esq., (Montreal, Beauchemin et Ellis, 1897.) Mr. Herbert F. Gardiner of Hamilton, Ont., has lately published a very interesting volume ("Nothing but Names") giving the origin and history on the origin of the names of most of the counties and townships of Ontario.

OF THE REVISED STATUTES OF ONTARIO, 1897.

An Act respecting Municipal Institutions.

Brought into force on Dec. 31st, 1897, by Proclamation dated Dec. 24th, 1897, See R. S. O. Vol. I., p. XIX.

HER MAJESTY, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario, enacts as follows:—

SHORT TITLE.

Short title.

1. This Act may be cited as "The Municipal Act." 55 V. c. 42, s. 1.

Taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 174, s. 1.

(a) The practice of giving short titles to Acts of Parliament has been common in England for many years (a). It began in Ontario immediately after Confederation, the first Statutes thus designated being "The Law Reform Act of 1868" (b), "The Dower Act of Ontario" (c), "The Election Law of 1868" (d), "The Tavern and Shop License Act of 1868" (e), "The Assessment Act of 1869" (f), "The Ontario Medical Act" (g), "The Agricultural and Arts Act" (h), etc.

It is declared by s. 2 of "The Interpretation Act" and by s. 15 of 60 V. c. 3, entitled, "An Act to provide for the Consolidation of the Statutes of Ontario," that:—

> "Any chapter of the Revised Statutes may be cited and referred to either by its title as an Act, or by its short title, or by using the expression "The Act (or The Revised Statute) respecting . . ." (adding the remainder of the title given at the beginning of the particular chapter), or by using the expression "The Revised Statutes, 1897," or "The Revised Statutes of Ontario, 1897, . . ." with the number of the particular chapter in the copies printed by the Queen's Printer."

INTERPRETATION.

Interpretation of words.

2. Where the words following occur in this Act or in the schedules thereto, they shall be construed in the manner hereinafter mentioned, unless a contrary intention appears:—

(a) Ex. gr. "The Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845," (see Imp. Stat. 8 V. c. 18, s. 4;) "The Public Health Act, 1848," (see Imp. Stat. 11 & 12 V. c. 63, s. 3;) "The Public Health Act, 1858," (see Imp. Stat. 21 & 22 V. c. 97, s. 9), etc. "The Highway Act, 1835," (Imp. Stat. 5 & 6 Wm. IV. c. 50) received its short title in 1864 (see Imp. Stat. 27 & 28 V. c. 101, s. 1). (b) See 32 V. c. 6.

(c) See 32 V. c. 7, s. 44. (d) See 32 V. c. 21, s. 82.

(e) See 32 V. c. 32, s. 41. (f) See 32 V. c. 36, s. 1.

(g) See 32 V. c. 45, s. 5. (h) See 32 V. c. 47, s. 13.

Sec. 2.

Note (a).

(a) Object and Effect of an Interpretation Clause. "The Interpretation Act" declares (s. 7) that the provisions which it contains shall be applicable to the Revised Statutes and to any subsequent Act passed by the Legislature of Ontario "except in so far as these provisions may be inconsistent with the intent and object of such Act, or as the interpretation which such provisions would give to any word, expression or clause is inconsistent with the context, and except in so far as any provision thereof is in any such Act declared not applicable thereto." The general object of an interpretation clause is not to restrain (i) or to take away the natural or ordinary meaning of the words interpreted, or strictly to define what must be the meaning of a word under all circumstances, but rather as declaring what may be comprehended within the term when the circumstances so require (j), and defining the meaning of the words interpreted in cases where there is nothing in the Act opposed to or inconsistent with that meaning. (k) If the words are themselves precise and unambiguous, then no more can be necessary than to expound them in their natural and ordinary sense (l); for "an interpretation clause should be used for the purpose of interpreting words which are ambiguous or equivocal; not so as to disturb the meaning of such as are plain." (m) Each word must be interpreted according to its legal meaning, unless the context shows that the Legislature has used it in a popular or more enlarged sense. (n) Where the intention of the Legislature can be collected from the Act itself, words may be modified, altered, or supplied, so as to obviate any repugnancy to or inconsistency with such intention. (o) It is the most natural and genuine exposition of an Act to construe one part by another. (p) The general words of a Statute are not to be so construed as to alter the previous policy of the law, unless no sense or meaning can be put upon the words consistently with the intention of preserving the existing policy untouched. (q) Prima facie, the proper mode of construction is to apply the same interpretation to terms used in a by-law which is applied to the same terms in the Statute under the powers of which the by-law is framed. (r) And the Court, in construing a by-law, will look at the whole of it, and construe one part with another or other parts, so as, if possible, to give effect to the whole. (s) The rule of statutory construction that a special Act of Parliament is not to be construed as repealed by a subsequent general Act is subject to the exception that where the two Statutes are absolutely repugnant and inconsistent the Courts have no alternative but to consider the special enactment as repealed by the subsequent general Act. Sec. 9 of "The Interpretation Act" provides that the interpretation section of "The Municipal Act," so far as the terms therein defined can be applied, shall extend to any Act which applies to municipalities. And conversely, the interpretation section (s. 2) of "The Assessment Act," and the other Acts relating to municipal matters, may be referred to in construing this Act, they being Statutes in pari materia therewith (a).

And this is especially the case when (as now) these Acts are simply chapters of one general Consolidation, for "the Consolidated Statutes may be treated as one great Act, and . . . it would not be wrong to take the several chapters thereof as enactments which are to be construed collectively and with reference to one another, just as if they had been sections of one Statute instead of being separate Acts." (c)

The "Act respecting the Consolidation of the Statutes of Ontario," (60 V. c. 3), provides (s. 9 (4)) that

> "The marginal notes or headings in the body of the said Revised Statutes and references to former enactments and sections printed in bourgeois type which may appear thereon shall be held to form no part of the said Statutes, but to be inserted for convenience of reference only."

Until 1887, (50 V. c. 2, s. 5), there was no such statutory declaration respecting the headings in the body of an Act, and they have often been referred to by Judges as a help to its interpretation. (e)

1. "Council," shall mean a municipal council or provisional municipal council, as the case may be. 55 V. c. 42, s. 2 (3). "Council."

Taken from 22 V. c. 99, s. 402 (2), "the Act of 1858."

(b) "Shall mean." "Shall include." There is an important difference between the meaning of the phrases, "shall include" and "shall mean." "Shall include" or "shall extend to" is more properly used in the sense of extension, not of definition. "Shall mean" has rather the sense of exclusive definition or exhaustive enumeration (e).

(c) "Council." This includes a County Council, and also the Council of a Union of Counties, e.g., Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry. See infra note (d) and R. S. O., c. 3, s. 3, also the notes to the lists of County Council Divisions in the Counties of Dundas, Durham, Glengarry, Grenville, Leeds, Northumberland, Prescott, Russell and Stormont, ante, pp. 15-26.

2. "Councillor" or "Municipal Councillor" shall not include a county councillor unless so expressed. 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (1). "Councillor."

3. "County," shall mean county, union of counties, or united counties, or provisional county, as the case may be. 55 V. c. 42, s. 2 (4). "County."

Taken from the Act of 1858, 22 V. c. 99, s. 402 (3). Cf. 16 V. c. 181, s. 40.

Sec. 2.
Sub-secs. 4-12.
Note (d).

(d) Section 8 (12) of "The Interpretation Act" declares that

"12. The [illegible] shall include two or more counties united for [illegible] the enactment relates."

"County Town."

4. "County Town" shall mean the city, town or village in which the assizes for the county are held. 55 V. c. 42, s. 2 (6).

Taken from 10 V. c. 8, s. 46 (1877).

"Electors."

5. "Electors" shall mean the persons entitled for the time being to vote at any municipal election, or in respect of any by-law, (as the case may be) in the municipality, ward, polling sub-division, or police village, as the case may be. 55 V. c. 42, s. 2 (9); 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (1).

Taken from 22 V. c. 99, s. 102 (5). The words "or in respect of any by-law" were added by the Act of 1873, (36 V. c. 48, s. 1 (5)); the words "as the case may be" (in line 3) by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (1) (1897).

"Highway." "Road." "Bridge."

6. "Highway," "Road," or "Bridge" shall mean a public highway, road or bridge, respectively. 55 V. c. 42, s. 2 (8).

Taken from 22 V. c. 99, s. 102 (6).

"Householder."

7. "Householder" shall mean a resident of the municipality whose name appears as a tenant on the last revised assessment roll thereof. 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (1).

"Land." "Real estate." "Real property."

8. "Land," "Lands," "Real Estate," "Real Property," shall include lands, tenements and hereditaments, and any interest or estate therein, or right or easement affecting the same. 55 V. c. 42, s. 2 (7); c. 43, s. 1.

Taken from 22 V. c. 99, s. 102 (5), the words "and any interest or estate therein or right or easement affecting the same" having been substituted for the words of the original section by 55 V. c. 43, s. 1 (1892), in consequence of the decision in Re Davis and City of Toronto, 21 O. R. 243. See the definition of the words: "land," "real property," and "real estate" in "The Assessment Act," (R. S. O. c. 224, s. 1 (6)); also Errington v. Metropn. District R. W. Co., 19 Ch. D. 559; Osborne v. City of Kingston, 23 O. R. 382.

"Local municipality."

9. "Local Municipality," shall mean a city, town, township or incorporated village. 55 V. c. 42, s. 2 (2).

"Municipality."

10. "Municipality," shall mean any locality the inhabitants of which are incorporated or are continued, or become so under this Act. 55 V. c. 42, s. 2 (1).

Taken from the Act of 1873, (36 V. c. 48, s. 1 (1)). Cf. 22 V. c. 99, s. 102 (1); 29-30 V. c. 51, s. 422 (1). The earlier Act provided that the word "municipality" should not include a police village. Since 1873 this provision has been omitted as unnecessary, a "police village" not being an "incorporated village," to which alone ss. 9 and 10 apply. See clause 15 of this section, infra.

"Next day."

11. The words "next day" shall not apply to, or include Sunday or statutory holidays. 55 V. c. 42, s. 2 (11).

Taken from 22 V. c. 99, s. 102 (9).

"Reeve."

12. "Reeve," shall include the deputy-reeve or deputy-reeves, where there is a deputy-reeve for the municipality, except in so far as respects the office of a Justice of the Peace. 55 V. c. 42, s. 2 (10).

Taken from 12 V. c. 79, s. 5, and 22 V. c. 99, s. 105 (5), except the final clause, which was added in 1866 by 29-30 V. c. 51, s. 422 (8).

(e) Since the Revised Statutes came into force the office of deputy-reeve has been practically abolished by 61 V. c. 23, ss. 3, 4. See ss. 72 and 73 of this Act and the notes thereto.

Secs. 3. 4.
Sub secs. 13-15.
Notes (e)-(j).

13. "Separated town" shall mean a town separated for municipal purposes from the county in which it is situated. 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (1). "Separated town."

(f) The "separated towns" are Brockville, Niagara Falls, Perth, Peterborough, Prescott, St. Mary's, Toronto Junction, Trenton and Walkerville. See infra, pp. 13-29.

14. "Township" shall mean township, union of townships or united townships, as the case may be. 55 V. c. 42, s. 2 (5). "Township."

Taken from 22 V. c. 99, s. 402 (4). Cf. 16 V. c. 181, s. 40.

15. "Village" shall mean an incorporated village, unless otherwise expressed. 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (1). "Village."

(g) Interpretation clauses which apply only to particular sections or groups of sections in "The Municipal Act," are the definitions of "electors" in s. 19 (1a), of "leasehold" in s. 76 (5), of "election," "farm," "farmer's son," "father," "owner," and "vote" in s. 86 (3), of "hawkers" in s. 583 (14*a*), "transient traders" in s. 583 (34*b*), and "owner" in s. 668 (2). See also note (a) supra, as to the effect of the "interpretation sections" which have been inserted in Statutes in pari materia with "The Municipal Act."

3. For the purposes of this Act an assessment roll shall be understood to be finally revised when it has been so revised by the Court of Revision for the municipality, or by the Judge of the County Court in case of an appeal as provided in The Assessment Act, or when the time within which the appeal may be made has elapsed. 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (1). Finally revised Assessment Roll.

Taken from 40 V. c. 13, s. 12 (4), (1877). Cf. 55 V. c. 42, s. 125 (1). Transferred to this place and applied to the whole Act by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (1).

4. Whenever any power is conferred upon, or any provision of law relates to cities having a specified population, such population shall, for the purposes aforesaid, be ascertained (unless otherwise provided) by the census of the city last taken, whether under an Act of the Parliament of Canada or under a municipal by-law. See 60 V. c. 45, s. 59; c. 3. s. 3. Ascertainment of population of cities having a certain population.

(h) The Commissioners named in the "Act to provide for the Consolidation of the Statutes of Ontario," (60 V. c. 3) were empowered (by s. 3 thereof) to make such alterations in the language of the Statutes to be consolidated as are requisite to preserve a uniform mode of expression, and also to make such minor amendments as are necessary to bring out more clearly what they may deem to have been the true intention of the Legislature. That power was exercised in regard to the present section, as will appear by comparing the wording with that of the original section in the Statute from which it is taken.

(i) "Where any power has been conferred upon, or any provision of law relates to, cities having a specified population." For examples, see ss. 103, 276, 277, 529, 536 (13), 539 (2), 540 (1) (7), 559 (2) (8), 574 (4), 581, 583 (2) (4) (6) (8) (10) (12) (14) (17) (23) (25) (28) (30) (34) (35), 585, 596 and 631 of this Act, and ss. 59 and 62 (2) of "The Assessment Act."

(j) "Whether under an Act of the Parliament of Canada or under a municipal by-law." A census can be taken only under one or the other of these authorities. See "The B. N. A. Act," 91 (6), and ss. 20 and 533 (1) of this Act.

PART I.

MUNICIPAL ORGANIZATION.

TITLE I.—INCORPORATION.
TITLE II.—FORMATION AND ALTERATION OF CORPORATIONS.

TITLE I.—INCORPORATION.—Secs. 5-10.

5. The inhabitants of every county, city, town, village, township, union of counties and union of townships incorporated at the time this Act takes effect shall continue to be a body corporate, with the municipal boundaries of every such corporation respectively then established. 55 V. c. 42, s. 3.

Taken from the Act of 1858, 22 V. c. 99, s. 2.

(a) "The inhabitants." It is not the municipal council which constitutes the corporation, nor is it the ratepayers of a place nor the electors of a municipality who are thus incorporated. The "inhabitants" of a municipality are the corporators, not only under this Statute, but also under "The Municipal Corporations Act, 1882," (a), and the incorporation Acts of the cities of Toronto (b) and Kingston (c). Similar language was used in "The District Councils Act" (d) and in The Municipal Act of 1849 (e). An "inhabitant" of a place speaking generally is one who has his permanent home there. See Rex v. Mitchell, 10 East 511. But the word has not per se any definite legal meaning, and it must be explained, in each case, extrinsically, by reference to the context and to the objects of the document in which it occurs. (f)

(b) "A body corporate." See the effect of these words discussed in note (a) to s. 49 infra.

(c) "With the municipal boundaries of every such corporation respectively then established." The Statute, Proclamation or by-law, which creates a municipal corporation, must define its municipal boundaries. See infra, ss. 11 (1), 16, 18 (2), 21 (1), 24, 25. Within these boundaries the by-laws of the corporation have the same force as Acts of Parliament; and all persons, whether resident or not, must obey them (g). Beyond these limits such by-laws have, as a rule (h), no force whatever. The councils of townships, cities, towns and villages may pass by-laws for ascertaining and establishing the boundary lines of their respective municipalities (i).

(i) See s. 532 (1) of this Act and ss. 14 et seq. of "The Surveys Act," (R.S.O. c. 181), referred to in note (a) to s. 531, post.

Secs. 6. 7.

Notes (a)-(a) (b).

6. The head and members of the council, and the officers, by-laws, contracts, property, assets and liabilities of every municipal corporation, when this Act takes effect, shall be deemed the head and members of the council, and the officers, by-laws, contracts, property, assets and liabilities of the corporation, as continued under and subject to the provisions of this Act. 55 V. c. 42, s. 4.

Taken from the Act of 1858, 22 V. c. 99, s. 405. Cf. 12 V. c. 81, s. 20-63.

(a) "Existing by-laws continued." Section 8 of the Act of 60 V. c. 3 (above referred to) provides that the repeal of former Acts by the Revised Statutes from the time when the latter shall come into force is not to affect (a) any penalty, forfeiture or liability, etc.; nor (b) any action, etc.; nor (c) any deed, right, title, interest, by-law, rule, regulation, contract, etc., nor (d) any office, appointment, commission, salary, allowance, security, duty, etc.; nor (f) any other matter or thing completed, existing or pending at the time of such repeal. But it seems to have been also considered necessary in each successive re-enactment or consolidation of "The Municipal Act" to insert a section expressly continuing existing by-laws (j).

7. The name of every body corporate (not being a provisional corporation), continued or erected under this Act, shall be "The Corporation of the County, City, Town, Village, Township, or United Counties, or United Townships, (as the case may be), of " (naming the same). 55 V. c. 42, s 5.

Names of municipal corporations.

Taken from the Act of 1858, 22 V. c. 99, s. 4.

(a) "A body corporate." See note (a) to s. 9, infra.

(b) Use of corporate name. The proper corporate name of a municipal corporation ought to be used on all occasions and in all places. But slight variations in the use of corporate names, where substantially correct, have been held immaterial (k) even in matters of contract (l). A by-law of a municipal council is valid if it appear on the face of it to have been enacted by a municipal body having authority to make the by-law under the municipal laws (m). The general rule is, that a variation from the precise name of the corporation, when the true name is necessarily to be collected from the instrument or is shewn by proper averments, will not invalidate a grant by or to a corporation or a contract with it, and the modern cases shew an increased liberality on this subject (n).

Notes (a) (b)-(a).

Names of provisional corporations.

8. The inhabitants of every junior county, upon a provisional council being or having being appointed for the county, shall be a body corporate under the name of "The Provisional Corporation of the County of " (naming it.) 55 V. c. 42, s. 6.

Taken from the Act of 1858, 22 V. c. 99, s. 5. See s. 38 (1) post.

(a) The formation of a Provisional Council for a Junior County is provided for by s. 41, post.

(b) "The inhabitants" . . shall be a body corporate. See note (a) to s. 5, and the notes to s. 9, infra.

Inhabitants of counties, townships, etc., and of cities, towns, etc., to be corporations.

9. The inhabitants of every county, or union of counties erected by proclamation into an independent county or union of counties, and of every township or union of townships, erected into an independent township or union of townships and of every locality erected into a city, town, or village, and of every county or township separated from any incorporated union of counties or townships, and of every county or township, or of the counties or townships, (if more than one), remaining of the union after the separation, being so erected or separated after this Act takes effect, shall be a body corporate under this Act. 55 V. c. 42, s. 7.

(a) "The inhabitants . . shall be a body corporate." i.e., they shall constitute a corporation. Yet all the inhabitants of a locality taken together do not form a corporation, as a regiment is formed of soldiers or a brigade of battalions. Even if we saw them all together, we should not see the legal body called "the corporation," for it is "an artificial being invisible, intangible, and existing only in contemplation of the law. Being the mere creature of law, it possesses only those properties which the charter of its creation confers upon it, either expressly or as incidental to its very existence" (o).

GENERAL POWERS OF CORPORATIONS.

The Interpretation Act (p) provides that:—

> "Words making any association or number of persons a corporation or body * * * corporate, shall vest in such corporation power to sue and be sued, contract and be contracted with, by their corporate name, to have a common seal, and to alter or change the same at their pleasure, and to have perpetual succession, and power to acquire and hold personal property or moveables for the purposes for which the corporation is constituted, and to alienate the same at pleasure; and shall also vest in any majority of the members of the corporation the power to bind the others by their acts; and shall exempt the individual members of the corporation from personal liability for its debts, obligations or acts, provided they do not contravene the provisions of the Act incorporating them."

It may be useful to consider each of these powers and incidents, especially with reference to the corporations which are created and continued by this Act.

Sec. 9.

Note (aa).

Actions by and against municipal corporations.

(aa) "To sue and be sued." A municipal corporation, like an individual, may resort to the Courts to enforce rights and redress wrongs (q). So one municipality may sue another (r).

The case of Town of Guelph v. Canada Company (s) affords an example of an action brought by a municipal corporation to restrain the sale of land in the municipality, which had been dedicated for public purposes. See also the cases collected in note (g) to section 576, post, and note (a) to section 601.

So a municipal corporation may have a receiver appointed to collect the tolls payable to a company indebted to the municipality (t); may foreclose a mortgage (u); may sue a surveyor employed by them for negligence in the making of a survey (v); may obtain an injunction to restrain the closing or obstruction of a public highway (w); or may have it declared as against a private person whether or not certain land is part of a highway (x).

And as a municipal corporation may be a plaintiff so also may it be a defendant. It is liable to be sued either

(A) Upon its contracts—(as to which see more fully note (bb) infra,) or

(B) For damages occasioned by acts or defaults of the corporation or of some person for whom it must, according to the doctrine of respondeat superior, be held to be responsible.

Many examples, under the latter head, of actions against municipal corporations for nonfeasance, i.e., neglect to perform or in the performance of their statutory duties, or to manage with due care corporation works or property will be found collected in note (f) to s. 437, note (a) to s. 500, post (which requires County Councils to keep gaols, court houses, etc., in repair), note (h) to s. 554 (drains and sewers), note (d) to s. 562 (public harbours) and note (a) to s. 606 (non-repair of highways) (y).

Examples of actions against municipal corporations for acts of misfeasance (positive wrong) are: Farrell v. City of London, 12 U.C.R. 343; Perdue v. Tp. of Chingucousy, 25 U.C.R. 61; Rowe v. Tp. of Rochester, 29 U.C.R. 590; 22 C.P. 319; Nevill v. Tp. of Ross, 22 C.P. 487; Molson's Bank v. Town of Brockville, 31 C.P. 174; Grassick v. City of Toronto, 39 U.C.R. 306; Lewis v. City of Toronto, 39 U.C.R. 343; McSorley v. City of St. John, 6 S.C.R. 531; McLay v. County of Bruce, 14 O.R. 398; Connor v. Middagh, 16 A.R. 356; Hill v. Middagh, Ibid; Hodgins v. City of Toronto, 19 A.R. 537; McNab v. Tp. of Dysart, 22 A.R. 508; Wilson v. City of Winnipeg, 4 Man. L. Rep. 193.*

In McLay v. County of Bruce, 14 O.R. 398 (1887), the libel of which the plaintiff complained was the act of the municipal council; but the corporation may equally be held liable for the tort of an agent who had authority in regard to the subject matter, e.g., their street commissioner (c); a tax receiver (a); a park superintendent (b), or even a contractor acting under the superintendence and control of the municipality (c). So the corporation may become liable for the act of an agent for whom they would not otherwise have been liable if that act has been authorized, or is afterwards ratified by the municipal council (d), or if (the action being occasioned by the perpetration of a fraud), the benefit of that fraud has been received by the municipality (e).

Beyond these limits, however, the corporation will not be held liable for the torts of its agents or employees (f); and even where a municipal corporation had by by-law agreed to indemnify an officer against liability for lawful acts done by him in his official capacity, this was held not to extend to an unlawful act though done colore officii (g).

There is also a well marked distinction between the responsibility of a municipal corporation for acts done by the council or its appointees in the discharge of public (i.e., governmental and legislative) duties, and those done in the management of property or the exercise of rights or powers enjoyed by the municipality for its own immediate profit or advantage, even though such exercise may ultimately enure to the benefit of the public.

See this subject fully discussed in Note "A" to s. 537, post, on the "Liability of Municipal Corporations for acts or defaults of Agents or Officers."

As to when a municipal corporation is entitled to notice of action, see note (c) to s. 468, post.

As to whether it is liable to be proceeded against summarily before a magistrate, see Reg. v. The T. Eaton Company, 29 O. R. 591 (1898); Reg. v. Toronto Railway Co., coram Rose, J., Nov. 17th, 1898, (not yet reported).

Contracts with municipal corporations.

(bb) "To contract and be contracted with." Provided the object sought is not illegal, a private person may contract concerning any matter, and subject to the provisions of certain Statutes may make an agreement even by word of mouth. But the power of a corporation to contract is not thus unlimited. The contract must be one which the corporation is authorized to make, or at all events, one which is not forbidden by the terms of the charter or by necessary inference therefrom. corporation are void, (h) or at least voidable, (i), and persons dealing with a municipal or any other corporation are bound at their peril to take notice of the limits within which, and of the manner in which, the corporation has power to contract. (j)

Sec. 9.

Note (cc).

(cc) "To have a common seal and to alter and change the same at pleasure." Being itself an intangible, invisible creation of the law, and therefore unable to manifest its intentions by any personal act or oral discourse, a corporation must have some tangible and visible method of declaring its will in a by-law or its assent to a contract. This is usually done by affixing thereto the corporate seal. "It is a great mistake to speak of the necessity of the seal as a relic of ignorant times. It is no such thing; either a seal, or some substitute for a seal, which by law shall be taken as conclusively evidencing the sense of the whole body, is a necessity inherent in the very nature of a corporation. (k) "It is idle to say there is no magic in a wafer." (l)

Necessity for corporate seal.

A corporation may adopt any seal. (m) In 1886 the name of a rural municipality in Manitoba was altered from "The Municipality of Kildonan" to "The Rural Municipality of Kildonan." A deed executed in 1887 under the old seal which continued to be used with the knowledge and consent of the council was held to be sufficiently executed. (n) A mere impression is a good seal (o). In Ontario Salt Co. v. Merchants' Salt Co., 18 Grant 551 (1868), a deed made between two trading corporations was sealed with common wafers; Held, sufficient in the absence of evidence showing these not to be the proper corporate seals of the contracting corporations. Where the proper corporate seal is wrongfully detained, another seal may be used pro hac vice. (p)

As to the necessity for the use of a seal in the case of the by-laws of a corporation, see s. 333, post, in appointments to office, see s. 321 note (a), s. 325 note (e), and s. 537 note (a).

Sec. 9. Note (cc).

becomes subject to the same rule (c). So, also, it is presumed that this rule would be applied to a municipal corporation operating a street railway, supplying water, or manufacturing or supplying gas or electric light or heat, etc.

(3) Contracts (not ultra vires of the corporation,) made by agents who have authority to bind the corporation. "Wherever a corporation is acting within the scope of the legitimate purposes of its institution, all parol contracts made by its authorized agents are express promises of the corporation" (d). Exempt., the corporation would be bound by the undertaking of its attorney in an action (e).

(4) Cases where, according to the rules adopted by the Courts of Equity (which now govern Courts of Law also), it would be improper to allow the corporation to set up the want of its seal as a defence to an action (f).

(5) Executed contracts. By a long and uninterrupted line of decisions it has been held to be the law that where work has been done or goods supplied for corporate purposes of which a municipal corporation has received or adopted the benefit, the law will imply the promise to pay, and that no seal, or even writing, is necessary (g). But there must be evidence of acceptance by the corporation, not simply by some of the members of the municipal council (h).

And an unsealed contract, even though in writing and under the corporate seal of a municipality may not bind the corporation if the contract was made and the seal affixed without the proper statutory formalities having been observed in regard thereto (i).

Subject to the above exceptions, a seal is necessary to bind the corporation (j).

(dd) "To have perpetual succession." "Among the most important properties of corporations are immortality (in the legal sense) and (if the expression may be allowed) individuality—properties by which a perpetual succession of many persons are considered as the same, and may act as a single individual. They enable a corporation to manage its own affairs and to hold property without the perplexing intricacies, the hazardous and endless necessity of perpetual conveyances for the purpose of transmitting it from hand to hand. It is chiefly for the purpose of clothing bodies of men in succession with these qualities and capacities that corporations were invented and are in use. By these means a perpetual succession of individuals are capable of acting for the promotion of a particular object, like one immortal being" (d).

(ee) "Power to acquire and hold personal property or moveables for the purposes for which the corporation is constituted, and to alienate the same at pleasure." A corporation not expressly restricted therefrom may acquire, hold, and deal with personal property required for corporate purposes like an ordinary individual. Brice on Ultra Vires (2nd Ed.), p. 5; Grant on Corporations, 98. But owing to the provisions of the Statutes of Mortmain, a corporation, although it may purchase, cannot hold lands without the authority of Parliament or due license for that purpose. Power to acquire and hold personalty.

(ff) "Shall vest in any majority of the members of the corporation the power to bind the others by their acts." "In aggregate corporations, as a rule, the act and will of the majority is deemed in law the act and will of the whole or as the act of one corporate body. The consequence is that a minority may be bound not only without, but against, their consent" (m).

Majority binds minority.

(gg) "Shall exempt the individual members of the corporation from personal obligation for its debts, obligations, and acts, provided they do not contravene the provisione of the Act of incorporation."

But where these provisions are disregarded members of municipal councils may involve themselves in personal liability (n).

Corporations not personally liable.

(b) In addition to those general powers, which belong to them in common with all other corporate bodies, municipal corporations in this Province have been entrusted with special powers of the most extensive and multifarious character. These are enumerated in detail in the various Statutes annotated in this and the second volume of "THE MUNICIPAL MANUAL," but it may here be shortly stated that such corporations have not only (1) such powers as have been granted to them by the express language of these Statutes, but also (2) such as are necessary or fairly incident thereto, and (3) such as are essential (i.e., not merely convenient, but indispensable) to the carrying out of the objects for which these corporations have been created. Some of the powers thus expressly conferred upon municipalities do not differ in their nature from those which might be exercised by private corporations (e.g., the erection and maintenance of buildings, bridges, wharfs, ferries, etc., the acquisition and management of roads, parks and cemeteries, the supplying of light, heat, water, and electricity, the construction and operation of street railways, or of a telephone service, etc.; others relate more particularly to the business of the municipality itself; but there is a third class consisting of powers exerciseable by the municipality, not for its own, but for the public benefit and as part of the machinery of government, e.g., to regulate trade, to protect life, health, and property, to share in the administration of justice, to prevent and punish crime, vice, and immorality, to promote education, to provide for the poor, to take lands for public purposes, etc.

A municipal corporation has, therefore, a dual character; and while in some respects it resembles an ordinary trading corporation, and in regard to some of its functions may be subject to the same legal liabilities, as to others it enjoys that exemption which belongs to a branch of the government. And this distinction becomes, in many instances, one of great importance. See Jones on Negligence of Municipal Corporations, s. 24; note (a) to s. 10, and note (A) to s. 537, "Liability of Municipal Corporations for acts or defaults of Officers and Agents."

Corporate powers to be exercised by council.

10. The powers of every body corporate under this Act shall be exercised by the council thereof. 55 V. c. 42, s. 8.

Taken from the Act of 1858, 22 V. c. 99, s. 6.

(a) "Shall be exercised by the Council." See also s. 325, which provides that these powers shall, as a rule, be exercised by by-law. "The Interpretation Act," R. S. O., c. 1, s. 8 (2) provides that the word "shall," shall be construed as imperative and the word "may" as permissive, unless this interpretation is inconsistent with the intent and object of the Act or would give to any word, expression or clause a meaning inconsistent with the context.

It is quite clear that the word "shall" in the above section is not meant to be imperative, and the language would be more clear if it read, "the powers of every body corporate under this Act shall be exercisable by the Council."

Municipal corporations being wholly the creatures of statute law, the language of the Acts under which they are constituted and by which their various powers are conferred must be looked at in every case, so as neither to deprive them of any jurisdiction which the Legislature intended to grant, nor to confer any power which it did not intend that they should be at liberty to exercise. It is, therefore, a cardinal inquiry in regard to every subject in respect of which power is conferred upon a municipal council, whether the exercise of such power by the council is discretionary or imperative. In the latter case the imperative word "shall" is generally used in the Statutes (o).

But the use of the word "shall" does not in every case create an imperative duty. Ex. gr, in s. 373 it is said that "A by-law which is duly carried by the vote of the qualified electors shall within six weeks thereafter be passed by the Council;" yet in Canada Atlantic Railway Company v. City of Ottawa, 12 S. C. R. 365, GWYNNE, J., says, (page 375):—

"I cannot think that the Council were divested of their legislative, deliberative character and . . . . had no power to express an opinion upon a matter which the Legislature said that they should take into their consideration, or that the vote of the ratepayers converted their office from being one of a deliberative and legislative character into one purely ministerial."

And in Canada Atlantic R. W. Company v. Tp. of Cambridge, 14 A. R. 299, OSLER, J. A., says, (page 302),

"This section . . . does not cast upon them (the Council) an imperative duty."

See also Re Langdon and Arthur Junction R. W. Company and Tp. of Arthur, 45 U. C. R. 47.

"May" not always permissive.

And the language may be held to be mandatory even where it is said that the council "may" or that it "shall be lawful" for them to exercise the power in question. If, for example the Legislature, in declaring that a certain power "may" be exercised, specifically points out the persons for whose benefit this is to be done and defines the circumstances under which they are entitled to call for its exercise, "may" is to be read as equivalent to "shall," (p) and the persons entitled to call for the exercise of the power—viz., those interested in the performance of the duty—may, in default of other effectual legal remedy, enforce by mandamus the requirements of the Statute (q).

The same rule applies where a duty is imposed by by-law upon a municipal officer. (r)

Discretionary powers.

But where the power is conferred in general terms, unaccompanied by any definition of the circumstances under which or the mode in which it must be exercised, the council has a discretion to determine whether it shall be exercised at all, and, (if this question is decided in the affirmative), then further to determine the manner in which and the extent to which they consider it advisable to make use of the authority conferred upon them. In this case, they act as a branch of the Government of the country, and are not compellable by mandamus (s), to exercise the power which they possess, nor are they liable to an action for failure to do so (t).

If, however, they consider it expedient to avail themselves of their statutory jurisdiction, the further determination of the extent to which and the manner in which this shall be exercised is wholly a matter for their own decision; and (provided they act in good faith and keep within the limits of their statutory powers), their judgment on these points will not be controlled or interfered with by the Courts. (u)

Statutory requirements.

But where it is provided that a power shall be exercised in a certain manner, or after certain conditions have been complied with, it becomes necessary to determine whether any, and if any, which of these limitations may be transgressed without entailing the nullification of an act done otherwise than in the prescribed manner or without the prescribed preliminaries. If, in order to carry out the essential purpose of the Legislature, strict compliance with the requirements of the Statute appears to be a necessary condition precedent to the exercise of the power, non-observance thereof will be fatal. (v)

* This case has not been reported. The following note of it appeared in the newspapers at the time:

Re Wicksteed and City of Ottawa.—Judgment on motion by Richard John Wicksteed heard at Ottawa in December for a mandamus to the municipal corporation of the City of Ottawa commanding them to order the City Solicitor to collect in the civil courts from Hilaire Lauzon and Onesime Sauve the expenses incurred and paid by the city in connection with the Victoria Ward bye-election held in the City of Ottawa in the month of August, 1897, and to indict Lauzon and Sauve and one Godfrey Masson in the criminal courts for conspiracy to defraud the public. Held, that mandamus does not lie to enforce the exercise of the discretionary powers of the Council. Motion refused with costs.

Note (a).

And the fact that debentures have been issued and sold, or rights acquired under a by-law passed without necessary statutory formalities is not a conclusive answer to a motion to quash such a by-law (w). But where the the public interest would suffer if the act were declared to be void, and the essential purpose of the Legislature would not be furthered by insisting upon a strict compliance with the requirements of the Statute, this will generally be excused. If, however, the municipal council does (or attempts to do) any act which is in excess of its statutory powers, the corporation may be restrained by an action brought by the Attorney-General of the Province, acting on behalf of the public, or by any private individual or corporation to whom this occasions any special legal injury (a).

* In McArthur v. Town of Port Arthur, 9 Man. Rep. 588 (1893), a town in Manitoba had been incorporated under "The (Provincial) Towns Corporation Act," (C. S. Man. c. 10), s. 377 of which provided that town loans, whether by the issue of debentures or otherwise, should only be made on a by-law of the corporation to that effect. The defendants being indebted to the Ontario Bank (which was pressing for payment), the council passed a resolution referring the matter to the Finance Committee with power to act. As the plaintiffs held in their hands a large amount of the debentures of the town, the Committee arranged to give the Bank an order on the plaintiffs for the amount of the debt. The order was accordingly prepared, signed by the Mayor and Secretary-Treasurer, sealed with the seal of the corporation and sent to the Bank Manager. The action of the Committee was duly reported to the town council and the report was adopted by them. The plaintiffs afterwards accepted the order and paid the amount to the Bank. They then brought this action to recover the amount of the order from the defendants: Held, that the transfer was in the nature of a loan of money, and that the plaintiffs could not recover, the loan not having been authorized as required by s. 377, and there being no proof that the requirements of C. S. Man. c. 10, ss. 208, 211, 213 (relating to by-laws and the mode of passing them) had been complied with.

Any municipal ratepayer whose pecuniary or proprietary interest would be affected by an unlawful act on the part of the council may maintain such an action, which (strictly speaking), should be brought on behalf of himself and of all the other ratepayers similarly affected (b).

(b) "The council." "The municipal council is not to be confounded with the corporation. It is the governing body acting on behalf of the corporation for the year. It is moreover a fluctuating body, the council for one year not being identical with the council of another year, even if it should be composed of the same persons." But when they act with ordinary care and good faith, attempting to serve no interest but the general good of the municipality which they represent, and receiving no personal benefit from moneys illegally paid or invested, they will not be held personally liable therefor when there has been long delay in calling them to account (k).

TITLE II.—FORMATION AND ALTERATION OF CORPORATIONS.

DIV. I.—VILLAGES, TOWNS AND CITIES (ss. 11-28).
DIV. II.—TOWNSHIPS (ss. 29-37).
DIV. III.—COUNTIES (ss. 38-40).
DIV. IV.—PROVISIONAL COUNTY CORPORATIONS (ss. 41-54).
DIV. V.—MATTERS CONSEQUENT UPON THE FORMATION OR ALTERATION OF CORPORATIONS (ss. 55-65).

Synopsis. The sections comprising this Title are ill-arranged as compared with those of the Act of 1849. See ante at p. 11. Instead of commencing (as might naturally have been expected) with the township municipality, and explaining how it is formed, the sections relating to townships only begin at s. 29 (Div. II.), and even then the prior existence of the corporation is assumed and no account whatever is given of the mode of its creation. Sections 29, 33-36 relate to the formation of unions of townships, ss. 31 and 32 to the dissolution of such unions; s. 37 provides for the formation of a "hamlet"—a nondescript creation, originally, perhaps, designed to permit township councils to exercise within the municipality certain powers as to "local improvements" which, when the section was enacted in 1885, belonged only to cities, towns and villages.

Section 11 provides for the incorporation of a village by by-law of the county council, and s. 13 for the adjustment of assets and liabilities between the new corporation and the original municipality or municipalities of which it had formerly been a part. Sections 12, 16, 17, 18, 22, 24 and 25 relate to the area of village, town and city corporations, and to the procedure for increasing or diminishing such area; ss. 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24 and 25 to the new municipal arrangements rendered necessary by any of the proceedings aforesaid.

The "unincorporation" of a village is provided for by ss. 15 (4) and 19; the erection of a village into a town or of a town into a city by s. 21, and the annexation of adjacent villages or towns to a town or city by s. 26. Section 27 prescribes the steps necessary for the separation of a town from the county in which it is territorially situate, and s. 28 for its re-union thereto.

Sections 38-40 (Div. III.) relate to the formation of counties and unions of counties and, (in the latter case) to the relative status of the counties forming such a union.

Sections 41-54 (Div. IV.) provide for the separation of counties previously united; and the remainder of the Title (ss. 55-65, forming Div. V.) makes such provisions for the adjustment, etc., of assets and liabilities, the continuance in force (temporarily or otherwise), of by-laws, offices, bonds of security, etc., and the completion of pending works and improvements, as may have been rendered necessary by any of the changes of municipal status or relation above referred to.

DIVISION I.—VILLAGES, TOWNS AND CITIES.

(ss. 11-28.)

When and How a Village may be Incorporated.

When population 750 county council may incorporate as a village, and name the place and returning officer for first election.

11.—(1) When the census returns of an unincorporated village, with its immediate neighbourhood, taken under the direction of the council or councils of the county or counties in which the village and its neighbourhood are situate, shew that the same contain over 750 inhabitants, and when the residences of the said inhabitants are sufficiently near to form an incorporated village, then, on petition by not less than 100 resident freeholders and tenants of the village and neighbourhood of the age of twenty-one years and over, of whom not fewer than one-half shall be freeholders, the council or councils of the county or counties in which the village and neighbourhood are situate shall, by by-law, erect the village and neighbourhood into an incorporated village, apart from the township or townships in which the same are situate, by a name, and with boundaries to be respectively declared in the by-law; and shall name in the by-law the place for holding the first election, and the returning officer who is to hold the same. 55 V. c. 42, s. 9 (1); 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (2).

Sec. 11. Notes (a) (b).

In The Municipal Act of 1849 (12 V. c. 81, s. 58) from which the provisions of this section were originally taken, the words used are "any police or other village, hamlet, or place not incorporated by name under this Act." The number of inhabitants then required before a village could be incorporated was 1,000. This was reduced to 750 by 20 V. c. 67 (1856), and under that Act as well as under the former one, the village was incorporated by Proclamation of the Governor-in-Council. The Municipal Act of 1858, 22 V. c. 99, s. 10, first transferred the power of incorporation to the county council, in whom it has ever since been vested. "The Public Schools Act," (R. S. O. c. 292) s. 49, provides that the incorporation of part of one or more school sections in a city, town or village shall not per se alter the boundaries of such school sections.

(a) "Census returns." By s. 533 (1) every county, city, town, village or township council is authorized to pass by-laws for taking a census of the inhabitants or of the resident male freeholders and tenants in the municipality. There is no express authority for taking the census of part only of the municipality over which the council has jurisdiction. Municipal census.

(b) "Unincorporated village." The words "unincorporated village," employed here and in ss. 37, 661 and 714, may be looked upon as the equivalent of the word "town," or "village," used in several English Acts of Parliament to indicate a collection of houses. It is a matter of some difficulty to give a definition of "town" or "village," when not incorporated, so as to cover all cases. In Coke's time "village" and "town" seem to have been synonymous, and in Co. Litt. it is said that "a place cannot be a town in law unless it hath, or in times past hath had a church, and celebration of Divine service, sacraments and burials." (115 B.) In Reg. v. Fisher, 8 C. & P. 612, PATTESON, J., says: "It is very difficult to define what is a 'town' in ordinary meaning. It varies from day to day by the erection of new houses." In Elliott v. South Devon R. W. Co., 2 Ex. 729, PARKE, B., says: "It would appear that the word 'town' is not to be understood in its strict legal interpretation as a township having a church or a constable, but rather as a place containing a number of houses congregated together—an inhabited spot where the occupation is continuous," and, inter ALDERSON, B., in the same case) "What the walls of towns were in ancient times (i.e., a boundary)—continuous buildings are now. By continuous buildings I do not mean buildings that touch each other, but buildings so reasonably near that the inhabitants may be considered as dwelling together. Within the ambit surrounded by such houses is 'town,' and where the railway passes through that ambit it passes through town." Ib. 730, 731. In Regina v. Cotth, 16 Q. B. 412, 416, the Recorder, (RUSSELL GURNEY, Esq.,) charged the jury that a town is generally a congregation of houses, and that the jury were to say whether the spot in question was surrounded by houses so reasonably near" that the inhabitants might be fairly said to dwell together." Referring to this charge, Lord CAMPBELL, C. J. (in the same case at p. 420), said that the learned Recorder had, with much felicity, comprised in a few words all that was material in the language of the Barons of the Exchequer in Elliott v. South Devon R. W. Co. as to the definition of the word "town." His definition was also approved in Milton and Sittingbourne Commissioners v. Faversham, 10 B. & S. 548; and in London & South Western R. W. Co. v. Blackmore, L. R. 4 H. L. 610. In the last-mentioned case lands situated close to a railway station, (near Teddington,) but not continuously built upon, were held not to be within the town. "Where there is such an amount of continuous occupancy of the ground by houses that persons may be said to be living in as it were the same town or place, continuously, then—for the purposes of the Railway Acts, and according to the popular sense of the word, and not the legal sense of the word, which would not give at all a sensible definition—the place may be said to be a town" (a). In the same case (b) Vice-Chancellor STUART said: "Four or five surveyors and the solicitor of the company appear to have sworn that they consider Teddington a town; but none of them state anything in support of that opinion except that there are in Teddington a number of shops, such as milliners', grocers', bakers', butchers', and the like and from such reasoning they arrive at the conclusion that Teddington is a town. The fallacy of this conclusion, however, is made quite apparent from the maps and plans which have been referred to in the case; and from which no man of ordinary sense and discernment can fail to see that Teddington is not anything more than what is usually and properly called a village."

The meaning of the word "village" was much discussed by the House of Lords in Waterpark v. Fennell, 7 H. L. Cas. 650, where BRAMWELL, B., says, (p. 661): "Its primary meaning is to include the houses, gardens, streets, village-green, and similar premises only, but not to include 1,700 acres of waste land."

Census, how to be taken.

(c) "Under the direction of the council of the county." It seems that a by-law incorporating a village is not necessarily illegal merely by reason of the fact that the census was in reality taken before the passing by the county council of the by law authorizing the enumeration; but where the census was shewn to be wholly unreliable and untrue in fact, effect was given to this objection (e).

"Inhabitants."

(d) "Inhabitants." The word "inhabitants" has no definite legal meaning, its signification varying according to the subject matter (d).

Area of village.

(e) "Sufficiently near." See s. 12.

Freeholders.

(f) "Freeholders." By "freeholder" is meant a person actually seised of an estate of freehold, legal or equitable. The term does not include persons in possession of land under contracts for the acquisition of the freehold upon the fulfilment of certain conditions (e).

Householders.

(g) "Resident tenants." The word "tenants" was substituted for "householders" by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (2). It is presumed that the qualification of the petitioners should be evidenced by the last revised assessment roll. (See sub-sec. 2.)

Mandamus to County Council.

(h) "The council shall." The word "shall" is here imperative; and, this being a public duty, and there being no other means of compelling its performance, it would no doubt be enforced by mandamus, after a formal demand and an absolute refusal, or after a notification to the council that, if they refuse to pass a by-law, an application will be made for a mandamus (f), and neglect on the part of the council to pass the by-law within a reasonable time thereafter.

Power to create a corporation.

(i) "An incorporated village." It has been sometimes said that only the Crown can create a corporation; but this is not correct (g). In Hodge v. Regina, 9 App. Cas., 117, it was contended by the appellant (on the authority of Reg. v. Burah, 3 App. Cas., 98) that a Provincial Legislature could not create a new legislative power, and the maxim, "Delegatus non potest delegare," was relied on. But the Privy Council, in giving judgment, said:

> "It appears to their Lordships that the objection thus raised by the appellants is founded on an entire misconception of the true character and position of the Provincial Legislatures. They are in no sense delegates of, or acting under any mandate from, the Imperial Parliament. When "The British North America Act" enacted that there should be a Legislature for Ontario, and that its Legislative Assembly should have exclusive authority to make laws for the Province and for provincial purposes in relation to the matters enumerated in s. 92, it conferred powers not in any sense to be exercised by delegation from or as agents of the Imperial Parliament, but authority as plenary and as ample, within the limits described by s. 92, as the Imperial Parliament in the plenitude of its power possessed and could bestow. Within these limits of subject and area, the Local Legislature is supreme, and has the same authority as the Imperial Parliament or the Parliament of the Dominion would have had, under like circumstances, to confide to a municipal institution or body of its own creation, authority to make by-laws or resolutions as to subjects specified in the enactment, and with the object of carrying the enactment into operation and effect (h)."

But the procedure laid down in the Statute should be strictly adhered to, for "the erection of corporations is a prerogative act and . . . . the method prescribed by the Legislature should be substantially followed. In such cases, form is of the substance, and blunder in form means invalidity (i)."

(j) "By by-law." The by-law may be in the following form:

Form of by-law.

"Whereas the census returns of the unincorporated village of ..... with its immediate neighbourhood, taken under the direction of this council, show that the same contains over 750 inhabitants, and that the residences of such inhabitants are sufficiently near to form an incorporated village;

And whereas ..... resident freeholders and tenants of the said village and neighbourhood, of the age of 21 years and over, of whom ....are freeholders, have petitioned for the erection of the said village and neighbourhood into an incorporated village, and it is expedient to grant the prayer of the said petition:

Therefore the municipal council of the county (or united counties) of ..... enacts as follows:

1. From and after the ..... day of ..... 19.., the unincorporated village of ..... with its immediate neighbourhood, shall be an incorporated village apart from the township (or townships) of ..... by the name of the village of ....and with the following boundaries, (Here define the proposed boundaries).

2. The first election for a reeve and four councillors for the said village shall be held on the last Monday of December next (j) and (in case of a poll) on the first Monday of January following at ..... and A. B., of the township of ....., (occupation) shall be the returning officer to hold the same."

Motion to quash.

On a motion to quash, inquiry may be had on affidavits as to the existence of the facts constituting the statutory conditions precedent to the passing of the by-law—(i.e., as to the truth of the above recitals)—and as to any illegality in the manner of passing it. (k)

(2) In case the territory sought to be incorporated, or any part thereof lies within one mile of the limits of a city having a population of 100,000 or more, the petition shall be signed by not less than two thirds of the freeholders and resident tenants within the district sought to be incorporated, of the age of twenty-one years and over, whose names appear on the last revised assessment roll, and who have been resident within the territory sought to be incorporated for at least four

(3) If the district sought to be incorporated or any part thereof has been laid out in lots on a registered plan, each petitioner shall state the number of the lot on said plan owned or occupied by him, and shall further set out whether he is a freeholder or a resident tenant. 55 V. c. 42, s. 9 (3); 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (4).

By-law and notice of petition.

(4) No by-law shall be passed under this section unless the petition therefor has been lodged with the clerk of the county at least one month before the meeting of the council at which the same is to be considered, nor unless public notice has, within two months previous to the meeting of the council at which the same is to be considered, been published at least once a week for two successive weeks in some newspaper at or nearest to the locality sought to be incorporated; and such notice shall set forth a description of the area intended to be embraced in the village. 55 V. c. 42, s. 9 (4).

These subsections (2) (4) were added to the original section in 1891 by 54 V. c. 42, s. 2, in consequence of an application made to the county council of the County of York to incorporate a village (Chester) adjacent to the City of Toronto.

(k) "Last revised assessment roll." See section 3.

Area of town or village limited.

12.—(1) No town or village incorporated after the passing of this Act, the population of which does not exceed 1,000 souls, shall extend over or occupy within the limits of the incorporation an area of more than 500 acres of land.

Regulations as to addition to area.

(2) No town or village already or hereafter incorporated, and containing a population exceeding 1,000 souls shall make any further addition to its limits or area, except in the proportion of not more than 200 acres for each additional 1,000 souls, subsequent to the first 1,000.

Existing towns or villages, area of which exceeds proportionate limit, not to be enlarged.

(3) In the case of towns or villages now incorporated, wherever the area thereof exceeds the proportionate limit above prescribed, to wit, in all cases where the area exceeds the proportion of 500 acres for the first 1,000 souls, and 200 acres for every subsequent additional 1,000, the said towns or villages shall not be permitted to make any further addition to their limits until their population has reached such a proportion to their present area.

How population and area may be reckoned.

(4) But in all cases, the persons then actually inhabiting the land about to be included within the limits of the town or village, may, for the purpose of such extension, be held and reckoned as among the inhabitants of such town or village; and the land occupied by streets or public squares may be excluded in estimating the area of the town or village. 55 V. c. 42, s. 10.

In Manitoba a village must contain 500 inhabitants within a square mile; but if the population exceeds 1,000, 160 acres may be added for each additional 1,000 inhabitants, (R. S. Man. (1891) c. 100, ss. 9, 12); towns must contain 1,500 inhabitants for the first square mile; but if the population exceeds 2,000, 160 acres may be added for each additional 1,000 inhabitants. In British Columbia a city or town must contain 100 adult male inhabitants within an area not exceeding 2,000 acres, (R. S. B. C. (1897) c. 113, s. 3.)

Disposition of property and payment of debts when a village is separated from a township.

13. In cases where a village is separated from the township or townships in which it is situate, or where the area of a village is reduced under section 18, the provisions of this Act for the disposition of the property, and the payment of debts, upon the dissolution of a union of townships, shall be applicable as if the localities separated had been two townships; and the councils of the village and of the township or townships shall respectively perform the like duties as by such provisions devolve upon the councils of separated townships, the said village being considered as the junior township. 55 V. c. 42, s. 11; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (5).

Where the village lies within two or more counties, it shall be annexed to one of them by the county councils or, in case of difference, by the Lieutenant-Governor.

14.—(1) Where the newly incorporated village lies within two or more counties, the council of the counties shall, by by-law, annex the village to one of the counties; and if within six months after the petitions for the incorporation of the village are presented, the councils do not agree to which county the village shall be annexed, the wardens of the counties shall memorialize the Lieutenant-Governor in Council setting forth the grounds of difference between the councils; and thereupon the Lieutenant Governor may, by proclamation, annex the village to one of the counties.

In case of failure of councils to act, freeholders, etc., may petition Lieutenant-Governor.

(2) In case the wardens do not, within one month next after the expiration of the six months memorialize the Lieutenant-Governor in Council as aforesaid, then 100 of the freeholders and resident tenants on the census list may petition the Lieutenant-Governor in Council to settle the matter, and thereupon the Lieutenant-Governor may, by proclamation, annex the incorporated village to one of the counties. 55 V. c. 42, s. 12; 60 V. c 15, Sched. C (6): c. 3, s. 3.

Liability of territory detached from one county and annexed to another.

15—(1) In case a locality is, under section 14 of this Act, detached from one county and annexed to another, the council of the county to which the locality is annexed and the council of the village shall agree with the council of the county from which the locality is detached, as to the amount (if any) of the county liabilities which should be borne by the locality so detached and the times of payment thereof.

In case councils do not agree.

(2) If the councils do not, within three months of the separation, agree in respect of the said matter, the same shall be determined by arbitration under this Act; and the amount (if any) so agreed or determined shall become a debt of the county to which the locality is attached, and the said locality shall continue subject to all rates which had been, prior to the separation, imposed for the payment of county debts or for the payment of bonuses or aids granted by sections of the county to railways, or for the payment of local improvement debts, until the amount thereof has been paid by the proceeds of such rates.

Rates for old debts.

(3) The council of the county or of the village, as the case may require, shall pass such by-laws and take such proceedings as are necessary for levying the said rates; and shall, unless the said council has previously paid the amount to the municipality so liable, pay over the same when collected, to the municipality which is liable for the debt on account of which the rates were imposed.

Annulment of incorporation.

(4) Where the councils do not agree as aforesaid, the Lieutenant Governor in Council before proclamation has been made, upon a petition of a majority of the resident freeholders and resident tenants of the village, and with the assent of at least two of the councils of the townships in which the village is situate, annul the incorporation of the village and restore the same to its former position as an unincorporated village; and the same shall thereupon be reinstated in its former position to the same extent as if no proceedings for incorporation had ever been taken. 55 V. c. 42, s. 13; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (7).

Local liabilities.

(a) Locality, under our system of municipal government, is a basis for taxation. Each part of a county should therefore bear its proper proportion of the taxation of the whole county; and where a locality is detached from one county to another, some mode of adjustment of existing liabilities becomes indispensable. (a).

Expenses under Registry Act.

(b) "County liabilities." No provision is made for the expenses rendered necessary by the transfer of territory from one Registry Division to another. It is presumed that it would be the duty of the county receiving additional territory to pay these expenses. See "The Registry Act," (R.S.O. c. 136), s. 32.

(d) "Bonuses or aids granted by sections of the county to railways." Many of the railway charters granted by the Province of Ontario immediately after Confederation contained provisions empowering a majority of the assessed freeholders in any portion of a local municipality, (or in the case of a county municipality the reeves and deputy-reeves for those townships which might be desirous of granting a bonus) to petition the council to pass a by-law aiding the railway and if such a by-law was approved by the electors, the aid so petitioned for was granted by the issue of debentures of the municipality, and the petitioning sections thereof were assessed for the amount necessary to repay the debt. 16. In case the council of any village petitions the Lieutenant-Governor to add to the boundaries thereof, the Lieutenant-Governor may, (subject to the provisions of section 12 of this Act), by proclamation, add to the village any part of the localities adjacent, which, from the proximity of the streets or buildings therein, or the probable future exigencies of the village, it seems desirable to add thereto; and in case the territory so added belonged to another county, it shall thenceforward, for all purposes, cease to belong to such other county, and shall belong to the same county as the rest of the village. 55 V. c. 42, s. 14. Addition to villages by Lieutenant-Governor.

The first part of this section is taken from the Act of 1883, 42 V. c. 81, s. 115. The words "and in case the territory so added," etc., to the end of the section were added by 40 V. c. 7, S-Sect. A. (167) (a) As to the procedure at the first municipal election after the proclamation see s. 36.

(a). "The boundaries thereof." The original boundaries of the village must have been declared in the by-law creating it. See ante, s. 5, note (c): and post, s. 532 (1). "The Public School Act" (R. S. O. c. 292, s. 49), provides that the incorporation into a city, town or village of portions of one or more rural school sections shall not alter the boundaries of such school section or sections.

17. Upon the application of the council of any city, town or village and of the owners of any lands therein wholly used for farming purposes, the Lieutenant-Governor in Council may by proclamation, exclude and detach such lands from the said city, town or village and annex the same to some adjoining municipality, upon such terms as have been agreed upon between the council of such adjoining municipality and that of the said city, town or village and the owners of the said lands, or upon such terms as may have been determined by arbitration in case they cannot agree upon the terms. 57 V. c. 50, s. 1. Separation of farm lands from cities, towns or village.

(a) This section applies to every case of a proposed reduction of the area of a city, town or village, whereas s. 18 applies only to certain villages and towns. The application under this section to the Lieutenant-Governor must be made by both the municipal council and the owners of the farm lands proposed to be detached from the municipality: and the terms upon which the detached municipality is to be annexed to another municipality, must, prior to the application, have been settled by agreement or by arbitration under ss. 150 et seq.

Reducing the area of villages or towns.

18.—(1) The county council of any county or union of counties, upon the application, by petition, of the corporation of any village or of any town not withdrawn from the county, having a population, as ascertained by the last municipal enumeration, not exceeding 2,000, and whose outstanding obligations and debts do not exceed double the net amount of the yearly rate then last levied and collected therein, may, in their discretion, by by-law in that behalf, reduce the area of the village or town by excluding from it lands used wholly for farming purposes: and the lands so excluded shall form part of such township or townships as may be designated in the by-law. 55 V. c. 42, s. 15: 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (8).

New limits to be defined.

(2) The by-law shall define, by metes and bounds, the new limits intended for the village or town.

Population not to be reduced below 750.

(3) No village or town shall, by such change of boundaries, be reduced in population below the number of 750 souls.

Municipal rights of village or town not to be interfered with.

(4) The municipal privileges and rights of the village or town shall not be thereby diminished, or otherwise interfered with as respects the remaining area thereof. 55 V. c. 42, s. 15, (2-4).

Taken from the Act of 1886 (49-50 V. c. 51, s. 10 (5) which applied only to villages; extended by 45 V. c. 23, s. 2, (1882), to towns not separated from the county and having a population not exceeding 2,000. The words "and the land so excluded" etc. at the end of subsection 1 were added in 1897, by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (8).

(a) "Last municipal enumeration." This probably refers to a census taken under ss. 20 and 533 (1) See ante s. 4, note (j) and post, s. 21 note (a).

(b) "Not exceeding 2,000." The minimum population of every town incorporated since 1873. See post, s. 21, and note (c) thereto.

(c) "The municipal privileges and rights of the . . . town shall not thereby be diminished." This provision, by which a municipality, though it may contain only 750 inhabitants, the minimum population of a village (s. 9)—may still retain the status and rights of a town, was probably not intended to have that effect by the draftsman of the Statute 45 V. c. 23, in which the enactment first occurs.

A village may become unincorporated and may be annexed to an adjoining municipality.

19.—(1) In case the council of a village, by a two-thirds vote of the members thereof, passes a resolution declaring that it is expedient that the village should become unincorporated, and the resolution is approved by the electors in the manner required for by-laws creating debts: and in case the council of an adjoining municipality passes, or the councils of two or more of the adjoining municipalities pass a resolution or resolutions approving of the territory comprised in the village being annexed to such municipality or municipalities, the Lieutenant-Governor in Council may issue a proclamation annulling the incorporation of the village, and annexing the territory included therein to such municipality or municipalities. 55 V. c. 42, s. 16 (1).

Taken, except subsection 1 (a) from "The Consolidated Municipal Act, 1883" (46 V. c. 18, s. 16.)

(a) "A two-thirds vote of the members thereof." Since a village council consists of five members, (s. 72), four of these must vote for the resolution.

(b) "In the manner required for by-laws creating debts." See ss. 384-395.

(c) "The council of an adjoining municipality." The electors of the adjoining municipality are not required to vote upon the resolution.

"Electors" meaning of.

(a) The term "electors" in the preceding subsection shall include all freeholders and all leaseholders whose leases extend over a period of not less than five years from the date when the said vote is taken, provided the names of such freeholders and leaseholders are entered in the last revised assessment roll of the said municipality.

This subsection was added in 1889 by 52 V. c. 36, s. 2.

(d) "Provided the names of such freeholders and leaseholders." It did not clearly appear from the words of the original section, 52 V. c. 36, s. 2 (= 55 V. c. 42, s. 16 (bb)) whether this requirement applied to the names of freeholders as well as to those of householders. The altered form of expression removes this ambiguity. See note (h) to s. 2, ante.

Adjustment of assets and debts.

(2) If the said territory is annexed to one municipality, such municipality shall be liable for the debts of the village, and shall be entitled to its assets, but, if the territory is annexed to two or more municipalities, the councils of such municipalities shall, before the proclamation issues, agree between themselves, or determine by arbitration, as to the proportion of the debt of the village to be borne by them respectively, and as to the assets, or proportion of the assets, of the said village which the municipalities shall respectively receive; and the municipalities shall respectively be liable each for its proportion of such indebtedness as determined by the agreement or award.

May be by a proportion.

(3) If the agreement or award, instead of stating the proportion of the debt to be borne as aforesaid, states the shares so to be borne in sums of money, then the fraction which is formed by taking the sum named as the amount to be borne by any municipality as the numerator, and the aggregate of the sums named as the amounts to be borne by the said municipalities as the denominator, shall be the proportion of the entire debt to be borne by such municipality, whether or not the debt is accurately stated in the agreement or award.

Special rate may be imposed.

If municipalities are in different counties.

(5) In case the municipalities proposing to receive parts of the territory comprised in the village are in different counties, the provisions of this section may be acted upon with the assent (declared by resolution) of the councils of such counties, and unless such councils have previously agreed, or within three months from the issue of a proclamation under this section agree as to the proportions in which the share of the county debt which is referable to such village is to be borne by the several counties, the same shall be determined by arbitration under this Act,

(e) "Share of the county debt referable to such village." It is presumed that this would include any expenses rendered necessary by the transfer of territory from one Registry Division to another. See ante, s. 15, note (b).

If one of them a city or town.

(6) Where part of the village is to be attached to a city or separated town, the city or separated town shall be deemed a county within the meaning of the next preceding subsection. 55 V. c. 42, s. 16; 60 V. c. 3, s. 3.

Census of towns and villages.

20. A census of any town or village may at any time be taken under the authority of a by-law of the council thereof. 55 V. c. 42, s. 18.

(a) The power of taking a census of the inhabitants or of the resident male freeholders and tenants in the municipality is also conferred by s. 533 (1) and see ante, s. 4, note (h), post, s. 21, note (a).

Town containing over 15,000 inhabitants may be erected into a city; and village containing over 2,000 into a town.

21. In case it appears by the census return taken under such by-law, or under any statute, that a town contains over 15,000 inhabitants, the town may be erected into a city; and in case it appears by such return that a village contains over 2,000 inhabitants, the village may be erected into a town; but the change shall be made by means of and subject to the following proceedings and conditions:

Taken (in substance) from the Act of 1858 (22 V. c. 99), s. 15; "2,000" (in line 5) having been substituted for "3,000" in 1873 see note (c), supra.

Notice to be given.

1. The council of the town or village shall, for three months after the census return, insert a notice in some newspaper published in the town or village—or, if no newspaper is published therein, then the council shall, for three months, post up a notice in four of the most public places in the town or village, and insert the same in a newspaper published in the county town of the county in which the town or village is situate, or if there is no such newspaper, then in the newspaper published nearest to the said town or village—setting forth in the notice the intention of the council to apply for the erection of the town into a city, or of the village into a town, and stating the limits intended to be included therein;

Statutory census.

(a) "Or under any Statute." "The census and statistics" forms one of the classes of subjects within the exclusive legislative authority of the Parliament of Canada. "B. N. A. Act," s. 91 (6). "The Census Act" (R. S. Ca. c. 58,) s. 3, provides that a census shall be taken in 1891 and in every tenth year thereafter. See also note (j) to s. 4, ante, and ss. 20 and 533 (1).

Minimum population of a city.

(b) "15,000 inhabitants." This was the minimum population originally required for a city by the Act of 1849, (12 V. c. 81), s. 84. It was reduced to 10,000 in 1853 by 16 V. c. 181, s. 19, but by the Act of 1858 was again increased to 15,000, at which figure it has ever since remained.

Of a town.

(c) "2,000." The population necessary to constitute a town was fixed at 3,000 by the Act of 1849, (12 V. c. 81), s. 79, and so continued up to 1873, when it was reduced to 2,000 by 36 V. c. 48, s. 15.

(d) "A notice." This may be in the following form:

"Take notice that whereas it appears by the census returns taken under by-law No. ..... of the village (or town) of ..... passed on the ..... day of ....., 19 ..... (or under "The Census Act,"), that the said village (or town) contains over 2,000 (or over 15,000) inhabitants.

It is the intention of the council of the said village (or town) after three months from the date of this notice to apply to His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor in Council for the erection of the said village (or town) into a town (or city).

And further take notice that the limits intended to be included in the said town (or city) are as follows: (Here define the proposed limits).

And that the proposed name of the said town (or city) is....."

(e) "For three months." All the requirements of the section should be strictly observed (a). The notices posted up in the town or village should be kept posted during the whole three months. The newspaper notice should be inserted at least weekly during the same period. Notice.

(f) "The limits intended to be included therein." In view of the importance of an accurate definition of municipal boundaries, the proposed limits should be clearly defined (b). Limits.

2. The council of the town or village shall cause the census return to be certified to the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, under the signature of the head of the corporation, and under the corporate seal, and shall also cause the publication aforesaid to be proved to the Lieutenant-Governor in Council; then, in the case of a village, the Lieutenant-Governor may, by proclamation, erect the village into a town by a name to be given thereto in the proclamation: Census returns to be certified, and publication of notice proved. Village may be made a town by proclamation.

(g) Two things are here made necessary. First, that the census return should be certified to the Lieutenant-Governor in Council; secondly, that proof of the publication of the notice referred to in note (d), supra, should be adduced to the Lieutenant-Governor in Council. The certificate as to the census return must not only be under the seal of the corporation, but also under the signature of the head of the corporation. No provision is made as to the mode of proving the due publication of the required notice, or whether it shall be done by certificate or affidavit; this is left entirely to the discretion of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council.

3. In case the application is for the erection of a town into a city, the town shall also pay to the county of which it forms a part, such portion, if any, of the debts of the county as is just; or the council of the town shall agree with the council of the county as to the amount to be so paid, with interest from the time of the erection of the new city, and as to the periods of payment; or, in case of disagreement, the same shall be determined by arbitration under this Act; and upon the council proving to the Lieutenant-Governor in Council the payment, agreement or arbitration, the Lieutenant-Governor may, by proclamation, erect the town into a city, by a name to be given thereto in the proclamation. 55 V. c. 42, s. 19. Existing debts to be adjusted in case of a town to be made a city. Town may be made a city by proclamation.

(b) See s. 5 (note (c) and s. 532 (1); Hracks v. Township of Markham, 17 U. C. R. 562; in Re Simmons and Town of Chatham, 21 U. C. R. 75; The Chief Superintendent of Education; Re Shorey and Thresher, 30 U. C. R. 504, and the cases referred to in note (d) to s. 587 (1) post.

Secs. 21-24.
Sub sec. 1.
Notes (h)-(l) (a).

(h) "Such portion . . . of the debts of the county as may be just." A city becomes for municipal purposes a county in itself (c). Hence the necessity for the adjustment of the county debt before a separation takes place.

(i) "By arbitration under this Act." See ss. 449, 450, 457-467.

(j) "Upon the council proving, etc. Substantially the same provisions were contained in 14-15 V. c. 109, s. 21 (1851).

Name of new corporation.

(k) "By a name to be given . . . in the proclamation." The power is here conferred, not only to create a new corporation, but to give it a name. The name can only be changed by the Legislature. See note (b) to s. 7.

First election.

(l) Section 96 of the Act provides that the first election under the proclamation creating the new town or city shall take place on the first Monday in the January following the date of the proclamation, but the nomination of candidates and the election of such as are unopposed shall be proceeded with on the last Monday in December, or in case that is Christmas Day, then on the previous Friday (s. 124).

Limits of such new town or city.

22. The Lieutenant-Governor may include in the new town or city such portions of any township or townships adjacent thereto, and within the limits mentioned in the aforesaid notice, as, from the proximity of streets or buildings, or the probable future exigencies of the new town or city, the Lieutenant-Governor may consider it desirable to attach thereto. 55 V. c. 42, s. 20.

Wards, number of population of.

23. The Lieutenant-Governor may divide the new town or city into wards, with appropriate names and boundaries, but no town shall have less than three wards, and no ward in such town or city less than 500 inhabitants. 55 V. c. 42, s. 21.

These sections (22 and 23) are taken from the Act of 1849, 12 V., c. 81, ss. 79 & 84.

Extension of city or town.

24.—(1) In case two-thirds of the members of the council of a city or town do, in council, before the 15th day of July in any year, pass a resolution affirming the expediency of any addition being made to the limits of the city or town, the Lieutenant-Governor may, by proclamation, and on such terms and conditions, as to taxation, assessment, improvements or otherwise, as the Lieutenant-Governor in Council sees fit and the council of the city or town may consent to, add to the city or town any part of the adjacent township or townships which the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, on the grounds aforesaid, considers it desirable to attach thereto. And the Lieutenant-Governor in Council may also by such proclamation provide that the territory so added or to be added to the city or town shall, for the purposes of elections to the Legislative Assembly continue for a period of time to be mentioned in the proclamation, to form part of the electoral division of which it had theretofore formed a part. 55 V. c. 42, s. 22 (1); 59 V. c. 51, s. 1.

Taken from the Act of 1858, 22 V., c. 99, s. 12. Cf. the Act of 1849, 12 V., c. 81, ss. 84 & 115, as amended by 16 V. c. 181, ss. 19 & 23. The words "assessment, improvements" (in line 6), and the whole of the last sentence of the section were added in 1896 by 59 V., c. 51, s. 1.

(a) Until the present Consolidation this section embraced two distinct subjects, namely, the addition of territory to a city or town by proclamation, and the re-division of the city or town into wards with or without an addition to its territory. The portions of the section relating to the re-division of the city or town into wards, a matter relating wholly to municipal elections, has now been transferred to ss. 102, 103. As to the date of the first election after the enlargement of the city or town, and as to the nominations therefor see sec. 196, post.

(b) "Two-thirds of the members of the Council," i. e., two-thirds of the whole council, not two-thirds of the members present at the meeting.

(c) "Of a city or town." The Statute makes no provision for ascertaining the opinion of the inhabitants of the territory proposed to be annexed; but evidence of their assent to the annexation would doubtless be also required.

(d) "Before the fifteenth day of July." Until the Act of 1858 (22 V., c. 99, s. 19) the time fixed for passing the resolution was the month of February. The present date allows more time for consideration by a council elected in the month of January. It is apprehended that a resolution passed after July 15th would be a nullity. (a)

(e) "Pass a resolution." This is one of the few cases in which the powers of the council may be exercised otherwise than by by-law. See note (e) to s. 325.

(f) "Or otherwise." As to the procedure in case the annexation of part of a township municipality to a city or town under this section involves the division of a school section, see "The Public Schools Act," (R.S.O. c. 292), ss. 49, 50 (1) (2).

25. In case any tract of land so attached to the city or town belonged to another county, the same shall thenceforward, for all purposes, cease to belong to such other county, and shall belong to the same county as the rest of the city or town. 55 V. c. 42, s. 23.

Where land attached to city or town, etc., belonged to another county.

Taken from the Act of 1858, 22 V. c. 99, s. 18.

26.—(1) In case the council of any village or town pass a resolution affirming the expediency of the annexation of the village or town to an adjacent village, town or city, and the municipal council of such last mentioned village, town or city, pass a similar resolution, and in case a majority of the electors of the first-mentioned village or town as defined by clause (a) of subsection 1 of section 19 of this Act, by vote approve of the resolution affirming the expediency of such annexation, the Lieutenant-Governor in Council may, by proclamation, annex the one municipality to the other, upon such terms as have been agreed upon by the councils, or as have been determined by arbitration, in case the councils resolve to have the terms settled by arbitration, and the Lieutenant-Governor in Council may also by such proclamation provide that the said first mentioned village or town so annexed or to be annexed shall, for the purpose of elections to the Legislative Assembly, continue, for such period of time as may be mentioned in the proclamation, to form part of the electoral district of which it had theretofore formed a part. 55 V. c. 42, s. 24 (1); 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (10); 60 V. c. 45, s. 26.

Annexation of villages or towns to adjacent villages, towns or cities.

Subsections 1-4 are taken from "The Consol. Mun. Act of 1883," (46 V., c. 18), s. 23, as amended by 60 V., c. 15, Sched. C (10) (1897). They provide for annexation at the instance of the municipal council of the village or town which takes the initiative. Subsections 4-7 were added in 1888 by 51 V., c. 28, s. 2, and apparently provide for cases in which the municipal electors of the village or town initiate the proceedings toward annexation. In the first case a simple resolution is sufficient, in the second a by-law is required.

Sec. 26. Sub-secs. 1-4. Notes (a)-(d).

(a) "The Public Schools Act," (R.S.O. c. 292), s. 50 (3), provides that in case two municipalities are united by proclamation or by an Act of the Legislature, the assets and liabilities of each school corporation therein shall be assumed by the school corporation of the united municipality.

(b) "Pass a resolution." See note (e) to s. 325.

(c) "Adjacent." Here apparently used as meaning "adjoining" or "contiguous." See Imp. Dict. ad verb.

(d) "Electors of the first mentioned village or town." As in the case provided for by s. 18, the assent is not required of the electors of the municipality to which the annexation is to be made, but only of the council thereof.

(e) "Approve of the resolution." Until the amendment of this sub-section in 1897 by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (10) the procedure was more cumbrous. After the council of the village or town seeking annexation had passed a resolution affirming the expediency of annexation, they had also to prepare and submit to the electors a by-law for the same purpose, with all the formalities required by s. 338 et seq. Under the amended section, a simple vote of the electors duly qualified under s. 19 (1*a*) upon the resolution approving or disapproving of annexation, is sufficient.

Secs. 16, 24 and 25 to apply.

(2) Subject to any variations made by the terms agreed upon or settled in manner aforesaid, the municipality annexed to the other shall be subject to the provisions of this Act having regard to the annexation of territory to a village, town or city. 55 V. c. 42, s. 24 (2).

(f) "Provisions of this Act having regard to the annexation of territory . . ." etc. See ss. 16, 24, 25, 96, 150.

Village or town may be erected into a town or city and re-divided into wards.

(3) In case the population admits thereof, the Lieutenant-Governor may, by the same proclamation, erect the village or town to which the addition is made, into a town or city, by a name to be given thereto in the proclamation, and may divide or re-divide the city, town or village into wards. 55 V. c. 42, s. 24 (3).

(g) "By a name." See note (b) to s. 7 ante.

By law to be submitted in case of a petition therefor.

(4) In case a petition signed by one hundred and fifty qualified municipal electors of any town or village is presented to the council of such town or village asking that a by-law be submitted for the annexation of such town or village to an adjacent village, town or city, either unconditionally or upon such terms as may be set out in said petition, it shall be the duty of such council to submit to the vote of the municipal electors of the said town or village, a by-law for the annexation of the said village or town; and the said council shall forthwith prepare a by-law in accordance with the prayer of the petition, and shall submit the same to the said municipal electors for approval or otherwise within four weeks after the receipt of the petition by the said council. 55 V. c. 42, s. 24 (4); 60 V. c. 3, s. 3.

(h) "Qualified municipal electors." See ss. 2 (5) and 86-93. It would appear that the "electors" here meant are the same as those referred to in the next note.

Who may vote on a by-law for annexation.

(i) "To the vote of the municipal electors." Secs. 353 and 354 define the persons who are entitled to vote on by-laws which require the assent of the electors. The words in s. 354, "provided the lease extends for the period of time within which the debt to be contracted or the money to be raised by the by-law is made payable," do not apply to this vote.

(j) "It shall be the duty." See note (a) to s. 10.

(k) "To submit a by-law." As to the proper procedure see ss. 338-365, post.

Secs. 26, 27, Sub-sec. 5, 7. Notes (j)-(o) (a).

(5) A by-law which is duly carried, under the provisions of the last preceding sub-section, by the vote of the municipal electors of said town or village shall, within a reasonable time, but not exceeding one month thereafter, be adopted by said council. 55 V. c. 42, s. 24 (5).

Council to pass by-law within one month.

(l) "Shall within a reasonable time be adopted by said council." It is doubtful whether the decisions referred to ante in note (a) to s. 10 upon the meaning of the word "shall" in s. 373 would apply here (a). In the case of debenture by-laws, the Statute, in prescribing (b) the form of notice to be published with a copy of the proposed by-law, has indicated its intention that, even after the vote of the electors, the council shall have an opportunity of considering whether the debt authorized by the by-law shall or shall not be incurred. There is no such provision in this section; and (although the point has not yet been determined by judicial decision) the language used in the Statute from which these sub-sections (4-7) are taken (c) seems to indicate that the council is intended to have no option in the matter, but must adopt the by-law if it has been carried by the votes of a majority of the electors.

Is this imperative?

(m) "Within a reasonable time." The ordinary p[illegible] allowed to the council for passing a by-law duly carried by vote of the e[illegible]ors is six weeks. See s. 373.

Time allowed.

(6) Thereupon the council of such adjacent village, town or city may, by resolution, assent to the annexation of such town or village aforesaid. 55 V. c. 42, s. 24 (6).

Assent of adjacent municipality.

(n) "By resolution." See note (e) to s. 325.

(7) In the event of the annexation of any such town or village as aforesaid having been approved of and assented to in manner hereinbefore provided, the same may be carried into effect by proclamation of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council on a day to be named in the said proclamation, or in any subsequent proclamation. 55 V. c. 42, s. 24 (7).

Proclamation.

(o) "By proclamation." The Statute confers no express power upon the Lieutenant-Governor to give a new name to the enlarged municipality. Sec. 96 (post) specifies how and when the first municipal elections shall be held in and for the enlarged municipality.

Contents of.

27. The council of any town may pass a by-law to withdraw the town from the jurisdiction of the council of the county within which the town is situated, upon obtaining the assent of the electors of the town to the by-law in manner provided by this Act, subject to the following provisions and conditions:

Town may be withdrawn from jurisdiction of county by by-law on certain conditions.

Taken from the Act of 1858, 22 V. c. 99, s. 26. By 14 & 15 V. c. 109, s. 21, (1851) somewhat similiar provisions were made for agreement or arbitration upon the erection of a town into a city.

(a) "Assent of the electors of the town to the by-law." As to procedure and the persons entitled to vote, see notes (j) and (k) to s. 26, sub-s. 4.

Procedure.

Sec. 27.
Sub-sec. 1.
Notes (b)-(f).

Amount to be paid by town to county to be settled by agreement or arbitration.

1. After the final passing of the by-law, the amount which the town is to pay to the county for the expenses of the administration of justice, the use of the gaol, and the erection and repairs of the registry office, and for providing books for the same, and for services for which the county is liable under the provisions of any Act respecting the registration of instruments relating to lands, as well as for the then existing debt of the county, if not mutually agreed upon, shall be ascertained by arbitration under this Act; and the agreement or award shall distinguish the amount to be annually paid for the said expenses, and for the then debt of the county, and the number of years during which the payments for the debt are to be continued.

(b) "Final passing of the by-law." i.e., by the council of the town under s. 373.

(c) "Expenses of the administration of justice, the use of the gaol." etc. See ss. 509-517 and note (b) under s. 530.

(d) "Erection and repairs of the Registry Office . . relating to lands." This clause was added by 31 V. c. 30, s. 2. There is nothing in the Act requiring the town to pay the county for the use of the Registry Office.(a)

Agreement must be in writing.

(e) "Mutually agreed upon." In County of Wentworth v. City of Hamilton, 34 U.C.R. 585, the action was by the county against the city under s. 403 of 29-30 V. c. 31, (= s. 516 of this Act) for compensation for the expense of the care and maintenance of prisoners in the county gaol, alleging an agreement by the city to pay a certain proportion thereof. The defendants pleaded that the alleged agreement was not under their corporate seal. Held, a bad plea.

A. Wilson, J., says (p. 599): "I think it would be far better if the agreement were by deed, or by a by-law under seal; but I must say, from the legal decisions, it was not absolutely necessary it should have been so. The 'mutually agreeing' upon the compensation, by section 403, does not properly mean a by-law, for the two councils could not so agree by the same by-law, although each of them might agree by their own by-law. The Statute appears to refer to some other mode of agreeing than by a by-law. If that be got over, the difficulty is seriously diminished. In my opinion the action may be maintained by the general law without a deed in a case like the present, and I think also without a by-law. A by-law is not a deed merely because it is under seal."

In the present case, however, the agreement must be in writing, since a copy of it, duly verified by affidavit, is required by subs. 3 to be transmitted to the Lieutenant Governor.

Basis of apportionment.

(f) "Ascertained by arbitration." In Re City of St. Catharines v. County of Lincoln, 46 U. C. R. 425, in dismissing a motion to set aside an award made between a city and a county under a Statute which in effect incorporated the provisions of this section, Osler, J. A. says: (pp. 430 and 431).

"The point chiefly insisted upon by the county before the arbitrators and on the present motion was, that the assessment rolls of the two municipalities formed the proper, and indeed the only basis on which the proportion of the expenses to be borne by the city should be ascertained. The city contended that population was a safer guide. The Act does not lay down any principle or rule by which the arbitrators are to be governed in ascertaining the proportion . . The whole question therefore rests largely in the reasonable discretion of the arbitrators . . It seems to me that as to all such expenses as must be incurred by the county in any event, such, e.g., as the use, maintenance, and repair of the court house, and gaol, and registry office, official salaries, etc., population is, as a general rule, a very fair basis. So also as to the expenses of the administration of justice; in all cases, however, subject to any special circumstances (which do not exist in the present case), showing that a larger proportion of any particular item of expense should be borne by one corporation rather than the other. To adopt the comparative assessments of the city and county as a basis, would, owing to the practical difference in assessing city and county property, be entirely illusory and unjust; and an attempt to correct it by equalizing the assessment is at best but a rule-of-thumb expedient when the different elements which constitute city and county assessment are considered." See also the observations of the same learned Judge in Re County of Carleton and City of Ottawa, 24 A. R. 109, quoted in note (d) to s. 516.

(g) "The award shall distinguish the amount to be annually paid for the then debt of the county," etc. But the arbitrators may find that the town should pay nothing on account of such debt, e. g. where the whole debt had been incurred in making roads which were of no benefit to the town. (b)

(h) Until 1873, (36 V. c. 48, s. 291 = s. 460 of this Act), the arbitrators had no power to make any award as to costs (c). Sections 449, 450, 455-467 now apply to awards under this section. See the notes to those sections.

Matters to be considered by arbitrators.

2. In adjusting their award, the arbitrators shall take into consideration, among other things, the amount previously paid by the town, or which the town is then liable to pay, for the construction of roads or bridges by the county without the limits of the town: and also what the county has paid, or is liable to pay, for the construction of roads or bridges within the town; and they shall also ascertain, and allow to the town, the value of its interest in all county property, except roads and bridges within the town.

(i) "Roads and bridges." See the case of United Counties of Northumberland and Durham and Town of Cobourg, referred to in the foot notes, infra.

Copy of agreement or award to be sent to the Lieutenant-Governor. Proclamation.

3. When the agreement or award has been made, a copy of the same and of the by-law, duly verified by affidavit, shall be transmitted to the Lieutenant-Governor, who may thereupon issue his proclamation, withdrawing the town from the jurisdiction of the council of the county.

Effect of proclamation.

4. After the proclamation has been issued, the offices of reeve and deputy-reeve or deputy-reeves of the town shall cease; and no by-law of the council of the county thereafter made shall have any force in the town, except so far as relates to the care of the court house and gaol, and other county property in the town; and the town shall not thereafter be liable to the county for, or be obliged to pay to the county, any money for county debts or other purposes, except the sums agreed upon or awarded as aforesaid.

(j) "The offices of reeve, deputy-reeve, etc., shall cease." Until the passing of "The County Councils Act, 1896," (59 V. c. 52), the reeves and deputy-reeves of towns not separated from their counties represented these towns in the County Council, and therefore the reason for the existence of these offices ceased upon the separation of the town from the county. The office of deputy-reeve was (practically) abolished in 1898 by 61 V. c. 23, ss. 3, 4. As to the amounts payable by a city or separated town to the county in the cases referred to in ss. 510-512, see the notes to those sections.

Notes (k)-(a).

New agreement or award after five years, etc.

(k) Most of the services mentioned are county services, in which the town, though withdrawn from the county, must be continuously interested. But the nature and value of the services may vary from year to year; hence provision is made for a settlement every five years, unless a shorter time is stated in the agreement or award last made.

Property after withdrawal.

6. After the withdrawal of a town from the county, all property theretofore owned by the county, except roads and bridges within the town, shall remain the property of the county. 55 V. c. 42, s. 25; 60 V. c. 3, s. 3.

Town may after five years from withdrawal pass by-law for re-union with county.

28.—(1) The council of a town which has withdrawn from a county may, after the expiration of five years from the withdrawal, pass a by-law (to be assented to by the electors in manner provided for by this Act in respect of by-laws for creating debts) to re-unite with such county.

By-law to have no effect until ratified by council of county, etc.

Before by-law ratified, the accounts of the debts of town and county respectively to be determined.

(a) "Pass a by-law." The procedure here outlined cannot well be strictly followed, as it would place the town at a disadvantage in making its financial arrangements with the county council. According to the wording of the section, the method to be pursued is: (1) the town council passes the first reading of a by-law providing simply for a reunion with the county; (2) the electors of the town vote thereon, after advertisement, etc. as provided in ss. 338-365; (3) the town council passes the by-law (s. 373). Then negotiations begin with the county council; and, failing an agreement within three months as to terms and conditions, there is an arbitration, after which the county council has still the option of ratifying the basis of settlement fixed by the arbitrators, though the town council has no such option.

Secs. 28, 29, (1-3).

It is suggested as desirable, though not strictly in accordance with the language of the statute, that before any by-law for re-union with the county is submitted to the electors of the town, the matters referred to in subs. 3 shall have been agreed upon between the two councils, subject to approval by the electors of the town and subsequent ratification by by-laws of the two councils respectively, and that this provisional agreement should be set out in the by-law submitted by the town council to the electors under subs. 1.

(b) "The Registry Act," (R.S.O. c. 136) s. 86 (3) provides that

> "All by-laws, proclamations, Orders-in-Council and other instruments of a public, or quasi public nature whereby a village, town or city becomes incorporated, or the boundaries of any municipality are enlarged, diminished or in any way altered, shall be registered in the proper registry office by the municipality passing or procuring the same, and a copy of a by-law certified by the seal of the corporation and the signature of the chief officer and the Clerk thereof, and a copy of a proclamation, Order-in-Council or other instrument certified by the chief officer of the department from which the same is issued shall be sufficient proof for registration purposes under this section."

DIVISION II.—TOWNSHIPS (SECS. 29-37).

New township in territory not part of incorporated county may be attached to a county by proclamation.

29. In case a township is laid out by the Crown in territory forming no part of an incorporated county, the Lieutenant-Governor may, by proclamation, annex the township, or two or more of such townships lying adjacent to one another, to any adjacent incorporated county, and may erect the same into an incorporated union of townships with some other township of such county. 55 V. c. 42, s. 27.

Taken from the Act of 1858, 22 V. c. 99, s. 27: the last clause added in 1873 by 36 V. c. 48, s. 22.

(a) Formation of townships.—Section 13 of R. S. O. c. 3, entitled "An Act respecting the Territorial Division of Ontario for Municipal and Judicial purposes," provides that

> "Subject to the provisions of "The Municipal Act," the Lieutenant-Governor may, by Order in Council, issue a proclamation under the Great Seal of the Province, to have force of law from a day to be named therein, and thereby constitute Townships and Counties, and Unions of Townships and Counties in those parts of Ontario in which Townships and Counties, or Unions thereof, have not been constituted, and may fix the metes and boundaries thereof."

The provisions of this section as to the formation of unions of counties and townships are still applicable throughout the Province of Ontario, but as regards the creation of new townships they seem to be obsolete. The formation of new counties in the Districts of Muskoka and Parry Sound is regulated by R. S. O. c. 5. Sections 1-16 of R. S. O. c. 225, entitled "An Act respecting the establishment of Municipal Institutions in Territorial Districts," provide for the municipal organization of townships in the above Districts and also in Nipissing, Algoma, Manitoulin, Thunder Bay and Rainy River, and s. 64 for the union of two or more adjacent municipalities (either with or without additional area) and also for the annexation to any municipality of territory adjacent thereto.

Notes (a) (b) (a)-(d); (a)-(c).

The first step, however, towards constituting a township after it has been laid out on a map by the Crown Lands Department is its survey by a Government surveyor, who returns to the Department his plan and field-notes. A name is then given to the township by the Commissioner of Crown Lands, and it is entered upon the list of townships which are territorially part of the District. See the list of such townships in the Districts of Algoma, Manitoulin, Thunder Bay, Muskoka, Parry Sound, Rainy River and Nipissing, post, in the notes to R. S. O. c. 225. See also ante p. 30.

(b) "In case a township is laid out by the Crown." i.e., surveyed under the authority of the Commissioner of Crown Lands. See the preceding note. The procedure towards municipal organization is as therein set forth; but the provisions of this section may, perhaps, be still applicable, since, though suffered to lapse into "innocuous desuetude" they have never been repealed.

Junior township containing 100 freeholders, etc., may be separated from union.

30. When a junior township of an incorporated union of townships has 100 resident freeholders and tenants on the assessment roll as last finally revised and passed, such township shall, upon the 1st day of January next after the passing by the county council of the proper by-law in that behalf, become separated from the union. 55 V. c. 42, s. 28; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (11), See sec. 98.

Taken from the Act of 1878, 22 V. c. 99, s. 28. Compare 12 V. c. 81, s. 12, and 13-14 V. c. 84, s. 16.

(a) "Junior township." The order of the seniority of united townships is determined by the proclamation or by-law forming the union, (s. 35).

(b) "Assessment roll as finally revised." See s. 3.

(c) "Upon the first day of January." But for the purpose of municipal nominations, etc., the separation takes place on the last Monday in the preceding December. See s. 96.

(d) "Proper by-law." Sec. 98 makes it the duty of the county council to pass this by-law before October 31st. The by-law should name the returning officer who is to hold, and the place for holding the first election for the separated township (a). The date of the election is fixed by s. 96.

In what cases junior township containing 50 freeholders, etc., but less than 100, may be separated from union.

31.—(1) In case a junior township has at least 50, but less than 100 resident freeholders and tenants on the last revised assessment roll, and two-thirds of the resident freeholders and tenants of the township petition the council of the county to separate the township from the union to which it belongs: and in case the council considers the township to be so situated, with reference to streams or other natural obstructions that its inhabitants cannot conveniently be united with the inhabitants of an adjoining township for municipal purposes, the council may, by by-law, separate the same from the union; and the by-law shall name the returning officer who is to hold, and the place for holding, the first election.

Taken from 16 V. c. 181, s. 11.

(a) "Last revised assessment roll." See s. 3.

(b) "Two-thirds of the resident freeholders and tenants." It is probably intended that the last revised assessment roll should be the evidence as to the number and qualification of the petitioners.

(c) "Cannot conveniently continue to be." The section only applies where the township already forms part of a union.

(a) Secs. 31 (1), 98.

Secs. 31 (2), 32 (1, 2).

Notes (d)-(h); (a), (b).

(d) "The council may." The question whether a junior township having less than 100 resident freeholders and householders on its last revised assessment roll shall or shall not be separated from a union of townships is left entirely to the discretion of the county council. With this discretion, if exercised bonâ fide, the Courts will not interfere. See note (a) to s. 40 ante.

(e) "Shall name the returning officer who is to hold and the place for holding the first election." As to the date of the election, etc., see s. 96.

And attached to an adjoining municipality.

(2) In case two-thirds of the resident freeholders and tenants of one or more junior townships petition the council of the county to be separated from the union to which they belong, and to be attached to some other adjoining municipality, and in case the council consider that the interest and convenience of the inhabitants of the township or townships would be promoted thereby, they may, by by-law, separate the township or townships from the union, and attach the same to some other adjoining municipality. 55 V. c. 42, s. 29; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (11).

Taken from 31 V. c. 30, s. 4.

(f) "Two-thirds of the resident freeholders and tenants." See note (b) to the last subsection.

(g) "They may....separate." See note (d) to the preceding subsection.

(h) "Attach the same." Being junior townships, they have not yet the necessary number (s. 30) of resident freeholders and tenants to be formed into independent municipalities.

Disposition of property upon dissolution of union.

32. After the dissolution of a union of townships, the following shall be the disposition of the property of the union:

Taken from the Act of 1858, 22 V. c. 99, s. 60.

1. The real property of the union situate in the junior township, shall become the property of the junior township;

(a) By s. 13 the provisions of this section are also made applicable to the cases where a village is separated from a township, or where the area of a village is reduced under s. 18.

2. The real property of the union situate in the remaining township or townships of the union shall be the property of the remaining township or townships;

(b) "The real property of the union."

Real property.

The situation of the real property is made to govern its ownership. If in the junior township, it becomes the property of the junior township; if in the remaining township or townships, it becomes the property of such township or townships. This is the rule which was held by the Supreme Court of New York to apply to the division of a municipality in the absence of express provision to the contrary (a). As between municipalities, in the event of a dissolution of the union formerly existing, the situs of real property in general determines its ownership; but, as regards property other than real property, a different rule usually prevails.(b)

Other assets.

3. The two corporations shall be jointly interested in the other assets of the union, and the same shall be retained by the one, or shall be divided between both, or shall be otherwise disposed of, as they may agree.

(c) "The other assets of the union." The disposition of the real property is provided for in the preceding clauses. Its situs determines its ownership. But, as regards other assets, the disposition is necessarily made to depend on the agreement of the townships, unless clothed with a trust of some kind.(e)

Taxes and other expenses paid by a township during the union over and above its proper share may be taken into account in the arbitration.(d) So with regard to any unappropriated moneys received under the "Act respecting the Municipal Loan Fund Debts" (36 V. c. 47) on account of the moneys distributed under that Statute (e); and (probably) any money paid by the Crown to the union under "The Crown Timber Act" (R.S.O. c. 32), ss. 10-13, on account of dues collected in respect of timber or saw logs cut since April 30th, 1881, within either of the townships.

Arrangement as to property and debts.

4. The one shall pay or allow to the other, in respect of the said disposition of the real and personal property of the union, and in respect to the debts of the union, such sum or sums of money as may be just;

(d) "The debts of the union." In the case of the separation of part of a township and its erection into an incorporated village, the liability to assessment in respect of drainage, which had been done under "The Municipal Drainage Aid Act"(g), on the application of the township, but for which the assessment had not been completed, was held not a matter to be arbitrated upon as being a debt of the township to which the village ought to contribute, each corporation being bound by the Act to raise the amount assessed in respect of such drainage upon the land locally situated within it.(h) A by-law of the county of Oxford had granted a bonus of $50,000 to the Port Dover and L. H. R. W. Co., and authorized debentures of the county to be issued therefor, to be provided for by a rate levied on the town of Woodstock and the township of North Norwich. By 37 V. c. 57, s. 26, it was provided that the company should indemnify the township to the extent of $10,000 against any excess above two-fifths of the said debentures, and should give a bond securing such indemnity; which bond had been given. On the separation of the village of Norwich from the township of North Norwich, it was held that the liability of the township under this by-law was a debt of the township, and within the powers of the arbitrators under this section.(i)

(e) "As may be just." This has reference to more than a mere equalization of the assessment between the different municipalities.(j) So long as the townships remain united, they constitute one municipality, as much as the various wards of a city; but when united townships separate, there are matters which require adjustment, according to what is right and fair, between the parties. The division of the property and the settlement of liabilities are in the first instance, if possible, to be determined by mutual agreement. On the separation of three townships into two municipalities, the two corporations executed an instrument whereby one agreed to pay to the other a certain sum as soon as certain non resident rates theretofore imposed should become available. It was subsequently discovered that these rates had been illegally imposed, and that the fund would never be available. Its supposed existence had been an element in determining the amount to be paid. It was Held, that the corporation to which the money was made payable was not entitled to have the agreement reformed so as to make the money payable by the other absolutely.(k)

How to be determined in case of disagreement.

5. In case the councils of the townships do not, within three months after the first meeting of the council of the junior township, agree as to the disposition of the personal property of the union, or as to the sum to be paid by the one to the other, or as to the times of payment thereof, the matters in dispute shall be settled by arbitration under this Act;

Arbitration.

(f) "In case the councils . . do not . . agree." So far as the Act directs a distribution of property, its requirements must be strictly fulfilled. The corporations cannot of themselves make an arrangement contrary to the Act, but where the Act is silent as to the particular division of property or adjustment of assets, it is in the power of the corporation, by amicable arrangement, or through the medium of an arbitration, to adjust the same.(l) The duty of the arbitrators is to ascertain the assets of the union, real and personal; to dispose of the personal property as may be just; to make proper allowance for real estate to the township deprived of it by the separation, and for the personal property assigned to either municipality in excess of its share; and to ascertain and apportion th liabilities of the united townships. They should consider the value of the real property of the union in each township as an asset, and what allowance, if any, should be made by the township retaining it to the separating township.(m)

Amount settled to bear interest.

6. The amount so agreed upon or settled shall bear interest from the day on which the union was dissolved: and shall be provided for by the council of the indebted township like other debts. 55 V. c. 42, s. 30.

(g) "Shall bear interest." In the absence of an agreement to the contrary, the rate of interest would be six per cent. per annum. See sec. 2 of R. S. Ca. c. 127, entitled "An Act respecting Interest." This is also the rate of interest to be paid when a balance is found to be due from one county to another after a separation. See s. 48.

New townships, etc., to be united to adjacent townships, and how.

municipal purposes, to some adjacent incorporated township or union of townships in the same county or union of counties. 55 V. c. 42, s. 31.

(a) The provisions of this section seem now to be obsolete. See note (a) to s. 29.

Townships not incorporated or united may be formed into unions.

34. In case of there being at any time in an incorporated county or union of counties two or more adjacent townships not incorporated, and not belonging to an incorporated union of townships, and in case such adjacent townships have together not less than 100 resident freeholders and tenants within the same, the council of the county or union of counties may, by by-law, form such townships into an independent union of townships. 55 V. c. 42, s. 32; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (11).

Taken verbatim from the Act of 1850; 13-14 V. c. 64, s. 8. The reference to 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (11) is a mistake. The provisions contained in the section are apparently obsolete.

Seniority of united townships, how regulated.

35. Every proclamation or by-law forming a union of townships shall designate the order of seniority of the townships so united; and the townships of the union shall be classed in the by-law according to the relative number of freeholders and tenants on the last revised assessment roll; or if there is no such revised assessment roll for any of such townships, then the order of seniority shall be determined by the proclamation or by-law, as the Lieutenant-Governor or the county council may think fit. 55 V. c. 42, s. 33; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (11).

Taken from 13-14 V. c. 64, s. 8, (1850). Last clause ("or if there is no such revised assessment roll," etc.) added by 40 V. c. 8, s. 47 (1877).

Effect of dissolution of union of counties on united townships in different counties.

36. In case the united townships are in different counties the by-law shall cease to be in force whenever the union of the counties is dissolved. 55 V. c. 42, s. 34.

Taken from the Act of 1858, 22 V. c. 99, s. 3.

(a) The case contemplated by this section can arise only when the council of a union of counties has united two or more townships situated in different counties of the union. When this has been done, and the counties afterwards separate, provision is made for the separation of the united townships. The fact that the by-law is in such an event to "cease to be in force" restores the townships to the situation (as nearly as may be) in which they were before the by-law was passed.

Setting Apart Hamlets.

Setting apart unincorporated village and neighbourhood as a hamlet.

37.—(1) When any unincorporated village or settlement and its immediate neighbourhood lie wholly within the limits of a township, and when the residences of the inhabitants are, in the opinion of the council of the township, sufficiently near to each other to render the same desirable, the council of the township may, by by-law, upon the petition of a majority of the ratepayers within the area to be set off, one-half of whom shall be resident freeholders, set the unincorporated village or settlement and neighbourhood apart from the remaining portion of the township in which the same are situate as a hamlet, and with boundaries to be respectively defined and declared in the by-law, for the purposes hereinafter mentioned. 55 V. c. 42, s. 17 (1); 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (9)

Sec. 37 (1-3). Notes (a) (b).

(2) Except so far as may be inconsistent with the enactments of this section, all the powers given by this Act to the council of every township shall remain in force as respects the hamlet so set apart, and are hereby continued and extended to the council of the township wherein the hamlet so set apart is situate. 55 V. c. 42, s. 17 (2).

(a) This singular section was introduced in 1885 by 48 V. c. 39, s. 39. Under it a township council may apparently without any restriction as to population as in s. 11, or any prescribed proportion between population and area as in s. 12 create within its limits a sort of quasi-municipality or urbem in ruri, in respect of which it shall have "all the rights and powers conferred by this Act upon the councils of cities, towns and villages." The powers as to statute labour apparently conferred upon township councils by this section were, in reality, already exercisable (as to the entire township) under "The Consolidated Municipal Act, 1884," (46 V. c. 18, s. 521 (1-6), taken originally from the Act of 1858 (see note (d), infra). As to local improvements see note (e), infra. At present the only effect of the section is to authorize a township council to set apart an area within the municipality and to pass by-laws which shall be applicable solely thereto.

(b) "As a hamlet." The word "hamlet" is used also in 12 V. c. 81, s. 58, in 13-14 V. c. 64, s. 9 and in ss. 661 and 662 of this Act. It means "a little village (Cowel), "a cluster of houses in the country" (Imperial Dictionary).

(3) In addition to the powers given to the council of every township by this Act, the council of every township wherein a hamlet has been set apart under the provisions of this Act, shall, as respects such hamlet, have all the rights and powers conferred by this Act upon the councils of cities, towns and villages; (including the power to pass by-laws which shall apply exclusively and only to the hamlet so set apart) for the following purposes:—

Additional powers of township councils.

(a) To compel all persons (resident or non-resident) liable to statute labour within such hamlet, to compound for such labour at any sum not exceeding $1 for each day's labour, and to provide that such sum shall be paid in commutation of such statute labour, and to enforce the payment of such commutation in money in lieu of such statute labour; and for the purpose of enforcing such payment the like remedies may be had, and proceedings taken against the person in default, as are provided by sub-section 1 of section 107 of The Assessment Act, in cases of neglect or refusal to pay any sum for statute labour commuted under section 103 of The Assessment Act. 55 V. c. 42, s. 17 (3); 58 V. c. 42, s. 1; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (9): c. 3, s. 3.

Rev. Stat. c. 224.

(b) For all the purposes specified in sections 664 to 687 both inclusive of this Act.

Secs. 37 (4), 38.

Notes (c) (d)

(c) "All the rights and powers conferred by this Act upon the councils of cities towns and villages."

In "The Consolidated Municipal Act, 1892," (55 V. c. 42) these rights and powers were grouped together under Div. VI. of Title 1, Part 7, (ss. 490-504). They are now set out in ss. 532 (2), (4) 533 (2); 537 (6); 539 (2); 540 (5) (6); 541 (6); 542 (1-13); 545 (11); 548 (2) 549 (10); 553 (1), (3); 554 (2-4); 557 (1), (2); 559 (1), (3-5), (9); 562 (10); 566 (2); 574 (4); 575; 580; 581; 583 (1) (27) (28) and 586 (6) (10).

(d) "And may, for the following purposes, pass by-laws," etc. These are substantially the same powers in regard to the hamlet as the council already possessed in regard to the entire township under the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 90), s. 317 (1-5), and now possess under s. 561 of this Act and ss. 103, 104 and 107 of "The Assessment Act." See supra, note (a).

(e) Clause 3 (b). This clause might have been omitted. It is now wholly unnecessary; the powers referred to in these sections which formerly belonged only to cities (b), towns (c) and villages (d), having been extended in 1887 to township councils (e).

Uniting hamlets.

(4) Wherever in a township two or more hamlets which adjoin, or lie contiguous to each other, are so set apart as aforesaid, the council of the township shall have power to pass a by-law uniting such separate hamlets, so previously set apart, into one hamlet, whereupon the council shall have the same powers over, and relating to the united hamlets, as if the whole area embraced within the limits of the several hamlets so united had originally been set apart in one parcel under the provisions of this Act. 55 V. c. 42, s. 17 (4); 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. DIVISION III—COUNTIES, (SECS. 38-40).

[As to the formation of new counties, see also R. S. O. c. 3, s. 13, quoted in note (a) to s. 29, ante.]

New counties, how formed by proclamation, and how annexed or united.

38. The Lieutenant-Governor may, by proclamation, form into a new county any new townships not within the limits of an incorporated county, and may include in the new county one or more unincorporated townships or other adjacent unorganized territory (defining the limits thereof) not being within an incorporated county, and may annex the new county to any adjacent incorporated county; or in case there is no adjacent incorporated county; or in case the Lieutenant-Governor in Council considers the new county, or any number of such new counties lying adjacent to one another, and not belonging to any incorporated union, to be so situated that the inhabitants cannot conveniently be united with the inhabitants of an adjoining incorporated county for municipal purposes, the Lieutenant-Governor may, by the proclamation, erect the new county, or new adjacent counties, into an independent county or union of counties for the said purposes, and the proclamation shall name the new county or counties. 55 V. c. 42, s. 35.

Secs. 38-41 (1).

Taken from the Act of 1858, 22 V. c. 99, s. 35.

(a) As to "townships not within the limits of an incorporated county," the powers conferred upon the Lieutenant-Governor by this section and by R. S. O. c. 3, s. 13, appear never to have been exercised. The only counties incorporated since these sections became law are the Provisional County of Haliburton (formed in 1874 by proclamation under 37 V. c. 65, out of townships formerly within the limits of the incorporated counties of Peterborough and Victoria) (a), and the County of Dufferin (b), (formed by proclamation under 38 V. c. 31, out of townships previously within the limits of the counties of Grey, Simcoe and Wellington).

39. In every union of counties, the county in which the county court house and gaol are situate shall be the senior county; and the other county or counties of the union shall be the junior county or counties thereof. 55 V. c. 42, s. 36.

Seniority of united counties, how regulated.

Taken from the Act of 1849, 12 V. c. 78, s. 9.

(a) The seniority of united townships depends upon the relative number of assessed freeholders and tenants, (s. 35), that of united counties is determined by the situation of the court house and gaol.

40. During the union of counties, all laws applicable to counties (except as to representation in Parliament or the Legislative Assembly, and the registration of titles) shall apply to the union as if the same formed but one county. 55 V. c. 42, s. 37.

Laws applicable to union of counties.

Taken from the Act of 1849, 12 V. c. 78, (s. 8). Now apparently unnecessary, being covered by clause 3 of s. 2.

Division IV—PROVISIONAL COUNTY CORPORATIONS.

41.—(1) Where the census returns, taken under a statute, or under the authority of a by-law of the council of any united counties, shew that the junior county of the union contains 25,000 inhabitants or more, then if a majority of the members of the county council representing those county council divisions which constitute such junior county (including any county council division which takes in the larger part of any municipality in such junior county), do in the month of February, pass a resolution affirming the expediency of the junior county being separated from the union; and if, in the month of February following the next election of members of the county council, a majority of the said members of the county council representing those county council divisions which constitute such junior county (including any county council division which takes in the larger part of any municipality in such junior county), transmit to the Lieutenant-Governor in Council a petition for the separation; and if the Lieutenant-Governor deems the circumstances of the junior county such as to call for a separate establishment of Courts and other county institutions, he may by proclamation setting forth the facts, constitute the members of the county council representing those county council divisions which constitute such junior county (including any county council division which takes in the larger part of any municipality in such junior county), and the persons to be elected as hereinafter mentioned by the council of any separated town in the said county, a provisional council, and may in the proclamation appoint a time and place for the first meeting of the council, and may therein name one of its members to preside at the meeting, and may also therein determine the place for and the name of the county town. 55 V. c. 42, s. 38; 56 V. c. 35, s. 1: 59 V. c. 52, ss. 3, 5; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (12).

Appointment by proclamation of provisional council in junior county.

First meeting thereof.

County town.

Taken originally from the Act of 1849, (12 V. c. 78), s. 10. See 22 V. c. 99, s. 39.

(a) "Census returns." See s. 533 (1) and ante, s. 4, note (j) and s. 11, note (a).

(b) "Under a statute." See note (a) to s. 21.

(c) "Inhabitants." See note (a) to s. 5.

(d) "25,000." These figures were inserted in 1893 by 56 V. c. 35, s. 1. Originally the number of inhabitants required was 15,000 (12 V. c. 78, s. 10). It was increased to 17,000 by the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99), s. 39.

(e) "A majority of the county council representing." etc. These words were inserted in 1897 by 60 V. c. 15, Sched C. (12), instead of the words "a majority of the reeves and deputy-reeves of such county." Prior to 1896 (59 V. c. 52) county councils consisted of the reeves and deputy-reeves of the local municipalities situated in the county. See note (a) to s. 66.

(f) "In the month of February of the following year." The earlier Acts, 12 V. c. 78, s. 10, and 22 V. c. 99, s. 39, required that the resolution in favour of separation should be adopted by the representatives of the junior county in two successive years, and that the petition should be presented in the third year. This was altered by 29-30 V. c. 51, s. 39, so as to require that the resolution should be adopted in one year, and the petition presented in the next year. The Act in its present form secures the desired result—namely, the approval of the electors of the local municipalities proposed to be set off as an independent county by requiring that the petition shall be presented in the month of February following the next election of members of the county council.

(g) "And the persons to be elected . . . in the said county." These words (and also subs. 2 and 3) were added by 56 V. c. 35, s. 1 and 2.

(h) "In the proclamation appoint." etc. The 14-15 V. c. 64, s. 16 (1852), provided that:—

> "In case any such proclamation shall not contain any such appointment of time or place, or of a person to preside at such first meeting, and in all cases of the erection of such provisional municipal council by Act of Parliament, such time and place and such presiding officer as aforesaid shall and may be appointed by the High Sheriff of the united counties of which such junior county shall be one, by a warrant under his hand and seal directed to such town reeves and deputy-town reeves by their name of office, and published in the Official Gazette of this Province."

(2) In case the returns mentioned in the preceding subsection show that the junior county contains less than 25,000, but more than 17,000 inhabitants, then two-thirds in number of the members of the county council representing those county council divisions which constitute such junior county (including any county council division which takes in the larger part of any municipality in such junior county), may take the same proceedings for a separation from the union as a bare majority is empowered to take in cases provided for under the said preceding subsection. 56 V. c. 35, s. 2; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (12).

Where the junior county has less than 25,000 but more than 17,000 inhabitants.

(3) The council of every separated town situate in the said junior county, shall, at a meeting duly called for that purpose after the issue of the said proclamation and before the time therein appointed for holding the first meeting of the provisional council, elect from among their members two representatives to the said provisional council; and the persons so elected shall, until the final dissolution of the union by proclamation as hereinafter provided, be members of the provisional council in the same manner and to the same extent as any other members thereof. 56 V. c. 35, ss. 2, 3; 59 V. c. 52, s. 5.

Representation of separated towns in provisional council.

Sub-secs. 2 and 3 were added by 56 V. c. 35, s. 2 (1893). As to the amendment made by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (15) see note (c) supra. The reference to 59 V. c. 52, s. 5, is a mistake.

(d) "Two representatives to the said provisional council." The reason for allowing the separated town to be represented in the provisional council until the junior county is finally set off, is apparently because the provisional council is to provide for the new county court house and gaol, in which the separated town will thenceforward be interested. See ss. 502, 509, 514-517.

42. The member appointed by proclamation as in the preceding section provided, shall preside in the provisional council until a provisional warden has been elected by the council from among the members thereof. 55 V. c. 42, s. 39.

Who to preside.

Taken from 13-14 V. c. 64, s. 16 (1850).

(a) It is presumed that the procedure prescribed by ss. 261 and 263 of this Act upon the election of a warden will apply to this election. Sec. 262 cannot, of course, be applicable.

43. Every provisional council shall from time to time by by-law, appoint a provisional warden, a provisional treasurer, and such other provisional officers for the county as the council deem necessary. The provisional warden shall hold office for the municipal year for which he is elected, and the treasurer and other officers so appointed shall hold office until removed by the council. 55 V. c. 42, s. 40.

Appointment of provisional warden and other officers.

Terms of office.

Taken from the Act of 1849, (12 V. c. 78) s. 12.

(a) "By by-law." These words were added in the revision of 1877 (R. S. O. (1877) c. 174, s. 37) apparently ignoring the fact that the provisional warden holds office by virtue of his election; and that, in his case at least, a by-law is unnecessary.

(b) "Provisional treasurer." By virtue of this section and of s. 51, the provisional treasurer, unless removed by by-law of the council, becomes treasurer of the junior county after separation. The 12 V. c. 78, which provided for the separation of a junior county from a union of counties, also provided for the formation of provisional councils in the junior county until the separation should be perfected, and empowered the provisional council to raise money for certain purposes, (viz., the erection of a court house and gaol,) and to appoint a provisional treasurer whose duties were limited to the levying, collecting, and paying over of such moneys. By 13-14 V., c. 64, s. 12 (1850), it was provided that on the dissolution being perfected, and the new county formed, all the provisional officers were to continue officers of the new county until their successors were appointed, and all the by-laws were to remain in force until altered, amended or repealed. Under the first named Act, a provisional corporation passed a by-law appointing one P. treasurer, and the defendants became his sureties for the faithful execution of his office. On the formation of the new county, a by-law was passed repealing the by-law of the provisional corporation under which P. had been appointed treasurer, and they afterwards appointed him treasurer of the new county.

Provisional treasurer.

Held, that the defendants were not liable for P's acts as treasurer under such last-mentioned appointment.

Quære, whether, if the by-law had not been repealed, and P. had continued treasurer of the new county, defendants would have been liable (a).

Provisional council may acquire land, and erect thereon gaol and court house.

Taken from the Act of 1858, 122 V. c. 99, s. 44. Cf. 12 V. c. 78, s. 11-15.

(a) The erection of the court house and gaol and the settlement of the joint assets and liabilities between the junior and senior counties are the sole functions committed to the provisional council (b).

(b) "Acquire." i.e., by by-law. See s. 325. The power is limited to property "necessary" for the purpose. See also s. 266 and the note thereto.

(c) "At the county town." The provisional council has no power to erect the court house and gaol elsewhere than at the place fixed as the county town by the proclamation under s. 41 (1) last clause (c).

(d) "May erect." There should be a by-law of the provisional council authorizing the erection of the court house and gaol (d). See s. 500.

(e) "Statutory or other rules and regulations respecting such buildings." "The Prison and Asylum Inspection Act," (R. S. O. c. 321), s. 22, provides that:—

> "Every gaol erected in this Province shall be constructed and built according to a plan to be approved of by the inspector, and as sanctioned by the Lieutenant-Governor; and no gaol built after the 6th day of March, 1868, in any county in Ontario, otherwise than according to a plan approved and sanctioned as aforesaid, or that does not, after its completion, receive the approval of the inspector, shall be deemed to be in law the gaol of such county."

(d) In Keating v. District Council of Simcoe, 1 U. C. R. 28, and Pim v. County of Ontario, 9 C. P. 304, the defendants were held liable for the cost of building a court house and gaol although there had been no by-law authorizing the work, nor any contract under seal. But see now the cases referred to in note (cc) to s. 10 ("Executed Contracts") and note (b) to s. 500.

And s. 26 provides that :

"The provisions of this Act as to the inspection, construction, and repairing of gaols shall, so far as may be, apply to court houses."

Notes (e) (f); (a); (a) (b); (a).

(f) No provision is made by this section for the erection of a separate Registry Office. This is required only when counties are separated for judicial as well as for municipal purposes (e).

45. The powers of a provisional council shall not interfere with the powers of the council of the union, and any money raised by the provisional council in the junior county shall be independent of the money raised therein by the council of the union. 55 V. c. 42, s. 42.

Respective powers of provisional council and council of union.

Taken from the Territorial Divisions Act of 1849, (12 V. c. 78), s. 11.

(a) "Money raised by the provisional council." See note (a) to s. 44. Power to pass a by-law for acquiring land and for erecting buildings thereon necessarily involves power to raise money for these purposes. As to the manner in which the money so raised is to be collected and paid to the provisional treasurer, see s. 297.

46. After a provisional council has procured the necessary property, and has erected thereon the proper buildings for a court house and gaol, such council, and the council of the senior or remaining counties, may enter into an agreement for the settlement of their joint liabilities and the disposition of their joint assets (other than real estate), and for determining the balance or amount due by the one county to the other, and the times of payment thereof, and in determining the balance the senior or remaining counties shall assume the debts of the union, and the junior county shall be charged with such part thereof as may be just; and the value of the real estate, which upon the separation, becomes the property of the senior or junior county respectively, and any improvement effected by the union, of which either county gets the exclusive benefit, shall also be taken into account. 55 V. c. 42, s. 43.

Agreement upon dissolution as to joint liabilities and joint assets.

Senior county to assume debts of union.

Junior county to be charged with just proportion.

Taken from "The Con. Municipal Act of 1853," (36 V. c. 48) s. 9. Cf. 12 V. c. 78, s. 15; 22 V. c. 99, s. 46; 29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 46.

(a) "May enter into an agreement." These matters must be determined by arbitration if the councils do not agree. See s. 48.

(b) "Other than real estate." The disposition of real estate is determined, as in the case of separated townships (s. 32), by its situs. See s. 50.

47. No member of the provisional council shall vote or take part in the councils of the union on any question affecting such agreement, or the negotiation therefor. 55 V. c 42, s 44.

When provisional councillors shall not vote.

Taken from the Territorial Divisions Act of 1849, (12 V. c. 78), s. 15.

(a) The reason for this prohibition is plain. Though the members of the provisional council are also members of the council of the union, yet in this negotiation the matter lies between the provisional council on the one hand, and the council of the union on the other. The provisional council being for this purpose an independent and interested body, it follows that the interest of the union, which is virtually the interest of the senior or remaining county or counties, should be protected by the councillors of the senior or remaining county or counties. See ante, note (b) to s. 10.

Notes (a)-(c); (a).

In case of disagreement, disputes to be determined by arbitration.

Payment of amounts found due.

(c) "Shall be provided for like other debts." Namely, by annual estimates (s. 404), and assessments (s. 402).

Appointment of sheriff and other officials.

Taken from the Act of 1858, 22 V. c. 99, s. 49.

(a) "A Judge may be appointed." Section 96 of "The B. N. A. Act, 1867," provides for the appointment of Judges by the Governor-General. The other officers mentioned in this section are all appointed by the Provincial Government(a).

In Reg. v. Bush (b) on a motion to quash a conviction under "The Canada Temperance Act, 1878," by a Police Magistrate appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, it was contended that such an appointment could only be made by the Crown as represented by the Governor-General. But the Court unanimously refused to quash the conviction, holding that, although the Crown has the prerogative right to appoint J. P's within the Dominion of Canada, and each of its Provinces, it has derogated from that right by assenting to the B. N. A. Act, and that by s. 92 thereof (which provides that in each Province the Legislature may exclusively make laws in relation to matters coming within the classes of subjects next hereinafter enumerated, that is to say: 14. "The administration of justice in the Province, including the constitution, maintenance, and organization of Provincial Courts, both of civil and of criminal jurisdiction, and including procedure in civil matters in those courts)" the whole machinery of the administration of justice within the Province was placed within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Provincial Legislature, except (1) the appointment of judges, (reserved by s. 96 to the Governor-General),

50. After such appointments are made, the Lieutenant-Governor may, by proclamation, separate the junior county from the senior county or remaining counties, and shall declare such separation to take effect on a day to be named in the said proclamation; and on that day the Courts and officers of the union (including Justices of the Peace) shall cease to have any jurisdiction in the junior county; and the real property of the corporation of the union situate in the junior county shall become the property of the corporation of the junior county, and the real property situate in the remaining county or united counties shall be the property of the corporation of the remaining county or united counties; and the other assets belonging to the corporation of the union, shall belong to and be the property of the senior or junior county or union of counties respectively, as agreed upon at the separation; and if not otherwise disposed of by agreement or arbitration, they shall belong to and be the property of the senior county or union of counties 55 V. c. 42, s. 47; 60 V. c. 15, *Sched. Final separation of united counties by proclamation

Property, how divided.

(a) "On a day to be named in the proclamation." Until 1897 (d) the words were "On the first day of January next after the end of three months from the date of the proclamation."

(b) "The Courts and officers of the union, including Justices of the Peace, shall cease to have any jurisdiction in the junior county." The Act of 1849, (12 V., c. 78), s. 18, contained a provision almost identical, omitting, however, the words "including Justices of the Peace." Section 37 of the same Act provides that J. P.'s holding commissions in the different Districts of Upper Canada, from which judicial and other proceedings were by that Act transferred to the counties and unions of counties set forth in the Schedule should continue to hold, enjoy, and exercise the like commissions, office, authority, power and jurisdiction within the counties, or unions of counties to which such judicial and other proceedings were transferred, as if their respective commissions were expressed to be for such counties or unions of counties respectively.

Owing to the conflict between these two sections it was decided in McWhirter v. Corbett (e); that where the commission was granted for the Midland District, which included the county of Prince Edward and the united counties of Frontenac, Lennox, and Addington, the commissioner, resident in Frontenac, Lennox, and Addington, after the separation of Prince Edward, had authority to administer affidavits as in the united counties; in Glick v. Davidson (f), that a commissioner for taking affidavits in the District of Wellington might act under his commission in the County of Waterloo where he was living, it being part of the old district of Wellington, and being a junior county, disunited from the union of Wellington, Waterloo, and Grey; and in Fleming v. McNaughton, (g) that a commissioner for the district of Gore and Wellington might take affidavits in Galt, which was formerly in the Gore District.

Notes (b)-(d); (a)-(c).

On the other hand, it was held in Carson v. Sullivan, (b) that a commission granted to a person to take recognizances of bail within the Gore District did not empower him to take recognizances of bail in the county of Brant after its separation from the Gore District. The words "including justices of the peace," were added in 1873 by 36 V. c. 48, s. 43.

(c) The sale of lands in a junior county for taxes in arrear before the separation of a union of counties is provided for by "The Assessment Act" (R. S. O. c. 224), s. 177 (2). See the notes to that section.

(d) "And the other assets." The remainder of this section was added in 1869 by 32 Vict., c. 43, s. 18.

The clause of that section relating to the ownership of choses in action is omitted in the present Revision, having been superseded in 1872 by 35 V. c. 12, ss. 1, 2, now in its turn superseded by s. 58 (5) of "The Judicature Act," (R. S. O. c. 51).

Officers and property, etc., continued.

51.—(1) When a junior county is separated from a union of counties, the head and members of the provisional council of the junior county, (except the members of the provisional council elected by the council of any town separated from the county for municipal purposes), and the officers by-laws, contracts, property, assets and liabilities of the provisional corporation, shall be the head and members of the council, and the officers, by-laws, contracts, property, assets and liabilities of the new corporation. 55 V. c. 42, s. 48 (1); 56 V. c. 35, s. 3.

Taken from the Act of 1858, 22 V., c. 99, s. 58. Amended in 1893 (56 V. c. 35, s. 3) by adding the words in parentheses.

(a) After the duties of the provisional council under s. 41 have been fulfilled the representatives of separated towns are no longer to have any share in the government of the county: see note (a) to s. 41 (3).

Book of tax arrears to be delivered to treasurer.

(2) The treasurer of the senior county shall, upon being requested so to do, deliver to the treasurer of the new county the books relating to the municipalities within the new county required to be kept under section 164 of The Assessment Act. 55 V. c. 42, s. 48 (2).

Added in 1888 by 51 V. c. 28, s. 3. The books referred to are those containing the records of the lands in each township and village on which the taxes are in arrear.

Registered instruments and registry books.

(3) If a separate Registry Office is established for the junior county, i.e., if it is set off for judicial as well as for municipal purposes, (a) provision is made (b) for the delivery to the Registrar of the new county of the deeds, conveyances, wills, maps, registry books, and indexes relating exclusively to the separated county.

Execution and service of process in hands of sheriff at time of separation.

52.—(1) The dissolution of a union of counties shall not prevent the sheriff of any senior county from proceeding upon and completing the execution or service within the junior county of any writ of mesne or final process in his hands at the time of such separation, or of any renewal thereof, or of any subsequent or supplementary writ in the same cause, or, in the case of executions against lands, from executing all necessary deeds and conveyances relating to the same; and the acts of all such sheriffs in that behalf shall be and be held and construed to be legal and valid in the same manner and to the same extent as if no separation had taken place, but no further.

This sub-section was passed in 1864, (27-28 V., c. 37, s. 1) apparently to prevent such difficulties as had presented themselves in Ross v. Farewell, McPherson v. Farewell, and MacDonald v. Farewell, 5 C. P., p. 101. See R. S. O. 1887, c. 16, s. 41.

Execution of writs.

(2) This section shall not be held to authorize the sheriff of the senior county to execute within the new county any writ which is not in his hands at the time when the dissolution takes effect, unless such writ depends for its priority upon a former writ executed by such sheriff or in his hands at the said time.

Pending actions.

(3) All actions and proceedings in any Court which are pending at the date the establishment of the new county takes effect, may be prosecuted, continued and completed, and all writs of execution, and other process, and all acts and proceedings subsequent thereto, may (subject to any order to the contrary being made), be taken, issued, and had in the county in which such actions and proceedings were originally commenced, as fully and effectually as if the junior county had not been separated from the senior county; and (subject to the provisions of the next subsection), no writ or other process or proceeding shall lose its priority by reason of no entry thereof appearing or being in the proper office in that behalf in the new county; and all officers who would have had power or authority to execute such writ, process or proceedings, if the new county had not been formed, shall, for the purpose of all pending suits, actions and proceedings, have the same power and authority in respect of the same as if the dissolution had not taken place. 55 V. c. 42, s. 49 (1-3); R. S. O. 1887 c. 16, s. 44.

Continuation of writs in hands of sheriff at time of dissolution.

(4) No unsatisfied writ against lands or goods in the hands of the sheriff of the union on the day when the dissolution takes effect shall bind lands or goods situate within the limits of the new county, or have any effect upon such lands or goods after one year from the said day, unless the person entitled to the benefit of such unsatisfied writ, before the expiration of the said year, and before the expiry of the writ in the hands of the sheriff of the union as aforesaid, has placed a writ against lands or goods (as the case may require) in the hands of the sheriff of the new county, indorsed with a notice that priority is claimed by virtue of this Act; in which case so long as such last mentioned writ is in force he shall retain any priority which he then had by virtue of the writ in the hands of the sheriff of the union on the day of the dissolution thereof; and he shall, if so required by the sheriff of the new county, deliver to him a certificate under the hand of the sheriff of the union, showing the date of the delivery to him of such writ; which certificate the said sheriff of the union shall give upon request and on payment of his proper fees therefor. 55 V. c. 42, s. 49 (4); 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (14).

Division Courts.

Rev. Stat., c. 60.

(5) The Lieutenant-Governor may, in the proclamation establishing the new county, or in a subsequent proclamation, to take effect from a day to be named, fix and determine the number, limits and extent of the Division Courts of the new county, subject to be thereafter altered under the provisions of The Division Courts Act, and may by such proclamation direct that suits and proceedings which at the said day are pending or being in any Division Court therein specified, shall become suits or proceedings of any other Division Court therein specified, and thereupon such suits or proceedings may be continued in such last mentioned Court as if they had been commenced therein. 55 V. c. 42, s. 49 (5).

These subsections were added in 1888 by 51 V. c. 28, s. 4; but the provisions of subsection 4 have since then been further modified by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (14), so as to obviate the necessity of keeping alive two writs of fi. fa., the simpler procedure here prescribed being based upon that first suggested by s. 13 (2) of the Act 57 V. c. 33, by which Nipissing was erected into a Provisional Judicial District.

(a) Subsection 5. See ss. 15, 21 of "The Division Courts Act." (R. S. O. c. 60.)

Change of place of trial in actions, etc., after separation.

53. (1) If, upon a dissolution of a union of counties, there is pending an action, or other civil proceeding in which the county town of the union has been named as the place of trial, the Court in which the action or proceeding is pending, or any Judge who has authority to make orders therein, may, by consent of parties, or, on hearing the parties upon affidavit, order the place of trial to be changed, and all records and papers in the action of proceeding to be transmitted to the proper officers of the new county. 55 V. c. 42, s, 50.

If no order made, where proceedings to be carried on.

(2) In case no such change is directed, all such actions and proceedings shall be carried on and tried in the senior county 55 V. c 42, s. 52.

Place for holding courts in junior county

54. All Courts of the junior county required to be held at a place certain, shall be held in the county town of the junior county. 55 V. c. 42, s. 51.

Division V.—MATTERS CONSEQUENT UPON THE FORMATION OF NEW CORPORATIONS, (Secs. 55-65).

By-laws.

By-laws in force prior to formation of new corporation to continue in force until altered by council of new corporation.

Taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V., c. 99,) ss. 21 and 59. Cf. 14-15 V., c. 109, ss. 23, 24.

Secs. 55, 56. Notes (a) (b); (a).

(a) "Until repealed or altered by the council of the new corporation." The municipality of D. was made to include six townships formerly belonging to the municipality of N. D. which had passed a local option by-law. The enlarged municipality of D. repealed this by-law. Held, that they had power so to do, and that the two years which by R. S. Man. 1891, c. 99, s. 71 must elapse before a local option by-law can be repealed, must be counted from the time when it was made to apply to the territory affected by it (a)

When municipal boundaries altered.

(b) "But no such by-law shall be repealed or altered . . etc." Power to pass by-laws includes the power to alter or revoke them and to make others, (b) "it being the very raison d'être of a continuous legislative body that it should be able, by timely changes in the rules which it prescribes, to meet the exigency of each occasion which may arise." (c) In certain cases the assent of the Lieutenant-Governor (d) and in others that of the municipal electors, or some of them, (e) is required before a by-law can be passed by the Council. In such cases it is reasonable that the power to alter or repeal the by-law should be vested in the same authority by which alone it could be passed.

What by-laws council alone cannot repeal.

Under 29-30 V., c. 51, s. 249 (9), (f) the township of R. had, with the approval of the municipal electors thereof, passed a by-law totally prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors in shops and places other than houses of public entertainment within the township. While this by-law was in force the village of A. was incorporated and separated from the township of R. The village council—without submitting the same to a vote of the municipal electors—passed a by-law repealing the township by-law in so far as it affected the village municipality. The Court of C. P. quashed the village by-law, holding that 32 V., c. 32, s. 10 (substantially identical with R. S. O., c. 245, s. 42 (3)) was "sufficient to extend to every such by-law which, in order to give it validity, must be submitted to and approved by the electors." (g)

56. In case an addition is made to the limits of any municipality, the by-laws of the municipality shall extend to the additional limits, and the by-laws of the municipality from which the same has been detached shall cease to apply to the addition, except only by-laws relating to roads and streets, and these shall remain in force until repealed by by-laws of the municipality to which the addition has been made. 55 V. c. 42, s. 54.

What by-laws in force in extended limits of a municipality.

Taken verbatim from the Act of 1858, (22 V., c. 99,) s. 22.

(a) "Shall cease to apply to the addition." Lands of the Canada Southern R. W. Co. in the township of Sandwich West were, by a by-law of that township passed in 1882, exempted from any municipal assessment or tax for ten years; and the by law was confirmed by 47 V., c. 64. By proclamation of 5th Oct., 1888, issued by the Lieutenant-Governor under s. 22, (a) of "The Municipal Act," part of the township of Sandwich West was annexed to the town of Windsor. Held by the Court of Appeal (distinguishing Municipality of Cornwallis v. Canadian Pacific R. W. Co. 19 S. C. R. 702)—that assuming a water rate imposed by the Town of Windsor under 37 V., c. 79, to be a species of tax, the township by-law had ceased to apply to the lands annexed to the town, and their exemption from taxation was therefore at an end. Highway by-laws.

(b) "Except only by-laws relating to roads and streets." By-laws establishing public highways should of course remain in force; and probably this is what the draftsman of the section had chiefly in mind. The wording of the section as it stands, is however, wide enough to include not only by-laws under ss. 637, 638, 639, 640 (1) (4) (5) (7) (8), 647, (3) 657, 660 (2) (4), 664—690, but also by-laws passed under ss. 557 (1 4) and 559 (1) (3) (5) (7) (8) (9); and the section may possibly require amendment.

Debts and Liabilities.

Liability for debts existing at the time of dissolution.

Taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V., c. 99), ss. 23 & 61. Cf. 14 & 15 V., c. 109, ss. 18, 19 and 22. The 24 V., c. 39, which extended the provisions of ss. 57, 59, 60 & 61 to all cases where an incorporated village separates from the township in which it is situated, was repealed in the Consolidation of 1877. See R. S. O. 1877, Vol. II, Sched. A, p. 2277.

Examples.

(a) The united counties of York and Peel, notwithstanding their separation, were held to be jointly liable to the registrar of Peel for services rendered by him under secs. 26 and 32 of the Registry Act. (a)

In such case the action cannot properly be brought against one or two united counties without joining the other. (b)

A suit properly brought against three united counties was held to be properly continued against the three, notwithstanding a dissolution of the union. (c)

The same rule applies to school corporations. (d)

So in a Manitoba case where, after debentures had been issued by a school district in Manitoba, and while they were still outstanding, the boundaries of the district were several times altered until only a fraction of the original territory was left. The name of the district was also changed from "The Protestant School District of Donore" to the "School District of Donore No. 18, under the Public School Act of 1890." It was held that notwithstanding these changes the District was still liable upon the debentures. (e)

Adjustment of debts when limits extended.

58.—(1) After an addition has been made to a village, town or city by the annexation of an adjoining village or town, or of an adjoining portion of a township, the city, town or village whose limits have been so extended, shall pay to the township or county from which the additional territory has been taken, such part, if any, of the debts of the township or county as may be just, and shall be entitled to receive from and be paid by the said township or county the value of the interest which, at the time of making such addition, the added territory had in the property and assets of the township or county; and in case the councils do not, within three months after the first meeting of the council of the municipality to which the addition has been made, agree as to the sum to be paid or received as aforesaid, or as to the time of payment, the matter shall be settled by arbitration under this Act.

Taken from the Act of 1858, 22 V., c. 99, s. 34, which, however, contained no provision for any payment by the township or county from which the territory was taken, to the village, town, or city to which the annexation was made. See Re Township of Sarnia and Town of Sarnia, 1 O. R. 113. This omission was corrected, and the section recast in 1885 by 48 V., c. 39, s. 2, which inserted the words "and shall be entitled to receive from and be paid by the township the value of the interest," etc.

Powers to proceed with local improvements upon lands subsequently annexed to another municipality.

(2) Where any improvement, work or service coming under the provisions of The Municipal Drainage Act or of sections 664 to 687, 689 and 690, both inclusive, of this Act is undertaken by any municipal corporation, and, after such corporation has become liable for the carrying out of the same, the land to be specially benefited by any such improvement, work or service, or any part thereof, becomes and forms part of another municipality by incorporation, annexation, or otherwise under the provisions of this Act or of any special Act, the municipal corporation from which such land or any part thereof is taken shall have full power and authority, by themselves, their servants, workmen and agents, to proceed with any such improvement, work or service, to the completion thereof, and for such purpose to enter upon take and use any land lying within the limits of such new municipality, or within the limits of the territory added to such adjoining municipality, which is necessary to enable them to complete any such improvement, work or service; and they may take all such proceeidngs, pass all such by-laws, make all such special and other assessments, impose all special and other rates, issue and sell all such debentures, borrow all such moneys, and do all such other matters and things as are necessary to complete any such improvement, work or service, and to provide for the cost thereof in the same manner as if no such new municipality had been formed, or no such annexation of territory had been made. 55 V. c. 42 s. 56 (1-2).

Subs. 2-5 were added in 1880 by 53 V., c. 50, s. 3. The germ of subs. 2 may, however, be found in 14-15 V., c. 109, s. 20 (1851).

Municipality to which territory annexed to indemnify municipality under taking the work.

of sections 664 to 687, 689 and 690, both inclusive, of this Act to the extent to which the lands specially assessed therefor and lying within the territory taken from it, and included within the new municipality or added to the adjoining municipality, as the case may be, were specially assessed for the cost of the said improvement, work or service: and all debts incurred by a municipality for its share of the cost of any such improvement, work or service, shall be taken into account when taking and adjusting the accounts between it and the other municipality arising out of the formation of the new municipality or the addition of territory to such adjoining municipality. 55 V. c. 42, s. 56 (3); 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (15).

Where lands benefited afterwards become part of another municipality, latter to collect and pay whole debt.

(4) In any case where the lands specially assessed for the local improvement, work or service lie wholly within the new municipality when formed, or within the limits of the territory added to such adjoining municipality, the new municipality or the adjoining municipality, as the case may be, shall assume the entire debt created by any local improvement by-law passed by the council of the municipality to which such territory formerly belonged, and shall, (on being furnished by the clerk of the municipality which passed the by-law with a certified copy of the by-law, and of the special assessments in each year during the currency of the debentures issued pursuant to such by-law) collect the special rates imposed by such by-law as aforesaid, at the same time as all other taxes of said municipality are collected: and the treasurer thereof shall pay the interest on such debentures when and as the same falls due, and shall from time to time, as directed by resolution of the council of such new municipality or of the municipality to which such territory has been added, invest the sum set aside by said by-law for the purpose of paying said debentures at maturity thereof.

Where part only, each municipality in which lands situate to collect proportion of cost.

(5) Where part only of the lands specially benefited by and assessed for any such local improvement, work or service lie within the limits of the new municipalty, when formed, or within the limits of the addition made to any such adjoining municipality, the clerk of the municipality from which such lands have been taken shall furnish to the clerk of the new municipality or of the municipality to which the addition has been made, as the case may be, a certified copy of the by-law and of the special assessment: and from and after the receipt thereof, the corporation of the new municipality, or the municipality to which such addition has been made, as the case may be, shall, during each and every year during the currency of the debentures issued under such by-law, collect the special rates imposed by such by-law upon lands lying within their limits: and the treasurer thereof shall, as and so soon as the same are collected, pay over the amount thereof to the treasurer of the municipality to which such lands formerly belonged. 55 V. c. 42, s. 56 (4, 5).

Debentures to be issued for old debts, and to bind the old and new municipalities.

59. After the formation of a new corporation by the dissolution of a union of counties or townships, the council of the senior or remaining county or township shall issue its debentures or other obligations for any part of any debt contracted by the union for which debentures or other obligations might have been, but had not been, issued before the dissolution; and the debentures or obligations shall recite or state the liability of the junior county or township therefor under this Act; and the junior county or township shall be liable therefor as if the same had been issued by the union before the dissolution. 55 V. c. 42, s. 57.

In case the amount paid over as in the last preceding section provided, or paid to any creditor of the senior or remaining municipality, in respect of a liability of the former corporation, exceeds the sum which, by the agreement or award between the councils, the new corporation ought to pay, the excess may be recovered from the senior or remaining municipality as a debt due to the new municipality and bearing interest from the time of such payment. 55 V. c. 42, s. 59; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (16).

(a) The necessity for such a provision as this is shewn by Thompson v. McLean, 17 U. C. R. 495, where it was held that without such a provision the sureties of the sheriff of a union of counties were relieved from liability by reason of his becoming sheriff of one only of the (provisionally) united counties.

Effect of separation upon public officers and their sureties.

63. The separation of a junior county or township from a union of counties or townships shall not in any case or in any manner whatever affect the office, duty, power or responsibility of any public officer of the union who continues a public officer of the senior county or township or remaining counties or townships after such separation, or of the sureties of such officer or their liability, further than by limiting such office, duty, power, responsibility, suretyship and liability to the senior county or township, or to the remaining counties or townships. 55 V. c. 42, s. 61.

All sureties for such public officers shall be and remain liable, as if they had become the sureties for such public officers in respect only of such senior county or township, or of such remaining counties or townships; and all securities which have been given, shall after the separation, be read and construed as if they had been given only for the senior or remaining county or counties, or township or townships; but nothing herein contained shall affect the right to require new securities to be given by any sheriff or by any clerk, bailiff, or other public officer, under any statute, or otherwise howsoever. 55 V. c. 42, s. 63.

Synopsis:—This part of "The Municipal Act," declares who may and who may not be members of municipal councils in this Province. The arrangement of its sections is all that could be desired.

In Title I, county councils are first dealt with; then (in successive order) the councils of cities, towns, villages, townships and (lastly) those of provisional counties.

Division I, of Title II, declares what are the qualifications for membership in local and in county councils respectively; Division II, who are disqualified for, and Division III, who are exempt from service in these councils.

Municipal Councils in the Provinces of Canada. (a). Ontario.—In the Province of Ontario there are five classes of municipal councils, viz.—(I) County Councils, including under this name the councils of united counties, and those of provisional counties, (see s. 2, (1), (3), and ss. 5, 7, 8, 9); (II) City Councils; (III) Town Councils; (IV) Village Councils, and (V) Township Councils, including under this name the councils of unions of townships, (ss. 2 (14), 5, 9). The composition of the council in each of these cases is discussed in the notes to sections 67 and 70-75.

Quebec.—In the Province of Quebec the municipal councils are:—(I) County Councils, composed of the mayors of all the local municipalities in the county (b) and (II) Local Municipal Councils, classified as (A) country or rural, (B) village, and (C) town councils. (c) Each local municipal council consists of seven members elected annually (or appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor in case the usual annual election has not taken place) and holding their office for three years. Two councillors retire annually in each of two years and three in third year (d).

(d) Quebec Mun. Code, ss. 276-280.

Nova Scotia. In the Province of Nova Scotia, County (or District) Councils consist of one member elected from each polling district "as laid off for the election of members to serve in the General Assembly." (e) The composition of the councils of the cities and larger towns depends in most cases upon their special Statutes of incorporation (e.g. in the City of Halifax the municipal council consists of a mayor annually elected by general vote and eighteen aldermen elected for three years, six of them retiring annually. (f) Towns incorporated under 51 V. c. 1, (now consolidated by 58 V. c. 4, as "The Towns Incorporation Act"), are governed by a town council consisting of a mayor and six councillors, annually elected by general vote, the mayor for one and the councillors for two years, but three of the six councillors retiring annually. (g) There are no village or township councils.

New Brunswick. In the Province of New Brunswick there are no local municipal councils, the municipal affairs of each county being entrusted to a County Council composed of two councillors elected annually from each parish (h) - (a term which includes a city or town as well as a rural municipality) - except in the parishes of St. Stephen (which elects five county councillors) (i), Moncton (which elects three) (j), and St. John, where the council of the united city and county consists of twenty-six councillors, of whom ten represent the city of St. John, and six the town of Portland. (k)

P. E. Island. Prince Edward Island has no municipal organization except in the cities of Charlottetown and Summerside, which are incorporated by special statutes. (l)

Manitoba. Municipal corporations in Manitoba are: (1) Cities (2) Towns, (3) Villages, (4) Rural Municipalities. The council of a city consists of a mayor, annually elected, and two aldermen for each ward, elected for two years, one of whom retires annually. (m) Town councils consist of a mayor, and two councillors for each ward, annually elected, except in St. Boniface, where they are elected for two years, one of them retiring annually. (n) Village councils are annually elected, and consist of a mayor and four councillors, (o) and the councils of rural municipalities (also annually elected) of a reeve and such number of councillors as may be determined by by-law, not being less than four nor more than six in any rural municipality. (p) (q)

N. W. Territories. In the North-West Territories the councils of all municipalities are elected annually, and hold office for a single year. The council of a city consists of a mayor and ten aldermen (r); town councils of a mayor and six councillors, but if the population exceeds 3,000, the number of councillors may be increased to eight. (s) The council of each rural municipality consists of a reeve and four councillors. (t) There are no village councils.

British Columbia. In British Columbia there are two classes of municipalities. (1) Cities or Towns, which must contain at least 100 adult male British subjects resident within an area not exceeding 2,000 acres (u), and (2) Township or District municipalities, containing at least thirty adult male British subjects who have resided within the municipality for at least six months. (v) The councils of all municipalities are elected annually. Those of cities consist of a mayor and not less than five nor more than nine aldermen (w); those of township or district municipalities of a reeve and not less than four nor more than seven councillors. PART II.—MUNICIPAL COUNCILS, HOW COMPOSED.

DIVISION I.—IN COUNTIES, (SECS. 66-69.)

66. (1) County councils shall be composed as follows:—

(a) If the population of the county is 25,000 or less, of not less than 8 members nor more than 10 members.

County councils, how composed.

(b) If the population is more than 25,000 but less than 40,000, of not less than 10 members nor more than 12 members.

(c) If the population is 40,000 or more but less than 60,000, of not less than 12 members nor more than 14 members.

(d) If the population is 60,000 or more, of not less than 16 members nor more than 18 members. 59 V. c. 52, s. 2.

(2) The population of any county shall, for the purposes of this section, be ascertained by reference to the population of the local municipalities as shown by the last decennial census of the Dominion of Canada. 59 V. c. 52 s. 38.

Ascertaining population.

(3) Cities, towns and other municipalities separated from the county shall not be included in the computation of the population, nor shall the population of Indian reserves which are not organized as municipalities under this Act be so included. 59 V. c. 52, s. 4.

Separated municipalities and Indian reserves not to be included in computing population.

Taken from "The County Councils Act, 1896," 59 V., c. 52, ss. 2, 4, 38.

(a) The composition of County Councils. The changes effected by the Act of 1896 in the composition of county councils in Ontario were of a most extensive and important character. As has been already pointed out in the prefatory note on the "Development of Municipal Institutions in this Province," ante, p. 8, county councils were substituted by the Municipal Act of 1849 for the District Councils which had been established in 1841 by "The District Councils Act" (4 & 5 V. c. 10). The members of these District Councils had been chosen directly by and from the people, the ratepayers of each "township or reputed township" being entitled every year to elect to this council one representative or two, if the township had more than 300 inhabitant freeholders and householders on its last assessment roll. As to the powers of District Councils, see ante, p. 6.

The earlier legislation respecting county councils.

The Municipal Act of 1849 (s. 33) provided that each of the county councils thereby established should consist of "the town-reeves and deputy town-reeves of each of the several townships, villages and towns within the county," every town, village and township being entitled to be therein represented by its reeve, and the towns by a deputy-reeve also, if and when they had the names of 500 resident freeholders on the collector's roll.

The Act of 1858, (22 V., c. 99), s. 66 (3) (4), extended this last provision to townships and villages also, thus largely increasing the membership of the county councils; and a still longer step in the same direction was taken by the Act of 1866, (29 & 30 V., c. 51), s. 66 of which gave to every town, village, and township an additional deputy-reeve for each additional 500 electors on its roll. The result of this legislation, coupled with the multiplication in number of these municipalities throughout Ontario during the thirty years between 1866 and 1896, was, notwithstanding the separation for municipal purposes of some of the larger towns from the counties in which they were territorially

Secs. 66, 67 (1).

Note (a).

"The County Councils Act, 1896."

situate—to give to several of our county councils a membership even greater than that allowed to the Legislative Assemblies in some of the other Provinces. In the County of Simcoe, for example, the county council consisted of 58 members, in the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham, of 52,—in York, of 47,—in Middlesex, of 46,—in the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry of 43,—and in Hastings, of 39,—a representation involving an annual burden of expenditure for travelling expenses, printing, etc. which was rapidly becoming a serious factor in municipal finance.

The local and sectional character of the representation was, moreover, felt to be a distinct disadvantage, and there were complaints, not only that its basis was unequal, but also that in some county councils the members from rural municipalities were unfairly outnumbered by those representing villages and towns. Accordingly, in 1892 a bill was introduced by the Hon. Mr. HARDY to reduce the number of county councillors and to secure their election by a larger constituency, but—public opinion having proved unripe for such a measure—it was withdrawn. In 1896 it was re-introduced, with some amendments suggested during the intervening period, and passed into law as 59 V. c. 52. In this measure we have reverted to the original principle of "The District Councils Act" of 1841, viz., the election of county councillors directly by and from among the ratepayers. The right of minorities to a share in representation has been recognized, if not secured, by a provision that while each county council division shall be represented by two members (s. 67 (3)) and every elector shall have two votes, he may, if he chooses, give both of them to one of the candidates.(a) With a view to secure as candidates the best available men, to guarantee their independence, and to lessen the tendency to narrow sectionalism, the term of office of a county councillor has been lengthened to two years,(b) a complete separation has been effected between the local and county councils,(c) and the area and population of the constituency represented by each member of a county council have been much increased.(d) The list of County Council Divisions(e) shows how great a reduction has taken place in the membership of the county councils, at all events in the cases above referred to.

The determination, under ss. 28-35 of the Act, of the limits of the various County Council Divisions, which were, in each county, to be as nearly as possible equal, having regard to population, extent of territories, assessed value, and the boundaries of existing local municipalities (f), was—in order to eliminate so far as possible all danger of unfairness—entrusted in every case to a Commission selected from among the County Judges of other Counties; and provision was made for the re-adjustment, by an independent Board, of the boundaries of such Divisions as may be affected by the erection of new villages or the separation of towns from their existing relations to the county.

The result of the change seems, thus far, to have proved, on the whole, satisfactory.

County Council Divisions.

67.—(1) For the purposes of representation in the county council, each county shall be divided into divisions (which shall be known as "County Council Divisions,") as follows:—

County council Divisions.

(b) If the population is more than 25,000 but less than 40,000, into not less than 5 and not more than 6 divisions.

(c) If the population is 40,000 or more, but less than 60,000, into not less than 6 nor more than 7 divisions.

(d) And if the population is 60,000 or more, into not less than 8 nor more than 9 divisions. 59 V. c. 52, s. 3.

(2) The divisions established by the report of the Commissioners, appointed under the provisions of The County Councils Act. 1896, filed with the Provincial Secretary and with the several county clerks, pursuant to sections 32 and 33 of the said Act, shall constitute such county council divisions. See 59 V. c. 52, s. 33; 60 V. c. 45, s. 65.

59 V. c. 52.

Taken from 59 V. c. 52, s. 33, and 60 V. c. 45, s. 65—the latter of which simply validates and confirms the division of the county of Lennox and Addington made by County Judges Dean and Benson under a commission which (by error) specified the County of Lennox only.

(a) "The divisions established by the report of the Commissioners," etc, are shown in the list of the County Council Divisions of Ontario, which appears ante in the Prefatory Note at pp. 13 to 29, inclusive.

Two members for each division.

(3) Each division shall be designated and distinguished by its number (as, for example, the "First County Council Division,") and shall be represented in the county council by two members, who shall hold office for the term of two years, and until their successors are elected and sworn into office and the new county council is organized. 59 V. c. 52, s. 5, part; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (1?2).

Term of office.

(b) "Shall be designated . . . the 'First County Council Division,'" etc. There seems to be no authority for designating the County Council Divisions by fancy names such as "Highlands Division," "Simcoe Division," etc.

(c) "Until their successors are elected and sworn into office." The same provision is made in the case of local municipal councils, by s. 95.

Board to rearrange divisions.

68. The Judge of the County Court of the county, the Warden thereof and the Clerk of the Peace shall constitute a Board, whose duty it shall be, where a new village is erected, or a town is separated from the county or is erected into a city, or where a separated town is reunited to a county, and the arrangement into county council divisions is thereby disturbed, by their order to attach such village to some convenient county council division, or to rearrange the county council divisions affected, and, if necessary, the adjoining division or divisions; but in so doing the Board shall make only such changes as the altered circumstances require; or the said Board may (with the consent of the councils of the county and separated town) form the separated town (about to be reunited) into a division of the county council in addition to the present divisions, to be represented in proportion to population, one member being added for such town when the population thereof is less than any of the county council divisions, and two members being added for such town when the population is equal to that of any of the existing county council divisions. This arrangement shall continue only until a redistribution of the county council divisions shall take place by reason of

DIVISION II.—IN CITIES, (SEC. 70.)

City Councils.

70. The council of every city shall consist of the mayor, who shall be the head thereof, and three aldermen for every ward, to be elected in accordance with the provisions of this Act. 55 V. c. 42, s. 68.

(a) In the Prefatory Note, ante, p. 5, will be found some reference to the composition of the councils of the cities incorporated in this Province prior to 1849. Under s. 62 of the Act (12 V. c. 81) passed in that year, a city council consisted of one alderman and two councillors for each ward, a less property qualification being required in the case of a councillor than in that of an alderman. The mayor was chosen by the city council "from among the aldermen thereof." In the following year, (1850), a second alderman for each ward was added by 13-14 V. c. 64, Sched. A (15). The Act of 1858 (22 V. c. 99, s. 102), left the composition of city councils unaltered, but transferred to the municipal electors the right of electing the mayor. The Act of 1866 (29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 66) abolished the office of councillor, increased the number of aldermen to three for each ward, and restored (s. 105) to the council the right of choosing its own mayor. In the note appended to that section in the second Edition of this MANUAL (1867), the then Editor, Mr. R. A. (afterwards Chief Justice) HARRISON, says:

> "The return to the old system has become expedient in consequence of the deterioration of aldermen and mayors, since mayors became elective by the people at large from among the people at large. Not only did the old system in most cases fail to secure as good a man as formerly for the office of mayor, but leaving the election of mayors to the general body of electors destroyed the ambition of those who went into the council with the hope or the chance of becoming mayor, which had a dwarfing effect upon the whole body of aldermen. Now that any alderman is eligible to be elected mayor, and must be elected from among the aldermen and by the aldermen, it is believed that the general standing of city councils will be improved."

Mr. HARRISON's expectation that the general standing of city councils would be improved by the change in the law does not appear to have been realized, for in 1873—by 36 V. c. 48, s. 102—the privilege of electing the chief magistrate was once more taken away from the city councils and given to the general body of electors, in whom it has ever since been vested. In the case of the City of Toronto, under a special Act of 1891 (a) the council is composed of a mayor elected by general vote and four aldermen elected by and from each of the six city wards. (See small-print note to s. 103.)

DIVISION III.—IN TOWNS, (SECS. 71, 71*a*.)

Town Councils.

71.—(1) Subject to the provisions of section 71*a*, the council of every town shall consist of the mayor, who shall be the head thereof, and three councillors for each ward where there are less than five wards, or two councillors for each ward where there are five or more wards: provided always that the council of every town, where there are less than five wards, may, upon a petition of not less than 100 municipal electors, pass a by-law reducing the number of councillors for each ward to two; but such by-law, before the final passing thereof, shall receive the assent of the electors of the municipality in the manner provided for in section 338 and following sections of this Act. 55 V. c. 42, s. 69 (1); 62 V. (2nd Session) c. 26, s. 3.

Reduction of number of councillors.

Secs. 71 (2), 71 a.

Note (a).

When and how by-law reducing number of town councillors may be repealed.

(2) At any time after two annual municipal elections have been held under a by-law passed under this section, the council of the municipality, upon the presentation to them of a petition of not less than 100 resident municipal electors, asking the council to submit to a vote of the electors, in accordance with section 338 of this Act a by-law for the repeal of the by-law so passed, shall, without unnecessary delay, submit such repealing by-law to a vote of the electors of the municipality. The proceedings in regard to the submission of any such by-law, both as to its enactment and repeal, shall be as provided in this Act in regard to by-laws requiring the assent of the electors. 55 V. c. 42, s. 69.

(a) The composition of Town Councils in Ontario.—The ideal constitution of town councils has been even more frequently than that of city councils the subject of legislative experiment. Under the Act of 1849 (b) a town council consisted of three councillors from each ward, who at their first meeting elected from among themselves the mayor (s. 66), the reeve, and also (if there were 500 resident freeholders and householders on the collector's roll) a deputy-reeve (s. 77). By the Act of 1858 (c) the election of the mayor was taken from the council and entrusted to the rate-payers. In 1866 (d) the number of town councillors was reduced to two for each ward in towns having five wards, but was left at three for each ward in towns of less than five wards, and it was provided that but one councillor should retire annually in each ward; the representation of the town in the county council was increased by the addition of a deputy-reeve for every 500 persons appearing by the last revised assessment roll as having the same property qualification as voters,—viz., $800 freehold or $1,600 leasehold;—but the right to elect the reeve and deputy-reeves was transferred from the council to the ratepayers, and the right to elect the mayor from the ratepayers back to the council.

Earlier legislation as to Town Councils.

In the first Session after Confederation (1867) the number of councillors for each ward was increased to three in all cases, the proviso that only one of these should retire annually being retained (e); but this proviso was struck out two years later (f); and in 1871 (g) the number of councillors was reduced to two for each ward in towns having five or more wards. In 1873 (h) the right of electing the mayor was again taken from the town council and given back to the municipal electors, in whom it has ever since been vested. In 1880 (i) were added the proviso to subsection 1, and also subsection 2 of this section, which have been retained verbatim in the Consolidations of 1883, 1887, 1892, and 1897.

The change in the constitution of the county councils effected by the Act of 1896, (59 V. c. 52), made the titles of reeve and deputy-reeve merely titles of honour, and the Municipal Amendment Act of 1899 (62 V. (2), c. 26, s. 9), practically put an end to the office of deputy-reeve. See post, pp. 145-148, 988.

Councils in towns of 5,000 or less, how constituted.

71*a*.—(1) The council of every town having a population of not more than 5,000 by the last Canadian census shall consist of a mayor, who shall be the head thereof, and of six councillors to be elected by a general vote.

Division of town into wards.

(2) At any time after two annual elections have been held under the provisions of this section, the council of the town may, and upon the petition of twenty per cent. of the electors shall, at the time of holding an annual election, submit a by-law providing for the division of the town into wards. If the said by-law shall receive the assent of the majority of the electors voting thereon, one councillor shall thereafter, and so long as the said by-law shall remain in force, be annually elected by the electors of each ward, and the remaining councillors, to complete the full number of six, shall be elected as in sub-section 1 of this section is provided. The proceedings in regard to the submission of any such by-law, both as to its enactment and repeal, shall be as provided in this Act in regard to by-laws requiring the assent of the electors.

Abolition of wards.

(3) The council of any town having a population of more than 5,000 and the council of any city having a population of 15,000 or less may by by-law provide that the council of such town or city shall be composed of a mayor and one alderman for each 1,000 of population, to be elected by general vote, or of a mayor and six aldermen when the population is less than 6,000; but such by-law shall not come into force unless and until it has been first submitted to a vote of the electors according to the provisions in this Act in regard to by-laws requiring the assent of the electors. For purposes of this section, the population of any city or town shall be determined by the last census of the Dominion of Canada. The persons entitled to vote upon such by-law shall be those who are entitled to vote at municipal elections.

(4) This section shall apply to towns and cities above mentioned notwithstanding anything contained in any Act of incorporation or other Act. 61 V. c. 23, s. 2; 63 V. c. 33, s. 4 (1).

Part of s. 4 (1) of 63 V. c. 33 is merely temporary. It will be found post at p. 995.

Aldermen in cities of more than 15,000 may be elected by general vote, or where over 40,000 by general vote in two electoral divisions.

(4*a*) In any city having a population of more than 15,000, the council may by by-law provide that the aldermen shall be elected by a general vote of the municipal electors, and either by general vote or in two electoral divisions where the population exceeds 40,000, one-half the number to be elected by each division; but such by-law shall not come into force unless and until it has been first submitted to a vote of the electors according to the provisions of this Act with regard to by-laws requiring the assent of the electors. For the purposes of this section the population of any city shall be determined by the then last census of the Dominion of Canada. The persons entitled to vote upon such by-law shall be those who are entitled to vote at municipal elections, and if the submission of such by-law be desired by petition of at least 400 of such electors, it shall be submitted at the then next annual municipal election. If such by-law be carried by the votes of a majority of the municipal electors voting thereon, it shall come into effect at the next annual municipal election. Such by-law may be repealed by a by-law to be submitted to the electors at any annual municipal election held not later than five years after the passing of such first mentioned by-law, the repealing by-law to be submitted to the vote of the municipal electors if petitioned for by at least 400 of such electors. 63 V. c. 33, s. 4 (2).

Sub-s. (4*b*)—which is merely temporary—is printed post, at p. 995.

DIVISION IV.—IN VILLAGES, (SEC. 72).

72. The council of every village shall consist of one reeve, who shall be the head thereof, and four councillors, who shall be elected by a general vote. 55 V. c. 42, s. 70: 61 V. c. 23, s. 3. Village Councils.

(a) This section is here reprinted as amended in 1898 by 61 V. c. 23, s. 3. In "The Municipal Act," as printed in "The Revised Statutes, 1897," it read as follows:

> "72. The council of every village shall consist of one reeve, who shall be the head thereof, and four councillors; and if the village had, on the last revised voters' list, the names of 500 persons entitled to vote at municipal elections, then of a reeve, deputy-reeve and three councillors, and for every additional 500 names on such last revised voters' list, there shall be elected an additional deputy-reeve instead of a councillor."

The reasons for doing away with the office of deputy-reeve have already been given, ante, in note (a) to s. 66.

(b) "A reeve and four councillors." Ever since the Act of 1849, village councils have consisted of five members annually elected. Under that Act (a) the council elected its own reeve. The right to a deputy-reeve was granted by 22 V. c. 99, s. 66 (3) to every village having the names of 500 resident freeholders and householders on its last revised assessment roll; and by s. 135, this officer was (like the reeve,) to be chosen by the council. The Act of 1866 (b) gave an additional deputy-reeve for every additional 500 names on such roll of persons possessing the same property qualification as voters (viz. $600 worth of freehold or $1200 of leasehold); but it provided (s. 93) that the reeve and deputy-reeve as well as the councillors should be elected by general vote. See. s. 100 and note (a) thereto. As to the abolition of the office of "deputy-reeve" see note (a) to section 66.

DIVISION V.—IN TOWNSHIPS, (SECS. 73, 74).

73. The council of every township shall consist of a reeve, who shall be the head thereof, and four councillors who shall be elected by a general vote. 55 V. c. 42, s. 71; 61 V. c. 23, s. 4. Township Councils.

(a) This section is here reprinted as amended in 1898 by 61 V. c. 23, s. 4. In "The Municipal Act" as printed in "The Revised Statutes, 1897," it read as follows:—

> "73. The council of every township shall consist of a reeve, who shall be the head thereof, and four councillors, one councillor being elected for each ward where the township is divided into wards, and the reeve to be elected by a general vote; but if the township had, on the last revised voters' list, the names of 500 persons entitled to vote at municipal elections, then the council shall consist of a reeve, deputy-reeve, and three councillors, and for every 500 additional names on such last revised voters' list there shall be elected an additional deputy-reeve instead of a councillor."

(b) "A reeve . . . and four councillors." A township, like a village, council, has ever since 1849 (c) consisted of five members annually elected. At first the council chose its own reeve (d) and after 1858, (e) a deputy-reeve also, if the township was entitled thereto by having 500 freeholders and house-holders on the last revised assessment roll; but since the passing of the Act of 1866 (d) these officers—as well as the additional deputy-reeves authorized by s. 66 (5) of that Act—have been elected by the rate-payers. Under the Act of 1849, if the township was divided into wards, one member was elected from each ward, (e) the Act requiring that there should be five wards. (f) This was continued by the Act of 1858, (g) but altered by the Act of 1860 (h) which provided that the election of reeve, deputy-reeves, and councillors should in all cases be by general vote, "the intention being", says MR. HARRISON, (i) "to destroy that sectional strife about the expenditure of money which often arises where each councillor looks upon himself as the representative of a particular ward and not of the whole township." The election of the reeve by general vote has continued ever since; but the system of electing the other four members of the council by wards was restored in 1873, (j) the number of township wards (in case of a division) being fixed at four in all cases (k); but in the Act of 1898 (l) we have reverted to the method of electing councillors by a general vote, which was abandoned in 1873 after a seven years' trial.

How number of voters to be estimated.

74. In counting the names of voters referred to in section 71 the name of the same person shall not be counted more than once in any municipality, whether the name appears upon the voters' list only once or more than once. 55 V. c. 42, s. 65 (2); 61 V. c. 23, s. 5.

DIVISION VI.—IN PROVISIONAL COUNTIES, (SEC. 75)

Provisional County Councils.

75. The county councillors who represent the county council divisions constituting a junior county (including any county council division which takes in the larger part of any municipality in such junior county), shall, ex-officio, be the members of the provisional council of such junior county. 55 V. c. 42, s. 72; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (17).

Taken from 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (17). Cf. 13-14 V. c. 64, s. 12.

(a) This section, in its present form, is inconsistent with s. 41, supra, by which it is provided that the provisional council of a junior county upon its separation from a union of counties shall be constituted by a proclamation of the Lieutenant-Governor, and that it shall consist not only of the county councillors who represent the County Council Divisions which make up the junior county, but also of two representatives to be elected under s. 41 (3) by the council of each separated town situate within the junior county. The inconsistency would be removed if the word "the" at the end of the fourth line were struck out.

TITLE II.—QUALIFICATION, DISQUALIFICATION, AND EXEMPTIONS.

DIVISION I.—QUALIFICATION, (SECS. 76-79).

Qualification of mayors, aldermen, etc.

76.—(1) Except in the Districts of Muskoka, Parry Sound, Nipissing, Algoma, Thunder Bay, Manitoulin, Rainy River, and the Provisional County of Haliburton, no person shall be qualified to be elected a mayor, alderman, reeve, deputy-reeve, or councillor of any local municipality unless such person resides within the municipality, or within two miles thereof, and is a natural born or naturalized subject of Her Majesty, and a male of the full age of twenty-one years, and is not disqualified under this Act, and unless such person has, or his wife has, at the time of the election, as owner or tenant, a legal or equitable freehold or leasehold, or an estate partly freehold and partly leasehold, or partly legal and partly equitable, which is rated in his own name, or in the name of his wife, on the last revised assessment roll of the municipality, t at least the value following, over and above all charges, liens, and incumbrances affecting the same,

(a) In villages—Freehold to $200, or leasehold to $400;

(b) In towns—Freehold to $600, or leasehold to $1,200;

(c) In cities—Freehold to $1,000, or leasehold to $2,000;

(d) In townships—Freehold to $400, or leasehold to $800;

and in the said Districts and Provisional County,

(e) In townships and villages—Freehold to $100, or leasehold to $200;

(f) In towns—Freehold to $400, or leasehold to $800; and so in the same proportions in all municipalities, in case the property is partly freehold and partly leasehold;

For the sources from which the various portions of this section have been drawn, see the notes, infra.

(a) "Except in the Districts of Muskoka, etc." Taken from "The Municipal Amendment Act, 1892," (55 V., c. 43, s. 2. As to the qualification for municipal office in these Districts and in Haliburton, see post, in the notes to R. S. O., c. 225.

Residents.

(b) "Residents within the municipality or within two miles thereof." Taken from the Act of 1866 (29-30 V., c. 51), s. 70. The Act of 1858, (22 V., c. 99), s. 70, required that candidates for municipal office should be "residents of the county in which the municipality is situated"; but it was nevertheless held (a) that a person rated on the assessment roll of the city of Ottawa, but resident in the adjoining township of Nepean, was ineligible for election as an alderman of the city of Ottawa, although both municipalities are territorially in the same county. As to what constitutes "residence" see note (d) to s. 86.

(a) By BURNS, J., in Reg. ex rel. Blasdell v. Rochester, 7 U. C. L. J. 101 (1860). A similar decision was arrived at by DRAPER, C. J. in Reg. ex rel. Fleming v. Smith, 7 U. C. L. J. 66 (1861). See C. S. U. C. c. 3, s. 2 R. S. O. c. 3, s. 3.

Sec. 76. Sub-sec. 1. Notes (c)-(d).

(c) "Is a . . subject of Her Majesty . . of the full age of 21 years." Taken from 12 V., c. 81, s. 121. See note (c) to s. 86.

(d) "A male." First expressed in "The Consolidated Municipal Act, 1873," (36 V., c. 48) s. 71, but clearly implied in all the previous Municipal Acts. See note (a) to s. 86.

(e) "Is not disqualified under this Act." See s. 80 and the notes thereto. Sec. 207 specifies certain events which, (if they occur after the election,) may have the effect of vacating a seat in the council, but they are not causes of disqualification under this section (b).

(f) "Has, or his wife has." The words in italics were added in 1886 (c) in consequence of the decision in Reg. ex rel. Feltz v. Howland, 11 P. R. 264. It is necessary that the candidate, or his wife, should "have," i. e., should actually possess the freehold or leasehold estate at the time of the nomination, and also at the date of the polling (d).

(g) "At the time of the election." (e) Municipal elections begin with the nomination, and the disqualification of candidates has reference to that time (f). The qualification must exist not only at the time of the nomination, but also at the time of the polling (g).

(h) "As owner or tenant" (h). There can be no qualification on pure personalty, nor can the assessment on realty be supplemented by the assessment on personalty (i).

B. and A. were partners, occupying premises as co-tenants under a yearly tenancy on the terms of an expired lease. Before the nomination day they dissolved partnership, B. withdrawing from the business and premises and leaving A. in possession. A. shortly afterwards went into partnership with S. The new firm then took a fresh lease of the premises: Held, that B. was not at the time of the election, co-tenant of A., so as to entitle him to become a candidate for alderman (j). An Indian agent having the mere possession, determinable at any moment, of land held by the Crown in trust for the Indians, was held not to have such an interest in the land either as proprietor or tenant, as enabled him to qualify under this section (k). Nor the locatee of an unpatented lot (l).

defendant had, in November, 1858, conveyed the estate, which formed the subject matter of his qualification, to his father, for a consideration of £300, for which he took notes, and had in February, 1860, re-purchased the property, returning all the notes, though the father did not re-convey the property till the 3rd October, 1860, the son was held to have had at the time of the assessment an equitable estate within the meaning of the Act (p). See the preceding note (h).

(j) "Rated." (q) Property owned by the candidate, but not rated on the assessment roll cannot be made available (r) The fact that property is rated upon the assessment roll as freehold when it is not so in reality will not qualify a candidate, "The provisions of this section are wholly negative, i.e., 'No person' can be elected 'who is not' on the roll . . . It does not make the fact of being on the roll as freeholder &c., to a certain amount a conclusive qualification without regard to the truth of the case (s)."

(k) "In his own name." The rating should be by name on the roll. (t) Where on the assessment roll, under the general heading, "Names of taxable parties," were entered the names of "Ker, William and Henry," for two separate parcels of land, and in the proper columns were the letters "F." and "H.," and in the column headed "Owners and address," was entered opposite to the parcels of land, "Wm. Ker & Bros.;" Held, that William Ker and Henry Ker, were the persons in whose names the properties were rated, and that they were sufficiently rated. (u) An administrator, though rated in his own name for real estate belonging to the deceased, is not entitled to qualify upon such real estate (v).

No appeal was had therefrom. The nomination took place on the 27th December, 1880, and the defendant was elected Mayor of Ottawa on 4th January, 1881; Held, that the election commenced on the nomination day, and the assessment roll mentioned, which was to take effect in 1881, and not before, was not the last revised assessment roll at that time within the meaning of the by-law and of R.S.O. c. 180, sec. 44 (now Rev. Stat. c. 223, s. 76) and that the defendant could not qualify. (w)

But see now s. 53, ante.

Sec. 76, Sub-sec. 1. Notes (m)-(o).

Judges are in general disposed to go as far as the facts will allow for the purpose of reconciling the mode of rating with the facts, if the person elected has really a legal qualification. (b) Where a person elected as alderman of a city made a declaration of office, inadvertently qualifying upon property in respect of which he was not entitled to qualify, but was qualified in respect of other property, his election was sustained (c).

(m) "Over and above all charges, liens and incumbrances affecting the same." These words were added in 1880 by 43 V. c. 24, s. 2. Prior to the Statute of 1877 (d), by which the voters' list instead of the assessment roll (e) was made the criterion of the right to vote or to be a candidate at municipal elections (f) it had been held under the Acts of 1849, 1858, 1859 (g), 1866 and 1873, that the assessment roll was conclusive as to rating and qualification (h) that the existence of incumbrances affecting the value of the property appearing therein could not be considered, (i). In Reg. ex rel. Blakeley v. Cameron, 1 C.L.J.N.S. 188 (1865), MORRISON J. held (1) that the (assessed) property need not be free from incumbrances, but (2) that even if the existence of incumbrances could be considered, it was enough, if after deducting their gross amount from the assessed value of the property there remained a value sufficient to qualify the candidate. Nor, on the other hand, could any inquiry be had as to whether the candidate (a voter) was possessed of other assessable property in respect of which he might be held to be qualified (j).

And, since the above words were inserted in the section, it has been held that the assessment roll is still conclusive evidence as to value, and that the amount of the incumbrances (if there is any) must be deducted from the assessed, not from the actual value of the property (k).

In Reg. ex rel. Scarlett v. Wicks (1897), referred to in foot note (w) to the preceding note, it was held by Mr. Cartwright, Official Referee (sitting for the Master in Chambers), that unpaid local improvement rates, though not yet due, are "charges, liens, or incumbrances" within the meaning of the clause, under the authority of Cumberland v. Kearns, 18 O.R. 181; 17 A.R. 28 (1890); Re Graydon and Hammill, 20 O.R. 199 (1890); Armstrong v. Anger, 21 O.R. 98 (1891), and (what is now) s. 387 of "The Municipal Act." 54 V. c. 42, s. 35 (now s. 681 of "The Municipal Act") was not referred to, but it seems to apply only to questions between vendor and purchaser. See post, note (a) to s. 387.

(o) "Affecting the same." In Reg. ex rel. Ferris v. Speck (l) the respondent had been elected as a councillor for the village of Niagara Falls. He was duly rated upon the proper assessment roll as tenant of land thereon assessed for $800, which land with other land owned by the same landlord, (which it was admitted was of the value of at least $1,100) was incumbered by a mortgage of $800, having priority to the respondent's lease. Quo warranto proceedings having been taken in the County Court of Welland to unseat him for want of sufficient property qualification, the County Court Judge was of opinion that the mortgage should not be taken into account in ascertaining the value of the respondent's leasehold, as it was not a charge, lien, or incumbrance affecting it, within the meaning of the above words. Per MEREDITH, C. J.: "I am unable to say that this view is not the correct one . . . What was meant was that the leasehold interest itself should be the subject of the incumbrance, where the qualifying property is a leasehold interest, that is to say, an incumbrance created by the owner of the leasehold interest, that is to say, an it qua leasehold . . . The mortgage debt should be apportioned according to the respective values of the two properties included in it. In either case the respondent would be sufficiently qualified, even if the incumbrance be one within the provisions of this section; see Moore v. Overseers of Parish of Carisbrooke 12 C. B., 661; Barrow v. Backmaster, 12 C. B. 664. The appeal must be dismissed and with costs."

(p) "And so in the same proportions." i. e. enough to make up the required amount, counting every $1 of freehold as equivalent to $2 of leasehold. Different properties may be added together to make up the required amount (a).

But, if any such person is at time of election in actual occupation of any such freehold, rated in his own name or in the name of his wife on the last revised assessment roll of the municipality, he shall be entitled to be elected, if the value at which such freehold is actually rated in such assessment roll amounts to not less than $2,000; and for that purpose the said value shall not be affected or reduced by any lien, incumbrance or charge existing on or affecting such freehold. 55 V. c. 42, 73 (1): c. 43, s. 2; 60 V. c. 3, s. 3; 60 V. c. 45, s. 76.

This provision first became law as to townships in 1883, 46 V. c. 18, s. 73, part; was extended to villages in 1885 by 48 V. c. 39, s. 3, and to all municipalities in 1887 by 50 V. c. 29, s. 2.

(q) "Actual occupation." This does not necessarily mean exclusive occupation. When partners are in occupation of partnership property each is to be deemed to be in actual occupation of his interest therein. (a)

When alienation of property rated not to disqualify.

(2) No person who has, or whose wife has property duly rated on the last revised assessment roll, sufficient to qualify him, as in the preceding sub-section required, shall be deemed to be disqualified by the alienation by sale or otherwise of the said property, or by the expiration or surrender of the demised term between the date of the return of the assessment roll and the time of his election, if at the time of his election he is resident within the municipality and has, or his wife has, as owner or tenant, a legal or equitable freehold or leasehold, or a partly freehold and partly leasehold, or a partly legal and partly equitable estate of sufficient assessed value to qualify him for election under the preceding subsection.

Declaration of qualification in such cases.

(3) In case of the election of a person qualified under the preceding sub-section, the declaration of qualification under subsection 2 of section 311 of this Act may be taken, striking out all the words thereof after the word "occupation" in the thirteenth line of the said sub-section, and inserting in lieu thereof the words

"And I had such an estate actually rated on the last revised assessment roll of this municipality (naming it) at an amount not less than $2,000."

Subsecs. 2 and 3 were added in 1888 by 51 V., c. 28, s. 9. The words "or by the expiration or surrender of the demised term," in lines 5 and 6 of sub-s. 2, being inserted in 1892 by 55 V. c. 43, s. 3, in order to make clearer what had already been declared by BOYD, C. in Reg. ex rel. Chick v. Smith, 22 O.R. 279 (March, 1892) to be the intention of the subsection.

Secs. 76 (4, 5)-79.

Notes (r); (a).

Qualification of members of council where new territory added to village, town or city.

(4) Where territory has been added to a village, town or city, before a revised assessment roll of the municipality has been made which includes such added territory, it shall be sufficient if the required rating or part thereof is in respect of land or premises situate within the newly added territory on the last revised assessment roll of the municipality of which such added territory had before the addition formed part. 55 V. c. 42, s. 73 (2-4); c. 43, s. 3.

Added in 1890 by 53 V. c. 50, s. 4. See in s. 91 a somewhat similar provision as to the qualification of electors.

"Leasehold" defined.

(5) The term "leasehold" in this section shall not include a term less than a tenancy for a year, or from year to year: and the qualification of any person, where a qualification is required under this Act, may be of an estate either legal or equitable, or may be composed partly of each. 55 V. c. 42, s. 74.

The first part of this subsection is taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99, s. 70, the latter part from the Act of 1866, (29 & 30 V. c. 51) s. 70.

(r) "The qualification of any person . . . under this Act." As to municipal electors this provision is (perhaps unnecessarily) again expressed in s. 86. See note (i) to that section.

Qualification of County Councillors.

Members of county councils.

77. Every member of a county council shall possess the same property qualification as the reeve of a town is required to possess, and shall also be a resident of the county council division for which he is a county councillor. 59 V. c. 52, s. 5, part; s. 14, part.

Taken from "The County Councils Act, 1896," (59 V. c. 52), ss. 5 and 14. As to what constitutes residence, see note (1) to s. 86.

New Townships.

In new township not having assessment roll.

78. In the case of a new township erected by proclamation, and for which there has been no assessment roll, every person who, at the time of the first election, has such an interest in real property, and to such an amount as is mentioned in section 76 of this Act, shall be deemed to be possessed of a sufficient property qualification. 55 V. c. 42, s. 75.

Taken from the Act of 1858, 22 V. c. 99, s. 71. When the person elected makes the declaration required by s. 311 (1), post, he must thereby put a value upon the property.

If only one person qualified for each seat in the council.

79. In case in any municipality there are not at least two persons qualified to be elected for each seat in the council, no qualification beyond the qualification of an elector shall be necessary in the persons to be elected. 55 V. c. 42, s. 76.

Taken from 22 V. c. 99, s. 72. Cf. 14-15 V. c. 109, s. 17.

(a) "Qualified to be elected." Does this apply simply to qualification in respect of property, or does it include every other statutory qualification? It is apprehended that the words "must be construed in the larger sense, i.e., for the benefit and advantage of the whole body of electors; for if it should happen that all those who might be qualified as respects property were disqualified as respects interest or otherwise, the municipality could have no council if the inhabitants could not resort to the general body of electors for councillors." (a).

DIVISION II.—DISQUALIFICATION (SECS. 80-83).

Persons disqualified from being members of councils.

80.—(1) No Judge of any Court of civil jurisdiction, no gaoler or keeper of a house of correction, no sheriff, deputy sheriff, sheriff's bailiff, high bailiff or chief constable of any city or town, no assessor, collector, treasurer, or clerk of any municipality, no bailiff of any Division Court, no county Crown attorney, no registrar, no deputy clerk of the Crown, no clerk of the County Court, no clerk of the peace, no High School trustee, no innkeeper or saloonkeeper, or shopkeeper licensed to sell spirituous liquors by retail, no license commissioner or inspector of licenses, no police magistrate, and no person having by himself or his partner an interest in any contract with or on behalf of the corporation, or having a contract for the supply of goods or materials to a contractor for work for which the corporation pays or is liable directly or indirectly to pay, or which is subject to the control or supervision of the council or of an officer thereof on behalf of the council, or who has an unsatisfied claim for such goods or materials, and no person who either by himself or with or through another, has any claim, action or proceeding against the municipality, and no person who is counsel or solicitor either by himself or with or through another in the prosecution of any claim, action or proceeding against a municipality, shall be qualified to be a member of the council of any municipal corporation. 55 V. c. 42, s. 77 (1); 58 V. c. 42, s. 2.

Founded upon s. 132 of the Act of 1849 (12 V. c. 81). See note (a) infra. Cf s. 73 of the Act of 1858, and s. 73 of the Acts of 1866, 29-30 V. cc. 51 and 52 the latter of which disqualified all the persons enumerated in lines 1-5 inclusive and also every innkeeper, saloonkeeper, or person having by himself or his partner an interest in any contract with or on behalf of the corporation. County Crown Attorneys and the other officers mentioned in lines 6 and 7 were added in 1867 by 31 V. c. 30, s. 8. License Commissioners, Inspectors of Licenses and Police Magistrates in 1879 by 42 V. c. 31, s. 2, and High School Trustees in 1889 by 52 V. 36, s. 4. See note (f) infra as to the further amendment of the subsection made in 1895 by 58 V. c. 42, s. 2.

(a) The Act of 1849 (12 V., c. 81, s. 132), disqualified only (1) Judges of any Court of civil jurisdiction, (2) naval and military officers on full pay, (a) (3) Any person receiving any allowance from the municipality, except in the capacity of councillor or in capacities incidental thereto, and (4) Any person having by himself or partner any interest or share in any contract with or on behalf of the municipality.

Under this Act a Local Superintendent of Schools, appointed and paid by the county council, was held eligible for election as a township councillor (b). BURNS, J. says (p. 192):

> "The 132nd section of 12 V., c. 81, in saying 'no person receiving any allowance from the municipality' must be read reddendo singula singulis; it must be a direct receipt from the township, not so remote as receiving from the county treasury."

The Act of 1858 (c) added the words "no officer of any municipality," under which the mayor for the year still current was held not to be included. (d)

(a) Commissioned officers in the army on full pay are prohibited by s. 146 of "The Army Act," (Imp. Stat. 44 & 45 V. c. 58), from serving in any corporate office.

(b) Reg. ex rel. Arnott v. Merchant, 2 C. L. Chamb. 189 (1852).

Sec. 80.
Sub-sec. 1.

though in s. 278 he is called "the chief executive officer" of the corporation (e). Under the same words, however, an overseer of highways was held to be disqualified (f). Insolvency at the time of the election does not seem to be a disqualification. See s. 207 and note (e) to s. 76.

(b) "Clerk of any municipality." The disqualification applies to all municipal clerks,—thus differing from the words used in s. 73 of the Act of 1849, "receiving any allowance from the municipality" (g). Under the Act of 1896, (in which the language was the same as here), the county clerk of Lennox and Addington was held disqualified to sit as mayor of the town of Napanee (h). In the case of the clerk of the particular municipality, the reason for this disqualification is obvious (i). No one can exercise the functions of a returning officer and be at the same time a candidate in the election (j).

(c) "High School Trustee." "The High Schools Act" (k) provides that High School Trustees "shall hold office until their successors are appointed and the new Board is organized."

(d) "Inn-keeper or saloon-keeper or shop-keeper licensed to sell spirituous liquors by retail." An "innkeeper" is the owner of a house who holds out that he will receive all travellers and sojourners who are willing to pay a price adequate to the accommodation required (a). The disqualification under this section is not, however restricted to innkeepers. It extends to all saloon-keepers (b) and to shopkeepers who are licensed to sell spirituous liquors by retail (c). A man may be an innkeeper under this section, though without a license (d) or though he has taken out the license in the name of another (e) but an unlicensed person who, under colour of a license to his son, sells liquor by retail is not disqualified under this section (f). If a man, being an innkeeper, in good faith transfers his license, he ceases to be disqualified under the Act (g). The respondent and his brother, who were carrying on business as Booth Bros., had a license in the name of the firm to sell intoxicating liquors. Before the nomination, the defendant, with the consent of the license commissioners, transferred his interest in the license to his brother, but the business continued as before: Held, that a license cannot lawfully be transferred except in the cases mentioned in R. S. O. (1877) c. 194, s. 37, (h); that the consent of the commissioners did not validate the transfer, and therefore, that the defendant, who retained his interest in the license, was not qualified to be a councillor (i).

(e) The New Brunswick Liquor License Act (j) provided that in case of an application for a license, the petition must have endorsed upon it a certificate signed by one-third of the ratepayers in the polling subdivision in which the premises sought to be licensed are situate, and that no holder of a license in any municipality could be a member of the municipal council, a teacher in the public schools or a Justice of the Peace. Held, that these conditions could properly be imposed; and that they were not ultra vires of the Local Legislature as being prohibitory measures, by reason of the ratepayers being able to prevent any licenses being issued, nor any other measures in restraint of trade by affixing a stigma to the business of selling liquor (k).

(f) "Or having a contract for the supply of goods or materials to a contractor . . . and no person who . . . has any claim, action or proceeding against the municipality."

As to the latter portion of this clause see also the next note (g).

These words were added to the section in 1895 (a) in consequence of the facts elicited upon an investigation held by the Judge of the County Court of the County of York (b) into charges against certain aldermen of the City of Toronto. Prior thereto the clause in question had read, "And no person having by himself or his partner an interest in any contract with or on behalf of the corporation."(c) Under these words (used in the Act of 1866 (d)), it had been held that a baker, who for some time prior to his election had supplied bread to a city corporation for its gaol, was not disqualified from being elected as an alderman by reason of the fact that at the time of his election the contract for the supply of bread to the gaol was in the name of C. (theretofore an employee of the respondent), and that the bread, baked at the respondent's bakery, was delivered by him at the gaol free of any expense for conveyance. (e) Such cases will in future be clearly within the purview of this disqualifying clause.*

(f) Under the corresponding words in the English Municipal Corporations Acts (Imp. Stats. 5 & 6 Wm. IV. c. 76, s. 28; 45 & 46 V. c. 56, s. 12), "any share or interest in any contract or employment with, by, or on behalf of the council" it was decided that the mayor of a town was not disqualified by reason of his firm having supplied materials to the Local Board of Health (which consisted of the mayor, aldermen, and burgesses) (a).

But Le Feuvre v. Lankester can no longer be relied upon as a correct statement of the law under the English Act (b), later cases having given a much wider scope to the words above quoted; and the leaning of the Courts appears to be towards a strict interpretation of the subsection.(c).

A contract in which the defendant has a real interest, though it may be in the name of another, has always been within the scope of the Act (d), and, semble, it is not necessary that the contract should be one binding upon the corporation—as e.g., where the corporate seal was necessary and the contract

In Coughlan v. City of Victoria, 3 Brit. Col. L. R. 57 (1893) under "The British Columbia Municipal Act, 1892," s. 30 (10) of which disqualifies any member of the council who has "an interest in a contract with or for the municipality either directly or indirectly"—an alderman was held to be disqualified who had contracted to supply material to a contractor with the municipality. As to see now the R. S. B. C. (1897) c. 144. s. 19 (10).

was not under seal (e). So a surety to the municipality has been held to be disqualified (f); a mortgagor to the municipality (g); the part owner of a mill exempted from taxation by a by-law of the town (h); also a corporation lessor who retains any interest in the reversion (i), and a lessee from the corporation (j). But see, as to a lease of 21 years and upwards, the exception created by subsec. 2 (a) and the cases noted thereon. The Imp. Stat. 15 V. c. 5, s. 1 (1852) provided that the possession of a share or interest in a newspaper in which borough advertisements were inserted should not be a cause of disqualification, but there is no similar provision in Ontario, except so far as the case may come within the first of the exceptions named in subsec. 2.

Under a local Act (k) which provided that no person should be capable of acting as a commissioner, etc., who shall be interested in any contract for furnishing, supplying or selling any article, matter or thing to be employed or made use of for the purposes of the Act, it was Held, that a person who had contracted with former commissioners to sell a plot of land to be used for the purposes of the Act was not disqualified to be a commissioner, although the conveyance had still to be executed and the price paid (l).

(g) "Any claim . . . action or proceeding against the municipality." Under these words a person who had furnished, (for the erection of a school-house bricks which were to be paid for by setting off their price against yearly taxes) (a), and one who, in consideration of being allowed to build a dam and bridge across a river, had promised to keep it in repair for forty years (b) were held to be disqualified. So, if at the time of the election, there be a dispute between the candidate and the municipality arising out of a matter of contract (c) even if all the work was done and nothing remained but payment, (d)

A bona fide and complete assignment before the election, of all interest in or under the contract will remove the disqualification (e) but such transfer will not avail if any interest still remains in the candidate (f) nor, semble, a withdrawal therefrom not assented to by the corporation (g). But where the contract is really at an end and nothing remains to be done except the execution of a formal release, there is no disqualification (e); and it is apparently not enough to disqualify a person that he is the agent of a company which has a contract with the corporation. Thus, the agent of an insurance company, paid by salary or commission, who, both before and after the election, had, on behalf of his company, effected insurance on several public buildings, the property of the corporation, was held not to be disqualified. > "The prohibition seems to me to apply only to continuing contracts. . . . A single bargain e.g. if the commissioners bought a brush in a shop, would not disqualify the seller though the price had not been paid."

In Lewis v. Carr, (b) BRAMWELL, L. J., said (p. 490)

> "I doubt very much whether the Legislature intended these words to comprehend the case where there was a trifling dealing over the counter, and where the price paid for the articles was well known."

In Nutton v. Wilson, (c) LOPES, L. J., said (p. 749)

> "I express no opinion with regard to such very trifling matters as were suggested in the argument e.g., the purchase of a paint-brush or a few nails from a member of the Board. It may be that the maxim de minimis non curat lex would be applicable in such cases."

But in Neil v. Longbottom (d) it was held by a Divisional Court that the section of "The Municipal Act, 1882" (e) which disqualifies from being a councillor any person who "has . . . any share or interest in any contract" applies to a person appointed chemist to the council, however small may be the value of the contract.

(i) "Other causes of disqualification." Certain other statutory provisions relating to disqualification for municipal office should here be referred to e.g. gr. s. 162, which provides that any person against whom judgment is rendered for the penalty thereby imposed for voting twice for mayor, reeve or deputy reeve shall be ineligible as a candidate, etc., at the next annual municipal elections s. 196, which creates a disqualification for four years ss. 249, 418 (2) and 435 (2) each of which creates a disqualification for two years s. 251, which disqualifies until the penalty and costs therein referred to have been paid and s. 71 of "The Liquor License Act," (a) which provides that > "If a member of any municipal council is convicted of having knowingly committed any offence under this Act, he shall, in addition to any other penalty to which he may be liable under this Act, thereby forfeit and vacate his seat, and shall be ineligible to be elected or to sit or vote in any municipal council for two years thereafter; and if any such person, after the forfeiture aforesaid, sits or votes in any municipal council, he shall incur a penalty of $40 for every day he so sits or votes."

See also (as to the disqualification of army officers on full pay), note (a), supra referring to s. 146 of "The Army Act," (b)

(j) "Notice of disqualification." Notice of the disqualification of a candidate should be given as early and as widely as possible, and, at all events, in sufficient time to allow the electors an opportunity of nominating some one else who shall possess the necessary qualification.(c) If full and explicit notice of disqualification is thus given in due time(d), votes for the disqualified candidate will be thrown away(e), and the minority candidate will be entitled to the seat.

Sec. 80, Sub-sec. 1. Note (j).

It is true that in Reg. ex rel. Forward v. Dellor, JOHN WILSON, J., said (p. 198),

> "I do not think the relator should have the seat, for he waived his first protest by going to the polls. If a candidate claims to stand upon his rights, he must do so, and not waive them afterwards by going to the polls. He must elect his position and stand by it;"

and in Reg. ex rel. Adamson v. Boyd, the same learned Judge said (p. 214),

> "He (the relator) cannot be declared entitled to his seat if his conduct be equivocal, so as to mislead the electors. He cannot go to the polls, taking his chance of election, after deterring voters, and then fall back and claim his seat on grounds which, by going to the polls, he waived."

But in view of the English authorities(f) it would not be prudent to rely upon these dicta, or for a candidate who has, in due time given full and explicit notice to the electors of the disqualification of an opponent, to resign his candidature (under s. 129), especially where more than one candidate is to be elected. The notice must clearly apprise the electors that, if they vote for the disqualified candidate, their votes will be thrown away (g) and should make them aware of the facts constituting disqualification (h); but it is not necessary to give notice also of the law that such facts do disqualify (i). A notice has been held sufficient which stated that the candidate was "believed to be disqualified" (j). If the notice is not given in time (as above indicated) or is not clear and explicit, the minority candidate will not be entitled to the seat. (k)

The general principle is laid down in the case of Gosling v. Veley, 7 Q. B. 406, as follows: "Where the majority of electors vote for a disqualified person in ignorance of the fact of disqualification, the election may be void or voidable, and (in the latter case) may be capable of being made good according to the nature of the disqualification. The objection may [as in Drinkwater v. Deakin, L. R. 9 C. P. 626] require ulterior proceedings to be taken before some competent tribunal in order to be made available; or it may be such as to place the elected candidate on the same footing as if he had never existed and the votes for him were a nullity. . . . If the disqualification be of a sort whereof notice is to be presumed, none need expressly be given. No man can doubt that, if an elector would nominate and vote only for a woman to fill the office of mayor or burgess in Parliament, his vote would be thrown away. There the fact would be notorious, and every man would be presumed to know the law upon that fact." The same principle was cited with approval by Lord COLERIDGE, C. J., in Drinkwater v. Deakin, L. R. 9 C. P. 641, and by STEPHEN, J., in Beresford-Hope v. Lady Sandhurst, 23 Q. B. D. 85.

The notice may be in the following form:

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS, 19 .

"To the electors of the township of.....

"Take notice that Mr. A. B., a candidate for the office of..... at this election, is (here state the grounds of disqualification) and is (or 'is believed to be') therefore disqualified, and that all votes given for him will be thrown away.

The notice should be posted up in conspicuous places at or near every polling sub-division and, if possible, inserted in the local newspaper or newspapers. (l)

Proviso; as to shareholders in companies having dealings with corporations.

(2) But no person shall be held disqualified from being elected a member of the council of any municipal corporation,

(a) By reason of his being a shareholder in any incorporated company having dealings or contracts with the council of any such municipal corporation, or by reason of his having a lease for twenty one years or upwards, of any property from the corporation; but no such leaseholder shall vote in the council on any question affecting any lease from the corporation, and no such shareholder on any question affecting the company; 55 V. c. 42, s. 77 (2)

And lessees for 21 years from corporation.

(k) The exception in favour of shareholders in companies having dealings with the corporation was first made in 1864 by 27-28 V. c. 37, s. 2, the latter part of the section (relating to leases of corporation property) by the Act of 1866, (29-30 V. c. 51), s. 73. The law was formerly different on both points (a).

(l) "But no such shareholder shall vote." Where four out of five of the members of a village council were shareholders in an incorporated company in the village, and (notwithstanding their interest) voted for the submission to the electors of a by-law for a bonus to the company, and after the vote of the electors the council passed the by-law (b) it was set aside.

Exemption from taxation not to disqualify for election to councils.

(b) Or by reason only that a part of his property is exempt from taxation, if he is assessed for sufficient other property in the municipality, liable to taxation, to qualify him for such office; but no such person shall vote on any question affecting the property so exempt from taxation. 56 V. c. 35, s. 4.

Added in 1893 by 56 V. c. 35, s. 4, the last words of which were, "Nothing herein shall relieve a person having a contract with the municipality from the disqualification which now exists to be a member of the council thereof."

Note (m); (c).

(m) In Reg. ex rel. Harding v. Bennett (c), the facts were:—A city council had passed a by-law exempting from taxation, except as to school rates, for a period of seven years, the property of a partnership of the respondent, who had been elected an alderman. Held, that the exemption, not being founded on any contract, but being an exemption without a contract, (d) there was no disqualification. Reg. ex rel. Lee v. Gilmore (e), distinguished on that ground.

Per STREET, J.:—The words "exempt from taxation" mean exempt from payment of all taxes (f).

Held, also that the respondent was entitled to qualify upon his rating upon the assessment roll of 1895 as the joint owner of a freehold estate in the partnership property, he and his three partners being jointly rated for this property as freeholders to the amount of $10,000. [See also, on this point, note (k) supra, and note (a) to s. 93.]

Certain persons not qualified to be county councillors.

81. Any person having the necessary qualification, and not otherwise disqualified, who is a member of a local municipal council for the year in which nominations are held for the election of members of the county council, shall be eligible for nomination and election as a member of the county council at such election; but no member of the council of a local municipality shall sit or vote as a county councillor; and no clerk or treasurer of a county shall be eligible for nomination or election as a county councillor, or shall sit or vote in any county council. 59 V. c. 52, s. 6 part; 60 V. c. s. 3; 60 V. c. 45, s. 60, part.

As to the sources of this section, see the notes at the end of it. Its object, as well as that of s. 82, is evidently to secure the complete independence of county councils.

Additional ground of disqualification to county councils.

82. No person who has been nominated and is a candidate for election as a county councillor in any county council division shall, while he remains a candidate as aforesaid, be eligible for nomination or election as a member of the council of any local municipality. 60 V. c. 45, s. 60, part.

Contracts, etc., with Members of Councils.

Contracts by members with the corporation to be held void in any action thereon.

83. In case a member of the council of any municipality, either in his own name or in the name of another, and either alone or jointly with another, enters into a contract of any kind, or makes a purchase or sale in which the corporation is a party interested, the contract, purchase or sale shall be held void in any action thereon against the corporation. 55 V. c. 42, s. 431.

Taken from 22 V. c. 99, s. 218, (C. S. U. C. c. 54, s. 249) under which it was held that one B., a member of the municipal council of the Town of Peterborough, could not recover for services rendered by him to the corporation as attorney and solicitor (g).

to be issued under a future by-law of the city council, and having afterwards been an active party in procuring and giving effect to the by-law which was subsequently passed, the Court of Chancery held him to be a trustee for the city of the profit he had derived from the transaction (h). This decision was affirmed by the Court of Error and Appeal (i) and afterwards upheld by the Privy Council (j). So, where a member of a municipal corporation agreed with another person to take a contract from the corporation for the execution of certain works in the name of such person, the profits whereof were to be divided between the parties, it was held that such a contract was in contravention of the Municipal Act, and the Court of Chancery refused to enforce the agreement for a partnership (k). An action on a contract for the sale of goods by a trading partnership, a member of which is also a member of the municipal council, may, where the contract is not executed, be resisted on the ground that one of the plaintiffs is a member of the municipal council (l). An action will lie, by some of the inhabitants of a municipality alleging an illegal misapplication of municipal funds by the mayor, with which the council refused to interfere, though requested so to do (m).

Division III.—Exemptions (Sec. 84).

Exemptions.

84. All persons over sixty years of age, all members and officers of the Legislative Assembly of Ontario and of the Senate or House of Commons of Canada, all persons in the civil service of the Crown, all Judges not disqualified by section 80, all coroners, all persons in priests' orders, clergymen and ministers of the Gospel of every denomination, all members of the Law Society of Upper Canada, whether barristers or students, all solicitors in actual practice, all officers of Courts of Justice, all members of the medical profession whether physicians or surgeons, all professors, masters, teachers, and other members of any university, college, or school in Ontario, and all officers and servants thereof, all millers, and all firemen belonging to an authorized fire company—are exempt from being elected or appointed members of the council of any municipal corporation, or to any other municipal office. 55 V. c. 42, s. 78. See also as to firemen, c. 231, ss. 2-4.

Taken almost verbatim from 42 V, c. 81, s. 131.

(a) Section 80 contains the disqualifications, this section the exemptions. The difference between a disqualification and an exemption is, that a person disqualified cannot hold office, but a person exempt, even though qualified, need not. The one is an incapacity or disability; the other a privilege. It is an offence at common law for a person, without some legal ground of objection, to refuse to take upon himself an office to which he has been duly elected. So a qualified person duly elected refusing to accept office, may be summarily convicted and punished. See sec. 319, post.

TITLE I.—ELECTORS.

DIVISION I.—QUALIFICATION, (Secs. 85-93).

Synopsis: The important section of this Division is sec. 89, which provides that, except in a new municipality, for which there is no assessment roll, every person named on the voters' list, and no person not so named, shall be held to possess the necessary property qualification to entitle him to vote at a municipal election.

Sections 86-88 and 92-93—which specify in detail the qualifications of voters—belong rather to "The Voters' Lists Act" than to "The Municipal Act." They simply define the persons whose names the clerk is to place upon the alphabetical lists of the persons entitled to vote in the municipality at municipal elections. (a)

Sec. 91 is to be read with sec. 150, and sec. 90 with sec. 149.

Sec. 85 specifies who may vote at elections to a county council.

(a) See "The Voter's Lists Act," (R. S. O., c. 7), s. 6 (3).

Secs. 85, 86 (1).

Notes (a) (b); (a) (b).

Qualification of voters at elections of county councillors.

85. The persons qualified to vote at the elections of county councillors shall be the persons qualified to vote at the elections of members of the council of the local municipality and all local municipal clerks, and no others. 59 V. c. 52, s. 13, part.

Taken from 59 V. c. 52, s. 13, "The County Councils Act, 1896."

(a) "All local municipal clerks." But in a local municipal election, the clerk can only vote in the case of a tie (b).

(b) "And no others." Every person appointed by the county council (c) to act as "nominating officer" for a county council division is disqualified (d) to vote at an election held for the county council [illegible] for which he is so appointed.

This accords with the general rule that a returning officer shall not vote at an election, at all events, unless there is a equality of votes. See ss. 179 and 365 of this Act; "The Dominion Elections Act" (R. S. C. c. 8), s. 42 (2 a), and "The Ontario Election Act," (R. S. O. c. [illegible] ss. 6, 123.

Qualification of electors.

86.—(1) Subject to the provisions of the next following seven sections, the right of voting at municipal elections shall belong to the following persons, being men or unmarried women, or widows of the full age of twenty-one years, and subjects of Her Majesty by birth or naturalization, and being rated, to the amount hereinafter provided, on the revised assessment roll of the municipality upon which the voters' list used at the election is based, for real property held in their own right (or, in the case of married men, held by their wives), or for income, and having received no reward, and having no expectation of reward, for voting.

Women.

(a) "Men or unmarried women or widows." Until 1884 women could not vote at municipal elections (a); though they had been entitled ever since 1816, if they were freeholders or householders within the school-section, to vote at the election of, or to be elected as school trustees. (b) But by 47 V. c. 32, s. 3 the right of voting at municipal elections was extended to widows and unmarried women possessing the other qualifications required by law. In England (c) unmarried women and widows, if otherwise qualified, have a right to vote in the election of councillors, auditors, and assessors, but they lose that right by marriage, "The Married Women's Property Act, 1870," (d) having had no effect upon the political disabilities of married women at common law. (e)

Adults.

(b) "Of full age." This qualification has always been necessary. (a) Full age is twenty-one years, and is completed on the day preceding the anniversary of a person's birth. (b) If, therefore, one is born on 1st January, he is of age to do any legal act on the morning of the last day of December, though he may not have lived twenty-one years by nearly 48 hours. (c) Upon a question as to the age of a voter, the written memorandum of the clergyman who married the parents was held better evidence than the memory of individuals, unaccompanied by such memorandum. Note (c).

British subjects.

(c) "Subjects of Her Majesty." This qualification has also been necessary ever since 1849. See 12 V. c. 81, s. 121. It is to be presumed that resident and assessed inhabitants of this Province are British subjects until something is shewn to the contrary, from which it can be determined that they are aliens. (a) It is not sufficient for a relator to swear that certain voters are aliens, without giving particular facts to shew that they are aliens, and how aliens, as by having been born in a certain place named, out of the allegiance of the British Crown. (b) A person born in New York in 1830, the son of a British subject who had emigrated from Ireland a short time previously, and who, a year or two after the birth of this child, had come to Upper Canada, and resided here ever since, was held to be a British subject within the meaning of the Act. (c) But a person who was born in the United States before the Revolution and continued to reside there afterwards, was held to be an alien. (d) The son of a woman who (being a British subject) was married to an alien and was domiciled out of British possessions at the time of his birth, was held to be an alien. (e) But the son of a once naturalized alien continues to be a British subject notwithstanding the residence of his father beyond British allegiance. (f) A voter born in the United States, his parents being British-born subjects, his father and grandfather U. E. Loyalists, and himself nearly all his life resident in Canada: Held, entitled to vote. (g) An alien who came to Canada in 1850, and had taken the oath of allegiance in 1861, but had taken no proceedings to obtain a certificate of naturalization from the Court of Quarter Sessions was held not qualified to vote. (h) An alien whose father had taken the oath of allegiance on obtaining the patent for his land under 9 Geo. IV, c. 21., was held not qualified to vote. (i) Evidence that the parents of a voter had stated to him that he was born in the United States but that his father was born in Canada, was received and the vote held good. (j) Where evidence was given of parol admissions by certain voters that they had been born in a foreign country, and also evidence that since the admissions the voters had voted at parliamentary elections, and had taken the voters' oath as to being British subjects by birth or naturalization: Held, that there was no presumption of naturalization sufficiently strong to rebut the presumption of the continuance of the original status of alienage. (j) Certain aliens had taken the oath of allegiance, etc., before a Justice of the Peace of a town, but the oaths had been administered to them in a township, though in the same county: Held, that under the Act 34 V. c. 22, (Ca.) s. 2, the Justice of the Peace in administering the oaths was acting ministerially and not judicially, and that the oaths were properly administered. (k).

On objection taken to the status of an elector in quo warranto proceedings on the ground that as an alien he was not an elector (a), it was admitted that he had become a citizen of the United States, but he swore that he had returned to Canada and taken the oath of allegiance before a stipendiary magistrate. Held, that his admission that he had become naturalized in the United States cast upon him the onus of proving re-naturalization in Canada: and—it appearing that he had taken the oath of allegiance after July 4th, 1883, and had not obtained the certificate of naturalization required by ss. 11-21 of "The Naturalization Act" (b),—Held that he was not a British subject. (c).

(d) "Being rated." (e) When (as was formerly the case) the assessment roll was the test of a man's right to vote at a municipal election (f), it was held that the franchise was not to be lost to any one who was really entitled to vote, if his right could be sustained upon a reasonable view of the requirements of the Act. (g) So the rating was held sufficient where the surnames were correct, though the Christian names were erroneous. Thus "Wilson Wilson" for "William Wilson," "Simond Faulkner" for "Alexander Faulkner," "Thomas Sanderson" held idem sonans with "Thomas Anderson," so as to entitle the person bearing latter name to vote (h). Any error in assessing as owner, tenant or occupant, was immaterial if the voter was qualified in any of these characters. (i) When a voter, properly assessed, whose name was accidentally omitted from the voters' list for polling sub-division No. 1, where his property lay, and entered upon the voters' list for sub-division No. 2, voted without question in No. 1, though not on the list, the vote was held good. (j) A municipal council has, of course, no power to declare a qualification of voters different from that prescribed by this Act. (k).

(e) "To the amount hereinafter provided." See s. 87. As to how the amount shall be estimated in case the owner and occupant of real property are severally rated therefor, see s. 92; as to cases of joint rating, s. 93.

(f) "The revised assessment roll . . . upon which the voters' list . . . is based." See "The Voters' Lists Act" (R.S.O. c. 9), s. 6 (3). As to the case of a new municipality for which there is no separate assessment roll, see s. 90, and as to cases of new or enlarged corporations, s. 91. Now, however, it is the voters' list and not the assessment roll which determines the right of an elector to vote. See notes (m) and (n) to s. 76, and note (a) to s. 89.

(f) "For real property held, etc." (a) This includes the first two classes of voters enumerated infra, viz.: "freeholders" and "tenants"; and the word "held" is intended to cover either a freehold or a leasehold interest in land. When it was the assessment roll, and not the voters' list, which determined whether a ratepayer had the right to vote (b), it was held that he must not only be "rated" thereon, but must also at the time of the election, hold the property in respect of which he claimed to vote (c); and notwithstanding the legislation (d) intended to give finality to voters' lists, this appears still to be necessary. (e)

separate use free from any estate of her husband during her lifetime or as tenant by the curtesy." Property held in trust, (e.g., by an executor, administrator or guardian) would not be available as a qualification. (i)

(h) "Or for income." This franchise was created in 1874. (j)

(i) "And having received no reward, and having no expectation of reward for voting." This is amplified in the form of oath (k) as follows:

> "That you have not, directly or indirectly, received any reward or gift, nor do you expect to receive any, for the vote which you tender at this election;
> "That you have not received anything, nor has anything been promised you, directly or indirectly, either to induce you to vote at this election, or for loss of time, travelling expenses, hire of team, or any other service connected with this election."

The definition of "bribery" given in s. 245 (q. v.) is even wider than the terms of the oath; and see par. 8 of the income voters' oath, s. 114.

Freeholders.

Freeholders.

Firstly, All persons, whether resident or not, who are in their own right, or whose wives are, at the date of the election, freeholders of the municipality;

(j) "Whether resident or not." Residence within the municipality, and in towns and cities, within the ward, was required by the Acts of 1849 and 1851, (a) but ceased in 1858 (b) to be necessary in the case of freeholders.

"In their own right or whose wives are." This wording was adopted in 1887. (c) See supra, note (g).

As to the meaning of "residence," see note (l) infra.

Tenants.

Tenants.

Secondly, All residents of the municipality, who have resided therein for one month next before the election, and who are, or whose wives are, at the date of the election, tenants in the municipality:

(k) "Tenants." The word formerly used was "householders" (d); a "householder" being, in all the Municipal Acts until the present Consolidation, defined as a holder or occupant of a separate portion of a house having a distinct communication with a public road or street by an outer door. (e) The word "tenants" was added in 1867 (f) and is now substituted for the word "householders" the wording of this section being thus assimilated to that of sect. 13 (4) of "The Assessment Act." (g)

"Residents."

(l) "Residents." Questions have arisen under many English Statutes as to what constitutes residence, since the word "has a variety of meanings according to the Statute in which it is used." (h) In Rex v. North Cerey, (i) BAYLEY

J. says, "I take it that this word, where there is nothing to show that it is used in a more extended sense, denotes the place in which an individual eats, drinks and sleeps, or where his family or his servants eat, drink and sleep." See Stroud's "Judicial Dictionary," sub verb., "reside."

Residence, what constitutes.

"The proper meaning of the term 'residence' as used in relating to rating or voting has been discussed in numerous English authorities, which I have examined. No precise definition has been formulated, but rather the Courts have been anxious to point out that there may be shades of difference in the sense in which the word is used in different Acts. But in all the idea of a home and a sleeping apartment seems to be either expressed or implied. In a standard work on registration it is laid down that 'in order to constitute residence a party must possess at least a sleeping apartment;' and this statement seems to have received the approval of Chief Justice ERLE in Powell v. Guest, 18 C. B. N. S. 72." (j)

In the case of a married man the general maxim is "ubi uxor, ibi domus." (k) Occasional absence from home to attend to business in another municipality, does not make a man's home less his residence (l). Where A. had a dwelling-house at Bowmanville, where his wife and family lived, but owned a saw mill and store and was postmaster in the township of Cartwright, had occasion frequently to visit that place, and, while there, used to board with one of his men in a house owned by himself: Held, that after voting in Bowmanville he had no right to vote in Cartwright (m). During imprisonment a man cannot be said to have "resided" at his home within the meaning of s. 37 of "The Reform Act," Imp. Stat. 2 Wm. IV. c. 45 (n); nor did the occupation by a gaoler of free apartments in a county gaol constitute him "a householder" within the meaning of our Provincial Act 14 & 15 V. c. 109, Sched. A (12) (o). A merely colourable residence is in no case sufficient (p). There is no absolute rule for ascertaining when a party is a resident; it is a mixed question of law and fact to be determined in each case according to its circumstances (q).

Income Voters.

Income voters.

Thirdly. All residents of the municipality at the date of the election, who are rated on the last revised assessment roll thereof, in respect of an income from some trade, office, calling or profession, of not less than $400, and have received such income during the twelve months before the date of the final revision and correction of the assessment roll, or for twelve months prior to the last day for making complaint to the Farmers' Sons.

Farmers' sons.

Fourthly. All residents of the municipality at the date of the election, who are farmer's sons, and have resided in the municipality, on the farm of their father or mother, for twelve months next prior to the date of the final revision and correction of the assessment roll, or for twelve months prior to the last day for making complaint to the County Judge under "The Voters' Lists Act." 55 V. c. 42, s. 79 (1) part; 62 V. (2nd Session), c. 26, s. 8 (2).

(s) This franchise was conferred in 1877 by 40 V. c. 9, both for municipal elections and also for elections to the Legislative Assembly (t). As to the proper evidence of the dates with respect to which the period of residence is to be reckoned, see s. 156, post.

(t) "Residents." See note (l) supra.

When more than one son is resident.

(a) If more sons than one are so resident, and if the farm is not rated and assessed at an amount sufficient, if equally divided between them, to give a qualification to vote to the father and all the sons where the father is living, or to the sons alone where the father is dead and the mother is a widow, then the right to vote shall belong to, and be the right only of the father and the eldest or such of the elder of said sons, to whom the amount at which the farm is rated and assessed will, when equally divided between them, give the qualification to vote. 55 V. c. 42, s. 79 (2).

Where father living and assessment not sufficient to qualify more than one.

(t) See ante, p. 12 of the Prefatory Note.

(c) Occasional or temporary absence from the farm for a time or times not exceeding in the whole six months of the twelve hereinbefore mentioned, shall not operate to disentitle a farmers' son to vote. 55 V. c. 42, s. 79 (4); 57 V. c. 50, s. 2 (1). Temporary absence.

(2) In this section: Interpretation.

"Farm" shall mean land actually occupied by the owner thereof, and not less in quantity than twenty acres:

"Son" or "sons" or "farmer's sons" or "farmers' sons" shall mean any male person or persons not otherwise qualified to vote, and being the son or sons of the owner and actual occupant of a farm:

"Father" shall include stepfather:

"Election" shall mean an election of a member of a municipal council:

"To vote" shall mean to vote at an election, and

"Owner" shall mean a person who is proprietor in his own right, or whose wife is proprietor in her own right, of an estate for life, or any greater estate, either legal or equitable; except where the owner is a widow, in which case the word "owner" shall mean proprietor in her own right of any such estate. 55 V. c. 42, s. 79 (5), part.

Taken from 40 V. c. 9, as amended by 50 V. c. 8, Sched. p. 29, par. 6.

(u) "Owner." Since the word "owner" does not (up to this point) occur anywhere in the section, this legislative interpretation of it would seem to be unnecessary, especially as it has no application whatever to the next subsection, (3).

(3) Any leaseholder the term of whose lease is not less than five years, shall be deemed an owner within the meaning of this section. 55 V. c. 42, s. 79 (5), part: c. 43, s. 4.

87. In order to entitle a person to vote as aforesaid in respect of real property, such property, whether freehold or leasehold, or partly each, must be rated at an actual value of not less than the following: Amount of rating necessary.

In townships and villages	$100
In towns where the population does not exceed 3,000	$200
In towns with a population of over 3,000	$300
In cities	$400

The population shall be determined by reference to the latest annual enumeration by the assessors. 55 V. c. 42, s. 80; c. 43, s. 5; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (19).

Secs. 87-89.

Notes (b) (c); (a) (b).

(b) "Actual value." Until 1866 (a) property was rated for municipal purposes at its actual value in townships; but in cities, towns and villages at its annual value, which, in the case of realty, was declared to be a rack rent, and, in the case of personalty, 6 per cent upon its actual value (b). As to the mode of determining the actual value of property, see s. 28 of "The Assessment Act" (c).

(c) "Annual enumeration by the assessors." This probably refers to the enumeration annually made under ss. 13 and 15 of "The Assessment Act"; but see R.S.O. c. 8, s. 3 (1).

Persons in default for non-payment of taxes not to vote.

88. No person who has been returned by the treasurer or collector under section 137 as in default for non-payment of his taxes on or before the 14th day of December next preceding any election, shall be entitled to vote in respect of income in any municipality or in respect of real property in municipalities which have passed by laws under subsection 1 of section 635; but any person who is entitled to vote, and who at the time of the tendering of his vote produces and leaves with the deputy-returning officer a certificate from the treasurer of the municipality, or the collector of taxes, shewing that the taxes, in respect of which the default had been made, have since been paid, shall be entitled to vote; and the deputy-returning officer shall file the certificate, receive the vote and note the same on the defaulters' list. 55 V. c. 42, s. 81.

Taken from R. S. O. (1877), c. 174, s. 78, amended in 1887 as infra, note (b).

(b) "But any person who is entitled to vote." This part of the section was added in 1887 by 50 V. c. 29, s. 3.

Elector must be named in voters' list.

No question of qualification to be raised.

89. Except in the case of a new municipality for which there is no assessment roll, no person shall be entitled to vote at any election, unless he is one of the persons named or intended to be named in the proper list of voters; and no question of qualification shall be raised at any election, except to ascertain whether the person tendering his vote is the person intended to be designated in the list of voters. 55 V. c. 42, s. 82.

Sec. 89.

Note (a).

Prior to 1858.

(3) How the right to vote is determined. Under the law which governed municipal elections prior to the adoption therefor of voters' lists prepared under the provisions of the Voters' Lists Acts (a), the copy of the collector's roll, or of the assessment roll, which was furnished to each returning officer for use as a voters' list at the poll (b) was only "intended to be prima facie a guide for him at the election," and was "most certainly not conclusive upon the Judge when voters are objected to as not qualified to vote" (c). Where the returning officer had not been furnished with the list, but, notwithstanding this, proceeded with the election, it was Held, that this was an irregularity which rendered the election liable to be avoided if the objection were taken by one qualified to urge it, although it might not ipso facto render the election void. The acquiescence of the candidates in the election being proceeded with under these circumstances, though it might preclude them from disputing the validity of the election on that ground, could not affect the right of a voter who was no party to such an arrangement (d).

Under the Act of 1849 (e) it had been determined by BURNS, J.—and subsequently affirmed on appeal by the Court of Queen's Bench—that persons whose names, upon inquiry made by the returning officer, were found to be on the (original) collector's roll,—though omitted (accidentally or otherwise) from the verified copy thereof required to be furnished by the collector to the returning officer at the opening of the election,—were legally entitled to vote; but that persons whose names were on the copy so furnished, but not on the original roll, were not legally entitled to vote (f).

Under the Act of 1853 (g), it was held by Sir J. B. ROBINSON, C. J., (1) that an election could not be set aside because the returning officer had been supplied with no copy, or with an incorrect copy of the collector's roll, unless it was shown that the absence or inaccuracy of such roll had prejudiced the election, or that some candidate or voter had refused on that ground to proceed, and had relied upon the objection; and, (2), that it was no objection that the copy of the roll furnished to the returning officer was not verified as required by the statute—at least unless the exception was taken before or during the election, or some variance was shown to exist between the original and the copy used (h).

And where the returning officer had used the original collector's roll (instead of a copy as directed by the Statute),—having first announced that he intended to do so, and no objection having been made,—the Court of Q. B., following Reg. ex rel. Ritson v. Perry, refused to set aside the election (i).

Under the Act of 1858.

The assessment roll, which by the Assessment Acts of 1850 and 1851 (j) was made the basis of the collectors' roll (k) (and therefore of the list of voters supplied to each returning officer at an election) (l) was, under these Acts, considered to be "revised" when it had been finally passed by the Court of Revision and certified by the clerk as having been so passed. (m) The Assessment Amendment Act of 1853, (n) however, gave to this roll a new and more authoritative character by allowing a right of appeal from the Court of Revision to the County Judge—(a provision since continued in all the Assessment Acts down to the present time) (o)—and when the Municipal Act of 1858 (p) substituted for the list theretofore procured pro hac vice by the returning officer from the collectors' roll, a quasi-official voters' list to be prepared by the clerk of the municipality from the assessment roll as thus revised,—this voters' list—or, at all events, the assessment roll from which it was taken—seems to have been generally regarded as final in regard to the question of the property qualification of a voter. In Reg. ex rel. Anon v. Flynn, (q), upon the trial of a controverted municipal election case, evidence was offered to show that a person entered on the assessment roll as an owner, was in reality an occupant, and that of two persons appearing on the roll as householders, one was in fact a freeholder; but MACKENZIE, Co. J., rejected the evidence, saying (p. 77):

> "The right of municipal electors to vote rests upon the last revised assessment roll; and every returning officer is bound, in the reception or rejection of votes, by what appears on such roll, and has no right to resort to extrinsic evidence to explain, vary or contradict what appears thereon. . . . The Statute declares that the roll, as finally passed by the Court of Revision and the County Judge, "shall be valid and binding on all parties concerned." The assessment rolls . . . fix the basis of taxation and regulate and limit the right of voting at elections . . . They settle the value of the property assessed, and also the character in which a party is assessed—whether as owner, occupant or jointly with other persons (r). The returning officer is bound to receive or reject a vote according to what appears on the roll or the copy sent to him . . . In a scrutiny of votes, the Judge is bound by the same law, the same rules and the same restrictions as the returning officer at the election." [1]

After the Act of 1877.

In 1877 (s) the law was altered so as to make the voters' list, and not the assessment roll the ultimate criterion of the property qualification of an elector claiming the right to vote at a municipal election (t) thus assimilating the procedure to that which had already been adopted in elections to the Legislative Assembly. It was probably intended that such a list—which had thus been twice the subject of judicial scrutiny and certification—should be considered a finality, that the facts necessary to entitle a voter to have his name placed therein should be treated as res judicatae, and that,—provided he had taken the oaths prescribed by the Statute (v) or had voted without being required to take an oath—his property qualification was not to be questioned in any subsequent judicial proceeding.

In Provincial elections.

In elections to the Legislative Assembly this was undoubtedly the case, since by "The Voters' List Finality Act" (w) it was provided (with regard to Provincial elections) that

> "Every voters' list which under this Act is certified by the County Judge, shall, upon a scrutiny, be final and conclusive evidence of the right of all persons named therein to vote at any election at which such list was or could have been legally used; except
> 1. Persons guilty of corrupt practices at or in respect of the election in question on such scrutiny, or since the list was certified by the County Judge as aforesaid;
> 2. Persons who, at any time subsequently to the list being certified by the County Judge are or have been non-resident either within the municipality to which the list relates, or within the electoral district for which the election is held, and who by reason thereof are under the provisions of "The Ontario Election Act," incompetent and disentitled to vote;
> 3. Persons who, under sections 4 to 7 of "The Ontario Election Act" are disqualified and incompetent to vote. (x)

Notes (a); (a).

But in the absence of such a provision, the finality of the voters' list in the case of a Dominion election was doubted.(a)

Dominion elections.

As to municipal elections, however, the finality of the voters' list, as to the property qualification of an elector, has now been determined by judicial decision (b).

Municipal elections.

It is also to be noted that neither in the sections of "The Municipal Act" relating to polling at elections (c) nor in those which refer to the voting on by-laws (d) is there any provision corresponding to that which is contained in ss. 107-108 of "The Ontario Election Act," (e) which permit a duly qualified elector to mark a tendered ballot paper in case some other person has already voted in his stead or his name has been inadvertently omitted from the copy of the voters' list contained in the poll book delivered to the deputy-returning officer.

Tendered ballots.

90. At the first election in a new municipality for which there is no separate assessment roll, every resident male inhabitant, though not previously assessed, shall be entitled to vote if he possesses the other qualifications above mentioned, and has at the time of the election sufficient property to have entitled him to vote if he had been rated for such property. 55 V. c. 42, s. 83.

In newly erected municipalities not having any assessment roll.

(a) "The other qualifications above mentioned." This, it is apprehended, means that the voter must not be disqualified under ss. 80-82, must be able to take the prescribed oaths as to bribery and undue influence,(a) and must, either as a freeholder, tenant, income voter or farmer's son(b), possess the qualifications required by ss. 86-88 of a voter in the class to which he claims to belong except such as refer to being rated on the assessment roll, or named on the voters' list. See s. 149.

91. Where any territory is added for municipal purposes to any city, town or village, or where a town with additional territory is erected into a city, or a village with additional territory is erected into a town, or in case a new village is formed, and an election takes place before voters' lists including the names of the persons entitled to vote in such territory are made out for such new or enlarged city, town or village, or before such lists are certified by the County Judge, then all persons who would have been qualified as electors in such territory if the same had remained separate from the city, town or village, or if the town or village had not been erected into a city or town, or if the village had not been formed, shall be entitled to vote in the city, town or village at such election. 55 V. c. 42, s. 84.

Where new territory added to city, town or village, or a new city, town or village erected with added territory, and no voters' lists including such new territory.

Notes (a); (a).

(a) The necessity for s[illegible] as this section contains will be made apparent on reference to the language of ROBINSON, C. J., in Reg. ex rel. Carroll v. Beckwith,(a) and of ROSE, J., in Reg. ex rel. Taverner v. Willson.(b) No such provision was contained in the 36 V. c. 48, but the omission was afterwards supplied as to elections to the Legislative Assembly by 38 V. c. 3, ss. 16, 17 and the section was first incorporated into "The Municipal Act" as s. 81 of R. S. O. (1877), c. 174. See as to the cases referred to, ss. 16, 19, 21, 24 and 26. The mode of establishing the right secured by this section to electors under the circumstances therein mentioned, is pointed out by s. 150.

If owner and occupant severally rated both to be deemed rated.

92. In case both the owner and occupant of any real property are severally but not jointly rated therefor, both shall be deemed rated within this Act. 55 V. c. 42, s. 85.

Taken from 14 & 15 V. c. 109, Sched. A (1).

(a) Each may vote in respect of his interest, when rated severally, the one as proprietor (if a freeholder) the other as tenant.(a)

When joint owners or occupants rated rating to be equally divided.

93. Where real property is owned or occupied jointly by two or more persons, and is rated at an amount sufficient, if equally divided between them, to give a qualification to each, then each shall be deemed rated within this Act, otherwise none of them shall be deemed so rated. 55 V. c. 42, s. 86.

Taken from 14-15 V. c. 109, Sched. A (4). See "The Assessment Act," (R. S. O., c. 224) s. 25 (1), (2).

(a) This applies to the case of joint owners—e. g. partners or joint tenants. If the rating is for an amount sufficient to give a qualification to each, then each is to be deemed rated within the meaning of the section (a). The section apparently applies as much to candidates as to electors, though placed under the head of "Electors." (b) Where one of two partners, jointly interested in a property as co-tenants under a yearly tenancy, left the partnership before the day of nomination, and a new lease was afterwards granted to the remaining partner and a new partner, the retiring partner was held not to be qualified (c).

DIVISION I.—TIME AND PLACE OF HOLDING ELECTIONS. (SECS. 94-105).

Synopsis: These sections provide that a county council shall be elected every second year (sec. 94) and a local municipal council annually (sec. 95). The time for holding elections in new or altered municipalities is fixed by secs. 96-98, while secs. 99-100 specify two cases in which township elections shall be by general vote. Sec. 101 is (probably) superseded by 61 V. c. 23, s. 4, and the re-division of a city or town into wards is provided for by secs. 102-103.

Sec. 104 requires that every election shall be held within the municipality to which the same relates—but this, (as pointed out in the note thereto,) is subject to the provisions of sec. 123. Sec. 105 forbids the holding of any election in any tavern or house of public entertainment licensed to sell spirituous liquors.

Election of county councillors to be held in alternate years.

94. The election of county councillors shall be held in alternate years, but upon the days and at the time fixed by law

For the sources of this section, see the references appended thereto.

(a) "Upon the days . . fixed by law for the annual municipal elections . ." i. e. the first Monday in January (s. 95). Ss. 132-3 provide that the nomination of candidates for membership in the county council shall be held between 1 and 2 p. m. on the Monday two weeks before polling day, at such place within the county council division as may be fixed by the nominating officer.

95. The electors of every municipality (except a county) shall elect annually, on the first Monday in January, the members of the council of the municipality, except such members as have been elected at the nomination; and the persons so elected shall hold office until their successors are elected or appointed or sworn into office, and the new council is organized. 55 V. c. 42, s. 88.

Elections for local councils, to be held annually.

Term of office.

Taken from the Act of 1873 (36 V. c. 48), s. 85. Cf. 12 V. c. 81, ss. 21, 23, 53, 62, 63, 83; 22 V. c. 99, s. 86; 29 & 30 V. c. 51, ss. 87, 88, 89, 105; 33 V. c. 26, ss. 1, 2.

(a) "And the persons so elected shall hold office . . ." These words first occur in the Act of 1858. (a) Under the Act of 1849 (b) township councillors held office until the third Monday in January of the year next after their election; but in the cases of city, town, and village councillors, no term of office was specified.

(b) "Or appointed." See s. 218.

96. In case of the incorporation of a new township or union of townships; or of the separation of a junior township from a union of townships; or of the erection of a locality into an incorporated village; or of the erection of a village into a town, or of a town into a city; or of a tract of land being added to a village, town or city; or in case of a new division into wards of a town or city—the first election, under the proclamation or by-law by which the change was effected, shall take place on the first Monday in January next after the date of the proclamation, or after the passing of the by-law by which the change is made; but the nomination of candidates, and the election of such as are unopposed, may, and shall be proceeded with at the same time and in the same manner as if the change had gone into effect on the last Monday of the month of December preceding such first election, or on such other day as the nominations may lawfully be held upon. 55 V. c. 42, s. 89.

First elections where corporations are newly erected or extended.

Times of elections.

Taken from the Act of 1858 (22 V. c. 99), s. 82. See as to the case of a new union of townships, ss. 29, 33, 34—the separation of a junior township from a union of townships, ss. 30, 31—the erection of a locality into an incorporated village, s. 11—of a village into a town or a town into a city, s. 21—the addition of a tract of land to a village, town or city, ss. 16, 19, 24, 26—a new division of a town or city into wards, ss. 23, 26 (3), 102, 103.

(a) "Next after the date of the proclamation or . . . by-law." Until 1889 the words were "next after the end of three months from the date of the proclamation or . . . by-law." Under this provision a proclamation or by-law passed after 1st October might not come into effect for fifteen months. The section was, therefore, amended as above by 52 V. c. 36, s. 5. See also s. 24 and note (c) to s. 98.

Notes (b); (a); (a) (b).

(b) "But the nomination of candidates . . ." Added in 1877 by 40 V. c. 8, s. 49. The word "officers" occurring in that section and in 55 V. c. 42, s. 89, before the words "as are unopposed" has been (no doubt intentionally) omitted by the Revisers of 1897.

Places to be fixed by by-law of municipality.

Taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99,) s. 81.

(a) "By by-law." See s. 535 (2) and note (d) to s. 325. A township council having, under 12 V. c. 81, s. 5, appointed a place for holding an election of township councillors, appointed the returning officer for a subsequent election by resolution, and directed him to hold the election at a place other than that named in the by-law. The election held under the resolution was set aside (a).

County council to make provision for first election in junior townships.

98. When in any year a junior township of a union has 100 resident freeholders and tenants on the then last revised assessment roll, the council of the county shall, by a by-law to be passed before the thirty-first day of October in the same year, fix the place for holding the first annual election of councillors in the township, appoint a returning officer for holding the same, and otherwise provide for the due holding of the election according to law. 55 V. c. 42, s. 91; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (21). See sec. 30.

Taken from "The Consolidated Municipal Act, 1873" (36 V. c. 48), s. 88. The word "tenants" being substituted for "householders" by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (21); see s. 2 (7) of this Act. Cf. 12 V. c. 81, ss. 11, 16; 16 V. c. 181, s. 3; 22 V. c. 99, s. 87; 29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 91.

(a) "When in any year a junior township has . . . on the then last revised assessment roll." This will be evidenced to the county council by the certified copy of the revised roll transmitted by the clerk of the township to the county clerk under s. 83 of "The Assessment Act."

(b) "The county council shall." See note (a) to s. 10.

(c) "Passed before the 31st day of October." Since the County Judge (in case of appeals from the Court of Revision) has until August 1st to complete his revision of the roll, (a) and the township clerk has 90 days thereafter in which to forward the certified copy thereof to the county clerk, (b) there seems to be no longer any sufficient reason for hampering the action of the county council by retaining this time-limit, which was fixed nearly half a century ago, (c) especially as the grounds for making the amendment to s. 96 (d) apply here with equal force.

Existing ward divisions in united townships to cease on dissolution of union.

99. In case of the separation of a union of townships, the existing divisions thereof into wards, if any, shall cease, as if duly abolished by by-law, and the elections of councillors shall thereafter be by general vote, until the township or townships is or are divided into polling subdivisions [or wards] under the provisions of this Act. 55 V. c. 42, s. 92.

Taken from the Act of 1858 (22 V. c. 99, s. 88. Cf. 12 V. c. 81, s. 14. The Act of 1898 (61 V. c. 29), s. 4 has now in effect abolished township wards. See ante, s. 73 and note (a) thereto.

Sec. 99-102. Notes (a); (a)-(d)

100. Except in the case of deputy-reeves and councillors in townships divided into wards, the election, in townships and villages, of reeves, deputy-reeves and councillors, shall be by general vote, and the voting shall take place at the place where the last meeting of the council was held, or at such other place or places as may from time to time be fixed by by-law. 55 V. c. 42, s. 93.

Election of reeves, etc., in townships and villages to be by general vote.

Taken from R. S. O. (1877), c. 174, s. 90. Cf. 12 V., c. 81, ss. 5, 53; 22 V., c. 99, ss. 66 (3) (4), 132; 29 & 30 V., c. 51, s. 93; 30 V., c. 18, s. 90; 61 V. c. 23, s. 4; and see notes to ss. 72, 73.

In "The Municipal Act," as printed in the R. S. O. (1897), the next section read as follows:

> 101. In case a majority of the qualified electors of a township whose names appear on the last revised assessment roll petition the council of the township to divide the township into wards, or to abolish or alter any existing division into wards, the council shall, within one month thereafter, pass a by-law to give effect to the petition; and, if the petition is for division into wards, shall divide the township into wards, so that the number of electors in each ward shall be as nearly as may be equal; and the number of wards for municipal purposes shall be four in all cases; and where the township is divided into wards, and is entitled to a deputy reeve or deputy reeves, the councillors shall at their first meeting, elect from among themselves such deputy reeve or deputy reeves. 55 V. c. 42, s. 94.

Upon petition the council may, by by-law, divide townships into wards, etc.

Elections of deputy-reeves, etc., in such case.

Taken from "The Consol. Mun. Act, 1873," (36 V., c. 48, s. 91. Cf. 12 V., c. 81, s. 4; 16 V., c. 181, s. 6; 22 V., c. 99, ss. 264-267; 29 & 30 V., c. 51, s. 278.

(d) Now that township councillors are elected by a general vote, instead of one from each ward as formerly, (a) the raison d'etre of wards in townships no longer exists and the provisions of the above section seem to be effete.

102. In case two thirds of the members of the council of a city or town do, in council, before the 15th day of July in any year, pass a resolution affirming the expediency of a new division into wards being made of the city or town or of a part of the same, either within the existing limits or with the addition of any part of the localities adjacent, which, from the proximity of streets or buildings therein, or the probable future exigencies of the city or town, it may seem desirable to add thereto respectively, the Lieutenant-Governor may, by proclamation, divide the city or town or such part thereof, and with or without such addition, into wards, as may seem expedient. 55 V. c. 42, s. 22, part.

Taken from 22 V. c. 99, s. 19. Cf. 12 V. c. 81, s. 84 and s. 115, as amended by 16 V. c. 181, ss. 19, 23; and see s. 24 and notes thereto; also s. 96.

Re-division of wards in cities of 100,000 or over.

103.—(1) In any case where the resident freeholders of any city with a population of 100,000 or over, to the number of at least 500, petition the council, alleging the expediency of making, and praying that a new division into wards may be made of the city without reducing the number of wards, or that a new division may be made reducing the number of wards to nine or less, the council shall, at the next municipal elections, submit the question of a new division, as prayed for by the petition, to the vote of the persons entitled to vote at the municipal elections; and, in the event of a majority of the electors who vote thereon voting in favour of the petition, the council shall, within a reasonable time after the taking of the vote, subdivide the city into wards, so as to give effect to the prayer of the petition and the vote of the electors; and such new division shall, as far as possible, be based upon the assessed values of property, population and territorial extent.

Commission of inquiry as to division into wards, etc.

(2) In case for three months after the question has been voted upon and approved of by the electors, any council neglects or refuses to make a new sub-division of any city into wards under the provisions of the last preceding subsection, and in case one-third of the members of the council, or 100 duly qualified electors of the municipality petition for a commission to issue under the Great Seal to inquire into the existing division of the municipality into wards, and for a new division in accordance with the expressed wish of the electors, as evidenced by their vote taken in manner aforesaid, the Lieutenant-Governor in Council may issue a commission accordingly, to three commissioners, one to be named by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, one by the Chancellor of Ontario, and one by the city council; and the commissioners or a majority of them shall have the same power to summon witnesses, enforce their attendance, and compel them to produce documents and to give evidence as any court has in civil cases. If the city council fails to name a commissioner within two weeks after notice, the Lieutenant-Governor shall name two commissioners.

Commissioners to prepare a scheme of division.

(3) The commissioners so appointed, or a majority of them, shall, within a reasonable time, report to the Provincial Secretary a new division into wards of the municipality in accordance with the prayer of the petition, having regard to the provisions of this Act as to equality of representation; and the Provincial Secretary shall forthwith transmit a copy thereof to the council of the city, and shall cause the same to be published for one month in the Ontario Gazette, and once in each week for four weeks in one or more newspapers published in the municipality, naming a day when the same will be taken into consideration by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council; and all parties interested, opposed thereto, and who petition to be heard, shall then have an opportunity of being heard, and of being represented by counsel in that behalf.

Lieutenant-Governor may make division by proclamation.

(4) The Lieutenant-Governor in Council may, within three months after the receipt of the report of the commissioners, by proclamation divide the city into wards, and shall have the like powers as are by this Act conferred upon him when application is made by a city council under section 102 of this Act, to divide a city into wards.

Expenses of commission.

(5) The expenses allowed for executing the commission shall be payable by the municipality in the same manner and upon the same conditions as those provided for by sub-section 2 of section 428 of this Act.

Further division not to be made for five years.

(6) In case a new division of any city into wards is made as aforesaid, no new division thereof into wards shall be made for five years thereafter. 55 V. c. 42, s. 22, part.

Passed in 1890 as 53 V. c. 50, s. 1, at the instance of ratepayers of the City of Toronto—(to which alone this section applies),—but not then acted upon, the city having, at the next Session of the Legislature, obtained a special Act (54 V. c. 82) which reduced the number of its wards from thirteen to six, and the number of its aldermen from thirty-nine to twenty-four. See note (a) to s. 70.

Election to be held in municipality.

104. Every election shall be held in the municipality to which the same relates. 55 V. c. 42, s. 95.

Taken from 36 V. c. 48, s. 92. Cf. 22 V. c. 99, s. 83; 29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 84.

(a) One Robert Gillis had a farm through which ran the division line between wards 2 and 3 of the Township of Manvers. His house stood on that part of the farm included in ward 2, but his barn on the part in ward 3. The township council of M. having under 12 V. c. 81, ss. 5 & 9, passed a by-law that the election of councillors, for "ward 3," should be held at "Robert Gillis's:" Held, that the by-law must be read as meaning some part of his property in ward 3, and that as the election was shewn to have taken place in the house outside the limits of the ward, it was void (a).

See, however, s. 123, as to nominations in a township which adjoins a city, town, or village.

Election of township councillors.

105. No election of township councillors shall be held within any city, town or village, nor shall any election for any municipality, or for any ward thereof, be held in a tavern or in a house of public entertainment licensed to sell spirituous or fermented liquors. 55 V. c. 42, s. 96.

Taken from 22 V. c. 99, s. 81.

(a) The first clause of this section is superseded by s. 534 (a) q. v.; but the remainder of it is still in force, and contravention of its provisions would perhaps invalidate the election (b).

DIVISION II.—RETURNING OFFICERS AND DEPUTY RETURNING OFFICERS (SECS. 106-111).

Synopsis: The nomenclature used in this Division is at first sight somewhat puzzling (see notes (d) and (f) to s. 106); but it is easily explained. The officers who have the conduct of a municipal election are: (1) The clerk of the municipality—who is "the returning officer for the whole municipality," (s. 106 (2)); (2) The (ward) returning officers—appointed in municipalities divided into wards, (now cities or towns only) and whose sole duty it is to hold the nomination for the ward, (s. 106 (1*a*)); (3) The deputy-returning officers—who severally preside at the polling places in each polling subdivision, (s. 106 (1*d*) Cf. ss. 138 (3) 144-146, 149-152, 156 and 164-177), and (4) The poll clerks (if any), (ss. 149, 165 (2), 174, first paragraph).

Sections 107 and 111 specify the duties of the clerk. Sec. 106 provides for the appointment of the (ward) returning officers and of the deputy-returning officers; ss. 109-110 defines their powers, and sec. 108 makes provision for the case of their neglect, refusal or inability to perform all their duties.

By-law for an election by wards or polling subdivisions.

106.—(1) The council of every local municipality in which the election is to be made by wards or polling subdivisions, shall from time to time, by by-law, appoint:

(a) The places for holding the nominations for each ward;

(b) The returning officers who shall respectively hold the nominations for each ward;

(c) The places at which polls shall be opened in the municipality in case a poll is required;

(d) The deputy-returning officers who shall preside at the respective polling places.

Clerk of municipality to be returning officer for whole municipality.

(2) The clerk of the municipality shall be the returning officer for the whole municipality; and in case a poll is required, the deputy-returning officers shall make to him the returns for their respective wards or polling subdivisions. 55 V. c. 42, s. 97.

Taken from R. S. O. (1877), c. 174, s. 94. Cf. 12 V. c. 81, s. 5; 22 V. c. 99, s. 90; 29 & 30 V. c. 51, ss. 85, 94; 36 V. c. 48, s. 94; 37 V. c. 16, s. 4.

(a) "Shall appoint." See note (a) to 10, ante.

(b) "By by-law." See note (a) to s. 97.

(c) "The places for holding the nominations in each ward." The by-law may also fix the hour of the nominations in the cases referred to in ss. 118-123 and the Synopsis which precedes Division IV.

(d) "The returning officers (sic) who shall respectively hold the nominations" It was provided in 1877 by 40 V. c. 12, s. 13, as to municipal elections, that the person theretofore called "returning officer" should in future be called "deputy-returning officer," and that the clerk of the municipality should henceforth styled "the returning officer"; but this nomenclature has not since been strictly followed. See ss. 107-110, and the Synopsis, supra.

(e) "The places at which polls shall be opened, etc." See s. 535 (2) and (as to the publication of notices), note (b) to s. 128 (3).

(f) "The clerk shall be the returning officer for the whole municipality" But in case of his absence or probable absence or of his incapacity through illness to discharge the duties of returning officer, the council must by by-law appoint some one to act in his stead. See ss. 118 (4), 179.

Notes (a)-(c); (a)-(c).

Returning officer for elections not by wards or polling subdivisions.

107. In the case of a local municipality in which the election is not to be by wards or polling subdivisions, the clerk shall be the returning officer to hold the nomination of candidates at all elections after the first, and he shall also perform all the duties hereinafter mentioned assigned to deputy-returning officers. 55 V. c. 42, s. 98.

Taken from R. S. O. (1877), c. 174, s. 195. Cf. 22 V. c. 99, s. 94; 29 & 30 V. c. 54, s. 95; 36 V. c. 48, s. 95.

(a) "The clerk shall be the returning officer." See note (f) to s. 106.

(b) "Elections after the first." As to the returning officer at the first election in townships and villages, see ss. 11, 31, 98.

(c) "He shall perform all the duties . . etc." See these more fully set out in s. 157.

Refusal or neglect of returning officer or deputy returning officer to perform his duties.

108.—(1) In any case where the returning officer for any ward refuses or neglects to attend at the time and place required by the clerk to receive his instructions and nomination papers, and in any case where a deputy-returning officer refuses or neglects to attend at the time and place at which he is required by the returning officer to attend to receive his voters' lists, and other election papers, the clerk of the municipality as returning officer shall appoint another person to act in his place and stead; and the person so appointed shall have all the powers and authority which he would have had if he had been appointed by by-law.

This section has been built up by gradual accretions ever since 1849. See infra.

(a) "Where the returning officer for any ward refuses or neglects to attend." This emergency was first provided for in 1892 by 55 V. c. 43, s. 6. As to the use of the word "returning officer" see the Synopsis, supra, and note (d) to s. 106.

(b) "Where a deputy-returning officer refuses or neglects to attend." Taken from 50 V. c. 29, s. 4 (1887).

(2) In case, at the time appointed for holding a nomination or poll, the person appointed to be returning officer or deputy-returning officer has died, or does not attend to hold the nomination or poll within an hour after the time appointed, or in case no returning officer or deputy-returning officer has been appointed, the electors present at the place for holding the nomination or poll may choose from amongst themselves a returning officer or deputy-returning officer; and such returning officer or deputy-returning officer shall have all the powers, and shall forthwith proceed to hold the nomination or poll, and perform all the other duties of a returning officer or deputy-returning officer. 55 V. c. 42, s. 99; c. 42, s. 6.

(c) "In case . . . the person appointed to be returning officer or deputy-returning officer has died . . ." Taken from 22 V. c. 99, s. 94; substantially 12 V. c. 81, s. 154.

Where returning officer or deputy is unable to perform his duties.

(3) In case, during the polling, the returning officer or the deputy-returning officer at any polling place becomes unable, through illness or other cause, to perform his duties, the poll clerk at such polling place shall act as returning officer, or deputy-returning officer, as the case may be, and he shall perform all the duties of a returning officer or deputy-returning officer, and may appoint some other person to act as poll clerk. 60 V. c. 45, s. 28.

Secs. 108 (3), 110. Notes (d); (a) (b)

(d) This subsection was passed in 1897 (a) in order to provide for the contingency which arose in Reg. ex rel. Watterworth v. Buchanan (b). See note (b) to s. 204.

Returning officers and deputy returning officers to be conservators of the peace. Their powers.

109. Every returning officer and deputy-returning officer shall, during the day of the election, or of the voting of electors upon a by-law, act as a conservator of the peace for the city or county in which the election or voting is held; and he, or any Justice of the Peace having jurisdiction in the municipality in which the election or voting is held, may cause to be arrested and may summarily try, and may punish by fine or imprisonment, or both, or may imprison or bind over to keep the peace, or for trial, any riotous or disorderly person, who assaults, beats, molests or threatens any voter coming to, or remaining at, or going from the election or voting; and, when thereto required, all constables and persons present at the election or voting, shall assist the returning officer, or deputy-returning officer or Justice of the Peace. 55 V. c. 42, s. 100.

Taken in substance from 22 V. c. 99, s. 95, the words "or of the voting of the electors upon a by-law" being added by 36 V. c. 48, s. 97.

Duties of a R. O.

(a) "A conservator of the peace" "These officers should not be partizans. It is the duty of such an officer to stand indifferent between the contending parties; to have no interests to serve for either, or for himself; to approach his duty with the simple desire to do strict justice; to be ready and willing to give reasonable information as to the state of his proceedings; to conceal nothing; to evade no proper enquiry; to mislead no one by silence, or exhibit anything calculated to deceive; and he ought not to make a pretence of strictly following the letter of the law, to defeat it" (c).

Powers of a R. O.

(b) "May cause to be arrested and may summarily try." The officer will, in general, act under this section upon his own view. But when, instead of acting on facts observed by himself, or within his own knowledge, he acts on the information of others, it is suggested that he should take a regular information and proceed as any other magistrate would be required to do under like circumstances. An example would be, when the complaint is for an assault committed at a distance from the poll upon a voter coming to or returning from the election. The main object of this section is to empower the returning officer to act promptly on the spot in the hearing and determining of offences occurring at the poll; but in point of authority he is not so restricted.

Special constables may be sworn in.

110. Every returning officer, or deputy returning officer, or Justice of the Peace may appoint and swear in any number of special constables to assist in the preservation of the peace and of order at an election or at the voting of electors upon a by-law; and any person liable to serve as constable, and required by a returning officer or deputy-returning officer, or justice, to be sworn in as a special constable, shall, if he re-

Taken (in substance) from the Act of 1858 (12 V. c. 81), ss. 157-158, the words "or at the voting of electors upon a by-law" having been added in 1873, (36 V. c. 48, s. 98).

(b) "A penalty of $20, to be recovered to the use of any person who will sue therefor." The original section (12 V. c. 81, s. 158) added the words "in any Court of competent jurisdiction." These words have here been omitted, since it is now provided in "The Interpretation Act," R.S.O. c. 1, s. 8 (30) that Penalty, how recoverable.

"Where a pecuniary penalty or a forfeiture is imposed for the contravention of any Act, —then, if no other mode is prescribed for the recovery thereof, the penalty or forfeiture shall be recoverable with costs by civil action or proceeding at the suit of the Crown only, or of a private party suing as well for the Crown as for himself, before a Court having jurisdiction to the amount of the penalty in cases of simple contract, upon the evidence of one credible witness other than the plaintiff or party interested;

Recovery of penalties when no special mode is prescribed.

"If no other provision is made for the appropriation of the penalty or forfeiture, one-half thereof shall belong to the Crown, and the other half shall belong to the private plaintiff, if any there be, and if there be none, the whole shall belong to the crown;"

The penalty may, it is apprehended, be sued for in a Division Court (b).

111. The council of any local municipality in which the election of any member or members of the county council is to be held, and (in case of the election of all the members of the council of the local municipality by acclamation), the clerk of such municipality and any other officer thereof shall, nevertheless, so as to enable the election for county councillors to be held, do all things and take all proceedings which would have been necessary, and in the manner by law provided, that is to say, provide polling places, furnish the necessary and proper voters' lists and poll books, appoint deputy-returning officers and other necessary officers, and do any and all other matters and things which would have been necessary and proper to be done had the members of the council of such local municipality not been elected by acclamation; and every returning officer and deputy-returning officer so appointed shall have all the powers, rights and authorities respecting the election of county councillors, which returning officers and deputy-returning officers have respecting the election of the members of local municipal councils, and shall perform all the like or similar duties which such officers are required to perform under this Act, where an election is being held for the members of the council of a local municipality. 59 V. c. 52, s. 11; 60 V. c. 3, s. 3. See also sec. 142.

DIVISION III.—OATHS. (SECS. 112-117).

Synopsis: This Division—which might more appropriately have been inserted post with Division V relating to procedure at the poll—contains the several forms of oath which may be administered to any person claiming the right to vote at a municipal election; (a), as a freeholder, (s. 112)—(b) as a tenant, (s. 113)—(c) in respect of income, (s. 114),—or (d) as a farmer's son, (s. 112)—(b) as a tenant, (s. 113)—(c) in respect of income, (s. 114),—or (d) as a farmer's son. In accordance with the rule expressed in note (d) to s. 86, ante, and lest anyone who is in fact entitled to a vote should be deprived of it by a clerical error—sec. 116 enables the elector whose vote is challenged to select from the above forms the one which applies to the facts of his case. Sec. 117 compels the administration of the oath upon a proper request made, and prohibits any inquiry as to extrinsic facts.

Oaths, etc., of person claiming to vote as a freeholder.

112. The only oaths or affirmations to be required of a person claiming to vote in respect of a freehold, shall be as follows, or to the like effect:

You swear (or solemnly affirm) that you are the person named, or intended to be named, in the list (or supplementary list) of voters now shewn to you (shewing the list to the voter);

(In the case of an unmarried woman or widow claiming to vote.) That you are unmarried (or a widow, as the case may be.)

That at the date of this election you are in your own right (or your wife is) a freeholder within this polling sub-division (or where the ward is not sub-divided into polling sub-divisions then "within this ward") in this municipality.

That you are a natural born (or naturalized) subject of Her Majesty, and of the full age of twenty-one years;

(In the case of municipalities not divided into wards.) That you have not voted before at this election, either at this or any other polling place.

(In the case of municipalities divided into wards) that you have not voted before at this election either at this or any other polling place in this ward, and (if the elector is tendering his vote for mayor, reeve or deputy reeve) that you reside in this polling sub-division (or when ward not sub-divided into polling sub-divisions then 'in this ward' or are not entitled to vote in the polling sub-division in which you reside, or are not resident within the municipality as the case may be) and that you have not voted before or elsewhere at this election in this municipality for mayor, (or reeve or deputy reeve), and will not vote elsewhere in this municipality at this election, for mayor, (or reeve or deputy reeve as the case may be.)

That you have not directly or indirectly received any reward or gift, nor do you expect to receive any, for the vote which you tender at this election;

That you have not received anything nor has anything been promised to you, directly or indirectly, either to induce you to vote at this election, or for loss of time, travelling expenses, hire of team, or any other service connected with this election;

And that you have not directly or indirectly paid or promised anything to any person either to induce him to vote or to refrain from voting at this election,

So help you God.

In new municipality where no assessment roll.

(In the case of a new municipality in which there has not been any assessment roll, then instead of referring to the list of voters, the persons offering to vote may be required to state in the oath the property in respect of which he claims to vote.)

55 V. c. 42, s. 102; 58 V. c. 42, s. 3; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (22.)

This oath has very gradually assumed its present form. Cf. 22 V. c. 81, s. 97 (9); 29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 101 (8); 36 V. c. 48, s. 99; 40 V. c. 8, s. 50; R.S.O. (1877) c. 174, s. 99; 46 V. c. 18, s. 102; 47 V. c. 32, s. 4; R.S.O. (1887) c. 184, s. 102; 53 V. c. 50, s. 5; 55 V. c. 42, s. 102; 58 V. c. 42, s. 3; 60 V. c. 15, Schel A (22): Paragraph 2 (unmarried women or widows) was added in 1884 by 47 V. c. 32, s. 4; paragraphs 3 and 6 (in their present form) are taken from 58 V. c. 42, s. 3 (1), (2) (1895); paragraph 7 from the Act of 1858 (22 V. c. 99, s. 97) (9); and paragraphs 8 and 9 from 40 V. c. 8, s. 50 (1877). The italic note (in parenthesis) at the end of the section appears first in the Act of 1873 (36 V. c. 48 s. 99), having been inserted on the authority of s. 77 of the Acts of 1858 and 1866.

(a) As to the necessary qualifications of voters, see s. 86 and notes thereto;—as to the particular form of oath to be used, s. 116;—as to how and in what cases it shall be administered to a voter, s. 117,—and as to what the word "oath" includes, "The Interpretation Act" (R. S. O., c. 1, s. 8 (18). Secs. 112, 113. Notes (a)-(d).

Art. 148 of "The Criminal Code, 1892," provides that:—

Perjury defined.

"Every one is guilty of perjury who—

"(a) Having taken or made any oath, affirmation, solemn declaration, or affidavit where by any Act or law in force in Canada, or in any Province of Canada, it is required or permitted that facts, matters or things be verified, or otherwise assured or ascertained, by or upon oath, affirmation, declaration or affidavit of any person, wilfully or corruptly, upon such oath, affirmation, declaration or affidavit, deposes, swears to, or makes any false statement as to any such fact, matter, or thing; or,

"(b) Knowingly, wilfully or corruptly, upon oath, affirmation or solemn declaration, affirms, declares or deposes to the truth of any statement for so verifying, assuring or ascertaining any such fact, matter or thing, or purporting so to do, or knowingly, wilfully and corruptly takes, makes, signs or subscribes any such affirmation, declaration or affidavit, as to any such fact, matter or thing—such statement, affidavit, affirmation or declaration being untrue, in the whole or any part thereof."

Punishment for.

Art. 146 provides that any one who commits perjury is guilty of an indictable offence and liable to fourteen years imprisonment. As to the duty of the deputy-returning officer in case the voter takes or refuses to take the prescribed oath, see s. 164 (4), (5), of this Act;—as to the provisions of paragraph 6 (where electors may vote in municipalities divided into wards), s. 158-161 of this Act;—as to penalties for voting twice for mayor or reeve, s. 162;—and as to bribery (paragraphs 7, 8, 9), ss. 245, 250, 251, 253.

(b) "The list or supplementary list of voters." "List," see ss. 148, 151, 152. "Supplementary list," see s. 150.

Voters' List should be final.

(c) Paragraphs 2-4. It is difficult to understand why these paragraphs should have been retained in the oath after the passing in 1877 of 40 V. c. 12, entitled "An Act to extend the Voters' Lists Act of 1876 to Municipal Elections, etc." It would seem useless to adopt from the Ontario election law elaborate machinery for preparing voters' lists, unless—at all events so far as the polling is concerned—these lists are to be taken as final and conclusive in respect of the qualifications therein stated. Indeed, s. 20 of the Act of 1877, 40 V. c. 12, expressly provides that "no question of qualification shall be raised at any municipal election except to ascertain whether the person tendering his vote is the person intended to be designated in the list of voters." This provision has been repeated in all the Municipal Acts since 1877, and now forms part of s. 89 of the present Act. In view of these facts the further retention of paragraphs 2, 3 and 4 in the oath seems to be unnecessary and improper. See further as to the finality of the voters' list, note (a) to s. 89, ante, and especially the cases cited in foot note (b) on p. 127.

(d) Paragraphs 8, 9. These paragraphs were added to the oath by 40 V. c. 8, s. 50 (1877).

113. The oath or affirmation to be required of a person claiming to vote as tenant, shall be as follows or to the like effect:

Oath of tenant.

You swear (or solemnly affirm) that you are the person named, (or intended to be named,) in the list (or supplementary list) of voters now shown to you (showing the list to the voter);

(In the case of an unmarried woman or widow claiming to vote,) That you are unmarried (or a widow, as the case may be);

That you were (or your wife was) actually, truly, and in good faith, possessed to your (or her) own use and benefit as tenant of the real estate in respect of which your name is entered on the said list;

Sec. 113.

Notes (a) (c).

Oath of tenant.

That you are (or your wife is) a tenant within this municipality.

That you have been a resident within this municipality for one month next before this election;

That you are a natural-born (or naturalized) subject of Her Majesty, and of the full age of twenty-one years;

(In the case of municipalities not divided into wards.) That you have not voted before at this election, either at this or any other polling place;

(In the case of municipalities divided into wards) that you have not voted before at this election either at this or any other polling place in this ward, and (if the elector is tendering his vote for mayor or reeve), that you reside in this polling sub-division (or where ward not sub-divided into polling sub-divisions then 'in this ward' or are not entitled to vote in the polling sub-division in which you reside (or as the case may be) and that you have not voted before or elsewhere in this municipality at this election for mayor, (or reeve), and will not vote elsewhere in this municipality at this election for mayor (or reeve, as the case may be.)

That you have not, directly or indirectly, received any reward or gift, nor do you expect to receive any, for the vote which you tender at this election;

That you have not received anything, nor has anything been promised to you directly or indirectly, either to induce you to vote at this election, or for loss of time, travelling expenses, hire of team, or any other service connected with this election;

And that you have not directly or indirectly paid or promised anything to any person either to induce him to vote or to refrain from voting at this election,

So help you God.

(In the case of a new municipality in which there has not been any assessment roll, then, instead of swearing to residence of one month next before the election, and referring to the list of voters, the person offering to vote may be required to state in the oath the property in respect of which he claims to vote, and that he is a resident of the municipality.)

(b) See (as to paragraphs 2-6), note (b) to s. 112.

(c) The third paragraph of the above oath was altered to its present form by "The Municipal Amendment Act, 1899," in order to remove certain anomalies and meet certain objections suggested by the present editor. Prior to 1899 —and ever since 1877—the paragraph had read as follows:—

"That on the day of 18 (the day certified by the clerk of the municipality as the date of the return, or of the final revision and correction of the assessment roll upon which the voters' list used at the election is based) you were actually, truly, and in good faith, possessed to your own use and benefit, as tenant or occupant, of the real estate in respect of which your name is entered on the said list."

This form—as was pointed out in the advance sheets of this edition of the MANUAL—resulted from a clumsy attempt made by 40 V. c. 12, s. 15, to combine in one the two forms of oath prescribed by 40 V. c. 10, ss. 9 and 10, to be used in elections to the Legislative Assembly. It differed in toto from the provisions of s. 86 as to the qualifications of tenants to vote (a), and it ignored the provisions of s. 89. To the latter of these objections (b) it would seem to be still open.

Oath of income voter.

114. The oath or affirmation to be required of a person claiming to vote in respect of income shall be as follows:

You swear (or solemnly affirm) that you are the person named (or intended to be named by the name of) in the list (or supplementary list) of voters now shewn to you (shewing the list to the voter):

(In the case of a widow or unmarried woman claiming to vote). That you are unmarried (or a widow, as the case may be);

That on the day of 19 (the day certified by the clerk as the date of the final revision and correction of the assessment roll upon which the voters' list used at the election is based, or, at the option of the voter, the day certified by the clerk as the last day for making complaint to the County Judge with respect to such voters' list), you were, and thenceforward have been continuously, and still are, a resident of this township (city, town or village, as the case may be):

That at the said date, and for the twelve months previously, you were in receipt of an income from your trade (office, calling or profession, as the case may be) of a sum of not less than $400.

That you are a subject of Her Majesty by birth (or naturalization, as the case may be) and are of the full age of twenty-one years:

(In the case of municipalities not divided into wards). That you have not voted before at this election, either at this or any other polling place;

(In the case of municipalities divided into wards.) That you have not voted before at this election, either at this or any other polling place in this ward, and (if the elector is tendering his vote for mayor or reeve), that you have not voted before or elsewhere in this municipality at this election for mayor (or reeve, as the case may be);

That you have not received anything, nor has anything been promised you, either directly or indirectly, either to induce you to vote at this election, or for loss of time, travelling expenses, hire of team, or any other service connected with this election:

And that you have not, directly or indirectly, paid or promised anything to any person, either to induce him to vote or to refrain from voting at this election:

So help you God.

A form of oath for income voters (at elections to the Legislative Assembly) was first prescribed by 37 V. c. 3, s. 4; was adopted for municipal elections by 39 V. c. 5, s. 7; and was altered into its present form by 40 V. c. 8, s. 50, and c. 12, s. 16. Cf. R. S. O. (1877), c. 174, s. 101. The changes made since then are the addition (in 1884) of par. 2, by 47 V. c. 32, s. 4, a clerical amendment made by 60 V. c. Sched. A (24), and the addition to par. 3 of the words (in italics) from "or, at the option of the voter," etc., to the end of the italic clause.

You swear (or solemnly affirm) that you are the person named (or intended to be named by the name of) in the list (or supplementary list of voters now shewn to you (shewing the list to the voter);

That you are a son (or stepson) of the said A.B.

That you resided on the said property for twelve months next before the said day, not having been absent during that period, except temporarily, and not more than six months in all;

That you are still a resident of this municipality, and entitled to vote at this election;

That you are a subject of Her Majesty by birth (or naturalization as the case may be); and are of the full age of twenty-one years;

That you have not received anything, nor has anything been promised you, directly or indirectly, either to induce you to vote at this election, or for loss of time, travelling expenses, hire of team, or any other service connected with this election;

This oath was first prescribed by 40 V. c. 9, s. 9, amended (par. 2) by R. S. O. 1877), c. 174, s. 102, the changes since then being the alteration into their present form of paragraphs 2 and 2 by 62 V. Voter may select any form of oath.

The voter shall be entitled to select for himself for that purpose any one of the forms contained in sections 112 to 115 both inclusive, whatever may be the description either in the voter's list or assessment roll as to the qualification or character in respect of which he is entered upon the list or roll. 55 V. c 42, s 105*a*; c. 43, s. 8.

entered on the voters' list; but after the first revision thereof, he ceased to be a tenant and to occupy the property, though he continued to reside in the municipality, and was the owner of real property as a freeholder of the value entitling him to vote, and was such freeholder at the time of the election. At such election he demanded a ballot paper, and was willing to take the oath for freeholders, but the defendant, the returning officer, refused to furnish him with a ballot or to permit him to vote unless he took the oath required for tenants.

Held, that the defendant's duties were merely ministerial, and that an action for a breach thereof was maintainable without any proof of malice or negligence; that the plaintiff was entitled to vote at such election; and that the defendant's refusal to allow him to vote constituted a breach of his duty, rendered him liable to the penalty of $400 given by s. 168 and also to damages at common law. When and how oaths are to be administered.

117. Such oaths or affirmations shall be administered by the returning officer or deputy-returning officer, as the case may be, at the request of any candidate or his authorized agent, and no inquiries shall be made of any voter, except with respect to the facts specified in such oaths or affirmations. 55 V. c. 42, s. 106.

Under the same Statutes (before voting by ballot) it was held that the acceptance by the R. O. of the votes of electors who (having been objected to) had refused to take the oath was, if the relator would otherwise have had a majority, a good ground for setting aside the election. Division IV.—PROCEEDINGS PRELIMINARY TO THE POLL. (Secs. 118-163).

Synopsis:—The date of the annual municipal election and the procedure to be observed upon the division of a city or town into wards having been provided for by Division I, the officers who are to conduct the election by Division II, and the oaths to be administered to voters by Division III,—this Division (IV) takes up the proceedings at a nomination, which may be either preliminary to a poll, or—in the cases mentioned in s. 128 and the first clause of s. 134—may constitute the whole election.

The sections relating to the place and time of nominations have, by means of successive (and not always very intelligible) amendments of the law, become so complicated that it is difficult at first to apprehend their exact effect. The following tabular view may be of use:—

COUNTY COUNCILS.

County Councillors.	In each County Council Division,	Date—Last Monday but one in December, (s. 133).
	At place fixed by the nominating officer, (s. 132 (2a)).	Hour—Between 1 and 2 o'clock p.m., s. 132 (2 a).

The procedure relative to the nomination of candidates for local councils is prescribed by ss. 127 and 129, and for county councils by ss. 132 to 135. Sections 130 and 131 provide for the holding of a new election in local municipalities in case, by reason of the retirement of candidates, the election of the full council becomes impossible. Sections 136 to 157 relate to the duties devolving upon the officers of the municipality in case the election of a council has not been made at the nomination and a poll has to be held. They direct in what manner ballot boxes, ballot papers, voters' lists, poll books, defaulters' lists, certificates as to the date of the final revision of the assessment roll and of the last day for making complaint to the County Judge under R. S. O. c. 7, ss. 17 and 53, and lists of persons who have forfeited their right to vote by non-payment of taxes, shall be prepared and delivered to the persons who are to preside at each polling place.

Sections 158 to 162 provide where, when, and how often an elector may vote, and s. 163 enables a deputy-returning officer or poll clerk to vote at a polling sub-division other than the one where his name appears on the voters' list.

Meeting for nomination of mayor in cities and towns.

118.—(1) Subject to the provisions of section 120 of this Act, a meeting the electors shall take place for the nomination of candidates for the office of mayor in cities and towns, at the hall of the municipality, on the last Monday in the month of December, annually, at ten of the clock in the forenoon. 55 V. c 42, s. 107 (1): 62 V. (2nd Session) c. 26, s. 9 (1)

Subs. 1 is taken in substance from the Act of 1873 (36 V. c. 48) s. 102, but was amended in 1899 (62 V. (2) c. 26, s. 9 (1)) by striking out the words "reeves and deputy-reeves in towns." Cf. 22 V. c. 99, s. 103; 29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 107; 59 V. c. 52, ss. 2-5.

What is a meeting.

(a) "A meeting of the electors." To constitute a meeting, at least two persons must be present. (a)

A nomination.

(b) "Nomination of candidates." A nomination is a resolution submitted to the electors that the party named is a candidate for their suffrages for an office named. (b) S. 128 now provides that "each nomination shall be in writing, shall state the full name, occupation, and residence of the candidate, and shall be signed by his proposer and seconder." Municipal elections begin with the nomination. (c)

Place.

(c) "At the hall of the municipality." The sessions of the county of St. John, N.B., had, pursuant to an Act of the Assembly, appointed a certain school-house in the parish of L. as the place of meeting for the nomination of candidates for parish officers, but the poll clerk gave a notice for the meeting to be held at the house of one C. in the same settlement and not more than seventeen rods distance from the school-house. The parishioners met at the place named in the notice, organized the meeting, and then adjourned to meet in the school-house, where the election afterwards took place. The election was held to be void. (f)

Time.

(d) "Last Monday in the month of December." Under the Acts of 1858 and 1866 the nomination of these officers was held on the last Monday but one in December. The present date was adopted in 1873. (g) See next note.

(e) "If the last Monday in December is Christmas Day," see s. 124. As to the power of a county council to change the date of the municipal nominations in townships, see s. 125 (1).

Nomination of councillors in towns.

(2) The council of any town divided into wards may, by by-law, provide that the nomination for councillors for the several wards shall be held at the same time and place as the nomination for mayor.

(f) This would be at 10 a.m. or 7.30 p.m. at the town hall. See p. 144.

(3) Where no such by-law is passed, the nomination of councillors in such town shall take place as provided by section 119 of this Act. 55 V. c. 42, s. 107 (123); 62 V. (2nd Session) c. 26, s. 9 (2).

Subs. 2 and 3 were added by 51 V. c. 28, s. 10, (2), (3), (1888). The words "reeve and deputy-reeve" (which formerly ended subs. 2), were struck out in 1899 by 62 V. (2) c. 26, s. 9 (2).

(g) "Any town divided into wards." As to by-laws abolishing wards in towns, see s. 71*a*.

The clerk to preside.

Chairman.

(4) The clerk of the municipality shall be the returning officer to preside at such meeting, or in case of his absence, or probable absence, the council shall appoint a person to preside in his place; and if the clerk or the person so appointed does not attend, the electors present shall choose from among themselves a chairman, and such clerk or chairman shall have all the powers of a returning officer. 55 V. c. 42, s. 108; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (26).

Taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99), ss. 104, 105.

Effect of non-compliance.

(h) "Council shall appoint; . . . electors present shall choose . . . etc." The council should provide for the absence of the clerk, if it is apprehended or expected; and the appointment of a substitute should be made by by-law. See note (f) to s. 106 and s. 179. Should the council fail to pass such a by-law the electors present may choose a chairman. If they do so, it is apprehended that the chairman so chosen would have a right to conduct the nomination to its termination, notwithstanding the arrival in the meantime of the clerk, or of a person appointed by the council as his substitute. Under this section the electors are not apparently required to wait before making an appointment as they are under sec. 108 (2). The proceedings of the meeting, if not presided over by the clerk—or in case of his absence by a person appointed or elected as herein provided—would in all probability be held absolutely void. "It cannot be a mere matter of procedure or form, that there should be no person presiding at the meeting in whom is vested the authority for conducting the election and for maintaining peace and order" (a). "The Legislature says, and, I must take it, for very good reasons, that the election is to be conducted by a particular officer, and then another person goes and conducts it. Even if I had a discretion, I should not exercise it in supporting such a practice. It is very much the same as if a cause was referred to a barrister, and he were to go away for his own pleasure and leave it to his clerks, and then it was said that the award was good because it was made just as well as if it had been made by the barrister. Or if a cause was to be heard by a Judge, and he left it to one of the masters, he might conduct it just as well as the Judge, but that would not do." (b)

Meetings for nominations of aldermen, councillors, etc.

119. Save as otherwise provided by section 120, a meeting of the electors shall take place for the nomination of the candidates for the offices of aldermen in cities, councillors in towns, and of reeves and councillors in villages and townships, at noon, on the last Monday in December annually, at the town hall of the municipality, or at such place therein, and in cities and towns at such places in each ward thereof as may from time to time be fixed by by-law, subject, in the case of townships to the provisions of section 123. 55 V. c. 42, s. 109, part: 62 V. (2nd Session) c. 26, s. 9 (3).

Secs. 119-121 (1). Notes (a) (c).

Taken from the Act of 1883, (46 V. c. 18), s. 109, the words relating to deputy reeves having been struck out by 62 V. (2) c. 26, s. 9 (3). Cf. 29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 101; 36 V. c. 48, s. 104; 37 V. c. 16, s. 3; R. S. O. (1877) c. 174, s. 106; 42 V. c. 31, s. 4; 59 V. c. 52, ss. 2, 5; 61 V. c. 23, ss. 3, 4.

(a) "At noon." But see as to aldermen in cities, s. 120; as to councillors in towns, ss. 118 (1), 120; as to councillors in villages, s. 120; in townships, s. 122.

(b) "Cities and towns, etc." This should be amended so as to apply only to cities and towns which are still divided into wards. See s. 71a. Provision should also be made for the nomination of aldermen in cities when one half of them are to be chosen from each of two electoral divisions, (s. 71a (4a)).

(c) "Such places . . . as may . . . be fixed by by-law." See ss. 97, 100, 106 and (as to townships) s. 123.

Hours for holding nominations in cities, towns and villages.

The first part of this section (relating to aldermen in cities), is taken from 51 V. c. 28, s. 11, the latter portion (relating to towns and villages), from 51 V. c. 28, s. 10 (4), the words relating to deputy reeves having been struck out by 62 V. (2) c. 26, s. 9 (4). In cities the change from the statutory hour of noon (s. 118 (1)) to 7.30 p.m. must be made "in such by-law" to be passed under s. 106 (1).

In "The Municipal Act" (R.S.O. c. 223) the next section read as follows:—

121.—(1) Subject to the provisions of section 122, the nomination of candidates for the office of reeve in townships divided into wards, shall be held at ten of the clock in the forenoon on the last Monday in December, at such place in the township as may from time to time be fixed by by-law, and the township clerk shall preside.

In townships divided into wards.

Taken from 37 V. c. 16, s. 3 (1874).

Secs. 121 (1)-124.

(2) Subject to the provisions of section 123, the nomination of candidates for the office of councillor to be elected for each ward, shall take place at noon, at the town hall of the township or at such place in the township or in each ward as may be fixed by by-law. 55 V. c. 42, s. 110.

Taken from 46 V. c. 18, s. 110. Cf. 37 V. c. 16, s. 3; R. S. O. (1877), c. 174, s. 107; 42 V. c. 31, s. 5, and the notes to subsec. 1, supra.

The above section (121) was repealed by "The Municipal Amendment Act, 1900," (62 V. (2nd Session) c. 26, s. 9 (5)).

Hour for holding nominations in townships.

122. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 119 of this Act, the council of any township may by by-law provide that the nomination for reeve and councillors may be held at one o'clock in the afternoon. 59 V. c. 51, s. 2: 62 V. (2nd Session) c. 26, s. 9 (6).

Place of meeting for nomination of reeves, etc., of townships.

123. Where a township is so situate that the territory of such township adjoins the limits of any city, town or village, such city, town or village may be designated by by-law as the place of meeting for the nomination of candidates for the offices of reeve and councillors, as the case may be. 55 V. c. 42, s 111; 60 V. c. 3, s. 3: 62 V. (2nd Session) c. 26, s. 9 (7).

Taken from 48 V. c. 39, s. 5 (1885.) Before that the rule of s. 104 applied. As to the case where a township owns, rents or has otherwise acquired a town hall built upon lands which are within (or partly within) the original boundaries of the township, see also s. 534 (3*a*).

If nomination day falls on Christmas Day.

124. When the last Monday in December is Christmas Day, the nomination of candidates for the offices of mayor and aldermen in cities, and of mayor, reeve and councillors in other municipalities, shall take place on the preceding Friday, at the times and places and in the manner prescribed by law. 55 V. c. 42, s. 112: 62 V. (2nd Session) c. 26, s. 9 (8).

Taken from 39 V. c. 7, s. 26 (1876).

N.B.—Note that s. 125 (though not so reprinted here) was amended by 62 V. (2nd Session) c. 26, s. 9 (9) by striking out the word "deputy-reeve" in line 3. See next page.

Notes (a); (a)-(c); (a).

County council may by by-law lengthen time between nomination and polling in townships.

Copy of by-law to be sent to townships affected.

125.—(1) Every county council may, by by-law, made on or before the 1st day of July in any year, provide that the day for the nomination of candidates for reeve, [deputy-reeves], and councillors in townships shall be the third Monday preceding the day for polling, but all the other provisions of law relating to municipal elections shall apply to the elections in such townships. 55 V. c. 42, s. 113 (1); 60 V. c. 45, s. 2.

(2) Forthwith after the passing of such by-law, the county clerk shall transmit a copy thereof to the clerks of the townships to which the same relates. 55 V. c. 42, s. 113 (2).

Taken from 10 V. c. 8, s. 18 (1877). "The Municipal Amendment Act, 1892," 60 V. c. 45, s. 2, altered the words "last Monday but one in December" to "third Monday preceding the day for polling" "a week earlier" in order, (probably) that the elections for local councils under this section and for county councils under s. 133 should not take place on the same day.

(a) "Deputy reeves." See s. 73, note (a).

Presiding officer.

Taken from R. S. O. (1877), c. 174, s. 110, the words at the end "who shall in respect of the meeting . . . . . " having been added by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (27). Cf. 29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 100 (1); 31 V. c. 30, s. 17; 36 V. c. 18, s. 105.

(a) "Returning officer . . or clerk . . shall . . preside. See ss. 72, 73, 100, 106, 107, 118 (4), 121, 157.

(b) "In case of the absence of such presiding officer." See note (1) to s. 118.

(c) "All the powers of a returning officer." See ss. 109, 110 and the notes thereto.

Notice of nomination meeting.

127 The clerk or other returning officer whose duty it is to preside at the meeting for the nomination of candidates shall give at least six days' notice of such meeting. 55 V. c. 42, s. 115.

Taken from 29 & 30 V., c. 51, s. 100 (1). Ten days notice had previously been required. Cf. 22 V., c. 99, s. 97.

(a) "At least six days notice." This means six full days. (a) Where a Statute says that any thing shall be done so many days, or so many days "at least," before a given event, the day of the thing done and the day of the event must both be excluded. (b) A notice of "ten days at least" for a hearing means that there shall elapse at least ten periods of twenty-four hours each between the day of the delivery and the day of the hearing. (c) It means ten clear, full and complete days, and not nine days and fractions of other two days. (d) The section does not specify the mode in which notice shall be given. As to notice of the nominations for county councils, see s. 132 (2) (a).

Nomination and proceedings incident thereto.

128.—(1) At such meeting, the person or persons to fill each office shall be proposed and seconded seriatim; and every such nomination shall be in writing, shall state the full name, place of residence and occupation of the candidate, and shall be signed by his proposer and seconder. 55 V. c. 42, s. 116, part; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (28).

The first clause of the section is taken from the Act of 1873, 36 V. c. 48, s. 40. The provision requiring nominations to be in writing was added in 1897 by 60 V. c. 15, s. Sched. C. (28).

Irregular nomination papers.

(a) In England, under "The Mun. Elections Act, 1875," (38 & 39 V., c. 40) which requires (s. 1 (2)) that nominations shall be in writing, signed by two enrolled burgesses of the borough, and shall state the surname and other names of the person nominated, with his place of abode and description, and shall be in the form given in the Schedule or to the like effect, it was held that a nomination paper in which the name of a candidate (Robert Vicars Mather), was written "Robert V. Mather," did not comply with the requirements of the Act (a)

Rule 4 (2) of the (English) Election Orders, 1898 requires that a nomination paper shall contain the name of the candidate nominated, and shall be signed by his proposer and seconder. It also provides that the decision of the returning officer as to the validity of any nomination paper shall be final. A returning officer having held valid a nomination paper to which the names of a proposer and seconder had been signed before the name of a candidate was filled in there being no evidence that they did not assent to the names being thus subsequently inserted GRANTHAM and LAWRENCE JJ. upheld the returning officer's decision, although conceding that the nomination paper would have been invalid had the name so filled in not been assented to by the signers of the paper. (b)

Election by acclamation.

(2) If only one candidate for any particular office is proposed, the clerk or other returning officer or chairman shall, after the lapse of one hour from the time fixed for holding the meeting, declare the candidate duly elected for that office. 55 V. c. 42, s. 116, part.

Taken in substance from 22 V. c. 99, s. 97 (7).

What is an election "by acclamation."

(b) "After the lapse of one hour, etc." At a meeting called to receive nominations for municipal councillors, one party (as they alleged) made their nominations at 12 o'clock, or a few moments after, in the presence of only two or three persons, and without any effort on the part of the returning officer to call in the people who were outside the place of meeting. The returning officer did not enter in his book the names of the candidates nominated, and he gave to some of the other party who came in afterwards evasive answers as to whether any nominations had been made or not, and led some of the electors present to think that there was still an hour or so in which to make nominations, when, in fact, there was less than half that time. At one o'clock, the returning officer, without making any preliminary statement that certain persons had been nominated, and without asking if there were any other candidates to be nominated, declared that the persons nominated at the opening of the meeting were duly elected by acclamation. The other side, who were waiting,—under the impression (as they alleged) that no nominations had as yet been made, to make their nominations after the other party protested against this, and desired to nominate opposition candidates (of whom the relator was one), but the returning officer refused to receive their nominations as too late. Held, (1) that the election must be set aside and a new election ordered, and (2) that the returning officer had acted improperly and contrary to the spirit of the law, and he was therefore ordered to pay the costs (a).

Sec. 128 (3). Notes (c)-(d); Election "by acclamation."

JOHN WILSON, J., in giving judgment says (p. 47):

"The conducting of an election is analogous to any public meeting "where the object sought is a fair expression of opinion on any question "proposed. The law in regard to elections assumes that when the "election of any officer is carried by acclamation, the electors are "fully and fairly informed of what they are assenting to by acclama-"tion. They cannot assent to what is not submitted to their choice "or present in their minds. A nomination is a resolution submitted "to the electors, that the party named is a candidate for their suf-"frages for an office named; but the Legislature, to prevent surprise, "requires that not less than one hour shall elapse between the sub-"mission of the last nomination and the putting of the question with "a view to its being passed by acclamation. In the meantime, the "vote is in abeyance. A resolution is said to be carried by acclama-"tion when, after it has been proposed and heard, it receives no "opposition, but is carried by the consent of the meeting, expressed "or implied from its silence. But in no case can it be correctly said "to pass by acclamation where it has not been proposed or not under-"stood. The Statute does not mean that the returning officer, if no "other nominations are made, shall simply declare those who have "been proposed duly elected; it means that the nominations shall be "put seriatim to the electors and their votes taken upon them. The "law prescribes no form of words, but it requires that the proposition "should be explained so as to be understood by men of ordinary "understanding."

(c) "Shall . . . declare the candidate duly elected for that office." The returning officer or other chairman of a nomination meeting has nothing to do with any question as to the qualification of the candidates proposed (a). Powers of R. O.

(3) If more candidates are proposed for any particular office than are required to be elected, the clerk (or other returning officer or chairman) shall adjourn the proceedings for filling such office until the first Monday in January next thereafter, when (unless there is an election by acclamation by reason of the resignation of any candidate or candidates nominated, as in the next succeeding section provided) a poll or polls shall be opened in each ward or polling sub division at such place or places respectively as have been fixed by the by-law of the said council for the election. 60 V. c. 45, s. 29. In what cases poll to be held.

Taken from 60 V. c. 45, s. 29. Cf. 22 V. c. 99, s. 97 (7); 29 & 30 V. c. 51, ss. 100 (3), 101 (4); 111; 31 V. c. 30, ss. 13, 18, 21; 33 V. c. 18, s. 101; R.S.O. (1877) c. 174, s. 112; 46 V. c. 18, s. 115; R.S.O. (1887) c. 184, s. 116; 55 V. c. 42, s. 116.

(d) "Shall adjourn the proceedings . . ." This is imperative. See note (a) to s. 10. In the absence of such authority it was held in England that the chairman of a meeting cannot, after the business is opened, dissolve or adjourn the meeting at his pleasure; and that, if he wrongfully leaves the chair, those present can appoint a new chairman, and continue the business of the meeting (b). Adjournment for polling.

The polling is a continuation of the proceedings initiated by the nomination (c). When a poll is granted a poll must be had, even although all the candidates except one, after the nominations and before the polling, decline the contest (d).

Sec. 128 (4). Notes (e) (f).

(e) "A poll or polls shall be opened . . . at such place or places." There is no express provision in the Act requiring notice to be given to the electors of the day on which or of the places at which the polling is to be held, but it is believed that such notice is, in practice, almost invariably given.

Hours of polling.

(4) The said poll or polls shall be so opened at nine of the clock in the morning, and shall continue open until five of the clock in the afternoon, and no longer:

Provided, however, that in cities of over 100,000 inhabitants the council may, by by-law to be passed before the 15th day of November in any year, extend the time for holding the election until seven o'clock in the afternoon. 55 V. c. 42, s. 116, part; 61 V. c. 23, s. 6.

Taken from the Act of 1866 (29 & 30 V. c. 54, s. 190 (4)). The proviso referring to cities of over 100,000 inhabitants (viz., Toronto only), was added in 1898 by 61 V. c. 23, s. 6.

Effect of closing poll too soon.

(f) Hours of polling. Prior to 1866 the polling, if any, immediately followed the nomination and lasted (as a rule) for two days, beginning at 11 a.m. on the first day and at 10 a.m. on the second day, and closing at 4 p.m. on both days, subject, however, to the condition that if during this period the returning officer should see that all the electors intending to vote had had a fair opportunity of doing so, and one full hour should have elapsed during which no qualified elector had given or tendered his vote (free access to the poll for that purpose having been allowed) he (the returning officer) was authorized to close the election at 4 p.m. of the first day, or at any hour before 4 p.m. of the second day. (a)

At an election for township councillors, held in 1852, the returning officer, after the nomination of several candidates, adjourned the proceedings to another room in order to receive votes. No votes were tendered for any one (all parties holding back for some unexplained reason); and the returning officer therefore closed the election at about three o'clock and declared the defendants elected "by acclamation." (b)

On proceedings to set aside the election, DRAPER, J. said in giving judgment (p. 183):—

> "Had he waited until the hour of four, as the Statute provides, and concluded under the circumstances that all the electors intending to vote had had a fair opportunity, as more than one hour had elapsed without a vote, he might have considered the case in the same light as where each candidate has an equal number of votes; in which case, under the 160th Section of 12 V. c. 81, he would have had a casting vote. Had he taken this course he would (apparently) have complied with the letter of the law. But, after opening the poll, he could not return any one of the four candidates as elected "by acclamation" or "without opposition," and it is equally clear that he could not return any as elected by a majority.
> "I think therefore that the election and return must be set aside as wholly void."

And in Re Johnson v. County of Lambton (g) where a by-law under "The Temperance Act of 1864" (h) had been carried in a county by a majority of 193 votes, but it appeared that in one township the poll was kept open for only two thirds of the time required by law, and several votes on the list were unpolled, the by-law was set aside.

But where the variation from the period fixed by the Statute was slight and the result was apparently not affected, the election was sustained. (i)

Secs. 128 (4), 129 (1).

Notes (g); (a) (b).

(g) It is essential to the validity of the election that during the hours for polling the electors should have free access to the polling places. The fact that a large number of qualified electors could not cast their votes, is a sufficient reason for setting aside an election, if the result might have been affected by the unpolled votes. (j) "If rioting takes place to such an extent that ordinary men, having the ordinary nerve and courage of men, are thereby prevented from recording their votes, the election is void by the common law, for the common law provides that an election should be free, in the sense that all persons shall have an opportunity of coming to the poll and voting without fear of molestation." (k)

Free access to polls.

129.—(1) The clerk or other returning officer or chairman shall, on the day of the nomination, post up in the office of the clerk of the municipality the names of the persons proposed for the respective offices.

Names of candidates to be posted up.

Taken from 55 V. c. 43, s. 7 (1892).

(a) All the previous Acts, from 1866 onwards, provided that this should be done "on the day following that of the nomination."

> "I should think this provision was direct ory only, and that if he did it on the second day after the nomination, an election upon it would not be avoided (l).

(2) At the nomination meeting, or on the following day, or where such last named day is a public holiday, then before twelve o'clock noon of the succeeding day, any person proposed for one or more offices may resign, or may elect for which office he is to remain nominated; and in default he shall be taken as nominated for the office in respect of which he was first proposed and seconded.

Resignation of person nominated.

Taken from 55 V. c. 43, s. 7 (1892), the provision for the case in which the day following the nomination is a public holiday having been inserted in 1895 by 58 V. c. 42, s. 5.

(b) Until 1873 (m) there was nothing in the Act expressly permitting a person nominated for municipal office to decline the nomination; and, if elected, he was bound to accept the office, or pay the penalty (n). The late Master in Chambers, Mr. DALTON, nevertheless held (o) that a person who, at the nomination meeting, had been proposed and seconded for the office of reeve, might, with the consent of his proposer and seconder, withdraw from his candidature. The learned Master says (p. 332):

When first permitted.

> "The question is, can a candidate, once nominated, be withdrawn? It is difficult to comprehend why this cannot be done before the close of the meeting, with the assent of all concerned; for every one then acts of his own free will, with the full knowledge of the facts. Contracts can be dissolved by the will of those who made them. There are exceptions, but it is generally true; and it is the general rule that the legal effect of an action may be annulled or reversed by the common agreement of all who are concerned. Why then, before being acted upon, cannot a nomination be withdrawn, as here, by the candidate himself, his proposer and seconder, and the electors present? It is true that the clause of the Act does not speak of any power of resignation or withdrawal, but directs that the poll-book shall contain the names of the candidates "proposed and seconded," which no doubt means the names of all candidates proposed and seconded. But the answer to this seems to be, that when the nomination is withdrawn at the meeting, by the agreement of every one affected by the nomination or withdrawal, it is as though the candidate had never been proposed and seconded at all; for he does not continue to be till the close of the meeting, and is not then "a person proposed" for the office. That this is the construction put upon the Statute in practice, is very clear; for nothing is more common than for a number of candidates to be proposed, where there is no intention on the part of anyone that they should contest the election; and upon their withdrawal, it has never, that I know of, been suggested until now, that it may be demanded after the meeting that their names shall be entered on the poll-books."

Notes (b)-(d).

Withdrawal of candidate at nomination

The law was accordingly amended in 1873 (p) so as expressly to provide that a person proposed for one or more offices might resign or elect between the offices provided he did so at the nomination meeting. The Act of 1883 (q) extended this period to "any time before polling day;" but this was altered at the next Session of the Legislature (r) to the form used in the present section.

Resignations to be in writing.

(3) The resignation after the nomination meeting of any person so proposed shall be in writing, signed by him and attested by a witness, and shall, within the time hereinbefore mentioned, be delivered to the clerk of the municipality.

Taken from 47 V. c. 32, s. 5; the words "within the time hereinbefore mentioned" being substituted by 55 V. c. 43, s. 7 for the words "within the said two days."

(c) The following form of resignation is suggested:

Form of Withdrawal by Candidate after Nomination.

Form of Resignation.

"Municipal elections for the (name of municipality) for the year . . . (insert number of next year).

"To the clerk of the (name of municipality) or

"To the nominating officer for the (first) county council division of the county (or united counties) of . . . . . .

"Sir,

I hereby resign my candidature for the office of (naming the office) of the (naming the municipality, or wards "of the municipality" of . . . . . ." (or first as the case may be) county council division of the county of . . . . .) for which I have been nominated as a candidate.

"Dated at . . . . . this . . . . . day of December, 19 .

(Signature of candidate.)

Signed by the said . . . . . .
in the presence of (Signature of witness).

Form of election between two offices.

(d) The Act does not in terms make it necessary when a candidate nominated for two or more offices elects, after the nomination meeting, for which of them he will run that this election should be evidenced by writing. In order to avoid misunderstandings it is nevertheless advisable that the clerk should require a writing. The form given in the preceding note may be thus adapted to the case:

"Having been nominated as a candidate for the offices of (name both offices). I hereby elect to be a candidate for the office of (naming it) only."

In this case no witness is required.

(p) See foot note (a) supra. (q) 46 V. c. 18, s. 116. (r) 47 V. c. 32, s. 5.

Secs. 129 (4) 132 (1). Notes (a)-(c).

(4) If by reason of any such resignation or resignations the number of candidates remaining proposed for any office does not exceed the number required by this Act to be elected for such office, then the clerk or other returning officer shall declare such remaining candidate or candidates duly elected to such office. 55 V. c. 42, s. 117, part; c. 43, s. 7; 55 V. c. 42, ss. 5, 6.

Election by acclamation when other candidates retire.

Taken from 58 V. c. 42, s. 6. Cf. 47 V. c. 32, s. 5; R. S. O. (1887), c. 184, s. 117; 55 V. c. 43, s. 7. See note (b) to s. 128 (2).

130. In case, at an annual or other municipal election, the candidates, or any of them who are nominated, retire, and by reason of such retirement the requisite number of persons is not elected, then the members elected, if they equal or exceed the half of the council when complete, or a majority of such members, shall order a new election to be held in the manner provided by this Act to fill the vacancies so caused. 60 V. c. 45, s. 30.

Non-election of full council by reason of retirement of candidates.

(a) It is somewhat singular that the contingency mentioned here should not have been provided for until 1897. Until then, the only cases of non-election at the usual time covered by the Statute were (1) those caused by riot or other emergency (a), or (2) by the electors having from any other cause "neglected or declined" to elect the members or the requisite number of members of the council (b), or (3) where, owing to the presence in any municipality of an epidemic or contagious disease, the Lieutenant-Governor by his proclamation postpones the date of the election (c).

The law prior to 1897.

(b) Since "the members elected" under the circumstances here specified are required, "if they equal or exceed the half of the council when complete," to order a new election to be held to fill vacancies, it would seem to follow (notwithstanding the requirements of s. 268), that they may meet and organize under ss. 259, 260, and that the council of the preceding year thereupon cease to hold office. (d)

Council may organize.

(c) Section 131 being in pari materia with s. 130, the use therein of the words "the clerk (as returning officer) shall cause a new election to be held" indicates that these sections are not intended to apply to county council elections. (e) If so, the case of non-election (by reason of retirements) of the full number of county councillors authorized by this Act (f) seems to be still unprovided for.

Application of section.

131. In case, by reason of such retirement, less than half the members of council are elected, the clerk (as returning officer), shall cause a new election to be held in the manner provided by this Act; and until such election is held, and the number of members necessary to complete the council is elected, the council of the preceding year shall continue in office, and may do, or cause to be done, all such acts as a council duly elected for that year might lawfully do. 60 V. c. 45, s. 31.

Retirement by a majority of council.

132.—(1) In every year before that in which an election for county councillors is to be held, the county council shall appoint for each county council division, a "nominating officer," who shall act as such until his successor is appointed.

Nominating officer.

Taken from "The County Councils Act, 1896," (59 V. c. 52), s. 7 (1). The proviso to subsec. 2 (a) added in 1898 by 61 V. c. 23, s. 7.

(a) "In every year before that in which an election . . . . is to be held." "An election" apparently means a general election. See subsec. 2. The appointment is to be made by each county council at some time during the first year of their term of office. See s. 67 (3).

(2) His duties shall be, in every year before an election of county councillors is to be held, or before a vacancy is to be filled,

His duties.

(a) To fix a place within the county council division for holding the nomination, between the hours of one and two o'clock in the afternoon, and to give under his hand, notice of such nomination and of the election, by advertisement in two weekly newspapers in the county, to be published for at least two successive weeks prior to such nomination day, or by giving sufficient public notice thereof by printed posters, provided that the said nominating officer, in case there is in his opinion no suitable place within the county council division at which to hold the nomination, may name some place within a city, town or village adjacent to the county council division in which the election is to be held:

Notice.

(b) "Sufficient public notice." Who is to be judge of the sufficiency of the notice? It would seem better to have prescribed the alternative method of giving notice as in s. 21 (1), s. 338 (2), last clause, and s. 632 (1) (a), etc.

Duties at nomination.

(b) To attend at the day and place appointed for such nomination and to perform the duties (so far as applicable) which the clerk of a local municipality is required to perform as returning officer at the nomination for an election in a local municipality.

(d) "The duties (so far as applicable) which the clerk of a local municipality is required to perform." These seem to be fully set out in ss. 134, 135 (2).

When electors may choose a chairman.

(c) In case at the time appointed for holding the nomination, the nominating officer has died, or does not attend to hold such nomination, the electors present for the purpose of holding a nomination may choose from amongst themselves a nominating officer who shall have all the powers and perform all the duties of such nominating officer. 59 V. c. 52, s. 7 (1), part; 61 V. c. 23, s. 7.

(e) Under this subsection, as under s. 118 (4), the electors are not apparently required to wait a certain length of time before making the appointment of a nominating officer. See s. 108 (2).

Nomination day.

133. The nomination day shall be Monday in the week which precedes the week before polling day. 59 V. c. 52, s. 7 (3).

(a) "Monday in the week which precedes the week before polling-day." As the polling-day (subject to the provisions of R.S.O. c. 248, s. 47) is the first Monday in January (a), the nomination day is the last Monday but one in December.

134. If upon the day and at the hour appointed for the nomination there are not more candidates nominated for any county council division than are required to be elected for such division, the nominating officer shall thereupon declare elected the candidate or candidates duly nominated, and shall thereupon prepare, and upon the same day mail to the county clerk, by registered letter with postage prepaid, a certificate under his hand of such election by acclamation; but if more candidates are nominated than are required to be elected in any county council division, the nominating officer shall, immediately after the lapse of the time in which candidates may withdraw from nomination, certify to the county clerk the facts, with the names and addresses of those remaining in nomination.

Election by acclamation.

Taken from 59 V. c. 52, s. 8 (1).

(a) "At the hour appointed for holding the nominations." It is apprehended that this is intended to mean what is better expressed in s. 128 (2), viz., "after the lapse of an hour from the time fixed for holding" the nomination under s. 132 (2) (a).

Time for nominations.

(b) "Shall thereupon declare elected the candidate or candidates duly nominated." "Candidates" in the case of a general (biennial) election (b). "Candidate" in the case of a vacancy (c). As to the meaning of "duly nominated," see s. 128 (1); as to the procedure and the questions which may (not) be determined by the nominating officer, note (c) to s. 128.

(c) "Shall . . . mail to the county clerk . . . a certificate." The officer intended is not the clerk of the county court (though he is often so styled), but the clerk of the county council. See s. 112 (1). The following form of certificate is suggested:

Form of Certificate of County Council Election by Acclamation.

When candidates may withdraw.

(d) "After the lapse of the time within which candidates may withdraw from nomination," i.e. at any time before midnight of the day (Tuesday) following nomination day. Since that day is not likely to be a public holiday, the words inserted in s. 129 (2) by 58 V. c. 42, s. 5 (see ante) are no doubt intentionally omitted from this section.

(e) "Certify to the county clerk the facts." The officer intended is the clerk of the county council. See s. 142 (1). The following form of certificate is suggested:

Resignations.

135.—(1) Any person nominated may resign either at the nomination meeting or during the following day. If such resignation is after the meeting, it shall be signed and witnessed in the manner prescribed for resignations under section 129 of this Act, and shall be forthwith delivered to the nominating officer.

Taken from 59 V. c. 52, s. 8 (3).

(a) In this case the certificate may follow the form given above in note (d) to s. 134 down to the end of the tabular statement of candidates nominated, and then proceed:

"All of the above candidates except Charles Alan Kennedy and George Smith Martin having resigned, I hereby certify the said Charles Alan Kennedy and George Smith Martin as duly elected.

Votes to be given by Ballot.

136. In case of a poll at an election of persons to serve in municipal councils, the votes shall be given by ballot. 55 V. c. 42, s. 118.

Votes to be by ballot.

Taken verbatim from s. 1 of 38 V. c. 28, which was passed Dec. 21st, 1874, but was not to apply to the municipal elections of January, 1875. The same year (1874) witnessed the introduction (by 37 V. c. 5, Ont.) of voting by ballot at elections to the Legislative Assembly of this Province, and (by 37 V. c. 9, Can.) at Dominion elections. Both the Dominion and the Province having in this matter promptly followed the example of the mother-country, where the ballot was adopted at both parliamentary and municipal elections by Imp. Stat. 35-36 V. c. 33, known as "The Ballot Act, 1872." For the former mode of voting at municipal elections in this Province see 12 V. c. 81, ss. 22, 57, 65, 84; 14 & 15 V. c. 109, Sched. A (4), (11), (12), (14); 22 V. c. 99, ss. 97-99, 108, 109; 29 & 30 V. c. 51, ss. 100-09, 101-09, 113; 31 V. c. 30, s. 19; 36 V. c. 48, s. 110.

List of Defaulters in payment of Taxes.

137.—(1) On or before the last Monday in December the treasurer of each local municipality shall, if the collectors' roll has been returned to him, prepare and verify on oath, or, if the collectors' roll has not been so returned, the collector shall prepare and verify on oath, a correct alphabetical list of—

Preparation of list of defaulters.

(a) All persons who, being on the voters' list (that is to say, the first and second parts thereof) in respect of their income only, have not paid their municipal taxes on such income on or before the 14th day of December preceding the election; and,

(b) (In municipalities which have passed by-laws under sub-section 1 of section 535 of this Act), all persons on the voters' list (that is to say, the first and second parts thereof), who have been assessed for real property, but have not paid their municipal taxes on such property on or before the 14th day of December preceding the election. 55 V. c. 42, s. 119 (1); 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (29).

Taken from 40 V. c. 12, s. 6 (1877). See note (a) to s. 88. The words "last Monday in December" were substituted by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C, (29) for the words "the day of nomination of candidates," which were ambiguous. See ss. 118 (1), 119, 121, 124, 125, 133.

(a) "If the collectors' (? collector's) roll has been returned to him." See "The Assessment Act," (R.S.O., c. 224) ss. 144-146. Since it is the duty of the collector under s. 295 (5) (a) to make a sworn return to the treasurer on the 15th of December in each year of the names of all defaulting tax payers, this, it would seem, should be sufficient to enable the treasurer to prepare the list in every case.

(b) "The voters' list. (that is to say the first and second parts thereof." Cf. "The Voter's Lists Act," (R. S. O., c. 7) s. 6, (2) (3).

(3) The person preparing the said defaulters' list shall furnish to all persons applying for the same, certified copies thereof, and of the affidavit verifying the same, in the same manner and for the same compensation as copies of the voters' list are to be furnished. 55 V. c. 42, s. 119 (2-3)

Ballot Boxes.

Ballot boxes to be furnished.

138.—(1) Where a poll is required, the clerk of the municipality shall procure or cause to be procured as many boxes (hereinafter called "ballot boxes") as there are wards or polling subdivisions within the municipality.

How made.

(2) The ballot boxes shall be made of some durable material, shall be provided with a lock and key, and shall be so constructed that the ballot papers can be introduced therein and cannot be withdrawn therefrom unless the box be unlocked.

Delivery of to deputy returning officers.

(3) When it becomes necessary for the purposes of an election to use the ballot boxes, it shall be the duty of the clerk of the municipality, two days at least before the polling day, to deliver one of the ballot boxes to every deputy-returning officer appointed for the purposes of the election.

Clerk to preserve boxes for future elections.

(4) The ballot boxes, when returned to the clerk after the election, shall be preserved by him for use at elections for the municipality: and it shall be the duty of the clerk to have ready for use, at all times, as many ballot boxes as there are wards or polling subdivisions in the municipality.

Penalty for failure to furnish boxes.

(5) If the clerk fails to furnish ballot boxes in the manner herein provided, he shall incur a penalty of $100 in respect of every ballot box which he has failed to furnish in the manner prescribed.

Deputy returning officer to procure boxes when not supplied.

Taken from 38 V. c. 28, s. 2, the first clause of subs. 4 thereof being, however, omitted in the Revision of 1877 (c. 174, s. 116) and in all subsequent Acts, as having been superseded by the last clause of 39 V. c. 5, s. 13. See s. 177 (9), (4) of this Act. The words "polling subdivision" and "deputy-returning officer" have also been substituted for "electoral division" and "returning officer" respectively. See 40 V. c. 12, ss. 2, 13.

(a) Subs. 2.—How ballot boxes shall be made. Cf. "The Ballot Act, 1872," (Imp. Stat. 35-36 V. c. 33) Sched. I., Rule 23.

Secs. 138 (6), 139 (1).

Notes (a); (a).

Ballot Papers.

Ballot papers to be printed.

139.—(1) Where a poll is required, the clerk of the municipality shall forthwith cause to be printed, at the expense of the municipality, such a number of ballot papers as will be sufficient for the purposes of the election.

Contents and form of ballot papers.

(2) Every ballot paper shall contain the names of the duly nominated candidates, arranged alphabetically in the order of their surnames; or if there are two or more candidates with the same surname, then in the order of their other names. 55 V. c. 42, s. 121.

Taken from 38 V. c. 28, s. 3. The original of subs. 2 is to be found in Rule 22 of Sched. I. to the Imp. Act 35-36 V. c. 33, but there the words are "every ballot paper shall contain a list of the candidates described as in their respective nomination papers and arranged alphabetically, etc."

How names of candidates to be printed.

(a) "Every ballot paper shall contain the names of the duly nominated candidate, etc." in a township election, held under the Act of 1866, (a) which provided that the clerk should furnish to each returning officer a certified list of the names of the several candidates (b) and that the returning officer or his sworn poll-clerk should enter these names in separate columns in the poll-book, (c) the name of one Henry, who had been duly nominated for the office of township councillor, was accidentally omitted by the clerk from the certified list of candidates furnished to the [deputy] returning officer for one of the five polling sub-divisions of the township. The omission was discovered, and the name inserted by the returning officer in the poll-book about half-past one o'clock of the polling day; but in the meantime at least six electors had tendered their votes for Henry, which votes had been rejected. 145 votes were given for Henry after his name was entered upon the poll-book, and the returning officer swore that the general impression among the electors present was that in consequence of the error there would be a new election in case of a protest. At the close of the poll the votes stood, Atkinson, 244, Mitchell, 192, Stubbs, 187, Walker, (the relator) 187, and Henry, 145. The returning officer gave his casting vote in favor of Stubbs and declared Atkinson, Mitchell and Stubbs the three duly elected councillors. Upon an application to set aside the election it was held that it is not every irregularity that will avoid an election, and that in this case the question to be decided was not as to the mere abstract ground of the omission of the name, but as to whether this had affected the result of the election; and as it did not appear that the result would have been different if the name of Henry had been properly entered on the list, the election should not be set aside. (d)

Under the existing law, it is, however, apprehended that the omission from the ballot papers of the name of a bona fide candidate would undoubtedly avoid the election.

The Christian name of each candidate should be printed in ful' as well as his surname. It is apprehended that the fact that a Christian name was represented (e) by its initial letter or by a contraction, (f) or that the names were not in alphabetical order, would be held to be such an irregularity as is cured by s. 204 of this Act, and s. 8 (35) of "The Interpretation Act." (g) At a municipal election in England, under the Municipal Corporations Act of 1835 (a) and the Municipal Elections Act of 1858, (b) the name of the candidate appeared in two separate nomination papers and was printed twice on the ballot papers. One of the two nominations was bad, the "place of abode" of the candidate being mis-stated therein; and this error was repeated in one of the two places where the name appeared on the ballot papers. 71 voters marked their ballots for the candidate opposite this, and 301 opposite the division in which the correct address was given. All these intended to vote for the candidate, and if the two classes of votes were added together, he had a majority. Held, that he was entitled to be returned. (c)

Ballot papers where election is by wards.

140.—(1) In the case of cities and towns in which the aldermen or councillors are elected by wards, the names of the candidates for mayor shall not be included in the same ballot with the names of the candidates for aldermen and councillors respectively, but one kind or set of ballot papers shall be prepared for all the wards or polling sub-divisions containing the names of the candidates for mayor, and another kind or set shall be prepared for each ward or polling sub-division containing the names of the candidates for aldermen and councillors in the ward.

Where aldermen and councillors are elected by general vote.

Ballot papers for townships and villages.

(3) In the case of villages and townships, one kind or set of ballot papers shall be prepared containing the names of the candidates for reeve and the names of the candidate for councillors. 62 V. (2nd Session), c. 26, s. 11.

Forms of ballot papers.

141. (1) The ballot papers shall be according to the forms given in Schedule A to this Act. 55 V. c. 42, s. 123.

Except that the words "polling subdivision" have been substituted for "electoral division," and a form of ballot has been added under the authority of 59 V. c. 52, s. 10, for county council elections, this sub-section and the forms given in Schedule A are taken from 39 V. c. 5, s. 2, as amended by 62 V (2) c. 26, s. 16.

The forms of the ballot papers are adapted from that given in the second schedule to "The Ballot Act, 1872." (Imp. Stat. 35-36 V. c. 33), pp. 225, 226, 227.

Note (a).

(a) "Schedule A" (as printed in "The Municipal Act") (a) was materially amended in 1899, by s. 16 of 62 V. (2nd Session) c. 26, which is printed post at pp. 988-989. The amending section is very carelessly drawn, and the reference (in the last line of subs. 2) to "the forms set out in Schedule B to this Act" is clearly an error, since Schedule A to the Act gives the form of ballot-paper to be used in incorporated villages and townships as well as in cities and towns where the aldermen and councillors are elected by general vote, and "the forms set out in Schedule B" (Directions to Voters) (b) are wholly inapplicable to the case sought to be provided for.

The following forms (taken from the Acts of 1897 and 1899) are thought to be in accordance with the (probable) intention of the Legislature :—

1. Form of ballot-paper for an election of County Councillors.

Notes (a) (b).

Elections to fill vacancies.

(2) In the case of an election to fill a vacancy, the ballot papers shall contain only so much of the said form as is required; and the counterfoils thereof shall bear, instead of the words appearing on the form of ballot papers given in said Schedule, the words:

> "Election of a member of the municipal council of the city (or town, village or township as the case may be), of , to fill a vacancy in the office of (mayor, reeve, councillor, etc., as the case may be), Ward No. (b) , Polling subdivision No. , day of , 19 . For mayor (or "For reeve," "councillors," etc., as the case may be,")

Or (in the case of an election to the county council) the words:

> "Election to fill a vacancy in the office of county councillor for the first (or as the case may be) county council division of the county of , Township (or as the case may be) of , Ward No. , Polling subdivision No. (b) , day of 19 , for county councillors."

60 V. c. 15, Sched C (30).

(b) See note (d) to s. 100 and note (a) to s. 140, also the note here to the forms given above in note (a) (Sched. A) of ballots for the election of county councillors, for use in townships divided into wards, and for use in townships not so divided.

Ballot papers, etc.

142.—(1) Whenever an election of a member or members of the county council is to be held, it shall be the duty of the clerk of the county council to cause ballot papers to be printed therefor; and he shall, immediately after the receipt of the certificate from the nominating officer, and before polling day, forward a sufficient number of ballots and other necessary election papers to the clerk of each of the local municipalities within each county council division where elections for county councillors are to be held: and each clerk of a local municipality shall cause them to be supplied to the persons appointed to act as deputy-returning officers at the said election.

Taken from "The County Councils Act, 1896," (59 V. c. 52), s. 9.

(a) "It shall be the duty of the clerk of the county council to cause ballot papers to be printed." The form is given in Sched. A to the Act (a). It apparently requires separate ballot papers for each local municipality within a county council division, but separate ballot papers for each ward of a township seem to be no longer necessary. See note (a) to s. 100, note (a) to s. 140, and foot-note (b) to s. 141 (2).

When ballot papers to be forwarded to local clerks.

(b) "Immediately after the receipt of the certificate from the nominating officer." See s. 134. The evident intention of the section might be better expressed thus: "Whenever an election of member or members of a county council is to be held, the clerk of the county council shall, immediately after the receipt of the certificates from the nominating officer of the several county council divisions, cause the necessary ballot papers to be printed, and shall forthwith and before the polling day forward" etc. Since the ballot boxes must be delivered by the local clerks to the several deputy-returning officers "at least two days before polling-day (a)"

(a) Note (a) to s. 141. (a) Sec. 138 (3).

Secs. 144 (2)-144.

Note (c).

and it is more convenient that the deputy returning officer should at the same time receive the ballot papers (b) directions to voters (c) voters' and defaulters' lists (d) and [illegible] as to the roll (e) it would perhaps have been better if this section had also fixed a time before polling day by which the "ballots and other necessary election papers" (e. g. lists of candidates, etc.) should be furnished by the clerk of the county council to the local clerks. This, however will probably regulate itself in practice; but the clerk of the county council of a large county should lose no time in getting his ballot papers printed after he receives the certificates of the nominating officers (f).

When no election to be held for local municipality.

(2) If all the members of the council of any local municipality are elected by acclamation, the clerk of the municipality shall nevertheless (when an election of a member or members of the county council is to be held), take all proceedings necessary for such election, in the same manner (mutatis mutandis) as is provided by this Act for the election of members of the council of the local municipality. 59 V. c. 52, s. 9, part. See also sec. 111.

(c) The duties of the local clerk under this subsection are more fully set out in s. 111. They do not include the printing of the ballots. See subs. 1.

143. In preparing the ballot papers or any notices or other papers which may be necessary, the forms appended to or otherwise provided for by this Act shall be used as far as applicable, and, where not wholly applicable, shall be adapted by the clerk of the county council or the clerks of the local municipalities, or other officers (as the case may be), to the election of county councillors; and the words "county councillor" shall be printed on every such ballot. 59 V. c. 52, s. 10.

Taken from 59 V. c. 52, s. 10. Since that Act was passed, the form of ballot paper for the election of county councillors has been added to Sched. A. See note (a) to s. 141, s. 204, and R. S. O. c. 1, s. 8 (35), quoted in note (a) to s. 139, foot-note (e).

Polling Places.

Clerk to furnish deputy-returning officers with ballot papers, etc.

144. In the case of municipalities divided into wards or polling subdivisions, the clerk of the municipality shall, before the opening of the poll, deliver or cause to be delivered to every deputy-returning officer the ballot papers which have been prepared for use in the ward or polling subdivision for which such deputy-returning officer has been appointed to act, and the clerk shall also furnish to each deputy-returning officer (or see that he is furnished with) the materials necessary for voters to mark their ballot papers; and such materials shall be kept at the polling place by the deputy-returning officer for the convenient use of voters. 55 V. c. 42, s. 124.

Taken from 38 V. c. 28, s. 5 the "polling subdivision" being substituted for "electoral division," and "deputy-returning officer" for "returning officer." See 10 V. c. 12, ss. 2, 14.

(d) Sec. 152. (e) Sec. 156. (f) Sec. 134 (1).

Secs. 144-147.

Notes (a) (b); (a).

(a) "Materials necessary for voters to mark their ballot papers" probably means "the pencil provided in the compartment." See the first paragraph of the "Directions for the Guidance of Voters in Voting," (Sched. B to this Act), post, note (a) to s. 168. The original of the section is to be found in Rule 20 of Sched. I. to "The Ballot Act, 1872," (Imp. Stat. 35-36 V. c. 33).

(b) These duties are ministerial. The neglect of them, except so far as that neglect may have the effect of making an election impossible, will not nullify the election. See s. 204 and notes thereto.

Compartment wherein voters may mark votes.

145. Every polling place shall be furnished with a compartment in which the voters can mark their votes screened from observation; and it shall be the duty of the clerk of the municipality and the deputy-returning officers respectively, to see that a proper compartment for that purpose is provided at each polling place. 55 V. c. 42, s. 125.

Taken from 38 V. c. 28, s. 4, with the clerical amendment first referred to in the note to s. 144. Cf. Rule 16 of Sched. I. to "The Ballot Act, 1872," (Imp. Stat. 35-36, V. c. 33), and s. 4 of "The Municipal Elections Act, 1875," (Imp. Stat. 38-39 V. c. 40).

(a) "Screened from observation." And see s. 169. At the first annual election held under 38 V. c. 28 (Jan. 1876), the return of a township reeve was objected to on the ground (among others) that at one of the polling places persons were allowed to enter with voters into the compartment where votes were marked while a voter was marking his ballot. It did not appear that there had been any interference with the freedom of the franchise. HARRISON, C. J., refused to set aside the election, "seeing no ground for thinking that the result would have been different if the irregularities complained of had not occurred" (a).

Directions to Voters.

Clerk to furnish deputy-returning officer with directions for voters' guidance.

146.—(1) In case of municipalities divided into wards or polling subdivisions, the clerk of the municipality shall, before the opening of the poll, deliver or cause to be delivered to every deputy-returning officer such number of printed directions for the guidance of voters in voting, as he may deem sufficient; and he shall so deliver or cause to be so delivered at least ten copies of such printed directions.

(2) Such directions shall be printed in conspicuous characters, and may be according to the form of Schedule B to this Act. 55 V. c. 42, s. 126.

Taken from 38 V. c. 28, s. 6 with the clerical amendments noted under s. 144.

(a) See these "Directions to Voters" in note (a) to s. 168.

Deputy returning officers to placard the directions.

147. Every deputy-returning officer shall, before the opening of the poll, or immediately after he has received the printed directions from the clerk of the municipality (if he did not receive the same before the opening of the poll), cause the said printed directions to be placarded outside the polling place for which he is appointed to act, and also in every compartment of the polling place, and shall see that they remain so placarded until the close of the polling. 55 V. c. 42, s. 127.

Taken from 38 V. c. 28, s. 87, "deputy-returning officer" having been substituted therein for "returning officer" (40 V. c. 12, s. 139). See note (d) to s. 106.

(a) As to the requirements of ss. 146, 147, see the notes to ss. 139 and 144; also s. 204 of this act.

Voters' Lists, Poll Books and Defaulters' Lists.

Proper voters' list to be used at an election.

Rev. Stat., c. 7.

148. Subject to the provisions of the next following three sections, the proper list of voters to be used at an election shall be the first and second parts of the last list of voters certified by the Judge and delivered or transmitted to the Clerk of the Peace under The Voters' Lists Act. 55 V. c. 42, s. 128.

Taken from R. S. O. (1877), c. 174, s. 124. Cf. 40 V. c. 12, s. 20.

(a) "The proper list of voters." See "The Voters' Lists Act" (R. S. O. c. 6, s. 7). Until 1858 the voters' lists for each municipal election were extracted pro hac vice from the last collector's roll (12 V. c. 81, ss. 22, 57, 65, 83; 14 & 15 V. c. 109, Sched. A (4), 11), (12), (14); 16 V. c. 181, s. 10). From 1858 to 1876, they were made up by the clerk from the last revised assessment roll (22 V. c. 99, s. 97 (2); 29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 100 (5), 101 (5); 36 V. c. 48, s. 109; 38 V. c. 28, s. 8). By the last mentioned Act they were styled "voters' lists," and by 39 V. c. 11, (superseding 37 V. c. 4 and 32 V. c. 21), provision was made (as regards the lists for elections to the Legislative Assembly) for their preparation and revision at a fixed date in each year. By 40 V. c. 12 the provisions of 39 V. c. 11 were extended to municipal elections. See note (a) to s. 89.

For first election in new municipality.

149. For the first election in a new municipality for which there is no separate assessment roll, the clerk of the municipality shall, instead of a voters' list, provide every deputy-returning officer with a poll book, prepared according to the form of Schedule C to this Act, and either the deputy-returning officer or his sworn poll clerk shall therein enter, in the proper column, the name of every person offering to vote, and at the request of any candidate or voter, shall note opposite the name of such person, the property on which the person claims to vote. 55 V. c. 42, s. 129.

Taken from R. S. O. (1877), c. 174, s. 125. "The form of Schedule C" is substantially the same as in that Act, the only changes being the omission from column 4 of "Householder" (see note (k) to s. 86), the addition thereto of "Income voter," and the insertion of a column headed "County councillors." See s. 155.

(a) "Schedule C to this Act" is as follows:

SCHEDULE C.

(Sections 149, 150, 151, 152, 155 and 348).

FORM IN WHICH THE VOTERS' LIST AND POLL BOOK TO BE FURNISHED TO DEPUTY RETURNING OFFICERS IS TO BE PREPARED.

Column for mark indicating that the voter has voted.	NAMES OF THE VOTERS.	Description of Property in respect of which the voter is entitled to vote.	Freeholder, Tenant, Farmer's Son or Income Voter.	Residence of voter.	Objections.	Sworn or affirmed.	Refused to swear or affirm.	County Councillors.	Mayor and Reeve.	Councillor.	REMARKS.

NOTE.—In Cities, the column above headed "Mayor and Reeve" will be headed "Mayor;" and the column above headed "Councillors" will be headed "Aldermen." In Townships and Villages, the column above headed "Mayor and Reeve" will be headed "Reeve."

55 V. c. 42, Sched. C; 59 V. c. 52, s. 26.

Secs. 149, 150 (1).

Notes (b); (a) (b); (b).

(b) "The property on which the person claims to vote." Since all "the other qualifications" (except that of being named on the voters' list) are required by s. 90, the returning officer should also note in the proper column (4) of the poll-book whether the voter claims the franchise as a freeholder, a tenant, a farmer's son or an income voter.

Voters' lists in cases under section 91.

150.—(1) Where any territory is added for municipal purposes to any city, town, or village, or where a town with additional territory is erected into a city, or a village with additional territory is erected into a town, or where a new village is formed, and an election takes place before voters' lists including the names of the persons entitled to vote in such added territory, or in such new city, town or village, are made out or before such lists are certified by the County Judge—in all such cases the clerk of the new or enlarged city, town, or village shall extract from the last filed or certified voters' list of the municipality to which such territory formerly belonged, and shall place in lists or supplementary lists, as the case may be, the names of the persons who would have been entitled to vote in the territory constituting or added to the city, town or village if no such change as aforesaid had been made. 55 V. c. 42, s. 130 (1): 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (31).

Form of supplementary lists.

(2) Such lists or supplementary lists shall be made in the form of Schedule C to this Act, and shall be signed by the clerk, and delivered by him to the proper deputy-returning officers for the purpose of enabling the persons named in such lists to vote at the election. 55 V. c. 42, s. 130 (2).

Taken from R. S. O. (1877), c. 174, s. 126. Cf. 36 V. c. 48, s. 79; 38 V. c. 3, s. 16, 17.

(a) "Schedule C to this Act." See note (a) to s. 149.

(b) The right of the persons who, if no change had taken place, would have been entitled to vote in the territory constituting or added to the new or enlarged municipality is secured to them by s. 91 (originally 38 V. c. 3, s. 16). This section simply provides the means by which that right shall be established and evidenced.

What voters' list is meant.

(b) "The last filed or certified voters' list of the municipality." The meaning is not very clear, since under "The Voters' Lists Act" as it stands to-day (a) the voters' list is not "filed" until it has been certified by the Judge under ss. 20, 21 thereof, and is filed at once when so certified (s. 21 (3)). An examination of the history of this section leads, however, to the inference that its intention was to authorize the use of the last alphabetical list of voters made out by the clerk under "The Voters' Lists Act," although it might be not yet have been confirmed by the County Judge. The words "last filed or certified list" were first used in the Election Law Amendment Act of 1874 (b). At that time the law governing the preparation of voters' lists was contained in "The Election Law of 1868," (c) s. 7 of which provided that the alphabetical list of voters made out by the municipal clerk thereunder should, when its correctness had been sworn to by him before a Justice of the Peace, be kept by the clerk "among the records of the municipality" or—in other words—should be "filed." Although ss. 8, 9 and 10 of the Act did indeed provide for appeals to the County Judge, the list "filed" as aforesaid was taken as prima facie correct and no means were provided for its printing and distribution as in the present Act (d). New provisions, intended ultimately to supersede those of "The Election Law of

(a) R. S. O. c. 7, sec. 55, 6-12, 20, 21. (b) 38 V. c. 3, s. 17.
(c) 32 V. c. 21. (d) R. S. O. c. 7, ss. 8-12.

1868," were made by the Voters' Lists Act of 1874 (e); but that Act was not to take effect until the dissolution of the Assembly in 1875 (f) and was not yet in force when the words "filed or certified" were used in December, 1874 by the draftsman of s. 17 of 38 V. c. 3 (g), from which they have passed into this section.

Secs. 150(2)-152. Note (a).

151.—(1) In any municipality for which there is a separate assessment roll, but for which no voters' list for the municipality has been filed with the Clerk of the Peace or certified by the County Judge under The Voters' Lists Act, the clerk of the municipality shall, before the poll is opened, prepare and deliver to the deputy-returning officer for every or any ward or polling subdivision, a list in the form of Schedule C to this Act, containing the names, arranged alphabetically, of all male persons appearing by the then last revised assessment roll to be entitled to vote in that ward or polling subdivision; and he shall attest the said list by his solemn declaration in writing under his hand.

Voters' list. When clerk to prepare.

Rev. Stat. c. 7.

(2) In the case of (a) income voters, and (b) persons assessed for real property, if the municipality has passed a by-law under sub section 1 of section 535 of this Act, the clerk shall exclude from the list such persons as have been returned to him by the treasurer or collector as in default for not having paid their municipal taxes on or before the 14th day of December preceding the election; and every list of voters so prepared shall be the proper voters' list to be used at the election. 55 V. c. 42, s. 131.

Persons in arrear for taxes shall be excluded from list.

Taken from R. S. O. (1877) c. 174, s. 127. Cf. 37 V. c. 3, ss. 1-3; c. 4, s. 2; 38 V. c. 28, s. 8; 39 V. c. 5, ss. 6, 9.

(a) "Filed with the Clerk of the Peace or certified by the County Judge under "The Voters' Lists Act." These words differ from those used in the last section and clearly indicate a list which has been certified by the Judge under ss. 20 or 21 of R. S. O. c. 7. Until so certified the list cannot properly be said to be "filed with the Clerk of the Peace" though the draft list prepared under s. 6 may have been posted up in his office as required by s. 11.

152. In the case of municipalities which are divided into wards or polling subdivisions, the clerk of the municipality shall, before the poll is opened, deliver to the deputy-returning officer for every ward or polling subdivision, a copy, either printed or written, or partly printed and partly written, certified to be a correct list of voters for the ward or polling subdivision under section 148 and the following sections, together with a blank poll-book according to the form of Schedule C. to this Act, and also a copy certified by the treasurer or collector pursuant to section 137 of this Act, of the proper defaulter's list for the polling subdivision. 55 V. c. 42, s. 132.

Delivery of copies of voters' list, poll-book, and defaulters' list to deputy-returning officers.

Taken from R. S. O. (1887) c. 184, s. 132 as amended by 54 V. c. 42, s. 3 (poll-book). Cf. 40 V. c. 12, s. 9; R. S. O. (1877) c. 174, s. 128; 46 V. c. 18, s. 131.

(g) See also "The Voters' Lists Act of 1876," (39 V. c. 11,) especially s. 31 thereof.

Secs. 152-155.

Notes (a)-(c).

(a) "A correct list of voters for the ward or polling subdivision," etc. The object of furnishing this list is "that all persons interested in the election may have a check at hand at the time of the polling of votes." (a)

(b) "And the following sections." These words (inserted by the Revisers of 1877) seem to be unnecessary, the cases where a "proper voters' list," as required by s. 148, is not to be used having been already specially provided for in ss. 149-151.

(c) "Together with a blank poll-book in the form of Schedule C." The form of Schedule "C" is given ante in note (a) to s. 149. Until the amendment of this section in 1891 by 54 V. c. 42, s. 3, each municipal clerk had to make out a complete poll-book for every polling sub-division in his municipality, since the "voters' list in the form of Schedule C" was intended to be used as such. See note (a) to s. 165 (2). Now, however, in the cases covered by this section he has only to supply the poll-book in blank, and the deputy-returning officer, or his poll clerk, makes the necessary entries therein according to the certified voters' list. See s. 165 (2).

Copies may be prepared by Clerk of Municipality or procured from Clerk of Peace.

Rev. Stat. c. 7.

153. The copies of the voters' lists in the next preceding section mentioned, may be prepared by the clerk of the municipality, or may be procured from the Clerk of the Peace, if filed under The Voters' Lists Act; and in the latter case the Clerk of the Peace shall be entitled to receive the sum of six cents for every ten voters whose names are on the list. 55 V. c. 42, s. 133.

Taken from 40 V. c. 12, s. 10, the words "if filed under The Voters' Lists Act" having been inserted by the Revisers of 1877 in apparent forgetfulness of the fact that s. 148 only authorizes the use of a voters' list which has been so filed.

Defaulters' lists to be evidence for deputy-returning officer as to payment of taxes.

154. The defaulters' lists furnished and verified by the treasurer or collector as aforesaid, shall be the evidence on which the deputy-returning officers shall act in ascertaining the payment or non-payment of taxes by persons claiming to vote in respect of income, or in respect of real property, in the cases mentioned in section 137 of this Act. 55 V. c. 42, s. 134.

Taken from 40 V. c. 12, s. 12, s. 11 (1877).

Column to be added for votes for county councillor.

155. Where an election for a member or members of the county council is being held at the same time as the election of a member or members of the council of the local municipality, the clerk of the local municipality in preparing the poll-book shall insert therein a column to be headed "County Councillors" between the columns headed "Refused to swear or affirm" and the column headed "Mayor or reeve"; and in case no election is being held for a member or members of the council of the local municipality, the like books shall be used unless the clerk prepares poll-books expressly, for the election of county councillors. 59 V. c. 52, s. 26.

Taken from 59 V. c. 52, s. 26 (1896). The addition to the form of poll-book provided for by this section has now been made in Sched. C to the present Act. Before this it might have been doubtful whether the word "poll-book" included the lists or supplementary lists of voters referred to in ss. 150, 151.

Certificates as to the Assessment Roll.

Secs. 156(1), 157.

Notes (a), (b).

Clerk to give certificate of dates of last day for complaints against voters' list and of final revision of assessment roll.

156.—(1) The clerk of the municipality shall, before the opening of the poll, deliver or cause to be delivered to every deputy-returning officer a certificate (which may be in the form of Schedule D to this A), of

(a) The last day for making complaints to the County Judge with respect to the voters' list to be used at the election, and also

(b) Of the day when the said assessment roll was finally revised and corrected.

Penalty for neglect. Fee for certificate.

(2) The clerk shall also, under penalty of $200 in case of neglect or refusal, give such certificate upon payment of the sum of twenty-five cents, to any person applying for the same.

To be evidence of such date at the poll.

(3) The certificate, when delivered to the deputy-returning officer, shall be the evidence upon which he shall act in inserting in the oath to be administered to voters, the date of the final revision and correction of the assessment roll or the last day for making complaint to the County Judge with respect to the voters' list (as the case may be). 55 V. c. 42, s. 135, (1-3); 62 V. (2nd Session) c. 26, s. 12.

Taken from 40 V. c. 12, s. 12, sub-s. 1-3. Sub-s. 4 of that section has become s. 3 of the present Act. For the reason why evidence as to these two dates is required at the poll, see s. 86 (1) "Thirdly" and "Fourthly"; the third paragraph of the oath prescribed for a tenant by s. 113, and for an income voter by s. 114 and the second paragraph of the oath to be taken by a farmer's son under s. 115. See also the notes to these sections and note (b) to s. 112.

(a) "The form of Schedule D to this Act." as amended in 1899 by 62 V. (2) c. 26, s. 12, is as follows:

Certificate as to Assessment Roll.

Form of certificate.

Election to the Municipal Council of the

B.*, Clerk of the Municipality of , in the County of , do hereby certify that the assessment roll for this municipality of upon which the voters' lists to be used at this election is based, was finally revised and corrected on the day of , 19 , and that the last day for making complaint to the County Judge with respect to the said list was the day of , 19 .

(b) "Under a penalty of $200 in case of neglect." As to the recovery of this penalty, see ss. 704, 708.

In Municipalities not divided into Wards.

In municipalities not divided into wards or polling subdivisions, clerk to perform duties of deputy-returning officers.

157. In case of municipalities which are not divided into wards or polling subdivisions, the clerk shall perform the duties which in other cases are performed by deputy returning officers, and he shall provide himself with the necessary ballot papers, and also with the materials for marking ballot papers, the printed directions before mentioned, copies of the voters' list, poll book and defaulters' list, and a certificate of the dates of the return and final revision of the assessment roll, similar to those required to be furnished to deputy-returning officers; and the clerk shall perform the like duties with respect to the whole municipality as are imposed upon a deputy-returning officer in respect of a ward or polling subdivision. 55 V. c. 42, s. 136.

Taken from 46 V. c. 18, s. 135 (1883), the word "poll-book" having been since inserted by 54 V. c. 42, s. 4 (1891). Cf. 38 V. c. 28, s. 9; 40 V. c. 12, s. 14 (2); R. S. O. (1877) c. 174, s. 132.

(a) "The clerk shall perform the duties." etc. See s. 106, note (f) to s. 107 and s. 118, note (h).

(b) "Dates of the return and final revision of the assessment roll." Since the amendment of s. 156 and Schedule D by 62 V. (2) c. 26, s. 12, the certificate is to shew not the date when the assessment roll was returned, but the last day for making complaints with respect to the voters' list. The failure of the Legislature to amend this section when they amended section 156 is another example of careless legislation.

Where Electors may Vote.

Voting in towns and cities.

158. In towns and cities in which the councillors or aldermen are elected by wards every elector may vote in each ward in which he has been rated for the necessary property qualifications for councillors or aldermen, but the elector shall be limited to one vote for mayor of a city or town. 55 V. c. 42, s. 137; 62 V. (2nd Session) c. 26, s. 13.

(a) Under s. 76 of the Act of 1858 (a), no elector in a municipality divided into wards was entitled to vote in more than one ward, and if entitled to vote in the ward in which he resided, he could not vote in any other ward (b). The Act of 1866 (c) first contained the provision embodied in the first clause of this section. The second clause (limiting the elector to one vote in the cases therein specified), was added in 1873 (d).

(b) "May vote in each ward," i.e. for aldermen or councillors, and also on by-laws requiring the assent of the electors (e).

Voting in townships and villages.

159. No elector shall vote more than once for reeve in a township or village; nor more than once in each ward for councillors in townships divided into wards; nor at more than one polling place in the township or village for deputy-reeve or deputy-reeves or councillors in townships not divided into wards and villages. 55 V. c. 42, s. 138; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (32).

Taken from 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (32) which is now substituted for the much less clearly worded s. 138 of 55 V. c. 42 and R.S.O. (1887), c. 184.

(a) The words here printed in italics should have been struck out long ago. Another instance of careless legislation.

In county council elections.

160. Where any person being a resident voter qualified to vote for county councillors is on the voters' list for two or more municipalities within any county council division, he shall vote for county councillors in that municipality only in which he resides, and only at the polling place of the polling subdivision in which he resides, if he is entitled to vote at such polling place. In case a voter is not resident within the division, he shall vote only once within any division, whether his name is on the voters' list of said division in more than one polling subdivision or not. 59 V. c. 52, s 13 part.

(a) This section extends to county council elections the principle long since adopted by the Legislature in regard to elections to local municipal councils (f).

Secs. 160-162 (2). Notes (a); (a); (a)-(b).

161. Every elector who is entitled to a vote in more than one ward or polling sub-division shall vote for mayor (in the case of cities and towns in which the aldermen or the councillors, as the case may be, are elected by wards) at the polling place of the ward or polling subdivision in which he is resident, if qualified to vote therein; or when he is a non-resident or is not entitled to vote in the ward or polling subdivision where he resides, then where he first votes and there only. 55 V. c. 42, s. 139; 62 V. (2nd Session) c. 26, s 14.

Where persons are to vote for mayor in cities and towns divided into wards.

Founded upon 39 V. c. 5, s. 3 (1875) which was a return to the principle of 22 V. c. 99, s. 78; amended in 1889 (62 V. (2) c. 26, s. 14) by striking out after "mayor" in line 2 the words "in cities and for mayor, reeve and deputy reeve in towns and for reeve in townships divided into wards," and substituting the words here printed. The present wording of the last clause, "or when he is a non-resident," etc., is taken from 50 V. c. 29, s. 5 (1887). The object is evidently to prevent,—or at least to minimize,—the possibility of personation.

(a) "In which he is resident." As to the meaning of "resident" see note (1) to s. 86 and note (b) to s. 686.

162.—(1) Any person who votes for mayor or reeve, after having already voted for mayor or reeve at some other polling place at that election, shall incur a penalty of $50, to be recovered with full costs of suit, by any person who will sue for the same in the Division Court having jurisdiction where the offence was committed; and any person against whom judgment is rendered shall be ineligible either as a candidate or as an elector at the next annual elections. 55 V. c. 42, s. 140 (1); 62 V. (2nd Session) c. 26, s. 15.

Penalty for voting twice for mayor or reeve.

Taken from 39 V. c. 5, s. 4 (1875), the words referring to deputy reeves having been struck out by 62 V. (2) c. 26, s. 15.

(a) Shall incur a penalty of $50." Apparently ss. 704-710 do not apply to the penalty imposed by this section; and since the mode of its recovery is thus "prescribed" the case would not be governed by R. S. O. c. 1, s. 8 (30) (g), but the whole amount recovered would belong to the plaintiff. See also ss. 166 and 251.

(b) "Next annual elections." The ineligibility would (apparently) not extend to a bye-election or to any annual election except the one to be held in the January following the judgment.

(2) The Judge shall direct that in default of payment of the said penalty and costs within the time fixed by the said Judge, the offender shall be imprisoned in the common gaol of the county for such period, not exceeding thirty days, as shall be directed by the said judgment; and in case of such default of payment the Judge shall issue a warrant for the arrest and confinement of the offender in such common gaol in accordance with the said judgment, unless the penalty and costs are sooner paid. 58 V. c. 42, s. 7.

Imprisonment of elector for voting twice for mayor, etc.

(f) See the note in small print under s. 161, and cf. Knill v. Towse, 24 Q.B.D. 186, 697 (1889-90), decided under a similar (English) Statute.

(g) Quoted ante in note (b) to s. 110.

Secs. 162 (1), 163 (3).

Notes (c); (d); (a).

(c) "The Judge shall." The only matters left to the discretion of the Judge are the time within which the penalty and costs shall be paid, and the period (not to exceed 30 days) of imprisonment in default of payment thereof.

(d) "Unless the penalty and costs are sooner paid." Quære, do these words cover the costs of the committal and conveyance of the offender to gaol? Sections 704-10 of this Act are clearly inapplicable here; nor is the warrant an "order under the authority of "The Municipal Act" within the meaning of s. 5 of "The Ontario Summary Convictions Act," (a) for this section relates only to orders made by certain magistrates, of whom a County Judge is not ex officio one (b).

(3) The receipt by any voter of a ballot paper within the polling booth shall be prima facie evidence that he has there and then voted. 55 V. c. 42, s. 140 (2).

Taken from 50 V. c. 29, s. 6 (1887).

Certificate to entitle deputy returning officers, poll clerks, and agents to vote where stationed.

163.—(1) The clerk of the municipality, on the request of any elector entitled to vote at one of the polling places, who has been appointed deputy-returning officer or poll-clerk, or who has been named as an agent of a candidate to attend at any polling place other than the one where he is entitled to vote, shall give to such elector a certificate that he is entitled to vote at the polling place where he is to be stationed during the polling day, and the certificate shall also state the property or other qualification in respect of which he is entitled to vote.

Right to vote on production of certificate.

(2) On the production of the certificate, the deputy-returning officer, poll-clerk or agent shall have the right to vote at the polling place where he is stationed during the polling day, instead of at the polling place where he would otherwise have been entitled to vote; and the deputy-returning officer shall attach the certificate to the voters' list; but no such certificate shall entitle such elector to vote at such polling place unless he has been actually engaged as such deputy-returning officer, poll-clerk, or agent during the day of polling; nor to vote for aldermen in cities, or for councillors in municipalities divided into wards, except in the ward where he would otherwise be entitled so to vote.

Who to administer oath.

(3) In case a deputy-returning officer votes at the polling place to which he has been appointed, the poll-clerk appointed to act at the polling place, or (in the absence of the poll-clerk) any elector authorized to be present, may administer to the deputy-returning officer the oath required by law to be taken by voters. 55 V. c. 42, s. 141.

Taken in substance from 39 V. c. 5, s. 10 (1875), except the last clause of subs. 2 beginning with the words "nor to vote for aldermen in cities," this clause having been added in the Revision of 1877 (R. S. O. (1877), c. 174, s. 137, apparently without any statutory authority. Cf. "The Ontario Election Act," (R. S. O. c. 9), s. 94.

(a) The principle of this section is adopted from the Election Amendment Act of 1874 (38 V. c. 3, s. 28). Sec. 27 of that Act removed the disqualification of deputy-returning officers and poll-clerks to vote at elections for the Legislative Assembly, which had theretofore existed by virtue of "The Election Law of 1868," (32 V. c. 21), s. 3.

DIVISION V.—THE POLL, (SECS. 164-187.)

Synopsis. The sections contained in this Division of Part III, Title II of the Act, relate chiefly to the procedure to be followed during and immediately after the hours of polling—the duties of deputy-returning officers—the mode in which ballots are to be marked, (ss. 168-172) counted, (s. 174), and returned to the clerk (s. 177), the right of candidates and their agents to be present in the polling place and at the counting of the ballots (ss. 173, 175; and see s. 201.

NEXT follow the duties of the clerk when the ballots and ballot boxes have been returned to him, ss. 177 (b)-179.

The procedure at and after the polling at an election for county councillors is prescribed by ss. 180-183, and ss. 184-186 provide what shall be done in case the polling has, by reason of riot or other emergency, not been commenced or completed at the proper time, as to which see also R. S. O. c. 248, s. 47.

SEC. 187 requires the councillors elect to make the necessary declarations and assume office.

164. The deputy-returning officer shall, immediately before the commencement of the poll, shew the ballot box to such persons as are present in the polling place, so that they may see that it is empty; he shall then lock the box and place his seal upon it in such manner as to prevent its being opened without breaking the seal; and he shall then place the box in his view for the receipt of ballot papers, and shall keep it so locked and sealed. 55 V. c. 42, s. 142.

Deputy-returning officer to show box empty to persons present and then lock and seal it.

Taken from 38 V. c. 28, s. 10 (1874) into which it was copied verbatim from "The Ballot Act of 1874," 37 V. c. 5, s. 7, which in its turn was taken from Rule 23 of the First Schedule to "The Ballot Act, 1872" (a) by which voting by ballot was introduced at parliamentary and municipal elections in Great Britain and Ireland. See note to s. 130.

(a) These precautions are taken to render impossible what is known among our neighbours to the south as "stuffing the ballot boxes." SEC. 193 makes it an offence for any person, without due authority, to open or otherwise interfere with any ballot box then in use for the purposes of the election, and prescribes a punishment for committing or attempting to commit the offence.

Object of this precaution.

165. Where a person claiming to be entitled to vote presents himself for the purpose of voting, the deputy-returning officer shall proceed as follows:

Proceedings by deputy-returning officer on tender of vote.

Taken originally from 38 V. c. 28, s. 11 (1874) which was taken (with some alterations) from "The Ballot Act of 1874," 37 V. c. 5, s. 8. Cf. "The Ballot Act, 1872" (Imp. Stat. 35 & 36 V. c. 33) Sched. 1, Rules 24, 25. The word "poll-book" has been substituted for "voters' list" by 54 V. c. 42, s. 6, and "deputy-returning officer" for "returning officer" by 40 V. c. 12, s. 13. The other amendments made in the section since 1874 are noted infra under the several subsections.

1. He shall ascertain that the name of such person or a name apparently intended therefor is entered upon the voters' list for the ward or polling subdivision for which the deputy-returning officer is appointed to act. 55 V. c. 42, s. 143 (1); 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (33).

Ascertaining that name is on list.

The words "or a name apparently intended therefor" are substituted by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (33) for the words "is entered or purports to be" in 38 V. c. 28, s. 11 (1).

(a) "He shall ascertain that the name of such person . . . is entered upon the voters' list." The voters' list is the sole and final evidence of the property qualification of an elector to vote at a municipal election. See s. 89 and note (a) thereto; also note (b) to s. 112. No questions to or dealings with the voter by the deputy-returning officer or poll clerk are authorized or allowable other than those expressly provided for in ss. 117, 165-172 (a). In Cambridge, (Election Case), Knapp and Ombler's Election Cases 131, the Judges severely animadverted upon the conduct of a deputy returning officer who required voters, as they came to the poll, to spell their names, and rejected their votes if the spelling differed from that in the voters' list.

(a) Imp. Stat. 35 & 36 V. c. 33.

Sec. 165, Sub-secs. 1-4. Notes (c)-(f).

Recording.

2. He shall record, or cause to be recorded by the poll clerk in the proper columns of the poll book the name, qualification, residence and legal addition of such person. 55 V. c. 42 s. 143 (2).

(c) The words "by the poll clerk in the proper columns of the poll-book the name, qualification, residence, and legal addition of such person" were substituted in 1891 (54 V. c. 42, s. 5) for the words "in the proper column of the voters' list the residence and the legal addition of such person" (38 V. c. 28, s. 11 (2)). This amendment seems to have been made by a draftsman not thoroughly familiar with the Act. It is true that the cases most commonly occurring are those governed by ss. 149 and 152, under which the deputy-returning officer is to be supplied with a blank poll-book in which he is to enter the name and qualification of the voter, as well as his residence and legal addition; but in the cases coming within the purview of ss. 150, 151, these particulars already appear upon the voters' lists which are supplied to the deputy-returning officer and are intended to be used as poll-books (b). The subsection requires amendment in regard to the procedure in those cases.

Votes objected to.

3. Where the vote is objected to by any candidate or his agent, the deputy-returning officer shall enter the objection (or cause the same to be entered) in the poll book, by writing opposite the name of such person in the proper column the words "Objected to," stating, at the same time, by which candidate, or on behalf of which candidate, the objection has been made, by adding after the words "Objected to," the name only of such candidate. 55 V. c. 42, s. 143 (4).

(d) This was formerly subs. 4 of 38 V. c. 28, s. 11 (37 V. c. 5, s. 8), and in "The Con. Mun. Act of 1892," (55 V. c. 42, s. 143) came after what is now subs. 4. The order of the subsections has, for obvious reasons, been changed in the present Revision.

(e) "By any candidate or his agent." The deputy-returning officer has no right to take the objection (c). To support an indictment for perjury (see s. 112), it is sufficient that the person who required the oath to be administered acted as the candidate's agent (d).

Oath.

4. If such person takes the oath or affirmation required to be taken by voters in the manner directed by section 112 to 116 inclusive of this Act, the deputy-returning officer shall enter or cause to be entered opposite such person's name, in the proper column of the said poll book the word "Sworn," or "Affirmed," according to the fact. 55 V. c. 42, s. 143 (3).

(f) See note (d). If the oath is taken by the voter, the deputy-returning officer must deliver to him a ballot paper under subs. 7, even though he may be sure that the person tendering the vote is swearing falsely (e).

Notes (g)-(k).

5. Where such person has been required to take the oath or affirmation, and refuses to take the same, the deputy-returning officer shall enter or cause to be entered opposite the name of such person, in the proper column of the poll book, the words "Refused to be sworn," or "Refused to Affirm," according to the fact; and the vote of such person shall not be taken or received; and if the deputy-returning officer takes or receives such vote, or causes the same to be taken or received, he shall incur a penalty of $200. 55 V. c. 42, s. 143 (5).

Refusal to take the oath.

(g) "A penalty of $200." As to how this penalty may be recovered see s. 704; as to its apportionment, s. 708.

6. Where the proper entries respecting the person so claiming to vote have been made in the poll book in the manner prescribed, the deputy-returning officer shall place (or cause to be placed) a check or mark opposite to the name of the voter in the certified voters' list to indicate that the name of such person has been entered in the poll book and that the person has been allowed to vote, and shall then sign his name or initials on the back of the ballot paper. 55 V. c. 42, s. 143 (6); 60 V. c. 3, s. 3.

Deputy returning officer to initial ballot paper and mark voters' list.

(h) The words "shall place or cause to be placed a check or mark," etc., down to and inclusive of the words in the seventh line, "has been allowed to vote" were inserted by 54 V. c. 42, s. 7 (1891) the language of which has been altered for the better by the Revisers of 1897 under the authority of 60 V. c. 3, s. 3. See note (h) to s. 4. The placing of a mark on the voters' list to indicate that a voter had received a ballot was directed by subs. 8 of the original section, 38 V. c. 28, s. 11, but that subsection was omitted in the Revision of 1877 (f).

(i) Whether a particular voter did or did not vote may be ascertained by means of this section, but for whom he voted is, and should remain a matter of secrecy. See s. 200. Any marking which would enable the deputy-returning officer to say for whom he voted would be illegal (g).

(j) "Shall sign (?) his name or initials on the back of the ballot paper." See as to this duty note (a) and (b) to s. 166.

7. The ballot-paper shall be delivered to such person. 55 V. c. 42, s. 143 (7).

Delivery of paper to voter.

(k) See the cases cited in note (a) to s. 116, and note (a) to s. 194.

8. The deputy-returning officer may, and upon request shall, either personally or through his sworn poll-clerk, explain to the voter, as concisely as possible, the mode of voting. 55 V. c. 42, s. 143 (8).

Deputy returning officer to explain mode of voting.

166. Every deputy-returning officer refusing, or wilfully omitting to sign his name or initials upon the back of the ballot paper, as provided for by clause 6 of section 165 of this Act, shall forfeit to any person aggrieved by such refusal or omission, the sum of $10, in respect of every ballot paper deposited at his polling subdivision upon which the said deputy-returning officer has not signed his name or initials as aforesaid; and the same may be recovered in the manner provided for the recovery of penalties by section 251 of this Act. 55 V. c. 42, s. 144.

Deputy-returning officer refusing, etc., to initial ballot papers.

Taken from "The Con. Mun. Act, 1885," (46 V. c. 18), s. 143. Cf. "The Ontario Election Act" (R.S.O. c. 10, ss. 193 (1), 194).

(a) Under s. 251 this sum of $10 is "recoverable with full costs of suit by any person who sues for the same in the Division Court having jurisdiction where the offence was committed." Since a mode is prescribed for its recovery, it is apprehended that subs. 30 of R.S.O. c. 1, s. 8 (a) would not apply, and that the plaintiff would be entitled to the whole amount recovered. See note (a) to s. 162 (1), ante.

(b) Under the rule (24) in the Schedule to the Imperial Act, which corresponds to the last clause of s. 165 (6), it has been held that the duty of the deputy-returning officer is a ministerial and not a judicial one, so that he is not protected by the Public Officers' Act (b), but is liable to a civil action by any party aggrieved by his default, in which action it is unnecessary to allege or prove malice or want of reasonable care on his part (c).

Deputy returning officer to note in poll book voters to whom ballot papers given.

167. The deputy-returning officer shall place or cause to be placed, in the columns of the poll book headed "Mayor," "Reeve (or "Mayor and Reeve"), "Alderman," "County Councillor," and "Councillor," as the case may be, his initials opposite the name of every voter receiving a ballot paper, to denote that the voter has received a ballot paper for mayor, reeve, alderman, county councillor, or councillor, as the case may be. 55 V. c. 42, s. 145.

Taken from 39 V. c. 5, s. 5 (2) (1875), the words "his initials" being substituted by 44 V. c. 24, s. 14 (1881) for the words "a mark" used in the original section. Cf. "The Ontario Election Act," (R.S.O., c. 10, s. 97 (11) and "The Ballot Act, 1872" (Imp. Stat. 35 & 36 V. c. 33), Sched. I. Part I. Rule 24.

Marking ballot paper.

168.—(1) Upon receiving from a deputy-returning officer the ballot paper prepared as aforesaid, the person receiving the same shall forthwith proceed into the compartments provided for the purpose, and shall then and therein mark his ballot paper in the manner mentioned in the directions contained in Schedule B of this Act by placing a cross, thus X on the right-hand side, opposite the name of any candidate for whom he desires to vote, or at any other place within the division which contains the name of such candidate. He shall then fold the ballot paper across, so as to conceal the names of the candidates, and the marks upon the face of the paper, and so as to expose the initials of the deputy-returning officer, and leaving the compartment, shall, without delay, and without showing the front to any one, or so displaying the ballot paper as to make known to any person the names of the candidates for or against whom he has marked his vote, deliver the ballot paper so folded to the deputy-returning officer, who shall, without unfolding the same, or in any way disclosing the names of the candidates, or the marks made by such elector, verify his own initials, and at once deposit the same in the ballot box in the presence of all persons entitled to be present and then present in the polling place; and the voter shall forthwith leave the polling place. 55 V. c. 42, s. 146.

Sec. 163 (1). Note (a).

Taken from 38 V., c. 28, s. 12 (37 V. c. 5, s. 9). The words in lines 8 and 9, "or at any other place within the division which contains the name of such candidate" were inserted in 1880 by 43 V. c. 24, s. 4, the same amendment having been made during the previous Session by 42 V. c. 4, s. 14 in the corresponding section of "The Ontario Election Act." See note (c) to s. 174. The original section was taken in substance from s. 2 of the Imperial Act cited in the last note ("The Ballot Act, 1872") and from Rule 25 of Part 1, Sched. 1, appended thereto. Cf. "The Ontario Election Act" (R.S.O. c. 9), s. 103.

(a) "Schedule B of this Act" as amended by 62 V. (2nd Session) c. 26, s. 16, (3), is as follows :—

Directions for the Guidance of Voters in Voting.

Directions to Voters.

The voter will go into one of the compartments, and with the pencil provided in the compartment place a cross, thus X, on the right hand side, opposite the name or names of the candidate or candidates for whom he votes or at any other place within the division which contains the name or names of such candidate or candidates.

Where two county councillors are to be elected, and the voter desires to give two votes for one candidate, he shall place two crosses, thus XX, on the right hand side opposite the name of the candidate for whom he votes, or at any other place in the division which contains the name of such candidate; but no person is allowed to give two votes for one candidate except as aforesaid.

The voter will fold up the ballot paper so as to show the name or initials of the deputy-returning officer (or returning officer, as the case may be) signed on the back, and, leaving the compartment, will, without showing the front of the paper to any person, deliver such ballot so folded to the deputy-returning officer (or returning officer, as the case may be) and forthwith quit the polling place.

If the voter inadvertently spoils a ballot paper, he may return it to the deputy-returning officer (or returning officer, as the case may be) who will, if satisfied of such inadvertence, give him another ballot paper.

If the voter votes for more candidates for any office than he is entitled to vote for, his ballot paper will be void as far as relates to that office, and will not be counted for any of the candidates for that office.

If the voter places any mark on his ballot paper by which he may afterwards be identified, or if the ballot paper has been torn, defaced, or otherwise dealt with by the voter so that he can thereby be identified, it will be void, and will not be counted.

If the voter takes a ballot paper out of the polling place, or deposits in the ballot box any other paper than the one given to him by the officer, he will be subject to imprisonment for any term not exceeding 6 months, with or without hard labour.

In the following forms of ballot paper, given for illustration, the candidates are: for county councillors, MARTIN CHUZZLEWIT, DAVID COPPERFIELD and ARTHUR PENDENNIS; for Mayor, JACOB THOMPSON and ROBERT WALKER; and for councillors, JOHN BULL, MORGAN JONES, ALLISTER MCALLISTER and PATRICK O'CONNELL; and the elector has marked the first ballot paper in favour of MARTIN CHUZZLEWIT and ARTHUR PENDENNIS for county councillors, the second ballot paper in favour of JACOB THOMPSON for mayor, and the third ballot paper in favour of JOHN BULL and PATRICK O'CONNELL for councillors.

(b) When the Legislature,—by ss. 11 and 16 of 62 V. (2) c. 26,—amended the forms of ballot-papers to be used at municipal elections, it seems inexplicable that they should have omitted from this Schedule of "Directions for the Guidance of Voters in Voting" any fac simile of the ballot papers which will be more frequently required than any others, viz.,—the forms prescribed by Schedule A of that Act for use in elections in townships and villages and also in cities and towns where the aldermen or councillors are elected by general vote. It is suggested to the clerks of municipalities in which these forms are to be used that when printing the "Directions to Voters" for a municipal election—pursuant to s. 146—they should remedy this legislative error and print therein a copy of the proper ballot-paper according to the forms given ante, at pp. 165, 166.

See further as the marking and counting of ballot papers, notes (c) and (d) to this section and note (g) to s. 174. In "The Ballot Act, 1872" (a) the only words used in the Statute itself are "The voter having secretly marked his vote on the paper and folded it up so as to conceal his vote shall place it in a closed box in the presence of the officer presiding at the polling station." It is not in the body of the Act, but in the second Schedule thereto,—under the title "Form of Directions for the Guidance of the Voter in Voting"—that the provision first occurs. (b)

> "The voter will go into one of the compartments and with the pencil provided in the compartment place a cross on the right hand side opposite the name of each candidate for whom he votes thus X."

On this ground it has been held in England that the provision requiring the voter to make a cross is directory only and not absolute, and that a substantial compliance with the "Directions to Voters" is sufficient. (c)

> "In our Statute it is very different and it is expressly enacted that the voter "shall mark his ballot paper in the manner mentioned in the directions . . . by placing a cross on the right hand side opposite the name of the candidate for whom he desires to vote." (d) The natural and obvious meaning of this language is that he must make a cross to signify his choice. The whole policy of securing secrecy precludes the suggestion that the voter is at liberty to make any mark he pleases; and the Legislature has therefore prescribed a kind of mark which is the easiest and most familiar—that, indeed, which is used by the illiterate." Where ballots to be marked.

(c) "Opposite to the name of any candidate for whom he desires to vote, or at any other place within the division which contains the name of such candidate."

The words "or at any other place within the division etc." were added in 1880 (a). Ballots are in many instances, marked by hands unfamiliar with the use of pen or pencil, from which or perhaps from the carelessness or nervousness of the voter it often results that the cross is not wholly made within the division containing the name of the candidate for whom the vote is intended to be given. But a ballot thus marked is not necessarily void so long as the cross (i. e. the crossing or intersection of the two lines which compose it) is clearly and altogether within the division. It is only when the intersection of these lines so nearly coincides with the boundary line between two adjoining divisions of the ballot papers as to make it doubtful to which of them it belongs that the ballot must be rejected for uncertainty. See the cases on this point referred to in note (g) to s. 174.

(d) "The division which contains the name of such candidate." The effect of these words was considered by MACLENNAN, J. A., in West Elgin (Provincial Election) (b). He says:

> "The learned County Judge found the votes duly cast for the two defendants to be equal. His decision with respect to forty-seven votes was objected to before me. Twenty of these depend on the same question. The form of ballot used was identical with that in the Schedule of the Election Act, except that a scroll about one eighth of an inch wide was used instead of the plain lines running from right to left in the form. The upright lines separating the numbers from the names were thin plain lines similar to those in the form, and bore the same colours as the names of the candidates respectively. Fifteen of these twenty ballots were marked in the division containing McDiarmid's number, to the left of the line separating the numbers from the name; and the other five were similarly marked in the division containing MacNish's number. They were all counted by the learned Judge; and his decision is objected to on behalf of MacNish. The ground of objection is, that not being marked in the division containing the name, they are void, as not complying with s. 103 of the Act, which directs that the cross be placed by the voter on the right hand side opposite the name of the candidate for whom he desires to vote, or at any other place within the division which contains the name of such candidate.
> The question does not concern the right to vote, but only the proper method of doing so. The Legislature has given certain directions for marking the ballot. They are intended for all classes of voters, including some who are not accustomed to the use of paper and pencil, and some who are dull and unintelligent, and yet who have as good a right to vote as the most intelligent. Therefore, if a ballot is so marked that no one looking at it can have any doubt for which candidate the vote was intended, and if there has been a compliance with the provisions of the Act according to any fair and reasonable construction of it, the vote ought to be allowed. I think that is the result of the authorities, both here and in England; Grenester, 4 O'M. & H. 196; Woodward v. Sarsons, L. R. 10 C. P. 733; Thornbury, 16 Q. B. D. 739; Phillips v. Goff, 17 Q. B. D. 805; North Victoria, H. E. C. at p. 680; Bothwell, 8 S. C. R. 676. In the present case the question is whether twenty persons, who had an undoubted right to vote, and who desired and intended and endeavoured to do so, have nevertheless failed in their attempt. There are two methods of marking the ballot. The cross may be placed at the right hand side, opposite to the name of the candidate intended to be voted for, or it may be placed in any other place within the division containing his name. These are really not two alternative methods, because the second method includes the first. Are these ballots marked within the division containing the candidate's name? If we say, looking at the ballot which was here used, that the name of the candidate is in one division and his number in another, then these marks are not in the division containing the name, but in that containing the number. But I think it clear that these are not the divisions intended by the Statute. The dividing line between the name and the number is not essential. There is no need whatever for a separating line between a candidate's name and his number, and the ballot would be perfectly good without it. Section 69, ss. 5 (c) requires the names to be arranged alphabetically on the ballot, and subs. 3 directs the number and name of each to be printed in ink of different colours (d). Therefore, the number is something belonging to the candidate, and not something distinct. There is no direction where the number is to be placed, and it might be placed anywhere near the name, before or after it or above or under it. It is different with the names of the candidates. They must be separated from each other. Each must have a separate part of the ballot paper for itself, and must therefore be in a separate division. Accordingly, we find the form in the Schedule divided by lines drawn from right to left, with as many divisions as there are candidates. I think these are the divisions intended by the Statute and that the divisions containing the numbers are mere subdivisions of the divisions containing the names. In other words, it is the same division of the ballot paper which contains each candidate's name and number. It would be a strange construction of the Statute which would hold that, on a ballot from which the immaterial and useless upright lines were omitted, a cross near the number or even to the left of it would be good, as it clearly would be, but that on a ballot containing those lines, a cross so placed would be bad; and yet a ballot in either form would be good, and might be used with propriety in either election. I think a construction leading to such a result ought not to be adopted, if it can be avoided. In my opinion, there is a very plain sense in which, notwithstanding the upright line, the space containing the number may be regarded as part of the division of the ballot containing the candidate's name and therefore I am bound to hold that it is so, and to affirm the validity of ballots marked within that space.

Where bad lots to be marked.

I therefore think the learned Judge's decision was quite right, and that those twenty votes were properly allowed and counted by him."

(e) "The deputy-returning officer . . . . . without unfolding the same." But where a deputy-returning officer had unfolded ballot papers delivered to him by voters, and refolded them so as to expose his initials (see next note) ROSE, J. affirmed the decision of the County Judge refusing to avoid the election, as it appeared that the irregularity had not affected the result (e).

(f) "Shall . . . . verify his own initials." These words were probably inserted in consequence of the opinions expressed by KEATING and BRETT, JJ., in Pickering v. James (f).

(g) "And at once deposit the same in the ballot box in the presence of all persons entitled to be present and then present in the polling place." Under the English Act the voter himself puts his ballot into the box. See ante, note (b). Subsections 1*b* and 3 of s. 193 prescribe the punishment for fraudulently putting into the ballot box any other than the proper ballot paper.

For County Councillors.

(2) Each person qualified to vote for county councillors shall be entitled to as many votes as there are members of the county council to be elected in his county council division; and he may, at his option, where there are two county councillors to be elected, give both of his votes to one candidate, in which case he shall place two crosses, thus X X, on the Voter not to take his ballot paper from polling place.

170. No person who has received a ballot paper from the deputy-returning officer shall take the same out of the polling place; and any person having so received a ballot paper, who leaves the polling place without first delivering the same to the deputy-returning officer in the manner prescribed, shall thereby forfeit his right to vote; and the deputy-returning officer shall make an entry in the poll-book, in the column for "Remarks," to the effect that such person received a ballot paper, but took the same out of the polling place, or returned the same declining to vote, as the case may be; and in the latter case the deputy-returning officer shall immediately write the word "Declined" upon such ballot paper and shall preserve the same. 55 V. c. 42, s. 148; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (34).

Certain words added by 38 V. c. 28, s. 14 to the section as contained in "The Election Act of 1874," (37 V. c. 5), s. 11, have been struck out by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (34) as unnecessary, the return of all ballot papers to the clerk being fully provided for by s. 177 (3), (4).

(a) The punishment for fraudulently taking a ballot paper out of the polling place is prescribed by s. 193 (1 c), (3).

Proceedings in case of incapacity to mark ballot paper.

171. In the case of an application by a person claiming to be entitled to vote, who is incapacitated by blindness or other physical cause from marking his ballot paper, or in the case of a person claiming to be entitled to vote who makes a declaration that he is unable to read, or (where the voting is on a Saturday) that he is of the Jewish persuasion and objects on religious grounds to mark his ballot in the manner prescribed by section 168, the proceedings shall be as follows:

1. The deputy-returning officer shall, in the presence of the agents of the candidates, cause the vote of such person to be marked on a ballot paper in the manner directed by such person, and shall place the ballot paper in the ballot box.

(g) 6 P. R. 344 (1876).

Sec. 171. Sub-secs. 2-4. Note (a).

2. The deputy-returning officer shall state or cause to be stated in the poll book, by an entry opposite the name of such person in the proper column of the poll book, that the vote of such person is marked in pursuance of this section, and the reason why it is so marked.

Procedure in case voter cannot mark his ballot paper.

3. The declaration aforesaid may be in the form of Schedule E to this Act, and shall at the time of the polling be made by the person claiming to be entitled to vote, before the deputy-returning officer, who shall attest the same as nearly as may be according to the form given in Schedule F to this Act; and the said declaration shall be given to the deputy-returning officer at the time of voting. 55 V. c. 42, s. 149; 60 V. c. 3, s. 3; c. 14, s. 83 (1).

4. In the case of a person who objects on religious grounds to mark his ballot, the declaration may be made orally and to that effect. 60 V. c 14, s. 83 (2).

The whole of this section (except the clause relating to voters "of the Jewish persuasion" and sub-s. 4 (relative thereto) is copied from 38 V. c. 28, s. 15 (27 V. c. 5, s. 12) and was originally taken from Rule 26 of Sched. 1 to "The Ballot Act," 1872, (Imp. Stat. 35 & 36 V. 3, 33.) The provision allowing the ballots of Hebrew voters to be marked for them if the voting is on Saturday was added in 1897 by 60 V. c. 14, s. 83, and is, in substance, contained in the section of the Imperial Statute just cited. Cf. "The Ontario Election Act," (R. S. O. c. 9) s. 106.

(a) "The deputy-returning officer shall, in the presence of the agents for the candidates, cause the vote of such person to be marked." etc. The meaning of these words in 37 V. c. 5, s. 12 was discussed by DRAPER, C.J.A., in Halton (Provincial Election) (h), under the following circumstances:—One B., a voter who could neither read nor write, had come into the polling booth, and in the presence of the deputy-returning officer had asked for a person (who was not present) to give him instructions how to mark his ballot. The deputy-returning officer gave him a ballot paper, and he then stated that he wished to vote for the respondent. One W., an agent of the respondent in the polling booth, took the pencil and marked the ballot paper as the voter wished, and the voter handed it to the deputy-returning officer. No declaration of inability to read and write was made by the voter. Held, that no one but the deputy-returning officer was authorized to mark a voter's ballot, or to interfere with or question a voter as to his vote.

Who may be present.

But in Prescott (Provincial Election), tried before PATTERSON, J.A., and FERGUSON, J., and afterwards reviewed by the Court of Appeal, (i) the deputy-returning officer, in polling the votes of some fifty illiterate voters, instead of taking from each of them a declaration "that he was unable to read," asked each if he was able to read or write, and having received an answer in the negative, requested him to put his mark to the declaration of illiteracy, explaining what he conceived to be its effect thus:—"You hereby sign that you are unable to read or write sufficiently to mark your ballot paper." He then openly marked the ballot paper as instructed by the voter, in the presence of both candidates, their agents and the poll-clerk, all of whom had taken the usual declaration of secrecy. One witness also said that the constable was in the room and unsworn. Held, (at the trial and on appeal), that there was no substantial violation of the principle of secret voting laid down by "The Ontario Election Act" (j), and that the votes were not improperly taken.

Per OSLER, J.A.:—"There is nothing in the Act which makes it necessary that the deputy-returning officer should withdraw with the agents of the candidates and the voter to another room, or which forbids the poll-clerk or other persons lawfully present in the polling booth from remaining there while the voter announces for whom he wishes to vote."

Secs. 171, 172, Notes (b) (c).

Procedure in case a voter cannot mark his ballot paper.

Per STRAGE, C.J.O.: "The illiterate voters were not misled, but the conduct of the deputy-returning officer was perverse. The manifest policy of the Act is that the voting shall be in all cases as secret as under the circumstances it can be. It was not necessary that more than the three persons named in the Act, besides the voter himself, should be present: the deputy-returning officer and one representative of each candidate. The presence of any other officer was not in accordance with the spirit and policy of the Act, and should not have been permitted by the deputy-returning officer."

Per BURTON, J.A.:—"Beyond the slight mistake made by the deputy-returning officer in explaining the declaration, there appears nothing in the course pursued which was not warranted by the Act."

Opinions similar to those of OSLER and BURTON, JJ.A., were expressed by the Judges in East Clare (Election Case) (k).

(b) "The form of Schedule E to this Act" is as follows:

Proceedings in case ballot paper cannot be used.

172. A person claiming to be entitled to vote, who has inadvertently dealt with his ballot paper in such a manner that it cannot be conveniently used as a ballot paper, may, on delivering to the deputy-returning officer the ballot paper so inadvertently dealt with, and proving the fact of the inadvertence to the satisfaction of the deputy-returning officer, obtain another ballot paper in the place of the ballot paper so delivered up; and the deputy-returning officer shall immediately write the word "Cancelled" upon the ballot paper, and preserve the same. 55 V. c. 42 s. 150; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (35).

Taken from 38 V. c. 28, s. 16 (= 37 V. c. 5, s. 15, the original of which is Rule 28 in the Schedule to the Imperial Act cited in the last note. Cf. "The Ontario Election Act," (R. S. O. c. 9,) s. 199. See the note to s. 170.

(k) 4 O'M. & H. 163 (1893).

(a) The number of ballot papers given by the deputy-returning officer to voters should correspond with the number of marked papers deposited in the ballot box. If this were not so there would be no sufficient safeguard against dishonest practices on the part of a returning officer. But since a voter may by inadvertence so use his ballot paper as to render it useless for the purpose of his vote, he should not, for that reason, be deprived of his vote. Hence provision is made by this section for the issue, in such a case, of a second ballot paper to the voter, subject to the safeguards mentioned. It is not expressly stated whether in case the voter spoiled the second ballot paper he could obtain a third, but there is nothing in the section which indicates that its provisions are limited to a single instance.

(b) "Cannot be conveniently used as a ballot paper." See per MACLENNAN, J.A., in West Elgin (Provincial Election) 18 C. L. T. at p. 252, cited in note (h) to s. 174.

(c) "The Ontario Election Act," (R.S.O. c. 9) contains two sections, (ss. 107, 108—the former taken from "The Ballot Act, 1872," (referred to in the preceding notes)—which permit the elector, upon taking the prescribed oath, to mark and cast a "tendered ballot paper," in case (1) some person has already voted as such elector, or (2) the elector claims that his name has been improperly omitted from the list in the possession of the deputy-returning officer, and that he has a right to vote. "The Municipal Act" contains no corresponding provision. See note (a) to s. 89.

173. During the time appointed for polling, no person shall be entitled or permitted to be present in the polling place, other than the officers, candidates, clerks or agents authorized to attend at the polling place and the voter who is for the time being actually engaged in voting; but it shall at all times be lawful for the deputy-returning officer to have present or to summon to his assistance in the polling place, any police constable or peace officer, for the purpose of maintaining order, or of preserving the public peace, or preventing any breach thereof, or of removing any person who, in the opinion of the deputy-returning officer, is obstructing the polling or wilfully violating the provisions of this Act. 55 V. c. 42, s. 151.

Who may be present in polling place.

Taken from 58 V. c. 28, s. 17 (= 37 V. c. 5, s. 109. Cf. "The Ballot Act, 1872," (imp. Stat. 35 & 36 V. c. 33,) Sched. 1, Rules 21, 51, and "The Ontario Election Act," (R. S. O. c. 9) s. 111.

(a) "Candidates." In ss. 21 and 33 of "The Ballot Act, 1872," the candidate himself was not mentioned among the persons entitled to be present either at the polling or at the counting of the votes, but the Court of C. P., reading these sections with s. 51, (s. 201 of our Act) held that the candidate has as much right to be present as an officer, clerk or agent authorized to attend the polling place, although the fact of his presence may produce some of the mischiefs which it was the design of the Legislature when enacting vote by ballot, to remove (l). Under s. 201 of our Act, however, he may not be present at the marking of a ballot under s. 171.

(b) "Agents authorized to attend." "The Municipal Act" nowhere requires this authorization to be in writing, nor, on the other hand, does it contain anything corresponding to ss. 208 and 210 of "The Ontario Election Act," (R. S. O. c. 9)—the first of which provides that no person disqualified to vote shall act as agent for a candidate; and the second, that in the absence of an agent having a written authority any elector present may declare himself to be and may act as a candidate's agent. In order to entitle him to be present in the polling place the agent must however have taken the statutory declaration of secrecy. (s. 199).

Notes (a)-(e).

Counting the votes.

174. In every polling place, the deputy-returning officer shall, immediately after the close of the poll, in the presence of the poll clerk (if any) and of such of the candidates or of their agents as may then be present, open the ballot box, and proceed to count the votes as follows:

Section 174 is taken from 38 V., c. 28, s. 18 (=37 V., c. 5, s. 17), with the amendments noted infra under the several subsections. Cf. Imp. Stat., 35-36 V., c. 33 ("The Ballot Act, 1872") Sched I., Rules 33-36, and "The Ontario Election Act," (R.S.O., c. 9,) s. 112.

(a) "The deputy-returning officer shall immediately after the close of the poll." "Immediately" is a mistake. Section 177 (1) requires that the deputy returning officer shall not "after," but "at the close of the poll" first fill up and sign the certificate showing the total number of persons who have voted at the polling place.

(b) "Such of the candidates or their agents as may then be present." See ss. 201, 202.

(c) "Open the ballot box." which he locked and sealed before the commencement of the polling. See ante, s. 164.

Rejected ballots.

1. He shall examine the ballot papers, and any ballot paper which has not on its back the name or initials of the deputy-returning officer, or on which more votes are given than the elector is entitled to give, or on which anything, except the initials or name of the deputy-returning officer on the back, is written or marked, by which the voter can be identified, or which has been torn, defaced, or otherwise dealt with by the voter so that he can thereby be identified, shall be void, and shall not be counted.

Uncertain ballots.

A ballot paper on which votes are given for a greater number of candidates for any office than the voter is entitled to vote for, shall be void as regards all the candidates for such office, but shall be good as regards the votes for any other offices in respect to which the voter has not voted for more candidates than he is entitled to vote for. 55 V., c. 52 s. 152 (1); 60 V., c. 15, Sched C. (36).

The first sentence of this subsection is taken from 38 V., c. 28, s. 18—the words "or which has been torn, defaced or otherwise dealt with by the voter so that he can thereby be identified" having been inserted by 60 V., c. 15, Sched. C (36). The second sentence was added in 1877 by 40 V., c. 7, Sched. A (109). Cf. "The Ontario Election Act," (R. S. O., c. 9), s. 112 (1), (2), (3).

Who may be present.

(d) "He shall examine the ballot papers." Two agents for each candidate are entitled to be present (s. 175) and to take part in this examination and counting of the ballot papers (a). Any candidate may also be present in addition to his two agents or in the stead of one of them (b).

Ballots not initialed by D. R. O.

(e) "Any ballot paper which has not on its back the name or initials of the deputy-returning officer." See ss. 165 (6) and 166 and the notes thereto. The duty of the deputy-returning officer under this subsection is plain and imperative even though the want of the name or initials may have been due to his own neglect or default. But upon a recount of the votes the Judge is not thus restricted (c), and he should count such ballots, if they are otherwise regular; for "the neglect of the officer should not be visited on the elector or the candidate, unless it is apparent that it has caused or might have caused some substantial injustice" (d). In Thornbury (e), it was held by the Q.B.D. that a ballot paper which conforms in other respects to the requirements of "The Ballot Act, 1872," (a), is not void because it has not on its face the official mark which is directed by s. 2 of that Act to be marked "on both sides" of the ballot paper. "The Ontario Election Act" now provides for this case. See s. 112 (2) of that Act, which is taken from 58 V. c. 4, s. 15 (1895). As to the civil and quasi-criminal liability of the deputy returning officer in case of neglect or default, see s. 166 and notes (a) and (b) thereto.

(f) "Or on which more votes are given than the elector is entitled to give." When more votes appear upon the ballot paper than the elector is entitled to give, it cannot be decided which, if any, of them are the proper votes. In such a case the ballot paper must therefore be rejected (b) for uncertainty. This is, however, controlled by the final clauses of the subsection. So far as the intention of the voter is clearly apparent, he is not to lose his franchise. Too many votes.

(g) "Or on which anything . . . is written or marked by which the voter can be identified." (N.B.—The comma after "marked" in the text of the Revised Statutes is a printer's error.) It is not declared that all ballots having on them anything except the name or initials of the deputy-returning officer shall be rejected, but only such as have marks by which the voter can be identified. "It is not every writing or every mark . . . which is to make the paper void, but only such a writing or mark as is one by which the voter can be identified."(c) "The Statute says that the mark must be one by which the voter can [not might possibly] be identified."(d) Identifying marks.

Whether or not the marking upon, or otherwise dealing with, the ballot paper has been such that the voter can thereby be identified, must in every case be a question of fact; and it is therefore not surprising that there should have been very numerous decisions, and much conflict of judicial opinion.

Many of the earlier cases turn upon the question whether the ballot paper was properly marked "on the right hand side opposite the name" of the candidate (s. 168); but since the addition to that section in 1880 (e) of the words "or at any other place within the division which contains the name of the candidate," some of these decisions have ceased to be applicable (f).

The following tabular view may prove useful in the counting of ballots under both this Act and "The Ontario Election Act."

A SUMMARY OF THE LAW RELATING TO THE COUNTING OF BALLOTS.

I. As to the place of the mark. This must be "on the right hand side opposite the name of any candidate . . . or at any other place within the division which contains the name of such candidate."

1. If the cross extends beyond the division containing the name of one candidate into that which contains the name of another candidate, the ballot will be—

(a) Good (for the first named candidate) if the intersection (crossing) of the two lines is clearly in his compartment (a).

(b) But bad

(1) If mark not unmistakeably above or below the line separating the names of candidates. (b)

Note (g).

(2) The ballot is :

Bad. (1) If the cross is wholly outside any division containing the name of any candidate (d).

(2) If cross is in proper place but on back of ballot paper (e).

3. Where ballot papers contain names of four candidates, of whom two may be voted for—

(a) Ballots with two crosses, one on the line above the first name and one on the line above the second name good for the two candidates first named (f).

(b) Ballots with two crosses, one on the line above the first name and one on the line dividing the second and third compartments good for first named candidate only (g).

II. As to the nature of the mark.

It may be made either,—

(1) With a pencil. See note (a) to s. 168 ; or

(2) With ink (h).

(3) With a charred stick or by means of an indentation with a blunt knife or some other instrument (i).

III. As to the shape of the mark.

(1) A cross, thus X, is good. See s. 168 (1) and note (c) thereto.

(2) An elaborated cross. The following have been held

Good :

(a) With feet so as to look like the letter X (j).

(b) With lines across top and bottom, thus X̲ (k).

(c) A double cross (l).

(d) A cross with a line or lines through the intersection, so that the figure approaches in form to a star (m).

(e) Several lines crossing another line or lines (n).

(3) An incomplete cross.

(a) Good.

(1) An inverted "V," thus Λ (o).

(2) A "Y," thus Y. (p).

(b) Bad.

(2) Two single strokes (r).

(4) An irregular or shaky mark.

(a) Good. So long as it does not lose the form of a cross, (a).

(b) Bad. When, instead of resembling a cross it takes a different form, (b).

(1) Two single strokes (l).

(2) A number of lines, parallel or otherwise, but not making a cross (m).

(3) A circle (c).

(4) Marks like this) (, or this)((m).

IV. Ballots with additional marks are

(a) Good.

(1) If with a second cross due to the blotting of ink or the rubbing off of black-lead when the ballot was folded (n).

(2) If more crosses than one in the same compartment (g).

(b) Bad.

(3) With any other plain and substantial mark in the front of the ballot paper in addition to and separate from the voter's cross (z).

But good,

(4) If the mark appears to be inadvertent and not such that the voter could thereby be identified (o).

(5) Or if the other mark has been erased or obliterated (b)

Bad.

(6) With any mark or marks (other than the initials of the deputy returning officer) on the back of the ballot paper (e).

(7) With any name or initials or any other writing (other than the initials of the deputy-returning officer) on the front or back of the ballot paper (d).

But in West Elgin (MacNish v. McDiarmid), 34 C.L.J.N.S. 461; 18 C.L.T. 249 (1898), ballots (otherwise properly marked) were allowed, one of which had on its face the word "MacNish," another (on the back) "Mr. MacNish, West Elgin," a third (on the back) the initials "D. F." as well of those of the deputy-returning officer; but a fourth ballot having on the back the name "John Cains," was rejected.

(h) "Torn, defaced, or otherwise dealt with by the voter so that he can thereby be identified." In South Wentworth, H. E. C. 531 (1879), it appeared that a voter, after marking his ballot had inadvertently torn it in two. in the box the torn ballot paper, which was rejected on the counting of the votes. The evidence showed that the act was not done by the voter so that he could thereby be identified. On a scrutiny of the ballots before Moss, C. J. O., and GALT, J., the vote was allowed. So in West Elgin (1898) (Provincial Election), where a considerable portion of the blank paper on the right hand side of a ballot had been removed—about three-tenths of the whole width—the removed part having no printing on it, MACLENNAN, J. A., allowed the vote, holding that there was nothing by which the voter could be identified, and calling attention to the fact that the only case in which a voter can give back his ballot paper and ask for a new one is where the first has been dealt with "in such a manner that it cannot be conveniently used as a ballot paper" (s. 172), and that this was not the case here (b). The Election Acts under which the above cases were decided do not, however, contain the words now under consideration; yet in West Huron (Provincial Election) (1898) (c) OSLER, J. A., rejected a ballot from which a strip (having upon it the official number) was torn off and missing, holding that this must be presumed to have been done by the voter.

General rules.

(i) General Principles. The following general rules as to the principles which should govern the allowance or rejection of doubtful ballots may be of service not only to returning officers and deputy-returning officers but even to Judges also:

"Wherever the mark evidences an attempt or intention to make a cross though the cross may be in some respects imperfect, the ballot should be counted, unless from the peculiarity of the mark made it can be reasonably inferred that there was not an honest design simply to make a cross, but there was also an intention so to mark the paper that it could be identified, in which case the ballot should be rejected. But if the mark made indicates no design of complying with the law, but on the contrary, a clear intent not to mark with a cross as the law directs, as, for instance, by making a straight line or a round "O," then such non-compliance with the law renders the ballot null. The irresistible presumption from such a plain and wilful departure from the terms of the Statute is that the ballot was so marked for a sinister purpose (d)."

"With regard to those votes to which objections have been raised, we have proceeded upon what we think was the true intention of the Legislature in framing the Act of Parliament. We have, first of all, asked ourselves whether the voter received his paper with the intention of voting. The mere fact that he has applied for and received a voting paper affords abundant evidence that such was his intention. Then we have looked at the face of the paper itself, with a view to see whether or not the voter has by any mark thereby indicated the person for whom he wished and intended to vote; and if we have found such a mark, we have upheld the vote, regardless of the very technical, and (we think) unsubstantial objections which have been allowed in some of the earlier cases to be found in the Reports, . . . our view being that we ought to interpret the Act liberally, and (subject to other objections) to give effect to any mark on the face of the paper which, in our opinion, clearly indicated the intention of the voter, . . . whether such mark was made with pen and ink, pencil, or was even an indentation made in the face of the paper, and whether on the right or left hand of the candidate's name, or elsewhere within his compartment on the voting paper. Of course any deviation from the course pointed out in the Act tends to create difficulties such might be avoided by a rigid observance of it. It is highly prudent, therefore, to adhere to the directions of the Act, though we do not think it essential (e)."

Secs. 175-177 (1).

Notes (b); (a).

(b) Except in the marking of a ballot under s. 171, a candidate may himself be present in addition to the two agents or instead of one of them (s. 201); and, it seems, he has also a general right to be present irrespective of the purpose of his attendance (b).

176. Every deputy-returning officer, upon being requested so to do, shall deliver to the persons authorized to attend at his polling place, a certificate of the number of votes given at that polling place for each candidate, and of the number of rejected ballot papers. 55 V. c. 42, s. 154.

Taken from 39 V. c. 5, s. 15. Cf. "The Ontario Election Act" (R. S. O. c. 9) s. 115.

(a) "Persons authorized to attend." Cf. the preceding section; also s. 173, ("agents authorized to attend"); and s. 201, ("agents may (in pursuance of this Act) be authorized to attend." The words may fairly include the poll-clerk and any candidate. "The Ontario Election Act" (s. 115) provides for the delivery of the certificate "in the absence of the candidates or agents, to the electors present representing the candidates respectively." In voting on by-laws "the persons authorized to attend" (s. 363) are defined by ss. 343 and 345.

Deputy-returning officer's duties after votes are counted.

177.—(1) Every deputy-returning officer shall, at the close of the poll certify under his signature on the voters' list in full words the total number of persons who have voted at the polling place at which he has been appointed to preside; and, at the completion of the counting of votes after the close of the poll, shall, in the presence of the agents of the candidates, make up into separate packets, sealed with his own seal, and the seals of such agents of the candidates as desire to affix their seals, and marked upon the outside with a short statement of the contents of such packet, the date of the day of the election, the name of the deputy-returning officer, and of the ward or polling subdivision and of the municipality.

(a) The statement of votes given for each candidate and of the rejected ballot papers:

(b) The used ballot papers which have not been objected to and have been counted;

(c) The ballot papers which have been objected to, but which have been counted by the deputy-returning officer;

(d) The rejected ballot papers;

(e) The spoiled ballot papers;

(f) The unused ballot papers;

(g) A statement of the number of voters whose votes have been marked by the deputy-returning officer under section 171 of this Act with the declarations of inability; and the notes taken of objections made to ballot papers found in the ballot-box. 55 V. c. 42, s. 155 (1); 60 V, c. 3, s. 3.

The first sentence is taken from 38 V. c. 28, s. 20, the rest of the section down to, and inclusive of clause (a), and including also clauses (d), (e) and (f), from 38 V. c. 28, s. 19. Clause (b) is also to be found there, but the present wording is taken from R. S. O. (1877), c. 174, s. 150 (1), (b). Clause (c) was added by 39 V. c. 5, s. 12; and clause (g) in its present form is found first in the Act of 1883, (46 V. c. 18), s. 154, the requirement of the previous Acts that the voters' list should be enclosed in this packet having been struck out in 1881 by 44 V. c. 24, s. 2, when the next subsection (2) was amended as shown in the note thereto. Cf. "The Ontario Election Act," (R. S. O. c. 9) ss. 114, 116, and "The Ballot Act, 1872" (Imp. Stat. 35 & 36 V. c. 33, Sched. 1, Rule 29.

Sec. 177 (1) (2).

Note (a).

(a) "Every deputy-returning officer shall . . . make up into separate packets . . sealed with his own seal," etc. In Re Ottawa Municipal Election, (a) two applications were made for writs of mandamus to the County Judges of Carleton commanding them to proceed with the recount of the ballot papers cast at the annual municipal elections in two of the city wards, both Judges having stopped because, on opening the ballot boxes, it appeared that the various classes of ballots had not been made up into separate packets, sealed and authenticated as required by this section. The applications were refused with costs, and it was held that the remedial provisions of s. 204 were inapplicable to such a case. BOYD, C., in giving judgment says (p. 107):

> "It appears to be the clear meaning of the law that there should be some substantial process of sealing and securing the various ballots entrusted to the deputy-returning officer and made use of for the purposes of the election."

And (p. 108):

> "When the provisions of the statute have been followed the ballot papers come before the County Judges carrying their own authentication, as being those which were sealed up at the close of the first count; for s. 166 (b) provides that any indorsement appearing on any package of ballot papers produced by the clerk shall be evidence of such papers being what they are stated to be by the indorsement. But without this, how can the Judges know that the unsealed and unsecured ballots are the same and in the same state and condition as when deposited by the voters? Because no means are given upon the recount by which he can take evidence to show with what other or equivalent care and custody the ballots have been protected."

At a municipal election in England under "The Ballot Act, 1872," (c) twenty ballot papers were marked by the deputy-returning officer by the direction of voters who were unable to read. Each of these ballot papers was placed by the deputy-returning officer in the ballot box wrapped up in the declarations of inability to read which had been made by these voters respectively. These declarations of inability to read were not made up into a separate packet, sealed with the seal of the deputy-returning officer, and so delivered to the clerk, (d) but were delivered to him in the ballot box with the ballot papers as above mentioned. These voters could have been, but were not in fact, identified by the clerk at the counting of the votes. Held, that, notwithstanding this breach by the deputy-returning officer of the directions in the rules, the votes in question were properly counted (e).

Declaration by deputy-returning officer as to use of voters' list and poll-book.

(2) Before returning the voters' list and poll-book to the clerk of the municipality, the deputy-returning officer shall make and subscribe before such clerk, or a Justice of the Peace or before the poll-clerk, his declaration under oath that the voters' list and poll-book were used in the manner prescribed by law, and that the entries required by law to be made therein were correctly made; which declaration shall be in the form of Schedule G to this Act and shall thereafter be annexed to the voters' list: and such voters' list, poll-book and declaration may be inspected at any time, in presence of the clerk, by any elector of the municipality. 55 V. c. 42, s. 155 (2): 58 V. c. 42, s. 8: 60 V. c. 3, s. 3.

Under 39 V. c. 5, s. 13 (which was the original of this subsection), the deputy-returning officer was required to make the declaration (Sched. G) "before placing the voters' list in its proper packet." This was altered to its present form; and the final clause permitting any elector to inspect the voters' list, declaration, etc., added, by 44 V. c. 24, s. 3. Cf. R.S.O. c. 9, ss. 120, 121, 174. The words "and poll-book" in line 5 were added in 1895 by 58 V. c. 42, s. 8.

(b) "The form of Schedule G to this Act" is as follows:

D.*, the undersigned deputy-returning officer for polling sub-division No. , of the city (or as the case may be) of , in the county of , do solemnly swear (or if he is a person permitted by law to affirm, do solemnly affirm) that to the best of my knowledge the annexed voters' list and poll book used in and for the said polling sub-division No. of the said city (or as the case may be) were so used in the manner prescribed by law, and that the entries required by law to be made therein were correctly made.

(Signed) C.D.,
Deputy Returning Officer.

Sworn (or affirmed) before me at , this day of A.D., 19 .

(Signed) X.Y.,
Justice of the Peace.
Or A.B.,
Clerk of the Municipality of .

NOTE.—The foregoing oath is to be annexed to the voters' list used at the election.

Packets of ballot papers, etc., to be delivered to the clerk of municipality.

(3) If the clerk of the municipality is not himself performing the duties of deputy-returning officer, the deputy-returning officer shall forthwith deliver such packet personally to the clerk of the municipality; and if, owing to illness or other cause, he is unable to do so, he shall deliver such packets to a person chosen by him for the purpose of delivering the same to the clerk; and shall mention on the outside of the cover of each of the packets the name of the person to whom the same has been so delivered, and shall take a proper receipt therefor: he shall also forthwith return the ballot box to the clerk of the municipality. 55 V. c. 42, s. 155 (3).

Taken from R.S.O. (1877), c. 174, s. 150 (3). Cf. 37 V. c. 5, s. 18 (2); 38 V. c. 28, s. 19 (2); R.S.O. c. 9, s. 117; Imp. Stat. 35 & 36 V. c. 33, Sched. 1, Rule 38.

Return of ballot boxes, etc., in cities and towns.

(4) In cities and towns, each deputy-returning officer, as soon as the duties enumerated in subsections 1 and 2 of this section have been performed, (or in case of the illness or inability as aforesaid, the person chosen by him,) shall forthwith proceed directly from the polling place to the office of the clerk of the municipality with the ballot box and the said packets, and shall there personally and forthwith on the same day, and as soon as is possible after leaving the polling place deliver the same to the clerk of the municipality; and no deputy-returning officer in a city or town shall under any circumstances take the ballot box or packets, or allow the same to be taken to his home, or house, or office, or place of business, or to any house or place whatsoever other than the office of the clerk of the municipality. And for any breach of the provisions of this subsection a deputy-returning officer shall incur the penalties provided in sections 193 and 194 of this Act. The returning officer shall remain at his office on the evening of the polling day until the said boxes have been so returned to him. 59 V. c. 51, s. 3; 60 V. c. 3, s. 3.

Taken from 59 V. c. 51, s. 3 (1896), the last clause of which has been omitted by the Revisers of 1897 under the authority of 60 V. c. 3, s. 3, as wholly superfluous.

Secs. 177 (5) 178.

Notes (c) (d).

Statement to be made by deputy-returning officer on return of ballot papers, etc.

(5) The packets shall be accompanied by a statement made by the deputy-returning officer, shewing the number of ballot papers entrusted to him, and accounting for them under the heads of (1) Counted; (2) Rejected; (3) Unused; (4) Spoiled; (5) Ballot papers given to voters who afterwards returned the same, declining to vote: and (6) Ballot papers taken from the polling place: which statement shall give the number of papers under each head, and is in this Act referred to as the "Ballot Paper Account."

If dispute as to result arises, how to be settled.

(6) If the deputy-returning officer and one or more of the candidates or of the agents of the candidates present at the examination and counting of the ballot papers are unable to agree as to the written statement to be made by the deputy-returning officer, the packages of ballot papers made shall be broken open by the clerk of the municipality on the day succeeding the polling day, in the presence of the deputy-returning officer and of such of the candidates or their agents as may be present, at an hour and place to be appointed by the deputy-returning officer, and of which they have been notified by him; but if the distance necessary to be travelled is such that the appointed place cannot be reached on the day following the poll, a reasonable time shall be allowed, and no more, for the purpose of coming before the clerk of the municipality; and the clerk of the municipality, after examining the ballot papers, shall finally determine the matter in dispute, sign the written statement hereinbefore mentioned, and shall forthwith, in the presence of the deputy-returning officer and of such of the candidates or their agents as may then be present, securely seal up the ballot papers which have been examined by him in their several packages as before. 55 V. c. 42, s. 155 (4-5).

Taken from 38 V. c. 28, s. 19 (3) (4), the wording of the last subsection being somewhat amended in the Revision of 1897. (Vide 60 V. c. 3, s. 30. Cf. subs. 5 with R.S.O. c. 9, s. 118; Imp. Stat. 35 & 36 V. c. 33, Sched. I, Rule 30.

(c) "The Ballot Paper Account." The object of this account is to enable the clerk of the municipality, who gave out the ballot papers, to make a comparison between the ballots given out and those returned, so as to detect whether an improper use has been made of any of the ballot papers.

(d) "The clerk shall finally (?) determine the matter," etc. But his determination cannot bind any Court or Judge before whom the election may afterwards be contested, and a scrutiny had.

Clerk to cast up votes and declare who is elected to local council.

178. The clerk of the municipality, after he has received the ballot papers and statements before mentioned of the number of votes given in each polling place, shall, without opening any of the sealed packets of ballot papers, cast up from the statements the number of votes for each candidate; and shall, at the town hall, or, if there is no town hall, at some other public place, at noon on the day following the return of such ballot papers and statements, publicly declare to be elected to the council of the local municipality the candidate or candidates having the highest number of votes; and he shall also put up in some conspicuous place a statement under his hand shewing the number of votes polled for each candidate for election to the council of the local municipality. 55 V. c. 42, s. 156.

Taken from 38 V. c. 28, s. 21. Cf. 27 V. c. 16, s. 9; 37 V. c. 5, s. 19; R.S.O. c. 9, s. 123 (1).

(a) Powers of the clerk. The duty of the clerk under this section is ministerial, not judicial. He is simply to declare elected "the candidate or candidates having (i.e. appearing from the statement signed by the deputy returning officers to have) the highest number of votes." The clerk has no power to decide as to the qualification of any candidates to be elected; that must be left for the decision of a competent tribunal. (a)

In case of a tie clerk to have a casting vote.

Taken from the Act of 1873, (36 V. c. 48), s. 114. The provision that the returning officer shall have the casting vote in case of a tie appears first in 12 V. c. 81, s. 160 (1849). Cf. 27 V. c. 16, s. 10; R.S.O. c. 9, s. 123.

(a) Why the "casting vote" is given. It is the ancient rule of the House of Lords that, in case of an equal division of votes upon any question, the question is "praesumitur pro negante" (see s. 274); but it is manifest that this cannot apply where an office is to be filled, and where, if all the candidates therefor have the same number of votes, the office must remain vacant unless some one is empowered to give a casting vote.

Under the Act of 1849, the clerk (returning officer) could only vote before closing the poll and not afterwards. (b) but otherwise not to vote.

(2) Except in such case, no clerk of the municipality shall vote at any local municipal election held in his municipality.

(b) "At any local election." Nor at the voting upon a by-law. See s. 365 and note (a) thereto. But the local clerk may vote for county councillors (s. 85).

Deputy returning officers, etc., may vote if qualified.

(3) All deputy-returning officers and persons employed as deputy-returning officers and poll clerks shall, if otherwise qualified, be entitled to vote. 55 V. c. 42, s. 157.

Taken from 38 V. c. 28, s. 22 (1874). The disqualification of deputy-returning officers and poll-clerks to vote at elections to the Legislative Assembly, (created by 32 V. c. 21, s. 39), was removed during this same Session (Nov.-Dec. 1874) by 38 V. c. 3, s. 27.

County Council Elections.

Ballots for county councillors how to be dealt with.

180. At the election of a member or members of a county council, the ballots shall be placed in the same ballot box as the ballots for the members of the council of a local municipality where an election for such local municipality is being held, and shall be counted in the same manner as such last-named ballots. Thereafter they shall be placed in a separate envelope or package and otherwise dealt with in the same manner as ballots for the election of members of the council of a local municipality. Where an election for the local municipality is not being held, the proceedings thereat and thereafter, (except where the same are varied hereby), shall be as nearly as possible the same as in the case of an election for a local municipality. 59 V. c. 52, s. 12.

Taken from "The County Councils Act, 1896," (59 V. c. 52), s. 12. And see ss. 112, 142, 155, 168 (2).

(a) "A member or members of a county council." The section applies to an election for the purpose of filling a vacancy as well as to the regular biennial election.

(b) "The ballots shall be placed in the same ballot box . . . and shall be counted in the same manner . . . " etc. Secs. 111, 142, 155 and 168 (2) make full provision for everything necessary to be done in order to enable the election to be held; s. 85 specifies who may vote, and ss. 164-172 indicate the mode of voting at a county council election.

(c) "In a separate envelope or package" etc. The intention is that "separate packets" containing the ballot papers, statements, notes of objections, etc., relating to the county council election shall first be made up, sealed and indorsed in the manner specified by s. 177 (1), and that all these "separate packets" shall then be enclosed by the deputy-returning officer "in a separate envelope or package" for delivery to the clerk of the local municipality. It is suggested as an advisable precaution that this larger "separate envelope or package" should also be sealed by the deputy-returning officer and the agents of the candidates for county councillors. It should be accompanied by a separate "Ballot Paper Account" as required by s. 177 (5).

Certifying result of voting for county councillors.

181. The clerk of each municipality shall, on the day following the return to him of the ballot papers and statements, prepare and mail to the county clerk by registered letter with the postage prepaid, a certificate under his hand of the result of the voting in his municipality for the candidates for the county council. Such certificate shall be according to the form given in the Schedule H hereto. 59 V. c. 52, s. 15.

Taken from the "The County Councils Act," 1896, (59 V. c. 52), s. 15.

(a) "Shall on the day following the return to him . . . prepare, etc." . . . See note (a) to s. 144. It is doubtless intended that the certificate of the local clerk shall be made up from the statements furnished to him by the several deputy-returning officers of the number of votes given for each candidate (a), and that he should not open any of the sealed packets of ballot papers.

(b) "And mail to the county clerk." The officer intended is the clerk of the county council. See s. 134, note (c), and s. 142 (1).

(c) "The form given in Schedule H hereto." This form is as follows:—

Form of Certificate of Result of Polls at an Election of Members of a County Council.

I, , Clerk of the municipal corporation of the of , hereby certify that at the election of county councillors for the First (or as the case may be) County Council Division of the County (or United Counties of) each candidate received the number of votes placed after his name in the list hereunder written.

(a) See s. 177 (1 a), and s. 180, note (c).

Certificate of local clerk in county council elections.

Dated at this day of , A.D. 19

A. B.

Clerk of the municipality of

Where municipality in different county council divisions.

It is evident that the Legislature, in passing "The County Councils Act, 1896," did not intend (b) that the boundaries of county council divisions should, as a rule, be so arranged that portions of the same municipality would be in different county council divisions,—and accordingly "the form given in Schedule H." does not provide for that contingency.

There are, however, several instances in which municipalities have been so divided (c), e.g., the Townships of Amabel, Arran, Bastard and Burgess, F . ham, Brantford, Brighton, Cavan, Culross, Darlington, Elizabethtown, Fl. -borough W., Garafraxa E., Greenock, Hamilton, Hope, Malahide, Mono, Nepean, Nottawasaga, Ops, York, and the Town of Paris. In these cases the certificate of the local clerk under this section, in showing "the result of the voting in the municipality," must, of course, distinguish the result in each portion of the municipality which belongs to a separate county council division. The following form of certificate is suggested for use in such cases (d) :—

Form of Certificate where a Local Municipality is not all in one County Council Division.

I, , Clerk of the Municipal Corporation of the Township of York, hereby certify that at the election of county councillors, held on the day of January, 19 , each of the undermentioned candidates received at the polling places in the respective portions of this Township forming part of the undermentioned County Council Divisions of the County of York, the number of votes placed after his name in the list hereunder written.

Dated at the Town Hall, Eglinton, this day of Jan., 19 .

W. A. C.,
Clerk of the Municipality of the Township of York.

To J. A. R.,
Clerk of the County Council.

182. In elections to the county council the county clerk shall be returning officer, and shall (as such) perform the duties required of him by this Act, and shall on receipt of the certificates from the clerks of the municipalities comprising a county council division, cast up from such certificates the number of votes for each candidate, and at the hour of one o'clock in the afternoon of the second Monday in the month of January, in the county council chamber, shall publicly declare elected the two candidates having the highest number of votes in each county council division, and shall also post up in his office for public inspection a statement under his hand showing the number of votes polled for each candidate. 59 V. c. 52, s. 16.

County clerk to cast up votes and declare result.

(a) "The county clerk". See ss. 134, note (c), 142 (1).

(b) "The duties required of him by this Act". See ss. 142 (1), 143.

(c) "Shall cast up from such certificates the number of votes . . . and shall publicly declare elected the two candidates having the highest number" etc. "Having" means "appearing from the aforesaid certificates to have". See note (a) to s. 178.

183. Where an equal number of votes has been cast for two or more candidates in any county council division, and it is necessary to determine which one or two of such candidates shall be declared to be elected, the nominating officer for the division shall, upon the request of the county clerk, declare in writing for which of such candidates he votes, and in such case the candidate or candidates for whom he votes shall be elected: and except when so required to give a casting vote, no nominating officer shall vote at an election held for the county council division for which he is appointed. 59 V. c. 52, s. 17; 60 V. c. 45, s. 61.

When two candidates receive same number of votes.

Taken from "The County Councils Act, 1896," (59 V. c. 52), s. 17, the final clause begining "and except when so required to give a casting vote" being added in 1897 by 60 V. c. 45, s. 61. Cf. s. 179 (2).

(a) "County clerk". See ss. 134, note (c), 142 (1).

(b) The right of the nominating officer under these circumstances to dispose of his two votes (if there are two candidates to be elected) would, it is apprehended, be the same as that of any other elector under s. 168 (2).

Secs. 184, 185.

Notes (a) (b); (a)-(c).

In case Election not Held at Proper Time, etc.

Election not commenced or interrupted by reason of riot, etc., to be resumed.

184. In case, by reason of riot or other emergency, an election is not commenced on the proper day, or is interrupted after being commenced and before the lawful closing thereof, the returning-officer, or deputy-returning officer, as the case may be, shall hold or resume the election on the following day at the hour of ten o'clock in the forenoon, and shall continue the same from day to day, if necessary, for four days, until the poll has been opened without interruption, and with free acess to voters for eight hours in all, or thereabouts, in order that all the electors so intending may have had a fair opportunity to vote. 55 V. c. 42, s. 158; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (37).

Taken from the Act of 1866, (29 & 30 V. c. 51), s. 103; the words "eight hours" being substituted in 1897 by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (37), for the words "twelve hours" which occur in all the previous Acts. See s. 128 (4).

(a) "Or deputy-returning officer, as the case may be." These words were inserted by the Revisers of 1877 (a) in order to provide for a case in which the riot or other emergency had not affected the entire municipality, but only one or more wards or polling subdivisions. See s. 212.

(b) "Free access to voters." See note (g) to s. 128 and note (a) to s. 204.

If election is prevented for four days voters' list, etc., is to be returned, and a new election ordered.

185. In case the election has not, by the end of the fourth day from the day the same commenced or should have commenced, been kept open for the said eight hours the returning-officer, or deputy-returning officer, as the case may be, shall not return any person as elected, but shall return his voters' list and ballot papers on the following day to the head of the municipality, certifying the cause of there not having been an election; and a new election shall take place, and the head of the municipality shall forthwith issue his warrant therefor. 55 V. c. 42, s. 159; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (38). See also sec. 212.

Taken from 29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 104, amended (as noted above under s. 184) by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (38) so as to make the number of hours allowed for polling correspond with those prescribed by s. 128 (4).

(a) "The end of the fourth day from the day [on which] the same commenced." etc. Since the time should be computed exclusively from the "day the same commenced," (b) this gives a total period of five days.

See also as to computation of time s. 127, note (a) and s. 214, note (b).

(b) "The head of the municipality shall forthwith issue his warrant." See s. 278. The case of his absence or of a vacancy in the office of head of the municipality is provided for by s. 212.

When returns imperfect.

(c) Where no return from a polling subdivision. Sec. 25 of "The Municipal Ballot Act, 1874," (c) provided that:

> "If no return has been made for one or more wards or electoral divisions, in consequence of no election having been held therein, or of the election having been interrupted through riot or other cause, the clerk shall declare the want of return for such ward or wards, or electoral divisions and the cause thereof."

This section is (apparently without any statutory authority) marked "effete" in Appendix B to Vol. II of the R.S.O (1877), but—according to the judgment of OSLER, J. A., in Scottish American Investment Company v. Village of Elora, 6 A. R. 628, 638,—it would seem to be still in force.

Notes (d); (a); (a).

(d) Postponement of election on account of epidemic, etc.—See 47 of "The Public Health Act" (d) provides that:

Election postponed under "The Public Health Act."

"47.—(1) In case the Provincial Board of Health reports to the Lieutenant-Governor that on account of the presence in any municipality of an epidemic or contagious disease it would be dangerous to hold an election in such municipality, the Lieutenant-Governor may, upon application by the council of the municipality in that behalf, issue his proclamation postponing the holding of any intended municipal or school election, for a period not exceeding three months, and may from time to time further postpone such election if, in the opinion of the said Board, the necessity for postponement continues.

(2) The Lieutenant-Governor may, by his said proclamation, name the days for holding the nomination and polling for the election, but in case no days are named therefor, the council shall, as soon as practicable after the period named in such proclamation or the last of such proclamations expires, by by-law name days for the nomination and polling.

(3) In case an election postponed under the provisions of this section is the annual election, or an election of the entire council, or of all the members of a board of trustees or other body, the members of the council, board or other body shall continue to hold office until their successors are elected."

Declaration of election in such cases.

186. When a poll has been duly held in each of such wards or polling subdivisions, and the ballot papers and statements hereby directed to be returned to the clerk have been so returned to him, the clerk shall, without opening any of the sealed packets of ballot papers, cast up from said statements the number of votes given for each candidate for any office in respect whereof the election has not been previously declared, together with the votes appearing by the statements previously returned for other wards to be given for the candidate, and shall at noon on the next day, at the town hall (or if there is no town hall at some other public place), publicly declare to be elected the candidate or candidates having the largest number of votes polled. 55 V. c. 42, s. 160.

DIVISION VI.—MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS.
(SECS. 188-206)

Synopsis:—In these sections provision is made for the preservation, inspection and destruction of ballot papers (ss. 188-189 (1), (2); for a re-count of the votes by the County Judge, (ss. 189 (3)-(5) 192), and for securing the secrecy of the ballot and preventing frauds by any voter or municipal officer in relation thereto (ss. 193-206). The remaining sections of this Division contain certain miscellaneous provisions relative to the interpretation of preceding portions of the Act (ss. 201-203); the validity of an election in the conduct of which there may have been mistakes or irregularities not affecting the result (s. 204), and the payment by municipalities of election expenses (ss. 205-206).

Ballot papers how disposed of.

188. The clerk of the municipality shall retain for one month all ballot papers received by him or forwarded to him in pursuance of this Act by deputy-returning officers, and shall then, unless otherwise directed by an order of a Court or Judge of competent jurisdiction, cause them to be destroyed in the presence of two witnesses, whose declaration that they have witnessed the destruction of such papers shall be taken before the head of the municipality, and filed by the said clerk amongst the records of the municipality. 55 V. c. 42, s. 162.

Taken from 38 V. c. 28, s. 27 (1874). Cf. "The Ontario Election Act," (R.S.O. c. 9), s. 137 and "The Ballot Act, 1872," (Imp. Stat. 35 & 36 V. c. 33) Sched. 1, Rule 39.

(a) Under s. 220, proceedings to contest the election may be taken within six weeks after the election, or one month after the acceptance of office by the person elected; under s. 189 (3) proceedings for a recount must begin within 14 days from the receipt of the ballot papers by the clerk under s. 177.

Ballot papers to be inspected only by order of a Court or Judge.

189.—(1) No person shall be allowed to inspect any ballot papers in the custody of the clerk of the municipality except under the order of a Court or Judge of competent jurisdiction to be granted by the Court or Judge upon satisfactory evidence on oath that the inspection or production of the ballot papers is required for the purpose of maintaining a prosecution for an offence in relation thereto, or for the purpose of a petition questioning an election or return; and any such order for the inspection or production of ballot papers shall be obeyed by the clerk of the municipality.

Order may be subject to conditions.

(2) The order may be made subject to such conditions as to persons, time, place, and mode of opening or inspection as the Court or Judge making the order thinks expedient.

Taken from 38 V. c. 28, s. 28 (1874). Cf. "The Ontario Election Act," ss. 140-143; "The Ballot Act, 1872," (Imp. Stat. 35 & 36 V. c. 33, Sched. 1, Rule 40.)

(a) Secrecy is not the only object of the ballot. Purity of election is another object, and where an inspection of the ballot papers is necessary to secure this end, it may be had under the circumstances mentioned in this section.

(b) "A Court or Judge of competent jurisdiction." See subsecs. 3, 5, and ss. 191, 194, 219, 228.

(c) "A prosecution for an offence in relation thereto." See s. 193 and Reg. v. Beardsall, 1 Q. B. D. 452 (1876).

(d) "A petition (?) questioning an election or return." This should be amended so as to conform to the present practice (s. 220 (1)). It does not apparently apply to an application for a re-count (subs. 3). See the notes to s. 220.

(e) A form of an order for production and inspection will be found in the report of Reg. v. Beardsall, 1 Q. B. D. at pp. 453, 454.

Recount of Votes.

Sec. 189 (3)-(6).

Notes (a), (b).

The following subsections (3-9) relating to a recount of the votes given in an election under this or "The Municipal Waterworks Act" (R. S. O. c. 235) ss. 40, 41, are taken from "The Con. Mun. Act, 1883" (46 V. c. 18) ss. 162, 163. Cf. s. 191 and "The Ontario Election Act," ss. 124-131. As pointed out by Boyd, C., in Re Ottawa Municipal Election, 26 O.R. at p. 109 they are "merely meant to give a limited jurisdiction to the County Judge, but not to constitute him a tribunal having cognizance of the election as a whole."

Re-count of votes by County Judge.

(3) In case at any time within fourteen days from the time when the ballot papers are received by the clerk of the municipality, it is, on the affidavit of a credible person, made to appear to the County Judge of the county in which the municipality is situated, that a deputy-returning officer at any election in the municipality, in counting the votes for mayor, alderman, reeve, [deputy-reeve] councillor, or water commissioner, has improperly counted or rejected any ballot papers, the County Judge may appoint a time to re-count the votes, and shall give notice in writing to the candidates of the time and place at which he will proceed to re-count the same.

Deposit by applicant.

(4) At the time of the application for a re-count, the applicant shall deposit with the clerk of the County Court the sum of $25 as security for the payment of costs, charges and expenses that may become payable by the applicant; and the said sum shall not be paid out by the clerk without the order of the Judge.

Who may be present at re-count.

(5) The County Judge, the clerk of the municipality with the ballot boxes, and each candidate and his agent appointed to attend the re-count of votes, and no other person except with the sanction of the County Judge, shall be entitled to be present at the re-count of the votes.

Opening of packets.

(6) At the time and place appointed, the County Judge shall proceed to re-count all the votes or ballot papers received by the clerk of the municipality, and shall in the presence of the parties aforesaid, if they attend, or in the presence of such of them as do attend, open the sealed packets containing (a) the used ballot papers which have not been objected to and have been counted; (b) the ballot papers which have been objected to, but which have been counted by the deputy-returning officer; (c) the rejected ballot papers; (d) the spoiled ballot papers; (e) the unused ballot papers. In re-counting the votes care shall be taken that the mode in which any particular voter has voted shall not be discovered.

(a) "In the presence of the parties . . if they attend," etc. See s. 202.

(b) "Open the sealed packets." Where the various classes of ballots had not been made up into separate packets sealed and authenticated as required by s. 177 (1) a mandamus to compel the County Judge to proceed with the re-count was refused with costs. (a)

(a) Re Ottawa Municipal Election, 26 O. R. 106 (1895), cited in note (a) to s. 177.

Sec. 189 (7)-(8).

Notes (c)-(e).

Re-count to be a continuous proceeding.

(7) The County Judge shall, as far as practicable, proceed continuously with the re-count of the votes, allowing only time for refreshment, excluding only Sundays and, on other days (except so far as he and the parties aforesaid agree), the hours between six o'clock in the evening and n' o'clock on the succeeding morning. During the excluded time the County Judge shall place the ballot papers and other documents relating to the election under his own seal, and the seals of such other of the parties as desire to affix their seals, and shall otherwise take precautions for the security of the papers and documents. 55 V. c. 42, s. 163 (1-7).

(c) The language of this subsection is taken (with some alterations) from Rule 35 of Sched I to "The Ballot Act, 1872," (Imp. Stat. 35 & 36 V. c. 33.)

(8) The County Judge shall proceed to re-count the votes as follows:

1. He shall examine the ballot papers.

Procedure on re-count.

2. Any ballot paper on which votes are given to more candidates than are to be elected, or on which anything except the name or initials of the deputy-returning officer on the back is written or marked by which the voter can be identified, or which has been torn, defaced, or otherwise dealt with by the voter so that he can thereby be identified, shall be void and shall not be counted. A ballot paper on which votes are given for a greater number of candidates for any office than the voter is entitled to vote for, shall be void as regards all the candidates for such office, but shall be good as regards the votes for any other offices in respect to which the voter has not voted for more candidates than he is entitled to vote for; but no word or mark written or made, or omitted to be written or made by the deputy-returning officer on a ballot paper, shall avoid the same.

(d) See notes (c), (d), (e) to s. 174 (1), and observe the difference in the language of the two subsections. The words "or which has been torn, defaced, or otherwise dealt with by the voter so that he can thereby be identified" were inserted in 1897 by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (39). They are not in the corresponding section of "The Ontario Election Act."

(e) "But no word or mark written or made or omitted to be written or made," etc. These words were added in 1889 by 52 V. c. 36, s. 6. See note (c) to s. 174 (1) citing the Thorabury (Election Case) 16 Q.B.D. 739 (1886), followed in South Perth (Provincial Election) 34 C. L. J. N. S. 465, 18 C.L.T. 255, (1898), where ballots numbered on the back in pencil by the D. R. O. were allowed on a recount. In West Huron (Provincial Election) 34 C.L.J.N.S. 461; 18 C.L.T. 247 (1898) it was held that a ballot should not be rejected because initialed by the poll clerk instead of the R. O., the whole number of ballots counted agreeing with the number of electors who voted as shown by the poll book; and see also Gloucester (Election Case) 4 O'M. & H. 194 (1893).

Objections.

3. The County Judge shall take a note of any objection made by a candidate or his agent to any ballot paper found in the ballot box, and shall decide any question arising out of the objection; and the decision of the County Judge shall be final.

(d) "The decision of the County Judge shall be final." That is, so far as the recount is concerned. But see subsection (10), infra.

Statement to be made by County Judge.

4. The County Judge shall then count up the votes given for each candidate upon the ballot papers not rejected, and shall make up a written statement, in words as well as in figures, of the number of votes given for each candidate, and of the number of ballot papers rejected and not counted by him; which statement shall be made under the several heads following:

(a) Name of municipality;

(b) Names of the candidates;

(c) Number of votes for each candidate;

(d) Papers wanting signature or initials of deputy-returning officer;

(e) Papers rejected as voting for more candidates than entitled to;

(f) Papers rejected as having a writing or mark by which the voter can be identified, or as torn, defaced or otherwise dealt with by the voter so that he can thereby be identified;

(g) Papers rejected as unmarked or void for uncertainty.

Clerk to certify result.

5. Upon the completion of the re-count, or as soon as he has thus ascertained the result of the poll, the County Judge shall seal up all the ballot papers in separate packets, and shall forthwith certify the result to the clerk of the municipality, who shall then declare elected the candidate having the highest number of votes; and in case of an equality of votes, the clerk of the municipality shall have the casting vote as provided in section 179 of this Act. 55 V. c. 42, s. 163 (8); 60 V.c. 15, Sched. C (39).

(g) "Upon the ballot papers not rejected." i.e. by him.

(h) "Shall certify the result." The certificate should be attached to, or endorsed upon the detailed statement made up under the preceding subsection. The following form is suggested:

Form of County Judge's certificate.

Form of Certificate of the Result of a Recount.

"I, T. W. B., Judge of the County Court of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham, hereby certify that I have, pursuant to "The Municipal Act," re-counted the votes given for Reeve of the Township of Murray at the polling places in polling subdivisions 2 and 4 of the said township at the annual municipal elections held on the 1st day of January, 1900, and that the result of the said re-count is as appears by the within statement.

"Dated at the Court House in the Town of Cobourg this 29th day of January, 1900.

T. W. B.,
Judge, etc.,

(i) "Shall declare elected the candidate having the highest number of votes." See note (b) to s. 178.

Secs. 198 (9)-191 (3).

Existing remedies not affected.

(9) Nothing in this section contained shall destroy or prevent any remedy which any person now has by quo warranto or otherwise. 55 V. c. 42, s. 164.

Costs of application.

190.—(1) All costs, charges and expenses of, and incidental to an application for a re-count and to the proceedings consequent thereon, shall be defrayed by the parties to the application in such manner and in such proportion as the Judge may determine, regard being had to the disallowance of any costs, charges or expenses which may, in the opinion of the Judge, have been caused by vexatious conduct, unfounded allegations, or unfounded objections on the part either of the applicant or the respondent, regard being had to the discouragement of any needless expense by throwing the burden of defraying the same on the parties by whom it has been caused, whether such parties are or are not on the whole successful.

Taxation of costs.

(2) The costs may be taxed in the same manner, and according to the same principles as costs are taxed between solicitor and client in the County Court.

Recovery of costs.

(3) The payment of any costs ordered by the Judge to be paid, may be enforced by an execution against goods and chattels, to be issued from any County Court, upon filing therein the order of the Judge and a certificate showing the amount at which the costs were taxed and an affidavit of the non-payment thereof. 55 V. c. 42, s. 165.

Taken from "The Con. Mun. Act, 1883" (46 V. c. 18) s. 164.

Recount in elections to County Councils.

191.—(1) In the case of an election of a member or members of a county council, the same proceedings may be had for a recount of votes, as may be had in the case of a member or members of the council of a local municipality.

(2) In case of a recount the County Judge may require the clerk or clerks of the local municipality or municipalities to forward, under seal, for the purpose of production before him, to the clerk of the county, all ballot papers, books, voters' or other lists, and other papers in his or their hands connected with the election.

(3) Each such clerk shall so forward the ballot papers, books, voters' or other lists, and other papers as directed, with a statutory declaration that they are the ballot papers, books, voters' or other lists and other papers (if any) returned to him, in connection with such election and no others, and that he has kept them safely and has not permitted or given opportunity to any person or persons to examine inspect or see them since they were returned to him, and that he has kept them under seal securely since their return to him. 59 V. c. 52, s. 20, part.

Production of documents and indorsements on ballot papers evidence for certain purposes.

192. Where a rule or order is made for the production by the clerk of the municipality of any document in his possession relating to a specified election, the production of the document by the clerk, as directed by the rule or order, shall be conclusive evidence that the document relates to the specified election; and any indorsement appearing on any packet of ballot papers produced by the clerk, shall be evidence of the papers being what they are stated to be by the indorsement. 55 V. c. 42, s. 166.

Taken from "The Municipal Ballot Act of 1874," (38 V. c. 28,) s. 29. Cf. "The Ontario Election Act," (R. S. O. c. 9) s. 143 and "The Ballot Act, 1872" (Imp. Stat. 35 & 36 V. c. 32), Sched. 1, Rule s. 43.

Offences and Penalties.

193.—(1) No person shall—

(a) Without due authority supply any ballot paper to any person; or

(b) Fraudulently put into any ballot box any paper other than the ballot paper which he is authorized by law to put in; or

(c) Fraudulently take out of the polling place any ballot paper; or

(d) Without due authority destroy, take, open, or otherwise interfere with any ballot box or packet of ballot papers then in use for the purposes of the election; or

(e) Apply for a ballot paper in the name of some other person, whether such name is that of a person living or dead or of a fictitious person; or advise or abet, counsel or procure any other person so to do; but this provision shall not be construed as including a person who applies for such ballot paper believing that he is the person intended by the name entered on the voter's list in respect of which he so applies; or

(f) Having voted once and not being entitled to vote again at an election, apply at the same election, for a ballot paper in his own name, or advise, or abet, counsel or procure any other person so to do. 55 V. c. 42, s. 167 (1); 59 V. c. 51, s. 4 (1); 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (40).

(2) No person shall attempt to commit any offence specified in this section.

Penalty by imprisonment

(3) A person guilty of any violation of this section shall be liable, if he is the clerk of the municipality, to imprisonment for any term not exceeding two years, with or without hard labour; and, if he is any other person, to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months, with or without hard labour. 55 V. c. 42, s. 167 (2-3).

Sec. 193 (3).

Notes (b)-(e).

Sub-sec. 1 (a), (b), (c), (d) and sub-secs. 2 and 3 are taken unaltered from "The Municipal Ballot Act of 1875," (38 V. c. 28,) s. 30, the first sub-section of which (relating to forgery or fraudulent alteration, etc., of ballot papers) was repealed at the next Session by 39 V. c. 1, s. 4, as ultra vires of the Provincial Legislature. Clauses (e) and (f) of sub-s. 1 are taken from 51 V. c. 28, s. 12 (1888) as amended by 59 V. c. 51, s. 4 (1896), but were recast in their present form by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (40). The original of clauses (a), (b), (c), (d) of sub-s. 1 is s. 3 of "The Ballot Act, 1875," (Imp. Stat. 35 & 36 V. c. 33). Clauses (e) and (f) are taken from s. 21 of the same Act, "Definition and punishment of personation." Section 210 (2) of "The Consolidated Municipal Act, 1892," (taken from 54 V. c. 42, s. 81) which imposed a pecuniary penalty for the violation of clauses (e) and (f), was repealed by 59 V. c. 51, s. 4 (2) in consequence of the decision in Reg. v. Rose, 27 O. R. 495 (1896).

Personation.

(a) "Apply for a ballot paper in the name of another person," etc. Even before this enactment, it had been held under Imp. Stat. 22 V. c. 35, s. 9 ("The Municipal Corporations Act, 1859"), that the offence of personation was complete although the personator had not actually voted. (a) In a prosecution under s. 24 of "The Ballot Act, 1872," (b) where a man applied for a ballot paper in a name which was not his name of origin or the one by which he was generally known, but was a name which appeared on the voters' list, having been placed there to designate him, he was held not to be guilty of personation within the meaning of the clause. (c)

In the Hexham Case (Day's El. Cas. 68) and the Gloucester Case (2 O'M. & H. 63) agents were proved to have endeavoured to get persons to vote who were not entitled to vote; but they were acquitted of aiding and abetting personation because they did not know that such persons were not entitled to vote. In the Hexham Case, CAVE, J., said that persons might be guilty of aiding and abetting personation who corruptly induced a person to vote, although the voter himself was not guilty of personation because he did not know that he was not entitled to vote. (f)

(b) "Whether such name is that of a person living or dead." Under an Act (d) which provided for the punishment of "any person who shall personate any person entitled to vote," it was held not to be an offence to tender a voting paper purporting to be signed by a man who was dead. (e)

Voting too often.

(c) "Having voted once and not being entitled to vote again . . . apply . . for a ballot paper in his own name." The words used in both this and the preceding clause are wide enough to include the case of a person who innocently applies for a ballot paper in the name of some other person or who votes a second time, since neither of the clauses contains any such word as "wilfully" or "corruptly." It is difficult, however, to believe that the Legislature intended the innocent commission of such an act to be punishable as provided in sub-s. 3. It has accordingly been held in England that it is of the essence of the offence that the act be committed "corruptly." Thus in the Stepney (El. Case), 4 O'M. & H. 43 (1893), a voter registered in two divisions of a parliamentary borough and entitled to vote in but one of them, voted twice, contrary to Imp. Stat. 48 & 49 V. c. 23, s. 8 (3), but in the honest belief that he was entitled so to do; and the question was whether his first vote should be struck off because he had been guilty of the corrupt practice of personation by voting a second time. The Judges (DENMAN & FIELD, JJ.) held that since there was no corrupt intention, personation had not been committed, and that the first vote was good.

(d) "Shall be liable to imprisonment." While the Local Legislature has no general power, under the B.N.A. Act, to legislate as to crime or criminal procedure, it has power to punish by fine or imprisonment with a view of enforcing Acts within its jurisdiction (a).

Form of indictment.

(e) Under the section of the Imperial Act (b), cited in note (b) supra, it has been held that in order to sustain a conviction for personation, it is not necessary to state in the indictment or to prove at the trial that the deputy-returning officer at the polling place where the offence was committed was duly appointed (c), or that the election was duly held (d).

Sec. 194.

Note (a).

Money penalty for offences.

194 Every officer or clerk who is guilty of any wilful misfeasance, or any wilful act or omission in contravention of sections 137 to 193, inclusive, of this Act, shall, in addition to any other penalty or liability to which he may be subject, forfeit to any person aggrieved by such misfeasance, act or omission, a penal sum of $400. 55 V. c. 42, s. 168.

Taken from 38 V. c. 28, s. 31 (1874). Cf. "The Ontario Election Act" (R.S.O. c. 9, s. 194 and s. 11 of "The Ballot Act, 1872" (Imp. Stat. 35 & 36 V. c. 33).

What is "wilful" misfeasance.

(a) "Wilful misfeasance." Sec. 180 of "The Ontario Election Act," R.S.O. (1877), c. 10 (e), imposed a penalty of $200 on any deputy-returning officer or poll-clerk "who refuses or neglects to perform any of the obligations or formalities required of him by this Act." In a case decided under that section in 1884 it appeared that at the election of a member of the Legislative Assembly of Ontario, in and for the District of Algoma, six persons had tendered their votes and offered to take the necessary oaths required by the Act to entitle them to vote. The deputy-returning officer refused the vote of one because he could not produce his title deeds, and of the others because they had no houses on their lands. In an action under the above section against the deputy-returning officer for penalties for refusing the votes, four of those rejected offered to take the oath prescribed and described the property on which they claimed to vote. Held, that the duties of the deputy-returning officer in taking the votes are ministerial save when he suspects personation, want of qualification, etc.; in which case he should exercise his judgment as to administering the oath; and that, having refused the tendered votes of those who had sufficiently shewn their right to vote, he had "refused to perform an obligation or formality required of him" within s. 180, and was liable to the penalties prescribed in the Act (f).

In a later action in the same Court,—under a section of "The Ontario Election Act" identical with this section (194) of "The Municipal Act,"—by "a person aggrieved" by the alleged wilful refusal of a deputy-returning officer to allow him to vote, it was held that the word "wilful" in the section means "perverse" or "malicious"; and that, although the plaintiff was deprived of his vote by the refusal of the defendant to allow him to deposit a "straight" ballot, and there was thereby a contravention of the Act, yet, as the defendant honestly believed the plaintiff was not qualified, and believed in his own power to withhold the ballot, the action must fail (g).

Per BOYD, C.:

> "Wilful misfeasance involves the doing of something which the doer knows will cause harm, or in the doing of which he is so reckless of consequences that he goes on his own way obstinately or wilfully, no matter who suffers."

But in Fearnley v. Ormsby, L. R. 4 C. P. D. 136, it was held sufficient to constitute an act "wilful" that it should have been done "purposely;" and in Wilson v. Manes, 28 O. 419 (1897), cited in note (a) to s. 116, the majority of the Court refused to adopt the meaning of the word "wilful" given by BOYD, C., in Johnson v. Allen, supra, and held,—following Re Young and Harston's Contract, 31 Ch. D. 163, 174 (1886)—that "wilful" means no more than "the intentional act of a free agent" (a); and the defendant (returning officer) in that case having refused to allow the plaintiff (a freeholder) to vote unless he took the oath prescribed for tenants, it was held that his duties were merely ministerial, that an action for breach thereof would lie without proof of malice or negligence, that the plaintiff had a right to vote, and that the defendant's refusal was a "wilful misfeasance" within the meaning of this section, which rendered him liable to the penalty of $400 and also to damages at common law. And see note (c) infra.

(b) "Wilful act or omission." This section is inapplicable to cases of mere neglect (b).

(c) "In contravention of sections 137 to 193 inclusive." This limitation applies also to the words "wilful misfeasance" at the beginning of the section (c).

(c) "Person aggrieved." In an action under this section by a defeated candidate against a deputy-returning officer for alleged wilful breaches of ss. 165, 177 and 284 of the present Act, there being no allegation that the plaintiff had lost his election or any votes or had suffered any personal grievance by the acts complained of, it was held on demurrer that the plaintiff was not, by reason only of being a candidate, a "person aggrieved" within this section (d).

In an action under s. 181 of "The Ontario Election Act," (R. S. O. (1877), c. 10),—identical with this section of "The Municipal Act,"—by a defeated candidate against a returning officer for not delaying his return after notice of a recount of ballots by the County Judge, the late Chief Justice WILSON, at the trial, held that if the defendant's contravention of the Act was wilful, the plaintiff, (who had been prevented from exercising his legal right to have a recount by reason of the ballots not being produced before the County Judge), was "a person aggrieved" (e) within the meaning of this section.

In County Council Elections.

195. Any county clerk or clerk or officer of a local municipality who refuses or neglects to perform the duties prescribed by this Act in relation to elections for membership of a county council, shall be liable, on conviction thereof, to a fine of $200 and costs. 59 V. c. 52, s. 23; 60 V. c. 3, s. 3.

Taken from "The County Councils Act, 1896," (59 V. c. 52), s. 23, the latter part of which is omitted in this Revision as superfluous. See ss. 704, 708.

(a) "County Clerk." See s. 134, note (c) and s. 142 (1).

(b) "Refuses or neglects to perform the duties." The word "wilfully" is not used here. See note (a) to s. 194.

How fine recoverable.

(c) "A fine of $200 and costs." Sec. 704 prescribes how this fine may be enforced, and s. 70 provides how it shall be applied. Sec. 60 of "The Election Law of 1868" (f) enacted that "every person convicted" of a battery committed during any part of the days whereon "any election is to be held, within two miles of the place where the election is so held" etc., "shall incur a penalty of fifty dollars"; and s. 77 provided that all penalties imposed by the Act should be recoverable by any person who would sue for the same by action of debt or information in any Court having competent jurisdiction; and that it should be sufficient for the plaintiff in any such action or suit to state in the declaration that the defendant was indebted to him in the sum of money thereby demanded, and to allege the particular offence for which the action was brought, and that the defendant had acted contrary to the Act. It was Held (in the County Court) that the words "every person convicted" etc., did not mean convicted in some criminal proceeding, but that the offence might be proved, and the person "convicted" in the same action. On appeal WILSON J. was of the opinion that the judgment below was right; MORRISON J. that it was wrong. The appeal was therefore dismissed (g).

Penalty for false returns.

196. In addition to any other penalties imposed by this Act, any clerk of a local municipality who knowingly makes a false or incorrect return under section 181 of this Act, and any county clerk who knowingly makes a false or incorrect declaration of election under section 182 of this Act, and any nominating officer who knowingly makes a false or incorrect declaration of election or knowingly gives a false or incorrect certificate under section 135 of this Act, or commits any other act of falsification, concealment or fraud, with intent to affect the election of a candidate or candidates for a county council, shall, upon conviction thereof, be liable to a fine of $500 and costs, and shall be disqualified for a period of four years thereafter from holding any office or position in the gift or control of any municipal council in the Province of Ontario, and shall not be eligible during the said period for election as a member of any such council. 59 V. c. 52, s. 24.

(a) "Knowingly." As to the importance of this word in statutory definitions of offences, see Mullins v. Collins, L. R. 9 Q. B. 292; Candy v. Le Cocq, 13 Q. B. D. 207, and the cases there cited. "Knowingly" issuing a fraudulent prospectus under the (English) Companies' Act means "intentionally" issuing it (h).

(b) "County clerk." See note (c) to s. 134 and s. 142 (1).

(c) "Nominating officer who knowingly makes a false or incorrect declaration of election." This expressly refers only to a declaration under s. 135. It is singular that the certificate of an election by acclamation, which by s. 134 the nominating officer is required to give to the clerk of the county council, should not also have been mentioned.

"Knowingly."

(d) "Shall upon conviction thereof be liable to a fine of $500 and costs." See note (c) to s. 195.

197. All the other provisions of this Act relating to the imposition of penalties in connection with municipal elections, shall apply to elections to county councils. 59 V. c. 52, s. 27, part.

Secrecy of Proceedings.

Maintaining secrecy of proceedings at polling places.

198.—(1) Every officer, clerk and agent in attendance at a polling place shall maintain and aid in maintaining the secrecy of the voting at the polling place.

(2) No officer, clerk or agent, and no other person shall interfere with or attempt to interfere with a voter when marking his ballot paper, or shall otherwise attempt to obtain at the polling place information as to the candidate or candidates for whom any voter at such polling place is about to vote or has voted.

(3) No officer, clerk, agent or other person shall communicate at any time to any person any information obtained at a polling place as to the candidate or candidates for whom any voter at such polling place is about to vote or has voted.

(h) Twycross v. Grant, 2 C. P. D. 469.

Secs 198 (4-6), 199.

Note (a).

(4) Every officer, clerk and agent in attendance at the counting of the votes, shall maintain and aid in maintaining the secrecy of the voting, and shall not communicate or attempt to communicate any information obtained at such counting as to the candidate or candidates for whom any vote is given in any particular ballot paper.

(5) No person shall, directly or indirectly, induce a voter to display his ballot paper after he has marked the same, so as to make known to any person the name of any candidate or candidates for or against whom he has marked his ballot paper.

Penalty for contravening this section.

(6) Every person who acts in contravention of this section shall be liable, on summary conviction before a Stipendiary Magistrate, Police Magistrate, or two Justices of the Peace, to imprisonment for any term not exceeding six months, with or without hard labour. 55 V. c. 42, s. 169.

Taken from 38 V. c. 28, s. 32 (1874). Cf. 37 V. c. [illegible]; R.S.O. c. 9, s. 155; Imp. Stat. 35 & 36 V. c. 33, s. 4 and note the difference in subs. 1.

What is "communicating" information.

(a) In a case under sec. 4 of "The Ballot Act, 1872," (a)—which provides that:

> "Every officer, clerk and agent in attendance at a polling station shall maintain and aid in maintaining the secrecy of the voting in such station, and shall not communicate before the poll is closed to any person any information as to the name or number on the register of voters of any elector who has or has not applied for a ballot paper or voted at that station."

an information was laid against the respondent under the above section, charging that he, being a personating agent duly appointed and in attendance at a certain polling station in connection with a municipal election for a town-councillor, did not then and there maintain and aid in maintaining the secrecy of the voting in such station, but did then and there communicate, before the poll was closed, to a certain person or persons certain information as to the names and numbers on the register of voters of certain electors who had and who had not applied for ballot papers or voted at that election.

It appeared that the respondent, having been appointed "personating agent," as stated in the information, attended at the polling booth with a copy of the burgess-roll, and remained there some hours placing a mark against the name of each voter who obtained a ballot paper; and that he then before the close of the poll left the station, taking with him his copy of the burgess-roll, which he left in the committee-room of the candidate by whom he was employed. There was no proof that the copy of the burgess-roll was seen by any person while in the room.

Held, that there was not sufficient evidence to warrant a conviction under the above section, as there was no proof that the information as to the voters was actually communicated to any person, and it was not enough that the means of acquiring such information were afforded to any one. (b)

Statutory declaration of secrecy.

199. The clerk of the municipality, and every officer, clerk or agent authorized to attend a polling place or at the counting of the votes, shall, before the opening of the poll, make a statutory declaration of secrecy in the presence (if he is the clerk of the municipality) of a Justice of the Peace, and if he is any other officer or clerk, in the presence of a Justice of the Peace or of the clerk of the municipality, and (if he is an agent of a

No one compellable to disclose his vote.

But he may legally do so.

(a) Secrecy is the privilege but not the obligation of the voter. He cannot in any legal proceeding to question the election, be compelled to state for whom he has voted. But there is nothing to forbid his stating for whom he voted if he sees fit to do so, and his voluntarily so doing is not made illegal by the Act. (c)

Miscellaneous Provisions.

Candidates may undertake duties of an agent.

201. A candidate may himself undertake the duties which any agent of his, if appointed, might have undertaken, or he may assist his agent in the performance of such duties, and may be present at any place at which his agent may (in pursuance in the Act) be authorized to attend; but no candidate shall be present at the marking of a ballot for a voter under section 171. 55 V. c. 42, s. 172.

Expressions in ss. 137-201, referring to agents.

Non-attendance of agents.

202. When in the sections of this Act numbered from 137 to 201 inclusive, expressions are used, requiring or authorizing any act or thing to be done, or inferring that any act or thing is to be done in the presence of the agents of the candidates, such expressions shall be deemed to refer to the presence of such agents of the candidates as are authorized to attend, and as have in fact attended, at the time and place where such act or thing is being done; and the non-attendance of any agent at such time and place shall not, if the act or thing is otherwise duly done, invalidate in anywise the act or thing done. 55 V. c. 42, s. 173.

Taken from 38 V. c. 28, s. 36 (1874). Cf. 37 V. c. 5, s. 34; "The Ontario Election Act" (R. S. O. c. 9), s. 211; "The Ballot Act, 1872" (Imp. Stat. 35 & 36 V. c. 63), Sched. 1, Rule 55.

Public holidays, etc., excluded in reckoning time under ss. 137-201, except for nomination and election of mayors, etc.

203. In reckoning time for the purposes of the said sections, 137 to 201, Sunday and any day set apart by any act of lawful authority for a public holiday, fast or thanksgiving shall be excluded; and where anything is required by this Act to be done on a day which falls on any of such days, such thing may be done on the next juridical day; but nothing in this section contained shall extend or apply to the days fixed by this Act for the nomination or election of candidates for the offices of mayor and alderman in cities, of county councillors, or of mayor, reeve, deputy-reeve or councillors in other municipalities. 55 V. c. 42, s. 174; 59 V. c. 52, s. 27.

The first clause is taken from 38 V. c. 28 s. 37 (1874). Cf. 37 V. c. 5, s. 35; "The Ontario Election Act" (R. S. O. c. 9), s. 213; "The Ballot Act, 1872" (Imp. Stat. 35 & 36 V. c. 33), Sched. 1, Rule 56. The second clause, "but nothing in this section contained," etc., was added in 1877 by 40 V. c. 7, Sched. A (170), and was extended to county councillors by "The County Councils Act, 1896" (59 V. c. 52), s. 27.

"Juridical" days.

(a) "On the next juridical day." Strictly speaking, "juridical days" are "days in Court on which the laws are administered" (Wharton's Law Lexicon); "days on which Courts can lawfully sit" (Webster's Dictionary); but the term is loosely used in our Statutes to indicate a day which does not fall within any of the classes previously referred to in this section. The (more accurate) language of "The Ballot Act, 1872," is "unless it is one of the days excluded as above mentioned."

(b) "Nothing in this section contained shall . . . apply to the days fixed . . . for nomination . . . or election." The meaning is, that should the day appointed for nominations under ss. 118-125, 133, or for election (polling) under ss. 94, 95, 128 (3), fall upon a public holiday, etc., that fact shall make no difference. As to what are public holidays, see R.S.O. c. 1, s. 8 (16), and West Toronto (Provincial Election), 31 U.C.R. 409 (1871).

No election to be invalid for want of compliance with provisions of Act where principles followed and result not affected.

204. No election shall be declared invalid by reason of a non-compliance with the provisions of this Act as to the taking of the poll or the counting of the votes or by reason of any mistake in the use of the forms contained in the schedules to this Act, or by reason of any irregularity, if it appears to the tribunal having cognizance of the question that the election was conducted in accordance with the principles laid down in this Act, and that such non-compliance, mistake or irregularity did not affect the result of the election. 55 V. c. 42, s. 175

What irregularities will avoid an election.

(a) This section is compounded of two, viz., 38 V. c. 28, s. 38 (1874), and 39 V. c. 5, s. 16 (1875). The first was copied from 37 V. c. 5, s. 37, and that in its turn from "The Ballot Act, 1872" (Imp. Stat, 35 & 36 V. c. 33), s. 13, in which the words used were "by reason of a non-compliance with the rules contained in the first Schedule to this Act, or any mistake in the use of the forms contained in the second Schedule to this Act, if it appears to the tribunal," etc. The Act of 1875 (39 V. c. 5, s. 17), inserted the further words "or by reason of any irregularity."

Under s. 13 of the Imperial Statute, it was held (a):—

1. That the Rules in the First and the Forms in the Second Schedule were directory only, as distinguished from the absolute enactments contained in the body of the Act,—and it was therefore sufficient if these Rules or Forms were substantially, though not exactly, complied with.

(2) That an election is void under the common law applicable to Parliamentary elections, if it has been so conducted that the tribunal which is asked to avoid it is satisfied, as a matter of fact, that there was no real electing at all, or that the election was not really conducted under the subsisting election laws,—that is, that the constituency has not in fact had a fair and free opportunity of electing the candidates which the majority might prefer, or that there is reasonable ground to believe that a majority of the electors may, by reason of irregularities in the mode of conducting the election, have been prevented from electing the candidate they preferred.

(3) That to render an election void under "The Ballot Act, 1872," by reason of a non-observance of, or non-compliance with the Rules or Forms given therein, such non-observance or non-compliance must be so great as to satisfy the tribunal before which the validity of the election is contested, that the election has been conducted in a manner contrary to the principle of an election by ballot, and that the irregularities complained of did affect, or might have affected the result of the election.

It is extremely difficult to educe "the principles laid down in" an Act containing 750 sections so as to state them within the compass of a few sentences; but in determining the validity or otherwise of a municipal election the following points seem to be of primary importance:—

(1) The actual possession, at the time of the election, of the qualifications required by law in the case of candidates (ss. 76, 77) and of voters (ss. 85-89, 148-154) (b).

(2) That every qualified elector shall have free access to the polls, and a fair opportunity of voting (c).

(3) That the voting should be secret (d).

Provided the result of the election has not been thereby affected, the following irregularities seem to be within the remedial operation of this section:—

(1) Failure on the part of the municipal clerk to post up a list of the nominated candidates on the very day of the nomination (s. 129 (1)): to print their Christian or surnames in full, or in strictly alphabetical order upon the ballot papers (s. 139); to sign or "attest by his solemn declaration in writing" the list of voters delivered to each deputy-returning officer under ss. 150, 151, or to certify as correct the copies of the voters' list so delivered under s. 152 (provided, in the last three cases, that the lists thus furnished are in reality correct): to post up the statement required by s. 178, or to prepare and mail the certificate under s. 181 on the precise dates thereon respectively mentioned, etc.

Sec. 204.

Note (a).

(2) Failure on the part of a deputy-returning officer to comply "absolutely and exactly" with the requirements of s. 106 (d) (e), s. 147 (f), s. 169 (g), s. 171 (h), ss. 173, 174, 175, (i) or s. 177 (1*g*) (j).

What irregularities will avoid an election.

(3) Even where one who was himself a candidate acted as returning officer, instead of the person who should have so acted, the Court, finding that there was no mala fides, and that the result had not been affected, refused to set aside the election. (k)

For examples of irregularities which would probably invalidate an election, see s. 118, notes (a) and (b); s. 121, note (a); s. 127, note (a); s. 128 subs. 2, note (a); subs. 4, note (a); s. 139, note (a); s. 165, note (b); s. 177, note (a), citing Re Ottawa Municipal Election (l).

It has been held that a mere casual affray or incidental disturbance, not calculated to prevent any man of ordinary nerve and courage from going to the poll, is not of itself sufficient to avoid an election where the majority of the successful candidate is large (m). But in other cases (n), although there was no proof that the poll had been interfered with, the elections were not set aside; and where,—as in Ontario—women are entitled to vote (s. 86), absolute freedom of election would probably be required.

It is to be further observed that the cases of "non-compliance with the provisions of the Act" etc., first referred to in this section, are limited to those provisions which refer to "the taking of the poll or counting of the votes." In Reg. ex rel St. Louis v. Reaume, (o) Boyd, C. set aside the election (though by a majority of 66 votes) of a deputy-reeve who on the Saturday before polling day had participated in a transaction by which some 80 names were added to the voter's list as certified by the County Judge, notwithstanding the fact that only 31 of the persons thus illegally added appeared to have voted in the election. In this case it may be said that the election was not conducted in accordance with one of the "principles laid down in the Act," viz.: the finality of the voters list as settled and certified by the Judge (ss. 89, 148). In a parliamentary election, where the returning officer had omitted to provide enough ballot boxes, so that at two polling places no poll was taken, and at (e) At an election of county councillors, one of the deputy-returning officers for a town in the county was absent from his booth on three separate occasions during polling-day. The first and second absences were on account of illness; on the third occasion he went out to dinner and voted in another place. The first absence was for about ten minutes during which the booth was locked up, with the poll clerk and constable inside in charge, and it was sworn by the deputy-returning officer that no voter came in till he returned. At his second and third absences the town-clerk took his place. During the second no votes were cast, but during the third there were several. The town-clerk placed the initials of the D. R. O. on the back of the ballots given out to such voters, and the consequence was that upon a judicial investigation these ballots were identified and separated. It appeared that during the third absence nine votes were cast for the relator and nine for the respondent, and that upon the whole the respondent had two more votes than the relator, and by sec. 13 of "The County Councils Act, 1896," (there being two county councillors to be elected,) a voter could give both his votes to one candidate. There was no suggestion of bad faith.

Held, that the absence of the D. R. O. and what was done during these absences had not affected the result of the election, and applying the provisions of the above section, that the election should not be declared void. Reg, ex rel. Watterworth v. Buchanan, 28 O. R. 352 (1897).

(b) "Did not affect the result of the election." It is not enough for those who desire to uphold the election to prove that the irregularities shown were such that the result may not have been affected. The tribunal having cognizance of the question must be satisfied that, as a matter of fact, they did not affect it. And this, in the case of a mere irregularity, is the ultimate test. (r)

205.—(1) The expenses incurred in and about the election of county councillors shall be borne by the county; but where a poll is held for the election of a member or members of the council of a local municipality at the same time as the election for the county council is held, the cost of the polling booth and the fees of the deputy-returning officer, poll clerk and constable, and any other expenses which would be necessary for such election for the local municipality shall be borne by the local municipality as heretofore.

(2) In case of any dispute between the local municipality and the county as to the apportionment or payment of any such expenses, the difference between them shall be summarily and finally settled by the County Judge upon the application of either party, upon four days' notice to the other party, and the Judge shall make such order in the matter as to him appears just.

(3) Where an election for the county council is held when no poll is required at an election for the local municipality or municipalities, then the expense thereof shall be borne wholly by the county. 59 V. c. 52, s. 22.

Expenses incurred by officers to be repaid to them.

206. Subject to the provisions of the last preceding section, the reasonable expenses incurred by the county clerk, the clerk of the local municipality and the other officers and clerks for printing, providing ballot boxes, ballot papers, materials for marking ballot papers, balloting compartments, transmission of the packets required by this Act to be transmitted, and all reasonable fees and allowances for services rendered under this Act, shall be paid to the county clerk or the clerk of the local municipality, by the treasurer of the county or local municipality, (as the case may be), and shall be distributed by him to the several persons entitled thereto. 55 V. c. 42, s 176.

Taken from 38 V. c. 28, s. 39 with such verbal alterations as have been necessitated by "The County Councils Act, 1896." See 60 V. c. 3, s. 3.

(a) The Act contains no provision for the taxation of the amount of these services. Their reasonableness must in the first instance be judged of by the treasurer of the municipality. In the event of a difference as to their value between him and the person who performed the services the amount can only be settled by action or arbitration.

DIVISION VII.—VACANCIES IN COUNCIL.

Synopsis—The preceding Divisions of this Title having prescribed when, where and how municipal elections shall be held, and (s. 187) that the persons elected thereat "shall make the necessary declarations of office and qualification" (as to which, see post ss. 311-319),—"and shall assume office,"—the sections composing this Division provide for cases in which, after the council is organized, vacancies occur by reason (a) of crime, insolvency or absence from meetings, (s. 207); (b) disqualification—e. g., by statute, or by the acceptance of an incompatible office, (s. 208); or (c) by non-return or non-election in one or more divisions, neglect or refusal to accept office, resignation, death or judicial decision, (s. 212).

Provision is made in the first of these cases for an official declaration by the council of the vacancy of the seat, (ss. 207-209), and in all of them for the holding of a new election, (ss. 212-214, 217) to fill the vacancy for the residue of the municipal year (s. 215); but in certain specified cases an option is permitted to the council as to whether or not the seat shall remain vacant for the remainder of the year or as to whether it shall be filled by popular election or by a vote of the council itself, (s. 216). Sec. 218 provides for the (very improbable) event of an election in which the ratepayers "neglect or decline" for any cause other than those specified in ss. 184 and 185, to elect the requisite number of members of the council.

Seats to become vacant by crime, insolvency, absence, etc.

207. If, after the election of a person as a member of a council, he is convicted of felony or infamous crime, or becomes insolvent within the meaning of any Insolvent Act in force in this Province or applies for relief as an indigent debtor, or remains in close custody, or assigns his property for the benefit of his creditors, or absents himself from the meetings of the council for three months without being authorized so to do by a resolution of the council entered upon its minutes, his seat in the council shall thereby become vacant, and the council shall forthwith declare the seat vacant and order a new election. 55 V. c. 22, s. 177; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (41).

Sec. 207. Notes (a) (e).

Taken from 31 V. c. 30, s. 22 (1868) with certain verbal alterations made by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C, (III) (1897). Cf. 12 V. c. 81, ss. 110, 112; 22 V. c. 99, s. 121; 29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 124; R.S.O. c. 225, s. 28.

(a) "A member of the council." This includes the head of the council, notwithstanding Reg. ex rel. Doran v. Haggart cited in note (a) to s. 171, (a)

(b) "Felony." "The Interpretation Act," (R. S. O. c. 1) s. 13 provides that "In these Revised Statutes 'felony' shall mean any crime which before the passing of 'The Criminal Code, 1892,' would have been a felony under the law of Canada." Crime.

(c) "Infamous crime." This term was applied at common law to certain crimes upon conviction of which a person became incompetent to testify as a witness, on the theory that a person who could commit so heinous a crime must be unworthy of credit. The principal of these crimes were treason, felony, and the crimen falsi, which was the general designation of a class of offences including all such as involve deceit or falsehood, e. g., forgery, counterfeiting, using false weights or measures, perjury, subornation of perjury, bribery or conspiracy to procure the absence of a witness, and other like offences affecting the public administration of justice.

(d) "Insolvent within the meaning of any Insolvent Act in force in this Province." There is at present no Insolvent Act passed by the Parliament of Canada to which, under the B. N. A. Act is assigned exclusive jurisdiction respecting bankruptcy and insolvency (s. 91 (21)) and the meaning of the words here used will not be extended. Insolvency.

In Ashatt v. Southampton (b), the plaintiff, an alderman, had offered to his creditors a composition of 7s. 6d. in the pound, but he executed no composition deed, and no proceedings were taken under "The Bankruptcy Act, 1869." A meeting of the corporation of the borough having been summoned for the purpose of declaring his seat as an alderman vacant under s. 76 of the (English) Municipal Corporations Act of 1835 (c), (which provided for vacating the seat of any member "who shall compound by deed with his creditors"), and s. 21 of "The Debtors' Act, 1869," (which extended this to every arrangement by a mayor, alderman, etc., with his creditors under "The Bankruptcy Act, 1869,") this action was brought for an injunction. It was contended that "the object and spirit of the Statutes are to disqualify an insolvent person from holding office," but JESSEL, M.R., in giving judgment, said:

> "Whatever I may think as to the spirit or meaning of the section, I am not entitled to get rid of the limitation imposed by the Legislature; because, if it was contended that a man compounding in any manner whatever with his creditors should be subject to the disqualification mentioned in the sections, nothing would have been easier than to have said so. The disqualification mentioned in "The Debtors' Act, 1869," is expressly limited to an arrangement or composition "under 'The Bankruptcy Act, 1869,'" so that these words must have been put in intentionally, according to some view which I do not profess to understand; that is to say, a composition with creditors was not to be a disqualification unless it took place under "The Bankruptcy Act, 1869." The result, therefore, is that this gentleman has not become disqualified, and does not cease to hold office as an alderman." (b)

(e) "Applies for relief as an indigent debtor." The word "indigent" was (properly) substituted for "insolvent" in 1877. (d) For the nature and grounds of this application, see "The Indigent Debtors Act" (R. S. O. c. 81). Indigent debtor.

Notes (f)-(k).

(f) "Remains in close custody." See R. S. O. c. 80, ss. 15-28.

(g) "Assigns his property for the benefit of his creditors." See R. S. O. c. 147, although the words are not limited to an assignment under that Act. "His property" seems to be intended to designate a general assignment.

What absence vacates seat.

(h) "Absents himself from the meetings of the council." In Richardson v. Methley School Board (e)—a case decided under Rule 14 in Sched. II, Part I of "The Elementary Education Act, 1870," (f) which vacates the seat of a member of a school board who "absents himself during six successive months from all the meetings of the board," etc.,—KEKEWICH, J., in giving judgment says:

> "A member of the board cannot save his position by looking in casually, taking no part in the proceedings, and being present only a few minutes out of a long meeting. What is sufficient attendance must be decided according to the circumstances in each particular case."

(i) "For three months." The three months should be counted, not from the last meeting at which the defaulter was present, but from the first one which he failed to attend (g).

Nulla bona.

(j) In the Third Edition of THE MUNICIPAL MANUAL (1874), Mr. HARRISON, in annotating this section, observes:

> "The Act of 1866 (s. 124) made a return of nulla bona against the goods of a member of the council ground for vacating the seat, (see Re Wood, 26 U. C. R. 513); but this, no doubt, has been removed at the instance of some disinterested holder of, or aspirant to office. So long as a property qualification is necessary to office, one would think that a return of nulla bona would be good evidence of the want of the qualification."

Council to declare seat vacant.

(k) "The council shall forthwith declare the seat vacant." These words were added by 31 V. c. 30 s. 22 (1868) to the section as it stood in the previous Acts. When an act is directed by statute to be done "forthwith," it must be done within a reasonable time (h). The seat does not actually become vacant until the council so declares, (i) but the council may now be compelled by mandamus to pass the necessary by-law (j). Before 1868, when a person whose seat became vacant under the section as it then stood, insisted upon holding it, the proper mode of procedure against him was held to be an information in the nature of a quo warranto, and not a writ of mandamus to the mayor to hold a new election (k).

Proceedings on member's omitting to vacate seat.

208. In the event of a member of a council forfeiting his seat at the council or his right thereto, or becoming disqualified to hold his seat, or of his seat becoming vacant by disqualification or otherwise, he shall forthwith resign his seat, and in the event of his omitting to do so within ten days thereafter, proceedings may be taken to unseat such member, as provided by sections 219 to 244, both inclusive, of this Act, and the said sections shall, for the purposes of such proceedings, apply to any such forfeiture, disqualification or vacancy. 55 V. c. 42, s. 178; 60 V. c. 3, s. 3; c. 15, Sched. C. (42).

(j) See note (a) to s. 10.

(k) Reg. v. Mayor of Cornwall. 25 U. C. R. 293 (1866.)

(a) Soon after the decision in Reg. v. Mayor of Cornwall (referred to in note (k) to s. 207) it was held (a) that the summary procedure authorized by "The Municipal Act" (b) to be taken to contest the validity of an election was not applicable to unseat a member of the council who, though legally elected, had forfeited his seat by a subsequent act. The above section was accordingly passed, in order to obviate the necessity in such cases of a resort to the cumbrous and expensive procedure by quo warranto under the Statute of Anne. (c)

(b) "Forfeiting his seat at the council or his right thereto." Sec. 71 of "The Liquor License Act," (d) provides that,

Forfeiture of seat.

> "If any member of a municipal council is convicted of having knowingly committed any offence under this Act, he shall, in addition to any other penalty to which he may be liable under this Act, thereby forfeit and vacate his seat, and shall be ineligible to be elected to or to sit or vote in any municipal council for two years thereafter; and if any such person, after the forfeiture aforesaid, sits or votes in any municipal council, he shall incur a penalty of $40 for every day he so sits or votes."

(c) "Becoming disqualified to hold his seat." This may be by the acceptance of an incompatible office, e. g. that of treasurer, (e) or it may be found that some private business interest clashes with the duty which every member of a municipal council owes to those for whom he is a trustee. (f) In that case he ought (of course) to resign at once. If he does not, this section applies.

(d) "Or of his seat becoming vacant by disqualification or otherwise," i. e. from any of the causes mentioned in s. 207. The section does not apply where the vacancy is caused by resignation.

Does not apply in case of resignation.

In December, 1892, S. was elected reeve of a rural municipality in Manitoba. On March 18th, 1893, he resigned his seat by writing pursuant to the Municipal Act. Afterwards, on May 6th he attended a meeting of the council, took part in the proceedings, and voted on a motion to amend the minutes of the previous meeting by inserting therein a declaration that the council accept the withdrawal of his resignation, and (the other members of the council being equally divided) he declared the motion carried by his casting vote. A petition having been filed to have his seat declared vacant, two preliminary objections were taken by the respondent on the hearing before the County Judge, viz.:—

(1) That s. 178 of The Municipal Act, R.S. Man. c. 100—(identical with this section)—does not apply to the case of a member of the council who has resigned his seat; (2) That the petition had not been presented within the time prescribed by R. S. Man. c. 100, s. 197, viz., within 21 days from the day on which the election was held (corrupt practices not being alleged). These objections being over-ruled, S. applied to the Queen's Bench for a prohibition. Held, (1) that under the circumstances the remedy prescribed by s. 178 was the proper remedy: (2) that the 21 days mentioned in s. 197 should be reckoned from the date of the Act complained of—viz. the sitting and voting on May 6th—and that the petition was presented in time: (3) that as there was a bona fide dispute on a doubtful legal question concerning the vacancy of the seat, the clerk was right in not assuming to determine it by issuing a writ for a new election. (g)

(e) "Within ten days thereafter," i. e. after the happening of the event which, under s. 207, is sufficient ground for declaring a vacancy, or which, under this section, involves disqualification or a forfeiture of the right to the seat.

209. In the case of members of a county council, the same proceedings may be taken for the vacating of any seat as in the case of members of the council of any local municipality, 59 V. c. 52, s. 20, part.

Any member may resign with consent of majority of council.

210. Any mayor or other member of a council may, with the consent of the majority of the members present, to be entered upon the minutes of the council, resign his seat in the council. 55 V. c. 42, s. 179.

Taken from the Municipal Institutions Act of 1873, (36 V. c. 48), s. 123. Cf. 12 V. c. 81, s. 111; 16 V. c. 181, s. 38; 22 V. c. 99, ss. 148, 149; 29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 151.

(a) "Mayor or other member of a council." The mode in which the warden of a county may resign is prescribed by s. 211.

How and where seat may be resigned.

(b) "May resign his seat." etc. Strictly speaking a "resignation" implies that the person resigning has been elected to the office which he resigns, and has accepted that office (a). The right of a member of a municipal corporation to resign in the absence of express provision authorizing it, has been doubted (b). In 2 Roll. Ab. 456, it is said that an alderman, with the assent of the corporation may resign his office in the corporation, and that the corporation may accept the resignation as of right. Where the Act which sanctions a resignation prescribes the mode, that mode must be followed (c). Where no particular mode is specified, the resignation need not be in writing or other set form (d). By this section the resignation can only be effective when made "with the consent of the majority of the members present, to be entered on the minutes of the council." Until such consent has been given and recorded the office is not vacant (e), and up to that time the offer to resign may be recalled (f). In general, the right to accept a resignation is incidental to the power of appointment (g). Under ss. 238 and 240 a member of a municipal council may, in case his election is contested, vacate his seat by means of a disclaimer. And in that event, the assent of the council seems to be unnecessary.

(c) "With the consent . . . to be entered on the minutes." In this case a simple resolution seems to be sufficient. (h)

Resignation of warden.

Vacancies, how filled.

Taken from the Act of 1866, (29 & 30 V. c. 52), s. 150, the words "and in the case of vacancy by death or otherwise" having been inserted in 1873 by 36 V. c. 48, s. 130.

(a) In this case, no action or consent on the part of the council is necessary. The office becomes vacant as soon as the resignation is made.

(b) "Shall notify all the members of the council." The notification is only of the fact that the warden has resigned. The clerk is not to call a special meeting to fill the vacancy unless and until a majority of all the members of the council require him to do so.

New election provided for and mode of conducting same.

Taken from The Municipal Institutions Act of 1883 (46 V. c. 48), s. 125,—with certain verbal amendments made in 1897 by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (43). Cf. 22 V. c. 99, s. 122; 29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 125, and the sections referred to in note (a) infra.

(a) "In case no return is made . . . in consequence of non-election owing to interruption," etc. This is the case now provided for by s. 185 and (?) by the still unrepealed provision of s. 25 of "The Ballot Act of 1874," (38 V. c. 28), referred to in note (c) to s. 185. As to the former procedure under these circumstances, see 22 V. c. 99, s. 116; 29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 120; and c. 52, s. 120.

What is neglect or refusal to accept office.

(b) "In case a person elected neglects or refuses to accept office within the time rsquired," i. e., within twenty days (or, in the case of a county councillor, within thirty days) after knowing of his election (s. 319). The "neglect or refusal" must be intentional. "Inability may excuse the performance of a duty by one who is willing to do it" (a). Mere hesitation to take the oath until legal advice can be procured is not to be deemed a neglect or refusal within the meaning of this section. In re Township of Asphodel and Sargant, (b) the facts were that five councillors had been elected. At the first meeting, on the 17th of January, only one made the declaration of qualification; and, a doubt having been raised as to the remaining four in consequence of some employment held by them under the corporation, they delayed in order to consult the County Judge. On the 19th of January they met again and organized themselves; but on the same day the reeve for the previous year issued his warrant to elect four other councillors, who were returned thereunder; on the 31st of January these four new councillors with the one first qualified, met and claimed to be the council. Held, that the second election was invalid; for the parties first elected not having refused to qualify, but only delayed, and having done so within the twenty days allowed, there was no ground for a new election. A mandamus was therefore ordered to the clerk to deliver up the papers to the council first chosen. BURNS, J., in giving judgment, says (p. 396):

> "It is an important point to consider upon what evidence the head of the council shall act in issuing a warrant for another election. In the case now before us there is nothing to show at what time these persons were aware of their elections; and if it were to happen that in any case the person elected did not become aware of his election until perhaps a day or two before the third Monday in January (c) we could not hold that he was bound, at the risk of losing his seat, to qualify himself on that day, when we see that he may do it within twenty days after knowledge of his election. If he would lose his seat by reason of not qualifying on that day, and a new election must be the legal result of his doing so, then this absurdity would follow, either that he would be liable for not qualifying within the twenty days, or, if he did qualify within that time then there was no use in it, for that by reason of neglecting or delaying to do so on the third Monday in January, his seat might be filled by another person to his exclusion. It is impossible to lay down any rule as to what amount or what kind of information should be laid before the head of the council to enable or authorize him to issue his warrant to hold another election; but in this case it does not appear from the evidence before us that he could have had sufficient information or evidence before him." If so, the clerk should at once give the six clear days notice required by s. 127, of the date and place of the nomination—since the election is to be "conducted in the same manner as the annual elections," and therefore a week should elapse between nomination and polling (s. 128). The use of the words "annual elections" and the periods fixed by ss. 132 (b) and 133 indicate that the section is not intended to apply to a county council. In such an election the procedure prescribed by s. 217 should probably be adopted in all cases referred to in s. 212 (b).

(b) "Within fifteen days after receiving the warrant." Since the day of the receipt of the warrant should be excluded from computation, this gives the whole 15 days (c). Under the earlier Acts above cited, the time was only 8 days.

Vacancies in office of alderman or councillor after 1st November

From 1885 (d) to 1895 this section applied only to a vacancy in the office of mayor of a city or town; and the date named was the 1st of December in any year. In 1895 it was amended so as to apply to the reeve of a township or village, the date was changed to November 1st and sub-s. 3 was added. Filling vacancies in county councils.

217.—(1) In case of a vacancy occurring in a county council before the June meeting of the council, by the death of a member or from some other cause, the warden (or in case of a vacancy in that office, the county clerk) shall issue to the nominating officer of the division in which the vacancy exists, his warrant for a new election to fill the vacancy, in time, if practicable, to allow of the filling of the same before the regular June meeting of said council is held; and where there is not time to fill the same before the said meeting, such vacancy shall be filled at the next annual municipal election; and the clerk of the county council and the councils and the clerks of the local municipalities comprising the county council division in which such vacancy has occurred, shall take all necessary proceedings, as provided by this Act, to hold the election. When an election to fill any such vacancy is held at the annual municipal election, or at any other time during the year, the proceedings shall be the same (as nearly as may be) as in the case of the biennial election under this Act; but where at such by-election one councillor only is to be elected, each elector shall be entitled to but one vote.

(2) The councillor so elected to fill a vacancy shall hold office during the unexpired portion of the term for which his predecessor was elected. 59 V. c. 52, s. 21.

Sub-s. 1 and 2 are taken from s. 21 of "The County Councils Act, 1896," (59 V. c. 52). Sub-s. 3 was added in 1897 by 60 V. c. 45, s. 62.

(a) "In case of a vacancy occurring in a county council . . by death." The vacancy contemplated by the draftsman of this section was evidently one occurring (as in s. 207) after the election and by reason of something subsequent thereto, but the procedure should also be adopted in all cases referred to in s. 212. (f)

(b) "The warden (or . . the county clerk) shall issue his warrant for a new election." See note (a) to s. 10. As to the meaning of "county clerk," see s. 134, note (a), and s. 142 (1). As to vacancies caused by resignation, see s. 210 and note (c) to s. 212.

"The councils and clerks of the local municipalities shall take the necessary proceedings . . . to hold the election." See ss. 106, 107, 111, 142, 157, 182, etc.

(d) "In case the nominating officer . . neglects . . to act" etc. The failure of the nominating officer to comply within a reasonable time with the requirements of s. 132 (a) would be sufficient to authorize the cancellation of the warrant to him, and the issue of a new one to another person. 218. In case, at an annual or other election, the electors, from any cause not provided for by sections 184 or 185, neglect or decline to elect the members of the council for a municipality on the day appointed, or to elect the requisite number of members, the new members of the council, if they equal or exceed the half of the council when complete, or a majority of such new members—or if half of such members are not elected, then the members for the preceding year, or a majority of them,—shall appoint as many qualified persons as will constitute or complete the number of members requisite; and the persons so appointed shall accept office and make the necessary declarations, under the same penalty, in case of refusal or neglect, as if they had been elected. 55 V. c. 42, s. 186.

(b) "If they equal or exceed the half of the council when complete." This limitation does not appear in the Acts prior to that of 1873 cited above (a).

(c) "Shall accept office and make the necessary declarations." Sec. 219 (q.v.) applies to "persons appointed" as well as persons elected.

Division VIII.—CONTROVERTED ELECTIONS.
(Secs. 219-244).

Synopsis.—This Division provides a summary procedure for the trial of a controverted municipal election. Instead of a petition being filed (as in Dominion and Provincial elections) a 7-days notice of motion may be given—within six weeks after the election or one month after the acceptance of office by the defendant, by leave of a Judge or of the Master in Chambers, and upon giving proper security for costs—to the person whose election is questioned, by any one who was a candidate at the election, or by any elector who voted thereat, or, in the case of an election by acclamation, by any elector who was entitled so to vote (ss. 219-220). The contents of this notice of motion, the manner in which it shall be served, the procedure upon the hearing, the judgment which may be given and the mode of its enforcement are dealt with in ss. 221-237, and ss. 238-243 provide for a disclaimer by which the candidate-elect may abandon his claim to the contested seat and (under certain circumstances) escape liability for costs.

Sec. 244 provides for the making of further rules regulating the practice in these proceedings, by the Judges of the High Court or by such of them as are authorized by s. 124 of "The Judicature Act" to make general rules for regulating the practice of the High Court.

219.—(1) In case the validity of the election of a mayor, warden, reeve, deputy-reeve, alderman, county councillor or councillor is contested, the same may be tried by a Judge of the High Court, or by the senior or officiating Judge of the County Court of the county in which the election or appointment took place. who gave or tendered his vote thereat, or, in the case of an election by acclamation, any elector entitled to vote at a municipal election for the municipality may be the relator for the purpose. 55 V. c. 42, s. 187 (1); 58 V. c. 42, s. 12; 59 V. c. 52, s. 27, part; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (44).

When this procedure is applicable.

(a) Prior to 1849, a person who illegally usurped a municipal office could only be removed by quo warranto proceedings either at common law or under the Statute of 9 Anne, c. 20, (a) and this method of procedure is still the proper one in cases to which this and the following sections of this Division of the Act do not apply. (b)

The Municipal Act of 1849 (c) provided a more summary mode of testing the validity of a municipal election by means of a writ of summons in the nature of a quo warranto; and this procedure—as amended by 13 & 14 V. c. 64, Sched. A (23); 16 V. c. 181, ss. 27, 29; 22 V. c. 99, ss. 127, 129,—was extended, by 29-30 V. c. 51, to cases involving "the right of any municipality to a reeve, deputy-reeve or reeves." As this question can no longer arise—since the passing of "The County Councils Act, 1896" (59 V. c. 52) and of 61 V. c. 23, ss. 2-4 (d)—these words have been struck out of the section by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (44).

The statutory procedure is not cumulative, but is now substituted for the information by quo warranto, "the object being to give an expeditious, convenient and less expensive remedy"; (e) and the Courts will in general refuse relief except to the persons, and in the manner specified in the Statute. (f) And this is so whether the validity of the election is questioned on the ground of irregularity or of corrupt practices. (g)

The practice under this and the following sections of the Act was formerly regulated not only by the Act itself but also by Rules of Court made under the authority of what is now s. 244. See the note to that section and notes (c) and (f) to s. 220.

A Court of Equity will not, upon an injunction bill, try the validity of an election to municipal office,—at all events unless others are claiming the seat. The fact that the custody of books and papers of the municipality is in question does not warrant the exercise of jurisdiction in such a case (h).

Where, however, the object is not to unseat a member of a municipal council but only to restrain him from sitting and voting, it would seem that this may be done by injunction proceedings (i).

(b) "In case the validity of the election." See preceding note. The elision of the words "or appointment" by 60 V. c. 8 15, Sched. C (44) was probably an oversight. In lines 4 and 5 of the section they are retained. See s. 218.

Where and to whom application may be made.

(c) "A Judge of the High Court." The application may be made to a Judge sitting in the weekly Court elsewhere than in Toronto for "ubi judex, ibi curia (j).

(c) "The senior or officiating Judge of the County Court." This may include a Deputy Judge (k); but apparently not a Junior Judge (l). In Reg. ex rel. McDonald v. Anderson (m), the fiat for the writ was issued by a Junior Judge, but this question does not seem to have been raised.

Who May Be a Relator.

A candidate.

(e) "A candidate." The correct sense of the word "candidate" is "a person offering himself to the suffrages of the people." (n) It is not necessary in order to constitute a person a "candidate" so as to qualify him to be a relator, that he should have been actually nominated at the election, where his actual nomination has been prevented by the misconduct of the returning officer (o). But, if after being nominated, he withdraws with the consent of his proposer and seconder, he ceases to be a candidate (p). A relator who was a candidate need not, in his application to oust the defendant, show that he himself was qualified for the office; nor does the fact that he did not object when the returning officer closed the poll before the statutory period had elapsed, disqualify him from being a relator (q).

An elector.

(f) "Any elector who gave or tendered his vote," etc. As to who are electors, see ante, ss. 2 (5), 85-93. The qualification of the relator must clearly appear on the material filed upon the application (r). Before the Act of 1858, the words used were "any person having an interest as a municipal voter in or for" the municipality. In Reg. ex rel. Shaw v. Mackenzie (s), it was held that the use of the exact words of the Statute was not essential, and that, the writ having issued, the interest of the relator, though not thereby established, would be presumed in the absence of proof to the contrary (t). In Reg. ex rel. White v. Roach (u), Chief Justice ROBINSON held it insufficient for a relator to state "that he protested and voted against" the election of the defendant; but in Reg. ex rel. Ross v. Rastal (v), the allegation in the statement that the relator "had an interest in the election as a voter" coupled with his affidavit that he had "voted in the said election, but not for the said defendant," was held sufficient. In Reg. ex rel. Chauncey v. Billings (w), MCMAHON, J. held that where the affidavit filed by a relator on an application for a fiat (x) under the Act of 1883 did not show that he was a candidate or an elector who had voted or tendered his vote at the election in question, this was not a mere irregularity which could be amended at a later stage of the proceedings; and the fiat, writ, and subsequent proceedings were set aside with costs. But where the affidavit filed showed the relator to possess the necessary status, the want of an allegation to that effect, in the statement of the relator (under the former practice (y) or (under the present practice) in the notice of motion served on the defendant (z) is not a fatal objection, and an amendment will, if necessary, be allowed. It would seem that if the relator, although he may have voted at the election, was not, in fact, an elector,—i.e., did not possess the qualifications required by ss. 85-87, or was disqualified under ss. 81, 88, 246, 250, etc., his proceedings may be set aside (a); but the judge may, under s. 231, allow any person entitled to be a relator to intervene on such terms as appear to be just and reasonable (b).

(g) "In case of an election by acclamation, any elector entitled to vote," etc. These words were added in 1895 by 58 V. c. 42, s. 12. Prior to this amendment an election by acclamation could be attacked, if at all, only by quo warranto proceedings at common law or under the Statute of Anne (c). In Reg. ex rel. Bugg v. Bell, HAGARTY, J., said (p. 229):—

> "If the electors do not think it worth while to contest an election in the ordinary way, it may properly be considered that the Legislature did not mean to give them the right to contest it by an application of this kind."

And in Re Kelly and Macarow, RICHARDS, C.J., said (p. 461):—

> "It is urged that when a disqualified person has been elected without opposition, the Municipal Act makes no provision for proceeding under it to contest the election, because there would have been no other candidate, and no elector would have given or tendered his vote thereat. The obvious and ready answer is that the Legislature thought if no elector took sufficient interest in the subject to propose a qualified person as a candidate, and to offer to vote for him, that it was scarcely necessary to provide that such an election should afterwards be contested because some electors had become awakened to the importance of having only properly qualified persons elected as members of the corporation. If all the electors were so little inclined to assert their rights as not to have a person nominated to oppose the disqualified person, it would not be unreasonable to suppose that the Legislature intended that they should have until the next election to gather energy enough to exercise some little activity in relation to their municipal affairs."

(h) "May be the relator for the purpose." But even a person who possesses the statutory qualifications may so conduct himself that he will not be allowed to contest the validity of a municipal election, e.g., by participating in the irregularity complained of (d), or taking part in an election held under a by-law which he now alleges to be defective (e), or upon the faith of the existence of a state of facts which afterwards turns out to be incorrect (f). Still less can one attack the election of a candidate for whom he has voted, or whom he has been instrumental in electing (g), unless he was at the time ignorant of his disqualification (h); and when the relator admitted that the candidate elected was qualified in fact, and objected, not to the irregularity of the election, but only that the declaration was of a qualification upon a freehold instead of a leasehold estate, the writ was refused (i). Though a person who has voted for the candidate cannot attack his election, he may (having himself been a candidate), be awarded the seat on a successful application by another relator (j); and the acquiescence of all the candidates in an irregularity cannot affect the right of a voter to contest the validity of the election (k). It is not desirable that clerks of municipal councils, having the custody of papers of the corporation, should be relators in quo warranto cases to unseat members of the councils of which they are clerks, and, —in order to discountenance such a practice, —costs were refused to the relator, clerk of the county council to which the defendant had been elected a member, although the application to unseat the defendant was successful (l).

Jurisdiction of Master in Chambers.

Jurisdiction of Master in Chambers.

(2) The Master in Chambers or other officer having jurisdiction to sit for the Master in Chambers at his request under the rules of the Supreme Court of Judicature from time to time in force, shall have the same jurisdiction as a Judge of the High Court to try the matters aforesaid: and the word "Judge" in sections 216 and 220 to 224 inclusive, and sections 248 to 257 inclusive, shall include such Master or officer. 55 V. c. 42, s. 187 (2); 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (45).

Appeal from County Judge or Master in Chambers.

(3) The decision of a Judge of the High Court shall be final, but the decision of the Master in Chambers or other officer aforesaid or of the County Court Judge shall be appealable to a Judge of the High Court, and the proceedings incident thereto shall be the same, as nearly as may be, as in the case of an appeal in other cases from a decision of the Master in Chambers. The decision of the Judge of the High Court on such an appeal shall be final. 55 V. c 42, s. 187 (3).

(a) Subs. 2. This and the following subsection first appear in "The Con. Mun. Act, 1892," (m) but the last clause of subs. 2, interpreting the word "Judge" in ss. 216, 220-224 and 248-257 inclusive, has been added in the Revision of 1897. Prior to the passing of the Con. Rules of 1888 there had been a conflict of judicial opinion as to the jurisdiction of the Master in Chambers to try cases of controverted municipal elections. In Reg. ex rel. Feliz v. Howland, (n) Mr. DALTON held that s. 13 of "The Administration of Justice Act, 1885," (o) had "put an end to any question on the subject," and that the jurisdiction clearly existed; but in a later case decided during the same year, O'CONNOR, J., came to a directly opposite conclusion (p).

The question was accordingly settled by Rule 30 of the Con. Rules of 1888, which expressly included "proceedings in the nature of quo warranto under the Municipal Act," among the matters as to which the Master in Chambers was to have all the authority formerly exercisable by a Judge in Chambers; and Rule 31 provided that the same authority should be exercisable by any Official Referee sitting for the Master in Chambers at his request or at the request of a Judge of the High Court. In Reg. ex rel. White v. McClay, (q) it was held that under the rule (30) above referred to, the Master in Chambers had power to make an order of reference to a County Court Judge to take evidence under s. 248.

Rules 42 and 43 of the present Con. Rules (1897) correspond to Rules 30 and 31 of the Con. Rules (1888).

Sec. 220 (1).

Note (a).

Time within which proceedings to be instituted.

Security and proof required.

220.—(1) In case within six weeks after an election, or one month after acceptance of office by the person elected, the relator shows by affidavit to such Judge, reasonable ground for supposing that the election was not legal, or was not conducted according to law, or that the person declared elected thereat was not duly elected, or for contesting the validity of the election of any mayor, warden, reeve, [deputy-reeve] alderman, county councillor or councillor, the Judge shall grant his fiat, authorizing the relator, upon entering into a sufficient recognizance as hereinafter provided, to serve a notice of motion in the nature of a quo warranto to determine the matter.

This section has been entirely recast by 60 V. c. 15, Sched C (4). Cf. Rules 1-3 of M. T. 14 V.; 13-14 V. c. 64, Sched. A (23); 16 V. c. 181, s. 27; 22 V. c. 99, s. 128; 29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 131; 36 V. c. 48, s. 132; R. S. O. (1877) c. 174, s. 180; 46 V. c. 18, s. 186; R. S. O. (1887) c. 184, s. 188; 55 V. c. 42, s. 188.

(a) "Within six weeks after an election or within one month after acceptance of office," etc.

This period was fixed in 1850 by 13-14 V. c. 64, Sched A (23) amending 12 V. c. 81, s. 146. In computing the six weeks, the day of the election (polling) is to be excluded. See note (b) to s. 214. The application may be made although the defendant has not accepted office.(a) The "acceptance of office" intended is the formal acceptance by making the statutory declaration of qualification and office under s. 319; not a mere verbal acceptance by speech to the electors, (b) or by other acts less formal than the statutory declaration. (c)

The "month" is a calendar month, (d) and in computing it the last day falls on the corresponding day in the ensuing month to that on which the acceptance of office took place, (e) but if the acceptance takes place on the 29th, 30th or 31st January the month ends on the last day of the ensuing month of February. Six weeks are allowed to impeach the election, although the office may have been accepted more than the calendar month. If the application be not made within six weeks after the election, it still may be made if the office has not been accepted a calendar month previously. (f) Where, after a summons had been obtained under the former practice, the relator, finding his proceedings irregular, notified the defendant not to appear, and that it was his intention to proceed de novo, it was,—Held, that the first proceeding was no bar to his making a second application, the time fixed by the Statute not having expired. (g) But if the statutory period has been permitted to elapse, the relator may not be allowed to file an information by way of quo warranto. (h) In Reg. v. Calloway, (i) it was held that on an application for a quo warranto the utmost strictness will be required, and the Court will not readily give leave to file a quo warranto after proceedings taken under the Statute have been dismissed. In that case an affidavit was held insufficient which alleged that the deponent had been present at a meeting of the council and had seen the respondent take his oath of office without making any declaration of qualification, and that the deponent had reason to believe that the respondent had never made a declaration of qualification. Held, that the affidavit should have shewn the deponent was present throughout the entire period of the meeting. But in Reg. ex rel. Clancy v. St Jean, (j) the late Sir MATTHEW CAMERON, C. J., held (1) that the declaration of qualification required by ss. 311 and 319 is an essential pre-requisite to the discharge of the duties of every municipal office for which a property qualification is required and (2)—an alderman elect not having stated in his declaration of qualification the value of the land or the nature of his estate therein,—but only that he was "truly and bona fide seized and possessed to his own use and benefit of such an estate,—to wit, a freehold property (describing it) as qualified him to act in the office according to the true intent and meaning of the municipal laws of Upper Canada,"—that this declaration was insufficient, (3) that the respondent's right to the office might be questioned by quo warranto proceedings at the instance of a ratepayer who was not a resident of or a voter in the ward which respondent claimed to represent in the council, and who therefore could not be a relator under "The Municipal Act," and (4) that the relator was not too late, he having applied during the Common Law Term next after the election and only one day after the time for moving under "The Municipal Act."

Time within which proceedings to be instituted.

The learned Judge distinguished Reg. ex rel. White v. Rowch, (k) and Kelly v. Macarow, (l) on the ground that in the first case the matter was res judicata, and the application, in effect, one to have the question tried a second time; and that in Kelly v. Macarow the Court had expressly refrained from affirming that in no case would leave be given, but had only held that upon the authorities Kelly was estopped from being a relator by being present at the election and having then made no protest.

It should be noted that if the relator does not move within the period limited by s. 188, he may not be able to inspect the ballot papers.

(b) "The relator shows by affidavit . . reasonable ground for supposing that the election was not legal." Even if the Judge is satisfied that there is reasonable ground for supposing that the election was in some respects irregular, he may still refuse a fiat if it appears to him that the result was not thereby affected. (m) In Reg. ex rel. Labsted v. Ferris, (n) the objection was that the defendant's declaration of qualification (s. 319) although it described the property in respect of which he claimed to qualify, did not specify the nature of his estate therein. Held, not a case within the words of the Act.

No leave given if only trivial irregularities shewn

(c) "A notice of motion in the nature of a quo warranto." As to the form and contents of the notice, see s. 221. Under the former practice it was held that the application must not only be made within the time limited by the Statute, but also that the requirements of the rules and practice of the Court must be strictly observed. The proceedings were accordingly set aside where there was no notice paper as required by Rule 1 of M. T. 14 V. and the statement of the relator was not signed by him as required by Rule 2 (o); where the affidavit of the relator did not fully set out the facts alleged in the statement as required by the same rule (p); where the recognizance filed by the relator was not entered into before a Judge or commissioner for taking affidavits—as required by subs. 2 of this section—was not conditioned as therein required, and had not been allowed by the Judge (q); and where the statement of the relator did not show that he was one of the persons named in the Act as qualified to be a relator (r). The relator's signature to the notice of motion is not necessary unless he is proceeding in person, but it will be sufficient if signed by his solicitor in the ordinary way. The affidavit of the relator alone was held sufficient to obtain the writ of summons in the nature of a quo warranto under the former practice, even before the Act enabling him to be a witness on his own behalf (s). The affidavit in the support of the relator's case need not necessarily state that the defendant has accepted or acted in the office (t) But where alienage is the objection relied on by the relator, it must be shown particularly how the parties complained of are aliens; a general affidavit of the fact was held insuffi-

Where the affidavit of the relator, though not entitled to any Court, followed and referred to his statement, which was properly entitled, it was held sufficient, and an objection that the recognizance was not entitled in any Court was disallowed on similar grounds (v). Proceedings, how entitled and where carried on.

(4) Where the proceedings are taken before a Judge of the High Court or before the Master in Chambers or other officer having jurisdiction to sit for the Master in Chambers, the same shall be entitled and conducted in the High Court of Justice in the same manner as other proceedings in Chambers; and where the proceedings are taken before the Judge of the County Court, the same shall be entitled and conducted in the County Court in the same manner as other proceedings in Chambers. 55 V. c. 42, s. 188; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (46): Con Rules (1888,) Rule 1038.

Former practice as to this.

(f) How proceedings to be entitled and where carried on. This subsection makes clear a point upon which there has heretofore been much uncertainty and conflict of judicial opinion.

Until the passing of the Con. Rules of 1888—(to which the force of statutory law was given by 51 V. c. 2, s. 4)—these proceedings were commenced by writ of summons issued out of a Superior Court upon the fiat of either a Judge of that Court or, after 1853, of a County Court Judge (a), but the proceeding itself was carried on in the Court from which the writ issued (b), and the judgment was returned thereto to remain of record as a judgment thereof. (c) The County Court Judge who issued the fiat might make the writ returnable before himself, determine the case and make the order; or he might make the writ returnable before a Judge in Chambers at Toronto. (d).

This practice was altered in 1888 by Con. Rule 1038—(which substituted for the writ of summons a notice of motion to be given "upon leave obtained from the Court or a Judge"); Rule 2—(which defined a "Judge" as "a Judge of the Supreme Court (of Judicature for Ontario) or a Judge having for the time being the authority of a Judge of the High Court"; and Rule 41—which expressly excepted "proceedings in the nature of a quo warranto under the Municipal Act" from the cases in which a County Court Judge should exercise the authority of a High Court Judge. (e) In consequence of this decision the Statute 52 V. c. 36, s. 46 was immediately passed,—declaring that in proceedings to contest the validity of municipal elections within his county, a County Court Judge should have the same jurisdiction as a High Court Judge, but that his decision should be subject to appeal as provided by s. 219 (2). The rules above quoted, nevertheless, still remained in force until repealed by Rule 2 of the Con. Rules (1897). The effect of the repeal and of the present subsection will be to remove the difficulty suggested by MERRILL, Co.J., in Reg. ex rel. Hudgin v. Rose (f); and henceforth all the proceedings will, subject to s. 229, be carried on in the Court in which they originate.

Where, under the former practice, a County Court Judge had set aside a writ which had been granted by himself, on exceptions taken thereto for irregularity, it was held that he had power to take that course, and that a Superior Court had no power to interfere with his decision. (g) But in Reg. ex rel. Grant v. Coleman, the Court of Appeal, though affirming the decision on the ground that the matter was not appealable, nevertheless held that after a quo warranto summons had been issued and served, it could not properly be set aside for irregularity, but must be disposed of on its merits. Notice of motion.

221.—(1) The notice of motion shall be at least seven clear day's notice and may either state the return day of the motion or state that the notice will be made on the eighth day after the day of service of the notice, excluding the day of service. Con. Rule 1039, 1888.

Taken from the Consolidated Rules (1888), No. 1039, 1040. Cf. Rules of M. T. 14 V., Nos. 2, 3.

(a) "At least seven clear days." See note (a) to s. 127. This corresponds with the time allowed under the old practice for the return to the writ, viz., "the eighth day after the day of service." (Rule No. 3, M. T. 14 V.).

Notice of motion, what to contain.

(2) The relator shall, in his notice of motion, set forth his name in full, his occupation, place of residence, and the interest which he has in the election, as candidate or voter, and shall also state specifically under distinct heads, all the grounds of objection to the validity of the election complained against, and in favour of the validity of the election of the relator, or other person or persons, where the relator claims that he or they, or any of them, have been duly elected. Con. Rule 1040 (1888).

(b) "The relator shall . . set forth his name in full," etc. This follows almost verbatim what Rule No. 2 of M. T. 14 V., required to be set out in the statement of the relator to be annexed to his notice paper. See note (f) to s. 219 and note (c) to s. 220.

The following may be the form of the notice of motion:

Notice of Motion to set aside a Municipal Election.

IN THE HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE, or

IN THE COUNTY COURT OF THE COUNTY OF ———,

BETWEEN The Queen on the relation of

———

Take notice that by leave of —— a motion will be made before the presiding Judge in Chambers (or the Master in Chambers) at Osgoode Hall in the City of Toronto [or before His Honour the Judge of the County Court of the County of ——, at his Chambers in the Court House in the City (or town) of ——] at —— o'clock in the forenoon of the eighth day after the day of service hereof, excluding the day of such service, or so soon thereafter as counsel can be heard on behalf of the above named relator —— (set out the name in full of the relator, his occupation and place of residence) who has an interest in the election hereinafter referred to as (a candidate or voter thereat, as the case may be) for an order setting aside and declaring invalid and void the election or pretence of an election held on the —— day of ——, A.D. ——, at ——, in the County of ——, under which election or pretended election —— the above named defendant hath unjustly usurped and still doth usurp the office of——*[and (when it is claimed that the relator, or the relator and another or others ought to have been returned) declaring that (here name the party or parties so entitled) was (or were) duly elected thereto and ought to have been returned at such election and should now be admitted thereto,]

Secs. 221 (1), 222.

Notes (c); (a).

Form of notice of motion.

Upon the following grounds :—

1. That (for example) the said election was not conducted according to law in this, that, &c.

2. That the said ——(naming the defendant) was not duly, or lawfully elected or returned, in this, that &c.

3. That &c.

and upon grounds disclosed in the affidavits and papers filed, or for such further and other order as to the said [Judge or Master in Chambers] shall seem meet and as the nature of the case shall require, and that upon and in support of such motion will be read the affidavits of ——this day filed [or in case viva voce evidence is to be tendered the names of the witnesses whom it is proposed to examine should be given.]

Dated &c.

Signed by the relator in person or by his solicitor.

NOTE.—Where the intention of the relator is to impeach the election as altogether void, as in that event, the office cannot be claimed by any other or others, this portion of the above form relating thereto should be omitted.

The proper designation of a warden in quo warranto proceedings is "Warden of the Corporation of the County of....." but "Warden of the County of....." is not improper. (a)

(c) "Where the relator claims that he or they . . . have been duly elected." Where the relator claims the seat for himself or for some other person on the ground of the disqualification of the person elected, he must show that the electors were duly notified at or before the nomination. (b) But it is not necessary in order to set aside the election to show that such notice was given. (c) And it seems to be wholly discretionary with the Judge whether or not he awards the seat to the relator, (d) and (per ROBINSON, C.J.) "it is a discretion with which there ought to be no interference by way of appeal, at least unless the ground for claiming the seat be so clear under the circumstances that it can properly be said to be a plain right." (e)

Affidavits to be filed.

222. Before serving his notice of motion the relator shall file all the affidavits and material upon which he intends to move, except where viva voce evidence is to be taken, and in that case he shall name in his notice the witnesses whom he proposes to examine. Con. Rule 1041 (1888).

(a) In Reg. ex rel. Mangan v. Fleming, (f) the affidavit of the relator issued on the application for the fiat had not been filed before serving the notice of motion, the relator intending to establish his allegation wholly by means of viva voce evidence; on appeal from the County Court Judge setting aside (for this reason) the service of the notice of motion, FERGUSON, J. said, (pp. 461, 462 :)

> "I do not see that an affidavit used for the purpose of procuring the fiat is necessarily an affidavit on which the relator "intends to move." The relator in this case declares that the affidavit referred to is not any part of the material on which he intends to rely in support of his motion; and I am of opinion that he was not bound to file that affidavit before serving his notice of motion, for the sole reason that he had used it in obtaining the fiat.

Secs. 222-224.

Notes (a); (a) (b).

Affidavits to be filed.

"The literal reading of Rule 1041 favours the contention of the relator that a case where viva voce evidence is to be taken is an exception to the rule requiring all the affidavits and material to be filed (that is, all upon which the relator intends to move) before the service of the notice of motion. But I do not think that this is the true meaning. I am of opinion that, notwithstanding the apparent exception, the relator must file the affidavits and material to be used in support of his motion before serving the notice of motion. This is no more than ordinary practice in other cases. The omission to file them does not, however, I think, constitute a good reason for setting aside the service of the notice. The effect simply is, I think, that he cannot read in support of his motion affidavits or material not so filed, and in this case the relator says he does not want to read anything of the sort. Even when affidavits and material are filed, they must be mentioned or referred to in the notice of motion, or they cannot be read in support of the motion. Mentioning an affidavit or other material in the notice of motion, when there is no such paper or none such filed, does not, so far as I can see, vitiate the motion. The mover may, nevertheless, proceed as best he can upon the material that he has properly before the Court."

The appeal was accordingly allowed.

Where bribery or undue influence is alleged, the evidence relating thereto must be taken viva voce (s. 248).

Under the old practice, when the papers on which a summons was obtained were left with the County Court Judge, but were handed to him by the defendant's solicitor, before the return day, for perusal: it was Held, sufficient, and that it was not essential that they should have been filed with the Deputy Clerk of the Crown before the summons issued. (g) But under the present law this decision would not be followed.

Service of notice of motion.

223.—(1) The notice of motion shall be served personally, unless the party to be served keeps out of the way to avoid personal service, in which case the Judge upon being satisfied thereof, by affidavit or otherwise, may make an order for such substitutional service as he think fit. 55 V. c. 42, s. 194.

Taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99) s. 128 (7). Cf. 12 V. c. 81, s. 148.

(a) Except in the case mentioned, the Judge has no power to dispense with personal service. (h) In general a copy of the notice should be left with the defendant and the original shown to him if he desires to see it. (i) Service upon a wife, agent, or servant is not personal service. (j)

Time for service of notice of motion.

(2) Service of the notice of motion shall be made within two weeks from the date of the fint so granted by the Judge, unless otherwise ordered by the Judge, as in the preceding subsection provided. 58 V. c. 42, s. 13.

(b) Subs. 2 was added by 58 V. c. 32, s. 13 (1895), prior to which no time was limited within which the notice of motion, or the writ (under the old practice), must be served. The power of the Judge to extend the time seems to be limited to cases where the defendant is keeping out of the way to avoid personal service.

When the relator claims the seat.

the validity, both of the election complained of and of the alleged election of the relator or other person. 55 V. c. 42, s. 190.

Taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99), s. 128 (2). Cf. 13 & 14 V. c. 64, Sched. A. (23); 16 V. c. 181, s. 27.

(a) If the relator claims the seat for himself or for some other person, he must establish not only that the election complained of is invalid, but that there has been a valid election.

When several elections complained of.

225. In case the grounds of objection apply equally to two or more persons elected, the relator may proceed by one motion against such persons. 55 V. c. 42, s. 191.

Taken from 13 & 14 V. c. 64, Sched. A. (23).

(a) Under the Statute 12 Vict. c. 81, s. 146, it was held that a private relator had no right by a writ of summons in the nature of a quo warranto, either to attack the township council by name upon grounds which, if mentioned, must necessarily lead to a dissolution of the body, or to attack the whole council in one proceeding, through the individual names of every member of it. (k) But the law in this respect was amended (see 13 & 14 V. c. 64, Sched. A. (23) and 16 V. c. 181, s. 27), and sec. 234 of this Act appears in the amended and extended form.

The object of the section is "that cases having so much in common that they can conveniently be tried together may be combined in one proceeding with the double advantage of economy and expedition,"; but it does not preclude a Judge from giving effect in one of the cases to a ground of relief not common to all. (l)

Hearing of motion.

226. On the hearing of the motion the relator shall not be allowed to object to the election of the person complained against, or to support the election of any person alleged to have been duly elected on any ground not specified in the notice of motion; but the Judge in his discretion may entertain any substantial ground of objection to, or in support of, the validity of the election of either or any of the parties which may appear in the evidence before him. Con. Rule 1042 (1888).

Taken from Rule 9 of M. T. 14 V., the words "notice of motion" in line 5 being substituted for the word "statement" in the original rule.

(a) See note (c) to s. 219.

Where more motions than one, all to be tried by the same judge.

227. Where more motions than one are made to try the validity of an election, all the motions shall be made returnable before the Judge who is to try the first of them; and the Judge may give one judgment upon all, or a separate judgment upon each one or more of them, as he thinks fit. 55 V. c. 42, s. 192.

Taken from the Act of 1849, (12 V. c. 81), s. 149.

(a) At an election there may be several candidates; so there may be several persons elected to office. One person may see fit to contest the election of any successful candidate; and so another person may see fit to contest the election of another of the successful candidates (a). Each relator complying with this Statute may have his own separate and independent proceeding. In this way there may be several motions made to try the validity of the same election. In such case, all the motions are to be made returnable before the Judge who is to try the first; the object being, no doubt, to preserve uniformity of decision (b). But where, in an application to a Superior Court, it was urged that proceedings, at the instance of another relator, were already pending before a County Judge, and that, under this section, the second writ should also be made returnable before him, the objection was overruled and judgment given unseating the defendant, it being sworn that the first proceeding was collusive (c); and in Reg. ex rel. Patterson v. Vance (d), proceedings begun before a County Judge were set aside at the instance of a subsequent relator on the same ground, though it was held that the second relator could not object to mere irregularities in the proceedings of the first one, unless they were designedly committed in order to secure the failure of the application (e).

Where more motions than one are made.

In Reg. ex rel. Hall v. Gwanlock (f), two motions had been made by different relators attacking the validity of the election of a city alderman. The first of these applications was made to the Master in Chambers; the second, five days afterwards—to the Judge of the County Court, who (in ignorance of the prior application to the Master in Chambers) granted his fiat for service of a notice of motion. Upon the return of this motion the County Judge (notwithstanding objection by respondent that a motion under a fiat of earlier date was pending before the Master in Chambers, and that under this section both motions must be heard by said Master in Chambers) proceeded to try the validity of the election, and found as a fact that the proceeding pending before the Master was collusive, and that there were irregularities apparent on the face of it of such a nature and character as to support and confirm the suggestion that it was collusive and intended to produce an abortive result. A Judge of the High Court sitting in Chambers having made an order prohibiting the County Judge from further proceeding in the matter, it was, Held, (by a Divisional Court), reversing FERGUSON, J., that the County Judge having equal and concurrent jurisdiction in respect of the matter with a Judge of the High Court and the Master in Chambers, the order of prohibition had been improperly made, and it was set aside with costs: STREET, J., dissenting.

Production of books and papers.

228. The Judge may require the clerk of any municipality to produce before him or to forward under seal to the clerk of the county, for the purpose of production before the said Judge, such assessment rolls, collector's rolls, ballot papers, books, voters' and other lists and such other records of the election and papers in his hands connected therewith as to the said Judge may from time to time seem fit. 55 V. c. 42, s. 197, part; 59 V. c. 52, s. 20, part; 60 V. c. 3, s. 3; c. 15, Sched. C (51).

This section has been constructed out of those portions of 59 V. c. 52, s. 20, and 55 V. c. 42, s. 197, as amended by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (51), which relate to the production of documents. In the case of local elections the clerk is to produce the books and papers; in the case of county council elections he is to forward them to the clerk of the county council.

Evidence to be used on return of motion may be taken viva voce.

229. In case the motion is returnable before a Judge of the High Court, he may order the evidence to be used on the hearing of the motion to be taken viva voce before a County Court Judge, in the presence of counsel for, or after notice to, all the parties interested, and the County Court Judge shall return the evidence to the proper officer of the High Court of Justice, and every party shall be entitled to a copy thereof. 55 V. c. 42, s. 189; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (47).

Taken from 35 V. c. 36, ss. 5, 6 (1872), which also provided that where bribery or undue influence is alleged, the evidence relating thereto must be taken viva voce (s. 248).

(a) Before this enactment the Judge might refuse to have the witnesses orally examined (a). Even prior to the passing of s. 187 (2) of "The Con. Mun. Act, 1892," 55 V. c. 42 (s. 219 (2) of this Act) which gave the Master in Chambers the same jurisdiction as a Judge of the High Court in regard to controverted municipal elections, it was held that he had power under Con. Rule 30 (1888) to direct a reference to a County Court Judge under this section (b).

(b) "The proper officer of the High Court of Justice." As the proceedings are in Chambers (c), the "proper officer" would seem to be the Clerk in Chambers at Osgoode Hall (d).

Returning officer, etc., may be made a party.

230. The Judge before whom the motion is made returnable, may, if he thinks proper, at any stage of the proceedings make an order adding the returning officer or any deputy-returning officer or any other person as a party thereto. 55 V. c. 42, s. 195; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (48).

Taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99,) s. 128 (6); extended by R. S. O. (1877), c. 174, s. 187 to "any deputy-returning officer," and in 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (48) to "any other person."

(a) "The object which the Legislature had in view in enabling the judge to make the returning officer a party to the proceedings was that costs might be imposed upon him in case he were the cause of illegal proceedings." (e) The Court will presume that a public officer acts properly and honestly till the contrary is shown; and where it is intended to charge any officer with partiality or unfairness, the case should be plainly stated and clearly made out (f). Where a returning officer, after closing the poll, received an affidavit from M. that his vote had been entered by mistake for relator, on which he altered his vote in the poll-book, and, —the votes then being equal,—gave his casting vote, the election was set aside (g). As to costs in such a case, see note (a) to s. 235.

The Judge may allow certain persons to intervene and prosecute or defend.

231. The Judge before whom the motion is returnable may allow any person entitled to be a relator to intervene and prosecute or defend, and may grant a reasonable time for the purpose; and an intervening party shall be liable or entitled to costs like any other party to the proceedings. 55 V. c. 42, s. 196; 60 V. c. 3, s. 3; c. 15, Sched. C (49).

Taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99,) s. 128 (8); amended by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (49), as noted infra, note (b).

(a) "Any person entitled to be a relator." See s. 219 (1), and notes thereto.

(b) "Prosecute or defend." Until the amendment made in 1897 by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (49), the only power of the Court was to substitute a new defendant, the section being "based on the old law whereby, when the Court was convinced that important questions arose, or were likely to arise, which the defendant was unwilling to contest, another person interested was permitted to conduct the defence at his own risk as to costs" (h). Accordingly, where a relator withdrew, the Court had no power either to compel him to go on, or to substitute a new relator (i). The amendment of the section (by inserting the words "prosecute or" in lines 2 and 3) brings it into accord with the English practice in quo warranto proceedings (j).

Mode of trial.

232.—(1) The Judge shall, in a summary manner, without formal pleadings, hear and determine the validity of the election, and may inquire into the facts on affidavit or affirmation, or by oral testimony, or by issues framed by him and sent to be tried by a jury in any Court named by the Judge, or by one or more of these means, as he deems expedient; subject, however, to the provisions of section 248. 55 V. c. 42, s. 197; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (50), (51).

Cf. 46 V. c. 18, s. 27; 22 V. c. 99, s. 128 (9); 29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 131 (9); 35 V. c. 36, s. 5; 36 V. c. 48, s. 111; R.S.O. (1877), c. 174, s. 189; 46 V. c. 18, s. 195; R.S.O. (1887), c. 184, s. 197.

(a) Although there are no "formal pleadings," it was provided by all the Acts above cited, prior to that of 1892, that the question of the validity of the election, etc., should be heard and determined "upon statement and answer." Even these words are now omitted; and,—subject to the requirements of s. 248,—the Judge may proceed "as he deems expedient" to elicit the facts. Parties to an action were formerly incompetent as witnesses on their own behalf (k). This was held to apply to the defendant named in a quo warranto summons (l). In Reg. ex rel. Campbell v. O'Malley (m), HUGHES, Co.J., held that the proper proof of the right of an elector to be a relator is the production of the voters' list or an authenticated copy thereof, and that parol evidence is not admissible to establish this fact. Material facts alleged in the relator's notice of motion and supported by affidavit should be answered, else they may be taken to be admitted by the defendant (n).

Trial of issue by a jury.

(2) If necessity arises for sending an issue to be tried by a jury, an order for the purpose may be made, and the issue to be tried shall be stated in the order. Con. Rule 1043 (1888).

(b) The order for the trial of an issue or issues under this subsection may be in the following form:

Be it remembered, that upon the day of 19 , at Chambers in the of before me, the Honourable Mr. Justice (or as the case may be) came as well the above-named relator as the above named respondent by their respective solicitors and upon the said day at my Chambers aforesaid, having heard and read the notice of motion given herein by the said relator and the proofs of the said relator touching and concerning the usurpation by him alleged against the said respondent C. D. of the office of in the said notice of motion mentioned and the answers and proofs of the said respondents respectively, and having heard the said parties by their counsel and upon due consideration of all and singular the premises. Now, that is to say this day of 19 , I do adjudge and determine:

First. That the said relator had at the time of his making of his aforesaid complaint an interest in the election to the said office of as ;

Secondly. That the said hath usurped, and doth still usurp, the said office.

Sec. 233. Notes (a) (b).

Thirdly. That the said relator (or the said) was duly elected thereto and ought to have been returned and is entitled in law to be received into and to use, exercise and enjoy the said office (or that the said is not entitled in law to be received into or to use, exercise and enjoy the said office).

Form of judgment.

Fourthly. That the defendant E. F. was guilty of misconduct as returning officer at the said election.

1. And I do adjudge and determine that the said C. D. do not in any manner concern himself in or about the said office and that he be absolutely forejudged and excluded from further using or exercising the same under pretence of the said election and that he be and he is hereby removed therefrom;"

In case the Judge determines that the relator or some other person was duly elected continue as follows:

If relator, etc., entitled to the seat.

"2. And that the said be forthwith admitted, received and sworn into the said office, in the place and stead of the said C. D. to use exercise and enjoy the same."

In case the Judge determines that no other person was du. elected instead of the person removed, in lieu of the foregoing paragraph substitute the following:

If election avoided in toto.

"2. And that the council of the municipal corporation of the of (or the Sheriff of the county of (naming the county in which the election took place) do forthwith pursuant to "The Municipal Act," cause to be held an election of a person or persons in the place and stead of the said C. D., etc., who has (or have been removed as aforesaid and that the person (or persons) so elected be forthwith admitted, received and sworn into the said office to use, exercise and enjoy the same.

3. And that the said relator do recover against the said his costs and charges by him in and about the said relation and the prosecution thereof expended, to be taxed.

All which, the said notice of motion and the statements, answers and proofs of the said relator and of the said respondents and all other things had before me touching the same, I hereby certify and deliver into the said Court according to the form of the Statute in such case made and provided."

Form of Judgment for Respondent.

Form of judgment for respondent.

In case of judgment for the respondent, proceed as in the first paragraph to the * and continue as follows:

That the said office of under the election to the said office holden on the day of , 19 , be allowed and adjudged to the said respondent C. D., and that the said respondent C. D. be dismissed and discharged of and from the premises above charged upon him.

2. And that the said C. D. or C. D. and E. F. do recover against the said A. B. his or their costs by him, or by them respectively, laid out and expended in defending himself, or themselves respectively, in this behalf to be taxed."

All which, etc., as above.

(b) Costs.—Section 206 of the Act of 1892, (55 V. c. 42,) expressly declared that "in all cases not otherwise provided for (ss. 241, 243), costs shall be in the discretion of the Judge," and although that section has been omitted from the present revision, it is still law (a).

Costs.

The Judge may refuse to give costs to either party (b). But where a new election is ordered the relator is prima facie entitled to costs as against the respondent, especially if the ground on which the election was set aside was the disqualification of the latter (c), or if he participated or acquiesced in the illegal proceedings on account of which the election was set aside (d). But otherwise the tendency of the decisions is not to make the respondent pay costs (e) unless he wrongfully holds on where he should have disclaimed (f). And where the respondent, through the improper decision of the clerk of a council, was declared entitled to a seat, at once accepted office, and was sworn in, without his having interfered with the decision of the clerk, or otherwise misconducted himself, though his election was set aside, no costs were awarded against him (g). Where a returning officer was added as a party, and was acquitted and discharged, the relator's statement not being strictly correct, the relator was ordered to pay the officer his costs (h); and where the relator was an officer of the corporation, though he succeeded, costs were refused him (i). Costs will not always be awarded even against an unsuccessful relator, e.g., if there was reasonable ground for taking proceedings (j), for it is in the public interest that relators should not be discouraged from bringing cases of invalid election to the notice of the Courts by the peril of having to pay costs (k). The costs of affidavits which are unnecessary or too diffuse should be disallowed or reduced on taxation (l). A by-law passed by a township council levying money to pay the costs of a contested municipal election is illegal and will be quashed with costs (m). Costs in proceedings in the High Court under these sections will be taxed according to the High Court tariff (n).

When order for new election to be directed to the sheriff.

234. In case the election of all the members of a council is adjudged invalid, the order for their removal, and for the election of new members in their place, or for the admission of others adjudged to be legally elected, and for an election to fill up the remaining seats in the council, shall be directed to the sheriff of the county in which the election took place; and the sheriff shall have all the powers for causing the election to be held which a municipal council has in order to supply vacancies therein. 55 V c. 42, s. 199.

Notes (a); (a) (b).

(a) See note (a) to s. 225. Even when the number of those adjudged to be legally elected equals or exceeds the half of the council, they have no authority to order the new election, as in the case provided for by s. 130, or to appoint the remaining members of the council, as in that provided for by s. 218. It is therefore apprehended that the new council cannot meet for organization until the election ordered by the Judge has taken place, and that, in the meantime the council of the preceding year remains in office, (s. 95).

Where election has been declared invalid owing to refusal to permit qualified persons to vote.

235. In any case where an election has been held invalid owing to the improper refusal of the returning officer or deputy-returning officer to receive ballot papers tendered by duly qualified electors, or to give ballot papers to duly qualified electors, the Judge may, in his discretion, order the costs of the proceedings to unseat the person declared elected, or any part thereof or any other costs, to be paid by the respondent or by such returning officer or deputy-returning officer.

Taken from "The Municipal Amendment Act, 1896" (59 V. c. 51), s. 5.

R. O. may be ordered to pay costs.

(a) Where returning officer may be ordered to pay costs.—Before this enactment, it had been held that a returning officer would not, as a rule, be ordered to pay costs even though his conduct was in some particulars irregular, provided he had acted in good faith, and without any evil intent (a), or corruption or partiality (b). But where a returning officer, for the purpose of enabling himself to decide an election, struck out of the poll-book a vote which he had deliberately, though erroneously, received and recorded, and,—having thus made the candidates equal,—gave his casting vote, the election was set aside and the returning officer ordered to pay the relator's costs (c). In Reg. ex rel. Totten v. Benn (d), a returning officer who had accepted a vote which he knew to be bad, in order to give himself a casting vote; and in Reg. ex rel. Johnson v. Murney (e), one who had received votes not on the assessment roll were each ordered to pay costs. In Reg. ex rel. Arnott v. Marchant (f), the returning officer improperly closed the poll, both candidates having at the time received an equal number of votes; and when in the act of recording his own vote, a vote was tendered by an elector (who had been present for a long time without voting) for the candidate against whom the returning officer voted, which he refused to record. Held, that there should be a new election, and that under the circumstances, the returning officer should pay the relator's costs and also the costs of the defendant, if he chose to exact them (g).

Right of action against R. O. not affected.

(2) Nothing in this section contained shall affect any right of action against such returning officer or deputy-returning officer, or be deemed to relieve such returning officer or deputy-returning officer from any penalty to which he may be liable under the provisions of this Act. 59 V. c. 51, s. 5.

Notes (a); (a).

Judgment.

236. After the adjudication upon the case an order shall be drawn up in the usual manner which shall state concisely the ground and effect of the decision, which order may be at any time amended by the Judge in regard to any matter of form, and the order shall have the same force and effect as a writ of mandamus formerly had in the like case. Con. Rule 1044 (1888).

(a) See the form of the order, ante, note (a) to s. 233.

Judgment to be returned to the Court.

Mode of enforcing judgment.

237. The Judge shall, immediately after his decision, return his order with all things had before him touching the same, to the proper office of the Court in which the proceedings are entitled, there to remain of record as a judgment of the High Court; and, as occasion requires, the judgment may be enforced in the same manner as an ordinary order of mandamus, and (for the costs awarded) by writs of execution. 55 V. c. 42, s. 207; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (46).

Taken from the Act of 1892, 55 V. c. 42, s. 207, the words "the proper officer of the Court in which the proceedings have been conducted," having (under the authority of 60 V. c. 3, s. 3,) been substituted by the Revisers of 1897 for the words "the Registrar of the Division to which the matter is assigned." Cf. 13 & 14 V. c. 64, Sched. A (23); 16 V. c. 181, s. 27; 22 V. c. 99, s. 128 (17); 29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 131 (18); 30 V. c. 48, s. 151; R. S. O. (1877) c. 174, s. 190; 46 V. c. 18, s. 205; R. S. O. (1887) c. 184, s. 207.

(a) "To remain of record as a judgment of the High Court." The words "the High Court" have evidently been retained by oversight. The intention is that the judgment shall remain of record in the Court in which the proceedings have been conducted. See note (f) to s. 220 (4).

There was originally a right of appeal to the full Court.(a) That privilege was in the Municipal Institutions Act of 1858, when first introduced, but was struck out in Committee. The object, no doubt, is to insure prompt relief. (b)

Disclaimer.

When defendant may disclaim.

238. Any person whose election is complained of may, (unless such election is complained of on the ground of corrupt practices on the part of such person), within one week after service on him of the notice of motion, transmit, post paid, through the post office, directed to "The Clerk in Chambers, at Osgoode Hall, Toronto," or to "The Judge of the County Court of the County of " (as the case may require) and also to the relator or his solicitor, or may cause to be delivered to such Clerk or Judge and to the relator or his solicitor, a disclaimer signed by him, to the effect following:

Form of disclaimer.

240. Where there has been a contested election, the person elected may at any time after the election, and before his election is complained of, deliver to the clerk of the municipality a disclaimer signed by him as follows:

Person elected may disclaim at any time before his election is complained of.

"I, A. B., do hereby disclaim all right to the office of Township Councillor (or as the case may be) for the Township of (or as the case may be), and all defence of any right I may have to the same.

Taken from the Act of 1866 (29 & 30 V. c. 51), s. 131 (17). Cf. as under s. 238.

241. Such disclaimer shall relieve the party making it from all liability to costs, and where a disclaimer has been made in accordance with the preceding sections, it shall operate as a resignation, and the candidate having the next highest number of votes shall then become the member or officer elected. 55 V. c. 42, s. 204.

Disclaimer to operate as resignation.

Who to be deemed elected.

242. Every person disclaiming shall deliver a duplicate of his disclaimer to the clerk of the municipality, and the clerk shall forthwith communicate the same to the council. 55 V. c. 42, s. 205.

Duplicate disclaimer to be delivered to clerk.

Taken from the Act of 1850, (13 & 14 V. c. 64), Sched. A (23).

243. No costs shall be awarded against a person duly disclaiming, unless the Judge is satisfied that such person consented to his nomination as a candidate, or accepted the office, in which case the costs shall be in the discretion of the Judge. 55 V. c. 42, s. 206.

Costs against person disclaiming.

(a) When disclaimer may be made.—The right to disclaim after proceedings had been commenced (s. 238) was given by the Act of 1850, 13 & 14 V. c. 64, its effect being to relieve the person disclaiming from the liability for costs. It did not nullify the election or give the seat to the candidate having the next highest number of votes. (a) The right to disclaim (instead of resigning) before proceedings taken (s. 240) was first permitted by the Act of 1866 (29 & 30 V. c. 51) s. 131 (7), which provided,—as s. 241 now provides,—that such disclaimer should operate as a resignation and entitle the candidate having the next highest number of votes to the vacated seat. By means of a disclaimer under these sections, a member of the council may at once vacate his seat without the necessity for an acceptance of his resignation by the council. (b)

When disclaimer may be made.

(b) Form of disclaimer.—A disclaimer under s. 240 in the following words, "I disclaim the seat as councillor for the Village of P. for which I have been elected," was held sufficient by PROUDFOOT, V. C., in Smith v. Village of Petersville (c). In Reg. ex rel. Mitchell v. Davidson, (d) OSLER, J. held insufficient a disclaimer under the same section which was in the following words:

"Palmerston, Feb. 7th, 1881.

Form of disclaimer.

"To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Palmerston. Gentlemen, I beg to disclaim my seat at the Council Board. (Signed) G. S. D." In giving judgment he says (p. 436),—

> "A short, plain, and simple form of disclaimer is thus given by s. 191, [now s. 240]. It is required to be "as follows": that is to say, in accordance with the form given, not as the disclaimer mentioned in section 192, given after the proceedings have been commenced, "to the effect following." I think there is reason for the difference. In the one case it is to be acted upon by the council, or those objecting to the election, without judicial direction, and terms are used which leave no room for doubt as to what is meant by them. In the other, it may very well be left to the Judge who disposes of the case to determine, in dealing with the costs, whether the defendant has substantially disclaimed his right to the office by the formula which he has made use of. I do not think the relator was bound to speculate upon the meaning of the informal instrument delivered to the council in the present case, and to take the chance of the council refusing to act upon it, or to accept the defendant's subsequent resignation. I am of opinion that the disclaimer was not effectual, and that the relator is entitled to his costs."

Effect of disclaimer.

(c) Effect of Disclaimer.—In case the relator claims the seat for himself or for some other person, the effect of a disclaimer under s. 238 is to put an end to the suit, its object having been thus accomplished (e). But the defendant will not be allowed to defeat the relator's right and to bring about a new election by resigning, instead of disclaiming, a seat which he wrongfully holds (f); and if he attempt to do so, judgment may be given awarding the seat to the person entitled thereto (g).

Next unelected candidate takes the seat.

(d) "The candidate having the highest number of votes." These words mean the candidate having such number of votes who has not been elected; consequently where the three highest candidates were declared elected, and the one at the head of the poll resigned, the candidate who was fourth in order was held entitled to the seat (h).

In Reg. ex rel. Percy v. Worth, (i) there were three candidates for an office. The one who received the highest number of votes and was declared elected, disclaimed under s. 240, whereupon the next in order also disclaimed. The third candidate (the defendant), who had received the lowest number of votes, thereupon made the declaration of office under s. 319 and took his seat. Upon a motion under s. 220 to have it declared that there had been no election, and that the seat was vacant, STREET, J., held, reversing the judgment of the Master in Chambers, that the defendant was entitled to the seat under this section.

Costs.

(e) Costs in case of a disclaimer.—The effect of a disclaimer under s. 240,—i.e. before proceedings taken—is absolutely to relieve the person disclaiming from all liability to costs (s. 241); but a disclaimer under s. 238,—i. e. after proceedings taken—has not this effect if the Judge is satisfied that the party disclaiming consented to his nomination as a candidate, or accepted office (s. 243). In either of these latter cases the costs are in the discretion of the Judge, and will be awarded in accordance with the principles laid down in note (b) to s. 233. Where the defendant, who had personally contested the election, disclaimed in time and asked to be relieved from costs because—being duly elected—he was obliged, under a penalty, to accept office, SULLIVAN J.

The Judges to make rules, etc.

Rev. Stat. c. 51.

244. The Judges of the High Court, or such of them as may be authorized by The Judicature Act to make general rules for regulating the practice of the High Court, may, by rules, settle the forms of any writs, notices, orders or other proceedings to be issued, given or made under sections 219 to 243 inclusive of this Act, and respecting the practice generally, in hearing and determining the validity of such elections, and respecting the costs thereon: and may from time to time rescind, alter, or add to such rules; but all existing rules shall remain in force until rescinded or altered as aforesaid. 55 V. c. 42, s. 208; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (54).

(a) The present form of this section is taken from the Act of 1892 (55 V. c. 42), s. 208, as amended by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (54), but a corresponding provision is to be found in the earlier Acts.(c) The rules of M. T. 14 V.,—referred to in note (c) to s. 220 and notes (a) and (b), to s. 221—governed the practice until they were gradually superseded by other provisions contained in the later Municipal Acts.(d) In 1888 were passed the Con. Rules Nos. 1038-1044 (referred to in note (f) to s. 220 (2)); but these were repealed in 1897 by Con. Rule No. 2, having already been harmonized with and embodied in ss. 220, 221, 226, 232, and 236 of the present Act.

Division IX.—Corrupt Practices.

Synopsis.—The important sections of this Division are s. 245 which defines bribery and s. 246 which defines undue influence.

Secs. 249-251 prescribe the penalty and punishment for these offences; s. 257 relates to a case in which no penalty shall be recoverable.

Sec. 247 declares what expenses a candidate may lawfully incur. Secs. 248, 252, 253, 256 relate to procedure, and ss. 254, 255 to securing the attendance of necessary (but perhaps reluctant) witnesses and compelling them to testify.

Sec. 258 provides for the publication at every election of the sections composing this Division of the Act.

any voter, or to or for any person on behalf of any voter, or to or for any person in order to induce any voter to vote or to refrain from voting at a municipal election, or upon a by-law for raising money or creating a debt to be charged upon a municipality or part of a municipality for any purpose whatever, or who corruptly does any such act as aforesaid, on account of such voter having voted or having refrained from voting at such election, or upon such by-law:—

Bribery as a statutory offence.

(a) This statutory definition of bribery was originally taken from ss. 2 and 3 of the Imp. Act 17 & 18 V. c. 102 (1854), entitled "An Act to consolidate and amend the laws relating to bribery, treating, and undue influence at elections of Members of Parliament." It was first applied to parliamentary elections in Canada by 23 V. c. 17, ss. 1, 2 (1860), to elections for the Legislative Assembly of Ontario by "The Election Law of 1868," (a) and to municipal elections by 35 V. c. 36, s. 1 (1872), the language of which is substantially followed in the present section, the words "or defeat" having been inserted in subs. 2, lines 4 and 6, and in subs. 3, lines 3 and 4, and the words "at the voting upon" having been substituted for the word "for" in the last line of these subsections by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (55), (56). (b) Independently of any Statute on the subject, bribery at a parliamentary election was and is a crime at common law, (c) and long before bribery at a municipal election had been made the subject of statutory enactment in this Province, Chief Justice ROBINSON held that it "would no doubt be an indictable offence." (d) The statutory penalties are not substituted for the punishment to which the offender is subject at common law, but are cumulative, (e) and the giver of a bribe, as well as the receiver, may still be indicted for bribery. (f)

As a common law offence.

What is bribery.

(b) "Shall be deemed guilty of bribery." The essence of the offence of bribery, both at common law and under the Statute, is that a person who is bound by law to act without any view to his private emolument, is thereby induced by means of gain, or hope of gain, to act as some other person prescribes (a). "Anything, great or small, which is given to procure a vote is a bribe" (b). The governing words of subss. 1 and 2 are "in order to induce"; and—since the question of intention must be determined upon the facts in each particular case—it is difficult, if not impossible, to lay down a hard and fast rule as to when an act will, and when it will not amount to bribery (c). The bona fide payment to a voter of a reasonable sum of money for work done (d) and even for services agreed to be rendered, but not in fact rendered owing to misconduct of the voters themselves (e) has been held not to be bribery (f).

"The Municipal Act" contains no provisions corresponding to that section or to ss. 161-163 of R. S. Sec. 245. Sub-sec. 1. Note (c).

Effect of bribery by agents at a municipal election.

(c) "By himself or by any other person on his behalf." The relation between a candidate and his agents in parliamentary elections has been likened to that of master and servant (g); or to that which exists between a sheriff and his under sheriff and bailiffs (h). So far as regards the validity of an election at which bribery is proved to have been committed, or undue influence exercised, the candidate will be held responsible for illegal acts of his agents, though these were unauthorized, and even contrary to his express instructions (i). The act must, however, have been done by the agent in the course of his employment as such, and must have been within the scope of his authority, though it may be an abuse of such authority (j).

But in order to subject the principal to criminal or quasi-criminal responsibility, the rule is very different.

> "As it is an illegal act for a man to offer to give money to another for voting, I take the law to be clear that a man cannot be guilty by his agent of an illegal act, and be held responsible for that act, unless he has given the agent authority, expressed or implied, to do that illegal act. I know that the law of agency to such cases has been much extended by committees of the House of Commons; but I take it to be a clear proposition of law, that if a man employs an agent for a perfectly legal purpose, and that agent does an illegal act, that act does not affect the principal, unless a great deal more is shown; unless it be shown that the principal directed the agent to so act, or really meant that he should so act, or afterwards ratified the illegal act, or that he appointed one to be his general agent to do both legal and illegal acts, to do everything, in short, which he might think proper to support the interest of the candidate. If the candidate gives his agent such a general authority, and the agent is guilty of bribery, the candidate is no doubt responsible for it (a)."

Accordingly, in the Kingston Case (b) in construing words similar to those of this section RICHARDS, C. J. says (p. 633).

> "The person to be deemed guilty of bribery is spoken of throughout the sections as doing the guilty act. The addition that he does it by another on his behalf need only mean that he does it through one whom he has authorized for that purpose; and it is settled law that enactments are not to be given a penal effect beyond the necessary import of the terms used."

This was followed by SPRAGGE, C. in the Cornwall Case (c). And in Reg. ex rel. Thornton v. Dewar (d), ROSE, J. says in giving judgment (p. 513).

> "In my opinion no one can be found guilty of bribery under ss. 209-213 of the Consolidated Municipal Act, 55 V. c. 42, unless the evidence discloses in him an intention to commit the offence; and I decline to hold that a candidate desiring and intending to have a pure election can be made a quasi-criminal by the act of an agent who, without the knowledge or desire of the principal, violates the Statute to advance the election of such candidate. The acts which were relied upon here to show bribery by the candidate were in no sense brought home to him personally. It was not shown that they were done with his knowledge or consent, or under instructions which either expressly or impliedly warranted any such misconduct, even if the evidence estabablished it against persons who were in a general sense agents of the candidate. It would shock our sense of justice to be told that where a candidate had conducted the election contest with every endeavour to avoid any and all acts of impropriety, he could be found guilty of bribery—be made liable to a penalty and rendered ineligible as a candidate at any municipal election for two years because some agent, acting to advance his interests as a candidate, should, without his knowledge and consent and possibly in direct opposition to his express orders, have paid a man to vote for him."

Effect of bribery by agents.

In Booth v. Sutherland (e) however, the learned County Judge of Simcoe held that the fact of bribery having been committed by his agents subjected a candidate to disqualification, under s. 249 of this Act.

Evidence of agency.

(d) Evidence of Agency.—Agency in election matters is a result of law to be drawn from the facts of the case, and from the acts of individuals. (f)

> "There is always a great difference in the degrees of agency. As you go lower down you require more distinctly to show that the act was done by a person whom the candidate would be responsible for; as you come higher up it is more as if the candidate had done it himself." (g)

No one can lay down a precise rule as to what would constitute evidence of being an agent. (h) A man's wife, if she interfere in the election, is ipso facto his agent. (i) It may be said that any act, however trifling, is evidence of agency, and that an aggregate of isolated acts will, by their cumulative force, constitute agency. (j) Canvassing alone, with or without canvass books, is evidence of agency (k); so is attending meetings and speaking on behalf of the candidate. (l) In order to establish agency it it necessary to prove some recognition by the candidate of a voluntary agent's services. (m) But canvassing independently of the candidate, and for an independent association, rebuts the inference of agency. (n)

> "I cannot concur in the opinion that any supporter of the candidate who chooses to ask others for their votes, and to make speeches in his favor, can force himself upon the candidate as an agent." (o)

A supporter of the candidate, who accompanied the candidate in a sleigh, saying to some cabmen, "Boys, follow me," does not sufficiently constitute him an agent of the candidate so as to affect him with illegal acts. (p)

As to how far members of conventions at which the candidate has been nominated, or members of volunteer committees formed to promote his election, are to be considered his agents, see Welland (two cases), H. (e) "Offers or promises money," etc. "It cannot be supposed that an offer to bribe is not as bad as the actual payment of money," (a) but the evidence to prove such an offer must be stronger than that required when money has actually passed. (b) A promise to work for a voter, made without reference to the election and in jest, held no evidence of bribery, (c) but a statement that an offer to bribe was made in jest should be received with great suspicion; for a briber may make an offer which he intends to be taken seriously, and then, if it is not accepted, may say that it was made in jest. (d) Offer to bribe.

It matters not how long before the election the promise may have been made (e)

(f) "Or upon a by-law for raising money or creating a debt." The section under consideration applies only to electors. The case of bribery intended to affect the vote of a member of the council upon any by-law, resolution, etc. is governed by s. 136 of "The Criminal Code, 1892," which provides that,— Bribery of members of municipal councils.

Notes (f)-(l).

(e) Attempts by any threat, deceit, suppression of the truth or other unlawful means to influence any member of a municipal council in giving or withholding his vote in favour of or against any measure, motion, resolution, or question, or in not attending any meeting of the municipal council of which he is a member, or of any committee thereof; or Bribery of municipal councillors.

(f) Attempts by any such means as in the next preceding paragraph mentioned to influence any member or any officer of a municipal council to aid in procuring or preventing the passing of any vote or the granting of any contract or advantage in favour of any person, or to perform or abstain from performing, or to aid in procuring or preventing the performance of, any official act."

Bribery after an election.

(g) "Or who corruptly does any such act as aforesaid on account of such voter having voted," etc. If the prohibited act be done before the election or the voting on a by-law, it is ipso facto bribery; but if afterward, it must be shown to have been done "corruptly." "An act done 'corruptly' does not mean 'dishonestly,' but 'purposely doing an act which the law forbids;'" (f) or, as put by MARTIN, B., in the Bradford case, (g) "a corrupt act" is "an act done by a man knowing that he is doing what is wrong and doing it with an evil object." Both these definitions are quoted and approved in Halton, (h) "Corruptly" means "to produce the result which the Legislature intended to forbid." (i) "Contrary to the intention of the Act, with a motive or intention by means of it to produce an effect on the election." (j)

Bribery to induce persons to influence voters.

2. Every person who, directly or indirectly, by himself or by any other person on his behalf, makes any gift, loan, offer, promise or agreement as aforesaid, to or for any person, in order to induce such person to procure or defeat, or endeavour to procure or defeat, the return of any person to serve in any municipal council, or to procure or defeat the passing of any by-law as aforesaid, or the vote of any voter at a municipal election, or at the voting upon such by-law;

(h) "By himself or by some other person on his behalf." See notes (c) and (d), supra.

Employment of voters as canvassers.

(i) "In order to induce such person to procure or defeat," etc. In Reg. ex rel. Johns v. Stewart, (k) it appeared that in the election in question every member of certain committees had been paid a uniform sum of $2, nominally for his services as a canvasser, but apparently without regard to the time actually devoted to the work, and without inquiry as to whether he had in fact canvassed at all. Held, that such payments constituted the offence of bribery as defined by the sub-section.

As to the right to employ voters as canvassers, there has been much conflict of judicial opinion. In East Toronto, (l) West Toronto, (m) and Lennox, (n) such bona fide employment and payment of voters was held to be legal; and in North Ontario, (o) the majority of the Supreme Court so held; but ARMOUR, C.J., at the trial, (p) and (in the Supreme Court) TASCHEREAU and GWYNNE, JJ., (q) were of the contrary opinion.

Corruptly influencing voters.

3. Every person who, by reason of any such gift, loan, offer, promise, procurement or agreement, procures or engages, promises or endeavours to procure or defeat the return of any person in a municipal election, or to procure or defeat the passing of any by-law as aforesaid, or the vote of any voter at a municipal election, or at the voting upon such by-law;

(j) The transaction intended by this and the preceding subsection is one and the same. But while the preceding subsection makes illegal the conduct of the giver, this makes illegal the conduct of the receiver.

Sec. 245 Sub secs. 3-5 Notes (j)-(k).

4. Every person who advances or pays, or causes to be paid, money to or to the use of any other person with the intent that such money or any part thereof, shall be expended in bribery at a municipal election, or at any voting upon a by-law as aforesaid, or who knowingly pays, or causes to be paid, any money to any person in discharge or repayment of any money wholly or in part expended in bribery at such election, or at the voting upon such by-law;

Advancing, etc., money for bribery, etc.

(k) The object of this subsection is to prevent the expenditure of money for purposes of bribery. If advanced or paid before the election, with intent that it shall be expended in bribery, it is illegal. If knowingly paid after the election in discharge of money expended in bribery, it is illegal. The word "knowingly," in this subsection is used very much in the same sense as the word "corruptly" is in the latter part of subsection 1. It is by no means an uncommon practice for a candidate to pay a large sum of money into the hands of two or three persons, or into the hands of a banker, with permission to certain persons to draw upon such sum of money. This occurs most frequently at elections where it is considered expedient that the candidate should know as little as possible of the means used to procure his return.

In London (a) immense sums of money were expended by agents of the successful candidate, but he denied all knowledge of these payments, although he had made a very diligent personal canvass. The trial judge, in setting aside the election, accepted this denial, though with much hesitation; but the Court of Common Pleas held, upon appeal, that the circumstantial evidence set out in the case was sufficient to show that corrupt practices had been committed by the agents of the respondent, and with his knowledge and consent, notwithstanding his disclaimer; that wilful intentional ignorance is the same as actual knowledge; that the assent of a candidate to the corrupt acts of his agents may be assumed from his non-interference or non-objection when he has the opportunity to interfere or object; and that it is sufficient to establish such candidate's knowledge of, and assent to, the fact that his agents committed bribery to procure his election without connecting him with any particular act of bribery.

And in Reg. ex rel. Johns v. Stewart (b), it was held by STREET, J., that a candidate who, on the eve of a hotly-contested election, places a considerable sum of money in the hands of an agent capable of keeping part of it for himself, and spending the rest improperly or corruptly, who never asks for an account of it, gives no directions as to it and exercises no control over it, must be held personally responsible if it is improperly expended.

And where money given to agents by the candidate was in fact used in bribery, it was Held, that the presumption that the candidate intended the money to be so used became conclusive in the absence of denial on his part (c).

5. Every voter who, before or during a municipal election, or the voting on such by-law, directly or indirectly, by himself or any other person on his behalf, receives, agrees or contracts for any money, gift, loan, or valuable consideration, office, place of or employment, for himself or any other person, for voting or agreeing to vote, or refraining or agreeing to refrain from voting at such election, or upon such by-law:

Voter receiving money, etc., for vote, or agreeing for money to vote, etc.

(l) This subsection applies to the voter prohibitions corresponding to those contained in subs. 1 with regard to the briber, but it is limited to cases arising before or during the election or the voting upon a by-law. The receipt of a bribe after the election is provided for by subs. 6.

Secs. 245, 246, Sub-secs. 6, 7. Notes (m) (n).

Receiving money, etc., after the election for voting, or inducing, etc., to vote.

6. Every person who, after such election, or the voting upon such by-law, directly or indirectly, by himself or any other person on his behalf, receives any money or valuable consideration on account of any person having voted or refrained from voting, or having induced any other person to vote or refrain from voting at such election, or upon such by-law;

(m) The word "corruptly," as used in the first subsection, is not repeated here, but is involved in the language used. To receive after an election money or valuable consideration "on account of any person having voted or refrained from voting," etc., is to receive it corruptly (d).

Hiring teams, etc.

7. Every person who hires horses, teams, carriages or other vehicles for the purpose of conveying electors to or from the polls, and every person who receives pay for the use of any horse, team, carriages, or other vehicle, for the purpose of conveying electors to or from any poll as aforesaid. 55 V. c. 42, s. 209; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (55, 56).

(n) This subsection is not in the Imperial Statute. It is taken, (with some alteration), from section 3 of the Corrupt Practices Prevention Act, 1860, (e) These sections apply only to the hiring, etc., of conveyances "by a candidate or by a person on his behalf" or the letting of conveyances, etc., by an elector "for a candidate or for an agent of a candidate," whereas the present section applies to "every person" (f).

Undue Influence Defined.

Undue influence at elections.

246. Every person who, directly or indirectly, by himself or by any other person on his behalf, makes use of or threatens to make use of any force, violence or restraint, or inflicts, or threatens the infliction, by himself or by or through any other person, of any injury, damage, harm or loss, or in any manner practices intimidation upon or against any person, in order to induce or compel such person to vote or to refrain from voting, at any municipal election, or at the voting upon any by-law, or on account of such person having voted or refrained from voting thereat, or who by abduction, duress, or any fraudulent device or contrivance, impedes, prevents or otherwise interferes with the free exercise of the franchise of a voter, or thereby compels, induces or prevails upon a voter either to give or to refrain from giving his vote at any municipal election, or at the voting upon any by-law, shall be deemed to have committed the offence of undue influence, and shall incur a penalty of $100, and shall be disqualified from voting at any municipal election or upon a by-law for the next succeeding two years. 55 V. c. 42, s. 210 (1); 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (57).

Sec. 246.

Note (a) (b).

(a) The kinds of undue influence forbidden by this section are :—

I. "Force, violence or restraint," or the threat thereof (a).

Undue influence.

II. The infliction or threat of "injury, damage, harm or loss,"—which includes, inter alia, eviction (b) or threats of eviction by landlords (c), threats to suspend or refuse the rites of the Church (d) [it may be noted here that the Imp. Act uses the words "any temporal or spiritual injury, etc.], dismissal from employment (e) or threats of such dismissal (f), or of criminal proceedings (g). The case of a threat of, or an actual withdrawal of custom from a tradesman or artificer is a question of more difficulty. It is open to any man to say, "I choose to deal with you, not in accordance with the merits of the commodities you sell to me, but according to your politics on one side or the other" (h), and it would seem to be doubtful whether such a threat or such a withdrawal would be within the section. At all events the loss threatened or inflicted must be an appreciable loss, so as to affect the value of the business (i). In Northallerton (j), it was held by WILLES, J., that a threat to a Baptist minister to give up a sitting in his chapel, if he voted as he wished, amounted to intimidation. But a candidate's appeal to his business or to his employment of capital in promoting the prosperity of a constituency is not an exercise of undue influence (k). When the threat is proved, it is unnecessary to shew that any person was in fact prevented from voting, because the offence is complete (l).

III. The practising of "intimidation in any manner." In the Imp. Stat 17 & 18 V. c. 102, s. 5, the words were, "in any other manner." This clause is altogether omitted from the section as re-enacted by Imp. Stat. 46 & 47 V. c. 51, s. 2.

IV. "Abduction, duress, or any fraudulent device which impedes, prevents, or otherwise interferes with the free exercise of the franchise, or compels, induces, or prevails upon a voter to give or refrain from giving his vote," etc. Forcible abduction would come under clause 1 of this section. The present clause seems to refer more particularly to other means of keeping voters from the poll ; e.g. by sending them away on some pretence, or by making them drunk, etc. (m) In East Northumberland, (n) the issue of a false statement that W., (an independent candidate) despairing of electing himself, was inducing his friends to vote for another of the candidates, was held not to be a "fraudulent device" within the meaning of the corresponding section of "The Ontario Election Act." The issue of cards like ballot papers, marked opposite the name of a candidate, and with a notice that if marked otherwise, the vote would be "lost" or would be "invalidated," Held, not a "fraudulent contrivance" within the meaning of the Imp. Stat. (o)

Penalty.

(b) "Shall incur a penalty of $100." See, as to the mode of recovery, s. 704.—as to the application of the amount recovered, s. 708—as to the time within which proceedings must be taken, s. 256.

Notes (c); (a) (b).

(c) The Act of 1891, 54 V. c. 45, s. 8, added a subsection inflicting a penalty of $200 for personation, but this subsection was repealed in 1896 by 59 V. c. 51, s. 4 (2). (p)

Lawful Expenses.

Lawful expenses of candidates.

247. The actual personal expenses of a candidate, his expenses for actual professional expenses performed, and bona fide payments for the fair cost of printing and advertising shall be held to be expenses lawfully incurred: and the payment thereof shall not be a contravention of this Act. 55 V. c. 42, s. 211.

Taken from 35 V. c. 36, s. 3 (1872), the original of which is the proviso to s. 1 of 23 V. c. 17, copied in s. 67 of "The Election Law of 1868" (32 V. c. 21).

In England.

(a) The corresponding enactments in the Imperial Statutes are the proviso to s. 1 of 17 & 18 V. c. 102—which declares that the definition of bribery therein contained (a) "shall not extend to any money paid, or agreed to be paid on account of any legal expenses bona fide incurred at or concerning any election —", and s. 31 (1) of 46 & 47 V. c. 51—which permits the candidate at an election to pay "any personal expenses incurred by him on account of, or in connection with, or incidental to such an election to an amount not exceeding £100"; but all further payments must be made through an election agent, and by him transmitted to the returning officer for publication. Similar provisions are contained in "The Ontario Election Act" (R. S. O. c. 9), ss. 197-202, and "The Dominion Elections Act" (R. S. Ca. c. 8), ss. 118-120.

In Provincial elections.

(b) "Actual personal expenses." In East Toronto (b) decided under "The Election Law of 1868," (c) it was held by RICHARDS, C.J., that the candidate is not restricted to purely personal expenses, but may (if there is no attempt thereby to influence voters, or to induce others to procure his return) hire rooms for committees and meetings, and employ men to act as canvassers, to distribute cards and placards and to perform similar services in connection with the election. Sec. 197 of "The Ontario Election Act," (d) as amended in 1898 by 61 V. c. 5, s. 1, now provides that:

> "Personal expenses of a candidate" . . . shall include among other things the following expenses; and payment therefor may lawfully be made by the candidate personally:
> (a) A reasonable and bona fide rent or hire of halls or other places used by the candidate personally in which to address public meetings of electors; and the expenses incurred in heating, lighting or cleaning same when necessary;
> (b) Tolls on toll roads;
>
> (c) The reasonable, ordinary and necessary hotel expenses of one speaker for each meeting (not including expenditure for treating) who accompanies the candidate and travels with him for the purpose of speaking at a public meeting to be addressed by the candidate;
> (d) Reasonable charges for the hire and keep of horses and hire of conveyances for the use of the candidate in travelling to and from public meetings and in canvassing in the constituency, and reasonable and ordinary charges for the services and maintenance of a driver when one is employed by the candidate;
> (e) The charges for use by the candidate personally of not more than one team and conveyance, and the services of a person as driver, on the day of the poll; and the carriage of voters to the poll in such conveyance personally by the candidate shall not be a violation of this Act.

(p) See Regina v. Rose, 27 O.R. 195.

(a) Subs. 1-4 of s. 245 of this Act.

(b) H. E. C. 70. (c) 32 V. c. 21.

(d) R. S. O. c. 9.

The onus of showing that the personal expenses so paid by the candidate, as aforesaid, were fair, reasonable and proper and not in excess of what is ordinarily paid for similar services and accommodation, shall be upon the candidate."

And "The Dominion Elections Act" (e) provides that:

"The expression 'personal expenses,' as used in this Act with respect to the expenditure of any candidate in relation to the election at which he is a candidate, includes the reasonable travelling expenses of such candidate, and the reasonable expenses of his living at hotels, or elsewhere, for the purpose of, and in relation to such election."

"Personal expenses" in Dominion elections.

(c) "Actual professional services." In the North Ontario case, decided under "The Dominion Elections Act, 1874" (f), ARMOUR, J., held that the employment as a public speaker in the election campaign of a voter, who was a lawyer, was not permitted and amounted to bribery; (g) but this was reversed by the Supreme Court (h), TASCHEREAU and GWYNNE, J.J., dissenting (i).

Evidence as to corrupt practices to be taken viva voce.

Evidence of corrupt practices on application in nature of quo warranto to be taken viva voce.

248. Where, upon a motion in the nature of a quo warranto, a question is raised as to whether the candidate or any voter has been guilty of any violation of section 245 or 246 of this Act, affidavit evidence shall not be used to prove the offence, but it shall be proved by viva voce evidence taken before any County Court Judge, upon an order of reference to him for that purpose by a Judge of the High Court in case the motion is returnable before a Judge of the High Court, or upon an appointment granted by the County Court Judge in case the motion is returnable before him. 55 V. c. 42, s. 212; 60 V. c. 3, s. 3.

This section has been recast in the Revision of 1897. Cf. 35 V. c. 36, ss. 5, 6; 36 V. c. 48 s. 156; R. S. O. (1877), c. 174, s. 204; 46 V. c. 18, s. 210; R. S. O. (1887), c. 184, s. 212; 55 V. c. 42 s. 212.

(a) Since the offence of bribery or undue influence, if proved, involves the punishments prescribed by ss. 249 and 250, the evidence should be of the clearest and most conclusive character. The Master in Chambers has power to direct a reference to a County Court Judge under this section (a).

Similar provision is made by s. 382 for taking evidence viva voce on an application to quash a by-law, the passing of which is alleged to have been procured by bribery or undue influence.

Penalties and Punishments.

Penalty on candidates guilty of bribery, etc.

249. Any candidate elected at a municipal election, who is found guilty by the Judge, upon a trial upon a motion in the nature of a quo warranto, of any act of bribery, or of using undue influence as aforesaid, shall forfeit his seat, and shall be ineligible as a candidate at any municipal election for two years thereafter. 55 V. c. 42, s. 213.

Taken from 35 V. c. 36, s. 4 (1872).

Secs. 250-253.

Notes (a) (b) (a); (a).

Penalty for offences under s. 245.

250. Any person who is adjudged guilty of any offence within the meaning of section 245 of this Act, shall incur a penalty of $20, and shall be disqualified from voting at any municipal election or upon a by-law for the next succeeding two years. 55 V. c. 42, s. 214.

Taken from 35 V. c. 36, s. 8 (1872)

Recovery of penalties.

251. The penalties imposed by the preceding section and by section 166 of this Act shall be recoverable, with full costs of suit, by any person who sues for the same in the Division Court having jurisdiction where the offence was committed; and any person against whom judgment is rendered, shall be ineligible, either as a candidate or as a municipal voter, until the amount which he has been condemned to pay is fully paid and satisfied. 55 V. c. 42, s. 215.

Taken from 35 V. c. 36, s. 9 (1872).

(a) "Shall be recoverable." etc. As to the time within which proceedings must be taken, see s. 256.

(b) "Shall be ineligible . . until the amount is fully paid." But even payment of the amount of the judgment will not remove the disqualification for two years created by ss. 249, 250.

Report and Record of Judgment.

Judge to make return.

252. It shall be the duty of the Judge or officer who finds any candidate guilty of a contravention of section 245 or 246 of this Act, or who condemns any person to pay any sum in the Division Court for any offence within the meaning of this Act, to report the same forthwith to the clerk of the municipality wherein the offence has been committed. 55 V. c. 42, s. 216.

Taken from 35 V. c. 36, s. 10 (1872).

(a) "Judge or officer." The words "or officer" were inserted in "The Con. Mun. Act, 1892," apparently without authority, and are both unnecessary and improper; unnecessary, because of s. 219 (2), and improper, because they do not apply to the case of a Division Court action under s. 251.

Clerk to keep book showing names of persons guilty of offences, etc

253. The clerk of every municipality shall duly enter in a book, to be kept for that purpose, the names of all persons within his municipality who have been adjudged guilty of any offence within the meaning of section 245 or section 246 of this Act, and of which he has been notified by the Judge who tried the case. 55 V. c. 42, s. 217.

Taken from 35 V. 3, 36, s. 11 (1872).

(a) It has been suggested that the object of this section is to enable the clerk to omit from the voters' list the names of persons reported to him under the preceding section, and entered in the book herein referred to; but "The Voters' Lists Act," (R. S. O. c. 7) s. 6 (1), provides that the list to be prepared thereunder shall contain the names of "all persons being of the full age of 21 years and subjects of Her Majesty by birth or naturalization, and appearing by the assessment roll to be entitled to be voters in the municipality," and ss. 52 and 64 make similar provision as to the preparation of voters' lists in Toronto and in unorganized territory.

The entries in the book to be kept under this section would, however, be evidence upon which the County Judge might act in revising the list at the instance of any voter or person entitled to be a voter (a).

(a) R. S. O. c. 7, ss. 13 et seq.

Attendance of witnesses.

254. Any witness shall be bound to attend before the County Court Judge upon being served with the order of the County Court Judge directing his attendance and upon payment of the necessary fees for his attendance, in the same manner as if he had been directed by a writ of subpœna so to attend; and he may be punished for contempt, and shall be liable to all the penalties for such non-attendance in the same manner as if he had been served with a subpœna. 55 V. c. 42, s. 218.

Taken from 35 V. c. 36, s. 16 (1872).

(a) This section apparently provides for securing the attendance of the witnesses to be examined under s. 248.

(b) "Upon payment of the necessary fees for his attendance." It is presumed these fees would be those fixed by the tariff applicable to the Court in which the proceeding is pending.

(c) "Shall be liable to . . . penalties for non-attendance . . . as if he had been served with a subpœna." A witness who refuses or neglects to attend after being subpœnaed in time and paid the proper witness fees and conduct money may be proceeded against by attachment (a), by action under 5 Eliz. c. 9, or by action at common law (b).

Witnesses not excused from answering on grounds of self-crimination or privilege.

Proviso.

255. No person shall be excused from answering any question put to him in any action or other proceeding in any Court or before any Judge or officer, touching or concerning any election or by-law, or the conduct of any person thereat, or in relation thereto, on the ground of any privilege, or on the ground that the answer to the question will tend to criminate such person; but no answer given by any person claiming to be excused on the ground of privilege, or on the ground that such answer will subject him to any penalty under this Act, shall be used, in any proceeding under this Act, against such person, if the Judge or officer gives to the witness a certificate that he claimed the right to be excused on either of the grounds aforesaid, and made full and true answer, to the satisfaction of the Judge or officer. 55 V. c. 42, s. 219.

Taken from 35 V. c. 36, s. 17 (1872).

(a) At common law, a witness is entitled to refuse to answer any question that may tend to criminate him, not only because the answer itself might be evidence against him on a criminal charge, but because it might furnish a link in the chain of testimony which might implicate him in such charge. (c) The object of this section is to infringe to a certain extent, upon these principles of the common law. Election inquiries and investigations are made among persons who are often hostile and unwilling to tell the truth, and who, if the common law were left untouched, would be entitled to say, "I will answer no such question," and so the inquiry would be baffled. Therefore the Legislature, has enacted that the tendency of the answer to expose the witness to a criminal charge, shall be no excuse for not answering the question (d), but the common law immunity against incriminating himself having been thus taken away from the witness, he is here given an immunity on certain conditions; and if he has really complied with the conditions he is entitled to a certificate, and the Judge has no right to refuse it (e). The conditions are not only that he

The obligation intended to be thrown upon the person who is called as a witness is, that he shall make full and true answers to the questions put to him. If the evidence given be false there is no protection, and the witness is undoubtedly liable to be prosecuted for perjury (f). The certificate only protects the witness from the effect of his own evidence and does not free him from the consequences of his own improper conduct.

Limitation of Time for Proceedings.

Limitation of actions.

256. All proceedings other than an application in the nature of a quo warranto against any person for any violation of section 245 or 246 of this Act, shall be commenced within four weeks after the municipal election at which the offence is said to have been committed, or within four weeks after the day of the voting upon a by-law as aforesaid. 55 V. c. 42, s. 220.

Taken from 35 V. c. 36, s. 18 (1872).

(a) This applies to proceedings under ss. 246 and 251, and also to an indictment for bribery under s. 245 (g).

When no Penalty Recoverable.

No statutory penalty for corrupt practices at elections, where the party charged has first prosecuted a party jointly liable.

Proviso.

257. No pecuniary penalty or forfeiture imposed by this Act or any other Act of the Legislature of Ontario, shall be recoverable for any act of bribery or corrupt practice at an election, in case it appears that the person charged and another person or other persons were together guilty of the act charged, either as giver and receiver, or as accomplices or otherwise, and that the person charged has previously bona fide prosecuted such other person or persons or any of them for the said act; but this provision shall not apply in case the Judge before whom the person claiming the benefit thereof is charged, certifies that it clearly appears to him that the person so charged took the first step towards the commission of the offence charged, and that such person was in fact the principal offender. 55 V. c. 42, s. 221.

Publication of Law as to Corrupt Practices.

Copies of ss. 245-258 to be posted up prior to election.

258. The clerk of every municipality shall, prior to any election, or the voting on any by-law furnish every deputy-returning officer with at least two copies of the sections of this Act, numbered from 245 to 258 inclusive, and it shall be the duty of the deputy-returning officer to post the same in conspicuous places at the polling place of the polling subdivision for which he is deputy-returning officer. 55 V. c. 42, s. 222.

Taken from 35 V. c. 36, s. 19 (1872).

(a) The object of this provision is to bring home to the electors a knowledge of the highly penal character of the sections as to bribery and undue influence, in the hope that such knowledge will deter them from committing any such offence. The section is directory (h)

PART IV.

MEETINGS OF MUNICIPAL COUNCILS.

DIV. I.—WHEN AND WHERE HELD, (SECS. 259-266).
DIV. II.—CONDUCT OF BUSINESS, (SECS. 267-275).
DIV. III.—BOARDS OF CONTROL IN CITIES HAVING 100,00 INHABITANTS OR MORE (SECS. 276-277).

DIVISION I.—MEETINGS OF MUNICIPAL COUNCILS, (SECS. 259-266).

Synopsis.—County Councils are to hold their first (organization) meeting at the county hall, or the court house if there is no county hall (s. 264), at (or after) 2 p.m. on (or after) the fourth Tuesday of the January following their election (s. 259).

The first meeting of all local municipal councils (after the annual elections) is to be held at 11 a.m. on (or after) the second Monday in January, a week after the election day (s. 259), "at such place . . . as the council from time to time appoint by by-law, or by resolution on adjourning" (s. 265); and the subsequent meetings of all councils are to be held at a place thus fixed.

S. 266-263 relate, not to the place or time of meeting, but to the conduct of business at the organization meeting, and would be more properly placed in Div. II., "Conduct of Business."

Secs. 261-263 prescribe the mode in which the warden of a county shall be elected.

Sec. 266 empowers a county or township corporation to keep its public offices and transact its business in a city, town or village situate within its territorial limits, and to purchase and hold land therein for that purpose.

First Meeting.

First meeting of council.

259. The members of every municipal council (except county councils) shall hold their first meeting at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, on the second Monday of the same January in which they are elected, or on some day thereafter; and the members of every county council shall hold their first meeting at two o'clock in the afternoon, or some hour thereafter, on the fourth Tuesday of the same month, or on some day thereafter. 55 V. c. 42, s. 223; 59. V. c. 51, s. 6.

Taken from "The Con. Mun. Act, 1892," (55 V. c. 42), s. 223, the day of the first meeting of councils other than county councils having been altered from the third to the second Monday in January by 59 V. c. 51, s. 6 (1896). Cf. 12 V. c. 81, s. 24, 34, 66; 22 V. c. 99, s. 130; 29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 133; 36 V. c. 48, s. 167; R. S. C. (1877), c. 174, s. 215; 46 V. c. 18, s. 221; R. S. O. (1887), c. 184, s. 223.

(a) "At eleven o'clock in the forenoon." An objection that the election of a reeve of a village council took place at 6 p.m. instead of the hour named in the Statute was considered by HAGARTY, J., "too trivial to require serious notice" (a).

(b) "On the second Monday of . . . . January, or on some day thereafter." The Statute does not make it imperative that the first meeting should be held on the second Monday in January (b), nor does it require that any notice shall be given of the day of the meeting. If the meeting is held, as is generally the case, on the second Monday in January, there is no necessity for a notice (c). But if the meeting be held on a subsequent day, it would appear to be only reasonable, in order to prevent surprise, that notice should be given of the subsequent day (d).

(a) Reg. ex rel. Heman v. Murray, 1 C. L. J. N. S. 104 (1864).

Secs. 259-261.

Notes (b) (c); (a)-(c); (a)-(c).

(c) Place of meeting. See s. 264 as to the place of the first meeting of a new county council, of the subsequent meetings of a county council, and of all the meetings of a local council.

No business before declarations of office, etc.

260. No business shall be proceeded with at the first meeting of the council, until after the declarations of office and qualification have been first administered to all the members who present themselves to take the same. 55 V. c. 42, s. 224.

Taken from the Act of 1873, (36 V. c. 48,) s. 175. Cf. 29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 118.

(a) "The first meeting of the council," apparently includes both local councils and county councils.

(b) "Declarations of office and qualifiction." See ss. 311, 312. These may be taken before the clerk of the municipality (s. 315). They must be in writing, signed by the deponent, etc., certified by the person by whom they are administered, and preserved by the clerk (s. 317).

(c) "To all the members who present themselves to take the same." No question of the validity of an election can be raised at this stage. (e)

Election of Warden.

Election of warden.

261. The members elect of every county council shall, at their first meeting after a general election of members for the council, at which a majority of the full council are present, and after making the declarations of office and of qualification, organize themselves as a council and elect one of themselves to be warden; and the warden so elected shall hold office until the first meeting in the succeeding year, when a new election of warden shall take place, and the warden chosen at such last mentioned election shall hold office until a new council is organized, as in this section provided. 60 V. c. 45, s. 64.

Taken from 60 V. c. 45, s. 64 (1897). Cf. 12 V. c. 81, s. 35; 22 V. c. 99, s. 132; 29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 135; 36 V. c. 48, s. 120; R.S.O. (1877) c. 174, s. 217; 46 V. c. 18, s. 223; R.S.O. (1887) c. 184, s. 225; 55 V. c. 42, s. 225.

(a) The section was recast in 1897 into its present form in order to make it clear that, although the term of office of a county councillor is now two years (s. 67 (3)), the warden is to be elected annually.

(b) "At which a majority of the full council are present." S. 268 provides that a majority of the whole number of members required by law to constitute the council shall be necessary to form a quorum. But see ss. 130 and 218 and the notes thereon.

(d) "Elect one of themselves to be warden." It is evidently the intention of the Act that the election should be made by ballot (f).

See No. of the "Rules of Procedure" in note (b) to s. 275.

262. At every such election the clerk of the council shall preside, and if there is no clerk, the members present shall select one of themselves to preside, and the person selected may vote as a member. 55 V. c. 42, s. 226.

Who to preside at election.

(a) "The clerk shall preside." See note (h) to s. 118, and Reg. ex rel. Walker v. Biggar (g) a case determined under "The District Councils Act," 4 & 5 V. c. 10.

263. Where the number of votes cast for a warden is even, and no election can be had during the first day of meeting, if no choice is made after two ballots on the second day, the senior member representing the division having the largest equalized assessment shall have two votes.

Tie vote for warden.

(a) The words "senior member" in this section shall mean that member for such division who received at the last preceding election the higher number of votes in his division.

(b) Where the two county councillors from such division have each an equal number of votes, or where they have been elected by acclamation, the clerk shall in open council draw lots to ascertain which one of the two shall give the casting vote. 59 V. c. 52, s. 19; 60 V. c. 3, s. 3.

Taken from "The County Councils Act, 1896." (59 V. c. 52, s. 19).

(a) Who may give the "casting vote." Until the passing of "The County Councils Act, 1896," the right to give a second and casting vote for warden in the event of a tie belonged to the reeve (or in his absence to the deputy-reeve) of the municipality which had, during the preceding year, the largest equalized assessment, (h) or if two municipalities had the same equalized assessment, then the reeve or deputy-reeve of the municipality which had the greatest number of voters on its last revised assessment roll. (i) The latter contingency is not provided for in the present Act. The case of two county council divisions having precisely the same equalized assessment is one most unlikely to occur. (j)

Place of Meeting.

264. The members of every county council shall hold their first meeting at the county hall if there is one, or otherwise at the county court-house. 55 V. c. 42, s 228.

Secs. 265-267.

Notes (a); (a); (a).

Place of subsequent meetings of county councils, etc.

Taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99), s. 136.

(a) The effect of this section is to render it necessary that the place of every meeting of the council of a local municipality, and of every one but the organization meeting of a county council, shall be fixed beforehand by by-law or resolution. It is apprehended that very few municipalities have passed such a by-law, but it is desirable that this requirement of the Act should be complied with, since, in default thereof, the validity of acts of the council may be questioned.(k)

When place of meeting may be in another municipality.

266. The council of any county or township in which any city, town or village lies, may hold its sittings, keep its public offices, and transact all the business of the council and of its officers and servants, within such city, town or village, and may purchase and hold such real property therein as may be convenient for such purposes. 55 V. c. 42, s 230.

Taken from the Act of 1873, (36 V. c. 48), s. 170. The earlier Acts, (22 V. c. 99, s. 137, and 29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 130), applied only to a county which embraced a city within its territorial, but not its municipal limits.

(a) As to the application of the Statutes of Mortmain to municipal corporations in Ontario, see note (a) to s. 534.

DIVISION II.—CONDUCT OF BUSINESS, (SECS. 267-275).

Synopsis: The sections of this Division, together with ss. 261, 263 of Div. I of Part IV contain the statutory rules governing the procedure at meetings of municipal councils. Since these rules fall far short of what is needed to form anything like a complete code, it has been deemed advisable—upon the suggestion of several municipal clerks—to insert some further Rules of Procedure (see note (b) to s. 275). These, although originally prepared for the City of Toronto—may be very easily adapted to meet the requirements of any municipal council.

Ordinary meetings to be open.

267. Every council shall hold its ordinary meetings openly, and no person shall be excluded except for improper conduct, but the head or other chairman of the council may expel and exclude from any meeting, any person who has been guilty of improper conduct at such meeting. 55 V. c. 42, s. 233.

The first part of this section was taken from the Act of 1858 (22 V. c. 99), s. 138, the remainder, beginning with the words "but the head or other chairman," etc., was added in 1873 by 36 V. c. 48, s. 171.

(a) The proceedings of every Court of Justice are, as a rule, open to the public, and all persons desirous of hearing what is going on, if there be room in the place for that purpose, provided they do not interrupt the proceedings, and provided they are not guilty of any other improper conduct, may be present and hear what is going on. (a) This rule is to its fullest extent to be applied to ordinary meetings of every municipal council.

But see as to special meetings, s. 271.

(a) Per BAYLEY, J., in Daubney v. Cooper, 10 B. & C. 237, at p. 240.

268. A majority of the whole number of members required by law to constitute the council shall be necessary to form a quorum. 55 V. c. 42, s. 234.

Sect. 268, 269. Notes (a); (a).

Taken from the Act of 1849, (12 V. c. 81), s. 168.

(a) "Quorum," meaning of. The old form of the Royal Commission for the appointment of Justices of the Peace directed that no business should be transacted without the presence of some one or more of the persons therein named, "quorum aliquem vestrum A, B, C, D, etc., unum esse volumus." Hence the word has come to mean, "such number of persons as is competent by law to transact business" (Imp. Dict.). Except in the case provided for by ss. 130 and 218, the quorum in the case of a municipal council must consist of a majority of the full council. Thus where a provisional county council consisted of 12 members, it was held that an election of a warden by six of these members, though unanimous, was invalid (a). Acts done with less than a legal quorum are as a rule void (b). It is true that in Re Sutherland and Township of East Nissouri (c), the Court refused to quash a by-law passed by two out of five members of a township council, but this was on the ground that the by-law on its face was not illegal (d); and ROBINSON, C.J., in giving judgment says, "It is a void proceeding and must be so pronounced, if the legality of any act done under it should come to be questioned." A by-law so passed would now be set aside. Members present at the meeting, though only for the purpose of protesting, may be counted as of the quorum (e).

Quorum.

269. Where a council consists of only five members, the concurrent votes of at least three shall be necessary to carry any resolution or other measure. 55 V. c. 42, s. 235.

In councils of five, three must concur.

Taken from the Act of 1853, (16 V. c. 181), s. 30.

(a) "The concurrent votes of at least three shall be necessary." In Re Malbough v. Township of Ashfield, (a) a by-law which required the vote of at least four-fifths of the members of the council was attacked on the ground that, when the motion for its passing was put by the reeve, only two out of the four members present voted for the by-law, the third councillor made no objection, and the reeve, (who appeared to be in its favour) declared it carried. Held, that the by-law had been duly passed. DRAPER, C. J., in giving judgment, says: (b)

> "I do not treat the proviso requiring the four-fifths vote as rendering it necessary that a formal vote of each member shall be taken, one by one, in order to ascertain that four out of the five members support it. Suppose all five present: if when the question is put, no one expresses his dissent, his opposition to its passing, but all acquiesce tacitly, it will be properly, in my opinion, taken to be a unanimous vote. There must be four members at the meeting when such by-law is passed, and if only four, they must be unanimous; but if the passing of such a by-law be moved, be put from the chair, and no dissent be expressed, I think it may properly be taken to have the assent of all four, and therefore to have passed legally."

The concurrent votes must, however, be those of members not disqualified to vote on the question; and where four out of five members of a village council, being shareholders in an incorporated company, voted to submit to the electors of the village a by-law granting a bonus to the company, and after the vote the by-law was passed by a council in which three out of five members were shareholders in the company, the by-law was set aside. (c) So in Re Vashon and Township of East Hawkesbury, (d) a by-law passed by the concurrent votes of three out of five members of a township council was set aside, one of the three councillors having an interest in the matter apart from that of the public. (e) But an interest which results solely from the fact of being a ratepayer does not disqualify a municipal councillor from voting upon a by-law. (f)

Head of councils to preside.

Special meetings.

270.—(1) The head of every council shall preside at the meetings of the council, and may at any time summon a special meeting thereof; and it shall be his duty to summon a special meeting whenever requested in writing by a majority of the members of the council so to do.

Summoning special meetings in absence of the head.

(2) In case of the absence or death of the mayor or head of the council, a special meeting may be summoned at any time by the clerk upon a special requisition to him, signed by a majority of the members of the council. 55 V. c. 42, s. 236.

Subsec. 1 is taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99), s. 113. Subsec. 2 was added in 1884 by 47 V. c. 32, s. 6.

(a) "Head . . . shall preside." It is not only the right but the duty of the head of the council to preside at its meetings. In the event of the right being questioned, legal proceedings may be instituted to determine it (a). But the question cannot in general be determined upon a collateral inquiry in an existing suit (b). If the head of the council refuse to put a motion which it is his duty to put, he may be voted out of the chair (c) or the members may vote on the motion without it being put from the chair (d).

The presiding officer of a meeting has authority as such to decide all incidental questions which arise at the meeting (e).

(b) "To summon a special meeting." All the members entitled to be present at a special meeting should be notified to attend, and, if practicable, notified also of the purpose for which the meeting is called (f). The omission to notify a member entitled to be present may be held to invalidate all proceedings at such meetings (g). Where the purpose is specified in the notice, there is in general no power to transact business beside such purpose (h).

A municipal council passed a resolution appropriating corporate funds towards the payment of expenses of the attendance of counsel and witnesses at a Royal Commission issued under s. 431 of the Manitoba Municipal Act to enquire into the financial affairs of the municipality. It was the custom to adjourn "to the call of the reeve," and the notices of meetings issued by him did not specify the business to be transacted. Held, that these were special meetings of the council, and, that the resolution, having been passed at such a meeting the object of which had not been specified in the notice, must be quashed (i).

Special meeting, where to be held.

Taken from the Act of 1858 (22 V. c. 99) s. 139.

May be either open or closed.

272. In the case of the absence of the head of the council from illness or any other cause, or in case his office is vacant, the council may, from among the members therof, appoint a presiding officer, who during such absence or vacancy, shall have all the powers or the head of the council. 55 V. c. 42, s. 239 (1); 60 V. c. 45, s. 34.

(a) "President of Council." See s. 216 (1), (2). The presiding officer of a city or town council, appointed under this section, has also authority, during his tenure of office, to act as a police commissioner in place of the mayor. (s. 481 (2)).

Casual absence provided for.

Taken from the Act of 1858 (22 V. c. 99), s. 146, the words "fifteen minutes" being substituted therein by the Act of 1873 (36 V. c. 48), s. 181, for the words "a reasonable time." Cf. 12 V. c. 81, s. 168 as amended by 16 V. c. 181, s. 30.

(a) The authority of the person appointed under this section ends with the meeting, or perhaps upon the arrival thereat of "the person who ought to preside." (j) The power of the presiding officer—(commonly styled "president of the council")—appointed under s. 272, continues during the whole period of the absence of the head of the council or of a vacancy in the office. (k)

Head may vote.

Question negatived in case of equality of votes

274. The head of the council, or the presiding officer or chairman of any meeting of any council, may vote with the other members on all questions; and any question on which there is an equality of votes shall be deemed to be negatived. 55 V. c. 42, s. 241.

Taken from the Act of 1858 (22 V. c. 99) s. 147. Cf. 16 V. c. 181, s. 30.

(a) "The head . . presiding officer . . or chairman." See ss. 270, 272, 273.

(b) "May vote . . on all questions." This is, however, subject to the condition that he is under no disqualification to vote by reason of interest. (l)

(c) "Any question upon which there is an equality of votes shall be deemed to be negatived." This in the ancient rule of the House of Lords. It does not apply when a office is to be filled. (m) Nor to a case where the council of a union of counties desires to raise funds or make appropriations for local improvements in one of the counties. (n)

Sec. 275.

Notes (a) (b).

275. Every council may adjourn its meeting from time to time. 55 V. c. 42, s. 242.

Adjournment

Taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99) s. 142.

(a) Adjourned meetings are generally held for the purpose of completing the unfinished business of a preceding meeting. It is allowable, therefore, in the case of an ordinary adjournment, to transact any business that might have been lawfully transacted at the preceding meeting but which was not transacted thereat for want of time or opportunity to do so. (o)

RULES OF PROCEDURE.

(b) In addition to the Rules of Procedure contained in the sections of "The Municipal Act" which compose this Division, the following may be found useful, at all events by way of suggestion. They are based upon the procedure by-law (No. 3523) of the City of Toronto as amended by by-law No. 3527 thereof. The references in the notes are to the "Manual on the Procedure at Meetings of Municipal Councils," etc., by Sir JOHN GEORGE BOURINOT, K. C. M. G., D. C. L., etc., Clerk of the House of Commons of Canada.

MEETINGS OF COUNCIL.

Ordinary meetings.

1. After its inaugural meeting, the council shall meet on every alternate Monday during the year at 7 o'clock p.m., (a) unless otherwise ordered by special motion or unless such Monday is a public or civic holiday in which case the council shall meet at the same hour on the next day following which is not a holiday. The inaugural meeting of the new council in each year shall be opened with prayer, the officiating clergyman to be chosen by the mayor elect.

Special meetings.

2. The mayor may at any time summon a special meeting of the council; and it shall be his duty to summon a special meeting whenever requested in writing so to do by a majority of the members of the council.

(2) In case of the absence or death of the mayor, or head of the council, a special meeting may be summoned at any time by the clerk upon a special requisition to him signed by a majority of the members of the council. (b)

ORDER OF PROCEEDINGS.

Mayor takes chair.

3. As soon after the hour of meeting as there shall be a quorum present, the mayor shall take the chair, and call the members to order. (c)

If mayor absent.

4. In case the mayor does not attend within fifteen minutes after the time appointed, the clerk shall call the members to order, and if a quorum be present, a chairman shall be chosen, who shall preside during the meeting, or until the arrival of the mayor. (d)

(o) See Rex. v. Harris, 1 B. & Ad. 936; Scadding v. Lorant, 3 H. L. Cas. 418; Dillon, s. 287; Tiedeman, s. 97.

(a) Now 3 p.m. in Toronto by-law. And see Bourinot, pp. 262-265, 384.

(b) See Bourinot, pp. 264-267, 384. Subsec. 2 is simply a repetition of s. 270 (2) of "The Municipal Act."

(c) See Bourinot, pp. 266-269, 384. It is there suggested that the mayor, reeve or warden might follow the example of the English Commons, viz., take (temporarily) the clerk's chair until there is a quorum, then assume his own chair and formally call the meeting to order.

(d) See Bourinot, pp. 268-269, 384. This case is provided for by s. 273 of "The Municipal Act" (see supra). Until a chairman is thus chosen the clerk presides, and puts the motion, "that alderman A, B, or C. do now take the chair." If more than one name is proposed a vote is taken on each name in order until one receives a majority.

5. If there be no quorum present within half an hour after the time appointed for the meeting, the clerk shall call the roll and take down the names of the members then present, and the council shall stand adjourned until the next day of meeting, subject to the provisions of section 2 of this By-law (e). Failure of quorum.

6. Immediately after the mayor shall have taken his seat, the minutes of the preceding meeting shall be read by the clerk, in order that any mistake therein may be corrected by the council (f). Reading minutes.

7. The mayor shall preserve order and decorum, and decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the council, and in the absence of the mayor, the chairman shall have the same authority while presiding at the meeting as the mayor would have had if present (g). Mayor's duties.

8. When the mayor is called upon to decide a point of order or practice, the point shall be stated without unnecessary comment, and the mayor order etc. shall cite the rule or authority applicable to the case. (h). Questions of

9. The mayor may vote with the other members on all questions; and any question on which there is an equality of votes shall be deemed to be negatived (i). Mayor's vote equality of votes.

10. If the mayor desires to leave the chair for the purpose of taking part in the debate or otherwise, he shall call on some other member of the council to fill his place until he resumes the chair (j). If mayor leaves chair.

11. Every member, previous to speaking to any question or motion, shall rise from his seat, uncovered, and shall address himself to the mayor (k) How chair to be addressed.

12. When two or more members rise to speak, the mayor shall name the member who, in his opinion, first rose from his seat; but a motion may be made that any member who has risen "be now heard," or "do now speak" (l). If two members rise at once.

13. Every member who is present in the council chamber when a question is put, shall vote thereon, unless the council shall excuse him, unless he is personally interested in the question, provided such interest is resolvable into a personal pecuniary profit, or is peculiar to that member, and not one in common with the interests of the citizens at large, and in such cases he shall not vote (m). When member not to vote.

(e) See Bourinot, pp. 268, 271, 384. Under the London, Ont., by-law, the clerk publishes in a city paper the names of the absentees.

(f) See Bourinot, pp. 270, 271, 385. The Toronto and Ottawa by-laws add "if required by any alderman present" but this is not to be recommended. Brantford requires corrected minutes to be signed by the clerk, Guelph by the mayor or chairman.

(g) See Bourinot, pp. 270, 271, 385. This is also the rule of the House of Commons of Canada, and of the Legislative Assembly of Ontario. An appeal upon a point of order should be made succinctly and without discussing the merits of the subject under debate.

(h) See references to last section. The presiding officer should not argue the case, but should give his decision succinctly, referring to the authority (if any) therefor.

(i) See s. 274 of the Act, and Bourinot, pp. 272, 273, 385. The rule assumes that in ordinary cases the presiding officer will not vote.

(j) See Bourinot, pp. 272, 273, 385. The rules of the House of Commons and Legislative Assembly provides that "The Speaker shall not take part in any debate before the House," but he may (and does) speak in committee of the whole.

(k) See Bourinot, pp. 272, 273, 385. This is verbatim the parliamentary rule. (l) The preceding note (k) applies also to this rule.

(m) See Bourinot, pp. 272-275, 385. See ante, note (a) to s. 80, and note (i) to s. 269. If a member desires to be excused from voting a motion should be made to that effect. If a member votes contrary to this rule his name should be struck out of the division list upon a motion "That the vote of Alderman A. be disallowed."

Sec. 275.

Note (b).

No disturbance when question is being put.

14. When the mayor is putting the question no member shall walk across or out of the room, or make any noise or disturbance; nor when a member is speaking shall any other member pass between him and the chair, or interrupt him, except to raise a point of order (n).

Member called to order.

15. A member called to order from the chair shall immediately sit down, but may afterwards explain; and the council, if appealed to, shall decide the case, but without debate; if there be no appeal the decision of the Mayor shall be final (o).

Rules of order.

16. No member shall speak disrespectfully of Her Majesty the Queen, or of any of the Royal Family, or of the Governor-General, Lieutenant-Governor, or person administering the Government of the Dominion or of this Province; nor shall he use offensive words in or against the council or against any member thereof; nor shall he speak beside the question in debate; and no member shall reflect upon any vote of the council except for the purpose of moving that such vote be rescinded; nor shall he resist the rules of the council, or disobey the decision of the mayor or of the council on questions of order or practice or upon the interpretation of the rules of the council; and in case any member shall so resist or disobey, he may be ordered by the mayor to leave his seat for that meeting; but in case of ample apology being made by the offender, he may, by vote of the council, be permitted forthwith to take his seat (p).

Question may be read at any time.

17. Any member may require the question or motion under discussion to be read at any time during the debate, but not so as to interrupt a member while speaking (q).

When member may speak twice.

Right to reply.

Time limit.

18. No member shall speak more than once to the same question, without leave of the council, except in explanation of a material part of his speech which may have been misconceived; and in doing so he is not to introduce new matter. A reply is allowed to a member who has made a substantive motion, but not to any member who has moved an order of the day, an amendment, the previous question, or an instruction to a committee. No member, without leave of the council, shall speak to the same question, or in reply, for longer than a quarter of an hour. (r)

Record of yeas and nays.

19. Upon a division of the council, the names of those who vote for and those who vote against the question shall be entered upon the minutes, not only in the case required by law, but whenever two members shall call for the yeas and nays. (s)

(a) See Bourinot, pp. 274, 275, 385. This also is the rule of the Parliament of Canada and the Legislative Assembly of Ontario. The Ottawa by-law adds, "The mayor or chairman shall rise and stand when putting the question," which is the correct parliamentary usage.

(o) See Bourinot, pp. 274, 275, 385. Taken from the parliamentary rule. The appeal to the council, being on a point of order, is governed by Rules 7 and 8, supra.

(p) See Bourinot, pp. 274-277, 385, and (as to the exclusion of persons guilty of improper conduct) s. 267 of "The Municipal Act," supra. The St. Catharines by-law provides that persons so offending—not being members of the council—shall be taken into custody "to await the decision of the council." [Sed qu. as to the authority for this?] The Guelph by-law imposes a penalty, and, in default of payment or of sufficient distress, 10 days imprisonment. See s. 702 of the Act.

(q) See Bourinot, pp. 274, 275, 385. Taken verbatim from the parliamentary rule.

(r) See Bourinot, pp. 38, 276, 277, 385. "Leave of the council" must be given by a majority vote on a motion therefor duly put. "Substantive motion," i.e., as distinguished from an amendment. A motion to adjourn may be a substantive motion if no other question is before the house, but if a question is under consideration it is merely a dilatory or incidental motion and does not give the right to the reply. See as to other dilatory motions, Rule 30, infra.

(s) See Bourinot, pp. 41, 42, 278, 279, 388. The Hamilton by-law requires the yeas and nays to be recorded in every case, the by-laws of Kingston, Brantford and Guelph, if so required by any alderman: in the Guelph by-law, "previous to the question being finally put."

20. All inquiries shall be in writing, and shall be handed to the clerk of the council at least two clear days before the day of the meeting at which such inquiry is to be made; and the answer to such inquiry shall also be put in writing and handed to the mayor or other presiding officer at least one hour before the meeting, and shall be read by him from the chair. (t) — Inquiries.

21. No person except members and officers of the council shall be allowed to come within the bar during the sittings of the council without the permission of the mayor or an alderman. (u) — Admission of strangers.

22. The members of the council shall not leave their places, on adjournment, until the mayor leaves the chair. (v) — Adjournment.

23. No standing rule or order of council shall be suspended, except by a vote of two-thirds of the members present. (w) — Suspension of rules.

24. In all unprovided cases in the proceedings of council or in committee, the law of Parliament shall be followed. (x) — Law of Parliament to govern.

25. One day's notice shall be given of all motions for introducing new matter other than matters of privilege and bringing up petitions, unless the council dispense with such notice by a vote of two-thirds of the members present, without debate. (y) — Notice of new business.

26. All motions shall be in writing and seconded before being debated or put from the chair, but motions to adjourn or go into committee of the whole may be made viva voce. When a motion is seconded, it shall be read ,or if viva voce, stated by the mayor before debate. (z) — Motions to be in writing, etc.

27. After a motion is read or stated by the mayor, it shall be deemed to be in possession of the council, but may, with permission of the council, be withdrawn at any time before decision or amendment. (a) — When motions may be withdrawn.

28. A motion for commitment, until it is decided, shall preclude all amendment of the main question. (b) — Motions to commit.

(t) See Bourinot, pp. 44, 278, 279, 388. The by-laws of Ottawa, London, Belleville and Stratford provide that the inquiries shall be limited to matters "connected with the business of the council or the affairs of the city," and that "no argument or opinion is to be offered or facts stated except so far as necessary to explain the same, and in answering any such question a member is not to debate the matter to which the same refers." This accords with parliamentary practice.

(u) See Bourinot, pp. 278, 279.

(v) See Bourinot, pp. 280-281.

(w) Bourinot says (p. 280): "It is better to have such a fixed rule than to allow unanimous consent to be asked; that is too often granted in the Canadian Parliament."

(x) London, Guelph, Stratford and Belleville add in such cases "the decisions of the mayor or other presiding officer shall be final and shall be acquiesced in without debate," i.e., there shall be no appeal. See Bourinot, pp. 280-281.

(y) See Bourinot, pp. 30, 285, 287 and 385. Notwithstanding Rule 26 a motion to suspend this or any other rule is usually made viva voce.

(z) See Bourinot, pp. 30, 286-289. Such motions of routine business as that a bill be read a first or second or third time," or "to go into committee of the whole," or a motion for "the previous question," or to suspend a rule of order, or to adjourn the house or the debate, are in practice usually excepted from this rule.

(a) See Bourinot, pp. 31, 288, 289, 385. A motion withdrawn may, under parliamentary rules, be again proposed, even during the same session, provided the order of business permits.

(b) See Bourinot, pp. 37, 288, 289, 386. That is to say—if it has been proposed to refer a bill or question to a committee, that motion must be determined before a motion can be made to amend. But the motion to go into committee may be rejected, or a motion proposed which will (if adopted) prevent committal by negativing the principle of the bill, etc.

Sec. 275.

Note (b).

To adjourn.

29. A motion to adjourn the council, or to adjourn the debate, shall always be in order, but no second motion to the same effect shall be made until after some intermediate proceeding shall have been had. (e)

Dilatory motions.

30. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received, unless (1) to commit it; (2) to amend it; (3) to lay it on the table; (4) to postpone it indefinitely; (5) to postpone it to a certain time; (6) to adjourn it; (7) to move the previous question, these several motions shall have precedence in the order in which they are named and the last five shall be neither amendable nor debatable. (d)

Previous question.

31. The previous question, until it is decided, shall preclude all amendment of the main question, and shall be put, without debate, in the following words: "That this question be now put;" if this motion be resolved in the affirmative, the original question is to be put forthwith, without any amendment or debate; but if the previous question is resolved in the negative, the main question may then be debated and amended. (e)

Amendments.

32. Amendments shall be put in the reverse order to that in which they are moved, except in filling up blanks, when the longest time and smallest sum shall be put first. Every amendment submitted shall be reduced to writing, and shall be decided or withdrawn before the main question is put to the vote. Only one amendment shall be allowed to an amendment, and any amendment more than one must be to the main question. (f)

Appointments.

33. In the appointment of any person to any position in the gift of the Council, candidates shall be proposed and then voted for by ballot, the balloting papers having been previously prepared and initialed by the clerk, the candidate receiving the lowest number of votes being dropped after each vote until only two remain, or until one shall have received a majority of the votes cast. When more than one person is to be elected or appointed, each member of the council shall be entitled to vote for as many as there are positions to be filled. Any candidate receiving a majority of the ballots cast shall be elected. If more than one ballot is necessary, the candidate having the smallest number of votes on the preceding ballot shall be dropped. Where appointments are required by Statute to be made by by-law, such by-law shall contain the names chosen by ballot as aforesaid, and such by-law shall not be subject to amendment by the council after the election of candidates by ballot as hereinbefore provided.

(2) No member of the council, while retaining his seat therein, shall be eligible for any office to which there is attached any salary, remuneration or emolument payable by the council.

Dividing a motion.

34. When the question under consideration contains distinct propositions, the vote upon each proposition shall, upon the request of any member, be taken separately. (g)

(c) See Bourinot, pp. 33, 288, 289, 386. A motion to adjourn should be simply that "the council do now adjourn" or that "the debate be adjourned." It may usually be made viva voce, is not amendable and cannot be made in a committee, where the equivalent motion is "that the committee rise and report" or, "that the chairman do now leave the chair." See infra., Rules 42, 43. The Ottawa by-law provides that "a motion to adjourn the council or to adjourn the debate shall be always in order except—1. When a member is in possession of the floor. 2. When the yeas and nays have been called. 3. When the members are voting. 4. When it has been decided that the previous question shall be taken." This is practically the parliamentary usage.

(d) See Bourinot, pp. 25, 33, 37, 290, 291, 386.

(e) See Bourinot, pp. 292-293 and (as to the parliamentary rule which differs from the above), pp. 13-16 and 387. This is practically cloture.

(f) This is in accordance with the old English parliamentary rule See MAY, Parl. Prac. (8th Ed.), p. 619. The by-law of Toronto and of most other councils, following the United States practice, put the largest sum first. See Bourinot, pp. 34, 47, 294, 295, 388.

(g) See Bourinot, pp. 35, 298, 299, 388.

35. After a question is finally put by the mayor, no member shall speak to the question, nor shall any other motion be made until after the result of the vote has been declared; and the decision of the mayor, as to whether the question has been finally put, shall be conclusive. (h)

Putting the question.

36. Whenever the mayor is of opinion that a motion is contrary to the rules and privileges of the council, he shall apprise the members thereof immediately, before putting the question, and shall cite the rule or authority applicable to the case, without argument or comment. (i)

Privilege.

37. Whenever any matter of privilege arises, it shall be immediately taken into consideration. (j)

38. Members, having been previously summoned, shall immediately take their places when any division is called for, and shall remain in their places until the mayor or chairman has declared the result of the division. (k)

Divisions.

PROCEEDINGS IN COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE.

39. Whenever it shall be moved and carried that the council shall go into committee of the whole, the mayor shall leave the chair, but he shall first appoint a chairman of the committee of the whole, who shall maintain order in the committee, and shall report the proceedings thereof (l).

Chairman of committee.

40. The rules of the council shall be observed in committee of the whole, so far as may be applicable, except that no motion shall require to be seconded, nor shall a motion for a previous question, or for an adjournment be allowed; and in taking the yeas and nays the names of the members shall not be recorded, nor shall the number of times of speaking on any question be limited. Provided, however, that no member shall speak more than twice until every member who desires to do so shall have spoken (m).

Rules of debate.

41. Questions of order arising in committee of the whole shall be decided by the chairman, subject to an appeal by any member to the council. If any disorder should arise in the committee the mayor shall resume the chair, without any question being put (n).

Questions of order.

42. On motion in committee of the whole to rise and report, the question shall be decided without debate (o).

Motion to rise and report.

(h) See Bourinot, pp. 298, 299, 388.

(i) Taken almost verbatim from the parliamentary rule. See Bourinot, pp. 28, 298, 299, 388.

(j) The parliamentary rule. See Bourinot, pp. 40, 298, 299, 387.

(k) See Bourinot, pp. 300, 301, 388

(l) This is in accordance with parliamentary practice; see Bourinot, pp. 44, 46, 302, 303, 389. The Guelph by-law further provides that "when a report or by-law is under discussion in committee of the whole, the chairman of a committee whose report is under consideration, or the introducer of the by-law shall not be required to take the chair; but the member who is next in turn liable to serve as chairman of committee shall be called to the chair."

(m) See Bourinot, pp. 45, 302, 303, 389. The Guelph by-law adds, "No member shall speak for a longer period than ten minutes;" a commendable addition to the rule.

(n) Taken from the parliamentary rule, see Bourinot, pp. 45, 304, 305, 389. A member who objects to a ruling may say, "I appeal to the council against the ruling." The chairman will then leave the chair and state the question to the mayor or presiding officer, who will again state it to the council, and ask, "Shall the decision (or ruling) of Mr. A., chairman of the committee on , be sustained." The vote will then be taken in the usual way.

When the question in dispute has been decided by the council, the committee may be resumed by order of the mayor or presiding officer, with the words, "The committee on , may resume."

(o) "A wise limitation of Canadian parliamentary usage which should be adopted by all councils," see Bourinot, pp. 46, 304, 305, 389.

Sec. 275.

Note (b).

To rise without reporting.

43. A motion in the committee of the whole to rise without reporting, or that the chairman leave the chair, shall always be in order, and shall precedence of any other motion. On such motion debate shall be allowed, and, on an affirmative vote, the subject referred to the committee shall be considered as disposed of in the negative, and the mayor shall resume the chair, and proceed with the next order of business. (p)

READING OF BILLS AND PROCEEDINGS THEREON.

How a by-law is introduced.

44. Every bill shall be introduced upon motion for leave, specifying the title of the bill, or upon motion to appoint a committee to prepare and bring in the bill. (q)

Readings in council and committee of the whole.

45. No bill shall be introduced either in blank, or in an imperfect shape.

46. The question, "That this bill be now read a first time," shall be decided without amendment or debate; and every bill shall be read a second time, and then considered in committee of the whole, and shall be read a third time before it is signed by the mayor.

References to a committee.

47. Every bill (unless previously reported upon by a committee, or otherwise determined by the council) shall be referred, after the second reading thereof, to a standing, or select committee of the council to report upon the leading features of the same. (r)

Three readings.

Urgent bills.

48. Every bill shall receive three several readings, and on different days previous to its being passed, except on urgent and extraordinary occasions, and upon a vote of two-thirds of the members present, when it may be read twice or thrice, or advanced two or more stages in one day. (s)

Duties of clerk as to bills.

49. The clerk shall indorse on all bills read in the council the dates of the several readings thereof, and shall be responsible for the correctness of such bills should they be amended. (t)

Procedure in committee of the whole.

50. In proceedings in committee of the whole upon bills, each clause shall be considered in its proper order, then the preamble, and then the title. (u)

Reporting bill to council.

51. All amendments made in committee of the whole shall be reported by the chairman of the council, which shall receive the same forthwith. After the report has been received, the bill shall be open to debate and amendment before it is ordered for a third reading. (v)

Signing and sealing by-law

52. Every by-law which has passed the council shall, immediately after being sealed with the seal of the corporation, and signed by the mayor, be deposited by the clerk for security in the safe connected with his office. (w)

(p) This is substantially the parliamentary rule. See Bourinot, pp. 46, 304, 305, 389, and supra, Rule 29. The Guelph By-law adds "no member shall speak more than once on such a motion."

(q) See Bourinot, pp. 53, 54, 306, 307. This and the two following Rules (45 and 46) are taken almost verbatim from the rules of the House of Commons and the Legislative Assembly, the word "bill" being used throughout for a proposed by-law. (r) See Bourinot, pp. 54, 308, 309, 311, 389.

(s) Taken (except the words in italics) from the parliamentary rules. See Bourinot, pp. 56, 308, 311.

(t) The parliamentary rule. See Bourinot, pp. 56, 310, 311, 390.

(u) The parliamentary rule. See Bourinot, pp. 55, 310, 311, 390. The St. Catharines by-law adds "On an amendment "to strike out and insert" the paragraph to be amended shall first be read as it stands, then the words proposed to be struck out and those to be inserted, and finally the paragraph as it would stand if so amended."

(v) This is practically the parliamentary rule in England. See Bourinot, pp. 312, 313, 390.

(w) Now that the bill has passed it is styled a "by-law." The clerk also should sign it: see s. 333 of "The Municipal Act."

PETITIONS AND COMMUNICATIONS.

Sec. 275.
Note (b).

61. Every petition, remonstrance, or other written application intended o be presented to the council must be fairly written or printed on paper or parchment, and signed by at least one person; and no letters affidavits, or other documents shall be attached to it. (x)

Procedure on presenting petition, etc.

62. Every petition, remonstrance or other written application may be presented to the council by any member thereof, who shall examine the same and shall be answerable that it does not contain any impertinent or improper matter, and that the same is respectful and temperate in its language; he shall also indorse thereon the name of the applicant and the substance of such application, and sign his name thereto, which indorsement only shall be read by the mayor, unless a member shall require the reading of the document, in which case the whole shall be read. (y)

Referring petitions, etc.

63. All petitions or other written communications on any subject within the cognizance of any standing committee shall, on presentation, be considered as referred to the proper committee without any motion, unless otherwise ordered; and no member shall speak upon, nor shall a debate be allowed upon, the presentation of a petition or other communication to the council; but a member may move that in referring a petition or other communication certain instructions may be given by the council, or that the petition or communication shall be referred to a select committee; and if the petition or communication complain of some present personal grievance, requiring immediate remedy, the matter contained therein may be brought into immediate discussion and disposed of forthwith. (z)

Petitions, etc., presented in previous years.

64. Any member may move to take up or refer a communication or petition made or presented to the council during the year in which such motion is made, or during the year next preceding such year, and whether such communication or petition has been referred to a committee and reported upon or not; but no motion shall be in order to take up or refer a communication or petition made or presented at any time before the commencement of the year next preceding such motion. (a)

APPOINTMENT AND ORGANIZATION OF COMMITTEES.

Appointment of committees.

65. All standing or select committees shall be appointed on a motion of a member, and any member of the council may be placed on a committee, notwithstanding the absence of such member at the time of his being named upon such committee, and the mayor shall be ex-officio a member of every standing or select committee. (b)

STANDING COMMITTEES.

66. There shall be annually appointed, at the first meeting of each newly-elected council, the following committees, which shall compose the Standing committees of the council:—1st, The Executive Committee; 2nd, The Committee on Works; 3rd, The Committee on Markets and Licenses; 4th, The Committee on Water Works; 5th, The Committee on Fire and Light; 6th, The Committee on Property; 7th, The Committee on Parks and Gardens; 8th, The Committee on Legislation; 9th, The Reception

---

(x) See Bourinot, pp. 52, 53, 312, 313. The parliamentary rule requires at least three signatures to be on the sheet containing the prayer, but this refers only to petitions signed by a number of individuals.

(y) This is substantially the same as the parliamentary rule, except that in Parliament the Clerk or his assistant reads the indorsement. See Bourinot, pp. 52, 314, 315, 390.

(z) This rule is based on parliamentary usage. See Bourinot, pp. 53, 316, 317, 390.

(a) See also s. 327 of "The Municipal Act."

(b) See Bourinot, pp. 48-51, 316, 318, 390.

DIVISION I.—THE HEAD, (SECS. 278-281).

Synopsis.—In this Division (ss. 279, 279*a*) are enumerated [illegible]e—but by no means all—of the duties of the head of a municipal corporation in Ontario [illegible] see also note (a) to s. 279). Sec. 281 defines the circumstances under which he may—as chief magistrate—call out the posse, if that step becomes necessary to enforce the law, and s. [illegible] authorizes his remuneration by the council.

278. The head of every county and provisional county corporation shall be the warden thereof, and of every city and town the mayor thereof, and of every township and village the reeve thereof. 55 V. c. 42, s. 243. Who to be head of council.

(a) As to the election of a warden, see ss. 261, 263; as to the nomination and election of mayors and reeves, ss. 118-130 and 136 et seq.

279. The head of the council shall be chief executive officer of the corporation; and it shall be his duty to be vigilant and active at all times in causing the law for the government of the municipality to be duly executed and put in force; to inspect the conduct of all subordinate officers in the government thereof, and, as far as may be in his power, to cause all negligence, carelessness and positive violation of duty to be duly prosecuted and punished, and to communicate from time to time to the council all such information, and recommend such measures within the powers of the council, as may tend to the improvement of the finances, health, security, cleanliness, comfort and ornament of the municipality. 55 V. c. 42, s. 244. Duties of head of council.

Taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99), s. 120.

Secs. 279-281.

Notes (a); (a).

Duties of head of council.

(a) The head of every municipal council is ex officio and without any further oath or property qualification than that required by this Act (a) a Justice of the Peace for the county within which the municipality is situated (b); and in cities and towns, in the absence of the police magistrate, or when there is a vacancy in the office, it is the duty of the mayor to attend personally or by deputy at the police office daily or as the occasion may require (c). If the municipal corporation holds stock to the amount of $10,000 in an incorporated gas or water company (d), or to the amount of $20,000 in a railway company (e), the head of the council becomes ex officio a director of the company. He is also one of the first selectors of jurors under "The Jurors Act," (f). As to his duties under "The Trade Disputes Act," see R. S. O. c. 16 (4); under "The Ontario Anatomy Act," see R. S. O. c. 177, s. 11, and as to notifying electric railway companies when a level crossing is out of repair, see R.S.O. c. 209, s. 102. Under "The Children's Protection Act of Ontario," (g) the head of every municipal council is entitled to visit and be admitted to any temporary home or shelter provided under s. 4 of that Act.

Statement of amounts paid by Registrar to a municipality to be sent by him annually to head of municipality.

Duty of head of municipality in relation thereto.

279*a*. Every registrar of deeds, shall on or before the seventh day of January in each year make up and transmit to the head of any municipality to which he has made payments in accordance with the provisions of The Registry Act during the preceding year a statement signed by him showing the amounts so paid and the dates of payment, and the head of the municipality receiving such statements shall cause the same to be laid before the auditors when auditing the accounts of the previous year, and shall also read such statements at the first meeting of the council held after the receipt thereof. 61 V. c. 23, s. 12.

(a) See also s. 291*a* and note (a) to s. 291 containing ss. 21 and 22 of R. S. O. c. 228. These sections impose upon the head of the municipality a similar duty with regard to the statements to be annually furnished by the treasurers of other (accounting) municipalities, and by every bank or company in which moneys of the municipality are on deposit, and by every mortgagor or other person liable for the payment of any debt secured by a mortgage given to or held by the municipality.

Remuneration of mayor, etc.

280. The head of the council of any county, city, town or village may be paid such annual sum or other remuneration as the council of the municipality may determine. 55 V. c. 42, s 232.

Taken from the Act of 1873, (36 V. c. 48) s. 173, which applied only to cities, towns and villages; extended to counties in 1877 by 40 V. c. 7, Sched. A (172).

(a) Prior to this enactment, it was held that a resolution and by-law passed by the council of a town granting to the retiring mayor a sum of $1600, "as a small token of their appreciation of his long and faithful services" was ultra vires, and must be quashed with costs: (h) The "annual remuneration" under this section should be fixed by by-law (s. 325).

Mayor may call out posse comitatus.

281. The mayor of any city or town may call out the posse comitatus to enforce the law within his municipality should exigencies require it, but only under the same circumstances in which the sheriff of a county may now by law do so. 55 V. c. 42, s. 478.

Taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99), s. 345.

Secs. 281, 282, Notes (a); (a). "Posse comitatus."

(a) "Posse comitatus," or power of the county, includes the aid of and attendance of all male persons within the county between the ages of 15 and 70 who are able to travel. It is used when a riot is committed, a possession kept on a forcible entry, or any force or rescue made contrary to the Queen's writ or in opposition to the execution of justice. The power is usually summoned by the sheriff. But with respect to writs that issue in the first instance to arrest in civil suits, the sheriff is not bound to take the posse to assist him in the execution of them, though he may do so if he pleases, on forcible resistance to the execution of the process. Sheriffs, &c., are to assist Justices of the Peace in suppressing riots, &c., and raise the posse by charging any number of men to attend for that purpose, who may take with them such weapons as shall be necessary; and they may justify the beating and even killing such rioters as resist or refuse to surrender; and persons refusing to assist in the posse may be fined and imprisoned. It is lawful for a peace officer to assemble a competent number of people and sufficient power to suppress rebels, rioters, &c.; but there must be great caution, lest under a pretence of keeping the peace, the peace officer cause a breach of it; and sheriffs, &c., are punishable for using needless violence or alarming the county in these cases without just ground. (i) It may be assumed that the jurisdiction of a mayor under this section would not extend beyond the limits of the municipality of which he is chief magistrate. See note (a) to s. 325.

Division II.—THE CLERK, (Secs. 282-287).

Synopsis.—Sec. 282 makes it the duty of every municipal council to appoint a clerk, and prescribes his duties as the secretary of the council and the custodian of its records, by-laws, accounts, etc. Secs. 285-286 refer to certain statistical returns to be made annually to the Provincial Government. Sec. 283 provides for the appointment of a deputy clerk. Sec. 284 relates to the right of the public to inspect the records and documents of which the clerk is ex officio the custodian and to order copies thereof; and (by subs. 2) copies of such documents certified by the clerk under the corporate seal of the municipality are receivable in evidence after production by him of the originals.

Appointment of clerk, and his duties.

Taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99), s. 150. Cf. 12 V. c. 81, ss. 169, 170.

(a) "Every council shall appoint a clerk." The appointment of the clerk should be made by by-law (a). As to his tenure of office, see s. 321 and the cases there cited. The clerk is disqualified from being a member of any municipal council (b), and he cannot be appointed an assessor or collector (c), but he is not disqualified by law from acting as treasurer (d). As to his power to bind the council, see Ramsay v. Western District Council (e).

(i) See Watson's Office of Sheriff, (2nd Ed.) 2, 73, 193; 2 Inst. 194; 4 Blackstone, 122. As to calling out the militia in aid of the civil power, see R. S. Ca. c. 41, s. 34.

Secs. 282-284 (1). Notes (b); (a). Duties of the clerk.

In addition to those imposed by "The Municipal Act" and "The Assessment Act," he is charged (except in unorganized territory where there are no assessment rolls) with the preparation of the voters' lists of the municipality (f). He is a Division Registrar under "The Act respecting the Registration of Births, Marriages and Deaths" (g), and ex officio a selector of jurors under "The Jurors Act" (h). As to the right of the clerk or assessment commissioner of a city to obtain from the registrar a list of conveyances registered during the preceding month, see R. S. Taken from the Act of 1873, (36 V. c. 48), s. 187.

The duty of the clerk is to make the return required under the penalty named. The machinery of municipal government assumes that certain things are done by certain days in the municipal year, so that other things may follow in their order. Municipal officers cannot, therefore, regard provisions as to time with too much strictness. But if the thing required to be done within the time limited be not done, it does not follow that it cannot afterwards be done. It is, no doubt, important that it should be done within the time limited; but "it is still more important that it should be done; and therefore if, owing to some uncontrollable circumstances, it is not done on the proper day, it ought to be done on the next or some other day." This sub-section was added in 1897 by 60 V. c. 45, s. 36.

DIVISION III.—THE TREASURER, (SECS. 288 294).

Synopsis.—Scarcely less important than the duties of the clerk are those of the municipal treasurer. His appointment is provided for by s. 288, and his duties (generally speaking) by s. 290. (But see also note (d) thereto.) S. 291 prescribes the form in which certain of his books of account shall be kept, and s. 291 (a)—293 require him to make annually certain returns to the head of every other municipality to which he has paid out municipal moneys, to the council and the clerk of his own municipality, and to the Provincial Government. Sec. 289 provides, in the case of the death of a county treasurer, for the appointment of a temporary successor; and s. 294 for the event of a municipal treasurer absconding or being dismissed.

Treasurer to be appointed.

To give security.

Annual inquiry as to sufficiency of.

288. Every municipal council shall appoint a treasurer, who may be paid either by salary or by a percentage; and every treasurer, before entering upon the duties of his office, shall give such security as the council directs for the faithful performance of his duties, and especially for duly accounting for and paying over all moneys which may come into his hands; and it shall be the duty of every council, in each and every year, to inquire into the sufficiency of the security given by the treasurer, and to report thereon. 55 V. c. 42, s. 249.

The first part of this section is taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99,) s. 158. Cf. 12 V. c. 81, s. 71. The last clause was added in 1866 by 29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 161. Until 1873 the treasurer of a city was styled "chamberlain": see 36 V. c. 48, s. 195.

(a) "Shall appoint a treasurer." The appointment should be made by by-law (b). As to the tenure of the office, see s. 321 and the cases there cited. The treasurer is disqualified from being a member of any municipal council (c), and cannot be appointed an assessor or collector (d), but there seems now to be no reason why the clerk should not also be treasurer (e). In the Province of Quebec the two offices are combined in one (f), but in England the offices of town-clerk and treasurer cannot be held by the same person (g). As to salary, see s. 320, post. The treasurer of a municipality should not be permitted to act as the agent of a bank (h). He cannot bind the corporation by accepting an order drawn upon its funds (i).

The treasurer's bond.

(b) "Security . . . for the faithful performance of his duties." It is no objection to the bond that it was executed before the appointment to office was made (j), and if the condition of the bond substantially complies with the requirements of the Statute, the Court will endeavour to sustain its validity as against technical defences (k). The invalidity of the appointment cannot be set up as a defence to an action on a bond where moneys have been collected (l), nor can irregularities in the mode of appointment (m). The imposition of additional taxes to those assessed at the time of taking the security and the consequent increase of risk, has been held not to vitiate a bond given for the general performance of duties and payment of moneys (n). Nor is it a defence that the money received by the treasurer was not demanded by the Government, which was entitled thereto (o). It has been held in the United States that sureties for an officer whose term is limited to a year are not liable beyond the year, though the officer continue by law to hold office till his successor is appointed (p). Where a treasurer was re-appointed annually for several years, it was held that the re-appointments were not equivalent to removals and re-appointments, but were rather a retention in office of the same treasurer, and that his sureties were not discharged in consequence thereof (q).

The treasurer of plaintiffs, who was also clerk, was in that capacity permitted by resolution of the council to retain the collector's roll for three months and he was granted a percentage on the moneys received by him for taxes. In an action against him and his surety it was—Held, that this temporary function was not of such a nature as to terminate his duties as treasurer by necessary implication, and that when the money came to his hands with which he charged himself as treasurer the responsibility of the surety began, but that the latter should not be charged with any sums which did not appear in the books of the former as treasurer and which were referable to taxes otherwise received by him (r).

In an action by a municipal corporation against the sureties of a defaulting collector of taxes, for the due performance of his duties for 1886 and 1887, it appeared that there had been great laxity on the part of the plaintiffs', but that shortly before the collector absconded, in 1888, a majority of the members of the council had confidence in his honesty; and the defendants had not sought information from the plaintiffs as to the manner in which the collector had performed his duties in former years. Held that the non-disclosure by the plaintiffs to the defendants of the facts (1) that a motion had been made in council in 1885 that unless the roll for 1884 was returned by the next meeting, an inquiry would be asked for before the County Court Judge; (2) that in August, 1885, a resolution had been adopted instructing the treasurer to take proceedings against the collector and his sureties for the balance due on the 1884 roll, unless fully settled before September 10th then next, (3) that a like resolution had been passed in 1886, in reference to the taxes for 1885 (which afterwards—(in 1888)—were paid over in full by the collector), and (4) that the roll for 1885 was not returned until 1888,—were not such non-disclosures as amounted to constructive fraud on the part of the plaintiffs and were not sufficient to relieve the defendants from liability on their bonds. (s)

In County of Simcoe v. Burton (t) the treasurer of a county had for a number of years embezzled county funds, and by the manipulation of his books had deceived the county auditors, who from year to year reported in good faith that his accounts were correct. The council in good faith adopted the reports. While the treasurer was in fact a defaulter to a large amount, the defendant,—a ratepayer resident in the county and a relative of the treasurer,—became, at his request, one of his sureties, having at the time been told in good faith by some of the county officials that the treasurer's accounts were correct. Held, (1) that the auditor's reports thus adopted by the council were not implied representations by the council, which by reason of their incorrectness discharged the defendant; (2) that the statements made by the county officials were not binding upon the council, and that (3) even if they were, having been made in good faith, they formed no defence to the action.

The personal representatives of a deceased treasurer are liable to be sued in respect of his default (v).

(c) "Duly accounting for and paying over all moneys," etc. Accounting for money includes paying it over (w). Where the treasurer had in his hands a large balance belonging to the township at the time of his giving his bond with new sureties, it was held that subsequent payments by the treasurer were applicable first to the discharge of that balance (x). Where a bond, instead of using the words in the Statute, limited the responsibility to moneys coming into the treasurer's hands, applicable to the general uses of the municipality, it was held that the Clergy Reserve moneys and money derived from the distribution of the Provincial surplus, which had by by-law been specially appropriated to educational purposes, were not within the condition of the bond, and that the operation of the bond was not extended by R.S.O. (1877,) c. 180, s. 213 and c. 204, s. 221 (y).

Accounting for municipal funds.

As to the liability of the municipality to account for moneys fraudulently obtained by the treasurer acting in a matter within the scope of his authority and where the corporation has received the benefit of the fraud, see Molsons Bank v. Town of Brockville, (z).

(d) "It shall be the duty of every council in each and every year to inquire into the sufficiency of the security given by the treasurer and to report thereon." This is a most important duty, but, it is believed, one of the most neglected of all the duties imposed on councils. It may be that if the municipality lose the benefit of their security by reason of a neglect to perform this duty on the part of the members of the council, the latter might be made liable to make good the loss. One of the sureties of a treasurer being desirous of being relieved from his suretyship, the treasurer offered to the council a new surety in his place. The council thereupon passed a resolution approving of the new surety, and declaring that on the completion of the necessary bonds the withdrawing surety should be relieved. No further act on the part of the council took place; but the treasurer and his new surety (omitting the second surety) joined in a bond conditioned for the due performance of the treasurer's duties for the future, and the treasurer executed a mortgage to the same effect. The clerk, on receiving these, gave up to the treasurer the old bond and the treasurer destroyed it. Eight years afterwards a false charge was discovered in the accounts of the treasurer of a date prior to these transactions, and it was held that the sureties on the first bond were responsible for it (a).

Council to inquire annually into sufficiency of treasurer's security.

289.—(1) In case of the death of the county treasurer, the warden for the time being may, by warrant under his hand and seal, appoint for such special purpose or purposes as the warden may deem necessary, a treasurer pro tempore, who shall hold office until the next meeting of the council; and all acts performed by him, and authorized by the said warrant, shall be as valid and binding as if performed by a treasurer regularly appointed.

(2) The warden shall, in and by such warrant of appointment, direct what security shall be given by such treasurer pro tempore for the faithful performance of his duties, and especially for duly accounting for and paying over all moneys which may come into his hands, and such treasurer pro tempore shall, before entering upon his duties, give such security, but he shall not interfere with the books, vouchers, or accounts of the deceased treasurer until a proper audit thereof has been made. 55 V. c. 42, s. 250 (2).

Taken from 42 V. c. 31, s. 8 (1879).

To receive and take care of and disburse moneys, etc.

290. Every treasurer shall receive, and safely keep, all moneys belonging to the corporation, and shall pay out the same to such persons and in such manner as the laws of the Province, and the lawful by-laws or resolutions of the council of the municipal corporation whose officer he is, direct; but save, as provided by sections 537 and 538 of this Act, no member of the council shall receive any money from such treasurer for any work performed or to be performed; and the treasurer shall not be liable to an action for any moneys paid by him in accordance with any by-law or resolution passed by the council of the municipality of which he is the treasurer, unless where another disposition of such moneys is expressly made by statute. 55 V. c. 42, s. 250 (1); 62 V. c. 2, Sched. (7).

The first clause of this section down to and inclusive of the word "direct" is taken from the Act of 1858 (22 V. c. 99), s. 160; the latter portion, beginning with the words "no member of the council," was added in 1866 by 29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 162. The reference to the exception created by s. 538 first occurs in the Revision of 1897. This exception was extended to s. 537 by the Act of 62 V., c. 2.

Municipal moneys to be kept in a separate account.

(a) "Every treasurer shall receive and safely keep all moneys belonging to the corporation." R.S.O. c. 228, s. 20 (quoted in note (a) to s. 291) provides that he shall keep the moneys of the municipality separate from his own moneys, and that in depositing them in any bank or company they shall be deposited to a separate account, etc. Most of the losses which municipalities have sustained have arisen by the misconduct of their treasurers, through their being tempted to use and using the money of the corporation for purposes of speculation or otherwise as their own. The only safe course for a treasurer to adopt is to keep strict account of the money entrusted to his charge, and on no pretext whatever to touch it, except for corporation purposes. A county treasurer, through a misapprehension of what was the proper course, had been allowed to mix all county money with his own, and had used for his private purposes a large sum of money received in that way. In this state of things he had occasion to give the corporation a new bond, with two new sureties. Shortly afterwards it was ascertained that he was not able to pay his indebtedness to the corporation. The sureties filed a bill to be relieved from their bond, on the ground of the treasurer's misconduct and of the uncommunicated knowledge of that misconduct by the representatives of the corporation at the time when the bond was given; but the Court, being of opinion that most of the facts relied on as proving misconduct were known to the sureties, and that no information had been withheld from them fraudulently, held that the bond was valid. (a) A surety cannot get rid of liability on the ground of having become surety in ignorance of material facts, unless he can show that the information was fraudulently withheld from him. (b) So the fact that the council tacitly permits the treasurer to mix the money of the municipality with his own is not of itself a defence available to the sureties. (c)

Secs. 290, 271 (1). Notes (a)-(d).

Municipal funds, safe-keeping of.

The defendant, being treasurer of a municipality, kept his moneys in his house, there being no proper place for depositing the same provided by the municipality, and there being no bank in the county within a distance of thirty-five miles. Held, that under these circumstances the treasurer was not liable to make good to the corporation the amount of loss sustained by the accidental burning of his house; and that his own statements under oath, which appeared satisfactory to the Court, were sufficient evidence to exonerate him from liability. (d).

Payments to members of the council.

(b) "Save as provided by sections 537 and 538 . . . no member of the council shall receive any money from such treasurer for any work," etc. See these sections and note (a) to s. 538 (1).

Illegal payments.

(c) "The treasurer shall not be liable to an action for any moneys paid by him in accordance with any by-law or resolution . . . unless where another disposition of the moneys is expressly made by statute." An example of such disposition of municipal moneys is offered by s. 418. In Daniels v. Township of Burford (a), and in Township of East Nissouri v. Horseman (b), ROBINSON, C.J., expressed the opinion that a treasurer who paid out moneys of the municipality upon illegal resolutions would probably be subject to criminal prosecution (c).

The last clause of this section was probably passed to relieve treasurers from the burden of inquiring into the legality of every by-law or resolution under which money is ordered to be paid; but it is more than doubtful whether it would authorize a payment to a member of the council, otherwise than is permitted by ss. 537 and 538. In order to protect the treasurer, there must be a formal act of the council, not mere conversations which result in no by-law or resolution (d). And the treasurer cannot bind the municipal corporation by accepting orders, the payment of which is not authorized by law (e).

Other duties of a municipal treasurer.

(d) For other duties and powers of the treasurer of a municipality, in addition to those mentioned in the Municipal and Assessment Acts, see "The Jurors Act" (f), "The Coroners Act" (g), "The Constables Act" (h), "The Registry Act" (i), "The Land Titles Act" (j), "The Act respecting the Registration of Partnerships" (k), "The Public Schools Act" (l), etc. See note (b) to s. 296. In London & Canadian Loan & Agency Co. v. Morris (m), it was held that the treasurer of a municipality is not as such "a third person indebted" to the municipality, so that corporate funds in his hands can be attached under "The Garnishment Act" of Manitoba (n), which is substantially the same as our Con. Rule 911. Seymour v. Brecon (o), was not followed.

By-laws directing that cheque of treasurer shall be countersigned.

20. The treasurer of every municipality and school board shall keep the moneys held by him as such treasurer entirely separate from his own moneys, and in depositing any moneys of the municipality or board in any bank or company he shall deposit the same to a separate account kept in his name as treasurer of the municipality or school board under some designation that will show the account to be an account of the money of such municipality or school board.

Penalties.

24. Nothing in this Act contained shall affect or impair any security heretofore given by any treasurer to the municipality for the due and faithful performance of the duties of his office, nor be deemed to relieve the sureties named in any bond or other security from liability in case of default on the part of the treasurer in duly accounting for all moneys coming into his hands. Nor shall anything herein contained relieve the council or board or any member thereof from their present duty to appoint competent auditors.

Half-yearly statement of assets.

292.—Every treasurer sh . also prepare and submit to the council, half-yearly, a correct statement of the moneys at the credit of the corporation whose officer he is; and in cities, towns, villages and townships which have passed by-laws requiring this to be done, the treasurer shall, on or before the 20th day of December in each year, prepare and transmit to the clerk of the municipality a list of all persons who have not paid their municipal taxes on or before the 14th day of said month of December. 55 V. c. 42, s. 251. See secs. 89, 535 (1).

(a) The withdrawal of moneys after dismissal is not to affect the right of the municipality against the sureties of the dismissed treasurer. But it is recommended that so soon as the dismissal takes place, the sureties be informed of the fact, and be thereby placed in a position to protect themselves as far as possible without detriment to the municipality.

DIVISION IV.—ASSESSORS AND COLLECTORS.

(SECS. 295-296.)

Synopsis.—These officers are appointed in local municipalities only; in villages and townships by the council, annually, as soon as convenient after the January elections; in cities and towns the collectors also are thus appointed—but, as to assessors, the council, instead of adopting the same method, may appoint an assessment commissioner, who shall, with the mayor, appoint the assessors, and in cities the term of office of the assessment commissioner, assessors and collectors, instead of being annual, may be during the pleasure of the council. By the last clause of subs. 1 of s. 295 (1) and subs. (2) of the same section certain persons are disqualified from being appointed assessors or collectors. Secs. 297, 298 relate to the duties of collectors in case of the separation of a union of counties.

Assessors and collectors, appointment of.

295.—(1) The council of every city, town, township, and village, shall, as soon as may be convenient after the annual election, appoint as many assessors and collectors for the municipality as they may think necessary, and shall fill up any vacancy that occurs in the said offices as soon as may be convenient after the same occurs; but the council shall not appoint as assessor or collector a member of the council or the clerk or treasurer of the municipality. 55 V. c. 42, s. 254 (1); 55 V. c. 48, s. 12 (1).

The present form of this section is new. It is made up of two corresponding sections one taken from the Municipal, the other from the Assessment Act. Cf. 12 V. c. 81, ss. 28, 78; 22 V. c. 99, s. 162; 29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 164; c. 53, ss. 19, 20; 32 V. c. 36, ss. 19, 20; 36 V. c. 48, s. 190; R. S. O. (1877), c. 174, s. 250; c. 180, ss. 10, 11; 46 V. c. 18, s. 250; R. S. O. (1887), c. 184, s. 254; c. 193, ss. 12, 13; 55 V. c. 42, s. 254; c. 48, ss. 12, 13. As to the sources of the last clause of subs. 1, and subs. 2, 4 and 5, see infra.

Duties of.

(a) The appointment of assessors and collectors should be made by by-law (s. 325) and as early in the year as possible. As to their tenure of office, see s. 321 and the cases there cited. As to the duties of assessors under "The Assessment Act," see R. S. O. c. 224, ss. 13-57, 153, 154, 249-254; in Territorial Districts, R. S. O. c. 225, s. 40; under "The Manhood Suffrage Act," R. S. O. c. 8, s. 3; "The Jurors Act," R. S. O. c. 61, ss. 17, 28; "The Separate Schools Act," R. S. O. c. 294, ss. 48, 49. As to the duties and responsibilities of collectors under "The Assessment Act", see R. S. O. c. 224, ss. 129-148, 247-249, 251-257, 265, 266; "The Public Schools Act," R. S. O. c. 292, ss. 46, 66, 67; "The Separate Schools Act," R. S. O. c. 294, s. 251.

Vacancy in office.

(b) "Shall fill up any vacancy" The council, by resolution, appointed B. assessor, who was sworn into office, and made the assessment. This appointment was made by a vote of three against two. The election of one of the three councillors was afterwards set aside, and by a subsequent vote the resolution was rescinded, and a by-law passed appointing a different person assessor. Both appointees made assessments, and in consequence much confusion arose. The Court, under these circumstances, granted a quo warranto to determine the validity of the last appointment (a).

(c) "Shall not appoint as assessor or collector a member of the council." Taken from 44 V. c. 25, s. 12 (1881). See supra. "This does not prevent the appointment of one who has been, however recently, but has ceased to be a member of the council. In effect, it prevents one person from holding the two offices, as the law, if there had been no enactment affecting the question, would probably have prevented it, these being incompatible offices." (b)

Who may not be appointed.

(4) The same person may, in a city, town or township, be appointed assessor or collector for more than one ward or polling subdivision. 55 V. c. 42, s. 254 (2).

(d) The Act of 1858 (c) provided that the same person might be appointed an assessor or collector for more than one ward; the Act of 1866 (d) added the words "or electoral division," for which "polling subdivision" was substituted by R. S. O. (1877) c. 174, s. 250.

Return as to persons making default in payment of taxes.

(5) In municipalities which have passed by-laws requiring taxes to be paid on or before the 14th day of December, it shall be the duty of the collectors, on the 15th day of December in each year to return, upon oath, to the treasurer the names of all persons who have not paid their municipal taxes on or before the 14th day of the said month of December. 55 V. c. 42, s. 254 (3).

Added in 1873. 36 V. c. 48, s. 199.

(e) As to the object of this provision, see ss. 88, 137, 151-154 and 292. (e)

In cities and towns, assessment commissioner may be appointed instead of assessors, etc.

296. In cities and towns, the council, instead of appointing assessors under the preceding section, may appoint an assessment commissioner, who, in conjunction with the mayor for the time being, shall, from time to time, appoint such assessors and valuators as may be necessary, and such commissioner, assessors, and valuators shall constitute a board of assessors, and shall possess all the powers and perform the duties of assessors appointed under the last preceding section;

Duties may be prescribed by by-law.

(2) The council shall also have power, by by-law, to determine the number of collectors to be appointed, and to prescribe their duties;

Tenure of office of commissioner, assessors, etc.

(3) Any commissioner, assessor or collector appointed in any city need not be appointed annually, but shall hold office at the pleasure of the council;

Notices.

(4) All notices (in other municipalities required to be given to the clerk of the municipality in matters relative to assessment) shall in such city be given to the assessment commissioner. 55 V. c. 42, s. 255.

(a) This amendment was suggested to the present Editor by the late S. B. HARMAN who was afterwards the first Assessment Commissioner of the City of Toronto. It was hoped,—and experience has since fully justified the hope,—that the creation of a board of assessors, appointed as in this section provided and responsible to one official head, would tend to secure greater uniformity of practice and equality of assessment than was possible under the old system.

(b) "The Registry Act" (f) provides that,—

Registrar to deliver on request duplicates of registered maps and plans.

"Every person who is required to lodge with the registrar a plan or map of any survey or subdivision of land in any municipality shall at the same time deposit with the said registrar a duplicate of such plan or map, and the registrar shall endorse thereon a certificate showing the number of such plan or map and the date when the duplicate original thereof was filed with him, and the same shall upon request and without any fee being chargeable in respect thereof, be delivered by the registrar to the treasurer or assessment commissioner of the local municipality in which such land is situate. The registrar shall not register any such plan or map unless and until a duplicate thereof is deposited in accordance with the provisions hereof."

Section 125 of the same Act provides that,—

And list of registered conveyances.

"The registrar shall, upon request, furnish to the clerk or assessment commissioner of a city, a list of all absolute conveyances whereby property has been transferred, which have been registered in his office within the next preceding month, and in such list shall include the names of the grantor, the grantee, the consideration shown in such transfer, and a short description of the land conveyed; provided that such list shall not include leases for less than twenty-one years, mortgages, discharges of mortgage, or other like instruments, and that the registrar shall be entitled to have and receive therefor a fee of five cents for every instrument included in the said list."

Collectors for provisional council.

Payments.

297. The collectors of the several townships in a junior county of a union of counties shall, ex officio, be collectors in such townships for the provisional council; and the collectors shall pay over to the provisional treasurer the money which they collect under any by-law of the provisional council. 55 V. c. 42, s. 256.

Taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99), s. 165.

(a) See s. 45 and the notes thereto.

Moneys, how to be disposed of.

Taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99), s. 166.

(a) The powers of a provisional council are not in any way intended to interfere with the powers of the council of the union and any money raised by the provisional council in the junior county is independent of any money raised therein by the council of the union. (g)

DIVISION V.—AUDITORS AND AUDIT, (SECS. 299-309).

Synopsis.—Except the city of Toronto—as to which special provision is made by s. 300,—every council shall annually (either) appoint two auditors at its first meeting after the January elections (s. 299), or, (if so provided by by-law) shall appoint an auditor or auditors during the preceding November or December, (s. 301). Provision may also be made for a daily audit (s. 309), and in cities (s. 305) for a pre-audit of municipal accounts. S. 299 (1) prohibits the appointment as auditor of certain persons therein named and s. 299 (2) and s. 303 provide for filling vacancies in the office. The duties of auditors are prescribed by ss. 302, 304 (1-4) and 306, those of municipal clerks in reference to the accounts thus audited, by ss. 304 (8) and 306; those of the councils of towns, townships and villages by s. 304 (6), (7), and those of the councils of all municipalities by s. 307.

Auditors.

299.—(1) Subject to the provisions of the next two sections as to cities, every council shall at the first meeting thereof in every year after being duly organized, appoint two auditors: but no one who, at such time, or during the preceding year, is or was a member, or is or was clerk or treasurer of the council, or who has, or during the preceding year had, directly or indirectly, alone or in conjunction with any other person, a share or interest in any contract or employment with or on behalf of the corporation, except as auditor, shall be appointed an auditor. 55 V. c. 42, s. 258; 61 V. c. 23, s. 8.

Disqualification for office of.

Taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99), s. 167. See 61 V. c. 23, s. 8.

(a) There is scarcely any particular in which the administration of municipal affairs in this Province is more lax than in respect to the audit of municipal accounts. Councils appear to be unwilling to pay the necessary expenses of a thorough annual investigation, and so many cases of defalcation have occurred that the Legislature has been obliged to take further action. (a) Yet the provisions of this section and of s. 291, if strictly adhered to, would make such an audit comparatively easy.

(b) "At the first meeting in every year after being duly organized." See ss. 259, 261, and see the alternative provision contained in s. 301 (1).

(c) "No one who . . is or was a member . . or is or was a clerk or treasurer," etc. This provision is intended to secure an independent audit.

If auditor appointed will not or cannot act.

(2) In the event of an auditor so appointed to audit the accounts of a county refusing, or being unable to act, the head of the council shall nominate another person to act in his stead.

Added in 1887 by 50 V. c. 29, s. 10.

Head of council may not appoint an employee.

(3) The person so to be appointed by the head of the council shall not be a person in his employment. 55 V. c. 42, s. 258.

Added in 1890 by 53 V. c. [illegible] s. 6. See note (c).

Appointment of auditors for Toronto.

300.—(1) The council of the corporation of the city of Toronto shall appoint two auditors, who shall hold office during pleasure.

Treasurer to prepare abstract.

(2) The treasurer shall prepare in duplicate, not later than the first day of April in each year, an abstract of the receipts and expenditure of the city for the year ending on the 31st of December preceding, and of the assets and liabilities thereof

(a) See R. S. O. cc. 228, 229.

Note (a).

at that date, and shall submit the same to the auditors for examination. The auditors shall audit such abstract with the treasurer's books, and shall make a report on all accounts audited by them, and a special report as to any expenditure made contrary to law; and on or before the first day of May they shall transmit one copy of the said abstract with their report thereon to the Secretary of the Bureau of Industries, Toronto, and file the other in the office of the clerk of the council; and thereafter any inhabitant or ratepayer of the municipality may inspect the same at all reasonable hours, and may, by himself or his agent, at his own expense, take a copy thereof or extracts therefrom. 55 V. c. 42, s. 259.

Report of auditors thereon.

Auditors' report may be inspected.

Taken from 52 V. c. 36, s. 10 (1889). Cf. 35 V. c. 77, s. 1; 43 V. c. 24, s. 22.

(a) "Inhabitant or ratepayer." The right to inspect the auditors' report is extended to "any inhabitant or ratepayer." The difference between an inhabitant and a ratepayer is, that "inhabitant" means a resident, whether a ratepayer or not, and that a "ratepayer" is a person who pays taxes, whether a resident or not. (b) Mere colourable residence is insufficient to constitute a person an inhabitant. (c)

"Inhabitant," "Ratepayer," meaning of.

301.—(1) The council of any municipality may pass a by-law declaring that it is expedient to appoint an auditor or auditors for the municipality in the month of November or in the month of December in each year; and thereafter while such by-law remains in force the council shall appoint an auditor or auditors in the month of November or in the month of December according to the tenor of the by-law, instead of at its first meeting after being duly organized. 61 V. c. 23, s. 9.

Time for appointment of auditors.

(2) Notwithstanding this section, or any such by-law, the provisions of section 299 of this Act, as to the appointment of auditors, shall apply to the audit of the accounts of the year in which such by-law takes effect. 55 V. c. 42, s. 260 (2).

Application of existing laws as to appointment of auditors.

Subs. 1 is taken from 61 V. c. 23, s. 9 (1898), subsec. 2 from 47 V. c. 32, s. 7 (5) (1884).

302. The auditors appointed under the next preceding two sections shall, every month, commencing at the end of the first month in the year following the said month of December, and so on to the end of such year, examine and report upon all accounts affecting the corporation, or relating to any matter under its control, or within its jurisdiction. 55 V. c. 42, s. 261.

Duty of auditors.

Taken from 35 V. c. 77, s. 2 (1872) which applied only to the City of Toronto. Extended by 47 V. c. 32, s. 7 (4) to the case of auditors appointed by any city.

(a) "All accounts affecting the corporation." These words are wide enough to include the accounts of moneys raised by the council for police purposes under s. 492, for public libraries under R.S.O. c. 292, s. 17, for public parks under R.S.O. c. 233, s. 17, and for school purposes under "The Public Schools Act," R.S.O. c. 292, ss. 66, 67, and "The High Schools Act," R.S.O. c. 293, ss. 31-36. As to the audit of public school accounts in urban municipalities see R.S.O. c. 292, s. 62 (11), printed in full in note (c) to s. 587, post.

Filling vacancies.

303. The council of a city, in the event of a vacancy in the office of auditor happening by death, resignation or otherwise, may, by by-law, fill such vacancy, and the person so appointed shall hold office for the remainder of the year for which the original appointment was made. 55 V. c. 42, s. 262.

Taken from 43 V. c. 24, s. 22, which applied only to the City of Toronto. Extended by 47 V. c. 32, s. 7 (2) to all auditors appointed under that section. (See now s. 301).

Duties of auditors.

304.—(1) The auditors shall examine and report upon all accounts affecting the corporation, or relating to any matter under its control or within its jurisdiction for the year ending on the 31st day of December preceding their appointment. 55 V. c. 42, s. 263 (1).

Taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99,) s. 168. Cf. 12 V. c. 81, s. 144; 14 & 15 V. c. 109, Sched. A (19).

(a) "All accounts affecting the corporation," etc. See note (a) to s. 302.

To prepare abstract and detailed statement of receipts and expenditure, etc.

(2) The auditors shall prepare in duplicate an abstract of the receipts, expenditure, assets and liabilities of the corporation, and also in duplicate a detailed statement of the same in such form as the council directs. They shall make a report on all accounts audited by them, and a special report of any expenditure made contrary to law. Division VI.—Valuators (Sec. 310).

310.—(1) The council of every county may appoint two or more valuators for the purpose of valuing the real property within the county, and it shall be their duty to ascertain, in every fifth year at furthest, the value of the same in the manner directed by the county council; but the valuators shall not exceed the powers possessed by assessors. The valuation so made shall be made by the county council the basis of equalization of the real property for a period not exceeding five years; and the equalization of personal property shall be as heretofore.

County council may appoint valuators, their duties, etc.

Equalization of real property.

(2) The county council may, at or before the expiration of the said period, extend the time for a term not exceeding five years further: and thereupon the valuation shall continue to be made the basis of equalization of the real property by the county council for such extended period. 55 V. c. 42, s. 269; c. 43, s. 14.

Subsec. 1 is taken from the Act of 1866, (29 & 30 V. c. 51), s. 175, the last clause being added in 1873 by 36 V. c. 48, s. 210. Subs. 2 is taken from "The Municipal Amendment Act of 1892," 55 V. c. 43, s. 14.

Notes (a), (b); (a).

(a) Before the Act of 1866 (a), a county council arrived at the value of lands situate in the several local municipalities of the county merely by a process of equalization on an assumed or arbitrary valuation, with the object of producing a just relation between the different local municipalities without reducing the aggregate valuation of the whole county. This was found unsatisfactory, and for remedy section 175 of the Act of 1866 was enacted. The appointment of county valuators is the main feature of the remedy, and is left discretionary with the county councils. The purpose of the appointment is "the valuing the real property" in the county. The duty of the valuators, when appointed, is to ascertain the value "in the manner directed by the county council," but with this limitation: that they (the valuators) are not to "exceed the powers possessed by assessors." The valuing may be as often or as seldom as the county council see fit, provided it be done at every fifth year at furthest. It is not supposed that a valuation will be necessary every year. But in some localities real property fluctuates in value more than in others, and so, within the limit mentioned, a discretion is vested in the county council.

DIVISION VII.—DUTIES OF OFFICERS RESPECTING OATHS AND DECLARATIONS (SECS. 311-319).

Declaration to be made by certain persons.

Synopsis.—The form of the "declaration of qualification" referred to in ss. 76 (b), 187 and 261 is given in s. 312, and forms of the "declaration of office" to be taken by every member and officer of a municipal council by ss. 312-314. The mode of administering and of prescribing these declarations is pointed out by ss. 315-317, and the time within which they must be taken by s. 319. Sec. 318 gives a general authority for the administration of an oath in relation to accounts and other matters submitted to a municipal council.

Form of.

311.—(1) Every person elected or appointed under this Act to any office requiring a qualification of property in the incumbent shall, before he takes the declaration of office, or enters upon his duties, make and subscribe a solemn declaration to the effect following:

I, A. B., do solemnly declare that I am a natural born (or naturalized) subject of Her Majesty; and have and had to my own use and benefit, in my own right (or have and had in right of my wife, as the case may be), as owner (or tenant, as the case may be), at the time of my election (or appointment, as the case may require), to the office of hereinafter referred to, such an estate as does qualify me to act in the office of (naming the office) for (naming the place for which such person has been elected or appointed); and that such estate is (the nature of the estate to be specified, as an equitable estate of leasehold or otherwise, as the case may require, and if land, the same to be designated by its local description, rents or otherwise) and that such estate at the time of my election (or appointment, as the case may require) was of the value of at least (specifying the value) over and above all charges, liens, and incumbrances affecting the same.

Taken from the Act of 1873, (36 V. c. 48), s. 241. Cf. 12 V. c. 81, s. 129; 14 & 15 V. c. 109, Sched. A (17); 22 V. c. 99, s. 175; 29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 178.

(a) "Elected or appointed." Appointments to office requiring a property qualification may be made under s. 218.

(a) 29-30 V. c. 51.

(b) 32 V. c. 36.

(b) "Any office requiring a qualification of property in the incumbent." The only municipal offices which require such qualification are those of mayor, alderman, reeve, councillors (a), and county councillors (b). Section 475 provides that

> "No warden, mayor, reeve or alderman, after taking the oaths or making the declarations as such, shall be required to have any property qualification, or to take any further oath to enable him to act as a Justice of the Peace."

(c) "The declaration of office." See s. 312.

(d) "Enters upon his duties." This would include the election of a warden by a county council under ss. 260, 261 (c).

(e) "Make and subscribe." See ss, 315, 317.

(f) "Have and had to my own use and benefit . . . such an estate as does qualify me." etc. Notwithstanding the addition to this section in 1873, of the words "over and above all charges, liens and incumbrances affecting the same," Mr. DALTON, in 1875, held the amount at which the property of a municipal councillor was rated on the assessment roll to be conclusive evidence of his qualification, and that incumbrances were not to be deducted therefrom (a). But this is no longer the law, and by 43 V. c. 24, s. 3 (1880) the wording of the section relating to qualification (now s. 76) was made to agree with the language of the declaration in this section. In estimating the property qualification, the amount of any charges, liens, and incumbrances should be deducted from the assessed value of the property, and not from its actual value (b), and when the amount of the incumbrances appearing on the books of the registry office was shown by affidavit to have been so reduced as to leave, according to the assessed value of the property, a margin of $963, the qualification was held to be sufficient (c).

It was attempted to unseat a member of the council on the ground that he had not, in his declaration of office, specified the nature of the estate; but it was held that such an objection could not be made a ground for setting aside an election under the summary provisions of the Statute (d). Where an alderman elect did not state in his declaration the nature of his estate, or the value of the land, but declared that his property was sufficient to qualify him "according to the true intent and meaning of the municipal laws of Upper Canada" the declaration was held insufficient (e). Where the declaration of qualification had not been made, leave was given to the defendant to make the same within ten days, otherwise leave was granted to file an information on the ground that the defendant illegally exercised the franchises of the office (f). An alderman's right to the office may be questioned on the ground of an insufficient declaration of qualification and for the want of qualification by a quo warranto at the instance of a ratepayer not a voter of or resident in the ward (g). A refusal to take the oath of office has been held equivalent to a refusal of the office (h). Upon the declaration being made, the office becomes full, de facto (i).

Note (g).

(2) Where any person has been elected as reeve, deputy reeve, or councillor of any township council he may, instead of the foregoing declaration, make and subscribe a solemn declaration to the effect following :

I, A. B., do solemnly declare that I am a natural born (or naturalized) subject of Her Majesty : and have and had to my own use and benefit, in my own right (or have and had in right of my wife, as the case may be) as owner at the time of my election to the office of referred to, such an estate as does qualify me to act in the office of (naming the office) for (naming the place for which such person has been elected), and that such estate is (the nature of the estate to be specified and the land to be designated by its local description) ; and that such estate at the time of my election was in my actual occupation, and was actually rated in the then last revised assessment roll of this township (naming it) at an amount not less than $2,000.

55 V. c. 42, s. 270 ; 59 V. c. 52, s. 14 part.

(g) This subsection first appeared as s. 272 (2) in the Act of 1883. (j) By an addition there first made to the section, relating to the qualification of members of municipal councils (s. 76 of the present Act), it was provided that actual occupation in any township of a freehold rated, etc. for not less than $3,000 should be sufficient property qualification for a reeve, deputy-reeve, or councillor, and that in such case the existence of incumbrances on the property should not affect the qualification. (k) In 1887 this clause was made applicable to all municipalities, and the amount of the rating necessary was reduced to $2,000 ; (l) but apparently by oversight, the section respecting the declaration of qualification, though amended as to the amount required, was not extended, as it should have been, to all municipalities, and still applies only to townships. (m)

Secs. 312 (2)-315. Note (a).

(a) A "declaration of office," which forms the basis of those contained in this and the next section, appears first in the Act of 1849 (a) but has since been repeatedly amended (o). Subs. 2 was added in 1897 by 60 V. c. 45, s. 41 (2). As to the period within which the declarations of office and of qualification must be made in the case of certain of the officers named in the section, see s. 319. If the declarations are not made within the prescribed period, the officer will be subject to the penalties imposed by that section; but failure to make the declarations does not ipso facto render void his official acts done in the meantime (p).

Oath, affirmation or declaration to be subscribed and deposited with clerk of municipality.

The deponent, affirmant or declarant shall subscribe every such oath, affirmation or declaration; and the person administering it shall duly certify and preserve the same, and shall within eight days deposit the same in the office of the clerk of the municipality to the affairs of which it relates. 55 V. c. 42, s. 275.

Head of council may administer certain oaths, etc.

Penalties for refusing to accept office or administer declaration, etc.

Taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99), s. 183. Cf. 12 V. c. 81, s. 130. The words "county councillors" in lines 2 and 3 were added in 1897, 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (59), and the period of thirty days in their case fixed by 60 V. c. 45, s. 1.

(a) "Every qualified person." The section does not apply to persons disqualified for municipal office under ss. 80, 162, 196, 249, 251 or 418 of this Act, or under s. 71 of "The Liquor License Act" (b), nor, would it seem, to persons exempted by s. 84.

(b) "Who refuses such office or does not . . . make the declarations of office and qualification." The acceptance of the office, when the person is qualified, is obligatory. It is an offence at common law for a person to refuse to serve in an office when duly elected (f). A person so refusing may be indicted (g) or, in case of urgency, may be proceeded against by criminal information (h) or mandamus (i) in the discretion of the Court (j). But, in any event, it must appear that the person elected had notice of the election (k).

As to what is a "refusal," and the consequence thereof as to creating a vacancy in the office, see s. 212 and Re Township of Asphodel and Sargant, there cited (l).

(c) "After knowing of his election or appointment." Casual information is not sufficient. Before an elected officer can be visited with penalties, imposed for neglecting to accept his office, he must have regular notice of his election, either by being present when it is announced, or being apprised of the fact by some official authority (m).

(d) "Shall forfeit not more than $80 nor less than $8" etc. This section does not declare that the payment of the fine shall be in lieu of service. Mere payment of the fine is no excuse for non-acceptance of the office (n).

DIVISION VIII.—SALARIES, TENURE OF OFFICE AND SECURITY, (SECS. 320-323.)

Synopsis.—S. 320 provides that the council shall provide for the remuneration of all municipal officers and shall fix the quantum of their remuneration, where this is not settled by Statute; but that no appointment or arrangement shall be made for securing the services of municipal officers by tender or at the lowest possible remuneration. Special provision is made as to the duties of the municipal clerk under R.S.O. c. 285 and as to the case of a salaried solicitor.

S. 321 provides that the tenure of office of all municipal officers shall be during the pleasure of the council, which may also impose upon them additional duties.

S. 322 specifies when gratuities may be granted out of municipal funds to officers who have become incapacitated, through old age, from efficiently performing their duties; and s. 323 authorizes municipal corporations to accept as security for the faithful discharge of duty by their officers the bonds of certain incorporated companies.

Salaries of officers.

320.—(1) In case the remuneration of any of the officers of the municipality has not been settled by Act of the Legislature, the council shall settle the same; and the council shall provide for the payment of all municipal officers, whether the remuneration is settled by Statute or by by-law of the council.

Remuneration of clerks for services performed under R. S. O. c. 285.

(a) It shall be the duty of the council to give to the clerk of the municipality for services and duties performed by him in carrying out the provisions of The Ditches and Watercourses Act, a fair and reasonable remuneration, to be fixed by by-law of the council.

Remuneration of clerks for copying documents, etc. R. S. O. c. 285.

(b) The council shall fix by by-law the sum to be paid to the clerk by any person for copies of awards or other documents, or for any other services rendered by the clerk, other than services which it is his duty to perform under the provisions of The Ditches and Watercourses Act.

Remuneration not to be settled by tender.

(2) No municipal council shall assume to make any appointment to office, or any arrangement for the discharge of the duties thereof, by tender, or to applicants at the lowest remuneration.

Subsec. 1 is taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99,) s. 173; subs. 1 (a) and 1 (b) from "The Municipal Amendment Act of 1892," 55 V. c. 43, s. 16; subs. 2 from "The Con. Mun. Act of 1873," (36 V. c. 48,) s. 219.

(a) Officers of a municipal corporation are deemed to have accepted their office with a knowledge of, and with reference to the provisions of the Statutes relating to the services which they may be called upon to render, and the compensation provided therefor. Aside from some express provision in these Statutes or in some by-law, there is no implied assumpsit on the part of the corporation with respect to the services of its officers (a). Where duties are imposed by Statute on a public officer, his remuneration therefor has in some cases been settled by the Legislature (b). The fact that such statutory allowance has been made should be taken into account in fixing the salary of the officer (c); and in some of the cases above mentioned the Statute expressly provides that the salary given may include all such statutory fees, or that the fees shall be paid over and form part of the funds of the municipality (d). See also, as to the fees of salaried constables, s. 496, infra, and as to the clerk of the peace, s. 3 of R.S.O. c. 101 which provides that

> "It shall be lawful for a county council to agree from time to time with the Clerk of the Peace for the payment to him of a gross annual sum, in lieu of all fees chargeable by him to the county and which are not repayable to the county by the Province."

In Town of Stratford v. Wilson, (e) the plaintiffs appointed the defendant chief of police of the town at a named salary, but stipulated that he should act as county constable within the town only, and should account for and pay over to the plaintiffs all fees received by him from the county for services performed by him as county constable. ROSE, J., held that the agreement to account for such fees was invalid under 5 & 6 Edw. VI. c. 16 and 49 Geo. III. c. 126 which forbid the buying and selling of offices in any way concerned with the administration of justice; but the attention of the Court in that case was not called to the enactment—in the same year—of 47 V. c. 32, s. 24 (2), now s. 496 of this Act, which provides that :—

> "Where any salaried constable is appointed for any municipality, whether by the municipal council or by the Board of Commissioners of Police, the council may agree that such constable shall keep for his own use his fees of office; or may require that the said fees shall be paid to the municipal treasurer for the use of the municipality."

(3) Where a municipality employs a solicitor or counsel whose remuneration is wholly or partly by salary, annual or otherwise, the municipality shall notwithstanding, have the right to recover and collect lawful costs in all actions and proceedings, in the same manner as if the solicitor or counsel was not receiving a salary, where the costs are, by the terms of his employment, payable to the solicitor or counsel as part of his remuneration in addition to his salary. 55 V. c. 42, s. 278; 55 V. c. 43, s. 16.

When municipality employing solicitor at a salary may recover costs.

Taken from "The Mun. Amendment Act, of 1881," (44 V. c. 24,) s. 5.

(b) "Where a municipality employs a solicitor or counsel." By-laws fixing salaries are not in the nature of contracts with the officers of a municipal corporation. But where the services to be performed are professional or private, rather than public or official, an employment under a by-law for a fixed time, at a fixed sum for the period, has been held to be a contract, and not subject to be impaired by the corporation. (f) The appointment of a solicitor to a municipal corporation should be by by-law (g) or at all events should be authenticated by the seal of the corporation. (h)

(c) "The municipality shall have the right to recover and collect lawful costs." This provision was considered necessary because of the decisions in Jarvis v. Great Western R. W. Co. (i) and Stevenson v. City of Kingston, (j) which were founded upon the rule of law that, costs being in the nature of an indemnity, the right of a successful party to recover them depends upon his liability to pay costs to his solicitor. (k)

321. All officers appointed by the council shall hold office until removed by the council, and shall, in addition to the duties assigned to them by this Act, perform all other duties required of them by any other statute, or by the by-laws of the council. 55 V. c. 42, s. 279.

Sec. 321.

Notes (a), (b).

(a) "Officers appointed by the council." Section 325 declares that (a11) "the powers of the council"—which would include the power of appointing its officers—"shall be exercised by by-law when not otherwise authorized or provided for." See note (d) to that section. But notwithstanding the use of these very words in the Municipal Act of British Columbia it was held in Tuck v. City of Victoria, (l) that the election by vote of the council of a city engineer is sufficient to constitute a valid appointment to such an office, and that the person so elected may sue for damages if not admitted thereto, the corporation not being allowed to set up as a defence their own default in not providing him with some contract or other instrument under seal. The plaintiff in that case, his election having been reconsidered and cancelled by a vote of the council at its next meeting, recovered a month's salary, s. 93 of the B. C. Mun. Act, 1891, then in force, providing that "any officer can be dismissed by giving him 30 days notice." The Mun. Act of British Columbia (m) now provides that: "The council may appoint by resolution or elect by written ballot such officers as may be deemed necessary" and that appointments to offices in the gift of the council shall be held during its pleasure.

(b) "Shall hold office until removed by the council." "The effect of this is that all such officers hold their offices during the pleasure of the council, and may be removed by the council at any time without any notice of such intended removal, and without any cause being shown for such removal, and without the council thereby incurring any liability to such officers for such removal" (n). The same rule applies to the tenure of office of a town-clerk appointed under the Imp. Stat. 45 & 46 V. c. 50, s. 17 (2) to hold office "during the pleasure of the council" (o): The charter of the City of Montreal (p), gives power to the city council to appoint and remove such officers as it may deem necessary to carry into execution the powers thereby vested in it, the French version of the Act stating that such powers may be exercised "a sa discretion," while the English version has the words "at its pleasure." Held, that notwithstanding the apparent difference in the two versions of the Statute, it must be interpreted as one and the same enactment, and the city council was thereby given full and unlimited power, in cases where the engagement had been made indefinitely as to duration, to remove officers summarily and without notice, upon payment only of the amount of salary accrued to such officer up to the date of his dismissal (q). "When a council appoints an officer like a clerk, he enters upon his duties with the fullest knowledge of his dependence upon the pleasure of either the present or of the future council" (r). An officer appointed at an annual salary is entitled, in the event of dismissal during the year, to be paid the proportion of his salary accruing up to the time of his dismissal (s). As to the rule where the services to be performed are professional or private, rather than public or official, see note (b) to s. 320 and Broughton v. Town of Brantford, (t) where the property of the Grand River Navigation Co. having passed into the hands of the defendants, they appointed the plaintiff, under the corporate seal, as manager thereof from Jan. 1st, 1866, but dismissed him in September, 1867, it was held that such dismissal before the end of the year was illegal, and that he was entitled to damages for wrongful dismissal. The case, however, must be considered as overruled by the later decisions above referred to.

In Vernon v. Town of Smith's Falls, the plaintiff had been appointed chief constable of the town "for one year" by a by-law of the council. Having been dismissed within the year without cause assigned, he brought an action for wrongful dismissal. It was contended that Broughton v. Town of Brantford applied; but FERGUSON, J. says (at p. 332)

> "If the Statute enacts that municipal officers shall hold office only during pleasure, can the corporation tie its hands by appointing for a fixed period?" and per MEREDITH, J. (p. 333)

(s) Dempsey v. City of Toronto, 6 U. C. R. 1. (t) 19 C. P. 434.

"The council are not the corporation, they cannot exceed the powers conferred upon them so as to bind the corporation. Their power was to appoint during pleasure only."

It seems that a municipal officer, though appointed by by-law, may be removed by resolution (u) and that when the seal of the corporation is wrongfully detained by the clerk, a by-law for his removal may be sealed with another seal pro hac vice (v). In the Province of Quebec,—where the secretary treasurer of a municipal corporation holds his office during pleasure,—it has been held that the dismissal of such an officer results from the adoption by the council of a resolution appointing another person and another resolution directing the retired officer to prepare his official statement, and from the fact that since the passing of these resolutions the officer in question has not acted as secretary-treasurer nor attended a meeting of the council. In these circumstances the council may claim the books etc., pertaining to this office, even before adopting a resolution formally dismissing the official (w).

(c) "And shall . . . perform all other duties required of them." It is a well settled rule that a person, accepting a public office with a fixed salary, is bound to perform the duties of the office for the salary. He cannot legally claim additional compensation for the discharge of those duties, even though the salary may be a very inadequate remuneration for the services. Nor does it alter the case that by subsequent Statutes or by-laws his duties within the charter powers pertaining to the office are increased. Whenever he considers the compensation inadequate, he is at liberty to resign. The rule is of importance to the public. To allow changes and additions in the duties properly belonging, or which may properly be attached, to an office to lay the foundation for extra compensation, would soon introduce intolerable mischief. The rule should be very rigidly enforced. The Statutes of the Legislature and the by-laws of municipal corporations seldom describe with much detail and particularity the duties annexed to public offices; and it requires but little ingenuity to run nice distinctions between what duties may, and what may not, be considered as strictly official; and if these distinctions are much favoured by Courts of Justice, it may lead to great abuse (x).

A gratuity may be given in certain cases.

322. Any municipal council, other than a provisional council, may grant to any officer who has been in the service of the municipality for at least twenty years, and who, while in such service, has become incapable, through old age, of efficiently discharging the duties of his office, a sum not exceeding his aggregate salary or other remuneration for the last three years of his service, as a gratuity upon his removal or resignation. 55 V. c. 42, s. 280.

Taken from the Act of 1873 (36 V. c. 48), s. 221.

(a) Without legislation, there is no power in a municipal corporation to grant a gratuity. Service for any period less than twenty years, or incapacity from any other cause than old age, gives no right to the exercise of the power hereby conferred. The gratuity is only to be paid on removal or resignation. The decision as to a gratuity, when made under the circumstances and within the limits prescribed, is not subject to review by any Court (a). There is a distinction between a gratuity and an annuity (b).

Corporations, etc., may accept security of certain companies for their officers.

323. The bonds or policies of guarantee of any incorporated company, empowered to grant guarantees, bonds or policies for the integrity and faithful accounting of public officers, servants or persons occupying positions of trust or other like purposes, may be accepted instead of, or in addition to, the bond or security of any officer or servant of a municipal corporation, in all cases where, by the provisions of this or any other Act, or of any by-law of the corporation, such officer or servant is required to give security, either by himself or by a surety or sureties, and where the persons directed or authorized to take the security see fit to accept the bond or policy of such company as aforesaid, and approve the terms and conditions thereof; and all the provisions in such Act relating to such security to be given by such officer or servant, or his sureties shall apply to the bonds and policies of guarantee of such company as aforesaid; and the same may be taken instead of, or in substitution for, any existing securities, if the persons directed or authorized as aforesaid see fit; whereupon such existing securities shall be delivered up to be cancelled. 55 V. c. 42, s. 281.

Division IX.—Investigation of Charges of Malfeasance, etc., or Judicial Inquiry in Relation to Municipal Matters. (Sec. 324.)

Investigation by County Judge of charges of malfeasance by municipal officers.

324.—(1) In case the council of any municipality at any time passes a resolution requesting the Judge of the County Court of the county in which the municipality is situate to investigate any matter to be mentioned in the resolution, and relating to a supposed malfeasance, breach of trust or other misconduct on the part of any member of the council or officer of the corporation, or of any person having a contract therewith, in relation to the duties or obligations of the member, officer or other person, to the municipality, or in case the council of any municipality sees fit to cause inquiry to be made into or concerning any matter connected with the good government of the municipality, or the conduct of any part of the public business thereof, and passes a resolution requesting the Judge to make the inquiry, the Judge shall inquire into the same, and shall for that purpose have all the powers which may be conferred upon Commissioners under The Act respecting Inquiries concerning Public Matters, and the Judge shall, with all convenient speed, report to the council the result of the inquiry and the evidence taken thereon.

Judge to have powers mentioned in Rev. Stat. c. 19.

Taken from the Act of 1858 (22 V. c. 99, s. 360, which applied only to cities, and under which the investigation was to be held by the recorder of the city. The Judge of the County Court was substituted for the recorder by "The Law Reform Act of 1868" (32 V. c. 6) s. 12, and the section applied to all municipalities by the Act of 1873 (36 V. c. 48). s. 370. Subs. 2 was added in 1886 by 49 V. c. 37, s. 11.

(a) There are two classes of cases in which an investigation may be had under this section:—

(1) Any matter relating to a supposed malfeasance, breach of trust or other misconduct on the part of any member of the council or officer of the corporation, or of any person having a contract therewith, in relation to the duties and obligations of the member, officer or other person, to the municipality; or

(2) any matter connected with the good government of the municipality, or the conduct of any part of the public business thereof.

The "misconduct" referred to under the first of these heads is doubtless misconduct in the nature of malfeasance or breach of trust of some kind appertaining to the duties of the office. According to the rules governing the construction of Statutes, where general words follow particular words, they are to be construed as ejusdem generis with the particular words which have preceded them (a).

(b) "The Judge shall inquire into the same." In making the inquiry authorized by this section, the Judge acts as persona designata, and not in a judicial capacity, and is therefore not subject to control by a writ of prohibition from a Superior Court. (b)

(c) "All the powers which may be conferred upon commissioners under The Act respecting inquiries concerning Public Matters." Under the Act referred to (R.S. O. c. 19), the Lieutenant-Governor may confer upon commissioners so appointed the power of summoning before them any party or witnesses, and of requiring them to give evidence on oath, orally or in writing (or on solemn affirmation, if they be parties entitled to affirm in civil matters), and to produce such documents and things as such commissioners deem requisite to the investigation; (c) and the commissioners have the same power to enforce the attendance of witnesses, and to compel them to give evidence as is vested in any court in civil cases. (d) No party, in such an inquiry, can be compelled to answer any question by his answer to which he might render himself liable to a criminal prosecution. In this respect there is a difference between inquiries here authorized and inquiries in cases of controverted municipal elections. (e) Witnesses, it is apprehended, would not be entitled to compensation for loss of time.

(d) "The Judge shall . . report to the council the result of the inquiry and the evidence taken thereon." The evidence must therefore be reduced to writing.

Jurisdiction of councils.

(2) The Judge of the County Court, holding such investigation, shall be entitled to receive, and shall be paid by the municipality requesting him to hold the investigation, the same fees as he would be entitled to receive if the matter had been referred to him as a referee under the provisions of The Judicature Act. 55 V. c. 42, s. 477.

(e) For the fees payable to the County Judge, under this subsection, see Tariff B, referred to in No. 1179 of the Con. Rules, 1897. Quære, whether a municipal council has power to expend corporate funds in paying counsel and witnesses in an investigation under this section. (f)?

Fees payable to county judge.

R. S. O. c. 51.

325. The jurisdiction of every council shall be confined to the municipality which the council represents, except where authority beyond the same is expressly given; and the powers of the council shall be exercised by by-law, when not otherwise authorized or provided for. 55 V. c. 42, s. 282.

Taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99), s. 186.

(a) "The jurisdiction of every council shall be confined to the municipality which the council represents." This applies to municipal corporations a rule already well established in regard to the territorial limits within which the laws of a state usually have force (a). "The cardinal principle of municipal government is that each municipality shall be, as far as possible, self-governing in matters of police and municipal jurisdiction, and that one municipality shall not invade the territory or interfere with the concerns of another municipality without the consent of the latter or the adjustment of points of difference by means of arbitration or other appropriate tribunal" (b). In R. Boylan and City of Toronto (c), a city by-law limiting the number of tavern licenses was moved against because it showed on its face no description of the local limits within which it was intended to be operative. Held, no objection. Per ARMOUR, C. J.: "The by-law was passed by the council of the city and could have no operation elsewhere."

(a) Story, Conflict of Laws, c. 1, ss. 7, 8. See Adam v. British, etc., S. S. Co., [1898], 2 Q. B. 430.

(b) Per BOYD, C., in Township of Barton v. City of Hamilton, 18 O. R. 199, at p. 202. (c) 15 O. R. 13.

(b) "Except where authority beyond the same is expressly given." Examples of such authority are afforded by s. 501, which empowers a county council to expropriate land in a city for the purpose of building a court house thereon; s. 527 (2), which provides that any industrial farm or ground held by a city or town for exhibition purposes, and any house of correction, house of industry, house of refuge, house for the poor, aged and infirm, or lock-up house erected thereon, shall, for the purposes of the sub-section be deemed to be within the municipality and the jurisdiction thereof; s. 577 (1), which makes similar provision as to lands acquired by townships, cities, towns and villages for public cemeteries; s. 543 (17), which relates to the acquisition by townships, cities, towns and villages of land outside the municipality for the purpose of erecting powder-magazines thereon, and ss. 554 (1) and 555, which authorize the exercise by by-law of certain drainage powers beyond the territorial limits of the municipality. See also s. 534 (2) which authorizes the council of a township, city, town or village to pass by-laws for acquiring and holding "for the public use of the municipality" land situate outside its corporate limits, but provides that such land shall continue to be subject to the by-laws of the municipality in which it is situated, and s. 569 (3), which authorizes a city or town (under the conditions therein mentioned) to build, equip, maintain and operate in any adjoining municipality, an extension of a street railway operated or intended to be built or operated by such city or town within its own limits.

(c) "The powers of the council." See note (a) to s. 10.

(d) "Shall be exercised by by-law." According to Lord Coke the word "by" or "bye" signifies a habitation (d). Hence a by-law may be defined as "the law of some particular district made by the inhabitants thereof or their authorized representatives," as distinguished from the general law of the Province or the Dominion. It is "a law governing a corporate body and which they are authorized to make" (e). "Though made by and applicable to a particular body it is still a law, and thus differs from a provision made on, or limited to particular occasions: it is a rule made prospectively, and to be applied whenever the question arises for which it is intended to provide (f).

"All regulations made by a corporate body and intended to bind not only themselves and their servants but the public are by-laws, whether valid or invalid in law" (g).

Limits of operation.

The by-laws of a municipal corporation have, within the territorial limits of the municipality "the same effect as an Act of Parliament has upon the subjects at large" (h), and they are binding on all persons whether strangers or members of the corporation (i), and whether they have notice of them or not (j).

Requisites of a valid by-law.

A good by-law should be (a) clearly and definitely expressed, (b) positive, general and equal in its operation as a law, and (c) reasonable in its terms. It must be (d) within the express or necessarily implied powers of the corporation, (e) consistent with, not repugnant to, the general law of the land, and (f) made bona fide in the interests of the corporation, not to serve those of some other person or body of persons.

Ambiguity.

In order to vary or alter the common law, a by-law ought to be reasonably clear, definite and free from ambiguity in its language (k); and this applies especially to by-laws which create a new offence (l); but "although it is desirable that by-laws should be so free from doubt that 'he who runs may read,' yet as even in the case of higher legislative bodies, this is not always possible; and the Court should strive so to construe a by-law as to give reasonable effect to the object aimed at" (m).

The Courts will not subject the by-laws of municipal corporations to a scrutiny unreasonably rigid (n), nor will they quash a by-law because of "a want of a clearness of expression or a difficulty in construing or applying its provisions" (o); and where a by-law is open to two constructions according to one of which it would be illegal the Court will prefer to adopt the other, though in that event the facts of a particular case will constitute a breach of the by-law. (p)

In the cases of Re Smith and Township of Euphemia (q), Dennis v. Hughes (r), Re Brown and County of York (s), McIntyre and Township of Bosanquet (t), Re Thompson and Township of Bedford, (u), Wannamaker v. Green (v), St. Vincent v. Greenfield, (w), by-laws opening, establishing or closing highways were held defective by reason of uncertainty in the description, but see on this point, Re Chambers and Township of Burford (x).

In Re Town of Ingersoll and Carroll, (y) CAMERON, J., evidently thought that a by-law (under s. 641 (10)) for searching for and taking stone and gravel for road repairs should have defined the quantity to be taken and an award thereunder for so much per cord taken was set aside.

But see as to the stricter rules applied to by-laws regulating the carrying on of trades, etc., note (a) to s. 329, post; and for examples of by-laws which have been held void for uncertainty, see Re Harris and City of Hamilton (z) ("no vendor of small wares shall practise his calling (sic) in the J. street market or in the public streets adjacent thereto," Held bad as not specifying the streets intended); Reg. v. Reid (a) (by-law excepting from its operation "the pay day at the Rosamond Woollen Mills"); Re Cloutier (b), (boot and shoe shops to close at 7 p.m. "except during the days on which the exhibition of the Winnipeg Industrial Exhibition Association is being held"); Reg. v. Jim Sing (c), (market fees "to be fixed from time to time by resolution of the council.")

But in Re Cribbin and City of Toronto (d), the use of the words "Sabbath day" meaning Sunday was held not to make a by-law bad for uncertainty, (e) and in Reg. v. McMillan, (f) a by-law under "The Ontario Shops Regulation Act" which excepted from its operation "the days during which The Canada Central Exhibition Association is being held" was sustained, the Court refusing to follow Reg. v. Reid. Per ARMOUR, C. J., "Re Cloutier is not a decision binding on this Court and the (over-ruled) judgment of the Chief Justice in that case commends itself to us rather than the judgment of the Court." And see the language of s. 583 (8*a*) of this Act.

Certainty.

A by-law must be certain and positive in its operation and directed to prohibit some act, or to prescribe how, when or where it may be done.

Therefore a by-law is bad if its terms may be varied by agreement of parties, (g) or if its effect depends upon the consent of a certain number of inhabitant householders; (h) or owners of property adjacent to that affected thereby: (i) or of some official of the corporation or member of the council; (j) or perhaps if it delegates to another body the power of fixing the time during which or the dates on which it shall or shall not have effect. (k)

Reasonableness.

Another essential to the validity of a by-law is that it shall be reasonable. "By-laws which are nugatory and vexatious, unequal, oppressive or manifestly detrimental to the interests of the corporation are void." (l)

"The jurisdiction of testing by-laws by their reasonableness was originally applied in such cases as those of manorial bodies, towns or corporations having inherent powers or general powers conferred by charter of making such by-laws (i. e., 'reasonable by-laws'). As new corporations or local administrative bodies have arisen, the same jurisdiction has been exercised over them." (a)

> "If by-laws (passed under an authority conferred in general terms) are found to be partial and unequal in their operation as between different classes: if they are manifestly unjust: if they disclose bad faith: if they involve such oppressive or gratuitous interference with the rights of those subject to them as can find no justification in the minds of reasonable men,—the Court may well say 'Parliament never intended to give authority to make such rules. They are unreasonable and ultra vires.'" (b)

Many of the earlier cases relating to the reasonableness of by-laws have arisen upon the by-laws of trading guilds or corporations passed for regulating trade, or upon by-laws made by railway and canal companies under s. 7 of the Imp. Stat. 17-18 V. c. 31, ("The Railway and Canal Traffic Act, 1854"); but in more recent times the question of reasonableness has been often discussed in reference to by-laws of municipal corporations, local highway and sanitary authorities, etc. (c) A by-law of a Local Board requiring a written notice with plans, etc., to be left with the clerk at least within one month before the commencement of any new building was held unreasonable, (d) but in Hall v. Nixon, (e) the Court of Queen's Bench refused to follow this decision, and held that a by-law which required that every person intending to erect a new building should give 14 days' notice to the Local Board of his intention and deliver plans to them at their office was a reasonable and valid by-law.

Under a Statute empowering a Local Board to make by-laws with respect to the drainage of buildings and to water closets, privies, ash-pits, and cess-pools, etc., a by-law was passed that "no dwelling house shall be erected without having at the rear or side thereof a good and sufficient back street or roadway at least 12 feet wide communicating with some adjoining public street or highway for the purpose of affording access to the privy or ash-pit of that house." The Court of Queen's Bench held the by-law invalid as unreasonable, since it might in some cases wholly prevent a person from building on his land,—but one of the Judges thought that a by-law providing that no privy should be constructed unless there was an access thereto by a back street might be good. (f)

A by-law which required that all the grounds, etc., abutting on any street on which there was a common sewer should be drained into such sewer within fourteen days from the advertising of the by-law, was held to be "an unreasonable requirement not falling within a legitimate use of the powers conferred by" what is now s. 551 (2) of this Act. Note (d).

Discriminating by-laws.

By-laws which are not general, i.e., do not operate equally and indiscriminately, are bad. In Re Pirie and Town of Dundas, (h) a by-law under 31 V. c. 30, s. 44 was set aside because it exempted new manufactures, but not those already existing. (i) In Reg. v. Pipe, (j) a by-law under s. 559 (5) for regulating the conveyance of traffic and the width of tires, etc., which was not to apply to certain waggons or to persons conveying therein certain goods passing through the town, was held bad as being unequal. (k)

A by-law passed under s. 2 (2) of "The Ontario Shops Regulation Act," (l) provided, (s. 1) "That all shops, etc., where goods are exposed for sale by retail shall be closed at 7 p.m. on each day of the week, excepting Saturday, from the 15th January to the 15th September," etc., and s. 3 provided that it should not be deemed an infraction of the by-law for any shop-keeper or dealer to supply any article after 7 p.m. to mariners, owners or officers of steam boats or vessels calling or staying at the port of A. It was held that s. 3 was illegal in discriminating against different classes of buyers and different classes of tradesmen, and was in contravention of sub-s. 9 of s. 2 of the Act. (m)

In Rawoni v. City of Montreal, (n) a by-law passed under a Provincial Shops Regulation Act, 57 V. c. 50, (Q.) ordered certain shops to be closed during certain hours at night, but excepted shops where fruit, confectionery, tobacco and liquor by retail were sold. Held, that the by-law was arbitrary and oppressive in so far as it made an unjust discrimination between different classes of merchants selling the same articles, that it was a by-law in restraint of freedom of trade and was null and void.

See also the cases collected in this note under the side head "By-laws not in the Public Interest," and for examples of by-laws which have been held to be unreasonable under the general language of s. 23 of The English Municipal Corporations Act, see the cases collected in note (d) to s. 326 and the notes to s. 586.

But the question whether a by-law is reasonable or not usually depends upon whether it can reasonably be considered as authorized by general words used in the charter or Statute under the presumed authority of which it has been passed. In many of the earlier cases, the Judges in determining upon the reasonableness of by-laws assumed a much larger jurisdiction in this respect than would at present be deemed proper. See Lumley on By-laws, pp. 101 et seq. (o)

But it is now pretty generally conceded that if a Statute gives power to any person or body of persons to make rules for a specific purpose, the reasonableness of such rules, provided they are strictly confined to the purpose for which they are authorized to be made, is not examinable by the judges. (p)

The last five cases are more fully referred to in note (a) to s. 329, and the cases of Re Barclay and Darlington, Re Greystock and Otonabee and Re Brodie and Bowmanville, infra in this note under "Bona fides."

The question, therefore, whether a municipal by-law is or is not reasonable appears to be, as a rule, only a branch of the question whether it is or is not ultra vires: (a) and in Reg. v. Greenville (b), O'Connor, J., expresses the opinion that the reasonableness of such a by-law where the council have power to legislate in regard to that particular subject matter, can be considered only upon a direct application to quash the by-law and not upon a motion to quash a conviction thereunder.

A by-law cannot be considered unreasonable or illegal if it simply follows the words of a Statute. (c)

Ultra Vires By-law.

If there is no authority, either express or implied, to deal with the subject matter, the by-law is clearly ultra vires the corporation; e.g.—a by-law to indemnify a member of the council for the costs of a contested election (d)—to declare the property-qualification of municipal voters (e):—to remunerate members of the council (before this was authorized by s. 538) (f),—to authorize the lending of municipal funds to ratepayers, (g)—for purchasing land not intended for the use of the corporation, (h) or otherwise appropriating corporate funds for unauthorized objects. (i)

And even where statutory authority exists in relation to the subject matter of a by-law, the powers of the corporation must be exercised strictly within the limits and in the manner prescribed by the Statute (a).

Note (d).

"All by-laws must ever be subject to the general law of the land and subordinate to it" (a).

Repugnant to law.

Therefore a by-law must not impose unauthorized penalties nor apply penalties otherwise than as directed by Statute; (b) nor substitute for the method of providing for the support of public schools, which has been laid down by the Legislature, a wholly different system devised by the municipal council (c), nor provide for the appointment of arbitrators in a different manner from that prescribed by ss. 450 et seq. of this Act (d), nor may the rights of property nor the statutory mode of levying a tax be departed from (e), nor can a by-law be sustained which commands anything contrary to public policy or public morality (f), nor one which assumes to shift upon the shoulders of another body a liability imposed by Statute upon a municipality (g).

See further as to by-laws affecting public highways, s. 632 and note (a) thereto.

Bona fides.

But by-laws even though reasonably within the powers of the corporation, and not at variance with the general law of the land, may be set aside if it be shewn that in passing them the council have not exercised bona fide the powers conferred upon them by the Legislature. powered township councils to pass by-laws "for limiting the number of inns or houses of entertainment" in the municipality, and 16 V. c. 184, s. 4, required the assent of the electors to any by-law "for prohibiting the sale of spirituous liquors . . . in such municipality." A by-law limiting the number of licenses to one in a township 10 miles square and containing 6,000 inhabitants (besides those of a large village situated within the township), was set aside as unreasonable (h). Per ROBINSON, C.J.,

> "It was not a bona fide exercise of the discretion of limiting the number of licensed taverns . . . it was in reality a prohibitory measure . . . and was intended to give the go-by to a legislative enactment, which gave the inhabitants of the township a direct voice upon the question of prohibition."

So in Re Brodie and Town of Bowmanville (i), a by-law under 39 V. c. 26, s. 2 (3), limiting to one the number of shop licenses in a town was quashed as being in effect prohibitory and creating a monopoly.

A later example of a by-law set aside as not being a bona fide exercise of statutory powers is McMillan v. Portage la Prairie (j), the facts of which are stated in note (a) to s. 559 post.

A by-law for the division of the village of Rigaud into electoral districts passed to favour the majority of the council to the prejudice of the minority, whose term of office (mandat) would only terminate after the elections of the month of January then next, and to control (by means of this division) the general election which would thus become necessary, was set aside as unjust, partial and oppressive (a).

By-laws not in the public interest.

So a by-law will be held bad when it appears to have been passed not to subserve the interests of the corporation, i.e., the public, but those of some private person or class of persons (b).

By-laws partly good and partly bad.

A by-law may be good in part and bad in part (c); but that can only be so when the two parts are entire and distinct from each other (d).

Thus, if a by-law consists of several distinct and independent provisions, although one or more of these may be void, yet the rest of the by-law may be valid. (a) That is, if the valid portion is sufficient without that which is void, to constitute a complete by-law. (b)

But if a by-law be entire, and one part void, it is void altogether. Thus, a by-law which, instead of being limited to those within the jurisdiction of the corporation, professed to extend to others also, was held void not only as to the latter but also as to members of the corporation. (c)

Note (e).

Recital of authority.

It is not necessary to recite in a by-law the authority of the council. This will be presumed until the contrary is proved. (d)

Mistake as to jurisdiction.

A city corporation, under a misconception as to the extent of its statutory powers, passed a by-law prohibiting peddling on certain streets. The plaintiff having declined to take out a license containing this illegal restriction was interfered with by the police, and a license omitting the restriction was refused him. Held, that he had no right of action, and that a municipal corporation is not liable in damages for attempting to enforce a by-law under a misconstruction of its powers, unless such liability is expressly or impliedly imposed by Statute. (e)

(e) "Unless otherwise authorized or provided." The cases in which authority is expressly given or provision made for dispensing with a by-law are comparatively few and unimportant. See ss. 19, 24, 26 (1), (6), 58 (4), 210, 265, 271, 324, 326, 574 (2b) and R.S.O. c. 243, s. 6. In Township of Pembroke v. Canada Central R. W. Co., (a) it was held that the consent of the municipal authority—which is required by s. 183 of "The Railway Act of Canada" before a railway can be carried along the line of an existing highway,—may be given by resolution, and that the above section does not apply to powers exercised not under "The Municipal Act," but under special Acts passed for other purposes and by a different Legislature. But this section declares that in all other cases the powers of the council shall be exercised by by-law. No language could be plainer, yet no provision of the Act is more often disobeyed. The result is illegality of procedure, and in very many cases unnecessary and costly litigation. An order or resolution duly signed and sealed is virtually a by-law; but many orders and resolutions pass by mere vote, without the formalities required in the case of a by-law by the regulations which the council have themselves made for governing their proceedings. (b) Such resolutions have not the force nor effect of by-laws.(c) A by-law should not be dispensed with except in a very clear case. (d) In fact, whenever a municipal council is in doubt whether it can or cannot do a particular thing by order or resolution, it would be much safer and wiser to use a by-law. Were this rule understood and followed it would prevent much confusion in the administration of municipal affairs. Another common but erroneous belief is, that a municipal council can by order or resolution do that which if done through a by-law, would be illegal. This is absurd. No municipal council can do informally that which it has no power to do directly and formally. (e) Municipal corporations, however, may become liable as wrongdoers for things done by direction of the council without by-laws. (f)

General power to make regulations;

To repeal, alter, etc. by-laws.

326. Every council may make regulations not specifically provided for by this Act, and not contrary to law, for governing the proceedings of the council, the conduct of its members, the appointing or calling of special meetings of the council, and generally such other regulations as the good of the inhabitants of the municipality requires, and may repeal, alter and amend its by-laws, save as by this Act restricted. 55 V. c. 42, s. 283.

(a) "Every council may make regulations not specifically provided for by this Act . . . for" etc.

These regulations should be made by by-law, (s. 325.) The fact that a charter empowered a select body to make by-laws touching certain specified matters was held not to take away from the body at large the power (incidental to every corporation) of making by-laws relating to other matters not specified in the charter (a). Indeed it may be fairly argued that the object of specifying, in ss. 531-597, and in other parts of this Act, a long list of matters in respect of which councils may pass by-laws was not to attempt an exhaustive enumeration or a complete definition of the powers of municipal corporations in this Province, but rather to discriminate between the classes of subjects which may be dealt with by county, city, town, village and township councils respectively (b).

(b) "And not contrary to law." By-laws which are contrary or repugnant to the laws and Statutes of the realm are void and of no effect. "All by-laws must ever be subject to the general law of the realm and subordinate to it" (c). "Corporations cannot make by-laws contrary to their constitution. If they do so they act without authority" (d). In case of conflict between Statutes and by-laws the latter must give way (e).

But where power to pass by-laws on a subject is clearly given to a municipal corporation "the same act may constitute an offence against both the State and the municipal corporation and both may punish it without violation of any constitutional principle" (f): a dictum which is illustrated by numerous examples in the notes to ss. 549-556 relating to public morals and public health (g).

(c) "For governing the proceedings of the council," etc. A by-law to regulate the proceedings of a council required that every by-law should receive three readings, and that no by-law which had a tendency to increase the burdens of the people should be finally passed on the day it was introduced except by a two-thirds vote of the whole council. A by-law to limit the number of tavern and shop licenses to be issued in the municipality, and to fix the sum to be paid therefor (h),—and which therefore required a two-thirds vote—was read three times on the same day, and on the third reading was declared to have been passed, but the vote on such third reading was 8 yeas to 5 nays, ten being necessary to constitute a two-thirds vote. A special meeting of the council having been called for the next evening, the by-law received a third reading by the necessary two thirds vote. Held, (by ROBERTSON, J.), that the by-law must be quashed: for, not having received the necessary number of votes when it first came up for a third reading, it could not be validated by what took place at the subsequent meeting (j). In Dwyre v. City of Ottawa (k), a by-law under this section required that work exceeding $200 in value should be done by contract after tenders had been called for; but the council, in accepting tenders for paving a street, stipulated that the successful tenderers should agree to construct at the same prices and upon the same conditions any similar pavements required by the city during the year; and other contracts were accordingly entered into with these tenderers without calling for fresh tenders. After the work under these contracts had been commenced, and while it was yet in progress, a ratepayer obtained from ROBERTSON, J. an interim injunction restraining the contractors from further proceeding therewith and the city from paying any more money on account thereof. On appeal to the Court of Appeal it was held that as the plaintiff's legal right was not clear, and as serious loss and public inconvenience would result from stopping the work, while no irreparable loss would result from refusing an interlocutory injunction, it should not have been granted. Notes (c), (d).

Town of Ingersoll, OSLER, J.A., says (p. 428) "the case is not very clearly reported, and it is unnecessary to say whether I agree with it on the point for which it was cited."

(d) "And generally such other regulations as the good of the inhabitants of the municipality requires." "The Municipal Corporations Act, 1882," (Imp. Stat. 45-46 V. c. 50), instead of attempting to enumerate in detail the matters in respect of which by-laws may be passed by the corporations to which the Act applies, sums up their jurisdiction in a single section by enacting, (s. 23), that

> "The council may from time to time make such by-laws as to them seem meet for the good rule and government of the borough and for prevention and suppression of nuisances not already punishable in a summary manner by virtue of any Act in force throughout the borough."

words which have received (especially of late) a very large and liberal interpretation.

So in the charter of many American cities, a "general welfare clause" authorizing the council "to ordain and publish such acts, laws and regulations . . . as shall be needful to the good order of the city," or "to pass such ordinances as the council may deem expedient to maintain the peace, good government and order of the city," or a grant of "all powers and rights incident to municipal corporations and necessary for the proper government of the same," have been held to include many of the powers in relation to the protection of life and property, public morals, public health, public highways, the regulation of trade, the suppression of nuisances, etc., which are expressly enumerated in ss. 540-586 of this Act.(a)

Authority to make by-laws "for the good rule and government of the borough" (which are the words used in the Imperial Statute), has reference to the government of the borough as a corporation and the making of regulations for carrying into effect the purposes for which it was incorporated; but such general powers do not without more enable a council to carry out any unreasonable ideas of general "good government." (b)

Subject, however, to the limitations indicated in this section and in note (d) to s. 325, it is obvious that there are still many unenumerated subjects to which the general language of this section is applicable, and in respect of which municipal councils in this Province have therefore the power to legislate.

In Re Richmond and Township of Front of Leeds and Lansdowne, (c) SIR JOHN ROBINSON considered that, unless expressly debarred from doing so, a council might under the authority of this section pass a by-law applying only within a limited area of the municipality. He says (p. 569)

> "We cannot lay it down as a general principle . . . . that "the good of the inhabitants of the township" . . . . may not require local regulations of various kinds . . . It is for the municipal council to judge of that . . . The question is rather whether there are not excepted cases in which . . . the council . . . has not such discretion; and whether this is not one of those cases."

So, in Ross v. United Counties of York and Peel, (d) a section of a by-law prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors to idiots and insane persons was held good, though not expressly authorized by the Statute; in Irwin v. Township of Mariposa, (e) GWYNNE, J., (at p. 371) upheld the validity of a by-law indemnifying a township officer for all lawful acts done by him in his official capacity, and in Re Snell and Town of Belleville, (f) the Court refused to quash a by-law which required that every person selling meat or articles of provision by retail . . shall provide himself with weights, scales and measures, etc. (g)

Sec. 326.

Note (d).

In Walker v. Stretton, (a) LORD RUSSELL OF KILLOWEN, C. J., lays it down as a general rule that "the Court ought as far as possible to support by-laws made by local authorities unless it can be clearly seen that the by-law was made without jurisdiction and was unreasonable" and that Judges "should not willingly pick holes in rules which deal with local matters and local requirements which the local authorities are often better able to judge of than the Courts." And in a later case, Kruse v. Johnson, (b) the same learned Judge, after pointing out that the majority of the (English) cases in which the validity of by-laws has been discussed relate to the by-laws of railway companies, deck companies and other commercial corporations, expresses the opinion that a much more liberal rule should be applied to the by-laws of representative public bodies entrusted by Parliament with legislative powers for the general good, and that such a by-law

> "should not be set aside as unreasonable merely because particular Judges may think that it goes further than is necessary or convenient, or because it is not accompanied by qualifications or exceptions which some Judges think ought to have been there. In matters which directly or mainly concern the people . . . who have the right to choose those whom they think best fitted to represent them in their local governing bodies, such representatives may be trusted to understand their own requirements better than (some) Judges."

A by-law which provided that "no person shall, to the annoyance or disturbance of residents or passengers, keep or manage a shooting gallery, swing boat, roundabout or other like thing in any street or public place or on land adjoining or near to such street or public place," was attacked on the ground that the town-council had no right to pass legislation affecting private property or creating a new criminal offence; but the by-law was held good under the general authority conferred by s. 23 of "The Municipal Corporations Act, 1882," above quoted. (c) So by-laws (passed under the same authority) were upheld which enacted that no person should frequent or use a street or other public place for the purpose of book-making and betting or wagering or agreeing to bet or wager with any person (d); that no person should use indecent or obscene language in any public place to the annoyance of the public (e); that a person should not assemble with other persons in any street for the purpose of betting (f); that persons driving or having charge of vehicles during the hours between sunset and 2 a.m. should (except between the rising and the setting of the moon) carry lighted lamps attached to their vehicles so as to show light in the direction in which such persons were proceeding (g); that no person should sound . . . any musical instrument . . . within 50 yards of any dwelling house after being required by any constable or by any inmate of such house . . . to desist (h). But a by-law (passed under the same authority) which prohibited the use of obscene language in a street or public place or on land adjacent thereto was held to be invalid as repugnant to the general law because it was not limited to the use of such language to the annoyance of the public, nor did it contain any limitation to the like effect. (i) So a by-law providing that "no person not being a member of Her Majesty's Army or Auxiliary Forces, under the orders of his commanding officer, shall sound or play upon any musical instrument upon any street in the borough on Sunday" was held unreasonable and void for stating no qualification or exception in any circumstances, (j) as was also a by-law prohibiting parents from allowing any child under 12 years of age to sell after 10 p.m., (k) and a by-law that every person who shall sing or play a noisy instrument, or sing or preach in any street without a previously written license from the mayor,—since it would enable the mayor to license a nuisance or to prohibit a lawful act which was not a nuisance. Notes (d), (e), (f); (a).

Express authority has, however, been conferred in this Province upon the Boards of Police Commissioners in cities and the councils of towns to regulate or prohibit the playing of bands or musical instruments in any street (s. 484 (5)), and as to McDonald v. Lochrane, see s. 484 (4).

(e) "And may repeal, alter and amend its by-laws." It need hardly be mentioned that the municipal body which has power to make has power to repeal by-laws; it being of the very nature of legislative power that, by timely changes in the rule it prescribes, it should be enabled to meet the exigencies of the occasion (a). Repeals cannot be made to operate retrospectively to the prejudice of vested rights (b), unless for the purpose of abating an actual nuisance (c).

(f) "Save as by this Act restricted." There are certain by-laws, such as those authorizing the issue of debentures (s. 392), or granting exemptions from taxation (s. 411), upon the faith of which third persons act and change their circumstances, and from which the municipality in general derives an immediate benefit. These, being in the nature of contracts, rather than ordinary regulations, cannot be repealed until the loan or debt arising thereout or dependent thereupon is satisfied, or so long as the conditions upon which the exemption depends are fulfilled (s. 392). Hence it is that in this section the power given is to repeal, alter or amend by-laws in general, "save as by this Act restricted (d).

Council a continuing body.

Taken from 49 V. c. 37, s. 63 (1886), the wording of which has been altered in the Revision of 1897 under the authority of 60 V. c. 3, s. 3.

(a) Prior to this enactment each new council was considered to be a distinct legislative body, and, like a newly elected Parliament, incapable of carrying on proceedings initiated, and not completed by its predecessor, but obliged to commence de novo (e). This frequently resulted in much delay and inconvenience, especially in cases where the passing of a by-law is required to be preceded by advertisement or notice for a certain period, e.g., by-laws requiring the assent of the electors (s. 338), local improvement by-laws (s. 671), or drainage by-laws (R.S.O. c. 226, ss. 21-45). In The Canada Atlantic R. W. Co. v. City of Ottawa (f), a by-law voted on in 1873 was passed by the council of 1874. Held, not a compliance with s. 236 of the Mun. Act then in force (g), which required that such a by-law should be "passed by the council which submitted the same." But see now s. 373 of the present Act.

Certain acts not to be done by councils after 31st December.

328. No council of any local municipality shall, after the 31st day of December in the year for which its members were elected, pass any by-law or resolution for the payment of money or which involves directly or indirectly the payment of money, nor shall they enter into any contract or obligation on the part of the municipality, nor shall they appoint to or dismiss from office any officer under the control of the council, or do any other corporate act after said day except in case of extreme urgency; but the council may, before the 31st day of December, do any necessary business which, having regard to the circumstances, may be done at such time, and which they are authorized to do at their last meeting. 59 V. c. 51, s. 7.

Secs. 328, 329.

Notes (a); (a).

Taken from 59 V. c. 51, s. 7 (1896).

(a) During the period which intervenes between the annual municipal elections (ss. 95, 128), and the organization of the new council (s. 259), the old council remains in office (s. 95); but such members thereof as have not been re-elected may be in the meantime less amenable to the controlling influence of public opinion than if they had again to give an account of their stewardship. It has therefore been found advisable to limit the powers which may be exercised by the council during this period of comparative irresponsibility.

329. In all cases where, under the provisions of this Act, or of any other Act, any council or the board of commissioners of police in any city, or either of them, is or are authorized to pass by-laws for licensing any trade, calling, business, or profession, or the person carrying on or engaged in any such trade, calling, business or profession, the council and the board of commissioners of police, respectively, shall, subject to sections 581, 583 and 585 of this Act, have power to pass by-laws fixing the sum to be paid for a license for exercising any such trade, calling, business, or profession, in the municipality, and for enforcing payment of the license fee, and for determining the time during which the license shall be in force. 55 V. c. 42, s. 285; 59 V. c. 51, s. 31 (1), part.

Traders' license fees.

Taken from 42 V. c. 31, s. 23 (1879).

(a) The Act empowers councils or Boards of Commissioners of Police to pass by laws "for regulating" or "for licensing and regulating," or "for licensing, regulating and governing," or "for preventing or regulating and licensing" persons engaged in carrying on certain trades and occupations or doing certain kinds of business, etc., within the municipality. (a)

By-laws in restraint of trade are bad as contrary to public policy. (b) But they are valid when they regulate the manner of carrying on trade within the borough, so far as to prevent monopoly or the sale of unfit commodities, or to insure the proper conduct of those who trade therein. (c) So a by-law which prohibited the slaughter of any animal within the walls of a city was held good, since it did not absolutely restrain the trade of a butcher but only regulated its exercise and prevented the nuisance which would arise from the slaughter of beasts within the city. (d) Authority to "regulate" or to "regulate and govern" the exercise of a trade or calling does not empower the council to prohibit its exercise (for which express words are necessary) (e) nor will it (without more) confer a right to compel those carrying on the trade to take out a license, and pay a license fee, though it does authorize the council to require a certificate that their regulations have been complied with. (f) It is in the nature of a police power; and is conferred only where it is advisable for the protection of the public that the local authority should have jurisdiction to impose, if necessary, restrictions upon that right which ordinarily belongs to every citizen of carrying on his lawful business without interference provided he complies with the general law of the land. (g) It has, for example, been deemed expedient for the protection of public morals to authorize the regulation of the liquor traffic; (h)—the use of spirituous liquors in gaols and prisons; (i)—to prevent minors from frequenting billiard rooms, etc., (j)—to authorize municipalities to restrict the sale and gift of intoxicating drink to children, apprentices and minors (k)—to provide for the inspection of bathing houses and boat houses so as to prevent their use for illegal or immoral purposes; (l)—to license and regulate keepers of billiard and bagatelle tables, (m) and bill-posters; (n)—to prevent or regulate and license bowling alleys, circuses, menageries, roller skating rinks and exhibitions of wax works, etc.—and see as to the "curfew bell" note (q) to s. 549.

So in the interest of the public health, power is conferred to regulate the erection or occupation of dwellings on narrow streets or in crowded or unsanitary localities (a), —the preparation and sale of food and drink (b),—to license and regulate milk vendors (c), plumbers (d), tobacconists (e), eating houses, etc. (f), and the carrying on of certain trades and occupations which do or may occasion nuisances injurious to public health (g).

And the grant of jurisdiction to local authorities to regulate and license the keepers of second-hand shops, junk shops and livery stables, carters, teamsters, cabmen, —to regulate the hours of labour in certain callings,—to regulate and control children engaged in certain occupations (h),—to regulate the weight of bread (i) or the weighing and selling of other marketable articles (j),—to license and regulate auctioneers (k), ferries (l), hawkers, pedlars and petty chapmen (m), keepers of intelligence offices for servants, etc., (n) "runners" for hotels, lodging houses, etc. (o) may be explained in each of the cases enumerated by the existence of a necessity (real or imaginary) for protecting the public, and especially those least able to protect themselves, against probable fraud or injustice (p).

But by-laws of this class should be strictly construed, and any ambiguity or doubt as to the extent of the statutory authority of municipalities in respect thereof is to be determined in favor of the public, as against the grantee of the power, especially when the by-law is in derogation of common law rights and of the liberty of every subject to employ himself in any lawful trade or calling (q).

Even where power to regulate is accompanied by express power to license it has been held in the United States that this does not—(except perhaps in the case of exhibitions and amusements)—confer the right to use the license as a means of taxation with a view to revenue, but only to charge a reasonable fee for the license itself and the labour attendant upon its issue (r).

But even in the United States this doctrine is not universally accepted (s)—and Pigeon v. City of Montreal (t) shews that, at least where the power to license is coupled (as is usually the case in this Act) with express power "to fix the sum to be paid for such license," the council is not limited to the exaction of a nominal fee, as it is by s. 330 in the case of a certificate of compliance with regulations in regard to any trade or calling.

In Re Neilly and Town of Owen Sound (u), a by-law under s. 583 (4) fixing at $300 the sum to be paid for a license to keep a billiard table in the town for hire was held not to be ultra vires as imposing a fee which was so excessive as to be unreasonable or prohibitory. Per HAGARTY, C.J., C.P., "the trade or profession of keeping a billiard table for profit is not like that of buying or selling the necessaries of life. . . It is not like a license to a butcher or a baker or a seller of firewood . . . but merely a matter of pleasure or luxury." (v)

But power "to regulate" or "to pass by-laws for regulating the houses or places licensed" will not authorize a by-law that "in case the (licensee) is convicted of a breach of any of the provisions of the by-law, he shall in addition to the penalty, absolutely forfeit his license for the remainder of the current year" (w). Nor is such authority conferred by the (concluding) words of this section "for determining the time during which the license shall be in force" (h), for the power to create a forfeiture of property is one which must be expressly given . . . and such an extraordinary power is least of all to be inferred when the Legislature has provided other means of enforcing by-laws by fine and amerciament (e).

Nor is a general authority to pass by-laws "for regulating" or "for licensing and regulating" or "for licensing, regulating and governing," the carrying on of a trade or business, or to make "such other regulations as the good of the inhabitants of the municipality requires" (s. 326), sufficient to warrant a by-law which results or may result either in a total prohibition of the trade, etc., (d), or in the creation of a monopoly therein (e).

> "The absolute prohibition of any particular occupation, not in itself unlawful, and only a nuisance from its abuse, cannot, I think, be held to come fairly within the general power to make by-laws for the peace, welfare and good government of a municipality, when we look at the authority specially given in the same Act over particular matters, some of them so nearly of a similar character as almost to warrant the application of the maxim expressio unius est exclusio alterius" (f).

"There is a great difference between prevention and regulation . . . and between restraint and regulation . . . No man should be prevented from the exercise of a lawful calling by mere inference" (g). So, under a power to pass by-laws "for licensing, regulating and governing hawkers," etc., a by-law prohibiting sales during certain hours except at specified places, e.g., the market place, etc., was held ultra vires of the City of Vancouver (h), and a by-law prohibiting hawkers and pedlers from exercising their trade on several of the principal streets of a city was held to be beyond the power conferred by ss. 580 (4) and 583 (14) of this Act upon the municipalities therein named to pass by-laws "for preventing or regulating the sale by retail in the public streets or vacant lots adjacent thereto of" certain articles, and "for licensing, regulating and governing hawkers, pedlars," etc. (i).

Sec. 329

Note (a)

Per Lord DAVEY, (p. 93)—

> "No doubt the regulation and governance of a trade may involve the imposition of restrictions upon its exercise, both as to time and also, to a certain extent, as to place, where such restrictions are, in the opinion of the public authority, necessary to prevent a nuisance or for the maintenance of order. But . . . there is a marked distinction to be drawn between the prohibition and prevention of a trade and the regulating or governance of it. Indeed the power to regulate and govern seems to imply the continued existence of that which is to be regulated and governed. The examination of other sections of the Act shews that when the Legislature intended to give power to prevent or prohibit they did so by express words" (j).

And, especially in the earlier cases decided in this Province, it was required that by-laws passed under a general authority to regulate, should, in the opinion of the Courts, be "reasonable." The Act, 13-14 V, c. 65, s. 4, which empowered municipal councils to pass by-laws "for regulating taverns, inns and houses of public entertainment" was held to authorize a by-law requiring a person applying for a license to produce a certificate of honesty and good moral character signed by four municipal electors residing in the locality, etc.; to give a bond that he would abide by all the township by-laws regulating houses of public entertainment; to close his bar and bar-room at 10 p.m., and keep it closed on Sunday and not to sell to persons in a state of intoxication (k).

In Baker v. Town of Paris (a), a by-law (passed under the same authority) required (clause (6)) that:

> "Every innkeeper shall shut up his bar-room, the outer as well as the inner doors each night at 11 o'clock and keep them closed during the night except on Saturday night when they shall be closed at the same hour and not opened till 1 a. m. on Monday except for the entrance of himself or his servants during which time no spirituous or intoxicating liquors shall be sold or furnished to anyone" and (Clause 7).

> "If any dispute shall arise between the guests and the innkeeper it shall be referred to any Justice of the Peace, whose decision by his verbal order, as to the quantum of the charge shall be final."

Held, that clause 7 and the final words (in italics) of clause 6 were ultra vires as an unreasonable exercise of the power of regulation given by the Statute. So regulations "that no innkeeper shall sell or permit the drinking of any intoxicating liquors on the Sabbath Day except in case of sickness, or to travellers" and "that no innkeeper shall be allowed to sell, give, loan, barter or dispose . . . of any intoxicating liquors after 10 p. m. or before 5 a. m. travellers excepted" were held unreasonable and void (b) and similar decisions were given as to a regulation "that the bar-room of every licensed tavern . . . shall be closed and unoccupied except by members of the family etc., and shall have no light except the light of day" from 12 midnight to 5 a. m. (c) and "that no intoxicating liquors shall be sold in any tavern to any person who has the habit of drinking intoxicating liquors to excess, nor to the wife &c. of any such person, nor to any person concerning whom notice has been given to the landlord by the husband, etc., of such person or by any J. P. or Inspector that such person is in the habit of drinking intoxicating liquors to excess (d).

But the following were held to be reasonable and valid by-laws under a general power of regulation:—"that no person who has not a tavern license shall exhibit or suffer or permit to be exhibited or continued over his or her door or otherwise (the sign) "Licensed to sell wine, beer or other spirituous or fermented liquors" or the words "Bar-room" or "Tavern" or "Inn" or "Saloon" or any other word or signs or sign boards indicating that the person keeping it is authorized to keep . . . any house or place of public entertainment" (e) ; that it should be unlawful to sell or give intoxicating liquor of any sort to any child, apprentice, idiot or insane person without the consent of the parent or legal protector of such child (f) ; that the consent required by 36 V. c. 48, s. 379 (31) (g) to authorize the sale or gift of intoxicating drink to a child, apprentice or servant should be evidenced by a written order (h) and "that the windows of every bar-room shall during the time the bar-room is required to be kept closed, have at least the lower half of the whole width uncovered by blinds, shutters" etc (i). In that case OSLER, J. A. says (j) "I think that the decision in Reg. v. Belmont (k) has been to say the least, very much limited by the subsequent case of Hodge v. The Queen, 9 App. Cas. 117" (l). The decisions as to s. 11 of the by-law which was in question in Re Bright and Toronto (m) ss. 5-9 of the by-law in Re Brodie and Town of Bowmanville (n), and ss. 3, 7 and the last clause of s. 5 of the by-law in Re Arkell and Town of St. Thomas (o), turned upon the construction of express enactments relative to the subject matter thereof respectively, and not upon the scope of a general authority "to regulate."

In Reg. v. Hodge, (a) where the conviction of the defendant for permitting a billiard table to be used in his tavern and a game of billiards played thereon during the time prohibited by "The Liquor License Act" for the sale of liquor therein, contrary to a resolution of License Commissioners passed under their general power to regulate taverns and shops, was attacked on the ground that the Statute giving this power was ultra vires of the Provincial Legislature, it seems to have nowhere been seriously urged that the resolution itself exceeded the limits of the jurisdiction which the Statute assumed to confer. And see the extract from the judgment of Chief Justice SEDGEWICK given in note (g) to s. 583, the authorities cited in note (d) to s. 325, and the language of the present Chief Justice of England relative to the limits of judicial authority in determining whether a by-law is or is not reasonable, (b) taverns and shops in a municipality to a single one. (d)

(b) "Or to impose a special tax on any person exercising any trade or calling.

In Farquhar v. City of Toronto, (e) a by-law that "all wood brought into the city for sale shall be subject to a fee or charge of five cents per cord" was quashed as being an attempt to impose a tax for which there was no express authority. So in Re Campbell and City of Kingston, (f) so much of a market by-law as declared that all boats, rafts, cribs or railway cars, bringing to the city or into the harbour for delivery at or consumption in the city, firewood, coal, charcoal, etc., should be subject and liable to a toll of twenty-five cents for every ton's capacity, was held to be unauthorized either by s. 562 (7) or s. 580 (12) and to be clearly bad. (g)

(c) "Or to require a license to be taken, etc. . . . unless authorized or required by Statute to do so."

The right to license must be plainly conferred or it will be held not to exist. (h) "Where the Legislature intended to give power to license as well as to regulate they have said so." (i) In Re Fennell and Town of Guelph, (j) a by-law that all persons exercising the trade of a butcher within the town should take out an annual license and pay five shillings therefor, and in Re Snell and Town of Belleville, (k) a regulation that "any person wishing to sell fresh meat in quantities less than a quarter in a shop or stall in Coleman or in Baldwin wards, shall before the first of March in each year, apply in writing to the chairman of the market committee, stating the annual sum he or she will pay in addition to the sum of $40 to obtain a certificate from the proper authority authorizing the holder of the certificate to expose for sale and sell fresh meat in one stall in Coleman Ward or in Baldwin Ward for one year from the first of March of the year in which the certificate is obtained," were both (prior to the passing of s. 581) held bad as directly contravening the provisions of this section. (l)

In City of Montreal v. Walker, (m) a Statute authorizing the municipality to "license and regulate junk stores" was held not to warrant the exaction of a revenue duty but only of a moderate fee sufficient to cover the cost of inspection and regulation and of the issue of the licenses. (n) But where a Provincial Statute empowering the City of Montreal to prohibit the sale of certain articles elsewhere than on the public markets provided that the council might by by-law authorize any person to sell these articles beyond the market limits upon obtaining a license "for which he shall pay . . . such sum as may be fixed by such by-law;" and, by another clause, power was given to the city to impose a duty on all private marts for the sale of these articles "with power to regulate and fix the said duty as regards each particular mart as the council may see fit;" a by-law was held valid which fixed the license fee for the right to sell at a private stall at $200 in addition to a 7½ per cent. business tax levied under another by-law. "Had the city council only possessed the police power—and it would have been restricted to that if the mere power to regulate, and for that end to license, had been conferred without any express provision authorizing the exaction of a sum to be paid for the license—there might have been some colour for this contention; but when we find the Legislature authorizing the city council to impose such charge for the license as it should think reasonable, without any reference to the payment being by way of indemnity, as a fee for the trouble and expense involved in issuing the license, an interpretation which would restrict the words in which the Statute is expressed in the way contended for would be nothing short of legislation and is therefore entirely inadmissible."

Powers of municipalities as to telephone companies.

331.—(1) The council of every city, town and village may pass by-laws granting, from time to time, to any telephone company upon such terms and conditions as may be thought expedient, the exclusive right within the municipality for a period not exceeding five years at any one time, to use streets and lanes in the municipality for the purpose of placing in, upon, over or under the same, poles, ducts and wires for the purpose of carrying on a telephone business, and may on behalf of the municipal corporation, enter into agreements with any such company not to give to any other company or person for such period any license or permission to use such streets or lanes for any such purpose; but no such by-law shall be passed, nor shall any such agreement be entered into without the assent of two-thirds of the members of the council of the municipality being present and voting therefor.

Certain rights not affected.

(2) Nothing in the preceding subsection contained, or done by virtue thereof, shall limit or prejudicially affect any rights of any telephone company with respect to the use of streets or lanes for the purposes aforesaid which existed on the 27th day of May, 1893, nor shall the said preceding subsection or any by-law passed or agreement made before the said date, prevent any municipal council from granting to any person permission to use streets or lanes for the purpose of a private telephone line for the use of such person, his servants, clerks or agents, or persons communicating with them.

Agreements made prior to May 17th, 1893.

(3) For the removal of doubts it is hereby declared that all by-laws passed and all agreements made prior to the 17th day of May, 1893, for the granting of the exclusive rights mentioned in subsection 1 for any period not exceeding ten years, are hereby declared to be as valid and binding as they would have been if the said municipalities had had power to grant such exclusive rights. 56 V. c. 35, s. 6 (1-3).

(a) Prior to this enactment contracts had been entered into between the Bell Telephone Company and certain municipalities in Ontario granting to the company for a limited time the exclusive right in this section mentioned. But in Robinson v. City of St. Thomas (a) it was held that a by-law of the defendants ratifying such a contract between the company and the municipality was ultra vires of the municipal corporation, whereupon this section was passed. The date (May 17th, 1893) in subs. 2 is that on which the Act came into force.

The amendment made by 61 V. c. 23, s. 14 is noted post as s. 581a.

Privileges of ferry.

Exception as to certain ferries.

332. A council may grant exclusive privileges in any ferry which is vested in the corporation represented by such council, other than a ferry between a Province of the Dominion of Canada and any British or foreign country, or between two Provinces of the Dominion. 55 V. c. 42, s. 287. See B. N. A. Act, 1867, s. 91 (13); R. S. O. c. 139; and sec. 583 (12), post.

Taken from the Con. Mun. Act of 1873 (36 V. c. 18) s. 225; Cf. 12 V. c. 81, s. 145; 22 V. c. 96, s. 217; 29-30 V. c. 51, s. 221.

(a) Ferries between a Province and any British or foreign country or between two Provinces, are subject to the exclusive legislative authority of the Parliament of Canada. B. N. A. Act, s. 91 (13). As to ferries wholly within the Province, but of which the termini are in different municipalities, it is provided by R. S. O. c. 139, that :—

> 1. Every grant or license of ferry shall be issued by the Lieutenant-Governor under the Great Seal.
> 4. In all cases where a ferry is required over any stream or other water within Ontario, and the two shores of the stream or other water are in different municipalities, such municipalities not being in the same county, the Lieutenant-Governor in Council may grant a license to either of such municipalities exclusively, or to both conjointly, as may be most conducive to the public interest.
> 5. Where a ferry is required over any stream or other water within Ontario, and the two shores of the stream or other water are in different counties, the Lieutenant-Governor may, instead of granting the license to a minor municipality, grant the same to either of the counties or to both jointly, or to one of them jointly with a city or town, or in the manner provided by the preceding section, as he may consider most conducive to the public interest.
> 6. The license shall confer a right on the municipality or municipalities to establish a ferry from shore to shore on such stream or other water, and with such limit and extent as may appear advisable to the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, and be expressed in the license.
> 7. The license shall be upon condition that the craft to be used for the purpose of the ferry shall be propelled by steam, and be of such dimensions, and the engine thereof be of such power as the Lieutenant-Governor in Council may direct; and upon such further conditions as the Lieutenant Governor in Council may think fit and express in the license.
> 8. The council of the municipality to which such license is issued, may pass by-laws, not contravening the terms of the license, declaring their determination to sub-let the said ferry, and may sub-let the same for the price, and upon such terms, and to such parties, and on such conditions, and at such rates of ferriage to be paid, as the council may think fit.
> 9. Where a license is granted to two municipalities jointly, no by-law of the council of one of such municipalities with respect to the ferry shall have any force until a by-law has been passed in similar terms, as nearly as may be, by the other council.

Sections 10-13 of the Act relate to the rights of those who hold a ferry license direct from the Crown under s. 1, supra. Sections 14-15 (quoted in note (t) to s. 583, post) relate to the power of municipalities to license and regulate ferries, the termini of which are wholly within the same municipality.

A license by the Crown to the town of Belleville giving the right to ferry "between the town of Belleville to Ameliasburg" was held a sufficient grant of ferriage to and from the two places named : (a)

(a) Anderson v. Jellett, 9 S. C. R. 1 ; s. c. sub. nom. Jellett v. Anderson, 27 Grant, 411 ; 7 A. R. 341.

"I think there can be no doubt that what was granted was a ferry both ways. We cannot construe the words of the letters patent literally—so construed, they would be insensible; we must either reject the word "to" and substitute the conjunction "and" for it, or we must reject "between" and substitute "from." It seems to me that the argument in favor of the former construction is conclusive. The ferry was being established for the use and benefit of the public, and we must therefore so interpret the grant as best to sustain that object." (b)

How by-laws to be authenticated.

333. Every by-law shall be under the seal of the corporation, and shall be signed by the head of the corporation, or by the person presiding at the meeting at which the by-law was passed, and by the clerk of the corporation. 55 V. c. 42, s. 288.

Taken from the Act of 1849, (12 V. c. 81), s. 198.

(a) "Shall be under the seal of the corporation." It is the corporate seal which distinguishes a by-law from a mere resolution, which is simply an expression of the opinion of the council. Unless the seal is affixed it is not a by-law; (a) As to what is a sufficient seal, and the cases in which the municipality will be estopped from setting up the want of a seal, see note (a) to s. 9.

(b) "Shall be signed by the head of the corporation." This also is essential to the validity of a by-law. (b) Being a statutory duty, its performance would probably be enforced by mandamus. (c) But the demand, which is an essential pre-requisite to the application for a mandatory order, should be made upon the officers named, and where it was addressed not to them but to the municipal corporation a mandamus was refused. (d) In Re Preston and Township of Manvers, (e) the reeve of a township being opposed to a by-law regularly passed while he was present and presiding, refused to sign it or affix the seal. By direction of the council, the deputy-reeve then took the chair, and signed and sealed the by-law. Held, valid, and the Court discharged with costs a rule afterwards obtained by the reeve to quash it. As to by-laws of a Board of Police Commissioners, see s. 485.

Evidence of.

Taken from the Act of 1849, (12 V. c. 81), s. 198.

(a) Similar provision is made by s. 485 as to by-laws of Boards of Police Commissioners. But for these provisions, it would be necessary to produce and prove the original by-law (a). "The Municipal Corporations Act, 1882" (b), contains a similar provision, s. 24. Where on a trial on a charge of being a transient trader without a license, contrary to a municipal by-law, no copy thereof, certified by the clerk to be a true copy, and under the corporate seal, was given in evidence; but a by-law stated by the solicitor for the complainant to be the original by-law, was read to the defendant in Court, it was held that the requirements of the above section not having been complied with, the conviction was invalid and must be quashed (c). This is the general and proper method of proving a by-law (d). On a motion to quash a by-law, order or resolution, the copy of the by-law filed is not required to be verified by the signature of the head of the council (e). Sec. 710 provides for the case where a conviction is attacked on the ground that the by-law was not properly proved before the magistrate.

By-laws requiring assent of the Lieutenant Governor.

335. The facts by this Act required to be recited in any by-law which requires the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, shall, before the by-law receives such approval, be verified by solemn declaration by the head of the council, and by the treasurer and clerk thereof, and by such other person, and on such other evidence, as to the Lieutenant-Governor in Council satisfactorily proves the facts so recited; or in case of the death or absence of any of the municipal officers hereinbefore mentioned, upon the declaration of any other member of the council, whose declaration the Lieutenant-Governor in Council accepts. 55 V. c. 42, s. 290.

DIVISION II.—OBJECTIONS BY RATEPAYERS, (SECS. 336, 337).

Secs. 336, 337.
Note (a).

336. In case a person rated on the assessment roll of a municipality, or of any locality therein, objects to the passing of a by-law, the passing of which is to be preceded by the application of a certain number of the rateable inhabitants of such municipality or locality, he shall, on petitioning the council, be at liberty to attend in person, or by counsel or solicitor, before the council at the time at which the by-law is intended to be considered, or before a committee of the council appointed to hear evidence thereon, and to produce evidence that the necessary notice of the application for the by-law was not given, or that any of the signatures to the application are not genuine, or were obtained upon incorrect statements, and that the proposed by-law is contrary to the wishes of the persons whose signatures were so obtained, and that the remaining signatures do not amount to the number, or represent the amount of property, necessary to the passing of the by-law. 55 V. c. 42, s. 291.

Opposition to by-laws.

How to be made.

337. If the council is satisfied upon the evidence that the application for the by-law did not contain the names of a sufficient number of persons, whose names were obtained without fraud and in good faith, and who represent the requisite amount of property, and are desirous of having the by-law passed, or if the council is satisfied that the notice required by law was not duly given, the council shall not pass the by-law. 55 V. c. 42, s. 292.

When by-laws shall not pass.

Taken from 16 V. c. 181, s. 37. Cf. 22 V. c. 99, ss. 190, 191.

(a) At the time when this section was passed the only by-laws to which it applied were by-laws of township councils (1) for taxing portions of the township for constructing, improving, or repairing a road, bridge, or other public improvement, which might be passed upon the written application of two-thirds of the freeholders and householders rated on the assessment roll of the township, and representing, in value, at least one-half the rateable property within the limits to be affected by the by-law; and (2) for levying a poor-rate, which required a written request from a majority of the freeholders and householders rated on the assessment roll.

The section now applies to the cases referred to in ss. 11, 26 (4), 31, 71, 71a (61 V. c. 23, s. 2), 103, 544, 668 (1), 686 (1), 688, 691, and 699 of this Act, s. 4 of "The Municipal Drainage Act," (R. S. O. c. 226), and s. 2 (2) of "The Public Parks Act." (R. S. O. c. 233).

The right to attend for the purpose mentioned exists only "on petitioning the council." Where the application was to quash a drainage by-law, GWYNNE, J., said,

> "We are not prepared to say, that if a municipal council, in violation of the apparent fact that a sufficient number to put the council in motion had not petitioned, such fact being made apparent in the manner indicated in sections 194 and 195 (ss. 336 and 337 of this Act) should nevertheless proceed to pass a by law imposing rates, that such a by-law could be sustained upon a motion, showing these facts, made to quash it. But in the absence of all suggestion of fraud and all opposition to the by-law when before the council, upon the ground taken, I think that a by-law which recites that a sufficient number had petitioned should be taken to be true, unless, at least, the recital be clearly established to be glaringly untrue, so as to afford a presumption of fraud in the proceedings of the council" (a).

Secs. 337-338 (1).

Note (a).

But in Re Robertson and Township of North Easthope, (b) a drainage by-law passed under the Municipal Act of 1883, (c) had not in fact been petitioned for by a majority of the owners of the property to be benefited. On motion to quash, it was held by the Court of Appeal that unless the petition is signed by such majority, the council have no jurisdiction, and a by-law founded on a petition not so signed is void and cannot be upheld even though valid on its face; that if the petition is not signed by such majority, the opponents of the by-law are not restricted to the mode of objection given by ss. 336 and 337, but are entitled to attack the validity of the by-law on this ground by application to quash, even after an unsuccessful appeal to the council; that where a council know that a majority has not signed, though no evidence to prove this fact is given by the opponents of the by-law, it is just as much their duty not to pass the by-law as if its insufficiency had been proved after the most elaborate investigation at the instance of the persons opposed to it, and they have no right to impose upon the opponents of the by-law, as a term for refusing to pass it, any condition as to payment of expenses theretofore incurred. The decision of STREET, J., (d) refusing to quash the by-law, was accordingly reversed.

The by-law should not be passed until after the fullest opportunity to object has been given to every ratepayer who will be affected thereby. (e)

DIVISION III.—VOTING ON BY ELECTORS.

(SECS. 338-374).

Synopsis.—Although it is true as a general rule that the powers of every municipal corporation may be exercised by its council (s. 10), an exception has been created in the case of certain matters affecting the future position of the municipality (see note (a) to s. 338), and it is provided that by-laws in regard to these matters shall not be finally passed by the council unless and until they have received the approval of a select body of the ratepayers. The "electors" who are entitled to exercise this power of approval or of veto are defined by ss. 353 and 354. Sec. 338 points out the mode in which a by-law to be thus submitted to their vote shall first be publicly advertised, and ss. 339-352, 355-365 and 367 provide for taking the vote in much the same manner as at a municipal election. A scrutiny of the ballots may be had under ss. 369-372; and ss. 373, 374 fix the period within which, after the vote has been taken, the by-law is to be finally adopted by the council.

In the case of certain bonus by-laws a minimum percentage of the total number of those entitled to vote is required by s. 366.

If a by-law requires the assent of the electors, mode of obtaining same.

338. In case a by-law requires the assent of the electors of a municipality before the final passing thereof, the following proceedings shall, except in cases otherwise provided for, be taken for ascertaining such assent:—

Time and place of voting to be fixed by the by-law.

1. The council shall, by the by-law, fix the day and hour for taking the votes of the electors, and the places in the municipality for the purpose, as the council, in their discretion, deem best, and (where the votes are to be taken at more than one place,) shall name a deputy-returning officer to take the votes at every such place. The day so fixed for taking the votes shall not be less than three, nor more than five weeks after the first publication of the proposed by-law. 55 V. c. 42, s. 293 (1).

(a) The first provision for obtaining the assent of the electors to a by-law was made in 1851 by 14 & 15 V. c. 51, s. 18, which enabled municipal corporations in this Province to aid railway companies, provided the by-law therefor was adopted with the consent of a majority of the qualified electors of the municipality. 16 V. c. 22 (1853) established a Consolidated Municipal Loan Fund for Upper Canada, and provided that every municipal by-law authorizing the borrowing of money upon the credit thereof should be similarly approved. By 18 V. c. 133 (1855) the provisions of 16 V. c. 22 were made applicable to all by-laws creating debts. See now ss. 366, 388, 389, 591 (5) (6) (8), 694, 696, 700. The same requirement has since been made in regard to a resolution for the annulment of the incorporation of a village, (a) for the annexation of a village or town to an adjoining municipality (b) and to by-laws for the separation of a town from the county in which it is situated, (c) the reunion of such separated town with the county (d), the reduction of the number of councillors in a town, (e) or for the repeal of such by-law, (f) for changing the mode of election of members of the council in certain cities and towns, (g) for redividing cities into wards, (h) for acquiring and selling water privileges, (i) for constructing gas and water works, (j) for building and operating street railways, (k) for adopting the system of local assessment for local improvements, (l) etc. As to the impropriety of referring to a vote of the electors questions which do not require their assent. See Holm v. Town of Port Hope, 22 Grant, 273; Wallace v. Town of Orangeville, 5 O. R. 37; Davis v. City of Toronto, 15 O. R. 33; Darby v. City of Toronto, 17 O. R. 554.

(b) "Requires the assent of the electors." The word "electors" here is not an accurate expression, the persons entitled to vote upon such a by-law being only ratepayers who are either freeholders (s. 353) or leaseholders (s. 354), and the interpretation clause (s. 2 (5)), does not wholly remove the ambiguity suggested by its use, a better expression would be "ratepayers qualified to vote on by-laws."

Under the earlier Acts a by-law creating a debt or borrowing money required the assent of a majority of "the qualified municipal electors" assembled at a meeting held for the purpose of approving or disapproving of the by-law, (m) or voting thereon if a poll was demanded at the meeting. (n) The Act of 1858 (o) provided for taking the votes of the electors by a poll in every case, and is the original of the present section. The Act of 1866 (p) first limited the right of voting on by-laws to such municipal electors as were either freeholders or leaseholders rated on the assessment roll, and in the case of leaseholders, to those whose leases extended over the period within which the debt was payable and contained a covenant by the lessee to pay the municipal taxes.

(c) "The following proceedings shall be taken." If the proceedings prescribed be not duly taken, the by-law may be invalid (a).

(d) "The council shall by the by-law fix the day and hour for taking the vote of the electors." As to the meaning of the word "by-law" here, see Re Pafford and County of Lincoln (b). Under "The Railway Act" of 1851 (c), which provided that a by-law for aiding a railway company should "be adopted with the consent first had of a majority of the qualified electors of the municipality to be ascertained in such manner as shall be determined by the said by-law," the time and place of taking the vote of the electors thereon was not stated in the published copy of the proposed by-law, but in a notice appended thereto. This was held to be sufficient. Per ROBINSON, C.J.:—

> "The words must receive a reasonable construction. The proposed by-law could not be an actual by-law till after the consent of the ratepayers had been obtained, and it was therefore incorrect to require that the manner of ascertaining such consent must be determined by the by-law. When the by-law came afterwards to be passed, all that operation would be over. We see no more reasonable way of complying with the enactment than that adopted in this case, of printing a notice of the time and place of holding the meeting at the foot of the draft of the proposed by-law, and authenticating that by the signatures of the proper officers, so that the draft of the by-law could not be seen by anyone without seeing the notice" (d).

It seems that the omission from the by-law as finally passed by the council of the time and places of the voting thereon, will not invalidate the by-law (e).

(e) "Not less than three nor more than five weeks after the first publication of the proposed by-law." It seems to be a fatal objection to a by-law that the day fixed for taking the votes thereon is more than five weeks from the first publication (f).

Publication of by-law.

2. The council shall, before the final passing of the proposed by-law, publish a copy thereof in some public newspaper published either within the municipality or in the county town, or in a public newspaper published in an adjoining or neighbouring local municipality, as the council may designate by resolution; and the publication shall, for the purpose aforesaid, be continued in at least one number of such paper each week for three successive weeks; and the council shall put up a copy of the by-law at four or more of the most public places in the municipality. 55 V. c. 42, s. 293 (2); 56 V. c. 35, s. 7.

(f) When the right to pass a by-law is made conditional upon the giving of a certain notice, the provisions relating to such notice should be strictly followed (a). The object of such a notice in by-laws requiring the assent of the electors, is of course to secure a full expression of opinion by the electors as to whether they approve or disapprove of the by-law, and that they may be as widely and generally as possible informed of the intended voting (b). "The Temperance Act of 1864" (c) provided that the requisition for a by-law thereunder should be published for four consecutive weeks with a notice that on some day within the week next after such four weeks, a vote would be taken thereon. The notice first published on Thursday, 12th January, appointed Tuesday, 7th February for the voting. Held, too soon, and the by-law was quashed. So, in another case under the same Act, where the first publication fixed the hour of polling for 2 p.m. on a certain day, but the three subsequent notices were for a poll at 10 a.m., at which hour the voting was actually held, the by-law was quashed on the ground that as the Statute required the poll to be at 10 a.m. the first publication could not be counted, and the voting was too soon after the first correct publication (d). These cases were followed in Re Brophy and Village of Gananoque (e). But where a local option by-law passed under 53 V. c. 56, s. 18, was objected to on the ground that two of the days of publication were Christmas and New Year's Day, the objection was overruled (f). Where the Statute required publication of the by-law in each newspaper published in the municipality, an omission to publish it in one of them was held fatal (g).

(g) In some public newspaper published . . . in an adjoining or neighbouring municipality." The words "or neighbouring" were added in 1893 by 56 V. c. 35, s. 7 probably in consequence of the question raised in Re Hanson and Township of South Norwich, (a) where notice of intention to submit a local option by-law to the votes of the township electors was given in the proper form and for the requisite number of times in the village of Norwich, in the county of Oxford, which does not touch the boundaries of South Norwich, but which is completely surrounded by North Norwich which does touch the said boundaries. This paper was the nearest paper; it had a large circulation in the township, and was that in which the township council had been in the habit of publishing their notices and by-laws. No paper was published in the township in question. The Court refused to quash the by-law, and on appeal to the Supreme Court, it was held that, as the village of Norwich was geographically within "an adjoining local municipality," the requirement of the section had been substantially complied with. (b)

(h) "Four or more of the most public places of the municipality." In Re Mace and County of Frontenac, (a) WILSON, J., says,—

> "Putting up three out of four notices in one village in a large township . . . and the fourth notice within a mile of the same village, where there are other villages in the township where they could more properly be put up, is not a compliance with the Statute."

And where a by-law which required the assent of the electors was carried by a majority of sixteen in a total vote of 550 out of an electorate of 941, it was held that the unexplained omission of the council to put up anywhere in the municipality copies of the by-law, as required by this section, was fatal, the council having failed to show under s. 204 that the result was not thereby affected. (b)

In that case it was contended that the general interest taken in the subject and the information given by posters distributed throughout the municipality and meetings held therein, together with publication in the newspapers, must have brought notice of the by-law and of the time and places of polling home to every elector, and therefore that the omission to comply with the requirements of this section could not be said to have affected the result; but OSLER, J. A., in giving judgment says (p. 466);—

> "The vote, no doubt, was a substantial one, but the majority is very small, sixteen only, and there were at least two votes improperly polled, reducing it to fourteen, and there remained nearly 400 unpolled votes. Had the majority been large, or had the posters calling the meetings specified the time and places at which the votes were to be taken the conclusion might be different. Everybody does not take a newspaper, and the posting of the by-law and notice is one of the methods specially required by the Legislature to be observed for giving notice to the electors. The absolute and unexplained omission to comply with that requirement is one very difficult to excuse, and needs much more convincing evidence that it was harmless than the respondents have adduced. I refer to Re Cox and Township of Pickering (a), Re Miles and Township of Richmond (b), Re Mace and County of Frontenac. (c) Even if the direction is not imperative, as ARMOUR, C.J., seems to have thought in the latter case, it is clear that the onus of proving that the omission to comply with it has not affected the result is upon the respondents, and they have failed to sustain it. Sections 175 and 306 of this Act [=ss. 204 and 351 of the present Act] were relied on; but they merely enable the Court to refrain from declaring the by-law invalid for want of compliance with forms or rules as to taking the poll or counting the votes, or by reason of the irregularity, if it appears that the proceedings were conducted in accordance with the principles laid down in the Act, and that the non-compliance, mistake or irregularity did not affect the result. I am not satisfied with respect to the latter condition, while as to the former there is evidence that at more than one of the polls the voting was conducted with an entire disregard of

Notice.

3. Appended to each copy so published and posted shall be a notice, signed by the clerk of the council, stating that the copy is a true copy of a proposed by-law which has been taken into consideration, and which will be finally passed by the council (in the event of the assent of the electors being obtained thereto), after one month from the first publication in the newspaper, stating the date of the first publication, and that at the hour, day and place or places therein fixed for taking the votes of the electors, the polls will be held. 55 V. c. 42, s. 293 (3).

(i) "A notice." The notice may be in this form:

Take notice, that the above is a true copy of a proposed by-law, which has been taken into consideration, and which will be finally passed by the council of the municipality (in the event of the assent of the electors being obtained thereto) after one month from the first publication in the (naming the newspaper), the date of which first publication was (stating the day, of the week, month and year), and that the votes of the electors of the said municipality will be taken thereon on the day and at the hours and places therein fixed. (a)

D. C., Clerk.

(j) "Which has been taken into consideration, and which will be finally passed by the council." These words were substituted by 49 V. c. 37, s. 3, for the words "which will be taken into consideration by the council," in the earlier Acts (b). They indicate that, before submitting the by-law to the electors, it must have received some consideration by the council.

(k) "After one month from the first publication in the newspaper." The date when the by-law will be considered by the council is not required to be mentioned in the notice, as it is under s. 632, because in the latter case there is no means of opposing the by-law except by a hearing before the council. Where the by-law, assented to by the vote of the electors, was passed by the council a few days before a month had elapsed since the first publication, an objection on this ground was overruled (c).

The R. S. Man. (1891) c. 99, s. 63, provides in the case of by-laws which require the assent of the electors, that:—

> "The council shall . . . publish in some newspaper in the municipality . . . a notice showing the object and purpose of the proposed by-law, that the same has been submitted to the council and has received its first and second readings, and that a vote thereon . . . will be taken on the day and at the hour and places fixed under this Act: that the proposed by-law or a true copy thereof can be seen on file until the day of the taking of the vote at the office of the clerk of the municipality, and that the further consideration of the proposed by-law . . . is fixed for the time and place appointed therefor by the council (naming such time and place) . . : and such notice shall be so published for at least one month before the vote is taken, but no more than one insertion each week shall be necessary."

In Hall v. South Norfolk (d), a notice published under the above section stated that the vote of the electors would be taken on Tuesday, May 10th, 1892, and that the further consideration of the by-law after taking the vote, and the final reading would be given by the council in the village of Treherne on May 17th, 1892; Held, that the notice was insufficient as to the further consideration and reading of the by-law because the hour of the day was not designated.

(b) 36 V. c. 48, s. 23 (3); R. S. O. (1877) c. 174, s. 286 (3); 46 V. c. 18, s. 294 (3).

The notice was published on the 6th, 13th, 20th, 23rd, 27th and 30th days of April; Held, that the notice was not published "at least one month before the vote" was taken. What the Statute requires is at least one publication in each week of the month before the vote is taken, and for the purpose of reckoning weeks, it is necessary to begin with the day of the first publication, and not with the first day of an ordinary week.

Ballot papers to be printed.

339. Forthwith after the day has been fixed as aforesaid for taking the votes of electors with respect to the by-law, the clerk of the municipal council which proposed the by-law, shall cause to be printed, at the expense of the municipality, such a number of ballot papers as will be sufficient for the purposes of the voting. 55 V. c. 42, s. 294.

This and the eight following sections, to s. 349 inclusive, are taken from 39 V. c. 35 (1876), entitled, "An Act to provide for Voting by Ballot on Municipal By-laws requiring the consent of the Electors."

Form of.

(a) "The form of Schedule J" is as follows:—

Selection of agents.

342. At the time and place named, the head of the municipality shall appoint, in writing signed by him, two persons to attend at the final summing up of the votes, and one person to attend at each polling place on behalf of the persons interested in and desirous of promoting the passing of the by-law, and a like number on behalf of the persons interested in and desirous of opposing the passing of the by-law. 55 V. c. 42, s. 297.

I, the undersigned A. B., solemnly declare that I am a ratepayer of the Township (or as the case may be) of (the municipality the council of which proposed the by-law), and that I am desirous of promoting (or opposing as the case may be) the passing of the By-law to (here insert object of by-law), submitted to the Council of said Township (or as the case may be).

Head of Municipality.

Admission of agents to polling place, etc.

344. Every person so appointed, before being admitted to the polling place or to the summing up of the votes, as the case may be, shall produce his written appointment to the deputy-returning officer, or clerk of the municipality, as the case may be. 55 V. c. 42, s. 299.

Taken from 39 V. c. 36, s. 6 (1876).

(a) "To the deputy-returning officer or the clerk of the municipality, as the case may be." In case the municipality is divided into wards or polling subdivisions, the appointment is to be produced to the deputy-returning officer for the polling place; in case it is not so divided, then to the clerk as returning officer for the whole municipality. (a)

Appointment in absence of agent.

345. In the absence of any person authorized as aforesaid to attend at a polling place, or at the final summing up of the votes, any elector in the same interest as the person so absent may upon making and subscribing, before the deputy-returning officer at the polling place, or before the clerk of the municipality a declaration in the form of Schedule K to this Act, be admitted to the polling place to act for the person so absent. 55 V. c. 42, s. 300.

Exclusion from polling place.

346. During the time appointed for polling no person shall be entitled or permitted to be present in any polling place, other than the officers, clerks and persons or electors authorised to attend as aforesaid at the polling place. 55 V. c. 42, s. 301.

Taken from 39 V. c. 35, s. 8 (1876). Cf. s. 173.

Deputy-returning officers, poll clerks and agents may vote at polling places where they are employed.

347.—(1) The clerk of the municipality, on the request of any elector entitled to vote at one of the polling places, who has been appointed deputy-returning officer or poll-clerk, or who has been named as the person to attend at a polling place, other than the one where he is entitled to vote, shall give to such elector a certificate that such deputy-returning officer, poll clerk, or person is entitled to vote for or against the by-law, at the polling place where such elector is stationed during the polling day; and the certificate shall also state the property or other qualification in respect to which such elector is entitled to vote.

On certificate from the clerk of the municipality.

(2) On the production of the certificate, such deputy-returning officer, poll clerk or person shall have the right to vote at the polling place where he is stationed during the polling day, instead of at the polling place of the ward or polling subdivision where he would otherwise have been entitled to vote; and the deputy-returning officer shall attach the certificate to the voters' list; but no such certificate shall entitle such elector to vote at such polling place, unless he has been actually engaged as such deputy-returning officer, poll clerk or person during the day of polling.

Who to administer oath in such case.

(3) In the case of a deputy-returning officer voting at the polling place at which he is appointed to act, the poll clerk, or in the absence of the poll clerk any one authorized to be present at the polling place, may administer to the deputy-returning officer the oath required to be taken by voters qualified to vote on the by-law. 55 V. c. 42, s. 302.

Taken from 39 V. c. 35, s. 9 (1876).

(a) See s. 163 and notes thereon.

Who to conduct the poll in municipalities divided into wards or polling subdivisions.

348. In the case of municipalities which are divided into wards or polling subdivisions, the clerk of the municipality shall, before the poll is opened prepare and deliver to the deputy-returning officer for every ward or polling subdivision, a voters' list in the form to Schedule C to this Act, containing the names, arranged alphabetically, of all persons appearing by the then last revised assessment roll to be entitled, under the provisions of sections 353 and 354 of this Act, to vote in that ward or polling subdivision, and he shall attest the said list by his solemn declaration in writing under his hand. 55 V. c. 42, s. 303.

Taken from 40 V. c. 12, s. 18 (1) (1877). Cf. s. 152, ante.

(a) "Schedule C to this Act." See note (a) to s. 149.

Secs. 348-351.

Notes (b); (a).

(b) "All persons appearing by the . . . assessment roll to be entitled . . . to vote." This seems to require an impossibility. How is the clerk to know, in the case of a person assessed as tenant (a), whether the person so assessed is a leaseholder for a term equal to that within which the debt to be contracted or the money to be raised is payable, and whether the lease (if there is a lease), contains a covenant by the lessee to pay municipal taxes other than local improvement rates? None of these particulars appear on the assessment roll. The solution suggested by GWYNNE, J., in Erwin v. Township of Townsend (b) is that the clerk, in making out the voters' list required by this section, should insert therein the names of all freeholders and tenants appearing on the assessment roll to be rated for an amount sufficient to entitle them to vote at municipal elections, leaving it to the scrutineers at the polls to object to the qualification of any person who, though rated as a tenant, is not qualified to vote as a leaseholder under s. 354. It will be observed that the fifth clause of the oath to be taken by a leaseholder is, "That you are according to law entitled to vote on the said by-law," etc. (c)

In municipalities not divided into wards or polling subdivisions.

349. In the case of municipalities which are not divided into wards or polling subdivisions, the clerk shall provide himself with the necessary ballot papers, the materials for marking ballot papers, printed directions to voters and a list of electors for the municipality similar to the list mentioned in the preceding section; and the clerk shall perform the like duties with respect to the whole municipality as are imposed upon a deputy-returning officer in respect of a ward or polling subdivision. 55 V. c. 42, s. 304.

Taken from 40 V. c. 12, s. 18 (2) (1877). Cf. ss. 107, 157, ante.

The Poll.

Voting to be by ballot.

350. At the day and hour fixed as aforesaid, the poll shall be held and the vote shall be taken by ballot. 55 V. c. 42, s. 305.

Taken from 39 V. c. 35, s. 10 (1876).

Proceedings to be as at municipal elections.

351. The proceedings at the poll, and for and incidental to the same, and the purposes thereof, shall be the same, as nearly as may be, as at municipal elections; and all the provisions of sections 138 to 206, inclusive, of this Act, so far as the same are applicable, and except so far as is herein otherwise provided, shall apply to the taking of votes at the poll, and to all matters incidental thereto. 55 V. c. 42, s. 306.

Taken from 39 V. c. 35, s. 11 (1876).

(a) "This is a loose way of applying a large group of sections which have a general bearing on the procedure of voting by ballot" (d). The question in that case (e), was whether the clerk of the municipality could under this section and s. 179 give a casting vote when the voting upon a by-law resulted in a tie. ROSE, J., who tried the case, held that he could (f), but this decision was reversed by the Court of Appeal (g), and the Supreme Court (h).

The very general language of the section still leaves open to question the applicability of some of the sections referred to. It is clear that the provisions of s. 156, in regard to certificates as to the assessment roll; of ss. 154, 155, as to defaulters' lists, and of ss. 194 to 196, imposing certain penalties are inap-plicable to the voting on by-laws; as to those of ss. 159-162 (where electors may vote), other provision is made by s. 355. The sections relating to proceedings at the polls (a) seem mutatis mutandis, to be included, as are also those of ss. 188-190 and 192 (preservation of ballots and recount of votes), s. 193 (offences in relation to ballots), s. 198 (secrecy of proceedings), and ss. 202-205 (miscellaneous). Whether ss. 184-186 also apply to voting on by-laws is not clear, the passing of a by-law not being a matter of the same public interest as the filling of an office.

352. The printed directions to be delivered to the deputy-returning officers shall be in the form of Schedule L to this Act. 55 V. c. 42, s. 307.

Form of directions for guidance to voters.

Taken from 39 V. c. 35, s. 12 (1876).

(a) "The form of Schedule L" is as follows:—

Directions for the Guidance of Voters in Voting. (b)

The voter will go into one of the compartments, and with the pencil provided in the compartment, place a cross (thus X) on the right hand side, in the upper space if he votes for the passing of the by-law, and in the lower space if he votes against the passing of the by-law.

The voter will then fold up the ballot paper so as to show the name or initials of the Deputy Returning Officer (or Returning Officer, as the case may be) signed on the back, and leaving the compartment will, without showing the front of the paper to any person, deliver such ballot so folded to the Deputy-Returning Officer (or Returning Officer as the case may be) and forthwith quit the polling place.

If the voter inadvertently spoils a ballot paper, he may return it to the Deputy-Returning Officer (or Returning Officer as the case may be), who will, if satisfied of such inadvertence, give him another ballot paper.

If the voter places on the paper more than one mark, or places any mark on his ballot paper by which he may be afterwards identified, or if the ballot paper has been torn, defaced or otherwise dealt with by the voter so that he can thereby be identified, it will be void, and will not be counted.

If a voter takes a ballot paper out of the polling place, or deposits in the ballot box any other paper than the one given to him by the Deputy-Returning Officer (or Returning Officer as the case may be) he will be subject to imprisonment for any term not exceeding six months, with or without hard labour.

In the following form of Ballot Paper, given for illustration, the elector has marked his ballot paper in favour of the passing of the By-law:

Note (a).

Freeholders who may vote on by-laws.

353.—(1) Every ratepayer, being a man, an unmarried woman or a widow, shall be entitled to vote on any by-law requiring the assent of the electors, who, at the time of tender of the vote, is of the full age of twenty-one years, and a natural-born or naturalized subject of Her Majesty, and who has neither directly or indirectly received, nor is in expectation of receiving, any reward or gift for the vote so tendered, and who is at the time of the tender a freeholder, in his or her own right, or (if a man) whose wife is a freeholder of real property within the municipality, of sufficient value to entitle him to vote at any municipal election, and is rated on the last revised assessment roll as such freeholder, provided such person is named or intended to be named on the voters' list.

Taken from the Act of 1873, 36 V. c. 48, s. 232; extended to unmarried women and widows by 45 V. c. 23, s. 15. Cf. 16 V. c. 22, s. 2 (5-9); 18 V. c. 133, s. 2; 22 V. c. 99, s. 192; 29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 196 (7).

In case of new municipality where there has been no assessment roll.

(2) In the case of a new municipality in which there has not been any assessment roll, the qualification of being named on the list and of being rated on the roll shall be dispensed with; but in such case the person offering to vote shall not be entitled to vote, unless he possesses the other qualifications above mentioned, and has, at the time of tender of his vote sufficient property to have entitled him to vote if he had been rated therefor, and unless at the said time he names the property to the deputy-returning officer; and the deputy-returning officer shall note such property in the voters' list opposite the voter's name, at the request of any one entitled to vote on the by-law. 55 V. c. 42, s. 308.

Taken from 36 V. c. 48, s. 232. Cf. 29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 77.

(a) Until 1866 the right of voting on by-laws creating debts belonged to "all qualified electors." As regards freeholders, a comparison of this section with ss. 86, 87, 90 shows that the qualifications required for voting at a municipal election and on a by-law are identical, except that, in the latter case, there is no disqualification by reason of non-payment of municipal taxes.

Leaseholders who may vote on by-laws.

354.—(1) Every ratepayer shall be entitled to vote on any by-law requiring the assent of the electors, who is a man, an unmarried woman or a widow, and is named, or intended to be named, in the voters' list, and at the time of tender of the vote is of the full age of twenty-one years, and a natural born or naturalized subject of Her Majesty, and who has neither directly or indirectly received nor is in expectation of receiving, any reward or gift for the vote so tendered, and is resident within the municipality for which the vote is taken for one month next before the vote, and who is, or whose wife is, a leaseholder of real property within the municipality of sufficient value to entitle him to vote at a municipal election, and who is rated on the last revised assessment roll therefor; provided he has in his lease covenanted to pay all municipal taxes in respect of the property leased (other than taxes assessed for local improvements), and, in case of a by-law for contracting a debt, provided the lease extends for the period of time within which the debt to be contracted or the money to be raised by the by-law is made payable. 55 V. c. 42, s. 309 (1); 60 V. c. 3, s. 3; c. 14, s. 28; c. 15, Sched. C (60).

Secs. 354(1), 355. Notes (a); (a).

(2) No lessee shall be entitled to vote on a by-law respecting local improvements under section 682 of this Act, unless he has in his lease covenanted to pay taxes assessed for local improvements, and, in the case of such a by-law, the said proviso as to the lease extending for the period of time within which the debt to be contracted or the money to be raised by such by-law is made payable, shall not apply. 55 V. c 42, s 309 (2); 60 V. c. 3, s. 3; c. 14, s. 28.

Leaseholders who may vote on local improvement by-laws.

(3) In the case of a new municipality in which there has not been any assessment roll, the qualification of being named on the list and of being rated on the roll, and of residence for one month, shall be dispensed with; but in such case the person offering to vote shall not be entitled to vote unless he possesses the other qualifications above mentioned, and is at the time of tender of his vote a resident of the municipality, and then has sufficient property to have entitled him to vote if he had been rated therefor, and unless at the said time he names the property to the deputy-returning officer; and the deputy-returning officer shall note the property in the voters' list, opposite the voter's name, at the request of any one entitled to vote on the by-law. 55 V. c. 42, s. 309 (3).

In case of new municipality where there has been no assessment roll.

Taken from the Act of 1873, (36 V, c. 48), s. 233, part; extended to unmarried women and widows by (45 V. c. 23), s. 45; amended as to the clause relating to the covenant to pay municipal taxes by (60 V. c. 14), s. 28, (1); and the word "intended" in line 3 substituted (by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (60)) for the word "purported." Cf. the earlier Statutes referred to in the first note on s. 353 (on subs. 3). Cf. 29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 77.

(a) The qualification for voting on by-laws and at municipal elections differs more widely in the case of leaseholders than in that of freeholders. Although there is no disqualification to vote on by-laws by reason of non-payment of taxes, (as in s. 88), and although most of the other qualifications are identical, including the requirement of a residence within the municipality for one month before the voting, two further conditions are necessary to entitle a leaseholder to vote on a by-law which requires the assent of the electors:—(1) except in the case of a vote under s. 682 on a by-law for the adoption of the system of local assessment for local improvements, the term of the lease must be at least equal to that of the currency of the debt; and (2) the lease must contain a covenant by the lessee to pay all municipal taxes (except taxes for local improvements) and, in the case of a vote under s. 682, to pay them also. (a)

The voters' list prepared by the clerk under s. 348 includes all tenants who are assessed for an amount sufficient to entitle them to vote at municipal elections; whether or not they possess the additional qualifications above referred to can be ascertained only at the time of the tender of the vote.

355. Where a municipality is divided into wards, each ratepayer shall be so entitled to vote in each ward in which he has the qualification necessary to entitle him to vote on the by-law. 55 V. c. 42, 309*a*; c. 43, s. 17.

Where ratepayers qualified in more than one ward.

Taken from 55 V, c. 43, s. 17 (1892).

(a) Some distinct enactment on this point was found to be necessary on account of the difficulty of applying to ss. 158, 159 the very general language of s. 351.

(a) Cf. the form of the lessee's covenant to pay taxes, R. S. O. c. 125, Sched. B. "Forms of Covenants," No. 3.

Secs. 356, 357.

(b) "The majority of the electors voting upon the by-law." Where a by-law required the assent of the electors, the approval of a majority of those voting thereon was formerly sufficient in every case; (a) but in the case of by-laws for bonuses, etc., it has been found necessary, in the interests of the municipality, to require the approval of a certain percentage of the total number of ratepayers entitled to vote. (b)

Clerk not to have casting vote as to certain by-laws.

365. Where the assent of the electors, or of the ratepayers or of a proportion of them, is necessary to the validity of a by-law, the clerk or other officer shall not be entitled to give a casting vote. 55 V. c. 42, s. 319.

(a) The reason for giving a casting vote to the clerk in the case of a municipal election (viz., that the filling of a vacant office is necessary in order that the business of the municipality may be carried on) does not apply to the voting on a by-law. (a)

Prior to this enactment there had been a conflict of judicial opinion as to the right of the clerk to give a casting vote. (b)

Requisites of Bonus By-laws.

Requisites to validity of certain bonus by-laws.

guaranteeing the payment of money borrowed by such company, the assent shall be necessary of one-third of all the ratepayers who were entitled to vote, as well as of a majority of the ratepayers voting on the by-law.

(a) Taken from 43 V. c. 27, s. 16 (1880), which applied only to by-laws on "granting a bonus in aid of a railway or for promoting any manufacture," and required the assent of "a majority of the electors entitled to vote" thereon. In 1882, by 45 V. c. 23, s. 17, this was extended so as to include "by-laws for lending money to railway companies, or for guaranteeing the payment of money borrowed by any such company, or for lending money to any other company or person on condition of such company or person establishing or continuing a manufactory in or near such municipality," and the proportion of assenting ratepayers required was reduced to two-fifths of those entitled to vote, being a majority of those actually voting. By 51 V. c. 28, s. 16 (1888), this proportion was raised to two-thirds in the case of by-laws for aiding manufacturing establishments, but this section was repealed in 1892 by 55 V. c. 43, s. 29. In 1890 the percentage in the cases mentioned in the section was reduced by 53 V. c. 50, s. 7, to one-third of all those entitled to vote; and the provisions of the section were extended to by-laws for granting a bonus "in aid of any waterworks or water company," by 53 V. c. 50, s. 8. By 55 V. c. 43, s. 21 the words relating to bonuses for promoting any manufacture and for lending money to any other company or person on condition of such company or person establishing or continuing a manufactory in or near the municipality were struck out.(c)

Certificate to be given by clerk.

(2) In addition to the certificate required by section 364 of this Act, the clerk, in case of the majority of votes being in favour of the by-law, shall further certify whether or not, as far as shewn by the voters' list and assessment roll, such majority appears to be one-third of all the ratepayers who were entitled to vote on the by-law.

Appeal to county judge.

(3) In case of dispute as to the result of the vote, the Judge shall have the same powers for determining the question as he has in any case of a scrutiny of the votes.

Procedure.

(4) The petition to the Judge may be by any elector, or by the council; and the proceedings for obtaining the Judge's decision shall be the same, as nearly as may be, as in the case of a scrutiny. 55 V. c. 42, s. 320; c. 43, s. 21. See sec. 369.

Taken from 43 V. c. 27, s. 16, "one-third" being substituted for "a majority" in the fifth line of subs. 2 by 53 V. c. 50, s. 7.

Secrecy of Proceedings.

Maintaining secrecy of proceedings at polling place.

367.—(1) Every officer, clerk and person in attendance at a polling place shall maintain and aid in maintaining the secrecy of the voting at the polling place.

Secrecy to be maintained at counting.

(4) Every officer, clerk and person in attendance at the counting of the votes shall maintain and aid in maintaining the secrecy of the voting, and shall not communicate or attempt to communicate any information obtained at such counting, as to the manner in which any vote is given in any particular ballot paper.

Voters not to be induced to disclose votes.

(5) No person shall, directly or indirectly, induce any voter to display his ballot paper after he has marked the same, so as to make known to any person the manner in which he has marked his ballot paper.

Penalty for contravening this section.

(6) Every person who acts in contravention of this section shall be liable, on summary conviction before a Stipendiary Magistrate, Police Magistrate, or two Justices of the Peace, to imprisonment for any term not exceeding six months, with or without hard labour. 55 V. c. 42, s. 321.

Statutory declaration of secrecy to be made by officers, etc., before a poll.

368. The clerk of the municipality, and every officer, clerk or person authorized to attend at a polling place, or at the counting of the votes, shall, before the opening of the poll, make a statutory declaration of secrecy, in the presence, (if he is the clerk of the municipality), of a Justice of the Peace, and (if he is any other officer, or a clerk, or an agent), in the presence of a Justice of the Peace, or of the clerk of the municipality, or of a deputy-returning officer. Such statutory declaration of secrecy shall be in the form given in Schedule M to this Act, or to the like effect. 55 V. c. 42, s. 322.

Taken from 39 V. c. 35, s. 20 (1876). Cf. s. 199.

(a) "The form of Schedule M" is as follows :—

Form of Statutory Declaration of Secrecy.

I, A. B., solemnly promise and declare that, at the voting on the by-law submitted to the electors by the Council of the Township (or as the case may be) of (and the voting on which has been appointed for this day), I will not attempt in any way whatsoever unlawfully to ascertain the manner in which any elector shall vote or has voted, and will not in any way whatsoever aid in the unlawful discovery of the same; and I will keep secret all knowledge which may come to me, of the manner in which any elector has voted.

Made and declared before me at , this day of , A.D., 19 .

Scrutiny.

Sec. 369.

Notes (a), (b).

Scrutiny may be had, on application to County Judge.

369. If within two weeks after the clerk of the council which proposed the by-law has declared the result of the voting, any elector applies upon petition to the County Judge after giving such notice of the application, and to such persons as the Judge directs, and shows by affidavit to the Judge reasonable grounds for entering into a scrutiny of the ballot papers, and if the petitioner enters into a recognizance before the Judge in the sum of $100, with two sureties (to be allowed as sufficient by the Judge upon affidavit of justification) in the sum of $50 each, conditioned to prosecute the petition with effect, and to pay the party against whom the same is brought any costs which may be adjudged to him against the petitioner, the Judge may appoint a day and place, within the municipality, for entering into the scrutiny. 55 V. c. 42, s. 323.

Taken from 39 V. c. 35, s. 21 (1876).

(a) "Any elector," i.e., any elector who was entitled to vote upon the by-law. (a)

(b) "Applies by petition to the County Judge." The following form of petition is suggested :—

Form of Petition for a Scrutiny.

"IN THE COUNTY COURT OF THE COUNTY (or UNITED COUNTIES) OF

In the matter of a proposed By-law of the Corporation of the (Township) of , entitled "A By-law," etc.

To His Honour the Judge of the County Court of the County (or United Counties) of

The petition of the undersigned A. B. of the Township of in the County of (occupation).

1. Your petitioner is a municipal elector of the said (Township) of and was entitled to vote (and did vote) upon a proposed By-law of the Corporation of the said (Township) of which was submitted by the Council of the said (Township) of to the vote of the qualified electors thereof on the day of last past.

2. On the day of last past, the Clerk of the said (Township) of declared the said By-law to have been approved by a majority of the qualified electors of the said municipality and certified under his hand to the Council of the said (Township) of that a majority of the qualified electors so voting had approved of the said proposed By-law and [if s. 366 applies to the case] that such majority included one-third of all the ratepayers of the said (Township) entitled to vote on the said By-law.

3. Your petitioner submits and alleges that the said declaration and certificate were and are incorrect and that the said by-law was not in fact approved of by one-third of the electors of the said (Township) of qualified by law to vote on the said By-law, nor by a majority of the said electors actually voting thereon.

4. [Here state with as much particularity as possible the reasons for the statement in the preceding paragraph, e.g., that the deputy-returning officer in polling subdivision No. of the said (Township) of counted as votes in favor of the said By-law, ballot papers objected to by the scrutineers appointed on behalf of the parties interested in opposing the said By-law, etc.] (b)

(a) See s. 2 (5) and note (a) to s. 338. (b) See note (c) to s. 372.

Secs. 369, 370.
Notes (b)-(d).

Your petitioner therefore prays that a scrutiny may be had by your Honour of the ballot papers containing the votes given upon the said By-law as aforesaid.

And your petitioner will ever pray.

Signature of petitioner.

(c) "After giving such notice of the application and to such persons as the Judge directs." Since the application itself is to be made within two weeks after the clerk has declared the result of the voting, and the petition and affidavit in support thereof to be filed before notice of the application is given under this section, the period actually allowed for preparing and filing this material is practically limited to a single week.

(d) "And the petitioners enters into a recognizance before the Judge." It will be observed that the language here used differs from that of s. 220. The expression "to pay to the party against whom the same is brought any costs which may be awarded" is not an accurate one. The discretion of the Judge as to costs is the same "as in the case of applications to quash a by-law," (a) i. e., he "may award costs for or against the corporation" only (b).

The following form of recognizance is suggested:

Taken and acknowledged the day and year first above mentioned before me.

Judge of the County Court of the County (or United Counties) of

The affidavit of justification may be in the form of that given in note (e) to section 220, but should be entitled in the same way as the petition (c).

Notice of time of scrutiny.

370. At least one week's notice of the day appointed for the scrutiny shall be given by the petitioner to such persons as the Judge directs, and to the clerk of the municipality. 55 V. c. 42, s. 324.

Taken from 39 V. c. 35, s. 22 (1876).

(a) S. 372. (b) S. 378 (1). (c) See note (c).

Secs. 371-373. Notes (a); (a), (b); (a).

Proceedings.

371. On the day and at the hour appointed, the clerk shall attend before the Judge with the ballot papers in his custody, and the Judge upon inspecting the ballot papers, and hearing such evidence as he may deem necessary, and on hearing the parties, or such of them as may attend, or their counsel, shall, in a summary manner, determine whether the majority of the votes given, is for or against the by-law, and shall forthwith certify the result to the council. 55 V. c. 42, s. 325.

Taken from 39 V. c. 35, s. 23 (1876).

(a) "The Judge . . . shall determine whether the majority of votes given is for or against the by-law." Although termed "a scrutiny" the proceeding authorized by this section is in reality no more than a recount of ballots. The rules as to marking the ballots referred to in the notes to s. 174 are applied by section 351 to the voting on by-laws which require the assent of the electors; but it would seem that under this section the Judge has no power to report that persons voted who were not qualified to do so, or that bribery or undue influence was used to secure the passing or defeat of the by-law. It is true that the next section gives the Judge "as to all matters arising from the scrutiny" the like powers and authority as are possessed by him on the trial of a controverted municipal election, but these words seem to be controlled by the language of the present section which expressly limits the issue to the question whether or not the majority of the votes cast is for or against the by-law. If it is desired to attack the by-law on the ground of bribery or undue influence, proceedings should be taken under ss. 381 and 382.

Powers of Judge.

Costs.

372. The Judge shall on the scrutiny possess the like powers and authority, as to all matters arising upon the scrutiny as are possessed by him upon a trial of the validity of the election of a member of a municipal council; and in all cases costs shall be in the discretion of the Judge, as in the case of applications to quash a by-law, or he may apportion the costs as to him seems just. 55 V. c. 42, s. 326.

Taken from 39 V. c. 35, s. 25 (1876).

(a) "The Judge shall . . . possess the like powers and authority . . . as are possessed by him on a trial of the validity of the election of a member of a municipal council." This apparently refers to the power to allow substitutional service on any person to whom notice is directed to be given and who keeps out of the way to avoid personal service (a), to order the production of books, papers and documents by any municipal clerk (b), to add or substitute parties as petitioners or respondents (c), and to try the question to be determined under s. 371 in such manner as the Judge sees fit (d); but, as pointed out in the last preceding note, it does not apparently extend the scope of the inquiry.

(b) "Costs shall be in the discretion of the Judge as in the case of applications to quash a by-law." See s. 378 (1).

Passing By-laws by Council.

By-law carried by voters to be passed by council.

373. A by-law which is duly carried by the vote of the qualified electors, shall within six weeks thereafter be passed by the council. 55 V. c. 42, s. 327.

Taken from 34 V. c. 30, s. 16 (1871). The words "which submitted the same" which occurred at the end of that section were struck out in 1886 by 49 V. c. 37, s. 16.

(a) It was formerly held that the duty of the council under this section was simply ministerial and that if they refused to pass the by-law they might be compelled by mandamus to do so, but in Re Canada Atlantic Railway Co. v.

Notee (a); (a).

City of Ottawa, (a) the Supreme Court came to a different conclusion. In that case a by-law in aid of a railway company had been approved by the ratepayers and it was contended that it must under this section be adopted by the council, GWYNNE, J., in giving the judgment of the Court says :— (b)

> "In presence of the provisions of the Statute, that to the copy of the proposed by-law there should be appended a notice to the effect that the proposed by-law so submitted will be taken into consideration by the council after one month from the first publication, I cannot think that the council were divested of their legislative, deliberative character, and that they had no power to express an opinion upon a matter which the Legislature said they should take into their consideration; or that the vote of the ratepayers converted their office from being one of a deliberative and legislative character into one purely ministerial, the execution of which would be enforced by mandamus against their deliberate conviction that there were abundant reasons why the by-law should not be passed."

And in Canada Atlantic Railway Co. v. Township of Cambridge (c), OSLER, J.A., says (p. 302) :—

> "This section . . . merely prescribes a time within which the by-law is to be taken into consideration and perfected. It does not cast upon them an imperative duty to pass it at all events. If not passed within the time limit it drops."

And in Re Langdon and The Arthur Junction Railway Company and the Township of Arthur (d), where a railway bonus by-law had been approved by the electors, a mandamus to the township council directing them to pass the by-law was refused with costs, it appearing that bribery and personation had been committed by those interested in securing the vote in favour of the by-law.

In Re Baird and Village of Almonte (e), a bonus by-law approved by a majority of the qualified electors and passed by the council was quashed on the ground that the council was incompetent to pass it by reason of a majority of its members being pecuniarily interested in the company to be aided (f).

In the successive consolidations of the Municipal Act from 1873 to 1887 inclusive, the final words of the section were "the council which submitted the by-law." This was held by the Ch. D. to mean the council of the same municipality, but not necessarily the council of the same year; (g) but this decision having been reversed by the Court of Appeal, (h) and the Supreme Court, (i) the words "which submitted the same" were struck out of the section by 49 V. c. 37, s. 6, and see now s. 327.

The passing of the by-law stayed on presenting of a petition.

374. In case of a petition being presented, the by-law shall not be passed by the council until after the petition has been disposed of; and the time which intervenes between the presenting of the petition and the final disposal thereof shall not be reckoned as part of the six weeks within which the by-law is to be passed. 55 V. c. 42, s. 328.

DIVISION IV.—CONFIRMATION OF BY-LAWS.
(SECS. 375-377.)

Secs. 375, 376.
Note (a).

Promulgation of by-laws.

375. The promulgation of a by-law shall consist in the publication, through the public press, of a true copy of the by-law, and of the signature attesting its authenticity, with a notice appended thereto of the time limited by law for applications to quash the same or any part thereof, and the publication aforesaid shall be in such public newspaper, published either within the municipality or in the county town, or in an adjoining or neighbouring local municipality, as the council by resolution may designate, and the publication shall, for the purpose aforesaid, be continued in at least one number of such paper, each week for three successive weeks. 55 V. c. 42, s. 329; 56 V. c. 55, s. 8; 62 V. c. 2, Sched. (8).

(a) This method of confirming a by-law by publishing it "through the public press" was introduced in 1851 by 14 & 15 V. c. 109, Sched. A (21), which is the foundation of the present section. That section limited to six months the time for motions to quash a promulgated by-law, and provided > "That every special promulgation of a by-law within the meaning of The Municipal Corporations Acts, shall consist in the publication through the public press of a true copy of such by-law, and the signature attesting its authenticity, with a notice appended thereto of the time limited by law for applications to the Courts to quash the same or any part thereof; or in the case of by-laws by which any rate shall be imposed for any purpose whatsoever, then either by such publication of a copy of such by-law, with such notice as aforesaid, or, in lieu thereof, by such publication of a notice setting forth the amount of such rate, and giving the substance only of other parts of such by-law, with a similar notice of the time so limited for such applications to quash as aforesaid, which publication shall for the purpose aforesaid be in each public newspaper published weekly or oftener within the territorial jurisdiction of such municipal corporation; or if there be no such public newspaper within such jurisdiction, then in at least two public newspapers published weekly or oftener nearest to such jurisdiction, every which publication shall for the purpose aforesaid be continued in at least three consecutive numbers of such paper."

The mode of publication prescribed by the above Act has since been several times amended, (a) and the period within which application to quash a promulgated by-law must be made has also been more than once altered; (b) but the effect of promulgation, s. 377, remains precisely what it was under the Act of 1851.

In the Province of British Columbia no municipal by-law comes into effect until a copy of it has been published in the British Columbia Gazette and in one or more newspapers circulating in the municipality. Publication of the by-law in the Gazette with a notice similar to that given in the next section has the effect of promulgation under this Act, and any motion to quash the by-law must be made within one month thereafter. (c)

Form of notice to be published with by-law.

376. The notice to be appended to every copy of the by-law for the purpose aforesaid, shall be to the effect following:

(a) See 36 V. c. 48, s. 237; 37 V. c. 16, s. 7; 42 V. c. 31, s. 9; 56 V. c. 35, s. 8.

(b) 36 V. c. 48, ss. 238, 239 (next succeeding Term); 44 V. c. 24, s. 32 (two months); 46 V. c. 18, s. 332 (three months).

(c) "Municipal Clauses Act," B. C. Statutes, 59 V. c. 37, ss. 83-86.

Notes (a); (a).

NOTICE,—The above is a true copy of a by-law passed by the municipal council of the of on the day of A. D. 19 (and approved by His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor in Council on the day of 19 where such approval is required to give effect to the by-law): And all persons are hereby required to take notice that any one desirous of applying to have such by-law, or any part thereof, quashed, must make his application for that purpose to the High Court of Justice, within three months next after the publication of this notice once a week for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the or he will be too late to be heard in that behalf.

55 V. c. 42, s. 330.

See the statutes referred to under s. 375.

(a) "Within three months next after the publication." See as to the meaning of similar words in "The Municipal Clauses Act," of British Columbia, (d) Kane v. City of Kaslo, (e) referred to in note (a) to s. 379.

If not moved against within the time limited, to be valid.

377. In case no application to quash a by-law is made within three months next after the third publication thereof and of the notice aforesaid, the by-law, or so much thereof as is not the subject of any such application, or is not quashed upon such application, shall, notwithstanding any defect of substance or form, either in the by-law itself, or in the time or manner of passing the same, be a valid by-law, so far as the same ordains, prescribes or directs anything within the proper competence of the council to ordain, prescribe or direct. 55 V. c. 42, s. 331; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (62).

Taken in substance from 14-15 V. c. 109, Sched. A. (21).

(a) "Anything within the proper competence of the council to ordain, prescribe or direct." The words seem to mean "that the by-law be on a subject properly cognizable by the municipality as within their general jurisdiction."(f)

Where, by a by-law granting aid to a railway, the period within which the debt was made payable exceeded the term allowed by s. 384 (4) the defect was held to have been cured by promulgation.(g) But on appeal this decision was reversed, and the by-law quashed on the ground that it was not within the competence of the council to pass such a by-law without the assent of the electors, and that such assent had not been given.(h)

DIVISION V.—QUASHING BY-LAWS. (SECS. 378-383.)

Proceedings to quash by-law.

378.—(1) Any resident of a municipality or any other person interested in a by-law, order or resolution of the council thereof, may apply to the High Court of Justice upon motion to quash the by-law, order or resolution in whole or in part for illegality: and the Court upon such motion may quash the by-law, order or resolution in whole or in part for illegality, and may, according to the result of the application, award costs for or against the corporation.

(h) s.c., 14 A.R. 290; 15 S.C.R. 219.

(a) The statutory jurisdiction of our Courts to quash municipal by-laws for illegality is usually treated as having been first conferred by s. 155 of the Act of 1849, (a) which is the foundation of this section. But in England the Courts have long exercised this power of deciding upon the validity of the by-laws of corporations; (b) and it seems evident that their authority to do so does not rest wholly upon the Statute 19 Hen. VII. c. 7, since that Act applies only to the by-laws of guilds, fraternities, etc., and not to those of cities or boroughs. (c) The jurisdiction is now, however, fully established and can only be taken away by express enactment. (d)

(b) "Any resident of the municipality or any other person interested." The affidavit of the applicant should show that he is a resident of the municipality in which the by-law was passed, or has an interest in the provisions of the by-law. (e) Where an applicant, who moved against a by-law of the united counties of Peterborough and Victoria, swore that during all the year 1850 he had been, and was at the time of the separation, a resident of and within the limits and boundaries of the town of Peterborough, a corporation within the county of Peterborough, it was held that he was sufficiently described as a resident, so as to be entitled to make the application. (f) Where a freeholder of a township, though not a resident, applied to quash a by-law, and it was objected that, being a non-resident, he could not do so; it was held that, as a freeholder of the township, he had an interest in all the by-laws passed by the township council sufficient to enable him to move to quash any of its by-laws. (g) So it has been held that the owner of real estate assessed in the municipality, though not himself named on the assessment roll, had a sufficient interest. (h) Where the affidavit stated the deponent to be a ratepayer and a resident householder, it was held unnecessary to give any further description of him. (i) Acquiescence of the applicant cannot be properly used against him on an application to quash a by-law passed contrary to law, when interests, both public and private, other than those of the applicant are affected. (j) Where the parties applying to quash a by-law incorporating a village, had voted at the municipal elections held for the village as incorporated; one of them had been a candidate for the office of reeve, and another had been elected to the school board, but none of them had promoted the passing of the by-law or had any part in the taking of the census required, it was held that the applicants were not estopped from moving to quash the by-law. (k)

(c) "By-law, order or resolution." The Act of 1849 only mentioned "by-laws," and it was therefore held that the orders and resolutions of municipal councils could not be quashed thereunder (a). By the Act of 1858 (b), the wording of the section was altered as above, so as to include resolutions (c), and in Re Snell and Town of Belleville (d), the words "orders or resolutions" were held to cover market regulations made by a council under s. 580 (2). When that which was intended to be a by-law cannot be treated as such for want of a seal, it may perhaps be included under these words (e).

Notes (c)-(g).

Quære as to the application of this section to by-laws or resolutions of a Board of Police Commissioners, although these Boards now exercise powers which would otherwise (and some of which did in fact formerly) belong to municipal councils (f)?

As to applications to quash by-laws, orders or resolutions in the Provisional Judicial Districts of Algoma and Manitoulin, Thunder Bay and Rainy River, see R.S.O. c. 109, s. 93.

(d) "May apply to the High Court of Justice." The application should be made to a single Judge, not to a Divisional Court (a). Before "The Judicature Act, 1881," (b) the application was to be made to one of the Superior Courts of Common Law (c): But the Court of Chancery though it had no jurisdiction to entertain a motion to quash a by-law, could nevertheless restrain proceedings for its enforcement, if it was of doubtful validity (d).

(e) "Upon motion." Until the Act of 1892 the procedure was by a rule nisi returnable (at first) after eight days (a); and under the later Statutes (b) after four days from service thereof on the corporation (c).

(f) "To quash the by-law etc., in whole or in part." See note (d) to s. 325.

(g) "The Court may quash the by-law in whole or in part for illegality." These words first appear in the Act of 1858 (a). In the early Statutes (b) the language was somewhat different, i. e., "if it shall appear to the Court that such by-law is illegal" the Court may quash it, etc.

In several of the cases decided under these earlier enactments doubts were expressed as to whether these words empowered the Court to quash a by-law for illegality not apparent on its face, but established by evidence aliunde. In Sutherland v. Township of East Nissouri (c) the late Chief Justice ROBINSON, says (d).

> "The language of the clause seems to me to be confined to cases of illegality in the contents of the by-law. It directs that any person interested in the provisions of a by-law may obtain a certified copy of it, and may move the Court upon production of such copy, to quash the by-law; and that if it shall appear to the Court that such by-law is in the whole or in part illegal, they may order it to be quashed in the whole or in part, and may award costs in favour of the corporation or against them. This provision does not seem to contemplate the case of a by-law complained of on grounds wholly apart from the nature of its provisions, and referring to something irregular in the manner of passing it."

(c) 10 U. C. R. 626. (d) Page 627.

Similar language is used by the same learned Judge in Dennis v. Hughes (a) in Hill v. Township of Walsingham, (b) in Boulton v. Town of Peterborough, (c) in Standley v. Township of Vespra and Sunnidale, (d) and Re Taber and Township of Scarborough (e), but where the by-law was shown to have been passed under circumstances which by the express language of other sections would make it illegal (e. g. a by-law under s. 632, without the notices required by that section having first been given) the statutory jurisdiction to quash was of course undoubted (f).

In the case of a by-law not illegal on its face, nor passed in direct contravention of a section of the Statute, it was held to be discretionary with the Court, under its common law jurisdiction, to determine upon extraneous evidence "whether there is such manifest illegality that it would be unjust that the by-law should stand," (a) and it has always been held that the Court will only quash a by-law "for illegality," not for want of clearness of expression or because of difficulty in construing or applying its provisions. (b)

Since the passing of the Act of 1858—the language of which is on this point the same as that of the present section—the following propositions seem to be established.

I. The power of the Court to quash illegal by-laws is discretionary, whether the illegality is or is not apparent on the face of the by-law,—the words "may quash" conferring an authority with a discretion to abstain from its exercise. (c) And it is only where the validity of the by-law is incidentally attacked, e.g., on a prosecution for breach of its provisions, or on a motion to quash a conviction made under it, that the illegality must be apparent on the face of the by-law in order to induce the Court or the magistrate to hold it invalid. (d)

II. The power to quash is not limited to cases where the illegality is thus apparent, but extends to those where it is established by extraneous evidence. (a)

III. Where the illegality appears on the face of the by-law the Court will be less reluctant to quash than when it is dehors the by-law. (b)

IV. Unless the by-law is one affecting rights of property and the jurisdiction of the council to pass it is conferred subject to the fulfillment of certain statutory conditions,—e. g., where it has been petitioned for by a prescribed number of ratepayers, or after certain notices have been given or other preliminary steps taken by the council. Note (g).

The same rule has been applied to a by-law passed under a special Act authorizing a change in the locality of a county town, (d) and to by-laws under "The Temperance Act, 1864." (e)

V. Or unless the evidence establishes that the by-law was passed, not in the interests of the public, but to subserve the interest of some private person or class of persons. (f)

VI. The Court in the exercise of its discretionary power has refused to set aside a by-law even though illegal;

(aa) Where a long time has been allowed to elapse unexplained between the passing of the by-law and the motion to quash.(g) And the Court of Chancery,—which had until 1881 no power to quash by-laws,(h)—refused to interfere by injunction to restrain municipalities from proceeding to enforce the provisions of their by-laws in cases where the person complaining had permitted a Term of the Common Law Courts to pass without moving to quash.(i)

In Re Chamberlain and United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry (j) leave was granted notwithstanding the lapse of two Terms to re-hear a rule made absolute setting aside a by-law, no cause being shown thereto.

(bb) The Court is still less likely to interfere

(1) If the objections are wholly of a technical character; (k) or are mere trivial errors in calculation.(l)

(2) Or if work has been done or money expended under the by-law, or it has been otherwise so acted upon that its repeal would cause much inconvenience(m

(3) Or where the operation of the by-law is practically spent.(n)

(n) Daniels v. Tp. of Burford, 10 U.C.R. 478; Terry v. Tp. of Haldimand, 15 U.C.R. 380. But a by-law which has already been repealed may be quashed. Re Patterson and Tp. of Hope, 31 U.C.R. 360.

(cc) These considerations as to merits, convenience, etc., may be taken into account even though there has not been delay in moving.(o)

(h) The validity of a by-law, etc., may however be incidentally questioned otherwise than by a motion under the above section ;

(1) By a motion to quash a conviction made thereunder : (a)

(2) Or in an action of replevin ; (b)

(3) Or by an action for trespass against an officer acting under its authority ; (c)

(4) Or for a mandamus :

Township of West Nissouri v. Township of North Dorchester, 14 O. R. 294.

(5) Or in an action for (a) an injunction to restrain a breach of the by-law, etc. ; (e) or (b) to restrain the municipality from taking proceedings thereunder ; (f) or (e) for such an injunction and also for other relief—e.g. damages, or a declaration that the by-law is invalid, or both. (g)

(6) Incidentally upon the trial of an action. (h)

But when a by-law is thus incidentally attacked, the Court may refuse to declare it invalid although a direct motion to quash it would be successful. (i) In Re Cloutier, (j) TAYLOR, C. J., held that when objection is taken before a magistrate to the validity of a by-law under which he is asked to convict, the illegality must appear on the face of the by-law, and no evidence should be received to show how the by-law came to be passed, or that there was irregularity or failure to comply with statutory requirements relative to its introduction or passing.

Although section 468 provides that no action shall be brought for anything done under an illegal by-law, etc., until one month has elapsed after the by-law, etc., has been quashed, it was nevertheless held in an action to restrain a municipality from taking gravel from the lands of the plaintiff under the presumed authority of a by-law passed under s. 640 (10), that, notwithstanding the provisions of s. 468, the plaintiff was entitled, without quashing the by-law, to an injunction to restrain the defendants from proceeding to enforce the rights claimed by them thereunder. (q) STREET, J., in giving judgment, says (p. 297).

> "It was objected on the part of the defendants that, even supposing the by-law to be illegal, they were protected by s. 338 (r) of "The Municipal Act" from any action because the by-law has not been quashed. It is perhaps true that the plaintiff here might be unable, until he had quashed the by-law, to recover damages for anything done under even such a by-law as this; but the damages here claimed are trifling; the substantial relief sought is an injunction to restrain the defendants from proceeding to enforce the rights they claim under this by-law. Section 338 does not tie the hands of a person threatened with damage under an illegal by-law; it only prevents him, until he has quashed the by-law, from bringing an action to recover damages for a wrong already done."

(d) "And may according to the result of the application award costs for or against the corporation."

The costs of an application to quash a by-law usually follow the result. If the motion is successful, they are awarded to the applicant. (a)

If the motion to quash is unsuccessful, costs are usually awarded to the corporation. (b)

But the rule is not imperative, and even where the by-law has been quashed, costs have in some instances been refused to the applicant, e. g., where it was shown that the applicant was himself a petitioner for the particular resolution moved against (a); where the application was against the whole by-law and was successful only in part (b); where the objections were of a purely technical character and the by-law was only quashed in deference to decided cases (c); where the by-law was quashed upon grounds other than those upon which the motion was made (d), and where the applicant had acted under the by-law by moving for the appointment of an arbitrator (e).

In other cases, although the by-law has not been quashed, costs have been refused to the corporation, e. g., where the corporation had not preserved evidence that proper notice had been given of a by-law altering the line of a road (f); where the resolution moved against, though illegal, was allowed to stand, on the ground that it was spent and inoperative (g); where, though the proceedings had not been strictly regular, the objections were technical (h); where the application failed because the by-law was not sealed (i); where the council had acted on the authority of previous decisions and great inconvenience would have been caused by quashing the by-law (j); where the point raised was an extremely doubtful one (k); where the corporation, though served, did not appear upon the return of the motion (l); where the corporation had induced the application by reason of the defective character of its by-law, (m) and where the applicant had been led into his present position by the action of members of a previous council (n).

The Court may apportion the costs between the parties (o).

Where the corporation, on being served with a rule nisi, repealed the by-law complained of, they were nevertheless ordered to pay the costs of the application (p). So where the by-law was confirmed by legislation after the motion to quash it had been made (q).

In Re Thompson and United Townships of Bedford et al (r), a motion to quash a by-law for opening a road, the name of the applicant was written by mistake "James" instead of "Joseph" in the copy of the rule nisi served. The road in question also passed through the land of James Thompson, and the corporation, supposing him to be the applicant, prepared affidavits in answer. The mistake having been afterwards discovered and a correct copy of the rule served, the Court, in quashing the by-law, directed the costs incurred by the corporation in consequence of the error to be deducted.

Section 382 provides that in case a by-law is quashed on the ground that its passage has been secured by means of bribery or undue influence, costs may be awarded "against the parties who have supported the by-law or any of them," language which may include others than the corporation.

(2) Notice of the motion shall be served at least seven days before the day on which the motion is to be made.

The notice of motion should be served on the mayor or clerk of the council whose by-law is attacked.

The Court has no power to shorten the period of notice prescribed by this sub-section, Con. Rule 353 applying only to the enlargement or abridgment of times fixed by the Rules or by an order. Re Sweetman and Township of Gosfield, 13 P. R. 293.

Where the rule was to quash a by law for taking stock in a railway company, though the municipal corporation did not show cause the Court declined to hear counsel for the railway company (a), but in Re McKinnon and Village of Caledonia (b)—which was an application to quash a by-law closing a street and allowing a railway company to build an embankment upon it for railway purposes,—WILSON, J. considered that the railway company should have been a party to the rule. And under s. 382, when the motion is to quash the by-law on the ground that its passage was procured by means of bribery or undue influence the Judge may direct notice to be given to parties other than the corporation and may award costs against the parties supporting the by-law or any of them.

(3) Upon such motion the by-law, order or resolution may be proved by the production of a copy thereof, certified under the hand of the clerk, and under the corporate seal, and shewn by affidavit to have been received from the clerk.

Taken from "The Con. Man. Act, 1892," (55 V. c. 42,) s. 272 (3); the original of which is the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99,) s. 104. Cf. 12 V. c. 81, s. 155; 14-15 V. c. 109, Sched. A (21).

(k) Nothing could be more simple than the procedure pointed out by this section; yet it is often disregarded and something more difficult adopted in its stead.

Where the applicant swore that he received the copy from the clerk of the council through R. F. F., his attorney, the sufficiency of the affidavit was doubted. (a) Where the deponent swore that the copy produced was received by one T. from the clerk of the council and was delivered by T. to deponent the affidavit was held sufficient. (b) The Statute does not require that the copy of by-law shall be annexed to the affidavit, but only that it shall be shown that the copy produced is the one received from the clerk, (c) but the Court will not, without sufficient cause shown on affidavit, dispense with the production of a copy of the by-law certified as the section requires, (d) where the copy produced was not under seal and no sufficient proof was given to account for its absence.

In the following cases the by-law was held to be sufficiently proved:—Where the seal of the corporation, though not mentioned in the clerk's certificate, was on the same page with the certificate and was verified by the signature of the reeve and clerk, (e); where the by-law had been passed by the corporation of two united townships and was moved against after the union had been dissolved, and the copy produced was certified under the hand of the clerk of the senior township and under the corporate seal of that township, (f); where the copy filed was under the seal of the municipality and bore opposite the seal the signature "M. F., City Clerk," under the words "A true copy," (g); where the certificate on the copy of the by-law received from the township clerk was in the words "Verified a true copy" which was signed by the clerk and under the corporate seal, but the by-law was not stated to have been signed by the reeve and other proper officer or to be under the corporate seal, (h), and where, on an application for a mandamus, the copy of the by-law put in, not being certified as required by this section, could not be read, but the deponent swore that "a by-law was passed by the town council in words following" (setting out the whole by-law in full) the material before the Court was held to be sufficient for the purposes of the application. (i)

(4) Before any such motion is made or entertained the applicant (or, in case the applicant is a company, some person on its behalf) shall enter into a recognizance before the Judge of the County Court of the county in which is situated the municipality whose by-law is the subject of the notice, himself in the sum of $50, and two sureties each in the sum of $50, conditioned to prosecute the motion with effect, and to pay to the municipality any costs which may be adjudged to them against the applicant.

Taken from the proviso to s. 332 (3) of "The Con. Mun. Act, 1892," 55 Vic. cap. 42. The last clause; "and to pay to the municipality any costs which may be adjudged to them against the applicant," added in 1897 by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (63) and the words in parentheses in lines 2 and 3, "or in case the applicant is a company some person on its behalf," by 60 V. c. 42, which in the original section is limited to the case of a railway company, but has been extended as above in the Revision of 1897 under the authority of 60 V. c. 3, s. 3.

(l) As to the difference between a recognizance and a bond to the municipality see Re Burton and Village of Arthur. (a)

The recognizance may be in the following form,—

(6) In lieu of the recognizance mentioned in sub-sections 4 and 5 of this section the applicant may pay into Court the sum of one hundred dollars as security for any costs which may be adjudged to the municipality against the applicant; and the certificate of such payment into Court having been made, shall be filed in the High Court with the other papers relating to the motion. Sec. 378 (6). Deposit as security for costs of motion to quash by-law.

(7) Upon the determination of the proceedings the judge may order the money so paid into Court to be applied in the payment of costs, or to be paid out to the applicant in the discretion of the judge according to the result of the application. Application of deposit on determination of application.

(8) Subject to any Rules of Court, all moneys required to be paid into or out of Court under this section shall be paid in and paid out in like manner as moneys are paid into and out of Court in actions pending in the High Court. 62 V. (2nd Sess.) c. 26, s. 21. Procedure on payment into or out of Court.

Sub-ss. 6-8 were added to the section by "The Municipal Amendment Act, 1899," (62 V. (2nd Session), c. 26, s. 21).

(m) "In like manner as moneys are paid into and out of Court in actions pending in the High Court."

As to the procedure in such cases, see Con. Rules (1897) Nos. 42, 45, 405-429 inclusive, and the cases noted thereon in Holmested & Langton, (2nd Ed.), pp. 583-593.

378*a*. Where it is alleged that a by-law of any municipality injuriously affects another municipality or the ratepayers thereof or any of them, and that such by-law is illegal or contrary to law, the said other municipality or any ratepayer thereof shall have the same right to apply to quash or set aside the by-law as a ratepayer of the municipality which passed or adopted the by-law may have; but in case an application to quash a by-law is made by a municipal corporation hereunder, such corporation shall not be required to give a recognizance under section 378, nor shall sub-sections 4 and 5 of the said section apply to any such application by a municipal corporation. 62 V. (2nd Session) c. 26, s. 22. By-law affecting another municipality. Who may apply to quash. Sub-ss. 4 and 5 not to apply to municipal corporations.

(a) Since the payment of $100 into Court under s. 378 (6) is only "in lieu of the recognizance mentioned in sub-sections 4 and 5," it would seem that no security is required in the case covered by the last clause of this section.

Taken from the Act of 1866, (29-30 V. c. 52) s. 198.

(a) "No application to quash a by-law, etc., shall be entertained." (a) Even before 1866, when this time-limit was imposed, the Courts required that applications to quash by-laws should be made within a reasonable time. (b) Although an application to quash a by-law which requires, (but is alleged not to have received,) the assent of the electors or ratepayers "may be made at any time," yet the Court, in the exercise of its discretionary power, may refuse to set aside such by-law if there has been delay in applying, especially where the by-law is valid on its face. (a)

Time within which application to quash by-law must be made.

An amending by-law may be moved against after the expiration of a year from the passage of the original by-law :—

(1) Where the original by-law is intra vires, but by the amendment is made ultra vires or so objectionable as to demand the interference of the Court ;

(2) Where the original by-law is objectionable, and the amending by-law extends its objectionable provisions to new objects, new territory, or over a further period of time.

Where, however, the original by-law is objectionable, and the amending by-law limits its application or makes some immaterial verbal alteration, the Court should not interfere, since the party moving has lost his right to take the objection as against the original by-law. (b)

Sec. 128 of the Municipal Act of British Columbia provided that "no application to quash a by-law . . . shall be entertained unless made within one month after the passing of the by-law." By s. 122, every by-law was binding after publication in the B. C. Gazette. S. 126 (1) provided for the publication of a notice (appended to the published copy) similar to that given in s. 376 of this Act, but limiting to one month after publication the time for any application to quash ; and s. 126 (2) provided—(like s. 377 of this Act)—that, failing such application within the month, the by-law should be valid. Held, that an application to quash might be made within a month after the publication in the Gazette, though more than a month had elapsed since the by-law was passed by the council. (c)

(b) "Unless the application is made within one year."

Secs. 381, 382.

Quashing by-laws obtained by bribery, etc.

381. Any by-law the passage of which has been procured through, or by means of, any violation of the provisions of sections 245 and 246 of this Act, shall be liable to be quashed upon an application made in conformity with the provisions hereinbefore contained. 55 V. c. 42, s. 335.

Taken from 35 V. c. 36, s. 13, (1872).

(a) "Any violation of the provisions of sections 245 and 246 of this Act." These are the sections relating to bribery and undue influence.

(b) "In conformity with the provisions hereinbefore contained." The reference is to the procedure under section 378.

Procedure in such cases.

382.—(1) If, before determining an application for the quashing of a by-law, upon the ground that any of the provisions of sections 245 and 246 of this Act have been contravened in procuring the passing of the same, it is made to appear to a Judge of the High Court that probable grounds exist for a motion to quash the by-law, the Judge may, upon such notice to the parties affected as he may direct, make an order for an inquiry to be held concerning the said grounds before the Judge of the County Court of the county in which the municipality which passed the by-law is situate, and may require that upon the inquiry all witnesses, both against and in support of the by-law, shall be orally examined and cross-examined upon oath before the County Court Judge.

Inquiry by County Judge.

Return of evidence.

(2) The County Court Judge shall thereupon return the evidence so taken before him to the proper office of the High Court of Justice; and after the return of the evidence and upon reading the same, a Judge of the High Court may, upon notice to such of the parties concerned as he thinks proper, proceed to hear and determine the question; and if the grounds therefor appear to him to be satisfactorily established, he may make an order quashing the by-law, and may order the costs of the proceedings to be paid by the parties who have supported the by-law or any of them; and if it appears that the application to quash the by-law ought to be dismissed, the Judge may so order, and may in his discretion order the costs to be paid by the persons applying to quash the by-law. 55 V. c. 42, s. 336; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (64).

Judgment.

Costs.

Taken from 35 V. c. 36, s. 14 (1872), the words "proper office of the High Court of Justice" having been substituted by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (64) for the words "one of the Registrars of the High Court at Toronto."

(a) This section provides for an "inquiry" and (afterwards) for "a hearing and determination." The inquiry is to be held before a Judge of the County Court, the hearing and determination before a Judge of the High Court; but before an inquiry can be ordered, "probable grounds" for a motion to quash the by-law must have been shewn to the Judge to whom the application is made. On the inquiry, all witnesses, both against and in support of the by-law, are to be orally examined and cross-examined before the County Judge. No express provision is made for compelling the attendance of witnesses on the inquiry, but it is apprehended that their attendance may be compelled by subpoena issued out of the Court in which the application is pending.

(b) "A Judge of the High Court." The Master in Chambers has no power to order an inquiry under this section, as he has under section 248 (a).

(c) "The proper office of the High Court of Justice." The Central Office is intended.

Stay of proceedings on the by-law.

383. After an order has been made by a Judge directing an inquiry, and after a copy of the order has been left with the clerk of the corporation the by-law of which is in question, all further proceedings upon the by-law shall be stayed until after the disposal of the application in respect of which the inquiry has been directed; but if the matter is not prosecuted to the satisfaction of the Judge he may remove the stay of proceedings. 55 V. c. 42, s. 337.

DIVISION VI.--BY-LAWS CREATING DEBTS.

(SECS. 384-395.)

Synopsis.--Sections 384-386 prescribe certain matters which, in order to the validity of a debenture by-law, must appear upon its face. Sections 394 and 395 exempt from certain of these requirements the debenture by-laws therein specified. Section 389 (1) lays down the general rule that by-laws for raising upon the credit of a municipality money not required for its ordinary expenditure and not payable within the municipal year must receive the assent of certain of the electors as provided in ss. 338-368, ante; but several exceptions to this general rule are enumerated in ss. 388, 388*a*, 389, and in the other sections referred to in the notes thereon.

Section 390 regulates the procedure under which county councils may avail themselves of the power conferred by s. 388; and ss. 391-393 limit the powers of councils and municipal officers as to altering or repealing debenture by-laws.

Section 387,—which declares that all special rates and assessments imposed and levied under the Act, and all sewer rents and charges for work done upon the default of owners of real property, "shall form a lien and charge," etc.,—would seem to belong rather to "The Assessment Act" than to a Division of "The Municipal Act" which relates chiefly to the form of debenture by-laws and the procedure necessary to their adoption.

By-laws for contracting debts payable in futuro.

384.—(1) Every municipal council may, under the formalities required by law, pass by-laws for contracting debts for any purpose within the jurisdiction of the council, by borrowing money or otherwise, and for levying rates on the rateable property of the municipality for payment of such debts, but no such by-law shall be valid which is not in accordance with the following restrictions and provisions, except in so far as is otherwise provided in the next following two sections of this Act. 55 V. c. 42, s. 340, first clause.

Taken from the Act of 1858 (22 V. c. 99), s. 222. Cf. 12 V. c. 81, s. 177; 14-15 V. c. 109, Sched. A (24) and s. 4.

(a) "No such by-law shall be valid which is not in accordance with the following restrictions," etc. Since a municipal council holds office only for a year, it is essential for the protection alike of the ratepayers and of the municipal creditor that its power to create debts payable in futuro should be strictly limited. Accordingly it is provided by this section that no such debt shall be incurred unless,—(1) it is for a purpose within the jurisdiction of the council; (2) the by-law creating it complies with the statutory requirements set out in this and the two following sections; and (3) is passed "under the formalities required by law," viz. (except in the cases enumerated in ss. 388, 388a, 389, and the notes thereto), with the assent of the ratepayers as provided by sections 338-368, inclusive; and, in the case of a county council by-law, under the procedure prescribed by s. 390. Until 1858 these requirements were only directory (a), but now they are imperative and essential to the validity of the by-law.

Sec. 234.

Note (a).

Requirements of debenture by-laws.

(2) The by-law, (if not creating a debt for the purchase of public works, whether of this Province or of the Dominion of Canada, pursuant to the Statutes in that behalf and to the provisions of sections 394 and 395), shall name a day in the financial year in which the same is passed when it is to take effect; and if no day is named it shall take effect on the day of the passing thereof. 60 V. c. 45, s. 43 (1).

By-law to name a day when it goes into effect.

Taken from the Act of 1858 (22 V. c. 99), s. 222 (1); the words "and if no day is named, it shall take effect on the day of the passing thereof," added by R.S.O. (1887), c. 184, s. 340 (1).

(b) "If not creating a debt for the purchase of public works." As to by-laws for this purpose, see R.S.Ca. c. 36, [illegible] 19 and ss. 394-395 of this Act.

(c) "Shall name a day in the fin[illegible] year . . . when it is to take effect."

The "financial year" is appar[illegible] intended to coincide with the civil year ending with December 31st. See ss. 409, 427; and cf. ss. 279*a*, 291*a*, 300 (2), 302, 304 (1), 328, 391, 402 (1), etc.

> "The Legislature meant that it should not be necessary to refer to anything extrinsic to the by-law for the purpose of learning when it would or ought to come into operation. The purchaser of a debenture, for instance, would require to see that it and the by-law under which it was issued were legal, and might on that account require to see when the by-law took effect" (b).

In that case, however, although the by-law named no day on which it was to take effect, the learned Chief Justice refused to quash it, "considering the mischief or serious inconvenience which would probably result" (c), but in Re Nichol and Tp. of Alnwick (d) the omission to name a day on which the by-law should take effect was held fatal.

Since these cases were decided the final clause of the section has been added (e); and in Re Caldwell and Town of Galt (f), where a by-law was moved against on the ground that in the printed copy published under s. 338 (2) the date on which the by-law was to come into operation was left blank (although stated to be "in the same financial year in which the by-law will be passed"), ROBERTSON, J., refused to give effect to this objection, saying, (p. 381):

> "It appears to me that the reference to the date of its taking effect, being in blank, may be treated as surplusage. It was not necessary to its validity to name a day, the Statute supplying the omission by declaring that in that case it shall take effect on the day on which it passed."

But where the copy of a proposed debenture by-law, published under s. 338 (2), named the 13th of December as the day on which the by-law should go into effect, and in the by-law itself (as adopted by the council) this was altered to the 30th of December, the variance was held to be fatal. (g)

Sec. 384 (2)-(4).

Note (c).
Date of taking effect.

GWYNNE, J., in delivering the judgment of the Supreme Court, says, (p. 374):

> "It has been argued that the alteration from the 13th of December . . . to the 30th of December . . . was the mere correction of a mistake of a most formal nature, which it was quite within the power of the council to make; for the reason that, as is suggested (a), the mistake cannot be supposed to have influenced the ratepayers in recording their votes; but, . . . in an action of this nature, I do not think we can inquire whether the mistake could or could not have influenced the ratepayers in recording their votes. The question appears to me to be simply, has the Statute been complied with? If a by-law of this nature, in order to be a valid by-law, must "name a day within the financial year in which the same is passed when the by-law shall take effect," and if it must be approved by the ratepayers before the council can pass it, it appears to me that the proposed by-law, which is to be taken into consideration by the council after having been voted upon by the ratepayers, and is to be passed as having been approved by them, must be the very one which was submitted to them."

Debentures, when to be issued.

(3) The debentures may be issued all at one time, and in such case within a year after the passing of the by-law; or, in any case where, because of the proposed expenditure upon the objects for which the debt is contracted being estimated to extend over a series of years, and it being undesirable to have large portions of the moneys in hand unused and uninvested, or for other like or sufficient causes set out in the by-law, it would, in the opinion of the municipal council, be to the advantage of the municipality, the debentures may be issued in instalments of such amounts (not exceeding in the aggregate the total amount for which provision is made by the by-law), and at such times, as the exigency of the case demands, but so that the whole shall be issued within five years, and the first instalment within one year, after the passing of the by-law. 60 V. c. 45, s. 43 (2).

When to be made payable.

(4) If contracted for railways, harbour works or improvements, gas or water-works, or for the construction of sewers, the purchase and improvement of parks or the erection of public school houses, or for electric light works in towns having a population of 5,000 or under, the whole debt, or each instalment of the debt, as the case may be, and the obligations to be issued therefor, respectively, shall be made payable in thirty years at furthest; and unless contracted for any of the purposes aforesaid, or for the purchase of public works, as aforesaid, then in twenty years at furthest from the time or times when the debentures are by the by-law directed or authorized to be issued, whether that be at a date or dates certain, specifically fixed, or at a date or dates depending upon and determined by the happening of any event or events or upon the fulfilment of any condition or conditions as set forth in the by-law. 60 V. c. 45, s. 43 (2*a*). See sec. 565.

(d) The original time-limit within which debts contracted by municipal corporations were required to be payable was in all cases twenty years at farthest from the time of the coming into force of the by-law creating them. (b)

(a) By OSLER, J. A., 8 O. R. at p. 217.

(b) 14-15 V. c. 109, Sched. A (24).

By the Act of 1858, debts contracted for the purchase of public works were excepted, and the period was extended to thirty years in the case of those contracted for gas- and water-works. (a)

Term for which debt may be created.

By 52 V. c. 36, s. 12 (1889), the thirty years limit was extended to debts created in aid of railways; by 53 V. c. 50, s. 9 (1890), to those incurred for the construction of sewers, the purchase and improvement of parks, and the erection of public school houses; by 54 V. c. 42, s. 10, to debts for harbour works or improvements, and by 60 V. c. 45, ss. 3 and 43 (2*a*) to debts incurred for the erection or purchase of electric light works in towns having a population of 5,000 or under. (b) By the section last cited, the date from which the thirty years (or twenty years) is to be counted was the time when the debentures are authorized or required to be issued, instead of (as formerly) the date when the by-law came into effect.

Prior to the amendment of this sub-section in 1897, a by-law to raise by way of loan $3,000 to aid in repairing harbour-works, which provided that the debentures should be payable annually and that the first payment should be made on the 15th day of December "in the year next succeeding the year in which the repairs will have been completed," was held to be illegal on the ground that the time thereby fixed for repayment of the debt was uncertain. (c)

Specific sums to be annually raised for principal and interest respectively.

(5) The by-law shall settle a certain specific sum to be raised annually, for the payment of interest during the currency of the debentures or of each instalment of the debentures, as the case may be, and also a certain specific sum to be raised annually for the payment of the debt, or of each instalment thereof, as the case may be; and the said sums shall be such as will be sufficient, with the estimated interest on the investments thereof, to discharge the debt, or the instalment, as the case may be, when payable; and the annual rate required for such purposes shall begin from the date when the debentures are by the by-law directed or authorized to be issued as aforesaid. 60 V. c. 45, s. 43 (3).

Taken from 42 V. c. 31, s. 10 (1), (1879); last clause added by 57 V. c. 50, s. 12, (1894), and the whole sub-section recast by 60 V. c. 45, s. 43 (3), (1897).

Former law.

(e) Prior to 1879 the amount necessary to pay the debt and interest was required to be raised by an equal annual special rate. (d)

Under these Acts it was held that the by-law must show on its face the rate authorized to be levied, and not leave the amount of such rate to be computed by the clerk of the municipality (e). Where the rate imposed by the by-law was insufficient, the by-law was held bad. (f)

By 42 V. c. 31, s. 10 (2),—passed on the 11th of March, 1879,—this sub-section was amended so as to provide that instead of imposing an equal annual special rate, the by-law should settle a specific sum to be raised in each year for interest and for sinking fund respectively, it having been found by experience

Sec. 384 (5-6).

Note (e).

Specific sums to be raised annually.

that, owing to the increase in the assessed value of rateable property, an equal annual rate often produced a larger sum than was needed. Since this amendment, a by-law was held invalid which, though fixing specific sums to be annually raised as aforesaid, directed (as under the former law) that during the currency of the debentures a special rate of so much on the dollar should be levied and collected in each year. (a)

In the preamble of a debenture by-law (passed in August, 1898) to raise the sum of $10,000, it was recited that "it will require the sum of $400 to be raised annually for payment of . . . interest, and the further sum of $335.81 to be raised annually as a sinking fund," etc.; and the by-law enacted that for paying the debentures and interest "the specific sum hereinbefore recited, viz., the sum of $735.81" should be annually raised, etc.

An objection that the enacting part of the by-law should have stated separately the specific sums to be raised for interest and for sinking fund respectively, was overruled. (b)

The amount to be raised in any year under a debenture by-law towards the sinking fund of the debt created thereby is "a debt falling due within the year;" (c) and, upon the application of a debenture-holder, the council may be compelled by mandamus to levy and to collect the amount for the current year, but (it seems) not to collect arrears, nor can the mandamus direct a levy in any future year, since it will not be assumed that the municipality will not include this debt in their annual estimates. (d)

The provisions of this sub-section apparently apply to by-laws passed under "The Public Schools Act," (R. S. O. c. 292,) s. 70, for the issue of debentures for the erection of school-houses. (e)

Commencement of annual rate.

(6) No by-law passed before the 1st day of July, 1897, shall be deemed to be invalid by reason only of such annual rate commencing at a time subsequent to the year in which the by-law took effect, or because the levy of such annual rate did not begin until the fulfilment of conditions contained in the by-law. 60 V. c. 45, s. 43 (3*a*) and s. 46.

Taken from 57 V. c. 50, s. 12, (1894).

(f) Prior to 1894, the combined effect of this section (384) and s. 402 (1) was, apparently, to render it necessary that the annual rate imposed by a by-law creating a debt should begin to be levied and collected in the year immediately succeeding the passing of the by-law. In other words, the ratepayers by whose votes the obligation was imposed could not escape their liability to contribute towards its payment by postponing the issue of the debentures (f). This, however, may now be done. See sub-ss. 4 and 5, supra.

(7) Nothing in this section contained shall apply to or affect any debentures issued or to be issued in pursuance of section 21 of the Act passed in the 54th year of Her Majesty's reign, chaptered 72, or sections 1 and 3 of the Act passed in the 57th year of Her Majesty's reign, chaptered 71. 60 V. c. 45, s. 43 (3c).

Debentures issued under certain special Acts not affected.

(g) The Acts referred to are private Acts of Parliament relating to debenture by-laws of the City of London, Ont.

(8) In settling the sum to be raised annually for the payments of the debt, the rate of interest on investments shall not be estimated at more than four per cent. per annum, to be capitalized yearly. 55 V. c. 42, s. 340 (4); 60 V. c. 45, s. 45.

Interest on investments how estimated.

(h) Under the law as it stood prior to the alteration made in 1879 and referred to in note (e), supra, no allowance was to be made for any income arising from the temporary investment of moneys raised for sinking fund (a), although such investment was expressly authorized (b).

When, however, the Act of 1879 (c) provided that instead of an equal annual special rate being levied to pay the debt and interest, the by-law should fix a specific sum to be raised each year for sinking-fund, it was also declared that in fixing this sum allowance might be made for interest arising from the investment thereof (d). The maximum rate to be allowed on account of such interest was fixed by the Act of 1879 at five per cent, which is reduced to four per cent per annum by 60 V. c. 45, s. 45 (1897) (e). The estimates on which the by-law is founded need not appear on its face. In the absence of evidence to the contrary the Court will assume that the requirements of the Statute have been complied with (f).

(9) The by-law shall provide that such annual sum shall be raised and levied in each year by a special rate sufficient therefor, on all the rateable property in the municipality; or, (if the by-law is for a work payable by local assessment), on all the property rateable under the by-law or per foot frontage as the case may be. 55 V. c. 42, s. 340 (5).

(d) The amount of the existing debenture debt of the municipality, and how much (if any) of the principal or interest is in arrear. 55 V. c. 42, s. 340 (6).

Clauses (a) and (b) are taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99), s. 222 (6); clause (c) from the same Act as amended by 29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 226 (6), and clause (d) from 42 V. c. 31, s. 11. Cf.—as to clauses (a), (b) and (c)—14-15 V. c. 109, s. 4.

Amount of new debt.

(l) "The amount of the debt which the new by-law is intended to create." A very common mistake in drawing debenture by-laws is the recital therein of the amount of money intended to be raised, instead of the amount of the debt which the by-law is intended to create. The two are quite distinct, and it is the latter, not the former, which must appear in the recital. If, therefore, it is desired to raise a certain sum of money, allowance must be made for discount and other charges incidental to the sale of the debentures, and the by-law must authorize the issue of debentures for a sum sufficient, after these deductions, to produce the amount required. It is this latter sum which constitutes "the debt" created by the by-law.

Before the provisions of this section in regard to debenture by-laws had been made imperative and essential to the validity of such by-laws, a by-law of the City of Toronto to raise for Esplanade purposes "a sum not exceeding in the whole £75,000" (although quashed on other grounds) was sustained as against an objection that it did not positively state the amount of the debt to be created.(a) But in Re Hawke and Township of Wellesley, (b) a by law was held invalid which, after providing for the sale of the old town-hall, directed that "any money beyond the proceeds of such sale required for the erection of a new hall" should be levied, etc.,—the amount of the debt not being fixed by the by-law.

Object of new debt.

(m) "In some brief and general terms, the object for which it is to be created." Even before this was required by 14-15 V. c. 109, s. 4, a by-law to provide for the current general expenses of, and the liquidation of "the debt due by" the County of M., but not stating what debt or for what amount, was held bad (c). Per ROBINSON, C. J., (p. 96).

> "When the ratepayers had paid up the whole £1,500 to be levied under this by-law they would not know what debt they had paid."

A town council—with the approval of the ratepayers entitled to vote on money by-laws—passed a by-law "to raise $10,000 to pay the expenses of opening up a new street between Main street and H. street, through the property known as the Addison property and other properties, so as to continue and extend A. street in a southerly direction between Main street and H. street." Subsequently, and before the argument of a motion to quash, they passed another by-law, expropriating the land required for the extension, and describing it by metes and bounds. ROBERTSON, J. nevertheless quashed the debenture by-law on the ground that the recital (above quoted) was not sufficient to satisfy the requirements of this sub-section, and held that the expropriating by-law should first have been passed defining with reasonable certainty the lands to be taken for the street extension (d).

(n) "The total amount required by this Act to be raised annually for paying the new debt and interest." These words have not been altered since 1858, although since 1879 this "total amount" is to be made up by adding together two distinct sums, viz., the specific sum annually raised for interest and the specific sum annually raised towards making up the sinking fund for payment of the principal of the debt.

Where, (before the Act of 1879,) the by-law fixed an annual special rate which, upon the amount of the rateable property named therein, would produce about $150 less than the total amount of the debt to be incurred, the Court refused to set aside the by-law. (a)

(o) "The amount of the whole rateable property of the municipality." In stating this amount, the assessed value of property exempt from taxation either under s. 7 of "The Assessment Act" or under s. 411 of this Act, must of course be excluded.

In an affidavit filed on a motion to quash a debenture by-law it was sworn that the amount of the rateable property of the municipality was not $6,434,-773 (as stated in the by-law) but $7,568,468. The clerk of the municipality, in answer, stated the true amount to be $6,435,475. Held, that the objection could not prevail, and that the difference between the amount stated in the by-law and that sworn to by the clerk was immaterial. (b)

(p) "The amount of the existing debenture debt of the municipality." The Court refused to set aside a by-law (otherwise valid) from which had unintentionally been omitted a recital of an existing debt of $2,691, the assessed value of the rateable property of the township being about $1,500,000. (c) Such a defect would now be cured by registering the by-law under s. 396.

Every special assessment made, and every special rate imposed and levied under any of the provisions of this Act, and all sewer rents and charges for work or services done by the corporation, upon the default of the owners of real estate, under the provisions of any valid by-law of the council of the corporation, shall form a lien and charge upon the real estate upon or in respect of which the same have been assessed and rated or charged, and shall be collected in the same manner, and with the like remedies as ordinary taxes upon real estate are collectable under the provisions of The Assessment Act. 55 V. c. 42, s. 343.

Taken from 42 V. c. 31, s. 25, (1879).

(a) This section seems to relate to three distinct classes of incumbrances which may be created by municipal councils on real estate, viz.,

(1) Special rates under debenture by-laws for local improvements or otherwise. (a)

Until the passing (in 1891) of the Act 54 V. c. 42, s. 35—(now s. 681 of this Act q.v.)—a purchaser of real estate "free from incumbrances" had the right to have such special rates paid off and discharged out of his purchase money whether they were or were not yet due. (b)

Until this enactment such rents were not a tax upon the land, but only a personal charge against the owner or occupant (c): payment thereof could

County by-laws for raising more than $20,000 in any one term to be submitted to electors.

388. A county council elected under this Act may, during any one term for which it is elected raise by a by-law or by-laws for contracting debts or loans not more than $20,000 over and above the sums required for its ordinary expenditure without submitting such by-law or by-laws for the assent of the electors. 59 V. c. 52, s. 37; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (125).

Taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99) s. 223, under which the debt of $20,000 might be incurred within a year. The term of office of county councillors having been extended to two years by "The County Councils Act, 1896," the section was amended as above by 60 V.c. 15, Sched. C. (125). See s. 390.

(a) "Ordinary expenditure." See note (d) to s. 389.

By-laws for raising money not for ordinary expenditure must (with certain exceptions) receive assent of electors.

389.—(1) Subject to the provisions of the last preceding section, every by-law (except for drainage, as provided for under The Municipal Drainage Act, or for a work payable entirely by local assessment) for raising, upon the credit of the municipality, any money not required for its ordinary expenditure, and not payable within the same municipal year, shall, before the final passing thereof, receive the assent of the electors of the municipality in the manner provided for in section 338 and following sections of this Act. 55 V. c. 42, s. 344 (1), part; 59 V. c. 52, s. 37; 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. Exception as to erecting court houses and offices.

(2) But where a county and city are united for judicial purposes, the council of the county or city may, at any meeting of the council without submitting the same for the assent of the electors of such county or city, as the case may be, pass a by-law or by-laws for contracting a debt, by raising such sums of money as may be required for erecting, building and furnishing a court house and offices to be used in connection therewith, and for acquiring such land as may be necessary or convenient for the purposes of such court house and offices, and may for that purpose issue debentures at such rates and upon such terms and payable at such times as they may do for meeting any other liability of the said county or city. 55 V. c. 42, s. 344 (2); 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. Notes (a)-(e).

Exception as to payment by a city or town of share of county debt.

(3) The council of a city or of a town withdrawn from the county, may, by by-law passed at any meeting of the council, without submitting the same for the assent of the electors, raise such sums of money as may be required to liquidate their share of the county debt (as awarded or agreed upon pursuant to this Act), and may, for that purpose, issue debentures at such rates, for such times and upon such terms as they are entitled to do for meeting any other liability of said city or town. 55 V. c. 42, s. 344 (3).

Taken from the Act of 1858 (22 V. c. 99) s. 223. The exception as to drainage by-laws and by-laws for works payable by local assessment, was created by the Act of 1866, (29-30 V. c. 5) ss. 227 and 305; as to by-laws for the erection, etc., of court-houses, (sub. 2) by 14 V. c. 25, s. 6, (1881), and as to by-laws by a separated city or town for raising its share of the county debt, (sub.-s. 3) by 49 V. c. 37, s. 7. (1886).

(a) "Every by-law except for drainage as provided for under "The Municipal Drainage Act," etc. See as to such by-laws, R.S.O. c. 226, ss. 19, etseq.

(b) "Or for a work payable entirely by local assessment." These words have not been altered since 1866, when they first appeared in the section. They are now not strictly accurate; see ss. 675, 678 and 685, which authorize the passing without the assent of the electors of by-laws creating debts for works the cost of which is not to be entirely paid by local assessment.

(c) "For raising upon the credit of the municipality," i.e., for creating a debt. The section does not in terms apply to any work which may be paid for out of the taxes of the year. (a)

(d) "Its ordinary expenditure." This expression has apparently the same meaning as the words "the current annual expenses of the municipality" in s. 402 (2) and covers "salaries of officers, ordinary repairs and works of that kind . . . which must be provided for year by year; as distinguished from that which is to last for many years," e.g., erecting an engine house or constructing extensive sewer works. (b)

For examples of what cannot be considered as "ordinary expenditure," see Scott v. Town of Peterborough, (c) (bridge across the River Otonabee); McMaster v. Town of Newmarket, (d) (erection of town hall); Cross v. City of Ottawa, (e) (construction of main drain); Wright v. County of Grey, (f) (grading and ditching 177 miles of road); Oliver v. City of Ottawa, (g) (bridge across the River Ottawa); but in County of Wentworth v. City of Hamilton, (h) the amount payable as the city's share of the expense of maintaining prisoners in the county gaol was held to be within their ordinary expenditure.

(e) "And not payable within the same municipal year."

> "I incline to think that any appropriation of moneys for other than ordinary purposes, whether payable within the year or not, requires the express sanction of the ratepayers. I am led to this conclusion from the exception in regard to county councils." (i)

The town of St. Catharines had been authorized to issue debentures to the amount of £45,248, for the liquidation of which a special rate was directed to be levied, the proceeds of which were directed to be invested to form a sinking fund for this purpose. By the Act the town was prohibited (except for the construction of water-works) from passing any by-law to create any new debt extending beyond the year in which the by-law was passed, until the debt was reduced to £25,000. The special rate authorized to be imposed had been duly levied and collected, but it was alleged that instead of investing the proceeds to form a sinking fund for the payment of the debentures these proceeds had been applied to the general purposes of the town. The defendants denied the misapplication of the fund, but did not shew how it had been applied. With the view of inducing the county council to remove the county town of Lincoln from Niagara to St. Catharines, the town council of St. Catharines, without any by-law authorizing the same, contracted with certain builders to erect, at an outlay of £3,000, a gaol and court house for the use of the county, to be completed in two years. Upon an application at the instance of the holders of the debentures issued under the first mentioned Act, the Court restrained the town from suffering or permitting the buildings to be proceeded with. On appeal, the injunction was dissolved, it appearing that the contract had been cancelled, and that no liability had been incurred by the corporation extending beyond the current year. If it had been shewn that any act of the corporation would have had the effect of incurring a liability payable in a future year, the injunction would have been continued to the hearing.(a)

In Re Carpenter and Township of Barton,(b) the facts were as follows :—

A by-law had been passed by the City of Hamilton on the 10th of January, 1887, granting $5,000 towards the construction of one of several "free roads", leading into the city, to be paid for when and so soon as the sum of $3,500 should have been contributed by the corporation of the Township of Barton, or any other municipality and private subscribers and should have been actually expended on the work of the construction of the said roads or on the purchase of the right of way therefor. The payment was also to be made conditional on the construction of the roads in the manner and on the terms stated in the by-law and subject to certain conditions therein contained. Among these was a condition that no money should be paid until the council of the Township of Barton should have passed a by-law for the assumption of the said roads, and their proper maintenance by the township, and until an agreement should have been entered into between the township and the City of Hamilton, providing for the maintenance of the said roads in a proper state of repair, and as free roads for all time to come ; and it was further provided that before any moneys were paid, the city was to be satisfied that the eastern free road would provide connection with the present system of township roads to secure free travel from the top of the mountain, etc. No date was fixed for doing the work or for paying the money, and no provision made for levying the amount during the municipal year, nor was the by-law submitted to the vote of the ratepayers.

Held, that the by-law created a future, indefinite and contingent liability, and, if it was valid at all, it should have been submitted to a vote of the ratepayers.

In Kerfoot v. Village of Watford (c), the facts were as follows :—

The construction of a drain being alleged to be necessary, both for sanitary reasons and for the purpose of keeping in repair the highway under which a portion of it passed, the defendants resolved to construct it if necessary as part of the ordinary expenditure of the current year, but nevertheless submitted to the electors a by-law for the cost of its construction, which by-law was defeated. The council, however, proceeded with the construction of the drain; and again a second time in the same year submitted a by-law, which was carried. It appeared that the drain might have been paid for out of the ordinary expenditure of the year without exceeding the statutory limit of taxation.

Held, that the first by-law having been defeated did not prevent the submission of the second in the same year, nor did the fact of the work having been commenced as part of the ordinary expenditure for the year prevent the defendants (after the defeat of the first by-law) from submitting a second by-law for the construction of the drain.

Certain by-laws of county councils not to be valid unless passed at meeting specially called and held three months after notice, etc.

390. Except in the case provided for by subsection 2 of the last preceding section, no by-law of a county council for contracting any such debt or loan as is mentioned in section 388 of this Act, shall be valid, unless the same is passed at a meeting of the council specially called for the purpose of considering the same, and held not less than three months after a copy of the by-law, as the same is ultimately passed, to-

The original of this section is 14-15 V. c. 109, s. 16, which applied to all municipal councils. Its application was restricted to county councils by the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99), s. 224. Cf. 29-30 V. c. 51, s. 252; 37 V. c. 16, s. 8; 40 V. c. 7, Sched. (b) "A meeting of the Council specially called for the purpose of considering the same." See note (b) to s. 270.

(c) "A copy of the by-law as the same is ultimately passed." If the by-law as passed materially differs from the published copy, it will be held invalid. (a)

Where part only of money raised, by-law may be repealed as to residue.

391. Where only part of a sum of money provided for by a by-law has been raised, the council may repeal the by-law as to any part of the residue, and as to a proportionate part of the special rate imposed therefor, provided (a) the repealing by-law recites the facts on which it is founded, (b) is appointed to take effect on the 31st day of December in the year of its passing, (c) does not affect any rates due, or penalties incurred before that day, and (d) is first approved by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council. 55 V. c. 42, s. 346.

Taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99), s. 230.

(a) It is an erroneous impression that when once a municipal council has determined to contract a loan, in order, for example, to aid in advancing a public work, the whole matter of the by-law passed for that object is entirely out of their control, and not merely such parts of it as are necessary for securing those who have advanced money under its provisions. (b)

Until debt paid certain by-laws cannot be repealed.

392. After a debt has been contracted, the council shall not until the debt and interest have been paid, repeal the by-law under which the debt was contracted, or any by-law for paying the debt or the interest thereon, or for providing therefor a rate or additional rate, or for appropriating thereto the surplus income of any work or of any stock or interest therein, or money from any other source; and the council shall not alter a by-law providing any such rate, so as to diminish the amount

No officer to neglect, etc., to carry out by-law for payment under colour of illegal by-law.

393. No officer of the municipality shall neglect or refuse to carry into effect a by law for paying a debt under colour of a by-law illegally attempting to repeal such first-mentioned by-law, or to alter the same so as to diminish the amount to be levied under it. 55 V. c. 42, s. 348.

(a) The original section, (22 V. c. 99, s. 203; 29-30 V. c. 51, s. 207), declared that > "Such officer shall be guilty of a misdemeanour and be punished by fine or imprisonment or both at the discretion of the Court," etc.

The case is now governed by s. 138 of "The Criminal Code, 1892," which provides that > "Every one is guilty of an indictable offence and liable to one year's imprisonment, who, without lawful excuse, disobeys any Act of the Parliament of Canada or of any Legislature in Canada by wilfully doing any act which it forbids, or omitting to do any act which it requires to be done, unless some penalty or other mode of punishment is expressly provided by law. (a) In Re O'Neil and The United Counties of York and Peel(a), RICHARDS, C.J. considered it open to argument whether a by-law passed under this section required the assent of the electors; but, as the Act now stands, s. 389—which requires such assent to be given except in cases under s, 390—would seem to be applicable.

395. The council may, in any by-law to be passed for the creation of such debt, or for the execution of such bonds, deeds, covenants or other securities as aforesaid to Her Majesty, or in any other by-law to be passed by the council, settle and impose a special rate per annum, of such amount as the council deem expedient, in addition to all other rates whatsoever, to be levied in each year upon the assessed rateable property within the municipality, for the payment and discharge of such debts, bonds, deeds, covenants or other securities, or some part thereof; and the by-laws shall be valid, although the rate settled or imposed thereby is less than is required by sections 384 to 386; and the said sections shall, so far as applicable, apply and extend to every such by-law, and the moneys raised or to be raised thereby, as fully in every respect as such provisions would extend or apply to any by-law enacted by any council for the creation of any debt as provided in the said sections, or to the moneys raised or to be raised thereby. 55 V. c. 42, s. 350.

DIVISION VII.—REGISTRATION OF BY-LAWS AND NOTICE THEREOF.

(SECS. 396-401.)

Synopsis.—Section 396 and 397 require—in the case of debenture by-laws—registration in the county registry-office and publication for three weeks in a newspaper of the by-law. Sec. 398 excepts local improvement and drainage by-laws,—which, however, may be registered. Ss. 399-401 declare what shall be the effect of such registration, and prescribe the procedure upon a motion to quash a by-law so registered.

396—(1) Subject to the provisions of section 398 of this Act, a duplicate original or a copy certified as hereinafter mentioned of every by-law passed by any municipality for contracting any debt, by the issue of debentures for a longer term than one year, and for levying rates for the payment of such debts on the rateable property of the municipality or any part thereof, shall, within four weeks after the final passing thereof, be transmitted by the clerk of the municipality, in the case of a county to the registrar of the registry division in which the county town is situate, and in the case of a local municipality to the registrar of the registry division in which the local municipality is situate.

By-laws creating debts to be registered.

(a) 15 C. P. 249 (1865).

Sec. 396 (2)-(6).

(2) The registrar shall receive and file in his office, and enter in the proper book, every by-law so transmitted to him.

Registration of by-laws.

Such book shall be called "The By-law Book" and shall contain the following particulars:—the registration number, the by-law number of the municipality, the title, the amount of the debt, the term of the debentures, the rate of interest, and the number of years over which the debentures are to extend, also whether the rates to be levied are upon the whole rateable property of the municipality or on part thereof.

Proof for registration.

(3) The by-law shall be certified and authenticated by the seal of the municipal corporation, and the signature of the head thereof or of the person presiding at the meeting at which the by-law has been made and passed, and that of the clerk of the corporation.

Inspection of registered by-laws.

(4) The copy so certified shall be opened to public inspection and examination at all reasonable times and hours upon payment of the proper fees.

Fees of registrar.

(5) The registrar shall be entitled to the fees following:

For the registration of each such certified copy	$2 00
For making search, inspecting each copy of by-law, and examining entries connected therewith	50

Penalty.

(6) Any clerk who neglects to perform within the proper period any duty devolving upon him in virtue of this section shall be subject to a fine of $200. to be recovered by prosecution in the name of the Attorney-General of Ontario in any court of competent jurisdiction, and in default of payment, to imprisonment for a period not exceeding twelve months. 55 V. c. 42, s 351; 60 V. c. 3, s. 3; 60 V. c. 45, ss. 7 (1) 47, 48.

Taken from 44 V. c. 24, s. 28. "Four weeks" substituted for "two weeks" in sub-s. 1 by 60 V. c. 45, s. 7 (1). The wording of sub. s. 1 amended by 60 V. c. 45, s. 47, and 62 V. (2nd Session) c. 26, s. 24 (1). Subsects 2-6 added by 60 V. c 45, s. 47, and the last clause of subs. 2 added by 62 V. (2nd Session) c. 26, s. 24 (2).

(a) "Shall be transmitted." "The Corrupt and Illegal Practices Prevention Act, 1883" (a) requires that within thirty-five days after the day on which the candidates returned at an election are declared elected, the election agent of every candidate shall transmit to the returning officer a true return respecting his election expenses.

Held, that the word "transmit" means "send;" and, therefore, that if the return is posted to the returning officer within the thirty-five days, the requirement of the Statute has been complied with, although the return may not reach the R. O. until after the expiration of the 35 days (b).

(b) "Within four weeks." In Re Farlinger and Village of Morrisburg (c), STREET, J., treated these words respecting registration as "merely directory," since the Act does not declare that non-compliance with the provisions of the section shall render the by-law invalid; but in Sweeny v. Town of Smith's Falls (d), OSLER, J. A., in giving judgment says, (p. 441):—

> "I cannot regard the requirement of s. 351 (e) as merely directory, having regard to the provisions of s. 352 (f) which makes the effect of registration dependent upon the performance of the provisions prescribed by the former section. The case of Re Farlinger and Village of Morrisburg only decided that registration was not essential in the validity of a by-law, i. e., that its non-registration within the time limited by the Statute did not ipso facto render it invalid."

Sec. 396 (6). Note (b).

But s. 399 having since this decision been amended by 60 V. c. 45, s. 7 (2) so as to give to a registration of the by-law before the sale of the debentures issued thereunder the same effect as if it had been registered within the four weeks—the above provision as to time—so far at all events as regards its effect upon the validity of the by-law—would probably be regarded as directory and not imperative.

(c) "A fine of $200 to be recovered by prosecution in the name of the Attorney-General of Ontario in any Court of competent jurisdiction."

It can scarcely have been intended that s. 704 of "The Municipal Act" should apply to a prosecution under this section, and that "any Justice of the Peace for the county or of the municipality in which the offence was committed "(a) should have power to sentence a municipal clerk to twelve months imprisonment. It would probably be held that the case was intended to be covered by s. 8 (31) of "The Interpretation Act," which is quoted in note (a) to s. 387, ante.

397.—(1) Notice of the passing of every such by-law which has not been submitted to the ratepayers, shall, immediately after the registration of the by-law, be published in such public newspaper, published either within the municipality, or in the county town, or in an adjoining local municipality, as the council may designate by resolution, and the publication thereof shall for the purpose aforesaid be continued in at least one number of such paper each week for three successive weeks. 55 V. c. 42, s. 352 (3).

Publication of notice.

(2) The notice shall be in the form following or to the like effect:

Form of notice.

Notice is hereby given that a by-law was passed by the of on the day of A.D. 19 . providing for the issue of debentures to the amount of $ for the purpose of and that such by-law was registered in the Registry Office of the county of on the day of A.D. 19 .

Any motion to quash or set aside the same or any part thereof, must be made within three months [or (in the case provided for by section 400) within one month] from the date of registration, and cannot be made thereafter.

(d) "Every such by-law which has not been submitted to the ratepayers." The only by-laws to which this section seems to apply are those passed under s. 389 (3) and s. 390; but local improvement by-laws (b) and drainage by-laws, (c) may be registered in the same way (d) and with the like effect. (e)

(b) "Published in some public newspaper," etc. The only difference between the procedure prescribed by this section and the mode of promulgation provided for by s. 376 is that under s. 376 the copy of the by-law and notice may be published in a newspaper published in a neighbouring though not adjoining municipality.

Illegal by-laws not validated.

Taken from "The Consolidated Municipal Act, 1892," (55 V. c. 42), s. 352 (6).

(a) "Shall be absolutely valid and binding upon the municipality . . . and . . . shall not be quashed or set aside on any ground whatever, unless." etc. In Re Village of Georgetown and Stimson (a), a by-law passed under all the proper formalities required by the Act, and for a purpose within the jurisdiction of the council, created a debt payable by instalments under s. 386, but the aggregate amounts payable in each year, instead of being "equal as nearly as may be," varied in different years from $600 to $3,975. The by-law had been assented to by the electors and had been duly registered under s. 396. The application to quash it was made within three months after the publication of a notice under s. 397. On a special case to test the validity of the by-law and of the debentures issued thereunder, it was,

Held, that the defect,—viz., the non-compliance with the requirements of s. 386 as to equality of the amount to be raised in each year—had been cured by the registration, and that the by-law and debentures were valid and binding on the municipality.

Since that decision, however, subs. 6 of this section has been added, and the effect of registration has been thereby materially qualified.

In Sutherland Mines Co. v. Township of Romney, (b) a case decided since subs. 6 was passed—FERGUSON, J., expressed the opinion that a by-law registered under this section and not attacked (the certificate required by this section having been duly registered within the three months) is valid even though ultra vires. But for this expression of opinion by a very learned Judge, it might have been considered doubtful whether the registration of a debenture by-law under s. 396 could ever have been intended to cure a jurisdictional defect, i. e., whether it could validate a by-law which assumed to ordain, prescribe or direct something beyond the jurisdiction of the Council (c). And, notwithstanding this dictum, it would seem better to hold that since the passing of subs. 6 the validating effect of this section is restricted to defects (other than jurisdictional defects) not apparent on the face of the by-law, (or, if so apparent, not excluded by the language of subs. 6,)—e. g., failure to comply with any of the formalities required by s. 338, or the omission or inaccuracy of recitals prescribed by s. 384 (10), etc., (d).

(b) "An application . . to quash . . the same is made . . within . . three months."

Application to quash.

When notice of motion to quash the by-law is served—the affidavits to be used in support of the motion having first been filed as required by Con. Rule 524 (1897)—the application is "made" within the meaning of this section although the motion may not be brought on for hearing within the three months (a).

Per OSLER, J. A., (p. 455):—

"I think the applicant has sufficiently complied with the requirements of the Act. Section 399 enacts that every by-law registered under sec. 396 of the Act shall be absolutely valid and binding upon the municipality, according to the terms thereof, and shall not be quashed or set aside upon any ground whatever, unless, within three months from registry thereof, an application or action to quash or set aside the same is made (sic) to some Court of competent jurisdiction, and a certificate under the hand and seal of the officer of the Court, stating that such action or proceeding has been brought or application made has been registered in said registry office within the said period of three months. The issue of a writ on the very last day of the third month would have been in time. It need not have been served for months afterwards, though the opposite party, having notice of it by the registered certificate or otherwise, might have appeared to it and thus have forced the action on. Evidently what the Act requires is that some effective proceeding shall be taken within the prescribed time by which the municipality is brought into Court to defend the by law. There is nothing in the section which makes it necessary that the action or motion shall be brought on for trial or hearing during the three months. . . . By the service of the notice of motion, the affidavits in support of which have been already filed, the party is really brought into Court, and the Court is seised of the application. It may be necessary in such a case as this (though I do not so decide or express any opinion either way) to file the notice of motion and affidavit of service in order to obtain the certificate of the registrar for the purpose of registration, and so to comply with the other conditions of the section."

Division VIII.

BY-LAWS RESPECTING YEARLY RATES.

(Secs. 402-413).

Synopsis:—Sec. 402 prescribes the maximum and minimum amount, exclusive of school rates and local improvement rates, to be raised annually in taxes by every municipal corporation; s. 403, the basis upon which the rates shall be calculated; and ss. 404 and 405 (in general terms) the manner in which these rates shall be fixed, levied and collected.

Secs. 406-408 provide for the cases of deficiency or excess in the amount of the taxes so collected, and s. 409 the date in each year on which, as a rule, they shall be considered to fall due.

Sec. 411 provides that in the cases and subject to the conditions therein mentioned, a council may exempt certain industries from general municipal taxation; s. 410 relates only to debentures issued before Jan. 1st, 1867, and ss. 412 and 413 to debenture by-laws passed before March 11th, 1879.

402.—(1) The council of every municipal corporation, and of every provisional corporation, shall in each year assess and levy on the whole rateable property within its jurisdiction, a sufficient sum to pay all valid debts of the corporation, whether of principal or interest, falling due within the year; but no such council shall assess and levy in any one year more than an aggregate rate of two cents in the dollar on the actual value exclusive of school rates and local improvement rates. 55 V. c. 42, s. 357 (1); 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (68).

Yearly rates to be levied, sufficient to pay all debts payable within the year.

Aggregate rate limited to two cents in the dollar.

The first part of the sub-section (down to the word "but" in the fifth line) is taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99) s. 221, the original of which is 12 V. c. 81, s. 177. The Act of 1866, (29-30 V. c. 51) s. 225 limited the aggregate rate per annum to two cents in the dollar exclusive of school rates. The further exception of local improvement rates was made in 1897 by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. A (68).

(a) "A sufficient sum to pay all valid debts . . . falling due within the year; but no . . . more than two cents in the dollar," etc.

The maximum and minimum amounts of the annual tax rate are both fixed by this section.

(a) 18 P. R. 451 (1899).

Sec. 402 (1).

Notes (a)-(c).

By-laws respecting yearly rates.

Requisites of.

The holder of a municipal debenture can compel the Council to levy a rate sufficient to pay so much of any debt in which he is interested as matures during their year of office. (a) See also s. 418 (2) which imposes a penalty of disqualification from office for two years upon every member of a council which neglects to levy the amount required to be levied in any year for sinking-fund purposes. On the other hand, the rate for all purposes (including the amount payable in respect of debts previously created) must not exceed a certain limit, and the council may be restrained at the instance of a ratepayer from levying a larger rate. (b)

(b) "Shall assess and levy a sufficient sum."

To "assess" is to consider and determine the whole amount necessary to be raised by rate. (c)

To "levy" is to raise (lever) this amount by the machinery which "The Assessment Act" provides.

(c) "To pay all valid debts . . . falling due within the year."

The amount required by a by-law to be raised in any year towards making up the sinking fund necessary to pay off a debenture debt is "a debt" within the meaning of these words (d). So—in the case of a county, city or separated town—is any sum required to pay the municipality's share of the expenses of the administration of justice,(e) police maintenance,(f) the support, care and maintenance of prisoners in the county gaol (g) or of children sent to an industrial school (h), etc.

In Mellish v. Town of Brantford, (i) the defendants, being sued in 1851 for a debt contracted in 1850, pleaded that no provision had been made by the by-law creating the debt for the imposition of a special rate to be levied in each year for paying off the debt. Held, a good defence. (j)

Retrospective rates illegal.

The inconvenience of retrospective rates has long been known and recognized in England (k). "As a general rule a retrospective rate is illegal." (l)

In County of Frontenac v. City of Kingston, (m) it was held that an action by the county to recover some fifteen years arrears of the city's share of jurors' fees could not be maintained, since the defendants could not pay these arrears without levying a retrospective rate "upon a class of persons and out of property totally different from that which the Legislature, by the Acts imposing the obligation, had made specially liable for its discharge." But in a subsequent action between the same parties upon amended pleadings it was held that the plaintiffs were entitled to recover a judgment, although arrears for which the defendants had made no levy at the time might now be uncollectable, since a rate imposed therefor would be retrospective. (a)

In Haynes v. Copland (b), JOHN WILSON, J., says (at p. 168):

> "Suppose a valid debt was incurred in one year, and the corporation omitted to levy it in that year, does it become a less valid debt the next year? Is the debt paid or the duty extinguished by reason of the omission?"

Objects of and limitations upon amount of yearly rate.

The answer seems to be that a debt incurred by a municipal council without having money in hand to pay it, and without making provision for its payment either out of the year's taxes or by a debenture by-law, cannot be regarded as "a valid debt"; and that it is necessary for those who deal with municipal councils to see that their power to contract liabilities is exercised in accordance with the formalities prescribed by law (c).

Where an Act prohibited municipalities from "contracting any debt or pecuniary liability without fully providing in the ordinance creating the debt the means of paying the principal and interest of the debt so contracted," this was held inapplicable to ordinary street work forming part of the current expenditure of the corporation and payable out of current revenues (d). So where the words of the Act were "The council shall not create or permit to accrue any debts or liability which shall exceed," &c., this was held not to refer to liabilities arising ex delicto (e). Whether the granting of special power to a municipal corporation to aid particular railway enterprises does or does not repeal pro tanto a general provision limiting its power of taxation has in the United States been a subject of controversy and of much conflict of judicial opinion (f). The inclination of the Supreme Court of the United States seems to be in favour of the construction which restricts such a limitation to the exercise of the power of taxation in the ordinary course of municipal action (g). Generally speaking, the Legislature of Ontario, where it has intended that municipal corporations should have power to aid corporations notwithstanding the two-cent limitation, has so declared in the particular Act.

School rates.

(d). "Exclusive of school rates." The amount to be levied for school purposes is very properly excluded from the limitation of tax rates to two cents in the dollar, since the school rates are not fixed by the council, but by independent representative bodies (h).

Sec. 402 (1). Note (d).

The words "school rates" in this section include the amount required to be annually raised to pay off debentures issued under s. 70 (1) of "The Public Schools Act," to pay for the purchase of a school site and the erection of a school house thereon (a).

Local improvement fund.

(3) "And of local improvement rates." Rates imposed to pay the cost of local improvements (or "betterments" as they have been styled in the United States) are not, properly speaking, taxes (b). In making such improvements the municipality simply acts as an agent for the owners of the property to be benefitted thereby.

Provision when such aggregate not sufficient to pay debts payable within the year.

(2) If in a municipality the aggregate amount of the rates necessary for payment of the current annual expenses of the municipality, and of the interest and principal of the debts contracted by the municipality on or prior to the 29th day of March, 1873, exceeds the said aggregate rate of two cents in the dollar on the actual value of such rateable property, the council of the municipality shall levy such further rates as may be necessary to discharge obligations incurred up to that date, but shall contract no further debts until the annual rates required to be levied within the municipality are reduced within the aggregate rate aforesaid; but this shall not affect any special provisions to the contrary contained in any special Act now or hereafter in force. 55 V. c. 42, s. 357 (2).

Proviso.

This sub-section was added in 1893 by 29-30 V. c. 51, s. 225.

How rates to be calculated.

403. In counties and local municipalities the rates shall be calculated at so much in the dollar upon the actual value of all the real and personal property liable to assessment therein. 55 V. c. 42, s. 358.

Taken from the Assessment Act of 1866, (29-30 V. c. 53) s. 10. Cf. 13-14 V. c. 67, s. 11; 16 V. c. 182, s. 31.

Basis of assessment and levy.

(a) Prior to January 1st, 1867, (when the above enactment came into force,) property in cities, towns and villages was assessable at its annual value, and property in counties and townships at its actual value (c); and, for the purpose of apportioning county rates, provision was made for capitalizing the annual values assessed in towns and villages (d). But a county by-law imposing a rate for county purposes on actual value was held not to be illegal,—the provision that "in towns and villages" the assessment should be upon annual value being held to apply only to rates imposed by those municipalities for their own purposes (e). A by-law passed under "The District Councils Act," (f) imposing a tax of so much per acre on unoccupied or wild lands was held bad (g).

Estimates to be made annually.

404. The council of every county and of every local municipality shall every year make estimates of all sums which may be required for the lawful purposes of the county or local municipality, for the year in which such sums are required to be levied, each municipality making due allowance for the cost of collection, and of the abatement and losses which may occur in the collection of the tax, and for taxes on the lands of non-residents which may not be collected. 55 V. c. 42, s. 359.

Taken from the Assessment Act of 1853, (16 V. c. 182) s. 31.

By-law respecting yearly rates.

Requisites of.

(a) It is not necessary that the by-law should set forth the estimates on which it is founded: the Court will intend that proper estimates have been made, in the absence of evidence that they are wanting. (a) Mentioning a specific sum to be raised for specific purposes "may be treated as setting forth an estimate that such a sum is required for these purposes.". (b) But a by-law which authorizes the levy for township purposes of certain moneys, and for county purposes, of double the amount required therefor by the county, is clearly bad.

> "To raise money for those same purposes to the full amount in one case, and to double the amount in the other, is, on the face of it, beyond the power of the township council, for it is exercising a power not only not conferred upon them, but expressly conferred upon another municipal corporation. The only argument offered to justify this course was that the township council has ascertained that, owing to the large proportion of lands held by non-residents, a sum very far short of that imposed by the county by-law would be collected by the collector on the roll; that a considerable deficiency would remain to be made up which the township treasurer would have no funds to meet, and therefore such a by-law was necessary to supply those funds..... If our decision had to rest upon any such ground, it would be indispensable that all those facts should be established before us; but we think, even assuming everything suggested, that this will not sustain the by-law, which is not, on the face of it, directed to the purpose of meeting a deficiency. (c)

A by-law enacting "that the sum of three pence in the pound be levied and raised on all rateable property, to raise the sum of £375, to defray all expenses of the township for the current year, county and township included, and a portion of the said sum to be laid out on repairs of roads and bridges as the council thinks most wanted, and if any balance remain, to be handed over to the credit of the council for the ensuing year," was quashed. (d)

DRAPER, J. says, (p. 135):—

> "In our opinion this by-law must be quashed altogether. As to the part imposing rates for county purposes, it is bad for the reason given in the preceding case [Fletcher v. Township of Euphrasia, supra] and then this by-law affords no means of telling how much must be deducted from the sum of £375 directed to be raised; nor yet can it be ascertained how much the rate of three pence in the pound must be reduced in order to raise that portion of £375 which the township council had authority to impose. There are also other apparent objections to this by-law which it is not necessary to advert to for the purpose of sustaining our judgment."

It is expressly provided (e) that—

Deficiency in amount collected.

"Every local municipal council, in paying over . . . its share of any county rate or any other tax or rate lawfully imposed for Provincial or local purposes shall supply out of the funds of the municipality any deficiency arising from the non-payment of the tax, but shall not be held answerable for any deficiency arising from the abatements of, or inability to collect the tax on personal property other than for county rates."

It has therefore been decided that a local municipality has no power to add to the column headed "County Rate" an allowance for the cost of collecting the county rate, for the abatements and losses which may occur in the collection of it, and for the taxes on the lands of non-residents which may not be collected. (a) In the last case, MOWAT, V. C., said, (b)

Deficiency in amount of taxes realized.

"The addition to the county rate column [of a percentage] for the cost of collection [and] for the possible deficiency in respect of the taxes on the lands of non-residents seems to me to have been an error. I think the allowance should not have been made in that column. The [Act] expressly directed the township to supply out of the general funds of the municipality any deficiency arising from the non-payment of the tax on land. The amount of the rate in respect of their unpaid taxes on land being made good to the county out of the general funds of the township becomes, as from time to time afterwards realized, part of the general funds of the township. The policy of the Legislature appears to have been to guard as far as possible the moneys raised in the township by its municipal authority for Provincial, county, school and other special purposes from the control of the township council, these moneys not being raised by their authority, or not going to purposes over which they have jurisdiction."

And again; (c)

"It is now suggested that the 11th section of "The Assessment Act" (d) . . . . sanctions what was done here. That section directs every local municipality in the estimates of the year to "make due allowance" etc., but says nothing as to the column in which the allowance is to be entered . . . I think it is sufficiently apparent . . . that it is contrary to the intention and policy of the Legislature that the township should mix up in the "county rate" column, money of which they are to have the control, with the money levied for the county."

By-laws for raising money by rate.

405. The council of every municipality may pass one by-law, or several by-laws, authorizing the levying and collecting of a rate or rates of so much in the dollar upon the assessed value of the property therein as the council deems sufficient to raise the sums required on such estimates. 55 V. c. 42, s. 360.

Taken from 16 V. c. 182, s. 31 (1853).

(a) "One by-law or several by-laws."

It is quite possible that, owing to the causes mentioned in s. 404, the taxes collected may fall short of the amount required. The deficiency may be made up, either (1) by imposing a further rate under this section or (2) (if there are unappropriated funds on hand) by a by-law under s. 406.

(b) As to the effect of promulgating a by-law passed under this section see s. 380.

If the amount collected falls short.

406. If the amount collected falls short of the sums required, the council may direct the deficiency to be made up from any unappropriated fund belonging to the municipality. 55 V. c. 42, s. 361.

Taken from 16 V. c. 182, s. 31 (1853).

Estimates may be reduced.

407. If there is no unappropriated fund, the deficiency may be equally deducted from the sums estimated as required, or from any one or more of them. 55 V. c. 42, s. 362.

When sums collected exceed estimates: appropriation of balance.

408. If the sums collected exceed the estimates, the balance shall form part of the general fund of the municipality, and be at the disposal of the council, unless otherwise specially appropriated; but if any portion of the amount in excess has been collected on account of a special tax upon any particular locality, the amount in excess collected on account of such special tax shall be appropriated to the special local object. 55 V. c. 42, s. 363.

Taken from 16 V. c. 182, s. 31 (1853). The wording of the second clause has since been altered by 29-30 V. c. 53, s. 17.

(4) The preceding sections (404 to 408 inclusive) relate more particularly to general estimates for general purposes. But the proceeds of special local rates are ear-marked and must be applied to the purposes for which they are raised and to no other purpose (a).

Yearly taxes to be computed from 1st Jan. unless otherwise ordered.

409. The taxes or rates imposed or levied for any year shall be considered to have been imposed and to be due on and from the 1st day of January of the then current year ending with the 31st day of December thereof, unless otherwise expressly provided by the enactment or by-law under which the same are directed to be levied. 55 V. c. 42, s. 364.

Taken from the Assessment Act of 1866, (29-30 V. c. 53) s. 18.

When yearly taxes are "due."

(a) It had been declared by the Assessment Act, of 1853 (b), that the taxes or rates imposed or levied for any year should be considered to have been imposed for the then current year commencing with January 1st and ending with December 31st, unless otherwise expressly provided, etc. In Ford v. Proudfoot (c) Corbett v. Taylor, (d) and Bell v. McLean, (e) it was contended that this meant that the taxes for the year should be considered as due on and from the 1st of January; but the Court refused so to interpret the section.

In Corbett v. Taylor (d) DRAPER, C.J., said, (p. 456):—

> "We do not so interpret this section of the Statute. We read it as intended [merely] to fix the fiscal year for all municipalities for the purposes of rates and taxes, and as providing that, no matter in what part of a year a by-law imposing rates and taxes may be passed, the taxes shall be considered as imposed for the whole current year."

In Bell v. McLean, (e) WILSON J., said, (p. 421):—

> "In one sense the tax may be said to be "due" when it is imposed by the passage of a by-law for that purpose; but it cannot be strictly said to be due until the collector has got his roll; nor even then,—for he cannot distrain nor take any compulsory proceeding to enforce payment until he has called at least once on the party taxed and demanded payment, or has transmitted a statement by post demanding payment if the party be non-resident within the municipality."

And again,

> "A person who pays the taxes imposed upon him for a particular year before the end of that year pays the amount in advance. He pays it up to a day which has not yet arrived. The time for its payment has gone by, but the time for its complete accrual has still to come."

Note (a). When annual taxes are "due."

The section was amended in 1866, so as to provide that the year's taxes should not only have been considered to have been imposed for the year beginning with January 1st but also that they should be considered as "due" on and from January 1st.

The meaning of the section, as thus amended, was very fully discussed in Chamberlain v. Turner (a) where, under a by-law of the City of Toronto providing that the taxes for the year should be due on June 4th, a tax collector left with the plaintiff on May 20th a tax bill shewing the amount of his taxes, and (without further demand) issued a distress warrant on June 12th and sold the plaintiff's goods under it on June 18th.

It was held that the delivery of the bill on May 20th, before the taxes were due—even if it could be considered a demand of the taxes within the meaning of s. 134 (1) of "The Assessment Act," (since amended)—was of no avail, the taxes not yet being "due," and that the sale of plaintiff's goods was therefore illegal. WILSON, C. J., in giving judgment says (b):—

> "The section referred to cannot be given effect to in the terms in which it is expressed. The taxes may be "considered to have been imposed and to be due on and from the first of January," &c., after they have been ascertained and declared, but not before; for until then they have no existence; i. e. the taxes when imposed shall have a retroactive effect, and be due at that antecedent period; and that may be so consistently and properly enough in computing the time for the sale of lands in arrear for taxes, as in Woods v. Bell, (c) or in arrangements between landlord and tenant, vendor and purchaser, and perhaps in other cases. But when the Statute says the taxes shall not only "be considered to have been imposed," but shall "be due on and from the first of January," &c., it cannot mean that,—because not only are there no taxes until they are fixed, but also because they cannot be sued or distrained for until a demand has been made for them by the collector."

The effect of the section was still further considered in Goldie v. Johns, (f) by OSLER, J. A., who says (g):—

> "The section relates merely to the period of the fiscal year, and not to a postponement of the time for payment of the taxes of the year, which, though "due" from the commencement of the year, are not payable or in arrear until the collector has received his roll and has taken the necessary steps to enable him to distrain. The word "due" has no relation to the time of payment of the taxes, or to their being in arrear, referring back as it does to a period when they have not even been ascertained."

And again:—

> "One object of the amendment [of 1866] was probably to simplify the mode of ascertaining when taxes could be said to be due, for the purpose of selling lands for taxes and computing the time necessary to elapse before they could be offered for sale, thus removing the objections which invalidated the sales in question in Ford v. Proudfoot, (h) Kelly v. Macklem (i) and Connor v. Macpherson (j)."

In Dennney v. Dorr, ( ) the defendant in purchasing a business covenanted to pay all debts and liabilities due or accruing, contracted by the vendor in connection therewith. At the time of the agreement the stock in trade had been assessed, but the rate was not imposed nor the amount of taxes ascertained until some time afterwards. Held, that until the rate had been struck the taxes were not "a debt or liability due or accruing contracted by the vendor."

existed prior to the said date; but any such agreements or arrangements may be completed and carried out as though this section had not been passed; nor shall it be necessary to submit any by-law for such purpose to the vote of the electors of the municipality. Provided nevertheless that any such agreement or arrangement shall be completed on or before the 1st day of September, 1899. 62 V. (2nd Session) c. 26, s. 25.

The power of municipal councils to exempt manufacturing establishments from taxation was first conferred in 1868 by 31 V. c. 30, s. 44. Under that Act municipalities were authorized to exempt from taxation for any period not longer than five years "manufacturers of woollens, cottons, glass, paper and such (?) other commodities of the like nature." In 1869 this power was extended so as to cover "any manufacturing establishment," (33 V. c. 26, s. 15.) In the Act of 1873, (36 V. c. 48, s. 259,) the section read:

> "Every municipal council shall have the power of exempting any manufacturing establishment in whole or in part from taxation for any period not longer than ten years, and to renew this exemption for a further period not extending ten years."

In 1882 similar power was conferred in respect to "any water-works or water company." In 1884, (47 V. c. 32, s. 8), a vote of two-thirds of the members of the council was made necessary in every case. The words "except as to school taxes" were added in the Revision of 1892, (55 V. c. 42, s. 368; see also R.S.O. c. 292 s. 75); and the section was again amended in 1895 so as to include "any building for the storage of ice for commercial purposes," (58 V. c. 42, s. 14). See R. S. O. c. 208, s. 25 as to the power of a municipal council to exempt from taxation the property of a street railway company and the income derived therefrom by the shareholders. As to the former power of municipal councils to aid manufacturing establishments by way of bonus, see note A to s. 591, post.

(a) A by-law under 31 V. c. 30, s. 44 exempting "new manufactories" only, and limited to those doing a specified amount of business, was held bad. (a)

Per A. WILSON J. (b):—

> "The by-law provides that every person, firm, or corporation, who shall thereafter commence and proceed to carry on any new manufacture of the nature contemplated by the Statute, shall be exempt, &c. It appears to me that this is clearly bad, as it is giving a benefit to new businesses over prior established businesses of the same kind. I do not think it would be against the Statute to provide that all cotton manufacturers should be exempt from taxation; because it places all persons of the same line of business on the same footing, without giving any advantages or privileges to one or more of that trade over the others. Nor do I think it would be bad because it gave cotton manufacturers some advantage over woollen or other manufacturers, for the Statute did not intend that every kind of manufacture should be exempted or that none of them should, but that all or any of them should be exempted as the council of the municipality might deem advisable. There might be special reasons which might induce them to cultivate and encourage one or more branches of trade that did not apply to other branches. But in no case—is A., of the cotton or any particular trade, to get a benefit which B. of the same trade is not to get also. For this is a monopoly of the worst description, and it cannot be necessary either for the proper stimulus of the trade, though it may stimulate A. very wonderfully in that trade, but then only at the expense of B. I also think, that if one manufacturer is to be exempt, that all manufacturers of the same trade must be exempt, though they do not each employ in carrying on business a sum exceeding $1,000, and though they do not each pay weekly in wages to operatives a sum exceeding $30. For this is to protect the large business against the small beginning, and it is well known that a large trade is always conducted more economically in proportion than a small one, and requires less protection. It is as vicious a distinction to make between the capitalist and the energetic handicraftsman, as it is to make between the old and the new manufacturer."

An exemption should not be granted arbitrarily; there ought to be a sufficient public benefit to the tax-payers of the locality to sustain a by-law, and to support the exemption there must be a good and valid consideration which should be in some way connected with the business of the manufacturing establishment. Where a municipality agreed with the owner to exempt two existing manufacturing establishments in consideration of his paying a sum of $1,800 (which the municipality had agreed to pay to a railway company) and providing also the right of way upon the company building a switch into the town, it was held that there was not a proper public consideration from T, and that the agreement was in effect a sale of an exemption; and a by-law passed by the municipality for the purpose, but not submitted to the ratepayers, was quashed (a).

It would seem that such a by-law (if founded upon a good consideration) may be looked upon as a contract; and that after its terms have been accepted and acted upon by the person in whose favour the exemption has been created, the by-law cannot be repealed without his consent (b).

The general rule is, that the burden of taxation should fall equally; and for this reason Statutes exempting particular persons or particular property from taxation are construed strictly. See notes to sec. 7 of "The Assessment Act."

A by-law exempting from taxation a manufacturing establishment "established for the purpose of carrying on the milling and grain merchant business," and the land held by it, was held bad as dealing with two kinds of business, the first of which alone there was power to exempt. The by-law was also held bad in exempting all the land and not the mill only, as other buildings suitable for the grain business might be erected thereon. The effect of the by-law was to discriminate against other large milling establishments in the municipality, and the by-law was held bad on this ground also (c). A by-law limiting the assessment on property about to be used for manufacturing purposes to the value of the land without buildings is not valid under this section (d).

(b) "Except as to school taxes." In City of Winnipeg v. Canadian Pacific R. W. Co. (e) a by-law which exempted property of the defendants from "all municipal taxes, rates and levies and assessments of every nature and kind" was held not to exempt such property from school taxes.

Per CURIAM:—

> "The by-law being one of the municipal corporation, the inference would be that it was municipal taxation that was referred to. The words 'rates and levies and assessments' as used in the by-law mean just the same thing as 'taxes' with which they are collocated. The word 'municipal' in the enacting clause was manifestly used in the sense of pertaining or belonging to a municipality. As the by-law was one of a municipality incorporated as a city, the words 'municipal taxes,' etc., meant no more than would be expressed if the words had been 'city or corporation taxes,' etc" (f).

(c) "And to renew such exemption for a further term of ten years." The power to renew can only be exercised once; in other words, the total period of exemption cannot exceed twenty years (g).

When the rate imposed by a by-law may be reduced.

412.—(1) If, on account of a sum being on hand from a previous year, or a sum being on hand which has been derived from the work, or from the investment of the sinking fund, or on account of the increased value of property liable to assessment, it is found to be unnecessary to levy the full rate imposed by any by-law, in order to raise the instalment of the sinking fund and interest thereby required to be raised for any year, or to raise such instalments for any future years of the then unexpired time which the debentures have to run, the council may pass a by-law reducing the rate for such year or for any such future years, so that no more money may be collected than the amount required.

Taken from 50 V. c. 29, s. 16 (1887), repealing 46 V. c. 18, s. 369 (1).

(2) No such by-law shall be passed unless, having regard to the time the debentures have to run, a proper proportion of sinking fund and interest has been levied, according to the intention of the original by-law. 55 V. c. 42, s. 367.

Former Law.

(a) See also the provisions of s. 539 (3). As has already been pointed out (a), it was necessary prior to 1879 (b), that a by-law creating a debt—unless such debt was payable as provided by s. 386,—should settle an equal annual special rate "sufficient according to the amount of rateable property appearing by the last revised assessment roll to discharge the debt and interest when respectively payable," and it was directed by the Act that the amount of such rateable property should be ascertained irrespective of any future increase in its value, and of any income in the nature of tolls, interest or dividends from the work in which the money raised was to be invested, or from any stock, share or interest therein, and of any income to be derived from the temporary investment of the sinking fund (c).

It therefore frequently happened that the rate fixed by such a by-law yielded a sum larger than that required to pay off the debt. In these cases the council were empowered to reduce the rate where this could safely be done without prejudice to the security of the debenture holders (d). Since the Act 42 V. c. 31, s. 10, came into force, viz., March 11th, 1879, the by-law is to settle not an annual special rate,—but a specific sum to be annually raised for interest and sinking fund respectively (e), or for payment of the debt by instalments (f). The present section will therefore apply only to by-laws passed under the old law, i. e., before March 11th, 1879.

By-law to be approved by Lieutenant Governor.

413. No by-law passed under the preceding section shall be valid unless, after it is passed, it is approved by the Lieutenant Governor in Council; and the facts which authorize the passing of such by-law shall, on its submission for approval, be verified in the manner provided by section 335 of this Act. 55 V. c. 42, s 368.

DIVISION IX.—ANTICIPATORY APPROPRIATIONS.

(SECS. 414–416.)

Anticipatory appropriations may be made.

414. In case a council desires to make an anticipatory appropriation for the next ensuing year in lieu of the special rate for such year, in respect of any debt, the council may do so by by-law, in the manner and subject to the provisions and restrictions following:

What funds may be so appropriated.

1. The council may carry to the credit of the sinking-fund account of the debt, as much as may be necessary for the purpose aforesaid,

(a) Of any money at the credit of the special rate account of the debt beyond the interest on such debt for the year following that in which the anticipatory appropriation is made;

(b) And of any money raised for the purpose aforesaid by additional rate or otherwise;

(c) And of any money derived from any temporary investment of the sinking fund;

(d) And of any surplus money derived from any corporation work or from any share or interest therein;

(e) And of any unappropriated money in the treasury; such money respectively not having been otherwise appropriated.

The sources and application to be stated.

2. The by-law making the appropriations shall distinguish the several sources of the amount, and the portions thereof to be respectively applied for the interest and for the sinking-fund appropriation of the debt for the next ensuing year.

When moneys retained sufficient, the yearly rate may be suspended for the ensuing year.

3. In case the moneys so retrained at the credit of the special rate account, and so appropriated to the sinking-fund account, from all or any of the sources above mentioned, are sufficient to meet the sinking-fund appropriation and interest for the next ensuing year, the council may then pass a by-law directing that the original rate for such next ensuing year be not levied. 55 V. c. 42, s. 369.

DIV. I.—ACCOUNTS AND INVESTMENTS, (SECS. 417-427.)
DIV. II.—COMMISSION OF INQUIRY INTO FINANCES, (SEC. 428.)

DIVISION I.—ACCOUNTS AND INVESTMENTS.

(SECS. 417-427.)

Synopsis. The sections in this Division relate to moneys held by municipal corporations in trust, not to those raised for the purposes of ordinary annual expenditure.

Sec. 417 requires that in the case of every debenture by-law passed under s. 384, two separate accounts shall be kept of the moneys raised under the by-law, one of which shall show the total sum raised annually, the other the amount thereof which is intended to be applied towards the formation of a sinking-fund for payment of the principal amount of the debt when it matures.

Secs. 418, 419, and 420 relate to the annual levy, the application and the investment of moneys to be thus raised and held in trust; ss. 421 and 422 to accretions thereto from other moneys on hand; s. 423 to the investment of surplus moneys derived from "The Ontario Municipalities Fund," and s. 424 to moneys held in trust for educational purposes.

Illegal investments of any of the trust funds aforesaid are prohibited by s. 425; and ss. 426 and 427 relate to certain annual returns to be made to the Provincial Government.

417. The council of every municipal corporation shall keep in its books two separate accounts of every debt, one for the special rate and one for the sinking fund or for instalments of principal, both to be distinguished from all other accounts in the books by some prefix designating the purpose for which the debt was contracted; and they shall keep the said accounts, with any others that are necessary, so as to exhibit at all times the state of every debt, and the amount of moneys raised, obtained, and appropriated for payment thereof. 55 V. c. 42, s. 372.

Two special accounts to be kept as to every debenture debt; (1) of the special rates; (2) of the sinking fund or instalments of principal.

Taken from 14-15 V. c. 109, s. 7. The words "or for instalments of the principal" in line 2 were added in 1873; 36 V. c. 48, s. 205.

(a) The language used in this section is in strictness applicable only to by-laws passed before March 11th, 1879. Since then, a by-law creating a debt (if passed under section 384 or the corresponding section of the Acts of 1883, 1887 or 1892) instead of settling a special rate to be levied in each year for paying the principal and interest fixes a specific sum to be annually raised for each. (a)

The intention of the section is nevertheless clear, viz., that two accounts shall be kept of every debenture debt. The first (called in ss. 414, 418-420 "The Special Rate Account") is to show all moneys received and paid or payable on account of either principal or interest; The second (called the "The Sinking Fund Account") is to show such only of these moneys as have been received and paid or are payable on account of the principal of the debt. It is a "culpable neglect of duty" on the part of municipal officers not to comply with the directions of the section. (b)

Sec. 418 (1) (3). Notes (a), (b).

When surplus may be applied to next year's interest, and to sinking fund.

418.—(1) If, after paying the interest of a debt for any financial year, and appropriating the necessary sum to the sinking fund of such debt, or in payment of any instalment of principal, there is a surplus at the credit of the special-rate account of such debt, such surplus shall so remain, and may be applied, if necessary, towards the next year's interest; but if such surplus exceeds the amount of the next year's interest, the excess shall be carried to the credit of the sinking-fund account, or shall be applied in payment of principal of such debt.

Taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99) s. 227; except the words at the end ("or shall be applied in payment of principal") which were added in 1873, by 36 V. c. 18, s. 266.

Moneys levied for a sinking fund not to be diverted.

(2) No moneys levied and collected for the purpose of a sinking-fund shall in any case be applied towards paying any portion of the current or other expenditures of the municipality, save as may be otherwise authorized by this or any other Act. 55 V. c. 42, s. 373 (1-2).

Taken from 54 V. c. 42, s. 12 (2) (1891).

(a) Moneys levied and collected for the purpose of creating a sinking fund to pay off a debt form a trust fund. (a) and their diversion to any other purpose is a breach of trust. (b)

In Smith v. Township of Raleigh (c) moneys raised by local assessment for the construction of a drain, had, under a resolution of the council passed in accordance with a promise made to certain of the petitioners for the work, been applied towards the construction of another drain not mentioned in the petition. Held, that a petitioning ratepayer was entitled to an order compelling the corporation to complete the first drain according to the by-law, and to an account, the by-law having created a trust which had been violated; also that the facts above mentioned constituted no justification of the breach of trust committed by the defendants.

Liability of councillors for diversion of sinking fund.

(3) In the event of the council of a municipality diverting any of said moneys for current or other expenditure, save as aforesaid, the members who vote for the diverting of said moneys shall be personally liable for the amount so diverted, and the said amount may be recovered in any Court of competent jurisdiction; and the members who have voted for the same, shall be disqualified from holding any municipal office for the period of two years. In case the council of the municipality, upon the request of any ratepayer, refuse or neglect for one month thereafter to bring an action therefor in the name of the municipality, the action may be brought by any ratepayer on behalf of himself and of all the other ratepayers of the municipality. 55 V. c. 42, s. 373 (3); 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (69).

Taken from 54 V. c. 42, s. 12 (3) (1891). The last sentence—("In case the council of the municipality," etc.)—was added in 1897 by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (69).

(b) The effect of this section was considered by BOYD, C., in Reg. ex. rel. Cavanagh v. Smith, (a) an application to set aside the election of the respondent as reeve of a village, on the ground that he was disqualified for office, having in the previous year voted for the payment of current expenses out of sinking-fund moneys.

Note (b).

Illegal diversion of sinking fund moneys.

It appeared that on August 20th, 1894 a by-law had been passed under s. 420 authorizing the investment of sinking-fund moneys on hand which were therein stated to be $566.63. The total amount of money in the hands of the treasurer at that date for all purposes was only $132.13. Seven days afterwards, on motion of the respondent, who was chairman of the Finance Committee, five small accounts, amounting in all to $11.99, were ordered to be paid out of the $132.13. The election of the respondent was set aside and he was declared to be disqualified from holding any municipal office for two years.

Boyd, C., in giving judgment says: (a)

> "The course of dealing with the year's taxes was that the whole was handled by the treasurer and council as one fund available fo all purposes. The amount collected for the sinking fund was not set apart but was mingled with the rest of the money. Nevertheless its trust character remained so long as there was $566 in the municipal treasury. When the amount was reduced below that sum the diversion of the sinking fund moneys began, and it was repeated when the defendant voted for the payment of the general accounts out of the $132 balance. This conclusion is reached by the application of the doctrine of In re Hallett's Estate (b) that where trust moneys are mixed at a banker's with other moneys and chequed out by the depositor, the drawer must be taken to have first drawn out his own money in preference to the trust money. Therefore the residue of the year's money,—viz. $132—was impressed with the character of moneys belonging to the sinking fund, and the act of the defendant was pro tanto a diversion of this fund in contravention of the Statute. The present investigation is not one respecting a matter of criminal import, so that condemnation should be witheld unless a guilty knowledge—the mens rea—be established. The object of the Legislature is to check careless, unbusiness like management of the public moneys, and, with this view, to disqualify members of the council who, with or without design, commit breaches of trust as to this fund. Ignorance that wrong is being done,—so far from excusing, is the very thing that the law seeks to mark with disapproval. The erring member, whether he goes astray in the light or in the dark, is no safe councillor, and he is placed under a two years' sentence of exclusion from office in order that correct administration of municipal finance may for the future, as far as possible, be insured."

Treasurer to state annually amount required to be levied for sinking-fund.

Liability of members of council neglecting to levy for sinking fund

(5) In the event of the council of a municipality neglecting in any year to levy the amount required to be raised under this or any other Act to provide a sinking fund for the payment of the debenture debt of the municipality, every member of the council shall be disqualified from holding any municipal office for the period of two years; but no member of the council shall be liable to the penalty hereby imposed, who shows to the satisfaction of the Court or Judge that he made reasonable efforts to procure the levying of the rate for the sinking fund. 56 V. c. 35, s. 9.

Sub-ss. 4 and 5 were added to the section in 1893. See the reference.

Sec. 418.

Note (c)

(a) These sub-sections apparently apply not only to by-laws passed before March 11th, 1879, but also to by-laws passed under the existing law (a) which settle a specific sum to be raised in each year for payment of the debt or of each instalment thereof, such specific sum being in fact "money required by law to be raised toward a sinking-fund" although the word "sinking-fund" is not now used in the sub-section.

Application of moneys with consent of Lieutenant-Governor in Council.

419. The Lieutenant-Governor in Council may, by Order in Council, direct that such part of the produce of the special rate levied, and at the credit of the sinking-fund account or of the special-rate account as aforesaid, instead of being so invested as hereinafter provided, shall from time to time, as the same accrues, be applied to the payment or redemption, at such value as the said council can agree for, of any part of such debt or of any of the debentures representing or constituting such debt, or any part of it, though not then payable, to be selected as provided in such Order in Council, and the municipal council shall thereupon apply, and continue to apply, such part of the produce of the special rate at the credit of the sinking-fund account, or special-rate account, as directed by such Order in Council. 55 V. c. 42, s. 374.

The original of this section is the latter part of s. 228 of the Act of 1858 (22 V. c. 99), and was added by the Committee of the Legislative Council to what is now s. 429. It authorized the application—under the authority of an Order in Council—of surplus moneys on hand from the produce of special rates over and above the amount required to pay the next year's interest (b) towards the payment or redemption at any rate agreed upon, "not exceeding par," of the debt created by the by-law or any part thereof. The words "not exceeding par" were omitted in 1866 (29-30 V. c. 51, s. 232). The section can now only apply to by-laws passed before March 11th, 1879. See note (e) to s. 384, and note (a) to s. 412.

Investment of surplus moneys raised on special rates.

420.—(1) If any part of the produce of the special rate levied in respect of any debt, and at the credit of the sinking-fund account, or of the special rate account thereof, cannot be immediately applied towards paying the debt, by reason of no part thereof being yet payable, the council shall, from time to time, invest the same in government securities, municipal debentures, or in first mortgages on real estate held and used for farming purposes, and being the first lien on such real estate, or in local improvement debentures of the municipality, or in such other manner as the Lieutenant-Governor in Council may by general or special Order in Council direct, or in any other debentures of the municipality which may be approved of by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council by such Order in Council; and from time to time, as such securities mature, may invest the proceeds thereof in other like securities; but no sum so invested in mortgages shall exceed two-thirds of the value, according to the last revised and corrected assessment roll at the time it is invested, of the real estate on which it is secured.

To be regulated by by-law.

(2) The council of the municipality may regulate, by by-law, the manner in which such investments shall be made.

Sinking fund may be used in purchasing unsold debentures.

(3) It shall not be necessary that any local improvement or other debentures of the municipality referred to in this section shall have been disposed of by the council; but the council may apply the sinking fund to an amount equal to the amount of such debentures towards the purposes to which the proceeds of such debentures would properly be applicable, and the council shall thereupon hold the debentures as an investment on account of the sinking fund, and may deal with the same accordingly. 55 V. c. 42, s. 375.

(a) s. 384 (5).

(b) See s. 418 (1).

Sec. 420(3). Notes (a), (b). Investment of trust moneys raised by special rate.

Taken from 47 V. c. 32, s. 9 (1884). Cf. 42 V. c. 81, s. 177; 44-45 V. c. 109. Sched. A (21); 22 V. c. 99, s. 228; 29-30 V. c. 51, s. 232; 36 V. c. 48, s. 268; 44 V. c. 24, s. 9.

(a) This section applies to any money raised under a debenture by-law which cannot immediately be applied towards paying off the debt thereby secured. The investment of such moneys is imperative, but the manner of investment, i.e., the choice of securities among those authorized by law is left to the council (a).

(b) "In such other manner as the Lieutenant-Governor in Council may by general or special Order in Council direct."

By an Order in Council of March 4th, 1885, passed under this section, it was directed that where municipalities have amounts at the credit of a sinking-fund account which cannot be immediately applied towards paying debts by reason of no part thereof being yet payable, they may, from time to time, invest the same by special deposit bearing interest in some chartered bank carrying on business in this Province, until the debts mature or more permanent investment can be made.

And by another Order in Council (dated March 29th, 1895), the investment of moneys under this section may be made in debentures of any society or company, in the debentures of which trustees may invest funds under the provisions of the Statute 54 V. c. 19, s. 4. That section is now s. 5 of "The Trustee Investment Act" (R. S. O. c. 130), and—as amended in 1899 by 62 V. (2nd Session) c. 11, s. 32)—is as follows:

> "It shall be lawful for a trustee, unless expressly forbidden by the instrument (if any) creating the trust, to invest any trust funds in his hands in terminable debentures or debenture stock of the hereinafter mentioned societies and companies, provided that such investment is in other respects reasonable and proper, and that the debentures are registered, and are transferable only on the books of the society or company in his name as the trustee for the particular trust estate for which they are held in such debentures or debenture stock as aforesaid:
> "(a) Of any incorporated society or company which has been or shall hereafter be authorized by any lawful authority to lend money upon mortgages on real estate, or for that purpose and other purposes, such society or company having a capitalized, fixed, paid up and permanent stock not liable to be withdrawn therefrom amounting to at least $500,000, and having a reserve fund amounting to not less than 25 per cent. of its paid-up capital, and its stock having a market value of not less than 25 per cent. premium.
> "(b) Or of any society or company heretofore incorporated under chapter 164 of the Revised Statutes of Ontario, 1877, or any Act incorporated therewith, or under chapter 169 of the Revised Statutes of Ontario, 1887, having a capitalized, fixed, paid up, and permanent stock not liable to be withdrawn therefrom amounting to at least $100,000, and having a reserve fund amounting to not less than 15 per cent. of its paid up capital, and its stock having a market value of not less than 7 per cent. premium.

421. Any council may by by-law direct that any surplus moneys in the hands of the treasurer, and not specially appropriated to any other purpose, shall be credited to the sinking-fund account of any debenture debt of the municipality, and the council may, subject to the provisions of the preceding section, invest such sinking-fund account in any of the securities therein named. 55 V. c. 42, s. 376.

Taken from 45 V. c. 23, s. 16 (1882). Cf. 14-15 V. c. 109, s. 6.

Council may apply other funds towards such debts.

422. A council may appropriate to the payment of any debt the surplus income derived from any public or corporation work, or from any share or interest therein, after paying the annual expenses thereof, or may so appropriate any unappropriated money in the treasury, or any money raised by additional rate; and any money so appropriated shall be carried to the credit of the sinking fund of the debt, or in payment of any instalment accruing due. 55 V. c. 42, s. 377.

Taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99), s. 229. The words at the end ("or in payment of any instalment accruing due") were added in 1873 by 36 V. c. 48, s. 279. Cf. 14-15 V. c. 109, s. 5.

(a) Moneys once appropriated under either this section or s. 421 towards payment of a debt, become trust funds for that particular purpose, and cannot be diverted to any other purpose. The original sections from which these are taken expressly so provided. (a)

Certain moneys may be set apart for educational purposes.

Investment thereof.

423.—(1) A municipal corporation having surplus moneys derived from "The Ontario Municipalities Fund," or from any other source, may, by by-law, set such surplus apart for educational purposes, and may invest the same, as well as any other moneys held by such municipal corporation for, or by it lawfully appropriated to educational purposes, in public securities of the Dominion, municipal debentures, or first mortgages on real estate held and used for farming purposes, being the first lien on such real estate, and from time to time, as such securities mature, may invest in such other like securities, or in securities already authorized by law, as may be directed by the by-law, or by other by-laws passed for that purpose.

Amount which may be so invested.

(2) No sum so invested shall exceed two-thirds of the value, according to the last revised and corrected assessment roll at the time it is so invested, of the real estate on which it is secured. 55 V. c. 42, s. 378.

Taken from the Act of 1873, (36 V. c. 48,) s. 423. Cf. 24 V. c. 17, s. 1; 29-30 V. c. 51, s. 272; 31 V. c. 30, s. 27; 32 V. c. 43, s. 21.

"The Ontario Municipalities Fund."

(a) "The Ontario Municipalities Fund" was formed in from the proceeds of the sales of lands originally designated as "Clergy Reserves." (b)

By s. 5 of the Act of 1854 (18 V. c. 2) the balance of the fund remaining at the end of each year in the hands of the Receiver-General after paying the stipends of those clergy who still had claims thereon, was to be apportioned among the county and city municipalities of the Province according to their population, and was to form part of the general funds of the municipality. By 19-20 V. c. 16, s. 1 (1856) the apportionment was directed to be made among all (local) municipalities, (cities, towns, villages and townships),—according to the number of ratepayers on the last assessment roll;—and by 20

Sec. 423.

Note (a).

V. c. 71 (1857) these municipalities were authorized to invest moneys received by them from the Fund in Provincial, Consolidated Loan, or municipal debentures. The Act 27 V. c. 17, s. 1,—after reciting the expediency of allowing further discretion as to such investments,—authorized the setting aside for educational purposes of any money derived from the Fund and its investment in first mortgages of farm-lands within the municipality, provided that the amount invested should not exceed one-third of the assessed value of such lands. This is the foundation of the above section.

"The Ontario Municipalities Fund."

The limitation in amount of the investment to one-third of the assessed value of the farm property was altered to two-thirds thereof by 32 V. c. 44, s. 21 (1868), and the words "or from any other source" in lines 2 and 3 were added by 31 V. c. 30, s. 27.

Municipality may foreclose mortgage.

(b) A municipal corporation having invested money on mortgage under this section is not restricted to its remedy by sale, but may obtain a judgment for foreclosure (a); notwithstanding the fact that the Statutes of Mortmain apply to such corporations. (b)

Loans or gifts to school corporations.

424. Any municipal corporation having surplus moneys set apart for educational purposes, may, by by-law, invest the same in a loan or loans to any board of school trustees within the limits of the municipality, for such term or terms, and at such rate or rates of interest as may be agreed upon by and between the parties to such loan or loans respectively, and as may be set forth in such by-law: or may by by-law grant any portion of such moneys, or other general funds, by way of gift to aid poor school sections within the municipality. 55 V. c. 42, s. 379.

(a) The first part of this section is taken from s. 4 of the Act 27 V. c. 17, (referred to in the preceding note,) which authorized the setting aside for educational purposes of any surplus moneys received by a municipality from "The Upper Canada Municipalities Fund," and the loan of such moneys to any Board or Boards of School Trustees within the limits of the municipality.

The last clause—authorizing the granting of such moneys or other general funds by way of gift to aid poor school sections,—was added in 1873 by 36 V. c. 48, s. 271. The first clause of this section must be read with and is controlled by s. 74 of "The Public Schools Act," (c)—(which empowers the school corporation to borrow from the municipal corporation any of the moneys referred to in this section, but only for the purpose of purchasing a school site or erecting a school-house,)—and also with s. 29 of "The Statute Law Amendment Act, 1899," (d) which provides that:—

> 29. "The municipal corporation of every township shall have power to apportion by by-law among the public school sections in the township the principal or interest of any investments held by the corporation for public school purposes, according to the salaries paid the teachers engaged by the respective school sections during the past year, or according to the average attendance of pupils at each school section during the same period, as may be deemed expedient."

Illegal investments.

425. No member of a municipal council shall take part in, or in any way be a party to, the investment of such moneys as are mentioned in this Act, by or on behalf of the municipality, otherwise than is authorized by this Act, or by

Penalty.

(a) "Such moneys as are mentioned in this Act." The original section applied only to surplus moneys derived from "The Upper Canada Municipalities Fund;" but the section has now a much wider scope. (a)

(b) By 27 V. c. 17, s. 6, the act here forbidden was declared to be a misdemeanour, and punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both. It is apprehended that this is still the result of wilful disobedience. (b)

Municipalities indebted to Municipal Loan Fund to make annual returns to Provincial Treasurer.

426. The treasurer of any municipality for which any sum of money has been raised on the credit of the Consolidated Municipal Loan Fund, shall, so long as any part of such sum or of the interest thereon remains unpaid by the municipality, transmit to the Treasurer of Ontario on or before the 15th day of January in every year, a return, certified on the oath of the treasurer before some Justice of the Peace, containing the amount of taxable property in the municipality according to the then last revised assessment roll or rolls; a true account of all the debts and liabilities of the municipality, for every purpose, for the then last year; and also such further information and particulars with regard to the liabilities and resources of the municipality as the Lieutenant-Governor in Council may from time to time require, under a penalty, in case of neglect or refusal to transmit the return, account, information or particulars, of $100, to be recovered, with costs, as a debt due to the Crown. 55 V. c. 42, s. 381.

Penalty for default.

Taken from 18 V. c. 78, s. 14, under which the return thereby required was to be made to the Board of Audit constituted by s. 1 of that Act.

"The Consolidated Municipal Loan Fund."

(a) "The Consolidated Municipal Loan Fund for Upper Canada" was established in 1852 by 16 V. c. 22, in order "to facilitate the borrowing on advantageous terms of such sums as might be required by (municipalities) in Upper Canada for effecting, or aiding in affecting, important public works calculated to benefit such municipalities." The moneys constituting the Fund were to be borrowed by the Province at a rate of interest not exceeding six per cent. (c), and lent to the municipalities at eight per cent per annum. (d) By 18 V. c. 18 (1854) the benefits (?) of this scheme were extended to the municipalities of Lower Canada, and the amount of the Fund was limited to £1,500,000 stg. for each section of the Province. The Act seems to have fully accomplished the object for which it was passed as indicated by the recital above quoted, viz., "to facilitate the borrowing" of money by municipalities. The sums advanced by the Province proved in many instances to be uncollectable; and the total amount owed in 1872 to the Province of Ontario by municipalities situate therein was no less than $12,000,000. Upon the distribution of the Provincial surplus in 1873, an adjustment of accounts took took place between the Province and the municipalities indebted to the Fund, particulars of which appear in the Act 36 V. c. 47 and the Schedules thereto. The municipalities still remaining debtors to the Fund were to issue new debentures for the amount of their respective liabilities, which debentures or the proceeds thereof were to be distributed pro rata among the municipalities entitled to receive moneys under the Act, the latter being thus substituted for the Province as creditors of the indebted municipalities. The debentures were to mature in twenty years from their date, but it was provided that the total amount annually payable thereon should not exceed the proceeds of a rate of two cents on the dollar on the assessment of 1872 after meeting the ordinary and necessary expenditures of the municipality (other than for schools) calculated on the basis of the expenditure of the year 1872.

Provision was made by s. 12 of the Act and subsequently by 38 V. c. 29 (1874) and 39 V. c. 4 (1876), 40 V. c. 13 (1877), 42 V. c. 9 (1879), and 45 V. c. 27 (1882) as to the purposes to which the moneys or the proceeds of the debentures distributed under the Act might be applied. From inquiries in the Department of the Provincial Treasurer it appears that all the debentures issued under the Act of 1873 have not yet been redeemed, and that there are consequently a few municipalities to which this section still applies. (a)

(b) "Under a penalty . . . of $100 to be recovered with costs as a debt due to the Crown." This provision is taken from s. 15 of "The Act respecting the Management of the Public Revenue," etc. (b) The whole section is as follows:

Penalty for not transmitting accounts, etc.

"If any corporation, officer or person refuses or neglects to transmit any account, statement or return, with the proper vouchers, to the officer or department to whom he is hereby required to transmit the same, on or before the day hereby appointed for the transmission thereof, such corporation, officer or person shall for such refusal or neglect forfeit and pay to the Crown for the public uses of this Province, the sum of $100, to be recovered with costs, as a debt due to the Crown, and in any Court and in any way in which debts to the Crown can be recovered; and in any action for the recovery of such sum, it shall be sufficient to prove by any one witness or other evidence that such account, statement or return ought to have been transmitted by the defendant, as alleged on the part of the Crown, and the onus of proving that the same was so transmitted shall rest upon the defendant."

Proof in action for penalty.

427. Every council shall, on or before the 31st day of January in each year, under a penalty of $20 in case of default, to be paid to the Treasurer of Ontario, transmit to the Lieutenant-Governor, through the Minister of Agriculture, an account in such form as may from time to time be prescribed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, of the several debts of the corporation, as they stood on the 31st day of December preceding, specifying in regard to every debt of which a balance remained due at that day:

Every council to make a yearly report of the corporation debts to the Lieut-Governor in Council.

What such report must shew.

1. The original amount of the debt;

2. The date when it was contracted;

3. The days fixed for its payment;

4. The interest to be paid therefor;

5. The rate provided for the redemption of the debt and interest;

6. The proceeds of such rate for the year ending on said 31st day of December;

7. The portion (if any) of the debt redeemed or paid during that year;

8. The amount of interest (if any) unpaid on said 31st day of December; and

9. The balance still due of the principal of the debt. 55 V. c. 42, s. 382.

(a) Clauses 5 and 6 require amendment so as to accord with the provisions of s. 384 (5).

Division II—COMMISSION OF INQUIRY INTO FINANCES, (Sec. 428).

When a Commission of Inquiry may issue.

428.—(1) In case one-third of the members of any council, or thirty duly qualified electors of the municipality, petition for a commission to issue under the Great Seal, to inquire into the financial affairs of the corporation, and things connected therewith, and if sufficient cause is shewn, the Lieutenant-Governor in Council may issue a commission accordingly, and the Commissioner or the Commissioners, or such one or more of them as the commission empowers to act, shall have the same power as any Court has in civil cases to summon witnesses, enforce their attendance, and compel them to produce documents and to give evidence. 55 V. c. 42, s. 383.

Expenses of such commissions.

(2) The expenses to be allowed for executing the commission shall be determined and certified by the Treasurer of Ontario, and shall thenceforth become a debt due by the corporation to the Commissioner or Commissioners, and shall be payable within three months after demand therefor, made by the Commissioner or by any one of the Commissioners, at the office of the treasurer of the corporation. 55 V. c. 42, s. 384.

Taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99), ss. 239, 240. Cf. 12 V. c. 81, s. 181. The words "or thirty duly qualified electors of the municipality," were inserted in 1871 by 34 V. c. 30, s. 15. As to the meaning of "electors," see ss. 2 (5) and 86.

(a) The power conferred is one of inquiry, and may be of great advantage to municipalities in enabling them to enforce the attendance of witnesses and compel them to give evidence (a). Since it is a public inquiry conducted under a public Act of Parliament which says nothing about compensation to witnesses, it would seem that persons called before the Commissioners are not entitled—any more than they would have been so entitled at common law in the case of a prosecution for a misdemeanour,—to compensation for expenses or loss of time (b).

Inquiries into other than financial matters are authorized by s. 324. If councillors whose duty it is to give all necessary and reasonable information maliciously conspire to withhold information, and contrive and intend to cause expense and damage to the corporation by increasing the costs and expenses of the Commission, and throw upon the corporation any costs, and if it be charged and proved that councillors in pursuance of such contrivance and intention have misconducted themselves to the damage of the corporation, an action may be maintained against them at the suit of the corporation for recovery of damages (a). Where it was shewn in such an action that the clerk had absented himself and kept back the books, &c., in collusion with the defendants, and that in consequence the costs of the commission—which otherwise would not have exceeded £75 or £100—had been increased to £328, it was held that the sum of £250 damages was not excessive (b). There is nothing in the section to prevent the corporation from suing for money due them; and it would be unreasonable to hold that the power to inquire should deprive the corporation of the right to resort to a more speedy and economical mode of investigating accounts, and of obtaining payment of the amount due when ascertained (c).

(b) It is presumed that witnesses on such an inquiry would not be bound to answer questions tending to criminate them (d).

(c) The expenses are to be "determined" by the Treasurer of the Province of Ontario. No appeal is provided for. When so determined the account may be certified When certified the amount becomes a debt due by the municipality to the Commissioner or Commissioners, payable "within three months after demand," &c. The Commissioners are entitled to recover the money by action after the amount has been determined, certified and demanded; and the plaintiff in such an action is not obliged to prove the regularity of the issue of the commission (e).

In Re Rural Municipality of Macdonald, (f) it was held under the Municipal Act of the Province of Manitoba (g) that the municipality in question had no power to provide for payments of the expenses of counsel and witnesses in attendance upon a Royal Commission issued under s. 431 of the Act to inquire into the financial affairs of the corporation. (h)

(d) The powers conferred by this section are not affected by R.S.O, c. 228, which provides, inter alia, for the appointment of a Provincial Municipal Auditor (i).

TITLE IV.—DEBENTURES, (SECS. 429-436).

Synopsis:—Sec. 429 (1-2) prescribes the mode of execution of municipal debentures and coupons. S. 429 (3) provides for the recovery at their full face amount of debentures negotiated at a discount, etc.; and s. 436 prohibits the issue of debentures, etc., for less than $100 each.

Secs. 430-432,—like ss. 399-400 ante—validate certain classes of debentures under the circumstances therein mentioned. S. 433 relates to Local Improvement Debentures and authorizes the consolidation of debenture debts thereby secured. S. 434 provides for the registration of debenture transfers, and s. 435 gives municipal councils power to borrow money for current expenses pending the collection of the taxes for the year.

Debentures, bonds, etc., how to be executed.

429.—(1) All debentures and other instruments duly authorized to be issued on behalf of a municipal corporation shall, unless otherwise specially authorized or provided, be sealed with the seal of the corporation, and signed by the head thereof, or by some other person authorized by by-law to sign the same, otherwise the same shall not be valid; and it shall be the duty of the treasurer of the municipality to see

In the case of a local improvement debenture the words "Local Improvement Debenture" should be printed thereon. If a Debenture Registry Book is kept by the municipality the words contained in s. 434 should be added before the date.

Negotiability of such debentures.

"Municipal bonds, notwithstanding they are under seal, are clothed with all the attributes of commercial paper, pass by delivery or indorsement and are not subject to equities in the hands of holders for value before due without notice. Such bonds usually have coupons attached, which partake of the nature of the bond, are likewise negotiable, may be detached and held separately from the bond ; and the holder may sue thereon in his own name without producing or being interested in the bonds to which they were originally attached. Such securities are made to raise money by their sale ; and this object would be defeated if they were subject to equities in the hands of bona fide holders. (a)

The rule in this Province is equally clear.

In the earlier Municipal Acts it was expressly provided that municipal debentures should be transferable by delivery (1) if originally made payable to bearer, or (2) if indorsed in blank by a holder to whom or to whose order they were originally made payable (b). These sections were omitted from "The Consolidated Municipal Act of 1873" as unnecessary ;—the Act 35 V. c. 12 having by that time provided for the case. R.S.O. c. 119, s. 38, now declares that

(1) "The bonds or debentures of corporations made payable to bearer, or to any person named therein or bearer, may be transferred by delivery, and if payable to any person or order shall (after general indorsation thereof by such person) be transferable by delivery from the time of the indorsation.

(2) Any such transfer shall vest the property of such bonds or debentures in the holder thereof to enable him to maintain an action thereon in his own name."

(b) 22 V. c. 99, ss. 210, 211 ; 29-30 V. c. 51, ss. 214, 215.

In Trust & Loan Co. v. City of Hamilton (a), the bona fide holder for value of a municipal debenture was held entitled to sue thereon, though the debenture, after being signed and sealed, had been stolen from the defendants by the person through whom the plaintiff derived title (b).

Rights of holders thereof.

In Scully v. McCallum (c), the purchaser of a township debenture issued under a by-law which was subsequently held to be illegal brought an action against the representatives of the person by whom the debenture had been sold, asking a rescission of the contract and a refund of the purchase money; but (there being no evidence of fraud) SPRAGGE, V. C., dismissed the bill, holding that it lies upon the purchaser of debentures to satisfy himself as to their validity (d).

(b) "Shall be sealed with the seal of the corporation and signed by the head thereof," etc. These provisions are imperative, and obedience to their requirements may be enforced by mandamus (e). Sealing.

(c) "Or by some other person authorized by by-law to sign the same." Where a by-law which had been submitted to and approved by the electors contained a clause providing that the debentures to be issued thereunder should be signed by the reeve, and he refused to sign them, it was held that this section was applicable, and the council might by by-law appoint some other person to sign the debentures (f). Signing.

(d) Otherwise the same shall not be valid." See note (a) to s. 384.

(e) "And it shall be the duty of the treasurer," etc. See also ss. 290, 392, 393, 410 (1), 418 (2). But where moneys collected under a debenture by-law had been paid out by a township treasurer in good faith under the direction of the reeve and in discharge of a legal liability of the township, and the council afterwards approved of and adopted the payment, MOWAT, V.C., declined to make the treasurer personally liable for the moneys so applied, and, semble that, if so liable, he would be entitled to be recouped by the township (g). Application of proceeds.

(2) The coupons attached to every such debenture issued by any municipal corporation other than a city shall each be signed by the head of the municipality and the treasurer of the corporation. 59 V. c. 51, s. 8. Execution of debenture coupons.

(g) This subsection was omitted from "The Consolidated Municipal Act of 1873," apparently on the ground that it related to interest, a subject within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Parliament of Canada. It is, however, still in force, as was pointed out by SPRAGGE, C.J.O. in Scottish-American Investment Company v. Village of Elora (a).

Sec. 431. Note (a).

Defence of illegality of debenture sued on.

And it has been held in England that a body corporate, having issued debentures which are assignable and which purport to have been executed pursuant to powers conferred by Statute, are estopped from alleging against an innocent assignee for value that the debentures have been issued illegally and in contravention of their statutory powers, and may be compelled by mandamus to apply their corporate funds in payment of the interest due on such debentures (d); and that where a corporation has power to issue legally-transferable securities, irregularities in such issue cannot be set up even against the original holder if he has the right to presume that all things were rightly done; still less can such irregularity or any equity against the original holder be urged against a bona fide transferee for value without notice (e).

Debentures issued before Feb. 1, 1883, on which payment has been made for two years, to be valid.

Where debentures were issued prior to the first day of February, 1883, by any municipality under a by-law passed by such municipality, and the interest on such debentures, and the principal of such of them (if any) as have fallen due, has been paid by the municipality for the period of two years or more, the by-law and the debentures issued thereunder, or such of them as are yet unpaid, shall be valid and binding upon the corporation, and shall not be quashed or set aside on any ground whatever. 55 V. c. 42. s. 408.

Taken from 44 V. c. 24, s. 27, which came into force on March 11th, 1881, and applied to by-laws passed prior to that date. The substitution,—in R.S.O. (1887), c. 184, s. 408,—of "February 1st, 1883," was (apparently) an error of the Statute Commissioners.

Local improvement debentures.

Consolidation thereof.

(2) In order to obviate a difficulty which has been found to prevail in negotiating local improvement debentures, in consequence of many of the same having to be issued for small and broken amounts, councils may, from time to time, after the passing of the several by-laws covering the several amounts required for particular local improvements, as therein specified, and without in any way affecting the liens on the lands therein named and to be improved thereby, pass a collective or cumulative by-law consolidating the said several amounts, and may issue the required debentures in a general consecutive issue under such consolidated by-law, apportioning, nevertheless, the amount raised thereby, and crediting each service with the amount previously estimated and named for the same under the individual by-law passed in the first instance.

What individual by-law shall state.

(3) Councils desiring to avail themselves of the provisions of the preceding subsection shall insert, in each such by-law, a clause intimating that the amount of the debentures to be issued thereunder is subject to consolidation; and in such case it shall be sufficient to state in the said individual by-law that debentures to be issued thereunder shall be issued at so many years from the date of issue of the same, without defining a specific date:

Debentures already issued or sold to be excluded.

(4) No consolidated debenture shall be issued, covering any debentures which have been issued or sold under any original by-law. 55 V. c. 42, s. 409.

Subsection 1 is taken from the Act of 1866, (29-30 V. c. 51), s. 304, the remaining subsections from "The Municipal Amendment Act of 1882," (45 V. c. 23,) s. 3.

(a) The advisability of increasing the selling value of local improvement debentures by permitting their consolidation in the manner herein provided was brought to the attention of the Legislature in 1882 by the late S. B. Harman, D.C.L., then City Treasurer of Toronto. The procedure suggested is first to pass the local improvement by-law assessing the property benefited by the work, and then, before issuing the debentures thereunder, to pass a consolidating by-law, which may at the same time provide for raising the share (if any) of the cost of the work to be contributed by the municipality at large. AND WHEREAS each of the individual by-laws above named contains a clause intimating that the amount of debentures to be issued thereunder is subject to consolidation;

AND WHEREAS it is expedient to further pass this collective or cumulative by-law, consolidating the several amounts above named, and to issue the required debentures in a general consecutive issue, apportioning nevertheless the amount raised and crediting each service with the amount previously estimated and named for the same under the individual by-laws passed in the first instance as aforesaid;

AND WHEREAS it is further expedient to declare that the debt to be created on the security of the special rates settled by the several by-laws hereby consolidated as aforesaid and hereunder is further guaranteed by the municipality at large; (a)

AND WHEREAS it is advisable to consolidate the broken amounts (being the ratepayers' share) named in the said several by-laws, and also to consolidate the several amounts which make up the said sum of $24,496 and to raise by loan, on the credit of the said city, the amount of the ratepayers' share together with the city's share, making in all the sum of $77,699.76, together with interest thereon at the rate of four per cent. per annum for nineteen years;

AND WHEREAS it will require the sum of $979.84 to be raised annually for nineteen years, the currency of the debentures to be issued under and by virtue of this by-law, to pay the interest of the said sum of $24,496, being the portion of the debt created by this by-law to be borne by the city, as shewn by the above recited by-laws, and the sum of $885.26 to be raised annually during the same period for the payment of the city's said portion of the debt, making in all the sum of $1,865.10 to be raised annually as aforesaid;

AND WHEREAS it is necessary that such annual sum of $1,865.10 shall be raised and levied in each year during the said period of nineteen years by a special rate sufficient therefor on all the rateable property in the city of Toronto;

THEREFORE the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the City of Toronto, enacts as follows:

1. The amounts mentioned in the said several by-laws above recited as the ratepayers' portion of the cost of the several improvements therein referred to are hereby consolidated, and a sum not exceeding $53,203.76, being the property-holders' proportion of the cost of the said improvements, as shown in the preamble to this by-law, together with a further sum not exceeding $24,496, being the portion of the cost of the said improvements to be borne by

Note (a).

Form of by-law consolidating several issues of local improvement debentures.

the city, as in the preamble to this by-law mentioned, making in all the sum of $77,699.76, shall be raised by loan on the security of the special rates imposed in the several by-laws above named, and on the security of the special rate hereinafter imposed, the debt so to be created being further guaranteed by the municipality at large; and debentures not exceeding in amount the said sum of $77,699.76 shall be issued by the said corporation therefor.

2. It shall be lawful for the mayor of the said city to raise by way of loan, from any person or persons, body or bodies corporate who may be willing to advance the same upon the credit of the debentures to be issued hereunder and guaranteed as aforesaid, a sum of money not exceeding in the whole the sum of $77,699.76 as aforesaid, and to cause the same to be paid into the hands of the treasurer of the said city, for the purposes above recited.

3. The said mayor may cause any number of debentures to be made for such sums of money as may be required, either in currency or sterling money, not less than one hundred dollars Canadian currency or twenty pounds sterling each, and not exceeding in the whole the said sum of $77,699.76, as in the preceding section mentioned, and the said debentures shall be sealed with the seal of the said corporation, and signed by the said mayor and treasurer.

4. The said debentures shall be made payable at the expiration of nineteen years from the date of the issue thereof, in this Province, Great Britain, or elsewhere, and may be expressed in sterling money or any other currency, and shall have attached to them coupons for the payment of interest, which coupons shall be signed by the mayor and treasurer.

5. The said debentures shall bear interest at four per cent per annum from the date of the issue thereof, which interest shall be payable half-yearly, on the first days of the months of January and July, in each year, at the place where the said debentures are made payable.

6. The said sum of $77,699.76 to be raised as aforesaid shall be apportioned and credited to the several services named in the several by-laws aforesaid, and shall not be applied to any other purpose whatsoever.

7. During nineteen years, the currency of the debentures to be issued under the authority of this by-law, the sum of $979.84 for the payment of interest and the sum of $885.26 for the payment of the principal of the said city's proportion of the cost of the said improvements, as in the preamble and in the first section of this by-law mentioned, making in all the sum of $1,865.10, shall be raised annually as aforesaid, and a special rate in the dollar upon the assessed value of all rateable property in the City of Toronto over and above all other rates and taxes, sufficient to produce in each year the said sum of $1,865.10, shall be annually levied and collected from the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety to the year one thousand nine hundred and eight, both years inclusive, unless the said debentures shall be sooner paid, for the purpose of paying the said debt of $24,496 with interest thereon, as aforesaid.

8. All moneys arising out of the annual special sinking-fund rates in the several by-laws above named and herein, and all moneys received in commutation thereof, shall be invested by the treasurer under resolution of this council from time to time as the law directs.

9. Every debenture to be issued hereunder shall contain a provision in the words set out in section 434 of "The Municipal Act".

10. This by-law shall come into operation and take effect on the day of the passing thereof."

Mode of transfer may be prescribed.

434.—(1) Debentures issued by any municipal council may contain a provision in the following words:

"This debenture, or any interest therein, shall not, after a certificate of ownership has been indorsed thereon by the treasurer of this municipal corporation, be transferable, except by entry by the treasurer or his deputy in the Debenture Registry Book of the said Corporation at the town (or village) of ," or to the like effect.

55 V. c. 42, s. 410.

Debenture Registry Book.

(2) The treasurer of every municipality issuing any debentures containing the provision in the last subsection mentioned, shall open and keep a Debenture Registry Book, in which he shall enter a copy of all certificates of ownership of debentures which he may give, and also every subsequent transfer of such debenture; such entry shall not be made except upon the written authority of the person last entered in such book as the owner of such debenture, or of his executors or administrators, or of his or their lawful attorney, which authority shall be retained and duly filed by the treasurer. 55 V. c. 42, s. 411.

Registered debentures transferable by entry, etc.

(3) After the certificate of ownership has been indorsed as aforesaid, the debenture shall only be transferable by entry by the treasurer of the municipality or his deputy, in such Debenture Registry Book, from time to time, as transfers of such debenture are authorized by the then owner thereof, or his lawful attorney. 55 V. c. 42, s. 412.

Taken from the Act of 1873, (36 V. c. 48,) ss. 300, 301, 302.

(a) The design of this section is so far to control the negotiability of the debenture as to enable the municipal corporation at all times to know who is the holder of it. This is effected in the first instance by a declaration on the face of the debenture in the form given in the section. After the indorsement of ownership by the treasurer, no legal transfer of the debenture can be made, except by entry by the treasurer or his deputy in the Debenture Registry Book. The provision is analogous to that against transfer of property in a ship except in a particular mode, after certificate of ownership granted. (a)

Borrowing sums for current expenditure.

435.—(1) The council of any municipality may by by-law authorize the head, or acting head, with the treasurer thereof, to borrow from any person or bank such sums as the council deem necessary to meet the then current expenditure of the corporation, until such time as the taxes levied therefor can be collected, and the council shall by such by-law regulate the amounts to be so borrowed, and define the notes, cheques, covenants or agreements or other vouchers to be given in security therefor. 56 V. c. 35, s. 10.

Limit of amount to be borrowed for current expenditure.

(2) The amount so borrowed and outstanding shall not, in the case of any municipality other than a county, exceed eighty per cent. of the amount collected as taxes to pay the ordinary current expenditure of the municipality in the preceding municipal year, and in the case of a county, the amount so borrowed and outstanding shall not at any time exceed the amount to be raised and paid over to the county by the local municipalities therein for ordinary expenditure for county purposes for the current municipal year; and in the event of any council authorizing the borrowing of any larger sum than the amount limited by this sub-section, the members of the council who vote therefor shall be disqualified from holding any municipal office for the period of two years. 60 V. c. 45, s. 50 part: 61 V. c. 23, s. 16.

Lender not bound to prove necessity for borrowing.

(3) The powers by this section conferred shall not be exercised except for the purpose of meeting the ordinary expenditure of the municipality; and the person or bank lending any sum to a municipal corporation under this section shall not be bound to establish the necessity of borrowing the same. 56 V. c. 35, s. 10 part; 60 V. c. 45, s. 50 part.

Disqualification of councillors voting to exceed limit in borrowing for current expenditure.

(3*a*) The disqualification mentioned in subsection 2 shall not apply to the case of any member or members of any municipal council elected for the year 1899, not already unseated or who may have already resigned; and the judgment of any Court imposing such disqualification on any member or members of any municipal council who may have been unseated shall not disqualify him or them from holding any municipal office other than that of municipal councillor nor from holding the office of municipal councillor after the expiration of the present year, 1899. 62 V. (2nd Session) c. 26, s. 26.

Sub-section 1 is taken from 56 V. c. 35, s. 10, the original of which is s. 303 of "The Consolidating Municipal Act of 1873," (36 V. c. 48). The sources of the remaining sub-sections are indicated in the references appended to them respectively.

Former law.

(a) Until it was expressly conferred by the Legislature in 1873, the power of a municipal council to borrow money, even for current expenditure, and to execute as security therefor instruments binding upon the assets of the corporation, was a subject of some doubt, although the preponderance of authority was in favour of the right to do so. (a)

Under the Act of 1873, (s. 303,) the council could authorize the borrowing (to meet current expenditure) of such sums "as might be required" This has been altered to "such sums as the council deem necessary" for that purpose, —an important difference. The amount has also been limited by subss. 2 and 2*a*, and the rights of the lender still further protected by the last clause of subs. 3. Prior to the amendment of 1897—by which the amount which might be borrowed was limited to 80 per cent. of the taxes collected in the preceding year—it was held that, although not bound to establish the necessity for borrowing, the lender was nevertheless bound to inquire into the amount of the taxes authorized to be levied to meet current expenditure, and could not lawfully lend more than that amount (b); but when money has been borrowed to an amount unauthorized by this section, and has been expended upon objects for which moneys lawfully obtained might have been expended by the council, a debenture by-law approved by the ratepayers to raise money for its repayment will be upheld (c).

Borrowing money for school purposes.

Payment of school loans to treasurers of school boards.

(b) See "The Public Schools Act," (a); "The High Schools Act (b).

It is evidently not intended that the limitation (contained in subss. 2 and 2a) of the amount which may be borrowed to meet current expenditure, should apply to sums borrowed for school purposes under these subsections. The trustees of rural school sections are also empowered (c) to borrow money for payment of teachers' salaries and to give therefor a promissory note under the seal of the school corporation.

436. Unless specially authorized so to do, no council shall make or give any bond, bill, note, debenture or other undertaking, for the payment of a less amount than $100; and any bond, bill, note, debenture or other undertaking issued in contravention of this section, shall be void. 55 V. c. 42, s. 414.

Without special authority, no bond, etc., to be given for less than $100.

Taken from the Act of 1849, (12 V. c. 81), s. 83; re-enacted by 22 V. c. 99, s. 214, and 29-30 V. c. 51, s. 218.

(a) The original section—which prohibits municipal councils from acting as bankers or issuing any bond, bill, note, debenture or other undertaking of any kind or in any form in the nature of a bank-bill or note or intended to form a circulating medium or to supply the place of specie or to pass as money,—is expressly preserved by s. 304 of the Act of 1873, and appears to be still in force; but s. 215 of 22 V. c. 99 and s. 218 of 29-30 V. c. 51,—which declared the making, etc., of such bond, bill, etc., to be a misdemeanour—are now superseded by "The Criminal Code, 1892." In Gillespie v. Municipality of Westbourne (d) decided under an identical section in the Manitoba Municipal Act of 1881, it was held that the words "bond, bill, note, debenture or other undertaking" do not include an interest coupon, which is "issued as a mere incident to a debenture"; and that the plaintiff could recover in an action on such a coupon made for $30.

TITLE V.—ARBITRATIONS.

DIV. I.—LANDS TAKEN OR INJURIOUSLY AFFECTED, (SECS. 437-447).
DIV. II.—APPOINTMENT OF ARBITRATORS, (SECS. 448-457).
DIV. III.—PROCEDURE, (SECS. 456-467).

N. B. The sections of "The Municipal Act" included under this Title apply also to Boards of Park Management constituted under "The Public Parks Act," R.S.O. c. 243). See s. 16 of that Act.

DIV. I.—LANDS TAKEN OR INJURIOUSLY AFFECTED, (SECS. 437-447).

Synopsis:—Sec. 437 provides that claims by owners, etc., of real property for compensation for damages necessarily resulting from the exercise of certain powers of municipal corporations in respect of such property shall, unless settled by agreement, be determined by arbitration under the Act.

Sec. 438 sets a time-limit, which cities and towns may still further reduce in the cases mentioned in ss. 439-443 by adopting the procedure prescribed by these sections.

Ss. 444-446 enable municipal corporations to deal with cases in which a clear title could not otherwise be acquired, and (under certain circumstances) to pay compensation money into Court.

The costs of arbitrations under the foregoing sections are dealt with by s. 447.

Compensation for Lands Taken or Injuriously Affected.

Owners of lands taken, etc., to be compensated.

437. Every council shall make to the owners or occupiers of, or other persons interested in, real property entered upon, taken or used by the corporation in the exercise of any of its powers, or injuriously affected by the exercise of its powers, due compensation for any damages, (including cost of fencing when required) necessarily resulting from the exercise of such powers, beyond any advantage which the claimant may derive from the contemplated work; and any claim for such compensation, if not mutually agreed upon, shall be determined by arbitration under this Act. 55 V. c. 42, s. 483, part.

Differences to be determined by arbitration.

Taken from the Con. Mun. Act, of 1873, (36 V. c. 48) s. 373. Cf. 12 V. c. 81, ss. 195, 197; 11 & 15 V. c. 109, Sched. A (27) (28); 16 V. c. 181, ss. 33, 35; 22 V. c. 99, s. 310; 29 & 30 V. c. 51, s. 325.

(a) "Every council shall make . . compensation."

> "The property of subjects is under the eminent dominion of the State; so that the State, or he who acts for it, may use or even alienate or destroy such property, not only in case of extreme necessity,—in which even private persons have a right over the property of others,—but also for the ends of public utility, to which ends those who founded civil society must be supposed to have intended that private ends should give way (a)."

Compensation.

In most civilized communities this right of "eminent domain" is subject to the condition that compensation shall be made to the owners of the property taken or used (b). An express provision to this effect is contained in the Constitution of the United States, and a similar one in most of the State Constitutions (c). But the State, in the exercise of this power to take private property for public uses being thus at once actor and beneficiary, its duty, (in the absence of such express provision,) to make compensation, "is moral rather than legal, since the immunity of the sovereign from the suit of the subject is generally admitted" (a). Accordingly it is a well established rule of English law that when an act, which would otherwise be the subject of an action, is authorized by Statute and is done in accordance with that authority and without negligence compensation is recoverable only in case the Statute so provides, and in the mode which it prescribes (b).

Power delegated to private corporations.

The Legislature, instead of directly exercising its power to take private property for public use, may delegate this power (attended, however, by its constitutional restrictions), to private corporations organized for public purposes, and therefore, of course, to municipal corporations, which, for all purposes of local government, are essentially public in their nature and ends. It may also confer upon these corporations the right to decide upon the existence of the necessity for the exercise of the power. Thus a municipal corporation may be invested with power to open and establish by compulsory acquisition or purchase such streets as its council may judge necessary or expedient, to acquire land for parks or public buildings, to authorize the use of streets or squares by railways, tramways, etc., (c).

How Statutes giving powers of expropriation are to be construed.

But Statutes conferring these powers—being in derogation of private rights—will be construed strictly as against the grantee, and favourably for the person whose property is taken (d). Especially will the Courts require a strict compliance with all the conditions prescribed as precedent to the exercise of the power and with all provisions as to the manner of its exercise which are intended for the benefit of the citizen (e). And if the act has not been done "in the exercise of" the statutory powers, but outside of those powers, or otherwise than in the manner and under the formalities prescribed by the Statute, the remedy by action may still be resorted to (f). It is only where the act causing the injury can be justified as having been done in the exercise of a statutory power, and without negligence, that the party injured must seek his remedy by arbitration under the Statute (a); and where it is urged that the right of action has been taken away or turned into a statutory claim for compensation, it must be clearly shown that the case is one of those to which the Statute applies (b).

Note (a).

Exceptions to this rule of strict construction.

But in the case of municipal corporations, the object of which must be assumed to be the common good, such powers are less strictly construed than are the charters of commercial undertakings such as railway companies (c), and in England a similar rule is adopted in construing the charters of bodies which exist for essentially public purposes, e.g., the Metropolitan Board of Works (d).

"Owner."

(b) "The owners or occupiers of or other persons interested in real property."

An "owner," under "The Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845," (e) "The Railway Act," (f) and "The Railway Act of Ontario." (g) means "any person or corporation who under the provisions of the . . . Act . . . would be enabled to sell and convey lands," etc.

In Stewart v. Ottawa & N. Y. R. W.Co. (h) a case under "The Railway Act," Boyd, C., says (pp. 600-601):

> The scheme of the Act appears to be to deal with the person in possession as owner (i), and if the company propose to disturb that possession, it must be pursuant to the powers conferred by the Act. The matter of title is to be held in abeyance until a later stage in the expropriation proceedings (j). . . . The company cannot, even in the case of defective title, ignore the person who actually occupies the land as owner, and proceed as if his interest had been duly invalidated by legal process on the part of the real owner "(k).

Note (c).

Persons interested.

Any interest in land, whether legal or equitable, is within the scope of this section, e.g., that of a tenant for years (a); and under "The Lands Clauses Consolidation Act," (b) a tenant in possession under an agreement for a lease for years (c); a person entitled to an annuity charged upon land (d), a mortgagee (e): and even an equitable mortgagee (f), have been held to be proper parties to the arbitration (g).

But in Re Town of Cornwall and The Cornwall Water Works Co. (h), an arbitration under "The Act respecting Joint Stock Companies for supplying Cities, etc., with Gas and Water" (i), the mortgagees were not made parties; and, an award having been made for an amount less than their claim, it was held that the omission to make them parties did not entitle the defendants to have the matter referred back, since the mortgagees' rights could not be thereby affected.

One arbitration to settle all claims.

Where there is possession of the whole as one property, there should be but one set of proceedings and one arbitration, and the whole should be dealt with under the Statute as the property of one and the same owner (j).

A claim to compensation does not pass to the purchaser of real property.

The right to compensation, when once created, continues to exist as something distinct from the land and is not affected by any subsequent transfer or surrender of such land (k).

As to the meaning of "real property" under "The Municipal Act," see s. 2 (8), ante, p. 34.

Note (d).

(d) "Or injuriously affected by the exercise of its powers."

Until the Act of 1873 (a) the section made no provision for compensation in cases where, though real property might be injuriously affected, no land was actually taken (b).

"Injuriously affected," meaning of.

The expression "injuriously affected" is borrowed from s. 68 of "The Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845" (c), and has been thus explained by BRAMWELL, B., —(d)

> "The word 'injuriously' affected does not mean 'wrongfully' affected; what is done is rightful under the powers of the Act. It means 'hurtfully' or 'damnously' affected. As where we say of a man that he fell and injured his leg, we do not mean that his leg was wronged, but that it was hurt. We mean that he fell and that his leg was 'injuriously,' that is to say hurtfully, affected. At the same time I am clearly of opinion that to entitle the parties interested to compensation the injury or hurt must be such as could not lawfully be inflicted except by the powers of the Act. . . . The act, therefore, injuriously affecting must be one which would be wrongful but for the Statute." (e)

But a right to compensation does not arise in every case in which, but for the Statute, an action would have lain.

> "No case comes within the purview of the Statute, unless some damage has been occasioned to the land itself, in respect of which, but for the Statute, the complaining party might have maintained an action. The injury must be an actual injury, to the land itself, as by loosening the foundations of buildings on it, obstructing its light or its drains, making it inaccessible by lowering or raising the ground immediately in front of it, or by some such physical deterioration. Any other construction of the clause would open the door to claims of so wide and indefinite a character as could not have been in the contemplation of the Legislature," (f)

The limitations of the right to compensation under the words "injuriously affected" in s. 68 of "The Lands Clauses Consolidation Act" (g) have been very clearly defined by Mr. (afterwards LORD JUSTICE) THESIGER when arguing the case of The Metropolitan Board of Works v. McCarthy (h); and his definition, — which was accepted by LORDS CAIRNS, HATHERLEY and O'HAGAN, and (with a slight qualification) by LORD CHELMSFORD, in their judgments in that case, and which has since been approved by COTTON and BOWEN, L.JJ., in Ford v. Metropolitan R. W. Co. (i), — may now be regarded as a succinct statement of the law on this point. It is as follows:—

> "Where, by the construction of works there is a physical interference with any right, public or private, which the owners or occupiers of property are by law entitled to make use of in connection with such property, and which right gives an additional market value to such property, apart from the uses to which any particular owner or occupier might put it, there is a title to compensation if, by reason of such interference, the property as a property is lessened in value."

Note (d).

"Injuriously affected," meaning of.

In the case of The Caledonian R. W. Co. v. Walker's Trustees (a), LORD SELBORNE, L.C., after discussing the earlier decisions, laid down the following four propositions as having been established by them :—

1. When a right of action, which would have existed if the work in respect of which compensation is claimed had not been authorized by Parliament, would have been merely personal, without reference to land or its incidents, compensation is not due under the Acts (b).

2. When damage arises, not out of the execution, but only out of the subsequent use of the work, there is no case for compensation. (c)

3. Loss of trade or custom, by reason of a work not otherwise directly affecting the house or land in or upon which a trade has been carried on, or any right properly incident thereto, is not by itself a proper subject for compensation (d).

4. The obstruction by the execution of a work of a man's direct access to his house or land, whether such access be by a public road or by a private way, is a proper subject for compensation (e).

LORD BLACKBURN, in his judgment in the same case (f) considered the following propositions as "now no longer upon to discussion" :—

1. No action can be maintained for anything which is done under the authority of the Legislature, though the act is one which, if unautherized by the Legislature, would be injurious and actionable.

2. The remedy of the party who suffers the loss is confined to recovering such compensation as the Legislature has thought fit to give him.

3. Compensation is confined to damages arising from that which would, if done without authority from the Legislature, have given rise to a cause of action.

4. It must also be shown that it (the action) would have lain in respect of an injury to the land or an interest in land.

So, it will be observed that the right to compensation under this section of "The Municipal Act," although given to persons (—viz. "owners, occupiers, and persons interested")—is so given only where real property is injuriously affected, and it therefore follows that the compensation is limited to the amount of injury done to that real property.

The words in "The Public Works Act" (g) "injury done to any land or property," are commensurate with, and intended to have the same meaning as the phrase "injuriously affected" in "The Lands Clauses Consolidation Act" (h), and accordingly in Paradis v. The Queen (i), a case where the lands were injuriously affected, but no part thereof had been expropriated, damage to a man's trade or business, and any other damages not arising out of injury to the land itself, were held to form no ground for compensation (j). But where a colliery was injured by the diversion of a brook, the colliery owner was held entitled to compensation (a). So, where a stream of water flowing through a farm was cut off by the construction of a railway (b). And under "The Land Clauses Consolidation Acts" lands have been held to be "injuriously affected" where the access thereto has been obstructed by narrowing (c), or obstructing (d), or diverting (e), or closing highways leading thereto (f), or where the grade of such a highway has been so altered as to cut off or impede access to the land (g), or where a right of way has been, though but temporarily, interfered with (h), or a right of access to a water frontage appurtenant to the land has been cut off (i).

"Injuriously affected," meaning of.

Damage must be peculiar to the property affected.

Need not be permanent.

But a mere right not appurtenant to the land, but enjoyed in common with the rest of the public is not a matter for compensation (j). The damage must be peculiar to the property in question, differing not only in degree but also in kind from that to which the rest of Her Majesty's subjects are exposed by the execution of the work (k). It need not, however, be of a permanent character, the dictum of LORD CHELMSFORD, L.C., to that effect in Ricket v. Metropolitan R. W. Co. (l), having been overruled in Ford v. Metropolitan R. W. Co. (m).

But must be irrespective of any particular use of the property.

> "The damage must be sustained in respect of the property itself, not in respect of any particular use to which it may from time to time be put. . . . It must be a damage which would be sustained by any person who was the owner, to whatever use he might think it proper to put the property" (n):

a rule contained in the one laid down in McCarthy's case, ante, and which upon examination will be found not to conflict with the later decision in *Re Wadham and North Eastern R. W. Held, that although the exceptional value which the premises might have in the hands of the then proprietor could not be taken into account, the owners were entitled to compensation for the depreciation in the special marketable value of the premises as a public house or hotel, for which purposes they were, from their situation and construction, especially suitable.

Lands injuriously affected.

If the market value of the lands, if used for some other available purpose, would not be decreased, that possibility must be taken into account (a).

(c) "Due compensation." Where any land is actually taken the owner is entitled to a much larger measure of compensation than in a case merely of injurious affection (b). It has been pointed out that there is a distinction between the compensation which may be claimed under this section—(or under the corresponding sections of "The Expropriation Act" (c), "The Railway Acts" (d), or "The Lands Clauses Consolidation Act" (e),—in respect of real property taken or used in the exercise of statutory powers, and the damages which would be recoverable in an action of ejectment or trespass in respect of the same lands. In the latter case, it is assumed that the acts complained of are unlawful; in the former case, that they are rightfully done under statutory authority; and "this distinction is one of substance, affecting not only the proceedings but the tribunal to which recourse should be had" (f).

Where any land is taken.

> "Where part of the claimant's land has been taken and the remainder injuriously affected, the measure of the damage for which he is entitled to compensation is the value of the land taken and the depreciation occasioned by the construction of the public work in the value of other lands held with those so taken." (g).

Measure of compensation

In view of the authorities just cited, this appears to be a more accurate statement of the law than to say that "the principle of compensation in such a case is the same as in an action for forcible eviction," (h) or "as in trespass for expulsion" (i). But the distinction is in many cases a very fine one; and it is well established that the owner—if any part of his land is taken—is entitled to compensation "for all the loss caused by the expulsion," (j) including (inter alia) compensation for;

(a) Good will and loss of profits, (k).

Act, 1845*"), there seems to be no reason to doubt that it is fairly included within the general language of the former section.

Sec. 437.

Note (e).

"Due compensation."

Damages by future user of portion taken.

(d) Loss sustained by reason of not being able to carry on his business on the remaining portion of the property (a), and (in England),

(e) Damage to stock in trade or other property on the premises, (b).

> "Where part of a proprietor's land is taken, and the future use of the part taken may damage the remainder, such damage may be an injurious affecting of the proprietor's other lands, though it would not be an injurious affecting of the land of neighbouring proprietors from whom nothing had been taken." (c)

And in such a case the damage to the lands not taken is to be estimated not only with reference to the construction of the works but also to the purpose for which the land taken is to be used (d).

Owing to the difference in this respect between the language of "The (Dominion) Railway Act" and "The L.C.C. Act, 1845," it has been held under the former Statute that possible damage to bush land from greater exposure to winds and storms and its greater liability to injury by fire (e), or loss of local custom to and from a mill arising not from the construction of the railway but from its subsequent user (f), were considerations which could not be taken into account in estimating the damages, although in both cases contiguous lands belonging to the same claimant had been taken or used by the company (g).

How value of land taken to be estimated.

The value of the land taken is to be assessed on the principle of compensation to the owner, the question being what he will lose by having it taken from him, not what will be gained by those who take it (h); and such value should be estimated, "not only with reference to the present purpose to which the land is applied, but also to any other more beneficial purpose to which in the course of events at no remote period it may be applied" (i)

Or—as it is expressed in the leading American case of Boom Co. v. Patterson (j)—

> "Compensation to the owner is to be estimated by reference to the uses for which the expropriated lands are suitable, having regard to the existing business or wants of the community, or to such as may reasonably be expected in the immediate future. The inquiry must be what is the property worth in the market, viewed not merely with reference to the uses to which it is at the time applied, but with reference to the uses to which it is plainly adapted, that is to say, what is it worth from its availability for valuable uses." (k)

And where lands are taken which possess capabilities rendering them available for more than one purpose, compensation should be assessed with reference to that purpose which gives the lands their highest value. (l)

Note (a).

Where it is claimed that lands would have a special value for building purposes, which cannot be established by actual sales of any part thereof, evidence as to sales of similar and similarly situated properties affords the best test of such value (a).

Due compensation.

As to the principles upon which a percentage upon the fair value of the property should be added for compulsory sale, see Freeman on Compensation pp. 40, 41. In Reg. v. City of Toronto—a case before BURBIDGE, J. in the Ex. Ct. (not reported)—10 per cent. was added to the value of the land thus taken (b). An express provision requiring arbitrators to add 10 per cent to the actual value is contained in s. 60 of R.S.O. c. 199, which relates to the mode of computing the value of gas works or water works constructed by a company under that Act and sought to be acquired by a city, town or village at a price fixed by arbitration.

Percentage altered for compulsory sale.

Payment of compensation not a condition precedent to right to enter.

In the case of municipal corporations exercising their powers in accordance with the Statute, payment of the compensation is not a condition precedent to the right of entry upon the land (c); but it is otherwise in cases under "The Railway Acts" (d).

(f) "For any damages necessarily resulting from the exercise of such powers." The damages claimed must be the legal and necessary result of the act complained of (e); and it is only as to damages thus "necessarily resulting" from the exercise of the statutory powers that the land-owner is compelled to seek compensation under the Statute (f).

If work negligently done the right of action is not taken away.

> "The distinction is now clearly established between damage arising from works authorized by the Statute (where the party generally is to have compensation, and the authority is a bar to the action), and damage by reason of the work being negligently done, as to which the owner's remedy by action remains" (g).

Compensation must cover all the damages.

The compensation must cover all damages necessarily resulting from the exercise of the powers conferred upon the corporation to enter upon, take, use or injuriously affect the land in question. In this respect the language of our Statutes differs from that of "The Lands Clauses Consolidation Act" (h), the corresponding words of which are, "compensation in respect of any lands . . . taken for or injuriously affected by the execution of the works." Note (i).

way Clauses Consolidation Act" (a), the words "damages . . . by reason of the exercise of the powers by this or the Special Acts, etc. . . . vested in the Company," used in sections 6 and 16, have been held to be controlled by the words used in the general heading of those sections, viz., "And with respect to the construction of the railway and the works connected therewith, be it enacted," etc.; so that where lands had not been taken, but only injuriously affected by the subsequent lawful user of the railway, compensation was held not to be recoverable in respect of damages arising from such user, e.g., vibration (b), noise of trains and smoke (c), etc. But under "The Municipal Act," and, semble, under "The Railway Acts" of Canada (d), and Ontario (e),—where the words are "damage from [or, "by reason of,"] the exercise of the powers granted" to the company—it has been held that the award should include compensation for all damage which will necessarily result from the subsequent user of the works, as well as from their original construction (f).

Compensation must cover all the damages.

The compensation for all the damage which can be foreseen must be determined once and for all by the award. Any such damage subsequently occurring cannot be recovered either under the Statute or by action (g).

As of what date should damages be ascertained.

In the case of lands entered upon, taken or used by a municipal corporation, the date with reference to which the amount of the compensation should be determined appears to be that of the by-law expropriating the land or authorizing the work; and the claimant is entitled to interest from that date on the amount awarded (h). In Reg. v. Murray (i), it was held that under "The Expropriation Act" (j), interest upon the value of the lands taken, (when this value has been ascertained by the arbitrator) runs from the date on which possession was taken, notwithstanding the fact that the plan and description may not then have been filed (k), or that the Crown may not have acquired a good title until a subsequent date (l). In Re Prittie and City of Toronto (m), a case where lands had been taken and others belonging to the same owner were alleged to have been injuriously affected, doubts were expressed by the Judges as to whether the date of the expropriating by-law or that of the actual entry should be taken (n).

Where the case is wholly one of lands injuriously affected by the construction of works authorized by a municipal by-law, no lands being actually taken therefor, it would seem reasonable that a later date than that of the by-law should be taken as the time when the assessment of damages is to be made, since until the execution of the work any accurate ascertainment of damage is often impossible.

Note (f).

In Re Bively and Toronto, Hamilton & Buffalo R. W. Co. (a), a case under "The Railway Act of Canada,"—although the claim was wholly one for injuriously affecting lands,—ARMOUR, C.J., sustained an award allowing the claimant interest from the time when his right to compensation accrued.

As of what date damages should be ascertained.

But in Re Leak and City of Toronto (b), the Court of Appeal (affirming STREET, J.) reversed the judgment of a Divisional Court (c), which had held, (FERGUSON, J. dissenting,) that in awarding compensation where land has been injuriously affected (no land having been taken), the arbitrator, in addition to the sum allowed by way of compensation, may award interest thereon from the date of the by-law authorizing the execution of the works.

Interest.

Per OSLER, J. A.:—

> "There is a clear distinction between . . . . the compensation for land taken, and damages for merely injuriously affecting land by the deprivation of access to and from a highway. . . . . Where land is taken the compensation is purchase money; where it is merely injuriously affected, and no land is taken, the compensation sounds in damages strictly. . . . . These are, in the strictest sense of the words, "unliquidated damages," and no debt, statutory, legal or equitable, arises in respect of them until they have been ascertained and assessed by the appropriate means for doing so. . . . It by no means follows—as the Court below seems to have held—that because interest may be given upon damages which are in their nature the purchase money of land entered upon and taken, it can be given upon damages which are of a wholly different character . . . No authority, in the English Courts or our own, has been cited to shew that interest can be awarded or recovered in such a case."

(g) "Beyond any advantage which the claimant may derive from the contemplated work."

Nature of "advantage to be set off

Since compensation cannot be claimed under the Act for any damage which is "merely personal, without reference to land or its incidents," so also the benefit or "advantage which the claimant may derive from the contemplated work" must be a benefit "in respect of land or an interest in land."

And the advantage must be one which may fairly be expected to result "from the contemplated work," and not from some outlay which the land-owner has made or will be compelled to make in order to repair injuries occasioned by the work itself.

In Re Christie and Town of Toronto Junction, (d) the evidence of the claimant went to show that the municipal corporation had by altering the grade of a street cut off the drainage of his houses and caused the cellars to be flooded by water falling on the street, and that it would cost about $2,000 to make such alterations as were necessary to render them again tenantable or saleable and to prevent a recurrence of the damage. The arbitrators by their award found that the premises had been injuriously affected by the works, but only to the extent of $200 "over and above any benefit and advantage to the said land and premises arising from the grading and levelling of said street." On appeal, ROSE, J. increased this to $1,000, and (his decision having been affirmed in the Court of Appeal by an equal division of opinion) the Supreme Court again increased the award to $1,866.20 (e).

GWYNNE, J., in his judgment says:—(f)

> "What the Statute contemplates and the utmost it authorizes is that the value of any benefit (if any there be) which the injured property—that is to say, which the property in its injured condition—may derive from the work which causes the injury (if it can be ascertained and is not wholly speculative,) may be deducted from the amount which, apart from the value of such benefit, would be required to afford due compensation for the injury."

(a) 28 O.R. 468 (1897). (b) 26 A.R.—(1899), (not yet reported).

(c) 29 O.R. 685, 687, (1898).

(e) See the case again referred to in note (d) to s. 464.

(f) 25 S. C. R. at p. 561.

Sec. 437.

Note (g).

Set-off of advantage derived from the work.

> "If, for example, property be injured in such a manner that it is necessary that the injury caused should be repaired before any benefit could accrue, the Statute is not open to a construction so at variance with common justice and common sense, as that the prospective speculative estimate of the value of such benefit should be deducted from the amount necessary to repair the injury and to put the property into a condition to receive such benefit. Such benefit could not be said to be derived from the work causing the injury, but from the outlay expended to repair the injury" (a).

But where a property owner has given evidence of the potential capabilities of his land in order to show its value and the extent to which it has been damaged (b) the municipal corporation, for the purpose of showing the value of the remaining or injured lands of the claimant, may give evidence as to what these would be worth if laid out and utilized in a particular manner, although this would involve the expenditure of money by the claimant (c).

Advantage need not be peculiar to the property.

The benefit or "advantage" which is to be set off against the landowner's claim for damage is not merely such increase in value from the contemplated work as is direct and peculiar to the particular property, but also such as may be shared by that property in common with other lands benefited by the work (d).

In case the work is one to be paid for by local assessment, the landowner's share of such assessment should be added to the amount of his damages, or (which amounts to the same thing) deducted from the estimated amount of his benefit, he being in effect to that extent a purchaser of such benefit (e).

No set off under English Acts. But semble under our Railway Acts.

"The Railway Clauses Act" and "The Lands Clauses Consolidation Act" contain no provision allowing a deduction from the compensation awarded on account of advantage derived from the work (f) but such a provision (g) is to be found in "The Railway Act of Ontario" (h), and in "The Railway Act" of Canada (i).

The Expropriation Act.

And the Exchequer Court of Canada in determining claims against the Crown for property taken or damages to property injuriously affected by any public work is:

> "To take into account and consideration, by way of set off, any advantage or benefit, special or general, accrued or likely to accrue by the construction or operation of such public work to such person in respect of any lands held by him with the lands so taken or injuriously affected" (j).

(h) "Any claim for such compensation . . . . shall be determined by arbitration under this Act."

Arbitrations under this Act may be held (1) before the Official Arbitrator appointed under R. S. O. c. 227, in the cases to which that Act applies (k); (2) Before the County Court Judge or an arbitrator appointed by him [s. 448], or (3) before three arbitrators appointed as provided in ss. 449-454

Secs. 438, 439.

Limitation of claims for compensation.

438. Every such claim, except in the cases of infants, lunatics and persons of unsound mind, shall be made within one year from the date when the real property was so entered upon, taken or used, or when the alleged damages were sustained or became known to the claimant, or, in case of a continuance of damage, then within one year from the time when the cause of action arose or became known to the claimant. Any claim now existing of the nature aforesaid may be made within one year from the passing of this Act but not afterwards, except in the cases of infants, lunatics or persons of unsound mind. 62 V. (2nd Session) c. 26, s. 27.

This section was substituted in 1899 for s. 438 of the R. S. O. (55 V. c. 42, s. 482 part), which was taken from 54 V. c. 42, s. 16 (1891).

(a) This section seems to support the view (suggested in note (f) to s. 437), that, in the cases of lands injuriously affected, the damages should be assessed with reference not to the date of the by-law authorizing the execution of the work, but to that of its actual execution. The final paragraph—which makes this time-limit applicable to claims which existed at the time (1891) when the section first became law—was probably passed in consequence of the decision in Re Roden and City of Toronto (a) where it was held that the original section, (54 V. c. 42, s. 16), did not apply to such a claim.

City or town taking, etc., lands for public works.

Filing plans and specifications and giving notice.

439. Wherever the council of a city or town is desirous of entering upon any public work or undertaking, in the pursuance of which any real property may be entered upon, taken or used by the corporation in the exercise of any of its powers, or may be injuriously affected by the exercise of its powers, the council may file plans and specifications of the work or undertaking, or certified copies thereof, with the clerk of the municipality, who shall, on receiving the same, issue a notice setting out the council's intention to proceed with such work or undertaking, and to enter upon, take or use the lands necessary therefor, and that such plans and specifications have been filed with him and may be inspected at his office, and that all claims for damages by reason of the said proposed work or undertaking must be filed with him within sixty days from the service of such notice, and that such owners, occupiers or other persons must file with the said clerk, within the said period of sixty days, their claims for damages for any of the causes aforesaid, showing the amount thereof, or that in default thereof any claim for such damages will be barred; and he shall cause such notice to be served upon the owners and occupiers or of other persons interested in the said real property to be so taken, entered upon or used as aforesaid, or which may be injuriously affected as aforesaid.

(2) In case the person served as aforesaid is, at the time of such service, resident outside the Province of Ontario, a further period of thirty days shall be allowed such person to file his claim. 58 V. c. 42, s. 20 (2).

This section was added to the Act in 1895, by 58 V. c. 42, s. 20 (2).

(a) 25 A. R. 12 (1898)

Sec. 439.

Note (a).

Notice by city or town of intention to take, etc., lands for a public work.

(a) "Wherever the council of a city or town is desirous of entering upon any public work, etc."

The work should be authorized by a by-law, in which it would be advisable to provide (1) that except for the purpose of survey no entry or use shall be made of any real property to be entered upon, taken or used thereunder until the amount of compensation payable in respect thereof has been determined by award (a); and (2) that the provisions of s. 402 shall apply to any such award. See that section.

(b) "The council may file plans and specifications of the work or undertaking . . . . . with the clerk of the municipality."

These should show clearly not only the character and extent of the proposed work (b) but also its situation with reference to any real property which may be injuriously affected thereby.

(c) "The clerk of the municipality . . . . . shall issue a notice."

The following is a form of notice prepared under this section:—

Form of Notice under s. 439.

Form of Notice.

"Take Notice that the council of the corporation of the city of intends to remove the existing bridge across the River from to in the said city and to proceed with the erection of a new bridge on the same site according to plans and specifications prepared by and which are now filed with me and may be inspected at my office in the City Hall at any time between the hours of 10 a. m. and 5 p. m. on any day on which the said office is open.

And that the said council intends to enter upon, take and use, in the erection of the said bridge, the lands necessary therefor, being those shown in red upon said plan, and, during the removal of the old bridge and the construction of the new bridge and a further period of thirty days after the completion thereof, to enter upon, occupy and use for the purpose of such removal and construction but not otherwise or further the lands shown in yellow upon said plan.

And that the owners and occupiers of and other persons interested in any lands so to be entered upon taken or used, or which may be injuriously affected by the said proposed work must within sixty days from the service upon them respectively of this notice (or in the case of persons resident outside the Province of Ontario within ninety days from such service) file with me their claims for any damages by reason of the said proposed work, showing in each case the amount claimed for such damages with full particulars thereof.

And that in default thereof the claims of such persons for such damages will be barred.

Dated at the City Hall in the City of this day of 19

. . . . . .

City Clerk."

(d) "He shall cause such notice to be served upon the owners and occupiers of or other persons interested in the said real property."

The section makes no provision for service by advertisement, similar to that contained in "The Railway Acts" of Ontario, (c) and of Canada, (d) in case the person to be served is absent or unknown.

It is presumed that the claims of persons not served are governed by s. 438. (e)

(a) s. 463; and see note (a) to s. 441.

(b) S. 443.

(e) See Corporation of Verdun v. Grand Trunk Boating Club, Q. R. 7 Q. B. 185 (1898).

Time within which claim is to be made.

440. All such claims shall be made pursuant to the said notice, and unless made, in the case of persons resident within the Province within sixty days after the serviee of such notice, or in the case of persons resident outside of the Province within the said further period of thirty days, shall be barred and extinguished unless upon application to the Judge of the County Court of the county in which such city or town is situated, and upon giving to the said council at least seven days notice of such application, such Judge allows the claims to be made and served. Either party may appeal from the decision of the Judge to a Divisional Court of the High Court of Justice; but every such claim shall be absolutely barred and extinguished unless made within a period of one year from the service of the said notice. 58 V. c. 42, s. 20 (3).

(a) "All such claims." i. e., the claims of all persons who have been notified as provided by the preceding section. (a)

Determining claims by arbitration.

441 If any such claim is so filed within the time aforesaid, the same, unless accepted by the council, shall forthwith be determined by arbitration under this Act. 58 V. c. 42, s. 20 (4).

(a) It would seem that the claimant cannot, either under ss. 448 or 451 of this Act, or s. 2 of R. S. O. c. 227, compel an arbitration, since these sections apply only when the property has already been entered upon, taken, used, or injuriously affected. It is probably intended that the council should have a right to abandon their proceedings if it appears probable that the proposed work will prove too expensive (b).

Particulars to be delivered.

442. The person making a claim shall deliver full particulars of the damages for which such claim is made, and the arbitrator or arbitrators, upon the hearing of the claim, shall have the same power as to amendment generally, or to amend such claim or particulars or any proceeding had or taken upon the hearing thereof, as a Judge would have in an action; and the arbitrator or arbitrators may, in his or their discretion, refuse at any time to hear, upon any matter or question, further evidence of a cumulative character. 58 V. c. 42, s. 20 (5).

(a) "The same power as to amendment as a Judge would have in an action." See Con. Rule 304 (1897).

(b) "The arbitrator . . . . may refuse . . . . to hear . . . . upon any matter or question, further evidence of a cumulative character."

It would seem that an arbitrator had power so to rule independently of this provision (c).

Secs. 443-444 (1).

Claims not barred where plans insufficient.

443. Nothing in sections 439 to 442 contained shall bar or extinguish any claim when the plans and specifications filed do not reasonably and sufficiently disclose the damage that may be sustained. 58 V. c. 42, s. 20 (6); 60 V. c. 3, s. 3.

Corporations, tenants in tail or for life, guardians, etc., may convey in fee simple.

444.—(1) In the case of real property which a council has authority under this Act to enter upon, take or use without the owner's consent, corporations, tenants in tail or for life, guardians, committees, and trustees, shall, on behalf of themselves, their successors and heirs respectively, and on behalf of those whom they represent, (whether infants, issue unborn, lunatics, idiots, married women or others), have power to act, as well in reference to any arbitration, notice and action under this Act, as in contracting for and conveying to the council any such real property, or in agreeing as to the amount of damages arising from the exercise by the council of any power in respect thereof.

Taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99,) ss. 311, 312. Cf. 16 V. c. 181, s. 36, the original of which is s. 7 of "The L. C. C. Act, 1845," (Imp. Stat. 8 V. c. 18), quoted ante p. 458, foot note (e). See also "The Railway Act of Ontario," (R.S.O. c. 207), s. 13; and, "The Railway Act" of Canada, (51 V. c. 29), ss. 136-139.

(a) "On behalf of themselves, their successors and heirs, and on behalf of those whom they represent."

Owing to differences in the language of the two Statutes, many of the cases decided under s. 7 of "The Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845," (a) and referred to in previous editions of this Manual, (b) are of no authority upon the construction of this section, which relates wholly to the acquisition of title, not to the application of the purchase or compensation money.

The Imperial Act (c) provides that tenants for life or in tail shall have power to contract and convey "for and on behalf of every person entitled in remainder, reversion or expectancy after them, or in defeasance of the estate of such parties."

Under these words it was held that a tenant in tail in possession of inalienable estates with reversion to the Crown, could convey the estates so as to bar his heirs in tail and remainder-men other than the Crown, notwithstanding his statutory disability to bar the entail. (d)

But under this section and the cognate sections of The Railway Acts, (e)—although a tenant for life has power to contract for sale, (i.e. to agree upon the price or amount of compensation), and to convey, so that a conveyance executed by him alone will vest the fee simple of the land in the corporation,—yet "it does not follow that the tenant for life is entitled to receive, or the [corporation] authorized to pay to him or to any person having only a partial or qualified interest in the land, its full fee-simple value." (f)

Accordingly, in that case, the railway company, which had paid over to the tenant for life the full amount of the compensation agreed upon, were afterwards compelled, at the suit of a remainder-man, to make good the value of his interest. (g)

Note (a).

In Dunlop v. Canada Central R. W. Co. (a) the mother of infant children (who resided with her) was the owner in fee of an undivided three-eighths interest in certain lands, the children owning the remaining five-eighths. She—not having been appointed guardian to the children—conveyed to the defendants "the right of way through my land;"

Held, that under s. 9 of "The Railway Act of 1868," (b) her deed barred the childrens' interest as well as her own, and that they were not entitled to compensation from the company; but the case turned upon a section (s. 9 (9) of the Act), which has since been omitted from "The Railway Act of Canada," and was never in "The Municipal Act," and which provided that, in the case of land owned by several joint tenants or tenants in common, a contract or conveyance bonâ fide made to the company by any one or more of such persons, being together proprietors of one-third or more of such land, should be binding on the rest. (c)

If no party who can convey, County Court Judge may appoint one.

(2) In case there is no such person who can so act in respect to such real property, or in case any person interested in respect to any such real property is absent from this Province, or is unknown, or in case his residence is unknown, or he himself cannot be found, the Judge of the County Court for the county in which such property is situate may, on the application of the council, appoint a person to act in respect to the same for all or any of the said purposes. 55 V. c. 42, s. 484.

(b) The corresponding section of "The Railway Act" of Canada is as follows:

> "In all cases in which such persons have no right in law to sell or convey the rights of property of the said land, such persons shall obtain from a Judge, after due notice to the persons interested, the right to sell the said land." (d)

In Re Dolsen, (e) a case under that Act, where a mother to whom land had been conveyed for life with remainder to her children, had agreed, during the infancy of the children, to sell and convey to a railway company, BOYD, C. held that a Judge's order under the above section was necessary, as the mother had "no right in law to sell," and (the proceeding being entirely for the benefit of the railway company), that they should pay the costs of the order.

Application, etc., of purchase money where party has not an absolute estate in the property.

(3) In case any person acting as aforesaid has not the absolute estate in the property, the council shall pay to him the interest only at six per centum per annum on the amount to be paid in respect of such property, and shall retain the principal to be paid to the person entitled to it whenever he claims the same and executes a valid acquittance therefor, unless the High Court of Justice, or a Judge thereof, in the meantime directs the council to pay the same to any person or into Court; and the council shall not be bound to see to the application of any interest so paid, or of any sum paid under the direction of such Court. 55 V. c. 42, s. 485; 60 V. c. 3, s. 3.

(c) In cases where no valid sale and conveyance can be made, "The Railway Acts" of Ontario (f), and of Canada (g) provide for payment of an annual rent to be determined by agreement or in default thereof by arbitration.

Note (c). Where vendor has not absolute estate, council may retain principal and pay interest pending acquisition of good title.

In Re Beckett and City of Toronto, (a) the city petitioned to be allowed to pay into Court money awarded to an estate as compensation for land taken, alleging that the executrix had not an absolute estate, since, under the will appointing her, she could not sell the property until her son was of age, or died, or she herself married again. The application being opposed by the executrix,—who wished the corporation to retain the money and pay her interest thereon until the estate could be distributed, instead of forcing her to find a new investment for the money,—CAMERON, C. J., was > "Inclined to think that the section is imperative and imposes upon the corporation the obligation of ascertaining whether the person acting in respect of the property expropriated is the absolute owner or not; and if he or she be not such owner, then the corporation is created a statutory trustee of the principal for such owner or owners, as the case may be, and becomes burdened with the payment of six per cent. interest until the person or persons entitled to the principal shall claim the same. It was not intended that the Court should interfere at the instance of the corporation, (though I do not say the Court may not so interfere), but at the instance of some party claiming to be entitled to the principal or some part thereof. The payment of interest at six per cent. is the compensation payable for the present use by the corporation of the expropriated land; and whether the person acting in respect of the land is in fact entitled to the interest or not, payment to him relieves the corporation from liability to him in respect of the interest, if he should have the status of those specially indicated as having the right to act in respect of the land under section 487. There is no question in this case that Mrs. Becket had such a status, and the corporation runs no possible risk in paying the interest to her (b).

"The Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845," (c) makes full provision in ss. 69-80 respecting the application of the purchase money or compensation in the case of parties who have limited interests or who are prevented from treating or from making title. (d)

Compensation to stand in the stead of lands taken, etc.

445. The compensation or damages which may be agreed upon or awarded for any land taken or injuriously affected by any municipal corporation in the exercise of its corporate powers shall stand in the stead of such lands and shall be subject to the limitations and charges (if any) to which the said lands were subject; and any claim to or incumbrance upon the said lands, or to or upon any portion thereof shall, as against the said corporation, be converted into a claim to the money so paid, or to a like proportion thereof. 55 V. c. 42, ss. 486, 488*a*.

This section is based upon s. 488*a* of "The Con. Mun. Act, 1872," (55 V. c. 42,) with which is now consolidated s. 486 of that Act, taken from 16 V. c. 181, s. 36, last clause,(=22 V. c. 99, s. 313).

Cf. "The Railway Act of Ontario," (R. S. O. c. 207), s. 20 (25); "The Railway Act of Canada," (51 V. c. 29), s. 166; "The Expropriation Act," (R. S. Ca. c. 39), s. 11.

(a) "Shall stand in the stead of such lands."

> "The meaning of this I understand to be that the money value of land is turned into a piece of real estate . . . and that the estates in the land existing at the time the land is taken become estates in the compensation instead." (e)

In Young's Case the tenant for life had conveyed land to a railway company in 1871, and died in 1884.

Held, that upon such conveyance she became a tenant for life in the compensation money, and those entitled to the inheritance in the land became entitled to the reversion in fee therein, and that the Statute of Limitations did not begin to run against their claim until the death of the tenant for life in 1884. (a)

Note (a).

Compensation to stand in lieu of lands taken, etc.

So in England money belonging to a person absolutely entitled passed, in the absence of a devise, to his heir at law (b), and compensation money paid into Court under the Statute of 5 & 6 Wm. IV. c. 16, "To facilitate the Conveyance of Workhouses and other property of Parishes" etc., is to be treated as real estate (c). The compulsory purchase of land belonging to a lunatic does not change the order of devolution (d): but in Re Cross, (e) LORD CRANWORTH, V. C.,—considering the decision in Oswin's Case as dependent upon the language of the special Act relating to the Midland Counties R. W. Co.,—refused to consider as land, money which had been paid into Court by a railway company for lands taken under "The Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845" from a person who was in a state of mental imbecility but who had not been declared a lunatic.

(b) "Any claim to or incumbrance upon the said lands, shall as against the said corporation, be converted into a claim to the money so paid."

Land upon which there was a registered mortgage was taken by a township council for a road, and the compensation, having been ascertained by arbitration, was attached by a creditor and paid to him by the municipality.

Held, that the mortgagee was entitled to the money and was entitled to recover it from the municipality with costs (f).

> "The moment the sum was awarded, it was, in the hands of the municipality, impressed with a trust in favor of the mortgagee, and it was so when paid away by the municipality. It is in principle the case of a purchaser paying his purchase money to the mortgagor instead of the mortgagee with a registered mortgage; with this difference,—that in the case of an ordinary purchaser the land remains liable, while in the case of a municipality it is the purchase money that is made liable, the land itself becoming public property." (g)

Compensation may be paid into Court.

446.—(1) If in the opinion of the High Court of Justice or of any Judge thereof, there is reason to fear any claims or incumbrances, or if any person to whom the compensation or damage or any part thereof is payable, refuses to execute the proper conveyance or guarantee, or cannot be found, or is unknown to the corporation, the corporation may pay such compensation into the office of the Accountant of the Supreme Court of Judicature for Ontario with interest thereon at 6 per cent. per annum for six months, and may deliver to such Accountant an authentic copy of the conveyance or of the award or agreement, as the case may be: and such award or agreement or conveyance shall thereafter be deemed to be the title of the corporation to the land therein mentioned. 55 V. c. 42, s. 488 b.

Notice to be given.

(2) A notice in such form and for such time as any Judge of the High Court of Justice may direct, shall be inserted in a newspaper, if there is one published in the municipality in which the lands are situated, or if there is no newspaper published in the municipality, then in the Ontario Gazette, and also in a newspaper published in the nearest municipality thereto in which any newspaper is published. Such notice shall state that the title of the corporation under such agreement, award or conveyance is under this Act, and shall call upon all persons entitled to the lands or to any part thereof so taken or injuriously affected to file their claims to the said compensation money or any part thereof; and all such claims shall be received and adjudicated upon by the High Court of Justice or by any Judge thereof. 55 V. c. 42, s. 488*c*, part; 60 V. c 3, s. 3.

Costs.

(3) The costs of the proceedings, including proper allowances to witnesses, shall be paid by the corporation or by such other person as the said Court or any Judge thereof may order; and if the said order of distribution is obtained in less than three months from the payment into Court of the said compensation moneys, the Court or any Judge thereof may direct any proportionate part of such interest to be returned to the said corporation. 55 V. c. 42, s. 488*d*.

Judgment shall bar all claims.

(4) The judgment in such proceedings shall forever bar all claims to the lands or any part thereof, including dower, as well as any mortgage or incumbrance upon the same; and the Court or Judge shall make such order for distribution, payment or investment of the said compensation money, and for securing the rights of all persons interested therein as may be necessary. 55 V. c. 42, ss. 488*c* part, 488*e*.

Tender of compensation.

447. The council of any municipality, in all cases where claims for compensation or damages are made against them which, under the provisions of this or any other Act, are declared to be the subject of arbitration in the event of the parties not being able to agree, may tender to any person making such claim, such amount as they consider proper compensation for the damage sustained or lands taken; and in the event of the non-acceptance by the claimant of the amount so tendered, and of the arbitration being proceeded with, if an award is obtained for an amount not greater than the amount so tendered, the costs of the arbitration and award shall, unless otherwise directed by the arbitrator, be awarded to the corporation and set off against any amount awarded against them. 55 V. c. 42, s. 488.

Note (b).

(b) Costs. "The Railway Act" of Canada (a) provides that in every case, and "The Railway Act of Ontario" (b) that in every case where three arbitrators have been appointed,

> "If the sum awarded exceeds the sum offered by the company, the costs of the arbitration shall be borne by the company, but if otherwise they shall be borne by the opposite party, and be deducted from the compensation."

Costs of arbitrations where tender has been made.

The same rule prevails under this section "unless otherwise directed by the arbitrator"; but it is apprehended that (except under special circumstances) the rule of the Railway Acts should be adhered to, and that the discretion vested in the arbitrator (or arbitrators) should be exercised on much the same principles as those which govern the exercise of similar discretion by a Judge under Con. Rule 1130 (3) (1897). (c)

Where in a case under "The Expropriation Act," (d) the compensation which had been tendered by the Crown was found by the Court to have been sufficient, and there was no dispute as to the amount of interest to which the defendant was entitled, but no tender of the interest had been made by the Crown, costs were refused to either party. Mortgagees made parties to a proceeding under the Act, who had appeared by counsel at the trial, were allowed their costs, although they did not dispute the amount of compensation (e).

DIVISION II—APPOINTMENT OF ARBITRATORS.

(SECS. 448-457.)

Synopsis.—Arbitrations under this Act may be held before,—

1. An official arbitrator (under R.S.O. 227);
2. A County Court Judge or an arbitrator appointed by him (s. 448), or
3. Three arbitrators—to be appointed in the manner prescribed by ss. 449-454.

Sec. 457 disqualifies certain persons from acting as arbitrators. Sec. 455 provides that the appointment of an arbitrator by a municipal corporation shall not be an admission of liability; and sec. 456 limits the period within which an award under the Act is to be made.

448.—(1) Save as provided by The Municipal Arbitrations Act, in every case where a claim is made for compensation for damages by the owner or occupier of, or other person interested in lands entered upon, taken or used by the corporation of any city or town, or alleged to have been injuriously affected by such corporation in the exercise of any of its powers, in the event of the corporation not being able to agree with the claimant as to the amount of compensation to be made, and if the amount claimed does not exceed $1,000, the same shall be settled and determined by the award of the Judge of the County Court of the county within which the city or town is situate, (sitting as sole arbitrator) or (at the option of either party) by such other sole arbitrator as the said Judge on application made to him by either party, upon notice to the other party, may appoint. 55 V. c. 42, s. 487 (1) part; 59 V. c. 51, s. 13.

Appointment of sole arbitrator by county judge.

(2) Either party shall be entitled to at least seven days' notice, exclusive of the day of the service of the notice, of the wish of the other party to have an arbitration, and seven days' notice, exclusive of the seven days above mentioned and of the day of the service of the notice, shall be given of any application to the Judge to appoint any sole arbitrator as aforesaid. 55 V. c. 42, s. 487 (2)

Taken from 49 V. c. 37, s. 41, which applied only to cities; extended to towns by 59 V. c. 51, s. 13.

(a) This section is of little practical value, since it has no application to cases under s. 439 (where the land has not yet been taken, etc., or the damage occasioned,) but only to those in which (a) there has already been an entry or taking, etc., (b) by a city or town, (c) to which R.S.O. c. 227 does not apply, (d) where the land owner has specified the amount claimed by him—which he is not compelled to do by s. 451 (1)—and (e) where the amount so claimed is less than $1,000 (a).

Arbitrator's fees.
Rev. Stat. c. 62.

(3) The fees to be paid to the arbitrator shall be the same as those payable to referees under the provisions of The Act respecting Arbitration and References 55 V. c. 42, s. 487 (3).

See R.S.O. c. 62, ss. 19, 20, and Schedules B and C thereto, quoted in note (a) to s. 467.

Procedure.

(4) Save as herein otherwise provided, the provisions of this Act as to arbitrators and procedure in arbitrations shall, so far as applicable, apply to and govern all arbitrations had and awards made by a sole arbitrator under the provisions of this Act. 49 V. c. 37, s. 41 (4); 60 V. c. 3, s. 3.

Save as herein or in The Municipal Arbitrations Act otherwise provided, the appointment of all arbitrators shall be in writing under the hands of the appointers, or, in case of a corporation, under the corporate seal, and authenticated in like manner as a by-law; and the arbitrators on behalf of a municipal corporation shall be appointed by the council thereof, or by the head thereof, if authorized by a by-law of the council. 55 V. c. 42, ss. 385, 386

Taken from the Act of 1858, (22 V. c. 99), s. 336 (8) (9).

(a) "Save as herein . . . otherwise provided." The reference is to the appointment of an arbitrator or arbitrators by a County Judge under ss. 448 or 454.

(b) "The appointment of all arbitrators shall be in writing," etc. It is recommended that in making the appointment words should be inserted making sec. 462 of this Act applicable thereto (b). The provisions relating to the appointment of arbitrators must be strictly followed (c).

(c) "In the case of a corporation, under the corporate seal and authenticated in like manner as a by-law," i.e. (d) by the signature of the head of the corporation or other person presiding in his stead (e) and of the clerk.

Appointment by a corporation, how to be authenticated.

In Re Gifford and Bury (a), a case under "The Public Health Act, 1875" (b), s. 180,—which requires that > "Every appointment of an arbitrator . . . when made on behalf of the local authority shall be made under their common seal, and when made on behalf of any other party under his hand."— the claimant appointed an arbitrator, but not in writing "under his hand."

Held, that the provisions of the Statute not having been complied with the award was invalid.

But either party may so act as to be estopped from taking the objection (c), or any other objection of a technical character (d).

Revocability of appointment of arbitrator.

(d) It seems that the appointment of an arbitrator under this section may be revoked at any time before the award has actually been made. This was the rule at common law (e); and an award made after such revocation was a nullity (f). And even where an arbitrator had under s. 13 of "The Common Law Procedure Act, 1854" (g), been appointed to act alone, in consequence of the failure of the other party to appoint his arbitrator, it was held that the Statute did not make the appointment irrevocable, and that the party who had failed to appoint might revoke the statutable power (h); which "is an authority for the position that a reference under the direction or terms of an Act of Parliament does not interfere with the party's common law right of revocation" (i).

In a case of land damage (j), where the land owner, who had appointed an arbitrator under s. 437 of "The Municipal Act," revoked his authority before award, CAMERON, C. J. says (k):

> "Such a decision is not made irrevocable by the Municipal Act, nor by the Common Law Procedure Act. By section [illegible] of the latter Act, (R. S. O. c. 50) it is provided that:
>
> 'In case of the appointment of any referee, arbitrator or umpire . . . by or in pursuance of any submission or reference, not containing words purporting that the parties intended that such agreement should not be made a Rule or Order of any such Superior Courts, the power and authority of such referee, arbitrator, etc., shall not be revocable by any party to the reference, without leave of the Court . . . mentioned in the submission . . . or in case no Court is mentioned in the submission . . . then not without the leave of one of such Superior Courts, or of a Judge thereof, and the referee, arbitrator, and umpire shall proceed with the reference notwithstanding any such revocation, and make an award although the person making such revocation does not afterwards attend the reference.'
> This can only have relation to a submission or agreement of reference where the arbitrators are named therein; and while under s. 405 of 'The Municipal Act of 1884' (l) jurisdiction is given to the High Court of Justice over an award in the same way that it would have were the submission by a bond containing an agreement for making the submission a Rule of Court, the common law right of the parties to revoke is not interfered with."

Section 3 of "The Arbitration Act" (m) which has been passed since the above decision, does not seem to affect its correctness. That section provides that:

> "A submission to arbitration, unless a contrary intention is expressed therein, shall be irrevocable except by leave of the High Court of Justice or a Judge thereof."

Note (d). Revocability of appointment of arbitrator.

And s. 47 of "The Arbitration Act" declares that the Act

> "Shall apply to every arbitration under any Act passed before or after the commencement of this Act (Sept. 1st, 1897) as if the arbitration were pursuant to a submission, except in so far as this [('The Arbitration)] Act,' is inconsistent with the Act regulating the arbitration."

But s. 467 of "The Municipal Act," which enumerates the sections of "The Arbitration Act" applicable to municipal arbitrations, omits section 3 therefrom, thus in effect declaring that the section does not apply to such arbitrations.

It is therefore apprehended that the law still remains as stated by Chief Justice CAMERON in Smith v. Township of Plympton, supra (a).

Either party may appoint an arbitrator and give notice to opposite party.

450.—(1) Save as herein or in The Municipal Arbitrations Act otherwise provided, in every case where arbitration is directed or authorized by this Act, either party may appoint an arbitrator, and give notice thereof in writing to the other party, calling upon such party to appoint an arbitrator. In case the third arbitrator fails to accept the office within the time limited, a fresh appointment may be made.

The appointment of a third arbitrator is a judicial act (b), and should be made by the two arbitrators at the same time and in each other's presence (c).

It is a common error to look upon a third arbitrator as an umpire. The difference between a third arbitrator and an umpire is that the former is appointed before the arbitration proceeds, the latter after the arbitrators have entered upon the reference and are unable to agree (d). There are other distinctions unnecessary to be mentioned here.

A by-law to close up and grant to a company a portion of a street, which provided for arbitration by the mayor and by two other persons, one to be appointed by the company and one by the applicant, was held invalid as prescribing a different procedure from that which is prescribed by the Act (e).

Appointment of arbitrator for municipality, upon notice of appointment by land-owner.

(2) Within seven days after a notice has been served under the preceding subsection, the head of the council (if authorized by by-law) shall appoint a second arbitrator, and give notice thereof to the person who has served the notice under the said sub-section. 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (b) The section only applies "after the passing of the by-law" and to property which has been (not to property which is intended to be) entered upon, etc. (b).

In Re Cummings and County of Carleton, (c) a land-owner who alleged that in the building of a bridge over the Rideau River, a joint work undertaken by the city of Ottawa and the co[illegible] of Carleton, land belonging to him and situate outside the city but in [illegible]nty, had been injuriously affected by raising the approaches to such [illegible]rved upon both corporations a notice claiming compensation, appoi[illegible] an arbitrator and requiring each of the corporations within seven days thereafter to name an arbitrator on its behalf.

Neither of the corporations having appointed an arbitrator, the land-owner applied ex parte under s. 454 to the County Judge, who appointed an arbitrator on behalf of both the city and the county. The two arbitrators so appointed chose a third, and the three arbitrators named a day on which they would proceed. Upon an application by the city to prohibit the arbitrators from proceeding with the reference, Boyd, C. held that the words "municipal corporations" might be read in the plural (d), and that it was competent for the Judge to appoint, ex parte, the same arbitrator for both of the municipal corporations. But on appeal to a Divisional Court the judgment was reversed (e); the Court holding that this section does not provide for an arbitration between a land-owner and a city and county jointly, and that such an arbitration is not otherwise provided for by law; that under ss. 605, 613, and 617 of the Act, the bridge was under the exclusive jurisdiction of the county; that therefore the county alone could be compelled to arbitrate; and—the County Judge having acted without any jurisdiction—prohibition was ordered.

Form of appointment of arbitrator under s. 451 (1).

Dated this day of 19

To the Municipal Council of the Township of

and to C. D.,
Reeve of the said Township."

If this form is used and signed by the claimant, no other or further appointment by the claimant of an arbitrator in his behalf will be necessary to comply with the requirements of s. 449. (b)

As to the procedure in case no arbitrator is appointed on behalf of the council within seven days after service of the above notice, see s. 454.

In case several persons interested in property taken, etc.

452. In case there are several persons interested, but having distinct interests in the property (whether such persons are all interested in the same piece of property, or some or one in one part thereof and some or one in another part thereof), the municipal council may by the by-law or by any subsequent by-law provide that the claims of all such persons shall be disposed of by one award. 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (71). See 55 V. c. 42, ss. 392, 393.

Taken from 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C. (71). Cf. 22 V. c. 99, s. 336 (10); 29-30 V. c. 51, s. 353 (10)—in which the time allowed was one month—; 36 V. c. 48, s. 285,—by which it was reduced to 21 days—and the corresponding sections of the later Municipal Acts.

(a) "By the by-law or by any subsequent by-law."

In case land-owners taking the initiative have appointed several arbitrators.

Since these sections have been recast by 60 V. c. 15, Sched. C (71) it is not very clear how "the several persons interested" are to be compelled to agree upon a single arbitrator in cases where they have already appointed their several arbitrators and served notices thereof under s. 451 (1). This difficulty arises by reason of the words "In case a notice has not been served under sub-section 1 of section 451" which are now prefixed to s. 453.

The practice previously adopted was for the corporation—(ignoring any appointment under s. 451 (1) of an arbitrator by the land owner)—to serve upon him a certified copy of the by-law and notice of the appointment of an arbitrator on behalf of the corporation, and (at the expiration of 21 days) to apply, upon notice to all parties interested, to the County Judge to appoint, under s. 454, an arbitrator on their behalf. It is probable that such an appointment would be upheld under the Act as it now stands, since under s. 454 the right of the County Judge to make such appointment arises "if the persons having distinct interests omit to name an (i.e., one) arbitrator within 7 days after receiving notice to do so," which notice may apparently be given at any time after a by-law has been passed under this section (452).

The municipal corporation may avoid any such question by inserting in the original by-law authorizing the work a provision that the claims of all persons interested shall be disposed of by one award, and by proceeding at once, upon the passing of the by-law, to initiate proceedings under s. 453.

When council may take the initiative.

453.—(1) In case a notice has not been served under sub-section 1 of section 451, the municipal council may serve upon the owner, occupier or person interested in the property, a copy of the by-law (certified under the hand of the clerk of the council to be a true copy) together with a notice in writing
