THE CONSERVATIVE TOUR.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD AND HIS LIEUTENANTS AT WALKERTON.

A Big Demonstration Yesterday—Mr. Meredith Denounces the "Little Tyrant" for Bringing on the Elections.

WALKERTON, Nov. 17.—The downpour of rain with which the day opened gave poor promise of a turnout to greet the Conservative chiefs, but it cleared up a little during the day and when the meeting opened at two o'clock the drill shed was packed, and many were unable to gain admittance. Nearly three thousand were present, many of whom were ladies. The place was handsomely decorated with flags, banners, mottoes, evergreens. The platform was fitted up like a drawing room, carpeted, furnished and heated.

Sir John arrived last night and remained in his car till morning, but Messrs. Thompson and White were escorted through town by a large turnout of citizens headed by a band and torch carriers.

All day long streams of people have been shaking hands with the Old Chief, and the ceremony is not by any means confined to his own political supporters. The Mayor, Mr. Stovel, presented an address at the station on the arrival of the party to which Sir John briefly replied, urging his friends to present a united front at the coming elections.

The ceremonies in the drill shed opened with an introductory address by Mr. Shaw, Q.C., President of the Liberal-Conservative Association of East Bruce, who was followed by Mr. Cargill, the Conservative nominee. This gentleman said he was a novice in politics but he liked to follow a good example. He had noticed that Mr. Blake mostly read his speeches, and although he would not quite do that he had made copious notes. He did not approve of bringing in the field before an election as he thought a candidate could be cooked in a three months' campaign and was in danger of being roasted altogether in a year. Mr. Cargill praised Sir John and spoke of his efforts to promote the welfare of the country.

After him came Mr. McNeill, M.P. for North Bruce. He pitched into the Reformers and illustrated their views of Sir John by a story about Sir Richard Grenville and the devil. When the people got to know him they found that the devil was not such a bad fellow after all.

Hon. Mr. Thompson was received with great applause. The Nova Scotian Minister is evidently popular with the crowd. His speech on the Riel question in answer to Mr. Blake has wonderfully taken the public ear, and given him a front seat in popular esteem. He spoke chiefly of the unity of the provinces and the importance of maintaining confederation intact. The National Policy and the Canadian Pacific Railway also came in for an airing. The public debt, he admitted, had increased, but the resources of the country had increased still more, so that we are in reality better off now than when our debt was less. The Riel question he touched a large number of Reform papers, including the Globe, all of which violently insisted on hanging Riel until he was hanged, and then immediately assailed the Government for doing its duty. At Owen Sound the other day, he said that Mr. Blake surprised his hearers by announcing that at last he had a policy—it was an alternative policy. The child was baptized by the right name this time. It differed in each paragraph and sufficed to disagree in each. He denied the statement of the Reform press that Dr. Clarke had asked permission to examine Riel's head after his death and said it was absolutely untrue. No such application had ever been made. The body of Riel had been given to his relatives immediately after execution. The story, however, was doing duty in Quebec and will soon be on the hustings in Ontario. It was a sample of Mr. Blake's alternative policy. Mr. Thompson wound up with an elegant flourish about a united country.

Mr. Meredith arrived at this stage of the proceedings and was loudly cheered. He was presented with an address of welcome by Mr. Klein, President of the Conservative Association for South Bruce in the Local. Then Mr. Meredith took off his overcoat and waded into Mr. Mowat. He appears to have a poor opinion of that gentleman on general principles and was quite indignant that the Little Premier should have dissolved the house on the anniversary of Riel's execution. The dissolution of the Assembly he said was unusual and unparalleled. Its evident object was to assist Mr. Blake in the expected Dominion elections. They would, however, find his party ready. Mr. Mowat had doubled the expenditure since 1871 and the Minister of Education had given Mr. Nelson, owner of the Globe, a publishing monopoly that plundered the people. He condemned the centralizing policy of the Provincial Government and said that registrars and other county officers should be appointed by the County Councils. The Gerrymander Act changed thirty-five constituencies, in some cases taking a township out of one riding, and putting it into another, wherever it could do the most good to the party, utterly regardless of decency and justice. He severely condemned Mr. Mowat's conduct on the Riel question and appealed to the patriotism of the country to insist on one law and equal justice for all, without regard to race or creed. He urged the electors to prepare for the fight. If the Conservative vote is polled, he said, the Little Tyrant of Ontario will be defeated. Mr. Meredith was well received and often applauded. He spoke with vigor and seems hopeful of success.

Mr. White next addressed the meeting, confining himself to an exhaustive review of the Dominion finances. Mr. White is well known in Bruce, having gone through a railway campaign here about eighteen years ago. He is well liked by the people, and received a good hearing in spite of the dry subject.

Sir John then came upon the platform and received a terrific ovation, the vast audience rising and cheering again and again. When quiet was restored, a little daughter of Mr. Cargill presented him with a bouquet. Sir John kissed the child. The ladies applauded, and wished they had been the little girl. Mr. Shaw read an address from the Liberal Conservatives of East Bruce. J. H. Scott of Kincardine read an address from the Liberal Conservatives of West Bruce, and Mr. Chapman of Port Elgin read an address from the Conservatives of North Bruce. Mr. Klein presented the Old Man with a gold-headed cane that had been won in a contest between himself and Mr. Blake at a picnic held in Southampton not long since. Mr. Klein said that the cane had not been bought either, but it was soon by the voluntary votes of the people. Sir John came forward leaning on the cane. He said he had been so long in public life that he was almost too poor to buy one for himself. The smile on his face and the twinkle in his eye set the audience laughing and cheering. The Old Boy was in fine spirits. His reception showed conclusively that he is deeply beloved by his followers. The ladies were especially enthusiastic. The Premier said he was now growing old, and in the course of nature would soon pass from the scene and leave the work of government in the hands of his lieutenants. Sir John's address was largely personal, pleasant and chatty. He spoke of old times and told of the early struggles of himself and Sir George Cartier to put down the prejudices of race and religion and establish a united country. He had a kind word for the French Canadians, and had no doubt their excitement on the Keil question was dying out. There can be but one law for men of all races in Canada and all good citizens stood by himself and the Minister of Justice in enforcing it. He reverted to Mr. Mackenzie's Government from 1873 to 1878, and asked anyone in the audience to point to a single measure of legislation or administration of theirs that would assist in developing the country. Not one was to be found. Sir John talked a good deal about the N.P., the C.P.R., and the union of the provinces. He praised Mr. McNeill, M.P. for North Bruce, and said he was one of the oldest men in the house and he hoped the electors of East Bruce would send Mr. Cargill to help him in the next Parliament. In conclusion he urged them not to neglect the local elections. By inattention they lost them before and should exert themselves to avoid a similar result again. It would greatly strengthen the Dominion Government, he said, to have Mr. Meredith in power at Toronto. He was an able man, a natural leader of men, honest, upright and capable. Sir John concluded his address amidst another round of applause. The cheering continued for a long time and hundreds pressed around the Chief eager to shake his hands and assure him of their good wishes.

The meeting lasted from 2 till near 3. The party again returned to their car and will to-morrow go to Goderich.

MR. MOWAT'S GREAT ACT.

What Two Quebec Papers Have to Say About the Dissolution.

From Wednesday's Montreal Gazette.

The Ontario Legislature has been dissolved by the Lieutenant-Governor on the advice of Mr. Mowat, who in turn was advised by Mr. Blake, and the elections will be held on December 29. In determining to appeal to the people a year and a half before the natural expiration of the Legislature, Mr. Mowat has been moved by two considerations, apprehension for the safety of his Ministry and a desire to assist his leader and mentor, Mr. Blake, in the greater electoral struggle impending, for, the Ontario Premier and his colleagues have doubtless reasoned, if we carry a majority of the provincial seats at this time, the Liberal party will enter upon the Federal campaign with redoubled energy and increased confidence. Mr. Mowat has not, however, had concern for his friends at Ottawa alone. He knows full well a Conservative majority on the Dominion elections in the Province of Ontario would presage his early retirement from power, and he has therefore concluded to make the most of the situation by saving his own political life, if possible, before the defeat that awaits Mr. Blake is inflicted. We question whether the people will approve making the duration of the Legislature the sport of party expediency, whether they will endorse a course that entails a considerable expense on the province and throws it into the turmoil of an election without the slightest justification, simply because Mr. Mowat fears to make his appeal in the ordinary course, or believes he may advantage Mr. Blake by the premature dissolution. It is as clear as noonday that the Ontario Government is manipulated in the interest of the Opposition at Ottawa, that Mr. Blake has merely to say "do this," and Mr. Mowat does it, and it is equally apparent that when the Liberals were proclaiming that a dissolution of the Dominion Parliament was imminent, that Sir John was about to spring an election on the country, and that it behoved their friends to organize and prepare for battle, it was the coup d'état of the Ontario Premier they had in their mind's eye.

From Wednesday's Montreal Herald.

In dissolving the Ontario Legislature Mr. Mowat appears to have taken his opponents by surprise. It was not generally supposed that this dissolution would take place before 1887, but Mr. Mowat may have intended this course for some time. He passed his redistribution bill remedying the inequality in the constituencies, and in his franchise amendment act secured the principle of "one man one vote." In both of these directions he strengthened the position of his party. The Tories of Ontario are building their hopes of defeating him on the assumed defection amongst the Presbyterians, but this is likely to be insignificant. Mr. Mowat's recent explanation of the Massie case has satisfied the great majority of the Presbyterians and has even strengthened him in the regard of many who recognized the party animus that directed the attack upon him. He has enjoyed their confidence for a number of years and it is not to be shaken off by the efforts of the Mail or the Tory editor of the Presbyterian Review. Throughout the country the Ontario Government is recognized as the best provincial Government, and it is not probable that the hard-headed men of Ontario will willingly exchange it for one that could be nothing more than an appendage to the Premier at Ottawa. Sir John has on several occasions spoken of Mr. Meredith, the leader of the Ontario Opposition, as "my lieutenant," and he is so recognized the country over. Mr. Alexander Morris, a gentleman who is a species of sub-lieutenant with vanity and aspirations enough for a commander-in-chief, would be a poor substitute for any of the able men who now direct affairs in Ontario. These considerations, with the fact that the Tory party are probably not as well prepared for the contest as the Liberals are, will probably be sufficient to ensure the return of Mr. Mowat. There is much speculation, of course, as to the probable effect of the Ontario news upon Sir John's determination to bring on or retard the dissolution of the Parliament of Canada. If Sir John could count on Mr. Mowat being defeated he might bring on the Dominion elections at the date named (January 13); but he is not likely to be led away by the undue confidence of men who allow their wishes to regulate their opinions. Mr. Blake and the Globe spoke very positively a short time ago as to the certainty of an early general election, and it may be that at that time Sir John intended to dissolve the House at once and appeal to the country, but the sweet face of Mr. Blake's announcing the fact may have induced him to change his views. Probably, however, there has been as great uncertainty at Ottawa on the question of the general elections as in the most remote county. The Government seeing danger on every side may be reluctant to plunge into it while a hope remains of a change in public sentiment.

The Mail's Provincial Platform.

From the Leading Article of Yesterday.

(1) Religious equality before the law.

(2) Enforcement of the Scott Act by the Provincial Government.

(3) Reform of the Education department. Abolition of the political headship.

(4) Repeal of the recent coercive amendments to the separate school law.

(5) Decentralization. The municipalities which pay have the right to appoint.

(6) Manhood suffrage.

(7) A more economical administration of the finances and of the crown domain.

Reduced to the smallest number, the issues before the country are three. Is the Roman Catholic Church to be allowed to control the Government of Ontario? Shall we make an honest effort to execute the Scott Act in those counties where it is the law of the land, or is the liquor traffic to be permitted to defy Parliament and the people? Is a partisan Minister, here to-day and gone to-morrow, and not always fit for the position, the proper person to conduct the educational system of the province; or would it not be better to entrust it to a thoroughly qualified man, subject to none of the sinister influences of politics, and holding office during good behavior?

ALL QUIET IN CHICAGO.

The Striking Stock Yard Men Gradually Going Back to Work.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—The situation at the stock yards is perfectly quiet and orderly this morning. The old men are going back to work as fast as places are found for them, and there are no indications of any further difficulty. In view of this state of affairs an order has been issued relieving the First Regiment from further duty, and it will return to the city this afternoon. The Second Regiment will remain at the yards a few days longer.

In the packing houses to-day many additional strikers secured places and a large percentage of them, contrary to the advice of their leaders, signed the required agreement allowing the packers to retain ten days' wages. It is claimed none of the beef butchers went back nor want to go back while the agreement is forced on them. S. J. Collins, a Pinkerton detective, acting as deputy sheriff, was arrested to-day, charged with having clubbed to death a man named Whitman, who refused to move on.

Solution of the Bulgarian Question.

BERLIN, Nov. 17.—The Post says it is reported on semi-official authority that Gen. Kaulbars is about to be recalled from Bulgaria, and adds that the step will be accepted as indicative that the powers have arranged to replace the attempt to solve the Bulgarian difficulty by action on the spot by international adjustment.

TEN CLUBS IN THE LEAGUE.

JERSEY CITY AND NEWARK ADMITTED TO THE INTERNATIONAL.

The Lacrosse Team That Toronto Will Send to Montreal—Meeting of the National League—Other Notes of Sport.

UTICA, N. Y., Nov. 17.—The International Baseball League Convention concluded its business to-night. All the eight clubs were represented. Geo. G. Campbell, President, of Syracuse, was in the chair.

The most important business transacted was that of extending the League. Five new clubs sought admission: The Jersey City, Newark, London, Scranton and Wilkesbarre. The Committee on Applications reported favorably on all these applications, except Wilkesbarre on condition that they pay a bonus of $1000 each, beside the regular fee. There was three hours' discussion on the applications, and Jersey City and Newark were admitted. They will pay a bonus of $500. The other applications were tabled. Delegations from all these places but London addressed the Convention and urged their admission.

Several amendments were made to the constitution. Section 40 is amended so that the word "annual" is struck out. This leaves the playing rules adopted at the first meeting of the League in force until altered at any subsequent meeting. Section 44, referring to postponed or forfeited games, is changed so that, failing an agreement between the clubs interested, the secretary shall appoint a day for playing off such game, provided 48 hours' notice is given him by either club. The annual guarantee provided for in Section 14 is increased from $500 to $600, payable on or before Jan. 1. In Section 49 the individual game guarantee of $60 or 33⅓ per cent of the gross receipts is raised to $75. This section does not interfere with any arrangement of 50 per cent. on all public holidays, excepting civic holidays which are counted as ordinary holidays. Section 51, referring to umpires is considerably altered. There will be half the number of official umpires that there are clubs in the league. The meeting of the Supreme Court of Schedule Committee will be held on the third Tuesday in March whether the directors direct.

Officers were elected: President, Frank T. Gilbert, Buffalo; Vice President, W. S. Miller, Syracuse; Secretary, C. D. White, Utica. Directors: F. T. Gilbert, Buffalo; W. G. Phelps, Binghamton; David A. Reese, Scranton; Geo. William Stroud, Hamilton; William Macpherson, Toronto; S. D. W. Cleveland, Rochester; W. S. Miller, Syracuse; Geo. Sparrow, Utica; Jas. C. Clarke, Newark; G. M. Ballard, Jersey City. Schedule Committee: William Soule, Rochester; W. Macpherson, Toronto; L. E. Cooper, Binghamton; W. S. Miller, Syracuse; C. W. Cushman, Buffalo; Dr. S. W. Jones, Newark. The salary of the Secretary was fixed at $200 and his penal bond at $1,000. President Miller, W. H. Cox of Toronto and Geo. M. Ballard of Newark were appointed a committee to meet the Arbitration Committee of the National League and the American Association to urge that certain claimed rights of the minor leagues be recognized.

The Schedule Committee will meet in Rochester on the third Tuesday in March.

Meeting of the National League.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—The Board of Directors of the National League Baseball Association held their annual meeting to-day and awarded the championship of 1886 to the Chicago club, N. E. Young was re-elected Secretary for the seventeenth consecutive time. Jim Doyle, the umpire, expelled by the Detroit club in 1882 for financial irregularities, was reinstated. Upon the unanimous request of the Directors the charges made by the Chicago club against Capt. A. A. Irwin of Philadelphia were withdrawn, on condition that no repetition of the occurrence of the trouble will be adopted. The rumors that it was the intention of the Pittsburg Baseball Club to apply for admission to the League were confirmed by the unanimous admission of the club. W. A. Nimick and A. K. Scanlebrit were admitted to the Association as representatives of the Allegheny club. The playing rules suggested by the Joint Committee were read and accepted by the League. It is rumored that the St. Louis club intends to tender its resignation as a member of the League and the resignation was accepted. The disposition of the players has, it is said, been left with a committee of three—Spalding, Soden and Stearns—and they have decided that the players shall be divided between the Kansas Cities and the Washingtons.

The Woodbine Races.

If the weather is fine at 12 o'clock to-day the races will undoubtedly take place. The program is a fair one for this season of the year, and there should be a large gathering to witness the contests. The weights for the different events are as follows: Hunters' flat, 1½ miles—Williams 138, Cyclone 135, Marchaway 140, Lennox 140, Duke of Wellington 125. Open flat, ½ mile—Wild Rose 108, Geo. L. 120, Dan W. 118, Ella H. 110. Hunters' steeplechase—Williams 165, Viola 155, Cyclone 155, Lennox 145. In the first race Cyclone and Williams are about head the hunters as they pass the winning post, followed by Marchaway. Willie W. is probably the only one who did not do himself justice in the mile and a quarter. Geo. L. will be likely to earn second money. The finish for the steeplechase should be between Viola and Cyclone.

The Team That Toronto Depends On.

The Executive Committee of the Toronto Lacrosse Club met at the Granite Rink last night and selected the team which is to meet the Montrealers Saturday in the deciding match for the championship. The team will consist of Hubbell, goal; Garvin, Drynan, R. B. Coulson, Schofield, Bligh, Macdonald, Joe Irving, Dixon, Kent, Wild Rose, Geo. Irving and Ned Irving spare man. The boys are practicing nightly in the rink and doing their best to be in first-class shape for the match. The Montreal team will take place of one of our lads twice down below. A letter received from Montreal yesterday says that they are in fine condition, but this does not discourage the Torontos.

Canoeists on Snow Shoes.

A meeting of the Toronto Canoe Club was held Tuesday night for the purpose of forming a Snow Shoe Club among its members. Mr. Colin Fraser was chairman, and Mr. J. L. Kerr scribe pro tem. The following gentlemen were elected officers: Geo. Sparrow, President; A. Anderson, Secretary and Treasurer; M. B. Jacques, whipper in. Refreshments were partaken of and the evening was spent in an impromptu debate on light versus heavy centre boards in canoes. Five minutes were allowed each speaker and honors were about evenly divided, as the chairman was unable to decide which side won.

King Monmouth Wins the Derby Cup.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—The race for the Derby Cup was run at the Derby November meeting to-day, and was won by J. Lowther's 4-year-old colt, King Monmouth; Lord Hartington's 6-year-old gelding Corinna second, Mr. Naylor's 5-year-old mare Fast and Loose third. There were twelve starters. King Monmouth won by a head.

General Notes.

The various Boston yacht clubs are talking of building a Union Club House.

Barnum, the race horse, has been christened the Brighton Beach "Ormonde."

The Hounds will meet to-day at the second bridge, Rosedale, at 2 o'clock sharp.

Lord Randolph Churchill has a love for the turf as well as politics. He has entered several yearlings for races in 1887 and 1888.

The Detroits will make a Southern trip next spring, and have already arranged many of their games with leading Southern clubs.

The Louisville combination, now playing in California, will doubtless bring back several of the leading players of the Pacific slope with them.

A meeting of the Snowshoe Club was held last night at Thomas' Chop House. The Secretary's report was read and accepted by the club. The meeting was then adjourned till next Wednesday evening, when the annual election of officers will take place.

The championship season of the Western Baseball League next year will extend from April 15 to October 15. There will be eight cities in the league, as follows: Omaha, Denver, Lincoln, Leavenworth, Topeka, St. Joseph, Hastings, and either Wichita or Des Moines.

The battle between Dominick McCaffrey and "Sparrow" Golden, set down for settlement at an early date, has caused great excitement in sporting circles. The men will fight to a finish with skin gloves for a purse of $2500 and $2500 a side in private stakes. That will be $7500, a larger amount than Dempsey and Fogarty fought for, and really the second greatest stake ever battled for in the United States.

The Joint-Rules Committee composed of delegates from the National League and the American Baseball Association, consisted of A. G. Spalding, Chicago, John I. Rogers, Philadelphia, and John E. Day, New York, representing the National League, and Zach Phelps, Louisville, O. P. Caylor, Cincinnati, and William Barnie, Baltimore, of the American Association.

Lourdes, winner of the Chesterfield Nursery Handicap for two-year-olds at Derby, Monday, was bred by the Duchess of Montrose, and under her "all scarlet" he won the Wentworth Stakes at Doncaster. He was fourth for the Hopeful Stakes at the first October meeting, and at the second October won the Cleveland Stakes. At the Houghton meeting he was sold to Capt. Machell, his present owner, for 1300 guineas.

This morning the University Football Club leave by the G.T.R. for Woodstock to play a friendly game (Association) with the Woodstock College Club. The Varsity will also send their second eleven to Hamilton, their opponents being the first eleven of the Hamilton Collegiate Institute. The following will compose the Varsity first eleven for Woodstock: Goal, A. N. Garrett; backs, Jackson and G. A. Ball; half backs, Sliter and Palmer; forwards, Elliott, F. McLeay, W. Thomson, R. Crystal, E. Senkler and Lamport.

When the death of Mr. Baldwin's Silver Cloud became known there was general regret in sporting circles. It is reported that Mr. Baldwin would not have taken $20,000 for Silver Cloud. He had recently refused an offer of $15,000. Silver Cloud had been entered for a good many prominent races of the coming season. His winnings thus far have been few, but placing the American Derby, run at Chicago last June, one mile and a half, to his credit was a surprising performance, as he beat such good ones as Blue Wing, Ben Ali and Precious. That sweepstake alone was worth $8160 to the winner.

Disorders of the Digestion, Their Consequences and Treatment. An important book on an important subject by Dr. T. Lander Brunton. $3.50. Williamson & Co.

THE CREDITORS WIN.

Judgment Given in the Mono Centre—Camilla Conspiracy Case.

Three months ago there was considerable talk in the city about the assignment to Mr. E. R. C. Clarkson by Leopold B. Davidson, general storekeeper of Camilla and Mono Centre, County Dufferin. The assignment after having been duly executed and supported by the principal creditors did not appear to be of much benefit to the latter as on Mr. Clarkson sending up a man to take over the estate he was confronted by one Leflar who produced a bill of sale of the stocks at both stores, and an assignment of all book accounts in his favor, the latter document having been executed by Sandfield Davidson on behalf of his brother Leopold, the owner of the estate. The assignor denied ever having given authority to his brother to sell out, but the fact that Leflar produced a bill of sale for the stock and that the brother, Sandfield Davidson, admitted receiving $3500 a few days previous, made things awkward, especially as Sandfield Davidson stoutly refused to account for the proceeds. A number of the chief Toronto creditors (among them Messrs Miller and Cox of Toronto and Geo. M. Ballard of Newark were appointed a committee to meet the Arbitration Committee of the National League and American Association to urge that certain claimed rights of the minor leagues be recognized.

The playing season was extended from April 30 to Oct. 1 inclusive, and each club will play 12 championship games instead of 14. A new committee, to be called the Committee on Law and Interpretation, was appointed, consisting of Geo. G. Campbell, Syracuse; W. D. Edwards, Jersey City; E. S. Cox, Toronto.

The Schedule Committee will meet in Rochester on the third Tuesday in March.

A SOCIETY SCANDAL REVIVED.

The Son-in-Law of Lord Chief Justice Coleridge Brings Another Action Against Him.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—The Court of Queen's Bench was crowded to-day with fashionable and distinguished people, who went to attend the trial of the second action for libel brought against Lord Chief Justice Coleridge by his son-in-law, Charles Mantell Adams. Mr. Adams declared that the Lord Chief Justice wrote a letter explaining to certain personal friends why he was opposed to the marriage of his daughter Mildred to Mr. Adams, and in this letter alleged that the plaintiff endeavored to obtain the daughter's money by compromising her so that she would be compelled to marry him.

The publication of this libel, Mr. Adams continued, consisted in showing the letter to the Earl of Selborne, then Lord High Chancellor, and the Earl of Iddesleigh, Secretary of Foreign Affairs, who were induced to act as referees in the settlement of the other action for libel based on the Lord Chief Justice's letter to his daughter, endeavoring to dissuade her from marrying the plaintiff by making severe attacks on his personal character.

During the hearing both the Earl of Selborne and the Earl of Iddesleigh occupied seats on the bench.

Cattle Disease in Indiana.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—Dr. Salmon, of the bureau of animal industry, referring to the cattle disease in Clinton county, Indiana, said a lot of dairy calves were brought into this country from Western New York. They were sold to the farmers. Some of them had symptoms of scute lung disease, and if the native cattle running with them became affected. At the request of the State Board of Health Dr. Salmon made an investigation and the stock were found to be afflicted with lung worms. The disease was not considered contagious, it was not necessary to kill them. They should be kept by themselves and with care and medical treatment they would recover.

A Follower of Fred Archer.

HAMILTON, Nov. 17.—William DeGarmo, a young man whose home is at 128 Cannon street east, shot himself twice yesterday while in the delirium of typhoid fever. During the absence of his brother-in-law, the sick man got hold of a revolver, and was found a few minutes later with a bullet wound above the heart and another in the right shoulder. The revolver was 36-calibre and the bullets were still in his body. To-day he is very low and there is but little hope of his recovery.

Mr. Swett and the Allan Cooks.

MONTREAL, Nov. 17.—Geo. Swett, superintendent of the palace car and dining car of the C.P.R., who was arrested for harboring two cooks who had deserted from the Allan Line, was discharged to-day, the prosecution having decided to drop the proceedings as the cooks were to be reinstated.

The Princess Casamassinin, the new and clever novel by Mr. Henry James, is of somewhat the same character and style as his Portrait of a Lady, which sold so well. Price very highly. Cloth $2. Williamson & Co.

The German Socialists.

BERLIN, Nov. 17.—A committee of social democrats has sent a memorial to the Social ist members of the Reichstag urging them to refrain during the operation of the anti-Socialist law from any active agitation outside the Reichstag.

$100,000 Short.

MADRID, Nov. 17.—The cashier of the Military Office in this city has absconded. He is short $100,000 in his accounts. It is stated that other officers largely shared in his peculations.

AMUSEMENTS.

Robt. B. Mantell and Edmund Collier at the Theatres To-day—Shaftesbury To-night.

There will be a performance at the Grand Opera House this afternoon, when Mr. Robt. B. Mantell will open his engagement in the American society drama, "Tangled Lives." The play will occupy the rest of the week.

Edmund Collier will open a short engagement at the Toronto Opera House this afternoon in "Jack Cade." To-night he will appear in "Metamora."

What promises to be a good concert will be given in Shaftesbury Hall to-night under the direction of Prof. Bohner.

The concert of the St. George's Society in the Pavilion Music Hall to-night will certainly be a good one. The features are: Mme. Trebelli, contralto; M. Ovide Musin, violinist; Mr. Dunman, tenor, and Mr. King, pianist.

The warerooms of the Herr Piano Co., 47 Queen-street east, will be opened with a concert to-night.

The Metropolitan and Princess Rinks will be opened to-day and to-night.

The plan of reserved seats for the Orpheus Quartet Concert in the Orange Hall to-night is open to-day at the Grand Trunk Railway office, corner King and Yonge-streets, thus affording everybody an opportunity to secure comfortable seats. Mrs. Adeline Ling sings the popular "Lo! Hear the Gentle Lark," with flute obligato by Prof. Arlidge, and the charming little ballad, "I've Something Sweet to Tell You"; while our home quartet will render several selections which have been diligently rehearsed.

The St. Basil's Fancy Fair will be brought to a close this evening by a concert. A number of prominent vocalists have been engaged and a very pleasing entertainment may be looked for. The Fair will be opened at 3 p.m. After the concert the balance of fancy work, etc. will be sold by auction.

The principal vocalist at the I.P.B.S. concert next Thursday will be Miss Marie Strong, who is highly spoken of by the press of the United States and Canada. A bright and successful future is predicted for her. The Boston Folio, in speaking of her performance in the last act of "Il Trovatore," says: "The pathos of her full, rich voice and the dramatic fire with which she clothed the part secured her much applause and hearty recognition, and attested the fact that she possesses the true artist's soul." Tickets for this concert may be obtained at Nordheimer's. See full program in this paper to-morrow.

Prof. W. S. Vallance of the Glasgow University, who delighted the Toronto public last February in Shaftesbury Hall, gives one of his characteristic evening recitals to-morrow evening in St. Andrew's Church Schoolroom. Prof. Vallance is an eminent reader. Lovers of humorous, pathetic and dramatic literature will not miss this opportunity of again hearing this noted elocutionist.

Florence Thinks We Are a Country Town.

Florence Marryat, the novelist, who, it will be remembered, visited Toronto last winter and gave two entertainments, has written a book on her travels through Canada and the United States. The Pall Mall Gazette, in reviewing it says: "She thought as little of Niagara Falls as Mr. Oscar Wilde thought of the Atlantic; but then, she only saw the very disappointing view from the railway bridge below, and he who only sees that had better far have seen nothing, for he goes away with the utterly wrong and mistaken idea that with his own eyes he has beheld Niagara. We leave Miss Marryat to fight out with the enraged Torontonians her very truthful description of Toronto—that minor hub of the universe—as "a bright pleasant-looking country town, much on a par with Norwich, Ipswich or Guildford."

TRINITY MEDS AT DINNER.

THE TENTH ANNUAL BANQUET PROVES A GREAT SUCCESS.

A Lady Responds for Sister Institutions—Good Advice Given to the Students—Dr. Potts Objects to Smoking After Dinner—250 Present.

The faculty and students of Trinity Medical School, with their guests, to the number of over 250 partook last night of their tenth annual banquet, laid out in the best style of the Rossin House. The utmost enthusiasm and good feeling prevailed and everything passed off in highly creditable style. No liquors were used (except brandy sauce on the pudding), and for this the preachers commended the young men. The presence of one lady at the head of an inner table gave an additional interest to the proceedings.

Mr. James McLurg presided and the guests on either side of him were: Lieutenant-Governor Robinson, Provost Boddy, H. G. Clarke M.P.P., Rev. Dr. Potts, Canon Dumoulin, Rev. Prof. Clarke, Rev. G. M. Milligan, Dr. Geikie, Lieut. Col. G. T. Denison, Dr. W. H. Ellis, Walter S. Lee, Patrick Hughes, George McMurrich, Dr. Macfarlane, Dr. J. E. Graham, Dr. Chas. O'Reilly, Dr. Carlyle, Dr. Fulton, Dr. Temple, Dr. Burns, Dr. Fyne, Dr. Robertson, Dr. Shaud, Alex. Marling, Principal Kirkland, Dr. J. B. Willmott, Dr. Powell, Dr. Teskey, D. A. McIntyre.

Mrs. Pickering, representing the Woman's Medical College, had the honor of being the only lady present. The chivalrous students were delighted. They cheered and applauded her as she took her place at the table.

Secretary L. F. Cline read letters of apology from Sir John A. Macdonald, Hon. O. Mowat, Archbishop Lynch, Sir David Macpherson and others who were not able to be present.

The Chairman, who is a fourth year student and very popular with the medicals, made a fine opening speech, in which he paid a high compliment to each of the professors of the school. His remarks were vigorously applauded. He stated that this year Trinity had graduated 250 students, the largest number yet. The entrance examinations to medical schools he thought should be more stringent in order to maintain the dignity and prosperity of the profession.

The usual loyal and patriotic toasts to the Queen and the Governors were honored. Lieutenant-Governor Robinson expressed his pleasure at being present at such a jovial gathering. He was glad to know there was such harmony existing between Toronto and Trinity Schools. In his address he referred to his days spent in an easy, familiar way as "you young fellows," and gave them a few reminiscences of the United Empire forefathers of some of them.

At this stage the Glee Club sandwiched in a song, "The Maple Leaf Forever," in which the ambitious tenor managed to come out on the highest key.

Lt.-Col. G. T. Denison replied to the toast of the Mayor and corporation. He said he supposed they asked him to respond to this toast because he had been an alderman about twenty years ago. Referring to the bad name medical students used to have, he said he had been Police Magistrate for nearly ten years, and he had not had much business intercourse with them. He thought it was much better that he should come and visit them rather than send them an official communication to come and see him at Court-street. He thought the medicals were a fine lot of fellows.

Mr. H. E. Clarke, M.P.P., spoke for the Dominion Parliament and Local Legislature, and drew a parallel between the politician and the doctor. He said the Dean of their faculty got mad a few days ago and dismissed the whole school. Some might get back, but not the 000. It was quite possible they might have a new dean of the faculty. (Cries of "Yes" and "No," which lasted some minutes.) They might also have a change of professors; they certainly would have changes among the students.

The name of the Dean, Dr. Geikie, was coupled with the toast of Trinity Medical School. The boys gave their popular Dean a great tiger when his name was mentioned. In a felicitous speech he characterized the succeeding banquets of the college as fleeting milestones in the journey of life.

Rev. G. M. Milligan responded for the learned profession. He spoke of the large proportion of students who were dedicating their lives as medical missionaries, and urged them to be men of broad and wide culture. The word "Doctor" meant "one who was learned." The curse of Canada to-day was political organization, the servility of men to party. In a matter of this kind politics should be considered of no use. In conclusion, he said the learned professions were the thermometer of the condition of a country, and the vanguard of its true progress.

Rev. Dr. Potts congratulated the students on their temperance banquet and expressed the hope that they would soon give up smoking at the banquets also. Some of the smoking students frowned at this and muttered: "No, no." The Dr. advocated a union banquet of all the medical students in the city, with Lieutenant-Governor Robinson presiding, and the Deans of Toronto and Trinity on either side of him.

Rev. Prof. Clarke said "ditto" to the two previous speeches. Mr. D. A. McIntyre, Principal Kirkland, Dr. Carlyle, Alf. Baker and Mr. Hodgins also spoke in the interests of learning.

"Graduates and undergraduates of Trinity Medical School" was responded to by Dr. Powell and Allan Thompson. The latter speaking for the graduating class, was evidently a great favorite from the way in which he was received. He put in several good pleas for medical students and their peculiar way of doing things. Speaking of the temperance wave he said the students of Trinity had learned that it was quite possible to have a good time and still remain sober. At all events, the students took care never to indulge in more that they could conveniently get about with. (Laughter.) He thanked the Y.M.C.A. on behalf of the students for its kind interest in them.

"Sister institutions and the universities was the next toast and with it the name of Mrs. Pickering was associated. The students hardly expected she would make a speech, but she did—a short and sweet one. The applause was tremendous. Mrs. Pickering is petite, good-looking, blonde and young. She addressed the meds as "brother students," and thanked them on behalf of the Woman's Medical College for their invitation. Dr. Ellis and Dr. Macfarlane also spoke to this toast. Dr. Burns replied for the medical council and Dr. Davidson for the ladies.

The pleasant gathering broke up about 1.30. The vice-chairs were occupied by F. S. Schaffner, H. Chapple and Chas. Clark. The banquet committee who looked after details was composed of H. C. Phillips, B. E. Hawke, L. F. Cline, D. Myers, H. Quarry, W. Thompson, E. H. Webster and R. Hilliary.

How Germans Commit Suicide.

BERLIN, Nov. 17.—According to the vital statistics of Germany for the year 1885 4091 males and 1209 females committed suicide. The methods of self-destruction were as follows: By hanging, 3567; drowning, 1177; shooting, 611; poisoning, 323; cutting throats, 112; throwing themselves under railway trains 77; throwing themselves from heights, 49.

POLITICAL CHRONIQUES.

A man who is in business and has not yet got out of the woods financially is a fool to entertain or even dream of parliamentary honors. There are just two things before him: his business will go to pot, or he will prostitute his trust. Needy members are the curse of legislatures. They are the men that can be got at readiest, easiest.

A professional man, a farmer, a mechanic can better afford to go into active politics than can a business man whose business has not yet reached a profitable pass.

Another class of men who are in politics for the money that they can make out of it are the lawyers, quite a number of whom really sit, vote, and lobby in the legisl

A Massachusetts Mystery.

There has just been tried at Boston, for the second time, a law case which would be regarded as an improbable invention if woven into a novelist's plot.

Mr. Moen is a rich resident of Worcester, Mass. One day in November, 1875, a youth named Levi Wilson came into Moen's stable and demanded money from the latter as the price of keeping secret the details of "an act that was dirty, disgraceful, and criminal." Moen swears that he was not the perpetrator of that, but the perpetrator must have been near and dear to him, and Wilson must have witnessed it, for Moen promptly handed over the hush money. Wilson, though of the poor and illiterate class, proved a luxurious liver, and his extortions were repeated with frequency until he had obtained from his victim a total of nearly $300,000. He capped the climax of his cruelty by demanding $113,000 more as the price of a final settlement. His victim turned at last, and Wilson went into court and sued upon the alleged contract between himself and Moen. In the first trial the jury disagreed, and we have not yet learned the result of the second, but this is not pertinent to the character of the case. We fancy that such a claim would be thrown out of any court in Canada, but the refusal of the defence to tell the whole story—to reveal the mystery—of course strengthens Wilson's position in law.

There is no doubt more blackmailing done than the public are aware of. Instances have come to light where men of high standing in the religious, political or commercial world have fallen in a moment of weakness, and have ever after been at the mercy of their companions in the sin or of some chance observer. Probably if the truth were known such facts would account for many a mysterious murder, suicide and disappearance. It would have been little wonder if Moen had killed his tormentor in a fit of desperation. That he should have submitted to be blackmailed so often and so heavily, and to be dragged into court at last with such a strange plea, demonstrates that Wilson's infamous secret, whatever it is, must be one of a dreadfully compromising character.

Andrassy's Attack.

The Bulgarian controversy appears to have degenerated into an Austro-Hungarian party issue, Count Andrassy making it the basis of an attack upon the policy of the Government. His complaint is that the Government has been too friendly with Russia and too dependent upon Germany. He would be for disrupting the triple alliance and emphasizing Austro-Hungary's individuality in European affairs. His delineation of his country as a performer upon the second fiddle in the European concert is well drawn, but he speaks without official responsibility. The Government is not deferential to Germany from choice. To find the cause of that deference he must go to the fatal field of Sadowa, where the needlegun decided the question of supremacy adversely to the House of Hapsburg. Considering all the circumstances of the case, an impartial observer cannot but admit that Austria has displayed more nerve in dealing with the Bulgarian difficulty than was to have been expected. That her Government has not undertaken to stand off both Russia and Germany may wound Austrian and Hungarian pride—and the Magyars are as proud as Lucifer—but wise men ever give prudence precedence over pride, and prudence forbids that Austro-Hungary should go any faster or farther than Germany's consent or Britain's support will justify. Count Andrassy to the contrary simply shows that he is an opposition critic.

Of late, quite a sensation has been created in Washington by a report getting wind to the effect that the Police Department of the Federal City had organized a regular spy system upon members of Congress. An inquiry is now "on," and has created a belief that the matter may involve the official conduct of one or more of the District Commissioners, as well as of the Superintendent of Police.

A fashion item says that the ladies are all going to wear green. An appropriate color, for they are all home rulers. At least so Mr. Smith says, and he is a married man.

Lord Randolph Churchill boldly declares that "the voice of England shall not be lost sight of." Ear, ear!

This is the season when the nimble candidate pursues the fleet-footed elector along the fifth concession, and for saving the country exacts tribute in the shape of dinner for self and hay for horse.

The Hamilton Spectator drops a tear as it remarks that the merchants of that bailiwick may as well put up their shutters during the holidays, from which we infer that Hamiltonians are neither fed nor clothed during an election campaign. But why should not the merchants try taking down their verandahs for a change?

The Mail's change of morals has not changed its manners. It speaks of Hon. C. F. Fraser as "disreputable." If Mr. Fraser sees fit to hit back he will not need to look long for a tender spot.

The villagers of Switzerland constitute their own insurance companies. The entire destruction by fire of a village in Berne does not prove the wisdom of this system.

The Prohibitionists have actually carried Bourbon County, Kentucky. When Prohibitionists carry Bourbon can they logically blame other folks for carrying old rye?

Mr. McKim's failure to stand again for West Wellington shows that the conspiracy case was not a plum pudding for him, unless he is to get that very plump plum, the shrievalty.

The Hamilton Spectator came into our office yesterday and yelled: "Mowat must go!" We explained to our esteemed though excited contemporary that Mowat had already gone—to the country. Whether he shall come back in an ambulance or in a triumphal car Wiggins only knows, and he can't tell.

The St. Catharines Journal instructs us that any candidate who is not against Mowat is for him. By parity of reasoning, any candidate who is not for him is against him. This puts the independent candidate upon both sides of the fence simultaneously.

The cable correspondents unite in the opinion that there is a great change for the better in Irish affairs, largely due to the action of the many landlords who have made liberal reductions in rents. In his Carlton Club speech Sir Michael Hicks-Beach virtually called upon those who have not yet made such reductions to do so at once. The indications are that most of the tenantry will tide over the winter safely.

SEEING THE SISTERS HOME.

"Rounder" Describes His Temperance Experience In By-gone Days—View from Riverside Park.

I took a stroll down to Riverside Park a day or two ago, and I must say I regret I delayed my visit so late into the autumn. So far as beauty of situation is concerned, this breathing spot has the call over our other parks and squares. It is located, as East End readers of The World know, at the head of Sumach-street, overlooking the River Don, which here sweeps gracefully around from the northeast, as it winds its muddy way into the bay and lake. The Don Flats lie at your feet, affording at once ample pasture and playground. The descent is made easy by gently sloping steps, at the bottom of which stands a boathouse, still flying its summer Union Jack. At this boathouse I was told by a venerable-looking resident, the lads and lasses of that portion of the city, which in my young days was known as Cabbage Town, are wont to assemble in the summer weather, and lazily pull their boats towards Todmorden, or cast their lines in the stream for catfish and suckers, which latter abound in and about these waters.

The view from the parapet of the park is indeed a charming one. At your feet the river glides noiselessly by, so far in its course uncontaminated by brewery or factory; away to the east the eye can feast itself on handsome residences and white cottages, the wooded heights of Ben Lamond beyond forming a pleasing background. To the south stretches a fair view of marsh and lake, till the latter seems to touch the sky, while close at hand in the north are the graves and monuments of the dead. As you mount the parapet to enjoy this lovely panorama, you become conscious of the fact that no less than five thirty-two pounder cannons, point their noses over the river, and although for the present their usefulness is gone, no doubt were their services required, they would again belch forth their smoke and fire and ball should foes from without or traitors within disturb the peace of this portion of the Queen's domains.

After enjoying the view from the parapet for a time I strolled down into the hollow, crossed the road at the Winchester-street bridge, and soon found myself back of the Necropolis and heading for the ravines of Rosedale. The tramp through here is a very pleasant one. True, one has to take long jumps across the creek, which must be particularly distressing to the ladies, many of whom were wandering about, but at the widest parts of the stream thoughtful hands have placed embryo bridges in the shape of fallen tree trunks, and at these spots crossings can be made dry shod, if the venturesome crosser has a steady head and spikes in his or her shoes. The old trunks though are slippery and threaten every moment to dump you ungracefully into the water. A tough climb up an almost perpendicular hillside brought me out at the head of Parliament-street, and although I was tired I enjoyed the tramp very much.

Our two most fashionable residence streets to-day are perhaps Jarvis and Sherbourne, and there are no two more desirable streets in the city on which to live. But it takes a big bank balance to enable one to shine in those localities. I remember Wellesley Crescent and North Pembroke-street when with the exception of Homer Dixon's house, the forest prevailed up to Bloor-street. To come down to late years, look at the inroads that have been made on Moss Park. Where once stood alone in its glory the residence of Senator Allan, now bristles on its Queen-street front a long row of stores; other portions are allotted to residences and a skating rink, the old mansion itself with a few of its stately trees being all that is left of the noble domain, which has had to give way to the onward march of the Toronto of to-day.

The growth of the east end of the city has been so rapid that there are many streets there of whose existence I never knew till the other day. When I used to leave the girl home in Ontario-street, there were no houses north of Wilton-avenue, and from that point to Parliament-street stretched a bleak common. I remember at the old Temperance Hall on Brock-street one winter's night two of the younger sisters who had come from the East End were left without escort to see them home. This, of course, would not be permitted in any well regulated lodge, but when after volunteering my services, I learned they lived on Sumach-street, near the Hospital, I almost weakened, but I got through. To-day it is a pleasure to go that way on a cross-town car over a block-paved street, but we Temperance officers often in those days had long and lonely tramps home with the sisters.

I observe that a correspondent of The World has a client who does not want to see the proposed Court House site at the head of Bay-street converted into a public square. "This client of mine," says the correspondent, "who was one of the principal owners of the ground before its expropriation, will demand a reconveyance of his title at the expropriation price, if an attempt be made to use it for any purpose other than that intended. Queen-street property owners think the Court House will depreciate the value of the ground sufficiently, and they will not tolerate the creation of a park there unless the courts force them to."

As I could not myself argue with Mr. J. F. Thompson, the correspondent referred to, as to the legal claims his client might have for the reconveyance of the property he had sold to the city, in case no Court House was built on the proposed site, I took his letter to a Q.C. Said the Q.C.: "I judge that having sold the property to the city, even with the understanding that a Court House or any other public building was to be erected thereon, and concluding that the citizens will refuse to become liable for the additional cost of the Court House as proposed; I think the civic authorities could then, if they choose, dispose of the property as they thought proper, or turn it into a public square, if they so desired. You see, in the first place possession is nine points of the law, and were the question brought into the courts there is no telling where it would end."

TO SMOKERS!

Certain interested parties are diligently circulating a report to the effect that our "Cable" is not as good as it used to be. This brand has been before the public a QUARTER OF A CENTURY, and has outlived the thousand and one brands that have been introduced and died out since its introduction. This fact, coupled with the increasing demand for same, should be a sufficient guarantee that the "Cable" has not lost any of its original merit.

"How I should like to elope!" said Silvestra Grey, sitting in the garden with an open book in her hand.

"To—what?" asked Jack Leonard, who had been leaning against the nearest tree, partially whittling out a set of silk-winders, and waiting for some visible sign or token of Silvestra's notice.

"To elope," repeated Silvestra with a little frown, "like Lady Geralda Fitzgerald in this book."

"I was going to say, Silvestra," pursued Jack, mildly accepting her shower of peppery words as a matter of course, "that if you preferred eloping to the regular thing, I'd elope with you any time."

"You!" cried Silvestra, bursting out into a merry peal of mocking laughter.

"Yes, I," said Jack. "Why not? I'm sure I love you, Silvestra."

"Jack leave off talking nonsense, and go along," said Silvestra peremptorily.

"Dear Silvestra, won't you say that you will marry me?" he humbly pleaded.

"No!" cried the little beauty, stamping her foot. "I won't marry you, and I've told you a thousand times before. And if you ever dare to ask me the question again, I'll—I'll never speak to you again as long as I live."

So Silvestra went away, her pretty head erect in the air, her hazel eyes sparkling with displeasure. And Jack looked after her like a big, loving, wretched Newfoundland dog of a man as he was.

"She's such a little darling!" he mused, sadly. "And I'd give the world for one of her sweet looks; but somehow I don't seem to suit her, let me say or do what I will."

And Jack went home to his maiden aunt, a jolly old lady, with a fortune to leave, who was a great reader, and hugely interested in love affairs of every kind and description, and told all his troubles to this affectionate old confidant.

"And you'd like to marry her?" she asked.

"I shall be wretched forever if I cannot win her!" he protested.

"Very well," said Aunt Sadie. "I can tell you how to gain her affections."

"Dearest Aunt Sadie, if you will only help me to obtain this prize!"

"Leave off protesting," said Aunt Sadie, "and listen to me. Go away. There's your cousin, Herbert Wyatt, going to the Mediterranean in his steam yacht. There are the Pollitts just starting to look up the sources of the Nile. Or, if you prefer deer hunting in Norway or salmon fishing in Scotland."

"But, Aunt Sadie."

"And then grow a heavy beard," added the old lady, imperiously; "wear broad-brimmed sombrero hats; study up the matter of costume; read poetry and romance."

Jack listened, comprehended, eagerly assented; and whether he went to Norway, the sources of the Nile, the Bay of Naples, or the salmon fishing, he disappeared without even bidding farewell to Silvestra Grey.

"How very eccentric of him," thought Miss Grey. "But after all it's just like dear, funny old Jack."

And then she forgot all about him.

When Aunt Sadie Leonard opened her little house in Kensington to society the year after she had Captain Giacopo Leonardi, of Venice, to introduce to the world.

The captain was tall and dark, not unlike what poor Jack Leonard had been two years ago.

So the brilliant winter days and evenings, full of music, charades, operas and carpet dances, glided along, and Captain Leonard became a constant attendant on Silvestra Grey. A handsome couple they made and people began to whisper at the possibilities of an early wedding.

"Now I wish," said Silvestra enthusiastically one day, "that you could have known my cousin Jack! Dear old Jack! You remind me of him, Captain Leonardi!"

"I shall be jealous of this Jack if you rave about him any longer," said the captain, smiling.

"Poor Jack!" sighed Silvestra. "I think he liked me."

"And did you like him?"

"Come," said Silvestra, "that is scarcely a fair question. Of course I like him—a little."

"Suppose I were to say that I liked you a great deal—that I loved you?"

"Oh, Captain Leonardi!"

"Would you say me 'no' or 'yes?'"

"Yes," she whispered—"a score of times, yes!"

"Do you really love me, my darling?"

"You know that I love you, Giacopo"—with soft reproachful eyes.

"If I were a poor beggar in the Via Marina, would you love me still?" he catechised her, with tender earnestness.

"Oh, Giacopo, how can you ask these cruel questions?"

"I like to be sure," said the Captain, serenely. "Come here, little one, and kiss me, and let me slip this circlet of diamonds on your plump finger. Ah, there comes Miss Leonard."

Silvestra ran to her, with eyelashes wet with sunshine tears.

"Oh, Miss Leonard," she sobbed, "I am engaged!"

Aunt Sadie lifted her eyebrows.

"To—Jack?" said she.

"To Giacopo," corrected the beauty, "to Captain Leonardi."

"Well," said Aunt Sadie, "he's Jack."

Silvestra turned round, with a face of pretty puzzlement.

"Jack!" she repeated—"Jack."

"Say it again, sweetheart," caressed Captain Leonardi, tenderly imprisoning her hand in his. "You don't know how sweet it sounds. And, Silvestra"——

"Well?"

"If you would rather our marriage ended in an elopement than a regular church wedding"——

Silvestra gave a little comprehensive cry; the scarlet blood suffused her face; she clasped both hands over her eyes.

"Oh!" she cried. "I see it all now. Oh, Jack! Jack! How could I have been so blind—how could I?"

But in vain she strove to draw her hand away. Captain Leonardi held it fast.

"You have promised me, my dear," he declared; "you have promised and I shall not let you go."

"And I don't want you to," whispered Silvestra. "I—I think I always loved you, Jack even when you were a great, awkward boy. But now"——

And her bright, shy eyes, timidly lifted to his, told the rest of the tale.

—Never smoke a bad cigar. It weakens your nerves; it poisons your system; it unfits you for business. A pure cigar is a wholesome luxury, a bad one one is poison. The "General Middleton" and "Brave Boys" brands, manufactured by W. E. Robson, are from pure tobaccos and cannot be beat. 246

Northwest Notes.

Globe, Nov. 15.

The White Cap band of Indians have passed the summer very peaceably and industriously. They are now busy hunting and trapping. During the season they have raised some potatoes, built a good bridge across Beaver Creek, and assisted the white settlers in haying, getting out logs for building, etc. Several of the squaws are good hands at such housework as washing and scrubbing, in which they are frequently employed by the ladies of Saskatoon, who appreciate them highly.

There was a most successful Agricultural Exhibition at Saskatoon on the 13th October. The competition in potatoes, cattle, and butter was specially extensive and keen; the field and garden produce exhibited was of excellent quality, and included some fine citrons, beets onions, etc. Many of the potatoes weighed a pound and a half each, and were well shaped and quite solid.

The weather up to 1st November had been very pleasant in the neighborhood of Saskatoon; and very little frost. There had only been two light flurries of snow, which disappeared almost as it fell.

Saskatoon has this season been surrounded by people with cattle from other sections of the country where hay and water are scarce. Here there is plenty of both, and nearly 2,000 tons of hay has been put up for this unexpected influx, in addition to that required by the regular settlers. It is anticipated that many of these incomers will stay permanently.

The newly-surveyed trail from Regina to Battleford is quickly attaining popularity, being greatly aided by the fact that Saskatoon ferry, which is on the direct route, has been so much improved that it is now considered by far the best, and with the easiest approaches, of any ferry in the North-west Territories.

The Irish Crisis Near.

The London correspondent of the New York Tribune cables to that journal a letter written by Arthur McMurrough Kavanagh, formerly M.P. for Wexford and afterwards Carlow, and now a member of the Irish Privy Council, in reply to the recent significant speech of John Dillon. Mr. Kavanagh thinks that the long expected crisis is near. The present state of affairs cannot possibly continue. Either Parnell's party must be the victor and reign supreme or the constitutional party must triumph and drive their opponents into the obscurity from which they emerged seven years ago. There can be no half measure, no condition of truce or armed neutrality. Agitation has been carried to such extremes that the very tools necessary to its success have suffered to such an extent that unless early and victorious consummation is shown to be certain they will decline to be further utilized. It is claimed that Parnell now sees that a strong push or a total collapse is the inevitable alternative. The Irish farmers are sick of the agitation from which, while they have profited in some respects, they have suffered more severely than any other class. Mr. Kavanagh writes, of course, as a Tory and a representative Irish landlord.

A Common Expression.

Our Apples and Grain in England.

From the "Canadian Gazette," London, Eng.

The displays of Canadian apples at Exeter and Edinburgh have aroused no little interest at the Exhibitions in those places. Reports from Exeter state that a most favorable impression was produced by the Canadian apples. The fruit, we are told, "excelled in color and included some magnificent specimens, all in a fine state of preservation, notwithstanding the double consignment, first to London from Canada and thence to Exeter." The mayor in opening the Exhibition called special attention to the Canadian fruit, pointing out that the importation of apples from Canada had increased from 15,000 barrels in 1874 to 242,144 barrels last year. A friend of his had, he said, transplanted and grown Canadian apples at Great Fulford in this country with great success. The Canadian fruit was, at the close of the show, distributed among the mayor, sheriffs, town-clerk, local editors, and officers, all of whom speak most highly of its qualities. A special report is shortly to be made by the judges of the Tasting Committee as to the flavor and general quality of the fruit. An interesting feature of the work in the Canadian Agricultural Court has been the receipt of applications from other colonial sections of the Exhibition for the exchange of grain samples. No little interest has been taken by the Australasian and other representatives in the hard red Fyfe wheats of Manitoba, as well as the various classes of grain from other Provinces of the Dominion.

—Ayer's Sarsaparilla acts directly and promptly, purifying and enriching the blood, improving the appetite, strengthening the nerves, and invigorating the system. It is, in the truest sense, an alterative medicine. Every invalid should give it a trial. ed

—There are cases of consumption so far advanced that Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup will not cure, but none so bad that it will not give relief. For coughs, colds and all affections of the throat, lungs and chest, it is a specific which has never been known to fail. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, thereby removing the phlegm, and gives the diseased parts a chance to heal.

Neither One Meant Anything.

From Drake's Magazine.

Jocular passenger to matter-of-fact conductor—"Knocking down much to-day?"

The conductor modestly but firmly knocks him down.

"Say!" (picking himself up a sadder and a sorer man) "can't you take a joke? I didn't mean anything."

"I didn't either."

—Mr. Alexander Robinson, of Exeter, in writing about one of the most popular articles, and one that has done more good to the afflicted than any other medicine has during the short time it has been in existence, says: "I have used four bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, and have been cured of dyspepsia that troubled me for over ten years. Part of that time I had it very bad, and I was at considerable expense trying to get relief; but this excellent medicine was the first and only relief I received."

—At this season of the year it is very necessary to keep a bottle of West's Cough Syrup in the house for sudden colds. Nothing like it. Cures like magic. ed

—If people, troubled with colds, will take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral beforegoing to church, they will avoid coughing. The Pectoral soothes and heals the irritated tissues, and controls all disposition to cough. ed

Effect of Cultured Training.

From Drake's Magazine.

"Is your little girl going to school now, Mrs. De Browne?" inquired the elderly clergyman. "Yes, Sir; but not to one of the public schools; I send her to a very select private school." "Do you suppose that she is likely to learn more at a private school?" "It is not so much what she learns that I am particular about as what she does not learn. The Misses Smithson have none but the nicest children at their schools, and there is no chance for Jennie to learn slang or naughty ways." "That is a good thing, to be sure; come here, Jennie, and give me a kiss." "No, you don't!" tartly replied the young lady; "we gals don't train with no baldheaded old rip—not if we know it!"

—A. Mayhee, merchant, Warkworth, writes: I have sold some hundreds of bottles of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and it is pronounced by the public "one of the best medicines they have ever used;" it has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, sore throats, &c., and is worthy of the greatest confidence.

The Right Way.

—The only proper way to cure a cough is to loosen the tough mucous or phlegm that clogs the bronchial pipes. This is why Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam is the most successful remedy for coughs, colds, throat and lung troubles. 246

—West's Cough Syrup, the household remedy for coughs, colds, sore throat, influenza, bronchitis, whooping cough, asthma and consumption. 25c, 50c and $1 per bottle. All druggists. ed

There is Nothing Like It.

—There is no one remedy offered to suffering humanity whose use is so universally and frequently required as Hagyard's Yellow Oil, for rheumatism, neuralgia, colds, sore throat, deafness, croup, lumbago, and aches, pains, lameness and soreness of all kinds, when internally and externally used. 246

—Do not delay in getting relief for the little folks. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is a pleasant and sure cure. If you love your child why do you let it suffer when a remedy is so near at hand?

—There are a number of varieties of corns. Holloway's Corn Cure will remove any of them. Call on your druggist and get a bottle at once.

HOME, SWEET HOME

A $5 monthly buys your own, profitable investment. Each $5 monthly double monthly and loss rendered impossible.

TORONTO,

the future metropolis of Canada.

We are instructed to dispose of a number of earlier lots 20x140 to 24 lanes at West Toronto Junction, the fast and rapidly growing Railway Junction centre where the Canada Pacific Railway works shops must be located, 40 acres having been purchased by this great Railway for their siding, round house and shops.

ALSO AT LITTLE YORK,

where the Grand Trunk Railway have already purchased about 100 acres for their Round House and Work Shops and a large number of men are now employed.

The lots at each of these rapidly growing and increasing railway centres are beautifully located, high, healthy and well drained.

The title is a Torrens Title, guaranteed by the Ontario Government. Each lot will be sold on payment of $10 cash and $5 per month thereafter until paid for, and purchasers building cottages built can have them on reasonably easy terms.

The prices of lots until January next will be from $250 to $350, according to location. All unsold lots will be increased thereafter.

Secure a lot for your wife or your child. You can have no better investment.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Will cure a Cold more thoroughly and speedily than any other preparation in use. This medicine is especially beneficial in all affections of the Throat and Lungs, and affords effectual relief even in the advanced stages of Consumption. Thousands of cases of Pulmonary diseases, which have baffled every other expedient of human skill, have been completely cured by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. For fifteen years I was afflicted with Lung troubles. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral relieved the distressing symptoms of this disease, and entirely cured me. It is the most effective medicine I have ever used.—C. M. Fay, Prof. of Anatomy, Cleveland, Ohio.

While in the army I contracted a severe Cold, which settled on my Lungs, resulting in exhausting fits of Coughing, Night Sweats, and such loss of flesh and strength that, to all appearance, Consumption had laid its "death grip" upon me. My comrades gave me up to die. I commenced taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and it

CURED ME.

In the twenty years that have since elapsed, I have had no trouble with my Lungs.—D. B. Bissell, Editor and Publisher Republican, Albion, Mich.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured my wife of Bronchitis, after friends and physicians (so severe was the attack) had almost despaired of her life. She is now in perfect health.—E. Felter, Newtown, O.

When about 22 years of age, a severe Cold affected my lungs. I had a terrible Cough, could not sleep, nor do any work. I consulted several physicians, but received no help until I commenced using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I continued to take this medicine, and am satisfied it saved my life.—C. G. Van Alstyne, P. M., North Chatham, N. Y.

Last year I suffered greatly from a Cold, which had settled on my Lungs. My physician could do nothing for me, and my friends believed me to be in Consumption. As a last resort, I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It gave immediate relief, and finally cured me. I have not the least doubt that this medicine

SAVED MY LIFE.

I am now ruddy, healthy, and strong.—James M. Anderson, Waco, Texas.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured me of Throat and Lung troubles, after I had been seriously afflicted for three years. The Pectoral healed the soreness of the Lungs, cured the Cough, and restored my general health.—Ralph Fell, Grafton, O.

Twenty years ago I was troubled with a disease of the Lungs. Doctors afforded no relief, and said that I could not live many months. I commenced using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and, before I had finished one bottle, found it was helping me. I continued to take this medicine until it cured was effected. I believe that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved my life.—Samuel Griggs, Waukegan, Ill.

A SON'S TERRIBLE CRIME.

CHARLES McAULEY KICKS HIS FATHER TO DEATH.

Borden-street the Scene of a Tragedy—The Old Man's Dying Statement—Arrest of the Son—Inquest To-night.

Yesterday afternoon Charles McAuley, aged 40, a tinsmith by trade, was arrested by Sergeant Hall and Constable Cooney on the charge of having murdered his father, John McAuley, also a tinsmith. The prisoner with his wife and four children has lived for some time at 86 Nassau-street, and about six months ago his father and mother came from Ireland and made their home with him. The house, especially since the arrival of the old folks, was the scene of nightly fights caused chiefly by whisky. People living in the vicinity were constantly annoyed and it was proposed to have the police make the family vacate.

On Tuesday night the old man and his wife left the son, taking with them their daughter-in-law. The three rented miserable and dirty rooms at 244 Borden-street, a two-story, rough-cast house, and it was in one of these rooms that the father met his death between 10 and 11 yesterday morning, when Charles McAuley visited the place and asked for his wife. He found her upstairs and made her go down, shoving her part of the way, after which he entered a room where his father was. That they quarrelled and that the son beat and kicked his father to death there is no doubt, although the two women assert that the injuries and, consequent death of the old man, whom they say was drunk, were caused by falling over the stove.

The discovery was made by an old pensioner named Williams who lived next door, who entered the place at noon and found the old man lying on the floor suffering intense agony. McAuley's face and body bore the marks of kicks and cuts most brutal, his stomach being black and blue and greatly swollen. He told Williams that his son had kicked him and that he feared he would die. Dr. Simpson of 642 Bathurst-street was summoned, and to him the old man made a statement similar to that made to Williams. The doctor sent for the ambulance, intending to have him removed to the hospital, but before it arrived the unfortunate man was dead.

Sergeant Hall, Constable Cooney and Detectives Burrows and Brown were detailed to arrest the son. While the two former were going along Borden-street they saw a man dodge into a lane. His appearance tallied with the description they had of McAuley, and on being arrested he proved to be the man. His wife was found at the house on Borden-street, and she was arrested as a material witness. A neighbor stated that the dead man sent out for a bottle of whisky a few hours before his death. An empty bottle was found beside him. Coroner Johnston will hold an inquest at Hinchcliffe's hotel, Bloor-street and Brunswick-avenue at 8 o'clock tonight.

ISLAND FERRY SERVICE.

The New Company's Proposition Discussed by the Markets and Health Committee.

The Markets and Health Committee had a special meeting last night to consider the petition of Mr. George Gooderham and others respecting the Island ferry service. There were present Chairman James, Ald. Baxter, Johnston, Piper, Carlyle (St. Andrews), Verral, Rosf, Drayton, M. J. Woods, McMillan and Macdonald. A number of Island summer residents and other citizens were in attendance. George Gooderham and G. T. Blackstock represented the proposed Company; Eugene O'Keefe and C. H. Ritchie, Q.C., the Humber Ferry Company and Mine Host McConkey the Hotel Hanlan interest. It was decided to hear the views of those in favor of and opposed to the scheme.

Mr. George Gooderham's proposal is to purchase and then dispose of the boats now running on the bay, and supersede them by a fleet of first-class ferry boats more suitable for the purpose in point of model, speed and safety. The boats would be run from four points in the city, between Brock and Berkeley streets, to Wards, Meads and Hanlans. The service will extend from April 15 to October 15. During the first and last two months boats will be run every two hours from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. From May 15 to September 15 the boats shall run every hour in the forenoon, commencing at 6 o'clock. During the afternoon and evening the service will be half-hourly up to 3 p.m., and after that every quarter hour to 10 o'clock. The last boat will leave the Island at 11 o'clock. The fare will be the same as at present. A lease for a period of 21 years is asked in view of the proposed large outlay of money, and recreation grounds and accessions of other kinds will be created on the Island. The city derives as large an income for licenses as formerly.

Mr. Blackstock spoke on behalf of the proposed company. He said the ferry service wanted reorganising. As it is now, in the early and late portions of the summer the boats were run at a loss, and could not be depended on. The company would guarantee to run them for a fixed length of time, and the running of the boats would be assured for that time. He had seen the owners of all the boats which ran on the bay last year and they had agreed to dispose of them at a valuation to the proposed company. Mr. Doty had expended $18,000 on the Island, yet he was willing to dispose of his boats.

Mr. Haverson would support any scheme which would give a better service. He said that in the early and late portions of the season, Island residents suffered great inconvenences, especially those who lived in the centre. It was generally a long time after the boats started to run to Hanlan's that they called at Mead's and this placed residents at the latter place in a very disadvantageous position.

Mr. Thos. Tinning, who said that he had been connected with the Island Ferry service in this city, directly and indirectly, for forty years, favored the proposed company, as it would do away with the racing of the boats of rival lines. This was a source of great danger to those who patronized them and would not exist were all the boats owned by one company.

Mr. Ritchie joined issue with Mr. Blackstock in the latter's statement that all the ferry lines had agreed to sell out to the proposed company. He (Mr. Ritchie) was interested in the Humber Navigation Company which had the privilege now of running to the Island and the Humber, and for which privilege they paid a regular license fee to the city. He did not believe in Mr. Blackstock's plan of taking them by the throat and demanding the sale of their boats at an arbitration price. They wanted to be remunerated for their vested rights before they handed them over to any company.

Mr. O'Keefe supported Mr. Ritchie's views. They would sell out at a fair valuation, but would not be crowded out. They had a lease to run to the Island which would not expire for eight years.

Ald. Carlyle suggested that the company set apart a portion of their profits every year to apply to permanent improvements on the Island.

Mr. Blackstock contended that the charter of the Humber Ferry Company did not permit of their running to the Island, and they had never paid a cent of ferry license to the city.

Mr. O'Keefe: We can run to any navigable place in Ontario.

Mr. Blackstock: Your company is not a ferry company at all. Continuing, he said the company had made a fair proposition to the Humber Ferry Company, but would not pay the exorbitant price they asked for their boat and privileges.

Mr. O'Keefe said they had only owned the boat referred to, the Canadian, for a year, and had not had a chance to pay any license. The former owner of the boat, Mr. Doty, no doubt paid the usual license fee. He claimed they had full privilege of running to the Island, and their company was chartered for that purpose.

Ald. McMillan thought the proposed company was decidedly a monopoly, and monopolies needed looking after. He favored the appointment of a sub-committee who could enter extensively into the subject and report later on.

Ald. Baxter was in favor of the company paying the city a fixed sum regularly for the privileges asked. When the Dotys and Mr. Turner declared themselves in favor of the scheme it predisposed him in its favor.

Ald. Macdonald thought the matter should be taken up at the present council. He believed many of the present council would not run again.

Ald. McMillan—You mean a good many of them will not be elected again.

After some further discussion the following motion by Ald. Drayton was unanimously adopted:

That before arriving at any conclusion in the Island Ferry Company scheme the matter be laid over for the purpose of allowing the parties interested in the proposed company, and the Humber Navigation Company, to come to a settlement as to the terms on which the latter will dispose of their boats and other interests to the former.

YORK COUNTY'S PARLIAMENT.

Presentation of Petitions and Communications—The City Market Fees.

The County Council resumed its labors at 2.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. A petition was presented from ratepayers of School Section 4, Township of Vaughan, No. 3, Township of Markham, and the Village of Richmond Hill, asking for the appointment of a committee to consider their appeal against bylaws referring to the alteration of boundaries in this school section.

A special committee was appointed to ascertain and report on what terms the municipalities and local improvement sections interested, will assume that portion of the Lake Shore-road west of the Town of Perkdale. It was decided to resolve the council into Committee of the Whole on Friday next at 2 p.m. to hear petition in reference to market fees in Toronto. A communication was read from Alex. Brown, who seeks a reduction of rental for the Yonge-street toll-gate on account of loss sustained by the Thornhill 'bus, which, carrying the mail, does not pay toll.

The County Commissioners reported that they could not complete the addition to the barn of the Industrial Home in time for the gathering of this season's crops. The report, after dealing with matters of management, stated that the younger children are now being taught by a young woman who is also an inmate. The larger children are attending the public school. There are at present twenty children in the Home of 14 years of age and younger. The Commissioners are of opinion that some other disposition ought to be made of indigent children, who are not likely to benefit by the society of so many old persons, some of whom have peculiar fixed habits. Homes might be found for them, or they might be placed in some institution kept expressly for children, at the expense of the local municipality or the county. There are ninety-five persons in the Home, five less than at this time last year. There have been twelve deaths since the last report. The fountain, presented by the Warden, has not yet been placed on the lawn owing to a delay caused by an error on the part of the shippers. The report was adopted.

Mr. David Blain was heard in reference to the closing of a road in Vaughan township, a project which he strenuously opposed. His argument was of no avail, however, as the council had by the adoption of By-law 500, shortly before, definitely settled the matter. Mr. Yule gave notice of his intention to introduce on Friday a motion authorizing the Industrial Home Commissioners to pay the passage of a Mrs. Wilfred to England. The council adjourned until Friday at 10.30.

POLICE PARAGRAPHS.

A Disorderly Couple—Consumptive and Drunk—Assaulting a Policeman.

Jonathan Cowley and his wife visited Mallett's Hotel, 172 King-street east, yesterday afternoon to settle a matter regarding their daughter who had been employed there. They became disorderly and Mrs. Cowley smashed a window. Both were arrested.

A young Scotchman named James Leishman, a cabinetmaker by trade, who is far gone in consumption, was discharged from the hospital a few days ago. He was found drunk on Wellington-street yesterday and arrested by P.C. Thompson.

Constable Reburn arrested a drunken man on York-street yesterday afternoon and started with him for the Police Station. But Jacob Munshaw, of 28 Centre-street, interfered and assaulted Reburn. The drunk got away, but Reburn collared Munshaw whom he ran in, and who will have to answer to a serious charge.

Last night Constable Reburn arrested John O'Brien on the charge of stealing $2.40 from John Lees while the latter was drunk at Smith's Lodging House, 108 Simcoe-street, on Tuesday afternoon.

HUDDLED TOGETHER LIKE SHEEP.

An Atlantic Steamship Captain Charged With Carrying too Many Passengers.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Nov. 17—Captain Hellmers of the steamer Eider of the North German Lloyd line, has been held by United States Commissioner Muirhead for carrying a larger number of steerage passengers than his vessel has had statutory accommodation for. When the Eider sailed from Bremen on Oct. 6, she carried 196 cabin passengers and 683 steerage. An inspection showed that the steerage passengers had been huddled together like sheep. The case will be tried in Trenton.

The Sewer Bobs Up Again.

The report of Kivas Tully, C.E., giving his opinion as to what changes Contractor A. W. Godson should make in the Garrison Creek sewer is in the hands of the City Clerk. Mr. Tully holds that the "kink" in the sewer was caused by the negligence of the city's inspector, and that therefore Mr. Godson is not responsible. He thinks, however, that Mr. Godson should re-build the lower half circle of the 600 or 700 feet of the sewer south of Queen-street, which contains soft brick.

Protection of Island Property.

Owners of property on the west end of the Island complain that the Police Commissioners are not going to appoint a constable to protect property there this winter. They feel that they are entitled to one since John Grey has received the appointment for the east end, extending from Ward's to Mead's.

Sir Percival, the new story by the author of John Inglesant, has been anxiously looked for, and will be welcomed by many admirers of Mr. Shorthouse's first book. Cloth $1.75. Williamson & Co.

THREE METHODIST MINISTERS

Who Sympathize with Ireland's Cause—An I. C. B. U. Address to Davitt.

The regular weekly meeting of the Toronto branch of the Irish National League was held last evening in the St. Vincent Hall, corner of Victoria and Shuter streets. The President, J. M. Mulligan, occupied the chair. The Secretary read a communication from Dennis F. Burke offering to lecture here shortly; another from Rev. George Pepper stating that he would be able to lecture in Toronto about Jan. 19, and also a letter from Rev. Dr. Burns of Hamilton, expressing his regret that he would not be able, owing to an engagement, to attend Mr. Davitt's lecture. A letter from Rev. Thomas Cullen was read by the President, returning thanks for receipt of Mr. Gladstone's pamphlet on the Irish Question, and expressing sympathy with the cause. The Executive Committee reported that they were doing good work preparatory to the arrival of Messrs. Davitt and McCarthy. A deputation from the I. C. B. U. was heard, asking the League to facilitate their presenting Mr. Davitt with an address on the night of his lecture. The time for presentation was left to the consideration of the Executive Committee.

A LADY'S MAID INVOLVED.

Trouble Between a New York Railway Magnate and His Beautiful Wife.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The World says formal proceedings for divorce have been begun by Mrs. Lawrence Hopkins, one of the most beautiful women in New York society, against her husband, Amos Lawrence Hopkins, Vice-President of the Missouri Pacific Railway, and son of the venerable Mark Hopkins. It has been known for some weeks to their most intimate friends that the husband and wife had separated, but it was hoped that the difference would prove only temporary. Mrs. Hopkins has, however, through her counsel, George Bliss, served upon her husband summons to answer in a suit for divorce, and Mr. Hopkins has engaged Dillon and Swayne to defend the suit. The apparently final difference between Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins occurred two weeks ago. Mrs. Hopkins is the daughter of George L. Dunlap, a prominent merchant of Chicago. Mr. Hopkins is understood to be very quiet and domestic in his inclinations. Being a busy man he had little time and care for society. This radical difference of tastes is ascribed by friends as the primary cause of the differences between them, which have been a matter of current report for a year or two back. But it would appear that Mrs. Hopkins will in her suit ask for divorce upon a much more severe ground. There is but one cause admitted by the courts of this state as a reason for granting a divorce, and this cause Mrs. Hopkins is understood to have connected with a lady's maid formerly in her employ. Mr. Hopkins' counsel stated yesterday that his client had a full and sufficient defence to all the complaints and allegations.

Purchased Their Holdings.

DUBLIN, Nov. 17.—Most of the tenants on the estates of the Marquis of Sligo, County Mayo, have purchased their holdings from the Marquis. As he is cousin and heir presumptive to the Earl of Clanricarde, who owns large estates in the County of Galway, and is extremely unpopular with his tenants, who have just struck for 40 per cent. reduction in their present rents, the Marquis of Sligo's arrangement with his tenants is taken as strong indication of the rapid change in the relations between landlords and tenants in Ireland.

Seizure of Four More U. S. Vessels.

HALIFAX, Nov. 17.—A St. Andrew's, N.B., telegram of yesterday says: "The Dominion cruiser Gen. Middleton arrived here to-day. On Friday last she seized in East Quaddy River four Eastport fishing vessels for violation of the customs regulations. The fact of the seizure was by Capt. McLean wired to Ottawa, and he received orders to release the boats upon the owners depositing $20 for each boat. The deposits were made and the boats released."
