TRIAL OF HUN WAR CRIMINALS BEGINS

URGES END OF TURKISH RULE OF EUROPEANS

United States Asked to Use Its Influence to Keep Sultan Out of Europe.

CHRISTIAN MARTYRS APPEAL FOR JUSTICE

Thirty Thousand Refugees at Russian Black Sea Ports Wish to Enter Turkey.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Constantinople, Feb. 21. — Thirty thousand refugees are waiting at Russian Black Sea ports for permission from the Allied High Commissioners here to come to Turkey.

Great Britain, the United States, France and Italy have each been allotted an island in the Princes group on which to gather their nationals and carry on relief work.

Would End Turkish Rule.

Boston, Feb. 21.—A letter sent to acting Secretary of State Polk yesterday by 114 Episcopal clergymen of this state urges "that all due influence be used to end Turkish rule in Europe for ever and to secure the great church of the Holy Wisdom to its rightful Christian uses."

"We feel," the letter adds, "that it is both immoral and dangerous to allow the Sultan even nominal authority in Constantinople or over Christian peoples everywhere, and mindful of the millions of eastern Christians martyred by order of the Turkish power, we appeal for justice against their murderers."

WOULD BAR ALL CANADIAN SHIPS

American Shipping Men Would Prevent Canadian Trade With Alaska.

Washington, Feb. 21.—Amendments to the coastwise navigation laws are needed to prevent Canadian railways participating through their ships in the trade between the United States and Alaska, Will Iark, the Pacific Steamship Company of Seattle, yesterday told the Senate commerce committee. Present restrictions confining coastwise trade to American ships are being evaded, he said, under departmental rulings.

During the war, he added, Canadian ships were left in the trade, while American ships were taken off and put into war service.

Clark advocated the barring of all ships from the trade between the Philippine Islands and the United States except those owned by Americans.

THE AGE LIMIT FOR FRENCH OFFICERS

Paris, Feb. 21.—A bill regulating the age limit of army officers has been introduced in the Chamber by the Ministers of War and Finance. Under its terms the age limit for Generals and Colonels would be 62; for Division Generals 60; for Brigadier Generals 59. No age limit for a Marshal is provided.

MONTCALM OUT OF ICE.

Quebec, Feb. 21.—A despatch from Sydney to Le Soleil reports that the steamer Montcalm pulled out of the ice yesterday afternoon and unless a change of wind occurs, she ought to reach Sydney some time tonight. All well on board.

Germany Starts Actions Against War Offenders

Progress Made in Collection Documentary Material in Cases

THE CUSTOMARY SEVEN JUDGES

Accused Persons Who do Not Appear Will be Arrested.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Berlin, Feb. 21.—Preliminary proceedings in a number of cases of Germans accused of violations of the laws of war have already begun, and progress is being made in the collection of documentary material, Dr. Schiffer, Minister of Justice, told the representative of the Zwoelf Uhr Blatt yesterday.

The Minister said that accused persons would be tried at Leipzig by a court consisting of the customary seven judges. German witnesses will be heard in accordance with the prescriptions of criminal trial regulations and witnesses will be examined abroad if they do not care to come to Germany. It was indicated a German examining magistrate would go to other countries to be present at the taking of evidence.

Accused persons who do not respond to the summons to appear before the imperial court will have to be arrested and German authorities will, in any case, do everything to expedite proceedings as far as possible. On the principle that each accused would necessarily have to be tried individually, Dr. Schiffer energetically emphasized the fact the government regarded it "an affair of honor to punish those really guilty.

"The government, however, was not obeying the Entente's will in carrying out this trial," he asserted, "but is fulfilling the requirement of any ordered state and its own feeling of what was just."

CHILD CURED OF SLEEPING SICKNESS

After Being Afflicted for Eight Days Girl Aroused and Asked for Toast.

Guelph, Ont., Feb. 21.—A remarkable case of sleeping sickness being cured, is reported in this city. The two-year-old daughter of Alexander Craig was afflicted with sleeping sickness for about 12 days, being occasionally aroused sufficiently to take a drink of tea or water, but on the twelfth day she aroused herself and asked for a piece of toast. She went to sleep again, but continued to improve, and is now on the way to complete recovery.

STANDARDIZATION OF WOMEN'S DRESS

Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 21.—Resolutions favoring the standardization of dress for business women in order to combat the high cost of living were adopted yesterday by the board of directors of the National Woman's Association of Commerce in mid-winter conference here.

The German Answer Regarding War Crimes

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, Feb. 21.—It is learned here that the German Government will send a detailed answer to the latest note of the Entente dealing with the trial of Germans accused of war crimes after the national assembly meets on February 24 and examines the statute relating to the question.

HUN DIPLOMAT AT FRENCH RECEPTION

The German Charge D'Affaires at Paris Meets Representatives of Other Nations.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, Feb. 21.—For the first time since the resumption of diplomatic relations between France and Germany, Dr. Wilhelm Mayer, the German Charge d'Affaires, was presented yesterday at a reception to the diplomatic corps at the Elysee Palace.

Baron Matsui, the Japanese Ambassador, speaking on behalf of the diplomatic corps, expressed its ardent wish for the greatness of France.

President Deschanel, in reply, asserted that the Government, parliament and people of France would lend all their efforts to re-establish peace and bring back an era of tranquility and respect for treaties.

President Deschanel has received telegrams from the heads of nearly all the Governments, facilitating him on the assumption of the presidency.

VATICAN TITLES FOR CANADIANS

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Quebec, Feb. 21.—It is announced here today that His Holiness the Pope has conferred the title of Commander of St. Gregory the Great upon A. B. Dupuis, of Quebec, and Pierre Georges Roy, of Levis, and the title of Knight of St. Gregory the Great upon Joseph Gauthier, Cyrille Robitaille, Nazaire Fortier, of Quebec, and Benoit Laline, of Lyster, Que.

ILLEGAL LIQUOR SALES IN QUEBEC

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Quebec, Feb. 21.—H. Drouin, who pleaded guilty yesterday in the police court to selling liquor without a license, was sentenced to twenty days in jail by Mr. Justice Choquette. The judge, in condemning the accused, said the court would be very severe in future for infractions of the law.

THE DIVORCE MILL GRINDS IN CANADA

Ottawa, Feb. 21.—Three more applications for divorce are listed in the Canada Gazette. Richard Simpson, Walkerville, seeks a decree from his wife, Mildred, on the ground of adultery; Lauretta Estelle Cook applies for release from Fred R. Cook, of Toronto, on the ground of adultery and desertion, and Marie Jeanne Yvonne Albertine St. Armour Laleman, Montreal, seeks a decree from Alexander Laleman, also on the ground of adultery and desertion.

ONTARIO ADJUSTS COLLEGE SALARIES

Guelph, Ont., Feb. 21.—That the salaries of the Ontario Agricultural College are to be adjusted very shortly was announced yesterday by Hon. Manning Doherty, Minister of Agriculture. He stated that a reclassification of the whole staff of the O. A. C. is being made and will be completed in a few days. This classification will establish a new and much-improved basis of salaries.

COAL MINERS OF GERMANY TO SPEED UP

Employees Agree to Overtime Shifts, While the Mine Owners Will Increase Pay.

TOBACCO CONCERNS ARE CLOSING DOWN

Land Workers of Pomerania Exasperated at Eviction From Former Homes.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Berlin Feb. 21.—At a conference of employers and employees of the coal industry yesterday the men agreed to overtime shifts for half the ordinary working hours on two days a week, while the mine owners promised increases in overtime pay of from fifty to one hundred per cent. The object is to speed up production.

Close Cigarette Works.

Dresden, Feb. 21.—Employees in the cigarette factory here have been notified by the manufacturers that work in the establishment will cease on March 8.

Meanwhile an effort is being made to obtain the lowering of the government tax of 75 per cent. on tobacco. Other manufacturers are threatening to join the lockout.

Land Workers Exasperated.

Berlin, Feb. 21.—Herr Von Braun, Prussian Minister of Agriculture, is quoted by the Tageblatt as saying that a very serious situation exists in Pomerania, because of the exasperation of numerous land workers who have received notices of dismissals, while the estates are occupied partly by armed baltic troops. The newspaper says these incidents are inspired by reactionary political motives.

16 Cents Discount On Canadian Dollar

New York, Feb. 21.—The pound sterling was quoted at $8.39¼ to $3.40 on the Exchange today. The Canadian dollar was held at a discount of 16 cents.

FRENCH ARE BUSY WITH WEDDINGS

Record-Breaking Reports from Many French Towns in Number of Marriages.

Paris, Feb. 21.—From many towns in France continue to come record-breaking reports of the number of marriages. In the little town of Albi, which has less than 25,000 inhabitants, twelve weddings were celebrated last Saturday. Toulouse had 34 marriages the same day.

SIR AUCKLAND ON AMBASSADORSHIP

London, Feb. 21.—Sir Aukland Geddes, Minister of National Service and Reconstruction, who is reported to have been offered the Ambassadorship to the United States in succession to Viscount Grey, informed the Associated Press today that he was not "aware of the government having arrived at any decision regarding the naming of an Ambassador to Washington."

DISABILITY BILL IN THE U. S. SENATE

Washington, Feb. 21.—Congress received still another presidential disability bill for consideration yesterday. It proposes that thirty consecutive days' absence from the United States, or disabling illness for a like period on the part of a President, would cause the Vice-President to assume the duties of office.

GOLD TO SOUTH AMERICA.

New York, Feb. 21.—Recent heavy gold shipments to South America were explained yesterday by the statement that London is drawing on reserves here to make payment for purchases of grain and hides. The total amount shipped approximates $50,000,000.

Carleton County Man Perished in Storm

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

WOODSTOCK, N. B., Feb. 21.—A report reached here last evening that Edward McIntosh of Kirkland, Carleton County, perished in the big storm on Thursday night.

He was hauling wood and when the storm came up took off the horses and sent them home with a boy named Bustard, who was working with him. McIntosh did not arrive and, his family becoming alarmed, search was made and he was found dead in the snow about forty rods from the house. He was about 65 years of age.

Washington Officials Do Not Consider the Situation Over The Adriatic Question Acute

Little Danger that United States Will Decline to Become Party to Versailles Treaty.

WILSON'S NOTE TO GO FORWARD TODAY

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Washington, Feb. 21.—With President Wilson's reply to the note of the Allied Premiers on the Adriatic question almost ready for despatch, officials here have let it be known that they do not regard the situation as acute, nor do they expect that negotiations will take such a turn that the United States would be forced to consider whether it could become a party to the Treaty of Versailles.

The reply may go forward today. Acting Secretary Polk will send it to the White House for final approval, after which it will be coded for transmission.

DAUGHTERS OF THE EMPIRE CONVENE

Mrs. Robert FitzRandolph the Delegate at Toronto for New Brunswick.

Toronto, Feb. 21.—The proposal to send annually a student from each province to a university in Great Britain was thoroughly discussed in connection with the question of memorial scholarships at meetings of the War Memorial Committee of the Daughters of the Empire at I. O. D. E. headquarters here yesterday. The delegates were entertained at luncheon by the national executive and in the evening an informal conference was held at the home of Mrs. John Bruce, the national president.

New Brunswick—Mrs. Robert Fitz-Randolph, Fredericton.

Nova Scotia—Mrs. G. D. McL. Rogers, Amherst; Mrs. C. K. Ives, Halifax.

Mrs. G. H. Smith, convenor of the War Memorial Committee, and Mrs. John Bruce, national president of the I. O. D. E., were also present.

READING REFUSES AMBASSADORSHIP

London, Feb. 21.—The Earl of Reading has definitely declined the Ambassadorship to Washington, and the post has been offered to Sir Auckland Geddes, Minister of National Service and Reconstruction, who has not accepted, according to the London Daily Mail. It is believed by the newspaper that he will accept.

BIG ICEBERGS OFF NOVA SCOTIA NOW

Boston, Feb. 21.—The presence of large icebergs and floes off the Nova Scotian coast and in the path of transatlantic shipping was reported by the British steamer Ardgroom in a wireless despatch given out here today. She was forced to change her course several times because of ice.

WORK FOR POINCARE.

Paris, Feb. 21.—Raymond Poincare has been named French delegate on the reparation commission. He succeeds Charles C. A. Jonnart, who resigned from the commission recently.

President Millerand Gives French Policy

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, Feb. 21.—Premier Millerand discussed negotiations at London before the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Chamber of Deputies yesterday and read to the committee the Supreme Allied Council's answer to President Wilson regarding the Adriatic. He outlined the principal features of his policy toward the Orient and gave details of the situation in Asia Minor.

WILSON NOTE ON EASTERN QUESTION

Some Facts as to Why U. S. President Has Intervened at Present Time.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, Feb. 21.—John W. Davis, United States Ambassador to Great Britain, last night spoke in London of "certain instructions he had received from President Wilson," although the President's note to the supreme Allied council has not yet arrived at the British capital, says Pettinax, political editor of the Echo de Paris.

"In order to properly follow the course of events," he writes, "it should be said that the note received by the council from President Wilson on February 13, was in answer to a statement sent to the State Department in Washington on January 24, by Earl Curzon, British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs. Hugh C. Wallace, American Ambassador to France, attended meetings of the supreme council in this city last month and, in the name of his government expressed formal reservations in regard to the demand sent to Belgrade on January 20. On that occasion, speaking as much in regard to Turkey as the Adriatic, he said:

"You are going much too far and much too fast. President Wilson cannot follow you.'

"Earl Curzon then drafted his note, which was intended to calm Mr. Wilson's anxiety, assure him that the greatest deference would be shown his views, and that Ambassador Wallace would be kept fully informed. Apparently, after three weeks of patient waiting, President Wilson felt these soft words would not be enough. It can thus be seen the note of February 13 was not a bolt from the blue.

"Knowledge of certain facts may also throw light on Mr. Wilson's probable policy relative to Turkish affairs. In October, the American President formally asked the peace conference to postpone drafting the Turkish treaty until spring. He hoped, if the conference agreed to his demand, to be able to join in the task. Rapid developments in the near eastern situation, however, prevented compliance with his wishes. It by no means follows, therefore, that Mr. Wilson will ratify all that has been elaborated, without him. In one of the last meetings of the supreme council it was decided that before the treaty was communicated to the Turks it would be submitted for approval to our great associate.

"What will he do? In whatever way one looks at it, the work done in Downing Street seems more or less threatened, as a word from across the Atlantic may reduce to nothing the important conversations that have been going on. The arrival of Premier Millerand in London Sunday night will make a decisive moment."

SUFFERING IS RAMPANT IN AUSTRIA NOW

Relief Official Tells of the Terrible Conditions Prevailing at Vienna.

STARVATION RATIONS WILL SOON GIVE OUT

Swtizerland to Forward Several Hundred Car Loads of Foodstuffs.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Berne, Feb. 21.—Switzerland has decided to deliver to Austria immediately several hundred cars of foodstuffs, composed principally of dry vegetables and oats. The shipment will be valued at about 6,000,000 francs and a short delay will be granted Austria to pay for it.

TERRIBLE SUFFERING THROUGHOUT AUSTRIA

New York, Feb. 21.—A cable message received at the offices of the American Relief Administration, European Children's Fund, from the representative of the organization in Vienna, tells of conditions of financial chaos and extreme want and suffering rampant there.

"The crown is worth less than half a cent," the message stated. "There is no coal and street cars have stopped running. People, badly clad, walk miles to work. Vienna is a picture of desolate, almost helpless misery. Last fall 225,000 was a fair estimate of the number of under-nourished children in Vienna. Today we believe 300,000 would be more correct. We are informed that the city has sufficient foodstuffs to last only one month, even at the present starvation rates.

"If you see the endless lines of people, including even old women and children, trudging into Vienna through slush and snow, bent down under huge loads strapped on their backs, if you could see the pinched, sallow faces in the kitchens, you would wonder how human endurance could stand up under such a strain."

PROHIBITED THE WEARING OF BADGES

1,100 Employees of Baltimore Shipbuilding Company Throw Down Tools.

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 21.—An order issued by the company prohibiting the wearing of badges by labor union representatives, known as shop stewards, started a strike of 1,100 employees of the Baltimore Dry Dock & Shipbuilding Co. yesterday. The company has declared its intention to maintain an open shop in future and yesterday's action was the first move toward that end.

PROHIBITION IN QUEBEC.

Montreal, Feb. 21.—Quebec prohibitionists will assemble in convention March 3 and 4 in St. James' Methodist church, when a programme of six sessions, to be held morning, afternoon and evening, has been arranged.

Western Farmers Convicted Of Connection With Frauds

The Ringleader of the Wakaw Farmers Charged With Elevator Frauds Sentenced to Four Years' Imprisonment—Accomplices Also Convicted.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Prince Albert, Sask., Feb. 21.—George Worrobeth, ringleader of the Wakaw Farmers charged with elevator frauds in connection with the Progressive Farmers' Association, was yesterday afternoon sentenced to four years' imprisonment. His hired man was sentenced to 23 months, and Mike Lysitza, one of the farmers, to twenty-two months in the provincial jail. There are ten more farmers and an elevator man still to be tried.

Funds of the British Trade Unions Wasted in Strikes

The General Federation Deplores the Fact that Labor Has Received No Adequate Compensation for Large Sums Paid Out During Past Three Months.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Lndon, Feb. 21.—The General Federation of Trades Unions announced that during the last quarter £145,700 was paid out by the organization in connection with the cotton employees' and iron moulders' strikes.

"The saddest thing," says the Federation in connection with the announcement, "is the failure of this expenditure to obtain anything beyond what might have been secured through negotiations."

HARD EXPERIENCE MARYSVILLE FAN

Long Tramp Through Blizzard to Reach His Home After Hockey Game.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Marysville, N. B., Feb. 21.—It takes more than a bad storm to keep a real hockey fan at home when his team is slated to play. The following story goes to show what hardships a fan will endure in order to attend the match and cheer his favorites on to victory:

A young man, formerly of Marysville but now living at McAdam, has, since the opening of the N. B. Hockey League, been watching the sporting columns of The Gleaner with great interest, and as the season advanced the hockey fever grew apace, and when he saw that Marysville and Chatham were to play Thursday evening he could not resist the call to come to Fredericton and witness the game. To say that he thoroughly enjoyed the game is superfluous. It was after the game that he passed through a very trying ordeal. The parents of this fan live in the extreme upper section of Marysville, and he thought that while he was so close to them he would run up and see them. Accordingly he took the suburban train to Sandyville and started on foot the rest of the way, about a mile and a half. The walking was bad, but he got along fairly well until he reached Coun. C. Finnamore's, when he commenced to sink deply in the snow and slush, and his progress was painfully slow. After plunging and rolling through the snow and slush for over an hour, he finally reached his destination completely exhausted. His drenched and frozen garments were speedily removed and warm, dry clothing was put on him and stimulants administered. After a good night's rest he seemed none the worse of his experience and returned to McAdam yesterday just as full of hockey as ever.

The funeral of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Hedley Stewart took place Friday afternoon from their residence on Water street. Rev. E. J. Barass officiated and interment was made in the Baptist cemetery. Death was due to heart failure.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison W. Eno and son, Master L. George, arrived home yesterday from Nappan, N. S., where Mrs. Eno has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Higgs.

Miss A. Bartlett has so far recovered from her illness as to be able to leave her room.

Mrs. Bert Dennison is recovering from her illness.

G. B. Fullerton is well on the way to recovery from his recent illness.

Mrs. Moses Pond's condition is much improved and she is now able to sit up for a short time daily.

The Baseball Club held another of their social dances in the assembly rooms of the Dawson Club last evening. A very enjoyable evening was spent.

If better service is not soon forthcoming from the suburban train there will be a great decrease in the sale of daily papers in Marysville, because, by the time they reach here, the news will be so stale that no one will be interested in reading it, and those who work in the mill and travel by the suburban had better arrange to bring a week's food with them in order to be on the safe side.

BOILS SNOW PILE FINDS DIAMOND

Resourceful Iowa Woman Recovers Gem for Engagement Ring.

Sioux City, Ia., Feb. 20.—One of the residents of this enterprising town found upon returning to her home from a concert one evening recently that she had lost the diamond out of her engagement ring. And it was a large diamond, in addition to being an engagement diamond.

She remembered that she had slipped as she got off the car and that in falling her hand had struck against something hard. She was convinced that the stone must have fallen out of the ring at that time.

Two days after the incident she hired a truck and went to the corner of one of the most travelled streets, where she had gotten off the car, and superintended the loading of two truckloads of snow. She had it all dumped in her own back yard, put on her wash boiler, melted the snow and then strained it. A little more than half way through the process she found her diamond.

Vaudeville

"VOIX DE VILLE" said Jean Chardavoine, a French musician; and thus came into being three hundred and fifty years ago what to-day we call "Vaudeville".

Vaudeville is the melting pot of the dramatic and musical arts. In it nothing is out of place; it includes drama, comedy, tragedy, farce and burlesque; and every form of music from grand opera to jazz is heard upon its stage.

Every city has its favorite vaudeville house. But you—who live at a distance from the great cities—can have vaudeville right in your home, with

The NEW EDISON

"The Phonograph with a Soul"

This marvellous instrument—that is every other instrument in one—will RE-CREATE everything that vaudeville has to offer—the entire magic of the theatre staged for your amusement and pleasure, in your parlor or living room.

Why not let the New Edison bring this wonderful variety of entertainment into your home?

"Edison and Music" is a beautiful book that you should have. Just ask for it and "What the Critics Say" too—it proves Edison superiority. 256

THOSE hours spent over broom and dustpan are today recognized as a useless waste of time and strength—the cause of headaches without number; frequently of permanent ill health.

Instead of these tedious hours, the OHIO-TUEC suction cleaner makes home cleaning a matter of a few pleasant minutes. It is easy to operate—simple to manage; no drain on your strength.

The OHIO-TUEC sweeps up every thread, sucks up every speck of dust from the floors without wear or harm—draws every particle of foreign matter from the fabric of upholstering, out of draperies or bedding, from behind bookcases, cabinets and radiators, even off the walls. Such air cleaning adds years to the life of your furnishings.

Let us demonstrate to you in your own home how much this cleaner will save You in hours, work and money—telephone us—

DE LAVAL CREAM SEPARATOR

It will pay you in cream saved from $3 to $5 a cow every year over an inferior or half-worn-out cream separator.

It will pay you in cream saved from $10 to $15 a cow every year over gravity skimming.

It will give you a heavier and better cream, the kind the creameryman wants, the kind that gives you more skim-milk for your stock.

It will last two to ten times as long as other cream separators. Figure it out for yourself and you will see why the De Laval is the most economical.

And added to it all is the immeasurable satisfaction of owning a machine that "works like a charm" 365 days in the year.

We know that when we sell you a De Laval we sell you a machine you'll be proud to own. We sell them on liberal terms. Come in and talk it over.

A War Memorial Committee Named

Project Discussed at Public Meeting Last Night---Several Forms Which a Memorial Might Take Discussed and Also Amount of Money Required--General Committee Named and Recommendation Passed That City Council Get Authority to Make Substantial Grant.

At a public meeting held at the Council Chamber, City Hall, last night a general committee of eighteen members were named to take up the project of erecting a War Memorial in this city, and a resolution was passed suggesting that the City Council obtain authority to provide a substantial grant for the purpose.

Several forms which a memorial might take were discussed and the suggestion was made that the city of Fredericton might co-operate with the government in the erection of a provincial memorial in this, the capital city. Representatives of the returned soldiers favored a Soldiers' Home or memorial building of some kind, while others favored the erection of a suitable statue. The attendance at the meeting was disappointing, there being not more than forty present.

In opening the meeting, Mayor Hanson stated that the meeting was called to discuss the desirability of erecting some form of a memorial to those from this city who gave their lives in the Great War. He welcomed those present at the meeting and asked for their co-operation. A project like the present one would be considered as ill-advised if the matter were left to a few, and should instead be placed in the hands of a large, representative committee. A suggestion was offered by the Mayor that a committee be appointed by those who had the scheme at heart to consider ways and means of establishing some memorial and to report later at a public meeting.

The matter of a memorial, he said, was first brought up at the St. Andrew's Society meeting on Nov. 30th, 1918, when that society proposed to raise a sum of $1,000 as a foundation. Mr. Justice Crocket said no one would take a stand against the erection of a memorial to those who had given their lives in the war. Sixteen months had passed since the war ceased, and it was time the splendid heroism of those fellow-citizens be recognized by the erection of a suitable permanent memorial to their memory. Within a week after the meeting of the St. Andrew's Society, on which occasion $1,000 was pledged for a memorial fund, the society had raised over $1,100.

Judge Crocket then moved a resolution that a permanent and suitable memorial be erected in memory of those of this city who gave their lives for the defence of their homes and country. A. R. Slipp, in seconding the motion, said the project was a worthy one and should have the support of all the citizens of Fredericton.

The motion was carried unanimously.

General Committee Appointed.

It was then moved by Ald. J. A. Reid, seconded by J. J. F. Winslow, that a general committee of eighteen members be named by a nominating committee to consider ways and means of carrying out the project. A nominating committee consisting of Mrs. W. J. Osborne, W. E. Farrell, E. H. Coy, C. F. Chestnut and H. S. Campbell were appointed by Mayor Hanson, and they soon brought in a report suggesting the following names for the general committee:

Mayor Hanson, Judge Crocket, Dr. C. C. Jones, William Richards, Ald. J. A. Reid, H. A. Smith, Mrs. W. J. Osborne, Countess of Ashburnham, Mrs. N. C. Dougherty, Judge Barry, G. N. C. Hawkins, Col. T. G. Loggie, J. J. F. Winslow, J. T. Jennings, R. F. Randolph, Ald. F. L. Cooper, His Lordship Bishop Richardson and W. D. Gunter.

Provincial Memorial Suggested.

Dr. W. C. Crocket, M. L. A., inquired if the intention was to have a city or a provincial memorial. It had been suggested that the City of Fredericton and the County of York should unite or that all the counties of the province should unite in erecting a provincial memorial. This city being the capital of the province, Dr. Crocket suggested that a provincial memorial might be erected here which would be worthy of the splendid spirit of those who had made the supreme sacrifice.

Dr. W. C. Keirstead said he was in accord with the idea of Judge Crocket. The memorial should be a fitting monument to show the splendid spirit of the brave Fredericton men and boys who gave their lives in the great war. Many institutions could help out in this project and the speaker hoped the basis of a co-operative effort, worthy of those who had died, and which would teach a lesson of freedom and righteousness, would be laid by the meeting.

Judge Wilson stated that it would be a disgrace to this city if it did not show its appreciation of the efforts of the men who had given their lives for the preservation of civilization. He thought the memorial should be one erected by the citizens of Fredericton.

Mayor Hanson expressed his regret that Col. T. G. Loggie was unable to attend the meeting. Col. Loggie, he said, had taken a warm interest in the work and, as he was one of those who originated the idea, he would back it both financially and morally.

Rev. J. S. Sutherland stated that it would be well for Fredericton to do something in honor of the Fredericton boys who had given their lives in the Great War. The province might have a memorial of its own.

Memorial Home Proposed.

William Richards stated that he concurred with Dr. Crocket in the idea of the city and province combining, but outside of this city no meetings had been held in the interests of such a memorial. He suggested that the memorial take the form of a Soldiers' Home for the Province of New Brunswick, in order that the returned soldiers of the province might have the benefit of it. There might at least be a union of York and Sunbury counties for the erection of such a building.

Ald. Reid believed each county or city should take steps to get its own memorial. If a county was too small for such an idea the Provincial Government should step in and make a liberal provision.

Mayor Hanson stated that Carleton count had already voted an amount for the erection of a memorial monument in the shiretown of Woodstock. It would be well for the committee to have full information from the Provincial Government concerning what steps may be taken towards the erection of a provincial memorial in order that a clash would not occur over the matter.

Government House Proposed.

Mrs. G. C. VanWart and Mrs. M Harvey expressed hearty sympathy with the idea of a memorial, favoring a memorial Soldiers' Home building. Mrs. Harvey thought that the Old Government House might be used as a memorial home instead of as quarters for the permanent troops. There were other buildings that might be used as quarters for the permanent force and the Government House thus be available for a memorial home.

Mayor Hanson stated in reference to the Old Government House that the building was being transferred to the Dominion Government by the province, and he understood the order-in-council for the grant was in the process of going through now. He thanked Mrs. Harvey for her suggestion. Before any schemes for the province were lodged a good deal of canvassing would have to be made as to how the expense would be borne.

A Statue Suggested.

Col. Montgomery Campbell, O. B. E., stated that it was up to the province to do something, and as Fredericton was the capital of the province it should be the site of the provincial

U. S. NAVY GIVES UP RADIO CONTROL

Washington, Feb. 20.—Naval operation or control of all private radio stations, assumed during the war emergency, will be relinquished at midnight Feb. 29, under an executive order made public today by Secretary Daniels.

At the office of naval communications it was explained that all stations taken over by the Government at the outbreak of the war would be returned to their owners and that all new stations built during the war by private concerns and which could not be operated because of the war-time restrictions could be operated after Feb. 29.

Under the order wireless communication reverts to pre-war conditions and is subject to regulations of the act approved Aug. 13, 1912.

Six high-powered stations controlled by the Radio Corporation of America were taken over at the outbreak of the war. They are at Marion, Mass.; New Brunswick and Tuckerton, N. J.; Bolinas and Marshall, Cal., and Kahuku, Hawaiian Islands.

Smaller stations reverting to private ownership include those of the United Fruit Company at New Orleans and Boston, the Mutual Telephone Company in the Hawaiian Islands, the International Radio Telegraph Company at Brooklyn and Newport, and the Marquette and Bessemer Dock and Navigation Company at Conneaut, O.

Police Directed to Carry Out the Police Magistrate's Orders About Prisoners

Police Commission Decision is that Specific Charges Preferred Against Chief of Police Finley Were Not Fully Proven—Jurisdiction of Police Magistrate Over All Prisoners Set Forth—Peaceable Drunks to Be Taken Home and Those Who Land in Police Station Shall Be Assisted in Communicating with Their Friends—Prisoners Arrested for Drunkenness, Commission Say, "Are Not and Should Not Be Classed as Criminals."

The Police Commission, following a meeting at City Hall yesterday afternoon, gave out a judgment in the matter of the investigation of the charges preferred last fall against Chief of Police W. H. Finley by H. M. Blair, in which they declare that the charges have not been fully proven.

While the report therefore technically exonerates the Chief of Police, it has nevertheless been found advisable by the Police Commission to specifically set forth certain regulations regarding "the power of the Police Commission and the Chief of Police with respect to arrest for drunkenness, and his duty thereunder and with respect to the jurisdiction of the Police Magistrate over all prisoners." In so doing the Commission have ironed out several questions over which there has been much more or less camouflaged friction, and they advise that prisoners arrested for drunkenness are to be taken home, if peaceably disposed, but otherwise to the Police Station, whence they shall be allowed to go home when they have sufficiently sobered up or have some responsible citizen prepared to look after them.

The Commission in their report virtually admit that the Chief of Police has failed to carry out instructions given to him by the Police Magistrate in this respect, assuming that power unto himself, and "direct" and "command" him to carry out the orders contained in their judgment. The Commission have also ordered an end put to conditions which have existed under which prisoners arrested for drunkenness have been unable to communicate with their friends or to summon a physician or lawyer. By their judgment they cancel any contrary orders that may have been issued by the Chief of Police and instruct him to issue new orders under which prisoners arrested for drunkenness are not only to be allowed to communicate with their friends by telephone but, if they are physically unable to do so, they may obtain the services of the policeman in the police station, whose duty it will be to communicate by telephone as requested by the prisoners. This the commission declare is a privilege, explainable probably by their ruling in another section that persons arrested for drunkenness "are not and should not be classed as criminals."

All Prisoners Under Magistrate's Control.

The judgment of the commission on the charges, the investigation of which they declare has served a good purpose, follows:

This matter having come before the undersigned, Police Commission, under complaint in writing, was investigated under oath in the presence of the complainant represented by counsel, and the Chief of Police, and after hearing the evidence adduced under oath by either party and what was alleged by the parties in respect of the said charge, we do now make our findings as follows:

The charge is laid under three headings:

1. That the Chief of Police improperly detained a prisoner arrested for drunkenness, in the police station when he was not in a fit physical condition to be detained and against strong medical opinion and advice.

2. That the Chief of Police, contrary to his oath of office, detained in confinement the said prisoner although the Chief had on many previous occasions permitted other prisoners arrested on similar charges to be released.

3. That the Chief of Police unlawfully and without provocation assaulted and laid violent hands on the complainant on the night of Sept. 16th last, when the complainant was endeavoring to effect a release of the prisoner.

With respect to the charges generally, we desire in the first place to make a few observations before dealing with the charges directly.

The police officers, including the Chief of Police, and the Police Station premises generally, except the room used as a Police Court when in actual use by the Police Magistrate, are under the control and supervision of the Police Commission. All prisoners, no matter for what cause arrested, are under control of the Police Magistrate and their disposal is entirely subject to his judicial control and discretion.

With respect to prisoners arrested for drunkenness, we are of opinion that they are not and should not be classed as criminals, and that their offence is rather a breach of the city by-law. In practice, however, we understand that they are treated as coming under the provisions of the Criminal Code respecting vagrancy.

Treatment of Prisoners.

It is our opinion, however, that when a prisoner is first arrested for drunkenness, he should, if peaceably and quietly disposed and able to take reasonable care of himself, be taken to his home; but if not peaceaoly disposed or unable to take care of himself he should, in the first instance, be taken to the police court and there taken care of, and if held on no other charge, be allowed to go home when in a position to take care of himself, on making the usual deposit for his appearance. And with respect to a prisoner so arrested and against whom no other charge is lodged, who is unable to take care of himself, he should be retained for a sufficient length of time to sober up and then be allowed to go to his home, upon making the usual deposit. If, however, some responsible citizen in the care of the last-mentioned prisoner shall guarantee that such prisoner will be properly taken care of and the prisoner in question is in a position to be removed and no other charge is laid against him, it is our opinion that such prisoner should be allowed to be taken home, upon making the usual deposit.

These observations, however, are not intended as instructions to the police officers, because in this connection we reaffirm our opinion that the custody of such prisoners and their complete control is in the hands of the Police Magistrate and that he has a right, and, in fact, it is his duty, to establish such course of procedure as he may deem desirable in the premises.

It is the duty of the Chief of Police, and we so direct, that he shall see that such orders as the Police Magistrate may give in this regard be carried out; provided always that he has no reason for holding the prisoner on a further charge which may require more extended investigation, and in such case such charge should be promptly entered in the police station blotter.

We understand that directions in this regard have from time to time been given by the Police Magistrate to the Chief of Police, and it is our desire that these instructions in future be complied with by the Chief of Police and thus command him.

The Specific Charges.

Dealing specifically with the charge, and more particularly with the third charge, we find that this charge was not proven. Affirmative evidence was adduced by the complainant in support of the charge, but he is not corroborated by any of the witnesses called by either party and the charge is denied emphatically by the Chief of Police, and he is corroborated by at least one or more witnesses. No good purpose will be served by commenting on this charge further, except to say that at the conclusion of the investigation this charge was not pressed.

With respect to the first charge, we are of opinion that the prisoner in question was detained longer than he should have been detained, having regard to his physical condition and the opinion of the physician, Dr. Morrison, but we are also of opinion and so find that he was not unduly detained after the Chief of Police had been fully informed as to his condition. In this connection it should be borne in mind that the first application to the Chief of Police, made by Harry M. Blair at the Chief's residence, was simply for the release of the prisoner on making a deposit, from the charge of drunkenness, and that the Chief up until the time he actually arrived at the Police Station—having been summoned subsequently by one of the officers—did not actually know of the physical condition of the prisoner, and upon being informed by the medical man in attendance that the prisoner should be removed, arrangements were promptly made for his removal, and we, therefore, acquit the Chief of any intentional harshness in this connection. We do think, however, that the police officers on duty should have sooner

THE HANDICAPS OF SHIP BUILDER

Halifax, N. S., Feb. 20.—"We are builders, not bankers," said J. E. McLurg, general manager of the Halifax shipyard [illegible] by the various departmental heads of the yards. He was discussing the handicaps of the shipbuilder in the Dominion and the prospects of securing contracts from the French government.

The French were anxious to place orders, he said, and the Halifax shipyards could accept such but for the present condition of exchange. The payment would be in French bonds, he said, but not at the existing exchange. "They wanted the bonds taken at a rate to be agreed upon," added Mr. McLurg, "but that is a hopeless proposition."

The shipyards' general manager expressed the belief that the plant would be the best in Canada and the equal of any on the Atlantic coast.

Ford

IF the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, is able to build up to the limit of its capacity, only 27,350 Ford Cars will be built for use in Canada between January the first and July the thirty-first of this year. Divided among the total population of Canada this means one car to every three hundred and ten people.

It is easy to see that many people will be unable to get their Ford Cars at all, and many will have to wait for summer or fall delivery.

As Ford Dealers in this territory, we desire to deliver a car to every person in this district who wants one, but we cannot get the cars unless we send in the orders now.

If you will need a car later on, don't wait till spring before ordering. Put yourself at the top of the delivery list by signing an order today.

The Franchise Bill and Some Measure of Naval Defence Are Coming Before Parliament

The Greatest Interest is Taken in the Caucus of Unionist Members Early in Session, When Questions of Policy and Leadership Will Be Taken Up.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Ottawa, Feb. 21.—The speech from the throne is now under consideration by the cabinet. Its outline of the government's legislative programme for the session of Parliament which opens on Thursday, as is the usual custom, will not be made public until the opening day. But, so far as can be ascertained, a franchise bill, and possibly a bill to provide for some measure of naval defence, are the only measures forecasted in the speech from the throne which are likely to arouse wide controversy.

It is rather in its significance on the political situation that the session will arouse special interest. The future of the Union Government, its leadership and the formulation of its policy, these are the questions most under discussion by the advance guard of members. When the Unionist members meet in caucus, probably in a couple of weeks or so, the question of policy and leadership will come up for discussion.

Mr. Meighen's Winnipeg speech is interpreted as implying that, once the programme is adopted, a vigorous campaign will be opened in support of it. So far as leadership is concerned, it is very unlikely that Sir Robert Borden will be back in Ottawa until late in the session at any rate. Reports that he left a provisional resignation behind him have been current for some time, although, before he left, Sir Robert made it clear that, should his health permit, he would again resume active leadership. Reports to hand are to the effect that his health has considerably improved, but that a prolonged rest would still be necessary before he could resume his work at Ottawa. There is, therefore, uncertainty over what course of action Sir Robert will eventually decide to take.

Financial proposals by the government are expected to arouse sharp discussion. According to current gossip, some of the western members supporting the government are likely to hold out for more tariff reductions. The growth of the farmer movement in Ontario and the West has given added strength to rural opponents of protection. But in government circles at any rate there is apparently no apprehension that an opposition farmer block may be formed strong enough to defeat the present administration.

Preparations are being rushed for the opening of the session in the new Parliament buildings. Following the formal reading of the Speech from the Throne on Thursday, there will probably be adjournment till the following Monday, when debate on the address will open.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of my dear brother, Pte. Arthur McGee, who passed away in England from pneumonia on February 11, 1919.

Silently the stars are gleaming
Upon a lonely grave,
Where thou sleepest, dearest Arthur,
We loved but could not save.

Spoke on Housing Problem.

There appears to have been a misinterpretation of some portions of the sermon preached at St. Dunstan's Roman Catholic church last Sunday morning, when Very Rev. Dean Carney mentioned the housing problem. He said he thought the world was now turned upside down so to speak, and economic conditions were somewhat twisted, but bye and bye it would get back to normal again. He said he was rather amused to read in the papers about the housing scheme. He thought it was a wild proposition to suggest spending $4,000 for houses which would only be worth $2,000 in a few years. He thought some of the people who proposed the scheme had some interest at stake, as the building trades proposed increasing their charges. Had the trades been willing to work without increase of wage he would have congratulated them upon their proposal, but as they intended to increase their wage he had to think their motive was ulterior.

Given Surprise Party.

The staff of Victoria Hospital gave a surpise party last evening to William Kelly, of the staff, in honor of his birthday. He was the recipient of many gifts from the patients and friends, while the staff and graduate nurses presented him with an umbrella. A large birthday cake with a question mark for decorations adorned the table. "Doc" Kelly has been one of the most valued members of the Hospital for years and by his courteous treatment has endeared himself to patients and staff. Many expressions of good wishes for many more happy birthdays were showered upon the guest of the evening.

Small Voters' List Likely.

Yesterday was the last day for paying taxes in order that citizens might have their names placed on the voting list for the approaching civic elections. There was little or no commotion at the City Hall yesterday and no rush of citizens to pay their taxes as in past years. Scant interest seems to be taken in the election for which the lists will be unusually small outside of the returned soldiers who all will have votes whether their taxes are paid or not.

Inspecting New Plant.

Dr. F. H. S. Lowrey, of Ottawa, of the Veterinary Branch of the Department of Agriculture, is in the city today inspecting the Eastern Canneries, Ltd. plant. The resident inspector will be here to take up his duties next week.

Dr. A. Pierce Crocket, eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, of St. John, is in the city on professional business and is a guest at the Queen Hotel.

Admiral Sims Says American People Resent Too Bitterly Any Criticism of America

Admiral Sims the Orator at University of Pennsylvania Celebration of Birthday of George Washington—National Defence a Live Issue.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Philadelphia, Feb. 21.—Admiral Williams S. Sims, orator at the University day exercises of the University of Pennsylvania today to celebrate the birthday of George Washington, criticized the tendency of Americans to resent adverse criticism on military unpreparedness of the United States.

"The missing element in Americanism," said the Admiral, "is that it does not include adequate solicitude for our safety. The Government, to a certin extent our people, resent criticism of anything American. This is a dangerous attitude that has cost us many thousands of lives and many millions in treasure."

After saying his father was a native of Pennsylvania, that his mother was a Canadian and happened to be in Canada when he was born, he added:

"Perhaps you may be kind enough to consider me also an American, notwithstanding the title that has been given me by certain unfriendly critics of the leading British Admiral in the American navy."

In European countries, Admiral Sims said national defence is a live issue.

"The consequence is that the American people know less about the elements of warfare and less about the actual condition of their military forces than the people of any of the other great powers," he said. "It must be evident that this attitude cannot be maintained in future without serious risks."

GAME WARDEN SAYS HE WAS FIRED ON

John R. Kelly Claims Woman Took Pot Shot at Him on Little River Road.

John R. Kelly, who lives on the Little River road, six miles from Fredericton, in the Parish of Maugerville, Sunbury County, reported yesterday that a woman at the house of Mrs. Anna Holland, some distance this side of his home on the same road, had fired on him with a rifle this week.

Mr. Kelly, who said he was reporting the affair to the authorities, said when coming to Fredericton with a load of wood he found logs placed across the road and that, as he was in the act of chopping one in two, he was fired at by a woman from the Holland house, which is nearby.

"This is the second time I have been fired upon from that house," said Mr. Kelly. "They're great on guns. I think the reason for this latest attack can be traced to my activities as a game warden."

EDUCATE GIRLS SAME AS THE BOYS

Chicago, Feb. 21—More than eleven million women in the United States are employed as wage earners, according to a report submitted to the vocational education convention here by Mrs. Cleo Murtland, Professor of Industrial Education at the Unfversity of Michigan.

Vocational education of the same standard for girls as that given boys was recommended in the report.

DECLARE CANNERS WORKING COMBINE

Board of Commerce Calls Meeting at Toronto for March 22nd to Deal with Matter

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Ottawa, Feb. 21.—Declaring that the Dominion Canners, Ltd., of Hamilton, and the Canadian Canners, Ltd., Toronto, have formed a combine which is operating to the detriment of and against the public interest, the Board of Commerce has called a meeting at Toronto on Monday, March 22nd, to deal with the matter. The complaint of the Board against the two canning companies charges that they have, in association with various other incorporated companies, partnerships and persons at present unknown, formed and are now operating combines which have relation to canned fruits, vegetables, berries and other canned goods intended for human consumption. These combines, it is charged, are based upon actual or tacit agreements and have the effect of limiting facilities for producing, manufacturing, supplying, storing and dealing in canned goods and also the fixing of a common price and re-sale price enhancing the cost of the goods.

It is also charged that these combines have the effect of preventing or lessening competition in the production of canned goods and also in their sale, thus practically controlling the situation. A trust or monopoly has, it is stated, been formed, which is acting to the detriment of the public, both consumers and producers.

NEW COACH RATES.

We, the undersigned, having found it impossible to continue coaching at the present rate of twenty-five cents (25c.) per passenger, agree that coaching rates shall not be less than fifty cents (50c.) per passenger, and double fare from 11 p. m. to 7 a. m., on and after February 23, 1920.

One dollar additional will be charged on all Funeral, Wedding and Private Coaches.

Roy W. Smith; G. Howard Young, York Hotel; Harry L. McGuire, John H. Stinott, W. P. Edwards, W. M. Thurrott, Windsor Hall; Geo. Camp, Camp Bros' stable; Coles Kitchen, G. B. Moore.

REFRESHMENTS.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the G.W.V.A. will serve refreshments, hot tea and coffee, sandwiches and cake, in the lunch room of the Arctic Rink at the moccasin dance Tuesday evening. Proceeds for the G.W.V.A. funds.

The Standard of Motor Car Value

Everywhere, now, you find cars compared with the Gray-Dort for value.

Because the Gray-Dort has become the standard—a new and higher standard—giving more for the money than ever was given before—and setting new standards of strength and quality for light cars.

The Gray-Dort Motor is big, and finely built, like a watch. 40 pound crankshaft; non-warping, quiet valves; light, three-ringed pistons; Carter carburetor, Connecticut ignition, Westinghouse starting and lighting; cellular radiator and big water jackets.

The leadership of the Gray-Dort motor is paralleled by the leadership of the Gray-Dort chassis. Here is a strong, solid frame of heavy channel steel; a big, husky rear axle, designed and built exclusively for us here in Chatham; Chatham-built springs, full cantilever in the rear; big brakes, with Thermoid lining; a new steering gear, 50% bigger and stronger than has been used for light cars; a big gas-tank in the rear, with vacuum feed system.

Nothing can take away your pride in the smooth, flowing lines of your Gray-Dort. No other car can equal the wonderful Gray-Dort finish, which we have spent 60 years in developing.

And there is the smart, new top, hand-tailored in our own shops; French-pleated upholstery; a new hood, with many long, narrow louvres; snug side-curtains, which open with the doors; a shorter, smarter cowl which gives more room in the driving compartment; seats tilted at the most comfortable angle; increased leg-room in the tonneau; lamps raised to give size to the front of the car.

Once you know the Gray-Dort, you will be too critical to accept any other light car. There will be thousands who will agree with you—probably several thousand more purchasers than there will be Gray-Dorts. We urge you to see the Gray-Dort dealer now.

Prices

The Gray-Dort 5-passenger car, finished in Gray-Dort green and black and with standard equipment is $1365 f.o.b. Chatham. War tax extra.

The Gray-Dort Special

For the man who wishes something a little extra in his car, we have built the Gray-Dort Special. Maroon body, with brown rayntite top. Plate glass rear window. Cipay curtains. Rookie tan wheels. Motometer. Tilting steering wheel. Real leather upholstery. Mahogany instrument board. Just the touches which lift this car above the ordinary. $150 extra on the standard.

And the Ace!

The Gray-Dort Ace—the most beautiful light car of to-day. Sapper green body with handsome California top to match.

Trouble lamp and bulls-eye flashlight. Electric cigar lighter. Rear-vision mirror. Plate glass windows. Oversize grooved-tread tires. This is the de luxe car for the man who does not wish to pile up a tremendous operating cost. $255 extra on the standard.

CANADA'S STATUS IN LEAGUE.

The Canadian Government has forwarded to the Imperial Government a protest against any revision of the League of Nations covenant which would exclude the Dominion as a voting member of the League. This action has been taken in view of a supposed, and possibly a real tendency on the part of Great Britain to facilitate the entry of the United States into the League at the expense of the British Dominions, the United States Senate having balked at the provision which gives to each of the Dominions a vote in the League Assembly. The difficulty is soluble, says the Montreal Gazette, in either of two ways: by cancelling the voting right of the British Dominions, or by increasing the voting strength of the United States to offset the Dominions' votes. They amount to pretty much the same thing, although the second method is least damaging to the dignity of the Dominions. If full representation in the League of Nations were to be based upon war service, Canada, which was an active belligerent from the first, could hardly be denied a place, nor would such denial come with good grace, even from a nation of equal footing in that respect. There are, however, a number of nations, notably a group of South American Republics, which played no part, certainly no direct or effective part, on the side of the Allies in the war, which are to be included to the League membership. The claim made upon the part of Canada is that the record of the Dominion as a belligerent raises this country to equal status with all these other nations. As a matter of constitutional fact, no such development occurred, and the wisdom of the attempt which has been made to first establish by assertion, and then defend, a position which in point of fact does not exist, is open to question. Canada is not now in any different position, constitutionally, than before the war. Canadian autonomy is neither more nor less complete than then. If the status which is being ascribed to the Dominion by some of its representatives had really been attained, the Canadian Government would not now be protesting to the Government of Great Britain, as is the case, but would be acting independently. The fact that Canadian delegates were successful in becoming signatories to the Peace Treaty and obtaining for Canada the rigat, now disputed, of voting in the League Assembly, does not alter the position of Canada as a Dominion under the British Sovereign. Canada cannot be dependent one day and independent another. Moreover, the Canadian people are not worrying one way or the other in regard to their right of representation in the League of Nations. They have shown a strictly detached and dispassionate interest in the matter and have shown no disposition to become what is called het up about it. They know that those who mixed up the League covenant with the Peace Treaty made a miserable mess of both, and they are by no means certain that the League will function, with or without their vote. They are inclined to think that the success of the League will be more a question of common interest than of voting rights and contracts.

TERRITORIAL GUARANTEES.

The French occupation of German territory eastward to the Rhine is elucidated by Andre Tardieu in L'Illustration. The manner of reaching the agreement on this point of the Peace Treaty, as he discloses it, indicates that Clemenceau brought the representatives of England and the United States to consent to the measure after long opposing it, by convincing them that no other form of guarantee could be devised to render Europe safe against another brusque Teutonic onslaught, such as the enemy, well supplied with veteran troops and loath to carry out treaty agreements, might conceivably make.

Now a delay of the Germans in supplying coal, quite as much as their unreadiness to perform their covenants as to giving up war culprits, has served to arouse misgivings in Paris. Such misgivings might easily lead the Millerand Ministry to oppose breaches of the treaty with some form of prudential action.

The German territory in French hands has two uses. It serves as a means of temporary military protection during the fifteen-year period within which the German of the present generation will remain expert at arms, habituated to the thought of conquest, and therefore formidable. But it also provides a pledge for the fulfilment of conditions, which, but for the necessity thus imposed, the obligated power would scarce exert itself sufficiently to fulfil. As a pledge in French hands the occupied German territory may be held thus for the performance of conditions. But this reason, though it form the occasion of a possibly extended tenure of pledged land, cannot give in itself sufficient motive for any such proceeding. That motive would occur only in dread lest the beginnings of lax performance at Berlin should indicate a tendency of the defeated nation to play for a moment's advantage and then break loose again.

As the nearest neighbors, the French feel this dread more readily than do the nations at greater distances. Fortunately a space of years must elapse before any change in the dates set for evacuation of German territory—dates still remote—can become more than a threat. In the meantime it rests with the authorities at Berlin to convince the world by evidence of faithful performance that they have no design of holding back.

BETRAYERS OF GREECE.

The Greeks are settling accounts with traitors. A day of reckoning with the men who betrayed Hellas in 1916 was sure to come. Col. Metaxas, courting the smile of the false King Constantine, may have imagined that it would amply protect him when he surrendered the frontier fortress of Rupel in Macedonia to the Bulgarians, who appeared before it with a supporting detachment of German troops. Had he not received withdrawal instructions direct from Athens? But the master was then staggering madly to his downfall, and the willing obedience of the servant was his death warrant. Convicted of high treason, Metaxas is sentenced to die.

Another disgraceful affair was the surrender by Gen. Doumanis of the 4th Greek army corps, stationed at Kavala, to the enemy, on the flimsy excuse of seeking protection from the Allies. The Greek soldiers were disarmed and taken to Germany, as if they were a gift from "Dear 'Tino" to Brother Wilhelm. Now Doumanis, found guilty as a traitor, is sentenced to penal servitude for life. Other members of the former Greek general staff, convicted of having acted in behalf of German interests during the earlier part of the war, have received sentences commensurate with their disloyalty. The lowest traitor in the highest place escaped when he abdicated. That is not just. Yet he will have a heavy punishment in universal execration, while the names and deeds of Venizelos, Condouriotis, Danglis, Zimbrakakis and Mazazakis will be honored as long as Hellas lives and history writes a line.

memorial. He suggested statuary that would appeal to generations to come.

George Bidlake said he concurred heartily with Col. Campbell's idea. The memorial should be a memorial purely and simply and nothing else. While there might be many projects suggested which would be of great value to the community, such as a public hall, library or soldiers' home, such a course would be commercializing the sacrifices the boys had made. While those might be very worthy objects he was certainly opposed to using the sacrifices the boys had made as a lever by which to raise a fund for the promotion of any utilitarian project, the money for which could be raised by ordinary means if it were really needed.

Mr. Richards said he knew of a case where a Balaclava veteran in England had to beg for bread in front of a monument that had been erected to the memory of those veterans.

Col. Campbell stated that it was the first time he had ever heard of a Balaclava veteran not being properly cared for unless his character was reproachable.

Ald. Reid said the ideas of the parents of the boys who gave their lives should be considered in establishing the character of the memorial.

J. J. F. Winslow thought the matter should be taken up by the City Council, who could get authority to raise sufficient money for whatever form of a memorial was desired. Referring to the suggestion of Dr. Crocket, Mr. Winslow stated that probably a piece of statuary could be erected by the city and there could also be the provincial memorial. He then moved the following resolution, which was seconded by Mr. Richards:

"That this meeting recommends that the City Council obtain authority from the Legislature to vote a sum not less than $15,000 for the purpose of erecting a memorial."

Judge Crocket expressed the view that the amount of $15,000 for a minimum was rather large and that the resolution ought to read not exceeding $15,000.

Mr. Richards advocated the passage of the resolution as it read, saying that no citizen of Fredericton was so parsimonious that he would not agree to a minimum of $15,000 for such a work.

Col. W. J. Osborne agreed with Judge Crocket.

Percy Cass thought that a memorial home was the best idea and that the amount stated should be not less than $15,000.

Mrs. Harvey said that the amount should be left blank.

Ald. Reid moved in amendment that the resolution should read not exceeding $15,000. This was seconded by Ald. Camp.

W. E. Farrell thought that the resolution should name the required amount and that the council, representative of the citizens, should finally decide this matter.

The amendment moved by Ald. Reid was withdrawn.

Mayor Hanson thought that the resolution ought to take the form of a recommendation that the council secure authority to raise a substantial sum.

Mr. Sipp was of the opinion that before anything was done concerning this the opinion of the meeting upon the subject should be learned. The grant should be a considerable one, he thought. Referring to the attendance at the eeting, he stated it was shameful. Very few of the local organizations were represented and nothing could be done without a united public opinion and effort.

The original motion in an amended form, as follows, was then passed:

"That this meeting recommend that the City Council obtain authority from the Legislature to vote a substantial grant for the purpose of erecting a memorial."

The meeting then adjourned. The general committee will be called together at a later date to discuss the question.

ALL THE CHURCHES REACH OBJECTIVE

Total Amount Subscribed $11,321,089—Anglicans of N.B. Contribute $112,470.

St. John, Feb. 21.—All the denominations represented in the National Forward Movement have reached their objective, $11,300,000, throughout the Dominion. The total paid in and subscribed up to last night amounted to $11,321,089. Of this amount New Brunswick has already raised $392,511.

N. B. Anglicans.

The Anglican returns from the diocese of Fredericton do not include Welsford, Centreville, St. Martins, Greenwich, Stanley, Prince William, Canning and Chipman, Bright, Oakhurst and Bay du Vin.

Several of these, however, have written in telling of the postponement of their canvass owing to the great storm. The managers are confident that every one of them is doing its utmost in the great effort.

The following parishes are vacant: Grand Falls, Richmond, McAdam, Grand Manan, St. George, New Bandon, Simonds. They are being canvassed by Canon Smithers, who has reported $1,000 on their behalf, and says that they are "going strong."

Trinity, St. John, $13,008.50; Stone, St. John, $9,717.50; St. Paul's, St. John, $6,698; St. Jude's, St. John, $7,225.25; St. Luke's, St. John, $4,856.51; St. George's, St. John, $4,341; St. Mary's, St. John, $2,600; Mission, St. Joan, $2,137.50; St. James', St. John, $1,724; Fairville, $1,438.95; Cathedral, Fredericton, $6,616; Rothesay, $6,456; Moncton, $6,450; Parish Church, Fredericton, $3,144.80; Hampton, $3,027.50; Trinity, St. Stephen, $2,530; Sussex (Studholm, $600), $2,400; St. Andrews-by-the-Sea, $2,359; Woodstock and Jacksonville, $1,851; Chatham, $1,800; Christ Church, St. Stephen, $1,733.50; Campbellton, $1,591.05; Andover, $1,451.52; Dorchester, $1,000; Bathurst, $1,000; Vacant Missions (Canon Smithers), $1,000; Shediac (Shediac Cape, $936; Aberdeen and Brighton, $929; Sackville, $910; Campobello, $781; Hillsboro, $722; Norton, $718; Gagetown, $704.50; Derby and Blackville, $700; St. Mary's, North Devon, $700; Newcastle and Nelson, $542; Cambridge, $533.80; Dalhousie, $499.50; Petitcodiac, $421; Kingsclear, $355; Kingston, $342; Hammond River, $331; Rothesay College, $320; Westmorland, $300; Upham, $260; Gladstone and Blissville, $245; Point du Chene (Shediac town), $244; Richibucto, $226.50; Waterford and St. Mark's, $200; Gordon and Lorne, $175; Drummond, $168; Johnston, $140; Burton and Maugerville, $137.90; Springfield, $125; Canterbury Station, $118; Oak Bay, Charlotte County, $75; Queensbury and Southampton, $38.50; Musquash, $25. Total, $112,470.83.

Baptist Returns.

A telegram from Rev. H. G. DeWolfe, of Wolfville, received last night stated that New Brunswick Baptists had contributed $93,000; Nova Scotia, $118,000, and Prince Edward Island, $5,300. There are still more than fifty churches to hear from in the three provinces.

THE VERY SUM AND SUBSTANCE OF SERVICE

You can get insurance as easy as "rolling off of a log." But stop and think. The agency you buy it of is a great factor in the case.

You want insurance, yes. Also you want insurance that performs every promise and reimburses every loss. Still, there's something else to which you are entitled. It is the everyday interest, help and advice of the agency that writes your policy. Such assistance is invaluable. It reduces rates and sees that everything is shipshape.

This agency practices these principles in the interests of every policyholder. Prove it for yourself.

THE LIGHTER SIDE OF LIFE

The Egg Circle.

Country Boarder—I suppose we'll be getting some of the nice fresh eggs for breakfast.

Farmer—Yep; these very eggs, but not till ye come down here next year. Ye see, I've got to sell them to the local commission man, and he sells them to the jobber in the city, who in turn sells them back here to the fellow who runs the country grocery, and I buy them from him.

He Doesn't Know It Either.

"She doesn't know the value of a dollar."

"Well, I wouldn't criticize her for that. I'm not sure myself whether a dollar is worth 30 or 40 cents nowadays."

Real Trouble.

"It's come at last," sobbed the lovely bride of a month—"the first quarrel."

Feminine Financier.

Wife—I got this coat with the money I had saved up for my new dress.

Hub—Going to do without the dress, eh?

Wife—Oh, no; the dressmaker delivered that yesterday.

Good Prescriptions at That.

"I shall never call that doctor again."

"What's the matter? Didn't his advice suit you?"

"Not at all. It was insulting."

"In what way?"

"He had the affrontory to suggest that it would do me a lot of good if I'd quit taking life easy and go to work."

Placing Him

"Pa, who was Darwin?"

"Darwin, my son, was the man who declared that if you climb far enough up into your family tree you will come face to face with a monkey."

Fairly So

"Did you follow the diet I advised?"

"Yes, doctor."

"Religiously?"

"Why, tolerably so. I said grace about three times out of five. I should guess."

Beginning and End.

Mrs. Bacon — "Do you remember the night you proposed marriage to me, Henry?"

Mr. Bacon—"Oh, yes, very well, indeed."

"I just hung my head and said nothing, didn't I?"

"You did; and that was the last time I ever saw you that way."

Inevitable Question.

Lady Voter—"Where did you get that ripping hat?"

Suspicious Circumstance.

"Henry, while we were calling on the Jibways I saw Mr. Jibway make a peculiar sign to you and shortly afterward both of you hurriedly excused yourselves."

"Why—er—yes, my dear. John Jibway wished me to step into the library where he had some old volumes to show me. You know, I have a taste for books."

"Yes, Henry. I dare say your taste was highly gratified. I heard a loud smacking of lips and then you exclaimed, 'Ah! That's the stuff!'"

FROM THE PEOPLE

WHY WOMEN SHOULD MAKE MARRIAGE PROPOSALS.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

1. Because she is more vitally interested in the marriage contract than man.

2. Because some women are weak minded enough to marry the wrong man for lack of courage to propose to the men they really love.

3. Because woman has proved she is man's equal in almost every walk of life.

4. Woman has become a bread winner; she need not marry for a home.

5. Because there are many rich women who would become the happy brides of poor but worthy young men, who are too shy to propose, for fear of being considered mercenary. Yes, class distinction, and old tradition comes in.

6. Because many great men who are determined bachelors could be won to matrimony by the right woman, to the advantage of the world.

7. Because the rate of happy marriages would be doubled and the rate of unhappy ones halved.

But let me add that if a woman promises to marry a man, then backs out, she should be sued, the same as a man, for breach of promise—both should stand equal before the law.

Now let us hear from the women on this matter.

Yours,
A PROSPECT.

Fredericton, N. B., Feb. 21, 1920.

A CLEAN MIND WILL SLEEP.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Anybody suffering from insomnia has my sympathy as I went through that hell a year or so ago.

First of all a self-questioning must take place to find out what part hatred, envy or malice has to do with his sleeplessness. If through this self-questioning he will admit to himself that one of these is responsible for his condition he must pray to God for a change of thought, and by determination on his part his will power will become master of his mind.

Rise in the morning at a certain time no matter what the weather, and after five minutes' setting up exercise take a sponge bath just as cold as it comes from the faucet. This is a splendid thing for the nerves. Rub vigorously with a rough towel, and after breakfast walk part of the way to business. Eat plain, nutritious food, drink plenty of milk and plenty of water; give up coffee and tea and stop smoking. In the evening after a light supper walk for an hour, rain or shine, preferably in the suburbs, for the will to do it will greatly aid to recovery.

Retire at 10 o'clock at the latest; sleeping in a room with windows all open. Saturday afternoons and Sunday mornings take long walks, returning in time for dinner. Read some interesting books of travel, history or adventure and spend Sunday afternoon with some jovial and cheerful friends.

Live and think cleanly and try to do a good turn every day and your ease of mind will return and be wonderful and tranquil.

Yours,
PRACTICAL SYMPATHY.

St. Stephen, N. B., Feb. 20, 1920.

HOW CAN THIS GIRL MAKE

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I am much interested in your From the People column and find it a tremendous help in my everyday life. I have a great problem before me which I wish to put before the readers of The Gleaner, who have helped so many girls of my type who also have been distressed.

I am just 20 and have been brought up in the ideal home, carefully watched by my mother and father and guided by their loving advice, but now find that they are prejudiced and so need the candid opinion of others on this question.

I love a man dearly. He has only one fault. That is shyness. How can I make him propose? It is necessary to the happiness of us both that this should happen soon. He appears when in my company to be fond of me and often seems to attempt to overcome his bashfulness but is unsuccessful? Is this sincere? Or is this affected?

In case anyone suggests that it is leap year I wish to mention that I am greatly opposed to this method as I might find it embarrassing later on.

I must know soon how I can bring this situation to an end. Dear readers, I beg your kind advice.

Yours,
DISTRESSED.

PRICE OF FUR IS AGAIN ADVANCING

New York, Feb. 20.—Lynx vied with Russian sable and chinchilla for first honors at the fur sale in the Masonic Hall here today, the best lynx, due to its scarcity, bringing $66. Five hundred and ten dollars was paid for the best Russian sable, with $170 to pay for chinchilla. Wild cat brought as high as $18 and showed an advance of fifty per cent. over all fall prices on the northern skins. Several varieties of Japanese and Australian furs were also sold today at good prices.

Grand total to date has reached five million, two hundred thousand dollars with four days' selling ahead.

REFINERS ASKING INCREASE IN SUGAR

Ask the Board of Commerce for Permission to Increase the Price Two Cents.

Montreal, Feb. 20.—A petition to be allowed to increase the price of sugar by two cents a pound, bringing the cost to the retailer to eighteen cents a pound, was made to the Board of Commerce this morning by the refining companies.

The refiners wanted the board to let them sell at sixteen cents a pound wholesale.

Judge Robson, of the Board of Commerce, promised that a decision would be handed down at an early date.

He remarked that Canada had been very fortunate in regard to sugar during the last five weeks, and had been one of the cheapest countries in the world in this respect.

In adjourning the hearing Judge Robson said that he knew the public would raise a protest to any increase in the price of sugar, but hoped the public would keep itself informed through the press reports of the board's meetings what causes were operating to make price increases compulsory.

VOTE A MILLION TO AID IN HOUSING

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 20—An appropriation of a million dollars from the funds of the province to meet the housing requirements of Manitoba during the current year, was announced by Hon. Edward Brown, Provincial Treasurer, during a debate in the Legislature this afternoon, upon a resolution of J. W. Wilton, calling upon the Government to submit legislation designed to enable the workers to build dwellings, to improve and repair houses, and to enable the workers to obtain the capital required for these purposes. The million, the Provincial Treasurer stated, would be in addition to a million available from the Federal grant.

WEDDINGS.

Alain-Leger.

A pretty wedding took place in the Church of the Sacred Heart, Bathurst, on Tuesday morning at 7.30, when Miss Mary Regina Leger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Leger, became the wife of Mr. J. Aurele Alain, manager of the Bathurst branch of the Provincial Bank of Canada. The bride was unattended and was given away by her father. She looked very pretty in a traveling costume of navy, hat of the same shade, and mink furs. The witnesses were Hon. P. J. Veniot and J. P. Leger.

TAYMOUTH, N. B.

Taymouth, N. B., Feb. 19.—The weather for the past few days has been rather stormy and the storms of late have caused the roads to be in a very poor condition for traffic.

Work of Local Branch.

At the annual meeting of the Red Cross Society in St. John yesterday the following mention was made to the work done by the Ashburnham Branch in this city: "The New Brunswick Military Hospital, Fredericton, with an average of 200 patients, has been efficiently looked after by the Ashburnham Branch of the Red Cross. Their committees have done most excellent work, visiting the hospital weekly, distributing magazines, fruit, flowers and any extra comforts desired by the men and have supplied the long list of articles requisitioned for. During the summer they spent $1,232.81 on the hospital. Of this amount $150 went towards supplying a library. Considerable expense was borne by the Earl of Ashburnham, through whose kindness over 500 returned soldiers were returned by motor from the trains to the hospital."

FOR THE MEN

The Biggest Advance in Shirt Convenience Since the Coat-Shirt.

W. G. & R. were the first people to introduce the Coat Shirt to the men of Canada.

Here is an improvement equally as good and one that all men will appreciate. When the Double-Wear Cuffs are soiled, turn them and get extra wear before sending to the laundry.

You will find these cuffs just as neat either side, and the cuff turns without a wrinkle or bulge—that's the convenience and the difference.

Try Making Your Own Cough Remedy

You can save about $2, and have a better remedy than the ready-made kind. Easily done.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is 16 ounces of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made and saves easily $2. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

RED BANK ICY BUT PURITAN

The Mayor Would Not Let the Soldiers Clean the City Streets on Sunday.

Red Bank, N. J., Feb. 20.—From the general appearance of things just now this town will not be thawed out of the snow and ice until the robins nest again or the baseball season is in full swing. If folks in New York think they are frozen in, they ought to see Red Bank. A lot of people are blaming the ironclad covering on Mayor Arthur Patterson.

Mayor Patterson might have turned Red Ban into a spotless town a week ago Sunday if he had not refused the offer of the commander of Camp Vail to send 100 soldiers here to clean up.

"No, no!" said Mayor Patterson, indignantly, "there shall be no work on Sunday in Red Bank."

The soldiers did not appear after being turned down, and no more kind offers of assistance came from the Commandant, who was acting in a spirit of gratefulness, since the Red Bank Fire Department had gone to the assistance of Camp Vail, three miles away, at Little Silver, N. J., when there was a fire there.

Things got worse all last week with no soldiers volunteering and nobody else appearing for work. On Sunday the chairman of the street committee, Howard Lippincott, got desperate and tried to make a showing. The Mayor again objected to Sunday work. Mr. Lippincott explained that the men were not working and asked the Mayor to take a look and see for himself.

"That's right," said the Mayor, watching the long drawn out movements of the alleged shovellers. "They are not working, that's sure."

"Well, they are drawing down $7.50 a day for it, whatever they are doing," said Mr. Lippincott rather testily.

"The idea of turning down those volunteers from Camp Vail a week ago; scandalous outrage!" was the sense of an indignation meeting held to see what could be done about the snow.

GERMAN PROCESS ARTIFICIAL WOOL

According to L'Exportateur Belge, there is considerable interest in Germany in a patent recently taken out on a process for the manufacture of artificial wool.

In principle, the process consists of compressing wool scraps which cannot be otherwise utilized—shreds, ends, short fibres, washing wastes, etc.—and soaking them in a viscous solution of cellulose or one of its compounds with a small percentage of glue; the product thus obtained is cut into thin sheets and strips, which can be treated after the canner of paper yarn. The Germans claim that yarn thus produced possesses all the properties of real wool. It is made waterproof by treating it in the process of manufacture with compounds of chromium and later with formaldehyde and tannin, after which the product will resist the action of boiling water. The addition of glycerine gives it sufficient flexibility.

This process is now being modified by the mixture with the woollen waste of a certain percentage of paper pulp and treating the product with sulphuric acid and zinc chloride. The addition of various other compounds gives it the necessary flexibility and makes it waterproof.

20 AMERICANS IN PERIL IN SYRIA

Anxiety Felt for Party Near Aleppo—Bandits Terrorizing the Country.

Constantinople, Feb. 20.—There is much uneasiness concerning the fate of 20 Americans at Marash, north of Aleppo, Turkey in Asia, where a reign of terror has existed since Jan. 21. Word was received from them on Feb. 1, when their food supply was short, and the Christian refugees were greatly alarmed. A message received Feb. 13, however, seemed to indicate all were safe.

In occupying Cilicia the French troops frequently took over American mission properties and schools, which were the best buildings and the easiest to defend. Consequently, the Americans were regarded by the Turks as Frenchmen. There have been many conflicts between the French occupying the district and the Turks. The French are using Armenian and Senegalese troops, which apparently has excited hostility among the Moslem tribes.

Rustem Bey, nationalist delegate from Angora, told the correspondent that James Perry and Frank S. Johnson, representatives of the American Y. M. C. A., killed recently near Aintab, were mistaken for Frenchmen by natives, who had no grievance against Americans. He declared that Americans were not in danger in Anatolia and Cilicia if properly distinguished from the French.

Rustem Bey said that the trouble at Marash started through a controversy between Armenians and Turks, eventually involving the native tribes in a siege of the town.

The American committee for relief in the near East today received a message dated Feb. 13 from its offices at Adana, Asiatic Turkey, which was construed to mean that all the Americans had escaped from Marash (northeast of Adana and north of Aleppo) southward to Islahie, which is on the railroad. The message says:

"Information this morning is that the personnel of 2,000 refugees retired to Islahie with Col. Normand. There was extreme destitution and many were sick or wounded. There is no information from Aintab or Madjin. The situation is serious."

In Siam some of the women intrust their children to the care of elephant nurses, and it is said that the trust is never betrayed. The babies play about the huge feet of the elephants, who are very careful never to hurt their little charges.

JUVENILE CRIME DISTURBS ST. JOHN

St. John, Feb. 20.—The police believe they have rounded up a gang of juvenile criminals who are said to be responsible for an epidemic of purse snatching which has been prevalent here recently. Yesterday two of the gang, which are known as the "Co-Boys," among themselves, were given terms in the Reformatory, and two more who were arrested last night are said to have confessed to a long list of bag snatching and pocket picking escapades. The lads' ages range from nine to thirteen. The record of their misdemeanor totals an amount exceeding $200, the police say, and covers a period of about five years.

informed the Chief of the prisoner's condition, so that he could have been removed sooner under the care of his friends and the physician called and receive the attention which Dr. Morrison swore was required.

In the future any prisoner requiring the service of a physician should be permitted to call one personally, and if not in a fit physical condition to do so the police officer on duty should do so at the instance of the prisoner, or on his own motion if he feels that such attendance is reasonably required and necessary.

In this connection considerable evidence was given in respect to the use of the telephone in the guard room by prisoners, and Officer Yerxa swore that he had been instructed not to allow prisoners to use the telephone to communicate with their friends and thus convey information of their predicament. We cannot help but think that Officer Yeerxa, in view of the evidence given by the Chief of Police and other officers, must have misunderstood his instructions in this regard, but if he did not and the instructions were such as he understood them to be, then such instructions should be and they are hereby cancelled and the Chief of Police is hereby directed to issue fresh instructions to the force to allow any prisoner to use the telephone to communicate with his friends or his solicitor, if physically capable of so doing, and if not physically capable of so doing then the officer in charge, upon request of such prisoner, should so communicate. This privilege, however, should not degenerate into a license but should be confined to reasonable use, of which the officer in charge for the time being must be the sole judge.

Declare Chief Acted Within Reasonable Time.

With respect to the second charge, it may be observed that this charge is closely associated with the first. It is in effect that the Chief of Police showed discrimination against the prisoner in question in detaining him in confinement, although as alleged he had previously allowed other prisoners to be released under similar circumstances. We have had some difficulty in arriving at the conclusion on the question of discrimination. It is true that other prisoners have been released from time to time under similar circumstances. Having regard to the observations hereinbefore made on the question generally, we are of opinion that at first the Chief of Police did refuse to grant the request that the prisoner should be released and delivered to his friends to be taken care of upon making the usual deposit. It is not denied that the prisoner was drunk and therefore properly arrested. It was clearly established in evidence that he had given the police some difficulty earlier in the evening and that he had still earlier in the same evening on another occasion used some very violent language to the Chief of Police personally. At the time the request was made to the Chief of Police for the release of the prisoner, by the complainant, the Chief had not been advised of the prisoner's illness. He had only been locked up for about an hour and had not had time to sober off. In fact, at the time the request was made the Chief did not know of the arrest. It must further be borne in mind that on his way to the police station, after being called on account of the illness of the prisoner, one of the officers on duty warned the Chief not to be "bluffed by the Blairs." All these incidents no doubt influenced the mind of the Chief of Police in respect to the prisoner and caused him to act less quickly than he would otherwise have done, but when the Chief became fully advised of the facts he gave permission within a reasonable time for the prisoner's removal.

In our opinion the facts fall somewhat short of proving direct discrimination, although they may have a tendency that way.

We, therefore, find that, technically speaking, the charge filed in the matters involved in this investigation were not of a serious nature but a good purpose has been served in holding the investigation by clearly defining our opinion on the subject matters involved, and our ruling as to the power of the Police Commission and the Chief of Police with respect to arrest for drunkenness and his duty thereunder, and with respect to the jurisdiction of the Police Magistrate over all prisoners.

Speaking at the Twentieth Century Club at Boston the Ulster Delegates Now in America Declare They Were So Warned of the Doom that Awaited Them.

Boston, Feb. 20.—The "Ulster delegation," representing the Protestant churches of Ireland, fired its first gun in Boston at the Twentieth Century Club Saturday afternoon and had for its spokesman the Rev. C. Wesley Maguire and the Rev. Edward Hazelton, both of whom, amid rounds of applause from the members, gave reasons for opposing Irish independence and were unsparing in their denunciation of Reds in the two countries who, they said, were trying to make decent and orderly government in Ireland an impossibility.

A sensation came when Mr. Hazelton informed his audience that the members of the delegation had been threatened since reaching this country. He said they had been warned they would be blown up with bombs in the places where they stayed.

"Would Not Get Out Alive."

"Is it true," asked the Rev. W. H. van Allen, "that the lives of the speakers have been threatened since reaching America? If so, by whom, and were these threats made in connection with aspirations for freedom?" In replying for the delegation, Mr. Maguire said: "We have received letters telling us we would not get out alive; but they came from a section of the population that is not American. And when we had interruptions at our meetings, we realized that they were not coming from Americans, but from those who, while posing as American citizens, were really showing spite against England and trying to make trouble between that country and America."

When the question period came, Edward F. McSweeney put several questions, but had not proceeded far before it was discovered that he was not a member of the club and could not take part in the discussion, a ruling to that effect being made by the president of the organization, John Graham Brooks. Later a motion to admit non-members to question privileges was negatived by a considerable majority.

The subject of Irish independence was opened by Rev. Edward Hazelton. "Ireland," he said, "is a very small country, but it represents the greatest people on the face of the earth. We come to America as representatives of the Protestant churches of Ireland. We represent a minority, but we represent what I believe is the important minority of the country—really a majority of high morality, and I believe also of intellectual power, of progress and of thought. We have been sent because our country has been misrepresented in the United States for a great number of years, and we come to tell the truth.

"It has been said that Ireland as a whole desires an independent government—separation from the British Empire. That is a lie; 1,250,000 of us say 'No' and 'Never,' and we are determined—and never were more determined than now—to remain under the British government. Our successes have been achieved under British rule, and we refuse to be separated from that great Empire. They say that Ireland is overtaxed. Now Scotland, with a population about equal to our own, pays five times more for the imperial upkeep than we do. We actually pay one-fifth of what Scotland pays, and we get back in subsidies a great deal more than what we pay, especially towards reducing the price of our ordinary loaf of bread. The Sinn Feiner in every loaf he eats swallows three-pence of British coin, yet he has hardly finished his breakfast before he is villifying the British government.

Would Pay More.

"I believe that we are under-taxed and should pay more towards the upkeep of our great government, towards the army and navy, and towards the services needed to maintain a great empire like ours in its strength and integrity. It is said, again, that Ireland is under-represented. But every 40,000 Irishmen have a representative in the Imperial parliament, and it takes from 70,000 to 73,000 Englishmen to send a representative to the same House. In fact, you may say that we have two representatives from Ireland for every one they have from any other country under the Union Jack.

"For a long time Ireland has ruled Great Britain, and now a large majority of the Irish members refuse to take their seats. It is a fine thing for the country, for now some practical business will be done. They say that Ireland has been oppressed and that her industries have been destroyed. It is well for you to know that the British government has given the Irish people $700,000,000 to buy out the old landlords, and that in a few years the Irish farmers will be their own landlords. The British government has also given $30,000,000 for the building of homes for the Irish laborers, and they are to be let to these men for from 30 to 60 cents a week. The British government has been a grandmother to the Irish people, nursing and coddling and kissing Ireland until she is and obstreperous little thing. And the right way now is to turn her up and 'scut' her."

Ulster's Contribution.

"Nobody can be dogmatic about Ireland," said the Rev. C. Wesley Maguire, "until they have visited Ireland. Remember that if the Allies had adopted the motto, 'Sinn Fein' they would have lost the war. Few people have been more cruelly slandered and more ungratefully treated than the people this delegation represents. As long as that monument stands on Bunker Hill America must give a sympathetic hearing to the Ulster cause. We have nothing to apologize for in the matter of those stirring events in your land that brought about independence. The strongest blows for American freedom came from that section of your population which had migrated to America from Ulster. In the recent war our section sent as many men to the colors under a system of voluntary recruiting as would have had to go under a draft. In our shipyards we had 50,000 men working night and day, and there was never a single strike among them in those four and a half years.

"Admiral Sims has told me how he had to use his best officers to prevent treasonable communications between Sinn Feiners and Germany. Those men said they were striking for freedom, but they were striking in concert with Germany on German money to do German work, and I can prove it.

"When the Irish rebellion came it simply kept 50,000 troops in Ireland and did exactly what Germany wanted. The gold which afterwards appeared in Ireland had been exacted by Germany from France in 1870-71, and it was smuggled into Ireland to bribe the so-called apostles of liberty to do the dirty work of Germany. Do you wonder that we Ulster people refuse to subject our lives to men who had such a distorted view of liberty that they could stain their hands with German gold?

Coercion for Lawbreakers.

"The only coercion exercised in Ireland today is for those who break the law, and I don't know that I have to apologize for the coercion of lawbreakers. Lincoln coerced the South, and are you not coercing the Reds today? These people are Reds. The Bolsheviki are raising their heads in every country and Ireland is no exception. They have this in common with the Bolsheviki, that they are trying to make decent and orderly government an impossibility"

Alexander F. Whyte, English publicist and former private secretary to Winston Churchill, gave a talk on the relations between England and America and urged closer co-operation of the English-speaking peoples in the interest of the whole world. "The challenge which the league of nations presents to us today," he said, "is to carry our experience in the domestic sphere into the international sphere and prove in the long run that you can establish an international community for the preservation of peace and justice."

Paradoxical though it may seem, it's the idle tongue that works overtime.

President of the National Hockey League Rules on N.B.H.L. Tied Game

Frank Calder's Ruling Sustains Opinion Given Yesterday in The Gleaner—No Pretext Under Which Marysville-Chatham Game Could Be Re-played—Championship Must Be Settled on Points, a Win Counting Two and a Draw One.

"If at the end of a full game two teams are tied, they continue the game until a goal is scored up to a limit of twenty minutes overtime. If the score is then still tied, the match is drawn. In the standing a win counts for two points, a draw one."

AGREEMENT OF TEAMS WILL HAVE TO STAND

The above is ruling of President Frank Calder of the National Hockey League, who was asked through Geo. MacDonald, superintendent of the Canadian Press, Limited, to give an official ruling for The Gleaner on the situation caused in the New Brunswick Hockey League as a result of the game played by the Marysville and Chatham teams at the Arctic Rink, which the teams agreed to call a draw after battling through two overtime periods during which they were unable to break the tie.

All day yesterday The Gleaner was bombarded with telephone and other inquiries as to whether the game was to be replayed and when. Reports were circulated that large guarantees were being offered to have the teams play the game last night and some uninformed individual actually allowed such a story to slip into print. There is, however, no pretext under which the game can be replayed and the players of both clubs and their managers knew it within a short time after they had decided to call it a drawn game, although it is safe betting neither team realized what they were doing when they allowed the game to go as a draw before the usual twenty minutes of overtime had expired.

Chatham Should Have Taken Chance.

Chatham had everything to win and nothing to lose by continuing play until one side had scored or until the prescribed twenty minutes of overtime had been exhausted, but the fact of the matter is that nobody on the ice had an accurate knowledge of the provisions of the N.H.L. rules—under which the N.B.H.L. plays—when such an unexpected situation arose. As stated in The Gleaner yesterday points, not games won and lost, form the basis upon which the championship of the N.B.H.L. must be decided and, if the Fredericton team go to the North Shore and win both their games from Bathurst and Chatham, then Fredericton will have one more point than Chatham and the championship would rest with the local team. If Chatham had lost Thursday's game to Marysville they would have been just as well off insofar as their championship chances were concerned, so why did they not take the desperate chance and play for a win, which would practically have settled the possession of the Chestnut Cup?

Dates for Games Not Named Yet.

There can be only one answer to the question and it is because they didn't know the inside story of the situation and a more surprised party of young men were never seen than the Chatham players and their supporters when the true situation was unfolded for their benefit at the supper which the Fredericton and Marysville clubs gave after the fateful game. It may be that nothing much will come out of it all, but it at least gives added interest to the game which the Fredericton team will play at Chatham as well as their game with the Bathurst club. Instead of the championship being settled this week it is just as far away as ever and the crucial struggle will take place on the North Shore. So far no dates have been named for the trip and they probably won't be until the U.N.B. have played out their Intercollegiate League fixtures. Meanwhile the Fredericton club have an opportunity to obtain the services of some capable manager, which will insure the proper handling of their players in the games, and to get enough practice to whip Barnett, who when in shape should prove a most useful player, and one or two others into the top notch of physical condition. In justice to the players now figuring on the team such action is necessary and in order to retain the confidence of the followers of hockey no time should be lost.—J. D. B.

SKATING CAMPAIGN.

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 21.—Through his victory in the three-mile senior final yesterday, Everett McGowan, of St. Paul, won the International Amateur Ice Championship.

N.B.H.L. Standing on Points

The standing of the New Brunswick Hockey League based on points is herewith published for the first time, showing each win counting for two points and teams participating in drawn games credited with one point each:

	GAMES		GOALS
	Won	Lost	For	Against	Points
*Chatham	4	0	33	12	9
Fredericton	3	1	18	12	6
*Marysville	2	3	24	27	5
Bathurst	0	5	13	37	0

*Played tied game.

If Fredericton should win both games to be played on the North Shore they would have 10 points, while Chatham would wind up the season with 9 points.

PERTINENT COMMENT on SPORTING TOPICS

It's not all over yet.

Evident even the captains of teams don't know the rules they are playing under in the N. B. H. L.

Now the question is: Who is going to direct the playing of the Fredericton team on the ice in the closing games of the season.

Fredericton will probably demand that Frank Brown act as referee of the games which they will have to play on the North Shore. The game in Chatham should be a hummer.

A good many of the local fans insist that Chatham got one of their goals from an offside play in their game against Fredericton and that the local team scored a goal which Referee Staples disallowed, whereas the shooter had skated himself on-side.

Acadia's victory over Mount A. by a score of 11 to 5 at Wolfville on Thursday night makes it evident that the Acadians will give U. N. B. a lively time here next week. The tally also shows that Acadia has a real scoring machine, which will prove dangerous at any time. If U. N. B. players have any feelings of over-confidence they better lose them P. D. Q.

It was a most unfortunate occurrence that the weather on Wednesday and Thursday was such as to make it impossible for the two important N. B. H. L. games which the Chatham team played here had to be fought out on soft ice. While the games were fast it is easy to figure that they would have been much faster had the ice facilitated. However, the Chatham Hockey Club went away from here well satisfied with the way they had been treated by everybody, some of their spokesmen at the banquet on Thursday night declaring that Fredericton was the best sporting town in the Maritime Provinces. Not a bad reputation to get abroad, is it—J. D. B.

Crucial Games In National Hockey League on Tonight

Ottawas and St. Pats Sure to Provide Lively Game at Toronto.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Montreal, Feb. 21.—Ottawa and St. Patricks will meet for the second time in the second half of the schedule of the National Professional Hockey League at Toronto tonight.

This will be one of the most important games played by these teams during the second half, and will practically decide the honors of the series. St. Pats have the edge on Ottawa, as they are playing on their own ice, and also defeated Ottawa in their last meeting at Ottawa.

In the other game Canadiens play at Quebec. The French club will have the full squad in uniform and must show marked improvement on the play in the game against St. Pats here last Wednesday. Canadiens have been off color in their two last games, but may return to their best form tonight. A victory will keep them within challenging distance of the leaders, while a defeat will eliminate the club from the race for the title.

THE MARYSVILLE CURLERS COMING

Will Play Fredericton Club In Another Game of the Week-End Series.

Three rinks of Marysville curlers are expected to come here this evening to play three rinks of the local curlers. After the match last Saturday evening in which the Marysville knights of the broom put one over on the Fredericton curlers the two sides agreed to play the same rinks this evening to see if the scores would vary any.

The rinks as they will line up are.

Frank Brown Will Referee U.N.B.--Acadia Hockey Game In Fredericton Next Week

Fur Expected to Fly Because of the Strained Athletic Relations Between the Two Colleges as a Result of Last Fall's Football Dispute—U. N. B. Taking No Chances.

The final game of the western section of the intercollegiate Hockey League will be played here next Thursday night, when U. N. B. clashes with Acadia.

Although it may be necessary for U. N. B. to win this game to land the championship of the western section of the league, Captain Burgess intends ho have the Red and Black at their best for this game and try to go through the season without a defeat. Acadia has a strong team and also a good line of substitutes, who can be run into the game to relieve the regulars.

U. N. B. had to put up a hard fight in their first game with Acadia and escaped with a 3 to 2 victory after Acadia had made a strong come-back, scoring two goals in a few minutes before the close of the third period. Acadia will probably have the same lineup as they did in their first game and it may be assumed that, as sporting relations between the two universities are somewhat strained at the present, the game will be a lively contest from the very start.

Before their game at Wolfville there was a dispute between the different factions at Acadia as to which an should play cover point. Dean Rogers, who was captain of their football team last fall and a brother of Dave Rogers, captain of the hockey team, had been chosen for the position. However, some of the students held a sort of an indignation meeting and forced the management to give the position to Fraser, who, according to the U. N. B. players, was the best man in the Acadia line-up. Acadia has two good wings in Capt. Dave Rogers and Beardsley, Rogers being responsible for both their goals. Tingley, at centre, was quite effective, and took advantage of the opportunity to "get" some of the U. N. B. players while playing in their own rink; but it is not likely that he will be so anxious to pull off any of his stunts when the Red and Blue come here next week.

The game will be handled by Frank Brown, of Moncton, who refereed the games in the Eastern Hockey League. He is regarded by many as the best referee in the Maritime Provinces and will have no trouble in keeping play under control.—R. H. D.

Acadia Won from Mount. A.

Wolfville, N. S., Feb. 20.—Acadia University team defeated Mt. Allison, 11 to 5, in the intercollegiate Hockey League game played here Thursday night. While the locals excelled in every department of the game, they did not have an easy time with their Sackville rivals and were forced to extend themselves. Captain Davy Rogers of Acadia, was, as usual, in fine form and he played a grand game. Edgett put up the best game for Mount Allison.

COHEN'S POKER PARTY IS RAIDED

New York, Feb. 20.—How a quiet poker game in an apartment in the Bronx in which four men were playing was broken up by three masked bandits early Sunday morning, who lined their victims up against the wall and stripped them of their winnings, amounting to more than $1,500, as well as every bit of jewelry on their persons, became known today when detectives from police headquarters were assigned to aid those of the Simpson street police station in hunting down the robbers.

A mild mannered youth, whose soft, drawling voice and menacing manner reminded the players of the bad men of the West of whom they had read in fiction, led the band. The fact that to gain entrance to the apartment the leader gave the name of a well known Longwood avenue merchant, and that it was evident he knew there was a poker game in progress make the police believe the robbers were close acquaintances of the men whom they made their victims.

Divorcees in Paris Line Up In Matrimonial Court With Many New Pleas in Actions

Courts Attract Much Interest Since Domestic Tangles Have Increased Rapidly and Families Are Being Reconstructed Everywhere.

Paris, Feb. 18.—Throngs in the divorce court of Paris are attracting much interest nowadays. Couples are not allowed to gather in the same room before facing the judge, as they might indulge in storm yinterviews. As a result Monsieur enters the judge's room from one side, and Madame from the other. Sometimes they go out together, reconciled, but it is a rare spectacle these days. Scarcely 10 per cent. achieve this harmonious settlement.

A crowd of women pressed to and fro in the women's ante-chamber. Few faces were sad. There was a noise like the flapping of sails; every woman was chattering volubly. A mother surrounded by three grown daughters was haranguing against the divorce "which permits the wife and children to be abandoned, for the convenience of the husband and his accomplice."

"I don't agree with you," replied a young woman. "I prefer to earn my own living and my daughter's too than to live with a man I despise."

"And when he drinks and gambles like mine," added a third, "the wife must support the household and feed the kids."

"Yes, but these formalities, these delays!" deplored another. "I've waited two years now. And I've lost the chance to make my life over again."

There was an outcry against this complaint.

"Haven't you been vaccinated yet?"

"All in the same sack."

"Me. I'm cured."

The lawyer of one of the women approached her.

"It's a curious scene, isn't it?" He smiled ironically. "It's worth seeing—at least once."

"Preferably when others are concerned," replied the woman.

A chic Madame, young and attractive, sat down, with her lawyer most attentive at her side.

"You seriously think he won't come?"

"That's my opinion."

"Then it will be a case by default."

"Without doubt."

'What luck!"

They Visit "Alimony Club."

"We're ahead of time," remarked the gallant attorney. "If we take a little stroll to the correctionelle we can see the husbands who haven't paid their alimony to their wives."

"Oh, that will be amusing!"

And the two robes disappeared, the lawyer's and his fair client's, while a modest woman awaiting her turn shrugged her shoulders deprecatingly. She went on arranging the stockings of her infant.

The crowd diminished. In the gallery where the two waiting rooms joined the file of women met that of the men marching towards the judge's door. In this narrow space the tide of about to be divorced folk swelled. The guard at the door had duties of intervention to perform now and then.

"Isn't the judge ever going to receive us?" complained another man. "I have a rendezvous at 5 o'clock."

At this a sharp voice cried out from the line of women and a fist was lifted toward the laborer.

"The loafer! . . . He'll never change."

Moustache No Sign.

A little blonde rose on her tiptoes in order to whisper to her neighbor: 'Look! There he is, mine, the dark one with the curling moustache."

"That's a bad sign! There's mine three rows away, see him? He's got a curly moustache too. And he beats me to a jelly."

"What would you say?' interrupted a third woman, "if you knew that my unhappiness began the day my husband cut off his moustache—and he had it in curls, too?'

But a noise of vehement discussion in the court room drowned the answer. A young woman glued her ear to the door panel.

"What manners!" cried the doorkeeper, pulling the curious listener away. "As if you hadn't done the same thing at home to trap your husband—"

"But sir—"

"Otherwise you wouldn't be here."

The door opened. A man came out, pale and embracing a little boy. He fled just in time, for his wife appeared sobbing.

"In two months I will be a mother . . . And he abandons me."

A sudden silence. Then the hurly-burly arose again.

Faust Reconciled Couple.

A new couple issued from the judge's chamber, arm in arm and with faces radiant. At the sight of them a wag shouted:

"He loves her, he loves her not!"

Other pleasantries followed in the wake of the reconciled couple.

"How it astonished me to think that this stranger might have become my companion for life! Nothing more At, it's a little thing. One imagines that divorce is accompanied by a complex psycholoical state, by heart-rendings and soul throbs. Cheap trash al lthat! You read it in books. But you don't divorce because you love no longer, but because you see that you were never loved, never truly loved. And a divorce—what good can that do?"

"He became intolerab." another was saying. "He got to the point where he insisted that I be reday for lunch at half-past eleven, because he had a business engagement—as if a woman of the world could dress herself in such a short time!"

Her companion raised her eyebrows, in sympathetic horror.

"And then," continued the outraged woman, "I could never get him to wear his dinner coat in the evening."

At that moment a heavily painted woman forced her way through the crowd as if wishing to create a sensation.

"It's frightful," she said in a voice from the fifth act, "it's frightful. I'll never see him again, never . . ."

She pulled out a handkerchief and began to tear it nervously.

"He deceived you?" asked a kindly soul.

"No, no," she returned, as if suddenly hurt, "it was me who deceived him."

INTERCOLLEGIATE SKI CONTESTS ON

Montreal, Feb. 20.—The first intercollegiate ski championships will be held this afternoon in which three United States colleges—Dartmouth, Middlebury and Vermont—will compete with McGill and Ottawa. The Canadian ski jumping contest will take place in which the representatives of the United States universities will also compete.

GAGETOWN, N. B.

Gagetown, N. B., Feb. 14.—On Friday evening last, at the home of Mrs. R. R. Reid, a number of friends gathered in honor of Mrs. Arthur Walter, nee Miss Pearl Babbitt, who served several years overseas as a nurse. After a valentine contest in which Miss Annie Dickie was the winner, the guests were asked to unwind a spider web which had been cleverly wound through the banister and led to a window seat, where each one in turn found a valentine. Mrs. Walter came last and found with her valentine a beautiful serving tray. Then the guests were asked to repair to the dining room, which was prettily decorated with valentines, cupids and red streamers. A very dainty luncheon was served. Mrs. H. B. Bridges poured while Mrs. R. R. Reid cut the ices. Miss Casswell and Miss Gladys Dickie served and Miss Nellie Bulyea replenished. Among those present were: Mrs. G. P. Rigby, Misses Grace Gilbert, Frances Casswell and Greta Rubins, Mrs. Hewlett Scovil, Misses Nellie Bulyea and Otty, Mrs. H. B. Bridges, Mrs. Harvey Weston, Mrs. William Belyea, Mrs. Masters (St. John), Miss Ella Simpson, the Misses Annie and Gladys Dickie, and Mrs. R. R. Reid.

The fortnightly meeting of the Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. N. H. Otty, on Thursday evening.

Dr. Arthur Walter, who has been the guest of Mrs. R. T. Babbitt for the past few weeks, has gone to the Narrows, where he expects to practice his profession.

True Knights of Faith

Over swung the great boom, and the cog trembled and quivered within five spear lengths of the breakers.

"She can scarce draw clear," cried Hawtayne, with his eyes from the sail to the seething line of foam. "May the holy Julian stand by us and the thrice-sainted Christopher!"

"If there be such peril, Sir Oliver," quoth Sir Nigel, "it would be very knightly and fitting that we should show our pennons. I pray you, Edricson, that you will command my guidon-bearer to put forward my banner."

"And sound the trumpets!", cried Sir Oliver. ("In manus tuas, Domine! I am in the keeping of James of Compostella, to whose shrine I shall make pilgrimage, and in whose honor I vow that I will eat a carp each year upon his feast-day. Mon Dieu, but the waves roar! How is it with us now, master-shipman?"

"We draw! We draw!" cried Hawtayne, with his eyes still fixed upon the foam which hissed under the very bulge of the side. "Ah, Holy Mother, be with us now!"

As he spoke the cog rasped along the edge of the reef, and a long white curling sheet of wood was planed off from her side from waist to poop by a jutting horn of the rock. At the same instant she lay suddenly over, the sail draw full, and she plunged seawards amid the shoutings of the seamen and the archer.

"The Virgin be praised!" cried the shipman, wiping his brow. "For this shall bell swing and candle burn when I see Southampton Water once more. Cheerily, my hearts! Pul yarely on the bowline!"

"By my soul! I would rather have a dry death," quoth Sir Oliver. "Though, Mort Dieu! I have eaten so many fish that it were but justice that the fish should eat me. Now i must back to the cabin, for I have matters there which crave my attention."

"Nay, Sir Oliver, you had best bide with us, and still show your ensign, Sir Nigel answered; "for, if I understand the matter aright, we have but turned from one danger to the other."

"Good Master Hawtayne," cried the boatswain, rushing aft, "the water comes in upon us apace. The waves have driven in the sail wherewith we strove to stop the hole." Ae he spoke the seamen came swarming on to the poop and the forecastle to avoid the torrent which poured through the huge leak into the waist. High above the roar of the wind and the clash of the sea rose the shrill half-human cries of the horses, as they found the water rising rapidly around them.

"Stop it from without!" cried Hawtayne, seizing the end of the wet sail with which the gap had been plugged. "Speedily, my hearts, or we are gone!" Swiftly they rove ropes to the corners, and then, rushing forward to the bows, they lowered them under the keel, and drew them tight in such a way that the sail should cover the outer face of the gap. The force of the rush of water was checked by this obstacle, but it still squirted plentifully from every side of it. At the sides the horses were above the belly, and in the centre a man from the poop could scarce touch the deck with a seven-foot spear. The cog lay lower in the water and the waves splashed freely over the weather bulwark.

"I fear that we can scarce bide upon this tack," criew Hawtayne; "and yet the ohtor will drive us on the rocks.'

"Might we not haul down sail and wait for better times," suggested Sir Nigel.

"Nay, we should drift upon the rocks. Thirty years have I been on the sea, and never yet in greater straits. Yet we are in the hands of the Saints."

"Of whom," cried Sir Oliver, "I look more particularly to St James of Compostella, who hath already befriended us this day, and on whose feast I hereby vow that I shall eat a second carp, if he will but interpose a second time."

The wrack had thickened to seaward, and the coast was but a blurred line. Two vague shadows in the offing showed where the galeasses rolled and tossed upon the great Atlantic rollers. Hawtayne looked wistfully in their direction.

"If they could but lie closer we might find safety, even should the cog founder. You will bear me out with good Master Witherton of Southampton that I have done all that a shipman might. It would be well that you should doff camail and greaves, Sir Nigel, for, by the black rood! it is like enough that we shall have to swim for it."

"Nay," said the little knight, "it would be scarce fitting that a cavalier should throw off his harness for the fear of every puff of wind and puddle of water. I would rather that my Company should gather round me here on the poop, where we might abide together whatever God may be pleased to send. But, certes, Master Hawtayne, for all that my sight is none of the best, it is not the first time that I have seen that headland upon the left."

The seaman shaded his eyes with his hand, and gazed earnestly through the haze and spray. Suddenly he threw up his arms, and shouted loud in his joy.

"'Tis the point of La Tremblade!" he cried. "I had not thought that we were as far as Oleron. The Gironde lies before us, and once over the bar, and under shelter of the Tour de Cordouan, all will be well with us. Veer again, my hearts, and bring her to try with the main course!"

The sail swung round once more, and the cog, battered and torn and well-nigh water-logged, staggered in for this haven of refuge. A bluff cape to the north and a long spit to the south marked the mouth of the noble river, with a low-lying island of silted sand in the centre, all shrouded and curtained by the spume of the breakers. A line of broken water traced the dangerous bar, which in clear day and balmy weather has cracked the back of many a tall ship.

"There is a channel," said Hawtayne, "which was shown to me by the Prince's own pilot. Mark yonder tree upon the bank, and see the tower which rises behind it. If these two be held in a line, even as we hold them now, it may be done, though our ship draws two good ells more than when she put forth."

"God speed you, Master Hawtayne!" cried Sir Oliver. "Twice have we come scathless out of peril, and now for the third time I commend me to the blessed James of Compostella, to whom I vow—"

"Nay, nay, old friend," whispered Sir Nigel. "You are like to bring a judgment upon us with these vows, which no living man could accomplish. Have I not already heard you vow to eat two carp in one day, and now you would venture upon a third"

"I pray that you will order the Company to lie down," criew Hawtayne, who had taken the tiller and was gazing ahead with a fixed eye. "In three minutes we shall either be lost or in safety."

Archers and seamen lay flat upon the deck, waiting in stolid silence for whatever fate might come. Hawtayne bent his weight upon the tiller, and crouched to see under the bellying sail. Sir Oliver and Sir Nigel stood erect with hands crossed in front of the poop. Down swoopied the great cog into the narrow channel which was the portal to safety. On either bow roared the shallow bar. Right ahead one small lane of black swirling water marked the pilot's course. But true was the eye and firm the hand which guided. A dull scraping came from beneath, the vessel quivered and shook, at the waist, at the quarter, and behind sounded that grim roaring of the waters, and with a plunge the yellow cog was over the bar and speeding swiftly up the broad and tranquil estuary of the Gironde.

An End to the Suffering!

It has been estimated that one out of every fifteen people in Canada use Gin Pills yearly, the annual sale being between 580,000 and 600,000 boxes and still increasing.

That these Gin Pill users have benefitted is evidenced by the immense number of letters which continually pour into our office, full of praise for Gin Pills and gratitude to us for perfecting the formula on which these excellent Pills are prepared. That formula was only achieved after profound study and patient experimenting. But it was well worth all the time and thought given it, for Gin Pills have done more to relieve pain and to prevent serious Kidney and Bladder Troubles than perhaps any other preparation that can be obtained.

Gin Pills FOR THE KIDNEYS

Mr. Frank Ide, a Pullman conductor, suffered intensely from pains in the groins, sore back and very severely from gravel and sediment. After taking Gin Pills, Mr. Ide wrote us:—

"The pain left me entirely. I have no trouble whatever in urinating and I feel as well as I ever did in my life. I recommend Gin Pills to everybody in any way troubled with kidneys or bladder."

Mrs. Milford, Galetta, Ont., writes concerning her husband thus:—

"After one dose of Gin Pills my husband found them exactly what he needed, and after taking two boxes he was completely cured." He had had backache and kidney trouble for a long time.

In writing for more Gin Pills Mrs. Grant, Woonsocket, R. I., says:—

"I am having good results from them. The doctor says I have consumption of the bladder. The pills seem to keep me comfortable."

Mrs. Percy, Halifax, N.S., after trying a sample sent for six boxes. She wrote:—

"Before I finished the third box I found myself for the first time in years perfectly free from pain—the pain did not return. I wish everybody who suffers from backache and kidney trouble would use Gin Pills. They are great."

If you suffer from pains in the groins or back, rheumatism, swollen ankles, stiff joints, gravel, constant headaches and lassitude, constipation and dizziness, take Gin Pills and nip the trouble in the bud. Send for free sample—or get a box from your druggist or dealer, 50c., with money-back guarantee. Act at once—delay is dangerous.

Thirty-five Placements.

Thirty-five people were placed in positions by the local branch of the Employment Service of Canada this week, of these twelve were returned soldiers. During the week eighty-six enquiries for general information were received.

Firemen Called.

The fire department responded to a still alarm yesterday afternoon about 5.30 o'clock from the residence of Henry Fosey, Smythe street. An overheated furnace pipe was the cause of the alarm, but no damage resulted.

A Baby Boy.

Mr. and Mrs. Emile Bourgeois are being congratulated on the arrival of a baby boy at their home, 279 Brunswick street. Mr. Bourgeois is a returned soldier, having gone overseas with the 55th Battalion and served with the 60th Battalion in France.

Held Snowshoe Tramp.

The B. Y. P. U. of the Brunswick Street Baptist Church held an enjoyable snowshoe tramp over Maryland Hill last evening, afterwards returning to the vestry of the church, where a social was held. Refreshments were served and a pleasant time spent. Mrs. J. E. Page, Miss McCain, Messrs. Patterson and Creed were the chaperones.

Plow Off Track.

The snowplough attached to the Gibson branch train of the C. P. R., which left here yesterday morning for Woodstock, left the track near Newburg Junction and delayed traffic for some hours. An engine was sent from Woodstock and the train got to Woodstock several hours late, leaving there at 8 o'clock last evening on the return trip to the city.

Women Willing to Help.

The committee of women representing the various women's organizations in the city met representatives of the Board of Health last evening and outlined a plan of what the various societies are willing to do in case of an outbreak of 'flu in the city. The members of the Health Board told the ladies they would report at the regular meeting of the Board and report back to them again.

'Flu Cases Reported Today.

F. L. Mallory, of St. Andrews, secretary of the Charlotte County Board of Health, reported this morning to the Public Health Department that seven additional cases of influenza had broken out over night in various parts of the county. Three additional cases were reported from St. Stephen, two from St. George, one from Black's Harbor, and one from Pennfield. There were no other cases reported in the provinces today.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas are occupying the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Palmer, Church street, during their trip to the West.

Students Gave Dialogue.

Last night the students had charge of the Young People's meeting at the George Street Baptist Church, Miss Reba Watt presiding. The students presented a missionary dialogue called Maladies and Their Remedies, which showed the flimsy excuses which are sometimes made against mission giving and work in the church. Miss Mona Mills was the specialist, who diagnosed and prescribed for the patients of Miss Harvey, who presented them in person; Miss Hopper was the nurse and and X-Ray operator. The others taking part were Misses Orissa Osborne, Lily Machum, Frances Horne, Lena Bartlett, Ian DeMerchant, Hagerman and Hallett. The evening was greatly enjoyed by all present.

M'MANUS BLOCK ON REGENT STREET IS SOLD AGAIN

Lawlor & Cain, Hardware Firm, to Occupy Premises After April 1st.

BIG CONCRETE WAREHOUSE WILL SOON BE ERECTED

Local Hotel Property May Be Bought for Conversion Into Picture Theatre.

The McManus brick building on Regent street, which was purchased a few months ago by Geo. R. Thompson, and is now occupied by him as a store, will on April 1st pass to Lawlor & Cain, hardware merchants, according to announcement made this morning by Joseph Cain.

Mr. Cain said that it had been decided to exercise an agreement for sale which he had recently completed with Mr. Thompson and under which the property would be transferred at the end of next month. While he declined to state the price involved, he admitted it was in the vicinity of $8,000.

The property consists of the brick building in which are two stores and a large tenement, while the lot runs through to the Barker House alley, and the intention is to erect a large concrete warehouse there which will adjoin the present building, giving ample accommodations for the firm's rapidly expanding business. It is understood that Mr. Cain's brother, Patrick Cain, is to be associated with him and that the business will be carried on by an incorporated stock company, which is about to be organized, and that for the coming year the present store on Queen street as well as the new one on Regent street will be maintained.

Several other important real estate deals in the city are now pending, including one involving the proposal of converting an hotel into a moving picture theatre, but so far no conclusion has been reached, although the property mentioned will probably change owners early next week.

Mysterious Accident in Local Railway Yard

George Bell is in Victoria Hospital with collar broken and severe contusions about the head which he received in some mysterious manner while at work in the C. P. R yards yesterday afternoon.

It is believed he was hit by moving cars which were being shunted in yards; but so far he has not revealed what happened, even to his physician, declaring he cannot remember.

POTATOES AT $6 IN MARKET TODAY

Buyers Still Holding Off for Lower Prices—Hens Speeding Up Egg Production.

The largest market for some weeks was that at Phoenix Square this morning, when an abundance of beef was offered for [illegible] Eggs and butter were also more plentiful than they have been and were somewhat cheaper as a result.

Potatoes were quite plentiful and were offered at $6 per barrel. There was not much demand at that price, as the opinion seemed to prevail that potatoes will be a lot cheaper in a few weeks' time.

The following were the prevailing prices:

Beef, per pound, 12 to 18 cents.
Veal, per pound, 14 to 23 cents.
Pork, per pound, 22 to 24 cents.
Fowl, per pound, 30 cents.
Butter, per pound, 65 to 70 cents.
Eggs, per dozen, 75 to 80 cents.
Potatoes, per barrel, $6.00.
Carrots, per barrel, $2.00.
Apples, per barrel, $4.00.
Wood, per load, $4.00 to $12.00.

THE POLICEMEN'S PAY.

No Action Taken Yesterday Because Chief Finley Was Unable to Attend Commission Meeting.

No action was taken by the Police Commission yesterday on the suggested increase in the pay of the sergeant and patrolmen of the Police Department.

At the conclusion of the meeting yesterday afternoon Ald. William McKay, the chairman, said that action in the matter of the policemen's pay as well as of securing summer uniforms for the force had been delayed because Chief of Police Finley was laid up with a cold and unable to be present.

To Conduct Short Course.

COLD FRIDAY IS RECALLED BY THIS WEEK'S WEATHER

Ex-Warden John Scott Tells of Conditions Before Memorable Day.

WILL BE 90 YEARS OLD ON MAY 13TH

Extreme Suffering of People 61 Years Ago When Weather Turned.

Just such weather as was experienced here Thursday and yesterday preceded the memorable Cold Friday of 61 years ago, said ex-Warden John Scott, one of the oldest men in York county, today.

To be exact, the Cold Friday fell on Feb. 9th, 1859, and the day preceding it a heavy rain set in early in the day, which terminated in a blizzard such as we had Thursday night, and the day following the Cold Friday was not quite as warm as yesterday.

When asked as to conditions prevailing after the Cold Friday, Mr. Scott said there were very heavy storms and deep snow until the spring, and in the woods it was even deeper after the Cold Friday than during the first of the winter, there having been no rain from November until February.

Speaking reminiscently of the memorable cold day, the old gentleman said he well remembers his brother going twice to the barn at the old home at The Barony, a distance of about 16 rods, and coming back to the house with his face frozen both times, and how when the cows were let out to water at a distance of about 30 rods, one of the cows had her udder frozen stiff. He also told of how on the night preceding the Cold Friday his brother, who had been out all day with the horses, decided, on standing them in the barn, to leave the harness on until it dried, but the harness was not taken off for two days as it remained frozen to the horses.

In those days the English mail was driven between Fredericton and Woodstock by stage coaches drawn by four horses. They crossed the river at the Half Way House, run by Solomon Howe. The horses were changed at Kingsclear, Eel River and Meductic. On the Cold Friday John Turner started from Fredericton with the mail, but only got a short distance up the Woodstock Road when he had to turn back, both ears being badly frostbitten. James Hamilton left Woodstock the same morning for Fredericton. With the wind at his back he was able to get to the Half Way House, but could go no further because of severe frost bites.

Mr. Scott will on May 13th have his 90th birthday and is hale and hearty, being smarter than many men twenty and thirty years younger.

FORMER SPEAKER NOT LIKELY TO BE IN LEGISLATURE

WAS OPERATED UPON FOR INTERNAL TROUBLE

Has Never Appeared in House Since Condemnatory Report Was Published.

Hon. William Currie, M. L. A., former Speaker of the New Brunswick Legislature and central figure in an investigation which was conducted by James Friel, K. C., one of the outcomes of which was his retirement from the Speakership, may not come back to the Legislature this year at all.

Shortly before the session of the House in 1919 the ex-Speaker was operated upon for a serious internal trouble, as a result of which he was not able to take up his duties during the session as a member for Restigouche and now, it is said, he is not likely to be on hand this year either.

This information comes from the coterie of North Shore politicians who have been in Fredericton this week, all of whom have been more or less closely associated with Mr. Currie politically. Not only one but several of them declared they didn't expect to see the ex-Speaker back in the House this year as a result of the continued critical condition of his health.

Last year politicians evinced much interest in whether Mr. Currie would appear in the House and what would be the result if he did because of the position in which he had been placed by the report of Commissioner Friel.

BRITAIN IS FUNDAMENTALLY SOUND

Sterling Exchange No Real Index of Britain's Position

British Had to Supply Credit Needs of Europe, Says Bankers

NOT BANKRUPT BY ANY MEANS

Britain is Owed Twice as Much as She Owes United States.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, Feb. 23.—Great Britain is fundamentally sound both financially and commercially, says the American Chamber of Commerce of London in a statement, referring to differences in the financial position of Great Britain and the continental European countries.

MESSAGE TO AMERICAN BUSINESS PUBLIC

The Chamber expresses the belief that the recent unprecedented drop in sterling exchange in the United States makes it particularly desirable that the best opinions on each side of the Atlantic concerning this question should be understood on the other side.

After a thorough discussion with the leaders of British finance, illuminated largely by the addresses of the chairmen of five leading British banks to their stockholders in annual meeting, the Chamber of Commerce has prepared a message to the American business public. The message reads as follows:

Monetary Centre of Europe.

"The collapse of the pound sterling in New York is no index to Great Britain's financial strength or weakness. London is today, as before the war, the monetary centre of Europe. With inadequate assistance from American credit in Europe, Great Britain has been forced to supply the credit needs of the continent as well as those of her own traders.

"Dollar exchange is really 'New York-Europe', not 'New York-London' exchange. Great Britain is neither bankrupt nor anywhere near it, although her external debt is larger than ever before in her history. This debt was incurred mainly to supply the needs of her continental Allies and she is owed approximately twice as much as she owes America. While the United States may fairly expect to collect all her British debt, Great Britain is preparing to write off fifty per cent. of her continental debt.

British Finance is Sound.

"In spite of these facts, British finance is in a fundamentally sound condition. Business men and workers are recovering from the demoralizing effects of the war. Their customary energy is reviving and British factories are increasing their output. According to estimates made public by one bank chairman the present year's exports will produce a profit of from $1,000,000,000 to $1,500,000,000. The expression, 'we are rounding the corner', is now heard on all sides. Neither British bankers nor the British government expect, or ask, further government or long term loans from the United States."

Germany Appeals to the Reparations Commission for Return of Funds Paid Over to Procure Essential Foodstuffs

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

BERLIN, Feb. 23.—The standing currency and exchange commission has requested the government to appeal to the reparation commission for funds out of the money Germany has already paid under the treaty order to procure absolutely essential food supplies and for economic needs.

The commission argues that Germany, with the utmost restriction of citizens, is becoming so impoverished under deprivation by the treaty of her colonies, territories and all wealth producing means, that she is threatened with the same fate as Austria.

The British Women Voters Have Changed the Complexion Of Various Constituencies

Politicians Are Puzzling Over the Result of the Wrekin Election, Where the Return of Charles Palmer Was a Political Surprise—A Freak Victory.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

London, Feb. 23.—Parliament this week will be busy with dull estimates, which, however, may produce some pronounced views concerning our permanent future military strength.

Sir Charles Henry, former member, was wealthy and paid great attention to the constituency. He held a seat as a coalitionist and was unopposed in the last general election, which happens everywhere occasionally. Chas. Palmer, the successful candidate, now brings Horatio Bottomley's independent party into the House of Commons.

The total strength of these two now equals the strength of the national party, consisting of Brigadier Page Croft and Sir Richard Cooper. All four give general, though constantly critical support to the Government. Palmer, indeed, in the course of the election avowed that he was not an enemy of the Government.

Another matter which this election, and also the Ashton result, brings forward is the extreme unreliability of the present day convassing, possibly due to the inclusion of women in the electorate. The canvassing in Ashton gave a hair's breadth between Liberal and Labor parties, with Coalition last, whereas the result showed the Liberals to be hopelessly outclassed. The Wrekin canvassing pointed to a Coalition success. The canvassers declare that it is the women who cause their calculations to go so wide. It is quite possible, therefore, that Paisley may hold a surprise on Wednesday, although the common prophet usually speaks of Asquith's majority as about a thousand.

WOMAN'S PART IN RECONSTRUCTION

Largely Responsible for Bettering of Social Conditions Through the Dominion.

Montreal, Feb. 23.—Mrs. R. F. McWilliams, of Winnipeg, speaking Saturday night at a special meeting of the alumnae society of McGill University, held at the Royal Victoria College, said that upon the men of the Dominion will fall the burden of the reconstruction work in Canada after the ravages of war, but the part of the women would be largely responsible for the bettering of social conditions and the maintenance of public welfare. Women of the western provinces had, she claimed, brought about legislation providing for better working conditions and better wages for the factory and department store employees of the west and in Manitoba alone $200,000 had been granted to provide mothers' pensions. She contrasted the refusal of Quebec to allow women to practice law here and the failure of women to secure the franchise in Quebec with the fact that women sat in several of the western legislatures and that a woman judge had been appointed in Manitoba.

CAKELESS DAYS FOR FRENCH PEOPLE

Cakes May Not Be Sold or Eaten on Tuesdays or Wednesdays Now.

Paris, Feb. 23.—The prefect, in an announcement making Tuesday and Wednesday of each week days on which cakes may not be sold or eaten, points out that persons who infringe the regulation render themselves liable to fines ranging as high as 1,000 francs and prison sentences of from one week to two months.

The announcement says that even bread with jam or other substance in which sugar is used is prohibited in restaurants or tea houses on "cakeless" days.

TRAIN DERAILED BUT NO FATALITIES

Powassan, Ont., Feb. 23.—The "National" train, bound for Winnipeg, left the track four miles from this place on Saturday. Although the engine and all the cars went off the rails they all remained upright, except the baggage car, which was thrown on its side. The train was going slowly at the time and none of the passengers received serious injury. After a few hours' delay the passengers were transferred to another train and continued on their journey.

Governor of Panama Decides that Use to Which Funds Were to Be Put Converted the Dance from a Social Into a Political Event.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Panama, Feb. 23.—Governor Harding last night prohibited the friends of Irish freedom from holding a dance at the Government Hotel, Tivoli, on the grounds that funds resulting from it would further the cause of the Irish Republic, thus converting a social into a political event. More than a thousand persons who were disappointed decided at a mass meeting to take legal action.

WIL COMPEL HUNS TO WORK EIGHT HOURS

Minister of Defence Declares He Will Put Down by Force Attempt for 6 Hour Day.

SUCH ACTION WOULD PARALYZE RAILWAYS

Will Have No Hesitation In Crushing Men with Hands at State's Throat.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Berlin, Feb. 23—Gustav Noske, Minister of Defence, in addressing the employers' council and socialist delegates at Hamburg, reiterate his previous statement that he would put down attempts on the part of the miners to introduce a six-hour day at this time or attempt to paralyze the railways.

"When thousands of railway men declare they hold the state's throat and can close it if they will, then I, as Minister of Defence, have no hesitation whatever in crushing them," he declared.

The Minister said he had instructed the directors of wharves to discharge immediately all men who did not want to work eight hours a day.

New York Claims to Be Biggest City in World

New York, Feb. 23.—The 1920 census will show New York to be the biggest city in the world, it is claimed. The results of the census, which will be available about March 15, will give the New York metropolitan district a population of 8,500,000, as against an estimated population of 7,500,000 for the metropolitan district of London.

The population of New York proper will be shown as between 6,500,000 and 7,000,000 as against 4,766,883 in 1910.

New York, Feb. 23.—Albert, King of the Belgians, has offered a challenge cup and $100,000 in prizes for winners of an international seaplane contest to be held in Antwerp next July, the Aero Club of America announced here Saturday.

The contest, which will include endurance trials, speed and tests for security in flight and on the water, will be open to two divisions of seaplanes, classed according to speed and power specifications.

FIRE FIGHTERS HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Montreal, Feb. 23.—What would have been the worst disaster in the history of the Montreal Fire Department was narrowly averted yesterday in a fire which totally destroyed a four-story factory on Delorimer avenue. The two top storys of the front wall fell into the avenue, carrying telegraph poles, transformers, wires and debris with them, and only their own nimbleness saved the lives of about fifty firemen who were fighting the flames.

Bolshevik Have Seized Murmansk

TAKE SHIPPING IN THE HARBOR

Only Vessel to Escape Was Riddled With Machine Gun Fire.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, Feb. 23.—Bolshevik forces have seized Murmansk and shipping in the harbor there, following a revolution which broke out at that port Saturday afternoon, according to a Lloyd's despatch from Vardo, Norway.

News of the capture was brought to Vardo by a Russian steamer from Murmansk in charge of two British and four Belgian officers. It was the only vessel to escape seizure, but was riddled with machine gun fire and the captain was wounded.

Murmansk is situated on the Murman or Kola, peninsula, jutting eastward from Finland and north of the White Sea. It is northwest of Archangel and across the White Sea from the district which was taken over by the Bolshevik last week. Last year Murmansk was the base of operations for Allied forces fighting the Bolshevik along the western shore of the White Sea.

ONLY INTENDED TO WOUND ERZBERGER

Man Who Shot German Minister Said to Be Suffering from Hallucination.

Berlin, Feb. 23.—"I was convinced that Erzberger was working for English money for private gain only," Ensign Von Hirschfield told the court at his trial Saturday when asked the motive which actuated his alleged attempt at murder upon the Minister of Finance. The young officer admitted that Dr. Karl Helfferich's pamphlet, "Away with Erzberger," served as one source of his information, while other acts such as Herr Erzberger's change of front on the question of annexation heightened his antipathy.

He described the method of his attack, repeatedly asserting that he had intended only to wound Erzberger so as to confine him to his bed for several weeks.

Alienists who examined Ensign Von Hirschfield pronounced his act "the deed of a fanatic suffering from hallucinations." He was sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment.

Dublin, Feb. 23.—Robert Barton, Sinn Fein member of parliament for East Whicklow, who was convicted February 12 on a charge that at Shillogh last year he made threats against Viscount French, Lord Lientenant of Ireland, and Frank Brooke, a member of the Lord Lieutenant's advisory council, has been sentenced to three years' penal seritude.

WEIGHTED WITH ROCKS IN RIVER

Sensation at Budapest Over Murder of Jewish Editor and Two Employees.

Budapest, Feb. 23.—The murder of the Jewish editor Somozyi, of the newspaper Nepszava, and two of his employees, a sub-editor and a poet, named Adelbert Vasco, has created a sensation here. The bodies were found in the Danube river, weighted with rocks. No clue to the murderers has yet been obtained.

Regret at the murders has been expressed by the national assembly. Socialistic organizations are disbanding, fearing that a similar fate will be dealt out to their leaders by secret terrorist societies.

"There is fierce fighting six miles east of Leticheff and also near Rostoff (Don region), where the enemy has started an advance."

SYRIAN GIRL HELD AT ELLIS ISLAND

Neglected to Provide Proper Passport to Enable Her to Reach Relatives.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York, Feb. 23.—Since the arrival of the steamship La Touraine on February 7, little Miss Mishnee Karam, a comely Syrian girl, has been waiting at Ellis Island to learn whether Canadian and American immigration authorities can agree to let her pass through the United States to join her mother and brother in Canada, or whether she must return to Egypt, where she has no one that cares for her.

Since the war the United States immigration regulations require that every incoming alien must have a passport from the Government under whose dominion the immigrant had lived. The passport must also be vized by the United States consul in the port of embarkation. Miss Karam in some way neglected or failed to get her pasport vized by the American consul at Havre, otherwise she would have been passed at Ellis Island and the Canadian officials would have taken her to the only surviving members of her family at Ottawa. At the death of her father in Syria, several years ago, the girl went to Egypt to take care of her grandmother, when the latter also died, the girl wanted to come to America and rejoin her home folks. Her mother has been in Canada a goood while and has married a well-to-do business man. Her brother, Bolos Karam, is also prosperous. The case has been appealed to Washington.

MUST LOWER UNITED STATES MEAT PRICES

Wholesale Prices Have Declined, But Retailers Still Demand the Old Rates.

THE PRICE OF MEAT FALLING FOR MONTHS

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Chicago, Feb. 23.—Retail meat dealers through the United States must reduce their prices as the wholesale price of meat decline or else submit their books to Federal agents for investigation of their profits.

This definition of the government's attitude was announced yesterday by Attorney General Palmer. Instructions to serve the notice on all retail meat dealers have been sent to every United States Attorney, he said.

"For three months the price of meat has been falling," said Mr. Palmer. "The retail dealers have claimed that their supplies were all stock purchased at the higher prices. The old stock should be exhausted by this time, and unless the price to the consumer comes down we will have to look into the question of the dealers' profits."

Mr. Palmer's pronouncement on the meat price situation follows the publication by the Institute of American Meat Packers of a bulletin announcing the practical cessation of foreign trade as a result of adverse exchange situation. Wholesale meat prices at the Chicago yards dropped to pre-war levels for some grades following the publication.

BIG GATHERINGS OF FARMERS IN B. C.

Three Agricultural Conferences Being Held at Victoria Simultaneously.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Victoria, B. C., Feb. 23.—Victoria will have the most important agricultural conferences held this week that have ever assembled here. They were in doubt until Saturday whether, in view of the health conditions, the meetings would be permitted, but definite assurance has been given that the gatherings will not be banned.

Today there will commence three gatherings simultaneously, the United Farmers of British Columbia, the Advisory Council of Farmers' Institutes, and the British Columbia Stock Breeders' Association. On Friday the Co-operative Societies' meetings will be held at the Empress Hotel, with addresses by leaders in the co-operative movement from Winnipeg and Seattle.

On Saturday afternoon the British Columbia locals of the United Grain Growers will hold a conference. This is the only private conference of the week.

The following societies and associations will be represented at the conferences held between February 24 and February 28:

Fruit Growers, 1,100 members; Stock Breeders, 325; Poultry Men, 305; Bee Keepers, 250; Dairymen, 350; Seed Growers, 150; Flock Masters, 123; Farmers' Institutes, 6,290; United Farmers, 787; total, 10,304.

The United Farmers now claim a membership of eighty locals with 3,000 members.

ANGLICANS HOLD THANKSGIVINGS

Diocese of Fredericton Now $25,000 Over Objective With More Coming.

Throughout the Diocese of Fredericton yesterday thanksgiving services were held in the Anglican churches as a result of the success which the Forward Movement Campaign met with.

At Christchurch Cathedral Very Rev. Dean Neales at the morning service announced that up to ate $6,505 had been reported as subscribed by the Forward Movement Committee of the Cathedral. The diocese had raised $115,000, which was $25,000 above the objective, and it was thought that when all returns were in the amount would be over one-third above the objective.

In the evening a thanksgiving service was held when His Lordsnip Bishop Richardson delivered an inspiring sermon. Special psalms and hymns were used, Major the Rev. E. B. Hooper intoned the service and the Te Deum was sung at the close.

At Christchurch Parish Church.

At Christchurch parish church Rev. J. W. Millidge, of St. John, occupied the pulpit at the morning service, choosing as his subject the Temptation of Our Lord in the Wilderness.

At the evening service Rev. A. F. Bate occupied the pulpit, speaking on the spiritual side of the great Forward Movement, and inciting his congregation to carry out that side of the work as well as they had responded to the financial campaign.

At St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

At St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Rev. J. S. Sutherland occupied the pulpit at both the morning and evening service. In the morning the pastor preached the second of a series of sermons on the Book of Judges, the subject being Gideon's Deliverance of Israel. Miss Edna Baird and D. D. Tees rendered an excellent duet.

At the evening service the subject chosen was A Threefold View of Life. An excellent duet was listened to from Miss Mildred Green and D. B. Flewelling.

At George Street Baptist Church.

Following up the suggestion of the Baptist Forward Movement Committee that the financial drive should lead up to special evangelistic efforts in the various churches, Rev. Z. L. Fash, the pastor of the George Street Baptist Church, on Sunday morning delivered an eloquent sermon on Seeking a Revival. The text which was chosen from Habakuk forms part of a prayer which has betn called Habukuk's Pindar Ode, majestic in diction and sublime in fact. In this text the prophet was urging the Children of Israel to seek a revival of religion, pure and undefiled.

The sermon was discussed under various heads, firstly: Seeking a Revival by Anticipation. Moses, Nehemiah, John Knox and David Livingstone, all prayed for a religious awakening, the pastor stated. The deep religion expressed by the prophet enabled him to do this. Was the present day church looking forward to this revival? The church could not be beaten any more than the British soldiers could, and God did not want His church to sound a retreat, but to sound, "Forward, March!" for the salvation of every lost soul. The church should anticipate a revival in its midst.

"God must build His temple," the pastor stated, "or we labor in vain. There are too many Christians with the sign 'to let' out as we sometimes see in our cities. As the turbine wheel must be properly placed to receive the impact of the water in the sluice, so must a Christian be underneath the power of God. George Fox, the great Quaker, said every Quaker should light the country for ten miles around by his own example; so should every Christian. The wonderful scope of the Prophet in relating the vision is seen in the fact that he recognizes the mercy as well as the wrath of God in a general revival.

"The final source of power is in the love of God. That will bring us to God in Heaven if we only let it.

"I give you the end of a golden string,
Only winded into a ball,
It will lead you in at Heaven's gate,
Built in Jerusalem's wall."

In the evening the pastor preached on the Attractive Power of Christ.

At Brunswick Street Baptist Church.

At the Btunswick Street Baptist Church, the pastor, Rev. G. C. Warren, occupied the pulpit at both services. In the morning he chose as his subject, The Geniality of Jesus, one of a series of sermons on The Emotions of Jesus. In the evening he spoke on the Descent of the Soul, the first of a series of three sermons on The Prodigal Son.

At the Salvation Army.

At the Salvation Army Citadel a large gathering were on hand to hear Adjutant Miller's address on: How Jesus Cares. Sister Storey of Moncton rendered an excellent solo, while one of the corps' cadets also sang a solo, playing her accompaniment on the guitar.

LATEST IDEA IN LIFE PRESERVER

New York Feb. 21.—A dry land life preserver is the latest idea of sailors in this port. Two tars from a ship in the harbor were stopped by customs officers as they were leaving the vessel this morning. Each wore a tin life-preserver around his waist and each tin belt contained about a gallon of whiskey. The life-preserving element of the belt was seized by the officers.

A SECRET CONSISTORY.

Inspector Wilson Talks On the Temperance Situation At the Methodist Church

In Sermon on Sunday Night He Said Temperance People Hope Referendum Will Take Place in Early Summer—Expect to Put an End to Inter-Provincial Shipments "For Private Use" and to Limit Number and Size of Prescriptions.

Rev. W. D. Wilson, provincial prohibition inspector, occupied the pulpit of the Methodist church last evening, speaking on The Present Temperance Situation in New Brunswick and in Canada.

After three years of prohibition the liquor business, he said, had still as much viciousness as ever. It had committed the greatest destruction the world has ever seen and would commit more destruction until it was done away with. In the Great War men had been killed at the rate of 1,500 a day, yet the liquor business in the United States alone had taken a toll of 2,000 men a day. Here the speaker quoted Dr. DeWitt Hillis as saying that millions of children had been born into the world damned, as it were, because of the tendency of the parents for liquor, and would become hewers of wood and drawers of water for this reason. There were men who would sell their very souls for liquor, the speaker stated, and yet, he said, statesmen constantly spoke of the benefits accrued from "this accursed business."

A short time ago two temperance representatives had left Ottawa, one going to the Eastern provinces and one to the West to interview the temperance workers concerning the referendums and to urge upon all the provinces the necessity of having the people present resolutions to their Legislatures asking the Dominion Government to bring on referendums and give the people a chance to vote on the interprovincial trade business. One province had already done this. In November, 1917, all interprovincial transportation for other than medicinal and sacramental purposes had been stopped. No sooner had this happened than agents of the liquor people flocked to Ottawa asking for a repeal of the order-in-council, and the results had been seen since the last day of 1919. Now carload after carload of liquor was being spread through the whole Dominion from Montreal and Quebec. Some people in those cities were becoming richer, while against this should be contrasted the poverty of some people in other provinces, which was becoming more marked. The transportation of liquor for beverage purposes should be shut off, and at present several provinces in the Dominion were waking up to this fact and taking steps to promote such legislation.

The Provincial Situation.

In the province of New Brunswick the people were confronted with a referendum. One section of the prohibition law stated that sometime after the war was over and after the prohibition law had had a trial, this province should have a referendum. Those responsible for the Act now knew that there were many points in the law that might profitably be changed, but the law had worked wonders, although it was now becoming old-fashioned. The speaker stated that before the prohibition law was passed duties on the liquor in some places amounted to $45,000, and since that time they had decreased in the same places to about $3,000. Slanders and insinuating remarks had been heard by him while he held his present position, but these he had counteracted with the satisfaction that he knew some day the liquor business and its friends would sink into oblivion.

At the recent Dominion conference men from every province had stated that unscrupulous doctors and druggists had ruined prohibition and had left the results of their efforts visible upon the multitude. One woman had stated that her husband obtained liquor and that it made no difference to her whether he got it from a saloon or from a druggist; he got it, and the traffic ought to be sopped. The only remedy was to take the liquor away from the druggists and, as had been done in Prince Edward Island, put it into the hands of men who were independent of any other business. The Chief Inspector stated he knew of one doctor who had written 267 prescriptions on Christmas Eve, but when he appeared in court his case was dismissed.

The hope of the temperance people was that the referendum in New Brunswick would come early in the summer and the majority, who would be Temperance people, would then be able to dictate what would be done with the druggists and doctors. The way to settle that question was to limit the amount of liquor and the number of prescriptions that a druggist or a doctor could give orders for and fill. Some doctors, he stated, were honorable messengers of God, while others were not. Twenty-five doctors in the province had been convicted and one of them five times, and such situation needed drastic remedies.

The speaker appealed to the congregation "to stand on the right side and by their consistency and prayers help the province of New Brunswick to be worthy of the great Dominion in which it held a prominent place." Canada, he said, held a promising place for the future, and she would be the crowning gem of this Empire of Nations if she could keep her politics and her life pure.

It will pay you in cream saved from $10 to $15 a cow every year over gravity skimming.

It will give you a heavier and better cream, the kind the creameryman wants, the kind that gives you more skim-milk for your stock.

It will last two to ten times as long as other cream separators. Figure it out for yourself and you will see why the De Laval is the most economical.

And added to it all is the immeasurable satisfaction of owning a machine that "works like a charm" 365 days in the year.

We know that when we sell you a De Laval we sell you a machine you'll be proud to own. We sell them on liberal terms. Come in and talk it over.

Asks $40,000 for Woodsman's Heart

Greenville, Me, Wife Sues Wealthy New York Woman, Alleging She Won Her Guide's Affections--Clouds Have Been Gathering for Some Years, it is Said.

Dover, Me., Feb. 21.—Mrs. Gertrude L. Turcott, of Greenville, wife of Peter Turcott, a guide, has brought suit for $40,000 against Mrs. Cornelia J. Nelson, of 609 West 113th street, New York, alleging alienatio nof her husband's effections. The writ is returnable at the March term of Supreme Judicial Court for Piscataquis county, to be held in this town.

The attorneys connected with the case are Phillips B. Gardner, of Bangor, and ex-Attorney General William R. Pattangall, of Augusta, for the plaintiff. Associated with them will be Boston and New York lawyers.

Mrs. Nelson, the defendant, is the wife of Thomas Nelson, of 609 West 113th street, New York city, having a summer home at 1228 Constant avenue, Peekskill, N. Y., where Mr. Nelson has been mayor. The Nelsons have a palatial summer residence on Moosehead Lake, where they spend from four to five months of the year. In connection with their camp they maintain a $25,000 gasoline yacht.

Peter Turcott, a handsome woodsman and guide, has been the private guide of Mrs. Nelson for the past few summers and has passed his winters also ni New York city in the employ of Mrs. Nelson. During the summer it has been the custom of the Nelsons to fish and hunt independently of each other, employing two guides.

It is alleged that clouds have been gathering in the household of the Turcotts for several years. Mrs. Turcott's entreaties to her husband to remain in Greenville during winters have been without avail. Her domestic troubles, she is said to have taken to Mr. Nelson without result.

During the last winter that her husband remained at home Mrs. Turcott alleges that he kept a large portrait of Mrs. Nelson on the bureau in his sleeping room. The Turcotts own a handsome little home in Greenville and are the parents of several children.

Telephone Service in N.Y. Relaxation of Dicipline, World-Wide Responsible

[New York Sun.]

The Public Service Commission's findings in its report to the State Assembly on telephone conditions in New York have a number of items of interest. There is no denial of deterioration in the service. But when it comes to explaining the cause of the trouble and telling how it can be remedied that is a more complex matter. The truest summing up of the situation is found in this paragraph:

An analysis of the causes of the breakdown of a service formerly regarded by the public as remarkably efficient and which was the pride of the company soon disclosed that no single remedy could be applied and that no combination of remedies could be made immediately effective. In order to restore the service to its former condition there must be applied the utmost efforts of the company, aided and stimulated by the commission for a considerable period of time.

The same thing might be said of railroads and other enterprises in which the public is vitally interested. For their weakness, as in the case of a rundown human constitution, there is no specific remedy, and only a quack will affirm that there is. The cure must come by way of slow, steady building up, by processes of nourishment and repair.

It is true the commission holds that the company might have sacrificed a larger part of its dividends to supply the extra cost of doing business in this difficult period. This may be so. But it is hard to see exactly where the line should be drawn when so many enterprises are taking large returns. It is not maintained that the profits of the telephone company are exorbitant. It is simply held that the owners should be willing to cut those profits for the public good.

The commission states that improvement has been made in the service. Some time will be required before the former efficiency can be restored. The company must do its part and the public must exercise a degree of patience.

The difficulty of securing operators is too obvious to need emphasis. The service has also suffered from a certain relaxation of discipline that pervades all enterprise since the war's close. Moreover, as the report recalls, the Government forbade plant development of telephone companies during the war and the results must be endured now. All this would not excuse any company from making its best efforts toward improvement. But the public, on the other hand, must not ask impossibilities.

PLANES TO SEEK SCHOOLS OF FISH

Washington, Feb. 21.—The Bureau of Fisheries plans to encourage fishing by airplane. The planes will be used to aid tuna and sardine fishermen in finding schools of fish. The use of aircraft to locate submarines during wartime gave the bureau the idea.

FIX UP WAR CLAIMS BRITISH SOLDIERS

New York, Feb. 21—Among the passengers on the steamer Carrillo, of the United Fruit Line, arriving here yesterday from Colombian and Canal Zone ports and Jamaica, was Captain John A. Ravenscroft, of the British War Office, on his way to Trinidad and the British West Indies to settle war claims of British soldiers who were recruited in those colonies and lost their lives while being transported from London to Egypt.

Capt. Ravenscroft has been in Jamaica settling similar claims.

TO EXPORT FLANNEL TO UNITED STATES

London, Feb. 21.—The Chronicle learns that a syndicate has purchased from the India office and the War office, between thirteen and fifteen million yards of flannel for £1,500,000. It is stated the flannel will be exported to the United States. A rumor was current in Bradford some time ago that a syndicate of West Riding manufacturers were negotiating such a transaction.

VANCOUVER DRY DOCK.

TRADE OF THE DOMINION.

The trade of Canada for the first month of the calendar year reached an aggregate value of $225,096,920, as against $199,096,153 for the corresponding month of the previous year, a gain of $26,000,000 or slightly more than twelve and a half per cent. These figures, taken by themselves, are satisfactory. The grand total is, however, somewhat below the December figure, which represented a gain of twenty-five per cent., exclusive of re-exported goods. Excluding the amount of foreign goods exported, which showed a decline of nearly $3,500,000 in January, it is found that the total of domestic exports and merchandise entered for consumption amounted to $221,528,023, an increase of nearly $31,500,000. The gain is almost wholly on the side of imports, exports having done little better than hold their own during the month, points out a contemporary. Exports of all agricultural and vegetable products increased, as did those of animals and their products, textiles, wood and paper. The losses were in chemicals, iron and steel, metals and minerals and in miscellaneous goods. Imports of both dutiable and free goods showed increases, with only one or two exceptions. Iron and steel and manufactures of iron and steel, entered free of duty, declined by nearly $5,500,000, while iron and steel imports, dutiable, increased by three millions. Imports of agricultural and vegetable products, animals and textiles, showed substantial gains, the imports of textiles subject to duty having more than doubled in the period. The increases having been most marked on the side of dutiable goods, there was a corresponding improvement in the revenue from customs imposts, the increase amounting to five and a half million dollars.

The returns for the ten months of the fiscal year, including January, exclusive of exports of foreign products, show a grand trade total of $1,894,315,997, an increase of $50,000,000. Imports increased in nearly all departments, the larger increases being shown in purchases of dutiable goods. Those of animal and vegetable foodstuffs, subject to duty, rose from sixty to one hundred millions, a movement which points to the prevalence of lower food prices in the United States than in Canada. Imports of textiles, dutiable, increased more than one hundred per cent. Imports under the head of miscellaneous in the dutiable list increased by nine and a half millions, but in the free list the decline under this head amounted to $46,500,000.

The exports of domestic products for the ten months fell below the record for the previous corresponding period, the amounts being $1,063,633,743 in 1919 and $1,059,794,049 in 1920, a decline of not quite four millions. Losses were sustained under the heads of chemicals and metals, while exports of miscellaneous goods dropped during the period from $235,885,010 to $62,430,613.

The balance of trade continues in favor of the Dominion, but the returns do not indicate a movement calculated to reduce the adverse balance in our trade with the United States. Domestic exports to all countries improved only slightly in January, and not sufficiently to prevent a decline in the ten months' record. Imports, on the other hand, have more than held their own, and increased substantially in January. As these represent, in large measure, the purchase of United States goods, the situation does not seem much more hopeful from the standpoint of exchange.

GERMAN WAR CRIMINALS.

In giving up their demand for the persons of the Germans charged with offences in connection with the war the Ally Governments have rid themselves of an ungrateful task, though an essential one. The Supreme Council has seized upon the offer of the present German Government to try the accused in a German court, as the likeliest way out.

The French, British and Belgian Governments have acted in the whole course of this matter under the compulsion of the fervent, widespread demand in each of their countries for punishment of the war-guilty. They now grasp at the chance to rid themselves of a task easily likely to bring odium, easily perverted into a gratification of passions under the mere guise of impartiality once intrusted to a court of victors. It may be that the Supreme Council should have accepted the task for all its difficulties, and encumbered as the Ally nations were with other troubles; for avoidance of judging accused enemies, the Governments had at least a plenty of purely selfish and practical reasons.

The world has feared that the German courts would whitewash the accused, if allowed to exercise jurisdiction over them. Perhaps that result will follow. If so, the German nation will have sacrificed deliberately a chance to start the regeneration of its repute abroad and its own self-respect. But perhaps Germany will give these men an approach to a fair trial. The opinion of a growing number of inhabitants disgusted with the revelations of turpitude in the German conduct of the war will demand honest justice upon the guilty. The Ebert Government has reason of interest for wanting to expose the militarist clique in all the malign ruthlessness of behavior that the trial and conviction of its heroes would disclose. Above all, consciousness of need to earn the confidence of other nations should inspire Germany to avoid the folly of a deliberate perversion of justice.

A fair German trial of the culprits would bring Germany a stronger Government and a higher standing in the opinion of the world. It would save the Allies from the risk of lowering their own repute as the champions of a just and dispassionate system of right. Finally it would do away with the theoretical difficulties as to what crimes, beyond the actual infractions of the accepted laws of war, could be brought, in the somewhat indefinite guise of "offences against humanity," before the court of but shadowy authority and responsibility to deal with such things.

The ex-Kaiser, as the chief among the men wanted for these higher misdeeds, so difficult to bring under any extant statute or jurisdiction as crimes, may remain under the protection of the Dutch flag, if the Government of the Netherlands chooses so to interpret the Council's finely balanced note dealing with his case. The note to Germany will afford Holland strong warrant for adopting this interpretation of the note to The Hague.

STATUS OF CANADA.

The semi-official announcement that legislation will be introduced at the coming session of Parliament defining a semi-diplomatic status for an independent Canadian representative at Washington is of first-rate national importance. It is important for two reasons (1) because the existing system of doing business with our United States neighbors through the circuitous and sometimes tortuous London route does not make for efficiency, and (2) because it marks the taking of another important step along the path of constitutional development.

The creation of a Canadian post at Washington which, presumably, will act independently of the British Embassy in regard to all matters of purely Canadian-United States concern, is being taken, there is reason to assume, with full British knowledge and consent. At all events, an exchange says, it is a step absolutely in line with sentiment of the leading minds of the Mother Country, as expressed by them on more than one notable occasion during the past couple of years; and the most timid mind regarding Imperial relations need have no fear as to its consequences.

Among the many advantages such an arrangement will have, not the least, we believe, will be that it will fasten upon the United States consciousness a clearer realization of the constitutional position of the Dominion. Despite the proximity of the two countries, despite their intimate relations in matter of trade and social intercourse, the amount of United States ignorance as to our international and Imperial status is, as revealed by recent debates in Congress, appalling. This ignorance was not likely to be made less by the maintenance of a condition which made it necessary that even our recent protest in respect of our status as a nation in the League had to be sent via London. But a Canadian representative at Washington, dealing directly with the authorities, ought to make a difference.

SEEK TO AMEND TEMPERANCE ACT

Effort to Have Three-Fifths Majority in Referendum Before Act Enforced.

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—During the coming session an attempt wil be made to have the Canada Temperance Act amended so that prohibition will not go into effect in any provincial area until a referendum on the question shows a three-fifths majority in favor of the bone dry regime. The Government, it is alleged, will not make it a party matter, and unionist opposition and cross-bencher alike can express their real sentiments. Manitoba has asked for a referendum under the act, and Alberta and Saskatchewan also want one. If the proposed amendment should carry it would practically have the effect of rendering the whole bill invalid as legislatures would not ask so quickly for referendums when it would be so difficult to pass it.

MUCH SICKNESS ABOUT MARYSVILLE

Many Citizens Confined to Homes by Severe Colds and Other Afflictions.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Marysville, Feb. 23.—There was a large congregation present at the evening service of the Methodist church on Sunday to hear the pastor, Rev. J. J. Pinkerton's sermon. His subject was, What I Would Do If I Were 21 Again. The address was for the benefit of young men of 21 or thereabouts and there was a large number of them present. Those who listened to the speaker's statements could not help being benefitted by the admonition and advice they contained.

Miss Helen Flood, of St. John, was the week-end guest of Miss Stella Clayton.

Mrs. J. W. Rawlings and little daughter, Sadie, of St. John, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Davidson, Allen street.

Mrs. Samuel J. Hallett is confined to her home, suffering from the after effects of having teeth extracted.

Mrs. Samuel Arnold is confined to her home with a severe cold.

Mrs. Hayward Brown, who has been ill with a bad cold, is now somewhat improved.

Rev. P. J. Trafton, of Fredericton, preached at the Reformed Baptist church Sunday afternoon, in the absence of the pastor, Rev. E. W. Lester, who is in Nova Scotia conducting special religious services.

M. F. Reid has been confined to his room for the past week with a severe cold, but is now recovering.

The scholars of Mrs. Stella Cochrane's room will hold their annual sleigh drive Saturday afternoon, weather permitting. After the drive the party will be entertained in Castle Hall for a time.

Master James F. Inch is still confined to his room and, although suffering severely at times, the little chap is very bright and cheerful, and hopes soon to rejoin his playmates.

A dispute over a broken dinner pail that looked at one time as being a matter to be settled in court, has been amicably settled by the parties interested without the aid of the law.

B. Bruce Pincombe left for Edmundston Saturday evening after visiting his parents, Major and Mrs. C. G. Pincombe.

Mrs. J. G. Dickinson has been suffering from a severe cold for several days but is now improving.

Rev. J. J. Pinkerton announced Sunday evening that the Marysville Methodist church had raised $1,200 in the Forward Movement campaign.

We hear of several of who have decided to abstain from smoking cigarettes, eating chocolates and other luxuries during the Lenten season. They are being watched with keen interest by their friends.

Mrs. William A. Moore's condition is steadily improving, but it will be some time before she is able to move about very much.

FIRE AT MONCTON.

Moncton, N. B., Feb. 22—Fire which broke out shortly before six o'clock last evening in John Abrams & Sons' machine shop in Foundry street, completely destroyed the moulding shop, burned practically all the concern's stock of patterns and caused damage estimated at about $20,000.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Susan E. MacAllister.

Newcastle, N. B., Feb. 21.— The death of Mrs. Susan E. MacAllister, widow of the late John MacAllister, one of the oldest and most respected residents of the Miramichi, occurred yesterday afternoon at her home here, at the age of 85 years. Deceased before marriage was a Miss Wasson, and was born at Blissfield, in this county. Four of her six children survive, Annie (Mrs. L. H. Seely), Coeur D'Alene, Idaho; Ella (Mrs. S. H. Mitchell), Phoenix, Arizona; John, and Miss Clara, at home.

David MacKenzie.

Newcastle, N. B., Feb. 21.— The death of David MacKenzie, a native of Blackville, who went to Saskatchewan a year ago last summer to reside with his son, Isaac, occurred on the 13th instant, at the age of 80 years. He leaves four sons, Isaac and Melvin, in Saskatchewan; John, of Gorham, N. H.; and Gregory, in the West; also one brother, John MacKenzie, of Blackville. Deceased married Miss Jane McGregor, of Millerton, who predeceased him by six years. The body was brought home for interment at Millerton.

Byron R. Grant.

Bathurst, N. B., Feb. 19.—Byron R Grant, a former mechanical foreman in the pulp mill here, died suddenly at Temiskaming, Que., on Saturday last and was buried here on Tuesday, the 17th instant, from the residence of his wife's father, Mr. Robert Loane.

IN OPEN REVOLT OVER PROHIBITION

Chicago, Feb. 22.—"Declaring Iron county, Michigan, in open revolt against federal authority, Major A. L. Dalrymple, federal prohibition director for the central states, telephoned Washington this afternoon asking that warrants be obtained from Attorney-General Palmer for the arrest of the states' attorney of Iron county, two deputy sheriffs, two police officers and three wealthy residents of Iron River. Assistant Prohibition Director Gaylord, at Washington, promised to communicate with Palmer at once.

Leo J. Grove, supervising prohibition agent for northern Michigan, reached Chicago today with the report that he had been held up by the Iron county officials while seizing contraband liquor and eleven barrels of confiscated wine taken from him. The attack on Grove, who was accompanied by three Michigan state constables, was led by State's Attorney H. A. McDonough, of Iron county. The attack, Grove reported, occurred on February 19.

Accompanied by Lieutenant R. G. Stropo and Troopers Masters and King of the Michigan state constabulary, he had seized eleven barrels of raisin wine at the Virgil Location, a mine property near Iron river, when the county and city officials appeared overpowered him and his aids.

Maor Dalrymple announced he would lead an armed expedition of dry agents and Michigan state police to Iron river to clean up the county.

Full Authority.

Washington, Feb. 22.—State and district prohibition constables have ample power under the Volstead prohibition enforcement act to deal with the rebellion against prohibition in Iron county, Michigan, officials here declare. It is predicted that the outbreak will be short lived.

The outbreak is probably the first of its kind in the United States although bearing a resemblance to the historical "whiskey rebellion" of President Washington's first term, when bands of farmers in western Pennsylvania took steps to arrest the excise taxes, then an innovation. Tax collectors and citizens who sympathized with them were tarred and feathered.

OPPOSUM FUR IN BIG DEMAND

Pelts Brought $15 Each, World's High Record for that Grade of Fur.

New York, Feb. 21.—A new world's record high price for oppossum was paid at the fur auction in the Masonic Hall here today when long dark Tasmanian skins brought fifteen dollars each. The cheapest brought three dollars and eighty cents each, and the average prices received showed an advance of one hundred per cent. over those obtained for Tasmanian skins here at the fall auction of the New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation. Australian oppossum advanced sixty-five per cent. over fall, and brought prices ranging from one dollar and a half to six dollars and seventy cents. The range of wolf prices was from four dollars each to sixty dollars each. Total sales for the day were one million, five hundred thousand dollars. The grand total, with three days to go is six million, seven hundred thousand dollars.

Just One More.

The Human Encyclopedia had answered more than 10,0000 questions correctly and was about to retire, when a man in the rear of the hall shouted:

"Just one more question, please?"

"State your question, sir?" smiled the Human Encyclopedia confidently.

Changed Times.

"I was married when I was getting only $15 a week."

"Gee, whiz, Pa. Billy Green gets that and he's only an office boy."

Heavy Time.

Dobbs—"Time must hang heavily on your hands."

Nobby—"Why?"

Georgette and Tricotine.

"Nor I," asserted Tricotine. "Another girl invites people to your house for you to entertain."

Order of the Bath.

"Do you know what the Order of the Bath is?" the teacher asked Mickey.

"Sure, ma'am," replied the boy. "In our house it's a Katy, then me brudder, then me."

Not Necessary.

Mrs. Tompkins brought home a new girl from the intelligence office, and was instructing her in her duties.

"And do you have to be called in the morning?" she asked.

"I don't have to be, mum," replied the girl, hopefully, "unless you just happen to need me."

Everybody Stumped.

Parson (at christening)—"What name?"

Mother—"'Meliaranne, sir."

Parson—"H'm! How do you spell it?"

Mother—"Well, there, sir—I'm like yourself; I can't spell it, neither."

No Stuffing.

Mrs. Newbride—John, dear, I think that horrid butcher cheated me.

Husband—Why, my love?

Mrs. Newbride—Mecause he sold me a turkey that didn't have a blessed bit of stuffing in it.

A Trying Time.

"You look rather weary, old man."

"Yes; I've had rather a trying time the past week."

"Ill?"

"No; been on a jury."

The Judge Knows.

"Ever try an automobile, judge?" asked a friend.

"No," replied the judge, "but I've tried a lot who have."

FROM THE PEOPLE

THAT PERVERTED HISTORY.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I have been interested in the discussion of Myers' History in your columns from the beginning, but had no thought of taking part in it until now, when it seems to me to be going too far. I hope you will allow me to express the view that the loyal readers, old teachers, returned soldiers and indignant parents among your correspondents are tilting at a windmill. The new edition of the book in question is not authorized, and never has been authorized. If teachers, knowing this, use it in their classes, they cannot take the prescribed affidavit, and will therefore lose their government money. Whether the new edition is good or bad makes no difference. The essential fact is that it is unauthorized. It would be absurd to suppose that an authorized book could be changed in any way and the authorization not be affected. No one who thinks for a moment would entertain that notion. Any change cancels the authorization.

And the unfortunate circumstance that dealers have blundered in ordering the new edition and are offering it for sale makes no difference. The Chief Superintendent, however, deserves the thanks of both teachers and dealers for promptly trying to arrange matters without loss to the dealers as soon as the subject was brought to his attention.

Yours,
J. VROOM.

St. Stephen, Feb. 18, 1920.

[Our correspondent seems to lack comprehension. The objection of others, strenuously pressed, is that a chapter of perverted history added to an authorized text-book was readily—absolutely undisturbed in the process—slipped into the public schools to serve the youth of New Brunswick in their pursuit of knowledge of historical events. To the objection there have been added loud protests, strong criticism and sweeping condemnation; and the sincerity of purpose of the intelligent, public-spirited and prudent men and women who have participated is not questioned or doubted by others who think and who can foresee or recognize an unreasonable and a serious situation. To Mr. Vroom, of St. Stephen, however, all these thoughtful, earnest and loyal citizens, the returned soldiers who have taken a part, and the gentlemen, speaking and writing in the name of the societies and institutions they represent, are, Quixotic-like, tilting at a windmill. And he comes forward to instruct that the essential fact is the book is unauthorized. The fact that it is in the hands of the pupils to be used as a text-book is immaterial; the people are not to concern themselves about the process by which it reached the pupils, nor the indifference of the educational authorities and the inefficiency of the departmental organization which made it possible for the history poison to be passed on to the youth of this province. It is sufficient to know that the book is not authorized. A mob, bent on destruction, passed the guards, rushed through the gateway and onward. The violence committed is to be condoned, and the damage done justified, because the guards were not authorized to allow the gang to get beyond the gates!

Mr. Vroom is quite as absurd in his borrowed suggestion that teachers who use the book in their classes, knowing it to be unauthorized, will lose their government money. As people naturally assume, and properly so, that teachers in this province cannot be induced to use an unauthorized book as a text-book in their work, knowing it to be unauthorized, the suggestion is useless. For Mr. Vroom's information, however, it may be said that if a teacher persisted in defying the authority of the Board of Education he would be dismissed from the service.

But why does Mr. Vroom ignore the fact that the books were used in the classes, and used under the assumption that they were authorized? If he is not aware of the fact, it is presumption in him to attempt to advise, or to send forth his notions, on a subject of which he is without knowledge of the essentials. The authority to prescribe text-books for use in the schools of this province is vested only in the Board of Education, and that authority carries with it the obligation to preclude the use of any other than authorized books. When were the school teachers and the public notified that the latest edition of Myers' History is not authorized? Not until after months of service in this province. The latest edition was issued some time before last September, as a matter of fact upwards of five months ago; yet neither the Chief Superintendent nor any member of the Board of Education was sufficiently interested in his responsibilities to pass upon this editon and take action before the book reached the pupils and those of the public who are interested in authorized history. This is a serious situation to contemplate, serious as to the many possibilities, and serious in impairing public confidence in the administration of the affairs of education in this province. A thinking man, an independent man, a sane man will not attempt to justify what has happened.

The absurd suggestion of Mr. Vroom that the responsibility rests with blundering booksellers, reflects a trait of cowardice characteristic of men not at all times conscious of their limitations. In writing he may have yielded, as others have, to the importunities, the persistent pressing, of others interested in misleading the public mind. In that case, it should be regretted that he did not have stamina sufficient to enable him to resist.]

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—The appeals for advice from some correspondents in your From the People column would certainly cause one to have compassion on those suffering, and I must say that our friend Anxious deserves assistance from anyone who could help, as this is a most critical period in her existence, and no time should be lost. As one experienced in married life, who started a few years ago on $9 a week and, although not yet earning $100 per month, has acquired considerable of this world's goods, would say to Anxious to carry out her wish of entering into partnership in a few months, or even at Easter week.

I have every confidence in a couple who are not extravagant and who can cultivate the habit of being happy in their own home, instead of seeking pleasure at the movies, rinks and dance halls and excessive social habits, with their attending waste of time and energy.

I would make a strong appeal to Anxious to refrain from seeking too much advice, as she is very liable to meet so many weak kneed people who unfortunately are far too numerous and, in their love of ease lose sight of the reason why they are here and those advice would be better avoided.

So, pitch in Anxious, you have nothing to fear; conditions are one thousand times better than our grandfathers enjoyed and they made a record of which we should feel proud.

Go to it, old girl, and when in future you are holding your diamond jubilee in the midst of a dozen prosperous sons and daughters, you may think of the advice of

THE DIVORCE TENDENCY.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—To me the steady increase in the divorce rate in Canada is of far more importance than many of the present day topics of discussion which seem to harry everybody. Assuredly, aside from the point of religion, there is something more to the marriage tie than of the slip-on variety. Nevertheless, we of Canada seem to lead in diversity of choice in the former as we do in the latter.

To some, no doubt, it is given to live by the old adage, "If at first," etc. But surely if men and women would look at divorce in a different light I am sure they would not be so anxious to seek its haven so often.

But is it such? Does it not show lack of moral suasion for one to hide behind a pair of petticoats just because he or she finds he has made a bad bargain?

Why do stores discourage the habit of having their wares sent home on approval? No, it is not so much a question of honesty—for there is always redress for the merchant, but it is the harm that is done to the business itself which tends to undermine the basic principle of good merchandising.

It is the same with some men and women. They find out through someone else that they are not mates, so, like the aforementioned customer, they would merely return their selection, in view of finding something better.

I am sure if Canadian men and women would look at this question deeper society would be a deal better off than it is now. Let them take more stock in their pride, and I am sure if they find they have made bad bargains they will have too much pride to do other than the man who said, "A bargain's a bargain for a' that."

THE SIDEWALK RULE.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—When I walk along the sidewalk on Queen street on Saturday night, I am often severely bumped into if I do not stick to one side. Men are particularly rude in that respect, and I have had a number of unmerciful jolts, to which, when I protested, were added angrily expressed admonitions to "Keep to the left!"

Now I understand that for vehicular traffic the rule is "keep to the left," but on the walks I am sure that every one has the right to walk wherever he or she pleases, and I for one, object to being classed with horses and automobiles, and hope your readers will agree with me in my desire for personal liberty.

Yours,

HANDSHAKE COST $4.85.

St. Catharines, Ont., Feb. 21.—Herbert Dixon apologized to Stephen Emmett for having struck Emmett, and the two shook hands on it. Later Emmett laid a charge of assault against Dixon, but Magistrate Campbell today ruled that the handshaking had put the complaint out of court, and Emmett had to pay $4.85 costs.

Double Murder and Suicide but—

.....but for the Grace of God. NOT long ago a shamefully wronged husband started out to do away with his wife and the destroyer of his home.

HE was intercepted, reasoned with, pleaded with. After two days and two nights spent in prayer and mediation, through the manifestation of the Holy Spirit he was turned from his intense and terrible passion to a magnificent attitude of forgiveness.

THE instrument through which husband and wife were reconciled—and a ghastly tragedy prevented — was a Salvation Army Officer.

SUCH a change of heart wrought by the Spirit is not rare in the world-wide experience of the Salvation Army.

PLAN ROUNDUP OF U. S. DRAFT DODGERS

173,911 Men Are Now Classified as Wilful Deserters in the United States.

Washington, Feb. 21.— Secretary Baker made public today an order to the Adjutant General providing for investigation of the cases of 173,911 men who are now classified as "wilful deserters" from the army of the United States, with a view to a roundup and military prosecution of every deserter now alive whose act was not extenuated by some circumstance deemed sufficient by the authorities.

In the case of the wilful deserters now dead the record wil have to stand against them in the War Department archives, but their names will not be published in the list of wilful deserters to be announced when the investigation is completed.

The instructions by Secretary Baker to the Aujutant General provides that the names shall be published generally or locally when the facts are ascertained "in order to enable a roundup of wilful draft deserters whose cases are not yet disposed of, to be commenced and prosecuted more vigorously. The publishing of this list in whole or in part will serve two purposes.

"(a) To inform the Department of Justice and police officials throughout the country; and

"(b) To inform the deserter himself and his friends and acquaintances that a charge of desertion stands against him."

Urges Moderate Tariff

HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN SAYS IT IS AN ERROR TO SERIOUSLY INVADE AMOUNT SECURED FROM REVENUE AT PRESENT TIME—THE MINISTER SPEAKS AT WINNIPEG.

Winnipeg, Feb. 21.—Hon. Arthur Meighen, Minister of the Interior in the Federal Government, came to Winnipeg Wednesday night with a fighting speech. In an address which followed a dinner given in his honor at th Fort Garry Hotel by the Winnipeg Board of Trade, Mr. Meighen entered a vigorous defence of the Union Government, urged the case of Canada for equal representation in the assembly of the League of Nations, claimed a large share of Canada's war winning effort for the now extinct food control board, put up a strong case for stabilization of trade and exchange relations between Canada and the United States through buying less from and selling more to that country, and advocated "a moderate tariff for purposes of revenue."

The minister declared that Union Government had many critics and few defenders, but he was of the opinion that in most cases its course had been right in essential matters, and it was now the time when plans and policies for the future should be laid, and when the field should be taken in behalf of these policies. He mentioned the appearance of a new "political entity," which, he said, "entices many of our friends by attacking our enemies." Mr. Meighen contracted Canada's present condition with conditions existing in other countries and drew a picture of prosperity, progress and development. The speech was heard by an audience of several hundred men, representatives of the city's business interest.

Mr. Meighen pointed out that the Canadian representatives at the peace conference secured recognition of a distinct and independent place on the assembly of the League of Nations for the Dominion. Reservations proposed in the United States Senate, however, went the length of claiming for that country not to be bound by any decision of the assembly where the votes of the constituent parts of the British Empire were greater than the vote of the United States.

"Membership of the league without being bound by its decision is a mere sham," said Mr. Meighen. "Membership in the assembly without power to vote, also is a sham. Consequently reservations such as are proposed mean that Canada or the United States would have to step from the league. What the final action will be we do not know, but the signs are not as reassuring as we would like. Representation obtained by Canada is essential to this country if the right of the Canadian people to nationhood is not to be abrogated. The Canadian Government has taken an unequivocal and a most determined stand. Canada demands, and insists upon as her right, a place in the League of Nations, and can recognize no league in which we have a part where our vote and representation is not conceded."

Mr. Meighen dealt briefly with the Board of Commerce upon which, he said, as a judicial body, he was not entitled to comment. It was created, however, not with the idea that it could substantially affect living conditions which were world-wide in their severity, but in order that it might deal with individual cases of exaction and profiteering or illegitimate combinations. "No body," he added, "ever created by any Government fulfilled with greater devotion and fewer mistakes and more solid success the task committed to it."

Our Economic Position.

In five years, Mr. Meighen said, in speaking of Canada's economic position, the Dominion had been able to so expand the sale of goods to the outside world that the sales had exceeded Canada's purchases in other countries by $711,000,000, this making allowance for large sums paid as interest on Canadian indebtedness outside of Canada. During recent years the United States had become a predominating factor in world trade and with that country Canada had an adverse trade balance, buying from the United States in the last year goods worth $740,000,000, and selling to them goods worth $400,000,000. Today the United States was able almost to dictate to Canada in the matter of exchange.

"We cannot be a borrowing country for many years if we do business right," he said. The humiliation of paying a value on our dollar dictated by Wall street only can be removed by wiping off the adverse balance and selling the United States as many goods as we buy. We must diminish to the utmost our purchases in that country and increase to the utmost our sales there. One method of curing the situation surely is not to make easier the importation of goods from the United States.

The Question of Tariff.

Mr. Meighen stated that it was impossible to look for "any radical advance in the general scale of federal income tax."

This tax was now about on a level with that in the United States and it was a question if it would be good policy to raise it beyond the American level. "The mainstay of our revenue," he said, "is the tariff, and we are stepping the wrong way if we seriously invade the amount now secured from that source."

Mr. Meighen said further:

"The Government of Canada has for two years and four months been carried on without party organization—indeed, without the existence behind it of any definite party at all. The natural consequences have followed. Those of our people who supported the Government and raised it to power—most of them at least—have felt disposed not to be unfair.

That was the best that could be looked for. No one felt called upon to champion or defend. There has been nothing in the nature of party fidelity and support on the part neither of the public or the pres, such as every preceding administration has enjoyed. On the other hand, an opposition organized on party lines with clearly defined press support, has never ceased to attack with all the old means of warfare. Besides another party entity has appeared on the political arena, and breathes out threatenings and slaughter against us. It entices many of our friends by attacking our foes, and its programme now seems to be to assault our opponents with words and ourselves with both words and votes."

RESIGNATION OF SPANISH MINISTRY

Inability of Cabinet to Obtain Sufficient Support to Pass Appropriations.

Madrid, Feb. 21.—The Spanish ministry resigned today. The resignation was due to the inability of the cabinet to obtain sufficient support in parliament to pass the appropriations and increase the railroad rates. King Alfonso has called the parliamentary leaders into consultation.

GIRL WINS $10,000 HEART BALM SUIT

New Brunswick, N. J., Feb. 21.—A verdict of $10,000 was today awarded by a sheriff's jury to Sarah Houghton in her suit for alleged breach of promise against Dr. Thos. V. Meachem.

The action was started in the Supreme Court about six months ago, but the doctor failed to answer the summons and a sheriff's jury was drawn to determine the amount of damages. Miss Houghton, a stenographer employed in Manhattan, was the only witness before the jury.

FRENCH EXPERT IS GOING TO LONDON

Paris, Feb. 21.—M. Bignon, Under Secretary of State for Mercantile Marine, will accompany Premier Millerand to London on Sunday. He will be called upon to take up negotiations with the proper inter-Allied commission on questions of freight agreements and on the allotment of German ships to France. The tonnage which would go to France under the present tentative arrangement is not considered sufficient by the French government which hopes to obtain a larger apportionment.

DOCTORS UNION NOW PROPOSED

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 21.—The formation of a Doctors' Union was proposed by Dr. Charles A. L. Reed, of Cincinnati, in an address here yesterday.

"The time has come," he declared, "when the medical profession is forced to unionize to protect its own interests and those of the public."

AN ONTARIO BLAZE.

Guelph, Ont., Feb. 21.—Damage to the extent of about $25,000 was done by fire yesterday to the Taylor Forbes Company's factory here. The loss is covered by insurance.

Less Meat to Europe Drop in Price, Result

[New York Sun.]

Meat exportation to Europe on the large scale of the past five years has reached an end, according to a statement cited in the news as coming from the meat packers. The statement carries, furthermore, a forecast of an early drop in the prices for meat in the domestic market. If the packers insist that their product will presently sell cheaper, their views deserve even more respectful attention than they would command in case the prediction were for a rise. Desire for profits cannot in this case be supposed to have sharpened the edge of their statement.

The war years witnessed a startling growth in this country's production of surplus meats beyond the domestic requirement. At the outbreak of war we had taken to importing beef from Argentina and our pork exports had fallen to about one-fourth of their former total. The country consumed of itself well upward of nine-tenths of all the meat, some seventeen billion pounds, dressed carcasses, that it produced. Then war forced production steadily up, till in 1918 the country produced the seventeen billion plus seven billion more. Of its surplus it exported in the year ended November 1, 1918, upward of three billion pounds of pork, beef and their fats alone, to the countries at war. The exports in 1919 must have equalled those of 1918, or nearly. The heavy meat demands of the enlisted forces in this country and in the navy, assuredly in excess of the normal diet requirements of the same individuals, made other great, extraordinary inroads into the production.

Now the period of meat exportation on a grand scale has come to an end, if present indications can be trusted. Prices for meat will presumably recede until the meat production thereby undergoes needful diminution and resumes something like its size of 1914.

The difficulty thus facing the meat producing farmers is serious. They will quite likely resort to action designed to check the fall of prices. Their case, though regrettable, is likely to be typical of numerous groups who have raised themselves to high prosperity and their products to extraordinary cost through the war's economic operation. Deflation of production has begun.

FRENCH AVIATION IN BAD CONDITION

Paris Paper Says the Next War Will Be Won by Efficiency of Air Forces.

Paris, Feb. 21.—Pleas that "something be done for French aviation," which is described to be in a state of paralysis, are made by the newspaper Liberte, which asserts the next war will be won or lost through the state of efficiency attained by air forces in peace times.

It is argued the commercial airplane should be capable of being transformed into a war machine in the shortest period of time and that the country should have enough civil aviators to put into the field a powerful fleet of planes during the first days of any conflict. Such a fleet would have a tremendous advantage, it is pointed out, in bombing towns and points of strategic importance.

Great Britain has appropriated £15,000,000 sterling for its air service, £2,000,000 being for civil aviation, the newspaper states.

KAUFF HELD FOR TRIAL.

New York, Feb. 21.—Benny Kauff, of the New York Giants, charged with receiving a stolen automobile, was held on bail for trial yesterday. He declared he did not know the car was stolen.

Boy Takes Lite on Hearing His Mother May Not Recover

Philip Abbott Said His Father's Spirit Called Him—Had Been Reading Theosophy—Fired Bullet From Rifle Into Mouth.

Franklin, Feb. 21—Philip V. Abbott, 15-year-old son of Dr. C. Edson Abbott and Mrs. Abbott, the former a leader in civic affairs in this town who died a year ago, committed suicide this morning by placing the barrel of his small hunting rifle in his mouth and firing it.

The lad was the oldest of four children, who have been living alone in their home here since the mother was taken to the Homeopathic Hospital in Boston a fortnight ago, so ill from Blood poisoning that her physician held out no hope of her recovery.

Philip had been the mainstay of his mother for the last year, and the cares and unusual burden of sorrow—for he had been told that his mother could not be expected to return—had so wrought upon him that it was more than he could bear.

His younger brother found the lad's body on the floor in the front bedroom tonight. He told the coroner, Dr. Carl E. Richardson, that he knew Philip was going, for his father had called him. When the coroner protested that the father was dead, the young lad replied that his father's spirit had been with them and had called Philip.

Nothing in years has so moved the people of Franklin, who esteemed Dr. Abbott as one of their most eminent citizens and had felt deep sympathy for the younger children at the illness of their mother.

The family was unusually intellectual. Dr. Abbott was a scholar and read a great deal with his boys. Philip was brighter than most boys of his age, thoroughly normal and active, a zealous Boy Scout and interested in boys' sports and activities. He had been reading books on Theosophy a great deal recently, his brother told Dr. Richardson.

The children had been getting their meals at the home of Dr. Solon Abbott, their uncle, but had spent the nights alone in their own home. The two younger boys and their sister are now being cared for in the homes of relatives. They were left comfortably provided for by their father and had been kept in school even since their mother's illness.

Yesterday morning, when the others went to school, Philip went back home after breakfast and was not seen again until his little brotner opened the door of his room tonight and discovered the body.

Turks Jubilant at Prospect Of Being Allowed to Retain A Hold on Constantinople

Lloyd-George is Said to Consider Himself Bound by a Pledge He Gave to the Labor Party in 1918 that the Turks Would Be Undisturbed.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, Feb. 23.—Premier Lloyd-George is not likely to alter his opinion that the Turks should remain in Constantinople, according to the London Daily Mail, which says he considers himself bound to a pledge to that effect, given in 1918, in the course of a statement as to war aims before members of the Labor party. Moreover, the newspaper says, he considers dispossession of the Turks would have a serious effect upon Moslems in India, Mesopotamia and the Near East.

Mr. Lloyd-George is said, however, to have prepared a compromise by which Turkish influence would be restricted to the city of Constantinople.

The Turks Jubilant.

Constantinople, Feb. 23.—The despatches announcing that the London conference has agreed to the principle maintaining Turkish sovereignty at Constantinople are hailed joyously by the entire Turkish press and officialdom, which declares the retention of Constantinople is most vital to the peace negotiations.

Relations With Soviet Russia.

London, Feb. 23.—Premier Lloyd-George and Premier Nitti are believed to favor resumption of relations with soviety Russia, although Premier Millerand of France is not inclined to agree to any immediate action, according to the London Daily Mail, which gives prominence to the question, which is called to public attention by a memorial sent to Mr. Lloyd-George by a number of military men and others who during the past two years have been in Russia on official business. The newspaper says this problem must be considered by the supreme Allied council at its session which began today.

WET LIVING AND DRY VOTING CLASS

U. S. Prohibitionists Declare Congressmen Must Practice What They Preach.

Washington, Feb. 23.—The charge that United States congressmen, some of them men who voted dry, are getting more liquor in the House and Senate office buildings than ever before, was made here today by prohibition leaders.

This developed in connection with an announcement by the anti-saloon league of its programme for the coming presidential and congressional campaign. It will oppose any candidate who is not an out and out prohibitionist. It will declare that a congressman must practice what he preaches. Evidence against wet living and dry voting congressmen is being collected for use in the campaign.

VESSEL DRIFTED FOR TWO MONTHS

The Crew of the Schooner Rostellan Rescued After Weeks of Suffering.

New York, Feb. 23.—After having drifted helplessly for two months in the schooner Rostellan with its rudder gone, its sails carried away and the ship leaking, the captain and eleven men were brought here today by the United States steamer Deepwater, which picked them up 450 miles east of Bermuda, February 18. The Rostellan was bound from Loango, Africa, to Liverpool with a cargo of palm oil and ivory when she met misfortune. When the schooner's rudder was carried away the crew tried vainly to signal passing vessels, but lacking effective means of communication their efforts were futile. Storm after storm menaced the vessel, carrying away the sails and part of the deck fittings, but the crew stuck grimly to their task until the Deepwater hove in sight and took them off. A dog and a goat, which shared their tribulations, were taken off with them. The Deepwater was bound here from Genoa.

JAMES CHRISTIE DEAD AT ST. JOHN

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

St. John, N. B., Feb. 23.—News of the death of one of the city's best known and respected citizens, James Christie, of Christie Woodworking Co., Ltd., which occurred this morning at his residence, 26 Peters street, occasioned surprise and regret among a host of friends. He was a native of St. John, 52 years of age and was a son of the late Alexander Christie, who established the woodworking business which has since borne his name, and of which his son became manager in 1904. He was associated with this business for about 35 years, and in his business dealings made many friends because of his integrity, while socially he also had a great number of friends, with whom he was particularly popular. Mr. Christie was an enthusiastic baseball follower, and years ago took an active part in affairs of the local diamond. He was for some time pitcher for the Nationals and was a favorite with the fans. Later he still showed his interest in the sport as an umpire and he was reckoned as an authority on matters connected with the game. His wife survives, with two sons, Charles Alexander and James Warren Christie, both at home; one brother, Charles S., secretary of the company, and one sister, Mrs. Annie J. Roberts, wife of John B. Roberts, of Montclair, N. J. The funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon from his late residence, 26 Peters street.

Country Districts Were Shut Off by Storms

Scotchtown, Feb. 23.—On account of the recent heavy storms this place has had no mail service for eight days, the longest on record. On account of the horses being unable to get through the deep snow, many of the residents are compelled to haul their firewood on handsleds. Some of the lumbermen, including Byno Brothers and Balmain Brothers, have been obliged to abandon logging operations on account of the heavy snow and crust.

BASEBALL OWNERS RESORT TO FISTS

John J. McGraw and Chas. A. Stoneham Reported to Have Engaged in Fist Fight.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York, Feb. 23.—There are reports today of new hostilities in big league circles. Rumors are printed this morning of a sensational fistic encounter which is alleged to have taken place in Havana, shortly after the baseball meeting in Chicago, in which the owners of the Giants, John J. McGraw, and Charles A. Stoneham were the principals. The pair are said to have engaged in a wordy battle which finally led to a real old-fashioned fist fight. McGraw is said to have been the victor. The quarrel is alleged to have arisen over business matters.

With the Giants' owners reported in a state of war, comes definite denial of a story that Col. Jacob Ruppert and Colonel Huston, owners of the Yankees, have been at odds. This report alleged that Ruppert was on the verge of breaking with his baseball associate and supporting Ban Johnson.

Col. Ruppert, in the presence of the other baseball colonel, yesterday gave this story emphatic denial, saying it had been concocted for the purpose of harming the New York club.

"We entered baseball together, and that is how we are going to leave it," he said.

A story which originated in Boston that Bae Ruth would not accompany the Yankees south unless given $15,000 of the purchase money apparently is without foundation. On Saturday Ruth told reporters he was anxiously awaiting the departure of his teammates for the South and announced that he had asked Manager Huggins to play him in centre field.

BURNED TO DEATH.

Lynn, Mass., Feb. 23.—Four inmates of a home for aged women here were burned to death when fire swept the building here this morning.

INCREASE PENSIONS.

Rome, Feb. 23.—The Pope has increased the pensions of Vatican employees from 10 to 25 per cent., owing to the high cost of living.

CHIEF RIDEOUT REPORTED BETTER

Has Been Seriously Ill for the Past Few Days at Moncton.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Moncton, Feb. 23.—The condition of Chief of Police George Rideout, who has been seriously ill for the past few days, shows some improvement this afternoon.

CAPT. S. P. GEROW IS AT MONTREAL

Report of Disappearance of St. John Man Had Caused Some Disquietude.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Montreal, Feb. 23.—Capt. Stephen P. Gerow, a Canadian officer, whose home is in St. John, N. B., who was reported in New York despatch last night to have disappeared, is in Montreal. Captain Gerow walked into a local newspaper office this morning and explained to friends there that he left New York in the ordinary way of business two weeks ago and went to Philadelphia. From there he went to Boston, where he was sick for a few days. On his recovery he came to Montreal. Captain Gerow stated he was returning to New York tonight. The captain has been engaged in the United States in buying material from knock down houses to be used in reconstruction work among army veterans in England.

OTTAWA CAME BACK AS SURPRISE

Toronto, Feb. 23.—Commenting on Saturday night's game, C. H. Good says this morning:

"Ottawa did the unexpected here on Saturday night, but the St. Patricks are still keen factors for the second series of the championship. The best team of the night undoubtedly won and the Saints have no excuse to offer, though their supporters are inclined to believe that had Matte started on the defence and had Mitchell been in goal from the commencement of the combat, there would have been a different yarn to unravel and the Senators would not now be the undisputed leaders. The boys are somewhat peeved over the manner in which Art Ross handled the game. No one can ever accuse the Montrealer of being an official who is influenced by his environment. He led poor 'Cully' Wilson a dog's life, and the local 'bad man,' who is not so bad, all things considered, spent much time on the penalty bench.

The Game at Quebec.

Quebec, Feb. 23.—Reporting the hockey game of Saturday at Quebec, Le Soleil today says:

Quebec showed a marked skill throughout. The game was strenuously contested. It even had to be extended by four minutes and forty seconds to decide who was the victor. The score was 8 to 7, favoring the locals.

Fast playing was recorded throughout almost the entire game by both clubs. Many times did the score tie and suspense was intense, for the final issue of the game remained undecided throughout.

Quebec showed better teamwork than usual. Opportune combinations helped the locals greatly and grand plays in the very nick of time. Brophy showed improvement in goal.

THE FLU ATTACKS A WHOLE VILLAGE

Tonopah, Nev., Feb. 23.—Every inhabitant of a Pitute Indian village in Inyo county, California, near Dyer, Nevada, has been stricken with flu, according to a report brought here by a rural mail carrier. He said there had been more than a hundred deaths and none had received medical attention.

PERSONAL.

John W. Bonnell, a student at the Vocational School, went down to St. John this morning to consult an eye specialist. He will also visit his brother, who is a patient in a hospital there.

W. B. Bishop, of Montreal, is a guest at the Queen Hotel.

Mrs. Frank McCafferty, who has made her home in the city for the past year, left on Saturday for Boston to spend some time with her daughter, Miss McCafferty.

Mrs. John Black, who has been at Victoria Hospital since Christmas Eve suffering from a compound fracture of the leg, has been able to return home.

Myers History N. B. and N.S.

The Chief Superintendent of Education is already in conflict with the educational authorities of Nova Scotia, who, in a statement made public last week, announced that the latest edition of Myers' History, received before last September for use in the schools of that province, was promptly re-boxed and returned to the publishers. The publication of that statement has evidently further disconcerted the Chief Superinfendent of N. B. who, with imprudence, replies as follows:

"If the contents of the offensive chapter were known to the Nova Scotia Textbook Committee, one thing is certain—no mention was made of it at the combined text-book meeting of the Maritime Provinces held in Halifax January 9th last, when, Nova Scotia concurring, Myers' History was recommended by the whole committee as the text in General History to be used in the three provinces.

"In Nova Scotia all public school texts are handled by the Government Book Department and opportunity is given to review them if desired.

"In New Brunswick only a portion of the texts is handled and distributed by the Government Book Department in Fredericton. Myers' History is one of the texts not handled by this department but, as has been pointed out, is handled and distributed by J. & A. McMillan, of St. John."

Nova Scotia, acting promptly and effectively last September, thus sparing the province the humiliation and turmoil we have been subjected to, would probably have refrained from making any public statement on the situation, had it not been for the undignified assumption of superiority by the Chief Superintendent in this province—generally interpreted as impudence—in one of his characteristic statements of two weeks ago that he is informing and advising Nova Scotia of the latest edition of Myers' History.

CUPID SHOULD NOT BE OBSTRUCTED

Torton, Feb. 22.—In giving judgment in favor of Miss Janet Dickie, for $850 for breach of promise against Henry Wm. Curtis on Saturday, Mr. Justice Lennox commented as follows:

"When people become engaged, and particularly when the engagement is continued for duration of many years, neither party can be allowed to repudiate the engagement because of slight differences of opinion, frailties of temper or the like." His Lordship expressed the opinion that it was just as well that the engagement was broken off, but the defendant should pay for obstructing the plaintiff's matrimonial outlook for a number of years.

The pair became engaged in April, 1911, and the engagement lasted for eight years. The plaintiff sued for $10,000.

DRIVEN FROM THEIR ROOMS BY A FIRE

New York, Feb. 23.—Four hundred guests at the Marie Antoinette Hotel here were driven from their rooms by a fire which broke out early this morning. The majority remained in the lobbies and watched the firemen fight the blaze. The damage amounted to $25,000. "Big Bill" Edwards, the former Princeton football captain, in whose room the fire started, lost all of his football trophies.

TRAPPER EATEN BY HIS HUSKY DOG

The Pas, Man., Feb. 21.—The police investigation of the death of J. F. Egan, a trapper at North Indian Lake, indicates that he was done to death by his husky dog. Lost on the barren lands for four days, out of grub and battling with the fierce cold, he lay down exhausted and fell asleep. His head was wholly eaten away to the shoulders. North Indian Lake is 400 miles north of here.

INDIANS PROTEST MUSKRAT CLOSURE

The Pas, Man., Feb. 22.—A vigorous protest will be made from the north to a proposed amendment to the provincial game act closing the fall muskrat hunt. The Indians declare they depend upon the fall hunt to put them in food and clothing to race the winter and in addition when they took treaty with Queen Victoria in 1876 it was implied that the Red Men would have rights to hunt and troop fur-bearing animals upon lands other than those settled by the whites.

TO PLAY AT BOSTON.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 23.—The Pittsburg Athletic Association hockey team left today for Boston, where tonight they will play the Boston A. A. in the third game of a series for the right to represent the United States in the Olympic games.

Preparations For Opening Of Parliament, While the 'Flu Is Speading at the Capital

The City Hospitals Overcrowded With Influenza Patients and Dozens Turned Away—Believe Epidemic Due to Transient Visitors to City.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, Feb. 23.—With a young army of workmen with hammers and a hundred maids with mops, drays starting up furniture, and Senators and Members arriving and taking possession, the Parliament buildings today are the scene of great bustle. Society at the capital is all agog over the social functions of the opening, the first real display since 1913. The staff worked in the buildings all day Sunday, but when asked whether it was a contravention of the Lord's Day Act, the Deputy Minister of Public Works observed, "Parliament is a law unto itself." Hon. Mr. Rowell is acting head of the department.

Apart from the somewhat incompleted state of the buildings, everything is about ready for the opening. Sir George Foster has drafted a speech which will be delivered by the Governor-General, outlining in a general way the business of the session and referring to events and conditions in the country, without going into any elaborate details. The debate on this document, it is said, may take a month, for an unusual number of members think they have a message which should be delivered.

Rapid Spread of 'Flu.

So great has been the increase of 'flu in Ottawa, within the past few days that all three city hospitals have been obliged to turn dozens of patients away. All Saturday rooms in the three hospitals were taxed to capacity and additional patients on Saturday evening could not be admitted.

In view of the serious epidemics at Toronto, Montreal and other cities, it is thought that the rapid spread of 'flu in Ottawa is due to visitors from those cities. The transient population of Ottawa for the past two weeks has been heavier than at any time during the past year. All the large hotels report a very heavy trade and have been obliged to turn many guests away.

RANEY ELECTED BY ACCLAMATION

All the Members of the U. F. O. Cabinet in Ontario Have Now Obtained Seats.

Toronto, Feb. 23.—Hon. W. E. Raney, K. C., was today elected by acclamation to the constituency of East Wellington, according to a special wire received by the Toronto Evening Telegram from Fergus at noon today.

Col. Pritchard, whose nomination has for some time been forecasted, early today decided not to contest the riding. All the members of the U. F. O. Labor cabinet have now secured seats.

ANNIVERSARY COMMEMORATED

Vanvoucer, B. C., Feb. 22.—The The twentieth aniversary of his elevation to the Catholic heirarchy was commemorated on Wednesday last in this city, by His Grace Most Reverend Timothy Casey, D. D., Archbishop of Vancouver and Metropolitan of British Columbia. On Feb. 11, 1900, Archbishop Casey was consecrated coadjutor bishop of St. John, N. B., a year later being installed as bishop. He came to Vancouber Dec. 1, 1912.

FEARFUL WINTER IN THE FAR NORTH

Fort McMurray, Alta., Feb. 22—Seventeen dog teams, with Hudson's Bay fur, mostly rate, have arrived here. The consignment is worth approximately $100,000. One of the dog drivers came from Fort Resolution and has been 18 days on the trip. The most of the drivers were frost bitten, as the extreme cold wave that has been hovering over Fort McMurray and farther north has caused lots of suffering.

DELICACIES FOR B. C. LUMBER CAMPS

Victoria, B. C., Feb. 22.—In addition to high rates of pay and three square meals a day, Vancouver Island logging camps are serving their employees with doughnuts and coffee in the middle of the morning, and about 3.30 o'clock with afternoon tea, cakes and pastry delicacies, in an effort to retain the services of the men. Employers state that development work is being impeded by the difficulty in getting men and it is necessary to make many concessions if a sufficient number are to be held, to keep up with the work.

FINANCIER DEAD.

Johannesburg, Feb. 23.—Senator Samuel Marks, financier and one of the largest owners of mining and real estate in South Africa, is dead.

GEN. WOOD A CANDIDATE.

Columbus, O., Feb. 23—Major Gen. Leonard Wood filed his declaration of candidacy for the Republican Presidential nomination with the Secretary of State of Ohio yesterday.

B. M. Turnbull, of St. John, is at the Barker House.

BRITISH VESSEL SUNK IN COLLISION

Some of the Ship's Crew Picked but Several Members Are Missing.

Buenos Aires, Feb. 23.—The British schooner Hillstone, fully laden and bound for England, was sunk in collision Saturday with the Finnish schooner Saltripca, five miles off La Plata. Seven members of the crew of the Hillstone are missing. The others of the ship's company were picked up by the Saltripca.

MANY MINISTERS LEAVE POSITIONS

New York, Feb. 23.—Preaching yesterday at the Church of the Divine Paternity, on the decline of religion, the Rev. Jos. Fortnewton said twenty per cent. of the pre-war ministers had resigned to go into other occupations.

REMOVE PICTURES OF HOHENZOLLERNS

London, Feb. 23.—A Berlin wireless message says the Prussian Home Minister has ordered that all pictures of the Hohenzollern family and the insignia of the monarchy be removed from government buildings open to the public. He has suggested that the municipalities follow suit.

HUNGARY'S WAR RESPONSIBILITY

Prague, Feb. 23.—Dr. Edward Beres, the Foreign Minister, replying in the national assembly to a request for a report on the status of negotiations between Hungary, declared that Hungary was more responsible for the war than the Czech-Slavs. Hungary, he said, always had been an enemy of Prague, and even now was attempting to throw the taint of Bolshevism on the Czechs.

GERMANS GATHER ENEMY WAR CRIMES

Berlin, Feb. 23.—The Saxon demobilization bureau is engaged in a compilation of "enemy war crimes" and claims to possess much evidence bearing on occurrences at Dinant, Belgium, in August, 1914, when the city was burned after alleged attacks upon Germans by Belgian snipers.

WEDDINGS.

Firlotte - Boulet.

Campbellton, N. B., Feb. 20.—An interesting wedding was solemnized Tuesday morning in the Church of Our Lady of the Snows by Rev. Father Melanson, when Miss Mary Ellinor Boulet, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. Boulet, became the bride of Mr. Sherman Firlotte, of Jacquet River. The bride wore a very becoming suit of navy blue with hat to match and wore a corsage bouquet of roses.

SOVIET ARK RETURNS.

New York, Feb. 23.—The U. S. army transport Buford, which served as the Soviet Ark to deport to Russia 249 undesirables, arrived here last night.

F. N. O'Brien, of St. John, is a guest at the Barker House.

CANADIENS PLAYED WITHOUT LALONDE

Frenchmen's Veteran Player is Suffering From an Attack of 'Flu.

Toronto, Feb. 22.—St. Patrick's hope of winning the National Hockey League championship received a terrific jolt on Saturday night, when the Ottawa Senators beat them five to three and assumed the leadership in the race.

The visitors had the edge on the St. Patrick's throughout and won the game strictly on their merits. They are now out in front in the second of the race by one game, and it will require herculean efforts on the part of the locals, and a few upsets thrown in, to give the St. Patrick's a chance to figure in the play-off.

Quebec Won in Overtime.

Quebec, Feb. 22.—Playing their best game of the season, the Quebec Bulldogs gained their initial victory over the Canadiens at the local arena on Saturday night, when they merged on the long end of an eight to seven score, after a little more than four minutes of overtime had been played. The game was replete with thrilling dashes.

The Canadiens played without Lalonde, who has the 'flu.

Halifax, 5: Moncton, 4.

Moncton, N. B., Feb. 22.—An all Halifax hockey team defeated the Moncton Victorias here last night by the score of 5 to 4 in fifteen minutes overtime play.

M'LEAN IMPRESSES AN OTTAWA EXPERT

But little is known here so far of how Fred McLean, the local hockey player, is making out with the Quebec team in the National Hockey League since he went from Cape Breton to the Ancient Capital for a tryout in the "big show."

The Canadian Press, after sending out the news to the papers of the Maritime Provinces that the big fellow had joined the Quebec team, let the matter rest there, and the stories which came through last night of the Bulldogs unexpected victory over the Canadiens didn't even mention whether the Maritime player had been used or not.

The Montreal Star, in a story of the mid-week game played by Quebec in Ottawa written by Tommy Gorman, the noted Ottawa expert, referred to McLean's work in that game, saying: "McLean, Quebec's new player from the East, shapes up like a find."

Moncton Team May Come to Play Marysville Team Here

Marysville Team's Schedule Over and Eastern League Club Would be Big Attraction--Irvine Wade May Figure on Fredericton Team When Locals Go to North Shore---Dates Cannot be Arranged Until After U.N.B. Players Wind up Intercollegiate League.

The Marysville Hockey Club have finished their season's schedule in the New Brunswick Hockey League, but it is likely that the team will be kept together and already negotiations are being opened for some exhibition games to be played here.

Capt. Irvine Wade declared this morning that the Marysville club hoped soon to complete arrangements for the Moncton team of the Eastern League to play here and if such a game is arranged it should prove one of the best attractions staged this winter. It is true the Moncton team won from Marysville by a big score earlier in the season, but since then the Bull Moose have been transformed into a different outfit and with the forward pass rule eliminated it is believed Moncton's team would have a busy time winning.

Financial requirements of the Moncton team have so far been bordering upon the unreasonable and there is also a question as to whether the governing body of amateur sport would sanction the game. However, if it does come off there is no doubt it would be one of the best attractions of the local hockey season.

Irvine Wade With Fredericton.

Meanwhile Irvine Wade's name still remains on the list of eligible players of the Fredericton club, as filed before January 15th with the New Brunswick Hockey League and, as there doesn't appear to be any section of the regulation of the organization to the contrary, there apparently is no reason why he cannot figure on the Fredericton team when they make their coming trip to the North Shore.

The inclusion of such a player in the local squad besides making it possible to alternate the forwards would improve both the offensive as well as the defensive strength of the team to a great degree, for there are few better centre ice players than the Marysville captain, who is full of tricks accumulated through many years of experience and this year has been a great goal-getter for his team. The most pleasing feature of the suggestion that he might be profitably used is the fact that Capt. Wade has told me he would be tickled to death to jump into a Fredericton uniform and do anything he can to help Fredericton win the Chestnut Cup.

Several of the other Marysville players have also expressed their willingness to join the Fredericton team for the North Shore trip if there is any need for their services and they can be registered as eligible to wear the green and white. This is a commendable spirit for the Marysville players to show because, as a matter of fact, what they would like to do is to arrange a county championship series between the Fredericton and Marysville clubs and under ordinary circumstances such a series would be possible, while it would put both teams on easy street financially.

When Will the Trip Come Off?

The N. B. H. L. schedule should be finished by now, but the Fredericton club postponed their trip to the North Shore from early in January because Chatham team found it advisable to call off the game Fredericton was due to play at Chatham at that time owing to the death of the late Bishop Barry. Had Fredericton wished to they might have claimed that game at Chatham by forfeit and the league would now be over, with the Chestnut Cup firmly held here, but they agreed to a postponement and still have to play Chatham as well as Bathurst.

Just when the Fredericton team will now be able to make the trip is a matter of some speculation, as dates which don't interfere with the U. N. B. team's games must be selected because of the players figuring on both teams. U. N. B. will play the final game of the western section of the Intercollegiate League with Acadia here on Thursday and it seems to be taken for granted the local collegians will then have to play St. Francis Xavier College of Antigonish at Moncton or Amherst for the Maritime intercollegiate honors, although the eastern end of the league has not been running this season. Such a game would not be played before next week, probably March 2nd, 3rd or 4th, which would make it about March 9th and 10th before Fredericton can be expected to appear on the North Shore.

One thing about the situation is that it gives ample time for the Fredericton club to get their organization perfected so it will seem like a real hockey club.—J. D. B.

Doubleheader on Thursday Night

Fredericton will have its first doubleheader of the hockey season this week.

As a result of a clash in dates of the Interscholastic League schedule with the Intercollegiate League arrangements have been perfected for the game between Fredricton High School and the Rothesay Collegiate School team to follow the U. N. B.-Acadia game at the Arctic Rink on Thursday night.

The Fredericton and Rothesay teams played a tied game when they met at Rothesay recently and are said to be evenly matched.

BOWLING

Thirty bowlers have qualified for the weekly roll off at the Palace Bowling Alleys this evening. Bebee leads the list with a pin fail of 137, while Tracey is second with a string of 126.

The full list taking part is: Bebee 137, A. Tracey 126, R. Paynter 122, W. Minue 121, K. McKiel 120, T. Styran 119, E. Colwell 118, M. Kierstead 116, Murphy 111, W. Kitchen 110, Doe Kelly 107, F. Clarke 105, W. Burden 104, Pederson 104, J. Risteen 103, Bright 102, Sloat 102, C. Brewer 101, Carr 100, C. Burgess 99, E. Horncastle 95, A. DeLong 95, McKenzie 95, McFarlane 94, J. Spencer 94, E. Edney 92, Underhill 92, Keenan 91, H. Nelson 91.

CURLING IN WEST.

Winnipeg, Feb. 21.—In a low scoring game last night, Bob Dunbar, of Eveleth, Minn., won the Robinson trophy, a single rink district competition, by defeating D. Anderson, of Forest, Man., in the finals, 8 to 7. This gives to the Minnesota skip and his stalwarts two sets of prizes.

PERTINENT COMMENT on SPORTING TOPICS

Intercollegiate hockey will furnish the local attraction this week.

The first three on the list of qualifying bowlers for tonight's roll-off at the Palace Alleys are returned soldiers.

Marysville curlers hope to have a rink of their own another year and if they do, they will even up with the local rinks in more ways than one.

The Moncton hockey team would be a fine attraction here and the fans hope the Marysville club will get a game such as that proposed arranged for next week.

It seems quite beyond understanding that Bennie Kauff would allow himself to get mixed up in an automobile stealing case in New York, where the ex-Fed star pulls down big money as one of the Giants' best attractions, or anywhere else for that matter. The Giants were without Fred Toney, the big pitcher, until late last season, because he was serving a prison sentence.

Confidence in the management of the Fredericton Hockey Club is at a low ebb as a result the way their lackadaisical methods caused barrels of money wagered by the supporters of the local team to be burned up last week. Nobody blames the players for the loss of the game.

The week-end brought me a card from Fred McLean, who wrote that he was with the Quebec Bulldogs and glad to be getting a chance in hockey's fastest company. "I want to be remembered to my old home town friends," said the big fellow, who must be going pretty good when Tommy Gorman, the Ottawa sporting expert, declares that he "shapes up like a find." Freddie's many local admirers will be happy if he makes the grade in the N. H. L.

If the U. N. B. hockey managers when they had their confernece with the Fredericton club officials a week ago, had insisted that there be intelligent handling by the N.B.H.L. team of the Red & Black players instead of worrying about practice hours, they would have been getting near to the real menace to U.N.B. hockey aspirations. It is beyond human endurance to play the same players game after game in six-men hockey without the athletes showing the effects of the strain, but the trio of U.N.B. players figuring on the Fredericton team have been forced to try to do that because of the lack of proper organization in the local club. Only skilful handling will put Burgess, Lounsbury and Jewett at their best for the remaining intercollegiate games after their gruelling experience last week.

Capt. Irvine Wade told me on Saturday afternoon that an altogether too windy local young man, who evidently takes his hockey very seriously, was responsible for an incident during the Chatham team's visit that nearly caused a lot of trouble. It appears that one of the Chatham players went to the Marysville dressing room to get a drink of water. "No, you don't deserve any," was the unexpected reply to his request and when he returned to his clubmates and reported what had happened there came near being a riot. Eventually the situation was explained satisfactorily to the Chatham team, but it shows the necessity of having a doorkeeper at the dressing rooms to exclude undesirable individuals whose loose talk always does more harm than good.

The outcome of Saturday night's games in the National Hockey League does not entirely clinch the second half honors in the championship season for the Ottawa team, but the Senators now have a big advantage and their win in Toronto from the Pats will give them a lot of confidence in their ability to breeze through. It would look very much as though the Canadiens had slumped too much to recover in time to be much of a factor, although they are likely to cause some upsets, even if they cannot win themselves. There are still three weeks left in the N.H.L. season, which means that each team must play six more games. About the only way to prevent the second half honors going to either Ottawa or Toronto would be for Canadiens and Quebec to win every one of their remaining games with those teams. Canadiens and Quebec, by the way, only clash in two more games this year.—J. D. B.

Monte Carlo, Feb. 23.—Carpentier knocked out Grundhoven, the Belgian champion, here on Saturday in the second round. The latter was outclassed and went down five times.

KINGS COLLEGE DEFEATS MOUNT A.

Windsor, N. S., Feb. 21.—The Mount Allison University team on its return from the Acadia game, played King's College here last night. The game resulted in a win for King's, the score being 6 to 2.

Truro, 2; Mt. Allison, 1.

Truro, N. S., Feb. 22.—The Mount Allison hockey team en route home from Wolfville on Saturday, lost to the All-Truro team, two to one. The ice was very poor. Rev. W. C. Ross refereed.

McGill Set Back.

Toronto, Feb. 22—McGill University had a set back here on Saturday in the sweep of victories in the race for the inter-collegiate championship. The University of Toronto won from McGill by the score of 7 to 6, but required 30 minutes overtime to turn the trick. It was one of the longest and hardest hockey battles seen here this season, and before one of the largest crowds of spectators of the season.

BASEBALL TEAMS TO START SEASON

All Brooklyn Players Except Wheat and Myers Report for Training Next Week.

New York, Feb. 23.—Brooklyn baseball players, who will train this year for the National League pennant race at Jacksonville, have been notified to report to Manager Robinson there about March 1.

Wheat and Myers, the outfielders, will not be required to report until March 8th.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 22.—President J. C. Dunn, of the Cleveland and American League today announced the unconditional release of Pitchers Hy Jasper and George Dickerson.

CURLERS GOING TO ST. JOHN TONIGHT

Four Rinks to Play Thistles and Carleton-St. Stephen Coming Next Week.

Four rinks of Fredericton curlers skipped by R. F. Randolph, F. P. Hatt, H. H. Hagerman and W. S. Thomas, with R. B. VanDine as substitute skip, are leaving this evening to play the St. John Thistles on Tuesday at St. John and the Carleton Curling Club the following day.

The St. Stephen Curling Club are not expected to arrive here to play the local curlers until next week, as it is understood that the Thistle Curling Club of St. John are to play at St. Stephen on the coming Thursday.

One of the Wee Neilly series will probably be played this Friday evening, and at the regular meeting of the club this evening arrangements will be discussed.

Marysville Rinks Beaten.

Fredericton curlers defeated three rinks of th Marysville curlers here on Saturday evening by a score of 38 to 30 in a close and interesting match.

Postmaster J. S. Inch, of Marysville, the veteran of many curling games, slumped and went down before Col. H. F. McLeod and his rink by a score of 20 to 11. The rink skipped by Charlie McLean for Marysville defeated that skipped by "Dode" Parker by a score of 10 to 7, making their second victory won over this rink in the last two weeks. J. Dolphin and rink fell down before the steady curling of Skip Allison McKay's rink, but every visit the Marysville curlers make to the local rink they seem to show improving form.

After the match the visitors were entertained at supper by the local curlers.

The score by rinks was as follows:

Fredericton.		Marysville.
Gordon Coy,		M. A. Walker,
W. M. Howie,		P. E. Nickerson,
W. J. Glenn,		W. Walker,

REPATRIATE HUN WAR PRISONERS

Paris, Feb. 21.—The repatriation of the German war prisoners now in Siberia was authorized by the Council of Ambassadors at its session today. The action of the Council provided that the repatriation be by way of the far east.

The question of the disposal of various enemy warships was taken up and their allocation decided upon. The question of increasing the allowance for the inter-Allied commission of control in Germany was considered but a decision was postponed. It was decided to send instructions to the inter-Allied military commission in Budapest concerning its functions. The Saar delimination commission was authorized to function during the temporary absence of one of its members.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Susan W. Robinson.

On February 13 the community of Cambridge, Queens County, lost one of its oldest residents in the death of Susan W., relict of John Robinson. Though she had been in poor health for some time, yet her passing away was quite sudden. Before marriage she was a resident of Scotchtown, Canning, Queens county. Four stepsons, James, George and John Robinson, of Cambridge, and Charles, of Manitoba; three stepdaughters, Mrs. Mary Cody, of Cody's, and the Misses Robinson, of Andover survive. In religion she was a Baptist.

Miss Hazel G. Mersereau.

The death of Miss Hazel G. Mersereau occurred Thursday in the twenty-fourth year of her age, after a short illness ffrom pneumonia. She was the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Margeson Mersereau, of French Lake, Sunbury county, and had been employed with T. S. Simms, Ltd. Three sisters survive besides her parents—Mrs. John Miller, Miss Mabel and Miss Janet, all of French Lake. Burial was made yesterday at French Lake.

Mrs. W. L. Keith.

St. Stephen, Feb. 20.—The death occurred in Milltown, Me., this afternoon of Mrs. W. L. Keith, aged about fifty-five years. She was taken with a paralytic stroke last evening and passed away shortly after dinner today. She is survived by her husband, W. L. Keith, who is second overseer of the Canadian Cottons, Milltown, also three daughters, Mrs. Fred Barstow and Mrs. Franklin Eaton, of Calais, and Evelyn, at home, also one brother, Hudson Babb, postmaster, Milltown, and one sister, in the States.

BURKE OWED THE DEAD MAN $857

Bartley Held Mortgage on Property of the Maine Tax Collector.

Skowhegan, Me., Feb. 21.—Today's sessions in the trial or John A. Burke, charged with the murder of Nelson W. Bartley at Jackman last October, were given up to the examination of Dr. Frank N. Whittier, Bowdoin College, medical expert.

The witness introduced an innovation in the way of court room scenes when he set up a test laboratory and perfected various microscopic slides with which to prove several contentions of the state regarding blood, powder marks and elapsed time between Bartley's last meal and his death. Burke was apparently indifferent to everything that was happening in court except when Dr. Whittier produced his clothing and explained to the jury that the many bullet holes in it were made during the tests, and that the single bullet hole which the state charges Burke made himself, was in the right leg of the trousers.

More Experts to Be Heard.

Dr. Whittier will finish his testimony tomorrow. With additional expert testimony from Dr. George B. Magrath and testimony from two medical experts to follow, the state may require three more days.

Early in his testimony Dr. Whittier described the process of making tests for powder stains and examining blood stains. Mr. Pattangall desired a full explanation of the process Dr. Whittier pursued in making his examination of the contents of Bartley's stomach and intestines, but the witness refused to change his testimony that Bartley apparently died between two and three hours after he ate his supper.

Mr. Pattangall tried to show that there was a difference in the state of food eaten when Bartley had his first order of venison steak and the second order which was served him 15 minutes later, but Dr. Whittier said he noted nothing from which to express an opinion.

Dr. Whittier was next examined relative to experiments he made with revolver shots. He was asked if he had the revolver with which he made the tests and when he produced it from a hand bag and examined the barrel to describe it for the benefit of the records, Mr. Pattangall interrupted to ask him if he would please break the gun open to make sure it was unloaded.

Has Powerful Microscope.

As he took up the description of the powder marks he found in clothing, Mr. Pattangall asked for a demonstration of the process and defense handwriting experts immediately produced their microscopes, but the witness disdained the use of the instruments and went back to his hotel to procure his own, a high powered reflecting microscope which magnifies 68,000 diameters.

Dr. Whittier, in response to a question, said he thought it doubtful that powder dust would appear in the cloth if the shot was fired at a greater distance than two feet, but it was possible that it might not appear even if fired at as close range as 12 inches.

In the inventory of the murdered hotel man's estate it appears that Bartley had savings banks deposits of as much as the banking laws permitted, including $1,000 accounts in several Boston banks, in addition to various checking accounts in banks in Skowhegan, Bangor, Portland, Jackman, Waterville and Greenville.

He held a mortgage on Burke's property for $857.57, held a mortgage against Deputy Sheriff Henry Armstrong for $300 and a note for $100, a mortgage against Flossie Burke and notes against many other Jackman residents, ranging from $50 to nearly $1,000, a total of $61,365.67.

Bartley had $3,281.25 in cash in his safe at the Moose River Hotel and more than $200 in his pocket when he was killed.

CHAPTER XVIII.

How Sir Nigel Loring Put a Patch Upon His Eye.

It was on the morning of Friday, the eigth-and-twentieth day of November, two days before the feast of St. Andrew, that the cog and her two prisoners, after a wearing tacking up the Girondo and the Garonne, dropped anchor at last in front of the noble city of Bordeaux. With wonder and admiration Alleyne, leaning over the bulwarks, gazed at the forest of masts, the swarm of boats darting hither and thither on the bosom of the broad curving stream, and the gray crescent-shaped city which stretched with many a tower and minaret along the western shore. Never had he in his quiet life seen so great a town, nor was there in the whole of England, save London alone, on which might match it in size or in wealth. Here came the merchandise of all the fair countries which are watered by the Garonne and the Dordogne—the cloths of the south, the skins of Guienne, the wines of the Medoc—to be borne away to Hull, Exeter, Dartmouth, Bristol or Chester, in exchange for the wools and woolfels of England. Here too dwelt those famous smelters and welders who had made the Bordeaux steel the most trusty upon earth, and could give a temper to lance or to sword which might mean dear life to its owner. Alleyne could see the smoke of their forges seeking up in the clear morning air. The storm had died down now to a gentle breeze, which wafted to his ears the long-drawn stirring bugle-calls which sounded from the ancient ramprts.

"Hola, mon petit!" said Aylward, coming up to where he stood. "Thou art a squire now, and like enough to win the golden spurs, while I am still the master-bowman, and master-bowman I shall bide. I dare scarce wag my tongue so freely with you as when we tramped together past Wilverley Chase, else I might be your guide now, for indeed I know every house in Bordeaux as a friar knows the beads on his rosary."

"Nay, Aylward," said Alleyne, laying his hand upon the sleeve of his companion's frayed jerkin, "you cannot think me so thrall as to throw aside an old friend because I have had some small share of good fortune. I take it unkind that you should have thought such evil of me."

"Nay, mon gar. 'Twas but a flight shot to see if the wind blew steady, though I were a rogue to doubt it."

"Why, had I not met you, Aylward, at the Lynhurst Inn, who can say where I had now been! Certes, I had not gone to Tynham Castle, nor become squire to Sir Nigel, nor met—" He paused abruptly and flushed to his hair, but the bowman was too busy with his own thoughts to notice his young companion's embarrassment.

"It was a good hostel, that of the 'Pied Merlin,'" he remarked. "By my ten finger bones! when I hang bow on nail and change my brigandine for a tunic, I might do worse than take over the dame and her business."

"I thought," said Alleyne, "that you were betrothed to some one at Christchurch."

"To three," Aylward answered moodily, "to three. I fear I may not go back to Christchurch. I might chance to see hotter service in Hampshire than I have ever done in Gascony. But mark you now yonder lofty turret in the centre, which stands back from the river and hath a broad banner upon the summit. See the rising sun flashes full upon it and sparkles on the golden loans. 'Tis the royal banner of England, crossed by the prince's label. There he dwells in the Abbey of St. Andrew, where he has kept his court these years back. Beside it is the minister of the same saint, who hath the town under his very special care."

"'Tis the fane of St. Michael, as that upon the right is of St. Remi. There, too, above the poop of yonder nief, you see the towers of Saint Croix and Pey Berland. Mark also the mighty ramparts which are pierced by the three water-gates, and sixteen others to the landward side."

"And how is it, good Aylward, that there comes so much music from the town I seem to hear a hundred trumpets, all calling in chorus."

"It would be strange else, seeing that all the great lords of England and Gascony are within the walls, and each would have his trumpeter blow as loud as his neighbr, lest it might be thought that his dignity had been abated. Ma foi! they make as much louster as a Scotch army, where every man fills himself with gingle-cakes, and sit up all night to blow upon the toodle-pipe. See all along the bank how the pages water the horses, and there beyond the town how they gallop them over the plain! For every horse you see a belted knight hath herbergage in the town, for, as I learn, the men-at-arms and archers have already gone forward to Dax."

"I trust, Aylward," said Sir Nigel, coming upon deck, "that the men are ready for the land. Go tell them that the boats will be for them within the hour."

The archer raised his hand in salute, and hastened forward. In the meantime Sir Oliver had followed his brother knight, and the two paced the poop together, Sir Nigel in his plum-colored velvet suit with flat cap of the same, adorned in front with the Lady Loring's glove and girt round with a curling ostrich feather. The lusty night, on the other hand, was clad in the very latest mode, with cote-hardie, doublet, pourpoint, courtpis, and paltock of olive-green, picked out with pink and jagged at the edges. A red chaperon or cap, with long hanging cornette, sat daintily on the back of his black-curled head, while his gold-hued shoes were twisted up a la poulaine, as though the toes were shooting forth a tendril which might hope in time to entwine itself around his massive leg.

"Once more, Sir Oliver," said Sir Nigel, looking shorewards with sparkling eyes, "do we find ourselves at the gate of honor, the door which hath so often led us to all that is knightly and worthy. There flies the prince's banner, and it would be well that we haste ashore and pay our obeisance to him. The boats already swarm from the bank."

"There is a goodly hostel near the west gate, which is famed for the stewing of spiced pullets," remarked Sir Oliver. "We might take the edge of our hunger off ere we seek the prince, for though his tables are gay with damask and silver he is no trencherman himself, and hath no sympathy for those who are his betters."

"His betters before the banchoir, lad. Sniff not treason where none is meant. I have seen him smile in his quiet way because I had looked for the fourth time towards the carving squire. And indeed to watch him dallying with a little gobbet of bread or sipping his cup of thrice-watered wine, is enough to make a man feel shame at his own hunger. Yet war and glory, my good friend, though well enough in their way, will not serve to tighten such a belt as clasps my waist."

"How read you that coat which hangs over yonder galley, Alleyne" asked Sir Nigel.

"It is a northern coat. I have seen it in the train of the Percies. From the shields, there is not one of these vessels which hath not knight or baron aboard. I would mine eyes were better. How read you this upon the left?"

"Argent and azure, a barry wavy of six."

Died on Saturday.

The death occurred Saturday night, after a few days' illness of heart disease, of Mrs. Margaret Brassington, aged 73 years. Deceased was out on Tuesday last, and the news of her death came as a great shock to many. The funeral took place this morning from the home of Mrs. William McNulty, Charlotte street. High Mass of Requiem was celebrated at St. Dunthe Hermitage.

Broke His Leg.

A distressing accident occurred at Ervin Floyd's store, Saturday night. A. LeBlanc, tailor, broke his leg. Mr. LeBlanc was in the act of leaning over on his cork leg, and in some unaccountable manner slipped, breaking his leg between the point at which the cork leg is fastened and the hip. He was at once removed to his home, and a physician called in, who rendered the necessary surgical treatment.—Campbellton Graphic.

Entertained Boys at Hospital.

Weddall & Son, succeeding Arthur Porter, who resigned some time ago. On Saturday Mr. Barnes' fellow workers presented him with a Mission chair, leather upholstered, as a token of the good fellowship that has always existed between them, and of sincere regret at his leaving their midst.

POLICE START CRUSADE AGAINST PUNCH BOARDS

Barber Pleaded Guilty Today in Conducting Gambling Device in His Shop.

BOY SQUANDERED $1.50 AND GOT ONLY GUM

Police Commission Said to Be Intent Upon Driving the Punch Boards Out.

Acting upon instructions received from the Police Commission a charge was recently laid against a local barber who ran a "punch board" in his shop, of conducting an illegal gambling device. The case was taken up in the Police Court this morning before Police Magistrate Limerick, and the defendant pleaded guilty to the charge against him. The case was then adjourned until Friday for sentence.

The matter was first brought to the notice of the Police Commission by a citizen who reported that he was in the barber shop when a small boy had spent $1.50 on "punches" and had nothing to show for it except some sticks of gum. He had thought this was unfair to the youth and brought the matter to the attention of the Police Commission, who instructed the police to take action in the matter.

As a result of this case being taken up if the punch board trade is found outside of the pale of the law, a general campaign will be conducted by the police, under the instructions of the Police Commission, and the punch boards will be wiped out. This morning a member of the Commission stated that too many small boys were losing their money on these devices and that if the law sustained action against them, steps would be taken by the Police Commission to see that the city is free of the device.

Unconscious 36 Hours After Hockey Accident

After being unconscious for about thirty-six hours as the result of falling and striking the back of his head, Royden Horncastle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rankine Horncastle, Park street, recovered sufficiently at noon today to remember indistinctly things that happened preceding his accident on Saturday afternoon.

In company with some other boys the young fellow, who is thirteen years of age, was playing hockey in the yard of his home, when he tripped and fell, striking his head with such force that he was picked up in an unconscious condition and remained so until sometime during this morning.

MRS. H. HATHEWAY VICTIM OF 'FLU

Word was received here yesterday of the sudden death at London, Ont., of Mrs. Constance Hatheway, wife of Capt. Harold Hatheway, formerly of this city but lately manager of Silverwoods, Ltd., a packing house, at London.

Mrs. Hatheway is believed to have been a victim of the 'flu epidemic, and it is thought she contracted the disease while nursing her husband, who, according to the last letters received by relatives here about a week ago, had only recovered from his illness a week ago.

The deceased was an English girl and their wedding was the culmination of a romance which began when she nursed her future husband in hospital after he had been blown up at Festubert in the early days of the war. One little daughter as well as the bereaved husband, who after his marriage occupied important positions in the Canadian Army Pay Corps, survive.

SOLDIERS INDIGNANT.

Rev. G. C. Warren's References to Them in Sermon Last Night Arouses Storm.

A storm of indignation amongst returned soldiers and their friends has been aroused by statements alleged to have been made by Rev. G. C. Warren, pastor of the Brunswick street United Baptist church, in the course of a sermon last night on The Prodigal Son.

About town this morning it was generally declared that Rev. Mr. Warren had said that many Canadian soldiers "went to the dogs" when they were overseas. When Rev. Mr. Warren was communicated with he said the statement he had made was this: "The Canadian soldiers went overseas to fight for their King and country but met with temptation and went to the camp of the prodigals."

Returned men who were in the congregation declared today that Rev. Mr. Warren had distinctly said that "many, many soldiers had allowed themselves to go even lower than the animals in the fields."

Rev. W. D. Wilson, provincial prohibition inspector, left for St. John this morning.

FRASER MEMORIAL HOSPITAL WILL BE BUILT IN SPRING

Definite Announcement Made Here on Saturday by Archibald Fraser.

$150,000 SAID TO BE APPROXIMATE COST

Third Call for Tenders Now Being Made so Work Can Be Finished This Week.

The Fraser Memorial Hospital, which was directed to be built by his estate by the late Donald Fraser, sr., will be erected here this year, according to an announcement made by Archibald Fraser, of Edmundston, who was in Fredericton on Saturday.

Before leaving here on Saturday night Mr. Fraser stated that the estate were making another call for tenders and had determined to have building operations commenced as early in the spring as possible so that the building would be completed and ready for occupation during the year.

Mr. Fraser said that two calls had been made for tenders already, but a contract had not been awarded for various reasons. Now, he said, those in charge of the project were preparing to go ahead with construction at the earliest possible date and proposed to have work started just as soon as weather conditions would allow.

Likely Cost Is $150,000.

Plans which were prepared for the Fraser Memorial Hospital some time ago call for a building of three floors, with basement of such a character that there will virtually be four floors. It is to be located west of the present hospital buildings and will be of freestone, the cost likely reaching not less than $150,000, although these figures are entirely approximate.

For some time past the accommodation at Victoria Hospital have been unequal to the demands and the institution has been frequently overcrowded, but with the announcement that the construction of the Fraser Memorial Hospital is about to commence it is now expected that the proposal to proceed with the erection of a maternity wing will probably be allowed to stand in abeyance for the time being. One of the present buildings of Victoria Hospital will likely be converted into a maternity wing after the Fraser Memorial Hospital has been constructed, it was said today.

Miss Helen Flood, of St. John, who spent the week-end with Miss Stella Clayton, of Marysville, returned home this morning.

C. B. Wetmore, of St. John, is a guest at the Barker House.

VICTORIA COUNTY LATEST DISTRICT VISITED BY 'FLU

Seven Cases Reported to the Public Health Department This Morning.

EPIDEMIC REPORTED AT SACKVILLE TODAY

But So Far No Official Word Has Come Through from that Town.

Dr. G. C. Melvin, chief medical health officer, announced this morning that seven cases of influenza had been reported from Victoria county, which has hitherto been immune from the disease. One of the cases is reported from Plaster Rock, while six are reported from Morrell Siding.

An unofficial report from Sackville states that a large number of cases of flu have broken out in that district. Up to noon today attempts to get in touch with the situation there were futile and no official reports had been received.

St. John reports that during last week there were eighty new cases in that city.

Communication With Mars.

Communication with Mars would no doubt reveal the fact that the majority of the folks up there would like to attend the moccasin dance at the Arctic Rink Tuesday evening. This is something entirely new and novel and will surely afford a good evening's entertainment. If you haven't had a dance for twenty years put on your moccasins and be among the merry-makers. A PARTIAL PEACE WITH BOLSHEVIKI

FIND IVENS IS GUILTY OF CONTEMPT

Winnipeg Agitator Bound Over to Keep the Peace for Three Months.

ONE OF THE ACCUSED STRIKE LEADERS

Ivens Bound Over to Keep the Peace So as Not to Hamper Trial Strike Leaders.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Winnipeg, Feb. 24.—William Ivens, one of the seven accused strike leaders, was found guilty by the full court of King's Bench on a charge of contempt of court and was bound over to keep the peace for three months on $2,000 security today. Chief Justice Mathers, in handing down the decision, said that the accused had been bound over to keep the peace so as not to hamper the defence in the trial of the strike leaders on charges of seditious conspiracy.

DOCTORS CONQUER FLU EPIDEMIC

American Physicians Declare There Will Never Be Another Serious Outbreak.

Chicago, Feb. 24.—The opinion that the United States will never experience another influenza epidemic as serious as the last was expressed by many physicians from all parts of the continent, who gathered in Chicago yesterday for the American Congress of Internal Medicines. Reports on the progress made by medical science in treating 'flu and data on the isolation of the germ will be presented during the six-day session.

LARGE SUM OFFERED FOR 300 PAINTINGS

Distinguished British Artist Refuses Offer from American Buyers.

London, Feb. 24—Sir William Orpen, the distinguished artist, has refused an offer of £1,000,000 for painting 300 portraits, which is said to have been made him by an American.

"It is quite true, the offer of £1,000,000 to paint portraits came to me from America," Sir William said today, in confirming the report, according to the Daily Mirror. "To complete such a contract, however, would take far more than the ordinary lifetime; it might take as long as 300 years."

Sir William will go to America this fall on business.

Allies to Make Peace With Reds It Horrors End

The Allied Council Decides on Resumption of Trade Relations

STOP WARFARE ALONG BORDER

Soviet Must Abandon Propaganda and Recognize Loans

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, Feb. 24.—Agreements of considerable importance are said to have been reached at yesterday's session of the Supreme Allied Council.

Resumption of trade relations with Russia, says the London Mail, was decided upon in principle, though with important reservations. The Soviet Government will be asked, on its part, to abandon propaganda and recognize existing loans, while the Allies do not propose to encourage border states to make war on the Bolshevik.

PREMIER MILLERAND SOMEWHAT RELUCTANT

It is understood the decision was reached with complete unanimity and received the assent of Premier Millerand of France. Resumption of political relations between the Allies and Russia was not pressed, the London Mail understands, so the real difficulty of the Russian situation, recognition of the Soviet republic, remains unsolved.

Russia Not Dangerous.

Premier Millerand is understood to have voiced the fear of France that united Russia might be a serious menace to western Europe, while Premiers Lloyd-George and Nitti have taken the view that Russia has been broken up and is not dangerous. Reports, therefore, that Premier Millerand has agreed to decisions reached by the Council are taken to mean that a middle ground has been found on which the Allies can stand until developments show true conditions.

Poland is said to have been won over to the British view, but Rumania is reported to have asked guarantees from the Allies relative to the risks involved in direct negotiations with the Bolshevik. Representatives of the Baltic States and Finland are also said to have been promised support should there be further aggression on the part of the Soviet government.

U. S. CONSERVATION OF NATURAL GAS

Washington, Feb. 24.—Members of a special commission, appointed to consider measures for the conservation of natural gas discussed several proposals yesterday morning. Among them was the saving of gas by increasing the price to domestic consumers. It was declared there is an enormous waste of gas in many homes.

LEAVES METHODIST CHURCH

Hamilton, Ont., Feb. 24.—Rev. F. W. Hollinrake, who recently resigned the pastorate of Barton Street Methodist Church, this city, said yesterday that he was considering severing his connection with the Methodist Church and continuing in the ministry without affiliation with any denomination.

Bolshevik Horrors Must Come to An End

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, Feb. 24.—The Allies will decline to deal with soviet Russia "until they have arrived at the conviction that the Bolshevists' 'horrors have come to an end'," it was announced after a meeting of the Allied Supreme Council today.

The decision of the Supreme Council, it was recognized, precludes diplomatic relations between the Allied governments and the Moscow administration in the immediate future.

The Council, it was stated, decided that the Allies could not accept the responsibility of advising the border states to continue war against the Bolshevik which course by such states might be injurious to their interests. If the Bolshevik attack within the territory of the border states, however, the Allies promise "every possible support."

FRANCE OPPOSES RUSSIAN POLICY

The British and Italian Premiers, However, Overcome Scruples of Millerand.

Paris, Feb. 24.—Devision to treat with the Russian soviets has been reached by the supreme Allied council at London, in effect, although perhaps in a round-about manner, out of deference to the French and other "susceptibles," according to foreign editors of Parisian papers, who are at present in London.

"Premier Lloyd-George has been pushing opinion along that line with an elaborate apparatus of Red Cross workers, prisoner relief organizations and re-victualling machinery to cover it over," says Pertinax. "Yesterday he added to existing camouflage—he induced his colleagues to call a meeting of finance ministers to consider problems relating to the high cost of living."

"Opposition by conservatives, especially the French, toward the new Russian policy, continues. Therefore, it is announced that trade exchanges with Russia would bring down the cost of living. Premier Millerand has resisted, but Mr. Lloyd-George and Signor Nitti have favored this policy. We do not know, but in any case it seems certain an agreement is almost reached," the paper continues.

As to what the agreement may be, Pertinax hints, it will be to enter into unofficial relations with all existing Russian governments, that of Lenine as much as that of Denekine.

St. Brice, of the Journal, is even more categorical and says it has been decided first to suspend supplies of arms and money to anti-Bolshevik parties; second, to advise Poland carefully to avoid any offense against Bolshevism; third, to promise Poland and the Baltic states, as well as Finland, that they will be supported in the event of Bolshevik aggression; fourth, to treat with soviet agents for a resumption of commercial relations through the Russian co-operative societies; and, fifth, to avoid in conversations touching on the question of official recognition of the soviety government.

James O'Grady, the writer adds, will return to Copenhagen to resume negotiations with Maxim Litvinoff on these bases.

Poincare is Head of Reparations Commission

Paris, Feb. 24.—The reparations committee of the Peace Conference met yesterday afternoon. Charles C. A. Jonnart, who recently resigned from the commission, handed over to former President Poincare his credentials as French representative in the body. M. Poincare was chosen as chairman of the commission.

Boston, Feb. 24.—The sinking of the British schooner Gwendolen Warren and the rescue of the crew was reported in a wireless message from the British steamer Pikepool today. The message said the Pikepool had the crew of the foundered vessel on board and would take them to Hampton Roads.

PREMIER DRURY'S MAJORITY 2,308

Milton, Ont., Feb. 24.—Premier Drury's official majority over E. J. Stephenson, his soldier opponent, in the Halton bye-election in Halton county a week ago yesterday, was 2,308. The official figures were given out yesterday by R. L. Hemstreet, the returning officer. The total vote was as follows: Drury, 4,419; Stephenson, 2,111.

The Jewels and Crowns of Dead Hun Royalty Stolen

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

BERLIN, Feb. 24.—Burglars rifled the mausoleum of Charlottenburg Castle Sunday. They forced the lid and removed the jewels from Queen Louisa's coffin, but failed to open the other coffins. They removed the gold and silver and gilded crowns lying on the coffins of Emperor William I, Empress Augusta, Prince Albrecht and others.

The mausoleum of the royal palace was erected by Gentz. In this place repose the bodies of Queen Louisa, died 1810, and her husband, Frederick William III, died 1840, together with their second son, Emperor William I, died 1888, and the Empress Augusta, died 1890.

CARDINAL RAKES SOCIETY WOMEN

Brussells, Feb. 24.—Cardinal Mercier in his Lenten pastoral letter blames society women for setting a bad example for working women, in what he terms their extravagant and audacious dress, sensual dances and luxury.

Dealing with the social problem, the Cardinal decries Bolshevist tendencies and calls attention to the necessity for reconstruction work. He also preaches moderation in political controversies.

PICK CANADIANS FOR BISLEY TEAM

The Quebec Rifle Association Chooses Three Good Shots to Represent It.

Montreal, Feb. 24.—At a meeting held last night by the Quebec Rifle Association it was agreed to recommend the names of the following for inclusion on the Bisley team this year:

Captain V. R. C. Spearring, 53rd Regiment, Sherbrooke, who shot on the overseas team in 1919; Captain H. Armstrong, 58th Regiment, Westmount Rifles, who is a good rifle shot and had considerable overseas experience, and Captain J. T. L. Shum, 5th Royal Highlanders of Canada, who was overseas with the 42nd Battalion, and who has shot at Bisley three different years, as waiting man.

A LABOR TICKET OUT IN INDIANA

Terre Haute, Ind., Feb. 24.—Declaring that the laboring people believed their leader so far removed that he does not understand their desires, Wm. Mitch, secretary of District No. 11, United Mine Workers of America, yesterday telegraphed Samuel Gompers, asserting that a labor party ticket would be in the political field in Indiana.

BLAMES WILSON FOR TREATY DELAY

Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 24.—Full responsibility for delay in ratification of the peace treaty was attributed to President Wilson by U. S. Senator Warren, addressing a state gathering of Republicans here yesterday. He said the Republican party would "welcome the responsibility of Americanizing the treaty."

TO ASK QUESTIONS IN PARLIAMENT

Ottawa, Feb. 24.—J. H. Sinclair, M. P., will ask the Commons if it is the intention of the Government to restore the law making bank notes redeemable in gold. He also enquires who is Colonel John A. Cooper, who in an interview purporting to have been given by him to a Boston paper, claims to have been the first representative of the Canadian Government ever sent to a foreign country.

BETTER PROTECTION FOR QUEBEC GAME

Association for Protection of Fish and Game Take Measures to Improve Conditions.

Montreal, Feb. 24.—"Game and fish of all kinds and wild birds, other than game birds, received better protection during the year than ever before in the province of Quebec," was the statement made last night at the 63rd annual report of the province of Quebec association for the protection of fish and game.

The report added that in view of the immensity of the territory covered it was not surprising that there should still be a considerable amount of poaching in certain localities. Unfavorable financial conditions being touched upon, an offer was made by the Canada Steamship Lines to make up a third of a thousand dollars on condition that the other two-thirds were made up by the Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk railways.

In reference to recent legislation, the chairman, L. A. Amos, mentioned that the government had agreed with the suggestion of the association to make the opening of the season for big game Sept. 20th, and closing date Dec. 1st.

Officers were elected, and included: Hon. president, I. H. Stearns; president, L. A. Amos; vice-president, R. S. Kinghorn; hon. treasurer, K. Dawes, and secretary, J. R. Innes. An executive committee was also elected.

PURCHASE HUGE COPPER MINES

One Million Dollars Said to Have Been Paid for Sulphite Mines in Manitoba.

The Pas, Man., Feb. 24.—It is understood here that the International Nickle Co. of Canada has bought the huge sulphite copper mines at Flin Flon outright for one million dollars cash. A sum of nearly ten million dollars will have to be expended upon its development before taking out a pound of ore.

NEVER LEARNED TO HANDLE RIFLES

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 24.—Toward the end of the war, American men drafted in July were killed in September without having learned to handle their rifles, Major General Leonard Wood said in an address here yesterday before the "Wood for President Club."

"Such things are what we are trying to prevent through universal military training," he said.

JAPANESE BUDGET.

FRANCE HAS SOCIALISTIC EXTREMISTS

Delegates to National Congress Favor Seizure of the Capitalistic Power.

WOULD REPLACE IT BY SOVIET SYSTEM

The Conservative Wing of the Socialist Party In France Greatly in Minority.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, Feb. 24.—Socialists of the most extreme faction will hold a large majority of the delegates sent from the Seine Federation to the national congress to be held at Strasbourg this week.

The conservative wing of the party is greatly in the minority, as the result of an election of delegates held by the Federation on Sunday. Of the 24 delegates 16 will be under the leadership of M. Loriot, who is in favor of the immediate seizure of capitalistic power and its replacement by soviets, or something similar to them. The reconstructionist socialists, led by Paul Faure, will have nine delegates, while the conservatives will have but one.

SUBSTITUTES FOR IMPRISONMENT

Italian Bill Calling for Abolition of Life Imprisonment in that Country.

Rome, Feb. 24.—Deputy Lombardi yesterday presented a bill in parliament calling for the abolition of life imprisonment and also solitary confinement. Agricultural or industrial work would be substituted for imprisonment. This work would be compulsory and the earnings of the men would be used to support themselves and to indemnify such persons as they had injured in the commission of their crimes. Prisons would be used only for persons under arrest and awaiting trials. Trials would be compulsory not later than six months after a person was arrested. Even in these prisons work would be compulsory.

Under the bill separate establishments would be provided for women and children. In all the establishments schools would be maintained.

14 YEAR OLD GIRL RUNS AN AIRPLANE

Paris, Feb. 24.—The number of women aviators in France, which for some time has stood at 13, is soon to be increased by one who will establish a record for youthfulness, being only 14 years old. She is Andree Farman, a daughter of Maurice Farman, a brother of Henry Farman, one of the pioneers in aviation. Miss Farman flew for the first time in 1919.

PROMINENT MASON DEAD AT TORONTO

Toronto, Feb. 24.—James M. Pritchard, of this city, a prominent member of the Masonic order and a number of other fraternal societies, died yesterday. John Pritchard, of the Globe editorial staff, H. J., of the assessment department of this city, and George F., manager of the Bank of Montreal, Trail, B. C., are brothers of the deceased.

France May Require Payment Of Customs Duties in Gold

The French Government Considering Scheme to Increase Its Income—With Little Gold In Circulation a Currency Standard Would Have to Be Adopted.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, Feb. 24.—The government is considering requiring the payment of customs duties in the equivalent of gold as a means of increasing its income, according to one of the trade journals published here.

As there is no gold in circulation, this would mean the fixing of a relation of gold to currency, which the newspaper suggests might be two to one, which would mean that the duties would be doubled.

Paper Shortage in Germany Becomes Alarmingly Acute

The Enormous Cost and Uncertain Supply of Print Paper, Materials and Machinery Has Brought the Newspapers to the Brink of Catastrophe.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Berlin, Feb. 24.—A general meeting of German newspaper owners, held at Weimar, developed the fact that the newspapers are at the brink of a catastrophe owing to the enormous cost and uncertain supply of print paper, materials and machinery. The government was called upon to save the situation by providing measures to overcome the shortage.

Deacon Jesse Allen, of Oakham, Mass., has just completed 50 years of service as town clerk, and for the same length of time he has been clerk of the Oakham Congregational church. For many years he has been a member of the school committee and he is also a Public Library trustee, a member of the cemetery committee, a fence viewer and a justice of the peace. Of many who have been residents of Oakham it can be said that he recorded their birth, hired their school teacher, presented them a diploma on graduation day, taught them in Sunday school, issued their marriage license, performed the ceremony, drafted their will, recorded their death, issued their burial certificate, attended their funeral, settled their estate, and supervised the care of the lot where they are buried.

SNOW BLOCKADE IN AROOSTOOK REGION

One Life Lost, Several Narrow Escapes and Many Persons Stranded During Storms.

St. John, Feb. 24.—Passengers arriving on yesterday's belated Boston express said that the entire State of Maine, except along the Passamaquoddy coast, had been snowbound for three days and that communication with all points had not yet been reestablished. The storm of Thursday was particularly heavy in the Aroostook section of the state adjoining the New Brunswick border. At Houlton and Presque Isle there were no trains from Bangor and Boston for two days and two nights, and the trains from New Brunswick into Aroostook county had a difficult time getting through. The blizzard was said to be the heaviest in many years. One person perished in Aroostook county and there were several narrow escapes. A family attending a funeral near Presque Isle was caught in the storm on their way home and were rescued by neighbors.

Hundreds of people were stranded at railroad depots all night, hotels being unable to accommodate all the travellers. One train was stalled 24 hours near Presque Isle.

At some points in Maine women, children and clergymen turned out to clear the roads and streets.

While making a tour of inspection General Manager Douglass and General Superintendent Wood, of the Maine Central railroad, were held up at Vanceboro by two locomotives breaking down. When they finally got started from the New Brunswick boundary they were able to reach Bangor, but at Hermon they ran into a snow blockade. Later they were again delayed by a freight run-off. Both considered they had seen some real railroading under wintry conditions.

NO PREPAYMENT SHIPPING CHARGES

The Exchange Rates Blamed for a New Railway Rule on Shipments from Canada.

Montreal, Feb. 23.—The adverse exchange rate between Canada and the United States today brought about a new development in international affairs when an order was issued by the Canadian railways, effective March 1, whereby railway agents are ordered to refuse to accept prepayment of the shipping charges on shipments from Canada to the United States, except in the case of certain kinds of goods on which prepayment is required by the tariff rules. This means that shipping charges will be collected at the point of destination and in United States funds instead of in Canadian and in Canada in Canadian money.

400 FRENCH TROOPS REPORTED KILLED

London, Feb. 23.—It is reported from Damascus that 400 French troops either have been killed or made prisoners by a force of Turks and Arabs near Houran, Palestine, says a Central News despatch from Cairo, Egypt, dated last Wednesday. The correspondence adds that it also is reported that the French are evacuating Baalbek (30 miles north of Damascus) and the Bika Valley, lying between Lebanon and Anti Libanus. There is no confirmation of the reports.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Robert Wilby.

St. John, Feb. 24.—The death of Agnes, wife of Dr. Robert Wilby, of 46 King Square, occurred at the residence of her son, at Gaspereau, on Monday morning after an illness of pneumonia lasing a few days. Dr. Wilby was called to his wife's bedside and was with her when she died. Mrs. Wilby, who was a native of England, is survived by two sons, Cyril, of Gasperseau, Sydney, at Fredericton; one daughter, Mrs. George E. Crow, of St. John, and three sisters and one brother, of England. To the bereaved relatives sincere sympathy is extended. The funeral service will be conducted at Gaspereau today.

William T. Robb.

St. John, Feb. 24.—William Thomas Robb, formerly of this city, passed away at his home, 67 Atlantic street, Halifax, yesterday afternoon, after a long illness which he had borne with great fortitude. The late Mr. Robb was a son of Mrs. Marion Robb, of Union street, this city, and of the late William Robb. After leaving school he was engaged for several years with his father in the latter's harness-making business, until his interest in Y. M. C. A. work, which he had displayed in the local association, led him to adopt this as his vocation. He served either as general secretary or physical director in St. Stephen, N. B., Newport, R. I., Lexington, Ky., Halifax and New Glasgow, N. S. He was in charge of the association at the latter place when ill health compelled his retirement from active work. A few years later he removed to Halifax. A man of the highest ideals, coupled with a bright and genial disposition, he made many friends during his active life and these qualities enabled him to bear his long illness with courage and cheerfulness.

He is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Nina Harley, of New Glasgow, a little son and daughter; his mother, three brothers and two sisters. The latter are: Rev. Alexander F. and Miss Jennie Robb, of Ham Heung, Korea; Andrew W., of Halifax; Mrs. John T. McGowan and Bruce S. Robb, of this city. The funeral will be held on Thursday and interment will be made in Halifax.

U. S. ENFORCEMENT PROHIBITION ACT

Chicago, Feb. 23.—An expedition bent on ironing out, by force if necessary, difficulties of prohibition enforcement in the Michigan upper peninsula was started from Chicago tonight. Major A. V. Dalrymple, federal prohibition director for the central states, left with a party of prohibition agents for Ironwood, Mich., where county officials are said to have overpowered Government agents last week and taken contraband wine which had been seized by the Government men.

NO BAR TO GOING AFTER THAT DRINK

New York, Feb. 23.—If you want to drink, go to it! Uncle Sam won't stop you—that is, he won't stop your going to it.

Here's consolation for the "old soak" who has been listening to these rumors anent the diplomatic difficulties in the way of getting to the nearest drinks—in Canada and in Cuba.

The American citizen who wants to go to Canada needs no passport—only his railroad fare—unless he picks out Ontario. In that case, he will need a doctor before as well as after, since he must produce a vaccination certificate upon crossing the border. But who wants to go to almost "dry" Ontario when he can get results much more easily in soaking wet Quebec?

Going to Cuba demands more paraphernalia; a passport good for six months and twice renewable, which it will take from a week to ten days to procure from the Passport Bureau at the Customs House; a sailing permit from the Income Tax Division at the Customs House showing that the parting nephew has squared up his debts with Uncle Sam, and a considerably larger amount of passage money.

Yet, while the cheapest passage from New York to Havana costs $38—and steerage at that—the travel bureaus report a far greater increase above normal in the travel to Cuba than in that to Canada.

GREAT SNIPER FROZEN.

Indian, Who Went to War on August 6, 1914, Killed 100 Huns.

Moraviantown, Ont., Feb. 23—George Stonefish, Canada's most noted Indian sniper, for three years in France, was found frozen to death last night near his home on the reserve. Stonefish's dead body was discovered by neighbors, and the belief is that he was overcome in his exertions in wading through the huge drifts near his home. Stonefish was the first Indian to enlist after the outbreak of the war, joining the Canadian army on Aug. 6, 1914. In his capacity as a sniper he is credited with having killed over a hundred Germans, but he himself escaped without a wound. He was invalided home in November, 1917. His homecoming was made the event of the greatest celebration that the Indians here have ever known.

The coroner decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

PHONE HEARING TO BE POSTPONED

St. John, Feb. 24.—As Samuel H. Rolt, of Boston, consulting engineer and expert accountant, engaged by the New Brunswick Board of Commissioners of Public Utilities, has not completed his examination of the books of the New Brunswick Telephone Co. Ltd., there will be no extended hearing tomorrow on the company's application for an increase in rates, amount to $264,000 annually, and a reclassification of exchanges. The board will hold a brief session on Wednesday, the day to which the hearing was formally adjourned, and it is expected Mr. Mildram will give an idea as to when his report will be ready.

A preliminary hearing was held on Jan. 21, and about two weeks ago Mr. Mildram came to this city. As it was proposed to examine the books as far back as 1912, the work is requiring considerable time.

It is expected that when the hearings are resumed the company will refer to the tremendous damage done to its lines by storms, entailing, it is said, an extra expense of more than $100,000, and also to the necessity for additional facilities at the Moncton and other exchanges.

CAT PELTS WERE IN GOOD DEMAND

New York, Feb. 23.—The house cat promises to become a profitable fur-bearing animal. The pelts of the best domesticated felines brought $1.24 each here today at the annual fur auction of the New York auction sales corporation. This is an advance of thirty per cent. over October sales. Record-breaking prices were also paid for the skins of ringtail opossum, wallaby, fitch, hair-seal, leopard, ringtail cat and kolinsky.

The advance ranged from ten to 100 per cent. Buyers paid $76 for the finest otter skins.

SALVATION ARMY FIRE.

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 24.—The Salvation Army home here was damaged to the extent of ten thousand dollars by fire last night.

DE LAVAL CREAM SEPARATOR

It will pay you in cream saved from $3 to $5 a cow every year over an inferior or half-worn-out cream separator.

It will pay you in cream saved from $10 to $15 a cow every year over gravity skimming.

It will give you a heavier and better cream, the kind the creameryman wants, the kind that gives you more skim-milk for your stock.

It will last two to ten times as long as other cream separators. Figure it out for yourself and you will see why the De Laval is the most economical.

And added to it all is the immeasurable satisfaction of owning a machine that "works like a charm" 365 days in the year.

We know that when we sell you a De Laval we sell you a machine you'll be proud to own. We sell them on liberal terms. Come in and talk it over.

Hon. A. MacLean Leaves Cabinet

Member From Halifax Has Been a Minister Since October 1917

HAD CHARGE OF CIVIL SERVICE

His Political Future Will Be Shaped by Events of Next Year.

HON. A. K. MacLEAN.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, Feb. 24.—Hon. A. K. MacLean, minister without portfolio in the Union Government, has resigned and will not be in the Government when the House opens.

When the Union Government was formed on October 12th, 1917, Hon. Mr. MacLean was a member of the cabinet without portfolio. On October 23rd he was appointed a member of the inner or war cabinet commission as vice-chairman of the reconstruction and development committee. Soon after the Government was formed Sir Thomas White, who was Minister of Finance, took a lengthy holiday because of his health and Hon. Mr. MacLean became acting Minister of Finance, delivering the budget speech of 1918. Since that time he has administered several departments. One of the important measures with which he was charged was the Civil Service Act, which was very heavy legislation, and marked a great reform in the civil service in Canada. This was introduced in the session of 191. and was amended in subsequent sessions.

Long Political Career.

The retiring minister has had a long political career. He was elected to the legislative assembly of Nova Scotia as a supporter of the Murray Government in 1901. He resigned to contest Lunenburg for the House of Commons in the general election of 1904, and was elected at the general election in 1908. In 1909 he resigned to become Attorney General of Nova Scotia. In 1911 he resigned his seat and portfolio to contest the other members elected from Halifax. He was re-elected as a Unionist in 1917.

Hon. Mr. MacLean's retirement has been mentioned as probable several times recently. He entered the Union Government for the war period and would have retired from the cabinet before the last session but for the fact that he was in charge of the Civil Service Act and also because he felt that, as neither demobilization had been culminated nor the peace treaty signed, his agreement had not completely terminated. He never held a portfolio, but recently declined the offer which was made to him by the Premier of any one of the several departments.

He has always been extremely popular with all parties in the House and has been notably successful in steering through any legislation of which he had charge. It is expected that he will give the government a general support during the coming session, and may sit on the cross benches.

Liking for Parliamentary Life.

Recent statements that he would retire from politics were probably unwarranted, as he has never made any such statement himself and is known to have a liking for parliamentary life. A statement was recently published to the effect that Mr. MacLean was not desirous of accepting a portfolio because it would involve an election is known to have had no foundation, as he would have no hesitation in view of his straightforward record in contesting Halifax county. As a matter of fact, it is generally believed that he will seek re-election there at the end of the present parliament. Leading Conservatives from Halifax who were recently in Ottawa made the statement that he would certainly be re-elected if he accepted a portfolio. His position in the Union government has always been somewhat embarrassing, because of the intense feeling generated in the Maritime Provinces over Union government, but his personal and political friends (and no man has more) will be disposed to justify whatever political course he may decide to take. At present, he is in the position of a good many members on both sides of the House—his political course will be shaped largely by the events of the next year or two. He will likely return to Halifax to reside after the session.

THREE PROVINCES NOT REPRESENTED

Hon. Mr. MacLean's Resignation Leaves Maritime Provinces Unrepresented.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, Feb. 24.—The resignation of Hon. A. K. MacLean does not mean a vacant portfolio, as his particular work ceases with the resignation of the various war measures, and he has not since the beginning of the year drawn remuneration for his cabinet services. It adds to the ex-cabinet ministers who are on the Government side, and makes their number a competitor for numerical strength with those commoners who remain in the cabinet. With him will be Sir Thomas White, Sir Sam Hughes, Hon. T. A. Crerar, Hon. T. W. Crothers, Hon. C. S. Mewburn, all for a time in Sir Robert Borden's Government, and who now freed from cabinet responsibility can enjoy parliamentary life. His retirement cannot but affect the Government's stability, and it leaves the Maritime Provinces without an active member of the Government. It may hasten a reorganization, or make for more rapid disintegration. It cannot but be recognized that to carry on the Government without active cabinet representation from New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island is a doubtful experiment.

PAYS ALIMONY TO TWO SPOUSES

New York, Feb. 23.—Too much alimony has strained Charles Thayer Lincoln's income to near the breaking point, he told Justice Callaghan in the Brooklyn Supreme Court today.

Lincoln, a Government chemist, filed an answer to the application of his first wife for increase of her alimony. She is Mrs. Lucille G. Lincoln, Woodmere, L. I. Mrs. Lincoln contended that because of the H. C. of L. her $60 a month alimony is not sufficient to support her self and her two children.

In her answer her former husband declared he had remarried and that his second wife, Dorothy T. Lincoln, with one child, was suing for separation. He said he was allowing her $45 a month and could not afford to add to his financial burdens.

Indeed not!

"The young woman who wants the so-called extravagant items of dress, such as silk underwear, silk hose and fur coats, starts to save money to get them," W. B. Simmons, a Chicago manufacturer, said today.

"She gets the saving habit, and after her wardrobe is complete she keeps on saving and the money goes into the savings bank. The most extravagantly dressed girls in our factory have the most money in the bank."

ARTISTS INVADE POLITICAL FIELDS

Carrie Jacobs Bond Latest to Make Name in Something Besides Music.

New York, Feb. 23.—The latest feminine entry in the political field is Mrs. Carrie Jacobs Bond. To identify her it is necessary only to say that she is the author of "The End of a Perfect Day." That is far from being the only thing she ever did, but it seems this is the number she is destined to wear for the balance of her life.

Until the present century got well into its stride it seemed to be the fate of authors, poets, musicians and artists of almost every sort to toil in seclusion for small reward and only such fame as came to them at second hand. The poet stuck to his dreams; the musician to his class in pianoforte.

Now we have D'Annunzio as dictator of Fiume, Paderewski as the recent Premier of Poland, Dunsany as a veteran of the trenches, Augustus Thomas as a political orator of parts, Gotzon Borglum, sculptor, as a publicist, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle as a propagandist of spiritualism, and scores of other leaders in this or that movement, large or small, far removed from the cloister and their own fields of endeavor.

A $1,000,000 crane with a lifting capacity of more than 1,000,00 pounds, the largest crane of its type in America, has been put to work at the Philadelphia Navy Yard. It stands more than 245 feet high, and a 10-story building could stand underneath it.

WHY GERMANS LET NETHERLANDS ALONE

Democracy of Holland's Religion Made it Necessary to Subdue Every Man.

Germany invaded Belgium in her desperate attempt to get control of a port on the channel because she knew that Belgium would not be the same united people once her leadership was gone whereas, if the attack had gone through Holland, it would have meant the insuperable task of breaking every will in Holland, the subduing of every individual in that country. This was an interesting sidelight which Dr. J. W. Sutherland threw on the great war in an instructive, scholarly address on "The Presbyterian Church as a Factor in Democracy" before the Men's Federation of Mackay Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon.

Religion and Politics.

Dr. Sutherland, after defining democracy, showed that true religion had been a democratic force in the world for nearly 2,000 years. There had been religious persecutions, but no religious persecution, he said, had really religion as a basis. It was political. Religion at times interfered with democracy, and the speaker compared different forms of religion. In the Roman Catholic church the power worked from above downward. In the Presbyterian church all power rested in the people. It was delegated by the people to the clergy through the church courts. The Presbyterian mode of thought, developed at the time of the Reformation, had put the barons and the nobility on a level with others. Each represented one man in the church. It raised the laboring class to the same level as the nobility in the church, and a higher average of intelligence was the rule in Scotland, for instance, than in other countries where a democratic form of church government did not prevail.

Why Holland Was Untouched.

The speaker pointed out the case of Holland and Belgium, where different forms of church government and different modes of thought prevailed. In Holland the form of religion was akin to that of Presbyterianism and Germany knew that if her attack was launched through that country she would have to subdue every individual in order to break the will of the people. The invasion of Belgium was the easier because the Belgians had not the same rugged tenacity. Germany knew, the speaker said, that the Belgians would not remain long a united people once their leadership was gone. Spain had attempted to crush Holland but had failed for the same reason that Germany knew she would fail. A people so thoroughly trained in democracy by religion could not be crushed.

Presbyterian System.

Dr. Sutherland showed finally how elastic was the system of democracy in the Presbyterian church. It had all the elements of the principle of recall. At the annual meeting of any congregation in the Presbyterian church, representation could be made to the highest court. No other form of government was so elastic. By its system the ministers of the church were trained in democracy.

SMUGGLE DIAMONDS IN FOUNTAIN PENS

New York, Feb. 24.—Joseph Newman, returning from Europe with sixty trunks, was racing up and down the Norwegian-American Line pier at the foot of 30th street, Brooklyn early this morning, waiting for the customs people to release his baggage. He took a worn pasteboard box from his pocket, glanced at it, dropped it on the pier and stepped on it. Then he walked away.

It happened that in addition to the regular customs officials present, there was John W. Roberts, inspector, in plain clothes. He had been watching Newman, because Newman, in the days before the United States entered the war, had been convicted of smuggling rubber into Germany.

Roberts walked over to the crushed box, kicked it into a shadow, picked it up. Removing the pasteboard he found a twisted tube that still contained some toothpaste. Roberts tore away the soft metal, spread out the paste and found a platinum dinner ring set with two diamonds, each about two carats.

Then he invited Newman to go back on board the ship with him—it was the Stavangerfjord—to be searched. In his watch pocket was found a ring set with a 7¾ carat diamond.

"I bought that in the United States," he said. "I don't have to declare it."

"I've lost my pencil," said Roberts. "Lend me one of four fountain pens, I've to write a list."

Newman demurred. His pens were dry, or they were broken.

Roberts insisted, shook one of the pens and heard it rattle. It contained seven diamonds, about 1½ carats each. Another pen had some ink in it. But beyond the ink, wrapped in cotton, was found a little cluster of four diamonds of the same size. The third pen yielded nothing, not even ink.

The diamonds are of the finest blue-white quality, and worth a total of from $14,000 to $22,000.

Mr. Newman was instructed to appear before Thos. E. Rush, surveyor of the port, at the customs house.

He went to Europe about seven months ago for C. B. Richard & Co., 29 Broadway, importers and exporters. At their offices it was said that if he brought back any diamonds he had done so on his own account, not theirs.

VESTA TILLY IN SPOTLIGHT AGAIN

New York, Feb. 23—Lady De Freece is a name that means little to the average American, no matter what his age—not even when there is added to it the statement that she was largely instrumental in obtaining the election of her husband to Parliament.

Even when it is explained that Lady De Freece is none other than our old friend Vesta Tilly it does not mean much more to the young man or woman of today. But a little more than 25 years ago Vesta Tilly was the most popular English music hall singer who ever had come to these shores, and such of her followers as have done little to dim her frame.

Vesta Tilly had "pep." Aside from that she was something new when she came here from London in that she wore man's clothes in an immaculate way without the slightest trace of suggestiveness.

Coming to the dotage of a generation that had been accustomed to beefy English blondes in tights who were the founders of a more or less false impression of "burlesque queens," she was a breath of refinement by comparison. She was a male figurine in broadcloth when she sang "The Picadilly Johnny With the Little Glass Eye."

Vesta Tilly came to this country first in 1895 and returned about five years later. In 1917 many American soldiers enjoyed the hospitality of her entertaining songs and patter when she entertained them in London, after the manner of many of our American actresses.

Her husband, who has been elected to Parliament, is one of the most prominent theatrical managers in England.

SHOPS FOR STOUT WOMEN ARE URGED

New York, Feb. 23.—"How can we segregate the business of 'stout' women without hurting their pride and causing them to give their patronage to the store that continues to deal with them along with their more slender sisters?" is the question that is causing much anxiety to many merchandise managers in New York department stores and specialty shops.

Those in favor of segregation of the stouts say that it is extremely embarrassing for the heavyweight women to have to go to the same department with slender women. These store men receive many calls from stouts for private showings and fittings. They say that stouts do not object to mingling with stouts, for there is always the possibility of their seeing a woman just a trifle heavier than themselves.

Human nature also corroborates the testimony of these store men, for it is a well known fact that a woman views with intense alarm what is commonly known as fat. It can be readily understood that women who come within this class are not fond of trying on garments while their slender sisters are snickering at them.

Storekeepers of the old school, now executives of the larger merchandise houses here, shake their heads and wonder just how the larger women of New York will receive a general adoption of this plan. But a conference of stout wear buyers of Retail Research Association stores, held in New York recently, revealed a general agreement of opinion among the representatives of the various stores that a segregated stout wear department is the most desirable way of handling this class of trade.

All buyers agreed that it would be distinctly to the advantage of the stout women if departments were given to them. It was also pointed out that the most logical way to operate these departments would be to have no one except an extra size stout in the department. This would, of course, make the heavy women feel more at home.

CHAMP CLARK TO RUN AS SENATOR

St. Louis, Feb. 24. — Champ Clark will be the candidate of the Missouri Democratic organization for United States senator to succeed Senator Spencer. Gov. Gardner will defer to Clark and give him his support with the understanding that Gardiner will be a candidate two years hence against Senator Reed.

Clark has been wavering between running for the presidency and the senatorship before he reached the 3rd congresssional district on a speech-making trip. After talking with political leaders, he became convinced that senatorial prospects looked better than chances for the presidency. Reed is said to have urged Clark to run.

LAKEVILLE CORNER, N. B.

Lakeville Corner, N. B., Feb. 16.—Owing to the recent heavy snowfall the roads have been in a poor condition.

The Ladies' Aid was held t the residence of Mrs. Ernest Hargrove on February 4th, with the addition of two new members.

Harold, the little son of Rev. and Mrs. B. W. Turner, has been very ill with chickenpox.

Mrs. W. A. Cogswell is visiting friends in Oromocto and Fredericton.

Byno Bros., who have been lumbering at Scotchtown, Queens county, arrived home on Tuesdy. They were unable to finish their lumbering operations on account of the heavy snowfall.

MADE IN GERMANY SIGN RETURNING

"Made in Germany," the old familiar trade mark inscribed on most of the cutlery, crockery, earthenware, tops and musical instruments in common use three or four years ago, again has made its appearance in Britain, causing surprise and alarm among the inhabitants of that tight little island, who fear a reversion to conditions existing before the war.

Articles bearing this well known sign are beginning to work their way to the front in stores in England and Scotland simply because they are much cheaper than British made goods.

German firms have resumed business relations with British merchants and are affording them unusual opportunities for profit making. British manufacturers are unable to compete with the German rivals, who completely undersell every production. German scissors which have reached the British market are sold at about a fourth of the price of Sheffield make. Knives and razors, which form a large proportion of the imported articles, also are sold at enticing prices. A German made knife can be purchased for one shilling and sixpence (36 cents normally), while its equivalent in English make costs seven shillings and sixpence ($1.80).

Manufacturers in Germany who specialize in toys and musical instruments are offering to supply warehouses and these at prices far below the cost of the domestic make. The presence of cheap German enamel ware is also felt in the British market. For instance, a twelve inch German made basin costs one shilling and sixpence, hereas four shillings and sixpence, whereas four shillings English made basin. In every instance, however, the British made goods are much superior to the German samples.

TO FIGHT PROHIBITION.

Victoria, B. C., Feb. 23.—While the majority of the aldermen are ready to admit that they don't know all there is to know about the workings of the proportional representation plan, the City Council has decided to take a referendum on election day to ascertain whether the voters want the Municipal Proportional Representation Act brought into force.

RED BOMBARDMENT ON SEA OF AZOV

Bolshevik Get Possession Of Ice-Breaking Flotilla Kept In the Vicinity of Murmansk

Naval Craft in the White Sea Also Fall Into the Hands of the Bolshevik—Some Fierce Fighting Going On in the Don Region.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, Feb. 24.—The capture of ice-breaking and other naval craft by the Red forces, which are overrunning the Archangel and Murmansk sections in north Russia, is reported in a Soviet communique, received from Moscow today. The statement reads:

According to supplementary information from Archangel, our troops captured the battleship of the Chesma River flotilla and two heavy and five light ice breakers.

Red troops have captured the fortifications of Gulitch.

The Capture of Murmansk.

Christiania, Norway, Feb. 24.—Refugees arriving at Vardo from Murmansk state that the Bolshevik forces which assaulted and captured the latter port numbered only 5,000 strong, and assert that losses on both sides were slight. Two Russian steamers and several small boats succeeded in escaping with refugees.

TENDER-HEARTED CARMAN.

New York, Feb. 24.—Because a motorman refused to run over a dog that was trotting ahead of a subway train yesterday afternoon, but accommodated his pace to that of the dog, many theatre goers were delayed in getting to the matinees.

Over Two Inches of Snow.

Up to noon today about two inches of snow had fallen during a storm which set in during the night and is still continuing.

2 BIG SHOWS IN 1

AT THE GAIETY

Wed. and Thurs., February 25th and 26th.

BILLIE BURKE

—IN—

'Sadie Love'

BILLIE BURKE

Her wedded life was a dream of bliss—with one tiny exception. She wanted another man! She knew who, too—an "old flame"—and she took the necessary steps.

But hubby's name was Pallavicini, from the land where lovers grow; and "twin soul" Jimmie was a "heavy lover" only on the scales.

Avery Hopwood's famous stage hit that tickled the whole country.

AND LAST (But not least—365 lbs.)

JOSEPH M. SCHENCK PRESENTS

"FATTY" ARBUCKLE IN "BACK STAGE"

He performed on the stage. No, not "trod the boards." Simply sawed the boards; for he was an humble stage carpenter, though an authority on the build of scenery and actorines.

But when the villain ran amuck, and a shero needed a hero—Ah-h-h-h!

And when his own chance came to face the footlights—well, as an actor, he was the best carpenter that ever pounded his thumb.

MOTHER AND TWO CHILDREN BURN

Explosion of Lamp Set Fire to House While Mother Was at Barn.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Regina, Sask., Feb. 24.—Mrs. Robert Davidson, aged 28, and her two children, Gordon, aged two years, and Margaret, eight months, are dead as the result of a prairie tragedy. The explosion of a coal oil lamp set fire to their residence on a farm eighteen miles south of Elrose, Sask. Mr. Davidson, who had gone to the barn to do the morning chores, found the children smothered to death and his wife so badly burned that she died a few hours later.

NEW JERSEY RIBBON WEAVERS TO STRIKE

Paterson, N. J., Feb. 24.—The silk ribbon weavers' union announced last night that they would strike Wednesday morning if they were not granted an increase of eleven per cent. Some four thousand are affected.

SALARIES PAID TO WESTERN TEACHERS

Saskatoon, Sask., Feb. 24.—The school board of this city has granted the minimum salary of $1,200 for grade teachers. Revision of the schedule effected calls for a maximum increase of $480 and a minimum increase of $272 over the salary schedule of 1919. The teachers' associations have accepted the schedule.

GAME SEASON IN N. Y.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 24.—In a special message to the legislature last night Governor Smith recommended shortening the deer hunting season in New York state, prohibiting the killing of does and limiting each hunter's bag to one buck.

STOPPED COCK FIGHT.

Baton Rouge, La., Feb. 24.—An international cock fight, set for Washington's birthday in Opelousas, was prevented by Governor Pleasant and Adjutant General Hunter, with the aid of several detectives.

Takes Over Grocery Business.

Guy L. Lamson has taken over the Morgan Grocery Co.'s business and will conduct it on a large scale. A complete line of meats and fish will be added and the public are assured of good goods at reasonable prices. Mr. Lamson needs no introduction to the buying public as he was for years connected with the firm of Searle & Lamson, meat merchants, and his aim in the future will be the same as in the past—to give prompt and satisfactory service. Mr. Lamson will be in charge of the meats and fish, while Walter Stapleton, who was also associated with Searle & Lamson, will be in charge of the grocery department.

Death at Hospital.

The death occurred at Victoria Hospital at one o'clock this afternoon of Mrs. Delbert Phillips, of Russiagornis, aged 23 years. Deceased had been a patient at the hospital for the past eleven weeks and had undergone two or three operations for appendicitis. She is survived by her husband, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Obed Nason, two sisters and three brothers. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

HUDSON BAY DOG DERBY CLASSIC

Great Race Will Be Run From Sturgeon Landing to The Pas on March 17.

The Pas, Man., Feb. 24.—Alaska malmutes, collies, grayhounds, sheep dogs and northern huskies are the species of animals entered in the Hudson Bay Dog Derby classic which will be held here on March 17. The race is run from The Pas to Sturgeon Landing and return, a distance of 100 miles, for a purse of $1,000 and the Derby Cup. The teams will be sent away from scratch after dark on Tuesday, March 16, finishing, it is expected, 12 hours later on the Saskatchewan river. It is a no-stop race and the first over the finishing line will be declared the winner.

Previous races have been run in blizzards, making the trails blind and the going very rough, tiring the dogs and cutting down the time to 15 hours. With anything like fair weather conditions this time may be bettered by 3 to 4 hours. The entry of Walter Gerne, the Alaska musher, with his string of malmutes has made it difficult to select the favorite. Eliminating Gerne from consideration experienced dog men believe Larry McKay, of Grand Rapids, looms up the most promising. McKay finished second in last year's derby. He drives a wild Barren Lands team, nervous and fierce, with enough fleetness of foot to outdistance anything in the race if they can be controlled and kept to the trail.

The Hayes and Campbell brothers are well drilled in derby fixtures, and like the other large numbers of entries, they are keeping to the bush, training their teams and laying low for surprises. So far the entry list comprises the following well-known mushers: Larry McKay, Joe St. Goddard, Jack and Bill Hayes, Gabriel and Bateese Campbell, Chas. Dysart, Bill Grayson, Vernon Walker, Walter Broosk, J. Bjorkman, Jack Quickley, Billy Rusick, Walter Ross, Chas. Partridge, Billy Lundy, Adam Ballentine, Sam. Pranteau, Harry Sanderson, Johnny Turner and Silas Partridge.

WESTERN FARMER VERY PROSPEROUS

Edmonton, Alta., Feb. 24.—Five or six thousand dollars a day is a fairly good income. It represents the revenue which farmers in the Leduc district derive from the marketing of grain, live stock and general farm produce on days when weather, roads and railway car accommodation are especially favorable. Taken the season through it will be seen that the total value of the district's farm production looks like the financial statement of the Standard Oil Co. in a palmy year. Over 750,000 bushels of excellent grain has already been sold in Leduc since threshing was begun last fall. About 560,000 bushels have been shipped, with the balance in the elevators. Owing to a protracted freight car shortage the grain movement has been slow for the most part of the winter and only recently outgoing shipments were speeded up sufficiently to permit hauling from the farms to reach capacity.

CANADIAN FOXES GOING TO JAPAN

Vancouver, B. C., Feb. 24.—Six aristocrats of the fox world reached Vancouver from Prince Edward Island en route to Japan and they are receiving the best of attention and the utmost consideration. There is a reason. The culpine travellers are of the famous silver fox variety and each is said to be worth $5,000 alive.

BRIQUETTING PLANT.

Regina, Sask., Feb. 24.—Tenders are now being called by the Dominion Government for the construction of the new briquetting plant to be located at Hudson Bay mine, in the Bienfait district, near Estevan. The erection of the plant will be proceeded with as early as possible in the spring for the lignite utilization board. It is the intention of the board to have lignite briquettes on the market by August. The plant will cost in the neighborhood of $400,000.

NO MILITARY TITLES.

Edmonton, Alta., Feb. 23.—If you are carrying a military title of any sort around with you, drop it and come back to civilian terms. That is the purport of an announcement that has been made by the local management of the Soldier Settlement Board, so far as its own staff is concerned. Hereafter there will be no such names as "Capt.", or "Lieut." or even "Col." around the board's offices in Edmonton, the male employees of which are all returned men.

U. S. LABOR TICKET.

New York, Feb. 24.—The American Labor party will place a full state ticket in the field next fall, Secretary Ernest Bohm announced today.

CAILLAUX TRIAL BEFORE SENATE

Former French Premier Charged With Having Treasonable Dealings With Foe.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, Feb. 24.—The examination of former Premier Jos. Caillaux, on trial before the Senate, sitting as a high court on the charge of having had treasonable dealings with the Germans and conspiring to bring about a dishonorable peace, was resumed today. The questions dealt with the relations of M. Caillaux with Bolo Pasha, executed at Vincennes in April, 1918, after being convicted of treason, and Pierre Lenoir, executed in October, 1919, on being found guilty of having had intelligence with the enemy.

M. Caillaux explained that he thought Bolo Pasha innocent until certain telegrams from the United States were published. Then, he testified, he broke off all relations with Bolo.

CONSTANTINOPLE BONE OF CONTENTION

London Newspapers Engaged in Bitter Controversy Over Its Future.

London, Feb. 24.—Agitation in favor of expelling the Turks from Constantinople, which has been a conspicuous feature in one section of the press during the last few days, and which has had the support of religious and philanthropic bodies, met a counter blast from another section of the London newspaper world today, which contend the question was one of such importance that it could not be settled on sentimental consideration, but must be left to the matured deliberation of the Supreme Allied Council.

PRICE BROTHERS BEFORE THE BOARD

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Ottawa, Feb. 24.—Price Bros., of Quebec, will today present through counsel its reason for not obeying the order of the Board of Commerce of February 6 last to ship stated quantities of newsprint paper to certain Montreal firms.

Counsel will appear before the Board in Ottawa when it sits at 2.30 p. m. today to consider making permanent certain ad iterim portions of the order. The order was filed last week in the Exchequer Court of Canada and becomes an order of that court.

VESSELS HELD UP AT BUENOS AIRES

Buenos Aires, Feb. 24.—The strike of the crews of steamships, which has been in progress now for more than a week, has taken on a more serious phase with the extension of the movement to the crews of the principal towing companies. This is delaying the entrance and departure of ocean-going vessels. Only eight tugs are available in the harbor.

TO PERPETUATE HERO'S MEMORY

Lethbridge, Alta., Feb. 24.—Announcement has been made at the local Canadian Pacific Railway general office here that the name of the late Pete Robertson, V. C., of Lethbridge, was being perpetuated by the company by making it the name of the new stop on the main line. About nine miles west of Calgary and one mile east of Keith, a magnificent returned soldiers' tubercular sanitarium is being erected and the new stop of Robertson is being created there for the convenience of the public.

LIBERAL HEADS MEET IN PRIVATE

Ottawa, Feb. 24.—The advisory committee of the National Liberal Association is meeting in Ottawa today in private. It is understood one of the chief items of business is the arranging of the big meetings in Ottawa on March 4th and 5th, when Hon. Mackenzie-King and H. H. Dewart will be the principal speakers. It was stated this morning that no announcement would be issued by the committee as the result of its sessions here today.

To Attend Grading Conference.

A. G. Turney, provincial horticulturist, G. C. Cunningham, Dominion plant pathologist, and J. E. Estey, of Woodstock, left yesterday for Ottawa to attend a potato and onion grading conference. Mr. Estey will represent the shippers of potatoes at the conference.

J. H. Driscoll, of St. John, is a guest at the Queen Hotel.

More Trouble Brewing For The Board of Commerce Over The Scope of Its Activities

The Board May Have to Abandon Some Important Lines of Its Work Owing to Friction With Members of the Civil Service Commission.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, Feb. 24.—There is more trouble in the Board of Commerce. That body is always a storm centre, but this time the trouble is both internal and external.

Some days ago there was a report published to the effect that the Board contemplated the abandonment of one of its most important lines of activity, as the result of friction with the Civil Service Commission. This brought forth a denial from both the Board and the Commission, but the news published was true, and the denial was merely evasive, relating to a different subject matter.

As a matter of fact, the friction between the two bodies is extreme and as a direct consequence there will be some resignations from the staff, and in all probability one if not more of the members of the Board of Commerce itself will resign. The board is said to have been so hampered in its activities in various directions, that it will have to abandon practically all of its activities, even its textile enquiry, because of inability to secure the necessary backing up of its efforts or authority for the payment of its advisers.

Back of the whole history of the Board since its foundation has been a somewhat extraordinary story of lack of sympathy with its efforts from the most unexpected quarters, and even actual attempts to frustrate them. Apparently the point should almost be reached where certain members cannot any longer work under such conditions, and will resign in consequence. How this action may affect the further relations of the Board and Commission remains to be seen.

SIX LIBERALS IN CABINET NOW

Two of These Have Strong Protectionist Leanings, Ballantine and Guthrie.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, Feb. 24.—The resignation of Hon. A. K. MacLean, announced last night, created no great surprise at the capital, as it had been expected for some time. Its effect, however, is cumulative in its influence, and coming just on the eve of the session has created a good deal of comment and speculation among the members.

It is known that Hon. Mr. MacLean had been exceedingly anxious to retire for some time, but remained at the solicitation of his fellow ministers and particularly out of deference to the request of Sir Robert Borden. There is general regret among his colleagues with whom he has always been on the best of terms and will no doubt remain so. While it obviously does not add to the strength of the Government's position there is no reason why it should seriously embarrass them as the retiring minister will certainly be sympathetic in his attitude toward them.

There is not much likelihood of future resignations during the coming session. Hon. Mr. Sifton is in very bad health, but he has been relieved of his most onerous duties. Out of a cabinet of twenty there are now only six Liberals remaining—Messrs. Calder, Sifton, Rowell, Tolmie, Ballantyne and Guthrie, and the two latter have pretty strong protectionist leanings. Union Government, therefore, is gradually but surely dissolving itself.

OBITUARY.

Samuel Stewart Butler.

Lambertville, N. B., Feb 20.—Samuel Stuart Butler, one of the very well known, respected and liked residents of Deer Island, died at his home at Lambertville on Sunday morning, February 15th, after an illness of seven weeks. He was born at Northern Harbor, April 8th, 1848, and was seventy-one years and ten months old. He was the son of the late Samuel and Wealthy Butler. Mr. Butler was a genial and warm hearted man and few there were who came within the range of his acquaintance who did not become his friends. A sufferer for about a year he nevertheless maintained a happy, cheerful outlook of life and as such men always are, will be sadly missed by his family, friends and fellow citizens.

He was married to Ida A. Adams in 1874, who survives, also two sons, Howard, of Fairhaven, Deer Island, and Edgar, of Lambertville; also four sisters, Mrs. Martha Lord, of Lord's Cove, Deer Island, Mrs. Harriet Cummings, of Oconto, Wis., Mrs. Dollie Johnson, of Newburyport, Mass., and Mrs. Wealthy Brooks, of Calais, and one brother, Simon, of Richardson, Deer Island.

The funeral was held at the Disciple church at Lord's Cove on Tuesday afternoon, Rev. P. E. Stiles officiating. The pall bearers were Aaron Lord, Clarence Cline, Howard Cook, Harold Lord, Charles Holmes, Max Lambert. Interment was made in Mount Hope cemetery.

Attended Conservation Commission.

L. A. Gagnon, chief game warden, returned yesterday afternoon from Montreal, where he had been attending a Dominion conference on the conservation of wild life and fur farming. The meetings were held at the Windsor Hotel and were largely attended. Mr. Gagnon stated today that for the benefit of the delegates at the meeting the furs to be put up at auction at the March sale were exhibited. Among these were over $500,000 worth of black fox furs from the province of Prince Edward Island, as well as mink, otter, lynx, beavers, muskrat and other pelts. Dr. C. C. Jones, chancellor of the University of New Brunswick, and J. D. Tothill, Dominion entomologist, who were present at the meeting, have also returned.

Inspectors Made Arrest Last Evening.

Liquor Sub-inspectors Herbert and Fraser Saunders arrested a young man from New Maryland last evening on York street for violating the Prohibition Act by having a bottle of liquor in his possession. He was locked up over night and will appear tomorrow before Police Magistrate Limerick.

F. C. Hunter, of St. Stephen, is at the Barker House.

ST. JOHN COUNTY COURT DOCKET

Four Criminal Cases and Two Non-Jury Cases to Be Heard at Present Session.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

St. John, Feb. 24.—There were four criminal cases and two non-jury cases on the docket of the County Court this morning before Judge Armstrong.

The criminal cases include three cases of theft from the C. P. R. and one of a camera from the Salvation Army Hostel. They are the following: The King vs. Frederick G. Jones; the King vs. Alexander Howie; the King vs. Thos. Petrie, and the King vs. Clarence A. Whipple.

Owing to many of the grand and petit jury panel being absent, due to illness, a special panel had to be ordered and the court adjourned to 2.30.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. John Paisley wishes to thank the young ladies and gentlemen, whom she entertained last Tuesday evening, for the beautiful silver card basket which they sent her.

CROWN LANDS ADMINISTRATION.

Last year's cut of lumber in this province is said to be the largest on record. A very strong demand in Europe and elsewhere and a great improvement in ocean transportation facilities satisfied the lumbermen of business capacity and foresight that the market would be exceptionally satisfactory for unusually large operations. They could see, as far back as last September, that the prices in both the foreign and domestic markets were to be record-breakers, and naturally they arranged to make their operations as extensive as possible—to cut to full capacity. Recent sales in the local market of many millions of logs at $25 and $30 a thousand show that the lumbermen were warranted, from their standpoint, in their activities. Owners of private lands also foresaw the increase in value; in fact, these owners were probably the first to anticipate a strong and active market, and they, as reasonable business men, regulated the price of their stumpage accordingly—from $7.50 a thousand up. But in the Department of Lands and Mines foresight and business capacity were lacking. Stumpage remained at $8.00 for fir and $3.50 for spruce, quite regardless of the phenomenal increase in value and increasing value. The greater the cut the greater the permanent loss to the province. Our valuable assets were disappearing at cheap song prices, and nothing to replace them. In this process of impoverishing the province a few lumbermen, to whom the present government is indebted for the lease of nominal power they have given it, have increased their wealth largely and added much to their worldly comforts. This province is certainly suffering severely from incapacity and worse in the administration of its affairs.

GERMAN PROSPECTS.

The phrase has appeared, that under the peace terms, if enforced, ten million of the population of the Central Empires must emigrate or die. Undoubtedly the industries of Germany gained her before the war an ability to draw on the outside world for much of her food. In the year 1913, for example, the Empire imported about $1,400,000,000 worth of foodstuffs—enough to provide nearly one-fourth of the diet requirement of the population, as values then ran. But now Germany is pledged to pay her obligations to the victims of her military enterprise in such heavy instalments as would, if rigidly enforced, require the application of all her normal excess exportation of manufactures. Her available balance being thus diverted, she would retain no means for the purchase of the foodstuffs required in excess of her power to raise.

Such a failure would put Germany in the position of an overpopulated land. Before her day of industrial expansion Germany had, in 1875, about 25,000,000 fewer inhabitants than now, yet she felt the pressure of overpopulation to such an extent that she furnished the United States alone, up to 1893, with an average well upward of 100,000 emigrants a year.

To contribute further toward bringing down Germany nearer to the basis of self-sustenance, she must sustain the loss of a precious iron ore area in Lorraine, now restored to the French nationality from which it was taken away in 1870. Without these ore deposits Germany can hardly resume the exportation of such items as steel products and machinery on the old scale. A loss of colonial markets and sources of supply capable of furnishing over $50,000,000 of needed goods a year has yet further diminished the capacity of the country to support its population.

The error of two of Germany's one-time contentions now bears fruit. The doctrine that denser population gave the nation a right to elbow for itself an ampler "place in the sun," preached into European ears and then driven home with the sword, made the Europeans fearful of this very hugeness of human numbers. Many such timorous Europeans would welcome a reduction of the German people by emigration to a self-sustaining number. On the other side, the pretence of food self-sufficiency kept up by Germany while at war stirs another part of adverse opinion to ask why the country need begin relying on others for food now.

The situation obviously calls for careful handling on both sides, to minimize the hardship east of the Rhine without transferring it to the other side of the river.

LABOR IS UNREASONABLE.

An Ottawa press despatch of yesterday is another reminder of the unreasonable influences to which labor is subjected by its leaders or its walking delegates. The men were led to believe that if the work on the new Parliament buildings were advanced, as it could reasonably be, to enable Parliament to open the approaching session in the new home, they would work themselves out of a soft job and into four or five months of idleness. A strike was therefore threatened to tie up the work, the result of which would be to force Parliament to meet elsewhere. It became necessary to call in Government influences, which in this instance were Government promises, to avert the strike. Conditions such as these in Canada, or in any other country, cannot fail to react seriously against labor, or against that element in labor which ignores its obligations to the nation and recognizes nothing beyond its selfish and class interests. The unjustifiable threats of labor create uncertainty. Construction and reconstruction cannot be undertaken without capital, and capital will not assume unreasonable risks. Labor is an important factor in enterprise, it is important in building and rebuilding; but its failure to reasonably do its duty invariably imposes a much heavier penalty upon its members than the penalty its failure imposes upon others. As late as Friday last, as an instance, the General Federation of Trades Unions of England announced that half a million dollars was paid out by the organization to serve in the strikes of the cotton employees and the iron moulders; and, says the Federation, "the "saddest thing is the failure of this "expenditure to obtain anything be-"yond what might have been secured "through negotiations." The men lost nearly fifty per cent. of their regular wage during the period of the strike, the funds of the unions also were nearly if not wholly depleted, and finally the men went back to work on just such terms as the employers were not unwilling to negotiate at the outset. A broader conception of its responsibilities would assist labor to reasonably promote its material interests, and action based on such a conception would readily bring about a union of the forces necessary to build broadly and substantially.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S POSITION.

So anxious are the Allies for the co-operation of the United States in the ordering of world affairs that they have been patient to a degree in awaiting the pleasure of Washington in regard to the League of Nations. The present attitude of President Wilson in respect of the Adriatic question places an additional severe strain on their patience, however.

Mr. Wilson's dictatorial attitude toward the Fiume matter when he was in Paris caused a temporary rupture in the Peace Conference, remarks an exchange. Since his departure from Europe and while they have been waiting for the United States to determine what it was going to do about the League—waiting anxiously because important matters were being held up while Washington squabbled—the Allied Governments have been endeavoring to find a satisfactory agreement between Italy and Jugo-Slavia. They have succeeded in formulating what they consider the best arrangement and have submitted it to the nations concerned. Now Mr. Wilson intervenes with the declaration that the terms of the settlement are not agreeable to him and with the intimation, it is reported, that if the Allies settle the question without the approval of the United States that country cannot participate further in their affairs.

Delay in the Fiume affair has already caused one petty war—D'Annunzio's. While it remains unsettled the good relationship between Italy and her Allies is in danger. It is highly important that some agreement be arrived at, even though it may not be the ideal of fairness. And even though the Allies should effect a settlement that would suit President Wilson, there is no assurance that the United States would ratify it. It has failed to ratify his Peace Treaty. If they have to wait on President Wilson, the Fiume question will likely remain unsettled for many more months.

The resignation of Hon. A. K. MacLean as a Liberal member of Union Government was not unexpected. The public have been looking for some time for official announcement of his withdrawal, as Mr. MacLean feels that Union Government completed, months ago, the work for which it was organized. There may, however, be some disappointment that he deferred resigning until the very eve of the meeting of Parliament.

LOWER TAXI RATES.

New York, Feb. 24—More efficiency and lower taxi rates are expected to result from a movement now on foot to organize New York's 5,000 taxi drivers into a union to "better control the taxi business."

CANADA'S RECORD COMPARED WITH U. S.

105,000 Dominion Troops Attained Same Result as 650,000 Americans.

Toronto, Feb. 14.—"A comparison of the last 100 days of fighting of the Canadian corps with the much advertised Argonne-Meuse offensive of the Americans, reveals the interesting fact that the Canadians obtained almost exactly the same results with 105,000 troops that the Americans did with 650,000." The above was one of the many sidelights thrown on some of the more unfamiliar aspects of the war, especially those related to the role of the heavy artillery, by Brigadier General Andrew G. L. McNaughton, C. M. G., D. S. O., who addressed the Canadian Club at luncheon today.

"Without wishing to draw unkind comparisons," he continued, "it is noteworthy that the number of prisoners, machine guns and guns, trench mortars, taken, the number of German divisions met and defeated, the number of square miles of territory liberated were about the same in each of the two instances I have mentioned. The Americans employed six times as many men for about one-half the time. They also employed practically the same proportion of guns per 100 troops. Their casualties were more than twice as heavy. But the Canadian guns attained their much greater effectiveness by expending 2½ times as much ammunition per 1,000 infantry per day as did the Americans."

General McNaughton is one of the professors of McGill University who applied their academic knowledge to the sterner business of war, he having chosen the artillery as his branch of the service overseas. He was twice wounded. His military career was exceptionally brilliant; as a scientist he contributed to the improvement of artillery methods of fighting in a noteworthy manner.

NEW TRADE BASIN OF THE NEAR EAST

A Vast Trade to Be Developed in Countries Bordering on the Black Sea.

"The earliest of all trade routes with which the first peoples who lived in Europe were concerned was that which stretched from Bagdad to Damascus and Aleppo and to Constantinople, which became the meeting place of the East and West, the most cosmopolitan city of the early ages and one from which the highest culture in the world of that time radiated for centuries," says a recent number of The Americas.

"Asia Minor and Palestine have held greater places in the economic and religious history of the world than any other of its parts. From the year 330, when Constantine, with remarkable foresight, established the city of Constantinople on the site of the ancient town of Byzantium and made it the capital of the Roman Empire, to 1453, Constantinople was truly called the centre of the world.

"Whatever disposition is made of Turkey, Armenia, Anatolia, Syria, Palestine and the other hazy nations of the Levant, it is certain that they will be opened to the trade and commerce of the world and will never again be shut in through religious fanaticism and Asiatic brutality as they have been since the Turk obtained his ascendency in Asia Minor in 1453. In the final peace settlement the Turk may retain considerable of his former empire, but it will be on condition that he open his territories to the trade of the world on terms that give a fair field to all nations."

Other parts of the Near East that are certain to develop as markets are the lands bordering on the Black Sea and Greece. Waiting in Weekly Bulletin 829 (Dec. 22, 1919), Mr. W. McL. Clarke, Canadian Government Trade Commissioner, who was then on an official visit to Athens, said:—

"Greece has requirements which can be met in Canada, but in our endeavor to get Green trade our manufacturers must not lose sight of the fact that Greece in one sense is a part and not the whole. In other words, without minimizing the greater and similar needs of the Levant and treat the Near East in some respects as a composite whole. That territory which stretches from the Danube down to the Mediterranean and Northern Africa and from Italy to the Caspian Sea down to the Persian Gulf—the real Levant—buys annually $500,000,000 worth of goods, and it is this territory as a whole I believe which will furnish the Canadian manufacturer with a large market, and they will do well to keep this larger horizon in view."

A woman wearing high goloshes carefully picking her way across an almost impassable street in Philadelphia was met in the middle of the street by a young man bolting across with his head down, who jumped for the same ice steppingstone that she was leading for, with the result that they came together with a bang and both sat down in the slush.

The Stock Market

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York (Wall Street), Feb. 24.—Resumption of trading on the stock exchange after the double holiday was marked by a number of severe declines and a few advances. The early reaction was chiefl attributed to last week's unfavorable showing of local federal bank reserves, which fell to a low record and renewed weakness of foreign exchange. Within the first half hour losses of two to eight points were made by General Motors, Crucible Steel, Republic Iron, Baldwin Locomotive, American Woollen and Royal Dutch. Passage of the railroad bill by the Senate infused moderate strength to the railway list, Canadian Pacific, however, losing two points.

GIRL READS THE MINDS IN WRISTS

Madison, Wis., Feb. 14.—Miss Marion I Hill, a junior in the College of Letters and Science of the University of Wisconsin and daughter of Dr. W. B. Hill, formerly dean of Marquette Medical College, Milwaukee, is finding it difficult to convince her fellow students that she is not a clairvoyant or that she has no intimacy with a spirit world and possesses no powers of mind reading.

For more than a week Miss Hill's reputation has spread. It was declared that no man could tell her a lie, because she only needed to press her fingertips to his wrist and read his innermost thoughts.

"It is nothing more than muscle reading," declared Miss Hill when a representative of the Evening Sun found her surrounded by her Sorority sisters in the Sigma Kappa house on the campus. "I don't know exactly how I do it, but the professors explained it in class the other day. I guess any one could do it if they tried hard enough.

Miss Hill explained the seances which gained for her a reputation as a mind reader. She demonstrated her ability before six classes of psychology students. The most startling of her performances, all of which were gone through with her eyes securely blindfolded, was finding a candle holder in the corner of a lecture room and placing it in the exact centre of a table in the middle of the room, guided by the touch upon her wrists of the fingertips of another student. Miss Hill then found a candle in another corner and placed it carefully in the holder. The "guide's" part was to concentrate her mind upon the acts Miss Mill was to go through. This was the most spooky of her performances and it created a deep impression upon her classmates.

THE LIGHTER SIDE OF LIFE

Scared Him Stiff.

Freddie Brandt tells us of a ham actor who applied for a job in a certain stock company last week.

"What can you do?" asked the manager.

"I can take any part," acknowledged the Thespian. "I have had all sorts of experience, but I am best in heavy stuff. My pathos has gained encomiums everywhere."

"Your sob stuff gets across, does it?"

"Gets across? Let me tell you. The last time I played a death scene a man in the audience fainted away. And when I sent out to find whom it was I had affected so powerfully, I found that it was the agent who had insured my life."

Bill Came Home.

Bill Sprague kept a general store at Croyden Four Corners. One day he set off for New York to buy a lot of goods. The goods were shipped immediately, and as Bill had lingered in New York sight-seeing, they reached Croyden Four Corners before him. The goods in an enormous packing case were driven to the general store by the local teamster. Mrs. Sprague came out to see what had arrived and, with a shriek, tottered and fell.

"Oh, what's the matter, ma'am?" cried the hired girl.

Mrs. Sprague, her eyes blinded with tears, pointed to the packing-case, whereon was stenciled in large black letters: Bill inside.

His Legacy.

Murphy—"Did you hear that poor Tim Casey is dead and left all he had to the Derry Poorhouse?"

O'Flaherty—"No, and how much did he have?"

Murphy—"A wife and ten children."

Kissificative Science.

The editor of the "heart-to-heart talk" column of a daily newspaper received the following letter from a young man:

"Please tell me why it is that a girl closes her eyes when a fellow kisses her?"

To which the editor, in a fiendish moment, replied:

"Send me your photograph and perhaps I can tell you."

Girls Won't Let 'Em.

"Mabel," said the father, "your young man stays until a very late hour. Has not your mother said something to you about this habit of his?"

"Yes, dad," replied Mabel sweetly. "Mother says men haven't altered a bit."

Some Reasoning.

"Your brother has the earache."

"It serves him right," answered the small boy's sister. "Teacher has told him time and again he ought not to play the piano by ear."

Mistake in Symptom.

Housewife—Got a hacking cough and a headache? Well, I've a little wood you could hack and it might cure your headache.

Tramp—Much obliged, mum; but my 'eadache ain't of the splittin' variety.

A 15 YEARS' FIRE

Just think! That is the time through which Mr. H. C. Buckley endured all the fiery torture of itching, burning eczema. His life was a perfect misery until Zam-Buk—the great herbal skin cure—brought complete relief.

Mr. Buckley, who lives at 461 East Broadway, Portland, Oregon, writes:—"For fifteen years I suffered with eczema, and although I tried many so-called 'eczema cures,' nothing seemed capable of dealing with a case like mine. It was not until I had Zam-Buk recommended to me that I began to have hope. This wonderful skin healer soon brought about a change for the better. As I persevered with Zam-Buk the burning sensation got less. I found Zam-Buk wonderfully soothing. Gradually the patches of soreness and the inflammation were reduced, and complete and permanent cure finally resulted. I would strongly advise all afflicted with eczema to give Zam-Buk a trial. It will give them satisfaction. They will not be disappointed."

No skin disease can resist the potent healing forces stored up in Zam-Buk, which is unequalled for old wounds, ulcers, abscesses, bad legs, scalp sores, blood-poisoning, piles, scalds, burns, cuts and all skin injuries. All druggists and stores, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. 50c. box.

ZAM-BUK

FROM THE PEOPLE

SAYS MANY WIVES SHOULD BE MORE SAVING.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Will you kindly permit me space in your paper for a few lines in answer to the letter of February 20th signed Anxious. I do not think it impossible for a couple to live decently on $100 a month if both are saving and the money handled properly. My husband, one child and myself lived on $90 a month up till January 1st. We pay $18 a month house rent and I have always been able to have a few dollars over and above our living expenses from one pay to another.

Furthermore, I wish to express my opinion as to this government money which is flying around us, and say that if the wives of the working class of men (men who wore the soldier's uniform, some for a comparatively short time atnd never went out of the city of Fredericton, while others did go overseas), would be more saving at home and get a little more of the working spirit in themselves, their husbands would not have to attempt to defraud the government by making false statements to obtain money to help support their families; neither would they have to appeal to the Patriotic Emergency Funds for help.

Yours,
SAVING ONE.
North Devon, N. B., Feb. 23, 1920.

THE BASHFUL LOVER.

To the Editor of the Gleaner,

Sir,—As I was very much interested in the letter from McAdam in your People's Column, I would like to make a few suggestions.

The best way to treat a bashful young man is to meet him at the door, give him a welcome and then take him into the parlor. Ask him if he likes music and if so, play for him. Music has often made the most bashful propose. But whatever you do, do not make love to him, just be friendly, take him to shows quite often and spend money on him. This has also been known to make bashful young men propose. If that does not do the trick, I am afraid he is a hopeless case and you may have to take advantage of leap year, but I do not think he will fall as spending money freely should catch him.

Yours,
ONE WHO HAS TRIED.
Fredericton, Feb. 23, 1920.

THE TEACHER QUESTION.

To the Editor of the Gleaner,

Sir,—I have been reading the letters in your People's Column with much interest and I would like to say a few words in connection with the teacher question.

I agree with the man who signs himself A Countryman, that the mothers at home do the teaching and the teachers the examining. Each night my teacher gives me questions to do at home and if I do not understand them she marks them wrong. Now, the teacher must expect my mother to teach me when what she does not understand herself.

Here is another subject: The other day a certain boy in our room brought an excuse from his mother to be let out early. He gave it to the teacher who said he could not be excused a minute early unless he had all his questions right. This he could not do and was kept in until five o'clock. I should think the trustees would take some action in this matter.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor,
Yours,
A. SCHOOLBOY.

WOMEN TO TEACH OFFICE MANNERS

New York, Feb. 19.—Girls that giggle in offices, girls that use the office telephones for beau talks, girls that insist on turning their full powers of fascination on the boss when all that he wants them to do is to hurry along with the dictation are going to have a word of advice dropped in their composite ear presently by their older sisters, who have already a place for themselves in the world of affairs. The latter intend to help the "flappers" in the spring crop of business school graduates to profit a little by their experience.

The Wall Street Women's Club, an organization of women who fill substantial positions in the financial district, has taken the lead in the movement.

"Not everything that it is necessary to know if one is to succeed in a business office is taught in preparatory schools or business courses," said Miss Elizabeth Sibley, president of the club. "There are questions of dress and deportment which are most important. Older women who have gone through the stage of office work, which these girls are just entering, can give them a word or two of advice, which we feel should be of some value.

"We don't intend to ask girls to adopt a rigid style of dress, but merely to suggest that the office is not the place to wear afternoon tea costumes. A great many girls need this advice badly.

"Deportment in an office is just as important as dress. Talking a great deal, visiting around from one desk to another and the use of the telephone for long personal conversations is objectionable, since it interferes with the work of the office.

Only a girl who is sure of her complexion will permit a young man to kiss her on the cheek.

BREAD DOLE GIVEN FOR 6,631 TIMES

Charity Founded in 1792 is Being Carried on for Poor of New York Parish.

New York, Feb. 23.—The Leake dole of bread was distributed for the 6,631st time last Saturday. The figures may be slightly incorrect, but there is no error in the statement that every week, without a break, since 1792, "wheaten loaves of bread" have been given to "such poor as shall appear most deserving" of Trinity parish of New York city. The Leake dole has a continuous history of 128 years of well-doing. There is no other such history in America.

There assembled in the parish house of St. Luke's Chapel, in Hudson street, six little children to receive the dole last Saturday morning. The oldest was 9 years of age, and they represented poor families of the parish. They sat in a row on a wooden bench in the front room of the parish house while Mrs. Margaret J. Tunstall, the parish visitor, who has been distributing the dole for fifteen years, wrapped the bread for them. Four to six loaves went to each poor family. There were thirty-six loaves in all, but not all were given to the children.

Bread Keeps Fresh.

The Leake bread is in square loaves of about one pound each. All who receive it agree that it is of excellent quality; it is so good, they say, that it keeps fresh and toothsome for a week.

For the last three or four years the dole has been distributed from the parish house of St. Luke's Chapel. Previously its home was St. John's Chapel, the old church in Varick street which was recently demolished. St. John's was the home of the dole from 1855 until the services at the church were discontinued. Previous to that year the bread was distributed from Trinity Church.

The Leake dole owes its existence to John Leake, a wealthy philantropist of New York, who, with John Watts, founded the Leake and Watts Orphan Asylum, now near Yonkers.

The portion of John Leake's will in which the bequest is made reads as follows:

"I hereby give and bequeath to the rector and vestrymen of Trinity Parish, New York City, N. Y., £1,000, put out at interest, to be laid out in the annual income in sixpenny wheaten loaves for bread and distributed to such poor as shall appear most deserving."

That was in 1792. Formerly the bread was distributed on Sunday, after the morning service. The poor were expected to walk up the central aisle of the church and go to the altar to receive the bread, thus displaying to the congregation their need. Later it was decided that this was not necessary for compliance with the terms of the will and the day of distribution was changed to Saturday and the place to the parish house.

High Cost Affects Dole.

Formerly eighteen poor families received the bread, but high costs have affected the dole, and now only about ten families get it. They are residents of the neighborhood of St. Luke's Chapel and communicants of the church.

The Leake dole is called by the Encyclopaedia Britannica "the best known dole in the United States." In England, however, there are many cases of doles of bread and other things.

DINNER STORIES OFFERED FOR SALE

Nine Ready-to-Tell Tales Marked Down to 32 Cents.

Canned conversation is the latest device to be launched by an enterprising Londoner.

Heretofore every item included in dinner giving has conformed to the gold standard except the conversation. Food and wine (this is a London enterprise), flowers for the table, lights, invitations, even guests, it is said, had to be bought and paid for. But conversation was free. A man talked and talked without any regard to how the meter was running.

Disillusionment has came, however, with the publication in the London Times' "agony column" of the following notice:

"Shall tell you a good story? A new smart dinner story sent nine consecutive weeks, 1s. 6d."

At the present rate of exchange a group of nine dinner stories may thus be had for about 32 cents.

SEIZE ILLICIT STILLS.

Regina, Sask., Feb. 23.—Constable Van Gorder, of the provincial police, Strasbourg detachment, visited Southey last week and discovered two illicit whiskey stills in the possession of two farmers. The two men were brought before a justice of the peace and fined $1,400 and costs.

QUEER DESKMATES IN PARLIAMENT

The Various Political Schools Curiously and Amusingly Mixed in House.

Ottawa, Feb. 23.—The seating arrangements in the new House of Commons are beautifully obvious of new political orientations. When construction of the Chamber was begun and the first rumblings of coming political upheavals were heard it was thought provision would be made for segregation of the promised factions and groups, but Architect Pearson, whose artistic soul remains utterly unmoved by the raging political storms without, has provided for two parties and two parties only—Government and Opposition.

The result is that the various political schools are curiously and amusingly mixed. Thus, for example, Mr. T. A. Crerar, the Moses who is going to lead the Farmers out of the bondage of Toronto and the Protectionists, finds himself seated side by side by that good Torontonian, Protectionist and potential Unionist Leader, Sir Thomas White; and the Cross Benchers—so-called, are scattered indiscriminately among Ontarioans whose economic prophet is Mr. Cockshutt, and whose gods are supposed to be industrianism's tall chimneys.

Nor is that all. Mr. W. F. Maclean—who once was the father of a short-lived third party of his own—a leader of restless Conservatism and a casual journalistic supporter of Mr. Drury, is seated with Mr. William Smith, a Veteran Conservative who once flirted with the "Ginger Group"—once very much to the fore but now in comparative desuetude.

CHAHAM TO ISSUE $22,000 BONDS

Bonds to Run for 25 Years and to Pay Off Indebtedness.

[Chatham World.]

Sixty or seventy of Chatham's solid men attended the public meeting in the Town Hall Friday evening and, after some discussion, a bond issue of $22,000 was authorized, the bonds to run for twenty-five years—$12,000 of it being to pay the balance due on the Water street pavement and $10,000 for water works—$6,000 of this being for extensions that have been made to St. Thomas' College and Frost street, and $4,000 to pay an overdraft on electric light account. Then, after the Mayor spoke at some length in favor of a bond issue for $78,000 for paving streets, Mr. Watt's motion that it was an inopportune time to undertake such work, was carried unanimously. Speeches were made by W. B. Snowball, George Watt, J. Nicol, J. Y. Mersereau and the Mayor.

THE THIEF TAKES WAR HERO'S MSS.

"World Will Be Spared Another Book," Says Col. Lawrence.

London, Feb. 23.—Colonel T. W. Lawrence, the Oxford graduate who raised an army of 200,000 Arabs and is now known as "the uncrowned King of the Hedjaz," evidently is a philosopher not far behind Sir Isaac Newton in serenity. Newton, when his pet dog Tiny overturned a lamp on the manuscript of a book which he had spent years in writing, merely remarked, according to a famous story: "O Tiny, you little know what mischief you have done."

Colonel Lawrence has not had a book burnt, but he has had one stolen. While on his way to his publisher, recently, with the manuscript of a work describing the war experiences which have made him famous, he was robbed of the bag in which he was carrying it. He set the bag down while buying a railway ticket, and, on turning around, found that it, together with its precious contents, had disappeared.

In telling a friend of his loss Colonel Lawrence remarked, "Perhaps it is just as well. The world will be spared another book."

MASS OF POLES IN FAVOR OF PEACE

Warsaw, Feb. 23.—Numerous mass meetings, favoring peace, have been held in Cracow, Lemberg, Przemysl, and other cities and towns. In most instances they are called by socialists. Similar meetings have been planned throughout Poland in the campaign for urging the Government to open negotiations with the Russian Bolshevik for peace.

ROBBED OF $160.

Montreal, Feb. 23.—Charles Nanson and Conrad Lemanson, two Swedish laborers of Chicoutimi, were robbed of $160 near the Bonaventure station on Saturday in broad daylight by two, as yet, unknown men.

REFUSES TO PAY GAMBLING I. O. U.

Raymond Belmont Contends that Debt Contracted in Roulette Game Outlawed.

New York, Feb. 23.—Raymond Belmont, the financier and sportsman, one of the most prominent patrons of racing in this State, has refused to pay a $15,000 I O U he gave after playing roulette at Newport.

Responding to an order of Justice M. Warley Platzek requiring young Belmont to file an answer to the suit brought against him on Dec. 15 last for non-payment of the promissory note, his attorney, Henry A. Utehart of 27 Cedar street, served the answer today upon Henry Hickman of 50 Pine street.

The plaintiff in the suit is E. W. Rankin, whose address was not disclosed in the complaint. He is represented by Mr. Hickman as counsel.

The complaint is very short. It merely states that in August, 1912, Raymond Belmont gave to E. W. Rankin, "proprietor of a house" in which some gentlemen were playing different games of chance, including roulette, an "I O U" for $15,000, and that although since that time repeated demands have been made upon the maker of the note for the money the amount has never been paid.

Denies He Owes the Money.

He admits that in August, 1912, he did sign the aforesaid $15,000 "I O U." He denies, however, that he owes the money. He bases his denial on two grounds: First, that more than six years have elapsed since such a debt was contracted, even if it was then a legal debt; and secondly, that as the I O U was given in settlement of the result of a game of chance it is an illegal debt and hence uncollectable.

When Mr. Hickman received that answer he smiled broadly and said:

"Seems strange, don't it, that a son of the distinguished financier and prominent sportsman should turn out to be a welcher! The game in which young Mr. Belmont participated was attended by other men equally prominent in society and finance. If Raymond had won no doubt he would have left the house that evening with his winnings and have considered that he had put in a good night's entertainment. But he lost, it seems, and now he turns welcher.

"Of course there is no merit to his defence that the suit is barred by the statute of limitation, because from the seven years that elapsed between the giving of the I O U and the inauguration of the suit the plaintiff is entitled to deduct the two years that young Mr. Belmont was in the service of Uncle Sam. He was, I believe, a Lieutetnant and was active on the front in France. His heroism in France makes it all the more incomprehensible to me why he should welch on the gambling debt, for among gentlemen, a gambling debt is a debt of honor and is generally paid unhesitatingly before other debts.

"I suppose it will be necessary to get the young hero on the witness stand to explain why he has made an exception to his code of honor in this particular case."

When Mr. Utehart was asked today why Mr. Belmont had pleaded the illegality of a gambling debt in resisting payment of the I. O. U., he said:

"I have been so busy with other matters that I have not had time to go into the merits of the case with Mr. Belmont. I have no doubt that by the time the case comes to trial I shall learn just what were the exceptional circumstances under which the I. O. U was given."

Raymond Belmont is now associated with his father in the banking house of August Belmont & Co., of 43 Exchange place. On Sept. 30, 1915, he was married in Middleburg, Va., to Miss Carolyn B. Hulbert at the home of her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Hulbert. Mr. Belmont's brother, Morgan Belmont, was best man, and the guests included Mr. and Mrs. August Belmont.

On June 7, 1916, Justice Shearn of the Supreme Court signed an order permitting young Mr. Belmont to settle upon his former wife, Mrs. Ethel Lorraine Belmont, a large sum of money in lieu of alimony. The amount of the settlement was never disclosed, but it was said that it "ran into five figures."

TAXICAB IS OASIS FOR THIRSTY FOLK

Strange Vessels Cruising in Streets Seem to Have No Destination.

New York, Feb. 23.—Strange vessels these days are cruising here and there among the huge fleets that skim over the Big City's popular thoroughfares continuously, according to the dark report of those who say they have been customers. Stocked with bite-proof antidotes for snakebite, the old familiar brands of first-aid in case of "flu" or chill, of nepenthe and balm of Gilead bottled in bond, these craft weave in and out in the stream of common traffic, and double back again, bound for no particular spot and held to no earthly schedule.

Now and again one of the strange craft detaches itself from the main streams of traffic, and, as it rides at some obscure anchorage, its passenger, or passengers lurch out and roll away into the dry city, their faces lit with beatific sanctification. The pilot, skipper, genie of this blind pig on new essences, and, taking another fare, puts back into the heavy traffic currents, while the traveller within, presumably, gurgles and gurgles.

It is said that the passage-money required by one of these craft transcends weak imaginations. It is also said that there is no want of the stuff that many famous surgeons want brought back again, and that there is never a want of passengers.

INSURE STUDENTS AGAINST FINES

Cambridge Society Protects Members From Zealous Proctors.

New York, Feb. 23.—What is probably the most novel form of insurance in the world has been put into effect by the undergraduates of Emmanuel College, Cambridge University, England, who have formed a mutual benefit society to protect themselves against the fines of overzealous proctors.

The entrance fee to this insurance society is 1 shilling (24 cents) and the dues are 1 shilling a term. This insures the student against ordinary proctorial fines with a maximum of two fines per term and 13 shillings and fourpence ($3.20) per fine. Fines incurred on the 5th of November, Guy Fawkes Day, and the Armistice anniversary, however, are not paid for by the society.

For 2 shillings and 6 pence (60 cents) entrance fee and 1 shilling a term the undergrad can insure against the punishment of being "sent down." In this event the society will stand a dinner for four, pay a maximum of 3 pounds ($14.61) and buy a first class fare to the unfortunate's destination.

INCREASES IN PRICE.

Smoking Costs More in England—Postage to Be Raised.

London, Feb. 23.—On actual and prospective increase in prices announced today include one penny to wopence increase in cigars and an ounce of tobacco, and a halfpenny increase on a package of ten cigarettes. Sewing cotton is increased twopence three farthings a reel.

The recent increase in the price of petrol, which caused a one day's strike of taxicab drivers, is expected to bring an announcement of higher fares tomorrow, when the Home Secretary will receive a deputation representing the taxi men.

In consequence of the increase in railway freights, the belief is growing that parcels post charges will be raised in the near future. The postal employees demand higher wages also, involving an aggregate of about £11,000,000 yearly, and it is expected that a halfpenny extra will be placed on letter postage.

FINED FOR KILLING ELK.

Prince Albert, Sask., Feb. 23.—Fines totalling $500 were levied in the provincial police court against Joseph Carrier, John Le Blanc and Gustave August Carrier of the Albertville district for killing elk and having carcasses of elk in their possession contrary to the provisions of the game act.

"GOODY! GOODY! I smell Cocoa," shrills the small son as he comes in, rosy of cheek after skating.

Whether the young people have been skating, snowshoeing, bobbing, walking or just playing in the snow, the best thing to greet them with when they return is a cup of Cowan's steaming hot Cocoa. It not only drives the chill from their bodies, but it replenishes the strength that has been expended.

Cowan's Cocoa is made in Canada to meet Canadian needs. Manufactured from the choicest cocoa beans, it retains the full delicious flavor. It is a perfect beverage for young and old, imparting strength and vigor from its store of concentrated nourishment.

Easily digested, it is suited to all ages, and the wise housewife serves it to her family every day.

INDIANS OF B. C. HOLD GRAND BALL

Golden, B. C., Feb. 23.—Old social glories of the Kootenay Indian tribe were received at a great ball held on the Indian reservation near Athalmer, at the residence of Lame Joe. The ballroom was gay with decorations of furs, deer skins, calico bunting and long lines of deer meat stretching from one end of the room to the other.

Big Louie, the chief, opened the ball by a lengthy discourse, in which he reminded his hearers of the splendors of old days and referred touchingly to the humble place which the tribe now occupies compared with its old-time supremacy in British Columbia. These sad reflections, however, were quickly dispelled by the opening strains of the lance music which announced the duck dance, led by Mustache Joe and his wife. Mme. Joe achieved a telling simplicity by her costume, which was a yellow and green kimono. Mrs. Lame Joe now in the whirl of her honeymoon, wore a yellow Mother Hubbard and goat skin moccasins, trimmed with skunk fur. Her hair was becomingly coiffed with eagle plumes, grizzly bear teeth and tails of the white tailed deer. Other guests were similarly costumed, furs and feathers forming the principal ornaments.

A pleasant interruption to the dance was the supper, served at midnight on a saddle blanket spread on the ballroom floor.

NOTICES OF MOTION FOR PARLIAMENT

Ottawa, Feb. 23.—Several notices of motion already have been given by members of parliament, including two by Sir Sam Hughes. The first of Sir Sam's motions deals with the Guelph Novitiate matter and is as follows:

"That in the opinion of this house Major Hirsh and Capt. McCaulay in the conduct of the visit of the soldiers to the Guelph Novitiate which has been the subject of inquiry displayed the greatest observance of the order of their superiors and that each in his own sphere carried out those orders in an absolutely satisfactory manner and with tact and discretion towards the parties immediately concerned."

ROBBING OF MEN ABSENT IN WAR

Boston, Feb. 23.—Charged with betraying the trust placed in him by his employers while they were serving their country during the war, Arthur L. Jacobs, 55 years old, of 551 Park street, Dorchester, was in the Central Court yesterday and pleaded not guilty to the larceny of $13,400 from Eldredge & Keville, real estate dealers, whose offices are at 10 State street. Jacobs was held in $25,000 bail for trial on March 8.

Jacobs was arrested in Gardiner, Me., by Inspector Silas Watt of police headquarters. He had been employed by the firm for 23 years, and was considered their most trustworthy employee.

Col. Wm. J. Keville went to France with the Yankee Division as commander of the 101st Ammunition Train. The senior partner of the firm, Col. Edward H. Eldredge, commanded the 15th Regiment, Massachusetts State Guard, and devoted much of his time to his duties with that regiment. To Jacobs fell much of the responsibility of carrying on the business.

Failed to Show Up a Week Ago.

About a week ago Jacobs did not show up at the office. Col. Eldredge received a letter from him the day following his non-appearance, saying that he was going to take a few days rest.

Shortly after new assistants began going over the books it became evident that something was wrong. The matter was called to the attention of Colonels Eldredge and Keville and an investigation was begun. It developed that thousands of dollars were unaccounted for, it is stated.

In addition to manipulating the accounts to cover deficiencies, Jacobs is alleged to have misappropriated funds that had been set aside for the payment of taxes on property either owned or controlled by his employers. It was stated last night that Jacobs' disappearance followed the announcement that a certain parcel of property would be sold to pay the taxes due on it, and that these taxes were among those for which the firm had set aside certain funds.

Col. Eldredge was unable to state exactly last evening over just how long a period the thefts have spread, but believed the majority of them were committed during the war and in the absence of the members of the firm on war service.

Exact Amount Not Yet Known.

When it became evident that a shortage existed, the work of determining the amount missing was begun in earnest, and after the total had been run up to $13,400 a warrant for the arrest of Jacobs was sworn out. Last night Col. Eldredge stated to a reported that the amount missing will probably reach a somewhat greater figure than that named in the warrant.

Col. Eldredge stated that the loss will in no way affect the business. He said that Jacobs disappeared only about a week ago, and the auditors and accountants who are working on the books have not completed their work. Until they have done so, the full extent of the firm's loss will not be known.

PARTIES CLASH RE DAYLIGHT SAVING

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 23.—Rural life and city life clashed in the same chamber today, the one against the hour of light gained by the daylight saving law and the other championing the cause against darkness.

Municipal authorities, representatives of chambers of commerce, civic organizations, labor and manufacturers, joined forces against the farmers and their allied agricultural groups in an attempt to force defeat by the Legislature of the Betts bill, which would repeal the daylight saving law.

Advocates of the repeal of the law, led by officers of the State Grange and the Dairymen's League, declared the daylight saving law had driven foreign labor from the farms, caused reduced food production and was directly responsible for the increased cost of food stuffs. Farmers, they argued, lost money because of the law, and W. W. Rayfield, Monroe County, district school superintendent, said that country school children do not get the proper amount of sleep under operation of the law, because they are called upon to aid fathers with evening chores.

Organized labor of the state expressed opposition to the repeal of the existing law. Jas. P. Holland, president of the state federation of labor, said that the workers of the state have benefitted physically, mentally and morally under operation of the statute.

Robert G. Cook, president of the Fifth Avenue Association of New York City; A. M. Travers of the Merchants' Association of New York, and W. A. Ferguson, secretary of the daylight savings committee, of the state, pleaded for defeat of the Betts bill and retention of the daylight saving law, because they declared the statute has been a health boost to employees and has increased their efficiency.

THIRTY MALTESE DEPORTED IN U. S.

Canadian Government Will Not Allow Any More to Enter.

New York, Feb. 23.—Thirty immigrants from Malta, bound for Canada, who have been held at Ellis Island by Canadian authorities, were this afternoon ordered deported back to their home country.

Dr. R. T. Rutherford, of the Canadian Immigration Department, explained that he has recently received instructions from Ottawa that no more Maltese will be received as immigrants in Canadian under any conditions whatever.

"My instructions were positive on this score," said Dr. Rutherford.

Dr. Rutherford said he had received no information as to why the Canadian Government will in future exclude people coming from Malta.

"It is true that Malta is under British rule," he said, "but it is also true that even Englishmen must answer to Canada's immigration requirements before they will be admitted.

"Owing to labor conditions in Canada we have been instructed to enforce the exclusion laws to the letter. There is an increasing tide of immigration to Canada by way of New York, and I believe there will be a big rush this spring. Most of the aliens are now coming from southern Europe and we are sending a great many of them back. We are hand-picking the immigrants for Canada now."

NEW SETTLERS ON IRRIGATED LANDS

Brooks, Alta., Feb. 23.—This town is looking forward to a very busy spring as many new settlers who have already purchased irrigated land in the district, are coming here with their families to commence farming operations. A quarter section of irrigated land between Brooks and Buchess nas been sold for $85 an acre. The prospects are that an additionl tracts of irrigated land will be put on the market in this vicinity for another year or so. Hundreds of acres of spleadid irrigated land in this district will not be sold for several years yet, and in the meantime work will be rushed to enlarge the system to carry the water to this land.

TWEEDSIDE, N. B.

Tweedside, N. B., Feb. 18.—We have had a very heavy snow-fall and the roads are very heavy.

Our school has been closed for a short while on account of the influenza, which has got a very broad spread around this place.

We are very sorry to hear of so much sickness around here and hope all soon recover again.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Seeds left here yesterday for their home in Chapleau, Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Messer, who were very ill with influenza, are recovering.

A very pleasant evening was spent at Jim Morrow's and all had a very pleasant time.

We are glad to say Mr. Roy Messer will soon be able to return to work again.

Knitting and crocheting is the order of the day.

Why do Some Folks Dream All Night

IF you are one of those healthy individuals who "never" dream, be sure you are a deep sleeper. Your sleep does you lots of good.

You'll never get sound, refreshing sleep unless you relax. You can't relax in a bed that rattles or groans—or on a spring that squeaks every time you move.

The least noise keeps the nerves on edge. You may not wake up—but your nerves will. That's one reason you dream.

WHAT you need for deep, dreamless sleep all night is a perfectly quiet bed and a spring that invites complete relaxation.

That is why folks sleep so much better on a Simmons Metal Bed and a Waldorf Box Spring.

The Simmons Bed is noiseless. It locks firm at the corners. The corner locks are made of pressed steel—have much longer bearing surfaces than the average—fit true and snug—not a creak, rattle, or feeling of unsteadiness.

The Simmons Pressed Steel Corner Locks are protected by basic patents—exclusive with Simmons Limited, not to be duplicated or imitated.

And these patented corner locks have made possible the Three-piece Bed—the new Simmons idea—the spring forming a single unit with the side rails.

THE Waldorf Box Spring really does what you have always wanted a spring to do.

It invites complete relaxation.

It supports the body at ease on fine resilient spring coils—each coil conforming freely to the contours, so that the spine is perfectly rested, whether one sleeps on the back or on the side.

It fits firmly on the bed—never sags or humps, never loses its resiliency.

THE most advanced thought of the day about sleep is "a separate bed for each sleeper," either in a separate room or in a Twin Bed. Physicians have been urging Twin Beds for years—and Simmons Limited has long made a specialty of Twin Beds.

They are welcomed by people of nice feeling everywhere.

Simmons Beds offers you a wonderful choice of brass, and enamel in colors and in beautiful natural wood effects to match your bedroom decorations.

And when you are selecting your Simmons Beds with an eye to their appearance in the room, you will see that Simmons has for the first time established beautiful and authoritative design in Metal Beds.

If you like, we will send you the names of merchants in this community who can give you Simmons Beds, Waldorf Box Springs, Mattresses and Pillows.

PURE ICE CREAM IN CITY'S DISH

Prohibtiion Promises Big Increase Over N. Y's 11,000,000 Gallon Demand.

New York, Feb. 23.—New York is consuming approximately 11,000,000 gallons of ice cream annually. Since prohibition means an even greater ice cream consuming public, and convalescent patients and children use much of it, Dr. Royal C. Copeland, Health Commissioner, is about to submit to the Board of Health some proposed standards for ice cream. The result of an investigation of the ice cream industry, made by Edward Hoctor, supervising inspector of the Bureau of Food and Drugs, is now before Dr. Copeland.

"The necessity for ice cream standards," Dr. Copeland says, "is made apparent because of the conditions found by Mr. Hoctor in his investigation. For instance, he found some dealers selling ice cream containing 8 per cent. of butter fat for 50 to 60 cents a quart, whereas, other dealers were charging the same price for ice cream which only contained from 2 to 4 per cent. butter fat. He also found that ice cream of inferior quality, although the public had to pay the same price as for good quality ice cream, contained large quantities of gelatin.

"This gelatin in many instances was not food gelatin, but glue, and contained poisonous heavy metals. Often the ice cream was not what its name would imply, a frozen cream, but a mixture of a small percentage of milk, fillers composed of cornstarch and tapioca, and a binder (glue) which was used to keep these materials together.

Price no Index to Quality.

"The wide variance in the milk fat content shows that the term 'ice cream' is misleading and is a fraud perpetrated upon the public owing to the fact that the price paid does not always control the quality of the article dispensed. These facts were ascertained during the summer of 1918, when a chemical analysis was made of 121 samples of ice cream, drawn from the different factories of this city.

"The necessity of the standardization of ice cream is most forcibly brought to our attention by the fact that the inspector of foods has no means of ascertaining the true ice cream from the imitation; therefore, the inspector's power of control is lessened and unscrupulous manufacturers are in a position to adulterate this product without fear of molestation. In view of this fact, Mr. Hoctor's investigations and the certain knowledge that a considerable amount of ice cream is consumed by children, it is very essential that this product which is a milk product, should be standardized the same as milk and cream. Mr. Hoctor recommends that besides the regulation of the sale of adulterated ice cream the board adopt an amendment to the Sanitary Code defining ice cream.

"The proposed standards were decided upon, only after an examination had been made of the standards adopted by various other states in the Union. The list of ingredients and figures submitted is, moreover, the result of long study and careful research of not only the largest individual manufacturers of ice cream throughout the city, but also the final result of many conferences with the retail trade representatives."

RIVERS OF RUM FLOW INTO U. S.

Washington, Feb. 23.—While the Government is planning a "dry fleet" to stop whiskey smuggling into the country, the Anti-Saloon League is figuring how to check the great rush of tourists out of the country to nearest "wet" stations, Cuba and the Bahamas particularly. The Government is relied upon to catch the "stuff" coming. The Anti-Saloon League would like to stop the consumer going.

The second deficiency appropriation bill now carries an additional $1,000,000, written into it by the Senate yesterday, for enforcing of the law prohibiting importation of liquor. The extra million will be used partly, it is understood, to finance a "mosquito" fleet for Federal patrol of coastal waters.

ACQUIRE WESTERN LANDS.

Lethbridge, Alta., Feb. 23.—A deal has been put through by a Spokane agency whereby a colony of Mennonites, known as the New Elm Spring Colony, has acquired 3,000 acres of land south of Woolford, known as the Harris farm.

GREAT AERIAL FLIGHT.

Calgary, Alta., Feb. 23.—Calgary will likely be made a stop-over point in the New York-Alaska flight which is to be made under the auspices of the Aero Club of America, in the spring, as an invitation has been sent by the Calgary Aero Club to the Aero Club of America, New York. Captain Fred McCall, D. S. O., M. C., D. F. C., president of the Calgary Aero Club, said the invitation was forwarded and would probably be accepted.

Two Major League Players Said to Have Been Dropped For Gambling on Baseball

Pair Said to Have Been Barred from Baseball as a Result of Revelations—One Sued by Bookmaker and He Squealed on the Other—Quiet Probe of World Series Scandal.

New York, Feb. 24.—As a result of a long investigation carried on in absolute secrecy the major leagues have "dropped" two well known players for gambling on championship baseball games, writes Joe Vila in the New York Evening Sun. The magnates will not stand for the publication of these players' names and probably will deny that the dread "blacklist" has been used, yet it is a fact that the players involved have been quietly notified that their "services no longer are required," which is taken to mean that they have been permanently barred from organized baseball.

It appears that one of these betting ball players "squealed" on his partner in crime and furnished so much damaging evidence that the banishment of both men was a foregone conclusion. Incidentally, the "informer" talked freely about the betting evil in general explaining how other players had been approached by professional gamblers, who were eager to "fix" the games.

Sued by a Bookmaker.

Two years ago the player, whose "confession" is in the hands of the baseball governors, lost a big wager on a certain ball game, refused to pay the money and was sued by a bookmaker. Before the matter became public property, however, somebody for the best interests of baseball settled the bookmaker's claim. The player, who thus escaped unpleasant notoriety, was allowed to remain in one of the big leagues, but he was kept under close surveillance.

Receiving notice recently that his career in organized baseball was at an end as a result of his connections with certain gamblers, this player consented to "make a clean breast of it" and proceeded to amaze baseball investigators with a tale that made the withdrawal of another player imperative. It is the policy of the magnates to suppress scandal, and in these two cases they wish to avoid publicity. By dropping these players out of the game without setting forth the details the baseball governors believe that their action will serve as a warning to other big leaguers who have been under suspicion for some time.

Perhaps some day the magnates will disclose the names of the banished players, but just at present official confirmation of the story cannot be obtained.

If certain players who participated in the last world's series between the Chicago White Sox and the Cincinnati Reds are among the missing this season the conclusion will be drawn that a quiet and thorough investigation of the scandalous charges has borne fruit. The powers that be have been spurned on by adverse criticism and, although they were inclined to ignore the stories of sharp practice when first published in the newspapers, they now are determined to get rid of one or more players if found guilty.

Baseball must be kept clean and honest. The magnates have sense enough to realize this important fact and, in response to the clamor of the fans who own the game, they have promised to do something that will eliminate betting as far as possible. A club owner who refuses to bar the gambling element from his park should forfeit his franchise. A player who associates with gamblers or bets on the games should be expelled. The time for drastic action has arrived and the public is the jury.

Intercollegiate League to Furnish Hockey Features

Acadia to Play Mount A. Tonight While on Way to Fredericton

U. N. B. SQUAD IN GOOD SHAPE

Even if Acadia Should Lose Tonight They Still Can Tie U. N. B.

Acadia and Mount A. play at Sackville tonight in a game which will have an important bearing upon the outcome of the western section of the Intercollegiate Hockey League.

With Fredericton as their ultimate destination the Acadia team arrived at Sackville this morning, and if they win from Mount A. tonight it means the Wolfville college still will have a chance of landing the western section of the league.

Should Mount A. happen to get out of the slough of despond and win from Acadia tonight, then there will be nothing of importance attach to the meeting of Acadia and U. N. B. here on Thursday night aside from the opportunity the game will give to settle old scores between the two institutions, which just now have strained athletic relations as a result of last fall's football turmoil.

Expect Lively Contest.

The fact that the two teams can still be tied after playing here on Thursday night, however, and the recollections of the closely contested combat they staged at Wolfville a few weeks ago, makes the U. N. B.-Acadia game the feature event of the local intercollegiate hockey season, and if it doesn't provide a lively contest most of the sharps will be willing to admit their dope is very far astray. At the same time there is a disposition on the part of U. N. B. students to give odds on their team to win in spite of the hard game that is expected.

Capt. Bert Burgess had the U. N. B. squad out for practice at the Arctic Rink last night, and many of the railbirds who watched the workout declared the local collegians never looked any better than last evening. It is practically certain there will be no changes in the U. N. B. lineup, as all the first string men seem to have rounded into good form again, and with his comparatively weak line of second string men Coach Blaine Pugh will apparently be forced to make few changes unless the going is heavy or his team can get what looks to be a safe lead.

No Play-off Negotiations.

There have been no negotiations as yet looking towards a play-off between the western and eastern ends of the Intercollegiate League. This, however, doesn't mean there will be no play-off but is merely the result of nobody wishing to make a move until there is no question as to which teams will have the right to participate in the play-off. Just as soon as Thursday's game here is over the winners would be in a position to negotiate with the eastern champions, but the eastern division has been in a chaotic state this season and no games have been played. It is now said, however, that St. Francis Xavier and King's College will play a game on Friday night to decide which team will meet the winners of the western section of the league. That being the case, it is expected details of arrangements of the play-off will be completed by Saturday night and the game will take place early next week.—J. D. B.

BOWLING

Eleven bowlers took part in the weekly roll-off at the Palace Bowling Alleys last evening. W. Thompson was high man with a total pinfall of 298, followed by C. Pederson with 276, and Searles with 272.

W. Thompson	107	91	100—298
Pederson	91	79	106—276
Searles	91	90	91—272

New Glasgow Team Coming

New Glasgow, famous in the hockey world as one of the few towns in the Maritime Provinces to ever challenge for the Stanley Cup, may sned its 1920 model hockey team on a tour of New Brunswick.

While no news of the proposed tour has reached here officially announcements of the trip have been made in Nova Scotia, and it is believed Fredericton will be included. New Glasgow's team is led by none other than Chester Greggory who, in the days of the old Capitals and Moncton Victorias was one of the stormiest of storm centres in hockey and is said to be just as good as ever.

The New Glasgow team have played some exhibition games with St. Francis Xavier College sextette this winter and if they could be secured to play Marysville here the game should prove equally as good an attraction as the Moncton team while the fact that they have been playing with St. F. X. evidently means the players hold amateur cards.

Connie Mack's Battery Men Begin Training In South

But List of Candidates Doesn't Sound Very Impressive at This Distance.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Lake Charles, La., Feb. 24.—Connie Mack and twelve pitchers and catchers of the Philadelphia American League club began spring training here yesterday. The weather was fair and warm.

The pitchers reporting yesterday were Lyle Bigbee, Charles Eckert, Robert Hasdi, David Keefe, Walter Kinney, Patrick Martin, Wm. Pierson, Edward Rommet and Wm. Greyvell.

The catchers were Wm. Styles, John Walker and Ralph Perkins.

MENOSKY A HOLDOUT.

Boston Red Sox New Outfielder Wants Raise Promised Before He Was Traded.

Flint, Mich., Feb. 23.—Mike Menosky, of this city, an American League outfielder for the Boston Red Sox, has declared himself a hold-out. He was in good form last season and ended the year with an exceptionally good record. He batted better than .280 and collected no less than eight home runs. Clark Griffiths, of the Yanks, promised Mike a boost in salary, but after he had been traded to the Red Sox, Mr. Frazee refused the increase, so Menosky has returned his 1920 contract unsigned.

GIANTS SIGN PITCHER.

Stauffer, Recommended by Jeff Tesreau, to Have Trial.

Souderton, Pa., Feb. 23.—Clarence Stauffer, of Bethlehem, who pitched for the Souderton team, which headed the Montgomery County League last season, has signed a contract for the New York Giants and will leave for the South with the rest of the team for the annual spring training. His selection by the Giants followed a recommendation by Jeff Tesreau.

Philadelphia, Feb. 23.—Jesse Tannehill, former Red Sox pitcher, has signed as a scout with the Phillies.

MASON HANDED OUT WHALING TO CONANT

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Fort Wayne, Ind., Feb. 24.—Frankie Mason, world's flyweight championship claimant, made a punching bag of "Red" Conant, of Port Clinton, Ohio, last night, and the bout was stopped by the referee in the third round. Conant at the time was hanging on the ropes in a helpless condition.

Montreal, Feb. 24.—Eugene Brosseau knocked out Young Ahearn in the first round of a scheduled ten round bout here last night and is signed up to fight O'Dowd here May 24.

"STRANGLER" LEWIS IS AFTER STECHER

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York, Feb. 24.—Ed "Strangler" Lewis, who is matched to wrestle Jim Londos, the Greek champion, to a finish, next Tuesday night at Madison Square Garden, is due to arrive in town today. The match will give followers of the mat sport an opportunity to size up Lewis in comparison to Champion Joe Stecher.

The "strangler" is keen upon securing a return match with Stecher. He also wants to prove that he is the Greek's master and even up for the two-hour limit match that Londos wrestled him some time ago.

HAWKINS, 2.16 1-4, SOLD AT BOSTON

Veteran Campaigner Has Been Raced for 14 Years and is Still "There."

Boston, Mass., Feb. 23.—Hawkins, 2.16¼, the sturdy black gelding which on Jan. 1 celebrated his 19th birthday, but has shown that he does not intend being relegated to the ranks of the retired trotters, will be raced on the Charles River Speedway next season by M. F. Maher, a member of the Metropolitan Driving Club.

Hawkins many times has been referred to as "the wonder," and he has deserted it. The gelding has been raced in professional and matinee events for the past 14 years. His record of 2.16¼ was taken several seasons ago, yet it was only last August that, driven by former owner Newbert, he forced The Lincoln to trot in 2.13¼ to win a race at Marshfield fair.

Maher says he expects to beat that next season. He points out the fact that when Goldsmith Maid took her mark of 2.14 at old Mystic in 1874, Budd Doble's mare was nearly as old, so why should not famous old Hawkins continue to show them a thing or two next season?

DUTCH BIKE RIDER REACHES NEW YORK

Van Neck, Long Distance Champ, Egg and Goullett Come for Six Day Race.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York, Feb. 24.—Van Neck, Holland's long-distance bicycle champion, arrived here from France yesterday, on the steamship La Savoie, to compete in the coming six-day race. Oscar Egg and Goullet also arrived for the grind.

Egg will team up with Eddie Madden. He expected to ride with Van Neck, but made the change on hearing that Goullet and Madden were at odds.

Ainsmith is First To Start Training

Macon, Ga., Feb. 23.—Eddie Ainsmith, catcher on the Detroit American League team, is the first arrival in the Tigers' training camp again this year putting in an appearance on Saturday. Manager Hughie Jennings and Pitching instructor Jack Coombs are expected in a day or two.

BUNNY HEARNE TO REJOIN THE BRAVES

Former Toronto Southpaw to Return to Boston Club This Year.

Boston, Feb. 23.—Pres. Grant went to New York yesterday afternoon and just before leaving town he announced that he and "Bunn" Hearn had come to terms. Hearn, who is a lefthander, was with the Braves two years ago. He got away to a good start in 1918, but in compliance with Government regulations had to seek essential employment. After leaving Boston he played with an industrial team at Beloit, Wis., and last season did splendid work in the box.

He said he would be on hand at the training camp at Columbus, Ga., March 2, and in fine physical condition. This will help out the southpaw end of the Braves' pitching staff somewhat, but President Grant is hunting for left-handers and other material.

CURLING

This afternoon two rinks will play on the Thisties' ice while the other two will play at Carleton and in the evening the rinks will change about.

Last evening a suggestion was brought before a meeting of the Fredericton club by Secretary McKay that next Sunday is Universal Church Sunday and the membrs of the club agreed to attend the Methodist church in a body on Sunday evening to hear the chaplain, Rev. G. M. Young, who has promised to preach a curling sermon.

The Wee Neilly match, it is expected, will be played some time during next week and the usual six o'clock supper will be a feature of the event again.—W. M.H.

BILLIARD TOURNEY STARTS IN BOSTON

Boston, Feb. 24.—The 17th annual Class A 1p.2 balk line billiard tournament opened here last night at the Boston Athletic Association with Davida McAndless, of Chicago, the present Class A champion, placed with Julian Rice, who recently won the Class B championship in Brooklyn. McAndless won his match by a score of 300 to 137, his high runs being 50, 49, and 33.

The tournament, which is held under the auspices of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players, will be in progress for ten days. Two matches will be played daily.

WEATHER FORCES 'SENSIBLE' STYLES

Short Skirts, Low Necks and Pumps for the Moment.

New York, Feb. 23.—Whether the cause is common sense, fear of influenza or a change in the styles, there has been a great change in feminine apparel on the so-called streets in the last ten days. Pumps and silk stockings practically have disappeared. Skirts have lengthened to what used to be called "sensible," and now barely clear the shoe tops. Furs have been fastened at the throat and rouge and powder have not been so noticeable.

Experts in these lines are inclined to blame the change upon the weather alone. It is said that no question of health has entered into the calculation—that it is merely a matter of a change in style being forced by excessive discomfort. No matter how trim the foot and ankle it has been impossible to wear pumps in the slush and snow. They come off. Short skirts are still adorable, it is said, but their real purpose is to display silken hose, and when it is impossible to wear these limb draperies who wants to show a yard of heavy woollen or cotton yarn? Furs are still intended for adornment and not for warmth, but wet snow, sleet and rain are most uncomfortable upon bare feminine chests.

If we could only have dry zero weather, it is said, the feminine wardrobe would bloom again in all its summertime glory.

$20,000 WORTH OF DRUGS SEIZED

Vancouver, Feb. 23.—Drugs, the wholesale value of which is estimated at $20,000, were seized by the police here last evening in the home of a Chinese, known as James J. Wing, or Chanchin. Letters were also found from Spokane, Seattle, Butte, Tacoma and Denver requesting shipments at prices varying from $75 to $80 an ounce. Diamonds, rings, watches and expensive furs, presumably bartered for drugs, were also discovered.

A man is apt to take affront if requested to take a back seat.

CANADIAN MINES STAND TO PROFIT

Fine Opportunity to Dispose of Gold and Silver at Exceptional Prices.

Ottawa, Feb. 23.—Because approximately thirty billion dollars' worth of unbacked notes are in circulation in the various countries of the world, the view is expressed here that for some years to come gold and silver mines in Canada will have an unexampled opportunity to dispose of their product at exceptionally high prices. There is not enough silver in the world to stand behind the unsupported paper based on silver, and so nations will be very eager to get as much as possible. This is believed to be the case with gold as well. China and India are draining this continent of supplies, as the shrewd Chinese and Indian merchants demand that their trade balances be settled not with paper but with the precious metals. As exchange cannot be expected to right itself while the currencies of the world are depreciated, the products of mines which a few years ago were not commercially workable propositions can now in many cases be mined and sold at a good profit.

The gold production in Canada for 1919 is valued at $16,275,000 as against $14,463,689 in 1918, and $15,272,992 in 1917. For the nine months ending December 31st last the export of Canadian gold totalled $3,384,952, as against $7,549,862 in 1918, and $11,197,749 in 1917. The bulk of this, $2,786,907, went to the United States, and in previous years practically all went to the United States. That there is great possibility of expansion by starting up mines now lying idle and developing promising properties seems to be indicated when one remembers that the production in 1900 was 1,350,057 fine ounces, valued at $27,908,153.

In the case of silver the production for 1919 was about 13,500,000 ounces, as against 21,383,979 fine ounces in 1918, valued at $20,693,704, and 22,221,274 in 1917 valued at $18,091,895. Prices have thus been increasing rapidly while production declined. It is expected that with the present prices production may go up again, especially as China shows no end to her demand for silver. Of the silver produced in 1919 there has been exported to the United States 7,609,509 ounces valued at $8,567,236, as against 10,845,059 ounces, valued at $10,845,059 in 1918. To the United Kingdom there was sent 2,912,055 ounces valued at $3,210,960, or about one-third that of previous years. The export for December was 200,574 ounces valued at $251,500, as against 1,397,786 ounces valued at $1,429,746 for December of 1918. China took 841,163 ounces, however, and the Orient will take the place of the British Isles.

The total export of precious metals for the nine months ending December 21st was $14,302,470, as against $21,462,708 in 1918. It is interesting to note here that the Royal Mint in Ottawa has been running overtime fotr eight months on Canadian coinage. During the war it minted for the British treasury several million dollars' worth of South African gold to support sterling exchange there. When that stopped the pound began to drop in value as measured by the American dollar. The twenty million dollars' worth of gold sent to New York by the Canadian Department of Finance for the same purpose and other secret shipments such as the South African gold do not appear in the trade returns.

PETITCODIAC, N. B.

Petitcodiac, N. B., Feb. 19.—The entertainment and basket social under the patronage of the Dramatic Society was well attended, and $165 was realized, which goes towards the Memorial Hall.

Mrs. Harry Wilson and Miss Lena Keith went to Montreal Monday. Miss Keith will visit her sister, Mrs. Wilson. Before returning to her home here she will visit friends in Boston, Mass.

Mrs. John Hirtz and niece, Miss Jennie Bent, went to Boston Wednesday. Mrs. Hirtz will visit friends for a fortnight. Miss Bent will enter the Cambridge Hospital to train for the nursing profession.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the returned soldiers' club room Tuesday evening, when about seventy-five ladies and gentlemen gave the boys a surprise party. Mrs. Charles Munroe was the leader of the scheme. R. M. Owen looked after the entertainment. After games and a programme of readings and music, refreshments were served. The boys are enjoying their comfortable room, which was rented for them by the citizens and furnished by the Women's Institute and Orange lodge. A lamp and table were given by private individuals.

Rev. Frank Boothroyd, secretary of N. B. branch of Dominion Temperance Alliance, spoke in the Baptist vestry last evening. A local branch was organized with officers as follows: Edgar Colpitts, president; Mrs. E. Crandell, vice-president; N. Hughson, secretary-treasurer; Miss May Tingley, Mrs. Silas Hicks, Mrs. Guy Mann, Revs. Gregg, Mason and Saunders members of the executive.

Miss Bessie Coates is suffering from influenza. Her case is not reported as serious.

Mrs. Gunn is slowly improving from a severe illness of heart and nervous trouble.

Edward G. Hefter, a St. Louis business man, reported to the police that $120 had been stolen from his desk in his absence from his office, and that evening he called them up again and said that when he got home he found that burglars had ransacked his apartment, taking many valuable articles.

Queen Mary carried a gray fox muff when attending a meet of the West Norfolk fox hounds. Just before the pack was started one of the hounds spied the muff, let out a yelp and made for it, followed by the other dogs. The master of the hounds had hard work getting them away.

"Ha, it is the sign of the Wiltshire Stourtons! And there beyond I see the red and silver of the Worsleys of Apuldercombe, who like myself are of Hampshire lineage. Close behind us is the moline cross of the gallant William Molyneux, and beside it the bloody chevrons of the Norfolk Woodhouses, with the amulets of the Musgraves of Westmoreland. By St. Paul! it would be a very strange thing if so noble a company were to gather without some notable deed of arms arising from it. And here is our boat, Sir Oliver, so it seems best to me that we should go to the abbey with our squires, leaving Master Hawtayne to have his own way in the unloading."

The horses of both knights and squires were speedily lowered into a broad lighter, and reached the shore almost as soon as their masters. Sir Nigel bent his knee devoutly as he put foot on land, and taking a small black patch from his bosom he bound it tightly over his left eye.

"My the blessed George and the memory of my sweet lady-love raise high my eart!" quoth he. "And as a token I vow that I will not take this patch from my eye until I have seen something of this country of Spain, and done such a small deed as it lies in me to do. And this I swear upon the cross of my sword and upon the glove of my lady."

"In truth, you take me back twenty years, Sir Nigel," quoth Sir Oliver, as they mounted and rode slowly through the water-gate. "After Cadsand, I deem that the French thought that we were an army of the blind, for there was scarce a man who had not closed an eye for the greater love and honor of his lady. Yet it goes hard with you that you should darken one side, when with both open you can scarce tell a horse from a mule. In truth, friend, I think that you step over the line of reason in this matter."

"Sir Oliver Buttesthorn," said the little knight shortly, "I would have you to understand that, blind as I am, I can yet see the path of honor very clearly, and that that is the road upon which I do not crave another man's guidance."

"By my soul," said Sir Oliver, "you are as tart as verjuice this morning! If you are bent upon a quarrel with me I must leave you to your humor and drop into the 'Tete d'Or,' here, for I marked a varlet pass the door who bare a smoking dish, which had, methough a most excellent smell."

"Nenny, nenny," cried his comrade, laying his hand upon his knee; "we have known each other over long to fall out, Oliver, like two raw pages at their first epreuves. You must come with me first to the prince, and then back to the hostel; though sure I am that it would grieve his heart that any gentle cavalier should turn from his board to a common tavern. But is not that my Lord Delewar who waves to us? Ha, my fair lord, God and Our Lady be with you! And there is Sir Robert Cheney. Good-morrow, Robert! I am right glad to see you."

The two knights walked their horses abreast, while Alleyne and Ford, with John Northbury, who was squire to Sir Oliver, kept some paces behind them, a spear's-length in front of Black Simon and the Winchester guidon-bearer. Northbury, a lean, silent man, had been to those parts before, and sat his horse with a gid neck; but the two young squires gazed eagerly to right or left, and plucked each other's sleeves to call attention to the many strange things on every side of them.

"See to the brave stalls!" cried Alleyne. "See to the noble armor set forth, and the costly taffets—and oh, Ford, see to where the scrivener sits with the pigments and the ink-horns, and the rolls of sheepskin as white as the Beaulieu nunery! Saw man ever the like before?"

"Nay, man, there are finer stalls in Cheapside," answered Ford, whose father had taken him to London on occasion of one of the Smithfield joustings. "I have seen a silversmith's booth there which would serve to buy either side of this street. But mark these houses, Alleyne, how they thrust forth upon the top. And see to the coats-of-arms at every window, and banner or pensel on the roof."

"And the churches!" cried Alleyne. "The Priory at Christchurch was a noble pile, but it was cold and bare, methinks, by one of these, with their frettings, and their carvings, and their traceries, as though some great ivy-plant of stone had curled and wantoned over the walls."

"And hark to the speech of the folk!" said Ford. "Was ever such a hissing and clacking? I wonder that they have not wit to learn English now that they have come under the English crown. By Richard of Hampole! there are fair faces amongst them. See the wench with the brown wimple! Out on you, Alleyne, that you would rather gaze upon dead stone than on living flesh!"

It was little wonder that the richness and ornament, not only of church and of stall, but of every private house as well, should have impressed itself upon the young squires. The town was now at the height of its fortunes. Besides its trade and its armorers, other causes had combined to pour wealth into it. War, which had wrought evil upon so many fair cities around, had brought nought but good to this one. As her French sisters decayed she increased, for here, from north and from east, and from south, came the plunder to be sold and the ransom money to be spent. Through all her sixteen landward gates there had set for many years a double tide of empty-handed soldiers hurrying Francewards, and of enriched and laden bands who brought their spoils home. The prince's court, too, with its swarm of noble barons and wealthy knights, many of whom, inimitation of their master, had brought their ladies and their children from England, all helped to swell the coffers of the burghers. Now, with this fresh influx of noblemen and cavaliers, food and lodgings were scarce to be had, and the prince was hurrying forward his forces to Dax in Gascony to relieved the overcrowding of his capital.

In front of the minster and abbey of St. Andrews was a large square crowded with priests, soldiers, women, friars, and burghers, who made it their common centre for sight-seeing and gossip. Amid the knot of noisy and gesticulating townsfolk, many small parties of mounted knights and squires threaded their way towards the prince's quarters, where the huge iron-clamped doors were thrown back to show that he held audience within. Two-score archers stood about the gateway, and beat back from time to time with their bow-staves the inquisitive and chattering crowd who swarmed round the portal. Two knights in full armor, with lances raised and closed visors, sat their horse on either side, while in the centre, with two pages to tend upon him, there stood a noble-faced man in flowing purple gown, who pricked off upon a sheet of parchment the style and title of each applicant, marshalling them in their due order, and giving to each the place and facility which his rank demanded. His long white beard and searching eyes imparted to him an air of masterful dignity, which was increased by his tabard-like vesture and the heraldic barret cap with triple plume which bespoke his office.

"It is Sir William de Pessington, the prince's own herald and scrivener," whispered Sir Nigel, as they pulled up amid the line of knights who waited admission. "Ill fares it with the man who would venture to deceive him. He hath by rote the name of every knight of France or of England, and all the tree of his family, with his kinships, coat-armor, marriages, augmentations, abatements, and I know not what beside. We may leave our horses here with the varlets, and push forward with our squires."

POVERTY IN WEALTH.

Heir to Thousands of Dollars Pleads for Increased Allowance.

New York, Feb. 23.—Heir to an estate of $125,000, with a contingent interest in three trust funds worth $205,000, 16-year-old Melvin C. Simons finds difficulty in making both ends meet. His mother, who is now Mrs. Philip Hano, wife of a wealthy manufacturer of 16 West 100th street, has applied to Surrogate Cohalan for an allowance of $4,300 a year for him. The estate left him by his father, Martin Simons, who died on Dec. 28, 1918, is so tied up in trust that Melvin will not get the full benefit of it until he is thirty. Meanwhile, the cost of living mounts, and the young man's mother has not enough to pay for his education.

Condition Shows Improvement.

The condition of Miss Jean Campbell, who has been seriously ill for the past few days with pneumonia, shows a slight improvement today, her many friends will be glad to learn.

First Member to Arrive Here.

Hon. Robert Murray, Provincial Secretary Treasurer, arrived by C. N. R. today from Chatham. He is the first member of the Provincial Government to arrive in the city for the Government meeting this evening.

Recovered from Illness.

Mrs. George Swinimer, formerly Miss Kate Moore, of this city, who was quite seriously ill for some days at her home in Roxbury, Mass., has recovered, and her husband is now confined to his bed. Mrs. S. L. C. Coleman, of this city, is with her sister.

Married Last Evening.

A quiet wedding took place last evening in the Rectory on Westmorland street when Miss Elsie Kelly was united in marriage to Theodore Lyons by the Rev. A. F. Bate. Mr. Lyons is employed as larrigan maker in the John Palmer factory and his bride was formerly a telephone operator in this city.

To Visit Old Home.

A number of friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Wandless, Church street, last evening and held a surprise party in honor of Mrs. Wandless. A pleasant evening was spent in games and music and refreshments were served. Mrs. Wandless sails from St. John on Thursday next to visit her old home in London, England.

Lieut. Black Gets Appointment.

Lieut. L. M. Black, M. G., has been appointed a lieutenant in the Canadian Permanent Machine Gun Brigade to be commanded by Lieut. Col. E. W. Sansom, of Stanley. Lieut. Black went overseas as a private in the Yukon Field Company commanded by his stepfather, Capt. George Black. He rose to the rank of corporal in England and won his commission and the Military Cross on the field.

Buried This Afternoon.

The body of the late Mrs. M. L. Hewitt, who died in Boston within a few hours of the receipt of the news of the death of her sister, Mrs. David Jones, in this city, arrived here last night and was taken to the home of her sister, Mrs. Thomas Jones, Scully street. The funeral took place this afternoon, service being conducted by the Rev. A. D. McLeod, of Devon, and interment being made at Rural cemetery.

Held Thimble Party.

The Senior Mission Band of the Brunswick Street Baptist Church held a thimble party in Million Hall last evening, when about one hundred ladies were present and a most pleasant evening spent by all. A programme consisting of readings by Misses Sarah Haines, Helen Kennedy and Jean Hallett, solo by Mrs. Good, and a short address on Mission Work by Mrs. Havelock Coy, was carried out. At the close of the evening light refreshments were served.

Death of Mrs. W. H. Maxwell.

The death occurred last night at her home, 732 Brunswick street, of Mrs. Mary Margaret Maxwell, wife of W. Henry Maxwell, contractor. Deceased was 70 years of age and had been ill only a short time. She was a daughter of the late Hon. James Brown, at one time surveyor general of New Brunswick, and is survived by her husband, one son, J. Brown Maxwell, of the Department of Lands and Mines, one daughter, Miss Gladys Maxwell, one brother, David Brown, of Delaware, any one sister, Mrs. John K. McKenzie, of Rumford Falls, Me. The funeral will take place Wednesday afternoon, leaving the home at 2.30 o'clock. Very Rev. Dean Neales will conduct the service at Christchurch Cathedral and interment will be made in Forest Hill cemetery.

Ald. Barker Married.

On Thursday evening, at the residence of J. S. Beless, of Churchill street, Milton, Mass., Ald. Judson Barker, of Fredericton, and Mrs. Anna M. Jenner, of 16 Elmore street, Roxbury, were united in marirage. The bride was attended by her daughter and Fred J. Marshall was best man. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. A. Rideout, pastor of the Blaney Memorial Baptist church, using the double ring service. He was assisted by Rev. Archibald S. Young, of the Morgan Memorial, of which institution Mrs. Barker was a member of the staff. Mr. and Mrs. Barker will visit New York and other cities and about the first of March will take up their residence in Fredericton. The bride received many valuable presents, among them being a substantial gift in gold from the Morgan Memorial.

TEACHERS IN THE CITY SCHOOLS ASK INCREASED PAY

Demand Signed Following a Meeting of the Teachers Yesterday Afternoon.

SOME SALARIES NOT UP TO THE SCHEDULE

Remuneration Has Not Advanced as Rapidly as Has the Cost of Living.

Declaring that the necessaries of life have advanced from 200 to 300 per cent. during the period that their pay has been increased not more than an average of 25 per cent., the teachers in the Fredericton schools at a meeting yesterday afternoon signed a demand for larger salaries, which will be presented to the Board of School Trustees when they meet tomorrow.

It is understod that the delegation who meet the trustees will ask for an immediate increase of not less than 25 per cent. in the salaries of their teachers and will point out that their pay has not by any means kept pace with the steadily advancing cost of living, so that now, more so than ever before, their remuneration is not commensurate with the services rendered.

Statistics, it is understood, have been gathered from both Moncton and St. John to show the salaries paid here as compared with those places, and it is said the comparison shows that Fredericton does not pay its teachers as well as either of the other cities of the province. Moncton has taken the lead in the matter of adequate salaries for teachers and pay the principal of the High School, for instance, $3,000 as compared with $2,900 in St. John and $2,250 in Fredericton, the local principal of the High School also acting as supervisor of schools, for which he is paid an additional $250 per annum. St. John teachers are said to be paid from $100 to $250 more a year than the local teachers.

It is also said that in some cases the Board of Trustees here have not yet met the schedule of salaries drawn up by the New Brunswick Teachers Association some months ago. This is said to be true particularly of those acting as principals of the local schools, as the lady grade teachers are about up to the scale of pay set forth in the schedule.

LUMBER OPERATORS HAVING HARD TIME

R. L. Young & Co. Have Finished Big Contract But Others Are Not So Lucky.

One of the first lumber firms to get through its winter operations this year was the R. Ludlow Young Co., of Taymouth, who operated on the Taxis River with 40 teams of horses. This concern put in for the Miramichi Lumber Co., for whom they cut and hauled seven millions, and last week after a most successful season they completed their contract for 1919-20.

Howard Young, of the York Hotel, who held one of the largest sub-contracts for the operating firm, returned home on Wednesday and has been receiving congratulations upon the good business done under his management. His contract was for one million and three-quarters of logs, which agreement he worked out ahead of all the storms of last week, one feature of which was to baffle the heaviest storm of that week by starting his teams out early the following morning clearing out the roads before the crust which came and wrought havoc for so many others could blockade the roads.

Mr. Young had the services as foreman, of Eliphat Banks, fomerly of Durham, and lately returned from the Canadian West, a veteran logger on the waters of the Nashwaak. Unfortunately there is a different story to tell in regard to other large operations for the present season. In one case a firm with 60 pairs of horses is reported as now having hard lines, one, and not the least, of its troubles being to get substitutes for oats which cannot be had anywhere in the vicinity, although carloads of oats have been overdue by western trains for weeks, besides which hay supplies are also running pretty short.

GARAGE COLLAPSED.

The roof of the Central Garage, owned by Elliott & Caverhill at Pokiok, York county, collapsed this morning. The loss is about $500.

The heavy snowfalls of the past two weeks had not been cleared off the roof of the garage, and this morning it went through with an awful crash, covering between fifteen and twenty automobiles which were stored therein. None of the employees of the garage was injured.

SIX 'FLU CASES REPORTED TODAY FROM BATHURST

All are Said to Be of Mild Type While Sackville Has Not Bad Epidemic.

THREE CASES TODAY AT KESWICK RIDGE

Dr. Wade Tells of Situation at Beaver Harbor Where There Were 115 Cases.

Six cases of influenza were reported overnight from the town of Bathurst to the Public Health Department in this city. The cases are all said to be of a mild type.

Concerning the outbreak of the 'flu at Sackville, Dr. G. G. Melvin, Chief Medical Health Officer, stated this morning that later reports from that locality were that the epidemic was not as bad as was at first expected, although no definite reports about the number of cases has been received.

Three cases of influenza were reported from Keswick Ridge this morning to the secretary of the York County Board of Health, Mrs. W. J. Glenn. Two additional cases were reported from McAdam Junction, where six cases have also been reported as recovered and the quarantine on three houses lifted. Up to date there have been 72 cases of influenza reported from York County, but eight or nine of these have recovered and the number of cases appears to be on the decline.

Striking Facts at Beaver Harbor.

Upwards of 115 of the population of 250 souls of the fishing hamlet of Beaver Harbor, Charlotte County, have been ill with 'flu in the epidemic which has been more severe there than anywhere else in New Brunswick.

Dr. J. A. Wade, district medical health officer, who was in charge of the situation at Beaver Harbor and has now returned here, declares that the mild type of the disease this year is evident from the fact that in all that large number of cases in such a small community there was not a single death.

Moreover, Dr. Wade states that not one person who had previously had the 'flu was stricken with the disease again this year at Beaver Harbor, but that everybody in the entire village who was not ill last time had been attacked this year. When Dr. Wade left Beaver Harbor the number of cases had been reduced to 60 and the situation appeared to be well in hand.

Underwent Operation.

Miss Faye Coy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Coy, Saunders street, was taken to Victoria Hospital and operated upon for appendicitis. Her condition today is quite satisfactory.

RAILWAYMEN ARE ROUNDED UP FOR FREIGHT THEFTS

C. N. R. Detectives Said To Have Arrested Dozen or More at Napudogan.

ARE BEING BROUGHT HERE IN SPECIAL CAR

Large Quantities of Freight Said to Have Been Stolen While in Transit.

Word reached here this afternoon that detectives in the employ of the Canadian National Railways had made a big roundup of railway employees at Napudogan on the National Transcontinental route who were charged with stealing merchandise from freight cars.

Local officials of the C. N. R. confirmed the report, but the only particulars they were able to give was that a dozen or more persons, said to be largely employees of the railway, had been arrested at Napudogan this morning by railway officers and were being brought here in a special car which would reach Fredericton this evening attached to this evening's express from Newcastle.

It is understood that the arrests are the culmination of investigations which have been going on for some time as the result of large quantities of goods of various kinds being stolen while in transit over the Transcontinental route, including merchandise for shipment overseas from the ports of Halifax and St. John.

Trial of the prisoners will be held in Fredericton and they will probably all appear before Police Magistrate Limerick here tomorrow.

Miss S. C. Kelly went to St. John yesterday and will return tonight.

SERIOUS LABOR DISORDERS IN ITALY

Asquith Elected by Big Majority From Paisley

Former Premier Led Labor Candidate by Nearly 3,000 Votes

COALITIONIST HAD SMALL VOTE

Former Premier Asquith Was at Paisley to Hear Declaration.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, Feb. 25.—Former Premier Herbert H. Asquith was elected to Parliament from the Paisley constituency in the recent bye-election. Announcement of the result was made this afternoon.

Mr. Asquith, the Liberal nominee, polled 14,736 votes, against 11,902 for J. M. Biggar, the Labor candidate, and 3,795 for J. A. D. MacKean, Coalition-Unionist.

ASQUITH AT PAISLEY TO HEAR THE RESULT

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

London, Feb. 25.—Ex-Premier Asquith, with his wife and daughter, journeyed from London to Paisley last night in anticipation of the declaration of the poll today. Mr. Asquith himself was reticent as to his expectations, but his family was confident of victory, and the whole party was in good spirits.

Extraordinary interest had been taken in the result, especially in parliamentary circles. The London Times parliamentary correspondent says that never before has there been so much betting on an election. Speculation took two well defined directions. One was that Mr. Asquith will win with labor a good second; the other was that the Unionist poll will be unexpectedly heavy and will give Labor the seat.

FARMERS' PARTY IN PARLIAMENT

Farmer Members Wish to Preserve Identity by Being Bunched Together.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, Feb. 25.—The seating arrangements made by the Government and Opposition whips are not altogether satisfactory to the Farmers' party in the House. No arrangements had been made for them particularly, and as there are no cross benches it was expected that they would be seated in a more or less haphazard manner. The farmers, however, desire to keep together and maintain the identity of their party, and have announced that they propose seeing that arrangements are made to that effect. They will appoint a House leader, who will undoubtedly be Hon. Mr. Crerar, and will caucus like the other parties. Though few in numbers as yet, they propose to maintain their identity in every way. They can, of course, trade seats with other members and thus keep together, and some such arrangement will no doubt be made.

CONTEST FOR MOTOR BOAT LEADERSHIP

New York, Feb. 25.—The United States and England appear to be the only two countries that are likely to be represented in the races for the Harmsworth trophy next summer, according to Chris Smith, of Algonac, Michigan, who is exhibiting the Miss America at the motor boat show in the Grand Central Palace.

A challenge from France was expected for the motor boat championship of the world, but up to this time none has been received and entries must be received before March 1.

British War Emergency Laws Discussed in Commons, But No Decision Had Been Reached

Members of House Informed that an Agreement Had Been Made to Exchange Prisoners With Russia, and Ambassador to Russia May Be Appointed.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

London, Feb. 25.—Continuance of war emergency laws, which had already been discussed at a whole sitting of the House, was brought up on the report stage in the House of Commons last night and the debate was further adjourned.

Members were informed, in reply to questions, that an agreement had been made to exchange prisoners with Russia, that it was hoped that the appointment of an ambassador to Russia would shortly be announced, and that summer time would last from March 28 to September 27.

Mr. Winston Churchill stated that the treaty provisions in regard to German army reductions were, broadly speaking, being satisfactorily adhered to. The Secretary of State for Ireland brought in again last session's education bill for Ireland.

The House of Lords discussed last night the labor party, on a motion calling attention to labor's extreme tendencies and criticizing the government's concilatory attitude. No division was taken.

CAILLAUX AGAIN TAKES THE STAND

Former French Premier Says He Foresaw Economic Conditions After War.

Paris Feb. 25.—Joseph Caillaux, former Premier ,explaining his activities in Italy on the resumption today of his trial before the Senate sitting as a high court, on the charge of having had treasonable dealings with the enemy, said he foresaw in 1916 the economic conditions that would prevail after the war.

He declared he had sought an economic alliance with Italy, within the Entente, so that Italy's and France's interests should be safeguarded at the peace conference. At no time, M. Caillaux asserted, was there any question of politics or a piece of compromise.

Prominent Swedes Visiting Canada Give Their Opinion of European Situation.

POLAND'S FRONTIER MUST BE PROTECTED

Once Soviet Russia Penetrates Poland All Eastern Europe Will Be Involved.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Montreal, Feb. 25.—Baron John Mannerheim and Christian Storjohann, representates of the Swedish Pulp Association, passing through here as the guests of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, when seen at the Ritz Carlton hotel yesterday, stated that they were on this continent on a return visit to the American Pulp and Paper Association.

Baron Mannerheim, speaking of the European situation, said that Germany was ripe for Bolshevism and that Poland's frontier must be protected at all costs from the forces of soviet Russia. Once they penetrated Poland, the economic structure of Germany will fall almost instantaneously and the whole of eastern Europe would be involved.

ITALIAN WORKERS PROCLAIM SOVIET

Fighting Between Workers and Carabiners in Which Many Persons Were Wounded.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, Feb. 25.—Workers at Pieve di Soligo, Italy, have seized the municipal buildings and proclaimed a soviet government, according to a Rome despatch to the Central News, which says fighting has taken place between the workers and carabiners in which many were wounded.

Disorders have also occurred at Vittoria and Montebelluna, as well as elsewhere, the despatch says, and a general strike in sympathy with striking metal workers has been declared by the labor chamber at Naples.

Diagnose Typhoid Fever In 10 Minutes at Bedside

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—A new method of diagnosing typhoid fever, which can be performed in ten minutes at the bedside, aroused interest yesterday among physicians attending the meeting of the American Congress of Internal Medicine. The test was discovered by Prof. Bass, of Tulane University, New Orleans, who will give a practical demonstration of the method.

"The present method of determining typhoid fever," said Dr. F. Smithies, Secretary General of the Congress, "usually takes 12 to 24 hours. A bacterial culture is made and a laboratory examination is required. Dr. Bass performs a blood test at the bedside, which can be done in ten minutes. Such a rapid method would not only permit earlier treatment, but would serve to check materially the spread of the disease."

CASE OF WHISKEY LOOKS FOR OWNER

Hamilton Woman Ordered It From Montreal but Cannot Take It Home.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Hamilton, Ont., Feb. 25.—A case of whiskey is going begging in this city because no person dare take it in, and the local license inspector has written to the department at Toronto for advice in the matter.

A woman ordered it from Montreal, but she was fined for a breach of the Ontario Temperance Act since then and her abode is now an illegal place and she cannot take the liquor in. A neighbor offered to buy the booze, but would constitute a breach of the O. T. A., it is said.

The woman who ordered the case tried to stop shipment after she was fined, but her countermand did not reach Montreal in time. She has appealed to the license inspector, and he, in turn, has asked for advice from Toronto.

GOVERNMENTS OF CANADA AS HIGH AS CITIZENSHIP

Official of Grain Growers Says Tariff Can't Be Wiped Out for 10 or 15 Years.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Victoria, B. C., Feb. 24.—At the last evening's session of the convention of the United Farmers of British Columbia, a stirring speech was made by H. W. Wood, president of the United Farmers of Alberta, wherein he advocated the thorough methodical and systematic organization of farmers before attempting to enter the political field.

He stated it was no use blaming governments for wrongdoing; the governments of Canada and of the provinces of Canada were just as high as the citizenship of the country allowed them to be. He believed that the farmers stood as a balancing force between the Red revolution element and the reactionary element.

R. I. Jones, vice-president of the Alberta Grain Growers, also dealt with delays of organization, dwelling mainly upon the financial end of it. He said it had been stated of the United Farmers of the mid-west that if they had a controlling voice in the House they would immediately wipe the tariff out of existence. This statement, he said, was ridiculous.

"We have had some business experience and we know that the interests of others have to be considered, and it may take ten or fifteen years to get the principle we believe put into full effect," he said.

NOBLEMAN IN THE BANKRUPTCY COURT

The Fourth Failure of the Marquis of Queensbury—An Exploit in Canada.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

London, Feb. 25.—The Marquis of Queensbury's affairs are again before the bankruptcy court. This is his fourth failure and in his public examination he indicated it was due to shortage of funds owing to an exploit in Canadian oil and mineral properties. When he was in Canada in December, 1918, his wife cabled him $7,500 to buy, but declined to advance a further $10,000. Consequently he was stranded and "cabled his friend Bob Sievier," who furnished $1,500 to enable him to return.

YOUNG WONDER IS THE SKI CHAMPION

[Montreal Gazette.]

Ed. Condon, a lad eighteen years of age, carrying the emblem of the Cliffside Ski Club and representing the Ottawa Collegiate, carried off the honors in the first international intercollegiate cross-country ski race held here yesterday afternoon. Condon won the honors by making the best time and establishing a Canadian record for the distance of six miles.

The race was one of the most gruelling that has perhaps ever been held in Canada, and two of the competitors fainted after crossing the finishing line on McGill Campus.

Great credit is due to the youngster who won. He started twenty-fifth and finished in ninth place, passing sixteen runners during the six miles. His time was 44 minutes and 57 seconds, giving him a margin on his nearest opponent of over two minutes. Condon is the champion skier of Ottawa and is holder of the Devlin Cup, emblematic of the Ottawa city championship. He is also the all-round track champion of the collegiate.

(Young Condon is a nephew of W. E. Seery, of Fredericton.)

GIRLS SMOKE CIGARETTES.

Flurry Among High School Pupils at Mount Vernon.

Mount Vernon, Feb. 24.—The high schools of Mount Vernon are in a greatly perturbed state of mind, because it has been stated that the board of education is going to investigate thoroughly a statement of Rev. O. F. Bartholow, pastor of the First Methodist Church of that city, and one of of the most prominent clergymen in Westchester County, that he has been told by several girls that certain girl students smoked cigarettes in the High School building.

In a letter in which he states that two girls confessed to him about other girls smoking, Dr. Bartholow says:

"An examination of the matron and others directly connected with the girls might bring to light some interesting data. I am aware of the difficulties involved in trying to fasten upon the guilty a secret practice.

"Last night two High School girls came to me and said: 'You are right, Mr. Bartholow, about girls using cigarettes in the High School. We could give you names, but our classmates would shun and hate us if we did.' "

Druggists in Kansas are now required to put a big dose of tartar emetic in all the toilet waters, perfumes and bay rum that they sell.

The Canadian Milling Industry

The Canadian milling industry has, since 1914, made progressive strides, and flour exports between that year and 1919 increased nearly five times. Today this business has an annual capacity of slightly more than 25,000,000 barrels a year and new mills are being continually added. In 1890 Canada exported 115,099 barrels of flour valued at $521,383. By 1910 this had increased to 3,064,128 barrels valued at about $15,000,000. In the fiscal year of 1919, 9,196,806 barrels were milled at a value of $99,836,696.

Great Britain has been by far Canada's best customer for flour, her imports from the Dominion of this commodity, for the last fiscal year, being equal to about 60 per cent. of the total, or $56,000,000 out of nearly $100,000,000.

Exports by countries for the last year were as follows: Great Britain, $56,270,225; United States, $99,794; British South Africa, $17,309; Newfoundland, $34,147,527;; British West Indies, $6,329,527; other countries, $34,147,750.

The trade returns for the present fiscal year show that, as yet, the exports of flour are holding their own, though the European countries are again engaged in grain growing and milling. In the last available period of five months 4,928,164 barrels of flour were exported as compared with 4,461,313 in the same period in 1918. Of these 3,912,405 barrels went to the United Kingdom; 38,423 to British Guiana; 146,596 to the British West Indies, 297,845 to France; 100,182 to Greece; 55,735 to Italy; 73,109 to Newfoundland, and 228,084 barrels to other countries. Great Britain took a little more than 1,000,000 more barrels than she did during the same period in 1918, and 1,700,000 more than in 1917. Other departments of the milling industry loom large also, as the following figures show: Oatmeal, $4,032,567; cereals, $4,247,249; bran, etc., $1,592,212.

Whilst on account of the change of conditions in Europe, the export trade may fall off considerably, the Canadian milling industry by reason of the activity produced during the war is in a very strong position and should be able to hold its own in the period of competition which is undoubtedly ahead.

VERDICTS ON DEATH OF ETHEL BURRELL

New York, Feb. 24.—A jury yesterday returned a verdict for Lemma Hall, administratrix of Ethel Burrell in suits against Dr. Katherine Fenelon and the College of Physicians and Surgeons for conscious suffering and death of the Burrell woman. The verdict against Dr. Fenelon was for $1 for suffering and for the death. As against the college, the verdict was $4,000 for suffering and $5,000 for the death.

The evidence showed that Dr. Fenelon prescribed calomel for tonsilitis, which she diagnosed as the trouble of the deceased. Soon afterward the Burrell woman was admitted to the City Hospital on Dec. 1, 1917, and died in a few days, after showing symptoms of mercurial poisoning.

HIGH PRICES NOT DUE TO INFLATION

Increased Note Circulation Rather the Result of High Prices.

London, Feb. 24.—That currency inflation is not a direct cause of high prices of commodities, but rather one of the results, was the theory propounded by the Rt. Hon. Reginald McKenna, the new chairman of the London City and Midland Bank, at the annual general meeting of the bank. Note circulation increased because of the need for a larger quantity of currency to meet the requirements of the employers in paying higher wages, and of people in paying higher prices for commodities.

Mr. McKenna pointed out that the vast increase in deposits in the banks was mostly the result of increased loans for industrial and commercial purposes and to the Government. When a bank made a loan to one of its clients, this client paid out the money to other merchants, who deposited it in their own banks. Thus, while the original bank's deposits were not decreased, the deposits in the second bank were increased. The nation's purchasing power was increased, and, in the ordinary course of events, this would be followed by an increase in prices. This rule, however, does not always work out in connection with loans for commercial and industrial purposes, because the application of the money to production tended to an increased supply of commodities, thus offsetting the increased purchasing power of the country.

Dismissing increased deposits due to commercial loans as a serious factor in the case reason for high prices of commodities, Mr. McKenna discussed the effect of Government borrowing, which, he showed, had a tendency to increase bank deposits to a tremendous extent.

DE LAVAL CREAM SEPARATOR

It will pay you in cream saved from $3 to $5 a cow every year over an inferior or half-worn-out cream separator.

It will pay you in cream saved from $10 to $15 a cow every year over gravity skimming.

It will give you a heavier and better cream, the kind the creameryman wants, the kind that gives you more skim-milk for your stock.

It will last two to ten times as long as other cream separators. Figure it out for yourself and you will see why the De Laval is the most economical.

And added to it all is the immeasurable satisfaction of owning a machine that "works like a charm" 365 days in the year.

We know that when we sell you a De Laval we sell you a machine you'll be proud to own. We sell them on liberal terms. Come in and talk it over.

INCREASE PENSIONS TO DISABLED MEN

Matter of Increased Gratuity Not Likely to Be a Live Issue in Parliament.

Ottawa, Feb. 24.—While the demand of the war veterans for increased re-establishment gratuities is not expected to be an issue in parliament this year, it is said that there is every likelihood of legislation to increase the pensions of disabled men and their dependents. It is generally felt among the members that there is need of further pension allowance to permit these men and their dependents to cope with the constantly increasing cost of living and members on both sides of the house are agreed that there is room for some improvement in the pensions being paid. It is understood that the pensions commissioners are now working on some proposed changes in the regulations.

Another matter in connection with the veterans which will probably produce some discussion in the house this session is that of state insurance for returned soldiers. This proposal was given support in the report of the parliamentary committee on re-establishment which sat during the session, and it is anticipated that legislation based on this support will back parliament this session.

SUGGEST CURACOA FOR KAISER'S EXILE

Dutch Island Off Venezuela, Made Famous by Buccaneers, May be Abode.

Curacoa has been suggested as an abiding place for the former Kaiser, and the suggestion, according to the Matin, has found much favorable consideration at The Hague. This island as the regular rendezvous of temperamental Latin American politicians and New Work filibusters would offer some diversions unknown to the exiled Napoleon on his St. Helena, 1,000 miles from nowhere.

Willemstad, the largest town in Curacoa, long headquarters for Latin American intrigues, exiled revolutionists and for restless spirits planning violent governmental changes in neighboring lands, could qualify in a small way for the superheated political atmosphere of a European court. While the ex-Emperor might look with unwarranted tolerance at the brewing of turbulent events for Haiti or Mexico, he nevertheless would find interests in these things reminiscent of European ways.

Cipriano Castro, one time hard fisted dictator of Venezuela, a gentleman who gave the United States much concern during the more boisterous part of his career and whose occasional disappearance after exile caused the United States Department of State many sleepless nights, was sheltered for a time at Willemstad and plotted here for a return to power. And Gen. Castro cut such "antics before high heaven" as almost to make himself a world figure.

Curacoa, forty miles off the north coast of Venezuela, comprises about 212 square miles, thus being much larger than Napoleon's St. Helena, 10¼ miles long, 8¼ miles wide, comprising 47 square miles.

The climate at St. Helena is excellent. That of Curacoa, at least, is one in which rainfall is seldom. The island leads a sunny life, and here and there its arid wastes are broken by patches of aloes, tobacco and divi-divi. The population of the island is about 30,000, and of its port and chief town, Willemstad, about 9,000. It is the largest of the Dutch West Indies.

There is one last comparison of interest. Exiled Napoleon made St. Helena famous, but even before the days of Castro Curacoa was a word of good cheer wherever people dined well, for the Curacoa people were the original manufacturers of the liqueur which bears the name of their island.

THE RESIGNATION OF JUDGE ROBSON

Chairman of Board of Commerce Said to Have Had Trouble to Carry Out Act

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, Feb. 24.—Judge Robson, chairman of the Board of Commerce, has resigned. It has been known for the past few days that trouble has been brewing in the Board. Trouble has arisen with the Civil Service Commission.

As intimated in this morning's despatches, the relations between the Board and the Commission have been strained for some time over the refusal of the Commission to supply the necessary experts to carry on the investigation of the Board. This had reached such a point that some of the most important work of the Board, including the textile inquiry, could not be gone on with and the members of the Board had become more or less disgusted with the situation. While it is not stated that it was the friction with the Commission which led to his resignation, it is probable that it was one of the contributing causes. Judge Robson has still retained his position as counsel for the Union Bank of Canada.

PYTHIANS CELEBRATE FIRST ANNIVERSARY

Victory Lodge, of Bath, N. B., Commemorate First Year of Order.

Bath, N. B., Feb. 24.—Victory Lodge, No. 36, Knights of Pythias, Bath, with a large circle of invited friends will not soon forget the evening of Feb. 20 as their first observance of the order's anniversary. The event proved phenomenally successful. The lodge, though but recently organized, has grown rapidly and is enthusiastic in its outlook.

Although the deep snow following the great storm kept home many who otherwise would have been present, there was a large gathering, and from the very beginning of the evening all seemed to enjoy themselves.

The evening's entertainment was opened by the lodge, in response to a bugle call, marched from the inner room and formed about the altar a hollow triangle, and following welcome words by Chancellor Commander G. R. Smith assisted him in extending formal greeting to the numerous visitors. Then the officers, taking their proper places, the lodge was opened in partial form, all the officers wearing regulation uniforms and jewels.

Misses Helen Estabrooks and Dora Tompkins ably acted alternatly as pianists and the following programme was carried through in excellent form:

Quartette, Merrily On—Wicklow quartette, C. Estey, H. Estabrooks, Mrs. J. Patterson, Miss H. Estabrooks.
Address—C. C. Howlett, B. A., B. D.
Cornet solo—Holland Estabrooks.
Reading—Miss Voil.
Piano solo—Miss Dora Tompkins.
Duet, Tumbled Down Shack—Mildred Howlett, Hazen Tompkins.
Bill's Troubles and I'm One of the Ticklish Kind—G. R. Smith.
Address—W. H. Bramley.
Quartette, Come Where the Lillies Bloom—Wicklow quartette.
Address, Pythianism—G. R. Smith.
Duet, Carry Me Back to Old Virginia—Mrs. Paterson, Miss Estabrooks.
Address—L. A. Noble.
Duet, Reuben and Rachel—Miss Gladys and Mr. Smith.
Reading—Miss Mary Cahill.
Piano solo—Miss Tompkins.
Piano solo—Mr. W. Day.
Address—Ex-Councillor C. Estey.

Following the programme a dainty luncheon was served and the exercises came to an end with the singing of several patriotic, religious choruses and general good cheer. Amid the enthusiasm of the evening six new aspirants to the mysteries of knighthood filed their applications.

A very heart vote of thanks was extended the ladies present for the praiseworthy contribution they made to the success of the anniversary celebration.

WESTMORLAND CRIMINAL COURT

Moncton, N. B., Feb. 24.—Mr. Justice Crocket presided at the Westmorland Circuit Court which opened this afternoon at Dorchester. On account of the absence of four grand jurors some delay was caused in court proceedings until new jurors could be summoned. There were three criminal cases for the grand jury, namely: William VanBuskirk, Alonzo Poirier and Bayard Wilson, charged with stealing an automobile from Albert Arsenault at Sunny Brae last fall.

THE SHOE PRICES IN NEW ENGLAND

Boston, Feb. 24.—The basic reason for the high price of shoes lies in the price of leather, and the manufacturer, the leather jobber, tanner and packer have reaped the greatest gain, the state commission on necessaries of life asserts in a report today. Retail dealers, the commission finds, have made little if any more profit than in 1913. The report shows that the cost of manufacturing a pair of medium priced shoes advanced 185 per cent. from 1913 to 1919. In the former years the average cost was $2.55, and in 1919 it was $7.26.

WEDNESDAY FEBRUARY 25, 1920.

IRELAND TODAY.

There will be little surprise in Ireland or elsewhere over the announcement that the introduction into the Parliament of the United Kingdom of a new bill for the government of Ireland has been postponed again. The Lloyd-George government has many matters to call for its earnest attention, abroad as well as at home. It has apparently fallen into a way in regard to domestic legislation of waiting till things are bad or there is a demand, real or seeming, for the doing of something, and then rushing at the job in a hurry, remarks an exchange. Sometimes the resultant measures are lost and sometimes they are held over. In the case of the proposed Irish bill there is further cause for going slowly. Governments have been wrecked over home rule bills, and the experience may be repeated. It is doubtful if a majority in Parliament at any time really favored even a partial repeal of the Act of 1800 that made Great Britain and Ireland one kingdom with one parliament. The bill of 1912, that had the approval of John Redmond, and might have been a success had not the war given an excuse or a reason for postponing its going into force, was passed by a combination of group parties, to some of whom the affairs of Ireland were secondary to social or church organization matters in which they took real and deep concern. The government of today, like that of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman and that of Mr. Asquith, and of premiers before their time, is not representative of a solid party. Some of its sections can not look with favor on any measure that suggests the possibility of a legislature for an independent Ireland being set up in Dublin. So the report of a self-nominated Labor delegation served to cause the latest postponement of decisive action. It will not lessen the feeling that the existing order has failed. Ireland has gone through many periods of disturbance and through some periods of rebellion, followed by periods of quietness, actual or relative. The present conditions are not new, but in many cases they are looked at from a viewpoint not favored generally in the past. There is much crime of the graver kinds recorded. Some of it is probably personal so far as the motives are concerned. Some of it is evidently political and is attributed to Sinn Fein organizations, which have the sympathy of the mass of the people. It is apparently not in the power of the government to effectively punish even murderers. Courts-martial take the place of civil tribunals in the administration of law. Irish parliamentary representatives are in prison in England, and not under ordinary legal process. Conflicts between the police and armed assailants are of weekly occurrence. Soldiers are needed to protect those entrusted with the duty of carrying out the law. This sort of thing is not "democratic." Moreover, it is not wholesome. The effective and permanent ending of it would be in the interest of the greater kingdom as well as of Ireland. The great moderate forces in the country should be strong enough to support a measure that would bring peace. The others have had their chance and missed it.

YPRES AND THE FUTURE.

Lieut. Col. Beckles Willson, who is a biographer of Lord Strathcona, appears from the reports of the London press to be a lecturer on the Ypres salient. In a preface to his book on Lord Strathcona, dated from Windsor, Nova Scotia, in October, 1915, Col. Willson explains "this book was written amidst the distractions of war, in the shadow of the armory as Canada drills and sends forth her sons." After that he seems to have come forth himself, his going forth landing him in a lieutenant-colonelcy, and apparently giving him a right to lecture on the Ypres salient. He has raised the question: Shall Ypres be rebuilt? The old burgomaster wants it done; but natural desire may be over-estimating the practicalities of the situation. He is opposed in his demand, according to a contemporary, by the bulk of the 1,500 Yprois who have returned to their ruined city. It is said to have been a "dead" city before the war. Of its population of 17,500 a large portion was maintained by charity. With few industries in the place, its burghers lived on incomes which had their sources elsewhere. Ypres was built on a swamp and supported on piles. It was unhealthy, and seems fast to have been losing its former prestige. The more intelligent Yprois are reported as seeing in any attempt to rebuild the Cloth Hall and the Cathedral a similarity to any suggestion that might conceive rebuilding the Coliseum and the Forum in Rome. As Col. Willson says in his lecture on the salient: "These ruins are now amongst the "noblest and most sacred in Europe. "They took a century for a city of "200,000 souls to build. How is the "new village of Ypres to rebuild "them? Where is the money to come "from? Can it be thought possible that "British and French pilgrims would "contribute funds to efface any memo-"rials, with their sacred associations, "in order to raise cheap modern imi-"tations in their stead?" However, the rebuilding of Ypres is a matter which must be left settled by the Belgians. Should they decide to do so, Col. Willson says he hopes that the historic Grand Place may be left untouched. But it is understood that the Cloth Hall and the Cathedral are not to be touched in their ruined states; and if cheap restaurants and estaminets are to be allowed to sprawl all over the central site, the reproach will be Belgium's. The French are said to feel this way. The Allies would not have desecrated by miserable cafes and cabarets a spot in the defense of which a quarter million brave men laid down their lives. Enough sacrilege will be done within its precincts by the millions of gaping tourists and forgetful sightseers who will go there, without funds being subscribed to have it turned into a vulgar and noisy country fair.

MORAL REFORM MAKES STRANGE BED-FELLOWS.

Toronto Saturday Night: "It is an "old adage that politics make strange "bed-fellows, and so apparently does "the vaunted cause of 'moral reform.' "Hon. W. E. Raney's recent 'exposure' "of the Citizens' Liberty League had "an unexpected reaction in that it "led to a revelation of the close and "friendly relations between that "gentleman and Mr. Abraham Orpen. "The latter has never been at pains "to deny that he made his fortune as "a professional gambler. He is also "the proprietor of the Dufferin Race "Track, Toronto, a 'merry-go-round' "which exists for gambling purposes "only, and which all lovers of clean "horse racing have been desirous to "close up.

"Because of his singularly astute "and interesting personality, Mr. "Orpen has for many years past been "a powerful unseen force in Toronto "politics; but it will be a surprise to "many to learn that one of his pals "is the present Attorney-General, a "gentleman who has made moral re-"form his specialty for the past quar-"ter of a century. It appears that "they hunted in couples in the recent "race track investigation, and that "most of the shots that Mr. Raney "fired at distinguished gentlemen who "hold stock in the better order of "race tracks, were moulded by Mr. "Orpen. The real offence of these "gentlemen in Mr. Orpen's eyes is "that they have tried to rid horse "racing of its most objectionable and "parasitical element, the professional "bookmaker, and to substitute the "pari-mutuel betting machine, which "eliminates the 'fixed' race and as-"sures the public of a square deal. "Since Mr. Orpen has long been the "King of Bookmakers, his resentment "was natural; and it speaks volumes "for his skill in pursuing his own ends "that he should have found an ally "in the 'white-haired boy' of moral "reform coteries, Hon. W. E. Raney."

News of the election of Herbert H. Asquith to the British House of Commons will be received with pleasure by Liberals and Unionists alike. Mr. Asquith, as leader of the Government of five years ago, may not have been equal to the responsibility of that day, when Britain was forced into the war. He is, however, one of the outstanding figures in the public life of the country, and as such his place is in Parliament.

SKUNK FUR THE FEATURE AT SALE

New York, Feb. 24.—The purchasing of skunk fur for export to Germany was a feature of the fur auction today. Good prices were obtained for this fur, but they were not given out, because the collection had not been disposed of so heavy was the day's sales schedules. Nutria also had to be held over until tomorrow when it and the rest of the skunk will be sold. Wolverine brought the highest price of the day, when the choicest skins sold for forty-six dollars each. The best gray fox reached six dollars and a half. Compared with average prices obtained at the fall sale of fur auction sales, wolverine advanced thirty per cent. and gray fox went up ten per cent. Despite the uncompleted sales schedule the day's sales reached one million four hundred and thirty dollars. Grand total to date is nine million two hundred and eighty thousand dollars.

MAN PERISHED IN SEVERE BLIZZARD

Louis Michaud Was on His Way Home from Caribou Where He Hauled Potatoes.

Louis Michaud, a former resident of Madawaska county, perished in the recent blizzard which buried the country districts on both sides of the upper St. John river. Michaud, who was a farmer of Caswell plantation, had been to Caribou with a load of potatoes and was caught on his way home by the heavy storm. A day or two later George Watson, another farmer, noticed a pair of horses standing on the Sawyer road. Although the horses were blanketed they were suffering terribly from exposure and were frost bitten. Upon investigation Watson found that the horses belonged to Michaud and with the aid of neighbors went in search of the owner.

J. V. Albert, a farmer and potato dealer living near Caribou, almost perished in the same way. He was caught on the road, and his horse became exhausted when he luckily stopped near the home of another farmer, where he obtained shelter.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Augusta Evans Jonah.

The death of Mrs. Augusta Evans Jonah occurred on Saturday morning, Feb. 14, at the Maine Eye and Ear Infirmary, Portland, Me., after a brief illness of influenza followed by pneumonia. Mrs. Jonah was the widow of Dr. Horace V. Jonah of Eastport Me., whose death occurred about seven months ago. Mrs. Jonah was born at Florenceville, N. B., the eldest daughter of the late John and Harriet McCain. Mrs. Jonah leaves one son ten years of age, two sisters and a brother, all living at Portland, Me., a half-sister, Mrs. W. J. Burtt, Haverhill, Mass., and a half-brother, Dr. E. W. Boyer, Waterville, Me.

George L. A. Welsford.

St. John, Feb. 25.—The death of a well-known and popular young man, George L. A. Welsford, aged 27 years, occurred yesterday at his home, 50 High street, after illness of about a week from pneumonia. He is survived by his wife and a small child. He was a member of the staff of the Canadian Drug Company, Ltd., and belonged to several fraternal organizations, including the Free Masons, Foresters and Knights of Pythias.

John A. Campbell.

Ripples, Feb. 24.—John A. Campbell, a lifelong resident of Ripples, N. B., passed away at his home on Thursday, Feb. 12, after an illness of only three days, from stomach trouble. Deceased was in his eightieth year. He is survived by his widow, two sons and three daughters. The funeral services were conducted at the house and grave by Rev. J. Ainsworth and were largely attended considering the condition of the roads. Interment was made in the family lot at Ripples.

George Franklin Smye.

Alma, N. B., Feb. 24—George Franklin Smye, aged 28 years, son of Contractor A. E. and Mrs. Smye, passed away on the evening of the 19th inst., at the home of his uncle, J. W. Thompson, after an illness of three months with tuberculosis of the lungs.

WEDDINGS.

Wheelock - Grimmer.

St. John, Feb. 25.—A quiet wedding of wide social interest took place yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when, in St. Andrew's Church, Rev. F. S. Dowling united in marriage Geoffrey M. Wheelock, of Shanghai, China, and Miss Lois Hazen Grimmer, daughter of Mr. Justice and Mrs. W. C. H. Grimmer of this city. The bride, who was unattended, wore a smart brown travelling costume and carried a great bouquet of violets. She was given away by her father.

Mr. and Mrs. Wheelock left in the evening train for Boston. They will make an extended wedding tour in the United States, returning here in April and sailing in May for Shanghai, where Mr. Wheelock has extensive business interests. The bride has been a great social favorite in St. John and during the war was most active in patriotic work.

The Stock Market

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York (Wall Street), Feb. 25.—Selling of speculative issues was promptly resumed at the opening of today's stock market, prospects of higher money rates being a factor in the further reaction. Losses of one to five points accompanied initial offerings of steels, equipments, motors and shippings, rails and metals yielding more moderately. The weaker features included Republic, Lackawanna and Crucible steels, Chandler and General Motors, Mexican and Pan-American petroleums, Atlantic Gulf and Utah copper. Specialties of various descriptions, notably American woollen, Endicott-Johnson and Industrial Alcohol, also broke sharply.

Witty Toasts.

One rather cynical toast ran thus: "Woman—she requires no eulogy; she speaks for herself."

At the wedding breakfast of a deaf and dumb couple one guest, in the speech of the evening, wished them "unspeakable bliss."

At another gathering were toasted: "The Bench and the Bar; if it were not for the bar, there would be little use for the Bench."

The following was proposed at a shoemakers' dinner: "May we have all the women in the country to shoe, and all the men to boot."

A young man referred to one member of the sex he eulogized as "a delectable dear; so sweet that honey would blush in her presence, and treacle stand appalled."

Cleaned Out.

Judge—Have you anything to offer the Court before sentence is passed on you?

Prisoner—Na, your honor; my lawyer took my last dollar.

The Wise Sex.

An old bachelor remarks that all women believe in their hearts that woman is superior to man, but few of them care to brag about it till after they are married.

Highly Complimentary.

Maud—Miss Oldun thinks that hotel clerk just lovely.

Ethel—Why so?

There Was a Reason.

"I know a man who has been married thirty years and he spends all his evenings at home."

"That's what I call love."

"Oh, no, it's paralysis."

Hope Lives Eternal.

"Did you swear off this year?

"Is that an academic question, or have you got something."

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get 16 ounces—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

FROM THE PEOPLE

TIPS ON HOW TO ROUSE THE BASHFUL LOVER.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I have been watching with much interest the letters in the People's column, and having noticed one in the issue of Feb. 21st, I beg leave to have a few lines published, for the benefit of the distressed girl from McAdam.

I had never for a minute supposed that one of our fair young maidens was being called upon to endure such a punishment, and would like to convey to her my most sincere sympathy. I have not the slightest idea who the girl is or who the bashful lover may be, therefore I must picture them as ordinary people, and deal with them as such.

When the loved one calls at your home, greet him with an extended hand and a pleasant smile. Let him pick out his own chair; don't try to thrust him into one that is drawn up beside a red-hot stove. Seat yourself within easy speaking distance, but not too close to him. Answer all his questions promptly and truthfully. Talk to him about the line of work that he follows and encourage him to keep at it. Never tell him of the good position of your brother, nephew, brother-in-law, or your friend's husband. If the question of deep snow is introduced, tell him you think it is lovely. Don't say anything about the H. C. of L., latest dances, moving pictures, chocolates, or of the high string you rolled in the new bowling alley. Just remind him that you can bake beans to perfection and that you would much rather sew on a few buttons than to sit making fancy work, and that above all things you object to a man getting his own breakfast. If a few weeks of this treatment does not bring him to the point, you may as well tell him to look for a new situation.

Don't give up. Don't be broken-hearted. The writer has had quite an extended experience along the line of matrimony, its courses and effects; has also endured the agonies of the rejected suitor. I am still on the green side of thirty, and not in the least worried about the future.

So cheer up, little distressed one; there are just as good fish in the sea as ever were caught. Don't think that because one "poor fish" swims past your hook that the bait is not attractive. Just leave it there and the next fish will hook himself on and will look just as good to you once you have landed him safely and securely on the shore of the Lake of Matrimony.

Yours,
THE McADAM OPTIMIST.
McAdam, N. B., Feb. 23, 1920.

A SCHOOLBOY'S IDEAS ON DAYLIGHT SAVING.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Please allow me space in your valuable paper to say a few words on daylight saving.

My two brothers and I go to the Smythe street school and as we live on Carleton street we have to get up very early to get there on time and if the Mayor orders the hands of the clock moved an hour ahead it will mean getting up still earlier. Men who have to come from the Mills and Marysville to work have to get up in the middle of the night and a mother with a large family will have to get up at six o'clock to get her children off to school.

Don't you think it is about time that the working man has a chance as well as those who do not have to get out early?

Yours,
H. G.
Fredericton, Feb. 24, 1920.

SUGGESTIONS FOR BASHEUL ONE.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—In answer to McAdam, N. B., I would say a young man of your description if he loves and pays good respects to you is not only bashful or shy, but has something on his mind you do not know anything about. It is hard to tell just what it might be. I will tell what has been done and has proved good several times to my knowledge.

When he is calling on you some evening arrange so as to have dark come upon you, talk to him the same as ever, don't be afraid to show him you love him, because love is no good when it is kept hidden. As you talk to him tell him there is something you would like to tell him. When he asks what it is, tell him you are going to give him a chance to ask any question he should wish to ask in regard to your past life. In most cases there are no questions asked except the proposal that follows soon after.

On the other hand, it leaves an open road for him to tell you something he has been keeping to himself. Most any young man who has to build up a home of his own would form a fine idea of his sweet-heart if she would sometimes say, "Oh, John, let us not go tonight, it costs too much." Don't let him think you are saying to yourself that he is a fine fellow as far as his money goes.

Nothing in the line of a joke should be said to a man when he is making a marriage proposal. When the heart is open to receive it can be very easily closed forever just by a slight offence. In regard to a girl making a marriage proposal, it might be all right in some cases, but more times not. It is easier for a girl to say "no" or "yes" than a man. A man is liable to say "yes" but sooner say "no".

Yours,
YOUNG UNMARRIED MAN.
Fredericton, N. B., Feb. 24, 1920.

SCHOOLS AND TEACHERS.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—In reference to the item "What are Teachers for?" which apeared in the People's Column of Thursday's issue (19th instant), a parent would like to quote the paragraph:

"Mothers do the teaching; the pupils go to school the next day to be examined by the teacher, to see if they know the lessons."

This has been the experience of the Keswick Countryman. Let me add to his experience. After the teacher "hears" the lesson, if the mother's teaching does not seem satisfactory the pupil loses his play-time and is even kept in after hours. Cases are quite frequent in country schools, where children have been denied their right to as many as five to seven recesses during a school week, and kept after hours besides, this habit being kept up, by the teacher, even after receiving complaints, for so long. And yet these teachers are receiving from $350 to $885 salary, and complaining that they don't get enough salary for what they do.

Should the Principal of the P. N. S. feel like replying to Countryman's request, will he at the same time give his opinion re children being denied their play time, especially when carried to such an extent?

The school law says, "As much as possible the child is to be given his play time." Will the Principal express his idea as to the boundary limit, of as much as possible? It certainly will be of material benefit to both mothers and teachers, as this "experience," not voiced as a complaint, has become alarming in the country schools of today.

Thanking you in advance for the space in your valuable paper.

Yours,
ONE INTERESTED.

THE ATTITUDE OF ULSTER.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I am a returned soldier, having served with the Canadian forces in the Great War in France and Flanders. While in Toronto some time ago, I had the honor to attend the meeting of the Ulster delegation held in Massey Hall with reference to their views on the Irish question, and I must say that I have never heard more sincere and patriotic men speak. I came away from the meeting fully convinced that the Ulster people are the Imperialistic party in that blood-stained country of Ireland. During the dark days of the war when the British Empire was at death grapples with the greatest enemy the world has ever known, the one shining star in the British crown standing for justice to all, the part of the British Isles with which I was struck was Ulster. They are a wonderful British settlement and in my mind, saved the Empire during the war and are saving the great and glorious British Empire, today. It is now up to the British Government to cease their kindly words to Sinn Fein Ireland. They must now, in the interests of the safety and integrity of the Empire which we all love to honor, substitute firmness and action.

COLD STORAGE AND HIGH PRICES.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I am one of many hundreds in New Brunswick earning $20 per week. I am just figuring this out at seven dollars, or an equal to seven four years ago. I don't see the good of agitation for bigger pay. As sure as wages go up, up goes cost of living. It is well known that in Canada there is abundance of every product. Packing houses are packed full, that the product lies until it rots, and is then hauled to the dump rather than sold at a fair price. Canadian butter, bacon and cheese can be shipped to the Old Country and sold cheaper than in New Brunswick. I know of an instance of Canadian bacon sold in Liverpool, England, at 32c. per lb; at the same time in Fredericton it was 70c. lb. Lots of industrious working men could not afford fowl for Christmas; yet it was hauled away from the cold storage rotten. Such a state of affairs is awful, and these profiteers can have all the luxuries they want and the poor workman cannot afford the necessaries of life for his children. We read of cruelty to the dog and cat, but nothing for humanity. We need not expect anything will be done by the Government. It is apparently powerless. But I think it would have been a noble work if the churches had taken the matter up. It's a greater concern than prohibition.

Yours,
A WORKINGMAN.

BOGUS MONEY GETS MANY TAKERS

Otawa, Feb. 24.—Ottawa has been fairly flooded during the past two weeks with hundreds of dollars' worth of bogus money. As a result the merchants of the city have suffered a considerable loss.

Almost every day a large number of supposed $10 United States bills have been cashed in Sparks and Bank street stores. The "con" men in all instances would not demand the current exchange rate, which would amount to about $1.40. Later the merchants found out that the bills were a simple fake, as the one dollar sign had been covered over with a tobacco stamp.

Police officials have been unable to put an end to the flow of counterfeit money and, as a result, many of the uptown stores have been done badly. The police advise mechants to make a close inspection of all United States bills which they cash.

Eugene Quesnel, of Montreal, was suffering from kidney trouble—and had suffered for five long years. This is his letter:—

"I could not sleep nights and on some occasions could hardly walk. I had been treated by some of our best physicians but without relief. I lost over 15 pounds and was very weak, and friends who knew me before were astonished. One day I met one of our leading hotelkeepers, who had been cured by your famous Gin Pills. He advised me to try them. I bought two boxes and before I had used one box I felt a big change. Before I finished the second one I was completely cured, and I can assure you if I had only known what I know now, I would not have spent one hundred dollars for nothing—when two boxes of Gin Pills cured me."

Gin Pills are the finest preparation for kidney and bladder trouble ever produced. At the first warning pain in back or side, get Gin Pills. The Exchange Situation Due Entirely to Trade Balances

Mr. F. B. Macaulay Shows Weakness of Some of Proposed Remedies for Exchange Trouble—A Permanent Solution Is to Become Commercially More Independent of U. S.

Montreal, Feb. 24.—"Every Canadian who buys from Britain instead of from the United States performs a patriotic service, for he is helping to maintain sterling exchange, which is vital to us, and refrains from increasing the premium on New York funds. The Canadian dollar is now worth approximately 85 cents in New York and $1.25 in London. Our merchants, therefore, have every inducement to buy from the Mother Country instead of from the United States. In like manner the pound sterling is worth 15 per cent. more in Canada than in New York, and British people have a strong inducement to buy from us. Every rise in New York funds and every fall in sterling makes the mutual benefit greater."

This statement was made by Mr. T. B. Macaulay, president of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, during the course of an illuminative address on The Exchange Situation before the members of the Financial Club, formerly the Bond Dealers' Association, at Freeman's Hotel yesterday. Mr. Macaulay during the address brought out many important factors which hitherto have been overlooked by the majority of those who have been studying the exchange question.

In his opening remarks Mr. Macaulay said:

"Trade in its origin took the form of barter, and barter it continues to be in its essence to this day. It is true that gold, silver, and other forms of money have been introduced as mediums of exchange, but units of money are merely the measuring sticks, and gold coins are but the chips used in the deal. When a farmer sells his grain, it is not gold that he wants; it is power to buy other goods, and the gold is but the measure of how much he can get.

"So long as the trade between two countries, or groups of countries, remains fairly even, each selling approximately as much as it buys, everything goes smoothly. When, however, one buys from the other much more than it can sell to that other, what happens? If the difference be comparatively small and temporary, gold is shipped to cover the balance. Gold, however, will not last any longer than the chips at a game. As compared with the trade of the world, the supply is small. The balance of trade is in reality usually settled by the sale or transfer of securities from the debtor country to the creditor.

"The exporting country becomes the owner of bonds, mortgages and other securities of the importing country."

Continuing, the speaker declared: "Let us consider the case of Britain. We often hear the remark that Britain has grown rich while importing hugely in excess of her exports. It is a fact that Britain has for a great length of time had a large adverse trade balance, and yet no crisis has come until recently. How has this been possible?" asked Mr. Macaulay.

British Trade Figures.

"I have before me a statement of the total imports and total exports of the United Kingdom year by year from 1815 onwards, based on the House of Commons returns. The total imports from 1815 to 1853, inclusive, were slightly in excess of £2,300,000,000, while the exports for the same period were £3,977,000,000, an excess of £1,677,000,000. For the total of this huge sum her people must at that time have received an equivalent in foreign investments, and the interest on those investments was of course being added year after year. Remembering that money doubles in twelve years at six per cent. and in ten years at seven per cent., it would seem to be safe to assume that by 1854 the excess of Britain's exports with the interest accumulated theron, must have amounted to at least £5,000,000,000 or $25,000,000,000. I take no account in this of her earnings from shipping, or from being the banking centre of the world. At the close of the Napoleonic wars Britain found herself in practical control of the shipping of the world, and it is not necessary to enlarge on what that means both in the way of earnings and of control of foreign markets. By means of her excess exports, her shipping and her banking, Britain became the great creditor nation of the world. She had huge sums accruing to her credit every year as interest in foreign lands, and during the long period which followed, when her imports were in excess of her exports, she was able to live on her past. If her shipping and banking profits were not sufficient, her interest could pay for her excess of imports, and if the interest were not enough, the principal was available.

"I doubt if anyone will claim that Britain could have survived this long period of adverse balance of trade were it not for the wealth previously accumulated. The history of Britain illustrates what a vital part the transfer of securities plays in all trade relations in exchange matters.

"We in Canada have been vitally interested in these foreign investments of the Mother Country. Prior to the war the British people owned a huge amount of American securities. Our exchange relations at that time were triangular in character. We bought chiefly from the United States and sold chiefly to Britain. The Mother Country gave us drafts on New York against her accumulations there from interest, and the sale of securities, and we used those drafts to pay for our American purchases. The war, however, has changed all that. These British-owned securities have now passed very largely into American ownership, and in addition enormous sums have been borrowed by both the Mother Country and Canada in the United States, on which interest must now be paid. The Mother Country can no longer pay for her purchases from us by drafts on New York, and we therefore have difficulty in paying for our purchases there. Both the Mother Country and Canada are reduced to paying for their excess of purchases in the United States by the sale of securities. American bonds and stock from Britain and Canadian bonds from the Dominion are going across to the United States in a steady stream. The discount on sterling exchange and the premium on New York exchange are inducements given to British and Canadian owners to sell, and Americans to buy, and the heaviness of that premium indicates how hard pressed the Mother Country is to meet her payments to us, and how hard pressed we are to meet our payments to the United States.

"Is there any limit to the possible drop in sterling exchange, or to the possible rise in New York funds?

Must Help Britain to Pay.

"The supply of British-owned Canadian and American bonds is not inexhaustible, and in time they will cease to be a factor. There is no ultimate limit thereafter, except what can be brought about by a reduction in our imports from the United States, an increase in our exports to that country and an increase in our imports from the Mother Land. Our export trade to Britain is in danger. We must help the Mother Country to pay for her purchases from us, and this can be done only by switching our imports so far as possible from the United States to the Mother Land. Every Canadian who buys from Britain instead of from the United States performs a patriotic service, for he is helping to maintain sterling exchange which is vital to us, and refrains from increasing the premium on New York funds.

"Right here the laws of supply and demand come to our aid. The Canadian dollar is now worth, approximately eighty-five cents in New York and $1.25 in London. Our merchants, therefore, have every inducement to buy from the Mother Country instead of from the United States. In like manner the pound sterling is worth fifteen per cent. more in Canada than in New York. British people have a strong inducement to buy from us. Every rise in New York funds, and every fall in sterling makes the mutual benefit greater.

"I have frequently said that but for one consideration I would view with perfect equanity a twenty per cent. premium on American funds. Such a premium would automatically curtail our American imports, increase our British imports, increase our exports to the United States, and result in the transfer to Canada of much business that would otherwise go to the United States. Just the other day I heard of one large annual order, which had for many years gone to the United States, being transferred to the Canadian branch of the International Harvester Company, simply because of exchange. I should expect our Canadian manufacturers to expand their business greatly, and I should also expect American firms to establish branches in Canada, so that they might do here a great deal of their manufacturing for export trade.

"The one consideration that mars this pleasant prospect is the fact that with such a premium there would also be a heavy drain of our Canadian securities to the United States, and in time that country would have a financial control of us which is not pleasing to contemplate.

"The permanent solution of our exchange situation lies in our becoming commercially more independent of the United States, and this can only be achieved by the linking together in closest partnership of every part of the Empire, and the development of every part to the utmost, so that we may supply each other's needs in foodstuffs and raw materials, provide markets for each other, and make each other prosperous and independent. You probably know that I have for a long time advocated closer relations with the West Indies, and I certainly hope this may an accomplished fact in the not distant future. It is an interesting and peculiar situation that the premium on American funds should be one of the factors in binding together the British Empire.

"Perhaps I may be permitted to refer here to other suggestions which have been made.

"In some parts of the Dominion there is an agitation for a reduction of the tariff, so that American goods may come in more freely. Let us drop all protectionist and free trade ideas and consider how this would work. Any marked increase in our imports from the United States would so increase our adverse balance of trade with that country that the premium on American exchange would almost certainly rise considerably. A reduction in the tariff would certainly mean an increase in the cost of New York funds, and it is possible that such increase might even offset entirely the reduction in the customs charges. The effect of that would merely be to transfer some of our customs revenue from our own Government to American brokers and investors as inducements for them to buy Canadian securities, and thus increase our indebtedness to that country.

"It has also been proposed that we should refuse to sell except for gold. If we were to insist upon being paid in gold for our exports to Britain, what would happen? We should have an almost complete collapse of our export trade, with disaster to our farmers, and loss of employment to our industrial classes.

"It has also been stated that the depreciation of our dollar when measured by the American standard is due to inflation of our currency. If the unexpected should happen, and Americans should suddenly buy $100,000,000 of our pulp and paper, or if our own Government should borrow $100,000,000 in New York, the premium on American exchange would immediately drop heavily, and the two currencies would approach equality for the time being. This would happen without the slightest alteration in the character of the currency. This shows, I think, that inflation has little or nothing to do with the matter. Our exchange difficulties are due to our trade balances, and nothing else.

"An American professor has been kind enough to suggest that Canada is insolvent because she does not pay gold. We may compare our position with that of two men, each of whom owns a number of highly profitable farms, and has other industries. One, however, is more southerly than the other, and can grow crops which the other cannot. The northern man buys the southern products. He offers in payment wheat or flour, but is told, 'I do not need that; I have all I require of my own.' He is offered beef and pork, with the same answer. He is offered lumber and paper and is told, 'Yes, I will take some of that, but not enough to cover the amount you owe me.' The southern man says, 'Pay me gold,' which of course the northern man cannot get anywhere. Finally the southern man says, 'I will take a mortgage on some of your farms for the amount, but I will only take it at fifteen per cent. discount.' Is the northerner insolvent? Rubbish. He is highly prosperous, and able to pay everything, if only his southern uncle would take the kind of goods he produces. Insolvent? Not at all, he is merely showing bad business judgment in buying from the wrong person. He begins to look around, and finally remembers that he actually belongs to a big firm, John Bull & Sons, and that another member of that firm, who happens to be his father, has factories that can supply much of what he needs, and another member, a brother, has southern farms, which could be developed to supply all thte tropical goods he requires. What does he do? He begins to deal with the members of his own firm, and to develop their resources and soon his problems come to an end.

"That is the lesson from our exchange situation with the United States."

HOME RULE BILL IN BRITISH HOUSE

Great French Railway Strike Ties Up Trains to the South And Interrupts All Trade

Strike Leaders Claim that by This Afternoon Not a Wheel Will Be Turning on the Paris, Lyons and Mediterranean Rail-Way—Seeking to Spread the Strike.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, Feb. 25.—Following a decision to call a strike reached by delegates of the railway unions at a meeting here last night, the Paris, Lyons and Mediterranean Railway was almost completely tied up this morning. All shops are idle, no trains left the Lyon station this morning, and the Marseilles and Lyon yards were also closed. Two trains, one northbound and the other southbound, were dispatched from Dijon this forenoon, but it is expected by this afternoon that claims of strike leaders that not a wheel would be turning throughout the system, would be realized.

Attempts are being made by the extremist section of the unions to expand the strike into a general walkout, affecting all railways in France, but they do not seem to be meeting with much success. The strikers' principal claims are for modification in the pension scale, the release on bail of an engineer charged with responsibility for a recent wreck and the reinstatement of a carpenter dismissed from one of the workshops of the line. If the strike becomes wholly effective, communications from Paris to southeast France and to Switzerland and Italy will be interrupted.

PLEADED GUILTY TO STEALING RYE

Detectives of the eastern lines found that Napudogan was responsible for quite a number of these thefts from the cars. At this terminal the thefts grew so numerous that, when a liquor car passed through there, the contents of the car were "seized" and about fourteen employees were implicated in the jobs.

In addition to the trouble caused to the railway officials by the thefts of liquor, and the spread of the thefts among the employees, the investigations became wider as other articles were being stolen.

"The charge against the men who are at present under arrest is that they entered a car of liquor, first at Summit, where a small amount was taken, and again, while passing through Napudogan terminal, where thirty-nine cases of Kentucky whiskey were stolen," said Chief Page today. "This whiskey, being of a brand to which the employees were unaccustomed, talked for itself, with the result that in addition to nine arrests in this case some twenty other employees will lose their positions for violation of the railway rules, as the railway officials are determined to stamp out stealing and the excessive use of intoxicating liquor by the employees."

The Investigating Department are also acting on several cases where the culprits were found breaking and entering cars and stealing from them. One case will come up in Victoria county, one in Westmorland, involving three men, and one in York, involving five men for thefts of shoes, tobacco and merchandise.

Automobile Case Thrown Out.

In the case of William Illingsworth vs. Wardlow Kilburn, which came up before Judge Wilson in the York County Court yesterday afternoon for judgment, His Honor decided that, as the ownership of the car had not been proven nor any negligence on the part of the driver, no relationship of master and servant, principal or agent shown between Mr. Kilburn and his wife, who was alleged to be driving the car at the time, the case should not go on and he found for the defendant. The case was one in which the defendant was sued for injury to a cow of the plaintiff when struck while on the highway by the former's automobile. Owing to the late hour at which the Montreal train arrived two jurors, George Boone, of North Lake, and Alex. Cobourne, of Manners-Sutton, who were on the train, were unable to be present at the hour appointed for the opening of the court and a delay resulted until they apppeared.

Gordon Simms, who has been critically ill with pleurisy and pneumonia at the home of his sister, Mrs. R. Hoben, has recovered and will soon be able to resume his work with the C. P. R. at McAdam.

SOUGHT LIFE OF PRINCE OF SERBIA

London, Feb. 25.—An attempt has been made to assassinate Prince Regent Alexander of Serbia and Premier Protitch, according to a despatch from Trieste to the Giornale D'Italia, forwarded by the Central News' Rome correspondent. Both the Prince Regent and the Premier were wounded, the report declares.

SWISS ENTRY TO LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Berne, Feb. 25.—The committee of the Swiss national council, which has been studying the question of Switzerland's entry into the League of Nations, yesterday approved the government's proposal to withdraw the clause of the act providing that Switzerland should join the League only when the United States had entered it. The vote was 15 to 7.

RESULTS IN WEIGHT LIFTING CONTESTS

Montreal, Feb. 25.—Lodging a protest over the final event at the weight lifting contest last night, Cabano brought the competition to an unsatisfactory ending. Previous to the protest Decarie defeated Cabana in every lift and holds a good margin for the events to be held next week.

Results:

Lifting a barrel weighing 200 pounds above head, and every lift after original from shoulders to count as 100 pounds—Decarie, 1,200 pounds; Cabana, 1,000 pounds.

Bringing up two dumbells from the ground in two lifts—Decarie, 273 1-4 pounds; Cabana, 226¾ pounds.

COMMERCE BOARD HEAD TO BE CHOSEN

The Federal Cabinet Will Have to Take Up Important Matter at Once.

JUDGE ROBSON PACKING UP HIS BELONGINGS

Report that There Will Be Other Resignations from Board of Commerce.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, Feb. 25.—The resignation of Judge Robson, chairman of the Board of Commerce, has not been unexpected. It is known that conditions both within nad without the board have not been altogether pleasant to Judge Robson, and were such as were likely to lead to the retirement of one or other of the commissioners.

Apparently there was a difference of opinion and ideals among the commissioners, which was bound to lead to dissension sooner or later. There has also been friction with the civil service commissioner and with certain members of the Government itself, who have never done anything to conceal their dislike to the board from the beginning.

In addition to the above reasons, there are other ones which have not been disclosed and perhaps never will be.

Judge Robson Packing Up.

In the meantime, Judge Robson is packing up preparatory to returning to Winnipeg, and the Government is presented with the further problem of choosing a head for the board, of which W. F. O'Connor has been the real head, so far as activity goes, since the Board was constituted.

There are reports of other resignations, but Commissioners O'Connor and Murdoch refuse to confirm them so far as they relate to their individual cases, though they do not seem to evince a great deal of interest as to whether they remain with the Board or not. The path of the Board has been a hard one from the beginning. It has been criticized both in the House and in the country for doing too much or too little, and since it has had the control of newsprint added to its functions, its troubles have become even more serious.

Before the Cabinet Today.

Ottawa, Feb. 25.—The resignation of Chairman Judge Robson from the Board of Commerce is before the cabinet, but has not been accepted as yet. It is expected that at today's cabinet council the resignation will be accepted.

It was expected that Judge Robson would ask that the Board of Commerce be relieved from the duties of paper controller and his action in placing his unconditional resignation before the cabinet came in the nature of a surprise.

It is stated that the action taken by the chairman is not due to any lack of support by the Government, but is due to internal friction.

MAN ACCUSED OF STEALING CHEESE

St. John Jury Acquits Frederick Jones in the County Court Today.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

St. John, Feb. 25.—The case of the King vs. Frederick Jones, charged with stealing a cheese from the C.P.R., came up for trial before Judge Armstrong in the County Court this morning. The accused testified that he found the cheese near his house in St. John street, and after keeping it for some time gave it to Mr. McAleer to dispose of for him, on the understanding that they would go fifty-fifty. The jury brought in a verdict of not guilty. His Honor remarked that he had expected a verdict of guilty with a recommendation to leniency, in which case he was prepared to allow the prisoner to go on suspended sentence, but on the verdict of not guilty he discharged the accused.

PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION TODAY

Inquiry Into Telephone Rates Postponed for About a Month.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

St. John, Feb. 25.—The Public Utilities Commission met this morning, but nothing beyond routine matters was taken up. The matter of the inquiry into telephone rates has been postponed for about a month, because it is expected that it will take that time for the expert engaged to go over the company's books.

STABBING CASE IN ST. JOHN COURT

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

St. John, Feb. 25.—The preliminary examination was commenced here this morning of Johannes Flamen, charged with stabbing and wounding Derek Hozeman, on board the S. S. Bilbster, bound from La Havre, France, to this port, on the high seas, Sunday, Feb. 15. John Parker, a seaman, told of the incident which arose from noise made by Hozeman counting the score of a cribbage game when the accused was in his berth trying to sleep, followed by a fight in which a knife was used.

Bainbridge Colby Chosen by President Wilson to Succeed Lansing as Secretary of State

The New Secretary Was a Former Leader in the Progressive Party Headed by Theodore Roosevelt, and Was on Several Important Boards During War.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Washington, Feb. 25.—Bainbridge Colby, of New York, who was one of the leaders in the Progressive party under Theodore Roosevelt, will succeed Robert Lansing as Secretary of State.

Announcement of his selection by President Wilson was made today at the White House.

The selection of Mr. Colby came as a surprise, most officials assuming that Frank L. Polk, acting secretary, would be the President's choice.

This is not the first office Mr. Colby has held under the President's administration. He was appointed a member of the Shipping Board and the Emergency Fleet Corporation in July, 1919, and also was a member of the United States mission to the Inter-Allied shipping conference at Paris in the same year. He retired from the Shipping Board more than a year ago.

Mr. Colby was a lifelong Republican until the famous Bull Moose bolt at the Chicago convention in 1912. He had been actively identified with the candidacy of Theodore Roosevelt for the Republican nomination for President that year and was in charge of contests to seat the Roosevelt delegates in the Chicago convention. Later he identified himself with the Democratic party.

Mr. Colby was born at St. Louis 51 years ago and graduated from Williams College, Massachusetts.

MILLION DOLLAR FIRE AT NEW YORK

Sir Thomas Lipton's Cup Challenger in Danger, but Saved by Shift in Wind.

New York, Feb. 25.—Fire which broke out shortly before last midnight in the Robert Jacobs shipyards at City Island destroyed several yachts and buildings. Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger for the America cup, Shamrock IV., and the American trial yacht, Vanitie, were endangered by the flames, but were saved by a change of wind.

Early estimates placed the loss at nearly one million dollars. Sixty-five sailing craft were stored at the yards. The origin of the fire is not known.

TENANTS BOUND TO INCREASE RENTS

New York, Feb. 25.—George C. Kelly, a landlord and an anti-profiteer, has maintained the pre-war rental for his apartments. Yesterday his tenants got together and decided to force increases of five dollars and seven dollars per month upon him. Today he announced he would spend the extra money in improving the apartments.

When You Lay Your Paper Aside

After you've read the news, have you gotten all the valuable information out of it? Not until you have read the advertisements.

Reading the advertisements should be just as much a part of your day as reading the news columns.

The advertisements in your favorite newspaper are a daily record of what your local merchants have laid in store to meet your needs and add to your comfort.

They tell you what the manufacturers of these goods, who are constantly striving to please the public, have done to add to your advantages and comforts. The news, while always interesting, may often concern you only in a general way.

The advertisements are almost certain to tell you something that may mean a great deal to your home life or your business and social welfare.

KILBANE-VOLGER FIGHT ON TONIGHT

Knockout Will Change World's Featherweight Title to the Challenger.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York, Feb. 25.—A boxing bout which has been pending for more than a year will be fought tonight. In the first regiment armory, Newark, under the auspices of the Newark Sportsmen's Club, Johnny Kilbane, world's featherweight champion, will meet Benny Valgar, his foremost rival and most persistent challenger.

Under the rules and regulations prescribed by the New York State Boxing Commission, it is a championship match. That is, Valgar can acquire the world's featherweight title by registering a knockout. Many authorities, however, refuse to coincide with this viewpoint. Because Valgar and Kilbane are not meeting at 122 pounds ringeside, they argue that the championship cannot be transferred.

Kilbane is boxing at catch weights, but is compelling Valgar to weigh in at 124 pounds at 3 p. m. today. In New Jersey the featherweight limit is set at 125 pounds, weigh in at 3 o'clock. John S. Smith, chairman, has stated that his commission will recognize Valgar as the world's champion in the event that he stops Kilbane.

Valgar unquestionably is the champion's most formidable rival. He has proved his worth by conquest. For the last year he has been sweeping aside all contention. He has met practically all the leading featherweights and many star lightweights. To his credit he has knocked out Jimmy Hill, featherweight champion of Australia; Gussie Lewis, the Philadelphia star; George Chaney, of Baltimore; Phinney Boyle, New England State champion, and others of lesser note.

OTTAWAS AT FULL STRENGTH TONIGHT

Do or Die for Canadiens at the Capital—No Play-Off Says Manager Petie Green.

Ottawa, Feb. 25.—The Ottawas will be at full strength for tonight's game with Canadiens as Eddie Gerard will be available. Broadbent showed no signs of trouble Saturday night at Toronto though he had his head in plaster as a result of Bert Corbeau's blow the previous week. He will also be in line for the two big games this week. It will be do or die with Canadiens but Ottawas will not be caught napping.

"We have no kicks to make," said Manager Green of the Ottawas, on returning from Saturday night's game at Toronto. "Ross handled thte game well. He let Randall get away with a wicked swing at Benedict, but he also failed to see what Cleghorn handed Prodgers, so that squared matters. The least said about the goal disputes the better. That kind of stuff does not help the game. We claimed a goal which Umpire Cruise disallowed and Toronto claimed one which Ross refused to sanction, so that made it fifty-fifty. Wilson started the rough stuff, and I guess our boys gave a receipt for everything they took. We will go right back to Toronto next Saturday and beat them again. There will be no play-off for the National League title if the Ottawa Club can prevent it."

Pittsburg Beating Boston.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 25.—If the Pittsburg hockey team wins from the Boston All-Stars tonight it will be the one to represent the United States in the Olympic hockey matches, if this branch of competition finally materializes as one of the features at Antwerp.

Pittsburg has beaten Boston in two of the three games played and has scored decisive victories over the other American competitor, Cleveland. After Canada had decided to send a team, the National Hockey Association of the United States planned elimination games so that the American entry might be decided.

Pittsburg in its last two matches with Boston has shown far superior all around team play and is a big favorite for tonight's game.

ACADIA TEAM ALREADY HERE TO PLAY U.N.B.

Hope to Win Tomorrow Night and Thus Tie Up Western Section of League.

MOUNT A. MANAGER PICKS RED AND BLACK

Mount A. Used Three Ineligible Players and Then Only Tied With Acadia.

The Acadia University hockey team arrived in Fredericton this morning from Sackville, where they played an exhibition game with Mount A., and should be in the best of shape for the final game of the western section of the Intercollegiate Hockey League to be played here with U. N. B. tomorrow night.

Mount A by forfeiting to Acadia yesterday put the Nova Scotians in a position to tie up the western section of the league. That would be the result if Acadia should happen to win from U. N. B., and the events at Sackville yesterday have added much interest to tomorrow night's game to be played here, particularly in view of predictions made from Mount A. that "U. N. B. will have no walk-over."

Mount A. Played Ineligible Trio.

In the game at Sackville last night Mount A. played three players—Fish, Elliott and Pickard—who are ineligible under the rules which made it necessary for all players to have no "sups" and be up to the top notch of efficiency in their studies, a game under such conditions being arranged after Mount A. had forfeited the league fixture to Acadia. With their thus greatly strengthened team Mount A. were able to hold Acadia to a tied score, both of Mount A.'s goals being scored by Fisher, one of their ineligible players.

"We have been playing a weak team all season bcause of the eligibility rules, and forfeited to Acaida because we knew that with our league team we could not give Acadia a real game," explained the manager of the Mount A. team this morning over the long distance telephone to The Gleaner. "Four of our best players have been ineligible all season and we played three of them in the exhibition game Acadia kindly agreed to play, the result being a tied score. Hover, even under those conditions, Acadia had the better of the play, and it was only phenomenal work by Mount A.'s goaltender that kept the score tied."

Close Game Here Predicted.

"Acadia has a well balanced team and they shoot well," declared the Mount A. manager when asked for an opinion on the U. N. B.-Acadia game here. "The Acadia team are vastly stronger than when U. N. B. played them at Wolfville and won by a score of 3 to 2. I would expect U. N. B. to win on their home ice tomorrow night, but U. N. B. will have no walk-over."

The Acadia team upon their arrival this morning went directly to Windsor Hall, where they will make their headquarters. Nobody at U. N. B. expected them to reach here before tonight, and consequently no official representatives of U. N. B. were on hand to meet them at the C. P. R. station.—J. D. B.

Ineligible Player Did Scoring.

Sackville, N. B., Feb. 24.—Acadia and Mount Allison teams played a fast and closely contested game of hockey this afternoon which resulted in a drew both teams scoring two. The game was not in the regular schedule, Mount Allison forfeiting and playing an exhibition team instead of the regular team. The game was a remarkably clean one. Scores by periods were as follows: First period, 1, Rogers for Acadia; 2, Fisher for Mount Allison. Second period, Fisher for Mount Allison, 2, Dingley for Acadia. Frank Brown was referee. The line-up was as follows:—

Acadia—	Mount Allison—
Goal
Steeds	Fenderson
Defence
Parker	Jack Smith
Frazer	Elliot
Centre
Dingley	Pickard
Right Wing.
Rogers	Fisher
Left Wing
Beardsley	Pickard
Spares
Burton	Hunton
Nelson	Rainnie
Aird	Wyse

DIDN'T AGREE ON COMMISSION HEAD

Johnson and Heydler Unable to Name Successor to Garry Herrmann.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York, Feb. 25.—John Heydler, president of the National League, and Ban Johnson, president of the American, held a long conference here yesterday but were unable to agree on a chairman for the national commission.

The names of the candidates discussed were submitted by a joint committee of the leagues in Chicago. They included Harvey Woodruff, of Chicago, and State Senator James Walker, William (Big Bill) Edwards and J. C. Toole, of New York.

Why Heinie Groh Can't Sign.

New York, Feb. 25.—Ball players may storm and raise ructions on the ball field, and they may disobey their managers at times, but in their own home they are like any other married citizen.

Heinie Groh, it has been reported, is a hold-out. As a matter of fact, Heinie's wife is the hold-out and Heinie is only acting as the spokesman or middleman.

Groh recently returned his contract to President Garry Herrmann, of the champion Cincinnati Reds, demanding more money. Herrmann figures that he can pay no more than the amount stipulated in little Heinie's contract.

Enter Mrs. Groh, manager of the Groh household.

A despatch from Cincinnati last night had it that the directress has forbidden Heinie to sign the contract until Mr. Herrmann comes across with more money. And as yet Heinie has not dared to sign.

Some Releases by Yankees.

New York, Feb. 24.—The New York Americans tonight announced the release of Third Baseman J. Carlisle Smith to the Washington American League Club; Outfielder Albert Wickland to the Toledo club of the American League, and Outfielder George Halas to the St. Paul club, also of the American Association.

Local Curlers Lost Both Games

St. John, Feb. 25.—Fredericton curlers played a double-header here yesterday and lost both matches. Two rinks played the Thistles in the afternoon and two rinks played the Carleton. The same number of rinks played in the evening.

In the afternoon match with the Thistles the latter won by the close score of 31 to 30 and Carleton won by 31 to 26. In the evening play Fredericton lost to the Thistles 36 to 25 and lost to the West Siders by the score of 46 to 21.

Following are the rinks and scores:

PASS IN NEW YORK BOXING BILL TO

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 25.—The Walker boxing bill, designed to permit fifteen-round bouts in New York state, will be reported favorably by the Senate judiciary committee, Senator Jas. J. Walker announced yesterday.

Secretary Walker amended the bill by increasing from 17 to 18 years the age at which boys can engage in public exhibitions and permitting exhibitions in state armories.

J. E. Widener, of Philadelphia, is now the owner of Elmendorf Farm, near Lexington, Ky., one of the show places of the Blue Grass country. The late J. B. Haggin spent several millions in the embellishment of the wonderful estate. It is reported that Mr. Widener will bring his thoroughbred broodmares from France and place them at Elmendorf.

GERMANY'S CATS STRANGELY GONE

Shortage of Mousers May Be Traceable to the Butchers.

Germany lacks cats , and as a result rats and mice are swarming everywhere. At one time feline pets were as plantiful in the fatherland as in any other country, but during the war the whole tribe disappeared.

It is believed that the German butchers could explain this mystery, because it was noticed that their stores were usually well supplied with "rabbits" while cats were growing scarcer and scarcer. A cat is the most acceptable gift to frau or fraulein today, and when any of the Allied soldiers quartered on the Rhine go home on leave they are entreated to bring a good mouser back with them.

SEED WHEAT FOR SASKATCHEWAN

Saskatoon, Sask., Feb. 24.—Representing the Provincial Department of Agriculture, eight agents were sent Sunday from Regina in connection with the Government's programme of relief in the dried-out areas. They will address meetings in various districts and will interview a number of farmers. Orders will be taken for seed wheat, feed oats, flour, coal and hay. The Government has purchased 20,000 bushels of pure seed oats from the Dominion seed purchasing commission to be distributed to those making application to the agents.

LOOK BEAUTIFUL WITHOUT POWDER

The Camera Can't See Feminine Beauty Under Face Powder Used.

Atlantic City, Feb. 24.—Will F. Towles, of Washington, D. C., addressing the annual convention of the Photograpuhers' Association of the Middle States here today, declared that if girls want to look beautiful in a protograph they must not powder their faces.

Powder flattens the expression and obliterates the lines necessary to bring out beauty and character when posing for a photograph. "They might look a whole lot better without a shiny nose to the human eye, but not to the eye of the camera," he added.

WILD ANIMALS OF AMERICA DYING OUT

Regina, Sask., Feb. 24.—"As a matter of fact, unless steps are taken immediately to give reasonable protection to beneficial wild life, it is only a matter of time before most species will be exterminated. The buffalo in its wild state is now extinct, and the antelope and the elk are the next candidates for oblivion, if drastic measures are not soon taken to save them." That is the prediction of Chief Game Guardian Fred Bradshaw in the course of an appeal to the young people of the province to protect Saskatchewan's wild life from destruction.

Following Sir Nigel's counsel, they pressed on upon foot until they were close to the prince's secretary, who was in high debate with a young and foppish knight, who was bent upon making his way past him.

"Mackworth!" said the king-at-arms. "It is in my mind, young sir, that you have not been presented before."

"Nay, it is but a day since I set foot in Bordeaux, but I feared lest the prince should think it strange that I had not waited upon him."

"The prince hath other things to think upon," quoth Sir William de Pakington; "but if you be a Mackworth you must be a Mackworth of Normanton, and indeed I see now that your coat is sable and ermine."

"I am a Mackworth of Normanton," the other answered, with some uneasiness of manner.

"Then you must be Sir Stephen Mackworth, for I learn that when old Sir Guy died he came in for the arms and the name, the war-cry and the profit."

"Sir Stephen is my elder brother, and I am Arthur, the second son," said the youth.

"In sooth and in scoth!" cried the king-at-arms with scornful eyes. "And pray, sir second son, where is the cadency mark which should mark your rank. Dare you to wear your brother's coat without the crescent which should stamp you as his cadet. Away to your lodgings, and come not nigh the prince until the armorer hath placed the true charge upon your shield." As the youth withdrew in confusion, Sir William's keen eye singled out the five red roses from amid the overlapping shields and cloud of pennons which faced him.

"Ha!" he cried, "there are charges here which are above counterfeit. The roses of Loring and the boar's head of Buttesthorn may stand back in peace, but my faith! they are not to be held back in war. Welcome, Sir Oliver, Sir Nigel! Chandos will be glad to his very heart-roots when he sees you. This way, my fair sirs. Your squires are doubtless worthy the fame of their masters. Down this passage, Sir Oliver! Edricson! Ha! one of the old strain of Hampshire Edricsons, I doubt not. And Ford, they are of a south Saxon stock, and of good repute. There are Norburys in Cheshire and in Wiltshire, and also as I have heard, upon the borders. So, my fair sirs, and I shall see that you are shortly admitted."

He had finished his professional commentary by flinging open a folding door, and ushering the party into a broad hall, which was filled with a great number of people who were waiting, like themselves, for an audience. The room was very spacious, lighted on one side by three arched and mullioned windows, while opposite was a huge fireplace in which a pile of faggots was blazing merrily. Many of the company had crowded round the flames, for the weather was bitterly cold; but the two knights seated themselves upon a bancil, with their squires standing behind them. Looking down the room, Alleyne marked that both floor and ceiling were of the richest oak, the latter spanned by twelve arching beams, which were adorned at either end by the lillies and the lions of the royal arms. On the further side was a small door, on each side of which stood men-at-arms. From time to time an elderly man in black and rounded shoulders and a long white wand in his hand came softly forth from his inner room, and beckoned to one or other of the company, who doffed cap and followed him.

The two knights were deep in talk, when Alleyne became aware of a remarkable individual who was walking round the room in their direction. As he passed each knot of cavaliers every head turned to look after him, and it was evident, from the bows and respectful salutations on all sides, that the interest which he excited was not due merely to his strange personal appearance. He was tall and straight as a lance, though of a great age, for his hair, which curled from under his velvet cap of maintenance was as white as the new-fallen snow. Yet, from the swing of his stride and the spring of his step, it was clear that he had not yet lost the fire and activity of his youth. His fierce hawk-like face was clean shaven like that of a priest, save for a long thin wisp of white moustache which drooped down half way to his shoulder. That he had been handsome might be easily judged from his high aquiline nose and clear-cut chin; but his features had been so distorted by the seams and scars of old wounds, and by the loss of one eye which had been torn from the socket, that there was little left to remind one of the dashing young knight who had been fifty years ago the fairest as well as the boldest of the English chivalry. Yet what knight was there in that hall of St. Andrews who would not have gladly laid down youth, beauty, and all that he posessed to win the fame of this man? For who could be named with Chandos, the stainless knight, the wise councillor, the valiant warrior, the hero of Crecy, of Winchelsea, of Poictiers, of Auray, and of as many other battles as there were years to his life?

"Ha, my little heart of gold!! he cried, darting forward suddenly and throwing his arms around Sir Nigel. "I heard that you were here and have been seeking you."

"My fair and dear lord," said the knight, returning the warrior's embrace, "I have indeed come back to you, for where else shall I go that I may learn to be a gentle and a hardy knight?"

"By my troth!" said Chandos with a smile, "it is very fitting that we should be companions, Nigel, for since you have tied up one of your eyes, and I have had the mischance to lose one of mine, we have but a pair between us. Ah, Sir Oliver! you were on the blind side of me and I saw you not. A wise woman hath made prophecy that this blind side will one day be the death of me. We shall go in to the prince anon; but in truth he hath much upon his hands, for what with Pedro, and the King of Majorca, and the King of Navarre, who is no two days of the same mind, and the Gascon barons who are all chaffering for terms like so many hucksters, he hath an uneasy part to play. But how left you the Lady Loring?"

"She was well, my fair lord, and sent her service and greetings to you."

"I am ever her knight and slave. And your journey, I trust that it was pleasant?"

"As heart could wish. We had sight of two rover galleys, and even came to have some slight bickering with them."

"Ever in luck's way, Nigel!" quoth Sir John. "We must hear the tale anon. But I deem it best that ye should leave your squires and come with me, for, howsoe'er pressed the prince may be, I am very sure that he would be loth to keep two old comrades-in-arms upon the further side of the door. Follow close behind me, and I will forestall old Sir William, though I can scarce promise to roll forth your style and rank as is his wont." So saying, he led the way to the inner chamber, the two companions treading close at his heels, and nodding to right and left as they caught sight of familiar faces among the crowd.

CHAPTER XIX.

How There Was Stir at the Abbey of St. Andrews.

The prince's reception room, although of no great size, was fitted up with all the state and luxury which the fame and power of its owner demanded. A high dais at the further end was roofed in by a broad canopy of scarlet velvet spangled with silver fleurs-de-lis, and supported at either corner by silver rods. This was approached by four steps carpeted with the same material, while all round were scattered rich cushions, oriental mats and costly rugs of fur. The choicest tapestries which the looms of Arras could furnish draped the walls, whereon the battles of Judas Maccabaeus were set forth, with the Jewish warriors in plate of proof, with crest and lance and banderole, as the native artists of the day were wont to depict them. A few rich settles and bancals, choicely carved and decorated with glazed leather hangings of the sort termed or bassane, completed the furniture of the apartment, save that at one side of the dais there stood a lofty perch, upon which a cast of three solemn Prussian gerfalcons sat, hooded and jesseled, as silent and motionless the royal fowler who stood beside them.

The many friends of Mrs. Patrick Burns will regret to learn that she is confined to her home seriously ill with pneumonia.

Has Made Assignment.

Fred C. LeBlanc, of Moncton, has made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors to Sheriff Newton Killam, of Dorchester.

Not Much Change in Condition.

There is not much change for the better today in the condition of Dr. B. H. Dougan, who is at Victoria Hospital, ill with typhoid fever.

Condition Not Improving.

The many friends of City Marshal James Roberts, who suffered a paralytic stroke some weeks ago, will regret to learn that his condition shows no improvement.

Applicants for Vendorship.

According to this week's Royal Gazette, Johnston & Johnston, of St. Stephen, have applied for a retail license and J. Harry Driscoll, of St. John, for a wholesale license, under the Intoxicating Liquor Act.

Recovering from Appendicitis.

Miss Freda Wright, Fredericton, who has been seriously ill at the Fisher Hospital, following an operation for appendicitis, is rapidly recovering, her sister, Mrs. Brewer, of Houlton, Me., is with her.—Woodstock Press.

Prohibition Case This Afternoon.

The man from New Maryland who was arrested on Monday evening charged with having a bottle of liquor in his possession appeared before Police Magistrate Limerick this morning and pleaded not guilty. His case was adjourned until this afternoon for a hearing.

To Teach in Alberta.

The Misses Irene and Evelyn Holland, daughters of Mrs. William Holland, of Acton, left this week for Alberta, where they will engage in teaching. The Misses Holland are nieces of Louis McGinn, of this city, and have many friends here who will follow their career in the west with interest.

Buried This Afternoon.

The funeral of Mrs. W. H. Maxwell took place this afternoon from her late home on Brunswick street and was attended by many friends of the family. The cortege proceeded to the Cathedral, where Very Rev. Dean Neales conducted the service, after which interment was made at Forest Hill cemetery.

Died at Hospital.

The death occurred at Victoria Hospital last night of Mrs. Annette Wright, wife of Woodford Wright, of Southampton, aged 53 years. Deceased underwent an operation sometime ago and her death followed. She is survived by six sons and three daughters. The remains will be taken to Southampton on the Valley train this afternoon and the funeral will take place tomorrow.

Former Frederictonian Dead.

Word has been received here of the death at Prince Rupert, B. C., on the 10th instant, of John G. Currie, son of the late George W. and Margaret Currie, of this city. He attended the Fredericton High School and the University of New Brunswick and went West about 24 years ago, when only 18 years of age. He is survived by one brother, Thomas H. Currie, M. A., of New York, and two sisters, Mrs. E. L. C. Sproule and Miss Katherine E. Currie, of Calgary. Many old friends of deceased and his family will learn with sincere regret of his death.

Moccasin Dance Was Success.

The moccasin dance at the Arctic Rink last night proved a good drawing card, as upwards of two hundred young people were on the ice and about the same number of interested spectators. Most of the young folks danced with moccasins on and the programme of fifteen dances was thoroughly enjoyed. The moonlight dance was a feature of the evening, when with just light enough to resemble a moonlight night, the dancers looked very pretty as they waltzed over the glare ice. The ladies' auxiliary of the G. W. V. A. sold hot coffee, cake and sandwiches during the evening and did a good evening's business.

83 NEW FLU CASES REPORTED TO HEALTH DEPARTMENT TODAY

Forty-One of the New Cases Are at Hatfield's Point and Others in Charlotte Co.

DEATH AT KESWICK IS SAID TO BE DUE TO 'FLU

York County Board of Health Cancel Public Funeral for James Harrigan.

Eighty-three new cases of influenza were reported overnight to the Public Health Department here from various parts of the province. The majority of the new cases are from Charlotte County, but a fresh outbreak of the disease has been reported in Kings County.

This morning Dr. J. F. McCauley, of the Charlotte County Board of Health, reported that twenty-three new cases of influenza at Grand Harbor, while fifteen additional cases have been reported from Grand Manan. Five additional cases were also reported from St. George.

Reports from Kings County state that an outbreak of 'flu has taken place at Hatfield's Point. In all forty cases of the disease were reported there.

Public Funeral Cancelled.

James Harrigan, a well known resident of Keswick Ridge, passed away on Monday night, aged 66 years. The funeral was announced by the undertaker today to take place tomorrow morning with mass at St. Dunstan's Church in this city, but since the announcement was made the York County Board of Health have given out that Mr. Harrigan died from influenza and not pneumonia, as given out, and that the funeral would have to be private. The deceased is survived by his widow, three sons, John and William of Keswick, and Arthur, of Humboldt, Sask., and one sister, Hannah, of Boston. The undertaker this morning said the cause of death was given to him as double-pneumonia.

41 Inches of Snow And Still Coming

Statistics of the Meteorological Bureau at the University of New Brunswick show that during the month 41 inches of snow have fallen up to today. This is one of the biggest snowfalls during one month for years, but indications are that the figures will mount still higher, as this afternoon the snow was falling more rapidly than ever before this winter.

GETTING READY FOR THE HOUSE OPENING

Provincial Government Meeting Here—Some Doubt About the Military Splash

The Provincial Government opened a meeting last evening here to prepare for the opening of the session of the Legislature here on Thursday, March 11th.

Premier Foster and all the members of the executive except Hon. Dr. Roberts, Minister of Health, who has been ill and was recently bereaved, arrived here last evening, but Hon. L. A. Dugal, member without portfolio, returned to Edmundston again this morning.

The Government were in session last night and again this morning, but at noon Premier Foster said the executive council had been engaged in considering matters connected with the coming session of the Legislature, which naturally were not of such a nature that no announcements could be made. There will likely be an intimation during the week as to the members who will move and second the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne when the Legislature opens.

There is some doubt as to whether the military formalities which usually mark the opening of the Legislature will take place this year. The militia here has not been reorganized and a guard of honor and firing party would have to be brought from St. John, it is said.

DEATH CAME SUDDENLY.

Mrs. Alex. Anderson Found Dead In Bed This Morning—Had Been In Failing Health for Some Time

Death came suddenly this morning to Mrs. Alexander Anderson at her home on King street, at the age of 58 years.

Mrs. Anderson had been in failing health for some time and for the past two weeks had been confined to her bed, but her condition was not considered serious. This morning, when her daughter, Mrs. Lingley, went to her room she was horrified to find that her mother had passed away.

Deceased had a large circle of friends who will regret to learn of her death. She is survived by one son, William, of Perth, Ont., and one daughter, Mrs. Frank H. Lingley, of this city.

The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

NEW BRUNSWICK TEACHERS UNION TO SEEK MORE PAY

Executive of the Teachers Association to Revise Pay Schedule.

WILL MEET HERE IN THE EASTER HOLIDAYS

A "Substantial Increase" for Fredericton Teachers to Be Asked Today.

A meeting of the executive of the New Brunswick Teachers' Association is to be held in Fredericton during the Easter holidays for the purpose of compiling a new scale of salaries which will take the place of that which is now in effect.

It is understood that, as a result of the continued increase in the cost of living, the teachers, through their organization, are preparing to make demands for further advances in their pay and that these demands will be reflected in the new schedule when it is drawn up.

Dr. B. C. Foster, principal of the High School, James A. Hughes, principal of the Regent street school, and Miss Betts, secretary of the Lady Teachers' Association of Fredericton, will compose the delegation from the teachers of the city schools to meet the Board of Trustees this afternoon to present their demand for a "substantial increase" in their salaries, as intimated in The Gleaner yesterday.

Statistics which they will present will show that in Moncton the lady teachers receive $1,000 per year, exclusive of the Government grant, which is $200 more than paid in Fredericton. The salary of the principal of the High School here is $2,250, while the amount he receives for acting as supervisor of the city schools is $200, while the principal of the Moncton High School is paid $3,000.

Relief Committee Met.

The Relief Committee of the Patriotic Fund met last evening at the office of the secretary and considered applications for post discharge relief and for the Federal Emergency Fund. Fifteen of the applications were accepted while four were turned down.

PLEAD GUILTY TO STEALING 39 CASES OF KENTUCKY RYE

Six Railwaymen Were Brought Here Last Night by C.N.R. Detectives.

TWENTY EMPLOYEES TO LOSE POSITIONS

Strange Brand of Whiskey and Talked for Itself, Says Chief Detective.

Charged with stealing thirty-nine cases of Kentucky whiskey from freight cars on the Canadian National Railways, six railwaymen pleaded guilty in the Police Court this morning and were remanded until Friday morning for sentence.

The six prisoners arrived here last night in charge of H. A. Page, of Ottawa, chief of the investigating department of the C. N. R., accompanied by Detectives O. B. Lawson and T. T. Trenholm and Police Officer Holland, of Sackville, N. B., and they are the first of a large number of railwaymen who are being rounded up as a result of the thefts of merchandise while in shipment via the National Transcontinental route.

Special Agent J. J. Dunphy, of the C. N. R., is expected to arrive here this evening with the first of the additional lot of prisoners, and it is said that information already secured by the detectives will make it necessary for a large number of employees of the railway to lose their jobs. The whiskey figuring in the case is believed to be some of the shipment made out of the United States by the distillers to beat the Prohibition law there, and is said to have been en route to Europe when stolen.

As a result of various complaints made by the C. N. R. officials as to

BRITAIN ADOPTS STATE INSURANCE

WILL OPPOSE ST. LAWRENCE SHIP CANAL

New York State Interests Fear That Commerce Will Be Diverted to Canadian Port.

WOULD PASS BUFFALO AND GO TO MONTREAL

New Yorkers Declare State Barge Canal Is Adequate for Needs of Commerce.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 26.—A warning against the St. Lawrence ship canal project, as aiding Canadian ports to the detriment of those in the State of New York, will be contained in the annual report to the Legislature of Edward S. Walsh, superintendent of public works, he announces.

The greatest danger in the St. Lawrence project, the report will say, lies in the possibility that large Lake vessels might ply to Montreal, passing Buffalo, and thus diverting the commerce of the Great Lakes to a Canadian port.

The report will declare that the State barge canal is adequate to the needs of the commerce of several coming generations. It will add:

"No benefits, however, may be derived from it so long as the public interest is diverted from it and public enthusiasm chilled by the injection of chimerical schemes designed wholly to discredit the system and to discourage its use, having their inception with interests who have every reason to fear the effects of its successful operation."

It will say further that the State of New York, in the protection of its waterway investment and of the commerce of the port of New York, must take vigorous action opposing any further movement in Congress that has for its purpose the appropriation of funds from the treasury of the United States for the development of an international waterway competitive with its canal system.

SCHOOL MISTRESS SHOT AND KILLED

Assailant Then Piled Excelsior in Room and Set Fire to the Building.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 26.—Miss Florence Housel, fifty, owner of the Huntingdon Hall School for Girls in South Pasadena, near here, was shot and killed in her room Tuesday night by an unknown assailant, who then piled excelsior in the kitchen and set fire to the building. The fire was discovered by her father, aged eighty, who extinguished the flames.

OPEN WAR PREDICTED IN NEW JERSEY OVER A CLASH ON BEER BILL

The Passage of 3.50 Per Cent. Beer Bill by Assembly Has Incensed Prohibitionists and Trouble Is In Sight.

SAY THAT BEER WILL BE PUBLICLY SOLD NEXT WEEK THROUGHOUT ENTIRE STATE

Disorders Similar to Those Which Broke Out in Michigan Are Looked For During the Next Few Days.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York, Feb. 26.—Open physical warfare between the "wet" and "dry" forces in New Jersey is predicted by leaders in the prohibition movement as a result of the passage of the 3.50 per cent. beer bill by the New Jersey assembly on Tuesday.

Beer will be sold in the state next week, these leaders asserted, and they added that there would begin disorder and a clash between federal and state authorities similar to the Iron River, Michigan, "rum revolution."

Officers of the anti-saloon leagues of New Jersey charged that Christian W. Fiegenspan, a brewer of Newark, had $1,750,000 worth of beer ready and that large quantities of this would probably be placed on sale in New Jersey as soon as the bill is signed by Governor Edwards. The Senate will vote on the measure on Monday and the bill may be ready for his signature by night.

CANADIAN PRESS ELECT PRESIDENT

E. Norman Smith, of Ottawa Journal, Chosen as Successor to Late E. F. Slack.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Montreal, Feb. 26.—At a fully attended meeting of the Board of Directors of the Canadian Press, Limited, held here yesterday, a resolution was passed deploring the loss to the association of its late President, E. F. Slack. John Scott, Managing Editor of the Montreal Gazette, and a Director of that company, was elected director to fill the vacancy. The first Vice President, E. H. Macklin, upon whom had devolved the duties of President, said he felt that it was in the interests of the association as a whole that that office should be filled by one of the Ontario or Quebec Directors, and accordingly E. Norman Smith, Vice President of the Ottawa Journal, was by unanimous vote elected President for the balance of the association's year.

The acting General Manager, J. F. B. Livesay, presented a report covering the re-organization of the news service of the association on which he had been engaged for the past few months, and a resolution was adopted approving what had been done and voting Mr. Livesay a cash bonus. He was continued in his present office until the next meeting of the board, and was specifically invested with all powers of the General Manager. Leave of absence to C. O. Knowles was continued another three months.

A select committee, consisting of the President and one member from each of the three territorial districts, namely, the Maritime, Ontario and Quebec, and the western division, was appointed to inquire into allocation of costs and other matters of interest to the membership at large, with instructions to present a report to the board at a meeting to be held prior to the annual or special board meeting of the members which is to be held within three months.

New York, Feb. 26.—A band of 634 Jews from Southern Russia, who pooled every cent of their life savings, to charter a steamer at Odessa, with the three million roubles they raised, have landed at Jaffa, in Palestine, according to a despatch made public here yesterday by the Zionist organization of America.

The entire Jewish community of Jaffa greeted this, the first large group of Jews reported to have reached Palestine, as the advance guard of a "world mass" migration of Jews to the Holy Land, it was stated.

ARGENTINA WILL ADVANCE TIME

To Adopt Meridian of Greenwich as Legal Time, Formerly Used Cordoba.

Buenos Aires, Feb. 26.—Argentina, by a decree of President Irigoyen, will adopt the meridian of Greenwich as the basis of a legal time, instead of that of the astronomical observatory of Cordoba, known as Cordoba time. There is a difference in these two times of 16 minutes and 48 seconds, Cordoba being behind.

The clocks at midnight April 30 will be advanced that difference, which will make Argentina's time exactly four hours behind that of London.

President Irigoyen has also decreed that the hours shall be designated from one to twenty-four instead of from one to twelve, twice around.

GENERAL WOOD A STRONG CANDIDATE

Will Carry Ohio's Forty-Eight Delegates for the Republican Nomination.

Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 26.—Major General Wood late yesterday formally entered Ohio to contest with United States Senator Warren G. Harding, not only the preferential choice as the Republican nominee for President, but also for Ohio's forty-eight delegates to the Chicago convention. His declaration of candidacy was filed with the Secretary of State by John P. Rice, his Ohio campaign manager.

At the same time James R. Garfield, of Cleveland, also filed his declaration as a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination. Mr. Garfield's candidacy is understood to be only for the purpose of giving Wood candidates [illegible] a chance to express their [illegible] as required by the Ohio law.

WILL INSURE EMPLOYEES OF GREAT BRITAIN

Bill in Commons to Extend Insurance to Practically All Workmen of Country.

THE SCHEME WORKED ON CONTRIBUTARY BASIS

The Annual Cost to the State Will Be Between Three and Four Million Pounds.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

London, Feb. 26.—In the House of Commons yesterday, the insurance bill was read a second time without division, although a good deal of opposition was shown by the Labor party.

The bill proposes to extend insurance on a contributary basis to substantially the whole of the employed population between 16 and 70. Industries may contract out by setting up special schemes, affording equal or greater benefits. The only important exceptions to its operation are agricultural workers and servants, and in Ireland the bill applies only to workmen in trades now insured under the existing acts.

The benefits will be fifteen shillings a week for men, twelve shillings a week for women, and employers and employees make similar contributions, in the case of men three pence and in the case of women two pence half penny, with the state supplying a third. It is estimated that nearly twelve million persons are affected and the annual cost to the state will be between three and four millions, against £1,250,000 now.

The Death Penalty for Leaders in Hun Riots

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

LONDON, Feb. 26.—For the purpose of safe-guarding order in the industrial regions of West Germany, President Ebert has issued a decree, according to a wireless message from Berlin, proclaiming sentence of death for arson, using explosives, of flooding and damaging property.

The death penalty is also to apply to ringleaders and persons offering resistance or guilty of violence in riots or tumultuous assemblies.

Strong Claim That Business Interests be Represented on Commerce Board in Future

While the Board Has Been Freely Criticized in the Past, the General Public Has Had Confidence in Good Intentions and Want It Continued.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, Feb. 26.—The resignation of Judge Robson from the Board of Commerce, which has been accepted by the Government, opens up the question of the future composition of that body, if it is to be continued, as it presumably will be.

One of the strongest criticisms made of the personnel of the Board has been that it did not contain a business man among its members, and as the problems with which the Board has been called upon to deal have been purely business problems, that criticism was doubtless justified. It may be noted that when W. F. O'Connor was offered the appointment as a member of the Board, he refused to accept it for several weeks, although urged to do so by many business men, and pointed out that the proposed personnel made no provision for a representative of the business interests, who were vitally interested. This is still understood to be his attitude, and the Board would certainly be better balanced and would be more calculated to enjoy the confidence of the business community if such an appointment were made.

There has been a suggestion that the Board might be abolished altogether, but that might be a dangerous move in the face of public sentiment. Although the Board has been freely criticized, and in some respects justifiably, the public has had considerable confidence in its intentions and the fact that a labor representative has been appointed has had its effect.

The Government is not likely to be in a hurry in filling the position and there may be some difficulty in securing a qualified business man to act, there would probably be no great grief manifested by the Government if the Board disappeared altogether, although it would hesitate to take any steps to hasten its end.

CAILLAUX PROCLAIMS INNOCENCE

Former French Premier Declares He Never Sought a Separate Peace.

HAD NO POLITICAL AIM THROUGHOUT WAR

Denies Approaching the Vatican With Request to Sound Peace Note to Germany.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, Feb. 26.—At his trial yesterday on a charge of having had treasonable dealings with the enemy, former Premier Caillaux forsook the defensive and assumed the offensive while explaining his activities in Italy.

Lengthily going over his economic policy, Caillaux said he prophesied the economic chaos which would obtain at the conclusion of the war and prescribed the remedies to be applied. He saw in 1916 what several of the peace delegates had failed to grasp in 1919, the witness declared.

"Never have I sought a separate peace or a peace of compromise," the former Premier said.

"I swear to the members of the high court," Caillaux continued, "that I had not the slightest political aim when I went to Italy. I never had a political aim throughout the war. But several times I had the belief that we must prepare for peace."

To the charge that he approached the Vatican with a request that the Central Empires be sounded as to peace, Caillaux replied:

"Never have I set foot inside the Vatican in my life."

"I was in favor of the great offensive in the spring of 1917," said Caillaux, "but I always held that it must be conducted with the utmost energy, or otherwise it would fail. I am still convinced that had the offensive been pushed with all possible means at our command we would have been successful and achieved a victorious peace."

CHINESE MINISTERS REFUSE TO SERVE

BORDEN WILL NOT LAND AT HALIFAX

Two Cabinet Ministers Will Meet Him at New York on Arrival There.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, Feb. 25.—There was a rumor here yesterday that Sir Robert Borden would land at Halifax, but it has been denied by members of Sir Robert's family, and it is now learned that Hon. James Calder leaves for New York tomorrow to meet the Premier. Hon. Dr. Reid will also be there, as well as Howard Kelly, of the Grand Trunk, when the latest developments in connection with that problem, as well as certain matters regarding the immediate policy of the road will be discussed. It seems certain that Mr. Kelly has been selected as chairman of the joint board of management, although it has not been officially announced.

If you are looking for a good man it's a pretty safe plan to pick out an ugly one.

SCIENCE AIDS THE WEARY TOILER

Prof. Hollis Hopes It May Make Jobs So Inviting as to Quell Unrest.

Boston, Feb. 25.—Prof. Ira N. Hollis, president of Worcester Polytechnic Institute, delivered an address on "The Influence of Science on the Satisfaction of Life" before the Unitarian Laymen's League, in Unity House last evening, it being "North Shore night" and the eighth in the series of fourteen consecutive Sunday evening meetings.

"Can science make idle hours more fruitful and more happy?" he asked. "If not, to lessen the hours of labor would be a mistake. The greatest satisfaction I have found has been in work done for somebody else, especially for boys, and much of the work I've done for myself I'm willing to forget.

Deplores Lavish Spending.

"Through the streets of Worcester I've seen 500 automobiles on a Sunday carrying people who had never been in one before, and who shouldn't have been in one, if it meant the expenditure of every cent of their savings. I never ride in one, except in those of my friends. I rode in one as one of the committee to find work for returning soldiers, sailors and war-workers, and Mrs. Hollis afterward inquired, 'Who was that pretty young woman you were driving around with?'

"That was a mistake to include 'war-workers.' They had left their jobs to work for the government at enormous wages. We lost our cook that way. One morning, after the war, there came before me as a member of that committee a young woman who said she wanted her old job back. She said she had been earning $35 a week in the American Steel & Wire Company. I asked if she had saved anything, and she answered, 'I gave my last dollar this morning to a fortune-teller.' I said: 'What is the job you want back?' and she replied, 'Why, Mr. Hollis, don't you know me? I used to be your cook.'

Not All Troubles from War.

"Well, we took her back. We had to. For a month she was about the most restless individual you could imagine, and then she left. Now she is earning $6.93 a week as assistant attendant in an insane asylum.

"No other country has ever been so restless as ours, and nowhere else are there men ready to give so little and take so much. Many believe all this restlessness and all our troubles are the result of the war, but I don't. Perhaps the war hastened it. When Watt designed the steam engine he realized that without a governor the engine might wreck itself. Has science developed its governor? Not if we can study the moral of this war. I sometimes think that in 2,000 years we have made no advance, ethically."

Prof. Hollis said he finds hope in the possibility that science may make jobs so interesting that labor problems will be settled, stressing the opportunities for making the places of work more attractive, the co-operation of medical men with engineers in wrestling with occupational diseases, and insuring safety and general welfare of the workmen, as well as reducing the human effort required.

"But after all," he continued, "genuine satisfaction in life is found in interesting work which never ceases, and in service to others.

Superman Is a Chimera.

"Germany believed she could develop the superman, yet in all that land there was not one martyr to science in the war, for all the scientists joined in degrading their highest achievements to the destruction of mankind. It is only through appeal to the higher life that we can find real lasting satisfaction. Perhaps science has been as much of an evil as good. No superman, no group of supermen, can be wise enough to direct the thoughts and affections of men.

"There was only one who ever lived who could do that, and He achieved it through humility. I have to confess that I have never been much of a church member, not feeling quite worthy to sit in the pews consecrated to the Almighty. Nevertheless, experience has taught me that the one perfect life is to be found in the precepts of Jesus Christ."

CANADA AS THE LINK THAT BINDS

Anglo-Saxon Unity an Accepted Fact, Says Rev. Charles W. Gordon.

New York, Feb. 25.—Speaking at the meeting of the League for Political Education in Carnegie Hall yesterday, Mayor Charles W. Gordon, chaplain in the war for the 43rd Battalion of Cameron Highlanders in the Canadian forces, told the members that he thought that Canada was the link that would bind America in sympathy to the British Empire, and that the greatest influence for good in the world would be a sympathetic union of all Anglo-Saxon or Anglo-Celtic racial strains.

"I am not pleading for an Anglo-Saxon or an Anglo-Celtic league of nations," he said, 'but in this racial strain there exists a mighty force for good. It is the most potential force in modern times, and it will shape the destinies of the world. Anglo-Saxon or Anglo-Celtic unity is a fact, and it must be accepted."

Major Gordon said he used the word Celtic because he thought the words Anglo and Saxon were synonyms and referred to the same racial strain.

"We will find that the enmies that are yours are ours as well," said the Canadian chaplain. "The day of national isolation is past. The United States has passed into a new world and got for itself a new heart."

When a person in the audience suggested that the Canadian chaplain repeat his speech to the United States Senate, he said:

"I would like to tell them a few things. We have no doubt, however, that as America was ready to join us during the war, she will not forsake us now."

It will pay you in cream saved from $3 to $5 a cow every year over an inferior or half-worn-out cream separator.

It will pay you in cream saved from $10 to $15 a cow every year over gravity skimming.

It will give you a heavier and better cream, the kind the creameryman wants, the kind that gives you more skim-milk for your stock.

It will last two to ten times as long as other cream separators. Figure it out for yourself and you will see why the De Laval is the most economical.

And added to it all is the immeasurable satisfaction of owning a machine that "works like a charm" 365 days in the year.

FRED MAGEE WILL MOVE THE ADDRESS

P. P. Melanson, M. L. A. for Kent, Named as Seconder for House Opening.

Fred Magee, chief Government whip and member for Westmorland, will probably move the address at the opening of the New Brunswick Legislature on Thursday, March 11th.

Premier Foster announced last evening that Mr. Magee had been asked to undertake the duty and it is expected that he will accept the honor. P. P. Melanson, M.L.A. for Kent, is to second the address, it being customary to have one of the Acadian members participate as either mover or seconder of the address in the opening ceremonies.

Preparations for the opening of the session are going along rapidly and something is likely to be definitely determined today as to the military display. There has been some doubt as to whether it will be carried out upon the usual lines or not. J. M. Keefe, the new clerk of the House, has arrived from Grand Falls, and taken up his duties and will be here most of the time until the session opens. Aside from the clerkships there will be but few changes in the staff of the House, although one or two of the pages are likely to "graduate" to be replaced by smaller boys.

FAMOUS RECTORS CLOSED.

New York, Feb. 25.—The Cafe de Paris, better known as Rectors, at Broadway and Forty-eighth street, closed its doors last night after a vain struggle to survive the dullness of prohibition

As a cabaret restaurant and palace of jazz music, frequented by ready and willing spenders, it was for a long time the centre of attraction along the Great White Way. The upper floor of the cabaret is being remodelled and will open in a few weeks as a public ballroom to be called the Palais de Danse.

Teachers Want Bigger Pensions

Delegation Appeared Before Provincial Government Yesterday---Want $200 For Minimum and $800 For Maximum --Scale Has Not Been Increased to Meet Changed Living Conditions.

The Provincial Government on Wednesday afternoon listened to a delegation composed of W. J. S. Myles, principal of the St. John High School, Dr. B. C. Foster, principal of the Fredericton High School, and A. S. McFarlane, of the Provincial Normal School staff, who took up the matter of teachers' pensions, suggesting that an increase be made in the amounts.

Teachers' pensions have been in effect in New Brunswick now for ten years and the schedule has been unchanged in that time, the maximum amount being $400, which it is now suggested should be advanced to $800. The amount paid out to the 37 teachers on the list of pensioners in this province last year was less than $10,000, whereas even at the costs in those days the Government, when the pension scheme was first adopted, figured that $12,000 of the revenue of those days should be appropriated to providing suitable reward for faithful services by the veteran teachers.

"We received a very sympathetic hearing," said Mr. Myles after leaving the Executive Council Chamber, "but, of course, we are told that the Government is confronted with all kinds of increasing demands upon the provincial treasury. However, the maximum number of teachers to be on the pension list has now been reached and we are hopeful that something will be done. It is a matter of fact that under the present scale some teachers are now receiving pensions as low as $125 per annum, which amount is insufficient, and we have asked the Government that the minimum be made $200 and the maximum amount that would be payable increased to $800 per year. If our requests are granted the amounts paid will then be considerably less than the pensions paid public servants otherwise engaged. When we presented our case to the Government before pensions for teachers were first introduced in this province we were careful to give accurate statistics, just as we were today; we told the Government twelve years ago that there would not be more than 38 pensioners on the list by 1919 whereas the actual number was 37. Less than 1 per cent. of those engaged in the teaching profession in this province remain in the work to qualify for pensions. The schedule originally granted met the conditions at that time, but since then the High Cost of Living has made it necessary for the scale to be increased to provide the same benefits to those receiving pensions."

Harry Allen Doing Some Of Best Missionary Work

W. Harry Allen, of Penniac, president of New Brunswick Guides' Association, is making his annual tour of American cities addressing large audiences and doing a great deal to boost New Brunswick as the leading big game hunting and fishing country in America. His trip in the Middle West is being made largely under the direction of Morris Ackerman, friend of New Brunswick and publisher of Acherman's Sportsmen's Guide at Cleveland, Ohio.

Harry Allen's visit to Cleveland is thus related by V. B. Gray, Rod and Gun Editor, in the Cleveland Plain Dealer:—

"Cleveland Friday night broke the world's attendance record for a gathering of the devotees of hunting and fishing when every available foot of standing and sitting space in the Grays Armory was filled by the over 3,000 men, women and children who came to hear Guide Harry Allen tell of his experiences in the wild country of New Brunswick and be thrilled by his moving pictures. The crowd even packed the entrances and scores were turned away because there was no room left.

"And none was disappointed. Guide Allen's running fire descriptions of the wild life scenes that flashed on the screen through six reels were so dramatic and the pictures were so vivid that there was a continual undercurrent of "ohs" and "ahs" to be heard throughout the hall.

"The audience was so enthusiastic in response to appeals for new members that it turned in a total of 529 filled-in application blanks for 1920 membership in the Northern Ohio Fish and Game Protective Association, under the auspices of which the rally was held. This total more than defrayed expenses of the meeting and left a tidy sum to be used in the furtherance of fish and game preservation and propagation in the northern Ohio district.

"Not all of Harry Allen's pictures were of the wild life of the northern woods and streams. He showed some excellent views of the way timber is floated down the swift streams of New Brunswick to the big paper mills, and these depicted the daring of the loggers and lumber jacks while they risked death in riding logs through tumbling rapids. The vast undeveloped water power on the St. John river and other streams brought clearly to all the commercial possibilities which in future years will be utilized.

"In opening his talk the big guide remarked that there are 20,000 square miles of forests and virgin country in New Brunswick which is roamed by moose, deer, bear and lesser wild animals, while the streams provide unparalleled angling for that great pair of game fishes, salmon and trout. He told of the New Brunswick Guides' Association and described the methods for organizing hunting parties to be taken to any part of this vast domain.

"Perhaps the picture which brought the most applause was the scenes of the roping of three bears which had been treed. While the crowd held its breath a man climbed the tree and, between vicious lunges of a bear, he succeeded in getting the loop of a rope around a hind leg. Then the bear was pulled to earth and while it rushed first at one of the four men and then another other loops were flung about its legs until it was tightly trussed and then tied to a pole. This process was repeated on the two remaining bears until all were rendered helpless. Then they were toted to a bear den.

"Not the least interesting were the films of salmon fishing on the St. John river. Scene after scene showed the anglers whipping the swift waters with the double hook flies until the strike came. Then the playing of the big fish was shown. His rushes and leaps into the air kept the blood racing in your veins until he was brought to gaff. The largest salmon landed was a fourteen-pounder, which Guide Allen captured.

"There were views of moose in Salmon Brook lake where the picture operator was brought within a few feet of more than one big animal as it was swimming to shore. In one scene Guide Allen roped a moose from his canoe and, with his companion, was jerked into the lake in consequence."

Well Received at Elyria.

The Elyria, Ohio, Telegram, has the following:

"An audience of seven hundred people filled Elks' Hall last evening and had a look at Harry Allen, premier Canadian guide and hunter, and he had a look at them.

"What they saw was a large, raw-boned, kindly faced man whose features bore the stamp of honesty, determination and self-confidence, and at the same time a certain modesty that accounts for the great praise and esteem that is given him by those best acquainted with him. What he saw was a typical Lorain county audience of ladies and gentlemen, for people were present from Lorain, Oberlin, Wellington, Amherst and LaGrange, on invitation of the Lorain County Fish & Game club, who had secured Mr. Allen for one of his talks to sportsmen.

"What he had to say was in no sense a lecture, but a plain talk by a plain man. Moving pictures were shown, some of them picturing Allen in action roping a bear and landing salmon and trout from Canadian streams, camp life, close up pictures of moose swimming in the waters of a lake, logging scenes, and various other phases of life in northern New Brunswick were shown and explained by Mr. Allen."

THE CAILLAUX TRIAL.

After a long series of delays, Joseph Caillaux, one-time Premier of France, has at last been put upon his trial for alleged treasonable dealings with the enemies of his country during the war. The lapse of time—four and five years—since the events which are the basis of the charge against him took place, and the fact that more than a year has passed since the war came to an end, may count in the accused man's favor. The danger has been passed, the war won, and public feeling may possibly have undergone a process of cooling. The law, however, remains as it was, and if Caillaux is found guilty of having plotted with agents of Germany, the law will require his punishment, points out an exchange. There was a period during the war when the morale of the French people was under an almost breaking strain. How near the country was to disaster at that time few people outside of France knew then and few realize now. Not only was the military outlook dark, while the man-power of the nation was being taxed almost to the point of exhaustion, but there existed behind the lines a "defeatist" movement which had become a dangerous menace. Associated with it were the names of men high in the public life of France and certain well known Parisian newspapers came to be regarded as instruments in the movement. Some of those who had to do with this conspiracy to break the resistance of France and end the war while the German star was still in the ascendant have paid for the part they played.

Joseph Caillaux had for years occupied an outstanding, if dubious, position in French politics. He combined a restless energy with an ability which, particularly in financial matters, was above the average. His financial ventures seem to have brought him into close association with Germans. For years prior to the war he was an object of suspicion and distrust. He was Premier of France at the time of the memorable Agadir incident when a strip of the French Congo was ceded to Germany in return for the cessation of German activities in Morocco. He conducted this affair by personal negotiations and was subsequently charged with the sacrifice of French interests. His conversations with the German Embassy, telegraphed to Berlin and intercepted by the French police, became the subject of the "green documents" which caused a furore in France. Caillaux became more unpopular as a result of his relations with Germany and he had become a political storm-centre shortly before the war. He had aroused the dangerous enmity of Gaston Calmette, editor of the Figaro. Madame Caillaux went to Calmette's office and killed him.

For a short time, during the early days of the war, Caillaux held the office of paymaster of the French army. He left that position, or was removed from it, and it is with his subsequent movements that the Senate is now dealing. He made two journeys, one to South America and one to Italy, both of which have been the subjects of investigation. Both, it is alleged, had for their purpose the promotion of the defeatist movement in France. The operations of Caillaux in Italy, which led to his arrest, were so well known at the time of his visit, in 1916, that warnings were issued by representatives of the Entente powers. The trail led to Rome and to Florence, there being uncovered in the latter city a safe or strong-box, rented by Madame Caillaux, and said to contain documents in Caillaux's own hand dealing with a prospective ministerial change and an early peace.

In South America, Caillaux was reported to have negotiated with the notorious Count von Luxburg, the German Minister to Argentina. A deposition made to State Attorney-General Becker in New York by Count James Minotto, an interned alien, purported to reveal the whole story of the Caillaux-Luxburg negotiations, making mention also of Bolo Pasha and of Louis Malvy, former Minister of the Interior in the French Government. Bolo had already been convicted and executed at that time and Malvy had gone to Spain. Count von Bernstorff, it will be remembered, while acting as German Ambassador and chief of the German spy service in the United States, warned his government against appearing too friendly with Joseph Caillaux.

Caillaux is meeting his accusers with a skilful defence which is likely to lose nothing from the manner of its presentation. He claims to have acted sincerely in what he believed to be the true interests of France. That he may have been impulsive and may have been led to make mistakes, he is ready to admit, but he maintains that his purpose was clean, and that he was the victim of spies. The nature of the defence implies an admission of the strength of the case against him, but it is [illegible] the best defence that could be put forward. There is the possibility that Caillaux is telling the truth, but the task before him is a formidable one.

FUTURE OF BELGIUM.

Belgium, which was the first of the continental countries to suffer from the war, appears to be leading in the process of recovery. A recent report by Mr. C. E. Herring, United States trade commissioner at Brussels, states that Belgian exports of ordinary window glass in November, 1919, were 13,700 metric tons, which is fairly up to the monthly average in 1913 (before the war), of 17,130 tons. The process of recovery is also noted in the case of polished plate glass. In regard to value the figures of the past year far surpass those of the pre-war period, remarks the Montreal Gazette. In 1913 ordinary window glass exported averaged 228 francs a metric ton; last November the average was 1,467 francs a ton. Even after allowing for the discount (compared with gold) of the paper franc now current, the increase in dollars shown is from $44 to $163 a ton. Glass company stocks sell at from four to twelve times their face value, and are evidently leading a boom. The increases in the volume of production, compared with the war period, mean increases in coal production and other industries. A recent trade pamphlet issued by the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, dealing with the solvency of the lately Allied countries in Europe, indicated the likelihood of a rapid restoration of Belgium's industrial activity. The country is favored with extensive coal and iron deposits, and its steel products had a high reputation. Its transportation system was highly developed. Its people had investments in industrial and transportation enterprises in many parts of the world, which retained much or all of the earning capacity during the war. Then, though Belgium suffered much under the enemy invasion, the permanent loss of man-power was relatively slight. The sudden rush of invasion in 1914 freed a large proportion of those liable for military service from mobilization, and though they were compelled to toil for the Germans without profit, there was some return after the armistice when German prisoners of war were compelled to do the rough work of reconstuction for no return at all. Belgian workmen are skilful and intelligent and they appear to have given a minimum amount of trouble in the way of strikes during the past year. They have played a good part in the restoration of their country's industrial activity, to which the above figures bear testimony; and they will profit therefrom. The suggestion is that what is happening in one country, repeated in the others which suffered from the war, will in fair time bring about the restoration of pre-war volume of production and correct most of the things that writers and talkers worry about, by the sure but slow process of making what the world wants.

ST. JOHN EXPRESS JAMMED AT BRIDGE

Car Jumped the Rails Just as It Was About to Enter Bridge at Reversing Falls.

St. John, Feb. 26.—A snowstorm and accident combined in tieing up railway traffic in and about St. John last night. As the Boston express, five hours late, after leaving Fairville last evening to enter the city, was just about to enter on the bridge over the Reserving Falls, the express car jumped the rails and jammed itself across the entrance to the bridge. As the train was proceeding slowly, it was stopped before further damage was done and the train backed to Fairville, where the passengers took street cars for the city.

Permanent Home to Be Secured for the Veterans at a Cost of [illegible]

[illegible]ton, Feb. 26.—It is understood [illegible] the local G. W. V. A. has secured an option on the fine property owned by A. E. Peters, Highfield street, for use as a clubhouse.

At a session of the City Council on Tuesday evening, $12,500 was granted towards the purchase of a permanent home for the Veterans, which is expected to cost $25,000.

PUT EMBARGO ON BUYING U. S. STOCKS

Outright Buying on N. Y. Market Stopped but Margins May Be Traded In.

Toronto, Feb. 26.—An embargo on trading in stocks, bonds or other securities from countries outside of Canada will go into effect today.

This drastic action has been taken by the financial interests of the Dominion at the request of Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance, in order to protect the home securities market.

Trading with American exchanges for cash will thus come to an end for the time being, though there is no restriction against buying on margins except that imposed by adverse exchange. Action was forced by the flooding of the Canadian security market with bonds and stocks from Britain, under which the sellers reaped a handsome profit, owing to the premium on the Canadian dollar.

Local brokerage houses had no more word of the action referred to this morning than the announcement contained in this despatch. It means that "outright" buying on New York market ends, but it is said that "margin" buying will not be interrupted. It also puts an end to the recalling of bonds and other securities from London and is really to protect the Victory bonds and other Canadian securities.

JAMAICA WANTS VISIT FROM PRINCE

Kingston, Ja., Feb. 26.—An effort is being made to have the Prince of Wales visit Jamaica before going to Australia. The Prince on his Australian voyage will proceed by way of the Panama Canal early in March.

ST. JOHN TRAINS ALL DISORGANIZED

St. John, Feb. 26.—Workmen were engaged nearly all night in a blinding storm in the work of clearing the tracks. The second evening express for Montreal and the Boston train was held in St. John until this morning and the night express from McAdam was cancelled. On the C. N. R. suburban trains were completely disorganized by the storm and express trains arrived in the city six hours late.

$100 FINE FOR OPERATING STILL

St. John, Feb. 26.—For operating a home made liquor still in his barn in the North End Thomas Mallory was fined $100 in the police court yesterday afternoon. The magistrate announced that the next person brought before him on this charge would receive the full penalty of $500.

THE UNDERWOOD RESOLUTION PASSED

Washington, Feb. 26.—Senator Underwood's joint resolution proposing a commission to confer with the Canadian Government in an effort to remove the embargo on wood pulp, etc., favorably reported on yesterday by the rules committee.

There is some improvement today in the condition of Mrs. Patrick Burns, who is ill with pneumonia.

The Stock Market

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York (Wall Street), Feb. 26.—Further heaviness was shown by stocks at the opening of today's session, coppers reacting as a result of yesterday's cut in the dividends of the Chino Nevada Consolidated and Ray Companies. Rails and equipments also reacted, but several of the ' els, motor, oils and shipping issues made gains of one to three points. In the last half hour most losses were recovered, steels and motors displaying especial strength and activity. Preliminary foreign exchange rates were under yesterday's final quotations.

FROM THE PEOPLE

WHY THE DIFFERENCE? WEDDINGS.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Will you permit me space in your valuable paper to say a few words in reply to the letter in your issue of February 23rd, signed Saving One.

I know of a certain returned soldier in this city who has money coming to him from the Government and who doesn't know where it is coming from or why he receives it. I know another man who went overseas and came back badly gassed and lame, in fact so badly gassed that at times he is out of his mind, yet the Government offers him the sum of $10 per month on which to keep a family of five. Now I would like to know if the first mentioned fellow is not defrauding the Government, and I hope the people of Fredericton will agree with me, and is not the man who went overseas and got badly wounded entitled to more money than he is? Hoping some one will agree with me and answer through the People's Column.

I am,
A TRUE CITIZEN.

Fredericton, Feb. 25, 1920.

THE SOLDIERS MEMORIAL.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I would like to state my opinions through the columns of your paper with reference to the Memorial to those who gave their lives for their country in the recent war.

At the public meeting called for last evening to discuss this matter, where were many of the prominent business men of this city, whom one would expect to take an interest in such an object. Surely this Memorial is a matter which calls for the consideration of every Canadian because many lost relatives and probably every person lost friends.

There seems to be a difference of opinion as to what form the Memorial should take—some people would like it to be a building, others wish it to be a monument.

Personally I greatly prefer the latter idea because the money is to be used for a Memorial to the Dead—not a Memorial to the Living.

The Great War Veterans' Association have stated that they want a building to be used as a club room, meeting room or recreation room for themselves. Now, I ask what could such a meeting place mean to the relatives of the dead, and would it not be of interest only to a comparatively small proportion of the citizens of this city. Whether the G.W.V.A. called a meeting to discuss this matter or whether a mere handful got together and decided that they would take this view, I do not know, but I do know that a great many returned men are not in favor of such a Memorial but prefer a monument.

I do not deny that buildings have been erected in some of the larger cities as a Memorial to be used as a home for returned and disabled men, but how many men do the readers of your paper know in Fredericton who would live in Old Government House if it was bought and converted into such a home as was suggested at last evening's meeting. If the returned men require such a place and it would be nice to have it, let them raise a separate fund for the purpose, but do not call it a Memorial to the Dead.

As an argument in favor of a monument I would like to tell some people and to remind others of the fact that at Thelus Corner, on the summit of Vimy Ridge, there is a monument (and a very nice one) to the memory of the Canadian artillerymen who lost their lives in the taking of that ridge. That monument was built by Canadians under shell-fire and stands, I believe, over ten or twelve feet high, on the top of which stands a huge cross. On the face of the monument is a bronze tablet. This monument was not destroyed during the remainder of the war and will stand for many years, and all who see it will recall the part played by Canada and the great sacrifice which some made to drive the Germans from that place. The monument can be plainly seen from Arras, a distance of five miles and from Mt. St. Eloi, a distance of over three miles. Every Canadian who was in France after the Battle of Vimy Ridge has seen that monument and I think that every one of us thought of what it meant and took a pride in it every time we did see it.

There is another monument about a mile and a half ahead of this one to the memory of all Canadians who lost their lives on the ridge. There were Fredericton boys who helped to build both of these monuments.

While these were being built I did not hear anybody saying that something useful should have been built. Why did not we all say, "Don't build a monument. Build a recreation hut or canteen like the Y.M.C.A."

The reason is this: That a Memorial to the Dead should be sacred and should stand for people of later generations to take a pride in and I cannot see why a different view of the matter should be taken here than that view taken by the same people on practically the spot where some Canadians fell.

I suppose that everyone has heard of the monument in the centre of Parliament street in London to The Glorious Dead.

Daily people go to that monument and place flowers on it the same as they would on the actual graves. Many men lift their hats as they pass it and all who see it think of the men and honor those who made the sacrifice and did not return.

I cannot see why the Memorial should not be a monument nor why it should be something useful which might be destroyed by fire at any time as might happen to a building.

If a Memorial should be something useful, why do people erect tombstones over the graves in cemeteries in Fredericton? Why not buy something useful in memory of people who are buried here? The only reason is this: That a monument is more sacred and causes people to think more of those who are gone than when they see something which is used in everyday life.

Yours,
RETURNED SOLDIER.

Fredericton, N. B., Feb. 21, 1920.

OUIJA BOARDS, ENDLESS CHAINS, ETC.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—We have read of the Ouija board, etc., etc., and oh! what a satisfaction it must be financially to the manufacturers. But here is "something worse and more of it." My wife is in receipt of two letters (one in the morning's mail and one in the evening) containing the following words:

"The endless chain of prayer. Lord bless our sailors and soldiers and keep them in the hollow of thy hand. This was received by me and it is said to have been all over the world. Copy it and see what happens. It is said all who pass this by will meet with a misfortune. Send it to seven different named people and on the seventh day you will meet with a great joy. Start on the day you receive and on each day for seven days. Please do not break the chain."

Now anyone who reads these letters can see at once that they have originated by those who have too many idle moments on their hands. The world is made up of two classes of people, those who have many hours of work and those who have considerable time. Imagine these letters being sent to an overworked mother who may think she is under obligation to write these seven letters. (In this case it would be fourteen letters). Yea Gods! Needless to say, the letters were destroyed before Mrs. —— did any unnecessary worrying about them.

Prayers are well and good, but writing letters such as these do not have a tendency to assist the boys very much. The world has been praying for years (and well they should) for our noble soldiers and sailors who have fought triumphantly and gloriously for victory, liberty and freedom.

Now, in conclusion, I might say that if the writers of these nonsensical letters really want to start something worth while and beneficial to our brave lads, get busy and send the G. W. V. A. and the Navy League a dollar occasionally. I think it would help the boys much more than threatening people with a dire disaster should they not prove faithful to the copying of these "endless chains."

Yours,
A READER OF THE GOOD OLD GLEANER.

WEDDINGS.

Watts-Davenport.

A wedding of interest took place on Monday afternoon at the Brunswick Street Baptist parsonage when Miss Bessie Beatrice Davenport, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Davenport, of Devon, became the bride of Walter Hubert Watts, of Fredericton. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. C. Warren. The groom is taking a course with the D.S.C.R. in Fredericton. He enlisted when seventeen years of age with the first draft from the 71st York Regiment which went from Fredericton to Valcartier in August, 1914. On account of his youth he was sent to Halifax and later went overseas with a draft from that city. He served three years and a half with the 2nd Pioneers on construction work in France.

OBITUARY.

Elijah C. Olts.

[Woodstock Press.]

The death occurred on Sunday Feb. 8, at the Fisher Memorial Hospital, of Elijah C. Olts, of Benton. The deceased for a few years only was a resident of Lower Woodstock; during the other years he made his home in Akin, Minnesota, also at Benton, where he last resided. Mr. Olts was in his 59th year, and was favorably known in the parish of Woodstock. He was a successful farmer and had a host of friends everywhere who will regret to hear of his death. For a number of years he was clerk of the U. B. church here. He bore up bravely against his long illness and died fully trusting in his Divine Master. Deceased leaves to mourn, wife and mother at Benton, Geo. P. Olts, general merchant at Meductic, David, real estate dealer, Fredericton, Howard, in Akin, Minnesota. Funeral services were held at the residence of Geo. Olts, Meductic, Feb. 9th, conducted by Rev. Mr. Worden, U. B. C., director H. B. Scott, burial at U. B. cemetery.

FOR THE MEN

The Biggest Advance in Shirt Convenience Since the Coat-Shirt.

W. G. & R. were the first people to introduce the Coat Shirt to the men of Canada.

Here is an improvement equally as good and one that all men will appreciate. When the Double-Wear Cuffs are soiled, turn them and get extra wear before sending to the laundry.

You will find these cuffs just as neat either side, and the cuff turns without a wrinkle or bulge—that's the convenience and the difference.

ROBBERS SHUN MILLIONS IN GOLD

Wealth in Sub-Treasury Seen Freely but Is Never Stolen.

New York, Feb. 25.—Possibly the statue of the One American who never told a lie, and possibly a scientific and careful system of safeguards is chiefly responsible for the absence of robbers and the presence of over one billion dollars in the United States Sub-treasury, in spite of the fact that a man with a wooden leg is said to have recently succeeded in robbing the Denver mint.

Officers of the Treasury are perfectly willing to show a doubting but honest citizen through the vaults; to thrill him with the superabundance of gold, silver and greenbacks; and to prove to him why the amount is still there in "dem'd total."

The honest citizen is allowed to hold power in the form of four million dollars in the hollow of his hand, while all manner of curious bands and seals remind him that the big fortune in the little package is secure from an acquisitive world; as he lifts bag after bag of coins, a strain on both the flesh and the spirit, he cannot fail to notice that the seal of each bag is driven in by a pin, which combination, his escorts assure him, has thus far in the history of grand larceny been too much for human ingenuity.

Finally the citizen may contemplate with futile wistfulness a stack of bags containing $750,000,000 in gold, the largest amount of money ever accumulated in one spot in the world.

As a general rule a real success is a man who is trying to be more of a success.

Twice Born Men.

ONCE he was a professional man. Drink, induced by trouble, paralyzed him. He dropped to clerk—warhouseman — race track tout—thief—vagrant. His wife and children were forced to leave him.

AND then——

ONE night at an open-air meeting God got hold of him.

HE came to the Hall after the meeting — penitent, confessing. Next day he started paper sorting—worked conscientiously, and began to regain his self-respect. Very soon a good position was found for him.

TODAY he and his family are happily reunited, and he is office manager of a large firm.

HIS testimony is—"God got hold of me and with the help of the Salvation Army He has kept hold of me."

Says Canadian Hero Poet Writes Verse in Spirit World

Mrs. Ward Watson, of Roland, Man., Makes Public a Poem She Declares Late Colonel McCrae Has Transmitted to World Through Her.

Winnipeg, Feb. 25. — Lt.-Col. John McCrae, Canadian hero-poet who was killed in France soon after he wrote the immortal "In Flanders Field" lives on in the spirit world and continues to write verses as beautiful as any he indited while on earth, according to Mrs. Ward Watson, of Roland, Manitoba.

Mrs. Watson is showing, among her friends, a sequel to "In Flanders Fields" which she asserts was transmitted to her from the spirit world of Col. McCrae. She says she does not know how the poem was communicated, whether a spirit hand guided her pen as she wrote or whether some other unknown psychic force was responsible. But she is positive the words are those of the warrior-poet, written after his tragic death.

Following is the poem, which she accredits to the spirit of Col. McCrae:

In Flanders Fields our bodies lie;
Our souls are God's, they never die;
But on and through needless years
We live to help dry others' tears.

In human hearts God's love will grow
Till all who love the Master know
That He is love, and love alone,
That only love has sin outgrown.

We died because we loved you well,
Because we feared not War nor Hell;
To win you glad and lasting peace,
Our aims were true. God give you grace
To keep the faith for which we died.

Oh, bear it on our banner bold—
We held it high, 'tis yours to hold,
Throughout the peace we won for you.
Guard well your hearts and keep them true,
That we may sleep in Flanders Fields.

Stand guard o'er those we left behind;
We know and watch you and we find
Often in bodies rough and rude,
The heart that wins its way to God,
Who is our all.

Mrs. Watson, who declares she is not a spiritualist, claims—and her claim is supported by a number of friends in Roland—to have been the medium through which many other departed notables have communicated with the living. The list includes Theodore Roosevelt, George Eliot, John Greenleaf Whittier and James Russell Lowell.

(If Mrs. Watson has traced the source of her inspiration correctly, Col. McCrae's admirers will note with dismay the shocking deterioration in his style in the world of spirits.—Ed.)

PARROT LONGEVITY PROVES A FICTION

Officials Find Bird Lives About as Long as Average Man.

New York, Feb. 25.—Capt. Kidd's parrot and other historic birds supposed to be still at large upon this sphere must long since have winged their way to the spirit world, according to the agents of the Federal Inheritance Tax Bureau of New Jersey.

The conclusion reached by the specialist attached to the bureau that the great age of parrots is entirely mythical is based on researches recently made in the case of a New Jersey parrot which received from its late owner a trust estate valued at $1,500. The parrot was to receive the income for life, amounting to from $1.50 to $2 a week, a sum sufficient to provide even a greedy bird with banquets of seeds and cuttlefish.

The question of the inheritance tax then came up and as Polly's income was a lien on the estate it was necessary to ascertain the average life of a parrot so that just allowance might be made for this lien when the tax was levied.

The tax bureau agents, like everyone else, were of the opinion that parrots endure for centuries and supposed that the income would have to be paid up to the second and third generation.

But research developed the fact that great age of parrots is unsound tradition. Few parrots live beyond the age of a hundred and their average age is little beyond the three score and ten allotment of man, according to the computation of the Government investigators.

BOOZE SEIZED IN LIFE PRESERVERS

New York, Feb. 25.—A life preserver of cork, made with the purpose of lessening the hazards of the sea, and a life preserver of tin, with compartments which will contain more than one gallon and a half of the best Bourbon for shore sailors, are two different and distinct things, according to Customs Inspector A. E. Burton.

Mr. Burton was stationed at the entrance to Pier 3, Jersey City, at which for several days the Portuguese freighter Monungao has been tied up.

Sounds of merriment could be heard from the freighter at the pier, for on vessels of foreign registry the precious liquids which engender joy and optimism may still be found by those whose friends are generous. As he stood there in the cold of the night the passersby might have noticed that with each note of gladness from the pier Mr. Burton licked his lips and sank deeper in his overcoat.

The hands of the clock in a church two blocks away pointed at 25 minutes after 10, when the gate swung open and two men came out, muffled to their ears with their coats, for the wind was cold.

They started to brush past the bored Mr. Burton, but the latter with a return to his official dignity stopped them and explained that, unfortunate as it might be, he must search them.

Neither demurred and Mr. Burton's trained hands swept swiftly through their hip pockets and other places where the dreaded booze might be hidden.

It was at the moment when Mr. Burton was turning away satisfied that these two at least were honest persons, that Mr. Burton's wandering hands struck something hard, while his eyes showed him that these persons were either wrestlers or gymnasts because of the depth of their chests. Mr. Burton's inquisitve nature was aroused. Investigating further, he revealed tin containers, skilfully made to hang about the body from straps over the shoulders.

Confiscation of three gallons of liquor was made by the inspector, who then hastened to New York and the Customs House to deliver his prize. He waited long enough, however, to take the names of the two men, which they gave as Manuel J. Varzio and Anthony Cathrino. Arresting them was outside his power. That remained to be done by revenue officials.

FIRST WIFE SUES NO. 2 FOR WEALTH

Mrs. Cowan Seeks to Get $20,000,000 Left by Standard Oil Man's Son.

New York, Feb. 25.—Mrs. Marie Moss Marbeck Harkness-Cowan, first wife of the late Harry S. Harkness, brought suit today in the Supreme Court against Florence S. Harkness, the widow, for the $20,000,000 estate left by the son and heir of the late L. V. Harkness, the Standard Oil man.

John W. McMiller is named by Mrs. Cowan as co-respondent2 with Mrs Harkness. Both are sued as executors of the estate of Harry S. Harkness, who died of influenza on Jan. 23, 1919, in his apartments at 270 Park avenue. He died six hours after he executed a will leaving all of his property to his widow, the second wife.

Mrs. Cowan is now the wife of Kenneth Cowan, a broker of 25 Broad street. She sues the widow on the ground that the document alleged to be the will of Mr. Harkness, which was probated in the Surrogate's Court on March 27, 1919, was never properly executed and hence must be superseded by what the plaintiff alleges is the real last will.

Mrs. Cowan's complaint sets forth that she and Mr. Harkness were married on Nov. 3, 1906, and that they lived together until Feb. 15, 1915. She says that on Nov. 5, 1909, about three years after they were married and six years before they separated, they made reciprocal wills in which each left to the other all of the testator's property, both real and personal.

Copies of these two so-called reciprocal wills or contracts are attached to the complaint. A copy of the document probated as a will also accompanies the complaint.

Harry S. Harkness was a noted amateur aviator, yachtsman and promoter of automobile races. He conducted the speedway at Brighton Beach.

Mrs. Marie Harkness obtained a divorce from him in 1916 and was allowed $33,000 a year alimony. Later she married Mr. Cowan.

HIS FEET SHIFT TYPEWRITER KEYS

Ingenious Two Finger Typist Has Pedals to Avoid Finger Tangles.

Shifting keys on the typewriter is not usually an arduous task even if one is a devotee of the two finger hit or miss method of many amateur typists. But the stunt assumes rather bothersome proportions when one of the trick machines with two sets of shift keys is employed.

One man who possessed such a machine and was not at all adept in keeping his fingers untangled when he had to shift numbers, then capitals, and back again to lower case, set his brains to solving the problem his hands couldn't. With the aid of his feet he succeeded. He rigged a piece of stout twine from the capital shift key to a slip noose that fitted over his left foot. Then he did the same thing for the figure shift key, except that the string fitted over the right foot. Now a simple pressure of either foot shifts cases with ease and speed.

THE PROVINCE PARALYZED BY STORM

Parliament Opened With Ceremony This Afternoon

Opening in New Buildings on Parliament Hill Attended by More Pomp Than for Some Years Previous---Speech From Throne Devotes Considerable Space to Settlements of Peace and Welfare of Canadian Soldiers.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Ottawa, Jan. 26.—Parliament opened this afternoon in the new buildings, worthy as the Governor General expressed it in the Speech from the Throne, "worthy of the people whose national life it will henceforth serve."

The Government's legislative programme outlined in the Speech from the Throne comprises:

A bill to provide for a Dominion franchise; a bill respecting copyrights; bills providing for the amendment of the patent act, of the loan and trust companies act, the Indian act, and the exchequer court act, and a bill to ratify the international opium convention.

The Speech from the Throne referred to ratification of the peace treaty between the Allied powers and Germany and the formal constitution of the League of Nations.

"It is satisfactory to note," the speech significantly remarked, 'that the status of Canada as a member of the League has thus been definitely fixed."

Treaty to Come Before Parliament.

The treaty of peace with Bulgaria had been completed and would be submitted for approval. Negotiations were well advanced for conclusion of peace with Hungary and Turkey. If concluded in time, the treaties would be laid before parliament.

In the European economic field, the Governor General continued, clear vision was still impossible. The unsettled state of exchange, the lack of international credits and inflation of paper currency, combined with the scarcity of raw materials and the demoralization of labor and transport, united to retard production and restrict the rebuilding of waste caused by the war. But, the Governor General proceeded, it is cause for thankfulness that of all countries affected by the war, Canada has maintained a record of social order and industrial and commercial prosperity second to none.

The address in reply to the Speech from the Throne will be moved in the Senate by Senator Proudfoot and seconded by Senator Chapais. In the House it will be moved by Hume Cronyn, of London, and seconded Alexander McGregor, of Pictou.

SPEECH FROM THRONE.

Honorable Gentlemen of the Senate:
Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

I congratulate you that after an enforced absence of four years, it is possible for you to assemble in your new legislative home, resting in trustful security upon the old foundations and surrounded by the picturesque and historic setting of Parliament Hill. Though not entirely completed, its noble proportions, its wide and convenient spaces, its beauty of design and chasteness of finish, and its unique local situation, mark it as a most striking and dignified structure, worthy of the people whose national life it will henceforth serve.

Settlements of Peace.

Since the last session of Parliament events of importance have taken place which have brought appreciably nearer the much-desired settlements of peace. Following the exchange of the final ratifications, the treaty of peace between the Allied powers and Germany has been brought into full force and effect and has rendered possible the constitution of the League of Nations and the establishment by it of the various commissions and mandatories authorized by the treaty to carried out under its direction. It is satisfactory to note that the status of Canada as a member of the League has thus been definitely fixed.

The treaty of peace with Bulgaria has been concluded and will be submitted for your approval. Negotiations for the conclusion of treaties of peace with Hungary and Turkey are now well advanced and, if concluded in time, will be laid before you during the present session of Parliament.

International Labor Conference.

The first meeting of the international labor conference, in accordance with the provisions of the treaty of peace, was held in Washington in October and November of last year and was attended by representatives of my Government and of the Canadian empyoyers and employees' organizations. It will be gratifying to learn that Canada was selected as one of the twelve governments whose countries are entitled to representation on the governing body of the International Labor office.

When the remaining treaties shall have been concluded and the functions of the League of Nations and the various tribunals authorized thereby before fully operative, it is confidently hoped that the end will have been reached of the confusion and uncertainty consequent upon the long and regrettable delay in bringing into operation the provisions of the treaty and an effective beginning made in the improvement of national conditions and the adjustment of international relations which will ensure the continued blessings of peace.

Canada's Soldiery.

The forces which Canada contributed to the war have now nearly all been returned and mostly demobilized and the great majority have resumed the avocations and again become active and important factors in civil life.

The department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment and the Soldiers' Land Settlement Board continue to provide vocational training and opportunities for permanent occupation which greatly aid in the solution of the problem of re-adjustment, whilst the work of the Labor Employment Bureaus and the helpful service of the Canadian Patriotic Associatin in administering the emergency fund provided by Parliament, have materially assisted in solving the problem of temporary non -employment.

Unsettled State of Exchange.

In the European economic field clear vision is still impossible and the unsettled state of exchange, the lack of international credits and the inflation of paper currency, combined with the scarcity of raw materials and the demoralization of labor and transport conditions, combine to retard production and to restrain the exchange of products necessary for the proper sustenance of life and the rebuilding of the waste and destruction caused by the great war.

From every quarter of the world is being impressed, often by severe privation and suffering, the one great lesson that increased production through increased work, combined with thrift and economy in individual and state, is the only sure hope of business improvement and future prosperity.

Conditions in Canada.

After four years of war and a year and three months of confusion and dislocation which has succeeded thereto, it is satisfactory to know that business in Canada has been well maintained, that production has been large and that general conditions are on the whole satisfactory. It is cause for thankfulness that of all countries affected by the war, Canada has maintained a record of social order and industrial and commercial prosperity second to none.

The ratification of the international opium convention renders it necessary to obtain legislation to carry into effect its provisions relating to the sale of opium, cocaine and other deleterious drugs. A bill will be laid before you for that purpose.

Dominion Franchise Act.

A bill to provide for a Dominion franchise will be introduced, dealing with the qualifications of voters and the procedure necessary to enable all persons legally qualified to register their votes.

Other bills will be presented for your consideration, including a bill respecting copyrights and bills providing for the amendment of the patent act, of the loan and trust companies acts, the Indian act and the exchequer courts act.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

The accounts for the last fiscal year will be laid before you. Estimates for the next fiscal year will be submitted at an early date, making provisions for the various services of the Government of Canada. These have been formed with a view to strict economy, having due regard to the requirements of the public service and the obligations of the country.

Honorable Gentlemen of the Senate:
Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

In inviting your careful attention to the important subjects which will engage your attention, I pray that the blessings of divine providence may attend your deliberations.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

TELLS SAFE, SIMPLE WAY TO TREAT AND RELIEVE AT HOME

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises caused by catarrh, or if phlegm drops in your throat and has caused catarrh of the stomach or bowels you will be glad to know that these distressing symptoms may be entirely overcome in many instances by the following treatment which you can easily prepare in your own home at little cost. Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Parmint (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. An improvement is sometimes noted after the first day's treatment. Breathing should become easy, while the distressing head noises, headaches, dullness, cloudy thinking, etc., should gradually disappear under the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell, taste, defective hearing and mucus dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms which suggest the presence of catarrh and which may often be overcome by this efficacious treatment. It is said that nearly ninety per cent. of all ear troubles are caused by catarrh and there must, therefore, be many people whose hearing may be restored by this simple, harmless, home treatment.

SALT RHEUM FOR FIVE YEARS

On Face, Arms and Hands. Cuticura Heals.

"I have had salt rheum for the past five years. My face, arms, and hands broke out all over in rough scaly patches so that you could hardly put your finger where there was not a patch. I got so I could not sleep at night.

"Seeing Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertised I thought I would give them a trial, and after using a full-sized box of Cuticura Ointment with the Cuticura Soap I was healed." (Signed) Mrs. Thomas Hogan, Essex Junction, Vt., Dec. 18, 1918.

Soap 25c, Ointment 25 and 50c. Sold throughout the Dominion. Canadian Depot: Lymans, Limited, St. Paul St., Montreal. Cuticura Soap shaves without mug.

Exchange Situation Shows Little Change

New York, Feb. 26.—The pound sterling was quoted at $3.37.25 to $3.38 today on the New York Exchange. The Canadian dollar was held at a discount of 16⅝ cents.

KOVNO TROOPS IN SERIOUS MUTINY

Bolshevik Agents Responsible for the Trouble Among Lithuanian Troops.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, Feb. 26.—Advices received in London are to the effect that there was a serious mutiny several days ago among the native troops stationed at Kovno, Lithuania. The mutiny was quickly suppressed and the situation now is normal.

The despatch says it was first believed the mutiny was due to Polish intrigue, but that an investigation indicated that Bolshevik agents were responsible for it.

London, Feb. 26.—In reply to a question it was stated in the House of Commons last night on behalf of the government that it was not proposed to use gas against the Indian frontier tribes except in retaliation.

Barcelona, Feb. 26.—A bomb was thrown Tuesday night at the express train bound from this city to Madrid in which the civil governor of Barcelona was travelling. Some of the car window panes were broken but the governor was not injured.

Ottawa, Feb. 26.—Securities estimated to total a billion and a quarter dollars will be affected by the arrangements reached with brokers on the Canadian stock exchange. The securities are Canadian securities—government, municipal and industrial—sold in London before the war. Now, owing to the collapse in exchange, they are being bought in London and dumped on the Canadian market.

OFFER A FORTUNE FOR HUN PAINTING

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Berlin, Feb. 26.—An offer of five million dollars has been made by an American to the German government for sections of the famous altar piece painted by Jan and Hubert Van Eyck, formerly in the cathedral of St. Bayon, Ghent, and now in the Berlin Museum, says the Tageblatt.

It is said the government cannot accept the offer, as the treasure must be returned to Belgium, under the terms of the Versailles treaty. Germany, however, must pay the Hohenzollern family for this work of art as a part of the settlement for the taking over of royal holdings, the newspaper says.

The work referred to was begun in 1420 and completed in 1432 and has undergone many vicissitudes.

Estimates Show Increase.

Mr. Lemont submitted an outline of many extra expenditures to be included in this year's requisition to the City Council for the assessment. He will continue this work in order to have it ready to forward to the City Council next month.

Miss E. Beatrice Jewett, for the past four years on the teaching staff of the Smythe Street School staff, has resigned her position, to take effect in a few weeks. The Trustees accepted the resignation with regret and sent best wishes for a bright future.

Blue prints of the proposed new school at Doak Settlement were examined by the Trustees and seemed to meet with general approval. It is a neat looking structure and will certainly be appreciated by the sturdy people of the settlement. However, with the "high cost of living" and lumber, it may not mature.

Mr. Spurden and Mr. Shute submitted their report as auditors of the Secretary's accounts, which were found correct.

After passing a number of bills the meeting was adjourned.

Death at Gagetown.

W. A. Erb, grocery merchant, of this city, received a telephone message this morning from Gagetown announcing the death last night of his brother, Albert Erb, aged 24 years, after two days' illness of pneumonia. Blockade of the Province Completed by Last Storm

The Worst Storm Woodstock Ever Experienced, With Drifts Fifteen Feet High and Roads Impassable

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

WOODSTOCK, N. B., Feb. 26.—Last night's storm was the worst ever experienced in this town and county. The roads are impassable. When the drifts were shovelled out in town they were fifteen feet high. The storm has abated and the sun is shining. No teams have been able to get in from the country today, and no word has been received of the conditions outside town. All trains north have been cancelled. Much suffering is experienced, owing to the lack of wood and coal.

Railroads All Demoralized, Trains Stuck on Every Line On Which They Started Out

First Train on the Main Line of the C. P. R. Since Yesterday Noon Expected Here Some Time This Afternoon—C. N. R. Train for Newcastle that Left Here Last Night Stalled at Weaver's—Otis Train Stuck in a Snowbank and So is the Valley Train for Centreville.

Every train sent out of Fredericton last evening became stalled in the immense snowdrifts on the various lines.

Trains arriving here yesterday afternoon were many hours late on all lines and before evening many were cancelled while those which started out from here in the afternoon were almost invariably stalled for the night by big snowdrifts along the lines. The C. P. R. main line was blocked from the middle of the afternoon until almost noon today when a freight train became stalled near Morrison's Mills, only a short distance outside the local yards, and could not get out because a train on the Valley line with a wing plough came along and filled in the track back of the stalled freight train.

Men worked all night and throughout this morning trying to shovel out the freight train, but meanwhile all of last evening's trains for both east and west had had to be cancelled and it was not until almost noon today that the first train got out on the C. P. R. line. Another C. P. R. train over the Gibson branch en route for Otis, got stuck in drifts between Otis and Cullerton last night and when last heard from was still there. The Gibson branch train this morning for Woodstock was cancelled as was also the Fredericton & Grand Lake Coal & Railway train for Chipman, because of storm condition. The first train into Fredericton over the C. P. R. main line in 24 hours was expected to arrive some time this afternoon.

C. N. R. Also Tied Up.

The C. N. R. express which left last evening at 6.30 o'clock for Newcastle, did not reach its destination as it stuck in a big drift at Weaver's Siding and is still there.

The "Whooper" left here this morning for Newcastle with a plow attached and expected to reach there some time today. It is expected that a train will reach the city tonight from Newcastle.

There was no suburban train from Marysville this morning and as a consequence many students missed school and clerks who are employed in city offices and stores were not able to be at work this morning.

There is no train from Centreville today on the Valley line and none will leave the city today as the train which left here yesterday afternoon is stalled five miles above Woodstock. A train on the Gagetown section of the Valley left here at 11.30 o'clock this morning and expected to get through to St. John some time before night.

RESCIND CONTROL CANADIAN SUGAR

Board of Commerce Feel that Some Concession Should Be Made to Dealers.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Ottawa, Feb. 26.—The control by the Board of Commerce o. Canada of the price of sugar is abolished today, for the specified purpose of proving whether or not the control has been effective in keeping down excess profits, and the fixed price of 16 cents a pound at the refineries no longer obtains. The cost of production has undoubtedly increased since the order was made fixing the price on Jan. 8th, and the Board feels that some concession should be made to dealers.

ST. JOHN BACK TO OLD HORSE CAR

Double Sleighs Engaged in Transfer Service of N. B. Power at Glen Falls.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

St. John, Feb. 26.—The days of the old horse car will be recalled by many in the city through the coming of old Dobbin into his own once again. In the transfer service of the N. B. Power, at Glen Falls, two large double sleighs have been engaged and the company will give an hourly service to the people along the Falls route in this way. This has been made necessary by the storms of late. Flooding of the tracks occurred before the storm of a week or so ago, and before the snowfall of yesterday came it had been impossible to pick out the ice, or to open the line much beyond the One Mile House.

The storm of yesterday caused a tie-up for a time in passenger service on the railways. Added to their troubles on the C. P. R., was the derailment of an express car at the Cantilever bridge and the blocking of the line which followed prevented the Montreal and Boston trains from leaving the city until about 6 o'clock this morning. The Montreal 4.20 train got away on time. A derailment on the C. N. R. at Norton delayed the Halifax for a time. Service is back to normal today.

THE CALAIS STREET RAILWAY CO. FARES

St. John, N. B., Feb. 26.—The Public Utilities Commission went to St. Stephen last evening and today is sitting in joint session with Maine in Public Service Commission on the matter of application of Calais Street Railway Co. for permission to increase fares in St. Stephen, Milltown and Calais.

FOUND GUILTY.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

St. John, N. B., Feb. 26.—The case of the King vs. Thomas Petrie, who is charged with the theft of a camera, came up for trial in the County Court this morning before Judge Armstrong. He was found guilty and remanded to jail, there being another charge against him.

The civil cases on the docket having been settled, and there being no further business, the court adjourned sine die.

Snowfall of 12 Inches Followed By a Severe Blizzard

DRIFTS PILED UP MOUNTAIN HIGH

Many of Those Who Went to Work Today Used Snowshoes.

New Brunswick is struggling today from the effects of a storm which appears to have had the most paralyzing effects of any of the many blizzards which have raged this winter.

Fredericton has been entirely cut off from the outside world except for telegraph and telephone communication since early yesterday afternoon, while railway traffic throughout the province appears to be almost entirely paralyzed.

Fuel Shortage Threatened.

Business of every description throughout the province is crippled, while a fuel shortage which appears to be quite general throughout New Brunswick seems to forecast much suffering in the cities and towns if severe weather is to continue for any length of time. Drifts are piled up mountain high in every locality, but strangely the storm has not wrecked the wires of the telegraph and telephone companies to any great extent.

Statistics furnished by the Dominion Meteorological Station at the University of New Brunswick here show a total of 12 inches of snow to have fallen between 9 a. m. yesterday and this morning, which made a total snowfall of 52 inches during the present month. The storm started yesterday morning and all day long the snowfall continued, while towards evening heavy winds commenced which later turned into a veritable blizzard, increasing in fury during the night, the gale reaching 35 miles an hour, while the weather became colder, the temperature dropping almost to the zero mark.

Go to Work on Snowshoes.

Many people in Fredericton were forced to go to their work today on snowshoes, and many others, particularly those living in the suburbs, were unable to get about at all. The snowplowing contractors refused to take their horses out in last night's blizzard, and this morning it was late when they got started at their tremendous task, and then the conditions were such that only slow progress could be made. In all of the city schools, except the Model School, there was only one session, and parents of pupils attending that school entered loud protests against the authorities failing to call off the afternoon session there. Little hauling is possible because the snow is piled so deep on the streets, and it will take many days before Fredericton can get back to normal as a result of the storm.

General Storm in the Province.

Reports given out by the New Brunwick Telephone Company show that the storm was general. At Woodstock over a foot of snow fell and this morning many people had to use snowshoes in order to get to their work. Conditions up the line above Woodstock were even worse than those which prevailed in Woodstock.

At Moncton the storm raged all night and the local telephone lines are practically all down and there is not a line beyond the city.

There are only two 'phone lines to St. John today but the local lines are not badly hit.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Mrs. Joseph Lyons, who departed this life February 26, 1919.

Sleep on dear mother, thy labor's o'er,
Thy willing hands could do no more;
The midnight star shines o'er the grave
Of one we loved, but could not save.
We have missed you, dearest mother,
But our loss is sure your gain;
And we know you're waiting for us,
In that home that's free from pain.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of the late Daniel Flynn, who died February 26th, 1917.

He is dead but not forgotten,
For we all do miss him so,
And we hope again to meet him,
When from this earth we go.
And how sadly we do miss him
In the dusky eventide,
For his chair is always vacant,
By the lonely table side;
And we never will forget him,
Never will his memory fade;
Flowers of love will bloom forever
On the grave where he is laid.

THE NORMAL SCHOOL BASKETBALL TEAM

Promising Material Included In Team Expected to Play St. John High Here.

St. Joan High School basket-ball team and that of the Provincial Normal School will meet on Saturday afternoon at the Normal School gymnasium in this city.

This is the first visiting team to play this year's Normal School team in this city and the game is expected to prove an interesting one. St. John High School has the reputation of producing a good basket-ball team nearly every year, and as this year's Normal team includes some good material, it is expected that the match will be a close one.

The Normal School team will line up as follows: Forwards, Kilchrist and Russell; centre, Nicholson; defence, Linton and Clowes. As yet it is not known what spares the Normal School will work as there are a number of promising substitutes to fall back upon.

In Nicholson at centre for Normal School and Russell at forward the team has two steady players who have had some experience at the game; the former has for several years prior to his coming to Normal School played with the St. Stephen High School team, while the latter figured prominently as a player on St. John High School teams.—W. THE HIGH SCHOOL HOCKEY GAME OFF

Rothesay Collegiate School Team Unable to Come Because of 'Flu.

Manager Jack Williams of the Fredericton High School Hockey team received a telegram at noon yesterday from the Rothesay Collegiate School team stating that they would be unable to meet the High School team here this evening owing to the fact that the town school was quarantined with 'flu.

The Fredericton High School team had made arrangements for a reception to follow their game with the Rothesay team, it was stated today, and these had to be cancelled until later, as well as the game which was scheduled for tonight as the second end of a double-header. Should the quarantine be lifted at Rothesay the last of this week the game will be played here next Tuesday or Thursday.—W. M. H.

Hockey Results

Boston, Feb. 26.—The Boston All-Star hockey team defeated the Pittsburgh Athletic Association club here last night, 3 to 2.

Seattle, Feb. 26—Vancouver blanked Seattle last night, 8 to 0.

Vancouver, Feb. 26.—British Columbia senior hockey teams have decided to withdraw from the Allan Cup series.

Montreal, Feb. 26.—Bank of Montreal won championship of the Bankers' Hockey League by defeating the Royal Bank, 3 to 2, last night.

Amherst, N.S., Feb. 26.—The second Abegweits, now touring the mainland, played the second Amherst Ramblers in Springhill last evening for the intermediate championship of the Maritime Provinces. As this is the first occasion that a junior team has ever left the shores of Prince Edward Island, great interest was taken in the game. The Abegweits won out, 6 to 4, after a keen, hard game. Acadia and U.N.B. Likely To Provide a Lively Game

Crucial Intercollegiate League Game Expected to be one of Best

ACADIA SQUAD AT ARCTIC RINK

Made a Good Impression and Believe U. N. B. Team Too Confident.

U. N. B. and Acadia, rivals for many years in all kinds of college sports, will clash tonight at the Arctic Rink in the crucial game of the western section of the Intercollegiate Hockey League.

With both teams declared to be in the best of condition, a fast sheet of ice and Frank Brown, of Moncton, in charge of the activities as referee, it is expected that tonight's game will be one of the hockey season's best attractions, the indications being that the largest crowd ever to see a college hockey game in Fredericton will be on hand.

Odds which had been top-heavy on U. N. B. changed materially last night when the true story of Acadia's game with Mount A. en route here became known and the danger of over-confidence in the U. N. B. squad is also said to have been pretty well eliminated in the same manner. In both camps this morning there appeared to be a very general feeling that the game will be just as hard fought as that which the teams played at Wolfville, N. S., a few weeks ago, when U. N. B. just pulled out with a victory and that was all.

Acadia Work-Out at Arctic Ring.

The object of the Acadia squad's early arrival in Fredericton was demonstrated yesterday afternoon when Capt. Rogers had his team out for a practice at the Arctic Rink so as to get the players used to their surroundings. Incidentally the workout gave the local fans a chance to look the Acadia team over and the few railbirds who were on hand were impressed with the speed and general make up of the visiting squad, who spent some time getting used to the corners and sides and endeavoring to learn any unusual conditions about the ice surface. After the workout Captain Rogers expressed himself as well satisfied with the rink and the condition of his men.

Acadia players did not make many bold predictions as they hung about Windsor Hall last evening as to what would happen when they meet U. N. B. tonight, but there seemed to be a general feeling pervading the Acadia camp that over-confidence might prove the undoing of the U. N. B. team, if such a thing actually exists tonight in the Red and Black camp. While they would not boast of an Acadia victory, the visitors let it be known that they expected to be able to give U. N. B. the livellest game they have had this year and it will be a treat for the fans to see Captain Burgess and the local collegians extended. In the matter of substitute players, Acadia believe they have some advantage over U. N. B. for they have a strong line of second string men and it is by the frequent injection of fresh players into the game that Acadia expect to counteract the speed of Billy Lounsbury, Bert Burgess and the other fast individuals of the local sextette.

U. N. B. will rely upon the same line-up they have used in all their games, while Acadia have added W. Eisenham to their list of eligible players, his name having been sent through by telegram to Chancellor Jones of U. N. B. this week, although it doesn't appear in the squad named by Capt. Rogers and Manager W. Geisneher when they gave out their line-up at their hotel.—J. D. B.

Billy Flemming expected to ship Baby Doll (2.10¼) from Windsor to Gardiner for the free for all, but the freight embargo prevented his taking the mare to the Pine Tree State.—Boston Herald.

CANADIENS ELIMINATED IN N. H. L. CHAMPIONSHIP

Toronto Club Only Ones Who Have a Chance to Beat Ottawas Now.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Quebec, Feb. 26.—Playing their worst game of the season, Quebec went down to defeat at the hands of the St. Patricks last night, 8 to 2.

McLean, the star of the Maritime Provinces, was used for a time in last night's game and made a good showing. First he was on the defence and later moved up to relieve McCarthy at right wing. He staged several good rushes and showed some good stick handling.

Canadiens Are Eliminated.

Ottawa, Feb. 26.—Canadiens dropped out of the N. H. L. running last night, when the Senators defeated them, 6 to 3. For a few minutes in the final period the Canadiens looked dangerous, but Ottawa was never in difficulties. Vezina played a sensational game in the nets and undoubtedly saved Canadiens from a severe lacing.

SPEAKER'S HOPES GETTING STARTED

Seven Pitchers Started from Cleveland Last Night for the South.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Cleveland, O., Feb. 26.—The first squad of the Cleveland Baseball Club left here last night for the spring training camp at New Orleans. In the party were Trainer Percy Smallwood, Scout Jack McAllister and seven pitchers. The other pitchers and catchers will go direct from their homes. The fielders will report on March 4th.

FOOTBALL RULES MAY BE CHANGED

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York, Feb. 26.—The first annual meeting of the Intercollegiate Football Rules Commission to be held in several years has been called for this city on Friaday, March 12.

Important suggestion in reference to radical changes in the playing rules are to be discussed. The suggestions include a rule to have the goal kick following a touchdown made from scrimmage formation, narrowing the width of the goal, numbering of players and several other revisions which would change the present form of play.

THE WRESTLERS.

Montreal, Feb. 26.—Gerson, captain of the wrestling team of the University of Pennsylvania, last night defeated Champagne, of the National Amateur Athletic Association, on points, in a feature wrestling bout held at the McGill University Union.

Newark, N. J., Feb. 26.—Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, was outpointed last night in every round but the first of an eight-round bout with Valger.

GIANTS EXPECT TO LAND MILTON STOCK

New York, Feb. 25.—Several important matters concerning the welfare of the Giants will be considered by Manager John J. McGraw when he arrives here from Havana, Cuba.

Branch Rickey, manager of the St Louis Cardinals, is willing to trade Infielder Milton Stock to the Giants for the releases of Heinie Zimmerman, third baseman, and Lew McCarty, catcher, together with $25,000 in cold cash. Rickey is said to have imparted this information to Charles A. Stoneham, president of the Giants, during the recent National League meeting in Chicago, whereupon Stoneham whipped a cable to McGraw, who replied that he would come to this city as soon as possible to talke the matter over.

While Rickey steadfastly refused to sell Rogers Hornsby to the Giants for $100,000, he expressed a desire to make a deal that, in his opinion, would help the Cardinals as well as McGraw's ball club, and when he was asked to part with Stock he is said to have shown a willingness to arrange a transfer under the conditions named above. Stock would greatly strengthen the Giants' infield; McGraw would probably assign him to third base, which he has played very cleverly in past seasons. With Stock filling Zimmerman's shoes, Frank Frisch would be the Giants' permanent second baseman. Stock, incidentally, would be a valuable addition to McGraw's batting order, inasmuch as he is a natural .300 hitter.

Should Rickey obtain Zimmerman the latter would cover the third corner, no doubt, with Rogers Hornsby moved over to the middle bag. Lavan would remain at short field and Fournier would play first base. McCarty, if included in the deal, would be a vast improvement over the Cardinals' catchers, while the $25,000 cash bonus would be a nice little present to the St. Louis stockholders. The consummation of this transaction depends entirely on how McGraw feels about it, so that the Giants' followers are anxiously waiting to hear from the famous leader.

Moncton Hockey Team May Come Here Tuesday to Play A Local Combination Team

"Tart" Titus Organizing Team of Fredericton and Marysville Players to Meet Eastern Leaguers—Fredericton Players Threaten Strike to Get New Management.

The Moncton hockey team will probably come to Fredericton to play early next week, it was said this morning by Captain Tart Titus of the Fredericton Hockey Club. The game, if arranged, will be played by a picked team representing Fredericton and Marysville, and it is likely most of the players used will be wearing the Marysville uniform inasmuch as the U. N. B. players will likely be away at that time competing in an Inter-collegiate League play-off.

Capt. Titus was unable to give any definite information as to the game but said negotiations were in progress and the chances were Tuesday would be the date, provided transportation difficulties were over by then. Under the arrangement that is being made with the Moncton mangement there is to be a guarantee that the railway town's complete team of first string players will be brought here and, it is possible, the fans may be given a glance at the forwad pass in centre ice style of hockey.

Widespread Reports of Strike.

There were also widespread reports this morning that the players of the Fredericton Hockey Club were about to go on strike, so to speak, and demand a change in the management of the club, blaming the lack of intelligent direction for their defeat last week by the Chatham team while they feel the failure to use spare players in the games had resulted in the regulars being overworked to such an extent that they have not been able to do themselves justice.

Capt. Titus was asked about these stories and confirmed the truth of the reports. He said it was the intention to have a meeting of the local club last night when it was proposed to demand the resignation of the officers and the right of appointment of new officers by the players. Capt. Titus said he had insisted since the commencement of the season that there should be a manager of the club whose duty it would be to direct the playing end from the sidelines.

Just what the outcome of the situation will be is a matter of speculation but it is not thought any of the officers of the club are anxious to be connected with the organization as about all they have been getting out of their jobs has been some work.

Wants Sussex Team Brought Here.

That the fans want to see some of the Eastern Hockey League teams in action is quite evident from the many suggestions about such a game that are being made. Herewith is a letter received from a local fan who enclosed a report of a game played at Moncton in which the local team were beaten only in the final minutes of the game by the Moncton team:

To the Sporting Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—As there is some talk of Fredericton arranging a game with the Moncton Victorias, why not try and get Sussex to come up and play a game? If Moncton would not come I am sure Sussex would. I have lived in Sussex and know their team and am sure a game could be arranged with them at an early date, and as Fredericton is supporting hockey well, I am sure it would pay.

Now, here is a report of the Moncton-Sussex game played in Moncton on Tuesday, February 17th. Moncton's rink is a much longer one than that at Sussex. The Sussex team played at a disadvantage as John LeClair, one of their star players, was not on the ice that night.

Thanking you in advance,

Sincerely yours,

A FREDERICTON SPORT.

TERROR REIGN BY THE SINN FEIN

Guerilla Warfare Is Being Waged Against the Royal Irish Constabulary.

Dublin, Jan. 17.—(By Mail.)—In their efforts to drive the British Government out of Ireland, the extreme section of Sinn Fein is waging a species of guerilla warfare upon the Royal Irish Constabulary.

The more radical element of Sinn Fein has instituted a remarkable campaign of terrorism and intimidation against the police force urging systematic extermination by shooting from ambush and attacks in force upon police barracks. In the past few months scores of such attacks have been made in widely separated parts of Ireland, resulting in the killing of fifteen policemen and wounding many more.

The extremists advance the argument that the power of the British Government depends upon the police force—that the Government would be helpless and unable to enforce their laws if deprived of the support of the police. Therefore they intend to make the life of police unsafe and unbearable in the hope that the power of the Government will be weakened.

In carrying out the campaign the leaders have started an unparalleled "class propaganda" directed against the Royal Irish Constabulary as a whole. Every argument to stir up bitterness and hatred is utilized. In some sections of the South of Ireland the leaders have ordered their followers not to associate with or speak to policemen and to report the name of any person seen associating with a member of the constabulary.

The following document has been sent out to a number of Sinn Feiners with instructions to copy it four times and sent it to four friends, who are to repeat the operation indefinitely:

"They have sold for silver the flesh and blood of their people.

"For money their hands are dipped in the blood of their people.

"What of the people? Shall they grasp the hands of Cain?

"They are the eyes and ears of the enemy.

"Let these eyes and ears know no friendship.

"See that there are none who shall associate with them. See you that those who do are treated likewise.

"The blood of our martyrs shall be on them and on their children's children, and they shall curse the mothers that bring them forth.

"And the Lord set a mark upon Cain."

So widespread is the fear inspired that in the hotbeds of Sinn Feinism in the South, the police are avoided like the plague. Even the former friends of the police, who are nearly all Irish, are afraid to be seen talking to them.

The Government has been forced to close many outlying police stations and concentrate the forces for safety, and increase the patrols to three or four in a group.

In County Cork certain Sinn Fein leaders sent out formal orders declaring that every policeman and person in the "pay of England" are "deemed to have forfeited their life," and calling upon their followers to execute the orders.

A copy of this remarkable document is in the hands of the Government authorities. It reads as follows:

"We hereby proclaim a military area with the following regulations:

"(a) A policeman found within said area on or after this date will be deemed to have forfeited his life, the more notorious police being dealt with as far as possible first.

"(b) Every person in the pay of England (magistrates, jurors, etc.), who helps England to rule this country or who assists in any way the upholders of the foreign Government will be deemed to have forfeited his life.

"(c) Civilians who give information to the police or soldiery, specially such information as is of a serious character, if convicted, will be executed, i. e., shot or hanged.

"(d) Police, doctors and prison officials who assist at, or who countenance, or who are responsible for, in any was connected with obtaining information from any citizen for use against any other may be executed at sight as a common outlaw. Offending persons will be executed should it take years to track them down.

"(E) Every citizen must assist, when required, in enabling us to perform our duty."

As a result of this campaign of terrorism recruiting for the constabulary has come to a standstill, and it is rumored that the Government is considering drafting several hundred policemen from London.

MUSTACHE LED TO NEW YORK RIOT

Incident of 70 Years Ago Shows How Times Change.

New York, Feb. 25.—Nowadays a man may wear whiskers from his Adam's apple to his eyes, or he may sport a chin beard, a Van Dyke, "sideburns" or a simple mustache, and he will suffer no annoyance save from the would be facetious remarks of his friends.

Not so in New York seventy years ago. Then the appearance of a mustache on the street was the signal for the gathering of a mob, with blood in its collective eye. What, disturb the peace of the metropolitan city of New York by wearing a mustache! Away with the offender—or, at least, away with his mustache!

That is what actually happened in New York city in the '50s. A foreigner came to New York, accompanied by a small son. They lived not far from Nassau street, and one day the man, leading his son by the hand, walked toward the post office, then in Nassau street, to mail a letter. Hardly had they reached Nassau street when they were followed by a hooting mob of men and boys. The foreigner, unaccustomed to American ways, was puzzled, and could not understand what caused the disturoance. He sought protection in a small shop on Ann street.

The proprietor, an American, was appealed to for protection. One glance at the bewildered foreigner told him the cause for the trouble, and he informed the stranger that the crowd, unused to such facial adornments as mustaches, objected to them. The foreigner, to escape such unwelcome attention, must sacrifice his mustache. This he was glad to do at once, and then he was able to go on his way without trouble.

MODERN BEGGAR HIRES A BARKER

Youth Solicits Alms for Old Man and Many Stop to Give.

New York, Feb. 25.—Since efficiency is finding its way into all businesses one of the oldest "professions" of all has begun to adopt modern methods. The innovation is due to a beggar who made his stand opposite one of the subway entrances along the Williamsburg Bridge approach on Delancey street.

Many who passed this spot last week were struck by the appearance of this beggar, an elderly, long bearded man, who sat huddled up in a wheel chair. Alongside was a husky youth of 19 or so, busily engaged in "barking" for the beggar. Secretly the latter must have thought it a good joke on the alms giving public, for there was always a smirk on his face as he shouted so none should neglect to drop a coin in the beggar's lap. His "spiel" was in Yiddish, which, roughly translated into English, would be:

"Stop; Give charity, people."

Many who ought to have known better stopped and gave.

DIVORCE SUIT DAMAGES.

London, Feb. 25. — In the divorce court today Lieut.-Col. Albert Newton Stirrett, Canadian Army Service Corps, was ordered to pay $5,000 damages and the cost of the suit in which William Poole Lester Jones, formerly an officer in the Air Force, was granted a divorce on account of the infidelity of his wife, Winnifred Mary Elizabeth. The petitioner in his evidence said he believed Col. Stirrett was married last January. The judge asked if he was of Mr. Jones' rank in life. The petitioner did not think he was anything of his class. He looked like a man of business, but he did not think he was. The judge said that the case had one particularly discreditable feature, this being that the co-respondent was a Canadian officer in Great Britain and knew that the woman with whom he set up a criminal intimacy was the wife of a British officer serving in France. The case was undefended.

Earl Meyers, of Peru, O., refused to postpone his church wedding when he found he had the flu. With a temperature of 104, he was wrapped in blankets and taken to the church, where the ceremony was performed, and now the bride is nursing him back to health.

In the centre of the dais were two very high chairs with dorserets, which arched forwards over the heads of the occupants, the whole covered with light-blue silk thickly powdered with golden stars. On that to the right sat a very tall and well-formed man with red hair, a livid face, and a cold blue eye, which had in it something peculiarily sinister and meaneng. He lounged back in a careless position, and yawned repeatedly as though htartily weary of the proceedings, stooping from time to time to fondle a shaggy Spanish greyhound which lay stretched at his fet. On the other throne there was perched bolt upright, with prim demeanor, as though he felt himself to be upon his good behavior, a litle, round, pippin-raced person, who smiled and bobbed to every one whose eye he chanced to meet. Between and a little in front of them on a humble charete or stool, sat a slim, dark young man, whose quiet atire and modest manner would scarce proclaim him to be the most noted prince in Europe. A jupon of dark blue cloth, tagged with buckles and pendants of gold, seemed but a sombre and plain attire amidst the welath of silk and ermine and gilt tissue of fustian with which he was surrounded. He sat with his two hands clasped found his knee, his head slightly bent, and an expression of impatience and of trouble upon his clear, well-chiselled features. Behind the thrones there stood two men in purple gowns, with ascetic, clean-shaven faces, and half a dozen other high dignitaries and office-holders of Aquitaine. Below on either side of the steps were forty or fify barons, knights, and courtiers, ranged in a triple rod to the right and the left, with a clear passage in the centre.

"There sits the prince," whispered Sir John Chandos, as they entered. "He on the right is Pedro, whom we are about to put upon the Spanish throne. The other is Don James, whom we purpose with the aid of God to help to his throne in Majorca. Now follow me, and take it not to heart if he be a litle short in his speech, for indeed his mind is full of many very weighty concerns."

The prince, however, had already observed their entrance, and, springing to his feet, he had advanced with a winning smile and the light of welcome in his eyes.

"We do not need your good offices as herald here, Sir John," said he in a low but clear voice; "these valiant knights are very well known to me. Welcome to Aquitaine, Sir Nigel Loring and Sir Oliver Buttesthorn. Nay, keep your knee for my sweet father at Windsor. I would have your hands, my friends. We are like to give you some work to do ere you see the downs of Hampshire once more. Know you aught of Spain, Sir Oliver?"

"Nought, my sire, save that I have heard men say that there is a dish named an olla which is prepared there, though I have never been clear in my mind as to whether it was but a ragout such as is to be found in the south, or whether there is some seasoning such as fennel or garlic which is peculiar to Spain."

"Your doubts, Sir Oliver, shall soon be resolved," answered the prince, laughing heartily, as did many of the barons who surrounded them. "His maesty here will doubtless order that you have this dish hotly seasoned when we are all safely in Castile."

"I will have a hotly seasoned dish for some folk I know of," answered Don Pedro with a cold smile.

"But my friend Sir Oliver can fight right hardily without either bite or sup," remarked the prince, "Did I not see him at Poictiers, when for two days we had not more than a crust of bread and a cup of foul water, yet carrying himself most valiantly. With my own eyes I saw him in the rout sweep the head from a knight of Picardy with one blow of his sword."

"The rogue got between me and the nearest French victual wain," muttered Sir Oliver, amid a fresh titter from those who were near enough to catch his words.

"How many have you in your train?" asked the prince, assuming a graver mien.

"I have forty men-at-arms, sir," said Sir Oliver.

"And I have one hundred archers and a score of lancers, but there are two hundred men who wait for me on this side of the water upon the borders of Navarre."

"And who are they, Sir Nigel?"

"They are a free company, sir, and they are called the White Company."

To the astonishment of the knight, his words provoked a burst of merriment from the barons run, in which the two kings and the prince were fain to join. Sir Nigel blinked mildly from one to the other, until at last perceiving a stout black-bearded knight at his elbow, whoso laugh rang somewhat louder than the others, he touched him lightly upon the sleeve.

"Perchance, my fair sir," he whispered, "there is some small vow of which I may relieve you. Might we not have some honorable debate upon the matter. Your gentle courtesy may perhaps grant me an exchange of thrusts."

"Nay, nay, Sir Nigel," cried the prince, "fasten not the offence upon Sir Robert Briquet, for we are one and all bogged in the same mire. Truth to say, our ears have just been vexed by the doings of the same company, and I have even now made vow to hang the man who held the rank of captain over it. I little thought to find him among the bravest of my chosen chieftaints, that the vow is now nought, for, as you have never seen your company, it would be a fool's act to blame you for their doings."

"My liege," said Sir Nigel, "it is a very small matter that should be hanged, albeit the manner of death is somewhat more ignoble than I had hoped for. On the other hand, it would be a very grievous thing that you, the Prince of England and the flower of knighthood, should make a vow, whether in ignorance or no, and fail to bring it to fulfilment.

"Vex not your mind on that," the prince answered, smiling. "We have had a citizen from Montauban here this very day, who told us such a tale of sack and murder and pillage that it moved our blood; but our wrath was turned upon the man who was in authority over them."

"My dear and honored master," cried Nigel, in great anxiety, "I fear me much that in your gentleness of heart you are straining this vow which you have taken. If there be so much as a shadow of doubt as to the form of it, it were a thousand times best—"

"Peace! peace!" cried the prince impatiently. "I am very well able to look to my own vows and their performance. We hope to see you both in the banquet-hall anon. Meanwhile you will attend upon us with your train." He bowed, and Chandos, plucking Sir Oliver by the sleeve, led them both away to the back of the press of courtiers.

"Why, little coz," he whispered, "you are very eager to have your neck in a noose. By my soul! had you asked as much from our new ally Don Pedro, he had not balked you. Between friends, there is overmuch of the hangman in him and too little of the prince. But indeed this White Company is a rough band, and may take some handling ere you find yourself safe in your captaincy."

"I doubt not, with the help of St. Paul, that I shall bring them to some order," Sir Nigel answered. "But there are many faces here which are new to me, though others have been before me since first I waited upon my dear master, Sir Walter. I pray you to tell me, Sir John, who are these priests upon the dais?

Zealand, N. B., Feb. 24.—The weather for the past few days has been very fine, but the roads are in very bad condition.

We are sorry to say that Mrs. Alexander Brewer is on the sick list. We hope for her speedy recovery.

Mrs. Ambrose Brewer and her children, Nora and Marshall, called on her sister, Mrs. Richard H. Brewer, on Sunday last.

Mrs. David Morehouse was the guest of her mother, Mrs. Martha J. Brewer, last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lovean spent Sunday with Mrs. Simon Estey.

Meeting Did Not Materialize.

The meeting of the Publicity Committee of the Board of Trade, called for last night, did not take place on account of the heavy storm which prevailed.

To Meet Tonight.

The Fredericton hockey team are to meet tonight at the Barker House, immediately after the hockey game. Business of importance is to be taken up.

Building Lot for Church.

The lot of land purchased from Rev. P. J. Trafton at Victoria Corner by Brother Gordon York, has been given to the Reformed Baptist Alliance on which to build a church. It is a corner lot in the centre of this pretty little village.—King's Highway.

Married Yesterday Afternoon.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the George Street United Baptist parsonage yesterday when Miss Gladys E. McBean, of Taymouth, was united in marriage to Charles E. Norrad, of Bolestown, by Rev. Z. L. Fash. The young couple will reside at Boiestown.

Government Meeting Closed.

Premier Foster and members of the Provincial Government left by C.P.R. today en route to their homes. They will probably not return here until the week of the opening of the Legislature. The meeting of the executive which opened here on Tuesday evening closed at noon today.

Senior Class Gave Dance.

The senior class of the University of New Brunswick entertained at a dance at the Palms last evening, when about forty were present. A programme of sixteen dances and three extras were carried out and the ladies instead of the gentlemen asked for the dances. Just before midnight refreshments were served.

Rothesay Schools.

Reports of sleeping sickness cases at Netherwood Ladies' College, Rothesay, which reached here from students attending the educational institutions at Rothesay, were not confirmed at the Department of Public Health, where it was said no reports of the kind had been received. Rothesay Collegiate School is under quarantine because of 'flu.

Recruits for Machine Gun Brigade.

Twenty-four recruits for No. 3 Company, Machine Gun Brigade, to be stationed in this city, under command of Lieut. Frank Clements, M.°C., have been received, and it is expected that more will sign on tomorrow night. As soon as the company is half up to strength, uniforms will be issued, and it is expected to start drilling the second week in March.

Given Surprise Party.

A number of friends of Pete Finnegan gathered at the home of Mrs. Agnes Grant, King street, last evening and gave him a surprise party in honor of his birthday. A pleasant evening was spent in games, music and refreshments, and Mr. Finnegan, who is a member of the fire department, was presented with a signet ring.

If you will spell these words backwards you will know the two teams who will clash at the Arctic Rink tonight in one of the fastest games of hockey played this season. If you like hockey you have our assurance it will be worth while to come, even though the storm continues. Game called at 8 o'clock sharp. Six bands for skating after game.

Prohibition Thrown Out.

The prohibition case against a man from New Maryland, who was charged with having liquor in his possession other than his private dwelling, was dismissed in the police court yesterday afternoon by Police Magistrate Limerick. The bottle of liquor was obtained on a physician's prescription, but owing to a typographical error in the name on the bottle the case was thrown out.

Died This Morning.

The death occurred at Kingsclear at an early hour this morning of Miss Mary Cott, aged 66 years. Deceased is survived by two brothers, William Cott, of Kingsclear, and George Cott, in the west, and one sister, Mrs. Robert Gay, Kingsclear, at whose home she died. The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon with service by Rev. Mr. Wilkinson and interment at St. Peter's churchyard, Springhill.

THE UNDERWOOD RESOLUTION BEFORE THE GOVERNMENT

United States' Move Looking to Removal of Embargo on Pulpwood Exports.

NEW BRUNSWICK IS TO BE REPRESENTED

American Interests Accepted Leases in This Province Knowing Conditions.

The Underwood resolution now before the United States Senate, which calls for the appointment of a commission looking towards the removal of the embargo on the exportation of pulp wood to the United States, was before the Provincial Government at their meeting which concluded here at noon today.

Premier Foster said the resolution had been received through the State Department at Ottawa, but he declined to state what action would be taken beyond saying that New Brunswick would be properly represented when any negotiations were actually commenced and the position of this province in the matter would be set forth. "It might be well to point out," the Premier added, "that the American interests holding leases on Crown Lands in this province took out their present leases when renewals were made a few years ago at a time when they had a full knowledge of conditions as they exist today, as there was an embargo in effect in this province at that time, just as there is today, in that respect conditions so far as they effect New Brunswick are different from other provinces which have perpetual leases."

ALD. JOHN A. REID THE LIKELY MAYOR

King's Ward Alderman Accepts Nomination and Is Not Likely to Be Opposed.

Ald. John A. Reid, for six years a member of the City Council and chairman of the finance committee during the entire war period, was yesterday presented with a requisition signed by more than one hundred representative citizens asking that he accept nomination for the position of Mayor.

The delegation who presented the requisition found Ald. Reid not anxious for additional honors in the realm of civic politics, but finally he decided to accept provided those interested in the matter were able to assure him there would be a representative council who would be prepared to back him up as Mayor in his efforts to provide a progressive and satisfactory civic administration.

Next Monday is nomination day, and a still hunt is now in progress to secure suitable candidates to contest the five wards, and it was believed this morning a complete ticket would be in the field. Ald. F. L. Cooper is said to be the only one of the five aldermen retiring this year who will stand for re-election and he will be on the ticket, while others may be George H. Clark in Queens Ward, W. A. B. McLellan in Carleton Ward, R. B. VanDine in St. Ann's Ward and J. Stewart Neill in Kings Ward. It was said that Mr. Clark and Mr. Neill had already consented to offer.

City Clerk George R. Perkins has completed the compilation of the voters' lists, which show a total of 1,223 names as compared with 1,236 last year. In addition all returned soldiers, residents of the city, are entitled to vote whether their names are on the lists or not.

PLEADED GUILTY, TOO.

Another Railwayman Arrested for Implication in Whiskey Thefts at Napudogan.

C. N. R. Detective J. J. Dunphy arrived in this city yesterday with another railwayman arrested as being implicated in the theft of thirty-nine cases of whiskey from a car of Kentucky rye which passed through Napudogan recently.

The same charge was placed against him as against the other six railway employees who were remanded yesterday morning by Police Magistrate Limerick until Friday morning for judgment. The prisoner appeared in the Police Court yesterday afternoon and pleaded guilty to the charge of theft preferred against him. He was remanded until tomorrow morning, when sentence in his case as well as in the cases of the other six will be pronounced by Magistrate Limerick.

DELEGATION PRESENTED DEMANDS YESTERDAY

Doak Settlement Delegation Were Snowbound and Could Not Get In.

The regular meeting of the School Board was held yesterday in the Board room and much business was considered. Two delegations were promised a hearing, but only one arrived, that of the city teachers. Delegates from Doak Settlement were snow-bound somewhere south of Wilsey road.

A delegation from the city teachers, composed of Mr. Hughes, principal of Regent Street School, Mr. Page, of the High School staff, and Miss Betts, secretary of the Teachers' Association, with Mr. Hughes as spokesman, appeared and requested a substantial increase of salary.

The Petition.

The following petition, signed by practically all the teachers, was presented by Mr. Hughes:

"The undersigned members of the teaching staff of Fredericton have decided to ask your Board for a substantial increase in their salaries for the current year, such increase to start from January 1st, 1920, and they hereby make that request.

"The St. John Board has granted to all their teachers sums ranging from $100 to $250 each, and has placed the salary of the city superintendent at $4,000.

"Should your Board not be in a position to grant our request, we wish to notify your Board that before renewing our contracts for next year we will press for the salaries laid down in the schedule to be issued by the N. B. Teachers' Association at Easter next, the scale of salaries in which will probably be advanced about 25 per cent.

The members of the delegation were well fortified with data, showing the great increase in the cost of all the necessaries of life, and Miss Betts submitted lists showing the salaries paid by the Trustees in St. John and Moncton. Mr. Page supported the statements of his associates and urged upon the Trustees careful consideration to the request of the teachers. Dr. Foster was a delegate, but was unable to attend. After some questions from the Trustees the chairman informed the delegation that the Board

SACKVILLE SAID TO BE QUARANTINED BECAUSE OF 'FLU

Student at Mount A. Ladies College Reported to Have Died.

FORTY CASES NOW AT GRAND MANAN ISLAND

York County Situation Now Said to Be Clearing Up Rapidly.

Dr. F. L. Brownley, of St. Andrews, reported this morning that there are now forty cases of influenza on Grand Manan Island, Charlotte county. Fifteen of these cases are reported to be convalescing while the others are not of a serious type.

This morning Mrs. W. J. Glenn, secretary of the York County Board of Health, has been notified that the epidemic at Harvey Station is clearing up. No new cases had been reported from that district and the number of cases is falling off every day. As far as possible, they are being kept from spreading outside the three or four houses quarantined.

It was learned today from a citizen who returned from St. John yesterday that the 'flu situation at Sackville was serious. He learned from a teacher from Sackville that the town is under quarantine, with all the schools closed. One death is reported to have taken place there from the disease, the victim being a student of the Ladies' College, Mount Allison. When questioned concerning this report Dr. G. G. Melvin, chief medical health officer, stated this morning that no report of such a serious situation at Sackville had been received by the Health Department.

Soviet Armies Browbeat Chinese Along Frontier

Bolshevik Advance Now Covers Large Scope in Siberia

REDS THREATEN ILI PROVINCE

Demand That Chinese Permit Appointment of Russian Consuls.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, Feb. 27.—War office despatches say that the Bolshevik advance in Siberia continues.

Their troops have advanced to the Chinese frontier in the Ili River district and have demanded that the Chinese governor give up the Russian consul and all refugees and permit the appointment of Bolshevik consuls in the province of Ili.

Failing compliance with this demand, the Reds threatened to occupy the province.

Kolchak's Execution.

London, Feb. 27.—The execution of Admiral Kolchak, head of the All-Russian Government, is related in a war office despatch yesterday as follows:

'Irkutsk had been re-occupied by Siberian troops formerly under Kappel, but now commanded by Voitsehovski. This force, after cutting through partisan departments, appeared at Cheremhovo, a northwest city. Voitsehovski proposed terms to the revolutionary soviet, in exchange for which his troops would not enter Iskutsk. These terms included unmolested passage of his army eastward, the cessation of hostilities, the payment of a large sum of money, the provisioning of his troops and the surrender of Kolchak. This occurred February 5.

"The soviet refused these terms, executed the Admiral and began the evacuation. On February 8, Voitsehovski's men are reported to have entered the city."

U. S. CONGRESS TO HAVE FINAL SAY

Treaty Reservation Regarding Mandatories Passed by Senate by Large Majority.

Washington, Feb. 27.—The Republican treaty reservations regarding mandatories, attached last November, was re-adopted yesterday in the Senate by a vote of 68 to 4, after the administration leaders had withdrawn their opposition to it.

This was the first time a qualification of the treaty had been adopted with the acquiescence of the Democratic leaders, and the first time more than two-thirds of the entire Senate had voted together in approving any reservation. It is noted, however, that the reservation was one of those to which the Democrats had agreed in the recent bi-partisan conference.

On the substance the reservations provides that no mandate could be accepted by the United States without the consent of Congress.

SEPARATE LABOR POLITICAL PARTY

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 27.—Declaring that no existing party "can be depended upon to carry out pre-convention promises," the Detroit Federation of Labor Wednesday night adopted a resolution endorsing a separate labor political party.

French Troops in Syria Had Difficulty in Extricating the Army After Severe Fighting

The French Forced to Leave Their Wounded Behind—Confirmation of the Story of Massacre of Armenians in the Marash District Received in London.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, Feb. 27.—Official despatches on the situation at Marash, in the Villayet of Aleppo, Syria, where French troops have been having a severe struggle with Turkish forces, announce that the French succeeded in extricating their contingents after very hard fighting. The French evidently withdrew hastily, as they were compelled to leave their wounded, which will be cared for by the American Red Cross.

A message from the same source confirms the reports of massacres of Armenians in the Marash district, but does not substantiate the statement from Armenian quarters that the number slaughtered was several thousand.

League Should Not Be Burdened.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, Feb. 27.—In the House of Commons last night Mr. Bonar Law declared that he could not imagine anything more calculated to make the League of Nations a failure at the outset than to impose upon it the burden of the Turkish problem.

Mr. Williams, Liberal, asked whether the Government had any information, that a report had reached the Armenian delegation in London to the effect that 20,000 Armenians had already been slaughtered in the evacuated district of Marash, that large Turkish forces were menacing Mersina and that the whole of Siticia was in danger of massacre.

The Premier said that up to the present he had not heard anything to indicate that this deplorable rumor was true. But, he added, if such news came to the conference today they would have to consider what steps were necessary to arrest horrors of this kind.

In an explanation to Lord Robert Cecil, who asked whether there were any British representatives at Marash, Mersina, or Adana, Mr. Lloyd-George said there had been a skirmish at Marash between French troops and rebellious Turks.

The French were in occupation of Marash after the British returned, but he thought they had withdrawn. He was not certain about Mersina, but was under the impression that it was fairly strongly garrisoned. He was doubtful about this story.

The Motion Talked Out.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

London, Feb. 27.—After questions began in the House yesterday on the motion for adjournment with regard to the important debate on keeping the Turk at Constantinople, it was understood that no division would be taken, but the government, leaving nothing to chance, had sent out an urgent whip.

It was known that the policy of the Allies was to retain the Turk on the Bosphorus, but under stringent regulations and though the labor party have decided to throw in their lot with "the bag and baggage" party, notwithstanding that one of their own advisory committee advised differently, the balance of reasoned opinion, both in the debate and outside the house, is undoubtedly with the government, and after a long discussion the motion was talked out.

AMERICAN DELAY CAUSED SOME LOSS

Great Britain May Submit Claim for Loss in Holding Back Liner Imperator.

London, Feb. 27.—The delay in the sailing of the former German liner Imperator under the British flag came up in the House of Commons yesterday. Answering a parliamentary question whether the delay with respect to British steamships such as the Imperator and constant loss to British companies had been caused at New York or other American ports, Andrew Bonar Law, in a written reply, said that considerable loss had been caused the British Government by the retention of the steamers in question after completion of the American services in which they were engaged.

Representations had been made to the United States Government by the Ministry of Shipping and the question as to whether a claim should be submitted was being considered.

NATIVES PLUNDER STRANDED VESSEL

Goods of Considerable Value Disappear from the Stranded Canadian Recruit.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Quebec, Feb. 27.—Despatches reaching here from Tadousac state that the steamer Canadian Recruit, which has been high on the rocks at Vache Pointe since December, has been plundered during the winter and goods and effects of considerable value have disappeared from the ill-fated vessel.

When the depredation was discovered the Federal police were put on the case and after an exciting chase they arrested a farmer, whose home is at Saint Firmin, and discovered a quantity of the stolen goods.

WILD DOGS DESTROY AUSTRALIAN SHEEP

Washington, Feb. 27.—Depredations by packs of wild dogs are causing Australian sheep owners heavy damage, according to official reports received here. Fifty thousand sheep were killed within a few months in New South Wales alone. Sheep ranchers want the Government to build a "dog proof" fence to isolate a district of almost forty square miles.

ITALY SHOWS FINE SPIRIT OF CONCILIATION

Premier Nitti Gives Agreeable Proof of His Moderation Over Adriatic Question.

CONSENTS TO ENTER FRESH NEGOTIATIONS

President Wilson Asked to Use Good Offices to Facilitate an Agreement.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, Feb. 27.—Premiers Lloyd-George and Millerand were able to quickly reply to President Wilson's note relative to the Adriatic, through the action of Premier Nitti, who, anxious to give proof of his moderation, consented to enter into fresh negotiations with M. Trumbitch, Jugo-Slav Foreign Minister, says Pertinax," political editor of the Echo de Paris.

The British and Italian Premiers, therefore, hastened to make known this new Italian concession to Mr. Wilson, begging him to use his good offices to facilitate an agreement.

The Supreme Allied Council also considered yesterday morning the answer to the observations made by the Hungarian peace delegation to the treaty submitted to that country by the Entente, "Pertinax" concludes. The Council, he understands, maintains the treaty terms in their essentials, particularly clauses relating to territory.

Indicted on Charges Of Profiteering

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 27.—Four of the city's leading firms were indicted on charges of profiteering yesterday. Two are retail concerns, one a shoe company and one a clothing manufacturing company.

MATERNITY CASES CARED FOR FREE

Hospital Committee at Calgary Working Toward Free Treatment for All.

Calgary, Feb. 27. — All maternity cases will hereafter be cared for free of cost at the general hospital. Under the present system school children may have their tonsils cut of adenoids removed and spend 24 hours in the hospital at a cost of fifty cents.

"The hospital committee is working towards an ideal of free treatment for all," declared one of its members, "but is not in a position yet to go that far."

HUGE TANK OF TAR EXPLODED IN FIRE

Two Firemen Lost Their Lives and Seven Others Seriously Burned at New York.

New York, Feb. 27.—Two firemen lost their lives and seven others were seriously injured last night during a fire in the Nassau plant of the Brooklyn Union Gas Company on the East River waterfront. They were burned when a huge tank of tar exploded, hurling the blazing liquid about them as they were fighting the flames.

French Railroad Strike is Serious

Work Ceases on Nearly Every Railway Line Out of Paris

REQUISITION AUTOMOBILES

National Union of Railwaymen Reproves the Workers for Stiking.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, Feb. 27.—Railroad men at the eastern station in this city ceased work at seven this morning and the strike situation became worse at the northern station. Railroad service to suburban points was still further diminished, with the exception of the line on the right bank of the Seine to Versailles. Railroad workers at Nice have struck, according to reports.

Decision was reached by the French cabinet this morning that the Minister of Public Works would ask the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon to discuss a bill authorizing the requisition of automobiles if railroad traffic is interrupted by the strike.

Governmental intervention in disciplinary measures taken by the Paris, Lyons and Mediterranean Railway Company toward its employees is opposed by Premier Millerand, who arrived here yesterday and at once plunged into consideration of the strike situation.

Workers Confer with Premier.

Delegations of railway workers' unions conferred with the Premier yesterday afternoon relative to some action which would bring about a reconsideration of the dismissal of a workman named Campanaud, which caused the big walkout, but the best M. Millerand could do was to advise the men to submit their case to arbitration. In the meantime the railroad company has dismissed 250 strike leaders, in addition to Campanaud.

The executive committee of the National Union of Railwaymen last evening issued an appeal to the railroaders asking them to remain at their posts and not to follow the strike movement, which "is clearly of a revolutionary character," in order to insure the revictualling of the city.

"It is incredible," says the appeal, in conclusion, "that after a five years' struggle against the enemy the railroad men would be the promoters of civil war."

WAY TO REDUCE COST OF LIVING

The Development of Technical Education Advocated Strongly by Prof. Gill.

Toronto, Feb. 27.—By the development of technical education the cost of living could be reduced, Prof. Gill, director of technical education for the Dominion of Canada told members of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association at a luncheon at the King Edward Hotel here yesterday. To ensure the success of technical education it was necessary for the government to have the continued support of both manufacturers and labor throughout the country.

THE ST. LAWRENCE CHANNEL PROJECT

Toronto, Feb. 27.—Toronto and other cities in Ontario will send representatives to Buffalo next Monday to urge upon the international point committee the deepening of the St. Lawrence river channels. The Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association is strongly supporting the scheme of the St. Lawrence seaboard system and is co-operating with the Canadian Deep Waterways and Power Association in connection with the claims to be laid before the international joint commitee at Buffalo.

U. S. AVIATORS KILLED.

Panama, Feb. 27.—Lieuts. Foreman and Vaughn, two United States army aviators, carrying mails, were killed yesterday when their plane crashed from a height of five thousand feet at Agua Dulo.

DID NOT SEE WILSON.

New York, Feb. 27. — Mohammed Mahmoud Pasha, who came to the United States two months ago to present the claims of the Egyptian Nationalists to President Wilson, sailed for Havre yesterday, without having seen the President.

British Labor Wants Mines Nationalized

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, Feb. 27.—The parliamentary committee of the labor party adopted a resolution yesterday that the trades union congress to be held March 11 take action to compel the Government to nationalize the mines. This may take the form of a general strike.

GENERAL FRENCH STRIKE NOT CALLED

Trouble Grew Out of a Disciplinary Measure, in Which Employee Dismissed.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, Feb. 27.—The executive committee of National Federation of Railwaymen after a long meeting issued a statement last night to throw responsibility for the continuation and extension of the strike on the Government. They declare that today will be the decisive day and will determine the attitude of the Federation and assert that the Government, which has all the necessary powers, can yet settle the dispute peacefully in the best interests of the country.

Premier Millerand, after a conference with a delegation of the Federation last night, announced that he understood that the railwaymen have a duty to stand by their comrades, but the Government also has its duty and it will do it.

The Premier added that he remained entirely at the disposal of the delegates, since a general strike had not been called.

The cessation in labor on the Paris, Lyons and Mediterranean Railroad was estimated yesterday to have reached 80 per cent.

Minister of Works Le Trocquer says the sole cause of the present conflict is the disciplinary measures of which an employee named Campanaud was the object, and not the question of wages, which was under examination.

LAND LAW REFORM IN GREAT BRITAIN

Important Measure Introduced in House of Lords to Simplify Land Laws.

London, Feb. 27.—The law of property bill introduced in the House of Lords by the Lord Chancellor is the most important measure of land law reform for the past 300 years and of mammoth size, containing no less than 178 clauses and 16 schedules, altogether 260 pages.

Its main object is to make the real estate and personal estate laws alike and to that end simplifies conveyancing without, however, abolishing the power to settle land on descendants or dispose of it under will.

DISORGANIZER OF DEMOCRATIC PARTY

WILL ABIDE BY TREATIES ONLY THROUGH FEAR

Famous French General Gives His Opinion of Present Feeling in Germany.

MILITARY FORCES ARE STILL NECESSARY

The Living Must Not Lose the Benefits Won by Those Who Fought and Died.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, Feb. 27.—During debate in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday on the time for calling the 1920 class to the colors, General Edourd de Castelnau, President of the Army Committee of the Chamber, declared that the first fruit of the victory over the Central Empires should be a reduction of the military forces, keeping with the colors only the number of men indispensible for safeguarding the honor and independence of the country.

"Germany will abide by the treaty only through fear of our military power," the General continued. "The living will not lose the benefits won by those who fought and died for France."

The chamber heartily cheered the General, who had three sons killed in the war.

Ex-Premier Briand followed General Castlenau and also spoke against a bill introduced by Paul Boncour, providing that only one year's contingent, about 250,000 men, be retained in the service.

The chamber rejected the bill of Boncour and adopted by a vote of 518 to 68, the Government's project.

GIVE GUARANTEE TO WHEAT GROWERS

British Government Gravely Concerned Over Decline in Wheat Production.

London, Feb. 27.—The Minister of Agriculture announces that the Government has decided to guarantee the wheat growers of the United Kingdom 100 shillings per quarter for their produce next year. The minister says the Government is gravely concerned over the decline in the wheat production of the United Kingdom, which is attributable to state control and consequent absence of a free market, the result being that almost any other crop gives the farmer a better return.

"What can only be sold to the Government at a maximum of 75 shillings a quarter, which was fixed in 1918,' says the minister, "but the equivalent of 76 shillings in 1918 is 95 now, and while the Government is only paying this sum to the British grower it is buying wheat abroad at between 114 and 135 shillings."

The minister says he hopes that before the harvest of 1921 Government importations and control of wheat will cease and a free market be restored.

BURGLARS GOT INTO WRONG PLACE

Suffern, N. Y., Feb. 27.—Two burglars entered the home of Mrs. M. R. Jones here Wednesday night, bound and gagged her, and then searched the house.

"Sorry, we must have got the wrong place," they apologized, and departed empty handed.

The Underwood Resolution

Fifty thousand dollars will be appropriated to the expenses of the proposed commission by the United States, if the Underwood resolution, which seeks to bring about the end of the embargo on the shipment of pulpwood cut on the Crown Lands of Canada to the United States, is accepted by Congress.

The following is the complete resolution as received by the Government of New Brunswick through the State Department at Ottawa:

Joint resolution authorizing the appointment of a commission to confer with the Dominion Government or the Provincial Governments of Quebec, Ontario and New Brunswick relative to the claims of the American interests now holding leases of Crown Lands acquired prior to the passage of restrictive orders in council of the said provinces:

Whereas, newsprint is a commodity of universal use and is indispensable in the educational process of modern civilization, and the paramount importance of a suficient production of newsprint to supply the needs of the press of the United States is a self-evident proposition; and

Whereas, practically the whole content of newsprint is composed of mechanical and chemical products of pulp wood, the suply of which in the eastern part of the United States is being rapidly exhausted by the growing demand, and the price of which is being advanced to unprecedented levels; and

United States Supply Is Threatened.

Whereas, the existing scarcity of pulp wood and its threatened total exhaustion in the United States has become a matter of such grave concern to the paper industry, the users and the manufacturers of forest products, the Federal Government, and the general public, that the Forest Service, the lumber and pulp and paper associations and the forestry authorities of the country are now formulating a broad and comprehensive national forest conservation and reforestation plan for early adoption; and

Whereas, prior to the year 1910 American paper producers purchased and acquired leases of Crown Lands in Canada for the purpose with the knowledge and consent of the respective governments of these woodland provinces, of cutting the wood on said leased limits and shipping it to their paper mills in the United States; and

Whereas, said leases by statutory provision conveyed to the lessees "all rights of property" to the wood cut on said limits, and American interests confident of their rights so conveyed to them, did invest large sums of money in building piers, dams, and booms, in the rivers flowing through their limits and in the erection of taking-out, wood-preparing, and shipping plants, and for many years, to wit, from about 1890 to 1910, particularly in the province of Quebec, did cut the wood on said limits and ship it to their mills in the United States in large quantities, with full knowledge and free consent of the Provincial Government, and in strict accordance with "all rights of property" to them by statute conveyed, and during the same period did pay to the Provincial Government all prescribed fees and rentals; and

Whereas, in the year 1910, the Lieutenant Governor of Quebec in council did issue an order prohibiting the exportation of pulp wood cut from Crown lands unless manufactured into lumber, pulp, or paper, thereby invalidating the rights of property by statute conveyed, and doing grevious and irreparable injury to said American interests by making valueless their large investments in river improvements and wood-preparing and shipping plants, and by depriving said American interests of the wood to which they had been conveyed all property rights; and

Whereas, said American interests did acquire and now hold leases of approximately ten thousand square miles of Crown lands in the Province of Quebec, being but 5 per centum of the wooded area of said province, on which they have regularly paid all prescribed fees and rentals, which said area contains standing pulp wood estimated to aggregate about thirty-two million cords, the annual growth and increment of which is estimated to amount to about one million two hundred and eighty-thousand cords, or if available for the use of American interests which own the leases of said ten thousand square miles of woodlands, sufficient in annual yield to relieve the present scarcity and prevent threatened exhaustion of pulp wood in the eastern part of the United States, to lower the cost of the raw material of the American newsprint industry, and to stabilize the price of newsprint paper to the consumer, besides accuring an additional supply of raw material that would justify investments for increased production and affording the relief needed while awaiting the results of a national policy of forest conservation and reforestation; and Want Raw Materials.

Whereas, the press of the United States, through its national organization, the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, has adopted resolutions urging such action by Congress as will restore the property rights of American interests to the wood on their leased limits in Canada, and particularly on the ten thousand square miles of Crown land limits in Quebec, by them leased, and thus provide the raw material needed by American mills; and

Whereas, similar restrictive orders in council are in effect in the Provinces of Ontario and New Brunswick; now therefore be it

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that the President of the United States be, and he is hereby, requested to appoint a commission of five and by appropriate authority, to confer on this commission the right, on behalf of the Administration and the Congress to present to the Dominion Government or the Provincial Governments of Quebec, Ontario and New Brunswick, as may be proper, the claims of the American interests now holding leases of Crown lands acquired prior to the passage of the several restrivitve orders in council of the three provinces aforesaid, and to negotiate with said Dominion Government or with said Provincial Governments, the cancellation of said restrictive orders in council as they apply to Crown land leases acquired by American interests prior to the passage of said restrictive orders.

Sec. 2. That in the event the cancellation of said restrictive orders in council can not be agreed to by mutual arrangement of the Governments of the United States of America and the Dominion of Canada, that said commission shall investigate, consider and report to the Congress what action should be taken by the Congress that will aid in securing the cancellation of said restrictive orders in council, or their modification so that they may not continue to militate against the interests of the people of the United States who are now affected by them.

Sec. 3. That for the necessary expenses of said commission the sum of $50,000 be, and it is hereby, appropriated from the moneys in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated.

RISK OF REDUCED FOOD PRODUCTION

American Agricultural Authorities Issue Warning as to Conditions in Country.

Washington, Feb. 26.—Warning that serious risk of reduced food production impends because of high wages demanded by farm laborers, high cost of farm equipment and supplies, and pronounced movements of people from the farms to the cities, was given today by the Department of Agriculture, on the basis of reports and letters from all sections of the country.

"The most definite of these reports come from New York state," the department's announcement said, "where records of the population on 3,775 representative farms on Feb. 1 this year and Feb. 1 a year ago, were made by federal and state workers. It is disclosed that during the past year that the number of people on these farms decreased nearly three per cent and the number of hired men decreased more than 17 per cent. If the same ratio holds for all farms in the state about 35,000 men and boys left farming to go into other industries, while only about 11,000 have changed from other industries to farming. This is a more rapid movement from the forms to other industries than took place in the early part of the war.

"The same condition in varying degrees exist in all sections according to the federal bureau of crops estitmated, although they are not so acute farther from industrial centres.

"Another New York report, applicable in some degree in every part of the country is that farm wages this year will average 14 per cent higher than they were in 1919, although in 1919 they were 80 per cent higher than they were at the beginning of the war. Estimates from 350 farmers in all parts of New York state indicate that experienced farm help, hired by the month will be paid this year about $52 a month and board, as compared with $45.50 last year. Experienced married men, not boarded but provided with a house and farm products, are expected to receive on the average about $86.50 a month in cash as compared with $60 last year.

"Numerous letters to the department of agriculture from its field workers or from farmers indicate a widespread disposition to cut down plantings so that the work of cultivating can be attended to by the farmer himself or by members of his family. The assertion that farmers cannot pay the high wages demanded in competition with other industries and make a profit on their products is frequently made. Many farmers, also declare it is unfair to them to be under the necessity of working ten, twelve or more hours a day when the tendency in other industries is toward a shorter working day and decreased output."

JURY DISAGREED IN THEFT CASE

St. John, N. B., Feb. 26.—In the case of the King vs. Clarence A. Whipple, charged with stealing a parcel of raincoats from the C. P. R. before the County Court yesterday, the jury disagreed, with seven for acquittal. The prisoner was remanded to jail.

Before Judge Grimmer in Chambers yesterday, in the matter of Cluny Reid and John Chalmers Reid, infant children of the late James A. Reid, of Bathurst, the court made order for confirmation of master's report. Geo. Chalmers and Sarah McCurdy were appointed as guardians and allowance of $750 each annually was made for maintenance of the infants, to be paid out of the estate.

Sensational Rumors Over Board of Commerce Case

Probable Questions in House Over Resignation of Robson

MAN GADLY TO HIT AT BOARD

An Official Investigation by Government Appears Justified.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, Feb. 27. — There seems a probability that the spectacular resignation of the chairman of the Board of Commerce will be followed by incidents still more sensational, and if all the rumors afloat concerning the conditions which led up to it are correct, it might be well for the future of the Board, if it is to have a future, that the government should take some steps to clear the whole matter up.

As it now stands, there is every probability that the subject will be opened up through the medium of questions in the House, where there are numerous enemies of the Board who would be only too glad to hit it and certain members of its personnel, as has been done in the past.

Reasons for Resignation.

In an interview given to the press after his resignation, Judge Robson, the retiring chairman, gave as his reasons for abandoning the work of the Board that he was not in sympathy with the act, and regarded many of its features as incongruous in time of peace, but the Act was passed and the Board constituted after peace was declared, and Judge Robson accepted the chairmanship presumably with a knowledge of the work he was undertaking. Certainly, as a learned member of the Board, it is reasonable to assume that he must have read the Act which he was to administer, and it has not been changed.

But, further than this, the remaining members of the board assert openly that the reasons given by the chairman for his resignation is not the correct one, and although they will make no statement as to what the primary reason is, rumor assigns one which, if correct, would certainly justify, if not demand, an official investigation by the Government, if the board is to continue and to enjoy any measure of public confidence.

When asked the reasons for the resignation of the chairman of the board, the only answer vouchsafed by Sir George Foster, the acting Prime Minister, was: "Let it rest."

Whether the public and parliament will do this remains to be seen.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia to Overcome Trouble. Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of bisurated magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

Not Believed that Sugar Refiners Will Necessarily Increase Price of Commodity Because Allowed To

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

OTTAWA, Feb. 27.—An increase in the retail price of sugar may follow the abrogation of the sugar control by the Board of Commerce. Retailers recently pressed their appeal to the Board for permission to take a profit of three cents a pound instead of the cent and half allowed under the control. Now that the fixed price is abolished a rise would seem logical in the retail price.

On the other hand the attitude of the retailers is not clear, because it is understood that they have stated that they have never taken a higher profit than the cent and half a pound before the price was fixed and, in some quarters, criticism of the sugar control was accompanied by an assurance that the price of sugar would not necessarily have risen if the control had not been assumed by the Board.

Canada's Attitude Respecting Purchase of Securities Should Have No Adverse Influence

British Financial Journals Generally Endorse Stand Taken by the Government.

SOME COMPLAINTS AGAINST ACTION

Looked Upon as an Endeavor to Check Speculation for Exchange Profits.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

London, Feb. 27.—The Morning Post's financial correspondent does not endorse the market criticisms of the Canadian Government's attitude respecting the purchase of Canadian securities. While admitting facts put forward in the complaints against the Government's action, he says that as Canada has her own internal issue it is not difficult to follow her reasoning and it is pertinent to the subject to remember that while sterling is at a discount in Canada, the United States dollar is at a premium.

The London Times' stock market writer, who says he believes the embargo will remain in force until autumn, when another Canadian Government loan will likely be launched, gives as an instance the effect the present action on Montreal 4½ per cent, which recently stood at 95 and today is only 83.

The writer in the Financial News says that the action is dictated by the needs of the moment is not short-sighted and should have no adverse influence on the future of Canadian issues. It is designed to protect Canada from any aggravation of the exchange with New York and to check speculation for exchange profits and retain money for home requirements.

DIRECTORS MUST BE CHURCH MEMBERS

Constitution of Y. M. C. A. Says Only Church Members Are Eligible.

A meeting of the provisional board of directors of the local Y. M. C. A. was held last evening to elect a board of directors for the ensuing year.

Owing to the storm only a quorum was present, and these members, after naming several citizens for nomination as directors of the Y. M. C. A., consulted the constitution to find that only "church members" were eligible for the positions. The meeting decided to get more candidates into line for positions on the board and hold another meeting to settle the question and get more names for nomination.

Short Courses Close Today.

Deputy Minister of Agriculture Bradt announced this morning that the short courses on general agriculture at Chatham and Moncton would close this evening. At Moncton 25 students were enrolled for the lectures, while at Chatham there were 22 students. The officials of the various branches of the Agricultural Department have given lectures on their special work. At the close of the courses a judging team of three members will be chosen from Chatham and Moncton to compete for prizes during the coming summer.

Fletcher Peacock, director of vocational education, left this morning for Milltown on vocational matters.

7 CENT FARES ON CALAIS RAILWAY

N. B. and Maine Public Utilities Commission Hold Joint Meeting on Matter.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

St. Stephen, N. B., Feb. 27.—At a joint meeting of the N. B. and Maine Public Utilities Commission, held here this morning, in connection with the matter of street railway fares, although the session is not over yet, it is practically decided that the seven cent fares will be continued as before, but the book of eight tickets for fifty cents will be discontinued, as the clause relating to this calls for the payment of these books in the equivalent of gold, and on account of the exchange many complaints have been made by the people of this side of the line, so that the clause will be struck out completely, and from now on it will be a straight seven cents fare.

Edward Miland, who was injured in an accident at the St. Croix cotton mill yesterday, was reported as doing well this morning.

OBLATE FATHER DIED TODAY

Ottawa, Feb. 27.—Rev. Father H. Perrault died in Hull yesterday afternoon following a lengthy illness. He was in his 60th year and had been with the Oblate Fathers, Hull, for the past three years. He was a native of Montreal, being ordained about twenty-five years ago.

CANADA CANNOT YIELD HER PLACE

People of Canada Keenly Aroused Over Objections Taken by U. S. Senators

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York, Feb. 27.—The New York Times this morning prints a letter from Geo. M. Wrong, Professor of History in the University of Toronto, in which Canada's position in regard to the League of Nations is clearly set forth and forceful argument is presented in support of the contention that the Dominion cannot yield her place to satisfy any demands of the United States Senate.

Prof. Wrong, after stating that public opinion in Canada is keenly aroused in respect to the objections at Washington to Canada's vote as a separate nation in the League of Nations, remarks that the world at large has but slight grasp of the relation of Canada with Great Britain.

The letter reviews the political growth of the Dominion toward a full national life, which culminated in the experience of the great war and the latest step toward the organization of a Canadian diplomatic system.

"When this is achieved," says the professor, "the representatives of Canada will negotiate directly at foreign capitals with foreign Governments and Canada's national life, complete in domestic affairs, will be complete too as respects other nations.

"Canada went into the war of her own motion, and not through any urging from Great Britain. She herself decided the scale of her effort and paid its cost at the expense of a vast debt. Her troops remained a separate unit, although all the British forces were placed under a single generalissimo. Her representatives sat in the conference at Paris. During the conference Canada raised the question of her status as a distinct nation and insisted that this status should be recognized. It was at the request of the Prime Minister of Canada that a declaration was signed on May 6, 1919, by the President of the United States, the Prime Minister of France, and the Premier of Great Britain to the effect that no limitation would be placed on the right of Canada as a nation to be a full member of the League of Nations, quite independently of Great Britain."

Hun Generals and Admirals Accused of War Crimes Will Agree to Trial in Germany

Ludendorff and Other Prominent Leaders Express Their Confidence in the Fairness of a German Judge, Actuated by Principles of German Law.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Berlin, Feb. 27.—A number of prominent generals and admirals, accused by the Allies of war crimes, today issued a declaration which, while reiterating their refusal to appear before a foreign court, expresses the willingness of the men to go to trial before a German judge, in whose fairness they declare their confidence.

The signers of the declaration are General Ludendorff, former First Quartermaster General; Admiral Von Tirpitz, former Minister of the Navy; General Falkenhayn, former Chief of Staff; Field Marshal Von Kluck; Admiral Von Schroeder, and numerous other generals and admirals.

A German judge, the declaration asserts, will proceed according to German law.

"We will only submit to a trial conducted in accordance with these principles, but that now we know what the enemy accuses us of, we expect our trial will be immediately carried out for the preservation of the German and their own honor," the document continues. "We declare that we are prepared to answer full responsibility for all commands issued to our subordinates."

INVOLVE REVERSAL OF TREATY TERMS

Proposal that German and Austrian Governments Be Admitted to League.

London, Feb. 27.—In the House of Commons yesterday afternoon Mr. Lloyd-George was asked whether the Government would recommend to the Allies that the reparations commission shall be constituted as a commission of the League of Nations and that representatives of the German and Austrian Governments shall be admitted as members, so that the respective claims of justice and economic reconstruction may be reconciled and central Europe rescued from bankruptcy.

The Premier replied that the proposal involved a complete reversal of the treaty terms which he would invite the Allies to accept. He pointed out, however, that under the treaty the reparations committee would be able to allow Germany raw materials for the purpose of enabling her to meet her obligations, and there was a provision for Germany to appeal against the demands made on her. The Premier, referring to the importance of encouraging trade intercourse between Hungary and Austria, said the matter was being discussed by the Peace Conference.

The economic conditions of these states, he added, could not be settled in any peace treaty.

U. S. COMPROMISE RAILROAD BILL

Washington, Feb. 27.—The compromise railroad bill was returned to the White House today by the Department of Justice, to which it was referred Wednesday for an opinion as to its validity. The President was expected to act on it today or tomorrow.

BRITISH ENTERPRISE AFTER GERMAN TRADE

Cunard Line After Business Between Central America and New York.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, Feb. 27.—New York despatches telling of the work of the Cunard Line in the formation of a great British shipping enterprise, designed to capture Germany's former traffic in emigrants and freights between Central Europe and America, are featured in the London Daily Mail.

Before the war German lines, subsidized by the German and Austrian governments, were enabled to defy competition.

The Mail says the Cunard line is negotiating for the purchase of large dock space and sheds at Hamburg, formerly owned by the Hamburg-American line, and will open the new service with the liner Saxonia, which will include Hamburg on its next eastern trip.

BIG PURCHASE OF 3,000 TON SHIPS

New York, Feb. 27.—Purchase of ten standard 3,000-ton steel steamships from the United States Shipping Board has been announced by the Lloyd Royal Belge, of Antwerp. The ships which will be turned over as soon as they have discharged their cargoes in United States ports, were built in 1917 and are designed to make 9½ knots. The vessels will be divided between the Antwerp service on the line in the Baltic and that to Spain and Portugal.

HEART POLISH PATRIOT TAKEN TO WARSAW

Geneva, Feb. 27.—The embalmed heart of Thaddeus Koscieuszko, the Polish patriot, which has reposed in a bronze urn in the little chapel of Chateau Rapperswil, near Zurich, since 1887, is to be returned to Poland. It will be kept at Warsaw.

DECLARE KILBANE WITHOUT A PUNCH

Featherweight Champion Made Disappointing Showing Against Volgar.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York, Feb. 27.—Sporting writers agree that Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, has lost his punch. The fact was amply demonstrated, they say, during his match with Benny Valgar in Jersey City on Wednesday night. He got $8,500 for giving the demonstration, plus an extra $1,000 which he gathered in from Valgar when the Bowery French boy was found to have a pound too much weight on when he weighed in.

Kilbane has reached that stage of his career where he is content to block, beam and bank. He is still the smartest fighter of his time, but he can no longer wield the K. O. punch. It will be hard to find a man in his class clever enough to tie the Indian sign on him.

Intercollegiate Hockey League Now Tied Up By Acadia's Win From U.N.B.

Visitors Ran Up Score of 4 to 1 Before Red & Black's Overconfidence Was Gone--Minus Relief and With Several Players Below Form U. N. B. Team Cracked After Almost Overtaking Big Lead of Acadia Team.

Playing the most aggressive game and with the U. N. B. team disappointing their followers, Acadia came through in that fashion Acadia teams have of doing things and won last night at the Arctic Rink by a score of 8 to 5, thereby tieing up the western section of the Intercolegiate League.

It was one of the biggest upsets that ever took place in college hockey in the East, and it was the first time a U. N. B. team have been beaten at home in 10 years, but it was a well deserved victory for Acadia. The U. N. B. team were outplayed in two of the three periods, and had it not been for the phenomenal work of "Cotton-top" MacKenzie in their net the Red and Black team would have been hopelessly snowed under by a perfect avalanche of scores.

With overconfidence bristling in their every move the U. N. B. team made such a sorry showing in the opening stages of the contest that when the first period was about half over Acadia had a 4 to 1 lead and looked all the world like easy winners. With such an advantage to overcome the U. N. B. team cut a whirlwind clip in the second period, all but evening up the score. But the strain of the terrific pace proved too much, and in the middle of the final period the Red and Black defence cracked, Acadia getting a couple of more soft goals and putting the game on ice.

Some of U. N. B's Difficulties.

The U. N. B. team suffered, as they have all season, from a lack of second string players capable of providing relief for the regulars, with the result that players had to remain on the ice when it was evident the physical tax upon them was making it impossible for them to do their best. It also made it out of the question to pull out of the game any player or players who it was quite evident were not performing up to the expected standard, so that, in spite of the apparent weakness of the defence, there was no opportunity to better the situation.

The majority of the U. N. B. team played away below their real ability because they were practically swept off their feet at most stages of the game by the aggressive playing of the Acadia team who kept hammering away all the time while the Red and Black team—with cogs slipping continually—were aimlessly pushing the puck around from one place to another, frequently carrying it as far towards their own net as they did in the other direction. There seemed to be a different morale in the two teams; Acadia never seemed to let up in their one intention of slamming in just as many scores as they could accumulate, while the U. N. B. attack lacked co-ordination and at times was nothing short lackadaisical.

Acadia Well Balanced Team.

Acadia didn't uncover any hockey marvels and the game was depleted of sensational or even spectacular hockey, although it was what might be termed by the old familiar phrase of fast and furious every once-in-a-while. There were no outstanding players because Acadia's team is a well balanced organization of pluggers, some of whom are just as awkward as they are effective, and U. N. B.'s stars were not there with their usual wares. The most thrilling performance of the evening was that given by McKenzie in the U. N. B. net, for how he managed to stop the shots when not one or two but three and sometimes four Acadia players broke away, got past Jewett and encircled Shea was more than seemed within the range of human possibilities. If the Campbellton boy had been able to stand up a little longer under the strain it might have eased off that indominatible spirit which again carried Acadia through to victory.

In Capt. Dave Rogers, as stocky and almost as short as his rival captain, and Beardsley the Acadia team had a couple of wings who gave Billy Lounsbury and Burgess a busy evening; in fact it looked as if the Acadia pair had the better of the work on the boards. Tingley is ungainly but he has a wonderful reach and in addition to being an effective scorer he had a bit more speed than Flett and was thus able to outplay him by a share. Parker, Fraser and Berton, who were used on the Acadia defence, all showed ability to check as well as to rush the puck, and that was where they had it on Jewett and Shea, neither of whom seemed to have the proper basic instructions about how to go about breaking up a rush, with the outcome that Acadia had no trouble in getting within scoring distance of U. N. B.'s net almost every time they got away. Steeves in the Acadia goal, evidently remembering his experiences at Wolfville, stuck in his net throughout the evening and, although not as busy as McKenzie, played a good game, too.

In spite of storm conditions more than 1,200 people watched the games, the biggest crowd ever to see an Intercollegiate Hockey League game here, and U. N. B. had some organized cheering with Major Roland Barnes, M. C., as cheer leader. Frank Brown, of Moncton, was the referee and found it one of those games that are difficult to handle. He kept the players well in hand at times when it looked as if they were about to break loose with some rough stuff, but he nabbed the wrong players several times for offences and it is doubtful if at much less expense the services of an equally efficient and disinterested official might not have been obtained right in Fredericton.—J. D. B.

DAL. PLAYERS SUSPENDED.

Halifax, Feb. 26.—The Halifax G. W. V. A. hockey team will leave tomorrow night for St. John's, Nfld., to play the star team of that city, "Coke" Cahill, the crack player of the local vets, who recently went to St. John's, will probably play for the Halifax team.

Hugh McKinnon, of the Dalhousie hockey team, has been suspended "pending investigation" of charges of professionalism preferred against him. Word to this effect was received yesterday from A. W. Covey, president of the M. P. A. A. U., St. John, who also reaffirmed the suspension of McEachern and MacNeill, of the Dalhousie sextette, whose standing will likewise be probed.

U. N. B.-Acadia Play Off

U. N. B. and Acadia will probably play off the draw in the western section of the Intercollegiate League early next week at either Moncton or Amherst.

While the Acadia team wanted to play the deciding game on their present trip, stopping off at one of the places mentoined until Saturday night for the purpose, the U. N. B. management after the disappointing showing of their team last night naturally refused to agree to any such arrangement.

Manager McWilliam of the U. N. B. team advised Acadia last night that there could be no decision from U. N. B. on the matter of a playoff until the hockey council met, which would probably be some time today, but as there seemed no chance of having their wishes carried out the Acadia team left for home by C. P. R. this morning.

It is expected the outcome of the negotiations will be that U. N. B. and Acadia will play at Moncton on Tuesday night and that on Thursday the winners will play the eastern section winners for the Intercollegiate Hockey League championship and possession of the Brown Trophy. The present standing of the western section of the league follows:

	GAMES Won	GAMES Lost	GOALS For	GOALS Against
U. N. B.	3	1	24	13
*Acadia	3	1	21	13
*Mount Allison	0	4	8	27

*Mount Allison forfeited to Acadia.

Detailed Story of the Play

It was not much after eight o'clock when Referee Frank Brown, after tieing down the sides of the nets and supplied with an exceptionally weak-lunged whistle, for the game started, but play was scarcely under way before Tingley drew the first penalty for tripping Jewett.

Then Burgess secured the puck near centre ice, but his shot was stopped at the nets by Stevens and on the rebound Lounsbury sagged the net for the first goal for U. N. B. Following the face-off the Acadia forwards carried the puck into U. N. B's territory and took several shots which were warded off successfully by McKenzie. Play then went to the Acadia end, where Parker broke away and passed to Beardsley, who, getting by Shea at point, beat McKenzie out with a fast shot. After the face-off play rushed to the U. N. B. nets again and from a mix-up in front of the nets Tingley shot one in off Shea's skate. Twenty seconds later Tingley repeated the trick, shooting into the nets through both Jewett and Shea. Parker scored Acadia's fourth goal after a long rush. Towards the last part of the period the U. N. B. team seemed to pick up and shot several fast ones at Stevens, which he warded off successfully. Just before the whistle blew Jewett and Burgess worked a pretty piece of combination in front of the Acadia nets, only to lose the shot when Stevens proved a stone wall. The period closed with the puck in play at centre ice, the two centres having been banished for continued offside play.

U. N. B. Almost Evened Up.

In the second period forty seconds after the beginning of play Lounsbury secured the puck from a face-off and lined it by Steeves in goal for U. N. B's second score of the game. Then Rogers got away and passed to Tingley and the latter shot for goal, only to be stopped by Shea. The latter stopped the puck and while attempting to shoot it away from the nets, put it into the hands of Tingley, who tapped it in. Five minutes later Burgess scored again for U. N. B., after U. N. B. had bombarded the Acadia net with a number of shots.

Lounsbury, after carrying the puck to the Acadia nets had lost it and Burgess scooping the disc out from behind the nets, rounded the goal and shot it in from the other side. From the face-off the puck was rushed to the Acadia nets again and from a mix-up in front of the goal Flett scored, making it 5 to 4. The last eleven minutes of play during the period were scoreless, both sides fighting hard to gain more goals. In one rush by Lounsbury and Burgess, Steeves, the Acadia goal-tender, was knocked off his feet but managed to keep the puck out of the nets. Several pretty passes were worked by the Acadia forwards, giving them clean ice between them and McKenzie, but the shots were all warded off. The period closed with Burgess and Lounsbury rushing the puck at centre ice. In this period Mason and Burton replaced Beardsley and Rogers working well in relieving the two wings.

During the first thirteen minutes of play in the final period the game was fast and furious, first one side and then the other taking possession of the puck and carrying it to their opponents' nets. Rogers for the Acadia team and Burgess for the U. N. B. team starred in rushes, both these players carrying the puck the length of the ice, only to lose out on the shots. Finally Rogers secured the puck near centre ice and passed to Beardsley. McKenzie was alone with nothing to do but leave the nets to stop the rush and Beardsley passed to Rogers, who sagged the nets for Acadia. One minute later Barker at point for Acadia, secured the puck and rushed the length of the ice, putting it by McKenzie, who had no defence to help him out. For four minutes the play was close until finally Burton, who had replaced Fraser, after a long rush, made the tally 8 to 4. Flett secured the last goal of the game when he annexed the puck near centre ice and worked his way to the Acadia nets for U. N. B's fifth score. The game ended with the score standing 8 to 5 in favor of Acadia.

Fredericton Hockey Club's Meeting Didn't Come Off and "Rebellion" May Be Fixed Up

Believe Difficulties Can Be Patched Up to Satisfaction of Everybody—Exhibition Game for Fredericton-Marysville Combination With Moncton or Sussex Likely.

The meeting of the Fredericton Hockey Club, which was scheduled for last night at the Barker House, did not take place and is now on for Saturday night.

President Sandy Staples and Capt. Titus of the Fredericton team had an informal talk between periods of the intercollegiate game at the Arctic Rink last night and it is not unlikely that the "rebellion" of the players will eventually be patched up to the satisfaction of everybody.

It is also expected that by Saturday night the U. N. B. players who have been figuring on the Fredericton team will know when they will be through with their college games and ready to get away for the trip to the North Shore. There doesn't appear to be any chance of that trip coming off before week after next.

Exhibition Game Next Week.

Meanwhile arrangements have just about been completed for a Moncton team to come here next week to play a combination team of Fredericton and Marysville players, in which Marysville will predominate. Manager George Beatty of the Arctic Rink has been in communication with the Moncton people and the game will be played here on Tuesday night if the amateur authorities will sanction the contest.

A good many of the local fans have been interested in the suggestion that efforts be made to bring the Sussex team here and if Moncton's Eastern League outfit are not available there is no question Sussex would be a greater drawing card than a local league combination from the railway town.

Munitions in Ottawa, Falcons at Winnipeg and Parkdale of O. H. A., Winning Their Group Titles.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Ottawa, Feb. 27. — The Munitions hockey team, of the City League, defeated Wanderers last night by 5 to 1 and thus qualified to represent Ottawa in the amatur hockey finals, winning by the round on the score of 6 to 1.

Munitions will meet the winners of the Brockville-Pembroke series Monday and Wednesday nights and the survivors will go to Montreal on Friday next to play in the Allan Cup elimination series.

The Winnipeg Honors.

Winnipeg, Feb. 27. — Outclassing their opponents in nearly all departments of the game, the Falcons, champions of the Manitoba league, defeated the Winnipegs, winners of the Winnipeg League 5 to 0 here last night in the first game of two to decide the Manitoba championship and the right to figure in the Allan Cup elimination series.

Argonauts' Final Bow.

Toronto, Feb. 27.—Argonauts made their final bow of the hockey season here last night, when they lost to Parkdale Canoe Club in the O. H. A. senior fixture by 8 to 1.

Parkdale, by last night's victory, qualifies for the play off games to decide the group title.

A New Method of Treating an Old Complaint

FROM THE PEOPLE

LOCAL LABOR STATISTICS.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Of recent date you published the announcement in your newspaper to the effect that the Labor Union here had issued an order that the carpenters and masons, etc., of this city were to charge a higher schedule of wages for work done by them on and after May 1st, 1920; will you kindly have the information published in your publication whether or not the Labor Union are to allow the inexperienced or an incompetent workman to demand and receive as much pay or compensation as an experienced and competent workman or tradesman? Now that the war has terminated, I feel that in common justice to the general public, who have to pay the bills for the work that is done for them, that they get good value for the cost of labor they employ; and, further, I feel that as this increase in wages is to be charged by the carpenters and plumbers and masons, etc., on May 1st next, is said to be brought about on account of the increased cost of living; that the people who employ the tradesmen concerned should be able to know if the Labor Union have scheduled the wages to be paid to their men according to value of the work they can produce, and if not, why not have them do so, for if the workmen are not graded according to their qualifications, then in many cases, it will cost as much to pay for botch work manship as it would for the work done by the experienced and competent tradesman, which, to my way of thinking, would be and is very unfair and to say the least, unjust. The Labor Unions are authorized by law; could there not be some way of having legislation passed whereby the wages paid to tradesmen could be graded according to their qualifications, and thereby protect the public?

Yours respectfully,
CITIZEN.

Fredericton, Feb. 21, 1920.

HE'D BE IN A HOLE.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Scientists have settled the fact that the earth is round, but what I would like to know is this: Supposing that I were able to dig a hole through the earth and that then I should jump in, would I come out on the other end feet up, when all the rest of the people would be walking the same as ever? How could I "fall up" and what would stop me when I got to the other end?

Seriously, what is the answer?

Yours,
ENQUIRER.

THIS SOLDIER IS AGAINST BONUS.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—What party of men are pushing this bonus affair? We went to war because duty called; we are not mercenaries as "bonus criers" would like us to be. Canada did all possible for us; the folks at home stood by us. We were begrudged even to buy our tags but begged them.

Should we men be of such a stamp as to demand a bonus of our country? Are we not falling into the hands of our enemies if we follow those, asking, yea, demanding a bonus?

Awake, comrades! and let us show ourselves men and patriots like our fathers who fought without mercenary demands.

This from a soldier who fought.

Yours,
READER.

IS HE TRIFLING WITH THIS CHATHAM GIRL?

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I have seen how well your readers often advise girls who write to your "From the People" column, and I would like their advice on the following problem of my own. It is this: Some time ago I met a man about 30; I am 20. Within a week's acquaintance he proposed to me, but I didn't accept. Later he proposed again and I did not give him any definite answer.

He is an out of town man and is here now again, although I have not seen or heard from him since he proposed the last time. But I know for sure that he is in town at the present time.

Would you have anything more to do with a man like that or listen to another of his explanations?

Will some of your readers kindly advise me what to do?

Yours,
ANXIOUS.

Chatham, N. B., Feb. 25, 1920.

A GIRL ANSWERS.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I would like a little space in which to express my opinion of Soldier Boy's problem. When a man gets himself into a tangle as he has done, and then talks about bolting, I think he doesn't deserve very much sympathy. At least he should have known what the honorable course was without having to appeal to the public for an opinion through the medium of the press.

If he hasn't spunk enough to own up to girl No. 2, I don't think he has enough in him to cause any honorable girl to give him a second thought, much less break her heart over him.

My advice is: Own up to girl No. 2, don't be conceited enough to imagine that she will continue to care for you after she knows all. Then bolt if you want to, and when you make good come back to girl No. 1, that is if you can keep her in mind two weeks after you leave her.

You certainly owe girl No. 2 a full and frank explanation, and then she will likely drop you as she would a hot poker.

"Experience teaches fools," you know, so * * *

Yours,
A GIRL.

Summary of Night Dispatches

Winnipeg, Feb. 27.—A Winnipeg newspaper announced yesterday that owing to the newspaper shortage, publication of advertising will be discontinued "until further notice."

Geddes as Ambassador.

London, Feb. 27.—It was definitely states in the House of Commons last night that Sir Auckland Geddes had been selected as British Ambassador to Washington.

Several Killed in Cork Fight.

Dublin, Feb. 27.—Two constabulary barracks in County Cork were subjected to prolonged siege last night. The assassins were finally driven off and several dead bodies of civilians were found, with one wounded, who said seven other wounded had been taken away.

Disapproved Price Fixing.

Toronto, Feb. 27.—A special despatch to the Star states Judge Robson declared he resigned from Board of Commerce because he disapproved of price fixing and profit restrictions in time of peace. Commissioner's O'Connor and Murdock express amazement when shown this statement.

U. S. Senate Reservation.

Washington, Feb. 27.—The Senate last night unanimously re-adopted Republican peace treaty reservation, under which no mandate can be taken by the United States without action by Congress.

'Flu Spreading at Montreal.

Montreal, Feb. 27.—A large increase in the number of influenza cases is reported here, these totalling 194, with 27 deaths.

Appoint Advisory Committee.

Toronto, Feb. 27.—Following up the ban on foreign held Canadian securities which went into effect yesterday, an advisory committee was appointed here yesterday to co-operate with the banks.

Can't Settle Illegal Strikes.

Winnipeg, Feb. 27.—Referring to attempts to settle the Winnipeg strike, Mr. Justice Metcalfe yesterday at the trial of the seven strike leaders, said that "the Premier of Manitoba, the Premier of Canada, the Governor General, has no right to try with anyone to make a settlement, if a strike be illegal."

MAYORALTY CONTEST FROM MARYSVILLE

Citizens Beginning to Talk of Prospective Candidates for Coming Election.

Marysville, N. B., Feb. 26.—The heavy fall of snow completely blocked the streets and sidewalks here, and it is with great difficulty that they are being cleared.

The main driving belt of the weave room of the cotton mill broke about 8.30 yesterday morning, and the weave room was down for the balance of the day while repairs were being made.

Three young men appeared before Police Magistrate C. D. Clayton at the Police Court charged with striking a woman with a snowball. They pleaded not guilty to the charge but admitted they were throwing snowballs on the public streets. The charge of hitting the woman was not proven, but they were fined $3 and $1.50 costs each. The fine was allowed to stand pending future good conduct.

Kenneth A. Faloon, of the staff of the Bank of Montreal, has resigned his position as teller in the bank here. He expects to leave for his home at Milltown, N. B., in a few days. Mr. Faloon intends going into commercial life.

Mrs. Hedley Stewart is quite seriously ill at her home on Water street.

Monday, April 6th, will be election day here for Mayor and councillors, and already citizens are beginning to talk of who will be the candidates for the mayoralty and council. It is said that Mayor Stafford will again offer and the name of a prominent councillor is also being mentioned in connection with the mayoralty contest. Several of the old councillors have declared that they are not going to offer again. There is therefore likely to be some excitement in store for the citizens.

FOR THE MEN

The Biggest Advance in Shirt Convenience Since the Coat-Shirt.

W. G. & R. were the first people to introduce the Coat Shirt to the men of Canada.

Here is an improvement equally as good and one that all men will appreciate. When the Double-Wear Cuffs are soiled, turn them and get extra wear before sending to the laundry.

You will find these cuffs just as neat either side, and the cuff turns without a wrinkle or bulge—that's the convenience and the difference.

W. G. & R. Shirts and Double Wear Cuffs can be obtained in Fredericton from

70 YEARS

Seventy years ago when our grandparents were young, they treated their colds and coughs, etc. with what was considered the reliable cough medicine,—

SHARP'S BALSAM

of Horehound and Anise Seed

Since then it has been the family remedy for coughs, colds, croup sore throat, asthma.

It was good for your grandparents and their children—it will do you and your children good.

IN MARCH 1852

Mr. M. Smith of Studholm, N.B., wrote—

"For sixteen years I suffered from Asthma, often being obliged to sit in bed to prevent suffocating. I tried all the usual medicines, but without effect, until I obtained some Sharp's Balsam (which was recommended to me), and after using two bottles, I found the relief so long sought for."

When you need a cough medicine ask for this famous old remedy. Sold at drug and general stores everywhere—25c.

TO-DAY

in medicines, as in every other necessity, the public is satisfied with nothing but the best! This explains the ever-increasing demand for Zam-Buk. Not only is this great balm the best household remedy to-day, but it is also the most economical.

Zam-Buk's superiority is due to the fact that it is all medicine, containing none of the coarse animal fats or harsh mineral drugs found in ordinary ointments. Again, the medicinal properties are so highly concentrated that they contain the maximum amount of healing, soothing and antiseptic power, so that a little of this balm goes a long way.

Another reason why Zam-Buk is most economical. It will keep indefinitely and retain to the last its strength and purity. Best for skin diseases and injuries, blood-poisoning and piles. All dealers, 50c. box.

ASQUITH VICTORY PROVES POPULAR

Will Take Over Leadership of the Liberal Party from Sir Donald MacLean.

London, Feb. 26.—All political questions are for the moment completely eclipsed by former Premier Asquith's triumphant return to Parliament by a majority the size of which astonished everybody, including his own supporters. The result is universally recognized as a notable personal achievement, even for a statesman with Mr. Asquith's long record, while the restoration of his presence and influence in the counsels of Parliament is held to be an event destined to have important consequences in the politics of Great Britain, and probably of the world.

Politicians of all parties talked of nothing yesterday but the possibilities opened by his active resumption of leadership of the Opposition, which, it is generally conceded, he will take over forthwith from Sir Donald MacLean, whose tenure has always been regarded as more or less temporary. It is understood Mr. Asquith will take his seat in the House next Monday, and he is assured a hearty ovation, if only on personal grounds, and will probably make his first speech next week during the debate on the second reading of the Irish bill.

Most newspapers heartily welcome the return of the great Liberal leader, even those who opposed him politically having good words for him. Their views as to the significance of his election, however, differ widely, it being variously declared to be due, among other things, to growing popular disgust with the coalition government, popular hostility to the Labor programme of nationalization, which Mr. Asquith emphatically condemns, and reawakening Liberalism. Among other causes submitted by the press as accounting for the former Premier's big majority is the vote cast by women, it being contended, on one hand, that women are afraid of the Labor movement, and, on the other hand, that they are irritated by the high prices which they are disposed to attribute to the present government. It is admitted that the energies of Lady Bonham-Carter, Mr. Asquith's daughter, substantially helped in gaining victory for her father, and it is announced that as a result of the revelation the election afforded her political ability, she has received seven separate invitations to become a candidate for Parliament, though she has as yet accepted none of them.

Hon. Arthur Meighen

THE OUTSTANDING FIGURE IN THE PUBLIC LIFE OF CANADA, SAYS THE WINNIPEG TELEGRAM—FREE TRADE, MR. MEIGHEN DECLARES, IS ENTIRELY UNSUITED FOR CANADA—PROTECTION THE ONLY DEFENCE AGAINST WALL STREET RULE OF CANADIAN FUNDS.

[Winnipeg Telegram, Feb. 19.]

Greatly daring, The Telegram indulged yesterday in forbidden prophecy, when it ventured the belief that in the Hon. Arthur Meighen, Minister of the Interior, the business men of Winnipeg would discover a man whose brilliancy of intellect alone would reveal him as the outstanding figure in the public life of Canada today; and the current comment of those business men after hearing him speak far excelled anything that this paper expressed as indicative of his remarkable powers. Mr. Meighen's address at the banquet proffered him by the Board of Trade dealt principally with the tariff as an implement of revenue production. The question has been before the people of Canada for weeks, maybe months, and is fairly launched as the one big issue to be decided in the national forum. The attitude with which the moderates of all classes in the country face the question could not be more brilliantly expounded than it was by Mr. Meighen. It is doubtful if there was one in his audience last evening who would declare this estimate to be exaggerated. His diction has that rare distinction which makes his public utterances as simply marvellous and as marvellously simple as were the famed speeches of Lord Rosebery at his best. When the tariff question is traversed by most men and many Ministers it slumps into an ineffable boredom; but to it Mr. Meighen has the enviable gift of being able to bring a clarity, a sequence, and a mastery in summary, comparable with that of Gladstone, possibly the only British Prime Minister who made a prose perfection out of a budget speech. But no matter how grandiose or pompous might be others' rhetoric, it is insufficient of itself to compel the unstinted attention of seriously minded business men. They need be given the facts and figures they demand before they determine any of their own commercial problems, and the national is very akin to the individual. The building of the argument has to stand their rigid inspection. They did Mr. Meighen the honor of not anticipating in his address in the first place those fulminations which are the wares of the stock politician; but they could not have realized the wealth of the material he had to submit. What he gave were the facts, like the diagnostician disclosing to the clinic the state of the body, from which inevitable conclusions had to be deduced. There may have been some who, in the spirit of the day, came to criticise; but they went away openly voicing the sentiment that Canada can find in Mr. Meighen a prime minister of the first magnitude.

It is well at the outset to get away from the common understanding that the tariff is a matter of figures, so complicated and bewildering in their array that they amount to a confusion which only confounds most people. This is wrong. As has just been suggested, certainly few men have an ability like Mr. Meighen's to define the tariff in its intimate relation to the men and women who live in the same street as yourself. So, for the nonce it may be well briefly to summarize the situation without bringing in the figures Mr. Meighen had to quote, except where to omit them is to create a hiatus. Regard the tariff question in the light of this preface, paraphrased, if you will, from Mr. Meighen's address. Every man and woman in the country knows full well that Canada has always imported many commodities from foreign countries, notably from the United States. The cost of those things has been great, totalling into hundreds of millions of dollars. Canada has to pay that amount of money to the countries from which she got the goods. But, in her turn, she has sent her raw materials and manufactured articles to some of these countries. To the extent that she made these exports she reduced debts she owed for her imports. Unfortunately, in the case of the United States, Canada has imported from that country hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of goods more than she shipped there. So Canada owes the United States much money, that is to say, the balance of trade with the United States is adverse to Canada. Of course, the sane and obvious way to reduce that vast and damaging obligation, that vast trade debt, is to buy less things from the United States, and sell her more of the things made in Canada. Instead of doing that, however, Canada actually has been, even as recently as in the last months of 1919, buying much more in the States than she has been selling there. So the rate of exchange does not improve. Or, as Mr. Meighen puts it, the Canadian dollar in the United States is only worth the number of cents the Wall Street financiers wish to pay for it. That is a humiliation for Canada. You see how it makes Canada a trade vassal to the States. And she must continue to remain so, just as long as she persists in buying more from the United States than she sells to the States. Now, from the tariff, which is a duty imposed on some of those goods brought in from the United States, together with what is known as the excise tax, Canada derives the greatest individual share of her annual revenue. The tariff, to summarize here, then does two things: It gives Canada most of her revenue and helps prevent the States selling goods for import into Canada. Mr. Meighen, speaking for the moderates of all classes, says that the tariff should not be taken off. He holds it needs regular investigation, so that it can be moderated if any injustice to the consumers, for instance, is being done by any industry. But he, as the moderates all declare, regards it as a fundamental necessity for Canada, to help stop the flow of United States goods into this country, and to produce the revenue so badly needed. But others, like the Farmers' party, to quote a specific body, want to do away with the tariff. What will that mean? What would be the result? Leave aside for the minute the loss of revenue to the country. Do away with the tariff and you make it easier for more imports to come into Canada from the United States. They will rush in in a flood. Won't that make the balance of trade even worse than it is, very much worse than it is or has been? And won't that place Canada, as Mr. Meighen said, quoting from the Montreal Herald, which does not favor the government of which he is a member—won't that place Canada in eternal servitude to the United States?

Mr. Meighen follows this line of thought. Why should Canada continue to place herself in servitude to the United States by continuing to buy more from the States than she sells it? Why should Canada import so much of what she has within her own boundaries? Why should she import millions of dollars' worth of wool from the States? Surely, as Mr. Meighen says, Canada can raise enough wool for her own consumption with profit to her own people. Why does she import so much iron? There is iron to burn in Canada, only awaiting a unified tariff policy supporting the Government to bring about the development of this natural resource. Why should Canada import so much meat from the United States? Surely the farmers and ranchers of Canada should be able to raise all the meat Canadians can eat. Why should Canada import so many million dollars' worth of chemicals yearly from the United States when Canada is the finest country of undeveloped chemicals known to the world? So the list runs on. Through the valor of Canadians in the war Canada stands today in a superb position in universal opinion. But while she was giving her blood and treasure the great Republic to the south was amassing wealth and gaining a prosperity which makes it almost a dictator in the world's finance, if not the dictator. It has become the most menacing, and is a ferocious competitor of Canada. The whole of a rich future, and a splendid national life, has opened itself to this young country. It is for Canada to throw off her servitude and to develop that which is her own. To stop buying goods where everything bought increases the adversity of her trade exchange. To retain a tariff which must not be allowed to work injustice upon any class, as has been said, by permitting unfair exploitation because of lack of competition. The country must have competition; but it should be fair. The industries of the country need this competition; but it must not be unfair to Canada's growing, and small, industries. So the tariff question resolves itself, in the discussion which will be heard from ocean to ocean, into the simple equation, whether you will retain your regulated tariff and prevent such an influx of imports as will stultify and even throttle the domestic development of all Canada's industries, or whether you will do away with the tariff, and so reduce Canada to such ignoble impotency that in her abject subserviency she will not longer be able even to expect her government to declare to the world, that if the United States dare to try to deny Canada her right to vote in any League of Nations of which she has a prior, a charter right to be a member, and in which she cannot be denied the right to cast her vote as she will; then, as the present government of Canada is proudly able to declare with the firm conviction that every man citizen of Canada is behind it, either the United States or Canada will leave the League of Nations, for Canada will not be a member where she shall not vote. May she always be able to take such a stand.

Hon. Mr. Meighen dealt with the tariff as a revenue producer will be dealt with tomorrow. It need not offer even the amount of confusion involved in this inadequate attempt to popularize the very explicit and clear reasoning of Mr. Meighen's splendid address last night. But since there are many who are bewildered with the intrusion of figures, these will in so far as possible be excluded, as they have been in this article. But as The Telegram had the courage of its conviction to recommend Mr. Meighen to the business men of Winnipeg last night, it now ventures to recommend to its readers' most serious study his very brilliant address, as reported elsewhere in this paper.

At one time snail racing was a great fad in Austria. Vienna had a fashionable snail racing club, where fortunes were frequently wagered on the ridiculos contests. Careful records of the time taken by the winning snails to crawl around the miniature race course were kept, in order that contestants might be properly handicapped in subsequent matches.

ARIZONA JURORS ARE WILD AND SHY

Searching Parties Scour Country After One Good Candidate is Shot.

Douglas, Ariz., Feb. 26.—It looks as if it will be difficult to get a full jury to try the "Red Rustlers," those accused of breaking the law because they put a lot of radicals, anarchists and other assorted I. W. W. members on a train one day at Bisbee and pulled the throttle wide open. Search parties have been scouring the country hunting for jury talent recently.

Several good jurors are needed at Tombstone in order to fill the box for the deportation trials. If there are any professional jurors in the East who are looking for jobs this State might pay their way here to facilitate matters.

It was thought that a good juror had been rounded up last week, but he is now in the hospital here, and the doctors are probing for three bullets. The man whose chances looked bright for the deportation jury was B. K. Lewis.

Lewis blames the unwritten law of the cattle country for his sudden elimination from the jury. J. F. Seals, cattleman, says that Lewis violated this statute, which refers to leaving gates open on the cattle ranges. Seals is under arrest, but that does not help fill the deportation jury. It is possible, however, that Lewis will recover from his injuries before the jury is full. If so he may be able to help out at the deportation trial. But it is a good bet he will not leave gates open again.

A statewide roundup of recruits who are eligible for jury duty in this trial will be started this week. It is known that several men who ought to have the makings hit the trail for parts unknown a few days ago, and an effort will be made to locate them. Even if the trial leads to the Majove desert the fearless jury scouts will keep up the pursuit.

Arizona has no desire to be known as the only juryless state in the Union, but deportation jurors are really as scarce this season as Republicans in Mississippi. Sheep-herders and hermits are not barred. Hard-riding deputy sheriffs last week by using relays of horses got two men on the range who are now proud occupants of the jury box.

RISING COST OF LIVING IN BERLIN

Milk and Sugar Cost Today Four Times What They Did Before the War.

Berlin, Feb. 26.—The cost of foodstuffs continues to rise in Berlin. Milk and sugar cost today four times what they did before the war; bread costs five times as much; and potatoes, butter, and oleomargarine cost nine times as much. Other items of food, which are not controlled by the Government food-card system, have advanced even more. Eggs, for example, cost thirty times as much as six years ago.

By police order, restaurants are closed at 11 p. m., and on certain days of the week no meat is permitted to be sold. Ersatz (substitute) coffee is served in the cheaper restaurants. Most of the population who can afford it usually take one substantial meal a day. Soup, red and white cabbage, black bread, and potatoes constitute the diet of many thousands; meat they have at intervals. Vegetables of all kinds are very scarce.

The prices of rooms in hotels have been advanced three times since November, 1919. December 1 a small room and bath in a second-class hotel cost 30 to 35 marks, plus the tax of 25 per cent., late in December the price of these rooms was raised to 45 and 50 marks, plus the tax of 25 per cent.; an additional tax went into effect January 7 amounting to 13 per cent., so that a small room and bath in a second-class hotel in Berlin now costs from 65 to 70 marks a day.

Soap is very scarce and expensive, and this, with the coal shortage and frequent strikes among the laundry workers, makes the situation of hotel proprietors and their guests, as regards hotel linen and personal linen, very difficult.

The police maintain supervision over hotels and restaurants, and bread, meat, potatoes, etc., are served only under the card system.

JAPAN A PATTERN OF CIVILIZATION

Toronto, Feb. 26.—Sir Edmund Walker, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, a member of the Japan Society of America, and honorary consul-general of Japan in this city, addressed the Canadian Club this afternoon on "The Far East" and urged that America should join with Japan for the welfare of civilization. He said that in the past fifty years Japan had advanced more in national importance than any people of modern times. Sir Edmund said that America should join Japan and open to European civilization countless millions of peoples.

Sir Edmund Walker said that Japan was bound, by the nature of her geographical position, to become, at least, the third greatest sea-power of the world. It was against the interest of the West to hold aloof from Japan, he declared.

The building of an adequate system of railways for China was advocated by Sir Edmund, who suggested that a committee representing the great nations of the world should undertake to build railways in China and manage them. The object would be to open up the vast trade possibilities that are now lost to the world. China might not desire it at first, Sir Edmund added, but might be induced to see the advantages of such a move.

DE LAVAL CREAM SEPARATOR

Here's why the De Laval is the cheapest machine to buy:

It will pay you in cream saved from $3 to $5 a cow every year over an inferior or half-worn-out cream separator.

It will pay you in cream saved from $10 to $15 a cow every year over gravity skimming.

It will give you a heavier and better cream, the kind the creameryman wants, the kind that gives you more skim-milk for your stock.

It will last two to ten times as long as other cream separators. Figure it out for yourself and you will see why the De Laval is the most economical.

And added to it all is the immeasurable satisfaction of owning a machine that "works like a charm" 365 days in the year.

We know that when we sell you a De Laval we sell you a machine you'll be proud to own. We sell them on liberal terms. Come in and talk it over.

Brilliant Pomp At House Opening

Floors of New Parliament Building Resplendent in Gold Braid and Bright Plumage---Eloquent Speeches Delivered by Sir George Foster and Others ---Message From King George--The House Adjourned Until Monday.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, Feb. 27.—The House of Commons opened yesterday afternoon with perhaps the most brilliant ceremonial proceedings Canada has ever seen.

In additional to being a legislative opening it also partook to a very large degree of a millinery opening, for such an array of fashionably dressed women was never before seen at any gathering in Canada. To be frank, the outstanding feature was the sartorial one. The new Commons chamber is so enormous in size that it admits of a great throng of people on the floors and in the gallery and ranged upon both sides of the floor of the House were hundreds of women with dresses fearfully and wonderfully made.

The members of the House seemed only a sprinkling of black in the midst of the serried ranks of colors. Here and there was a representative of our doomed band of knights in Windsor uniform, so stiff with gold braid that it would easily stand in a corner if placed there. The most resplendent figure of all was the Governor General, in a gorgeous uniform of white and gold braid, laden with decorations. On divans in the centre chamber were the judges of the supreme court in their scarlet robes. Anyone who had any right or title to wear anything which would distinguish him from the common herd, even if it was only an extra white cord for his eyeglasses, had it on.

Although the main attention was directed to the spectacular scene being conducted under the aegis of the Senate immediately after the official opening, the members of the lower House adjourned to the Senate quarters to carry on their duties. Most eloquent speeches were delivered by Sir George Foster, who again essayed an excursion into the French language with success, delivering in both languages interesting historical summary of the opening of Canadian parliaments, and Hon. Mackenzie King and Dr. Beland.

The different speeches delivered and the reading of the addresses by His Excellency were efficient to test the acoustic properties of the new chambers, which seem to be excellent. Indeed, the whole surroundings of the new Houses of Parliament are marked by such luxury and promise of comfort when all the details are completed that there would not seem to be much danger of this government being defeated before its time by men who, in many cases, will end their parliamentary career with the end of this Parliament.

Familiar Figures.

Past politicians, politicians with a past, and some who hope they still have a future, have gathered here either on business or pleasure bent. It was an interesting sight to see figures like those of Sir Robert Rogers and Sir Clifford Sifton sitting cheek by jowl, in both of whose breasts the embers of old political fires are known to be stirring.

Sir Clifford holds a watching brief for himself, and Sir Robert believes he is the Moses who can lead the Conservative party away from the Unionist wilderness to the promised land. Sir Sidney Fisher, also in Windsor uniform like the others, mingled with the throng.

One could not help wondering whether, if the farmers arrive in force, they will follow the example of Sir Oliver Cromwell and say, "Take away this bauble," but possibly not, because the farmer member for Carleton, N. B., was the only member of the House who wore full evening dress.

However that may be, there was no denying that it was a most impressive and magnificent spectacle. The Commons chamber in the new buildings, which was used for the occasion, owing to the fact that the Senate chamber is not completed, is a very large and handsomely finished room, and though still lacking the finishing touches, made a fitting background for the spectacle staged at this, the first ceremonial opening on such a scale since the war broke out.

At the conclusion of the formal proceedings, His Excellency held a reception on the floors of the House, when many hundreds in the evening dress which was de rigeur for the ceremony were presented to him. And the warmest handshake he gave to any was to a little nurse in war uniform, whom he detained for a word or two.

The Speech from the Throne.

There was little in the Speech from the Throne to invite comment. It was, in fact, the most barren document of the kind for many years. All interest now centres not so much on what the Government proposes for the consideration of the members as on what the members propose to do with the Government. Some time within a week there will be a Government caucus held, in which one of the chief subjects for consideration will be the memorandum presented to the caucus by Sir Robert Borden last session, containing suggestions for the basis of a permanent Union party.

That memorandum dealt with subjects imperial and economic, it mentioned railways and the tariff, as well as labor and all the other big Canadian problems.

The Government Caucus.

The coming caucus will discuss it, and possibly come to a decision upon it, though that is by no means certain. The desire for a permanent Union organization had begun to wane even before that memorandum was presented. It has certainly not increased since. Two more of the Liberal members, whose presence went to make up the Unionist character of the Government, have withdrawn for no other reason than that they felt their contract had terminated. The Government is now about three-fourths Conservative to one-fourth Liberal (to analyze it on the basis of previous political affiliations) and the sentiment in favor of a Unionist party constructed from the present material does not appear to be strong.

Message From the King.

After the opening ceremonies, the Speaker read a telegram from King George congratulating members "on this, the first occasion of their assembling in the new building, in the erection of which my son is proud to be associated."

The acting Premier, Sir George Foster, moved a resolution of acknowledgement. He touched upon the beauty of the new buildings in which parliament was again meeting.

Hon. W. L. MacKenzie-King paid a tribute to Sir George Foster and also spoke of the "impressive loveliness and vast architectural beauty of the new buildings," which he said were emblematic of Canada.

"Let us seek to make this noble structure a temple of reconciliation in all that pertains to our national life," said Mr. King.

Hon. N. W. Rowell tabled the treaty of peace between the Allied and Associated Powers and Bulgaria.

Hon. Charles Murphy asked Sir George Foster if he could make any statement as to when Premier Borden would return to his place in the House.

"I am not prepared to do so," said Sir George.

The House then adjourned until Monday.

Question of Leadership.

The question of leadership will certainly not be taken up at the coming caucus, nor until Sir Robert either returns or signifies that he does not intend to do so. The attempt made to choose a leader last December still carries its warning, and though it would not be very hard for a caucus of the party in the House to unite upon leadership, with the probability of the mantle falling on Hon. Arthur Meighen, nothing will be done in this direction at present.

Although the political menu appears at present to be a scanty one, Parliament always holds surprises in this way, and developments in the next few weeks will have to be awaited to see whether the session will be a dull or an interesting one. Those who like sensations are building their hopes mainly on Hon. Mr. Crerar and his band of embattled farmers. They are already asserting their rights as a party. They have criticized the seating arrangements, and the office of their leader has been brought down to the ground floor from the fifth, where it was placed by some innocent official, who apparently does not keep in close touch with current events.

COLD DRIVES DEER TO TOWN

Bedvidere, N. J., Feb. 25.—The extreme cold weather, with the heavy snow and ice, has driven the deer from the wilds of Pahaquarry and other points into the towns and villages of Warren County, where they seek shelter and food. Several of the animals have been seen near Belvidere, and one ventured into the streets here.

The farmers are giving the deer every possible protection, and in some instances deer are seen eating with the cows on the farm. There is some complaint of deer being killed by dogs in Pahaquarry township and other places.

VICTROLAS

Twenty years ago the talking machine was a triviality. Today the Victrola is an instrument of art. The exclusive Victor processes have lifted the playing and making of musical records into the realm of the fine arts and rendered them delightful to the most keenly sensitive ear.

Opera Singers and Musicians of world-wide fame are glad to be enrolled as Victor Artists.

The pioneer in its field, the Victor Talking Machine today remains the pre-eminent leader. The famous trademark, "His Master's Voice," with the little dog, is on every Victrola. (Look inside the lid and on the label of every Victor Record.)

It is your guarantee of the highest musical quality. Look for it. If you wish the best, buy nothing which does not contain this trademark.

There is a Victor and Victrola to suit everyone's pocket-book. Easy terms if desired.

PREMIER FOSTER AND THE PULP WOOD EMBARGO.

The Provincial Government, in its brief session of this week, had under consideration the threatening aspect of the Underwood resolution now awaiting the action of the United States Congress. The resolution more than suggests retaliation by the United States if the provinces of Canada do not lift the export embargo now effective on pulp wood cut on Crown Lands. Premier Foster did not say that the Government had settled convictions on the subject; he may desire, before making any announcement, to be assured that the other provinces will continue the embargo. He says, however, that New Brunswick will be represented if negotiations are actually commenced; and by this it is to be assumed that the Premier is aware of the fact that, in any such negotiations, it is imperative that each of the provinces interested be represented.

His only statement of interest has reference to a phase of the question which an experienced public man on this side would not introduce—at least not at this stage, if at any time. He believes it to be well to point out that "the American interests holding "leases on Crown Lands in this province took out their present leases "when renewals were made a few "years ago, at a time when they had "a full knowledge of conditions as "they exist today, as there was an "embargo in effect in this province "at that time, just as there is today." And to this he insisted on adding—let us say not, perhaps, designedly but thoughtlessly: "In that respect conditions so far as they affect New "Brunswick are different from other "provinces which have perpetual "leases." Here, in a controversy which may become serious and in which each of several provinces of Canada is equally interested, we have the suggestion from the Premier of one of the provinces, made absolutely voluntarily, that the position of the others is weak. And worse than that, in making such a statement he accepts as substantial, if not indisputable, the very ground upon which Senator Underwood based his threatening resolution. His imprudence adds another to the many awkward situations which he has unfortunately created. It is time that, in so far as each of the other provinces is concerned, the investment of United States' capital in the Crown Lands was made subject to the regulations of the department and to orders-in-council; and the authority of the province to place an embargo on the export of pulp wood is not disputed. The investors knew absolutely what they were subject to. But for Premier Foster to say, as he practically did say, that the position of the other provinces is weak because the embargo was imposed after the leases were executed and not, as in New Brunswick, before the leases were renewed, is to again adopt, no doubt unconsciously, an attitude too ludicrously out of proportion to serious effort.

THE FEDERAL FRANCHISE.

The measures foreshadowed in the Speech of His Excellency in opening Parliament yesterday are not many. The Franchise bill is the most important and will probably be the subject of much animated discussion. Neither the mover nor the seconder of the Address in Reply to the Speech gave any indication of the scope of the measure, but it is quite generally assumed that the Franchise will be considerably broadened, and that new machinery will be provided to ensure reasonable accuracy in the preparation of the lists of qualified voters. Hitherto the provincial lists have been used, not only as the basis, but as meeting the requirements; and until the War Time Elections Act was passed the provincial franchise and the lists prepared and, in some instances, manipulated by the partizans of provincial governments controlled in the selection of a Federal House of Commons. The War Time Elections Act will naturally, in the parlance of the street, now go by the board, and it would be unreasonable to expect, in the new statute to take its place, that the provincial lists and provincial agencies are to be made the dominating factors in Federal elections. There is no doubt that the measure will broaden the franchise, but we trust that it will have regard for reasonable qualification. The public are in a contemplative mood at present, and experience suggests that a suffrage extended without regard to the fitness of things, and incautiously, removes safeguards which, in a young country such as ours, we should maintain. A franchise with near age limitation is not advisable in this or any other country. Reasonable qualification should be a factor, and property or income should be the basis. Extend the suffrage to every British subject of the age of 21, male and female, provided that he or she be possessed of property or income to a fixed value. And, in recognition of great service performed, and as is due, give every man who participated in the war at the front, of whatever age, the right to vote. There would be prudence, safety and breadth in such a franchise.

THE PREMIERSHIP.

Winnipeg Telegram: "That the "Dominion government has for some "time been trying to settle who shall "be its new leader has been well "known to everyone in Canada, but "seemingly with the exception of a "few newspapers, which conspire with "characteristic density as to the clear "facts to impute to a necessary action "a conflict of ulterior confusions. "These organs, which have reached "an age at which they lack the vigor "to voice any sentiments other than "those which are to their own aggrandisement, do not yet comprehend the simple fact that because "of the illness of Sir Robert Borden "the government has to find a new "permanent leader. They obdurately "admit nothing, placing themselves "outside the pale of argument. They "cannot conceive that the unexpected "denouement to Sir Robert's anticipation of recovery placed his cabinet in "the surprised position of having to "select another leader. Men agree "that the situation was one of great "delicacy, especially when they recollect the high standard of quality "in the material from which the selection might be made.

* * * * * *

"Whose shall be the directing mind "is to be settled, and settled after "serious forethought and with sagacious foresight. The delay is the "best omen for the success which "Canada cannot risk in the choice to "be made. Some have said the future "will be entrusted to Sir Thomas "White; but his irrefutable refusal "to be considered was reported last "evening. Ottawa now declares that "the Hon. Arthur Meighen will be "chosen. He happens to speak here "tonight. It is the more appropriate, "therefore, that he should be at hand "for the close personal observation "of those who already may not know "him, to advance the estimate that "the public life of Canada holds no "brighter mind. He has a fearless "personality, which did not flinch in "pre-war days to translate into the "law of the land policies which were "claimed to be radical because he "brought them out of this west. He "sees the right, and does not quail "to do it. He has done so at times "despite the strongest opposition and "most bitter denunciation even from "supporters on his own side of the "House. This is a quality of courage "to display which needs the rare "power of conviction. Mr. Meighen "is young as men of cabinet rank go; "but his is the youth of an age "attuned to maturity in experience. "It is the youth in which Canada "has long been putting her trust in "all her advancing undertakings. He "is intellectually equipped above most "of his compeers, which is as it "should be in the Prime Minister of "this Dominion. He is strong in action, but temperate in decision; "which is the signal quality of leadership. He is of the west, which may "not be the least of his attributes "making appeal to the progressives "of the east, as it will find a natural "sympathy from his fellow citizens "on both sides of the Great Divide. "To any other nation not swayed by "the pettiness of fleeting partizanships which ruffle the waters but "never deflect the tides of Canada, "his selection as leader of the government would appear as a bright harbinger for this young country, about, "as the New York Tribune said the "other day, to blossom into its ripest "fruition, in which men now living "will see fifty million souls thrive "where less than ten million today "have achieved imperishable distinction."

CURACAO'S AMBITION.

The island of Curacao is ambitious to become a new St. Helena. The recent reports that the Dutch Government might intern there the former Kaiser have created much excitement among the inhabitants. Not that they have any love for Herr von Hohenzollern, but because he would advertise the place, bring tourists and boom business generally.

It is much to be doubted whether these expectations would be fulfilled even though Wilhelm were sent to the island. The former Kaiser is far from being a Napoleon; his place of exile would not be another St. Helena. What Wilhelm deserves is oblivion, and the world is willing to grant it.

Moreover, the Dutch Government would hardly permit its charge to become the subject of public curiosity, a rare zoological specimen. In short, Curacao's ambition seems doomed to disappointment, whatever may happen to the hermit of Amerongen.

ST. STEPHEN MAN GETS INTO TROUBLE

Taken from Train at Boston Yesterday Charged With Larceny Fur Coats.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 26.—Charged with the larceny of several fur coats, velour and stiff hats, with a sprinkling of ladies' expensive clothing, James Ray MacFadden, of St. Stephen, N. B., was arrested by Inspectors Eagen and Harrington, of headquarters, this morning, just previous to the departure of the St. John express from North Station. MacFadden, who claims to have been employed by the Todd Lumber Co., of St. Stephen, was seated in the parlor car of the train when the inspectors entered, and was certainly surprised at their appearance and mission. His trunk, or that which he had the check for, was secured on the baggage platform and taken to the station. The articles which he is alleged to have stolen were from the Arlington Hotel in the South End. The stolen articles were taken from the dining room lobby, the cafe and from the guests' rooms. MacFadden stopped at the Arlington Square for three days. He was held for a hearing and further investigation.

FELL FROM ROOF BADLY INJURED

Edward Highland of Calais Was Shovelling Snow from Roof St. Croix Mill.

St. Stephen, N. B., Feb. 26. — The Public Utilities Commission which was to sit here this afternoon in joint session with the Maine Public Utilities Commission in connection with matters of the St. Stephen and Calais street railway, did not arrive until 4 o'clock and the session will not be held until tomorrow.

While shovelling snow on the weave shed at the St. Croix cotton mill, Milltown, this afternoon, Edward Highland, of Calais, aged about 28 years, missed his step and fell to the floor, a distance of about thirty feet. He was immediately taken to the hospital where it was found that although no bones were broken he was suffering internally and late tonight his condition was considered quite serious.

One of the worst storms of the season struck here last night when about twelve inches of snow fell and with a strong wind blowing traffic was completely blocked. No Canadian Pacific train arrived here last night and no train left this morning. The noon train did not arrive until 4 o'clock this afternoon but got away tonight nearly on time. The Maine Central train due to arrive in Calais last night did not arrive until 11 o'clock this morning, and the noon train today did not arrive until 7 o'clock tonight.

NEW TOWN COUNCIL FOR HARTLAND

Hartland, N. B., Feb. 25—Hartland's Town Council for the year 1920 will be made up of the following:

Mayor —W. D. Keith.

Aldermen—E. C. Morgan, A. G. Baker, F. R. Kelley, G. O. Britton, Frank Acton, Dr. McIntosh.

A. E. Plummer, who so successfully filled the office of Town manager last year, will continue in the same capacity this year. E. C. Morgan was elected to represent the town at the county council.

A. Slipp, of Chatham, is registered at the Barker House.

P. A. Wilson, of St. John, is at the Barker House.

Mrs. J. B. Curtiss is confined to her home on King street through illness.

The Stock Market

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New oYrk (Wall Street), Feb. 27.—Gains extending from 1 to 6 points were made almost at the outset of today's stock market session by a wide variety of issues. The undertone suggested a more cheerful sentiment in speculative circles, due in part to yesterday's easier rates for call money. Leaders of the movement embraced General Motors, Studebaker, United States Rubber, Mexican Petroleum, Royal Dutch, American Woollen, American International, Baldwin Locomotive, American Car, Marine Pfd., coppers and several of the Western rails. The advance was well maintained throughout the first half hour.

ACTOR'S DAUGHTER WON HER HEARERS

Baroness Huard Closed Address on the French Woman With Impersonation.

Montreal, Feb. 26. — "Cherchez la femme," the familiar French proverb, is never more apt than when seeking the underlying reason for the unity of the French family and, emanating from that, the solid unity of the French nation, in times of stress, and the thrift which at all times characterizes the middle classes of France. Baroness Huard addressing the Montreal Women's Club yesterday afternoon thus summed up the influence of the French woman in national life. In its originality and variety Baroness Huard's lecture was delightfully refreshing as it digressed often into a series of character impersonations, the excellenve of which betrayed inherited taint from the speaker's actor father, Francis Wilson. The dual nationality of Baroness Huard was also apparent in her swift transition from typically American phrases to explanatory French sentences; expressing a subtle idea which could not be conveyed in the Anglo-Saxon tongue. The very large audience which had gathered in the Y. M. C. A. Hall, Drummond street, showed their appreciation of the originality of the afternoon's entertainment by frequent applause.

That the French woman acts as a pivot upon which the family life is hung was illustrated by the speaker, by a number of anecdotes, showing that from the arrangments of the dot before marriage when both parties to the contract make a frank statement of what possessions each is putting into the common purse, the husband and wife form a partnership to found a foyer, or in our words, a hearth or family, and the wife as a matter of course takes a vital interest and acts as advisory partner even in the business of her husband. The husband does not resent this intrusion but, on the contrary, becomes very dependent upon the advice of the wife and refuses to make ordinary decisions of business without consulting her. The woman on the other hand, has no inclination to wear the culotte, to seek to direct aggressively the affairs of the partnership, and also shows little desire to invade the domain of business and the professions on her own account. This was said to explain why the Frenchwoman has not sufficiently felt the necessity of the suffrage to ask for it, while even without her asking, there are signs that it will be soon offered to her as a reasonable measure.

Brains, Not Muscles.

The tendency of the French to develop mental resources while taking slight interest in physical exercise or the pursuit of sport was touched upon as was also their wisdom in retiring often on a competency in order to enjoy travel or the pursuit of a hobby, while still of an age to appreciate such pleasures. In conclusion Baroness Huard dealt with the Franco-American marriages contracted as a result of the American soldiers' long residence in France. Any of these unions which have come under the observation of the speaker have proved most successful, although, in several cases conversation was well-nigh impossible as neither could speak the other's tongue.

The recital of the courtship and marriage of a San Franciscan automobile mechanic with a typical little Parisian modiste given by the Baroness, with character impersonations of many French types and a faithful presentation of the big breezy American lost in the mazes of French marriage customs, from which he emerged successfully with the assistance of the speaker who, understanding the point of view of both nationalities, succeeded in reconciling their representatives to each other, closed an illuminative and most diverting address on contemporary France.

DETECTIVES' GUNS FORCE SURRENDER

Two Alleged Robbers Arrested in Auto—Valuable Furs Recovered.

Montreal, Feb. 26.—A brilliant coup was made last night by the Montreal Detective Department when, in less than an hour from the time it was discovered that the wholesale fur house of P. L. A. Lefebvre, 1 St. Paul street west, had been burglarized of nearly $10,000 worth of valuable skins, two men were before Chief Lepage at headquarters, confessing, it is said, to their complicity in the robbery, and $6,000 worth of goods had been recovered. The prisoners were headed north in an automobile when arrested. They were both armed with loaded revolvers and were taken only after being confronted with the levelled revolvers of Sergeant Mercier and Detectives Crowthers, Theodore Laberge and Pelletier. The prisoners give their names as Paul Morin, aged 33, and Leopold Begin, aged 36, both giving their addresses as St. Urbain street. The prisoners are said to have admitted to Chief Lepage, not only their guilt, in last night's robbery, but also in other fur robberies which have occurred recently and the recovery of much stolen property by the detectives is in prospect as a result.

Entry to the store was gained by means of cutting a hole through the plate glass door with a diamond, the square of glass being knocked out with a cloth-wrapped brick. This permitted the men to turn the lock inside and after entering they pulled down the shades and selected their loot. Constable Miles of the Central Police Station, passing on his beat at 8.20 p. m., discovered the broken glass and immediately notified his station and the officer in charge informed the detective office of what had occurred.

Chief Lepage organized the work on the robbery into districts, sending a squad of men east, west and north, while a fourth squad searched the centre. It was suspected that the burglars had made use of an automobile and the detectives were given instructions to carefully inspect all machines which appeared in the least suspicious.

Sergeant Mercier, with Detectives Crowthers, T. Laberge and Pelletier, who comprised the squad sent into the north, had made their way up St. Lawrence street and went along Sherbrooke street to St. Dominique. While there they saw an automobile containing a driver and two passengers, travelling north in St. Dominique street. They hailed the machine and the driver slowed down, although the other two occupants shouted at him to drive ahead. The passengers, who were Morin and Begin, made a show of resistance when the detectives boarded the machine, and attempted to get at their revolvers, but desisted when they found themselves looking into the weapons of the detectives. The bags of furs were found in the bottom of the auto and the chauffeur was ordered to drive to headquarters.

Seeing themselves caught with the goods, which were identified by Mr. Lefebvre, the owner, they are said to have confessed to having broken into the store. After a close interrogation, the chauffeur, who was called from his stand at Urbain street, was allowed to go. After dividing their booty the alleged burglars had called the auto from the stand, he being unaware that anything was wrong with the procedure.

GOMPERS FIGHTS A LABOR PARTY

Effect Can Only Be Disaster to Wage Earners, Tells Indiana Leader.

Washington, Feb. 26.—Formation of a political labor party would be "detrimental to the interests of labor and exactly in line with that which is most ardently desired by those who seek to oppress labor," Samuel Gompers declared in a letter to William Mitch of Terre Haute, a leader of the Indiana state Labor party, made public here today.

Mr. Gompers wrote in reply to a telegram from Mitch and his associates, supporting the action of the Indiana Labor party in opposing the political declaration of the American Federation of Labor, calling on organized workingmen to elect their friends and defeat their enemies. Mitch's telegram declared in favor of making the fight solely through a labor party.

Calls Claims Absurd.

"By what right," wrote Mr. Compers, "do you assume to declare the work and the policy of the American Federation of Labor to be impractical? Surely the results achieved in the interests of the workers demonstrate the utter fallacy of your assumption.

"By your declaration you assert the practicability of the course you declare you will pursue. What experience have you had with your political party upon which to base so absurd a claim?

"Forsooth, some men understand not only that which is charged, but the virtue which is proclaimed of political, financial honesty and dishonesty. Perhaps thorough investigation of political and financial virtue may be a proper subject of inquiry after a political party shall have been in existence more than a day.

"Of this one thing you may rest assured, that the day of reckoning is at hand for all those who are in antagonism to the cause of labor, and for those who are subtle and equally guilty, even though they clothe their actions in the robes of pretended friendship.

"When you shall have learned the lesson of the real struggle of labor and the cause for which our movement stands, you may become patient for the gross injustice you have done by your pretensions and your course.

"The effect of a separate political labor party can only be disastrous to the wage earners of our country and to the interests of all forward-looking people. The votes that would go to labor party candidates would, in the absence of such candidates, go to the best man in the field. In no case would they go to an enemy of laoor.

"There can be no hope for success of labor party candidates. The effect, therefore, of a political labor party will be to defeat our friends and to elect our enemies.

"Labor can look upon the formation of a political labor party only as an act detrimental to the interests of labor and exactly in line with that which is most ardently desired by those who seek to oppress labor.

"The welfare of American humanity demands that in this hour of national crisis there be success at the polls. This is no time for experimenting with political theories which are proved false at the outset. The workers of America must use the tactics of success. They must have results.

"Results will not be obtained by injecting a labor party, so-called, into the struggle.

"Those who are determined to be blind to the facts of the present and past will, of course, rush on to disaster and calamity. This the American labor movement will not do. It rejects and repudiates the fallacies of blind theorists and will have nothing to do with those treacherous follies that are suited only to the purpose of labor's enemies.

"Your telegram is an affront to the labor movement and an assault upon the interests of that great body of Americans who are determined that the present campaign shall result not in the destruction of our liberties, but in the opening of the way to national progress and the enlargement of opportunities for human welfare, safety and happiness."

FAMOUS TREE OF GETHSEMANEE GONE

True Knights of Faith

"The one is the Archbnshop of Bordeaux, Nigel, anl the other the Bishop of Agen."

"And the dark knight with gray-streaked beard? By my troth, he seems to be a man of much wisdom and valor."

"He is Sir William Fenton, who, with my unworthy self, is the chief counsellor of the prince, he being high steward and I the seneschal of Aquitaine."

"And the knights upon the right, beside Don Pedro?"

"They are cavaliers of Spain who have followed him in his exile. The one at his elbow is Fernando de Castro, who is as brave and true a man as heart could wish. In front to the right are the Gascon lords. You may well tell them by their clouded brows, for there hath been some ill-will of late betwixt the prince and them. The tall and burly man is the Capital de Buch, whom I doubt not that you know, for a braver knight over laid lance in rest. That heavy-faced cavalier who plucks his skirts and whispers in his ear is Lord Oliver de Clisson, known also as the butcher. He it is who stirs up strife, and forever blows the dying embers into flame. The man with the mole upon his cheek is the Lord Pommers, and his two brothers stand behind him, with the Lord Lesparre, Lord de Rosem, Lord de Mucident, Sir Perducas d'Albreit, the Souldich de la Trane, and others. Further back are knights from Quercy, Limousin, Saintonge, Poitou, and Aquitaine, with the valiant Sir Guiscard d'Angle. That is he in the rose-colored doublet with the ermine."

"And the knights upon this side?"

"They are all Englishmen, some of the household and others who, like yourself, are captains of companies. There is Lord Neville, Sir Stephen Cossington, and Sir Matthew Gourney, with Sir Waltor Huet, Sir Thomas Banaster ,and Sir Thomas Felton, who is the brother of the high steward. Mark well the man with the high nose and flaxep beard who hath placed his hand upon the shoulder of the dark-faced cavalier in the rust-stained jupon."

"Aye, by St. Paul!" observed Sir Nigel, "they both bear the print of their armor upon their cotes-hardies. Methinks they are men who breathe freer in a camp than a court."

"There are many of us who that, Nigel," said Chandos, "and the head of the court is, I dare warrant, among them. But of these two men the one is Sir Hugh Calverley, and the other is Sir Robert Knolles."

Sir Nigel and Sir Oliver craned their necks to have the clearer view of these famous wariors, the one a chosen leader of free companies, the other a man who by his fiece valor and energy had raised himself from the lowest ranks until he was second only to Chandos himself in the esteem of the army.

"He hath no light hand in war, hath Sir Robert," said Chandos. "If he passes through a country you may tell it for some years to come. I have heard that in the north it is still the use to call a house which hath but the two gable-ends left, without walls or roof, a Knolles' mitre."

"I have often heard of him," said Nigel, "and I have hoped to be so far honored as to run a course with him. But hark, Sir John, what is amiss with the prince?"

Whilst Chandos had been conversing with the two knights a continuous stream of suitors had been ushered in, adventurers seeking to sell their swords and merchants clamoring over some grievance, a ship detained for the carriage of troops, or a tun of sweet wine which had the bottom knocked out by a troop of thirsty archers. A few words from the prince disposed of each case, and, if the applicant liked not the judgment, a quick glance from the prince's dark eyes sent him to the door with the grievance all gone out of him. The younger ruler had sat listlessly upon his stool with the two puppet monarches enthroned behind him, but of a sudden a dark shadow passed over his face, and he sprang to his feet in one of those gusts of passion which were the single blot upon his noble and generous character.

"How now, Don Martin de la Carra?" he cried. "How now, sirrah? What message do you bring to us from our brother of Navarre?"

Tho new-comer to whom this abrupt query had been addressed was a tall and exceedingly handsome cavalier who had just been ushered into the apartment. His swarthy cheek and raven black hair spoke of the fiery south, and he wore his long black cloak swathed across his chest and over his shoulders in a graceful sweeping fashion, which was neither English nor French. With stately steps and many profound bows, he advanced to the foot of the dais before replying to the prince's question.

"My powerful and illustrious master," he began, "Charles, King of Navarre, Earl of Evreux, Count of Champagne, who also writeth himself Overlord of Bearn, hereby sends his love and greetings to his dear cousin Edward, the Prince of Wales, Governor of Aquitaine, Grand Commander of—"

"Tush! tush! Don Martin!" interrupted the prince, who had been beating the ground with his foot impatiently during this stately preamble. "We already know our cousin's titles and style, and, certes, we know our own. To the point, man, and at once. Are the passes open to us, or does your master go back from his word pledged to me at Libourne no later than last Michaelmas?"

"It would ill become my gracious master, sire, to go back from promise given. He does but ask some delay and certain conditions and hostages—"

"Conditions! Hostages! Is he speaking to the Prince of England, or is to the bourgeois provost of some half-captured town! Conditions quotha? He may find much to mend in his own condition ere long. The passes are, then, closed to us?"

"Nay, sire—"

"They are open, then?"

"Nay, sire, if you would but—"

"Enough, enough, Don Martin," cried the prince. "It is a sorry sight to see so true a knight pleading in so false a cause. We know the doings of our cousin Charles. We know that while with the right hand he takes our fifty thousand crowns for the holding of his passes open he hath his left outstretched to Henry of Trastamare, or to the King of France, all ready to take as many more for keeping them closed. I know our good Charles, and, by my blessed name-saint the Confessor, he shall learn that I know him. He sets his kingdom up to the best bidder, like some scullion farrier selling a glandered horse. He is—"

"My lord," cried Don Martin, "I cannot stand there to hear such words of my master. Did they come from other lips, I should know better how to answer them."

Don Pedro frowned and curled his lip, but the prince smiled and nodded his approbation.

"Your bearing and your words, Don Martin, are such I should have looked for in you," he remarked. "You will tell the king, your master, that he hath been paid his price, and that if he holds to his promise he hath my word for it that no scath shall come to his people, nor to their houses or gear. If, however, we have not his leave, I shall come close at the heels of this message without his leave, and bearing a key with me which shall open all that he may close." He stooped and whispered to Sir Robert Knolles and Sir Hugh Calverley, who smiled as men well pleased and hastened from the room.

He enlisted in Chicago with the Canadian forces and served overseas with the 75th Battalion. He was wounded just before the signing of the armistice.

Millinery Class Closed.

The Millinery Class of the Vocational Night School held its closing last evening in the High School building after a very successful course. A number of visitors were present and admired the many pretty hats that had been made during the course and which were on exhibition. At the close of the evening the class presented Miss Love, the instructor, with a pretty piece of china as a token of their appreciation of the splendid efforts she put forth in learning them the intricacies of the millinery business.

Gave Afternoon Tea

Miss Muriel Tracy was hostess yesterday afternoon at an enjoyable tea at her home on Church street. She received her guests in a pretty little gown of blue crepe de chene and velvet and was assisted by her mother, who wore burgundy velvet. Mrs. W. D. Wilson presided over the tea table, which had a large bowl of daffodils for a centre piece, and was assisted in serving by Misses Amanda Quinn, Bessie Morrison and Margaret Chestnut. Mrs. D. E. Crowe ushered the guests to the dining room, while Miss Helen Crowe attended the door. Others assisting at the tea were Mrs. Herbert Knight and Mrs. Annie Currie.

JURY TRIAL FOR ONE RAILWAYMAN IN FREIGHT THEFTS

First of Nine Employees of C. N. R. Rounded Up So Far to Plead Not Guilty.

ALL ARE REMANDED FOR ANOTHER WEEK

Detectives Likely to Make Another Lot of Arrests in the Meantime.

Two more railwaymen have been arrested in the roundup of employees of the C. N. R. as a result of the freight thefts culminating in the capture of thirty-nine cases of Kentucky whiskey while in transit over the National Transcontinental line at Napudogan, a divisional point, in the eastern end of York county.

Chief H. A. Page, of the C. N. R. Investigation Department, and Detective O. B. Lawson brought the latest pair arrested here last night, and this morning they appeared in court with the seven others who had previously been arrested. One of the two arrested yesterday pleaded guilty this morning, but the other pleaded not guilty and elected to be tried by a jury, R. B. Hanson, K. C., appearing for the prosecution and F. J. Hughes for the defence.

All of the nine prisoners were remanded this morning for a week, eight for sentence and the other for preliminary examination. It is understood, however, that the detectives have not made all the expected arrests as yet and will probably have an additional lot of prisoners on hand to be dealt with at the same time.

ORDERS OUT FOR MILITARY DISPLAY

71st Regiment to Furnish the Guard of Honor at House Opening.

Nothing will be omitted from the military display at the opening of the New Brunswick Legislature on Thursday, March 11th, according to announcements which were made today.

For some time there has been some apprehension that it might be impossible to arrange the military display because of the unsettled state of the local militia and the disinclination to involve the expense of bringing a Guard of Honor, firing party, band, etc., here from St. John militia units in the absence of any depot of the permanent force of Canada in this province.

This morning, however, R. S. Barker, secretary to the Lieutenant-Governor, was advised by Brigadier-General A. H. Macdonell, general officer commanding No. 7 Military District, that orders were being issued for the 71st York Regiment to provide the Guard of Honor and band for the occasion, while a detail of returned soldiers, it was said, was being organized to fire the customary salute of thirteen guns on the occasion.

DIED AT TELEPHONE.

Mrs. Charles Hutchinson, of Dorchester, Mass., was a Native of Upper Haynesville.

On Saturday, Feb. 21st, Mrs. Amanda Hutchinson, wife of Chas. Hutchinson, of 29 Medway St., Dorchester, Mass., was stricken while telephoning to a friend and passed away without regaining consciousness. Mrs. Hutchinson was sixty two years of age, was the daughter of the late Enoch Morgan of Upper Haynesville, N. B., and had resided in Dorchester for over thirty years. She is survived by her husband, one son, Howard, of 44 Harvard St., and two daughters, Mrs. Hattie Cooper at home and Mrs. Nellie Low, of 33 Kenberma Road, Dorchester, and one sister, Mrs. Rufus Jones of Millville. The funeral took place on Monday and was very largely attended. Rev. A. A. Rideout conducted the service. A quartette from the Blaney Memorial Church rendered appropriate hymns. Interment was made at Cedar Grove. The deceased was held in high esteem by all who knew her, as was evidenced by the many floral tributes. She was a member of the Pythian Sisterhood and of the Pocahontas. During the past summer she visited her old home and met her many old friends.

Water Main Burst.

A four inch water main on Needham street between Carleton and Regent streets burst on Wednesday afternoon as a result of the service thawing which has been going on. The main has been cut at Carleton street and a valve put in by which means half of the block has been supplied water and City Engineer McDowell stated this morning that by tonight all the services would be supplying water on Needham street. The crews on the thawing machines are at present waiting for further reports of freeze-ups to come in as they have caught up with their work.

Central New Brunswick is Digging Itself Out In Zero Gales to Face Fuel Famine

Train on Southampton Railway Which Got Stuck on Wednesday Night Still Marooned While Valley Railway Plow Went Off Track and Over Bank at Gagetown—Hope to Have All Branch Railways Running by Tomorrow—No Freight Being Moved and Fuel of All Kinds is Scarce—Drifts on City Streets Too Big for Plows to Tackle in Some Cases.

With zero weather and gales following the climax blizzard of the winter and some trains which have been stuck in the immense snowdrifts since Wednesday night still marooned, central New Brunswick is trying to dig itself out today.

While trains are running some few hours behind schedule on the main lines the branch trains are still largely tied up, most of them being cancelled today. By tomorrow the railways hope to have every branch line opened up, but it will likely be the first of the week before transportation conditions are back to anywhere near normal again.

Meanwhile but little if any freight is being moved on any of the railways and there is commencing to be a scarcity of various kinds of supplies, while the seriousness of the fuel famine, which appears to threaten the whole province, is hourly becoming more evident. With country roads not broken out and not likely to be fit for heavy hauling again this season there is no prospect of getting more wood to the cities and towns, while dealers report coal shipments tied up by the enforced embargo on freight as a result of the storm conditions.

Otis Train Still Marooned.

There are no trains running today on the Gibson, the Grand Lake and Southampton branch lines of the C. P. R. system out of here, all those trains being cancelled in the hope of getting specials with wing plows over the lines today so that traffic may be resumed tomorrow. On the Southampton branch the train which got stalled in a snowdrift near Otis, the northern terminal, was still stuck there this morning and would, it was said, have to stay there until assistance arrived, which would probably be before night. On the line to Fredericton Junction connections are being made with the trains running on the main line today. The first train to arrive here over that line since Wednesday noon came in late yesterday after noon with passengers and mails from Montreal, Boston, St. John and almost everywhere else. Some of the passengers, including a party of local curlers, had been more than 24 hours getting here from St. John. Trainmen declared the drifts on the Fredericton branch in the vicinity of Rusia gornis were the biggest that had ever been seen there, being in some cases from 12 to 15 feet high and extending up to the top of the cabs of the big locomotives used on the special train plowing out the line.

Valley Railway Tied Up.

The C. N. R. train which left here at 11.30 o'clock yesterday morning on the Valley Line for St. John did not get any farther than Gagetown, as it got stalled in the snow and lost its plow, which went over the bank. However everything is being done today to get the line cleared, and it is hoped to get through to St. John by tonight. Conditions on the upper section of the Valley line remain about the same as yesterday, the heavy drifts not yet being cleared, but the C. N. R. expect to get a train through from here tonight. The "Whooper," from Newcastle, reached here shortly after mid night last night and left again this morning for the North Shore town. All the other trains on the Canada Eastern branch of the C. N. R. are runing on schedule time today.

Fredericton itself is piled up high with snowdrifts that look like young mountains, but some time today it is expected the work of plowing out the sidewalks will be completed. On some streets the drifts have been so deep that plows could not get through them, and they have either had to be shovelled out or else harrows and other rigging sent ahead to break a way for the plows to get through. Large quantities of snow piled on buildings threatened many of the structures and removal is almost impossible with present hauling conditions.

GENERAL RAILWAY STRIKE IN FRANCE

A VERY MIXED RECEPTION FOR HOME RULE BILL

One Paper Says the Framers Do Not Appear to Have Courage of Convictions.

TRANSFER OLD CONFLICT TO A NEW BATTLEFIELD

Not Believed that It Will Bring Peace to Ireland or Settle Trouble There.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, Feb. 28.—The press reception of the Home Rule Bill is rather mixed, but the London Times recognizes the bill as based upon sound principles within limits, but says it conveys the impression that the framers had not the full courage of their convictions.

The London Telegraph, Unionist, says nothing editorially, and the Morning Post declares that never since the compilation of the Athanasian Creed has there been so ingenious a document. It prophesies that Ireland will remain hostile to the bill and will not give these islands any peace. It will only transfer the old conflict to a new battlefield.

The Daily Chronicle, Liberal, approves of the bill, thinks that the financial terms are extremely generous and regards as a most vital part the measure which enables the two parliaments to come together at any time by agreement.

The London Daily Mail, which has been a severe critic of the government's Irish policy, thinks the bill good, but not good enough as regards dominion powers for Irish parliaments.

The Daily Graphic, Unionist, calls it a weakling with a bad family history, and the Daily News, Independent Liberal, is silent.

The Wilson Correspondence.

The opinion of the press on the diplomatic correspondence on Adriatic problems is generally condemnatory of the tone of President Wilson's first note, containing a threat of withdrawal, but is hopeful that later correspondence may lead to an agreement. The London Times finds the document not very agreeable reading, but trusts to see about the only sensible settlement of an embarrassing and dangerous problem.

The Chronicle thinks that if the President wishes ensuing negotiations to bear fruit in settlement, a settlement is certainly within his power, but it would not be candid to forget altogether the doubt inspired by his first note, whether he really does wish it.

PERU MOURNS FOR LOST PROVINCES

Expresses Surprise at Bolivia's Action in Incorporating Arica in Territory.

Lima, Peru, Feb. 28.—Meliton Porras, Peruvian chancellor, has directed a note to the Bolivian government, expressing the surprise and disillusionment occasioned in Peru by the resolution passed by the Bolivian chamber of deputies approving a policy aiming at the incorporation of the city of Arica in Bolivian territory.

The chancellor advises Bolivia of the "irrevocable decision of the Peruvian government never to cede rights over the captive provinces to bolivia or any other nation," and expresses the hope Bolivia will withdraw or modify the resolution, thus "redeeming the prestige of Bolivia as a country respecting the rights of others."

TROUBLE OVER A TORONTO PASTOR

Toronto, Feb. 28.—Miles Vokes, a member of the quarterly board of the Broadway Methodist Tabernacle here, who was scored in a Sunday morning sermon recently by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Salembland, has resigned from the pulpit supply committee of the board. It is said the resignation followed the defeat of a resolution moved by Mr. Vokes at a meeting of the committee on Thursday night that a new pastor be recommended for the coming year.

French Miners Call Off the Strike Named For March 1st

The National Miners Union Receives a Satisfactory Reply from the Minister of Labor Regarding Its Protests Over Coal Diggers Pensions.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, Feb. 28.—The strike of miners, set for March 1st, has been called off. The national council of the miners union, having received a satisfactory reply from the Minister of Labor to its protest over the action of the Chamber of Deputies recently in voting adversely on a proposal for coal diggers' pensions, has wired the miners to continue work.

Severe Fighting on The Polish Front

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Warsaw, Feb. 28.—While the peace proposals are pending the Bolshevik, according to a Polish communication issued yesterday, have attacked the northeastern front in the region of Skrygalow and the Volhynian front in the region of Lotyczow. Both attacks were repulsed.

The newspapers announce that the Bolshevik have renewed the fighting on both sides of the river Prypec, but that the Poles are more than holding their own.

BRITISH PROPOSAL TO RUSSIAN REDS

The Moscow Government Not Inclined to Agree to Some Points Demanded.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Buenos Aires, Feb. 28.—What purports to be the basis of Great Britain's proposal to the soviet government of Russia, which James O'Grady, the British representative at Copenhagen, transmitted to Maxim Litvinoff, representative of the Moscow government, are contained in a despatch from the correspondent of La Nacion, in Rome, as follows:

1st. Tacit recognition of the Maximalist political regime.

2nd. Non-interference by Great Britain with respect to the internal condition of those countries separated from former Russian rule on the west, namely, Finland, Esthonia, Lithuania, Ukrainia and Poland.

3rd. Non-interference by Great Britain in the affairs of Siberia.

4th. Demobilization of the Red army.

5th. A promise by the Bolshevik to recognize the independence of the Meridianal Republics, especially Georgia.

6th. Non-interference by Russia with the territories on the frontiers of Georgia and Persia.

7th. Payment in gold for goods exported or imported between Russia and Great Britain.

8th. A regime of commercial equality for Russia and Great Britain in the autonomous states on the western front.

The correspondent says the Moscow government is disposed to accept several of these points, but that it is firm against the fourth and sixth points.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

MOOSE JAW, SASK., Feb. 28.—In yesterday's session the Saskatchewan school trustees unanimously adopted a resolution demanding abolition of separate schools. A further motion carried that religious symbols be abolished in all public schools and that no public schools be held in a Roman Catholic convent or other church school.

Sir Robert Borden Arrives At Halifax on the Carmania And Sails for New York Today

Sir Robert Gave No Intimation as to When He Expected to Return to Ottawa—Would Make No Comment on the Political Situation Whatever.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Halifax, N. S., Feb. 28.—Sir Robert Borden arrived in Halifax on the Carmania this morning, en route to New York, where he will be met by Lady Borden, who will accompany him on a trip to the south, which will be undertaken in a further effort to regain his lost health.

Sir Robert stated this morning that while he felt better as a result of his trip to England on board the New Zealand, he said he was unable to venture an opinion as to when he hoped to be restored to normal health.

Sir Robert spoke with more than his usual deliberation—found it difficult at times to recall the names of those with whom he had come in contact on the voyage across, and otherwise showed that he was far from being in his usual state of good health. He declined to discuss the political situation, either in England or Canada, and would not comment on general conditions. He had heard of Mr. Asquith's triumphant return to Parliament from the Paisley constituency, on the voyage across, and when asked if he was surprised at the result, countered with a request for information regarding weather conditions in Canada during his absence. He had also heard, during the voyage, of Hon. A. K. MacLean's resignation from the Government, but gave no indication that the news had surprised him. He said that while he had received an invitation, he had not attended the opening session of the League of Nations, and had attended but one debate in the House of Commons while in England.

Sir Robert said that the present trip across the Atlantic had been one of the pleasantest in his experience, as regarded weather conditions, characterizing it as not unlike an ordinary summer passage. He experienced keen interest in business conditions in Halifax, making special reference to the shipyards and the progress being made with the scheme for an international exposition, commented on the death recently of a number of his former Halifax friends, and expressed regret at the illness of Premier Murray of Nova Scotia. He was also interested in learning that the local Board of Agriculture was in session. The Premier stated that he had nothing to give out regarding the itinerary of his southern trip.

Among Sir Robert's fellow passengers was Dr. Grenfell of the Labrador mission.

The Carmania is due to sail early this afternoon for New York.

RURAL TEACHERS IN QUEBEC SCHOOLS

Protestant Body to Increase Salaries and Aim at Minimum $60 Per Month.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Quebec, Feb. 28.—At the quarterly meeting of the Protestant committee of public instruction held here yesterday the status of the rural teachers as regards their salaries was discussed in a sympathetic vein by the members and it was recommended that the certificated teachers of these schools should have their salaries increased and also that a minimum remuneration of $60 per month should be aimed at.

A letter was received from Sir Herbert Ames tendering his resignation as a member of the committee, owing to his having been appointed Canadian representative on the League of Nations.

No successor was appointed, as this will be attended to by the Government.

Reports were received from McGill University and Bishop's College regarding the commercial courses which are being carried on by these institutions and the usual grants were passed.

U. S. TO TAKE PART IN THE CONFERENCE

International Conference to Take Up Disposition of Hun Cables in Pacific.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Postmaster General Burleson, Rear Admiral William S. Benson, retired, and Walter S. Rogers, of La Grange, Ills., were nominated yesterday by President Wilson to be American members of the International conference on communications which soon is to be held in Paris. The conference was agreed upon by the Allied and Associated Powers at Paris last May.

Disposition of the Pacific cables taken over from Germany during the war will be the most important business of the conference.

CHANGE OF STATUS.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Germany has informed Austria that, beginning on March 1, a Legation instead of an Embassy will be maintained at Vienna, the State Department was advised yesterday.

NEW DIRECTOR OF HOUSING IN QUEBEC

Technical Commission Plan Abolished and Each Municipality Independent.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Quebec, Feb. 28.—The resignation of Dr. Nadeau as Provincial Director of Housing, which was tendered the Government on the ninth of January, was made public yesterday, and it was also announced that in an order in council, accepting the resignation, the Government appointed as his successor Oscar Morin, Deputy Minister for Municipal Affairs.

The technical commission, composed of an architect, a town planner and a sanitary engineer, appointed under Dr. Nadeau, has been abolished by the Government and each municipality will be permitted to administer its share of the loan. The Government will have general control, but municipalities will be free to do as they wish so long as they remain within the law.

FRENCH ORDER FOR A GENERAL STRIKE IS OUT

The National Federation of Railroad Men Called All Members Out Today.

CABINET MEETING CALLED FOR TONIGHT

The Arrest of Some of the Prominent Strike Leaders is Considered Imminent.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, Feb. 28.—Orders for a general railroad strike have been issued by the National Federation of Railroad Men. Reports were current last night that this action had been taken, but no confirmation could be obtained until late this afternoon.

"Owing to the attack by the Paris, Lyons and Mediterranean Railroad Company on the exercise of union rights," the strike order begins, "the railroaders of that system and of the Paris region, influenced by solidarity and dignity, have begun a movement of protest which is spreading hourly.

Exhaust Conciliatory Means.

"The executive commitee of the Federation," the order continues, "after exhausting all means of conciliation and meeting with an obstinate and uncomprising spirit on the part of the management of the Paris, Lyons and Mediterranean Railroad, the Minister of Public Works and the Premier as regards obtaining a suspension of punishments while awaiting arbitration of incidents, has decided to call for the cessation of work on all systems."

The order ends in advising that greatest calm be preserved, that all provocation be avoided and that all measures be taken to assure safety. Direction is also given that no damage be done.

"Work will not be resumed except by order of the executive committee," is the concluding sentence of the order.

A cabinet meeting has been called for seven o'clock tonight.

Arrest of Strike Leaders Imminent.

Paris, Feb. 20.—La Liberte understands the arrest of certain strike leaders is imminent, saying an investigation into the origin of the strike movement bared the existence of a revolutionary organization.

In a statement issued yesterday the general secretary of the Paris, Lyons and Mediterranean Company says:

"News of mobilization of three classes of railroad employees has already produced some effect. Many men returned to work yesterday morning before summons to military duty reached them. Four hundred and thirty men resumed work at Avignon alone."

It is announced that nearly three hundred employees have been definitely dismissed for striking after being warned that abandonment of their posts would result in dismissal.

ARBITRATION IN COLLISSION CASES

British and American Representatives Appointed to Inquire Into Cases.

London, Feb. 28.—The Ministry of Shipping announces that under the Anglo-American agreement to establish arbitration boards in London and Washington to determine cases of collision during the war, the London board has appointed Rutler Aspinwall, a well known practitioner in the Admiralty Court and who was one of the British Commissioners to inquire into the firing on the British trawlers by the Russian fleet off the Dogger Banks during the Russo-Japanese war, as chairman. The United States representatives will be Commanders Victor S. Jackson and Robert K. Wright, both of whom are stationed at present in London.

Capture Whiskey Smugglers Running Goods Into Montana

Three Automobiles Used by the Smugglers Confiscated, as Well as 450 Quarts of Liquor—The Headquarters of Smugglers at Robsart, Saskatchewan.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Butte, Mont., Feb. 28.—Whiskey smuggling from Robsart, Sask., to Havre, Mont., has been broken up by the capture of the smugglers and confiscation of three automobiles used by them and more than 450 quarts of liquor, according to an announcement here.

Woodstock to Have Emergency Hospital in Case of Epidemic

The Military Authorities Grant the Use of the Armory for a Hospital Should There Be a Bad Outbreak of Influenza—Considerable Sickness About Town.

Woodstock, N. B., Feb. 28.—Mrs. H. D. Stevens, of Woodstock, received a telegram on Wednesday morning announcing the death of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Stephen B. Colpitts, of Allston, Mass. Mrs. Colpitts had a stroke of paralysis a few weeks ago and never fully recovered. She was 65 years of age and a native of Moncton, N. B., and leaves a large family connection in Westmorland and Albert counties, besides her husband, three sons and one daughter. She was a daughter of the late Ephraim Steeves of Moncton, N. B.

James Coyle, who was well known in the St. John River Valley Counties, where he worked in woods and on the lumber drive, died at the residence of his sister, Mrs. Fred Hall, on Wednesday, aged 70 years. The funeral was held on Friday morning from the residence of his sister to St. Gertrude's Church and buried in the Catholic cemetery.

Miss Margaret Henderson died at the home of her niece, Mrs. George Flewelling, on Sunday morning, aged 86 years. Miss Henderson came from Ireland when she was 13 years of age and lived with a relative, Alex. Martin, of Tapley Mills, for 40 years. Upon his death a year ago she came to Woodstock and lived with Mrs. Flewelling. The funeral was held on Monday, Rev. H. F. Rigby officiating at the services.

The Late Edward McIntosh.

Edward McIntosh, who was frozen to death at Maxwell, North Lake, York County, on Friday, Feb. 20, was a son of the late Mrs. Margaret Palmer; he was about 70 years of age and leaves a widow, who was Bridget Farrell of Monument Settlement, and six sons, Thomas, John, Patrick, James, Charles and Daniel, and three daughters, Mrs. George McIntyre of Houlton, Me., Mrs. Charles Kelly of Harten Settlement, and Margaret at home, besides a large number of grandchildren. Rev. M. S. McKay attended the services at the Presbyterian Church, and the remains were buried in the cemetery near there. He and a young man named Bustard were hauling pulp and while trying to make his way home in the storm, lost his way and perished when he had almost reached his home. The searching party found the body about 3 o'clock the following morning.

The many friends of Dr. T. F. Sprague will be glad to know that he is improving daily and will soon be able to attend to his professional duties.

On request, permission has been granted by the military authorities to use the armory for an emergency hospital in case of a serious outbreak of influenza. The beds and bedding arrived from outside town this week. No cases so far have been reported to the Board of Health.

Miss Freda Wright, of Fredericton, who has been seriously ill at the Fisher Hospital, following an operation for appendicitis, is rapidly recovering. Her sister, Mrs. Brewer, of Houlton, is with her.

Injured His Hand.

Robert Chase, of Derby, Me., had the misfortune to jam one of his fingers so badly that it was necessary to amputate it at the second joint. He and Mrs. Chase are visiting relatives in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sills, formerly Miss Edith Robinson, of Woodstock, are receiving congratulations over the arrival of a baby boy at their home, Milford, Me.

Mrs. E. W. Mair, who has been spending a month with relatives in Quebec, has returned home, accompanied by Mr. Mair, who has been spending a few days in Montreal.

Returned Home.

Mrs. John MacDougall has returned from a visit to Fredericton and Devon. At the former city she was the guest of her sons, Archie and Kenneth.

Mrs. S. J. McIntosh has returned from a visit to friends in Edmundston and her daughter, Mrs. Roy Farnham, at Aroostook Junction.

Hon. F. B. Carvell, chairman of the board of railway commissioners, was in town during the week.

Mrs. Freeland, of Montreal, who has been the guest of Mrs. C. E. Sunder, left this week for St. John to meet her husband, who is returning from England.

Hery Post, architect, of Woodstock, has been awarded the contract for Hon. F. B. Carvell's new house on his farm in Woodstock. It will be bungalow style, 26 x 36, with concrete cellar.

O. R. Estey and family are now occupying the residence on Victoria street, recently purchased by Mr. Estey from Dr. J. E. Jewett.

The Bank of Montreal brick block is coming along nicely. The plastering will be finished this week and the building will be ready for occupancy on May 1st.

Rev. J. B. Champion, now of Centreville, has accepted an invitation to become pastor of the Newcastle Methodist church.

ROBBER TRAPPED BY A GIRL OF 15

Boston, Feb. 2.—The Italian district of West Everett was thrown into an uproar yesterday afternoon, when a burglar entered the small fruit store of G. Rizzo, at 24 Health Street, held up the proprietor and half a dozen customers at the point of a revolver and fired five shots through the door when an officer attempted to come to their assistance.

The patrolman was brought to the scene through the quick wit of Maria, the 15-year-old daughter of Rizzo, who, in the face of the bandit's gun, slipped into a telephone booth in the rear of the store and notified police headquarters.

The hold-up was attempted by John Marrana, 23, alias Joseph Proffe, of 208 Brookline street, Cambridge, who entered the store and asked to be shown the telephone book. He said that he was a police officer from Boston, and, throwing back his coat as if to display a badge, drew forth a revolver and ordered the occupants of the store to throw up their hands.

OBITUARY.

Robert R. Gill.

Woodstock, Feb. 27.—Influenza claimed another victim in the person of Robert R. Gill, who passed away at the Riverside Hotel, Saturday morning, Feb. 21, after four days' illness. Deceased was 34 years old and leaves to mourn three small children, Doris, Lillian and Jack. His passing is particularly sad, as his wife had predeceased him in September. His aged mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Justice Gill, reside in Clear Lake, State of Washington, also two sisters, Mrs. Newton Dow and Mrs. Boyd. Mrs. Eva Britton, of Bristol, is also a sister. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon at 1.30, from Henderson's undertaking rooms, where many friends had gathered. The service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Rigby, with burial in the Methodist cemetery.

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—The Minister of Finance has given notice of a resolution to amend the currency act 1910 by providing that the standard for gold shall remain 900 parts of fine gold to 100 parts alloy, as at present, and silver 800 parts fine silver and 200 parts alloy.

IF you want healthy, sturdy children, you must provide them with the right kind of food. At the same time it must be food that they enjoy.

The value of Cocoa as a beverage for children cannot be too strongly emphasized. It is both food and drink. It not only provides the hot drink which children crave, particularly in the winter, but it is rich in concentrated nourishment.

Often a child will refuse milk when it is essential to his health. Give him Cocoa and he loves it, and gets far more of the requisite nourishment than he would in a glass of milk.

Cowan's Cocoa, made in Canada, is prepared with an understanding of the requirements of Canadian children, and the mother who gives it to her children every day, is helping them to develop strong, healthy bodies and to withstand cold and illness.

DE LAVAL CREAM SEPARATOR

It will pay you in cream saved from $3 to $5 a cow every year over an inferior or half-worn-out cream separator.

It will pay you in cream saved from $10 to $15 a cow every year over gravity skimming.

It will give you a heavier and better-cream, the kind the creameryman wants, the kind that gives you more skim-milk for your stock.

It will last two to ten times as long as other cream separators. Figure it out for yourself and you will see why the De Laval is the most economical.

And added to it all is the immeasurable satisfaction of owning a machine that "works like a charm" 365 days in the year.

We know that when we sell you a De Laval we sell you a machine you'll be proud to own. We sell them on liberal terms. Come in and talk it over.

Political Survey At Ottawa Today

Belief Growing That There Will Be a Dissolution Before End of Year and an Appeal to Electorate--The Tariff the Cruz to Situation, But No One at Present Seems Ready to Force Issue.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, Feb. 28. — Following docking of the Carmania in New York, having as a distinguished passenger Sir Robert Borden, confidential consultations are being held bearing on the past and present and particularly on the future of the Union Government. What relates to the government relates necessarily to the party of which it is the mouthpiece. Mr. Calder has gone down from here to meet the Premier and Dr. Reid has come up from the south. Both are waiting and each represents a particular wing of the combination of Unionism.

Sir Robert has been gone since early in January and he will be gone much longer. Few seem to know anything about him the while. How he is at the end of the first lap of a protracted sojourn and what are the prospects of his return and when, are things that Ottawa knows nothing of, but would like to know.

Looking for Guidance.

Parliament has gone back, members are curious as to what is going to happen and they would appreciate something to go on and some guidance in the rush of a rather obscure situation Presumably next wek when the members will return, there will be news with which the caucus will be promptly acquainted. The sooner the better for the relief of the restive.

There is no question of Sir Robert Borden's wish to perpetuate in some form the principle of Unionism, but the essential condition, precedent involves two considerations, who is to be the guiding star and what political path will be traversed. As often pointed out, the fact that the government party is a merger of widely divergent schools of thonght and that the cohesive factor is none too potent, constitutes a fundamental difficulty in the maintenance of the common ground heretofore occupied.

The Independents.

Today they were tacking on the cards which indicate who is who in the chamber. The cross benchers have asserted their right to sit in a group by themselves. Sixteen seats have been allotted them. They are on the left, between the Unionist overflow and the opposition. Of the sixteen, twelve were elected as Unionists, four were returned as United Farmers of the most recent and undiluted vintage. Twelve, taken from the Government and voting against it, is the equivalent of twenty-four on a division and cuts a very perceptible hole into the ministerial lead. None but an exceedingly strong party numerically could stand such a loss, and potentially it is an attraction to waverers, but the extent to which the defection will spread is very questionable. According to the Government whips sixteen is the count, while the independents say they are not counting confidently on more just now. Nevertheless, a third party of sixteen can make its voice heard and its influence felt, and neither is brushed lightly aside. Crerar leads with Clark of Red Deer as his seat mate and first lieutenant. The followers are not particularly strong in oratorical ability, but at that are above the average.

The Tariff Question.

It is these conditions and the significance of their development that cause the old parties to take notice, however secure they may feel themselves to be in their respective positions. The crux of the whole case is the tariff. No one expects that it will cut a particularly predominant figure this session, for no one as yet seems inclined to force the issue, but the situation is pretty well defined. The Government is for the principle of protection. What minority of its followers hold divergent views is problematical but there is no doubt they are in a minority. The Farmers' policy contemplates ultimately free trade with England and an extensive increase in the free list right away. The Liberal policy is betwixt and between. The session will cause it to be more clearly expressed. It is quite apparent that no changes of importance are to be expected this session or until after the revision promised for the recess The Government policy will be formulated in the light of that inquiry and of the principles previously determined, but unless all indications are astray it will adhere to the protective principle, while inevitably the fiscal issue will be the predominant one whenever the general election occurs.

There appears to be a widely prevalent opinion outside that a smash up, or at least a peaceable dissolution will occur this year. A survey of the situation in the tents of the three parties here show little as yet to confirm this view but the session is only beginning it has immense potentialities and what may happen between now and July is problematical.

O'CONNOR TO BE HEAD OF BOARD

Government Accepts Resignation of Judge Robson of the Board of Commerce.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—The Government has accepted the resignation of Chairman Judge Robson of the Board of Commerce and has appointed Mr. W. F. O'Connor to act in his place for the present. Commissioners O'Connor and Murdoch will have equal and co-ordinate jurisdiction, except at actual sittings in court. Neither one of them recognizes any responsibility in himself to take charge or control of the operations of the Board. Their function will be merely to preside at its sittings.

There is no means whatever of operating the portion of the act relating to combines while the board lacks a chief commissioner. No investigation can be begun without the authorization of a Chief Commissioner, who must set the data for the same. The lack of this provision in the act had been pointed out and it was understood that provision was to be made for the appointment of an assistant Chief Commissioner, who should be acting Chief Commissioner in the absence of the head of the Board, but when the legislation came out of the House of Commons it contained provision merely for the appointment of a Commissioner to preside at sittings of the board in the absence of the Chief Commissioner, that is to perform the judicial functions of the Chief Commissioner, but there is no provision for the performance by anyone of the Chief Commissioner's administrative functions. Therefore what are now considered the Board's most important functions are held up until the appointment of a Chief Commissioner.

"DRIVE TO THE RIGHT."

Proposition Will Be Made at the Coming Session of the Nova Scotia Legislature.

[Halifax Recorder.]

"Drive to the right!" is a lively question among automobilists at the present time. In the Provinces the rule of the road is "drive to the left," but when they go across the border it is "drive to the right." So it is when the Americans visit the Provinces; they find they have to "keep to the left. This is causing confusion, and the secretary of the Automobile Association, A. G. Watson, has sent out to the members a card asking them to give their opinion as to whether they are in favor of "Drive to the Right?" So far he has received about 170 replies, and only eight have expressed their opinion against the proposal.

The New Brunswick Legislature favors "Drive to the Right," and as soon as Nova Scotia adopts the principle they will do likewise. The Maritime Provinces and British Columbia are the only places in Canada that have not adopted this rule.

A bill will be introduced in the Legislature this session to change the present law, and the Automobile Association will present the cards from the members showing how they favor the subject. The proposed change in the law to "Drive to the Right" will be a live subject at the coming session of the Legislature.

By Julien Josephsen—Directed by Jerome Storm—Photographed by Chester Lyons—Supervised by Thomas H. Ince.

He didn't know the power that lay in that mighty arm of steely bands until, driven by a love and a necessity that would brook no opposition, he used it with terrific effect in the squared arena where he and another had come to grips in the conflict of virile, vital men.

BANGOR'S STRUGGLE AFTER BIG STORM

[Bangor Daily News, Feb. 26.]

The snow blockade, at first an expensive annoyance in its obstruction and delay of all traffic, now has assumed the proportions of a positive danger, and every inhabitant has a direct interest in remedying the situation at once. Transportation of food supplies and fuel, even in the thickly settled parts of the city; the movements of fire apparatus, the calls of physicians—everything is delayed or made difficult or impossible.

Realizing this danger, Mayor Woodman has issued his proclamation, printed in this issue of the News, calling upon all citizens to abandon other pursuits and give at least a day of their time and effort to cleaning sidewalks, while schoolboys are asked to help in breaking the blockade in downtown districts. Volunteers responding to this call are to assemble at City Hall at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The Chamber of Commerce, also appreciating the dangers of the situation, has issued an appeal for 500 volunteers, the number required by the street commissioner to clear the streets in five days. Those who are willing to give one day to this work are asked to telephone the Chamber of Commerce, and they will be assigned to crews on any day they may designate.

Bangor Hard Hit.

Already hard hit by storms of the past week, Bangor and vicinity had another visitation of snow and high winds on Wednesday which had the effect of filling up the country roads, which had been partially cleared for travel, delaying trains on the steam railroad systems and blocking street car traffic in Bangor on all but the Main street line after the middle of the afternoon.

The Brewer division of the B. R. & E. system was kept open and were run on a 20 minute schedule. The snow-plows were kept busy from the car barn in lower Main street to the waiting room in the Graham building, and on the Brewer division, to make conditions easier for the resumption today of the battle with the snow.

Trains Late.

Trains on the Maine Central were delayed on Wednesday some hours, but maintained a schedule which was creditable considering the adverse conditions. The morning train from Boston was only about an hour late, and the train due at 12.30 noon arrived at 2.30 o'clock. The early afternoon train from the west, due at 3.10, reached here at 7.15 p. m. and the 5.45 p. m. train came in at 8.10. The 8 p. m. train for the west was somewhat late in leaving, but did not wait for the arrival of the Washington county and Bar Harbor trains, which were delayed some hours. Trains from the east showed about the same delay as the others.

On the B. & A. the morning train from Van Buren, due at 2.20 p. m., got in at about 5 o'clock. All B. & A. trains were late, and moving with difficulty.

The Canadian Pacific cancelled all trains on its Aroostook division. This is the first time in several years that the service has been suspended. Snow accompanied by a high wind was still falling in Houlton last night.

It is stated that the payroll of the Maine Central railroad for the eastern division alone showed an expense of $19,000 for the past week on account of snow removal.

No doubt the expense involved in clearing the Bangor & Aroostook railroad track was as much.

The Fuel Situation.

Bangor is more fortunate than many places in having a fair supply of coal on hand, there being little danger of a famine until the freight embargo is lifted. Some dealers report a scarcity of wood, but others have a fair supply. Owing to the storms and hard travelling, little wood has been brought into the city recently.

HOME RULE BILL GIVEN TO PUBLIC

Two Parliaments to Be Established for Whole of Ireland Under Measure.

London, Feb. 27.—The government tonight made public the text of its Irish home rule bill introduced in the House of Commons on Wednesday and passed through its first reading by title. The measure follows closely the outline given to the House by Premier Lloyd-George last December. By its provisions two parliaments would be set up, one for the north of Ireland and the other for the south of Ireland, the northern parliament to consist of fifty-two members and the southern of 128 members. The representation in the imperial parliament would be 12 for north Ireland and 30 for south Ireland, necessitating the reapportionment of Ireland, which is provided for in the bill.

The northern area would be composed of the counties of Antrim, Armagh, Down, Fermanagh, Londonderry and Tyrone and the boroughs of Belfast and Londonderry.

A "council for Ireland," composed of forty members, half of whom would be selected by each of the parliaments, is also provided in the bill. The legislative powers of the council would be only those granted it by the two legislatures, but the framers of the bill hope it will form a nucleus around which would be built one parliament for the whole of Ireland. Almost unlimited executive, legislative and judicial powers are provided for such a united parliament, but the powers to be conferred on the separate parliaments would be considerably curtailed. Responsibility for organizing the united parliament and power to create it is left entirely with the two legislatures. The bill provides that the united parliament, if formed, would control the customs and excise.

At the outset, according to the bill, the parliament would have full control of education, local government, the land policy, agriculture, roads and bridges, transportation, old age pensions, insurance, municipal affairs, housing, hospitals and licenses. All the judicial officers would be controlled by the Irish parliaments, each body controlling the officers in its own district, but there would be a court of appeal for the whole of Ireland, presided over by the lord chancellor.

What at the government considers one of the chief safeguards in drafting the powers of the parliaments is a provision specifically prohibiting either body from establishing any particular religious creed or penalizing anyone for belonging to or not belonging to any religious denomination.

INTERESTING LECTURE BEFORE SCIENCE CLUB

Prof. Prince, of Ottawa, Talked on the Marvels of the Deep Sea.

Dr. E. E. Prince, Dominion Commissioner of Fisheries, Ottawa, gave a very interesting lecture before the Fredericton Science Club last evening in the Knights of Pythias Hall, on Marvels of Life in the Deep Sea.

The speaker in opening his lecture gave a general talk on the ocean itself, referring to its size in comparison with the earth, its great depth and continual state of surface unrest, and discussed it under five different headings, as follows:—

Color—The ocean is greenish blue in its natural state, but in some Antarctic seas it is olive-green, due to the prevalence of diatones and other forms of life; and in others it is red, also due to minute forms of life floating in it, and near certain tropical islands it is bright blue, due to corals.

Sanitary—The per cent. of salt in sea varies in different areas of the ocean. Salt comes from the land and is washed in by the rivers and streams.

Movements of Ocean—Movements are of different kinds, waves, tides, tidal waves and currents. The currents are the most important and are due to the difference of temperature of the water at the equator and poles.

Pressure—The speaker showed how the pressure of the ocean increased with the depth and it was a wonder how the deep-sea fish were able to withstand this pressure.

Temperature—Temperature varies greatly with the depth. Water is always warmest at the surface and near the equator. Temperature has a great deal to do with the life of animal or vegetable life growing in the sea.

In discussing the life in the ocean, Prof. Prince started near the shoreline and worked from there to the deepest parts of the sea. He described first the types of plants and fish found near the shore, then those at a greater depth, and finally the deep sea forms. He discussed in detail the forms of life that float on the sea and which form the principal food of many of our largest fishes.

The lantern views were numerous and interesting and very beautifully colored. He showed pictures of fish from the tiniest floating forms to the whale. Also types of fish living in different depths of water, starting with the minute floating forms and ending with the deep sea fish.

A vote of thanks was moved by Chancellor Jones and seconded by Dr. Bailey.

You Pay only the Same Duty on Red Rose Orange Pekoe Tea as on the Very Poorest Tea

Before the war there was no duty on tea.

To-day there is a duty of 7 cents a pound on tea brought from British possessions, and one of 10c. a pound on tea brought from other countries, regardless of the quality.

If it were levied on the value of the tea, as is the case with other goods imported into Canada, the duty on a pound of Red Rose Orange Pekoe Tea would be about double that levied on common tea.

But the duty on a pound of this fine-quality, mountain-grown tea — Red Rose Orange Pekoe Tea—is the same as that on a pound of the very poorest tea.

This is one of the reasons that this tea of extra quality—as well as our standard, well-known Red Rose brand—is so much better value than ordinary teas.

You pay less duty.

This situation is appreciated by tea lovers all over Canada. There is a greater demand for fine-quality tea to-day than before the war. And our NEW fine-quality tea—Red Rose Orange Pekoe—is already enjoying a brisk demand.

Try it. Sold only in our new package—the waxed board carton.

Wealthy British Member of Parliament Adopts Scheme to Beat the Clothing Profiteers

Taking Orders for Suits by the Thousands at His Cloth Factories, and Having Them Made Up at Prices Away Below the Shop Terms.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

London, Feb. 28.—Everybody is talking about the scheme of Mallaby Deeley, a wealthy member of Parliament for one of the London suburban constituencies, to beat the clothing trade profiteers. His factories are turning out huge quantities weekly and are taking orders for suits by thousands, at prices which are quite half below the shop terms. The scheme, he says, is neither charity nor philanthropy, but a profit-making business enterprise and a lesson on the possibilities of mass production. Deeley came into prominence a few years ago by a big deal in London real estate property, including the famous Covent Garden.

There are hundreds of people in this community whose teeth never have any attention at all. There are several reasons why they do not. Lack of means is responsible to a great degree.

Our prices are 100 per cent. lower than Elsewhere.

HEALTH OFFICIALS WARN THE PUBLIC

Prompt Treatment of Every Case of Cold is Advised.

When the 'flu epidemic swept the country last year it was generally agreed by medical men that there would be a recurrence of the attack this winter. While it has not swept with the violence of last year there is hardly any community in which it is not present to some degree.

In view of the ever present danger of the disease spreading, health authorities are everywhere advising the public to observe extraordinary precautions. One of their first advices is to treat all cases of colds as dangerous, the conditions in such cases being similar to those in the first stages of 'flu.

For the treatment of colds there is no preparation equal to Grip-Fix which may be secured at any drug store. It is not a patent medicine but a treatment which would be approved by your family physician. The drugs it contains are stated on every box and cover just the drugs needed in such cases. Grip-Fix is not a new preparation as it has been in use many years, doing wonderful work during last year's 'flu epidemic. It comes in convenient capsule form and when buying it be sure to get Reid's Grip-Fix as there is nothing "just as good." It sells for 25 cents per box and is worth its price over and over when a cold appears. On sale at all druggists.

INFLUENZA ON THE WANE AT ST. JOHN

Eleven Deaths from Pneumonia and One from Influenza During the Week.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

St. John, Feb. 28.—Mrs. Anne M. Shaw, aged 85, died today. She was the wife of the late Edward Percy Shaw, who was with the I. C. R. here and was a daughter of the late Hon. John E. Esty, Douglas Harbor, Queens county. She leaves a duaghter, Mrs. A. W. Lingley, here. Two sons, Frank, of Kansas City, and Stephen, of Fairville, and a sister, Mrs. David Hanselpecker, of St. John.

No new influenza cases were reported today. Dr. Wm. Warwick, Medical Health Officer here, says the disease is on the wane in his district.

Gilbert Ray Payne, 21, Geo. Kiffin and Mathews Mais, each 17, were arrested last night charged with breaking and entering Hoffman Bros.' store in Main street, and stealing cloth valued at $1,100. No evidence was taken in court today and they were remanded.

While there were 41 deaths here last week, this week there were but 24. Of this number one was from influenza and 11 from pneumonia.

HAIG'S ADVICE TO COMRADES IN WAR

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

London, Feb. 28.—Lord Haig, presiding today at a grand council meeting of Comrades of the Great War, said that when men came home they were divided into various organizations because they were bribed away by certain promises from this and that political party. He therefore said to them to have nothing to do with any politics. (Loud cheers). He also said: "If we put our case rightly, we shall have all the right-thinking people of the Empire behind us."

ANOTHER RESIGNATION.

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—Mr. J. L. McNichol, assistant controller of newsprint, has resigned. His resignation was given the Government yesterday and has been accepted.

NINE WOMEN ON JURY.

Los Angeles, Feb. 28.—A jury of nine women and three men was completed today for the trial of Eloise Marie Marshell, accused of manslaughter in connection with the death of Samuel Lung in an automobile accident on Oct. 27 last.

LATEST

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

London, Feb. 28.—The Ministry of Food is continued for five years.

Lisbon, Feb. 28.—Striking telephone employees have resorted to the use of bombs. Several people have been killed and much property damaged. A strike of employees of boot and shoe stores has added to the general confusion.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Augustus Morrill, formerly U. S. Consul at Manzanillo, Mexico, was killed by bandits on February 26.

London, Feb. 28.—In reply to inquiries relative to a statement printed in the London Daily Telegraph this morning, that "serious information was received here Friday night regarding the situation in Japan," the Japanese Embassy declared this forenoon that it had no information of anything untoward occurring in that country.

Washington, Feb. 28.—All persons found violating the federal prohibition enforcement act will be proceeded against to the "limit of the law" irrespective of any state statutes legalizing the sale of liquors, it was announced today by Commissioner Roper, of the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—It is understood that Richard D. Waugh, ex-Mayor of Winnipeg and at present commissioner of the greater Winnipeg waterway commission, has been named as Canada's representative on the Saar Valley commission.

Rome, Feb. 28.—Protection of natural beauties is provided for in a bill presented in Parliament yesterday. The object is to preserve places having notable scenic, historic or traditional interest.

Boston, Feb. 28.—Industrial establishments were asked to divert the energies of their employees today to digging out railroad yards and junction points in New England, where thousands of cars have been stalled by recent snow storms. Experts on transportation, who conferred here, expressed the situation the worst in history. Many plants have had to shut down because of fuel shortages and others will be forced to close early next week unless traffic conditions are improved. The question of food supplies is also serious in some sections.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 28.—Eighty-six horses were burned to death in a fire which destroyed a livery stable here today. It was caused by an overheated stove.

New Glasgow, N. S., Feb. 28.—Fire was discovered this morning in the "job" workings, No. 3, at Balance No. 8 level south in No. 2 mine, Drummond Colliery, Westville. This mine is better known as the "Scott Pit." The men were immediately taken out of the mine and it is proposed to wall off the fire section. Spontaneous combustion was the cause of the trouble.

Newark, N. J., Feb. 28.—Mrs. P. Tuers, 100 years old, died here yesterday. Four generations of her family survive her.

OBITUARY.

George F. W. Newnham.

Ven. Archdeacon Newnham has received word of the recent death of a nephew, George F. W. Newnham, at the age of 37 years. He was assistant master at Barford Road county school and is survived by a widow. He gave four years of service to his country in the recent war, with the Army Service Corps at Mombassa, but escaped without a scratch though he suffered from septic poisoning, caused by a mosquito bite. Death resulted from meningitis.—St. Stephen Courier.

Miss Venda Wood.

Moncton, Feb. 28.—The death of Miss Venda Wood, daughter of Major and Mrs. Ernest E. Wood of Baie Verte, took place at the Moncton hospital yesterday, following an operation. The little girl was 11 years of age.

Albert Scott.

The death of Albert Scott took place at his home in Penobsquis on Wednesday, Feb. 25, after a lingering illness.

John W. Duke.

Moncton, Feb. 28.—A wide circle of friends and acquaintances will sincerely regret to learn of the death of John W. Duke, which occurred at his home in Moncton, Thursday afternoon, after a few days' illness of bronchitis. Mr. Duke was employed in the C. N. R. works, he having been in the Government service 26 years.

PERSONAL.

Miss Kyra While arrived here from London, G. B., this week, to visit her aunt, Mrs. J. S. Sutherland, at Saint Paul's Manse.

Earle R. Macnutt, barrister, of Halifax, sailed from that city today on the Cunard steamship Carmania for New York and Boston, on business for his firm, and on his return will visit his parents in this city.

Major E. O. Thomas, of St. John, is a guest at the Queen Hotel.

The condition of Mrs. Patrick Burns, Regent street, who is seriously ill with pneumonia, shows a slight improvement today.

The many friends of Miss Violet F. McConnell will regret to learn that she is confined to her room at 154 Regent street with a severe cold.

T. F. Sears, of Bathurst, is among the guests at the Queen Hotel.

Curling Results.

In the managing committee series last night, Skip A. E. McFarlane defeated Skip N. Dougherty, and is the leader in the series so far, having won the greatest number of games; he has lost only one. In the Points competition, A. S. McFarlane and J. C. Macnutt lead, each with a score of 39.

EFFECT OF STOCK EMBARGO ON C. P. R.

Vice-President Ogden Explains the Situation in Regard to C. P. R. Securities.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Montreal, Feb. 28.—Mr. R. G. Ogden, vice-president of the C. P. R., in charge of finance, in reference to recent despatches as to the effect of the embargo on stock transactions and of the exchange situation upon the sale of C. P. R. stock, explained that New York was the great market for the stock, and that nearly all the stock, even that held by Canadians and in Great Britain, was on the New York register. He did not think that any stock was being sent to Montreal for sale, and the embargo was having no effect upon the sale of the stock.

The exchange situation had had the effect of placing some of the stock held in Great Britain upon the market. Stock worth 120 held in London, on account of the premium upon United States exchange, would be worth about 170 in New York to the owner in Great Britain, if sold in New York. This inducement had brought out some stock, but Mr. Ogden did not think that sales were much above normal now.

ANOTHER STORM REPORTED COMING

spect is not serious, although some of the factories have not any large stock ahead. The Maritime Electric Company, however, announce that their works will be shut down on Sunday because of coal shortage. Local dealers have but small stocks of coal, some being out entirely, but they hope to have them replenished soon, as shipments of anthracite as well as soft coal are en route here.

The seriousness of the local fuel situation is emphasized by the extremely cold weather, the temperature dropping to 7½ below zero last night and standing at 4 below at 9 a. m. today. Meanwhile some of the sidewalks about the back of the town have not yet been cleared out, although large crowds of men are engaged in taking away the big banks of snow from the side of the road on Queen street.

Recommends British Grant Of $500,000 and Also Assisted Passage to the Dominions

The Overseas Settlement Committee Would Bring About an Early Discussion of Settlement Problems Between the Home Government and the Dominions.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

London, Feb. 28.—In the latest report of the Overseas Settlement Committee the year's work is reviewed both here and in the Dominions. It recommends an early discussion of settlement problems by home and Dominion representatives and also that for adequate supervision over immigration and co-operation with the Dominions the imperial Government should make a grant this year of £100,000, in addition to commitments on account of free passages. The committee should be empowered by speedy legislation to advise intending settlers and to control broker agents and propaganda.

"The Third Kiss"

One, two, three, and out she goes! There was no other way. She simply had to admit defeat when that third kiss was stamped where the gods intended it should go.

But a factory fire, a society scandal, a big settlement job, and the queerest tangle of hearts and honor you ever saw, all had to come before the final thrilling climax.

One—a theft! Two—an outrage! Three—come and label it to suit your own taste!

VITAL STATISTICS

Burial Permits

RURAL DISTRICTS

As there is at times, some difficulty experienced in rural districts in obtaining permits for burial, the following proviso from the Public Health Act, 1918, may be of interest to those concerned:

Section 35 . . . . . "Provided, however, that in country districts, a burial may take place without such authority being given by the sub district Board of Health, so long as the cause of death and notice of burial shall be given within thirty days, by mail, to the Sub-district Board of Health by any of the parties mentioned in sub section (a), (b), (c), and (d) of this section."

The Department of Health, however, requests that, whenever at all possible, permits for burial be obtained by the undertaker, and that only in extreme cases this proviso be exercised.

PULP AND PAPER IN NEW BRUNSWICK.

Pulp and Paper License is the first provision in our Timber Lands Act of 1918. The section stipulates:

(a) A license, to be known as "The Pulp and Paper License," which shall contain as part of its conditions, the following provisions and requirements: At least fifty per cent. of the lumber cut yearly upon the said Crown Lands under such license, shall be manufactured into pulp and paper or other manufactures of pulp within the Province of New Brunswick. That the Licensee agrees, upon taking out the license, that he shall acquire or erect and operate a pulp mill, within three years of the date of taking out such license, and that he shall acquire or erect and operate a paper mill or other mill which manufactures goods into which pulp largely enters as raw material, within five years from the same date, and that both the pulp and paper mill or other mill as aforesaid, shall be of sufficient capacity to manufacture the quantity of timber above mentioned, and further, that the operation of such pulp and paper mill or other mill as aforesaid, shall be continuous from year to year; such license to be renewable for a period of thirty years, and shall be subject to an extension, for a period of twenty years from the termination of the thirty year period, upon the condition hereinafter provided. The renewal from year to year for the thirty year period, and the yearly renewals during the extended period of twenty years, to be subject to a satisfactory compliance on the part of the Licensee, with such rules and regulations, as may be made from time to time, by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council in dealing with the Crown Lands of the Province.

The preamble says, among other things: "The establishment of pulp "and paper mills within the province "would inspire the investment of a "large amount of capital, and would "provide employment for a largely "increased number of people, and "would result in our raw material "being wrought into the more valu-"able finished product; and whereas "it is found necessary, in order to "secure the establishment of such a "valuable branch of the lumber in-"dustry, that a reasonable fixture of "tenure upon the Crown Lands be "provided for those embarking in the "pulp and paper industry," etc., etc. The licenses under the old Act expired August 1st, 1918. Of these, licenses for 116 square miles were renewed—exchanged for licenses—under the pulp and paper clause of the 1913 Act; and 337 square miles continued to be held under former conditions until 1918, when they were put up for sale under license for pulp and paper.

The license for pulp and paper is practically for a period of fifty years. Tenure was fixed for that length of time to encourage investment and activity in this province in the pulp and paper industry. Have the provisions of the Act been adhered to, and to what extent has the present Government been active in encouraging investment in and development of an industry of first importance? We see commendable development at Bathurst and at Edmundston, but the enterprise in either instance owes but little, if anything, to the energy of the Provincial Government. Why are other sections indifferent or idle at a time when pulp and paper has become one of the great needs of the day? There must be something lacking, and the responsibility must rest somewhere. Water power and coal are essentials. What has the Government done of practical utility to encourage the development of our water powers and the development of mineral resources for the purposes of industry? There is great activity in getting out logs and cutting them into convenient dimensions for shipment as raw material to other countries to promote industrial development there—to do there with our raw material what we should be doing here. Yet there are nine men who become irritated when the suggestion is made that the Government of this province is inequal to its responsibilities.

THE ST. LAWRENCE CANAL.

The International Joint Commission is to meet in Buffalo on March 1 to resume consideration of the projected St. Lawrence development. The proposal is that Canada and the United States undertake jointly, and for their mutual benefit, the improvement of the St. Lawrence River between Montreal and Lake Ontario so that it can be navigated safely by ocean vessels. The Montreal Gazette points out that Great Lakes cities, under this plan, are to become ocean ports and will load their products and the produce of the Canadian and American west directly into bottoms sailing to the United Kingdom, Europe, Africa and the Atlantic ports of North and South America. That is one part of the project. The other is, in a sense, secondary, but is first in the minds of some of the interests supporting the general scheme. By the construction of various river works necessary to provide deep water channels, and by supplementary works, it is proposed to utilize the vast hydro-electric power resources capable of development at various points along the river notably at the Long Sault. The territories concerned locally and to the greatest degree in this power development are the province of Ontario to the north and the State of New York to the south of the river. The province of Ontario, in so far as it has expressed any view at all, favors the scheme as likely to facilitate the extension of the hydro-electric power system of the provincial government. The State of New York, on the other hand, is represented as being hostile, but the reasons for its alleged hostility are reasons which might be advanced effectively elsewhere by supporters of the project. The Erie canal, a state enterprise, depends for a substantial percentage of its traffic upon grain from the Western States and from the Prairie Provinces of Canada, which traffic would be diverted if a superior competitive route were to be provided. The controlling factor would be a lowered cost of transportation, which should benefit the producer, and the weight of argument would be with the producer and shipper. The reported opposition of eastern United States railroads is in the same category.

United States coal companies now supplying the central Canadian market are also said to be organizing opposition to the St. Lawrence project, on the ground that the power development, for which the scheme provides, would render this country largely independent of fuel supplies from the United States. From the Canadian standpoint, and particularly in view of recent experiences, that is a contention which is calculated to materially strengthen whatever demand there is for the undertaking in Ontario. Whether or not, however, the development of even two million horse power along the St. Lawrence would have the effect suggested, is a moot question which cannot be answered in the affirmative on the basis of such data as is now available.

The whole problem is one of practicability from the standpoint of cost. It has been studied by engineers of both Governments, and has now been referred to the International Joint Commission for further investigation. The Commission is to hold sittings at various points in both Canada and the United States and will hold public hearings. It is to consider the question from a great many angles, taking into account the prospective advantages of the undertaking in their relation to the present distribution of population. It will compare alternative routes, and the comparative advantages of transportation by rail and water, and will hear evidence as to the practicability of interchanging lake and ocean traffic, a practicability which heretofore has been disputed by competent authorities. It must be shown that the cost of the undertaking, admittedly enormous, will be justified by the advantages to be secured, and it is extremely doubtful if that essential requirement can be met. So far as this country is concerned, the scheme must be judged in the light of the benefits which it will confer upon the whole of Canada, and not upon any one section or province of Canada. The cost, were the project to be undertaken, would have to be met by the country as a whole, and the present condition of the Dominion's finances do not warrant the assumption of a new obligation, involving some hundreds of millions upon an undertaking which it would take many years to complete and the fruits of which would be very long in coming to market.

Some farmers are "learning that the formation of farm-"ers' parties is not the only, nor the "best method of advancing the cause "of agriculture. EMBARGO INCLUDES THE C. P. R. STOCKS

Officials Say This is Because the Transfer Office Was Taken to New York.

Ottawa, Feb. 27.—Although the Canadian Pacific Railway is looked upon as a strictly Canadian institution, no Canadian Pacific Railway stock is to be transferred in any of the brokerage offices in Canada because of the recent embargo on foreign-owned securities.

This state of affairs has brought about, Ottawa brokers say, by the fact that the transfer office for Canadian Pacific Railway stock was moved to New York during the war for the benefit of European customers, and so far it has not been moved back into Canada, though it would be in due course. There is also the fact that the majority of the stock is held outside of Canada, and the road is therefore looked upon by brokers as a foreign-owned corporation. The Canadian Bankers' Association, with headquarters in Toronto, is understood to have jurisdiction over this matter.

St. John, N. B., Feb. 28.—The St. John Trades and Labor Council last night, among other things, recommended the appointment of a Minister of Labor in the New Brunswick Government.

Refiners Advance The Price of Sugar

Montreal, Feb. 27.—The abrogation of the control of sugar prices by the Board of Commerce was followed today by immediate action on the part of the sugar refineries in raising their prices. Atlantic Sugar Refineries, Limited, the Lawrence Refineries and the Dominion Refineries announce that their prices are raised per 100 lb. bag granulated sugar by two dollars and the Canada Refineries by one dollar. This advance brings prices up to $15.50 and $16.50 respectively.

Retailers have in some cases advanced their prices to nineteen and twenty cents a pound and it is expected that an increase to at least eighteen cents will be general.

AIRPLANE FELL OVER FIVE MILES

Dayton, Ohio, Feb. 28.—An airplane carrying Major R. W. Schroeder fell over five miles after reaching an altitude of 36,020 feet, and last night the officer was in hospital suffering from shock and partial blindness. Two thousand feet above the earth the plane righted itself and landed easily. The pilot was discovered sitting erect and apparently lifeless. The sudden change in air pressure crushed the gasoline tanks on the plane.

A DRY SEASON FOR THE YUKON

Dawson, Y. T., Feb. 27.—Territorial-wide prohibition of the liquor traffic has been endorsed by the people in the plebicite just held. The bone drys, with a few more polls to hear from, have a majority of 185 over those favoring a continuance of the bar, and of 265 over those favoring the establishment of Government liquor agencies.

ST. JOHN HARBOR'S FUTURE

St. John, Feb. 28.—A largely attended and lively meeting of the Commercial Club was held last evening in the G. W. V. FROM THE PEOPLE

THE BASHFUL LOVER.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I am a reader of your People's Column and derive much pleasure from so doing. Last evening I read an interesting item on the bashful lover and would like to give my views.

I think this bashfulness is all put on, because if there is no one around he will ask more questions than one could answer in a week, but if anyone is around he will not say a word. If you let him pick out his own chair he will be too bashful to sit down. If he is a little deaf you will have to sit quite close to him or else shout at him, and he will get mad. Maybe if you started to talk about sewing on buttons or baking beans he would think you were going to propose to him on account of this being leap year and be too bashful to stay. Or, if you spoke about the deep snow he would think you wanted him to go for a walk and he would be too bashful to go.

I do not care for those fellows who are too bashful to take their girls to the pictures or a dance once in a while, but who are satisfied to stay in the house like an old timer and watch you sew on buttons and talk about the weather and instead of bringing her a box of chocolates comes in with a bag of lozenges so they will last a long time.

If you met him at the door with a smile and anyone was around his face would go so red you would think he had changed his complexion during the night. Suppose your brother-in-law was working in a bank and your lover drove a grocery wagon, would you, when he asked you what your brother-in-law done, say, "Oh, he drives a grocery team, just like you," so as not to discourage him? If you were out for a walk with him and you met your girl friend he would be too bashful to speak to her. If you said you objected to a man getting his own breakfast he would say his mother always got his breakfast.

After you have tried all these various ways and failed, it is time to give up and be broken-hearted, for after you have said all these things he will never come back.

I am a young girl and have had experience and would like to hear some one else's views on the matter.

I am,
ONE INTERESTED.
South Devon, Feb. 25, 1920.

TAKE BOY FRIEND HOME.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I have seen quite a lot in your People's Column but there is one subject that has not yet been touched upon, and that is about a girl taking her boy friend home.

If a young girl were allowed to take her boy friend to her home instead of walking up and down the streets, freezing to death, many a girl who goes astray would be saved. At home she could enjoy herself and be under her parents' guidance.

Few young girls want to sit and watch her mother knit, or listen to her father and some old timers arguing as to how many barrels of potatoes they have, or how many pigs, or how many tons of hay they cut, so it is up to the parents to provide some amusement to keep their growing girls off the streets.

Hoping to see an answer to this, offering some good suggestions,

I am,
A YOUNG GIRL.
South Devon, Feb. 26, 1920.

PROHIBITION.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I would like to say a few words through the columns of your paper in answer to an article headed Arbitrary Prohibition. Now I am not going to say that prohibition is the right or only way to deal with the whiskey problem. In fact I think that the laws of prohibition, as they are and have been, leave a good deal to be desired. It may be all right as far as it goes but it doesn't go far enough.

This is a free country, and we are a free people, but when some menacing danger springs up in the land, take the "flu" for instance, do we consider the Board of Health as arbitrary when it interferes with our freedom. It closes the pleasure places against the public and puts in force other rules that are irksome and disagreeable.

"Well," you say, "that is necessary for the health and well-being of the public." Certainly it is. Also you may ask what that has to do with prohibition. Let us look closely and see. The laws that are in force against the whiskey business are just as much for the health and safety and well-being of our country as the laws that are in force in seasons of dangerous and contagious sicknesses. When a weaker brother stumbles and falls, have we not spunk enough to help remove the stumbling block by arbitrary means if necessary, even at the risk of discomfort to ourselves? Supposing, for the sake of argument, that whiskey is a necessity of life, and through misuse becomes an abasing evil, should we not try to banish that evil entirely? Jesus says, 'If thy right eye offend thee pluck it out and cast it from thee." He didn't say the left eye. He said the right eye. Supposing whiskey were to us even as our right eye, and yet it offends, is the means of the downfall of not one but many, then should we not pluck it out and cast it from us, no matter what sacrifice it requires on our part? If such proceedings are termed arbitrary, then let us have arbitrary prohibition by all means.

We are all familiar with the accidents crimes and general lawlessness that are the direct or indirect result of intemperance and we dare not say that the "booze" is not an evil.

Prohibition has done much to keep down the whiskey business, but as long as it is manufactured, as long as the distilleries are licensed and allowed to operate by the Government, just so long will men indulge their desire for whiskey, for get it they will in spite of laws and officers. It is a modern translation of a doggerel verse I used to hear:

"Holy Moses, King of the Jews,
Sold his wife for a bottle of booze."

What can we expect when the doctors write out "booze" prescriptions to whomsoever comes to them and intimidates that they are "dry." I don't mean to say all doctors do this, but too many of them do so, and some of them are not above indulging in a satisfying draught themselves.

The manufacture of the accursed stuff must stop, and I believe the time is coming when there will be men enough of the right type in our Governments to crush the evil. Those who countenance the makers of it are to blame. They are mainly responsible in the sight of God for souls hurled [illegible] through intemperance.

Yours,
TEMPERANCE.

Need a Divorce Court.

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—In the Senate last night Senator Proudfoot expressed regret that no mention had been made of proportional representation in the Speech from the Throne. He stated also that the great number of divorce cases, 120 being now before Parliament, emphasized the need of a divorce court in Canada. He expressed appreciation of the Dominion franchise bill now before Parliament and in conclusion expressed regret at the continued absence of Premier Borden. Senator Chapais moved the adjournment of the Senate until Tuesday afternoon, when he will second the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

The Junior—Fine! I can visit all the dance halls, cabarets and things in town nights, then claim credit for research work and get away with it.

The Reason.

The Tourist—Five miles to the village? Great Scott! What made them build the silly station all that distance from the place?

The Porter—I really couldna tell yo, sir, unless they thocht it micht be mair use doon here by the railway.

Exactitude.

"Hiram," said Mrs. Corntossel, "it was going too far for you to say our boy Josh isn't worth his salt."

"Mebbe 'twas. Salt ain't so dear. But I'll hang to it that the way he's workin' now Josh ain't worth his sugar."

LABOR SITUATION IS MUCH IMPROVED

Number of Unemployed Ex-Service Men Decreasing—Work Found for Many.

Ottawa, Feb. 27—An increase in the number of placements in occupations and a consequent decrease in the number of unemployed ex-service men, is shown by the current report of the Information and Service Branch of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment. Another satisfactory feature of the report is that there has been a substantial decrease in the number of certificates issued under the operation of the federal emergency appropriation.

During the week ending February 21, 3,200 ex-service men were placed in employment, the highest number for any week since Sept. 20 last, bringing the total number of placements through the activities of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment to 126,672.

The number of ex-service men out of employment is recorded as being 30,588, a reduction of 1,500 in one week.

The number of certificates issued under the federal emergency appropriation amounted to 2,506 during the week, and the renewals to 10,543, being the smallest weekly total since the inception of this form of aid and being approximately 1,000 less than the number issued during the preceding week.

Altogether the report shows improvement in the employment situation insofar as the ex-service man is concerned.

CANADIAN LAW TO OPERATE IN AIR

An Important Amendment to the British North America Act Proposed.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Ottawa, Feb. 27.—An important amendment to the British North America Act, involving in one sense the status of the Dominion Parliament, will be laid before the House of Commons in a few days. It comes in the usual form of an address to the King requesting the passage of an amendment act by the parliament of the United Kingdom.

It asks, in its formal terms, that the British North America Act be so amended that "any enactment of the parliament of Canada, otherwise within the legislative authority of the parliament, shall so operate and be deemed to have operated extra territorially, according to its intention in the like manner and to the same extent as if enacted by the parliament of the United Kingdom."

At the present time there is doubt whether a law passed by the Dominion Parliament has extra territorial effect. In other words, can a Canadian, not at the time in Canada, be punished for breach of a Canadian law? The particular case in point is that of aviation. The air board has laid down regulations for the control of Canadian airmen, but if an offense against the regulations were committed while airmen were not over Canadian territory there is doubt if he could be punished. The airman might claim that once outside Canada, he was not, although a Canadian, subject to Canadian laws. With adoption of the proposed amendment to the British North America Act, however, there will be no question of the operation of Canadian law. An airman or other Canadian citizen, could be punished for infraction of it once he returned to Canada.

The status of the Dominion parliament is involved in the fact that Canadian legislation is, in regard to extra territorial effect to be placed an a par with that of the parliament of the United Kingdom.

WILL NOT ACCEPT PREPAYMENT HERE

Proposed Regulation of Freight Traffic to U. S. Over Canadian Railways.

Ottawa, Feb. 27.—Members of the railway commission will confer with representatives of Canadian railways tomorrow with regard to the proposed regulation by the Canadian Railways that, effective March 1st, they will not accept prepayment on freight traffic from Canada to points in the United States, but collect in the latter country, where there is a high premium over Canadian money. A protest against the proposed regulation, and against its enforcement without a hearing before the railway commission, was made by the Board of Montreal. The matter has not been set down for hearing at any sitting of the board, but will be taken up between the commission and the railway representatives direct.

EFFECT ON SUGAR PRICES UNCERTAIN

Montreal, Feb. 27. — The effect of lifting the government control of sugar prices is as yet uncertain. Officials of the St. Lawrence Sugar Refinery and of the Atlantic Sugar Refinery are unable to state what the result will be, but an increase in price is expected by them owing to the shortage of raw materials.

Big shipments from Cuba, however, will ease the situation in the near future in that respect.

No Uncertainty about this Milk —its Quality or its Delivery

It comes from Canada's finest dairy sections. It is pure "whole" milk. But is delivered in a safer, more convenient way. It is sealed. If you wish, you can keep a week's supply—or a month's—on your pantry shelves. Then you have fresh, rich milk every time you open a can. When you run short, you simply phone the grocer for more.

That is how Milk comes from the spotless Carnation Condenseries.

Gathered every morning from Ontario farms, Carnation Milk must first pass rigid tests and inspections. Part of the water is evaporated from it. Then, rich and creamy, it goes fresh into new clean containers and is sealed. It is sterilized to insure its purity.

No sugar or anything else added.

Carnation Milk is "whole" milk—nothing more. Richer, of course, because it contains only half as much water. Safe because it is Sterilized. Kept pure because it is sealed.

Add Water to Carnation Milk

Water has been taken out. Carnation comes to you rich and creamy—just right for coffee, tea, fruits or cereals. But you may have it as rich as you wish. Add an equal part of water and Carnation has the natural richness of whole milk. Most people add even more water. Double the quantity of water makes a nourishing drink for kiddies—safe and usually superior in quality to ordinary milk.

Carnation is milk of unusual quality—without the bother or uncertainty of daily deliveries.

Carnation waits your convenience.

Ready—fresh—the moment you want it.

NORTHUMBERLAND HAS SEED FAIR

[Chatham World.]

Northumberland County held its fourteenth annual Seed Fair at the Agricultural Office, Tuesday, and it was the best attended of all the numerous fairs that have been held. The number of exhibits perhaps were not quite so numerous as has been the case at one or two other fairs, but as for quality, it surpassed everything by a wide margin. Some of the exhibits that were good enough to easily win at the recent Amherst Fair, had to go down to defeat to the strong competition at Chatham.

Henry Gordon carried off the majority of the prizes. So successful has Mr. Gordon been in years gone by, that occasionally it is remarked, that he has won enough prizes and should not show and thus give others a chance to win. This would be very deplorable. It would be lowering the standard of the Fair; it would be a good deal like sending out copy books to the school children, with poorly written headlines, so their own writing would not look so far from perfect.

A feature of the show this year were the classes for new exhibitors. No old exhibitors, or sons of old exhibitors can enter in this class. A very pleasing thing occurred, however—the grain shown by new exhibitors was on the average better than that shown by the older exhibitors.

Mr. S. J. Moore had planned on being on hand to judge the exhibits, but was unavoidably absent. Mr. O. C. Hicks, who was to have conducted a class in seed judging, had to judge the exhibits, and thus the farmers missed a very beneficial experience in the practical work given by such a demonstration as had been planned.

After the prizes had been awarded, a short meeting was held, presided over by President Fisher. The farmers were addressed for a few minutes by Mr. Fisher, O. C. Hicks, B. S. A., and Jas. Bremner, Jr. The announcement was made that Mr. A. C. McCulloch, Provincial Poultry Superintendent, will give an illustrated lecture in the Town Hall, which will prove of great interest to town as well as country folks, particularly with eggs at their present price.

The Short Course continues till Friday afternoon. Tonight an illustrated lecture will be given in the Town Hall on the Poultry Industry.

Cardinal O'Connell Warns Women of U. S. of Perils

Every Possible Attempt Made to Drag Her Down From Throne of the Christian Woman and Debase Her to Purely Pagan Ideals, Declares the Cardinal.

Boston, Feb. 27.—Cardinal O'Connell, in a forceful address delivered yesterday to more than 2,000 members of the Ladies' Catholic Benevolent Association in the Boston Opera House, warned them that "every possible attempt is being made today to draw down from her throne the Christian woman and to debase her to purely pagan ideals."

"That is a very strong statement," said the cardinal, "but it is perfectly true, and you know it is true. I need not go into the details. We need not talk about dress, the theatre (we are in one now), the dance, the costumes, the customs which today are prevalent everywhere. Why, the thing in itself is so ugly that even if people kept their normal vision they would see its ugliness and refuse to follow such a degraded ideal.

"The fact is, however, that bad example has so corrupted the popular sight that it is only by holding straight and fervent and close to the true vision of the godly woman, her godly ideals, that she can escape at all from its terrible contagion. I say terrible! That is a very weak word. Terrible not only in its human results, because when the fineness, the delicacy, the decency and modesty of woman is gone, there is nothing left."

The occasion was the celebration of the 15th aniversary of the association in the Boston diocese. The cardinal was the honor guest. The Rt. Rev. Mgr. M. J. Splaine, officials, chaplain-general of the association, was seated at the cardinal's right on the stage. The Rev. Dr. John J. Ryan, P. R., of St. Paul's Cambridge, was on the cardinal's left. Mrs. Alice C. Maloney, supreme trustee of the association, and president of the diocesan chapter, presided. Addresses were delivered by several of the national officers, including Miss Kate Mahoney of Troy, supreme president, and Mrs. Mary E. Costello of Brooklyn, supreme treasurer. There was a fine musical programme, including solos by Miss Edith Franklin, Miss Rose Leverone and Edward H. Sullivan. An orchestra composed of a score of the younger members of the association furnished instrumental music. The exercises ended with a blessing by the cardinal and the singing of the "Te Deum."

The cardinal opened his address by congratulating the women "for the really remarkable work which has been done by your organization for the past 15 years." He characterized the association as one of the best, most numerous in point of membership, and one of the most influential of the Catholic women's organizations of America.

Speaking of the importance of being careful in the matter of fraternal beneficiary organizations, the cardinal said:

"There are so many promises being made right and left of all sorts of benefits to be conferred by merely entering some organization, that experience proves very few practically can be kept, and have been kept; and the church feels it her sacred obligation to guide the people right not only in the great eternal truths of life which conduct them to eternal happiness in heaven, but to lead them right even in their earthly lives, and to stand as a mother, a guardian, friend; to counsel them in the things they ought to be careful about doing, especially the schemes which are so often launched with glittering promises and attract people's minds for the moment, but which have behind them sinister things, and which lead the way into the wrong avenue."

All Projects Investigated.

Here the cardinal explained how conservative the church is before it endorses any project. The whole matter is investigated on all sides, he said. A Catholic women's organization formed purely and simply on a financial basis, said the cardinal, would not last six months. It must have an ideal. "And what is that ideal?" he asked. "It is to hold before your minds and your souls the great Christian idea of Christian womanhood. That, and no other. That is a very simple statement, but it is the most profound and sublime statement that could ever be made, for it embraces everything else that is fine and high and enduring.

"We only have to look about us. You won't have to look around you to realize that every possible attempt is being made today to drag down from her throne the Christian woman and to debase her to purely pagan ideals. That is a very strong statement and yet it is perfectly true and you know it is true."

At this point the cardinal spoke about dress, the theatre, the dance. Continuing, he said:

Infectious Propaganda.

"All the tendencies of today are to destroy the fineness, the delicacy, the sweetness, the modesty, the decency, the elevation of mind of womanhood, and to put in her place an ideal which we call pagan but which the pagans would reject as unworthy. I need not dwell on that idea. You know it. Most of the propaganda that is being used is so infectious, so subtle, that nowadays you have to do either one of two things—you must close yourself up so that you can shut out these foul things, or else stand firm. Stand firm. See the danger. Recognize it. Put it out. Don't go where it is. Refuse to have anything to do with it. It is nasty, it is vicious, it is degrading.

"Unless there is a strong force in the world, maintaining that ideal against allcomers, no matter what the world says about it, no matter what the fashion books print about it, no matter what the theatre tries to preach about it, no matter what the dance hall tries to allure into it, unless you keep that ideal, not only has the war been lost, not only have these millions spilled their blood in vain, not only are the true ideals of peace among men vanishing, but the world will be flooded with corruption and God, looking down upon us, will hide His face.

"Men Lost With Women,"

"This whole question is a question for women. It is a woman question through and through. If the women lose that ideal, then the men are lost with the women. How can a man respect womankind ever after? How can a little child look into its mother's face and love it? If the salt loses its flavor then the world is lost, for the salt of the earth is the good, true, Christian woman.

"This fact we recognized in founding in this diocese the League of Catholic Women. We have taken our banner up and we are determined that it shall not go down. We are determined to face all these noises. We may not be able to down them all. They are rich. They appeal to everything vicious. We can only tell the truth, and that sometimes seems cold. But in God's name we shall hold that banner up until the storm is passed, because it is a storm, it is a hurricane threatening the world with ruin.

"Now, the chief and main and unique purpose of the League of Catholic Women, to which you have given your adhesion, is to hold these ideals high and intangible, so that no one will tear them down. And with God's help the League of Catholic Women will do that noble work for God and for woman, and for man as well.

"Stand Fast," the Watchword.

"At our meeting yesterday, a set of resolutions was passed which no doubt all of you have read. They were all printed in the public papers today. It is a noble statement of the ideals which permeate the League of Catholic Women, their minds and their hearts. We either must accept these standards or deny them. You either must follow the way of the world, with all its viciousness, or you must stand fast. Therefore, I want every woman in this organization to realize she has in the League of Catholic Women a safe haven. You can't leave your work, your place in the world, but what you can do is to find at least a haven where the standards are right, and where you are sure of protection.

"Cast off once and forever all these matters of dress, the dance, amusements and entertainments which have only one tendency, to destroy the soul of woman. Never mind, even if you have to live a lonely life. Rather than live that kind of a life, live alone, for in your solitude you have God Almighty with you.

"This, my dear women, is a solemn appeal. This is the first Sunday of Lent. It is time to think, and think hard and deep. What are we going to do? Are we going to go with the tide that is flowing rapidly into the sea of lust, sin and degradation, or are we going to stem the tide and swim against it? It is for you to choose; but remember when you have made your choice you must abide by the responsibility of your own choice, and if afterward all the ashes of disappointment come back to you and taste so bitter in your mouths, then at least you must say, 'I had been warned of all this; this is all my own doing.'

"But that, please God, will not happen. The League of Catholic Women now established, having already nearly 6,000 members, will never stop, in its progress with that banner of Christion womanhood until every woman in this diocese enrolls as a member. And with 500,000 women who know what they are doing, who recognize their ideals, and accept them, facing the world with the strength of virtue, honesty and honor. The world is a coward if you only face it.

"You will find that on this occasion too, the Catholic women who have had apparently no voice amid all these cries of luxury and immorality and selfish amusement and vicious dress, will have a voice, and its voice will prevail, notwithstanding all the clamor of its opposers.

U. N. B. Basketball Team to Leave on Monday for Annual Trip to Include Halifax

Game With Dalhousie University Included in the Itinerary and They Expect to Play in Moncton on Thursday While En Route Home—Normal School Playing Today.

The U. N. B. basketball team are leaving on Monday evening for a trip to Nova Scotia, which will include several games at Halifax and probably at Moncton.

Leaving here on Monday evening, the Red and Black quintette will play Halifax Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday evening, the Dalhousie University team on Wednesday evening, and on the return trip will probably take in Moncton, playing there on Thursday evening.

The team, under the guidance of Capt. Gregory Bridges, will probably line up as follows: Forwards, Dummer and Willet; centre, Bridges; and defence, Burden and McAndrews.

After the showing made here last week against the St. John Y.M.C.A. the U. N. B. team are expected to make a good showing on the trip.

It is not known yet what substitutes will be taken on the trip.

The St. John High School and the Normal School basketball teams are playing here this afternoon.

The Indiana Association of County and District Fairs, in recent session at Indianapolis, passed a resolution recommending that its members conduct their speed programme under the added-money plan. Another resolution was carried to the effect that where the general admission to a fair has in the past been less than fifty cents the admission fee be raised to that amount.

ZIMMERMAN AND CHASE MISSING

Both Failed to Report to the Giants Who Left New York for South Today.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York, Feb. 28.—Headed by Christy Mathewson, the main contingent of the New York National League Baseball Club departed today by special train for San Antonio, Texas, for spring training. Other players and recruits will be picked up at various points. Manager McGraw is en route to the Texas city from Havana.

Although Heine Zimmerman and Hal Chase were ordered to report here today, they did not do so. Zimmerman sent back his contract unsigned, while Chase, according to reports has decided to quit baseball for business in California.

The advance guard of the New York American team will leave tonight for spring training quarters at Jacksonville.

CHANGES TO BE MADE IN U.N.B. TEAM AT ONCE

Capt. Burgess Going Back to Coverpoint and Jewett to Point.

PLAY-OFF NECESSARY IN EASTERN SECTION

U. N. B.-Acadia Game Will Not Be Played Before Wednesday and Final on Friday.

With playoffs necessary in both the eastern and western sections of the Maritime Intercollegiate Hockey League, semi-finals are now expected to take place next Wednesday night with the final deciding game on Friday night.

King's College tied up St. Francis Xavier for the eastern section's honors by winning from them last night at Windsor, N. S., by the same score the Xaverians had won by earlier in the week at Antigonish, N. S., and it is expected they will play off on neutral ice probably next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Meanwhile U. N. B. now decline to play Acadia before next Wednesday night, and the game will take place that evening at Moncton, if the rink in the railway city is then available. Today negotiations are going on to that end, and it is expected that U. N. B. and Acadia will submit a joint proposal to King's and St. Francis Xavier to have the play-off between the winners in the two sections at Moncton on Friday night.

May Have Special Train.

When the U. N. B. hockey council got word yesterday that Acadia were holding their team over at St. John in the expectation of getting the play-off arranged for not later than Tuesday at Moncton, in which event they would send the Acadia team along to Moncton to stay there and get used to surroundings, plans here were changed and word was sent to the Acadia team that U. N. B. would not play before Wednesday, or perhaps Thursday. This, however, was merely some "jockeying" on the part of the strategists, but it indicates that U. N. B. don't figure their defeat by Acadia has eliminated them by any means.

On the contrary the U. N. B. students have authorized Manager McWilliam to endeavor to secure a special train to carry the team and rooters from here to Moncton for the game, and if transportation conditions return to anything like normal it is believed a special will be arranged and 100 or more people will then be included in the party making the trip from here, leaving probably the morning of the game and returning again that night or else staying over for the final tilt for championship honors, if U. N. B. wins from Acadia.

Changes in U. N. B. Team.

Realizing the sorry showing made by their defence against Acadia, those in charge of the U. N. B. team are preparing to make substantial changes in the lineup of their team before the play-off takes place. "There must be some changes," said Coach Blaine Pugh this morning. "That's evident, and I expect the outcome will be that Jewett will be moved back to point and Burgess used at coverpoint. Shea will be given a chance to play wing and we will probably use a number of players alternately in Burgess' old place. The U. N. B. defence were instructed to play the "parallel defence" style, but they failed to do so against Acadia, and their checking, I know, was pitiable to look upon."

U. N. B. officials could give no confirmation of the report that Sandy Staples would take charge of the Red and Black defence and try to change their style of play in the short time left between now and the play-off date. Local hockey followers, however, feel some such arrangement should be made and would be of great advantage. The U. N. B. are practicing at the Arctic Rink early this afternoon. —J. D. B.

King's Defeats St. F. X. And Play Off is Needed

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Windsor, N. S., Feb. 28.—King's College defeated St. Francis Xavier before three hundred spectators in the fastest game of hockey seen here this year in the local rink last night by a score of 8 to 5.

The first period went to King's, who scored 3 goals to their opponents 1. King's duplicated their tallies in the second and held St. F. X. scoreless, making the score 6 to 1. In the third period St. F. X. made a belated recovery, and scored 4 goals to King's 2, making a total score of 8 to 5 in favor of the local college.

DEMPSEY INDICTED AS DRAFT EVADER

World's Champion Pugilist Will Be Arrested as Los Angeles Today.

San Francisco, Feb. 28.—Indictments charging Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, with evading the draft have been filed and warrants will be sworn out to arrest him on his arrival at Los Angeles today.

The grand jury proceedings which have been hanging fire some weeks, closed yesterday. That the department of justice was sure of its ground in the investigation of the case was made known by E. E. Orr, an agent of the department, who announced that the indictments would be returned. Sensational charges against Dempsey were intimated by Orr in connection with the alleged letters of the fighter to Mrs. Dempsey and to other friends in Wells, Nev., where the agent visited a few weeks ago to uncover information concerning Dempsey's status during the war.

The Government recently came into possession of 35 letters upon which the charges against Dempsey and Kearns are based. E. M. Blanford, chief representative of the department of justice in this district, has refused to make known the contents of these communications, saying the Government would not show its hand before the trial.

Dempsey was placed in class 4 of the draft on the ground that he had dependents. The Government asserts that at the time he had no dependents, that he did not contribute to the support of his divorced wife, Maxine Dempsey, a dancer, and intimates that during the period mentioned she supported him.

At the present time Dempsey is engaged by a local concern as the principal character in a motion picture now in the making.

JACKSON-DUNDEE BOUT IS ARRANGED

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York, Feb. 28.—Willie Jackson, of New York, and Johnny Dundee, of New Jersey, were matched yesterday to battle in Jersey City on Monday, March 8.

Jackson is one fighter whom Dundee would delight in knocking out, if for no other reason than to efface the blot Willie put on Johnny's escutcheon by knocking him cold in a round one night in Philadelphia. Dundee has claimed it was a lucky punch that laid him out for the only knockout of his long ring career. Since then they have met a couple of times and Jackson has been unable to repeat his sensational performance.

They say it is to be called the International Trotting Association.

The Bay State Circuit stewards meet in Springfield on Thursday.

The new association is heralded as a cure for all the ills of racing.

Eddie Eayrs, Often Sought By the Pets a Few Years Ago, Going South With Braves

Former Brown University Star Will Go South with the Boston Braves on Sunday and Is Expected to Become a Regular Outfielder—Ray Keating Sold to Los Angeles Club.

Boston, Feb. 28.—Eddie Eayrs, who has managed the Providence club and played in the outfield for the past two years, and who made a big reputation in his college days at Brown as a southpaw pitcher, came to terms yesterday with President Grant of the Boston Braves, and will be taken south with the squad on Sunday. Eayrs has always been a free hitter and last year had a batting average of .338. He did better than that the year before.

Ray Keating Sold.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 28.—The management of the Boston Nationals announce that Pitcher Ray Keating has been sold to the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast League. It was said that Keating was not satisfied with the contract the Braves offered him this year.

The Boston Americans have sent Infielder Wm. B. Satterlee, of North Adams, to the Portsmouth Club of the Virginia League for further seasoning. Manager Barrow has notified the club's headquarters to include Jimmy Lynch, a left-hander, in the squad of pitchers that leaves Boston today for the training camp at Hot Springs, Arkansas. Lynch has played semi-professional ball in the vicinity of New York.

URGES SALE OF FLOUR TO EUROPE

American Relief Association Declares Millions are Starving on Continent.

New York, Feb. 27. — The United States government is [illegible] the sale on credit of 10,000,000 barrels of flour now held by the rGain Corporation to feed the millions of starving men, women and children in the cities of Poland, Austria, Hungary, Bohemia and Armenia, in an appeal issued here tonight by the American relief administration. Thousands must slowly starve, the appeal added, if America, the Allies and neutrals continue to withhold their surplus food supplies from these famine-stricken countries.

The appeal, which calls upon the American people to "give evidence at once to Congress of their desire to do this great and necessary service," is signed by Herbert Hoover, John Willis Baer, moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States; Livingston Farrand, chairman American Red Cross; Cardinal Gibbons, Samuel Gompers, Charles Evans Hughes, Presidents Hadley of Yale, Hibben of Princeton, and Wilbur of Leland Stanford.

The United States has remaining from last year's harvest a surplus of 60,000,000 barrels of flour which it cannot sell abroad for cash, the appeal stated, adding that the profits from the sale of export wheat already amounted to $50,000,000.

"The necessities," explained the appeal, "could be covered by the sale on credit from the Grain Corporation of 10,000,00 barrels of flour, costing between $125,000,000 and $150,0000,000 delivered." A large part of the relief is needed in Poland, it was stated.

MENACE BRITISH TEXTILE TRADE

Halifax, England, Feb. 27—Presiding over the Halifax Chamber of Commerce yesterday, F. Holroyd said the Americans were making no secret of their intention to use the whole of the cotton crop produced in America, which would be a serious thing for the textile trade of Great Britain, unless steps were taken to obtain raw cotton from other sources. Another member of the chamber said the price of cotton was so high that wool was being used to cheapen some materials.

JOHNSON'S Anodyne LINIMENT

A doctor's famous prescription—internal and external use—for Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Grippe, Bronchitis, Tonsilitis, Cramps, Chills, Sprains, Strains, etc. A safe, sure and satisfying anodyne that soothes, heals, and stops pain.

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made.

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth); then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the bottle. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you 16 ounces of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for $2.50.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

THE FALSE TOOTH CRISIS BRIDGED

Mechanics Who Turn Out Molars for Dentists Get as High as $75 Weekly.

New York, Feb. 27.—Although dental circles are aroused by the threat of a strike among the skilled men who fix up artistic false teeth and settings for thousands who are without the advantage of legitimate molars the agitation has calmed down somewhat today and the chances of a false tooth famine are lessened. The false teeth situation, nevertheless, is somewhat involved.

The teeth, is appears, are made by the million by different dental supply companies and sold by them to the dentists as the latter have a demand for molars, incisors, grinders, upper or lower cutters or chewers.

All the dentist has to do is to make an impression in wax, send it to the supply company and he gets beautiful bogus ivories back by return mail. The same system applies to crowns and bridges and other paraphernalia, but of course does not apply to the hydraulic hammers, electric drills and cantilever cranes which belong primarily to the excavation side of the business.

Some dentists are so proud and prosperous that they have skilled mechanics for their own laboratories, and the putting together of teeth, crown or bridge is done on the premises, together with whatever filing, cutting and polishing is necessary.

Of the 2,500 or so dentists in the city a great majority do not employ these artistic tooth fitters, but turn the preliminary work over to one of seventy-five community laboratories. The finishing touches are put on by the dentist himself, who seems to enjoy this work only a little less keenly than he does sending the bill a little later on.

There are about 1,200 dental mechanics employed in New York. Many of them are highly skilled men and receive from $50 to $75 a week. There have been several salary increases in this line recently, but some of the men think the increase has not been commensurate with the rising cost of living. Hence the strike talk, which has been helped along by organizers who have sought to line up the dental workers in a union.

Many of the employers say their men are satisfied with the present wage scale.

WOMAN 104 YEARS OLD IS MISSING

Strays from Home of Friend—Police Asked to Search for Her by Friends.

New York, Feb. 26.—Somewhere in the streets of New York a woman 104 years old is roaming about in search of her home and her relatives. She is known only as Mrs. Klein.

From a report made to the police Mrs. Klein, whose address is given as 59 East 107th street, disappeared yesterday from the home of her friend, Mrs. Fannie Klasner, at 611 Park avenue, Brooklyn, where she was visiting. Mrs. Klasner had gone out to a store, and when she returned she was unable to find her visitor.

Word of the disappearance was served on the police of the Vernon avenue precinct in Brooklyn and the Missing Persons' Bureau was notified. Early today it was reported at headquarters that the woman had been found, but there was no one in the Police Department who could tell when or where or what had been done with the wanderer.

Mrs. Klein is described as being about 4 feet 10 inches in height, weighing 100 pounds and having blue eyes and gray hair. She wore a white shawl over her head and a black cape shawl on her shoulders, black and white checked waist and a black skirt.

PURE BRED STOCK IN POULTRY PAYS

The pure bred fowl possesses many advantages over cross-breds and mongrels. There is more reliability in their breeding. Experience has shown that pure bred birds will convert every particle of food and energy toward production. The meat is of improved quality and the flock is superior in every way for table poultry. The uniformity of the grade is more even and gives better market returns. The eggs are more even in size and color. The fowls present a much more attractive appearance, being uniform in size and color. The eggs and stock for breeding purposes are worth much more than for market alone. The revenue from this source in a good flock is not a small item. The preferred breed may also be selected for the particular purpose to which the farmer of poultry-men wishes to specialize upon.

FOOD CONTROL ACT UNCONSTITUTIONAL

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 27.—The amendment to the Lever Food Control Act was declared unconstitutional by United States District Judge Faris here yesterday, when he sustained a demurrer of the defense and dismissed the case of the L. Cohen Grocery Company, which was charged with making an unjust profit on sugar.

True Knights of Faith

"Our cousin Charles has had experience of our friendship," the prince continued, "and now, by the Saints! he shall feel a touch of our displeasure. I send now a message to our cousin Charles which his whole kingdom may read. Let him take heed lest worse befall him. Where is my Lord Chandos? Ha, Sir John, I commend this worthy knight to your care. You will see that he hath refection, and such a purse of gold as may defray his charges, for indeed it is great honor to any court to have within it so noble and gentle a cavalier. How say you, sire?" he asked, turning to the Spanish refugee, while the herald of Navarre was conducted from the chamber by the old warrior.

"It is not our custom in Spain to reward pertness in a messenger," Don Pedro answered, patting the head of his greyhound. "Yet we have all heard the lengths to which your royal generosity runs."

"In sooth, yes," cried the King of Majorca.

"Who should know it better than we?" said Don Pedro bitterly, "since we have had to fly to you in our trouble as to the natural protector of all who are weak."

"Nay, nay, as brothers to a brother," cried the prince, with sparkling eyes. "We doubt not, with the help of God, to see you very soon restored to those thrones from which you have been so traitorously thrust."

"When that happy days comes," said Pedro, "then Spain shall be to you as Aquitaine, and, be your project what it may, you may ever count on every troop and every ship over which flies the banner of Castile."

"And," added the other, "upon every aid which the wealth and power of Maorca can bestow."

"Touching the hundred thousand crowns in which I stand your debtor," continued Pedro carelessly, it can no doubt—"

"Not a word, sire, not a word!" cried the prince. "It is not now when you are in grief that I would vex your mind with such base and sordid matters. I have said once and forever that I am yours with every bow-string of my army and every florin in my coffers."

"Ah! here is indeed a miror of chivalry," said Don Pedro. "I think, Sir Fernando, since the prince's bounty is stretched so far, that we may make further use of his gracious goodness to the extent of fifty thousand crowns. Good Sir William Felton, here, will doubtles settle the matter with you."

The stout old English counsellor looked somewhat blank at this prompt acceptance of his master's bounty.

"If it please you, sir," he said, "the public funds are at their lowest, seeing that I have paid twelve thousand men of the companies and the new taxes—the hearth-tax and the wine tax—not yet come in. If you could wait until the promised help from England comes—"

"Nay, nay, my sweet cousin," cried Don Pedro. "Had we known that your own coffers were so low, or that this sorry sum could have weighed one way or the other, we had been loth indeed—"

"Enough, sire, enough!" said the prince, flushing with vexation. "If the public funds be, indeed, so backward, Sir William, there is still, I trust my own private credit, which hath never been drawn upon for my own uses, but is now ready in the cause of a friend in adversity. Go, raise this money upon our own jewels, if nought else may serve, and see that it be paid over to Don Fernando."

"In security I offer—" cried Don Pedro.

"Tush! tush!" said the prince. "I am not a Lombard, sire. Your kingly pledge is my security, without bond or seal. But I have tidings for you, my lords and lieges, that our brother of Lancaster is on his way for our capital with four hundred lances and as many archers to aid us in our venture. When he hath come, and when our fair consort is recovered in her health, which I trust by the grace of God may be ere many weeks be past, we shall then join the army at Dax and set our banners to the breeze once more."

A buzz of joy at the prospect of immediate action rose up from the group of warriors. The prince smiled at the martial ardor which shone upon every face around him.

"It will hearten you to know," he continued, "that I have sure advices that this Henry is a very valiant leader, and that he has it in his power to make such a stand against us as promises to give us much honor and pleasure. Of his own people he hath brought together, as I learn, some fifty thousand, with twelve thousand of the French free companies, who are, as you know, very valiant and expert men-at-arms. It is certain, also, that the brave and worthy Bertrand de Guesclin hath ridden into France to the Duke of Anjou, and purposes to take back with him great levies from Picardy and Brittany. We hold Bertrand in high esteem, for he has oft before been at great pains to furnish us with an honorable encounter. What think you of it, my worthy Captal? He took you at Cocherel, and, by my soul! you will have the chance now to pay that score."

The Gascon warrior winced a little at the allusion, nor were his countrymen around him better pleased, for on the only occasion when they had encountered the arms of France without English aid they had met with a heavy defeat.

"There are some who say, sire," said the bury De Clisson, "that the score is already overpaid, for that without Gascon help Bertrand had not been taken at Auray, nor had King John been overborne at Poictiers."

"By heaven! but this is too much," cried an English nobleman. "Methinks that Gascony is too small a cock to crow so lustily."

"The smaller cock, my Lord Audley, may have the longer spur," remarked the Capta de Buch.

"May have its comb clipped if it make over-much noise," broke in an Englishman.

"By our Lady of Rocamadour!" cried the Lord of Mucident, "this is more than I can abide. Sir John Charnell, you shall answer to me for those words!"

"Freely, my lord, and when you will," returned the Englishman carelessly.

"My Lord de Clisson, cried Lord Audley, "you look somewhat fixedly in my direction. By God's soul! I should be right glad to go further into the matter with you."

"And you, my Lord of Pommers, said Sir Nigel, pushing his way to the front, "it is in my mind that we might break a lance in gentle and honorable debate over the question."

For a moment a dozen challenges flashed backwards and forwards at this sudden bursting of the cloud which had lowered so long between the knights of the two nations. Furious and gesticulating the Gascons, white and cold and sneering the English, while the prince with a half smile glanced from one party to the other, like a man who loved to dwell upon a fiery scene, and yet dreaded least the mischief go so far that he might find it beyond his control.

"Friends, friends!" he cried at last, "this quarrel must go no further. The man shall answer to me, be he Gascon or English, who carries it beyond this room. I have overmuch need for your sword that you should turn them upon each other. Sir John Charnell, Lord Audley, you do not doubt the courage of our friends of Gascony?"

"Not I, sire," Lord Audley answered. "I have seen them fight too often not to know that they are very hardy and valiant gentlemen."

"And so say I," quoth the other Englishman; but, certes, there is no fear of our forgetting it while they have a tongue in their heads."

(To be continued.)

A man can afford to declare that money isn't everything if he has more of it han he knows what to do with.

All men are liars, more or less—mostly more.

Underwent Operation.

Earl Haines, of Burtt's Corner, underwent an operation at Victoria Hospital this morning for internal trouble.

An Arrival.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred West, of Barker's Point, are receiving congratulations upon the arrival of a baby boy, William James.

Fifty-one Placements.

Fifty-one placements are reported for the week at the local office of the Employment Service of Canada. Of these seventeen are returned soldiers.

Expect to Leave Hospital Soon.

Mrs. Kenneth White, who underwent a serious operation at Victoria Hospital some weeks ago, is progressing favorably towards recovery and expects to be able to return to her home in a week or ten days.

Prohibition Case in Court.

A man who was arrested at his boarding house on Regent street last evening for having liquor in his possession other than in his private dwelling, appeared before Magistrate Limerick this morning and paid a fine of $50.

Prohibition Conference.

A conference of the local prohibition workers will be held in the vestry of the Brunswick Street Baptist Church, Sunday afternoon at 3.45. Chief Inspector W. D. Wilson will discuss the present situation, Dominion and Provincial.

To Conduct Classes.

Miss Elizabeth Nutter, of the Women's Institute branch of the Department of Agriculture, and Misses Annie Love and Elizabeth Landry are leaving this evening for Sussex, where they are to conduct classes in the short course to be held there.

Still Alarms Yesterday.

The fire department responded to a still alarm last evening for a burning chimney at the residence of Mrs. Jas. Walsh, Carleton street, and for an overheated furnace pipe at the residence of George Brown, Carleton street. No damage resulted in either case.

Judge Folkins Critically Ill.

The condition of Judge Folkins, of Sussex, is very critical. On Tuesday he took another bad turn and since then has been very weak. His son, Walter, of the Merchants' Bank, Stratford, Ont., was called home owing to the serious illness of his father. Mrs. Ford, of this city, was called to her father's bedside ten days ago.

Buried Yesterday Afternoon.

The funerol of the late Miss Mary Cott took place yesterday afternoon from the home of her sister, Mrs. Robert Gay, Springhill. On account of the rector, Rev. Mr. Wilkinson, being snowed in, service at the house and church was conducted by Rev. A. F. Date, of this city, and interment was made at St. Peter's churchyard.

Surprise Party.

About twenty-five school friends of Miss Kinghorn's department of the Smythe Street School tendered a genuine surprise party last evening to Miss Sarah Burpee at the home of her parents, Ald. and Mrs. D. W. Burpee, Northumberland street. The evening was pleasantly spent in various games and refreshments, and the party was chaperoned by the teacher.

Caused Trouble at Douglas.

Three local men charged with damaging property recently at a house in Douglas appeared before Police Magistrate Limerick in the Police Court this morning and were allowed out on $20 bail until Thursday next. The three men, it is understood, attended a jollification at Douglas and, becoming intoxicated, smashed several windows in the house.

Receiving Many Social Honors.

Miss Dolly Brown, formerly of this city but now of St. John, who is to be one of the principals in an interesting event in the near future, has been the recipient of many social honors during the past week. Among them was a novelty shower at the home of the Misses Anderson, Queen Square, St. John, and a linen shower by a number of other friends.

Looking for Recruits.

A meeting is to be held in the Women's Institute Hall, Devon, on Monday evening, and at Marysville on Wednesday evening, in the Dawson Club, in the interests of the company to be organized here for the Canadian Machine Gun Brigade. It is hoped to recruit a battery in Devon to be designated as the Devon Battery, and one in Marysville to be known as the Marysville Battery. The Fredericton Battery is now half up to strength and recruiting is still being carried on at the Armory. Lieut. F. deL. Clements, M. C., is to command the company to be stationed here.

MOTHER IS DEAD, FATHER AND FIVE CHILDREN ILL

Mrs. Addison Pond Died From Complications Following Attack of La Grippe.

REST OF THE FAMILY SAID TO HAVE INFLUENZA

One Case of 'Flu of a Mild Type is Also Reported Today from Devon.

The death occurred shortly before noon today of Mrs. Alice Pond, wife of Addison Pond, aged 30 years. Deceased had been ill for a week with la grippe, but the direct cause of death was given by the physician as fatty degeneration of the heart.

Mr. Pond, who is a section man on teh C. N. R., contracted a cold while shovelling snow during the recent blockade, and he and his five children are all ill with influenza at their home on King street, so the atending physician said.

Notification of the cases had not reached the city Board of Health at noon.

Mrs. W. J. Glenn, secretary of the York County Board of Health, reported this morning that one case of influenza had been reported at Devon, but that the case was not of a serious type. Reports from Sanitary Inspector Ernest Bell at Penniac were that the quarantine had been lifted at that locality and no more cases of 'flu had been reported.

With only one case of influenza reported in the past three days to the Public Health Department the peak of the 'flu epidemic in the province is believed to have been reached. "Since the change from damp and rainy to cold weather, the situation has cleared up and it seems now as if the number of cases are on the decline," said Dr. G. G. Melvin, the chief medical health officer, today.

Only Two Teams in With Country Produce

Only two teams with country produce were able to get to market here this morning, and they were only at Phoenix Square a very few moments when they had disposed of their stock.

One farmer had potatoes and turnips, and these were sold at $6 and $1 a barrel, respectively. Another one had eggs and butter, the former bringing 85 cents a dozen and the latter 70 cents a pound. A few carcasses were also offered at 12 to 15 cents a pound.

SENTENCE TODAY IN PUNCH BOARD CASE

Similar Contrivances Which Have Been Operated Must All Go.

In the police court this morning the proprietor of a barber shop who had pleaded guilty to the charge of keeping a gaming house, as the result of having a "punch board" of the variety in general use, was fined $25 or one month in jail.

The barber paid the fine and, while the plea of guilty made it unnecessary for the court to make any pronouncement on the legality of punch boards, it was afterwards stated that the Police Commisison would order all punch boards taboo in Fredericton.

While the police had not received any orders up to noon Mayor Hanson said that as soon as Chief of Police Finley, who has been ill, recovers a campaign to banish punch boards and all similar contrivances, from which large revenues have been reaped in all kinds of establishments in Fredericton, would be ordered at once.

Already a good many of the punch boards have disappeared from stores and other places where they were operated, and it is believed today's announcements will mean the rest will soon go.

CUSTOMS RETURNS.

Returns Show Increase Over Corresponding Month Last Year—Duty Colected $121,000.

The customs returns as given out for the port of Fredericton by Collector of Customs L. C. Macnutt for the month of February show an increase in imports of goods during the month as compared with same month last year. The returns are as follows:

ANOTHER STORM REPORTED COMING DURING WEEK-END

Valley Railway Only One on Which No Trains Are Running Today.

THE FUEL SHORTAGE IS BECOMING ACUTE

But There is No Likelihood of Local Industries Being Forced to Shut Down.

Another storm is said to be coming! Today's weather forecast suggests more snow and perhaps another blizzard during the week-end with the country scarcely recovered from what was believed to be the climax of a series of unparalleled storms.

All of the branch railways out of Fredericton are running today about on their regular time tables with the exception of the St. John Valley Railway division of the Canadian National Railways, on which all trains are cancelled today.

The train which had been stuck in big snow drifts near Otis, on the Southampton branch of the C. P. R. since Wednesday afternoon, was released yesterday afternoon by the special train with plow which went over the Gibson branch yesterday and opened it up so that trains were running there today. On the Valley Railway the train which has been marooned at Gagetown since the storm because its plow went over the bank was released at noon today.

Country Roads Blocked.

That the country roads are entirely blockaded was evident this morning when only two teams, both from nearby districts, appeared in the country market. No wood is coming into town for fuel purposes, and because of inabilit to renew their depleted supplies of furnace wood many people are finding it necessary to resort to the use of stoves. Reports that several industries were in danger of having to shut down because of the lack of fuel were investigated by The Gleaner and proved that the situation in that re-

THE NOMINATIONS FILED AT CITY HALL UP TO NOON TODAY

Ald. T. S. Wilkinson Asked to Reconsider Retirement and Stay at Board.

M. E. DOOHAN IN THE FIELD IN KINGS NOW

Walter L. Jennings Accepts a Nomination to Run for Wellington Ward.

Although nominations in the civic election close on Monday, March 1st, there had been no nominations made up to noon today at City Hall for either mayor or aldermen.

In fact, there is still a scarcity of candidates for aldermen in some wards, in spite of the fact that a still hunt for available satisfactory men has been going on for several days. This refers particularly to Carleton Ward, where Ald. T. S. Wilkinson, who has announced his retirement, is being asked to reconsider, as his services at the board are badly needed.

In Wellington Ward, Walter L. Jennings has appeared as a candidate, and R. B. Vandine, who had been mentioned, will not offer there. M. E. Doohan has taken out papers for Queen's Ward, and George H. Clark will not be a candidate in that ward. Ald. F. L. Cooper is a candidate for re-election in St. Ann's Ward, while J. Stewart Neill is still in the field in King's Ward, where the only contest is likely to occur, Thomas Blizzard having been nominated for that ward some time ago.

Major E. B. Hooper, of St. John, is in the city today, a guest at the Barker House.

LEYLAND LINER ON THE ROCKS

Passengers All Taken Off Near Halifax Today

Bohemian Ran on Sambro Ledges During a Blinding Snow Storm

TUGS SENT TO ASSISTANCE

The Liner Left Boston on Saturday and Was to Call at Halifax.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Halifax, N. S., March 1.—Leyland liner Bohemian went ashore at Sambro Ledges this morning in a snow storm. Tugs have rescued the passengers and are bringing them to port.

GROUNDED THIS MORNING ON THE "BLIND SISTERS"

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Halifax, N. S., March 1.—The sixty-four passengers on the steamer Bohemian, which struck on the Sambro Ledges, on Halifax harbor, early this morning, were taken off and brought to Halifax by the tug Roebling.

No further word had been received of the condition of the ship, which grounded this morning on the Sinister Rock Ridges, known as The Blind Sisters." The passengers will be taken directly to hotels. A number of tugs are standing by the wrecked steamer. It is not particularly r ugh, but the weather is exceptionally thick.

The Call for Assistance.

The first word of the ship's plight came to C. H. Harvey, Marine Department agent, this morning at 3.40 o'clock. It said that the Bohemian, from Boston for Liverpool, was on the rocks south forty minutes east from Sambro Light and that immediate assistance was needed for taking off the passengers and crew.

Mr. Harvey at once replied that assistance would be sent immediately. He ordered the steamer Montcalm, which arrived in port yesterday, to put to sea at once, and notified the various Halifax tug owners of the Bohemian's distress. The ship's agents here arranged with G. S. Campbell & Co. to despatch the tugs Roebling and O'Leary Lea, and Hendry, Ltd., the Islander.

64 Passengers and Crew of 120.

The Marine Department agent sent a radio to the Captain of the Bohemian, asking for further particulars as to the ship's condition, and was informed that the steamer was pounding on the rocks. There were 64 passengers and 120 of a crew on the steamer, the reply added.

The first ship to reach the scene was the Furness liner Maple More, which sighted the Bohemian's lights before dawn. The captain of the Bohemian advised the Maple More to stand by until daybreak before launching his boats to attempt rescue of the passengers. Later, however, he informed the Maple More that the tugs from Halifax had arrived and that he would transfer his passengers to them.

By 8.30 o'clock the passengers were safe on board the tub Roebling and speeding to port.

Left Boston on Saturday.

Boston, March 1.—The steamship Bohemian, which was reported disabled today on Sambro Ledges, left here last Saturday with 64 cabin passengers, a crew of about 200 men, and a valuable cargo. She had been expected to dock at Halifax for a few hours to take on more cargo and coal.

PRINCE TO STUDY.

Tokio, March 1. — The Imperial Prince is to take a two-year course of study at the French Military School at Cyr. He will leave for France in April.

No Panic on Bohemian and The Traditional Rule of Women And Childen First Observed

The Passengers Were Brought Off, a Motley Assemblage, Clad in Impromptu Wardrobes, Nightclothes Predominating—A Number of Babies on Board.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Halifax, N. S., March 1.—The passengers of the steamer Bohemian, which ship stranded on the Sambro Ledges off Halifax harbor early this morning, were landed here shortly after nine o'clock this morning from the tug Roebling, which had delivered them from the open boats wherein they had spent four chilly and somewhat anxious hours. However, these boats were safely anchored to the Bohemian herself, and she nestled upon the "Blind," but certainly deadly, "Sisters," as this section of the ledges is known.

The Bohemian struck about two o'clock this morning. She was en route from Boston to Liverpool, and was putting into Halifax for coal, as the American port could not furnish her with a sufficient supply. Thick weather and a heavy snowfall were responsible for the disaster, but otherwise conditions were as ideal for a shipwreck es posible, as there was practically no sea running. The Bohemian struck on the bow. Three hatches are full of water and the vessel is setting evenly. If the weather holds the ship's agents in Halifax, A. G. Jones & Co., claim that there is every possibility of salving her.

Good Order Preserved

There was no panic when she struck. The passengers, who flocked to the deck in alarm, were told to go below and clothe themselves warmly. Then the lifeboats were lowered. The traditional rule of women and children first held, but husbands were permitted to accompany their wives to the boats. Blankets were also thrown in for warmth. The boats, there were seven of them, were made fast to the Bohemian with lines. This was at about three o'clock. At seven tugs sent out from the city put in their appearance, picking up all the passengers and a number of the crew. The four intervening hours, though not fraught with danger, was far from pleasant ones. The captain and a portion of the crew are remaining on the Bohemian.

The tug Roebling brought the rescued ones to Halifax, landing them at Campbel's wharf. They came off, a motley assemblage, but merry, clad in impromptu wardrobes, nightclothes in almost every instance replacing underwear and a few clutching pieces of hand luggage which they had hastily seized.

A Number of Babies.

Women seemed to be in the majority and there were a number of babies, so swathed in blankets that not even the tips of their tiny noses were visible. The passengers were conveyed to city hotels with a minimum of delay.

"We didn't expect to see Halifax," remarked one man, genial though collarless. "We knew we would coal here, but they told us that the immigration officials would not let us land. Well, we've landed all right. There wasn't a bit of panic on board and the women were spendid."

"It was some cold on those boats," observed another. "I almost froze to the gunwhale, and though we were tied to the ship we had to row hard to keep away from it. There were only two sailors in my boat I don't think I've worked so hard, and the snow did not add to the joy of the circumstances. The thing that saved was that they made tea on the ship and lowered it to us on a cord."

THE INDEPENDENTS BUNCHED AT BACK

The Cross Benchers in House Effected Change in Their Seating Arrangements.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Ottawa, March 1.—The House resumed this afternoon. The cross-benches are not going to be lost in any shuffle or scattered here and there around sides of the Speaker. That much has become evident with the placing of name cards on the desks after they were installed. Away down at the lower end on the Opposition side, farthest away from the Speaker, are about a dozen seats where several who formerly sat with the government speakers, including Michael Clark, J. A. Maharg and Hon. Mr. Crerar, will find their places. From among this dozen seats the new members, R. H. Halbert, North Ontario, and O. H. Gould, Assiniboia, will also make their bows to Mr. Speaker when they take their seats today.

RETURN OF RAILROADS TO PRIVATE OWNERSHIP

Passenger Service Curtailed in Order to Facilitate Food and Fuel Deliveries.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Boston, Mass., March 1—The return of New England railroads to private ownership was accompanied by curtailment of passenger train service on several lines at a means of expediting needed food and fuel deliveries, which were held up by the recent storms.

Fifty-one trains were removed from the schedule of the New York, New Haven & Hartford, and other roads also changed their schedules to give freight transportation the preference.

Thousands of railroad employees and volunteers dug out snow covered frieght yards and junction points on Saturday and Sunday. As a result of this work several branch lines were operated today for the first time since last Wednesday and it was announced that with a continuation of favorable weather normal conditions would be possible before the end of the week.

EXPECTED FOREIGN TRADE OF RUSSIA

The Bolshevik Commissary of Finance Issues Statement on Resources of Country

London, March 1.—The Russian Bolshevik Commissary of Finance, Krestinsky, has published a statement preliminary to the expected foreign trade, according to an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Berlin. The Soviet government will issue a new type of credit note in denominations of 50, 100, 500 and 5,000 rubles, backed by reserves of platinum of the value of 37,500,000 gold rubles. The issue will be limited to 65,000,000 rubles and the government will be ready on call to convert them into platinum coins.

Platinum notes will be used in payment of foreign purchases made direct by the government. To Russian citizens they will be paid out by the state only in exchange for commodities of practical value. Such citizens as deliver goods will then be allowed to trade directly with foreigners, using the notes as currency.

PARTING REPORT OF SECRETARY LANE

Finds that Official Washington is Poorly Organized for Its Stupendous Tasks.

Washington, March 1.—Official Washington, "a combination of political caucuses, drawing-room and civil service bureaus," containing statesmen who are politicians and politicians who are not statesmen, is poorly organized for its task, while fewer men of larger capacity would do better. Such is an opinion of Franklin K. Lane, retiring Secrotary of the Interior, expressed in a characteristic parting report to the President on the day, after more than twenty years' occasion of leaving public life yesterday after more than twenty years' service, the last seven in the Cabinet.

MINISTERS TO MEET PREMIER BORDEN

Hon. J. A. Calder and Hon. J. D. Reid at N. Y. Awaiting Premier's Arrival.

Italian Government to Keep Iron Blockade Over D'Annunzio

The Only Lenlency Shown Will Be Toward Women and Children Says the Italian Commander—Citizens Say They Cannot Hold Out Longer.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Fiume, March 1.—A siege of Fiume has begun with a stringent blockade against commodities, including foodstuffs.

"Perhaps we may appear to be lenient toward those occupying Fiume," said General Cavigda, of the Government forces, "but it is not so. We shall exercise an iron blockade against the forces of D'Annunzio. I am not offering them the slightest atom, but the children must be cared for. That is why I allowed two hundred children to come out of Fiume and proceed to Milan."

The correspondent has gleaned opinions of all sorts in Fiume. Those of the citizens with whom he has talked seemed unanimous that the situation was critical and that the city now is in the deepest of despair, financially and commercially.

"We are starving," said a prominent banker, who previously had been a strong supporter of Italian annexation. "We are unable to go further. We now are ready for an international city. We want our port reopened to commerce. We want the city occupied either by the British or Americans. The present state is impossible.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Berlin, March 1.—The national assembly today will open debate on the new bill relating to the trial of "war criminals."

The measure would empower the supreme state's attorney to propose to the punishment tribunal the discontinuance of any prosecution if the attorney should be convinced that there is no ground for the public prosecution of any person.

The Curacoa Asylum.

Willemstead, March 1.—Reports that former Emperor William of Germany might be brought to the Island of Curacoa for internment have not created any excitement here. The people apparently are taking the reports more of a joke than as a fact.

DEEPENING OF THE ST. LAWRENCE RIVER

International Waterways Commission Take Up Question at Buffalo Today.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 1.—The International Waterways Commission began here today hearings on the project of the enlarged ship channel in the St. Lawrence river from Lake Ontario to Montreal at the joint expense of the United States and the Canadian Governments.

The proponents of the plan include fourteen northwestern states, the prairie provinces of Canada, northwestern cities and ports and shipping in the Great Lakes. Their chief argument is lower freight rates to tidewater and cheaper electrical power from the improved channel.

Opposed to this are the state of New York, Montreal, eastern railroads of the United States, and cities located along the Erie Canal. The opposition has organized and selected former States Senator Henry W. Hill as the spokesman.

Chairman Hill said the opposition expected to show that it would be unwise for the United States to spend the large amount of money involved on a "problematic enterprise outside the confines of the country when so many projects within are crying for attention."

O. Gardner, chairman of the commission, before opening of the session said that the fate of the proposal must rest upon the commercial statue of the enterprise measured against its cost. Hearings will be held elsewhere and the conclusions of the commission reported to the Governments of Canada and the United States.

TO REDUCE RANK OF U. S. OFFICERS

Wholesale Reduction of Regular Army Officers to Regular Army Grades.

Washington, March 1.—Drastic reduction of permanent officers of the army from their temporary ranks to regular army grades, effective March 15, has been ordered by General March, Chief of Staff. Of approimately 3,000 officers now holding temporary rank higher than their permanent appointment, about 2,000 probably will be returned to their regular status.

Field officers will only be affected. The number of officers holding general rank are now within the allowance, and there will be no cut in the grades of these below the rank of major.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Toronto, March 1.—Male workers are not to be covered by the minimum wage legislation to be introduced in the legislature at the coming session, accordinfg to Hon. Walter Rolls, Minister of Labor and Health. The measure is designed primarily for the protection of females, though probably it will be made wide enough to cover boys under age.

Hon. J. D. Reid Likely to be New President of the Canadian National Railway System

Under the New Scheme There May Be a Merging of the Departments of Railways and Public Works Under One Minister—After the Head Office of the Department.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, March 1.—There is a very interesting story here, coming from usually reliable sources, that Hon. J. D. Reid, Minister of Railways, may be the new president of the Canadian National Railways system. When the Grand Trunk is taken over there will be a complete reorganization of the Board of Directors and to some extent of the operating officials.

In connection with the proposal to make Dr. Reid president of the Canadian National Railways is a scheme to merge the Department of Railways (whose functions have been considerably reduced by the wide powers given the railway management), with the Department of Public Works, and place both departments under the administration of Hon. J. A. Calder, who has been acting head of the railway department during Dr. Reid's absence. Both Hon. Mr. Calder and Hon. Dr. Reid are now in New York in consultation with Sir Robert Borden.

When the present board was created it was understood that if the Grand Trunk should be acquired the directorate would be reorganized. Before the system is taken over there are certain preliminaries to be arranged for, one of which is the creation of a temporary board of management to co-operate it with the different Government lines, on which board it is generally expected Mr. Howard Kelley will be the head. Soon after that is done the arbitration to determine the valut for the common stock will be begun, and will continue for some time. Whether the reconstruction of the board of directors will take place before or after the arbitration is not known, but that it will take place is inevitable.

Another point of interest is as to where the head office of the new system, which will be one of the largest in the world, will be. Railwaymen generally appear to favor Montreal as the proper place. There will be strong influence exerted from both that city and Toronto, with the probability of the former being chosen.

A Plea for Manufacturers.

In his speech seconding the reply to the address, Mr. Alex. McGregor, the member for Pictou, N. S., made a strong plea for justice in appreciation of the work of the manufacturers of Canada. He referred to the work they had done during the war and in building up Canada and to the forces which seem to be against them. He pointed out what they had done in munition making and iron and steel production during the war, and claimed that Canada had been reimbursed for all the assistance ever granted the industry.

He cited the business profits tax, in which seventy million dollars had been collected up to March 31st, 1919, and estimated that 50 per cent. of it had come from iron and steel manufacturers.

The local amount of Federal help given to the industry in the past was over seventeen million dollars, so that in any case the government had certainly got back two dollars for every dollar it had advanced, while indirectly they have been reimbursed fourfold. This policy of aid to the industries had extended over a period of 25 years and during the reign of both political parties.

He drew attention to the fact that Pictou county was the pioneer in the iron and steel industry in Canada and had taken the lead in shell forging and finishing during the war. The Scotia Company had made nearly fifteen million shells, amounting to about $25,000,000 in value, as well as great quantities of shell forgings, armor plate, shafting, etc.

He dealt with the returned soldier problems very frankly, claiming that the country had treated them generously and to the limit of its ability. He also referred plainly to the desire of class interests to obtain control of the governemnt of the country, which he deprecated.

NO CONTESTS IN CIVIC ELECTIONS

Joseph Cain Replaces M. E. Doohan as Aldermanic Candidate for Queen's Ward

Ald. John A. Reid will probably be returned Mayor of Fredericton for 1920 by acclamation at City Hall at 4 o'clock this afternoon, when nomination proceedings close, and there it little prospect of any kind of a contest.

Ald. T. S. Wilkinson, it was said, had decided to offer for reelection and so will Ald. F. L. Cooper, which leaves Ald. William McKay, who was first elected to the board almost 40 years ago, Ald. Burpee and Ald. R. J. Baxter, the retiring aldermen. The elevation of Ald. Reid to the mayoralty makes six aldermanic positions open, and there were just that many candidates in sight, including Ald. Wilkinson and Cooper. One change has been made in the slate, Joseph Cain of Lawlor & Cain, having taken the place of M. E. Doohan as candidate in Queens Ward. Walter Jennings in Wellington Ward and J. Stewart Neill in King's Ward complete the ticket, while Thomas Blizzard was selected by the ratepayers of the lower end of King's Ward as their candidate some time ago.

DR. HEWITT DIED FROM INFLUENZA

Was Well Known in This City, Having Been a Frequent Visitor.

Word has been received here of the death at Ottawa last night of Dr. C. Gordon Hewitt, after a few days' illness of influenza, aged 45 years.

Dr. Hewitt was well known, not only in this city, but throughout the province, as he had made frequent visits here in his capacity as Dominion Entomologist. In this city he carried on investigations with officials of the Crown Land Department on the ravages of the spruce bud worm. He received his early education at Manchester University, England, and came to Canada about twelve years ago to take charge of the Dominion Entomological Branch of the Conservation Commission. For upwards of twelve years he held this position, and then was appointed consulting zoologist. He was one of the best authorities on the house fly in Canada and his book on the subject has been translated into many languages. He was also an authority on fur-bearing animals and was instrumental in having the Migratory Bird Act passed.

Dr. Hewitt is survived by his widow, who is a niece of Sir Robert Borden. She was taken ill at the same time as the Doctor, but is now recovering.

referendum came at the right time and if the temperance people were given sufficient notice.

Concerning a question asked by Mr. Hanson as to the conditions in Ontario the chief inspector stated that that province had a large number of breweries which could see that orders were unloaded right at the doors of those who ordered liquor. In New Brunswick, although there were breweries, to the knowledge of the inspectors not one shipment from these had been made to any place in this province.

Question Was Too Personal.

Percy Cass then said that, as the shipment of liquor into the province was the subject of discussion, he would like to ask the chief inspector whether any members of the churches or church officers had been among those who had received any shipments of liquor. The chief inspector in reply said that a man in his calling had received many God-given gifts and that he looked upon information of this sort as one of these gifts and for that reason, as well as others, he did not wish to divulge such information.

The inspector said that since the Prohibition Act came into force too many temperance people in the province, taking for granted that the fight was over, had taken no further action. They needed a quick awakening, he stated; they used to believe that when they had fair laws and efficient officers they could get along but they found there were other factors to be dealt with. They wanted a fair and imparital court as well as a sympathetic community.

Referring to local conditions he stated that the situation in this city was dominated by the manner in which some of the doctors issued prescriptions. During Christmas week in this city between December 22nd and 28th, 1,386 prescriptions were issued in this city and one doctor alone had issued as many as 800 a month. As an illustration of the way prescriptions were issued, he stated that some time ago a professional man had told him over the telephone that his brother, who had been home from overseas but a few days with shell-shock had come home that night intoxicated and that this was the third time since his arrival home that it had occurred.

The questionnaire system created more or less of a stir and may be repeated at some other church soon.

ASQUITH'S RETURN TO THE COMMONS

A Triumphant Procession from Cavendish Square to the Parliament Buildings.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, March 1.—The return of former Premier Asquith to active service in parliament today, as the result of his recent election to represent the Paisley constituency, attracted considerable attention in advance from both press and public.

The London Times this morning, in outlining the plans for the day, including a sort of triumphant procession from Cavendish Square to the House of Commons, with Mr. Asquith as the central figure remarked that the ex-premier's return to the Commons was under conditions which usually accompany royal visits to parliament and predicted a "tremendous reception" for the Liberal leader.

Newspapers which are not supporters of Mr. Asquith joined in giving details of the demonstrations that had been planned. The London Daily Mail which has been usually antogonistic to him said the excitement over his return to parliament was "popular recognition of the fact that with his return an effective parliamentary opposition will come into existence for the first time since the war. The newspaper said: "The absence of such opposition and the jealousies of non-coalition Liberals and Laborites have put unchallenged power into the hands of the government which has been injurious to parliamentary government and the welfare of the nation."

THE DOCKERS' STRIKE AT ROTTERDAM

No Sign of Amicable Adjustment of Trouble and Many Ships Held Up.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Rotterdam, March 1.—Yesterday saw the end of the second week of the dockers' strike, and there is no sign of an amicable adjustment of the trouble. There have been no disorders.

A total of 129 ocean going ships are being held in the harbor here, and there are many others in port at Amsterdam. Twenty-three vessels were able to sail during the past week.

AIRPLANE SERVICE ON THE CONTINENT

Paris, March 1.—M. Flanding, Under Secretary of Aeronautic Transport, announces that the Ministry of Public Works expects today to start airplane service to Marseilles, Lille, Brussels and London. Bordeaux may also be included among the stopping places, the announcement says.

General Strike is Declared At Milan, With Two Civilians Killed in Affray With Police

Active Leaders in the French Railroad Strike Are Being Arrested and There is Great Excitement Among Their Followers—Many Volunteers to Work Roads.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Milan, March 1.—As a result of a collision between a crowd and the police here yesterday, in which the officers fired on the mob and civilians were mortally wounded, a general strike was declared at midnight.

Work was suspended throughout the city today. The clash occurred in connetcion with a meeting of demobilized troops. The police fired when stones were thrown from the crowd. The two wounded men died during the night.

French Strike Leaders Arrested.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, March 1.—Three active leaders in the Paris railroad unions were arrested this morning. They were M. Scrolle, M. Leveque and M. Sigrand. Great excitement among unionists ensued when the news of the arrests become current.

Secretary Chiverot, of the Paris, Lyons and Mediterranean unions, and union leader Hourdeaux were arrested later. All those under detention are charged with "interference with the liberty to work and provoking disobedience."

Five thousand persons have volunteered for service on the railroads during the strike, and two hundred chauffeurs have placed themselves at the disposal of the Ministry of Public Works in carrying out the system, according to the Matin. Hundreds of students from the central high school have been placed at posts at different railways, where they are being given practical instruction. Independent syndicatists in Alsace-Lorraine have appealed to railroad men to remain at work.

Premier Millerand made a brief but optimistic statement on strike conditions early this afternoon. He said to the newspaper men: "The situation is satisfactory. Reports from the companies and the prefects bring confirmation of the amelioration of the conditions on all the systems."

Exchange Situation Little More Favorable

New York, March 1.—The pound sterling is quoted on the New York Stock Exchange at $3.41¾ to 3.42½. The Canadian dollar is held at a discount of 14⅞ to 15⅝.

HONORS IN QUEBEC CURLING BONSPIEL

Montreal Team Skipped by W. Brown Won the Chateau Cup From Howich.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Quebec, March 1.—Premier honors in the closing of the curling bonspiel here on Saturday went to Montreal No. 4, skipped by W. Brown, by winning the Chateau Cup in the finals by 13 shots from the Howick team, skipped by Sydney Stewart.

In the semi-finals played in the morning Brown's rink defeated Stewart of Heather No. 4 b four shots, while Howick won from Montreal West No. 3 by five shots.

The defeat of Howick by a large in the finals came as a big surprise, as it was thought after Howick's fine showing in the morning they would give Brown's rink a hard run. At the conclusion of 15 ends, when Brown was leading by 13 shots, it was agreed to consider the match finished.

DE LAVAL CREAM SEPARATOR

It will pay you in cream saved from $3 to $5 a cow every year over an inferior or half-worn-out cream separator.

It will pay you in cream saved from $10 to $15 a cow every year over gravity skimming.

It will give you a heavier and better cream, the kind the creameryman wants, the kind that gives you more skim-milk for your stock.

It will last two to ten times as long as other cream separators. Figure it out for yourself and you will see why the De Laval is the most economical.

And added to it all is the immeasurable satisfaction of owning a machine that "works like a charm" 365 days in the year.

We know that when we sell you a De Laval we sell you a machine you'll be proud to own. We sell them on liberal terms. Come in and talk it over.

Driving Belt in Canada Cottons Mills at Marysville to Be Replaced After 35 Years.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Marysville, N. B., March 1.—The P. T. C. class of the Methodist Sunday school was very pleasantly entertained at the home of Mrs. John Gibson, Friday evening. About seventy young people were present and a most enjoyable evening was spent with music, games and refreshments. The returns from the autograph quilt were reported, and with several blocks yet to be reported on, upwards of $65 has been made on the quilt. A substantial silver collection was taken which will augment the funds materially. The gathering broke up about midnight.

The scholars of Mrs. Stella Cochrane's room who were to have held their annual sleigh drive Saturday afternoon, were entertained in Castle Hall instead, owing to the bad roads. It was a very merry and happy gathering and the scholars enjoyed themselves to the fullest extent. Games were played and about 5 o'clock supper was served. Mrs. Cochrane was assisted by Mrs. J. Gibson, Mrs. W. H. Gray and Miss Ardyth Staples of Fredericton.

Police Magistrate C. D. Clayton is is able to be out again after being confined to his home for a few days with a severe cold.

It is nice to be an expert snowshoer and to be able to poke fun at your pal who is perhaps rather clumsy on snowshoes, but when you fall into a brook and can't get out until he comes and assists you, and you see his grin of delight, it is without doubt both exasperating and humiliating.

A new driving belt has been placed in position in the main weave room of the cotton mill to replace the old belt which yas placed there when the mill first started about 35 years ago. It has been estimated that the old belt has since it has been in use, revolved a distance of 5,798,000 miles. The new belt is 174 feet long and 18 inches wide, and cost about $1,600.

Two young men left home Saturday without stating anything about it, and in consequence their people are very much worried about them. It is supposed that they went to St. Stephen.

The bowling league finished up Friday evening at the Dawson alleys with Sandy Davidson's team winning first place. The personnel of the winning team is as follows: Sandy Davidson, J. Pyne, Frank Robinson, F. A. Collings and Chesley Pickard.

Miss Nellie Winters and Miss Dorothy Robinson spent a couple of days with Miss Charlotte Cochrane the latter part of the week.

Ronald Staples, of Fredericton, spent a couple of days with friends here the latter part of the week.

A battery of machine guns may be organized in Marysville. Lt. Col. J. C. Mersereau, O. C. of the New Brunswick machine gun brigade, was in town a few days ago talking to several young men who have had experience in machine guns overseas. There are at present eight qualified signallers in the town. It is said that suitable quarters for the battery have been guaranteed.

Randolph Titus is confined to his home, suffering from a severe cold.

The death of Mrs. Hedley V. Stewart occurred at her home on Water street, Sunday afternoon about four o'clock after a short illness of two weeks following maternity. Deceased was 19 years of age and was formerly Miss Rhoda Storey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Storey of Doaktown, N. B. Besides her husband and parents she is survived by several brothers and sisters. The funeral will take place Tuesday afternoon. Rev. E. J. Barass will conduct the funeral service, and interment will be made in the Baptist cemetery.

A. Aselstyne, who has been here in the capacity of Government inspector of the cloth being manufactured for the Roumanian Government, has completed his duties and leaves today for his home at Ottawa. While here Mr. Aselstyne made many friends, who will regret his departure.

Miss Bessie Logan is visiting relatives at Moncton, N. B.

Mrs. Jas. Logan has returned from Moncton, where she was visiting her daughter, Mrs. C. J. Mitten.

PROHIBITION CASE FOR MOCK TRIAL

A Reverend Inspector Found Guilty of Appropriating Booze for Himself.

The annual Mock Trial was held in the University library on Saturday night and the auditorium was filled to capacity with an audience who took a great amount of amusement out of the proceedings at the trial.

C. R. Townsend acted in the capacity of judge and the prisoner, Rev. Dr. Formaldehyde, who was charged with appropriating booze from that which was seized by him under the guise of his office and using it for his own personal use, was found guilty and sentenced to seven years in Wolfville, N. S. Woodrow Wilson Perishing Pussyfoot Johnson, a colored man who was accused of aiding the reverend inspector in his work was found "not guilty" and allowed to go.

The witnesses called by the prosecution were: Miss Bessie Leak, a Normalite; Theophilus Dustchaser Everwuz, the janitor; Miss Ima Lover, a co-ed; Reademan Weap Burden, a bootlegger; Hop Sum Buchshee Rum, an Oriental laundry and restaurant keeper. Those who gave evidence for the defense were: Inspector I. Guesso Saunders; Mrs. Mary Anne Teak, president of the W. C. T. U.; Woodrow Wilson Perishing Pussyfoot Johnson, and Rev. Dr. Formaldehyde. Dr. P. E. R. Scription, who was to have appeared for the prosecution, was unable to be present to give evidence.

The prosecution was conducted by R. H. Bennett and G. R. Barnes, while C. D. Orchard and R. K. Wills appeared on behalf of the prisoners. G. F. G. Bridges was clerk of the court, R. L. Corbett, crier; C. C. Atkinson and B. I. Burgess, police officers; D. A. Jamer and J. P. Skillen, plain clothes detectives.

LIQUIDATION OF CANADIAN STOCKS

Sir Henry Drayton Explains the Efforts Being Made to Check Liquidation.

Montreal, Feb. 29.—Interviewed on Saturday by a representative of the Montreal Gazette in connection with the effort being made to check the flood of overseas liquidation of Canadian stocks, Sir Henry Drayton, Canadian Minister of Finance, said that these Canadian securities owing to the fall in value of the pound sterling were now being dumped on the Canadian market and retarded to a large extent the working capital of the Dominion. After extended conferences with bond dealers, stock brokers and bankers, the Minister said that it had been determined that the sale of the securities held overseas, on the Canadian market must be diverted and as far as possible stopped and effective steps had been taken with this end in view in the direction of the financial channels through which such transactions take place. Sir Henry Drayton added:

"The purpose of these long date obligations, in addition to taking essential capital out of the country, demands made on New York still further depreciates the value of the Canadian dollar there and renders still more difficult trade with the United States and the discharge of our obligations in that market."

As to the confusion which has existed locally in respect to the actions decided on, Sir Henry said that the process of lining up the situation here and elsewhere was being worked out and that the next 24 hours or so would in all probability see the matter entirely straightened out.

DIPLOMACY IS SLOW.

Lord Robert Cecil, who is a leader in the Conservative forces that remain in England, has been saying in public that there is too much of the old spirit of diplomacy and not enough desire to solve international problems for the benefit of humanity in the peace negotiations now going on. Many have thought what Lord Robert has said, remarks an exchange. It is fifteen months since the armistice was signed, and Germany, the only unbeaten enemy country, laid down its arms. There is still disputing over what Italy is to get out of Austria's old territory; and until the question is settled there can be no peaceful development in the regions affected. Syria may have been divided up in secret; but the details have not been announced, and when they are there may be anger. Bulgaria's punishment is not fixed. Rumania is yet to be formally awarded the portion of Russian territory she covets as well as her slice of Hungary. Russia, the great early friend of the Allies, has territory occupied by various Allied forces, who do not seem to know how to get home without being driven. The chief cause of delay is to be found among the Allies. Austria, Bulgaria and Turkey simply laid down and admitted their inability to fight longer. They cannot even feed themselves, it appears. Germany, which may still be dangerous, is quiet, and cannot be said to be the cause of the delays, which in connection with some of the questions are becoming dangerous. Constantinople and India are not easily separated, and what threatens to produce Indian unrest is of deep concern in London. Diplomacy did not show forth too well at the beginning of the war. It will be a pity if it disappoints the world after its ending. The soldiers gave it a clear and easy field; the fault is with the diplomats.

MANY DISILLUSIONS.

The revelations made in a Berlin court touching the unscrupulousness of Finance Minister Erzberger, in respect of the acquisition of personal gain, has compelled his resignation. The Allies have endured many a disillusion in respect of the German character since the armistice was signed, points out an exchange. Erzberger protested again and again that he had one desire in life—to live up to the terms of the treaty, recognizing that the social, economic and political life of Germany could only be reconstructed by accepting and making the best of the situation. He protested his loyalty, at the same time, to the Fatherland, for which he was willing to die. The revelations in connection with the libel suit, which Erzberger brought against a political opponent, show him to be a grafter of robust and cynical proportions, while, at the same time, his inner thought and convictions have been laid bare by the publication of certain of his letters, written six months after he had signed the armistice. In these letters he advises the Germans to keep before them the reason for the war, which is defined as a struggle between two great factors—the Continent and the Anglo-Saxon race, represented by England and the United States. History, he said, tells us of similar contests between Rome and Carthage. "History shows that the "continental powers won, and history "will repeat itself. The war was an "episode only in the great contest "which will be resumed again when "Germany recovers herself. Within "ten years Germany will have Russia "bent to her will. When the struggle "is resumed in ten years hence, Paris "will be easier than in 1914." This is the man who assured the Allies that he had the sole purpose to faithfully execute the terms of the Treaty and lead Germany in the paths of peace; but Erzberger is true to form.

THE U. S. SOLDIER.

The demand of soldiers who took part in the great war for a financial recognition of their services is becoming an issue in the United States, as well as in Canada. The American Legion is the title chosen for the United States veterans, and their estimate of the proper recognition of their work for their country, for freedom, civilization, etc., is a $50 bond for each month of service. Put in such terms the demand does not seem a great one. The estimate is that it would require an issue of $1,800,000,000 to satisfy the demand, and even in these days, when government outlays are measured in billions, there is some hesitation in commending it, at least on the part of old-fashioned economists. There are others, however, who take the side of the soldiers, and there are signs that, if the present Congress does not act, that to be chosen in November will be pledged to the soldier voters to give them what they desire. The Montreal Gazette points out that the United States, after the Civil War of 1861-65, adopted a liberal pension policy for the disabled members of its army. For half a century almost every succeeding Congress added something to the scale of allowances or extended the law to cover new classes, till of late practically every surviving soldier who sought it obtained a pension. There were charges that politics more than patriotism impelled the generosity; but against it the mass of the people never revolted. The popular appreciation of what the soldiers did survived the generation that saw the war. The precedent of the Civil War pensions suggests that the legionaries of 1917-18 have a good chance of getting most or all of what they seek. Combined, they would constitute a "vote" as strong probably as the labor organizations command, and whether they can be had to vote as a body or not there will be those seeking public honor who will covet their influence and help them to their end.

AN AFRICAN SCOURGE.

Next to the Kaiser, the Mad Mullah has figured most frequently in the news despatches for many years. He was not so spectacular a kind of villain as the ex-All Highest, but nevertheless he or his kind has long been a thorn in the flesh of Great Britain in the Far East. Besides, he seemed to have led a charmed life. Just when we are apt to suppose that he had been finally squelched, he bobs up again. This time he was reported to be on the war path in Somaliland, and his raids were so frequent and destructive that it became necessary to send against him a combined British and Italian force. The band was broken up, but the Mad Mullah, with his usual luck, escaped.

This, of course, is not the original Mad Mullah. Apparently many of them grow up under eastern skies. One, it is recalled, arose in Afghanistan to attain a power greater than that of the Amirs, another led African tribes against Gen. Gordon in the Sudan, and another, the Mad Mullah of Swat, headed a revolt against the British in 1897. All these, according to authoritative reports, lived their lives, did their devilry and were gathered to the bosom of Allah fully a quarter of a century ago.

The particular Mad Mullah now running amuck, the New York Sun and Herald thinks, is apparently the most noted and troublesome of them all, Hadji Mohammed Abdullah, student of the Koran, Moslem fanatic, and leader of the Somali tribes in a five-year war against the British. In 1902 he defeated Col. Swayne's army, and in the following year he wiped out Col. Plunkett's force by breaking the famous British square. Before he was finally conquered he had caused the death of thousands of soldiers and natives and had devastated a wide area of Abyssinia and Somaliland.

His method of warfare was simplicity itself; his accoutrement was a great shock of hair, a string of holy beads, a crook and a white robe. With the backing of his own people he began his crusade; if his fanatical preaching and the howling of his dervishes failed to win a tribe he killed off the objectors and annexed the remainder. He was twice reported dead from disease and once by assassination. He lived through it all to take advantage of the world war and the small Somaliland garrisons to arouse the native to revolt. The Mad Mullah had no plan of government except to get control himself. He was the Red of the desert, and Somaliland, being Somaliland and uncivilized, got rid of him by means of airplanes and tanks.

ALBERT COUNTY WITHOUT A TRAIN

Hopewell Hill, N. B., Feb. 29.—This section of Albert County has been without train service for three days and there is little prospect for the early resumption of the service. The mails, too, have been delayed now for three days.

The work of clearing the railway tracks is under way, but the task is a difficult one.

Dr. Carnwath is ill at his home, Riverside.

Although many people are reported sick in this locality, it is believed that only a few are suffering from influenza. Many of the patients are quite sick, however, with conditions beyond those of ordinary colds.

The lumber companies are hit quite badly on account of many of their men being unable to work.

O'DOWD-RATNER BOUT.

St. Paul, Minn., March 1.—Mike O'Dowd, middleweight champion, has signed to meet Augie Ratner, of New York, in a ten round contest here on March 17th, it was announced today.

SPECULATED IN HOCKEY TICKETS

Toronto, March 1.—Manne Griss, Henry Harris and Roy Kilson were arrested at the Arena here Saturday night on a charge of speculating in tickets for the hockey game. It is said they bought tickets at $1.25 each and sold them at from $2.50 to $3 each. Edward Donahue was also arrested. He is charged with having conducted a common gambling house by taking bets on the game.

OBITUARY.

William McLean.

Newcastle, N. B., Feb. 29.—Mr. and Mrs. W. H. MacLean have received word of the death of their eldest son, William, of Milestone, Sask. The news came as a great shock as they had not heard any word of his sickness. He leaves a wife and four children, his parents, five brothers and two sisters.

Stephen Campbell.

Newcastle, N. B., Feb. 28.—The death of Stephen Campbell, a respected resident of Newcastle, occurred yesterday at the age of 84 years and after an illness of some six months merely from old age. He was a native of Pokemouche. He leaves two sons, George and Thomas, and several daughters.

Mrs. Eugene Baker.

Newastle, N. B., Feb. 28.—The death of Mrs. Rachel (Jackson) Baker of Saxonville, Mass., a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Jackson, of Chatham Head, opposite Newcastle, occurred on the 12th inst. Besides her husband she leaves one brother and two sisters—Richardson Jackson and Mrs. Nathan Nagle, of Chatham Head, and Mrs. Eliza Leggatt, of Cambridge, Mass.

Nicholas S. Burns.

Newcastle, N. B., Feb. 28.—Nicholas S. Burns, of Cambridge, Mass., formerly of Nelson, N. B., died in Cambridge last Saturday. Interment was at his home in Nelson on Wednesday.

Clyde N. Miller.

Bathurst, Feb. 29.—A wire announcing the death of Clyde N. Miller has been received by relatives here. His death took place at Medical Lake, Wash., after a short illness, on Feb. 25. Mr. Miller was a native of Bathurst and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Miller, and spent his boyhood and early manhood here, leaving for the West about 18 years ago, where he since has resided.

Thomas LeBlanc.

Moncton, N. B., Feb. 29.—Thomas LeBlanc, while hauling sand across the C. N. R. track near the Trappist Monastery, Rogersville, yesterday morning, was struck by the train. He was rushed to Newcastle hospital, where, still unconscious, he arrived about noon. He died soon afterwards. He was employed in railway work. He was about 45 years of age and leaves a wife and large family.

John Cimon.

Dalhousie, N. B., Feb. 28.—Mr. John Cimon, one of the oldest and a highly respected citizen of Dalhousie, passed away on Feb. 11th at the advanced age of 92 years. Besides two daughters at home, the Misses Margaret and Emma, he is survived by one son, John David Cimon, of Kansas City, Missouri, U. S.

Mrs. Jeremiah Shea.

The death of Johanna, widow of Jeremiah Shea, occurred on Saturday at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Lammon, 395 Douglas avenue, at the advanced age of ninty-four years. Mrs. Shea came to St. John from Ireland many years ago as a young married woman and made her home in Chesley street until a few years ago. She then went to live with her daughter, Mrs. Lammon, in Douglas avenue. In spite of her great age, Mrs. Shea retained her faculties in a wonderful way and was very active to within the last two years. Her mind was in no way clouded and she took a keen interest in all of the present day happenings besides retaining a vivid memory of the past. She is survived by five sons—Dennis, of Fredericto, and Charles, Michael, Patrick and Jeremiah, all of this city, and one daughter, Mrs. Mary Lammon. The funeral will take place on Tuesday from the residence of her daughter to St. Peter's church.

Miss Bessie Dougan.

Hampstead, Feb. 29.—Sad news came to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Dougan on Saturday, when their youngest daughter, Miss Bessie, died suddenly at Trinity hospital, Toronto. Miss Dougan had gone to Toronto to take a course in nursing a t the hospital, and had not been ill long, so far as known here. She had many friends and relatives in St. John and vicinity. She was a niece of Dr. Dougan, of Harvey, York county.

Miss Catharine Mosher, of St. John, spent the week-end in the city, the guest of her sister, Miss Hazel Mosher.

The Stock Market

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York (Wall Street), March 1.—Return of the railroads to private operation stimulated further buying of railway shares and kindred equipments at the opening of today's stock market. Motors were also carried along by the movement, which was broad enough to suggest a moderate revival of public interest. Gains of 1 to 3 points were made by Baltimore & Ohio, Texas Pacific, Seaboard pfd., Missouri, Pacific pfd., Wabash pfd. and some of the more reputable rails, including Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Louisville & Nashville and Chicago & Northwestern. Among the leading industrials were American Car, American Locomotive, Baldwin Locomotive, U. S. Rubber and General Motors.

FIGHTING THE "FLU"

NURSES—Nurses—where can we get nurses?

WHERE can one get any kind of help during this epidemic of sickenss?

THE answer is difficult, but forty young lassies from a Training Home—the entire Cadet class in fact—volunteered their services in the past week to assist in nursing sickness from the "Flu."

EXAMPLE is a gerat teacher. Christ ministered to the suffering. It was a privilege for these young Salvationists to follow His example.

FROM THE PEOPLE

WHY SHOULD ANYBODY BUT THE MINISTER TALK?

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I would like to have a little space in The Gleaner.

Why do we go to church? Is it to listen to the minister or to listen to people talking behind us? People will say why don't you go to church, but what is the use of going when you can hear talking at home, of what you are going to do throughout the week. One should stay home if they want to talk of what they are going to do and they don't want to listen to the minister. I am a young Fredericton girl and would like to have some one answer this letter and give their ideas, too.

Yours,
A CHURCH GOER.
Fredericton, N. B., Feb. 29th, 1920.

SAYS MEN TIRE OF LOVE THAT IS TOO OPEN.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Some of your correspondents don't seem to know that when a girl leads a man to believe she cherishes and loves him more than all else in life, her affection may cease longer to charm him. Courting a girl is with some men like running a race; if they win easily they enter another event to test their powers again. They find it a gratifying sport.

I know an attractive girl who fell desperately in love with several different men at various stages in her life. In each case she tried to hasten the wedding day. She is still single and getting to the "old maid" stage. I also know a young man who has at different times courted and grown very fond of several girls. The first three became infatuated in turn, each severed "diplomatic relations" with all their suitors, and endeavored to impress upon him in different ways their qualifications for becoming his "better half." But the third was a bit more coy. She never ceased to entertain her other gentlemen friends, and today she is his wife, and they are a happy pair.

Men admire most the girls whom other men admire. Admiration is the stepping stone to love. You must not continue to believe that men try to make girls care and then cease to care themselves. Their ceasing to care is unintentional, involuntary. It is simply human nature. You wouldn't have men marry simply because of a sense of duty, would you?

Courtship is like a game of cards in which the girl holds the four aces. She doesn't have to be unusually clever to win, nevertheless she must play her hand with a bit of forethought.

Yours,
ONE WHO KNOWS.
Newcastle, N. B., Feb. 27th, 1920.

CURLERS ATTEND CHURCH SERVICE

Interesting Sermon Preached by Chaplain—Sunday School Attendance Rewarded.

About fifty members of the Fredericton Curling Club attended last evening's service at the Methodist church to hear a special sermon preached by their chaplain, Rev. G. M. Young.

The pastor chose as his text a passage from Chronicles: "They were mighty men, who could use both the right and the left in hurling stones,' and from this he delivered a splendid sermon dealing with the art of curling in fashioning the proper kind of men for true life in the great country of Canada.

At St. Paul's Presbyterian church last evening, following the plan of the Inter-Church Forward Movement Committee, a thanksgiving service for the splendid results of the Forward Movement campaign was held, after which the doxology was sung. Mrs. Fletcher Peacock rendered an excellent solo.

In the afternoon at the Sunday school services diplomas and prizes were awarded to those pupils who were never absent from Sunday school. Among these were Miss Helen Scott, who had built up a thirteen years' record, Miss Tenah Clark twelve years and Miss Helen Taylor ten years.

At Christchurch Parish Church Rev. J. W. Millidge, of St. John, occupied the pulpit at the morning service, choosing as the text for his sermon, "Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof. At the evening service Rev. W. J. Wilkinson, of Kingsclear, preached. Rev. Canon Smithers assisted at the service.

At the George street Baptist church yesterday Rev. Z. L. Fash commenced a series of services in the interests of the Forward Movement Spiritual Drive. The pastor stated that the church must return to the Lord's method of winning the lost by a direct personal appeal to every member. He urged his congregation to accept those duties nearest at hand as one direct means of winning the lost. They should first find the wayward brother and then impart of their knowledge of Christ to him, showing him that Christ was the true Messiah. At the evening service the pastor chose as his subject Elijah's Call to the Undecided. He stated that the Forward Movement was a direct appeal for the undecided to enlist at once for God and carry out their work as nobly as the gallant soldier boys had carried out theirs. They faced the isue fairly and squarely and decided their course so gallantly that they paved the way for victory. Everybody must make a decision whether or not he will become a Christian. At the after meeting at the close of the evening service one member of the congregation took a decided stand for Christ.

Y. M. C. A. SECRETARY IN AN ODD ROMANCE

Lee Shippey Told Wife of Mlle. Babin, Now She Arrives and May Be Deported.

Kansas City, Mo., March 1.—Proceedings brought before the Kansas City immigrations authorities to deport Mlle. Madelene Babin, a French girl, brought to light today a French-American romance and an American tragedy. The principals involved are Lee Shippey, poet, author, editor, Chautauqua lecturer, newspaperman and Y. M. C. A. secretary; Mlle. Babin and Mrs. Mary Woodson Shippey, magazine writer.

Testimony was taken in secret by the Immigration Commissioner, and a transcript of the evidence, with the recommendations of the immigration inspector regarding deportation, has been sent to the Department of Labor at Washington for final action. Mlle. Babin is at liberty awaiting the determination of the case by the authorities in Washington.

Shippey went to France in the latter days of the war as a secretary of the Y. M. C. A. In the course of his work he became acquainted with the Babin family, a mother and two daughters. Prior to the war the family had been wealthy. The father, who was a Paris merchant, enlisted in the Army and the family fortunes were wiped out. The father was invalided out of the Army after four years' service and died at home.

Shippey became a godfather to the Babin family. They knew he was married. Since coming to America the mother has been designing and making gowns, Mlle. Madellene teaching French, and the sister working in an office.

The latter part of August, 1919, Shippey sailed for home after having spent a year in France. Mrs. Shippey went to New York to meet her husband. She was there when he arrived. It was there, it now develops, that Mrs. Shippey first learned of her husband's infatuation for the French girl, Mlle. Madellene.

"There is a little girl in Paris that I love the best in the world," Shippey boldly told his wife. "I can't live with you any longer and love her. I wish you would get a divorce on any grounds you choose."

Mrs. Shippey refused. The shock of learning of her husband's infatuation for the girl completely unnerved Mrs. Shippey. She now lies helpless, stricken with an acute form of neuritis, due, physicians say, to the mental shock she received.

In the latter part of November, Mlle. Babin arrived in Kansas City. She was on her way to Portland, Or., to teach French in a girls' school. She explained to Shippey that she was in a delicate condition and ill. She remained in Kansas City and wrote her mother that she was ill. The mother arrived in Kansas City about Christmas time.

Shippey confessed everything to his wife and asked her again to get a divorce. He said he wanted to give a name to the expected child. Mrs. Shippey again refused; she spoke of his duty to her and their 9-year-old son. Mrs. Shippey offered to take the child and rear it as one of her own. Shippey would not agree to that.

Six weeks ago the final break came. Shippey was immediately discharged. He then left home, at the request of his wife, and deportation proceedings were begun. Shippey then left the city, going to California.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Victor Hatheway Chapter Elected Officers for Coming Year at Meeting on Saturday.

The annual meeting of the Victor Hatheway Chapter of the I. O. D. E., was held on Saturday afternoon. Miss Edythe Carten, treasurer presented her report, which showed that the Chapter was in a good financial condition. FOR THE MEN

The Biggest Advance in Shirt Convenience Since the Coat-Shirt.

W. G. & R. were the first people to introduce the Coat Shirt to the men of Canada.

Here is an improvement equally as good and one that all men will appreciate. When the Double-Wear Cuffs are soiled, turn them and get before sending to the laundry.

You will find these cuffs just as neat either side, and the cuff turns without a wrinkle or bulge—that's the convenience and the difference.

W. G. & R. Shirts and Double Wear Cuffs can be obtained in Fredericton from

U. N. B. BASKETBALL TEAM OFF ON TRIP

Leave Tonight for Halifax to Play Two Games—Normal School Team Beaten.

The U. N. B. basketball team leave tonight for Halifax, N. S., where they will play Dalhousie University and the Halifax Y. M. C. A. teams.

These two Halifax teams are said to be strong aggregations and about two weeks ago Dalhousie won from the Y. M. C. A. by the score of 21 to 20, which shows that there is very little difference in the relative strength of the teams. Marsters, centre, and Coster and Laing, who are playing defence for Dalhousie, were with the team when they came to Fredericton last winter and won from U. N. B., after they had also defeated U. N. B. in Halifax. The Halifax Y. M. C. A. also won from the U. N. B. team last year and claim to have just as good a team as they had then.

The U. N. B. team is considerably stronger than the team which represented the University last year and should have a good chance in both of their games in Halifax. They will play Dalhousie on Tuesday night and the Y. M. C. A. on the following night. The basketball council met on Saturday afternoon after the team had its final practice in the Normal School gymnasium and selected the following team: Forwards, Willet and Dummer; centre, Bridges (Capt.); defence, Burden and McAndrews; spares, McCavour and Seely. Manager E. G. Saunders will also accompany the team on the trip.—R. H. B.

Normal School Beaten.

The St. John High School basketball team defeated the team of the Provincial Normal School on Saturday afternoon by a score of 29 to 26 after a close and interesting game.

The game was annexed by the St. John team in the first period when they rolled of a score of twenty against seven scored by the Normal School team. In this period Joselyn and Rockwell for the visitors put up a splendid exhibition of passing and shooting, while Russell and Clowes showed up well for the Normal School.

The Normal School team were minus the service of Nicholson, their centre, but Fanjoy filled the gap and showed up very favorably.

In the second period by good steady shooting the Normal team put their score up to 26 against the visitors' 29 and were going strong when the whistle blew for the end of the period. Russell and Gilchrist saved a good many baskets and succeeded in getting the ball to the other end of the gynasium, where they scored repeatedly.

R. A. Dummer, of U. N. B., proved an efficient referee, though at times he was too careless about touls.

The line-up:—

St. John Y. M. C. A.		Normal School
Thomas	Forward	Gilchrist
Jocelyn		Russell
Rockwell	Centre	Fanjoy
Patterson	Defense	Linton
Robinson		Clowes

It is exupected that with the opening of the Y. M. C. A. gynasium basketball will boom in Fredericton.—W. M. H.

TORONTO IS ABOUT OUT OF N. H. L. RACE

Brilliant Work of New Goaler Almost Turned Tide on Saturday Night.

Toronto, Feb. 29.—Vernon Forbes, the brilliant Aura Lee goal keeper, late on Saturday afternoon left the amateur hockey ranks and signed a two year contract with the St. Patricks and then went out and showed them he could stop the shots of the professional players just as well as he could those hurled at him by the amateurs. However, the Senators won the game, 1 to 0.

Ottawa's victory here put that team far out in front in the race for the second half of the title and St. Patricks practically out of the running. The Irish have a possible chance of yet overwhelming the Senators, but to turn the luck they would need the help of the Canadiens. If St. Patricks win in Ottawa on Wednesday night and the Senators lost in Montreal on Saturday night the teams would be tied for the leadership with seven victories and three defeats each.

Canadiens Beat Quebec.

Montreal, Feb. 29.—In a game that had no bearing on the championship and so lacked interest, the Canadiens on Saturday defeated Quebec by 8 to 6. Canadiens outplayed the Bulldogs in the first and final periods while Quebec carried off the honors in the second period by outscoring the locals four to three. In the opening twenty minutes Canadiens scored three times and shut out the visitors. The attendance was the smallest at any professional game this winter.

THE BALL PLAYERS ARE MOBILIZING

Various Big League Teams Either at or on Their Way to Training Camps.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 1.—Wet weather greeted the Dodgers who arrived here yesterday from New York to start the season of preliminary practice. The party that arrived from Gotham consisted of Pitchers Mitchell, Mamaux and Heitman, and infielder Chuck Ward. Heitman is a member of the Buffalo of the International League, but will prepare for the session under Manager Robinson.

Other members of the club already to start work are Olson, Kilduff, Kruger, Miljus, Bryers, Conlon and Mohart.

Yankees at Jacksonville.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 1.—The New York delegation of Yankee ball players, minus their manager, Miller Huggins, who was kept in New York, by illness, arrived in Jacksonville last night.

Herbert Thornmalen, the southpaw, is in much better trim than a year ago. He was just over the 'flu then but he is real stalwart now. He has been playing basketball. Bob Shawkey with his protege, Rice, a young third baseman, got aboard at Philadelphia. Rice is a rosy cheeked lad who looks as if he is just from prep. school. "A coming star, says Shawkey.

The Braves' Training Grounds.

Boston, March 1.—Two members of the Boston National League baseball team, Infielder H. Ford and Pitcher Cy Morgan, started for the Braves' south training grounds at Columbus, Ga., in company with Walter F. Hapgood, the team's business manager, and several newspaper correspondents. Walter Maranville, the star shortstop, boarded the train at New Haven, and other members of the team were to be picked up in New York and Washington.

The Giants Mobilize Tuesday.

St. Louis, Mo., March 1.—The expeditionary force of the New York Giants, en route for the training camp at San Antonio, passed through the home of the Cardinals yesterday afternoon.

MONCTON TEAM TO PLAY ON TUESDAY

Combination of Fredericton and Marysville Players to Meet Them.

Arrangements were completed during the wek-end for the Moncton team to play in Fredericton this week, and what is said to be the fastest team that can be produced in the railway city will be here tomorrow morning to play a combination team of Fredericton and Marysville players at the Arctic Rink tomorrow night.

"Tart" Titus, captain of the Fredericton club, is in charge of the local team and announced his line-up this morning as follows: Goal, Titus; point, Jarvis and M. Wade; coverpoint, Edgar Wade; forwards, Irvine Wade, Colwell, Brewer, Clarence Wade, Williams and Hall. Sandy Staples is expected to referee the game, and it looks as if one of the best games of the season was in prospect.

The advance sale of tickets started today at the Royal cigar and shoe shine store, Queen street, and it is announced that for the Marysville fans benefit there will be a special train from Marysville on the C. N. R., returning after the game. Fredericton High School and Rothesay Colegiate School will meet in an Interscolastic League game following the senior game.

The meeting of the Fredericton club that was scheduled for Saturday night did not take place, and it is not known when it will occur. Meanwhile the Bathurst club have written to Treasurer A. J. Wheeler, of the Fredericton club, suggesting that the local team's trip to the North Shore should not be delayed beyond this week because of the likelihood of soft weather setting in. It was said today, however, that there was no prospect of Fredericton making the trip until the U. N. B. team have wound up their intercollegiate fixtures, which means the middle of next week.

U. N. B.-ACADIA GAME ON THURSDAY

No Definite Arrangements Made Yet for Intercollegiate League Play Offs.

Arrangements for the play-offs in the Intercollegiate Hockey League had not been completed up to noon today, and there was some doubt expressed this morning as to whether Acadia and U. N. B. will meet to decide the western section of the league before Thursday at Moncton.

Latest word from Joe Wood, former U. N. B. athlete and now manager of the Moncton rink, is that Tuesday, Thursday and Friday are the only nights this week the rink there would be available for Intercolegiate League games, and it now seems impossible to have the game take place before Thursday, which would mean the final play-off against the winners of the eastern section—who are also expected to play off this week—might not take place before next week.

The U. N. B. hockey council met yesterday afternoon and discussed plans, but were unable to do but little in respect to play-off arrangements. When the U. N. B. team lined up for practice at the Arctic Rink on Saturday Capt. Burgess and "Patsy" Jewett alternated at coverpoint and point and they will probably be the Red and Black defence in future.—J. D. B.

THE FREDERICTON CURLERS WINNERS

The Fredericton curlers defeated the three Marysville rinks on Saturday night when they paid their weekly visit to the local club, the final score being 37 to 33. Skip W. J. Glenn by winning over his opponent, Skip Chas. McLean, by a score of 15 to 6 clinched the match for Fredericton.

The score by rinks follows:

RICH FISHERIES OF HUDSON BAY

Considerations Put Forward for the Early Completion of Hudson Bay Railway.

The Pas, Man., Feb. 28.—To tap the rich fisheries in Hudson Bay, which Professor Prince, Dominion commissioner of fisheries, describes as more valuable than the Pacific fisheries at Prince Rpert, and to give access to the mineral deposits reported on both sides of the Bay, are leading considerations put forward for the immediate completion of the Hudson Bay railway. Professor J. B. Tyrrell believes that when the railway reaches the Bay it will cause a rush of mining men and prospectors to search every nook and corner of the huge inland sea for the mineral wealth reported upon by various members of the geological department of Canada. Tyrrell himself made one report concerning the prospects of finding mineral on the shores of the bay, and he pointed out that he expressed no fears as to the outcome of an organized search by trained field men.

Originally projected as a grain carrying route, and a shorter one to Europe, the Hudson Bay railway has now developed itself into a colonization road to tap resources hitherto conjectured at, but of which very little definite information was possessed. Only recently a report was issued describing the vast pulp wood areas south of the railway at a point near Kettle Rapids, and a second area 15 miles off the railway on the Grassy River. These two areas combined approximate fifty million cords of pulp wood, it is stated. Coupled with what is already known of lesser pulp areas and the total known pulp wood areas tributary to the railway may contain one hundred million cords. The railway was projected in 1911 and work was pushed until the fall of 1917, when was conditions brought further work to a standstill. The grade, however, was fully completed from The Pas to Port Nelson on Hudson Bay, a distance of 424 miles, and the steel laid for 832 miles, leaving a balance of 92 miles upon which to lay steel. Nothing has been done upon the railway since 1917, and unless work is resumed this year, it is claimed the roadbed will suffer great deterioration and create an expense of ten million dollars to repair the damage.

INDIANS GIVE LOT FOR MEMORIAL

Estimated That Fully 200 Cree Indians Served with the Canadian Forces.

The Pas, Man., Feb. 28.—For a nominal sum of a few dollars, the Great War Veterans' Assocation, The Pas branch, have been given the highest priced corner lot in town by the Cree Indians, to be used for the erection of a memariol building. The lot is controlled by the Indian department, who fixed a nominal price in order to comply with the regulations. The lot is vauled at $15,000. The Indians in council passed a resolution asking the department to transfer this lot to the veterans, that it might serve as a memorial to the dead and living of both races from the northland. It is estimate that 200 Cree Indians served in the Canadian forces from this part of Manitoba, many of whom lie buried in France, and others returned maimed and crippled for life.

FIND MARKET FOR UNDERSIZED HORSE

Edmonto, Alta., Feb. 28.—That there is a real market in Ontario for the undersized horses of the Alberta ranches, is the good word brought by Walter Harland Smith, manager of the horse department of the Union Stockyards, Toronto, who is in the west looking into possible supply. It is the horse under 1,250 pounds, which is so common on the plains of this province and which are so undesirable from a breeding standpoint, that is wanted.

TRANSPORTATION BY MOTOR BUSSES

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 28.—Motor busses will be the prevailing system of transportation in Winnipeg within seven years, J. G. Glassco, manager of the city light and power department, predicts. He said he believed the present street car system will be obsolete by that time and that rails will be removed from the streets.

SENATOR ROSS' HEALTH IMPROVED

Regina, Sask., Feb. 28.—Hon. Walter Scott, ex-premier of Saskatchewan, who is accompanying Senator J. H. Ross on a trip around the world for the benefit of the latter's health, in a letter received by a friend here states that Mr. Ross is distinctly improving in health. They left San Francisco shortly before Christmas, spent eight days in Japan, arriving at Manila, where the letter was sent from, on January 3. They intend visiting Egypt and India, thence across the Mediterranean to Italy, and across Europe through France and England.

Every third-class actor imagines he's the real thing, but, of course, the public has such poor taste.

"Nay, Sir John," said the prince reprovingly, "all peoples have their own use and customs. There are some who might call us cold and dull and silent. But you hear, my lords of Gascony, that these gentlemen had no thought to throw a slur upon your honor or your valor, so let all anger fade from your mind. Clisson, Captal, De Pommers, I have your word?"

"We are your subects, sire," said the Gascon barons, though with no very good grace. "Your words are our law."

"Then shall we bury all cause of unkindness in a flagon of Malvoisie," said the prince, cheerily. "Ho, there! the doors of the banquet-hall! I have been over long from my sweet spouse, but I shall be back with you anon. Let the sewers serve and the minstrels play, while we drain a cup to the brave days that are before us in the south!" He turned away, accompanied by the two monarchs, while the rest of the company, with many a compressed lip and menacing eye, filed slowly through the side-door to the great chamber in which the royal tables were set forth.

CHAPTER XX.

How Alleyne Won His Place in an Honorable Guild.

Whilst the prince's council was sitting, Alleyne and Ford had remained in the outer hall, where they were surrounded by a noisy group of young Englishmen of their own rank, all eager to hear the latest news from England.

"How is it with the old man at Windsor?" asked one.

"And how with the good Queen Philippa?"

"And how with Dame Alice Perrers?" cried a third.

"The devil take your tongue, Wat!" shouted a tall young man, seizing the last speaker by the collar and giving him an admonitory shake. "The prince would take your head off for those words."

"By God's coif! What would miss it but little," said another. "It is as empty as a beggar's wallet."

"As empty as an English squire, coz," cried the first speaker. "What a devil has become of the maltre-destables and his sewers? They have not put forth the trestles yet."

"Mon Dieu! If a man could eat himself into knighthood, Humphrey, you had been a banneret at the least," observed another, amid a burst of laughter.

"And if you could drink yourself in, old leather-head, you had been first baron of the realm," cried the aggrieved Humphrey. "But how of England, my lads of Loring?"

"I take it," said Ford, "that it is much as it was when you were there last, save that perchance there is a little less noise there."

"And why less noise, young Solomon?"

"Ah, that is for your wit to discover."

"Pardieu! here is a paladin come over, with the Hampshire mud still sticking to his shoes. He means that the noise is less for our being out of the country."

"They are very quick in these parts," said Ford, turning to Alleyne.

"How dare we to take this, sir?" asked the ruffling squire.

"You may take it as it comes," said Ford carelessly.

"Here is pertness!" cried the other.

"Sir, I honor your truthfulness," said Ford.

"Stint it, Humphrey," said the tall squire, with a burst of laughter. "You will have little credit from this gentleman, I perceive. Tongues are sharp in Hampshire, sir."

"And swords?"

"Hum! we may prove that. In two days' time is the vepres du tournoi, when we may see if your lance is as quick as your wit."

"All very well, Roger Harcomb," cried a burly, bullnecked young man, whose square shoulders and massive limbs told of exceptional personal strength. "You pass too lightly over the matter. We are not to be so easily overcrowed. The Lord Loring hath given his proofs; but we know nothing of his squires, save that one of them hath a railig tongue. And how of you, young sir?" bringing his hand down upon Alleyne's shoulder.

"And what of me, young sir?"

"Ma foi! this is my lady's page come over. Your cheek will be browner and your hand harder ere you see your mother again."

"If my hand is not hard, it is ready."

"Ready? Ready for what? For the hem of my lady's train?"

"Ready to chastise insolence, sir," cried Alleyne with flashing eyes.

"Sweet little coz!" answered the burly squire. "Such a dainty color! Such a mellow voice! Eyes of a bashful maid, and hair like a three years' babe! Viola!" He passed his thick fingers roughly through the youth's crisp golden curls.

"You seek to force a quarrel, sir," said the young man, white with anger.

"And what then?"

"Why, you do it like a country boor, and not like a gentle squire. Hast been ill bred and as ill taught. I serve a master who should show you how such things should be done."

"And how would he do it, O pink of squires?"

"He would neither be loud nor would he be unmannerly, but rather more gentle than is his wont. He would say, 'Sir, I should take it as an honor to do some small deed of arms against you, not for mine own glory or advancement, but rather for the fame of my lady and for the upholding of chivalry.' Then he would draw his grove, thus, and throw it on the ground; or, if he had cause to think that he had to deal with a churl, he might throw it in his face—as I do now!"

A buzz of excitement went up from the knot of squires as Alleyne, his gentle nature turned by this causeless attack into fiery resolution, dashed his glove with all his strength into the sneering face of his antagonist. From all parts of the hall squires and pages came running, until a dense, swaying crowd surrounded the disputants.

"Your life for this!" said the bully, with a face which was distorted with rage.

"If you can take it," retorted Alleyne.

"Good lad!" whispered Ford. "Stick to it close as wax."

"I shall see justice," cried Newbury, Sir Oliver's silent attendant.

"You brought it upon yourself, John Tranter," said the tall squire, who had been addressed as Roger Harcomb. "You must ever plague the newcomers. But it were shame if this went further. The lad shows a proper spirit."

"But a blow! a blow!" cried several of the older squires. "There must be a finish to this."

"Nay Tranter first laid hands upon his head," said Harcomb. "How say you, Tranter? The matter may rest where it stands?"

"My name is known in these parts," said Tranter, proudly. "I can let pass what might leave a stain upon another. Let him pick up his glove and say that he has done amiss."

"I would see him in the claws of the devil first," whispered Ford.

"You hear, young sir?" said the peacemaker. "Our friend will overlook the matter if you do but say that you have acted in heat and haste."

"I cannot say that," answered Alleyne.

Still Alarms Yesterday.

The fire department responded to a still alarm yesterday morning for a burning chimney at the residence of Mrs. W. E. Springford, King street, and again last evening for a burning chimney at the residence of Patrick Burns, Regent street. No damage resulted in either case.

War Brides to Have Benefit.

Miss Hazel McBain, supervisor of the Women's Institute Branch of the Department of Agriculture, has received from William Kerr, provincial superintendent of the Soldiers' Settlement Board, a list of all the English war brides of returned soldiers in New Brunswick, to the number of fifty, and she is sending to each one a notice of the short courses to be held throughout the province.

Death at Prince William.

The death occurred at Lower Prince William early yesterday morning of Moses Jewett, aged 68 years. Deceased was well and favorably known and is survived by his widow, three sons, Arthur, of this city, Alfred, of Calgary, and Frank, at home; and two daughters, Mrs. Havelock Kelly, of Kingsclear, and Mrs. Dow Moore, of Prince William. The funeral will take place from his late home tomorrow afternoon.

Returned Soldier Weds.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the Brunswick Street Baptist parsonage on Friday evening last, when Rev. G. C. Warren united in marriage Miss Muriel Belle Fraser, of Nashwaak Bridge, and Michael Joseph O'Brien, of St. John. The groom is a returned soldier, having gone overseas with the First Field Ambulance from St. John in 1914. He was later transferred to the 26th Battalion and had over four years' service in France.

Died at Lindsay, Ont.

Word has been received of the death at Lindsay, Ont., on Feb. 23rd, of Walter Ernest Smith, after a short illness of bronchial pneumonia following whooping cough. The little chap was in his fifth year and was born in this city. He is survived by his parents and one little brother, Nelson, three sisters and one brother predeceased him during the past six years. Although always a delicate child, he was bright and active and loved by all who knew him. The funeral took place from his late home, 84 Eighth street, Lindsay, and many beautiful floral tributes were sent by sorrowing friends.

Died from Flu at Devon.

Miss Letha Ryan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Ryan, of North Devon, passed away yesterday afternoon after eight days' illness with influenza. The deceased was 20 years of age and was for some time on the mailing staff of The Gleaner, Limited, but for the past year or two had been accountant with Tingley & Lee. She was a girl of a quiet unassuming manner, loved by all who knew her, and her death will be sincerely regretted. She is survived by her parents, one brother, Jack, and one sister, Miss Genevieve, at home. The funeral, which was private, took place this afternoon, interment being made at Sunny Bank cemetery.

FEBRUARY LEADS ALL MONTHS WITH SNOWFALL RECORD

54.7 Inches of Snow Last Month and December 1893 Was Nearest Approach.

OVER A FOOT MORE THAN FEBRUARY 1887

And that Spring Produced the Greatest Freshet Ever on St. John River.

By the slim margin of a fraction of an inch the snowfall during the month of February was the greatest in modern history, according to the records of the Dominion Meteorological Station here.

The official measurement of the snowfall for the month which ended yesterday was 54.7 inches and in addition 1.42 inches of rain fell, making a total precipitation of 6.89 inches, more than twice the average of the past 46 years, which is 3.34 inches whereas in February of last year the total precipitation was only 1.75 inches.

Chancellor Jones, of the University of New Brunswick, who is in charge of the meteorological station, after a complete search of the records for the past forty years, announced this morning that February, 1920, held the record for snowfall, being just two-fifths of an inch ahead of the month of December, 1893, when 54½ inches of snow fell. Other months when more than 40 inches of snow fell follow: January, 1882, 47.8 inches; February, 1887, 41 inches; February, 1896, 40 inches; January, 1898, 47½ inches; January, 1905, 51.7 inches.

Other statistics for the past month show an average temperature of 16, as compared with 22 in 1919 and 16 the average for the past 46 years. The highest temperature last month was 40.5 on the 18th, while the coldest was 20 below on the 1st, the last day of the month producing some of the coldest weather, as early on Sunday morning the official temperature was 16 below zero. The hours of sunshine last month were 105.5 as compared with 143 in 1919, while the wind mileage was 6,351 miles last month as compared with 7,935 in the corresponding month of last year.

All the railways running out of Fredericton were said to be in good running order again this morning, the Valley Railway, which was the last to get opened up, having been plowed out on Sunday, when a special train of two locomotives and a wing plow made the trip from here to Centreville and return. Most of the trains, however, were running somewhat late today.

ALD. JOHN A. REID Y. M. C. A. PRESIDENT

New Board of Directors Were Elected at Meeting at the Methodist Church.

Ald. John A. Reid was elected president of the local Y. M. C. A. at an enthusiastic meeting of the members of that institution at the Methodist church on Sunday afternoon. H. S. Campbell was elected vice-president, William Kesson treasurer, and W. E. McMullen recording secretary.

The new board of directors are as follows: J. A. Reid, G. A. Taylor, LeBaron Bull, W. E. McMullen, F. T. Pridham, W. L. Jennings, H. S. Campbell, William Kesson, E. R. Blackmer, J. R. Walker, F. J. Patterson and G. E. Beales. Three other members will be appointed for the Board when the increase in membership has warranted more members on the board of directors.

The following chairmen of the various committees who had been appointed by the provisional board of directors were confirmed by the new Board: Financial, G. A. Taylor; house committee, H. S. Campbell; religious, W. E. McMullen; educational, F. J. Patterson; social, Willard Kitchen; boys' work, F. J. Patterson; audit, W. L. Jennings; physical, J. R. Walker.

DIED SUDDENLY.

Mrs. James Burden Taken Ill on Street and Passed Away Shortly After Reaching Home.

Death came with startling suddenness on Saturday evening to Mrs. Emeline A. Burden at her home on George street.

Mrs. Burden had been down town doing some shopping early in the evening and was returning about 9.30 o'clock when she was seized with illness on George street, just a few doors below her own home. She rested on a doorstep for a moment or two and then made her way home, and died about ten minutes after reaching there.

Deceased was 73 years of age, and was a woman beloved by a very large circle of friends, was an active worker in the George Street Baptist church, and her death will be mourned by a very large circle of friends.

She is survived by one son, E. H. Boone, and one daughter, Mrs. Webb, of this city; four brothers, Abner Mott, of Brewer, Me., John Mott, of Kingston, Ont., William Mott, of River Hebert, N. S., and Daniel Mott, of Fredericton Junction, and two sisters, Mrs. John McCloskey and Mrs. James Gerow, of Fredericton Junction.

The funeral took place this afternoon from her late home on George street, at 2.30 o'clock. Rev. E. L. Fash conducted the service and interment was made at the Rural cemetery.

E. J. Smith, of St. John, is at the Queen Hotel.

7,000 WOMEN ON ELECTION LISTS OF YORK COUNTY

Lists Recently Completed by Revisors and Officials of the Municipality.

AS MANY WOMEN AS MEN TO HAVE VOTES

First News of Lists for Future Elections and the Coming Prohibition ReRferendum.

The new election lists for York County have been completed by the Boards of Revisors and have passed through the office of Sheriff Hawthorn to the Secretary-Treasurer of the Municipality of York. The lists include the city of Fredericton and the towns of Marysville and Devon, as well as the parishes of the county, and it is said there are more than 15,000 names on the lists.

This number is about double the former size of the lists, the increase being due to the inclusion of women's names for the first time in history. Although definite figures were not obtainable today, it was said there are something like 7,000 women's names on the lists, which means there will be about as many women as men eligible to vote at the coming prohibition referendums as well as in provincial and other elections in which the lists are used.

More than 1,000 women in Fredericton are qualified to vote and have their names on the lists.

EXCELLENCE.

Ice at Arctic Rink is in Excellent Condition for Tonight and Tomorrow Night.

The definition of the word excellence is: The state of excelling in anything; superior merit; goodness or virtue. All this applies to the ice at the Arctic Rink for tonight.

ONE QUESTION CAUSED A LIVELY SENSATION

Rev. Mr. Wilson Declined to Tell About Importations for Leaders in Churches.

A prohibition conference was held on Sunday afternoon at the Brunswick Street Baptist church, A. C. M. Lawson, temperance superintendent of the city Sunday schools, occupying the chair.

Chief Inspector W. D. Wilson was the chief speaker and he dealt with the Dominion and Provincial temperance situations. At the close of his address the meeting was opened to any who wished to question the speaker regarding the various phases of the situation.

In answer to a question by R. D. Hanson, the chief inspector said his opinion was that prohibition generally would be carried by a large majority in all the French speaking counties of the province, with one exception, when the coming referendum took place. That county, he stated, was over seventy-five per cent. French and he thought that the population would split even on the question. Advices from the religious leaders of the North Shore counties were to the effect that they thoought prohibition would be carried with an overwhelming majority. He thought every province of the Dominion would have a majority in favor of prohibition if the

7 LIVES LOST WHEN BOHEMIAN BROKE IN TWO

A Portion of Crew Had Remained on Board to Try and Save Her.

MAJORITY OF CREW SAVED BY TUGBOAT

When It Was Seen Ship Would Break Up, Men Tried to Save Themselves.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Halifax, N. S., March 2.—Seven lives are believed to have been lost and several persons were injured when the crew of the Leyland liner Bohemian abandoned their ship as she was breaking up on the Sambro Ledges this morning.

The men believed lost include P. Ingleby, second steward; C. Cornelford, third steward, and Walter Tucker, saloon steward. Dr. Baxton, ship's physician, was seriously hurt and a dack hand named Thompson ,of Boston, broke a leg.

A number of the crew had remained on board the steamer after she stranded on the ledges yesterday, when attempting to navigate her way into Halifax harbor under a snow storm. Late last night a strong swell developed and the ship pounded so heavily that it was feared she would break in two. At four o'clock this morning it was decided to abandon the Bohemian. Three of the ship's boats got away safely, but the remainder were unable to take to the boats, according to reports received here.

The tug Roebling, according to advices from the scene, ran as close to the stranded ship as possible and the transfer of those still on board was effected by life-lines. It is believed that it was in this operation that the loss of life occurred.

Not long afterwards the steamer broke in two on the jagged rock on which she was pivoted and disappeared.

SCHLESWIG VOTE TO DECIDE STATUS

More Outsiders Than Residents Will Be Permitted to Vote, It is Now Said.

Flensburg, Schleswig, March 2.—More outsiders than residents are registered to vote in the plebiscite to be held in the second, or southern, Schleswig zone on March 17, to decide whether the district shall remain German or shall become Danish, it appears from an examination of the voting lists in the rural districts now available.

All estimates of the number of natives of the area entitled to vote by reason of their birth within the zone, but who are now residents of Germany, are surpassed in the actual make-up of the lists, it is declared by those who have inspected them.

CRITICIZES THE RULING ON RIFLES

Winnipeg, Man., March 2.—In a resolution passed at the annual meeting of the Manitoba Rifle Association the National Rifle Association is severely criticized for its ruling providing that the annual rifle matches for 1920 be shot with the Lee-Enfield rifle with open sights. The resolution reads that the Association views the ruling as an absolutely retrograde movement which will put back rifle shooting where it was 15 years ago, at least and recommends immediate readoption of the adjustable peepsight in all matches which are prescribed as tests of skill and accuracy in rifle shooting.

Europeans Must Form a Genuine Economic Unity

Governments Must Support Each Other to the Utmost.

JOINT BUYING PROVIDED FOR Important Decision of Economic Section of Supreme Council.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, March 2.—Joint buying and distribution, according to necessities, and supervision of selling prices, were provided for in a plan agreed to at London yesterday by the economic section of the Supreme Allied Council, says the Petit Parisien, which today prints an outline of the programme. The plan must be submitted to Premier Miller and before becoming effective.

Debate was developed during the meeting as to where the needed materials might be found," the newspaper says. "The exchange situation in Europe and the United States was considered as hindering purchases, and Premier Lloyd-George of Great Britain urged exchanges with Russia particularly. He pointed out therefore the only step necessary was making a direct agreement with the soviet government for exchanges, which were previously arranged for with the Russian co-operative soviet authorities, in reality only an administrative organ. This step has been taken."

Pertinax, in the Echo de Paris, declares the economic conference has prepared a manifesto, by the terms of which all Allied countries will be called upon to develop to the utmost their productive forces and advised that laws improving the condition of workers must be applied to that end.

"With this object in view he writes, "the different governments will be told they must support each other to the uttermost. A return to the community system adopted during the war and light heartedly destroyed after the armistice, cannot be thought of now, but the manifesto will declare the following principles should be recognized:

"In every country the problem of production is not only national but international, and, both as regards the distribution and transport of raw materials, it must be admitted each state must seek not only its own interests, but must accept sacrifices in the interest of the general welfare.

"Europe must form a genuine economic unity, and to return to healthy conditions all parts of it must be reconstituted. Measures, then, must be taken to enable Germany and Russia to contribute to the economic life of the European entity."

AMERICAN LOAN MADE TO POLAND

Fifty Million Dollars to Be Advanced by Trading Corporation of New York.

Washington, March 2—Relief for the financial straits of one of the new European governments is expected through a private loan of fifty million dollars to Poland. Announcement was made yesterday at the Polish legation that the new loans for floating the bonds in this country had been concluded with the People's Industrial Trading Corporation of New York, and the loan would be the first in this country to any of the State arising out of the war.

SAY GASOLINE PRICES TOO HIGH

British Committee Reports that Present Prices Are Grossly Excessive.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, March 2.—Existing prices of gasoline are condemned as "grossly excessive" in a report submitted by a committee appointed under the profiteering act to investigate prices. It says the concentration of control of the supply in hands of enormously powerful combines constitutes such a dangerous power, if improperly used, that it is imperative that Governments should give attention to it. Recommendation is made that oil has been regulated by the League of Nations under international agreements. The Standard Oil Company and the Shell Corporation are named in the report as the combines mainly concerned, and it is declared the existing price of £23 f.o.b. New York, is much too high. It is said that the committee had been informed that the average price ought not to exceed £7 10s. per ton.

High prices are attributed to powerful financiers taking advantage of a tendency of demand to outstrip supply, and grave danger of a permanent world famine of motor spirits is foreseen.

The report, for this reason, urges the British Government to foster the production of British motor fuel.

FLAMES SWEPT N. Y. CHINATOWN

Orientals Refused to Leave Their Personal Effects and Difficult to Handle.

New York, March 2.—Chinatown lost its oriental placidity last night when flames swept the apartment headquarters in which Tom Lee, late Mayor, had his headquarters and threatened to raise the Joss house on Mott street, in which thousands of Chinamen have bowed their heads in worship.

Scores of Chinamen refused to leave their personal effects and had to be carried down extension ladders to safety. A dozen were overcome by smoke. Mrs. Mabel Lee, widow of the late "Mayor," was one of those rescued.

Oriental and "slummers," smoked out, ran into the street terror stricken, while on the balconies of the Chinese dwellings appeared hundreds of frightened Chinese men and women, crying for help in a language that not a fireman or policeman could understand. Members of both departments were handicapped in the work of rescue by the inability of the Orientals to comprehend commands.

MONTREAL TRAM MUST PAY $330

Montreal, March 2.—Tickling a boy in the ribs cost the Montreal Tramways Company, whose conductor was responsible for the joke, the sum of $330 and costs to which Mr. Justice Tellier condemned it in yesterday's Superior Court.

Joseph Parent, 12 years of age, was riding on a tramcar when the conductor tickled him in the ribs. This caused him to lose his balance and he fell, sustaining injuries for which plaintiff, the boy's mother, sued the company for $1,500 damages, receiving $330 and costs of the action.

STRIKERS REFUSED COMPROMISE OFFER

Many Persons Injured During Demonstration of Discharged Workmen in London.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Milwaukee, Wis., March 2. — Five hundred union employees of the Fabricated Shipbuilding Company here went on strike yesterday, demanding a twenty-five per cent. wage increase. The Company met the demand with an offer of a fifteen per cent. raise, which the men refused.

The Trouble at Panama.

Panama, March 2.—Leaders of striking canal zone maintenance of way employees have accepted the offer of mediation made by Andrew Percy Bennett, British Minister to Panama, and the men are expected to return to work soon.

Disorders in London.

London, March 2.—There was a mild riot in the neighborhood of the House of Commons yesterday between the police and a procession of discharged workmen from the Woolwich Arsenal. Mounted police were obliged to make a baton charge when the demonstrators attempted to rush a cordon of foot constables with the object of marching on Downing Street. Fifty people were injured of whom twenty were taken to the hospital, including a police inspector, who was cut on the head with a bottle.

While the riot was in progress a deputation of men who had reached the Premier's residence in Downing Street, were informed that discharges would be suspended until March 13, and this helped to still the disorder.

The demonstrators numbered five thousand men, mostly ex-soldiers, and they were headed by two wagon loads of crippled men.

12,000 WINTER IN SUNNY CALIFORNIA

Residents of Prairie Provinces Find Drain on Purses Too Heavy to Stand Long.

Winnipeg, Man., March 2.—Figures gathered from various authoritative sources on the tourist traffic indicate that 12,000 persons from the prairie provinces spent the early part of the winter in California. At least approximately that number purchased tickets from the three middle west provinces for destinations located in the southern area. A local business man who returned from a trip to the Canadian and American coast cities declared that many of the Canadians had found the drain on their purses from the rate on exchange and high prices more serious than they had anticipated and were returning to spend the remainder of their winter vacation in Vancouver and Victoria.

NULLIFIES EARLY CLOSING MEASURE

Edmonton, Alta., March 2.—Taking telephone orders in stores which are closed, according to city by-law will be illegal if a proposed charter amendment weathers the legislature. City officials propose to put an ironclad definition on the word "closed" which will leave no room for doubting its meaning. It is claimed that some stores have been doing business after closing hours by utilizing the telephone service. This to some extent nullifies the aim of the early closing act, so a charter amendment is needed.

VOTE INCREASES TO QUEBEC TEACHERS

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Quebec, March 2—The Quebec Catholic School Board, at a regular meeting last night voted increases in salary to all the clerical and lay teachers in its employ, the higher wages schedule to take effect on the 1st of July, 1920. Bonuses were also granted to lay teachers and the additional expenditure, which will be necessitated, will reach a total of between $25,000 and $27,000.

QUEBEC TOWN VOTES AGAINST PROHIBITION

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

QUEBEC, March 2.—A referendum held yesterday at Grand Mere to decide whether the local prohibition by-law passed two years ago should be maintained or cancelled, is being continued today.

About 1,200 voters have to cast their ballots and up to closing time last night 400 had voted. It is stated that so far no more than five per cent. of the voters have balloted in favor of the return of prohibition.

The Christian Scientists of Boston Squabble in Courts Over Legality of Trust Deed

Involved Litigation Between Various Factions of the Church Further Augmented by a Petition for Leave to Intervene in Suit by Mrs. Pulin.

Boston, March 2.—The involved litigation between various factions and persons of the Christian Science Church took a new turn yesterday when Mrs. Pulin, of Brooklyn, N. Y., filed in the supreme court a petition for leave to intervene in the suit of the trustees of the Christian Science Publishing Society against the First Church of Christ Scientist.

She asked permission, "in behalf of herself, and all other members of the First Church of Christ Scientist, of Boston, known as the Mother Church, in good standing, and all other members of Christian Science churches and associations, and all other Christian Scientists."

Hearing before former Judge Dodge, as Master, have been completed in the trustees suit, in which they seek to have the directors restrained from interfering with their management of the publishing society. The master ruled that the evidence presented at these hearings also covered the suit of John V. Dittemore against the directors, seeking to compel them to recognize him as a member of their board. The time for filing master's report with the supreme court expired today, but in view of the new petition, the time was extended to March 10, at the request of the Master.

Mrs. Pullin, who is a Christian Science practitioner, claims the right to remove a trustee of the publishing society, is vested in the first members, and that a bye-law, by which in 1901 they transferred all their powers to the directors, is illegal and without effect. She asks the court to construe the trust deed, and if it decides that neither the first members not the directors have the power to remove a trustee, to remove them and apopint a new board.

GOV. GENERAL IS GOING TO ENGLAND

To Attend the Wedding of Lady Dorothy Cavendish and Captain McMillan.

Otatwa, March 2.—There is little change in the condition of His Excellency the Governor General, who has been indisposed for several days. The skating party scheduled for Government House this evening has been cancelled.

It is not expected that His Excellency's illness will interfere with his trip to England. He will sail from St. John on March 11, to attend the marriage of Lady Dorothy Cavendish and Captain MacMillan, it is announced.

BIRD SANCTUARIES ENCROACHED UPON

Saskatoon, Sask., March 2.—Many lands that were formerly reserved for bird sanctuaries in the vicinity of lakes in the province of Saskatchewan, have now been thrown open for soldier settlement, states Major M. A. MacInnes, of the Dominion Lands office. In a large number of cases these lands, being in close proximity to bodies of water, are of the very best quality and they will be a considerable addition to the land already available for settlement. The tracts which were thus reserved usually comprise from two to three sections surrounding lakes, this belt of protection sometimes reaching back half a mile from the water. It is now found that the protection area is too small to afford the birds protection, as settlement is steadily encroaching. Formerly no one was allowed to trespass on these reserves for shooting purposes and this applied to all families of birds, wild fowl included. The ban is not lifted in these cases.

MAINE COW GREAT BUTTER PRODUCER

New York, March 2.—By producing 15,255 pounds of milk and 1,040 pounds of butter fat in one year, Plain Mary, of Bangor, Maine, has won the world's championship for Jerseys, the American Jersey Cattle Club announced yesterday.

ARREST ANARCHISTS FOR VIOLENT TALK

Two Prominent Parisiens Taken Into Custody by the Authorities Yesterday.

Paris, March 2.—Juden Content, editor of the Revolutionary Weekly newspaper Le Libere, which was suppressed by the authorities yesterday, was arrested charged with inciting to theft and pillage as part of anarchist propaganda.

According to the evening newspapers, Lefeber's arrest is not connected with his violent speeches before the socialist congress, but is for a speech delivered at England, in which he said that former Premier Poincare, instead of deserving well of the country, "deserved twelve bullets in his skin."

INAUGURATE NEW QUEBEC COUNCIL

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Quebec, March 2.—The official inauguration of the new city council was held at the city hall yesterday afternoon and keen interest was manifested in the ceremony.

In his address, Mayor Samson emphasized prudence and economy as guiding posts for the Council. He affirmed that the affairs of the city must be conducted in a strict businesslike manner. The city must work in sympathy with all commercial, industrial and labor organizations.

Spread With Alarming Rapidity by Refugees Entering Country from Russia.

SERUM FOUND FOR DISEASE IN RUSSIA

Mortality in Geneva Increasing, There Being 1,932 Deaths in a Week.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Belgrade, March 2.—Typhus has again broken out in Serbia, being spread with alarming rapidity by refugees fleeing from the Bolshevik on the south Russian front.

The Mortality Reduced.

Paris, March 2.—Mortality from typhus fever has been reduced from 47 per cent. to 6 per cent. by the use of a new serum, by Red Cross workers at Ekaterindoar, in the Kuban district of Russia, according to reports received here.

Deaths Are Numerous.

Geneval, March 2.—There were 1,932 deaths, mostly those of children, and only eight births in Vienna from Feb. 8 to 14, according to a telegram received here from the capital.

CAR DEMURRAGE IN THE DOMINION

Railway Commission Reject Proposition to Adopt the United States' Plan.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Montreal, March 2.—An important decision of Board of Railway Commissioners, rejecting the proposition to apply in Canada the United States system of "average demurrage" on cars, was received yesterday by the transportation bureau of the Montreal Board of Trade.

The demurrage rules now in force in Canada allow the consignee forty-eight hours after the car has been placed to empty it. Thereafter penalties are imposed increasing by a dollar for each day's delay. The Canadian rule made no provision for averages as had been done in the States.

By the States' plan, a credit of a day is allowed for each car released within the first 24 hours of free time and a debit of a day charged for each 24 hours after the car is detained beyond the first 48 hours of free time. At the end of the month if credits equal or exceed debits no demurrage charge is made; if not, demurrage is only charged on the differences.

The rejection of this plan is based on the reason that the average system is discriminating in principle, and has not been proven that it will work out to increase car supply available at any given time.

EIGHT CHINESE BURNED IN FIRE

Walla Walla, Washington, March 2.—The bodies of eight Chinese have been recovered from the ruins of a house which burned here last night. It was believed at least two more bodies were in the ruins. The police were informed the fire was started by fire crackers used in celebrating the Chinese New Year.

FEBRUARY STORMS HERE 34 YEARS AGO

Railway Traffic Blocked for a Week—Greatest Freshet Since 1857.

The Hartland Observer, referring to the unusual weather and heavy snowfall in February, says;

"The conditions recall a winter 34 years ago, which goes in history as 'the winter of the deep snow.' That winter set in early and during January there was the old-fashioned 'thaw and after freezing again there was ice everywhere, so that the young people went anywhere they wished on skates on the river, ponds, or through the fields. On Saturday, Feb. 18, heavy snow began to fall, and it continued to snow until Monday with a strong wind. It is said that the fall amounted to five feet. Every mode of travel was effectually tied up. The railway was blocked until the following Friday, there being no trains at all for just a week.

"On April 10 of the same year there was still four feet of snow in the open fields. Then thawing came rapidly and the river rose to greater height that it had reached since 1857, so the records stated, and the Matheson Island was so inundated that a barn on its highest part floated away bodily."

IS INFLUENZA A GERM DISEASE?

Neglect of Common Colds the Most Frequent Cause of the Complaint.

Whether influenza is a germ disease is an open question on which medical authorities differ. It is certain, however, that in nine cases out of ten the disease reaches an acute form as the result of neglecting an ordinary cold. Every reader should take this statement to heart, especially in view of medical opinions which declare, "If colds are treated promptly we will hear far less about Grippe or Influenza."

The treatment for colds in the head is simple and may be handled at home. Grip-Fix, which may be secured at any druggists affords a means whereby relief will be given in a night and even an attack of grippe overcome in 48 hours. The preparation is one which will be approved by any physician as it provides, in capsule form, just the drugs he would prescribe. A full list of these is printed on each box.

The action of Grip-Fix is to keep the system open; to quickly relieve the clogged-up condition of the head, reduce the feverish condition and allay the muscular soreness usually present. There is nothing in it which will lead to after effects; in fact, it tones up the entire system.

Have Grip-Fix always in the house. It is offered at 35 cents per box, and is on sale at all druggists.

and it wasn't his crime

Justice sometimes goes wrong. Men are often punished for crimes they do not commit. And when we thoughtlessly take purgatives and cathartics to relieve stagnant bowels, we are committing a similar injustice.

When the system is unable to remove food waste at regular intervals, it is the food waste, and not the system, that needs correction.

Every other form of treatment either irritates or forces the system. Nujol works on the waste matter instead of on the system. By this entirely new principle Nujol will keep the poisonous waste moving out of the body.

Nujol prevents constipation by keeping the food waste soft, thus helping Nature establish easy, thorough bowel evacuation at regular intervals — the healthiest habit in the world.

It is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take — try it.

Nujol is sold by all druggists in bottles only, bearing the Nujol trade-mark. Write Nujol Laboratories, Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey), 50 Broadway, New York, for booklet "Thirty Feet of Danger."

Court of Appeal Reduced the N. B. Power Company Valuation To $2,577,665, by Judgment

Important Judgment Delivered at Session of the Court Here This Morning—Appeal Dismissed In Scott & Co. vs. McCain Produce Company.

The Supreme Court of Appeal today assembled here to deliver judgments, its session being of particular importance from the fact that the Court was to hand down judgment in the St. John Power case, which, after many hard fought battles on the floors of the House of Assembly, was finally referred by the Legislature to the Court for adjudication. The judgment of the Appeal Court was prepared by Sir Douglas Hazen, C. J., in a rescript of 37 pages, and, after passing in review the various measures taken through commissions and otherwise to decide the issue, and explaining that by the bill of reference passed by the House the Appeal Court was charged only with the duty of finding the original cost of the property of the Power Company on Jan. 1, 1919, the finding now practically declares the same to be about a quarter of a million dollars less than that made by the reports of the Currier Commission in 1918. In brief, the Court reduces the property valuation of Jan. 1, 1919 from $2,800,000 to $2,577,665.56.

The question of the base rate itself was not referred by the Legislature to the Court, nor, as observed in the judgment, was the Court called upon to ascertain the amount upon which the rates of the Company might fairly charge for their services should be based and determined.

The judgment recites that the Court has taken advantage of the power given it by the act of reference to carry on investigations by expert assistance, referring to the services of an expert chartered accountant in compiling figures and statistics and advising with regard to matters of a technical accounting character. It bulks into two items, as follows:

Original cost of land, $156,830.50.

Original cost of buildings, power and gas plants, distribution systems, trackage and rolling stock, gas mains and all other equipment, including installation and construction overhead, $2,420,835.06.

Total, $2,577,665.56.

And it goes on to say the above amount does not take into account any allowance for depreciation, nor does it include any amount representing the proposed water power development on the Lepreau and Magaguadavic rivers, or any amount representing working capital, including materials and supplies.

Commenting on working capital, the Court's judgment remarks (1) that the amount of working capital to be allowed or included should not be in excess of the financial needs of the company in carrying on the railway, electric and gas services; and (2) that the amount thus ascertained should be included only to the extent that it had been furnished by the company.

The judgment compares the evidence of the various engineers and it is in general a comprehensive and exhaustive analysis of the merits of the case after the investigations of the Public Utilities and other commissions. There were no less than ten reports of investigators referred to, and some are cited at considerable length in the judgment; and reference is made likewise to the statement of additions to the property during 1918 furnished by Mr. Hopper. The Court also refers to the advantage of hearing the argument of learned and able counsel representing the Power Company and the City of St. John.

Speculating on the outcome now of the judgment on appeal it is believed the matter will probably be again before the Legislature at the coming session to fix the rate base.

Other judgments handed down by the Court were as follows:

Angus McNeish vs. W. R. Stevens—Leave granted to defendant till April session to enter appeal. Factums to be filed in accordance with rule.

Scott & Co., Ltd., vs. McCain Produce Co.—White, J., delivers written judgment. Appeal dismissed with costs.

The King vs. City of St. John ex parte George Carvell—Grimmer, J., written judgment of court. Order nisi to quash discharged.

The King vs. the Like—Order nisi for mandamus made absolute with costs.

The King vs. Ritchie, Police Magistrate of St. John ex parte Ed. J. Broderick—Hazen, C. J., written judgment of court. Rule absolute to quash conviction.

An order will now issue to the building inspector compelling him to grant a decree to Mr. Carvell to build his garage.

The Court adjourned sine die.

HOSPITALS NEED INCREASED FEES

Payments Under the Workmen's Compensation Act Are Not Sufficient.

At the meeting of the Board of Trustees of Victoria Public Hospital yesterday the matter of cases coming to the hospitals under the Workmen's Compensation Act was taken up, some correspondence being read.

Several of the provincial hospitals propose to seek an amendment to the Act at the approaching session of the Legislature to provide for the payment by the Workmen's Compensation Board for all patients entered in the hospitals by them at the usual rates charged for other patients, and also provide for the payment of a reasonable medical fee in all such cases. Under the most careful management it is found that $3 is the cost of a patient today. President Hughes was appointed to represent Victoria Public Hospital in the matter.

A committee was appointed consisting of the President, Dr. Irvine and the Secretary-Treasurer to confer with the Superintendent respecting present charges for patients.

Mayor or Alderman, and he did not sit at the meeting of the City Council in committee last night, nor will he sit tonight when the last meeting of the present board is held.

The Nomination Proceedings.

The nomination proceedings yesterday were of a perfunctory character, there being apparently but little public interest. When 4 o'clock arrived H. C. Rutter, who was acting as City Clerk, had received only the nomination of Mr. Reid for Mayor and he is elected by acclamation as well as the following four members of the aldermanic board:

Wellington Ward—Walter L. Jennings.

St. Ann's Ward—Ald. F. L. Cooper (re-elected).

Carleton Ward—Ald. T. S. Wilkinson (re-elected).

Queen's Ward—Joseph Cain.

For King's Ward, J. Stewart Neill was nominated by Jas. M. Lemont, Walter L. Jennings, T. S. Wilkinson, C. W. Hall, R. B. VanDine and others, while Thomas D. Blizzard was nominated by William Timms, Charles Boyle, John Duffy, P. W. Cass, Samuel Mackey, S. J. Boyle and others.

assessment, and at the suggestion of Mayor-elect Reid, who for many years had been chairman of the Finance Committee but who was absent from the meeting, it was decided to seek legislation which will empower the City Treasurer, under the direction of the Finance Committee, to mail tax notices to residents of the city instead of having them personally delivered. There was also some discussion on the suggestion that exemptions should be extended for the benefit of married men with families. While no action was taken, it was suggested that married men should have exemptions of $600 with a graduating scale based on the number of children, as with the Federal income tax, while the unmarried man or woman's exemption should not exceed the present $300. It was also suggested that there should be a nearer approach to the correct incomes for assessment purposes.

SNOWSHOE PARTIES AT MARYSVILLE

Considerable Sickness About Town, With Many Citizens Confined to Homes.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Marysville, N. B., March 2.—Several snowshoe parties were out last evening and they all report having had an excellent time.

Major James Pringle, of the firm of Phillips & Pringle, Fredericton, was in town yesterday on a business trip.

Ed. Langille, of Fredericton, was in town yesterday on a business trip.

Miss Lena Gilmour, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Gilmour, is confined to her home with la grippe.

Miss Vella Tapley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Tapley, is confined to her home with illness.

Master Vinton Peterson is confined to his home with illness and is under the care of a physician.

Miss Doris McConnell is suffering from a very severe cold.

Miss Jean Hanson is again able to be out and attend to her duties.

No New 'Flu Cases.

Dr. G. G. Melvin, chief medical health officer, stated this morning that during the past week forty-five cases of influenza were reported from the city of St. John. Further reports from the various points in the province touched by the epidemic have not come in to the Public Health Department yet.

Underwent Operation.

Friends of R. L. McCutcheon, formerly of this city, but lately residing in St. John, will regret to learn that he has had to undergo another serious operation at the Military Hospital here yesterday morning. A large piece of diseased bone was removed from his leg. Although suffering considerable pain, he is doing as well as can be expected.

American Interests Opposed To St. Lawrence Ship Canal Present Strong Arguments

Declare that Neither Grain Nor Iron Ore Could Be Carried Profitably to Tidewater, and that the Cost of the Channel Would Be Enormous.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Buffalo, N. Y., March 2.—Western delegations favoring the project of a ship canal through the St. Lawrence route to the ocean, returned home today to prepare an answer to arguments advanced by the eastern interests, which claim that the route would be of doubtful value for shipping and costly far beyond any return that it would bring to Canada or the United States.

The International Waterways Commission, which is hearing arguments for and against the enterprise, will meet in other Great Lakes and Middle West cities before formulating conclusions in a report to Ottawa and Washington.

Neither grain nor iron ore, which form the bulk of Great Lakes tonnage, could be profitably carried to tidewater, opposition speakers declared. It was also maintained that the millions of dollars required for the new waterway, would be only the initial outlay. Shallow harbors and lake channels would offer the next expensive problem, it was claimed.

RECREATION AND PLAY OF CHILDREN

Montreal, March 2.—Prof. Wm. A. McKeever, of the University of Kansas, spoke yesterday at the Canadian Club meeting here on juvenile welfare. When he came to a city, he said, he did not look into its business concerns, but looked to see what provision was made for the play and recreation of not only the children but their elders.

"I am going to New York now," said the Professor, "but I like the looks of you people better, because I believe New York is lost so far as its moral outlook is concerned."

Left for California.

R. T. Baird and Mrs. Baird left last evening for California, where they will spend several months.

A. O. Wilson, of St. John, is registered at the Barker House.

ROB FREIGHT CAR AT FAIRVILLE YARD

St. John, March 2.—A Canadian Pacific freight car in the Fairville yard was broken into on Saturday evening and goods amounting to between $1,000 and $2,000 were stolen. Chas. Doyle of Fairville, charged by the C. P. R. with the breaking and entering, appeared before Magistrate Allingham yesterday and was remanded for trial on Monday. Another man is suspected of being an accomplice, but has made his escape.

Moncton Club Here to Play Fredericton-Marysville Team

First Visit of a Hockey Team from Railway City Since Days of Old Capitals and Moncton Victorias—May Keep Moncton Team Over to Play Marysville Club Tomorrow Night.

Much interest has been aroused by the announcement that Moncton will play here tonight, meeting a team of Fredericton and Marysville players which promises to be the fastest combination that has lined up here this winter.

The Moncton team arrived in town this morning and, it is said, have everything satisfactorily arranged with the amateur sport authorities to allow the game here tonight to go on. Their appearance marks the first return here since the days of the old Capitals and the eventful happenings of that winter of a team from Moncton and as such tonight's game is a big drawing card.

There will be frequent changes of players made tonight by the Fredericton-Marysville combination and it is not expected any player except Capt. Titus in goal and possibly Edgar Wade will play through any entire period. Already negotiations are under way to have the Moncton team remain here and play the Marysville club tomorrow night in which event Capt. Irvine Wade will have his regular N. B. H. L. line-up in action, but a definite decision, it was said today, would not be reached until some time tonight.

The Fredericton Club's Affairs.

The often postponed meeting of the Fredericton Club will be held immediately after the game tonight, it was declared this morning, and it was said a definite decision had been reached to make some changes in the personnel of the officers.

Rascal, 2.03½, goes to England.

U. N. B. Hockey Team Lett Today to Play Acadians

Teams Will Meet at Moncton Tomorrow Night With Final Game For Brown Trophy Now Scheduled For Friday Night---Can U. N. B. Regain Their Winning From.

U. N. B. and Acadia will decide the honors of the western section of the Intercollegiate Hockey League at Moncton on Wednesday night and the winners of the eastern sections of the league will then play off on Friday night to decide possession of the Brown trophy, indicative of the intercollegiate championship of the Maritime Provinces.

This arrangement was first predicted in The Gleaner and it has been the logical solution of the situation as it gives Kings and St. Francis Xavier time to decide the eastern championship tonight and then be ready for the final playoff on Friday night. Incidentally it makes a couple of fine attractions for Joe Wood's rink at Moncton, which was made available when it came to a snow-down for Wednesday night and it was evident that Wednesday and Friday were the logical dates for the important games.

The U. N. B. team left here this morning by C. P. R. for Moncton under the guidance of Manager McWilliam and Coach Blaine Pugh and it is expected that a number of students will leave here tonight prepared to spend the rest of the week away if the Red & Black team will only return to their old form and play winning hockey. It seems to be taken for granted that, after their final practice at Moncton, U. N. B's strategists will decide to adhere to the new lineup with Capt. Burgess and "Patsy" Jewett as the outside defence, McKenzie in goal, Walter Flett at centre, Billy Lounsbury on one wing, with Bill Shea given a chance to see if he can be any more aggressive, together with several substitutes to fall back on for the other wing.

Will U. N. B. Return to Winning Form.

While the student body seem confident the U. N. B. team can "come back" and display a winning brand of hockey again, many followers of the game are dubious as to whether the local collegians will show a return to the form which made it possible for them to breeze through the first half of the league season like a bunch of real champions. It is pointed out that both against Mount A. and Acadia in their last two games the U. N. B. team have given disappointing exhibitions, while statements that certain players failed to follow instructions in the crucial game with Acadia have been accepted as showing lack of discipline which cannot be tolerated in a winning combination. However, the trouncing they received from Acadia here last week and the miserable exhibition they put up two weeks before against Mount A. must have convinced the Red & Black squad that they are a long way from being invincible and they will probably go on the ice at Moncton with well founded notions that they are up against the most serious proposition they have yet faced in their still young hockey careers.

After the way their team overshadowed the U. N. B. outfit here it is expected that Acadia backers will go to Moncton confident of the Blue & Maroon to repeat and the Nova Scotians should be hot favorites in the betting. If Capt. Burgess and his athletes return to winning form, therefore, their camp followers will thus have an opportunity of recouping their losses of last week. In view of old football scores and other things remaining unsettled between U. N. B. and Acadia tomorrow night's game should therefore be a hummer. Personally I consider the U. N. B. team an extremely doubtful quantity in spite of the great amount of unquestioned hockey skill in their squad, but the dope certainly points to the winners of the western section, whether it be Acadia or U. N. B., defeating either St. Francis Xavier or King's College.—J. D. B.

How the Money Will Be Split in Moncton Games

U. N. B. and Acadia will draw down 60 per cent. of the receipts of their game at Moncton tomorrow night under the arrangement made with the rink management.

Under regulations agreed upon at the meeting of the Intercollegiate Hockey League before the present season opened, expenses in the case of a play-off are to be pooled, which means that travelling and other expenses of each squad of players, manager and coach will be paid and the balance of the 60 per cent. divided equally between the two clubs.

It is estimated that each game will draw more than 1,000 people in Moncton, so that the winners will have a substantial profit for their trip.

WRESTLING TONIGHT.

New York, March 2.—In the double wrestling bill which will be presented at Madison Square Garden, Earl Caddock meeting Salvator Chavalier and "Strangler" Lewis trading grips with Jim Londos, the principal prize of victory will be the advancement of the winners in the race to decide the most logical rival to meet Joe Strecher, the champion.

Philadelphia, March 2. — Mike O'Dowd, middleweight champion, stopped Jack McCarron, of Allentown, in the second round of a six round bout last night.

Miller Huggins Goes South To Yankees' Training Camp

Diminutive Manager of the New York Americans Expects to Take Charge of Operations Today—"Truck" Hannah and O'Doul Still Unsigned.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York, March 2.—Although he has not fully recovered from an attack of pleurisy that kept him in bed for five days, Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, decided yesterday not to delay any longer his trip to the Jacksonville training camp. He left last evening on the Florida Flyer and expects to reach his destination in time to take charge of the practice today.

Up to the time of his leaving Huggins had not received any word from either "Truck" Hannah, catcher, or Frank O'Doul, outfielder and pitcher, but considered it likely that they were on their way to Jacksonville to settle their differences with the club in the matter of salaries.

Shorten Joins Tigers' Fold.

Detroit, Mich., March 2.—"Chick" Shorten, outfielder, who has been classed as a holdout, came to terms with President Navin yesterday and will leave immediately for the Tiger training camp at Macon.

DE LAVAL CREAM SEPARATOR

It will pay you in cream saved from $3 to $5 a cow every year over an inferior or half-worn-out cream separator.

It will pay you in cream saved from $10 to $15 a cow every year over gravity skimming.

It will give you a heavier and better cream, the kind the creameryman wants, the kind that gives you more skim-milk for your stock.

It will last two to ten times as long as other cream separators. Figure it out for yourself and you will see why the De Laval is the most economical.

And added to it all is the immeasurable satisfaction of owning a machine that "works like a charm" 365 days in the year.

We know that when we sell you a De Laval we sell you a machine you'll be proud to own. We sell them on liberal terms. Come in and talk it over.

Sir George Foster Easily Disposes of the Criticisms of the Opposition Leader—No Government Since Confederation Has Faced Responsibilities of Such Importance, or Met Them More Efficiently, Declared Acting Premier.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, March 2.—The House met yesterday afternoon for the first time in regular session, after the adjournment following the opening ceremonies on Thursday, and took up the whole day in the discussion of the Speech from the Throne.

For the first time the accoustic properties of the new chamber were properly tried out, and they seemed to be fairly good, although there is as much difficulty as there was in the Victoria Museum in hearing those members, and there are many of them in the House, who murmur incoherently. The press gallery had no difficulty in hearing both Sir George Foster and the leader of the opposition. How it will be when some of the members who are seated at the extreme end of the chamber take the floor remains to be seen, or to be heard.

Speeches on the Address.

The speeches of the mover and seconder of the address received the usual parliamentary compliments—Parliament is always kind on such occasions. Mr. Hume Cronin, a nephew of the late Edward Blake, has much of his distinguished relative's keenness of mind and a vein of Irish humor which the old Liberal leader never possessed. He is one of the comparatively few men in parliament to whom could be applied the term cultured, and his speech will read very well, although its delivery was perhaps marked somewhat by too close application to his notes. In wealth of literary allusion and happy turn of phase there have been few efforts of the kind to excel it.

Mr. McGregor, of Pictou, who seconded the address, had an excellently prepared and well-reasoned speech, in which he adopted a courageous note of defence of the manufacturers of the country, and although he did not refer specifically to the tariff, the inference was plain enough that his sympathy did not lie with either the low tariff party or the newest no tariff party represented by the twelve farmer members, who form a little block by themselves at the extreme end of the chamber and have made application to have a tier of desks removed so that there may be no danger of their being identified as a wing of the Liberal party, beside whom they sit.

Coming from Pictou, N. S., Mr. McGregor made extended allusion to the work of the chief industry of that county, the Nova Scotia Steel Company, and its work in the war, incidentally defending the much criticized steel bounties by showing that the business profits tax had taken double the amount in taxation from the war profits of the company which had been received in bounties.

The Leader of Opposition.

Having heard the preliminaries, the House settled down to the speech of the leader of the opposition and the reply of the leader of the Government. While Hon. Mackenzie King made what was perhaps the best speech he has delivered since his re-entry into the House, he suffered from the inevitable comparison with the leader he used to follow. In style and manner it was a long way behind what would have been heard from Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who had the peculiar gift of charm which was always able to hold the House even when his argument was weak. It was evident that the Government had no expectation of being made uncomfortable by what it was to hear, nor was it. Somehow the man who beat out Hon. W. S. Fielding for the leadership of the Liberal party has never succeeded in convincing the world as yet that there was not a cog slipped somewhere last summer at the Ottawa convention, and Quebec has imposed a pretty heavy handicap on the party. Like the assassin who frequents the scene of his crime, some strange fate tempts the leader of the opposition to make constant reference to the war, leaving the inevitable opening for retort.

The Speaker Flustered.

When he referred to the soldiers in France, "both," Butts, of Cape Breton, arose and shelled out the cryptic wood "Y-O-U," which somewhat flustered the speaker for a moment, but he is determined not to be phased by such references and paused with considerable calmness for his interrupter to get an opening which he declined to take advantage of. His speech was a general criticism of the Government on old lines the only element of novelty being a resolution towards the end seconded by Mr. D. D. McKenzie, calling upon the Government to appeal to the people after the passing of a franchise act.

The first act of the evening session was to rectify an omission of the afternoon. Hon. S. F. Tolmie, Minister of Agriculture, who has just recovered from a severe attack of diphtheria, was in the House for the first time since his re-election after becoming a member of the Government, and took his seat, although he had no right to do so, as he had not been introduced. In the evening he was formally presented to the Speaker.

Sir George Foster Replies.

Sir George Foster, as leader of the Government, replied to the speech of the leader of the opposition, and was in splendid form. He replied to the leader of the opposition in the fatherly and jocular way which he so often affects nowadays, and it was very effective. Sir George has entirely lost the vein of bitterness and cutting sarcasm of which he was master. In the old days and rarely excites ill-feeling from his opponents, while his new vein is probably even more effective. He made light of the charges of the leader of the opposition that the Government was "a crumbling edifice," and was very effective when he declared that the record of good, efficient and courageous work which the Government had performed would not crumble. His defence of his absent leader was very fine, and came from his heart. He referred to the great strain on every Premier of Canada, which called for sympathy rather than criticism. "In my heart of hearts, he said, "there will always be a spot free from criticism in which there is guaranteed the sweetest and best of

CANADA STEAMSHIP LINES REPORTS RECORD EXPANSION

Total Revenue Crossed $15,000,000 Mark—In First Year Under Peace Conditions Company Exceeds All War Records—Directors Announce 7 Per Cent. Dividend on Common Stock for Year 1920.

Montreal, March 2.—Canada Steamship Lines, Ltd., in its first year under peace conditions, far exceeded all records made in any period during the war.

This will come as an agreeable surprise to the shareholders, as it was always felt that to a considerable extent the prosperity of Canada Steamship Lines was due to war conditions. The company has now completed its first full year under peace conditions, and on this account it is able to give shareholders some idea of just what the prospects are for the future.

The operating account shows a total revenue for the year of 1919 of $15,240,414, as compared with $14,094,393 in the previous year, a gain of approximately $1,200,000. Of this amount, revenue from vessels amounted to $14,495,657, as compared with $13,481,228 in 1918. Docks and wharves, $238,426, against $222,310, and miscellaneous $305,192 against $174,674. Other revenue this year amounted to $201,137, against $216,169.

Total expenses reflected the higher costs of operation, due to increased wages and insurance, and totalled $10,660,141, up from $9,756,313, leaving net earnings for the year of $4,580,272, as compared with $4,338,079 in 1918, and $1,732,057 in 1915. Out of the net earnings the amount required for bond interest, depreciation and reserve for Government taxes, etc., totalled $2,243,593, leaving a net profit for the year of $2,336,679, which compares with $2,324,098 a year ago.

The surplus account also indicates how the company has been able to strengthen its position in the past few years. At the end of 1918 the total surplus stood at $5,009,630 and added to it, as per operating account of Dec. 31st, 1919, was the total of $2,336,679 and net profits on sales of fixed assets, etc., amounting to $772,601—a total of $3,110,280—making a total amount available for distribution of $8,119,910. Of this amount, preference stock dividend at the rate of 7 per cent., required $875,000 and common stock dividend, at the rate of 4 per cent., called for $480,000, a total of $1,355,000, leaving a balance to be carried forward into the new year of $6,764,910. This amount is close to the total funded debt of the company.

Features of Statement.

The general statement of assets and liabilities shows total assets of $44,557,179, up from $38,919,677 at the end of the previous year. Among the fixed assets are vessels as at December 31st, 1918, $20,079,575; net additions for year (excess of additions to fleet over vessels lost and sold), $5,619,247, making the total value of the company's vessels $25,697,823. Real estate holdings, docks, wharves, etc., now stand at $6,351,017, compared with $6,054,144, while total value of fixed assets, after allowing for depreciation reserve of $4,564,291, now stands at $28,916,912, against $23,661,179 the previous year.

Current and working assets have gained to $5,866,873, up from $5,435,976, while current and accrued liabilities amount to $4,937,574.

J. W. Norcross, the President, in his report to shareholders, on behalf of the directors, mentions particularly that both freight and passenger earnings of the system have been eminently satisfactory and that, considering that this is the first year that the company has operated its enlarged system under peace conditions, these results must be regarded as gratifying, and on this account there is every justification for looking to the future with confidence.

Another report of the directors announces that it has been decided to place the common shares of the company on a 7 per cent. dividend basis.

THE ADRIATIC AND THE LEAGUE.

By far the most interesting meaning of the Adriatic controversy for the American people is the sure light which it throws upon the League of Nations project, remarks the New York Sun. This is exactly the sort of struggle the United States must expect to find itself eternally engaged in as a member of the League. And, if lines of interest are stringently drawn, as in this instance, and if opinions and determinations proved to be totally irreconcilable, a point not yet reached in the present case, submission amounting to surrender might easily become the only alternative to disruption of the League, with all the portentous consequences involved therein. Viewed from the standpoint of Fiume, it is plain that the League would just as likely be an incubator of war as a cradle of peace, a fertile field for the culture of discords, enmities and inconclusive settlement instead of a garden of ideals and idyls.

As for the merits of the immediate dispute, it is difficult if not impossible to judge. Plainly there is no perfect solution. Perhaps the best that can be expected is a fair balance of sacrifices and advantages between the two parties in interest, Italy and Jugo-Slavia. As to just where the line of equipoise is to be located there are two theories. Mr. Wilson stands for a sort of transcendental settlement, with which he has identified himself and to which he commits the American Government so far as he can. The Ally Premiers propose a substitute plan for which they make no higher claims than that it is essentially fair and practical. They seem to emphasize its practical quality. At least one—and the leading one—feature of President Wilson's scheme they classify as desired by nobody.

The President's first note is a masterpiece of dialectics. It is of extreme plausibility until the Premiers' reply is read. Then it becomes quite plain that there are two quite different aspects to the situation and that the President's is by no means the more up to date. We need only instance in illustration of this the declaration in the latter document that the whole Fiume free state project had collapsed, had passed out of the field of discussion because nobody would have it. It was rejected alike by Jugo-Slavs and Italians. Yet it is upon this proposal that the President's entire structure is based.

One by one the Premiers' reply cuts away the premises from beneath the President's logic—as in the Fiume railroad matter, the apportionment of population, the mandatory rule and partition of Albania—and at last what is mainly left of his position is his insistence on justice and regard for racial determination. To these latter aims the Premiers profess unqualified loyalty, merely insisting on a spirit and programme of compromise in order to secure a workable outcome.

It is impossible to read the entire correspondence without observing that the Premiers' explanation of developments subsequent to December 9 and of the cogent reasons which led to their tentative conclusions of January 14, reached subject to American indorsement, have had a strong effect on Mr. Wilson's mind. His second communication, the one just cabled to Europe, is far less insistent, far less comminatory than his previous utterances. There is no allusion to anything in the way of an abrupt break with the Allies. The tone is, by comparison at least, conciliatory. There are hints at ways in which an arrangement, agreeable all 'round, may yet be reached.

As regards the American people, we imagine, the view prevails very largely that the Adriatic settlement is a European question first and last. The United States is intensely partial to Italy, though not, of course, to the point of backing her in wrong. The American people also have a cordial regard and sympathy for the new republic of Jugo-Slavia, wishing it great prosperity and desiring it should have all means to that end consistent with justice. The American people abhor the idea of applying coercion to either. Their idea is rather to lend moral support to both and to their close friends and neighbors in reaching an amicable agreement.

In this correspondence there is no suggestion of impossibility of attaining such a result. The Premiers' note seems particularly hopeful if only common sense be applied to the problem. The general wish in America will be that the disclosure in full of all views will clear the atmosphere, make way for useful as well as lofty notions, and so lead to a wise, just and generally satisfactory agreement. As against such a result, we believe, Americans would not approve of insistence upon any rigid formula.

A BOUNTY ON GOLD.

It is reported that a bill is soon to be introduced in the United States Congress taxing the people to give a bounty for the mining of gold. This bill will seek to impose a duty of 50 cents a pennyweight of fine gold contained in any article sold, to raise a fund from which the miners are to receive a subsidy of $10 for each ounce of gold produced.

The reason assigned for this new burden upon a people already overburdened with taxes is the necessity of keeping up the reserve of gold in the country. Both the banking and the currency system are based upon this metal, and it is argued that the decline in gold output since 1914, coupled with recent exports, has brought the country near the danger point. Indeed, it is pointed out that production of gold in America has fallen from $101,000,000 in 1915 to $58,500,000 in 1919.

It is unfortunate that the decline in the purchasing power of gold has proved injurious to miners, both in the United States and abroad. But the proposed bounty raised by taxation is not a scientific remedy. Their troubles have resulted from world-wide inflation; they must wait for relief until deflation begins and gold is restored to its former place.

Artificial cures seldom succeed. To force gold upon the world by giving bounties to unprofitable mines would but tend to lower the price of the metal and aggravate the evil. If the credit system is becoming topheavy, the proper recourse is a gradual contraction of the paper superstructure. Then the solid foundation of gold will take care of itself. But to impose a burdensome tax on the people, the result of which would be to diminish still further the purchasing power of the standard of value, is hardly in keeping with the good sense or inclination of the people.

U. S. TENNIS TEAM AND THE OLYMPIC

New York, March 2.—The probability of an American team competing for the Olympic tennis championship at Antwerp next summer received a severe setback yesterday when word was received from Belgium that the date of the tournament could not be changed.

The Belgium Olympic committee in its cable stated that the courts would not be ready for play before August.

The cable was in answer to a request from the American Olympic committee and the United States Lawn Tennis Association that the date of the tennis tournament be moved forward from August 15-23 to the week beginning July 5.

FATALLY INJURED.

St. John, N. B., March 2.—While remodelling the rear of Jacob W. Jacobson's dry goods store, 637 Main street, yesterday afternoon, George Demeau, 30, a workman, was so seriously injured that he died in two hours.

OBITUARY.

Hon. H. M. Goudge.

Halifax, N. S., March 1.—Hon. M. H. Goudge, president of the Legislative Council of Nova Scotia, died at his home in Windsor, N. S., tonight.

J. Frank Curran.

Moncton, March 1.—The death of J. Frank Curran at Bathurst on Saturday evening, of pneumonia, following an attack of influenza, caused much surprise and regret here.

Beverley Grant.

Beverley Grant, of Arthurette, Victoria county, passed away at his home on the thirteenth of February after some weeks of painful illness. The deceased, who was fifty-four years of age, is survived by his wife, his father and one brother and four sisters. Interment took place at the Baptist burial ground, Arthurette.

Mrs. Henry Hartt.

Blissville, N. B., March 1.—The death of Mrs. Phoebe Hartt, widow of Rev. Henry Hartt, occurred at her home in Jacksontown on February 14. She was in her seventy-seventh year and was the daughter of the late Daniel Smith. She was born at Blissville, Sunbury county, and was married in 1871.

Allan Rogers.

The death took place recently at Upper Woodstock of Mr. Allan Rogers, a well known citizen. He was about fifty-five years of age and is survived by two brothers, Charles F. and James, and three sisters, Mrs James Sharpe, of Pembroke, and Miss Mariah, of Upper Woodstock, and one in the west.

Robert R. Gill.

Influenza claimed another victim in the person of Robert R. Gill, who passed away at the Riverside Hotel, Woodstock, recently, after four days' illness. He was thirty-four years of age and leaves to mourn three small children, Doris, Lillian and Jack.

The day after the keeper of the dog pound of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty of Animals in New Orleans let it be known through the papers that he had poodles to give away he found a mob on his doorstep in the morning and 23 poodles were adopted in as many minutes.

THE VETS DENOUNCE HEARST PAPERS

St. John Veterans Association Ask Members to Refrain from Purchasing Publications

St. John, N. B., March 2.—A resolution was adopted by the Great War Veterans' Association of this city last night asking the members to refrain from purchasing Hearst publications and petitioning the Government to forbid the sale of newsprint produced in Canada to these newspapers and magazines. Another resolution was adopted asking the Government to segregate returned soldiers mentally ill as the result of their war experiences from patients at institutions. The resolution was opposed to having soldier patients confined in general institutions for the insane.

human nature's recognition of merit and toil." He added: "My sympathies often went out to your own old chieftain, when I noted how his responsibilities and burdens grew upon him, and I know there were going on struggles little known to those on the outside." Sir George could scarcely have made a more effective reply to the criticism rendered.

Government's Splendid Record.

His speech was full of aphorisms. Referring to the rumors of which the leader of the opposition had made much, he said: "There would be a spice in the rumor if it were a fact." Rumors of dissension in the cabinet he specifically denied. "There is not now," he said, "nor has there been any line of policy adopted on which the cabinet has not stood as a unit. No government since Confederation has faced more responsibilities or met them more effectively, nor had so fair a record in performance as this government, which has carried through the work of the war. No government has fully carried out its pledges." He ended his speech with a very thorough summary of the Government's work and received loud applause on the conclusion of his speech.

The adjournment of the debate was moved by D. D. McKenzie.

Many Members Wish to Speak.

There are many members who desire to speak on the address and it is probable that the next two weeks will be taken up with that performance. What part the farmers' wing will take is not yet known. Spoken to today, Hon. Mr. Crerar, who is the leader of the party of twelve, intimated in private conversation that he has no definite programme mapped out as yet, but the new farmer members will certainly want to be heard from and will be.

It may be doubted just how much skill as a tactician the leader of the opposition displayed in proposing the resolution he did the first day of the session. If it passes it means the defeat of the Government, and when it is put to the House the farmers' wing of twelve will have to decide on their course of action. As a general rule, the farmers do not desire to vote against the Government except on a matter of fiscal policy and consequently will probably line up with them on this motion. It seems poor policy to do anything to direct their allegiance in this open fashion away from the opposition so decidedly. It sems to be a weakness of the opposition to spring hastily considered motions, Mr. McMaster having done something of the sort early in the spring session last year before the budget came on, and he failed to get the support of the cross benches.

Apparently little is to be done to attract the farmers in the House to the support of the opposition, where, if anywhere outside of its own borders, it would seem to lie.

Yes, Hazel, dear, repartee during courtship degenerates into plain back talk after marriage.

The Stock Market

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York (Wall Street), March 2—Heaviness of oils, motors and independent steels at the opening of today's stock market cancelled a large part of the rally registered by the general list in yesterday's later dealings. Rails and equivalents also reacted with high priced specialties. The selling concentrated in Royal Dutch, Shell Trading, Mexican Petroleum, General Motors, Crucible Steel, American and Baldwin Locomotives, American Woollen, Hide and Leather Pfd. and Endicott-Johnson.

The reaction extended from 1 to 5 points within the first half hour.

A BATH GIRL HAS NOVEL SNOW BATH

[Bangor News.]

The experience of taking a dip in a snow bank is equal to that in the briny deep, declares a Bath girl, who on Monday night donned her bathing suit and took a plunge in the snow. She stayed out about fifteen minutes, and even then was loath to return indoors. Her friends learned what she was doing and all proceeded to snowball her and help her to the high banks. She did not experience any unusual shock, she says, and is to try the stunt again. She said she had read a great deal about snow baths and had a desire to take one. Many of her friends are getting up their courage to go in with her next time.

FORCED TO WED.

Chicago, March 1.—Pushed to the altar, as he claims, at the point of a revolver, Jacob S. Cook applied to the police to arrest him today when Minnie Bleinstein, 22, and Minnie's father brought him into the marriage license bureau. The wedding party was taken to the police station, where the girl's father alleged that he wanted Cook to marry his daughter. Cook was held.

THE WAR MEMORIAL.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Kindly allow me space in your valuable paper to say a few words with regard to the proposed erection in this city of a memorial to Our Glorious Dead.

I wish to say that I entirely agree with the letter signed A Returned Soldier, published in your edition of a few evenings ago, that the Memorial should take the form of a piece of statuary rather than a building.

I notice that those chiefly desirous of having a building erected are members of the G. W. V. A. Now, in case the returned soldiers should have a say in connection with this proposed Memorial, let it be understood that the attitude of the G. W. V. A. is not the attitude of all the soldiers who served at the front. If they feel that it is necessary that a building should be erected, let them appeal to the Dominion Government, whose duty it is to see that those needing assistance receive it, and who, I might say, have already shown their appreciation for what the soldiers have done in a most generous way.

No; let us not have a building but a piece of statuary, such as will arouse inspiration and feeling among the coming generations, that they may look with pride on it and be stirred by the deeds of such noble sacrifices for which it stands.

In closing may I ask: "Is all sentiment dead?"

Yours,

ANOTHER RETURNED SOLDIER.

UNION PLUMBERS DEFENDED.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—In your issue of February 27th there was a letter dealing with the subject of proposed increase of wages, etc.

I very much regret the fact that the writer did not sign his name to his epistle as I make it a rule to ignore all anonymous communications. But as Citizen has broached a subject that is not very clear to a good many people, I take the liberty to reply as follows:

I will take for example the Plumbers' Union. The minimum wage last year was $4.50 per day. All our union men are at least average workmen. They could not be union men otherwise. Therefore $4.50 is the standard wage for the average workman. We have a number of members that are above the average, but they have been content to accept the minimum wage principally because the public is already burdened with high prices and we feel that if we can get along thus we will not make things harder.

I might say in passing that our local takes no orders from any central body nor general officer in regard to wages; that is a matter that is left in our own hands and I believe this applies to all other Fredericton unions as well. While a union can pass judgment on a member's ability, it is a hard matter to control his willingness to exercise that ability. Skilful men are sometimes known to do very careless work but when this happens it is a matter to be taken up with the man's employer.

I think by the tone of Citizen's letter that he has had some experience in the line of bad workmanship. If so, he has my sympathy. But every man who owns a pair of pipe wrenches is not a plumber. There are men who are working at the plumbing trade that are not competent plumbers and are not eligible as union members. A good many citizens get such men to do their work because they do it cheaper and as a result they get a botched job.

I would advise Citizen or anybody else to insist on a workman showing his union card and I am sure he will have no trouble as far as skill or ability is concerned. If a man fails to exercise his ability it is a matter for discussion between him and his boss.

I will say in conclusion that the aim of our local is perefct and safe plumbing. We are constantly striving toward that end and it is discouraging to have to go out and try to patch up a botched job so that it will conform to the Board of Health rules and to do it as cheaply as possible. Sometimes it is necessary to remodel the whole job and when the householder is informed of the fact the whole fraternity gets a call-down. The sanitary conditions of Fredericton are not as perfect as they could be although they are far better than a good many other places. But we would like to see them as near perfect as possible and we invite the public to co-operate with us to that end.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your attention,

Yours,

WM. O'DONNELL.

Sec. Local Plumbers' Union, No. 770.

Fredericton, March 1, 1920.

IT WOULD BE A HARD JOB TO CLIMB OUT.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Please allow me a small space in your valuable paper to express my opinion on what would become of Enquirer should he or she jump in a hole that was clear through the earth.

As your correspondent says, scientists have settled the fact that the earth is round; this the most of us believe to be true, and everything is held to the earth by gravitation. If this were not so, the earth would fall to pieces, and the closer to the earth the stronger the gravity. So Enquirer would just fall to the centre of the earth and stay there.

Better not try it; it would be a hard job to climb out. Anyway the earth turns over every 24 hours and you would just be up a little way and you would fall back again.

Yours,

ONE THAT FELL DOWN CELLAR ONCE.

Fredericton, N. B., Feb. 28, 1920.

A SOLDIER'S WIFE GIVES HER OPINION.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Being a reader of your valuable paper, I have been much interested in the letters From the People, especially that of the saving woman of North Devon.

I would like a small space to give my opinion in answering her letter, which appeared in your issue of Feb. 24th, signed Saving Woman. I would venture to say this North Devon woman did not have husband or son or next of kin to take part in this Great War, during which so many brave men left their little families and fought and bled and died on the bloody fields of France that we might enjoy a life of freedom here in the land of the Maple Leaf.

I think if any one of our soldier boys who was brave enough to don the khaki and fight for his King and country to protect the slackers at home, gets help from this government the money that was set aside for this purpose, he deserves it, and other people that have never had any one in the war have no cause to be jealous. I did not think there was a woman with such little patriotism in Canada. Furthermore, I say, put a returned soldier's wife on the job to go around to the houses of unemployed returned soldiers to see who is in need of this money, and not a woman who had the gall to suggest to a poor returned soldier's wife with a small family of children that she should pick berries in the summer to use on bread in place of butter in the winter.

Now, I am a returned soldier's wife and my husband was severely wounded in the war. I have not received any help from this government money, but would like to see others get help during the cold winter and be able to meet the high cost of living. I would like to hear some of the other soldiers' wives' opinion on this matter. I say: Come on, stick up for the Soldier Boys!

Thanking you for your valuable space, I remain,

A RETURNED SOLDIER'S WIFE.

Fredericton, N. B., Feb. 28, 1920.

PUT ALBERTA ON FINANCIAL MAP

Edmonton, Alta., March 1.—To put Alberta on the financial map of Canada with a bank of its own that shall be a recognized provincial institution, is the object of a movement now afoot for the organization of the Bank of Alberta. Notice has been given that an application will be made at the approaching session of the Dominion Parliament for a charter to such a bank, and it is expected that a favorable reception will be given it, that the charter will be granted, and that the bank will be ready to open business in probably six months' time.

(Extract from letter received)

Honestly now! Could you pay 50c. for any other prescription which would give you as much all-round service and satisfaction as a box of Zam-Buk does? Zam-Buk is a combination of powerful, healing, herbal extracts, so refined and compounded that wherever there is any kind of soreness of the flesh, or diseased tissue or abnormal condition (such as inflammation, festering or blood-poisoning) it almost immediately soothes and heals. It stops bleeding. It is highly antiseptic—kills all germs. It is suitable alike for the hardened skin of a working man or the delicate velvet skin of a child. It never goes rancid. Its power does not evaporate. Use half a box and put the remainder on the shelf—just as good six weeks or six months after.

City Council Again Delay Action Regarding Change In The Street Lighting System

Ald. Burpee and City Engineer McDowell Reported Against Purchase of Second-Hand Plant at Halifax—Aldermen Fail to Vote Endorsation of Proposal to Consolidate Street Lighting and Water Pumping Plants—War Memorial Resolution Passed in Committee—Road Building Equipment Ordered.

The City Council last evening considered a number of communications at their meeting in committee. One of these was from the Victorian Order of Nurses asking that a cheque be issued to the amount of the grant of $300 given by the City Council last year. On motion a cheque was ordered issued in favor of the Order, which, it was stated, is doing splendid work in the city.

A communication was also read from James L. Mavor asking that his mother be refunded by the city an amount of $20 which she found necessary to expend when a frozen sewerage main caused a pipe to burst in her cellar. The Water and Sewerage Committee had been notified at the time, but they stated they could do nothing at once, as the thawing machine and crew were busily engaged The sanitary inspector of the Board of Health, when consulted, ordered the break mended and the cellar cleaned at once, and when this was done an expense of $20 had been rolled up. The Council were of the opinion that the matter should be looked into and deferred action until the next meeting.

A communication from John Kenney, factory and building inspector, concerning proper fire escapes for the City Opera House during its occupation as a motion picture theatre, was referred to the City Hall Committee to report on at the next meeting of the Council.

The Street Lighting Problem.

Ald. D. W. Burpee and City Engineer G. C. McDowell, who had proceeded to Halifax under instructions of the Council to inspect some machinery proposed for purchase by the Council for the fitting up of the Carleton street lighting plant, reported against the Council purchasing the machinery, as they thought it would require too much expenditure to put it into shape for use.

Ald. Burpee moved a resolution that Plan No. 2 of the City Engineer's recent report on the lighting question be adopted. This plan provides for the moving of the lighting plant from Carleton street to the Pumping Station, and consolidation there, at an estimated cost of $12,875. This was seconded by Ald. McKay, but Ald. Cooper moved in amendment that the matter be left over until the April meeting for the new Council. This was seconded by Ald. Camp and passed.

The bye-law concerning the schedule of rents for occupation of the City Opera House, which had been adopted in 1907 was repealed, as it in no way applied to the present situation at the City Opera House, where the building had been leased for a term of years as a moving picture theatre.

Mayor Hanson referred to the public meeting which had been held in the interests of the War Memorial for the fallen heroes, and the following resolution was passed: "That the Legislature be asked to authorize the City Council to make a grant for a memorial for the soldiers who had lost their lives during the Great War."

Mayor Hanson stated that although not suggesting it be retroactive, the City Council ought to take steps to see that the future Mayors would get a real salary and not a nominal one. At present, he said, it often turned out that the Mayor was out of pocket besides using his too modest salary for the interests of the city.

The report from the Roads and Streets Committee advised the purchase of three Champion spreader wagons at a cost of $250 each for permanent street work in hauling stones and gravel from the city yard. This was recommended by City Engineer McDowell, and on motion the Roads and Streets Committee were instructed to acquire such wagons, the expense to be charged to permanent paving account.

SPURDEN WRIGHT DIED IN PHILADELPHIA

Went There for Benefit of Health and Contracted Pneumonia.

Word has been received of the death at Philadelphia, Pa., on January 30th, of Spurden B. Wright, of Andover, N. B. Deceased had gone to visit his brother and was taken ill with a cold which developed into pneumonia and terminated fatally in a few days.

Following the death of his father some years ago, Mr. Wright and his mother carried on the work of a big farm, but failing health compelled him to give up and he moved to Perth and was in the grocery business until last fall when he sold out and moved to Andover.

Mr. Wright was a graduate of the Fredericton Business College, where he made many friends who will be grieved to learn of his death at such an early age. He was a great worker in the United Baptist church, a wise counsellor and ever ready to help in any good cause.

The deceased leaves to mourn his widowed mother and one brother, C. P. Wright, of Philadelphia, who accompanied the remains to his old home. The funeral was largely attended. Rev. Mr. Kachola conducted the service. The floral offerings were numerous and beautiful, many accompanying the body from Phildalephia.

WHEN INDIGESTION STALKS IN

domestic peace and tranquility fly out of the window. Happiness in the home comes from simple, nourishing foods that are easily digested. Keep the home sweet and tranquil by serving Shredded Wheat, a simple, natural, whole wheat food. Most foods have advanced seventy-five per cent in cost. Shredded Wheat sells at such a slight advance over the old price that you will never notice it. Two Biscuits with hot milk make a nourishing meal for a few cents.

PATHETIC NOTE LEFT BY SUICIDE

New Westminster, B. C., March 1.—J. B. Burnett, of Vancouver, who committed suicide with poison in a local hotel, left the following note: "To those whom it may concern: Out of work for a long time on account of ill-health. High cost of everything has taken my savings. My health and physical strenth are gone. Old age—nearly seventy. No relations or friends A stranger." Signed, The Suicide—J. B. Burnett.

ENLIVEN DAYS OF LIVES OF SETTLERS

Saskatoon, Sask., March 1.—In order to provide for a little chance for the wives of settlers in the Regina, Shaunavon, Woodrow, Ogema and portions of the Morse districts, the home branch of the Soldiers' Settlement Board, Regina, has arranged to hold a week's programme at Moose Jaw from March 1 to March 6. In addition to making this week one of social enjoyment, they have arranged, through the extension department of the Saskatchewan University, to put on a short course in home economics. This course will include lectures and demonstrations on poultry, butter-making, home nursing, cookery, dress-making and sanitation.

CONDUCTED TOURIST THROUGH TO ARCTIC

Edmonton, Alta., March 1.—In an editorial The Journal says: "The Journal some weeks ago referred to the appearance in the New York dailies of advertisements announcing that the Lamson-Hubbard company was prepared to take tourists through from Edmonton to the Arctic. This Edmonton dream of long standing is to be realized during the coming summer. We are informed that the company has already received 200 inquiries from Americans who are anxious to make the trip. Only one Canadian has applied for information. It is proposed to leave Edmonton for Fort McPherson on June 20, the date for the first return to this city being Aug. 1. The route via Peace River will be adopted.

Why do Some People Always Wake up Tired

LOTS of folks sleep all night. But they don't rest. They sleep too "light." Or they dream all night and get up in the morning almost as tired as when they went to bed.

Many don't get the right kind of sleep because of their beds. You can't get real sound sleep unless your bed invites every nerve and muscle to relax.

Most beds have a loose joint that rattles. Or a spring that creaks. Even the least bit of noise will keep the nerves on edge.

Anyone would sleep better if he'd get rid of his old wooden or loose-jointed rattling metal bed and get a Simmons Metal Bed, with Waldorf Box Spring and a Simmons Mattress and Pillows.

o o o

THE Simmons Metal Bed is noiseless. It locks firm at the corners. The corner locks are made of pressed steel—fit true and snug—not a creak, rattle, or feeling of unsteadiness.

It is perfectly rigid—moves like one solid piece.

The Simmons Pressed Steel Corner Locks are protected by basic patents—exclusive with Simmons Limited—not to be duplicated or imitated.

And these patented corner locks have made possible the Three-piece Bed—the new Simmons idea—the spring forming a single unit with the side rails.

o o o

THE Waldorf Box Spring really does what you have always wanted a spring to do.

It invites complete relaxation.

It supports the body at ease on fine resilient spring coils—each coil conforming freely to the contours, so that the spine is perfectly rested, whether one sleeps on the back or on the side.

It fits firmly on the bed—never sags or humps, never loses its resiliency.

And Simmons Mattresses and Pillows are in every way worthy to go with Simmons Metal Beds and Waldorf Box Springs.

The Simmons Metal Bed and Waldorf Box Spring will give you better, sounder sleep than you have ever known.

Many folks can't sleep even in the best bed if they are disturbed by the restlessness of another sleeper.

Simmons Limited makes a specialty of Twin Beds—where one sleeper doesn't disturb the other or draw on the vitality—and you don't "catch" sore throats, coughs or colds.

Your choice of exquisite designs in brass, or enamel in colors and delicate "wood effects" in Simmons Beds—prices no higher than for ordinary beds.

And when you are selecting your Simmons Beds with an eye to their appearance in the room, you will see that Simmons has for the first time established beautiful and authoritative design in Metal Beds.

All the leading merchants in this section have Simmons Beds, Waldorf Box Springs, Simmons Mattresses and Pillows.

If you care to write us, we'll tell you where to get them.

"It is our custom, young sir, when new squires come amongst us from England, to test them in some such way. Bethink you that if a man have a destrier or a new lance he will ever try it in time of peace, lest in days of need it may fail him. How much more then is it proper to test those who are our comrades in arms."

"I would draw out if it may honorably be done," murmured Norbury in Alleyne's ear. "The man is a noted swordsman and far above your strength."

Edricson came, however, of that sturdy Saxon blood which is very slowly heated, but once up not easily to be cooled. The hint of danger which Norbury threw out was the one thing needed to harden his resolution.

"I came here at the back of my master," he said, "and I looked on every man here as an Englishman and a friend. This gentleman hath shown me a rough welcome, and if I have answered him in the same spirit he has but himself to thank. I will pick the glove up; but, certes, I shall abide what I have done unles he first crave my pardon for what he hath said and done."

Tranter shrugged his shoulders. "You have done what you could to save him, Harcomb," said he. 'We had best settle at once."

"So say I," cried Alleyne.

"The council will not break up until the banquet," remarked a gray-haired squire. "You have a clear two hours."

"And the place?"

"The tilting-yard is empty at this hour."

"Nay; it must not be within the grounds of the court, or it may go hard with all concerned if it come to the ears of the prince."

"But there is a quiet spot near the river," said one youth. "We have but to pass through the abbey grounds, along the armory wall, past the church of St. Remi, and so down the Rue des Apotres."

"En avant, then!" cried Tranter shortly, and the whole assembly flocked out into the open air, save only those whom the special orders of their masters held to their posts. These unfortunates crowded to the small casements, and craned their necks after the throng as far as they could catch a glimpse of them.

Close to the banks of the Garonne there lay a little tract of green sward, with the high wall of a prior's garden upon one side and an orchard with a thick bristle of leafless apple-trees upon the other. The river ran deep and swiftly to the steep bank; but there were few boats upon it, and the ships were moored far out in the centre of the stream. Here the two combatants drew their swords and threw off their doublets, for neither had any defensive armor. The duello with its stately etiquette had not yet come into vogue, but rough and sudden encounters were as common as they must ever be when hot-headed youth goes abroad with a weapon strapped to its waist. In such combats, as well as in the more formal sports of the tilting-yard, Tranter had won a name for strength and dexterity which had caused Norbury to tuter his well-meant warning. On the other hand, Alleyne had used his weapons in constant exercise and practice every day for many months, and being by nature quick of eye and prompt of hand, he might pass now as no mean swordsman. A strangely opposed pair they appeared as they approached each other; Tranter dark and stout and stiff, with hairy chest and corded arms, Alleyne a model of comeliness and grace, with his golden hair and his skin as fair as a woman's. An unequal fight it seemed to most; but there were a few, and they the most experienced, who saw something in the youth's steady gray eye and wary step which left the issue open to doubt.

"Hold, sirs, hold!" cried Norbury, ere a blow had been struck. "This gentleman hath a two-handed sword, a good foot longer than that of our friend."

"Take mine, Alleyne," said Ford.

"Nay, friends," he answered, "I understand the weight and balance of my own. To work, sir, for our lord may need us at the abbey!"

Tranter's great sword was indeed a mighty vantage in his favor. He stood with his feet close together, his knees bent outwards, ready for a dash inwards or a spring out. The weapon he held straight up in front of him with blade erect, so that he might either bring it down with a swinging blow, or by a turn of the heavy blade he might guard his own head and body. A further protection lay in the broad and powerful guard which crossed the hilt, and which was furnished with a deep and narrow note, in which an expert swordsman might catch his foeman's blade, and by a quick turn of his wrist might snap it across. Alleyne, on the other hand, must trust for his defence to his quick eye and active foot—for his sword, though keen as a whetstone could make it, was of a light and graceful build with a narrow, sloping pommel and a tapering steel.

Tranter well knew his advantage and lost no time in putting it to use. As his opponent walked towards him he suddenly bounded forward and sent in a whistling cut which would have severed the other in twain had he not sprung lightly back from it. So close was it that the point ripped a gash in the jutting edge of his linen cyclas. Quick as a panther, Alleyne sprang in with a thrust, but Tranter, who was as active a she was strong, had already recovered himself and turned it aside with a movement of his heavy blade. Again he whizzed in a blow which made the spectators hold their breath, and again Alleyne very quickly and swiftly slipped from under it, and sent back two lightning thrusts which the other could scarce parry. So close were they to each other that Alleyne had no time to spring back from the next cut, which beat down his sword and grazed his forehead, sending the blood streaming into his eyes and down his cheeks. He sprang out beyond sword sweep, and the pair stood breathing heavily, while the crowd of young squires buzzed their applause.

"Braely struck on both sides!" cried Roger Harcomb. "You have both won honor from this meeting, and it would be sin and shame to let it go further."

"You have done enough, Edricson," said Norbury.

"You have carried yourself well, cried several of the older squires.

"For my part, I have no wish to slay this young man," said Tranter, wiping his heated brow.

"Does this gentleman crave my pardon for having used me despitefully?" asked Alleyne.

"Nay, not I."

"Then stand on your guard, sir!" With a clatter and dash the two blades met each other, Alleyne pressing in so as to keep within the full sweep of the heavy blade, while Tranter as continually sprang back to have space for his fatal cuts. A three-parts-parried blow drew blood from Alleyne's left shoulder, but at the same moment he wounded Tranter slightly upon the thigh. Next instant, however, his blade had slipped into the fatal notch, there was a sharp cracking sound with a tinkling upon the ground, and he found a splintered piece of steel fifteen inches long was all that remained to him of his weapon.

"Your life is in my hands!" cried Tranter, with a bitter smile.

"Nay, nay, he makes submission!" broke in several squires.

"Another sword!" cried Ford.

"Nay, sir,' said Harcomb, "that is not the custom."

'Throw down your hilt, Edricson,' cried Norbury.

"Never!" said Alleyne. "Do you crave my pardon, sir?"

"You are mad to ask it."

Goodyear Builds Better Hose

There was a time when men thought that rubber tires had reached their limit of quality. Then Goodyear entered the field, and, by leaving the beaten path, built the largest tire business in the world.

When Goodyear scientists and engineers turned their attention to Industrial Hose they were not satisfied with many of the existing standards. They started from the ground up. They built for Industry's needs. Was the rubber lining unsatisfactory—Goodyear men worked till they had discovered a better one. Did a cover wear out too quickly in hard service—the knowledge gained in building automobile treads was applied to hose covers. New specifications were worked out. New formulae were developed.

The Goodyear Industrial Hose offered you today is the result of a definite policy. It is the solution to your hose problems—not a makeshift.

In mines, mills, foundries, shipyards, railways, and a hundred other industries, all over Canada, it is setting new standards.

There is a Goodyear Industrial Hose for every particular use—yours among them. Let a man, trained by Goodyear in hose problems, call and explain them to you. No obligation. Phone, wire or write the nearest branch.

From the church the remains were taken to the Otis train and conveyed to Mouth of Keswick for interment.

WOMEN'S INCOMES ASSESSED; INCREASE MEN'S EXEMPTIONS

Assessors Preparing to Tax All Women's Salaries Above $300.

INCREASE EXEMPTIONS FOR MARRIED MEN

Graduating Scale to Assist Men Who Have Families to Support.

Women who are earning salaries of more than $300 a year will be taxed in Fredericton this year upon their incomes.

While nothing is being said about the matter at City Hall and the assessors are reticent about discussing the subject, it is learned that the names of women wage earners are being placed upon the assessment roll and the number who will be thus affected has been variously estimated at from 300 to 500 or even more.

Under the new interpretation of the Assessment Law, women are as liable for taxation upon their incomes as men and thus all those who earn are to be taxed upon the amount they are in receipt of above $300 a year, including those young ladies who reside in Devon, Marysville and elsewhere but are employed in public and private offices, stores and other establishments.

Up to the present time only those women paying taxes on real and personal property have been entitled to vote at civic elections, and now, as a result of the changed state of affairs with women being taxed upon incomes as well, the following resolution was adopted by the City Council last evening: "That the Assessment Act be further amended so as to provide that females assessed on incomes or property, real or personal, who pay taxes on such, shall have a vote in civic elections the same as male ratepayers."

Increase Married Men's Exemptions.

There was a general discussion during the meeting of the subject of March in Like a Lion, When Will Lamb Appear?

March has come in like a proverbial lion sure enough and there is much anxiety as to whether it will live up to the old adage and go out like a lamb.

Last night the official temperature was 19 degrees below zero, which is only one degree above the coldest during the month of February, while many of the local thermometers showed considerably lower than 20 below zero.

The continued cold weather with the scarcity fuel is causing a most serious situation.

AMERICANS BUY KILBURN FARM

Kingarth Property Bought by Maine People Who Want Pulpwood Lands.

Negotiations are about completed for the sale of the Kilburn homestead farm property of some 700 acres at Kingarth, parish of Kingsclear, York county, to a group of Maine people who are said to have bought the farm in order to secure the woodlands.

The roperty is at present owned by John Kilburn, retired lumberman, of this city, and the sale, which has been negotiated by his son, Wardlow Kilburn, of the John Palmer Company, Ltd., is said to involve some $8,700, which is to be paid in American funds, which will thus make the price in Canadian funds about $10,000. There is said to be a considerable amount of pulp wood on the property, which makes it especially desirable at the present time.

Mr. Kilburn said today the sale had not been completed but admitted it was likely to be closed within a week. The transaction is significant as showing the extent to which American interests are going in their efforts to obtain soil right lumber and pulp wood lands in this province.

CROWN LANDS SALE.

Bidding Only on York and Westmorland County Lots This Morning.

Only two of the lots offered at the Crown Lands sale at the Department of Lands & Mines at noon today provided any competitive bidding, one of the remaining lots being withdrawn and the others going to the applicants at the upset prices.

The lots on which there was bidding were:

In York county—Lot 61, second tier southwest of the St. John river on Four Mile Brook, consisting of ten acres, went to James B. Grant at the upset price of $1 an acre.

Lot 66, comprising 66 acres, Four Mile Brook, went to S. E. Darling and Charles Price at $3.25 an acre.

In Westmorland county—Lot K., comprising 9 acres, between MacLaughlin Road and Irishtown Road, went to Francis P. Murphy at $3.50 an acre. The upset price was $3 per acre.

The Auto Department of J. Clark & Son, Ltd., is now in a position to overhaul and repair Chevrolet Motor Cars. Telephone 251 or 252.

MEDICAL STAFF OF VICTORIA HOSPITAL TO BE INCREASED

Question Considered by the Board of Trustees at Meeting Yesterday.

FIVE SPECIAL NURSES HAVE BEEN ON DUTY

All Accommodations Taken Up and Rooms Are Engaged Ahead, It is Said.

The regular meeting of the trustees of Victoria Public Hospital was held at the institution yesterday. In the absence from the city of President Hughes, Dr. Keirstead was called to the chair. The other members in attendance included Dr. Irvine, His Worship Mayor Hanson, R. FitzRandolph, Col. Loggie and Secretary-Treasurer Sampson.

In his report of the expenditures for February the Treasurer showed an expenditure of several hundred dollars in excess of the receipts. This is largely accounted for by the steadily crowded state of the hospital and the constantly upward tendency of supplies, especially of those used in the operating room; in fact, it is feared that ether will soon become prohibitive.

Miss Sansom, the superintendent, with her efficient staff of nurses, including "Dr." Kelley, reports the chief drawback to be the great lack of accommodation for patients, and she says that in order to meet the demand five special nurses have lately been on duty in addition to the full home staff, and that all rooms are engaged ahead.

The question of additions to the medical staff was again under consideration. For a number of years the medical staff has been composed of six members, and although applications for a place on the staff have been frequently made, no change has taken place. Before further action is taken it is proposed to confer with the medical staff.

Upon the suggestion of the Superintendent, the Board has decided to offer a prize to the nurse upon graduating who shall excel in deportment and neatness. This prize will be of the value of $20. A medal or gold prize has been the personal gift of Dr. VanWart for several years for skill and efficiency along selected lines.

Ordering the payment of a big lot of bills formed the closing work for the day.

Train Delayed by Drifts.

The Otis branch C. P. R. train was held up for about two hours this morning because of the fact that drifts had formed in several places over the line and the snowplough was for some time unable to make any headway.

GETTING READY FOR AN ELECTION IN KING'S WARD

Neither Mr. Blizzard Nor Mr. Neill Seem Inclined to Drop Out.

JOHN A. REID NEITHER MAYOR OR ALDERMAN

Elected Mayor by Acclamation He Automatically Retired as Alderman Yesterday.

Preparations were commenced this morning for a contest in the civic election to decide the representation of King's Ward, it being announced that the business men of the city were to hold a meeting with the object of taking a part in the election.

Under the proclamation calling for nominations which closed yesterday afternoon only one alderman was to be elected from King's Ward and J. Stewart Neill, managing director of the Fredericton Motor Sales Company, Ltd., and Thomas D. Blizzard, wood merchant and member of the Fredericton Labor Council, were nominated.

Just Plain Mr. Reid Today.

When John A. Reid's papers as a candidate for Mayor were filed he automatically ceased to be an alderman, thus creating a second vacancy in King's Ward and opening that seat for the unexpired portion of his term, or for one year. However, neither Mr. Blizzard nor Mr. Neill will withdraw and accept the one-year term, so there is to be an election to determine which shall succeed Ald. William McKay. Later another election will be called to fill the vacancy in King's Ward caused by Mr. Reid' elevation. Meanwhile until he is sworn in as Chief Magistrate, Mr. Reid is neither

MAKE HOARDING UNLAWFUL IN N. Y.

Legislature of New York State Takes Up the Question of Cost of Living.

Albany, N. Y., March 3.—Proposals designed to control and reduce the high cost of living were outlined by Governor Smith in a message to the Legislature today. The Governor declared investigation showed there had been an increase in living costs during the past six months. Here are the main points in the statutes which are to be introduced with the object of bringing prices down, as stated in the Governor's message:

Hoarding will be made unlawful in order to prevent the withholding from the market of necessary foodstuffs and the destruction of foods for the purpose of enhancing prices.

Food dealers are to be licensed so that the state may control dealings in foodstuffs and gradually eliminate dealers "who bring discredit on the trade."

Farm products are to be graded, and the price of eggs will be lowered, it is hoped, by a systematic and careful grading. The use in food establishments of eggs which are not fresh will also be controlled.

SOCIALISTS WOULD FLEECE THE KAISER

Members in German Assembly Sought Confiscation Hohenzollern Possessions.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Berlin, March 3.—The fight to deprive the former Emperor of his properties and fortune began in earnest yesterday when the motion of the majority socialists of the diet to refer the issue to the national assembly precipitated an acrimonious debate. The majority socialists vied with the independents in denunciation of the former ruler in an effort to defeat the proposed settlement by accomplishing the confiscation of the Hohenzollern possessions. This would be done through constitutional amendment, voting the former Emperor a fixed sum for his maintenance.

Deputy Graef, a majority socialist, declared that the ex-ruler had failed to live up to the historic precedents of his race. He had not died at the head of his troops. He chose instead, the deputy continued, a midnight flight to Holland, where "he is now promenading and sawing wood."

The deputy expressed doubt as to whether the former Emperor had subscribed to war loans, as had been claimed, while his claim that he had been the guardian of peace had been disproved by his continuous rattling of the sword and proclamations of the mailed fist.

The democrats and the clericals joined in voting for the government's measure, providing that the settlement be referred to the committee of judiciary.

The judiciary committee now takes the bill under advisement and conferences are expected to last many weeks.

The motion of the majority socialists providing for action by the national assembly has been temporarily tabled.

LIMIT NUMBER OF TURKISH ARMY

Only to Be Allowed Enough Troops to Maintain Order in Asia Minor.

Paris, March 3.—Turkey's army will be limited to the number of troops necessary to maintain order in Asia Minor, according to the Journal, which says Turkey will be compelled to keep her armed forces on the Asiatic side of the Bosphorus.

VICTIMS OF FLU DRIVEN INTO SNOW

Turned Out of Home by a Fire Which Burned House to the Ground.

Bracebridge, Ont., March 3—Neighbors this morning found Charles Everett, his wife and twelve-year-old son, who yesterday were confined to bed with influenza, shivering in the snow, and trying to warm themselves before smouldering ruins of their home. Last night, when they were in bed, helpless with the disease, the house caught fire and they had only strength to crawl out into the snow. They were rushed to Bracebridge, a distance of three miles, and are now in a serious condition.

SAYS DRURY HAD SOLDIER ARRESTED

Charge that Ontario Premier Had Soldier Arrested for Trespassing on Farm.

THE PREMIER DENIED THE ALLEGED ARREST

Affidavit Now Produced that Complaint of Trespass Was Made by Drury.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Toronto, March 3.—While Premier Drury was a candidate in Halton county for a seat in the legislature and was being opposed by E. J. Stephenson, of this city, a returned soldier, a report was circulated that Mr. Drury had had a soldier arrested on his farm at Crown Hill for trespassing, while a battalion was stationed at Barrie. The Premier denied this, and it was reported that he offered to give $500 to any charitable institution if a man could be produced who had been arrested on his farm.

Deputy Graef, a majority socialist, Sergeant Major Jos. McNamara, M. P. P. for Riverdale, has come forward with an affidavid made by K. Coxe, of Milton, Halton County, a former soldier, to the effect that because of a complaint of trespass, preferred by Mr. Drury against him and several companions, in February, 1916, while with the 76th aBttalion at Barrie, Coxe and his companions were placed under arrest by a sergeant and confined to the guard house for half an hour.

Sergt. Major McNamara asks the Premier to give the $500 to the Soldiers' Orphanage Home.

DISAGREEMENT IN JACKMAN TRIAL

The Jury in the Trial of John Burke for Murder Failed to Agree.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Skowhegan, Me., March 3.—The jury at the trial of John A. Burke, former deputy sheriff and tax collector at Jackman, who was charged with the murder of Nelson W. Bartley, keeper of a sportsmen's hotel, reported a disagreement today after considering the case 19 hours. Burke was remanded to jail to await a re-trial.

Burke and Bartley had quarrelled shortly before the latter's death over Canadian liquor smuggling operations in which they had been engaged.

On the night of the murder Burke returned home with a bullet wound in the leg and said that Bartley had shot him. Bartley's body was found in the woods three days later.

ALLEGE OUTRAGES AGAINST AUSTRIANS

Hungarian Soldiers Said to Cross Border and Rob and Abuse Austrians.

Vienna, March 3.—The Austrian government is taking cognizance of alleged repeated outrages against Austrians by Hungarian soldiers.

Dr. Karl Renner, the Chancellor, yesterday informed the foreign legation's committee that he was preparing a note of protest to them against three attacks.

He recited a number of cases where he said Hungarian guards had crossed the frontier and robbed or arrested Austrians and taken them to Hungarian soil, where they were chained and beaten.

Budapest, March 3.—Immediately after Admiral Horthy had assumed his duties as Regent of Hungary, announcement was made by Premier Huszar that the cabinet had resigned. The Regent asked the Ministry to retain office pending the formation of a new government.

New Regent of Hungary is a Strong Partizan of Hapsburgs

Admiral Horthy is a Member of An Old Hungarian Family and His Elevation is Regarded as a Step Toward a Return of Former Royal Family.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Budapest, March 3.—Admiral Horthy, who was formally elected Regent of Hungary on Monday, and voted an honorarium of 3,000,000 kroner by the national assembly, is a member of a very old Hungarian family and is believed to be a strong partisan of the former Emperor Charles. His election is regarded in some quarters as a step towards a military dictatorship and the possible return of the Hapsburgs to the throne.

Women to Exercise Franchise For the First Time in Quebec

The Only Qualification Necessary in Coming Federal Bye-Elections that They Be Over 21 Years of Age and Be British Subjects.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Montreal, March 3.—For the first time in the history of the Province of Quebec, women will exercise the franchise, the occasion being the coming two federal by-elections on April 7th in this province. The only qualifications are that they must be over the age of 21 years and be British subjects.

A number of prospective candidates have met Hon. Mr. Letourneau, the Liberal organizer, and it is believed that they accepted his suggestion that they would bow to the choice of the Liberal convention to be held March 8th.

Would Not Trade With Any Country That Did Not Accept Canadian Dollar at It's Face

D. D. MacKenzie, the Late Leader of the Opposition Party in Parliament, Disappoints His Friends in Speech Yesterday —Makes No Reference to Amendment of His Leader.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, March 3.—An echo of the old "no truck nor trade with the Yankees" sentiment was heard from a quarter in the House this afternoon, when D. D. MacKenzie declared that in his opinion Canada should not do one dollar's worth of trade with a country that will not recognize the Canadian dollar as being worth one hundred cents, in a speech of about an hour and a quarter in duration. This was about the only notable thing the late leader of the Opposition said, and he may live to find the necessity for explaining it, as he had to do with the protectionist speech of last session. It was a sentiment which aroused considerable satirical applause from the Government benches.

There were several things lacking in the member's speech which one might have expected to find there. In the first place, there was a notable lack of those Scriptural quotations with which he is wont to garnish his parliamentary efforts so appositely, but more remarkable was the fact that he did not make a single reference to the amendment introduced by his leader yesterday, and of which he was himself the titular seconder, calling upon the Government to resign and appeal to the people at the polls. It almost looked from this neglect as though that amendment had not been meant to be taken seriously.

Indictment of Government.

His speech was a general indictment of the Government's record. It had not a friend, he said, among the returned soldiers. Its civil service reform programme was a muddle. Many of the other things for which the Government was claiming credit had nothing more substantial in them. He indicted the administration for its inefficiency and summoned into court some of the Government's old friends, Hon. Mr. Rogers and the Montreal Gazette, to bear witness against it. Even with a packed witness box the result of the speaker's efforts was not very impressive, although Sir George Foster and other members of the Government seemed to derive considerable amusement from it.

In answer to the appeal of Sir Geo. Foster yesterday that someone should explain the present status of the Liberal platform, Mr. McKenzie undertook the task, and did so by pointing to the history of Liberalism while governing Canada from 1896 to 1911 as sufficient assurance that, whatever the platform was, the people might put confidence in the Liberal party now as then.

The speech was really one of the worst the hon. member has ever made in the House, as there was scarcely an ounce of wheat in bushels of chaff, and when it ended without the slightest reference to the amendment, his leader showed his astonishment. The thing is quite inexplicable. At the Opposition caucus this morning there was said to have been great enthusiasm over the King amendment, probably because it indicated a molicum of that punch which has been the thing most notably lacking in the makeup of the new leader. To have it far from the memory of his lieutenant before he took the floor must have been disheartening. The Opposition, however, believe that the King amendment was good tactics, as tending to line up the farmers and make them show their hand. Attempts to herd the farmers into either camp are not likely to meet with much success. Ham Burnham was probably not far wrong in his speech of this afternoon when he said that the farmers were bent on achieving power for themselves, warned the Liberals that they were likely to be wiped out altogether, and told his own party they would follow suit if they did not return to their principles and organize.

The speeches of Mr. McWatt, of Parkdale, are not as a rule of very heavy calibre, but he managed to inject some interest into what he said today, because of the fact that it gave some inkling of what is passing through the minds of former Liberals who are sticking by the Government. Mr. McWatt was nominated in the strongest Conservative constituency in Toronto, probably because of the weight the name of McWatt—he is a nephew of the old Liberal chieftain of Ontario—would lend to the Unionist cause. In his speech yesterday he gave reasons why Liberals found themselves at home in the Unionist ranks and why the Unionist organization should be perpetuated. If it were, he predicted that the Liberals in the Unionist party would stick to it.

Returns Tabled.

Ottawa, March 3.—Correspondence between Judge Robson, former chairman of the Board of Commerce, and the Government, relative to his resignation, was tabled in the House by Sir George Foster.

International opium convention and air regulations for Canada was brought down by Hon. Mr. Rowell and Hon. Mr. Sifton.

The Grand Trunk agreement was tabled.

Mr. L. J. Gauthier, speaking to the Address, declared that the province of Quebec had been reviled and slandered, but was awaiting its hour, and would not confer before it came.

Other speeches on the Address were made by Messrs. J. H. Burnham, H. M. Mowatt, J. E. d'Anjou and Dr. Alfred Thompson.

In the Senate Senator Bostock referred to the exchange situation, saying it would encourage trade within the Empire.

Senator Chapais seconded the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

Sir James Lougheed, Government leader, said the future greatness of Canada depended on its manufactures.

PENNIAC MOURNS AGED RESIDENT

Reuben Wade Passed Away After Week's Illness of Winter Cholera.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Marysville, N. B., March 3.—The death of Reuben Wade occurred about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon after a week's illness of winter cholera. Deceased was 74 years of age, being born at Penniac on Jan. 15th, 1846. He was married three times. His first wife was Miss Elizabeth Bailey Three children from this union survive him; they are Mrs. N. E. Stewart of Marysville, John Wade of Rumford, Me., and Andrew Wade of Providence, R. I. His second wife was Mrs. Elizabeth Soles; no children were born of this union. His third wife was Miss Carrie Holyoke, who survives with five children; they are Irene, May, Helen and James. Two brothers and four sisters also survive; the brothers are Lemuel and John Wade of Penniac; the sisters are Mrs. Mary Finnamore, Mrs. Alex. Tait, Mrs. Elizabeth Collings of Marysville and Mrs. James Doherty of St. John. The late Mr. Wade was an industrious and highly esteemed citizen, and was for a number of years gardener for the late Alexander Gibson. The funeral will probably take place Thursday afternoon. Rev. J. B. Daggett will conduct the service, and interment will be made in the Baptist cemetery.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Hedley V. Stewart took place yesterday afternoon from her late residence on Water street. Rev. E. J. Barass conducted the services at the home and grave. Interment was made in the Baptist cemetery.

The Florence M. Bird mission band of the Methodist Church held a very successful concert in the vestry of the church last evening. There was a large attendance and the programme rendered by the little folk was excellent, and reflects great credit upon them and Mrs. J. J. Pinkerton and Miss Minnie M. Titus, who were in charge of the concert.

A special feature of the programme was the duet by Madeline Brewer and George Johnston, two six-year-olds, clad in Highland costume. Each number of the programme was highly encored.

The following is the programme:—
Opening hymn, 449.
Remarks, Rev. J. J. Pinkerton.
Recitation, Doris Gregory.
Exercise by Lois Marshall and Stanley Pinkerton.
Chorus, Mission Band.
Recitation, John Arnold.
Duet, Madeline Brewer and George Johnston.
Recitation, Bancroft Reid.
Exercise, Three Girls.
Recitation, Margaret Kelly.
Duet, Eleanor Inch and Lois Marshall.
Recitation, Jack Inch.
Exercise, Several little children.
Solo, Kathleen Inch.
Recitation, Christine Stafford.
Exercise, Mission Band.
Chorus, Mission Band.
Recitation, Florence Armstrong.
Duet, Avis Wister and Margaret Kelly.

A substantial silver collection was taken.

Harold Nickerson is quite ill at the home of his parents, Mr and Mrs. P. E. Nickerson.

Miss A. Bartlett's condition is somewhat improved.

John L. Fletcher is confined to his home with a severe cold.

Dudley Bubar is suffering from an attack of winter cholera.

DE LAVAL CREAM SEPARATOR

It will pay you in cream saved from $3 to $5 a cow every year over an inferior or half-worn-out cream separator.

It will pay you in cream saved from $10 to $15 a cow every year over gravity skimming.

It will give you a heavier and better cream, the kind the creameryman wants, the kind that gives you more skim-milk for your stock.

It will last two to ten times as long as other cream separators. Figure it out for yourself and you will see why the De Laval is the most economical.

And added to it all is the immeasurable satisfaction of owning a machine that "works like a charm" 365 days in the year.

We know that when we sell you a De Laval we sell you a machine you'll be proud to own. We sell them on liberal terms. Come in and talk it over.

City Council Decide Upon Exemptions for Industries

Lease for Woodworking Plant at Estey Mill Site—Special Water Rates for John Palmer Company, Ltd.—New Schedule of Fares for Coaching is Changed.

At the regular meeting of the City Council last evening at the completion of the business the retiring Mayor and Aldermen made their farewells to their associates of the Council.

The only absentee at the meeting was J. A. Reid, who had been retired from the position of alderman when he filed nomination papers for the mayoralty.

After the reading of the minutes of the last regular meeting of the Council, Ald. R. B. Baxter gave the report of the Municipal Home Commission, showing the expenditures for the past month to be $150, with $125.27 for outdoor relief. On motion a cheque for $250 was ordered to issue in favor of the commissioner.

Ald. Wilkinson for the Finance Committee then presented the statement of tax collections for February, 1920, as follows:—

February, 1919 ..... $5,870.07
February, 1920 ..... 7,086.42

Ald. Wilkinson on behalf of the finance committee, also submitted a report of that committee on the application of Gordon Scott for a lease of the Estey Mill site. The land formerly held by the John Palmer Co., Ltd., and the Charles A. Atherton estate were to be leased to Mr. Scott at a rate of $9 per annum for every 33½ feet frontage.

Ald. Young asked what would happen in the event of the industry ceasing, regarding assessment.

Mayor Hanson stated that exemption would cease when the industry ceased operation. He also stated that Mr. Scott had the matter under consideration and that the fire and building regulations were what would decide his action. If he did not fall in line with these the matter would be dropped.

The application of the John Palmer Co., Ltd., was next considered and following out the proposal of the Finance Committee, the concession of free sewerage was granted for twenty years from 1920. Concerning free water it was said four small meters attached to various mains had showed an astounding consumption of water of over 500,000 gallons a year. It was finally decided that free water would not be granted and that 10 cents per thousand gallons of water be charged the company, the usual rate being 20 cents.

Coaching Rates Fixed.

There was a discussion over the increase in the fares as charged by coachmen and motor vehicle drivers for transportation of passengers from the railway stations to their destinations or between any point in the city.

Ald. Cooper, seconded by Ald. Young, moved that the schedule of fares quoted in the bye-laws be repealed and the following schedule substituted:

Each person as far as the Military Hoospital, 50 cents.

Each person to the upper city limits, 75 cents.

Down as far as W. J. Scott's residence, 50 cents.

Below W. J. Scott's residence, 75c.

Down as far as the University of New Brunswick, 75 cents.

To North Devon, 50 cents.

To South Devon, 75 cents.

Children under one year, free; one year and over up to 12 years of age, half fare.

Doubla fare between 12 o'clock midnight and 6 o'clock a. m.

Ten cents for carrying a trunk up and down stairs.

In the discussion that followed the introduction of the resolution Mayor Hanson stated that he thought the charge for trips to the University should remain at 50 cents instead of 75 cents.

Ald. Camp stated that it was worth more than 75 cents and easily worth $1 to drive to the Experimental Farm, which was much below W. J. Scott's residence, and he thought that the schedule should be so amended.

Mayor Hanson thought that the schedule ought to include the Experimental Farm as a separate item, while Ald. Camp stated that it should be left to the drivers to name the sum with the person or persons wishing to be taken that far.

Mayor Hanson was against this, as he stated that the passengers might be forced to pay too much. He proposed that they name the trip to the Mouth of the Wilsey Road as 75 cents and below that to the Experimental Farm, $1.

Ald. Camp stated that a single-seated team could be obtained at a livery stable for one dollar to convey anyone to the Experimental Farm, and asked if it were fair that a coachman or hackman would only get the same amount, whereas he has a larger vehicle, and if it were train time he could earn more money by having several passengers for a trip at the same time in the city proper. He farther stated that the coachmen was practically forced to undertake the proposition.

Ald. Wilkinson asked why a coachman under these circumstances would not refuse.

Ald. Camp stated that he knew of none that did so.

Ald. Burpee and Mayor Hanson both stated that they knew of circumstances where the coachmen had refused to carry pedestrians.

Ald. Camp stated that if the City Council were taxing the livery stable owners and then cutting down the schedule, which it was just as fair to raise as anything sold in the city, they were too high-handed and were taking away the living of the coachmen and livery stable owners.

Ald. Cooper stated that he would withdraw his motion and bring one in at the next meeting of the council that would suit all parties."

Mayor Hanson and Ald. Young both stated that a suitable schedule could be drafted in a very short time.

Ald. Young then amended Ald. Cooper's resolution to read as follows:

As far as W. J. Scott's residence, 50c.

To the mouth of the Wilsey road, 75c.

To the Experimental Farm $1.00.

As the council considered the double charge between midnight and six o'clock in the morning did not allow for the morning train, this was amended so that from twelve o'clock to five a. m. is the double force period, and the former motion amended in these respects was passed.

Ald. Camp stated that more would be heard of the matter at the next council meeting.

City Analyst H. H. Hagerman in his report said a larger basin was necessary at the filtration plant, and the report, on motion of Ald. McKay, seconded by Ald. Burpee, who presented it, was referred to the incoming water and sewerage committee.

Retiring Members' Valedictories.

The business of the meeting having been completed the retiring mayor and aldermen bade their final adieux to their associates.

Mayor Hanson thanked the council for their uniform kindness to him while holding the office of mayor. He also thanked the permanent officials of the city. The council, he stated, were to be congratulated on the commendable manner in which the city business had been transacted, and the thanks of the citizens would be conveyed to those of the aldermen who were retiring for their services. He hoped the incoming council would have the same care with the matter of permanent streets as the outgoing council had, and he would like to see this work pushed along. The housing scheme would demand the best ability and attention of the council. An important legacy left to the incoming council to deal with was the matter of the street lighting situation. Another matter he urged the council not to lose sight of was the matter of increasing the size of the coagulating basin of the city's water filtration plant. Another matter to be considered was the report of the New Brunswick fire underwriters.

Ald. Camp moved that a vote of thanks be tendered to the mayor and retiring aldermen, and when Ald. Wilkinson put the motion to the council it passed unanimously.

Ald. McKay stated that it was with feelings of regret that he was retiring from the aldermanic board. He was giving up in order that a younger member could take his place.

Ald. Burpee stated that during the last two years it had been a great pleasure to him to be a member of the board, and he thanked the council for kindness during his term of office.

Ald. Davidson concurred in the remarks made by previous speakers. He thought the new board would be a good one and work well with the old members of the council. He had endeavored to do his duty.

THE RUSSIAN EVOLUTION.

The "emancipation" stage of the Soviet "evolution" of Russia is now apparently completed. The former rulers and aristocrats and bourgeoisie have been eliminated by rifle ball and butt, bayonet, and the more economical means of starvation. The proletariat have not alone succeeded in securing control of the country; they have practically rid it of all other classes. And now, having accomplished this, what are they going to do with Russia and with themselves? asks the Ottawa Journal. They have their freedom from the tyrants and masters who formerly ruled them and who now are either dead or in exile; their own leaders occupy the seats of authority. Sovietism is established; the common people are rulers of their own destiny, common possessors of the wealth of the country. The time has come to settle down and enjoy their victory. What form is their freedom and self-rule to take?

The leaders who guided them to victory and freedom have already instructed them, but what a disappointment, what a disillusionment the programme for their free existence must be for the former serfs of the Czar and his bureaucrats! Trotsky it was who travelled from New York to Petrograd to show the downtrodden proletariat of Russia the light of emancipation. He it was who organized them into armies and inspired and directed them so well that he has now been able to tell them that the military effort is practically completed. And it is Trotsky who has told them what their life is to be in the Russia they have won for themselves at such terrible cost.

From him they have learned, in his Moscow address of January 25, reports of which are just arriving from Russia, that freedom does not mean ease and plenty and the direction of their own affairs. On the contrary, although they are their own masters, they have got to return to the discipline, the toil, and the privation of the old regime—but with this difference, that now they have got to do the worrying themselves instead of having somebody else do it for them. To their former burdens has been added that of responsibility.

"The Russian proletariat already "feels responsible for the welfare of "its country, and for its economic "life," Trotsky declares. "The hardships and poverty we are suffering "are educating the workers of the "proletariat. Under these conditions "every workman and every workwoman is beginning to realize what "economic life means to the country." And, for those who do not realize, he states the meaning. There must, he says, "be the utmost strictness and "severity both in small and great "matters." The people who were formerly subservient to the masters who assumed responsibility for economic matters must now be subservient to the economic needs of the country. They must even submit to compulsory labor. Thus:

"We shall succeed if qualified and trained workers take part in productive labor. Trade unions must register qualified workmen in the villages. Only in those localities where trade union methods are inadequate other methods must be introduced, in particular that of compulsion because labor conscription gives the state the right to tell the qualified workman who is employed on some unimportant work in his village: 'You are obliged to leave your present employment and go to Sormo or Koloma, because there your work is required.'"

Having freed themselves by their service in the army, the men of Russia "must now take their work books "and proceed to places where they "are required, where their presence "is necessary to the economic system "of the country," must subject themselves to "labor conscription" And the penalty for disobedience is to be of the "utmost severity" in a country where those words visualize unspeakable horrors.

If Lenine and Trotsky see that this economic programme is carried out, and if they provide for the equal distribution of the benefits derived from the devotion of the people to the requirements of the country, they may succeed in doing more for Russia than has been expcted of them. But their programme demonstrates that, even under the extreme of democratic government the people are not their own masters, are not free to do as they please.

THE EUROPEAN SITUATION.

Liberated German prisoners of war are marching home from France these days singing the Watch on the Rhine, and declaring that they are returning to prepare for the next war. The song is due to natural exuberance, no doubt, and nothing else was to have been expected from men who were prisoners for months after the fighting ceased. But the talk is mere boastfulness, surely, for there can be little genuine desire for more warfare among these shreds and patches of what was Germany's pride in the days before the breaking up of the Empire. It is vainglorious spouting, in any event, points out an exchange. The probability is that the men among these hundreds of thousands of released prisoners who really are aching for war are but a few score at the most. The vast majority have had enough fighting to suit their stomachs. They represent a force that was made to quit.

It is true that in every land there are now, as always, a number of boasting, blustering fellows, some in the highest places, who never tire of breathing threats against all and sundry peoples, and whose common utterances are replete with sneers at the expense of both friend and rival. Their sharp tongues know no brother. To strive to promote bitter feelings between parties and nations is their joy; and when highly situated, such men do infinitely more harm than a thousand of the riffraff such as are singing their songs on the tramp back from France into the unsettled German state. This discordant class is maliciously active at the present juncture in the capitals of the Allied lands, their aim apparently being to turn former companions-in-arms into hated enemies. Their confreres are kept busy explaining away the follies, and it is gratifying to note that their maliciousness is extremely likely to be in vain. Sane notables in Paris, for example, are protesting against the attempts being made to create ill-feeling between France and the United States, and between France and England. In London, serious statesmen are belittling the efforts of the objectionable in their country to perpetuate similar disservice to the nation, and the world at large. In America, the saner men of affairs are not letting themselves be turned aside from their legitimate purposes by the mischief-makers. Behind and in support of these sterling leaders, who can uphold national rights without offending others, are the various publics, whose one desire is to recover from the disastrous period of strife which began in 1914. To them the makers of war are anathema, and should be put, with the former Kaiser, in a position of impotency. It is a time for peace, and the troublers deserve to be suppressed. On them the lid should be shut down tight.

WANT GROCERIES ON UNIFORM TERMS

Toronto, March 2.—The Ontario Wholesale Grocers' Association at its annual meeting here today, decided that uniform terms on groceries should be set, with no discounts of any kind, and interest at the rate of 7 per cent be charged at the end of thirty days.

The Nova Scotia Wholesale Grocers' Association had requested the Ontario association to appoint a delegation to co-operate with the Nova Scotia association in an effort to block the continuance of the excess business tax, and Hugh Blain, of Toronto, and H. B. Chamberlain, of Ottawa, were named to accompany a delegation from Nova Scotia to Ottawa to present their cases to the Government.

OBITUARY.

Guy Cox.

Andover, N. B., March 1.—The death of Guy Cox, of Four Falls, occurred in the hospital at Grand Falls on Friday. Mr. Cox' death was caused by injuries received in the lumber woods at Jardine Brook, Restigouche, on Tuesday last. He was twenty-eight years of age and is survvied by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cox, and two brothers, Merril and Harry Cox.

Mrs. Jane Ervine.

Andover, N. B., March 1.—Word was received by relatives here on Saturday of the death of Mrs. Jane Ervine, of Fort Fairfield, in Houlton, Me. Mrs. Ervine, who was formerly a resident of Andover, has relatives and many friends here who were deeply grieved to hear of her death. She is survived by four sons—Rupert, Lee and Gray, of Houlton, and Linwood, of Waterville, Me. One sister, Mrs. Carrie Barker, of Four Falls, and four brothers—Hiram Murphy, of Aroostook Junction; Robert Murphy and Sherman Murphy, at Kenora, Ont.

Miss Ada MacFarlane.

Newcastle, March 1.—Word was received here on Friday of the death of Miss Ada MacFarlane, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander MacFarlane, of Chatham Head, both of whom died very recently. Deceased will be buried at her old home. She leaves four brothers—Brown MacFarlane, of Fredericton; James, of Nelson; Charles, in the west; and Byron, of Massachusetts; also one sister, Miss Maria, of Fredericton.

VOTED FOR LICENSES.

Brookline, Mass., March 2.—At a town meeting today, Brookline, largest and wealthiest town in the state, voted "yes" on the liquor license question for the first time in 34 years, joining the long list of Massachusetts cities and towns that have reverted to the wet column. The vote will have no practical effect.

N. B. CASES BEFORE SUPREME COURT

Assessment Case of Fraser Companies vs. School Trustees Edmundston Argued.

Ottawa, March 2.—In the Supreme Court today the argument in ship "Purdy" vs. Coy was concluded. Judgment was reserved.

Fraser Companies vs. School Trustees was next argued. The appellant operates a pulp mill in Edmundston, N. B., with some property outside the town. By an agreement with the town it was not to be assessed on a higher valuation of its business than $100,000, and sixty per cent. of the value of its lands and stock. The exemption beyond this was of all rates and taxes and the main question for decision was whether or not it included exemption for school rates. Complaint was also made of too high a valuation in any event. The court below held that there was no exemption as to school rates and upheld the assessment.

FIRE AT HALIFAX SCHOOL FOR BLIND

Halifax, March 2.—There was a slight fire at the School for the Blind, tonight. The fire started on the third floor of the administration building and damaged the floors and ceilings. The chemical engine extinguished the blaze. The loss is not heavy. The pupils, who were in the other part of the school, were not disturbed.

PRESENTATION TO J. FRANK O'NEILL

St. John, March 3.—On board the Canadian Pacific Railway Bay of Fundy service steamer Empress last night the staff of the service and the Empress officers tendered a dinner to J. Frank O'Neill, agent of the service here, and presented to him a travelling bag and fountain pen. He is leaving after 19 years to go to take over the business of O'Neill Brothers, meat dealers. Harold M. Cleary succeeds him.

LEAVING STANLEY.

H. P. Lint Gives Up His Position With the Douglass Store There.

Stanley, N. B., March 2.—Very general regret has been expressed by the citizens of Stanley and vicinity when it was learned that H. P. Lint was about to sever his connection with the general store conducted by Mrs. H. T. Douglass. Formerly he was head clerk in the employ of Mr. Douglass and since his death he has been managing the business for Mrs. Douglass.

During his residence in Stanley of two and a half years he has proved himself a most valuable citizen, a Christian gentleman, a warm supporter of every good cause, and has thus won the respect and esteem of all classes of citizens.

Mr. Lint has been very active in Sunday school work and all the churches here will miss his inspiring presence and his charitable help. Many friends here regretting his leaving are pleased to know he is to be given a responsible position in the new United Farmers' store recently started in Fredericton. His skill, experience and ability fully qualify him.

DROPPED DEAD.

New York, March 2.—Police Inspector Eagan of the Bureau of Combustibles, who figured in the most important bombing cases in recent New York police history, dropped dead tonight in the street in front of the Grand Central Palace. He was sixty-three years of age.

Miss Madeline deSoyres, of St. [illegible] is a guest today at the Barker House.

Smith, of St. John, is among the guests at the Queen Hotel.

The Stock Market

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York (Wall Street), March 3.—Fractional changes prevailed at the uncertain opening of today's stock market, except in oils, which were moderately strong, while equipments and miscellaneous specialties denoted further pressure. Royal Dutch and Shell Transport recovered part of yesterday's losses, but American Woolen, New York Air Brake and Endicott-Johnson reacted one to almost three points. Further buying of oils, steels and motors soon imparted steadiness to the general list. Trading was light, however, rails showing none of their recent activity.

FROM THE PEOPLE

IS SHE A PRUSSIAN?

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I can't refrain from saying a few words in reply to the recent letters of A Woman who complained of the rudeness of men who "bump into" her when she walks on Queen street, Fredericton, on Saturday nights. Now, I do not bump into anyone if I can possibly avoid it, but I have often been moved to indignation by those inconsiderate people who wander, like cows in a meadow, all over the sidewalk.

A Woman's demand that she be permitted to walk "wherever she pleases" and to ignore what is at least an unwritten law is Prussianism in one of its milder forms. I remember in Germany in other days how the German officers were wont to strut down the street, left side, right side, in the middle, according to their whim, and elbow out of their way those who interfered with their progress.

I am one of those men who is still trying to hold on to his chivalrous attitude toward all womankind, but A Woman and others of her style make it increasingly difficult. And at the risk of putting myself in the class with the rude men who do shove, I must say that if A Woman and her kind (of either sex) insist on making themselves public nuisances by walking and standing where they do not belong, they jolly well deserve to be bumped!

Yours,

TOM.

Milltown, N. B., Feb. 28, 1920.

A FEW WORDS FROM SOLOMON.

To the Editor the The Gleaner,

Sir,—I have been a highly amused reader of your People's Column for some time; I would like to ask why you do not label it The Lighter Side of Life, rather than give it its present title. A true people's column should contain letters that will be of public interest; that in The Gleaner is far from that standard. For example: The debate on Ouija Boards which you conducted some months ago. Who cares very much what the Ouija Board says? Everyone, practically regards it as an amusing toy. Yet lots of perfectly good newspaper space was wasted by people expressing their opinions of it.

Then, a few days ago there was a letter from a Fredericton lady, making an indignant outcry against certain pedestrians who refused to get out of her way when she was on the sidewalk. The nearest policeman could probably have set her right and saved her the trouble of airing her anger in public.

The discussion concerning the new chapters of Myers' History was of use in showing the Government what the public thought about the new edition; but even that was reduced to a childish squabble when Old Teacher, of St. Stephen, began to poke fun at the grammatical defect in Dr. Carter's letter to the publishers.

What could be more amusing than the recent letters offered to the McAdam young lady by way of advice on how to make a young man propose? I pity the latter, if the lady tries out the recommended method on him!

The Anxious One from Chatham must think her would-be fiance has a remarkable store of patience, if, on being rejected the first time, and doubtfully answered the second, he is expected to "try again."

Another thing in regard to these letters is this: If the writers are sincere, why do they persist in hiding behind fictitious names?

With hopes for a change for the better, I am,

Yours,

F. G. LAWSON.

Edmundston, N. B., March 1, 1920.

HE'D BE IN A HOLE.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—In an experiment such as Enquirer, Feb. 27, suggests, the following would be the result: Starting at the jump-off he would fall through the earth at the rate of 16 feet the first second, 32 the next, 64 the next, and so on for a space of 21¼ seconds, by which time he would have reached the centre of the globe. As he passed the exact centre of the earth, which also is the centre of gravity, he would be going at a speed of 21,000,000 feet per second, or 3,961 miles.

The instant he passed the centre, however, gravity would seize him from behind and his momentum would be reduced to 10,500,000 feet in the next second, or to about 2,000 miles. During the following second he would cover only about 1,000 miles, and so on, until, when he had almost reached China, gravity would overcome his momentum. Then he would be jerked back the other way almost to the place where he started, gravity gradually reducing the distance of each trip until, after two days and one night, gravity would have completely subdued momentum and Enquirer would find himself held firmly in the centre of the earth. His only hope then would be if he had cut steps in his tunnel by which to climb out.

There is no such thing as "falling up," as Enquirer uses the term. An object always falls toward the centre of gravity, regardless of whether one side or the other of the earth is uppermost. However, the experiment would be hazardous, costly and very trying to the athlete, so it is hoped Enquirer will give up his rash project.

Yours,

ANSWER.

MARYSVILLE COUNCIL HELD LAST MEETING

New Council to Be Elected in April—Exemption of Returned Men.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Marysville, March 3.—The last regular meeting of this year's Town Council was held last evening. Mayor Stafford presided with Councillors W. McElwain, W. F. Wister, C. Finnamore, T. McDowell and Marvin Minue in their places.

The minutes of former meeting were read and adopted as read.

The bills of the month were read, and on motion cheques were ordered for same.

The several standing committees reported on the business of their departments, and the reports were received and adopted.

A communication from J. King Kelly re proposed new legislation for the county hospital of St. John was read and acknowledged.

A communication from the Municipal Council of the county of Gloucester was read. It was a request for the Town Council here to pass resolutions along these lines: That the Federal Government be asked to take over the Caraquet and Gulf Shore Railway because the present owners of the road were not giving good service, and that the railway if operated properly would develop the natural resources of the county of Gloucester, and that young men would be encouraged to take up farms in the county if access could be had to them. Failing this, that the local Government be asked to enforce the legislation enacted at its last session, which requires railway companies to carry out their agreements. On motion the communication was laid on the table until next meeting.

The town treasurer's report showed that the new lights and the current since the installation of the series system has cost $4,342. The current for the past month cost $71.54.

The report also showed that $1,050 was still outstanding in taxes.

After some discussion the finance committee was ordered to co-operate with the treasurer in taking immediate action to have the back taxes collected. The discussion on taxes brought the matter of the exemption of returned soldiers from taxes for 1919 up.

It was pointed out that the impression had gone abroad that the term "returned men" meant any soldier who was serving anywhere in Canada.

The council were unanimous in their decision that such was not the meaning of the motion, but that only men who were overseas were entitled to the exemption, and some of those present thought that some of these were not justly entitled to the exemption.

One of the councillors asked how many of the present council are going to offer this year again. He was told by a fellow councillor that he guessed they were all going to run for mayor.

On motion the following were appointed to carry on the town election: A. D. McPherson, returning officer; C. D. Clayton, deputy returning officer; No. 1 poll clerk, Bert Dennison with A. J. Lyons as alternate; No. 2 poll, M. V. Dennison with Norman Cochrane as alternate.

On motion the meeting adjourned.

Harry Banks, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Banks, who is one of the boys who so unceremoniously left their homes last Saturday, has returned. His parents located him at St. Stephen and had him sent back.

George F. Gailey, who has been confined to his home for several days with illness, has recovered sufficiently to resume his duties.

J. Basil Flanagan has accepted a junior clerkship in the Bank of Montreal here and has entered upon his new duties.

There are two sides to every question, but marriage is often a one-sided affair.

EMBARRASSMENT, THE RESULT OF COUGH

You've seen it often—just as the singer, preacher or great actor reaches the climax and the audience is keyed up to the highest pitch of anticipation, there comes that uncontrollable cough or sneeze from somewhere in the audience. How embarrassing for the victim who knows that the pleasure of many has been spoiled.

You can avoid being in a similiar position by always carrying a box of Dominion C. B. Q. Tablets (in the red box). One or two doses will stop a cold before it gets seated, or break up a hard cold in short order. Get a box to-day. National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited. 13

The Quick Way to Stop a Cough

This home-made syrup does the work in a hurry. Easily prepared, and saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) in a 16-oz bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make 16 ounces—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

LOCAL IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION MET

Increased Revenue Needed to Carry On Suggested Work This Year.

At the annual meeting of the Local Improvement Association the following officers were returned to their positions for the ensuing year: President, T. G. Loggie; Vice President, Hon. W. Wilson; and Secretary Treasurer, Havelock Coy. The Management Committee of J. J. F. Winslow, D. T. C. Allen, David E. Crowe and Dr. W. C. Crocket was also returned to act for another year.

The reports of the treasurer and president were read, the former showing that the total receipts of the society were $416 and the expenditures $383.65. The annual report dealt with the work of the past year and Col. Loggie sugegsted that several much needed improvements be carried out during the coming summer. The report follows:

"The usual work of caring for the public grounds of the city was carried out by the Association during the spirng and summer months within the limited funds at their disposal. No tree planting was undertaken owing to a shortage of funds, but it is proposed to set out in the coming month of May at least one hundred elm trees chosen from the best of those now growing in the nursery of the Association; these trees will be planted principally in the new streets lately opened by the city and in some of the bare spots of the older streets, the trees to be supported by substaatial guards.

"The raking, rolling and cutting of grass in the public grounds of the city, as will be seen by the financial statement, absorbed three-fourths of the total grant, and in this connection we would say it is our opinion that work of this kind will always have the support of those of our citizens who believe in maintaining the beauties of the city that nature has so well endowed.

In the annual reports that have been made from year to year it has been pointed out in a general way only what work was undertaken and what performed. It would perhaps not be out of place to enumerate some of the work that has been accomplished since the association became active in beautifying the city. In the first place in the vicinity of one thousand trees have been placed in the streets and public grounds. While many of these trees were wilfully destroyed a large proportion of them have succeeded in forming shade and beauty. Now that elms are planted in our nursery the association has a young stock of 500 more ready to be set out. Take a look any band night at the crowds of people enjoying the concerts opposite Parliament Square and contract it with conditions before the association, under the direction of the late Mr. Henry Chestnut, beautified this charming spot. Visitors say it is one of the beauty spots in Canada, and at the other end of the city we claim another beauty spot at the Victoria Hospital corner, where some seven hundred loads of earth were required to do the levelling. One small triangle at the corner of Queen and Church streets was levelled at the expense of one of our members and over two hundred loads were transferred from two blocks away. The front of the old grave yard from Carleton street was filled in by our association at considerable expense, and these are only a few instances of what the association has accomplished in this way. The present appearance of the C. N. R. station grounds is due entirely to representations made by the association after considerable correspondence with the railway authorities, when plans and recommendations were drawn up by us. The care of the military grounds on Queen street is another matter we take credit for. This was accomplished by constant appeals to the authorities at Ottawa.

"Something will have to be done during the coming summer in replacing the remaining gun carriages of the guns which were presented and set up at the expense of the late Governor Snowball, otherwise they should be taken down to avoid accidents. The cost of replacing the four wooden carriages in concrete will be in the vicinity of $240, and the Association now ask the city to pass a vote for this purpose.

"In closing, permit me to thank the city and the Government of the province for the grants of last year, with the hope these grants will not only be continued during the present year but increased so that the Association may have sufficient funds to carry out their programme for the coming season. Owing to abnormal prices for labor and material, we estimate that $1,000 will be required, and of this sum we ask the city for $400, the balance to be made up from membership fees and a grant from the Government."

Fresh Milk for every Meal—

Thanks to the Carnation plan of distribution

milk from Canada's best dairy sections—milk that is tested for purity and richness—milk that is sterilized to make it safe—comes to your table, its purity, richness, and freshness—sealed tight in new clean containers.

This is the Carnation method of distributing milk—a sensible, safe method as thousands have learned.

When you open a can of Carnation Milk, you have fresh, rich milk for every household need. No other milk supply is necessary.

For nothing has been added to Carnation Milk—no sugar, no preservatives. It can be used for drinking, for cooking, for table use, for baby's bottle.

Add Water to Carnation Milk

The richness of Carnation Milk as it comes from the can is due to the fact, that about half the water has been evaporated from the whole milk. Many are tempted to use it in this form. But this is an extravagance, except for tea and coffee, or cereals.

An equal part of water should be added to restore Carnation Milk to the natural consistency. Usually, even more water is added and the result is a nourishing, wholesome drink richer by far than ordinary bottle milk from which the "top" has been removed.

Carnation Milk does away with the bother of bottles, early morning deliveries and uncertain quality. It is uniformly rich. It is always fresh when you are ready to use it. It can be kept on your pantry shelves. It serves the purpose of milk and cream in your home.

U. N. B. STUDENTS HELD HAMMERFEST

Forestry Department's Annual Banquet at Springhill on Monday Evening.

Over forty attended the annual hammerfest held at the Springhill Hall by the Forestry students of the University of New Brunswick Monday night.

The party drove from the city and soon after their arrival a high class feed was provided in the form of a turkey dinner. After dinner a short toast list was carried out. C. R. Townsend, vice-president of the Forestry Association, presided and acted as toastmaster. The toast to the King, proposed by G. Roland Barnes, was the first on the list and was honored in the usual manner. The toast to the forestry profession was proposed by Provincial Forester G. H. Prince. In the course of his remarks he said the University of New Brunswick had graduated twenty-eight foresters in the nine years that degrees have been granted to foresters. Almost all of them were still in the profession and sixteen of them held important executive positions in Canada with the federal and provincial governments, while several others were practicing the profession in other parts of the world. Mr. Prince expressed the hope that the University would continue to supply the profession with men of ability.

Prof. J. D. Tothill, superintendent of the Dominion Entomological Laboratory, also responded to the toast. He said that entomology and forestry were very closely related to one another and both strove toward the preservation of the plant life of the country. Prof. Tothill referred to the death of Dr. C. Gordon Hewitt, Dominion entomologist, saying that his death was a great loss to the agricultural interests in Canada.

E. O. Turner, professor of civil engineering at the University, proposed the toast to the engineering profession. He said that forestry and civil engineering were somewhat alike, in some respects at least in the courses of instruction. Many mistakes had been made in the engineering profession, and he hoped that the younger profession would benefit by their experiences. J. P. Skillen, vice-president of the Engineering Society, responded to the toast.

A. V. S. Pulling, professor of forestry, proposed the toast to the Forestry Association and H. A. deVeber replied for the toast, saying that the association plans to have lectures given by men associated with the profession in order that the students may have the views of men with practical experience.

After the party had exhausted their supply of college and comic songs they broke up, arriving in the city shortly after midnight.

Rock-Ribbed Temperance Towns Of New England Reverse Former Verdicts And Vote For License

Towns in Vermont and Massachusetts Which Have Been Strongholds of Prohibition for Years Vote Themselves Into Wet Column by Big Majorities.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Burlington, Vt., March 3.—Towns throughout Vermont voted on the question of license yesterday and this morning it was estimated that 75 per cent. had voted "wet." Burlington, St. Albans, Montpelier, Rutland and other large places, which have been strongholds of prohibition for years, voted themselves into the "wet" column by substantial majorities.

Massachusetts Votes Wet.

Boston, March 3.—Almost fifty Massachusetts towns out of sixty-seven voted "wet" in their annual town meetings, complete returns showed today. The majority of these towns returned substantial "wet" majorities, despite the fact that almost all had voted consistently "dry" for many years. Traditionally "dry" towns, like Rockport, Middleboro, Lincoln and Mansfield, voted "wet" for the first time in their history. The few towns that stuck to the "dry" column did so in many cases by narrow margins or by substantially reduced majorities.

Rockport, noted north shore town, had long been known as the Bay State's "rock ribbed" temperance town. In the early sixties women with hatchets raided and wrecked the "grog shops." The supreme court decided in favor of the women.

Brokline voted in favor of license, 1,449 to 1,093. It was the first time in 34 years that this town, the largest and wealthiest in the state, had voted wet.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF FREDERICTON.

Ladies and Gentlemen: At the request of a large number of citizens I have consented to become a candidate for the position of Alderman for Kings Ward at the approaching civic election. If elected will do my duty to the best of my ability for the interest of the city without fear or favor.

THOS. BLIZZARD.

CITY ELECTION

The Annual Election for Mayor and Aldermen for the City of Fredericton will be held on Monday, March 8, 1920.

Polling Places—At the City Hall for Division No. 1, and at the County Court House for Division No. 2—Will open at 9 o'clock a. m. and close at 4 o'clock p. m. the said day.

HOW TO VOTE.

The voter shall use the official ballot paper and shall strike out or mark through with a pencil of black lead, or a pen with black or blue-black ink, the names of all except the name of the candidate or the names of the candidates for whom he wishes to vote, and a ballot so marked, if otherwise good, shall be counted.

Not more than one elector shall at any one time enter the polling place, and such elector, upon entering, shall declare his name, surname and addition, and if the name of such elector is found on the list of voters, he shall receive from the presiding officer an ungummed envelope, on the back of which the presiding officer shall write with a pencil of black lead or with pen and ink, his initials, in the presence of the voter.

The elector on receiving the envelope, shall forthwith proceed within the screened compartment and shall there, having marked his ballot, or having previously done so, replace his ballot within the envelope handed to him by the presiding officer, and shall, without any delay, hand the envelope containing his ballot, unsealed, to the presiding officer, who shall ascertain by examining his initials that it is the same with which he had furnished the voter, and if so satisfied shall immediately and in the presence of the voter, place the envelope containing the ballot in the ballot box, and the voter shall immediately leave the polling place. No such ballot shall be received by the presiding officer until the voter has proceeded to the screened compartment within the polling place, and while there placed his ballot in the envelope furnished him by the presiding officer.

The poll clerk shall, under the direction of the presiding officer then enter the name of the voter on the check list.

NOTICE TO ELECTORS.

Kings Ward—BLIZZARD, THOMAS D. NEILL, J. STEWART

G. R. PERKINS,
City Clerk.

City Hall, March 2nd, 1920.

Fredericton, N. B., March 2,1920.

REGIMENTAL ORDERS

—BY—

Major W. H. Laughlan, O. C., 71st Regt.

The following extract from District Orders, M. D. No. 7 has been received:

DISTRICT ORDERS

(After Order)

By Brigadier-General A. H. Macdonnell, C.M.G., D.S.O., Commading Military District No. 7.

St. John, N. B. March 1st, 1920.

No. 155—Opening of the N. B. Legislature —Guard of Honour.

The Legislature of the Province of New Brunswick will be convened by His Honour the Lieutenant Governor on the afternoon of March 11th, at 3.30 o'clock.

The Guard of Honour, consisting of one captain, two subalterns, four sergeants and one hundred rank and file, and the regimental band, will be furnished by the 71st Regiment.

The Guard of Honour and Band will be in position facing the main entrance to the Parliament Buildings at 3.15 o'clock. They will receive His Honour with a Royal Salute (the band playing six bars of the National Anthem) on his arrival and departure from the Parliament Buillings.

A salute of 15 guns will be fired on the arrival of His Honour the Lieutenant Governor, by a detachment of returned soldiers under Lieutenant Norman Cass, University of New Brunswick. The Detachment will consist of four (4) returned soldiers per gun.

The guns will be fired at intervals of 30 seconds, the first being fired as the command "Present Arms" is given by the Officer Commanding the Guard of Honour.

The S.O.O. will arrange to ship two twelve pounder guns and necessary ammunition to Fredericton.

The S. S. & T. O. will arrange to have guns placed in position at Fredericton. Guns to be placed on river bank near the Legislative Building.

Clothing and equipment for the Guard of Honour will be issued by the S.O.O. to the 71st Regiment.

The 71st Regiment will issue clothing, on loan, required, to the Artillery Detachment.

All clothing issued will be withdrawn to the regimental stores before pay is issued to the individual men concerned.

The S.O.P.S. will issue instructions and forms for both the Guard of Honour and the Artillery Salute to Major A. Sterling, who is making arrangements for the Guard of Honour.

The S. M. O. will detail a medical officer to attend at the firing of the salute, with the necessary field dressing case.

DRESS—Drill Order. Officers will wear swords.

Officers of the Militia and C. E. F. Reserve are invited to attend the opening of the Legislature. Service uniform, with swords, will be worn.

A. H. H. POWELL,
Lieut. Col. A.A.G., M.D. No. 7.

Detail of Officers.

Officer commanding the Guard, Major W. C. Lawson, M. C.

Other officers—Captain John S. Scott, Lieutenant A. E. McElveny.

Issue of Clothing, etc.

Clothing, arms and equipment will be issued from the Armouries on Saturday, March 6th, from 2 to 5.30 p. m., and 7 to 9.30 p. m., and thereafter on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings from 7 to 9 o'clock.

The Guard to be composed as largely as possible of Veterans of the Great War.

A. STERLING,
Major and Adjt., 71st Regt.

AMEND MANITOBA TEMPERANCE ACT

Vendors Must Not Sell More Than Five Gallons a Day to Retail Druggists.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Winnipeg, Man., March 3.—By the bill amending the Manitoba Temperance Act, which was distributed in the House yesterday afternoon, Government vendors are authorized to purchase or sell liquor and it is stipulated he must not sell more than five gallons per day to a licensed or retail druggist.

Medical men are limited to two quarts a day. The act does not state that the amount specified is all that can be obtained or prescribed for in one day. The sale of liquor by wholesale druggists is abolished. The Government is empowered to fix the amount at which the liquor will be sold.

Infringements of the act are for first offence punishable by a fine not less than $400 and not more than $1,000, and in default, 60 days' imprisonment. For second offensive the punishment is not less than three months and not more than six months' imprisonment.

If the offender is an incorporated company, the fine shall be $1,000 for each offence.

Physicians are limited to 100 prescriptions a month.

Attended ocher's Funeral.

D. J. Shea returned yesterday from St. John, where he went last week to be at the bedside of his aged mother, Mrs. Jeremiah Shea, who died on Sunday and was buried yesterday.

J. A. B. Horne, of Bathurst, is at the Queen Hotel.

RETURNED SOLDIER WEDS.

Pretty Home Wedding When Miss Ina Colter Became Bride of Edward H. Pugh, of Nashwaaksis.

A wedding of much interest was solemnized on Tuesday evening, March 2nd, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Colter, Saunders street, when their youngest daughter, Ina M., became the bride of Edward H. Pugh, of Nashwaaksis. The couple were unattended and entered the parlor to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Lois Pugh, sister of the groom.

The bride was handsomely atired in a dress of white silk and lace with silver trimmings, wearing a bridal veil with orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of white carnations with maiden hair fern. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. George Pugh, of Nashwaaksis and saw almost four years' service overseas, two years and nine months of which were spent at the front in France, serving with the 13th Canadian Field Ambulance.

A coincident in connection with the happy event is the fact that the date of the marriage was the bride's birthday and also the fourth anniversary of the groom's sailing for overseas.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. B. W. Turner, of Sheffield, in the presence of immediate relatives and friends of the bride and groom, after which a very ample wedding supper was served in the dining room. Many valuable presents, consisting of cheques and silverware, attested to the popularity of the contracting parties. Mr. and Mrs. Pugh will reside at Nashwaaksis.

Going to Ottawa.

Mayor Hanson and A. A. Colter were named as delegates by the Fredericton Board of Trade today to accompany representatives of other Boards in the Maritime Provinces to Ottawa where the Government is to be asked by a large deleagtion to abolish the business profits tax. Arrangements were also made for the visit tomorrow of the traffic expert of the Canadian Manufacturers' Assocation who is visiting the Maritime Provinces looking into charges of discrimination against manufacturers in the east in freight rates.

New Water Pump Installed.

Ald. Burpee stated at the City Council meeting last evening that recently the connecting rod on one of the low lift pumps at the water pumping station had broken, and as it had become necessary to secure a new pump one had been ordered immediately and installed, the total cost being $750. The action of the water and sewerage department was endorsed by the council.

Presented With Muster Roll.

Last evening A. D. Thomas presented the City Council with a copy of the original muster roll of the old 104th Battalion which had been compiled from the records in London, England. Mayor Hanson in accepting the gift for the council moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Thomas and stated that the muster roll would be much prized by the council.

City Disclaim Responsibility.

The City Council last evening refused to grant a compensation of $20 to James L. Mavor for expenses incurred by his mother when refuse gathered in the cellar of her home, claiming that the council were not responsible for the refuse being forced into the cellar when a sewerage main burst.

Removing to Pennsylvania.

Among the passengers on the Boston train from St. John last night were two women and twelve children, who were on their way from Minto to join their husbands in Pennsylvania. On account of the recent strike among the miners at Minto a great many of them have already gone to the coal mines of Pennsylvania.

Returned from American Trip.

Hon. B. Frank Smith, M.L.A., of East Florenceville, is in the city today, a guest at the Barker House. Mr. and Mrs. Smith, who have spent the past four or five months in Boston and New York, returned home on Saturday evening.

Authorized to Purchase Another Horse

At the regular meeting of the City Council last evening the Fire Committee of the City Council were authorized to purchase another horse for the use of the Fire Department.

J. J. Clark, of Millerton, is a guest at the Queen Hotel.

WOODSTOCK TO GET $50,000 FACTORY

Is Site Selected for Potato Flour Mill, It Was Said Today.

Woodstock is the site selected for a plant costing between $50,000 and $60,000 to be erected by an American company in New Brunswick for the manufacture of potato flour, according to announcement made by Hon. J. F. Tweeddale, Minister of Agriculture, this morning.

The minister said that William Hartman, of Pittsburg, Pa., was now at Woodstock endeavoring to make satisfactory arrangements for carrying out the plans of the syndicate which he represents and who are said to control a line of flour mills located in various parts of the continent. He previously had been here conferring with officials of the Department of Agriculture.

W. A. Roberts, of Millerton, is registered at the Barker House.

Even Money on U. N. B.-Acadia

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Moncton, N. B., March 3.—Betting on the U. N. B. Acadia game to decide the western section of the Intercollegiate Hockey League was at even money at noon today, local sentiment in favor of U. N. B. having put an end to the odds which had been offered.

This afternoon it was announced that Leslie Lowther, of Amherst Ramblers, would be the referee. Every train is bringing students and graduates of both institutions into Moncton and the game has attracted much attention. Arrangements are being made for the winners to meet St. Francis Xavier, winners of the eastern section, at Amherst on Friday night.

The U. N. B. management are banking on Walter Flett being able to play when he arrives tonight.—R. H. B.

Exchange Situation Shows Little Change

Special Despatch to The Gleaner.

New York, March 3.—The pound sterling was quoted at $3.42½ to $3.43 on the New York Exchange today. The Canadian dollar was held at a discount of 14⅞ cents.

Died Suddenly Today.

The death occurred this morning suddenly of Daniel Hand, aged 68 years. Deceased was well known, being for years an employee of the street department of the city, and is survived by one son, James, residing in the West, and one sister, also residing in the West. The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon, with service at St. Dunstan's Church at 2.30 o'clock, after which interment will be made at the Hermitage.

Red and Black Basketball Team Won Out in Last Five Minutes of Play.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Halifax, N. S., March 2.—The University of New Brunswick team defeated the Y. M. C. A. in a fast game of basketball here tonight by a score of 22 to 20. The local team led by three points at the end of the first half, but in the second half the visitors came back strong and carried off the honors. Willett starred for the U. N. B. team.

A message received this morning from Capt. Gregory Bridges of the U. N. B. team said they won out in the last five minutes of play.

McDONALD KNOCKED OUT.

Halifax, N. S., March 3.—Eugene Brosseau won the Canadian middleweight championship by knocking out Roddy McDonald in the fourteenth round here last night.

THE WRESTLERS.

New York, March 3.—Earl Caddock threw Chevalier, the French crack, in 58 minutes and 11 seconds last night. Strangler Lewis threw Jim Londos with a headlock in 2 hours, 4 minutes and 43 seconds last night.

The American Trotting Association has adopted the two seconds a year time allowance.

Moncton Beaten; Will Try Again

Fredericton --- Marysville Combination Used Eleven Players and Narrowly Escaped Defeat After Having a Lead Of 6 to 3 at end of the Second Period ---Moncton Plays Marysville N. P. H. L. Team Tonight.

Using five Fredericton and six Marysville players who they kept alternating repeatedly in all three periods the Fredericton-Marysville combination team won from the Moncton Neptunes last night before about 1,000 fans at the Arctic Rink in one of the most interesting hockey games played here this season.

Thirteen goals were scored, the local team having the odd one to their credit and winning by a score of 7 to 6, although the Moncton team were coming strong in the final period and all but overcame what looked like a safe lead the home players had accumulated in the first two periods.

The game was a lively exhibition of hockey and play was fairly clean throughout, although several of the players were threatening to mix things up in lively fashion occasionally had not Referee Sandy Staples handled the situation in a skilful manner. As a matter of fact the arbiter gave just about the best exhibition of handling a game the local fans have seen this year, as he was right on the play all the time, missed few offsides and didn't let the players get away with any infractions of any kind.

At one time the teams were playing four men aside for a while, and even the Moncton goal tender was penalized for assuming a praying attitude before his net during one heavy bombardment, but in spite of all that Al Humphrey, the manager of the Moncton team, who was stationed here with the McLean Kilties during the war, declared he had never seen a game handled in better style. Incidentally, Manager Humphrey arranged for his team to remain over here to play the Marysville club tonight, when the Nashwaak town will have their regular N. B. H. L. lineup. One or two of the Moncton players who were unable to be here in time for last night's game have since arrived and the game tonight should be even faster than last night.

Edgar Wade the Brightest Star.

Edgar Wade was the outstanding player of both teams last night, and although he played throughout the entire game he showed the most speed and consistent brilliancy of all the eighteen players who participated. The first goal he scored was on a fast wing shot and was one of the prettiest plays of the game, while the second one he got while Wilson, the diminutive Moncton goaler, was in the penalty box. Eddie Colwell and Irvine Wade alternated at centre ice, and the former showed the advantage of being able to get a letup once in a while by playing the most aggressive game he has shown this winter, while the Marysville captain kept plugging away at the old net all the time, but was inclined to do too much slashing, which earned him some penalties. Jarvis and Mark Wade alternated at point and the latter showed the best, although neither did much checking. Clarence Wade, Archie Williams, Brewer, "Bingo" Harrison and Hall were all used on the wings at various junctures, and the order in which they are named classifies them according to effectiveness, although Clarence Wade continued to show a fondness for the "pen," too. "Tart" Titus gave one of his best exhibitions of the winter, which is saying a lot, and the visitors marvelled at his ability to kick 'em out.

Milton and Jones Looked Good.

In Milton, a former Mount Allison University player, the Moncton team had one of the best scoring wings the local fans have seen this season. His shooting was right on the mark all the time and he combined with the speedy Jones, who will be remembered as having played with Chatham and also the 115th Batallion team a few years ago, in an effective manner, as attested by the fact that they got all their team's goals with Milton on the scoring end of the combination every time with the exception of the first one, which Jones counted single handed. The only other outstanding player on the Moncton team last night was Wheaton, the big defence man, who seemed to get mixed up in about everything that was going on and who rushed effectively as well as being the individual the visitors depended upon largely to break up the home team's attacks. On one occasion, when he crashed into the end of the rink back of his goal and lay prostrate on the ice back of the net while the locals scored, it was feared for a time that he was badly hurt, but he soon recovered and gamely continued his place. Wilson did some good work in the Moncton net and the other members of the Moncton team played well, although handicapped by the lack of substitute players who could have been used to give the regulars a rest. The only substitute used by the visitors was VanBuskirk, who replaced McAleese in the first part of the third period.

The Statistics.

The teams lined up as follows:

Moncton		Fredericton

Sussex Here Next Team.

It was said after the game that the Fredericton team have notified the N. B. H. L. executive that they will play Chatham and Bathurst at Chatham on March 10th and 11th and in the meantime it is expected the Sussex Eastern League team will be here to play a combined Fredericton and Marysville team on Monday, March 8th, which should prove one of the season's best attractions.—J. Acadia Gets Anxious About Football Trophy

A request for a meeting of the trustees of the Clarke trophy, emblematic of the football championship of the western section of the Maritime Intercollegiate Football League and now in possession of U. N. B., was received by Dr. C. C. Jones yesterday from Roy Ross, Acadia's faculty athletic representative. The telegram read:

Wolfville, N. S.,
March 1, 1920.

Dr. C. C. Jones,
Fredericton:

"Please convene meeting of trustees football trophy Wednesday evening. Disposal of cup must be decided, one member of each faculty comprise trustees. Please answer immediately.

R. ROSS,
"Faculty Athletic Representative."

The following reply was sent by Dr. Jones this morning:

"Roy Ross,
Wolfville, N. S.:

"Am advised Blaine Pugh, our hockey coach, cup trustee, now on way to Moncton. You might communicate with him there.

"C. C. JONES."

The faculties of Acadia, Mt. Allison and U. N. B. do not select members of the board of trustees. The trustees as elected in 1914 are: Dr. H. T. DeWolfe, Acadia; Dr. H. E. Bigelow, Mount Allison, and J. G. B. Pugh, U. N. B. Blaine Pugh was elected by the students of U. N. B. upon the resignation of Major H. G. Deedes when the latter went overseas.—R. H. B.

At the Baseball Training Camps

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Cincinnati, O., March 3.—Word has been received from Jake Daubert, first baseman, that he has accepted terms, it was announced at headquarters of the Cincinnati National League Club today. Heinie Groh and Larry Kopf, the infielders, still unsigned, will meet Manager Pat Moran here today for a conference. It is also possible, it was said, that Eddie Roush will come over from Oakland City to see the Red leader.

Referring to the persistently recurring rumors of possible trades with the New York Giants, President Hermann, of the champion Reds, reiterated his denial that any such deal was in prospect.

Babe Ruth With Yankees.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 3.—Babe Ruth had his first work out as a Yankee yesterday and semeed to enjoy the batting practice. When he wasn't batting he was hopping around scooping up ground balls and exhorting the batters to "hit 'em harder." He and Bodie are rivals for the centre field job.

Giants New College Star.

San Antonio, Tex., March 3.—Arthur White, a young shortstop from the Catholic University of Washington, was one of the stars at the first workout of the Giants yesterday. The other was George Kelly, the first baseman, who was brought back from Rochester late last season. Kelly's spectacular work at first base today seemed to demonstrate that he was ready to make Hal Chase's shoes fit him.

Brooklyn Has a Game.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 3.—The Dodgers had two hard work-outs yesterday. Manager Robinson gave them one hour of batting practice in the morning and a seven inning ball game in the afternoon. The teams were led by Jimmy Johnson and Ed Konetchy. The Koneys won by 6 to 5. Marquard showed that his broken leg had completely mended.

CURLING

Last evening at the Fredericton curling rink Collector L. C. Macnutt and A. S. McFarlane, who had tied for the points prize with a score of 39 each, played off and the prize, a pair of felt-lined curling boots presented by R. B. VanDine, was won by A. S. McFarlane with a score of 32 against the collector's score of 28.

Only one game was played last evening in the Management Committee Series, Skip John Neill defeating Skip Amos Wilson by a score of 12 to 8.

The score by skips was:

H. A. Watson	J. R. Howie
W. J. Glenn	H. W. Wilson
H. H. Hagerman	E. A. McKay
John Neill	T. A. Wilson
skip 12	skip 8

U. N. B.-Acadia Game at Moncton

Much Interest In Intercollegiate League Western Section Play Off Tonight--- Winners Will Play St. Francis Xavier, Who Won Eastern End From King's at Amherst on Friday Night.

U. N. B. and Acadia will meet at Moncton tonight in what appears to be the most interesting Intercollegiate Hockey game ever contested in New Brunswick.

The winners will then meet St. Francis Xavier, who won the eastern section honors by defeating King's last night at Stellarton, N. S., by a score of 10 to 4 for the Brown Trophy.

This game for the championship of the Maritime Intercollegiate will be played at Amherst, N. S., on Friday night, the rink at that city having already been reserved as the eastern section would not agree to the final game being played where the western section had been decided.

The Gleaner has arranged for bulletins on the result of the game tonight and all enquiries for information by telephone to No. 368 between 10 and 11 p. m. tonight will be answered.

ACADIA IS CONFIDENT.

U. N. B. Hopes That Walter Flett Will Be Able to Figure in Tonight's Game.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Moncton, N. B., March 3.—Moncton looks like a college town today, the place being full of undergraduates and graduates of U. N. B. and Acadia who are gathered here for the play-off game of the western section of the Intercollegiate Hockey League tonight.

Never before has there been such an interest shown in an intercollegiate hockey event and it is freely estimated this morning that 2,000 or more people will be on hand at the local rink when the teams clash tonight. The U. N. B. squad arrived yesterday afternoon and are making their headquarters at the Brunswick Hotel, while the Acadia team, who came in last night, are at the American House. Already the late arrivals are having difficulty in securing accommodations.

Will Flett Be Able to Play?

Joe Wood, former U. N. B. athlete, who is in charge of the rink assigned practice periods for both teams this morning, U. N. B. going on the ice about 11 o'clock, but when the team were through with practice nobody could tell how they would line up this evening. Everything depends upon whether Walter Flett, who has been ill with la grippe and couldn't accompany the team yesterday, will be able to play when he arrives late this afternoon from Fredericton. Blaine Pugh, the U. N. B. coach, got word this morning that Flett was leaving and U. N. B's chances depend very largely upon whether he will be in the game. No matter how the rest of the team line up it is said Captain Burgess will be on the defence at least at the start of the game, although there may be a good deal of changing about done in the U. N. B. team.

Jack Twaddle, the Amherst Ramblers' old-timer, was agreed upon by U. N. B. and Acadia yesterday as referee, but he declined to take on the job and this morning it looked as if Lowther, another Amherst player, would be the choice.

U. N. B. graduates are to entertain the Red & Black team this afternoon and it was said this morning they might have a banquet for them tonight. There is a lot of confidence in the Acadia camp.

St. Francis Won.

New Glasgow, N. S., March 2.—By a score of 10 to 4, the hockey team of St. Francis College, Antigonish, tonight defeated King's College, Windsor. The game was played in the Stellarton rink, and was a fast and clean contest.

CANADIAN ATHLETE INFLUENZA VICTIM

Montreal, March 3.—Captain Edward B. Savage, M. C., died at the Royal Victoria Hospital yesterday afternoon, following two weeks' illness of influenza, and with his death Canada loses one who is generally conceded to have been the fastest wing player that Canadian Rugby football has produced. He was born in Montreal 33 years ago.

INTERNATIONAL GOLF.

Newark, N. J., March 3.—W. D. Vanderpool, secretary of the United States Golf Association, with headquarters in this city, announced last night that Saturday, August 7, has been selected for the international professional team match over the links of the Inverness Club at Toledo. This will precede the national championship over the same course August 10 to 13.

QUEBEC AMATEUR WON.

Montreal, March 3.—Victorias were knocked out in Allan Cup elimination contest last night by Sons of Ireland, of Quebec, 6 to 3.

The Jolly Landlord, 2.11¼, has been bought by W. H. Cane, of New York, and will be raced by Earl Pitman.

Ansel Chamberlain, who for more than 25 years was superintendent of Allen Farm, died last week.

ROTHESAY DEFEATS FREDERICTON HIGH

Final Game of Interscholastic Hockey League Played Here Last Night.

Fredericton High School wound up their Interscholastic League schedule last night without a victory when they were beaten by the Rothesay Collegiate School sextette by the score of 4 to 3 in the game which was played after the senior match was over at the Arctic Rink.

Clarke was the star of the Fredericton team while Sterling and Cain, the two wings, each scored one of the home team's goals and McPherson put up a good game in the net, turning a number of hard shots aside, partcularly in the final period. Creamer, a Montreal boy, was one of the best of the Rothesay players while Gibson and Kitchen, two Fredericton boys, showed up well as did also Douglas who, although a substitute, put up a rugged defense game. "Tart" Titus, captain of the Fredericton Hockey Club, was the referee and handled the game well.

The teams lined up as follows:

Rothesay		Fredericton
McPhail	Goal	McPherson
Steevens	Point	Currie
Crease	Cover Point	Clarke
Creamer	Centre	Keene
Jones	Right Wing	Cain
Gibson	Left Wing	Sterling

Referee—"Tart" Titus.

The scoring:

First Period.

1—Clake, Fredericton.

Second Period.

2—Cain, Fredericton.
3—Steevens, Rothesay.
4—Creamer, Rothesay.

Third Period.

5—Creamer, Rothesay.
6—Jones, Rothesay.
7—Sterling, Fredericton.

The penalties:

First Period—Gibson, 1 min., Crease, 1 min.

Second Period—Cain, 1 min.

Totals—Rothesay 2 mins., Fredericton 1 min.

DISPOSITION OF CANADA'S ALIENS

Questions to Be Asked the Government by R. F. Casgrain in House Tomorrow.

Ottawa, March 2.—In addition to asking what has become of aliens interned during the war, and the measures adopted by the Government to deal with them now that the war is over, P. F. Cargrain will ask tomorrow whether it is the Government's intention to issue bi-lingual coins and paper money in the future. He will also ask the object of the visit of three cabinet ministers to Carleton-Victoria County within the past week. A further question by Mr. Cargrain asks if the excess business profit war tax is to be re-enacted for the ensuing year.

Toronto, March 2—It is thought here that the convention of the Canadian Council of Agriculture in this city on March 23 will be forwarded by a rush throughout rural Ontario to put farmer candidates in the field for the federal elections.

It is understood that the matter of holding a Dominion-wide convention of farmers to decide on a federal platform will be one of the subjects discussed at the conference.

CITY NEGLECTED TO OBEY ORDER

The City of Hull in Trouble for Passing by Order of Provincial Board of Health.

Ottawa, March 2.—The city of Hull faces a fine of something like $100 owing to its refusal two years ago to install a filtration system for the purification of its water supply, which was ordered by the Quebec Provincial Board of Health.

This fact was brought to the attention of the City Council at a meeting last night, when the city solicitor, Mr. J. H. Stemarie, addressing the council by letter as to what action he should take towards defending the action, which he stated the Provincial Board of Health had instituted against the city and which he wrote was to come up in the Superior Court shortly.

A resolution was passed instructing the city solicitor to proceed to Montreal and ascertain what could be done.

PRIESTS THREATEN STRIKE.

Madrid, March 2.—It is reported that if the Government does not meet the demands of the clergy for higher stipends the parish priests will go out on strike.

How Signs Of Old Age Creep Into Your System When The Iron In Your Blood Runs Low

For Want of Iron, You May Be Old At Thirty—Nervous, Irritable and All Run-Down—While at Fifty or Sixty, With Plenty of Iron in Your Blood, You May Be Young in Feeling and Brimming Over With Vim and Energy

IRON IS THE RED BLOOD FOOD

That Helps Strengthen the Nerves, Restores Wasted Tissue and Aids in Giving Renewed Force and Power to the Body. Physicians Explain Why Administration of Simple Nuxated Iron Often Increases the Strength and Endurance of Delicate, Run-down People in Two Weeks' Time.

Old age has already sunk its talons into thousands of men and women who ought still to be enjoying the springtime and summer of life simply because they have allowed worry, overwork, nervous strain, dissipation and occupational poisons to sap the iron from their blood and thereby destroy its power to change food into living tissue, muscle and brain. You will find plenty of people at 40 who are broken in health and steadily going downward to physical and mental decay while others at 50 are strong, active, alert and seemingly growing younger every year. One class withers and dies like leaves in autumn while the other by keeping up a strong power of resistance against disease may pass the three score and ten mark with surprising health, strength and vigor. But you cannot expect to look and feel young and vigorous unless you have plenty or iron in your blood, and physicians explain below why they prescribe organic iron—Nuxated Iron—to supply the iron deficiency in the weak, nervous, and run-down so as to build them up into stronger, healthier men and women.

"Many a man and woman who ought still to be young in feeling is losing the old time vim and energy that makes life worth living simply because their blood is starving for want of iron," says Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly Physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital. "Thousands are ageing and breaking down at a time when they should be enjoying perfect health because anaemia—lack of iron in the blood—has fastened its grip on them and is sapping their strength, vitality and energy. But in my opinion you can't make strong, keen, forceful men, and healthy rosy-cheeked women by feeding them on metallic iron. The old forms of metallic iron must go through a digestive process to transform them into organic iron—Nuxated Iron—before they are ready to be taken up and assimilated by the human system. I strongly advise readers in all cases to get a physician's prescription for organic iron—Nuxated Iron—or if you don't want to go to this trouble then purchase Nuxated Iron in its original packages and see that this particular name (Nuxated Iron) appears on the package. If you have taken preparations such as Nux and Iron and other similar iron products and failed to get results, remember that such products are an entirely different thing from Nuxated Iron."

Dr. George H. Baker, formerly Physician and Surgeon, Monmouth Memorial Hospital of New Jersey, says: "From a careful examination of the formula and my own tests of Nuxated Iron, I feel convinced that it is a preparation which any physician can take himself or prescribe for his patients with the utmost confidence of obtaining highly beneficial and satisfactory results."

Manufacturers' Note. Nuxated Iron which has been used by Dr. Sullivan and other physicians with such surprising results, is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated and does not injure the teeth, make them black nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed by all good druggists.

"Then on guard again!" cried the young squire, and sprang in with a fire and a fury which more than made up for the shortness of his weapon. It had not escaped him that his opponent was breathing in short, hoarse gasps, like a man who is dizzy with fatigue. Now was the time for the purer living and the more agile limb to show their value. Back and back gave Tranter, ever seeking time for a last cut. On and on came Alleyne, his jagged point now at his foeman's face, now at his throat, now at his chest, still stabbing and thrusting to pass the line of steel which covered him. Yet his experienced foeman knew well that such efforts could not be sustained. Let him relax for one instant, and his death-blow had come. Relax he must! Flesh and blood could not stand the strain. Already the thrusts were less fierce, the foot less steady, although there was no abatement of the spirit in the steady gray eyes. Tranter, cunning and wary from years of fighting, knew that his chance had come. He brushed aside the frail weapon which was opposed to him, whirled up his great blade, sprang back to get the fairer sweep—and vanished into the waters of the Garonne.

So intent had the squires, both combatants and spectators, been on the matter in hand, that all thought of the steep bank and swift still stream had gone from their minds. It was not until Tranter, giving back before the other's fiery rush, was upon the very brink, that a general cry warned him of his danger. That last spring, which he hoped would have brought the fight to a bloody end, carried him clear of the edge, and he found himself in an instant eight feet deep in the ice-cold stream. Once and twice his gasping face and clutching fingers broke up through the still green water, sweeping outwards in the swirl of the current. In vain were sword-sheaths, apple-branches and belts linked together thrown out to him by his companions. Alleyne had dropped his shattered sword and was standing, trembling in every limb, with his rage all changed in an instant to pity. For the third time the drowning man come to the surface, his hands full of green slimy water-plants, his eyes turned in despair to the shore. Their glance fell upon Alleyne, and he could not withstand the mute appeal which he read in them. In an instant he, too, was in the Garonne, striking out with powerful strokes for his late foeman.

Yet the current was swift and strong, and, good swimmer as he was, it was no easy task which Alleyne had set himself. To clutch at Tranter and to seize him by the hair was the work of a few seconds, but to hold his head above water and to make their way out of the current was another matter. For a hundred strokes he did not seem to gain an inch. Then at last, amid a shout of joy and praise from the bank, they slowly drew clear into more stagnant water, at the instant that a rope, made of a dozen sword-belts linked together by the buckles, was thrown by Ford into their very hands. Three pulls from eager arms, and the two combatants, dripping and pale, were dragged up the bank, and lay panting upon the grass.

John Tranter was the first to come to himself, for although he had been longer in the water, he had done nothing during that fierce battle with the current. He staggered to his feet and looked down upon his rescuer, who had raised himself upon his elbow, and was smiling faintly at the buzz of congratulation and of praise which broke from the squires around him.

"I am much beholden to your, sir," said Tranter, though in no very friendly voice. "Certes, I should have been in the river now but for you, for I was born in Warwickshire, which is but a dry county, and there are few who swim in those parts."

"I ask no thanks," Alleyne answered shortly. "Give me your hand to rise, Ford."

"The river has been my enemy," said Tranter, "but it hath been a good friend to you, for it has saved your life this day."

"That is as it may be," returned Alleyne.

"But all is now well over," quoth Harcomb, "and no scath come of it, which is more than I had at one time hoped for. Our young friend here hath very fairly and honestly earned his right to be craftsman of the Honorable Guild of the Squires of Bordeau. Here is your doublet, Trantor."

"Alas for my poor sword which lies at the bottom of the Garonne!" said het squire.

"Here is your pourpoint, Edricson," cried Norbury. "Throw it over your shoulders, that you may have at least one dry garment."

"And now away back to the abbey!" said several.

"One moment, sirs," cried Aleyne, who was leaning on Ford's shoulder, with the broken sword, which he had picked up, still clutched in his right hand. "My ears may be somewhat dulled by the water, and perchance what has been said has escaped me, but I have not yet heard this gentleman crave pardon for the insults which he put upon me in the hall."

"What!" do you still pursue the quarel?" asked Trenter.

"And why not, sir? I am slow to take up such things, but once afoot I shall follow it while I have life or breath."

"Ma foi! you have not too much of either, for you are as white as marble," said Harbomb bluntly. "Take my rede, sir, and let it drop, for you have come very well out from it."

"Nay," said Alleyne, "this quarrel is none of my making; but, now that I am here, I swear to you that I shall never leave this spot until I have that which I have come for: so ask my pardon, sir, or choose another glaive and to it again."

The young squire was deadly white from his exertions, both on the land and in the water. Soaking and stained, with a smear of blood on his white shoulder and another on his brow, there was still in his whole pose and set of face the trace of an inflexible resolution. His opponent's duller and more material mind quailed before the fire and intensity of a higher spiritual nature.

"I had not thought that you had taken it so amiss," said he awkwardly. "It was but such a jest as we play upon each other, and, if you must have it so, I am sorry for it."

"Then I am sorry too," quoth Alleyne warmly, "and here is my hand upon it."

"And the none-meat horn has blown three times," quoth Harcomb, as they all streamed in chattering groups from the ground. "I know not what the prince's maitre-de-cuisine will say or think. By my troth! master Ford, your friend here is in need of a cup of wine, for he hath drunk deeply of Garonne water. I had not thought from his fair face that he had stood to this matter so shrewdly."

"Faith,' said Ford, "this air of Bordeaux hath turned our turtle-dove into a game-cock. A milder or more courteous youth never came out of Hampshire."

'His master also, as I understand, is a very mild and courteous gentleman," remarked Harcomb; "yet I do not think that they are either of them men whom it is very safe to trifle."

A dainty supper was served and the gathering broke up wishing Alderman and Mrs. Barker many years of wedded bliss. Ald. Barker and his wife were fourteen hours coming from New York to Boston and 21 hours coming from Boston to this city, the trains all being delayed by the storms.

POLICEMEN HAVE PAY INCREASED BY $20 PER MONTH

Chairman McKay Announces the Decision of the Police Commission Today.

$110 FOR SERGEANT; $100 FOR PATROLMAN

Chief Finley is Still Laid Up as Result of Injuries While on Duty.

Chairman William McKay, of the Police Commission, announced this morning that an advance of $20 per month had been made in the salaries of the members of the local police department.

The advance becomes effective from March 1st, but as the strength of the force under Chief Finley has been reduced from four to three patrolmen with the sergeant there will be no increase in the cost of operating the force, as the $80 per month which went to pay the additional patrolman is now divided between the sergeant and three patrolmen.

The advance granted by the Police Commission brings the new schedule of pay up to $110 per month for the sergeant and $100 per month for patrolmen. The request for the increase, the chairman said, came to the commission through Chief Finley, to whom the members of the force had made representations that they could not remain and do twelve hours' duty daily unless their pay was advanced to meet the increased cost of living.

Chief Finley is still laid up at his home with what is said to be recurrence of troubles resulting from injuries received when he was a member of the St. John police department and which were aggravated by an injury he recently received while handling crowds at the Arctic Rink.

10 RAILWAYMEN NOW UNDER ARREST AND MORE COMING

Chief Detective Page Brings In Man Who Stole Boots and Tobacco.

DETECTIVES WILL BE HERE WITH SOME MORE

Energetic Campaign Is Being Carried On All Over C. N. R. System.

The number of railwaymen under arrest as a result of the roundup by the C. N. R. Investigation Department for freight thefts at Napudogan, on the Transcontinental route, was increased to ten today when Chief Detective H. J. Page, of Toronto, appeared in the Police Court with another prisoner charged with stealing boots and tobacco while in transit.

This prisoner pleaded guilty and was remanded until Friday morning, when, with eight others, he is to appear again for sentence, while the ninth prisoner is also under remand until that date for preliminary examination. The prisoner who appeared in court today was in a dejected state and told the local police officers that his wife was so critically ill at home that the shock of his predicament, he feared, would be fatal.

Chief Detective Page declared this morning that the roundup of railwaymen as a result of the thefts was not yet finished. Detectives Trenholm and Lawson, he said, were expected to soon arrive with some more prisoners, and he asserted it to be the intention to carry on the roundup until there had been a stop put to the practice of interfering with freight in transit, whether it be liquor or other merchandise.

Declaring the campaign against freight thefts was being carried on all over the C. N. R. system, Chief Page said that this morning he had received telegrams from Sudbury, Ont., and Toronto, three arrests having been made at the former divisional point and two convictions at the latter, all employees of the railway, who were charged with theft. Incidentally, Mr. Page told reporters this morning that the local police court was one of the most satisfactorily conducted he had attended in Canada.

Professional.

Dr. A. Pierce Crocket, eye, ear nose and throat specialist, of St. John, will be at the Queen Hotel, Fredericton, Saturday of this week, where he may be consulted professionally.

J. C. Berrie, of St. John, is at the Queen Hotel.

A HOUSING BOARD WAS APPOINTED BY THE CITY COUNCIL

Commission Named Last Night to Carry On Operations Under Housing Act.

D. W. ROBERTS TO BE SALARIED SECRETARY

A. A. Colter, W. T. Chestnut, C. D. Richards and Ald. Baxter the Other Members.

Fredericton's Housing Commission, who will operate under the Housing Act and under whose supervision $200,000 will be expended in this city to improve housing conditions, have been appointed by the City Council.

The appointments were made last evening and the personnel of the commission follows: Ashley A. Colter, of the Smith Foundry Co. Ltd.; William T. Chestnut, of R. Chestnut & Sons, Ltd., hardware dealers; Ald. Robert J. Baxter, representing the Fredericton Labor Council; C. D. Richards, barrister, and Rev. D. W. Roberts, secretary.

The appointments were made upon recommendation of a special committee of the City Council of which Ald. Wilkinson was the chairman, and the committee further recommended that the commission, as soon as organized, should take immediate steps to ascertain how many houses are necessary under the scheme. Only one member of the commission, the secretary, will be paid a salary, while Mr. Richards will receive remuneration for any legal services he may perform.

E. P. LeBlanc, of Moncton, is among the guests at the Barker House.

DEPOSED KINGS SEEK LOST THRONES

Hapsburgs' Restoration Will Not be Permitted

Supreme Allied Council Determined to Allow No Return

CLOSELY WATCH NEW REGENT

Hungarians Hope the Allies Will Become Weary of Oversight.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, March 4.—Members of the Supreme Allied Council are determined to adhere to that organization's refusal to allow a restoration of the Hapsburgs in either Austria or Hungary, it is stated in conference circles in answer to inquiries regarding Rumanian fears that the appointment of Admiral Horthy as Hungarian Regent means the return of the former rulers of that country.

Recognition of the soviet government in Russia, it is stated in the same quarters, has been discussed in the course of the council's consideration of economic and financial problems, but no definite conclusions have been reached.

While nothing has as yet been decided as to the size of the army Turkey will be allowed to maintain, the Council is believed to oppose any plan to maintain a force larger than 25,000, and may insist that the Turkish army be considerably less than this figure. Some members of the council are said to favor refusing Turkey a standing army in any form, except a gendarmerie under officers appointed by the Allies. Questions relative to Turkey will come before a special meeting of the League of Nations council today.

Plan to Restore Hapsburgs.

London, March 4.—Alexander Vaida-Voeved, Premier of Rumania, in an interview printed in the Pall Mall Gazette yesterday, regarding the appointment of Admiral Horthy as Regent of Hungary, is quoted as follows:

"The new Hungarian Regent will try in every possible way to effect a restoration of the dynasty with Charles as King. Under Horthy's direction the Allied Supreme Council will at a ripe moment be flouted and a Kingdom established.

"The Hungarians believe the Allies are too weary to take serious action. There has been a secret mobilization in Hungary of all men between the ages of 18 and 26. Arms have been obtained in Australia and efforts made to obtain munitions in Warsaw."

Vaida-Voeved predicts that the former Emperor's son will be named as King if the plan to restore the Emperor fails.

Strange Proceedings.

Berlin, March 4.—Telegraphing from Budapest, the correspondent of the Berliner Tageblatt says that some strange incidents marked Monday's sitting of the Hungarian National Assembly, when a Regent was elected.

"On Tuesday," says the correspondent, "at the sitting of the assembly, the President said the building was surrounded on Monday by soldiers who refused to admit Finance Minister Koranyi. Premier Huszar said that such things should not be tolerated."

Former Hungarian Premier Who Was Attacked by Would-Be Assassins at Budapest was Wounded by Attackers

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

LONDON, March 4.—Stephen Friedrich, former Hungarian Premier, and present Minister of War, who was murderously attacked yesterday morning while driving across a bridge in Budapest, was wounded, says a despatch to Exchange Telegraph Company, from the Hungarian capital. It is said the would-be assassins were two communists. First accounts said former Premier escaped injury.

Tendencies Hostile to the Versailles Treaty Stronger And Settlement No Nearer

Premier Nitti Made Formal Demand of Revision of Hungarian Draft Treaty, Claiming that 3,000,000 Magyars Would Be Included in Jugo-Slavia and Roumania.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, March 4.—Premier Nitti, of Italy, at the Supreme Council meeting in London yesterday, says "Pertinax" in the Echo de Paris today, formally demanded a revision of the Hungarian draft treaty. Signor Nitti declared that by it 3,000,000 Magyars would be included in the Jugo-Slav, Rumanian and Czecho-Slovak states. The correspondent adds that Premier Lloyd-George of Great Britain was inclined to support his Italian colleague.

According to "Pertinax," the most important debate was on the proposal made by Signor Nitti Monday, that to furnish Germany with raw materials necessary for the normal working of her industries, an international loan should be issued by the neutral countries, in the payment of which certain German resources should be chosen, naturally the most easy to be realized upon being earmarked for this service. The loan consequently, says the correspondent, would be withdrawn from the control of the reparation commission and the management of this operation will be in the hands of a committee appointed by neutral countries.

"There is no doubt," says the correspondent, "that the proposal of Signor Nitti did not triumph, but nevertheless it shows how tendencies hostile to the Versailles treaty are growing stronger"

Overcome U. S. Opposition.

Rome, March 4.—The Giornale D'Italia, commenting today on the exchange of communications between President Wilson and the Allied Premiers with regard to the Adriatic controversy, says the discussion is "producing a painful impression on the Italians, owing to the sour opposition of the American President to Italy's aspirations, which are founded both on right and on sentiment."

The Corriere D'Italia says it still trusts the Allies will be able to overcome President Wilson's opposition and induce the Jugo-Slavs to acknowledge the great sacrifices Italy is ready to accept with a view to insuring a stabilized European peace.

Says Italy Betrayed.

Rome, March 4.—Italy was betrayed about Asia Minor, says the Giornale D'Italia, in publishing documents tending to show that after Italy's entrance into the war in May, 1916, an Anglo-French treaty was concluded for the partitioning of Asia Minor between these two countries, and that this was followed by an accord March 6, 1917, between France, Great Britain and Russia with the same purpose, without in either case notifying Italy.

"When Baron Sonnino, the Italian Foreign Minister, learned of it," says the newspaper, "he protested. The meeting at St. Jean Maurienne occurred in April, 1917, and at it Smyrna was assigned to Italy, subject to the consent of Russia, which already was in revolution."

WINNIPEG VETS APPROVE WAUGH

Say that the Ottawa Vets Were Not Aware of Good Work He Had Done.

Winnipeg, March 4.—The president and secretary of the local G. W. V. A. have given out interviews commending the appointment of R. D. Waugh as Canadian commissioner of the Saar Valley. They say that the Ottawa branch, which objected to this appointment, was not aware of the good work done here for the welfare of the soldiers by Mr. Waugh, who worked day and night sometimes for the men and their dependents during his term as mayor of Winnipeg. He also had two sons in the army, one of whom was killed and the other wounded, and another in the navy.

SECURE THE PROOF AGAINST FORGER

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Quebec, March 4.—The police here believe that they have absolute proof on Francis Payzan, alias J. A. Beaumont, arrested here on Saturday on suspicion of forgery.

It was discovered yesterday that the cheque blanks which he held were printed in Quebec. They were made payable to the First National Bank of New York and were in the name of "Charles E. Van Rippen, Inc., investment member consolidated stock exchange."

HIGHEST PRICE FOR SHARE OF STOCK

New York, March 4.—The highest price ever recorded for the sale of one share of stock in the history of the New York stock exchange was paid yesterday when ten shares of Atlantic Refining Company common stock sold for $1,350 a share.

The previous record was made on May 9, 1901, when Northern Pacific touched one thousand dollars during a panic.

WILD FOWL RESORT COVERED WITH ICE

New York, March 4.—Thousands of half-famished wild geese cover the ice in Great South Bay, along Long Island Sound, seeking food at waterholes, according to reports today from game wardens. The bay, a favorite spot for wild fowl, is covered with ice three feet thick, an almost unprecedented condition for March. Residents along the Bay Shore and others are feeding many of the fowl.

BOLSHEVIK WON'T ACCEPT POLISH TERMS

Poland Said to Demand Cession of Vast Territories Along Her Frontiers.

RUSSIA NOT ONLY COUNTRY AFFECTED

Great Britain Said to Disapprove of Polish Demands, But Backed by France.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, March 4.—Poland's peace terms are wholly unacceptable to Russia, says George Lansbury, former Socialist member of the British House of Commons, in a despatch to the Herald, the labor organ, from Moscow.

"They include," says the correspondent, "the cession to Poland to a large portion of the independent state of Letvia, and vast territories belonging not only to soviet Russia, but to other nations bordering on Poland."

Mr. Lansbury adds that Great Britain appears to disapprove of these demands, which he says were made by France.

German Claims in Finland.

Stockholm, March 4.—Negotiations are going on between Germany and Finland regarding compensation for military assistance rendered by the former to Finland against the Bolshevik in 1918. Germany claims total of 127,000,000 marks.

Gorky Disappointed.

Stockholm, March 4.—Bitter disappointment with Bolshevism is expressed in an article published recently by Maxim Gorky, the Russian radical, according to despatches received here.

"The men in power now are just as brutal as those in authority under the imperial regime," Gorky declares.

ZURICH, March 4.—A bomb was exploded last night under the porch of the United States Consulate here, seriously damaging the building, but injuring no one. The police authorities are believed to have secured clues as to the guilty persons.

ASK INFORMATION ON RESIGNATION

Member of House Wants to Be Enlightened on Troubles Board of Commerce.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, March 4.—The resignation of the chairman of the Board of Commerce will come up in the House again today, when Hon. Chas. Murphy will have a question to put to the Government asking if there has been any later correspondence on the matter than that brought down by the Government Tuesday and which was not very enlightening as to the inner history of the matter. It is understood that Sir George Foster has received a further very lengthy communication from a member of the board, which is in the nature of a protest against the construction which might be put upon the matter by the correspondence already given to the public, and which, if laid before the House, will put a wholly different construction on the whole case.

SNOW STILL BLOCKS NEW YORK STREETS

One Thousand Miles of Streets in City and Suburbs Not Yet Cleared of Snow.

New York, March 4.—Four weeks ago yesterday the big snowstorm of 1920 began here. There are thirty street car lines still out of business. Six hundred miles of streets in the outlying sections of the city have not yet been cleared of snow, while 400 miles in the city proper have been only partially cleared. Fifty miles of streets in congested portions of the city have not been opened.

ONTARIO TO STAY IN FISH BUSINESS

The Supply This Year Will Come Entirely Out of Waters Operated by Government

Toronto, March 4.—The Ontario government will continue in the fish selling business this year, through the sales branch of the Department of Game and Fisheries, according to a statement made by Hon. Mr. Biggs, Minister of Public Works.

The Minister said the supply this year would come entirely out of the waters operated by the government, and no demand would be made upon the licensed fishermen. Last year's selling price, 15 cents per pound on the "cash and carry" basis, will be maintained this year.

SIR LOMER GOUIN GOING TO EUROPE

Belief that He Will Not Retire from Premiership of Quebec at Present.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Quebec, March 4.—It is stated here in political circles that Sir Lomer Gouin is preparing to sail for Europe on the 18th instant.

The rumors concerning Sir Lomer's retirement are gradually dying down it is now generally conceded that he will hold on until a politician of commanding personality has cropped up to take his place.

14 YEAR OLD BOY HOLDS UP TROLLEY

Stopped Car by Firing Three Shots and Had Passengers Panic Stricken for Time.

New York, March 4.—Armed with an old fashioned pistol and blank cartridges, Tony Diadota, 14 years old, is said by the police to have treated Brooklyn last night to a trolley car "hold-up" in true Wild West style. The youngster, according to the police, stopped the car by firing three shots. The passengers were panic-stricken when the boy leaped out of the darkness into the light, waving the gun. But, before he could clamber aboard, a special officer attracted by the shots, placed him under arrest.

WITNESSES CAN'T RE-ENTER MEXICO

Washington, March 4.—Mexico has flatly refused the request of the U. S. State Department to allow Henry Forres, an American who testified before the Senate sub-committee on Mexican conditions, to re-enter Mexico. The same attitude is taken towards all Americans who were witnesses.

REPRESENT FRANCE IN SWITZERLAND

Paris, March 4.—Henri Allize, head of the special French mission to Vienna, was yesterday appointed ambassador to Switzerland. He succeeds Paul Dutasta, secretary of the peace conference, who has several times been mentioned as the probable French diplomatic representative at Berlin.

PORTUGUESE MONARCHISTS READY TO ACT

Leaders Congregate on Frontier Prepared to Take Advantage of Strike.

THE RAILROAD STRIKE SPREADS OVER COUNTRY

Private Roads Now Affected, While Postal and Telegraph Workers Walk Out.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, March 4.—Portuguese monarchists are gathering on the Spanish frontier and several, including one who is said to be prominent, have secretly crossed into Portugal, says a despatch to the London Daily Mail, filed at Vigo, Spain, on Wednesday.

Motorists arriving in Vigo report that the strike in Portugal, which was at first confined to governmental roads, has spread to private railroads and tramways, and that postal and telegraph workers have walked out. Some say they encountered large bodies of troops along roads leading to the frontier.

Reports received yesterday that Portuguese workers had proclaimed a soviet form of government are not as yet confirmed.
