The restlessness of one sleeper does not disturb the other. And there isn't any loss of vitality—as there is when children sleep with old people, or invalids with the healthy.

But even in a separate bed you will never sleep soundly unless your bed invites perfect relaxation.

There is not a person anywhere but will sleep better for doing away with the creaky wooden bed or loose-jointed noisy metal bed and getting a Simmons Metal Bed instead—with Waldorf Box Spring, and Simmons Mattress and Pillows.

The Simmons Bed is noiseless. It locks firm at the corners. The corner locks are made of pressed steel—fit true and snug—not a creak, rattle or feeling of unsteadiness.

It is perfectly rigid—feels and moves like one solid piece.

The Simmons Pressed Steel Corner Locks are protected by basic patents—exclusive with Simmons Limited, not to be duplicated or imitated.

THE Waldorf Box Spring really does what you have always wanted a spring to do.

It invites complete relaxation.

It supports the body at ease on fine resilient spring coils—each coil conforming freely to the contours, so that the spine is perfectly rested, whether one sleeps on the back or on the side.

Simmons Waldorf Box Spring is covered with ticking of the finest grade and great wearing quality, in new and attractive designs.

It fits firmly on the bed—never sags or humps, never loses its resiliency.

And Simmons Mattresses and Pillows are in every way worthy to go with Simmons Metal Beds and Waldorf Box Springs.

THOUSANDS who for years have been "light sleepers," relax completely and sleep all night on a Simmons Metal Bed.

If you've been thinking of separate beds, you may be glad to know that Simmons Limited, are specialists in Twin Bed

You'll find Simmons Metal Beds, Waldorf Box Springs, Simmons Mattresses and Pillows at your leading dealers.

THE ASSOCIATED CHARITIES WILL BE ORGANIZED HERE

VICTORIAN NURSE FOR MARYSVILLE

Important Steps Are Taken to Systematize the Work of Societies Here.

The regular monthly meeting of the Social Service Council was held last evening, with Dr. W. C. Kierstead presiding and a good attendance of members present.

An interesting report on the work done by Miss Peterson, the district nurse, since she took up her duties in November, was read and showed that she had made 517 nursing visits, 47 of these were child welfare cases, and had 40 patients.

As the result of two meetings which Miss Peterson addressed at Marysville a Victorian nurse has been secured, and she will in all probability arrive there in about two weeks' time to take up her duties.

Associated Charities, an organization to carry on charitable work under one head, so that different societies will not overlap, was discussed last night and the meeting went on record as favoring the organization at once, and Dr. Foster, Dr. Kierstead, R. B. WanDine and Mrs. Trafton were appointed a committee to make arrangements and to report at the next meeting.

After some other routine business was transacted the meeting adjourned.

MARCH 30TH DATE FOR DORCAS' TRIAL

York County Court's Sittings Postponed Today Until End of Month.

The March Sittings of the York County Court opened this morning at the County Court House, Judge Wilson presiding. The docket as made up by the Clerk, H. G. Fenety, consisted of one criminal case and one civil—the criminal case being that of the King vs. James Dorcas, recently sent up for trial by Police Magistrate Limerick, charged with theft of property of the Canadian National Railway at Napadogan in January last. The civil case was a jury one—Hanson vs. Coburn—in which P. J. Hughes appeared for the plaintiff, and C. D. Richards for the defendant.

On the criminal case being called, H. G. Fenety, as Clerk of the Court, appeared for the Crown and had associated with him R. B. Hanson, K. C., representing the railway; P. J. Hughes appeared on behalf of the accused. Mr. Fenety presented to the court the bill of indictment and after stating that owing to the short time intervening between the time the prisoner was sent up and today when the court met, it was impossible to have juries summoned on such short notice, moved that the court should adjourn to a future date so that jurymen could be on hand. After some discussion it was agreed that the trial should be fixed for Tuesday, March 30th, beginning at 3 o'clock. The accused has been out on bail since his arrest and the court ordered this morning, the Crown consenting, that this bail may be renewed. The bail was placed at $500 for the accused with sureties of $250 each. Frank Dinsmore and Daniel Elliot were accepted as sureties and the recognizance was taken in open court.

The civil case was also put over until March 30th owing to no jury being present this morning.

C. D. Richards presented the naturalization papers of John Tarapilla, railway employee, living at Millville. The hearing of the application was set down for 3 o'clock this afternoon, after which the court will adjourn until March 30th.

NIGHT CLASSES CLOSE.

No Public Closing, but Many Interested Visitors Were Present Last Evening.

The vocational night school which opened ten weeks ago closed last evening after a most successful course. In the dressmaking class the work had been interfered with to a certain extent on account of sickness, but the work shown last evening gave evidence of great attention on the part of the class and teacher. At the close of the evening the class presented Miss Haining, the teacher, with a brooch.

In the domestic science class Miss Jackson, the teacher, had a display of tempting cakes and billies which the class had made at home on recipes learned during the course. Miss Jackson was presented with a set of statuary by her class.

The other classes also finished their work last evening and a great many visitors were present and were much impressed with the work done during the past ten weeks.

The Spiritual Campaign.

The spiritual drive in connection with the Forward Movement began last evening in the George Street Baptist Church and was well attended. Rev. H. H. Ferguson, who is the special preacher for the campaign, assisting Pastor Fash, gave a splendid sermon, and many decisions were made.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Thites, of Salisbury, are guests today at the Barker House.

Miramichi Pulp Mills Are Taken Over By Montreal Men And Big Limits Transferred

Howard Smith Paper Mills Interests Purchase Dominion and Millerton Mills and are Acquiring Limits in This Province—Van Horne Estate's Timber Holdings Transferred to the Dalhousie Lumber Company—Fraser Companies, Limited, May Be Interested in Development Project in Which Grand Falls and New Brunswick Railway Company's Lands Have Been Mentioned—Lumbermen's Association Meet Here—The Stumpage Question in the Legislature.

Two pulp mills on the Miramichi are being taken over by interests allied with the Howard Smith Paper Mills of Montreal, it was learned here today. C. Howard Smith, president of the Howard Smith Paper Mills, and H. C. Flood, of Montreal, are here today and it is understood their visit is in connection with the plans of the proposals for the resuscitation of the two industries concerned.

One of the pulp mills being taken over is the Dominion Company's mill while the other is the Millerton mill, but so far as can be learned little if any timber limits are concerned and it is said negotiations are now under way for securing certain Crown Lands and that later it is expected that other limits will be taken over.

Important Transfer of Limits.

Several interesting reports are being circulated in connection with the development of Grand Falls and the New Brunswick Railway Company's lands. One of these stories is that the 200 odd square miles of timber lands which have been held by the estate of the late Sir William Van Horne have been taken over within the last few days by the Dalhousie Lumber Company, which is a subsidiary of the International Paper Company and operates a big plant at Dalhousie. No price has been made public, but it is said the actual transfer took place on Saturday.

The International Paper Company interests are allied with the estate of the late Sir William Van Horne in the holding company controlling the Grand Falls and which must expend $100,000 before January 20th, 1921, or relinquish their rights in that power proposition. One report which has gained much circulation recently is that the Fraser Companies, Limited, are to have a hand in whatever development plan is underway, but Archibald Fraser, of Edmundston, who is here today declined to discuss the matter this afternoon. However, he would not deny that the Fraser interests are connected with some movement.

Lumbermen Gather Here.

Many lumbermen are gathering in Fredericton today for a meeting of the New Brunswick Lumbermen's Association, which is to be held here tomorrow. This is the organization which was once publicly described by a well-known lumberman as the association which "would make and unmake governments" and it is an interesting coincident that their meeting is taking place just at the time that the Legislature has before it the amendment of Hon. Jas. A. Murray, Leader of the Opposition, to increase

Fine Show at Gaiety.

The big sporting production, "Checkers," which has been so extensively advertised, was shown at the Gaiety yesterday to capacity crowds. The picture is even better than the stage play, and made a decided hit. It is one of the most spectacular dramas seen here in a long time. Its stirring scenes and delightful romance must inevitably live long in memory. It will be repeated again today. On Wednesday the famous Drury Lane melodrama, "The Life Line," adapted from "Romany Rye," will be the feature attraction.

There will be no matinee at the Opera House tomorrow. In the evening local amateurs will occupy the stage. Thurs., Fri. and Sat. pictures as usual, with matinee daily.

VIOLENT AGITATION NOW IN GERMANY TO FORM A SOVIET

Kapp and Luettwitz Reported to Be About to Retire from Direction of Government Affairs

Paris, March 17.—Dr. Wolfgang Kapp, the new German Chancellor, and General Von Luettwitz, his military lieutenant, have decided to retire from the direction of German governmental affairs unconditionally, according to a despatch received here from Frankfort, quoting advices to the Gazette of that city.

Independent Socialists Threatened to Attack the New Government Forces With Armed Workmen

It is said this decision was reached after negotiations with independent socialists led by Dr. Cohen, in which the latter had threatened to attack the new government forces with armed workmen.

Impression Abroad That More is to Be Feared From Spartacists Than Kapp Government

Paris, March 17.—The news that came through during the night from Berlin and other German points, telling of sanguinary clashes at Dortmund, Leipsic, Mannheim, Frankfort and Brunswick, together with a report that a council of workmen had assumed power at Chemnitz, has given the impression here that there is more to be feared from the revival of the Spartacan movement than from the activities of the Kapp government in Berlin.

According to the latest despatches the military movement has resulted in bloodshed in 24 German towns. The Spartacans are reported to have risen in Dresden, where a clash with troops is decalred to have resulted in a casualty list of 100 dead and 300 wounded. Fighting in Breslau, Hamburg and Kiel, also is reported.

Kapp Still Holding On.

Paris, March 17.—A despatch from Berlin, timed in that city at 10.30 this morning, says the report that Chancellor Kapp has resigned is false.

Hindenburg Takes a Hand.

Amsterdam, March 17.—"The present Berlin government will not be maintained," the Berlin correspondent of Handelsblad today telegraphs to his newspaper.

"General Merker's efforts at conciliation may be considered to have failed.

"Field Marshal Von Hindenburg yesterday sent a telegram to Chancellor Kapp, demanding the immediate withdrawal of the Kapp troops and the establishment of a constitutional government. He sent a similar telegram to President Ebert."

CITE FIGURES TO SHOW COST OF MAINTENANCE

Port Arthur Bricklayers Demand $1.25 Per Hour and Will Do Less Work.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Toronto, March 17.—City Hall employees, asking the Board of Control today for a minimum wage of $30 a week, instead of $24 as at present, cited figures to show that the cost of maintenance for a man and his wife and three children totalled $2,155 a year, or $41.45 a week. They quoted statistics compiles by a mercantile agency to the effect that the purchasing power of the dollar has been reduced since Jan. 1st, 1914, practically to fifty cents.

The application may be considered by the board today.

The latter official is charged to report on the truthfulness of the claims for the property as set forth in the prospectus.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Providence, R. I., March 17.—Damage of thousands of dollars has been done during the past few weeks to fruit trees, particularly to apple trees in Rhode Island, by field mice, and rabbits, according to officials of the State Board of Agriculture.

Field mice and rabbits, deprived of their usual food by the thick layer of snow on the ground, have stripped the bark from thousands of trees for a distance of from a foot to two feet above the ground. Orchardists declare that so badly are most of the trees girdled, it will be impossible to save them.

It is estimated that nearly 25 per cent of the apple trees of the state are affected.

STATE CONTROL OF LIQUOR TRAFFIC

Jamaica Government Introduce Measure in House to Control Liquor Business.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Kingston, Ja., March 17.—The Government formally introduced legislation today that state control of the liquor traffic. The measure will be opposed on the ground that it is unnecessary. The Governor of Jamaica, Sir Leslie Prebyn, in his address at the opening of the legislative council today, submitted a proposal to reduce by fifty per cent the duty on cotton and woolen produced in the British Empire on entering Jamaica. This would have the effect of diverting trade from the United States to the United Kingdom.

It is proposed also to impose a tax on sugar exported from the colony and to establish a cement factory to augment the revenue of the government.

A loan of $15,000,000 is to be floated for carrying out works of improvements.

BRITISH SHIP RAN UPON ROCKS AND SOON SANK

British Steamer Tewkesbury Met With Disaster Off Newfoundland Coast.

CREW IMMEDIATELY TOOK TO THE BOATS

Cliffs Precipitous and Boats Have Little Chance of Landing Safely.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Halifax, N. S., March 17.—The British steamer Tewkesbury piled up in St. Marys Bay, Nfld., during last night and broke up immediately, the crew of approximately thirty, taking to the boats, with small chance of their rescue, owing to the precipitous cliffs which line the shore.

STEAMER BROKE UP SOON AFTER STRIKING

Halifax, N. S., March 17.—The British steamer Tewkesbury, eastward bound from Hampton Roads, went ashore at 2.30 o'clock this morning, four miles northwest of Cape Pine, Nfld., according to information reaching the Naval Department here.

Further advices stated that the ship began to break up shortly after striking and that the crew of approximately thirty men seized their one opportunity and took to the boats in an endeavor to find shelter at the base of the two hundred foot cliffs which line the Newfoundland coast at this point.

Disaster overtook the ship with such suddenness that it was impossible to render assistance, and it will be some hours, it is beleived, before help arrives at the scene.

At 2.30 a. m. the wireless operator aboard the Tewkesbury reported that the steamer was ashore and at 3.07, thirty-seven minutes later, he reported that the crew had been forced to take to the boats, in an endeavor to land at Bay Last.

The last word from the Tewkesbury, previous to her going ashore, was received at noon yesterday, when she asked for and received her position from the Directional Finding Stations at Cape Race and Canso. Her position at that hour was 46.03 north, 56.15 west, or forty-two miles south (true) of St. Pierre, Miq.

The Tewkesbury was a steamer of 2,704 tons.

Calgary Proposes to Adopt Novel Scheme to Overcome Scarcity of Houses in City and Forego Risk of Building in This Day of High Prices.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Calgary, Alta, March 17.—Because the Government housing scheme places too large a risk on the municipalities, Commissioner Samis proposed to use, if possible, any such money borrowed, for the purpose of moving houses at present beyond the range of the city utilities, into the area where the ratepayer would have every convenience, instead of extending the utilities to meet the scattered population.

The Farmers' and Dairymen's Association in Convention

Formal Opening Last Evening at Normal School Attracted a Large Audience—President Alward, Mayor Reid and Hon. J. F. Tweeddale the Speakers.

The formal opening of the New Brunswick Farmers' and Dairymen's annual convention took place last evening when, following the address of President C. F. Alward, His Worship Mayor Reid delivered an address of welcome to the delegates on behalf of the citizens of Fredericton. In the absence of Vice President J. E. DeGrace, who is ill with flu in Montreal, H. H. Smith, of Hoyt Station, the treasurer, made a reply to the address of welcome. Hon. J. F. Tweeddale, Minister of Agriculture, then gave a general report of the work of the Department of Agriculture during the year, dealing with the different departments of the agricultural activities. W. A. Walsh was then called upon for several readings and then the Agricultural motion pictures were shown.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

C. F. Alward, of Havelock, Kings County, Deals With Many Subjects of Interest.

The annual address of President C. F. Alward, of Havelock, Kings county, follows:

Another year has passed and we are again called together on this our forty-fourth General Annual Convention of the Farmers and Dairymen's Association of New Brunswick.

It is now fourteen years since I was called on to occupy this honored position as President of this General Meeting and I wish to thank the members of this Association for reposing in me such confidence. While greeting you at this annual session, let us not forget to place the emphasis on Him who has blessed and guided us through another prosperous year.

Many and varied are the problems to be solved and we must look with a good deal of patience and strong confidence to the great men who today hold in their hands the destinies and basic principles that emanate from true democracy.

We are now looking forward with a a good deal of expectancy to the time when the world will know for a surety that nations will war no more and peace and harmony will be inscribed on the banner of all countries.

We have met together again to discuss and deliberate on the best methods to be adopted in our farm work and management so that we may the better take our proper place in the onward march of progress, in the financial and commercial world. Not only should we bend our best energies to the solving of our economic problems but we should strive to raise our social standing to a position that is not only equal to the city life but will be envied by our urban population. To reach that desired end it will be necessary to take such steps as will break down that cleavage or wall of social jealousy that truly exists between the rural and urban population of our country. If our city friends are enjoying and living on a higher plane of social life, would it not be well for us to see to it that proper education of our young boys and girls in country life be given so that a more congenial disposition may be manifest between them?

Loss of Rural Population.

Have we ever stopped to think why it is that our rural population, boys and girls, young men and young women, are so strongly drawn to city life? Some may say, shorter hours, greater wage for labor, but I would say it is from the natural instinct dominating in the young mind, leading them into closer touch with the activities of social life which is so congenial to the boy or girl between the ages of 16 and 20.

We are naturally gregarious creatures and wish to be in company with each other, and the country boy looks upon the city chap as superior in social attainments because he has privileges of reaching those qualities in city life that are not so easily obtained in rural districts. What then, is to be done to check the serious depletion of our rural population for city life? We cannot look to the city folk to stem the influx of population to their towns. If we could have the privilege of reading the biographical history of the men at the head of the large commercial firms of our cities and towns, it would reveal the fact that seventy-five per cent. were reared and their characters established in the homes of rural districts and country villages, and it is natural to expect the managers of the large operations in our cities are over-anxious to get hold of the village boy that he may be educated in these establishments so that he may be able to take charge and carry on the business successfully when he (the manager) wishes to retire to private life.

If there is any one thing that is more deplorable than another to the best interest of agriculture in these provinces it is the fact that our boys and girls are leaving the farms for city life.

Canada's Loss in War.

The great loss to this country was not in the sinking of so many heavily laden vessels of foodstuffs in the ocean by the enemy in the Great War that has just ceased, but by the great sacrifice of the young manhood of about 60,000 of our Canadian boys.

The mothers, fathers, wives, brothers and sisters are now realizing as never before that they are not the united family they once were, but in nearly every home from one to three vacant chairs are found which fact brings grief and sorrow to the hearts of the remaining members of the family. These are the people who have made the greatest sacrifice.

We are told by men in high authority and at the head of our state affairs that the antidote for all our ills that follow from high cost of living can only be realized by greater production. But how can we expect an increase in farm products if the manhood of our rural districts that have played their part well overseas and have been spared to return to us, and the boys and girls reaching manhood and womanhood wend their way to the cities and find employment there. If the council boards of our cities and towns, who have the housing and labor problem on their hands would consider the suggestion of building houses in the rural districts of our country for their over-crowded population, the farmers would shoulder the responsibility of giving employment. Thus a better equilibrium would be realized between producer and consumer.

The Teachers' Salaries.

True, there has been a levelling process going on for a number of years that is beginning to be felt in our densely populated centres and rural districts. The introduction of the gas engine, telephones, automobile and motor truck all tend to elevate farm life and make it more congenial to the rising generation. The status of education in this province is becoming a serious problem, not so much that it lacks in system, but the solving of certain problems involved in that system. This problem is the question teachers' salaries. Those who are engaged in the teaching profession today are barely existing and some cannot meet living obligations. Other enterprises and other callings of occupations in the commercial world are willing to pay a better and more remunerative wage for the intellectual ability of the aspiring young man or woman seeking employment, and the result is that not only are the young shunning the profession but the older ones now engaged in the work are drawn from it.

I am candidly informed by one of the teachers in the High School in Moncton that the janitor of that school is receiving a higher salary than the principal. This ought not to be. I am not finding fault with the janitor's salary; he may be getting only the amount he deserves, but the principal of that school spent the greater part of his life to equip himself and make himself efficient for his work, while the janitor could equip himself for his position in a very short period of time.

Joseph Hirsch put the subject very clearly when he said: "We cannot expect men to remain on the farms unless the farms are profitable, nor can we expect men and women to remain in the country unless their children can obtain the educational facilities that are available to the children of the cities. The very root of the problem lies in this matter of rural education and in the development of a country life that offers not only profit but education, health and a fair measure of enjoyment. Farm sanitation, good roads, beautification of farm, the use of rural schools as community centres, all these and many other issues are involved."

Co-operation should be the conspicuous ensign on all the banners of the organized farmers. Through the great struggle and conflict of the world's greatest war the farmers did their part well. This was shown forcibly from the results obtanied through the co-operation of the Federal with the Provincial Governments in greater production of foodstuffs and the Government of this province with the farmers, should have the praise due them in the splendid results obtained.

The dairy interests in this province have not made the advancement that this country deserves. This province is well adapted to dairying. While this is a fact we cannot expect that all sections will follow that line of industry but that many localities will adhere to beef production. But we would strongly urge that every effort be made for an increased production along the line of live stock. To increase and give a stimulus in that direction let us bend our efforts towards the establishment of stock yards together with an abattoir in these Maritime Provinces. This matter should take such a concrete form in these provinces as to make it possible, when a delegation goes to the authorities at Ottawa that they will demand attention and recognition as being an important integral part of this Dominion. There will be time for discussion of this important subject when the different papers and resolutions touching these matters are brought before this Association.

The poultry interest has become of vital importance to the farmers, not only of this province but the whole Dominion. This province is measuring up well with her sister provinces in the organizing of clubs among boys and girls for the better improvement of poultry and egg production. The Government has been wise in the choice of a man placed at the head of this department who is an expert and able to so co-ordinate the forces at command that a large financial income may be realized and an aid to greater production. As this branch of agriculture is in charge of Mr. A. C. McCulloch and it has its place on the programme it will be further discussed at the proper time.

Canadian Parliament Agrees To Treaty With Bulgaria After Eloquent Speeches in House

Sir George Foster Arouses the Members by a Vigorous Appeal for Greater Unity Between the Races and the People of Canada—The Cash Bonus to Soldiers.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, March 17.—Peace with Bulgaria came at 11 o'clock last night, although only after a whole day's debate between the Opposition and the Government, and while this vital debate, which involved the status of Canada as a nation, was progressing, there was scarcely a corporal's guard of the members present to hear it. They were out in the lounge, under shelter of their own vine and fig tree, from which they had succeeded in excluding the press yesterday. Probably their part in the drama was smoking the pipe of peace. Few of them having read the treaty which they were to pass upon, their interest was only negative.

The debate was responsible for several of the best speeches heard in the House this session, notably those of Sir George Foster and Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King. The leader of the Opposition delivered what was probably the best speech he has made since he entered the House, while Sir George Foster aroused the House with the fire of his old eloquence, delivered as always in the wise and kindly manner of the elder statesmen. He brought rounds of applause as he declared that Canada was now master of her own fortunes and would remain so forever. As he so often does in these latter days, he made the occasion one for an appeal for unity between all sections in the Dominion, and in referring to the efforts to promote strife between the races and the people of Canada he said if we could put this class of utterance under our feet for one decade unity and good feeling would be advanced one hundred per cent. He was convinced that there was a substantial and deep unity in Canada from one end of the country to the other, (except at election times, interjected Ernest Lapointe), and it should be the object of all Canadians to make this ever present and permanent.

Third reading given to the bill to transfer the powers formerly vested in the Dominion Police Commissioner to the Commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Third reading was given to the bill to reduce the quantity of silver in Canadian silver coinage.

The bill to amend the annuities act was formally reported.

The Flynn proposals for $2,000 cash bonus to soldiers were introduced by H. C. Hocken, Toronto.

Prohibition

[St. Croix Courier.]

If it should come about that, on the coming first appeal to the people for satification of the prohibitory law that should meet with disaster, one great contributing factor will be that too great power was placed in incompetent hands. The act was conceived in all honesty of purpose and has proven its worth to the people of the province who endorsed it heartily at the first opportunity given them. But it was not conceived that unqualified men, unqualified by reason of prejudice and animosity towards those they had not been able to "reach" under previous laws, would be able to "orce themselves into positions where they are at one and the same time accuser, judge and jury over the work of those qualified by college training to best know when liquor is needed in the fight against sickness and disease Some of these finding themselves clothed with unusual and unexpected authority in some parts of the province, have introduced Prussian methods that can only tend toward the defeat of a commendable act of legislation when the people have another opportunity to pass upon it at the polls. And the last ones to acknowledge their responsibility for the reject of a good law will be those who for a little exploitation of their own power have jeopardized the interests of humanity about them.

Investigation made in factories at Niagara Falls have convinced officials of the Public Health Service that more than two hundred million tiny particles of dust(as sharp as ground glass, are breathed into the lungs and air passages with every cubic foot of air in some of the factories in the United States. Such dust breathed into the lungs never are expelled. Photomicrographs show the tiny particles to be exceedingly sharp and jagged, and chemical tests prove them to be practically insoluble. A remedy has been devised.

APPOINTED WHIP FARMER PARTY

L. Thompson, Son-in-Law of Late Senator Perley, Gets the Position.

Referring to the appointment of Levi Thompson, M. P. for Qu'Appelle, to the position of whip for the Farmers, Lucian, in the Vancouver Province, says:

The late Senator Dell Perley, who with his sons farmed some 5,000 acres of land at Wolseley, Saskatchewan, was Mr. Thompson's father-in-law. It was perhaps thirteen years ago that I was last on this farm. When the Senator told me in confidence that his son was the best farmer in the province with one exception, whom modesty forebade him to name, he also remarked that his son-in-law was one of the best men in the whole country, having only one serious fault: he was a Liberal. There was no more confirmed Conservative in Canada than Senator Perley. In his case family affection and personal regard had been opposed to political loyalty, but in two election compaigns he had energetically opposed his daughter's husband on the stump. Yet he knew that Levi would be a worthy representative if ever he reached parliament.

Senator Perley died in 1909 and his son-in-law was elected for the first time two years later. Before his appointment to the Senate, Mr. Perley had represented in the House of Commons about half the present province of Saskatchewan. A native of New Brunswick, he married and established himself on a good farm in that province and worked the place for more than twenty years. Incidentally he twice contested the county of Sunbury for the Commons against the late Charles Burpee, and came within forty-and seventy votes of election.

SEES DECADENCE IN MEN OF AMERICA

Dr. W. J. Hickson, the Noted Chicago Psychopathologist, Gives Warning to Public.

Chicago, March 15.—Dr. William J. Hickson, head of Chicago's psychopathetic laboratory and internationally renowned as a psychopatholigist, says we'll all be "sissies" by and by. The war started it and prohibition is finishing it.

"The war," exulained Dr. Hickson, "brought women to the front. They were practically the backbone of the war hysteria. It was the women who yelled loudest for killing. They served on committees in uniforms. They took up smoking and fell into masculine ways psychologically.

"The result today is that women aim to put upon man the same restrictions under which women has been functioning for a century.

"Prohibition is typical of the modern Puritan mania. The church movements are also typical. They, with prohibition with so-called high standard of morality, result in a deterioration of masculine physical and mental virility, a falling off of creative ability, of the birth rate—the latter already noticeable.

"American pep, which was the result of a masculine-dominated country, will soon be a thing of the past. With the collapse of the male ascendancy in this country we caan look forward to a nation in degeneration. We are receiving in our laboratory more and more male degenerates. This is always a running mate with Puritanism.

"The suppression of sex in America will ultimately have its harvest in decadence—a phenomenon already beginning. The male today is inferior in most respects to the female."

Premier Foster Calls On Supporters to Vote Down Stumpage Amendment

Calls it a Motion of Want of Confidence and Promises Government Will Increase Stumpage, But Doesn't Say How Much---Net Annual Cost of Valley Railway to Province This Year Over $250,000- -Blames People for Overexpenditure of $327,000 Last Year.

The expected happened in the Legislature yesterday afternoon when Premier Foster called upon his supporters to vote down the amendment to the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne as a motion of want of confidence in his Government.

The amendment as moved by the Leader of the Opposition calls for an increase in the stumpage from $3 and $3.50 per thousand to $7 per thousand as a means of providing increased revenue in view of the $327,000 deficit on the ordinary revenue account of the last year.

Declaring to his supporters that the passage of the amendment meant the defeat of the Government and that the Lieutenant Governor would have to summons the Leader of the Opposition to form a new administration, the Premier rallied his supporters with the direct promise as forecasted, that the Government would increase the stumpage rates when the present period expires on August 1st next.

The stumpage question was the last subject dealt with by Hon. Mr. Foster in a speech of slightly more than two hours' duration, which it was evident had been carefully prepared and which he delivered more fluently than any of his speeches made last session at least. He claimed it to be the prerogative of the Government to fix the stumpage rates and it was evident that that was the climax which he was leading up to throughout his long speech, as he made no mention of the water powers legislation, the Carleton County bye-election or several other equally interesting and important subjects.

Promise of Increase Made.

He charged the Opposition with playing at politics with the province's richest asset and claimed the insincerity of the Opposition party in the matter of stumpage was shown by their record while in power when in 1914 they had placed the stumpage rate at $1.50 per thousand feet for a period of ten years, only to find it necessary that the order be revoked following the finding of the Royal Commission who investigated charges in connection with the Crown Lands.

Since assuming office, he said, the present administration had advanced the stumpage 130 per cent over the figures at which it had been placed by the old administration and declared the Government would continue it at the present rates of $3 and $3.50 per thousand feet until August 1st, 1920, when renewals would be made. "If conditions are the same then as they are now, there will be an increase made in the rates at that time," declared the Premier, "but our hon. friends opposite are not going to fix the rates. This Government will do that and do it at the proper time."

A considerable portion of the Premier's speech was taken up with explanations of the Government's position in respect to the St. John Valley Railway in which he labored to "pass the buck" to the Opposition for responsibility for the failure of the railway to be built as originally intended from Grand Falls to St. John. In the matter of operation of the railway he gave estimates showing $250,164 as the net interest and other charges to be met by the province of New Brunswick on the operation of the railway this year and asked for information from the Opposition leader as to whether or not when the former Government was in power there had been an agreement that the Dominion Government should take over the railway entire from the province when completed, instead of operating it on the 99-years' lease as part of the Government railway system.

Hon. Mr. Murray said that in view of the extended remarks of the Premier he would make his reply at a later juncture.

"The best piece of financing ever done in the Dominion of Canada by any provincial, municipal or other government," was what the Premier called the redemption of Valley Railway stock in London by which he claimed some $684,935 had been saved.

"Was it through circumstances or the shrewdness of the Government, Mr. Potts, of St. John city, asked.

"I would say both," replied the Premier, who went on to say that the opportunity offered and the Government was sufficiently wide awake to take advantage of it.

"I have no apologies or excuses to enter because they are not necessary," said the Premier in referring to the deficit of $327,000 as shown on the ordinary revenue acount for the last year. "The people wanted the money spent, and when they want it spent I am going to see that it it spent. I am not going to place the blame on the Minister of Public Works, the Minister of Lands and Mines or anybody else. I don't figure there should be any blame attach to anybody, because the money went to the services for which it was intended. It was economy to over-expend to build the kind of roads that have been built, to conserve our crown lands and to rebuild the bridges which had to have attention."

There were some persons in the province who gave every evidence of not wanting economy in provincial affairs, at least that might be judged from the demands of delegations which appeared before the provincial executive from time to time. In one evening the aggregate demands were $100,000. Someone had commented to him that there was much ceremony at the opening of the Legislature. It was true that there was a certain amount of ceremonial. He believed that ancient customs should be preserved. There were too many fads and fancies. It would be much better to adhere to old customs and ceremonials and have fewer fads. If such were generally followed this old world would sooner return to its normal condition.

The Premier then quoted returns of deficits of Alberta, British Columbia, Manitoba and other provinces to show that New Brunswick was not alone in having deficits. Moreover, he said he had heard from a seat in the gallery the budget speech delivered by the then Provincial Secretary of New Brunswick in 1912 and a deficit was admitted at that time, but it was said that it would be repaid the next year.

Continuing, Hon. Mr. Foster said the policy of his Government was to keep the ordinary expenditures within ordinary revenue, and over a period of three years, exclusive of Valley Railway interest, he believed this could be done. "If we canont do it," he said, "then it will be time to give way to somebody else." But, he expressed the hope, it would not be to allow a return of the party now in opposition.

The Farmers' Organization.

Dealing with charges that the present Government were the most corrupt regime in the history of New Brunswick the Premier challenged the opposition to make any charges they might have on the floors of the House, and then he read a typewritten statement of charges which had been made against the old Government with his deduction of the outcome of the various matters. This he foloiwed up with a certificate of good character, ability and energy for each member of his cabinet.

Regarding the farmers' organization, he said he was not worrying. "I will commence to worry when some of the good farmers about me here get restless," said the Premier as he turned around to catch a glimpse of a real farmer in the rows of Government suporters—there are not many actual farmers in the Government's "back benches."

After referring to the Workmen's Compensation Act, the Public Health Act, the Audit Act, increasing the stumpage from $1.50 to $3.50 per thousand feet and a number of other things on a long typewritten list as achievements of the present Government the Premier twitted the Opposition about the recent convention of the party at St. John. Their ship of state, he said, had gone on the rocks and it was not natural that the Seamen's Institute at St. John should be the place at which repairs be undertaken. He twitted those of the Opposition who sought the leadership, but waited for the call and when he referred to the demands of Mr. Potts of St. John City for a "one language platform" he brought forth the applause of the Government's French supporters.

The Stumpage Rates.

Thus the Premier red up to the stumpage question after a long wait which made it seem at times as though he was not going to touch upon that subject until a future time. The amendment to the Address, he said, had been resorted to by the Leader of the Opposition at the juncture which had been taken advantage of because he believed he could get the united support of his party behind the amendment and thus make it appear to the electors as if there was unity once more.

Regarding the stumpage question the Premier produced a bunch of correspondence which he did not read, but which he said was the evidence of investigations he had previously made in 1918 to check up the recommendations of the Minister of Lands & Mines on the situation of the lumber industry. He also said that in the matter of stumpage there was not sufficient recognition of the additional charges such as mileage and bonus charges, wild lands and fire protection taxes. The stories of large sums being paid for stumpage on privately-owned lands were largely in cases where portable mills were brought in on the property and thus the expenses of getting out lumber from Crown lands located at long distances from the mills were largely eliminated and conditions were altogether different.

Mr. Smith, of Carleton, moved the adjournment of the debate at the conclusion of the Premier's speech and the Leader of the Opposition was assured that the same privilege as had been extended the Premier would be extended to all other speakers in the debate and they would not be confined to the subject matter of the amendment only.

Dr. Campbell, of St. John city, Mr. Smith, of Charlotte, and one or two other members were in the House for the first time this session, but there were still several absentees, including ex-Attorney General Baxter, Dr. Taylor of Charlotte, and, of course, ex-Speaker Currie, the last named of whom, it seems to be taken for granted, will not be present this session at all.

Animals found on the eastern side of Sumatra differ entirely from those found on the western side.

The Doors Are Opened For Oratorical Flood

Experienced parliamentarians in the Legislature agree that under a previous ruling after an amendment to the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne has been moved, speakers must confine their remarks to the subject matter of the amendment until such time as it has been finally disposed of.

The speech which Premier Foster made yesterday was, therefore, strictly out of order under the rules of procedure of the House and might have been halted at any time had any member of the Legislature desired to call for a ruling from Mr. Speaker. However, the Premier was allowed to proceed without a protest and at the conclusion of his contribution of two hours to the debate it was agreed that others would be accorded the same privilege.

Thus the door has been opened and there is now no telling when the debate will end. Mr. Smith, of Carleton, is to be the first speaker this afternoon, and there is some doubt as to whether the debate will even be finished this week.

A. E. Trites Defends The Farmers as the Backbone Of the Entire Country

Says They Are Honest and Ought to Be Able to Set Prices as Well as Other Producers—Regrets Lack of Representation in Federal Government.

Tuesday afternoon's session of the New Brunswick Farmers and Dairymen's Association meeting was featured by addresses by A. E. Trites, of Salisbury, president of the Farmers' Co-operative Creamery, of Moncton, and H. W. Coleman, of Sussex, dairy superintendent, on Dairying and Co-operative Creameries. James Bremner, agricultural representative, also gave a talk on Bulbs, Their Care and Keep," which was followed by an address in French by J. A. Ste. Marie, Assistant Animal Husbandman, of the Federal Agricultural Department, Ottawa.

Referring to the creamry established in Moncton in 1918, Mr. Trites said that the company had gone ahead in selling its stock and other arrangements but had made no preparation for its own future and at the present time they were facing this difficulty.

In 1918 the creamery had produced 90,000 pounds of butter and in 1919 the output of butter had been over 300,200 pounds. Ninety per cent. of this was shipped abroad and in this way the home market for farmers' butter was helped along. The company at present was in difficulties concerning an adequate cold storage plant but the need of this was being met promptly and the contract had already been awarded.

In contrasting the results of the creamery business the speaker stated that all returns were monthly. To get returns from any other line, especially the beef raising the farmer would have to wait for several years before any payment from raising cattle was at hand.

The speaker went on to say that creameries would have an unlimited market in the Old Country where, especially in England, the food restrictions allowed only one ounce of butter for each person a week.

Bonus for Sweet Cream.

Many difficulties had to be overcome in the creamery business and one of these was the handling of the business in the hot weather. One means of conquering this was the cold storage plant. In St. John it was found that June butter put into a cold storage plant and taken out in September was as good in quality as September butter so it was subject to no harm in the plant. In Moncton the management of the creamery were offering a bonus for sweet cream during the hot summer months and this step, the speaker stated, was bound to be producing a better grade of butter. Too much of the cream came to the factory in the sour state and this was stopped by the competition for the bonus, making farmers more careful of the way in which they handled the cream.

The cheese business also was advancing rapidly, as well as the butter making. In 1919 an increase of 254,932 pounds of cheese valued at $207,204 was noted over the production of 1918.

Defends the Farmers.

Mr. Trites said that today the farmers were considerably in the limelight, being the subject of much discussion at the present time. Some papers upheld them while others looked upon them as profiteers. He himself, he stated, had helped them, because he thought the farmer ought to be able to set his own price on goods as well as any other producer.

"Farmers as a class of people," the speaker stated, "are the backbone of the country. They are as honest and more so than any other producers. We are not getting a square deal, we farmers of the Maritime Provinces, as we have no representative in the Dominion Government.

"We have been agitating for a cold storage plant for some time, but have no faith in any delegations going to Ottawa from the Maritime Provinces and getting a square deal there. We want to wake up and obtain legislation and do things."

Referring to the use of margarine the speaker stated that he thought, now that the war was over, this article ought to be put away.

H. W. Coleman's Address.

H. W. Coleman, dairy superintendent of New Brnuswick, stated that an increase of $83,467.97 in the value of the production of cheese in New Brunswick in 1919 over 1918 had been noted.

The speaker stated that the outlook, as far as the demand for daairy products is concerned, was never brighter than at present. Dairying was rapidly advancing as an industry and the output of the 17 creameries last year was more than equal to the output of the 42 creamiers in 1905. The cause of the decline in the number of cheese factories during the last fifteen years was because of the fact that they had failed to measure up to the exacting market demands of today. Mr. Coleman said that he thought it would be in the best interests of the dairying industry if the number of creameries was reduced and those left centralized into co-operative ones.

In the western provinces better butter was being produced through the co-operative centralized creameries, farmers of New Brunswick would centralize their creameries into one large

A Provincial Contribution to the U. N. B. Memorial Hall Suggested

A Delegation From the Alumni Will Meet the Government

BUILDING WILL COST $75,000

Graduates of U.N.B. Have Already Contributed to Fund Generously.

A delegation from the alumni of the University of New Brunswick will meet the Provincial Government on Thursday evening and urge a grant towards the fund for the erection of a memorial building in honor of all those related to the provincial university who have taken part in the war and especially to provide, in this way, a permanent memorial of those who have given their lives in the great conflict.

In a letter which was sent out some time ago in which the plans of the committee in charge of the project were set forth by Dr. C. C. Jones, the chancellor, it was said:

"It has been decided that a new building at the University will constitute the most fitting memorial, and further that the purpose of the building as a memorial will be enhanced rather than otherwise, by providing some needed accommodation for certain departments of the University.

"The building is to contain a central audience hall of a distinctive memorial character. It is planned that the hall shall contain suitable tablets to the memory of the thirty-three men killed in action as well as a roll inscribed with the names of all the men who have served in the war. In addition to the central hall, there is to be a wing to contain lecture rooms and laboratories for physics and chemistry. The building as planned will add much to the efficiency of the University.

"The cost of the proposed building will be at least $75,000."

Graduates and friends of the University have already contributed generously to the fund.

Government Expect Revenue Of $200,000 From Automobiles

Hon. P. J. Veniot Tells the Farmers and Dairymen That Tax on Autos Will Amount to About Three Times the Sum Collected from Farmers in Road Taxes.

This morning's session of the New Brunswick Farmers and Dairymen's Association began at 9 o'clock with the President, C. F. Alward, in the chair.

The first speaker on the programme was G. K. Wilson, of Moncton, but owing to his absence through illness, a paper on marketing of eggs and fowls was read by M. A. McLeod, of Sussex.

Following this Hon. P. J. Veniot, Minister of Public Works, gave an address on the roads of the province, stating that the more automobiles in use the better the roads would be. J. D. McKenna, secretary of the Agricultural Societies United, of New Brunswick, gave an address on Co-operative Buying. He was followed by a western farmer, a visitor to the convention, J. M. Pratt, of Winnipeg, who gave some facts in connection with the wheat growing industry of the west.

Hon. P. J. Veniot, Minister of Public Works, in his address on Roads, stated that politics had figured too much in this question. The political end of the road business should be let strictly alone. The Minister stated that the number of automobiles was increasing and that the revenue expected this year was likely to be over $200,000, which would be about three times the amount of money paid by the farmers in road taxes. This money, he stated, was used in providing the farmer with proper roads to the market.

"The more automobiles in the province of New Brunswick, the better our roads," the Minister stated. He asked the farmers not to hesitate over getting in touch with the Public Works Department in case of necessity. He stated he was not in favor of statute labor for New Brunswick at this later day but said that the matter should receive due consideration by the farmers in convention.

Regarding future work he stated that in every road district a meeting would be held every third Monday in April to settle on the road policy for the ensuing year. He stated that the question of winter roads was the hardest problem to consider. He would welcome a farmers' government to power as they would then get the knocking instead of himself. He then addressed a few words in French to his French compatriots which were well received.

Co-operative Buying.

J. D. McKenna, of Sussex, secretary of the Agricultural Societies United, followed with an address on co operative buying.

The speaker stated that the object of the agricultural society in such a step was to lower the price of articles of agricultural use so that they would be within reach of the pockets of the farmers. He explained how in the handling of unmixed fertilizers the agricultural societies could effect a large saving by co-operative buying.

Feeds, the speaker stated, were very scarce in Canada today. The mills had been closed down because of the embargo placed on the United States ports, and something had to be done to straighten out the situation. He urged the farmers to get their necessary supplies through the Agricultural Societies United, stating that much could be saved by them.

Referring to the speakers last evening Mr. McKenna stated that he agreed with them in their remarks that there should be no East and West as far as conditions were concerned, but as far as the East was concerned he was with it heart and soul in its struggles.

Referring to the demand for the dairy schoo lat Truro the speaker stated that the matter ought to be backed up by this province. The matter of an abbatoir should also be brought before the Dominion Government as well as the promotion of a Maritime dairy school.

Mr. McKenna put forward a strong plea for co-operation on the part of the farmers which would put New Brunswick on the map.

H. H. Smith, of Hoyt Station, then introduced to the assembly J. M. Pratt, of Winnipeg, a farmer of western Canada visiting the convention, who gave a short address on the western wheat question. The speaker stated that when the price of wheat was fixed in the West it was reduced from a maximum price of $3.05 a bushel to $2.21. The past year a wheat board handled the price of wheat. The board consisted of three farmer representatives, four grain men and four millers, and it was given the right to fix a minimum price per bushel on wheat. It put the price at $2.15 a bushel, while the United States price was $2.26, later raising to $3.40. The result was that Canadian farmers sold across the boundary line to their American brothers, clearing the difference between the two prices as well as the exchange. Men back some distance from the boundary line were not satisfied, and as a consequence all the influence that could be brought to bear on the wheat board was forced and the wheat board brought the price to the miller up to $2.80.

THE TRANSFER OF TIMBER LANDS

defined report that the International Paper Company's recent acquisition, through another subsidiary, of the Aroostook Pulp & Paper Company's plant at Keegan, Me., is really likely mixed up with another phase of the Grand Falls development. It is said that the suggestion has already been semi-officially made at least that the international interests would like assurance that they will be permitted to use the required power from Grand Falls for this plant, which is located in the State of Maine. It is unlikely, however, that permission will be given for the development of industries in the United States with power from New Brunswick.

New Mill on Upper St. John.

Announcement of a new industry which will be of much importance on the upper St. John river was made today by Mayor J. E. Michaud, M. L. A. for Madawaska, who said that the Notre Dame Lumber Company, Ltd., of which J. M. Stevens, of Edmundston, is secretary and in which Hon. W. W. Thomas is interested, are to build a saw mill for the manufacture of long lumber on the old Crocket mill site at Kennedy Island, near Clair and St. Francis. It is some twelve or fourteen years since there was a mill there and the new plant will take care of a large portion of the lumber cut on the Canadian side of the upper St. John river in both New Brunswick and Quebec. The company will ask the Legislature for the privilege of placing piers and booms in the St. John river in a bill which will soon be introduced.

There have been no further announcements made as to the intentions of the interests allied with the Howard Smith Paper Mills in respect to their plans for the resuscitation of the two pulp mills on the Miramichi, which they have recently acquired.

THE GIBSON BRANCH TRAINS ICE-BOUND

Unable to Get Further Than Millville Yesterday but Track Clear Now.

Passengers from Woodstock for this city and Devon who had bought tickets via the Gibson branch yesterday were compelled to come here via McAdam Junction, as the Gibson branch train was unable to make the trip on account of the tracks being covered with ice.

During yesterday afternoon and last night a crew of men were at work and cleared the tracks and this morning the Gibson branch was clear and the Woodstock train left as usual. The train from Otis was cancelled today.

The Minto line is all clear again and trains are running on schedule time today.

On the C. N. R. the tracks in some places are covered with water, but if the weather does not turn colder the operation of trains will not be interrupted. The upper and lower sections of the Valley line are in service today, although the trains are reported very late.

FOUND GUILTY OF ATTEMPTED MURDER

Father and Mother of Returned Soldier Give Evidence of His Mind Being Affected.

Montreal, March 17.—Before the King's Bench yesterday, Fridolin Leclerc, returned soldier, was found guilty of the attempted murder of Anna Lesperance. The verdict was accompanied by a strong recommendation to mercy. The father and mother of the accused, who persisted in repeating that he still loved the girl and never meant to kill her, stated in the box that their son was sound in body and mind before going to the front, but showed a great change after demobilization and that he would get up at night, pace his room and talk of love for the girl, becoming nervous, taciturn and half deaf.

Sentence will be given at the conclusion of the sessions.

Lt. Col. Guthrie Here.

Lt. Col. P. A. Guthrie, now a resident of Boston, Mass., arrived in Fredericton last night on his first visit here for some months. McKnight, a U.N.B. graduate, who is well known here and is president of the Massachusetts State Senate. He is being warmly welcomed by many friends.

M. Elder's resignation as assistant Professor of Surgery on account of a German being apointed to the position of Professor of Pathology. There was great indignation and the language at times became so strong that the presiding officer was compelled to request several of the members to restrain themselves.

Chancellor Kapp Officially Declared to Have Resigned At Berlin This Afternoon

The New Regime Failed to Obtain Adherents Except at Capital and in East Germany, the Old Prussian Reactionaries Alone Offering Support.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Berlin, March 17.—It is officially announced that Chancellor Kapp at one o'clock this afternoon decided to resign.

Ebert Full of Confidence.

Copenhagen, March 17.—President Ebert, head of the German government, driven from Berlin last Saturday morning, stands firm in his determination not to have any relations with the new regime at the capital, says a short telegram received here from Stuttgart. The telegram says that in the course of an interview President Ebert declared:—

"I am in complete accord with the imperial government. We have not so far deviated from the declarations we made on Friday night, as to reply to the insurgents' ultimatum. There can be no question of an understanding with the perjured enemies of the German constitution."

President Ebert is quoted as asserting matters were shaping themselves in favor of his government.

"Wurttemburg adheres firmly to us," he is said to have declared, "and Baden, Bavaria, Hesse and Saxony, as well as the whole of northwest Germany, also take their stand on the imperial constitution and loyally adhere to us. Only in provinces east of the Elbe have the insurgents so far found any following, but this following is being recruited from the old Prussian reactionaries. Great indignation over the situation prevails in south Germany."

On Point of Collapse.

A telegram received here from Hamburg quotes the following from Stuttgart:

"Dr. Kapp's regime is on the point of collapse. Its influence now extends only to the Berlin and east Germany. Dr. Kapp is trying, by promises, to entice independant socialists to his side. Reports of negotiations between the Kappists and the constitutionalists are false. Regular army in west and South Germany and in Saxony loyal. Members of the national assembly must come to Stuttgart as quickly as possible.

"IMPERIAL MINISTER KOCH."

Review of Situation.

The Kapp administration at Berlin, realizing the futility of attempting to hold the reins of power, has decided to give up its short-lived dictatorship. At 1 o'clock this morning Chancellor Kapp decided to resign according to official advices from the German capital

Expressions of confidence in the speedy restoration of the Ebert government to complete control came from the headquarters of the government in Stuttgart. Minister of Defence Noske is quoted as declaring he expects with the aid of his troops to secure the return of normal conditions in six or eight days.

Meanwhile, however, the forces of extreme radicalism are asserting themselves in various German centres. There are increasing Spartacan disorders and growing talk among the radicals of the possibility of utilizing the present disturbed conditions to establish soviet rule.

The list of killed reported from numerous German towns and cities in clashes between demonstrators and troops is mounting into the hundreds.

There has been no direct confirmation of Tuesday night's reports of four hundred killed in a bombardment of Kiel by a warship, but there are apparently veracious reports of 100 killed in Berlin suburbs and the killing of from a half dozen to a score of persons in others of the 24 or more German centres where clashes have been reported.

LATEST

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Otawa, March 17.—Latest information reaching Ottawa as to the state of health of Sir Robert Borden is to the effect that the Premier is rapidly regaining his former health and that his recovery is being maintained. It is stated that he will likely be in Ottawa about May 1. As the session is expected to continue for a couple of weeks after that date, the expectations are that the Premier will be in his place in the commons chamber before prorogation.

Winnipeg, March 17.—Winnipeg is still isolated from the west today, although conditions are improving gradually. With clearing weather hopes are held out by the telegraph companies for establishing curtailed wire service late today. Saskatchewan and Alberta newspapers are still being supplied with news from Vancouver.

THE FRANCHISE BILL.

As described by Hon. Mr. Guthrie, who introduced the new federal franchise bill in the House of Commons, the measure is simple and uncontentious, and should have an easy road ahead of it. The qualifications for the voter are that he, or she, must be of legal age, a British subject, resident for a year in Canada and for two months in the constituency in which he is to vote. Democracy, which asks for much these days, could not well ask for more. The plan for the preparation of the lists of voters is about as simple as the conditions will permit, points out an exchange. The laws of the provinces are not uniform, either as to the qualifications of voters or the method of registration or preparation of lists. Provincial lists, where they exist or are not out of date, will, however, be taken as a basis for those for parliamentary elections. Where they do not exist or are over a year old, a new registration will be made. There will be revision of the lists made under the provincial laws previous to a parliamentary election. In cities, towns and incorporated villages this will be by personal registration; in rural municipalities there will be enumeration by officials in each polling district. It is intended, as far as practicable, to put the preparation and revision of the voters' lists in the hands of judges. Against all this there is no good ground for objection. The process will be somewhat costly, and it will put on many individuals the obligation of personally seeing that they are registered. Practically the order is the same as prevails in the United Kingdom, and also in the United States, and in some degree in Canada.

The provisions in regard to the holding of elections introduce some new features. The Clerk of the Crown in Chancery, who has hitherto had charge of the issue and receipt of the writs and of the election returns, is to cease to function, and the duties he has discharged are to be entrusted to a permanent official who will be known as the chief electoral officer. Then there is to be provision for holding polls in advance of the regular day wherein railway men, sailors and other classes whose employment takes them from home during ordinary voting hours may cast their ballots. This is proper enough and should not give occasion for abuse. There may be a question of the need of the wisdom of extending the time between nomination and polling day from one to two weeks; but that is a slight matter. Altogether what some thought would be a cause of contention should cause nothing but a businesslike discussion of the details. Mr. Guthrie said the intention of the legislation was to bring uniformity in voting throughout the country and to promote safety and simplicity, and that it was founded on principles of equality and justice; and he had fair reason for the claim.

THE CANADIAN RAILWAYS

The speech of Mr. Beatty, the president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, at the annual dinner at Toronto, was for the railway family rather than for the general public. One section of the address, however, will appeal to the general public, and rightly, remarks the Montreal Gazette. Some of the troubles that, through legislation and otherwise, have come to the railways of the continent were due to the railway managements. There was a time in the 60's and 70's of last century when gangs of financial pirates controlled the chief railways of the United States and their doings created a public sentiment that affected the properties they abused as well as themselves. Even after the investor won some of the control that was his due, there were rate wars and destructive contests that made the public think competitive fares should fix the standard of railways' regular remuneration; and this thought bore fruit in railway commissioners, regulations and curtailed liberty of action by operators. Then there was and yet is hostility between lines that sought business in the same territory, and even when they were not competitors and could afford to be friends. It is to be said for the Canadian Pacific that it is the greatest example on the continent of a railway which from the start has been operated in the interest of the property, its proprietors, the public it serves, and, it may be added with truth, the country. The reward of the policy has been great. Mr. Beatty's latest Toronto utterances indicate that under his presidency it is to be continued. The road has always had competitors. The recent great change in the Canadian railway world, while it will tend to increase the competition, reduces the competitors to one. The Government will have under its control an extensive system, that will become greater still. Mr. Beatty declared that no one in Canada has more reason to hope for its success than he. His reasons were, first, that the success of the Government roads would mean relief for the Canadian taxpayers, of which the Canadian Pacific Railway is the chief, and secondly, because the factors which contribute to the success of the Government system will operate to ensure the further and continued success of the Canadian Pacific. It takes clear judgment to recognize the greater factors in such a situation, and, perhaps, some courage to declare the lesson they convey. The statement of the case does not mean that success will come easy to the Government roads. Success never comes easy in the operation of railways. The older system will not abate any of its enterprise, and unless the Government through its agencies does as well or better, it will have no chance of repeating the experience that made the Canadian Pacific what it is. Meantime, there is assurance that the competition will be fair as well as active. Mr. Beatty is showing that he has the breadth necessary in a man who holds his office.

THE BERLIN REVOLUTION.

The revolutionary movement of which Berlin is the centre may be a simpler affair than first reports suggested. The men who assumed control after the flight of the Kaiser suffered from weaknesses common to revolutionaries, and did not always distinguish between their own and the national interests. They had an easy success, and even if they represented the mass of the people they had not time to establish the fact. That they were so easily upset suggests weakness. It is not sure yet that the rest of the country approves of what was done in Berlin, and the newest Government may have to go, like its predecessor, and before long. Von Kapp and von Luettwitz, the chiefs of the organization, say theirs is a progressive measure of patriotic Germans of all parties, with a view to re-establishing law, order, discipline and honest government, and that it is a purely internal affair, and only concerns the German people. This may be, remarks an exchange. There are many conditions in Germany which must make the staid part of the community wish for the order that was maintained under the Empire. Chancellor Kapp says one of the new Government's tasks will be to carry out the peace treaty, while preserving the honor of the German people, as nearly as the execution of the treaty is possible, and does not mean self-destruction. This may mean little or much, as the support of the new men receive may be encouraging or otherwise. The meeting of Marshal Foch with the representatives of the British and United States armies of occupation in western Germany will have its meaning in the connection.

Those who have followed the career of the present Provincial Government were not at all surprised at the position taken by Premier Foster yesterday in regard to the amendment to the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, which called for an increase in the stumpage rates to figures more in accord with lumber values and charges made by owners of private timber lands. The lumber interests have evidently not lost their control of the Foster Government. The position of Mr. Magee, of Westmorland, the Government party's chief whip, has been made all the more embarrassing, however, by the Premier's speech.

FOURTEEN GIRLS LOOK FOR HUSBANDS

St. John, March 17.—The Matagama brought a large party of British women immigrants under the charge of the conductress, Miss Biden. Only two of the party stopped off at St. John and enjoyed the hospitality of the Welcome Hostel in Britain street. These two, as well as the rest of the party, were ex-service women. They leave this morning for Nova Scotia, where they intend to take up fruit growing. The larger number went through to Ontario to train as nurses. Altogether forty, who went on to Ontario, intend training as nurses. Thirty-six went through to Montreal and places further west to assured positions.

Fourteen had come to Canada to be married and thirty-four were rejoining relatives in this country. Those who were coming to Canada as household workers included sixteen who went to the hostel in Winnipeg. All of the party were greatly pleased with their cheery welcome from the port workers in St. John.

PERSONAL.

Chief Inspector W. D. Wilson left this morning for St. John on departmental business.

W. M. Ryan, of the D. S. C. R., St. John, is in the city, a guest at the Barker House. Mr. Ryan went overseas with the 2nd D. A. C., from this city and has many friends here.

THE DISPUTE OVER FREIGHT PAYMENTS

Ry. Commission Hears Arguments on Prepayment of Freight to U. S. Points.

Ottawa, March 16.—No adjustment of the difference between Canadian shippers and Canadian railways over the regulation of the latter instructing their agents to refuse prepayment of freight consigned to points in the United States was reached at the hearing before the Railway Commission this afternoon. After representatives of Boards of Trade and manufacturers as well as the railways had put forward a number of arguments in support of their case, the hearing was adjourned until tomorrow morning.

Chief Commissioner Carvel intimated that he did not think the railways could be compelled to accept payment in Canada, unless they saw fit, and also that he knew of no good reason why they should be compelled to suffer loss owing to unfavorable exchange conditions.

Commissioner Boyce advanced the view that it was unfair for a Canadian shipper to pay New York exchange if the haul was largely over Canadian railways. The railways thought it inadvisable to try and institute any change in collecting the international freight tariffs as suggested by some of the shippers.

He called his typist to his office.

"Miss Keytap, you dress neatly and you have a well-modulated voice. I might add that your deportment is also above reproach."

"Thank you very much, sir. But I don't think you should pay me such compliments," answered the blushing girl.

"That's all right," said he, "I was just leading up to the point of telling you that you don't seem to know a comma from a colon, and your spelling is simply rotten."

Willie Answered.

A doctor who was superintendent of the Sunday school in a small village asked one of the boys this question:

"Willie, will you tell me what we must do in order to get to heaven?"

Said Willie, "We must die."

"Very true," replied the doctor; "but tell me what we must do before we die."

"We must get sick," said Willie, "and send for you."

The Main Thing.

"My poor man," said the sympathetic prison visitor, "do let me send you some cake."

"Thank you, mum. Dat would suit me fine."

"What kind would you prefer?"

"Any kind, mum," said the prisoner, lowering his voice to a whisper, "just so it's got a file in it."

And he is growing old, not in the sense that the years are pressing heavily upon him—but in the sense that his vital forces are wasting away faster than Nature replaces the worn out tissues.

Thousands—yes, million—of people find themselves in this condition early in life. And there is no excuse for it. You can check that tendency to grow old. You can carry your youth with its joys and enthusiasm into your 70's and 80's. But you must give Nature all the help you can. FROM THE PEOPLE

THIS BOY OF EIGHTEEN ANALYZES LOVE.

To the Editor of the Gleaner,

Sir,—I am young, but think occasionally, and I've heard so much about love that I'm doubtful. Doubting, I would like to ask the following question: Is love the greatest thing in the world?

Personally, I don't think so. We are put on this earth to better it, to develop it, to accomplish some good which will benefit all humanity and put the world a little nearer the goal which man is striving for (but will never attain)—perfection. There are thousands of men and women who love each other, yet who are not doing much for civilization. You can put two lovers on a desert isle and they can live "happily ever after," but what good are they to the world?

What Thomas Edison has done for humanity is far greater than any love which he could have had. Love makes life bearable and pleasant, but it is rather selfish when we consider the community as a whole. When you die, friend reader, the world will forget that you loved "Anna" or "Jim," but it will remember what you accomplished for the common good. I maintain that two persons may live in almost supreme happiness, but still may not be doing the duty assigned to them.

However, I guess some day I too will join the army of lovers, and I'm not so sure that I'll think then as I do now.

Yours,
A BOY OF 18.
Newcastle, N. B., March 15th, 1920.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Is it "undying love" or what is it that makes a young man of 20 keep in his mind the face of a childhood sweetheart to the exclusion of all others? I am earning good money at a trade, and through social gatherings have plenty of opportunities to meet young women. But when out with them to dances or parties the image of this sweetheart of boyhood keeps continually coming to mind. I have not seen the girls in seven years. I recently wrote her a letter, which has not been answered, although two months have passed. I know she is unmarried.

I would appreciate the thoughts of your readers on this subject.

Yours,

Naval Defence of Dominion Will Not Be Decided at the Present Session of Parliament

The Members of the House Feel That It Would Be Wisest to Await Developments of the Coming Year Before Reaching a Decision in Matter.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, March 17.—As a result of yesterday's caucus it may fairly be assumed that there will be no naval legislation of any importance this session, and by the removal of an extremely continuous subject, the length of the session will be by that much shortened. While the caucus recognized the necessity of Canada participating in any general scheme of Empire naval defence, it was felt that the present would not be an opportune time for this country to embark on any extensive programme with the whole question of Imperial defence still in a state of flux and with the Premier absent. Sentiment in favor of immediate or early action was expressed to some extent by the members from the Pacific and Atlantic coasts, who are naturally the most interested in naval development, but it was pointed out that the financial situation was not favorable and that the effect of the League of Nations on armaments had to be taken into consideration.

It is not improbable, however, that a beginning may soon be made in the development of an air force, and some sentimennt was expressed in favor of such a move. Canada has a force of over 5,000 trained airmen and considerable equipment in the way of machines and air stations, while the development of the service could be started without so much danger of the plans being out of alignment with those of the Empire generally, as would be the case with naval development. A suggestion was made that a sum of eight hundred thousand dollars annually might be devoted to development in this form of armament. There is already a Canadian Air Board, under the chairmanship of Hon. A. L. Sifton.

POMEROY AND SCOTT ARRAIGNED

Charged with the Murder of Robert C. Moore of Greenville—Remanded to Jail.

Dover-Foxcroft, March 16. — William Pomeroy and Jesse C. Scott, charged with the murder of Robert C. Moore, of Greenville, were brought to the county jail at Dover this morning by Deputy Sheriffs Adelbert G. Rogers of Greenville, and Henry Armstrong, of Jackman. The men were arraigned at 9 o'clock before Recorder Calvin W. Brown, of the Piscataquis municipal court on the charge of murder and pleaded not guilty.

County Attorney Robert E. Hall, of Dover, then stated to the Court that the respondents wished for counsel and wanted a continuance for a few days, and the State also desired an opportunity to look up the evidence. The Court granted one week at the suggestion of the county attorney and the respondents were remanded to jail without bail until next Monday.

Pomeroy is 33 years old, of powerful build, about five feet ten inches in height. Scott is 41, of medium size.

Scraps of information regarding the case, more or less authentic, appear to be to the effect that Pomeroy and Scott had taken their meals at Moore's on Saturday and arranged to spend the night there and two cots had been set up for them in a room on the first floor. It is said that one of the men came out in the hall and called to Mrs. Moore, who was assisting her husband with his bath on the second floor, asking her if they should put out the light. She told them that they might do so, and the alleged shooting followed.

Whether Mrs. Moore saw the actual shooting does not appear to be established as she has as yet not been able to make a full statement.

The men are quite well known and have been around the Moosehead Lake region for some time.

Tells How to Stop a Bad Cough

Surprising results from this famous old home-made syrup. Easily prepared and costs little.

If you have a severe cough or chest cold accompanied with soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness, or difficult breathing, or if your child wakes up during the night with croup and you want quick help, try this reliable old home-made cough remedy. Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth). Pour this into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. This recipe makes 16 ounces of really remarkable cough remedy. It tastes good, and in spite of its low cost, it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle and soothes and heals the irritated membranes that line the throat and bronchial tubes with such promptness, ease and certainty that it is really astonishing.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is probably the best known means of overcoming severe coughs, throat and chest colds.

There are many worthless imitations of this mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

The Farmers' and Dairymen's Association of the most important lines of industry in connection with the progressive farmer. The co-operative selling of wool has forcibly brought before the farmers that are engaged in the business the benefits resulting from united action. If the farmers can receive an enhanced price for their wool through co-operative selling, why cannot they receive a higher price for our meat in general, if done through united action. The answer is, in cold storage facilities being accessible, hence the necessity of establishing such accommodation.

Pork production, the natural adjunct to dairying, is a very profitable business. But the very serious and sudden fluctuations in market price have in this province caused those engaged in that pursuit to hesitate to invest in increased production. The exhibition witnessed at the Fat Stock Show last December at Amherst, demonstrated the fact that we can produce as good a type of bacon hog as in Ontario and yet we are and have been receiving from two to four cents per pound less for our pork than they, because they are catering to an export market.

Bee culture should be stimulated by every means possible from the fact that sugar is advancing so rapidly in price that it will soon be beyond the ordinary man's ability to purchase. Does it not look as if there is a sufficient reason for the Food Control Board or other authorities to look into the sugar refineries' operations and ascertain the extent of the profits made while they are buying the raw material so cheaply.

I have only touched on a few of the many problems which we as farmers are endeavoring to solve. There is potato growing, seed selection and many other subjects which will have their place in the deliberations of this Association. Let us therefore as a body of united farmers approach these problems not with any sinister motive, but with that indomitable courage that has characterized the tillers of the soil through the late war struggle and made it possible for right to gain the ascendancy over might.

THE MAYOR'S WELCOME.

Policy That Would Suit the Whole Dominion is What is Wanted, Says Mayor Reid.

Mayor Reid stated he hoped the meeting would be beneficial to all citizens of the province. Good markets for farm products had been obtained in the past few years and there was no reason why this year's crop could not find as good a market. In speaking of the reconstruction period he stated that both farmers and urban people should get together and promote confidence between the two. Some policy suited to the Dominion as a whole would surely be arrived at in order that all classes would be brought together in this country. His Worship stated that the people needed more constructive than destructive criticism.

He referred to his early youth when he was brought up on a farm and stated that hard work was the axiom of the farmer. He offered a suggestion that the fathers present hold an annual convention for the boys which would be the means of a diversion and break the monotony of everyday life for them. The boys must be kept at home to carry on the farming. His Worship stated that many allurements loomed large for the growing boys on the farm, oftentimes drawing them to the city, but if they considered deeply they would ascertain that life on the farm was the better of the two and the more productive in its results.

H. H. Smith, of Hoyt Station, the treasurer, in the absence of J. E. DeGrace, vice president of the Association, replied fittingly to the address of welcome delivered by Mayor Reid.

HON. J. F. TWEEDDALE.

Minister Discusses Agricultural Conditions in Province and Work of Department.

Hon. J. F. Tweeddale, Minister of Agriculture, then addressed the assembly, thanking them for the interest they had shown in the meeting by their large attendance.

He referred to the matters pointed out in the President's address and stated that the Association would need to take them to heart for consideration.

The great question today, the speaker stated, was that of reconstruction, and this was occuping the minds of all thinking men today. The farmers and agriculturists of Canada were helping the situation more than any other industry in Canada. Town industries were laid up by strikes for more pay and shorter hours, but the farmer could not strike for these. His hours were long and his work hard. He had no settled pay, his reckoning being the harder he worked the more he got. Some people stated that the farmer obtained too much for his products, but in the speaker's mind he did not hold his own contrasted with other lines of industry. The speaker stated that New Brunswick was fortunate in having such good conditions and these he accredited to the farmers. Both Ontario and Quebec, the speaker stated, had more favorable climatic and soil conditions, but statistics showed that this province was the foremost in Canada concerning its increased productions in live stock branches. In 1918 and 1919 New Brunswick led all Canada in the increase in its live stock department. In several departments of the live stock branch this province showed more of an increase than the whole of Canada. Poultry, sheep and pig prolution, and chiefly cattle production, showed substantial increases, which pointed to the fact that this province would soon lead every province in Canada in its beef raising industry.

All this increase, the minister stated, showed that a co-operative effort in this line was bringing the farmers of the province to their feet.

The Increase in Sheep.

During the war, Hon. Mr. Tweeddale stated, the farmers had to produce to support those overseas who fought for their country. The slogan "sheep on every hillside" was spread wide, as it was understood that this was one of the quickest ways to feed the boys over there. After obtaining the quantity, the quality was looked after, and at present the grading was getting more satisfactory. Many farmers objected to raising sheep, as there was no law to protect them from the killings by dogs. The dog law protected sheep from dogs and also called for a tax to be paid for allowing the keeping of the animal. The money from the tax went into a fund to repay for the damage done to flocks by dogs. The sheep raising was one of the foremost industries of the province today, as there was no province in Canada better suited with climatic and other conditions for that industry. New Brunswick had scratched the surface, as it were, but the speaker stated that this province would be making tremendous exports before long.

A grant of $50,000 was obtained from the Government for the sheep raising industry. Any man wishing sheep would make an initial payment to his banker, who would notify the Department of Agriculture of the number of sheep he wanted. He would give his note for the remainder of the sum, and only two cases were known where the men defaulted.

The Dairy Industry.

Concerning the dairy industry, the speaker stated that Mr. Trites had given his services gratis to encourage the farmers in the dairy work. A butter factory was being organized in Fredericton as it was clearly seen that this city was a splendid centre, with good transportation and in constant touch with the surrounding country.

The Minister referred briefly to the cheese situation which had been in bad state during the past few years and from that went on to discuss the sheep situation along other lines. He referred to the bonus of $10 offered the farmers for pure bred rams. These were graded and the farmers, while benefiting from them, were also protected.

Along this line bull clubs were also formed. Any ten farmers if interested in keeping up the standard of live stock, could form themselves into any breeding association and would be forwarded a bull for breeding purposes. When he commenced to inbreed he was removed and another one was supplied. The same plan would be conducted during the ensuing year.

Plenty of Flour Mills.

In connection with flour milling the speaker stated the province was sufficiently provided with grinding and flour mills to satisfy the needs at present. These were all mills of modern type.

In connection with the wheat industry the increased production in 1919 over 1918 was as follows:—

Wheat	2,209,000	bushels
Buckwheat	371,500	"
Barley	121,860	"
Mixed grains	39,000	"
Potatoes	1,712,000	"
Turnips	112,600	"

In the matter of egg production the province was going ahead in a wonderful manner. The speaker stated that he was often subjected to criticism because of the fact that men had to be brought in from various other provinces to fill positions in the poultry department, but he stated if a qualified provincial man was recommended he would give him the preference if his qualifications were found good.

Referring to the splendid success of the bee-keeping industry, the speaker gave several illustrations of the value and increased importance of the bees in connection with agricultural work. He referred to an experiment he had made in placing two hives in the yard of the Agricultural Department, which produced over 100 pounds of first-class honey in eight weeks' time.

W. A. Walsh was then called upon to give a reading, which was well applauded.

President C. F. Alward on behalf of the delegates, welcomed Col. H. Montgomery Campbell, past president of the association, on his return from overseas, expressing the hope that he would continue his connection with the association.

Col. Campbell replied briefly, thanking the delegates for their kindness.

The agrucultural motion pictures showing scenes from the various agricultural pursuits were then shown, creating much interest among those assembled.

The scenes first featured the bee-keeping industry, showing the hives and the bees at work and the bee-keeper in the act of smoking out the bees to remove the honey. From the bee-keeping industry the picture shipped to the sheep raising, showing the shearing and gathering of the wool and its preparation for marketing. The remaining pictures dealt with live stock, horses and cattle.

THE OPENING SESSION.

Various Branches of Agricultural Work Described by Officials of Divisions in Charge.

A. C. Hicks, of the Soils and Crops Division of the Department of Agriculture, was the first speaker at the opening session, delivering an address on the clover culture and seed selection, in which he spoke of the amount of hay, over 480,000 tons, which had been bought by the Imperial War Office from this country for forage rations for horses in France. Hay pressing plants were operated during the war at St. John, Woodstock and Montreal. When the United States entered the war their overseas army was supplied with 152,225 tons of hay.

The New Brunswick hay crop for a number of years had been over one million tons, grown on three-quarters of that number of acres. Last year's crop was estimated at 1,111,000 tons of hay grown on 748,000 acres.

In the dry season of the West last summer, cattle had to be sent as far South as Texas for grazing.

The importation of clover and timothy seed for the past few years follows:—

Clover.

1916	4,801,731 lbs.
1918	2,586,886 lbs.

Timothy.

1915	11,553,700 lbs.
1916	10,935,730 lbs.
1917	11,196,094 lbs.

The exports for the same years to the United States follows:

Red Clover.

1918	48,790 lbs.
1919	850,165 lbs.

Grass Seed.

1915	736,030 lbs.
1916	689,446 lbs.
1917	1,060,207 lbs.

Good grass crops in rotations could only be grown by sowing plenty of seed. Men are better off when they sow clover to enrich their land by nitrates. Clover pasture was helpful and an important factor in the life of all dairy animals, the speaker stated, furnishing sufficient food for a number of these. The best time to cut clover for hay was when about one-third of the heads had turned brown.

Clover hay lost much of its value when rained upon, as the rain washed out the soluble portions and destroyed the aroma favoring the growth of molds. It also made the hay taste woody. When grown for seed the crop must be fully ripe, as the seed will not ripen in any way after it is cut for hay.

Bee-Keeping Discussed.

L. T. Floyd, Provincial Apiarist, was the next speaker ,addressing the convention on Bee Keeping in New Brunswick, its opportunities and progress.

Mr. Floyd in dealing with the bee-keeping industry spoke of the rapid progress made in this regard and the splendid results achieved throughout the province. Many people were taking up the bee-keeping in this province every year and its chances as a large future branch of the agricultural industry were promising.

Many women in the province were showing their work along this line and were rivalling the men in the production of honey by their bees.

Horticultural Work.

In the absence of A. G. Turney, Provincial Horticulturist, Geo. B. Danby delivered an address on horticulture.

Mr. Danby stated that the horticultural progress during the past year was rapid. New Brunswick had not as favorable a climate for fruit growing as some of the other provinces in the Dominion, but her apples, especially those of the St. John Valley, would make her world-famous for all varieties of apples grown.

The proper planting of fruit trees, the speaker stated, was the most important part of the fruit industry, if good results were to be obtained.

Many farmers after ordering their trees, crowd them into any ground, not considering the necessary conditions for the growth of the trees and get no results. Young trees should be carefully looked after at all stages of their growth if a good crop is to be expected. Pruning plays an important part in their production as well as spraying to kill harmful plant diseases. Apple scab, one of the fungus diseases, propagated by spores, after germination would pierce the leaf and obtain the sustenance and life of the leaf, causing a sickly looking tree, if it were not sprayed properly. All well sprayed orchards are a credit to the province.

Boring insects are common and these have to be cut out of the wood before they can pierce the tree.

Referring to the demonstration orchards, the speaker stated the processes of pruning and spraying were illustrated carefully.

New Brunswick in possessing a live Fruit Growing Association had come to the fore as an apple growing centre and its advance for the future could not be over-estimated.

The Poultry Industry.

A. C. McCulloch, Poultry Superintendent, was the next speaker, dealing with the poultry industry of the province of New Brunswick.

The speaker stated that in New Brunswick the poultry were largely of a cross bred variety and these were being weeded out for pure bred stock. Barrel Plymouth Rocks were being well popularized by the Agricultural Department through their supplying settings of the eggs of those birds. Importations of the best laying stock possible were made by the department and distributed through the province. These were being helped along by the Boys' and Girls' Poultry Clubs, 36 of which were formed in the past two years with a membership of about 500 young people. Each one of these was supplied with chicks or eggs the first year. During the last year the departure of sending chickens was almost a failure because of the loss of chickens by transportation purposes.

The parents were becoming as interested in the venture as the children themselves and this accounted for the splendid success of several of the clubs in building up a pure bred-to-lay flock.

It had been found, Mr. McCulloch stated, that artificial incubation would have to be resorted to if any results would be obtained.

A good deal of judgment had to be used in handling the incubators.

Referring to the Nova Scotia egg-laying contest, Mr. McCulloch stated that New Brunswick was sure to come out on top, holding, as she did, the first four places as well as the sixth, ninth, tenth and thirteenth places.

The general average of the hens in the egg-lawing contest was second to that of Ottawa, and the speaker's opinion was that the experience of the Ottawa hen owners accounted for this.

MAXWELL

Has Won Its Following Through Its Quality

THE metals used in the Maxwell chassis compare favorably pound for pound with those in the best cars that the world has produced, according to metallurgists.

There is a real reason for this quality in a Maxwell.

The fundamental purpose of the Maxwell is to carry the same passenger load over the same roads and at the same speeds as larger and more expensive cars.

But it must perform this mission in an extremely economical way.

Therefore the Maxwell has to be light. But to make it strong as well as light only the very best of materials can be employed.

Hence, the quality metals.

And it is through the quality of its metals that Maxwell has developed its following.

This is a following that began five years ago with a foundation of 5,000 and now reaches a mark of 100,000 new Maxwell enthusiasts in 1920.

300,000 Maxwells now on the highways of two continents are a daily endorsement of the merit of this great car.

Pure Air is as Necessary as Pure Food

THE ENTERPRISE BLAZER FURNACE heats your home in Nature's way. It draws in the sweet pure air from the big outdoors, moistens it thoroughly, turns it into heat and comfort and passes it on to every corner of your home.

The best that base-burners and radiators can do is to heat the air that is already in the house—that has been breathed again and again. Stoves choke the air with dust and in real cold weather they fall short of their job. Another reason for the

ENTERPRISE BLAZER WARM AIR FURNACE

Health and Comfort —

is economy. For thirty-five years we have been learning how to take all the heat from a piece of coal; and then how to make most use of it. The Enterprise Blazer is the result. And it costs a great deal less to install than a hot water boiler, pipes and radiators.

An Enterprise Blazer will wear for years and years. Every little part is made a little better than it need be, and it carries the famous Enterprise guarantee of satisfaction. Get your dealer's advice and write us today for our free booklet "Warmth and Comfort".

WEIRD TALES OF THE SPIRIT LAND

Latest Spook Stories Come From England and Relate to the Ex-Kaiser.

The latest spook stories from England, where manifestations of life beyond the grave are becoming every day occurrences, deal with a fiery visitation from purgatory, a ghost who possessed a good knowledge of the Morse code and the strange nocturnal visit of a shadowy form bearing a remarkable likeness to the fallen Kaiser.

A young woman of about 26 years living in the city of Leeds saw the fiery spectre. This occurred after she had been urged on two occasions by a ghostly voice speaking out of the darkness after she had retired to bed to pray for the soul of a person she had known in life. The girl was told that her friend was in purgatory.

The story goes that one evening when this young woman returned home from work she found the house empty. She entered the kitchen and walked to the fireplace to warm her hands, as it was a very cold night. Suddenly two long white arms were thrust out of the flames toward her. They gripped her arms above the elbow with a touch that was like a hot iron and she fainted.

When the parents returned they revived their daughter, who told them of her terrifying experience. She was astonished, however, to find that the fire grate was cold and that no fire had been burning there for hours. Nevertheless two physicians afterward found distinct traces of burns on her arms.

The spirit with a taste for telegraphy confines his attention to a lonely poultry farm in the Hertford district.

The first intelligible message received by the farmer's son was addressed to an unknown girl whom the spirit said he had met in a hospital where she had gone for an operation. The spirit gave his initials as M. B. Inquiries at the local hospital failed to establish the identity of any one bearing those initials.

The shade of the ex-Kaiser has been seen several times by different persons in the neighborhood of Knaresborough, Yorkshire, already famous as the home of Mother Shipton.

DIVORCE HAD NO MEANING TO THEM

Nickersons Lived Together After Libel Filed, and Also After Decree Awarded.

[Boston Globe.]

One of the most unusual cases tried before Judge Sanderson in the East Cambridge Divorce Court for some time went to trial yesterday, when Mary A. Nickerson, of Somerville, petitioned the court to prevent becoming absolute a divorce decree awarded her husband, Herbert P. Nickerson, of Somerville, on Feb. 22, 1919.

Mrs. Nickerson says that her attorney did not allow her to make a correct defence. She charges the attorney with "dark conspiracy." She also alleges that she and Nickerson lived together as husband and wife while his divorce case was pending and after a decree nisi was granted.

Mrs. Nickerson testified that her husband's libel was served upon her in October, 1918; that her husband was living with her at that time and continued to live with her until the next month, when he left the home, only to return again in a short time; then lived with her until the libel went to trial in February, 1919.

She also said that on the day her husband was awarded the decree nisi, Feb. 22, 1919, he met her on the street outside of the court house after the trial, and asked: "Aren't you coming home, May?"

She said she replied, "Not yet." She testified, however, that later they lived together as man and wife.

In regard to the "dark conspiracy," Mrs. Nickerson testified that her husband won his decree nisi on the ground of gross and confirmed habits of intoxication, and that her attorney had not allowed her to defend herself on this score. She said her attorney told her that if she did produce these witnesses or did attempt to defend herself, she would be laying herself open to conviction of perjury. She testified that she believed her attorney at the time and, therefore, allowed him to conduct the case without making a defence against the charge of intoxication.

She testified that she married Nickerson in 1908, after divorcing her first husband, William Hird. She admitted that she lived with Nickerson before she married him, also that she took a drink "about once a year," and had been under the influence of liquor at various times.

Mrs. Nickerson testified that during her married life with Nickerson he had choked her and knocked her down and had said to her, "I'll get rid of you." Mrs. Matilda Ogren, Mrs. Ellen Jenks and Mrs. George A. Miles, neighbors of Mrs. Nickerson in Somerville, all testified to Mrs. Nickerson's sobriety.

The trial in a cross suit for divorce brought by Caroline E. Kelly, of Brookline, and George E. Kelly, of Everett, was brought to an abrupt close when the husband withdrew his libel. Judge Sanderson awarded Mrs. Kelly a decree nisi. Mrs. Kely testified that her husband beat her with a strap, left her and kidnaped their son, Goron. Mrs. Ethel M. Thompson, mother of Mrh Kelly, and Mrs. Theresa Deucett, a neighbor, testified that Mrs. Kelly had called upon them for help when her husband was beating her and had showed them black and blue marks on her arms.

APPEALS FOR END OF ORONO HAZING

Orono, Me., March 1 .—President Robert J. Alley, of the University of Maine, in regard to stories of hazing at the college, said today:

"No report has reached the college office from any source, but I have learned that there was some horse play last night in one of the dormitories where one freshman, or possibly two, had their heads rubbed with molasses and feathers and were then photographed. It must be expected that when 600 boys are penned up in the snow for two or three weeks they will break out in some way, but the molasses style of hazing, although it does no bodily injury, is too raw and looks more serious outside the college than the students regard it. I appealed to the student body in chapel this morning to do away with it entirely."

The upper classmen say that the "molasses cure" has been in vogue at Maine for some time, and that upon the whole it is milder than some other forms of "freshman discipline." If a freshman smiles and looks pleasant under this treatment he usually has no more trouble. The student body generally appears to be surprised that the case of last night attracted particular outside attention. The victims themselves say they have no complaints to make.

A. E. TRITES SAYS FARMERS HONEST

co-operative one they would obtain better results.

Cream grading as well as butter grading in the West had had a marked effect upon the call for increased production of butter, and this grading would without doubt be established in the Maritime Provinces sooner or later.

With the cheese industry in the province the same decrease has been noted in the number of factories. Many difficulties were met with in this industry as in some points there was not sufficient material to carry on the work all the year. The centralized co-operative creamery would overcome this by working all the year around with material from many different districts. The important factor in the cheese business was the securing of competent men for the carrying out of work in the factories. The work only lasted about five months, the conditions of the factories were not good and the pay was small.

In referring to the establishment of the Farmers' Co-operative Creamery in this section of the country Mr. Coleman stated that business for such a concern abounded, good transportation was available for the carrying of raw material and the creamery ought to be very successful.

The question of improving the stock, the speaker stated, ought to be considered by the meeting.

Value of Bull Discussed.

James Bremner, representative of the Department of Agriculture, was the next speaker, his topic being "Bulls, Their Care and Keep." The speaker stated that the value of the good sire was well recognized throughout the province, but despite this fact in many parts of the province little care was taken of them. Many people, because they did not take proper care of their animals, thought that they were of no service and killed them. The record of the daughters were to be looked at in considering the dam as well as the sire.

At the close of Mr. Bremner's address J. A. Ste Marie, assistant animal husbandman, of Ottawa, delivered an address in French to the French members of the convention. During this address J. A. Bernier occupied the chair.

STUDEBAKER Announcement

To the Canadian People

THE existing prices of Studebaker Automobiles were determined, as they have always been, on the basis of exact equality of value between the American and Canadian dollar. Prices will not be increased to cover losses in exchange unless they become considerably more serious than they are at present, which we believe is unlikely. This corporation is a Canadian industry, employing Canadian labor, investing its surplus funds in Canadian Government securities, depositing its working capital in Canadian banks, and paying large taxes to the Canadian Government. It respects and values the good will and patronage of the Canadian people, and will not take advantage of a temporary emergency to increase the prices of its cars.

Grit and Experience

Build up successful industries on small capital. Men with brains and persistence who know their business can accomplish wonders

SEVEN YEARS AGO three young men started a shoe factory at St. Stephen, N. B., with capital of $43,000. In six months a disastrous fire destroyed plant and equipment, showing a net loss of $16,000. But the plucky manufacturers started all over again, and in six years they have made their product known from one end of Canada to the other, wiped out the $16,000 loss and built up surplus and reserve accounts, amounting to $59,889.58. Now they are ready to expand and take care of the rapidly growing demand for the high class ladies' shoes they manufacture.

Clark, aged 41, married, living in Montreal, travels in the interests of the firm from Winnipeg to Victoria and generally looks after the selling end of the business. As a protection to the preferred shareholders, the lives of these men are insured almost to the full amount of the issue, the policies being held in trust by a Trust Company.

Sales of Clark Bros. Ltd. from October, 1915, to December 31, 1919, amounted to $1,879,202.95, and the net profit for 1919 alone was $15,378.91. BOSTON RED SOX SHORT OF PLAYERS

Wallie Schang and Oscar Vitt Have Not Reported to Ed. Barrow Yet.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 16.—Ed Barrow, manager of the Boston Red Sox, has had his outfit working at Hot Springs for over a week, but he is indeed a mind reader if he has any real inkling of how the outfit is going to shape up in comparison with other American League clubs when the time for the April getaway comes along.

There has not been any change in the situation so far as the catchers are concerned. The players still believe that Wallie Schang eventually will report, although he has gone on record that he wants as much money as any player in the business. Backstop O'Neill of the Clevelands probable is the highest priced man in the league and he is drawing $9,000, it is said.

To touch these figures for Shang the Boston club would have to come through with several thousand dollars, but Owner Frazee says that there is now not much difference between Schang and the club on the money proposition. There is no question that Schang is needed. He got a three-year contract at his own terms last year and the old players here hardly may be said to be in sympathy with Wallie's attitude.

He is the best mark for pitchers to throw to, although to date Paddy Livington has been doing yeoman service with the young noxmen. Al. Walters is full of pepper this year, and if hard work means anything he will be doing his full share of the work for the Sox when the opening comes along.

Mickey Devine has not been well, but lately has picked up. Neither Walters nor Devine, however, can fill the bill for hitting and all-around defensive play as Schang can, and the club will start out under a big handicap unless some arrangement is made to bring Wallie into camp.

Joe Bush, who is the last player who saw Schang, thinks he will eventually decide to play, but that it will take a little palm crossing to change his point of view.

In the 12 days the club has been here Manager Barrow had no word from Oscar Vitt. The manager apparently is not worrying about Oscar, whom he thinks already is paid enough money. In the meantime, Eddie Foster is going along at an even clip at third base, gaining speed and accuracy of throwing and working out with Everett Scott, a system of ground covering between third and second.

Ruth Mainsheet, 2.08¼, is to be raced again and is in Fred Edman's stable at Memphis. She was given her record when a 2-year-old.

Ned McCarr thinks the half sister to Mabel Trask, 2.01¾, by Directum Spier, 2.11¼, is going to develop into a real trotter.

Clara Cantrill, famous as the dam of that grand race horse, St. Frisco, 2.01¾, is raising a foal by Peter the Great, 2.07¼.

SMEATON REFEREE FOR TROPHY GAMES

Montreal Official to Handle the Ottawa-Seattle Series for Stanley Cup.

Montreal, March 16.—Cooper Smeaton, the popular referee, has been agreed upon by President Frank Calder of the N. H. L. and resident Frank Patrick of P. C. H. A., as official in charge of the world's series games at Ottawa for the Stanley cup.

There is little doubt that Smeaton has stood the acid test this winter under the one-man referee system and he has come through with flying colors. He has been in demand all over the circuit and with the exception of a short lay-off during a severe cold he has officiated on nearly every date of the schedule. Only one man will referee in the series again this year and he will do so throughout the whole series similar to Mickey Ion's performance in the games at the coast last year.

International Pro-League Plans.

Montreal, March 16.—An International Professional Hockey League to embrace Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton, Cleveland, Detroit, Buffalo, Pittsburg, Philadelphia, New York and Boston is the latest suggestion put forward to interest the hockey players and rink owners in Canada. The project is not a new one, for it has been suggested on at least two occasions before.

An American promoter, a man by the name of Grant, who built the new rink at Philadelphia, thought sufficient of the idea to tour the Canadian cities last week to look over the prospects. He saw all the N. H. L. teams in action and inspected the arenas in Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec. Reports say that he was visibly impressed with the possibilities of the game. Undoubtedly it would be a great thing for hockey if it could be properly worked out, for besides the added interest of new faces and fans the international rivalry which would develop would be a boon to the game.

The N. H. L. Final Standing.

Montreal, March 16.—Frand Calder, president of the National Hockey League, has issued a statement showing the standings of the clubs for the two halves of the current season combined:

	Games. Won	Lost	Goals For	Agst	Pts
Ottawa	19	5	121	64	38
Canadiens	13	11	129	113	26
St. Patricks	12	12	119	106	24
Quebec	4	20	91	177	8

The highest goal getter in the league is Malone, of Quebec, with 39 goals and six assists to his credit and the runner-up is "Newsy" Lalonde, of Canadiens, with 36 goals and 6 assists.

The Ramblers opened up by netting the first score. The first period ended a tie, 2 to 2. The second period Amherst got its stride, ending five to three in favor of the Ramblers. In this period the Black Foxes' goal keeper was penalized for laying down in front of the goal and blocking a distinct shot. The third period the Ramblers made five shots in quick succession, rolling the score up to ten to three in favor of the Ramblers.

Nuxated Iron Helps Make Red Blood

The Kind That Puts Roses Into the Cheeks of Women and Force, Strength and Courage Into the Veins of Men

Watch the People You Meet On the Street—You Can Tell Those Who Have Plenty of Iron In Their Blood — Strong, Healthy, Vigorous Folks

Cut this Out

Sworn Statement of the Composition of the FORMULA of Nuxated Iron

It is conservatively estimated that this remarkable formula is now being used by over three million people annually. Among those who have used and strongly endorse it are many physicians who have been connected with the best hospitals and medical societies, former United States Senator and Vice-Presidential nominee, Chas. A. Towne, of Minnesota; Ignace Jan Paderewski, Ex-Premier of Poland and master Pianist; Judge Atkinson of the United States Court of Claims at Washington; Wm. L. Chambers, Commissioner of the United States Board of Mediation and Conciliation at Washington, and former Health Commissoner Wm. R. Kerr, of Chicago.

Newspapers everywhere are invited to copy this statement for the benefit of their readers. It is suggested that physicians make a record of it and keep it in their offices so that they may intelligently answer questions of patients concerning it. Everybody is advised to cut it out and keep it. A copy of the actual sworn statement will be sent to anyone who desires such. It is as follows: Iron Peptonate (Special Specific Standard) Quantity given below, Sodium Glycerophosphates U. S. P. (Monsanto), Calcium Glycerophosphates U. S. P. (Monsanto), P. E. Nux Vomica U. S. P., Cascarine Bitter, Magnesium Carbonate Po. Ginger U. S. P., Oil Cassia Cinnamon Precip. U. S. P., Calcium Carbonate Precip. U. S. P.

Each dose of two tablets of Nuxated Iron contains one and one-half grains of organic iron in the form of iron peptonate, of a special specific standard, which in our opinion possesses superior qualities to any other known form of iron. By using other makes of Iron Peptonate we could have put the same quantity of actual iron in the tablets at less than one-fourth the cost to us, and by using metallic iron we could have accomplished the same thing at less than one-twelfth the cost; but by so doing we must have most certainly impaired their therapeutic efficacy. Glycerophosphates used in Nuxated Iron is one of the most expensive tonic ingredients known. It is especially recommended to build up the nerve force and thereby increase brain power, as glycerophosphates are said to contain phosphorus in that particular state so similar to that in which it is found in the nerve and brain cells of men.

As will be seen from the above, two important ingredients of Nuxated Iron (Iron Peptonate and Glycerophosphates) are very expensive products as compared with most other tonics.

Under such circumstances the temptation to adulteration and substitution by unscrupulous persons, is very great and the public is hereby warned to be careful and see every bottle is plainly labeled "Nuxated Iron" by the Due Health Laboratories, Paris, London and Detroit, U. S. A., as this is the only genuine article. If you have taken other forms of iron without success, this does not prove Nuxated Iron will not help you.

Manufacturers' Note—Nuxated Iron is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach. Nuxated Iron is not recommended for use in cases of acute illness, but only as a tonic, strength and blood builder. (In case of illness, always consult your family physician and be guided by his advice.) If in doubt as to whether or not you need a tonic, ask your doctor, as we do not wish to sell you Nuxated Iron if you do not require it. If you should use it and it does not help you, notify us and we will return your money. It is sold by all druggists.

CHEAP AND BETTER FUEL FOR WEST

Regina, Sask., March 16.—Interesting developments are looked for this year in connection with the operations of the Lignite Utilisation Board of Canada. The object of the board is to develop the Saskatchewan lignite fields and give the people of the West cheaper and better fuel than is possible at the present time, as well as placing the briqueting industry on a commercial basis. The Federal, Manitoba and Saskatchewan governments have appropriated $400,000 for the use of the board, one-half of this amount to be paid by the Federal government and one quarter each by the two provincial governments.

Admiral Sims Says Only Good Luck Enabled the First American Contingent to Reach France

American Government Refused to Comply with Admiral's Suggestions for Proper Convoy for Troopships, Which Were at the Mercy of the German Submarines.

Washington, March 14.—Only a measure of good luck brought the first convoy of American troops safely to France, Rear Admiral Sims today told the Senate investigating committee.

The Admiral recounted a series of blunders made by the Navy Department in connection with the convoy of troops. The policy of the United States government in this connection, Admiral Sims declared to have been "insistence upon making decisions based upon complete misinformation."

German submarines were enabled to attack the first American convoy, the Admiral stated, because the Department insisted upon using an unsafe code which was easily intercepted and deciphered by the enemy. Thus, despite his warning, and the fact that all the other Allies were using new war-time codes. The United States code had been in use for many years, but the Washington officials refused to change it.

"The announcement of the sailing of the first American destroyers was printed in Berlin four days before they arrived at Queenstown," declared the officer.

The United States naval attache at Paris had obtained his first word that troopships were sailing from a woman whose husband had received the information in a business message.

Arrangements for the early convoys were "confusing" and did not conform to the Allies' methods of safeguarding troops intransit. Admiral Sims said the Navy Department made no effort to consult him and thus avail itself of the experience of the Allies in handling troopships.

Referring to a message from Secretary Daniels, dated June 6, 1917, marked "Very Confidential" and containing directions for the protection of the convoy by destroyers, Admiral Sims said:

"The whole scheme of troop convoy, outlined in this message, showed a complete ignorance and disregard of convoy methods and of war experience in the submarine danger zone," he continued.

In response to his protests, the Admiral said, he received a reply that the "department recognizes the soundness of your recommendations," but because of the "present sensitive public opinion, considers it essential that the escort orders for the first convoy, already issued, be executed by American destroyers."

The Admiral had recommended, he testified, that the convoys be protected by whatever Allied escorts were available.

Admiral Sims testified at length regarding disagreement with the department on plans to meet enemy raids on convoys, possible German battle cruiser raids in the Atlantic, and what he called the department's "royal road to victory" by blockading German ports or similar measures.

VETERAN OF INDIAN MUTINY IS DEAD

Virden, Man., March 16—Virden and district has paid its last tribute to the venerable patriot, Sergt. Patrick Noon, born at Mount Bellah, County Galway, Ireland, March 17, 1827, a veteran of the Imperial army in the early Victorian days. He enlisted in the 61st Regiment in the year 1847, and followed the fortunes of his regiment for 21 years, going through the whole of the Indian Mutiny, and being present at the siege and capture of Delhi. Sergt. Noon came to Canada in 1871, and spent 11 years in Ontario, coming to Virden in 1882.

Calgary, Alta., March 16.—The hope was expressed by W. F. Stevens, the newly appointed secretary of the Western Canada Stock Growers' Protective Association, that the blanket quarantine in connection with the mange areas in the province would be lifted this summer.

SPIKER BABY HAS NEW MOTHER NOW

Adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Perley Spiker, with Consent of Mother and Court.

Baltimore, March 1. —Appearing in the Circuit Court with her husband, Perley Spiker, father of the child made the object of the proceedings, Mrs. Cora Spiker asked and obtained from Judge Stanton permission for the legal adoption by herself and her husband of Alfred Ray Spiker, the infant child of her husband and the former Emily Knowles (now Mrs. Guy Spiker), which was born in England in the closing days of the war.

The parties to the proceedings, all of whom were present, were Mr. and Mrs. Spiker, Guy S. Spiker, who recently married Miss Knowles, and the English girl herself.

The attorney for the petitioners told the court of the dual relationship the petitioner, Perley Spiker, had sustained to the woman as the husband of one and wart-time sweetheart of the other. He said Spiker and his wife were anxious to assume the care and education of the child, as Spiker, who is a steel worker earning $100 a week, is better able financially to care for him than the mother.

The baby's mother, when questioned by Judge Stanton, said she voluntarily gave up the child because her husband's means would not admit of its being given the opportunities in life which it deserved and which she believed would be provided for her child through its adoption by its father and his wife.

FARM MACHINERY SCARCE IN WEST

Winnipeg, Man. March 16.— An early spring is likely to precipitate a serious shortage in farm machinery and tillage implements generally dealers declare. The demand is active now and is likely to be abnormally large by the time spring opens up. Farm implement factories both in Canada and the United States have been held up in their production through shortage of materials and difficulty of obtaining delivery. As a result goods which have been ordered months ago by local firms have not been delivered yet.

'True Knights of Faith

"God be with you, my fair lord!" the squire answered. "I trust that you have taken no hurt from all that you have gone through yesterday."

"Nay; I feel the fresher for it, Alleyne. It has eased my joints, which were somewhat stiff from these years of peace. I trust, Alleyne, that thou didst very carefuly note and mark the bearing and carriage of this knight of France; for it is time, now when you are young, that you should see all that is best, and mould your own actions in accordance This was a man from whom much honor might be gained, and I have seldom met any one for whom I have conceived so much love and esteem Could I but learn his name, I should send you to him with my cartel, that we might have further occasion to watch his goodly feats of arms."

"It is said, my fair lord, that none know his name save only the Lord Chandos, and that he is under vow not to speak it. So ran the gossip at the squires' table."

"Be he who he might, he was a very hardy gentleman. But I have a task here, Alleyne, which is harder to me than aught that was set before me yesterday."

"Can I help you, my lord?"

"That indeed you can. I have been writing my greetings to my sweet wife; for I hear that a messenger goes from the prince to Southampton within a week, and he would gladly take a packet for me. I pray you, Alleyne, to cast your eyes upon whae I have written, and see if they are such words as my lady will understand. My fingers, as you can see, are more used to iron and leather than to the drawing of strokes and turning of letters. What then? Is there aught amiss, that you should stare so?"

"It is this first word, my lord. In what tongue were you pleased to write?"

"In English; for my lady talks it more than she doth French."

"Yet this is not English, my sweet lord. Here are four t's and never a letter betwixt them."

"By St. Paul! it seemed strange to my eye when I wrote it," said Sir Nigel. "They bristle up together like a clump of lances. We must break their ranks and set them farther apart. The word is 'that.' Now I will read it to you, Alleyne, and you shall write it out fair; for we leave Bordeaux this day, and it would be great joy to me to think that the Lady Loring had word from me."

Alleyne sat down as ordered, with a pen in his hand and a fresh sheet of parchment before him, while Sir Nigel slowly spelled out his letter, running his forefinger on from word to word.

"That my heart is with thee, my dear sweeting, is what thine own heart will assure thee of. All is well with us here, save that Pepin hath the mange on his back, and Pommers hath scarce yet got clear of his stiffness from being four days on shipboard; and the more so because the sea was very high, and we were like to founder on account of a hole in her side, which was made by a stone cast at us by certain sea-rovers, who may the saints have in their keeping, for they have gone from amongst us, as has young Terlake, and two-score mariners and archers, who would be the more welcome here, as there is likely to be a very fine war, with much honor and all hope of advancement, for which I go to gather my Company together, who are now at Montaubon, where they pillage and destroy; yet I hope that, by God's help, I may be able to show that I am their master, even as, my sweet lady, I am thy servant."

"How of that, Alleyne?" continued Sir Nigel, blinking at his squire, with an expression of some pride upon his face. "Have I not told her all that hath befallen us?"

"You have said much, my fair lord; and yet, if I may say so, it is somewhat crowded together, so that my Lady Loring can, mayhap, scarce follow it. Were it in shorter periods—

"Nay, it boots me not how you marshal them, as long as they are all there at the muster. Let my lady have the words, and she will place them in such order as pleases her best. But I would have you add what it would please her to know."

"That will I," said Alleyne, blithely, and bent to the task.

"My fair lady and mistres," he wrote, "God hath had us in His keeping, and my lord is well and in good cheer. He hath won much honor at the jousting before the prince, when he alone was able to make it good against a very valiant man from France. Touching the moneys, there is enough and to spare until we reach Montaubon. Herewith, my fair lady, I send my humble regards, entreating you that you will give the same to your daughter, the Lady Maude. May the holy saints have you both in their keeping is ever the prayer of thy servant. Alleyne Edricson."

"That is very fairly set forth," said Sir Nigel, nodding his bald head as each sentence was read to him. "And for thyself, Alleyne, if there be any dear friend to whom you would fain give greeting, I can send it for thee within this packet."

"There is none," said Alleyne, sadly.

"Have you no kinsfolk, then?"

"None, save my brother."

"Ha! I had forgotten that there was ill blood betwixt you. But are there none in all England who love thee?"

"None that I dare say so."

"And none whom you love?"

"Nay, I will not say that," said Alleyne.

Sir Nigel shook his head and laughed softly to himself. "I see how it is with you," he said. "Have I not noted your frequent sighs and vacant eye? Is she fair?"

"She is indeed," cried Alleyne from his heart, all tingling at this sudden turn of the talk.

"And good?"

"As an angel."

"And yet she loves you not?"

"Nay, I canot say that she loves another."

"Then you have hopes?"

"I could not live else."

"Then must you strive to be worthy of her love. Be brave and pure, fearless to the strong and humble to the weak, and so, whether this love prosper or no, you will have fitted yourself to be honored by a maiden's love, which is, in sooth, the highest guerdon which a true knight can hope for."

"Indeed, my lord, I do strive," said Alleyne; but she is so sweet, so dainty, and of so noble a spirit, that I fear me that I shall never be worthy of her."

"By thinking so you become worthy. Is she then of noble birth?"

'She is, my lord," faltered Alleyne.

"Of a knightly house?"

"Yes."

"Have a care, Alleyne, have a care!" said Sir Nigel, kindly. "The higher the steed the greater the fall. Hawk not at that which may be beyond thy flight."

"My lord, I know little of the ways and usages of the world," cried Alleyne, "but I would fain ask your rede upon the matter. You have known my father and my kin; is not my family one of good standing and repute?"

"Beyond all question."

"And yet you warn me that I must not place m love too high."

"Were Minstead yours, Alleyne, then, by St. Paul! I cannot think that any family in the land would not be proud to eake you among them, seeing that you come of so old a strain. But while the Socman lives— Ha, by my soul!" if this is not Sir Oliver's step I am the more mistaken."

Exquisite Workmanship

gives fullest expression to the true period designs

EVERY musician knows that the greatest musical masterpiece is enjoyed the more when rendered with proper interpretation and perfect technique by the artist. With equal force does this apply to the production of period designs in the

McLagan Phonograph

Queen Anne
M 36—Solid Mahogany or Black Walnut

Chippendale

M 33—Solid Mahogany and Black Walnut

Thirty years study and experience in the reproduction of the never dying designs of the William and Mary, Queen Anne, Chippendale, Brothers Adam, Louis XVI and other "periods" enable our experts to claim a position of perhaps exceptional authority. Their interpretations are true. They are rendered in rich woods with a rare delicacy of workmanship. This is apparent in the precision of every joint, in every beautifully polished surface and in the artistry of every bit of hand carving in real woods.

As an instrument of musical reproduction the McLagan is complete. It has the McLagan-Fletcher reproducer, the latest triumph in tone reproduction. The tone is amplified by a properly fashioned sound chamber of wood. The result is a full round tone of rare beauty and bell-like clearness in all notes of the scale. The McLagan has a sensitive tone control feature. It plays all disc records. It has an automatic stop device, and one-hand automatic top support. It has a special record filing system—everything that makes a phonograph complete in the best sense of the word!

See and hear this versatile phonograph with the beautiful Period design cabinets. The McLagan dealer in your vicinity will show them with pride and pleasure.

Needless to say he made a quick jump to safety before he was hurt in any way.

EXPECT REPORT ON TEACHERS' SALARIES EARLY NEXT WEEK

Final Meeting of Commission Appointed by Legislature Expected on Friday.

MUNICIPALITIES TO BE MADE PAY SHARE

Equalization Board to Regulate Valuations of Districts May Be Result.

The final meeting of the commission appointed by the Legislature last year to consider the question of teachers' salaries in New Brunswick will hold their final meeting here on Friday morning, March 19th, according to announcement made last evening.

It is expected that the commission's report will be completed at this meeting and presented to the Legislature probably some time next week. It seems to be taken for granted that the commission will recommend the fixing of a minimum gross salary for teachers in this province and it is intimated that, while the Government will augment the present provincial grants, the municipalities will be called upon to shoulder a large portion of the extra burden, too.

Premier Foster left no room for doubt on this point when, in the debate on the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne yesterday, he said in reference to the scarcity of available teachers that the remedy was more money and it would have to come from the taxpayers. He said he would take the responsibility of saying that the Government would do its share towards financial assistance, but the ratepayers and those responsible for teachers' salaries in school districts would have to do their part if there was to be a readjustment of the grants. The report would be laid before the House and he trusted it would have the earnest thought and consideration of all hon. members, and some plan successfully worked out for the promotion of the educational system.

There is much speculation as to the details of the solution that will be proposed and one that is much discussed is the suggestion that there should be an Equalization Commission, whose duty it would be to check up the work of the valuators in the various counties, parishes and districts and see that the same ratio of valuation is applied throughout the province so that all districts shall bear their share equally.

MARRIED AT ST. JOHN.

J. H. Brooks, of This City, and Miss Eileen Smith, of England, Married on Arrival of Bride from England Yesterday.

A wedding romance which began in England during the war culminated yesterday afternoon at St. John, shortly after the arrival of the S. S. Metagama from England, when John Horton Brooks, of this city, and Miss Eileen Elizabeth Smith, of England, were married at St. John's (Stone) Church by Rev. Canon Kuhring.

The groom is the eldest son of J. H. Brooks, manager of the B. N. A. branch of the Bank of Montreal in this city, and Mrs. Brooks, and went overseas in October, 1915, with the Machine Gun Section of the 55th Battalion as a private. He was promoted to sergeant soon after going to France and was badly wounded at the Battle of the Somme. He was in line for a commission but was not able to return to France and in June, 1919, he arrived home. Before enlisting he was on the staff of the Bank of British North America and after returning home he resigned his position to take up ranching in Sexsmith, Alberta.

The bride, who is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, of Edgbaston, Birmingham, England, was given in marriage by Dr. S.F.A. Wainwright, of this city, who accompanied her from England, and wore a gown of jade blue liberty silk with hat of amber panne velvet and was unattended. Mrs. J. H. Brooks, mother of the groom, and Mrs. S. F. A. Wainwright, were also present at the wedding.

After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the Green Lantern tea rooms on Germain street, where a dainty wedding luncheon was served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Brooks left for Moncton. They will arrive here tomorrow evening and spend two weeks before leaving for their home in the West.

FIRST CAUCUSES HELD BY PARTIES IN LEGISLATURE

Government and Opposition Parties Discuss Their Sessional Programmes.

$5 STUMPAGE RATE SAID TO BE THE COMPROMISE

Government Supporters Said to Be Ready to Vote Down $7 Amendment.

The first caucus of the Government party in the Legislature was held last evening. The only official announcement made regarding the caucus this morning was that Hon. J. P. Burchill, M. L. A. for Northumberland, presided and that a portion of the Government's programme for the session had been under consideration.

The Opposition party also had their first caucus last night and were in session again this morning. Mr. Sutton, of Carleton, acted as chairman and at the opening meeting Hon. J. A. Murray, leader of the Opposition, made an introductory address. No further official statement was made except that the session programme was considered.

It was said today, however, that the Government caucus showed sufficient support for Premier Foster's demand that the amendment to the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne be voted down as a motion of want of confidence in the administration but it is also reported that there was a general demand that the stumpage be increased, and the assurance was formally given that the rate would be fixed at at least $5 per thousand feet for spruce after August 1st next.

BIG TRANSFER OF CROWN LANDS WAS CONFIRMED TODAY

Van Horne Estate's Holdings of 122½ Square Miles Secured by International.

GRAND FALLS' POWER WANTED FOR MAINE

New Lumber Mill to Be Built at Kennedy Island on the Upper St. John River.

At the Department of Lands & Mines this morning the story of the transfer of Crown Lands held by the estate of the late Sir William Van Horne to the Dalhousie Lumber Company, a subsidiary of the International Paper Company, of New York, was officially confirmed.

The lands which have been transferred consist of 122½ square miles and are located in Northumberland County, on the Serpentine stream, which runs into the Tobique river. The Dalhousie Lumber Company have no mill in that section of New Brunswick, but the lands are located approximately 90 miles southeast of the Grand Falls and their acquisition is believed to be the commencement of a development proposition at Grand Falls in which the International Paper Company are evidently acquiring the VanHorne estate's interests.

The mouth of the Tobique river, it is pointed out, is only twenty miles below Grand Falls and the carrying of power that distance is declared quite feasible. There is also a well-

REVOLT HUNS LEAVE BERLIN

Revolution Has Collapsed--Wave Of Radicalism

Germany Faces Another Peril in Wave of Radicalism

THE RED TROOPS MARCH ON BERLIN

12,000 Armed Troops From Baltic Have Joined Radicals.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Berlin, March 18.—Troops commanded by General Von Luettwitz, which have been supporting the reactionary revolt in this city, will have left Berlin by tonight at the latest, according to an announcement by Dr. Hirsch, Prussian Premier. Security guards and loyal regular troops will then take over control of the capital.

12,000 BALTIC TROOPS JOIN THE SOCIALISTS

Paris, March 18.—Official advices from Berlin describing conditions there last night said the public places of the city were filled with crowds in an ugly humor. The military appeared to be of a panicky disposition. Many of the Baltic troops, the advices added, had joined forces with the independent socialists, who were reported to have 12,000 armed men at their command.

Order Arrest of Kapp.

Paris, March 18.—Orders for the arrest of Dr. Kapp, who assumed control of German governmental affairs in Berlin last Saturday, General Von Luettwitz, his military lieutenant, and other leaders in the reactionary revolt, were issued by Gustav Noske, Minister of Defence of the Ebert Government, last night, according to a Zurich despatch to the Petit Parisien.

Wave of Radicalism.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York, March 18.—Germany has cast off the governmental regime suddenly set up by the reactionary elements last Saturday morning, but advices indicate that she is now facing another extreme peril in the form of a wave of radicalism.

Reports from Berlin say Dr. Wolfgang Kapp, the reactionary Chancellor, and his adherents, have either fled from the city or contemplate going at once. Rumors that Kapp had committed suicide were received at Amsterdam by telephone from Berlin this morning. Armed forces of the reactionary element are leaving Berlin today and the presence of Gustav Noske, Minister of Defence in the Ebert Government, who arrived in Berlin last night by airplane, from Stuttgart, would seem to indicate that the constitutional Government intends to assume control immediately.

General Von Seecht, President Ebert's chief of staff, has been named commander of Government forces in Berlin.

Radical Uprising Feared.

Announcement by Dr. Kapp, as well as official statements from the officials of the Ebert Government, reflect the fear of a radical uprising in Germany. In fact, Dr. Kapp's announcement stated he had resigned from the direction of affairs so that the country might be enabled to fight Bolshevism. From various cities come reports of uprising of workers and advices from Berlin state that Red forces under command of Spartacist leaders, are marching on that city. As the Ebert troops have not as yet re-

Crown Prince Not Anxious to Return

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Wieringen, March 18.—The Dutch torpedo boat, which arrived here Monday, presumably to guard former Crown Prince Frederick William, departed yesterday by order of the Dutch Government.

Frederick William, who is thoroughly informed of the progress of events in Germany, is greatly interested, but seems not to be perturbed at the falling fortunes of the Kapp regime. Yesterday he boxed with the son of Burgomaster Pereboom, who was a good match for him, but much younger.

No special guards have as yet arrived here, and the former Crown Prince is quite free to move about the island. He reiterates that he would like to return to Germany some time, but not under present circumstances.

DR. KAHN ELECTED BAVARIAN PREMIER

Executive Power in the State Restored to Civil Authorities by Edict.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Copenhagen, March 18.—According to a Munich despatch received here the Bavarian Diet has elected Dr. Kahn as Premier. Kahn declared himself to be a representative of the people's sovereignty and said he would hold the place for the Premier, who is to be elected by Diet as the result of the next election.

The various political groups, the despatch continues, declared that executive power had been restored to the civil authorities, that the imperial and state constitution would be inviolably respected, and that the full liberty of officials, workers and employers to unite, would be protected.

SAVE MONEY ON MEAT CAMPAIGN

Meat Dealers in New England Try to Educate Public to Buy Cheaper Cuts.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York, March 18.—New York wholesale and retail meat dealers will join those of other States in the "save money on meat" campaign from March 22 to 27, it was decided yesterday.

By means of posters and special sales, the dealers will try to educate the public to buy cheaper cuts.

IMPROVE SERVICE OR LOSE CONTROL

New York, March 18.—The city yesterday notified the Interborough Rapid Transit Company that if it did not at once improve its service its subway and elevated lines would be taken by the municipality on thirty days' notice.

Reactionary Leader Committed Suicide

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, March 18.—Rumors are current in Berlin that Dr. Wolfgang Kapp, head of the reactionary Government set up in Berlin last Saturday, and whose resignation was announced yesterday, had committed suicide, according to a despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Amsterdam.

The reports were received by telephone in Amsterdam from the German capital.

RAILWAYS HELP EBERT GOVERNMENT

Ministry Proposes Confiscation Property of Revolutionists, Bill to Be Retroactive.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

The Hague, March 18.—Dutch correspondents in Berlin say that the railway directors have shown their sympathy for Ebert by ordering that, despite the strikers other difficulties, the deputies must be transported to Stuttgart for the meeting of the national assembly.

The report also stated that a bill will be introduced in the assembly at Stuttgart proposing not only personal punishment, but confiscation of the property, in cases of revolutionists in the future. The bill, it is declared, is to be retroactive, and will therefore affect the Kapp conspirators.

KAPP FAILED TO GATHER SUPPORT

Had Long Conference with the Members of Reichstag at Berlin.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Copenhagen, March 18.—A special despatch received from Berlin, under date of Wednesday, says the members of the majority parties conferred with Wolfgang Kapp and that the result of the deliberations was transferred to Stuttgart. The conference was held in consequence of a several hours' discussion of the situation in the Reichstag between members of all the parties, including those of the Right, and at which Dr. Karl Helfferich, former Vice Chancellor and Secretary of the Interior Treasury, was present.

Eleven Men Picked Up After Suffering Untold Hardships and Privations.

WITHOUT WATER AND FOOD FOR TIME

Another Boat Containing Other Members of Crew of Ship Is Still Missing.

New York, March 18.—For eleven days Captain A. Andreassen, and eleven members of the crew of the Norwegian bark Sydnaes were afloat in an open boat in heavy gales, part of the time without water and food.

On the morning of March 13, just as the captain was thinking of cutting the throat if the ship's puppy in order to drink its blood, the tanker Vaarli noticed the boat's last signal flash and picked up the castaways. A second boat, containing the mate and the rest of the crew, has not been found.

The survivors were brought here yesterday by the Vaarli. They were very weak and suffering from exposure. The Sydnaes left Montevideo with sand in ballast, and in the storm, the sand shifted, making it necessary to abandon the vessel March 2, about 1,000 miles off the Virginia Capes.

400,000 Gallons of Oil Ablaze at Montreal

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Montreal, March 18.—Four hundred thousand gallons of crude oil blazed throughout the night at the plant of the Barrett Company, Ltd., manufacturers of roofing and paving materials, building paper and coal tar products. The fire started at 12.20 last night. The whole fire fighting force of the city was called out and the blaze was successfully isolated to two tanks. The firemen announced that the oil in the containers would burn itself out. The fire destroyed the wires of the Canadian Railway Telegraph Company to Quebec.

The father's business was that of breeding fighting cocks, two dozen of which were found in his yard.

GRIEVANCE OF VETS IN CIVIL SERVICE

Claim War Service Should Count for Seniority in Appointments to Positions.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Edmundston, N. B., March 18.—The Great War Veterans' Association of Edmundston has commenced a movement to petition the Dominion Government that civil service employees who have been overseas and have successfully passed their examinations be given place and seniority in their different departments over those members of the service who did not enter the army and who entered the civil service after the date on which the returned soldier members of that department had enlisted.

It is claimed that cases have occurred where returned soldiers have been given junior positions in departments under members who have entered the service whilst these men were overseas, and naturally enough the returned man thinks himself wronged and claims that his seniority in cases of this kind should date from the time of his enlistment in the army.

A copy of the association's resolution has been forwarded to the provincial command at St. John, and it will also be taken up at the Dominion convention to be held at Montreal next week.

ROYAL TEMPLARS ARE NOT SATISFIED

Lament Canada is at Disadvantage in Not Being "Bone Dry" Like the U. S.

Hamilton, Ont., March 18.—At the annual convention of the Dominion Council of the Royal Templars of Temperance here yesterday, the committee on prohibition reported that on account of the "ruinous policy" of not making the country "bone dry," Canada was at a terrible disadvantage in its competition with the great "bone dry" republic to the south, and that even in the matter of immigration from Europe the most desirable immigrants went to the United States, the European derelists being left for Canada. The committee report claimed that prohibition was necessary during the reconstruction period in this country.

ALLIES NOT TO TAKE CONTROL FROM SULTAN

Occupation of Constantinople Is to Strengthen Hands of Ottoman Administrators.

GENERAL MILNE IN COMMAND OF TROOPS

If Massacres Continue, Allies May Be Forced to Modify Their Decision.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, March 18.—The Temps last evening published what appeared to be an officially inspired note concerning the situation at Constantinople. It said the French General Franchet de Esperey remains commander-in-chief of the Allied forces in European Turkey, while General Sir George Milne, British, commands the troops of occupation in Constantinople.

Purpose of Allied Powers.

Constantinople, March 18.—On the occupation of Constantinople Tuesday the British, French and Italian High Commissioners issued the fololwing proclamation:

First—Occupation is provisional.

Second—The Entente powers have no intention to destroy the Sultan's authority. They wish rather to strengthen it in all places which shall remain under Ottoman administration.

Third—The Entente powers persist in their purpose not to deprive the Turks of Constantinople, but if, God forbid, troubles develop and massacres occur, that decision probably will be modified.

Fourth—In this critical hour everyone must attend to his own affairs and assist in maintaining general security without permiting himself to be deceived by those whose frenzy tends to destroy the last hope of building upon the ruins of the ancient Turkish Empire a new Turkey. In short, it is the duty of every person to obey orders issuing from the Sultan.

Fifth—Certain persons implicated in threats, of which more will be told later, have been arrested in Constantinople. They naturaly will be held responsible for these acts and for the consequent results.

Among the agitators arrested were Djemal Pasha, former Minister of War, and his Chief of Staff, Djevad Pasha.

THREE KILLED IN BUILDING COLLAPSE

Concrete Beams Supporting Roof Gave Way When Frost Got Into Cement.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Montreal, March 18.—Three men were killed and six others were seriously injured, one of whom may die, when a concrete building being erected for the Singer Manufacturing Company at St. Johns, Que., collapsed yesterday afternoon and buried under the debris about a dozen men. The cause of the accident is thought to have been due to the giving way of two concrete beams, which caused the heavy cement roof to fall through the building into the cellar. It is thought that frost got into the concrete, which was not quite set, and caused the beams to give way. The dead are:

Emery Brault, 30 years of age, of St. James street, St. Johns.

Benoit, 24 years of age, of Champlain street, St. Johns.

Chauvin, 48 years of age, of Iberville.

London, March 18.—Colonel Malone asked the Government in the House of Commons yestetrday whether the supplying of arms and munitions to Poland by the United States Government had received the approval of the supreme council. Andrew Bonar Law replied that any action which the United States may have seen fit to take in this matter could not suitably form the subject of a question and answer in the House.

SMALLPOX CASES THROUGH ONTARIO

Toronto, March 18.—Only one death in Ontario last week from smallpox was reported to the Provincial Department of Health. There were 101 smallpox cases in the province reported last week, as against 150 the previous week.

B. C. FRUIT GROWERS AND SUGAR SUPPLY

Want Government to Impress Sugar Refiners with Necessity of Early Supply.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Ottawa, March 18.—A deputation representing the fruit growers of British Columbia met the British Columbia members of Parliament yesterday, to urge upon them the necessity for steps being taken to impress upon the sugar refiners, through Government channels, the need for releasing supplies of sugar early in the year. The deputation claimed that sugar supplies were often held by the refiners until late in the canning season, at which time there was a general rush of orders, with a consequent rise in price. They sought to avoid this state of affairs during the coming season by having supplies available for purchase early.

Machine Guns Turned Upon Revolutionists at Leipsig

Fighting Is Still Proceeding on the Streets, but the Ebert Government Forces Appear to Hold Their Own—Famous Leipsig Fair in Progress.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Coblenz, March 18.—A telephone message received yesterday from an American at Leipzig, said conditions there are very bad. Fighting, in which machine guns are being used, was proceeding. Food was growing short and the water had been cut off. The government troops were still holding their own against the revolutionists.

The message said there were many foreigners in the city attending the Leipzig fair, [illegible] that there had been no casualties among them.

YOU WILL NOT GET THE "FLU"

If You Build Up Your Run-Down Condition

It Attacks People Who Are All Worn Out, Anaemic, Devitalized and Weak

Strong People Never Get Influenza

During every epidemic it is always the weak, run-down, overworked, devitalized men, women and children who so quickly fall a prey to the ravages of disease.

When, therefore, an epidemic is prevalent why not use a little precaution and build up the tired out, run-down over-worked, devitalized members of your family by giving them VINOL.

There is nothing that acts so quickly as a tonic reconstructor. It makes red corpuscles, enriches the blood, quickens the circulation, sharpens the appetite, promotes sound sleep, and imparts strength, vitality and energy to every organ and muscle in the body.

Your physician recommends VINOL and your druggist agrees to return your money if it fails to benefit.

For all run-down, nervous, anaemic conditions, weak women, overworked men, feeble old people and delicate children there is no remedy like VINOL.

Governmen... In The Enfo... ...ohibition Act

Members for Albert Explain Their Position Regarding Amendment to Address in Legislature---Mr. Potts of St. John Charges Government Interference in Enforcement of Prohibition Act-- Mr. Peck Says Somebody Pulled in $300,000 on Two Bond Issues.

Expectations in Government circles that the debate on the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne and the amendment proposed by Hon. J. A. Murray, leader of the Opposition, to make the stumpage rate $7 per thousand feet would be completed yesterday afternoon, the vote taken and the Address passed were rudely upset.

Mr. Smith, of Carleton, who had moved the adjournment of the debate on Tuesday afternoon, pleaded illness and in his place Mr. Potts of St. John city spoke at some length, discussing various subjects in the Speech from the Throne and causing more or less of a stir by some of his remarks which were delivered in his own inimitable style.

That was only the first upset and the next came when first Mr. Peck and then Mr. Smith, the members for Albert, after sharply attacking the Government on matters of general policy, announced in brief speeches that they would not support the amendment as moved by the Opposition leader to make the stumpage $7 because they did not favor making a flat rate. They expressed the opinion very strongly that the stumpage rate should be increased, but said they would vote against both the amendment and the motion to adopt the Address.

Just as Mr. Smith concluded his remarks Premier Foster returned from the Speaker's rooms to the Assembly Chamber, evidently expecting to bring about a vote, but only to find his battery of heaviest artillery open an unexpected barrage while, effective, at least showed a lack of co-ordination on the part of the Government forces anyway. Hon. P. J. Veniot evidently couldn't pass up the opportunity to make a slashing speech in the presence of the crowds of delegates to the Farmers' convention who thronged the galleries. The Minister of Public Works doesn't believe in defensive fighting and he was true to form in that respect. On the stumpage question he assumed the role of champion of the North Shore lumber operators, declared that, if there had been any big profits such as had been alleged made by the lumbermen, those who were getting dich must operate in the southern part of New Brunswick. An advance in stumpage rates in places where such profits as had been referred to might be all right, but in the northern part of the province where the operations were carried on long distances from the mills into the forests the expenses involved made large profits absolutely impossible.

MR. POTTS, OF ST. JOHN.

Attacks Government for Failure to Appoint Returned Soldiers and and Charges "Monkeying" With Prohibition Enforcement.

Mr. Potts in the early portion of his speech brought up the records of the Premier and members of the Government in the war crisis and brought the situation of the House to the fact that when Hon. F. B. Carvell's appointment to the high position of chairman of the Railway Commission had been referred to by Premier Foster in his speech in the debate the reference that former leader of the Liberals of New Brunswick brought forth no applause from the Government side of the House.

Then he twitted the Premier about his war record and declared that he was not a fit representative of the province to welcome home the soldiers returning from overseas. If the policy of the party followed by the Premier and his supporters had been followed the soldiers would have been left to die in the trenches, the member for St. John declared.

"Shame," shouted Hon. Mr. Veniot.

"I don't want to make an exhibition of you," replied Mr. Potts, pointing a finger menacingly at the Minister of Public Works.

"One exhibition is enough at a time," replied Hon. Mr. Veniot.

Mr. Potts then attacked the Government upon their failure to appoint returned soldiers to positions and to live up to their promises to the returned men in that regard. He mentioned, as cases in point, the positions of clerk and clerk assistant of the House, which had both been filled by the appointment of young men of military age without overseas service records. "Does the Government say that among all the vetetrans of the war there were none with records of service who were not capable of filling those positions?" asked Mr. Potts to the evident discomfort of the Government.

Then Mr. Potts came back at the Premier for his remarks in his speech regarding something the member for St. John was supposed to have said during the recent convention of the Opposition, which he would recall, notably, when he expressed his displeasure with the selection of four Catholics as delegates to the National Liberal Convention at Ottawa from St. John, "Do you know yet where you stand in politics?" he shouted across the floor at the Premier, with much heat.

Protection as the only policy under which Canada could recover her former position, the inadequacy of teachers' salaries, the impossibility of satisfactorily developing water powers under Government ownership because of the political leaches which stuck around the ruinous policy of administration of the Workmen's Compensation Act under which huge salaries had been shouldered upon those who had to carry the burden were all discussed in turn.

Government Interference in Prohibition.

Then Mr. Potts hit the subject of prohibition and he slashingly attacked the Government in this regard, charging that the Government "must be receiving something from the liquor people to allow things to be run the way they are" in the enforcement of the Prohibition Act. "Is anybody in close touch with the Government receiving any rewards?" he asked. Ninety per cent. of the liquor was being sold without leave or license, he alleged, and vendors didn't want to see a person bringing in a prescription because that meant they would have to sell at the listed prices.

"Has the chief inspector been given a free hand to appoint and dismiss his sub-inspectors, the vendors and others concerned in the enforcement of the Prohibition Act?" he asked. "If the chief inspector's hands are not tied, I'd like to know why. I want honest prohibition, if we are to have it; but the Government by "monkeying" with it has made it a farce. The rich man can get all the liquor he wants whenever he wants it if he will just pay the price. Is the Premier tampering with the chief inspector? Some poor man in St. John is fined $200 for having a drink in a bottle that is found in his pocket, but it only costs him $8 if he is arrested for being drunk and has all his liquor in him. That's why people instead of taking a drink or two, as they did before prohibition, now consume a bottle or two. But poor men like those to whom I have referred are landed on while the bigger offenders who are becoming rich get by. I am prepared to force an investigation if I cannot get the information I want in the House. There are some peculiar things I may be in a position to tell about the enforcement of prohibition in St. John before the session is over."

Mr. Potts characterized Premier Foster as "the boy Premier" and described Hon. Mr. Veniot as an "advertiser, or one who knows something about publicity and is taking advantage of it." The Minister of Public Works, however, was taking care of his friends, he said, and he wished the party on his side of the House had followed that policy more precisely when in power.

Just as he was winding up his speech by a doleful tale that the Government would soon be dead and buried the large clock which has lately been installed directly across the assembly chamber from the Speaker's throne slowly tolled the hour of five o'clock while members on both sides broke into outbursts of laughter. Before sitting down Mr. Potts thanked the Speaker for courtesies and said he felt sorry for the Speaker the previous day when the Premier had put him in an awkward position by embarking on a speech which was not at all in accordance with the rules of order, inasmuch as it dealt with other subjects than the amendment which had been introduced.

MR. PECK, OF ALBERT.

Declares That Somebody Made $300,000 at Expense of Province in Financial Transactions.

Mr. Peck, of Albert, featured his contribution to the debate by charging that huge amounts had been made by somebody in the handling of the provincial bond issues and also in the transaction by which Premier Foster had declared more than $600,000 had been saved the province in the redemption of St. John Valley Railway guaranteed debentures stock which had been held in London as a result of the exchange situation.

There had been one case in which bonds had been sold at 96 and the same bonds were afterwards disposed of at $106, which meant that somebody had made $100,000 that the province might as well have had on the transaction of a million dollars, as the farmers and other residents of the province were prepared to buy the bonds at retail direct from the Government and there was thus a sure market for them without expense.

"I am not surprised at hon. gentlemen opposite forgetting that transaction," commented Mr. Peck as he gave the date of the transaction and quoted page A36 of the last Auditor General's report when Hon. C. W. Robinson, president of the executive council, asked for information as to when there had been such a flotation.

Then Mr. Peck went on to charge that somebody had made $200,000 through the exchange on New York funds in handling the redemption of the Valley Railway guaranteed stock.

Mr. Peck endorsed Mr. Magee's proposals that the Martime Provinces unite in having tests made of the feasibility of harnessing the tides at the Petitcodiac River for producing electric power and said the seconder of the address was entitled to congratulations for having displayed nerve enough to extol the acts of the Government. He attacked the Premier and the Government for failure to fill the vacancy in Carleton county's representation, which now existed for the fourth session, while he warned the farmers they were next in line to feel the direct taxation which the Government was placing on one class of citizens after another.

Mr. Peck quoted figures of a lumber operation he had carried on personally to show that under circumstances which had existed he had actually lost several hundred dollars on 263,000 feet of lumber which he cut, manufactured and sold and on which the stumpage he paid was only $3.13 per thousand. This transaction, he said, took place a year ago and the price he had received was $29 per thousand feet. He said he believed Mon. Mr. Murray was right in his contention that the stumpage rates should be increased, but he favored having the lands properly classified and as he was against the policy of a flat rate he would vote against the amendment, as well as the adoption of the Address.

MR. SMITH, OF ALBERT.

Declares Public Health Act Has Proven Unworkable in Country Districts.

Particular attention was paid to the speech of Lewis Smith, the junior member for Albert, because he is the lone soion who is a member of the United Farmers of New Brunswick. However, he made little reference to the agrarian movement beyond saying that the farmers believed they were competent of assisting in carrying on the business of the country and said he would be surprised if later on they were not more strongly represented in the Legislature.

He attacked the Health Act as unworkable in country districts and said the reason Hon. Dr. Roberts was acting as Minister of Public Health without salary was because of a "safety first" policy that had been adopted as a result of fear against opening up the St. John constituency. The Albert County Council, he said, had voted unanimously — even to a standard bearer of the Government party—against the Act after having it in use for a year, although with some amendments to simplify things he believed the Act could be made into useful legislation that would be practical in its character as well.

The roads in certain parts of Albert County the past year, he said, had been in a most disgraceful state, mud being shovelled out of the gutters upon some stone and allowed to remain there that way while the byroads had been shamefully neglected.

Regarding the stumpage, Mr. Smith said, in concluding his practical speech, that there was little doubt that the present rates were in many places too low. However, he was opposed to fixing a flat rate of $7, as had been proposed, but believed a classification of the Crown Lands was necessary and that it was up to the Government to fix stumpage as warranted. He would vote against both the amendment and the adoption of the Address and wanted to explain his position.

HON. P. J. VENIOT.

Minister of Public Works Claims that Adoption of Amendment Would Cripple Lumber Industry.

Hon. Mr. Veniot said that the adoption of the amendment of the leader of the Opposition would mean the crippling of one of New Brunswick's best industries. He attacked the Opposition party for having passed an order in council fixing the stumpage rate at $1.50 for a period of ten years in 1914 and said that this could only have been rescinded on the grounds that there had been fraud somewhere in connection with the bargain. The $115,000 which the men in the lumber business had given up, was the explanation of that order in council which, he said, "was wrung from Hon. Mr. Flemming on April 1st—an appropriate event for All Fools' Day."

He claimed that the amendment to the Address as moved by the Opposition leader was out of order and might have been shut out as such, but if that had been done there would at once have gone up the cry that the Government was hiding behind technicalities. This Government had already refused to fix a rate when requested to do so by the Lumbermen's Association and were competent to act in an independent manner in dealing with the stumpage in the future, as they were not under the influence of the lumbermen.

The Minister of Public Works then referred to suggestions made from the Opposition side of the House that the Government were not all in unison but these charges were probably made, he said, to attract attention away from themselves. The Opposition members, according to all reports, had not even been consulted before the amendment was brought in and the only explanation could be that the leader did not feel he could trust his supporters. He was glad to hear the independent attude the members for Albert assumed and laughingly told them he, as Minister of Public Works would look after the "cross benches" installed in "no man's land" if they asked to have them.

Regarding lumbering operations Mr. Veniot claimed that portage of as far as 80 miles was required for supplies and men in connection with some of the lumber operations of the Bathurst Lumber Company and others on the North Shore, while the logs had to be brought out in the spring by long, expensive drives. The lath market, he claimed, was unsteady and could not hold at prices which had been quoted. Last fall, he said, they sold at $2.95 per thousand feet and two months ago brought only $4.75 and $4.85.

Hon. Mr. Venfot moved the adjournment of the debate, which is being continued this afternoon.

Still No Telling When Debate Ends

Hon. P. J. Veniot, Minister of Public Works, is to continue his speech in the debate on the Address and the proposed amendment thereto in the Legislature today.

There is no telling how long the debate will continue or when it will end, but the indications do not point to an early finish or to the debate petering out as was forecasted in Government circles yesterday.

With Twenty-eight Competitors He Won Chocolates at Marysville.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Marysville, N. B., March 18.—The Guild of Main street Baptist church met at the home of Mrs. J. Walter Walker Tuesday evening. There was a large attendance of members present and a very enjoyable evening was passed.

Mrs. Frank Robinson is confined to her home with a sprained ankle.

Miss Lois Gilmour is confined to her home with la grippe.

The field in rear of Dr. McIntyre's has furnished excellent skating during the past few days, there being a large sheet of ice on which the young people have had splendid amusement. Among those who appeared on the ice was a well known deacon, who nobody ever suspected could skate. After getting on the ice he skated around leisurely for a few minutes, and then put on a burst of speed which surprised all present, and they stopped to watch him perform. Having circled the rink several times very rapidly he glided to the centre of the rink and commenced to execute some very fancy skating movements, while the spectators looked on in amazement. The explanation is simple—the deacon learned to skate at Douglas some fifty years ago.

Councillor William McElwain was taken ill yesterday morning with la grippe, and is now confined to his home on George street.

Friends of Mrs. Moses Pond will learn with regret that she is again confined to her room with illness.

Mrs. James Loney's condition is now considerably improved.

Miss Francis Haines is now convalescent.

Frank R. Dunbar won the roll off Tuesday evening at the Dawson Club, capturing the five pound box of chocolates. There were 28 competitors in the roll off.

F. D. Tweedie, of Woodstock, is a guest at the Barker House.

SCORES IMMOD[illegible] OF WO[illegible]

Rev. W. [illegible] Dance Scores [illegible]

Boston, March 17.—Modern st[illegible]s in feminine apparel, improper dances, and the immodest pictures exhibited in motion picture houses of the South End, together with advertisements of the pictures posted near the churches of the district, were roundly scored last evening by Rev. W. Harry Freda, minister of the Clarendon Street Baptist Church, Clarendon and Tremont streets, in his sermon, "The Most Dangerous Road Between Boston and San Francisco."

Rev. Mr. Freda prefaced his remarks by speaking of the value of travel as an educational factor, but decried the dangers encountered in travel on account of the trend of modern life.

"Today the most dangerous way is the way which seemeth right, but ends in death," he said. "The way today is 'the easiest way,' the most popular way, the way beset with evil influences. It is a splendid thing to be big and broad-minded, but some folks are inclined to be too broad as regards the pitfalls that are in the road of the traveller today.

"Many crimes are committed and there are other dangers arising from the dance halls of our city, due to improper leadership in these halls. The immodesty and indecency of dress today is shocking."

He urged his hearers to take an active interest in the bill now pending to place motion picture reels under State supervision.

AMATEUR THEATRICALS.

Her Gloves Made a Decided Hit Last Evening When Every Seat in Opera House Was Taken.

Long before the curtain rang up at 8.30 o'clock last evening the S. R. O. sign was hung out and many were unable to gain admittance to see the farce comedy, "Her Gloves" put on by St. Dunstan's Dramatic Club.

The comedy, in three acts, concerned a pair of gloves and many and amusing were the situations that arose over the finding of same on board the yacht of Jefferson Ruggles, played by A. J. Hanlon, and Walter Dillingham, his son-in-law, played by G. T. Feeney. Robert Slocum (Leo Cain), a friend of the family, finds the gloves on the yacht and brings them to the Ruggles home and then the fun began, in trying to make excuses for the gloves being on the yacht when no ladies were supposed to be in the party.

James Collins as the wife of Jefferson Ruggles, made a decided hit, and J. A. Cain, as Charles Brooks, who in trying to help his friends out of their difficulty, got in wrong with his own wife, and played his part well. Murray Cain, as Jim Ryan, the theatrical manager, took the part of an enraged husband splendidly—in fact, as well as many professionals have done.

Miss Mabelle Carton, as Blanche Dillingham, wife of Walter, portrayed the character of the injured wife and she did it very cleverly and many complimentary remarks on her clever acting were heard during the evening. Miss Marie Feeney, as Miss Valeska Bijou, a leading lady who caused all the trouble in the family by leaving her gloves aboard the yacht, won applause for the manner in which she carried out her role. Miss Alice Toner, as the youngest member of the Ruggles family, was very good in her character of a young maiden in love with Bobbie Slocum; Miss Mary Grannen, as the enraged wife of Charles Brooks, provoked scream after scream as she wielded her parasol in impotent rage at her erring spouse.

Between the acts, C. D. Holder gave Irish selections on the banjo and had to respond to an encore. Miss Eva Brewer, who is always heard with pleasure by a Fredericton audience, sang Mavourneen very sweetly and had to respond to an encore. Miss Marraquita Deeds made a decided hit with her Irish jig and her appearance again will be looked forward to with pleasure.

UNREST IN EAST.

No portion of the world has escaped the war's reactions. These have differed, according to temperamental aptitudes; but they have been universally operative. The East has felt the upheaval, which has thrown so much that was erstwhile precious in human life into the melting pot of character and destiny. Sporadic risings in the East, and especially in India, attest the inter-relation of every human interest, points out an exchange. In India the situation has given grave concern to the British Government, which has just applied a Home Rule measure of generous character, with prospect of success, as far as the sane and substantial elements are concerned, but which certain hectic elements, heady and half-baked theories of independence, refuse to accept. There have been riots on a large scale in many parts of India. Severe measures have had to be resorted to, for any sign of weakness by the handful of Europeans who govern 400,000,000 people would be fatal to the prestige of the authorities. The people of India are impressed by the outward symbols of power; and the resolute action of the military, which has been condemned in some quarters, has given a drastic lesson to the recalcitrants. The people of India have been incalculably benefited by British rule, as responsible elements admit; but Britain is now suffering embarrassment, because of her generous policies which, among other things, provide for the education of the natives. This, while generally beneficial, had the effect, among the younger elements, of stimulating the desire for independence, which the war taught them might be accomplished by insurrection. That word seems too much for what actually happened; but the Government has had to use large and resolute forces to maintain order. In Egypt we see the effect of Bolshevik propaganda, which is also an aftermath of the war. The Milner commission, now in Egypt for the purpose of sizing up the situation, was treated very coldly at the start; but is now making good impression. The people of Egypt have cause to thank Britain for the work of uplift she has wrought amongst them. By her policies she has conferred upon the people a degree of comfort they never dreamed of under Khedival rule. She rescued the "Fellaheen" from the rapacity of their masters; made great canals and dams of world renown; and commanded the Nile to give three crops instead of one. Moreover, she set up schools, as in India; and suffers (at least temporarily) from the enlightenment she conferred. The younger element, bitten by the restlessness of the world and the desire for self-determination, as it is called by every handful of people everywhere, demanded independence. The reply in each case has been the determination to proceed with policies benefiting all classes of the people—even though, in many cases, the seditious are plotting British overthrow. The interesting point is this: Britain regards herself as having moral responsibility for the native races she rules; and, convinced of that, she is not deflected from her purposes of betterment, even though all are not grateful for the same. The large fact, to which the world is not indifferent, is that Britain, by her treatment of subject peoples, has, in a marked and magnanimous degree, made for human uplift.

A RAILWAY BAROMETER.

The financial statement of the operations of the Canadian Pacific Railway during the year 1919 will be counted satisfactory and in a notable way. The traffic created by the war was on the decline from the beginning of the twelve months, and though it figured in the business of all the roads, especially in the first half of the year, it was not so great a factor as during the period when troops were being moved outward, with great quantities of munitions and supplies. As the Montreal Gazette points out, the ordinary peace time business on which the transportation interests depend for permanent success was behind the showing of earnings which were the greatest of any year in the history of the company. Comparing the results of the operation of the railway and lake steamers in 1918 and 1919, the following is shown:

Earnings	$157,537,698	$176,929,060
Expenses	123,035,310	143,996,024
Net earnings ..	$ 34,502,387	$ 32,933,036

In July, 1918, an increase of some twenty per cent. was authorized in freight rates to meet the increase in wages and other operating and maintenance expenses, following like action in the United States. This, however, would account for only part of the increased earnings of 1919. The rest is to be attributable, it is presumed, to greater service rendered. It is noticeable that the raising of the rates brought no profit to the company. The increase in earnings was $19,391,000; the increase in operating expenses was $20,960,000. The year of largest gross earnings showed net earnings $1,569,000 less than the year of the smaller total revenue given. And this state of affairs is probably repeated in businesses besides those of the railways. As it is, the Canadian Pacific record is satisfactory. Probably no other great railway on the continent will show its equal; most will have reason to envy it. And as it could not have been made in a country that was not fairly busy with profitable trade, it is a cause of congratulation generally.

LIVE FROZEN FISH.

How many people have thought out the commercial practicability of shipping live fish in a frozen state? asks the Quebec Telegraph. The fish do not mind the freezing process at all, so that is no element of cruelty in it. In fact, to be frozen alive is the natural winter condition of some fish, through it may not be generally known that freezing live fish does not necessarily kill them. They belong to the class of creatures that have variable body temperatures, depending on the temperature of their environment. In extreme cold they assume a rigid condition, in which all the vital functions are suspended, while life still remains present. During several months of each year some of the great rivers of Siberia are frozen solid to the bottom, but many of the fishes imprisoned in the ice retain their vitality and resume their active life when the ice melts in the spring.

This fact has suggested experiments in the freezing of live fish for transportation. Many years ago a celebrated physicist, Pictet, of Geneva, put fresh-water fish into a tub of water, which he kept liquid at the freezing point for twenty-four hours, and then allowed to freeze slowly into a solid block of ice. When the ice was melted a month or even two months afterwards, the fishes began to swim as briskly as they did before freezing, and showed no symptoms of ill-health. Similar experiments were made in France. The fishes were placed in water which had been kept near the freezing point for a few hours, then at the freezing point for fifteen to eighteen hours, and finally frozen by immersion of the vessel into a freezing mixture, producing a cake of ice a few inches thick, in which the fishes were embedded. This cake was wrapped in cloth and surrounded with a heat-insulating package to prevent melting during transportation. It is necessary to thaw the ice very slowly and to keep the water near the freezing point for several hours in order to preserve the life of the fishes. Even those which do not survive are in a perfect state of preservation.

$100,000 BLAZE IN NOVA SCOTIA TOWN

Five Buildings Destroyed and Others Badly Damaged at Annapolis Royal.

Bridgetown, N. S., March 18.—A disastrous fire broke out Tuesday night in the town of Annapolis Royal. Five buildings were destroyed and several others badly damaged. The loss is estimated at over $100,000. The buildings burned: were Bank of Nova Scotia.

McDormand's grocery.
Western Union Telegraph Company.
Jefferson's boot and shoe store.

Government building, containing post office, customs house and other offices.

H. A. West's hardware store and A. M. King's dry goods store were considerably damaged, and much stock destroyed.

The residence of R. P. Sanderson was damaged, and several other buildings slightly damaged.

The fire started in the Bank of Nova Scotia building, and with the town's limited fire-fighting appliances, the flames spread rapidly.

The firemen worked hard to check the fire, but it was several hours before they were successful.

Fortunately there was only a light wind blowing. So far as could be ascertained no person was injured.

RE-ESTABLISHMENT BILL

Government Defeated on point Special Investigation.

Ottawa, March 17.—The Re-establishment of returned men monopolized the day's proceedings in the house. Last year a separate committee of the house investigated re-establishment at some length. But there were several fields, which the committee admittedly was unable to explore, and today, Major Andrews, of Winnipeg (himself a returned man), moved the appointment of another special committee. Early in the debate Sir George Foster, repeating the promise made by Mr Rowell a few days ago, declared that it was the intention of the government to appoint a committee. It would be a committee empowered "to take up and carry on from the point that the old committee left off." But the government was not in a position to give its decision "off the bat."

On this, there was some murmuring among the opposition. "The government," Sir George added, "does not propose to burk or smother the question. It proposes to take the best means in its power, after a little consideration, to see that these investigations are carried on."

Major Andrews in prseenting his motion urged that re-establishment should be settled at home, in the same spirit as was shown by the men when they went overseas. Lieut.-Col. Peck, V. C., supporting, thought that the question should come before the committee in this order: Pensions, re-establishment, gratuities. Support, too, was given to the motion by Captain McGibbon and Captain Manion, former citing instances of present hardship in civilian life suffered by returned men. Captain Power, while supporting the action, hoped that the appointment of a cimmittee would not be used as a camouflage before next week's G. W. V. A. convention at Montreal.

T. W. Caldwell, Carleton (N. B.), thought there was something wrong with the pension law. He also criticized the soldiers settlement act, which he said, would probably do very little to increase production, at any rate, in Eastern Canada. There was little government land being taken up in the east. He thought the object of the soldiers settlement act was a good one, inasmuch as it was to encourage men to engage in what he considered "the noblest calling on earth."

Mr. Turgeon, Gloucester (N. B.), was informed of a small indemnity, say $400.00 or $500.00, to returned men to enable them to set up in business for themselves. He did not think many sensible returned soldiers would go before a committee and ask something which seemed to him to be a form of charity.

H. B. Morphy, Perth North, adjourned the debate. The house was adjourned at 6 p. m. until tomorrow on motion of Mr. Rowell, who announced that tomorrow would be private members day.

URGE HOUSEWIVES TO SECURE SUGAR

No Export License Will Be Granted Refineries While the Canadian Demand Lasts.

Ottawa, March 17.—House wives of Canada are urged to begin now laying in a supply of sugar for the canning season, buying a few pounds extra each week from now on, until they have sufficient set aside to cover their canning requirements. Control over import and export of sugar has been vested in the Canadian Trades Commission, which body will grant no export licenses while there is a demand in Canada for sugar. However, there is no likihood of a reduction in prices, and it is pointed out that because of increased population, higher wages, and prohibition the consumption of sugar has increased twenty per cent. In regard to prohibition it is said that many people are taking to sweets as stimulants, where they formerly used liquor.

It is pointed out also that Canadian refiners could secure at the present time an average of $1.35 per hundred more by exporting their sugar to the United States market than they can get in Canada, but despite this they will not be allowed to export while there is a demand here.

ENDORSES $2,000 BONUS FOR VETS

Winnipeg, March 18.—R. C. Irving, Dominion secretary of the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada, yesterday announced that the association, as was stated in an Ottawa despatch, had endorsed the proposal of J. H. Flynn for $2,000 cash bonus for veterans who had served in France.

It being impossible to drive a team over the blocked highways to take Clayton Rogers of Northfield, N. H., attacked by appendicitis, to the hospital at Franklin, half a dozen men with a pung sleigh went over the road on snowshoes and hauled Mr. Rogers out.

THE PEOPLE

To THE EDITOR OF THE GLEANER:

Sir,—I would like to ask through your People's Column:

In a recent issue I read an article from the "Allied Supreme Council," now in Paris, about loaning money to Germany. Now, sir, I would like to ask you, after what Germany has done, putting everything into practice to ruin the Allies, why are we now asked to help them financially? Have we not enough to do to pay our own debt? What did our brave soldiers, nurses and people suffer and sacrifice all for? And why are they asked for a loan to help these same people who planned the destruction of the world. Fancy only a short while ago the whole world was raging against these same people we are now asked to help. From 1914 to 1918 it was murder, loot, arson, and the despoiling of women. In 1919 to 1920 there is a different tale to tell. I could myself write columns in your paper on what I have suffered and witnessed at the hands of these same men, where women were driven by bayonets to witness the murder of their husbands, their dear children and others. Where are our leaders, our statesmen, who asked for money? They planned all for destruction, let them plan now for reconstruction and paying our war debt. My opinion is the Allies won the war but have lost the peace.

Yours,
A WOMAN PRISONER OF WAR.

CITY RENTALS.

To the Editor of the Gleaner,

Sir,—Much has been written concerning the rent problem and its control. An idea has occurred to me which would possibly prevent landlords from making exorbitant increases from time to time. Could not the City Council pass a bye-law enacting that all rentals shall be based on the assessed value of the property, to work out somewhat as follows: An 8-roomed house at, say, $3,900 fair market value would be assesed at about $2,700; maximum rental to be fixed at $1.00 per hundred of this latter sum, which would be $27.00. A 6-roomed house, fair market value, say, $3,400, assessed at about $2,300; rental if fixed at $1.00 per hundred of assessment would afford $23.00, which monthly rentals, I think you will concede are not unfair to landlords or unreasonable for tenants. The rentals for properties cited range from $45 to $35, 8 and 6 rooms respectively, under the increases demanded May 1st. Apartment houses and stores can be worked out on the same basis.

Yours,
CITIZEN.
Fredericton, March 17, 1920.

WANTS A WIFE.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Will you give me space in your People's Column to put my wants before your readers.

I am a returned soldier, twenty-five years of age, and had three years' service in France. Since my return home I have been lonely and think the best cure for my loneliness is to get married. Now, I would like a girl about twenty years old, short, and one who thinks she could learn to love me. I am short myself, have dark brown hair, brown eyes and a good complexion, and think I would make a good husband for a good girl. Maybe the girl who refused the fellow the other day would have me, and I hope to hear from some nice girl soon.

Yours,
MIKE.

Lighthouses have always been a cause of great mortality among birds, which during their nocturnal migrations are dazzled by the light and beat themselves to death against the tower. Now lighthouses in the British Islands are being converted into harbors of safety for the birds through the construction of a great many perches and rests beneath the lights, and whereas formerly thousands of dead birds were often picked up at the base of a single lighthouse during the migration season, it is now a rare sight to find one bird beneath any of the improved towers.

COLDS BRING 'FLU; CHECK THEM NOW!

Take Grip-Fix and Avoid the Chance of Severe and Dangerous Complications.

"Jump right on every cold when it first appears and your chances of escaping 'flu are good." "Take care of yourself and you are safe." These expressions sum up pretty well the advice that physicians are giving their patients just now.

Suppose you could find a remedy that would knock a bad cold in a single night and do the work safely and surely, you would feel fairly safe from the 'flu, wouldn't you? Well, that remedy has been found. Just walk into any drug store. Say "Grip-Fix" and get the box that contains the reliable little capsules that always do the trick.

Grip-Fix is prepared from a formula a well known physician has been using for many years to check colds. Its contents are plainly printed on every box. If you are afraid of preparations sold over the drug counter, submit the formula of Grip-Fix to your family doctor and ask him what he thinks of the combination of drugs it contains.

Grip-Fix has a record behind it. Thousands of serious colds have vanished through its agency. It is put up in the easily assimilated capsule form and is perfectly safe to take. Just follow the directions carefully—Grip-Fix will do the rest.

You can get Grip-Fix [illegible] any druggist at 35 cents per box.

Want a Commission to Fix Fair Prices of Farm Produce For New Brunswick People

Farmers' and Dairymen's Association Pass Resolution Suggesting That Cost "on Basis of Eight-hour Day Plus Reasonable Profit" Be Investigated—North Shore Experimental Sta.

The New Brunswick Farmers & Dairymen's Association at their convention here last night passed a resolution calling upon the Provincial Government to appoint a commission "to ascertain the actual cost of farm produce on the basis of an eight-hour day plus a reasonable profit."

The preamble to the resolution recites that "the cost of all farm produce is considered by the city consumers to be too high" and that "the farmer is still entitled to the current rate of pay for his labor" and the Government are asked to have the report of the commission published as soon as received. The resolution was moved by T. A. Goggin, of Albert County, and seconded by J. R. Taylor, of Westmorland County.

Other resolutions called upon the Federal Government to establish an experimental station on the North Shore and to establish abbatoir, cold storage and stockyards at the most advantage point in the Maritime Provinces. The Provincial Government were asked to provide a text book on elementary agriculture in the public schools and to provide a quantity of clay tile for underdrainage to be distributed through the agricultural societies.

Still another resolution that was adopted asked that an egg laying contest be held for New Brunswick at the Experimental Station at Fredericton, starting on Nov. 1st next, while a resolution which caused much discussion set forth that the association should not hold its convention during the week of the 17th of March so as not to call delegates away from home where they would wish to celebrate St. Patrick's Day. Rev. Father de la Garde, of Nash's Creek, led the forces in favor of this resolution, but it was finally voted down, an amendment being adopted which left the matter in the hands of the executive.

There was a musical programme and an address by Rev. R. A. Robinson, of Stanley, on Community Social centres, while Co-operative Marketing of Wool, Lambs and Other Live Stock was discussed by F. W. Walsh, acting live stock superintendent, New Brunswick Department of Agriculture; J. K. King and Robert Donaldson, representative of the Dominion Live Stock Division, at Moncton.

Some of the Resolutions.

The resolution asking the Dominion Government to establish abbatoir, cold storage, and stock yards in the Maritime Provinces at some point yet to be determined upon, in the interests of the live stock industry of the Maritime Provinces, was passed unanimously after considerable discussion by A. E. Trites, of Salisbury, and R. M. Bynon, of Harrisville, Hon. J. F. Tweeddale, Minister of Agriculture, J. D. McKenna, R. M. Bynon and A. E. Trites were appointed a committee to proceed to Ottawa, in connection with the matter, by resolution.

A resolution asking for underdrainage of the land in the Province of New Brunswick and also asking for clay tile to be produced by the Department of Agriculture for distribution through the agricultural societies was passed after discuss'on by the mover and seconder, E. R. Raymond and F. H. Walsh.

Other resolutions introduced were:

(1) Resolved, that this convention submit to the Federal Department of Agricultural, the advantage of establishing an experimental station on the North Shore of this province. (Without discussion this resolution was passed unanimously).

(2) Resolved, that we, the Farmers' and Dairymen's Association, request that a delegation be here appointed to wait upon the Government and urge upon them the necessity of immediately inserting in the curriculum of our country schools such a text book on Elementary Agriculture as snall enable the pupil, at least by the time they have reached the fifth grade, to know what each of the various products or plants grown on the farm draws from the soil, and also the need and value of the fertilizer required to make the growing of that plant a success.

This resolution was introduced by R. M. Bynon, who referred to the necessity of young men knowing elementary agricultural before they ventured into the farming industry. This he stated would help to keep the boys on the farm by its creative interest as well as help fill a long felt want.

A. C. Gorham, Elementary Agricultural Instructor of Sussex, also had a word to say concerning the need for elementary agricultural education in the provinces. The need had been a long felt one and gave promise of being a very popular movement. The speaker stated it was not the method of farming, but the principles, which should be instilled into the young minds. Text books to fill the requirements of every province, which was no easy matter, should be adopted.

M. A. McLeod stated that he remembered a suggestion made some fifteen years ago that this should be taken up. It would be of much more value to the young people to study such elementary subjects rather than foreign birds and animals which interested them none in their home life.

The motion was passed, the legislative committee to be appointed by the meeting.

A motion introduced by a French member asking that no meetings in future be held during the week of St. Patrick's day was discussed. Rev. Father de la Garde, of Nash's Creek, stated in support of the motion that it was customary for most of the Catholics as well as men of other religious creeds to celebrate St. Patrick's day at home. After a good deal of discussion in which a division was shown, an amendment was moved that the question be left to the executive committee to decide the time of meeting. The amendment was carried on vote.

On motion it was decided to send the minutes of the convention to the secretaries of all agricultural societies of the province.

A resolution was then introduced as follows:

That this convention take up the matter of egg laying contests with the proper authorities, with the view of obtaining an egg laying contest at the Experimental Farm, New Brunswick, beginning November 1st, 1920.

This resolution was passed unanimously.

To Market Undrawn Poultry.

A resolution relative to the marketing of poultry undrawn, with heads and feet on, was introduced and passed after considerable discussion in which the advantage of this was shown. The resolution follows:

"Whereas, undrawn poultry passes through marketing channels (railway transit, storage, wholesale and retail stores) with less disease contamination and less deterioration than does drawn poultry;

"And whereas, cold storage managers will not accept drawn poultry for storage purposes because it will not keep;

"And whereas, the flesh of undrawn poultry has a fresher and more wholesome taste than has drawn poultry;

"And whereas, the consuming public have no safeguard against the consumption of diseased birds when poultry is drawn and the heads and the feet removed;

"And whereas, the markets of other provinces and of United States are demanding poultry marketed undrawn;

"And whereas, so long as New Brunswick poultrymen have to market drawn poultry they can never hope for a market other than their local market;

"Be it therefore resolved and it is hereby resolved that the farmers and dairymen of New Brunswick in annual convention assembled do recommend that poultry be marketed undrawn, with heads and feet attached;

"And be it further resolved, that a copy of this resolution be sent to each of the City Councils and to the leading newspapers of the province."

The following resolution was then approved:

"Whereas, the cost of all farm produce is considered by the city consumers to be too high; and whereas, the farmer is entitled to the current rate of pay for his labor;

"Resolved, that this Farmers and Dairymen's convention, now assembled, request the Provincial Government to appoint a commission to ascertain the actual cost of farm produce on the basis of an eight hour day, plus a reasonabale profit.

"The report of the commission to be published in all local papers and also in pamphlet form.'

This resolution, moved by T. A. Goggin and seconded by J. R. Taylor, was passed without discussion.

After the discussion on the resolutions Miss Hazel McCain rendered an excellent solo, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. J. E. Page. A vote of thanks was moved to both ladies for their efforts.

Community Social Centres.

Rev. R. A. Robinson, of Stanley, in dealing with Community Social Centres stated that the social centre meant everything that stood for welfare in the community. The environment was a great influence on the farmer and the Social Service Council was promoting an improvement in environments in order that men would hold higher regards for their communities.

The lives of men were lived as a portion of the community as a whole. Much had been said of the tendency of the youths to leave the farm, and one means of assisting youths to remain was the betterment of the influence of their communities by bringing all people, in the towns or villages in which they lived, together for recreation. Recreation, he said, kept the men young.

The ordinary public schools in many localities were often centres for such social meetings where both young and old gathered for recreation.

The speaker in referring to the political discussion threatened this afternoon advocated that the farmers bring their youths up in such a manner that they would learn to present their views on any subject without threatening to "knock any one's block off" for holding an opposite view to their own. Everybody should be at home in the social centre, with no quarrels but peaceful discussions. Men must do something to strengthen the life of the community in which they lived.

Miss Giberson, by request, rendered a splendid reading which received hearty applause. R. B. Flewelling and A. C. Gorham were called upon for vocal solos. Following the selections M. A. McLeod referred to these innovations on the programme of the Farmers' and Dairymen's Association and moved a vote of thanks, which was seconded by H. H. Magee, of Rothesay, and delivered by the president.

F. W. Walsh, acting live stock superintendent of the provincial Department of Agriculture, J. K. King, representative of the federal sheep division, of Moncton, and Robert Donaldson, representative of the Dominion live stock division, of Moncton, gave addresses on Co-operative Marketing of Wool, Lambs and other Live Stock. A GIRL [illegible] Forced to Dig in the Trenches.

New York, March 17.—Helena Saari, a Finnish girl who escaped from Russian trenches in the Carpathians and came to America in 1916, tells a story of brutality by Russian soldiers during the world war that is hard to find a parallel. She is now lying at the hospital of Dr. Andreas F. Christian, 401 Marlboro street, as a result of the fiendish treatment, and it will take several years of careful nursing before she can become entirely well.

She came to Dr. Christian on recommendation of a woman of her country. She had no money and was without friends. She was in such pain that Dr. Christian immediately began treatment. She told a Herald reporter last night that in 1914, when the war broke out, the Russians sent troops to Finland for training purposes, and that from the very start the Finns were ill used.

Cossacks Were Terrible.

"The Russians took everything we had," said she. "They taxed us terribly. We had to make bread for ourselves from a mixture of a little flour and bark of trees. At first the Russians put the Finnish men to work digging trenches outside of Finland. The women they put to work in the ammunition factories, and later digging trenches. You know we have terrible cold weather in Finland in the winter; sometimes it is 50 below zero. Well, sometimes in the warm weather we were up to our waists in water. The Russian soldiers were bad enough, but when the Cossacks came, oh, they were terrible. They are not civilized. The Finland policemen could do nothing. The Kirgice men are horrible. They stole us girls. In one hospital there were 500 girls as the result of ill-treatment. At Oulunkyta, in Finland, where I was first in the trenches, we were obliged to sleep in tents. It was five kilometres from my home and it was too far for me to walk. Sometimes I got home Saturday nights. All we had to eat was cabbage soup, black bread and tea. We worked Sundays as well as week days. I got sick and was in the hospital for four weeks. Russian sailors broke into the hospital and stole the girls.

Escaped to America.

"After I got away from the hospital I was sent to Reval, in Esthonia, to dig trenches. There we found that the Esthonian girls were doing the same kind of work. From there I was transferred to Carpathia, near Austria-Hungary, still digging trenches. When the Germans came near, we were sent farther on. I couldn't stand it any longer, so one day I stole away and came back to Finland. I could stay in my own country only 24 hours, because I had no passport. I started again, and with three boys and the use of some brandy they had, we got across the border into Sweden and finally into Christiania, Norway, where I worked in an emigrant station for board until I could get enough to pay my passage to America. I arrived in New York Sept. 24, 1916.

"In 1917, when the Finlanders started a revolution against Russia, the Russians took a minister away from his wife and children and crucified him, nailing him to a table head down. They burned other persons alive. One of the girls of the famous Death Battalion, a friend of mine, who had been captured by the Germans and recaptured by the Russians, received eight deep cuts across the face and body because she would not tell what she had seen while a German prisoner."

C. Gordon Sharpe, Secretary of United Farmers of New Brunswick, Finds Strong Defenders of Maritime Farmer Among the Farmers' and Dairymen's Delegates.

A lively row was precipitated at Wednesday afternoon's session of the annual convention of the New Brunswick Farmers and Dairymen's Association with the United Farmers' organization as the storm centre.

C. Gordon Sharpe, of Woodstock, secretary of the United Farmers of New Brunswick, had been introduced as a speaker by the secretary of the Associaton, although not on the programme. He expressed the belief that the western provinces were trying to "put something over" on the East. The West, he said, had been asked to help the United Farmers' Association and had done so upon request.

The manufacturers, he said, were said to have started a fund to fight the Farmers' movement and he found himself wondering where all this money was spent. These remarks, followed by the announcement that the United Farmers' Guide was being established in the Maritime Provinces "so that the United Farmers can have a paper of their own and get proper treatment which had been refused by the Maritime Farmer."

R. M. Bynon, of Harrisville, defended the Maritime Farmer and declared the United Farmers had organized at Woodstock "practically hidden from the rest of the province and had from their own results in this small section called the movement a provincial one."

The United Farmers' Secretary.

Mr. Sharpe in opening said he spoke in the interests of the United Farmers of the province. He stated that he was in favor of advancing the interests of the country as a whole and did not think that the Western Provinces were trying to "put something over" on the East. The West had been asked to help the United Farmers' Association and had done so on request.

He wanted to know why the Maritime Farmer did not publish a letter sent to it by Norman Lambert, secretary of the Canadian Council of Agriculture. It looked to him, he said, as if an attempt had been made to turn one part of the Maritime Provinces against the rest. He stated that the manufacturers were said to have started a fund to fight the Farmers' Movement and he found himself wondering where all this money was being spent. The United Farmers' Guide was a move of the Association to have a paper of their own and get proper treatment which had been denied them by the Maritime Farmer. He further protested against the campaign in Canada which was moving against the United Farmers' Movement.

R. M. Bynon, of Harrisville, arose and protested against the remarks of Mr. Sharpe, stating that the publication referred to, the Maritime Farmer, was the true friend of the farmer and he would not sit still while that paper or its editor, J. D. McKenna, were being criticised. The United Farmers had found a corner at Woodstock, he stated, where they had organized, practically hidden from the rest of the province, and had from their own results in this small section called the movement a provincial one.

H. H. Smith, of Hoyt, the treasurer, arose and started to speak when the course of discussion was halted by the President, who stated that it was becoming a question of politics and must be stopped.

Deputy Minister's Address.

E. P. Bradt, deputy Minister of Agriculture, was then called upon and stated that marketing conditions were very satisfactory for the dairy products but for live stock quite the reverse.

He had made a careful survey of the three eastern provinces and had carefully sized up the prevailing conditions. He stated that co-operative marketing of live stock should occupy the attention of the New Brunswick farmers. What had been done along this line had proved very advantageous.

Mr. Bradt stated that pure bred stock of the right kind had always brought beneficial results and experiments had shown that where pure bred bulls had been used for five years with a herd the profit from the milking cows had been doubled. In referring to the Agricultural Society plan regarding the bulls he stated that these societies would purchase the best bull possible and would receive the bonus for employing one of the best stock of bulls.

He read a copy of the Federal Act concerning the bull question and stated that this was probably the best example of legislation that had come to his notice. Those who obtained the legislation had to have the general public opinion behind them, he said, before they would get far.

In referring to the heavy draft horses he stated that these had been selling at a splendid price, while the general purpose horse was a drug on the market. He gave statistics of the number and character of the stallions in the province by counties and stated that 49 per cent. of these were pure bred.

Referring to the country boys and girls he stated he would like to see them given more encouragement. Getting together and exchanging ideas wrought a wonderful change in the associations of communities.

At the close of Mr. Bradt's address the French section of the delegates were addressed by M. Tardif, Assistant in Potato Diseases Inspection Work, of this city. J. A. Bernier, the second vice president of the Association, occupied the chair during the French address.

Build up successful industries on small capital. Men with brains and persistence who know their business can accomplish wonders

Now they are ready to expand and take care of the rapidly growing demand for the high class ladies' shoes they manufacture.

Turkish People Accept the Inevitable With Good Grace And Constantinople is Quiet

Leading Turks, However, Fear That the History of Egypt Will Be Repeated, and That the British Once in Control Will Never Let Go—Arrest Prominent Turk Leaders.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Constantinople, March 18.—The second day of the inter-Allied occupation of Constantinople, carried out on Tuesday by large forces from the imposing war fleet in the Bosphorus, passed with entire calm, the Turkish police co-operating in keeping order. The ferry and telephone services have ben resumed. Only small detachments of Allied soldiers are visible in he streets and about the public buildings.

The French and the Italians had only small forces here and they are far less active than the British troops, which are excellently organized and took over the city with the precision of clock work.

Among the prisoners taken were Essad Pasha, Nationalist leader, and Mohammed Pasha, who was Minister of War just before the Great War opened, and has been the chief organizer of the propaganda for an United States mandate.

The Turkish newspapers and the foreign office are so heavily censored that it is impossible to obtain authoritative Turkish view of the situation. Turks with whom the correspondent spoke, however, were free in declaring their opinion that Constantinople was about to repeat the history of Cairo, that the British would remain in Turkey as they have done in Egypt. Meanwhile the French and English newspapers here are featuring Paris and London despatches which allege the expectancy that the United States will assume responsiblity in restoring order in the Near East.

EX[illegible] VOTE ON STUMPAGE RATES TODAY

First Division in Legislature Will Take Place Late This Afternoon.

THE LUMBERMEN'S ASSOCIATION MEET

President Snowball in Annual Address Says Abnormal Profits Not Made.

The first division of the present session of the Legislature is expected late this afternoon on the amendment to the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne to increase the stumpage rates from $3 and $3.50 to $7.

At noon today it was said that the debate was expected to be closed by Mr. Smith, of Carleton, who will follow Hon. P. J. Venoit, Minister of Public Works, and unless something unexpected occurs this amendment will be voted down and the Address adopted before the House adourns about 6 o'clock.

So far as can be learned the vote will be a straight party division with the exception of the two members for Albert, Mr. Peck and Mr. Smith, who have announced they will vote against both the amendment and the Address, as they do not favor the policy of a flat stumpage rate but rather classified charges according to location and other conditions.

Lumbermen's Association Meeting.

The annual meeting of the New Brunswick Lumbermen's Association is taking place here this afternoon, but W. B. Snowball, of Chatham, the president, said that this was merely a coincident, as the date had been fixed some time ago and had nothing whatever to do with the fact that the stumpage question was before the Legislature at this time. Lumbermen from all over the province are here and President Snowball in his annual address will present figures to show that the present prices of lumber are justified by the increased costs of operations and manufacture and that there are not abnormal profits. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected at this meeting, and it is probable that a delegation will be named to appear before the Government to take up matters in which the association is interested.

Some Figures on Crown Land Growth

The Gleaner's attention was directed today to figures that are given in the New Brunswick year book, which it is asserted, show that this province is actually facing a soft-woods famine.

Provincial Forester G. H. Prince is quoted as showing 1,024,060, as the total area supporting merchantable timber suitable for saw logs" which had then been surveyed and later on in the report it says: "In order to form an approximate idea of the stand of growing timber, the undersized spruce and fir down to a minimum diameter of 8 inches has been estimated to be equivalent to 838,337,000 feet."

figured. County and then province wide competitions would result.

The president said that the best grain could only be obtained by securing the best seed on the farm for seed during the following year.

Visit to Experimental Farm.

At 10.45 o'clock the farmers left for the Experimental Farm after having expressed their appreciation of the work of Mr. McLeod both in the agricultural societies and at the present convention. The thanks of the meeting were also moved to the retiring president for his work on behalf of the association. Mr. Magee, the new president, on being welcomed to the chair thanked the delegates for the warm welcome they had given him.

The following resolution was passed by the meeting after a brief discussion:

Whereas, there is a strong agitation in our cities advocating the adoption of daylight saving time, and whereas, the change in time of our railroads and other public institutions is not only confusing but is absolutely detrimental to the best interests of the farmer by interfering with the hours of labor and thereby curt[illegible] production;

Miss Ogden won the ladies' first, and Major Easson the gentleman's first. After cards the party repaired to the nurses' dining room, where supper was served. The decorations were St. Patrick's day favors, green candles and place cards of shamrocks and little pipes. After supper, one of the ladies wheeled in a tea wagon, which was trimmed with white crepe paper, kewpies and hearts. A large hat box representing a wedding cake with two smaller ones on top, and a kewpie bride and groom surmounting it, was opened and found to contain many pretty gifts. Miss Hudson leaves the hospital on Saturday, to the regret of patients and staff.

London, March 18—President Ebert arrived in Berlin last night, according to a telephone message received by the Amsterdam correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph from the German capital.

President Ebert has ordered the Imperial court at Leipsic to bring action against the leaders of the revolution, Dr. Kapp, General Von Luettwitz, Gottlieb Von Jagow, Admiral Trotha and Captain Ernhardt, the correspondent says.

Leuttwitz Leaves Berlin.

Amsterdam, March 18—General Von Luettwitz, who commanded the troops which supported the Kapp regime, has left Berlin with his armed forces, according to a telephone message received from Berlin this morning.

Danger from Communists.

Berlin, March 18.—Ellis Loring Dresel, acting commissioner and United States charge d'affaires in this city, has informed the Senate Department in Washington, now that Dr. Kapp's regime has fallen the whole danger lies in a communist uprising.

Communist forces are reported to be marching on Berlin from various other cities, but Mr. Dresel says if a few hours more pass quietly a crisis may be averted.

Generals Abandoned Noske.

Stuttgart, March 18.—Two hundred and fifty members of the German National Assembly held a meeting in the Art Hall here yesterday afternoon. Military forces are occupying the great open place before the hall. No disorders occurred while the members were assembling. Airplanes are flying over the city, warning the people against demonstrations.

Gustav Noske, Minister of Defence in the Ebert government, before departing for Berlin today, said the Ebert administration would be back in Berlin within a week. He explained his failure to use force before departing from Berlin for Dresden by declaring his generals had abandoned him.

"I always knew these Generals were not altogether friendly to the government, but I never thought they would be such fools," Herr Noske said.

Meeting Well Attended.

The forward movement evangelistic campaign at the George Street Baptist Church showed progress last night with increased attendance and interest. Rev. H. H. Ferguson preached a searching sermon on the privilege that everyone has of becoming a Christian and the responsibility of not accepting. New decisions were made at the after meeting, conducted by the pastor. The DeLong quartette sang several selections, which were much appreciated. The congregational singing from the Billy Sunday Hymn Book was in charge of R. H. Wickett.

MEANTIME, two or three little children are neglected and terrified while the parents fight it out.

TO pacify such parents and bring them on their knees to genuine reconciliation is a task that seems to fall peculiarly to the lot of the Salvation Army.

AND "Praise God" these opportunities have opened the way for Christ to enter many and many a home.

IT is no uncommon thing for Police Court Officials or friendly neighbors to call the Salvation Army in such emergencies.

MARSANS HELPS THE BROOKLYN ROOKIES

Red Sox Outfielder Participates in Game While En Route to Join Red Sox.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Jacksonville, Fla., March 18.—With the assistance of Armando Marsans, of the Red Sox, who dropped into the Dodgers' training camp on his way from Cuba to join his team at Hot Springs, the Brooklyn recruits yesterday trimmed the regulars 10 to 6. Marsans played left field for the youngsters.

The Yannigans made 18 hits off the combined hurling of Miljus, Heitman and Vines, while the regulars cracked out 16 safe blows off Mohart, Smith and Schreiber.

Giants Go Flying.

San Antonio, Tex., March 18.—The Giants spent St. atrick's Day at the Kelly aviation field for the most part. There they defeated the aviators at baseball, 16 to 6, were entertained at dinner and indulged in some "high flying." Most of the players went for a spin with the army flyers.

THE BOSTON BRAVES ROUND INTO SHAPE

Rudolph Looks to Be as Good as Ever—Infielders Begin to Cut Loose.

Columbus, Ga., March 17.—Several snappy games between the Yannigans and regulars during the past few days have demonstrated that the Braves are fast rounding into shape.

Maranville and Holke are beginning to cut loose. Powell is also throwing well. The outfielders generally seem to be better in this respect than the infielders.

Because of the scarcity of pitchers, the boys have not been getting quite as much batting practice as they are usually given.

In the practice games Rudolph looks to be as good as ever. Frank Fahey and the southpaw, Brown, are doing the work for the Yannigans.

Ray Powell and Eddie Eayrs played well in right field, and are showing up well. O'Neil catches well for the Yannigans and looks better every day. Manager Stallings seems to think that both John Scott and Jones will report here shortly.

TONITA C., 2.15 1-2, WINS AT SYDNEY

Sydney, N. S., March 17.—Tonita C., 2.15½, owned by John Hill, of Sydney, today defeated Prince Rupert, 2.04¾, owned by Lemoine Brothers, of North Sydney, and became the recognized champion of the ice paths in Cape Breton. The grey mare earned her victory after three heats. The pacers met on the ice near Phalen's Beach before upwards of 2,000 people who braved the inclement weather to witness the match. In the first heat Tonita C. led from the start but finished a head and a few inches only in 1.04½.

St. Paul, Minn., March 18.—Mike O'Dowd, of St. Paul, middleweight champion, defeated Ratner, of New York, in a ten round bout here last night. Ratner fought a defensive battle for eight rounds and mixed matters in the last two rounds when he made a fairly good showing.

Madden Easy for Fulton.

Philadelphia, March 18.—Fred Fulton, the western heavyweight, easily defeated Bartley Madden, New York, in a six round bout here last night. Fulton, who had the advantage of his opponent in height, weight and reach, won all the way.

The referee stopped the bout between Carl Leblanche, of Belgium, and Fred Jordan, Philadelphia, in the fifth round to save Jordan from further punishment.

K. O. Bill Rennan, Chicago, won from Fred Lange, Minneapolis, the referee stopping the fight in the third round.

K. O. Sullivan defeated Soldier Walter McCurley, New York, in six rounds.

Paul Sansom, New York, and K. O. Sansom, Philadelphia, fought a six round draw.

At another club, Danny Frush, Baltimore, knocked out Artie Root, Cleveland, in the fourth round. Up to that point the fight was about even.

K. O. Chaney, Baltimore, outfought Whitey Fitzgerald, Philadelphia.

NO ENTHUSIASM OVER THE RED SOX

Team Not Yet Rounded Out and Shows Little Promise of Anything Brilliant.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 17.—Although the Red Sox trimmed the Pittsburg Pirates in a close game yesterday, observers, official and unofficial, of the Boston American League all are in a pessimistic mood. The club has been in training two weeks and if Manager Barrow has seen anything to be enthusiastic about he surely has kept it to himself.

The club as it enters its spring schedule against the Pittsburg and New York Nationals, is not in the least rounded out and shows but little promise of anything brilliant for the near future. The ex-President of the International League himself said something to that effect in a little oration to his young pitchers in which he told them they had been showing him mighty little to indicate they had Big League possibilities.

The Sox infield is not yet underway. There is going to be a big hole at second base unless Barrow decides on Mike McNally for a regular berth, and this will mean just one more handicap in hitting.

Hiller is not fast enough this year to fit in between Scott and McInnis. McNally's arm is sore and he is not very well. Mike can field, but he is not in shape yet to stand the wear and tear of the coming barnstorming. Scott has developed a sore arm.

Eddie Foster, one of the oldest players now in the American League, is going to fill the bill at third base, and probably will hit as well as Vitt, besides being a better bunter.

The entusiasm over Joe Bush's chances for being back on his pitching game this spring is beginning to wane. Joe may come around all right but the process is bound to be slow.

Benny Kerr continues the best bet of the new comers for the box, and Allan Russell ought to help the pitching cause.

Here are the details of yesterday's exhibition game:

SUDBURY TRIMS THE TORONTO GRANITES

The Northern Ontario Hockey Champions Will First Allow Cup Game.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Toronto, March 18.—Folowing the victory of Sudbury, champions of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association, over Toronto Granites here last night, in the first of their two games in connection with the Allan cup contest, the Canadian Press received a despatch from Sudbury signed "A Northern Wolfe."

The despatch, in part, was as follows: "The summer diet of the Northern Wolves is granite rock and blueberries. The generally accepted theory of geologists that the wearing down of these northern hills was due to glacial erosion is now exploded. Would advise changing the name of the Granite Hockey Club to that of some more recent formation, either slate or soapstone."

The Granites were completely outplayed by Sudbury here last night in the first of two games in the Allan cup elimination contest. The score was 6 to 2.

QUARREL IN I. O. D. E. AGAIN RENEWED

Mrs. A. E. Gooderham Resigns Because of Lady Kingsmill's Charges.

Toronto, March 17. — Mrs. A. E. Gooderham, of this city, announced on Saturday that she had resigned from the national executive and from the War Memorial Committee of the Independent Order of the Daughters of the Empire. Mrs. Gooderham was president of the I. O. D. E. At the last annual meeting charges in connection with the administration of the order, made against her by Lady Kingsmill, were aired and supposed to have been set at rest, but Mrs. Gooderham states that the charges have been reiterated by Lady Kingsmill. As Lady Kingsmill continues to be a member of the national executive, Mrs. Gooderham states that she cannot continue to hold responsible positions in the order.

Mrs. Gooderham has issued a statement which she has forwarded to the secretaries of the various chapters of the I. O. D. E., in which she denies Lady Kingsmill's charges in toto. She says she is content to leave it to the members of the order "whether the administration of the affairs of the order under my presidency were not open, fair and calculated to ensure harmony.

One of the criticisms, or charges, made by Lady Kingsmill, was in connection with a resolution passed at an executive meeting whereby absent councilors should be kept informed of the business transacted in their absence by a transcript from the minutes. Mrs. Gooderham justifies this, and claims that such information to absent members did not include discussions on questions dealt with by the executive. She claims that Lady Kingsmill misrepresented her position with reference to the plan for a national memorial.

Mrs. Gooderham's statement reads: "In spite of my repeated denial, the charges have not been withdrawn, but have been reiterated, and Lady Kingsmill continues to enjoy the confidence of the order and of the national executive. Under these circumstances I cannot continue to hold responsible positions in the order, and I have, therefore, resigned from the national executive and the War Memorial Committee. At the same time I feel that it is due to the members of the executive over which I presided, to the order and to myself, that the members of the order should know the answer to Lady Kingsmill's charges, and should have such extracts from the minutes and other documents as will enable them to form a judgment upon the questions involved. Accordingly, I have handed to the assistant national secretary, to be placed upon the files of the order, my reply to Lady Kingsmill's statement. In this reply I have stated the facts in detail and have given the necessary references to the minutes and other records."

In this reply is a printed booklet of eighteen sheets, foolscap size, in which are verbatim reports of Lady Kingmill's charges, with Mrs. Gooderham's answers. The principal clause concerns a resolution passed at an executive meeting, whereby absent councillors should be kept informed of the business transacted in their name by a transcript from the minutes.

It is pointed out by Mrs. Gooderham that national councillors not present at meetings could receive a synopsis of what has taken place, such as recommendations for funds, findings and resolutions, but not discussions. Explanations are offered concerning the missing original report on French relief and copies of the correspondence and cables between the president and Col. Blaylock, commissioner of the Canadian Red Cross, are given verbatim. Clause 5 in Lady Kingmill's charges, referring to plan for a national memorial, is completely misrepresented, according to Mrs. Gooderham's statement has been sent to the secretaries of all chapters, and she asks the members to consider the facts. "If they will do so," she says, "I am content to leave it to their judgment and intelligence whether the administration of the affairs of the order under my presidency was not 'open,' 'fair,' and 'calculated to ensure harmony.'" She adds that the controversy involves much more important considerations than her own reputation and peace of mind. "If these only had been at stake, I should not have troubled to prepare a reply. The labor I have spent upon it is not needed to convince those whose esteem I value that Lady Kingsmill's charges are baseless.

"I am deeply interested in the future welfare of the order, but if members are prepared to accept, without enquiry, unsupported attacks upon its officers and to continue their confidence in those who make them, I do not see how responsible people are to be found willing to administer the affairs of the order, or, when found, are to carry on its work successfully."

Mrs. Gooderham in confirming her resignation, stated that she was a life member of the order and is still a member of the Royal Grenadiers' and St. George Chapters. She organized the former, which was the first local military chapter, and was its regent for some time. She expressed herself as keenly interested in the work and hoped that the war memorial would be realized.

RUSSIAN ORDERS FOR UNITED STATES

New York, March 17.—A. A. Heller, who calls himself "Director of the Commercial Department of the Russian Soviet Government Bureau in the United States," announced yesterday that he had been authorized to place orders here for two thousand locomotives and cars and equipment to go with them.

Payment, he said, would be made in gold or its equivalent upon delivery at Russian ports. No further orders would be placed, Heller said, until a general trade agreement had been arranged between Russia and the United States.

SIR OLIVER LODGE ON SURVIVAL

Regards the Signs of Life After Death as Overwhelming in Number.

Toronto, March 17.—"Proven phenomena relating to the survival of life after death are overwhelming in number," declared Sir Oliver Lodge, the noted English scientist and spiritualist, in a lecture to a large gathering in Massey Hall here on Saturday night. It was the first lecture given in Canada by Sir Oliver since 1884, in which year he appeared before the Britisth Association in Montreal.

"The Evidence for Survival" was the subject of Sir Oliver Lodge's lecture last night. He spoke of his friend Meyers, who had passed on some years ago, and from whom he had received messages which to him proved beyond doubt the survival after death. He expressed a doubt as to himself possessing the receiving faculties necessary, but Meyers, a classical scholar, had sent messages through reliable mediums innocent of classical knowledge—messages relating to the classics, to interpret which, even Sir Oliver had to read up, he said.

Sir Oliver warned his audience not to be deceived by the elementary rubbish displayed by pseudo self-advertising mediums. He declared: "What I see to be the outcome of all these proven phenomena is just Chrisianity, simple, faithful Christianity. The facts of survival after death are those which should be absolutely decided by science. For me, I say they are proven now, and they but bring me back to the simple doctrine taught by Jesus of Nazareth, 1900 years ago."

Sir Oliver asked: "Shall we be as wraths when we pass on? No, we shall not be disembodied."

He argued that spirits had organisms as substantial and sufficient to their needs as the people living on the earth plane. "Rest assured," he said, "when you go you take yourself with you. You can't get rid of yourself."

Sir Oliver spoke about the wearing out of the human body and said there were things to be found out about that. "In the Rockefeller Institute,' he said, "they are studying whether there is such a thing as natural death, whether there is any need to die if you do not let the body suffer accidents."

An address to the department of physics of the University of Toronto was given on Saturday afternoon by Sir Oliver, who was the guest of Professor J. C. McLennan, of the university, during his sojourn in Toronto. Professor McLennan presided at the lecture in Massey Hall.

True Knights of Faith

As he spoke, a heavy footfall was heard without, and the portly knight flung open the door and strode into the room.

"Why, my little coz," said he, "I have come across to tell you that I live above the barber's in the Rue de la Tour, and that there is a venison pasty in the oven and two flasks of the right vintage on the table. By St. James! a blind man might find the place, for one has but to get in the wind from it, and follow the savory smell. Put on your cloak, then, and come, for Sir Walter Hewett and Sir Robert Briquet, with one or two others, are awaiting us."

"Nay, Oliver, I cannot be with you, for I must to Montaubon this day."

"To Montaubon? But I have heard that your Company is to come with my forty Winchester rascals to Dax."

"If you will take charge of them, Oliver. For I will go to Montaubon with none save my two squires and two archers. Then, when I have found the rest of my Company I shall lead them to Dax. We set forth this morning."

"Then I must go back to my pasty," said Sir Oliver. "You will find us at Dax, I doubt not, unless the prince throw me into prison, for he is very wroth against me."

"And why, Oliver?"

"Pardieu! because I have sent my cartel, gauntlet, and defiance to Sir John Chandos and to Sir Willlam Felton."

"To Chandos? In God's name, Oliver, why have you done this?"

"Because he and the other have used me despitefully."

"And how?"

"Because they have passed me over in choosing those who should joust for England. Yourself and Audley I could pass, coz, for you are mature men; but who are Wake, and Percy, and Beauchamp? By my soul! I was prodding for my food into a camp-kettle when they were howling for their pap. Is a man of my weight and substance to be thrown aside for the first three half-grown lads who have learned the trick of the tilt-yard? But hark ye, coz, I think of sending my cartel also to the prince."

"Oliver! Oliver! You are mad!"

"Not I, i' faith! I care not a denier whether he be prince or no. By Saint James! I see that your squire's eyes are starting from his head like a trussed crab. Well, friend, we are all three men of Hampshire, and not lightly to be jeered at."

"Has he jeered at you then?"

"Pardieu! yes. 'Old Sir Oliver's heart is still stout,' said one of his court. 'Else had it been out of keeping with the rest of him,' quoth the prince. 'And his arm is strong,' said another. 'So is the backbone of his horse,' quoth the prince. This very day I will send him my cartel and defiance."

"Nay, nay, my dear Oliver," said Sir Nigel, laying his hand upon his angry friend's arm. "There is naught in this, for it was but saying that you were a strong and robust man, who had need of a good destrier. And as to Chandos and Felton, bethink you that if when you yourself were young the older lances had ever been preferred, how would you then have had the chance to earn the good name and fame which you now bear? You do not ride as light as you did, Oliver, and I ride lighter by the weight of my hair, but it would be an ill thing if in the evening of our lives we showed that our hearts were less true and loyal than of old. If such a knight as Sir Oliver Buttesthorn may turn against his own prince for the sake of a light word, then where are we to look for steadfast faith and constancy?"

"Ah! my dear little coz, it is easy to sit in the sunshine and preach to the man in the shadow. Yet you could ever wix me over to your side with that soft voice of yours. Let us think no more of it then. But, holy Mother! I had forgot the pasty, and it will be as scorched as Judas Iscariot! Come, Nigel, lest the foul fiend get the bet- [illegible] me again."

[illegible] then; for we march [illegible] ylward, Alleyne, [illegible] me to Montau- [illegible] archer for his [illegible] to Dax when [illegible] before [illegible] old soldiers strode off together, while Alleyne hastened to get all in order for their journey.

CHATER XXVI.

How the Three Comrades Gained a Mighty Treasure.

It was a bright, crisp winter's day when the little party set off from Bordeaux on their journey to Montaubon, where the missing half of the Company had last been heard of. Sir Nigel and Ford had ridden on in advance, the knight upon his hackney, while his great war-horse trotted beside his squire. Two hours later Alleyne Edricson followed; for he had the tavern reckoning to settle, and many other duties which fell to him as squire of the body. With him came Aylward and Hordle John, armed as of old, but mounted for their journey upon a pair of clumsy Landes horses, heavy-headed and shambling, but of great endurance, and capable of jogging along all day, even when between the knees of the huge archer, who turned the scale at two hundred and seventy pounds. They took with them the sumpter mules, which carried in panniers the wardrobe and table furniture of Sir Nigel; for the knight, though neither fop nor epicure, was very dainty in small matters, and loved, however bare the board or hard the life, that his napery should still be white and his spoon of silver.

There had been frost during the night, and the white hard road rang loud under their horses' irons as they spurred through the east gate of the town, along the same broad highway which the unknown French champion had traversed on the day of the jousts. The three rode abreast, Alleyne Edricson with his eyes cast down and his mind distrait, for his thoughts were busy with the conversation which he had had with Sir Nigel in the morning. Had he done well to say so much, or had he not done better to have said more? What would the knight have said had he confessed to his love for the Lady Maude? Would he cast him off in disgrace, or might he chide him as having abused the shelter of his roof? It had been ready upon his tongue to tell him all when Sir Oliver had broken in upon them. Perchance Sir Nigel, with his love of all the dying usages of chivalry, might have contrived some strange ordeal or feat of arms by which his love should be put to the test. Alleyne smiled as he wondered what fantastic and wondrous deed would be exacted from him. Whatever it was, he was ready for it, whether it were to hold the lists in the court of the King of Tartary, to carry a cartel to the Sultan of Bagdad, or to serve a term against the wild heathen of Prussia. Sir Nigel had said that his birth was high enough for any lady, if his fortune could but be amended. Often had Alleyne curled his lip at the beggarly craving for land or for gold which blinded man to the higher and more lasting issues of life. Now it seemed as though it were only by this same land and gold that he might hope to reach his heart's desire.

Police Sergeant Nathaniel Jones and Patrolman Alexander Murray made a trip to Victoria Mills this morning, where they took some five children, the parents of whom were careless concerning their schooling, to school, and ordered that they attend school regularly. Married Last Evening.

The Brunswick St. Baptist parsonage was the scene of a pretty wedding last night, when Rev. G. C. Warren united in marriage Lee Arnold Barton, of The Range, Queens county, and Pearl Griffith McCordic, of Upper Gagetown. The groom was with the 3rd C. G. A. and was later transferred to No. 7 Artillery Depot on Partridge Island. The bride, who has been engaged in teaching school, wore a navy blue suit with hat to match. The happy couple were unattended and will make their home at The Range.

MANUFACTURERS ARE MEETING TODAY IN FREDERICTON

Protest Against the Increasing Burden Under Workmen's Compensation Act.

COMPULSORY 8-HOUR DAY ALSO DISCUSSED

Delegation Expected to Wait Upon Provincial Government Tonight.

Manufacturers representing practically all the industries of New Brunswick are meeting here today discussing the Workmen's Compensation Act and the proposal for a compulsory 8-hour day.

The meeting this morning in the Board of Trade rooms was presided over by Angus McLean, of the Bathurst Lumber Company, and another meeting is being held this afternoon. Tonight a delegation will appear before the Provincial Government and will protest against any amendments to the Workmen's Compensation Act which would increase the burden upon the manufacturers, indeed, they feel the charges at the present time are not justified.

It is understood that the delegation will also contend that there are industries in this province which cannot be operated on a sound basis with an 8-hour day and will ask that such be not made obligatory in New Brunswick.

A number of lumber manufacturers are included amongst those attending the meetings.

BEE KEEPERS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

George H. Pugh, of Nashwaaksis, Re-elected President of Association.

The seventh annual meeting of the New Brunswick Beekeepers' Association took place last night in the Provincial Normal School building, President George H. Pugh, of Nashwaaksis, in the chair. The usual routine business was transacted, officers were elected for the ensuing year and L. T. Floyd, Provincial Apiarist, presented a very interesting report of the year's work.

Officers were elected as follows:

President—George H. Pugh, Nashwaaksis.

1st Vice President—Ludlow Hoyt, Prince William.

2nd Vice President—T. H. Manzer, Aroostook Junction.

Sec.-Treas.—L. T. Floyd, Fredericton.

County Directors—Albert, Cecil W. Steeves, Forest Hill; Carleton, Harry G. Miller, Tracy Mills; Charlotte, A. T. Reed, Rolling Dam; Gloucester, Maynard Smith, West Bathurst; Kent, J. B. Vautour, St. Louis; Kings, Franklyn L. Wetmore, Clifton; Madawaska, William J. Moran, Edmundston; Northumberland, W. H. Davidson, Newcastle; Queens, W. T. Inch, Hampstead; Restigouche, Rev. J. H. McLean, Dalhousie; St. John, Harry Armstrong, 40 Summer street, St. John; Sunbury, J. B. Young, Oromocto; Victoria, A. L. Green, Plaster Rock; York, David Hiscoe, Fredericton; Westmorland, Prof. W. G. Watson, Sackville.

Mr. Floyd, Provincial Apiarist and secretary of the Association, reported that during 1919 the honey crop in New Brunswick had more than doubled and that there was every evidence that bee-keeping was one of the most profitable sidlines of farming. Dealing with marketing he pointed out that honey must be well graded to compete with honey from other sections. He urged that the best of style package must be used and that in order to build up a market a difference must be maintained between retail and wholesale prices. Mr. Floyd announced that in the whole province the number of hives had greatly increased. In the North Shore counties little attention had been given to beekeeping but a number of people in that district had made a beginning. Efforts to establish beekeeping there would be continued. During the year the Association had handled supplies to the amount of $1,452. This had been with a saving to members of 10 per cent. on supplies and 25 per cent. on containers.

FORMER POLICEMAN WEDS.

Ex-Officer. E. P. Jones, Who Served Overseas, Married Last Evening to Miss Viola Merrithew.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Loring Wandless, Argyle street, was the scene of a pretty but quiet wedding at six o'clock last evening, when Rev. G. C. Warren united in marriage Ernest Roy Jones of this city and Miss Viola Merrithew of Douglas.

The bride, who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elbridge Merrithew, of Douglas, was gowned in blue satin and crepe de chene, and was attended by Miss Eva Lilley of this city, while Clifton Merrithew supported the groom. The groom is a son of Sergeant Nathaniel Jones of the police force, and a returned soldier. He went overseas in 1916 with the 236th Battalion (MacLean Highlanders), was wounded and spent two years overseas. On his return he became a member of the police force and resigned a short time ago to take a course at the D. S. C. R.. After the ceremony a dainty wedding supper was served.

Farmers to Fix Protest Produce Daylight Saving Time Again

Resolution Adopted at Final Session of Convention This Morning Declared That Change Caused Confusion and Curtailed Production—H. H. Magee Is President.

The New Brunswick Farmers' and Dairymen's Association passed a resolution unanimously this morning protesting against the adoption of daylight saving time or any other than the present time upon the grounds that confusion was caused thereby and production would be curtailed.

The morning session was the final one of the convention, which has been in progress here all week, and the delegates are spending the rest of the day at the Dominion Experimental Station. H. H. Magee, of Rothesay, was elected president and the report of M. A. McLeod, superintendent of agricultural societies, showed a total of 154 societies in New Brunswick with 10,280 members.

The List of Officers.

The following is the complete list of new officers.

President—H. H. Magee, Rothesay.

Vice President—J. A. Gaudet, St. Joseph's.

2nd Vice-President—J. R. Taylor, Shemogue.

Corresponding secretary—A. J. Doucett, Moncton.

Recording secretary—K. M. Fiske, Florenceville.

Treasurer—F. H. Walsh, Coverdale.

County Vice-Presidents — Louis Smith, M. L. A., Albert; H. M. Estey, Carleton; Wm. Hyslop, Charlotte; J. C. Killoran, Gloucester; E. A. Melanson, Kent; W. E. Wallace, Kings; J. A. Bernier, Madawaska; Wm. Johnston, Northumberland Harold Hayes, Restigouche; G. W. Dingee, Queens; J. M. Donovan, St. John; H. H. Smith, Sunbury; James Clarke, Victoria; Rev. R. M. Bynon, Westmorland, and E. J. M. Jarvis, York.

Parliamentary committee—A. E. Trites, Salisbury, chairman, and A. F. Alward, retiring president, Havelock.

F. E. Sharpe, of St. John, provincial immigration agent, stated that during the month of April a large number of immigrants were expected to come to this country from England and that these wished to be lodged with farmers of the province lasting a year or two to enable them to get used to the work. At his invitation all farmers present who wished to have any of these men on their farms gave their names and addresses.

Report of Agricultural Societies.

M. A. McLeod then delivered his report as superintendent of agricultural societies. He stated that the societies numbered over 10,280 members on their rolls and several new societies had been formed in the past year, so that now there were in all 154 societies.

The sooner the farmers of every community realized that to hold their society together they must have meetings regularly, they would succeed better and create a larger interest in their work, he said. He referred to the necessity of having good social conditions in order to carry on the work of the societies. "Start your social centres," the speaker stated, "and watch the result of your work."

Agricultural societies should number twenty-five members each. New membership forms were being obtained, the speaker stated, and he warned the secretaries of the societies to be careful in making out the lists of members.

The field crop competition for the growing of an improved class of seed was referred to briefly by the speaker, who stated it was not the quantity but the quality of seed which was desired. Each year every province of the Dominion would take hold of the matter. The competition could become a system one, in which all judgment was done in the field, but this would give way to the competition in which judging in the field and bin both

FEAR TROUBLE NOT ENDED IN GERMANY

The Ebert Government to Return to Berlin Sunday

Twenty Persons Were Killed When Troops Fired Into Crowd

WORKMEN CLASH WITH TROOPS

Spartacans Have Had Some Slight Successes at Points.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Stuttgart, March 19.—The national assembly, which met in extraordinary session here yesterday afternoon, was last night declared adjourned by its president, Konstantin Fehrenbach, to meet in Berlin on Tuesday next. The government decided to proceed to Berlin on Sunday.

TWENTY KILLED WHEN TROOPS FIRE ON CROWD

Coblenz, March 19.—Twenty persons were killed when General Von Luettwitz' troops fired into the crowd as the soldiers were leaving Berlin yesterday, according to Berlin advices received here. Troops of the Ebert government are now guarding the city, add the advices, which state that a general communist outbreak is still threatening.

Information direct from Berlin is that the independent socialists have decided to continue the strike. Food conditions are reported serious as no trains have come into Berlin for five days.

Violent Fighting at Leipsig.

Stuttgart, March 19.—Fifty persons were killed in most violent fighting at Leipsic, it is reported. Workmen in their clash with troops threw up barricades, dug trenches and fought almost organized warfare.

Mines were exploded near the railway station.

Spartacans Capture Town.

The Hague, March 19.—Reports received here from the Rhine provinces are conflicting. The Nieuwe Rotterdamsche Courant reports severe fighting at Elberfeld since four o'clock yesterday morning. Spartacans having stormed the town hall at Barmen and seized the arms stored there, attacked the militia at Elberfeld and ultimately captured the town.

Engage Revolutionaries.

Copenhagen, March 19.—A despatch from Halle-on-Salle says an armored train and shock troops of the regular army in automobile and motor lorries were sent Wednesday to the neighborhood of Eisleben, Saxony, where Red bands had formed.

The despatch adds that the troops took the Eisleben station after a lively night of fighting and that further advances are being made by them. The troops also advanced from Merseburg and engaged the revolutionaries.

Arrested as Hostages.

Copenhagen, March 19.—A despatch received here from Dresden says an independent republic has been proclaimed in Vogtland. The communist Hoelz has been appointed President, and with the Red guards rule in Auerbach and Falkenstein, where the money in the post offices and various banks has been seized and three persons have been arrested as hostages.

Says Soviets Harmless.

The Hague, March 19.—The Handensblad takes the view that no one should be frightened by despatches announcing that soviet republics have been proclaimed here and there in Germany. These proclamations, says the paper, are only the work of troops and armed laborers, supported by army deserters, whose political convictions, "depend largely on a couple of hundred marks and a piece of bacon."

ALLOWED FREEDOM.

Winnipeg, March 19.—James Reynolds, a returned soldier who pleaded guilty to a charge of unlawful assembly, growing out of the strike riots last June, was granted his freedom under suspended sentence yesterday by Justice MacDonald.

Kapp and Luettwitz Proposed to Prepare for War of Revenge and Plunge The World Into Another Cataclysm

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

BERNE, March 19.—Chancellor Bauer caused a sensation at yesterday's sitting of the German National Assembly at Stuttgart when he revealed the conditions presented the government by Dr. Kapp and General Von Luettwitz before they entered Berlin last Saturday morning.

"They wished to prepare for a war of revenge, and plunge the country into another cataclysm," cried the Chancellor. "Pitiless punishment must come to these offenders, their fortunes must be seized and they must be tried before the supreme court at Leipsic."

Philip Scheidemann, leader of the majority socialists; Herr Burlage, of the Center Party; Herr Kron, of the German Nationalists, and Herr Becker, of the People's party, are unanimous in their condemnation of the attempted revolution, according to advices received here.

Berlin Likened to Barrel Of Gunpowder That May Be Ignited at Any Moment

The Baltic Troops Departed from the City Amid Jeers of Crowds —At the Gates the Soldiers Turned and Sent a Splatter of Bullets Among the People Behind.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, March 19.—All Germany, with the exception of the southern states, is rebellious, and Berlin is a "barrel of gunpowder which may be ignited at any time," says a Berlin despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company, filed at the German capital yesterday.

The despatch describes the withdrawal from Berlin of the Iron division and naval brigades, which marched down Unter den Linden at four-thirty o'clock yesterday afternoon in the midst of a pouring rain. Crowds, the majority of which were extremist radical workers, looked on as company after company filed down the street in the direction of the Brandenburg gate on their way to Doeberitz.

"The soldiers marched to the accompaniment of drums and with Prussian banners flying," the message says. "They were armed, carrying their rifles ready to fire, and with their fingers on the triggers. Their behavior could not have been more provocative. Workers standing on the sidewalks seemed boiling with excitement, and none could understand why the troops had been permitted to withdraw without giving up their arms. Few believed they would keep their promise to disarm at Doeberwitz.

Guards Fired on Crowd.

"Many soldiers smiled mockingly at the corwd as though saying: 'Wait a while, we shall return.' This increased the antagonism of the spectators, many of whom shouted, whistled and cat-called, while others hurled such epithets as 'Scoundrels 'Beats' and 'Swine' at the soldiers, who responded with contemptuous looks as they handled their grenades menacingly.

"From the Hotel Adlon elegantly dressed women waved their hands and handkerchiefs at the soldiers, this raising to a white heat the anger of the workers. They suddenly made a rush toward the hotel, and some actually invaded the vestibule before being repulsed by a strong detachment of Security Guards, guarding the Allied missions at the hostelry.

"Hardly had the last soldier passed the Brandeburg gate when the rear guard turned and fired a volley into the crowd standing in the street. Those near the middle of the roadway had no recourse but to fling themselves on the pavement. Along Unter den Linden, Sommerstrasse and Budapesterstrasse men started to run away. Many of these were either killed or wounded during the firing, which lasted for half a minute. Four dead and ten wounded were carried into the Hotel Adlon.

Rushed Baltic Troops.

"Members of the Security Guards stationed at the Brandeburg gate did not interfere during the firing, being few in number.

"A little later, near the parliament building, a crowd of workers rushed a detachment of Baltic troops who were passing, and the latter began firing, the sound of rifle firing mingling with the shrill cries and groans of the wounded. For a time all was chaos and pandemonium, and it appears that in the confusion the soldiers here shot a number of their own men. The exact number of those killed and wounded could not be ascertained this evening. Twenty persons were killed in a subsequent clash at Charlottenburg, and a still more serious encounter was reported from Kottbulzer, but no details are at hand.

"Workers believe the soldiers may return presently, bringing on a crisis more serious than that of the past few days. They are particularly furious over the appointment of General Von Seecht as commander of forces here, he being placed in the same category as General Von Luettwitz."

DOUBLE SALARIES FRENCH DEPUTIES

Bill Introduced in Chamber of Deputies to Make Compensation 30,000 Francs.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, March 19.—A bill was introduced in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday proposing to double the salaries of Deputies, raising them from 15,000 farncs to 30,000 francs.

The preamble to the measure points out that the value of everything has increased, that the obligations of a parliamentarian have grown greater, that the cost of the necessities of life has tripled, that a deputy is obliged to have a residence in Paris, where he can receive properly his constituents.

It adds that there are only a few of the Deputies who are able to support themselves properly, owing to these increases in the cost of living, and that a majority of the Deputies are likely to find calmness of mind necessary to the proper direction of public affairs interfered with unless their salaries are raised.

CIVIL SERVICE CLASSIFICATION

Reluctance of Government to Throw Old Employees Out Without Superannuation.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Ottawa, March 19.—For the second night in succession the House adjourned at 6 o'clock with no evening session. This session so far has been an extremely uneventful one and the Senate has been adjourned for some time owing to lack of work. The House was occupied yesterday mainly with discussion of the civil service classification, which is a matter primarily of local interest to the 10,000 civil servants of Ottawa, although it extends to the service all over Canada. The employment of a firm of American experts to classify the service was much criticised. The expense of the work up to the end of the coming fiscal year will be about one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, and it has produced great dissatisfaction among the civil servants, dozens of men from the scientific departments having resigned and sought service elsewhere.

The idea of classification itself was a good one, if it were to be followed by a reduction in the staff of a number of departments here, which are and always have been heavily overmanned, but it is apparently not the intention of the Government to follow out the classification to its logical conclusions in this respect, as the statement was made in the House last session that it would not involve dismissals of those now in the service. There are a number of questions now on the order asking for the number of employees in various departments, and how many of them could be dispensed with, the feeling of the Government is that with no system of superannuation in force, it could not undertake to embark on any programme of dismissals.

Acting on the report of a special committee appointed to look into the printing bureau, the Government dismissed several hundred men from that bureau recently, and as there were many very old employees a good many cases of hardship resulted. The printing bureau has been a favorite "dumping ground" for the discharge of political obligations by members of all parties for many years, and conditions there were particularly bad. A measure of superannuation has been introduced at the present session, but it applies only to a few cases of old employees and has no general application. It is felt that any considerable reductions in the number of civil servants will have to be preceded by a superannuation act.

There are probably 70,000 names on Canada's pay roll at the present time, according to a return tabled in the House of Commons yesterday showing the number of employees of either sex employed in the various Government departments. The return was asked for by E. W. Tobin, Richmond-Wolfe.

Speaker's Ruling Allowed Licensees To Vote On The Stumpage Rates Question

Opposition Leader's Amendment for $7 Rate Beaten by Vote of 24 to 14 and Address Then Adopted by Vote of 22 to 16--Hon. B. Frank Smith Gives Timely Warning With Striking Figures of Soft-Woods Famine in New Brunswick Unless "Plundering of Public Domain is Stopped."

The Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne was formally passed in the Legislature yesterday afternoon with the first divisions of the session.

The amendment which had been moved by Hon. A. J. Murray, leader of the Opposition, to increase the stumpage from $3 and $3.50 per thousand was first defeated by a vote of 24 to 14 and then the vote adopting the Address was 22 to 16.

The change in the two votes resulted from the attitude assumed by the members for Albert, Mr. Peck and Mr. Smith, who voted against the amendment because they did not favor a flat rate for stumpage, but who also voted against the Address. There were several members absent and a good many pairs." After Mr. Allain, of Northumberland, had voted with the Government it developed he was paired, although notice of the pair had not been filed with the clerk, but he later withdrew his vote upon suggestion.

Previous to the vote being taken Mr. Peck, of Albert, asked the Speaker as to whether members holding or interested in crown land leases should vote on the stumpage question, and Hon. Dr. Hetherington ruled in the affirmative. It was a straight party vote all the way through on both divisions, except for the attitude of the two members for Albert on the stumpage amendment. The closing speakers in the debate were Hon. P. J. Veniot, Minister of Public Works, and his predecessor in office, Hon. B. Frank Smith, member for Carleton.

HON P. J. VENIOT.

Minister's Speech Featured by Attack on Only Member of United Farmers in the House.

Hon. Mr. Veniot spoke for about an hour and devoted most of his time to the stumpage question. The flat rate proposal for stumpage was, he contended, contrary to the policy of the Public Domain Act of 1913, which was the legislation of the party of the leader of the Opposition, who had moved the amendment, while he quoted returns which he said were the business records of a company holding 400 square miles of timber limits and cutting annually about 20 million feet of logs and which showed $6.15 in 1917 and $5.34 in 1918 as the actual stumpage and other charges per thousand feet for the lumber they had cut on the crown lands. The $7 flat rate if adopted, declared the Minister of Public Works, would drive all the small lumber operators cutting on the crown lands out of business and give the big companies a monopoly. He charged that a friend of the late Government had approached representatives of the lumbermen before the last election with proposals for a fixed stumpage rate, which he said showed the insincerity of the Opposition.

Hon. Mr. Veniot said he was prepared to assume the responsibility for all of the over expenditure of the past year that was chargeable to the Public Works Department upon the ground that the money had been spent after minute inquiry to meet the requirements of the people. He discussed the proposed development of the lime deposits, complimented the Minister of Agriculture and then launched an attack upon Louis Smith, of Albert, the only member of the United Farmers of New Brunswick having a seat in the House.

The Attack on Louis Smith.

Apparently the reason for the attack upon Mr. Smith was that he had the temerity to refer to the condition of the roads and the bye-roads in Albert county the previous day and had thus earned the displeasure of the minister, who referred to the fact that Mr. Smith had expressed the opinion that farmers soon would be occupying seats in the House in greater numbers. The hon. member should be consistent and should co-operate with the farmers. Rumor had it that he had become a member of the United Farmers. He had a perfect right to do so, as all farmers had a right to organize; but he should take a step farther and break away from the party with which he was connected and call down the Conservative press for its attempts to belittle the United Farmers movement. He now was allied with men who said the United Farmers were neither honest or sincere, whose press berated them. If that was the type of men the United Farmers were to have to lead them, God help the United Farmers. On the Government side of the House there was no opposition to the Farmers' movement.

Mr. Smith (Carleton)—"Of course not."

Hon. Mr. Veniot asked where was the ex-Minister of Public Works when a United Farmer candidate ran for Ottawa in his own county? Where was he on nomination day? The farmers knew the hon. member well, and knew what were his political aspirations. While on the subject of the federal by-election in Carleton-Victoria he would refer to another matter. Not only did the hon. ex-minister and his friends refuse support to Mr. Caldwell, but they had gone out of their way and imported from the province of Quebec the notorious Blondin, who had attempted to turn the French people of that province against the British flag, and who had told them that they would have to shoot holes through the Union Jack to breathe the air of liberty in Canada.

Mr. Smith (Carleton)—"I wish to say that I had nothing to do with the bringing of the Hon. Mr. Blondin into the constituency. I did not even kow that he was coming until I was informed that he had arrived."

Hon. Mr. Veniot said he would accept the statement. However, he had not protested against the presence of Blondin in the constituency, nor had he raised his voice against him. As he (Veniot) was proud that Blondin could not influence the hard-working French farmers of Victoria county.

The Teachers' Salaries Report.

The Minister then referred to the matter of school teachers' salaries was one of pressing importance. Mr. Sutton, of Carleton, with the Premier, were on the commission on that matter, which would meet on Friday. Under the circumstances he was not prepared to say what the commission would recommend, but he hoped that the House would be a unit on this question. If the report should not be entirely satisfactory let the two parties drop politics and do what they could in the interests of the province. Too many good teachers were being lost. He believed that his colleagues on the commission would agree with him that there should be a caucus of the whole House and he suggested that it be arranged by both parties.

Hon. Mr. Veniot, continuing, said that during the debate many irrelevant matters had been touched upon. On the previous day there had been a reference in one speech to which, if he made no answer, he might be considered guilty of cowardice. His own legislative experience went back over a period of 25 years, and he could safely say that it was the first time in which he had heard the dignity of the House lowered in the manner in

Says Lumber Prices Have Not Advanced as Rapidly as The Cost of Production

W. B. Snowball In Annual Presidential Report Discusses the Conditions of the Lumber Industry—Donald Fraser Is the New President.

"While there is practically 100 per cent. advance in the articles that enter into cost, lumber has not advanced in price in the same proportion," said W. B. Snowball, of Chatham, in concluding his annual report as president of the New Brunswick Lumbermen's Association at their meeting here yesterday.

Discussing the present price the consumer pays for lumber Mr. Snowball compared charges for supplies of all kinds and everything that enters into the cost of producing in 1913 as compared with 1919 and declared that the reasons were beyond the control of the lumbermen. In 1913 men's wages were $28 to $32 and today they are $70 to $85.

"Such action would mean ruin to our trade," declared Mr. Snowball in referring to a suggestion that the Board of Commerce "prohibit the exportation of lumber owing to the present shortage of supplies."

Forestry Work at U. N. B.

Dr. C. C. Jones, Chancellor of the University of New Brunswick, addressed the Association on behalf of the Forestry Work. He regretted the absence of Dean Bailey, the dean of the Forest School, whose illness made it impossible for him to be present and then told of the forestry wrok which is being carried on at the institution.

There are some 70 students, many of them returned soldiers who have taken special courses under the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, and the suggestion was made that the lumber companies should absorb as many of these men as possible in their organizations, thus giving them the practical training needed to go with the theoretical knowledge which they would acquire through their courses. In this way capable men could be properly equipped for important positions. The new executive were authorized to take the matter up with Chancellor Jones and it is believed that a satisfactory arrangement will be made.

Hon. J. P. Burchill, M. L. A., discussed the proposal that operators should be responsible for having all employees vaccinated when entering on lumbering or stream driving operations. It was pointed out that such a provision was not practical and imposed a burden upon the lumbrmen which they would be unable to carry out. It was decided to bring the matter to the attention of the Provincial Government and seek to have it satisfactorily arranged.

The Officers Elected.

Mr. Snowball retired as president of the Association and a resolution expressing appreciation of the excellent services he had rendered the organization was passed. The following officers were elected:

President—Donald Fraser, Plaster Rock.

Vice President—William Richards, Campbellton.

Secretary-Treasurer—R. W. McLellan, Fredericton.

Executive—W. B. Snowball, Chatham; F. C. Beatteay, St. John; Donald Fraser, Plaster Rock; J. W. Brankley, Chatham; William J. Richards, Campbellton; W. Garfield White, Sussex; Angus McLean, Bathurst; James Robinson, Millerton, and Geo. G. King, M. L. A., Chipman.

Later the members of the Association appeared as a delegation before the Provincial Government and discussed matters relating to the Workmen's Compensation Act and the vaccination provisions of the Public Health Act.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT.

Conditions in the Industry Discussed in Interesting Manner by W. B. Snowball, of Chatham.

The annual report of President W B. Snowball follows:—

We are pleased to welcome so many at our annual meeting and trust that the subjects discussed may be productive of good, not only to the industry that we represent, but to our whole province. There is no doubt but the manufacturers of the forest products of New Brunswick represent the most important industry in our province and we should be men of broad vision, men who are willing to forego the immediate gain to assure the continuance of the industry that not only provides the greatest employment, but on which practically all the industries and trades, and even farming depends.

Conservation in our forest cutting should be our great slogan—not curtailment, but so cutting our logs that the most can be got out of them, and the bringing out of as much of the trees as can be utilized in saw, pulp or lath mill and in every way cooperating with the Crown Land Department or private owners.

W. B. SNOWBALL.

Conservation should also be insisted upon in all our mills and a study made to economize and also to the greater utilization of waste. Some effort should be made to bring before our men in woods or mill the great necessity of conservation and to impress them with the importance from their standpoint of co operation with their employers to bring about the very best results.

Our great enemy, fire, in timber lands or plants, should be guarded against and our employees educated to assist in every way to prevent this menace. A little intelligent care can do a great deal in this direction, and while all fires may not be avoided, still a great improvement may be accomplished.

The destruction in our forests caused by the bud-worm cannot be overlooked. We must do all we can to remove the damaged trees while still valuable, also to assist the department in eradicating this destructive insect. This is a subject I would like to have discussed.

Safety First.

Safety first in our logging, driving, rafting and milling should be impressed on our men, not so much to avoid accidents for the sake of reduced premiums, but for the conservation of our man power and the greater working efficiency.

Every mill and factory owner should do all possible to make working conditions as pleasant and safe as possible.

A harmonious and friendly understanding between employer and employee—each feeling a real interest in the other—will do more to stabilize conditions in our country than any panacea so far suggested.

All efforts to create animosity between so-called capital and labor should be discountenanced by both parties. The most friendly relations have so far existed in our part of the Dominion and will continue to do so, if agitators are known as such. Each is essential to the other and both unselfishly working together combine to produce a prosperous, happy country. May it long continue so in New Brunswick!

The Compensation Act.

Your directors have not been idle during the past year. In June we were advised that woodsmen and river drivers would be brought under the operation of the Compensation Act on the 1st of August. This was not anticipated. On the 9th of July, we met Mr. John Sinclair and Mr. Sugrue at the Miramichi Hotel in Newcastle and had a satisfactory interview with them, and rates were agreed upon for the first season. On the 25th of September, we had a general meeting in St. John, when matters of interest were discussed fully, and a committee consisting of Fred Anderson, Campbellton; Angus McLean, Bathurst; Fred C. Beatteay, St. John; J. W. Brankley, Chatham; Donald Fraser, Plaster Rock; Stanley Douglass, Fredericton, and W. B. Snowball, Chatham, was appointed to meet the Government and discuss several matters with them.

At a later date the above committee met the Government and discussed the following:—

(a) The advisability of fixing stumpage for a period of ten years, as in Quebec.

(b) The adoption of a more equitable log scale, and suggested the present Quebec scale.

(c) The matter of fire protection being placed in the control of the limit holders.

(d) The question of the department scaling the logs and putting operators to the expense of boarding scalers and horses, when the operator had to keep scalers himself in the woods and submit to sworn statement of his cut.

The Government gave your committ-

SCHLESWIG DIVIDED.

The majority vote in the southern half of Schleswig is a great grief to the Danes. They hoped for the reunion of the whole province with Denmark, the majority of the people in the northern section having voted so emphatically for return to Danish allegiance. But the hope was not well founded. While Schleswig in the north adjoins Jutland, where for 900 years the Danish flag never has been lowered, Schleswig in the south adjoins Holstein, which has been thoroughly Prussianized since the strategic canal was built across its northern border from the Baltic to the North Sea. South Schleswig's vote of nearly three to one in favor of the continuance of German control is disappointing, but not surprising. To begin with, many of the original inhabitants, like the people of Holstein, were Germans of the low German stock. Then during more than half a century, ever since Prussia tore the two duchies from the Danish kingdom, the Prussian element has been systematically increased to strengthen the hold upon the spoil. They appear to have been mobs of the Berlin type that disgraced the plebiscite with violence at Flensburg and Horsbull and threatened the Danes with forcible banishment and "a new St. Bartholomew night." But the result of the plebiscite stands. Justice can do no more than maintain the principle of popular self-determination. South Schleswig must remain under the rule of the German majority.

THE HONOR STUDENT.

The announcement that Columbia University has adopted a new system of instruction for honor men will be received with interest throughout the country. The problem of the exceptionally bright student has always been difficult for the colleges to solve. To give him the same instruction as the mediocre and the idle, to hold him back when he is capable of pushing on, has long been recognized as unjust and unwise. But how to provide for him was not easy to see.

Harvard, Princeton and other universities have attempted to solve this problem by a system of honor men, for whom especial work and especial instruction are provided. The Columbia plan, while following in principle the lines already laid down, presents some novel and interesting features. It is proposed "to minimize the merely pedagogical divisions of knowledge." All honor men will receive a list of books upon which, in the judgment of the faculty, civilization in large measure depends, books upon history, science, economics, philosophy and other subjects, which they are expected to read and digest. For interchange of ideas upon these between student and student, and between student and instructor, there are to be informal weekly meetings not unlike those provided for in the Princeton preceptorial system. The work of the honor men is to be under the supervision of a group of directors selected from the university faculty.

There can be little doubt that this venture will be successful. The old classroom method of teaching is too deadening to arouse the best efforts of the brightest minds. Standardization has proved wonderfully efficient in many branches of industry; in education it will not do. Young minds are widely different in their faculties and they cannot all be run through the same mill. Give the exceptional youth exceptional opportunities and there is no limit to the possibilities of his accomplishment. Columbia is moving in the right direction; educators will expect much from its new experiment.

GORKY'S AFTERTHOUGHT.

Maxim Gorky, according to a Finnish despatch, has just voiced his disappointment with the Bolsheviki. He is disabused: the revolution has not generated any observable spiritual progress; the run of men fail to become a whit more honest, and the new leaders equal the old in brutality. Presumably this awakened dreamer got his delusions from the American and French revolutions. He neglected to consider that in revolution as in other self-manifestations a people gives forth only according to its nature. Fruit does not grow where thistles have always grown before.

The two centuries of European culture in Russia have brought forth a superb Russian music, an elevated and earnest if not a productively thoughtful literature. But outside of these two contributions Russia left the intellectual world pretty much as she found it, and has failed herself to catch the principles of that culture she has so assiduously studied.

Gorky might have known that revolutions do not suddenly raise the moral or spiritual level of their participants as a whole. He might have inferred from the Russian record that this revolution would run somewhat to the dull originality of its parent. But no, it was modish, it was Occidental, to have one's revolution!

TOO MUCH ADVICE.

Montreal Gazette:—"British Isles "and Allied Europe are already paying dearly for the man-worshipping "idolatry that manifested its folly in "the deification of Woodrow Wilson.

"Allied nations of Britain and "Europe are exclusively responsible "for action to safeguard the immediate peace of Europe. Allied action "should have proved especially "speedy. Allied nations of Britain and "Europe were jointly responsible with "the United States for the production, "the acceptance or the rejection of "advice to safeguard the ultimate "peace of the world. Europe is set "in a blaze. That afflicted continent "is brought between a choice between "war and anarchy because the Allies "took advice on Woodrow Wilson's "account when they should have taken action on their own account. The "opinions of Woodrow Wilson were "mistaken for the decrees of Providence. Lloyd George was helpless, "Clemenceau was helpless. Every "other European leader was helpless. "Britain and the Allied countries of "Europe were infatuated with a misplaced faith in the infallibility of "Woodrow Wilson.

"Peace based on immediate action "must have safeguarded Europe.

"Peace based on abundant advice "has endangered Europe."

The Stock Market

New York (Wall Street), March 19.—Railroad shares led the further rise of the general list at the opening of today's stock market. Texas Pacific was especially conspicuous for its gain of four points on very extensive dealings within the first half hour s active trading. Southern Pacific also was in demand, rising 1¾ points, and other rails were firm to strong. General Motors was most prominent of the industrials extending an early gain of five points to eight points, while other motors as well as oils, equipments, steels and coppers were one to three points over yesterday's final quotations. The strength of sterling exchange was helpful to the movement of stocks.

TRY MAGNESIA FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

It Neutralizes Stomach Acidity, Prevents Food Fermentation, Sour, Gassy Stomach and Acid Indigestion.

Doubtless if you are a sufferer from indigestion, you have already tried pepsin, bismuth, soda, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and you know these things will not cure your trouble—in some cases do not even give relief.

But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic just try the effect of a little bisurated magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate, oxide or milk, but the pure bisurated magnesia which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powder or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat.

You will find that provided you take a little bisurated magnesia immediately after a meal, you can eat almost anything and enjoy it without any danger of pain or discomfort to follow and moreover, the continued use of the bisurated magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way so long as there are any symptoms of acid indigestion.

FROM THE PEOPLE

COURTEOUS ACT RESENTED

To the Editor of The Gleaner,—

Sir,—Can one be a gentleman any more and get away with it? The following is what actually happened to me:

It was on Friday of last week, when we had that abominable weather, that I noticed an elderly lady struggling across the glazed and slippery street. I, being imbued with gentlemanly instincts, immediately sized up the situation and realized what I thought was my duty. I ran to succor her and gently took hold of her arm, when—what a tirade! "The idea! What do you mean? I'm perfectly fitted to take care of myself!" And she actually wrenched herself loose.

With a good sized crowd around watching, imagine my predicament! I felt exceedingly sheepish, excused myself and turned away.

I would like to hear what the readers of your From the People column think about this. Did I do the right thing and if not, what would they have done under the circumstances?

To me it appears as if acting the part of a gentleman is out of place in this fine city of ours; but what is a fellow to do who has sisters and a mother, and wants them treated civilly?

Believe me, it is some tall proposition in Fredericton.

Yours,
OLD FASHIONED.
Fredericton, March 18, 1920.

THE HOUSING PROBLEM.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,—

Sir,—I would like some information as to what the City Council has decided to do in regard to the housing problem in Fredericton. Under present conditions dozens of families seeking a home are unable to do so, even at the exorbitantly high rentals demanded. The housing proposition fathered by the Federal Government and endorsed by the Provincial Government, may not be an ideal one, but it is the only one in sight by which the present intolerable situation may be relieved. Spring is upon us, and if anything is to be accomplished this year, it must be started immediately.

As a ratepayer I have no objection to the city raising money at six per cent. and lending it at five per cent. provided it is used for the erection of a type of house which will be within the means of the laboring and working classes.

From study and experience I should say the best way to secure such houses now, is to have builders submit plans of the houses they have actually built and know the exact cost to be under the $3,000 and $4,000 complete.

These, of course, to be erected in a substantial manner under the supervision of a practical building inspector employed by a Housing Commission.

On every vacant lot in Fredericton a house could be erected this summer and there will be absolutely no danger of any of them being left vacant next fall.

At present building costs the individual house is hardly possible, but doubles and up to five in a row can be most economically built and yet each house display a different exterior treatment.

We have got to come down off our high horse and realize that this housing scheme is intended to help the laboring worker and not the man with $400 cash and ability to pay $40 per month.

Yours,
RATEPAYER.

SAYS LUMBER PRICES HAVE NOT ADVANCED

tee a sympathetic hearing and discussed fully the several suggestions made.

Intimation was given during last season that the Minister of Lands and Mines intended having a conference with the licensees, but although we communicated with the Minister in August last, he has not yet named a date.

Reduced Working House.

During the past season, many mills in the province were compelled to adopt a nine-hour day. Saw mills can only run some six months of the year and this makes a very short working day for such a large expenditure of capital as represented in the larger saw mills. If these mills were run night and day, as the shorter working day would warrant, it would mean a very short sawing season, as most of the mills cannot increase their supply of logs without depreciating very quickly their lands and thus curtailing the life of the industry.

Since our last meeting, two of our directors, men who took a great interest in the working of our association, have passed to the Great Beyond, namely, Daniel Richards and J. B. Gregory. We revere their memory and express our sympathy to their sorrowing families and friends.

It has come to our notice that some pressure is being brought to bear on the Board of Commerce to induce them to prohibit the exportation of lumber, owing to the present shortage of supplies. We think some action should be taken to show our disapproval of any steps being taken that will hamper trade. In our opinion, such action would mean ruination to our trade.

The University of New Brunswick has a Forestry Branch in connection with their institution. We all realize the need of technically trained men in all branches of industry, and perhaps no industry requires this more than our own. We would ask the hearty co-operation of the trade to this branch and I am sure any suggestions that would make the work more practical would be welcomed by the faculty.

Prices of Lumber.

In some quarters we hear criticism of the great advance in the price of lumber, and those unaware of the real reason, blame the lumbermen. It is well for us to be prepared to show good reasons beyond our control for the advance which, however, is not as great as that of many other commodities.

In 1913, stumpage was $1.50 and mileage $8—today we pay $3.50 stumpage, $8 mileage and $3.20 per mile for fire protection, also we have workmen's compensation of logging, river driving, rafting, milling and loading, with a separate rate on each, and this still further adds to the cost; in addition, we have the heavy business Dominion war tax.

In 1913 the provisions that enter into a logging operation cost:

	1913	1919
Flour	$ 4.90	$11.20
Tea	.23	.45
Beans	2.05	4.90
Molasses	.38½	1.00
Beef	20.00	27.00
Pork	26.00	48.00
Lard	.11½	.27
Hay	13.90	27.00
Oats	.51½	1.10
Axes	7.50	15.25
Peavies	15.25	25.50
Cross Cut Saws	2.58	4.75
Oil (paraffin)	19½	.24½

In 1913 men's wages were $28 to $32 per month; in 1919 men's wages were $70 to $85 per month.

This some condition or wages applies to the saw mills, and in addition, we have a nine-hour day, or 1-10 reduction in time; and in both woods and mills, the labor is less efficient than before the war. Belting, saws and mill oils are also about double in price.

While there is practically a 100 per cent. advance in the articles that enter into cost, lumber has not advanced in the same proportion.

Since writing the above a discussion of this subject has taken place in the Legislature and a suggestion made that stumpage should be $7 per thousand and intimation given that the profits for some years have been $15 to $20 per thousand. When intelligent persons make these statements it shows how necessary it is to correct such erroneous views. I do not know of anything approaching such a margin on the North Shore. When it is considered that on the North Shore of New Brunswick there are long portages costing as high as $40 per ton; drives are expensive, also high rafting charges, it can easily be seen that any such increase in stumpage would ruin the lumber trade in our part of the province, reduce the cut very materially, throwing men out of employment in woods and mills, and bringing disaster to our district.

that chronic skin diseases which have defied all other treatments yield to Zam-Buk?

It is because Zam-Buk is germicidal, and also has such power of penetration that it reaches disease in the underlying tissues and cures from the "root" up. That is the only way a permanent cure can be effected.

Mr. H. C. Buckley of 461 E. Broadway, Portland, Oregon, says: "For chronic skin diseases there is nothing like Zam-Buk. For fifteen years I had eczema, and I tried an endless number of so-called 'eczema cures,' but nothing was capable of curing me permanently until I used Zam-Buk. Ten months' use of Zam-Buk has effected a complete cure."

For ulcers, abscesses, boils, ringworm, blood-poisoning, piles, burns, scalds and cuts, Zam-Buk is equally good. All dealers or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. 50c. box, 3 for $1.25.

which it had been. For that reason he had decided to treat the remark in the manner it deserved, with silent contempt.

MR. SMITH, OF CARLETON.

Timely Warning of a Soft-woods Famine in New Brunswick and a Demand That Stumpage Question be Considered from the Standpoint of Conservation.

The contribution of Mr. Smith of Carleton to the debate was largely a timely warning of a soft woods famine in New Brunswick if the cutting from the Crown lands continued at the present rate with an insistent demand that a halt be called, stock taken and the stumpage question be considered from the non-partisan standpoint of conservation.

Supporting his contention, Mr. Smith submitted figures showing that in 1908 with a cut of 152 million feet there were about 17 logs to the thousand feet, while this year, with an estimated cut of 330 million feet the number of logs to the thousand feet was said to average about 32. These figures, if they had been extended, would have shown approximately 10,500,000 logs cut on the Crown lands this year as compared with about 2,500,000 cut in 1908.

"This plundering of our public domain must be stopped," said Mr. Smith, "or we are face to face with a soft woods famine. He told of a man who claimed he was making a profit of $150,000 on a cut of seven million feet of lumber this year on the Crown lands and declared the average profit of operators on the Crown lands was not less than $10 per thousand feet. He urged the House to consider placing the stumpage at a figure which would curtail the cut and at the same time produce a sufficient revenue to meet the requirements. He referred to a circular on the subject of conservation of forest resources which had been distributed by F. J. Barnjum, of Annapolis Royal, N. S., to whom he felt the House owed a signal debt of gratitude. He referred to the statement of Hon. C. W. Robinson in 1916 at Moncton that the stumpage rate should be at least $5 and asked, if that was a fair rate then, what the fair rate should be with prices having advanced as much as they had meanwhile.

There was a smaller proportion of party politics in Mr. Smith's speech than usual, but when he touched that subject he did it cleverly and fearlessly. He made a merciless attack upon the Minister of Agriculture and he told the Government members that if they didn't want to discuss present day affairs but wished to go into past history in taking up the stumpage question, they better go as far back as the period preceding the advent into power of the Hazen Government in 1908, if they wanted some real scandal from the Crown Lands Department.

The Carleton Vacancy.

Mr. Smith, in opening, extended felicitations to the mover and seconder of the Address for their eloquent speeches. He had been impressed by the remarks of the member for Westmorland, although he had confined himself pretty well to his own constituency, referring to the gravel pits, the rise and fall of tide, and his own pet scheme of Maritime Union. The seconder also deserved congratulation for the manner in which he had dealt with the subject. The Premier had not been so fortunate, which was regrettable, as it always was desired to keep the debate at a high level. He noticed his hon. friend was not in his seat. In fact, it was noticeable that he had great facility in sidestepping. The Premier had made reference to the Standard, claiming that it had blackened his character, but the extracts quoted from the Standard had not been so bad. Why did the Premier protest in that manner and yet sit quietly and let the Telegraph blacken the character of others? As a citizen of the province he (Smith) did not approve of many articles appearing in the press and had had occasion to write to newspapers asking for moderation along certain lines. In general he believed the press kept within bounds, although in moments of heat articles might be produced which would sting and hurt those against whom they were directed.

The reference made to the vacancy in the Dominion Cabinet by the Premier he considered unfortunate, for it was not within the province of the hon. member to criticize, when in four years he had not had the courage to fill the vacancy in provincial representation in the County of Carleton. There was no precedent for this in New Brunswick or in all Canada. He had been amused to read in the press of dickering between members of the Government and certain people in Carleton county for a possible candidate—not for a Farmer candidate, for he already was in the field. He considered that the Government had set a most dangerous precedent in the matter of the Carleton vacancy. If his friends opposite were sincere in speaking of agricultural progress, let them open the constituency of Carleton. They would soon know whether or not that county was in agreement with the policy of the agricultural department. The Minister of Public Works, referring to the Federal by-election in Carleton-Victoria had said the Conservative papers had derided the United Farmers' candidate. He challenged him for a statement from any Conservative paper.

Hon. Mr. Veniot—"The St. John Standard of Monday last."

Mr. Smith said that was not an answer. Let the Minister read the article. The time had come when neither the House nor the people of the province took the word of the Minister very seriously. During the by-election he had not set foot upon a platform except on nomination day when he was invited by both parties. On election day he never had left his office to solicit a vote.

Hon. Mr. Veniot—"Why did not the hon. member go out on the hustings and help the United Farmers?"

Some Very Personal Affairs.

Mr. Smith said he was custodian of his own actions. On two occasions the Hon. Minister of Public Works had attempted to tamper with the Farmers of Carleton, and had got his answer. When he (Smith) ran a by-election as Minister of Public Works the present Minister with his colleague, Mr. Carter, was very active. Yet it was the only occasion on which he ever had emerged with a majority at every poll. What had the Hon. Minister of Agriculture done for the farmers? When the call to arms had come from across the seas he put his farm in his son's name to prevent him from serving at the front.

Hon. Mr. Tweeddale — "I want to make an absolute denial. That farm has been in my name ever since I owned it and is now."

Mr. Smith said that he had seen correspondence with the St. John office in which the Minister begged that his son be left to work the farm. The farm may not have been in the son's name, but was used to keep him from going on service. The Premier had referred to the Opposition convention in St. John, evidently with an idea that trouble had occurred there. He could say that a more representative convention never had been held in the province. Because delegates in attendance had expressed their opinions freely, it could not be said that the convention had failed. He could remind the Premier that another convention had been held in St. John. The Premier had attended, and after staying as long as he could had had to get out.

Hon. Mr. Foster—"That is wrong."

Mr. Smith—"Well, he was asked to get out."

Hon. Mr. Foster—"He was not."

Mr. Smith contended that the papers at least said that the Premier had been told by the convention that they did not look upon him as their leader.

Mr. Smith said that the Opposition had had a most representative convention, and had come out with a better understanding. It was true that the present leader of the Opposition was not selected unanimously, but he was chosen by a majority of those present. His friends opposite could hardly say that the great Liberal convention was not closely divided. In fact, the present Liberal leader in Federal politics scarcely was chosen. Compared with him, the leader of the Opposition had a large majority in the convention. Reference had been made to Mr. F. B. Carvell, who had retired from politics to take an important position. Every one knew of the politcial warfare between Mr. Carvell and himself (Smith). Mr. Carvell was where he was without his (Smith's) support, and he believed he could say that he was there without the support of the Hon. Premier. While the latter had chosen to laud Mr. Carvell, it was not clear what great services he had rendered to the province. It was more than probable that praise was bestowed upon Mr. Carvell for his assistance to the Hon. Premier in getting $55,000 for an old rattle-trap railway in St. John county, which was worthless and worn out.

Importance of Stumpage Question.

The question of stumpage was the most important confronting the province of New Brunswick. He believed all who had spoken concerning it had approached the matter in the wrong spirit. The situation in the province was serious, and the people were face to face with direct taxation. The efforts of the leader of the Opposition to obtain an expression of opinion on a $7 rate of stumpage deserved praise. The amendment to the Address had been intended, not to embarrass the Government, but as a matter of duty. The leader of the Opposition had been criticised for not bringing this matter in caucus. As a matter of fact, members were so late in arriving that there was not an opportunity to hold a caucus. They were approached individually on the subject, however. He could say that the leader of the Opposition did not tie his followers hand and foot in any public matter, but gave them the right to use their own judgment. He had moved the Amendment, although he knew some of his followers were not in agreement with him, and in so doing he had displayed courage.

From information received from competent persons, Mr. Smith believed that the extent of standing timber in New Brunswick was exaggerated and that a soft wood famine was closer than was thought. In 1908 there had been a cut of 152,000,000 feet, in 1919 the cut was 330,000,000. Scalers said that in 1908 seventeen logs made a thousand, while in the last year it took 32 logs to make a thousand. The figures told their own story. The size of the logs was decreasing. In addition to the heavy cutting there were losses by fire and insect pests and blights. It would be better to cut 100,000,000 feet the next year than 300,000,000. Conservation of natural resources was more necessary than a large revenue on a low rate of stumpage.

Northumberland Deal Recalled.

He doubted if some of his hon. friends opposite would take the attitude they did if it were not a matter of convenience to themselves. They referred repeatedly to 1912. Conditions had changed entirely since that time. He was not there to defend what the old Government did in connection with timber lands. If his friends opposite wished to go farther back, they could recollect the Northumberland deal, under which licenses were granted for twenty years for one dollar. When hon. members had risen on either side of the House and tried to argue that the lumbering business would not bear a stumpage rate of $7, they were not putting the matter in a proper light. As matter of fact $7 wasn't suggested as a flat rate, but rather as a base rate, and would not be applied to all parts of the province. The decrease in the size of logs was the strongest evidence that forest growth was not keeping up. Cruisers had informed him that large lumber in New Brunswick had been well cut. Personally he had an acquaintance with the lumbering business. He felt safe in saying that the lumbermen were making an average profit of $10 per thousand. Instances could be brought to show losses on minor operations, but the average would hold good. One operator had asked him to estimate the profit on an operation of 7,000,000 feet. His estimate was $140,000. The operator had replied that he would make that and $10,000 more. It was time to stop and take stock. This should not be a party question but one of soncervation. He knew there was a rule of the House which might prevent certain members from voting on the amendment. Personally, he would leave the decision to themselves.

Why Was Stumpage Reduced?

It would be remembered that two years before the Government had advanced the rate of stumpage and had been compelled to recede from the position it had first taken. A speech delivered by the hon. member from Moncton city prior to the last general election had contained a statement that $5 should be the rate of stumpage. If he could claim that then what should the rate be now. Reference to orders-in-council passed previously would not solve the present situation, for conditions had changed radically. The public services were starved for lack of money and the people knew it. He would not be afraid to appeal to the people on the principle of the stumpage rate of $7. Much had been said about classification of crown lands, and large expenditures had been made upon it. Of what value was a classification made several years ago, and of what value was a classification in which only four acres were taken in every hundred.

Hon. Dr. Smith—"That is the percentage which is taken in forest classification surveys all over the United States and Canada?"

Mr. Smith said he believed that was right, but wondered why so low a percentage was taken. Did the minister believe that proper information could be obtained in that manner.

Hon. Dr. Smith said he believed sufficient information could be obtained, as not only were four acres taken in every hundred for classification, but lines were run through the whole block and other information secured.

Mr. Smith, continuing, said the time had come when the heavy cut must be stopped. The Minister of Public Works had tried to bolster up the case of the lumbermen by referring to heavy cost of portaging supplies in the county of Gloucester. He believed that that was on an operation of the Bathurst Lumber Company, and had been informed that that company moved most of its supplies up the Nepisiguit river in the summer time. It must be remembered that one of the changed conditions in lumbering in the province was the construction of railways across many lands which formerly could be reached only by portage. He would not care what became of the amendment if the Government would promise that by August 1st, 1920, it would adopt $7 as a base rate for stumpage and stop indiscriminate cutting.

The Vote Taken.

Mr. Peck asked Mr. Speaker for a ruling as to whether Crown land licenses could vote on the amendment under Rule 29.

Hon. Mr. Speaker—"You have a right to vote."

The amendment was put and a division called for. The amendment was declared lost on the following vote:—

Yeas—Messrs. Young, Tilley, Murray (Kings), Baxter, Smith (Carleton), Campbell, Potts, Crocket, Pinder, Sutton, Smith (Charlotte), Jones, Carson, Hunter—14.

Nays—Hon. Mr. Foster, Hon. Mr. Byrne, Hon. Mr. Smith, Hon. Mr. Veniot, Hon. Mr. Murray, Hon. Mr. Tweeddale, Hon. Mr. Robinson, Hon. Mr. Dugal, Messrs. Magee, Burchill, McGrath, Dysart, LeBlanc, Michaud, Legere (Gloucester), King, Mersereau, Smith (Sunbury), Melanson, Bordage, Robichaud, Legere (Westmorland), Peck, Smith (Albert)—24.

The Address was adopted on the following vote:—

Yeas—Hon Mr. Foster, Hon. Mr. Byrne, Hon. Mr. Smith, Hon. Mr. Veniot, Hon. Mr. Murray, Hon. Mr. Tweeddale, Hon. Mr. Robinson, Hon. Mr. Dugal, Messrs. Magee, Burchill, McGrath, Dysart, LeBlanc, Michaud, Legere (Gloucester), King, Mersereau, Smith (unbury), Melanson, Bordage, Robicaud, Legere (Westmorland)—22.

Nays—Messrs. Young, Tilley, Murray (Kings), Baxter, Smith (Carleton), Campbell, Potts, Peck, Smith (Albert), Crocket, Pinder, Sutton, Smith (Charlotte) Jones, Carson, Hunter—16.

Mr. Speaker named Mr. Magee, Mr. Melanson and Hon. Mr. Tweeddale a committee to present the Adress to His Honor the Lieutenant Governor.

Speaker Admonishes Members.

When the House met at 3 o'clock, Hon. Mr. Burchill presented the first report of the committee on standing rules.

Mr. King presented the report of the committee on contingencies.

Mr. Smith (Albert) rose to a question of privilege. He said he noticed that the official report of his remarks on the amendment made him say that there should be a flat rate of stumpage. What he did say was there should not be a flat rate.

Hon. Mr. Veniot introduced a bill to amend the act relating to Sacred Heart College at Caraquet; also bills for the funding of Motor Vehicle fees and for the construction and improvement of highways under Federal aid.

Mr. Mersereau introduced a bill to enable the United Farmers' Co-operative Company to increase the number of directors.

Hon. Mr. Murray introduced a bill to enable the town of Chatham to issue debentures.

Hon. Mr. Smith submited the annual report of the Department of Lands and Mines.

Mr. Baxter introduced bills to amend the act relating to Trinity church, St. John, and to provide police protection for the county of St. John.

Mr. Campbell introduced a bill to enable the municipality of St. John to secure sites for industrial purposes.

Mr. Potts introduced bills relating to rates and taxes in the parish of Lancaster and to fix the valuation for assessment purposes of the Corona Company, Ltd.

Mr. Smith (Charlotte) introduced a bill to authorize the Milltown Town Council to fix the valuation of the property of the Canadian Cottons, Ltd., for assessment purposes.

Mr. Burchill introduced bills relating to the Barnaby River Boom Company and to amend the act relating to the Northwest Boom Company.

Hon. Mr. Speaker said that there had been some criticism made to the effect that the proceedings of the House during the present session had been more or less irregular. He was aware that the hon. Premier in his address had discussed matters apart from the amendment to which under the rules of the House he should have confined himself. He (the Speaker) had felt that by allowing some latitude it would be the means of saving the time of the House. It was not his intention to show any favors, as one hon. member had the same privileges as another, but his sole object was to economize on time. The debate yesterday had been carried on in too free and easy a way. All hon. members had the book of rules, and it might be a good plan for them to read the same. It was impossible for the Speaker to maintain the dignity of the House unless hon. members co-operated with him. Were they to deprive the House of its dignity the proceedings would be more in the nature of a country fair. He proposed to discharge his duty fairly and would not knowingly show partiality to any man, but to do that he must insist on better order being observed. It was both embarassing and humiliating for him to be compelled to call grown men to order. He hoped that the practice of heckling and interrupting speakers would cease. An interruption should only be made with the consent of the member addressing the House, but that rule was frequently violated. He did not wish to be arbitrary, but he did wish the proceedings of the house to be carried on in a dignified manner and trusted all hon. members would give him their assistance.

German Socialists Demand Execution of All Leaders in Recent Revolutionary Fiasco

More Moderate Germans Would Make an Example of Principal Offender and Punish Others by Imprisonment and Confiscation of Their Property.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Stuttgart, March 19.—Tremendous damage has been done to Germany economically by the Kapp movement, and the coal and food situations have been made more acute, Herr Kosh, Minister of the Interior, informed the Associated Press today. The worst conditions are now centred in the Ruhr mining district, and the government is taking the necessary measures to remedy them.

The Minister believed that the Ebert government's hands had been strengthened by the Kapp failure, but he pointed out that there had been a serious aggravation of the old problems by the disastrous Berlin revolution. He insisted that the government was determined to deal severely with the offenders, but specified "through imprisonment and confiscation of their property."

"The consequences of the Berlin uprising will be very extensive so far as economic conditions are concerned," said Herr Kosh.

"So far as the food question is concerned, days have been lost in agricultural work, such as sowing, and Kapp's removal of the rationing restrictions in a quarter of Germany has caused an enormous amount of food to be wasted with respect to the German public, for the food hoarders made excellent use of the abolition of restrictions, which means another setback for our already serious food situation. The delivery of food from Holland also is interrupted, and even pending arrangements for credits delayed.

"Yet we hope that within a short time the economic situation will again be firmly controlled."

The Soviet Activities.

Herr Kosh referred to the widespread disturbances in many cities, with the declaration that there were some local soviets, but expressed hope for prompt improvement.

The majority socialist leaders here have demanded that Gustav Noske, the Minister of Defence, resign his post. Herr Noske has complied by tendering his resignation to President Ebert, but the government has not reached a decision as to its acceptance, and will not do so until the cabinet has considered the question.

Herr Noske was present at the assembly session yesterday when Philip Scheidemann, majority socialist leader, and former Premier, attacked the Minister of Defence in a stirring speech and demanded a radical overhauling of the cabinet. Herr Henke, leader of the independent socialists, asked Herr Noske where he was when the Kapp forces had their hands at the government's throat, and why he did not "break their bones," but Herr Noske by this time had disappeared from the chamber.

Urge Punishment of Guilty.

Representatives of all the principal parties at the session delivered speeches, condemning the Kapp movement and urging the punishment of the guilty. The speech-making lasted from 4 o'clock until nearly nine. Herr Scheidmann in the course of his address said:

"Anyone who had eyes could see how anti-republican sentiment had been growing in the security guards, the Monarchist officers becoming more and more insolent."

He attributed Dr. Kapp's downfall to the response made by the working men to call for a general strike.

The government has instructed the court at Leipsic to draw warrants against nine of the principals in the revolt movement, but there is still discussion of how severely these men shall be punished. One element in the government has suggested that only a single culprit be shot as an example. Efforts are being made to have the socialists agree to this programme, instead of insisting upon the execution of all those who should eventually be convicted of treason.

THE TEACHERS' SALARIES REPORT

Commission Agree Upon Their Finding to Be Tabled in Legislature.

The commission appointed by the New Brunswick Legislature last year to inquire into the question of teachers' salaries held their final session this morning at the Education Department offices, and it was afterwards announced that they had unanimously agreed upon a report which will be presented to the Legislature next week.

The present expectations are that the report will be tabled by the Speaker early next week, and it was said today that both parties had agreed to the proposal made yesterday by Hon. P. J. Veniot, Minister of Public Works, and there will at once be an informal caucus of all members of the House to consider the report.

"The report will go a long way towards improving the position of the teachers,' remarked a member of the commission after the meeting, but further than that no intimation was given as to what the report contains. Its contents are being carefully guarded, but it is said provision is made for a minimum of not less than $500 for salaries, the municipalities being called upon to provide by taxation a large proportion of the additional money that will be required.

EMPLOYERS CANNOT STAND THE BURDENS

Voice Objections to Compensation Act Charges Before the Government.

A delegation from the manufacturers and employers of New Brunswick, who met here yesterday, opposed many of the proposed changes in the Workmen's Compensation Act, suggested by the New Brunswick Federation of Labor when they appeared before the Provincial Government last night.

They did not protest against some changes, including increasing the amount of pension for widows, but they did object to increasing the disability allowance from 35 to 60 per cent. and also objected against the proposal that a fireman as well as engineer be engaged at all steam plants, as they said such a policy would be ruinous to many small plants.

Consideration of the requests was promised by the Government.

A delegation from the New Brunswick Lumbermen's Association asked the Provincial Government to forego putting into effect this year the legislation making lumber operators responsible for having all their employees vaccinated before starting work. It is likely that the request will be complied with.

Critically Ill in Maine.

Mrs. Bernard McMinnamin, formerly of this city, but for the past year or two residing at Rumford Falls with her daughter, is critically ill and no hopes are held out for her recovery.

Entertained Students.

Students from Albert County attending the Provincial Normal School to the number of about fifteen were entertained at dinner at the Barker House last evening by J. L. Peck and Lewis Smith, members of the Legislature from Albert County.

George A. Flett, of Moncton, is registered at the Queen Hotel.

BUDGET DOWN IN HOUSE NEXT WEEK

Wednesday Likely Date for the Budget Speech in the Legislature.

The Legislature will adjourn this afternoon until Tuesday afternoon, today's session being given over entirely to routine business as a good many bills have already been introduced.

Official intimation was given this morning that the Budget would be brought down next week and the promise has already been made by the Premier that the report on Public Accounts would be presented as soon as the Address had been finally passed. Wednesday would therefore probably be the earliest date the Budget could be introduced.

CONTRIBUTE TO WAR MEMORIAL HALL

Delegation from U. N. B. Tell Govt. They Expect $50,000 by Private Subscriptions.

A delegation from the University of New Brunswick last night asked the Provincial Government to make a contribution on behalf of the province to the War Memorial Hall to be erected at the University, and which in addition to being a memorial will provide much needed equipment for the institution.

Chancellor Jones, Colonel Murray MacLaren, of St. John, representing the Senate, and John T. Jennings, P. J. Hughes and C. W. Hall, of Fredericton, representing the Alumni Society, composed the delegation. They told the Government they expected to be able to raise $50,000 by private subscriptions and suggested that if the province would provide dollar for dollar with the private subscriptions up to that amount sufficient funds would thus be available.

Consideration was promised by Premier Foster on behalf of the Government.

FORMAL OPENING OF LOCAL Y. M. C. A.

to make its Y.M.C.A. a success and help the young people who come here from year to year.

Appeal to Business Men.

C. H. Cochrane, physical director, in his speech stated that while the young men and boys were wanted in the Association, the outstanding need was for the business men to put their shoulders to the wheel and boost the Y.M.C.A. The result would be beneficial to them as well as to the Association, as it had come to the point in the life of the Association where it would either go ahead or fall back, and, as far as he was concerned, the chance of the latter proposition did not appeal at all. He referred to the American method of doing the job with words, and stated that what the Association wanted was not hot air but action. He outlined the physical programme as drawn up for the various classes and ended with a spirited appeal to the business men to take hold of the Association and give the boys every chance of proving successful citizens by backing up the work of the Y.M.C.A.

The Growth of the Association.

Capt. A. A. Campbell, of Halifax, in his address stated that the National Council of the Y.M.C.A. could never forget the help which the women of Fredericton had given it during the war. He referred to the fact that even the Bolsheviki had endorsed the Y.M.C.A. and helped it to carry on its work among the peasants.

He outlined the growth of the Association by comparison of the reports of the first International Convention fifty years ago in Detroit and the one last year.

The reports were as follows:

	Fifty Years Ago.	One Year Ago
Members	50,000	750,000
No. of societies	257	2,077
Property value	$700,000	$107,830,300
No. of employed officers	20	5,076

"Primarily," the speaker stated, "the success of the organization depends upon the employed officer, but he can never make a success of the Y.M.C.A. unless you are behind him, because he is employed to do your will. The institution must not be one merely for the promotion of athletics; it must have a driving power behind that goes deeper into our lives than that. It must be backed by the Christian spirit. This Y.M.C.A. must succeed through the fact that the needs of the city of Fredericton were being deeply considered by those behind the movement. On wanting factor was the directing of the play hours of the growing boy." Rural schools, he stated, were handicapped along this line because the teachers were given no instructions in this regard. Cultivation of mankind was first acquired through the group play and he urged this upon the assembly before him.

The business men of today, Capt. Campbell said, look sleek, well fed and rounded out. This had been the mark of a successful business man, but today the custom of considering such men successful had passed and they were no longer gauged by such signs. The fact that they were not physically fit, he stated, was reacting upon many phases of their business life, and there was a premium upon physical fitness in the present century.

Toronto, March 19.—While official records are lacking, yet this year's entry of 49 is believed to be a record for the historic King's Plate, which has the distinction of being the oldest fixture run continuously on the continent. At the first glance the race looks a very open one, in view of the fact that with the exception of possibly 15 of the 49 entries none of the horses have ever faced the barrier, and unlike other seasons, when the Seagrams, Dyments and Hendries practicaly monopolized the entries, the nominations for this year's event embraces 28 owners, with George W. Beardmore and the Seagram stable leading with four entries each.

CHICAGO PICKED BY BROOKLYN CAPTAIN

Zack Wheat Thinks Cubs Will Beat Out Reds and Robins Will Be Third.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Jacksonville, Fla., March 19.—Chicago, Cincinnati, Brooklyn. That is the way Captain Wheat of the Brooklyn Nationals, picks the first three in the National League pennant race of 1920. With three strong left handed batters in the outfield, the infield bolstered up in offense and defense by Charlie Herzog, a superb pitching staff and the best catcher in captivity, Zack cannot see how the Cubs can lose.

As to the Superbas, Zack declares a great deal rests on the ability of Bernie Neis, the western Canada recruit to play the sunfield. If the youngster can do it and bats at least .250 Brooklyn will be among the first three.

As to the Giants, the Brooklyn captain says McGraw's pitching staff is not so strong as Brooklyn's, while the New York infield looks weak. He cannot see the Giants better than fourth.

Carolyin Cox, the 2-year old daughter of Guy Axworthy, 2.08¾, and Chutty Direct, 2.07¼, is the star of the Walnut Hall consignment.

LITTLE OPPOSITION TO FRANCHISE ACT

Maritime Provinces Members Would Like Closer Application to Provincial Lists.

Ottawa, March 18.—When the franchise act, which is the main piece of Government legislation this session, comes up for second reading, and the Government apparently is not in a hurry about it, there will be opposition, but not on the lines which have characterized the opposition to previous enactments of the kind.

The Liberals had a caucus on the question this week, and while they will press for some amendments, it is learned today that their atitude is not as hostile as was anticipated. The bill is regarded as superficially plausible, as one prominent man on the opposition expressed it. The disqualifying conditions are very limited, and are really a continuance of those put in by elections act passed last year. The naturalized alien gets the vote, but his naturalization does not carry with it the whole family. They may qualify, however, by personally becoming naturalized.

The particular amendment upon which some will insist will be that the provincial lists should be used exclusively, rather than being made the base of the federal lists and subject to addition or subtraction. Maritime Province members of the opposition are particularly insistent on this course, but only with reference to provinces which annually compile electoral lists. It is conceded that federal enumeration is necessary in Quebec, for the reason that as yet there is no measure of female suffrage in that province.

There will also be criticism with regard to the enumeration in rural constituencies. Under the act the enumerators' list was not subject to appeal, but there is provision whereby a voter who is not on the list, but claims the right to be there, may swear in his vote on election day. This swearing in process has been used in the West particularly, and is claimed to have given rise to some trouble. Generaly speaking, however, the act is not likely to encounter the same degree of opposition as former acts have met with, and may even pass expeditiously.

CANADA'S STATUS AT WASHINGTON

British Press Believes a Canadian Representative in U. S. Will Work Well.

London, March 18.—The Westminster Gazette, Liberal, says that Sir Auckland Geddes will be spared one of the most difficult functions of an Ambassador to the United States through the excellent decision to allow Canada to maintain her own representative at Washington. Innumerable Canadian questions crop up there, which the British Ambassador naturally would not always understand thoroughly. The Westminster Gazette instances the objections of Washington concerning Canada's representation on the League of Nations. This question can be handled more efficiently between the Canadian and Washington governments than by any government of Great Britain.

Too many men wait until they have been done to a turn before turning over a new leaf.

AN AMERICAN IS WANTED FOR KING

Monarchists of Hungary Turn Eyes Westward Hoping to Discern Multimillionaire.

Budapest, Hungary, March 18.—There was a meeting here recently of all the monarchist leaders of the country, at which somebody said that the right sort of king would be an American with enough money to pay Hungary's debts. Also he must be able to keep up a respectable court, it was agreed, but money was the prime object.

Names of American multimillionaires were mentioned at the gathering as royal possibilities. A deputation was appointed to go to America so soon as circumstances permit, interview the most likely multimillionaires—and, if necessary, heiresses also.

One of These Would Suffice.

An American railway king would be able to set their moribund railways to rights again, they think; an oil king or a steel king would surely be able to transfer his commercial capacities from oil or steel to another sphere of business, that of evolving order out of chaos while a well known banker or financier might be the most desirable person of all and assuredly find sufficient scope for his abilities in the financial confusion prevailing in Hungary. Moreover, Hungarian monarchists hope that an American citizen would bring about a commercial union with America which would be beneficial to themselves.

The monarchist party in Hungary is determined that the Hapsburg throne shall not long remain vacant it is leaving no stone unturned to find some one ready to wear the Hungarian crown. A newspaper with the title Magyar Kiralysag (Hungarian Monarchy) is being published regularly and sent free to all those whom its editors desire to influence.

Propaganda at Work.

Motion pictures also are being utilized to the utmost for monarchist propaganda. Billboards too are plastered with monarchist posters, while great numbers of leaflets and pamphlets are being printed and distributed. The officers' corps is being packed with monarchists and members are sworn to do their best to re-establish the monarchy.

When Emperor Karl took to flight and settled by the Lake of Geneva in Switzerland the Hungarian monarchists immediately jumped to the conclusion that England was going to send them a prince. Not for some time did it dawn upon these Hungarian monarchists that there is nothing when British princes and royal dukes wish less than to leave their London palaces and country seats for the castle on the Danube.

HON. MR. MEIGHEN OFF TO TEMISCAMING

To Speak in Behalf of Conservative Candidate in the Coming Bye-Election.

Ottawa, March 18.—Hon. Arthur Meighen and G. B. Nicholson, M. P. for Algoma, left last night for Temiskaming to speak on behalf of Major Pullen, Conservative candidate in that constituency vacant by the the death of Hon. Frank Cochrane. The election takes place on April 7th, and there is a straight Conservative, a straight Liberal and a Labor-U. F. C. candidate in the field. It may be noted that Major Pullen is running as a Conservative, not as a Unionist.

New York, March 18.—The original manuscript of Percy B. Shelley's poem, "Julian and Maddalo," was sold for $16,250 to Ernest D. North, at an auction of the library of the late Harry B. Forman, Tuesday. The original manuscript of the "Spectacles," by Edgar Allen Poe brought $9,100 at the same sale.

But then, again, the Socman of Minstead was no friend to the Constable of Twynham Castle. It might happen that, should he amass riches by some happy fortune of war, this feud might hold the two families aloof. Even if Maude loved him, he knew her too well to think that she would wed him without the blessing of her father. Dark and murky was it all, but hope mounts high in youth, and it ever fluttered over all the turmoil of his thoughts like a white plume amid the shock of horsemen.

If Alleyne Edricson had enough to ponder over as he rode through the bare plains of Guienne, his two companions were more busy with the present and less thoughtful of the future. Aylward rode for half a mile with his chin upon his shoulder, looking back at a white kerchief which fluttered out of the gable window of a high house which peeped over the corner of the battlements. When at last a dip of the road hid it from his view, he cocked his steel cap, shrugged his broad shoulders, and rode on with laughter in his eyes, and his weatherbeaten face all ashine with pleasant memories. John also rode in silence, but his eyes wandered slowly from one side of the road to the other, and he stared and pondered and nodded his head like a traveller who makes his notes and saves them up for the re telling.

"By the rod!" he broke out suddenly, slapping his thigh with his great red hand, "I knew that there was something a-missing, but I could not bring to my mind what it was."

"What was it then?" asked Alleyne, coming with a start out of his reverie.

"Why, it is the hedgerows," roared John, with a shout of laughter. "The country is all scraped as clear as a friar's poll. But indeed I cannot think much of the folks in these parts. Why do they not get to work and dig up these long rows of black and crooked stumps which I see on every hand? A franklin of Hampshire would think shame to have such litter upon his soil."

"Thou foolish old John!" quoth Aylward. "You should know better, since I have heard that the monks of Beaulieu could squeeze a good cup of wine from their own grapes. Know then that if these rows were dug up the wealth of the country would be gone, and mayhap there would be dry throats and gaping mouths in England, for in three months' time these black roots will blossom and shoot and burgeon, and from them will come many a good ship load of Medoc and Gascony which will cross the narrow seas. But see the church in the hollow, and the folk who cluster in the churchyard! By my hilt! it is a burial, and there is a passing bell!" He pulled off his steel cap as he spoke and crossed himself, with a muttered prayer for the repose of the dead.

"There, too," remarked Alleyne, as they rode on again, "that which seems to the eye to be dead is still full of the sap of life, even as the vines were. Thus God hath written Himself and His laws very broadly on all that is around us, if our poor dull eyes and duller souls could but read what He hath set before us."

"Ha! mon petit," cried the bowman, "you take me back to the days when you were new fledged, as sweet a little chick as ever pecked his way out of a monkish egg. I had feared that in gaining our debonair young man-at-arms we had lost our soft-spoken clerk. In truth, I have noted much change in you since we came from Twynham Castle."

"Surely it would be strange else, seeing that I have lived in a world so new to me. Yet I trust that there are many things in which I have not changed. If I have turned to serve an earthly master, and to carry arms for an earthly king, it would be an ill thing if I were to lose all thought of the great high King and Master of all, whose humble and unworthy servant I was ere ever I left Beaulieu. You, John, are also from the cloisters, but I trow that you do not feel that you have deserted the old service in taking on the new."

"I am a slow-witted man," said John, "and, in sooth, when I try to think about such matters it casts a gloom upon me. Yet I do not look upon myself as a worse man in an archer's jerkin than I was in a white cowl, if that be what you mean."

"You have but changed from one white company to the other," quoth Aylward. "But, by these ten finger-bones! it is a passing strange thing to me to think that it was but in the last fall of the leaf that we walked from Lyndhurst together, he so gentle and maidenly, and you, John, like a great red-limbed overgrown moon-calf; and now here you are as sprack a squire and as lusty an archer as ever passed down the highway from Bordeaux, while I am still the same old Samkin Aylward, with never a change, save that I have a few more sins on my soul and a few less crowns in my pouch. But I have never yet heard, John, what the reason was why you should come out of Beaulieu."

"There were seven reasons," said John thoughtfully. "The first of them was that they threw me out."

"Ma foi! camarade, to the devil with the other six! That is enough for me and for thee also. I can see that they are very wise and discreet folk at Beaulieu. Ah! mon ange, what have you in the pipkin?"

"It is milk, worthy sir," answered the peasant maid, who stood by the door of a cottage with a jug in her hand. "Would it please you, gentles, that I should bring you out three horns of it?"

"Nay, ma petite, but here is a tousous piece for thy kindly tongue and for the sight of thy pretty face. Ma foi! but she has a bonnie mine. I have a mind to bide and speak with her."

"Nay, nay, Aylward," cried Alleyne. "Sir Nigel will await us, and be in haste."

"True, true, camarade! Adieu, ma cherie! mon coeur est toujours a toi. Her mother is a well-grown woman also. See where she digs by the wayside. Ma foi! the riper fruit is ever the sweeter. Bon jour, ma belle dame! God have you in his keeping!! Said Sir Nigel where he would await us?"

"At Marmande or Aiguillon. He said that we could not pass him, seeing that there is but the one road."

"Aye, and it is a road that I know as I know the Minstrel parish butts," quoth the bowman. "Thirty times have I journeyed it, forward and backward, and, by the twang of string! I am wont to come back this way more laden than I went. I have carried all that I had into France in a wallet, and it hath taken four sumpter mules to carry it back again. God's benison on the man who first turned his hand to the making of war! But there, down in the dingle, is the church of Cardillac, and you may see the inn where three poplars grow beyond the village. Let us on, for a stoup of wine would hearten us upon our way."

The highway had lain through the swelling vineyard country, which stretched away to the north and east in gentle curves, with many a peeping spire and feudal tower, and cluster of village houses, all clear cut and hard in the bright wintry air. To their right stretched the blue Garonne, runing swiftly seawards, with boats and barges dotted over its broad bosom. On the other side lay a strip of vineyard, and beyond it the desolate and sandy region of the Landes, all tangled with faded gorse and heath and broom, stretching away in unbroken gloom to the blue hills which lay low upon the furthest sky-line. Behind them might still be seen the broad estuary of the Gironde, with the high towers of Saint Andre and Saint Remi shooting up from the plain. In front, amid radiating lines of poplars, lay the riverside townlet of Cardillac—gray walls, white houses, and a feather of blue smoke.

Was a Native of Hanwell but Resided for Many Years in This City.

Miss Mary J. Burke passed away last night at her home on Regent street after a short illness of blood poisoning, aged 65 years.

Miss Burke had been following her regular duties until about two weeks ago, when a small sore on her breast caused by a corset steel that had become exposed, rubbing on the flesh, caused her to call in her physician. Everything was done that could be done, but blood poisoning developed and she passed away last night about ten o'clock.

Deceased was a woman of a retiring nature but had many friends, and her death under such sad circumstances will be sincerely regretted. She was a daughter of the late Thomas Burke and of Mrs. Jane Burke, of Hanwell, and is survived by her aged mother and four brothers, Edward and John, of Hanwell, and Walter and James in the United States.

The funeral announcements will be made later.

EXPERIMENTAL FARM PLEASED VISITORS

The Farmers' and Dairymen's Ass'n Have Finished Their Annual Meeting.

Most of the delegates who were here attending the annual convention of the New Brunswick & Dairymen's Association left last night and this morning for their homes.

Yesterday's visit to the Dominion Experimental Farm proved one of the best features of the convention and the visitors were all impressed with the progressiveness evident in everything they saw at the station and the excellence of the live stock.

The delegates arrived at the Farm about 12.15 o'clock and went immediately to the dining hall, where an elaborate dinner was served them. At the close of the repast W. W. Hubbard, superintendent of the Experimental Station, spoke on the work of the station, talking particularly about the grading of dairy heifers by the use of pure-bred sires.

President H. H. Magee, of Rothesay, then took the chair, and E. M. Taylor, assistant superintendent of the Experimental Station, gave a detailed account of his work concerning the lime stone deposits of the province during the time he was employed by the provincial department of agriculture. He referred to the soil surveys to ascertain the acidity of the limestone and the quantity of ground limestone necessary to correct the acidity.

Prof. W. S. Blair, of the Experimental Station at Kentville, N. S., spoke on the use of ground limestone. His address was followed by the visit of some of the delegates to the barns while those interested in potato spraying listened to an address by G. E. Saunders, officer in charge of the Dominion Entomological Laboratory at Annapolis Royal, N. S. The delegates returned to this city about 6 o'clock, after bestowing warm praise upon the authorities at the Experimental Station for their spdendid reception.

DIED AT TEA TABLE.

Mrs. Isabelle J. Long Sat Down to Supper With Family and Passed Away in Few Moments.

Death came with startling suddenness early last evening to Mrs. Isabelle J. Long at the home of her son, Hayward Long, Prince William.

Mrs. Long, while having to use a cane and crutch, was in the enjoyment of good health and sat down with the family at the evening meal as usual. Soon after being seated she was seen to sink in her chair, her head falling forward on the table, and she passed away before the family could get her to bed.

Deceased was 86 years of age and the widow of the late Benjamin Long, of Prince William. She was a devoted mother, a kind neighbor, and her death will be iearned of with sorrow. She is survived by three sons, Murray, of Kingsclear, Harry, in the West, and Hayward, at whose home she died, and one daughter, Mrs. George Kilburn, of this city. Miss Gussie Long, of this city, is a granddaughter of deceased.

The funeral will take place on Saturday afternoon at one o'clock with service by Rev. Mr. Bell and interment will be made at Long's Creek burial ground.

Formal Re-opening of the Fredericton Y.M.C.A. Proved Most Successful Function

Large and Representative Attendance Indicated Successful Resuscitation of the Organization—Mayor Reid, Bishop Richardson and Other Speakers.

The formal reopening of the Fredericton Y. M. C. A. proved very successful last evening, when over three hundred representative people gathered at the Y. M. C. A. building on York street. The opening augurs well for the Y. M. C. A. work in this city and the splendid programme carried out so successfully at last night's opening speaks well for the co-operative work of the women and the social committee. Mayor Reid occupied the chair during the carrying out of the programme, which was as follows:

Games in Gymnasium.
Selection by Bailey's Orchestra.
Welcome speech, Mayor J. A. Reid, chairman Board of Directors.
Solo—Miss Maude Camp.
Piano Solo—Mrs. Lloyd B. Johnston
Address—Bishop Richardson.

Piano Solo—Mrs. Lloyd B. Johnston.
Solo—C. H. Cochrane.
[illegible] Quartette.
Speech—Capt. A. A. Campbell.
Refreshments.
Sing-Song.
God Save the King.

Between 7 and 8 o'clock games were played in the gymnasium. The first events were two games of volley ball between the married and single men, in which the teams broke even. After the volley ball contests Karl Walker and Fred Meaghan staged an impromptu wrestling bout of two rounds for the benefit of the visitors. This was heartily applaudel by all who watched the bout. A basketball game was also put on for one period in order that visitors might see the class of athletics indulged in by the older boys.

Following the exhibitions in the gymnasium the visitors adjourned to the assembly room, where the splendid programme was carried out. Featured on the programme were addresses by Mayor Reid, the chairman, His Lordship Bishop Richardson, T. A. McDonald, the secretary, C. H. Cochrane, the athletic director, and Capt. A. A. Campbell, of Halifax.

Mayor Reid's Address.

His Worship Mayor Reid, in opening, stated he was well pleased to have the signal honor of being president of the Y.M.C.A. and of addressing such a representative gathering of people. Many of them, he said, were no doubt old members of the Y.M.C.A. who were simply returning to the old home remodelled. He hoped all would take as deep an interest in the work of the Association as they took in its opening, and read messages congratulating the Fredericton Association on its opening from Chas. C. Burchill, of the Halifax Association, and C. L. Warwick, of St. John.

Bishop Richardson's Address.

His Lordship Bishop Richardson, in addressing the assemblage, stated that there were never such opportunities for the youth as there were today in an association such as the present one. The Y.M.C.A. meant the forecasting of the youth along the lines of manliness, brotherhood towards all men, and, above all, the Christian relations and love of the Master. He stated that whatever youth, manhood, and religion spelled, it was expressed in the one idea which was built up by the Y.M.C.A.

The Secretary's Address.

T. A. McDonald, the secretary, in his address stated that however good the organization of an association, it would not be a success without the co-operative pushing of the citizens behind it. Fredericton, he said, was the centre of educational life for the young people of the province, and this city needed more action in disposing of the flaming question, "What is Fredericton doing for these young people?" Fredericton offered a strategic position in the life of the province, and it was surely worth while

ARABS WOULD CONTROL ALL SYRIA

8,000 Persons Killed in The German Revolution And Struggle Is Still On

Spartacan Forces Hold Control in Industrial Germany

HAVE ARMY OF 10,000 AT ESSEN

Some Baltic Troops Remain in Berlin and Make Trouble.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, March 22.—Negotiations between members of the Ebert government and party leaders of the German national assembly and delegates of workers which has been going on at Berlin, are declared in an official British report to have been interrupted because of increased claims of workers.

Spartacan forces still control Stettin, Drusseldorf, Elberfeld and Essen, where great disorder prevails. The situation in Kiel and southwest Germany is quiet, but some agitation is reported in agricultural sections of Pomerania and Mecklenburg.

Eight thousand persons have been killed since the German revolt broke out on March 13, according to advices received here. Of this number 850 were killed in Berlin alone.

Communists Well Armed.

London, March 22.—The Essen communists number ten thousand well armed workers and troops and this number is steadily increasing, says a despatch to the London Times from Rotterdam, quoting the Rotterdamsche Courant's Essen correspondent.

The communists have at their disposal big guns ,armored cars and airplanes.

Communist troops also are in power at Dortmund, Bochum, Elberfeld, Barmen, Hagen, Iserlohn and Hattingen. The police and government troops are far too weak to do anything against superior numbers and better armed men.

Though the general strike has terminated at some places, the despatch adds, there can be no question of a return to work under the circumstances.

Keep Back Food Supplies.

London, March 22.—A despatch to the London Daily Mail from Berlin says the United States diplomatic representative has informed the German government that it will be impossible for the United States to allow food supplies from abroad to enter any port of Germany where trouble prevails.

The same correspondent says the communists boast that a Bolshevik uprising is imminent and that General Von Seecht takes a serious view of the situation, and trenches are being dug in the streets of each city district.

A mob of workmen Saturday night attacked an isolated post of government troops in the industrial district and killed officers and men with the greatest cruelty, the despatch adds. Reinforcements were sent and killed 20 workmen and captured 25 others, who were immediately stood up against a wall and shot.

Truculent Baltic Troops.

London, March 22.—All was quiet in Frankfort Sunday afternoon, says a despatch to the London Times from Brussels, but there was continued turmoil with loss of life, reported in various parts of the country. A despatch to the same newspaper from Berlin Sunday morning says the more truculent of the Baltic troops still hold various Berlin barracks. They are terrorizing the suburbs and raiding the inner districts occasionally in armored cars, and shooting if they are interfered with. It is reported that Kapp's party is still negotiating with the government regarding amnesty and is even demanding one seat in the cabinet.

Germans Are Preparing Formidable World Propaganda in Favor of the Rivision of the Versailles Treaty

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

PARIS, March 22.—Germans are preparing a formidable world propaganda in favor of revision of the Versailles treaty and the holding of a new international conference at which vanquished nations might be represented for the object of changing or eliminating many clauses of the present treaty between the Allied nations and Germany, according to a Geneva despatch. A book entitled the "Greatest Crime of Humanity," has been prepared and ten million copies printed for free distribution especially in England, France and the United States, and it is said that millions of other pamphlets along the same line will follow.

The reactionary revolt in Berlin on March 13 put a temporary stop to the movement, it is said.

The Spartacan Forces in the Ruhr Valley Well Equipped And Said to Number 40,000

The Occupation of the Ruhr Valley by German Troops in Direct Violation of the Treaty of Versailles and the Ebert Government Send Officers to Paris to Explain Situation.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, March 22.—Spartacan forces in the Ruhr Valley of Germany number at least 20,000, and some estimate them at 40,000, according to latest advices received at the foreign office here. They are well organized, being composed of old shock troops and veterans, supplied with artillery, machine guns and having batteries of .77 centimetre field guns with plenty of ammunition.

Major Beerfield, a relative of Max Harden, is commander of these troops. He is also known as the man who published Prince Lihnowsky's report, blaming the Germaan Government for starting the world war, and was also promient in the Spartacist troubles at the time of the armistice, and also January, 1918.

Ebert Government authorities are concentrating troops and planning to surround the Ruhr Valley and force the Spartacists to capitulate. These men, however, are younger and less trained than the Reds.

The occupation of the Ruhr district by German troops is in direct violation of article 42 and 43 of the treaty of Versailles, it was pointed out at the foreign office, which added the comment that this was the first act committed by Germany in violation of the treaty, the other violations being those of omission. It was indicated that the French Government would take no separate action in the circumstances, acting only after consultation with the Allies as to necessary measures.

Two German officers have been sent by the Ebert Government to acquaint the French authorities with the situation in the Ruhr district. These officers are expected to reach Paris this evening.

Painting Owned by Poor Widow Brings $7,000 When Sold in Holland.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Hamilton, Ont., March 22.—The widow of a former mayor of this city, being in poor circumstances, offered to sell a picture to a local dealer a few months ago for ten dollars. The dealer, J. Snor, thought that the picture was worth more than this. He sent it to Amsterdam, Holland, with a view to getting a better price for it. Last week a letter was received from the Dutch capital with an enclosed cheque for $7,000 for the picture, which had proved to be an old masterpiece.

The cheque was turned over to the widow, who paid the dealer a liberal commission.

Claims City of Quebec Lost $93,000 in Gold Bond Issue

Quebec Representative of New York Financial Firm Declares That His Company Had Made More Attractive Offers Than That Accepted by the City Authorities.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Quebec, March 22.—Intimating that the city of Quebec had lost a sum of $93,000 by accepting a tender at 98.17 for its ten year six per cent. gold bond issue of $2,125,000, A. J. Carpenter, Quebec representative of the firm of Thornton, Davidson & Company, Ltd., who returned from New York yesterday, expressed surprise that bids made by his firm had been ignored.

Mr. Carpenter had gone to New York in connection with the Quebec bond issue and maintains that, while not tendering, his firm submitted attractive offers for two, three, five and ten year bonds.

VICTORY BONDS TO COMMAND A HIGHER PRICE

Matter Decided at Conference Between Minister of Finance and Special Committee.

MORE BUYERS THAN SELLERS OF SECURITIES

The Newly Authorized Schedule of Prices to Be Put Into Effect Immediately.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Toronto, March 22—Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance, it is officially announced, held a conference here on Saturday with the Victory Loan special committee, the Montreal members present being Edwin Hanson and J. M. MacKie, who were accompanied by P. Cowans, chairman of the 1919 campaign, and A. P. Frigon, chairman of the Bond Dealers' Association.

The conference resulted in telegrams being sent out on Saturday to all bond dealers and stock brokerage houses, authorizing an advance in the prices of Victory Bonds of the various maturities. This action, it is understood, is due to the fact that there are now more buyers than sellers of the securities in the market at present and some of the issues are very scarce.

The following are the net prices, plus accrued interest, which the bonds will now cost the purchaser:

Maturity.	Price.	Prev. amended Prices.
1922	99½	99
1923	99¼	99
1927	100	100
1933	100½	100
1937	102	101
1924	98½	97½
1934	97	97

It is understood that the new schedule will be put into effect immediately.

EDUCATION OF THE FOREIGN SETTLER

Methodist Men's Brotherhood Urged to Take Up Education of Foreigners.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

London, Ont., March 22.—N. W. Maxwell, secretary of the Chatham Chamber of Commerce, addressing the Askin street Methodist church Men's Brotherhood, Sunday morning, declared that the admission to the United State of uneducated foreigners was responsible for very much of the troubles rampant in that country.

"Canada's plan and purpose should be the education of the foreign immigrant immediately on his arrival, not by holding prayer meetings and attempting to reach them through the agencies of the church," said Mr. Maxwell, "but by absolute educational methods under the direction of the brotherhood."

GUNMEN ENGAGE IN REVOLVER BATTLE

Leaders of Rival Factions at Newark Killed in Fight in a Restaurant.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Newark, N. J., March 22.—Two gangs of gunmen had a revolver battle in a restaurant here Sunday, in which the leader of each faction was killed and another man badly wounded. The dead chiefs are Arturo Papal Ardo and Patsy Benenanto. The former received 12 bullets in his body.

Walls, mirrors and windows of the place were riddled with bullets and the police later found six abandoned revolvers on the floor.

Arab Leaders Demand Possession of Palestine

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

BEIRUT, March 22.—Emir Feisal, the newly elected King of Syria, has declared a boycott against countries occupying territory of Arabs, France and England, and has organized a commission for the purpose of bringing Moslems and Christians into a better understanding.

Posters displayed at Damascus, where the Syrian congress proclaimed the independence of that country, declared:

"In spite of himself, the Moslem is brother to the Christian and the Jew. The Arabs existed before Christ, Moses or Mohammed, and freedom and independence are rights of Syria. Religion is of God and the Fatherland belongs to His children."

The Syrian congress signed a decree asking foreigners to evacuate that region, and Palestine and Mesopotamia are reported to have been specifically included.

French forces are reported to have been repulsed and compelled to retreat from Ourfa. The entire Adana section is in a ferment and the roads are infested by hillmen, co-operating with Turkish nationalists, who make the position of the thinly scattered French forces perilous.

Consternation in Ireland Over Increasing Number Assassinations There Now

The Emerald Isle Now Largely Under the Domination of Secret Murder Societies, Which Are Sworn to Kill Those Whom They Believe Stand in Their Way.

London, March 22.—Despatches from Ireland during the week-end show the murder of Thomas MacCurtain, Lord Mayor of Cork, to have produced an intense, if subdued sensation throughout Ireland. This tragedy, says the London Times' correspondent in Dublin, closed one of the blackest weeks since the rebellion of 1916. He gives a long list of outrages in various parts of the island, including five murders of policemen and others, and an attempt to kill Prof. Stockley, of Cork.

In Dublin there is consternation over the assassination of Lord Mayor MacCurtain and the citizens are looking to the future with anxiety and alarm. The motive of the murder continues as mysterious as ever. No arrests have been reported, nor, so far as known, have any clues to the perpetrators been obtained. Among the theories advanced is one that the Lord Mayor was murdered as a warning to others, because he recently had the courage to publicly deprecate an attempt to murder a policeman in Cork.

London has been deeply stirred by the incident, and newspapers which, while unreservedly condemning the crime, maintain it does not differ from those which have long terrorized Ireland. It is declared Ireland, for the moment, is largely under the domination of secret murder societies, the members of which are sworn to kill those whom they believe to stand in their way, but who the conspirators are puzzles the police as much as the public. It is remarked as a phenomenon that where murder societies exist, members after a while begin to be suspected of murdering each other.

FEAR ANOTHER TIE UP OF U. S. COAL MINES

Prosecution of Coal Operators for Alleged Conspiracy to Enhance Prices in U. S.

MAY DELAY AGREEMENT ON NEW WAGE SCALE

Employees of Hamilton Bridge Works Company Go on Strike for Higher Wage.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Indianapolis, Ind., March 22.—Possibility of another tie-up of the coal industry, beginning April 1, was declared to exist as a result of the United States Government's prosecution of operators and miners for alleged violation of the Fuel Control Act, in a statement issued here by E. D. Lodgson, of Indianapolis.

Mr. Lodgson is one of the five coal operators arrested Saturday by Federal officials, and one of 125 indicted by a federal grand jury here for alleged conspiracy to enhance the price of coal. He says there is danger the Government's action may delay agreement of a new wage scale effective April 1, and miners may refuse to work after that date.

THE C. P. R. GRANTS ANNUAL PASSES

Encourages Loyalty in Service and Recognizes Principle of Co-operation.

The C. P. R., to encourage loyalty in service, and recognize the principle of co-operation has through the president, Mr. E. W. Beatty, announced a new departure which will, doubtless, be much apreciated. This is the granting of annual passes to officers and employees and their wives under the following classifications:

Employee on a general superintendent's district, who has had continuous service for a period of not less than ten years, will be granted an annual pass good over district on which employed.

Such employee, who has had continuous service for twenty years and over, will be allowed annual pass good over eastern or western lines upon whichever employed. Employee of any other department of the service will enjoy the same privilege as above, stating the territory over which pass is desired. Head office employees who have had fifteen years' service will receive annual passes over eastern or western lines where employed. Women employees are to be treated the same as men in this connection. This action expresses the policy of the C. P. R. to aim at the contentment and loyalty of the employees of whom there is an army of 66,000 at present, including all classes. The Pension Fund, a free gift of the company, was the thought of Lord Shaughnessy. The employees contribute nothing. Already the operation of the fund has wrought a great benefit. The effect of it has been to increase the contentment and loyalty of the employees, to give the sense of mutual co-operation and to stimulate the general purpose and interest of the company. There are many all over the system on the Pension fund, which offers protection in declining years. Millions of dollars are involved in the operation of the fund since its inauguration.

The time wasted by some men in bemoaning their poverty would, if properly utilized, enable them to earn a good living.

How much worry the things that never happen cause us!

FUNERALS.

Newton H. Lindsay.

The funeral of the late Newton H. Lindsay took place yesterday afternoon from the Waverly Hotel at 3 o'clock and was very largely attended. Very Rev. Dean Neales conducted an impressive service at the house and DeLong Quartette sang two hymns, after which interment was made at the Rural cemetery.

The pall bearers were Thomas Feeney, Charles Duffy, Thos. Buchanan, William Grieves, Murray Patterson and Arthur Foulger.

The mourners were William Lindsay, Audrew Lindsay, Henry Lindsay, Arthur Lindsay, Ralph Pugh, William Pugh, Harold Lindsay, Harry Edmunds, John Williams, Clarence Lindsay, Spurden DeLong, Edward Dewar, John Dewar, Frank Vanstone and John Sloat.

There were many beautiful floral tributes, including a wreath, cross and crescent from the guests and staff of the hotel.

Joseph Leshner was brought into court in Philadelphia charged with having parked his automobile in the central business district, and a policeman testified that an automobile bearing Leshner's license tag had been standing just one hour and fifty minutes in front of a hotel. "The insurance company that paid me for the automobile would have liked to see the car," said Leshner. It was stolen from me a year ago.

LOCOMOTOR ATAXIA YIELDS TO

PHOSPHONOL

TREATMENT

The remarkable efficacy of this advanced scientific method of treatment is demonstrated in the case of a patient who secured a box of Phosphonol less than a month ago. This case was of a man 54 years old, who had been afflicted with locomotor ataxia for more than four years. He came shuffling into a drug store on his cane which announced his entrance as he painfully labored to a chair. This man told the old sad story of a fortune wasted in "doctoring" and "cures," trying to regain health. After only three days' treatment, this same man came back a different man. He was able to walk unaided for the first time in more than a year. His eyes spoke the gratitude his tongue could not express. For the past week this man has been working in his store. He was able to scrub the floor unaided. He does not need his cane any more. His step in walking is almost brisk. At the rate of his remakable improvement this man should be entirely well within a short time. His name and address will be given to any one interested on application. This is only one of many dreaded ailments which have yielded to Phosphonol.

Sold at all good drug stores or by mail from The Scobell Drug Co., Montreal, Can. Price $3.00 a box, or 2 for $5.00. Don't waste your money in cheap remedies. Get one worth while.

Sold at Ryan's drug store and by all good druggists.

MARYSVILLE TALENT PUT ON FINE SHOW

Every Seat Taken and Many Were Turned Away Last Evening.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Marysville, N. B., March 20.—Every available seat was taken in Pryor's Hall Friday evening, and standing room was at a premium, to witness the musical comedy drama, The Minister's Wife's Bonnet, which was put on by the ladies and gentlemen of the Methodist church There were about thrity people in the cast, including those in the choruses The different parts were well taken and elicited much applause, while the singing also was well received. Kingsley's orchestra was present and rendered several delightful selections, while Mrs. J. S. Torrens acted as pianist, accompanied by E. J. Kingsley on the violin for the singing. Miss Mary L. Gibson and Miss Marion Stafford sang solos which were well received. Mrs. Stella Clayton and Miss Alice Harrison were splendid in their work, and Mrs. Elbridge Walker kept the audience convulsed with laughter. Miss Minnie Titus as the parson's wife made an ideal one and was presented with a handsome bouquet, as also did Mrs. Cochrane and Miss Harrison. Mrs. J. A. Stafford and Miss Clara Hanson carried their parts in excellent manner. C. D. Clayton as Knoxit was a star, while H. Dunbar as the village sport filled the bill to perfection. Harrison Eno as leader of the choir was a scream, and Mel Arnold as Howler, could not be beaten. Jack Pincombe sang a solo in fine voice and received warm applause. About $125 were the receipts of the evening, and many were unable to get tickets or to gain admission. After the singing of God Save the King, the party of players and the orchestra with a few friends repaired to Castle Hall, where a dainty lunch was served. With music, eats and social intercourse an hour passed very pleasantly and then the gathering dispersed.

Mrs. Frank Arnold's condition is much improved and it is now believed she is out of danger.

Mrs. Joseph Hazelwood is confined to her home with illness.

"Bob" Macpherson is offering a beautiful fountain pen to be competed for on the alleys of the Dawson Club during next week.

The old lath mill is to be razed to the ground. This is a good move as it is now a veritable fire trap the way it stands.

Mrs. A. G. Robinson visited friends here yesterday, returning home today.

Miss Minnie M. Titus expects to leave for Boston in the near future to visit friends.

INFLUENZA IN ALASKA.

The coatsguard cutter Algonquin with medicine and doctors has left Juneau for the oil fields. The fields were recently reopened when the President signed the Oil Lands Leasing Bill.

GIVEN REMEMBRANCE.

Lower Southampton, March 18.—Mr. and Mrs. Norris F. Tompkins received a pleasant surprise on the evening of March 12, when neighbors and friends assembled at their home to spend an evening with them before they leave for Waterville, Carleton county, where they will make their home. During the evening Durrell Philips, on behalf of the friends, presented Mr. and Mrs. Tompkins a handsome marble trimmed clock and a silver sugar bowl. Refreshments were served and an enjoyable time spent.

A meeting will be held in the Church Hall, Stanley, March 25th, at 7.30 p. m., for the purpose of organizing a Farmers' Store.

$45,000,000 THEFTS FROM CARS SHOWN

Booty Double that in Any Pre-War Year, According to U. S. Officials.

Wholesale looting of merchandise in transit on the railroads of the United States caused a loss of approximately $45,000,000 in 1919, according to United States Railroad Administration statistics made public recently.

This is estimated to be more than double the losses sustained in any pre-war year, but it is pointed out that the increased cost of the commodities stolen, roughly estimated to average 85 per cent. must be taken into consideration when comparing the losses in the days of low prices with losses now. Nevertheless there has been a steadily increasing number of packages stolen, and the organization combatting the thieves have met an increased ingenuity in diverting goods from their owners.

A technique of robbery has been developed so highly that the methods of "master thieves" are similar in the United States, England, France, Italy and Argentina, according to a recent report of the United States Chamber of Commerce in Argentina. Detectives, however, are inclined to discredit that organization's belief that a "widespread international organization" is at work stealing merchandise.

Substitution is the usual method used by the thieves. Sometimes boxes supposed to contain velvets are found at their destination to be filled with calico or other cheaper grades of cloth, but as a rule, waste paper is found. These are referred to as "concealed losses" by railway men, and are especially difficult to trace, as the shipment leaves and arrives apparently in good condition, and it is almost impossible to discover at what point the theft occurred.

The silk industry has been one of the most severely hit in the last year, and so great has the risk become that the Railroad Administration has been considering excluding raw silks from the privilege of freight transportation by rail. The Merchants' Association of New York, through its traffic bureau, has protested against such an exclusion, advocating some less radical measure to minimize or prevent the theft of silk in transit.

FARM WORK FOR INDIAN TRIBES

Regina, Sask., March 20.—The officials here are organizing a programme of farm work among the Indians this year. Indications are that more land will be under cultivation than ever and the Indians will contribute no small share of the increased production of the province as a class. The live stock of the Indians has wintered well and when spring work begins the farmers among the Indians will be ready with horses in good shape to stand the work.

GIVE POLICE MORE PAY.

Moos Jaw, Sask., March 20.—At the meeting of the police commission it was decided to increase the wages of the members of the police force by ten per cent. No agreement has yet been reached with the civic employees who are demanding a twenty per cent. increase in wages.

WON'T ENDORSE ARMOURY.

Saskatoon, Sask., March 20.—Trades and Labor Council decided that it could not endorse the resolution for placing an armory in the city, "until such time as the Government saw its way clear to amply repay the men who were overseas fighting for us."

NEW LAND ACT IN B. C.

Victoria, B. C., March 20.—A bill introduced in the Legislature would bring the large area of land along the British Columbia Southern and Columbia and Western Railway Companies —4,065,076 acres—in Similkameen and Kootenay districts, under the Land Act for administration, cancelling all existing reserves.

OBITUARY.

Gerald Brewer.

Keswick, March 19.—This community is extending sympathy to our neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Byard Brewer, in the sudden bereavement which has come to them. Their bright, promising eldest son Gerald, after about a week's illness with inflamation of the bowels, passed away all so unexpectedly to their sorrow and that of all who knew the likeable and energetic little chap He seemed so stirring that he was about the very last boy around we should have thought would so soon leave us.

There was a large crowd at the house, where part of the funeral services were held, and much larger at the Methodist church as they were continued. The pastor, Rev. W. Lawson, conducted the services, taking his texts from Matthew 18:10 and Mark 10:15, "Their angels do always behold the face of your Father in heaven and Suffer the little children to come unto me and forbid them not," etc., respectively. The choir and children of the day and Sunday schools sang the hymns Gerald used to sing, "Hark, 'tis the Shepherd's Voice," "When He cometh to make up His Jewels," etc., and "Jesus loves me, this I know, for thet Bible tells me so."

Many and beautiful were the flowers and wreaths placed on the little casket, one of which was the gift of the children of the Methodist Sunday school and day school scholars, in both of which our little friend was a pupil.

THE STUMPAGE AMENDMENT; AND THE INDEFENSIBLE ATTITUDE OF THE GOVERNMENT.

The Hon. Jas. A. Murray's amendment served a good purpose. It committed sixteen members of the Legislative Assembly to the policy of providing the needed additional revenue without resort to direct taxation. Such an amendment to the Address may have been out of order; it is natural to assume that Mr. Murray was aware it was out of order; but he was anxious, and in view of the conditions of today it is well, that the people of the province as well as the members on the Government side of the House should clearly understand now how far he, as leader of the Opposition, is prepared to go in making equitable provision for additional revenue; and to what extent the Opposition is prepared to co-operate with the Government in a very important situation. The mover of the Address, Mr. Magee of Westmorland, may not have fully appreciated his responsibilities, but in any event he referred among other things to the inadequacy of the revenue, to the now frequent serious deficits, and pointed to the fact that, with laths selling at sixteen dollars and logs at forty dollars a thousand, an increase in the stumpage rate in keeping with the market value would provide the needed revenue. It was to take the earliest possible opportunity to express the willingness of himself and his following in the House to heartily co-operate in the development of this proposition that Mr. Murray moved his amendment. He did not expect his amendment to carry; but it was not unreasonable for him to hope that, through the influence of the mover of the Address and others who sit on the right of Mr. Speaker, that the Government would take advantage of the situation to assure the House and the country that stumpage would hereafter be treated on the basis of market value for revenue purposes. Had this been done, Mr. Murray would have expressed his readiness, and the readiness of nearly all of his followers, to heartily support the Government in that policy, and the amendment would have been withdrawn. But Premier Foster and the members of his Government preferred to assume an attitude of defiance.

In 1918 the market value of stumpage was eight dollars a thousand; in 1919 the market value was ten dollars; in many cases twelve, fifteen and as high as sixteen dollars were paid for stumpage on private and company lands. In the two years named, the Governor-in-Council maintained the Crown rate at three dollars a thousand for fir and three-fifty for spruce, thus incurring a loss of revenue in 1918 and 1919 of considerably more than a million dollars. In 1918 the revenue of the province was $474,370.34 less than the requirements of Government; in 1919 it was $327,686.22 less, a total deficit in the two years of $802,056.56. Had the price of stumpage been fixed in keeping with market value we would have had, instead of a deficit of nearly a million dollars, a surplus. We would have had available an additional revenue of nearly a million and a half dollars to properly handle obligations which incurred a deficit of near a million, and to meet other obligations to pay which the Government resorted to a direct tax, through the municipalities, upon the people. The present situation cannot be justified.

It is true that the Government has intimated to its supporters that it will make an increase in the stumpage rate next August, but such assurances have been given yearly since the present party came into power. In 1916 Hon. C. W. Robinson, a member of the present Government, and speaking for his party then in opposition, fixed his value of Crown Land stumpage at that date at five dollars a thousand. In this he was supported by the other members of his party. The market value is now admittedly more than double the market value of that day; yet the Government of which he is a member persisted, in the big market value years of 1918 and 1919, in keeping the Government stumpage rate down to three dollars for fir and three and a half for spruce. And this at a time when the Government, sorely in need of revenue, was wildly resorting to the process of direct taxation to procura revenue.

The attitude of the Government is indefensible; and the supporters of the Government are on record as endorsing all that it has done in tampering with the sources of revenue.

SOUTH AFRICAN ELECTIONS.

South African cables indicate that in the general election held there last week the British party—the party, at least, which stands for British connection—led by General Jan Smuts, was unable to secure sufficient support to enable it to carry on the Government. While the figures are incomplete and the result obscure, an exchange points out that the anti-British element, which appears to have the support of Labor, has made strong gains and that another election will be necessary to secure a decisive verdict for either one side or the other.

In the South African Union four political parties exist: The South Africans led by General Smuts, and which was the predominant party in the last Parliament; the Unionists, mostly composed of persons of British birth or descent, led by Sir Thomas Smart; the Laborists, inclined towards Socialism, and of comparatively recent growth; and the Nationalists, avowedly anti-British, led by Generals Hertzog and Byers.

According to late despatches, the elections have resulted in General Smuts getting a following of 24 of the South African party and 19 Unionists, a total of 43. On the other hand, the Nationalists have elected 21 representatives and the Labor party 21, while three successful candidates are returned as "Independents." General Smuts is thus in a minority of the whole.

During his tenure of the Premiership, the late General Botha, an outstanding personality, and a man beloved by all classes from the Transvaal to the Cape, was able to swing the great bulk of the population to the side of the British connection. This remained true even after the rebellion of 1915. Supported by Sir Thomas Smart, General Botha held a commanding majority in the House, and while the Nationalists maintained an aggressive warfare upon his policies, the Government was never in danger. With the passing of Botha, however, it became evident that the anti-British forces were gaining in strength, and while a resolution calling for separation was overwhelmingly voted down in the House, few sane observers underrated the sentiment behind it in the country.

The election just fought was one of great bitterness, Generals Hertzog and Byers came out unreservedly for a republic and separation from the British Empire, while General Smuts fought just as strongly and just as unequivocably for British connection. The result, while not decisive one way or the other, and made still less definite by the part played by Labor, is nevertheless a disturbing one; and future developments will be awaited with interest, if not with anxiety, by the rest of the British Commonwealth.

Cool nights and sunshiny March days make the sap run in the maple trees, which is a reminder that new maple syrup and sugar are almost due on the market. There is another reminder for the consumer, and that is that prices are to advance considerably higher than last year's good increase. At least, the Montreal Gazette says that some producers who sold small lots direct to the householder in 1919 at $1.40 the tin are this spring asking $2.40 for the same quantity. In explaining the rise it is said that the Americans, who produce much maple product themselves, are bidding for the Canadian article and offering to take the syrup even in barrels. The explanation is just as good as any other advanced for higher prices. The ascending scale is the common disease today.

We cannot have a market value stumpage rate for our Crown Lands, we cannot have a $7 a thousand rate, because to support such a rate would be to express non-confidence in the Foster Government! And on this basis the public business proceeds or recedes in this trying period of deficits.

ADVANCE IN WAGES AT COTTON MILLS

A general advance in the wages of cotton mill operatives in New Brunswick will occur on Monday, March 29. The Canadian Cottons, Ltd., which operates large mills in other parts of Canada, announces that there will be a general advance of ten per cent. in the St. Croix mills of Milltown and in the Gibson mills of Marysville next Monday. The increase will be ten per cent. minimum. The advance will also become effective in the company's mills in Cornwall, Ont., Montreal and elsewhere.

The Canadian Cottons Co., Ltd., has made numerous wage advances during the past few years and wages are now the highest in the history of the textile industry in Canada. Last April a ten per cent. advance was given and in October last one of five per cent.

The cotton mills of Canada had to meet a reduction in the price of goods last spring, but since that time prices have come back very rapidly and the mills have about all the business they can attend to until the beginning of summer.

MRS. CARTER SAYS HUSBAND WAS CRUEL

Gives Evidence in Court That He Kicked Her Out of Bed Against the Piano.

Boston, March 22.—Testimony that her husband kicked her out of bed, threatened her with a carving knife, kicked and struck her and threw a cup of coffee and a bowl of cereal at her, was given by Mrs. Francis J. Carter, of Cambridge, yesterday afternoon, before Judge Sanderson in the East Cambridge court, in her suit for divorce from Charles L. Carter, a Cambridge carpenter. Mrs. Carpenter, who is a social worker connected with the Morgan Memorial, charges cruel and abusive treatment. The husband is contesting the suit.

Mrs. Caarter testified that she and Carter were married in 1907, and have lived in various parts of Cambridge. She said that her husband was in the habit of coming home at 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning under the influence of liquor. When she remonstrated with him for this, she said, he kicked and struck her.

She testified that on one occasion he told her that if she didn't like the way and time that he came home, she could get out. She said that in November, 1915, she did so, leaving their home at 2 o'clock in the morning.

In the following March, she testified, she returned to his home. She said he continued to drink.

Under cross-examination Mrs. Carter admitted that she might have accused her husband "in a joking manner" of having a blonde woman friend.

She denied having affairs with other men and said that she loved her husband when she married him, although that love ceased shortly after the wedding.

She said that he kicked her out of bed one evening while they were living at 945 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge, so hard that she landed against the piano. She denied that she is now engaged to uarry another man.

Mrs. August Farre, of Lowell, a sister of Mrs. Carter, testified that Mrs. Carter came to her home in Lowell in 1916 in a hysterical condition, with finger marks on her throat and cuts on her nose and face.

Alice M. Gould, a neighbor of the Carters, testified that on several occasions she heard Mrs. Carter begging her hhsband to let her alone.

Just before the close of court for the day Carter took the stand. He testified that the first argument he and his wife had was over a man named Harvey, whom he had found, when he came home one evening, locked in the parlor with his wife. He also testified that his wife showed improper attentions to another man while they were living on Mt. Auburn street, Cambridge.

ST. STEPHEN GIRL SQUEALS ON LOVER

Newport, Vt., March 21.—Because he stole articles from the Boston and Maine transfer shed in this city and made presents to Mrs. Jennie Kinney, a pretty seamstress, a newcomer here, whose former home was St. Stephen, N. Silk stockings, clocks, shoes and many other articles were missed for some time, but no trace of the theft could be secured.

The Stock Market

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York (Wall Street), March 22. Sensational trading in speculative shares, particularly motors and their subsidiaries, was resumed at the active opening of today's stock market. The initial transactions in General Motors comprised one lot of 1,500 shares at 395 to 400, an extreme gain over the week-end of 20 points. This was soon extended to the new high record of 409, while Stutz Motor rose eight points to the new maximum of 228. Crucible Steel made an early gain of 2½ points and other steels, also equipments, coppers, oils, shippings and rails, were 1 to 3 points higher. Sharp reactions in the motor group occurred within the first half hour.

SENSATION OVER AMHERST TRAGEDY

Evidence at Inquest of Fire Victim Would Indicate Foul Play in Death.

Amherst, N. S., March 21.—A coroner's inquest was held Saturday afternoon at Oxford, and senational evidence was given in connection with the death of Louis King in the fire of the Wood, Paton block, Saturday morning.

Crown Prosecutor Hanaway is following the case closely and future developments will depend on the outcome of the final finish of the inquest on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Rushton occupied rooms near the store in the same block gave evidence which put a serious aspect to the fire. She was awakened by the noise of scuffling and quarrelling in the Peel store and she put her ear to the floor and she heard some one say, "You G— D— fool you are going to burn me alive, Al. Al is young Peel's first name. This was about five or ten minutes before the fire.

FROM THE PEOPLE

GOOD COUNCIL BOARD A USEFUL INSTITUTION.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—One of our most important duties as citizens is to elect a Council Board of competent men. It is not well that private interests or sectional elements should be represented at this Board; there has been too much of that in the past. And yet it is difficult to get the right kind of men to accept nomination. Our Commercial Club was organized to supply a great many wants, and we were promised that it would perform great service. What has been the extent of its influence in arousing an interest in city affairs? So far I have looked in vain to ascertain. Monday is nomination day for Kings Ward. I would not have known it had it not been for the Press. Have our Commerical Club interested themselves in any way; have they a representative man in view as a candidate, and has he any well defined policy of which the Club approves to promote? Or are things to go by the board again?

Yours,
CITIZEN.

CROWN LAND LICENSEES IN THE LEGISLATURE.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—It has yet to be established that the ruling of Mr. Speaker which permitted licensees of Crown Lands to vote on the amendment to the Address is a correct ruling. The authority which the Governor-in-Council exercises to fix the rate of stumpage is undoubtedly subject to the pleasure of the Legislature. It is therefore not accurate to say that the Legislature has no control. The Legislative Assembly, as a matter of fact, is supreme.

In voting to defeat the amendment the licensees of Crown Lands were voting to sustain a Government which had, in exercising an authority delegated to the Governor-in-Council by the Legislature, fixed and maintained Crown stumpage at a price satisfactory to, and to serve, their personal business interests. It will scarcely be held that a situation such as that is not in defiance of the spirit and the letter of the Independence of Parliament Act; and a rule of the House, if such there be, which does not regard the letter and spirit of the independence of Parliament, can not be effective.

To say that the amendment, if carried, would have been innocuous is to say that the will of the Legislature is subject to the pleasure of the Government, and fortunately they are few who will attempt to argue on any such basis as that. If the amendment carried the will of the Legislature would be given effect; retirement of the Government of the day might be involved, but the pleasure of the House—in this instance the fixing of the stumpage rate at $7 a thousand—must be respected; that would be the first duty of government, a new Government.

It has not been urged that in voting to negative the amendment the licensees were not voting on a question in which their personal business interests were involved. It would be useless to argue that the personal interests were not involved and were not uppermost.

Another phase of the unfortunate situation is the impropriety in the licensees insisting on voting. It will be regretted that in this respect the Legislature of this province is not maintaining a commendable record. When the spirit of independence is not apparent, when regard for the public interests disappears, when the underlying motive is the selfish interest, when personal business advantage is the chief consideration, the public welfare must suffer and public respect can not be maintained.

Yours,
THE BORDER LINE.

THE MILITARY HOSPITAL—SOLDIERS' CIVIL RE-ESTABLISHMENT.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I understand that sills in the Military Hospital building on the old Government House property are already rotting, that new sills are necessary and the cost will be somewhere in the vicinity of $1,800. It is about two years since this building was erected. The fact that new sills are needed at this date shows that some one has blundered, and whoever that some one may be the responsibility lies upon the shoulders of the department under whose directions the work was carried on. If this were the only blunder in connection with these buildings, some might say generously, well, forget it; but the public have been so filled up with so many things in this connection for which incapacity in some cases and greed in others are responsible that they look upon the whole business as a scandal. And the building itself and the furnishing is but one of the costly burdens. Mr. Editor, did it ever occur to you that the people, who must pay in taxes, whether on income, personal, profits or whatnot the price of all this costly high-flying, will have something to say when their time comes at the polls; and that something will be said with no uncertaintly of meaning. I am a Union Government supporter or have been, I am a friend as you know of the men who did useful service at the front—service that should be acknowledged with due liberality; but I must say that in so far as this soldier civil re-establishment business has been conducted for the benefit of a few, and particularly for the favored of the officer class, at enormous cost, my patience is not unlimited. Neither Union Government nor any other Government can bear the odium which attaches to this whole operation. We may have to pay the cost in taxes, but those who are responsible need not kick when we decide by our ballots who will administer in the future. As I said, there is a limit to patience.

Yours,
A CANADIAN.

STUMPAGE AMENDMENT.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I was not surprised to learn that Mr. Fred Magee, M. L. A., and others who have been proclaiming that the Province should have a larger revenue from stumpage voted against an amendment which, if it had carried, would have been the means of producing more than half a million a year additional receipts. To have carried the amendment would certainly have been an expression of non-confidence in the Government, but, as I thought, Mr. Magee, who talks loudly at long range, would rather see a legitimate source of revenue restricted and the needs supplied by a direct tax of the people than to have the Government responsible for the conditions, and of which he is in fact a very tame follower, lose office and be stripped of patronage which some followers, notwithstanding their outward demonstrations, like so well. Whether the amendment was in order, whether it should have been made at another time and worded in another way, it has presented the Government and their supporters and some others in their true light before the country. It is office and power first; the public interests afterwards, and when to recognize the public interests serves their convenience. If the amendment has served no other purpose, it has demonstrated the insincerity of many who profess loudly at times, and it has demanstrated clearly; and the impression created will be lasting. Mr. Jas. A. Murray has done a good service.

MARYSVILLE BATTERY UP TO STRENGTH

Marysville, N. B., March 22—A baby girl has arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Clark, Allen street.

A very pleasant party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Pickard, Monday evening 21ast, in honor of their daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Black, of St. John, who was spending a few days here. Music, games and refreshments made the affair very pleasant.

Mrs. Jennie White was hostess at a dainty supper Friday evening in honor of Mrs. K. Black, of St. John. The dining room was prettily decorated for the occasion, and covers were laid for twelve. Miss Clara Grasse poured and Miss M. Pickard cut the ices. Mrs. Black returned to her home Saturday evening.

Geo. A. Tapley is suffering from a severe cold.

J. A. Stafford's condition is somewhat improved.

The new machine gun battery is reported to be now up to strength, 43 of all ranks, and uniforms and equipment will be issued soon. With the right persons in charge the battery should be a good one, as Marysville for many years sent the best infantry company that attended Camp Sussex.

Clair Downing returned from Toronto, Saturday afternoon, where he was giving evidence in a theft case, in which four returned soldiers were the defendants. Three of them were convicted of theft and sentenced to one year's imprisonment, while the fourth was acquitted. Mr. Downing states that there is very little snow in Toronto, but that the weather is equally as cold as here.

Philip Pincombe has been confined to his home with a severe cold for some days, but is now recovering quite rapidly.

Harry A. MacPherson is suffering from a severe cold, while most of his family are ill with la grippe.

A crew of men are at work placing the bulkheads on the new concrete dam, preparatory to the spring freshet.

Ernest Bubar has returned home from the lumber woods, where he was engaged as a filer.

Postmaster Jas. S. Inch is again able to be about and attend to his duties, although he is still quite weak from his recent illness.

Jas. F. Inch's condition is somewhat improved, but he is still confined to his room.

COST OF ENFORCING THE ONTARIO ACT

Toronto, March 20.—Figures show that the cost of enforcing the Ontario Temperance Act for the year ending Oct. 31, 1919, amounted to $235,454, which included many considerable advances for law enforcement and travelling expenses. There is a further sum of $3,106 for enforcing the Canada Temperance Act for the Board of License Commissioners, amounting to $3,510.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN WANTS A DIVORCE

Married to Mildred Harris a Movie Star, When She Was Sixteen Years of Age.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 20.—Domestic troubles in the family of Charlie Chaplin, which have been known to friends as having existed for several months, are soon to culminate in a suit for divorce filed by Mrs. Chaplin, known in the film world as Mildred Harris.

Chaplin is said to have stated that he will file a counter suit in the event of action being taken by his wife. This is by no means the first time that the family affairs of the Chaplins have ben the topic of gossip in the moving picture colony here, but more importance is attached at this time than ever before.

When seen at his club this morning the comedian said that he had no statement to make and his attorney, Arthur Wright, would not talk for him. It is said, however, that Mrs. Chaplin has become aware that her husband was preparing to file a suit and made her intention to appeal to the courts now in an attempt to stop Chaplin's action. The only direct statement of Mrs. Chaplin was made this morning, when she said: "I have not seen Mr. Chaplin in two weeks and he has not been living with me for several months. I am forced to conclude that he does not want to live with me. I do not want a divorce neither do I want Mr. Chaplin's money, but I must have support." Chaplin's only reply to this stateemnt was, "Oh, well; such is life in the great west." Attorneys for Mrs. Chaplin state that Chaplin has visited their client at her Oxford street home many times in an effort to persuade her to accept $25,000 and file suit in Nevada on "nominal grounds."

Mr. James B. Edwards, the well-known chef, returned to the city after an absence of some months.

Water Power Development Plans For New Brunswick

Province Divided Into Three Districts with a Central Power to Be Developed in Each—The Grand Falls Legislation Is Reviewed.

In the 59th annual report of the Crown Land Department, which has been tabled in the Legislature, there is a report from W. E. McMullen, secretary of the New Brunswick Water Powers Commission, which says in part:—

The commission has divided the province into three districts, in each of which it is proposed to develop a central power and distribute the same over the district.

District No. 1—St. John Valley Fredericton north. Power to be developed on the Pokiok and Shogomoc.

District No. 2—North Shore. Power from the Tetagouche.

District No. 3—St. John and vicinity, including Kennebeccasis Valley and parts of Charlotte. Power from Lepreaux and Magaguadavic.

District No. 1—Pokiok and Shogomoc—We now have a continuous run-off record on these streams for a full climatic year, that is, from October to October. The summer just passed has shown a larger period of extreme low water in the streams than we have any knowledg of, while the country did not suffer from drought, there being frequent moderate showers which kept vegetation fresh and growing, yet there was no rain to raise the streams from the middle of June to the middle of October.

The average runoff of the Shogomoc and the Pokiok is practically the same; for the year it was about 200 cu. feet per second, but during July, August and September it dropped to less than one-tenth of that. Notwithstanding this long period of extreme low water we have found that it is easy to store sufficient water on each of these2 streams to control 90 per cent of the average runoff, allowing the balance for unavoidable waste.

Development of Pokiok Favored.

The Pokiok should be developed first for two reasons: First, because it will be developed in two separate units, the first of which will provide all the power required for some time and which will not involve heavy outlay, and also because it is three miles nearer Fredericton.

The development of the first unit on the Pokiok will require the building of an earth dam with a concrete spillway, a wood stave pipe from this dam to the power house—distance of 1500 feet—a concrete power house with the necessary wheel pit and tail race and hydro-electric plant also surge tank which is simply a relief to the pipe in case of sudden shutting off of the water at the wheels; also the building of a storage dam about 4½ miles from St. John, erecting with the transmission lines. The cost of developing this first unit will not be excessive and we believe that sufficient current could be sold to Fredericton to supply the lighting, including street lights to cover the fixed charges, leaving all the power possibilities for reasonable profit and future reduction of rates.

No. 1 development on the Pokiok will give 1,636 continuous 24 hour h. p. or 3,272—12 hour or practically 4,000—10 hour power.

No. 2 development will give 2275—24 hour, 4550—12 hour and 5460—10 hour power.

The North Shore Prospects.

District No. 2—Comprising all the towns on the North Shore from Campbellton to Chatham. Power to be developed on the Tetagouche, near Bathurst.

The Tetagouche, like the Pokiok, has very large power possibilities owing to the relatively large storage obtainable. However, to secure the utmost power it will be necessary to make four developments instead of two as on the Pokiok. The first development would be very expensive, but the present cost of electric current to the several towns is so high that they are willing to pay a stiff price for hydro-power at the outset, so long as it is considerably less than their present cost, with the certainty that it will be materially reduced as the consumption is increased.

In addition to this the Dominion Pulp Mill is certain to want 700 to 800 h. p. in the near future, and there is sure to be other power required as soon as it can be delivered. The full development of this stream with ample storage provided will yield a minimum of 5,000 h. p. for the entire 24 hours or 12,000 for a 10 hour ray. In addition to the towns above named it is quite possible that the rapidly growing city of Moncton will be looking for Hydro Electric current within a comparatively short time to supplement their natural gas supply, and though the supplying of Moncton from this source would require a transmission line 125 miles long, yet it is perfectly feasible.

District No. 3—St. John and vicinity Power from the Lepreaux and Magaguadavic.

As regards these streams, this Commission has very little in the way of detail obtained by their own staff, save the runoff which next to the actual head is the most important item. We have daily records of the runoff for a continuous period of over three years and taking the fall as given by Mr. Whiting and the storage as estimated by him, we believe there can be developed over 5,000—24 hour h. p.

We intend to have all the information necessary to make a closely approximate estimate of the ultimate power possibilities of these streams very shortly.

The Grand Falls Power Legislation.

Questions sometimes come to the Commission as to the status of the control of the Grand Falls on the St. John River, one of the greatest falls in Eastern Canada. On this account the following brief resume of legislation affecting that power is published as a matter of public interest:

Chap. 3.—Acts of 1903—Lieutenant Governor-in-Council authorized to incorporate Companies which shall offord evidence of financial ability to develop the water power at Grand Falls, said Company to deposit $50,000 with Receiver General as evidence of good faith and which sum to be forfeited if the conditions laid down by the province are not complied with.

Before any works are proceeded with, a plan of the same shall be filed in the office of the Commissioner of Public Works, a duplicate being furnished the St. John Log Driving Company and the Madawaska Log Driving Company provision to be made for the passage of logs.

After the incorporation the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council may grant a lease of Crown Land in the vicinity of Grand Falls for such term and upon conditions as he may see fit.

Chap. 32.—Acts of 1904—The Lieutenant Governor-in-Council is authorized to acquire land for the development of water powers, but the cost of same shall not exceed $10,000 without the consent of the Legislative Assembly.

The Lieutenant Governor-in-Council also is authorized to lease or sell such lands, etc., to any corporation having the ability to develop and utilize same for industrial purposes. And the Lieutenant Governor-in-Council may incorporate such a company to acquire such rights.

Chap. 17.—Acts of 1905—Whereas on 24th of March, 1905, under authority of Chap 3, Acts of 1903, "The Grand Falls Power Company Limited" was incorporated, this Act confirms same. The following being a brief summary of conditions required by the incorporation.

Plans of the proposed works to be filed with Provincial Commissioner of Public Works and Minister of Public Works of Canada. These plans to receive the approval of both governments.

The company is given rights to acquire power, lands, rights etc., and to develop power also to buy, sell, store, transmit and deal in same. They are again given full rights to make the necessary canals, runways, works, wharves, etc.

Capital stock of the company shall be $5,0000,000 in shares of $100 each.

Chap. 18.—Acts of 1905—This Act ratifies a lease from the Crown to the Grand Falls Power Company Ltd. Date of lease 10th April, 1905. Lease recites Chap. 3, Acts of 1903, and states that the $50,000 there referred to has been paid by above company.

By the terms of the lease the Grand Falls Power Company, Limited, obtain the right to the Grand Falls, the water power, use of the waters and Crown Lands upon the banks of the river within two miles of the Falls, subject to existing leases. Term of lease twenty years from 1st May, 1905, rental $500 per year for first ten years and $1,000 a year for the second ten years. Renewal provided for at the rate of $1,500 per year for second term of twenty years, and after that lease in perpetuity at $2,000 per year.

The right is given the lessees to purchase outright all above mentioned privileges for the sum of $60,000. The Lessees also covenant to commence work before the 1st day of September, 1906 and before the 1st of September, 1908, expend not less than $200,000, also complete the works before 1st September, 1913, at a cost of not less than $1,000,000. Water power so developed to be used within the Province of New Brunswick.

Chap. 41.—Acts of 1907—Lease of 10th April, 1908, amended by making the time for commencement of work within ninety days after plans are approved by Minister of Public Works but such approval must be before the 12th April, 1908, or Lease is void. Within two years and ninety days after approval of plans an expenditure of $200,000 shall have been made and within five years thereafter the work shall be completed at a cost of at least $1,000,000.

Chap. 32.—Acts of 1911—Provides for amalgamation of The Grand Falls Power Company, Ltd., and The Grand Falls Company, Ltd., retaining in the name of the last mentioned Company all the rights and privileges of its predecessors.

Chap. 49.—Acts of 1916—By this Act the time or commencement of work by The Grand Falls Company, Ltd., is extended until one year from the day on which Peace should be proclaimed.

Unless within said period the said Company shall have expended not less than $100,000 in actual development of the Water Power the Lieutenant Governor-in-Council may declare forfeited the $500,000 held as a deposit.

Development Work Now On.

At the time of writing (January, 1920) two very interesting power developments are being proceeded with, one by the Bathurst Lumber Company at the Grand Falls of the Nepisiguit River near Bathurst, the other on the Nashwaak River just above the town of Marysville where the Nashwaak Pulp and Paper Company are building a dam and power house to develop power for a proposed new mill near the mouth of the Nashwaak River. The Bathurst Lumber Company are at present putting in two units of 4,500 h. p. each and are making provision in their development for a third unit of the same size. All their construction will be reinforced concrete of the latest design. The power will be transmitted to Bathurst by copper wire carrying 33,000 volts. This wire will be strung on steel posts.

The Nashwaak Pulp and Paper Company's development will for the present amount to two units of 500 h. p. each. Their dam is already constructed and they purpose early in the spring starting in at work on the power house. This dam is modern in every respect of reinforced concrete and fitted with log sluice way and fishway.

A modern hydro-electric development, first class in every respect has recently been completed on the Madawaska River at Edmundston. This plant has a capacity of about 3,000 h. p. and is used by Fraser Companies, Ltd., in connection with their large pulp and paper business at that point.

The Maine and New Brunswick Power Company have just completed a 2,000 h. p. addition to their hydro-electric plant at Aroostook Falls, bringing the total installed capacity of this plant up to 5,000 h. p.

A 400 h. p. addition is being made to the hydro-electric power development on the Canadian side of the St. Croix River which supplies St. Stephen and Calais with light and power, while immediately above this development also on the Canadian side of the St. Croix River, the Canadian Cottons are enlarging and improving their hyro-electric developments by installing three new units with a total capcity of 3,000 h. p. These will partially replace some older equipment.

INCREASE IN PRICES DURING FEBRUARY

Labor Gazette Statistics Show That Figures Still Continue to Mount.

Ottawa, March 20—Another marked increase in prices of the necessaries of life during February is noted in the Labor Gazette for March just issued. Practically every one of the essentials of domestic life, including building materials, metals, fuel and rent, shows a movement in price "steeply upward," says the Gazette.

Family food budget in some sixty cities averaged $15.70 at the middle of February, as compared with $15.30 in January, $13.41 in February a year ago and $7.75 in February, 1914.

Wholesale prices are also on the increase, the index number in the Gazette rising to 343.5 for February as compared with 336.4 for January, 279.8 for February a year ago and 136.6 for February, 1914.

DECORATIONS FOR BELGIAN WOMEN

Details of First German Gas Mask First Brought Across Frontier by Marie D'Have.

London, March 20.—Awards have just been made to two Belgian women, Madame Clement and her sister, Mlle. Marie D'Have, and posthumously to their father, Theophile D'Have, for giving to the Belgian General Staff details of the first German gas mask.

Posing as a pro-German, M. D'Have was able to send one of his daughters to Havre, then the Belgian great headquarters, with a design of the mask concealed in her dress. She went by way of Holland and at the Dutch frontier she was searched for four hours in vain. Had the document been found she would have been shot. Altogether Mlle. D'Have crossed the frontier fifty times until at the end of 1915 she thought it would be safer to remain in Holland.

So well did the father pose as a pro-German that his neighbors hated him and their behavior to him hastened his death from heart disease.

At the time of the armistice, a crowd tried to burn down his house.

Absorption of Nova Scotia Steel By Dominion Steel Co. Is Merely a Possibility Yet

Mark Workman, President of Dominion Steel Co., Says That Recent Trip to New York Had Nothing to Do With Proposed Merger of the Big Corporations.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

New York, March 22.—The absorption of the Nova Scotia Steel Company by the Dominion Steel Corporation is merely a 'possibility" as yet, according to Mark Workman, president of the latter corporation, who has been in New York for the past four days, accompanied by J. H. Plummer, former president and a member of the board of directors of the Dominion Steel.

Questioned by the Canadian Press, the Dominion Steel president declined to discuss the reported amalgamation, but did not deny that it might ultimately be brought about.

"It is a possibility of course," he said. "Such a move has been discussed on several previous occasions."

Mr. Workman said that control of the Nova Scotia Steel was in American hands.

"I will say," he added, 'that I have not seen any of the American stockholders or their representatives during my visit to New York. My trip was on other business entirely."

Questioned as to the possible basis of amalgamation, Mr. Workman said that if effected it would be an absorption of Scotia by Dominion Steel, but declined to enter into a discussion of details.

Regarding the announcement made by Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, that the Government within a few days would officially notify the Dominion Steel Company that it would take 75,000 tons of steel ship plates, Mr. Workman said it would have no bearing on the possible merger. The Government order, he said, would amount to about 75 per cent. of the Dominion Steel output.

FISHED WHILE SHE WORKED, SAYS WIFE

Mrs. Josephine L. Liberty Wins Divorce in Massachusetts Courts.

Boston, March 21.—All that Louis L. Liberty ever did for a living was to fish, Mrs. Josephine L. Liberty told Judge Thayer of the Superior Court yesterday, while she was obliged to work to keep the house, she said.

Mr. and Mrs. Liberty were married in Vermont on January 25, 1874, and six children have been born. After living with her between 25 and 30 years her husband deserted her at Worcester 18 years ago. The judge gave her a decree of divorce for desertion.

A libel brought by William I. Smith against his wife, Anna W. Smith, for alleged cruel and abusive treatment was taken under advisement by Judge Thayer after all the evidence had been offered. Smith testified that he and his wife lived together happily at 664 Shawmut avenue until the peace of the household was disturbed by her introduction of fortune telling. Smith objected, as he did not like the appearance of persons who came to his house. One afternoon on his return home he found that the police had raided the house and arrested Mrs. Smith for fortune telling. On her return she promised to discontinue that line of business, but he said she soon began to throw knives and other sharp instruments at him.

POLAND A LAND OF RICHES AND HUNGER

Display of Wealth on One Hand, with Galling Poverty on Other.

Warsaw, March 22.—As a land of striking contrasts Poland with her new won freedom is without an equal today. On one hand is a display of wealth, midnight suppers and revelry; on the other hand is galling poverty, hunger and emaciated arms held out imploringly for aid. There is a great scarcity of milk and the price of it is exorbitant, but there always is fresh whipped cream for your coffee, while a lad, weak in body, and hunger-pinched face and clogs so worn that he slips on the ice covered pavement, pushes a handcart filled with milk in bottles from house to house seking customers.

Fuel, too, is scarce and only the wealthy can buy coal, but the hot water in your apartment at a hotel may run to waste all day and no one will tell you to turn it off. In florists' windows exotic plants bloom, while outside the streets are slippery with their covering of ice, and snow is banked high.

Self American Cigarettes.

Tobacco is scarce, but in every hotel lobby there are boys with packages of American Red Cross cigarettes, which they offer for sale at 18 shillings for a package of twenty.

Clothing is scarce and expensive, but one sees many well dressed men and handsome gowned women, while waiters in cafes and restaurants have abolished "tips" and dress suits as savoring of the bourgeois and have purchased longue suits at 40 pounds each.

And while men and women of wealth dine and wine in these places, outside at the food relief stations there stand long queues of men, women and children in the cold and the sleet and snow waiting for bread

How do they do it? How do the poor live? These are questions any stranger here would ask. The answer is not easy for a cabinet minister's salary is only £100 a month; a clerk gets £4 a month. Bread costs two shillings a loaf, a pair of boots £20, a cup of chocolate 4s. 6d., a sweater and a knitted skirt, £84; a table d'hote luncheon of soup, entree and an ice, £1 2s., with a la carte prices as follows: Hors d'oeuvres, 15s.; soup, 2s. 6d., omelet, 9s., cutlet, 10s., slice of turkey, 15s., spinach, 8s., compote of fruit, 10s., a bottle of claret, 70s.

Mark Worth Half a Penny.

The Polish mark, nominally worth 1s. 6d., now is worth half a penny, and the Pole can only earn Polish marks. Therefore, many Poles who returned here from America when the new Poland arose now are trying to return to the United States.

Meanwhile the Pole is waiting for something to happen. He knows that present conditions cannot last always—that they cannot endure.

But while it lasts Warsaw presents curious sights, striking contrasts—bitter frosts, radiant sun, biting wind and dust storms; glorious sunsets and snow. It is a busy, constantly moving city, with rooms almost unobtainable at the hotels; with the street cars packed; with cafes filled with brilliant crowds, dining and wining, while the orchestras play wonderful music. Today this is a city of men of all nations; of handsome women in rich gowns and furs, and shambling pinch-faced beggars who beg a crumb of bread.

And yet, with all its contrasts, Warsaw, and all Poland, has a high consciousness of freedom and pride of patriotism. Enormous possibilities are here, and only a constructive statesmanship is needed to develop them, to weld the scattered ends of life together; to rehabilitate Poland, to make her a great productive unit of world production and commerce, and, if necessary, to make her an effective barrier between Bolshevism and well ordered governments.

The Most-Used Surface in Your Home

HOW many steps a day on your kitchen floor? Who would hazard a guess? Get the members of the family to try to figure it and then tell them the real significance of those footsteps—the need of surface protection.

Any family circle that loves its home will appreciate the value of saving the surface.

If it's the kitchen floor, whether wood or linoleum, think of the wear from treading, scraping, hurrying feet.

If it's the furniture think of the friction and damage of constant use.

If it's the outside of the house think of wood and metal and their constant exposure.

The responsibility, the financial responsibility, that is carried by a coat of paint or varnish is impressive. It stands between you and serious loss. But neglect to provide the protection which such a coat ensures, shifts that responsibility to the owner's shoulders.

Why run the risk of expensive repairs when they can be avoided through reasonable care? Wood, metal, concrete, stucco—all are materials which will give back richly in long service for the small expenditure needed for surface protection. Save the Surface.

Alternate storm and sun are cracking this column base badly; it is on the road to ruin. Paint would have saved this surface. If kept covered, the surface never would have been reached.

THIS ANNOUNCEMENT is issued by the Canadian Save the Surface Campaign Committee, for the purpose of educating the public in the Preservative and Protective value of Paint, Varnish and Allied Products for the Conservation of Property, and has received the approval of the Canadian Trade Commission in the following words:

"The realization of the above objects will lead to employment during the Reconstruction Period and bears our entire approval."

OTTAWA FAVORITE TO BEAT SEATTLE

Pacific Coast Team Are Well Balanced and Have Perfect Working Machine.

Ottawa, March 22.—Ottawa are favorites for the Stanley Cup series which opens tonight. This is because of the fact that they are playing at home. Seattle though are a great battling team and have won out two years in succession in the coast team. They are an evenly balanced team who don't boast an outstanding star in the whole outfit. Most of their men are highly rated, however, and as a unit they are said to be one of the most perfect teams that ever played hockey.

Taking them position for position the Senators appear to have a margin. Benedict and Holmes are both good men in their positions. Holmes has a habit of being a real sensation some evenings and is a steady performer at all times. It is out in front of the nets that Ottawas' advantage is most apparent. Rickey and Rowe may be very good, but they do not compare with Gerard or Cleghorn as a steady defensive duo.

Rowe, always a steady player, is not the terrific checker that either of the Ottawa men are, and is hardly as fast as Gerard or as canny as Cleghorn. Rickey is an unknown, but must be good to travel in the champions' company.

That irritating couple Foyston and Walker, the centre ice wasps, will cause Ottawa more worry than any other part of the team. They travel well together and are fast as flashes. Foyston is a particularly strong skater and Walker's forte is his jeromalizing hook check. Tobin Murray and Riley who alternate in the other positions, are big, fast and fearless.

When the seven-men game is in use it is likely that Boucher will be the extra man on the Ottawa forward line. Working as a trailer he has shown an intimate knowledge of the rover's position, while Denneny, Bruce and Mackell also worked well in that position. The Senators depend on a short, jerky combination in this game which Pete Green is instilling. This is the play that the old Silver Seven made famous when the short pass that they worked was the mo[illegible] method of handling the rubber on the short rinks then in vogue.

Big Crowd Greet Westerners.

Ottawa, March 21.—The Seattle hockey team, champions of the Pacific coast and opponents of the Ottawa in the world's series Stanley cup at the Arena this week, received an enthusiastic reception on their arrival from the west. More than three thousand people—the largest crowd that has thronged into the Central station for many months—were on hand to greet the invaders.

The Seattle players appeared to have stood the long journey well and were in the best of spirits. They were naturally disappointed that the weather was not a few degrees colder, but remarked they could play on any kind of ice.

Sudbury Wins Again.

Toronto, March 22.—Sudbury again defeated the Granites in Allan cup series, winning the round by 11 to 3. They will now play the University of Toronto.

Derry Cup Won by Sherbrooke.

Quebec, March 22.—Loyolas, of Quebec, were defeated by St. Patricks, of Sherbrooke, on Saturday night in the latter city by a score of 4 to 2. The Saints thus win the Derry cup by a score of 7 to 4 on the total.

NORMAL SCHOOL IS BEATEN BY 71 TO 17

St. John, N. B., March 22—In a very one-sided basketball game in the Y. M. C. A. gym Saturday afternoon the Provinical Normal School team of Fredericton met a decisive defeat in their return game with the St. John High School team. The High School boys took the lead from the very start of the game and all through the first period piled up score after score until half time saw them leading 38 to 2.

In the second period the High School again scored at will although the Normal boys were able to increase their own score to a limited extent. The game ended 71 to 17.

Josselyn and Thomas did some good shooting for High, and Rockwell helped the play by getting the jump on Nicholson. Robinson and Pattison played a hard game on defense, holding the P. N. S. forwards very closely.

Of the losers, Russell and Nicholson were alone able to net the ball. The teams lined up as follows:

Normal School	High School.
Forward.
Russell	Thomas
Gilchrist	Josselyn
Centre.
Nicholson	Rockwell
Defense.
Linton	Pattison
McFarlane	Robinson

Referee—Basil Robertson.

In the evening the visiting team were the guests of the High School boys at the first show in the Imperial, after which they journeyed to the Y. M. C. A. where they enjoyed a social with both the High School girls and boys. During the evening refreshments were served.

The pleasant affair was chaperoned by Mrs. Ralph W. Fowler.

Tom Gahagan, president of the Turf Writers' Association, has been looking them over in California.

Stewart Mackay has wintered seven head at the Dover track and will have half a dozen more when spring breaks.

HOOPER HELPED RED SOX TO WIN

Ten Thousand Fans Watched Boston Captain's Slugging Beat the Giants.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Dallas, Tex., March 22.—The Boston Red Sox do not need to worry about losing Babe Ruth, so long as they have Harry Hooper left. That was the conclusion arrived at by about 10,000 fans who saw Hooper perform in yesterday's game again the New York Giants. Hooper's share in the 4 to 3 victory was not small. It was Hooper's fielding, throwing and hitting that turned the trick. The veteran outfielder was everywhere. In the box score he stands credited with a home run and a two base hit, one put out and three assists.

Declares the Millenium is Due to Arrive in Five Years

Judge Rutherford Presents His Supposition in Legal Manner—Troublous Period First, He Says, but Peace and Eternal Life in 1925 by Latest.

Anybody who can manage to live through the next five years will have nothing more to worry about for he—or she—will be among the elect who are to live forever on this earth in peace, contentment and happiness.

That was the cheering message which Judge Rutherford, of New York brought to an audience of about 3,000 persons in the Waldorf Theatre yesterday afternoon. Yet the audience didn't get in the least excited over the prospect, but that is the way with a Boston audience—cool in the face of eternal bliss—when it is promised by a New Yorker.

But the judge was not dreaming in his fancy. He has a legal mind and he presented his evidence in a legal way, citing facts and statistics to prove his case. He didn't advise anybody to cancel their insurance policies, however, for he could not give any very strong assurances as to the number who were liable to survive the trials and tribulations of the next five years. There is trouble ahead for the next five years though not quite so much trouble as there has been the past five years.

Judge Rutherford assured the audience there will be a very serious pestilence, not unlike the Spanish influenza, but that, and some minor international troubles, will be about all, and then in exactly five years will come the new era with life everlasting on the earth. Then there will be neither Republican, Democrat, Socialist, Bolshevist, capitalist laborist, Jew or Gentile—all will live together in a world ruled by Divine Wisdom instead of selfish human interests, as in the past 3,500 years.

Somehow the advertisements announcing Judge Rutherford's lecture seemed to convey the idea that he was going to talk along spiritualistic or spiritistic lines and that he was going to give assurances about the hereafter much like those Sir Oliver Lodge gives. Perhaps this had something to do with the size of the audience, even though it was a free lecture. But in point of fact Judge Rutherford has no use for Sir Oliver Lodge, Sir Conan Doyle or Prof. Hyslop. He regards them as false prophets—agents of the devil—and incidentally as a bit of the proof that the world of darkness and error is about to end and a world of light and everlasting happiness to begin—in five years.

Judge Rutherford is a Biblical student and all history reveals itself to him in the light of Biblical prophecy. He cites evidence to prove his case the same fashion that a lawyer cites evidence to prove the case of a client, except that his chronology and citations are based on sacred rather than civil law.

He gave no very clear clue to the kind of life on earth which is to be initiated in 1925, except through one flash of humor that seemed to please a number of people in the audience and caused the others to laugh. He said that in the New Dispensation those who—like himself—were bald headed would grow a new thatch of hair and be thus the fairer to look upon. He also inferred that people would not grow physically old and wrinkled.

He did not touch on domestic life nor social relations. Nevertheless he seemed to suggest that there would be no question about the hours of labor nor any necessity for efficiency experts in industry, nor for a minimum wage. Nor would there be any profiteering and no giving to the Government of excess profits. It is not going to be that kind of a Government.

Judge Rutherford assured the audience that he had not come from New York to enter a controversy but to deliver a message. He said the end of the world—meaning the end of an era—had been reached in 1914, when the World War began. It would take ten years of reconstruction to fit the world for the new era which is to usher in everlasting life to those who manage to survive the next five years.

He said all this should have been known, and would have been known, to the world if people had only studied their Bibles more carefully. One reason for the lack of light on the subject has been the fact that the churches have been political instead of spiritual.

To prove his case Judge Rutherford cited the words of the prophets in the Old Testament and of Jesus and the Saints in the New Testament. The World War was prophesied, as were the man and events leading up to the great conflict. In fact, the world had to go through what it has been going through to fulfil prophecy.

Winnipeg, Man., March 20.—Winnipeg is expected this coming season to become the hub of aviation in Western Canada. Preparations are being made by the local companies to run aerial service from Winnipeg to the beaches. A service between Winnipeg, Minneapolis and St. Paul will be commenced, while flights will be made almost daily to the various towns and cities within a radial distance from the city. A scheme for a service of large passenger and freight machines connecting Winnipeg with towns and cities east, west and south is being projected. Winnipeg will be the northern station and will act as terminal, and will also be a stopping place for all trans-continental flights in Canada.

ESTABLISH AN AIR PATROL OF FOREST

Two Machines on the Way to Alberta to Be Used on the Eastern Slope of Rockies.

Edmonton, Alta., March 20.—The scheme to establish an air patrol of Alberta forest reserves will be put into effect during the coming summer, according to Col. R. H. Palmer, chief fire ranger for the northern section of the province. A patrol of the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains, beginning in the south, is to be carried on this year. It will be entirely experimental at first. Suitable landing places must be located before the patrol can really be established and wireless stations will also be a necessary part of the scheme. Two machines will be used for the purpose of locating fires, the fact that a 65-mile range is possible at an elevation of 5,000 feet indicates the great usefulness of the air patrol as an addition to the other protective measures.

INDIAN PROTEST AT NEW FISHING RULES

Vancouver, B. C., March 20.—Indians have joined hands in protesting against the new fishing regulations. The price is $1.11 for No. 1, and $1.02 for No. 2.

"Now this Gouvral was very greedy for money, so he thrust forth his hand for the fourteen deniers, but Simon had his dagger ready and he pinned his hand to the door. I have paid the Englishman's debt, Gouvral!" quoth he, and so rode away, laughing so that he could scarce sit his horse, leaving mine host still nailed to the door. Such is the story of the hole which you have marked, and of the smudge upon the wood. I have heard that from that time English archers have been better treated in the auberge of Cardillac. But what have we here by the wayside?"

"It appears to be a very hold man," said Alleyne.

"And, by the rood! he hath some strange wares," cried John. "What are these bits of stone, and of wood, and rusted nails, which are set out in front of him?"

The man whom they had remarked sat with his back against a cherry-tree, and his legs shooting out in front of him, like one who is greatly at his ease. Across his thighs was a wooden board, and scattered over it all manner of slips of wood and knobs of brick and stone, each laid separate from the other, as a huckster places his wares. He was dressed in a long gray gown, and wore a broad hat of the same color, much weather stained, with three scallop-shells dangling from the brim. As they approached, the travellers observed that he was advanced in years, and that his eyes were upturned and yellow.

"Dear knights and gentlemen," he cried in a crackling voice, "worthy Christian cavaliers, will ye ride past and leave an aged pilgrim to die of hunger? The sight has been burned from mine eyes by the sands of the Holy Land, and I have had neither curst of bread nor cup of wine these two days past."

"By my hilt! father," said Aylward, looking keenly at him, "it is a marvel to me that the girdle should have so goodly a span and clip thee so closely, if you have in sooth had so little to place within it."

"Kind stranger," answered the pilgrim, "you have unwittingly spoken words which are very grievous to me to listen to. Yet I should be loth to blame you, for I doubt not that what you said was not meant to sadden me, nor to bring my sore affliction back to my mind. It ill becomes me to prate to much of what I have endured for the faith, and yet, since you have observed it, I must tell you that this thickness and roundnes of the waist is caused by a dropsy brought on by over-haste in journeying from the house of Pilate to the Mount of Olives."

"There, Aylward," said Alleyne, with a reddened cheek, "let that curb your blunt tongue. How could you bring a fresh pang to this holy man, who hath endured so much and hath journeyed as far as Christ's own blessed tomb?"

"May the soul fiend strike me dumb!" cried the bowman in hot repentance; but both the palmer and Alleyne threw up their hands to stop him.

"I forgive thee from my heart, dear brother," piped the blind man. "But, oh, these wild words of thine are worse to mine ears than aught which you could say of me."

"Not another word shall I speak," said Aylward; "but here is a franc for thee and I crave they blessing."

"And here is another," said Alleyne.

"And another," cried Hordle John.

But the blind palmer would have none of their alms. "Foolish, foolish pride!" he cried, beating upon his chest with his large broyn hand. "Foolish, foolish pride! How long then will it be ere I can scourge it forth? Am I then never to conquer it? Oh, strong, strong are the ties of flesh, and hard it is to subdue the spirit! I come, friends, of a noble house, and I cannot bring myself to touch this money, even though it be to save me from the grave."

"Alast father," said Alleyne, "how then can we be of help to thee?"

"I had sat down here to die," quoth the palmer; "but for many years I have carried in my wallet these precious things which you see set forth now before me. It were sin, thought I that my secret should persih with me. I shall therefore sell these things to the first worthy passer-by, and from them I shall have money enough to take me to the shrine of Our Lady at Rocamadour, where I hope to lay these old bones."

"What are these treasures, then father?" asked Hordle John. "I can but see an old rust nail, with bits of stone and slips of wood."

"My friend," answered the palmer, "not all the money that is in this country could pay a just price for these wares of mine. This nail," he continued, pulling off his hat and turning up his sightless orbs, "is one of those wherewith man's salvation was secured. I had it, together with this piece of the true rood, from the five-and-twentieth descendant of Joseph of Arimathea, who still lives in Jerusalem, alive and well, though latterly much afflicted by boils. Aye, you may well cross yourselves, and I beg that you will not breathe upon it or todch it with our fingers."

"And the wood and stone, holy father?" asked Alleyne, with bated breath, as he stared awe-stricken at his precious relics.

"This can true cross, this other from Noah his ark, and the third is from the door-post of the temple of the wise King Solomon. This stone was thrown at the sainted Stephen, and the other two are from the Tower of Babel. Here, too, is a part of Aaron's rod, and a lock of hair from Elisha, the prophet."

"But, father," quoted Allene, "the holy Elisha was bald, which brought down upon him the revilements of the wicked children.

"It is very true that he had not much hair," said the palmer quickly, "and it is this which makes this relic so exceedingly precious. Take now your choice of these, my worthy gentlemen, and pay such a price as your conscience will suffer you to offer; for I am not a chapman nor a huckster, and I would never part with them, did I not know that I am very near to my reward."

"Aylward," said Alleyne excitedly, "This is such a chance as few folk have twice in one life. The nail I must have, and I will give it to the abbey of Beaulieu, so that all the folk in England may go thither to wonder and to pray."

"And I will have the stone from the temple," cried Hordle John. "What would not my old mother give to have it hung over her bed?"

"And I will have Aaron's rod," quoth Aylward. "I have but five florins in the world, and here are four of them."

"Here are three more," said John.

"And here are five more," added Alleyne. "Holy father, I hand you twelve florins, which is all that we can give, though we well know how poor a pay it is for the wondrous things which you sell us."

"Down, pride, down!" cried the pilgrim, still beating upon his chest. "Can I not bend myself then to take this sorry sum which is offered me for that which has cost me the labors of a life. Give me the dross! Here are the precious relics, and, oh, I pray you that you will handle them softly and with reverence, else had I rather left my unworthy bones here by the wayside."

With doffed caps and eager hands, the comrades took their new and precious possessions, and pressed onwards upon their journey, leaving the aged palmer still seated under the cherry-tree. They rode in silence, each with his treasure in his hand, glancing at it from time to time, and sarce able to believe that chance had made them sole owners of relics of such holiness and worth that every abbey and church in Christendom would have bid eagerly for their possession.

Frasers Plan to Erect Big Pulp and Paper Mills at the Narrows on Tobique River

Construction of Big Paper Plant Declared to Be Their Object in Application for Important New Charter—Proposition Involves Something Like $5,000,000 and was Only Definitely Decided Upon Last Week—Deny Purchase of the New Brunswick Railway Company's Lands.

Allied interests of the Fraser Companies, Limited, the former Fredericton lumber company which has become one of the most extensive corporations in Eastern Canada, are preparing to construct and operate extensive pulp and paper mills at what is known as the Narrows on the Tobique river, a short distance above where its waters empty into the St. John river twenty miles below the Grand Falls.

An authoritative announcement to that effect was made here this morning following the publication on Saturday in The Gleaner of notice on behalf of Archibald Fraser, of Edmundston, N. B., Donald Fraser, of Plaster Rock, N. B., and three of their managers that they will apply at this session of the Provincial Legislature for an act of incorporation with "power to erect, construct ,maintain and operate a dam at or near the Tobique Narrows, in the Parish of Perth, in the County of Victoria, for the purpose of generating, developing, selling, distributing, using and disposing of hydro-electric power and with power to erect, construct, maintain and operate pulp and paper mills and other manufactories," and various other rights.

Plan Big Paper Mills.

The notice is dated Friday, March 19th, and it was stated this morning that the explanation of the late date at which notice of legislation is given is that it was not until the day mentioned that the Messrs. Fraser, who were here last week, actually decided upon this proposition in preference to two others which had been under consideration. It was said that the primary intention is to have extensive paper mills at the Tobique Narrows, as well as a ground-wood pulp mill in connection there with, and that the pulp manufactured at Edmundston at the Fraser Companies' plant there will be brought to the proposed new paper mill for manufacture, while pulp supplies will also come from the new pulp mill for which it is said the company have ample sources for securing wood.

"This proposition involves a good many millions of dollars," The Gleaner was told this morning. "The authorized capital at the outset will probably be placed at $1,000,000, but with authority to increase the amount to $5,000,000. It all depends upon whether we are able to obtain a workable charter or not from the Legislature. We are expecting some adverse action by the fishing interests, both from St. John and the Tobique, but we feel that the fishing intersts will have to be prepared to give away somewhat when industrial development of such an important character is involved."

N. B. Railway Lands Not Included.

For some time past there have been various reports circulated as to the intentions of the Fraser interests in the pulp and paper business, which they were some time ago said to be ready to embark upon. It has been said that they were about to take over the timber limits of the New Brunswick Railway Company, which consist of about 1,700,000 acres, but this was definitely denied this morning, R. B. Hanson, of Slipp & Hanson, their solicitors, declaring that the Fraser interests did not hold an option on the lands referred to and had not taken them over.

Some years ago John E. Stewart, of Andover, N .B., who was then well known as a promoter of various schemes, sought a charter for similar privileges on the Tobique from the Legislature, but the fishing interests prevailed in their opposition to the plan. It was said this morning that the Fraser interests, although including such rights in their application, did not propose to carry on any hydro-electric development for the purpose of selling power.

A suspension of the rules will be necessary to allow the introduction of the bill in the Legislature, but it was said today that the promoters felt certain their measure would get before the House properly.

GERMANS IN A GREAT BATTLE

Two Big Armies Now Gathering In Wesel District

Communists Are Mobilizing With Great Speed in District

STATE TROOPS MOVE ON THEM

The Communists Hampered by a Lack of All Foodstuffs.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, Harch 23.—Latest reports from Germany show that State and Government troops are concentrating near Wesel, to move against the extensive districts now occupied by communists, says a Rotterdam despatch to the London Times.

On the other hand the communists are mobilizing after the method of the Russians with great speed, and it is impossible to prophesy the issue of the coming battle, or when it will be fought.

The communists are hampered by a lack of food, one report saying they have supplies for only three days.

PROPOSES FORMATION OF A LABOR GOVERNMENT

London, March 23.—The proposal put before Gustav Bauer, the German Premier, for the formation of a labor Government for Germany, excluding the Bourgeoise parties, was advanced by the independent socialists, the Exchange Telegraph correspondent at Berlin reports under Monday's date. He adds:

"The majority of the people would undoubtedly vote against such a proposal, fearing it would result in a proletarian dictatorship."

The clash between the regular troops and insurgents at Henningdorf, near Spandau, on Tuesday, resulted in the killing of 49 people and the wounding of 65 others according to an Exchange Telegraph Company message from Berlin today.

The communist councils in Saxony have begun to divide the large estates there it is reported in a Berlin despatch to the Exchange Telgraph Company today.

Socialist Forces Gathering.

Dusseldorf, March 23—Small squads of independent socialists, wearing red brassards and having army rifles slung over their shoulders, are arriving here to strengthen the forces, numbering several thousand men, which are holding this city while awaiting a threatened attack from government troops. The red army, in which many communists have enlisted, is now drilling near town. Socialist forces are patrolling the streets but are not molesting the public. No disorders were reported today.

The people of Dusseldorf expect government troops which were forced to retire to Wesel, 32 miles northwest of here, to be reinforced sufficiently to recapture the city within the coming week.

Regulars Outflanked.

Aix La Chapelle, Rhenish Prussia, March 23.—Another battle is reported to be going on between Spartacans and troops of the regular army at Wesel, twenty-two miles northwest of Essen. The regulars, the report says, appear to have been outflanked by the Spartacans.

Some Violet Attacks.

Copenhagen, March 23.—A Leipsic telegram received here last night says that fighting at Halle, and in the neighborhood of that place, continues with undiminished violence, both the troops and the workers' force using artillery.

Refuse to Work With Germans

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

London, March 23.—The federation of English vaudeville artists exhorts every member to refuse to work in any engagement where German performers are employed. It has been asserted that theatrical managers were seeking to reintroduce German entertainers at English music halls.

STANDARD TIME NOT YET ADOPTED

Minister Announces That No Decision Has Been Reached Regarding C. N. R.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Ottawa, March 23.—In the House of Commons yesterday Sir George Foster told Mr. Casgrain that the Government could not decide matters regarding the control of newsprint and newspapers until the pending action in the supreme court was decided and the status of the paper controller determined.

It has not yet been decided if the Canadian National Railway will use standard time during the coming summer, Hon. Dr. Reid announced.

SYDNEY TO HAVE $800,000 HOTEL

Construction of Largest Hotel East of Montreal to Be Begun at Once.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Sydney, N. S., March 23.—Confirmation is made of the announcement that the construction here of a $800,000 hotel, the largest east of Montreal, will be begun at once. The hotel has been promoted by D. A. Cameron, M.P.P., in association with H. J. McCann, assistant to the president of the Dominion Steel Corporation, and C. V. Wetmore. The operators have asked the mine workers to remain in the mines after March 31, when the present contract expires.

Union leaders predicted, before going into session, that the men would not remain at work unless the mine owners agreed to make any wage increase retroactive to the expiration date of the present contract.

The operators are understood to oppose any such arrangement.

Lloyd-George Convinced That With Better Organization the Unionists Can Hold the Fort

Believes That the Recent Course of the Bye Elections in Britain Can Be Reversed and Confidence of Country So Demonstrated That General Election Not Necessary.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

London, March 23.—J. L. Garvin, discussing in The Observer Premier Lloyd George's political future says that the Premier is convinced that with better organization for the coalition the recent course of the by-elections could be reversed, and if the confidence of the country were so demonstrated the Premier would prefer to postpone the dissolution for a couple of sessions. He would then appeal to the country with the biggest programme of achieved work behind him that any parliament has ever accomplished and with an equally strong programme for the future.

Mr. Garvin, discussing was the Unionists are prepared to do to help the Premier to carry Liberal opinion, thinks the crux will come on licensing matters. He urges Unionists to concede local option, which does not mean "Pussyfootism."

CONTROVERSY OVER GERMAN PROFESSOR

Dr. Oertal Was Recommended to McGill Authorities by Sir Auckland Geddes.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Montreal, March 23.—In reference to the resignation of Dr. Elder from the teaching staff of McGill University because Dr. Oertal, a German by birth, has been appointed pathologist to the institution, it is pointed out in a letter to the press that Dr. Oertal, though born in Germany, is an American citizen, a graduate of Yale, and a research fellow of Guy's, London. It is also stated that Oertal wanted to resign at the outbreak of the war, but was asked not to by the then principal, Sir William Peterson.

SMUTS WILL ATTEMPT TO HOLD HOUSE

Claims of Secessionists Shown to Be Ridiculous and Easily Opposed by Premier.

HERZOG CONTROLS LESS THAN THIRD OF VOTES

Affords a True Measure of the Strength of Secessionists in South Africa.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

London, March 23.—The London Daily Telegraph, discussing the South African elections, says that the most encouraging view to take of the elections as a whole is that they afford a true measure of the strength of the party which stands for secession from the British Empire. General Herzog claimed that eighty per cent. of persons of Dutch citizenship are in his favor. This claim is now proved to be ridiculous and nationalism, while it is actually the strongest of the four parties, controls less than one-third of the votes in the new House. As things now stand in the house of 134 members the followers of General Herzog number 43; the Prime Minister has 40; unionism and labor have 25 and 21 seats respectively.

The probable outcome is that the Premier will attempt to carry on with the support of the anti-republican parties for a time at least.

Estimates for Fiscal Year Presented to Parliament for This Year Total $537,149,428

The Finance Minister Has Pared All Expenditures Down as Fine as Possible—Out of Forty-three Items in the Summary There Are Decreases in Twenty-one.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, March 23.—The estimates for the fiscal year, ending March 31st, 1921, were presented to Parliament yesterday. They total $537,149,428, or $368,702,803 less than last year. There is a decrease of $364,000,000 in proposed expenditure, as compared with the current fiscal year, which ends the 31st of this month. War expenditure decreased over $2[illegible],000,000.

In every particular it may be seen that Canada is rightly tightening up on her expenditure. There is a total proposed expenditure on capital account, "not payable from revenue," of $58,000,000, or $41,000,000 less than the present year. There is a decrease in proposed expenditure on Railways and Canals of $23,000,000, and of $18,000,000 on Public Works.

The supplementary estimates are still to come down towards the close of the session, and they are usually pretty large, last year being considerably greater than the main estimates. Canada's expenditure on her permanent military force this year will amount to six and a half millions, as compared with a little over two millions before the war. This will consist of 490 officers, 852 warrant officers and 4,525 rank and file, which force is being used mainly for supplying instructors for the active militia.

The biggest single item in Canada's estimates is for interest on the public debt, which is estimated for the coming year at over $142,000,000, or $128,000,000 more than it was in 1913-1914, representing almost wholly war expenditure. Railways and canals will be just a trifle less. The two items next in amount are also for the soldiers, $34,000,000 for soldiers' civil reestablishment, and $27,500,000 for pensions. Out of the 43 items in the summary of expenditure there are decreases in 21, which represents the persistent effort of the new Minister of Finance, Sir Henry Drayton, during the past weeks, when the estimates have been up for consideration, to pare everything down to the minimum.

MARYSVILLE MAN SERIOUS CHARGE

Man Arrested Charged with Assaulting a Twelve-Year-Old Girl.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Marysville, N. B., March 23.—A man was arrested yesterday morning while at work cutting cordwood near Marysville, on a very serious charge. He was arrested on a warrant charging him with attempting criminal assault on a 12 year old girl. He was brought before Magistrate C. D. Clayton yesterday morning at 11 o'clock and pleaded not guilty to the charge. He was remanded to the county jail until Friday morning at 11 o'clock. The story is that on Thursday afternoon last he entered the home of the girl who lives on George street, where she was alone at the time, and she alleges that he attempted to commit the crime with which he is now charged. He is a married man, probably about 35 years of age, and has a family. The affair has caused deep indignation about the town.

Miss Mary McMullin, of Hartlanw, Carleton county, spent the week-end as the guest of Miss Goldie Stephenson.

Miss Mary L. Gibson is confined to her home with a severe cold.

In making our report of the concert which was held Friday evening, we inadvertently said Mrs. Stella Clayton, when it should have been Mrs. Stella Cochrane.

John Arseneau, of Bathurst, Killed While Working in Pulp Mill.

[Bathurst Northern Light.]

Friends and relatives of John Arseneau, formerly of Bathurst, were shocked to hear that he had been killed while working in a pulp mill at Cascade, New Hampshire, on Saturday last. No information was given as to how the accident had occurred, the brief telegram setting forth nothing but the grim fact of death.

The deceased, who was about fifty years of age, was born and brought up in West Bathurst, and though a number of years have elapsed since he left these parts, he will be remembered by many. He was the oldest member of the family, and while his parents predeceased him, he is survived by his sister, Mrs. Elizabeth White, and his brother, Mr. Bennet Arseneau, both of whom reside in West Bathurst.

FROM THE PEOPLE

WHY NOT SOME ACTION BY THE HOUSING BOARD?

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Several weeks ago strong delegations from the Commercial Club, labor unions, G. W. V. A. and other representative organizations of the city waited on the City Council and prevailed upon that body to adopt the Housing Act. The Council appointed a commission to carry out the provisions of the Act, and the city also secured from the Provincial Government the promise of $100,000 when it was wanted.

It is some time since the commission was appointed. As the days and weeks are going by and spring will soon be here, it is to be hoped that the commission is all ready to begin operations early in May.

What has the commission done? What is it going to do? Are all arrangements complete for proceeding with such buildings as are required by persons applying? These are questions in which many citizens are interested. It is the duty of the commission, having accepted the appointments, to get busy.

It is said that the secretary is somewhere in the South. If so, he should be here or another man should be appointed to take his place, and the work go ahead the same as has been done in Moncton, in St. John county, and in other places where the people are alive.

It is said some of the provisions of the Dominion Act are so interpreted by the local commission that the maximum amount allowed a person to build a house is smaller than any decent building can be erected for. If such is the case, steps should be taken at once to have the Act amended; otherwise it is a farce. Other cities and municipalities throughout the Dominion have succeeded and are succeeding in erecting houses of a respectable kind under this Act. Why cannot we in Fredericton do the same?

Other towns and cities in the province are going ahead by leaps and bounds. Moncton is an instance, that city encouraging people to come in and reside, while Fredericton, the nicest city in many respects of them all, is driving people away because homes cannot be provided to house them. This is no exaggeration, as the writer knows of three families, all good citizens, who came here a short time ago and who are going to other cities to reside. Two of these families cannot secure homes. The third was held up for $50 per month rent for a house not worth much more than half that figure. This may be one way of building up a city and encouraging people to come in; but it is a mighty strange one.

It is to be hoped the commission in charge of this housing scheme will get busy at once, as time is passing, and that Mayor Reid, who is a "live wire" and in favor of the proposition, will see to it that something is done.

Yours,
CITIZEN.

SPEECH IN LEGISLATURE.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I have recently attended several sessions of the Legislature and have been particularly impressed by one deplorable fact. I fear that some members of the assemly are either illiterate or utterly indifferent to the grammatical correctness of their utterances.

I do not consider that grammatical correctness is an absolutely essential quality in any person's speech, but when such utterances as "I seen it" and "I done it" are flung at the Speaker and assembled people, it is time that the flinger should come under censure.

One member revels in "I done it"s and "I seen it"s; another apparently prefers "I have went"; and yet another shows a predilection for "the people is." I do not refer to the French members, as I realize the handicap under which they labor; I mention men who have spoken, or who have attempted to speak English for over half a century and who even yet have not learned to speak correctly. A man who has reached or passed middle life and who has not yet obtained the equivalent of a common school education, or who has not yet grasped the elementary principles of grammar, is either too indifferent or too thick-headed to be endowed with any legislative power, however little it may be. His views are narrow and constricted; he has not the proper perspective of the value of his constituency to the province; he cannot work in harmony with others or criticize impartially; his presence is a stumbling block; he votes blindly and often prejudicially. Yet, unfortunately, we have not one, not two, but several such men in the present Legislative Assembly.

It is high time the people of the province of New Brunswick exercised more care in the selection of candidates and their election to the dignity of provincial legislators.

I would like an expression of opinion from other readers in regard to this question.

Thalking you, Mr. Editor for your valuable space, I remain (to use that hackneyed nome-de-plume),

Yours,
PRO BONO PUBLICO.
Fredericton, March 18, 1920.

GOD BLESS THE GOOD SOLDIER.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Whenever I read or hear a dissertation on the present social conditions, incident to the war, I invariably arrive at the same conclusion, viz: the best element in every community will rise, like cream on top of the skimmed milk of mediocrity. Self-abrogation exists in the highest type of mankind, self-seeking in the lowest. The men who forgot self-interest in the face of danger to their country are the men who, in our midst today, are always ready to do courteous and kindly acts, whenever and wherever the opportunity occurs in a crowded hall, when a man gives up his seat to a woman or, on the street, stoops to pick up an umbrella or parcel she may have dropped, or in any way offers assistance to the feeble or distressed. I always look for the returned button (that badge of nobility), and I seldom miss it! I know there are many returned men who do not expose their buttons, but they cannot conceal their hearts!

The men who saved us and our Empire from degradation and slavery can save all human nature from the abasement of selfish prosperity and irresponsible pleasure-seeking. God bless them!

Yours,
MIDDLE-AGED GENTLEWOMAN.
Chatham, March 20, 1920.

COURTESY TO THE OLD.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—The letter appearing in your People's Column in the issue of March 19th in reference to an act of courtesy by Old Fashioned reminds me of a circumstance a friend of mine told me of recently.

A short time ago my friend was in London and standing at a crossing in a very crowded street. He saw an aged and very plainly dressed lady standing at the crossing afraid to venture across. A big, good-looking policeman, seeing her predicament, approached her, picked her up in his arms like a little child and carried her to the other side of the street. The lady thanked him several times for his kindness and took a piece of gold out of her pocket and offered it to him. "Oh, no, thank you, Mother; I was only doing my duty." Later the policeman discovered that she was a lady of means, owned a fine house and was well bred.

I do not think Old Fashioned should be discouraged about doing the proper thing under such circumstances, and I do not think it is out of place to act the gentleman even in Fredericton.

Yours,
A CITIZEN.

REAL ESTATE DEAL TOWN BATHURST

Angus McLean Purchases the Carter Block—Jos. Dunlop Buys Property.

[Bathurst Northern Light.]

During the past week two very important realty transactions were negotiated in the town, involving the exchange of several thousands of dollars.

In the first place, the property occupying the corner opposite Gatain's store, and known as the Carter block, was purchased by Mr. Angus McLean. The property covers a considerable frontage on the two streets and is considerable frontage on the two streets and is proportionately deep through. There is a substantial building on it at the moment. The purpose for which this lot was purchased was not divulged and speculation on the point is rife.

The other reality deal concerns the lot on the other side of the same thoroughfare, and is known as the Buttimer property. This very valuable site was purchased by Mr. Joseph Dunlop. It does not abutt on the garage property of Mr. Dunlop, which is located on the same street, being divided from it by a store building. The lot has a frontage of approximately 75 feet, and is suitable for practically any kind of structure.

Taken together these two realty propositions represent a considerable movement, and falling into the hands of the respective purchaser named, it cannot be taken as other than evidence of the progressive spirit in Bathurst taking tangible and substantial shape.

GUARD YOURSELF AGAINST THE 'FLU

Prompt Treatment When Symptoms or Ordinary Cold Appear May Ward Off the Disease.

Prompt action as soon as the initial stages appear has saved hundreds of people from an acute stage of the "flu." The symptoms of the initial stage are exactly similar to those of a cold in the head. Start treatment just as soon as the first "sniffle" is noticed, as soon as the head starts to close up or muscular soreness is felt.

The treatment for suh a case is Grip-Fix. It is a household remedy, which last year worked wonders during the 'flu epidemic. It comes in capsule form and contains just the ingredients that any physician would prescribe. These are stated on the box.

Grip-Fix works rapidly. It relieves even a bad cold in 24 hours and a case of grippe in 48 hours. In view of the recurrence of the 'flu, every home should have a box on hand, ready for use when the first sign of the initial "cold" stage appears. Be sure and get the original Reid's Grip-Fix. Don't accept a substitute. On sale at all druggists at 25c per box.

GOOD HEALTH IS MAGNETIC

All Admire Strong, Robust, Healthy, Vigorous Men and Women

If You Are Weak, Run-Down and Ailing, Let Vinol Enrich Your Blood and Create Strength and Vitality for You

For the weak, run-down, anaemic, over-worked, ailing men and women there is little joy in life. It is easy to drift into this condition, overwork, a neglected cold, or a severe sickness may have left in its wake, poor, thin, devitalized blood, a sluggish circulation, no vitality and you are simply dragging around from day to day, getting up each morning just as tired as you went to bed.

Now, why not change all this by taking advantage of your druggist's guarantee that VINOL will enrich your blood, quicken your circulation and carry strength and vigor to every part of your body, or return your money if it fails. Mrs. W. J. Nixon, of Yankleek Hill, Ont., says: "I was sick for months. I had no appetite and could not seem to get my strength back. I told my doctor I was going to try VINOL, and he said it was fine. I found it gave me a good appetite and I rapidly gained in strength."

For all run-down, nervous, anaemic conditions, weak women, overworked men, feeble old people and delicate children there is nothing like VINOL.

HON. MR. MEIGHEN'S APPEAL TO VOTERS

Tells Electorate of Temiskaming That No Govt. Has Done More for Soldiers.

Iroquois Falls, Ont., March 22.—"Do not take any steps that will turn this country out of the path it is successfully and honorably pursuing today. You hear of attacks on the Union Government, and if you were present in Ottawa to hear these attacks, you would know what a sorry spectacle they made. If ever a government elected to carry out a programme did carry it out, it is the Government in office. If any man, woman or child has one word to say to the effect that the Union Government has failed to carry out its promises I would like to hear it. Can that be said of any other Government in this country? Liberal or Conservative? Was there and courage that was wanting? Was the army supported? Is there a country in the world where the returned soldier is so honorably treated by the state? Not even by the richest country in the world is it done. We have been the pioneers in the soldiers' land settlement, and have done more than the United States, Britain and the other Dominions combined, and more than by 100 per cent."

Such was the conclusion of a clear, reasoned review of the affairs of Canada, its needs and necessities, which Hon. Arthur Meighen, Minister of the Interior, laid before the electors of Temiskaming on entering the county in support of Major E. F. Pullen, the Government candidate in the bye-election in April. The statements challenging criticism came at the conclusion of a review of the fiscal position of Canada showing the necessity of a tariff, in the course of which Mr. Meighen dealt with the position of Hon. Mr. Crerar and Hon. Mackenzie King.

Under Mr. Crerar's banner as a candidate is Angus McDonald, who describes himself as Labor-U. F. O., while a Toronto lawyer, A. G. Slaght, is the Mackenzie King representative. Mr. MacDnald has called to his aid speakers who, it is believed, can reach the strong radical element. Mrs. Rose Henderson, of Montreal, is the star on the McDonald staff, which in itself gives a good indication of the kind of campaign to be waged. Two others from Montreal, who are to appeal to the French-Canadians of the county are Ald. Lanouette, of Verdun, and Alfred Mathieu. It may be expected that there will be a "red" glow as the Labor speakers warm up.

EASY TO LOSE YOUR MONEY IN WALL ST.

Man Dropped $30,000 in Steel, Though He Had "Confidential" from Schwab.

Charles M. Schwab, at the 50th anniversary dinner of the Lotos Club in New York, told how Job Hedges lost $30,000 in United States Steel. Mr. Hedges had preceded Mr. Schwab as one of the speakers, saying he did not envy Mr. Schwab what he had and was glad he had it, yet if Schwab had more than he wanted or even if he would give a "confidential suggestion as to the best thing uppermost in his mind, Hedges would "find time to listen"

"I am surprised that Mr. Hedges puts such value on my opinion," Mr. Schwab said, "after an experience he had some years ago on a tip from me. He came to me when there were rumors of a probable steel strike. I said to him a strike looked probable; that we were all expecting it. I didn't advise him what to do, but he figured out that he ought to go short on Steel. When the strike came I went to Mr. Morgan and said we must now keep up the price of the stock, and with the price on, the price advanced enough to decide Mr. Hedges that he ought to switch to the long side. When the end of the strike was in view, there was no object in keeping up the price. Left to itself it sagged off. People soon began to say the stock wasn't worth anything, and Mr. Hedges switched again over to the short side. Then the price began to climb and Hedges switched again.

"One day he came again into my office. 'This thing has cost me $30,000,' he said, 'but just now it isn't going against me. On my last turn I have one-eighth of a point profit and I am going to take it.'"

Mr. Schwab said he was willing to make openly his "confidential suggestions" as to the best thing he had in mind, for he prized above everything The good will of those he knew in business and socially.

A woman will tolerate a lot of neglect if her husband will only pay her some attention when there are other women around.

REVOLUTION IN PRINTING PROCESS

Printer Claims He Can Save Thirteen Minutes in Publishing Paper.

Kansas City, Mo., March 22.—Chas. H. Trapp, of Topeka, a printer, has applied for a patent on an invention which he believes will save thirteen minutes in getting out a metropolitan newspaper. He would revolutionize printing by "printing from paper on paper."

Mr. Trapp would eliminate the metal moulding of stereotyping by reversing the type in universal use. Instead of the type letter being raised, it would be depressed like a die or a plate from which a calling card is engraved.

Mr. Trapp's invention would eliminate metal moulding. He would clamp the paper mache material directly to the cylinder of the press.

Having used depressed type, his mat surface is raised instead of depressed, making it possible to print from it without going through the intermediate operation of moulding in metal New linotype matrices would be required, a new device for taking galley proofs, and the process of making pictures would be reversed.

Mr. Trapp has used a mat made from an electrotype shell for experimental "paper to paper" printing, and it works well. The mat, he says, will give more impressions without deteriorating than the metal.

Many small newspapers do not stereotype because of the expense of moulding. With the Trapp process the inventor asserts the rotary press would be economical.

This climate of ours is adapted to the cultivation of patience.

The Ease of the Chalmers Engine Has a Story

Quality First

WHEN you sit behind the wheel of a present day Chalmers you will long remember the rare ease of its engine.

It responds to the slightest call witnout effort. At high speed you are conscious of no great activity under the bonnet. When you lag along at slow speed you note no "breaking," no "missing," no jerky action—but a quickness, a silence that is smooth and expressive of high efficiency.

There's a story back of this. Most troubles in a car come from vibration. In a Chalmers there is so little vibration as to be negligible.

Its crank shaft and reciprocating parts are balanced to a fraction of an ounce, both static and in motion.

More than this, Hot Spot vaporizes the raw gasoline into a "fog" and Ram's-horn supplies each cylinder with an even "charge."

This provides double insurance against vibration, and generates an ease of action not often found in a motor car.

Once you experience this you, too, will say Chalmers is one of the few great cars of the world.

LIVELY TIME AT G. W. V. A. CONVENTION

The Teachers' Salaries Commission Report Was Tabled in House Today

Recommendations Include Levelling of Provincial Grants to Male and Female Teachers, by an Additional $50,000 or More From Provincial Treasury, and Increasing Amount of County Tax Fund From 30 to 60 Cents Per Head, Which Would Produce $100,000--Minimum Salaries Advanced and School Boards and Teachers Forced to Observe New Schedule.

In the Legislature this afternoon the report of the commission appointed by the House a year ago to inquire into the question of Teachers' Salaries was tabled by Mr. Speaker to whom it had been forwarded from His Honor the Lieutenant Governor:

Education Office, Fredericton, N. B.
March 19th, 1920.

To His Honor the Lieutenant Governor and Members of the Legislative Assembly:

Gentlemen,—Your Committee appointed under the provisions of 9 Geo. V. 1919, Cap. XXXIII., re increased salaries of Public School Teachers, has given the matter very careful consideration and begs to recommend and report as follows:

Personnel of Committee—

Dr. W. S. Carter, chairman.

Hon. P. J. Veniot, nominated by the Executive Council.

W. S. Sutton, Esq., M.L.A., nominated by the leader of the Opposition.

W. McL. Barker, Esq., M.A., nominated by the Teachers' Association.

Samuel Flewwelling, Esq., Trustee, appointed by the Board of Education.

Recommendations—

1—That equal pay be given for equal work and that female teachers, who are at present paid the same amounts of Government money as males for grammar and superior classes of license, be also paid the same amount as males for all other classes of license.

(This would require an additional sum to be contributed from the provincial treasury of between $50,000 and $60,000 per year.)

The grants to teachers from the provincial treasury at the present time, under section 13, Schools Act, according to class of license, for the school year, are as follows:

	For First 2 years	After 2 to end of seven years	From 7 years up
First Class Male Teachers	$135	$150	$175
Second Class Male Teachers	108	120	140
Third Class Male Teachers	81	90	100
First Class Female Teachers	100	110	130
Second Class Female Teachers	81	90	105
Third Class Female Teachers	63	70	80

Class room assistants regularly employed four hours a day to receive one-half of the above amounts according to the class of license.

Teachers (as above) employed in districts which are entitled to special aid as poor districts, to receive, at a rate exceeding the grants above named. Sec. 44.

Double County Tax Charge.

2—That the County Fund tax (Sec. 14) based upon property, in amount equal to 30 cents per head of population in each county, according to the last census, be made 60 cents per head and distributed in accordance with the following plan:

(This would add $100,000 to resources from which teachers' salaries may be increased.)

That school districts with valuations of $1,000 to $5,000 receive double county fund.

$5,000 to $10,000 receive 1½ county fund.

$10,000 to $15,000 receive 1¼ county fund.

3—That the special aid given to teachers from the provincial treasury, under Sec. 44 be hereafter paid to the school trustees of each district.

4—That discretionary power be granted to the Board of Education to pay larger county fund grants to districts of $5,000 valuation and under, if it should appear that undue hardship is being experienced in maintaining a school under the provisions of Recommendation 2.

5—That the minimum salary, including government grants, to be paid by all districts with a valuation of $20,000 and under, shall be $500.

6—That the minimum salary, including Government grants, to be paid by all districts with a valuation of from $20,000 to $50,000 shall be $600.

7—That the minimum salary, including Government grants, to be paid by all districts with a valuation of over $50,000 shall be $700.

8—That the Board of Education shall withhold the county and provincial grants from trustees who engage teachers under the minimum salaries fixed as above.

9—That the penalty to be imposed upon any teacher accepting less than the minimum salary shall be: For first offence, a suspension of license for a period of three (3) months, and for second offence suspension of license

Valuations and Salaries.

Your committee has made a very careful survey as to the valuations and salaries paid in districts of $100,000 and under.

According to returns made to this office in 1918 there were:

40 districts having valuations from $1,000-$5,000.

150 districts having valuations from $5,000-$10,000.

212 districts having valuations from $10,000-$15,000.

183 districts having valuations from $15,000-$20,000.

158 districts having valutions from $20,000-$25,000.

117 districts having valuations from $25,000-$30,000.

76 districts having valuations from $30,000-$35,000.

65 districts having valuations from $35,000-$40,000.

46 districts having valuations from $40,000-$45,000.

30 districts having valuations from $45,000-$50,000.

121 districts having valuations from $50,000-$100,000.

(No cities and towns are included in these valuations but there are some districts employing more than one teacher).

No survey was made of districts having valuations of more than $100,000, as the minimum salaries now paid in those districts are as high or higher than the minimum recommended by your committee.

There are districts paying as high as $7 on the $100 school taxes and those paying 15 cents on the $100. The highest and lowest rates are often found in the same parish. There are school districts in the province with a valuation of $1,000 and a number of districts paying a valuation of less than $5,000.

Assessment values vary greatly in the different parishes and counties. Some districts, chiefly in cities, are assessed at full value, other districts varying from two-thirds to one-quarter.

Some poor districts employ teachers of the higher classes and maintain excellent schools, while some wealthy districts employ cheap teachers and maintain poor schools.

Under these conditions it is well nigh impossible to standardize teachers' salaries according to district valuations.

Such inequalities as have been pointed out in rates of taxation and modes of assessment do not provide equal opportunities for pupils nor equal burdens for ratepayers.

Parish School Boards Favored.

The proposed increase in the county fund tax, while it may not meet all cases of hardship will go a long way to enable the richer to help the poorer districts. Property accumulates in the cities, towns and villages at the expense very often of the country districts, some of which have become deserted and others have extreme difficulty to provide school privileges. Many people leave their farms in order to obtain better educational facilities to be secured in the graded schools of the towns. An increase in the county fund is a fair and just method of equalizing the burdens of taxation by distributing them over a wider area.

At present (Sec. 4, Sch. Man.) the county assessment for schools is a sum equal to 30 cents per head of population according to the last census, imposed upon the property of each county. After deducting $150 per head for the education of the deaf and blind pupils in each, the balanace is distributed twice each year on requisition made by the Chief Superintendent of Education upon the county secretaries. Thirty dollars is paid each district employing a teacher, and the balance distributed among districts maintaining schools according to the proportion the grand total days' attendance of each district bears to the grand total days' attendance for the county. This fund is collected and paid out by the county officers.

The future welfare of the province depends upon its teachers and schools more than upon any other agency. Salaries should be high enough not only to provide a living wage but also to reward training and competency. It is also necessary that we should be able to meet the competition of others for our best teachers. At the present time all branches of unskilled labor are paid more than many of our trained teachers.

Your committee would take this occasion to recommend that legislation be enacted giving any parish the option of voting upon the desirability of establishing a parish school board in the place of the present district school boards. This would enable larger salaries to be paid teachers, because the burden of taxation would be distributed over wider areas, and the poorer districts would be better able to support a better class of schools.

Respectfully submited,

(Sgd) W. S. CARTER, Chairman.

W. S. SUTTON,

FORMER U. N. B. PROFESSOR SUBJECT OF CORK ATTACK

Attempt on Life of Professor Stockley Preceded the Murder of Mayor.

IS A PROFESSOR AT QUEEN'S COLLEGE, CORK

Renounced the Anglican Faith Here and Recently Became a Sinn Feiner.

A former resident of Fredericton has been the subject of attack in the latest Irish outrages.

Despatches telling of the murder of the Lord Mayor of Cork published in yesterday's papers said: "The murder of MacCurtain follows an attempt on Thursday night against the life of Prof. Stockley, who was an alderman in the Cork corporation in the Sinn Fein interests."

The Prof. Stockley mentioned is believed to be Prof. W. F. P. Stockley, who from 1885 until 1902 was Professor of English nad French at the University of New Brunswick and was particularly well known in musical circles in Fredericton. He was a graduate of Trinity College, Dublin, and was regarded as a highly qualified scholar and instructor.

During his residence in Fredericton he renounced the Church of England faith and became a member of the Roman Catholic church; this happened about the same time the late Dr. Alexander also joined the Roman Catholic church and the action taken by such a foremost pair of Anglicans caused more than a local sensation.

While here Prof. Stockley's first wife died and she was buried at Forest Hill cemetery. After leaving here in 1902 he first went to Ottawa, then to Halifax, and eventually returned to Ireland and joined the faculty of Queens College, Cork. In 1908 he remarried, his second wife being Marie Germaine, daughter of Max Kolb, ex-superintendent of the Royal Botanical Gardens, Munich. Lately his old friends have learned that he has joined the Sinn Fein, but it was not generally known by them that he had become an alderman of the city of Cork.

Chancellor Jones, of the University of New Brunswick, is quite likely a former member of the staff at C. N. B.

Meanwhile it is learned that during the past few days the Nashwaak Pulp and Paper Company have secured the actual transfer by deed of the property in the town of Devon at the mouth of the Nashwaak recently selected as the site for their proposed plant. Upwards of 24 acres were transferred by Albert J. Myles, of South Devon, the former owner, the price being about $6,000.

Great War Veterans Have Warm Discussion Over Body To Meet With Government

A Large Number of Delegates Favored Motion for Entire Convention Being Moved to Ottawa—The Question of Pensions Taken Up at the Morning Session.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Montreal, March 23.—A report containing rules and regulations to govern the order of business, and a time limit for speakers, was the first matter taken up by the delegates to the Great War Veterans' Association, in annual convention at the Windsor Hotel, when they met this morning. After the chaotic debate on a franchise resolution yesterday, a procedure committee was appointed, and this morning it recommended that speakers be allowed the floor only once on each question, and be permitted to speak for three minutes only.

The committee also drew up a schedule of matters to be discussed and the order in which they will be taken up. It follows:

Pensions, re-establishment, land settlement, association constitution, labor, national resources, policy and fraternal idea.

The report was adopted.

The pensions question was dealt with in a long resolution which dealt with a variety of suggestions for improving pensioners' conditions. During the morning President Purney, debarred by illness from taking any further part in the convention's deliberations, delivered his valedictory address.

The morning session was adjourned at noon mainly to bring to a close a very involved discussion which arose on a motion that three delegates from each provincial command be appointed to accompany the Dominion executive elect to Ottawa to present before parliament the resolutions passed at this convention. To this motion an amendment was offered and seconded, providing for the adjournment of the convention immediately to Ottawa, there to conclude the business of convention, and the entire body to present itself before the Government.

This amendment actually had enough support so that they were justified in asking a roll call vote after a show of hands had failed to definitely establish the issue. At this juncture the session was adjourned, the foregoing resolution and amendment being designated as the first business of the afternoon.

OTTAWA WON FIRST STANLEY CUP GAME

Ottawa Broke the Tie Four Minutes Before End of the Game.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Ottawa, March 23.—After dominating the place for the greater portion of two periods the Seattle team, champions of the Pacific Coast Hockey League, succumbed to the brilliant aggressiveness of the Ottawas, eastern champions, being beaten on a water coated surface by three goals to two in the opening match for the Stanley cup and the championship of the world. It was a hard fought battle under trying conditions but not a true test of the hockey ability of the rival teams.

The western champions secured a two goal lead in the first and second periods and on the play to near the close of the latter looked like certain winners. Then came one of the breaks of the play on which championships are decided. Rowe tripped Nighbor, sending the Ottawa played through the air in a double somersault. The Seattle man was given a major penalty. Then came the face off near the westerners' goal and the puck hurled from Nighbor's stick and Ottawa had scored her first goal.

As the gong sounded for the end of the period Ottawa pressed strongly and the puck hovered at the mouth of the goal while the eastern players shouted "Goal." It was a close shave but Holmes cleared.

Ottawa appeared a rejuvenated team in the third period. Nighbor, who had shown little all evening, began to play in his true form and with the assistance of Boucher, who was kept in the [illegible] soon had Seattle [illegible] the last time four minutes before time was up.

THE FEDERAL ESTIMATES.

The Federal estimates for 1920-21, tabled yesterday afternoon by the Finance Minister, point to a material paring down in public expenditure. The estimates outline a prudent programme. Provision could perhaps not unreasonably be made for much that must now stand for attention in the future, but the Finance Minister has wisely decided that we must cut the garment to suit the cloth, and in this decision he will apparently have the good will of the people. Last year's estimates totalled $900,000,000. For 1920-21 the total is given at $537,149,428. This latter amount may yet be supplemented, but not largely. The reduction in expenditure is material. The Finance Minister and the Government are to be congratulated on this evidence of prudence in the preparation and firmness in handling the situation.

All of the departments of the public service have yielded to the pruning knife, and more particularly the Public Works, the Railways and Canals and the Marine. The Canadian Government Railways, too, come under the order, and on construction and betterment accounts the appropriation is reduced from $11,121,681 to $6,321,194.

This may not be highly satisfactory to all; but the majority of the people of Canada will be satisfied that, in view of our now heavy national obligations, economy, prudence and caution are absolutely necessary if we are to successfully carry on.

THE STUMPAGE, THE LUMBERMEN AND THE GOVERNMENT.

The revenue from stumpage for the year 1919 was $575,617.83; in 1918 stumpage yielded $475,579.48; a total in the two years of $1,051,197.31. We said yesterday that this revenue was derived largely from stumpage at three dollars a thousand for fir and three dollars and a half for spruce; but, unfortunately, the rate has been deplorably lower than three dollars and three and a half. The rate mentioned did not come into effect until the fall of 1919, so that the stumpage of 1918 and 1919 was only two dollars a thousand for fir and two dollars and fifty cents for spruce. Not until late in 1920 will we get the revenue from the 1919 cut at $3 and $3.50. The situation is therefore the more appalling. In the piping times of 1918 and 1919, with market values in lumber the highest in history, with stumpage on company and private lands selling at from eight and nine to twelve and fourteen dollars a thousand, this province's most valuable asset, its timber, was ruthlessly cut in enormous quantities and sacrificed to lumbermen, who were amassing fortunes in the operation, at two dollars a thousand for fir and two dollars and a half for spruce.

The scheme through which the lumbermen got eight, ten and twelve dollar stumpage from the government for two dollars and a half was engineered in Soviet fashion. An order-in-council, passed in 1917, and announced by the publicity department of the Government in a highly congratulatory article, fixed the rate at three dollars in a defined section of the province and four dollars in other sections. The lumbermen protested and threatened to defeat the Government of the day if the order were not cancelled immediately. The Government capitulated; the lumbermen took charge and fixed a two dollar rate for fir and two dollars and a half for spruce, to become effective at the pleasure of the lumbermen. It was not until the market value of stumpage increased to ten, twelve and fourteen dollars that the lumbermen were willing to pay a three dollar rate for fir and three-fifty for spruce; and that rate therefore became effective not until August 1st last.

If stumpage at two dollars for fir and two dollars and fifty cents for spruce will give a revenue of $575,617.83 in 1919, that stumpage at seven dollars a thousand, which figure is admittedly much below the market value, would yield at least $1,500,000; and a stumpage rate based on market value would produce a revenue from that account of something more than $1,800,000. The fact that the province is not getting a third of the value of the stumpage taken annually from the Crown Lands is a very serious matter. Not only is our most valuable asset rapidly wasting, but two-thirds of what should figure as revenue from stumpage is passed to lumbermen, the majority of whom are amassing fortunes in the process. In the meantime several of the public services are starving; others are sorely in need of money to carry on. Direct taxation has already been imposed in large measure and further burdens in this kind of exaction are threatened. Serious deficits are being made yearly and obligations are increasing alarmingly in number and in amount. Yet there is nothing to indicate that the lumbermen intend to permit the recognized Government to fairly and honorably discharge its duty.

THE TEACHERS' SALARIES COMMISSION REPORT.

The report of the Teachers' Salaries Commission has been tabled in the Legislature. The increases recommended will require somewhere in the vicinity of $150,000 a year. Of this increase it is intended that the Government will provide, in round figures, $50,000; the remaining $100,000 to come from the County School Fund, for which the people are assessed, the tax to be doubled. We ventured to say some weeks ago, before the report was completed, that the people would be called upon largely to make up, by direct tax, whatever of increase it was decided to recommend. The impoverished condition of the provincial finances has made it necessary for the Government to again resort to this method of tapping the people; and the Government is itself responsible for the depleted state of the treasury in permitting the lumbermen to withhold at least a million a year for their own use and pleasure from the stumpage account.

When the Government felt that it could not further resist the demand of the teachers for an increase in salaries, it unloaded the responsibility upon a Commission, which, for purposes of its own, it asked to be accepted and treated as non-partizan. The majority of the Commission, including Hon. Mr. Veniot and Mr. Magee of Westmorland, are of course not political party men; and their recommendation, in which the Government is to presume it was not specially interested, will therefore be heartily accepted by the Government and acted upon as a recommendation made by independent and competent authorities.

People generally will certainly not object to an increase in teachers' salaries; and a larger increase than that recommended by the commission could well be made. But it is not unreasonable to assume that objection will be raised by the taxpayer to the methods employed by the Government in its all too apparent connection with the business.

It has apparently yet to occur to the minds of members on the Provincial Government side of the House that the people are much more interested in the methods employed in carrying on the public business of the present, in the capacity or incapacity for initiative and administration, than in what preceding governments did or did not do. Mistakes of the present, inability to reasonably administer, inefficiency and general weakness can not possibly find a basis for defence in the defects of governments of the past.

St. John Standard: "Bill No. 6, 'An "Act to further provide for funding "Motor Vehicle Fees,' now before the "Legislature, was apparently drawn "by some amateur who thought he "knew better than anyone else, for "he proceeds to enact it by 'the Lieu-"tenant Governor-in-Council.' The "Lieutenant Governors-in-Council have "at one time or other arrogated to "themselves powers they do not actu-"ally possess, but so far they have "never yet tried to enact Acts of the "Legislature."

The funeral will be held at Portland on Thursday.

YOUNG'S COVE ROAD, N. B.

Young's Cove Road, N. B., March 15.—The residence of Mr. and Mrs. John McCaw, of Union, was totally destroyed by fire Saturday morning, with all its contents. Mr. McCaw awakened about 2.45 a. m. and thought he smelt smoke. After some little time he got up and partially dressed and went out into the kitchen, and on opening the wood house door was met by tongues of flame. He turned and rushed to get his wife out, she escaping in her night clothes. The barn which was burned first, was nearly all burned down before the house caught fire. Neighbors who were awakened by the reflection, rushed to the scene at once but all was saved were three chairs and a sewing machine. Two cows and a number of hens in the barn, also a young calf were burned. Mr. and Mrs. McCaw are well advanced in years and they feel their loss keenly. They are highly respected and the community will give them every assistance to establish anew.

Investigators who have been making examinations have come to the conclusion that it was set by some party or parties unknown, who were supposed to have made a call there that night. There was a quantity of frozen beef in the barn and there was only a small piece to be found after the fire. Mr. McCaw is not a smoker and is careful about fire.

There was some insurance on the buildings, but this would only partially cover the loss.

Given House Warming.

About fifty friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Estabrooks, the genial manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia at McAdam, on Tuesday evening, March 16th. Mrs. Estabrooks, although taken completely by surprise, soon made her guests feel at home. A very pleasant evening was spent in dancing, a delightful programme of music being furnished by Fisher's orchestra. After cards, a dainty luncheon was served by Miss Flora Grant, assisted by Mrs. Harry McCullough, Mrs. Edgar Coburn, Mrs. Benjamin Jordan and others. Just before dispersing, the friends presented Mr. and Mrs. Estabrooks with a beautiful French fumed oak china cabinet as a token of the high esteem in which they are held by their many friends. At a late hour the party dispersed, after having voted the evening one of the most pleasant of the season.

The Stock Market

New York (Wall Street), March 23.—Regardless of prospects of tighter money and the reactionary trend of foreign exchange, price changes were materially higher at the opening of today's stock market. General Motors took the lead at a further rally of 6½ points from yesterday's sharp setback and Crucible Steel made an initial gain of 2½ points. Shippings were strong on the favorable annual report of the American International Corporation and equipments made moderate advances with rails. Oils were irregular, however, on the renewal of selling pressure in the low grade issues.

TRIAL OF GERMANS MAY LAST YEARS

Berlin, March 22.—No doubt is entertained here that the trials at Leipsic of those arraigned on charges of misdeeds during the war will last for several years. The cost will necessarily be enormous, and it has not yet been decided whether the state or those who are found guilty shall bear it.

It is expected that witnesses in Belgium, France, and England, will be heard by commissions sent to those countries. There is no doubt that in several cases, after the preliminary investigations, it will be decided not to proceed with the trials on the ground that the accusations are baseless.

U. S. REPRESENTED.

New York, March 23.—It was announced here last night that the United States will be represented in Great Britain this year for the first time at the meeting of the Royal and Ancient Committee on Golf. A delegation of five will sail for London May 22.

NO LIGHT NOW TO SIGNAL MARS

766 Trillion Candle Power Required, Is Estimate of Bryn Mawr Man.

Any doting person who plans to guide a weary wanderer from Mars by placing the poetic candle in the window had better abandon the idea. It can't be done. The little Martian would be lost in the deep and vastly void with not one twinkle to guide his airy footsteps.

Thus another flight of fancy is blasted by science, for it is estimated that an earth light just bright enough to be distinguished by the eye of a Martian would have to have 766 trillion candle power. And when one talks in trillions it doesn't mean a thing.

This figure is given to Dr. Clarence Errol Ferree, professor of experimental psychology at Bryn Mawr College, which is now seeking a $2,000,000 endowment. Dr. Ferree is the best known authority on light in its relation to vision. He reached his conclusion by laboratory experiments which confirm the deductions made by the searchlight experts of the Sperry Gyroscope Company, who believe that it is possible to throw a beam of light to Martians.

The above represents the number of years spent in fruitless efforts to cure a bad case of eczema with ordinary ointments, compared with the time it took Zam-Buk to effect a complete and permanent cure.

This was the experience of Mr. H. C. Buckley of 461 East Broadway, Portland, Ore. Writing to the Zam-Buk Co., he says: "For fifteen years I suffered with a bad case of eczema, and used all kinds of so-called "cures" and treatments, but nothing was capable of curing me until I tried Zam-Buk. This wonderful balm, however, completely cured me in less than a year, and not only so, but I have had no return of the disease. I strongly recommend Zam-Buk to anyone afflicted as I was."

This is but one of the hundreds of cases where Zam-Buk has effected a cure when everything else failed. The reason is easily explained. Zam-Buk being unusually refined—containing absolutely no animal fats or mineral drugs such as are contained in ordinary ointments—is capable of penetrating to the underlying tissues where skin diseases have their roots. Ordinary ointments, on the contrary, never get beyond the surface skin and so are incapable of effecting permanent cures.

Zam-Buk is just as good for salt rheum, ringworm, boils, ulcers, abscesses, blood-poisoning, piles, cuts, burns, scalds and all skin injuries. All druggists or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. 50c. box, 3 for $1.25.

Teacher Shortage

Massachusetts was one of the nine states participating in the conference of commissioners of education, which met at New York on Monday to consider the pressing problems arising from the shortage of teachers. The others were Maine, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

The depressing conditions which now exist were reported to be much the same in all these states: experienced teachers resigning in large numbers to enter more remunerative fields; an ever-increasing number of teaching positions that could not be filled, and many more that were filled with inexperienced teachers; the number of persons preparing for teaching in the training schools reduced by one-half within the last six years; the number of students preparing to enter the training schools alarmingly reduced the past year, and the colleges reporting that practically none of their students are preparing for teaching.

The problem is not so simple as a mere raising of salaries, though a strong and concerted effort in that direction is of great importance, but it goes farther back to the use of all possible methods and inducements to make the teacher's profession attractive to young men and women, and to lead them to make adequate preparation for it. New York, for example, to establish a teachers' Plattsburg this summer and college graduates will be urged to take six weeks' courses at the normal schools with a view to entering the schools of the state as teachers, the appeal being made on the ground that it is a patriotic duty to aid the schools in the present emergency. In New York city 1,024 teachers have resigned and 1,291 have been retired, and of those resigning 99.3 per cent. had a rating of "excellent" or "super-excellent." In New Jersey between 1,800 and 2,000 teachers are admitted to be below the usual standard—the only alternative being the closing of the schools.

So they journeyed, full of this good fortune, until opposite the town of Le Mas, where John's horse cast a shoe, and they were glad to find a wayside smith who might set the matter to rights. To him Aylward narrated the good hap which had befallen them; but the smith, when his eyes lit upon the relics, leaned up against his anvil and laughed, with his hand to his side until the tears hopped down his sooty cheeks.

"Why, masters," quoth he, "this man is a coquillart, or seller of false relics, and was here in the smithy not two hours ago. This nail that he hath sold you was taken from my nail box, and as to the wood and the stones, you will see a heap of both outside from which he hath filled his scrip."

"Nay, nay," cried Alleyne, "this was a holy man who had journeyed to Jerusalem, and acquired a dropsy by running from the house of Pilate to the Mount of Olives."

"I know not about that," said the smith; "but I know that a man with a gray palmer's hat and gown was here no very long time ago, and that he sat on yonder stump and ate a cold pullet and drank a flask of wine. Then he begged from me one of my nails, and filling his scrip with stones, he went upon his way. Look at these nails, and see if they are not the same as that which he has sold you."

"Now may God save us!" cried Alleyne, all aghast. "Is there no end to the wickedness of humankind? He so humble, so aged, so loth to take our money—and yet a villain and a cheat. Whom can be trust or believe in?"

"I will after him," said Aylward, flinging himself into the saddle. "Come, Alleyne, we may catch him ere John's horse be shod."

Away they galloped together, and ere long they saw the old gray palmer walking slowly along in front of them. He turned, however, at the sound of their hoofs, and it was clear that his blindness was a cheat like all the rest of him, for he ran swiftly through a field and so into a wood, where none could follow him. They hurled their relics after him, and so rode back to the blacksmith's the poorer both in pocket and in faith.

CHAPTE RXVII.

How Rodger Club-Foot Was Passed Into Paradise.

It was evening before the three comrades came into Aiguillon. There they found Sir Nigel Loring and Ford safely lodged at the sign of the "Baton Rouge," where they supped on good fare and slept between lavender-scented sheets. It chanced, however, that a knight of Poitou, Sir Gaston d'Estelle, was staying there on his way back from Lithuania, where he had served a term with the Teutonic knights under the land master of the presbytery of Marienberg. He and Sir Nigel sat late in high converse as to bushments, outfalls, and the intaking of cities, with many tales of warlike men and valiant deeds. Then their talked turned to minstrelsy, and the stranger knight drew forth a cittern, upon which he played the minnelieder of the north, singing the while in a high cracked voice of Hildebrand and Brunhild and Siegfried, and all the strength and beauty of the land of Almain. To this Sir Nigel answered with the romances of Sir Eglamour, and of Sir Isumbras, and so through the long winter night they sat by the crackling wood-fire answering each other's songs until the crowing cocks joined in their concert. Yet, with scarce an hour of rest, Sir Nigel was as blithe and bright as ever as they set forth after breakfast upon their way.

"This Sir Gaston is a very worthy man," said he to his squires as they rode from the "Baton Rouge." "He hath a very strong desire to advance himself, and would have entered upon some small knightly debate with me had he not chanced to have entered upon some small knightly debate with me, had he not chanced to have his arm-bone broken by the kick of a horse. I have conceived a great love for him, and I have promised him that when his bone is mended I will exchange thrusts with him. But we must keep to this road upon the left."

"Nay, my fair lord," quoth Aylward, "The road to Montaubon is over the river, and through Quercy and the Agenois."

"True, my good Aylward; but I have learned from this worthy knight, who hath come over from the French marches, that there is a company of Englishmen who are burning and plundering in the country round Villefranche. I have little doubt, from what he says, that they are those whom we seek."

"By my hilt! it is like enough," said Aylward. "By all accounts they had been so long at Montaubon, that there would be little there worth the taking. Then as they have already been in the south, they would come north to the country of the Aveyron."

"We shall follow the Lot until we come to Cahors, and then cross the marches into Villefranche," said Sir Nigel. "By St. Paul! as we are but a small band, it is very likely that we may have some very honorable and pleasing adventure, for I hear that there is little peace upon the French border."

All morning they rode down a broad and winding road, barred with the shadows of poplars. Sir Nigel rode in front with his squires, while the two archers followed behind with the sumpter mule between them. They had left Aiguillon and the Garonne far to the south, and rode now by the tranquil Lot, which curves blue and placid through a gently rolling country. Alleyne could not but mark that, whereas in Guienne there had been many townlets and few castles, there were now many castles and few houses. On either hand gray walls and square, grim keeps peeped out at every few miles from amid the forests, while the few villages which they passed were all ringed round with rude walls, which spoke of the constant fear and sudden foray of a wild frontier land. Twice during the morning there came bands of horsemen swooping down upon them from the black gateways of wayside strongholds, with short, stern questions as to whence they came and what their errand. Bands of armed men clanked along the highway, and the few lines of laden mules which carried the merchandise of the trader were guarded by armed varlets, or by archers hired for the service.

"The peace of Bretigny hath not made much change in these parts," quoth Sir Nigel, "for the country is overrun with free companions and masterless men. Yonder towers, between the wood and the hill, mark the town of Cahors, and beyond it is the land of France. But here is a man by the wayside, and as he hath two horses and a squire I make little doubt that he is a knight. I pray you, Alleyne, to give him greeting from me, and to ask him for his titles and coat-armor. It may be that I can relieve him of some vow, or perchance he hath a lady whom he would wish to advance."

"Ay, my fair lord," said Alleyne, "these are not horses and a squire, but mules and a varlet. The man is a mercer, for he hath a great bundle beside him."

"Now, God's blessing on your honest English voice!" cried the stranger, pricking up his ears at the sound of Alleyne's words. "Never have I heard music that was so sweet to mine ear. Come, Watkin lad, throw the bales over Laura's back! My heart was nigh broke, for it seemed that I had left all that was English behind me, and that I would never set eyes upon Norwich market square again."

ASSESSMENT FOR 1920 WILL BE MADE DURING THE WEEK

Special Meeting of the City Council Will Be Held, Says Mayor Reid.

NO OPPOSITION TO CHARLES W. HALL

Election by Acclamation To Fill the Vacancy in King's Ward.

With the vacancy in the representation of King's Ward filled by the election by acclamation yesterday of Charles W. Hall, president of the Retail Merchants' Association, the City Council is now complete.

Alderman-elect Hall's nomination papers were filed shortly before four o'clock and ex-Ald. William McKay, who was present with his papers completed, did not offer, as he was one of Mr. Hall's nominators and was well satisfied to stay on the retired list.

Mayor Reid, who returned yesterday from a business trip to Montreal, said this morning that a special meeting of the City Council would probably be called for the latter part of this week to prepare the assessment for 1920. The last assessment was $150,000 and there is every indication that this year's figures will be considerably greater. For school purposes alone the increase will be considerable and it is expected that the limit allowed by legislation for this purpose—$60,000—will be asked for in addition to a special grant of $2,000 or more for carrying on the Night Vocational Classes. Ald. Wilkinson, the new chairman of the Finance Committee, already has the matter well in hand.

SPECIAL MEETING OF SCHOOL BOARD

Contract for New School at Doak Not Awarded—The 1920 Budget.

A special meeting of the School Board was held yesterday with Dr. VanWart, the chairman, presiding. The other members in attendance included Mrs. Cox, John J. Weddall, J. M. Lemont, P. J. Hughes, A. A. Shute and Secretary C. A. Sampson.

The chairman explained that the principal business to be considered was preparing a budget for the year to be submitted to the City Council, and to open tenders for the erection of a suitable school building for the Doak Settlement section.

At the last meeting of the board a committee was appointed, consisting of Mr. Lemont and Mrs. Cox, to look over the needs of the year and to make any suggestions they may deem avisable in view of the demand of the teachers for a better chance to meet the steadily increasing demands upon them. Through Mr. Lemont this committee was able to show that they had attended to the duty in a thorough manner.

As item after item was discussed it was seen that previous figures entirely failed to meet the demands. It was plainly shown that all claims could not be satisfied, and even with this condition it was found to be necessary to make a considerable increase over the amount required last year. The committee was authorized to complete the various items and have the budget ready to submit to the council in due time.

The board then proceeded to open the tenders for the erection of a school at Doak Settlement. Only two tenders were received for the one-room school building, and two received for the heating and plumbing of the same. This operation seemed to have as depressing an effect upon the trustees as did the salary figures. This matter was held in abeyance for the present, as the figures were away beyond hope and expectation. It is possible that the question of a building may be considered later with somewhat modified plans.

ONLY ONE APPLICANT.

Local Situation Shows the Growing Scarcity of School Teachers.

There was only one application in response to the recent call of the Board of Trustees of Fredericton for a teacher to fill the vacancy on the city school staff caused by the recent resignation of Miss E. Beatrice Jewett, who is soon to be married.

The one aplication which Secretary C. A. Sampson was able to present to the Board of Trustees at their special meeting yesterday was from Miss Bertha Chase, of Devon, and she was appointed to fill the vacancy. She will enter upon her new duties after Easter. The scarcity of applicants is regarded as indicative of the shortage of teachers.

S. B. Ebbett, of St. John, is in the city, a guest at the Queen Hotel.

F. C. Hunter, of St. Stephen, is a guest at the Barker House.

FRASERS' PLANS CAUSE SPECULATION BY LUMBERMEN

Tobique Narrows Proposition May Mean More Than Shows on Surface.

SOUTH DEVON SITE FOR PULP MILL TRANSFERRED

Nashwaak Pulp & Paper Co. Have Actually Become the Owners of Property.

There is much speculation in business and particularly lumbering circles as to what is the real meaning of the application of the Fraser interests for authority to dam the Tobique river at the Narrows and erect pulp and paper mills there.

There are so many issues that may enter into the proposal that those who like to do such things find all kinds of theories upon which to make a great deal of guessing possible as to what will be the final outcome. There seems to be a very general feeling that so far the whole story has not been told.

While there has been a denial given out that the Frasers have an option on or have actually bought the New Brunswick Railway Company lands of approximately one and a half million acres, there is a well defined report to the effect that negotiations looking to the culmination of such a deal have been going on for some time. Moreover, it is believed in certain generally well informed circles that eventually the Frasers will become the owners of the N. B. Railway lands, for the operation of which the Tobique Narrows provide the ideal manufacturing site.

Thus there is the recent transfer of the VanHorne block of 122½ square miles of Crown Lands on the Serpentine, a branch of the Tobique, to the Dalhousie Lumber Company, a subsidiary of the International Paper Company. They have no mill any where near these lands, but what effect would the securing of the power rights on the Tobique by the Fraser interests have on that deal? The application of the Messrs. Fraser has, however, provided the material for at least one lively fight on private legis-

FREDERICTON MAY HAVE A CITY CLUB IN NEAR FUTURE

Fifteen Teams Canvassing the Business Men Today for Members.

DUNBAR PROPERTY TO BE TAKEN OVER

Will Also Be Headquarters for Commercial Club If Obtained.

Fredericton may have a City Club—a business men's social club along the lines of similar institutions in almost every city and town. In fact a campaign to make such an institution a reality is alrady under way.

Fifteen teams of canvassers are busy in the city today and, if they are successful in getting the names of 100 men who are willing to pay $35 a year as membership dues, the Dunbar property on Queen street will be taken over at an expense of $8,000 and approximately $7,000 additional expended to put the building in proper shape, furnish and equip it.

This action was decided upon last night when a committee of the Commercial Club, who have had the matter of club quarters under consideration, met at the Board of Trade rooms and arranged for the fifteen teams to start their canvass of the city this morning. If the campaign is successful the Commerical Club also will utilize the club building for holding their meetings. There is no doubt as to the demand for a City Club in Fredericton and it is believed that such an institution would have a large number of non-resident members amongst those frequently here on business.

New German Cabinet Is Likely to be Formed During Next Few Hours at Berlin

Ebert Government Enters In Agreement With Socialists

THE CLAIMS OF LABOR BODY

Allied Council Asked to Permit Army to Go to Rúkr District.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Copenhagen, March 24.—Formation of a new German cabinet is a matter of only a few hours, and independent socialists are sure of getting several important portfolios, according to telegrams from Berlin this morning.

ARMED SPARTACISTS STOOD AGAINST WALL

Gas, water and electric service has not been resumed in Berlin and the tramways are still idle, as the independent socialists have assumed a waiting attitude. They are said to be dissatisfied with the Government's "soft methods towards traitors," while armed Spartacists are simply stood against the wall.

Huns Want to Send Army to Ruhr.

Paris, March 24.—Following up the request of the German Government that the Supreme Council authorize the sending of German troops into the Ruhr district, German officers have arrived in Paris to present the project before the representatives of the Allies. It is understood that they will ask permission for the state Government to send 100,000 soldiers or police into that territory.

Government Placates Labor.

London, March 24.—In the strike settlement reached by the German Government with labor unions, the majority socialists are pledged to place in their parliamentary programme the claims of labor organizations, says a Berlin despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

The Government has expressed willingness to withdraw its troops from Berlin and across the Spree river, near Government headquarters, and raise the state of siege immediately, it is said. In addition, it undertakes not to attack workers, particularly those on the Ruhr Valley, and to negotiate with unions concerning the entry of labor representatives into defence corps.

The Claims of the Unions.

The unions pledge themselves to call another meeting to decide upon the question of a new general strike, in case their claims are not met and the Government's policies are broken. The claims of the unions follow:

Reorganization of the Government of the empire and Prussia must be undertaken with the co-operation of labor unions, and the deciding influence upon social laws must be given the unions.

Guilty rebels must be disarmed and punished.

All offices of the public administration must be purged of counter-revolutionists.

The reform of governmental administrations must be executed as quickly as possible with the co-operation of the unions.

Social laws must be extended immediately to secure economic equality for working men.

Nationalization of industry must be commenced at once.

Beter supplies of food must be arranged and available stocks must be placed at the disposal of the people.

All military formations which do not remain true to the constitution must be disbanded.

The Moscow wireless station today sent out a despatch dated Berlin, which declares the revolutionists in the Ruhr district had attempted to enter into negotiations with the Dutch Government, but were expelled.

The Germans desired foodstuffs in exchange for coal. Holland, however, refused to negotiate, it is declared.

Dutch Government to Allow the Crown Prince to Roam Over Island And Keep the Kaiser Within Bounds

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

THE HAGUE, March 24.—Announcement by the Premier today that the Dutch government had granted the Island of Wieringen to the former German Crown Prince as a place of residence is believed here to complete the steps by which Holland seeks to meet Allied demands as to the safe-keeping of the former Emperor William and his son. A decree by which William of Hohenzollern would be confined to that portion of Utrecht including Amerongen and Doorn, was made public last week.

Reports are current that the Crown Prince asked that his residence be fixed on the Island, and declined an opportunity to live near his father.

The German Reds Still Show Fight at Places, But Regular Troops Gaining Ascendancy

The Communists Appear Strongest About Wesel, Where 6,000 Regular Troops are Said to Be Beseiged by 25,000 Spartacans—Fighting at Other Places.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Coblenz, March 24.—Heavy fighting has been going on since noon yesterday before Wesel, on the lower Rhine bank, where the Reds have attempted to wipe out the stand of the Reichswehr. The Reds are trying to get through communication with Holland in order to secure foodstuffs. Troop movements to surround Essen are already in progress.

It is announced that in a Spartacan attack on the post office at Dortmund yesterday morning, sixty employees and officers were killed.

In Thuringia the soviet governmet is said to have appointed a foreign minister and to be printing Bolshevik money.

Regular Troops Besieged.

Copenhagen, March 24.—Regarding the situation at Wesel, a special Berlin despatch says that 6,000 regulars within the fortress are besieged by 25,000 Spartacans. The troops are using heavy guns, but have nevertheless failed to break the siege.

Fight With Communists.

Wesel, March 24 (via Berne).—Six thousand government troops, reinforced by armed countrymen, had a skirmish with communist guards, numbering about 15,000, near here last night. Reports state 62 were killed and upwards of 100 wounded during the fighting.

Workmen Lose at Halle.

Berlin, March 24—Latest despatches from Halle say that after very stubborn fighting the troops are master of the situation. The workmen retired to the environs of Halle.

Passenger traffic to Berlin was resumed yesterday.

Quiet Restored at Places.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Berlin, March 24.—Quiet has been completely restored in Wilhelmshaven, Weismar and Rostock and there is no further apprehension of the return of the soviets. The situation in Saxony, Zwickau and Chemnitz, as well as in Thuringia, remains unchanged.

Leipsic is reported to be generally quiet, the revolting forces have begun to disarm and the commanding general has issued a proclamation threatening extreme measures against further attempts at disorder.

In Berlin the situation is tranquil, except for a few unimportant collisions in the northeastern quarters, where the lack of provisions is badly felt. There is no indication of further trouble.

The Rumanian Authorities Capture a German Dirigible That Fell Near Cernowitz and Which Was Carrying Three Hundred Million Rubles in Paper to Moscow.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Bucharest, March 24.—A German dirigible balloon, headed for Moscow fell at Hotin, near Czernowitz. Its officers and 300,000,000 rubles printed in Berlin and also a printing press for making money, were taken charge of and brought here by Rumanians. This is the second dirigible to fall into the hands of the Rumanians under similar circumstances.

Ottawa, March 24.—Hon. W. S. Fielding,s interest in the League of Nations, and Canada's share of the upkeep of that body, has not been dulled by the answers to his questions given during the present session. The former Liberal Minister has filed a request to be introduced on Thursday, asking for production, under an order of the House, of all correspondence relating to the appointment of the expenses of the League and the payment, in February, of $64,043.15 as Canada's share of the expenses of the League.

PRISONER NOT MUCH CONCERNED

Montreal Man Charged with Theft of Car Not Anxious for Freedom.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Montreal, March 24.—Nonchalance marked the attitude of David Field, charged yesterday in the King's Bench with being technically guilty of theft in using Alderman W. Lyon Jacob's car. He defended himself and his address to the jury was merely the statement: "Gentlemen, I leave it to your discretion."

The verdict was not guilty, and when the clerk of the court asked Field if he wished to be discharged, he replied: "As you see fit."

It took some time before he could be made to understand that he could not be freed without asking for his freedom.

THE RESTLESSNESS THROUGHOUT EGYPT

The steppes comprise the plains in southeastern Russia and the western Asiatic provinces.

The statement reports progress by the Red troops against General Denekine's forces along the railway in the Ekaterinodar region on the Caucasus front.

Heavy Fighting on Polish Front.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Warsaw, March 24.—Extremely heavy fighting is reported on the Polish front. A communication issued yesterday announced that after the greatest artillery preparation yet experienced, the Bolshevik infantry advanced in columns against the bridgehead at Zwiehel, aided by tanks and armored motor cars.

"After a sharp engagement," says the communication, "the Polish troops launched a counter-attack with bayonets and hand grenades, driving the enemy far from the Polish line."

British Troops Fire on Mob in Afghanistan

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Bombay, March 24.—British troops have fired upon a disorderly crowd at Jamshedpur, Afghanistan, when members of the mob ignored a warning order. Two persons were killed and twenty-five wounded as a result.

The crowd scattered when it was seen the troops were prepared to charge with the bayonet.

Attempts to damage the railway were made during the disorder.

Recent despatches have indicated considerable Bolshevik sentiment in the neighborhood of Jamshedpur.

TROOPS STATIONED ON PRINCIPAL STREETS WITH ARMORED CARS AND MACHINE GUNS LAST EVENING

After Throng Had Left the Streets and Gone to Their Homes the Police Protection Was Withdrawn, but Soldiers Remained in Barracks All Night.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Cork, March 24.—More troops and Royal Irish Constabulary have been sent here and empty houses at strategic points have been occupied by the military and police forces.

The Sinn Fein organization is maintaining secret watches and guards to protect its leaders, some of whom are reported to have received threatening letters similar to the one delivered to Thomas MacCurtain, Lord Mayor of this city, before he was murdered last week.

Last night troops, supported by constabulary, were stationed at various points in the city, with armored cars and machine guns. This protection was maintained while the streets were thronged, but later, when the crowds dwindled, the extra guards were withdrawn.

Soldiers and police officers, however, remained in their barracks all night, ready for any emergency.

EXCLUSIVENESS A GREAT BLUNDER

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux Speaks Before London Audience on Bilingual Question.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

London, March 24.—The King yesterday received Hon. Rodolphe and Mrs. Lemieux and handed them the Military Cross won by their son. Mr. Lemieux was later entertained by the Empire Parliamentary Association at Westminster, Sir Auckland Geddes presiding at the function.

Mr. Lemieux spoke at length on the bilingual question, and said in part:

"I am not speaking as a party man, but as a Canadian who gave his all for the cause of small nationalities. From Sir Wilfrid Laurier I learned that isolation and exclusiveness is not a policy, but a blunder."

The gathering was largely attended by members, both of the House of Commons and House of Lords, acceptances including ex-Premier Asquith, the Duke of Devonshire, Archbishop of Canterbury, Lord Burnham, Lord Islington and Hon. Walter Long. General Seeley and Ben Tillett were also present.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Winnipeg, March 24.—William H. Elneck, confessed slayer of William Deforge on the morning of October 1st last, was yesterday found guilty of manslaughter by a jury in Chief Justice Mather's court. The defense was that the gun used to hold up Deforge went off accidentally. Sentence will be pronounced when the others implicated in the affair are through with their trial.

WOMAN DELEGATE TALKS TO VETERANS

City of Montreal Tenders Dinner to Delegates to G. W. V. A. Convention.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Montreal, March 24.—At the dinner tendered last night by the city of Montreal to the Dominion Great War Veterans' delegates, the address of most interest was that of Mrs. W. G. Foster, delegate from Nelson, B. C., the first woman ever to be seated at a Veterans' convention. She replied to the toast, "To the Lady," and gave the reason why she was a delegate in the ranks of the Great War Veterans. Although the widow of an officer who fell in the war, she herself served overseas as a nursing sister for four years, and now felt that it was her duty to continue doing what she could for the comrades who had returned.

Col. J. J. Greelman, who is on alderman of Montreal, presided, and in his speech urged that Canada should be governed by Canadians for Canada.

A moving appeal was made by Captain L. Plante, President of the French speaking Montreal branch, who deplored the misrepresentation that put his race in the light of slackers. He called upon his fellow soldiers to testify to the conduct of the 22nd Battalion in the field, to which appeal the most vociferous applause of the evening was given.

He concluded by stating that had the work of recruiting been differently handled, Quebec province would have furnished dozens of 22nd Battalions.

Col. Purney, President, put in a strong plea for the Veterans conferring in the interests of the country as a whole rather than for individual and sectional interests.

QUEBEC FIREMEN ASK HIGHER WAGE

Quebec, March 24.—The National Union of Employees of the Quebec fire department and the Policemen's Protective Association submitted demands for increased pay to the civic fire and police committees last night. The firemen ask for an increase of 25 per cent. and many other concessions, while the police want to be paid as well as the firemen, and to be given a scale equal to that of other Canadian cities.

FATHER SAYS HE SHOT SON TO SAVE HIS SOUL

18 Year Old Boy in Chicago Hospital and Father Held by Police to Await Result.

BOY HAD BECOME A NOTED GANGSTER

The Father Had Got Tired of Pleading With Him to Turn From Evil Pursuits.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Chicago, March 24.—Frank Pinano, Jr., today was at the county hospital with three bullet wounds in his body. Frank Pinano, Sr., was held at a police station, where officers said a murder charge would be placed if the eighteen-year-old boy died.

"I shot him to save his soul," the aged man told the police. "I would rather kill him myself than have the police do it. For months I have been worried every time I heard of a 'stick up; for fear my son had been killed. I tried to get him to buckle down, but he would not do it."

Frank, Jr., according to court records, slipped into a near-crime record when he was 14 years old. Two years later he had become a recognized gangster, and repeatedly was arrested. A year ago his father carried him bodily to the police and had Frank confined to a boy's home. Two months later he was released at the instance of Mrs. Pinano.

Between sobs, the aged father told the police of how for years he had herded his family of ten other children to the Church of Our Lady of Pompeii on Sunday, but that Frank always was missing, "hanging out with his gang."

Last night, Pinano Sr. continued, he determined to make a final effort to reclaim his boy. Encountered with friends at a street corner, the youth sneeringly walked away to escape "being bawled by this goody-goody old man," the father said, and he fired five times. Two bullets hit Frank in the legs and the third seriously wounded him in the back.

LIBERAL CAUCUS DISCUSS FRANCHISE

Decided to Favor Acceptance of the Provincial and Municipal Lists.

Ottawa, March 23.—When the Liberal caucus ended at 1 o'clock this afternoon, inquiries were told that the members spent the whole time in discussion of the proposed franchise act, although it had been intended to discuss the naval estimates as well and Canada's future naval policy. In the light of recent happenings the members decided to reiterate their feeling that the new franchise act should provide for accepting the provincial the municipal lists. As they stand, adding the names of women in Quebec where the franchise to women has not yet been granted, and of all those in every province who have the right to vote, but not yet on the voters' list. They do notf eel that the present act goes far enough in this direction when it provided that the provincial list may be accepted if made within a year. W. H. White, member for Victoria-Albert, presided over the caucus. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, opposition leader, addressed the members, explaining the legislation now before the House, and asking for a discussion. Except as indicated above there was not very much criticism of the present act, but it was said by several members that in conjunction with the nationalization act of last session its effect would be to disfranchise more potential voters than the war time elections act did.

Events of a Day In Parliament

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Ottawa, March 24.—The House of Commons failed to reach a decision last night after extended debate on the appropriation of $20,000,000 for the completion of the Government's merchant marine policy. The debate lasted nearly seven hours and a score of members took part in it.

Hon. J. D. Reid declared in the House that the Government could not operate the Canadian National Railway in competition with the Canadian Pacific Railwy unless it was proivded with a fleet of vessels to carry cargoes direct to foreign destinations at through rates.

A total of sixty-three vessels is projected in the programe, of which sixty-one are of 8,500 tons or less. An average cost of $191,92 per ton is involved. The total tonnage is 380,435.

Dr. Michael Clark, Red Deer, declared that the Government could not compete with British shipping under its present policy of protection.

After a number of the opposition members had advocated the abandonment of the Government-owned merchant marine Hon. Mackenzie-King asked that the debate on the question be brought up again.

The House adourned at 11.45 p. m. until Wednesday afternoon at two p. m.

Hon. P. J. Veniot Proves His Versatility In a Discussion Over Registrars' Salaries

Forgets His Jealousy for the Prerogatives of the Executive Council and Wants Legislature to Fix Figures and Put Them in Bill.

The old saying about very much depending upon whose ox happens to be gored works out in practice in the Legislature every once in a while. And yesterday was one of those times.

Last week Hon. P. J. Veniot, the skilled and experienced tactician of the Government, appeared in the role of the defender of the Executive Council when he vehemently declared that the Legislature must not infringe upon the prerogative of the Executive Council and attempt to dictate the stumpage rates.

Yesterday afternoon found the Minister of Public Works demanding that the Legislature fix the salaries of the registrars of deeds, rather than allow the Executive Council the privilege, which all agreed to be theirs and which Attorney General Byrne thought the Government should be allowed to exercise.

The matter was unsettled when the Committee of the Whole House which had had the Registry Act under consideration carried the bill over for final action later on. Hon. Mr. Veniot declared in unmistakable terms that he would not be a party to leaving the fixing of salaries to the Government if they had to act upon recommendations from the County Councils, as it was a matter of common knowledge that the municipal councils did not treat their officials fairly in the matter of salaries. He wanted the amounts fixed and inserted in the bill.

The bill in its original form provided for salaries for the registrars as follows:

St. John county	$4,000
Westmorland county	2,600
York county	2,500
Carleton county	2,000
Kings county	2,000
Charlotte county	1,200
Queens county	1,000
Victoria county	1,500
Northumberland county	1,000
Madawaska county	1,500
Kent county	1,000
Albert county	800
Gloucester county	1,100
Restigouche county	800
Sunbury county	800

Government Bills Introduced.

At the opening of the afternoon session a number of Government bills were introduced.

Hon. Mr. Murray introduced a bill to amend the Provincial Loans Act, 1900. He explained that it was simply to authorize the issuing of debentures at a rate not exceeding 6 per cent., whereas the present Act stpulated that it should not exceed 5 per cent.

Hon. Mr. Foster introduced a bill to grant aid to the University of New Brunswick. He explained that the sum of $5,000 had been granted to the institution last session and it was proposed to grant a further sum, making in all $25,000.

Hon. Mr. Foster introduced a bill to provide an annuity to R. P. Steeves. He said that Mr. Steeves had served the Province for a period of forty years in connection with educational work, and it was proposed to recognize his long and faithful service by granting him an annuity.

Hon. Mr. Byrne introduced a bill to amend the Jurors' Act, 1919. In explanation he said that the law fixed the property qualifications of grand and petit jurymen at $600. Owing to the different systems of assessment in vogue in the different counties, it was felt by judges and others that the property qualification should be reduced. The bill fixed the amount at $400, and it was his intention when it came before the committee to further reduce it ot $300.

Hon. Mr. Byrne also introduced bills to amend the New Brunswick Election Act, to amend the Evidence Act and to amend the Children's Protection Act, 1919.

In regard to the Election Act it was now provided that the revisors return the voters' lists to the parish clerks. It was proposed under the amendment that a copy also be returned to the Provincial Secretary-Treasurer. It was also proposed to have the Governor-in-Council pay a portion of the additional cost of revising made necessary by the enfranchisement of women.

The proposed amendment to the Evidence Act would provide for the admission as evidence of the plans of a survey.

Hon. Mr. Foster moved that three hundred copies of the Journals be furnished for the use of the Legislature.

He also moved that the time for the introduction of private bills be extended until Tuesday, March 30th.

THE REGISTRY ACT.

Great Volume of Fresh Legal Opinions on Conveyancing Given in Committee.

The House then went into committee with Mr. Leger (Westmorland) in the chair and took up further consideration of the bill to amend the Registry Act. A number of sections were adopted and several were alllowed to stand for further consideration.

Hon. Mr. Byrne moved an amendment to section 26 which had to do with the preparation and care of index books. The section as drafted provided that the registrar after completion was to keep the books in proper condition without further compensation. Under the amendment he will be allowed such reasonible compensation as the Governor-in-Council may determine.

Mr. Mersereau thought in view of the fact that Municipal Councils were called upon to pay for the cost of preparing index books they should be consulted as to who did the work.

Hon. Mr. Byrne said that the present law provided that when index books became worn out and unsuitable the Governor-in-Council could order the preparation of new ones. That involved a lot of work for the registrar, and it was only fair and right that he should be compensated by the county for whose benefit the work was performed.

Hon. Mr. Byrne, in reply to Mr. Tilley, said that in cases where it was shown that a will had been fraudulently suppressed the title of a transfer of lands would not be affected after the lapse of a period of three years. The section dealing with the matter only applied to unprobated wills.

Married Women's Rights.

Mr. Tilley suggested that there be two sections to define separately the luties of the justices of the peace and commissioners for taking affidavit in the matter of acknowledgment of the execution of any instrument.

Mr. Campbell said that in St. John it had been customary for corporations in discharging mortgages merely to impress their seals and not produce proof. He did not approve of this, for proof was as necessary as in other transactions, and disputes had arisen.

Mr. Tilley, on section 16, said he would like to have the opinion of his colleague on the matter of a married woman being abale to transfer property in her own name, without examination as to threats, fear or compulsion on the part of her husband.

Mr. Campbell said that the provision was an ancient one and was inserted as a protection to married women.

Mr. Sweeney said that he was in receipt of letters offering strong objection to registrars and deputy registrars having anything to do with searches.

Hon. Mr. Veniot said that it might be all right to exclude registrars and their deputies in places where there were plenty of lawyers.

Mr. Sweeney said that if the attempt was to be made to get along without lawyers that might as well be stated.

Mr. Campbell, speaking to the section relating to the registrars' records of fees received, stated that business at the St. John registry office was too great to permit of making a return by Jan. 5th. He would suggest that the date be Jan. 15th.

Mr. Young said that if Jan. 15th were made the date it would be impossible for the registrars to make returns for presentation at the meetings of the county councils.

Hon. Mr. Byrne said the point was well taken. The date should not be later than Jan. 10th.

The section was amended to that effect.

Salaries of the Registrars.

Hon. Mr. Veniot on the section relating to fees and emoluments of registrars said that the amount fixed for the Gloucester County registry office was only $1,100. It had been customary for the county council to vote the registrar the balance of the fees, but the councillors had come to the point where they thought the salary should be increased. They wanted $2,000, and he would suggest amendment to that effect.

Mr. Sutton said that he had received a letter from the registrar of Carleton County stating that the county council at its recent session had passed a resolution to the effect that the amount should be increased from $1,750 to $2,250.

Hon. Mr. Foster said he had received a letter from the Carleton County registrar touching on that matter and if a copy of the county council's resolution were forwarded the amount would be made to agree with that suggested. He had not yet received a copy of the resolution.

Hon. Mr. Byrne said the Lieutenant Governor-in-Council had the power to increase salaries and the matter could be regulated in that way.

Hon. Mr. Veniot said he did not want it understood that the executive council was waiting upon resolutions from county councils. It was notorious that such councils underpaid their officials. These amounts should be fixed by legislation.

Mr. Sutton said that the fixed amount in connection with Carleton County should be suggested by the county council, and that he would move for an amendment making the amount $2,250.

Hon. Mr. Byrne said that an increase had been previously asked for by the registrar.

Hon. Mr. Foster said that the first increase to $2,000 had been given without any resolution by the county council. Later the registrar, believing he should have more salary, had undertaken to have the council pass a resolution. In view of that, action would be taken.

Mr. Sutton said that a copy of the resolution of the county council had been forwarded to the Provincial Secretary Treasurer in February.

Hon. Mr. Byrne said that it probably had been received. He would look it up and would accept the amendment.

Mr. Tilley asked why similar treatment should not be given other registrars. Those of Restigouche, Sunbury and Albert received only $800.

Hon. Mr. Veniot said that in those counties the fees did not amount to more than that.

Mr. Tilley said the Government should pay the difference between the total amount of the fees and a living wage. A dollar was worth only fifty cents as compared with a few years ago. Let the Government get the money by making a fair stumpage charge.

Hon. Mr. Veniot said that the officials receiving low salaries as mentioned devoted only part of their time

HON. ROBT. MURRAY AS PROVINCIAL SECRETARY-TREASURER.

There is a rumor that Mr. Murray's speech of today will be the last budget speech he will make. This rumor is probably premature. There is no doubt dissatisfaction within the Executive, there is no doubt something too of personal jealousy, and it is also a fact that one or two of the leaders have the feeling, incautiously expressed, that Mr. Murray as Provincial Secretary-Treasurer has failed to measure up. Yet this does not imply that Mr. Murray must go. In the failure to measure up, Mr. Murray clearly does not stand alone. If action were to be taken on this score, there would need to be a pretty general reconstruction of the Government; Mr. Murray is not the Government's most conspicuous failure. But the chief reason for believing that Mr. Murray will remain is in the fact that he is presently proving satisfactory to the lumbermen, and their influence undoubtedly dominates. Mr. Murray will probably remain until it serves the lumbermen's interests to set him aside.

THE BRITISH NAVY.

In presenting his estimates in the Commons on February 23 last, Mr. Winston Churchill, Secretary for War, declared that Great Britain's army should be slightly bigger than before the war. He and other leaders have also declared that the Navy must maintain its supremacy, that being the arm on which the country places chief reliance. The British people have great faith in their navy—faith which received full confirmation in the great war—and they are still determined that it shall remain superior to all other fleets, no matter what the cost, and irrespective of league developments, or any other international policy. The ending of the great conflict saw no arrestation of naval progress, and a new programme with greater efficiency as the objective is actively under way. The Admiralty, an exchange points out, is engaged in a ruthless and drastic weeding-out process, which is discussed by Hector C. Bywater in the February issue of The Navy, published by The Navy League in London. To the lay observer the extent of the scrapping of great ships is astonishing. Since the armistice, says the writer in The Navy, between 250 and 300 vessels have been condemned as superfluous, and will in due course be delivered up to the shipbreaker. Many of these ships are fine specimens of naval architecture and did big service in the war. But since 1914 the physical elements of naval science have been revolutionized, it is pointed out, and the standard of material efficiency has soared to a level to which only the most modern ships and weapons are able to attain. Vessels which six years ago were regarded as powerful units are today hopelessly obsolete, judged by the new and higher standards. As regards capital ships, the essential qualities are: "guns capable "of shooting with precision at the "longest range; a high sea speed associated with oil-fired boilers and a "wide cruising endurance; adequate "protection against heavy shell fire "and underwater explosions." None of the pre-dreadnought ships fulfil these requirements, points out Mr. Bywater, so it would be manifestly unwise to retain them in service. It would be useless expenditure, as a matter of fact. Consequently, the pre-dreadnoughts have been scrapped en bloc, and a start has been made with some of the older dreadnoughts considered to be lacking in some of the necessary modern qualities. As regards light cruisers, destroyers and submarines, their usefulness is also under review, and many of them may be destined for the scrap heap, with their vastly costlier giant brothers. The best only is to be retained in the navy.

The article in The Navy includes a table showing the striking change in the composition of the British Battle Fleet before and after the war:

	July, 1914	Jan., 1920
Dreadnoughts	22	33
Battle-cruisers	9	9
Pre-dreadnoughts	40	1
Armored cruisers	34	9

The nine armored cruisers and the one pre-dreadnought remaining on the 1920 list are retained for experimental training or subsidiary duties.

The reader might consider that all this weeding-out means a diminution of the strength of the fleet, but this is not so. Despite the numerical reduction, the navy is declared to be incomparably stronger than hitherto. "The ships are individually more "powerful, they can steam faster and "further, shoot accurately at ranges "twice as great as the battle practice "range of 1914, and stand more punishment above and below water." The Admiralty has discarded all but the best, and national and imperial safety is entrusted to a fleet comprising the pick of the fighting material, if relatively reduced in numbers. The numerical strength may be restored in full before many years have passed by, as, whatever the citizens of Great Britain may say as to retrenchment in expenditure on armaments when there is nothing to worry about save the little wars in the outposts with the natives, he is seldom or never slow in providing money for the navy. That is his pride.

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT'S SHIP BUILDING POLICY.

It must have been with a feeling of satisfaction that the Hon. Mr. Ballantyne announced yesterday in Parliament the results of the Federal Government's shipbuilding policy. The department of which Mr. Ballantyne is the head is building six types of ships, the tonnage ranging from 3,800 to 10,800 tons, the weight of these thus far placed in commission being as follows: Seven of 8,300 tons; four of 5,000 tons; four of 4,500 tons; eight of 3,000 tons, and one of 1,800 tons. The cost of construction has varied from time to time, but, roughly speaking, has averaged about $175 a ton, a cost which, while slightly higher than the scale in British yards, is considerable less than the cost of ships produced in the United States; and, as a result of the Government's policy, the steel plates necessary in the construction of the ships are now manufactured in Canada. Hitherto they were available on this continent only in the United States.

To date, taking the figures of last year as a basis of calculation, the operation has been a pronounced financial success. The gross earnings for nineteen ships totalled $3,448,030, while the net earnings were $1,456,000, which means that the fleet had more than paid its way, and Mr. Ballantyne was able to add, with perhaps a pardonable pride, that if any further vindication of his policy were required, it was found in the fact that he was in a position to sell all the ships thus far completed at a figure greater than their cost.

THE WATER POWERS.

The report of the Water Powers Commission does not add to the general public knowledge of the whereabouts of the water powers of the province, or of the capacity; nor will the report command respect because of any technical knowledge it professes. Private enterprise has apparently accomplished something in development within the last two or three years, in the northern part of the province; but there is very much yet to be done, and what is needed is a general policy under which development can be advantageously undertaken.

Mr. Magee, of Westmorland, was not a member of the School Teachers' Salaries Commission, whose report was tabled in the Legislature yesterday. Mr. Magee operated as a member of the Vocational School Commission, another one of those commissions which the Government resorts to when it does not want to take the initiative or when it seeks to shift a large measure of responsibility. But the fact that Mr. Magee was not of the School Teachers' Salaries Commission makes the suggestion or contention none the less natural and accurate that the Commission were appointed, not merely to recommend an increase in salaries, but to suggest and strongly press that these increases be largely loaded upon the County School Fund. And the Commission has served the purpose.

CANADA MERCHANT MARINE SERVICE

Opposition Members Urge the Sale of Canadian Ships in House Yesterday.

Ottawa, March 23.—The story of what is being achieved to regain for Canada the proud position of the brave days when Canadian ships sailed the seven seas, was told to the House today by Mr. Ballantyne. The story, briefly summarized, is that from the modest beginning of two years ago (a beginning that called for the sneers and the scoffings of the cynics and the wiseacres) there has been produced a fleet of twenty-four fine ships with an aggregate of 121,900 tons and a programme which, when complete (as it will be this year), will give Canada a mercantile fleet of 63 vessels, owned and operated by Canada, manned by Canadians and carrying the merchandise and the flag of Canada to the ports of every nation.

Six types of ships are being built, ranging from 3,800 to 10,800 tons, the weight of these thus far placed in commission being as follows: Seven of 8,300 tons; four of 5,000 tons; four of 4,500 tons; eight of 3,000 tons, and one of 1,800 tons. The cost of construction has varied from time to time, but, roughly speaking, has averaged about $175 a ton, a cost which, while slightly higher than the scale in British yards, is considerably less than the cost of ships produced in the United States.

One of the finest things achieved in connection with the programme is the erection of a steel plate plant at Sydney. Up to the time this plant was secured (it is the result of an arrangement made by the Minister with the Dominion Iron and Steel Co.) Canada was dependent upon the United States for steel plates; the consequence being that ship construction was a precarious undertaking. With the Sydney plant turning out all steel plates that are required and at a price that compares more than favorably with the United States price, the Canadian shipbuilding position is made immeasurably more secure, and competition of Canadian with American yards placed upon a fairer basis.

The Canadian Mercantile Marine is operated in connection with the National Railways, and regular sailings between British and Canadian ports have been established. Thus far, taking the figures of last year as a basis of calculation, the operation has been a pronounced financial success. The gross earnings for nineteen ships totalled $3,448,030, while the net earnings were $1,456,000, which meant that the fleet had more than paid its way, and Mr. Ballantyne was able to add, with perhaps a pardonable pride, that if any further vindication of his policy were required, it was found in the fact that he was in a position to sell all the ships thus far completed at a figure greater than their cost.

As for the future—after the present programme for the completion of which $20,000,000 is asked—Mr. Ballantyne was non-committal. The most he would say was that the question of subsidies was being given "very careful consideration."

It would be quite impossible to think of any subject which Dr. Clark could not twist into a text for a sermon on free trade; and today he undertook to prove that you cannot have protection and a mercantile marine at one and the same time.

As for subsidies, the very mention of them was repugnant to his Cobdenite soul; and he must have been considerably shocked when Mr. Bristol informed him that in free trade England, recently, they have been bonusing shipbuilders to the extent of about $20 a ton.

Mr. Bristol, incidentally, made a strong plea for Government aid of some kind to all shipyards. He was not particular as to what form this aid should take, but thought that until the present period of infancy is tided over, the industry should have state nursing of some kind.

As for the opposition, if it has a policy in regard to shipbuilding, it was admirably concealed today. True, Mr. King objected that contracts were not let by tender, and Mr. Duff thought that the fleet should be turned over to private owners; but the rest of Liberal discussion was more in the way of detailed criticism than of stated policy.

THE JAILS EMPTY AND BANKS FULL

"Pussyfoot" Points to Happiness in America Over Prohibition.

Paris, March 23.—William E. Johnson, more familiarly identified in both England and France as "Pussyfoot" Johnson, has inaugurated a dry campaign in this country, addressing a Paris audience for the first time on prohibition, this evening, under the auspices of the "Blue Cross Society."

This society advocates absolute prohibition, as compared with the Alcoholic League of France and a newly-organized group of 60 Deputies of the French Chamber, who repudiate alcohol but advocate wines and beer.

"Prohibtion in America," said Mr. Johnson, "is the most beneficial measure ever adopted. The jails are emptied, the banks are full of money and the people are happy. I have no advice to give to France, but if the country wants to achieve real liberty let it adopt total and absolute prohibition."

He spoke to a rather small audience, composed for the most part of women, and his words were received silently and without enthusiasm or criticism.

Mr. Johnson has just returned from six weeks in North Africa, 400 miles south of Constantine, Algeria, where he was ordered by his physicians after his nervous breakdown in London.

P. P. Brennan, of Bath, is among the guests at the Queen Hotel.

R. McGuinniss, of St. Stephen, is a guest today at the Barker House.

FROM THE PEOPLE

DEMAND EXPLANATION OF OROMOCTO FIRE RELIEF FUND PAYMENTS.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Would you kindly insert this letter in your valuable paper?

I, the undersigned, am a fire sufferer of Oromocto, am a widow, and I lost my home and all my belongings by fire, and as I only received a cheque for $150 in October, the same as was given out to everyone who suffered by fire; and then in January a cheque for $330.17 and as I had not any insurance and others who had not insurance got $700, and those who had got $300, and also as I have asked the secretary of the Oromocto Relief Fund, John W. Gilmour, for an itemized statement as to its disbursement, and as I have waited since January, and he refuses to make public the same, I am asking through the columns of your paper that an itemized statement be given through the press.

Yours,
MRS. GEO. HOLDEN.

This is to certify that the secretary of the Oromocto Relief Fund, John W. Gilmour, questioned me, immediately after the Oromocto fire (my mother being on a sick bed at the time), and asked, "Had your mother, Mrs. Geo. Holden, any insurance?" In the presence of my sister, I answered, "No"; and thereupon, the secretary in our presence, wrote in his book, "Mrs. Geo. Holden—no insurance."

Why is she not given her rights with others? Was it because the secretary did not make a correct statement to the committee; or did the committee think a widow would not have anyone to defend her and could be passed by easily when her years of toil were gone? I shall hope to see a proper explanation given, so that when the citizens of Fredericton, the Rotary Club of St. John, the towns of Chatham, Edmundston and all private individuals who gave so generously will know that should another fire occur in the same locality, their money is being divided on a basis of equality, knowing that we all have a judgment to meet.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor,
Yours,
MRS. HARRY L. MERRITHEW,
298 University Ave., Fredericton.

LIGHT UP THE WHITE WAY AND BRIGHTEN UP QUEEN STREET!

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I am not given to writing letters to the newspapers but I do feel that it is high time somebody brought the attention of the City Council and the powers that be to the conditions that existed on Queen street tonight.

Where is there another city or town with any claims of progressiveness which would put up with such a gloomy looking principal thoroughfare as Fredericton had tonight? There was scarcely a store that was lighted, the street lights, between lack of electric current and the dirty condition of the globes, resembled old time oil or gas lamps of thirty years ago and the patient public picked their way along between or through puddles, which could not drain themselves off—because, forsooth, there were no drains open!

A few weeks ago when nominations were being made to the City Council we were told that what we must have to save the city from going to the dogs was a business men's council; if conditions such as existed on Queen street tonight are to be allowed to go on where is Fredericton going to benefit by having a business men's council? It is not good business, I am sure; in fact, it is well nigh criminal for the governing body of a city to allow such a state of affairs to exist when there is already installed a White Way which, if lighted, would transform the appearance of Queen street from that of a pathway through a gloomy village to the main thoroughfare of a progressive and growing city. Why not have the White Way lighted up every night in the year and make the old town look like a live place to visitors?

We have a Board of Trade, a Commercial Club, Social Service Council and all the rest of those bodies, but what are they doing to make Fredericton a better town to live in and to do business in? If they would get the main business street of the city made presentable to vistors they would then accomplish some real service. The Legislature is now in session and many visitors are thus brought into the city. What do the legislators think of Fredericton when they walk up Queen street under conditions such as those which existed tonight? I don't think their impression makes them feel any more generously towards Fredericton in any proposals affecting their capital city that come before them in these days when Maritime Union is so frequently discussed and supporters of the Government find it necessary to arise in their places in the House and protest against too much provincial business being carried on away from the capital.

I hope I have not been too harsh, Mr. Editor, but it is time somebody tried to wake up our slumbering city fathers and public bodies.

Yours,
CITIZEN.

Torture of the Inquisition

A Modern Example of Suffering

People suffer—suffer torments—with help at hand. Gin Pills can overcome pain in the most marvelous way—all the suffering which follows in the wake of weak or diseased kidneys, such as rheumatism, sciatic neuralgia, stone in the bladder, excruciating backache, stiff and swollen joints and ankles, yields quickly to the soothing, healing, strengthening power of Gin Pills, which contain Juniper and seven other valuable diuretics and antiseptics.

Mr. Arnold McAskell, of Hants, N.S., writes as follows:

"For a long time I suffered from a pain in my back and could not move without agony. I grew worse until confined to bed. A friend advised me to use Gin Pills. Before I had used one box I began to feel better. By the time I had finished two, I was completely cured. I cannot say too much in favor of these pills and I recommend them strongly to anyone suffering from kidney trouble."

At the first suggestion of pain in the back get Gin Pills from your druggist or dealer. Each box is guaranteed to relieve—or money back. 50c a box. Free sample, sufficient to show its value, sent on request.

to registrars' duties and had other occupations in addition.

Mr. Tilley said that the act prevented registrars performing any other duties.

Hon. Mr. Veniot said it was easy enough to say that, but that such was not the case.

Hon. Mr. Foster said that whenever a vacant registrarship occurred there was always more than one applicant for the position in spite of alleged low salaries.

The committee reported progress.

The York County Office.

Mr. Young said that he rose to a question of privilege. Bill No. 1 had been discussed in committee on Friday last and he had made reference to the fact that the York registry office close at 1 o'clock on Saturdays. The report of his remarks as published was correct, but he also had said that when that closing hour first was adopted it had worked some hardship on the public, but recently he had heard no complaints, and that personally he was in favor of the half holiday.

Hon. Mr. Byrne said he recollected the remarks of the member of York, but could find no authority for the York registry office closing at one o'clock on Saturdays. Possibly such authority existed, but he had not found it.

Mr. Young said that the registrar had informed him personally that he had authority for closing at that hour.

The House adjourned at 6.35 p. m. until this afternoon.

NEW BRUNSWICK'S BUDGET FOR 1920

Revenue Was Estimated at $2,829,483 in the Budget

Hon. Robert Murray Delivered Budget Speech in Legislature Today --Predicted Surplus of Over $330,000 This Year--Anticipated Territorial Revenue is $1,490,000.

Hon. Robert Murray, Provincial Secretary Treasurer, in delivering the budget speech in the New Brunswick Legislature this afternoon predicted a revenue of almost $700,000 more in 1920 than the actual receipts of last year.

The estimated receipts for the year are placed at $2,829,483.16, with expenditures estimated at $2,497,712.64, which would give a surplus at the close of the fiscal year of $331,771.52. Last year the actual expenditures were shown as $2,496,508.62, while the revenue was $2,168,822.40.

The increase this year is to come very largely from the Territorial Revenue from which $860,795.163 was received in 1919 and from which it is estimated $1,490,000 will be received this year, including $1,200,000 from stumpage as a result of the increased rates and the largest cut of lumber in the Crown lands in history. Another large item is that of Motor Vehicle Fees, from which $185,000 is the estimated amount of receipts, this being about $80,000 more than the actual receipts last year. Other items of the revenue are $75,000 from Succession Duties, $65,000 from Amusement Admission Tax, and $50,000 from the Provincial Prohibition Act.

Some of the Expenditures.

On the expenditure side some of the chief items shown were $73,381.51, which is $12,000 more than the estimate of last year. Provincial Hospital maintenance, where the high cost of living enters directly into the expenditure, is estimated as costing $156,000, which is $29,000 more than last year's estimate. Offsetting the revenue of $185,000 anticipated from the motor vehicle fees it is proposed to expend $172,500 for sinking funds and interest and $12,500 on administration expenses, salaries, etc. Enforcement of the prohibition, it is estimated, will cost $36,000, which is about the same as the actual expenditure this year, while there is an additional item of $30,000 in the estimates for the prohibition referendum. Almost half a million dollars—$482,000 to be exact—is the estimated expenditure for ordinary public works; this is somewhat in advance of last year's estimate, although the accounts show $727,934.81 actually charged in 1919 to this service last year. For sinking funds $37,580 is the estimate, the amount including $6,245, which is a new amount that is in the estimates for the first time this year and goes towards the payment of the now politically famous patriotic potatoes.

For school books the estimated expenditure is $38,000, while the receipts from this source are estimated at $22,000, which means the province is meeting a loss of $16,000 in selling school books for the primary grades at the present prices. For vocational education an expenditure of $27,900 is estimated, which includes some $14,000 which will come back to the province from the Federal Government.

At the conclusion of Hon. Mr. Murray's budget speech it is expected that Mr. Tilley, of St. John, will move the adjournment of the debate until tomorrow.

HON. ROBERT MURRAY.

Intercollegiate debate, Opera House, Wednesday evening.

FEEL THE SURGE OF ABOUNDING YOUTH

Age is sickness—gradual disintegration of the tissues which comprise your vital organs—your nerves, heart, liver, kidneys, brain. Each of these organs depends on the internal secreting fluids of certain glands. When such glands become lax in their functioning, through under or over-secretion, you are sick. Unless these glands are aided to resume proper functioning, the tissues of the vital organs gradually wear and crumble away. You are old in health, if not in years, and the old-fashioned methods of treating sickness are admittedly helpless. Your days are numbered unless you get at the seat of the trouble by direct action, and that is by revitalizing and restoring the glands to their proper functionng.

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get 16 ounces—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

NUXATED IRON

In my opinion, there is nothing like organic iron—Nuxated Iron—to quickly enrich the blood, make beautiful, healthy women and strong, vigorous, iron men." Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

THE FIRST NIGHT SESSION TONIGHT

Three Committees Meeting at the House of Assembly This Morning.

Three of the committees of the Legislature were in session this morning and the first night sitting of this session is expected tonight.

In addition to the Municipalities Committee, which spent the morning discussing St. John legislation, the Standing Rules Committee met and the Public Accounts Committee held their first meeting.

One of the bills before the Standing Rules Committee was that which provides for a hydro-electric development on the Miramichi, while there was also the bill respecting the New Brunswick Power Company, both of which were found to have properly come before the House.

The Public Accounts.

The Public Accounts Committee met with Mr. Magee of Westmorland in the chair and went through the early pages of the Public Accounts Report down to the statement of Price, Waterhouse & Company, the auditors employed by the Government. J. Bacon Dickson, the assistant clerk, was appointed secretary of the committee, and the members present were Messrs. Legere, Mersereau, Jones and Pinder.

Chairman Magee suggested that the province's bonds might be sold in a more popular manner than had been adopted, and Mr. Jones agreed with the proposal, but Mr. Mersereau thought there would not be the same patriotic incentive as in the sale of the Victory Bonds.

When mention was made of expenditures under the Housing Act, Mr. Jones expressed the opinin that fifteen years from now houses constructed at this time would not be worth so much; he said the peak of high prices had been reached now. Mr. Magee said the time was at hand when $4 a day would have to be paid for ordinary labor on the highways.

Mr. Pinder took advantage of the opportunity to express his views on road work being carried on. He said the average length of day was six hours and the conditions were fifty per cent. worse than under the old government. Mr. Legere did not agree with this opinion and believed that conditions were better now than ever.

Mr. Jones thought that $12,000 was a generous amount for Sunbury county to get for its small mileage of roads. "It kept me busy all the time," remarked Mr. Mersereau.

The Committee will meet again tomorrow morning.

This meeting, which was held in the Salle Wagram, was one of fifty demonstrations organized by the Federation in as many towns, with the object of protesting against total amnesty, the high cost of living, and other grievances.

Spanish Strike Settled.

Madrid, March 24. — A plan was agreed upon early today for the ending of the general strike on the Spanish railways, inaugurated yesterday. It was announced that after prolonged conferences between the Minister of Works and the representatives of the railway companies a solution had been reached, under which the wage demands of the men would be conceded.

The agreement provides for the government paying the companies for a period of one month the amount necessary for them to increase the wages of their employees. Meanwhile a definite solution will be sought of the companies' economic difficulties.

Ross, of Belfast, who spent much of his time in America, but who, the paper says, was never naturalized.

Sir Auckland and Lady Geddes were married in 1906 and have five children.

Pure Air is as Necessary as Pure Food

THE ENTERPRISE BLAZER FURNACE heats your home in Nature's way. It draws in the sweet pure air from the big outdoors, moistens it thoroughly, turns it into heat and comfort and passes it on to every corner of your home.

The best that base burners and radiators can do is to heat the air that is already in the house—that has been breathed again and again. Stoves choke the air with dust and in real cold weather they fall short of their job. Another reason for the is economy. For thirty-five years we have been learning how to take all the heat out of a piece of coal; and then how to make most use of it. The Enterprise Blazer is the result. And it costs a great deal less to install than a hot water boiler, pipes and radiators.

An Enterprise Blazer will wear for years and years. Every part is made a little better than it need be, and it carries the famous Enterprise guarantee of satisfaction. Get your dealer's advice and write us today for our free booklet "Warmth and Comfort".

RACING MANAGERS HERE TOMORROW

Little Change Expected in the Maritime and Maine Circuit Dates.

The Maritime & Maine Shortship Circuit executive will meet tomorrow afternoon at the Barker House, when it is expected that the harness racing plans for the 1920 season wil be completed.

There is every indication that the circuit will stand about the same as previously arranged here, opening at Houlton, Me., the week of July 5th and continuing until about October 1st, thus providing about thirteen weeks of continuous racing.

While the Fredericton Park Association's affairs have not been entirely straightened out, it was said today that representatives of the local track would attend the circuit meeting and that Fredericton's membership would be retained.

P. E. I. Racing Dates.

At the annual meeting of the P. E. Island Racing Association the dates for the Island circuit were approved of.

Charlottetown, open dates to June: Summerside, July 1; North Tryon, July 7; Kensington, July 14; Kinkora, July 21; Garfield, July 28; Montague, Aug. 11; New Annan, Aug. 18. All tracks will become members of the National Trotting Association. The classes most favored were 2.40 trot, 2.20 and 2.25 mixed. Records made previous to July 1st will not be a bar. There wil be a uniform admission fee of 50 cents as last year. Hammond Kelly was re-elected president, and Major D. A. McKinnon, secretary.

Record Ice Racing.

The Charlottetown Guardian in a recent issue says:

"Maritime ice trotting records went by the boards in four heats of class A trot and pace here yesterday afternoon on the harbor. A new course was laid out, carefully measured by a steel tape and there is no question as to its correct length. A favorable factor was the wind, which blew directly after the fleeing steeds.

"Commodore Cresceus won in 1.02, 1.02, 1.03. Don Bailey won the second and third heats in 1.02½, 1.01¾—a new record for Maritime trotters on the ice. Brenton H. was third and Helen R., who had a bad cut, was drawn after the first heat. CIRCUIT COURT AT ST. JOHN OPENS

No Bill Found in Case Against Petrie and Drew, Charged With Theft of Watches.

St. John, March 23.—A heavy docket of both criminal and civil cases was entered at the circuit court this morning. Judge Chandler presided. The annual docket is as follows:

Morris, charged with procuring abortion; the King vs. Ada Diamond, charged with theft; the King vs. Frederick Danville, charged with a statutory offence; the King vs. Albert Ritchie, charged with stealing cloth valued at $1,000; the King vs. Thomas Petrie and Geo. Drew, charged with stealing watches, cigarettes, etc., from the store of Sydney Isaccs, Mill street.

The grand jury retired on the cases of the King vs. Albert Ritchie and the King vs. Ada Diamond and the King vs. Thomas Petrie and Geo. Drew and found a true bill in the first two cases and no bill on the case against Petrie and Drew. The court adjourned to 2.30.

Ottawa, March 23.—Legislation now before Parliament, especially the proposed Franchise Act, was discussed at a caucus of Liberal members held today. The concensus of opinion was that the municipal and provincial lists should be used rather than a new Federal list, this stand being taken on the ground of economy as well as the fact that just prior to an election the work would have to be hurried. Economy in this and every other direction possible will be strongly urged by the followers of Mr. Mackenzie-King, it was stated.

He announced that new foreign capital brought to Italy to increase production would be exempt from taxation.

He was a tall, lusty, middle-aged man with a ruddy face, a brown forked beard shot with gray, and a broad Flanders hat set at the back of his head. His servant, as tall as himself, but gaunt and raw-boned, had swung the bales on the back of one mule, while the merchant mounted upon the other and rode to join the party. It was easy to see, as he approached, from the quality of his dress and the richness of his trappings, that he was a man of some wealth and position.

"Sir knight," said he, "my name is David Micheldene, and I am a burgher and alderman of the good town of Norwich where I live five doors from the church of Our Lady as all men know on the banks of Yare. I have here my bales of cloth which I carry to Cahors—woe worth the day that ever I started on such an errand! I crave your gracious protection upon the way for me my servant and my mercery; for I have already had many perilous passages and have now learned that Roger Club-foot, the robber-knight of Queroy, is out upon the road in front of me. I hereby agree to give you one rose-noble if you bring me safe to the inn of the 'Angel' in Cahors, the same to be repaid to me or my heirs if any harm come to me or my goods."

"By Saint Paul!" answered Sir Nigel, "I should be a sorry knight if I ask pay for standing by a countryman in a strange land. You may ride with me and welcome, Master Micheldene, and your varlet may follow with my archers."

"God's benison upon thy bounty!" cried the stranger. "Should you come to Norwich you may have cause to remember that you have been of service to Alderman Micheldene. It is not very far to Cahors, for surely I see the cathedral towers against the skyline; but I have heard much of this Roger Club-foot, and the more I hear the less do I wish to look upon his face. Oh, but I am sick and weary of it all, and I would give half that I am worth to see my good dame sitting in peace beside me, and to hear the bells of Norwich town."

"Your words are strange to me," quoth Sir Nigel, "for you have the appearance of a stout man, and I see that you wear a sword by your side."

"Yet it is not my trade," answered the merchant. "I doubt not that if I set you down in my shop at Norwich you might scarce tell fustian from falding and know little difference between the velvet of Genoa and the three-piled cloth of Bruges. There you might well turn to me for help. But here on a lone roadside, with thick woods and robber-knights, I turn to you, for it is the business to which you have been reared."

"There is sooth in what you say, Master Miheldene," said Sir Nigel, "and I trust that we may come upon this Roger Club-foot, for I have heard that he is a very stout and skilful soldier, and a man from whom much honor is to be gained."

"He is a bloody robber," said the trader, curtly, "and I wish I saw him kicking at the end of a halter."

"It is such men as he," Sir Nigel remarked, "who give the true knight honorable deeds to do, whereby he may advance himself."

"It is such men as he," retorted Micheldene, "who are like rats in a wheat-rick or moths in a woolfels, a harm and a hindrance to all peaceful and honest men."

"Yet, if the dangers of the road weigh so heavily upon you, master alderman, it is a great marvel to me that you should venture so far from home."

"And sometimes, sir knight, it is a marvel to myself. But I am a man who may grutch and grumble, but when I have set my face to do a thing I will not turn my back upon it until it be done. There is one, Francois Villet, at Cahors, who will send me wine-casks for my cloth-bales, so to Cahors I will go, though all the robber-knights of Christendom were to line the roads like yonder poplars."

"Stoutly spoken, master alderman! But how have you fared hitherto?"

"As a lamb 2 fares in a land of wolves. Five times we have had to beg and pray ere we could pass. Twice I have paid toll to the wardens of the road. Three times we have had to draw, and once at La Reolle we stood over our wool-bales, Watkin and I, and we laid about us for as long as a man might chant a litany, slaying one rogue and wounding two others. By God's coif! we are men of peace, but we are free English burghers, not to be mishandled either in our country or abroad. Neither lord, baron, knight, or commoner shall have as much as a strike of flax of mine whilst I have strength to wag this sword."

"And a passing strange sword it is, quoth Sir Nigel. "What make you, Alleyne, of these black lines which are drawn across the sheath?"

"I cannot tell what they are, my fair lord."

"Nor can I," said Ford.

The merchant chuckled to himself. "It was a thought of mine own," said he; "for the sword was made by Thomas Wilson, the armorer, who is betrothed to my second daughter Margery. Know then that the sheath is one cloth-yard, in length, marked off according to feet and inches to serve me as a measuring wand. It is also of the exact weight of two pounds, so that I may use it in the balance."

"By Saint Paul!" quoth Sir Nigel, "it is very clear to me that the sword is like thyself, good alderman, apt either for war or for peace. But I doubt not that even in England you have had much to suffer from the hands of robbers and outlaws."

"It was only last Lammastide, sir knight, that I was left for dead near Reading as I journeyed to Winchester fair. Yet I had the rogues up at the court of pie-powder, and they will harm no more peaceful traders."

"You travel much then!"

"To Winchester, Linn mart, Bristol fair, Stourbridge, and Bartholomew's in London Town. The rest of the year you may ever find me five doors from the church of Our Lady, where I would from my heart that I was at this moment, for there is no air like Norwich air, and no water like the Yare, nor can all the wines of France compare with the beer of old Sam Yelverton who keeps the 'Dun Cow. But, out and alack, here is an evil fruit which hangs upon this chestnut-tree!"

As he spoke they had ridden round a curve of the road and come upon a great tree which shot one strong brown branch across their path. From the centre of this branch there hung a man, with his head at a horrid slant to his body and his toes just touching the ground. He was naked save for a linen undershirt and a pair of woollen drawers. Beside him on a green bank there sat a small man with a solemn face, and a great bundle of papers of all colors thrusting forth from the scrip which lay beside him. He was very richly dressed, with furred robes, a scarlet hood, and wide hanging sleeves lined with flame-colored silk. A great gold chain hung round his neck, and rings glittered from every finger of his hands. On his lap he had a little pile of gold and silver, which he was dropping, coin by coin, into a plump pouch which hung from his girdle.

"May the saints be with you, good travellers!" he shouted, as the party rode up. "May the four Evangelists watch over you! May the twelve Apostles bear you up! May the blessed army of martyrs direct your feet and lead you to eternal bliss!"

"Gramercy for these good wishes!" sid Sir Nigel. "But I perceove, master alderman, that this man who hangs here is, by mark of foot, the very robber-knight of whom we have spoken. But there is a cartel pinned upon his breast, and I pray you, Alleyne, to read it to me."

(To be continued)

The Aristocrat of Phonographs

Chippendale

M35—Solid Mahogany or Black Walnut

WHY is it that one wearies of certain objects of art, however costly they may be—while others, even though lower in price, seem never to lose, but to enhance in charm with the years? Something surely! The reason is—true design and expert craftsmanship. While the novelty, or the nondescript design, dies young, the Period Designs have survived from the times of William and Mary, Queen Anne and Louis XVI. The

McLagan
Phonograph

Chippendale

M33—Solid Mahogany or Black Walnut

is an object of art as truly as an original Sheraton or Chippendale chair. The McLagan is rightly called the aristocrat of phonographs, for its designs are original interpretations of those true Period principles that have survived the centuries. Our cabinets are distinguished by wonderful precision and delicacy of workmanship in rich woods, finished in the most modern tints. Rare craftsmanship is evidenced by exactness in every joint, in highly-finished surfaces, as even as a mirror. The carvings are in real woods and are executed with unusual skill. They are decided departures from the commonplace in Period Designs. Make your selection from our many new versions.

As an instrument of musical reproduction, the McLagan has no superior. It is the Complete Phonograph which assures you lifelong satisfaction. The McLagan-Fletcher Reproducer, for example, ensures beauty and purity of tone impossible to attain in the ordinary reproducer. It eliminates all harsh metallic effects, giving a full round natural tone to both vocal and instrumental records. No details of orchestral accompaniment or low tones are lost. High notes are rendered with full purity and freedom from "blast." No adjustments are necessary.

The McLagan plays ALL disc records. It has an automatic stop—it has the most complete and convenient record filing system—it has every feature that can bring an instrument close to perfection—it is truly the aristocrat among phonographs.

Hear and inspect this splendid instrument. The McLagan dealer will gladly play your favorite grand opera, songs or orchestral numbers. Call on him.

WOOL PRODUCTION IN NEW BRUNSWICK WILL BE DOUBLED

Over 100,000 Pounds Expected to Be Sent Here for Grading in Month of June.

EXPECT PRICES WILL NOT BE REDUCED

Much of the New Brunswick Wool Likely to be Sold In Boston This Year.

Over 100,000 pounds of wool of all grades, about double the amount of last year's wool production, is expected to be marketed in New Brunswick during the month of June. Last year's prices per pound for wool averaged 67.2 cents, and the prices this year, it is expected, will be as high, if not higher.

The wool will arrive in this city between the first to the fifteenth of June and will be graded here at the grading station at the Exhibition building, being shipped direct from here to the manufacturers who bid for it through the Co-operative Wool Growers' Assocaition, Ltd., of Toronto. All bids made in Boston for wool are generally supplied through the stock of this province as the Boston manufacturers bid in the New Brunswick wool, which is of better class than the western wool and brings two cents a pound higher in the American market, while there is the additional benefit from exchange.

The Experimental Station in this city is one of the largest wool proudcers in the province, while E. W. Spinney, of Windsor, Carleton county, E. W. Wallace, of Penobsquis, Bernard Goodwin, of Baie Verte, and A. E. International Paper Plans For Grand Falls Development Are Announced Here Today

Will Expend Necessary $100,000 This Year to Retain Their Rights Under Existing Legislation, It Is Stated, But Carrying Out of Complete Development Under Present Condition is Not Sound —Work Which it Was Estimated Would Cost $3,000,000 Now Put Down at $9,000,000.

The International Paper Company have determined to expend the necessary $100,000 this year in the power development at Grand Falls to comply with the provisions of the Act of the New Brunswick Legislature and thus retain their rights for which they have already posted $60,000 with the Provincial Government.

A definite announcement to that effect was made this morning by a representative of the International interests, who is in Fredericton today, but as to how the money will be expended is not announced. "All I can say is that the necessary $100,000 will be expended this year," he declared. "It will be spent on genuine development work and not on camouflage or anything of that kind."

Would Cost $9,000,000.

While the International Paper Company are thus prepared to comply with the conditions necessary for the retention of their rights it is also declared that there is little likelihood of the complete development plans at the Grand Falls being proceeded with under present economic conditions. It is understood that engineers have advised that not less than $9,000,000 would be required to carry out the same development plans which a few years ago were estimated to cost $3,000,000. These figures come from one who is conversant with the situation and, it is further declared that at such a cost financiers do not look with favor upon the proposition. "It does not seem possible to carry out the complete development plans until economic conditions right themselves again and the extensive work can be done at reasonable costs," declared The Gleaner's informant.

The International Paper Company are said to have taken over the interests of the Van Horne estate in the Grand Falls power and the transfer of the Van Horne block of 122½ square miles of Crown Lands to the Dalhousie Lumber Company, a subsidiary of the International Paper Company, is said to be part of that transaction.

Heating Expert.

Mr. Eager, of the Dunham Heating Company, is here with headquarters at R. Chestnut & Sons, plumbing department, Phoenix Square. Mr. Eager is one of the best informed men in Canada on all problems pertaining to heating, his specialty being low pressure steam or vapor. At the present time he is here planning a new heating plant for R. Chestnut & Sons, Ltd., hardware store, Queen street. This plant will be one of the most modern in the city, boilers and fire-house being in the yard, isolated from the other buildings, so that there will not be any fire in any of the premises except fire room proper. R. Chestnut & Sons installed two low pressure steam jobs last fall—one in the Phoenix Apartments and the other in one of Fredericton's best homes (owner's name on request). This system of heating enables one to use Grand Lake or other soft coal at a much less cost, and boilers are much more easily fired than with hard coal. The systems installed have been most satisfactory the past winter and very economical. Anyone interested in having their heating problems looked into would do well to get in touch with Mr. Eager while here.

GERMAN GOVERNMENT AVERTS CRISIS

BOLSHEVIK START GREAT SPRING MOVE

Concentrated Attack Along the Polish Frontier With Full Strength of Soviet.

BRAVE RESISTANCE OF POLISH ARMY

The Red Forces Compelled to Retreat at Various Points Occupied Along Front.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Warsaw, March 25.—Bolshevik attacks have been launched against the Polish line at scattered points along a front of approximately 400 miles, and the long-planned spring attack by the Russian soviet armies apparently has been commenced.

While the Bolshevik have made small advances at some places, despite the desperate resistance of the Poles, the latter have been holding the enemy in check in most sections, say official statements. The Reds have been compelled to retreat from several newly acquired positions along the front, but fighting still continues, the soviet troops using heavy artillery, tanks, armored cars and other apparatus captured from General Denekine on the south Russian front.

Russia Overrun With Vermin.

The Hague, March 25.—A blockade against Russian vermin is suggested in the place of a commercial blockade by the correspondent of the Amsterdam Handelsblad, who has recently visited soviet Russia.

After telling of some experiences of his own with various varieties of the pests in a Russian dwelling, the correspondent says:

"I had with me soap, which the other occupants of this particular cottage looked upon with envy. The family had not seen soap for one year. I was told that in the Red army, at least at the Polish front, no measures were taken against vermin at all. The officers and men had become used to them long ago, and every one who was subject to the typhus had died of it already.

"And now cholera, plague and smallpox are threatening. Could all the nations not give their resources to establish a gigantic hygienic circle about this tremendous new Balkans into which a great part of Europe and Asia has already been changed."

DAYLIGHT SAVING IN NEW YORK STATE

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York, March 25.—The Board of Governors of the New York stock exchange yesterday voted to conform to the new state daylight saving law, which becomes effective next Sunday at 2 a. m. The financial district as a whole will accept the new time.

REGULATE CHILD LABOR IN QUEBEC

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Montreal, March 25.—Up to yesterday afternoon 636 children between 14 and 16, employed in factories, workshops, stores or other capacities, had been registered by the Labor Department of the province of Quebec under new regulations requiring a literacy test and evidence of age of employees between above ages.

Louisville, Ky., March 25.—Fifteen cases of sleeping sickness, three fatal, have been discovered in Louisville.

Declare a Truce With the German Workers Reached

Some Reports Indicate Fighting is Going on in Ruhr District

BASIS OF THE NEW AGREEMENT

Formation of Workmen's Army to Maintain Order in Land.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

The Hague, March 25.—Fighting in the Ruhr district of Germany where, it was understood a truce has been agreed to, has been resumed, according to the Telegraaf

Spartacan forces are nearing Wesel, the newspaper says, and a Muenster despatch to the Rotterdam Courant says the Red army's strength is now 120,000.

DUTCH GOVERNMENT GUARDING THE BORDER

Some reports from the frontier indicate that the workmen are bombarding Wesel with large calibre guns. The advices are conflicting, however, other reports declaring the situation is quiet.

The semi-official Netherlands correspondence bureau states that the Dutch Minister of War has been in conference with the army leaders with regard to the taking of precautions against the crossing of the frontier by German revolutionary troops or fugitives.

Agreement with Workmen.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, March 25.—The German Government has reached a definite agreement with the workmen in the Ruhr Valley, where the general strike has been paralyzing industry and where hostilities between soldiers and workers have been in progress for several days past, according to news reaching French semi official circles today from Berlin.

The basis of the agreement, the advices state, are as follows:

"The formation of a workmen's army, charged with maintaining order.

"The remodelling of the cabinet, with labor union participation.

"The disarmament of the troops which took part in the recent coup d'etat.

Administrative Reforms.

"The passage of laws for social reform and the carrying out of administrative reforms.

"The socialization of mines, particularly the coal mines and the potash workings.

"The dissolution of counter-revolutionary 'formation.'

"Improvement of the food supply system."

All the majority parties, it is declared, have accepted the conditions, under which the Government does not consider it will be necessary to form a new minstry, believing a few changes will suffice.

The despatches report the majority parties as of the belief that a new reactionary movement is not impossible. They point out that General Von Seecht has failed to disarm the Baltic troops, which are still concentrated a few miles from Berlin under the command of their former chiefs.

STRIKERS BACK AT WORK.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Madrid, March 25.—Virtually all the employees on the railroads resumed work late last night. There was a misunderstanding yesterday among the small portion of the extremists which led to a delay in the return of the men to work.

The Baltic Sailors Deposed Officers

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, March 25.—Naval units at Kiel on Tuesday deposed their officers and the officers of the Baltic station, as well as Rear Admiral Evers, the newly appointed chief of the station, according to advices from Berlin.

These posts they filled with deck hands and members of the republican officers' league. The units are taking orders from the civilian governor.

The Reconstructed German Cabinet

(Havas Agency despatch by Leased Wire.)

Paris, March 25.—An Amsterdam message quoting Berlin despatches to the Telegraaf says it is reported a new German cabinet has been formed with Gustav Bauer remaining as Premier and Dr. Schiffer as Vice-Premier.

Dr. Herman Mueller is said to have been again given the portfolio of Foreign Affairs, and Herr Gessler, mayor of Nuremburg, has been appointed Minister of National Defence. The other members of the cabinet are reported as follows:

Minister of the Interior—Herr Koch.

Minister of Finance—Captain Fisher Cuno.

Minister of Transportation—Herr Bell.

Minister of the Treasury—Herr Wolff.

Other portfolios, it is said, have been distributed among the socialists and democrats.

BAUER TO RETAIN THE PREMIERSHIP

Majority Socialists to Surrender Post of Minister of Defence to Democrats.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Berlin, March 25.—Conferences over the reconstruction of the cabinet took place yesterday and it was decided the Ebert ministry will not retire in a body, but merely be subjected to a "freshening up."

A leading democratic deputy declared that was really all required in view of the proximity of the new elections.

Definite announcement was made that the majority socialists would surrender the post of Minister of Defence to the democrats, as Philip Scheidemann's party is only too glad to dodge the uncomfortable assignment of overhauling the army.

Gustav Bauer will retain the Premiership, it is said, and the proposition for a labor cabinet has been definitely jettisoned, the majority socialists having succeeded in inducing other parties to oppose the scheme.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

The board's counsel in his opening statement said the interior of the steamer was virtually burned out. He drew attention to this, he declared, because of the burning at about the same time of a number of former German ships in ports of the United States.

Collections for the period of 1918 were approximately $1,200,000,000, the reduction this year being due to the lowering of the normal income tax rate.

Disavow Loyalty to England.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Quebec, March 25.—Lindsay Crawford, editor of the Toronto Statesman, addressed a meeting of some 1,500 Irishmen here last night on "Ireland," and the meeting passed a resolution "disavowing any loyalty to England as long as she keeps Ireland fettered, shackled and enthralled in bondage."

Mr. Crawford argued that the Irish question was bound up with the wider issue of imperial reconstruction, and that its solution must be found in the complete independence and sovereignty not only of Ireland, but of Canada and the other self-governing dominions.

The chairman of the meting then put the above mentioned resolution, which was passed without a dissentient voice. It also embodied the fact that "we rejoice with Eamonn de Valera that the Senate of the United States has adopted a reservation for Ireland, approving of her struggle for independence." The resolution further denounced in the strongest terms the poisoned propaganda of Canada, which colors and pollutes the very source of Irish news, by omitting or falsifying facts.

Budget Speech is Entirely Devoid Of Any Announcements of Importance

Hon. Robert Murray Read a Speech That Made House Weary

BONDED DEBT IS $53 PER HEAD

Crown Lands Valued at From $50,000,000 Up to $100,000,000.

Yesterday was Budget day in the Legislature, but it was far from being the occasion that the bringing down of the estimates used to be some years ago.

The Budget speech of the Hon. Robert Murray, Provincial Secretary Treasurer, was devoid of important announcements such as used to characterize the utterances of the incumbent of that leading position in the Government of the province.

About all that was new was contained in the printed statement of estimated revenue and expenditures, a comprehensive summary of which appeared in The Gleaner yesterday afternoon, while today the complete comparative statement is published herewith. Speakers in the debate on the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne had declared that a revenue of $3,000,000 was necessary for New Brunswick to get along, but evidently the Government believe they will be able to worry along on half a million less.

The Provincial Secretary Treasurer took the same ground that other speakers for the Government have taken in respect to the deficit of $327,000 on the past year's operations, declaring it was necessary to spend the money to meet the demands of the people and that the money was honestly expended in the public interests. Only a comparatively small portion of the two hours which it took Hon. Mr. Murray to deliver his budget speech was spent in detailing the estimates which he presented. He had a long speech which he read dealing with the general political situation in the province from the standpoint of the Government and in which he interjected remarks which added something to what seemed a more or less wearisome undertaking.

Debt is $53 a Head.

At the outset after referring to the world trade situation, the Provincial Secretary Treasurer referred to the bonded debt, which he showed amounted to $18,585,759, or equal to $53 per head of the population, according to the last census, while the average interest rate, he figured, was 4.42½ per cent. He then told of the bond selling transactions of the past year, the details of which had already been given to the House by the Premier in the previous debate and then he dealt with the total capital liability of the province, which he fixed on Oct. 31st, 1919, as $20,563,763.24, a net increase during the year of $1,911,026.31.

That increase had been made up as follows: Permanent bridges, $544,908.73, permanent roads, $990,891.17; O'Connor property purchase, $7,000; smallpox, etc., $20,503.47; St. John & Quebec Railway, $458,839.49, making a total of $2,022,142.86. Deducting from this the sum of $111,116.55, representing bonds redeemed and decrease in cash available from bond issues, and the total was $1,911,026.31. The amount of the debt was offset by tangible liabilities possessed by the province to the value of $60,870,383.48. Included in that was the sum of $529,299.39 on deposit at Ottawa, St. John & Quebec Railway investment, $6,947,423.66, public buildings valued at $500,000, and Crown lands estimated to be worth at least $50,000,000. The total available assets over liabilities amounted to $40,306,620.24. He had not included the amount which the province had invested in permanent roads and bridges or in railway subsidies. While he had put the Crown lands down at $50,000,000, he was told not long ago by a gentleman familiar with the matter that a valuation of $100,000,000 would not be beyond the mark. The increase in the debt had been caused by expenditures on necessary public services. Nobody would deny that it had been necessary to complete the Valley Railway to Westfield in order to give passenger and freight transportation to an important section of the province.

Permanent Roads Expenditures.

The expenditures on permanent roads had been criticised as extravagant, but if hon. members knew wherein money had been improperly expended it was their duty to place the facts before the House. It could not be denied that the roads had been greatly improved under the permanent road policy of the Government. The people demanded good roads and they were getting them. He was pleased to say that the motor vehicle fees capitalized for twenty years were sufficient to liquidate all the interest and principal on an expenditure of $2,070,000 to date. Further expenditure would be made under the federal aid scheme by which $80,000 per year is to be expended in each of the nine provinces for five years. New Brunswick's share would be $240,000, which would entail an expenditure on the part of the province of $360,000 per year.

Permanent bridges were responsible for much of the increased debt.

Continuing, he said that the sum of $20,572 being aid granted to municipalities in conection with smallpox and influenza, would be liquidated by the issuance of serial bonds payable yearly. The sinking fund investment amounts to $1,078,173.51 and was being administered by the Government in a most careful manner. During the past year modern safety appliances had been installed in his department for the protection of trust funds. Such funds were now under the joint control of the Deputy Provincial Treasurer and the Comptroller General, and one could not attain access to them without the presence of the other. It was pleasing to note that the guaranteed bonds of the province had during the year been liquidated to the extent of $896,000 by the retirement of bonds guaranteed for the International Railway. No bond guarantees had been given by the present administration during its term of office. Loans under the Housing Act had totalled $230,000, which sum had been loaned to cities, towns and municipalities for twenty years at five per cent. The people seemed to be backward in taking advantage of the easy terms on which that money was obtainable. One of the reasons given was that the cost of labor and materials were very high at the present time. The tendency now in prices of materials were upwards, and he would advise those who intended to build to take advantage of the easy terms under the Housing Act and do so at once.

The Patriotic Fund Tax.

Reference had been made at various times, he said to the sum of $118,000 of the patriotic fund tax which it was claimed was put on as a direct tax. The exact sum was $118,896.03 assessed for other patriotic and war purposes. That amount had been appropriated as follows: In 1918, $32,033.25, which was made up as follows: Interest on potato contribution to Imperial Government and Belgian relief, bond issue of $120,000, $6,000; Halifax relief grant, $10,000; Halifax relief public works, $1,003; grant to returned soldiers' commission, $3,000; grant G. W. V. A., $4,000; food controller, $1,625; guard duty at Parliament buildings, $3,375.25; guard duty at Reversing Falls bridge, $3,050. In 1919, $11,700, which was made up as follows: Interest on potato contribution, $6,000;; grant to returned soldiers commission, $3,700; grant to returned soldiers' reception committee, $1,000; employment bureau, $1,000. The total expenditure in 1918 and 1919 was $43,733.25, leaving a balance of $75,162.78, which is to be applied for the following purposes: Interest for six years, from 1920 to 1925, on potato contribution issue at $6,000 per year, $36,000; sinking fund, six years, 1920 to 1925, on potato contribution, bond issue, $6,527.13 per year, $39,162.78.

The old feud between the present Provincial Secretary-Treasurer and the former Minister of Public Works, Hon. John Morrissy, is evidently not all over yet, for Hon. Mr. Murray made quite a point on the failure of Hon. Mr. Morrissy to carry out his promise when Minister to rebuild the Victoria bridge in the parish of Hardwick, Northumberland county. This bridge, he said, had been left for this Government to build at the greatly increased prices which now prevail.

Sarcastic Attack on Mr. Peck.

That it must have been in an "isolated and private" case some time after the bonds were publicly sold that New Brunswick bonds which had been disposed of at 96 had been re-sold at 106, was Hon. Mr. Murray's reply to the charges of Mr. Peck, of Albert, regarding the sale of bonds in February, 1908, on which he had intimated "somebody cleaned up $100,000. He expressed the opinion that Mr. Peck, whom he sarcastically referred to as a "wizard of finance," had been having a dream and declared that the member for Albert didn't know anything more about finance "than a goose does about geometry."

Hon. Mr. Murray attacked the C. P. R. and the Federal Government for being responsible for immigrants being taken from the Maritime Provinces to the West and said that New Brunswick was being accorded "niggardly treatment" by the Federal Government in the matter of financial assistance. "What do you suggest?" interjected Mr. Magee, who, for a chief Government whip seems to be getting a bad habit of interrupting Government speakers. Mr. Murray said an increased per capita and the government allowance were his suggestions.

The Provincial Secretary-Treasurer wound up by reading a great array of figures, which had everybody dizzy, the gist of which happened to be that the value of field crops in New Brunswick last year was $52,688,000, while the total value of live stock in the province was $27,429,698.

Mr. Tilley, of St. John city, then moved the adjournment of the debate.

IMPROVEMENT IN CANADIAN DOLLAR

Sale of Lands Held in Virginia by Canadians for $25,000,000 Affected Exchange.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Toronto, March 24.—A partial explanation of the sudden improvement in Canadian exchange is offered by insiders who atribute its origin to the American purchase of a great United States property owned by Canadians. A property of 100,000 acres of Virginia timber and ore lands was bequeathed to the widow, three daughters and two sons of the late Hon. Peter McLaurin, of Perth, Ont., a member of the Canadian Senate. Senator McLaurin died in May, 1919, and the estate was probated a $1,000,000. Baltimore interests are now completing or have completed negotiations for the purchase of the McLaurin property. The authority in the negotiations is the New York office of J. Pierpont Morgan. The price mentioned in the deal is between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000 cash.

Estimating the purchase price at $25,000,000 the drop in exchange today, which is attributed to the heavy offerings of the United States funds concerned here in fairly dull market will mean a loss of alomst three millions in Canadian funds to the McLaurin estate as compared with the ruling rate a month ago today.

It is doubtful whether the deal will have a permanent effect on the exchange situation for it must be remembered that Canadian funds running into the hundreds of millions are understood to have accumulated here for United States accounts as a result of Canadian dollar discounts.

THE GOVERNMENT CAUCUS YESTERDAY

Ottawa, March 24.—A full dress government caucus upon the Franchise bill, the Naval question and the problem of reducing the deficit in the Post Office Department was held this morning, and some fairly plain talking was indulged in. From what can be gathered, definite decisions were reached on neither question, but the Ministers responsible for their solution and carrying out went to lunch afterward with a new prospective and probably some new ideas.

IF YOUR EARS RING WITH HEAD NOISES

If you have roaring, buzzing noises in your ears, are getting hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¾ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal trouble of the ears, is hard of hearing or has head noises should give this prescription a trial.

SENATOR M'KNIGHT ABOUT TO RETIRE

New Brunswicker in Massachusetts Senate Decides to Quit Politics in June.

Hon. Ewin T. McKnight, president of the Massachusetts State Senate, announces his retirement from politics at the end of the present legislative session in June. President McKnight is a native of Kings County and a graduate of the university of New Brunswick. He is a Senator from the Medford, Mass., district and besides having a law office in Boston is interested in a number of banks and trust companies.

Mr. McKnight has been prominently mentioned as a candidate later on for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant-Governor. His retirement will not prevent him from being a delegate to the Republican national convention in June from his congressional district.

It is understood that Percy A. Guthrie, formerly member of the Legislature from York, and Lieutenant Colonel of the McLean Kilties, is associate with Mr. McKnight in business, being a director of the bank of which Senator McKnight is President.

VETERANS FAVOR A CASH GRATUITY

Norman P. McLeod Nominated for Position on Executive for New Brunswick.

Montreal, March 24.—The prolonging of the re-establishment debate which took up practically the whole of today's meeting of the Dominion Great War Veterans' Association sidetracked the motion for adjournment of the convention to Ottawa.

Discussion on the Calgary cash bonus plan was continued until late in the afternoon when it was cut short by the nominations of officers. Discussion tended to show that all delegates favor further re-establishment and most of them in the form of a cash gratuity. Nominations for office of president of the Dominion G. W. V. A. for the year following the close of the present convention were then put in. These were Dr. A. Mackenzie Forbes, of Montreal; Canon F. Scott, of Quebec; R. B. Maxwell, of Manitoba; M. Davidson, of Ontario, and C. E. Jenkins, of Ontario.

Dominion executive nominations were: C. Elliott, British Columbia; T. Bagne, Alberta; A. C. Mills, Saskatchewan; C. E. Jenkins, Ontario; C. W. Whitman, Nova Scotia; N. P. McLeod, New Brunswick, and Cyrus Macmillin, Prince Edward Island. Quebec has not yet named its caididate; his choice being Dr. Forbes, who is already nominated as candidate for the presidency.

A MAGISTRATE'S VIEWS ON KISSING

Woodstock Girl Charged That Man Had Kissed Her on Two Occasions.

Woodstock, N. B., March 24.—Miss Bird, aged 15 years, daughter of Mrs. Moses Bird, of Upper Woodstock, is at the hospital dangerously injured while sliding down the Allan Good hill with a large party of young people. The ribs were torn from her backbone. Inquiries at the hospital today brought forth the response that she is still living.

A case came to Police Magistrate Camben yesterday, in which a young girl of the town charged a popular Woodstock young man with assault, he having gone so far as to kiss her on two occasions. The police magistrate dismissed the case, having in mind no doubt a decision of Judge Carleton, rendered some time ago, that a kiss is not an assault when followed by an apology, but if the fair maiden protests and the kiss is repeated it should be entered under the charge of common assault, and that a kiss mutually agreed upon seemed to be perfectly proper from the standpoint of the court.

Gordon Ball, of Oakville, son of Mrs. Ada Ball, got jammed in a hay press last week and both legs were badly injured, it being necessary to amputate one foot at the Fisher Memorial Hospital yesterday.

SAYS PROHIBITION APPALLING EVIL

Boston, March 24.—Professor Stephen Leacock of McGill University had a long letter yesterday in the Times in which he discusses "the appalling disaster" which has overtaken the United States and Canada in prohibition. He spoke of the prohibitionist as now having entered into his kingdom, and claims that his enjoyment is merely the joy of persecuting his fellow men. He further warns England that a similar crusade is coming to England and says:

"The most serious warning is needed for the decent British people of any class who may be thinking of migrating to the United States and to the dry provinces of Canada. They will reap nothing but bitter regrets. Let them come instead to the spacious and hospitable province of Quebec."

Hard and Awfully Sore. Itched. Cuticura Heals.

"I had never had a pimple and then my face became covered. Later on the pimples became hard and awfully sore, and they itched so that I could not rest one moment. I had to scratch so that at last I thought my face was poisoned.

"I was advised to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and after using them three weeks I was healed." (Signed) Miss Edith Grover, West Oldtown, Me., Dec. 16, 1918.

THE PROVINCIAL BUDGET.

The budget speech of the Hon. Robert Murray was not disappointing; it was very commonplace. The figures with which Mr. Murray struggled were, in some instances, interesting; if anything, more interesting than the figures and comparisons of last year. The accounts of 1919, to which he made frequent reference yesterday, carried the certificate of the chartered accountants. The statement of the accounts of 1918 which he sought to explain last year was a misrepresentation, not a statement which the chartered accountants would certify; and his comparisons and what he sought to have accepted as explanations were therefore valueless. But if at times interesting, when not confused and mazed, Mr. Murray, in his yesterday's statement of figures, certainly did not rise above the level of the Government in suggestion, in expression of thought and in retort, for throughout he maintained the attitude and demeanor of a town councillor; he was painfully childish in his notions and quite crude in speech.

The estimates, which do not show evidence of care in the preparation, aim at a revenue for 1920 of $2,829,483.16. The expenditure is put at $2,497,712.64. This, if maintained, will give a surplus of $331,771.52. But the estimates of last year, which placed the revenue at $2,064,230.19 and the expenditure at $2,071,622.59, worked out quite unfortunately; for, as a matter of fact, the revenue totalled $2,168,822.40 and the expenditure $2,496,508.62, making a deficit of $327,686.22. The element of uncertainty yet exists, for there is no evidence that the Government is better equipped this year in knowledge and judgment. It does not appear that experience has assisted it in public service.

The details are somewhat interesting. It is proposed, for instance, to spend $72,381.51 on agriculture, which amount is an increase of $12,273.17; but from this appropriation $7,416.18 go to salaries of the Minister of Agriculture, his secretary, clerks and stenographers, $2,070.00 to travelling expenses, $2,500 to contingencies of office, $1,000 for insurance and (peculiarly) miscellaneous — about $13,000 for office expenses. This would leave, in round figures, about $60,000 for practical service; and as the Dominion grant to aid agriculture in New Brunswick is in the vicinity of $64,000, we have the suggestion of an anomaly in this province which is likely to have results not beneficial.

A large source of revenue is that from motor vehicle fees, estimated this year at $185,000. Whether this figure will be realized, the future will determine; but of the amount collected under this head all but $12,500, to be paid on account of administration and salaries, will go into sinking funds in conformity with the arrangements under which money is borrowed to meet what is called the Durable Road expenditures, and for this purpose very large sums have been borrowed; and apparently another big loan is now on the way.

The Public Health Department figures quite conspicuously in the paying out column. The total runs to $30,985.00 Of this, $2,150 is set aside for expenses at St. John. The Minister of Public Health has very graciously volunteered to act without salary, but this $2,150 expenses at St. John, where he resides—just about the figure of other Minister's salaries—together with $4,000 travelling expenses and $5,725 miscellaneous expenses, would seem to indicate that position and responsibility without salary is not an economical arrangement; and while the large costs of this department are paid by the people through the process of direct taxation, economy, consistent with useful and effective service, should be prudently practiced.

The interest account has attained great proportions, having reached the $570,000 mark.

The Provincial Secretary-Treasurer, and no doubt also his colleagues in the Government, expect that the revenue from stumpage will this year be at least $1,200,000. Last year the revenue from this source was $575,617.83. The estimate this year is based on the $3 a thousand rate for fir and $3.50 for spruce. The receipts of last year were on the basis of $2.00 for fir and $2.50 for spruce. It is not denied that the market value of stumpage this year is at least $10 a thousand. But fix the price at the figure named by the Hon. Jas. A. Murray in his amendment, $7 a thousand, as a rate he would establish; and the revenue this year from stumpage alone would be in the vicinity of $2,400,000 instead of the $1,200,000 as estimated by the lumbermen's Government. The Government were well aware on the first of August last, when the leases were renewed, of the market value of stumpage. It was competent for it then and before to fix a rate in keeping with market value. If the public interests had been uppermost, the Government would have fixed the rate accordingly. What influence dominated, if not the influence of the lumbermen? And why should this province suffer a loss of at least $1,200,000 in revenue in one year merely to please and gratify the lumbermen, or to keep in power and in the enjoyment of the emoluments of office a Government which is under the domination of the lumbering interests?

THE U. N. B. MEMORIAL.

The claim that has been made to the Government of the province for a special grant to aid in the erection of a memorial building on the University grounds, in honor of the University of New Brunswick boys who served in the war, and particularly of those who laid down their lives for the great Cause, should have the backing of the thinking public. The University of New Brunswick is a provincial institution, the acme, as it were, of the public school system. One looks forward to the time when any bright lad in the province, howsoever poor his financial resources, may be enabled to take the course; that he will not have to say, "I can't afford to go to college." Even now, with the long vacations in which a young man of energy may earn money to help him through, with the many scholarships and the moderate fees, a boy economically inclined can realize his degree without great monetary sacrifice. As time passes it is to be hoped the conditions will be made even easier. And the public should back up the U. N. B. It is practically the only non-sectarian institution of higher learning in the Maritime Provinces; and it is non-sectarian in the best sense of the word. Students who enter with narrow views should emerge, after the four years' course, broadminded.

The claim for assistance for the Memorial is further well grounded. Every now and then the authorities who hold control over the excellent religious colleges of the provinces make appeals to the laity of their churches for support. Drives are organized, and there is always a ready response. Moreover, benefactions are more frequently given to the denominational colleges. Men, perhaps, more naturally are moved to leave a part of their wealth, or to donate it while they live, to an institution that typifies their respective religious beliefs Nor is this to be wondered at or to be looked upon as a matter of regret. As a state or provincial institution, the U. N. B. has been rather singularly free of the obtrusion upon it of gifts of this nature. It may, then, naturally look for support from the province at large; and in the past, looking for such support, it has not been disappointed. We trust that its appeal in the matter of the Memorial building will result in sympathetic action.

Manfully and nobly did the youth—yes, and graduates past youth, too—respond to the call to arms, and the college has not to hide its old gray head behind the surrounding trees for reason of any lack of courage or self-sacrifice of its graduates and students. New Brunswick's status in the Great War is greatly enhanced by the valorous deeds of the lads "who took the "khaki and the gun, instead of cap "and gown," many of whom will never return. With a reasonable grant from the province, augmented by private contributions, such a building should be erected which will be both a worthy memorial to the living and the dead who volunteered in the Great War, and of substantial assistance in making the University of New Brunswick of greater service than ever—in its long and honored history,—in the cause of educational development and advancement.

RESTORATION OF EBERT.

President Ebert is back in Berlin. His rulership is once again acknowledged through a great part of Germany; very likely his forces will put down the Red local risings in the course of a few days and a surface of peace and order will be restored to the country.

It looks, however, as if this victory were going to be a dearly bought one. Ebert appears to have been obliged to barter away almost everything that made his regime respectable in order to win it. After it is won it is a grave question whether he will retain any real power or whether he will not be the puppet of elements much stronger than himself and as dangerous to the future of the country and of Europe as they are strong.

Assuredly labor has the bit in its teeth for the time being. It has gained a new sense of power from the part which Kapp's insurrection enabled it to take in upholding the form of settled government. It has used its new courage and Ebert's dependence on it to compel political and economic concessions which may, if fully realized make it the radical master of Germany's destiny until its programme is tried out and experience creates a fresh revolution in public opinion.

To what extent Ebert and his associates will be able to control the elated labor hosts, to hold their "reforms" within limits of safety and moderation remains to be seen. The manner in which he has yielded in the existing crisis is not encouraging. It compels the belief that Socialism with its various allied forces is very much in the saddle and that the far advanced groups are those which ride the rising wave, despite the suppression of the extremists who are always ready for bloodshed.

Plainly the future of Germany will depend on whether the coming elections—probably to be held in June—can be conducted in such a way as to bring out a real expression of nation-feeling as distinguished from the selfish impulse of a class or group. There is already talk of the "middle classes" of the population asserting themselves. In Germany, as everywhere else, these are really the most numerous section of the people and, if they can be induced to act in concert they are always the safest. They are opposed to all extremes. In the case of Germany reaction and radicalism are presumably distasteful to them in equal degree.

It would seem as if the fears and the interests of this enormous body of voters would compel them to take an energetic stand in the reorganization of the country. Their intervention in the choice of executive heads of the Government and even more in the election of the new Reichstag might easily be the determining factor. It should naturally be opposed to all imperialism and militarism on the one hand and to wild schemes of nationalization of industry and legislation in the exclusive interest of a class, on the other.

Hope will be entertained by all friends of Germany and by lovers of peace and order generally, throughout Europe, that this great force of moderation may rally for the preservation of true democratic ideals of freedom, property and right. The best value in the success of Ebert and his Government is that they may be able to prevent all violence for a few months and so protect the machinery of election that an honest result, one which expresses the will of all the people, may be made possible.

NO BRITISH PLAN TO STARVE MINERS

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, March 25.—Premier Lloyd-George invited the executive of the miners' union to meet him this morning to discuss the wage question. The miners' delegates, who have been in conference here, adjourned until 4 o'clock this afternoon, when it is expected they will receive a report of the interview.

The War Office today denied that any plan of action had been decided upon, or even considered, to starve the miners into submission in the event of a strike, by the use of the army as a blockading force, as reported by the London Daily Herald, the labor organ, this morning. A statement is being prepared by the war office, which probably will be issued tonight, it was announced.

The Stock Market

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York (Wall Street) March 25—The stock market reflected at the opening of today's session some of the restraint imposed by yesterday's flurry in call money. For the most part changes were fractional and irregular, but General Motors gave promise of repeating its recent sensational movement at an early gain of nine points. Some of the other motors' shares and allied specialties were strong, also Oils, while Crucible Steel and Baldwin Locomotive featured the firmer steels and equipments. A small lot of Standard Oil of New Jersey which made its first appearance on the stock exchange sold at 850, three points over yesterday's closing price on the curb.

THE LIGHTER SIDE OF LIFE

Not Very Flattering.

While the minister was making a call the little girl of the house was busy with pencil and paper. "What are you doing?" he asked, when her mother had left the room for a moment. "I'm making your picture," said the child. The minister sat very still, and she worked away earnestly. Then she stopped and compared her work with the original and shook her head, "I don't like it much," she said. "Tain't a great deal like you. I guess I'll put a tail to it and call it a dog."

FROM THE PEOPLE

OLD GRAMMAR GOOD ENOUGH.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—In a newspaper which I take I see that a correspondent makes the astonishing statement that: "The usual definition of grammar as the art of writing and speaking correctly is an error which should have been long ago exploded." He then proceeds to advise us that "grammar is the analysis of language, and this analysis will be good or bad, just as the capacity employed upon it is strong or weak." He is bold indeed, who would "explode" the error of Johnson, i. e., "Grammar is the art of true and well speaking a language."

The correspondent to whom I refer seems to have placed the "cart before the horse." Had he written that the analysis of language produced grammar he would find himself in accord with Bacon, to wit: "Concerning speech and words, the consideration of them hath produced the science of grammar." The Century Dictionary defines analysis as "The resolution or separation of anything which is compound . . . into its constituent elements or into its causes." Does that analysis of language give us grammar? Perhaps he meant to use the world synthesis instead of analysis.

I am afraid that unless some grammarian will furnish a more up-to-date definition of good and bad grammar I shall have to worry along with the time worn interpretation of such men as Webster, Worcester, Johnson, et al.

Yours,

THE MIRACLE OF LOVE.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Please print this in your From the People's column to be read, I hope, by your correspondent who is sceptical about the love of man and woman. He says: "We are put on this earth to better it, to develop it, to accomplish some good which will benefit humanity." This is true, but it is also true that love will strengthen our desire to accomplish and will develop us so we are better able to attain the results of which he speaks. Only that affection which enriches the character, dignifies the life and deepens all the finer qualities which make for a nobler manhood and womanhood is worthy of the name of love.

When you find it you may have to sacrifice some merely personal ambition for accomplishment. Most of us do. But you and she will step forth hand in hand, with heads erect and hearts made stronger by reason of the miracle which has been wrought in you. Year by year love will help you to become better in our own lives and so, not only to help beautify the lives of others, but to accomplish more, for the sake of each other and "to benefit humanity."

Yours,
A MOTHER OF BABIES.

St. Stephen, March 22, 1920.

SOLDIERS LACK OF UNITY.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—When the first returned soldiers' association was formed, we had hopes of seeing the returned soldiers combine in one fraternal fellowship, with picked leaders of undoubted integrity, and that their aims would be directed toward succoring the destitute through the war, including the cripples, the blind, the gassed and the widows, orphans, and all those whose condition had been altered for the worse.

But what do we see? Rival associations, angry members, office-seekers, soviet propaganda inserted at every point, with many leaders whose time is more than taken up in refuting and making charges than in trying to help the sufferers through the war.

If there is money to grant, then, in humanity's name, give it to the ones who have lost sons, fathers, limbs, eyesight and health, not to the lucky ones who have got back home in full health and strength.

Yours,
SOLDIER.

ORIENTAL people suffer greatly from diseases of the eye.

TWENTY years ago—Dr. Wille, a most eminent Danish oculist, gave up all the honors and financial rewards of his European reputation to join this Organization, and consecrate his life and skill to the eye-afflicted people of Java and other Oriental countries.

HIS labors have been wonderfully crowned for they have enabled the Salvation Army to spread the knowledge of Christ in places and among peoples that were in outer darkness literally and spiritually.

TWO MILLION DOLLARS WORTH NEW BRIDGES

Bill to Fund $650,000 Before Legislature and $1,418,000 Now "Advocated."

PUBLIC WORKS BILLS BEFORE THE COMMITTEE

Measure Providing for the Funding of Motor Tax is Held Up.

Hon. P. J. Veniot, Minister of Public Works, told the Legislature yesterday that there are some ninety highway bridges now under construction in New Brunswick or which it is proposed to construct this year, in explaining a bill for funding $650,000, for the purpose. He also said he had a list of 86 more bridges, the construction of which had been "advocated" at an estimated cost of $1,418,000 and which, he said, must be built in the next three years.

The House heard its first reports of anticipated damage from spring freshets, when Mr. Sutton, of Carleton, said that the so-called Red Bridge, near Woodstock, was in danger of being carried away by the waters of the Meduxnikik backing up from a dam when the break-up, which is now impending, occurs.

The bill regarding bridges was one of three respecting public works, all of a controversial character, which came before the committee of the whole House during the latter part of the afternoon and in the evening. The one relating to bridges was the only one disposed of, however, as the one providing for the funding of motor vehicle fees was suddenly brought to a halt by Opposition objections—the Government not finding a safe majority in the committee—while the third bill, which had to do with the construction and improvement of highways under Federal aid, was allowed to stand over without being opened for discussion.

Mr. Sweeney was in the chair and there were fourteen Opposition and only twelve Government supporters in their seats, not including any pairs.

Mr. Sutton introduced a bill relating to the estate of the late Lewis P. Fisher, of Woodstock.

Mr. Young introduced a bill relating to the Town of Marysville.

Mr. Dysart introduced a bill relating to the New Brunswick Power Company.

Hon. Mr. Smith introduced a bill to amend the act respecting the manufacture of spruce and pulp wood on the Crown Lands. He explained that under the bill it was proposed to increase the charge on Crown Lands being transferred from $4 to $20 per square mile. Under the bill a fee of $1 would be charged when a license was transferred.

Hon. Mr. Veniot introduced a bill authorizing the Town of Bathurst to issue debentures.

Mr. Guptill introduced a bill to incorporate the Grand Manan Light and Power Company.

Hon. Mr. Dugal introduced a bill relating to the Notre Dame Lumber Company.

Hon. Mr. Murray introduced a bill to authorize the Town of Chatham to issue debentures.

Mr. Grimmer introduced bills authorizing the Town of St. Stephen to issue further debentures in aid of a shoe factory and to further provide for the construction of street pavements.

Mr. Campbell introduced a bill to provide for an association of professional engineers for New Brunswick.

Hon. Mr. Murray, by commaand of the Lieutenant-Governor, laid on the table a statement of revenue and expenditure from November 1st, 1919, to March 11, 1920.

Mr. McGrath gave notice that on Saturday he would move for the suspension of rule to permit of the introduction of a bill relating to the Miramichi Hospital.

Mr. Baxter presented a petition of the Grand Masonic Lodge Corporation.

Hon. Mr. Veniot asked for a leave of absence for Mr. Robichaud until Thursday of next week.

The House went into committee with Mr. Leger, Westmorland, in the chair and took up consideration of a bill to repeal several Acts providing for repair of streets and sidewalks in the district known as Upper District, in the parish of Woodstock.

Hon. Mr. Veniot said the people of this district, after being for some years practically a portion of the Town of Woodstock as far as streets were concerned, desired to come under the Highway Act.

Mr. Sutton said the people of the district were all willing that a change be made. He asked the Hon. Minister of Public Works if a supervisor for the district had not been apointed in 1919 and considerable work done there by the department.

Hon. Mr. Veniot said not to his knowledge, but he could not say that there had not been encroachment on the district by employees of the department.

Bill for Permanent Bridges.

The committee took up consideration of the bill to make further provision for permanent bridges and works of a permanent character.

Hon. Mr. Veniot said the bill was along the line of replacing structures with permanent work. This bill provided for funding an expenditure for some $650,000. Since the close of the fiscal year $150,000 had been expended under contract, $235,000 was required to complete the work, and $265,000 was required over and above these amounts. He had a list of ninety bridges which should be reconstructed at cost varying from $700 to $50,000. The first named amount looked small, but the department had adopted a policy of installing permanent concrete arch culverts with rock and earth filled approaches in the place of small wooden bridges of fifteen to twenty foot span. There was a double object in this, for forty per cent. federal aid could be obtained for culverts of this kind on main trunk roads. Surveys had brought to his attention a state of affairs which the province must face within a year or two; he had a list of 86 bridges needing reconstruction at an estimated cost of $1,418,000. These structures could not be left as they were, but must be dealt with within three years at the outside.

Mr. Murray (Kings) asked if the total of $650,000 included the amount of $138,000 shown as liability October 31st, 1919.

Hon. Mr. Veniot said he would get the information.

Mr. Sutton asked if the Red bridge, parish of Richmond, Carleton county, was included in the list, as it was in a dangerous condition.

Hon. Mr. Veniot said it was included in contemplated work for 1919, although the contract had not yet been let.

Mr. Sutton asked if Mill Creek bridge in the same parish were included.

Hon. Mr. Veniot said he would look the matter up.

Mr. Young said it was important to know what bridges were to be constructed and where. A list of them might be published.

Hon. Mr. Veniot said the list was too long for publication, but he might have county lists prepared which would be available for members of the House.

The bills were reported by the committee.

The House adjourned at six o'clock to resume at eight o'clock.

The Evening Session.

Upon resuming at 8.30 the House went into committee with Mr. Sweeney in the chair and took up consideration of a bill to fix the rate of interest on provincial debentures authorized by Act of Assembly.

Hon. Mr. Foster explained that the object of the bill was to confirm the rate of interest on refunding bonds issued at 5½ per cent. The bonds had been sold to replace an issue of $2,200,000 made by the old Government at 5 per cent.

The bill was agreed to.

A bill to provide for the funding of motor vehicles fees was then taken up.

Hon. Mr. Veniot explained that the bill provided for the refunding of $920,000 expended in 1919 and classified by the engineers as permanent highways. He said that the auto license fund had provided sufficient to pay the interest and sinking fund on all permanent road expenditures made since 1916. The bill provided for the funding annually by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council of all motor fees accruing after the present year. They would do that to avoid the necessity of coming to the Legislature each year. Under the arrangement made with the Federal authorities the auto fees fund would in future be devoted to semi-trunk roads, other than those receiving Federal aid.

Mr. Tilley wanted to know if the sinking fund provided was sufficient to wipe out the liability when the bonds matured.

Hon. Mr. Veniot said that the sinking fund would liquidate the capital expenditure at the expiration of 20 years from the date the bonds were issued.

Mr. Smith (Carleton) wanted to know if the engineers had classified all the roads as permanent.

Hon. Mr. Veniot said that they had been classified as suitable to be paid for out of permanent road funds.

Mr. Smith (Carleton) objected to the section which provided for the funding of the auto fees each year by Order-in-Council. He regarded it as dangerous to grant such power.

Hon. Mr. Veniot said that while all of the work performed last season might not have been of a permanent character, yet three-quarters of it had been done with the understanding that the Federal Government would pay its share of the cost on progress estimates, the work had not all been completed, but had been classified for continuance in 1920. For that reason it might be said that the work was not all of a permanent character. When completed in 1920 it would be inspected by a Federal Government engineers.

Mr. Smith (Carleton) wanted to know if the work had been inspected by Dominion Government engineers so far as completed.

Hon. Mr. Veniot replied that so far there had been no chance for inspection in the year 1920, but the work would be inspected when completed and paid for by the Dominion Government.

Mr. Smith (Carleton) said there was no assurance that the Dominion Government would pass the work or classify the work as permanent, yet the House was asked to vote the money.

Hon. Mr. Veniot said that work on a large mileage had been inspected in 1919 by members of the Dominion Government's board. The work had not only been approved but had been adopted as a standard for the whole of Canada on which the Federal Government would pay 40 per cent of the cost.

Mr. Smith (Carleton) again objected to the section which provides for the funding of auto fees each year by Order-in-Council and moved that it be struck out.

Mr. Tilley was in favor of funding motor fees, but did not think it should be done without the consent of the House. He thought that the principle proposed was dangerous.

Hon. Mr. Veniot said he could see where it might be dangerous if left in the hands of the Minister of the department, but under the bill it could only be done by the Governor-in-Council. The amount which it was proposed to refund each year might not exceed $15,000 and he could see no danger in leaving it in the hands of the Governor-in-Council. Still as the section had been objected to he would ask that it be allowed to stand for a further consideration.

Progress was reported.

The House again went into committee with Mr. Mersereau in the chair, and agreed to bills to grant further aid to the University of New Brunswick, to amend the Provincial Loans Act, and to provide an annuity to R. P. Steeves.

The house adjourned at 9.20 p. m.

VETERANS DISCUSS WAR BONUS PLAN

Budget Debate Continued In Legislature Today, With Mr. Tilley the First Speaker

A Night Session Probable This Evening, While Arrangements Are Being Made for the Usual Week-End Adjournment From Friday Afternoon Until Tuesday.

The Budget debate will be the feature in the Legislature today, Mr. Tilley, having moved the adjournment yesterday, being the first speaker. It is likely that there will be another night session this evening.

At noon today it was said that an arrangement had been reached for the usual week-end adjournment tomorrow afternoon until Tuesday and that the House will adjourn for the Easter recess from Thursday of next week until early the next week.

The Corporations Committee met this morning. Mr. Burchill was elected chairman. The committee considered bills to amend the act to incorporate The College of the Sacred Heart, Caraquet, to amend the acts relating to the Northwest Boom Company, to amend the act relating to The Barnaby River Boom Company, and agreed to thme.

The bill to enable the United Farmers' Co-operative Company of New Brunswick, Ltd., to increase the number of its directors was considered and was agreed to as presented with the exception of the third section upon which there was considerabel discussion. Members of the committee expressed the opinion that too great powers would be placed in the hands of the directors. The section was amended by striking out the words "by the directors or", and leaving the power of altering, amending or appealing a by-law enacted by the directors in the hands of the shareholders.

The bill is to give power to increase the directors to a number not exceeding forty.

A PARSON SCORES PROHIBITION NOW

London, March 24. — Rev. Basil Bourchier, Vicar of Hampstead Garden suburb who incidentally has just returned from Canada, protested at a prohibition meeting against the idea that a garden suburb wanted to force prohibition upon the nation.

"I have seen that prohibition in the United States is not for the rich and poor alike, because the rich have their drink and the poor are deprived of it. It becomes us of the clergy ill to scorn the brewer when we are indebted to him for so much support of the churches. I would have emblazoned on banners: 'God Save the King and beer for the British people!'"

PRIVATE MEMBERS' DAY IN PARLIAMENT

A Discussion on Flax and Its Production Takes Up the Greater Part of Day.

Ottawa, March 24.—Private members' day in the House was devoted almost in its entirety to discussion of flax production. Mr. Glass, of Middlesex, East, who has raised the question of flax production in previous sessions, held the floor for the major portion of the afternoon. He urged, in a resolution he submitted, the establishment of experimental and demonstration stations; scientific standardization and grading; and encouragement in the perfection of mechanical appliances for harvesting the crop. Dr. Tolmie, Minister of Agriculture, outlined encouragement which he said the government had already given to flax production, such as work at the Central Experimental Farms in the development and perfecting of machinery. The government, Dr. Tolmie added, was fully alive to the importance of developing and of the production.

The resolution carried.

There was also some discussion on a motion by Mr. Archambault, of Charlevoix-Montmorency, to provide that a translation of French speeches should appear in unrevised Hansard on the following day.

Mr. Blake created considerable amusement by a remark he made during the discussion. There had been reference to a recent speech in the French language by Sir George Foster acting Prime Minister. "The only good thing we got out of the peace conference," said Mr. Fielding, the House laughing, "was that the acting Premier learned French. It was a pretty expensive lesson, but it is a good thing we got some result."

Sir George expressed sympathy with the resolution but suggested that it should be held over or withdrawn until some inquiry has been made into the possibility of carrying it into effect.

A. T. Doyle (North N. B.), J. E. Fontaine (Hull, Que.), Dr. E. Casgrain (Charlevoix-Montmorency), Captain C. G. Power (Quebec South), all spoke in French supporting the resolution. L. L. Robinson (Springfield), speaking as chairman of the debates committee of the House, promised the opposition that the debates committee would be glad to confer with members on the question of translating French speeches as soon as they are made, but he had given the impression that if an attempt was made to print French speeches in English in unrevised Hansard, that record could not be printed as promptly as it is now printed for the convenience of the members.

Debate on Mr. Archambault's resolution was adjourned.

Replying to Mr. Tobin, the Minister of Militia said the total cost to date of equipping the Connaught Rifle Ranges, Carleton county, Ontario, near Ottawa, was $870,990.

Since November 11, the Secretary of State said, replying to Mr. Fontaine, 327 employees had been dismissed from the Government printing bureau. They were dismissed upon recommendation of the King's printer on the reports, verbal or written, of the officers directly in charge of the men.

Mr. Stevens—"Having reference to reclassification of the civil service, did the Government pledge itself to the railway mail clerks' federation to make such reclassification, when finally passed, retroactive?"

Hon. Mr. Rowell—"It is the intention of the Government to bring in a bill asking that the reclassification retroactive as from April 1, 1919."

Hon. J. D. Reid informed Mr. Gauvreau that the Government had no intention of acquiring the Temiscouata Railway in New Brunswick.

Sir George Foster informed Hon. W. S. Fielding, in answer to a question, that the Government would bring up the franchise bill tomorrow for second reading.

A resolution coming from Sir Geo. Foster to the Commons on Friday asks that the House adjourn from Thursday next to Tuesday of the following week for Easter recess.

This increased revenue is to be capitalized at $5,00,000, a sum which will be borrowed and spent on improving existing ones and building new trunk roads throughout the province.

INCORPORATION NEW RAILWAY CO.

Company Want to Construct a Line from County of Gaspe to Edmundston.

Ottawa, March 24.—Bill 24, to incorporate the "Pabos, Amqui and Edmundston Railway Company," asks for authority to lay out, construct and operate a railway from Pabos in the county of Gaspe, province of Quebec, to Edmundston, county of Madawaska, New Brunswick, together with a branch from Grand Vallee, a seaport on the St. Lawrence River in the county of Gaspe to the main line by the most feasible route. From Pabos the railway would follow the Grand Pabos River and cross the counties of Bonaventure, Matane, Rimouski and Temiscouata, crossing the Canadian National Railway near Amqui station. The capital stock is to be four million dollars, and the head office is to be in Amqui, Quebec. The securities issued by the company by this act are limited to thirty-five thousand dollars a mile, and may be issued only in proportion to the length of railway constructed or under contract to be constructed. Committee of War Veterans Favor War Bonus of Dollar A Day for All Overseas Men

The Federal Government Asked to Debar Enemy Aliens from Entry Into Canada for Fifteen Years—Other Business Transacted.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Montreal, March 25.—The Federal Government is asked to debar enemy aliens from entry into Canada for 15 years in a resolution passed at the convention of the Great War Veterans' Association this morning. The resolution occurs in the report of the immigration, naturalization and deportation committee, which was adopted after the time limit recommended had been changed. As originally presented, enemy aliens were to be debarred for five years.

The amendment was moved by C. E. Haight, of Toronto, and seconded by A. R. Wilkes, of Toronto.

The delegates again discussed the bonus question, which has come up in the re-establishment recommendations. Yesterday the convention had a main motion and two amendments before it. A committee appointed to try and secure a compromise resolution between the Calgary and Vancouver bonus plans reported this morning. It recommended a cash bonus for 100 per cent. of the forces on the basis of $1 per day for men who served at the front, and reaffirmed the stand taken at Vancouver last year.

An amendment was moved by J. L. Ralston, a Nova Scotia delegate, which was seconded by J. B. Dever, of New Brunswick, and which sought to have the plan of last year placed before the parliamentary committee adopted in its entirety. Comrade Peart, of Ontario, moved an amendment that the G.W.V.A. plan be adopted with the "needy" cause eliminated.

HORSEMEN GATHER FOR CIRCUIT MEET

Visitors to Be Entertained at Banquet Tonight at the Barker House.

President S. D. Heckbert and Secretary Fred M. Tweedie of the Maritime & Maine Circuit arrived here last night from Chatham and this morning P. A. Beauveau, of Moncton, Jas. W. Gallagher, of Woodstock, and other representatives of various tracks have arrived for the meeting of the executive which is to take place this afternoon at the Barker House.

Some changes, it was said this morning, would have to be made in the circuit dates as originally agreed upon and it was reported this morning that there was little chance of Sussex giving a circuit meeting this season, although there was no official word to that effect. There is also still some doubt as to what will happen at St. John both as regards the management of Moosepath Park and the holding of an exhibition, which is making it difficult to definitely arrange circuit dates.

However, the greatest difficulty is to provide all the racing dates requested by the various tracks and there is every indication of a successful season. Tonight the visiting delegates, if they can remain in town, and a number of local horsemen, will be the guests of T. V. Monahan, proprietor of the Barker House, at an informal banquet at the Barker House. —J. D. B.

CHALLENGE MAGEE TO DO HIS WORST

National League President Puts It Up to Player Who Is "Blacklisted."

New York, March 24.—John A. Heydler, president of the National League, tonight challenged Lee Magee, former National League ballplayer, to explode his "biggest bomb in baseball history."

Magee anounced in Cincinnati yesterday that he owuld give out the charges on which the National League based its action in barring him from its circuit. He added that he would "show up some people for tricks earned over since 1906, and there will be merry music in the baseball world."

President Heydler also issued a statement declaring that "more than ninety-nine per cent. of the ballplayers in the National League are honest and are a credit to their profession."

"We do not intend," he continued, "that the one per cent. of undesirables, if such exists, shall attach a stigma to this honorable calling and so bring the game itself into disrepute."

NEXT STANLEY CUP GAME AT TORONTO

Seattle, Beaten Again Last Night, Hope to Win on Artificial Ice.

Sport—Next Stanley Cup....

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Ottawa, March 25.— With two matches safely tucked away as victories and needing only another win to obtain possession of the Stanley Cup, the Ottawas today are in high fettle and are looking forward to the time in the next seven or eight days when they can dub themselves world's champions.

It is altogether probably that the next and succeeding games, if any are necessary, will be played on the artificial ice arena in Toronto, the first on Tuesday next. The Managers will meet today and decide on future dates and place of play. The score last night was 3 to 0 for Ottawa.

In the two contests to date, fought out on slushy ice, the Ottawa team have clearly demonstrated they are superior to the westerners on heavy going. Seattle are accustomed to a hard surface, while the variable weather conditions in the east have made the N. H. L. champions more or less accustomed to a water covered playing arena. Manager Muldoon, while not belittling the victories of the Ottawa team, is of the opinion that on the Toronto arena ice, his team will reverse the decision of the two games to date.

The series is for the best three out of five games, playing alternate eastern and western rules, the east using six and west seven players.

Ottawa Takes Second.

Ottawa, March 24—The Ottawa hockey team again defeated the Seattle "Mets" in the world's series hockey tonight this time by a score of three to nothing. This score makes two wins for the Senators in which three victories are necessary to decide the championship.

The ice was again in bad shape, owing to the warm weather and it is likely that the remainder of the series will take place in Toronto arena on artificial ice, in which case the next game will take place on Tuesday night, which is the first open date there.

The game tonight was under western rules (seven men) and the Senators clearly outplayed the visitors, although the latter excelled in combination work. It was better hockey than in the first game, but the soft ice made team play impossible.

The line-up was as follows:

Ottawa.		Seattle.
Benedict	Goal	Holmes
Gerard	Point	Rickey
Cleghorn	Cover Point	Rowe
Boucher	Rover	Walker.
Nighbor	Centre	Foyston
Darragh	Right Wing	Morris.
Delaney	Left Wing	Riley
Bruce	Substitutes	Murray
Broadbent	"	Nicholls
Macneil	"	Tobin

Referee—Cooper Smeaton.

The summary:

First period — Ottawa, Darragh, 14.00

Second period—No score.

Third period—Ottawa, Gerard, 6.00. Ottawa, Nighbor, 13.00.

Final score—Ottawa, 3; Seattle, 0.

Toronto Varsity Won.

NEWCASTLE MAN BROKE FROM JAIL

Arrested After Hard Struggle in Evening but Broke Out During Night.

Newcastle, N. B., March 24.—Newcastle was treated to a real live sensation last evening, which provoked quite a stir for a while. About six o'clock a young man named Sydney Casey, accosted a local man on the street and requested the loan of a dollar, and on being refused, promptly proceeded to beat the young man up. Chief Ashford happened along at this time and started to arrest Casey, with the result that he was pretty roughly handled before the young man was lodged behind the bars, together with another young man who interfered with the arrest. During the evening Casey evidently took a dislike to close confinement, for he managed to break the window in his cell and made his escape and is still at large. The other young man who was charged with interference with the police, came before Magistrate Lawlor this morning and was fined.

LIEUT. G. A. DALZELL DEAD AT ST. JOHN

Grand Manan Boy Who Seen Varied Service With Imperials and Canadians.

St. John, N. B., March 24.—The death of Lieutenant George Alden Dalzell, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Y. Dalzell, of North Head, Grand Manan, N. B., and late of the 115th Battalion and Canadian Forestry Corps, C. E. F., occurred this morning at the St. John County Hospital after a lingering illness of tuberculosis.

This officer had a very marked war record. He began service when only nineteen years of age, when he crossed to England and joined the Royal Field Artillery in London in 1902, and went with that unit to Africa, where he saw two years of service and was wounded. From Africa he went to India, where he served under the late Lord Kitchener. He returned to Canada in 1911 and located in Prince Rupert, B. C.

Upon the outbreak of the Great War he crossed to England and joined his old regiment at the front. He was wounded three times and mentioned in despatches by Gen. Sir John French. He donned the uniform again and greatly assisted in recruiting until he joined the 115th Battalion, and proceeded overseas as regimental sergeant-major.

While in England he was granted his commission and posted for duty with the Canadian Forestry Corps and sent to Inverness, Scotland, and while there was married to Miss Ella McDonald on Dec. 1, 1917.

He was thirty-seven years of age and is survived by his wife, father and mother and four brothers. His wife, who has been in Canada only about two years, has no relatives on this side of the Atlantic.

HALIFAX HOPES TO RETAIN DOCKYARD

Halifax, March 24.—At the board of trade council meeting yesterday telegrams from Ottawa with reference to the reported closing of the dockyard were read, and it was stated by a board official today that from these telegrams it would appear that probably the extreme measures reported will not be carried out, that is, that the yard will be only partially closed. The council decided to take no action, however, until the Minister of Marine makes a statement before Parliament on Thursday.

BRIDGETOWN, N. S.

Bridgetown, N. S., March 22.—The freshet this year has made new history, as it reached its highest point ever recorded. The splendid steel bridge could have been saved with a little foresight of our townspeople.

Two of our merchants met with quite a heavy loss, owing to their warehouses becoming flooded. J. I. Foster lost $15,000 in flour, feed and sugar. Wm. Howe's loss is estimated at about $5,000 in flour, feed and groceries.

Everything is normal once more, except the loss of our bridge.

True Knights of Faith

The dead robber swung slowly to and fro in the wintry wind, a fixed smile upon his swarthy face, and his bulging eyes still glaring down the highway of which he had so long been the terror; on a sheet of parchment upon his breast was printed in rude characters:

ROGER PIED-BOT.
Par l'ordre du Senechal de
Castelnau, et de l'Echevin de
Cahors, servantes fideles du tres vaillant et tres puissant
Edouard, Prince de Galles et d'Aquitane.
Ne touchez pas,
Ne coutez pas,
Ne depechez pas.

"He took a sorry time in dying," said the man who sat beside him. "He coud stretch one to the ground and bear himself up, so that I thought he would never have done. Now at last, however, he is safely in paradise, and so I may jog on upon my earthly way. He mounted, as he spoke, a white mule which had been grazing by the wayside, all gay with fustian of gold and silver bells, and rode onward with Sir Nigel's party.

"How know you then that he is in paradise?" asked Sir Nigel. "All things are possible to God, but, certes, without a miracle, I should scarce expect to find the soul of Rober Clubfoot amongst the just."

"I know that he is there because I have just passed him in there," answered the stranger, rubbing his bejewelled hands together in placid satisfaction. "It is my holy mission to be a sompnour or pardoner. A contrite heart and ten nobles to holy mother Church may stave off perdition; but he hath a pardon of the first degree, with a twenty-five livre benison, so that I doubt if he will so much as feel a twinge of pugatory. I came up even as the seneschal's archers were tying him up, and I gave him my foreword that I would bide with him until he had passed. There were two leaden crowns among the silver, but I would not for that stand in the way of his salvation."

"By Saint Paul!" said Sir Nigel, "if you have indeed this power to open and to shut the gates of hope, then indeed you stand high above mankind. But if you do but claim to have it, and yet have it not, then it seems to me, master clerk, that you may yourself find the gate barred when you shall ask admittance.

"Small of faith! Small of faith!" cried the sompnour. "Ah, Sir Didymus yet walks upon earth! And yet no words of doubt can bring anger to mine heart, or a bitter word to my lip, for I am not a poor unworthy worker in the cause of gentleness and peace? Of all these pardns which I bear every one is stamped and signed by our holy father, the prop and centre of Christendom."

"Which of them?" asked Sir Nigel.

"Ha, ha!" cried the pardoner, shaking a jewelled forefinger. "Thou wouldst be deep in the secrets of mother Church? Know then that I have both in my scrip. Those who hold with Urban shall have Urban's pardon, while I have Clement's for the Clementist—or he who is in doubt may have both, so that come what may he shall be secure. I pray you that you will buy one, for war is bloody work, and the end is sudden with little time for thought or shrift. Or you, sir, for you seem to me to be a man who would do ill to trust to your own merits." This to the alderman of Norwich, who had listened to him with a frowning brow and a sneering lip.

"When I sell my cloth, quoth he, "he who buys may weigh and feel and handle. These goods which you sal are not to be seen, or is there any proof that you hold them. Certes, if mortal man control God's mercy, it would be one of a lofty and God-like life, and not one who is decked out with rings and chains and silks, like a pleasure-wench at a kermesse.

"Thou wicked and shameless man!" cried the clerk. "Dost thou dare to raise thy voice against the unworthy servant of mother Church?"

"Unworthy enough!" quoth David Micheldene. "I would have you to know, clerk that I am a free English burgher, and that I dare say my mind to our father the Pope himself, let alone such a lacquey's lacquey as you!"

"Base-born and foul-mouthed knave!" cried the sompnour. "You prate of holy things, to which your hog's mind can never rise. Keep silence, lest I call a curse upon you!"

"Silence yourself!" roared the other. "Foul bird!" we found thee by the gallows like a carrion-crow. A fine life thou hast of it with thy silks and thy baubles, cozening the last few shillings from the pouches of dying men A fig for thy curse! Bide here, if you will take my rede, for we will make England too hot for such as you, when Master Wicliff has the ordering of it. Thou vile thief! it is you, and such as you, who bring an evil name upon the many churchmen who lead a pure and a holy life. Thou outside the door of heaven! Art more like to be inside the door of hell."

At this crowning insult the sompnour, with a face ashen with rage, raised up a quivering hand and began pouring Latin imprecations upon the angry alderman. The latter, however, was not a man to be quelled by words, for he caught up his ill-measured sword-sheath and belabored the cursing clerk with it. The latter, unable to escape from the shower of blows, set spurs to his mule and rode for his life, with his enemy thundering behind him. At sight of his master's sudden departure, the varlet Watkin set off after him, with the pack-mule beside him, so that the four lattered down the road together, until they swept round a curve and their babble was but a drone in the distance. Sir Nigel and Alleyne gazed in astonishment at one another, while Ford burst out a laughing.

"Pardieu!" said the knight, "this David Micheldene must be one of those Lollards about whom Father Christopher of the prior had so much to say. Yet he seemed to be no bad man from what I have seen of him."

"I have heard that Wicliff hath many followers in Norwich," answered Alleyne.

"By St. Paul! I have no great love for them," quoth Sir Nigel. "I am a man who am slow to change; and, if you take away from me the faith that I have been taught, it would be long ere I could learn one to set in its place. It is but a chip here and a chip there, yet it may bring the tree down in time. Yet, on the other hand, I cannot but think it shame that a man should turn God's mercy on and off, as a cellarman doth wine with a spigot."

"Nor is it," said Alleyne, "part of the teachings of that mother Church of which he had so much to say. There was sooth in what the alderman said of it."

Then, by St. Paul! they may settle it betwixe them," quoth Sir Nigel. "For me, I serve God, the king and my lady; and so long as I can keep the path of honor I am well content. My creed shall be ever that of Chandos:

"Fais ce que dois—adviegne que peut,
C'est commande au chevalier."

BIG SHIPMENT OF SEIZED LIQUOR ARRIVES HERE

Thirty Cases and Five Barrels of Liquor and Alcohol Sent Here Today.

SEIZED BY INSPECTOR NEAR ST. LEONARDS

Shipped as Hardware, Glass and Sugar and Worth Over $2,000.

While members of the Government and the Legislature as well as a number of clerks and stenographers from various departmental offices and press gallery reporters watched the operation with envious eyes, two large truck loads of various brands of liquors, valued at several thousand dollars, were this morning added to the stock in the vault in the cellar of the Provincial Departmental Buildings, used by Chief Inspector Wilson for storing liquor seized by his staff of inspectors throughout the province.

The shipment, which consisted of thirty cases and five barrels of whiskey, brandy, gin and a quantity of alcohol, had just arrived here by express this morning from Madawaska county, where it was seized by Inspector McLaughlin when it arrived from Montreal consigned as glass, hardware and sugar to David Martin, general merchant, of St Leonards. The liquor weighed a ton and a half and it was estimated that its value was between $2,000 and $3,000. It is believed to have been intended for sale to the whiskey runners who abound along the border on the upper St. John river, St. Leonards being immediately across the St. John river from United States territory. The seizure was made near St. Leonards, the shipment having been put off a Canadian National Railways train two miles north of St. Leonards on Tuesday.

The barrels and cases were slid down a chute which leads into the storeroom, and during the process one case was badly smashed up. Later on the spectators were allowed to inspect the warehouse, the stock of liquors now there being valued at more than $15,000.

Last year's assessment was $150,000 and the opinion was expressed this morning in semi-official circles that the amount of assessment this year would probably reach $200,000, as a result of the increases, particularly for schools and meeting bonds which mature this year. More than 160 million feet of lumber has been cut on the Miramichi this season and is now ready to be brought out by the spring's driving operations which will soon commence.

The cut on the Southwest Miramichi amounts to more than 100 millions—some say 103 million feet are the exact figures—and the increase over last year's operation is almost 70 per cent, the output last year being about 60 million feet. The biggest operators this year are the Fraser Companies, Ltd., whose total cut on the Southwest Miramichi amounts to about 31 million feet, while the Miramichi Lumber Company are next with 23 millions, and D. J. Buckley has about 15 million feet.

The cut on the Northwest Miramichi amounts to a strong 60 million feet. The Sinclair Lumber Company have about 10 millions coming out and so have the Ritchies, Burchills and one or two other concerns. The Miramichi Lumber Company's cut on the Northwest Branch has been about 7 millions, bringing their gross output up to about 30 million feet the past winter.

REDS THREATEN WAR OF DEVASTATION

Kaiser Believed to Have Financed the Revolution That Stirred Fatherland

Said to Have Sent 250,000 Swiss Francs to Berlin at Time

SNUG FORTUNE IN GERMANY

Spartacan Movement in Rhine Provinces Aided By Russian Reds.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Geneva, March 26.—Former Emperor William of Germany withdrew deposits, amounting to 250,000 Swiss francs, from a Zurich bank early in March, it is learned here, and the money is said to have been sent to Berlin just before the attempted reactionary revolt led by Dr. Kapp and General Luettwitz.

The German mark is now quoted at ten centimes and the sum withdrawn from the bank would represent quite a snug fortune in Germany.

Alliance of Russian and German Reds.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Rotterdam, March 26.—The Spartacan movement in the Rhine provinces has long been organized with the cooperation of Russian aid, and the offensive against Poland, with the joint object that Trotsky, the Russian Bolshevik Minister of War, would be at the gates of Berlin at the beginning of July, according to a Munster despatch to the Courant.

Russian Red army officers, says the correspondent, are already directing the German Spartacans, whose army is being rapidly organized and armed on the exact model of Trotsky's.

The revolution was originally planned for May 1st, but the leaders believed that the Kapp movement gave them an opportunity to hasten their plans, which included the capture of Munster and Wesel.

According to the Telegraaf, the Dutch government is taking steps to prevent Red activity.

He was informed that $5,929,790 had been expended in construction work during 1919 on sixteen different sections of the road.

No order in council had been passed entrusting the said company with the management and operation of the Grand Trunk Railway or the Intercolonial lines.

Revolting Workmen Threaten To Destroy All Factories and Mines in Western Germany

The Reds Claim to Have Captured Several Villages Yesterday and Taken Many Prisoners, While It is Said the Government Troops Have Been Inactive.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, March 26—Workers' forces entrenched along the Lippe River, south and southeast of the city of Wesel, threaten, if they fail to capture Wesel, to destroy all factories and mines in western Germany, says a despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company, filed in Berlin this morning.

The Reds have established great headquarters similar to that of the old German army and are issuing official statements.

In last night's communique, the Reds claimed to have captured several villages and to have taken more than 200 prisoners during the day. They say the government troops in western Germany are not taking any action, pending orders from Berlin.

Telegrams from Moenster, filed last night, report severe engagements between government and communist troops on the line from Harm to Hagen. Further south, in the direction of Cologne and Dusseldorf, there has been fighting and serious conflicts have occurred at Wesel, Ruckinghaus and near Muenster, as well as along the Lippe River.

Traffic at a Standstill.

Wesel, March 26.—Traffic across the Rhine is still at a standstill, because the workmen Wednesday night directed their fire toward the eastern end of the bridge at Wesel, and continued yesterday their itermittent shelling and also covered the exposed highway and the small city bridges leading into the town.

The city is quiet. More than five persons are forbidden to gather in the streets in groups. Business is going on normally and there is plenty of food, although no trains have arrived here for three days from the north because of unsettled conditions between Wesel and Muenster.

MONTREAL BEHIND IN TOWN PLANNING

Vigorous Indictment of Present Policy of City Fathers by Mr. James Ewing.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Montreal, March 26.—A vigorous indictment of Montreal in relation to civic expropriation and town planning was made by Mr. James Ewing last night, in the course of a paper on "Replanning Montreal and District," read at the meeting of the Montreal branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada. He said that $14,500,000 were spent by the city in expropriations for widening streets in the six years to 1916, and the carrying out of these schemes cost several millions more. Montreal had found this medicine rather disagreeable and so had stopped taking it, with the result that every year was rendering her more or less feeble, futile and decrepit. This lack of planning had cost Montreal and would cost her more than could be estimated. The city had no typical main thoroughfares, he claimed. He concluded that the replanning of Montreal was essentially an engineering question, and its solution was never easier than it was today.

THREATENED DEATH TO KING ALFONSO

Interesting Statement Introduced at the Trial of Joseph Caillaux at Paris.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, March 26.—The high court of the Senate held a private sitting yesterday to hear the defence of Joseph Caillaux, former Premier, who is being tried on the charge of having had treasonable dealings with the enemy. The testimony was for the purpose of rebutting the evidence previously given by William Martin, former French Ambassador to Madrid, who declared that King Alfonso of Spain had told him in 1912 that Caillaux threatened him with death at the time of the Agadir incident in 1911.

Confidential official statements, some of which were declared by the prosecution to have been stolen from national archives, were introduced by the defence.

KIDNAPPED BOY FOUND IN LOCKED ROOM

12 Year Old Son of Kentucky Capitalist Had Been Held for Ransom by Abductors.

RANSOM MONEY WAS LEFT IN GARBAGE CAN

But Kidnappers Were Apparently Afraid to Approach Can and Take the Money Out.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Lexington, Ky., March 26. — Paul Little, 12 year old son of E. R. Little, Lexington capitalist, who has been held for ransom by kidnappers, was found this morning locked in a room at a local hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Little first learned the whereabouts of their son when he telephoned his home from the hotel room. He said he had been kept a prisoner there since Wednesday night.

Investigation disclosed that the room had been reserved in advance by a man registered as J. C. Cox, of Cincinnati. The frantic parents, overjoyed at news of his safety, hurried to the hotel and took him home.

The boy disappeared from in front of the Lexington post office Wednesday afternoon, where he had been seen in conversation with a man. Playmates said the Little boy had told them he was to be given a dollar to deliver a box of candy. Soon afterwards the father received a note stating that his son was being held for ransom.

At the appointed hour, 7.30 o'clock last night, Little deposited a package containing the ransom money in a Main Street garbage can. When he returned a half hour later the package remained intact. Believing the kidnapper failed to show up for fear of being "double crossed", Little pocketed the money and went home, intending to seek other means today of obtaining his son.

The question is to be discussed in Aberdeen Saturday at a meeting of the Scottish Federation of Discharged Soldiers, many of the men being former soldiers. It is recalled that King George, in writing to the local tradesmen at Balmoral some time ago, said he wished all his employees to be comfortable and satisfied.

Pennsylvania Youth Arrested After a Ten Months' Absence in Canada.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Pittsburg, Pa., March 25.—Department of Justice agents announced here last night that after a search of 18 months they had arrested Harold W. Neville, of Dawson, Pa., who is charged with evading the draft law. He is being held in the county jail here in default of a $2,000 bail for a hearing later.

According to federal authorities, Neville left the United States a few days before the declaration of war against Germany. He went to Canada, they say, and worked in an isolated section of that country as a trapper. On December 23, 1918, he returned to the United States, federal officials said.

Neville, who is said to come from a wealthy Fayette county family, made a statement to the authorities disclaiming any knowledge that a draft law had been enacted in the United States. He said that after working as a trapper for some time he secured a Government position in Canada and did not realize that he was violating the selective service act.

REGISTRY ACT IN LEGISLATURE

More Consideration Last Night But Unfinished—Mr. Currie Granted Leave.

When the Legislature opened yesterday afternoon, Premier Foster announced that the Lieutenant-Governor had been informed of the subject matter of the bills to grant further aid to the University of New Brunswick and to provide an annuity for R. P. Steeves and recommended them to the favorable consideration of the House.

Mr. Burchill presented the report of the Standing Rules Committee.

The following notices of inquiry were given for Monday next.

By Mr. Dickson: As to the number of stenographers employed in the Agricultural Department and the salaries paid each; also as to the appointment of Miss Hazel McCain as supervisor of Women's Institute and the date of her first application for the position.

By Mr. Smith (Albert): As to whether the secretary for agriculture is a native of the province and the amount of his salary.

By Mr. Smith (Carleton): As to the amount expended on roads and bridges since the close of the fiscal year and other details; also to payments made to the Concrete Builders, Ltd., on account of the Florenceville Bridge.

By Mr. Plader: As to expenditures made by the York County Board of Health in 1919; also as to expenditures on permanent roads in York county since the close of the fiscal year.

By Mr. Murray (Kings): As to the operations of the Government owned ditching machine; as to whether or not the Government has taken any steps to relieve the situation in lower Gloucester because of the railway tie-up, and also as to whether or not any move has been made by the Government to carry out a promise of free ferries for the people of Kings county alleged to have been made by E. S. Carter at the last provincial election.

Mr. Michaud introduced a bill relating to the village of St. Leonard's.

Hon. Mr. Roberts submitted the annual report of the Chief Medical Health Officer of the province and also the report of Hotel Dieu Hospital, Campbellton.

Hon. Mr. Veniot, in reply to Mr. Murray (Kings), said he hoped to have the Public Works report ready for distribution this week.

The Registry Act.

Upon resuming after recess, the House went into committee with Mr. LeBlanc in the chair, and took up further consideration of the bill to amend the Registry Act.

Mr. Young said that the section requiring the Registrar's returns to be filed with the County Treasurer by Jan. 10th would hardly suit in York county, as the Council met on the first Tuesday in January.

Mr. Campbell said that it would be a physical impossibility for the St. John Registrar to make returns prior to Jan. 10th.

Hon. Mr. Byrne pointed out that, as county councils were usually in session four or five days, he felt the difficulty could be easily overcome. He thought it advisable to let the section stand.

Mr. Michaud brought up the matter of registering the titles of grants of land. He said grantees were not all familiar with the law and often neglected to register titles, thus causing annoyance and inconvenience. He would suggest that in order to make a foundation of title it be made compulsory for the Crown Land Department to forward a certified copy of the grant to the county where the land was situated.

Hon. Mr. Byrne thought that a person securing a grant of land should not endanger his title by neglecting to register it.

Mr. Dysart approved of the suggestion made by the member for Madawaska.

Hon. Mr. Byrne thought that the grantee should in self-protection register his title.

Hon. Mr. Murray on the section relating to Saturday half holidays, said that the registrar of York county had informed him that he had been granted permission by the Hazen Government to close his office on Saturday afternoons.

Mr. Sweeney thought that the hours for closing on Saturdays should be the same in every county in the province. It should be understood that registry offices were not made for the registrars but existed for the service of the public. He would move that the section permitting the St. John office to close on Saturday afternoons be struck out.

Mr. Young seconded the resolution. He said that Saturday was market day in Fredericton, and it was not convenient for country people to have the office closed. He was not opposed to a half holiday but thought Monday would be a more suitable day.

Mr. Tilley said that the arrangement for closing the St. John office on Saturday afternoon had the approval of the Barristers' Society. The registering in St. John was mostly done by the legal profession.

Mr. Mersereau thought no hardship would result to country people by having a Saturday half holiday for the registry office.

The amendment was lost by a vote of ten to five.

Mr. Dysart on the amendment fixing salaries wanted to know how a registrar could obtain an increase.

Hon. Mr. Byrne said that the matter was dealt with by the Governor-in-Council on the recommendation of the members or municipal council of a county.

Mr. Smith (Charlotte) said that the registrar of his county was poorly paid and he thought that under present conditions there would be justification in increasing the fees.

Hon. Mr. Byrne said that the matter of increasing fees was now under consideration.

Mr. Smith (Carleton) said that it was understood that the registrar of his county was to receive $2,250.

Hon. Mr. Foster said the matter would be arranged by order-in-council.

Mr. Tilley said he thought that considerable time could have been saved had the bill been submitted to the Law committee before being passed upon by Committee of the whole House.

Progress was reported.

Mr. LeBlanc moved for leave of absence for former Speaker William Currie until the end of the session on account of illness.

Hon. Mr. Foster moved that Mr. King be granted leave of absence until Friday next.

The House adjourned at 11 p. m.

NOT ARRESTED YET.

London, March 25.—A Berlin despatch under yesterday's date says the report of the arrest of Major General Von Luettwitz and Rear Admiral Von Trotha was erroneous. The Freiheit regards this contradiction as confirming the report that the Government has promised clemency to Von Luettwitz and his accomplices.

Lumbermen's Large Profits At Expense of the Province Were Exposed by Mr. Tilley

Member for St. John City Made Timely Speech in Budget Debate Yesterday—Mr. Burchill Says Lumbermen Are Making up for Lean Years but Admits They Anticipated Increased Stumpage Rates—Mr. Guptill Points Out Requirements of Grand Manan and Other Islands and Criticizes Road Expenditures as Not Bring Full Value.

Three members spoke in the Budget debate in the Legislature yesterday afternoon, two from the Opposition side and one from the Government Benches, and then Hon. Dr. Smith, Minister of Lands & Mines, adjourned the debate until next Tuesday afternoon.

The first speaker was Mr. Tilley, of St. John, who in a timely speech dealt with many subjects of interest, advocated a higher plane in the debate in the House, spoke at some length in advocacy of adequate stumpage rates to give the provinve its needed revenue and showed the immense profits which the lumbermen are making from their cutting on the Crown lands. He criticized the Government's flotation of its bond issues and declared that responsible government existed in name only if Ministers were to over-expend in their departments in such a manner as had been done in the last fiscal year, when there was an admitted deficit of $327,000, while the phraseology of the auditors' certificate he maintained left the true situation still open to doubt.

Former Speaker Burchill was the next speaker and he defended the Government generally although not overenthusiastically, but declared there was no reason he knew of upon which a forecast that Hon. Robert Murray would not deliver any more budget speeches could be properly based. Mr. Burchill's remarks about the Crown lands were regarded with interest as reflecting the views of the large lumber interests. He said the lumbermen expected an increase to be made in the stumpage, but the best he could say as regards their profits were that they were estimated at larger figures than were actually correct and that even if they were large they were only making up for lean years.

Mr. Guptill of Charlotte, who followed, made a brief but interesting contribution to the debate as he annually does. He spoke largely of conditions as they affect Grand Manan and the other Islands, which section he represents, referred to the increasing public debt, the need for agricultural encouragement at the islands and declared the province was not getting good value for the money expended upon its roads and public works, while he looked upon 75 per cent of the road work classified as such as not being of a permanent character.

MR. TILLEY.

Member for St. John Shows in Detail the Immense Profits of the Lumbermen at the Present Stumpage Rates.

Mr. Tilley at the outset said that if the members of the Government be fitted their positions by lowering the tone of the debate they must expect the Opposition to hit back hard.

He had read the Premier's speech on the address with great interest, but thought that an otherwise excellent speech was marred by the gentlemen having devoted about a column to the discussion of an opposition convention recently held in St. John. That convention was a party matter and he (Tilley) was at a loss to understand what connection it had with the speech from the Throne. The Premier had depicted the Opposition party like unto an ancient ship, sailing with barnacles on its bottom, shipwrecked and its captain suspended. He (Tilley) wished to inform the Premier that the Opposition ship was absolutely intact; it may have run on several shoals, but was sound and seaworthy in every timber. It was quite true that some members of the party had a disagreement as to the leadership. He had heard of such things happening in other parties. The present Government had appointed a royal commission to enquire into the potato transaction. The commissioner made a finding and submitted a report. The Opposition as a party passed a resolution of regret in regard to the matter. A certain number of the Opposition members and of the party generally thought it advisable to choose a leader other than the responsible minister of the department against whom the charges were made. Those were his views, frankly and candidly expressed. He thought under the circumstances a gentleman of statesmanlike calibre would have complimented the minority members of the Opopsition and their supporters on the stand they had taken. But instead of dealing with the matter in that way the Premier attempted to ridicule the whole transaction by a campaign story such as was some times heard in country school houses during an election campaign. He (Tilley) only mentioned the matter en passant. He had been surprised that members on both sides, especialy Ministers who had spoken, had failed to make but a passing remark in reference to the Workmen's Compensation Act. In August last the board had recommended payment of first aid and hospital care in addition to the regular compensation, and he heartily approved of the board's recommendation that full medical aid be provided during disability.

The Crown Lands Problem.

He wished to devote some attention to what he considered the most important question with which the members had to deal—the Crown Lands of the province. Lumbermen holding seats in the House knew his views on the matter, as he had never hesitated to express them. The lands owned by the people of the province consisted of an area of 7,250,000 acres. Before the days of responsible Government Great Britain or the Crown of England claimed the exclusive jurisdiction in the handling and disposing of the lumber of New Brunswick. When the Government of the day won out on the question of responsible Government and gained the right of ownership and control of Crown Lands, the people secured without doubt the greatest material and financial asset the province ever obtained. In 1918 the total cut on the Crown Lands, exclusive of fire wood, pulpwood, sleepers and telegraph poles amounted to 173,644,887 superfiial feet, and the actual cash revenue received from stumpage in that year was $482,196. Comparing the figures with 1919 it would be found that in the last mentioned year the cut on all classes of lumber amounted to 221,645,000 superficial feet, which brought in a revenue of $583,887. He had inquired at the Crown Land office as to what the estimated cut on Crown Lands would be for 1920 and found that it was 330,000,000 superficial feet. That estimate would be found to be well within the mark, and the total may be 350,000,000 feet. He thought he was well within the mark in saying that lumbermen throughout the province were today receiving from $35 to $40 per thousand for their lumber f. o. b. the station of shipment. Taking forty dollars as a fair average it was not much of a mathematical problem to ascertain that on a cut of 330,000,000 the total would be $13,200,000 as the gross earnings of the Government cut. But his lumberman friend would say, "But look at the cost of operation, of stream driving, manufacturing and transportation." He would admit that costs

THE CANADIAN SOLDIER.

In a recent article dealing with the provision which has been made, and is still being made, for returned soldiers by the Canadian Government and Parliament, the statement was made that the liberality of re-establishment measures adopted in this country has not been approached by any other of the nations which took part in the war, remarks the Montreal Gazette. In support of that assertion there was submitted a comparative statement of gratuities granted to returned soldiers in Canada, Great Britain, the United States, Australia and New Zealand. The figures then quoted represented correctly the situation as it existed in September last, when the facts referred to were placed before Parliament. Since that time, both Australia and New Zealand have substantially increased their gratuities. The effect has not been to place the Australian or New Zealand scale upon an equality with the Canadian scale, Canada still holding undisputed first place as regards the amount given, just as Canada was the first country definitely to outline a system of war service gratuity at all. In order, however, that no injustice may be done to the other Dominions, the increased Australian and New Zealand gratuities have been included in the statement given below. The rates compared are those paid to privates, who are the great majority of recipients, based upon three years' service:

United Kingdom, with or without dependents, overseas service, $82.73; home, $53.53.

Australia, without dependents, overseas service, $273.82; with dependents, $289.35.

United States, with or without dependents, overseas service, $60.00.

Canada, without dependents, overseas service, $420.00; home service, $210.00; with dependents, overseas, $600.00; home, $300.00.

New Zealand, without dependents, overseas service, $427.80; with dependents, overseas service, $447.96.

In Great Britain and in Australia the gratuity is increased proportionately for periods of service exceeding three years. In the case of New Zealand, also, it is possible for a soldier to draw a larger amount than that given as the three-year total, payment being made at the rate of one shilling and sixpence per day of service, calculated from the day of embarkation of the New Zealand main body, September 23, 1914, and up to the time of demobilization, June 20, 1919, a total possible period of four years and 278 days.

Of the Australian gratuity $175.20 is payable in 5¼ per cent. bonds only, the balance (about $100) being payable in cash. It has been claimed that as the Australian and New Zealand private received a larger payment while on active service than his brother from Canada, this more than made up for the lesser gratuity. The Australian private received six shillings per day as against the Canadian $1.10. This placed the single Australian at an advantage, but the married man was at a considerable disadvantage, as the pay and allowances to a married man were $53.40 as against $63 in the case of a Canadian. In the ranks above private, when the pay reached $2.40 per day, no separation allowance was payable.

The New Zealand private received five shillings per day and there appears to have been a small separation allowance. An allowance of 1s 6d per day for each child, up to three children, was made. Allowances for children were not issued by the Canadian Government, but this matter was placed in the hands of the Canadian Patriotic Fund. While this fund was largely voluntary, except in the case of Manitoba, it was virtually added taxation. The extra allowance issued by the Canadian Patriotic Fund equalled, and in some cases exceeded, the allowances issued by the New Zealand Government. The New Zealand authorities granted 28 days' post discharge pay to all returned soldiers, and the value of this has been included in the amounts set down as gratuity. The value of what is termed "the railway concessions" has not been included. A returned New Zealand soldier is granted free passage over the Government railways for 28 days, and this is claimed to represent an extra gratuity of $28.50, but it is doubtful whether many men availed themselves of this privilege.

One feature of the Australian, which goes a little beyond the Canadian, is that 7½ days' pay of rank for each six months of service, plus sustenance allowance, is granted to the dependents of deceased soldiers.

On the whole, however, the Canadian scale will stand as the most liberal of all, and, so far as the gratuity itself is concerned, it will be very difficult to make out a case for raising the amount. Canada has sought to do justly and generously by the soldier and has good reason to be satisfied with the result.

DEFICITS MADE IN INTERESTS OF THE PEOPLE.

Provincial Secretary-Treasurer Murray is reported as saying that the deficit of last year was made in the interests of the people. The notion is new, but the Provincial Secretary is no doubt sincere, for at a later stage of his speech, apparently in the grand summing up, he said, "the entire showing spoke pretty well for "the province of New Brunswick and "for the financing of the Provincial "Secretary and the Premier." It was nice to include the Premier also in his congratulations; it was really generous, and it displays a spirit that should result in bringing about a reconciliation of two great forces in the Government. And now that the making of deficits is to be commended, the occasions for congratulations will be many. The Provincial Secretary could quite consistently have gone further in his commendations; that he did not go further is due probably to his extreme modesty. In the financial statement of 1918 he gave us a surplus of some thousands of dollars. The chartered accountants, however, reported that there was a deficit in that year, not a surplus as stated; and the deficit was upwards of $474,000. The Provincial Secretary and the Premier have therefore been making deficits in the interests of the people for at least two years, and two years consecutively. Mr. Murray must have felt proud of himself and proud of the Premier when the chartered accountants pointed out that he did an injustice in recording a surplus while there existed as a matter of fact a deficit—again a deficit in the interests of the people—of nearly half a million dollars. This could properly have been referred to in his budget speech, and more particularly as the great deficit in the public interests of 1918 was specially carried by the chartered accountants into the accounts of 1919. However, there will doubtless be opportunities in the future to give credit to whom credit is due in the performance of public service; things are certainly making to create the opportunity. And if extreme modesty will not permit the Hon. Robert Murray to further compliment and congratulate himself, we are confident that he will not seek to resist the impulse to give the Premier due credit for his accomplishments in finance and administration through which deficits are made annually in the interests of the people.

MR. VENIOT AND PREMIER FOSTER.

Premier Foster announced in the Legislature last night, when the Registry Act was under consideration, that the Governor-in-Council will fix the salaries of the registrars. Hon. Mr. Veniot, the Minister of Public Works, speaking on the bill in committee a few days ago, was quite emphatic in his expression of opinion that the salaries should be fixed by the Legislature, and on this point he clashed with the Attorney General, who is the Hon. Peter's colleague in Gloucester county. It is not unusual in the New Brunswick Legislative Assembly to hear members of the Foster Government disagree on the subject matter or the principles involved in Government bills then before the House. The theory of unity of Government, and all other theories of Government, have recently been ruthlessly pitched into the scrap heap in this province. The impropriety is treated merely as something we have become accustomed to. The public are interested, however, to know who will prevail; whether Mr. Veniot will submit to the will of the Premier, or whether the Attorney General and the Premier will yield to the influence and pressure of Mr. Veniot, who is generally regarded as the one influential member of the Government. If Mr. Veniot were sincere in the position he took on the subject a few days ago, if he is interested, he will hold out; and if he is interested and holds out the Premier will certainly yield. The announcement by the Premier last night does not, therefore, settle the matter in so far as the public are interested. What does Mr. Veniot intend to do? That is the point. Ordinarily there would be an interest in the fate of the principle which in these times is placing very much power in the hands of the Governor-in-Council; but in this instance mere curiosity has taken the place of respect for principle and precedent.

The St. John Standard argues that, if the Provincial estimates have been prepared with a reasonable degree of accuracy, there cannot possibly be a surplus in the next accounting. The estimated revenue is $127,727 more than the estimated expenditure; but that, says The Standard, won't wipe out last year's deficit by $200,000. But why take last year's $327,000 deficit into account. The Secretary said that the money represented in this deficit went upon the roads; everything but stumpage goes upon the roads nowadays. Bond the deficit; fund it, or do any old thing with it; forget it. We are surprised that The Standard should bother with such trifling matters as placing or fitting in a little deficit of scarcely half a million dollars. These are piping times.

The Provincial Secretary says that upwards of $10,000 were paid last year in bonuses to the public officials in lieu of increases in salaries. Are these bonuses to be paid annually?

COL. GUTHRIE AT SMOKING CONCERT

Boston, Mass., March 25.—The Republican League entertained about 200 guests at a smoker and reception in the league's quarters here today. Assistant District Attorney William S. Kinney presided. Col. Guthrie, of the McLean Kilties, gave the smoke talk, dealing principally with the work of the Kilties, a large number of whom enlisted from Boston. He said the mode of discipline in the last war had changed from the discipline of fear to a discipline of patrotism and love of country which is the group name for love of home, had brought out an unselfishness beyond anything seen in other wars. The Colonel has been a popular speaker at many functions and has capitivated his auditors with simplicity of speech and manner.

The Stock Market

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York (Wall Street), March 26.—Heavy dealings in motor shares and specialties attended the opening of today's stock market. Increased dividends for General Motors issues, announced after the close of yesterday's session, resulted in an initial gain of 16 points for the old shares at 400, while the junior issue was extensively traded in at a gain of two points. Stutz motor rose 13 points to the new high record of 295. Other automobile shares and accessories were one to three and a half points higher and gains of like extent were scored by some of the oils, steels and equipments. The usual reaction, due to realizing sales, occurred within the first half hour.

FROM THE PEOPLE

THE SALOON KILLED OLD JOHN BARLEYCORN.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—From the day nearly seventy years ago when Gen. Neal Dow brought old John Barleycorn to the State House in Maine and there helped to skin him and nail his hide on the State House door the death knell of the liquor traffic has been sounding on this continent. Quite as much credit should be given to John himself for his demise as to any one party or thing, for there is no question but what he helped to kill himself, preach his own funeral and bury himself. One need but survey the field of his operations and observe the fruit of his sowing to reach such a conclusion.

Year after year the liquor traffic pushed ahead regardless of results, until it was no strange sight to see all four corners of the street occupied by gin mills, and often one or two in the middle of the block. Is it to be wondered at that there has come forth a day of judgment?

Nearly all laws passed to regulate or prevent such results were looked upon by the average dispenser of drink as so much junk. Should he be required or expected to put up the shutters and close up his place on Sunday and take a day of rest? No, not he, his mill must grind on seven days and nights a week. When the law demanded that he should not sell to minors or drunkards, this too, was generally looked upon as an infringement. He had taken out a license to sell drink and he was going to do so as long as a customer had the price.

His back room became the rendezvous for those who would ruin young womanhood and the meeting place of criminals for the planning of crime.

Fully 75 per cent. of the saloons were owned by brewers and distillers, who cared but little about the character or class of men whom they placed in charge. The more booze they dispensed the more property they were able to buy. Yes, John Barleycorn helped to bring about his own death. The help given by gin mill politicians is too long a story.

Yours,
C. H. B.

INSOMNIA—HAVE FAITH IN THE GREAT PHYSICIAN.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I have read with interest letters from your readers regarding sleeplessness, and it seems they all have missed one important point. As they all know any special worry, grief, or blow to the nervous system, immediately acts in this way. It brings on a spell of insomnia, so we must have something more reliable to depend on than long walks, fresh air and exercise, although they are all splendid as far as they go. If we have in times when all is going well a deep-rooted faith in the Great Physician, if we plan always to cast all our small cares and burdens on Him when the big things come, that must come in every life, they will have no power to make us sleepless or anxious. Through trying nights have I learned the uselessness of all remedies for sleeplessness. Only when our mind is at peace with God can we get rest, perfect rest, and can say with the Psalmist, on retiring, "I will lay me down in peace and sleep, for Thou, O Lord, maketh me to dwell in safety."

Yours,
ONE WHO TRUSTS.
Gladwyn, Vic. Co., March 23, 1920.

DON'T THE CHILDREN SHARE?

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I am the mother of five children, the youngest being 24 years old. My husband died twelve years ago without having made a will and left property. I now wish to sell the property, but would like to know through your From the People column, if the children are entitled to a share in the property, or does the law compel me to give them part of the money after the property is sold.

Yours,
A WIDOW.

Lumbermen's Large Profits Were Exposed in the Legislature

were heavy. But he would like to ask members in the lumbering business if he was not correct in stating that a net profit of $10 per thousand realized by lumbermen on the total cut in the province was not well within the limit. His opinion was based on statements made to him by men engaged in the business. If $10 was taken as a net profit there would be a total of $3,300,000 on the estimated cut for the present year. There were also additional profits which accrued to lumbermen from the adverse rate of exchange. They also received from $10 to $12 per thousand for laths, manufactured largely out of slab ends. On a cut of 330,000,000 eet, figuring the stumpage at $3 (instead of $3.50, as most of it will be) the province would receive this year $990,000. Perhaps they would be safe in figuring the revenue from Crown Lands for the present year at $1,000,000 in round figures. In other words, as custodians of the province they were selling to the middle man the season's cut of lumber for $1,000,000 and the middle man or lumberman was reselling for $13,200,000 and receiving a net profit of $3,300,000. He thought hon. members on both sides would admit that the province was in need of money. There was a deficit last year of $327,686.22; they had an interest account on the St. John & Quebec Railway bonds guaranteed by the province of $244,807 ,less the earnings of the railway, which so far had not amounted to much The interest on the bonds was charged to capital account, but was really a current liability. They had the teachers of the province demanding an increase, and properly so, to their meagre and entirely inadequate salaries, and they had a hundred other ways of spending the money, such as in water power development and a proper housing scheme. They had the means to obtain an increased revenue, but thus far politicians on both sides (and all must bear their fair and reasonable responsibility) had not run the public business on the same basis as they would run their own. He was sure the Government would have the cordial support of hon. members on his side of the House to a material increase in the stumpage rate for the present year.

Grand Falls Water Power.

He desired to refer to the matter of water powers, especially Grand Falls. He had devoted the preceding evening to looking up the different Acts of Legislature relating to that particular water power, and had been surprised to learn that there were no fewer than eleven separate measures covering the period from 1895 to 1916. All followed along the same lines of giving privileges on deposit, when one charter ran out another came in. In short, Grand Falls had been the political football of both parties since 1895.

Mr. Michaud—"Are you not guilty?"

Mr. Tilley—"No, I am not."

Mr. Michaud—"Did you not vote to extend the franchise in 1916?"

Mr. Tilley—"Yes, and I would do it again."

Continuing, the speaker said that in 1916 the company gave a guarantee to expend $100,000 within a year after the declaration of peace. That time was not quite up and $100,000 had not been expended. It was the duty of every member of the House, whether on the Speaker's right or left, to vote against granting any extension.

Mr. Michaud—"Would it not have been better to have asked for the spending of $5,000,000 rather than $100,000?"

Mr. Tilley—"Certainly it would have. I understand that there is an application for permission to spend $100,000 and for the company then to rest on its oars."

Hon. Mr. Smith—"Does not the hon. member know that the company had actually had a deed of Grand Falls signed by J. K. Flemming?"

Mr. Tilley—"I do not. If the hon. minister had looked as carefully into the matter as I have he would see that what the company had was a continuation of an agreement signed by William Pugsley."

Mr. Michaud—"Does not the Act in question contain a clause providing that on payment of $60,000 the company can get a deed?"

Mr. Tilley—"I think it does. What is the use of going back into ancient history. Both Governments were guilty."

Mr. Michaud—"Let us make new history."

Mr. Tilley said he hoped that in the debate which was opened there would be more of the esprit de corps which prevailed during the first session of the present legislature, and that, despite any passages at arms which might occur within the chamber, all hon. members could meet one another as good fellows when they were outside.

MR. BURCHILL.

Member for Northumberland Says the Lumbermen Have Expected an Increased Stumpage Rate.

Mr. Burchill agreed that debates should be carried on on a high plane worthy of the dignity of the House. During the few years in which he had been a member he had endeavored to do that. He did not believe that the remarks of the leader of the government early in the session had been directed in any malicious spirit. He believed the remarks of the Premier had been delivered in a humorous vein. It might be well to remember the old couplet, "A little nonsense now and then is relished by the best of men." Humor relieved a situation which otherwise might become monotonous.

Mr. Smith (Carleton): "We don't want too much of it."

Mr. Burchill said the Workmen's Compensation Board was governed entirely by the Act. The reference to increased payment for first aid and hospital attendance made by the hon. member, he entirely agreed with. He had received communications from both hospitals on the Miramichi asking him to support an amendment to that effect, and he would be pleased to.

His remarks might not be considered complete without reference to the Crown Lands. The statement had been made that the lumbermen were making $10 a thousand. It was not considered exactly correct to refer to private conversations during debate, but he thought he would be justified in stating that the hon. member for St. John (Tilley) had asked him privately what he expected to get for his cut and he had replied that he did not know. Little of the 1920 lumber cut in the north of the province had yet been sold, and he could not say when. The logs were on the banks of the streams and would have to be driven long distances. Much depended upon the freshet and upon conditions of driving. He could not say whether the lumbermen would get their logs out at all or not.

He could not say but that operators of small portable mills in the southern counties were making $10 a thousand, but as far as operations in the north were concerned, the matter, like Mohammed's coffin, was suspended between heaven and earth.

Mr. Smith (Carleton): "You need sympathy."

Mr. Burchill said he got little from the opposite side of the House. If there was a possibility of the lumbermen making a profit this season, they would only make up for the lean years they had suffered in the past. The question of stumpage had been prominently before the House. The present administration since taking office had twice increased the rate, and if conditions continued as they were he did not believe that the lumber operators would oppose a further increase in the stumpage rate. The lumbermen were not apt to act at variance with the governments which controlled the Crown Lands, but generally agreed with them.

Mr. Smith (Carleton): "That is good business."

Mr. Burchill said it was good business, and it would be better if the lumber operators and representatives of the government could meet in a round table conference. Such would produce good results and stop much bickering. It did not lie within the mouths of hon. gentlemen opposite to offer any criticism on the question of stumpage, for they had offered to extend licenses for a period of ten years on a $1.50 rate. True it was that the order-in-council had been rescinded, but the point was that it had been passed at all. Where would the revenue be if that order had remained? The difference would have amounted to hundreds of thousands of dollars. If that arrangement had gone into effect the province would have been in a far worse position.

MR. GUPTILL.

Member for Charlotte Makes an Interesting Contribution to the Debate.

Mr. Guptill said he had been impressed by the remarks of the member for Northumbreland who had just concluded with regard to increased rate of payment for first medical aid and hospital attendance under the Workmen's Compensation Act. The Chipman Memorial Hospital at St. Stephen had communicated with him on that matter and he was in favor of it. He was pleased to observe that the debate on the Address had not been long drawn out, as he considered it a waste of time. He himself could be taken particularly as the representative of the three southern islands of Grand Manan, Campobello and Derr Island. Those islands depended to an overwhelming extent upon the Bay of Fundy fisheries, which unfortunately had been a failure during the past year. He hoped that the people of the Islands could be brought to take a greater interest in farming, but they need education along that line. Owing to pressure of business the Minister of Agriculture, according to his own statement, had been unable to visit the Islands during the recess, and he hoped that during the coming summer he would be able to make a tour as he (Guptill) had suggested previously. The Islands had agricultural possibilities and the people following the fisheries had time which they could devote to farming. During the year the Department of Public Works had expended huge sums of money on the Island of Grand Manan, the roads of which previously had been neglected. The expenditure was not excessive, however, when compared with that made elsewhere, as a total of $123,826,-81 had been spent in the county of Charlotte. The figures appalled him for other counties had received similar expenditures. He was afraid the province was not getting full value for its money. Grand Manan had received an expenditure of $10,561.47 upon permanent roads. He did not believe "permanent" was a proper term, for 75 per cent. of the so-called "permanent" roads would not outlive the term of the 20 year bonds which were to pay for them. He did not think the department was getting mileage in Grand Manan for its expenditure. He wanted to be fair, and he recognized that government money could not be spent to get dollar for dollar. The public would have been better served if the expenditure had been more evenly distributed, but of course, everybody could not be satisfied. In the carrying out of the permanent road policy some sections were sadly neglected. The public debt was a matter of tremenodus importance, and only recently had he begun to realize what it meant. In 1912 when he first came to the Legislature the total debt had been $6,719,978.48, and in 1920 it was $20,563,762.24. The increase had been tremendous, and was not the fault of any one government. If it continued at that rate the province would be bankrupt in eight years. It was a serious problem for the people were clamoring for everything. The government should be more concerned in increasing the revenue and in keeping expenditure within bounds. The province had not received value for its bonded indebtedness. There should be a better system for refunding the public debt. If the public domain was not sufficient direct taxation must be resorted to The great need was increased production, and toward that the adverse exchange situation would assist. Stumpage was the chief source of revenue. He had been

Great War Veterans Demand Deportation of Alien Enemies Who Cannot Be Assimilated

The Veterans Also Pass a Resolution Demanding Government Appointments Be From the Ranks of Soldiers and that Married Women Be Released from Govt. Employ.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Montreal, March 26.—The deportation of people of German, Austrian, Turkish and Bulgarian origin, whom it is impossible to assimilate as Canadian citizens, is demanded in a clause contained in a resolution relating to immigration, deportation and naturalization, passed by the Great War Veterans' Association on the resumption of its annual convention here this morning.

The resolution, which will be submitted to the Dominion Government, suggests that all disfranchised aliens be given one year to dispose of their property and also contends that all unnaturalized citizens should be examined before a properly constituted court, which will determine whether or not they are desirable citizens so that the undesirables can be deported.

The question of Orientals in British Columbia is also dealt with in this resolution, and the government is to be petitioned to make it impossible for them to own or lease lands. Protest is also recorded against the deportation of British born people domiciled in Canada, who may be charged with sedition, without trial by jury. The re-establishment committee brought in a resolution which provides for the naming of one delegate from each province to accompany the Dominion executive of the Association to Ottawa to interview the government and to submit the resolution passed at the convention.

It further recommended that all co-operation necessary be obtained, and explained in this connection that "co-operation" meant that assistance from soldier organizations could be accepted. The motion to transfer the convention to Ottawa was dropped, as it will likely conclude its labors tonight or tomorrow.

During the morning session a labor resolution was carried which demanded the appointment of two returned soldiers on the Civil Service Commission, that future appointments to government positions be from the rank of soldiers and that all married women be released from government employment.

Canon Scott, of Montreal, and C. E. Jenkins, of Ontario, withdrew from the presidential election this morning.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Montreal, March 26.—The Dominion Great War Veterans' Association, in convention here, adopted last night a definite bonus plan which fixes a maximum of $2,500 and a minimum of $1,000, subject to no deduction and payable to one hundred per cent. of the Canadian forces. Dependents or beneficiaries of fallen soldiers to receive what the fallen soldier would have got had he returned at the date of the armistice. The Government is asked to deal with the matter at the present session of parliament, in view of many and serious difficulties confronting returned soldiers in their endeavors to become re-established. The estimated cost of the plan is in the neighborhood of $215,000,000.

EASTERN CANNERIES MAKE ASSIGNMENT

Creditors Will Be Paid in Full and Stockholders Are Fairly Well Protected.

Announcement was made this morning that Eastern Canneries, Limited, a prepared food products industry which had recently been organized here, had been forced to make an assignment. The assignees are David W. Olts, of this city, and Paul F. Blanchet, of St. John. No statement of the liabilities and assets was available, but it was said that the creditors would be paid in full and that the stockholders would receive substantial returns.

"The company was unable to sell sufficient stock to cover the liabilities which had been incurred in the installation of the new plant and equipment," said R. B. Hanson, K. C., solicitors in the matter, "with the result that the Board of Directors and shareholders concluded the only way to meet the situation, was to liquidate. There are enough quick assets to meet the accounts of the creditors and when this has been done in the near future the property of the company will be available for use by a company which the shareholders could reorganize or for sale."

MRS. A. GROSVENOR DEAD.

The death occurred at Elmwood, Carleton County, last night of Mrs. Amelia Grosvenor, aged 73 years.

Mrs. Grosvenor underwent an operation a few days ago at the home of her daughter, but never seemed to rally and passed away last night. She was a lady beloved by all who knew her, of a bright disposition, and an active worker in the church. During the war she was an indefatigable worker for the boys overseas, and her death will be sincerely regretted.

The deceased was the eldest daughter of the late Senator Temple, and shortly after her marriage removed to Minneapolis, where she resided for years. Later she came back to New Brunswick and took up her residence at Meductic. She is survived by one son, Percy, of Brownville Junction, Me., two daughters, Mrs. Henry Hillman, of Elmwood, at whose home she died, and Miss Violet, of New York, and one sister, Mrs. Fred S. Hilyard, of this city. The funeral takes place at Woodstock tomorrow afternoon, and Mrs. F. S. Hilyard and her daughter, Mrs. James Sproul, leaves for Woodstock this afternoon to be present.

THE LUMBERMEN.

pleased to hear the Provincial Secretary estimate the value of the Crown Lands at $50,000,000, and also state that a lumberman had placed an estimate of $100,000,000 upon them. It was fair to assume that the province should receive a 5 per cent. return from them. To get that return the increase in stumpage rate must be tremendous, and the industry might not stand it. However, the lumbering industry should be contributing more to the public revenue. He estimated that if a profit of $10 per thousand feet was being made there was a yield of $2,216,456 on last year's cut. The chief needs of the province were curtailment of expendtiure and keeping down of the public debt. He had hoped that the taking over of the provincial wharves by the Dominion government would have been a fact, but he had been informed that the Federal authorities had decided not ot act. Pressure should be brought to bear, as many of these structures were in deplorable conditon.

Hon. Mr. Smith moved the adjournment of the debate on supply, which was made the order of the day for Tuesday next at 3 o'clock.

STOMACH TROUBLES ARE DUE TO ACIDITY

Tells Safe, Certain, Speedy Relief for Acid Indigestion.

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach-ache and inability to retain food are in probably nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive, burning feeling sometimes known as heart burn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.

To stop or prevent this souring of the food contents of the stomach and neutralize the acid and make it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia, a good and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quareter of a glass of hot or cold water after eating or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments and is a perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use.

An antiacid, such as bisurated magnesia which can be obtained from any druggist in either powder or tablet form enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial digestents. Magnesia comes in several forms, so be certain to ask for and take only Bisurated Magnesia, which is especially prepared for the above purpose.

MURDERER AT GRAND FALLS STILL LIVES

Newman Clark, Who Shot Phoebe Bell, Now Said to Be Recovering.

MADE HIS WILL FOR ESTATE OF $20,000

His Girl Victim Died Within a Few Minutes After Being Attacked.

Newman Clark, of Four Falls, N. B., who shot and killed Miss Phoebe Bell, a young lady of Grand Falls, N. B., yesterday afternoon and then turned his revolver upon himself, was still living this morning and there was every indication that he will recover.

Last night when his life was despaired of Clark made his will, disposing of his farm and other property valued at $20,000 to relatives. This morning his three brothers arrived from Four Falls, and it was announced that an inquest was not being held because the coroner did not consider it necessary.

Miss Bell was 18 years of age and one of the most popular young ladies in the town. She had rejected the attentions of Clark, who became madly jealous, and yesterday afternoon they were at a party at the residence of Henry Wood, when Clark suddenly fired three shots into her throat and abdomen. She died almost immediately.

Clark is 30 years old and is said to have two wives living and two children also, one by each wife.

money back to St. Andrews and other towns in New Brunswick and depositing the funds in Canadian banks, thus benefiting from the exchange situation. With a discount on the Canadian dollar charged by the stores in Calais and Milltown, Me., our employees are now spending their pay with the merchants and business houses on the Canadian side of the boundary line. The result is that merchants in St. Stephen and Milltown, N. B., are doing a hitherto unheard of volume of business."

"I have just sold four times as much goods on one trip to St. Stephen and Milltown, N. B., as I sold all last year," declared a well-known commercial traveller during a discussion on the exchange situation at the Barker House last evening. That gives a fair indication of the prosperity which has been actually shifted across the border and which many now believe will never go back again.

St. F. X. Team Won Debate.

The St. Francis Xavier debating team won the unanimous decision of the judges, Sir J. D. Hazen, H. J. Logan, ex-M. P., of Amherst, and Dr. H.V.B. Bridges, of this city, in a debate with the Mount Allison debating team last evening at Sackville. The subject was: "Resolved, that the increase in the general level of prices which has taken place during the past six years has been due to the increase in the supply of money and of deposit currency."

Morris Perley and five children, of South Devon, who have been confined to their beds for some days with la grippe, are now progressing favorably towards recovery.

Toronto, March 26.—Instead of a drop in the price of coal in April, as had been hoped for by householders in this city, the price is to be boosted still higher. The present price is $13.50 a ton, but after April 1 it will be at least $14.75, or possibly $15.

HON. MR. CALDER IN POOR HEALTH

Minister of Immigration Likely to Go South for a Time to Recuperate.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Ottawa, March 26.—Considerable worry has been felt recently over the condition of Hon. J. A. Calder, Minister of Immigration and Colonization, who was suffering from an attack of influenza and who was also threatened for a time with pneumonia.

However, the minister is said to be in much better health at present, but it is expected that he may find it necessary to go away for a short time to recover his strength. While definite plans have not been made, it is understood Mr. Calder will probably go south for a few weeks and will likely leave this week or early next week.

TO MAKE STATEMENT ON FRANCHISE BILL

Hon. Mr. Meighen to Explain Effect of Disfranchising Clause in House Today.

House of Commons, Ottawa, March 25.—Before the debate on the second reading of the Franchise Bill is resumed tomorrow, Hon. Arthur Meighen, Minister of the Interior, will make a statement as to the effect of the disfranchising clause in the bill. Interpretations placed on the clauses during today's debate are, it is understood, not in accordance with the intention of the Government, when the bill was formed. Mr. Meighen, it is proposed, will therefore state the Government's position in the matter.

Mr. Fielding, who adjourned the debate, has, it is understood, consented to give place to Mr. Meighen for this purpose.

Hon. C. H. LaBillois, of Dalhousie, is in the city, and is being warmly welcomed by his many friends.

Mrs. D. W. Ledingham, of St. John, is at the Queen Hotel.

British Gold Being Shipped To United States According To Reports in New York Papers

The Statement is Made that the Gold Has Already Reached Canada and Has Been Temporarily Stored at Ottawa—Brought to Canada in British Warships.

New York, March 26.—The Sun and New York Herald, which last week printed a report that a large amount of British gold was being shipped to New York via Halifax, today declares the gold has been temporarily stored in Ottawa and is to be shipped here from the Dominion capital in the near future.

The Sun story says: "For the first time since the publication of news that British gold was about to be sent to New York via Canada, the Bank of England's weekly statement, issued yesterday, showed a loss in gold holdings of £2,500,000, equivalent at normal rates of exchange to £12,500,000.

"This is a reduction in the visible amount of gold at the disposal of the British government. There is no way of checking up on the movement of the invisible holdings, which are not in the custody of the Bank of England.

Nothing Known at Halifax.

Halifax, N. S., March 26.—At the naval station here this morning it was stated that officials were without information as to importation of gold, reported from New York. No British warships have arrived here recently and so far as is known in local naval circles, none are expected.

Events of a Day In Parliament

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Ottawa, March 26.—In the House yesterday, Hon. C. C. Ballantyne announced the Government will conduct the Canadian naval service on a pre-war basis after reorganization of the force. Admiral Kingsmill is to retire. A light cruiser and two torpedo boat destroyers are accepted from the British admiralty.

Hugh Guthrie moved the second reading of the new Dominion franchise bill, precipitating a stormy discussion. He explained that the object of the bill was to provide a uniform franchise throughout Canada for both sexes.

Hon. W. L. Mackenzie-King replied in a conciliatory spirit, stating that the opposition would endeavor to assist in framing a fair and profitable act.

At the evening sitting Dr. Edwards, Frontenac, precipitated a dispute by his strong opposition to suggestions by Mr. Pardee that persons of alien enemy origin should be allowed to vote. He declared that "there was never a country which prospered by suckling traitors.'

Dr. Michael Clark appealed to the Government to call a cabinet meeting and cut the disenfranchising clause bodily from the bill. This would be setting an example to the world of the only way for dealing with reconstruction problems.

The Lake George Antimony Mines.

W. T. Chestnut went to St. John this morning to attend the organization meeting of the North America Antimony Smelting Company, Ltd., who have taken over the antimony mines at Lake George from the Canadian Antimony Company. If matters go through, as expected, the formal transfer of the mines will be made to the new company early next month and work started as soon after as weather permits.

DALHOUSIE BEATEN BY U. N. B. 44 TO 20

The Intercollegiate Basketball Game Here Last Night Won by Red and Black.

The U. N. B. basketball team defeated Dalhousie at the college gymnasium last night by the score of 44 to 20.

During the first half U. N. B. put up a fine exhibition of basketball, scoring 31 points to their opponents 9. Their combination was working well and most of the field goals were scored from combination plays. Bridges, at centre, had the jump on Marsters, which gave U. N. B. control of the ball most of the time. Dalhousie played a good game, but they could not work the ball through the U. N. B. defence, who were playing a great game.

In the second half the Red and Black eased up and were satisfied with a score of 13 points while they allowed Dalhousie to score 11.

The Dalhousie team probably suffered, as they were not very well acquainted with the gymnasium, but they played a good game. Marsters, at centre, and Coster, the defence, were probably the most conspicuous players, and they worked well in combination. Ferguson played a fast game at forward and scored three field throws for his team.

The U. N. B. team worked in good style and all of the players played a steady game. Burden and McAndrews, at defence, worked well together and had little trouble in warding off their opponents' attacks. Bridges, at centre, played a steady game, he worked well in combination and also scored five field goals. In last night's exhibition he showed himself to be the superior of the veteran Marsters. Dummer and Willet put up a good exhibition each scoring six field goals. Scoring:

Harness Racing Circuit Facing Its Banner Season

Readjustment of Dates Made at Executive Meeting Here Yesterday.

W. H. GOCHER GUEST OF HONOR AT BANQUET

Successful Function Given by T. V. Monahan at the Barker House.

The Maritime and Maine Shortship Circuit is facing the 1920 season with the prospect of the most successful era harness racing has ever enjoyed in the East.

That opinion predominated the meeting of the executive of the circuit which was held at the Barker House yesterday afternoon, when dates were finally allotted and arrangements practically completed for the season's racing, extending through from the first week in July until about the middle of October.

Not less than fourteen solid weeks of racing were thus assured and there is not an open week in the entire season; in fact, several more weeks would have been taken up had they been available. There were several changes made in the last end of the circuit as a result of which St. John replaces Sussex in the chain, Houlton gets its fair week for a second circuit meeting and Fredericton's second meeting is shifted back from conflicting with the Houlton Fair—which would have been little short of suicidal—to what appear to be very satisfactory dates in September.

Secretary Gocher on Hand.

One of the biggest features of the day was the presence at the business meeting in the afternoon and again at the supper which was given the horsemen in the evening by T. V. Monahan, proprietor of the Barker House, of W. H. Gocher, secretary of the National Trotting Association—the administrator of racing and one of the leading figures in the sport in America. During the sessions Mr. Gocher gave several addresses which aroused a new interest in the sport, gave the horsemen a broader and better viewpoint of racing and fostered a spirit of co-operation without which, the horsemen themselves are beginning to realize, the sport cannot exist. It is unfortunate that it was not generally known Mr. Gocher was to be here, as had they expected to meet him, horsemen would have flocked from all over the East to Fredericton. One of the results of his visit was the passage by a unanimous vote of a resolution that the circuit be affiliated with the National Trotting Association and all its race meetings be held under N. T. A. rules.

Fredericton Affairs Ironed Out.

Incidentally, the Fredericton Park Association's matters were all pretty well ironed out when five of the directors met at the circuit gathering and held a private conference for a short time. One of the results was that Roy W. Smith succeeded P. S. Watson, who had resigned as Fredericton's representative on the circuit executive, and was also elected vice-president of the organization. There was general satisfaction over the outcome of affairs and Fredericton's season, it was said, would probably commence with Dominion Day races. The circuit determined to send a message to Ottawa impressing upon the Federal authorities the necessity, in the interests of the breeding interests, to allow the same betting privileges at harness racing that existed before the war under the Miller Bill. The only difficulty in sight, so far as the circuit is concerned, seems to be the utter impossibility of preventing the Woodstock and St. Stephen Fairs from clashing the middle week of September.

President S. D. Heckbert was in the chair at the circuit meeting with Fred M. Tweedie, of Chatham, as secretary. Others who were present included J. W. Gallagher and M. McWitt, of Woodstock, P. A. Belliveau, of Moncton, F. D. J. Graham, of St. Stephen, and representatives of the Fredericton and other tracks.

A Banquet in the Evening.

The presentation of a floral horseshoe by President Heckbert to Mr. Gocher was the culmination of the supper in the evening, at which Mr. Monahan was the host. Covers were laid for twenty-five, Mr. Heckbert acted as toastmaster, and the guests included Hon. Robt. Murray, Provincial Secy.-Treasurer, Hon. C. W. Robinson, former Premier, and Hon. F. J. Sweeney, ex-Minister of Lands & Mines, as well as a number of others who have been identified with and are interested in racing.

After the toast to The King had been honored, P. A. Belliveau, of Moncton, proposed the toast to Harness Racing, this being replied to by W. H. Gocher, secretary of the National Trotting Association; W. Bert Lint, the well-known owner and driver, and William Sharon, the trainer who developed the champion four-year-old trotter Bill Sharon, 2.16¼, and last year drove The Exposer, 2.06, to a new stallion trotting record for Canada. F. M. Tweedie proposed the toast to Our Parliamentary institutions to which Provincial Secretary Treasurer Murray, Hon. Mr. Robinson and Hon. Mr. Sweeney replied. Sheriff McLeod, of Sussex, proposed a toast to the City of Fredericton, to which ex-Mayor W. S. Hooper, general manager of the Fredericton Exhibition, and ex-Ald. Hugh O'Neill, secretary of the Fredericton Park Association, replied. Hon. Mr. Murray proposed the toast to Our Guest, to which Mr. Gocher replied, relating many interesting personal recollections in his long experience as secretary of the National Trotting Association. The Maritime & Maine Circuit was the subject of a toast introduced by Hon. Mr. Robinson and replied to by President Heckbert and Secretary Tweedie, the latter proposing a toast to the Press to which Bruce S. Robb, of the St. John Telegraph, C. W. Clark of The Mail, and J. D. Black of The Gleaner. Hon. Mr. Sweeney then proposed the toast to Our Host, which was most enthusiastically received and to which Mr. Monahan replied saying that his idea in acting as host to the horsemen was to provide a get-together gathering. After Mr. Heckbert presented a large floral horseshoe to Mr. Gocher, the gathering dispersed about 3 a. m., after honoring To Our Next Merry Meeting.—J. D. Black.

CITY STREETS UP FOR CRITICISM

Marysville People Who Spend Their Money Here Make Some Criticism.

Marysville, N. B., March 25.—The Marysville Machine Gun Battery held its first assembly and drill in the Orange Hall, Tuesday evening. Company Sergeant Major Frank Barton was present and Sergeant Major Instructor W. Warren of the Instructional Cadre acted as instructor.

The battery made a good showing on parade, and has a good lot of fellows in it, including a large number of returned men, many of whom are familiar with machine gun work. The slate of commissioned officers is as follows: Harry H. Hatch, captain; J. V. Andrews and Clarence Wade, lieutenants. These young men are all returned men who have seen a lot of real fighting. Captain Hatch was a non-commissioned officer in a machine gun brigade for a long time at the front and is a splendid soldier in every respect. The battery is to have a club room which will be a good thing for the boys. Needless to say that the cititzens will help the organization in every way in their power.

The Canadian Cottons, Ltd., are removing the C. P. R. station house from its former site on Water street, across the river to Main street, where it will be placed on the opposite side of the street to the residence of Mrs. J. Gibson. The building has been moved already to Bridge street, and is now in position to be hauled across the bridge. The winter's accumulation of dirt has been removed from the flooring of the bridges which will be snowed preparatory to hauling the house across.

Miss Gladys Finnamore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Finnamore, underwent an operation for appendicitis at Victoria Hospital on Monday. Her condition is quite satisfactory, and the young lady's many friends hope for a speedy recovery for her.

James Waterman and family are removing from Fredericton to Marysville. Their friends will be pleased to learn of this.

Mrs. J. S. Inch is confined to her room with a severe cold, and is under her physician's care.

The sewing circle of the Methodist church met at the parsonage last evening. There was a good attendance of ladies present.

Some of our citizens are complaining about the water on the sidewalks and streets, but from what we hear our sidewalks and streets have nothing on Fredericton in that respect. Many ladies were heard complaining of the condition of the sidewalks leading from the C. N. R. station to the corner of Queen and St. John streets. A young man who went to Fredericton Monday evening on business, and who intended visiting the movies after he had completed his business, fell on the sidewalk in Fredericton and landed in a deep water hole. He did not go to the movies but hastened with all speed, a forlorn and bedraggled sight. Our dollars look good to the business men of Fredericton; then why don't they see to it that half decent sidewalks are provided for the owners of these dollars?

Harry W. White won the handsome fountain pen in the Dawson club weekly roll-off Tuesday evening. His score for two strings was 198. The prize was donated by R. McL. Macpherson.

POTATOES SCARCE FROM LACK OF CARS

Getting Tubers from Maine Troubles Boston Dealers at Present.

Boston, March 25.—Transportation difficulties are raising much concern among potato growers and shippers, it was stated yesterday, with potatoes quoted at $1.10 a peck. There is a scarcity of potatoes in the Boston market because of the difficulty in getting them from Maine, it was explained.

"There are plenty in Maine,' W. H. Mead, a leading potato handler, said last night, "but the trouble is we cannot get them. Southern buyers have made purchases in Boston, but they are having their troubles in moving them. Chicago and the West have been in the market for potatoes for seed purposes, but we cannot get the cars, and that is the potato story in a nutshell."

Seed catalogues in Boston have the potato quotations omitted, with various explanations or comments, such as "furnished on request" or some reference to uncertain market conditions.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

How the Comrades Came Over the Marches of France.

After passing Cahors, the party branched away from the main road, and leaving the river to the north of them, followed a smaller track which wound over a vast and desolate plain. This path led them amid marshes and woods, until it brought them out into a glade with a broad stream swirling swiftly down the centre of it. Through this the horses splashed their way, and on the farther shore Sir Nigel announced to them that they were now within the borders of the land of France. For some miles they still followed the same lonely track, which led them through a dense wood, and then widening out, curved down to an open rolling country such as they had traversed between Aiguillon and Cahors.

If it were grim and desolate upon the English border, however, what can describe the hideous barrenness of this ten times harried tract of France? The whole face of the country was scarred and disfigured, mottled over with the black blotches of burned farm-steadings, and the gray, gaunt gable-ends of what had been chateaux. Broken fences, crumbling walls, vineyards littered with stones, the shattered arches of bridges—look where you might, the signs of ruin and rapine met the eye. Here and there only, on the farthest sky-line, the gnarled turrets of a castle, or the graceful pinnacles of church or monastery showed where the forces of the sword or of the spirit had preserved some small islet of security in this universal flood of misery. Moodily and in silence the little party rode along the narrow and irregular tracks, their hearts weighed down by this far-stretching land of despaair. It was indeed a stricken and a blighted country, and a man might have ridden from Auvergne in the north to the marches of Foix, nor ever seen a smiling village or a thriving homestead.

From time to time as they advanced they saw strange lean figures scraping and scratching amid the weeds and thistles, who, on sight of the band of horsemen, threw up their arms and dived in among the brushwood, as shy and as swift as wild animals. More than once, however, they came on families by the wayside, who were too weak from hunger and disease to fly, so that they could but sit like hares on a tussock, with panting chests and terror in their eyes, so gaunt were these poor folk, so worn and spent—with bent and knotted frames, and sullen, hopeless, mutinous faces—that it made the young Englishman heart-sick to look upon them. Indeed, it seemed as though all hope and light had gone so far from them that it was not to be brought back; for when Sir Nigel threw down a handful of silver among them there came no softening of their lined faces, but they clutched greedily at the coins, peering questioningly at him, and champing with their animal jaws. Here and there amid the brushwood the travellers saw the rude bundle of sticks which served them as a home—more like the fowl's nest than the dwelling-place of man. Yet why should they build and strive, when the first adventurer who passed would set torch to their thatch, and when their own feudal lord would wring from them with blows and curses the last fruits of their toil? They sat at the lowest depth of human misery, and hugged a bitter comfort to their souls as they realized that they could go no lower. Yet they had still the human gift of speech, and would take council among themselves in their brushwood hovels, glaring with bleared eyes and pointing with thin fingers at the great widespread chateaux which ate like a cancer into the life of the country-side. When such men, who are beyond hope and fear, begin in their dim minds to see the scource their woes, it may be an evil time for those who have wronged them. The weak man becomes strong when he has nothing, for then only can he feel the wild, mad thrill of despair. High and strong the chateaux, lowly and weak the brushwood hut; but God help the seigneur and his lady when the men of the brushwood set their hands to the work of revenge!

Through such country did the party ride for eight or it might be nine miles, until the sun began to slope down in the west and their shadows to stream down the road in front of them. Wary and careful they must be, with watchful eyes to the right and the left, for this was no man's land, their only passports were those which hung from their belts. Frenchmen anad Englishmen, Gascon and Provencal, Brabenter, Tardvenu, Scorcher, Flayer, and Free Companion, wandered and struggled over the whole of this accursed district. So bare and cheerless was the outlook, and so few and poor the dwellings, that Sir Nigel began to have fears as to whether he might find food and quarters for his little troop. It was a relief to him, therefore, when their narrow track opened out upon a larger road, and they saw some little way down it a square white house with a great bunch of holly hung out at the end of a stick from one of the upper windows.

"By St. Paul!" said he, "I am right glad; for I had feared that we might have neither provant nor herbergage. Rhie on, Alleyne, and tell this innkeeper that an English knight with his party will lodge with him this night."

Alleyne set spurs to his horse and reached the inn door a long bow-shot before his companions. Neither varlet nor ostler could be seen, so he pushed open the door and called loudly for the landlord. Three times he shouted, but, receiving no reply, he opened an inner dor and advanced into the chief guest-room of the hostel.

A very cheerful wood-fire was sputtering and cracking in an open grate at the further end of the apartment. At one side of this fire, in a highbacked oak chair, sat a lady, her face turned towards the door. The firelight played over her features, and Alleyne thought that he had never seen such queenly power, such dignity and strength, upon a woman's face. She might have been five-and-thirty years of age, with aquiline nose, firm yet sensitive mouth, dark curving brows, and deep-set eyes which shone and sparkled with a shifting brilliancy. Beautiful as she was, it was not her beauty which impressed itself upon the beholder; it was her strength, her power, the sense of wisdom which hung over the broad white brow, the decision which lay in the square jaw and delicately moulded chin. A chaplet of pearls sparkled amid her black hair with a gauze of silver network flowing back from it over her shoulders; a black mantle was swathed round her, and she leaned back in her chair as one who is fresh from a journey.

HOUSING BOARD HAVE $100,000 TO START WORK ON

Organization Meeting Was Held Last Night at Board of Trade Rooms.

HOW MANY CITIZENS ARE READY TO BUILD

Board Will Find Out Whether Secretary is Going to Get On the Job.

The organization meeting of the Fredericton Housing Board, appointed at a recent meeting of the City Council, was held last evening at the Board of Trade rooms. The Board decided to asceretain how many of the citizens wished to take advantage of the provisions of the Housing Scheme, under the Provincial Housing Act, and for this purpose arranged matters for the citizens to notify them at their earliest convenience.

This morning when asked about the application for the loan of $200,000 proposed by the City Council with which to carry on the work, C. D. Richards stated that $100,000 had been made available for the committee by an order-in-council of the Government recently. The interest at which the money will be obtainable is five per cent.

For the information of intending applicants tthe Board stated that the following amounts would be loaned on houses under the Act:

$3,000 to $3,500 for frame, stucco on frame or brick veneer, inclusive of land and local improvements.

$4,000 to $4,500 for brick, hollow tile or concrete, with fireproof roofing materials, inclusive of land value and local improvements.

It was also decided by the Board to ascertain whether Rev. D. W. Roberts, the secretary appointed by the City Council, would return to this city to take up the duties of that office. W. T. Chestnut was elected chairman of the Board.

Broderick, of St. John, met here and decided it was inadvisable to have the convention until June, when the session of Parliament will probably be over. A date which will not conflict with several other public gatherings scheduled for that month will be selected later.

THE EXCHANGE HELPS CANADIAN BORDER TOWNS

The New Brunswick Business Houses Meeting With Great Prosperity.

HEAVY WITHDRAWALS FROM MAINE BANKS

Commercial Traveller's Story Indicates Prosperity on Canadian Side.

The exchange situation is bringing renewed prosperity to towns on the Canadian side of the New Brunswick Maine border and is having a depressing effect upon the American boundary line centres.

Just as rapidly as accommodations can be secured families are moving from the towns on the American side of the border along the St. Croix across the boundary into New Brunswick and it looks as if the days were over when the majority of the employees at the industrial institutions at St. Stephen and Milltown, N. B., would trek across the bridge with their bulging pay envelopes to spend their money in the United States.

Taking advantage of the high rate of exchange many people have withdrawn their savings from banks in various parts of New England and transferred the money into banks in New Brunswick, where their deposits have thus been swelled. This has not only been done by people employed in the border industries, but also in some cases by persons who have retired upon their means. One man, for instance, transferred $115,000 from Massachusetts to a bank in St. Stephen, bought a fine residence there, paid all the expenses of moving his family and then had considerably more Canadian dollars in the bank at St. Stephen than he had American dollars there.

"There are a lot of banks along the border in the Maine towns which are absolutely wobbling just now as a result of the withdrawal of deposits," declared the manager of one of the biggest industrial plants along the St. Croix river when in Fredericton the other day. "So many withdrawals have been made by people wishing to take advantage of the exchange situation that it is questionable whether all of the banks and trust companies will be able to stand the strain. At Eastport, Me., for instance, the fishermen from Canadian islands, who have hitherto kept their accounts at Eastport, are now being paid in American currency there and are taking the

MARITIME UNION DELEGATION BEFORE THE GOVERNMENT

The Maritime Board of Trade Representatives Ask for a Conference.

HANCE LOGAN, EX-M. P., HEADS DELEGATION

Want Co-operative Arrangement Said to Be for Montreal Benefit of Provinces.

Hance J. Logan, ex-M. P., of Amherst, N. S., as president of the Maritime Board of Trade, was at the head of a delegation who appeared before the Provincial Government at noon today and suggested that action be taken to bring about a conference to consider the question of an arrangement whereby the three Maritime Provinces, while not losing their identity, would enter into a co-operative arrangement for their mutual benefit, particularly in matters to be taken up with the Federal authorities.

Miles E. Agar, of St. John, vice-president, and Thomas Williams, of Moncton, the secretary, were the other representatives of the Maritime Board of Trade, while the St. John Board of Trade were represented by R. E. Armstrong, the secretary, and Alex. Patterson, who is also vice president of the St. John Commercial Club. Dr. J. B. M. Baxter, K. C., former Attorney General, for many years an earnest advocate of Maritime Union, was also a member of the delegation.

Premier Foster told the delegation that his Government would take the responsibility of calling a conference of representatives of the three Maritime Provinces at an early date.

IRISH POLICE BARRACKS BLOWN UP

RED LEADERS FEAR DEATH IF THEY GIVE UP

Leaders of Revolt at Essen Place No Reliance in Govt. Offer of Amnesty.

GOVERNMENT TROOPS SENT TO RUHR DISTRICT

The Workers' Forces in Ruhr District Given Until Today to Surrender Their Arms

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Essen, March 31.—The Red leaders are grimly facing the task before them and assert that they are prepared to stake their lives for the success of the social revolution. Some of them, especially members of the "committee of action," expect to be shot if the government gets hold of them.

The military is outspoken in its distrust of the government's sincerity in promising amnesty and are finding many adherents among the moderates, who overwhelmingly controlled yesterday's conference, and who are said to recognize that they must make concessions to the demands of the military for guarantees, such as the disarmament of the Reichswehr.

To Carry Out Ultimatum.

Berlin, March 31.— Government troops in the Ruhr region have been pushed forward, the time limit fixed in the ultimatum from the government to the workers there, having been reached, says a despatch to the Abendblatt.

Confidence in the government's declarations has been voted by the Prussian assembly, which has voiced its approval of steps taken in the recent past by the cabinet.

Removal of the Erhardt naval brigade, which took part in the Kippist revolt of March 13, from Doeberitz, has been prevented because of opposition from railwaymen in the Altona district.

Threaten to Blow Up Mines.

Essen, March 31.—The time fixed in the Berlin government's ultimatum for the workers' forces in the Ruhr Valley to surrender their arms and recognize local and government officials, expired at noon yesterday and almost immediately the population of Essen, which had been about the streets during the morning, sought shelter in their homes.

Communist army leaders say the government troops have begun to march, but information received from other sources indicates they have not started as was threatened in the ultimatum.

A state of ferment prevails in the workers' army and a number of contingents from conservative towns like Dusseldorf have withdrawn from the front. A majority of the troops are demanding payment of their wages immediately and a paymaster, with money, was rushed in an automobile to the front. It is believed, however, a large element in the workers' army will not lay down its arms.

The leaders are determined not to surrender and in the opinion of many of the workingmen have decided to make an effort to have the mines blown up if the government troops advance, as the belief in the ranks is that the government will not grant amnesty to the leaders.

TO INVESTIGATE PRODUCTION COSTS

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Boston, March 31.—Agents of the Department of Justice in this city have begun an investigation into production and distribution costs in shoes and clothing, in an effort to determine whether present retail prices are justified. Books of manufacturers and of retailers will be examined.

WRECKED BRIDGE.

Providence, R. I., March 31.—The muzzle of a ten inch army gun projecting over a flat car tore away eleven iron pillars supporting the Atwells Avenue bridge yesterday and practically wrecked the structure.

The Red Troops Have Evacuated Darstin

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, March 31.—A despatch to the London Times from Rotterdam, dated Tuesda, says the Maasbode's frontier correspondent in a telephone message announces that the Reds have evacuated Dorsten, in Westphalia, after having blown up the railway bridge.

HUN SOCIALISTS ARE THREATENING

Issue Ultimatum that Government Must Suspend Military Action in Ruhr District.

Berlin, March 31.—Leaders of the three socialist parties here have sent an energetic ultimatum to the government requesting that it respect the Bielefeld convention and immediately suspend all military measures in the Ruhr Valley.

The government is given until three o'clock Thursday afternoon to either accept or reject this request. Should it be rejected an immediate proclamation of a general strike will follow, Chancellor Mueller was informed by a socialist delegation.

Moderates in Minority.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Dusseldorf, March 31.—The executive committee of the Dusseldorf workers, representing the moderate faction, which had accepted the government's demands for the cessation of armed activity in the Ruhr region, was taken possession of today by a company of the Red army returning from the front. An agreement was demanded and obtained that a new committee be appointed to carry out the soldiers programme for the return of the troops to their posts and for the withdrawal of the acceptance to the government's ultimatum.

The new committee contends that compliance with the terms of the ultimatum, particularly the surrender of arms, is a physical impossibility.

MOST BEAUTIFUL NURSE IN WORLD

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Washington, March 31. — Princess Nadija Vasilievna Toubetzkoy, styled the most beautiful nurse in the world, objected to the admiration of movie men, reporters and a curious public whilst performing her duties at the Garfield Memorial Hospital. Consequently she left Saturday after informing the Superintendent that the ordeal was "too nerve racking," and has not returned.

MORE BRITISH GOLD FOR UNITED STATES

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, March 31.—In addition to the shipments of gold to New York on board the steamer Lapland, which arrived in New York Sunday, the Carmania and the Minnekahda, which sailed last Saturday for New York, carried 17 tons of the yellow metal to New York, and the American liner Philadelphia, when she sails this week, will take two million pounds sterling, according to the financial editor of the London Times.

NEW AIR RECORD.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 31.—The speed record for mail by the air line between Cleveland and Chicago was broken yesterday when Pilot J. H. Knight covered the 340 miles to this city in two hours and ten minutes, an average speeed of 157 miles an hour. The previous record, two hours and 12 minutes, was also held by Knight made several weeks ago.

PANAMA HONORS PRINCE OF WALES

State Banquet for Royal Visitor This Evening—Prince to Leave on Thursday.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Panama, March 31.—Prominent members of the British colony here presented an address to the Prince of Wales aboard the Renown, and the rest of the day will be spent in sightseeing In the evening the Panama Government will give a state banquet in honor of the royal visitor, which will be followed by a reception and formal ball.

The Renown will sail Thursday for San Diego, after taking aboard 3,000 barrels of oil at Balboa.

From San Diego, where the United States State Department will send a representative to again welcome the Prince of Wales to the country, the Renown will proceed to Honolulu, where she will arrive April 16, and thence to the Fiji Islands, New Zealand and Australia.

The members of the suite of the Prince of Wales are:

Rear Admiral Halsey, chief of staff; Lieutenant Colonel E. Grigg, secretary; Sir Godfrey Thomas, personal secretary; Capt. Dudley North, extra Equerry, and Captain Lord Claud Hamilton and Captain Hon. Piers Leigh, Equerries.

The rear admiral's staff is composed of Lieutenant Commander A. Janion, paymaster, and Sub-Lieutenant Lord Louis Mount Batten, flag lieutenant.

Blasting operations in the Culebra Cut section of the canal were necessary yesterday before the Renown, with the Prince of Wales on board could proceed through the great waterway. As the Renown neared the point where landslides have recently occurred, boats went ahead and made soundings, discovering a rock 50 feet square directly in the course to be taken by the vessel. After a wait of two hours, the rock was removed at the risk of dislodging more landslides, and then the Renown was towed over the dangerous and narrow channel.

This was the only hitch in the programme arranged for the Prince's visit to the Panama Canal. When the Renown arrived at the Atlantic end of the waterway, it was boarded by Governor Harding, President Lefevre, United States and French representatives, and commanders of the United States military, naval and Isthmian forces. When Gatun Dam was reached, Governor Harding explained the operation of the canal, the Prince expressing astonishment at the magnitude of the engineering feat accomplished there.

A luncheon was given on board the Renown, the only toast being to King George and President. The British Minister gave a dinner, reception and dance in honor of the Prince at the Hotel Tivoli last night.

The Prince appears to be in better health than when he visited Canada and the United States.

After a fierce fight, the raiders, some of whom are believed to have been wounded, were driven off.

FRENCH LABOR MANIFESTATION

Federation of Labor Leader Says There is Nothing Revolutionary in Aims.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, March 31.—The second day's meeting of the general Federation of Labor yesterday was free from revolutionary talk.

Leon Jouhaux, vice president of the International Trades Union Federation, delivered a long address dwelling on the critical economic situation of Europe, which he said was menaced with starvation if a total reorganization of production was not brought about.

The correspondent asked M. Jouhaux after the meeting had ended whether in speaking of the capitalist classes he had reference to persons in England or America.

"Draw your own conclusions," replied M. Jouhaux. "You know very well what countries I refer to."

Jouhaux asked the meeting to pass a resolution calling for a levy of one franc from each member of the general Federation of Labor, in order that the money might be used to assist the Vienna working men. He also advocated sending immediately a workmen's commission to Russia.

Jouhaux concluded his address to the meeting by saying that the labor manifestation of May 1st would have no revolutionary aims, but that it would be for "the nationalization of the large public services in France, which is of the utmost importance to the French workmen."

Walsh, general manager of the Quebec Central Railway, stated, while in the city yesterday, that the contract for the construction of an eight mile branch line to permit the Quebec Central to cross the Quebec bridge and run into this city, had been awarded. He said that the work would be started within a few days.

The branch line will run from Scott's Junction to St. Isidore, where the Quebec Central will connect with the Canadian National Railways system. It is expected that the branch line will be completed by next fall.

Speaking of flods in Chaudiere Valley, Mr. Walsh said he did not anticipate any further damage should heavy rains keep off. He said that the lines of the Quebec Central had not been seriously menaced by the inundations.

PULP PAPER LEGISLATION IN UNITED STATES

Several Bills Calling for Tariff Readjustment that Affect Canadian Interests.

CAMPAIGN TO FORCE US TO YIELD PULPWOOD

Would Penalize Provinces for Export Prohibitions on Wood Used for Pulp.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Washington, March 31.—A number of bills calling for tariff readjustment which affect Canadian interests are now before the United States Congress. Owing to the pressure of other business these measures have received but little attention from the members of the U. S. House this session, and it now appears likely that most of them will be sidetracked. Nevertheless their introduction indicates that the United States has not abandoned its high protection principles and it is generally believed that had it not been for the favorable balance in trade with Canada some of these measures might have been pressed more strongly than they have been.

Pulpwood Regulations.

A bill which has attracted a good deal of attention, in view of Senator Underwood's campaign to force the cancellation or modification of Canadian provincial regulations limiting the export of pulpwood to the United States, was introduced by Representative Hull, of Tennessee Senator Underwoor's proposal was to appoint a commission to study the question with a view to discovering what measures could be adopted to induce the provincial governments to let down the bars on pulpwood, and his resolution merely contained a hint of retaliation. Mr. Hull goes him one better. His bill includes a provision intended to penalize Ontario and Quebec for their export prohibitions on wood used for the manufacture of wood pulp. It calls for a duty of 12 per cent. on printing paper valued above 8 cents per pound, "provided, however, that if any country, dependency, province, or other subdivision of government shall impose any export duty, except license fee, or other charge of any kind whatsoever (whether in the form of additional charge or license fee or otherwise) upon printing paper, wood pulp, or wood used in the manufacture of wood pulp, there shall be imposed upon printing paper, valued above 8 cents per pound, when imported either directly or indirectly from such country, dependency, province, or other subdivision of government, an additional duty equal to the amount of the highest export duty or other export charge imposed upon either printing paper or upon an amount of wood pulp or wood for the manufacture of wood pulp necessary to manufacture such printing paper."

Forced to Look to Canada.

The effect of this would be to force the American customers of Canadian mills to pay extra duty upon paper imported from the provinces which have pulpwood exportation restrictions, and would mean the penalizing of U. S. newspapers, which are forced to look to Canada for a large percentage of their print paper supply. The bill is now before the ways and means committee. The general opinion is that it has but little chance of being enacted.

Another bill dealing with the wood pulp supply is considered to have a much better chance of becoming law. It provides for the suspension for one year of tariffs on wood pulp with the object of increasing the supply of print paper available for United States newspapers. It has been favorably reported by the ways and means committee.

Still another print paper bill, declared by its sponsor, Representative Kitchin, of North Carolina, to be an emergency measure needed "to save hundreds of small papers in the United States from ruin," provides that print paper costing not more than eight cents a pound will be admitted duty free. It was passed unanimously by the House yesterday and is now in the Senate. The present law fixes five cents as the limit.

An anti-dumping bill which provides extra duties on goods the importation of which is likely to injure any U. S. industry or prevent an industry being established.

The bill to repeal the Reciprocity Act of 1911, which was passed by the House last October, is still before the Senate.

CRIME IN QUEBEC.

Quebec, March 31.—It is the first time in many years that the Quebec jail is harboring so many prisoners charged with murder. There are at the present time five of them who have been committed for trial at the criminal assizes which will open here on April 6th.

ONTARIO TO VOTE ON LIQUOR IMPORT

Bill Introduced in Legislature to Take Effect if Referendum Is Carried.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Toronto, March 31.—That the Ontario government has relegated to a private member the introduction of a resolution calling on the Dominion Government to take a referendum on the question of prohibiting importation of liquor into Ontario became known yesterday when notice of such a resolution was given by H. McCreary, U. F. O. member for North Lanark.

F. G. Sandy, U. F. O. member for South Victoria, gave notice of a bill to become effective in the event of the referendum being carried, which would restrict importations into the province to liquor imported by the license commission for medicinal or commercial purposes. The resolution and the bill will be debated either on Thursday of this week or when the House re-assembles after the Easter recess.

Official announcement also was made yesterday that the government has decided not to renew the certificates for export liquor warehouses, which expires today. There are fourteen such warehouses in the province.

PRINT PAPER TAX IN UNITED STATES

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Washington, March 31.—Print paper costing more than eight cents a pound would be admitted tax free under a bill amending the revenue act, passed unanimously by the House yesterday and sent to the Senate. The present law fixed five cents as the limit, but members said none at that price was obtainable for import.

Representative Kitchen, Democrat, North Carolina, said the bill was an emergency measure, needed to save hundreds of small papers from ruin.

C. N. R. DEFICIT OF FIFTY MILLIONS

Minister of Railways Presentment of Conditions on the National Railways.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, March 31.—It would be vain to say that a statement which involved a loss on the operations of the Canadian National Railways system for the calendar year 1919 of nearly fifty million dollars gave any degree of satisfaction to anyone. The Minister himself, who presented the statement, made no effort to conceal the fact that he had to present to his "shareholders" a pretty unpleasant balance sheet; but it was at least the expected that happened. If there was any particular speculation indulged in in advance, it was only as to what the amount of the loss would be.

Nevertheless, after the first shock of that deficit is recovered from, and the situation analyzed, it is difficult to see how, in the circumstances under which the system, or the component parts of it, has been carrying on in recent years, and particularly since the McAdoo award, anything else could be expected. For while the McAdoo award, which jumped the wages on the system nineteen million dollars in one year, was made retroactive, the same principle naturally could not be applied to the increase in rates, which it was hoped would help to offset the effects of that award; indeed it would seem that the only class which has any particular reason to be at all satisfied with the national operation of railroads in Canada at the present time is the 55,000 employees of the system. Whether under private or government ownership, it is difficult to get away from the fact that out of every dollar of revenue earned 78 cents went directly by way of wages to the employees of the road.

Under such circumstances the only way out would appear to be an increase of revenue. There was an increase of revenue of about twelve million dollars during the year, but the total revenues of the system still fell about thirteen millions below that of its great competitor, the Canadian Pacific. Yet this discrepancy is not so great that when the system is fully co-ordinated and has developed its plans, the revenue of the national system should not exceed that of its competitor.

There is the further consideration that in one way or other the Canadian public have been paying for the privilege of transcontinental railways, whether as separate entities or linked up under a system, and it would seem to be preferable for the country to be paying up its own deficits rather than those of private owners, which it has had to do with unfailing regularity for many years.

What is inevitable is that this statement will make the people of Canada extremely critical of the management of the road. There has been much open criticism of the personnel of the management, particularly the retaining of Mr. D. B. Hanna as president of the system. This criticism has taken the line both as to the President's personal efficiency and of his former affiliations with the owners of the Canadian Northern system. Regarding the latter phase, it seems only fair to say that nothing has arisen which would give ground for any fair criticism. As to his ability as head of such a huge system as the Canadian National has now become, there may be more grounds for criticism; but such will have to be based on reasonable grounds if it is to be effective. There is certainly a strong feeling that where such enormous amounts are involved, as will always be in connection with the operation of this vast system, no expense should be considered in securing the best possible talent at the head of the road.

A striking and not altogether satisfactory feature of the operations is that there has been a decrease in what may be called normal freight business, while the increase in passenger business is admittedly about normal, being largely made up of returning troops.

The financial consideration in regard to the situation is the possible remedy for the present losing game the system is playing. The minister suggests two alternatives, but did not undertake to recommend any choice. An increase in rates is obviously the first to present itself, but that involves complications connected with the application of the same to the Canadian Pacific, while any increase which would exclude that system would naturally throw the bulk of the competitive business to it.

The minister seemed to lean the policy of the country swallowing the deficits with the best grace possible until whatever time good management and the steady pursuit of business may be able to remove them. That the utmost economy consistent with good business in the operation of the road is necessary is obvious.

The management seemed to have this policy in mind in conection with its recommendations. The fact that Hon. Dr. Reid and Hon. Mr. Sifton very decidedly refused to consider any further expenditures on the Hudson Bay road is indicative of the attitude of the Government. Only the most presesing expenditures for better methods are being recommended.

A few weeks ago there seemed a probability that a lame duck in the west, the Edmonton and Dunvegin railroad, would be taken over by the Government. It is now announced that no decision has been arrived at regarding it. As it would involve an expenditure of about fifteen million dollars to take over this road and put it in running shape, it seems likely that Mr. McArthur will have to struggle with it alone for some time longer.

CHANDLER SIX

Famous For Its Marvelous Motor

Two Great Chandlers Right Out In Front

HERE are two Chandler Six models which the big and constantly expanding Chandler factory production has never been able to build in volume that could supply the demand of discriminating motor car purchasers. They are the Chandler Six Touring Car and Dispatch Car, the former a big, handsome, roomy, comfortable, real seven-passenger car; and the latter a trim, smaller car, suggestive in its appearance of all the good things of outdoor life. The Dispatch Car has a touch of snappy style in its clean lines, and is strikingly finished in the beautiful Chandler Rainbow Blue. It seats four persons in restful comfort.

Both the Chandler Six Touring and Dispatch Cars are mounted on the same standard Chandler chassis, developed, through seven years of manufacture, to a surpassing point of excellence and famous for its really marvelous motor. The Chandler Car is priced much lower than other cars which may, perhaps, compare with it.

Unfilled Carleton County Vacancy Discussed in House

Government Determined Not to Heed Voice of the People Declares Mr. Sutton—Minister of Health and Member for Madawaska the Other Speakers.

In the Legislature yesterday, from shortly after 4 o'clock until well on towards midnight last night, the House listened to speeches in the debate on the Budget.

There were three speches, and today the oratorical efforts will be continued with Mr. Peck of Albert the first speaker. After the formal opening of the House yesterday afternoon, considerable time was taken up reading answers to enquiries, but these contained little information of interest. About the only one which gave any interesting facts was that in which Hon. P. J. Veniot, Minister of Public Works, in reply to Mr. Smith of Carleton, gave $50,852 as the amount paid to Concrete Builders, Ltd. on account of the construction of the substructure of the bridge across the St. John river at Florenceville, with $16,194.82 as the total other amounts paid on account of this bridge to date.

Bills Introduced.

Mr. Magee introduced a bill to enable the village of Port Elgin to provide police protection, street lighting and giving it certain other powers.

Mr. Dickson introduced a bill to amend an act relating to the town of St. Andrews.

Hon. Mr. Tweeddale introduced a bill to amend the Act incorporating cheese and butter manufacturing associations.

Hon. Mr. Byrne introduced a bill to amend the Housing Act, 1919. He explained that it was proposed to enlarge the scope of the Act so as to enable the authorities of villages to take advantage of the housing plan.

Hon. Mr. Byrne introduced a bill to amend the County Court Act. He explained that it was to provide for increased fees in actions involving $100 on torts and $200 on contracts.

Hon. Mr. Byrne introduced a bill to amend the Judicature Act, 1919. He said that it was proposed to increase the scale of costs allowed attorneys in the Supreme Court. The bill also provided for increased witness fees, and it was proposed to empower a judge, after a verdict had been rendered or judgment given, to order a stay of proceedings. The present Act did not vest that power in a presiding justice.

Hon. Mr. Byrne introduced a bill to amend the Act respecting the legitimatization by subsequent marriage.

The Minister of Health.

Hon. Dr. Roberts, Minister of Public Health, was the first speaker of the day. He spoke for almost two hours in the afternoon and resumed again in the evening for another hour.

The Minister of Health spent most of his time defending the Public Health Act and dealing with his administration of his department, which he claimed had the most democratic organization for administering that could be found where any public health act existed. He said that in the inspection of schools 25,000 children had been vaccinated by the medical inspectors, while 5,000 other citizens of the province had been vaccinated freely in the work which had been undertaken for the elimination of smallpox. He said that he hoped to soon make the medical inspection of schools complete in every respect in all the rural communities of the province, while he announced that during the present year there would be a "sanitary examination of the premises of every house in the province."

Hon. Dr. Roberts said the Department now had 200,000 units of anti-toxin, which would be distributed throughout the province at stations to be named for free use and said that 95 per cent. of the districts in the province had made returns of vital statistics for the months of January and February, the first two months the new system was in use, which he felt was a very gratifying showing. The returns for February, he said, made it appear as if the number of births, marriages and deaths reported during the year would be approximately 10,000 births, 2,000 marriages and from 4,000 to 5,000 deaths. He replied at some length to criticisms that the Act is unworkable in the rural districts, asserting that it is in the country districts that control is more necessary than in the cities.

Considerable stress was placed upon the scarcity of physicians and nurses in the province, as shown during the periods of epidemics, and said he was looking forward to the day when there will be a Victorian Order nurse located in the centre of each parish of the entire province. He said the Victorian Order were considering the establishment of a school in this province where instructions could be given which would somewhat relieve the scarcity of nurses and at the same time provide the rural communities with nurses capable of doing much to relieve pain and suffering and thus assist the physicians, more of whom he hoped would be attracted to New Brunswick to take up work in districts which were now without doctors.

MR. SUTTON.

Member for Carleton Makes Moderate But Striking Criticism of the Government.

Mr. Sutton said he had not inquired as to the Carleton vacancy during the present session, but he would have to refer to the matter. The people boasted of their democracy but it seemed as if they were drifting toward autocracy. He did not believe that all the occupants of the Government benches approved of the Government's action in leaving the Carleton seat unfilled. There had been a good deal of manoeuvring in connection with the matter; first there was one scheme and then another but the Government seemed to be determined not to heed the voice of the people. They had tried first the United Farmers, then the Returned Soldiers, but nothing had been accomplished. He hoped that legislation would be enacted by which vacancies would be filled automatically without delay.

It was scarcely necessary for him to tell that he was much interested in securing more adequate salaries for school teachers. He had served on the Commission which had dealt with the matter and whose report was now before the House. He did not think there was any disposition on the part of members to criticise the proposal to increase the salaries of teachers, but they might differ as to how the money should be raised. He hoped the whole House would consider the matter in a non-partisan way and adopt the plan suggested by the Commission. He regarded the matter as far too important to be dealt with from the standpoint of party politics. While on the subject he would refer to the great loss the cause of education had sustained by the death of Inspector Meagher, a highly cultured gentleman who enjoyed the respect of the community in which he labored for many years.

Woodstock's Vocational School.

He was much interested in Vocational Education and he believed it would greatly enlarge the possibilities before the young people of the province. They had established a school in Carleton county and while the work had been difficult it had been attended with great success.

He had not had tome to carefully peruse the Water Power Bill introduced by the Premier, but he felt that the time was ripe for an advance along that line. They had been marking time altogether too long and steps must now be taken to develop the water powers of the province. The high price of fuel now made manufacturing almost prohibitory, and he hoped the Government would provide the hydro power which was so much needed. He was not going to criticise the proposed plan but there might be danger ahead. The experiences of the past might serve as a safeguard, and he hoped the mistakes would not be repeated. He trusted that only experienced men would compose the Commission. He was not altogether in accord with the Commission that had been acting, as he believed a matter of that kind should be kept out of politics. He trusted that hydro-electric power would in the near future become a reality in the province.

Too Many Deficits.

He had been a member of the House for four sessions and each time the Government had faced a deficit. Nobody appeared to be responsible for it and the claim was put forth that it was good business. He did not believe the people wanted a deficit each year, although it was not always a good thing to give the people what they wanted. He did not think it was the proper thing for the Premier to stand up, compliment his Ministers and treat the deficit in a light manner. In his own private business he would not be likely to follow such a course. The Government might say that the deficit was due to increasing costs. That might be true, yet when they were in Opposition, seeking the reins of power, they had promised to administer the affairs of the province with the strictest economy. In 1916 the cost of the Agricultural Department was $46,617.42 and in 1919, under the present administration, it was $79,513.-

"Safety First" To Be Enforced.

People Taking Matters Into Their Own Hands.

Public safety does not alone concern the operation of railways, street cars and motors. It lies deeper. It lies in the health of the people.

One of the greatest enemies to health is kidney trouble. If the kidneys don't filter from the blood the uric acid and other poisons, the general health declines, and all manner of ills appear—rheumatic, sciatic, and neuralgic pains, lumbago, stone in the bladder, headaches, constipation, lassitude. There is certain relief for these ailments. Gin Pills help where other remedies fail. They build up the debilitated system, bring the kidneys and bladder back to normal action, and, by removing the cause, make impossible the evil results. Gin Pills do not contain any alcohol, but all the valuable diuretic properties of the Gin together with other diuretics and antiseptics which have a signal effect on the bladder and kidneys.

All druggists and dealers sell Gin Pills under a guarantee to return your money if they do not bring relief. If you have backache, constant headaches or pain in the sides, begin treatment at once with Gin Pills. 50c a box. Free sample on request.

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP OF RAILWAYS—DEFICITS.

A deficit of nearly fifty million dollars is the result of one year of what is practically Government operation of the Canadian National Railways system. It is a very large deficit; and there is nothing in the handling of the business which can reasonably be credited as serving as a counterbalance. It cannot be said that the business of the country, the travelling public and the people generally have had the benefit of improved service; there has been deterioration in service, not improvement. It will not be urged that the farming, the manufacturing and the business interests have been benefitted by a reduction in freight and passenger rates, and by speed and promptness in transportation and delivery; there has been an increase in rates, not a reduction, and transportation and delivery are now much more unsatisfactory than at any time in recent years.

The unfortunate and absurd manipulating of railway business in the United States under Government ownership and operation no doubt placed the railway systems of Canada at a disadvantage, but the company owned and company operated systems of this country labored quite as much under this disadvantage as the Government railways. The increase in the cost of labor, the increase in salaries, in materials and supplies were quite as great in company operation as in Government operation; the obligations in this respect were not unequally divided. And yet company management has not made large deficits and has given the public a generally satisfactory service.

Of the $50,000,000 deficit under Government operation, $19,000,000 went to increase the pay and salaries of the men and officers; but, unfortunately, the increase in pay and salary did not produce efficiency, nor did it result in producing more work per man; we have less efficiency than before, the work per man is less, and the spirit of complaint more in evidence. Such results have been disastrous to Government operation, and a vexatious loss to the business enterprise of the country. In the handling of men and officers under political party auspices, experience has demonstrated that in all public utilities in which Government controls we have inefficiency and costly operation. In construction, in purchasing, in the general dealings it is the same; and in even the planning and the outlining the pressure of political influence is, in nearly all instances, quite evident. And to this is to be added the pressure and the needs of the bigger fellows. In the losses of revenue, losses next perhaps to those which inefficiency and disloyalty incur, we can trace responsibility to the political pressure of localities dominating in efforts to get preference over others in facilities, service and in rates.

The operating of railways under Government control cannot be successfully carried on. It is true that the Grand Trunk Pacific, the Transcontinental and the Canadian Northern were the creations of the Liberal Government, although it may be set up that the Liberals were not wholly responsible for the Canadian Northern; it may also be true that the obligations which these political ventures imposed upon the country were such and so far-reaching in the effect that it became necessary for the Government to take control to avert disaster. That is possibly all too true; but all very unfortunate. The Minister of Railways was clear and frank in his presentation yesterday; he did not seek to dodge. But the responsibility for the present unfortunate situation is not his; he is seeking the best way out of the difficulties which have been made through the manipulations of Governments of the past. The people will wish him well; some may hope that he will succeed. But the job is very heavy, probably beyond possibility of accomplishment. The people will be called upon to carry the load for many years; it may be lightened somewhat, but that is the only hope at present.

CONDEMNS LENIENCY.

M. Barthou, a former Premier of France, has bitterly assailed Lloyd-George for an alleged tenderness in dealing with Germany. That will be news to Mr. J. Maynard Keynes, Mr. A. G. Gardiner, Mr. H. W. Massingham and the editors of the Manchester Guardian, who, since the peace was declared, have been denouncing the British Premier for surrender to the chauvinism of France.

One is forced to wonder whether Mr. George or Mr. Wilson ever read the popular judgments of publicists and politicians, remarks an exchange. For while the "Cocoa Press" of England assails him day after day with what he himself once termed as "cocoa-slop" for Bismarckian ruthlessness at Paris, Mr. L. J. Maxse, on the other hand, damns him with bell, book and candle just as regularly and even more vehemently for being a tool of the Pacifists.

The whole thing illustrates the impossibility, in statesmanship, of pleasing everybody; and the moral, we believe, is that governments are not to be guided or influenced by the opinions of extremists, in whose jaundiced eyes whatever is is wrong.

ECHOES AND NO ECHOES.

Echoes of the German radical outbreak come from parts sensitive to such influences. Naturally the Bolsheviki in Russia have exerted themselves to the end that the echo in that direction might resound as terrifically as possible. They have pursued with a vigor unusual for their lax armies the attack upon the Polish border positions. At points they have won advantages, though such only as recent comparison of Polish with Bolshevik fighting quality warrants our expecting soon to see relinquished.

In Italy industrial sovietism has struck what it intended for a concerted blow timed upon that in Germany. The seizure of a steel mill at Naples by a force of workmen had its appropriate pendants in the risings and disorders of Florence, Novara and Catania. Considering that the original outbreak in Germany came as a surprise to the Reds everywhere, it must be admitted that they have improved their occasion in Italy to no small purpose.

On the other hand the lack of Bolshevik reaction in the other chief countries gives reassuring evidence that the movement has lost its vigor. Save for a few fraternal protestations of solidarity with the brothers over-Rhine, from ultra-radical French citoyens and "comrades," the French radical element has held back. England and America have escaped Red outbreaks. Impressed as the Bolsheviki of the world must be with the need to seize this occasion, it must follow that they have become too feeble to give further immediate trouble in countries well advanced on the way to restoration.

Mr. Sutton, of Carleton, who addressed the Legislative Assembly yesterday in the debate on the Budget, was pointed in his criticism and fruitful in suggestion. In advocating a material increase in the rate of stumpage on Crown Lands, he spoke as a practical man, a man of knowledge of values. In declaring that the cost of administration of the Liquor Law was excessive, he spoke as a prohibitionist whose sincerity cannot be doubted; and his criticism of the large cost involved in the collection of revenue under the Motor Vehicle and the Amusements Tax laws was well made.

The New Brunswick Fruit Growers' Association, which met here in annual session today, is interested in an important work, and has already done much to improve the horticultural industry. This province is well adapted for the production of fruit, and under the intelligent leadership of Mr. A. G. Turney, the chief horticulturist, great progress has already been made. The citizens of Fredericton extend a hearty welcome to the members of the Association.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Fred M. Goggin.

Apohaqui, March 30.—The death of Mrs. Fred M. Goggin took place on Monday, March 29. The late Mrs. Goggin, before marriage, was Miss Jessie Livingston, of Harcourt, and is survived by her husband, seven children, the eldest of which is hardly fifteen years of age, three sisters and eight brothers. Her parents also survive.

Mrs. Mary Sommers.

After several weeks' illness, the death occurred on Sunday at the home of her daughter of Mrs. Adjt. Hargrove, Halifax, of Mrs. Mary Sommers. She was in her seventy-sixth year, and was a native of St. Andrews, N. B. Besides her daughter, Mrs. Adjt. Hargrove, with whom she had made her home for a number of years, she leaves another daughter, Mrs. Wm. Knight, of Calais, Me., and one son, Sergeant Major Sommers, of Halifax. She resided for some time in this city with her daughter.

Toronto Concern Get George R. Thompson's Stock.

A deal has finally been closed in which George R. Thompson, 87 Regent street, disposes of his entire stock to the Merchants' Sales Co., of Toronto. The exact terms are not known, but it is understood they are very favorable to the Sales Co., as Mr. Thompson has been desirous of retiring for some time on account of his health. Mr. Clarke, manager of the Company, said it is his intention of disposing of the stock locally, rather than ship it to Toronto, and intimated that his public announcement, which appears shortly, will cause somewhat of a sensation throughout the city.

Mrs. Coles W. Dugan left on Saturday for Fredericton, where she will spend a week or more with friends.—Woodstock Press.

CAN. NAT. RAILWAYS VERY GREAT LOSSES

78 Cents Out of Every Dollar Earned Goes to the Employees of the System.

Ottawa, March 30.—The presentation today of the Canadian National Railway situation by the Minister of Railways interested Parliamnt very much. It was a story which, no matter from which standpoint viewed, challenges reflection, for its outstanding fact was that the country sustained a loss of no less than $47,000,000, the figures being as follows:

Canadian Northern operating loss	$ 6,500,000
Intercolonial and N. T. R. operating loss	7,500,000
C. N. R. and N. T. R. fixed charges	19,000,000
G. T. P. operating losses	5,500,000
G. T. P. fixed charges	8,500,000
Total loss for year	$47,000,000

This great deficit which represents nearly one-eighth of the country's total revenue was attributed by Dr. Reid to an abnormal growth in operating expenses, cost of operation having advanced from $84,000,000 in 1918 to $108,000,000 in 1919; wages having increased by $19,000,000, the 55,000 employes of the road pocketing 78 cents out of every dollar which the system earned.

ARMY OF 70,000 TO PASS THROUGH CANADA

Word has been received from Halifax that an army of 70,000 men is to be moved across Canada within the next few weeks. The men are Czecho-Slovak troops who have been stationed in Asia, and it is said that they are being sent to their homes in Europe by way of the Dominion to avoid travelling through Bolshevik territory and neutral countries. The Halifax report says that the entire body is to be handled by the Canadian Pacific railroad and that the men are to be placed on vessels, presumably at Halifax. The Canadian and British military authorities are not to have charge of the men.

NEWSPRINT PROBLEM.

Ottawa, March 31.—The Fort Francis Paper Company has taken action in the supreme court of Ontario, similar to that taken by Price Brothers, denying the power of the Board of Commerce to regulate prices on newsprint.

The Stock Market

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York (Wall Street), March 31—The further advance of 21 points for Stutz motor at the new high of 391 was the outstanding feature of the early dealings of today's stock market. Other shares dominated by professional interests also were substantially higher. General Motors and Crusible Steel advanced 4 and 7½ points respectively, shortly after the opening. Affiliated issues, also oils, and shipping were 1 to 4 points over yesterday's final quotations. Adams Express and American Express at gains of 5 to 25 points featured the utilities.

The Quick Way to Stop a Cough

This home-made syrup does the work in a hurry. Easily prepared, and saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) in a 16-oz bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make 16 ounces—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for its healing effect on the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

FROM THE PEOPLE

WILL PREMIER FOSTER MEASURE UP?

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—From the explanations of the bill that has been introduced in the Legislature for the development of water powers within the province, it would seem that the Government is, unwittingly or otherwise, about to place on the statute books an act which will give the ratepayers of New Brunswick an excellent opportunity of judging the sincerity of the Foster Government in its professions to give us administration in the interests of the people.

The bill seems to be based on the Act which was the foundation of the Hydro-Electric development in Ontario, which must make it evident to all observers that the principle of the legislation is sound. The whole question, therefore, depends upon whether Premier Foster will prove big enough to name a commission of men who are qualified for the work of administering the act and who are not merely political friends, incompetent probably, who must be provided for.

New Brunswick has had enough of that kind of thing already, I would say.

Yours,
HOPEFUL CITIZEN.
Campbellton, N. B., March 29th, 1920.

RETURNED SOLDIERS AND THE INCOME TAX.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—The time is at hand when the Income Tax returns must be sent in by all persons who come within the provisions of the Act and I have been watching to see whether any dispensations are to be made in the matter for returned soldiers. So far, I have not seen where they are to be classed any differently from others in that regard. In other words, after putting up with army pay while those who stayed at home fattened their bank accounts, the returned soldiers are now called upon to pay just as much towards the bills of the war as the slackers who didn't get into uniform at all and evaded military service.

It doesn't seem to be the square way of doing things, Mr. Editor, and I wonder that there has not been some action taken in the matter. Personally I cannot see the justice of my being called upon to pay the bills of the war after having done my share and that of the fellow who stayed at home when the fighting was on.

I hope, Mr. Editor, you will be able to find space for an expression of these views whether they commend themselves to you or not.

Yours,
A RETURNED SOLDIER.
St. Stephen, N. B., March 28th, 1920.

HOW SOME AMERICAN MAIL IS BEING HELD UP?

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir, —One reason why much of the American mail coming to Fredericton is so delayed is that through existing instructions anything which resembles a circular apparently has to go to St. John under the heading of "postal parcels," there to be stamped "duty free' before going on to its destination.

Surely the Customs House in Fredericton must have upon its staff somebody capable of deciding whether circulars are to be admitted free of duty or not. There should at least be nothing done to delay delivery of mail matter any more than ordinary causes.

Yours,
A MERCHANT.

Montreal, March 31.—The Lord's Day Alliance of Canada, at annual meeting here yesterday, decided unanimously to follow recommendation looking to enforcement of the Sunday law in reference to movies and theatres closing.

Want Turks Driven Out.

Washington, March 31.—The United States reply to the Allied not on treaty negotiations urges carrying out of "the often expressed Allies' intention that the anomaly of the Turks in Europe should cease."

The Irish Problem.

London, March 31.—In the Home Rule debate many references were made to the dominions, particularly in regard to Asquith's statement that he would give Ireland the status of a dominion. Bonar Law said the freedom of the dominions applied to Ireland would mean a republic. It should not be forgotten that Ireland was as much a part of England as though it were not separated from it by a narrow strait.

Germany Can Use Army.

Berlin, March 31.—France has abandoned her demand to occupy the neutral zone and has consented to grant Germany from two to three weeks to employ a strong force in the disturbed Ruhr area, according to announcement last night in the German general assembly.

The Hudson Bay Railway.

Ottawa, a Marh 31.—A score or more of western members, in conference with Hon. J. D. Reid, argued that $2,000,000 should be set aside for completion of the Hudson Bay Railway. There is little hope that the wish of the delegation would be met this year.

Toronto Paper Assigns.

Toronto, March 31.—The Toronto World has made an assignment, but daily and Sunday editions will continue. No change in editorial policy, but there will be reorganization. The high cost of paper and wages and three months' illness of the managing director is given as cause of financial troubles resulting in assignment.

Those University Dismissals.

Saskatoon, March 31.—Prof. McKay, called to the witness stand at yesterday's session of the university investigation, maintained he was a member of the council and should have been called to a general meeting and given a chance to state his case.

Canadian Cars in U. S.

Ottawa, March 31.—Figures were quoted in the House last night showing there were 59,000 Canadian cars in the United States, against 40,000 United States cars in Canada as at March 1st. Every effort had been made to get the return of these cars but so far without result.

65, an increase of over $33,000. During the same period they had increased the expense of administering the Public Works Department by $6,609. That was a sample of the economy practiced by the present administration.

Administration Costing Too Much.

With reference to the Prohibitory Act he did not wish to be unduly critical. He realized that it was a difficult question and would not say that the Chief Inspector was not properly performing his duty. He noticed that the recipts for 1919 from fines and sales had totalled $54,654 and the expenses had been $35,950. The expenses represented sixty per cent. of the receipts, which in his opinion was out of all proportion. He was not condemning prohibition as he was ready to vote for it when the time arrived.

He would briefly refer to the Motor Vehicle Tax collected by the Government. In 1919 the revenue from that source amounted to $117,000 and the cost of administration $12,600. It had cost ten per cent. to collect the tax and he considered that excessive.

Hon. Mr. Veniot—Do you take into consideration the fact that $12,000 was expended for material, such as tags, etc.?

Mr. Sutton—"I have not taken into consideration the stamps you ask them to send."

In regard to the Amusement Tax he noticed that the receipts amounted to $64,043 in 1919 against an expense of $9,147. That meant that it had cost thirteen per cent. of the amount of the tax to collect it. To get that amount the Government had taxed theatres, picture houses and agricultural shows. He thought it was wrong to collect the tax from agricultural exhibitions as they were educational in character.

The Provincial Secretary had referred to the treatment meted out to the province by the Federal Government. Delegations had been sent to Ottawa by the present and former Governments. During the last two or three years New Brunswick was represented in the Federal Cabinet by Mr. Carvell, a gentleman friendly with the present administration. No doubt the Premier had discussed matters with Mr. Carvell and it comed to him that when that gentleman was the representative of the province in the Cabinet the time was opportune to have matters adjusted.

More Stumpage Required.

The Crown lands had been referred to by previous speakers and he agreed with them that they were the greatest asset the province possessed. He was surprised that the Government had not had the foresight to increase the stumpage rate prior to the first of August last. The present rate was not enough. He did not want to impose any hardship on the lumbermen, but it must not be forgotten that they were holding public property on which there should be a fair return. The revenue from Crown lands in 1917-18 had amounted to $617,662. The lumber cut in that year was 190,000,000 feet on which the lumbermen paid an average price of $3.26 per thousand. In 1919 the receipts amounted to $724,884 on a lumber cut of 221,000,000 feet, making the average rate $3.30 per thousand. The Provincial Secretary had placed on the Crown lands a valuation of $50,000,000. Capitalize that amount at 5 per cent and it gave $2,500,000. Taking the average receipts at $500,000 over the cost of administation and the province had a return of less than one per cent on its investment. The member for Albert (Mr. Peck) had been referred to as a wizard of finance and had been told to get in touch with Piermont Morgan & Co. He (Sutton) did not think that Morgan & Co. would think much of one per cent yield from Crown lands said to be worth $50,000,000. He believed the rate of stumpage should be fixed at $7 per thousand. Logs worth $30 at the mill and could be sawed for $4 per thousand. Add to that $3 for loading and hauling and it made a total of $37. He knew of sales that had been made at the rate of $40 and $50 per thousand. He did not think that the statement made by the hon. member for St. John, that lumbermen made a profit of $10 per thousand, was an extravagant one. The time had arrived when the province should receive more money from its lumber lands. Party politics may stand in the way, but it should be done. The lumbermen seemed able to keep the stumpage rate just where they wanted it. The lands on the western side of the river had been given away by a former government, but lumbermen who operated those lands paid as high as $9 in stumpage, and still were able to make a fair profit. The price of lumbed had advanced steadily and he saw no prospect of the market going lower. He believed the House should make it possible to secure more revenue from the Crown lands.

He wished to say a word in regard to the cost of executive government.

DEVELOPMENT OF OUR FISHERIES

The Member for Lunenburg Advances Some Proposals to Better Conditions.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, March 31.—Mr. Wm. Duff, the member for Lunenburg, gave an exceedingly interesting historical and statistical review of the fishing industry, in speaking to his motion urging the development of an aggressive policy in connection with the fisheries of Canada, surveying the development and present status of the industry on this continent and in Europe, and even going back to the time of Scripture for his analogies.

In Canada he showed that there had been practically no increase in the catch of cod, which constitutes our main fishery, for the past ten years, nor had progress in the United States been as rapid as in Europe. The value of the Japanese fisheries was increasing enormously and they have an eye on our markets on this continent. He traced what had been done in Great Britain and other countries to help the industry, calling special attention to the campaign of education which Germany had conducted. He said that if Canada had adopted some such programme years ago it would have done away with the present difficulty of getting certificated masters and mates. He criticised the present system of fish hatcheries, which he said were largely futile from a commercial standpoint. The experience of the United States was that the best way to conserve the fisheries was by enacting and enforcing laws and making a close season.

He advocated an equipped steamer for scientific investigation at sea the establishment of schools and museums, the increase of bounties and the establishing of a standard of quality, the further development of our fisheries depended on increased demand and production, and the utilization of by-products, a fisheries department manned by practical business men and scientific experts, and sufficient funds to carry on development. A daily refrigerator service on express trains to the interior markets of Canada was necessary, and concurrently with a publicity campaign would greatly increase consumption. With a standard for all cured fish, and rigid inspection, our salt fish could meet any competition. He also urged the fitting out of one or more hospital ships for our trawling fleet, and a scheme of state insurance, both life and accident, and for the care of aged fishermen.

Other suggestions he made were for the establishment of bait freezers, a lower tariff of fishermen's necessaries, a separate and new department of fisheries, and the encouragement of the immigration of experienced ushermen.

The adjournment of the debate was moved by Mr. C. Y. Peck, of Skeena, who proposed to devote himself to Pacific fisheries. He said the Minister of Fisheries had done more than any of his predecessors in the development of the Pacific coast fisheries. He urged that returned men should be established in the fishing business.

WASHOUTS ON THE B. AND M. RAILROAD

Two Serious Washouts Caused by Receding Waters of Connecticut River.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Brattleboro, Vt., March 31.—The receding water of the Connecticut river has caused two new serious washouts on the Boston & Maine Railroad above this town. The largest is near the junction on the West and Connecticut rivers, where there is a hole 150 feet long and 30 feet deep. The other is just north of Dummerstown station.

Train service, which was resumed over the line yesterday afternoon, is again detoured via Keene, N. H.

Attempts to dynamite the ice jam south of here were abandoned today owing to the presence of a solid field of thick ice extending two miles upstream.

UNFILLED CARLETON COUNTY VACANCY

In 1916 the amount expended was $45,852.89 and in 1919 it had risen to $59,445.10, an increase of $13,592. The Government had promised economy, but had not practiced it. The Minister of Public Works, while in Boston, where he had been treated royally, had promised to construct the permanent highway from the Maine border to the Nova Scotia boundary. That highway might cost $5,000 a mile or a total of $1,000,000. It was all very fine, but the Minister should not forget the bye-roads of the province. It might be all right to build roads for the autoist and tourist, but it was important to look after the bye roads in the different parishes. There had been an improvement in the roads.

After all the work was done on the patch work principle, and he doubted if many of the roads classed as permanent would stand for more than a few years. He hoped more attention would be given to roads in the outlying districts. The Minister had boasted that when he went into a county he always invited its representative to meet and advise with him on road matters. He (Sutton) was unable to find a member on his side of the House who had been thus honored.

Hon. Mr. Veniot—Did you ask the hon. member for Albert?

Mr. Sutton—No, I did not.

Hon. Mr. Veniot—Did you ask Mr. Grimmer of Charlotte?

Mr. Sutton—Yes, and he bears out my statement.

Mr. Grimmer said that the Hon. Minister had visited St. Stephen and had conferred with a number of citizens. He had told him (Grimmer) that he would see him in the morning, but when morning came he started off for the country in company with Mr. Hill. He did not consider that an invitation.

Hon. Mr. Veniot—I would like to make a statement.

Mr. Sutton, continuing, said he had about concluded his remarks and the Minister would then have his say. When the Minister visited his county, he (Sutton) would be very glad to meet him. He had been sincere in what he had said in the course of his remarks and trusted that conditions would improve.

Mr. Michaud of Madawaska also spoke, making a timely speech in defence of the administration, and then Mr. Peck of Albert moved the adjournment of the debate.

Sudden Death at Burton.

Death claimed last night one of the oldest and best known residents of Sunbury county in the person of M. E. Asa Burpee, who passed away suddenly at his home at Burton. Mr. Burpee, although 84 years of age, was very active for his age, and yesterday was around attending to duties and was out in the woods for a while with his sons. Early in the evening he complained of not feeling well and died shortly afterwards. For some years Mr. Burpee conducted a grist mill at Burton and was a prominent Methodist. Deceased is survived by three sons, Alfred C. and Morley, of Burton, and Edward, of Washington; and two daughters, Mrs. A. K. Forsythe, of Greenwich, N. S., and Mrs. J. C. Hunter, of Douglas Harbor. The funeral will take place from his late home on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. J. B. Young will conduct the service and interment will be made at Burton.

FRUIT GROWERS MEETING HERE

He referred to the events of the past year, including the co-operative marketing of 2,000 barrels of apples and urged that orders be placed at once for the minimum quantity of barrels required for this year's apple crop because with the barrel factory not likely to be operated at Oromocto this year, there might be difficulty in obtaining a supply. Three-quarters of a million of boxes for small fruit as well as thousands of crates are required to meet the needs of the fruit growers in this province and Mr. Turney suggested that these should be manufactured in New Brunswick from raw materials produced here, in fact, he said such a proposal was now under consideration and likely to be worked out. He welcomed such an arrangment as it woul mean uniform boxes and crates.

In concluding his report Mr. Turney urged upon the fruit growers that this is "indeed the opportune time to extend the plantings of apples in New Brunswick," declaring that "the ability of our growers to realize top prices for their apples on the largest competitive market in Canada (Montreal) and to do that practically at thte first attempt, has added greatly to their confidence in their ability to grow good apples from long established fruit growing sections hitherto considered as more favorably adapted." He predicted a lighter crop of apples in New Brunswick this year than in 1919 and advocated preparing for the fullest possible returns from a larger crop in 1921. In conclusion he expressed satisfaction with the strides made by the fruit growing industry of New Brunswick during the ten years he had acted as Provincial Horticulturist.

G. E. Sanders, of the Dominion Entomological Laboratory, at Annapolis, Nova Scotia, in speaking on the methods of Apple Tree Spraying gave the formulas for several standard sprays which improved the quality of the apples by their reactions upon the green apple bug and the apple maggot.

Following his address an open discussion was held, the delegates asking many questions concerning the spraying. The balance of the evening session was devoted to answering questions.

NO AGREEMENT UPON ST. JOHN POWER BILL

Corporations Committee Must Decide Three Points, It is Settled.

The differences existing between the city of St. John and the New Brunswick Power Company, which have been annually aired before the Legislature for the past three years, have now simmered down to three points, as follows:

(1) The rate base.
(2) The base rate.
(3) Taxes upon the company.

Efforts to have an agreement reached by the interested parties upon these three questions were made this morning by Hon. J. P. Burchill, chairman of the Corporations Committee, before whom the company's bill came for consideration, but the statement was made that to reach an agreement was impossible and there is now every indication that the Corporations Committee as a whole will arbitrarily decide by votes in private session the three questions mentioned.

That was the decision reached shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon after almost three hours had been spent in hearing representatives of the city and the company as well as others interested, including about half a dozen councillors from the parishes of Lancaster and Simonds, St. John county, who urged that the company be given such rates and such financial treatment as would allow the company to make needed extensions of their lines. They praised the company's energetic management and declared the company was worthy of more generous treatment than the city seemed inclined to give. Councillors O'Brien and Golding saying that the Power Company had been made a "political football" in St. John.

"If we are not in a position to show financiers that we have a sound proposition to offer on which a fair return can be expected we cannot obtain the necessary money for going ahead with the extensive development programmes we have in mind," said President L. R. Ross, of the Power Company. Mayor Hayes had previously said that the city wished to be on good terms with the Power Company and would be ready to go a long way in many respects if the report of the Citizens' Committee of three was accepted in full.

F. R. Taylor, K. C., counsel for the Power Company, however, expressed the opinion that there were some "persons not present connected with the city who would not have an agreement reached," when Mr. Burchill suggested a sub-committee of three from the Corporations Committee to meet with Mr. Ross and Mayor Hayes in an effort to reach an agreement. Then, after the councillors' speeches, Mr. Tilley moved that the Corporations Committee go into private session, prefacing his motion by a strong plea that it was a matter for the whole committee to settle by arbitrary vote in which both parties would be given fair treatment. The Committee passed the motion without a division and at once rose; when they will meet again is undecided.

J. M. Robinson, of J. M. Robinson & Sons, brokers, and James McMurray, of Eastern Securities, of St. John, appeared with the delegation from the Power Company.

A RED EASTER IN THE RUHR DISTRICT

General Strike Movement Has Broken Out in Few Places and Expected to Spread.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Berlin, March 31.—All eyes today are centered upon the crisis in the Ruhr region. The general strike movement, however, has broken out only at a few places, such as Bochum and Elberfeld, so far as the early advices showed.

Whether the Ruhr mining and industrial district, near Germany's western border, is to witness a red Easter appeared today to be wholly contingent upon the pacifying abilities of the Prussian minister of the Interior. His task is to mollify the labor elements and otherwise nullify the effects of the methods adopted in the Ruhr district by General Von Watter, commander of the government forces.

The army of rebellious German working men besieging the fortress of Wesel, in Rhenish Prussia, has received reinforcements and made new attacks, according to despatches to the Nieuwe Courant of Rotterdam.

The town of Hamm, in Westphalia, and several other places are reported to have been plundered.

At Essen the advices state a general strike has been proclaimed and carried out in full force.

Death at Victoria Hospital.

The death occurred at Victoria Hospital at noon today of Ivan Leslie Clewley, aged 47 years. Some time ago deceased suffered a stroke of paralysis and had been undergoing treatment at the hospital. He is survived by his widow, three sons, Ralph, with the Northwest Mounted Police, Harold and Edward, at home; and five daughters, Mabel, Adella, Margaret, Edna and Muriel, at home. A short service will be conducted at his late home on Victoria street tomorrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock by Rev. G. C. Warren, and the remains will be taken to St. Stephen tomorrow evening, where interment will be made on Friday.

John D. Palmer, president of the Hartt Boot and Shoe Company, Ltd., is being warmly welcomed upon his return after an extended trip to the West. He went as far as Winnipeg, spent some time at Battle Creek, Mich., and also at various Canadian cities. His return was somewhat delayed by his having to remain at Montreal to adjust the fire losses which the company met when their store in that city was seriously gutted.

THE EVOLUTION OF BERNIE NEIS

Rookie Outfielder Expected to Be Fifty-fifty on Either Side of the Plate.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Jacksonville, Fla., March 31.—The evolution of Bernie Neis, the western Canadian leaguer, into a bifurcated batter was the absorbing feature of yesterday's workout of the Dodgers. The practice period lasted only half an hour, old Jupiter Pluvius breaking it up with a heavy shower.

Neis looked good on both sides of the plate. First Manager Robinson had him hitting left handed pitching on the right side and the kid qualified at both the long swing and bunting. Then the manager had the rookie turn around and hit left handed against the right handers. He was about eighty proof on the south side. Robinson predicted that in about a week Neis would be fifty-fifty on either side of the plate.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

SEATTLE WON THE STANLEY CUP GAME

The Westerners' 5 to2 Victory Evened the Series, Which Closes Thursday.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Toronto, March 31.—The battered old Stanley Cup is apparently destined to go west again unless the Senators of Ottawa spruce up materially.

The fourth game of the series transferred here from Ottawa saw Seattle even up the series at two all, the sprightly Pacific coast veterans outplaying the National Hockey League champions at every turn and winning strictly on their merits, 5 to 2.

It was a good game from a "house" standpoint, but not from any other angle. The spectators did not take very kindly to the peculiar Pacific Coast League rules, which prevailed, not to the antiquated seven man style. Each club benefited to the extent of $1,350 after the Arena management had taken its "bit," which was also the same amount, but the players got nothing, as under the conditions they share in only the first three games. The two leagues also dragged down $225 apiece, representing five per cent. of the receipts, which were $4,500.

The deciding game under N. H. L. rules will be played on Thursday night.

Foyston, Walker, Rowe and Holmes starred for Seattle, while Nighbor and Denneny were best for Ottawa last night. The line-up and summary follow:

Ottawa.	Seattle.
Goal.
Benedict	Holmes
Defence.
Cleghorn	Rickey
Gerard	Rowe
Rover.
Boucher	Walker
Centre.
Nighbor	Foyston
Right Wing.
Broadbent	Riley
Left Wing.
Darragh	Morris
Substitutes.
McKell	Murray
Bruce	Nicholls
Denneny	Tobin

Referee—Cooper Smeaton.

First period—Seattle 2, Ottawa 0. Seattle, Foyston, 3 minutes; Seattle, Rowe, 8 minutes.

Second period—Ottawa, Nighbor, 2 minutes; Seattle, Walker, 6 minutes; Ottawa, Nighbor, 3 minutes.

Third period—Seattle, Rickey, 2 minutes; Seattle, Foyston, 5 minutes.

A BIG RACE SEASON IN SIGHT FOR 1920

Harness Horses Will Enjoy Banner Year, Predicts W. H. Gocher.

Hartford, Ct., March 31.—Light harness racing never presented a better winter form than at present. All of the racing and fair associations from Cape Breton to the Gulf of Mexico are planning to increase their premiums, while many of them will reduce their entrance fees. At the annual meetings of the circuits and fair associations in the different states, the delegates reported that race meetings in 1919, except at points where they were rained out in September, were the most successful ever held, not only in the matter of attendance but also financially.

In the Grand Circuit, the entrance to the early closing events has been cut to three per cent., while the amount charged in the late closers is optional with the members. In the west, many of the mile and half-mile track associations have adopted the added mone plan, that is, give a specified amount for each purse with the entrance fees added. This plan is also being adopted in the south, one of the latest circuits being the Georgia Fair Circuit, which will open at La Grange in October and close with the Florida State Fair in Jacksonville, after giving meetings at Griffen, Macon, Eastman, Albany and Savannah.

The eastern tracks still adhere to the regulations entrance fee under which they have operated for years. The larger purses and the lower entrance fees will, however, increase the winnings of the horse owners and in a measure offset the added expenses in the matter of freight, equipment and labor.

During the last three years many of the southern fair associations east of the Mississipip river have built race tracks on their grounds and given three or four day meetings. All of them have found it a profitable feature, so much so in fact that it will not be long before the fall meetings in Dixie will be almost as numerous as they are now in the northern states during the latter part of August or September. The extension of the season's campaign will also result in a longer outing for the managers of trotters and pacers who limit their racing to the 'glad fall fairs,' while it will ultimately result in more southern people purchasing racing material.

There are very few northern fairs of race meetings after the first week in October. Frosty nights and the chance of wet weather is something that a race track manager is anxious to avoid. From North Carolina south, racing can be conducted until the middle of November and if necessary one or two weeks longer without taking cold weather into consideration. This fact will give the southern tracks an opportunity to get racing material that has been tested on a long campaign and is in condition to put up a splendid series of races under favorable conditions.

To all apeparances 1920 will be the banner year for light harness racing. The war cloud has disappeared and while the Kentucky and Maryland law makers act as though they were determined to tax racing off the map in all other states the followers of the horses are free to go and come at will.—W. H. GOCHER.

HON. MR. CALDER TO MEET PREMIER

Questions of Naval Policy and Proposed Taxation to Be Laid Before Sir Robert.

Ottawa, March 30.—It is stated in well informed circles that Hon. J. A. Calder, who has gone south, will make his journey serve a double purpose in that while recuperating after his recent illness he will place several questions before Sir Robert Borden for his decision.

Among these questions, it is said, are certain clauses of the Franchise Act which the Government has intimated it would be willing to change, the question of a naval policy and naval development and the proposed taxation to be outlined when Sir Henry Drayton makes his budget speech.

Just when the budget speech will be delivered appears to be rather indefinite, and the expectation in some quarters is that it will not be heard until Mr. Calder has had time to place some of the matters before Sir Robert in order to obtain his viewpoint.

Members are beginning to express doubt as to an early prorogation. They say if all the members speak on the budget who threaten to do so, the debate will last for nearly a month, in which case it may be long after the first of May before that debate is finished.

When Home Seems Good

A BLIZZARD OUTDOORS—warmth and comfort within. There is nothing in the home so necessary as a good furnace. Stoves and base burners are unequal to the task—they choke the air with dust and only warm parts of the house.
And buying a furnace is a matter of knowing how. The warm air heating system is the least costly. It is the most effective and healthful too. The will keep every corner of your home delightfully comfortable in all kinds of weather. It draws in the pure fresh air from the big outdoors, warms and moistens it and sends it on its way to you. Stoves and radiators can only heat the same air over and over.
Every part of the Enterprise Blazer Furnace is made just a little bit better than is necessary—the grate bars a little stronger—the fire-pot a little heavier. These are the things that enable us to guarantee that the Blazer Furnace will give you entire satisfaction.

SECOND WIFE OF MURDERER FOUND

The second wife of Newman Clark, of Four Falls, held for murdering Miss Phoebe Bell at Grand Falls on Thursday, has been located at Houlton. Nine years ago Clark married Miss Elizabeth Nickerson, of Four Falls. He was divorced from her on July 3, 1917, and nine days later mairred Miss Fern Inman, of Tobique, Victoria county, a cousin of his first wife. The second Mrs. Clark obtained a separation and is now living in Houlton. Mrs. Clark had nothing to say when questioned regarding the tragedy. She has a child a year old who has been boarding with Mrs. Herbert Wood at Grand Falls, where Miss Bell was shot and killed.

Clark is recovering from the self-inflicted wounds at the hospital, and no date has yet been set for a hearing.

Chas. H. Underwood of Sago has recently shingled his house, doing most of the work at night, as easily when it was pitch-dark as when it was moonlight, for he is blind.

True Knights of Faith

The Lady Rochefort, a bright and laughter-loving dame, sat upon the left of her warlike spouse, with Lady Tiphaine upon the right. Beneath sat Du Guesclin and Sir Nigel, with Sir Amory Monticourt, of the order of the Hospitallers, and Sir Otto Harnit, a wandering knight from the kingdom of Bohemia. These with Alleyne and Ford, four French squires, and the castle chaplain, made the company who sat together that night and made good cheer in the Castle of Villefranche. The great fire crackled in the grate, the hooded hawks slept upon their perches, the rough deerhounds with expectant eyes crouched upon the tiled floor; close at the elbows of the guests stood the dapper little lilac-coated pages; the laugh and jest circed round and all was harmony and comfort. Little they recked of the brushwood men who crouched in their rags along the fringe of the forest and looked with wild and haggard eyes at the rich, warm glow which shot a golden bar of light from the high arched windows of the castle.

Supper over, the tables dormant were cleared away as by magic and trestles and bancals arranged around the blazing fire, for there was a bitter nip in the air. The Lady Tiphaine had sunk back in her cushioned chair, and her long dark lashes drooped low over her sparkling eyes. Alleyne, glancing at her, noted that her breath came quick and short, and that her cheeks had blanched to a lily white. Du Guesclin eyed her keenly from time to time, and passed his broad brown fingers through his crisp, curly black hair with the air of a man who is perplexed in his mind.

"These folk here," said the knight of Bohemia, "they do not seem to well fed."

"Ah, canaille!" cried the Lord of Villefranche. "You would scarce credit it, and yet it is sooth that when I was taken at Poitiers it was all that my wife and foster-brother ould do to raise the money from them for my ransom. The sulky dogs would rather have three twists of a rak, or the thunbikins for an hour, than pay out a denier for their own feudal father and liege lord. Yet there is not one of them but hath an old stoking full of gold pieces hid away in a snug corner."

"Why do they not buy food then?" asked Sir Nigel. "By St. Paul! it seemed to me their bones were breaking through their skin."

"It is their grutching and grumbling which makes them thin. We have a saying here, Sir Nigel, that if you pummel Jacques Bonhomme he will pat you, but if you pat him he will pummel you. Doubtless you find it so in England."

"Ma foi, no!" said Sir Nige. "I have two Englishmen of this class in my train, who are at this instant, I make little doubt, as full of your wine as any cask in your cellar. He who pummelled them might come by such a pat as he would be likely to remember."

"I cannot understand it," quoth the seneschal, "for the English knights and nobles who I have met were not men to brook the insolence of the base born."

"Perchance, my fair lord, the poor folk are sweeter and of a better countenance in England," laughed the Lady Rochefort. "Mon Dieu! you cannot conceive to yourself how ugly they are! Without hair, without teeth, all twisted and bent; for me, I cannot think how the good God ever came to make such people. I cannot bear it, I, and so my trusty Raou goes ever before me with a cudgel to drive them from my path.'

"Yet they have souls, fair lady, they have souls!" murmured the chaplain, a white-haired men with a weary, patient face.

"So I have heard you tell them," said the lord of the castle; "and for myself, father, though I am a true son of holy Church, yet I think that you were better employed in saying your mass and in teaching the children of my men-at-arms, than in going over the countryside to put ideas in these folks' heads which would never have been there but for you. I have heard that you have said to them that their souls are as good as ours, and that it is likely that in another life they may stand as high as the eldest blood of Auvergne. For my part, I believe that there are so many worthy knights and gallant gentlemen in heaven who know how such things should be arranged, that there is little fear that we shall find ourselves mixed up with base roturiers and swine-herds. Tell your beads, father, and con your psater, but do not come between me and those whom the king has given to me!"

"God help them!" cried the old priest. "A higher King than yours has given them to me, and I tell you here in your own castle hall, Sir Tristram de Rochefort, that you have sinned deeply in your dealings with these poor folk, and that the hour will come, and may even now be at hand, when God's hand will be heavy upon you for what you have done." He rose as he spoke, and walked slowly from the room.

'Pest take him!" cried the French knight. "Now, what is a man to do with a priest, Sir Bertrand?—for one can neither fight him like a man nor coax him like a woman."

"Ah, Sir Bertrand knows, the naughty one!" cried the Lady Rochefort. "Have we not all heard how he went to Avignon and squeezed fifty thousand crowns out of the Pope."

'Ma foi!" said Sir Nigel, looking with a mixture of horror and admiration at Du Guesclin. "Did not your heart sink within you? Were you not smitten with fears? Have you not felt a curse hang over you?"

'I have not observed it," said the Frenchman carelessly. "But, by Saint Ives! Tristram, this chaplain of yours seems to me to be a worthy man, and you should give heed to his words, for though I care nothing for the curse of a bad pope, it would be a grief to me to have aught but a blessing from a good priest."

"Hark to that, my fair lord," cried the Lady Rochefort. "Take heed, I pray thee, for I do not wish to have a blight cast over me, nor a palsy of the limbs. I remember that once before you angered Father Stephen, and my tire-woman said that I lost more hair in seven days than ever before in a month."

"If that be sign of sin, then, by Saint Paul! I have much upon my soul," said Sir Nigel, amid a general laugh. "But in very truth, Sir Tristram, if I may venture a word of counsel, I should advise that you make your peace with this good man."

"He shall have four silver candlesticks," said the seneschal modily. "And yet I would that he would leave the folk alone. You cannot conceive in your mind how stubborn and brainless they are. Mules and pigs are full of reason beside them. God He knows that I have had great patience with them. It wasa but last week that, having to raise some money, I called up to the castle Jean Goubert, who, as all men know, has a casketful of gold pieces hidden away in some hollow tree. I give you my word that I did not so much as lay a stripe upon his fool's back, but after speaking with him, and telling how needful the money was to me, I left him for the night to think over the matter in my dungeon. What think you that the dog did? Why, in the morning we found that he had made a rope from strips of his leathern jerkin, and had hung himself to the bar of the window."

"For me, I cannot conceive such wickedness!" cried the lady.

Music and Art are Wedded
In This Complete Phonograph of True "Period" Designs
WHEN you have been captivated by good music haven't you longed for the ability to render, in your own playing or singing, those correct interpretations in which lie nine-tenths of the beauty of either instrumental or vocal music? To give your own performances this added charm you have but two courses: one way is to have a musician personally teach you the correct EXPRESSION of each individual piece, the other is to have in your home the
McLagan Phonograph
In the almost unlimited repertoire of music afforded by disc records you will find the piece you wish to study. Then you may study at your leisure the methods of expression used by master musicians. What an advantage for children studying music!

Queen Anne M25—Solid Mahogany or Black Walnut
The McLagan-Fletcher reproducer means pure, full, round, natural tone in the highest notes as well as in the low. There is entire absence of that buzzing break in the shrill notes so often heard in ordinary phonographs. It brings out details that are lost in ordinary reproducers.
Music and Art are wedded in the McLagan. Every McLagan Phonograph reflects the authority of more than thirty years experience in the production of True Period Designs. These include William and Mary, Queen Anne, Chippendale, Brothers Adam, Louis XVI.
McLagan Cabinets are fashioned in rich woods with rare delicacy and precision of workmanship and finish.

FRASERS SAID TO OWN INTEREST IN RAILWAY LANDS

Declared to Have Purchased Stock in New Brunswick Railway Land Co.

PART OF THEIR TOBIQUE DEVELOPMENT PLANS

Donald Fraser Declines to Deny Report That His Firm Have Bought.

There is a persistent report in generally well informed circles that a large interest in the New Brunswick Railway Land Company, who hold more than 1,500,000 acres of timber lands in New Brunswick, has been purchased by the Fraser Companies, Ltd., or their representatives.

It is known that some time ago representatives of the Frasers and the company owning the so-called railway lands met here, but since that time numerous denials have been made that the Frasers had become owners of an interest in the land company. Now the stories have been revived, and it is said that the application of the Messrs. Fraser and other associates for authority to dam the Tobique river, develop power and erect pulp and paper mills at the Tobique Narrows is really part of a big development project in which the New Brunswick Railway lands are to be utilized.

Donald Fraser, of Plaster Rock, was in Fredericton yesterday, and when asked about the reports said the Fraser Companies, Ltd. were not yet ready to make any announcements as to their plans, but would not deny the truth of the reports.

Thomas F. Allen, superintendent of the Tobique Salmon Club, arrived here from Bangor, Me., at noon. He is here to represent the fishing interests in connection with the proposed bill to authorize the construction of a dam and other works at the Tobique Narrows.

Last night the Master Painters' Association at a meeting in the office of the W. H. Sutherland Company agreed to give the journeymen painters their demands for an increase of 50 cents per day in their pay dating from April 1st. For an eight hour day this will make the schedule of pay from $2.50 to $5 per day, the qualified journeymen receiving $4.50 and $5 per day.

This morning the ice dealers bubbed up with an announcement that the price of ice would be advanced from $2 to $2.50 per month to householders for daily delivery of from 15 to 20 pounds. This quotation is 25 cents in advance of last year's price while it is only a few years ago that $1 was the ruling charge. Increased cost of labor and delivery charges are given by the dealers as responsible for the advancing prices. At least one dealer is said to be arranging to start a system of coupons or tickets which will have to be paid for in advance.

Hugh Alward, Formerly of Fredericton, Found Dead in Halifax.

A telegram received last night from Halifax announced the sudden death there last night of Hugh Alward, son of the late Abram Alward and Mrs. Alward, of this city.

Mr. Alward had been in poor health for some time past, and has an extended leave of absence, part of which he spent in Montreal and the rest with his mother in this city. About a month ago he returned to Halifax apparently much improved in health and the news that he had been found dead in Halifax was learned of with surprise and sincere regret.

Deceased was 40 years of age and for some years held the position of light house inspector. He was unmarried and is survived by his mother, one sister, Mrs. G. B. Stockford, of Calgary, and three brothers, Reg., of Montclair, N. J., Lee, in the west, and H. F., solicitor for the C. N. R. at Montreal.

H. F. Alward left Montreal last night for Halafix to make arrangements for the funeral, which will in all probability take place here some time during the latter part of the week.

FRUIT GROWERS' ANNUAL MEETING IN SESSION TODAY

Lt. Col. Wetmore in President's Report Says Outlook for Industry Is Good.

LIGHT APPLE CROP IN 1920 PREDICTED

Boxes and Crates for Small Fruits May Be Manufactured in New Brunswick.

The fifteenth annual meeting of the New Brunswick Fruit Growers' Association opened this morning at the City Hall with Lieut. Col. O. W. Wetmore, of Clifton, presiding, and a representative attendance of members from various parts of the province.

President Wetmore in his annual address expressed appreciation of the honor conferred upon him in his election to office and complimented the organization upon having the services of such an energetic secretary as A. G. Turney, provincial horticulturist. In discussing the outlook for New Brunswick apples he referred to the fact that "our apples have gained such a reputation and found such a good market right near home in Montreal." He expressed the opinion that for some years to come Montreal "might take quite a share of our output," and declared the growers had received a good return last year with one of the largest crops in history.

"Our New Brunswick strawberries proved themselves about the best that are shipped from anywhere to Montreal and other large cities," declared President Wetmore in referring to the small fruits, and he quoted prices received as 35 cents a box by the crate, which netted 29 cents f. o. b. at the shipping station—"a record price and never netting below 20 cents." He advocated growing more raspberries and blackberries, for which there was a good market, adding: "It seems that for some time prices will be good on small fruits as the large preserving concerns have about exhausted their output and there is a good paying demand from them for an almost unlimited quantity."

The Secretary's Report.

Provincial Horticulturist A. G. Turney in an exhaustive report as secretary-treasurer of the Association, referred to the growth in the membership which had increased to a total of 174, while the financial standing showed a credit of approximately $1,400.

This morning Joseph B. Meade, conductor of the same train, told of the car having been broken into and then E. Dickson, fireman, A. Gallop, mechanical fitter, and George Neadles, fireman at the roundhouse, the latter three being included among those who pleaded guilty in connection with the liquor thefts and are now serving jail sentences, were called and told of

RUSSIANS ATTACK THE JAPS IN SIBERIA

SOCIALISTS UNSEATED IN N.Y. ASSEMBLY

Five Members of New York Legislature Expelled by Vote Fellow Members.

LARGE MAJORITY IN VOTE FOR EXPULSION

Extraordinary Session of Legislature Necessary to Order Special Elections.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Albany, N. Y., April 1.—Five socialists, Louis Waldman and August Clessens, of New York, Charles Solomon, of Kings, and Samuel A. De Witt and Samuel Orr, of the Bronx, the entire delegation of their party in the New York assembly, were expelled from membership in the lower house of the legislature early today.

The majorities in favor of unseating the men, suspended on the opening day of the legislative session on charges of disloyalty, were substantial.

The vote on the expulsion of Waldman, whose case was the first to be balloted upon by the assembly, came at the end of 22 hours of oratory, parliamentary wrangles and filibustering.

Owing to the fact that the men were expelled after midnight on March 31, there can be no special elections to fill their seats in the assembly unless an extraordinary session of the legislature is to be convened.

Defended Socialists.

Albany, N. Y., April 1.—Lt. Col. Roosevelt late last night, in his maiden speeech in the New York assembly house, protested against expulsion of the socialist members.

FORGED CHECKS ON ONTARIO BANK

Clever Manipulations of Depositor to Get Easy Money From the Bankers.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

London, Ont., April 1.—A month's preparation enabled a handwriting expert to clear $450 on a forged check, cashed yesterday morning by a local bank. The man who presented the check opened an account a month ago and made deposits regularly. He presented a check for $680 yesterday morning bearing the acceptance mark of another bank and casually intimated that he wished to deposit $180, but required $500 in cash.

A little later the check was discovered to be a forgery and the account of the person presenting it found to total, including the $180, deposited from the phoney check, just $230.

Another check for the same amount, $680, cashed this week by an east end bank, was also found to be forged.

Russia Expresses Horror at Crimes Against Chinese

China is Informed That Red Army Will Bring Everlasting Peace

TO FREE CHINA FROM ENEMIES

Cancellation of Territorial Rights Is Held By Russia.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, April 1.—A despatch to the London Times from. Pekin,. dated March 29, says the Chinese Government has received a message from the Moscow soviet through Commissary Jansen at Irkutsk announcing that a Red army is marching east to succor the workmen and peasants in Siberia from the "Brigands Kolchak, Semenoff, Horvath and their Japanese allies and establish everlasting peace."

SOVIET PROPAGANDA IN CHINESE EMPIRE

The communication expresses horror at the crimes committed against China and undertakes to annual all treaties and renounce all privileges improperly acquired from China. China is urged in the communiation to resume negotiations for the restoration of the Chinese Eastern Railway, the cancelaition of the protocol of 1901 and the extra territorial rights hitherto enjoyed by the Russians and the renunciation of the "Boxer" indemnity, the privileges of orthodox missionaries and mining rights.

The despatch says the soviet also offers to hand over to China without charge the great Russian tea factories at Hankow. The only condition made is that the people of China have complete freedom to determine their own system of government.

The message, the despatch declares, vaguely indicates that the services of the Red army will be available to deliver China from foreign imperialistic and capitalistic ambitions.

The correspondent says there is no doubt that everything offered will be accepted by China.

The Bolshevik, he adds, have succeeded in establishing themselves in the good graces of the Chinese and the future between them promises to be full of harmony.

THE PRINCE DANCED WITH PANAMA GIRL

Great Demonstration at Canal Zone Capital in Honor of Royal Visitor.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Panama, April 1.—Great crowds lined the streets and enthusiastically cheered the Prince of Wales as he went to the executive mansion to pay a formal call on President Lefevre yesterday. So large were the throngs that surged through the thoroughfares that the progress of the Royal visitor's car was often impeded. Upon arriving at the President's home the Prince was forced to go to the balcony from which he bowed his acknowledgments to to the crowd.

Later the Prince inspected the Pacific defences of the Canal and reviewed discharged British West Indian soldiers. He was the guest of honor at a banquet given by the President last night.

A feature of a ball given after the dinner last night in honor of the Prince was his selection of Miss Caroline Granberry, daughter of a Canal Zone employee, as a partner in several dances. He had not been presented, but, seeing her dancing, he asked that he be introduced.

Socialists Willing to Give Those Working for a Compromise Time to Effect It.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, April 1.—Organization of a world-wide May 1st demonstration in the form of a general 24 hour strike will be undertaken by the national confederal committee of labor as the result of resolutions passed at its meeting here yesterday. This movement will be urged in accord with the Syndicalist Internationale for the purpose of showing the solidarity of socialists.

Postpone Danish Strike.

London, April 1.—Postponement of the Danish strike until next Tuesday shows, according to a despatch to the London Times from Copenhagen ,that the socialists are willing to give the influential persons who they know are working for a compromise, time to effect a settlement, and that the strike will not take place if the situation changes in the meantime. Anyway, Denmark is to have a quiet Easter.

A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Copenhagen says the trades union congress is calling the strike requested that every effort be made by the unions to maintain order.

The same despatch says King Christian on Wednesday notified M. Zahle that he desired to meet him and Zahle's cabinet before they quit office. Zahle replied that neither he nor his ministers desired to visit the King, as they could see no advantage in such a meeting.

Copenhagen Bakers Strike.

Copenhagen, April 1.—The first move toward putting into effect the general strike ordered by the Danish trades unions in protest against the refusal of King Christian to reinstate the dismissed Zahle ministry apears to have been made by the bakers of Copenhagen. A number of the bakers quit work last night, stating they did not intend to return on Thursday. The stokers on four Danish steamers also struck. Despite these moves, however, it develops that steps have been taken to open negotiations between the government on the one side and the trades unions and the opposition parties on the other in the direction of a settlement. The Zahle party has requested all the parties to hold meetings on Saturday for the purpose of coming to an agreement on the question of an electoral bill.

It is believed in many quarters that if the government consents to the convocation of the parliament and the immediate passage of the electoral bill, the trades unions will be satisfied.

Tributes to Bliss Carman

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Toronto, April 1.—At a benefit entertainment last night for Bliss Carman, the Canadian poet, who is a native of Fredericton and is now at Saranac Lake in poor health, Mr. McArthur was the spokesman for the absent poet and he told in a happy and feeling manner of his early association with him. He said that Carman was the most serene, unworldly and lovable man he had ever met. His thought was all of beauty and its expression.

He was one of a group of poets which included Duncan Campbell Scott and Archibald Lampman, who broke new ground even in the well-tilled field of poetry. There was a serene timeliness about him.

Mr. McArthur recited several of Carman's poems, the most effective of which was his immortal "Spring Song," beginning:

"Make me over in the morning,
From the rag-bag of the world."

In opening his lecture, Mr. Sasson paid a tribute to Carman as a Canadian poet who had won admiration and appreciation in England.

Members of Parliament Have Settled Down to Work After The Preliminary Uncertainty

The Political Situation Has Been Cleared Up to a Considerable Extent at Least and the Legislative Programme Now Holds the Place of Interest.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Ottawa, April 1—With over a month of the session completed, Parliament has settled down to work along customary lines. At the outset, there was much uncertainty. The legislative programme yielded place in interest to the political situation. The Premier was away; the leadership of the Unionist party and its future were in doubt; a younger man was wearing the mantle of Laurier, and, finally, there was growing strength of the farmer movement, with the first appearance, since Confederation of a definite third party in the House. So, on al hands, there was comment on the "situation." Whether the Government might be forced to resign, whether, in any event, a general election would not come in the fall. Now, after just five weeks of session, the "situation" has passed for the time at any rate, and Government legislation holds the centre of interest.

Legislation of Session.

So far, the chief business before the House has been

(1) Adoption of the address by a Government majority of 34.

(2) Ratification of the Bulgalian peace treaty, with the almost inevitable debate on the League of Nations.

(3) Tabling of the Jelicoe report on Canadian Naval policy.

(4) Presentation of main estimates for an expenditure of 537 million dollars during the coming fiscal year.

(5) The Franchise bill.

(6) Presentation of the budget for the Canadian Mercantile Marine showing a net profit earned by Government tramp steamers last year of $1,400,000.

(7) Presentation of the budget for Government railways, showing a total deficit (including the Grand Trunk Pacific) of $47,000,000.

The Bulgarian Treaty.

Debate on the Bulgarian peace treaty apart from points regarding the covenant of the League, brought forth an announcement of probable constitutional charges of great importance. The query had been put why, if Canada were a nation, it should still be necessary to go to the Imperial Parliament for amendments of the British North American Act. To this the Minister of Justice replied that he was now in consultation with the Attorney General of the various provinces to see if some arrangement could not be reached whereby, with the concurrence of the province, the Dominion Parliament would have authority to amend the legislation.

Canadian Naval Plans.

The Jellicot report and its subsequent decision by the Unionist party caucus, led to an important development in Canadian naval plans.

Lord Jellicoe submitted four different schemes for a Canadian navy; but, in view of present financial conditions, the majority decision of the caucus was against further naval expenditure. Then came reports of the closing of the naval dockyards at Halifax and Esquimalt, and the demobilization of the present naval forces. Questions followed in the House. It was explained by the Minister of Naval Service that the intention was to continue the naval force on prewar lines, that orders had been issued to reorganize, that the British offer of one light cruiser and two destroyers would be accepted, and that action on a permanent naval policy had been deferred. The Minister of Naval Service further announced the retirement of Admiral Kingsmill as Director of Canadian Naval Service.

The Franchise Bill.

The Franchise Bill (after an animated discussion over some of its clauses) passed second reading without a division and is now in committee with contentious clauses still to be discussed. Likewise, there was keen criticism of the government's shipbuilding and railway policies. In regard to the first, the Opposition was critical of the fact that contracts had been placed for government tramp steamers without tenders being first called for. However, a vote of twenty million dollars to carry out the shipbuilding programme was passed.

The Minister of Railways also has told the story of the first year's operation of the Canadian National Railway system. Operating deficits on the National railway system, comprising the Canadian Northern and the Transcontinental, amounted last year to $14,000,000. In addition there were capital charges of $19,000,000, or $33,000,000 in all.

SAY CROKER IS MENTALLY DEFICIENT

Children of Former Tammany Chief Ask Courts to Prevent Disposal of Property.

The Elder Croker Married a Young Indian Girl When 74 Years Old.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Palm Beach, Fla., April 1.—An examination of the mental condition of Richard Croker, Sr., former Tammany chief of New York, will be made here as a result of action taken yesterday by counsel for Croker's two sons and daughter, who seek to have a conservator appointed to manage his estate.

Mr. Croker and his wife, who is made the defendant in the petitions of her step-children, had planned to sail April 10 for Ireland, where the former Tammany leader has a valuable estate.

Married an Indian Girl.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York, April 1.—Counsel for the two sons and a daughter of Richard Croker, Sr., former leader here, announced yesterday that the Palm Beach county (Florida) court had issued a temporary injunction preventing the transfer or disposal of all Croker's property in that state, pending institution of proceedings by his family to have a conservator appointed to manage his estate.

The estate of the elder Croker in Florida has been estimated by friends of the Croker family to be worth in real and personal property upwards of $2,000,000. His estate at Sandy Ford, Ireland, is reported to be worth $1,000,000. The total value of his property, including securities and other personal properties in this country and abroad, is estimated by Mr. McCrombes at approximately $10,000,000.

Richard Croker, Sr., married an Oklahoma Indian girl of 24 years in November, 1914, within two months of the death of his first wife. He was then about 74 years of age. The ceremony was performed at New York at the home of Nathan Strauss.

"Seamen on the Great Lakes are determined to correct these dangerous conditions," Capt. Wright said.

A demand will be made on the Department of Marine and Fisheries, Capt. Wright said, for the establishing of a load-line for all vessels on the Great Lakes, life saving apparatus and wireless equipment.

There were two hundred lives lost last fall on the upper Lakes.

SUCCESSION DUTIES ACT TO BE AMENDED

Provincial Government Bill to Increase Tax—Valley Railway Bills.

Attorney General Byrne introduced a bill to amend the Succession Duties Act of 1915 in the Legislature yesterday. He said that the present Act did not provide for a tax on estates under $50,000 where the property went to a father, mother, husband, wife, son, daughter, son-in-law or daughter-in-law of the deceased; otherwise the tax was one and one-quarter per cent. On estates ranging from $50,000 to $200,000 the rate was 2½ per cent. and it was five per cent. on estates exceeding $200,000. Under the proposed bill, estates to be exempted under class one would be reduced to $25,000, and the rate on estates between $25,000 and $50,000 would be 1¼ per cent. On estates ranging from $50,000 to $100,000 the rate would be 2½ per cent. and from $100,000 to $150,000, four per cent.; from $150,000 to $300,000, five per cent. and would be graded up to $1,000,000. When the value passing to one person alone in class one exceeded $25,000, there would be an additional tax of ½ per cent. on that amount; if it exceeded $100,000 and was less than $200,000 there would be a further tax of one per cent. with higher addtional taxes on larger amounts.

It was proposed in class two to include any lineal descendant or ancestor of deceased except those mentioned in class one; class two also includes any brother or sister of deceased or any child or grandchild of such brother or sister, or any brother or sister of the father or mother of the deceased and any child or grandchild of such last mentioned brother or sister. If the property passes to persons in that class and the aggregate value of the estate exceeded $10,000, and was less than $50,000, the duty would be five per cent. if it exceeded $50,000 and was less than $100,000 the rate would be 10 per cent. and 12 per cent. would be imposed if it exceeded $100,000. If the value of the property passing to one person in class two exceeded $10,000 and was less than $50,000 there would be a further tax of ½ per cent. Class three would embrace those not in classes one and two. If the aggregate value of the property in that class exceeded $5,000 and was less than $50,000, the tax would be 10 per cent.; from $50,000 to $500,000 it would be 15 per cent. and if it exceeded $500,000 and was less than $1,000,000 the rate would be 17½ per cent. If more than $1,000,000 it would be 20 per cent. He said that the provisions of the old law which imposed a double tax on property going to persons outside the province would be retained. The bill provided exemption from duties on property willed to charitable, religious or educational institutions, provided the bequests were carried out in the province.

Valley Railway Bills.

Hon. Mr. Foster introduced a bill to amend the act respecting the St. John & Quebec Railway. He explained that it was to provide for the extension of the road to the north of Centreville, and for the continuance of the board of directors. When the bill came before the House in committee he would make a statement with reference to the work of construction, the settlement made with contractors, the proposed extension, the state of litigation now pending, including a recent claim of A. R. Gould, and a statement on the position of the Government with respect to the Prudential Trust Co.

Mr. Campbell, with the unanimous consent of the House, moved for suspension of Rule 78 to permit of the introduction of bills relating to the Church of England Institute and to St. John's Church, Oromocto.

Dr. McGrath introduced a bill to authorize the School Trustees of Newcastle to issue debentures.

Dr. Crocket introduced a bill relating to the water supply in the Town of Devon.

Hon. Mr. Foster introduced a bill in further aid of the St. John & Quebec Railway. He explained that the bill would provide for the funding of the indebtedness incurred in construction which had not been previously funded.

Hon. Mr. Foster moved that the time for introducing private bills be further extended until April 7th. He said that it was the last motion that he would make for an extension of time.

Provide for War Memorials.

Hon. Mr. Byrne introduced a bill relating to the Election of Soldiers' Memorials. He said that many towns and municipalities were anxious to honor the memory of those who had sacrificed their lives during the late war. The bill empowered municipalities to make grants towards such memorials and to issue debentures on a two-thirds vote. There was the usual provision for the issuing of bonds and a sinking fund.

Notices of enquiry were given as follows:

By Dr. Taylor—As to expenditures on permanent roads in the Parish of St. Patrick, Charlotte Co.; also as to like expenses in the Parishes of St. George, Penfield and Lepreaux.

By Mr. Smith (Carleton)—As to the disposition of fencing wire shipped from Florenceville.

By Mr. Tilley—As to whether it was the intention of the Government to request the New Brunswick Power Company to extend its line to Courtenay Bay; also as to whether it was the intention of the Government to share with the Federal Government the cost of maintaining a labor bureau in the province.

Hon. Mr. Dugal introduced a bill to enable the school trustees of the Parish of Simonds to issue debentures.

Mr. Campbell introduced a bill relating to the New Brunswick Power Company

Mr. Sutton introduced bills to enable the Town of Woodstock to issue debentures; to enable Agricultural Society No. 44 to issue debentures and to authorize the Town of Woodstock to endorse the same; to enable the County of Carleton and Towns of Woodstock and Hartland to establish a Municipal Home, and relating to the Tobique River Log Driving Co.

Hon. J. A. Murray Arraigns The Foster Administration

Opposition Leader Made One of the Best Speeches of His Political Career—How the Government's Pre-election Promises Have Been Abandoned.

Hon. James A. Murray, leader of the Opposition party, delivered one of the best speeches of his entire political career in the Legislature yesterday when he spoke in the budget debate.

For almost two and a half hours he occupied the attention of the House, and the attentive hearing which he was given showed that the members of both sides appreciated his effort as the outstanding event of the session up to date.

It was a clean cut, straightforward, sincere criticism of the administration of the affairs of the province by the Foster Government, in which the operations of one department after another were dealt with in a most effective and convincing manner. In striking contrast to some of the other speeches that have been made there were no invectives or untoward features, the members of the Government were kept busy noting points scored against their departments which they must answer, and when the Opposition leader had finished both his own supporters as well as the followers of the Government unhesitatingly declared that Hon. Mr. Murray had scored a notable political success.

There were occasions when he challenged members of the Government to make statements to the House in defence of the administration of their departments. This was true of Provincial Secretary Treasurer Murray, who came back with a time honored evasion, while when Hon. Mr. Tweeddale was asked to name one new policy that had been inaugurated since he became the Minister of Agriculture he sat as dumb as the proverbial oyster without a word to say. Many discrepancies in the public accounts were shown and demands that they be explained met with no immediate response from the Government benches.

Two Other Speeches.

Mr. LeBlanc, of Restigouche, followed in a speech in which he set forth the principle that because Restigouche provided much of the revenue from the crown lands, it would demand a corresponding share of the expenditures of the public money. He said an inter-provincial bridge over the Restigouche river at Campbellton had already been promised.

Then Mr. Peck, of Albert, delivered a clever speech, in which he dealt largely with financial matters, again made his charge that somebody had cleaned up $200,000 on one of the recent provincial bond issues and that the province lost $145,000 through failure to take advantage of the exchange situation when making the last issue. He came back strongly at Provincial Secretary Treasurer Murray, who had declared the member for Albert didn't know any more about finances than a goose does about geometry, and told Premier Foster that if he was going to succeed in public life he would have to "shake off some of the barnacles."

Mr. Dysart, of Kent, moved the adjournment of the debate.

HON. J. A. MURRAY.

Leader of the Opposition, Made Complete and Striking Criticism of the Government.

Hon. Mr. Murray wasted little time with useless congratulations at the outset and at once made it evident he was not going to discuss party political conventions or to give any serious attention to the remarks of Premier Foster in that connection because, he remarked, the Premier had had experiences of his own in party conventions which did not need to be recalled.

The Premier had referred to an editorial in the St. John Standard which had questioned his right to greet the returned soldiers, and he had asked if the people would think that he (Murray) was qualified to act. In answer he would say that he considered himself qualified to speak for a large class of people whose sons had gone overseas and faced death, and he could speak for those who, when Hell broke loose in Europe, had assumed an air of cheerfulness and confidence with the object of inspiring the boys who were to fact that horror. He could also speak for that class who had been privileged to welcome home their sons and he could speak for that class who had sons who would never return. He believed that all had been proud of the work of those who had gone overseas, and all had been proud to welcome them on their return, but it was a matter which might now be relegated to the background.

The Carleton Vacancy.

The Premier had referred to Hon. Mr. Carvell's elevation to the chairmanship of the Railway Commission and to New Brunswick's lack of representation in the federal cabinet. It was strange that, holding such views, he would have allowed the county of Carleton to be deprived of one of its members. As leader of the Government he should have long ago seen to it that the vacancy was filled. When his friends were in opposition they assailed the late Government for keeping constituencies open, but now they were content to permit a vacancy to remain longer than their predecessors ever did.

He heartily concurred in what had been said in regard to an increase in teachers' salaries and would be glad to co-operate in bringing about a better state of affairs. The teachers had formed an association for the betterment of the cause of education and were surely deserving of support.

Valley Railway and The Transcontinental

With regard to the Valley Railway he would deny that he had charged the Government with neglect in not extending it to Grand Falls. What he had done was to refer to a pledge made by his friends opposite in 1916 that they would make the extension on coming into power. It was true the subsidy had elapsed, but his friends were aware of that when they made their pledge. He believed that they had practiced hypocrisy in connection with the matter. He noticed that a bill had been introduced to grant an extension of time and possibly an early election was in contemplation.

At some length Hon. Mr. Murary dealt with the Valley Railway question and several of its phases. He showed that the route had been changed to the west side as the result of a report that thereby $2,780,000 would be saved—over $700,000 of it to the St. John and Quebec Railway Company—and that the engineers' reports showed much doubt as to whether proper foundations for the bridge across the St. John and Kennebecasis rivers could be obtained or not. He read a lengthy letter from F. P. Gutelius, formerly general manager of the Canadian Government Railways, upon which the action then taken was based, and then charged that there had been neglect upon the part of somebody in that arrangements for running rights had not been completed, as provided by the act, in time for the operation of the railway to have commenced as soon as it was completed to Westfield.

Where Angels Dare Not Tread.

Hon. Mr. Tweeddale was the only member to heckle the Opposition leader on the matter of the reports on the bridges and to seek to make it appear that there had been anything but bona fide reasons entering into the change that had been made in the route. The Minister for Agriculture wanted to know if there was a report on a bridge at Andover and then, when told there was, suggested that no difficulties had been found in the way of building a bridge there.

Mr. Murray said that he did not remember of any, but as the cost was included in the general statement he could not give figures. Much had been said concerning the cost of construction of the St. John & Quebec Railway. It might be remembered, however, that a Commission appointed to inquire into the expenditure on the National Transcontinental Railway found that the Dominion had lost $40,000,000 on the Winnipeg-Moncton section. His friends in criticizing expenditure on the St. John & Quebec Railway made no reference to the finding of that commission.

Act Violated in Financing.

To come to the finances of this railway, it might be recollected that the leader of the government had said that statements of finance would be clear and intelligible. He (Murray) had the same fault to find with the Comptroller-General's report that he had found last year. Statements were difficult to understand and hard to find. The Comptroller-General's report showed that interest was charged on 170 miles of railway. He held that interest could be charged only on that section of the road under construction. The classification of expenditures for road and equipment for the purposes of railway statistics as issued from Ottawa absolutely bore out his contention.

In 1917 an Act was passed giving authority to borrow $1,000,000. Under the provisions of that Act certain monies were to provide a sinking fund. Such had not been done. He had no hesitation in stating that there had been evasion of this Act. The Dominion subsidy in 1918 provided $278,716.81, and in 1919 $51,261.91, making the total from this source $329,978.72. From the Prudential Trust Company in 1918 there had been received $208,177.63, and in 1919, $61,253.89, making a total of $269,431.52. The total amount received in the two years from Dominion subsidies and the Prudential Trust Company was $599,410.24. That amount should be in the sinking fund, instead of being credited to the railway account; the Act was clear and explicit. Any monies received were to be set aside as a sinking fund to meet the $1,000,000 bond. His friends opposite might say that it made no difference, that the money was received and was paid out again If that were true, they could go on indefinitely and spend millions. Although it would mean no difference in cost of the railway in the end, the Act had been most flagrantly violated by the directors of the St. John & Quebec Railway, and the two members of the government who sat as directors did nothing.

Railway Estimates Were Off.

According to the synoptic report of the proceedings of the House, the provincial secretary-treasurer said that about $289,913.27 was required to complete the line to Westfield, less amounts to be collected totalling $201,377, leaving $88,536.27, or about $90,000. He had made a grave miscalculation, for upwards of $300,000 had been expended, and items which had been overlooked had been coming in since. The estimates of 1919 had asked for $189,000 for interest, but about $245,000 really was required. The estimate of receipts made by the hon. provincial secretary was about as far astray, for the province received only $51,261.91 in Dominion subsidy, and $61,253.89 from the Provincial Trust Co., nothing from the C.P.R., nothing from the C.N.R., and nothing in penalties. However, other monies which apparently had been overlooked came in, such as $57,814.46 from the Department of Public Works—an old debt—$16,070.67 as part earnings of 1919, and $1,483.65 from the Canadian Government Railways.

It might be interesting to inquire at this time why changes were made in the methods of accounting in the years 1918-1919. In 1918 revenue and interest were placed in Consolidated Account, but in 1919 the sum of $16,070.37, a part share of earnings, was placed in the railway account. In 1918 the sum of $15,082.01, earnings owed to the Railway Company, was placed in Accounts Received; but in 1919 a similar sum of $30,581.28 was charged to Capital. Apparently the year 1919 was very fair as far as operation of the railway was concerned, for the total earnings amounted to $46,651.65. Friends of the Government never ceased to say that the Public Accounts were plain and clear. An explanation of the items he had just mentioned might be in order. Up to October 31st, 1918, the cost of construction of the Gagetown-Westfield section was shown as $1,400,233.92, and not as published on Page A-41, $1,040,957.97. The latter amount was net after using sinking fund monies. The total cost to October 31st, 1919, was $1,913,809.77, and not $1,421,973.59, as stated on Page 243. Where was the authority for spending more than $1,450,000? Careful consideration of the railway accounts showed a cost of $1,913,809.77 and total receipts of $1,143,786.78, leaving an overdraft of $770,022.99.

Hon. Mr. Foster said he could inform his hon. friend that the bonds never had been issued. The authority had been obtained, but the issue never had been made.

Mr. Murray said that made no difference; the legislation which had been passed had been disregarded. There had been evasion of the Act and the matter could have been carried on until millions had been spent. He did not say that the money had been lost. The action which had been taken had been to enable the Railway Company to place these monies in current account. That was the point which he desired to make.

Hon. Mr. Foster asked if the leader of the Opposition did not take the same view as he had against the attempt of the Dominion Government to make the province pay for running rights from Westfield into St. John.

Mr. Murray in reply said he was delighted to be able to state that he agreed with the Premier on that particular point. His understanding always had been that the C. N. R. should take over the railway and operate it without any charge to the province.

Hon. Mr. Murray then dealt with the failure of the Foster Government to live up to its promises in Opposition when it assumed the reins of office. He started off by referring to its deficits of $802,000 in two years and seven months, and compared their "reckless and wasteful methods" with their promises of economy. He denied charges that the Farm Settlement Board had been used for political purposes and showed that the Workmen's

Hon. J. A. Murray Arraigns The Foster Administration

Compensation Act had been drawn by a commission appointed by the late Government. The Agricultural Department, instead of having been inefficient, stood as a monument to the old administration. He upset the reflections that had been cast upon the present Opposition party in connection with the so-called Foreshores Bill, and declared that there was no ground for the assertion that he had been actuated by political motives in moving his amendment to the Address upon the ground that he wanted to assure a united front from his side of the House. He warned the Premier that, in worrying about disunion in political parties, he would find all he required to take his attention on his own side of the House.

Face Serious Situation Regarding Crown Lands

Mr. Murray said the amendment to the Address had been moved by him with the intention of calling public attention to the state of the public domain which was fast approaching a condition in which it would be a source of expense rather than revenue. Much had been said on the opposite side of the House concerning an order-in-council passed in 1914. That order had been rescinded and had no bearing on the affairs of the province. It was the problems of 1920 which were pressing for solution. The Crown lands of the province were being rapidly depleted, and the situation was serious. Over 300 million feet were being cut annually and in addition there were losses by fire, blow downs, and the devastation of the spruce bud worms. He had noticed Mr. Barnjum, of Nova Scotia, a recognized authority on the subject, in a letter in the press, took the same view. A stumpage rate of $7 would not be excessive; indeed he knew that all the lumbermen did not think as did those who occupied seats in the House. He had been sincere in moving the amendment, and had had no political motive.

An order in council had been rescinded in 1914, and had been frequently referred to . But since that time another order-in-council had been rescinded, and concerning it nothing was said on the other side of the House. It had been decided by the present Government to make the rate of stumpage, he presumed by order-in-council. That rate had been reduced. What was the reason? If rumor was correct, it was done at the dictates of supporters of the Government who were connected with the lumber interests.

It had been said that prior to the election of 1917 certain big lumbermen had been approached by the Government with a promise that in return for support the stumpage rate would be fixed for a period of twenty years, the rate being $1.50. He was then the leader of the Government and certainly would have had some knowledge of this matter had it taken place. He did not know who approached the lumbermen and could say that no one with any authority or with his knowledge had approached the lumbermen or make any "dicker" with them on behalf of the Government. He made this denial unreservedly and was prepared to go on a witness stand and swear to it.

Women and Children Pay Tribute.

Hon. Mr. Murray then showed how the cost of the administration of the affairs of the province had increased under the Government who had promised to reduce the cost and then showed how direct taxation had been resorted to in the case of the Patriotic Fund Tax, so-called, and also the Amusemet Tax, which had been imposed.

"Every time I see the women and children paying their pennies for the little tax tickets and placing them in the slot machines at the entrance to the moving picture theatres," declares the Opposition leader, "I realize they are merely paying their tribute to the Government which lacks the courage to increase the rate of stumpage."

Reckless Spending by Public Works Minister

Declaring that Hon. Mr. Veniot was a "reckless spender," Hon. Mr. Murray said that in the session of 1917 the Minister of Public Works had defined what he meant by permanent roads. At the same session he proceeded to take legislative authority to borrow $500,000 for that purpose which he increased to $700,000 in 1918 and to $1,150,000 in 1919. The last named amount was practically used before it was all authorized by the Legislature, as there is now carried in the public accounts as a capital asset of the province the Veniot permanent roads, indicated by an item placing their value at the amount spent to Oct. 31st, 1918, $1,006,212.80. Of the $14,000 was written off through motor vehicle fund, leaving $992,212.80. In the County of Kings there were roads classed as durable which could not, without stretch of the imagination, be classed as such. The road supervisors themselves laughed at the classification. The account showed that an appropriation of $340,000 in 1919 had been over-expended $268,835.76; also that the first special warrant was issued in August. Could it have been possible to spend that money in the four months, April to August, with nothing being done from fall to spring? The Synoptic Report quoted the Provincial Secretary as saying that $9,746 had been paid in cheques between Nov. 1st and 26th, 1918. That proved that many cheques were held over until Novermer. It might be said that many of them had been charged back, but many of them must have been held back.

The same report had quoted the Provincial Secretary-Treasurer as saying that he hoped that during the coming year the outlay would not be so large as so much had been done, and the report showed that the revenue was more than estimated by $104,592.21. However, this was followed up by a deficit of $327,686.22, of which the Department of Public Works was responsible for $284,000. Where is the economy and prudence of this Government of reckless spending? The Hon. Premier on taking office had proposed to save $900 by amalgamating the offices of Railway Inspecting Engineer and Road Engineer. That was done but the record for extravagance was kept up, three or four more engineers being appointed at a cost of about $4,500.

By-roads Are Neglected.

The report of the Comptroller General showed that $735,000 had been obtained by special warrants from June to October, 1919. Everyone knew nothing was done on the roads from fall to spring and how much could be spent in April and May. It looked as though the appropriation was spent in a little more than two months. A stop should be put to such wasteful and extravagant expenditures. The report showed that from March 31st, 1917, to October 31st, 1919, there had been an increase in road bonds of $1,150,000, and of permanent bridge bonds of $1,261,000. The liabilities for roads had increased $672,244.99, making a total of $1,823,244.99. The liabilities for permanent bridges had increased $61,071.35, making a total of $1,322,071.35. In two years and seven months under the present administration there has been a total increase of $3,144,316.34. The question was: "Are the people getting full return?" Speaking for his own county and many other sections he could say they were not. There had been an expenditure of over $150,000 in Kings county, and yet he could take the Minister to roads within two miles of Sussex which had not ben touched in two years. The back roads of the province in general were in the worst condition in 15 years. He also could inform the Minister that there had been a direct violation of the Road Act in the County of Kings, a municipal councillor having acted as road supervisor.

Hon. Mr. Venlot—"Can you give me the name?"

Mr. Murray—"I will privately."

It being six o'clock the Speaker left the chair.

Increasing Debt and Liabilities.

Mr. Murray, on the House resuming after recess, said that his friend from Albert had made a statement that bonds sold by the government had been resold at a higher figure and he had suggested that somebody had male a profit. The Provincial Secretary should not have been offended at that statement as the Hon. Premier had made a similar criticism in 1917 in regard to a bond sale made by the previous administration. There was no occasion therefore for the Provincial Secretary's declamation against the hon. member for Albert. He would point out that the capital liabilities of the province in 1917 were $15,301,382, whereas in 1920 they were $20,563,763, an increase of $5,262,480 in two and seven-

Legislature Will Adjourn Today For the Easter Recess Resuming Again on Tuesday

Bill Incorporating Professional Engineers Before Law Committee—General Bill Providing for Expropriation Industrial Sites to Be Introduced by Government.

The Lagislature will adjourn this afternoon for Easter, resuming again next Tuesday. The programme for today calls for Mr. Dysart of Kent, to continue the Budget debate with Dr. Campbell of St. John city as the next speaker.

There is every indication now that the session will not be concluded before about April 23rd. Several members of the Cabinet are getting ready to speak in the Budget debate and all of next week will doubtless be exhausted before the House gets into supply.

After Easter recess there will still be the bulk of the real work of the session to be done. This morning the Public Accounts Committee held a brief meeting and the Law Committee discussed the bill to incorporate the Association of Professional Engineers which puts the profession on the same level with others. C. C. Kirby, of St. John, is the chairman of the provisional council and a delegation of almost a score of representative engineers appeared before the committee in support of the bill, which defines a professional standard among other things. Similar legislation has been passed in other provinces, it was said, and the bill is part of a world-wide movement.

Expropriation of Industrial Sites.

Interest about the House this morning centred largely, however, about the bill before the Municipalities Committee, originating from the St. John County Council to provide for securing industrial sites and which would give powers of expropriation of sites required for industries in the city as well as the county of St. John.

J. King Kelley, K. C., legal adviser of the municipal council, led the promotion of the bill, half a dozen county councillors as well as Mayor Hayes and Commissioner Bullock, representing the city of St. John. On behalf of the city amendments were presented by Dr. Campbell and it was said the bill was not endorsed by the City Council, but the measure so impressed the members of the committee that Hon. C. W. Robinson made the suggestion, which was endorsed by Mr Dickson, of Kings, and others, that a general act embracing the principle of expropriating for industries sites should be introduced.

Premier Foster accepted the suggestion and announced that a Government measure of such a nature would be prepared and introduced. Meanwhile a provision is being made that industries shall not be located within quarter of a mile of the Provincial Hospital in the Parish of Lancaster, St. John county. The original bill, it was said, had been brought about to meet conditions in Lancaster where property suitable for industrial purposes was being held for abnormal prices. The general bill, it was said, would be permissive in its character, each city or municipality deciding whether its provisions would be applicable so far as it is concerned; the idea seemed to meet with general satisfaction, particularly from the promoters of the St. John County measure.

A Marysville Bill.

Consideration was given the bill to amend the act intituled an act to incorporate the town of Marysville. R. B. Hanson, K. C., appeared for the town of Marysville. He explained that the purpose of the first section of the bill was to repeal the section which states the hours during which nominations for town election may be received upon nomination day. Other sections of the bill require that candidates be qualified as voters and that nominors possess the same qualification, also that candidates must formally accept nomination and that nominations must be filed six days prior to the day set for the election. The Town Council of Marysville also is authorized to borrow money to an amount not exceeding $3,000. The bill was agreed to.

The committee also agreed to a bill to authorize the Board of School Trustees of the town of Chatham to issue debentures to an amount not to exceed $35,000, at a rate not to exceed 6 per cent. to be applied to the redemption of a former debenture issue of $40,000.

A bill for the purpose of empowering the village of St. Leonards after incorporation as a town to provide a system of water works was considered. Hon. Mr. Tweeddale objected to a section which authorized the town to take the water of any rivers, lakes or ponds within ten miles on the ground that the power applied for was too broad and gave exclusive rights.

Mr. Michaud said that the right was not exclusive.

The section was amended by providing that the town must procure the consent of the Minister of Public Works before taking any such water.

Mr. Potts advocated a provision in the bill for water taxes on land to provide revenue from mains running through sparsely populated districts.

The bill was agreed to as amended.

COMPULSORY PLAN WOULD BE COSTLY

Scheme for Compulsory Training of Young Canadians Estimated $50,000,000

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, April 1.—When W. H. Mowatt, a peace major of Toronto, advocated a scheme of compulsory military training for the young men of Canada he got rather a small measure of sympathy in the House yesterday. Even tried soldiers like Major Andrews, of Winnipeg, thought there was no reason to anticipate another war in which Canada should participate for at least ten years, and he thought that there were enough trained men now in this country as a result of the late war to last that time. The farmers' party, too, in the House expressed strong opposition to the scheme, and thought the League of Nations should be given a chance to function.

This is only one of the straws which show how the wind is blowing in Canada with regard to war and warlike expenditures. With the soldiers of the late war still hammering at the doors of parliament for an expression of the country's appreciation of their efforts, it is felt that this is no time to spend a sum, which Dr. Beland estimated at fifty million dollars a year, in loss to the country.

Then the naval proposals of Mr. Ballantyne have been received very coldly in caucus. The main objection to expenditures on military training now would seem to be that it would be a wholly unproductive expenditure. The sympathy towards some form of naval training is more evident at the present time as proving a form of education, which would be in line with our marine development, although the present position of Canada with regard to the navy has been rendered unintelligible by the somewhat erratic actions of the Minister of Marine. When the naval estimates are up for discussion in the House it is probable that some expression will be given to the desireability of considerable emphasis being laid on the naval training side of the scheme for the present, rather than the purely defensive by men rather than ships.

The Hague, April 1.—Most of the towns in the Ruhr district are in the power of the extremists, who are forcing the workers to leave their jobs and join the Red army, according to the Dutch press.

Soldiers Under Arrest.

Dusseldorf, April 1.—All members of the company of communist troops which on Tuesday ousted from power the executive committee of the Dusseldorf workers that had accepted the government's demands for a cessation of hostilities in this district, have been placed under arrest. Their detention, however, was not because of their summary action regarding the committee, but was due to a charge the men had plundered clothing stores

HON. JAS. A. MURRAY IN THE BUDGET DEBATE.

The speech of the Hon. J. A. Murray in the Budget debate was a pointed, effective and dignified criticism of the administration of provincial affairs and a clever presentation of the situation. With increased and increasing revenues, the Foster Government has made deficits since it came into power of hundreds of thousands of dollars annually; it has increased the capital liabilities by considerably more than five and a quarter million dollars, with comparatively little to show as a result of such an enormous increase of obligations. The field for reflection and criticism is wide, and Mr. Murray, with his intimate knowledge of affairs and ability to present the facts clearly, has done service to the public in the accuracy of the presentation. It has been the practice of this Government to endeavor to unload the responsibility for the increase of the debt upon the shoulders of its predecessors. The Foster Government will be three years in power on the fourth of this month. The increase in the public debt for which it is directly responsible in that time vastly exceeds the increase incurred by any Government of recent years; and, unfortunately, there is little of public service to show for the increase. The Hon. Mr. Murray was emphatic in his reference to this important phase of the situation, and it is well that he made the facts clear in dealing with it. Mr. Foster and his party, while in opposition, promised that they would reduce the annual expenditure and also materially reduce the debt. As a Government, they have added millions to the debt and hundreds of thousands of dollars to the annual expenditure. While in opposition they were seeking office, power and the emoluments; as a Government they have had a carnival. Mr. Murray's analysis of the details shows that he has a commanding grasp of the situation. It is generally known that several of the departments have been handled very inefficiently; it is admitted also that the influence of others than the Government has prevailed in the collection of revenue. But the facts which Mr. Murray presented greatly add to the interest in the public view of what is going on. The leader of the Opposition has well performed a public service in clearly and accurately and fearlessly showing the position of affairs as it is.

UNITED STATES' POLICY.

Communications continue to go to Europe from Washington, theoretically from the United States government, announcing the policy and desires of the United States about affairs in Europe, Asia and Africa, the latest being one on the subject of Turkey. These communications are a curious anomaly, for two reasons, remarks an exchange. In the first place, if they came from a real government of the United States they would be absurd enough, because the government of the United States is refusing all responsibility for doing anything in Europe, Asia or Africa to promote the policy and desires which the communications set forth, or to cooperate in any way with anybody. In the second place, the communications are absurd in any case, because they represent no real government, but simply the ideas of a single man at Washington whose ideas about international affairs are being flouted by his own country and countrymen. Unquestionably, as was shown by the recent sudden and peremptory dismissal of Secretary of State Lansing by President Wilson, on the ground that Mr. Lansing had not been sympathetic with some of the President's views and had also ventured to act on his own hook in some public matters, the present United States Cabinet is merely a mouthpiece for President Wilson, a mere phonograph; so it is clear that any diplomatic messages emanating from the present United States administration are merely messages framed, not by consultation among a number of responsible, free-acting ministers of the American people, but by the autocracy of a single individual who happens to be called the president; clear, too, that at best this individual might not be representative of the opinion of his fellow-countrymen, inasmuch as, being elected for a fixed term of years, he is not necessarily subordinate to public opinion at any time; clear, finally, in this particular Wilson case that the president who is sending out to other countries pronunciamentos about the affairs of the world has just had his views about the affairs of the world kicked out of the Legislature of his own land.

No situation in comic opera could beat this. If President Wilson has any sense of humor, he must be chuckling to himself continuously at the thought how one isolated human wiseacre at Washington like himself can keep busy issuing proclamations to several hundred millions of foreign people as to how they should behave themselves, while at the same time a majority of his own countrymen at home are telling him that he is messing up the affairs of his own country.

Whether the President has a sense of humor or not, however, one would imagine that self-respect would suggest to him that when his views on world-polity have failed to recommend themselves to his own people, he ought to be chary about pushing them upon other nations.

THAT DOUBLE-ENTRY SYSTEM.

The St. John morning organ of the Government, in looking for something to offset the effect of the criticism of the Hon. Jas. A. Murray, says that the new double-entry system of bookkeeping adopted by the Foster Government may not be generally understood. That may be so; and there is apparently no doubt that the system is so operated that it is not understandable by the Government itself. In 1918, for instance, it reported a surplus of a few thousand dollars; but when the chartered accountants appeared they refused to certify. They found, instead of a surplus, a deficit of nearly half a million dollars. It is not reasonable, under such circumstances as these, to expect the public to understand a system of such flexibility, even although they have their suspicions; and there is much in other "systems" with which the departments operate that the public have not yet learned to fully understand but upon which they look with curious suspicion.

THE AMERICAN FARMER.

Although the American Farm Bureau Federation has only recently been organized in the United States, it has a membership of more than a million. Its policy differs from that of most other farmers' organizations so far called into being. The principle upon which it is based recognizes that the individual farmer's interests are no longer bounded by the fence posts on his own place. They are but the units in a big business which has to co-ordinate and adjust itself to other big businesses. The isolation which has been led on to antagonize is supplanted by the co-operation which links itself with national industry. The officers of the executive council of the American Farm Bureau Federation have been divided into groups, in order to cover the fields they touch with the great efficiency. As an exchange points out, they confer and co-operate with the Federal government at Washington, and in state associations join with local chambers of commerce and boards of trade in developing mutual interests and communities' welfare. The American Federation, one of the newest agricultural bodies, so far as this paper is aware, by the very fact of its formation, disproves the efficacy of the isolated, "class" grouping of the farming interests. It is well aware of the simple law that divergence from the common weal distracts and dissipates the common effort. These million farmers of the United States are but putting into intelligent practice laws which are sound and obviously to their own best interests; for they have looked beyond their own fines and seen that their individual interests are as intimately, but not more so, bound up with interests beyond their horizon as is that farther-off welfare reflected in their prosperity.

The report of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company on the business of 1919 is a splendid presentation. The income of the company amounted to two hundred and fifty-four million seven hundred and twenty-nine thousand dollars—an increase over the previous year of more than fifty-four and a half million dollars. The assets of the company increased during 1919 by $89,367,126 and total $864,821,824. Dividends to be paid to policy holders this year are $7,625,723. Claims paid numbered 289,125—an average of one every thirty seconds of each business day of eight hours, while the amount paid to policy holders during the year was over seventy-three and a half million dollars, or an average of $505.93 a minute of each business day. The total number of policies outstanding is 21,770,671, for the enormous total of $5,343,652,434. The Metropolitan is an ably conducted institution.

Arrested for Vagrancy.

Laura Addison Golding, who was arrested some weeks ago in Halifax for masquerading in men's attire, was arrested again last night by Officer Leo Hayes for lying and lurking in a barn on the Indian reserve. She was brought to the city and placed in the lockup and this morning was taken before Police Magistrate Jaffrey at Devon and sentenced to two months in the county jail.

$41,000 MISSING WITH MESSENGER

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York, April 1.—With the arrest of Alfred J. Grossman in Baltimore and Jos. McDonald in New York, still another bond theft in the financial district was revealed. It occurred on February 4, when securities valued at $41,000 entrusted to a messenger, temporarily employed by Haile and Stieglitz, stock brokers, disappeared.

BIG EXPENITURES IN GREAT BRITAIN

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, April 1.—The exchequer returns for the financial year just ended show revenue of £1,339,571,381 sterling, an increase of £450,500,000 over the preceding year. The expenditure was £1,665,772,928, showing a decrease of £913,500,000. The year's expenditure therefore was more than £326,000,000 in excess of the revenue.

ASK HORTICULTURAL WORK EXTENSION

composed of Col. O. W. Wetmore, Clifton, S. B. Hatheway, Kingsclear, H. H. Smith, Hoyt Station, A. R. Gorham, Gray's Mills, and R. A. Filmore, Burton, were appointed to interview the Minister of Agriculture to ascertain if the scope of the work of that division could not be enlarged.

A resolution was also passed requesting the Horticultural Division to procure one of the best available spray-dusters for demonstration purposes during the coming year. Resolutions approving of holding orchard field days at various points in the province during the coming year as well as the holding of a Canadian National Apple Show were also passed.

A discussion arose over the standard barrel question, and following this W. L. Paotts, of St. John, discussed the shipping of fruit crops from the standpoint of the buyer. This led to a lively discussion, in which several members questioned the honesty of the St. John commission merchants, jobbers and others.

The Afternoon Session.

At the afternoon session S. B. Hatheway, of Kingsclear, gave his experiences on his orchard of 6,000 trees at Kingsclear. He referred to the mulch system of keeping the apple trees and to the method of applying pine tar for protection of the trees against mice.

S. L. Peters, of Gagetown, referred to the first commercial exhibit of apples made by him at a Farmers' and Dairymen's meeting in this city in 1878, when he had a hard time to convince the members of the Association then that the apples were products of his own orchard. He discussed briefly the golden russet and advised the growers not to go in for a heavy planting of this variety, as it was a light bearer.

Superintendent W. W. Hubbard of the Experimental Farm gave a general talk on conditions in the province for apple growing, touching upon the necessity of protecting the growing trees against the ravages of mice. He also explained an inexpensive system of cultivation which had brought good results at the Experimental Station.

C. W. Baxter, Dominion Fruit Commissioner, of Ottawa, reviewed the history of the apple growing in the Western Provinces during the last eight years, showing that at the present time it was almost impossible to get old planters to plant again because of the successive overflowing of the western apple markets.

L. T. Floyd and Col. O. B. Wetmore were then heard on strawberry culture. Both showed that the small fruit industry was a coming branch and emphasized the necessity of taking proper care of the fruit in shipping.

Motor Mechanics Classes.

Fletcher Peacock, director of Vocational Education, left last evening for Stanley, where he will supervise the motor mechanics classes instructed by A. H. Whitman.

The Stock Market

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York (Wall Street), April 1.—The impending holidays and uncertaty regarding money conditions over that period accounted in large measure for the dullness and unimportant price changes at the opening of today's stock market. Gains outnumbered recessions, but in no noteworthy instance did the change exceed a fraction of a point. There were indications that the operations of pools and other professional interests in various specialties might be affected, for a time at least, as a result of the action taken by officials of the exchange yesterday in connection with Stutz motor.

FROM THE PEOPLE

MUST THE POOR AND SHABBILY DRESSED STAY OUTSIDE?

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I would like to make a few remarks in regard to the christianity which prevails in at least one of the churches of this city. Last evening at a prayer meeting a retired minister of the church stood up to give his testimony with the rest, when the acting minister immediately told the congregation to sing a hymn without giving him a chance to speak. Again the acting minister asked someone to start a hymn; the aged minister started one and everyone joined in; they sang the first verse and then the old gentleman started in on the second, but no one else knew it and so the acting minister shut him up again.

The aged minister is poor and eccentric and his coat is shabby and threadbare, which must have been the reason his voice was not allowed to be heard in that church. I would like to ask this question: Must the poor and shabbily dressed people stand outside the gates of Heaven and peep through the cracks at the rich in all their glory, or will the Lord be more lenient than the acting minister and let them in with the rest?

Yours,
AN ANXIOUS ENQUIRER.
Fredericton, N. B., March 31st, 1920.

SANATORIUM AS MEMORIAL TO FALLEN SOLDIERS.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—At the annual convention of the G. W. V. A. of New Brunswick in St. John lately, one of the resolutions passed was, "To ask the Dominion Government to provide proper segregation under expert medical supervision for those Canadian soldiers whose minds have been deranged by shell shock or the exigencies and hazards of service in the late war."

Would it not be a good plan for the province of New Brunswick to build as a memorial for the soldiers a provincial sanatorium and home for such cases? The Provincial Hospital in Fairville, to my knowledge, is only for cases which have become unmanageable at home, or have no one to take care of them, or are a danger to themselves or others. There are cases of nerve sickness where the patient is not dangerous or unmanageable, but who need the very best of medical skill and nursing, kindness and understanding. Why not build a sanatorium, up to date, with every modern convenience for nursing nerve sickness, with plenty of grounds for recreation and gardening, a gymnasium, medical electric apparatus, etc.?

Nerve disease is one of the most serious of diseases, yet the most neglected; we wait till they get, in some cases, almost past curing, before they are taken to the Provincial Hospital. Why? Would it not be better and cost far less money in the end, to use every known remedy and spare no expense in the first stages of the disease? In many cases it would prevent a lifetime of sickness and helplessness, and their being a trouble and care to relations and a burden and expense on the country for a lifetime. In private sanatoriums electricity is used for the relief and cure of nerve troubles. Why is it not used in our Provincial Hospital? The very best of medical skill and nursing is none too good for the sick. The charge in a private sanatorium is $30 a week and upwards. How many are able to pay that amount? There is money for luxuries, automobiles, talking machines, furs to wear in summer, etc., but not enough money to take proper care of our brave soldiers and worthy civilians who are ill with nerve troubles.

Yours,
HUMANITY AND ADVANCEMENT.

and other wounds and sores on horses and cattle. It will also cure Eczema, Burns, Bruises, Ring Worm or Run-round, Open Sores, etc. The best results will be obtained if the sore is first washed with NATIONAL DISINFECTANT.

NATIONAL LIQUID GALL CURE has been used for years by some of the largest Lumbering Concerns, and Railroad Contractors. OUR GUARANTEE: "We will see that your money is refunded if National Liquid Gall Cure does not cure any ailment for which it is recommended as quickly as the purchaser thinks it should." And we have never had to make a refund. Below are two testimonials given us voluntarily:

I have a valuable team horse that had a bad cut on her ankle for about a year. I used all the remedies that I had any faith in, but was not successful in healing the sore. When we worked her in the mud in the woods last fall the ankle got worse and it looked as though we would have to lay her up. Mr. Miller recommended me to use NATIONAL LIQUID GALL CURE and it effected a complete cure quickly, although we worked her steadily in mud. The first time I saw Mr. Miller after coming out of the woods, I remarked to him, "You cannot recommend NATIONAL LIQUID GALL CURE too highly."

You are at liberty to use this testimonial which is voluntarily given and without remuneration, in advertising NATIONAL LIQUID GALL CURE.

March 1, 1916. Hartland, N. B.

I have a valuable driving mare that has been unfit to drive or work much of the time for two or three years with Chronic Scratches. About two months ago I began washing her legs with NATIONAL DISINFECTANT and applying NATIONAL LIQUID GALL CURE. Within a few days the swelling began to go down and in two weeks her legs were normal in size. The cracks which had been sore and bleeding at times for two years were entirely healed within a month. Several ridges of a substance as hard as horn entirely disappeared, and I consider the cure made by NATIONAL LIQUID GALL CURE permanent. I had tried every remedy I heard of without effect, till I was advised by Estey & Curtis Co., Ltd., to apply NATIONAL LIQUID GALL CURE. I would willingly have agreed to give anyone $50.00 who would have guaranteed such a cure as NATIONAL LIQUID GALL CURE has effected. This is a voluntary testimonial and given with remuneration and Estey & Curtis Co., Ltd., Hartland, N. B., are at liberty to use it in advertising NATIONAL LIQUID GALL CURE.

Important Announcement

To the Public:—

Beginning next Tuesday, the 6th inst., a Vaudeville policy will be inaugurated at the Opera House, and every Tuesday thereafter, until further notice, will be presented a high grade Vaudeville programme, consisting of five Metropolitan Acts and a two reel Serial Picture, "The Radium Mystery."

We have, after very much negotiation with the Boston and New York Keith Offices, succeeded in placing Fredericton on the Vaudeville circuit with St. John, Moncton, Halifax, Bangor, Portland, Lewiston and Boston, thus giving the Capital City a splendid show weekly, providing the patronage continues to justify the great expense attending the presentation of these Acts in Fredericton for one day only.

We have arranged for three shows—matiness at 3.10; evening at 7.15 and 8.45.

Our Vaudeville policy will be started with as low a charge as possible, but we cannot guarantee that it will remain at that figure indefinitely in view of the rapid increase in the cost of Vaudeville which has advanced fully 35 per cent. since last Fall.

PRICES, EXCLUSIVE OF WAR TAX:

Matinee—Main floor 30c.; Balcony 20c.; Children 15c.

Evening—Main floor 50c.; balcony 35c.

NOTE:—Those wishing to attend the first show should be in their seats promptly at 7.15.

It might be well to mention at this time that the maximum Vaudeville admission price mentioned for Fredericton is 15 cents higher than that existing at present at St. John and 10 cents higher than Halifax. We might explain that the conditions under which these Acts are procured for a one day engagement are altogether different than when a Theatre is devoted entirely to Vaudeville and plays it every day in the week. In the Boston Houses, however, where exactly the same bill is presented, the prices are much higher.

Hon. J. A. Murray Arraigns Gov't

twelfth years. There had been no lessening of the methods of finance complained of under the old administration, and the government had been unable to keep the ordinary expenditures within the ordinary revenue. One of the largest items of expenditure was for interest which last year amounted to $531,300, an increase of $180,000 over 1918. Last year his hon. friends had laid stress on the fact that they had made an arrangement with the banks for an increased allowance on daily balances. The result in 1919 did not show that anything wonderful had been accomplished from that arrangement, as $21,725.09 had been paid in interest on over-drafts, while the receipts from credit balances amounted only to $5,167.36—a difference of $16,557.37.

Hon. members boasted that under the new system of accounting a clearer view of the financial standing of the province could be had than ever before. Possibly he (Murray) was dense, and that was probably the case with others who unsuccessfully sought information from the Comptroller's report. He found on one page of that report a statement showing stumpage revenue of $575,618, while on another page it was put down as $568,383. There might be a satisfactory explanation for the difference, but the accounts did not show it. He would like the Provincial Secretary to explain the matter.

Provincial Secretary Treasurer Murray said that the hon. member had asked for a lot of details which he would have pleasure in supplying at a later stage in the debate.

Mr. Murray, continuing, said he trusted that when the information was forthcoming he would find it satisfactory.

In reference to royalties he noticed that the statements which appeared in the Comptroller General's report were at variance, which was further proof that the accounts were not clear to the average person. In the Public Works Department there was a difference shown in the several statements of $23,883.69. In the accounts for Executive Government a difference was shown of $4,274.12. The cash receipts of the province were shown in the insert as $2,167,337.76 while in the cash statement they were shown as $2,168,822.40. He would like to know if the Provincial Secretary knew the amount of the actual cash revenue in 1919. The Comptroller's statement certainly did not furnish the information.

Game is Not Protected.

His frinds opposite in their platform of 1916 had complained of the expendtiure on account of Fish, Forest and Game protection. Last year that service had cost $137,346, an increase of $53,346 over the previous year. He had made the statement last year that game was being illegally slaughtered and he had not changed his opinion in that respect. The conditions today were worse than those concerning which the Hon. Premier had complained in 1917. The game was a valuable asset, and it was important that it should be conserved. The Minister of Lands and Mines had boasted last session of a saving of $530 in the appointment of a Chief Game Warden, and a Lumber Scaler, but he did not tell of the large increases in the expenditure on fish, forest and game protection. More was being spent on game protection now than ever before, and the game was not being protected.

The Truth About Grand Falls.

It was not his intention to discuss the water power bill introduced by the Premier at this time. When Mr. Tilley was discussing the subject he was told by the Minister of Lands and Mines that the Company which controlled the Grand Falls held in fee simple a deed signed by James K. Flemming. He would point out that the Act turning Grand Falls over to a private company was passed in 1905, and that Act had compelled Mr. Flemming to sign the deed. Thinking men who realized the great value of water powers would agree with him that the word "crime" was not strong enough to describe the Act passed by the Legislature in 1905.

His friends opposite had complained in 1916 that the then government was expending on agriculture less than the cost of executive government. The accounts for 1919 showed that they had now brought about an improvement, as expenditures on executive government had exceeded than on agriculture by $2,000. The Minister of Agriculture had been given great credit for what he had done. He had found the department well organized and had not put forward a single policy which was not in force when the old government gave up office in 1917.

No Immigration Policy.

The members opposite in 1916 had promised a vigorous immigration policy, but what had they done? The fact was that in no province of Canada was there such absolute stagnation in regard to immigration as in New Brunswick. Other provinces were reaching out for immigrants, but New Brunswick was doing nothing.

For the administration of justice there had been expended in 1919 the sum of $29,776. When a Deputy Attorney General was appointed they had been told of a great saving that would be made, but there had been no saving. The Premier in a pamphlet issued in 1916 had complained of an expenditure of $45,572 on account of executive government. Last year that item totalled $59,249, an increase of $13,396 over 1918. That was what the people had to pay for the good loking men who sat in the seats of the mighty. The people would naturally ask if they were worth the difference in cost, and when the time arrived would say "No."

Hon. Mr. Foster—They will say "Yes."

Mr. Murray, continuing, said that his hon. friend might think that, as he (Murray) did in 1917, but would get a surprise when the election returns came in. He wished to point out that they were now in the reconstruction period, when prudence and economy were much needed in the administration of the affairs of the province. The government should recognize the public needs, and grapple earnestly with the important questions which presented themselves. It was of great importance that there should be conservation of the public domain.

The Hon. Premier had referred to the list of achievements of the present administration. He (Murray) would like to add a few. It was the most partisan administration the province had ever had; it was also the most extravagant; it had the largest revenue and the largest deficit on record; it had charged current expenses to capital account; it had raised the stumpage to $4 and had reduced it in response to the protests of the lumbermen; it had neglected the by-roads; it had increased the cost of executive government; it had failed to make adequate provision for the returned soldiers; and it had made no provision for immigration.

VOTE OF CONFIDENCE.

Rome, March 31.—Following a discussion of the general policy of the government, the Italian Chamber of Deputies last night gave the cabinet a vote of confidence, the result being 250 to 195.

WEDDINGS.

Ottaway - Breadman.

A wedding of much interest took place on Feb. 19th, 1920, in the Church of England, in Ipswich, England, when Miss Daisy E. Breadman was united in marriage to Mr. Alfred J. Ottaway, of Epswich, England. The groom has been living in Canada for nine years. He went to England in January, 1920, to visit his old home and parents at Epsworth. He returned on the 17th of March, bringing his bride with him. The young couple will make their home for the present at Sheffield, N. B.

Sixty persons will b able to jam into one of Mayor Hylan's municipal buses, of which 200 have been authorized by the Board of Estimate, but 30 of them will have to stand in the 24-inch aisle and cling to "white celluloid handles."

A pride to the one who mixed and baked it, and a joy to those lucky enough to eat it—homemade bread!

About 8.30 the gathering was called to order by Lt. Col. Grey, who briefly addressed the gathering, the P. T. C. class members in particular, and extended a hearty welcome to the guests present. Johnstone's orchestra was present and as usual was a strong factor in the evening's entertainment. The following is the programme:

AMERICA HANDLED WITHOUT GLOVES

Lloyd-George and Carson Blames Troubles in Ireland to America.

London, March 31.—The United States was handled without gloves by Premier Lloyd George and Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster Unionist leader in the debate today in the House of Commons on the second reading of the Irish bill. The Premier said it was action such as that taken by the United States Senate in adopting the Irish resolution that had fostered secession.

"De Valera is putting forth the same views in the same words that Jefferson Davis used," the Premier declared, and added that such a movement has led to civil war.

"We are doing nothing more than the United States claimed for themselves," he continued, "and will stand no less."

Sir Edward Carson, in opening the debate, said he believed that the Irish murders were committed "not by my countrymen, but by ill-conditioned Americans," misled by Sinn Fein propaganda, which, he exclaimed, pointing to the government, "you are doing nothing to counteract."

THE COAL MINERS RATIFY AGREEMENT

New York, March 31.—The negotiations for a new agreement for the bituminous coal miners were brought to a close this afternoon, when the general scale committee of operators and miners of the central competitive field ratified a contract embodying the award of President Wilson's coal commission.

This new agreement, which involves a wage scale increase of twenty-seven per cent., becomes effectiv Thursday morning and will continue in force for a period of two years.

Y. M. C. A. PREPARING FOR SUMMER SPORTS

Baseball Teams as Well as Track and Field Sports to Be Organized.

The local Y. M. C. A. are preparing for the summer sports, including baseball, and track and field sports and are looking to the citizens of Fredericton to back them up in their move. The City Council is to be asked for financial assistance and it is hoped that this summer will see a boom in amateur sports.

An enthusiastic meeting of the Y. M. C. A. was held last evening to organize an athletic association. J. R. Walker was elected president by the unanimous vote of the members, and other officers elected were A. G. Dustan as secretary, and Trafford Donovan as treasurer.

Roland Murray was elected captain of the senior basketball team, as it was found that there were sufficient players to form a strong team, and the junior and intermediate basketball captain will be appointed later. W. B. Keenan was appointed chairman of a committee to enlist enough players for baseball as soon as conditions were favorable for playing and arrangements were started but not completed for the holding of track events during the coming season.

Events of a Day In Parliament

In the House of Commons:

A bill to amend the bankruptcy act was introduced by S. W. Jacobs (Georgetown-Carleton).

H. W. Mowat, Parkdale, introduced a resolution providing that men between eighteen and twenty-five should receive physical training to increase their ability in civil and industrial life and to fit them to defend their country. The resolution advocated four weeks' training each year for seven years.

Debate on the resolution was adjourned in view of the many members who were absent, but who wish to speak to the resolution.

The House adjourned at six o'clock until Tuesday, April 6th.

BUILDING BOOMS ACROSS BORDER

Pittsburg, April 1.—By increasing the production of mills 15 per cent, steel mills in the Pittsburg district have eliminated fear of a shortage.

Building booms in New York, Chicago, Detroit and a number of other cities have drawn heavily upon the supply of mills on hand and builders had begun to fear for the immediate future of their work. Pittsburg contractors took up the question with the mills, and full speed ahead was ordered, with the result that production soon overtook consumption, and authorities now say there is enough nails for all building projects in sight.

Buried Yesterday.

The funeral of the little son of Mr. and Mrs. John Markey took place on Wednesday afternoon. Rev. A. F. Bate conducted a service at the house, and interment was mae at Rural Cemetery.

Mrs. Carle.

Florenceville, March 29.—Death came suddenly to Mrs. Carle at her residence on March 27, after a lingering illness, the result of old age. She is survived by two sons, Orland and Stanley, and several grandchildren.

Able to Leave Hospital.

Miss Emma Ferris, who underwent a serious operation at Victoria Hospital some weeks ago, has so far recovered as to be able to leave the hospital and return to the home of the Earl of Ashburnham.

Mrs. Margaret Robertson leaves tomorrow for St. John, where she will spend Easter with friends.

Dr. Fred E. Burden and Cecil Burden, of Moncton, were guests at the Queen Hotel yesterday.

Usually the hand that rocks the cradle can't hit the side of a barn with a brick.

FLOODS NEAR MONCTON.

Swollen streams are causing considerable damage at various points in the province, and at some places dynamite is being used to break ice jams which threaten bridges and other property. Yesterday the dam at the upper pond furnishing power for Humphrey's woollen and lumber mills, two miles east of Moncton, broke and let loose a torrent of water which caused a serious flood. L. D. Lockhart's dam in the vicinity also collapsed.

FUNERALS.

Lt. George A. Dalzell.

North Head, Grand Manan, March 30.—The funeral of Lieut. George A. Dalzell, whose death occurred in St. John on Wednesday, March 24th, took place at the home of his father, North Head, Grand Manan, on Sunday, March 28th, 1920, and was very largely attended, it being one of the largest ever held on Grand Manan.

Rev. Percy Colhurst, Church of England rector at Campobello, officiated at a short service in the home and adjourned to the Church, where the funeral service was held. The church was filled and many were unable to obtain seats.

The pall-bearers, six returned soldiers dressed in uniform, were Benjamin Gaskill, M. M. and Bar, Walter Flagg, M. M., Harold Pentz, Arnold Grimm, Ralph Griffin, M. M., who carried the casket, draped with the flag to the church and from the church to the cemetery.

Many beautiful floral tributes were sent, including those from the Provincial Red Cross Society, St. John, and the North Head Baptist Church.

DEATH AT ST. JOHN.

St. John, N. B., March 31.—Mrs. Honoria Colter, widow of William Colter, a prominent meat dealer in the city market years ago, died today after a long illness. She is survived by one son, Richard, of the City Market, and a daughter, Mrs. F. J. Power. Mrs. F. O. Conlon, of Fredericton, is a grandchild.

Escaped Fatal Accident.

Joseph Burns, of Maugerville, formerly of the St. John Valley Construction Corps, but recently on the construction staff of the Harris Bridge on the Oromocto river, had a very narrow escape from instant death while engaged in work on the bridge superstructure there on Monday last. A beam 10 feet square losing its balance, it toppled down from one of the cross cords, a distance of 16 feet to the floor of the bridge, and by a lucky chance it smashed through a ladder where Mr. Burns was working, so that one end of it, before he could make a clean get-away, grazed his back in a way to draw blood. Though not seriously injured, Mr. Burns, who is in the city today, has in consequence of the accident been obliged to undergo treatment for bodily pains.

True Knights of Faith

"And there was Gertrude Le Boeuf, as fair a maiden as eye could see, but as bad and bitter as the rest of them. When young Amory de Valane was here last Lammastide he looked kindly upon the girl, and even spoke of taking her into his servie. What does she do, with her dog of a father? Why, they tie themselves together and leap into the Linden Pool, where the water in five spears'deep. I give you my word that it was a great grief to young Amory, and it was days ere he could cast it from his mind. But how can one serve people who are so foolish and so ungrateful?"

When the Seneschal of Villefranche had been detailing the evil doings of his tenants, Alleyne had been unable to take his eyes from the face of Lady Tiphaine. She had lain back in her chair, with drooping eyelids and bloodless face, so that he had feared at first her journey had weighed heavily upon her, and that the strength was ebbing out of her. Of a sudden, however, there came a change, for a dash of bright color flickered up on to either cheek, and her lids were slowly raised again upon eyes which sparkled with such lustre as Alleyne had never seen in human eyes before, while their gaze was fixed intently, not on the company, but on the dark tapestry which draped the wall. So transformed and so ethereal was her expression, that Alleyne, in his loftiest dreaam of archangel or of seraph, had never pictured so sweet, so womanly, and yet so wise a face. Glancing at Du Guesclin, Alleyne saw that he also was watching his wife closely, and from the twitching of his features, and the beads upon his brick-colored brow, it was easy to see that he was deeply agitated by the change which he marked in her.

"How is it with you, lady?" he asked at last, in a tremulous voice.

Her eyes remained fixed intently upon the wall and there was a long pause ere she answrd him. Her voice, too, which had been so clear and ringing, was now low and muffled as that of one who speaks from a distance.

"All is very well with me, Bertrand,' said she. "The blessed hour of sight has come round to me again."

"I could see it come! I could see it come!" he exclaimed, passing his fingers through his hair with the same perplexeed expression as before.

"This is untoward, Sir Tristram,' he said at last. "And I scarce know in what words to make it clear to you, and to your fair wife, and to Sir Nigel Loring, and to these other stranger knights. My tongue is but a blunt one, and fitter to shout word of command than to clear up such a matter as this, of which I can myself understand little. This, however, I know, that my wife is come of a very sainted race, whom God hath in His wisdom endowed with wondrous powers, so that Triphaine Raquenel was known throughout Brittany ere ever I first saw her at Dinan. Yet these powers are ever used for good, and they are the gift of God and not of the devil, which is th difference betwixt white magic and black."

"Perchance it would be as well that we should send for Father Stephen,' said Sir Tristram

"It would be best that he should come," cried the Hospitaller.

"And bring with him a flask of holy water,' added the knight of Bohemia.

"Not so, gentlemen," answered Sir Bertrand. "It is not needful that this priest should be called, and it is in my mind that in asking for this ye cast some slight shadow or slur upon the good name of my wife, as though it were still doubtful whether her power came to her from above or below. If ye have indeed such a doubt I pray that you will say so, that we may discuss the matter in a fitting way."

"For myself," said Sir Nigel, "I have heard such words fall from the lips of this lady that I am of the opinion that there is no woman, save only one, who can be in any way compared to her in beauty and in goodness. Should any gentleman think otherwise, I should deem it great honor to run a small course with him, or debate the matter in whatever way might be most pleasing to him."

"Nay, it would ill become me to cast a slur upon a lady who is both my guest and the wife of my comrade-at-arms," said the Seneshal of Villefranche. "I have perceived also that on her mantle there is marked a silver cross, which is surely sign enough that there is nought of evil in these strange powers which you say that she possesses.'

This argument of the seneschal's appealed so powerfuly to the Bohemian and to the Hospitaller that they at once intimated that their objections had been entirely overcome, while even the Lady Rochefort, who had sat shivering and crossing herself, ceased to cast glances at the door, and allowed her fears to turn to curiosity.

"Among the gifts which have been vouchsafed to my wife," said Du Guesclin, "there is the wondrous one of seeing into the future; but it comes very seldom upon her, and goes as quickly, for none can command it. The blessed hour of sight, as she hath named it, has come but twice since I have known her, and I can vouch for it that all that she hath told me was true, for on the evening of the battle of Auray she said that the morrow would be an ill day for me and for Charles of Blois. Ere the sun had sunk again he was dead, and I the prisoner of Sir John Chandos. Yet it is not every question that she can answer, but only those—"

"Bertrand, Bertrand!" cried the lady in the same muttering far-away voice, "the blessed hour passes. Use it, Bertrand, while you may."

"I will, my sweet. Tell me, then, what fortune comes upon me?"

'Danger, Bertrand—deadly, pressing danger—which creeps upon you and you know it not."

The French soldier burst into a thunderous laugh, and his green eyes twinkled with amusement. "At what time during these twenty years would not that have been a true word?" he cried. "Danger is in the air that I breathe. But is this so very close, Tiphaine?"

"Here—now—close upon you!" The words came out in broken, strenuous speeech, while the lady's fair face was writhed and drawn like that of one who looks upon a horror which strikes, the words from her lips. Du Guesclin gazed round the tapestried room, at the screens, the tables, the abace, the credence, the buffet with its silver salver, and the half-circle of friendly wondering faces. There was an utter stillness, save for the sharp breahing of the Lady Tiphaine and for the gentle soughing of the wind outside, which wafted to their ears the distant call upon a swine-herd's horn."

"The danger may bide," said he, shrugging his broad shoulders. "And now, Tiphaine, tell us what will come of this war in Spain.'

"I can see little,' she answered, straining her eyes and puckering her brow, as one who would fain clear her sight. "There are mountains, and dry plains, and flash of arms and shouting of battle-cries. Yet it is whispered to me that by failure you will succeed."

"Ha! Sir Nigel, how like you that?" quoth Bertrand, shaking his head. "It is like mead and vinegar, half sweet, half sour. And is there no question which you would ask my lady?"

"Certes there is. I would fain know, fair lady, how all things are at Twynham Castle, and above all how my sweet lady employs herself."

"To answer this I would fain lay hand upon one whose thoughts turn strongly to this castle which you have named. Nay, my Lord Loring, it is whispered to me that there is another here who hath thought more deeply of it than you."

PROF. STOCKLEY DOOMED TO DEATH BY SINN FEINERS

Former U. N. B. Professor Was Rated "Untrustworthy" by the Inner Circle.

FOUR SHOTS FIRED IN ATTEMPT AT MURDER

Official Investigation Reveals that Seven Prominent Men Were Expelled.

Four shots were fired at Prof. W. F. C. Stockley, formerly a professor at the University of New Brunswick and now of Queen's College, Cork, when an effort was made to assassinate him several days before the Lord Mayor of Cork was murdered.

Latest reports reaching here state that Prof. Stockley was one of seven leading Sinn Feiners at Cork who had been rated as "untrustworthy" by the radical members of the organization in the city where he was an alderman and two of the seven were killed, official investigations disclosing that they were "actually victims of Sinn Fein vengeance."

The London Daily Mail declares that all seven men who had been "expelled from the inner circle of Sinn Fein" and doomed to death were "prominent men." Of these seven, Lord Mayor MacCurtain was the first to be killed. Another, Prof. Stockley, was shot at four times, but escaped with his life. A third man, whose identity has not been disclosed, was found blindfolded, bound and shot to death in a field at Limerick. He held in his hand a rosary. The remaining four are still alive, so far as known.

"It appears," the newspaper declares, "that the Sinn Fein inner circle organized an attack on a mail van in Dublin on March 3 and the men sent to do the work secured correspondence which was being forwarded to Dublin Castle. Whether in this correspondence there was found anything implicating the seven expelled men is not quite clear, but apparently there is good ground for this view.

"Two days after the attempt to murder Prof. Stockley, Lord Mayor MacCurtain who, although a Sinn Feiner, had strongly denounced the Sinn Fein campaign, was killed. There is no doubt now in the minds of the Irish officials that his murderers were Sinn Feiners, acting under the orders of the Irish Republican Brotherhood."

CUSTOMS RETURNS SHOW INCREASE

Collector Macnutt Reports a Record Revenue—Imports Worth $1,644,718.

The growing importance of Fredericton as a port of entry was reflected in the statement issued by Collector of Customs L. C. Macnutt this morning, showing receipts amounting to $178,779.40 at the local Customs House during the fiscal year which ended yesterday.

Of the gross receipts $172,729.20 was customs duty, the amount being almost four times that received ten years ago, while the valuation of importations through this port was $1,644,718, or more than $400,000 above last year's imports. In the last quarter the importations were more than half a million dollars—$539,636—or something like $100,000 more than double the corresponding quarter of the previous year, while the month of March showed imports valued at almost three times the amount of importations in the same month last year, the duty collected being $15,772.26, or double that of March, 1919.

The total receipts at the Port of Fredericton for the year ending March 31st, 1920, amounted to $178,779.40, and were made up as follows:

Customs duty	$172,729.20
War excise tax	2,058.28
Movie film tax	691.70
Inland revenue stamps	3,300.22
Total	$178,779.40

WAR VETERAN WEDS.

Miss Daphne Ebbett, of The Barony, Becomes Bride of Roy Lawrence, Who Had Three Year's Service Overseas.

At the home of Mrs. Fred Ebbett, The Barony, York county, on Tuesday, March 30, at 5 o'clock, the marriage of her second daughter, Susie Daphne, to Roy E. Lawrence, of Keswick Ridge, was solemnized by Rev. Clifford T. Clark, M.A., B.D., in the presence of the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. The wedding march was played by Mrs. J. Chesley Hallett, sister of the bride.

The bride wore her travelling suit of blue tricotine with hat to match, and natural lynx furs, and she carried a bouquet of white roses and maidenhair fern. She was given in marriage by Conn. J. Chesley Hallett.

Mrs. Lawrence is a graduate nurse, having trained at the General Public Hospital, St. John, and practiced her profession for some time at the St. John County Hospital. The groom is a veteran of the Great War, having served overseas for three years. Many beautiful presents were received by the young couple, the gift of the groom to the bride being a substantial cheque.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence left for points in the province on a short wedding trip, then, after a few days spent at The Barony they will leave for Edmonton, where the groom is a prosperous farmer.

In the Legislature yesterday, S. B. Hunter, M.L.A., introduced a bill to provide for a new municipal home for York county.

SCHOOL JANITOR WENT ON STRIKE FOR MORE SALARY

MORE APPLICATIONS FOR SALARY BOOSTS

Trustees Struggle With the Problem of Curtailing Growing Expenditures.

Dr. VanWart, chairman, presided at the regular meeting of the School Board yesterday, and the other members in attendance included Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Cox, Mr. Spurden, Mr. Lemont, Mr Shute, and the Secretary.

After clearing up deferred business the Board again wrestled with the question of salaries and the general estimated expenditures for the current year. Two additional applications received from the instructional staff added more trouble for the committee and for the Board, but applications for increase of salary were not confined to the teachers, for one of the schools last month placed the Trustees in a dilemma by informing the Secretary that no fires would be lighted two days hence, because request for increase of salary had not been granted; this strike was by the janitor. He carried his point for nobody would break the strike.

Mr. Lemont, from committee, spoke of arrangements made for the immediate establishment of a sinking fund; it would have been to the advantage of the Board if this had been planned long ago, but the desire to keep down the annual assessment seemed to have caused postponement.

After ordering payment of a number of bills as well as the salaries the meeting was adjourned.

NO TRACE YET OF MURDERER

Investigation Of Clark's Escape to Begin At Once

Attorney General Goes to Scene to Conduct an Enquiry

CONSPIRACY OR ELSE SUICIDE

Complicity Expected To Be Unearthed By The Official Probe.

Hon. J. P. Byrne, Attorney General of New Brunswick, left Fredericton this morning by C. P. R. for Grand Falls, where he will arrive late this afternoon, to commence an immediate personal investigation into the escape from Dr. Puddington's private hospital at Grand Falls, some time on Thursday night, of Newman Clark, of Four Falls, N. B., who, on the afternoon of March 25th, shot and killed Miss Phoebe Bell, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Bell, of Grand Falls, and then attempted suicide.

SUSPECT A CONSPIRACY WITH MANY IMPLICATED

There were so many conflicting stories in the early reports reaching the Attorney General that he determined to proceed by the first train to Grand Falls and carry on an investigation into the circumstances surrounding Clark's escape.

It was an open secret here last night that the Attorney General considered Clark's escape could only have been possible by means of his having outside assistance, and it is expected that a conspiracy in which a number of people were implicated will, it is believed, be unearthed.

While Clark had not been formally placed under arrest, it was said that charges of assisting a known murderer to escape would be placed against any person found to have helped Clark get away.

SUICIDE THEORY.

Advanced by Hospital Authorities but Not Believed by the Investigators at Grand Falls.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Grand Falls, N. B., April 3.—Up to an early hour this afternoon investigators for the Attorney General's office, who have been searching for trace of Newman Clark, alleged murderer of Phoebe Bell, who escaped from Dr. Puddington's private hospital here on Thursday night, had received no clue worth while as to his whereabouts, nor had they any word from Sheriff Dunn, of Aroostook county, or other Maine officials in the case, which was regarded significant.

The theory that Clark slipped out of his bed during the night, climbed out of the window nearby to the roof of the verandah, slipped down off there and deliberately walked along the streets covered with snow and ice in his hospital clothing to the Grand Falls of the St. John river and jumped into the whirling waters is scouted by the officers who are engaged in the case, but has been advanced by those in charge of the hospital in which Clark was a patient.

Dr. Puddington's Statement.

Dr. Puddington, in whose hospital Clark had been a patient, declared this

New Brunswick Officer Escapes From Bolshevik

Capt. Horace H. VanWart, son of Mrs. Wesley VanWart, of this city, who has been with the British mission in Siberia as signalling officer and who it was feared had been a victim of the Bolsheviki, has escaped from that country with most of the members of the mission and, according to a letter received this morning, was at Harbin, Manchuria, about six weeks ago.

The letter was a brief missive which came to Dr. Ryerson Long, of this city, written from Harbin under date of February 20th, and described his experiences as follows:

"Managed to escape from Tomsk after it fell into Bolshevik hands, only to get tied up when the Polish forces surrendered. Was captured at Irkutsk by the revolutionists. Here I saw the whole rebellion and Kolchak captured and shot. I finally escaped to China and consider I am very lucky to get out alive, as several of our party were caught and killed. Will write you later from Pekin."

Capt. VanWart went overseas with the First Canadian Division in 1914 and was for some time the officer in charge of the first signal school of the Canadian overseas military forces at Shorncliffe. Later, after being invalided home, he returned overseas and obtained an appointment in 1918 as signalling officer with the British mission going to Siberia, with which he has had some thrilling experiences.

SUNDAY LAW IN QUEBEC PROVINCE

The Provincial Government to Adopt a Passive Attitude Toward Violations.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Quebec, April 3.—Interviewed as to the attitude of the provincial Government relative to the opening of the theatres on Sunday in the province of Quebec, Hon. L. A. Taschereau, Attorney General and Acting Premier, stated last night:

"No orders whatever have been given to the police to interfere with theatres for opening on Sunday."

It is the impression here, although no statement has bene made to that effect, that the Government will assume a passive attitude and will leave it to individuals or societies to take action, as is the case for violations of the Canada Temperance Act.

Eastern Canada offices are to be established in Toronto and St. John. These offices will direct inter-provincial colonization and supply information regarding western lands and opportunities.

CONGESTED POSTAL SERVICE AT LISBON

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Lisbon, April 3.—The postal and telegraph activities were resumed on Wednesday with the end of the strike of the workers in these branches of the government service, but it will require strenuous labor night and day to bring to normal the situation that has existed for three weeks.

There is an accumulation of twenty thousand foreign mail bags to be gone through and assorted. Public order prevails throughout Portugal.

WEST SHIVERED ON GOOD FRIDAY

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Winnipeg, April 3.—While the citizens of Winnipeg shivered in the coldest Good Friday for many years, the local curlers made the most of the wintry weather and several rinks had games on excellent ice. There was also considerable skating, but the majority of the people made it an indoor holiday by reason of the severe cold snap.

THREE MEXICAN SMUGGLERS SHOT

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Declares Peace Treaty Between Allies and Central Empires is Only Temporary.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Vienna, April 3.—Serious conflicts between troops and peasants in Croatia, arising out of the refusal of German-Hungarian peasants to respond to the call to the colors, are reported in Agram (Jugo-Slavia) desatpches, according to which the troops were attacked by massed bodies of farmers armed with scythes and axes. Some hundreds are said to have been killed, while many others were wounded. The disorder is widespread and there have been wholesale arrests of the mutineers.

Agreement with Jugo-Slavia.

Paris, April 3.—An agreement has just been signed by the Jugo-Slav and Hungarian governments by which Hungary undertakes to deliver a large number of railway cars and locomotives, in return for which Jugo-Slavia will supply Hungary with twenty thousand hogs, 70 carloads of bacon and 500 carloads of maize and wheat.

Still Hope for Better Terms.

Budapest, April 3. — Count Albert Apponyi, returning here from Paris, today, for a conference with Admiral Horthy, Hungarian Regent, and party leaders, declared that peace treaties between the Allied Powers and the Central Empires were only temporary in nature.

"My impression is," he said, "that no Allied statesman sincerely believes the present peace treaties can hold for long. I have not lost hope, and believe the position of Hungary to be better than it was a month ago."

ALLIANCE PEOPLE GET AFTER DRURY

Dominion Alliance Claims Premier Has Broken Promise Regarding Native Wines.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Toronto, April 3.—President Charles F. Steele and Secretary Ben Spence, of the Ontario Branch of the Dominion Alliance, have issued another statement in the controversy over the question of the government's alleged change of attitude in the matter of amending the Ontario Temperance Act to prohibit the sale of native wines.

Notwithstanding Premier Drury's denial of a change of attitude, and a denial that the said change was due to "influential representations" being made to the government after the Alliance officials had been practically assured that the O. T. A. would be amended, as asked for by them, Messrs. Steele and Spence stick to their guns and assert that in their opinion there was a change of attitude.

President Steele and Secretary Spence state that when a referendum campaign comes on, although they have not been in favor of such a campaign unless Bill 26, Canada Temperance Act, is amended, they and all the Alliance people will take an active part in the fight.

COST OF HELP ON FARM ADVANCING

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Regina, Sask., April 3.—Like everything else the cost of hired help on the farm is going up, according to G. T. Thomsett, of the provincial bureau of labor. During the past few days with the advent of spring weather, wages have risen ten or fifteen dollars, and farmers applying for help at the Regina office are now paying from $80 to $90 a month for an eight month agreement.

Fear Easter Uprising By Irish Republicans

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, April 3.—Armed troops were on duty along all roads leading to Londonderry last night, motor cars were minutely searched and drivers had to produce permits and declare their business, says a Central News despatch from Dublin. It is believed this military activity had something to do with rumors of an Easter uprising.

There was great military activity in the suburbs of Dublin today, according to the despatch. Parties of soldiers with armored cars took up positions shortly after midnight just outside the city boundaries and all vehicles approaching the capital were searched. Hay carts received particular attention and the tramway passengers from Lucan, about seven miles, who were searched.

In addition to pronounced military activity in the vicinity of Londonderry today, all the roads about the town being patrolled, the passengers who arrived by the Scotch boat at Londonderry were searched by the police. Meanwhile violent scenes were reported taking place among the Sinn Fein prisoners confined in Londonderry jail.

Unusual activity also was displayed by the authorities at Dundalk, midway between Belfast and Dublin, special patrols being posted at all approaches to the town. The drivers of motor cars, which vehicles were numerous on the roads because of the Easter tide activities, were required to produce their permits.

1,000 ROTARIANS INVADE CANADA

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Victoria, B. C., April 3.—The Queen of Sheba, in all her glory, and then some, was not arrayed as will be the "stunters" of the Portland, Ore., Rotarians, who will invade British Columbia's capital 1,000 strong, April 3 to 6, for the annual northwest conference of Rotary Clubs. A programme of bewildering novelties has already been prepared, but no one will be allowed to "get a line" on them till they are pulled off.

SALVATION ARMY PARADE AT TORONTO

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Toronto, April 3.—Almost 3,000 people took part in the annual Good Friday parade of the Salvation Army in this city yesterday, notwithstanding that it was raining at the time. It was the largest parade ever held by the army in Toronto. Twenty-five corps and departments of the army's work were represented in it, and fourteen corps bands marched and provided music along the way. A special service was held in Massey Hall and Commissioner W. J. Richards gave an address.

HEAVY FIRE LOSSES IN SASKATCHEWAN

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Regina, Sask., April 3.—Saskatchewan's fire loss in 1919 totalled $2,400,000, or approximately $150,000 more than in 1918, when the loss amounted to $2,250,000, according to statistics given by the fire commissioner for Saskatchewan.

ALBERTA PLEBISCITE.

GOLD EXCITEMENT IN SASKATCHEWAN

Many Claims Being Filed in Alsask District and High Hopes Entertained.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Alsask, Sask., April 3.—Although the fervent excitement and high hopes are not so manifest at Alsask as they are at Sibbald, Alta., which is only three miles from the Egstead dry creek claim, the Sibbald business men and the farmers of that locality are fully convinced that the gold find is a big one. George Egstead, his wife, and nineteen other prominent persons of Sibbald and district have filed claims. One day, while drawing water from the shallow well which is near what appears to be an old glacial creek or small river, Mr. Egstead noticed some bright grains in the pail. An analysis was made at Calgary, and what the Alsask citizens thought was manganese bronze were real gold nuggets. His claim only cost him $5 and the width of the claim is 500 feet. Judging from the topography of the district, old-time miners believe that it is the mother vein of the scattered beds of gold in Alberta.

LABOR PROBLEM IS ACUTE IN THE WEST

Saskatoon, Sask., April 3.—Labor is the big problem which the Canadian Pacific Railway has to consider in drafting its construction programme this year, according to D. C. Coleman, vice-president and general manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway. The class of people the company has had to rely upon in the past for pick and shovel work, he said, is leaving the country in large numbers. "At least," Mr. Coleman declared in qualification, "they are down east trying to return to Europe."

APPOINT A RUSSIAN TRADE COMMISSION

Russian Representatives to Visit Allied Countries in Endeavor to Open Trade.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, April 3.—The United States will not be represented in any capacity on the special commission which the council of the League of Nations recently decided to send to Russia. This announcement was made by the League of Nations here yesterday.

Russian Trade Commission.

Copenhagen, April 3.—A Russian trade commission headed by M. Nogin, Minister of Commerce in the Lenine cabinet, and M. Rosovsky, accompanied by 24 experts in trade and engineering, arrived here from Moscow yesterday. Nogin said that after a short stay in Denmark, it was the intention of the commission to proceed to London, and perhaps later to the United States.

It was the desire of the commission, Nogin said, to get in touch with merchants and manufacturers in Allied countries and start trade between them and Russia as soon as possible.

"Ships already are loading at Petrograd with flax, hemp, bristles and other commodities," said Nogin, "and will sail as soon as the ice breaks. But our main raw materials, including grain, cannot be exported until we have an improved transport system.

"We propose to buy locomotives and rolling stock, paying for them to some extent in gold."

Nogin said there were many millions of pounds of grain in Russia, but that the peasants demanded in return for it goods and agricultural implements. He declared that the delegation contemplates offering concessions to foreigners for the establishment of manufactories in the mining regions of the Ural and Altai districts and likewise to offer timber concessions, particularly in north Russia.

Germans Fully Expected to Take Possession of Canada

Man Who Was Interned in British Columbia in 1914 Believed to Have Been Gen. Von Luettwitz, Who Headed the Recent Revolutionary Coup.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Kamloops, B. C., April 3.—Belief is expressed here that General von Luettwitz, whose name has figured in recent Berlin despatches as being in command of reactionary troops in Germany, is Rochus, Baron von Luettwitz, who, with the Baroness and Mrs. Helena Edle von Rosthorn, was the guest of Dr. Otto Grumert, here, when war broke out, and who was, with the two women, arrested as an alien enemy on November 21, 1914, and subsequently interned at Vernon, B. C. At that time the Baron was described as a captain of cavalry. When placed under arrest by Chief Constable Simpson, Luettwitz remarked: "I am your prisoner now, Chief, but next year you will be my prisoner." The Baron presented Sergt. W. Walker with a small ornamental box, with the remark: "Keep this box and produce it when the Germans take Canada; it will ensure your safety."

Inhuman Father Branded Daughter With Hot Irons

New York, April 3.—Charged with cruel and inhuman treatment of his 17 year old daughter, Minnie, John Gallander, known on the stage as "Gallanda, clay sculptor," was arraigned in Brooklyn court yesterday and held in $2,500 bail for a hearing later. Nearly 100 scars were found on the girl's body, District Attorney Lewis said.

Affidavits filed with the court alleged she had been branded with hot irons, scalded, stuck with ice picks, hat pins and darning needles, and some of her teeth had been broken and then pulled out with pliers.

For years our citizens have been clamoring for a real Vaudeville Show, such as the larger cities have, but it was impossible of accomplishment. Now conditions have changed and Mr. F. G. To make the new departure profitable capacity audiences are essential, and it is to be hoped that our amusement lovers will not fail to appreciate the endeavors of the new Opera House Management.

Catarrh Of The Stomach Is Dangerous

"Thousands Have It and Don't Know It," Says Physician.—Frequently Mistaken for Indigestion—How To Recognize and Treat.

"Thousands of people suffer more or less constantly from furred, coated tongue, bad breath, sour burning stomach, frequent vomiting, rumbling in stomach, bitter eructations, gas, wind and stomach acidity and call it indigestion when in reality their trouble is due to gastrict catarrh of the stomach," writes a New York physician.

Catarrh of the stomach is dangerous because the mucous membrane lining of the stomach is thickened and a coating of phlegm covers the surface so that the digestive fluids cannot mix with the food and digest them. This condition soon breeds deadly disease in the fermented, unassimilated food. The blood is polluted and carries the infection throughout the body. Gastric ulcers are apt to form and frequently an ulcer is the first sign of a deadly cancer.

In catarrh of the stomach a good and safe treatment is to take before meals a teaspoonful of pure Bisurated Magnesia in half a glass of hot water as hot as you can comfortably drink it. The hot water washes the mucous from the stomach walls and draws the blood to the stomach while the bisurated magnesia is an excellent solvent for mucous and increases the efficiency of the hot water treatment. Moreover the Bisurated Magnesia will serve as a powerful but harmless antacid which will neutralize any excess hydrochloric acid that may be in your stomach and sweeten its food contents. Easy, natural digestion without distress of any kind should soon follow. Bisurated Magnesia is not a laxative, is harmless, pleasant and easy to take and can be obtained from any local druggist. Don't confuse Bisurated Magnesia with other forms of magnesia, milks, citrates, etc., but get it in the pure bisurated form (powder or tablets), especially prepared for this purpose.

Bill to Amend Elections Act Introduced in House

Provision Made for Adding Names to the Voters' Lists at Provincial Elections—Incorporation of Villages of 250 Population—$10,000 for Lome Deposit.

The Legislature adjourned for the Easter recess on Thursday afternoon without any further progress having been made in the debate on the Budget, the House only sitting long enough to do the necessary routine business as the result of St. John bills prolonging the session of the Municipalities Committee.

It was 2.45 p. m. when the Municipalities Committee resumed after the luncheon recess and took up consideration of the bill relating to rates and taxes in the Parish of Lancaster, which was stood over from last week. This provides for a special tax of $3 per hundred on the value of horses and motor vehicles in lieu of personal property tax, all money to be expended on highways. After discussion the section was stood over.

Objection was taken to a provision of the bill under which those causing damage to highways would be charged for repairs.

It was suggested that the tax rate be amended by making the tax on horses $3 each and that on motor vehicles equal to the Provincial Tax.

Coun. O'Brien wanted the bill withdrawn but Coun. Campbell offered objection.

On motion of Mr. Tilley it was decided to consider the bill in private, the county secretary to submit an amended bill.

The committee took up consideration of a bill to amend an Act relating to the St. John Public Hospital and St. John County Hospital.

Hon. Mr. Roberts explained the purpose of the bill, which was to place the burden of maintenance of tubercular patients upon the municipalities in which they originated instead of upon the Parishes.

Mr. McGrath said that this provision should apply to all branches.

There was lengthy discussion on the section relating to the time of payment and it finally was decided to consider the bill in private.

The committee then adjourned and the House then met.

The House in Session.

Mr. Burchill presented the report of the Committee on Standing Rules.

Mr. LeBlanc presented the report of the Committee on Municipalities.

Mr. Baxter introduced a bill relating to street paving and sidewalks in the city of St. John.

Hon. Mr. Tweeddale introduced a bill to provide limestone to the farms of New Brunswick. He explained that the object of the measure was to authorize the borrowing of $10,000 under the Provincial Loans Act to pay for a large lime deposit in the Parish of Simonds, St. John county. The bill also gave power for the manufacture and delivery of lime for agricultural purposes.

The property of H. G. S. Adams, at Coldbrook, is that to be taken over.

Mr. Mersereau, for Mr. Smith (Sunbury), introduced a bill to enable the authorities of St. John's church, Oromocto, to borrow money. He said that on behalf of the people interested he wished to tender his thanks to Dr. Campbell for his services in preparing the bill, which he had given free of charge.

Dr. Campbell introduced a bill to amend the Act incorporating the Church of England Institute of St. John.
