THE LIGHTER SIDE OF LIFE

A Good Boy.

Teacher—How is it you were not at school yesterday, Johnny?

Johnny—Please sir, when I was coming to school I saw a steam-roller.

"Well, what about it?"

"A man touched me on the shoulder and said: 'Mind that steam-roller, boy,' and I stood minding it all the afternoon."

Positively Ruined.

An old couple from the country wandered into a moving picture show in town. As they entered a cowboy picture was being shown.

The old lady laid a restraining hand on her husband's arm.

"Bill," she said, "let's not go too far down in front; the dust those horses are kickin' up is somethin' awful. My clothes'll be ruined."

A Pretty Good Cinch.

As a rule, when a man manages to sell himself at his own valuation there is a pretty good cinch that there is a swindled purchaser in the community.

The Easier Replaced.

Mrs. A.—I am going to get a divorce.

Mrs. B.—Can't you get along with your husband?

Mrs. A.—Yes, but the cook can't.

Quite Satisfied.

"Were you carefully brought up, my lad?" asked the merchant of the applicant for a situation.

"Yes, sir, I came up in the lift, sir," said the respectful youth.

Were Experienced.

"The court scene in this play is the last word in realism."

"The spectators are supernumeraries, though."

"Perhaps, but they are professional spectators. I understand they were drafted from a local court room where a breach of promise suit was being tried."

Made to Measure.

Mrs. Newrich—Don't you think, William, now that we are getting into society, that we should have a coat of arms?

Newrich—Certainly, my dear, I'll see my tailor about it tomorrow.

FROM THE PEOPLE

WHAT SHOULD I DO?

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—What stand should an only daughter of nineteen take, when she is expected to judge the rights and wrongs of her parents, after a quarrel? There has been discord between mine ever since I can remember, and if peace ever reigns, it is only the prologue to more disagreements.

There are two boys in the family, but they have travelling occupations, thus evading the unhappiness which falls to my lot.

I am beginning to feel cowardly at the thought of marriage, fearing inherent unhappiness. What should I do?

Yours,
VIC.

Moncton, N. B., April 29, 1920.

ANTI-BONUS.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I read with considerable interest a letter published in your paper entitled Bonus Invites Waste. It came nearer to an expression of my feelings in the matter than any argument I have seen. I was in the service for three years and came out in better condition than I went in. What greater payment could we ask for services on behalf of such a cause? What right have we to hold up our country, which it is our duty to defend, for cold cash?

What help would it give toward tiding over the time from discharge to settling in a job, if paid a year or two after discharge? Yet this seems to be the chief argument in favor of bonus.

The raising of funds to pay off this bonus would not hurt me, as I am not a taxpayer, and furthermore, there is ample room in my pocket for a few hundred. But like the majority of others if I ever received a cash bonus I should possibly buy useless things with it.

Yours,
EX-SOLDIER.

Newcastle, N. B., April 27, 1920.

HOW TO MAKE FRIENDS.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Apropos of numerous letters regarding friendship which have appeared in your valuaable column as to the ability to readily make friends, permit me a little space on the subject.

Friendship, as one philosopher observes, is a proportion, in which others are to us as we are to them.

To many people the ability to make friends is a "gift of the gods" to a chosen few. These people ultimately come to the conclusion that a mutual attachment is an equation in which their characteristics and actions must resemble those of their friends.

As a matter of fact, however, nearly all of us see our ideals in ourselves; it is only under the stress of some great emotion that we realize our shortcomings. Have you ever noticed that "lonesome" people almost always endow themselves with nearly all the virtues in the calendar? It is rare indeed to hear them admit to selfishness, irritableness or other of the common weaknesses of humanity. They generally conceive friendship to be purely a source of pleasure for themselves; they fail to realize that an arrangement between two from which one derives all the benefits cannot endure.

The poet Longfellow had a host of friends because into everything he did, into everything he said, he breathed sympathy, tact, cheerfulness and toleration. It was this combination of sterling characteristics that attracted all to him and made him one of the most lovable of men.

The best way to ascertain why an acquaintanceship failed to blossom out into a friendship is to study the episode in the role of a disinterested person, and thus discover the incidents that led to the termination of the intimacy; the use of the knowledge thus gained as a guide in the future will lead to the acquisition of ability to readily make friends.

Yours,
W. L.

Woodstock, N. B., April 23, 1920.

ALL BABIES BEAUTIFUL.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Babies are all beautiful. The children in this country, well dressed and well fed, are pictures. As they grow older the health, strength and irresponsibility of youth, where their lives are clean, keep them still attractive.

This is the time, however, when their minds take on lasting impressions. They absorb the family biasses and narrowness. Their thinking apparatus works in the wrong direction. Some of them acquire the human curses of envy, jealousy, avarice and often hatred. These deadly mental diseases leave their mark on face and form. They become prematurely old and ugly.

Kindly thoughts, agreeable work, service for mankind makes the finest paint brush for health, happiness and human beauty. Is it not true that these mental and moral afflictions are ineradicable and that ninety out of every hundred people suffer from them?

Yours,
POLLYANUS.

Government Organ Scores Failure to Provide Ferry to Replace Hartland Bridge

The Hartland Bridge an Integral Part of Farming Industry for Miles Around.

THE INCONVENIENCE TO PUBLIC INTOLERABLE

Lack of Communication Will Mean Loss of $100,000 to Farmers on West Side.

[Hartland Observer.]

On Tuesday Scott A. Shaw, who lives on the west side, a little more than a mile below the river bridge, was in Hartland with a team. He left home at 10 a. m. and going around by Simonds ferry, reached The Observer office at 2.30 p. m. He was after a load of fertilizer and hoped to be able to take a half-ton back with him and get home before dark. He has ten tons to haul home and at this rate twenty days will be required, or more than three weeks. He could do the work between sun and sun were the bridge restored. After that he will have to prepare his ground, and at the very best calculation it would appear that it will be late June before he gets his potatoes in. Mr. Shaw is not alone in his predicament. There are scores of farmers suffering exactly the same way except that many of them have a longer haul and more fertilizer to handle.

Practically every farm in Carleton county is an industrial plant earning an annual profit of $5,000 to $10,000. The Hartland bridge is an integral part of these industries for many miles around. The loss to business is incalculable. The general inconvenience to the public is intolerable and the people will not stand for it.

For years the people of Hartland were promised a bridge. They put up with the ferry for many years and only those who remember the many months of every year when there was no crossing at all can fully realize what a ferry means. There were weeks in the spring, weeks in midsummer, weeks in the autumn when a ferry could not be operated for the reason that the water was either too low or too high.

Discussed with the government and its promises, the people of the community, as full of pep then as they are now, went to work and built a bridge which did service for twenty years. True, for very shame's sake, the government took the bridge over after a number of years. It looks as if local enterprise would again have to provide a means of crossing the river. At least, one hundred times during the past week, The Observer has been asked for information as to what the government intended to do. From week to week the people have hopefully looked to The Observer for news that traffic would be resumed. Yesterday the editor called up the Department of Public Works, and to his request for information he was tersely and testily told, "Well, I can't tell you anything." People who are looking to The Observer for news of the government's intention are here given all the information it can secure and an intimation of the government's attitude as well. Elsewhere is published a report in which Hon. Mr. Veniot makes a statement in answer to a query by Mr. Smith. This promise reads well, but it is all for the future. It was possible to have despatched a tug boat and scow to Hartland two weeks ago, and by this time the farmers would have had their phosphate on their own premises. If matters continue as they are three weeks longer it will mean $100,000 loss to the farmers on the west side.

Mr. Veniot was last summer said to have announced that the Centreville-Woodstock road was a part of his trunk road scheme. It may be true, but he will not find many people using it for such. The main traffic up and down the St. John Valley goes across Hartland bridge. In an hour and a half one Sunday afternoon last autumn the writer observed 34 American cars crossing Hartland bridge. Nothing special going on, just taking advantage of one of those glorious late autumn days. They brought no trade to Hartland, but when they reached home they could truthfully say that Hartland was the only boom town on their trip.

If we lose the tourist trade and the business of a summer we suffer a blow we cannot recover from in 20 years. It might interest the government to know that at the present time several fellows are conveying passengers back and forth in canoes at a charge of 20 cents for each passenger each way.

OBITUARY

Miss Eva Crandlemire.

[Hartland Observer.]

Miss Eva Crandlemire died at her home on Tuesday at 11 p. m., after an illness dating from Christmas Day. She was 21 years of age and the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Crandlemire. For several years she was chief operator at the local exchange of the N. B. Telephone Company and was a young woman of superb physical development until stricken by the dread "white plague." Besides her parents she is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Fred Thornton and Miss Hazel. Her only brother was killed in the war. During her illness she was a great sufferer. The sympathy of the community is outpoured to the grieving family on this afternoon of her funeral which is held at the United Baptist church. Rev. E. A. Tufts is the preacher, and interment takes place at Greenwood.

NO VERDICT REACHED.

Hartland Observer Praises Hon. F. B. Smith

In the past The Observer has abused Hon. B. F. Smith something scandalous, but for the people around Hartland, and for itself, it must heartily congratulate him, for getting what information he did regarding Hartland bridge—Hartland Observer.

CANNOT GET FERRY, SAYS THE MINISTER

Hon. P. J. Veniot Says a Ferry For Use at Hartland May Have to be Built

Hon. P. J. Veniot, Minister of Public Works, while here last week said that he had been discussing the Hartland bridge situation with the chief engineer of his department. He said the department had been unable to secure a ferry for use at Hartland so far, and that it might be that one would have to be built for use there. It is proposed to use a wire ferry, he said.

Tenders for construction of the new substructure of the bridge would be invited soon, he said, but it had not yet been decided whether the new spans would be of wood or steel; that he said would depend on steel prices.

INTERNATIONAL GARMENT WORKERS

Hundreds of Delegates From Canada and United States Gather at Chicago

Chicago, Ill., May 3.—Three hundred delegates from Canada and the United States have assembled in this city to attend the 15th annual convention of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, which will open today and continue for two weeks. The union membership in the two countries is placed at 110,000.

According to Benjamin Schlesinger, president of the organization, one of the proposals to come before the convention will be closer alliance between the garment workers of this continent and the organized needle trades workers of Europe. At a recent meeting of the general executive board of the union it was decided to propose to the convention an international federation of needle trades workers of the world. This proposal was a result of a visit to Europe of President Schlesinger, in the course of which he attended a general conference of European needle trades workers at Amsterdam.

Another European conference is planned to be held in Copenhagen in August, and it is expected that at this gathering the worldwide federation of needle trades workers will be formally agreed upon.

WHOLE OKLAHOMA TOWN WIPED OUT

Fifty Persons Were Killed and 150 Injured in Fearful Storm That Struck Oklahoma Town

Thirty Seven Victims Recovered From the Ruins at Peggs, Where Not a Single House Was Left Standing—Twenty Bodies Taken From One Building

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Muskogee, Okla., May 3. — Thirty seven bodies have been recovered by rescuers from wrecked houses in the demolished town of Peggs, according to a telephone report from Tahlaquah. This information was brought from Peggs by the first man to arrive from there today.

Fifty Persons Reported Killed.

Muskogee, Okla., May 3.—Fifty persons are reported killed and more than 150 injured in a storm that is said to have destroyed the little town of Peggs, Okla., last night.

A special train carrying doctors and nurses and equipment left Muskogee for Peggs this morning. All doctors and nurses in Tahlequah also have gone. Practically every store in Tahlequah, which is the county seat of Cherokee County, has closed and several hundred people have gone to Peggs to do rescue work. Direct communication with the stricken town was impossible this morning as all wires from here to Peggs are down.

Reports to the Democrat from Locust Grove and Tahlequah, where dead and injured from Peggs are being taken, said that no a house was left standing in Peggs.

ST. JOHN MAYOR INSTALLED TODAY

John Thornton Also Sworn in Commissioner of Public Safety

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

St. John, May 3.—After four years in office, R. T. Hayes this morning surrendered the mayoralty chair to E. Allan Schofield, and the latter was duly installed. John Thornton, who was re-elected, also was sworn in and continues in the office of Commissioner of Public Safety. Dr. J. H. Frink, who returns to the council in succession to G. Fred Fisher after an absence of four years, was present at the inaugural meeting this morning, but was not sworn in. No member of the council, except the mayor, can serve while holding any other office or conducting other business, and as Dr. Frink will not be clear of his duties as federal veterinary inspector until he returns from Ottawa, where he goes this week to arrange for the transfer, he will not formally enter the council until next week. Addresses were given by the retiring and incoming members.

About $20,000 worth of the $318,500 issue of city bonds was sold over the counter at City Hall today. The city chamberlain expects to dispose of the whole issue this way instead of adopting the customary course of selling en bloc to financial brokers.

BURGLARS CAUGHT BY FLOWING BOWL

New York, May 3.—Prohibition is interfering seriously with the profession of burglary. The other night two expert cracksmen entered the home of Mrs. Josephine Geddies, St. Nicholas avenue, and did up all the loose valuables in neat bundles ready to carry away. Just as they were about to depart one of them chanced to open a sideboard door. Inside were four quart bottles, all nearly full. There was one of vermouth, one of whiskey, one of gin and one of brandy. The burglars decided to linger a little. When they finally left all four bottles were empty.

Chanting praise of the flowing bowl at the top of their lungs, the pair staggered downstairs. In the lobby of the apartment house they were stopped by a gathering of citizens attracted by the clamor, and handed over to the police.

NOT LEGAL GROUND FOR SEPARATION

New York, May 3.—Judge Kapper of the Supreme Court here has decided that to assault the mother of one's wife does not constitute legal ground for separation. Mrs. Abraham Horowitz brought suit for separation and alimony against her husband. Her counsel told the court that Horowitz had assaulted his mother-in-law. "That is not ground for the wife to obtain a separation," the judge ruled.

ADOPT FAMILY OF 18.

Racine, Wis., May 3. — Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hitchcock, of Ogema, a village near here, have no children of their own but have assumed care of 18, ranging in age from 6 to 21. In order to do this systematically they became legally incorporated the other day. The name of this adoption firm. is The W. H. Hitchcock Family, Inc. Each one of the adopted children holds stock in the organization. The capital consists of a farm and a healthy bank account.

Douglas McElvaney, accountant with A. R. Gould, Presque Isle, spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward McElvaney, Westmorland street.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

McAdam, N. B., May 3.—This is one of the red letter days of Watt Lodge, No. 95, Independent Order of Oddfellows, and also for McAdam generally, as not for a long time has there been so much interest shown in an event here as has been evinced which the visit local Oddfellows are paying this evening to Carleton Lodge at Woodstock.

For the trip the C. P. R. have provided a special train which will leave here this afternoon for Woodstock with a party of about 100 people, including a representation from St. Stephen and other lodges at other places in this district. The 101st anniversary of the Order is being celebrated.

TORONTO PASTOR AND CHOIR BATTLE

Toronto, May 3.—Rev. T. T. Shields, pastor of Jarvis street Baptist church, the leading church of that denomination in the city, has tendered his resignation with the idea of having the congregation endorse him in his attitude towards Dr. Edward Browne, organist and choir master, and a leading musician in this city, who came here from England some ten years ago. The difference between the pastor and organist is over the music.

The pastor points out that his sermon has to be cut down to twenty minutes because of the many musical numbers.

Eclipse of the Moon.

The eclipse of the moon was not discernable here last evening as the sky was heavily clouded until about midnight when the moon was very brilliant. Many people were out with their glasses looking for the eclipse.

Why Gasolene Costs More

[From The Lamp.]

While the public during the past three years has watched the price of one commodity after another go skyrocketing into ever higher altitudes, the domestic price of gasoline—in the territory served by the Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) at least—has remained constant and stable. Since the beginning of 1917 gasoline has been probably the one necessity of modern life that has not added to its burden of cost. Official data of price changes show an advance of two hundred per cent. in the cost of potatoes, one hundred and ninety per cent. in beef, one hundred and ninety-eight per cent. in shoes during a period in which the price of gasoline, now also as essential as foodstuffs, and reflecting a much greater increase in consumption than practically any other product, showed not even a fractional change. So that as people have become accustomed to paying more and more for everything except gasoline, a belated advance of less than ten per cent., or two cents per gallon, in this commodity since the beginning of the year has only emphasized the fact that it is still relatively one of the cheapest of the things that the public must buy.

Crude Oil Costs More.

The reason why gasoline has at last fallen in at the end of the line of advancing commodities is patent to anyone who studies even casually the statistics of oil production in this country. The basic reason of course is that gasoline prices are slightly higher than they were for the identical reason that bread prices are very much higher than they were—namely, a shortage of raw material. Corresponding to the wheat growers of the agricultural industry are the fifty to sixty thousand individual oil producers of the United States. As the basic source of supply they are the farmers of the oil industry. To them the Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) must go to purchase well over half of its requirements of raw material—crude oil—and pay the price fixed for it by a competitive market. Various circumstances have contributed to make that a steadily rising market, so much so that Pennsylvania crude, which could be bought for less than $3 a barrel three years ago, now costs this company $5.25 a barrel and the Mid-Continent crude, which was $1.50 a barrel in 1917, is now worth $3 a barrel at the well.

To the natural inquiry as to why the advance in crude occurred, the fifty to sixty thousand American oil producers mentioned have a ready answer. Part of it, of course, deals with the ever-increasing demand. In ten years they have managed to double their output of crude oil but the consumption has galloped far ahead of them. The number of oil-burning vehicles alone increased fifteen times while the production was being doubled, and every day finds a new use for petroleum derivatives. Even to keep pace with the demand has driven produceds to the lower strata of the oil areas and, consequently, enormously increased the costs to obtain the crude. The wells being drilled nowadays average seven hundred feet deeper than those put down a few years ago. Then the average depth was 1,700 feet, which meant a very economical operation, compared with the 3,300 fet or deeper wells of today in Texas, Wyoming and Oklahoma, with the accompanying heavier and longed strings of expensive casing and other costs, which multiply with every foot of additional depth reached by the producers' drill.

Net Gains in Wells Small.

But even the great impetus which the higher prices has given to these extraordinary exertions of the producers has not been sufficient of crude above current requirements. For a long time the new fields developed in Texas last year promised to do this and when their output actually added a few million barrels to the country's reserve stocks, some reduction in the price appeared possible. But these hopes were still unreached when the flush production in the north and central Texas fields began to dwindle and the appearance of salt water in the still newer pool at Homer, Louisiana, made necessary a reduction in estimates of its total potential production. This is, of course not only put unusual, but is the history of the petroleum industry. Oil wells, like any other mines, suffer from exhaustion. If the anual consumption of petroleum was fixed instead of, as it is, advancing by leaps and bounds, it would still be necessary to "bring in" every year a percentage of new wells to replace those which play out. While in the past ten years over 213,000 new wells were drilled in the United States, the actual increase owing to the fact that 120,000 ceased to produce during that period was less than half the number of wells drilled and at the end of the ten years there were just 240,000 wells in operation.

The figures are significant because they indicate that still new oil areas will have to be found, as they undoubtedly will be. From the existing wells there was produced last year, according to Government reports, 376,000,000 barrels of crude, and the consumption of this and the 55,000,000 barrels imported, was such that the year ended with total reserve stocks on hand of 130,000,000 barrels. Roughly this is only a five months' supply for the American refineries and at the end of the yea rthe average daily production of crude in the United States had fallen from 1,122,000 barrels in September to 1,000,000 barrels.

Imports Limited.

All this, of course, relates to native production alone. American crude produced east of the Rockies is essentially a refinable crude from which the preponderant percentage of the gasoline of our commerce is manufactured. The domestic production is supplemented by imports of considerable quantities of heavy gravity oil from Mexico, which crude yields a small percentage of light products, but which is principally used to meet the fuel oil consumption of the country. In 1919 Mexico sent us the 55,000,000 barrels of this heavy gravity oil mentioned above, but the measure of our relief from this source was threatened in that year by the intrustion of salt water in what had been the most prolific of the Mexican producers and the suspension by President Carranza of the work of drilling new wells to replace them. Since then the Mexican government has partially lifted its embargo on drilling operations by signifying its willingness to issue temporary drilling permits, but the situation in respect to the present and future supplies of crude oil, both domestic and foreign, for American refineries, sufficiently explains the present high price of crude as well as the necessity of the advance in the price of gasoline.

LABOR BUREAU COST PROPOSALS

City and Province May Divide Half the Cost It Is Now Said

A new division of costs under which it is hoped the Employment Service Bureau in Fredericton can be maintained will be suggested at this evening's meeting of the City Council in committee, it was learned today.

The Federal Government have expressed a willingness to pay 50 per cent. of the cost of continuing the service but the Provincial Government declined the proposal that they enter a 50-50 arrangement with the Dominion with the result that, in spite of protests from both business and labor interests, the bureau was closed.

The latest suggestion is that the city and Provincial Government divide evenly one half the expense and it was said today that the City Council would probably agree to such a suggestion, which would mean an expense of from $1,000 to $1,400 annually which the city would have to bear. Up to the present the city has paid only the cost of rent and equipment of the office.

The Fire Committee and the Administration of Justice Committee will make reports this evening, the former on the matter of an increase in salary for the fire drivers, while the latter will report on the matter of an increased salary for the Police Magistrate. The usual monthly bills will be passed and several other matters will be considered by the Council.

DEVELOPMENT OF MANITOBA MINES

Ten Million Dollars to Be Spent on Flin Flon Property, Including Smelter.

Winnipeg, Man., May 3.—Within the next five years the development of the mining country of northern Manitoba will be of such a nature that it will have become the greatest mining district in Canada, said J. E. Hammel, of Toronto, one of the original owners of the Flin Flon copper mine. Work to cost one-quarter million dollars will be done on the Flin Fon property this year, he said, and will be spent in sinking two shafts to a 500 foot level in order to find out the physical character of the ore, a proceeding that must take place before mining on a large scale is commenced. Mr. Hammell said that before a return on the money invested in the mine could be gained ten million dollars would have to be spent in development work, including the erection of a smelting plant. The mine was recently sold to a syndicate representing English, Canadian and American capital and Mr. Hammell is satisfied that there will be no hold up on this score. Mr. Hammell stated that he is practically certain that the company would be able to guarantee an output of at least 2,000 tons if not 5,000 tons of ore blister copper day to take effect three years years from now. This guarantee would be forwarded to the Provincial Government, which was under obligation to construct a railroad 80 miles in length into the mining district to handle the output, which will cost approximately $2,700,000 to be handed over when completed to the national railways for operation.

COSTLY MISTAKE FOR THE DETECTIVE

Chicago, May 3. — In the bright lexicon of married life, thought J. C. Brock, house detective at the Morrison Hotel, there is no such word as "sweetheart." The sleuth heard Cassius C. Smiley, a guest at the hotel, call a woman "sweetheart" one night. He knocked on the room door and when Smiley opened it, he made his way in. Smiley put up a fight and the woman screamed and ran and hid in the cupboard. Later the detective discovered the woman was Mrs. Smiley, and later still the court awarded Smiley $9,000 damages, which the proprietors of the hotel had to pay.

NEW TRIBUNAL IN DOMESTIC CASES

Syracuse, N. Y., May 3. — When Rev. and Mrs. W. W. Brunk, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Liverpool, near here, found that they could not agree upon many domestic matters, they called in an informal jury of their neighbors to settle their differences and agreed to abide by their decision.

Mrs. Brunk accused her husband of holding out on his salary and of neglecting her; he retorted with hints regarding his wife's mental stability.

The "jurors" decided the Brunks should separate, she to take the eldest child and he the two younger ones. They awarded Mrs. Brunk $2,000.

The Franchise Act Expected To Be Put Through Parliament Before Close of Present Week

Some of the Contentions Clauses Yet to be Disposed of, But Opposition Not Likely to Make Much Headway —Western Members in Caucus Today

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, May 3.—With the certainty that the budget will not come down this week, the probabilities point to a comparatively quiet week in Parliament. Efforts will be made to secure the final passage during the week of the Franchise Act, although it is by no means certain that this will be accomplished. The most contentious clauses, relating to the enumeration of federal lists and also difranchisemen s claimed to be involved, are yet to be tackled.

While there is little prospect of such an amendment carrying, it is quite likely that from the government side on the third reading an amendment will be submitted to revert to the disfranchisement for a period of years of all alien enemy subjects who have been naturalized and to include also defaulters under the Military Service Act.

The budget is fully expected some time next week. It is learned that the preparation of it is fully advanced, although some points concerning the proposed taxes and other features have yet to be reviewed and decided by the cabinet. This probably will be done at the week-end.

Western Unionists had another caucus today, at which R. W. Breadney, from the Commission on Taxation, explained some points in regard to the operation of the income tax, and further consideration also was given to the question of the proposed excise tax. While most of the members are favorable to the principle, it is very much doubted that it will be insisted upon this year, and it is even more improbable that it will be adopted as part of the budget.

Politically there is some speculation as to the mission of Hon. Dr. Reid to Atlantic City, where he is meeting the Premier, and discussing the general situation. The Minister is not expected back until towards the end of the week, while it has been intimated that Sir Robert will not return until about the end of the month. Dr. Reid is expected to bring back some intimation as to the Premier's intentions with regard to his political future.

Subsidies Asked For.

Considerable influence is being executed purely in political circles in favor of a development policy which would involve the question of subsidies. Some time ago shipbuilding interests submitted to the Government proposals for the subsidizing of their industry on a tonnage basis. This has been supplemented by resolutions from a number of labor organizations faverable to the proposition and in other ways the matter is being followed up.

Simultaneously, there is a movement of some proportion in favor of assisting in the development of the iron and other are resources of the country. Various proposals in that respect have been advocated, ranging from a higher tariff on raw materials of that class now imported, to a system of bonuses or even partnership with the state. The last mentioned method, however, has received the opposition of the western members, supposedly reflecting opinion in their part of the country, and has therefore been considerable of a barrier to any progress, but the westren caucus showed signs recently of developing some sympathy towards the movement.

They would probably exact some quid pro quo, demanding tariff concessions on certain commodities in which they are particularly interested, if any system of bonuses for the development of natural resources were inaugurated. In view of the somewhat uncertain political conditions which now obtain, it is doubtful if any provision along that line is made in this year's budget, though it would not be for lack of vigorous representation. However, in the formulation of policy of the projected consolidation of the Government party, it is thought that some plank might be inserted.

Snow Flurries On First Days of May

The first three days of May, 1920, have each been marked by light snowfalls, although there has not been enough to cover the ground so far.

Snow flurries in May are not entirely unknown in New Brunswick, older residents recalling a heav yfall of snow on May 24th, 1870, while in recent years the most pretentious storm in May was on May 11th, 1907. In the summerless year of 1816 historians say there were snow storms in August and killing frosts in all the summer months.

Death at Prince William.

The death occurred at Prince William last night of William C. Rossborough, one of the best known and most highly respected residents of that place. Deceased was 78 years of age and had been ill only a short time. He is survived by his widow, one son and one daughter. The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock with service at the house by Rev. Mr. Peterson and interment will be made in the Prince William cemetery.

Writing Up New Brunswick.

J. L. Rutlege, of Toronto, editorial writer for MacLean's Magazine, is in the city today, preparing a number of editorials on New Brunswick for that magazine and spent Sunday and this morning in looking over the city. This morning he secured data from R. H. Simonds, Secretary of the Board of Trade, and L. P. Bradt, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, and others.

Fire This Morning.

An alarm from Box 17 about eight o'clock this morning called the firemen to the Neguisland house, corner King and Northumberland streets. A burning chimney was the cause of the alarm and no damage was done.

J. F. McLaughlan, of St. John, is among the guests at the Barker House today.

THE GOVERNMENT MEET THIS WEEK

tion in the city of St. John, caused by the acceptance of a salary as Minister of Public Health by Hon. Dr. Roberts, will be ordered to issue at this meeting of the Government is not definitely known. It is expected, however, that some action in that regard will be taken and the situation at St. John as well as the Carleton county vacancy discussed. In fact there are reports again that it would not be surprising if a general provincial election was called on, although the Government's supporters don't want to see an election until they have enjoyed the increased sessional indemnity for a longer period than just one session.

The Water Powers Commission to carry on the development of the water powers of New Brunswick, authorized by the Legislature, will probably not be appointed at this week's meeting of the Government, it was said today.

Muskrat Season Closed.

The open season for killing muskrat in New Brunswick closed yesterday and it is estimated that the number killed, particularly along the St. John river, was the largest in history while prices have been far in excess of those paid in any previous year. About $5 has been the ruling price for good skins and Indians and others who have been engaged in killing the animals have reaped a rich harvest.

RUTH STARTS TO HIT; YANKEES WIN

Record Breaking 26 Inning Tie Between Brooklyn and Boston Week's Feature

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York, May 3.—The Cincinnati world's champions won four straight games and set the pace in the National League last week. The Reds' record of six consecutive victories was checked yesterday by Cooper, of Pittsburgh.

The Chicago American titleholders, ousted from first place during the latter part of the week by Boston and Cleveland, regained the lead Saturday and held on to it yesterday by defeating St. Louis. The best showing in the younger league was made by St. Louis, which won four of its five games. Detroit, still unable to hit effectively, yesterday lost its thirteenth straight game of the season.

The record-breaking 26-inning 1-1 tie between Cadore, of the Brooklyn Nationals, and Oeschger, of Boston, was the outstanding feature of the week. The pair engaged in an 11-inning pitchers' duel in Brooklyn two weeks ago, which was won by the Superbas, 1 to 0. Brooklyn continued its extra-innings habit yesterday, losing a 13-inning game to Philadelphia.

Cincinnati's success last week was due to Ring and Rixner each winning twice. Brooklyn batted lightly and broke even on its games. Mitchell, of the Superbas, blanked New York in the rubber game of their series. Philadelphia's improved playing and batting advanced the Quakers to a tie with Brooklyn for second place. St. Louis and Pittsburgh encountered strong pitching in most of their games.

In the American League Williams of Chicago gave two excellent pitching exhibitions, holding Detroit to three hits and one run in ten innings, and Cleveland to two hits and one run. Boston lost twice by shut-outs at the hands of Johnson, of Washington, and Shawkey, of New York. Darkness ended a 14-inning struggle between Boston and Philadelphia on Wednesday. Coveleskie, who has won five straight, won twice for Cleveland and was the first pitcher to stop Chicago. Previous to Saturday's contest the St. Louis pitcher was in splendid form, yielding two runs in four games. Ruth, New York's premier long distance slugger, who resumed his place in the outfield, made his first home run Saturday and another yesterday. Philadelphia made many hits and runs but fielded poorly.

Joe Jackson Leads Batters.

Chicago, May 2.—Joe Jackson, the Chicago outfielder, leads American League batters with an average of 483 for eight games, according to averages released Saturday. Johnson, Cleveland, is second with .444 acquired in nine games, and Hendrix, Boston, with .432, is third. At bat 29 times, Jackson got 14 hits.

Ty Cobb, the Detroit star, last year's batting champion, has not found his batting eye, although he has participated in ten games. He has been at bat 37 times and has made only six hits for an average of .162. "Babe" Ruth, New York, who last season established a world's record of 29 home runs, also is slow in getting his eye sharpened for hitting.

C. Walker has bagged two home runs, and Roth, Washington, has stolen six bases.

Nicholson, Pittsburgh, is topping the batters of the National League with an average of .600, made in five games. He has been playing the role of pinch hitter, and in five times at bat has made good three times. Kilduff, Brooklyn, in a like number of games is hitting .500, having made six hits in 15 times at bat. Hornsby, St. Louis, with .468 made in 11 games, is third. Rousch, Cincinnati, who led the regulars in batting last year, is batting only .216 for 10 games.

Max Carey, Pittsburgh, is getting away to a flying start among the base stealers, having pilfered five bases.

INTERSCHOLASTIC BASEBALL STARTS

St. Dunstan's School Won From Charlotte Street School by 9 to 6

The batteries were—St. Dunstan's School, McGinnis and Gallant; Charlotte Street School, Bliss, Hanson and Baird.

The St. Dunstan's team's runs were scored by McGinnis (4), Gallant (2), McLenahan (2), and Ryan, while the players who scored for Charlotte Street School were Boyd, Bliss, Baird and Hanson. Tait Hawkins was the umpire.

The Gleaner will publish all reports of interscholastic baseball games this year, which reach the Sporting Editor not later than 9 a. m. on the day of publication. Reports should give the lineup of the teams and umpire's name, with the score by innings, when possible.

Boston, May 2.—The major league record for the number of innings in a single game went to smash Saturday when for twenty-six innings and three hours and 50 minutes the Boston and Brooklyn Nationals battled to 1 to 1 on Braves field. True Knights of Faith

Three large stones formed a rough cot by the roadside, and beside it, basking in the sun, sat the hermit, with clay-colored face, dull eyes, and long withered hands. With crossed ankles and drunken head, he sat as though all his life had pased out of him, with the beads slipping slowly through his thin, yellow fingers. Behind him lay the narorw cell, clay-floored and damp, comfortless, profitles and sordid. Beyond it there lay amid the trees the wattle-and-daub hut of a laborer, the door open and the single room exposed to the view. The man ruddy and yellow-haired, stood leaning upon the spade wherewith he had been at work upon the garden patch. From behind him came the ripple of a happy woman's laughter, and two young urchins darted forth from the hut, bare-legged and towsy, while the mother, stepping out, laid her hand upon her husband's arm and watched the gambols of the children. The hermit frowned at the untoward noise which broke upon his prayers, but his brow relaxed as he looked upon the broad silver piece which John held out to him.

'There lies the image of our past and of our future," cried Alleyne, as they rode on upon their way. "Now, which is better, to till God's earth, to have happy faces round one's knee, and to love and be loved, or to sit forever moaning over one's own soul, like a mother over a sick babe?"

"I know not about that," said John, "for it casts a great cloud over me when I think of such matters. But I know that my crown was well spent, for the man had the look of a very holy person. As to the other, there was nought holy about him that I could see, and it would be cheaper for me to pray for myself than to give a crown to one who spent his days in digging for lettuce."

Ere Alleyne could answer there swung round the curve of the road a lady's carriage drawn by three horses abreast with a postilion upon the outer one. Very fine and rich it was, with beams painted and gilt, wheels and spokes carved in strange figures, and over all an arched cover of red and white tapesty. Beneath its shade there sat a stout and elderly lady in a pink cote-hardie, leaning back among a pile of cushions, and plucking out her eyebrows with a small pair of silver tweezers. None could seem more safe and secure and at her ease than this lady, yet here also was a symbol of human life, for an instant, even as Aleyne reined aside to let the carriage pass, a wheel flew out from among its fellows, and over it all toppled—carving, tapestry and gilt—in one wild heap, with the horses plunging, the postilion shouting, and the lady screaming from within. In an instant Alleyne and John were on foot and had lifted her forth all in a shake with fear, but little the worse for her mischance.

'Now woe worth me!' she cried, "and ill fall on Michael Easover or Romsey! for I told him that the pin was loose, and yet he must needs gainsay me, like the foolish daffe that he is."

"I trust that you have taken no hurt, my fair lady," said Alleyne, conducting her to the bank, upon which John had already placed a cushion.

"Nay, I have no scath, though I have lost my silver tweezers. Now, lack-a-day! did God ever put breath into such a fool as Michael Easover of Romsey? But I am much beholden to you, gentle sirs. Soldiers ye are, as one may readily see. I am myself a soldier's daughter," she added, casting a somewhat languishing glance at John, "and my heart ever goes out to a brave man."

"We are indeed fresh from Spain," quoth Alleyne.

"From Spain, say you? Ah! it was an ill and sorry thing that so many should throw away the lives that Heaven gave them. In sooth, it is bad for those who fall, but worse for those who bide behind. I have but now bid farewell to one who hath lost all in this cruel war."

"And how that, lady?"

'She is a young damsel of these parts, and she goes now into a nunnery. Alack! it is not a year since she was the fairest maid from Avon to Itchen, and now it was more than I could abide to wait at Rumsey Nunnery to see her put the white veil upon her face, for she was made for a wife and not for the cloister. 'Did you ever, gentle sir, hear of a body of men called 'The White Company over yonder?"

"Surely so," cried both the comrades.

"Her father was the leader of it, and her lover served under him as squire. News hath come that not one of the Company was left alive, and so, poor lamb, she hath".

"Lady!" cried Alleyne, with catching breath, "is it the Lady Maude Loring of whom you speak?"

"It is, in sooth."

"Maude! And in a nunnery! Did, then, the thought of her father's death so move her?"

'Her father!" cried the lady, smiling. "Nay; Maude is a good daughter; but I think it was this young golden-haired squire of whom I have heard who has made her turn her back upon the world."

"And I stand talking here!" cried Alleyne wildly. "Come, John, come!"

Rushing to his horse, he swung himself into the saddle, and was off down the road in a rolling cloud of dust as fast as his good steed could bear him.

Great had been the rejoicing amid the Romsey nuns when the Lady Maude Loring had craved admission into their order—for was she not sole child and heiress of the old knight, with farms and fiefs which she could bring to the great nunnery? Long and earnest had been the talks of the gaunt lady abbess, in which she had conjured the young novice to turn forever from the world, and to rest her bruised heart under the broad and peaceful shelter of the church. And now, when all was settled, and when abbess and lady superior had had their will, but it was fitting that some pomp and show should mark the glad occasion. Hence was it that the good burghers of Romsey were all in the streets, that gay flags and flowers brightened the path from the nunnery to the church, and that a long procession wound up to the old arched door leading up the bride to these spiritual nuptials. There was lay-sister Agatha with the big gold crucifix, and the three incense-bearers, and the two-and-twenty garbed in white, who cast flowers upon either side of them and sang sweetly the while. Then, with four attendants, came the novice, her drooping head wreathed with white blossoms, and, behind, the abbess and her council of older nuns, who were already counting in their minds whether their own bailiff could manage the farms of Twynham, or whether a reve would be needed beneath him, to draw the utmost from these new possessions which this young novice was about to bring them.

But alas! for plots and plans when love and youth and nature, and above all, fortune are arrayed against them. Who is travel-stained youth, who dares to ride so madly through the lines of staring burghers? Why does he fling himself from his horse and stare so strangely about him? See how he has rushed through the incense-bearers, thrust aside lay-sister Agatha, scattered the two-and-twenty damosels who sang so sweetly—and he stands before the novice with his hands outstretched, and his face shining, and the light of love in his gray eyes. Her foot is on the very lintel of the church, and yet he bars the way—and she, she thinks no more of the wise words and holy rede of the lady abbess, but she hath given a sobbing cry and hath fallen forward with his arms around her drooping body and her wet cheek upon his breast. A sorry sight this for the gaunt abbess, an ill lesson for the stainless two-and-twenty who have been taught that the way of nature is the way of sin. But Maude and Alleyne care little for this. A dank, cold air comes out from the black arch before them. Without, the sun shines bright and the birds are singing amid the ivy on the drooping beaches. The choice is made, and they turn away hand-in-hand, with their backs to the darkness and their faces to the light.

B. C. PROSPECTOR HAS DISAPPEARED

Prince Rupert, May 1.—"Baldy" Silinas, well known prospector, who after many weary months of search discovered the valuable silver property of the Spanish group at Alice Arm, has disappeared. No trace of his whereabouts can be found, and his friends are anxious. Salines is a Spaniard, young, short, and swarthy. Long before Alice Arm blossomed forth as a boom silver camp his unbounded faith in the district kept him prospecting through the hills. Despite privation and solitude, his courage never flagged. Finally, he struck a rich vein. Today the Spanish group is decidedly worth owning. But the owner has been missing for some weeks. He wandered away after a prolonged illness from influenza. Stacked in sacks at the Spanish group is enough silver ore to yield a modest fortune.

FULLER COMPANY TO BUILD FRASER HOSPITAL HERE

Archibald Fraser Authorizes Announcement that Contract Has Been Signed

READY FOR OCCUPANCY BY MARCH 1, 1921

1J Months Given to Complete New Hosiptal Building in Fredericton.

The Gleaner is authorized today to announce that the George A. Fuller Company, regarded as the largest building and construction corporation in America, with Canadian headquarters at Montreal, have signed the contract for the construction of the Fraser Memorial Hospital, which it was recently intimated would be built here this year.

Archibald Fraser, of Edmundston, authorized the announcement over the long distance telephone from Edmundston, upon his return from Montreal, where last week the formal contract was signed and arrangements made for construction work to be commenced at an early date. The provisions of the contract call for the building to be completed and ready for occupancy in ten months, which would mean March 1, 1921.

The new hospital building will be of stone, three storeys in height, and will be modern in design and equipment, extensive sun parlors for convalescent patients being one of the features. The estimated cost is between $150,000 and $200,000, it is understood, although no definite figures have been given out. The construction of the hospital was provided for by the late Donald Fraser, Sr., who founded the business from which the present Fraser Companies, Ltd., developed.

Announcement was made today that the Provincial Government have accepted the bid of A. E. Ames & Co., Toronto; J. M. NEGOTIATIONS FOR PICTURE THEATRE SITE ON YORK ST.

Part of Eastern Canneries' Property Wanted With the Golding Stable Site.

FRED G. SPENCER WANTS NEW MOVIE HOUSE HERE

Tenders for Eastern Canneries to Be Considered by the Assignees Tomorrow.

There have been some further negotiations recently respecting the use of York street as a site for a new moving picture theatre in Fredericton, and it is understood that there is a possibility of a portion of what has been the Eastern Canneries property, formerly the Searles provisions store, being used in that connection.

Tenders closed at noon today for the sale of the property of Eastern Canneries, Ltd., but D. W. Olts, one of the assignees, said the tenders would not be opened until tomorrow as P. F. Blanchet, of St. John, the other assignee, would not arrive here until this evening. Mr. Olts admitted that Fred G. Spencer, of St. John, who has been looking over the old Golding livery stable property on York street, now owned by R. Chestnut & Sons, Ltd., as a prospective site for a theatre to replace the Gem, which was burned some months ago, has been negotiating to secure a part of the Searles property, which with the Golding site, would provide enough room for erecting a theatre.

Mr. Olts said shortly before noon today that no tenders had been received for the property, but he expected there would be some proposals for consideration by the assignees when they confer tomorrow.

Announcement.

A foot comfort expert, specially trained in the Dr. Scholl method of foot correction, will be at Van Dine's shoe store May 10th and 11th. Bring your foot and shoe troubles to him. No charge; no obligation. Make an appointment now.

THE GOVERNMENT WILL MEET HERE NEXT THURSDAY

First Meeting Since Session of the Provincial House Was Prorogued

GENERAL ELECTIONS RUMORS ARE RECEIVED

Large Programme Including Bye-Elections to be Discussed This Week

The first meeting of the Provincial Government since the session of the Legislature closed will be held this week, having been called for Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

There is a pretentious array of matters for consideration by the Government, but with the meeting taking place late in the week there is some doubt as to whether all the programme can be taken up at this meeting. It is expected, however, that an apointment will be made to the chairmanship of the Public Utilities Commission and the important business of that body, which has been held up since the term of office of G. O. Dickson Otty, of Hampton, as chairman, expired in April.

Strike of 20,000 Cotton Workers At New Bedford

The Employees at Thirty Seven Mills Are Called Out

UNION FIREMEN TO QUIT WORK

300 Employees of Connecticut Thread Company Strike.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New Bedford, Mass., May 4.—The strike of operatives in thirty-seven cotton mills in this city yesterday was followed by the issuance of orders from union headquarters last night to all union firemen to quit work today. Union leaders said that many of the firemen reported for work yesterday through a misunderstanding. About 20,000 operatives are affected by the trouble, which was caused by the posting of notices relative to the working conditions for the loom fixers, who were required to operate more looms than formerly.

Thread Workers Go Out.

Willimantic, Conn., May 4.—Three hundred operatives in the carding department of the American Thread Co. mills here went on strike yesterday afternoon. Leaders said the walkout was caused by the refusal of eleven employees of that department to join the carders' local of the United Textile Workers of America, and that no question of hours or wages is involved.

Street Cars Running Again.

Rochester, N. Y., May 4.—Rochester street cars are running today after three days of idleness because of the strike of the employees. The men were persuaded to go back to work at midnight by International President Mahon, who informed them that the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees of America would take away their local charter unless they abided by their contract with the company for arbitration of their wage demands.

Bakers Strike at Halifax.

Halifax, N. S., May 4.—Ninety bread bakers joined the ranks of the local strikers last night. The bakers ask a general wage increase of 25 per cent., and their demands have been refused by all but one firm. Yesterday union pickets were on duty in the vicinity of Moirs, Ltd., but police officers are reported to have ordered them away. After the strike had been called, the employees of one bakery were ordered by the union to bake a certain quantity of flour which would otherwise have been spoiled.

At the bakeries this morning it was reported that bread was baking in about the usual quantity, despite the strike.

Teamsters and chauffeurs who went on strike yesterday are still out, with the exception of the employees of three firms which have granted the new wage scale demanded.

REVIVE RITE OF OLD PAPAL DAYS

The Ceremony of Placing Cross in Centre of Coliseum, Where Martyrs Died

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Rome, May 4.—After an interval of fifty years, the Coliseum has again been the scene of the moving and picturesque ceremony of Via Crucia. Pope Benedict XIV., who reigned as Pope from 1740 to 1758, instituted the ceremony by placing a cross in the centre of the arena, where martyrs had given their lives for the faith, and erecting fourteen stations of the cross about the historic pile. Each Friday the ancient amphitheatre witnessed the solemn rite.

The practice was abandoned in 1870, when Rome became the capital of united Italy, and the stations were removed in 1872 by DeRosa, the archaelogist, who made excavations there to explore the strata underlying the arena.

Celebrants have once more visited the Coliseum, however, and arrayed in their strange gray garments, which included a cowl which covered the head and face, have revived the ceremony of old time. Princess Barberbini, carrying a processional cross, led a column of women, while among the men taking part in the rite were many from the patrician families of the city. Crowds gathered along the streets traversed by the procession to witness a spectacle which Rome has not seen since the old papal days.

APPOINT AMBASSADOR

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Paris, May 4.—Maurice Herbette, former chief clerk of the Foreign Office, has been designated by the government as the new French Ambassador in Berlin, his appointment to become effective when the Allies resume full diplomatic relations with Germany.

Spanish Agricultural Laborers on Strike

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Seville, Spain, May 4.—Agricultural laborers in the provinces of Constantina and Aralan have struck for increased wages, and the movement was reported to be spreading.

The miners at Almeoira have also gone on strike.

THE FRENCH STRIKE PROVES A FAILURE

Volunteer Recruits Taking the Place of Railway Strikers and Keep Up Service

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, May 4.—All the railroads affected by the strike of railwaymen reported improved conditions today, the volunteer recruits exceeding the new strikers. The companies issued an announceemnt declaring that they would dismiss all men who did not resume work today.

The strike of miners and dockers is spreading.

While most of the dock workers at Bordeaux, Marseilles, Havre, Brest and Dunkirk went out yesterday afternoon, many of the railroad men are returning to their work.

As for the miners, who constitute the third section of the triple alliance, the men in the less important fields have brought about a partial strike, but those in the principal fields to the north have not yet decided to join the movement. There is a general opinion among them that as they have not been called upon to support the railroaders, the movement, so far as they are concerned, is non-existant.

The General Federation of Labor in another long manifesto last night, announces it has made arrangements to keep the food supply of the country from being interrupted. It protests against the arrest of labor leaders and reiterates that the movement "is a struggle for reorganization of economic methods to benefit all classes except capitalists and profiteers."

PREMIER BORDEN TO RETURN MAY 15

Not Likely to Resume Active Departmental Work for Some Time After His Return

Ottawa, May 4.—News has been received here that Sir Robert Borden will return to Ottawa about May 15th. He is considerably improved in health and will take part in the discussions in Parliament, although he will probably not resume active departmental work for some time. Sir George Foster will probably continue to act as House leader for the remainder of the session.

TURKISH REQUEST REGARDING THRACE

A 20 PER CENT CUT IN PRICES OF ALL GOODS

Big New York Department Store Announces Reductions on Entire Stock

BREAK IN VALUES HAS COME TO STAY

Prosecution of Profiteers Believed to be Responsible for Lower Prices

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York, May 4.—Following the announcement of a twenty per cent. reduction in the price of practically its entire stock by one of the largest department stores in the city, New York is hoping for a general lowering of prices by local merchants. Although there have been no further announcements of such sweeping reduction as was made by the big department store, a general downward tendency was noticeable.

This applies particularly to clothing. "Special sales" at greatly reduced prices are being advertised by many establishments and the price tickets in the windows of clothing stores indicate that a break in values has come. A few weeks ago the prevailing price for ready made suits in the lower Broadway shops was from $45 to $60. Suits are displayed in the windows of many of these shops today at from $35 to $50. The overall campaign, although it never progressed any further than the talking stage in New York, is believed to have been largely responsible for these reductions.

The prosecution of several profiteers in Brooklyn by the U. S. Government's "Flying Squadron" of cost of living experts is also thought to have had the effect of making dealers in several other lines readjust their ideas of profit to a more reasonable level.

Reductions at Toronto.

Toronto, May 4.—A decided lowering of the cost of clothing and staple products is indicated in advertisements appearing in Toronto papers.

Display advertising calling attention to great bargains sales at large department stores has increased considerably since the inauguration of the overall campaign in the United States and a few Canadian cities. It is reported that businesses among retail merchants has decreased rapidly during the past few weeks and bargain sales are being organized on a large scale to get rid of supplies of stocks.

CRITICIZE WAR INDEMNITY BILL

Much Opposition Develops to Government Measure in the House of Commons

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

London, May 4.—The government indemnity bill, which was brought on in the House of Commons, met with much opposition and though it was given second reading by 210 to 28, it was only saved by concessions. Mr. Leslie Scott moved its rejection. Sir E. Carson denounced the proposal to abolish legal rights and remedies as unfair and unjust. Another member declared that deeds done under the Defence of the Realm Act made in comparison the acts of a highway robber appear as those of a gentleman. The bill is intended to validate war time acts and its importance is shown by the fact that in default of its passing the state might be confronted with liabilities amounting to seven hundred thousand pounds.

The London Times declares it would be hard to find in the history of parliament a piece of projected legislation equal to it in reactionary audacity.

THE DIVISION OF GERMAN WARSHIPS

Six Warships and 124 Submarines Allocated to Great Britain in Division

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, May 4.—Six former German warships, the Baden, Heligoland, Posen, Rhineland, Westfaten and Nuremburg, and 124 submarines, have been allocated to Great Britain, according to announcement in the House of Commons yesterday. The United States will get the Ostfriesland and Frankfurt. According to the announcement France has been awarded the Thuringen and Emden and 38 submarines; Japan will get the Oldenburg, Nassau and Augsberg, and Italy will receive several submarines. The ships scuttled at Scapa Flow, says the announcement, are to go to Great Britain.

TORONTO HOCKEY CASE APPEALED

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Toronto, May 4.—Arena Gardens is appealing to second divisional court here against judgment given by late Chief Justice Falconbridge against the Arena, in favor of the Toronto Hockey Club for $20,093.54.

The hockey club brought the action to compel the delivery to it of contracts of seven players leased by the club to Arena Gardens and for damages. Hearing of the argument in the appeal was begun yesterday but not concluded.

CHARGED WITH THEFT

Winnipeg, May 4.—Joseph Smith, a traveller for a Montreal gent's furnishing company, was arrested at a north Winnipeg hotel yesterday on a warrant sworn out at Toronto charging him with the theft of clothing.

STRAWBERRIES SCARCE

Baltimore, May 4.—Strawberries will be scarce and high this season. Most of the farmers are demanding from 25 cents to 30 cents a quart for their crop, boosting the retail price to 35 or 40 cents. The high price is due to the shortage caused by the substitution of more profitable products for the berry crop.

FIGHT FOR KIEV IS RAGING DAY AND NIGHT NOW

The Bolshevik Entrenched in Great Semi-Circle With Backs to the City

THE POLES APPROACH WITHIN 28 MILES

The Poles Make Effective Use Armored Trains and Modern Equipment

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Warsaw, March 4. — Disorder and confusion prevail in Kiev, according to reports received here. The despatches, however, are contradictory, some stating that the Bolishevik are evacuating Kiev, while others say that General Miezeckow, the thirty five year old commander of the 12th Red Army, is making extensive preparations to defend Kiev with all his available forces.

Hard Fight for Kiev.

Warsaw, May 4. — The Bolshevik are entrenching in the hills on the west bank of the Dnieper in a great semi-circle with their backs against Kiev, the Ukrainian capital, according to information today from the front.

The fight for possession of Kiev is at its height, raging day and night along the line through the valleys and rivers.

Both sides are using artillery, but Kiev has not yet been bombarded by the Poles. It is reported that the Poles, who are within 45 kilometres (approximately 28 miles) of Kiev, are making effective use of armored trains, armored automobiles and other modern equipment.

From the north the Poles are proceeding southward below the Pripet and Dnieper rivers with a flotilla, using some monitors recently taken at Czernobyl, the flotilla base of the Reds.

Reports received here say that the plans of Leon Trotzky, the Bolshevik War Minister, for the defence of Kiev called for the replacing of General Miezeckow by General Szwiezdow.

Bolshevik Retirement.

Moscow, May 4.—Retirement of Russian Bolshevik forces from the vicinity of Fastova, about thirty five miles southwest of Kiev, is admitted in an official statement issued by the war ministry today. It says that after fighting near that village, the Soviet troops are retiring to new positions. Fierce fighting continues southeast of Zhmerinka, the statement says.

THE BRITISH OIL INDUSTRY IN EAST

A New Company Formed in Britain to Develop Oil Fields of Mesopotamia

London, May 4.—The London Daily Mail today says that Lieut. General John Stevens Cowans is to be managing director of a new company under the control of the Shell Transport and Trading Company for the development of the oil fields in Mesopotamia, which will be part of an extensive reorganization and expansion of the British oil industry, with a view to insuring the nation's supplies of fuel and other oils.

The plan, which it is declared also concerns rich producing centres in many quarters of the globe, and interests controlling hundreds of millions of pounds sterling, is nearing completion, and an announcement of the details of it are expected shortly, according to the Daily Mail.

In other quarters it is maintained that whatever plans the British Government may have in this direction they necessarily must be held up pending ratification of the Turkish peace treaty.

Postpone Plebiscite In Teschen, Silesia

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, May 4.—The conference of ambassadors this morning decided to postpone the plebiscite in the Teschen district of Silesia for two months. The balloting to decide the nationality of the region will occur on July 12 instead of on May 12, the date originally fixed.

Paul Cambon, French Ambassador at London, presided over the conference.

TO SETTLE BALTIC BRIGADES ON LAND

German Government Makes a Proposition Which Will Very Likely Be Accepted

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Berlin, May 4.—General Erhardt, commander of the Baltic brigades, when the scheme to settle his men on public land with opportunities for ultimate ownership, was submitted to him by a Government emissary, replied, according to the Vossische Zeitung, that he fully approved of the plan. He expressed the belief, says the newspaper, that the men would accept, but he did not wish to lay the proposition before them until the Government had given guarantees for its full execution.

It is understood that the naval brigades will dissolve after a week's time.

France Likely to Reduce Amount Germany to Pay

Premier Millerand to Discuss the Question With Lloyd-George

THREE BILLION MARKS A YEAR

Suggestions As To How Germany Should Pay Reparation.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, May 4.—Premier Millerand is going to London next week to confer with David Lloyd-George, the British Premier, regarding financial questions. It is expected an agreement will be reached upon the line of action to be adopted concerning Germany with regard to execution of the reparations clauses of the treaty of Versailles.

The French viewpoint is that they will not discuss the principle of any clause of the treaty and will take up with the Germans only the manner of applying the treaty's terms. Prominent among the points to be taken up in London will be interpretation of the reparations clauses and the form in which the German delegates at Spa will be told what the Allies insist upon.

The word "revision" will be excluded in accordance with the firm attitude of the French, but what practically amounts to a modification of the reparations clause will be discussed in the form of proposed minimum and maximum totals of reparations.

French More Moderate.

French public opinion, which a year ago would not accept the eventuality of Germany not paying for all the damage she caused, is considered now to be prepared to take a more moderate view, the French people preferring a concrete settlement with the prospect of its realization beginning in the near future, rather than waiting indefinitely for an indefinite sum. The French probably will not accept a lower minimum than 100,000,000,000 marks gold, but are likely to consent to fixing the maximum reparation payable by Germany at 150,000,000,000 marks.

The minimum sum may be divided into annuities of 3,000,000,000 marks, as discussed at San Remo, with the question left open for decision by the reparations commission as to whether and when the amount should be increased in proportion to Germany's eventually increased ability to pay, the maximum, however, not exceeding 150,000,000,000 marks.

In view of the prospects of reduced total payments, the French are understood to be disposed to set forth to the Allies that the British maritime losses have been largely compensated by increased freight rates and that Great Britain can afford to consent to add something to France's 55 per cent.

BARCELONA STILL HOTBED OF UNREST

Collision Between Catalonists and Authorities During Visit of Marshal Joffre

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Barcelona, May 4.—The visit of Marshal Joffre to Barcelona developed yesterday into a great Catalonist political demonstration, which led to a serious incident. This was a collision between the regional authorities and the Catalonist municipal guard. Two of the guards were wounded.

The trouble arose when a poem by Rapola, the dead Catalon poet, was being read in the course of the floral festivities in honor of Joffre. Reference was made to Francisco Cambo, member of the Chamber of Deputies, who is opposed to the socialists and syndicalists. Thereupon Senor Gambo left the hall and the trouble started.

The people were shouting "Death to Spain" and "Long live the Catalonians," when the civil guards encountered the guardians of the building and Catalonist municipal guards, who showed fight but finally were overcome.

Joffre, accompanied by Madame Joffre, meantime had left the scene in an automobile for Gerona.

MARRIAGE KEPT SECRET FIVE YEARS

New York, May 4.—Fannie Hurst, the author, yesterday made public announcement of her secret marriage five years ago to Jacques S. Danielson, a pianist. Under a pre-nuptial agreement with her husband, she said, they have lived apart since their wedding, so as not to interfere with each other's career. She said they made their appointments and other engagements in a purely formal manner, "meeting as per inclination and duty.' They intend to continue that plan, she added.

THE GOULD ACTION HEARD IN COURT

Gould Claims That He and His Associates Were Illegally Driven From Company

St. John, May 4.—Argument was heard on Saturday by Sir Douglas Hazen, chief justice, on the application of the St. John & Quebec Railway Company to dismiss an action which, it is alleged, has been brought in the name of the company without authority. The action was entered at the instance of A. R. Gould and certain associates of his, formerly shareholders and directors of the company, who claim to be still directors and shareholders, and the defendants in the case are the present directors of the company.

Mr. Gould's solicitor has entered the action with the St. John & Quebec Railway Company as the plaintiff and W. P. James, H. S. Carter and C. O. Foss as defendants, and the relief asked for is to restrain the defendants from acting as directors.

The real point at issue is as to the legality of the statute of 1915 and the order-in-council passed by the government of which the late Geo. J. Clarke was Premier, by which Mr. Gould and his associates were deprived of their offices as directors and the capital stock of the company then owned by them vested in the province.

Mr. Gould claims that the legislation was ultra vires of the province because it took away from him and his associates, who were then residing outside the province, a civil right owned by them outside the province, and also that the province had then no authority to legislate in respect to the St. John & Quebec Railway for the reason that, being operated by the Dominion, it had been impliedly declared by the Dominion to be a work for the general advantage of Canada and therefore under Dominion jurisdiction.

J. J. F. Winslow, of Fredericton, and M. G. Teed, K.C., represented the Gould interests; P. J. Hughes, of Fredericton, and W. P. Jones, K.C., of Woodstock, appeared for the Provincial Government. Judgment was reserved.

VOTING HOURS IN NEW FRANCHISE ACT

Ottawa, May 3.—Hours of voting in Federal elections, under the new Franchise Bill, came in for much discussion at this evening's session of the Commons. Rural members, for the most part, were against opening the rural polls at 6 o'clock, the time provided in the bill. Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Solicitor General, agreed to an amendment which would open city polls at 6 o'clock and rural polls at 8 o'clock. In each case the hour of closing would be 6 o'clock in the evening. "The farmers have won again," remarked C. G. Power (Quebec South) when the Minister moved his amendment.

C. C. M. Prices Only Half Those of Twenty-Five Years Ago

Twenty-five years ago $100 to $150 was paid willingly for a bicycle.

In those days, riders carefully examined the specifications and equipment before buying.

They took pride in their bicycles. They kept them clean, polished and bright.

Then came the slump!

Country riding was dropped.

People became careless about their bicycles.

Any kind of a bicycle was thought good enough.

Price—cheapness—was the main consideration.

The Bicycle of Quality Has Come Back

To-day the bicycle—the Bicycle of Quality—has come back.

The few blocks of good pavement in our cities have grown to miles. In some cases to hundreds of miles.

Country roads are being steadily improved.

As a result, bicycling for pleasure, as well as for utility, is gaining in popularity every year.

Riders are again taking pride in their mounts and showing discrimination in their buying.

They are demanding bicycles built of the highest grade materials, with all parts accurately made.

They are demanding bearings that will not only run perfectly when new, but that will continue to run easily.

They are insisting on bicycles that are not only easy and comfortable to ride, but with a quality of materials that assures safety in riding.

They are demanding bicycles that will retain the bright lustre of the showroom product.

The demand to-day is for good bicycles—the highest grade bicycles—the parts of which are always interchangeable, always procurable and have the reputation of a long-established manufacturer behind them. In other words, Canadian riders are insisting on C.C.M. Bicycles — the Standard of Canada — used and sought for by Bicycle Riders in all overseas British possessions throughout the world.

C. C. M. Bicycles are sold at prices consistent with C. C. M. quality.

To pay less is to risk disappointment.

Reconstruction of York Street Pavement And the Extension of Water and Sewerage Systems and City Streets Were Considered

Long Meeting of the City Council in Committee Last Night—Want Water System Extended to Hermitage—Aberdeen Street Extension Suggested

Last night's meeting of the City Council developed into one of the longest and in some respects the most important held for some time. Many matters were considered during the evening including a grant for public playgrounds, the extension of the water system up the Woodstock Road, the extension of Aberdeen street south and the reconstruction of the tarvia pavement on York street. No definite action was taken regarding continuing the Employment Service bureau in the city.

W. E. McMullen appeared before the city council on behalf of the civic playgrounds committee, asking that the city grant a sufficient sum to put the grounds in shape for recreation purposes. He reviewed briefly the work done in connection with the playgrounds, referring to the grant of $500 which had been received and expended by the committee last year. Over 800, he stated, had been raised last year by the committee and expended during the summer and early fall in providing an athletic supervisor for the revival of sport in the city.

As a member of the Y. M. C. A. he referred to the work of that institution and to the work of C. H. Cochrane, physical director, who was very willing to act for the city as an athletic supervisor at the grounds during the present year. Before any talk of playground sport could be made it was necessary that the grounds be fitted for that purpose. This, the speaker stated, would cost in the vicinity of $400 and would include both seeding and grading of the grounds this year.

The matter will be reported upon by a committtee of the council at this evening's meeting.

Extension of Water System.

R. W. McLellan on behalf of a delegation interested in property on the Woodstock Road apeared before the council asking that water and sewerage systems be extended up the Government House Lane. He stated that recently property to the amount of $12,000 had been lost in a conflagration breaking out there chiefly because there was no available fire protection for that neighborhood. Before those who had lost property would go ahead in rebuilding they wished to ascertain whether the conditions would be the same in the future, and they petitioned for the extension of the water and sewerage system from the Government House to the Hermitage bridge. The petition was signed by about twenty residents of the vicinity, who asked that this condition of affairs, which had been allowed to exist so long, be remedied. Among those who signed the petition was Archibald Fraser.

Orlo Brewer, who had lost his residence, confirmed the former speaker's words.

Mr. McLellan stated that while sewerage was also desired the extension of the water system was an absolute necessity.

When the matter came up for discussion City Engineer McDowell said he thought the citizens of that neighborhood should be given a water system, as they needed it badly.

Ald Neill thought water ought to be extended that far, too.

Ald. Cooper thought, if the water was put up there, it would benefit the city as well as the petitioners.

The city engineer stated that in other cities and towns vacant lots in such a position were taxed especially for this purpose.

Ald. Wilkinson said the city ought to give the people of that neighborhood a reasonable protection from fire. He thought that a revenue would be derived from the extension of the water system and it would also enable further building. The sewerage question, he thought, was a harder one to solve.

Ald. Baxter was in favor of the extension.

Ald. Cooper moved that the matter be deferred until the next meeting of the council, the city engineer to estimate the cost and prepare a report. This was seconded by Ald. Barker and passed.

The question arose as to whether or not, after the system was extended, the people would use the water.

Ald. Cain stated that the delegation had made reference to the fact that the water in present use was practically unsanitary.

Aberdeen Street Extension.

A petition from a number of ratepayers asking for the extension of Aberdeen street to University avenue was read.

Ald. Neill stated that there had been a movement on foot for some time for the extension of the street, as it would save taking a more roundabout course and it was not only a matter of getting the right of way to University avenue. Some time ago when a downtown resident started to build a house on the line of the proposed extension the residents of the city had petitioned the City Council to stop the building, but it had been permitted to go on at the time, and, if the street were extended, the house mentioned, which was directly in line with the proposed extension, would have to be moved. Both Union and Aberdeen streets ought, he said, to be extended.

On motion of Ald. Young, seconded by Ald. Cain, the matter was referred to the City Engineer to look into all phases of the situation and report back to the City Council at its next meeting.

The Pumping Station Site.

The matter of the buying of the Pumping Station site was brought up. The city had offered $2,000 for the lot while the price asked by the Provincial Government was $2,500.

Mayor Reid said the City Solicitor had written concerning the matter and, as he understood it, the offer of $2,000 had been refused. He thought the matter ought to be taken up. There had been a verbal agreement, he stated, to give the city free use of the site. If purchase was to be made, the price should be based on land values at the time the agreement was made. However, a decision ought to be made one way or another.

On motion the matter was referred to the Finance Committee to make a satisfactory bargain through the City Solicitor.

Mayor Reid suggested that the City Council appoint a committee of three to attend a meeting of the Hospital Board on Friday evening to co-operate with that board in the matter of an endowment fund for the hospital. The Board of Trade, City Club and Commercial Club, he stated, would also be represented.

Ald. Cain, Jennings and Hall were appointed by Mayor Reid.

Ald. Young for the fire committee reported that the salaries of the three drivers had been fixed at $70 a month. The salary of Driver Bearisto was to include any outside work in connection with wiring or the fire alarm system. This was put in the form of a motion, seconded by Ald. Baxter, and passed.

The Weigh Scales and Wharves.

Ald. Cooper stated that since the auction for the city scales had been called off City Engineer McDowell had put a man at the scales who was watching the revenue each day. He suggested that the city pay a man a fixed salary to look after the revenue as the auctioning off of the scales had not been a very satisfactory arrangement. He suggested that for the present month the matter be left over and decided upon at the June meeting. The revenue averaged over $3 a day since the auction had been called off, and he thought that the city did not gain anything by such a method, as they might easily make more than that.

Mayor Reid thought that the wharf privileges could be held up another month.

Ald. Cooper stated that he did not know what revenue was derived from the wharves, but he thought that the city could easily handle both matters by paying one man a salary to look after both.

Ald. Wilkinson thought that the better way to do was to sell the privileges, as he did not think that under present conditions it could be worked out.

Ald. Wilkinson moved that the matter of the wharves be left to the wharf committee with power to act.

Ald. Young thought that the two wharves and scales, ought to be sold together.

Ald. Neill seconded Ald. Wilkinson's motion, and this was passed.

Ald. Camp moved that the roads and streets department be empowered to purchase a two-horse sprinkler for the roads and streets during the coming summer, the estimated cost of the machine to be in the vicinity of $800. Considerable discussion took place on this matter, some of the aldermen favoring the idea of a motor sprinkler. The matter was finally stood over. The roads and streets committee were authorized to purchase silent policemen, as it was found that more of these could be used effectively.

York Street Paving Work.

Ald. Camp asked if the council would empower the city engineer to go ahead with proposed improvements to two blocks of road on York street between Brunswick and Charlotte streets. When called upon to explain the plan of work Engineer McDowell stated that there were two ways of going about it, either tearing off the top of the road for some fourteen inches or building up the earth and raise the street at least six and probably eight inches. The latter way he thought was the more feasible, as if fourteen inches were cut off the crown of the road it would bring the work too near the water mains. When asked by the mayor if there were any danger of floods, he said that he had considered that, and the only place where this would be liable to occur was in front of the Brunswick street Baptist church, where the ground was boggy. The plan he had suggested of raising the street and curbing would cost in the vicinty of $12,000, but, he stated, the other would cost at least half as much more, as it would mean that all the stone removed from the crown of the road would have to be hauled away and practically a new road put in. It would cost at least one-third more than the permanent paving. The Telephone Company, he stated, were contemplating putting in a telephone conduit on York street as well as from Carleton to Westmorland on Brunswick street, and this he thought might aid in the work.

Ald. Wilkinson was of the opinion that tenders for contracts ought to be called for for the curbing both there and on Charlotte street.

Ald. Neill was against any expenditure of such a sum on York street, as he thought that this street might well be repaired at a cost much less than that named while the remainder of the money could be spent on other streets.

City Engineer McDowell thought that the proposed work was of great importance and stated that the whole council ought to be appointed a committee to look into the situation.

Ald. Camp said that the city expended $3,000 a year as a salary for the city engineer and it was now drawing down to a question as to whether or not they thought he was a competent man. If so why did they not take his advice its coming from one who knew what he was talking about. If they did not think he was competent why did they not get a man whom they considered was.

Ald. Cooper thought that if the council were to do as the city engineer suggested they would make no mistake. Ald. Neill was afraid that the council would invite too much criticism by doing so.

The matter was finally left to the City Council as a committee to meet with the engineer this evening at 7 o'clock on York street and look over the whole situation.

Propose $50 Fee for Out-of-Town Jitneys

At the City Council meeting last night Ald. Neill, on behalf of residents of this city who conduct a jitney business in the city, gave notice of motion as follows: "Resolved, that sub-section (a) of section 4 of by-law 47 be repealed and that non-residents conducting a jitney business in the city be taxed $50, while residents be taxed $15."

STARR OF THE DESERT, By B. M. Bower

A story of a Mexican goat ranch, revolutionary plots and mystery. The typical Bower book, full of dashing, breathless reading.

WILDFIRE, By Zane Grey

Like all of Zane Grey's novels, this one is straight, clean and exciting—perhaps, if possible, it is a little more thrilling than any of the others.

THE U. P. TRAIL

By the same author. This book is an epic of a mighty episode in the history of the Western country, a tale of human passions at their best and their basest, and human energies strained to their tensest.

POLE AGAINST BOLSHEVIK.

These Poles seem to have an odd idea that warfare consists in the effort to destroy an opponent before he can destroy them; and that to do this they might as well seek out and attack his forces whenever they have a prospect of overcoming them.

Instead of waiting obligingly on their military frontier to see what the Bolshevik armies will do next, the Poles have followed up their recent repulse of the Bolshevik assault on their eastern front with an advance of their own, southeastward toward Kiev. Apparently they neglected to get permission from the League of Nations before starting, for some of its leaders show surprise and hurt at the omission. To their way of thinking, no doubt, the League's leaving Poland to fend for herself against the Bolsheviki does not give Poland a right to act exactly as she sees fit.

Certain influences strong in the League fear especially that Poland may proceed to take the Ukraine territory from the Bolsheviki and annex it. Such a proceeding would so sadly vary with the ideal of self determination that the extreme votaries of this ideal would actually prefer to see the Ukraine remain under Bolshevik rule. Whether their own idealism leads them to see the actions of others unduly black, the event will prove.

A despatch speaks of a proclamation issued by Pilsudski, the Polish chief, favorable to an independent Ukraine. Quite possibly the Polish Government might find it wise to set up the Ukraine as a neighbor rather than a dependent. More important, however, than the Ukraine with its possible 30,000,000, is the fate of Bolshevik Russia which even with Poland, the Baltic Provinces, Finland, Caucasia and parts of Siberia lopped off, and deducting for the Ukraine as well, must still comprise 60,000,000 people. It is not impossible that the Poles, far fewer, but man for man more formidable, may overcome the flabby military bully that Bolshevism has come to be.

CANADA'S PULPWOOD.

Apart from a slight feeling of resentment at an obvious playing to the gallery in the Underwood pulpwood resolution, the average Canadian business man probably would welcome the appointment of a commission by Congress to inquire into the merits of the provincial embargoes on the export of Canadian pulpwood cut on Crown Limits. The visit of the commission seems hardly likely to change the respective provincial policies, but should serve the purpose of informing the members thereof, and the paper mill and newspaper interests in the United States, more fully than they are now, of the very real limitation to Canada's available resources in suitable pulpwood, and the utter folly of throwing down the barriers and permitting the continuation of the orgy of timber destruction that has stripped that country of nearly all its spruce and balsam, and made it dependent upon this country or Scandinavia for so much of its present and future requirements, remarks the Financial Post.

The big stick that the doughty Senator wields in a threatened embargo on the export of coal to Canada, looks more like a stage affair than a real weapon. The analogy between pulpwood and coal does not hold. It is good business for the United States to sell coal to Canada, because she has a supply that depends only on labor to mine it and cars and locomotives to carry it. So with cotton. But Canada has been withholding a certain portion of her pulpwood from export, to all other countries as well as the United States, because the supply is very limited. Moreover, the embargo is not against the exportation of paper and it helps build up an industry out of one of our natural resources.

But let the commission come. The more we can get together and talk these things over in a business-like way the better neighbors we Americans and Canadians will be.

A RECONSTRUCTED WORLD.

Sir Auckland Geddes, the new British Ambassador to Washington, expresses the salvation of the world in one word—work. That is not thrilling or sensational in any way. It offers no primrose path of dalliance. It is not alluring nor spectacular; but it is the way of salvation.

This has been said before; but, as the first utterance of the new ambassador in a pre-eminently important position, it arrests attention. Sir Auckland made a veiled appeal to the United States to consider the plight of Europe. It was cordial and free and friendly, and it is to be hoped, remarks an exchange, that it may be taken in the right spirit; but, before now, promising ambassadorial careers have been wrecked by verbal utterances which, offered with sincere good will, have been a source of irritation to a supposedly sensitive people, meticulous as to international relations in a peculiar degree, though not at all squeamish in meddling with domestic politics in other countries.

Sir Auckland described Europe as being in an appalling condition. He asked for aid and sympathy. He expressed the hope that this great wealthy and humane continent would not leave Europe to work out her own salvation without aid or advice or sympathy. The British Ambassador was appealing not only for material interest but for moral interest and support. He did not mention that the United States had, in so far as the action of the Senate is concerned, retired from the scene, and was hopeful that the great humane nation would be true to her best and most noble instincts. The attitude was cordial, and if it be appreciated at its just value, may have beneficial effect.

Sir Auckland is, in spite of the dismal picture he drew, optimistic to a degree. Europe will pull through. It will require a tremendous effort; but civilization is not going to perish. "Britain is prepared to do all she can "in the restoration of Europe, but on "a charitable basis; she cannot do "much more." The chief value of the strong and illuminating address of the British Ambassador lay in his reiteration of the necessity of work. That is the only salvation—work. Miracles will not happen. Abundance will not be poured into the lazy lap. There is no short cut to restoration. There must be work and production and faith keeping step along the way. The problem is not insoluble.

"These are difficult times," said the Ambassador. "We need sanity, cour-"age and good will, the rooting out "of suspicion, the dying away of "anger. At the cost of heavy burdens, "we must try to pick up the broken, "to instill new heart in the hopeless, "to be ready with the hand of friend-"ship, to greet even those who raise "themselves from the dust." Strikes are no solvent. High wages are no cure. Production is the one thing that will bring down prices and stabilize the industrial and economic world. The machine gun at the street corner is as ineffectual as it is criminal. Carlyle said that work was worship. Produce and the world is saved. It is in Sir Auckland Geddes to say strong, urgent, virile things. He has commenced well.

MARITIME UNION.

The St. John Board of Trade, which has been pretty generally looked upon as a noisy kind of institution and otherwise useless, has been influenced just now to launch Maritime Union as a panacea. It is set up that New Brunswick is losing its influence at Ottawa, Prince Edward Island is asked to believe that it, too, is rapidly disappearing from view, and even Nova Scotia is asked to believe that it would be better off in a union of the three provinces under one government. The aims and objects of the people of the three provinces are practically the same, says an advocate of Union; therefore give us Union, and thus establish an influence in the Federal field that otherwise we cannot exert. If this argument were to be considered as having force, we should also have a union of Saskatchewan and Alberta; the aims and objects of the people of those provinces are practically the same; and Ontario and Manitoba should also unite in one provincial government for a similar reason. But the people of these provinces are confining themselves to practical development, not to absurd effort and absurd talk. Some years ago a Maritime Board of Trade was organized in the hope that an institution representative of the Maritime Provinces would give greater influence in Board of Trade movements. The movement went to smash within three years. Local jealousy killed it; Halifax put St. John into the shade, and St. John sulked and withdrew. A Maritime Medical Association was established, and it too went by the board; and so on. A Bill passed the Senate of Canada not more than three weeks ago providing for Ontario and Prince Edward Island machinery for divorce proceedings similar to that of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, and now the Island is protesting vehemently against being included in any such measure. The ambitions and objects of the Island people are not quite the same as ours after all; yet that is no an argument against Union. To say that it is would be quite as absurd as to argue that the aims and objects are the same and therefore we must shut our eyes to all other considerations and go blindfolded into Union. Every so-called Maritime effort yet made has been a failure from the broader standpoint.

It is true that New Brunswick has been losing influence. Its prestige of other years has suffered by its failure to replace its outstanding men who have passed from the public life by men of equal ability, by men of reputation, by men whose integrity and whose ambitions command national respect. Nova Scotia has given and is giving great men to the public life, not only in the national arena but in the provincial. Her influence at Ottawa is as great as ever as a result. While New Brunswick gave her best men, or at least men of good national reputation, her interests were invariably well served. While the status of our public life was generally respected, we had a first place in the national councils. We cannot conceal the fact that recent developments in this province, and present conditions, are wholly responsible for New Brunswick's great loss of prestige. The solution, therefore, is not in Maritime Union, but in better men in the public life; broader men, men who are equal to their responsibilities as statesmen, men who think nationally and not selfishly. In Maritime Union, New Brunswick, as things are at present, would be a hewer of wood and drawer of water for Nova Scotia; it could not be otherwise; that would be the return for our wealth in natural resources. It is probably not possible just now to induce New Brunswick's best men to take an active interest in the public life; some time must elapse before our best men can be induced to take an interest. It is not Maritime Union New Brunswick wants in the meantime; it needs a guardian.

THE REFERENDUM.

A timely warning is voiced by Toronto Saturday Night against the growing tendency in this country to legislate by referendum. It is being directed chiefly toward prohibition legislation, but it is not unlikely that, with prohibition an established thing, the referendum course will be followed in the march of social reform organizations toward other restrictive laws, points out an exchange.

Legislation by referendum has two major faults—faults which lead backward toward conditions which all our political effort had sought to leave behind. It abolishes responsibility in government and it robs the minority of the people of any control over their destiny. Were it to become general, the profession of politics or statesmanship might as well be abolished. The most ignorant citizen would have as much to do with law-making as the most able legislator. As the Saturday Night puts it:

The nose-counting principle under which, if generally applied, fifty-one per cent. of the people might dictate to the other forty-nine per cent. with regard to their liberties, habits, religious observances, private business and everything else with which a man comes in contact from the cradle to the grave, is wholly indefensible according to any theory on which the strong and successful nations have been built up. But it is precisely what the referendum means. By its application established theories are wiped off the slate as obsolete, individual initiative becomes secondary or negligible, and leadership consists merely in keeping the ear to the ground and automatically acting on the fluctuations of mass opinion. No young nation can make real progress under a theory which really means that one man's opinion is as good as another's on any conceivable question that may arise, and that if a sufficient number of noses point his way he may give them the force of law.

The British idea as to the rule of the majority is not that which finds expression in legislation by referendum. It is that which gives the people power over their responsible legislators.

The Stock Market

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York (Wall Street), May 4.—Advances of one to three points were made by leading shares at the opening of today's stock market, although overnight advices bearing upon industrial conditions were not calculated to inspire bullish confidence. The same issues that featured yesterday's late rally were again conspicuous, notably Replogle and Vanadium Steels, Central Leather, Utah Copper, Industrial Alcohol, Reading and the Sugars. Baldwin Locomotive and the oils were under moderate pressure, the Mexican situation inviting further selling of the latter group. Foreign exchange was firm in the preliminary quotations.

PARTIZANSHIP OF RED CROSS IN U. S.

Ottawa, May 3—While the Canadian Patriotic Fund is assisting veterans of the United States forces in Canada, it is like pulling teeth to get aid from the American Red Cross for ex-soldiers of the Canadian army residing in the United States, asserted C. H. Bonner, executive secretary of the Vancouver branch of the Canadian Patriotic Fund, giving evidence before the Parliamentary Committee on Pensions here today.

Mutt and Jeff's Dream

A large audience, rush seats being the only ones which were evidently not in demand, laughed at Guss Hill's presentation of Mutt and Jeff's Dream at the Opera House last night, for Harry Kay and George Beach, as Mutt and Jeff, respectively, the two halves of the dream, provided much merriment. They looked the part of the characters of Bud Fisher's famous cartoons and both proved clever entertainers, but the balance of the show, aside from the bright singing and dancing of Miss Effie Pearson, was of a mediocre character.

FROM THE PEOPLE

A DEADLY TRAP

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I would like to call the attention of the public and the city authorities to the deadly menace that has been allowed to exist for some time near the junction of Queen and Northumberland streets. In tearing away the debris from the old tannery there the vats have been left uncovered, and now filled with water, provide a deadly trap for innocent children by day or the unwary traveller by night.

Surely the city authorities must be aware of the menace of these pest holes and of the danger that lurks there. It would cost but a small amount to fill up these vats and remove all danger, but it will likely require the death of some innocent victim and a resultant damage suit against the city to awaken the city officials to their duties.

Yours,
AN OBSERVER.

Fredericton, May 3, 1920.

CROWDING MEN OUT

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—It seems to me that women have fully demonstrated their ability in the business world, and it is about time now that they should give the young men a chance. Would not social conditions be vastly improved if youths starting out in life were given the chances and wages that now are given to girls?

Has it occurred to other mothers as it has to me to notice how many positions nowadays are open to girls and how few to young men starting out in business? So it happens that almost any girl can get work, but only a few of our boys. How much better it was in the old days when the men knew they had to work to support a wife and family and the girls wanted and sought the protection of a home and husband. Is it not more natural that the burden of responsibility and support should fall upon the man than upon the woman?

Yours,
FAIR PLAY.

Milltown, N. B., May 1, 1920.

MIDDLE AGED AND LONELY

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Why are so few of the letters in your From the People column written in the interest of middle-aged folk? Is this altogether the 'age of youth?

I am a woman of middle age, and some years ago the man to whom I was engaged died. It nearly drove me insane, for I loved him devotedly and my love was returned. Since then—it is twenty-three years—I have come to realize that perhaps my love was selfish and that I shouldn't have kept to myself like a hermit, as I did. Consequently, I have made few friends.

But surely there are numbers of women and men situated as I am, who long for love and companionship, as I do, for, after all, love is the only thing in life that will bring happiness.

Fortunately, I love children, and in that way I have been able to overcome some of the awful loneliness that sometimes comes over me. But where could I meet good, companionable people of either sex?

Yours,
JUST A WOMAN.

Bathurst, N. B., May 1, 1920.

GREED DEPLETING RACE

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I am wondering what this country of ours is going to do when she finally wakes up to the conditions that confront folks who want to get married and raise their quota of children, but who scan the "to rent" columns of the newspapers only to see "ads" of apartments for "adults only," and for such exorbitant rents that we pass on to the cheaper localities where we couldn't possibly bring up children.

What would the mothers of yesterday say if confronted with the prices of today—they who thought it quite ordinary to bring up a family of ten or twelve? I was one of thirteen; my husband was one of nine. I am 24 and have two sturdy boys, the elder four years. Can I see my way clear to bring up even one more? No, sir! Not with prices up sky high; not with landlords refusing me admittance to their abominable flats because I have two children!

How can one afford to be a mother under such conditions? I'm almost inclined to believe being such is a crime these days, and I am pondering upon the situation a few years from now when Canada finds her best families fast dwindling to appease the greed of landlords.

I am not a suffragette. I am simply a young mother who, if prices were right and landlords hanged by the neck or reformed, would be the proud possessor of a family somewhat larger than I now anticipate when I reach the age of 50. Our home is to be sold and we have notice to move. But where to? I know many families in a similar dilemma.

Who is to blame for this state of affairs? And when are you Canadians going to rally and put men into our government who think something of all the people's good instead of their personal ambitions or of lining their own pockets?

Yours,
A MOTHER.

Fredericton, May 3, 1920.

WHY NOT EVEN UP

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Who, in thunder, wants to walk in mud up to his knees, sleep in wet tents where rain and snow pour through, wear raincoats which act like sieves, and at that made by Canadian profiteers? Do you call that tempting? If profitable—to whom? The man who stayed at home!

Our country took boys between the ages of 21 and 31. They had to go out and do your and my fighting.

While these boys were out fighting, many millionaires were created; how many three-quarter millionaires, half-millionaires, quarter-millionaires were also created only the Lord in heaven knows.

While the boys were out fighting at $1.10 per day shipyard workers of military age were making as high as $80 to $90 per week. The stay at home nine times out of ten got a better job and is today better off than ever before. The soldier boy who did his bit has had, in most cases, to take a position inferior to that previously held—and that, too, at a time when living is high, clothes untouchable, rents impossible—while his slacker friends go about richly dressed, with an air of prosperity and haughty unconcern.

Let me ask of our politicians, why not even up? Yours,
FATHER.

The Province of Quebec

A GUIDE SUGGESTED FOR THE USE OF AMERICAN TOURISTS COMPILED BY STEPHEN LEACOCK, THE CANADIAN HUMORIST, IN HIS INIMITABLE STYLE, AND PUBLISHED IN THE MAY ISSUE OF VANITY FAIR.

I travelled the other day from New York to Montreal, where I live, in the pleasant company of some Americans coming to the province of Quebec for a brief vacation. "I like the altitude," said one. "The air in the Laurentians," said another, "is wonderful." "What I specially like," said the third, "is the charm of the old French civilization."

What they said was true, but it seemed to leave out something. They had with them a little Guide Book to the Province of Quebec. But that, too, seemed to leave out something. So I have written a new one, as follows:

The Province of Quebec, licensed to sell beer and wine, has an area of 706,000 square miles. Its magnificent extent reaches from the border of New York state to the shores of the frozen seas. The most northerly license is that at Oopchoopehik in Labrador. But it is not necessary to travel so far as that.

The great glory of the province is the broad stream of the River St. Lawrence. On its noble bosom ply the magnificent passengers of the Canada Steamships Company, the bars on which usually open at seven o'clock. There is no finer sight for the American tourist than to sit on the forward deck (the bar deck) of one of these palatial vessels and to watch the magnificent panorama of historis scenery which is unfolded to the eye as the ascent of the river is made. Here on our right hand, as we come up from the sea, the magnificent stream of the Saguenay pours its foaming waters through the gateway of frowning rock as it joins the St. Lawrence. Clinging to the very crest of the rock, like an eagle upon its nest, is a tiny hotel, licensed to sell wine, beer and other malt liquors.

The Mammoth Siphon of the Montmorenci.

Ascending the river further we pass the famous falls of the Montmorenci, from which the soda water is made. Pouring over the cliff in a cascade over 200 feet high, the water is churned into soda at the foot. Nothing is needed but to mix with this soda a small quantity — or a large — of the Scotch whiskey, freely imported for private orders under the laws of the province. The result is a delicious beverage, sparkling and refreshing, which may be placed beside us on a little table on the deck, while we smoke our Havana cigar, with one foot up on a camp stool. Our attention is next turned—though not completely—to the historic and picturesque Island of Orleans. Here are the quaint villages, the little spires and the stone houses of the old French civilization, unchanged since its first foundation under Louis XVI. Through our field glasses we can see the thrifty French Canadian farmer busily engaged in distilling whiskey blanc, or white whiskey made from wheat.

In front of us now rises the impressive outline of the Quebec bridge, its huge span crossing the river from summit to summit, and here before us there appears the gray old City of Quebec, climbing its rocky stronghold, the sentinel of New France. Our eye detects at once the dominating outline of the Chateau Frontenac Hotel, the bar of which commands a splendid view of the river. Here lie great ocean steamers of the Canadian Pacific Railway. They do not draw as much water as the steamers of the White Star and Cunard that enter New York harbor. But they do not need to. They have advantages of their own. We are now so close in that he are right beside one of these leviathans of the deep and can hear one of the white-coated stewards cracking ice. As we pass by another of these ocean greyhounds we catch a glimpse through the windows of the smoking room of Bass' ale being sold for eightpence a bottle.

The ancient City of Quebec well repays our brief visit of inspection. Here is the gateway where brave General Montgomery met his death on the wild December night when he tried to storm the city gates. Here is the entrance to the Hotel St. Louis. Here is the famous Convent of the Ursulines where Montcalm died. Here is the Hotel du Canada.

Our stay in the mother city of America is all too short. We would fain climb the heights to reach the broad plateau or Plains of Abraham, where the destiny of America was settled at a blow. There are no licenses now anywhere near the Plains of Abraham.

An Interesting Debate.

If our time allows we drop in a moment to visit the splendid building where the Parliament of the Province of Quebec is in session. Here the Lieutenant Governor sits enthroned, the direct representative of the King. Around him are ministers of the crown leaning over his chair. There is a strange charm in listening to the courteous debate which is going on, all of it, we note with unreasonable surprise, conducted in French. The distinguished premier of the province, Sir Lomer Gouin, is speaking. We bend our ear to listen, understanding as best we can. We gather that the Prime Minister is speaking, gravely and earnestly, on the question of the percentage of alcohol in the beverages of the province. Certain members of the opposition have urged that it be raised from 100 to 150. Sir Lomer does not see his way to do this. But he assures the House that if anyone will show him how to do it, he will do it.

The ancient City of Quebec has her own proud way of dealing with the modern liquor problem. She gives no licenses; but sells liquor only through the medical profession and then only to those who need it. As we descend the slope from the Legislature we pass the gay little street of the doctors, with its laughing crowd of sick people around each door. The law is very strict, it appears. No prescriptions must be filled out for more than a barrelful at a time. The enforcement of this law is aided by a vigorous public opinion in its favor.

We are back again upon our comfortable steamer. We are again ascending the river on our way to the metropolis of Montreal. The bar, which was closed during our absence on shore, is now open again. It is a strict rule of the Canada Steamships Comany that when nobody wants a drink the bar is closed.

The scenery has changed now. The high rocky banks and wooded shores have given way to the broad flat country. Our way lies between green meadows and marshes, and fields of waving hay reaching to the blue hills of the distance. On either side of the river we pass from time to time the quaint little villages of French Canada, each with its tall church spire and its neat hotel, licensed to sell beer and wine. From time to time larger towns rise upon the bank. Here is Three Rivers with its vast pile of lumber, its tall smoke stacks and its eighteen licenses. Here is Sorel, at the mouth of the historic Richielieu, where excellent soda water is made.

Hardships in the Laurentians.

In the country to the north we can see the dim outline of the Laurentian Mountains—a vast territory of lake and mountain, forest and stream, an ideal hunting ground, the paradise of the sportsman. Some of our passengers have visited the Laurentians and as we sit about the deck in a circle they exchange stories of their adventures. One tells us of how he was once moose hunting beyond the forks of the Batiscan and lost his flask. Another tells a tale of how he and two companions got separated from their party over the divide in the wilderness near Lake Mistassini and for four days had only two bottles of whiskey among three of them. Stories such as these, though told lightly and casually, give one a very real idea of the peculiar hardships and dangers of the hunter's life in the Laurentians.

But the Laurentians are not always the vision of soft foliage, of ruffled lakes and foaming streams that they are on such a lovely springtime day as this. In the winter they are wrapped deep in their mantle of snow. All is silent beneath the pine trees. All nature seems asleep in the arms of the intense cold. Here the lonely trapper on his snowshoes may walk for miles in the silent forest; occasionally he pauses to listen for the soft footfall of a rabbit, unbuckles his flask and takes a long drink from it, and goes on again.

The Free City of Montreal.

But our steamboat journey is at an end. Our boat is steaming into the river harbor of Montreal, crowded with shipping. On every side are objects of interest. Here in the foreground of the picture is the great brewery of the Molsons; we can see the thin steam rising from its covered tops in a dainty cloud in the clear air. There is something exquisite in the sight that recalls the canvas of a Turner.

In the upper town all is animation. On every side are evidences of industrial prosperity. Here is a little girl carrying a jug of ale along the street for her father to drink during his noonday rest. Our guide tells us that she will not be put in the penitentiary for it. It seems marvellous. Ah! Here is the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, our destination. Good Mr. Quick is standing at the door to welcome us. His hotel is full to the roof and has been since January 16, 1920. We enter. We sink into the luxurious wicker chairs of the Palm Room where Czecho-Slovak orchestra (Mr. Quick called it Hungarian before the war) is playing Jugo-Slav music. We order a quart of champagne each and send for a bundle of naturaliziation papers and a fountain pen. We shall never go home.

NATURE'S WAY IS THE BEST.

where the healing of skin diseases and injuries is concerned. That is what the Roman gladiators proved when they applied only the essences of roots and herbs to their sores and wounds.

That is why Zam-Buk is acknowledged so superior to ordinary ointments to-day, because it is Nature's Skin Healer—made from roots and herbs like the balms used by the early Romans, but more scientifically refined, blended and concentrated into convenient form for modern use.

When applied to a skin disease or sore, Zam-Buk's unusual power of penetration enables it to reach the underlying tissues where most of the disease germs are located. These it destroys, and when the diseased parts are medicinally cleansed the healing essences contained in Zam-Buk grow new, healthy tissue which replaces the old and diseased. This is why Zam-Buk cures are permanent. Zam-Buk cures from the root up, leaving no trace of hidden disease to break out again.

Zam-Buk is absolutely pure. It is also free from animal fat and consequently it cannot turn rancid, but will "keep" for an indefinite period. This naturally appeals to careful buyers and in combination with the balm's reliability, explains why Zam-Buk is always found on the medicine shelf of the good housekeeper.

Those who have used Zam-Buk say nothing can take its place for eczema, ringworm, salt rheum, boils, pimples, ulcers, abscesses, chronic sores, blood-poisoning, piles, cuts, burns, scalds and all skin injuries. 50c box, 3 for $1.25. All dealers, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. FREE SAMPLE sent upon application and 1c stamp for postage.

Mexican Revolters Secure Jaurez Without a Fight and Plan Advance to Chihuahua

The Revolutionists Have Obtained Possession of Many of the Customs Houses Along the U. S. Border and are Collecting the Revenues—Many Desertions.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Juarez, Mex., May 4.—Through the bloodless revolt of Juarez and capitulation of General Francisco Urbalejo and his Yaqui Indians at Casas Grandes, the Sonora revolutionists today claimed control of the state of Chihuahua and that the way was paved for an unobstructed advance against Torreon, from where a campaign is to be launched against Mexico City.

General Urbalejo, commanding the last large body of Carranza troops in the state, joined the revolt and plans were made for an immediate advance through Chihuahua upon the interior strongholds the Carranza government still holds.

With the capitulation of Juarez, the revolutionists obtained control of the majority of customs houses through which hundreds of thousands of dollars in revenue has been developed for the Mexican government.

Comparatively small bodies of troops remained loyal to Carranza at other border towns east of here. The Ojinaja garrison, opposite Presidio, Texas, was expected by Mexican officials here to join the revolutionists.

Protection Assured Foreigners.

At Chihuahua City, state capital, order is being preserved, political prisoners have been freed and protection has been assured Americans and other foreigners.

Despatches last night said they were continuing at work as usual. Similar guarantees were made by authorities in a formal statement to American representatives.

Tentative plans of the revolutionists, according to Arturo M. Elias, a brother of General P. Elias, call for the entrance into Chihuahua, via Pulpito Pass, with six thousand Sonora troops, who will try to proceed to Torreon and then to Mexico City, where they would co-operate with forces sent through Sinaloa.

Washington Authorities Relieved.

Washington, May. 4.—Relief was shown both in government circles and by revolutionary agents here today when it became known that Juarez, Mexico, where revolutionary fighting always has been a potential international danger, has been taken by the rebels without a fight.

Until now the rebels have succeeded in taking from Carranza almost half his territory without a battle, but military men here who have watched the developments of the revolution assume a few stubborn contests are inevitable unless averted by further defections in the federal forces.

Mexican agents here persist in their assertions that further cases of government troops declining battle will hasten the end of their struggle.

AN ENDOWMENT FOR VICTORIA HOSPITAL

Movement to Provide for the Equipment of the Fraser Memorial Building

The regular meeting of the trustees of Victoria Public Hospital was held yesterday with President Hughes in the chair. The other members in attendance included Dr. Irvine, His Worship Mayor Reid, R. FitzRandolph, Col. Loggie, R. B. Hanson and the secretary-treasurer, C. A. Sampson.

The expenditure sheet for the month was quite in keeping with the time, and the trustees decided that it is absolutely necessary to at once increase the fees for rooms. It was shown that many of the patients during recent years have been cared for at a loss. In her report Miss Sansom, the superintendent, showed that ninety-four patients were treated in April, and eighty of these were surgical cases.

Miss Eliza Somerville Sansom, an efficient member of the nursing staff, graduated with honors on the 25th ultimo. Among the latest additions to the probation class are Miss Colter, of Keswick, and Miss Parks, of Derby. During the present month Miss Allyn, of Gagetown, and Miss Matheson, of Bonny River, will be added to this class. Several of the nurses have recently been laid aside by illness. Miss Upton is now convalescing from scarlet fever in the Dow wing, but Miss Lyons is still quite ill with pneumonia.

President Hughes most cordially welcomed Mayor Reid to a seat at the board, and the vacancy caused by the recent resignation of Hamilton G. Kitchen was filled by the election of Dr. C. C. Jones, chancellor of the U. N. B.

Representatives of the various hospitals will meet in St. John next week with the Workmen's Compensation Board to consider amendments recently made to the Act providing for full medical aid and hospital attendance. The superintendent was appointed to represent Victoria Public Hospital.

It has been determined to appoint a dietitian on the staff of the hospital. This position will be offered to a Westmorland young lady.

The president exhibited the plans of the proposed Fraser Memorial Hospital, and Mr. Hanson spoke of the necessity of an early movement for the equipment of the hospital and of making provision for the immediate needs of the community. Mayor Reid was also enthusiastic respecting the support of the public toward any movement that will tend to the greater efficiency of Victoria Public Hospital. At the suggestion of Mr. Hanson, seconded by Col. Loggie, the trustees will meet with the Board of Trade and the Comemrcial Club to plan ways and means at some convenient time the present month.

It is expected arrangements will be made for an early conference with the hospital medical staff upon matters of government and professional plans or other phases of work.

Claims Damages from City.

A bill from N. W. Estabrooks, who conducts a grocery store on Westmorland street, was submitted at the City Council meeting last evening. He claims damages to the extent of $95 for a plate-glass window which was broken during the past winter by a city snow plow. Considerable discussion arose over the matter but, as it was thought that it would be establishing a precedent to grant the claim, action was deferred until later.

Policeman Moving Here.

Patrolman Ford Yerxa of the Fredericton police force, and Mrs. Yerxa are moving into the house formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Hewlitt Cooper at 114 Brunswick street.

DISPOSAL OF THE NAVAL TRAWLERS

Syndicate Formed for Purpose of Purchasing Entire Fleet of Canadian Vessels

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Halifax, N. S., May 4.—Negotiations involving a big money turnover, and which may result in the disposal of the entire fleet of Canadian Naval trawlers, are now in progress with a British syndicate. The syndicate has been formed, it is understood, for this purpose and if the purchase goes through, the ships will be used for trawling in the North Sea. This information was given out by L. W. Parsons, representative of the Anderson Company of Montreal, now in the city in connection with the sale of a number of the boats to other interests. The number named in the negotiations with the British syndicate is forty, and these in addition to the number which have already been sold, will practically clean up the fleet of ships of this type, which have been quartered in this harbor since the close of the war, and which rendered efficient coast service in its closing years.

PLEA OF CRUELTY TO GRASSHOPPERS

The Winnipeg Humane Society Objects to Use of Gas for Their Destruction

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Winnipeg, May 4. — Grasshoppers are not animals, they are vermin, said C. D. Burnham, a prominent member of the Winnipeg Humane Society, when shown a copy of a despatch from Montreal, quoting the Secretary of the Montreal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, that they should not be destroyed by gas because it might result in suffering to the dumb creatures, as gas is not always fatal in its results.

"It is nonsense to become sentimental about grasshoppers," he said. "We do not even know that they have sensitive feelings, and, anyway, I think the poison gas method of killing them would be too costly for the majority of the farmers."

PENNIAC PEOPLE ENJOYED SOCIAL

Enthusiastic Gathering of Old and Young at School Room —Marysville News

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Marysville, N. B., May 4.—When the citizens of Penniac announce their intention to do anything, you may be sure that they will do it, and do it well. On Saturday evening last a basket social was held in the school room of District No. 3½, just above Marysville, for the benefit of the school district. The school room was well filled with an enthusiastic gathering of both young and old. About 8 o'clock Charles Love briefly outlined the object of the meeting and called Spafford Wade to act as auctioner.

A very enjoyable time was spent in disposing of the dainties in the baskets, after which songs, speeches and stories were in order. Gilbert Morris favored the assembly with several songs, which were heartily applauded. The receipts of the evening were $83.05.

Friends of Miss Rachel Banks will be pleased to learn that she is recovering from her recent operation as rapidly as can be expected.

Friends of Alfred E. Morehouse, South Devon, will be sorry to learn that he is suffering from a severe attack of pneumonia.

Nashwaak Lodge, No. 72, I. O. O. F., and Amethyst Rebekah Lodge, observed the 101st anniversary of the Order by attending Divine Worship in a body at Main Street Baptist Church Sunday morning. Rev. J. B. Daggett, pastor of the church, preached a very eloquent sermon appropriate to the occasion.

Dudley Kingsley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Kingsley, celebrated his ninth birthday on Saturday, May 1.—About twenty-five of his little friends were entertained from five until eight-thirty of that day in honor of the occasion. A dainty supper was served in the dining room about six o'clock. The dining room was beautifully decorated for the occasion with spring flowers. The color scheme was pale yellow, blue and pink, as were also the favors and place cards. Mrs. Kingsley was assisted by Miss Edith Staples and Miss Kathleen Pincombe. Master Dudley received many beautiful presents, among which was a beautiful gold-mounted fountain pen, presented by his little friends.

John McMorris' condition is considerably improved, and he is now resting quite easily.

John Kethro, of Newcastle, N. B., who has been spending the past week with friends here, has returned to his home.

Henry C. Hanson, who has conducted the hotel for several years here, is retiring from the business, and will remove to South Devon, where he will reside. W. P. Wilson, of Fredericton, will resume management of the hotel the latter part of this week.

The engagement is announced of Miss Carolyn E., daughter of James Finnamore, of this city, to J. Roy LeBlanc, son of Mrs. A. D. LeBlanc, of Moncton.

Well Know Resident of City Passed Away at St. John Last Night.

One of Fredericton's oldest and best known citizens passed away at the Mater Misericordiae Home, at St. John last night in the person of Timothy Murphy, who about a year ago took up his residence in the Home.

Mr. Murphy carried on a meat business in this city for upwards of 40 years and retired a few years ago on account of advancing years. He was born in Ireland but when a young boy he left home to seek his fortune and landed in Boston in 1850. He was a veteran of the Civil War and from 1866 until about a year ago he had been a resident of this city. He was a well known horseman and owned and bred some well known harness horses. He was 89 years of age and is survived by one son, Michael, in Australia, and a niece, Miss Nellie Kelly, who had lived with him since the death of his wife about five years ago.

The Street Lighting Committee was directed last evening by the City Council to take up the matter of lighting the White Way with the G. O. C. of Military District No. 7. It was understood then that, if the city were to supply the current, the Militia Department would re-wire the lights.

There are numerous toll gates on the road to success.

BRITISH M. P. WILL WEAR OVERALLS

Major Newman Admits His Intention to Appear in House In Denim

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, May 4—Overalls are about to invade Parliament, but will be combined with spats to relieve the historic place of some of the shock. Major John R. P. Newman, member of the House of Commons for the Finchley division of Middlesex, will be the man who will introduce denim to Westminster.

Major Newman has admitted his intention to wear overalls to the House, and says he has become a firm convert to this means of smashing clothing prices, which was inaugurated on May Day. He clings, however, to spats, and has told an interviewer he will wear them in connection with his unparliamentary garb.

Odd Fellows at McAdam Jct. Paid a Fraternal Visit to the Carleton Lodge, Woodstock

Procession From Train Led by a Genuine Goat in Appropriate Costume—Members of Order From Fredericton and Other Places Present

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Woodstock, N. B., May 4.—Carleton Lodge, No. 41, I. O. O. F., was visited by members of Watt Lodge, No. 95. At 8. p. m. sharp a special train arrived from McAdam Jct. with 150 members of McAdam Lodge. They were met at the lower station by a large number of the members of Carleton, an accompanied to the old Queen Street station, some boarding the train, others in autos, where they were met by a very large number of the members of Carleton Lodge and the citizens of Woodstock.

After forming in line, they were led by a genuine goat, held in leash by the Warden of Watt Lodge, both being clad in appropriate costume. A band then headed the membership who carried red torchlights, making a very imposing procession, followed by a large procession of members and citizens to Carleton Lodge to their hall, where they were met by about one hundred members of Carleton, Glassville, St. Stephen and Fredericton Lodges. When all got seated in the spacious hall the Noble Grand of Carleton Lodge, C. B. Watson, called the lodge to order, having on his right Noble Grand Burley of Watt Lodge.

After the regular order of business the degree team of Watt Lodge put on the initiatory degree on their new members in a very impressive manner, each member taking his respective part in a well trained and proficient way. After completion of the degree a programme of speeches was staged as follows:

Charles Comben, of Carleton Lodge, extended an address of welcome on behalf of Carleton Lodge in eloquent terms, which was replied to by the Noble Grand of Watt Lodge, No. 95. Speeches were made by Col. F. H. J. Dibblee, of Carleton Lodge, Bro. Lord, P. G of St. Stephen Lodge, Bro. Langille, P. G., of Fredericton, W. B. Belyea, P. G. M. of Carleton, Arthur H. Stevens, of Shawmut Lodge, Boston, Rev. Bro. Warden, of Carleton, and H G. Stevens, P. G., of Carleton Lodge.

The members and citizens of Woodstock were aroused to unbounded interest in the splendid decorations of the engine, covered with mottoes of the order and bunting. The three links were in a conspicuous position on the headlight of the engine, in the three colors, red, white and blue. The entire train crew consisted of Odd Fellows as follows: Burt Boone, engineer; H. Bull, fireman; J. A. Hewitt, conductor; Jones and Dow, brakemen.

At midnight a banquet was put on at McLean's restaurant for the visiting members by the members of Carleton Lodge, to the satisfaction of all present. At 2 a. m. the visitors embarked for home, greatly delighted with the splendid treat that was extended to them, and on all hands were heard words of comment by the visitors. It is to be hoped that this enterprising lodge may at an early date duplicate the visit.

FOX STABLE MAY SHIP TO HOULTON

American Horse Breeder Says String of Seven Will Go Direct to Aroostook

The American Horse Breeder says: "Trainer Frank P. Fox, who has had his headquarters at Combination Park, Medford, Mass., for the past decade and more, will ship his stable to Houlton, Me., early in May. The veteran trainer will take along all of the present members of his stabe, with the exception of the Morgan Axworthy trotter, Revelry, 2.15¼, property of W. W. Sprague, Boston, which will be turned over to Joe H. Johnson at Readville."

Stable of Seven Coming.

Al. H. Standish in a story of the stables now located at Combination Park has the following:

'Frank Fox, who for many years has been a member of the training colony, will take temporary quarters for the season at Houlton, Maine, as he intends to race his horses through the circuits of northern Maine and the Maritime Provinces. The members of his stable are May Bird, 2.07¾, by Ashland Bird; Dan Murphy, 2.17¼, purchased at The Old Glory Sale of 1919, with a number of good races to his credit last season, but of obscure breeding; Klyo Todd, 2.21¼, by Kentucky Todd, 3, 2.08¾, out of the dam of Peter McKlyo, 2.06; Carlotta the Great, four-year-old mare by Peter the Great, 2.07¼, dam Mary Dillon, 2.06¼; Bannard, 2.15¼, by Baron McKinney, out of the dam of Bellinard ine, 2.10¼. The above horses answer the roll call in the pacing brigade. Alfred King, 2.13¼, by King Bellini, 2.10¼; Revelry, 2.15¼, by Morgan Axworthy, 2.17, and Jimmie Forbes, 2.20¼, by J. Malcolm Forbes, 2.08, are the three trotters that complete the list of the Fox stable. All but Revelry will make the trip to Maine, the son of Morgan Axworthy being staked in the Bay State Circuit.'

Besides Louie Grattan other well known performers in the string are Lou Todd, pacing patch 2.08, and Princess Mary, 2.10¼, while the rest are now in condition for the season's grind across the border.

Longest Game in Baseball History

The Gleaner publishes today the complete box score of the 26 inning tied game played by the Boston and Brooklyn teams of the National League at Boston on May 1st, 1920, and which became the longest game ever played in the major leagues.

The previous record game was that played at Boston on September 1st, 1906, in the American League when the Philadelphia Athletics defeated the Boston Americans 4 to 1 in 24 innings. The pitchers in that game were Jack Coombs for the Athletics and Joe Harris for the Red Sox.

It will thus be noted that in both of the record games each team has used but one pitcher, the box score of last Saturday's game being as follows:

M'TIGUE-BROSSEAU FIGHT ON MAY 24?

Present Title Holder Will Meet Kramer at Halifax on Thursday

Mike McTigue will give Eugene Brosseau a chance to win back the title of Canadian middleweight champion in a bout to be staged by the National Sporting Club at Montreal on May 24th, according to reports at Halifax.

The panning which Montreal sporting writers handed McTigue following his recent bout in that city is thus referred to by the veteran Jimmy Power, sporting editor of the Halifax Recorder, whose opinions count for a great deal with sport followers in the Maritime Provinces:

"Venom displayed by Montreal papers in their comments on McTigue would indicate that they are still sore over the defeat of Brosseau. Fair criticism is manly, but panning does not add thereto. They class his opponent a third rater, a ham, etc., so that McTigue did not have to extend himself unless he desired."

McTigue Meets Kramer Thursday.

"McTigue returns from Montreal today so as to be rested up and to prepare for his bout with Billy Kramer next Thursday. Everybody is looking for a great contest between those men, on the strength of their having met before in a 6-round no-decision bout in which Kramer claims he had the best of the argument, and they also both having met Harry Greb last December in 10-round no-decision bout which went the limit. Besides, Kramer is young and has met the prominent middleweights of both Australia and the United States. He has went ten rounds with Mike O'Dowd in 1915, and again in a six round no-decision bout in 1918. Last year O'Dowd won from him by a knockout. Mike McTigue has never yet met O'Dowd, so comparisons cannot be made in this direction. McTigue, however, announces his willinguess to meet O'Dowd at any time."

GEORGIANS FEAR THE NEW MENACE

Capture of Baku by Bolshevik Gives Them Virtual Control of Azerbaijan

Constantinople, May 3.—The seizure of Baku, on the western coast of the Caspian Sea, by the Russian Bolsheviki on April 28, has aroused the Georgians, who have called four additional classes to arms, and announced that they will not permit the Reds to enter Georgia through Azerbiajan. The Georgians thus far have been able to prevent the Bolsheviki from entering Georgia through the mountain passes in the vicinity of Vladikavkaz. The Georgians declare they will not admit any armed force, as Georgia merely wants to protect its own independence without the interference of outsiders.

The capture of Baku gives the Bolsheviki virtually control of Azerbiajan. Its seizure makes the Armenian situation more precarious, as the Bolsheviki doubtless will help the Moslem-Azerbiajan opposition to Armenia. In this way Mustapha Kemal Pasha's Turkish nationalist Mohammedan forces would be able to connect with the Azerbiajans, thus forming a connection with the Moslems in Turkestan, by way of the Caspian Sea and Presia.

STARTED LEAK IN HIS WINE STOCK

New York, May 3. — George Hopkins, a plumber, is held on a charge of theft brought by Jacob B. Theiss, president of a big tire company, who alleges that Hopkins, when called to fix a leak in the roof of Theiss' residence, started to work too low down. Theiss claims the plumber, instead of fixing the leaky roof, went into his cellar and developed a large sized leak in his wine stock. The job, he declares, took Hopkins four days. "On each visit he went to the cellar," he told the police, "and then I found that thirteen bottles of my best stock had been emptied." Theiss secreted detectives in the cellar and they arrested the plumber.

Nearly a ton of electrical equipment for a manufactory at Port Clinton, O., arrived in one day's mail, having been shipped from Fort Wayne by parcel post.

WELSFORD, N. B.

Welsford, N. B., April 26.—The Girls' Club held a very successful basket social and dance in the Orange Hall on Friday last. In spite of the storm a good crowd gathered and quite a sum of money was raised toward the tennis court that the club is planning.

Mr. and Mrs. Steves have returned from Rooth, where Mr. Steeves was station agent during the winter season.

Mrs. Chapman has been visiting relations in Salisbury for a fortnight.

Mrs. Anderson has returned home after spending the winter in Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter have returned from St. John, where they spent several months. Mr. Porter was undergoing medical treatment and is somewhat improved in health.

Rev. Mr. Prescott is in Windsor taking a special course. Mr. Rogers, of St. John, held service here on Sunday evening.

The many friends of Mrs. Bayard were shocked on Saturday to hear that she had suffered a severe paralytic stroke. Her condition is very critical.

Two funerals were held from the Methodist church on Sunday last, Rev. Mr. Chapman conducting the services. The morning funeral was that of Mrs. Lingley, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Brittain, in Fairville. One son, Mr. Perce Lingley, lives in Welsford. In the afternoon the funeral of Mr. Robert Quinn was held. Mr. Quinn had been ill a long while. He leaves his wife and one son, also father, mother and several sisters and brothers, to whom sympathy is extended.

Some real estate has changed hands in this locality this Spring, Mr. Percy Graham having purchased the Stone mansion at the mouth of the New Zealand road and has moved his family therein.

Mr. Harley Crouse and family have moved in Mr. Perley Crouse's residence. Mr. Crouse has under construction a blacksmith shop and garage.

Mr. Barton Brewer and family have moved into the Robinson mansion.

Mr. Frederick Blair, formerly of this place but who has been living in Uncle Sam's territory, is visiting his people here after an absence of thirty years.

Mrs. Percy Morgan from Devon is on a visit here to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Graham.

Mr. Albert Burtt, of Knoxford, is visiting friends here.

Dr. Cassidy, a Whitinsville, Mass., dentist, guessed that a big jar at the Knights of Columbus carnival contained 13,113 beans. The carnival committee, counting the beans, found there were just 13,200 in the jar, so that Dr. Cassidy has the big wedding cake that was offered as a prize. He says that all he needs now is a license, a ring and the girl.

True Knights of Faith

Very quiet was the wedding in the old priory church at Christchurch, where Father Christopher read the service, and there were few to see save the Lady Loring and John, and a dozen bowmen from the castle. The Lady of Twnham had drooped and pined for weary months, so that her face was harsher anad less comely than before, yet she still hoped on, for her lord had come through so many dangers that she could scarce believe that he might be stricken down at last. It had been her wish to start for Spain and to search for him, but Alleyne had persuaded her to let him go in her place. There was much to look after, now that the lands of Minstead were joined to those of Twynham, and Alleyne had promised here that if she would but bide with his wife he would never come back to Hampshire again until he had gained some news, good or ill, of her lord and lover.

The yellow cog had beeen engaged with Goodwin Hawtayne in command, and a month after the wedding Alleyne rode down to Bucklershard to see if she had come round yet from Southampton. On the way he passed the fishing village of Pitt's Deep, and marked that a little creyer or brig was tacking off the land, as though to anchor there. On his way back, as he rode towards the village, he saw that she had indeed anchored, and that many boats were round her, bearing cargo to the shore.

A bow-shot from Pitt's Deep there was an inn a little back from the road, very large and wide-spread, with a great green bush hung upon a pole from one of the upper windows. At this window he marked, as he rode up, that a man was seated who appeared to be craning his neck in his direction. Alleyne was still looking up at him, when a woman came rushing from the open door of the inn, and made as though she would climb a tree, looking back the while with a laughing face. Wondering what these things might mean, Alleyne tied his horse to a tree, and was walking amid the trunks towards the inn, when there shot from the entrance a second woman who made also for the trees. Close at her heels came a burly, brown-faced man, who leaned against the door-post and laughed loudly with his hand to his side. "Ah, mes belles!" he cried, "and is it thus you treat me? Ah, mes petites! I swear by these finger-bones that I would not hurt a hair of your pretty heads; but I have been among the black paynim, and, by my hilt! it does me good to look at your English cheeks. Come, drink to stoup of muscadine with me, mes anges, my heart is warm to be among ye again."

At the sight of the man Alleyne had stood staring, but at the sound of his voice such a thrill of joy bubbled up in his heart that he had to bite his lip to keep himself from shouting outright. But a deeper pleasure yet was in store. Even as he looked, the window above was pushed outwards, and the voice of the man whom he had seen there came out from it. 'Aylward,' cried the voice, "I have seen just now a very worthy person come down the road, though my eyes could scarce discern whether he carried coat-armor. I pray you to wait upon him and tell him that a very humble knight of England abides here, so that if he be in need of advancement, or have any small vow upon his soul, or desire to exalt his lady, I may help him to accomplish it."

Aylward at this order came shuffling forward amid the trees, and in an instant the two men were clinging in each other's arms, laughing and shouting and patting each other in their delight; while old Sir Nigel came running with his sword, under the impression that some small bickering had broken out, only to embrace and be embraced himself, until all three were hoarse with their questions and outcries and congratulations.

On their journey home through the woods Alleyne learnt their wondrous story; how, when Sir Nigel came to his senses, he with his fellow-captive had been hurried to the coast, and conveyed by sea to their captor's castle; how upon the way they had been taken by a Barbary rover, and how they exchanged their light captivity for a seat on a galley bench and hard labor at the pirate's oars; how, in the port at Barbary, Sir Nigel had slain the Moorish captain, and had swum with Aylward to a small coaster which they had taken, and so made their way to England with a rich cargo to reward them for their toils. All this Alleyne listened to, until the dark keep of Twynham towered above them in the gloaming, and they saw the red sun lying athwart the rippling Avon. No need to speak of the glad hearts at Twynham Castle that night, nor of the rich offerings from out that Moorish cargo which found their way to the chapel of Father Christopher.

Sir Nigel Loring lived for many years, full of honor and laden with every blessing. He rode no more to the wars, but he found his way to every jousting within thirty miles; and the Hampshire youth treasured it as the highest honor when a word of praise fell from him as to their management of their horses, or their breaking of their lances. So he lived and so he died, the most revered and the happiest man in all his native shire.

For Sir Alleyne Edricson and for his beautiful bride the future had also naught but what was good. Twice he fought in France, and came back each time laden with honors. A high place at court was given to him, and he spent many years at Windsor under the second Richard and the fourth Henry—where he received the honor of the Garter, and won the name of being a brave soldier, a true-hearted gentleman, and a great lover and patron of every art and science which refines or ennobles life.

As to John, he took unto himself a village maid, and settled in Lyndhurst, where his five thousand crowns made him the richest franklin for many miles around. For many years he drank his ale every night at the 'Pied Merlin," which was now kept by his friend Aylward, who had wedded the good widow to whom he had committed his plunder. The strong men and the bowmen of the country round used to drop in there of an evening to wrestle a fall with John or to shoot a round with Aylward; but, though a silver shilling was to be the prize of the victory, it has never been reported that any man earned much money in that fashion. So they lived, these men, in their own lusty, cheery fashion—rude and rough, but honest, kindly and true. Let us thank God if we have outgrown their vices. Let us pray to God that we may ever hold their virtues. The sky may darken, and the clouds may gather, and again the day may come when Britain may have sore need of her children, on whatever shore of the sea they may be found. Shall they not muster at her call?

Sudden Death of Mrs. Ganong.

Word reached here last evening of the death at Northampton, Mass., of Mrs. W. F. Ganong, who passed away suddenly following a cerebral hemorrhage. Deceased was formerly Miss Murray Carman, daughter of the late William Carman, of this city, and had been residing for some years at Northampton, where her husband has occupied an important chair at Smith College. They had no children and her only other immediate relative is her brother, Bliss Carman, the noted poet, who has lately been in California in an effort to restore his health. News of her death came as a painful shock to many friends at her former home here. The remains will be brought to Fredericton for interment, arriving on Thursday by C. P. R. at 12.20 p. m. The remains will be taken to Christchurch Cathedral and the funeral will take place at 2 o'clock. Very Rev. Dean Neales will conduct the service and interment will be made at Forest Hill cemetery.

READY TO START AT LAKE GEORGE ANTIMONY MINES

North America Antimony and Smelting Company Soon to Start Mining

LOCATING THE SIDING ON VALLEY RAILWAY

All Six Shafts on Property Will Be Pumped Out Simultaneously

The North America Antimony and Smelting Company will, it was said this morning, commence almost immediately upon the extensive development of the antimony mines at Lake George, about 20 miles from here, which they recently acquired.

This morning Walter F. Dickson, of New York, vice-president of the company, left here for the mines accompanied by A. J. Gray, district freight agent, and R. Z. Walker, district superintendent of the Canadian National Railways, for the purpose of locating a siding on the St. John Valley Railway at the Lake George road in connection with the opening up of the work at the mines.

Mr. Dickson declared today that already C. N. Crowe, who is to be the permanent mine manager and who is regarded as one of the experts in antimony mining of Canada, has removed to Lake George from Nova Scotia and a number of miners are already there. Equipment for the miners' homes and boarding houses has been bought and will be shipped to Lake Geeorge at once, while plant is now being rigged up so that the pumping out of all the six shafts on the property can be undertaken simultaneously, preparatory to starting mining operations.

MRS. C. H. GILES DIED SUDDENLY

Expired After Breakfast This Morning at Brooklands, the Family Home

Mrs. C. H. Giles died very suddenly this morning at Brooklands, the family residence, in the parish of Kingsclear, York county, about four miles above Fredericton.

Arising in apparently good health, she had gone upstairs again after breakfast, when she was suddenly seized with what appeared to be a stroke of apoplexy and died within a few minutes, surrounded by the members of her family. News of her sudden death was learned of with deep regret by a large circle of friends.

Deceased was formerly Miss Annie M. Friel, daughter of the late Bernard Friel, who was a lawyer by profession and practiced in this city, at the same time operating a farm at what is now North Devon. Besides her husband, who has lately been recovering from a long illness, she is survived by two sons, Jack E. Giles and C. Montgomery Giles, both at home. One sister, Miss Bessie Friel, of North Devon, also survives.

The funeral will take place Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock with service at St. Peter's church, Springhill, by Rev. Mr. Wilkinson, after which interment will be made in St. Peter's churchyard.

NO DECISION ON EMPLOYMENT BUREAU BY CITY COUNCIL

Proposal that the City Pay Part of the Expense Is Considered

ALDERMEN SAY MEN ARE SCARCE

Finance Committee Named to Investigate the Matter and Make Report

The City Council last night considered a proposal to continue the Employment Service Bureau in Fredericton by the city participating in the cost of maintenance.

Mayor Reid stated that he had been asked to bring the matter of the continuation of the Employment Service Bureau in this city before the Council. The probable total cost of continuing the office in this city for all parties concerned would be $4,000, of which $2,000 would be paid by the Federal Government, $1,000 by the Provincial Government and $1,000 by the city. The Mayor said he had written the different cities and towns in the province in connection with the matter and that the Board of Trade had taken the matter up with Premier Foster, who had stated the Provincial Government could not afford to carry on the offices.

Ald. Cooper thought the money for the offices would be well expended. Ald. Barker and Ald. Young thought men were scarce enough without having an office like that to ship men away from the city. Ald. Young thought the office might be well moved to the Board of Trade rooms, which would mean less cost.

Ald. Cooper thought the county might come in on the proposition.

Ald. Wilkinson moved that the matter be deferred until the next meeting, information to be sought in the meantime from other towns and cities interested in the matter. This was seconded by Ald. Young.

Ald. Young was in favor of subletting the office immediately, but Mayor Reid stated that something definite ought to be learned before any steps were taken and the matter was left in the hands of the Finance Committee.

Chief Justice McKeown Fixes Bill at $1500 and Names June 1 to Hear Cases

TWO WITNESSES WERE NOT PRESENT

The First Case of Forgery of Liquor Prescriptions Heard in This City

The case of Albert W. England, charged with forgery of the name of Dr. George W. Bailey, of Fredericton Junction, on prescriptions for liquor, was the only case on the docket for the May sittings of the York Circuit Court which opened here this morning.

Chief Justice McKeown presided, having exchanged circuits with Mr. Justice Chandler, but because two of the most important witnesses for the prosecution were away on lumber driving operations and could not be served by Sheriff Hawthorn, the case was postponed until Tuesday, June 1st.

R. B. Hanson, K.C., for the accused, then moved to have bail reduced. He stated the amount had been fixed at $1,500 by Police Magistrate Limerick when it was understood that there

BOLSHEVIK ARE LOOTING KIEV

Polish Leaders Plan to Occupy Kiev This Week

Special Trains to Take Visitors From Warsaw to Captured City

REJOICE OVER ARMY TRIUMPH

Celebrate the First Anniversary of Poland's New Constitution.

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Warsaw, May 5.—Russian Bolshevik soldiers are reported to be looting houses and stores at Kiev, preparatory to abandoning the city. Advices received here indicate great confusion there.

Polish military authorities plan to occupy Kiev late this week, it is believed, and special trains to take visitors from Warsaw to the Ukrainian capital are being arranged.

JOY OF POLES OVER TRIUMPHS OF ARMY

Warsaw, May 5.—The first anniversary of Poland's democratic constitution Monday brought out the greatest parade in the history of the country. The people took occasion to manifest their joy over the Polish successes in the advance into the Ukraine. Great posters announced the triumph of the army in its drive toward the Dneiper.

To Reorganize Cabinet.

Warsaw, May 5.—Reorganization of Poland's democratic cabinet in the near future is predicted by the newspapers of this city, which give as the reason the opposition aroused by the government peace policy. The socialists are making insistent demands for peace and have asked that they be recognized in government appointments.

Minister of Finance Grabski's policy is also the subject of criticism, says the newspapers, it being charged that he is issuing paper money too liberally.

The resignation or dismissal of Stanislas Patek, the Premier and M. Grabski is considered almost certain by the newspapers.

GREEKS PAY $3 FOR CANADIAN WHEAT

Settlement of Wheat Prices Effected Between Canada and Greek Government

Ottawa, May 5.—It is understood that a settlement has been reached in the disagreement between the Greek Government and the Canadian Government over wheat prices. As a result, it is said, Canadian farmers will benefit to the extent of three and a quarter million dollars or the difference of fifty cents a bushel between $2.50 and $3. The increase in the amount which the Greek Government has agreed to pay for something like 6,600,000 bushels of Canadian wheat was secured chiefly through the efforts of the Canadian Wheat Board and the Canadian Trade Commission, which has its headquarters here.

Sir Charles Gordon, of Montreal, and R. D. Fairbairn, of Toronto, are the commissioners.

Kaiser is Selling Horses and Harness

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

The Hague, May 5.—Horses, carriages and harness belonging to the former German Emperor, including a set of gold mounted harness presented to him by the Pope, are offered for sale in a display advertisement in last night's Handelsblad.

The advertisement is signed only with a number, but it is agreed to furnish photographs and further information. So far as the Associated Press is able to learn, no doubt exists that it is Count Hohenzollern himself who is disposing of the goods. For some time past rumor has had it that the former Emperor's financial condition has not been thriving.

HUNGARIAN PEACE TREATY DISCUSSED

Conference of Ambassadors Negative Demand of Hungarians for Plebiscites

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, May 5.—The reply of the conference of ambassadors to the Hungarian objections to the terms of the proposed peace treaty was delivered this afternoon to the secretary of the Hungarian delegation at Versailles.

Neither the text of the reply nor the covering letter was given out, but it is learned that the reply is negative to the demand of the Hungarians for a plebiscite in the territories which the projected treaty detaches from Hungary. The Hungarian delegation has been given ten days, dating from tomorrow, to reply.

The ambassadors listened to the report of Sir Charles Marling, president of the Inter-Allied commission for the plebiscite in Schleswig, on the new boundaries to be fixed as a result of the plebiscite. The question is very complicated in view of the variations in the vote in the different regions of Schleswig, and will be considered further by the ambassadors after hearing General Claudal, French member of the commission.

A NATIONAL WAR MEMORIAL MUSEUM

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Ottawa, May 5.—The Government promised careful and early consideration of the recommendation of the committee of representatives of the Royal Society of Canada, the Royal Canadian Academy, the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada, and the Canadian Town Planning Institute, which waited upon it yesterday, that a commission be appointed to consider the national war memorial museum. This form of memorial was recommended when the committee met in Ottawa last February, at the instance of the Royal Society.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Coponhagen, May 5.—Armed bands in the neighborhood of Suchteln and Viersen, suburbs of Duesseldorf, collided with the Reichswehr, security police and municipal police, according to a semi-official despatch from Duesseldorf today.

The bands lost two killed and four wounded and the remainder were driven back to the occupied territory and disarmed. Twelve prisoners were captured in the occupied area.

PRESIDENT EBERT EXPELLED BY UNION

The Present Head of German Empire Was a Saddler Before the War

Berlin, May 5.—President Ebert, who before he became President of Germany was a harness maker, has been expelled from the Saddlers' Union of Berlin by a vote of 1,200 to 5.

The ground taken by his opponents was that he signed the death warrant of a man named Kopp, who had been convicted of murder.

The resolution calling for the expulsion of Ebert said:

"This assembly no longer recognizes the President of the empire at a colleague, inasmuch as he violated all socialistic principles, which do not admit of punishment by death."

GAGNON SENT TO PRISON FOR LIFE

Inhuman Father Whose Daughter Died from Beatings and Ill-Treatment

Quebec, May 5.—Telesphore Gagnon, found guilty of manslaughter in the case of Aurore Gagnon, his daughter, who died after brutal beatings from her father and ill-treatment from her step-mother, who is under sentence of death for the crime, was this morning sentenced to life imprisonment by Mr. Justice Desy.

Remeo Remillard, found guilty of shooting and killing Lieutenant Lucien Morrissette, and also found guilty of manslaughter, also received life imprisonment sentence.

Remillard's father, charged with murder with his son, will be tried at the next sessions of the Quebec Assizes.

The cases of the four men now under arrest on a charge of robbing the Ocean Limited of $71,000, was also postponed till the next assizes.

With the sentence of Gagnon and Remillard today, the most sensational assizes Quebec has known came to a close as far as the criminal cases were concerned. Six murder cases were on the docket and three sentences of death and two of life imprisonment have been imposed.

SEEDING IS MUCH LATER IN WEST

Scattered Beginnings Made in Alberta, But Generally About Twenty Days Late

Edmonton, Alta., May 5.—The first semi-monthly crop and live stock report, issued by the Department of Agriculture, states that the seeding in that provvince is from twenty to thirty days later by the calendar than it was last year, varying with locality.

If quick general seeding were possible, the prospects are the best in a dozen years. There is a depth of from two and a half to four feet of moist soil over the driest parts of the province, and the report asserts once the seed is in it has a moisture supply for germination and growth to carry the crop well into June.

Central Alberta has made scattered beginnings on dry spots. Peace River is backward, except along the valley. The feed situation has greatly improved since the cattle and horses have got on the open ground.

Carranza at End of His Resources—Unable to Make Headway Against Foe

NOW USING AIRPLANES TO HARRASS REBELS

Carranza Troops Were Driven From Chihuahua City After 18 Hours Fighting

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Washington, May 5.—Apparently unable to get under way any offensive military expedition against the revolutionists, President Carranza has begun using airplanes to harrass rebel hold towns in the neighborhood of the Mexicen capital, according to advices to revolutionary agents here.

Cuernavaca, capital of Morelos, and Cuautla, in the same state, are two of the points that have been bombarded, the report stated. The information through official channels yesterday that Pablo Gonzales, formerly an ardent supporter of Carranza, had entered the revolution at the head of a detachment of revolting federal troops, also was contained in the rebel advices.

The Situation at Jaurez.

Jaurez, Chihuahua, May 5.—Jaurez today continued its process of adjustment to the new revolutionary regime which assumed control upon the city's defection from the Carranza government inaugurated by the Sonora state government. The civil government functioned as usual today, but it was expected numerous changes eventually would be made.

How General Urabalejo and Colonel Eduarde F. Percayo, also of the Casas Grandes garrison, were captured Monday night and induced to join the revolution, has just been revealed.

A party of officers was ordered to Casas Grandes by General Escobar, commander of the Juarez district, to meet the two commanders and ascertain their sympathies. General Escobar's envoys met the Casas Grandes officers at Barrod station, 41 miles southwest of Juarez.

Escobar's officers greeted the two commanders cordially and invited them on the train for "a friendly chat." The pair accepted and when separated from their men, were menaced with pistols and placed under arrest.

The captives were brought back to Jaurez and finally were convinced that the part of wisdom was to join the revolution without further struggle.

First details of the fall of Chihuahua city garrison were received from Chihuahua city today. On April 26, Generals Martinez and Amaro and Colonel Gama, with all other chiefs there, repudiated the Carranza government and assumed control of the city after 18 hours' fighting with the 62nd Battalion commanded by General Figueroa. Figueroa then surrendered the barracks. There were no civilian causalties.

Colonel Gama was killed outside the barracks during the attack. His widow was given ten thousand pesos and monthly pay as a general.

General Martinez gave General Figueroa his unconditional liberty on the following day and the latter subsequently joined the revolutionary movement.

PEACE RESOLUTION IN THE U. S. SENATE

Little Doubt of Passage in the Senate, But the President Likely to Veto It

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Washington, May 5.—The Senate will begin debate today on the Knox peace resolution with the general expectation of its adoption and certain veto by the President.

Republican leaders supporting and Democrats opposing the resolution said a vote probably would be reached within two weeks, or just before the contemplated recess for the national conventions.

There did not seem to be much doubt among members as to its passage, but leaders of both parties said they anticipated that with his veto message, President Wilson probably would return the treaty of Versailles to the Senate.

SANITARY CONTROL OF LUMBER CAMPS

[By Canadian Associated Press.]

Ottawa, May 5.—A demand on the provincial department of health that it enforce the regulations governing the sanitary control of lumber camps in the Ottawa Valley, and throughout the rest of the province will be made on Walter R. Rollo, within the next few days by Mr. E. Winch, Secretary of the lumber workers industrial union, which is affiliated with the One Big Union, who was in Ottawa yesterday.

Mr. Winch made the charge that not one lumber company in the province of Ontario attempted to conform with the government regulations governing camps, and the officials of the department of health were not trying to enforce the regulations. He terms conditions in the eastern Ontario camps as disgraceful.

His parents and a sister were with him at the time, taking what they supposed was their final farewell of the prisoner.

To Plant Less Food Crops in England

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Boston, May 5.—A reduction of 25 per cent. in the acreage to be planted for food crops in New England this year is shown in reports to the United States Bureau of Crop Estimates, Field Agent V. A. Sanders announced today. Higher prices for vegetables are a probable consequence, he said.

THE UNIFORM DAY NOT ADAPTABLE

U. S. Industrial Conference Says There Can Be No Single Schedule of Hours

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Boston, Mass., May 5.—The national industrial conference board, in a report issued here on the hours of work problem, reaches the conclusion that no single schedule of hours is equally adaptable for all industries from the standpoint of production.

"In general," the report says, "the ability to increase hourly efficiency, and thus make up, either wholly or in part, for reductions in hours, was largely determined by the amount of hard work performed in any given process. Those industries, characterized by a relatively large amount of machine work, as a rule showed a marked decrease in output when hours were reduced."

The board investigated 1,818 representative establishments in five industries, cotton, wool, silk, boot and shoe, and metal manufacturing. Of these, 749 establishments had reduced hours and furnished definite information regarding results.

The report says the investigation revealed no clearly established relationship between changes in wages and the rate of production, but the evidence clearly indicated that the piece rate system was more conducive to efficiency than the day rate system.

Another Winnipeg Woman Long Missing Now Known to Have Married Watson

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

El Centro, Cal., May 5.—Walter Andrew Watson, alleged bigamist-murderer, was formally charged with murder here late yesterday when a coroner's jury, after an inquest over the body of Nina Lee Deloney, which was recovered yesterday from its hidden burial spot in western Imperial county, returned a verdict that "death was caused by a blow on the head by James Watson." The latter name was said to be another by which the prisoner is known.

Watson was the principal witness at the inquest. He identified the body as that of "my wife, Mrs. Deloney."

He also told the jury he had killed her and had buried the body in the lonely grave in a mountain gulch thirty miles from El Centro.

Huirt, according to a telegram received from Los Angeles, married the Lewis woman in Winnipeg about 12 years ago. She was dropped from sight and the police believe she is one of the wives whom Huirt says he is not sure whether he murdered or not. Another woman whom Huirt married in Winnipeg was Mrs. H. L. Kapp recently wrote from Sweden, seeking the approval of the Swiss government to his taking up residence here. Four other German notables, including two reactionary generals, also have been denied a haven in Switzerland by the government.

GIGANTIC STEEL MERGER DISCUSSED

Some Members of Parliament Criticize Corporation, While Others Defend It

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, May 5.—The event of the day in the financial world, the gigantic merger with which the name of Col. Grant Morden has been so closely associated, has at length reached Parliament, although most of the members of the House were very conversant with it before because its unofficial launching really took place at a Rideau Club dinner here a few weeks ago, at which members of the Government and the leader of the Opposition were present, and at which, in language filled with the fervor of devotion to the Empire, Col. Morden gave an intimation of his plans. The proceedings at this function, including the speech of the principal guest, afterwards appeared in the form of page advertisements in different newspapers throughout Canada.

The discussion in the House was precipitated by the member for Springfield, Manitoba, who read a private letter from "a prominent Toronto financial man" casting doubt on the good faith of the merger. Mr. Richardson urged that the Government should look into the matter fully. There was no lack of readiness on the part of the House to discuss the matter and a number of the members who were the strongest defenders of the merger were apparently thoroughly conversant with all the details. While one or two members appeared strongly prejudiced against the proposition and it was defended principally by those members, and they were on both sides of the House, who have become looked upon as peculiarly the advocates of "Big Business," it must be admitted that nothing more than mere suspicions were advanced for the attack. Perhaps the criticism which appealed most to the impartial was the fact that while the new concern was protesting against the fact that its charter, through the Secretary of State's Department, was costing it double what it should have had to pay had it come to Parliament direct, it showed no disposition to adopt the latter course. If it should do so, it might be an advantage in the way of dissemination of all the facts in connection with the merger. Those who have been criticizing the merger think that a little too much stress has been laid on the Empire cementing aspect of the proposition, which is after all a purely money making scheme and none the worse for being so. If suspicions have been aroused regarding it, it had been due to this fact, which has been emphasized to such a degree that the economic aspect of the matter as it affects the people of Canada has been lost sight of. It is felt, however, that some of the men associated with the promotion of the scheme are such as to inspire confidence, particularly such names as that of Lloyd-Harris, who is said to have been working vigorously for the accomplishing of the merger. Nevertheless, Parliament is performing its functions properly in taking cognizance of the matter, and the assurance given by the Acting Premier that the Government was looking very closely into it is reassuring.

NO INCREASE FOR ONTARIO MEMBERS

Premier Drury Criticized by His Supporters in the Legislature

Toronto, May 4.—There will be no increase in the sessional indemnity for members of the Legislature this year. Notice to this effect was flatly served on the House by Premier Drury tonight, and the ensuing debate was probably the warmest the session has thus far brought forth.

The Prime Minister broached the question when the House was in committee of supply on the estimates. He declared emphatically that the demand should not be pressed.

"The people of the province are looking to this House for an example of economy," Mr. Drury observed.

H. H. Dewart, Liberal leader, arose to protest against such "cavalier treatment" for those who had signed the round robin. He himself was not one, he said, but he regarded the request as a reasonable one, and one deserving further consideration at the hand of the Government.

M. M. McBride, Labor member for South Brant, was outspoken in his support of the request. He expressed wonder at the "audacity" of the Premier in opposing the request of seventy-five members.

Other Labor and Liberal members favored the increased indemnity.

Some of the United Farmer members supported the Premier in his stand for economy, but L. W. Oke, U. F. O. member for East Lambton, electrified both sides of the House by pouring several rounds of hot shot against the Prime Minister. He admitted having signed the "round robin,' giving as his reason that he did not consider the present indemnity sufficient. He assumed full responsibility and was prepared to face his constituents. Mr. Oke wished to know what sacrifice the Premier was making and whether he had given up his farm.

"I have not, but I expect to lose on it," replied Hon. Mr. Drury.

"So do I," Mr. Oke continued. "I am making a sacrifice. The Prime Minister may laugh, but I do not propose to stand here and be laughed at. I would like to tell the Prime Minister what some of the people back in the constituencies which put us in here and empowered us to place him in the seat he occupies are saying about him. I have letters in my pocket now which would make the Prime Minister blush if I were to read them in the House."

Perhaps some day a genius will rise to the occasion and invent a noiseless phonograph.

Pure Air is as Necessary as Pure Food

THE ENTERPRISE BLAZER FURNACE heats your home in Nature's way. It draws in the sweet pure air from the big outdoors, moistens it thoroughly, turns it into heat and comfort and passes it on to every corner of your home.

The best that base burners and radiators can do is to heat the air that is already in the house—that has been breathed again and again. Stoves choke the air with dust and in real cold weather they fall short of their job. Another reason for the is economy. For thirty-five years we have been learning how to take all the heat out of a piece of coal; and then how to make most use of it. The Enterprise Blazer is the result. And it costs a great deal less to install than a hot water boiler, pipes and radiators.

Have You Made Your Mother's Dreams Come True? Are You the Strong, Successful Iron Man She Expected You To Be?

or are Worry, Work and Ill-Health Sapping the Iron From Your Blood and Robbing You of the Prizes that Come With Health and Success? Physician Explains Why So Many Men of To-day Need the Help of

NUXATED IRON TO BUILD RED BLOOD

That Gives Courage and Power To Go In and Win.

Every mother has dreams for her son. And whether it be the mother of the prize-fighter or the statesman, she is equally proud when HE wins. She thinks of HER struggle from the very start to nourish the tiny babe into rugged boyhood—then to build up his health, brawn and brain to fight the battles of young manhood. She did HER best to teach him what health and strength meant in the race for success, and the boy who was able to hold fast to her teachings is today in a position of power.

But there are thousands whose love for their mother is just as deep—thousands who wear the white carnation on Mothers' Day—thousands who never fail to write home—YET they would hesitate to answer the question, "Have You Made Your Mother's Dreams Come True?"—simply because in the mad rush for the Success which they knew would make HER proud, they have slipped up on one point. They have neglected her oft' repeated words: "Look to Your Health First, My Boy." In pushing their mental energies to the limit without the physical strength to back them up, they have allowed worry, work and ill-health to sap the iron from their blood and leave them weak, nervous and run-down. These men are as anxious to get ahead as anyone else but they do not realize that iron is absolutely essential to the greatest development of physical and mental power. But in the wear and tear of modern day life when their forces are constantly drawn upon, they are without the sustaining strength produced by the nourishing foods and outdoor sports of boyhood days that kept up the supply of iron in their blood. Unless they supply this iron deficiency now, they cannot hope to have the rich, red blood that sends fires of energy through body and brain and makes men get ahead. Yet, to take the wrong form of iron may prove worse than useless and therefore physicians below explain why they prescribe only organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for red blood, strength and endurance.

"It is the men of blood and iron who will forge ahead in the business and political life of the country today," says Dr. T. Alphonsus Wallace, a physician of many years' experience and formerly of the British Naval Medical Service. "Without iron there can be no strong, red-blooded men, and unless this strength-giving iron is obtained from the foods we eat, it must be supplied in some form that is easily absorbed and assimilated. For this purpose I always recommend organic iron—Nuxated Iron—which by enriching the blood and creating new blood cells, strengthens the nerves, rebuilds the weakened tissues and helps to instill renewed energy into the whole system whether a person is young or old. In my opinion, Nuxated Iron is the most valuable tonic, strength and blood-builder any physician can prescribe."

Dr. John J. Van Horne, formerly Medical Inspector and Clinical Physician on the Board of Health of New York City, says, "To help build stronger, healthier men and women, better able physically to meet the problems of everyday life, I believe that physicians should, at every opportunity prescribe organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for in my experience it is one of the best tonic and red blood builders known to medical science."

No matter what other tonics or iron remedies you have used without success—if you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength and see how much you have gained. Nuxated Iron will increase the strength, power and endurance of delicate, nervous, run-down people in two weeks' time in many instances.

Every Man Who Feels the Thrill of Mother-Love Owes it to Himself to Read the Accompanying Article.

Manufacturers' Note: Nuxated Iron, which is prescribed and recommended by physicians and which is now being used by over three million people annually, is not a secret remedy but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products it is easily assimilated and does not injure the teeth, make them black nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed in this city by A. J. Ryan, C. A. Burchill, Dibblee's Drug Store and other druggists.

City Council to Call for Tenders for Mile Of Permanent Pavement This Year on Brunswick Street and Upper End of Charlotte Street

Proposal for Repair of York Street Pavement at Cost of $12,000 Passed.—$600 Voted to Put Public Playgrounds in Shape

The City Council sat until after midnight again, most of the time being taken up with the discussion of some matters which were not by any means the most imporatnt on the programme.

It was decided to call tenders for the construction of one mile of permanent pavement from Church to Smythe street on Brunswick street, and from York to Smythe street on Charlotte street. No estimates of costs were given by Ald. Camp, chairman of the Roads and Streets Committee, in making his motion but it was said that provision would be made for the city to supply the contractors with stone at cost from the city's supply.

The Council considered two plans for work on York stret, and decided to repair the present pavement by building it up at a cost of $12,000, rather than to spend $20,000 for rebuilding. A vote of $600 was passed to put Queens Square in shape as public playgrounds for use in 1921 and for this year Mayor Reid announced that the College Field could be obtained.

W. E. McMullen, on behalf of a delegation from the Y.M.C.A., addressed the Council concerning the matter of the civic playground. He referred to the grent of $500 made by the City Council last year, and the work which had been done with the money. The grounds still required much work upon them, and the speaker asked that the Council complete the work on the playground or grant a further sum in order that the grounds might be used during the coming summer.

J. R. Walker stated that the civic playground was a matter which was much desired by parents to keep their children off the streets and give them physical training under proper supervision. The offer of the services of the physical director of the Y.M.C.A. as a city supervisor, he stated, would cost the city nothing, but the grounds should be fixed up. This would take a comparatively small sum.

Fred J. Patterson, a teacher in the Fredericton High School, emphasized the value of teamplay, outlining a few of its good results, and stated that for such play during the coming summer the completion of the civic playgrounds was practically a necessity.

Mayor Reid stated he thought it would be possible for the Playgrounds Committee to obtain the use of the College Field to relieve immediate needs for a playground.

Ald. Wilkinson presented the report of the Secretary-Treasurer of the Civic Playgrounds last year. The report showed a balance on hand of $64.64 deposited in the Canadian Bank of Commerce, with an account against the same standing.

Mr. McMullen thought the work proposed would cost about $400, but he suggested the matter be left to the City Engineer to look over the ground and report to the Council.

Auditor's Report.

The report of expenditures during the past month was as follows.

Water	$4,510.39
Fire	3,910.56
Roads and streets	3,583.22
Contingencies	426.78
City Hall	250.24
Street lighting	867.54
Justice	635.44
Sewerage	133.48
Wharves	2.40
	$14,320.05

The report of Ald. Baxter for the Municipal Home showed that the total expenditure for the past month was $410.12, of which $70.55 was the expenditure for the outdoor relief. A cheque was ordered issued to the Commissioner of the Home for $300.

The report of the Finance Committee on tax collections was as follows:

April, 1920	$2,554.41
April, 1919	2,735.14

Special Committees.

Ald. Camp, seconded by Ald. Wilkinson, moved that the Roads and Streets Committee be instructed to proceed with the necessary repairs on York street between Brunswick street and the C. P. R. station.

The matter of repairing was discussed, Ald. Baxter asking if the whole street would be torn up. Ald. Wilkinson stated that whatever tearing up for repairs was necessary would be done.

Ald. Young stated that the Roads and Streets Committee had decided it would be advisable to put two blocks of permanent work down this year and have the remainder of the street repaired. The matter of the extension of St. John street, he said, should be considered, as ratepayers were clamoring for the extension. He explained the situation carefully and asked the Council to consider the matter.

Ald. Wilkinson asked if it were advisable to extend St. John street. Many dead-ends to streets were being made and he thought the City Engineer should give his judgment in the matter.

Ald. Young stated he was only right that St. John street be extended.

City Engineer McDowell stated that a committee had been appointed to look the situation over, and only one member had done so. The city byelaws did not provide for the expending of any money on the Graham property, but the street in question could be extended.

Ald. Young stated the city plans showed that the extension of St. John street with a full width street had been provided.

Mayor Reid thought the City Council ought to look over the matter, as they had concerinng the York street extension, and Wednesday evening, May 12th, was named as the time of meeting. He thought that, with regard to the other matter, it could be done by blocks, according as the expense mounted up.

Ald. Wilkinson thought the curbing for the York street improvements could be classified under permanent work. He stated he would sooner see two blocks of permanent work like that on Charlotte street put on York street than the whole street repaired. Personally, he thought the City Engineer should be given a free hand. He further stated that a promise had been given the citizens of Fredericton that the streets would have permanent paving, and it would be a violation of that promise if the permanent streets money were used for repairs.

In response to a question by Ald. Wilkinson, the City Engineer stated that York street, with permanent paving, could be made the best street in the city.

In reply to a question by Ald. Camp he stated the sides of the street would make a suitable foundation for rebuilding without touching the crown. This, he said, might last a short time, but where the old and new material met it would soon show wear.

Mayor Reid asked the Engineer if, with permanent paving, Charlotte street were good for twenty years, would York street be good for ten years' wear. On being assured that this was true, the Mayor asked what would prevent half being charged to permanent streets and half to current revenue.

Ald. Wilkinson said the Council should not expend funds from the sale of bonds for anything which would not live out the life of the bonds. If the tarvia street would not last, it was up to the Council to get some other material that would.

Ald. Young agreed with Ald. Wilkinson, but could not determine which was the better policy to adopt, to spend $12,000 in repairs or $22,000 in permanent paving.

Ald. Camp stated that he would prefer to see the street remain as it was rather than see the city expend more money on it than they should.

Ald. Baxter wanted to know how far the city expected to go in the matter.

Ald. Cain asked what portion of the bond issue was available and Mayor Reid stated the whole amount of $200,000 was available if it were found necessary.

Ald. Hall said that as York street was laid down some years ago and charged to capital account he could not see why it should be done again. The expenditure, he stated, seemed liable to take up the appropriation for the whole city and he advised that it be done block at a time on York street.

Ald. Jennings moved an amendment to the motion by Ald. Camp, which was seconded by Ald. Hall, that the roads and streets committee be instructed to proceed with the necessary repairs on York street, between Brunswick and Charlotte, as suggested by the city engineer, by filling in the sides, building a new curb and repairing the centre or crown of the street. The vote being taken the amendment was carried, Ald. Baxter, Jennings, Hall, Young and Cain voting in favor. Ald. Cooper and Neill were absent.

Petitions Discussed.

A petition from the ratepayers at the West End of the city was received asking that the City Council retain the lots which they had been about to lease to Gordon Scott along the river front and use them for their original purpose of beautifying the city. On motion it was decided that it was too late to take any action, as disposal of the lots had already been made, and the petition was received and filed.

A petition from the Motor Sales Co. asking for curbing from Queen street along Campbell street to the end of the Motor Sales Company property was read.

Ald. Wilkinson suggested that the petition be referred back to the company to take up with the other property holders and work together on a fifty-fifty basis with them and the council. On the sugestion of Mayor Reid Ald. Wilkinson moved that the matter be referred to the roads and streets committee, who would endeavor to have all property owners interested unite in the matter.

Ald. Wilkinson moved that City Engineer McDowell be empowered to communicate with the N. B. Telephone Company and notify them that any underground conduit proposed on York street from Brunswick to George street and on Brunswick street from Regent to York streets should be done as early as possible.

Vote for Playgrounds.

Ald. Wilkinson, with reference to the petition of the playgrounds committee, thought that an appropriation ought to be made by the council for the completion of the grounds.

Ald. Baxter suggested that this year there be five aldermen appointed on the committee instead of two.

Ald. Camp stated that plowing, fertilizing, grading and seeding would be necessary, as there was no grass at all. He had never seen grass grow on sand and he said it was impossible to have the Queen's Square fixed up as a playground for the citizens this year. The cost, he estimated, would be $700 or over. He said he would support any reasonabale amount for a city playground during the present year.

Mayor Reid stated that the man who had the contract had been handicapped in mor ways than one. The matter of securing the College Field had been taken up by him with authorities and he had beeen assured of the use of it provided it was not violated.

Ald. Young wanted to know if any development proposed by the C. N. R. would interfere with the Queen's Square proptrty.

Ald. Camp moved, seconded by Ald. Baxter, that a committee of five members of the City Council take up the matter immediately, acting with the citizens' committee of three, in preparing the playground for sports and games in 1921. The city engineer was placed on this committee and Ald. Hall, Cain, Camp, Baxter and Jennings are named by the mayor as the committee.

Ald. Young moved that $500 be granted to the playgrounds committee for the work. An amendment was moved that the sum be made $600 and carried.

Ald. Wilkinson gave notice of a motion amending the city by-laws with reference to the running at large of domestic animals and fowls through the streets of Fredericton. He stated that it was a source of great inconvenience to people having cattle, which were being driven through the city streets, cross their lawns, in many cases cutting them up, and further stated that this amendment provided for the leading of or hauling of bulls through the streets. The cattle being led or driven through the streets would have to be in charge of competent drivers.

New Secretary for Housing Commission

The City Council last night appointed R. H. Simonds, secretary of the Board of Trade, as a member of the Housing Commission of Fredericton, replacing Rev. D. W. Roberts, who will not return to this city.

R. R. Beebe, a returned soldier, made application to the Council for the combined positions of secretary-treasurer of the Housing Commission and Building Inspector, at an annual salary of $1,800. Mr. Simonds' appointment was made on motion of Ald. Wilkinson, seconded by Ald. Hall, and it is understood the commission will appoint him as their secretary-treasurer.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE

Capetown, Union of South Africa, May 5.—The House of Assembly yesterday passed a resolution favoring the extension of the parliamentary franchise to women.

Some men haven't sense enough to do the best they can.

British Columbia Woman Speaks Plainly.

Her Message is to Everyone.

Those who have found relief are the people who want all sufferers to know what they gained from their experience.

Mrs. B. Walters, of Savona, B.C., writes, praising Gin Pills for the immediate relief given by these splendid Pills. Mrs. Walters says:—

"I advise people who have not used Gin Pills to try them. I have been troubled for years with weak kidneys, and one box of Gin Pills cured me. I recommend them as an absolute and reliable cure."

Derangement of kidneys or bladder is so very serious that, at the first sign of pain in side or back, treatment with Gin Pills should begin. The duty of the kidneys is to cleanse the blood. If weak or inactive, uric acid and other poisons and waste are carried to the joints and muscles, causing inflammation, rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, lumbago, constant headaches, dizziness, floating specks before the eyes, gravel or stone in the bladder, general debility and lassitude. If you have any of these symptoms, get Gin Pills at once. Free sample on request. At druggists or dealers, 50c a box. Money refunded if not relieved.

BUSINESS AND CREDIT.

The May number of the Monthly Letter of the Royal Bank of Canada says: "The expanded state of credit "has become a matter of concern in "many countries. In January the "Federal Reserve Board raised its "rediscount rates from 5 to 6 per "cent. Increased rates reported this "month include the Bank of France "from 5 to 6, the Bank of Bombay "from 7 to 8, the Bank of Sweden "from 6 to 7, and, on April 15th, the "Bank of England rate from 6 to 7 "per cent.

"Business in Canada has continued "on such a scale that credit resources "have been heavily taxed to carry out "the necessary financing. The hesi-"tation in making purchases, which "was reported at times during Feb-"ruary, and early in March, has dis-"appeared. It could never become "widespread unless basic conditions "were changed, and general supply "more nearly equal to demand.

"In foodstuffs, with the notable ex-"ception of sugar, general prices have "not risen recently, and business has "not been active. But in most manu-"facturing industries, especially the "steel, textile, and affiliated trades, "prices are rising, and heavy unfilled "orders are on the books. In general, "further prosperity is indicated for a "period whose length no one can "determine. Conditions of this sort "are dangerous in the extreme, un-"less the situation is carefully "handled. Rising prices mean large "and easy profits. Attracted by these, "new enterprises are launched, some, "probably, without the foundation "which will enable them to earn divi-"dends in ordinary times. Undue op-"timism induces over expansion, and "caution is required to keep many "businesses from getting themselves "into a position where they cannot "withstand the period of smaller "sales and falling prices, which has, "in the past, always followed hard "on the years of prosperity.

"The reaction would never be so "severe if credit had been wisely used "and reasonable economy observed. "In a time like the present, when "loans are high and further expan-"sion undesirable, the credit which "can be safely created is little more "than sufficient to provide for the "financing of established business. "The demand for loans for specula-"tive purposes or new enterprises "must give way before the needs of "the existing productive and distribu-"tive industries, on which, in the final "analysis, the prosperity of the "country is based."

PROVINCIAL RIGHTS.

In view of the unwise movement to have all powers superior to the legislation of Canada centered in Canada, and not subjected either to stipulations in the B. N. A. Act suggesting any exercise of power on the part of the Imperial Parliament, demands on the part of some of the provinces are not unnaturally following for the excision of the power of the Dominion Parliament at Ottawa to express its acceptance or veto on any legislation passed within a province. In these days of unrest and thoughtless agitation, strange movements follow in rapid succession.

This may be among the questions which will be brought forward for discussion at the conference proposed for the consideration of amendments to the constitutional law of Canada. There are those in British Columbia particularly who hold to the belief that the representatives of their province at that conference should urge against the power of disallowance by the Dominion of provincial legislation.

Surely they do not pretend to suggest that the Dominion shall not reserve to itself the power to adjudicate upon laws and measures taken within its own boundaries in the name of provincial legislation. If that inclusive power were granted to the provinces there might, as the Winnipeg Telegram points out, not be any limit to which they might not enact wrecking and disastrous legislation. Although they now hold wide powers of legislation within their own confines, it is not inconceivable that they could legislate so as to be a detriment to other provinces and against the people of other provinces, and even adversely to the common interest of minorities within their own provinces.

An ingenious reason is given for pressing the demand for the abrogation of the Dominion's power of disallowance, which, it may be claimed, is not issued as a governmental function, but as a legal ruling coming from the Department of Justice. The Victoria Times sets forth this contention:

Surely, when interested private corporations are influential enough to persuade or force the Ottawa government to disallow provincial legislation, whose constitutionality is beyond doubt, merely on the ground of their own selfish expediency, it is time to limit that power to a very definite minimum, if not abolish it altogether. It would be in order, we think, for our attorney-general to get in touch with the attorneys-general of the other provinces with a view to united action on this important point.

THE ANTI-CANADA MOVEMENT.

Montreal Star: "Good educational "facilities are of universal benefit. A "weak educational system works uni-"versal injury.

"The underpaid teaching profession "means an educational system stead-"ily growing more inefficient. Against "that backward movement no national "power can prevail. And the whole "population is involved inextricably "in the consequent lowering of social "and political standards."

THE ELECTRIC RAILWAY.

The electrification of the Canadian railway systems may become something of a political issue. The idea has had control of the Ontario public mind, dominated from Toronto, for years. Certain municipalities have committed themselves to the financing of hundreds of miles of new track, most of it through territory already provided with facilities equal to their wants, and at a cost estimated at as much as $200,000,000. The facts about the progress of electrification of steam railways in America are widely known, points out an exchange. The possibility of applying electric power in the operation of railways has been recognized from the start. Thirty years ago Henry Villard, projector of the Northern Pacific system, thought the substitution of electricity for steam haulage would come within a comparatively short time. The most that can be said is that a slight beginning has been made towards the realization of his dream. Electric power has supplanted steam and other traction in the case of city and suburban services. In some cities it has been applied to terminal services, as in New York, where conditions are peculiar, and, in a smaller way, in Montreal. It is making its way on longer lines. The British Columbia Railway has some 360 miles of track electrically operated. For some years this was the longest non-city electric line in America. The distinction has now passed to the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, which, with a new division opened last month, has now over six hundred miles of electrically operated line, much of it in mountainous regions, where, in cases, grades of 2.2 per cent. have to be overcome. The first electrified section of 440 miles stood the test of the heavy traffic period of 1917-18. The advantages of electrification are various. One is that coal is saved through the substitution of electric for coal-burning locomotives, and the carriage of fuel for the use of the roads is cut to a minimum. It is claimed, too, that trains are handled more expeditiously by electric than by steam locomotives. At least in some parts of the country the process of electrification may be relatively rapid. Of over 250,000 miles of railway in the United States, however, aside from terminals where conditions are peculiar, not one per cent. of the general trackage is equipped for electric haulage. The steam locomotive is the general reliance, and on new as well as old systems. This is not because of any prejudice on the part of those who manage the great land transportation systems. The men who grasp at every new thing that promises economy or increased efficiency in the operation of their properties would electrify their systems as readily as they would double-track them if they saw the advantage in the process and could get the money. Such electrification as has been done is the result of their experiments. It is promising of greater things.

The Labor members of the Ontario Legislative Assembly were quite consistent in their demand for an increase in the sessional indemnity; but when the Premier refused to yield, they did not "strike," not one of them resigned his seat, not one gave notice of his intention to resign if his terms were not complied with within a given time. The sessional indemnity is now $1,500. Premier Drury said positively, no further increase; and, notwithstanding the high prices of coal, cheese and silk shirts, the labor representatives concluded to abandon their demand and to get along with $1,500 for a forty-five or fifty days session.

The Liberal Press now says that the condition of Sir Robert Borden's health is such he will not be able to resume his duties as Premier; that Sir George E. Foster will likely be named as Sir Robert's successor. This is interesting but not authoritative.

DENTAL BILL IN THE N. S. LEGISLATURE

Aims at Preventing Unregistered Dentists From Practising in Province

Halifax, May 4.—At the sitting of the House of Assembly today a lively debate was caused by the Dental Bill. This bill, which will prevent the practicing of unregistered dentists even in offices controlled by registered dentists, was reported by the Law Amendments Committee and the three months' hoist was suggested. Mr. Faulkner, its sponsor, moved that it be sent to the committee of the whole, and Mr. Chisholm, its chief opponent, moved a series of amendments which would have nullified its effect. Many members spoke, the majority of them supporting the bill, which is backed by the Nova Scotia Dentist's Society, and Mr. Faulkner's amendment carried.

The Stock Market

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York (Wall Street), May 5.—A confident tone accompanied the opening of today's stock market session, although trading was again in relatively light volume. General Motors was the outstanding feature at an advance of eight points. Yesterday's favorite issues, particularly the independent steels, also Baldwin Locomotive, Atlantic Gulf and International Paper were one to three points higher, with moderate gains among oils. The request of the railroads for increased freight rates, which would add more than a billion dollars to their revenues, was reflected in the strength of Pacifics Grangers and Coalers.

MONTREAL K. OF C. HAILED TO COURTS

Montreal, May 4.—A despatch to La Presse from Ste. Scholastique states that the action against the Knights of Columbus, St. Jerome Lodge, for illegal imprisonment taken at the instance of Joseph Fortier, prothonotary of the superior court of St. Scholastique, which was announced yesterday as having been put off to next Monday, will possibly be postponed to May 17. Mr. Rortier, according to La Presse, has announced his firm intention of continuing the action. Meantime La Presse interviewed Narcisse Forest, notary of Ste. Scholastique, who has given further details of the initiation, which is the cause of the action. Mr. Forest said that it occurred on Sunday evening, of March 21, and that a party of 52 men were shut into an eight by ten room which was heated to the temperature of a Turkish bath. One of the party, Clement Fortier, son of the plaintiff, lost consciousness, and Mr. Forest claims that cries for help went unanswered.

FROM THE PEOPLE

THE SOLDIER'S BONUS

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—In my former letter I endeavored to show your readers that Canada has already dealt generously toward her soldiers, pointing out that in the majority of cases the returned man is living better than he did before the war, and would show poor patriotism by demanding a cash bonus, when he must know at what a disadvantage this country would be placed thereby. A sour-minded individual signing himself P. Jeffrey takes objection to my letter for some reason which he does not make public and gives vent to his spleen by hurling such epithets at me as coward, ignoramus, parasite, etc. Further he invites Uncle Ruben on an imaginary excursion with him through the war torn countries. Thanks, Jeff, I deline. I would as leave look for information in a booby-hatchery, as to dream of taking a rtip, imaginary or otherwise, in your elevating company. If it would not inconvenience you too much I would really like to know what was the big idea behind that letter. One would think to read the heart-rending descriptions and the bitter invectives hurled at me, that I was the cause of the war. Surely he cannot think that a peace loving son of the soil would be in league with the Kaiser.

We all have heard many times, of those terrible scenes of the Great War. Have not our sons been through them? But, thank God, those days of which Mr. Jeffrey speaks so bitterly are past, and Canada has done her best towards compensating the returned ones and caring for the dependents of those who will never return.

I could, if I wished, tell harrowing tales also, of men gasping out their lives in lumber camps, crushed to death in mills, starving, freezing to death in a hopeless search for gold in the land of the north, their last moments made more terrible by the thought that there would be no one to care for their loved ones; not for their wives the honor of being a war widow with a monetary compensation. No. Indeed, I have known the wives of these unknown men who died working for their country as well as any soldier, to go out scrubbing, washing, year after year, some leaving babies at home in the care of other babies a few years older than themselves, all half starved, all in rags. No Government assistance for her. She would laugh if you mentioned it to her, that is, if she was not too heart broken to laugh.

Please do not think by this that I am averse to the paying of war pensions for those really disabled, and for widows and orphans this country cannot do too much. But I most emphatically object to the indiscriminate paying of pensions to a lot of young fellows who are as capable of earning an independent living as anyone in Canada. Such trivial ailments as defective hearing, a heart that flutters occasionally (usually when work is in view); others have a pain in the side. But I have noticed that when these same young chaps were invited on a hunting or fishing trip, they apparently left their ailments behind them. I know of one fellow who proudly claims that he is a pensioner, who must spend the most of his monthly allowance on silk socks; another thinks nothing of buying ten dollar "teddy bears" for his kiddies; such bric-a-brac as pianos and victrolas are as common with them as the flowers of May. Now it is a crying shame and a scandal that such doings as these should be allowed to continue and no apparent effort made to separate the chaff from the wheat; we are continually exhorted to economize while among us are some who have meaning to economize on. A ten dollar teddy bear would almost buy a barrel of flour for some poor, deserving family who are being taxed to put silk stockings on the feet of a lot of mollycoddles.

Now, Mr. Jeffrey, to return to you, my bumptious young friend. You accuse me of not fighting fair, by not signing my name. In the first place, I have no intention of fighting; I am merely stating facts. Why you should object to hearing them I do not know or care. The better class of soldiers themselves admit that it would lower their self-respect to accept a further cash gratuity from the Government and, as my opinion as expressed above is in common with that of the countryside in general, I cannot see how my name should interest you in the least. You might write Bo-Peep or Simple Simon at the end of your epistle, and it would arouse no curiosity on the part of

Yours,
UNCLE RUBEN.

RED TAPE AND DELAY

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Having noticed in a recent issue of The Gleaner complaint by a returned soldier, I beg to concur with my comrade re unnecessary delay in Government departments, especially in the Soldiers' Aid Commission, Employment Bureau, Soldiers' Re-establishment. They advertise what they do, but in reality, more than sixty-five per cent. is left undone.

I am not surmising, but stating what I know to be facts. I realized what a humbug and a farce the whole thing was months ago, and although I am not in a good position I would prefer to starve than be obligated by the Government or to the Government. The degradation, red tape and delay are not worth the paltry result attained.

Justice is, I am afraid, a thing of the past. To use vulgar parlance, anyone with "pull," even if he has the brains of an ass, will, or can get a good position, but however smart you may be, provided you lack influential friends to help you will travel the rough and long path to success.

Yours,
JUSTICE.

LET THE CLOCK ALONE

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—What do you think of this camouflaging early rising by, in other towns, calling it "daylight saving?" Must even the forces of nature be tormented? We cannot change them to conform to clocks?

Why do they not rise an hour earlier and let the clocks alone?

Yours,
BILL.

The New England Lumber Market

Boston, May 4.—Except for a brief space after the landing of the Pilgrims, the need of dwelling houses in this country has never probably been so urgent as it is at present. Young people just married, whose means in normal times would permit them to live in small but comfortable flats, are now being compelled to make one or two rooms answer the purpose of several, and great of course is the resulting discomfort. Even well-to-do people are not much better off for they get notices every month now and then that the landlord has sold their abiding place, and they must therefore move to some new residence, a feat they are not infrequently quite unable to accomplish, and so are obliged to live in hotels.

Notwithstanding all this urgent need of houses, there are few being built. Some people simply have not the money and others think the cost of construction is so much higher today than it will be in a year or two hence that they have decided to muddle along for a time as best they can. As the inevitable consequences, the demand for dimension spruce from retailers in and near Boston is on the quiet side, although no one today for any ordinary schedule is attempting to get over $55 base. There is a rumor indeed that even $65 has been shaded once or twice, but of this there is no satisfactory evidence. When business is a little quiet there is often more or less gossip.

Random.

There is so little random being offered by New Brunswick manufacturers that to many observers it seems as though prices ought to be higher. As a matter of fact, however, it is still quite possible to buy at the figures quoted last week, but for how much longer this will prove to be true is a question. People willing to shade $55 for desirable narrow lumber are constantly becoming harder to find, and several firms are holding out for higher prices. A good salesman with nice lengths to offer ought to be able to obtain $55 without difficulty. For 2x8 $57 is being obtained not infrequently and $58 is not unusual. In 2x10 and 2x12 there continues to be very little business, and quotations are hard to furnish. Those below are believed to be as accurate as circumstances will permit at the present time.

Boards

The demand this week is not active but the supply of all Northern and Eastern boards, dry enough to ship, is still very light and prices keep firm. For clipped hemlock of eastern makers the price is $55, but of random lengths there continues to be sales at $50 and thereabouts, which seems odd, but there of course are days of peculiar happenings of all sorts. For random spruce covering boards 5 in. and up wide, 8 ft. and up long and planed one side, the recognized quotation is $55. Retailers are not tumbling over themselves to buy at this but it is certainly hard and probably impossible to purchase anything satisfactory for less. For matched spruce boards the range remains as it was. Stock must be very fancy to bring the higher figures quoted. It is thought that not more than a moderate spurt in building would be required to send prices higher.

There is nothing sensational about the demand now. The retailers at western points who contributed so much to the news not long ago are no longer buying liberally and the yardmen in New England are not doing so. Prices nevertheless keep at a very lofty level. For 1⅝-inch $16 is still quoted with success and for 1½-inch $15 continues to be asked. There are stories, however, of some quite recent transactions in 1½-inch at $14.50. About the prospect opinions differ widely. Faith in the maintenance of the present level is not quite so strong as it was, however.

Furring.

A man wanting to sell 2-inch furring would probably waste time today if he quoted over $54. The demand is not at all brisk.

Shingles.

The interest in shingles is not so keen as it would be if in the building trades normal conditions prevailed. There is some business passing every week. However, hope of improvement is strong in some quarters.

For the white cedars the tone of the market keeps steady. Desirable brands of extras continue to command $9 and the regular quotation for clears is $8.50.

Clapboards.

There has not been anything new to note of the spruce clapboard situation this week.

Box Boards.

For square edge pine box boards the demand is really active and as much as $55 and in a few instances even $60 has been paid. The lumber bringing this high price, however, would really grade box and better. It would not be very hard probably to select from it some No. 3 barn. For the round edge the inquiry continues to grow and for desirable stock the range of price today on a Boston rate of freight is $35 to $36.

The prices for lumber immediately following are those at which retailers can buy of the wholesale trade. Spruce prices refer to lumber 8 to 20 feet in length. For every two feet or fraction of two feet over 20 feet $1 is added when the sale is of dimension lumber.

CANADA NAVAL POLICY DISCUSSED

Halifax, N. S., May 4—The Daily Echo will say today:

"Things are in an unsettled state at the Halifax dockyard and there seems to be an element of uncertainty among the employees as to the future. A number have left to take other situations in view of the orders to close the yard. It was reported that a former official of the yard, a well known Halifax man, was to return here in conection with the situation, but later advice is to the effect that he is to remain at Ottawa. Several officials of the yard have been at Ottawa, but there is no announcement there of any change in the situation. A story that has leaked out from Ottawa, however, puts a new face on the whole naval policy matter. According to this story Jelicoe's overseas naval programme is to be caried out by the Canadian Government and Canada is to have a modern navy comprising battle cruisers, destroyers, etc. to be the gift of the British Admiralty. This is credited to a statement made privately by the Minister of Marine.

"It is stated that the recent order of the Government that the naval stations and dockyards go out of commission and the officers and employees be discharged appears now to be a camouflaged method to allow of the introduction of a new naval programme with a clean slate. The Minister is reported as saying that he has tired of the philandering and criss-crossing going on in connection with the Jelicoe programme and is taking the matter wholy into his own hands. Great Britain will be asked for a gift of battle cruisers, destroyers and other craft as a nucleus for a new Canadian navy, the dockyards will be re-established and the navy manned by young officers trained in the late war. Canada did not reject Jelicoe's plan entirely, as stated in the British House of Commons. The plan will be adapted to Canada's needs and the officering of the dockyards at Halifax and Esquimalt, as well as of the ships will be new.

"Captain Hose, late superintendent of the Halifax dockyard, has been in Esquimalt in conection with the new programme not yet officially announced and shortly will sail for England where he will consult with the British Admiralty concerning concrete methods of carrying out the new Canadian naval plan, and will return as commandant of Canadian naval dockyards and stations. Word has been sent by relatives on the "inside" to young Canadian officers serving in the Imperial Navy of the new programme, with the advice that they seek discharge therefrom or transfer to the Canadian Navy, wherein chances of promotion will be much better."

A new broom sweeps almost as clean as a straight flush.

HELD THE INDIAN COOLIES AT BAY

Sydney, N.S.W., May 4. — Rioting and fierce fighting marked the strike of Indian coolies in the Fiji Islands late in February, according to advices received here. The disturbances did not cease until a government yacht arrived from New Zealand with artillerymen and Lewis gunners aboard, followed by a mine sweeper from Sydney with a force of bluejackets.

There had been unrest among the Indians for some time and they launched their strike when the islands were isolated by a marine engineers' strike in Australia. Practically all the Indians in Fiji, numbering about 60,000, were involved. They expected the aid of 30,000 Fijans, but in this they were disappointed. The strike began in January on the Rowa River Sugar Fields, where the Indians are mostly employed. The Indians in public meetings declared themselves "as good as whites" and demanded equal rights. Coolies who remained at work were clubbed by the other coolies or hideously mutilated by women with knives. The disorders were started by a false report that a white man had beaten a "boy" (laborer).

At one time the situation was critical at Suva, the capital, there being 30,000 riotous coolies inside the town and 1,000 whites, including women and children, inside it. Returned soldiers, native policemen, regular and special, and a small improvised cavalry force held the Indians at bay until the arrival of the New Zealand artillerymen. Meantime, the infuriated coolies blew up bridges, cut telephone wires, and did other damage to property.

Members of Parliament Fear Action of Ontario Will Spoil Chance of Raise in Indemnity

The Members Were Looking for $5,000, but Would Be Well Content with $4,000—Strong Agitation for Increase —Canadian Judges Also Ask for Increase

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, May 5.—The action of the Ontario government in rejecting the proposal for an increased indemnity to members of the Legislature comes as a severe jolt to our own legislators at Ottawa, who have been sedulously propagating a similar move

If the Ontario indemnity should have been increased to $2,500, a sense of proportion would have sugegsted a corresponding raise for Federal senators and members. They now receive $2,500 and want $5,000, but would be willing to cut off $1,000 for cash. As a matter of fact $4,000 would be an eminently satisfactory settlement of a somewhat precarious claim. The agitation for an increase had reached a high point and is still going strong, although it is felt that the grounds invoked by the Ontario government against a raise in the indemnity there apply in some degree to Ottawa.

The members here had outlined a scheme whereby they were willing to forego certain perquisites, including the free use of stenographic staff and the annual trunk of stationery, fountain pens jackknives and shears. The value of the proposed reduction would be about sixty thousand dollars a year; the increased indemnity would be upwards of four hundred thousand.

The high cost of living is urged as a reason for the demand, and it is conceded that there is a good deal to it, although the fact appears to be lost sight of that what is paid to members for the honorable position they fill is not a salary but an indemnity. The matter is still under consideration by the government, however, and there is a possiblity that something may be done.

An even more pressing claim is that put forward by the bar and the superior court judges, themselves in favor of an increase in judicial salaries. The average judge's salary in the superior courts is about seven thousand dollars. Some of the provinces add an extra thousand and some do not. The proposal to increase amount by two thousand, and there is a strong probability that the increase will be granted.

The amous "Dolly Varden' case has turned up again. The clerk of the Legislature of British Columbia has forwarded to the Government new legislation dealing with this cause celebre, affecting the ownership of the Dolly Varden mine. Last year the Legislature of British Columbia passeed an act which took from the mine owners the ownership of their property and vested it in the Taylor Engineering Company, a creditor of the mine to the extent of four hundred thousand dollars. The mine owners and other powerful interests in British Columbia staged a strong campaign here this winter for the disallowance of the act, but after prolonged consideration the Government decided not to take such action, on the ground that the proper place to attack the act was in the courts.

The Legislature has now replied by passing a new act, denying the parties redress in the courts or at least demanding the consent of the Attorney General of British Columbia. The whole matter is again transferred to Ottawa and there is a rather strong probability of disallowance this time. Several parties interested in the matter are now here.

C. P. BAKER, OF RANDOLPH, DEAD

Retired Lumberman Passed Away in Massachusetts From Pneumonia

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

St. John, N. B., May 5—C. P. Baker, of Fairville, who left here on April 25th to visit his son, Rev. George R. Baker, of Ithaca, died at the home of his niece, Mrs. Luck Kandell, Watertown, Mass. Mr. Baker developed pneumonia on Sunday and died Tuesday night. The body will be brought to St. John on Thursday and the funeral will be held from his late residence on Manawagonish Road on Sunday.

Mr. Baker was for many years head of the big lumber firm of Randolph and Baker, of Randolph, a few miles out of St. John, but retired from active business about ten years ago.

2200 ACRES OF WOODLAND SOLD

young man, being not yet thirty years of age, Mr. Acorn has, for the last few years, been known as a live wire in the lumber industry of New Brunswick. In addition to his duties as manager of the Nashwaak Pulp and Paper Company at Blackville he has done lumbering on his own account to a very considerable extent. Is is only a few monhs since The Gleaner told of his sale to the Fraser Companies, Limited, of some thirteen millions of logs at prices ranging from $23 to $25 per thousand. In contracting for the logs it was thought by experienced lumbermen that Mr. Alcorn was undertaking to pay too high a price; but his sale to the Frasers showed that he had his hand on the pulse of the lumber market and that his "clean-up" ran into very large profits.

Frank C. Murchie comes of a family of lumbermen, and was for some time the junior member of the well known firm of James Murchie Sons' Co. For the last three years Mr. Murchie has been the representative of the Oxford Paper Company, and has built up for that company a very large business in this province. His resignation came as a surprise to the Oxford Paper Company, and it is understed that he received very substantial inducements to withdraw it. In addition to their experience, poularity and integrity, Messrs. Alcorn and Murchie are tireless workers, and the new concern, The Alcorn-Murchie Pulpwood Company, is bound to take a foremost place among the lumber enterprises of the province.

Mother's Day.

The sentiments attaached to that day have a personal appeal to every one who feels and thinks. The significance of the occasion should therefore be "say it with flowers." Next to preaching the gospel and healing the sick, the growing of flowers is the greatest God-given gift on earth. Mother, today we come with hearts full of fragrant memories and our hands full of flowers. To you we owe everything. Never can we forget our debt or hope to discharge it.

MARYSVILLE TO HAVE TRUNK ROAD

Route Via South Devon Said to Have Been Selected—The Jitney Licenses

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Marysville, N. B., May 5.—The regular meeting of the Marysville Town Council was held in the Council Chamber last evening. His Worship, Mayor Walker presided, and the following councillors answered roll call: J. A. Stafford, N. E. Stewart, T. McDowell, M. Minue, J. W. McPherson, T. Mitchell and W. J. McElwain.

The minutes of the former meeting were read and adopted. The bills for expenses for the month were ordered to be paid. His Worship reported from the special committee that the present intention was to have the trunk road through Devon and Marysville.

On request of the town marshal, his salary was increased from $3 a day to $3.50 a day.

A grant of $50 was given to the Marysville baseball team.

The mater of automobile licenses was then taken up, and a lengthy discussion ensued. The matter of Fredericton charging a $50 license for public cars was also discussed, and it was the unanimous opinion of the council that if Marysville public car drivers were to be compelled to pay a license for carrying citizens of Marysville to and from Fredericton, that Fredericton public car drivers should be made pay a license to Marysville for driving parties from Fredericton to and from Marysville, and it was pointed out that Fredericton derived a large financial revenue from Marysville citizens.

On motion of Councillor Minue, seconded by Councillor McElwain, a committee of two was appointed to wait on the Fredericton City Council and state to them that if it was the intention of Fredericton to impose a license on Marysville jitney drivers, that Marysville would in turn impose a license of $75 on every Fredericton jitney driver who did business in Marysville.

Mayor Walker appointed Couns. Minue and McDowell said committee.

The matter of auto speeding was then discussed, and the Police Committee instructed to have warning signs posted at the different points along the streets, and the Town Marshal was informed that he would be expected to see that offenders against the speed law be punished.

On motion a labor license of $1 a month for non-resident laborers was passed, provided said laborers could not show a tax receipt for current year in any other part of the province.

A committee was appointed to wait on the Devon Council re the matter of taxes. On motion the Council adjourned.

War Veterans Incensed at Alleged Remark of Gen. Mc Lean Before Pensions Committee

The General Said to Have Referred to Soldiers' Widows as Generally of the Servant Class, Who Should Be At Work.—Emphatic Denial by General McLean

[By Canadian Associated Press.]

Ottawa, May 5.—What General H. H. McLean, M. P. for Royal, N. B., said at the sitting of the parliamentary committee on pensions is causing a great deal of controversy in Ottawa. Last night a further protest was made by the Veterans Women's League against the alleged aspersions of the General.

General McLean has also issued a statement as to the exact words he used and denying that he said that most private soldiers married servant girls.

Mr. C. Grant MacNeil Dominion Secretary of the G. W. V. A., who was present when General McLean made his statement, is prepared to sign an affidavit that General McLean said:

"Is it not a fact, anyway, that the majority of private soldiers' widows are from the servant class?"

"To the best of my recollection, those are the exact words he used, said Mr. MacNeil.

Says He Remembers Distinctly.

"I remember them distinctly because when they were uttered I asked him if that was a fair thing to say, and subsequently expressed a protest against the apparent meaning of the statement.

"No explanation was given at the time, and I see no necessity of any deletion or correction of the records."

Mr. MacNeil is also supported by Mr. F. W. Walpole, of the staff of the G. W. V. A. Dominion Command who was present.

General H. H. McLean, M. P., is to be invited to meet the Veterans Women's Association of Ottawa and to repeat the alleged remarks he made at a recent meeting of the special parliamentary committee on pensions regarding the wives of private soldiers being mostly of the servant class before marriage, who should not be encouraged to idleness, but to work where work is possible.

This decision was reached at a large meeting of the Veterans Women's Association held in the G. W. V. A. club annex.

Demand for Removal.

Vancouver, B. C., May 5.—A vigorous demand will be made for the removal of Brig.-Gen. H.H. McLean from the parliamentary Pensions Commission by the Vancouver branch of the G.W.V.A. because of the General's statement in Ottawa that increased pensions would encourage women in idleness, according to a statement made here last night by Ian MacKenzie, president of the local branch. Mr. McKenzie has wired the Dominion secretary for Brig.-Gen. McLean's exact words.

The executive of the Imperial Veterans here have passed a resolution asking for the General's resignation, and other organizations are also taking the matter under advisement.

Gen. McLean's Denial.

Ottawa, May 5—The following statement on what took place in Monday's meeting of the special committee on pensions was made at this morning's session of the committee:

Brig.-Gen. McLean—"I did not say that most private soldiers married the servant class. The official stenographer's report of what I said is as follows:

"'Most of the private soldiers who married servant girls were in that class who were earning their living before.'

"I was trying to point out that as many of the young women who had married soldiers, either before or after enlistment and were childless, were used to working, they should be encouraged to continue working, and that their pensions should be less than for the widow with children. My sympathy goes out first to disabled soldiers, or widows with families to support, and others who have lost their only support."

On motion, the above statement was incorporated in the record of today's meeting.

A Popular Vaudeville Bill

One of the best vaudeville bills yet seen here was that given at the Opera House yesterday, and which attracted large audiences. Crumbley and Brown proved one of the best blackface teams ever seen in Freedricton, while The Huntings, Hal Springford, the female impersonator, Billy Bouncer's circus and Carl Rond, the Dutch pianist, assisted by Miss Alice Callaway, made a varied and well balanced bill which appealed to local audiences and won well merited applause.

BRITISH BOXER TO FIGHT AT MONTREAL

Tommy Noble's First Fight on This Side to be Staged on May 9th

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York, May 5.—Joe Leonard, Brooklyn featherweight, has been selected to test the ability of Tommy Noble, British boxer, who recently arrived in the United States.

Silvey Burns, manager of Leonard, announced last night that he had completed arrangements for a ten round bout between the pair to be held in Montreal May 9th. This bout will mark Noble's first ring appearance since his arrival on this side of the Atlantic.

O'Dowd to Fight Tonight.

Boston, May 5.—Johnny Wilson, the southpaw middleweight of this city, will have the greatest chance of his career tonight when he meets Mike O'Dowd, world's middleweight champion. They are to go 12 rounds to a decision which gives Wilson a chance to win the title if he has the ability to do it. He and his friends think he has and some of them are going to take a flyer on the Boston lad to come through.

It is known that O'Dowd does not like to meet southpaw fighters, as he has never been very successful against them.

Wilson showed in his last bout here that he has developed into a leading performer, a worthy opponent for any middleweight in the country. Not only does he hit well with his left, but he also has a good wallop in the right.

O'Dowd will make over $20,000 this month, as he is slated to engage in four contests. For his 12-round bout with Champion Jack Britton he is to get a guarantee of $10,000 alone, while for his 12-round go with Jackie Clark, of Allentown, Penn., at the Campden Sportsmen's Club on May 11.

This Week's Fights.

Wednesday—Tommy Robson vs George Chip, Marleville, R. I.; Shamus O'Brien vs. Bert Spencer, Poughkeepsie; J. Renault vs. Bat Levinsky, Lewiston, Me.

Thursday—Bill Brennan vs. Ole Anderson, Rochester; Andy Chaney vs. Billy Defoe, Lowell, Mass.

Friday—Kid Norfolk vs. unknown, Detroit; G. Giama vs. Ed. Chambers, Biddeford, Me.

58 Innings in 3 Consecutive Days

The Brooklyn club of the National League set another record for the major lagues when they played their 19-inning game with the Boston Braves on Monday, even if they did lose by a score of 2 to 1.

That contest made atotal of 58 innings played in three consecutive games in three successive days, without a double header. The old record was 45 innings in three days made in 1917 by the Brooklyn and Pittsburg clubs. In this case, the Brooklyn team played 26 innings with the Boston Braves to a 1 to 1 tie last Saturday, jumped to Brooklyn and lost to Philadelphia on Sunday in 13 innings by 4 to 3 and then returned to Boston again on Monday to be beaten by the Braves by 2 to 1 in 19 innings.

The box score of the 26 inning game proved of so much interest to the fans that the complete record of the 19 inning game is now given:

SCHANG AGREES TO JOIN THE RED SOX

But Catcher and Infielder Vitt May Be Traded—Tuero Released by St. Louis

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York, May 5.—Walter H. (Wally) Schang, catcher of the Boston Americans, who refused to report this season unless granted a salary of $12,500 came to terms yesterday with President Harry Frazee of the Red Sox.

"We effected a sort of a compromise," Mr. Frazee announced. "Schang did some great work for the Boston club last season and we gave him something to show our appreciation."

Reports from New York indicate that Oscar Vitt, the other Boston holdout, who recently reported to the Red Sox, will probably be traded to the Yankees and that negotiations are now on. Schang may also figure in a trade if still dissatisfied.

CHICAGO OPERA CO: LOSS IS $1,000,000

The Cheaper Seats Sell Well But the Others Go Begging for Users

Chicago, May 4—Herbert M. Johnson, new head of the Chicago Opera Company, says the average season's deficit in Chicago is $100,000. In 10 seasons the company has lost more than $1,000,000. The cheap seats sell well, but the seats for the spenders are mostly vacant.

"It is the so-called upper class that's deficient. Our trouble is in interesting Chicago's well-to-do citizens and inspiring them to attend the opera. Chicago's rank and file have responded splendidly in the past and will in the future."

The tremendous losses are absorbed by 50 millionaires who do not attend themselves except on first nights.

A MUCH MARRIED WOMAN AT LYNN

Lynn, Mass., May 4—A Mrs. Barber was arrested in Boston by the police of that city this afternoon, and brought to this city tonight where she was booked on a charge of polygamy. The complaint was made against the young woman by Ferdinand Dubois, who says he was married to her in Manchester, N. H., on March 30, 1912. The police say they believe they can connect her with five marriages in the last eight years. She is now 28 years old.

At the Manchester marriage the woman said her name was Mae E. Kearns, and her home Manchester. On March 7, 1918, it is alleged that the woman, under the name of Elizabeth M. Kearns, was married to John L. Barber, of Lynn, in Lynn, by City Clerk Attwill. It is further charged that on May 14, 1919, the woman entered into a third marriage contract with William Cooper, of Lynn, under the name of Elizabeth Kearns.

MARY PICKFORD TO ASK HABEAS CORPUS

Questions the Jurisdiction of Nevada Supreme Court In Divorce

Reno, Nev., May 4—Judge Langan has issued an order for publication of summons in a suit brought by the State to set aside the divorce decree granted Mary Pickford. The summons will be published six weeks in a Minden newspaper. The defendants will have 40 days to answer after the summons is published, and Miss Pickford's attorney says they will take the full time on the contention that the State has no right to bring suit.

The case will be heard in the Supreme Court of Nevada within a few days. William H. Sheldon, Miss Pickford's attorney, will institute habeas corpus proceedings in the Supreme Court next week, basing his contention on the theory that there can be no collusion to confer jurisdiction on the court in a divorce because that point is not a material issue on the merits of the case and therefore false evidence on the question of jurisdiction does not constitute perjury.

The Attorney General contends that the decree should be set aside because there was collusion between Gladys Moore and her husband to confer jurisdiction on the court.

The "CAMBRIDGE" No. 1964 In Twin Pair

Made of Simmons' new Square Steel Tubing—seamless, smooth and beautifully finished.

Exquisitively enameled in the accepted Decorative Colors.

Has the Simmons patented pressed steel Noiseless Corner Locks. Easy rolling casters.

Your choice of Twin Pair and Double Width. Specially pleasing in Twin Pair.

Those Graceful, Decorative Designs in Metal Beds by Simmons Limited

In harmony with the finest effects of interior decoration to-day

IT will come as a pleasing surprise to most women that Metal Beds can now be had of really charming design—with lines that make an instant appeal to the eye.

Not until Simmons Limited perfected their new seamless tubing was anything but the most primitive designing possible. The old-style tubing, with an ugly seam running its full length, could only be worked into shapes both unattractive and limited in variety.

For years, Simmons Limited has been studying the problem of bettering metal bed design.

In order to produce such splendid models as the "Cambridge" Twin Pair, illustrated above, it was first necessary to invent a truly seamless tubing—one that allowed the designer full scope for his art.

All of the new Simmons designs are formed from Simmons Seamless Steel Tubing—a new invention that has revolutionized the making of fine beds.

Simmons Seamless Tubing is square and trim—free from joint, seam or roughness. Beautifully smooth, so that the enamel is even and uniform all over—cannot scratch, check or break.

THESE fine new Simmons designs in Beds Built for Sleep can be seen in leading stores all over Canada.

Equipped with the Simmons Patented Pressed Steel Corner Locks—free from squeak and rattle—contributing quiet and repose.

Your choice of many different patterns—and of Twin Pairs and Double Width in each pattern. Enameled n the accepted Decorative Colors, and in Mahogany, Oak, and Circassian Walnut effects.

Simmons Springs, too—

Notably the "Waldorf" Box Spring. Composed of finest oil-tempered double cone spirals, mounted on a frame of seasoned hardwood and upholstered with heavy layers of white cotton felt. Covered with attractive ticking. Finished with roll edge. A spring that really does give freely to all the contours of the body, yet supports the spine in any sleeping position.

AND some very charming Brass Beds and Children's Cribs, together with Simmons Mattresses and Pillows—all built for sleep by Simmons Limited.

SIMMONS Beds, Springs, Mattresses and Pillows cost little if any more than the ordinary merchandise of the average store.

A post card to us will bring you the names of Simmons merchants near your home.

REDUCTION OF SEEDED ACREAGE IS FORECASTED

Scarcity and High Prices of Seed Oats and Potatoes to Reduce Crop

LITTLE SEEDING HAS BEEN DONE SO FAR

Delay in the Deliveries of Fertilizer Holding Up Work in Province

A considerable reduction in the acreage of seeded land in New Brunswick this year was forecasted this morning by Hon. J. F. Tweedale, Minister of Agriculture.

The scarcity and high prices asked for seed potatoes and seed oats as well as the scarcity of fertilizers would result in the acreage in potatoes and oats being materially reduced and, although other crops would probably be about the same, the result would probably be a considerable reduction in the total acreage under crops this year in the province.

Seeding has already commenced on some of the well-drained hillsides but it will probably be two weeks before seeding operations are being generally carried on. The scarcity of fertilizer and the continued cold weather are both acting to delay seeding but larger deliveries of fertilizer have been promised for early dates. Seed potatoes are said to be hard to obtain and the prices abnormally high, while the same is true of oats.

"The whole situation impressed me with the view that the gross acreage seeded this year will be smaller than last year," declared the Minister of Agriculture.

2,200 ACRES ON SHOGOMOC SOLD FOR PULPWOOD

Maine Purchasers Secured Woodlands Owned by Edward London

A NEW PULPWOOD COMPANY FORMING

Archie Alcorn, of Blackville, and F. C. Murchie, of Milltown to Unite Forces

Indicative of the demand for all land from which pulpwood can be taken is the announcement of the sale by Edward London, of Canterbury, of 2,200 acres of wild land on the Shogomoc waters, in York county, to James M. Pierce, of Houlton, Me., and Arthur Patterson, of Penobscot, Me.

The price is not announced, but the deed has been recorded in the York county office here, and this morning Recorder Thomas H. Colter said there had been an unusually large number of transfers of woodlands in this county recently. "Americans from Maine and other New England States seem to be buying every acre of woodland they can get so as to secure pulpwood to be shipped to the United States, said Recorder Colter.

New Pulpwood Company.

The Gleaner understands that Archie Alcorn, of Blackville, and Frank C. Murchie, of Milltown, N. B., have completed arrangements for the formation of a company which will probably be known as the Alcorn-Murchie Pulpwood Company.

The company will be wholly owned and controlled by these gentlemen. Its object will be to procure all the pulpwod that can be purchased by them, both for Dominion use and for foreign export. The members of the new company are widely known throughout New Brunswick, and have a reputation extending to the other provinces of Canada, as well as to several of the States of the neighboring republic.

Archie Alcorn is a son of the late Mr. Alcorn, so long connected with the Gibson lumbering and mill property at Blackville. Although a very

Eighteen Members of Class Have War Records as Returned Soldiers

B. Sc. IN ARTS DEGREE WILL BE CONFERRED

17 In Arts, 10 in Forestry, 3 in Civil Engineering and 1 in Electrical Engineering

The Class of 1920, to be graduated from the University of New Brunswick on Thursday, May 13th, will number thirty-two and will thus be one of the largest to graduate from the institution.

Of the thirty-two graduating with the class, only twelve were members of it originally, but this is partly explained by the fact that eighteen of those who graduate next week are returned soldiers whose courses were split up by military service.

For what is said to be the first time the degree of Bachelor of Science in Arts is to be conferred, the recipient

POLES PUSH ENEMY BACK TOWARD KIEV

The Polish Troops Fight Their Way Into Skvira, in Thrust Toward the Dnieper

TWO RED DIVISIONS WERE ANNIHILATED

Cut Off From the Retreating Bolshevik Army, When Pursued by Polish Cavalry

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Warsaw, May 6.—Fighting between the Poles and Bolsheviki for possession of Kiev, capital of the Ukraine, continues day and night. In the entire semi-circle of the Kiev bridgehead, the Polish infantry is in contact with the Bolshevik infantry.

The Poles are slowly pushing back the enemy in the face of machine gun and artillery resistance.

Waiting for Ukrainians.

Paris, May 6.—Advices received at noon by the Foreign Office with regard to the Polish offensive against the Bolsheviks in the Ukraine say that the Poles could enter Kiev, the Ukrainian capital, but are waiting to permit the Ukrainian forces to be the first to enter the city.

Poles Capture Skvira.

Warsaw, May 6.—Polish cavalry, operating in the offensive against the Bolsheviki, have occupied Skvira, in the Polish thrust toward the Dnieper.

Skvira, which lies fifty miles east of Berditchev, and is about 60 miles southwest of Kiev, was a Bolshevik stronghold, protected by works along the nearby river and on the hills.

Today's Polish communique announces that the two Red divisions which were cut off from the retreating Bolshevik army last week, were annihilated.

The fighting is continuing, the statement says, the Bolshevik stubbornly defending their positions, although the Poles are making some progress.

Bolshevik Reply to Britain.

London, May 6.—The Russian Bolshevik Minister of Foreign Affairs, in his reply to the British note requiring definite assurances regarding the treatment of Denekine's troops in south Russia, has not, says the London Times, condescended to answer a plain question, but again refers to the Polish and Hungarian questions. These questions, Great Britain in the previous note said, were side issues.

BAKU WAS TAKEN WITHOUT A FIGHT

Azerbaijan Troops Made No Attempt to Defend City Against Bolshevik

Batum, Caucasia, May 6.—Azerbaijan troops which were holding Baku when that city was approached by Russian Bolshevik forces, failed to make any serious defence of the place, according to reports reaching here. Bolshevik gunboats fired a few shells over the city, but there was little attempt to do actual damage.

Two British lieutenants and some British sailors, who were captured by the soviet army at Baku, will be held, it is said, until an equal number of Turkish nationalists are released from Malta by the British.

Georgia has refused to permit Armenian railroads to obtain oil. In consequence railway traffic has been virtually suspended and the shipment of relief supplies has been interrupted. Labor unions here have announced they will refuse to allow stores of clothing, food and supplies to be taken out of the city.

Danger of the entire Caucasus region turning Bolshevik is causing great uneasiness among business men here.

Alignment of Georgia with the Bolshevik is expected soon, and there are indications that Allied occupation of this city may be abandoned because of the hostile attitude of the people. If Allied forces do not take over control here, it is believed Armenia may form an alliance with the soviets.

Conversations between Moscow and Erivan are now in progress, it is declared.

Police Confiscate Hindenburg Statute

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Berlin, May 6.—The colossal Hindenburg war statue, standing in front of the Reichstag, which after the war passed into private ownership, has been provisionally confiscated by the police.

This action was taken, it is declared, in order to prevent the possibility of disorders in the event of its being removed from Germany.

THE PROGRAMME OF LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Important Matters to Come Before the Council at Its First Meeting

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Washington, May 6. — A full programme awaits attention of the council of the League of Nations, due to assemble in Rome next Friday for its fifth meeting. An outline of pre parations for the meeting received here shows that first steps are to be taken toward carrying out such provisions of the League covenant as international disarmament, publication of all treaties entered into by league members, plans for the first meeting of the League assembly, admission of new members and many other matters.

The French representative on the council will be responsible for discussion as to article 1X., which provides for creation of a permanent commission to advise the League on military and naval matters generally and supervise action toward international disarmament, or limitation of armaments.

The British members has particular questions regarding the permanent organization of the secretariat staff of the League; the Brazilian steps toward suppressing internationally the traffic in women and children, and the Japanese member, consideration of the report of the Washington labor conference.

Budget matters of the League, including the determination of the medium of exchange, whether dollars, pounds sterling, francs or what other units, in which calculation of many are to be made in future, have been made especially the province of the Spanish representative.

HEIRESS HELD FOR THEFT OF MILK

Missing Heiress to $5,000 Appeared in Court for Pilfering Milk Bottle

Atlantic City, N. J., May 6.—An aged woman, arraigned in police court here on a charge of stealing milk, proved to be Mrs. Elizabeth Weinberg, heiress to five thousand dollars, for whom Police Judge Goldberg, before whom she appeared, had been searching for months.

Mrs. Weinberg gave the name of "Susan Smith" when brought into court. She told Judge Goldburg she had stolen the milk because she was starving. The court expressed doubt as to the truth of the name she had given, and then she admitted her real name.

THE MEXICAN REBELS MOVE ON MAZATLAN

Carranza Appears Utterly Unable to Stem the Tide That Has Set Against Him

NORTHERN MEXICO ENTIRELY IN REVOLT

Claims That Revolters Will Soon be in Mexico City Not Given Much Credence

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Nogales, Ariz., May 6. — General Flores, revolutionary commander in Sinaloa, will attack Mazatlan, the principal seaport of the state, with a formidable force in a few days, according to Americans here today from the coast state.

General Flores was said to have several siege guns, machine guns and a large supply of ammunition. While the seaport is protected by a fortress, it was said that the federals' supply of ammunition was scanty.

American citizens returning from the south declared that Nayarit was entirely in revolt, and that a large force of rebels was marching northward to join General Flores.

Carranza's Grip Weakening.

Washington, May 6.—Official interest in the development of the political phases of the sweeping revolution in Mexico has been stimulated by government reports which continue to indicate a rapid weakening of Carranza's grip.

Although any recognition by the United States government of the rebel movement other than that accorded any de facto forces was said to be improbable, it is known that agents of the state department have studied carefully the promulgated programme of the rebels and published assurances of Alvaro Obregon and other leaders of the revolt that a more friendly attitude toward foreigners will be adopted.

Official and unofficial advices agree in general that revolutionary forces are appearing with startling rapidity in almost all parts of the country and that steps toward their co-ordination are well under way. Army officers here who have been studying the situation do not agree with the optimistic claims of some of the rebel leaders that Mexico City will be taken within a wek or ten days, but they are convinced that Carranza will experience dificulty in extricating himself.

Enforcement of Laws.

Douglas, Ariz., May 6.—Adolfo De La Hureta, supreme commander ad interim of the Liberal Constitutionalist movement in Mexico, in a circular issued in that capacity, has placed the onus of enforcing prohibition and preventing gambling upon military commanders of the Liberal Constitutionalist army. The decree was published in Orientacion, the official paper of thte state of Sonora.

WATSON WANTS TO PAY THE PENALTY

California Bluebeard Has No Intention of Pleading Insanity for His Crimes

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Los Angeles, Cal., May 6.—Walter Andrew Watson, alleged self-confessed bigamist and murderer, has no intention of pleading insanity, according to a statement issued last night by his attorney, and would be disappointed if on his case there was any verdict other than one of guilty of murder in the first degree.

The county grand jury has been ordered to convene tomorrow to consider the Watson case.

LOWER PRICE OF COAL FOR WEST

Winnipeg, Man., May 6.—Prices of coal will be lowered throughout western Canada as the result of extensive developments to be carried out on the Alberta coal branch, where steam shovels will be used instead of the more costly mining process, to open a 30 foot seam of bituminous coal. This claim was made by Geo. F. Macdonald, of Vancouver, who was a recent visitor here.

A BRITISH EMPIRE EXHIBITION NOW

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, May 6.—Lord Strathcona's proposals in 1913 for a British Empire Exhibition are now to be carried out by the Government's promoting bill, which is to contribute £100,000 to the guarantee fund. The Prince of Wales is president of the general committee.

GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

Christian Scientist Failed to Provide Medical Treatment for His Nine-Year-Old Daughter.

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Newark, N. J., May 6.—Andrew Walker, a Christian Scientist, last night was found guilty of manslaughter by a jury in the court of common pleas for failing to provide medical treatment for his nine-year-old daughter, Dorothy, who died a year ago with what doctors diagnosed as nasal diphtheria. The girl had been provided with Christian Science treatment.

The jury made a strong recommendation for clemency in returning its verdict. By order of the court, the jury returned a verdict of not guilty against the mother, charged with a similar offence, because under the New Jersey law the father is recognized as "the head of the family" and responsible for the care of his children.

Counsel for Walker announced that an appeal would be taken.

SEEK COMPROMISE WITH MUSTAPHA

Turkish Grand Vizer Finds It Difficult to Get Troops to Fight Nationalists

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Constantinople, May 6.—After consultation with the entire cabinet, Damad Ferid Pasha, the Grand Vizier, decided today to send Nazim Pasha, former chief of staff, and Noureddine Pasha, formerly Governor of Smyrna, to Angora, for the purpose of effecting a compromise with Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the nationalist leader.

The efforts to induce Turkish troops to oppose Mustapha Kemal's forces appear to be becoming more difficult daily. Three thousand Turkish prisoners, who had just been repatriated from Egypt, mutinied when they were told they would be sent to Anatolia, for this purpose.

In another case, of three thousand recruits under training in the war office compound, one third drew a month's pay and asked to go home to say good bye to their families, but failed to return. The remainder are new being kept locked in the compound.

IMPERIAL CABINET OF WHOLE EMPIRE

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, May 6.—Earl Curzon, Foreign Secretary, speaking in the House of Lords last night concerning the creation of an imperial general staff, said that he thought it unwise to state a definite policy until the conference of the Dominions next year.

Continuing, Lord Curzon said:

"There will be a conference as to the relations between the Dominions and the Mother Country. There is some hope there may come out of that an imperial cabinet, not only for defence, but for other matters.

"We have to secure co-operation, not only between three services instead of two, but between those services and all parts of the Dominions. Much thinking will have to be devoted to this subject."

Lord Haldane said that the subject was urgent and delay meant serious risks.

ENJOYS FREEDOM BUT A SHORT TIME

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Montreal, May 6.—Jack Foley, who was released from jail last Tuesday, after having served one year for the illicit use and sale of cocaine, was back in his cell last night.

He was brought before Judge Lanctot on four charges, to which he pleaded not guilty, and, pending enquete, he was sent back to prison.

"SHIP OF DESERT" SENT TO BUTCHER

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, May 6.—Parisiens have the opportunity of tasting camel meat as a result of the sale of Aristide, the famous "Ship of the Desert," long the property of the Horticultural Gardens, to a firm of butchers. The animal was auctioned off and brought 1,200 francs. The cost of maintaining the camel was found too heavy to be borne by the management of the Gardens.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Boycott Starched Shirts.

Chicago, May 6. — Today marked the second day of the twenty day strike against starched shirts and collars.

The strike leaders claimed 1,800 workers in the business district joined the movement the first day.

John W. Champion, Secretary of the Chicago Chapter of the Red Cross, chief "agitator", said strikers' soft shirts might be any color except white. He added that the strikers had taken a step towards efficiency in dressing by having collars attached to the shirts, thus eliminating time spent searching for a button and attaching the collar.

Investigate Cost of Soup.

Chicago, May 6.—The high cost of soup will be the first object of investigation of the newly created high cost of living committee of the city council, Max Adamowski, chairman, said today.

The meagreness of pie slices and the thinly sliced ham in sandwiches would be the next thing inquired into, he said.

No Increase for Summer Hats.

New York, May 6.—A promise to the public that no attempt would be made to raise the price of summer hats was made today, when 1,000 male milliners assembled here for the opening of their annual convention. The milliners in their price announcement made no mention of the fall.

FRANCE SHORT OF FARM WORKERS

Government Proposes to Rent or Buy Small Tracts of Land for Such Workers

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, May 6.—The shortage of foodstuffs in France is attributed by many persons to the loss of a milion farm workers as a result of the war and the drafting of an additioial six hundred thousand more into the services of the Governmtnt and the cities.

To meet the deficiency it is proposed shortly to intruduce a bill in parliament to enable farm workers to rent or buy small tracts of land. Much opposition to it is expected, however, principaly from the socialist element, which favors a diminution or the elimination of individual property rights. The proposed measure would provide the giving of easy terms to farm workers, with preferential treatment to the heads of large families and to men who served during the war.

TORONTO WOMAN FIGHTS OFF ROBBER

[By Canadian Associated Press.]

Toronto, May 6.—Miss Aida Smart, of Mimico, Ont., fought off a highway robber at six o'clock last evening in the western outskirts of this city. The highwayman attempted to take her satchel from her, but she held on so tightly that in the struggle she fell and pulled the man down with her. A motor car arrived in time to save her from injury and loss, but her assailant made his escape.

McHugh declared that 80,000 strikers and sympathizers will be in the procession. Mass meetings of the strikers will be held after the parade, McHugh said.

SHORTAGE OF SMALL CHANGE IN FRANCE

Tag Day for Mothers at Paris Postponed on Account of Shortage

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Paris, May 6—The shortage of small change, which Parisians have almost accepted as a permanent thing, has caused the authorities to postpone the "Mothers of large families' day" set for today, and during which it was intended to take up public collections for the benefit of mothers, until May 30th.

It is hoped by that time the Chamber of Commerce paper money for the franc and ten sous will be in circulation.

Nowadays Parisiens seldom have anything in the way of small change, except postage stamps and bits of cardboard issued by butchers and bakers.

QUEBEC GETS LARGE NUMBER OF INDUSTRIES

American Concerns Seek Country Where Labor Difficulties Are at a Minimum

STRIKES CAUSING LOSS TO AMERICAN INDUSTRY

Twenty Large Manufacturing Concerns Anxious to Establish in Quebec Province

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Montreal, May 6.—It was stated at the offices of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association that they had received enquiries from over twenty large manufacturing concerns who were anxious to establish branches in the province of Quebec.

The first reason for this step was stated to be the comparative immunity of this province from serious labor troubles, which have latterly caused so much loss to American industry. These firms also desired to establish here in order to avoid the duty on goods coming into Canada.

Among the industries thus seeking factory homes in the province are Kenworth Company, of New York, manufacturing textile products, who are building a plant at Drummondville, Que.; the Canadian Jencks Company, a subsidiary of the Jencks Spinning Company, of Pawtucket, R. I., who are building a plant at St. John's, Que., to manufacture heavy fibre for lining motor tires, and the Locomotive Superheater Company, who have established a plant at Sherbrooke under the name of the Sherbrooke Foundry Company.

TORONTO BAPTISTS BACK UP PASTOR

Pastor Had Offered to Resign on Account of Trouble With the Choir

[By Canadian Associated Press.]

Toronto, May 6—Friction between Rev. Shields, pastor of Jarvis street Baptist church, the leading Baptist church in Toronto, and Dr. Edward Boone, the choir leader and organist, led to Mr. Shields tendering his resignation last Sunday night.

At the meeting last night the pastor was given such hearty support that he agreed to stay, especially when the condition was made that henceforth the musical committee should be subordinate to the committee of deacons.

This means that the pastor will have the services conducted according to his views, not as the organist and choir leader wishes.

The Message From U. S. Congressmen Relative to Irish Affairs Looked Upon as a Political Manoeuvre and Not Representative of Real American Sentiment

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, May 6.—Premier Lloyd-George will not take cognizance of the message from American congressmen relative to Ireland.

"This sort of thing has ceased to cause a stir here," an official at 10 Downing Street told the Associated Press this morning. "We long since have come to believe that resolutions and messages coming from America are political manoeuvres, and that they do not represent American sentiment. Consequently they have little weight."

Resignation of Lt. Col. Peck From the Pensions Committee Causes Sensations at Ottawa

The Pensions Committee, at Meeting this Morning, Inquires at Length into Authenticity of Statement Attributed to General McLean re Widows of Soldiers

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Ottawa, May 6—The resignation from the committee of Colonel C. Peck, V. C., and Colonel R. C. Cooper, came before the special committee of pensions and re-establishment this morning.

The letters were considered, but no further action was taken. It was suggested that in view of a full investigation of the incidents surrounding the resignations, they should now be withdrawn and also suggested that these resignations could only be made through the House, as the committee had been appointed that way.

Col. Cooper's Resignation

Colonel Cooper's letter of resignation, addressed to Hume Cronyn, Chairman, follows:

"In view of the unsatisfactory culmination of the General McLean incident, I feel I cannot do otherwise than turn in my resignation from your committee.

"I base my decision on the following three points:

"(1) Deletion of evidence from the records of the committee without authority.

"(2) Incorrect transcript of the evidence given by General McLean, (in my opinion.)

"(3) Refusal of the committee to examine the reporter and his notes to ascertain if the transcript given to the newspapers is in accordance with the notes taken by him.

("Sgd.) R. C. COOPER."

The Meeting This Morning.

The pensions committee was opened to the public this morning for discussion of Col. Peck's resignation as published this morning:

Col. Peck's letter was read by the chairman, Hume Cronyn. He said he had also received this morning the resignation of Col. H. R. Cooper. He also read a statement from C. S. Blue, stenographer, who asked to be called in reference to the accuracy of his notes on the day in question.

Mr. Blue told of taking the statement of General McLean and said the chairman had instructed him to expunge from the records all of General McLean's statement.

General McLean next morning asked him for a transcription of what had been said and he gave this as requested.

Two or three questions asked by Mr. McNeil were in his notes, but had not appeared on the records. It was not unusual to delete passages from evidence or to substitute "Mr. X." for a man's name.

Mr. Cronyn called attention to the fact that his request for deletion had been made in open committee. The witness agreed that Mr. Cronyn had not asked him privately.

Certain references to the American Red Cross had been deleted at the request of F. B. McCurdy, who was acting chairman while Mr. Bonner, of Vancouver, was giving evidence.

Mr. McCurdy said this had been the apparent wish of the committee.

Mr. Blue said it was the rule to have a resolution when deletions from the records were requested.

Col. Arthurs and Capt. McGibbon, who had not been present when the statement in question was made, asked for a transcription of the record.

Mr. Blue then read his notes, which were as issued by General McLean on the following day: "Most of the private soldiers, who married servant girls were in that class who were earning their living before."

He also read the balance of the evidence given while the incident continued.

Mr. McNeil had asked the witness (Bonner) if the majority of war widows were from the servant class.

The witnes denied this and said the western members would bear him out in a denial of this claim.

Mr. Blue said the word "who" in General McLean's evidence was clear in his notes. They had not been altered and he was not asked by any one to change them. The Chairman had suggested in committee that the deletion should be made.

Mr. Cronyn's remark followed Mr. McNeil's protest against placing these women in a lower strata. This did not appear in Mr. Blue's notes however.

Mr. Cronyn had no recollection of having made the remarks.

Colonel Hugh Clark moved that the notes, as transcribed on Monday, be extended on the records of Monday. This motion carried.

Major Redman asked the members, who were present on Monday morning, should state if this statement made by Mr. Blue was a report of what had actually been said.

Captain Powers said two members of the committee, Colonel Cooper and Colonel Peck, had questioned the stenographer's notes.

Resignation Causes Sensation.

Ottawa, May 6—The resignation of Lieutenant Col. Peck, from the parliamentary committee on pensions has caused a sensation here. The resignation is due to certain statements made before the committee by Brig. McLean and also the fact that a certain statement by the General had been included in the records of the committee.

Soldier members of the committee allege that General McLean did say "that the average wife of a private was of the servant class."

It is known that at the secret meeting of the pensions committee yesterday several officers, who served overseas, brought the matter up but it was decided to postpone discussion on account of the absence of General McLean.

The pensions committee meets at 11 o'clock this morning in secret session, when Colonel Peck's resignation will be dealt with and a lively time is promised.

Lt. Col. Peck's Letter.

The full text of Colonel Peck's letter is as follows:

Mr. Hume Cronyn, chairman on pensions and re-establishment, House of Commons:

"Dear Sir,—In view of the recent occurrences and regarding the statement of General McLean, I feel that it is my imperative duty to resign from your committee.

"While I do not pretend that my membership is of any great importance, I cannot consent to being a party to what has taken place.

'I, therefore, resign not only to protest in the name of the widows of the hundreds of brave men I had the honor of leading in the great war but as a protest against a deplorable attempt on two successive days to camouflage the incident and also in the name of common honesty and decency. I cannot bring myself to believe that actions such as have taken place are a credit to the committee or parliament.

"While there is nothing to their discredit to be described as 'of the servant class) (because it is honorable to work, and we all should work), the statement made was an invidious attempt to discredit the widows of our soldiers.'"

"I claim that the statment made by Mr. C. Grant Macneill was correct. No attempt has been made to press this matter, and had General McLean seen fit to apologize to the widows of our brave men, no further attention would have been paid to the incident.

"I regret that, according to the rules of parliament, I cannot go further into this matter publicly. I wish it to be distinctly understood that I do not wish to reflect on your committee as a whole or on your chairmanship, which has been always fair, generous and impartial.

"Yours truly,
"C. W. PECK."

LONG'S HOTEL SOLD FOR $20,000

New Owner's First Intention Is to Get Rid of Billboard, But May Lease Hotel

The Long's Hotel property at the corner of King and York streets was sold this morning by William Alken, the present proprietor, to J. Clark & Son, the purchase price being $20,000. Negotiations had been going on for a short time.

When asked what it was proposed to do with the property, which is located immediately across the street from J. Clark & Sons' head offices, W. G. Clark said: "The only thing I can say about it is that I am going to get rid of that awful billboard across the street there just as soon as I can. That is what I am chiefly interested in just now."

When pressed as to whether the property would continue to be used for hotel purposes, he said they might lease the hotel. It is understood, however, that it is the intention of J. Clark & Son to extend their warehouse accommodations.

Long's Hotel is one of the oldest hotels in Fredericton.

EDUCATION BOARD MEETS TOMORROW

The Provincial Government spent this morning with routine matters and some St. John Valley reports and at noon Premier Foster said that nothing had transpired regarding which an announcement could be made.

The Gov[illegible] day tomorrow, it is understood, a meeting of the Board of Education having been called for tomorrow. Hon. P. J. Veniot, Minister of Public Works, said at noon that a general order lifting the prohibition of motor traffic on the highways was not to be issued, as the matter rested with the supervisors of the various districts who would make announcements when the frost was out of the roads in their districts.

It was said this afternoon that an appointment to the chairmanship of the Public Utilities Commission had not yet been made, that item not having been reached on the schedule.

Archibald and Donald Fraser, of the Fraser Companies Limited, arrived in the city at noon. They said, however, that their busines was not in connection with the Government meeting.

to the question, but Magistrate Limerick allowed it. Inspector Saunders' reply was that he had, but he had taken very few drinks in the last fourteen years.

He was asked if, while he was acting as Marysville Town Marshal and tax collector, he had gotten into disfavor with the Town Council for holding back money. He replied in the negative and stated, when further questioned, that he had resigned to take up his present position.

The case was stood over until Monday morning, when another witness will be called for the prosecution.

Magistrate Limerick stated that in the case of a local Jew, who had made application for the restoration of liquor seized from him, he had ordered the liquor returned by the inspector to the express office whence it had come and had left it at that, thinking that "as a matter of honor it would be done." There had been a "serious breach of faith," he said, as the liquor still remained in the hands of the inspector, and he would now have to order the liquor returned to the court and would then make a written order as to its disposal. At noon today the liquor was returned to the court.

Former Montreal Policemen Alleged to Have Contessed Setting Fire to Small Vessel

Prisoner at New York Held in Connection With Wall Street Bond Theft, Gives Details of the Confession—Many of Stolen Bonds Sold in Montreal

New York, May 6.—A further announcement by Saul S. Myers, in connection with the $5,000,000 Wall Street bond plot, discloses that David Jos. Haines, a former Montreal policeman, has confessed that in the presence of James Kean, a former private detective, he set fire in Montreal, last June, to the Oceanic, a small vessel.

According to the confession, they were hired to burn the vessel by a "Captain Bauvais."

"Big Bill" Fuery, now in the Tombs under $50,000 bail in connection with the bond plot, testified that Kean told him the details of the plot and admitted that six weeks later he and Kean posed as detectives for a fire insurance company and tried to extort money from a man named Fitch in this city, because leaders of the plot had failed to pay $5,000 they promised for the destruction of the craft.

Bonds Sold in Montreal.

Montreal, May 6.—It was announced by brokers here this morning that it had been estimated that a quarter of a million dollars' worth of bonds stolen by Arnstein had been sold in this city. The bonds were placed with a well known firm by an agent of Arnstein and this firm quite innocently disposed of them. Six men, alleged agents of Arnstein, are being watched by detectives here.

Today the newspapers appear with a large advertisement, containing a description and photo of Arnstein, and a $2,500 reward for information leading to his arrest.

C. P. R. President Emphasizes Necessity Of Rates Giving Fair Return for Service

Illuminating Address by President Beatty at Annual Meeting at Montreal Yesterday In Which He Dealt With the Problems Confronting Transportation Co.

PRESIDENT E. W. BEATTY.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Montreal, May 6.—At the annual meeting of shareholders of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company held at Montreal yesterday, E. W. Beatty, the president, gave the following address:

The annual report of the company and statements attached which have been in your possession for some time, reflect very vividly the situation prevailing generally in respect to increased costs of operation. Notwithstanding that the gross earnings of the company were the largest in the history, and exceeded the gross earnings of 1918 by $19,391,362, the net earnings were less by $1,560,451. The large increase in working expenses of $20,960,713, following as it does an increase of $17,191,993 in the working expenses during the year 1918, or a total increase in 1919 over 1917 of $38,152,706, is a striking example of the effect of the increased cost of wages and material in the operations of a company, even one conservatively and economically administered as are the affairs of your company.

While it is a matter of great gratification that, even with those exceptional costs, your company has been able, during the past two years, to earn its fixed charges and usual dividends and a very moderate surplus, it is nevertheless important that the relation between earnings and expenses should now receive the most careful consideration. The results of the operations during the past two years show an upward trend in costs which even an extensive increase in gross earnings and effective operating economies due to heavier loading, larger power and consequent reduced train mileage, have not equalled.

Readjustment of Rates Necessary.

For the past sixteen years the freight and passenger rates of all Canadian railways have been subject to review or have been fixed by the Dominion Railway Commission. The rates have been readjusted from time to time, first being lowered and then increased; but the extent of the increase has not equalled the increased costs which have recently been forced upon all companies and reduction in which cannot with any confidence be predicted at this time. During the fiscal year ended June, 1914, the working expenses of your company, with mileage somewhat less than the operated mileage of last year, were $87,388,000, while for the year 1919 they had climbed to practically $144,000,000, an increase of 64 per cent. Within that period increases of nominally 40 per cent. in freight rates and 15 per cent. in passenger rates have been authorized by the Railway Commission. The actual increases owing to the adjustment of rates made by direction of the Board were in fact 30 per cent. in freight rates and 10 per cent. in passenger rates. The result therefore has been that during the past five years the percentage increase in operating expenses was double the percentage increase in total recorded to the companies.

Owing to the parity of conditions existing between the United States and Canada, the Canadian railroads were forced, during the war, to put into effect the high wage scale made effective under government control of the American roads, and they were also compelled to continue operating under tariffs of tolls substantially the same as those in force in the United States. These tariffs were inadequate, as results in the United States clearly demonstrated. By legislation recently enacted, the American carriers are assured of rates which will return a fixed percentage on the value of the undertakings used in the public service which will mean a reconsideration of and increase in the rates now current in that country. No doubt the necessity of rate adjustments in Canada will be given earnest consideration by the government and the Dominion Railway Board. While it is not my duty to anticipate any action which may be taken, it is only proper, I think, to say that a readjustment is amply warranted, both on the ground of the value of the service rendered by the carriers, and the cost to them of performing such service.

Railways' Part in Development.

It is further to be remembered, and I do not anticipate that it will be forgotten, that the value of any enterprise to the people it serves depends greatly upon its ability to progress and develop and on the maintenance of a high credit, without which such development cannot take place. Waste, extravagance and improvidence must be discouraged, but I can imagine nothing more detrimental to Canada than that its railway systems should be unable to keep pace in their own development with the progress of the country and that they should be unable to aid that progress by the expansion of facilities, the construction of necessary new lines, and by meeting the increasing demands of the public in the way of efficiency and comfort in service.

Based upon accepted principles in other countries governing compensation due to transportation and other public service corporations the net earnings of your company have always yielded a moderate return upon the capital actually invested in the enterprise. The railway net earnings of the company for 1919 represent only a return of four per cent. on the actual cash invested in the railway itself. The operations for the year 1919, after the payment of fixed charges and the usual preference and common stock dividends showed a nominal value of $844,249, which has been placed in reserve to meet the special taxation imposed by the Dominion Government, which special taxation ended in 1919. The fixed charges of the company are low, the interest on the preference stock is equally low and the dividends on 7 per cent. payable on common stock, from railway earnings is moderate. A factor which seems to be lost sight of in these discussions of the relations between expenses and revenues, is the absolute necessity of reasonable surpluses in the cases of any corporation conducting an enterprise as extensive as that of your company. The gross earnings of the company for the year exceeded $176,000,000, and the surplus after deduction of the moderate fixed charges and dividends, only amounted to less than half of one per cent. of these earnings. Considering the importance of reasonable provision for working capital annually from the operation of the company, if its high credit and ability to progress is to be maintained, it will readily be appreciated that the revenues during the past two years have been, to say the least, inadequate.

Fair Rates Required.

In the discussion which has taken place as to the desirability or otherwise, of increased rates, and therefore increased revenues to the Canadian railways, two theories are publicly mentioned—the first, that rates should be increased, but that any surplus earnings thereby accruing to your company should be taken back through the medium of special taxes; and, second, that rates should not be increased but that the Government railways deficits, if such occur, should be met out of the general revenues of the country. Both theories are, in my opinion, unsound; rates should be established which represent a fair return for the service rendered and under which, by efficiency and economy and the character and extent of its equipment and facilities a company can render its operations profitable.

There is no warrant for the confiscation of these profits, nor can there be anything but doubtful honesty in the proposition and that one company's revenue accruing to it from service actually rendered by it and well performed, should be taken from it to supplement the revenues of a competitor whose operations do not show favorable results. It is scarcely necessary for me to say that the fairness, or otherwise of any rate basis is not necessarily measured by the strength or resources of a company or by the lack of them.

The second theory that rates should not be increased but that any deficits should be met from the general revenues of the country is unsound economically and unfair alike to the government owned and other railways. It is obvious that any system which permits services to shippers and others to be performed at unreasonably low rates is discriminating in their favor and discriminating against the public, whose taxes are increased as a contribution to these railway facilities. In my opinion the rates in this country should be determined having regard to the cost and value of the services rendered by the companies and to the legitimate needs of the companies if they are to meet the transportation requirements of the country. No doubt a question so important and far-reaching in its effect will be given the most careful consideration to which it is entitled by those in authority and empowered to deal with it. I may say, however, that the properties of this company are in excellent condition and at no time in its history has it been better equipped to perform its important public services or to play its full part in the advancement of

THE GREAT PEACEMAKER.

Today is the tenth anniversary of the death of King Edward VII. King Edward had endeared himself to all his subjects. It was feared at the time of his death that the diplomatic control he exerted at European courts to preserve the peace of the world would break bounds once his august influence was removed. These fears were not entirely unjustified. Scarcely four years after the demise of the Great Peacemaker the greatest conflagration the world has ever witnessed broke out and deluged Europe in blood. King Edward held back the torrent while he lived, but the irresistible trend of events in the Teutonic Empires was not to be withstood when his immense influence in the councils of Europe was removed.

George V. came to the throne in troublous times, but despite the fact that he had not been specially trained for the position, he has made good in every way and has proven a worthy scion of a noble sire.

WATER POWER DEVELOPMENT.

The Provincial Government, now in session, should arrange at once to proceed, under the Water Powers Development Act, with practical work. It should not take more than a day or two to organize the Commission, and, if the reports of the former Commission and of the experts of the Interior Department at Ottawa are reasonably accurate, there should be no delay in getting actively into the work. It is no doubt true that the Commission will not be composed of men of expert knowledge of water power development; political partyism will, as things are, dominate in fixing the personnel of the Commission, as it will dominate in administration by the Commission: that is taken for granted. But experts are available, and the experts of the Water Powers branch of the Interior Department, who have knowledge of the situation in this province, are already easily within reach. If we are to proceed successfully with development in New Brunswick, we must have cheap power and cheap lighting and plenty. Private enterprise is doing something, but the demand for our finished products is pressing, and while we do not meet that demand we are not doing justice to ourselves; we are letting wealth slip and are passing the opportunties to others. The Government will be expected to move quickly, and it can act prudently while moving quickly. We need practical work; not camouflage.

HERBERT SPENCER.

The New York Sun well says that the centenary of the birth of Herbert Spencer, which fell upon last Tuesday, finds the great philosopher a living factor in the thought of a modern world. Spencer's service lies not so much in his positive accomplishments as in what he tried to do, not so much in the progress he made along the path of knowledge as in the pointing out to future generations the direction in which that path lies. It is in the inspiration of his ideas that resides his chief claim to greatness.

His demand that the evolutionary concepts be unified is an ideal so natural, so inspiring, that it has fired the popular imagination, has made its permanent imprint upon philosophical thought. That he himself succeeded but in a limited degree in effecting this unification does not matter. The task was impossible for one intellect, perhaps for one age; but other minds, other ages, will pursue the work from where he left it.

But Spencer's applications of his fundamental ideas to the practical problems of society contain so much of sound wisdom, are so illuminating, that their imprint upon the world of today has been deep and lasting. During the latter part of his life he was continually sought out by men occupying public positions, who desired his advice in solving social problems. Onoday it was an Australian seeking direction as to the employment of black labor in the cane fields, the next a New Zealander applying for enlightenment on the conflict in his islands between individualism and socialism.

The passage of time has but evinced the eternal truth of some of his concepts. How many illustrations does modern life afford of his contention that mechanical reforms, although perhaps attaining their immediate object, often introduce new and unforeseen evils, and in the end become more productive of harm than good!

ANOTHER NEWSPAPER SUSPENDS

Ottawa Journal-Press: "Another "Canadian daily newspaper, the St. "Catharine's Journal, has suspended "publication owing to the tremendous "increase in the cost of production. "And the end is not yet. It may be "that Canada was blessed with too "many newspapers; but St. Catharines, a town of 20,000 population, "has supported two newspapers for "many years, the Journal dating back "to 1859.

"The high cost of newsprint and "the big increase in wages paid to "all newspaper workers have forced "up subscription and advertising "rates; but the newspaper is still "the cheapest "necessary" on the "market. Frank A. Munsey predicts "before a Congressional Committee "that the time is not far distant "when newspapers will be selling for "five and even ten cents. Those con"cerned in the publication of news"papers, watching costs jump with "amazing rapidity, must agree with "him. Most newspapers today are "carrying a large volume of advertising; but the returns of many of "them show that, despite higher ad"vertising rates, the total margin of "profit grows steadily less. The fact "is that increasing rates cannot be "made to keep pace with increasing "costs.

"There are going to be fewer news"papers in Canada. Those that weath"er the storm are likely to become "powerful organizations; but it re"mains to be seen whether the con"centration of the newspaper pub"lishing business in a few hands will "make for the public good. Certainly "the responsibility of the newspaper "editor will become a heavy one."

The Iron and Steel Merger is getting much attention at Ottawa, probably because the proposition is a big one. There even yet appears to be a notion that men who have sufficient confidence in the future of the country to invest large sums in industry and in general development of our national resources should be treated as men whose motives are to be questioned.

Electric Commission and will be the chairman. C. O. Foss, who has been employed for several years as chief engineer of the St. John Valley Railway, is evidently slated for a position with the commission as chief engineer, and it is understood the other member of the commission has been selected, although not yet publicly named.

Mr. Foss is already actively engaged in connection with the hydro-electric development and has been carrying on investigation work for the past year or so under the Water Powers Commission, which was composed of three employees of the Government with authority to make investigations. This evenig Mr. Foss is leaving for Pokiok, where engineers will complete investigations which were commenced some time ago is connection with the development of water powers on the Pokiok and Shogomoc for supplying electric power for Fredericton, Woodstock and the St. John river valley district. Engineers are also completing surveys at the Lepreaux falls for the development there for the St. John district.

Hon. Mr. Robinson on his arrival last evening brought word that a grand jury in Westmorland county had brought a recommendation before the court advising immediate action in connection with the development of hydro-electric power by harnessing the tides at the mouth of the Petitcodiac river. This is the $5,000,000 project which was brought before the Legislature at its last session when the s gestion was made that the three Maritime Provinces and the Canadian National Railways might join in investigation and developmen work. Since then the Government have asked Mr. Foss to make a report on the matter, and it is understood that his suggestion is that before expensive boring and other investigation work is entered upon expert hydro-electric engineers should be engaged first of all to decide the commercial feasibility of the proposition.

It was said this morning to be doubtfut whether the new hydro-electric commission would be apopinted at this meeting of the Government.

STORMY DEBATE ON FRANCHISE BILL

The Principle of the Recall Brought Up by Western Member Hotly Debated

Ottawa, May 5.—The principle of the recall, involving the proposition as to whether a member of parliament should be the delegate of a class or the representative of the people, precipitated what, by long odds, was the stormiest debate of the session. Mr. Thomas Tweedie, of Calgary, who some weeks ago sharply attacked the position of Mr. O. R. Gould, when that gentleman admitted he had signed an agreement with his constituents whereby they may demand his resignation in the event of his voting contrary to their will, brought forward the matter again today in the form of an amendment to the Franchise Act providing for disqualification of any candidate for the Commons bound by any such agreement. He supported his proposal with vigor and skill, but the House, although it agreed that the principle of the recall was an evil one, declined to accept the amendment on the ground that (in the words of Sir John Macdonald) the people, if they wanted to, had an undeniable right to be wrong.

Such was the position taken by the Opposition leader, Mr. King, and by Mr. Fielding, and after Mr. Guthrie, the Minister in charge of the bill, declared in favor of the amendment's principle, but intimated that its withdrawal was desirable, Mr. Tweedie readily concurred, contenting himself with an attack upon Dr. Michael Clark that was little short of a phillipic, and frequently drew upon him the interference of the chair.

The Stock Market

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York (Wall Street), May 6.—Sentiment among traders continued confident at the opening of today's stock market with steels, equipments, oils and food shares again leading the movement. Rails also reflected improved transport conditions with shippings. Early gains in Vanadium, Replogle, Baldwin, American Car, Allis Chalmers, food products and American sugar extended from 1 to 1½ points. Firm features of the railroad division included Atchison, Rock Island and St. Paul. The further advance was attributed less to actual buying than to covering of short contracts.

FROM THE PEOPLE

STRIKE AT HIGH PRICES

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Now that the prices of food and clothes are at a very high figure and there are rumors of us all joining the overall brigade, and refusing to use potatoes, the thought comes to me that the workmen have a grand chance of showing how strong they are, against capital, and the profiteers. If the unions of all classes would call a mass meeting in the Labor Hall, and pledge themselves to abstain from buying potatoes and other articles of food that are almost beyond the workman, it would not be long before food would come down in price, as perishable things such as certain kinds of food, would have to be sold. It appears to me a little sacrifice for a few weeks now, would do the trick, and a strike against food prices would show us that it would bring better results than a strike for higher wages.

Yours,
ONE HARD HIT.

Fredericton, May 5, 1920.

SOLDIER DISMAYED

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—In Mountjoy Prison, Dublin, were confined several Irish bandits and seditious preachers. These unscrupulous reprobates are charged with various crimes from bombing and shooting to being "accessories before the fact." These crimes appear very trifling when we hear that those charged with them, who refuse to take the food offerid them, are released. If that is British justice in Ireland, how does the British justice in Canada compare with it when we daily read of loyal and honest citizens—a few of them returned soldiers—being arrested and fined "$200 and costs for neglecting to respect the wishes of a few dehydrated busybodies. "One flag" should surely mean one brand of justice. The outcome of this "sob sister" stuff, as shown towards these treacherous Sinn Feiners, is beyond the range of supposition. The incomprehensible attitude of the authorities in releasing these traitorous scoundrels is only on a par with Britain's attitude in failing to support France in her latest move against the wily Germans. What British protection is there for the loyal citizen? These anarchists and yellow treason workers from South and West Ireland will just walk out of prison and, on arrival at their stronghold, which they are pleased to call a republic will start again popping off more loyal policemen and soldiers, and so on till the end of the chapter. But this is the democracy we all fought for. I suppose we should let it go at that!

Yours,
EX-SERGEANT C. F. A.

Woodstock, N. B. May 4, 1920.

DRASTIC LIQUOR LAWS IN ONTARIO

Toronto, May 5.—Amendments to the Ontario Temperance Act, introduced by Hon. N. C. Nixon, in the Legislature today, reduce the minimum penalty to be imposed on persons having liquor filegally in their possession from $200 to $100. The maximum penalty which may be imposed under the Act is increased, however, from $1,000 to $2,000. Either a fine or imprisonment may be imposed at the magistrate's discretion. The Board of License Commissioners is given a greater measure of control over the number of prescriptions issued by physicians by being empowered to refuse to honor prescriptions issued too promiscuously. LEADING BATTERS IN BIG LEAGUES

Toronto, May 6.—In a special despatch to the Toronto Globe, Al Munro Elias gives the following summary of today's batting averages in the major leagues:

"Yesterday's games in the American League resulted in the ousting of Eddie Collins from the quintette of leading batters. He is replaced by Sisler, the St. Louis slugger, who is regarded by many as likely to succeed to the Johnson league batting crown. Cobb has not yet made his way into the spotlight.

"In the National League young Lebourveau has come with a rush and is now in second place. Bancroft of the Phillies has dropped back to fifth position and disappears from the list of honor.

"Hornsby, of St. Louis Nationals, leads the batsmen of both major leagues in the matter of total hits with 29. The following figures include yesterday's games:

"American—Jackson, Chicago, .434; Johnston, Cleveland, .406; Weaver, Chicago, .404; Speaker, Cleveland, .375; and Sisler, St. Louis, .368.

"National—Hornsby, St. Louis, .468; Lebourveau, Philadelphia, .375; Groh, Cincinnati, .359; Wheat, Brooklyn, .357, and Daubert, Cincinnati, .339."

FIVE TEAM LEAGUE IS OUTLOOK NOW

No Decision as to Eligibility of Fred McLean to Play Amateur Baseball

As far as is yet known no word has been received as to wehther Fred McLean is to be allowed to play amateur baseball this summer with the Fredericton City League. A. W. Covey, secretary-treasurer of the Branch of the Amateur Athletic Association, was written to on the question, but until noon today no reply had been received from him.

A meeting of the organizing committee of the league is called for tonight at the Y. M. C. A. to discuss different questions which will arise. It was thought today by members of the executive that the number of teams from the city would be restricted to three teams which, with the teams from Marysville and Devon-Nashwaaksis would make a five team league.

"B" Class Won Game.

At the College Field yesterday afternoon in a one-sided game of baseball "B" Class of the Fredericton High School defeated the "A" Class team by a score of 15 to 3. "B" Class broke away to an early lead and held the game from the first few innings. The batteries were: "B" Class, Jacobson and Milligan; "A" Class, McGinn and Blair. Darrel Steeves proved a very satisfactory umpire.

BOARD OF REVIEW SPRING SESSION

Two New England Horsemen Reinstated—Edna L. Still Under Ban

New York, May 6.—The board of review of the National Trotting Association, at its meeting here yesterday, reinstated Albert Delay, of Waterbury, Conn., who, with his mare, Edna L., had been expelled in 1915.

At that time it was charged that Delay had entered the horse under other names, one of which was Lady St. Claire. The board has refused to permit the mare to race again in any of the National Association events.

S. H. Lovejoy, 70 years old, of Auburn, Me., who was expelled in 1903 for starting Gerald T. under the name of Jerry L. and out of his class, was reinstated.

CARRIAGE OF N. S. COAL TO ONTARIO

St. Lawrence Canals Must Be Deepened Before It Can Be Done Economically

Toronto, May 5.—Col. W. Grant Morden, who is promoting the British Empire Corporation, left last night for Montreal, after two days in Toronto. In an intereview Col. Morden was asked as to the possibility of the British Empire Steel Corporation bringing Nova Scotia coal to this province. He replied that this would depend upon the deepening of the St. Lawrence canals.

"We can bring a ten thousand ton cargo of coal to Montreal," he said, "but we could not carry more than 2,500 tons in any ship that could pass through the St. Lawrence canals above Montreal. That would make it hard to ship coal economically to Ontario from Nova Scotia." Col. Morden said the corporation would use its influence to have the St. Lawrence canals deepened beyond the present fourteen feet.

the transportaiton future of this country.

Irrigation Development.

In the annual report reference has been made to the company's irrigation project in Alberta, the construction of which was undertaken some years ago, and in the earlier progress of which some difficuties were met. The project has become firmly established and the success has been so pronounced during the past few years that further reference to this important undertaking is, I think, warranted.

An area of 643,526 acres has been brought under irrigation through the medium of 3,969 miles of irrigation canals and distributing ditches of this area, 301,302 acres of irrigable lands have been sold at an average price of $40.18 per acre. There is still for sale within the block 342,144 acres of irrigable land for which there is at present a very active demand. During the period from the commencement of construction to December 31st, 1919, the company expended in the construction and maintenance of these irrigation works the sum of $15,186,348 and in their operation the sum of $1,761,268.

The introduction of irrigation in southern Alberta has made it possible to successfully produce on irrigated land splendid crops of alfalfa, corn, small fruits and vegetables, which are not produced with equal success under dry farming conditions. Careful statistics covering eleven years indicate remarkable increases in ordinary crops grown on irrigated land over those produced on dry lands and the wisdom of the decision to undertake this extensive project has been more than justified. We are amply warranted in the belief that the irrigation block will ultimately be a closely settled, intensively cultivated and a considerable traffic producing area tributary to the company's lines in southern Alberta. The success of the company's undertaking in this respect, combined with the obvious necessities of that portion of the country, will, I hope, lead to the extension of irrigation projects under the auspices of the federal or provincia Government, which will in the end render the danger of crop failure in these districts practically negligible.

New Rolling Stock.

As indicated in the annual report, your directors thought it necessary to make provision for the construction of necessary additions to your company's rolling stock. Since the report has been issued arrangements have been concluded for an equipment trust agreement under which the payments for such equipment are spread over a period of twelve years; the actual amount of the equipment trust issue is $12,000,000. By reason of the conditions existing at the time the transaction was concluded highly favorabe interest rates were secured.

You will have observed that since the issuance of the annual report for the year 1919 your board have considered it desirable to apply for an amendment to the company's charter which will permit the increase of the number of directors from fifteen to eighteen should that at any time appear necessary. The statute is purely empowering; amending bye-law will be submitted for your aproval in the event of it being considered advisable to increase the directorate. The purpose of any increase will, of course, be to secure a larger representation on the board from those portions of Canada in which the company's interests are especially important.

I look forward to immigration to Canada on a large scale and, while a period of retrenchment and financial conservations may conceivaby be the part of wisdom, your directors have the same implicit faith in the future growth and prosperity of the country that they have always had, and also the same confidence in the ability of your company to play an important part in its development and prosperity.

LIVELY TIMES OVER PROHIBITION CASE IN COURT

Inspector Grilled by Lawyer as to His Personal Habits, This Morning

IMPORTATION OF LIQUOR BY PROXY

North Devon Colored Man Got In Supply Which Aroused Inspector's Suspicion

Some lively developments occurred this morning in the Police Court when Liquor Sub-inspector Fraser Saunders, who had laid information in a case against a local livery stable man for having liquor in his possession other than in his private dwelling, was called as a witness and subjected to a sharp examination by R. B. Hanson, K.C., for the defendant.

Three other witnesses, all colored, were called in the case. The first witness said that while working for the defendant's brother he had been approached by the defendant who asked him if he would allow him to order a case of liquor in his name. The witness stated he had said he would not like to have this done, as it might get him into trouble. Later the matter was pressed again by the defendant, who said no trouble would be caused him (witness) if he would allow the liquor to come in his name. On being assured of this, he said he would not care whether it came or not as long as he did not get into trouble.

The liquor arrived on Tuesday, May 10th, and while he was taking it home in a team from the station he was stopped by Liquor Sub-inspector Fraser Saunders, who examined the boxes but did not open them. After leaving the two boxes at his residence he came to this city, and on his return found the defendant and another man there. The defendant took the contents of the boxes, which, the witness said, were wrapped in straw, and put the bottles into a bag, which he took away in his carriage. The man's wife and a neighbor, who were called, stated they had seen the men arrive and leave in their carriage.

Fraser Saunders was next called as a witness and Mr. Hanson's first question was if it were true that, while employed as a liquor sub-inspector, he had come from St. John to this city in an intoxicated condition, and had to be taken home in a coach. The witness said this was not true.

Asked if he stayed at a hotel one night in an intoxicated condition, he said he had not.

Mr. Hanson then asked him if he had been a drinking man. P. J. Hughes, for the prosecution, objected

SAWING STARTED AT LOCAL MILLS

Two of the Three Now Running and Season's Output Will Be 25 Millions

The sawing season at the lumber mills located on the St. John river here has commenced, two of the mills being now in operation while the third will start either on Saturday or Monday.

The Victoria Mills, owned and operated by the Fraser Companies Limited, were the first to start and Manager Glenn said this morning that the new machinery installed was working in excellent shape so that a successful season was anticipated. The stanley Douglass Limited mill at South Devon made its first cut yesterday since passing to the new control from the York & Sunbury Milling Company. An additional shingle machine, lath machine and other improvements have been made since Mr. Douglass assumed control of the mill. The Babbitt mill at North Devon, operated by W. D. Gunter, will probably start sawing on Saturday or next Monday at the latest.

The total cut of the three mills will be more than 25 million feet, the Victoria Mills cutting 15 millions and the Stanley Douglass mill about 6 millions. A new scale of wages about twenty per cent in advance of last year is in effect at all the mills.

VALLEY RAILWAY CASE TO SUPREME COURT OF CANADA

Announcement That an Appeal Will Be Carried to Ottawa Was Made Today

HIBBARD COMPANY'S SETTLEMENT INVOLVED

Present Decision Is that the Province Must Again Pay $33,000

Announcement was made this morning that an appeal would be carried to the Supreme Court of Canada in the case of the Bank of British North America vs. the St. John and Quebec Railway Company.

The New Brunswick Court of Appeal on April 23rd dismissed an appeal from the judgment of Mr. Justice Chandler, deciding in compliance with that judgment that the matter should be referred to a Master of the Supreme Court to take an account of the amount due the Hibbard Company Limited, of Montreal, to the bank for loans and advances in connection with the contract between the Hibbard Company and the St. John & Quebec Railway Company under date of May 8th, 1912, and that an account should be taken of the amount due from the St. John & Quebec Railway Company to the Hibbard Company under the contract above mentioned.

This decision in effect meant that the province, through the St. John & Quebec Railway Company, as the representatives of the government, should pay to the Hibbard Company an amount in the vicinity of $33,000 already paid to A. D. Gall, of Montreal, who is found to have had no authority to accept such payment on behalf of the Hibbard Company in settlement of their account.

Whether the Provincial Government at the meeting which opened today appoint the commission who will carry on the development of the water powers of New Brunswick under the Act to provide for the Generation and Distribution of Electric Power or not, there is little doubt but that hydro-electric development will be one of the chief questions discussed by Premier Foster and his cabinet while here this week.

Rise in Prices Predicted In All Food Commodities

British Food Minister Gives Little Comfort to Consumers

WORLD'S WHEAT CROP IS SHORT

The Production of Sugar Has Decreased to Enormous Extent.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, May 7.—The Food Minister, Charles A. McCurdy, took up in the House of Commons yesterday the present food situation. He said the optimism of a year ago regarding supplies had not been justified, and it was well that the fact should be realized. The world production of sugar had decreased 3,500,000 tons.

Great Britain should receive in the coming year 4,000,000 tons less of wheat from America than during the present year, and India's increase of 1,500,000 tons would not be available for export. Wheat prices were a most important factor in determining wages all over the world. The nations were faced with the prospect of a considerable reduction in the world's available supply of wheat, and he feared, in the absence of wise and prudent statesmanship on the part of importing countries, there would be a rise in prices reflected in every other commodity.

The supply of butter promised to be only half the pre-war standard, and he could see no sign that the world's food shortage was likely materially to improve. England must still continue to get the greater part of its imported food from America, but he hoped that by the end of the year alernative sources might be available.

No Hope of Cheaper Food.

Mr. McCurdy said there was absolutely no hope of a general fall in food prices and stated that he was frankly unable to understand why such optimistic views were indulged in shortly after the signing of the armistice.

Mr. McCurdy said that there has been twenty thousand prosecutions for profiteering in the British Isles.

The industrial triple alliance of miners, railway and transport workers decided to call upon labor and other movements to formulate a plan for the reduction of prices and to submit the same to the Government.

Press comment on the statement of Food Minister McCurdy agrees that control must continue in some form, but the London Times is scornful of the alleged present extravagant methods of the ministry with its big array of highly paid officials.

Northern Ontario Has A Real Potato Famine

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

HAILEYBURY, Ont., May 7—With the arrival of the first boat of the season here on Wednesday, the citizens of this town expected to be able to obtain potatoes, but the 200 bags on board were destined for Pittsburg, by way of Toronto.

The disappointment was so great the Mayor wired the Board of Commerce at Ottawa asking what should be done to end the potato famine here. The opening of navigation usually means sufficient supplies of potatoes for the Haileybury people, as the potatoes which are grown in the Province of Quebec, along the east side of Lake Temiskaming, are brought to market here by boat.

It is said two potato speculators secured over 2,000 bags before navigation opened, yet the people of this town cannot get potatoes.

Labor Leader Refutes Charge That Increased Labor Costs is Responsible for High Prices

Statistics Quoted to Show That the Price of Sugar Had Increased 300 Per Cent., While the Increase in Labor Cost the Consumer Less Than 15 Per Cent.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Washington, May 7.—A study of profiteering in American industry made under the auspices of the railway brothers, was presented to the Railroad Labor Board today in support of railway workers' demands for higher pay and to refute the charges that increased labor costs are responsible for the high cost of living.

Prepared by W. J. Lauck, former secretary of the War Labor Board, the study seeks to show that profiteering in industry is the fundamental cause for high prices in practically all commodities.

It gives many statistics to support that contention. Of the extraordinary increase in the price of sugar, now amounting to 300 per cent., the study says the increase in labor cost paid by the consumer was less than fifteen per cent. The result of advanced prices, according to the quoted reports of twelve companies producing over half of the sugar consumed in the United States, was pictured in the net profits of these concerns, which it was said rose from an average of $11,000,000 during the years 1912-1914 to $34,000,000 for the years 1916-1918. In the meat packing industry, where profits were said to have increased between 300 and 400 per cent., the labor item was shown so small that a wage increase of 100 per cent. would add less than five per cent. to the total cost of the meat. The increase in price between 1915 and 1918 was shown as eight times the total labor cost and the 1918 price represented 25 times the total labor item.

The Profits on Clothes.

Profits absorb approximately one half the retail price of certain kinds of cloth, the report declared, while the abor item amounts to from one fourteenth to one-twentieth of the price. Similar relations weer pictured in the manufacture of men's garments.

Shoes, according to the study, "furnished a splendid opportunity for the profiteers." The profit items in 1914, it was charged, absorbed nearly one half the price paid by the consumer, or nearly three times the total labor cost, while in 1917 the profit items amounted to approximately three-fifths of the total price and more than five times the total labor cost.

Profiteering did not stop with the armistice, the report declared, presenting figures to show that United States corporation profits in 1919 were 110 per cent. over the pre-war average, which means, the study added, that 1919 profits were more than double the average for the years 1912-1914.

An average $1,200 per family of five during the years 1916-1918 was declared to be probably a highly conservative estimate of the actual cost of corporation profiteering to the consumer in the United States.

SEEKS ANNULMENT OF HER MARRIAGE

Quebec Woman Claims That Runaway Marriage Had Not Sanction of the Law

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Montreal, May 7.—A runaway marriage between Adjutor Gondreault and Alice Lahaye, on May 25, 1912, was annulled yesterday by judgment of the superior court on the wife's petition, on the ground that both the parties were minors at the time of the marriage and had neither their parents' consent or the dispensation of the Catholic church, which would be necessary to validate the marriage.

The petitioner's testimony was to the effect that the two had run away to Fort Covington, N. Y., where they were married by the priest of St. Mary's church secretary, without bans or dispensation, and without the permission of the cures of the parishes where they were domiciled.

SAYS BRITAIN TO NEGOTIATE WITH SOVIET

British to Endeavor to Have Bolshevik Stop Hostilities in the Crimea

GENERAL WRANGEL TO BE REPRESENTATIVE

The Bolshevik Army at Kiev Continue to Hold the City Against Polish Attack

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, May 7.—Great Britain is on the eve of negotiations with soviet Russia, a Moscow wireless message today asserts.

Earl Curzon, the British Foreign Secretary, the message says, has forwarded to the soviet commissary for foreign affairs, a declaration in which direct conversation with General Wrangel, commander of the remnant of the Russian volunteer army, are proposed. These conversations, it is declared, are desired by Great Britain in order that definite negotiations may be begun concerning the cessation of the Bolshevik advance into the Crimea and British officers would participate in these negotiations.

M. Tchitcherin, the soviet Minister, continues the message, replied to the British communication with the statement that the soviet government was prepared to meet the desire expressed in that communication and enter into negotiations with the British government, or any one that government might indicate, concerning the question of hostilities in the Crimean sector, and that the soviet was prepared to admit General Wrangel, as well as British officers, to these negotiations.

Kiev Still Holding Out.

Christiania, May 7.—Reports that Kiev has been lost by the Russian Bolshevik are denied in a wireless message received here from Moscow.

"A wireless despatch from Lyons says Kiev has been taken by the Poles," the message said. "On both May 4 and 5, the soviet government authorities say in direct telegraphic communication with Kiev, which was then in the hands of the Bolshevik."

MUST CULTIVATE GERMAN LANDS

Government Declares that Land Owners Must Be Forced to Cultivate Them

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Berlin, May 7.—The Prussian Diet has passed a bill for the cultivation of waste lands by the formation of associations for improvement of the soil. The object is to enable more people to live on the land and grow food.

Premier Braun explained that the desire of the people to go back on the land and own small farms had grown enormously since the war. He estimated that there were 375,000 acres of waste land in Prussia state property and 3,500,000 acres of private property.

"By the constitution," said the Premier, "the land owner is in duty bound to cultivate the land, and if he does not he must be compelled to do so. In our impoverished condition we cannot indulge in the luxury of uncultivated land."

SOLDIER'S CHILD WAS BORN AT SEA

Some Excitement on Board the Steamer Corsican Over Birth on Board

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Montreal, May 7.—The birth of a child to Mrs. R. H. Day, of Regina, on board the S. S. Corsican, which docked here last night, while the ship was in mid-Atlantic, created much excitement. The baby was christened Dorothy Joan Corinne Ryman Day, the name being suggestive of her arrival, Corrine being a compound of the Captain's name, Rennine, and the ship's name, Corsican. Captain K. R. Davies, who was also on board, is returning to his ranch in British Columbia, which he has not seen since 1914. His last duties overseas were of the most tragic in the aftermath of the war, namely, the exhumation of lonely soldier graves in France and Flanders.

Captain Davies supervised the removal of the bodies of many thousands of Canadian soldiers from odd spots, sometimes in ditches a yard from the roadside, to properly registered cemeteries, where a cross was erected over the remains and details of the dead soldier inscribed.

CALLS AMERICAN DISHES INSIPID

French Duchess Not Favorably Impressed With Restaurants in U. S.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, May 7.—American food, as served in restaurants in that country, did not favorably impress the Duchess of Clermont-Tennere, who visited the United States last autumn, and has written a book on her trip. Americans do not consider eating seriously enough, she indicates, and are trying to "simplify the performance." The only American foods that appear to have made an appeal to the Duchess were red bananas, California apples and oranges, and "hams of Virginia."

she adds: "American butter is poor and American cheese cannot be eaten. American chickens are emaciated and scrawney, and one has the feeling it is cruelty to put a knife to them. All American dishes have passed through cold storage and are insipid."

BARRISTERS' FEES CREATED WRANGLE

Nova Scotia Legislature In a Verbal Battle Over Proposal to Increase Fees

Halifax, N. S., May 7.—Yesterday afternoon for the third time in as many days, the house of assembly devoted more than an hour wrangling over a calling. Yesterday it was the legal profession which underwent a grilling and there was a spirited verbal battle between the lawyers of the house and several members whose walk in life are not those of Portia. The debate started when J. C. Torey (Guysboro) moved that the three months hoist be given a bill which provides for higher fees for Barristers and Registrars of Deeds. It might have continued indefinitely as everyone had a great deal to say, had not the Speaker forbidden Mr. Torey to speak at five thirty because he was out of order. His amendment was lost and the bill referred to committee.

APPEAL TAKEN IN MURDER VERDICT

An Extension of the Evidence Taken in the Deforge Case Ordered by Courts

Winnipeg, May 7.—Extension of the evidence taken in the Deforge murder case has been ordered by the department of the Attorney General, according to a statement made by Deputy Attorney General John Allen yesterday, with the view of appealing the case. This will be the first instance of its kind in Canada.

The three young men convicted of manslaughter for the murder of Henry Deforge are Wm. Elnech, Harold Burdie and Harold Clements. The first was sentenced to 25 years' imprisonment and the other two to fifteen years each. The grounds upon which the case will be appealed by the department, it is said, will be that all should have been convicted of murder, because the deed was committed while the convicted parties were in the act of a felony. The appeal, it is stated, will not affect the present sentence passed by the court, but will be rather in order that it can serve as a precedent for future cases.

It is expected that the extension of the evidence will be completed in such time as to allow the appeal to come up for hearing next week.

HAMAR GREENWOOD HAD BIG MAJORITY

Chief Secretary for Ireland Defeats Independent Liberal and Labor Candidate

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Sunderland, Eng May 7.—Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland, was re-elected to parliament today in the bye-election necessitated by his recent appointment to the Irish secretaryship. Sir Hamar received 22,813 votes as against 14,379 for V. H. Rutherford, the Labor candidate, and 5,065 for W. Howe, independent Liberal.

At the general election in 1918 Sir Hamar, a coalition Liberal, was returned by about two thousand plurality over R. N. Hudson, the Unionist candidate. The Labor candidate in the election polled 9,578 votes. No Unionist opposed him in the present bye-election.

LOW TENDERS FOR HALIFAX BONDS

Lowest Price Ever Offered the City—No Award Until the Council Meets

[By Canadian Associated Press.]

Halifax, N. S., May 7.—Tenders for an issue of Halifax bonds, amounting to one million dollars, to be used for street paving, water service and other purposes, were opened yesterday afternoon by the finance committee. No award was made by the committee, which will report to the City Council at a meeting to be held tomorrow night. Only two sets of tenders were received and they were the lowest for the city in the memory of this generation.

The National City Company and Harris Forbes & Co. bid 94.11 for the ten year six per cent. bonds, but made no offer for the five and a half per cents running thirty-three years.

A. E. Ames & Co., Wood, Gundy & Co., and the Eastern Securities Company bid 93 for $250,000 of the ten year bonds and 83.51 for $250,000 of the thirty-three year issue. They stipulated that they should have an option for sixty days to take the balance if they so desired.

SYDNEY WELCOME TO WINNIPEG REDS

City Council Votes to Extend a Civic Welcome to the Western Radicals

[By Canadian Associated Press.]

Halifax, N. S., May 7.—The Halifax Herald publishes the following despatch from its Sydney correspondent:

"Without a dissenting voice and almost without discussion the Sydney city council voted tonight to extend a civic welcome to the two Winnipeg Red leaders, who are expected here Sunday to address a mass meeting of local laborites on behalf of the imprisoned strike leaders.

"It is not the intention to have the Mayor go through the usual form of extending the freedom of the city to the visitors, because there will not be time for that formality, but the vote of welcome from the city council in the form of a resolution would be presented to the Winnipegers through officials of the Sydney Trades and Labor Council."

Tore Into Ferry Cabin Occupied by Women and Then Plunged Into Sea

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Hoboken, N. J., May 7.—A bull which had escaped from the Jersey City abattoir, ran amuck on the streets of the city last night. He wound up dashing through the gates of the Lackawanna ferry house, tearing through a cabin occupied by thirty women passengers, smashing the front doors and plunging from the deck of the boat into the Hudson river. At last accounts the bull was reported lost at sea. Six policemen and a crowd of several score men and boys took part in the chase.

PYTHIAN SISTERS VISITED BY CHIEF

Mrs. Mary King, of Woodstock, Pays Official Visit to Lodge at Marysville

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Marysville, N. B., May 7.—Mrs. May King, of Woodstock, Grand Chief of the Pythian Sisters of the Martime Provinces, paid an official visit to Peace Temple, No. 12, last evening. There was a very large attendance of members present, including a number from Fredericton. The initiatory service was exemplified on one candidate. The degree team made its first appearance in their new robes and sashes and presented a very beautiful appearance. Considerable routine business was transacted, after which the Grand Chief was called upon. On rising she received a hearty ovation, it being the first time that Peace Temple has had a visit from a grand temple officer since it was organized last August. The Grand Chief complimented the officers of the Temple on the excellent manner in which they performed their respective duties, and also complimented the degree team upon its fine appearance and the splendid manner in which they put on the rank work. Speeches, musical selections, etc., occupied about an hour, after which the Temple closed, and refreshments were then served, to which all present did full justice. The balance of the evening was spent in a social manner, the gathering dispersing about midnight.

The A. F. class of Main Street Baptist church held a very enjoyable entertainment in Oddfellows' Hall last evening, which was well patronized. Johnstone's orchestra was present and rendered several fine selections. The other numbers on the programme included a solo by Mrs. J. Capen, reading by Miss Christine Stafford, solo, Miss Edith Staples, piano duet, Miss Staples and Miss Walker.

While in Marysville Mrs. May King was the guest of Mrs. Harold Fisher. She returned to Woodstock today.

James Spencer, of Newcastle Bridge, Queens county, who has been spending the past few days with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wilson, left for his home this morning.

SUGAR 30 CENTS IN PROVIDENCE, R. I.

The Fair Price Commissioner Says the Profiteers Will Be Prosecuted

Providence, May 6.—Declaring the present chaotic condition of the sugar market in Rhode Island is due to a shortage of supply and an abnormal demand for the commodity, Federal Fair Price Commissioner Addison P. Munroe today stated an investigation had been initiated in this State to determine whether unfair and excessive prices are being asked by the wholesaler and retailer.

After many conferences with U. S. Dist. Atty. Harvey A. Baker, Mr. Munroe announced that persons who profiteer in sugar in Rhode Island would be prosecuted by the Federal Court here.

For the benefit of the consumer, as well as the wholesaler and retailer, Mr. Munroe emphasizes the ruling of the Department of Justice that wholesalers will be allowed to make but one cent profit on each pound of sugar sold to the trade and that the retailer will be allowed only two cents per pound.

Sugar sold at 30 cents a pound here today, or 29 cents by the 100-pound lot.

THE LATE MRS. GILES

Funeral Yesterday Afternoon One of Largest Ever Held at Springhill—Many from City Present.

The funeral of Mrs. C. H. Giles took place yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock from her late home, Brooklands, and was one of the largest funerals ever seen in Springhill, friends going up from the city in large numbers to pay their last tribute of respect to the memory of deceased.

At the home a short but impressive service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Wilkinson and Rev. Mr. Shewan, after which the funeral procession wended its way to St. Peter's church, where the beautiful and impressive service of the Church of England was conducted by Rev. Messrs. Wilkinson and Shewan. The choir was present and sang favorite hymns of deceased, Abide With Me and Jesus Lover of My Soul. At the conclusion of the service the remains were carried to the churchyard adjoining and tenderly laid at rest in the family plot. An impressive and touching incident was the singing of Nearer My God to Thee as the casket was being placed in mother earth.

The pall-bearers were Isaac Peabody, Zebedee Estey, S. B. Hatheway, Fred Clements, F. Lister and J. P. McPeake. The chief mourners were C. H. Giles, John E. Giles, C. Montague Giles, Miss Bessie Friel, Miss Annie Whiteside, of New Jersey, Miss W. L. Robson and Mrs. J. B. Andrews, of St. John, and Mrs. Annie Sutherland, of this city.

There were many beautiful floral tributes sent by loving friends.

Gen. McLean Declares That His Remarks Before the Pensions Committee Misinterpreted

Never Intended to Say That Majority of Soldiers' Widows Came From the Servant Class—Was Always in Favor of Increasing Pensions of Soldiers' Dependents

St. John, May 7.—Brigadier-General McLean, who has been the centre of the storm of controvery in Ottawa for the last few days, returned to St. John yesterday. In explanation of his attitude and of his remarks at the sessions of the pensions committee recently, he said yesterday:

"I regret very much that my remarks yesterday before the pensions committee have been misunderstood, and that they have been will be seen by reference to the official stenographer's report of what took place. The discussion was on the question of giving full pensions to widows of soldiers, if they were without children, able to work and less than forty years of age. I never intended anyone to understand that the majority of private soldiers' widows came from a servant class, but merely mentioned girls who had been engaged in household work as typical of the large number of young, strong, industrious and independent girls who had been accustomed to earn their own living and who, if not burdened by children, were still capable of contributing towards their own support.

"As everyone knows, I always have been in favor of the soldier and his fair claims. My record on the re-establishment committee shows that, and this year my attitude in the pensions committee has been the same. I have been in favor of increasing the soldiers' pensions by twenty-five per cent., of increasing the pensions of widows with children to enable them to support themselves and their families without outside work, of [illegible] pensions for soldiers' orphan children and of larger pensions for widowed mothers of soldiers and fathers who had been dependent upon their soldier children.

"With respect to the statement regarding the soldiers' wives, with which I am charged, I can only say that I did not make that statement, that I had no such idea in my mind and that I am very sorry that my remarks have been misinterpreted. I have been closely in touch with the soldiers from the beginning of the war, and it would be impossible for any one who knows me to believe that I could have made such a ridiculous statement as that attributed to me."

NO CONCESSION TO SINN FEIN DEMANDS

London, May 6.—In a debate in the House of Lords today concerning conditions in Ireland, Baron Birkenhead, Lord High Chancellor, on behalf of the government, said it was intended to continue the policy of giving to the Irish executive all possible assistance and support. He added that in no conceivable circumstances would the government concede the demands of the Sinn Fein, and that the proposal to invite the Sinn Fein to another Irish convention was a proposal wholly out of contact with any living reality.

"The country would be well advised," Baron Birkenhead continued, "that we are faced by a body of desperate, well organized and able men, banded together to challenge British might and to shrink from no means calculated to secure what they call self-determination and independence."

Bell Pianos

The final link of intimacy and happiness in every home is music, and a good piano is music's best interpreter. Within the flexible compass of its tone all music is fittingly expressed, great music with its lofty inspiration, dainty themes of charming simplicity, or the newest "rag" bubbling with sprightly animation.

The fact that there are thousands of Bell pianos used by music lovers in Canada today, answers the question as to its giving satisfaction.

PRESIDENT BEATTY TO THE SHAREHOLDERS OF THE C. P. R.

The address of President Beatty to the shareholders of the C. P. R., at their annual meeting on Wednesday, deals in a broad way with the railway situation of the day. The Company's gross earnings of 1919 were the largest in history; they exceeded the gross earnings of 1918 by more than nineteen million dollars; yet the net earnings of 1919 were less than the net earnings of 1918 by $1,560,451. The increase in working expenses in 1919 over 1918 was $20,960,713, "a striking "example of the effect of the increased "cost of wages and material in the "operations of a company, even one "conservatively and economically administered as are the affairs of the "C. P. R." This increase in working expenses must also be viewed in the light of the great increase in 1918, which amounted to $17,191,993—$38,152,706 of an increase in working expenses in two years. In 1914 the working expenses of the Company were $87,388,000; in 1919 they climbed to $144,000,000, in fact, increasing more than sixty-four per cent. The actual increase in rates was thirty per cent. in freight and ten per cent. in passenger. The Company has therefore been laboring under a serious disadvantage. The following observations of the President are important; they are illuminating:

Owing to the parity of conditions existing between the United States and Canada, the Canadian railroads were forced, during the war, to put into effect the high wage scale made effective under government control of the American roads, and they were also compelled to continue operating under tariffs substantially the same as those in force in the United States. These tariffs were inadequate, as results in the United States clearly demonstrated. By legislation recently enacted, the American carriers are assured of rates which will return a fixed percentage on the value of the undertakings used in the public service which will mean a reconsideration of and increase in the rates now current in that country. No doubt the necessity of rate adjustments in Canada will be given earnest consideration by the government and the Dominion Railway Board. While it is not my duty to anticipate any action which may be taken, it is only proper, I think, to say that a readjustment is amply warranted, both on the ground of the value of the service rendered by the carriers and the cost to them of performing such service.

It is further to be remembered, and I do not anticipate that it will be forgotten, that the value of any enterprise to the people it serves depends greatly upon its ability to progress and develop and on the maintenance of a high credit, without which such development cannot take place. Waste, extravagance and improvidence must be discouraged, but I can imagine nothing more detrimental to Canada than that its railway systems should be unable to keep pace in their own development with the progress of the country and that they should be unable to aid that progress by the expansion of facilities, the construction of necessary new lines, and by meeting the increasing demands of the public in the way of efficiency and comfort in service.

Based upon accepted principles in other countries governing compensation due to transportation and other public service corporations the net earnings of your company have always yielded a moderate return upon the capital actually invested in the enterprise. The railway net earnings of the company for 1919 represent only a return of four per cent. on the actual cash invested in the railway itself. The operations for the year 1919, after the payment of fixed charges and the usual preference and common stock dividends showed a nominal value of $844,249, which has been placed in reserve to meet the special taxation imposed by the Dominion Government, which special taxation ended in 1919. The fixed charges of the company are low, the interest on the preference stock is equally low and the dividends on 7 per cent. payable on common stock, from railway earnings is moderate. A factor which sems to be lost sight of in these discussions of the relations between expenses and revenues, is the absolute necessity of reasonable surpluses in the cases of any corporation conducting an enterprise as extensive as that of your company. The gross earnings of the company for the year exceeded $176,000,000, and the surplus after deduction of the moderate fixed charges and dividends, only amounted to less than half of one per cent. of these earnings. Considering the importance of reasonable provision for working capital annually from the operation of the company, if its high credit and ability to progress is to be maintained, it will readily be appreciated that the revenues during the past two years have been, to say the least, inadequate.

The public heard some weeks ago of the enormous deficit of the Canadian National Railways. Their wage and salary account alone absorbed almost the total receipts from all sources, and, as the administration was not prudently economical, a huge deficit was piled up. A material increase in freight and passenger rates is the solution of the increased wage and working expenses difficulty. There is no other reasonable solution. But in this connection an injustice is likely to result to the Company who, through efficiency of management, makes a reasonable profit and builds up a reasonable reserve. The Government, as conditions are but ought not to be, would confiscate the surplus earnings, through the medium of special taxes, and put them into the general treasury; and it is from the general treasury that the Government's own lines of railway, which cannot earn a surplus and will always be notorious for the deficits they incur, are supplied with the funds to carry on. That would be to penalize efficiency; it would put a premium on inefficiency. Another proposition is, not to increase the rate, but to permit the carnival in the Government owned and operated system to continue at the expense of the public treasury. A more unreasonable—yes, a more vicious—proposition could not be contemplated; and it is difficult to believe that such a proposition comes from any responsible source.

The Canadian Pacific is the pride of Canada. The ability, the efficiency and the general capacity of its management have won the admiration of the world. There is no other corporation, no other institution, no other agency that has done as much to develop this country, to stimulate industry and agriculture, to modernize general business, to promote confidence in our future and loyalty to our institutions, to give Canada a status, as the Canadian Pacific Railway. It is not therefore conceivable that mere politicians and hitherto unsuccessful railway promoters and subsidy hunters can precipitate a situation in the transportation business of the country which would shake world-wide confidence in our national sense of honor.

CANADA'S COAL QUESTION.

Miners in the anthracite fields of the United States, following the example of their brothers in the bituminous coal districts, are putting up the price of coal. They have been offered a 15 per cent. wage increase and are holding out—or walking out—for more. An increase in the cost of production will mean an increase in the price charged to the consumer. If it is coupled with a temporary cessation of production through a strike of the miners, hard coal will be scarce as well as dear, a serious situation which will affect the whole of central Canada. It is a situation which no one in this country can control, and Canadian consumers, so long as they remain dependent upon United States hard coal supplies, have nothing to do but grin and bear it, remarks the Montreal Gazette.

If there is a remedy at all for a condition which is becoming annually more difficult, it must be found in the development of wider utilization of domestic fuel resources, or in the use of soft coal for domestic heating purposes. It has been estimated that the anthracite resources of the United States are sufficient to maintain the present production of ninety million tons for another century, but as the retail cost of anthracite approaches a prohibitive figure, this estimate is likely to have little value for other than statistical purposes. The existence of vast reserves of coal means nothing to the householder who cannot buy the few tons necessary for a winter supply. The case is different in regard to bituminous coal, of which the supplies are practically inexhaustible; which is produced under more competitive conditions, is more easily mined, and is materially lower in price than the anthracite. Nor is Canada dependent upon the United States to anything like the same degree in the matter of soft coal, of which there are very large deposits in the Maritime Provinces and in the west. Owing to variations in the demand, difficulties of transportation and other conditions, these resources have not been developed to their capacity, and the country has not obtained the benefit from them that it would otherwise have done. This seems to have been true particularly of the Alberta coal, which includes anthracite, bituminous and lignite.

It has been shown conclusively by experts who have studied the question that electrical energy cannot be used economically for domestic heating purposes. On the other hand, it has been estimated that ten times more coal can be saved by replacing steam engines in manufacturing plants with motors run by hydro-electric power than could be saved by replacing coal furnaces with electric heaters. The conclusion is that the more extensive use of hydro-electrical power, of which there is an abundance in Central Canada, will release very large quantities of coal, which may then be turned to use in domestic heating. This, however, would be bituminous coal, which is not far below anthracite in heating properties, but it is not so clean or so easily handled. The former Fuel Controller, Mr. C. A. Magrath, in his final report, paid some attention to the possibilities of soft coal as a substitute for anthracite, and did not hesitate to recommend its use, following the necessary adaptation of furnaces, etc. He made, at the same time, some other suggestions, which were timely then and not less so now. One of them was that users of coal should learn how to use it. There can be little doubt that under existing conditions a considerable percentage of coal used for domestic heating is wasted through lack of knowledge or poor equipment, or both combined, the result being unnecessary expense and a variable and unhealthy temperature. Improved conditions in the actual use of hard coal may help to bring down the householder's fuel bill to something like its old figure, while the use of soft coal may, if made general, remove the fuel problem altogether. There are, of course, objections to it, but necessity is a great teacher, and is very effective in altering the point of view.

TO TAKE ACTION ON GIRL'S DEATH

Attorney General Instructs the Coroner to Take Action in Case of Virginia Garrett

St. John, May 7.—It is expected that the Kings county authorities will take some action shortly as the result of the death of little Virginia Garrett, who was struck by an automobile at Renforth. Hon. J. P. Byrne, attorney-general, has issued instructions to Dr. O. R. Peters, coroner in charge of the preliminary investigation, to proceed as provided for by the statutes and act through Dr. W. B. Wallace, K. C., of St. John.

Four of the young men who were in the automobile are being held here on charges of stealing the car, and two others under similar charges are under the care of surgeons still. The case is to come up in the police court today. As soon as two of the young men have recovered it is understood that the matter of the death of the Garrett child will be laid before the Kings county grand jury. If indictments are returned, the defendants will be tried by the Kings county authorities.

BRITISH PRESS ON THE STEEL MERGER

London, May 6.—The London Times financial writer returns to the question of the new empire steel combine to remark on the local opposition to the scheme as "a gigantic stock watering merger."

He recalls the hope expressed here that the temptation to over capitalization be firmly resisted, but he admits that the sensitiveness on this point is only natural after the experience of other big amalgamations with the United States Steel Corporation's beginnings as a noteworthy example.

The Stock Market

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York (Wall Street), May 7.—Sentiment among traders was evidently divided at the opening of today's stock market, initial transactions resulting in a mixture of gains and losses. Moderate selling was probably induced by the report of the local federal reserve bank urging further contraction of credits. Oils, excepting Texas Company, made substantial gains with secondary steels and motors, but rails were irregular with shippings and textiles. Trading was light and again limited to the professional element. Firmness was shown by foreign exchange in the preliminary quotations.

FROM THE PEOPLE

SCHOOL BOOKS

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I have read with interest the various letters in the People's Column.

With regard to the history, if the Chief Superintendent cannot fine one which suits better, why must there be a change just now? Can't someone write a brief history of the war in simple language, not forgetting to mention what "our boys" have done "over there," and make it so interesting that the boys and girls will like to read it? It seems to me that such a book could be written and sold at a reasonable price. Why change the history just now? It seems to me that some bad "history" mistakes have been made in the past, e. g., the large Canadian history that was a prescribed text book only a short time, and the History of N. B., which was a prescribed text book for a time and now, I believe, is supposed to be in the hands of the teacher only.

With regard to the new algebra, I have been told that the old book is better than the new, that the old one is an English book, and that difficult transportation was the reason for the change. Now I wonder how many good algebras were available when the change was made. It seems to me that the demand for new algebras each year is very limited. I wonder how many boys and girls would be willing to buy a slightly used algebra from a friend or neighbor at, say, half its original cost. If all the algebras in N. B. that are the same as the new except, perhaps, for a name written in the front, were collected they would make an enormous pile. In this district I believe there are enough to supply the students for a number of years, and the same can be said of most country places. Would the algebras needed to supply N. B. take up so very much room in a vessel, after all

Yours,

CRITIC.

Geary, N. B., May 3, 1920.

STRATEGY REQUIRED

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I am deeply interested in the letter which appeared recently in your From the People from a lonely girl, and I believe I have for her a message of comfort.

I, too, was 20 when I fell in love and, like the lonely girl, my sweetheart was shy. Time and again he would try to propose to me, as he has since admitted (for we are now happily engaged), but as often he was unable to say the only words that could bring happiness to our hearts. This situation lasted for months and I was heartbroken till finally a girl friend gave me the idea that broke up my nightmare. Possibly I stooped to deceit, but I am sure your readers will agree it was for the best, for we are now engaged and have the utmost faith in each other.

One night when the "only man" called my girl friend went to the parlor to meet him, as I supposedly was dressing. Later when I arrived she was openly making love to him. I took one look and left. It was not long, however, before I had an urgent note from him. He must see me at once. He thought I believed the worst, though in reality I never doubted him.

Lonely girl, your sweetheart wants to speak; make him. Remember, no matter what you do, he will love you all the more for it in the end.

Yours,

DECEITFUL.

St. Stephen, N. B., May 5, 1920.

A WORKMAN'S PROTEST

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—In this time of unrest I am wondering what our members of Parliament are doing? What do we send them there for? Is it to protect the profiteer? It looks that way, as I saw reported in the press recently that one of the Ministers said when commenting on the price of potatoes: "One is entitled to all that he can get." I would take that to mean $50 per bag if the lucky man has got any to sell. My point of argument is, if they have not the power to protect the public, why send them there at an expense to the country?

Why should any woman have to economize in this land of plenty? There is so much flour stocked up that the mills are closed down, and yet we are paying famine prices for bread. How can a family exist on $20 per week? Yet thousands in the cities have to, and some on less. I would prefer $10 per week five years ago to $40 per week with existing conditions. It is unpatriotic to strike for a living, but it is patriotic to make millions of profits out of the foods of the people, and then ease a nagging conscience by giving a donation to some charity. It seems these grabbers can get all the protection they want for what looks to me like legalized stealing. It seems that the community at large has got quite indifferent. There is an absence of altruism, even amongst our Christian churchgoing people here in Fredericton.

I would suggest that every organization in Fredericton get to work and demand the Government to resign, from Sir Robert Borden down, and put in men that will do their duty, as something must be done to alleviate the lot of the working man.

Yours,

A WORKING MAN.

Fredericton, May 5, 1920.

RULES BY SUGGESTION

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—In reply to R. S., who is worrying because her husband will not save more money, I should like to say a few words learned from an experience of more than five years.

My husband is a good provider, earns good money and can spend as much as he earns. At first I worried about this, but now I take a different view. I never ask my husband how he spends his money. Instead I frequently tell him that I need something extra besides my allowance, or that the baby needs something.

He always gives me what I ask for and then I save what I can of it. I never grumble and always try to act as if anything he spends is O. K. So what I manage to save is mine.

Then, too, I have persuaded him to buy a home. It was a big proposition at first, but I encouraged it and now we are paying for our home and that will help when the rainy day comes.

I keep well dressed myself and let him spend all he wants to on clothes, and he is quite satisfied and thinks I am an "up-to-date wifey."

Yours,

EVELYN.

ADMIRAL BENSON ADMITS STATEMENT

Said United States Would as Soon Fight the British as the Germans

Washington, May 6.—Admiral William S. Benson, war-time chief of naval operations, told the Senate naval investigating committee today that both before and during the war he had warned Rear Admiral Sims not to let his friendship for the British unduly influence his official acts.

Admiral Benson said he could not deny that he had told Admiral Sims in March, 1917, "not to let the British pull the wool over your eyes; we would as soon fight them as the Germans," as he could not recall all the details of the interview.

The witness did not say, however, that a wrong interpretation had been placed on the statement attributed to him by Admiral Sims and he admitted that as a result he had been done a grave injustice. He denied that he was in any way unfriendly to the British.

INTERNATIONAL FREIGHT CHARGES

U. S. Railroads Likely to Rescind Order for Prepayment of Freight Charges

Ottawa, May 6.—United States railroads may shortly rescind their order demanding prepayment of freight charges on shipments from the United States to Canadian points, following representations of Canadian importers to the Canadian Railway Commission that an addition of about ten per cent. was thereby being made to rates on the Canadian haul through the adverse exchange.

The effect of the enforced prepayment on exports to Canada is that importers here are paying in United States currency for the Canadian part of the haul as well, and United States roads have agreed to modify their order, that payment can be made in United States currency for the first part of the haul and in Canadian currency for the haul in Canada.

It is understood that the Canadian Railway Commission is negotiating with the Interstate Commerce Commission in the matter.

COMMUTATION FARES HAVE ADVANCED

Increase on All Canadian Railway Lines Dates From May 1st

Effective May 1st Commutation Fares have advanced on all Canadian railways, and patrons of the Canadian National Railways have been advised that ten trip tickets purchased prior to May 1st will not be honored, but should be handed in to the nearest ticket agent so that refund of the unused portions may be obtained.

Patrons are also advised that this increase in commutation fares applies to ten trip, fifty trip and scholars' forty trip tickets. Then trip tickets are limited to three months instead of one year as heretofore, while regular fifty trip and scholars' forty trip tickets are limited to one month.

All who are holding these tickets purchased prior to May 1st should at once put them in line for redemption, either to the nearest ticket agent, or to the General Pasenger Department, Moncton.

Members of the Commons in Vigorous Criticisms of the Dominion Income Tax System

Western Members Claim That It Is Too Cumbersome—The Committee of Taxation Answers Critics and Shows Its Good Points

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Ottawa, May 7.—Vigorous criticisms of the Dominion income tax system in its present form were voiced at a largely attended meeting of members of the Commons today.

Among the complaints voiced by Dr. Cowan (Regina), Levi Thompson (Q'Appelle), and other western members, were that the system was entirely too complicated, too cumbersome, lack of facilities and discrimination in sending out forms, and absence of the necessary forms at post offices.

Tom Best (Dufferin), declared that the eastern farmers complained bitterly that while men not making $500 per year were receiving forms, there were wealthy men being left alone entirely. The people wanted to know just exactly who was entitled to pay the tax.

Other speakers emphasized the complaint that there were too many questions. George Boyce (Carleton) urged that the present list of questions could at least be cut in half.

Preparation of Lists.

R. W. Breader, commissioner of taxation, said the law only was enacted in September, 1917. The onus to file a return was on those with a taxable income. In Great Britain, where they had no card index system, they lost seven million pounds since 1842. He told Sir Thomas White when the system was inaugurated that they must expect criticism and difficulty for the first five years. His staff went through directories, telephone lists, auto-owners' lists, etc., and this was only the start of their work.

Within the last two weeks over ten thousand letters were sent to persons who had not filed a return in Toronto. Last year between ten and twenty thousand such letters had been sent out. As to being cumbersome, both British and United States officials had complimented his staff on the simplicity of the Canadian form.

"Despite what anyone says to the contrary, the people of Canada are certainly honest," added Mr. Breadner.

"There may be ten thousand more defaulters in Toronto before we are through with this. It will take five years to get this system working properly," said the commissioner.

The Toronto Returns.

Of the first ten thousand in Toronto, four thousand had made returns and between 200 and 300 were found to have taxable incomes.

In 1917, declared Mr. Breadner, 17 Senators and 30 members of the Commons did not have a taxable income. He went on to give cases where men getting incomes of $100,000 were not taxable because of large contributions to Patriotic Funds and Red Cross campaigns.

Mr. Breadner explained at length that a man did not have to pay tax on income from stocks, because it was already taxed through the companies.

He cited one case in 1918 where a man's income was $30,000 and he gave the whole sum to the Patriotic Fund. He declined to give the man's name. This man did not have to pay income tax.

Canada had no men with million dollar incomes per year, while the United States had 141, and another 456 with $500,000 and over. Canada had two of the latter class.

There were only 22 men in Ontario in 1917 who had taxable incomes over $100,000. There were only four in the whole Ottawa territory, he said, answering Senator Bennett.

HYDRO-ELECTRIC BOARD NOT NAMED

Two Members Selected But the Third Not Definitely Decided Upon

The Hydro-Electric Commission to carry on the development of the water powers of New Brunswick under the Act to Provide for the Generation and Distribution of Electric Power passed at the recent session of the Legislature will not be appointed at the present meeting of the Provincial Government.

Premier Foster made an announcement at noon to this effect, thus confirming the intimation in The Gleaner yesterday. He said that two of the members of the commission had been selected, but the third had not yet been decided upon. He would not say whether Hon. C. W. Robinson will be the member of the Government on the commission or not, declaring it had been determined unwise to announce any members of the commission until the complete board are appointed.

In the meantime, Premier Foster said, the necessary surveys would be carried on and would not be delayed as a result of the commission not being appointed at this meeting, as the old Water Powers Commission had authority to continue the necessary work in the meantime. The Premier said that surveys at Pokiok, on the St. John river between Fredericton and Woodstock, and at Lepreaux, near St. John, were being carried on, C. O. Foss, a member of the old commission, having gone to Pokiok last night. The members of the Government, it was said, would make an inspection of the proposed Lepreaux power development site either next week or the following wek, when they will also inspect the Provincial Hospital, the annex and farm at St. John.

When asked regarding bye-elections Premier Foster said there was nothing to announce. He was asked if any writs had been ordered to issue and replied in the negative, but when asked if he would say that writs would not be ordered to issue at this meeting he replied: "This meeting is not over yet, you know."

The Government determined to sell the site upon which the Fredericton water works pumping station is located to the city and named $2,500 as the price.

An additional three months' leave of absence was granted to Dr. T. C. Allen, Deputy Attorney General, whose health has not yet been entirely restored.

Questions To Be Submitted At Prohibition Plebiscite In July Fixed by Government

But They Will Not Be Announced Until the Date is Definitely Decided Upon, Premier Foster Said Today —Two Questions Only

Announcement was made by Premier Foster this afternoon that the plebiscite on the provincial prohibition law now in force as a war measure in New Brunswick will be held early in July.

The Premier said that the date for the plebiscite had not been definitely decided but that it would be announced at least a month before polling takes place and that the questions to be submitted at the plebiscite will be announced at least a month before the date of the plebiscite.

"It is the desire of the Government that the questions should be as plain as posisble and there will not be more than two questions submitted," said the Premier, who intimated that the questions had already been definitely decided upon, although announcement is being withheld until the date of the plebiscite is fixed.

ECONOMY In CLOTHING

Is best practiced. When you buy a good suit you get twice the wear, besides the good appearance. Naturally a man's desire is to be dressed well. You know how different you feel when you're well dressed, and how shabby you feel when your clothes get seedy.

MIKE O'DOWD HAS LOST HIS TITLE

Hector McInnes Gave Decision to Johnny Wilson in Bout at Boston

Boston, May 6.—Johnny Wilson, of Boston, won the middleweight boxing championship of the world, when he was awarded a referee's decision over Mike O'Dowd, of St. Paul, here tonight. The fight went 12 rounds.

O'Dowd was the aggressor throughout the contest, but Wilson, a left handed boxer, scored repeatedly with his right. O'Dowd excelled in infighting, but seemed unable to fathom Wilson's style of boxing. Eight of the rounds went to Wilson, two to O'Dowd and two were even. The only knockdown in the bout came in the second round when Wilson caught O'Dowd with a straight right to the jaw, O'Dowd going down for the count of four.

Wilson suprised the followers of the game by scoring so many times with his right, breaking through O'Dowd's defense often.

The pace set by the men was fast, and at the end of the 12th round both were unsteady on their feet. A capacity crowd witnessed the bout. The St. Paul boy was a big favirite of the bout. The general betting was 10 to 3.

Wilson scored continually with right jabs to O'Dowd's face. Hector McInnes, of Boston, was referee.

Wilson had participated in many bouts against second-rate boxers in the last year, and had appeared in many cities, principally in New England. Tonight's bout was his first against a leading boxer.

O'Dowd won the title from Al McCoy in 1917.

When the gong sounded for the end of the twelfth round and Referee McInnes pointed to Wilson's corner in token of the local boy's victory, O'Dowd protested the decision, claiming he was entitled to a draw at least.

While McInnes, who was the choice of O'Dowd's manager as referee, was explaining why he had awarded the title to Wilson, the backers of the local boy rushed to the ring and carried the new champion away on their shoulders.

McTigue's Bout Off.

Halifax, May 6. — The bout advertised for tonight between Mike McTigue and Billy Kramer, for the middleweight championship of Canada, did not take place ,to the regret of hundreds who had purchased tickets in advance as high as $5. Kramer was to have arrived last night, but instead came a boxer with his trainer, with a letter introducing him as Otto Hughes.

The Big Leagues

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

New York, May 7.—In the American League yesterday two doubles by Hendrix and two errors by Galloway aided Boston to defeat Philadelphia by 3 to 1. Jones only yielded four hits.

Bunched hits in three innings of the second game of the St. Louis series won for Detroit by 6 to 4. The feature of the game was a remarkable catch by Veach of a drive off Tobin's bat in the ninth.

Washington defeated New York 4 to 1.

Tied at the ninth inning Cleveland scored in the tenth and beat Chicago 3 to 2.

In the National League Cooper, of Pittsburg, held Chicago to four hits and won 3 to 1.

A single by Kauff in the first inning gave New York the necessary margin to defeat Brooklyn, the score being 2 to 1.

St. Louis knocked Eller out of the box in the seventh after Fournier tripled and McHenry singled. Poor fielding by the champions caused their defeat 6 to 0.

Ineffective pitching by Smith and errors behind him gave Boston a lead that Philadelphia could not overcome, Boston winning 8 to 6.

The Batting Record.

Toronto, May 7.—A despatch to the Toronto Globe today says: "Yesterday's major league games did not bring about any marked change in the honor list of batters, except that Daubert has been ousted from the National League roster by George Burns, the slugging outfielder of the New York Giants, and Wheat, of Brooklyn, has moved into third place, ahead of Greb, of Cincinnati. Young Lebourveau, the Philadelphia sensation, gained materially on Hornsby, of St. Louis, for the leadership. The French-Canadian recruit increased his average from .375 to .400.

"There was no change in the order of the first five in the American League. The batting race in the Johnson circuit is very close. Weaver, of Chicago, leads the star quintette, with 24 hits, while Jackson, of the same team, has 23, Speaker and Sisler each 22 and Johnston of Cleveland 21."

YORK CO. BASEBALL LEAGUE IS FORMED

Three Fredericton Teams, Devon - Nashwaaksis, and Marysville Given Franchise

The York County Baseball League was organized last evening at the Y. M. C. A. when the organizing committee reported to the general meeting that they had agreed upon a five team league, franchises being given the Y. M. C. A., Marysville Imperials, Devon-Nashwaaksis and Fredericton.

The first business in the general meeting, after the adoption of the report of the organizing committee, was the appointment of a schedule committee and the following were named to draw up a suitabl schedule of games and report back: Y. M. C. A., Trafford Donovan (chairman); City Team, Eddie Edney; Imperials, Robert Chappell; Marysville, W. G. Collett; Devon-Nashwaaksis, Kenneth Staples.

Season to Open May 24th.

The opening of the league was set at May 24th and the schedule committee were instructed to prepare for home and home games for each team and also for a double schedule to finish about August 14th. The committee will meet on Monday evening and bring in a report at the general meeting next Thursday evening. Included in their work will be the appointment of five suitable umpires to take charge of the games on the various places at which they are to be played.

After some discussion it was decided that the executive committee, composed of President Sandy Staples, Vice-President Mayor Walter Walker, of Marysville, and C. H. Cochrane, secretary-treasurer, would be placed in absolute control of the baseball situation regarding disputes, postponed games and any other matters that might arise. The offer of the Drayer-Maynard Company to supply baseball outfits was accepted and it was decided that each team would hold its home receipts as well as supply and keep the baseballs for its own home games.

Will Ask City Grant.

The matter of a petition to be presented before the City Council was taken up and a written petition, prepared by the secretary and signed by the executive officers asking for the assistance in supplying the three city teams with equipment, will be presented at the coming meeting of the council. Th matter of soliciting a public subscription for the same purpose was also introduced but finally left to the executive committee to decide upon.

At the close of the meeting a former professional ball player from this city in the person of Art Finnamore addressed the meeting, stating that if they had decided to carry on the league on a strictly amateur basis they had better provide themselves with all rulings on this subject when they sent the list of the players from the various teams in for registration cards, as he said that he was always willing to help the "under dog" and, if he were allowed to play under the amateur ruling, he would prefer not to sign up with any team but to play with the one that was at the foot of the league when he happened to be in the city.

Mayor Walker, of Marysville, the vice-president of the league, made his first appearance at a meeting and asked that all co-operate and make the league a success.—W. R. H.

BELL TELEPHONE CAPITALIZATION

Railway Committee of Commons Passes Application to Increase Its Capital

Ottawa, May 6.—Abnormal in crease in the demand for telephones and the prospect of even larger business during the next five or ten years, was the main reason given by C. F. Sise, vice-president and general manager of the Bell Telephone Company, who appeared before the railway committee of the Commons today in respect to the company's application to increase its capitalization from thirty to seventy-five million dollars. The application was passed by committee.

An amendment designed to compel the company to go to the railway board before issuing any further stock was defeated on the ground that the public was already protected in the matter of increased rates for telephones throughout that board. A suggestion also that the increase be limited to sixty millions was also turned down.

Some would-be flatterers, after smearing on a lot of salve, spoil the effect by rubbing it in with a wire brush.

No, Harry, a man doesn't necessarily have paint in his eyes when he is color blind.

$4 Saved Two Fingers

The fingers were those of Mr. J. W. Besnard, of 539 Craig St. E., Montreal. He says, —"A falling beam badly smashed my hand. Two fingers were so severely crushed that the doctors said they would have to be amputated. Naturally I didn't want this, so decided to try Zam-Buk first. I applied Zam-Buk daily, and by the time I had used $4 worth, the injury was completely healed. My fingers were saved!"

Just another illustration of the healing power of Zam-Buk. Accidents will happen. It may be your turn next. Better get a box and keep it handy. Accidents are less frequent than skin diseases, and remember this—

Zam-Buk is just as good for eczema, ulcers, skin diseases, and piles, and for cuts, burns, bruises.

All druggists and stores 50c. box, or 3 for $1.25. Refuse substitutes.

Perhaps your Bed Doesn't Suit You so well as You Think

Maybe you wake often during the night. Dreams trouble you—or you lie awake for hours. You get up only half rested

BUSINESS problems, indigestion—there may be a dozen causes for insomnia. Did you ever stop to think your bed may be to blame? If a bed makes the slightest sound it disturbs the nerves.

That's the trouble with wooden beds and loose-jointed, noisy metal beds—you can't relax.

Many people who have always been "light sleepers" sleep sound all night on a Simmons Metal Bed and Waldorf Box Spring.

THE Simmons Metal Bed is noiseless. It locks firm at the corners. The corner locks are made of pressed steel—fit true and snug—not a creak, rattle, or feeling of unsteadiness. It is perfectly rigid—feels and moves like one solid piece.

The Simmons Pressed Steel Corner Locks are protected by basic patents—exclusive with Simmons Limited, not to be duplicated or imitated.

And these patented corner locks have made possible the Three-piece Bed—the new Simmons idea—the spring forming a single unit with the side rails.

IF you waken easily, or if you sleep lightly, you'll find the Twin Bed a wonderful aid to sound sleep.

Ever since doctors began to recommend a separate bed for each sleeper, Simmons Limited have specialized in Twin Beds.

Sleep is more restful. No disturbance from another's restlessness. Coughs and infections are not communicated.

THE Waldorf Box Spring really does what you have always wanted a spring to do. It invites complete relaxation.

It supports the body at ease on fine resilient spring coils—each coil conforming freely to the contours, so that the spine is perfectly rested, whether one sleeps on the back or on the side.

Simmons Waldorf Box Spring is covered with ticking of the finest grade and great wearing quality, in new and attractive designs.

It fits firmly on the bed—never sags or humps, never loses its resiliency.

And Simmons Mattresses and Pillows are in every way worthy to go with Simmons Metal Beds and Waldorf Box Springs.

EVERYBODY needs sleep. Get a bed that invites sleep! You'll find the Simmons Metal Bed, the Waldorf Box Spring, Simmons Mattresses and Pillows in your leading merchant's store

Your choice of a wonderful series of styles—in brass, in enamel, and in "wood finish", beautiful reproductions of natural wood grain.

And when you are selecting your Simmons Beds with an eye to their appearance in the room, you will see that Simmons has for the first time established beautiful and authoritative design in Metal Beds.

If you do not know the Simmons merchants in this section, we shall be glad to send you their names.

The first tenders in connection with contracts for permanent roads in New Brunswick this year under the Federal Highway Aid Act closed today at the Provincial Department of Public Works. These tenders are for supplying quantities of gravel at Grand Lake points in Queens County. Hon. P. J. Mrs. H. F. McLeod and Mrs. J. Harry Robertson were the chaperones. The proceeds are for the Memorial Fund.

The liquor was bought on Oct. 23rd, on the same day that a charge, resulting in a fine of $400, was laid against a local taxi driver by the same inspector. Several witnesses will be called in the case on Monday. P. J. Hughes conducted the case for the prosecution and Allison McKay for the defence, in the absence of R. B. Hanson, K. C.

FRASERS' DRIVES IN THIS DISTRICT ALL BROUGHT OUT

Crew Sent to Magaguadavic to Bring Lumber for New Mill Down the Lake.

TOTAL CUT IS SAID TO BE 125 MILLIONS

Their Immense Operations at All Their Lumber Mills This Season

All of the dozen lumber drives for the Fraser Companies Limited in this district containing some twelve million feet of the supply of logs for the season's cut at the Victoria Mills have been brought out of the stream successfully, it was announced this morning.

James G. Douglass' drive on the Tay for Frasers is the last one to come out but it is in the main Nashwaak river and is in safe waters. All the other drives in this district are out and last night a crew of men were despatched to Magaguadavic, where the ice is breaking up in the lake. They will bring the season's cut of four million feet down the lakes in large booms to the site of the new Fraser mill, which is now in course of construction and will, it is expected, be ready for operation some time in June.

An unofficial estimate this morning placed the total cut of logs for the various Fraser lumber mills at not less than 125 million feet.

City Bonds Are Found Improperly Numbered

An issue of $200,000 of city bonds being issued to pay for permanent streets have all been turned back by a bond house on the ground that they were improperly numbered.

The Act under which the bonds were issued calls for them to be numbered consecutively, but the printing house which printed the bonds numbered each lot falling due each year consecutively. They will be sent back, numbered consecutively for the entire isue and then it is said to be the intention of the finance committee of the City Council to sell them "over the counter" with the expectation that they will be taken up largely by local people.

Ald. Wilkinson, chairman of the finance committee, said the city would not lose by the printing house's mistake, except by the delay.

At the last meeting of the Senate of Acadia it was decided to confer the honorary degree of M. FOSTER-ADAMS

Popular Young Couple Married at Christchurch Parish Church Yesterday.

Christchurch Parish Church was the scene of a pretty but quiet wedding yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock when Miss Mary Elizabeth Adams and Albert Douglas Foster, of St. John, were united in marriage by Rev. A. F. Bate.

The bride is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John G. Adams, of this city, and one of the popular young ladies of the city. For some time she was a stenographer in the Department of Public Works' office.

The groom is a member of this year's graduating class at the University of New Brunswick and was very popular among the students. He is a nephew of Premier W. E. Foster.

The bride, who was unattended, wore a travelling suit of jade green Jersey cloth with large black hat trimmed with flowers, and carried a bouquet of bride's roses.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. McVey were the witnesses to the signing of the register.

After the ceremony a dainty wedding supper was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. McVey, after which the young couple left for Boston, where they will spend a short honeymoon before proceeding to Winnipeg, where the groom has accepted a position.

Many beautiful gifts were received, including silver, cut glass, linen and cheques.

NEW HISTORY FOR PUBLIC SCHOOLS TO BE CHOSEN TODAY

New Text Book to Replace the Objectionable Myers History to Be Named.

OBJECTIONS TAKEN TO SAUNDERSON'S HISTORY

Now Said Final Selection Will Be Botsford's, as in Alberta.

The Board of Education at their meeting this afternoon are expected to select a new general history as a text book for the public schools to replace Myers' History, which has been tabooed as a result of the recent public demands for its banishment from the schools of New Brunswick.

Recently the Text Book Committee, which is composed of teachers and prominent educationalists, met here and selected Outlines of the World's History by Edgar Saunderson, M. A., Cambridge, but it is now said that as a result of protests from a religious denomination—said to be the Roman Catholics—this History will not be adopted. Another suggested history was not considered because of protests from representatives of the Church of England.

It was said today that the probable selection of the Board of Education was Botsford's History. This is not by a British author but is in use in the provinces of Ontario and Quebec and has recently been selected by Alberta, which also recently banished Myers' History, too.

Mother's Day.

The sentiments attached to that day have a personal appeal to every one who feels and thinks. The significance of the occasion should therefore be "say it with flowers." Next to preaching the gospel and healing the sick, the growing of flowers is the greatest Godg-iven gift on earth. Mother, today we come with hearts full of fragrant memories and our hands full of flowers. To you we owe everything. Never can we forget our debt or hope to discharge it.

Never put liquid in the garbage pail.

MINISTER OF MILITIA GIVES AUTHORITY

Teachers Will Thus Be Able to Live at Actual Cost During the Course

Teachers attending the summer school in elementary agriculture which will be held in Sussex in July will have an opportunity of taking a practical way of combatting the high cost of living.

Announcement was made this morning that Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Militia, has authorized the use of the military camp grounds, tents and buildings at Camp Sussex and it is proposed to have the school located at the camp. The teachers will live in tents, lectures will take place in marquees and the buildings on the camp grounds and there will be ample opportunity for giving domestic science a practical test.

1,000,000 IN CANADA PAY INCOME TAX

Canadians Must Pay Income Tax

Commissioner of Taxation Points Out That One Million Persons in Canada Will Be Eligible to Make Returns This Year, and That Every Person Will Be Made to Do His or Her Duty.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Ottawa, May 8.—With a strenuous plea that the Dominion income system in Canada was as yet in its infancy and expressing the hope that within five years it would be second to none in the world, R. W. Breadner, Commissioner of Taxation, made a lengthy reply to many critics of the system before a meeting of members of the Commons today. The Commission gave some figures which created considerable surprise among those present, and at the conclusion of his address was voted to have cleared the air to a considerable extent of the adverse criticism levelled at his department.

There would be about one million persons in Canada to make returns this year, he showed, as compared with about half that number in 1917, when the act was passed. The system had already won commendation from other countries, including Great Britain and the United States, and it was the ultimate aim to see that no persons escaped his or her full duty right back from 1917. Every class in the community was being reached and there were only two now outside the pale of taxation.

These were "coupon clippers" and miners of fishermen, who had a dozen homes in various parts of the country within a year. He hoped to see legislation passed to get the former into line and as to the latter they might adopt a system compelling employers to take one per cent. from the man's monthly salary, provided it went to $100.

Mr. Breadner denied that the forms were cumbersome, or that there was any discrimination.

"Every person will be made to do his or her duty," he assured the meeting.

Several members strongly urged for wider publicity for the system on the ground that as the people of Canada had to bear increased taxation they wanted to know that every person entitled to pay income tax was being made to do so.

THE WANDERLUST GRIPS U. S. WOMEN

War Workers Who Were "Over There" Want to Revisit the Scenes of War

American women are suffering from wanderlust. Those who were abroad in war work want to get back. The married ones want to go, too. They want only a vacation, a year off. They don't want to lose their hubbies altogether. Thus speaks T. Lloyd Lewis, former New Jersey assemblyman from Monmouth county.

He is in charge of the personnel department of the Serbian Child Welfare Association, 287 Fourth avenue, and is deluged with written, spoken, telephoned and telegraphed inquiries from persons who want to be sent over.

And every one who for one reason or another is out of a job is going in for welfare work, according to Mr. Lewis, who says:

"New York city is full of free lancers—a lot of people who can go anywhere at any hour and be gone any length of time."

A typical conversation in Mr. Lewis' office goes something like this:

Applicant (charming young woman, age 25) stands at attention at Mr. Lewis' desk.

Mr. Lewis—"You say you've been to France?"

Applicant—"Yes—yes indeed, in the war you know."

Mr. Lewis—"And you wish to go back?"

Applicant (claps her hands together dramatically and sighs)—"Do I?"

Mr. Lewis—"Why do you want to go back?"

Applicant—"Well, you see, I've had so much experience during the war I think I could help over there because I can do anything."

And that is the general finale of the conversation. According to Mr. Lewis every one in America who had anything to do with the war, especially the feminine contingent, "can do anything."

The difficulty, however, is not to find folks who can "do anything," but to get those who can do some one thing and do it well.

Of course there are numbers of women in this group, but they are serious workers, not women who consciously or unconsciously apply for welfare service abroad—or at home—to escape the humdrum duties and responsibilities of hom, which they shift to other shoulders while they pursue more exciting adventures.

Of the many who apply for work in Serbia few are chosen. These few are persons who have proved on this side that their work is of the first order.

Usually they are nurses, physicians, dietitians, domestic science teachers, trained clerical and stenographic workers. The association now has fifty representatives in and about Chachak, sixty-five miles south of Belgrade, who are opening and operating dormitories, preventoria, clinics, dispensaries, hospitals for the war orphaned children and the 500,000 dependent little ones of that country who have neither clothes, home, food nor shelter.

Some people believe that divorces are made in heaven and marriages in the other place.

You may have noticed that few business men feel at ease at a polite social function.

After a man has acted as a book agent for a week he begins to think that he has not a friend in the world.

TEST POWER OF THE BOARD COMMERCE

The Supreme Court of Canada Asked to Decide as to the Legality of Its Orders

Ottawa, May 8.—A reference to the supreme court of Canada to test the power of the Board of Commerce to order retail clothiers of Ottawa to sell only at a profit which is reasonable and just in the opinion of the Board is being heard today. The order, which has not been served on the clothiers yet, constitutes a test of power, and the supreme court is asked to judge whether such an order is within the power of the Board and whether the machinery of provincial civil courts can be commanded to enforce it.

W. N. Tilley, K. C., representing the Manufacturers Association and other organizations, argued that the parliament of Canada had not the power to compel the disposition of property within a province for the benefit of the whole country, or to prevent the holding of property for a rise in prices.

The wheat of Alberta for instance, could not be controlled by a federal board, under strict application of the British North America Act, or sale of it compelled at a fixed price except by order of the provincial parliament.

Reminded that this was being done, Mr. Tilley remarked that the legality of it had not been tested, that was all.

W. F. O'Connor, K. C., will present his case for the Attorney General of Canada this afternoon.

THE WAR VETERANS CONDEMN GENERAL

General McLean Criticized for His Alleged Remarks Re Soldiers' Wives

Toronto, May 8.—Brig. Gen. McLean's statements in the Pensions Committee meeting at Ottawa regarding soldiers' wives came in for heated criticism from Sergt. Major MacNamara, of Riverdale, in the legislature yesterday afternoon.

The member for Riverdale spoke in acknowledging the congratulations which the House tendered to him on the occasion of his marriage on Wednesday.

Referring to Gen. McLean's statement that "the majority of private soldiers' wives were, before their marriage, of the servant class," Sergt. Major McNamara declared this to be the "contemptible utterance of a man who has disgraced the dignity and honor of his military profession."

He praised the war work of the women of Canada, and expressed pleasure at the resignation of Col. C. Peck, V. C., from the Pensions Committee, as a protest against Gen. McLean's utterances.

Riverdale branch of the G.W.V.A. last night passed a resolution condemning Brig. Gen. McLean for his alleged disparaging remarks about the wives of private soldiers, and stating that General McLean "is not a fit and proper person to represent returned soldiers on the Pensions Committee or any other committee affecting returned men."

Fur Coats Are Likely to Become Relics of Past

Owning a fur coat may soon be in a class with finding an oil well or gold mine, or owning a farm on Manhattan Island, according to Dr. Ned Dearborn, a speaker before the second annual meeting of the American Society of Mammalogists at the American Museum of Natural History.

A coat purchased by a New Yorker in 1910, he said, had a fur lining worth $500. A couple of years later the fur was sold for $1,000 and the coat relined for $150. This second lining was sold for $250 and the coat relined again for $55 just before the war. This third lining was sold recently for $300 and the coat retired from active service.

Measures must be taken at once to conserve fur bearing animals, he said, or the supply will last only a few years. These animals do not thrive in captivity, but the beasts of the field soon learn there is sanctuary in areas where hunting is prohibited and flock there in large numbers, propagating rapidly under those free conditions. About the only really successful fox farms, he said, were those on ocean islands, where the small animals could be allowed to run loose.

Woodstock to Issue Bonds For $30,000 for New Sidewalks

The Interest Is Not to Exceed Six Per Cent., and It Is Expected That the Bonds Will Be Taken Up Locally—Contribution Property Holders Goes Into Sinking Fund

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Woodstock, May 8.—At the meeting of the Town Council this week it was reported that nothing definite had been received from the secretary of the Housing Board, Fredericton, so that work could be proceeded with under the Act. Authority was given to issue bonds for $30,000 for sidewalk work, the interest not to exceed six per cent., payment of interest semi-annually, and the contribution of the property owners to go into a sinking fund to retire the bonds; the whole amount, it is expected, will be taken up by the people of the town and work will commence about June 1st. It was decided to guarantee the bonds of the Agricultural Society and a vote of the ratepayers will be taken on June 14th to endorse or refuse to endorse the same. Next Tuesday was selected as clean-up day, when the town teams will gather up all the stuff that may be raked into piles on the side of the streets.

JAPAN'S EYE ON SOUTH AMERICA

Plans Colonization on Vast Scale in Peru, Bolivia and Paraguay

Washington, May 8—Argentine newspapers have recently been calling attention to what they regard as indications that the Japanese are preparing for an extensive colonization programme in South America, as well as seeking a larger market for Japanese goods on that continent.

It is pointed out in the advices that the treaty made by Japan with Paraguay gives to the former "favored nation" privileges, including the rights of colonization. Discussing this treaty, Eusebio Ayala, finance minister of Paraguay, is quoted as saying that one of the objects of Japan was to provide for colonization in Paraguay.

He added, according to the advices, that Paraguay, which is a country the size of California, with only 1,000,000 inhabitants and excellent opportunity for agricultural development, would welcome the Japanese. It is now reported that a similar treaty is being negotiated with Uruguay, the advices stated.

In furtherance of the supposed colonization plan in South America, Japanese capitalists are reported to have acquired large tracts of agricultural lands in northern Peru and in Bolivia. Those in Bolivia are said to be 1800 miles square and those in Peru of even greater extent. It is also reported that Japanese capitalists have recently invested in the exploitation of tin mines in Bolivia and the projection of railways which they are preparing to construct and operate.

Commenting on Japanese enterprise in South America, a Buenos Ayres paper is quoted by the report as follows:

"There is no doubt that there already exists a vast plan for Japanese colonization in Peru and Bolivia, a plan which, considering the very dispersed native population and their relative incapacity for certain kinds of work, is susceptible to very rapid development."

Prevent Spread of Gipsy And Brown Tail Moths

Washington Authorities Contemplate Extension of Quarantine on Forest and Quarry Products in New England in Endeavor to Prevent Spread of the Destructive Pests.

Washington, May 8.—Restrictions upon the movement of all forest and quarry products by a quarantine of the New England States to prevent the spread of the gipsy and brown-tailed moths will be considered at a hearing to be held by the Federal Horticultural Board, United States Department of Agriculture here. All persons interested in the proposed action by the department will be given an opportunity of testifying before the board either in person or by atorney.

This hearing is for the purpose of considering the extension of this quarantine to cover the spread which has been made, notably by the gipsy moth, during the past year, and the proposed extension is a counterpart of similar extensions which have been made practically every year since this quasantine was first enforced in 1912.

The spread of the gipsy moth in 1919 was unusual. Such speed was due to exceptionally favoring conditions. During the summer of 1918 the insect developed some very heavy infestations, and due to strong winds at the time of the hatching of the larves, these young larvas were dislodged from the trees and carried by the winds long distances. Similar favorable conditions for wide spread have not existed for years, and there is little doubt that the principal spread of the insect during the past year is to be thus explained. In most of the newly invaded towns the infestations is very light, often limited to a single egg cluster, which further confirms the theory of a wide but very scattered spread by the agency of winds.

Action by the department contemplates restrictions upon the movement of the following articles from the affected States to other parts of the country.

Coniferous trees, such as spruce, fir, hemlock, pine, juniper, and white cedar decorative plants such as hally and laurel; forest plant products, including logs, tan bark, posts, poles, railroad ties, cord wood, and lumber; field vines, cuttings and other plants and plant products, except fruit pits, seeds of fruit and ornamental trees and shrubs, field vegetables, flower seeds, bedding planes, and other herbaceous plants and roots, and stone or quarry products.

Reports to the department show that during the summer of 1919, in addition to the territory now under quarantine 46 towns in Maine, 45 in New Hampshire, 23 in Vermont, 14 in Massachusetts, and 3 in Connecticut have been found to be infested by the insects. The Maine towns are:

Maine—Winter Harbor, Gouldsboro, Sullivan, Hancock, Otis, Mariaville, Waltham, East Brook, Aurora, Amherst, Clifton, Eddington, Holden, Brewer, Bradley, Plantation 32, Plantation 33, Greenfield, Milford, Oldtown, Orono, Veazie, Glenburn, Greenbush, Argyle, Hudson, Bradford, Charleston, Atkinson, Garland, Dexter, Athens, Solon, Bingham, Embden, New Portland, Freeman, Salem, Strong, Temple, Avon, Phillips, Carthage, Perkins, Weld and Roxbury.

OLD HOME SUMMER PROJECT GIVEN UP

Halifax Promoters Fail to Secure Necessary Financial Assistance for Scheme

Halifax, N. S., May 8.—H. C. Crowell, speaking before the Young Men's Club of the First Baptist church last night, announced that he had been compelled to give up the old home summer project on account of lack of financial assistance. There is at present, however, a bill before the local legislature to create a commission which he hoped would carry the project through to the consummation that the whole province was now desiring. He was strongly in favor of the Government giving the commission liberal contribution to cover its initial organization, after which no doubt the commission could obtain all the money it wanted from the province. Unless the Government makes a contribution, Mr. Crowell said, he said he was skeptical of the undertaking. It is essentially a provincial movement, he said, and any Government would be justified in giving its fullest support. In closing Mr. Crowell appealed to all the young men to become members of the 1924 club of Halifax.

COLOR RIOT IN SUMMER DRESS

All the Shades Not in the Rainbow on Exhibition in New York.

New York, May 8.—The man who created the latest innovation in Fifth avenue fashions got his inspiration before the prohibition era. When the window curtains in one of the best known shops were hoisted this morning, crowds of early pedestrians collected to a mustard and henna tunic blouse, with a mass of snakes around the bodice for decorations.

That was only an early indication of the fact that the entire reptilian family, with its choice assortment of frogs, snakes and alligators, has swarmed, or squirmed, or whatever they do when they find some place and light. Dame Fashion, all eager for an innovation, has caught at this one like a curio hunter in a cliff dweller's winter home.

In several other shops on the avenue there are more signs that the new style has sprawled into the realm of what-shall-I-wear-next with all four feet. Hand-painted gods and goddesses, sphinxes, eels, and any other creature that could come from either the nursery book or the imagination, leered from luxurious silken backgrounds in gorgeous profusion.

This was the first indication of summer. Spring having been introduced along in February to anticipate the ending of the snow season, the fashion dictators chose to indicate summer today when what is hoped to be the last snow of the year is fast going away.

All the summer finery, however, is not bizarre or fantastic. On the whole the midsummer gowns seem more airily feminine and dainty than before. Some of the Fifth avenue windows, where the reptile mania does not hold sway, look like nothing so much as a chant of "What is so rare as a summer gown"

Sheer materials such as organdie, dotted swiss and net are in the lead and have almost annihilated the time-honored voile. What little voile is shown is camouflaged, one favorite pattern having been made to resemble swiss, with red polka dots. Flowered georgettes and chiffons are found in abundance, and, with the exception of a few organdies, are the only materials that permit the use of flower and spray designs. Such materials as are not one color are conventionally patterned.

Ruffles have supplanted flowers. It seems as though every known stitch in the art of sewing is crowded into each gown. One leading courtier shows a pink organdie dress that has eighteen rows of ruffles, an accordion-pleated skirt, three different kinds of lace, an over-apron, hemstitching, tucking, ribbon trimming, bias bands and smocking.

In the thinner frocks, orchid is the leading color, even surpassing in popularity the jade green that gleamed on most spring displays. Rose and firefly come next, auguring well for a season of riotous color.

BRITISH SOLDIERS' LAND SETTLEMENTS

British Representative Here Inquiring Into Prospects for Settlers in Canada

Montreal, May 8.—Sir Richard Winfrey, former Parliamentary Secretary of the Board of Agriculture in Lloyd-George's Government, passed through Montreal today on his way to visit the various soldiers' and settlements in Canada. He intends studying their working and also finding out which part of Canada would prove most suitable for imperial soldiers coming to Canada. He explained that the British land settlement acts places the settlement of soldiers in the hands of the county councils, who are authorized to buy land, lease it to returned men in lots of from five to fifty acres, and lend them money for equipment equal to their capital but not exceeding $500.

BATHING ORDNANCE OF SOUTHERN CITY

Biloxi, Miss., May 8.—A bathing ordnance enacted by the Biloxi committee prohibits any person over fourteen years of age wearing one piece suits, and adults wearing bathing suits will not be permitted to loiter in public places on the beach unless robed from shoulder too below the knees. Arrests may be made without warrants and the penalty is a fine from $5 to $100, or imprisonment for a period of not more than fifteen days, or both.

DOMINIONS HOLD IDEAL OF EMPIRE

London Times Warns Englishmen of What Might Become a Dangerous Failing

London, April 23—(By mail)—In an editorial which discusses Lord Jellicoe's appointment as Governor General of New Zealand and describes the same as a direct acknowledgment of the part played by that Dominion in the war, the London Times goes on to refer to the fact, pointed out at a meeting of the Royal Colonial Institute, that only one-third of the members of the Institute belong to the United Kingdom.

In one sense it is undoubtedly true, as was said by Sir George Perley, the Times continues, that the ideal of Empire is closer to those who live overseas than to those who live in the heart of the Empire.

Anyone who knows the Dominions will agree that this is so. Over there they are often talking about the Empire. Even when they criticise the conduct of its affairs by the government, even when they are most insistent of their proud status as individual nations, it is still to them a real entity, of which they are no less proud to form a part.

On the other hand, we in this country are too apt to take the Empire for granted, just because we live in the heart of it. That is a grave, and might become a dangerous failing. The Empire can only remain an Empire if the heart, as well as the limbs, fulfils its proper functions.

Andrew Fisher, High Commissioner for Australia, warned us against the danger of what he called "patting" the Dominions. We may be as proud of them, and as grateful and as brotherly as we like, but, as he said, "God help us if we begin to pat them." Presumably that means, for the verb is new to us, that any suspicion of superiority or patronage in our attitude of thanks and admiration, however sincere, may cause untold mischief. That is another point which cannot escape the notice of any observant visitor to the Dominions.

The old colonial idea of the swaggering, haw haw Englishman, glass in eye and condescending in manner, dies hard. Even the comradeship of the battlefield has not quite killed it, and it is the bounden duty of all dwellers in the Home Country to give it the coup de grace. The type, and what it typifies, is now comparatively rare, but our insular reserve and shyness often saddle us with the reputation for a vice, the appearance of which it is hard to distinguish from the reality.

VAN HORNE ESTATE IN SUPREME COURT

Judgment Reserved in Appeal Respecting the Succession Duty

Ottawa, May 8.—The first case in the Supreme Court yesterday called was Minister of Finance, B. C., vs. Royal Trust. It is an appeal from the judgment of the Court of Appeals for British Columbia, affirming the judgment of the trial judge. This last judgment declared that the statement of the Minister of Finance determining the amount of succession duty in respect to the estate of the late Sir Wm. Van Horne payable to the Province of British Columbia proceeded upon an erroneous basis and that the succession duty payable in respect of such estate to the Province of British Columbia is and shall be the sum of $8,523.16 and no more. The appellant's grounds of appeal are that the property of the deceased, wherever situated, should be taken into account in determining the rate of succession duty to which the property of deceased situate within the Province of British Columbia is liable, and that the part of the property of deceased within the province is liable to the proportionate duty that would have been payable by that portion if all the property of deceased, wherever situate, had been within this province.

Why hens never lay half an egg!

The usual method of feeding mostly grain, makes yolks but not enough whites to complete the eggs. As the hen cannot lay these half-made eggs, she absorbs them back into her system. Missouri Experiment Station tests showed that 100 lbs. of wheat, corn, oats, barley and kaffir corn make (above bodily maintenance) an average of 224 yolks but only 154 whites. Based on data from the same experiments, Purina formulas produce, (above bodily maintenance) as follows:

Purina Scratch Feed	247.49 yolks	142.11 whites
Purina Chicken Chowder	182.05 "	282.55 "
Combined Ration	429.54 yolks	424.66 whites

Note the perfect balance of yolks and whites and the large number of each. This combination of Purina Feeds makes the maximum number of complete eggs, eggs a hen will lay. That's why we can absolutely guarantee more eggs or money back on Purina Chicken Chowder if fed with Purina Scratch Feed as directed. You take no risk.

HATES TERM "WIFE" SAYS DANIELSON

Fannie Hurst's Husband Irritated—Had Forgotten He Was Married

New York, May 7—"Please do not speak that detestably narrowing word of 'wife,' to me," repeatedly moaned Jacquis S. Danielson, the newly-announced husband of Fannie Hurst, today, when an avalanche of congratulations upon his revealed Benedict state struck him. The Russian American pianist has been spared the sound of the word since it became a reality for him five years ago, until today after friend wife decided to give to the press, a statement of her marriage, though today is his fifth wedding anniversary. The soul chords of the musician seem to have been jarringly strummed and irritation sits upon him.

"For five long years I have forgotten that I was married," he said, "and now the photographers and reporters haunt me with the glaring truth. Why should this arrangement of Miss Hurst and myself seem strange and be of interest to others?

"I have nothing to say—Miss Hurst will tell what she wants told."

Would Do It Over

When reportorial wiles prolonged the grilling, "Fanny Hurst's husband" (as he is rapidly becoming known) practically assured me that he would do the whole thing over again if necessary, that it was an ideal, that who made so many women foolish and even wicked was lack of anything to do save housework, and finally—again—that he had nothing to say in addition to Miss Hurst's statement.

"Ever since the day when I first heard the joke about the man who told his wife that he spent the evening at the lodge, I resolved that conventional married life would never be my portion," explained Mr. Danielson.

"Five years ago I met Miss Hurst and found that she rebelled against the thought of accounting for herself to some man—I found that she had too great a brain to be a household chattel, and that her work was as worth while as my own.

"She was living around Washington Square at that time with some girls, and one day we went over to New Jersey and were married. Fifteen minutes later she was home and I did not see her for ten days later. So it has been during the five years we have been married. We are the best of friends and companions, and what is more than most couples married that long we are lovers too.

No Explanations

"I live my life with no explanations to her and she does the same. We both have circles of friends that would never agree, so why impose our friends upon one another? Why go to shows together when, because of a difference in temperament, we would not select the same ones?

"When I wish to talk with Miss Hurst I make a date with her, if I can get her time (for she is a very busy woman). Sometimes it will be several weeks before this is possible, sometimes as much as twice a week. Then we talk about each other's work, although we do not feel that it is necessary to exert ourselves and take an interest in the other's output unless we want to. We do not always live on this mental plane. We are just 'regular folks,' who discuss the price of shoes (Miss Hurst buys her own) or anything else ordinary. I criticize the furnishing of her apartment and she does mine."

"But I really have nothing to say," the husband concluded. "Here are some tickets to a private showing of Miss Hurst's first movie. She is really going very big, you know."

Thus spake the masculine principal.

"Has our marriage of individuality succeeded?" asked Fanny herself in the purple batik apartment. "Look at me and decide!"

A look established the fact that this five dollar a word authoress was buxom and blooming. She deposited herself and her purple batik blouse and skirt in an inquisitorial chair and made her "statements."

Looked Prohibition

"There's nothing to do it. We both hated the garden variety of domesticity and couldn't help seeing that most people mussed up their lives too much by tring to believe that love and marriage came before one's creative work. Marriage to us looked prohibition—it's so restricting that you want what you can't have.

"Neither of us had intended to marry at all until we met each other. Jack never proposed, and I didn't either, but we had an understanding and when we knew just how the other one felt about freedom and all that, we did it.

"It has been ideal with us, although I can imagine that if a woman was willing to give her life to the trivialities of housekeeping she would find no charm in our arrangement.

"Our homes are always at the disposal of one another, although we each prefer our own apartment. I never know or care where Mr. Danielson has been, and never exert myself to tell him of my perambulations. Imagine a man having to lie to his wife about what he has been doing, when that something was his choice!

"Of course we trust each other but even trust is not absolutely essential. It is simply the possibility of making one's work bigger than marriage, and in some Utopian day all women will feel that way just as men do now."

Remembered Their Pastor.

Rev. E. C. Budd and Mrs. Budd, of Temperance Vale, are sailing this week on a three months' visit to England. On Tuesday a bean supper was held in aid of St. Luke's Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary, and the sum of $34 realized. During the evening Perley Fox on behalf of the congregation of St. Luke's church presented Rev. Mr. Budd and Mrs. Budd with $67 as a token of their esteem. Although taken completely by surprise, the reverend gentleman expressed his thanks in a few well chosen words.

A fast young man is seldom able to keep up wtih his running expenses.

For Certified Seed Potatoes

This term is applied to potatoes which have passed two inspections made by inspectors of the Division of Botany, Experimental Farms branch, Department of Agriculture. These inspections are made (1) of the growing plants during the blossoming period, and (2) at the time the tubers are dug, or after they have been placed in storage.

While purity of variety is given due consideration in determining the claims of a crop to certification, the prime object of this work is the absence and, incidentally, the control of disease particularly of constitutional diseases such as leaf roll and mosaic which have proven to be responsible for a serious reduction in yields in many parts of the country. As the only possibility of distinguishing the presence of these diseases lies in the inspection of the growing plants, it is obvious that in order to ascertain the presence of ,or freedom from, leaf roll or mosaic in any crop, inspection must of necessity commence in the growing season and preferably during the blossoming period, as it is at this time a matter of small difficulty to distinguish any impurity or variety. Thus the twofold object is attained.

At the conclusion of the inspection of a field of potatoes, the inspector hands to the grower a record showing the exact condition of his crop. Should the field be found to measure up to the required standard, the grower is again visited at, or after harvest time and an inspection made of the tubers to ascertain to what extent, if any, diseases such as Common Scab, Rhizoctonia, etc., are present. Should this final inspection prove satisfactory, the potatoes are graded as either No. 1 or No. grade seed potatoes, and a sufficient number of tags to cover the number of bags or other containers to which they are attached, have been grown by the person whose name appears on the tags; that they have been inspected by an officer of the Dominion Department of Agriculture and found to be sufficiently vigorous and free from serious diseases, and other pests and foreign varieties to warrant them being classed as No. 1 (or No. 2) grade seed potatoes.

On the other hand, if a field fails in the field inspection to measure up to the required standard owing to the presence of a larger percentage of diseases or impure varieties than is allowed, it is given no further consideration; the grower being advised to change his seed and to procure for this change seed potatoes from some grower whose stock has satisfactorily passed both field and tuber inspection.

This work is being carried on at present chiefly in northern Ontario, in parts of New Brunswick, Quebec, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. It is proving of value to the grower in that it frequently reveals to him the loss which he is incurring by the use of diseased seed.

TRAP SHOOTERS FOR ANTWERP CONTESTS

Toronto, May 7.—It was decided at a meeting of the Eastern Canada Trap Shooting Association here yesterday that the trials would be held in all points of Canada for the purpose of selecting a team of six men with two spares, to go to Antwerp to shoot for Canada. It was decided that the dates for these trials are to be May 8, 15 and 22, and that they will be held all over Canada on these dates.

BRITAIN HAS BIG RAILWAY SCHEME

Geddes Plans All Undertakings to Be Divided Into Four Groups

London, May 7.—Sir Eric Geddes' scheme for the economical administration of British railways, which is now being considered by the cabinet disposes of the widespread expectation that the systems were to be nationalized. The scheme, however, contains some revolutionary proposals. The one hundred and thirty-five railway undertakings in England and Wales are to be distributed into four geographical groups, comprising the northeastern and central system, the northwestern and midland, the southwestern and south coast and the western and Wales system, each administered by one board of management.

The proposal is that they will buy out smaller companies and lease their lines to the larger undertakings in various groups, thus leaving the entire management to be continued by private enterprise. It claimed this coordination scheme will effect enormous economies in directors' fees and administration charges while the pooling of locomotives and wagons and the prevention of overlapping will make for greater efficiency.

The proposals will not, however, pass into law without a storm of protest from the working railwaymen who have placed absolute dependence on statement by Winston Churchill during the general election to the effect that the government intended to nationalize the lines. Nationalization makes the same appeal to railwaymen as to the miners, and the tabling of Geddes' scheme is certain to usher in another big struggle on this issue.

BEST SWEARS HE NEVER SEEN GIRL

Pontiac, Mich., May 7—On the stand in his own behalf this morning Anson Best, charged with the murder, April 24, of Miss Vera Schneider, testified that he had never seen the girl until he was asked by officers to look at her body when he was stopped at the scene of the crime shortly after it was discovered.

Once during the testimony Best broke down and wept for several minutes.

LABOR SITUATION THROUGH FRANCE

Railway Strike Petering Out, But Miners Determine to Strike on Monday

Paris, May 7.—There was no apparent change in the strike situation in this city and through France this morning. During the past day or two a large number of extremist railroad workers have been arrested, but many of these have been discharged.

The executive committee of the railway workers' federation held a stormy meeting last night, at which, it is understood, there was strong sentiment in favor of calling off the strike if it could be done without appearing to capitulate to the Government.

Miners in the northern coal fields have finally decided to strike next Monday. The situation among dock workers and seamen shows no change. There appears to be some division of council among the outlaw metal workers who have struck, as their movement so far has involved only twenty thousand out of two hundred thousand men engaged in the various trades affected.

Canada's Forest Products

The Royal Bank of Canada's letter for May has the following item of interest on Canada's Forest Products:

No class of commodities has done more than the products of our forests to fill the gap in our export trade caused by the stoppage of munition shipments and the reduction in European demand for foodstuffs. Exports of lumber, which have always been large, have nearly doubled in value during the last few years. The growth of the pulp and paper trade has been much more recent. Exports of these products in the year 1912 did not reach 10 million dollars. For the year just ended they will be over one hundred million. Coincident with the growth in the exports of wood and wood products, has been a strong increase in home consumption, raising the figures of total production to a very large amount.

The values of exports for the fiscal years ending March 31, 1913 and 1918, and the year ending Feb. 28, 1920, are given below:

	1913	1918	1920
Wood	43,200,000	51,800,000	100,000,000
Pulp	5,500,000	25,600,000	39,000,000
Paper .. .	6,300,000	37,300,000	62,000,000
Total Exports	55,000,000	114,700,000	201,000,000
Total Imports	29,000,000	18,000,000	26,000,000

These industries are the most widely distributed manufacturing enterprise in Canada, employing more capital and paying more wages than any other industry except agriculture. The forest resources that they rely on for their supply are so large that an adequate survey of their extent and character has not yet been made. The true commercial forest of Eastern Canada is located on the southern slope of the Laurentian Plateau, a country primarily fit for forest use. This area, which is all in Ontario and Quebec, contains over 150 million of the Dominion's estimated total of 250 million acres of land covered with trees which could be used for sawing into timber. In addition, it contains the main supplies of wood pulp, probably 500 million cords out of a Dominion total of about 800 million. British Columbia is supposed to possess about 30 million acres of commercial timber and at least 200 million cords of pulp wood. Although the area of timber lands in New Brunswick is not comparatively large—nine million acres—the lumber production of this province in 1917 was valued at twelve million dollars. Large as these figures are, the supplies they represent are far from inexhaustible. The eastern United States, which once had even larger quantities to draw upon, has been so reduced by forest fires and industrial exploitation that there is not more than a ten to fifteen years' supply of spruce left for the existing pulp mills. Much greater interest is now being shown in Canada in the question of future supply. It is recognized that, unless fire losses are reduced, and cutover areas reforested as far as possible, each year brings the industry nearer the exhaustion of its supply of raw material. France and the Scandinavian countries are examples of what can be accomplished by proper methods of conservation.

The outlook for the future of the timber, and pulp and paper industries, is most favorable. Five years cessation in building, and five years increase in population, have combined to make an unprecedented demand for lumber in the United States and in Canada. The need is even greater in Europe, where the devastated areas have to be rebuilt.

As regards pulp and paper, general prosperity has created a great demand for advertising space, resulting in a sharp increase in the consumption of newsprint. This has not been confined to any one country. The United States is our largest customer, but the Orient, Australasia, South America and Europe are all buying in the Canadian market on an increasing scale. Prices have soared during April. Bleached sulphite, which was quoted early in the month at $150 a ton, has doubled in price. Ground wood pulp sold a few months ago at $45 a ton. It is now about $100 f.o.b the mills.

A significant recent development has been the entry into the Canadian market of Spain, a country which has hitherto obtained its imports of pulp and paper from Scandinavia. The wood pulp supply of this Scandinavian area is practically sold out, and it is questioned whether they will continue shipments to the United States, which have, in the past, amounted to 125,000 tons a year.

The Scandinavian situation has a close bearing on the prospects for the future of the Canadian industry. Production of paper, especially newsprint, is being greatly increased in this country. The supply, which is well below demand at present, may very possibly be sufficient to fill all export requirements in the course of the next few years, and there would certainly be a risk of over production at that date of other countries were able to increase their output on the same scale as Canada. The principal foreign pulp producing countries are the United States and Sweden. As noted above, the pulp wood supply of the former is strictly limited. In Sweden, the entire forest area in public and private ownership is virtually under a reign of scientific forestry law, and cutting must be done in accordance with forestry regulations. The increase of production to a point which would commence the exhaustion of the total supply, by consuming more than the annual reproduction, will not be permitted. Norway's forest laws are along the same lines. The annual output of these countries, therefore, is probably at its peak.

Canada's supply, then, constitutes the main reserve against a world demand, which, even after the present sharp rise in consumption is over, must inevitably tend to increase with growth of population and improvement in the standard of education.

MEN TOO FAT FOR NEWEST SUITS

Corset Effect of Spring Style Makes Clothes Fit Badly on Corpulent Men.

Men's waist lines are growing larger, according to the observation of those who have been engaged in selling men their spring outfits. Unless some improvement is made in the present situation, so that the scale turns in the opposite direction, they will have to give up all attempts to wear the form fitting clothes now in fashion, which require a decided incurve at the waist, and go around in bag-like costumes resembling the smocks of Greenwich Village.

The discovery of the increasing masculine girth caused surprise in the sartorial world, where it was thought that more sylphlike proportions would result from the enforcement of prohibition. A more thorough analysis of the situation, however, showed that although there was an entire abandonment of the beer drinking habit, as everyone knows who has been looking around New York at all recently, the drinkers immediately substituted the candy eating habit for their former potations. Many of them carry paper bags containing chocolates or gum drops in their pockets from one week's end to another, and when the supply becomes depleted instantly send the office boy out for a fresh one.

"From the point of view of good form candy eating is far more precarious than drinking," said one thoughtful salesman who had tried to insert several customers into new form fitting suits and succeeded in producing a ripping effect, not at all desirable in the opinion of the clothing trade.

"There is one thing about men, however, added the salesman, "they are more controlled and philosophical than women when it comes to being put in the 'stout class.' With the exception of actors and other sporting characters they always acquiesce when we tell them they are out of the young men' class when it comes to suits.

"Actors and baseball reporters insist on snappy styles, no matter how elderly and fat they are. There are long stouts, short stouts and medium stouts in the men's clothing trade, and all three groups look better in double breasted coats than anything else. We can get a form fitting effect by fitting the coats in at the sides and letting them slope out rather subtly in front. Young men stouts are, of course, not so easily diverted from the modes of the moment as those of older growth, and we make a special effort to adapt the season's waist line effects to their requirements."

A sweet feature of the spring top coats for men are those of reddish tone, which reminded the observer of spring poetry and "the deeper crimson" which glows upon the robin's breast at that season, according to Mr. Tennyson. Extreme youth is also expected to garb itself in rather vivid green shades. But the favorite lounge lizard model has been shorn of its peculiar distinction this spring. Belts have disappeared from coats, and thus the pet short waisted effects are greatly modified. There are quantities of patch pockets which try to make up for the disappearance of the belt, which in some trick clothes is permitted to remain for a brief space in the back only.

"The principal thing to remember, however," said the salesman, "is that if he must carry something on the hip it had better not be a bag of candy. Everything is form fitting now and fat is fatal."

Scientists tell us that people should wed their opposites. That is why so many people are anxious to marry money.

THE HINTERLANDS OF THE DOMINION

A Government Exploration Party Go on 4,000 Mile Trip to Far North

Winnipeg, May 7.—F. H. Kitto, of the natural resources department of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, and a government expedition left here recently on a 4,000 mile trip into the hinterlands of Canada for the purpose of making a report on the buffalo country and the mining possibilities of the farthest north. The party will go from Peace River Crossing down the river by boat to Fort Chipperwyan and on to Fort Fitzgerald, over for 16 miles to Fort Smith and by boat down the McKenzie river to Rat River and thence to Fort McPherson, up the Rat River to the height of land between the waters of the McKenzie basin and the Yukon, reaching Porcupine river at Paierre House, down the Porcupine river to Dawson City and thence to Vancouver. A side trip into the Stewart Lake mining district will be made and government reports will be made on the road between Fort Fitzgerald and Fort Smith, which is being graded as a vehicle road, and will also make a report on the buffalo country. The party expect to return to Winnipeg about September.

SURVEY NORTHERN BRITISH COLUMBIA

Vancouver, B. C., May 7.—The provincial government has arranged to send out two parties of engineers this summer to conduct a survey north from Prince George for the proposed extension of the Pacific Great Eastern into the Peace River country. Premier Oliver formally announced while in the city recently. The extension will tap one of the richest tracts of territory in the province, and provide an outlet to the coast for the fertile area north of Edmonton, Alta., which is fed now simply by the Edmonton & Dunvegan railway.

SALARIES INADEQUATE

Many Methodist Ministers Are Leaving Pulpits.

Toronto, May 7.—Salaries of Methodist ministers throughout the country are so inadequate that many ministers are resigning and leaving the pulpit altogether, according to Rev. R. J. D. Simpson, of the Superannuation Department of the church. Mr. Simpson, in a statement issued by him, claims that while the cost of living has increased 100 per cent. or more, some of the Methodist ministers are still attempting to live on their old remuneration.

Mr. Simpson cites ten cases of ministers who have been preaching from seven to twenty-nine years, whose salaries range from $566 to 795 per year, and in these ten cases there are arrears of salary of from $750 to $2,210. Not one salary of these ten ministers is paid in full, he states.

You Pay only the Same Duty on Red Rose Orange Pekoe Tea as on the Very Poorest Tea

Before the war there was no duty on tea.

To-day there is a duty of 7 cents a pound on tea brought from British possessions, and one of 10c. a pound on tea brought from other countries, regardless of the quality.

If it were levied on the value of the tea, as is the case with other goods imported into Canada, the duty on a pound of Red Rose Orange Pekoe Tea would be about double that levied on common tea.

But the duty on a pound of this fine-quality, mountain-grown tea — Red Rose Orange Pekoe Tea—is the same as that on a pound of the very poorest tea.

This is one of the reasons that this tea of extra quality—as well as our standard, well-known Red Rose brand—is so much better value than ordinary teas.

You pay less duty.

This situation is appreciated by tea lovers all over Canada. There is a greater demand for fine-quality tea to-day than before the war. And our NEW fine-quality tea—Red Rose Orange Pekoe—is already enjoying a brisk demand.

Try it. Sold only in our new package—the waxed board carton.

AN AIR RACE FROM NEW YORK TO ALASKA

A Great Transcontinental Race Being Planned for This Summer.

New York, May 7— Atranscontinental air race from New York to Alaska, in part over Canadian territory, is among the numerous ambitious aeronautic events planned for this year. The course mapped out for this aerial marathon covers a distance of 4,870 miles. In making the arrangements for the race the American Flying Club is co-operating with the training and operations group of the U. S. Army Air Service.

The aviators, according to tentative plans, will hop off at the Mineola, N. Y., field at a date to be fixed later, probably early in the summer. The course will be over United States territory to Minot, N. D., from which point the flyers will cross into Canada, crossing the provinces of Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia to Fort Egbert, on the Alaska border. In Alaska the route runs to Circle, Fort Yukon, Fairbanks by way of Fort Gibbon, and thence to Nulato and Nome, the latter point being the final landing place. Compulsory stops at an average of 150 miles apart will be arranged.

The present year promises to be a banner one in the history of aviation as a sport, both in America and in Europe. So far as the United States is concerned, the first event of importance will be the flying field day of the Intercollegiate Flying Association at Mineola Field, May 7. Eleven American colleges and universities will be represented in a varied programme of flying feats, concluding with a cross-country flight. The American Flying Club is also arranging for a seaplane race around Long Island early this summer.

In France a flying meet will be held at Juvisy, near Paris, May 22 and 23. The British aircraft exhibition will be held at London in July. In addition the British government has offered several million pounds as prizes for various airplane sporting events to be held during the year. The Cape to Cairo route is being blazed. Between th two points the distance by rail, steamship or ground transport is approximately 6,223 miles. The aerial line is about 5,200 miles.

BOOST PRICE OF FARM IMPLEMENTS

Regina, Sask., May 7—A complaint is being voiced by farmers that the implement companies have recently "boosted" the price of farm implements another 10 per cent. without visible reason. The farmers point out that since the spring list was made up and filed with the Government under the act a supplementary list has been put into force, which increases the prices on an average of 10 per cent., and that the new prices will be felt seriously by those farmers who were not fortunate enough to contract for their implements last season.

REFUSE OFFER FOR LONDON MUSIC HALL

London, May 7—The Allen's theatrial enterprises of Canada have offered £430,000 for the Empire, one of London's principal music halls. The contract was put before the shareholders for ratification, but the resolution was withdrawn and the meeting was adjourned to consider a higher bid made by Sir Alfred Butt.

S .W. Smith, who made the Canadian offer, hotly protested. The money, he said, was British capital, and he expected to be treated in a

DAYLIGHT SAVING AFFECTS REVENUE

Saskatoon, Sask., May 7—Rejection of the daylight saving measure will mean a difference in revenue for the season of approximately $15,000 to the Saskatoon power house, it is stated by city officials, basing their calculations on the result last year, when its adoption caused a drop in revenue of nearly $11,000.

34 STATES PASS U. S. ENFORCEMENT LAW

Eleven States Have Not Yet Passed the Law to Make Prohibition General.

Louisville, Ky., May 7—Farmers in Kentucky who have been accustomed to quenching their thirst with hard cider may be classed as "moonshiners" under the McLellan law, which goes into effect on July 1. Under the state-wide dry amendment, adopted by the people last fall, any person having a beverage containing more than one-half of one per cent. alcohol, including cider or home made wine, on their premises, may be haled into court to show whether they manufactured it with or without a permit.

Kentucky in thus assuming "concurrent jurisdiction" with the government of the United States in enforcing prohibition, puts more teeth into the Volstead Enforcement Act and makes every peace officer in the state responsible for keeping the commonwealth "bone dry."

Thirty-four other states and the District of Columbia have state law enforcement measures, as follows: Alabama, Arkansas, Colorado, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia and Wyoming. Ohio has not adopted a complete enforcement code, three codes having been passed by the legislature and held up by the popular referendum.

Eleven states which so far have not passed law enforcement codes are: Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Vermont, New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Louisiana and Wisconsin. Three of the eleven, Rhode Island, New Jersey and Wisconsin, have adopted beer bills. The Wisconsin legislature, in enacting a two and one-half per cent. law, provided that if the United States Supreme court sustains the Volstead Act, the statute shall not go into effect. Rhode Island will license places selling beverages containing not more than four per cent. of alcohol by weight on the ground that it is non-intoxicating. New Jersey, in legalizing the manufacture, sale and transportation of three and one-half per cent. beer, awaits the formal declaration of peace and the end of war prohibition.

Maryland wet legislators proposed a 3½ per cent. beer bill, which was passed by the House but defeated in the Senate. A 3½ per cent. bill is now pending in the Massachusetts and New York legislatures. Delaware is considering an amendment to the state prohibition code providing for the sale of liquor for "medicinal purposes" in harmony with the federal code. The drys oppose it on the ground that it nullifies much of the state enforcement law.

PEPPER BLAMED FOR MEXICO ROWS

Some Think Fiery Liquor Has Something to Do With Disturbances

Pepper is the source of Mexican revolutions, according to many people. Hot tamales, chili con carne, which means pepper with meat; chili rellenas, chili con queso, or pepper with cheese; all the other hot dishes that delight the Mexican palate, are supposed to incite these fiery Latin-Indian folk to actions that people of more sober mien would not contemplate.

But the border citizens of this country place the greater blame on the liquid refreshments indulged in by our neighbors to the South. Aguardiente, tequila, mescal, drinks that rouse stormy passions in the Latin and paralyze the senses of the Anglo-Saxon, are consumed in great quantities.

Tequila, father of comets, sea serpents, misshapen giants, juggernauts, and a thousand other monsters, is a white liquid brewed from "bear grass," a desert growing plant with clusters of thick, hard and watery dagger-like leaves with needle points. Mescal, a brew of cactus leaves, is its companion drink, and mixed the very smell will put even a prohibition enforcement agent in a state of coma.

LOWER SOUTHAMPTON, N. B.

Lower Southampton, N. B., May 3.—The weather still continues very cod, which will make late cropping.

Mr. Ferdinand Stairs has sold his farm to Allan Stairs and has purchased the new residence of S. A. Flewelling at Happy Corner.

Mr. E. C. Morgan, our popular station agent, has purchased the George Pinder property at Otis and has already removed to same.

Mr. Harry Flewelling is painting his new residence at Happy Corner.

Mrs. Ernest Stairs, Mrs. Bertha Cronkite and Mrs. Fred Stairs were calling on friends at Upper Southampton on Friday.

Mr. E. H. Clarkson, of Fredericton, was a recent visitor in this place.

Mrs. Roy Flewelling and two children, Fraser and Vloetta, returned home on Tuesday after a two week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. George Flewelling at Woodstock.

Miss Dorothy Stairs spent the week end with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Flewelling.

The community was saddened on Thursday to hear of the death of Mrs. Ross F. Woodman, of Rossville, in the 78th year of her age. She had been suffering from neuralgia of the nerves for the past few months, but bore her sickness always with Christian fortitude. She leaves to mourn the loss of a kind and loving mother her husband, Ross F. Woodman, five sons, Charles, of Temperance Vale, Ross and John, at home, Ezra, of Ontario, Eddie, in the West; also two daughters, Mrs. Wilder, of Worcester, Mass., and Mary, at home.

The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Presbyterian church, Rev. Mr. Middleton officiating, assisted by the Rev. T. D. Bell. Interment took place in the Presbyterian cemetery at Lower Southampton, the pall bearers being Messrs. Thomas and Alexander Trail, John Culliton and Jaber Bradbury.

AMBER IS SCARCE AND EXPENSIVE

Material Used for Pipe Stems Is the Fossilized Resin of Trees Long Buried.

If anyone can dig up a lot of amber in the United States or find a lot somewhere else and bring it here, he can make a pile of money. There's practically no amber in the market. None, or very little of it, has come here since the war began. And as the principal source of supply, the Baltic regions, is still tossing coins with the Bolshevists it is not likely that any amber will come from there for a long time.

Before the war amber sold here as high as $30 a pound, and more for especially choice specimens. Now it commands almost any price that the holder chooses to ask, up to $80 a pound, or even higher. These figures are for "rock" amber. The "pressed" amber is much cheaper.

Of course we could live a long time without any amber. It is not one of the necessities of life. But for some purposes, such as the manufacture of cigar and cigarette holders and pipe bits, no perfect substitute for amber has ever been found. It is used also in the making of some kinds of varnish and for beads, other personal adornments and vases.

Amber 100,000 Years Old.

Amber is a fossilized resin—that is, a resin that exuded from trees 100,000 to 200,000 years ago, and was turned hard in the course of many centuries. Sometimes, before the resin hardened, it caught bees and flies and other insects or bits of wood or feathers, and preserved them for the curious of succeeding ages.

Amber is found also in other parts of Europe, America and Australasia. The greatest amber producing district is Samland, a square-shaped piece of territory in what was formerly East Prussia, but has now gone—or will go eventually—to Poland. The district lies between Koenigsberg and Memel. Amber is found there partly cast up by the sea, and it is obtained also in part by means of nets. Much of it is mined, like a mineral, but mostly in small chunks. Some of the beds lie on the bottom of the ocean, and divers have been employed to get the amber out.

Easily Fused and Worked.

Amber comes in round, irregularly shaped lumps. Its color ranges from a pale yellow to a reddish brown. It is sometimes transparent and sometimes opaque. When it is heated gradually in an oil bath it becomes soft and flexible and may be worked easily. Two pieces may be united by smearing the surface with linseed oil and then pressing them together while hot. Cloudy amber may be clarified by boiling it in oil, as the oil fills the numerous pores to which the turbid appearance of the amber is due. Formerly the small bits of amber cast off in making objects were wasted or ground up for use in varnish, but now they are pressed together into "ambroid" or "pressed amber."

REFUSE TO ACCEDE TO MEN'S DEMANDS

Montreal, May 7.—The Montreal Tramways Company has refused to grant its employees the 100 per cent. increase in wages demanded. It points out that to comply with the demands, additional revenue of $3,500,000 would be required, and to secure it ten-cent fares would have to be charged.

The company promises that it will try and make a distribution of any surplus it might have after deficits for the past two years have been made up, though such a division could not possibly bring the men's wages up to the figure demanded.

It is unlucky to come home hungry and find a black cat in the pantry.

Woman And The Age

MORE THAN "SWEET LOVE" WOULD BE SLAIN IF WOMEN CEASED TO BE WOMEN WITH ALL THEIR BAFFLING QUALITIES THICK UPON THEM, WRITES DR. W. T. HERRIDGE, IN THE OTTAWA JOURNAL.

[Written for The Journal by W. T. Herridge.]

There can be no doubt that the past history of the world has been dominated by men acting in a more or less exclusive way. This is not because women were altogether ignored—for such a thing is impossible—but rather because of the assumption of mental and moral superiority over them: This comfortable creed may have been abandoned in certain moods, or under the spell of an unusually winsome object. But whether cherished as a delicate and fascinating ornament, or spurned as a kind of chattel, the popular orthodoxy of earlier generations did not regard women as capable of taking any serious part in the more difficult problems of life. And as for their character, one can imagine the frown on Tertullian's stern face as he penned this diatribe: "Do you not know that each one of you is an Eve? The sentence of God on this sex of yours lives in this age; the guilt must of necessity live too. You are the devil's gateway, you are the unsealer of the forbidden tree; you are the first deserter of the divine law; you are she who persuaded him whom the devil was not valiant enough to attack. You destroyed so easily God's image, man." This is pretty strong language from a celebrated "father" of the church whose cynicism cannot be explained as the outcome of unfortunate personal experience.

Time has gradually evolved a fairer estimate; and now, because of the persuasion that women can do so much for the progress of the world, the main question has come to be, How shall they best do it? The broader education open to women in our day, and the removal of a good deal of prejudice against their free participation in practical matters unquestionably increase the range of opportunity. And whatever men may think about it, or even though, in certain ways they still hold the power of veto, women will have to determine for themselves their true vocation, and its most fitting modes of exercise.

Yet they will not, any more than men, do their best work alone. Sex is a basic fact which is bound to affect most of the movements of life; though only morbid pruriency makes it the "problem" with which a decadent school of literature sickens us. "Every man," says George Eliot, "who is not a monster, a mathematician, or a mad philosopher is the slave of some woman or other"; and conversely, no woman objects to playing second fiddle if the first fiddle is really masterful. Much of the restlessness of women in our day is an unconscious protest against the wavering manliness of man. "Were I to marry again," says Luther in his Table Talk, "I should carve an obedient woman out of stone. For I despair otherwise of finding obedience in women." But such despair, even though justified, would not be banished by feminine petrifaction. When Lot's wife was turned into a pillar of salt, she lost her power both of good and evil. More than "sweet love" would be slain if women ceased to be women with all their baffling qualities thick upon them.

Coleridge profoundly remarks, "A great mind must be androgynous"; that is to say, it must combine in itself the characteristics of both sexes. But failing the advent of such a rare personality, perhaps a more widespread fusion of man's often blundering "common sense" with woman's subtle intuitions would yield the best results. At all events, each sex should study the other and try to understand it. For as long as there is strife between them, this cannot be a peaceful world.

Women may need less elaborate education than men because of their quick insight into some things which logic grasps but slowly. Yet their education should be thorough in its own way, and bring out most effectively their own distinctive attributes. "The woman," says Robert Louis Stevenson, "must be talented as a woman, and it will not much matter though she is talented in nothing else." It is sometimes assumed that intellectual culture will not fit in well with domesticity. But home is the last place for dullness. The woman who has learned to think can be more "practical" than her untutored sisters, not only because she brings to bear upon trifling details the strength of her whole nature, but because she discerns that they are not so trifling when viewed in the broader relationships. Any initial defects as a "housekeeper" she will overcome, so far as they are worth overcoming, and all the while she will prove a "homekeeper"—which means infinitely more. Man is so helpless in certain ways that the setting of his intimate life must have a marked effect upon him wherever he goes, and unless his stomach is the sole emotional centre, even the plainest fare, in the midst of kindly faces and alert minds, will prove a greater inspiration than the utmost material luxury if these are wanting.

Home affords a supreme test of human character. If one deserves to be popular there, unpopularity elsewhere will seem of less consequence. Mrs. Jellaby had a high reputation among a certain type of reformers; but her neglected children mocked her enthusiasm for the far-off natives of Borrioboola-Gha. Of course, there are some noble women who, either through choice or necessity, are free from domestic cares, and able to devote their time to other matters. But even in such cases, the lessons taught by family life will be their safest and most helpful guide. As long as women possess the power of maternity, the sexes cannot be equal. In the lap of the true mother-soul lies that gathered treasure of patience and self-sacrifice and hope without which the world would be poor indeed.

According to Mrs. Poyser, God made some women foolish to match the men. But a partnership in weakness can scarcely content either side. The worst men shrink from the thought of women being like them, even though their own actions precipitate such a degradation; and the chivalrous knight wants to be able to say with Sir Philip Sydney:

"O fair, O sweet, when I do look on thee
In whom all joys so well agree,
Heart and soul do sing in me."

Though woman is not shut up to the loneliness of absolute perfection, if her garment of purity is torn asunder, or replaced by a robe of venom, she has dimmed the hope of the world. For it is part of woman's wonderful gift to be able to make her light shine even in the darkest places, because she rises above every handicap of circumstance and keeps her idealism in spite of mocking voices that would laugh it to scorn and rough hands that would pound it into nothingness. Such a woman may have no history. She may feel a distaste for anything that would bring her before the public eye. But she is the true saviour.

Let women be free to go where they please, and do what they please, so long as the wings of their inspiring ministry remain unbroken. Much of the tedious debate of this age with regard to the proper place of women would be ended when it was once perceived that any vote at "meetings" is worth far less than the inalienable franchise of noble character. Francis Thompson, in his poem, The After Woman, says:

"Daughter of the ancient Eve . . . . .
We know the gifts ye gave—and give,
Who knows the gifts which you shall give,
Daughter of the newer Eve?
You, if my soul be augur, you
Shall—O what shall you not, Sweet, do?
The celestial traitress play,
And all mankind to bliss betray;
With sacrosanct cajoleries,
And starry treachery of your eyes,
Tempt us back to Paradise."

But if the "cajoleries" are not "sacrosanct," nor the "treachery" "starry," we shall be tempted to quite a different place. This does not mean that Adam's cowardly example is to be followed of putting all the blame on the other side; but rather that, whatever part women may have had in the Fall of Man, there can never be a Rise of Man without her.

Every domain of life is bound to be affected beneficially by the influence of true womanhood; but this does not necessitate woman's direct entrance into all of them before it can be exercised. In one of his novels, George Meredith says, "To the host of males, all ideas are female until they are made facts." Yet even so, the facts will amount to a great deal more because of the ideas behind them. Unless wide-branching activity is nourished by a seeming passivity deep-rooted in the soil of earth, it will grow crooked, and be stripped of any rich fruitage. An unhealthy craving for novel adventures and external stimulus in order to maintain their interest in things, would exile women from their own true world. The silent partner rules the situation. Commerce will become less frantic, exchange be better adjusted, and the whole matter of money given a less important place than it now has, when that love of the beautiful which women possess, instead of degenerating into competitive display, is directed towards a tasteful simplicity, and aspires above all else, to loveliness of mind and soul.

The woman who elects to live the life which she deems best, though the prevailing vogue is different, runs the risk of being called "eccentric." The woman who goes into Parliament may be of service there; but her husband is apt to excite a sympathy perhaps beyond his deserts. Even women's organizations do not always bring out the finest qualities of their several members, because women work best in the sphere of the personal and concrete. If they do things in a natural, not an imitative way, they are almost bound to be nonconformists; but much depends on the motive and spirit of their nonconformity. Tagore does not speak from a mere Oriental point of view when he expresses the hope that the next civilization will be based "upon spiritual ideals of reciprocity, and not upon economic ideals of efficiency. And then women will have their true place."

This goal is not yet reached; and he would be a bold writer who undertook to dogmatize too confidently with regard to the exact methods of reaching it. But, meanwhile, may not the women who seem to be doing least really do most, because they live quiet, thoughtful, serviceable lives, looking out, with the insight born of fidelity to immediate tasks, upon the complex affairs of the world, and so unconsciously making it a sweeter and better abode both for themselves and others?

HANDS JOLT TO THE HOME BREWERIES

No More Hops or Malt for Sale Except Buyer is Above Suspicion

Chicago, May 7.—The home breweries are in for a rest. John F. Kramer, prohibition chief, sent from Washington today a notice that the sale of malt and hops which may be used in manufacture of beer at home is illegal and a violation of the law. He writes:

"This is a manifest attempt to sell materials for the manufacture of intoxicating malt liquors in home and elsewhere and, in consequence, is in direction violation of section 18 of the amendment. Any person selling these materials under circumstances which would point that they were to be used for intoxicants is liable to fine as a conspirator."

The letter was also interpreted to mean that dealers selling fruits, raisins, yeast and other materials from which alcohol might be distilled will be subject to arrest if they knew the materials are to be used for an illegal purpose.

Thousands of stores in Chicago, including some of the largest department stores, are now selling hops and malt and other supplies for the home brewer.

NAPOLEON STILL HERO OF FRANCE

Centenary of Little Corporal's Death Next Year to be Fittingly Observed

Paris can never forget Napoleon. Ever since the first Emperor died, leaving monuments of his work in every corner of the city from the Madeline to the Church of St. Roch, his "children," the French, have been erecting memorials and dedicating their acts to the little Corsican.

The first centenary of his death falls on May 5, 1921. Already a committee has been formed to organize a big celebration in the French capital. Probably more monuments in his name will be erected during the festivities. The first of a long series of memorials which are to come has just been started in the Napoleon Endowment, a fund to help many charities which the Frenchmen would not think of dedicating to any but their great leader.

The fund when fully subscribed will be offered to the Government to be used in the work of reconstructing the war torn sections of the land and to help disabled soldiers, orphans and other sufferers from the Teutonic invasion.

How the people of Paris could erect another great souvenir of the immortal Bonaparte in their city, already crowded with objects of art and history, is not quite evident to the foreign visitor. Of the many structures of this type which dot the city, not a few are the work of or are in remembrance of him.

Madeleine for "Grand Army."

In the heart of Paris the Church of the Madeleine might be mentioned as one of his works which still remain. In his enthusiasm to make this building the centre of France's glory he decreed in 1806 that it should be a temple of glory to commemorate the "Grand Army." The Cathedral of Notre Dame may thank the same patron for its present existence, for it was he who reopened it in 1802 after it had been started on the road to ruin by the revolutionists, who had turned it into a "Temple of Reason."

The statue of Henri of Navarre on the Pont Neuf, the oldest bridge in the city, is a memento of Napoleon, for it was cast from the bronze of the Emperor's statue which was torn from the top of the Vendome column in 1814. This column was erected to honor the victories of the great soldier, his martial deeds being depicted in a spiral strip which covers the surface of the pillar. His figure, in the robes of a Roman Emperor, has since been placed at the top. The Exchange Bridge was erected by Napoleon and still bears his monogram on each arch. Even the pleasures of Paris bear his stamp, for the leading classical theatre, the Theatre Francais, is operated under his decree of Moscow. The famous collonades of the Louvre district are his work. He designed them in memory of his native Corsica, where that type of architecture is common.

Greatest of all monuments of the Emperor are the two arches of triumph, L'Arc de l'Etoile and L'Arc du Carrousel, both of which were erected by the devoted Parisians that all the world might know of the military supremacy which was theirs under Napoleon. Equal to these in importance is the tomb of the Emperor, Les Invalides, which he decided should be a home for aged and disabled soldiers, but which the Parisians turned into a great museum to house countless trophies of his wars and articles of his personal equipment, as well as the body of the national hero who wishes to be buried on the banks of the Seine amidst his beloved "children."

Big Things in Napoleon's Name.

Then, too, there is the Church of St. Roch, the plague saint, which still bears the scars of bullets fired when he first attained prominence by driving from its steps a mob that had gathered in opposition to the National Assembly. Paris, to, has a Fountain of Victory in the Place du Chatelet, which they could not adorn otherwise than with four sphinxes representing the four greatest victories of Napoleon.

If Paris does anything worth while it must be done in the name of Napoleon. If any great permanent structure is erected it must be dedicated to him.

EAGER TO RIDE ON ROCKET TO MOON

Nine Men Offer for Trip, but the First to Go Must Be Iron Man.

Chicago, May 7.—The first man who goes to the moon on a rocket will have to be an iron man, said Prof. Robert H. Goddard, head of the physics department of Clark College, Worcester, Mass., in an interview here today. Prof. Goddard is the inventor of a skyrocket which he expects will reach the moon and possibly other satellites and planets.

"I would not care to make the trip myself," continued Prof. Goddard. "I have had application from nine men in various parts of the country volunteering to attempt the trip. But the construction of all these men was human and therefore too fragile to be accepted."

Prof. Goddard gave a simplified description of the rocket which he hopes to send to the moon, not with a man, but with scientific instruments. Propulsion will be maintained by a series of rapid explosions, which will counteract the force of gravitation that would draw the rocket back to earth. The rocket will be loaded with hundreds of such explosive charges.

A rocket weighing 1,200 pounds started at sea level at a speed of 2,000 feet per second and increasing in speed 50 feet per second because of loss of weight as the charges are exploded would weigh one pound when it reached the moon, according to the scientist's estimates.

The first 100 miles would be the hardest, he says, and is is there that the greatest part of the mass would be used up because the air is so much denser and the gravity resistance greater.

One-third of the rocket would be used in climbing the first 15,000 feet, if started from sea level. Therefore Prof. Goddard considers it would be more practical to start from a mountain top with a lighter rocket.

Prof. Goddard has completed working models with the $5,000 fund started for the experiment by the Smithsonian Institution and has demonstrated that scientific instruments can be carried into the sky and conveyed back to earth by means of a parachute. The professor gave an address before the American Association of Engineers today and asked that Chicago capitalists finance the trip. He figures about $100,000 would pay all expenses for the round trip.

DETHRONEMENT OF PRINCE IS URGED

Geneva, May 7.—There is evidence of a movement to bring about the dethronement of Prince John, ruler of the tiny principality of Lichtenstein, according to advices. Complaint is made that the Prince has done nothing to assist his people since the armistice, and has been living in Vienna.

The people have several times been forced to appeal to Switzerland for aid. Lichtenstein wants to become a Swiss canton, but the Swiss government is opposed to the policy of expansion. A revolution is possible, it is said.

CRIME EXCESSES CAUSED BY WAR

British Thugs Not More Numerous, but More Daring, Say the Authorities.

London, May 7. — England is faced today with a crime wave of a peculiar kind. The newspapers every day report new outbreaks of robbery and violence. Big headlines have made the country jump to the idea that it is suffering from an excess of lawlessness. Yet Sir Neville Macready, London's Chief of Police, says that there is no undue amount of crime, and in Parliament it is officially stated that statistics show conditions to be normal.

Who is right? The answer is, "Both."

The present "crime wave" is an epidemic, but it is not enduring. All wars have been followed by outbreaks of lawlessness with a slow return to normal peace time conditions. Yet the first year after the armistice has not been marked by any alarming increase in law breaking. But compared with the years of war the increase is startling. While the country was fighting criminals were not at liberty to pursue their calling. They were absorbed in the army or made small fortunes in the munition factories.

Another surprising fact is that it became the fashion among criminals to make good as soldiers. The "burglar hero" was no mere picturesque figure in a newspaper story. The thief who rose to be sergeant-major and won the Distinguished Conduct Medal was not an uncommon incident. Unhappily, some of them when they returned to civilian life went back to their old ways. Habit proved too strong for them, aided by inability to get work.

With the firing of the last shot home news began again to creep into the newspaper column. Crime resumed its normal place in the journalist's scheme of things.

Another factor arising out of the Russian upheaval has also come into play. It is the fashion today to attack existing institutions. The law of possession is sacred no more. What was known in the army as "scrounging" is termed by the law robbery. Forced by the privations of life in the field to meet his needs as best he could, the soldier took what he wanted without scruple. Everybody, from officers to privates, "scrounged" on occasion. But "scrounging" in or out of the line was vastly different to "scrounging" at home. Yet some excuse may be found for those men whose moral education has been neglected.

With the constant challenge to existing authority which is the most disturbing and perhaps the most promising feature of today, there is bound to be a corresponding loosening of restraint. Britain has felt its effect, of course. The "crime wave" is one result.

But the new criminal is more daring and up-to-date. And, taught team work in the army, he works in gangs rather than in units. The telephone and the automobile have made operations easier and quicker and increased the problem of detection for the police.

FREIGHT CHARGES TO BE PAID IN U. S.

Ottawa, May 7. — Canadian exporters will be obliged to ship freight to the United States charges collect as long as the Canadian Railways refuse to accept prepayment on such charges. The Canadian Railway Commission has issued an order dismissing "for want of jurisdiction over the subject matter thereof," the complaints presented before the commission on March 6 in Toronto and March 16 and 17, in Ottawa, by boards of trade of Toronto and Montreal, the Canadian Manufacturers Association and a score of Canadian exporters, protesting against the action of Canadian Railways in ordering their agents not to accept prepayment of freight charges to the United States, on account of the adverse exchange situation.

THE SHORT SKIRTS HINT 1817 STYLE

Garments of Today Indicate Women's Clothes May Go One Hundred Years

The history of clothing, it is said, like all other histories, has a tendency to repetition, and if this be the case we can look forward to some startling patterns. Can it be that women will again dress as in the days immediately following the terror of 1795?

To quote 'Modes and Manners of the Nineteenth Century":

"The train was quite done away with, cut round at the bottom, leaving the feet free, in 1808 and only reaching to the ankles in 1810. The dress, as it were, moved upward. The ethereal nymphs and goddesses had disappeared, giving place to grotesquely clothed figures more like mannikins than human beings. This waistless style of costume reached its height in Vienna in 1817, when the dress now entirely without bodice, fell half way down the legs only, being cut out at the bottom and allowing a good length of lace drawer to be seen before it ended in an embroidered boot."

In those days, the chronicler tells us, the "English was soon more correctly designated the "naked" fashion. Not only did corsets and peticoats disappear but additional garments were also discarded—the lady of society wore rings on her bare feet, while silk tights and transparent chemise composed the remainder of the costume.

The more fashionable women strove as to which of them should put on the least clothing. No one spoke of any one as "well dressed" but as "well undressed," and it became an amusement in society to weigh a woman's garments; her whole clothing, including shoes and ornaments, was not allowed in 1806 to weigh over eight ounces. Mme. Hamelin, the beautiful wife of a rich Swiss banker, went the length of walking in the garden of the Tuileries clad only in a gauze veil until the obtrusive behavior of the public obliged her to return home.

In 1801 a woman in Hanover laid a wager that she would walk through the streets dressed only in a chemise and a neckerchief without exciting any particular attention—and she won her bet easily.

Decent or indecent, becoming or unbbecoming, the fashion was too new and surprisig not to excite lively criticism. In 1794 a Berlin critic, writing of the actress Barabius, accused her of returning to the habits of the uncivilized world, of offending morality and decency and, indeed, of awakening disgust—and this merely because she ventured to appear on the stage with bare arms—and the following year the "unclothed" style became the general fashion.

EXTEND STREET CAR SERVICE AT ST. JOHN

St. John, May 7. — The prospects for the extension of the Street Car service from the present terminus in Fairville, to Manchesters Corner in the Manawagonish road, to serve a district which is being built up rapidly and to provide transportation for future residents of the city's model sub-division in that section are said by Councillor John O'Brien to be exceedingly bright.

FORMER N. B. LADY DIED IN ONTARIO

St. John, May 7. — Mrs. C. W. Howe, eldest daughter of Isaac Hetherington, of Cody's, N. B., died on May 4 in St. Vincent De Paul Hospital, in Brockville Ont., aged 33 years. Besides her husband and two children she is survived by her parents, five sisters and three brothers. The body is being brought to Codys for interment.

KING OF BURGLARS WONDERFUL LOVER

J. J. Harrigan, International Crook, Stole Heart of Chicago Women.

Chicago, May 7.—James J. Harrigan, "King of Burglars,' who was internationally known as one of the cleverest criminals in police annals, succeeded in stealing the love of a Chicago society woman before he met death at the hands of 100 policemen, it became known last night.

Harrigan, variously known throughout the country as "Henry L. James," "The Phantom," and "The Man in the Silver Mask" was so successful in his burglary activities in Chicago that he leased a warehouse to hold his accumulations of rare rugs, period furniture, pictures, clothing, silks and jewels.

He tunnelled a stronghold under Clark street, within sight of a police station, and there placed jewels he had stolen valued at more than $125,000. Other property stolen by Harrigan has been appraised at a like amount and police are attempting to trace large bank accounts hinted at in his diary.

The victim of Harrigan's ardent woolng is Mrs. Ida May Needham, widow of a civil engineer who was well kown in Chicago. She is wealthy.

When Mrs. Needham was taken to the morgue to identify Harrigan's body she stepped to the bier with a smile on her face. When thte coverlet was lifted she fainted.

"It is he," she gasped. "I can't believe it. It is impossible that the man was a burglar. Why, he was the most cultured, most gentlemanly man I ever met. He spoke seven languages fluently and always had all the money he needed. He was a graduate of Heidelburg and he lived abroad for many years."

When Mrs. Needham had recovered she told of her love affair with the burglar king, whom the police now claim was head of one of the biggest gang of expert crooks in America, although he worked alone in Chicago, with the exception of a woman accomplice.

"When my husband died I had a large home to myself," she said. "I decided to rent part of it and friends of mine took rooms. Then Mr. Harrigan applied and he was so obviously a gentleman that I allowed him to take a room.

"The nights we spent together—with our other friends—were among the happiest of my life, I believe. He was a brilliant conversationalist, equally at home in religion, philosophy, ethics or what not.

"He proposed marriage and while I was very fond of him I could not accept him because he refused to tell me of his life or his business.

"But he was a wonderful lover. He was kind and considerate always and meticulously scrupulous in his habits.

"And there he lies. Like a dog without a friend. So fine, so honorable a man—as I knew him."

According to the police, the diary of Harrigan shows that he must have netted $100,000 in the past year through his sale of stolen automobiles alone. His workshop in the leased warehouse proved to be one of the most completely equipped of its kind in Chicago. Mnufacturers today identified every piece of the equipment as having been stolen from them.

Scores of detectives were placed in all Chicago banks Tuesday to attempt to find "the woman in the smoked glasses" who is known to have been the clever gentleman burglar's accomplice. It is thought she will attempt to withdraw some of the large accounts Harrigan is known to have had. This woman, driving an expensive imported automobile, was a daily visitor at tthe Harrigan warehouse. The police declared she is a French woman, who joined Harrigan recently.

PREDICTS 5 OR 10 CENT DAILY PAPERS

Munsey Witness at Hearing on Newsprint Shortage In United States

Washington, May 7.—Five and even 10-cent daily newspapers were predicted today by Frank A. Munsey, New York publisher, appearing before the Senate committee investigating the newsprint paper shortage He urged drastic reduction in the use of newsprint and the Governmental regulation both of the paper and the wood pulp sources.

William Randolph Hearst, another New York publisher, in a letter to the committee advocated a 20 or 25 per cent cut in the size of newspapers, but said he believed the time for governmental regulation had passed. Hearst urged that publishers double both advertising and circulation rates, saying such action would automatically cut down the size and number of copies without reducing revenue.

"The newspaper is one of the most valuable articles in a community,' Mr. Hearst wrote, 'aid still ie suite of its actual and obvious value it sells both its circulation and its advertising space at a ridiculous low rate in comparison with its value."

The Government could not reduce news print consumption by regulating the number of pages admitted to the mails, Mr. Munsey told the committee, because scarcely any of the large city dailies rely for their revenue on mail circulation.

Mr. Munsey advocated regulations limiting the Sunday edition to the size of the week-day issue, 'not more than 21 pages."

Co-operation between publishers to economize in the use of print paper would result in "a total curtailment of 20 or 25 per cent. and would serve the problem," Mr. Hearst wrote. Mr. Munsey took an opposite view. He told the committee that co-operation could not be made effective because some publishers would no enter into an agreement.

Asked by Senator Gronna, Republican, North Dakota, if it were not true that the small country publishers had no contracts and were forced to rely on brokers buying on the spot market, Mr. Munsey said he believed such was the case, but added that many city publishers were in a similar condition. Mr. Munsey declared that if the ratio of consumption continued for the next 25 years at the rate it had in the past quarter of a century there would be no wood pulp forests left in the world.

Home in Halifax roofed with Brantford Asphalt Slates

A handsome roof that defies the weather

An added touch of beauty to any house is a roof of Brantford Asphalt Slates, which are in soft, harmonious shades of reddish brown and dark green. The colors are permanent and unfadeable, being the natural shades of the slate just as it is taken out of the quarries.

It will also prove a very economical roof, because Brantford Asphalt Slates do not split, get loose, absorb water or rot. They are strongly fire-resistant and are classified as non-combustible by the fire insurance companies, and allowed to be used in cities where the most rigid fire-prevention By-laws are in force.

Brantford Asphalt Slates are very moderate in cost. The regular size of the slates and their pliability make them easily and quickly laid, thus saving time and cost of labor. Being made of high grade felt saturated and coated with asphalt, and with a surface of crushed slate, they make a roof that defies the elements and is a permanent part of the building, just like the walls and the foundation.

Brantford Asphalt Slates

are being used more extensively every year for city, country and summer homes, churches, golf clubs, stores, garages, and wherever an artistic effect is desired on a pitch roof.

If you are going to do any building this year or have an old roof that needs replacing, it will be to your advantage to investigate Brantford Asphalt Slates.

Justify Shooting of Boy Who Defied Sunday Blue Laws

Older Natives of Tangier Island, Md., Determined to Enforce Church Attendance—Religious Fanaticism Rules the Community—Liberals Seek to Oust Council

Crisfield, Md., May 7.—While Roland Parks, the seventeen year old youth who was shot by a policeman on Tangier Island two weeks ago for refusing to go to church, lies near death in the General and Marine Hospital in Crisfield, the unique island law which seeks to compel church attendance is still in vogue and is being rigidly enforced.

Only a political upheaval in this fishing community of 3,000 souls and the election of a municipal board from among the younger element known as the "Liberals," can bring about the repeal of the law which attempts to regulate religion and the stringent Sabbath observance, which led to the tragedy of two weeks ago.

While only twelve miles from Crisfield, out in Chesapeake Bay, just across the line in Virginia, Tangier Island is, perhaps, the most unique community in point of religious ideas and general manner of living of any community in the United States, and certainly the most pronounced example of domination by religious fanatics to be found in the country. The island is a Methodist community and Swain Memorial Church is the only house of worship. The minister is looked upon by the natives as a supreme being, and absence from any religious service is considered a mark of disgrace.

Older Natives Approve Law

The remarkable town ordinance which led to the shooting of young Parks by Charles Connorton represents the sincere sentiment of a majority of the older heads as an entirely legitimate manner of instilling religious principles into the people, and, despite a feeling of some regret that the enforcement of the law should have caused the recent tragedy the islanders in the main continue to believe in the virtue of the law and are insistent upon its enforcement. Should a dissenting resident of the community dare the violation of the ordinance tomorrow, the one police official of Tangier would find a majority of the older natives supporting him should he deem it necessary to kill the violator.

Young Parks was on the porch of his father's home when Officer Connorton demanded that the boy obey the Church Attendance Law by either going to church or into his home. The law makes it a violation for a person to be seen on the street or in his yard or porch on Sunday, unless on the way to or from the church. In defending the law, the municipal officials of Tangier contend that without some compulsory method half of the church attendance would congregate around the store porches or at other places on the street, and the religious life of the island would be endangered.

Youth Shot in Back

When the youth refused to obey the commands of the officer, the policeman grappled with the boy for the purpose of arresting him, and it was when the boy was succeeding in getting away from the officer that the later drew a revolver and placing it at the boy's back, shot him through the body. Parks was hurried to a gasoline boat and brought to the hospital in Crisfield, where he now hovers between life and death. The attending physician, while entertaining no hope for his recovery at first, now states that the lad has a fighting chance for his life.

Connorton went to Accomack Court House, on the mainland, the day following the shooting, and appeared before a magistrate who placed him under $2,500 bonds for the action of the county court. The bond was furnished and the officer returned to his duties on the island. The younger element of Tangier, those who have come in contact with the outside world more or less and who are growing away from the narrow and repressed ideas of the older heads, demanded that the officer at least be removed from his post, but the local officials upheld him in his action and he continues on his beat.

Election Fight Expected

Serious trouble is expected when the local election is held this summer, for at that time a new board of town officials will be elected, and the shooting of young Parks for his refusal to attend church has given the younger element an issue on which they believe they can sweep the old board out of office. The repeal of the church going ordinance and many similar laws will be the lone issue on which the election will be fought.

The shooting of the boy by the officer has caused more feeling perhaps among the two elements on the island than anything that has ever occurred on Tangier, and the relatives and friends of the wounded youth are threatenceing to take the law into their own hands and administer punishment to the police official if the county court shows any degree of leniency in his prosecution. It is understood, however, that the town officials of Tangier have retained counsel for the officer, and proposed to fight his defense on the ground that his action was in the discharge of his duty and in the enforcement of a law which is essential to the religious welfare of the community.

FORMER KAISER SAFELY GUARDED

His Walks Confined to a Few Paths in the Amerongen Grounds

The Hague, May 7.—It is learned from an indisputable source that never was the ex-Kaiser so thoroughly guarded as now. There are only a few paths in the Amerongen grounds where he is allowed to walk, even with guards. The castle, moreover, is surrounded with a barbed wire fence since the latest notes arrived making the Netherlands answerable for the ex-Kaiser. Troops, although invisible, are also in readiness in the vicinity in the eventuality of an attempt at flight. Similar restrictions and precautions will doubtless be made at the Doorn house, as the Netherlands Government, which is now entirely responsible for William Hohenzollern, do not intend to take any risks. The latest decision is that the ex-Kaiser will move to the Doorn house May 12th, just eighteen months after his arrival in Holland.

About 10 o'clock Sunday, two small German boys arrived at Amerongen afoot, having been sent out by their mother to buy provisions. They crossed the frontier determined to see the ex-Kaiser, which, however, was not permitted. They spent the night in the police station and this morning were transported across the frontier.

The Dutch government has bought the small vicarage at Wieringen for the ex-Crown Prince, which is the only available house on the island, and which has been assigned to the Prince by a royal decree as his place of residence.

ANGRY JUSTICE SWORE AT LAWYER

Lost His Temper at Greedy, Gouging Landlords in New York

New York, May 7.—Throwing off his judicial robes, following what was practically a dismissal of some two hundred eviction cases in his court through the landlords' lack of courage to prosecute before him, Justice Wm. A. Morris, in the Bronx Municipal Court, today told Simon Platt, attorney for the landlords of the premises at 626 Concord avenue, the Bronx, that he "could go to the Supreme Court of the United States or he could go to hell." Platt had threatened to take his case to a higher court to secure the evictions he had applied for.

Justice Morris had just asked the tenants if they were willing to pay the rent they had paid in February, which called for a slight increase, and when they replied that they were, he had asked the landlords if they still insisted on evictions. None of the landlords replied, and as a result court was adjourned. The justice was approached by Platt as he was on his way to his chambers.

"I care more for the finger of a baby of one of these tenants than I do for all the landlords here," said the justice, pulling off his robes, "and I don't propose to have a lot of people put out of their homes by a lot of greedy, grasping, gouging landlords. Now you can go to a higher court if you want to. You can go to the Supreme Court of the United States or you can go to hell."

With that the justice strode off, muttering to himself. Platt represents the G. & E. Construction Co.

IN DAYS OF TERROR

CHAPTER I.

The Enrolled Volunteers.

It was on the evening of the 10th of March, 1793, ten o'clock was striking from Notre Dame, and each stroke sounding, emitted a sad and monotonous vibration. Night had fallen on Paris, not boisterous and stormy, but cold, damp, and foggy. Paris itself at that time was not the Paris of our day; glittering at night with thousands of reflected lights, the Paris of busy promenades, of lively chat, with its riotous suburbs, the scene of audacious quarrels, and daring crime, but a fearful, timid, busy city, whose few and scattered inhabitants, even in crossing from one street to another, ran concealing themselves in the darkness of the alleys, and ensconcing themselves behind their portescocheres, like wild beasts tracked by the hunters to their lair.

As we have previously said, it was the evening of the 10th of March, 1793. A few remarks upon the extreme situation, which had produced the changed aspect of the capital before we commence stating the events, the recital of which form the subject of this history. France, by the death of Louis XVI., had become at variance with all Europe.

To the three enemies she had first combated, that is to say, Prussia, the Empire, and Piedmont, were now joined England, Holland, and Spain. Sweden and Denmark alone preserved their old neutrality, occupied as they were besides in beholding Catharine II. devastating Poland.

The state of affairs was truly frightful. France, more respected as a physical power, but less esteemed as a moral one, since the massacres of September and the execution of the 21st of January, was literally blockaded like a simple town, by entire Europe. England was on our coasts, Spain upon the Pyrenees, Piedmont and Austria on the Alps, Holland and Prussia to the north of the Pays-Bas, and with one accord from Upper Rhine to Escaut, two hundred and fifty thousand combatants marched against the Republic. Our generals were repulsed in every direction. Miacrinski had been obliged to abandon Aix-la-Chapelle, and draw back upon Liege; Steingel and Neully were driven back upon Limbourg; while Miranda, who besieged Maestricht, fell back upon Tongres. Valence and Dampierre, reduced to beat a retreat, did so with a loss of half their number. More than ten thousand deserters had already abandoned the army, and cleverly scattered themselves in the interior. At last the Convention, having no hope except in Dumouriez, despatched courier after courier, commanding him to quit the borders of Bribos (where he was preparing to embark for Holland), and return to take the command of the army of the Meuse.

Sensible at heart, like an animated body, France felt at Paris—that is to say, at its heart's core—each and every blow levelled at it by invasion, revolt, or treason, even from quarters the most distant. Each victory was a riot of joy; every defeat an insurrection of terror. It is therefore easy to comprehend what tumult was produced by the news of these successive losses, which we are now about to explain.

On the preceding evening, the 9th of March, they had held at the Convention a sitting more stormy than usual; all the officers had received orders to join their regiments at the same time, and Danton, that audacious proposer of improbable things (but which nevertheless were accomplished), Danton, mounting the tribune, cried out, "The soldiers fail, say you? Offer Paris an opportunity of saving France. Demand from her thirty thousand men, send them to Dumouriez, and not only is France saved, but Belgium is reassured, and Holland is conquered. This proposition had been received with shouts of enthusiasm, registers had been opened in all the sections, inviting them to reunite in the evening. Places of public amusement were closed to avert all distraction, and the black flag was hoisted at the Hotel-de-Ville, in token of distress. Before midnight five and thirty thousand names were inscribed on the registers, only this evening, as it had before occurred in September, in every section, while inscribing their names, the enrolled volunteers had demanded that before their departure the traitors might be punished. The traitors were in fact the "contre revolutionists" who secretly menaced the Revolution. But, as may be easily understood, the secret extended to all those who wished to give themselves to the extreme parties, who at this period tore France. The traitors were the weaker party, as the Girondins were the weakest. The Montagnards decided that Girondins must be the traitors. On the next day, which was the 10th of June, all the Montagnard deputies were present at the sitting. The Jacobins, armed, filled the tribunes, after having turned out the women; the Mayor presented himself with the Council of the Commune, confirming the report of the Commissioners of the Convention respecting the devotedness of the citizens, but repeating the wish, unanimously expressed the preceding evening, for a Tribunal Extraordinary appointed to judge the traitors. The report of the committee was instantly demanded with loud vociferations. The committe reunited immediately, and in five minutes afterwards, they were informed by Robert Lindet, that a Tribunal would be formed, composed of nine judges (independent of all forms, and acquiring proof by every means), divided into two permanent sections, and prosecuting, directly by order of the Convention, all those who were found guilty in any way of either tempting or misleading the people. This was a sweeping clause, and the Girondins, comprehending it would cause their arrest, rose en masse. Death, cried they, rather than submit to the establishment of this threatensd imposition.

The Montagnards, in reply to this apostrophe, demanded the vote in a loud tone. "Yes," replied Ferand, "let us vote to make known to the world men who are willing to assassinate innocence under the mask of the law." They voted to this effect; and, against all expectations, the majority decided 1st, they would have juries; 2ndly, that these juries should be of equal numbers in each department; 3rdly, they should be nominated by the Convention. At the moment these three propositions received admission, loud cries were heard; but the Convention, accustomed to receive occasional visits from the populace, inquired their wishes, and were informed in reply, "It was merely a deputation of enrolled volunteers, who, having dined at the Halle-au-Ble, demanded to be permitted to display their military tactics before the Convention.

The doors were opened immediately, and six hundred men, armed with swords, pistols, and pikes, apparently half-intoxicated, filed off amidst shouts of applause, and loudly demanded the death of the traitors. "Yes," replied Collot d'Hebrois, addressing them, "yes, my friends, we will save you—you and liberty, notwithstanding these intrigues." These words were followed by an angry glance towards the Girondins, which plainly intimated they were not yet beyond the reach of danger. In short, the sitting of the Convention terminated, the Montagnards scattered themselves amongst other clubs, running first to the Cordeliers and then to the Jacobins, proposing to place the traitors beyond the reach of the law, by cuting their throats the same night.

GASOLINE SHORTAGE

Heavy Drafts Were Made in March on Reserve Stocks of Crude Petroleum—Shortage Probable.

Washington, May 7.—Heavy drafts were made in March on the reserve stocks of crude petroleum, notwithstanding a 20 per cent. increase in production, according to a report today by the United States geological survey. The total increase in output of United States in March, as compared with March, 1919, was 6,000,000 barrels, but the increased consumption made necessary the importation of 6,500,000 barrels from Mexico. An additional million barrels was drawn from the reserves to meet the demand.

Warning of the probability of an actual shortage of gasoline before the end of next summer, as a result of the disproportionate increase in gasoline production and the number of automobiles in use, was given in a statement issued today by the bureau of mines.

GIRL IS TRIED AGAIN

Is Sixteen Years Old and Facing Her Third Murder Trial.

St. Louis, May 7.—Sixteen-year-old Ursula Broderick went to trial for the third time here today charged with the murder of her stepfather, Joseph F. Woodlock. Attorneys said she was the youngest girl ever to face a first degree murder charge in Missouri.

A continuance was granted the first time her case was called for trial and at the second trial the jury disagreed.

In 1916 Miss Broderick shot and killed her father, T. P. Broderick, and a coroner's jury exonerated her when she testified she shot in defence of her mother.

The state contended at the second trial for the alleged murder of Woodlock that he was killed as he lay asleep. Miss Broderick testified she killed him when he attacked her. Mrs. Woodlock is charged with plotting her husband's death and will be tried after her daughter.

"Watch Your Feet"

Everything Tangible and Intangible Taxed in P.E.I.

[Charlottetown Guardian.]

Premier Bell tabled the following resolution in the Legislature yesterday afternoon:

Whereas it is necessary to raise by taxation sufficient revenue to operate an efficient public service,

And whereas it is expedient to levy such taxation by a more just and equitable system, under which every man who enjoys the privileges of citizenship will be asked to contribute something towards the general revenue and under which a larger share of the burden of taxation will be cast upon and borne by the wealth of the country;

Be it therefore resolved:—

1—That a bill be introduced into this House to be known as the "Taxation Act."

2—That taxation be imposed on real and personal property and income.

3—That the rate of taxation on real and personal property shall be one half of one per cent. of the assessed value.

4—That special taxes be imposed on certain corporations, banks and persons not included in the general provisions for taxation.

5—That for provincial purposes a poll tax of $3 be imposed on each male inhabitant between the ages of 21 and 65 years.

6—That a tax of 15 cents per case be imposed in lobster canneries.

7—That an income tax be imposed and graduated, as follows:

On the first $500 of income, no tax.

Class A—on taxable income up to $500—1 per cent.

Class B—on taxable income up to $1,000—1½ per cent.

Class C—on taxable income up to $2,000—2 per cent.

Class D—on taxable income up to $3,000—2½ per cent.

Class E—on taxable income up to $4,000—3 per cent.

Class F—on taxable income up to $5,000—3½ per cent.

Class G—on taxable income up to $6,000—4 per cent.

Class H—on taxable income up to $8,000—4½ per cent.

Class J—on taxable income up to $10,000, 5 per cent.

Class K—on taxable income up to $12,000—6 per cent.

Class L—on taxable income up to $15,000—7 per cent.

Class M—on taxable income up to $20,000—8 per cent.

Class N—on taxable income over $20,000—10 per cent.

This means that the real estate and income taxes are to be increased beyond the dream of the most pessimistic, while in addition every male over twenty-one and under sixty-five shall pay an additional impost of $3 per annum. An export duty of 15 cents per case of lobsters is to be imposed, and corporations, banks and certain other persons not included in general taxation are to be specially taxed.

Attorney General Johnston was not far wrong when he declared the government's policy to be to tax "everything tangible and intangible that has a private ownership and is capable of being taxed."

LUXURY IMPORTS TAKE A BIG JUMP

Now Greater Than in Any Period in the History of the United States

New York, May 7.—Luxuries from Europe's treasure houses and raw materials from her colonies are the articles forming the enormous increase in Europe's exports to the United States, which had dwindled from $900,000,000 a year prior to the war to $318,000,000 in 1918, a drop of practically two-thirds in total values, despite the fact that the articles forming that trade had at least doubled in price in the meantime. Yet present indications are that the total value of merchandise sent from Europe to this country in the fiscal year which ends with next month will be three times as great as in the fiscal year immediately preceding, and actually greater in value than in any year in the history of our trade, according to statistics compiled by the National City Bank.

"This tremendous increase in our imports from Europe in the current fiscal year, as compared with the year immediately preceding occurs chiefly in luxuries, but includes also certain products of the European colonies now reaching us by way of the mother country, instead of direct as during the war," says the bulletin. "Among the luxuries in which the great increase occurs are diamonds, art works, laces and embroideries, silks, high grade cotton and woollen goods, kid gloves and olive oil, while the colonial products now reaching us by way of Europe include india rubber, jute, wool, furs, hides and skins, and raw cotton.

"In many instances the increase, especially on the luxury side of the statement, is very large. Diamonds, for example, imported in the eight months ending with February, 1920, practically all of them from Europe, amounted to $48,100,000 in value, against $5,300,000 in the same months of last year; art works, brought chiefly from Europe, $21,715,000, against $2,850,000 in the same months of the preceding year; cotton laces and embroideries, $7,800,000, against $3,200,000 in the corresponding months of the preceding year; silk laces and embroideries in the current year, $4,312,000, against $1,489,000; walnuts from France and Italy, $6,050,000, against $310,000; olive oil from France, Italy and Spain, but especially the latter, $10,910,000, against $933,000 in the same months of last year; silk fabrics, $2,110,000, against $361,000; silk wearing apparel, $2,050,000, against $802,000, and raw silk, chiefly from Italy, $23,007,000, against $36,000 in the same months of the preceding year. One class of articles which falls outside the luxury list is burlaps, brought from the United Kingdom but manufactured from East Indian jute, valued at $9,333,000, against $1,550,000 in the same months of last year."

COMMUTATION FARES HAVE ADVANCED

Increase on All Canadian Railway Lines Dates From May 1st

Effective May 1st Commutation Fares have advanced on all Canadian railways, and patrons of the Canadian National Railways have been advised that ten trip tickets purchased prior to May 1st will not be honored, but should be handed in to the nearest ticket agent so that refund of the unused portions may be obtained.

Patrons are also advised that this increase in commutation fares applies to ten trip, fifty trip and scholars' forty trip tickets. Then trip tickets are limited to three months instead of one year and scholars' forty trip tickets are limited to one month.

All who are holding these tickets purchased prior to May 1st should at once put them in line for redemption, either to the nearest ticket agent, or to the General Passenger Department, Moncton.

Even a miser may give you advice freely.

SEEK TO SIMPLIFY CHINA'S LANGUAGE

Instead of 10,000 Characters, Future Generations Will Use Only 39.

Shanhai, May 7.—Chinese of future generations will write in phonetic script and use a typewriter with only 39 characters instead of plying a brush to draw 10,000 or more hieroglyphics if mission workers succeed in an effort they are making to revolutionize handwriting in use in China for more than 4,000 years. The work of the missionaries is at last beginning to receive official sanction and they entertain hopes that eventually the Chinese brush, ink block and ink tablet will have to go to give place to more modern methods of communicating ideas.

Their purpose is not only to simplify China's handwriting system but to give the country a common tongue to replace the present-day babel which renders even the native who is away from his own home district almost as helpless as a foreigner.

The system of phonetic script now urged upon the Chinese was worked out in England in 1903 by Wang Chao. Besides its 39 characters, it contains ten numerals. There are no capitals.

Rev. E. G. Tewksbury, of Shanghai, secretary of the China Sunday School Union, and a member of the Phonetic Promotion Committee, who has devoted 30 years to teaching in China, has put the new script into use on typewriters with complete success. For this purpose typewriters with blank type faces are obtained from the factories and the characters are cut from these faces here by Chinese engravers.

That the Peking government attaches importance to the effeort being made is seen in the following excerpt from a recent mandate issued by the Ministry of Education.

"We recognize that because of the difference between our classical and spoken language, education in the schools makes slow progress and the keen edge of the spirit of union, both between individuals and in society at large, has thereby been blunted. Moreover, if we do not take prompt steps to make the written and spoken language the same quickly, any plans for developing our civilization will surely fail."

RECORD CLIMB FOR A WAGER OF $1,600

New York, May 7.—Howard Lee Roome, a real estate broker who years ago was a star halfback and pole vaulter at Yale, yesterday won a wager of $1,600 from J. F. Johnson, another broker, by climbing 940 steps in the Equitable Building, 47 stories from boiler room to flagpole, in record time of 8 minutes, 51 2-5 seconds.

Several thousand dollars are said to have changed hands on the sporting event among friends of the two men.

The recent elevator operators' strike was responsible for the odd contest.

IF YOUR EARS RING WITH HEAD NOISES

If you have roaring, buzzing noises in your ears, are getting hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ½ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal trouble of the ears, is hard of hearing or has head noises should give this prescription a trial.

A VOLUNTARY WAGE INCREASE GRANTED

Italian Employees of the Postal Service on Strike, But Remain in Offices

Toronto, May 8.—The moulders of six of the twenty seven plants in this city, from which they went on strike almost thirteen months ago, decided today to return to work, the six firms having accepted the union's wage agreement for ninety cents an hour.

Trouble with Toronto Printers.

Toronto, May 8.—Eight union printers have been discharged by Kilgour Brothers, paper and paper box manufacturers, this city, and the typographical union has closed the Kilgour shops to union men. It is stated that the firm claimed they could not pay the union scale of wages. The discharge of these printers has complicated wage negotiations in progress between job printers of this city and the master printers' association.

A Voluntary Wage Increase.

Halifax, N. S., May 8.—A Glace Bay despatch to the Herald says: "The Cape Breton Electric Company's employees have received a voluntary increase from five to twenty five per cent. Otawa, May 8.—In the debate on the work of the soldiers' settlement board in the House of Commons yesterday, James McIsaac (Kings, P.E.I.,), warmly complimented the Minister of the Interior and the administration board upon the admirable showing under the act. He paid special tribute to W. J. Black, the chairman.

Mr. McIsaac referred with pride to the fact that the P.E.I. soldiers lead the rest of the provinces in the matter of percentage of applicants. Out of 234 returned men who had gone on the land in his province, only one had proved a failure.

Shoot Whiskey Across River in Torpedo Tubes

Novel Device of Smugglers Operating on the Detroit River

HAVE CAPACITY FOR 25 GALLONS

The Torpedo Electrically Controlled From Shore to Shore.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Detroit, Mich., May 8.—Electrically operated torpedoes loaded with whiskey are being sent daily across the Detroit River from the Canadian to the American shore, a mysterious informant told Federal officers here. Without divulging his identity, he told the result of his entirely private investigations.

HOW TORPEDOES ARE PROPELLED ACROSS

There are three torpedoes in use now, he said, of 10, 15 and 25 gallons capacity. They are of copper construction, with a propeller at the nose actuated by electric storage batteries. They submerge 100 feet, and require about five minutes to cross the river at a point he designated only as "east of Woodward Avenue."

A red flag on one side of the river and a white one on the other comprise targets at which the operators direct their torpedoes, he said. After being caught and emptied on the American side, the torpedoes are ballasted with water and sent back. A huge torpedo of fifty gallons capacity is being constructed, he told the Federal officers.

HOW BANKS AFFECT THE PRICE OF GOODS

By Curtailing Credits They Force Business Men to Face the Situation Clearly

[By Canadian Associated Press.]

Winnipeg, May 8.—Through the action of the banks of Canada and the United States, said Hon. Edward Brown, Provincial Treasurer, who returned from the east yesterday, a financial crisis of the most serious character has been narrowly avoided.

The banks, he said, by curtailing credits and forcing business men to face the situation clearly, had already caused a reduction in the price of goods.

"We have entered into a period," he said, "when decrease in the cost of living will gradually begin to be felt and when adjustments will have to be made."

London, May 8.—Mark Workman, chairman of the Dominion Steel Company, has arrived in London. He said that during the war Sir Robert Borden saw him twice and urged the importance of Canada keeping control of her great iron ore fields for the benefit of the Empire.

Mr. Workman gave much time to thinking out the great Empire partnership and had much consultation with the directors and Lord Furness. To Col. Grant Morden belonged the great credit for developing the scheme, of which the Dominion Steel Corporation was a parent body, he said.

GOVERNOR VETOES 2.75 BEER MEASURE

The Massachusetts' State Senate Postpones Further Consideration Until Monday

Boston, May 8.—Governor Coolidge has vetoed the so-called "2.75 per cent." beer bill, which seeks to authorize the manufacture and sale of beer, cider and light wines. This is the Governor's first veto of the session.

The accompanying message was sent to the State Senate, which postponed further action until Monday.

In his message Gov. Coolidge said: "If this Act were placed on the statute books of this Commonwealth today it would provide no beer for the people. No one would dare act upon it, or if anyone did he would certainly be charged with crime.

"I am opposed to the practice of a legislative deception. It is better to proceed with candor. Wait until the Supreme Court of the United States talks.

"The proper authorities have declared the 18th Amendment to the United States Constitution adopted. Under it Congress has passed legislation. Should the claim that the amendment is void be sustained, our present high license law remains in effect and this act then will be a dead letter. No one would defend it.

"Should the act of Congress be declared void, then let Congress pass a new law. No one can say this act does not now or will not in the future conflict with United States law. It does not even pretend to be an act to enforce the 18th Amendment.

"When I took office I gave oath to support the Constitution of the United States. That Constitution and the laws of Congress are declared to be the supreme law of the land. It may be that the 18th Amendment and the act under it are one or both void. So far as any court has decided, I understand the amendment has been sustained. They have been before the Supreme Court for some time, where up to now they both stand as law. That which the court hesitates to decide I shall not hasten to declare. It would be extremely improper to undertake to influence that decision by the action of the law-making power of Massachusetts. Do not anticipate it; await it.

"My oath was not to take a chance on the Constitution. I was to support it. When the proponents of this measure do not intend to jeopardize their safety by acting under it, why should I jeopardize my oath by approving it?"

MONTREAL LOOKS IN VAIN FOR COAL

Montreal Coal Company Will Not Run Coal Boats From C. B. to Montreal

[By Canadian Associated Press.]

Montreal, May 8.—This season not a ton of coal will be brought to Montreal in the Black Diamond ships by the water route from Louisburg to Montreal.

When asked today when the first shipment of coal was likely to be unloaded in port from Nova Scotia or Cape Breton, a Dominion Coal Company official said:

"No coal boats are coming to Montreal this year."

The reasons given were, firstly, the great demand made for the coal on the spot by big industries like the Steel Corporation, whose consumption has increased tremendously.

This factor has become aggravated by under-production in the mines. The high cost of bunkering in Britain, which compels British vessels to fill their bunkers at Sydney instead, is also an important factor in the present drastic change.

KIEV FALLS TO VICTORIOUS POLISH ARMY

Bolshevik Admit That Polish and Ukrainian Troops Have Entered City

ENEMY BROKE IN AFTER BIG FIGHT

The Bolshevik Troops Were Withdrawn to the Left Bank of the Dneiper River

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, May 8.—Polish and Ukrainian troops captured Kiev on Thursday night, according to an official statement issued at Moscow yesterday and received here by wireless.

The text of the statement says:

"In the Kiev region during the night of May 6-7 our troops engaged superior enemy forces northwest and southwest of Kiev. Toward evening the enemy broke into the outskirts of the town, but were held up by our counter-attacks. Later our troops, in acordance with orders, started to withdraw in order to the left bank of the Dnieper river.

"In the direction of Pytaloff our troops repulsed an enemy advance twenty miles south of Krasny. In the direction of Igumen, east of Minsk, the enemy attempted to cross the Beresina river, near Beresina village, but was driven back across the river."

Bolshevik Using Chinese.

Warsaw, May 8.—Russian marines and Chinese troops were brought up by the Bolshevik for the defence of Kiev, according to reports received here from the front. The marines defended the ground north of Kiev. The Chinese, the report indicates, are being used in the front line in places. The reinforcements sent by the Bolshevik, it is stated, also include Bolshevik Lettish troops, some of whom were captured by the Poles.

The ground held by the Poles at various places in front of Kiev was taken by bayonet charges, the Bolshevik defending the villages and the entrenchments on the hills until they were killed or taken prisoner.

HALIFAX REFUSES OFFER FOR BONDS

The City Will Make Another Attempt to Market Them at More Attractive Rate

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Halifax, N. S., May 8.—That the city could not accept the tenders that had been offered for their bonds, issued at 5½ and 6 per cent., but that another attempt should be made to market them at a more attractive rate, that is at an acceptance of 98 instead of par for $482,490 ten year debentures at six per cent., with a commission rate to the brokers of 1½ per cent., was passed by the city council last evening. With regard to the remaining half million dollars, for which tenders had been called at 5½ per cent. for thirty years, these were embodied by a resolution of council in a further loan of $1,074,000, for which it is intended to float a loan on the same basis at a future date.

$2,500 TO SUPPORT A FAMILY OF FIVE IN UNITED STATES NOW

Consulting Economist of the Railway Brotherhoods Presents Pile of Statistics on the Cost of Living to the Railway Labor Board

DEMANDS A MINIMUM WAGE ON BEHALF OF 2,500,000 RAILWAY EMPLOYEES OF THE COUNTRY

Declares That the Fundamental Cause of All Industrial Unrest in Country Has Been High Prices and Profiteering by Wholesalers and Retailers

Washington, May 8—A minimum of $2,500 a year is necessary for the support of a family of five in the United States, W. J. Lauck, consulting economist for the Railroad Brotherhoods, asserted today before the Railway Labor Board.

Mr. Lauck, who yesterday charged corporate profiteers with being chiefly responsible for present living costs, presented today a demand on behalf of the American 2,500,000 railway employees for the establishment of a minimum wage throughout the industry. He presented the board a compilation of budgets on the cost of living in the United States, based on studies made under his supervision and by federal and state agencies.

"It is impossible," he said, "for a family of five in the United States to maintain itself even in decent poverty under existing conditions for a penny less than $2,500 a year."

Mr. Lauck, in his statement, declared that "the fundamental cause of all economic instability, all industrial unrest, all interruptions of production and distribution, has been high prices and profiteering by organized capital and middlemen and retailers.

In concluding, the Brotherhood spokesman requested that the Board curtail its examination of wage data and proceed immediately to the determination of the question of what constitutes a living wage.

DEVELOPMENT OF NORTHERN ONTARIO

Residents Unanimous in Desirability of Obtaining Water Outlet to Great Lakes

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

North Bay, Ont., May 8.—Optimistic on the probable contributions from this vast northland to economic success of the proposed St. Lawrence deep waterway route, if the necessary improvements were made in the French river and sufficint water power were developed, the men who appeared before the international point waterways commission here yesterday were unanimous in their expressions of confidence in the great wealth to be uncovered in the mineral deposits, forests and agricultural lands of northern Ontario.

They were especially insistent on the developing of water power here as necessary to the welfare of the newer sections of the province.

The desirability of the connection of the French river with Lake Nipissing, so as to open up the way for boat traffic from the Great Lakes, was emphasized.

Those who presented their views were not enthusiastic on the question of the St. Lawrence sea route being the most desirable thing from an economic standpoint, but they were unanimous on the power question and on the matter of obtaining a water outlet to the Great Lakes by the canalization of the French river.

Major John Ferguson of North Bay, however, told the commission that there was no contentious opposition to the St. Lawrence scheme.

There was no opposition to the deepening of the St. Lawrence, said John Henry, of Sudbury, but there was a decided preference of the French river scheme.

Sudbury, he said, was not interested in the development of the French river as a lake port, b ut was interested in the development of the water power.

The members of the commission present included Chairman Magrath and H. A. Powell, K. C., St. John, N. B.

ROGERS' CONVENTION OF CONSERVATIVES

Former Minister of Public Works Declares the Farmers are Behind Movement

[By Canadian Associated Press.]

Montreal, May 8.—Seen at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel last night, Hon. Robert Rogers stated that an important convention of supporters of the old Conservative interests is to assemble in Toronto next week. The former Minister of Public Works was in an optimistic vein and claimed that this convention represented an element that was strong and assertive, right across the Dominion. He was not prepared to say what would be the policy of the party if again set on its feet, but affirmed that the farmers all over Canada were behind this movement for its re-establishment.

BARBER'S JOY SOON QUENCHED

Bought Ton of Coal for Four Dollars, But Arrested for Receiving Stolen Goods

[By Canadian Associated Press.]

Montreal, May 8.—C. G. Thomas, colored, running a barber's shop on St. Felix street, this city, figured a week ago that he had beaten the high cost of living when, on being offered a ton of coal for six dollars, he secured it for four dollars after some discussion. His bargain, however, appeared less desirable when he was brought before Judge Leet charged with receiving stolen goods. It appeared in evidence that the coal had been ordered and was to be delivered at an address on Dorchester street, but the householder had signed the receipt without troubling to look whether the coal had been delivered. The carter thereupon drove away with it and peddled it until he closed with Thomas' offer.

The case was adjourned for further evidence.

TO POSTPONE GERMAN SPA CONFERENCE

The French Premier Will First Confer With Lloyd-George on Indemnity Question

HUN DELEGATES TO DEMAND A HEARING

Say They Will Not Go To Spa Unless They Are Allowed to Present Their Case

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, May 8.—Reports of a postponement of the Spa conference between Allied and German delegates from May 25 to Jun 10 have caused a universal protest from editors of the newspapers here. They fear the meeting may be deferred indefinitely.

Premier Millerand's visit to London next week, for the purpose of conferring with Premier Lloyd George as to indemnity payments, will be important, it is indicated, as the British Premier is believed to favor the payment of a lump sum by Germany in place of the present plan by which the Allies would be paid an indeterminate amount.

Promise Honest Explanation.

Berlin, May 8.—Germany's delegates to the Spa conference will refuse to attend that meeting if not assured they will be given a hearing, said Dr. Wirth, Minister of Finance, speaking at Dresden yesterday, acocrding to the Norrdeutsche Aljgemeine Zeitung. They will be prepared to lay the true state of affairs before the Allied representatives, he declared, and will be able to demonstrate that the economic position of the continent depends upon that of Germany.

"I will show the facts to anyone suggesting to me that Germany is bankrupt," he asserted. "The fate of the German mark is also the fate of the French franc. De are going to Spa to give a straightforward honest explanation. We have nothing to hide. If, however, we are only to listen to the deliberation of others, we will not go."

ITALIAN PREMIER RIDING TO A FALL

Catholic Party in Chamber Antagonized by His Leniency Toward Socialists

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Rome, May 8.—Opinion in parliamentary circles is that Premier Nitti is running the risk of being overthrown. This is said to be due to the decision of the Catholic party to vote against the Premier, members of the party considering that he showed weakness in his lenient attitude toward the socialists during the recent disturbances in northern Italy.

The leader of the Catholic party said today:

"If no agreement is reached before a vote is taken in the chamber of deputies, Nitti's fall is certain. In fact, all the socialist deputies, numbering 156, despite Nitti's favoritism toward them must vote against him as a matter of principle."

It is not proposed to eliminate the free postage facilities enjoyed by the members during sessions.

15,234 RETURNED MEN GO ON LAND

The Great Benefits That Have Accrued to Soldiers Under Settlement Act

[By Canadian Associated Press.]

Ottawa, Ont., May 7.—Accomplishments to date, under the soldiers' Settlement Act, and the work of the Soldiers' Settlement Board, were debated in the House today. The discussion arose when the House went into committee of supply on a vote of fifty millions dollars to provide for a continuance of this work. Hon. Arthur Meighen, under whom the Board functions, opened the debate by giving to the committee a review of the work accomplished. He stated that the amount of loans approved from the time the scheme was put in operation until the end of last March totalled nearly sixty millions. Fifty thousand applications had been received, over 36,000 had been approved, and 15,234 settlers were now on the land through the assistance of the Government. The average loan per settler was $3,700, and already 69 applicants had discharged their obligations in full.

Mr. Meighen said that all but two millions of the amount asked for would be advanced in loans, the remaining two million being required for administrative purposes. The work of the home branch in assisting the wives of the soldier settlers was proceeding in a satisfactory manner, and was being extended gradually to all the provinces.

ST. JOHN EPISODE OVER STOLEN CAR

St. John, May 8.—The case against Messrs. Beverly, Ross, Currie, Kennedy and Wilkinson, (and also Max Dean who was unable to be present), was taken up in the police court yesterday afternoon as the defendants decided that they would rather have the case disposed of, even though Dean was not present, as it would be some time before the latter would be able to appear in court. The charge against them was for acting together and stealing an automobile the property of W. E. Gunter, from in front of the Imperial Theatre. The defendants pleaded not guilty to the charge. Dr. J. B. M. Baxter, who appeared for Beverly and Kennedy, said that although the boys pleaded not guilty to the charge of stealing the car, they admitted taking from in front of the theatre without the owner's permission, but they denied the charge of theft.

It having been shown that the owner of the car had been recompensed for damages and wished to withdraw the charge, the magistrate withheld decision as to the fines to be imposed.

He recently imported from Massachusetts a milking shorthorn bull, Rue's Robin, which was shipped to him by express, the animal and crate weighing 1,700 lbs. The animal came from Flintstone Farm, a well known stock farm at Dalton, Mass., where his father was purchased as a calf only six months old for $1,325, while his mother has an official test of 10,816 lbs. of milk. Mr. Fowler plans of having only high class thoroughbred stock on his farm. Rue's Robin is now a year and a half old.

SEEKING TO TRACE THE STOLEN BONDS

Books of Canadian Brokerages Will Be Examined in Hunt for Securities

New York, May 8.—Employees and books of banking and brokerage houses in Montreal, Toronto and Quebec will be examined in the hunt for securities stolen in New York's five million dollar bond plot and for traces of their marketers, it was announced here today.

Arrangements already have been completed with the Canadian courts to honor United States federal court orders for such examinations in the Dominion, and application for them will be made here this week, it was stated, by S. S. Myers, counsel for a surety company which bonded many of the Wall street messengers who vanished from the financial district with millions in bonds and stocks.

It previously had been hinted that the elusive "master minds" of the bond pot, Jules W. (Nicky) Arnstein, and Nicholas Cohen, may have established a marketing system leading into a number of brokers' houses in various cities of Canada and the United States.

Yesterday Myers declared that before the hunt is ended there would be involved other New York brokerage firms than that of David W. Sullivan, who already is under indictment in connection with the disposal of stolen securities here.

The trail of Cohen is spreading to the west, Myers said. Indications pointed to Cleveland as his hiding place, according to advices received here.

Testimony of Miss Raye Cohen, "Nick" Cohen's sister, before U. S. Commissioner Gilchrist recently, concerned a mysterious woman in the case, a Miss Margaret Meeker, said to be a member of a well known New England family who had met Cohen while she was studying art in Greenwich Village, New York's "Bohemia."

Miss Cohen said she had seen the girl here in March, well after the hunt for Arnstein and Cohen had been started, packing two trunks for shipment to California. One of these, Miss Cohen said, she admitted contained clothes belonging to Cohen.

TENANTS PROTEST IN MASSACHUSETTS

Housing Committee of Cambridge Has Another Public Hearing

[Boston Herald.]

The Cambridge housing and renting committee held a public hearing last night which was continued from last week. Counsel for Mrs. Mary Santos, whose tenants living in a row of houses on Baldwin street, protested last week at the increase from $28 to $45 a month, told the committee that the increase had been worked out on a careful basis and was the least that would pay the landlady a fair return on her money.

John C. Haverty of the committee said that the question in Cambridge is one of supply and demand, for there are 2,500 applications for houses per week and no supply, but that he consirered $35 was a fair rental in this case.

M. C. Mellow, of 26 Leonard avenue, denied the charge of profiteering made against him last week by his tenant, George Travers. Mellow said he has raised the rent to $32 after charging only $26 for the last nine years. He said the former rate netted him less than 4 per cent.

J. P. Hamilton, a tenant at 88 Massachusetts avenue, protested the raising of his rent to $65 when his lease expires. He now pays $40, a recent increase from $35.

N. S. LEGISLATION ON TEMPERANCE

The Various Phases of the Act Explained in Legislature by Sponsor of the Bill

Halifax, May 7.—In the House of Assembly today, Hon. Mr. McGreggor explained the temperance bill which he has introduced, stating that all the amendments suggested had been placed in it and decision upon them would be left to the committee. The chief changes include the appointment of a Board of Vendors commissioned to control the import and sale of intoxicaants, the abolition of the legal vendors in rural municipalities, the making the appointment of vendors subject to the approval of the Governor-in-Council, the application of all fines for violation of the Temperance Act to the expense of its administration, provision for inquiry into the doings of an inspector or vendor after his resignation, and the prohibition of canvassing or soliciting orders for alcohol.

Mr. McGreggor doubted the possibility of pasisng this last amendment, which seems aimed at the several import companies, until the question of inter-provincial transportation of liquors has been definitely settled.

Frasers to Take Dominion Pulp Company's Plant on Miramichi Over June 15

Transfer Concluded Here Yesterday on Option Which Frasers Took When Howard Smith Paper Company Gave it up---Over $1,000,000 Involved--Capacity of Plant Will be Increased.

The Fraser Companies, Limited, yesterday afternoon exercised an option they have held for some time on the property of the Dominion Pulp Company, Limited, including their plant on the Miramichi and 288 square miles of timber lands.

The amount involved in the transfer has not been given out but Archibald Fraser, of Edmundston, in announcing the completion of the purchase last evening, admitted that it was in excess of a million dollars. The new owners will take possession on June 15th.

The Dominion Pulp Company's mill is located near Chatham and at the present time has a capacity of about 55 tons of sulphide pulp daily. Their timber lands are largely Crown Lands, the company holding little or no granted land. J. F. Patton, of New York, represented the English capital controlling the Dominion Pulp Company in completing the deal.

Some months ago announcement was made that the C. Howard Smith Paper Company, of Montreal, were about to acquire the Dominion Pulp Company's holdings, but later it was said the Smith interests had given up their option. Then it was intimated that the Fraser interests had taken an option on the property, and when the Montreal people sought to renew the negotiations they found the Frasers were in ahead of them. Mr. Patton closed the deal on behalf of the English capitalists by cable and late yesterday afternoon Mr. Fraser declared the transfer had taken place.

To Increase Capacity.

The acquisition of a pulp mill on the Miramichi is not entirely disconnected with the programme of the Fraser interests to secure the 1,600,000 acres of timber lands held in this province by the New Brunswick Railway Company, it is understood, as some of those limits are so located that the cut from them can be best manufactured on the Miramichi. This deal is said to involve something like $12,000,000 or more, so that it is easy for those discussing the activities of the Fraser interests to figure that their enterprises in operation and prospect in the pulp and paper business alone, exclusive of their saw mills, amount to not less than $25,000,000, making by far the largest industrial corporation in New Brunswick.

It is understood that the Frasers will in the near future make additions to the Dominion plant which will considerably increase the amount of its output.

A. from McGill and in the autumn of 1913 proceeded to Bryn Mawr, and at the close of a year's work she was awarded the European travelling fellowship in history but was unable to make use of it on account of the outbreak of war. Speculation as to Probable Retirement of Borden From Premiership at Early Date

Question Will Likely Be Decided at Caucus of Parliamentary Members Next Week, Soon After the Return of Sir Robert—Names Mentioned to Succeed Him

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, May 8.—The announcement that Sir Robert Borden will be in the House on Monday next has aroused general interest, because of the hope it carries that his return may have the effect of putting some life into the dullest session within the memory of parliamentarians.

For the past two months everyone has been waiting for some such event to relieve the deadly monotony, and with the return of Sir Robert Borden and the bringing down of the budget next week it is hoped that the session will take on new life.

The main object of the Premier's return at this time is, of course, in connection with the adding of the final touches to the budget. While it has been before the Cabinet at intervals, the best information is that it has not been given its final form, and practically the whole life of the council sessions will likely be devoted to it during the interval between the return of Sir Robert Borden and the budget speech. If, as reported, there are some very contentious items to be settled, the budget speech, which is announced for Wednesday next, may be still further delayed.

Will Review the Budget.

While it is not likely that the Premier will plunge into the work of the House, he will review all the legislation still to be brought down, including the final shape of those contentious clauses of the Franchise Act which have been held over.

Most interesting of all will be the statement which he is expected to make as to the future policy in connection with Union Government, and the first caucus will be awaited with interest. To this caucus he will also in all probability announce his intentions regarding his future.

If his health is as good as reported, and he submits his future course to the decision of the caucus, there is only one thing it can and will do, that will be to adopt the same course as it did once or twice before and urge him to continue as leader. There is, in short, no other course easy to adopt under such circumstances, in the actual presence of the man most concerned. There are many old friends of the Premier, however, who hope for his own sake that he will not, as they put it, be "dragged through the mire" at the end of his career, and who will urge him to relinquish the leadership rather than have that happen to him.

To Advise Premier to Retire.

The man, now in the Senate, who figured as much as any other with making Sir Robert Borden leader of his party, has expressed himself as determined that the Premier's sun shall set at Austerlitz and not at Waterloo. If he heeds the advice of such councillors, and it will be strongly pressed upon him, Sir Robert's career in active politics will close at an early date and he will leave to some other to carry out whatever policies he may advise.

As to his successor, there is nothing to add to the wide prediction already given out several times. Meighen and White are the only two other names mentioned, and so great has been the general inertia here that even speculation has ceased for some time and there has been no discussion of this or any other question. Possibly Hon. Robert Rogers' demonstration at Toronto on Monday may have the effect of stirring up interest again, although politicians here profess to have little concern about it.

Lady Astor Sends Souvenir for Memorial Building at U.N.B.

Set of Photographs of Cliveden Cemetery, on Astor Estate, Where Many Canadian Soldiers Are Buried, to Hang on Walls of Memorial Hall at University

When the War Memorial Building is erected at the University of New Brunswick an interesting souvenir will occupy a prominent place in the building.

During the war Viscount Astor turned Cliveden, his estate at Taplon, Bucks, into a hospital for the care of Canadian wounded soldiers, and the hospital was known as the Duchess of Connaught Hospital. Many of our boys passed through it and will never forget the kindness of Lady Astor, who superintended the work and took a deep interest in them. One of the boys who was a patient at Cliveden was John W. Bonnell, who has been a patient at the Military Hospital here. He went to Valcartier in 1914 from Boston, where he was on the staff of the Psycopathic Hospital at Brookline, Mass. He paid his own fare to Valcartier, as all who enlisted at that time did, and went over with No. 1 Canadian Stationary Hospital. He was with that unit in Hampstead, then at Boulogne, and later was sent to the Dardanelles and was stationed at Mudros on the Isle of Lemnos. Still later he went to Alexandria, Egypt, and finally to Saloniki, where he was invalided back to England and then home.

When the Memorial Building was proposed Mr. Bonnell thought it would be appropriate to have a souvenir of Lady Astor's hospital in the building, so he wrote to Lady Astor asking her if she would send a souvenir. She graciously replied, sending a set of four large photographs of the cemetery which was established at Cliveden, where Canadian soldiers who died at the hospital were buried, and of the handsome war memorial erected on the estate to the boys who died there. The protographs were accompanied by the following letter:

4, St. James Sq.,
S.W.1.

Dear Mr. Bonnell,—I was very glad to have your letter of March 1, and to hear such good news of you. It is splendid that the Canadian Government are taking such good care to look after the soldiers who fought for Great Britain.

Of course I am delighted to send you a little souvenir for the Provincial University, and am enclosing a set of photographs of Cliveden Cemetery, which I hope will be a nice addition to a Canadian Museum.

I do hope you will come back to England sometime and that I shall see you then.

All the huts at the hospital have been pulled down now, and that corner of the grounds looks very desolate and bleak. I still miss the Canadians more than I can say.

I dream dreams of our happy hospital days, and hope you do.

With kind regards,
Yours sincerely,
NANCY ASTOR.

John W. Bonnell,
Fredericton, N. B.

Prof. Keirsted, in acknowledging the receipt of the souvenirs for the Memorial Building, thanked Mr. Bonnell for his thoughtfulness in writing Lady Astor for the souvenir of Cliveden Cemetery, and concluded his letter by saying: "We have watched with interest the public activities and services of Lady Astor and appreciate deeply what she did for the Canadian boys during the war, and we wish her great success as a representative in the House of Commons."

MANITOBA ELECTIONS

Bell Pianos

The final link of intimacy and happiness in every home is music, and a good piano is music's best interpreter. Within the flexible compass of its tone all music is fittingly expressed, great music with its lofty inspiration, dainty themes of charming simplicity, or the newest "rag" bubbling with sprightly animation.

The fact that there are thousands of Bell pianos used by music lovers in Canada today, answers the question as to its giving satisfaction.

THE FARMER AND LABOR.

The Department of Agriculture is planning a campaign to secure the planting of a greater acreage of forage crops throughout Canada. It is felt that the live stock possibilities of the country are not yet attained, and a greater production of feeding stuffs is considered a first necessary step towards an improvement. The work of the experimental farms and illustration stations has shown that it is possible to produce even in unfavorable seasons more than the quantity of forage necessary to carry the stock of the ordinary farm from one growing season to another. More than the farmers will be interested in the outcome of the effort. Animal husbandry supplies much of the food of the people, as well as material for their clothing; and for both food and clothing, just now, there is demand greater than the supply. There are difficulties in the way of a full realization of the departmental object, however, points out a Canadian writer. Crops may not be produced without work, and in the country more than in the cities, men with skill and ability to work are scarce. The complaint that is raised by farm papers and farm spokesmen, that men enough to till the soil cannot be had, evidently has good foundation; and in many districts less, rather than greater, crops are to be expected this year and, perhaps, for years in the future. The development of farm machinery going on from year to year has operated to enable a reduced number of hands to maintain, or even increase, the amount of food produced on the farms, in a manner that would surprise the pioneers, if they could see it. It has not been sufficient, however, to offset the attraction of city and town and other industries on the farm workers. Economic laws that may not be resisted have been mainly responsible for such state of affairs. Politicians' laws have helped, as far as their authors knew. While the Department of Agriculture was preparing the plans for its campaign for greater production, the Department of Labor, through its representatives, was directing a conference on the industrial legislation of the provinces, one of whose recommendations was that laws should be passed to restrict to eight hours a day the time of work in the mining industry. At Winnipeg, another Government's agency was fixing at $1 an hour the pay of men in the building trades, who, by law, have their day's work restricted to eight hours. Farmers cannot pay wages to compete with such standards of wages and hours of labor, and must suffer the consequences. Those who consume farm stuffs must suffer with the farmers, and pay short-crop prices for what they eat. Nothing can be done to avert the consequences of economic laws, which just now, in greater degree than ever, are drawing men from the country to the town. Once the same laws on this continent drew men from the cities to the farm. City wages were low and farm returns relatively high. Such laws work their own cure of the troubles they cause. It is doubtful if they are greatly affected by what parliaments and legislatures enact, in the interest of sections of the people. It is reasonable though to ask that they be left to operate without political interference, which, as now being illustrated, is serving to aggravate a grave situation.

LABOR'S GOLDEN EGG.

To the striking building workers in Chicago has been granted an increase of $2 a day. Some twenty crafts, including carpenters, bricklayers, plasterers, plumbers, glaziers and steam fitters, now receive $10 for an eight-hour day and double pay for overtime. But out of this increase has developed an unforeseen situation which is reacting disastrously on the workers themselves. Building operations in Chicago have been curtailed one-half, and there is no longer work enough to go 'round, many a laborer finding himself with a high wage scale but no employment.

There is an instructive lesson in this. What is known as the monopoly price limit has long been known in business and in economic science. It is that point beyond which any increase in the price of a commodity will so curtail consumption as to make production unprofitable. Thus, if a company sells 1,000,000 units of a given article annually at $1 a unit it would not pay to raise the price to $2, if by so doing the number of sales would be cut down to 10,000.

The same law applies to the cost of labor. Workingmen must presently realize that economic law itself has set a limit to their demands. They cannot go on indefinitely appropriating to themselves an ever increasing share of the national output, for sooner or later the point is reached where society must dispense, to an extent at least, with their services. The laborer is worthy of his hire, but that is all. If he uses the weapon of close organization to gain more he himself will be the chief sufferer. He will soon find that he has killed the goose that laid the golden eggs.

JEWS IN PALESTINE.

The League of Nations has been able so far to implement the diplomatic promise made by the Right Hon. A. J. Balfour, when Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, to the effect that the Jews, after a process of absorption and construction, would erect a nationality and a government of their own in Palestine. A beginning has been made, and the seal of protection placed upon the efforts of Jews to constitute themselves the governing power in a land in which they do not predominate.

There is, however, another side to the question, which is generally alluded to as that of the Arab. If not its most enlightened, its most interesting exponent is a former Winnipeg man, student and professor, Robert Machray. He was at one time canon of St. John's cathedral and professor of ecclesiastical history and lecturer in English literature at St. John's college. Mr. Machray is now an admitted authority on far eastern subjects and the eastern theatre of war, as well as being a successful novelist.

The aspirations of the Jews to regain their national home conflicted with the aspirations of the Arabs to form an Arab kingdom, of which Palestine was to be a part. Syria, Mesopotamia and, of course, Arabia, were to be the other parts. As to Palestine, it is reported to be a poverty-stricken, small country, much of it infertile, though capable of development. The Arabs have regarded it as their own, and their nationality predominates among its population. Emir Feisal, King of the Hedjaz, said that in so far as taking Palestine out of the Arab empire might be suggested, "there is not an Arab throughout the world who would not resent any whittling down of this our minimum claim."

The whittling has been done. The hope of the Arabs was that by a concentration of Jews in Palestine that land might be made a Jewish sub-province of the Arab kingdom. This attitude was disconcerting to the Zionists, who look to the complete restoration of Palestine to their own people.

There are Zionists in Palestine represented as having offended the natives by the arrogance of their bearing. They have even gone the length of exciting the suspicion that there is a design on the part of the Zionists to supplant the peasants, the present proprietors, in the possession of their lands.

That charge can hardly be laid generally. Christians and Mohammedans are declared to have united in denouncing those Zionists; numbers even of the Jews resident or long-settled in the country are reported as having regarded with disfavor the political activities of their intrusive co-religionists.

The British, however, are standing behind the promise made by Mr. Balfour, and which may be appraised in terms set forth by Mr. Herbert Samuel. This distinguished Jew said that the Zionists desired the promotion of Jewish immigration, Jewish land settlement, the concession to Jewish authorities of many of the public works of which the country stands so much in need, Jewish cultural development, and the fullest measure of local self-government in order that the country might become a purely self-governing commonwealth.

Behind these aspirations Great Britain practically has accepted mandatory powers for Palestine. Her policy is understood to be receiving favor with the people of the country, not excepting the Arabs. It sees that all races in the country receive fair treatment and that existing rights are respected. As Mr. Machray says, Britain must see to it that there be no arbitrary, harsh Zioning of the Holy Land.

Higher Rate on Liquors.

The Board of Trade has received an advanced copy of a proposed supplement to Canadian freight classification No. 16 which has been filed with the board of railway commissioners for approval. This suplement covers certain changes in less than carload and carload ratings on liquors and liquids. Objections to increases in transportation charges may be filed within thirty day.

JULY ELECTIONS FOR MANITOBA

Norris Government Preparing for the Struggle—Farmer and Labor Elements

Winnipeg, May 7. — Manitoba's sixteenth legislative assembly is to be elected before another harvest is gathered, and it is expected that a date in July will be chosen. The fifteenth legislature, which concluded its last session recently, was eleted in mid-summer of 1915, and thus, under the premiership of Hon. T. C. Norris, conducted the affairs of the province during the greater part of the war. Mr. Norris is to lead the Government forces in the forthcoming campaign, and from present indications every member of his present cabinet will go back for re-election. Hon. A. B. Hudson, who has been a conspicuous figure in the Government ranks for the past five years, part of the time as Attorney General, will retire to private life.

The old legislature contained 48 members. In the next there will be an increase to 55; an increase made up by giving four more members to Winnipeg and by the creation of three new rural constituencies. Winnipeg has had sixty members, being two each for Centre, North and South Winnipeg constituencies. Henceforth there will be ten members sitting for the capital, to be elected at large by proportional representation. Outside of Winnipeg the voting will be conducted in the old-fashioned way.

A portion of the old constituency of Dauphin, lying northwest of the town of Dauphin, has been created into a new constituency of Ethelbert. Two new constituencies have been created in the newly settled district between Lake Winnipeg and Lake Manitoba. They are named Fairford and Fisher.

In the old legislature the Government had an overwhelming majority. There was an official Conservative opposition of three members and two or three other independent members. Various new factors will influence the membership which gathers next winter in Manitoba's palatial new government buildings.

It is expected that the Government will have a candidate in the field for every seat. The Conservative party elected R. G. Willis as provincial leader some months ago and began making plans for the campaign.

There is a movement by the official Winnipeg Liberal Association, called in some quarters "Laurier Liberals," to offer candidates in oposition to the Government. The United Farmers of Manitoba officially will undertake a province-wide campaign, but it is expected that some constituencies will have to deal with candidates running on the Farmers' ticket. Labor and socialist interests will endeavor to secure representation, and it is predicted that all or most of the strike leaders recently convicted by the assize court will be put in the field in their enforced absence from the hustings. If to these are added the usual number of independent candidates of one kind and another it is seen that the election promises to be of uncommon interest.

It is freely predicted that in Winnipeg the proportional representation ballot will contain thirty or forty names. It will be the first experiment with this modern polling system in Manitoba, and those who favor proportional representation equally with those who dislike the innovation are anxious to learn to what extent the claims made on its behalf are justified by its practical operation.

THE LIGHTER SIDE OF LIFE

Respect for the Dead.

A burly English yokel had come all the way to London to see the British Museum, but unfortunately it was on a day when the museum was closed. The yokel, however, insisted on trying to enter the institution. "Bain't this public property?" he said to the gateman.

"Yes," admitted that official, "but," he added, struck by a bright thought, "one of the mummies died on Tuesday; do you begrudge us a day to bury him in?"

"Oh, excuse me," said the yokel, in a hushed voice, "in that case I won't intrude."

Both Alike.

'I can't imagine what Mildred sees in that Smith boy," remarked Mildred's mother. "He hasn't got brains enough in his head to fill a thimble.

"Oh, well, I dare say your mother said the same thing about me when I came courting you!' replied the girl's father, indugently.

But he suddenly lost his complacent smile when his wife retorted:

'She certainly did, and I was just as big a fool as Mildred is now. I wouldn't listen to the advice of my elders.'

In Terms of Astronomy.

"I wonder," remarked a youthful astronomer, who was very slow in doing what was expected of him, "if—if you will let me associate you with a star—Venus, perhaps, the star of love?"

"Well, no," replied the young lady addressed. "I would rather that you thought of me as Saturn."

"Indeed! Why?"

"Oh, well, you know, didn't you tell me that Saturn has a ring?"

He bought one on the following day.

His Experience.

"But, Mr. Smith, have you never met the woman whose touch thrilled every fibre of your being and filled you with indescribable emotions?"

"Oh, yes, Mrs. Pifflegilder!" returned Hostetter Smith. "I was once operated on by a woman dentist."

The Mode.

Old-Fashioned Aunt—Good heavens, child! You are not going out like that? You look like a chorus girl.

Modern Maiden—Oh, come aunt! I don't look as horribly respectable as that, surely!"

How It Happened.

"Why, Edgar," exclaimed an anxious mother, "What is that long mark on the back of your hand?"

"Oh," replied Edgar, indifferently, "I scratched it with a cat."

A Father's Wish.

White—Five unmarried daughters, eh! Don't you wish you had some sons?

Grey—No; but I wish I had a few sons-in-law.

Man Needs But Little.

A mattress concern advertises that "you spend one-third of your life in bed," and a shomaker says "you spend two-thirds of your life in your shoes," so we gather that all we need to get through life is a bed and a pair of shoes.

Father Agreed.

Daughter—Mother says it is bad form for me to go shopping without a chaperon.

Father — She's right, my dear. Young ladies who go shopping without a chaperon are almost sure to forget themselves and buy things.

Generally.

She—It's funny you should be so tall. Your artist brother is short, isn't he?

He (absenly)—Yes, generally.

Possible Explanation.

"I can't imagine why Bertie is so brainless; can you?"

"There is a theaory that he was brought up on a vacuum bottle."

Inverse Ratio.

Jud Tunkins has noticed that as the contents of a package grow smaller, the bragging on the label gets bigger.

Why Not?

FROM THE PEOPLE

THE SOLDIERS' BONUS

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Permit me to write a few lines touching on a subject that has been much discussed in our From the People column of late. I would say to Uncle Ruben that he has certainly chosen a very descriptive name and, by his letters, he is endeavoring to live up to it. He certainly has a man-sized (?) grouch on poor Jeff and, by the way it is such fellows as Jeff (who are badly disabled and willing to make an effort) who are deserving of a cash bonus and all that can be done for them. Of course, a cash bonus would probably mean, as many say it would, an increased taxation and possibly that is Uncle Ruben's touchy spot as I understand that he would not be benefitted by it. There are, I know, a few returned men who are wasters and would not use the money wisely but do not judge them all by a few poor examples. And besides, is it only among ex-soldiers that we find men who are no good?

Of course, Uncle Ruben, you refused the trip with Mr. Jeffrey. You are, no doubt, like lots of others who have never realized what our boys have been through and what is more, you shut your eyes and ears to avoid finding out.

Uncle Ruben says that "Canada has done her best towards compensating the returned ones and caring for the dependents of those who will never return. I know of a young man who has one leg off and the other hip is so stiff that he cannot even put on his own socks, who gets sixty dollars a month pension, and this is not the only case of the kind I could mention. Canada is the best place on this old earth to me, but if this is a sample of her "best" I must say I am very much disappointed.

And say, Uncle Ruben, since when have pianos and victrolas become bric-a-brac? Perchance if you took more interest in things as helpful and humanizing as music you would be less sour towards our returned boys.

Yours,

SOLDIERS' FRIEND.

WANTS EXPLANATION

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Is it possible for the mind to do constructive or original work in dreams, or is such mental activity purely the product of experiences or studies that are graven on the tablets of the subconscious mind?

Frequently in dreams I read whole chapters from books whose titles and subject matter I had never seen or heard of. On two occasions when I awoke I wrote down the titles of the books I saw in my dreams and inquiry at the library proved that no such titles were on record. At least twice also, when I have been "stuck" for a fitting ending for a story, or a particular line of a poem, I have dreamed just the thing I wanted.

Won't some of your readers who have studied psychological phenomena explain these things?

Yours,

T. A. D.

SAYS "JAZZ" ISN'T MUSIC

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—The discussions about booming music in Canada and as to the benefit or otherwise of memorizing pieces interest me greatly. As to memorizing, one will find he can memorize more easily as he goes on. It means practice, that is all.

When good musicians begin taking up popular Canadian music they find it difficult to read; and is it any wonder? I bought a few pieces to practice on, and became convinced that some of it must have been composed by musicians who played by ear and had no knowledge of the fundamental principles of composition. It lacks harmony. I hope we may some time have better popular music. There are a great many beginners who buy it, and why not give them music of thought and harmony, instead of the "jazzy" stuff that is detrimental to the musical mind?

Why not add to our old folk songs, if I may call them such, and make them more popular? Good music should not be laid aside like an old-fashioned garment. Why waste time and money on "jazz" as thousands are doing every day?

Yours,

MUSIC.

THIRTEEN YEARS CHIEF OF MONCTON

George Rideout's Force Takes Second Place to None in the Maritime Provinces

[Moncton Times.]

On May 3rd Chief Rideout rounded out his 13th successive year as head of the city force. On May 3rd, 1907, he arrived in the city from Fredericton and assumed control of the force of seven officers, who comprised the strength of the active end of the police department at that time. During his thirteen years as Chief of Police in Moncton he has seen a good many of his fellow chief constables in other Maritime Province cities and towns come and go. St. John has had in the last dozen years three or four chiefs, Halifax as many, Fredericton has experienced a number of changes, as well as Amherst and Sydney. When his attention was called to this fact, Chief Rideout said that it was not because of any degree of worthiness of his own, but chiefly owing to the fact that the citizenship of Moncton were ever and at all times ready to come forward with such a large measure of assistance and co-operation toward the forces of law and order, that the path of duty was made much more easy to follow. Moncton today is not much like the Moncton of 13 years ago. The city's population has doubled in that time, and as for general appearance, it is only a fact to state that a visitor to the city at the present time, after a dozen years' absence would scarcely know the place. Moncton's police department is keeping apace with the growth and development of the city. The force of seven, which did duty thirteen years ago has now practically doubled and in the very near future, it is to be further increased to eighteen men. Further evidence that the force is keeping up with the spirit of the times, is furnished by the recent adoption of the eight hour day system of patrol duty. In the matter of efficiency and strict adherence to duty, Moncton's police force takes second place to none, a position which, as long as the present Chief of Police remains in charge will not be relinquished.

EXCELLENT PLAYERS IN "FIRES OF FAITH"

Various Roles Portrayed by Artists of Distinction of Film World

One of the strongest companies of players ever assembled in a picture production, appears in "Fires of Faith," the splendid massive Paramount picture which will be displayed at the Gaiety Theatre Monday and Tuesday of next week. The principals are Catherine Calvert, Eugene O'Brien and Ruby de Remer, three of the best known artists of the screen world.

Miss Calvert is seen as Elizabeth Blake, a woman of the slums, who is reclaimed through the efforts of the Salvation Army and who does superb humanitarian work at the fighting front in France and wins the love of a brave Canadian soldier. She is beautiful and has appeared in numerous picture successes, but her role in "Fires of Faith" is said to be the best she ever has essayed.

Eugene O'Brien is a handsome athletic leading man who plays the part of an aviator. He scoffs at the work of the Salvation Army until he learns the real value of that organization in world affairs. Miss de Remer plays opposite to Mr. O'Brien, she appearing as a society girl of wealth who joins the Salvation Army and does her bit for humanity at thte fighting front in France.

The support generally is of the best, the principals including Theodore Roberts, Herbert Standing, James Neill, Edythe Chapman, Charles Ogle, Clarence Geldart, Helen Dunbar, little Pat Moore, Fred Huntley, George Andersen and others.

"REBEL" McTIGUE DEAD AT NASHUA

Former Boston, Montreal and Toronto Pitcher Was a Tuberculosis Victim

Nashville, Tenn., May 7.—William P. (Rebel) McTigue, formerly a Boston National League Club pitcher, who also played with several International League clubs and in 1918 pitched for a time for Atlanta in the Southern League, died at his home in Nashville today, aged 28. He also had brief trials with the Detroit Tigers and Chicago Cubs.

He was only 19 when the Boston club obtained him in the fall of 1910 from the New Bedford New England League Club, for which he had won six straight games, aiding materially in winning the pennant for his team.

McTigue spent 1911 with the Boston club, was farmed out to Montreal in 1912 but was recalled because of his fine work. In 1913 he was traded to Baltimore of the International League. He became ill with typhoid fever in Baltimore and later contracted tuberculosis, remaining out of the game a year and a half.

He returned to baseball in 1915 and for three years figured as one of the leading pitchers of the International League, pitching for Toronto and Providence. He was also a strong hitter, finishing well over the .300 mark twice and hitting .299 in 1916. He was used in many games as an outfielder.

McTigue retired in 1918 after twirling three games for the Atlanta Southern League club. For about a year he had been in Texas for his health, but returned to his home in Nashville recently.

He is survived by a wife, formerly Miss Anna Sawyer, of Brookline, and one son, Wm. Benton McTigue.

THE WRESTLERS

Louisville, Ky., May 8.—Joe Stecher, world's champion ,successfuly defended his title here last night by throwing Yussif Hussane in two straight falls, the first in one hour and fourteen minutes and the second in eight minutes. He used the body scissors to obtain both falls. In a preliminary match Ed. "Strangler" Lewis defeated Ramon Cazeau, a French wrestler, by two straight falls in seventeen and nine minutes respectively.

STAPLES-PAYNTER COMBINATION WIN

Won 10 String Match by the Margin of 101 Pins—Meet Will Edney and Burgess

The latest slogan at the Palace Bowling Alleys is "If you can't beat 'em out, wear 'em out." This is only to be applied to the two man team of bowlers, Sandy Staples and Rock Paynter, whose team work is producing a variety of challengers. Last evening at the alleys the 'old man' and his running mate demonstrated that they could still hold their own but were liable to be over-worked and beaten out.

In their match last evening with two aspirants for the championship of the alleys' honors, Harry Pidgeon and Hayward Paynter, they won out by a total pinfall of 1843 to 1742, by a margin of 101 pins.

The scores were as follows:

Staples—	82	89	99	96	93	92	114	89	92	103—950
R. Paynter—	87	94	79	106	99	90	95	80	77	86—893
										1834
H. Paynter	84	94	104	88	103	90	85	87	84	78—897
Pidgeon—	75	93	88	93	76	79	88	82	88	83—845
										1742

It is expected that the match between Staples and Paynter and Edney and Burgess on Thursday evening next will be an interesting one and a large crowd of bowlers are eagerly looking forward to it. Joe Powers and Willard Kitchen have challenged the winners of the match to another proof of their skill.—W. R. R.

St. Croix Horsemen Said to Be After a Free for Aller

Reported That Border Horsemen Are to Buy a Fast Pacer

NEW STALLS AT SAINT STEPHEN

Active Training Will Start at Border Track Next Week.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

St. Stephen, N. B., May 8.—The St. Stephen trotting park is now being put in shape and the spring training will start on Monday.

New stalls are being built to accommodate the large number of horses that will be put in shape this year. Never has there been so much local speed on the St. Croix as there is this season, and several trainers from outside are arranging to come here, so that there will be something doing on the track every day.

The McBride stable will have Saskia and Lucky Strike, Haley's stable will have three good ones in Evelyn B., Seldom C. and Marion Todd. L. McKay has The Surveyor, Hugh Love will probably make a come back with Lady Fondly, while A. Forbes' Ben Bourbon, A. Johnson's Rose Lumps, Millbery Bros.' Aristo, McComb's Mary Heir, Lagen's Sally M. P., Ed. Gilman's Little Gillig, McGaw's Dillion, Eagan's Nuthin, R. L. Todd's College Queenie will all appear this season.

Besides these a lot of new ones will make their appearance, including Wm. McGibbon's Devil's Echo, which is a very promising colt and is already showing a lot of speed. Robert McComb's Bingen colt is looking good this season and will make them all sit up and take notice.

C. W. Hanley, besides Lady Bingara, has added a new one to his stable which he calls Lady Patchen. She is four years old and the sire is Baron Patchen while her dam is one of the famous Edgardo stock. She is very pretty gaited and goes to the pace like an old timer.

W. A. Hyslop will be back in the game again this season with a green mare called Lady Jane, a dark bay four-year-old which he brought from Ontario. She goes to the trot and looks very promising.

Two more youngsters that are expected to show up well this year are F. D. J. Graham's Miss Chato Direct, by Dichato, dam Aristo by Daredevil. She has been doing quite a lot of road work and will start training next week. She is a handsome bay and will no doubt show a lot of speed this season. Queenie Patchen, owned by Robt. Webster, is another youngster that will show up well this year; she showed great form on the ice this winter and will start the spring training next Monday. She is a very dark bay and showy and is by Baron Patchen.

There will no doubt be several new additions to the different stables before the racing season starts and the prospects are that a free for all one will be brought to the border.—R.E.H.

Chimes Hal, 2.06¼, at Truro.

Chimes Hal, 2.06¼, the pacer recently bought in the United States by Dr. F. J. Cavanagh, has arrived in Truro. He made his winrace record on a mile track in 1912.—Halifax Recorder.

Another for the 2.13 Class.

King Wilkes, 2.09¼, lately purchased by D. O.Keefe, of St. John, and to be campaigned by Kid Dryden on the Maritime & Maine circuit this year, is a bay gelding by King Red and made his winrace record of 2.09¼ on a half-mile track in 1916. He is thus eligible to the 2.13 class this year. Kid Dryden will have Peter Farren, 2.07¼, and the rest of the O'Keefe stable, including several green ones recently purchased.

New Pacer in Douse Stable

[American Horse Breeder.]

W. V. Douse, Attleboro, Mass., who puts in his summers racing a few horses over the Northern Maine and Maritime tracks, has purchased through Charles P. Jones, proprietor of the Speedway Stables, Providence, R. I., the eight year old pacer, Jack the Clipper, 2.08¼. While the gelding disports a rather fancy record, taken at Columbus (O.) Grand Circuit meeting in 1918, his winrace is only 2.19¼, taken in 1916. He is, in consequence, eligible to the 2.26 classes and should prove a useful racing tool in the North country. Jack the Clipper was brought on from Indiana last spring by J. des Roches, Valley Falls, R. I.

PERTINENT COMMENT on SPORTING TOPICS

Racing season prospects are certainly looking up.

Perkins, the young catcher who won yesterday's game for the Athletics, is one of the most promising young players to horn into the big show in some time.

Followers of harness racing in the Maritime Provinces were glad to note that W. H. Gocher, the veteran secretary of the National Trotting Association, has been re-elected to his position. He has the complete confidence of the horsemen.

Frank Moran, the Pittsburg fighter who has picked up some big money in the past in scraps he didn't have a chance of winning, is trying a "come back" in the fertile pugilistic field that England furnishes. Last night he knocked out Paul Journee at London in the second round.

Ed Barrow, manager of the Red Sox, now says that Oscar Vitt, having reported to the club, will not be traded. This means that the Red Sox are sure to have some second defence material, as Eddie Foster, now playing third, can fill in anywhere in the infield. Wally Schang will also be retained, it is said, and the acquisition of these two players makes Boston's representatives in the American League look like a regular team.

History was merely repeating itself when Johnny Wilson, an unknown second rater in Boston, suddenly bobbed up and won the middleweight boxing title. Mike O'Dowd, the erstwhile champion, apeared on the fistic horizon almost as suddenly and when A. McCoy, the previous title holder, became champion there was much discussion as to whether or not he was a really honest to goodness champion or not. Wilson may meet the same kind of an end in his career as champion. Who knows? Mike Gibbons, of St. Paul, has already challenged him for a championship fight on July 4th.—J. D. B.

Perkins of the Athletics And Powell of Braves Star

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

New York, May 8.—Catcher Perkins practically won a game for Philadelphia in the American League yesterday, his triple in the fourth scoring two mates and his single in the eighth accounting for another run.

Leonard for Detroit was hit freely in the game against St. Louis.

Chicago won their sixth straight game of the season by defeating Cleveland.

Washington won their game against New York in the first two innings.

In the National League the Giants won an exciting game of 11 innings against Brooklyn.

Chicago's game against Pittsburg was featured by long hitting.

Powell, of Boston, robbed Philadelphia of a home run by a sensational one hand catch and later made a home run himself, giving his team their third straight victory.

St. Louis gave a weird exhibition against Cincinnati, Schupp walking five of the eight men who faced him in the first inning.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

LOCAL BASEBALL. TEAM UNSETTLED

Much Still Depends on Whether Fred McLean Can Be Reinstated

A meeting of the three Fredericton baseball teams—Palace Alleys, John Palmer Co. and Oldtimers—which was to have been held last evening to effect an amalgamation of the three into one city team for entrance into the York County League, was postponed until Monday evening. While John Palmer Co's team was desirous of entering the York County League, provided they could secure the services of Fred McLean as a pitcher, they stated at a previous meeting that they would not wish to enter without that player.

The question as to whether McLean can be reinstated as an amateur has had a large part to do with the present situation, as now the John Palmer Co. are desirous of effecting an amalgamation of the players of the three teams and entering them under the name of the John Palmer Co.

Should this not be effected it was stated today that it was doubtful if the team would enter the York County League and this would be a decided loss to the league as the John Palmer Co. team is as yet the only city team with substantial financial backing, both the employers and employees of the company being willing to stand behind it.

Philadelphia's Kid Outfielder Is Runner-Up.—Jackson Leads in American

CITY OF MEXICO TAKEN BY REBELS

New Brunswick May Not Have Permanent Force

But it Unit is Located in Province Fredericton Will Not Be Forgotten---Militia Council is Said to Have Recommended Curtailment Policy Which Would Mean No Stations of Permanent Force in Maritime Provinces or British Columbia---Delegation Returned Today.

Mayor John A. Reid and C. D. Richards, who went to Ottawa as representatives of the local organizations to discuss the location of a unit of the permanent military force in Fredericton as before the war, returned at noon today.

"Fredericton will not be given secondary consideration, we were assured by Hon. Hugh Guthrie, the Minister of Militia, and its advantages as a military centre as well as its claims through having for so long been the recognized location of the permanent force in this province have not been forgotten," Mayor Reid declared when asked for a statement as to what had transpired at Ottawa.

Mayor Reid said the delegation had been given a most satisfactory hearing by the Minister of Militia, being introduced by Col. H. F. McLeod, M. P., who had arranged the interview the afternoon of their arrival and they came away impressed with the belief that the question as to whether Fredericton will have a unit of the permanent force located here again is not so much one of the choice of a location in the province but as to whether or not there will be any units of the permanent force stationed in New Brunswick at all.

It is understood that the delegation learned while at Ottawa that the Militia Council have made a recommendation favoring curtailment of the permanent force established in Canada so that the Maritime Provinces as well as British Columbia would be without any units. This recommendation, it is said, was only recently made and thus there was a different situation confronting the delegation upon their arrival in Ottawa.

It is expected that Mayor Reid and Mr. Richards will make a detailed report of their interview with the Minister of Militia for the City Council, Commercial Club and Board of Trade.

$30,000 FIRE AT HALIFAX TODAY

Seven Huts Recently Sold by Dominion Government to Fried Bros., Destroyed

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Halifax, N. S., May 8.—Fire today destroyed seven large huts on the North Common, formerly occupied by soldiers, which had been recently sold by the Dominion Government to Fried Brothers, of Glace Bay. The loss is estimated at approximately $30,000. The buildings were unoccupied. The origin of the blaze is unknown. Fire was first discovered in one of the huts at the corner of Cogswell and Robie streets. These huts were built during the war to accommodate troops at this port en route overseas or returning for demobilization. After the war some of the huts served as quarters for the Royal Canadian Regiment until that unit was sent to Montreal.

Virtually the entire fire fighting force of the city was called to the scene and succeeded in preventing the blaze from spreading to the dozen or more huts on the common. Fried Bros. had purchased these buildings by tender and had planned to tear them down and remove the lumber to their property at the Nova Scotia car works, which they recently acquired.

DISCUSS CHANGES AT VICTORIA HOSPITAL

Provisions for Maternity Home, Nurses Home and Contagious Hospital

The Board of Trustees of Victoria Hospital and the staff of that institution with the medical doctors met last evening at the Board of Trade rooms to discuss the internal management of the Hospital. Some suggestions were made as to the rearrangement of the work by the medical staff and this will be considered further at a meeting of the board.

The extension of the Victoria Hospital also was considered and it was the consensus of opinion that there was great need for a maternity ward in a new wing or building, a nurses' home and a new contagious hospital. This will be considered at a meeting of various organizations to be called some time next week to take up the matter of ways and means.

[Fort Fairfield Review.]

Potatoes are coming in now very slowly, being practically all in. The price is from $10 to $11 a barrel. It is still predicted that the acreage will be cut down quite a good deal, on account of shortage in fertilizer, although quite a lot of fertilizer is now arriving most of the time.

N. S. VETERANS ARE AFTER GEN. M'LEAN

[By Canadian Associated Press.]

Halifax, ... S., May 8.—Officials of the Nova Scotia command of the G.W.V.A. have issued a statement regarding the remarks made at a recent meeting of the Pensions Committee by Brig. Gen. McLean, in which they say that telegrams have been despatched to the Dominion secretary of the G.W.V.A. at Ottawa demanding the General's resignation from the committee.

"Telegrams have also been despatched to all Nova Scotia members of this committee," the statement says, "as it is considered that if the committee uphold Gen. McLean's statement and consents to the doctoring of the records they will condone attempts to heap abuse on the loved ones of deceased comrades, who paid the supreme sacrifice."

It is expected that the season's output at the Victoria Mills will be somewhat more than 15 million feet, which was the original estimate. "We are not trying to get away from the shorter working day agreement we made with the men," said Manager Glenn today, "but we have been late in starting operations and we put the proposition that has been adopted up to the men as a means of increasing production, and they unanimously accepted it."

Senator G. G. King, of Chipman, is in the city today and will leave tonight for Ottawa.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, May 8.—The executive committee of the Labor party has sent a formal protest to Viscount Milner, Secretary of the Colonies, against his instructions to magistrates in British East Africa to "induce" the native chiefs to procure native labor for the farms of white settlers at wages ranging from two pence to three pence a day. The committee argues that such an "inducement" is tantamount to forced labor, and says that Germany was deprived of the colony because she employed such forced labor.

HUNGARY MAY NOT SIGN PEACE TREATY

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Budapest, May 8.—The peace treaty will be submitted to the cabinet ministers for final decision as to its acceptance or non-acceptance, instead of being sent to the national assembly, according to present plans. The radical party, led by Count Albert Apponyi, continues to oppose signature of the treaty, while the bourgeois elements are said to favor the signing so as to hasten rehabilitation of the country.

THE OLD POLITICAL GAME

[The New Freeman.]

The St. John Telegraph refers to the Federal administration as a "so-called Union Government." On what particular date did the Telegraph make the discovery that the essence of Unionism had petered out. Having so vehemently assured its readers but three years ago that "Union" Government had been achieved and the country thereby saved, does it mean to say that it was then mistaken or was merely playing the old political game?

Most of the session was taken up with a general discussion on the treatment of venereal diseases and means to combat them, and it is expected that some definite action will be taken in the matter at this afternoon's session.

DAYLIGHT SAVING IN NOVA SCOTIA

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Halifax, N. S., May 8.—The proclamation to the effect that daylight saving will go in force at midnight tomorrow seems to have met with the approval of the majority of the citizens, who will "go Joshua one better" and instead of commanding the sun to stand still will advance their clocks an hour and thus start their season on "daylight saving."

Outside the city the rural population are largely opposed to the movement, and openly call the time "crazy time" rather than daylight saving time.

Mr. Bickerdyke will not, he stated, stand as a candidate for any one party. His sole incentive to re-enter parliament is to see a bill passed in the House of Commons for the abolition of capital punishment.

American Public Glad to Hear That DeValera is About To Leave the United States

Of Late There Have Been Numerous Resolutions of Protest From Various Patriotic Organizations Against the Recognition Accorded to the Irish Leader

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York, May 8.—The United States soon may have to worry along without Eamonn De Valera, the self-styled "President of the Irish Republic." In addressing a meeting of Irish bond salesmen last night De Valera intimated that he might depart in the near future. He said:

"My friends, this may be one of my last opportunities to talk with you."

J. L. Fawcitt, Irish Consul, also a speaker, said:

"I wish I could take you into my confidence and tell you of the wonderful plans Henry Ford has for Cork Harbor. I will say that within five years Cork factories will employ ten thousand persons."

There are indications that the novelty of having an Irish "president" perambulating about their country is beginning to pall upon the American public. Numerous resolutions of protest have been passed by posts of the American Legion and other patriotic organizations against the giving of official recognition to De Valera by mayors and other public officials, and it has been generally expected that he would end his lengthy visit to this country in the near future.

These applications have to be recommended by the provincial attorney general before they are considered at Ottawa, and it would appear that the firms that have already organized for the purpose of carrying on the inter-provincial trade in liquors are going to make a stiff fight for their further trade.

DRANK ALCOHOL IN SPIRIT COMPASS

Desperate Expedient of a St. John Man to Get a Drink With Kick In It.

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

St. John, N. B., May 8.—The province may be flooded with liquor, and stimulants may be as easy to obtain as in pre-war days, as some opponents of the present system insist, but there is at least one man in St. John who does not seem to have learned that this condition exists and who was driven to desperate expedients to secure a drink with a kick in it. When the skipper of the river towboat, the James Holly, entered the wheel-house this morning, he found indications that the thirsty one had picked that spot as an oasis in his bone-dry desert. The wheel-house of a tugboat may not be a promising place to look for booze, but the invader had ideas of his own on the subject. He had taken the glass top off the spirit compass and carefully removed every drop of the alcohol in which the compass once floated.

WILL SPEED UP PRODUCTION AT THE VICTORIA MILLS

Men Agree to Proposal Which Provides Extra Hour of Work Daily

WILL INCREASE OUTPUT TO 100,000 FEET DAILY

Employees Will Get Seven Days Pay for Six Days Work Under New Scheme

A practical method of bringing about the much needed increased production has been agreed upon between the employees and the management of the Victoria Mills, the local link in the chain of saw mills operated by the Fraser Companies, Limited.

Finding himself with a larger quantity of logs on hand than could probably be manufactured this season with the reduced hours of labor, Manager William Glenn put a proposal before the men that they work an hour extra each evening during the spring and summer months at least, for which they would be paid the usual time and a half for overtime under the schedule of wages recently adopted for this season.

The proposition was placed before the men at a meeting last night and was adopted unanimously by the men, who will profit by substantial additions to the weekly pay envelopes, really being paid for seven days work instead of six. The result of the change, which goes into operation next week, will be to increase the average daily output of the mill to about 100,000 superficial feet, whereas last year the Sale of Long's Hotel Suddenly Called Off

The sale of the Long's Hotel property at the corner of King and York streets to J. Clark & Son was suddenly called off last evening.

A dispute over the payment of an amount of something like $70 for back insurance, which it is said the new owners were asked to pay, resulted in Wm. Aikten handing back the cheque for $18,000 which W. G. Clark had just turned over to him.

It was said this morning that nothing further would be done in the sale of the property until the first of the week, when, it is said, another deal will be made if the sale to J. Clark & Son is not completed.

J. P. Mitchell Carries On a Farming Operation As Well as Store

Two former Fredericton men who are now prominently identified with the business life of Medicine Hat, Alta., have been here this week in the persons of J. P. Mitchell and J. H. Tabor, both of whom have been warmly welcomed by many old friends.

Mr. Mitchell was a member of the George Black party which went from here to the Yukon more than twenty years ago, but he gave up his place on that expedition to the late Walter Chestnut. Some time later Mr. Mitchell went to Medicine Hat, where he is in business as the proprietor of an extensive grocery busines, and he also conducts an extensive wheat farming operation.

"This eastern country looks awfully good to me," said Mr. Mitchell. "All that is wanted here is some immigration from Europe by those hardy families with a number of boys who will work on the land. As to prices of living commodities in the West as compared with here, all I can say is that I don't see very much difference; they seem practically the same."

Mr. Tabor was in the candy business here and he is now a candy manu-

The sentiments attached to that day have a personal appeal to every one who feels and thinks. The significance of the occasion should therefore be, "Say it with flowers." Mother, today we come with hearts full of fragrant memories and our hands full of flowers. To you we owe everything. Never can we forget our debt or hope to discharge it.

TRAIN PLUNGED INTO THE RIVER

Two Trainmen's Lives Were Lost On C.N.R. Today

Terrible Accident on the Canada Eastern Near Marysville

DRIVER KILLED BRAKEMAN DIES

Approach to Bridge Was Undermined by Logs in Freshet Run.

Two trainmen were killed, another badly scalded and three others painfully but not seriously bruised and shaken up when Train No. 644, a way freight from Fredericton to Newcastle, on the Canada Eastern Division of the Canadian National Railways was suddenly plunged over an embankment into the Nashwaak river from the approach to the bridge about two miles north of the Marysville station.

The dead are:

John Gillis, engineer, aged 40 years, of Newcastle.

John Estabrooks, brakeman, aged 37 years, of Fredericton.

The injured are:

Clifford Hughes, fireman, of Fredericton, badly scalded about the arms and legs.

Walter Long, conductor, of South Devon, bruised and scratched.

Nicholas Osborne, brakeman, of Marysville, bruised and scratched.

Benjamin Mountain, brakeman, of Devon, bruised and scratched.

LIGHT LOCOMOTIVE PASSED OVER LINE

Train No. 644 left South Devon at 4.30 o'clock this morning in charge of Conductor Walter Long, with J. Gillis, of Newcastle, as driver in place of Scott Cowperthwaite, who had reported sick. Their first stop was at Marysville and it was about 5.30 o'clock when they reached the approach to the bridge across the Nashwaak, less than two miles north of the Marysville station.

During the night, as a result of the heavy all day rain on Sunday, the piers erected by the Nashwaak Pulp & Paper Company Ltd. above their dam at Marysville, had been carried away by the freshet and force of the logs which had been brought down the river, but it was not believed the roadbed of the railway had been seriously affected, as a light engine, which is used on the Stanley branch, had been sent out over the line earlier in the morning, after having been repaired at the shops at Devon, to resume the run on the Stanley branch and had made the run safely.

Whole Roadbed Slumped.

Suddenly, however, the whole roadbed slumped from under the heavier locomotive, tender and leading freight cars of the train and they plunged over the crumbling embankment into the river. Two freight cars loaded with pulpwood followed the locomotive and tender in their mad plunge, and the balance of the train remained on the track. Riding in the cab of the locomotive at the time besides Driver Gillis were Fireman Hughes and Brakeman Estabrooks.

Immediately following the crash Conductor Long and other members of the crew who had been roughly thrown about the van, rushed forward and found Fireman Hughes still in the cab of the locomotive, but caught there and badly scalded, while Brakeman Estabrooks was pinned under the tender, but Engineer Gillis was missing and no trace of him could be found nor did the other men who had been in the engine cab know what had happened to him. A hurry up call was at

Coroner's Jury Start Enquiry

An investigation into all the circumstances surrounding the wreck on the Canada Eastern division of the Canadian National Railways, north of Marysville this morning, will be conducted by Dr. B. M. Mullin, coroner, of North Devon, and a jury.

The jury was empanelled at the scene of the wreck this morning, with Lieut. Col. W. H. Gray, of Marysville, as foreman, and the following residents of Marysville as members: E. B. Staples, Rev. J. B. Daggett, Bert E. Dennison, H. B. Brewer, Frank W. Walker and J. B. McInnis. They viewed the body of Brakeman Estabrooks when it was taken from the wreckage and returned to the scene when the body of Driver Gillis was recovered.

It was also said that the jury were making a careful inspection of the character of construction of the approach to the bridge over which the train made its fatal plunge as a result of criticisms that there had not been the proper kind of protection for the bridge approach that modern engineering would under ordinary circumstances provide and which, it was contended, would have prevented the accident.

The jury will hold the first session of their inquiry at the Knights of Pythias Hall, Marysville, next Monday night, when it is expected that a large number of railwaymen will be called as witnesses.

Engineer Gillis Was Running as Substitute

John Gillis, the C. N. R. engineer who lost his life in the wreck north of Marysville this morning, was making a special run, for which he had been brought here on Saturday night from Newcastle when Scott Cowperthwaite, of this city, the regular engineer, reported sick as a result of having injured his side during his last run.

Driver Gillis was about 40 years of age and is survived at his home in Newcastle by a widow and four children.

SIGNALS FAILED TO STOP THE TRAIN

Brother of Brakeman Who Lost His Life Found Bridge Was Unsafe

Just before Train No. 644 made its final plunge into the Nashwaak river from the southern approach to the bridge north of Marysville, William Estabrooks, a brother of the brakeman who died while pinned under the wreckage, discovered that the approach on the northern side of the bridge had been undermined by the freshet and rush of logs on Saturday night.

Accompanied by Archie Estey he was waving signals with clothing from the opposite side of the river to stop the train crossing the bridge, when suddenly the approach to the bridge collapsed and the train made its fatal plunge.

Brakeman John T. Estabroooks was one of the best known trainmen on the Canada Eastern Division of the C. N. R. He was a son of Wellington Estabrooks, of Marysville, and had resided at North Devon before removing to Fredericton a few weeks ago. He was about 37 years old and and is survived by a widow, who was formerly Miss Louise Collins, of Lowell, Mass. Besides his father, four brothers, William, Frederick, Herbert and Dow, all railwaymen, and three sisters, Mrs. Harry Lawson, Mrs. Fred Robinson and Mrs. Charles Hanson, also survive.

Announcement as to his funeral, which will take place from his home on King street, will be made later.

BATTLE FOR LIFE WITH A BURGLAR

New Jersey Manufacturer Shot Five Times in Home by a Masked Intruder

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Hoboken, N. J., May 10.—In a battle for his life with a masked burglar discovered in his home here yesterday, Frederick Rucket, vice-president of the White Metal Mfg. Company, was shot five times, suffering wounds from which hospital surgeons believe he cannot recover. The intruder used two revolvers, one in each hand, and fired at the manufacturer as he was pursued about the house. He escaped.

Ruckert planned to leave for Cincinnati today and had $1,500 in cash in his home. The police think the robbery was attempted by a person who knew this. The money was not taken.

STUDY OF FRENCH IN SASKATCHEWAN

Saskatoon, Sask., May 10.—The Saskatchewan University Senate decided to make no regulations requiring the study of French by all students in arts and professional courses. On investigation it was found that 90 per cent. of these students were already studying French, and the Senate did not desire to prejudice the interests of the minority, though it approved the spirit in which a suggestion was made by Dr. T. A. Patrick, of Yorkton.

NEW ENGLAND TEXTILE MILLS STILL WORKING

Labor Leaders Assert That if Weavers Hold Firm for Week the Mills Must Close

STRIKERS STRENGTHEN PICKET LINES TODAY

Threatened Strike in Plants in New York State Failed to Stop Work in Mills

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Cohoes, N. Y., May 10.—All of the fifteen textile mills in this city, Troy, Lansingburgh and Waterford, in which a strike had been set for this morning, were operating as usual today.

Strengthen Picket Lines.

New Bedford, Mass., May 10.—Labor leaders strengthened their picket lines at the textile mills involved in the strike taking notice of a report that the manufacturers anticipated the return of a large number of operatives who were idle last week. The manufacturers were said to base their hope of a break in the ranks of the strikers on the failure of the firemen's union to endorse the walkout of last Monday.

The yarn departments of the mill have been operating with a fair percentage of employees, but labor leaders assert that if the weavers who are considered to form the backbone of the strike, hold firm for another week the mills will be forced to close.

The strike, which affects upwards of 12,000 operatives in 37 cotton cloth mills, started nominally in sympathy with action of the loom fixers, who walked out because they objected to new working regulations. The manufacturers have asserted that the movement is designed to obtain the 'closed shop.".

EFFORTS TO SOLVE SMALL MYSTERY

Belief That $150,000 in Bonds Disappeared With Toronto Millionaire

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Toronto, May 10.—In connection with the continued absence of A. J. Small, the millionaire theatrical manager, who has been missing for five months, the Toronto World today carries a rather sensational story. The World says:

"It will be remembered that Mr. Small was the holder of $350,000 worth of Victory Bonds and these were placed in a safety vault at the Dominion Bank for safe keeping. On the day before he so mysteriously disappered, Mr. Small sent a messenger to the vault for the bonds, and that they were duly handed to him is proved by subsequent events. Two hundred thousand dollars out of the $350,000 worth of the bonds are satisfactorily accounted for, $100,000 were given to Mrs. Small and $100,000 handed to the Dominion Bank to be sent to Ottawa to be transferred into registered bonds. The remaining $150,000, which were bearer bonds, were to be returned to the safety deposit vault Whether or not this was done could not possibly be ascertained until the safe was opened.

"The World has reason to believe that the vault was opened during the latter part of last week and that some, if not all, of the bonds were discovered to be missing.

"An effort undertaken by some of Mr. Small's friends, who think he may have been the victim of foul play, is very soon to be made to try and find his body. As a commencement the Don river is to be dragged, so that if his body had been weighted down to prevent it rising to the surface it may be caught up in the irons and brought to the surface. Other localities may be similarly explored."

Sensational Remarks by Roman Catholic Bishop in Ontario, in a Vigorous Attack on Proposal to Enact Legislation for Easier Divorce

BISHOP FALLON DECLARES HE WOULD RATHER HAVE A THOUSAND DRUNKARDS THAN ONE DIVORCED MAN

The Breaking Up of a Christian Home More to Be Deplored Than the Taking of a Drink, the Smoking of a Cigarette, or Attendance at a Horse Race

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

London, Ont., May 10—Declaring that the moral uplifters of Ontario are horrified if a man takes another drink, but satisfied if he takes another wife, Bishop Fallon, of the Roman Catholic Diocese of London, last night vigorously attacked the impending enactment of legislation for easier divorce.

"I would rather have a thousand drunkards than one divorced man," said His Lordship. "The uplifters tell you, 'you will go to Hell' if you buy a newspaper on Sunday, but you may have Mrs. X. on Monday and a different Mrs. X on Tuesday.

"What is the taking of a drink or the smoking of a cigarette or attending a horse race to the breaking up of a Christian home?"

"The people," he said, "now have the spectacle of divorce laws being enacted for Ontario, which have not been asked for by them, and of divorce courts being inflicted on Prince Edward Island, where the people have expressed themselves against the change."

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

The despatch stated that he had left Asheville on a C. P. Sir Robert is on a car of the Canadian National Railways, and is accompanied by his secretary, who has been with him in the south.

17 AERIAL TAXICAB COMPANIES FORMED

The Canadian Air Board Has Already Issued Some Licenses for the West

Ottawa, May 10.—No less then 17 aerial taxicab companies are being formed in western Canada and a number of these have been already licensed by the Air Board. Lieut. Col. Scott, who has active charge of the certificates branch of the Air Board, has just returned from a tour of inspection of the west and reports great activity and possibilities for very real development of commercial flying in that part of the Dominion.

Air routes for transcontinental flights are established, experiment has established the best kinds of machines for different parts of the flight, and only ground organization is lacking to make passenger routes from coast to coast an every-day possibility. The building of aerodromes is the important detail which has been neglected in Canada, Col. Scott points out.

MEXICANS HOPE QUIETER DAYS AHEAD

With Villa Throwing in His Lot With New Government Banditry Should Cease

VISIBLE RELIEF IN THE REVOLUTIONARY RANKS

Villa Sends Word to Railway That Soldier Guards Are No Longer Necessary

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Juarez, Chihuahua, May 10.—Francisco Villa's days of banditry and constant menace to all attempts to establish stable government in Mexico and to the relations between this republic and the United States, are ended, according to reports reaching here. Leaders of the new revolution displayed visible relief at the announcement that Villa had laid down his arms and turned his men over to Gen. Enriquez, revolutionary commander of the Chihuahua district.

Agents of the new regime admitted that if Villa decided to oppose it he would constitute the greatest menace to it, despite the fact that all reports credited him with leading a band of but little more than a personal guard.

The announcement that Villa had laid down his arms and guided his followers into the ranks of the revolutionists came from Gen. Escobar, commander of Juarez. Villa also notified the Mexican Central Railway, Escobar said, that guards of soldiers no longer would be necessary on trains. Villa was one of President Carranza's first supporters and later one of his most troublesome enemies.

When the constitutionalists, on whose efforts Carranza ascended to the presidency, were organized in January, 1914, Villa, with Alvaro Obregon and Pablo Gonzales, were aides to the "first chief." On Oct. 1 of the same year, however, Villa denounced Carranza as a traitor and on Dec. 3 entered the capital, only to renounce his claims to the presidency and leave Mexico City on the following March 24th

The treaty provides that Russia shall recognize the independence of Georgia and undertake not to interfere in Georgia's internal affairs. The central soviet, a Moscow message says, announces that, in view of the fact that certain members of the League of Nations are actively supporting Poland and Ukraine in warring on Russia, it cannot by reason of military consideration admit into Russia any delegations which are representatives of those nations, although the soviet supports the principle of the League's decision to send an investigating delegation into Russia.

London, May 10.—An important debate on the government's Irish Home Rule bill in the committee stage began this afternoon, when Mr. Asquith moved an amendment altering the bill so that Ireland would have one parliament instead of separate parliaments for the north and south, as provided in the government measure.

Train Plunged Into River, Two Trainmen's Lives Lost

once sent out for assistance, and Dr. McIntyre, of Marysville, soon arrived on the scene. Later on a special train was rushed from this city with Dr. McNally, Dr. Ross and some railway officials, and later on Dr. Holden, of this city, was also summoned.

Wanted His Leg Cut Off.

Superintendent R. Z. Walker took charge of the situation as soon as he arrived and a wrecking crew with a crane were ordered to the scene, as it was found that th only hope of saving Estabrooks' life rested upon the efforts of the wrecking crew to move the tender and allow him to be moved, one leg being caught under the wreckage. Meanwhile Hughes had been rescued largely through the efforts of Sylvia Nash, a colored man, who lives nearby, and who, with his three sons in a boat had rescued Hughes by pulling him out of the cab.

For several hours after the wreck occurred Estabrooks remained conscious, and the doctors administered restoratives to him continually in an effort to keep him alive until the wreckage could be sufficiently removed to allow him to be pulled out. The suffering man several times implored the doctors to amputate his leg so that he could be removed, but the doctors knew that meant sure death to him and would not perform the operation. Shortly after 2 o'clock Estabrooks lapsed into unconsciousness and about half an hour later he died. His shoulders were above water when he was first found, but the wreckage settled at the rate of about 4 inches an hour, pulling him down with it until finally only his neck and head were above the water. After he died the leg had to be amputated below the knee before his body could be rescued. The remains were later brought to this city.

Driver's Body Recovered at Noon.

Meanwhile Fireman Hughes had been taken to the residence of Charles Finnamore, near the scene of the wreck, where his wounds were dressed and, after the brakeman's body had been recovered, all efforts were turned towards getting the body of Driver Gillis. When his body was finally recovered about noon it was found that he was badly scalded about the head, and it is believed that his clothing caught on the locomotive and thus he was carried down with the wreckage. Driver Gillis' body is being taken to Newcastle today and will be buried there.

During the day hundreds of people have visited the scene of the wreck, scores going in automobiles from Fredericton and Devon while many pictures were made of the wreckage. The heavy rain on Sunday, which suddenly brought the Nashwaak river to freshet height, was generally believed to be the underlying cause of the wreck, as the freshet caused a big run of logs, which undermined the approach to the bridge on both sides so that it collapsed when a sufficiently heavy load came upon it.

The C. N. R. officials got a train started from here shortly before noon for Newcastle and had arrangements completed for transferring passengers, mails and express matter around the scene of the wreck, but it will probably be several days before freight trains can pass over the line or trains can cross the Nashwaak on the bridge where the wreck occurred. Flood conditions on the Nashwaak have caused the logs to be jammed against the highway bridge at Marysville, but, while it has been somewhat injured, it is not believed that structure is in danger of being carried out.

Logs coming down the Nashwaak river were formerly held in booms a short distance further up the river than the bridge above Marysville, but this year piers were erected just above a new dam at Marysville to hold the logs and the piers gave away before the freshet rush during the night, allowing the logs to run down the river without restriction. A good many million feet of logs are said to have come down in the rush and some of them continued out into the main St. John river.

SHOTS FIRED ON THE MIRAMICHI

clash of the kind that has happened since all classes of labor on lumbering operations on the Miramichi were organized some months ago. So far as can be learned about 60 men were affected by the strike and all those employed at the rafting and at the sorting booms quit work with a few exceptions. After the strike was called those remaining at work were warned not to allow any lumber to be rafted or to allow rafts to go through the booms and it was when these orders were disregarded that the shots were fired.

One result of the strike has been to tie up sawing operations at several of the mills on the Miramichi, the Fraser mill at Nelson, which requires about 140,000 feet of logs daily, and several other plants being shut down.

MOTHER'S DAY AT MARYSVILLE

Special Sermons Appropriate to Day Delivered in the Churches Yesterday

Marysville, N. B., May 10.—The funeral of the late Mrs. Tucker took place on Saturday afternoon from the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Doherty, Bridge street. The service was conducted by Rev. E. W. Lester, assisted by Rev. J. J. Pinkerton and Rev. J. B. Daggett. A choir was present and assisted in the service at the home. The pall-bearers were S. J. Hallett, A. W. Armstrong, W. C. Dalley and E. Peterson. Interment was made in the Baptist cemetery.

Mother's Day was observed in the churches here yesterday. Sermons appropriate to the day were preached by the different pastors, and special music was furnished by the choirs. The morning service at the Methodist church was conducted by the Sunday School, and it was very interesting and impressive. In the evening Rev. J. J. Pinkerton preached a very eloquent sermon on the text, His Mother's Name. Miss Marion Stafford sang a solo in a very acceptable manner.

John Flood, of St. John, spent the week-end with friends in Marysville.

The Marysville Lodge, No. 18, K. of P., held a very interesting convention Friday evening. Besides routine business one candidate was advanced to the rank of Knight, and several applications for membership were received.

ARBITRATION BY COMPULSION

Calgary, Alta., May 8.—"Trade unions would have to be incorporated before making arbitration compulsory," remarked Alex. Ross, M.L.A., in the course of an interview in discussing the proposed action of the federal government in the matter. "Quite a number of the unions are incorporated," he said, "but, speaking generally, the unions have always been opposed to this because it places a tremendous weapon in the hands of the capitalist," he continued. Mr. Ross stated that if they were compelled to incorporate it would mean that all their activities as industrial organizations would be subject to legislation passed at Ottawa.

Regina, Sask., May 8.—Regina will be a special training depot where every man who enlists in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police force will get his training. It was believed that another training depot would be established at Ottawa, but according to officers of the force Regina will be the only training depot.

THE BACCALAUREATE SERMON PREACHED

Rev. H. A. Goodwin's Address to the Graduating Class at U. N. B.

Rev. H. A. Goodwin, pastor of the Centenary Methodist church, St. John, preached the baccalaureate sermon in connection with the Encoenia at the University of New Brunswick at the Methodist church this morning. Upwards of one hundred students were peresent at the service and the preacher impressed upon them that their intellectual culture must become the servant of the higher self before they could hope for success in this world in the work which they had chosen for themselves.

Rev. Mr. Goodwin chose his lesson from Psalm VIII. and his text from Timothy 2, 3, 17. He referred to the statement made not many years ago by one of the foremost philosophers and thinkers of the time that the world had made no advance in the foundation of spiritual and moral culture since the time of the Egyptians. It is true, he stated, that more and broader facts are known, but the foundation remains the same. Progress must be comprehended and felt as a living reality.

Carlyle in referring to one who had opposed William Pitt, England's great statesman, in his struggle for emancipation of the negroes, said that he referred to those people as covering their bodies with paint, offering sacrifices and selling their own children as slaves.

Bunyan, author of Pilgrim's Progress, stated that when Christian was on the road to the Celestial City he was weighed down by the burdens and cares of the worldly life which were a heavy burden to him. When this burden was thrown off by people of today, the speaker stated, the Emancipation of the human race was possible. It was the same cry of the heart for spiritual satisfaction, he stated, which had caused the negroes to offer their children in sacrifice and sell them into slavery, as that which drove the people of today to the Cross of Christ. The religion of today was much more competent to equip one for the service of life than at the time when the Cross of Calvary had cast its shadow across the centuries.

Must Discover Yourself.

To look back fifty years, he stated, one was discouraged to see the small amount of spiritual and moral advancement. To look back one hundred years the discouragement grew to amazement and to examine conditions as they were one thousand years ago one was inspired by the change. Everything was possible to the man of today, as he was rapidly making nature his slave and would not stop until he had learned her every secret. The world belonged to man but this should serve rather to make him more competent to grapple with present day conditions and make the Kingdom of God the more outstanding, than to lessen his wisdom and religion.

Before one could master conditions around him he must first master himself. Alexander the Great, when a boy, hearing his father's conquests, had exclaimed: "He will leave no world for me to conquer." He held his father's work before him and when a man he became the greatest military leader that the world has ever known, only to have his career cut short at the age of 32 by his death resulting from his being a prey to brutal passions and debauchery. Paul, the apostle, had been a success because of the fact that he was influenced and influenced others by human kindness and infinite mercy.

Before one could make a success of his life he must discover himself, said the speaker. The secret of successful living was the discovery of the better living power, and the secret of each man's mastery over himself was the consciousness of a higher self within him. Many men, he stated, were well equipped for service, but because of the lack of self-consciousness of the higher self their whole life was antagonistic to that self. Saul, after a wicked life, had discovered himself and the scales of blindness had fallen from his eyes when he had found the awakening.

Millet, who had painted the world's greatest picture, The Angelus, had paid a sum equal to about 60 cents in our money for materials with which to paint and his whole soul had been expressed in the work, with the result that later it had been sold for over $100,000.

There were fields of service in the world, the speaker stated, which were practically invisible to the man and woman not touched by knowledge, so they were handicapped from the start in making their lives a success.

He urged the students to blend their spiritual and intellectual knowledge, discover themselves and get service, and he urged them to go forward to their life's work with the ideals of God, the All Powerful, accompanying them.

TO TAX THE PAPER SOLD BY BROKERS

Representative Steenerson, of Minnesota, Introduces a Resolution at Washington

Washington, May 10.—Representative Steenerson, of Minnesota, introduced a bill in the House today to place a tax of 5 cents a pound upon newsprint paper sold for immediate or future delivery by brokers, but this tax is not intended by him to be imposed on paper sold by manufacturers who file their price lists with the federal trade commission.

"Circumstances," said Mr. Steenerson "point to a concert of action on the part of manufacturers and importers to bleed the small publishers and extort from them these excessive prics. The evil cannot be reached under the power to regulate commerce, but it can be under the taxing power."

OUR WATER POWERS—EARLY GENERAL ELECTIONS.

The Provincial Government has not yet appointed the Water Powers Commission under the new Act. The Lepreaux and Shogomoc demonstrations are being made by the old commission, not a member of which has adequate practical knowledge of water power development. Why this demonstration and why this expenditure if not for mere political purposes? The work cannot proceed properly until the new Commission is installed, and that Commission is not likely to be influenced by data supplied by men who have not expert knowledge. There is too much money involved in the general undertaking to warrant the Commission in proceeding on the information or the notions of novices. If the Government were serious, the new Commission would have been appointed, and a staff of men of expert knowledge—officers of the Commission,—men who have made a study of water power development and who have also had practical experience, would now be at active work. There is certainly a lot of camouflage in what is going on.

There are rumors that general provincial elections are to be called in July, in which month there is also to be a plebiscite on the Liquor Act. There are two vacancies in the Legislature, one in the St. John representation and one in Carleton. There are also conditions within the party of power which it is advisable should not continue to exist. The Government undoubtedly feel that it is in a better position to seek the endorsation of the people of the province now than it will be later on; and in view of what it will be forced to do within the next year as a result of what it has done and what it has not done in the "carrying on," the observing public see in the present much advertised activities in water power development, and in the profuse promises of bridge construction and highway work, the preparations for a general election within the next two or three months.

LABOR IN CANADA.

The results achieved at the Labor Conference held recently in Ottawa do not indicate that the Conference served the purpose for which it was called, says the Montreal Gazette. This may be a source of disapointment to those who looked to the Conference to accomplish something of real value, but the number of these can hardly have been large, in view of previous failures and their causes. It has not always been possible to see eye to eye with the Minister of Labor in his attitude toward labor organizations and the so-called rights of labor, but the position taken by him in his address to the Conference on the 27th ult., was, as reported, an eminently right and proper one. He stated then that if legislation desired by labor could be made acceptable to all classes, the Government would give effect to it, but that the Government was not prepared to act upon the suggestion of any one class more than another. Such an attitude is sound and safe, and if the minister and the Government adhere to it, the country will be saved from some social and legislative pitfalls toward which an effort has been made to drive it. For the guidance of a Conference called for the consideration of labor legislation, this was wholesome doctrine, and in the long run it should bear good fruit, even if the Conference itself was able to make no very substantial progress.

Whether or not the delegates to the Conference took kindly to the lead given by the Minister of Labor must remain largely a matter of conjecture, in view of the fact that the deliberations of the Conference were closed to the press. Whatever may have been the tone of the unreported discussions, if such there were, it is clear from the small list of recommendations made that the delegates, either from an inability to agree among themselves, or because of the actual legislative and other difficulties involved, were unable to advance very far. The main object of the Conference was to consider the extension of the scope of the Industrial Disputes Act to cover disputes in industries not classed as public utilities, and, upon that question no recommendation was made. The explanation of the committee which dealt with the subject that it "lacks information enabling it to decide upon the advisability of the extension of the present federal law to other industries," is a curious one. It would be a natural assumption that a committee charged with the most important subject of the Conference would have had sufficient information placed before it to enable it to do the work assigned to it. Presumably, the Department of Labor did turn over to the committee all the information in its possession bearing upon this question, which information the committee deemed inadequate, and hence, no recommendation was made. The Department, on the other hand, must have regarded this information as sufficient, otherwise the Conference would not have been called. Recommendations were made that disputes in mines and public utilities should be dealt with exclusively under federal legislation. This involves the surrender by the provinces of certain of their legislative rights, and is a large question. As to the federal law itself, as has been pointed out previously, some revision is necessary. The law is weak in the provisions for its enforcement, and it does not prevent strikes, even in industries affecting public utilities. The committee suggested that all disputes involving policemen and firemen, which now come, in some cases at least, under provincial laws, should be governed solely by the federal law. Here is an issue of considerable consequence. The existing federal law does not, as we have said, forbid or prevent strikes. Any law, whether provincial or federal, which reaches disputes involving policemen and firemen, ought to be so framed as to prohibit, absolutely, strikes in these services. In this connection the ordinary relations between employee and employer are not present. Policemen and firemen are charged with the duty of protecting the lives and property of the citizens, and should, under no conceivable conditions, be permitted to abandon that duty. The Labor Conference would have justified its brief existence by emphasizing that fact.

RETURN OF SIR ROBERT BORDEN

The return to Ottawa of Sir Robert Borden—he is expected to reach the capital on Wednesday—is awaited with much interest. It may be that Sir Robert has decided, in view of the uncertain condition of his health, to abandon public life; his intimate friends say he has so decided. In any event there will be a reorganization of the Cabinet. If Sir Robert has resolved to retire, there will be a caucus of the party, and he will no doubt be largely influenced by the will of the caucus in the recommendation of his successor to His Excellency the Govenor-General. Arrangements will probably be so shaped that the public will have some knowledge some time next week of what is to happen in the near future. There will not likely be any important changes during the present session other than Sir Robert taking his place at the helm. But it is certain that immediately after prorogation either a new Cabinet or a reorganized Cabinet, and a definite policy, will be announced. The public will be much interested in the developments.

MOTHER'S DAY IN THE CITY CHURCHES

Major (Rev.) E. B. Hooper Conducted Service at D. S. C. R. Hospital Yesterday

Yesterday was Mothers' Day, and at the various city churches special services were held in memory of the sacred love of motherhood.

At the George street Baptist church Mother was the topic chosen for the sermon by Rev. Z. L. Fash, who outlined the great love of mothers through struggle and peril. Special hymns and anthems were sung in the different churches, and these with the special services served to ennoble the day. At th D. S. C. R. Hospital the chaplain, Major (Rev.) E. B. Hooper, discussed Mothers Day. The flag covered tabl was beautifully decorated with flowers presented by the Ashburnham branch of the Red Cross Society. At the close of this service Major Hooper thanked that association for another in their series of kindly, thoughtful and generous acts in presenting the flowers.

In spite of the rain large congregations attended the services in the other churches throughout the day.

PEAK OF PRICES IN SHOES REACHED

It Will Take Four Months for the Consumer to Get the Benefit of Reduction

Atlantic City, N. J., May 10.—Leading leather men of the country at the annual spring meeting of the Tanners' Council of the United States here declared that the peak of prices in footwear had been reached, but that it would take three to four months for the effect to reach the consumer. The statement was made in the report of the executive committee.

President F. A. Vogel of Milwaukee deplored the attitude of manufacturers affiliated with the council who do not look with favor upon suggestions made by its labor bureau to meet demands of workingmen for improvements in working conditions and surroundings.

"It has become very clear," he declared, "that notwithstanding all the talk about bringing about a better understanding between employer and employee, the two mental attitudes are still so far apart that a great struggle lies before us for the future."

NEW LUXURY TAX MAY BE EXPECTED

Ottawa, May 9.—Interest in the budget, which Sir Henry Drayton is expected to bring down on Wednesday, centers around the possibility of a new luxury tax, and the probable extension of the business profits tax to the fiscal year which has just begun. Some slight revision of the tariff is probable, but the general belief is that there will be few innovations in customs duties on staple commodities. The taxation of incomes may not be increased to any extent.

WHEAT BOARD ISSUE NEW REGULATIONS

Winnipeg, Man., May 9.—The Canadian Wheat Board issued new regulations, effective at midnight May 8, advancing the price to mills of all grades of western wheat thirty-five cents per bushel, and British Columbia, Ontario and Quebec wheat forty cents per bushel. Another regulation, effective at the same time, increases the maximum wholesale prices of bran and shorts to the extent of three dollars per ton.

The Stock Market

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York (Wall Street), May 10.—Improvement in the local bank situation, as indicated by last Saturday's returns of the clearing house and federal reserve bank, contributed measurably to the firmer tone of stocks at the opening of today's trading. The only noteworthy reversal was sustained by Crucible Steel, which forfeited a part of its recent substantial rally. Rails, shippings, motors and coppers shared almost equally in the early gains which ranged from one to 1½ points. Oils were hesitant, reflecting latest news from Mexico.

N. S. HIGHWAYMEN GET HAUL OF $3,200

New Glasgow, May 9.—The police and searching parties were engaged all day in scouring the woods for the two men who, on Saturday, held up and robbed Cashier Campbell of the Greenwood Coal Company, and got away with $3,200 in cash. The desperadoes are supposed to be two men who had been working in a nearby colliery for the past three weeks. They boarded at the Coal Company's house, and when their bunks were searched masks and other articles were found.

FROM THE PEOPLE

MEAN AND NARROW

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—You were kind enough recently to publish a letter of mine, and I wish you would oblige once more, this time in reply to one who signs himself as Uncle Ruben.

Well, Uncle, I am glad you wrote again, but I think you should sign yourself as Fritz.

It was not my pleasure to read your former letter, but I must say you are quite as mean and narrow as I had been informed. I am noways surprised that you refuse Jeff's invitation for a trip over there. As for an imaginary trip, it would be hard to stretch imagination enough to get you to go. Even conscription would hardly get you, for you might lose a few potato crops.

You write of men risking their lives at work in lumber camps, etc. Of course, we know nothing of such strenuous employment; but you might stretch your imagination enough to suppose that some of our comrades have encountered all and more than you speak of; you might even imagine that some of them came from the farm. You need not imagine that some farmers went to the lumber woods, mills, etc., leaving their sons to handle the farm and so claim exemption as farmers because they were "peaceful sons of the soil" or conscientious objectors. I fail to see any comparison in the argument you put up, as far as widows of civilians are concerned. I think that there should be pensions for all widows; but because there is not, is no reason why the country should not fulfil its obligation. Your objection seems to be taxes.

You were making good money while we were getting a dollar-ten; why should you not help to make up that big difference now? You write of pensioners with trivial ailments. Are you qualified to judge as to the nature of their disability? My nerves are shattered, but that is not considered in my disability. Maybe some of the trivial cases you speak of have a handsome pension of $2.50 per month. I might say for your information that Jeff does not happen to have one of your trivial ailments; he has a withered hand—which he may yet lose—and the writer is minus a foot. So when you insult our comrades with remarks, and add "usually when work is in sight," you will have to put up with the tone of this letter as a consequence.

Now why should pensioners not have victrolas and pianos, and buy $10 teddy bears for their kiddies? Ten dollars is little enough; you would probably want that much for a barrel of potatoes. You say we are exhorted to economize, but I fail to see anyone doing it yet. How would it be if we all live on rice instead of potatoes? How would that suit you?

I would like to get acquainted with these better class soldiers you write about that would refuse a further cash bonus. There may be a few, but I could not "stretch my imagination" enough to imagine a farmer doing the same. We have not a farmers' government in New Brunswick, yet if we do, and they are all like you, may the Lord help us. I notice that some "real" farmers in Ontario have a different opinion to yours.

It is hardly necessary for you to inform the public of how this country is treating us; that is already well advertised. But they do not advertise their method of classification. For instance, in the writer's case it is ten per cent. less than the Imperial classification for the same disability. But it is of no use to inform such as you of such a point; you can only think of the taxes you will have to pay to keep up these pensions. Thank goodness, the government, compared with yourself, is certainly generous. As to being better off than ever before, it will take the writer some few months of "strenuous" work before he gets clear of debt. You need not sign your name if you are ashamed of it; even if it is Heinie you need have no fear; for we are at war no longer and we are "peaceful sons a little soiled."

You will be pleased to learn that this mollycoddle doesn't wear silk stockings, even on my wooden foot, and I will even have to forego a hunting or fishing trip.

But I must quit now, as my daughter is about to put a record on our Edison—not Victrola—called, "How Are You Gonna Keep 'Em Down on the Farm." I would not advise you to get this record if you have a Victrola, as it might make your son restless.

Yours,

H. FORD.

IS IT GOOD ETHICS?

To the Editor of The Gleaner.

Sir,—"Our Country! In her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong."—Stephen Decatur.

The above quotation is one that is often seen or heard nowadays. Now, is it a proper sentiment? Is it good ethics, good morals or even good patriotism? I'd be glad to hear what your readers think.

My question, of course, applies only to the latter part of the quotation.

Yours,

PAULINE.

REFORESTATION

To the Editor of The Gleaner.

Sir,—I am very much interested in your recent editorial on the subject of reforestation. It is a very live subject just now, and the rapidly developing interest in it among lumbermen and timbermen indicates that concrete results may be brought about very soon.

There are many unjust accusations brought against timber owners and many illogical discussions of the subject. It is a great pleasure to find in such a good paper as yours a discussion which seems to a lumberman so logical.

Yours,

ONE INTERESTED.

ROYAL M'KINNEY IN 2.19 CLASS

Eva Wilkes, Jeffries, Alice Homeland and Others at Fort Fairfield

[Fort Fairfield Review.]

At least seven very fine and promising animals of the horse kind are to be found at L. R. Seeley's training stable, Fort Fairfield trotting park, all in care of George, the well known trainer.

One of these belongs to Mr. Seeley himself—the great Royal McKinney, the long-stepping and fast-stepping gray gelding with a record of 2.11¼, and a winning race record of 2.12¼, but who is now eligible to the 2.19 class, where he ought to carry all before him in this part of the country this season. He will certainly be raced probably being driven either by Mr. Seeley himself or G. W. Gerow. If people were a little inclined to smile at Mr. Seeley's innocence last July in paying C. J. Hanson of Presque Isle $800 for this horse, they have perhaps stopped smiling when they consider that Royal McKinney won more money than any other horse in Maine last year, and that within the past few months Mr. Seeley has refused $1,500 for him, and is easily able to take $2,000 for him today, although he does not wish to part with him at all.

Eva Wilkes, owned by Ralph Seeley, is also in this stable. She is a beautiful roan mare about ten years old, dam by St. Croix, 2.14¼, by Nelson's Wilkes, 8,571, sire of Anidrosis, 2.05¼, the fastest Maine-bred horse. Eva Wilkes was never raced. She is a pacer, very fine gaited and promising.

Dr. L. D. MacIntosh, of Hartland, N. B., has two horses in this stable. One of them is Jeffries, 2.16¼, bay gelding pacer, sired by Cabel, 2.05¼, dam, Roan Bird, by Masconomo, by the famous Arion, 2.07¾. Jeffries will be raced this year. The other animal owned by Dr. MacIntosh is Alice Homeand, by Homeland, 2.13¼. This horse was formerly owned by P. H. Reed. Alice Homeland is a pacer eight years old, and has been raced two years. She has a winning race record of 2.19¼, and is now eligible to the 2.24 class.

Kingtell, by Praytell, by Saytell, is owned by Murray Wright, of Perth, and is being handled by Mr. Stoddard. Kingtell was never raced, but has a trial of 2.24¼. He is a mature stallion, over 1,200 pounds in weight.

Bradenburg, four years old, bay stallion, by Brown Baden, the famous race horse and sire, is in this stable, and is owned by Mrs. Charles Estey, of Fort Fairfield. Bradenburg's dam is a fast trotter which came from the West. Bradenburg has never been raced, but may be on the turf this season. He is a handsome colt and a square trotter.

It may be said in passing that turf prospects for Aroostook in general look pretty bright this year.

Hartford Horseman's Death.

Hartford, Conn., May 8.—Matthew H. Hewins, known to followers of the Grand Circuit for many years, died today of pneumonia at the age of 81. His billiard rooms were unofficial headquarters of the horsemen who came to Charter Oak Park.

BOWLING

Thirty-two bowlers have qualified for the weekly roll-off at the Palace Bowling Alleys this evening with Rock Paynter in the lead with a string of 121. W. Minue and A. Ring are tied for second place with 116, while Len. Searles is in third place with 115.

Those who have qualified are:

DISSENSION IN RANKS OF CUBS

Fred Mitchell and Merkle in a Mix-Up and Former Giant Was Ordered Home

Dissenson exists in the ranks of the Chicago club and Fred Mitchell has started to clean up things. In a game at Pittsburg last week Flack and Merkle alowed a fly ball to fall between them, letting in a run, and at the end of the inning Mitchell and Merkle had an argument on the bench, each caling the other a bonehead.

Merkle was fined $25 and sent home while Flack also was fined $25. Merkle apologized to Mitchell that night and made an appeal to be allowed to remain with the team, but Mitchell refused, saying he was going to show the ball players that he is a major league manager.

LONGBOAT WINS

Troy, N. P., May 10.—Johnny Evers has signed up as assistant manager of the New York Giants, it was announced here on Saturday.

The Big Leagues

[By Canadian Associated Press.]

New York, May 10.—A great shoestring catch by Duffy Lewis off Harris' bat in the ninth when all bases were filled ended a Washington rally and won the game for New York in the American League yesterday.

St. Louis hit the Detroit pitchers hard and timely, winning 7 to 4.

Hitting against Cicotte with passes and Chicago errors won the game for Cleveland.

In the National the prowess of Bernie Neis, formerly of Calgary, enabled Brooklyn to win an extra inning game from Philadelphia.

Boston whitewashed New York, bunching five hits off Nehf for four runs in the eighth.

Ruether of Cincinnati held St. Louis helpless with two hits.

Flack's steal of home in the eighth inning won the day against Chicago.

NEW CHAMPION IS AN ITALIAN

Johnny Wilson's Real Name Is Panica—Roddie McDonald Beat Him Twice

The Boston Globe gives the following particulars regarding Johnny Wilson, the new middleweight champion pugilist, who dethroned Mike O'Dowd in their bout in Boston last week:

"The new champion is of Italian origin. His real name is John Francis Panica, and he is a product of the old Sharkey Club of New York. He has been in the game since Dec. 11, 1911. He was born in New York March 23, 1893. He has been making his home in Boston for five years. For the past year he has been under the management of Killilea and has never lost a decision in that time."

The Halifax Recorder, referring to Wilson having won the title, says:

"Johnny Wilson came here in September, 1916, to meet Roddie McDonald, but the bout did not take place. They met at Providence in December of the same year, when Wilson floored McDonald in the third round, but the latter came back, winning the sixth, seventh and eighth rounds in decisive fashion, and it was only Wilson's fast work in the ninth and tenth that earned him a decision. Wilson met McDonald again in Halifax in July, 1917, and the Cape Bretoner got the decision, he always being the aggressor, and Wilson mainly on the defensive."

Bouts at Toronto.

Toronto, May 10.—In limited round bouts staged here Saturday night, accompanying the sparring exhibition given by champion Georges Carpentier, Jackie Dundee, of Buffalo, was outpointed by Benny Gold, of Toronto, and "Soldier" Jones, of Toronto, knocked out "Indian" Jameson, of Buffalo, in the first round. The latter pair are heavyweights.

GAMBLERS ARE BARRED

San Francisco, May 10.—A drive to eliminate gambling on baseball games in Pacific Coast League parks has been begun by President McCarthy, who last night issued a statement saying that three "known gamblers" hereafter would be denied admission to league parks.

COLLECTION OF ROYALTY ON FURS

Manitoba Also Receives a Monthly Statement From All Dealers in Furs

WINNIPEG, Man., May 8—Hon. Valentine Winkler, provincial minister of agriculture, states that the collection of the royalty on furs, established by statute at the last session of the legislature, was being made principally at The Pas, where the department has a representative to do this work. In addition to this, he said, the department received a monthly return from all fur dealers in Winnipeg in which they declared the amount of furs that they handled during the month as well as the source they received them from. A dealer, he said, could not get a fur tanned in the province without a permit from the department which stated that the tax had been paid. Neither will the railway companies handle furs for shipment unless a similar permit has been received from this source of revenue already.

WIRELESS TO LINK UP BRITISH EMPIRE

Washington, May 8.—The Marconi Wireless Company have offered to construct and maintain a chain of wireless stations linking up every part of the British Empire if the government will accord it full monopoly rights over such a system, said a report received today by the Department of Commerce.

The wife of Louvet resided in Rue Saint Honore, near the Jacobins. She, hearing these vociferations, descended, entered the club, and heard this proposition; then quickly retraced her steps, and warned her husband of the impending danger. Louvet, hastily arming himself, ran from door to door to alarm his friends, but found them all absent; then fortunately ascertaining from one of the servants they had gone to Petion's house, he followed them there. He found them quietly deliberating over a decree, which ought to be presented on the morrow, and which by a chance majority they hoped to pass. He related what had occurred, communicated his fears, informed them of the plot devised against them by the Cordeliers and Jacobins, and concluded by urging them on their side to pursue some active and energetic measure.

Then Petion rose, calm and self-possessed as usual, walked to the window, opened it, and then etxended his hand, which he drew in covered with moisture. "It rains," said he; 'there will be nothing tonight."

Through this half-opened window the last vibration of the clock was heard striking ten.

Such were the occurrences of the 10th of March, and the evening preceding it—occurrences which, in this gloomy obscurity and menacing silence, rendered the abodes destined to shelter the living like sepulchres peopled by the dead. In fact, long patrols of the National Guard, preceded by men marching, with fixed bayonets, troops of citizens, armed at hazard, pushing against each other, gendarmes closely examining each doorway, and strictly scrutinizing every narrow alley htese were the sole inhabitants who ventured to expose themselves in the streets. Every one instinctively understood something unusual and terrible was taking place. The cold and drizzling rain, which had tended so much to reassure Petion, had considerably augmented the ill-humor and trouble of these inspectors, whose every meeting resembled preparation for combae, and who, after recognizing each other with looks of defiance, exchanged the word of command slowly and with a very bad grace. Indeed, it was said, seeing one and the other returning after the separation, that they mutually feared an attack from behind. On the same evening, when Paris was a prey to one of those panics (so often renewed that they ought, in some measure, to have become habitual), this evening the massacre of the lukewarm revolutionists was seretly debated, who, after having voted (with restriction for the most part) the death of the King, recoiled today before the death of the Queen, a prisoner in the Temple with her sister-in-law and her children. A woman, enveloped in a mantle of lilac printed cotton, with black spots, her head covered and almost buried in the hood, glided along the houses in La Rue Saint Honore, seeking concealment under a door porch, or in the angle of a wall, every time a patrol appeared, remaining motionless as a statue, and holding her breath till he had passed, and then again pursuing her anxious course with increased rapidity, till some danger of a similar nature again compelled her to seek refuge in silence and immobility.

She had already (thanks to the precautions she had taken) travelled over with impunity part of La Rue Saint Honore, when she suddenly encountered, not a body of patrol, but a small troop of our brave enrolled volunteers, who, having dined at La Halle-au-Ble, found their patriotism considerably increased by the numerous toasts they had drunk to their future victories. The poor woman uttered a cry, and made a futile attempt to escape by La Rue du Coq.

"Ah, ah! citoyenne," cried the chief of the volunteers (for already, with the need of command natural to man, these worthy patriots had elected their chief), "Ah, where are you going?"

The fugitive made no reply, but continued her movement.

"What sport," said the chief; "it is a man disguised, an aristocrat, who thinks to save himself.'

The sound of two or three guns escaping from hands rather too unsteady to be depended upon, announced to the poor woman, the fatal movement she had made.

"No, no," cried she, stopping running, and retracing her steps; "no, citizen; you are mistaken. I am not a man."

"Then advance at command," said the chief, "and reply to my questions. Where are you hastening to, charming belle of the night?"

"But, citizen, I am not going anywhere. I am returning."

"Oh! returning, are you?"

"Yes."

"It is rather a late return for a respectable woman, cityonne?"

"I am returning from visiting a sick relative."

"Poor little kitten," said the chief, making a motion with his hand (before which the horrified woman quickly recoiled). "Where is your passport?"

"My passport! What is that, citizen? What do you mean?"

"Have you not read the decree of the Commune?"

"No."

"You have heard it proclaimed then?"

"Alas! no. What, then, said this decrea mon Dieu?"

"In the first place, we no longer say God; we only speak of the Supreme Being now."

"Pardon me, I am in error. It is an old custom."

'Bad habit—the habit of the aristocracy."

"I will endeavor to correct myself citizen; but you said—"

"I said that the decree of the Commune prohibited, after six in the evening, any one to go out without a civic pass. Now, have you this civic pass?"

"Alas! no."

"You have forgotten it at your relations?"

"I was ignorant of the necessity of going out with one."

"Then come with us to the first post; there you can explain all pretily to the captain; and if he feels perfectly satisfied with your explanation, he will depute two men to conduct you in safety to your abode, else you will be detained for further information.'

From the cry of terror which escaped the poor prisoner, the chief of the enrolled Volunteers understood how much the unfortunate woman dreaded this interview.

"Oh, oh!" said he, 'I am quite certain we hold distinguished game. Forward, forward—to the route, my little cidevant."

And the chief seizing the arm of the former, placed it within his own and dragged her, notwithstanding her cries and tears, towards the post du Palais Egalite.

They were already at the top of the barrier of Sergens, when suddenly a tall young man, closely wrapt in a mantle, turned the corner of La Rue des Petits-Champs at the very moment when the prisoner endeavored, by renewing her supplications to regain her liberty. But without listening, the chief dragged her brutally forward. The woman uttered a cry of terror, mingled with despair. The young man saw the struggle; he also heard the cry, then bounded from the opposite side of the street, and found himself facing the little troop.

"What is all this? What are you doing to this women?" demanded he of the person who appeared to be the chief.

"Before you question me, you had better attend to your own business."

"Who is this woman; and what do you want with her?" repeated the young man, in a still more imperative tone than at first.

'But who are you, that you interrogate us?"

Four generations of the Woodman family were present at the ceremony, the grandfather, father and nephew of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Woodman will reside in Montreal. The general superintendent was accompanied to the city by his wife, father, daughter and grandson.

PRICES SHOT UP BY THE ADVANCE IN WHEAT FIGURES

Flour to Advance $1.50 to $2.00 a Barrel—Mill Feed Also Up

MOLASSES NOW SELLING AT $1.70 PER GALLON

Sugar Remains Same But Corn Syrup Has Advanced; Also Starch

The Canadian Wheat Board regulations, effective Saturday night, advancing the price to mills of all grades of western wheat 35 cents a bushel and Ontario and Quebec wheat 40 cents a bushel have caused local wholesalers to prepare for an advance here of from $1.50 to $2.00 a barrel in flour which may also cause bread to advance in price 1 cent or more a loaf. Wholesale prices on bran and shorts have advanced $3 a ton making the price on bran $3.25 a bag and shorts $3.65 a bag but they are practically unobtainable. Corn and oat products have advanced recently and are still going higher. Within the last month cornmeal advanced 50 cents bag of 100 pounds, while rolled oats advanced 75 cents a bag of 180 pounds.

Molasses which has been selling at $1.70 a gallon is expected to advance in price shortly. Confectionery has advanced generally, the advance on bulk goods being 2 cents a pound. Pastry flour advanced 25 cents a barrel recently.

Laundry starch has advanced one half a cent a pound while pickles of all kinds have also gone up. The market for sugar at the present time is a strong one and the situation is a peculiar one. The refineries have made no change in prices recently and at the same time have stopped selling.

Corn syrup has shown an advance of one and one quarter cents on the tin, the increase being 30 cents on the case.

ALLIANCE WILL SPEND $30,000

Temperance Convention Here to Prepare for the Plebiscite in July

The annual convention of the New Brunswick Temperance Alliance will be held in Fredericton tomorrow, and it is expected that leading temperance workers from all over the province will be in attendance.

The principal business of the meeting will be to prepare for the plebiscite on the provincial prohibition law which is now set for early in July. It is understood that the executive will probably so arrange their organization that the county executives will assume responsibility largely for their own campaigns, but there will of course have to be a provincial organization which will direct the entire work.

Officers of the provincial executive this morning estimated that at least $30,000 would be required to carry on the campaign in connection with the plebiscite in this province and, it is understood, that the budget will total about that amount. Donald Fraser, of Plaster Rock, president of the Alliance, was in Fredericton over Sunday but left this morning for Nelson, and said it was doubtful whether he would be able to be here for the convention.

PAINFULLY INJURED

John O'Hara Fell on Jointer Saw and Cut Under Arm and Hand—Will Lose Some Fingers.

John O'Hara, of Morrison's Mill, was the victim of a painful accident at Gordon Scott's mill at Upper Cross Creek on Friday last, and as a result he will lose two or three fingers on his right hand.

He was brought to his home in this city and it was given out today that he was doing as well as could be expected, but that he would probably lose two or three fingers on the right hand.

Shots Were Fired at Man on Southwest Miramichi Boom, Where Strike is Going On

President of Union Warned Men Remaining at Work Not to Allow Any Rafts to Pass Through and When These Orders Were Disregarded Shots Were Fired at Man Who Opened Boom—Members of New Union Went on Strike on Thursday for Shorter Hours—Mills Shut Down for Lack of Logs and Operators Will Provide Protection for Carrying on Rafting Work.

Labor difficulties on the North Shore of New Brunswick reached a serious stage on Saturday when shots were fired, presumably by strikers or strike sympathizers, at a man who remained on duty at the South-West Miramichi boom as he opened the boom to allow some rafts for the Nelson mill of the Fraser Companies, Limited, to pass through.

The announcement that such a situation had been reached was the first news of the strike that reached here, but it appears that when rafting operations were to commence last Thursday, the booms being filled with logs, the men refused to work under the conditions offered by the South-West Miramichi Boom Company. They demanded a 9 hour day but the operators contended this could not be granted because of tide conditions and the work would have to be carried on the same as in the past.

The boom workers had been organized during the winter and Thomas Dawson, their president, is said to have twice visited the booms after the strike was declared to forbid men who remained there against continuing to work. However, there were some logs already rafted for the Fraser mill at Nelson and it was when the boom was being opened by the one man who remained on duty there that the shots were fired by unknown persons on the northern shore of the river, which is only about quarter of a mile in width at that place.

Will Provide Protection.

Donald Fraser, of the Fraser Companies, Limited, who arrived here on Saturday night to spend the week-end in Fredericton, declared this morning that the lumbermen operating on the Miramichi and comprising the South-west Miramichi Boom Company would take steps to have the necessary protection provided so that the rafting and running of the rafts when made up could be carried on without molestation of the strikers and their sympathizers.

"There have been no further developments in the matter since the shots were fired on Saturday," said Mr. Fraser, "because nothing has been done in the way of running any more rafts. We have named next Wednesday as the date for the strikers to return to work, if they want their positions, and we will be in a position by that time to assure the work going on without interference, but I don't feel at liberty to take what steps are being taken in that connection. We don't know who fired the shots at the man on the sheer boom, but it of course looks very much as if it was the work of somebody connected with the strike."

The incident at the Southwest Miramichi boom on Saturday is the first

Allied Countries to Provide Loans for China to Proceed With Developments

Chinese Attitude to Soviet.

Pe in, May 11.Dr. Philip Tyau, councellor of the foreign office, asked yesterday regarding reports from Moscow alleging that China had recognized the rights of the Russian soviet government in the Eastern Manchurian railway and had given a guarantee that the Chinese troops along the railway line would be withdrawn, said:

"No formal negotiations have been opened with the soviet government. China's attitude at present is neutral. As long as our frontiers are not violated we will remain spectators."

Provide Loans to China.

Washington, May 11.—Organization by Great Britain, France, Japan and the United States, of an international consortium to provide loans to China, is formally announced by the state department.

The consortium, the department's announcement said, is expected to provide for China a credit fund adequate to permit that country to proceed with its economic and industrial development, much of which was suspended during the War.

GIRL CLAIMS TO BE FIANCE OF SUICIDE

The Dead Manufacturer Believed to Have Left Bulk of Fortune to the Girl

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Hoboken, N. J., May 11.—An element of mystery was injected into the murder yesterday of Frederick Rueckert, vice-president of the White Metal Manufacturing Co., of Hoboken, when a young woman giving the name of "Mae Trask" phoned the dead man's home yesterday and informed police detectives that she was his fiance and that they were engaged to be married. A photograph of the girl was found in Rueckert's room in a spot indicated by her over the telephone.

Friends of Rueckert declared at the time of his death he was engaged to be married to a Miss Elsie C. Vorrath, who was at his bedside when he died. Rueckert is supposed to have left the bulk of his estate to her.

French Cabinet Vote to Dissolve Labor Federation

The Federation Has Been Calling Strikes to Help Railwaymen

PROCEEDINGS TAKEN AT ONCE

The Federation's Appeal to Electricians Had Little Effect.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Paris, May 11.—The French cabinet at a meeting today instructed Minister of Justice L'Hopiteau to open proceedings against the General Federation of Labor, with a view to the dissolution of the organization, which has been supporting the strike of the French railway men by calling other strikes.

The decision of the Government to seek the dissolution of the Federation came after an hour's discussion by the council of ministers at the palace of the Elysee, presided over by President Deschanel.

The cabinet first discussed the advisability of Premier Milerand receiving unified socialist deputies bearing a message from the General Federation saying it was ready to call off the strike providing the Premier would give undertaking to apopint a governmental commission to meet the Federation's delegates and discuss nationalization of the public utilities.

Volunteers Replace Strikers.

Paris ,May 11.—In spite of the appeal to the electricians' union by the General Federation of Labor yesterday, electric supply throughout the city seemed not to be affected this morning. At five thirty o'clock trains on the subway and the north and south systems began to run, volunteers taking the places of the few workers who failed to report.

At six-thirty street cars were operating over the main lines throughout the city. The auto-bus service seemed to be working under similar conditions.

THE NEWSPRINT SITUATION IN U. S.

Official Says It Will Be Two Years Before Production Would Meet Demand

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Washington, May 11.—Testifying yesterday before the Senate Committee investigating newsprint prices and supplies, Chester W. Lyman, vice-president of the International Paper Company, said that although the company controls three million acres of pulp timber in Canada, it cannot utilize all the timber, because it has no mills in Canada and is prohibited from sending outside the Dominion lumber taken from Crown Lands. The result had been, he said, to force the company into the open market for wood pulp. He recommended immediate curtailment of consumption by newspapers, declaring that it would be two years before production would meet the demand. Prices were to go up again July 1.

Mr. Lyman said that in an effort to increase production his company was building a new plant in Canada.

Montreal, May 11.—A delegation of officials of the Montreal Tramways Union waited on the Montreal Tramways Commission yesterday and was informed by the latter of the limit it will authorize in the way of meeting the men's demands for higher wages and shorter hours.

The offer will not be made public until after it has been laid before men at a mass meeting to be held Wednesday night.

The chairman of the commission made it clear that if it is not intended to raise the fares and consequently any wage increase will be given with that limit in view. The present contract between the men and the company has until June 30 to run.

REVENUE OFFICERS UNABLE TO READ

Quebec Judge Makes Sharp Comment on State of Affairs Existing in Province

Montreal, May 11. — Some sharp comments were given yesterday in regard to the brightness and other qualifications of witness making cases for the collector of the provincial revenue when Judge Choquet heard evidence in cases adjourned from last week. One of the provincial revenue officers told the court that he was unable to read or write, but had to rely on his companion, since there are always two officers to make a case.

While he could not speak or understand English, his fellow officers could not speak or understand French.

Judge Choquet's comment was that they made a very bad team and that if the circumstances permitted of him doubting the offense, he would dismiss the case.

DECIDE TO REMAIN ON THE COMMITTEE

Ottawa, May 11.—There are not likely to be any further resignations from the special Committee on Pensions over the McLean incident, according to one of the members of the committee, who intimated last night that most of the remaining members of the committee proposed to draft letters explaining their stand on the matter and forwarding these to their returned soldier constituents.

Several members claim they can do more for their returned soldier constituents by remaining on the commission than they could do by any other course at this time.

THE NORTH SEA MINE BARRAGE U. S. PROPOSAL

Secretary Daniels Says It Was Urged on British Admiralty for Six Months

SAYS PLAN CONCEIVED IN U. S. NAVY DEPT.

Declares Admiral Sims Attempted to Rob America of Credit of Achievement

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Washington, May 11.—A counter charge that establishment of the North Sea mine barrage was delayed six months because of the opposition of Rear Admiral Sims and the British Admiralty was made before the Senate Naval Investigating Committee today by Secretary Daniels in presenting the second party of his reply to the officers' charges that the United States Navy Department had unnecessarily prolonged the war through failure to co-operate fully at first with Allied naval forces. The barrage, Mr. Daniels added, was the most effective measure that had been taken to check the submarines, and he claimed it was "wholly an American idea."

The United States Naval Secretary also claimed that Sims had attempted in his testimony to rob the American navy of credit for this project and give it to the British.

Claims Plan Was American.

The plan was conceived, he said, in the Bureau of Ordnance at the United States Navy Department, and urged on the British Admiralty for six months before it was accepted. During this time Admiral Sims constantly discouraged and opposed the idea, he added, and when Admiral Mayo was sent abroad and finaly convinced the British Admiralty of the worth of the scheme and the necessity for adopting it, Admiral Sims attempted to convey the impression that the project had been delayed while the British attempted to get the American Navy Department's approval.

'Admiral Sims attempted to rob America and the United States navy of the credit for initiating this great achievement and give you the impression that it was a British plan, which our navy merely assisted in carrying out, though it originated in the Navy, Department, was proposed and urged by us for half a year before we could induce the British Admiralty to approve it, and although four-fifths of it was composed of American mines designed and constructed in America and transported 3,400 miles overseas and laid by American vessels," Mr. Daniels told the committee.

No Lack of Harmony.

He said close comradeship had existed between the British and American navies during the war, despite Admiral Sims' attempts to creat the impression that there was lack of harmony and co-operation.

The Sims charges of unpreparedness before the war were not justified, Mr. Daniels asserted, declaring that in July, 1915, he ordered the general board to study and recommend plans for a 'consistent and progressive development."

As a result of this study the policy was evolved, he said, that the United States must by 1925 have a navy equal to any other in the world. He approved this policy and the direct result was the five year building programme of 1916, the secretary said, an 'epoch-making measure." President Wilson approved the policy, the witness asserted.

"This is conclusive evidence that the Navy Department long before war was declared was alive to the importance of preparedness and was taking every step toward that end," he declared.

CALGARY VICTIM OF THE BLUEBEARD

The Ninth Woman Whom the Bigamist Murderer Has Confessed to Having Slain

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Los Angeles, Calif., May 11.—Eleanor Frazier, reported last night to be the ninth murder victim of James P. Watson, the bigamist-murderer, belonged to Calgary, Canada, according to a statement given out by Thomas Lee Woolwine, District Attorney.

Watson was sentenced to life imprisonment yesterday for the murder of Nina Lee Deloney.

Besides the alleged murder of Miss Frazier, the convicted man is reported to have confessed yesterday to murdering two other Canadian women. The alleged confessions, according to the District Attorney, accounted for all those missing among the twenty or more women the man was said to have married.

Mrs. M. A. Watt, of Winnipeg, and Marie Austin, of Calgary, are supposed to have been drowned in Lake Couer D'Alene, Idaho, but further particulars regarding the manner in which they were drowned were not made public by the District Attorney.

Gen. Sir Arthur Currie As Principal of McGill

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

MONTREAL, May 11—It is understood that General Sir Arthur Currie, Inspector General of the Canadian Forces, has been offered the appointment as principal of McGill University and that General Currie has tentatively accepted the appointment.

A further meeting of the Board of Governors will be held on Wednesday, when an official statement will be issued which will, it is hoped, contain the formal announcement that General Currie has been offered and has accepted the appointment.

This appointment, if confirmed, will create a new precedent, since General Currie is not a university man, although he had an education that qualified him for a high school teacher and he taught in a school for six years in his earlier days, before entering real estate in British Columbia, after which he found his real metier as a soldier.

Man's Material Body Merely Instrument Which Soul Used While Material Body Lasted

Sir Oliver Lodge Convinced That in the Course of Millions of Years There Will be Produced a Race of Men Who Will Go Right Because They Choose the Right

Toronto, May 11—Sir Oliver Lodge, the noted British scientist and spiritualist, lectured to a large audience in Massey Hall here last night on "The Continuity of Life."

Man's material body, he said, was not the person, but merely the instrument which the soul used as long as the material body lasted. Sir Oliver declared that he was absolutely convinced, by evidence from the world beyond, that consciousness and memory were retained after death. The world is evolving a race of men higher in moral and spiritual qualities.

Sir Oliver said he could dimly see, and in the course of millions of years the production of a race of beings that would go right because they would choose to go right. The evils in the world in the present day were only a stage in man's existence.

The best is yet to be, Sir Oliver assured his audience.

Sir Oliver Lodge was interviewed by a Toronto evening paper on the published story that Miss Olivia B. Taft, of Winnipeg, had confounded Sir Oliver in an hour's sitting at an ouija board. The eminent British scientist admitted that he had allowed Miss Taft, at the solicitation of a Winnipeg newspaperman, to give him a demonstration on the ouija board for twenty minutes, not for an hour as reported.

Denying the report that he had been impressed by the board demonstration, Sir Oliver said: "I was not at all impressed and should say that it was valueless."

He added that he had written to the man in question to this effect, and had received a reply to the effect that the western man was debating with himself as to whether he should give it all up or not.

Sir Oliver said the newspapermen had promised not to publish anything about the incident but had broken faith.

SEARCH FOR HEADS OF BIG BOND PLOT

Investigation of Suspicious Parties in Various Cities of United States Under Way

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York, May 11.—The disappearance of a former Cleveland city official, who is believed to have gone to Europe, was investigated here today in connection with New York's bond theft, aggregating several million dollars. Saul S. Myers, counsel for surety companies in the bankruptcy proceedings of Jules "Nicky" Arnstein, one of the alleged leaders in the bond plot, said he understood the former Cleveland official left there hurriedly, shortly after a visit from two men who were under surveillance following Arnstein's disappearance February 12.

The identity of the Cleveland man was not disclosed, but it was said that he had been in close touch with Arnstein and various gamblers and politicians in Cleveland. The investigators learned also that several Cleveland politicians visited this city and conferred with friends of Arnstein here.

The arrest of two men wanted in the case is sought by two detectives who left here today for the middle west.

Investigation also is being made here of information obtained from friends of "Norty" Bernstein, alleged to have been one of the men who aided in the disposal of bonds, who died in a hospital here April 11.

PRIVY COUNCIL HAS NO JURISDICTION

Minister of Justice Refuses Assistance to Winnipeg Strike Leaders' Appeal

[By Canadian Associated Press.]

Winnipeg, Man., May 11.—Replying to the Minister of Justice, who turned down requests that he assist in getting the case of R. B. Russell, convicted strike leader, placed before the privy council, the Winnipeg defence committee disputes the claim that the judicial committee has not jurisdiction in view of the provisions in the Canadian criminal code, and asserts that an Imperial act of 1844 prevents the Dominion parliament from denying jurisdiction.

FITTING SHAMROCK FOR TRIAL RACES

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York, May 11.—Preparations for fitting the masts and spars on Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock IV., challenger for the America's Cup, were begun today at City Island, where the yacht is being fitted out. The parts arrived yesterday on the S. S. Philadelphia from Southampton.

Details of the construction of the mast and amount of canvas the challenger will fly were kept secret. Designer Charles Nicholson is now on his way here from England to assume charge of the final work of fitting the yacht.

Winnipeg, May 11.—At the request of the Winnipeg police, Frank H. Rovell was arrested on the arrival of the S. S. New York at Plymouth, Eng. He will be brought back here to face a charge of defalcation of funds of the Northwest Life Assurance Co., of which he had been the accountant.

CARRANZA IS REPORTED A PRISONER

All Mexico Practically Now Dominated by the Revolutionists and Their Allies

THE PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT NEXT

Jealousy Likely to be Engendered Over the Selection of a President

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Washington, May 11.—With practically all of Mexico dominated by revolutionists and Carranza reported a prisoner, official interests here shifted today from the military phases of the situation to the expected political developments.

Agents of the de facto rulers professed to believe steps would be taken immediately toward the establishment of a provisional government, to be succeeded as soon as possible by a constitutional regime. Reports received through official channels as those sent to the revolutionary agents continued to indicate absence of serious disorder, although the despatch of a United States battleship and additional destroyers to southern waters suggested the determination of the American government to affaord the foreigners protection in event of serious trouble at any of the port towns.

No Counter Revolution.

While officials here considered the revolutionary movement as too untried for judgment, the impression was manifest that for a time, at least, it would not have to face the usual counter revolution. Villa, who defied Carranza so successfully, was reported to have made peace with the winners. Manuel Palaez, ruler of the oil regions, was said to have joined in the movement without reservation, and there remained no outstanding rebellious figures.

The possibility, however, that some one of Carranza's loyal officers might fill the role of rebel was suggested, although revolutionary agents asserted its improbability.

Some Doubt About Gonzales.

What appeared for a time to be a potential discord was the recent declaration of General Gonzales that while he was fighting Carranza, he had not agreed to support the general revolutionary movement.

Both official and unofficial reports, however, have indicated either an understanding between him and Obregon, or the domination of Gonzales by Obregon. Gonzales was the first to enter Mexico City, but recent reports pointed to Obregon as the dominant figure.

If the revolutionists carry out their programme announced in the "plan of Agua Prieta," no time will be lost in setting up a provisional government. The promise made in the announcement was that upon the occupation of Mexico City and the adherence to the revolutionary plan of half the state governments, a convention of delegates representing the different state governors would be called to select a provisional President, who would without delay call a special session of congress which, in accordance with the constitution, would proceed to the election of a President.

Polish Outlet to Black Sea Is Aim of Warsaw Diplomats

Agreement Said to Have Been Reached With Ukrainia Before Poles Started Drive Against the Bolshevik Along the Dnieper River

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Warsaw, May 11—The military, economic and political convention signed by Poland and Ukrainia just before the opening of the drive toward Kiev, is understood here to have provided for a Polish outlet to the Black Sea. Such a southern outlet has been a Polish ambition dating far back in the national history, just as was a seaport on the Baltic.

Active Fighting in Mexico Has Almost Entirely Ceased

The Revolutionary Party in Virtual Control of the Country and Will Now Bend Its Efforts Toward a Restoration of Industry and Prosperity

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

El Paso, Texas, May 11—Officials of the new revolutionary party in virtual control of Mexico, today maintained that the revolution is in its final stages, so far as active fighting is concerned. Statements from the revolutionary headers at Juarez, opposite here, indicated all efforts now would be spent towards restoration of the country's industry and prosperity.

X-RAY FAILED

Mechanic Gives Evidence

There are cases where science in its most profound phases is absolutely balked, yet other help is at hand.

This is proved by the testimony of a mechanic, 35 years of age, who suffered, at times, positive torture from stone in the bladder. After trying many remedies without result, he had an X-Ray photograph taken, which also failed to show where the trouble was. Fortunately, just at this juncture, when he almost had given up hope of any relief, Gin Pills were brought to his notice. These famous Pills in a very short time enabled him to pass the stone which was the cause of his trouble. We will give the name of this man on request.

Kidney and Bladder troubles should not be neglected. The first symptoms should be sufficient warning. Pain in the sides or back, constant headaches, neuralgic and sciatic pains, rheumatism, dizziness, constipation, gravel, highly-colored urine, specks before the eyes, all point to derangement. Gin Pills should be obtained without delay. Druggists and dealers carry them—50c —your money refunded if not satisfied. Free sample on request.

Morris Ackerman Talks of New Brunswick's Attractions For Tourists and Hunters

Will Be Member of Party With C. P. R. Men Going on Cain's River—Must Consider Question of Providing Accommodations for Influx of Visitors

Headed by J. M. Gibbons, chief publicity agent of the C. P. R., and with moving picture operators and everything else that is necessary to make such a trip a success, an important party will leave here next Saturday morning for a salmon fishing trip on Cain's river.

Morris Ackerman, of Cleveland, O., editor and publisher of Ackerman's Sportsmen's Guide and booster extraordinary of New Brunswick as a fishing and hunting country in the Middle West, will be a member of that party. This morning he left by C. P. R. for St. John and will spend the week trout fishing in that vicinity, returning to Fredericton on Friday evening.

"I am tickled to death to get back to New Brunswick again," said Mr. Ackerman this morning in discussing his visit to the province.

"I had the pleasure of fishing on the Cain's river two years ago with my friend, George Allen, while last year Fraser Gregory, of St. John, entertained me on a little trip near his city and I got in another day with good old Harry Allen on the Nashwaak. I have had two ambitions to satisfy in this beautiful province—a salmon trip in May and a real big game trip in the fall. On Saturday begins the realization of the first of those two desires, while I hope in the glow-time of some autumn in the future that destiny will guide my wandering footsteps into the deep woods in search of the fleeting white-tail and the lordly moose.

"Experience has taught me, in my many trips to Canada, that there is considerable rivalry between New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, Ontario and Quebec, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, and British Columbia and Alberta. I have fished and hunted in most of the provinces and have found in each some particular virtues not found in the others, while in each, from my standpoint, there is so much for the outdoor man to enjoy, over woods and waters, that to me the going in of one from the other seems like the passage from one heaven to another. However, I would be lacking in appreciation indeed if I failed to mention that in New Brunswick have I had the best times and the best treatment, for which I have done my "durndest" to put your province in the front rank with our sportsmen and am doing my best to keep it there. I am using this trip to tell to the readers of some 500 newspapers and a half-dozen magazines about the wonders and glories of the right kind of a salmon trip in the right place at the right time.

"It is hardly necessary to again tell you that in W. Harry Allen the president of your Guides' Association, that you have the best known guide in Canada, in fact, I believe the best known man in Canada, certainly as far as the Midle West is concerned. Harry Allen is as well known to Ohio sportsmen as Ivory soap. He drew more people to his meetings on his last trip there than the presidential candidates, and in my opinion made more impression on his audience. This old fellow knows New Brunswick, and he knows it well. When he talks and shows his pictures he forgets himself, his personal interests, and the fact that he has his own living to make. He talks New Brunswick, the land he knows and loves, and the powers that be in this province owe much to him, for if ever a man put his country "on the map" Harry Allen is that man.

"As I see it, the time is rapidly approaching, if not already here, when the question in this province will not be to get the tourist business but how to take care of it. The railways running in here, with your various publicity departments, have the power needed to advise the outside world of the good things you have to offer; and, as Rube Golberg might say, "Now that you've got 'em what are you going to do with 'em? I believe every guide and camp owner will have all the business this year he can handle. I imagine this is true in other lines of effort. The next step necessary may be the organization of capital to find the best and most satisfactory way of giving the folks who come to enjoy your outdoors what they come for—at a satisfactory compensation."

OBITUARY

Mrs. Annie B. MacBean.

Taymouth, N. B., May 8.—On Sunday evening, April 25th, at 12 o'clock, there passed to her eternal rest one who was greatly beloved by all who knew her, Mrs. Annie B. MacBean. She had been suffering from cancer for the past year, but she bore her illness with uncomplaining patience and Christian resignation.

She was the daughter of the late Wm. McCulloch, formerly of Marysville. She was married in 1897 to Martin MacBean, of this place, who predeceased her eighteen years. She was a highly esteemed member of the Methodist church, to which she devoted much loving attention, and her place in the W. M. S. will be hard to fill. She leaves two daughters, Helen, of Taymouth, and Nina, of R. Chestnut & Sons, Fredericton; three brothers, William McCulloch, of Lovelock, Nevada; Richard and Frank, of Fernley, Nevada, and three sisters, Mrs. George Robinson and Mrs. Horace Hillman, of Sparks, Nevada, and Mrs. Irvine Fairweather, of Wallace, Idaho.

The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon. At 2 o'clock at the home a short but impressive service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Westmorland and Rev. Mr. MacPherson, after which the funeral procession wended its way to the Methodist church where a beautiful service was conducted by Rev. Messrs. Westmorland and MacPherson. The choir was present and sang Nearer My God, to Thee, In the Upper Garden, The Sands of Time Are Sinking, and The Christian's Good Night and, according to special request of the deceased, Mrs. Charles Norrad sang Be Silent, and Rev. Mr. Westmorland sang There is a Beautiful Land. Mr. Westmorland spoke very impressively from "In My Father's house are many mansions," a favorite passage of the deceased. At the conclusion of the service the remains were carried to the Taymouth cemetery, and tenderly laid at rest in the family plot.

A touching incident was the singing of No Burdens Allowed to Pass Through, as the casket was being lowered in mother earth.

The floral tributes were very beautiful, flowers and wreaths being received from many friends, among which were:

Wreath, daughters; wreath, Mr. and Mrs. MacBean; cross, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Young, Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Young, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Young, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bell; pillow, Methodist Sunday school and church; wreath, Mrs. Angus Urquhart, Bert, Urquhart, Mr. and Mrs. James Urquhart, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Urquhart, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Young, Mr. and Mrs. Earle Young, Miss Greta Young; basket, Miss Grace Kierstead; cut flowers, Mrs. Fred MacBean, Mrs. Justus Carroll, Mrs. D. R. Moore, Miss Gloria Young, Mrs. Wm. Fairley, Mr. and Mrs. David Griffiths, Misses Griffiths and Henderson, Machar and Genevea Young, Gerrie Bell.

Duncan J. Bailey.

Squire Duncan J. Bailey, a well known and highly respected resident of Newcastle Creek, Queens county, passed away on April 29 in the 83rd year of his age, at the home of his son, Stanley M. Bailey. Besides his son, he leaves two grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. Wm. Bridges, of Sheffield, and several more distant relatives to cherish the memory of a worthy man.

When a mistake turns out to be profitable it is no longer called a mistake.

ROGERS' MEETING OF CONSERVATIVES

Conference Adops Resolution Calling for the Organization of All Provinces

Toronto, Ont., May 10.—"That, in the opinion of this conference of Dominion-wide Liberal-Conservatives, the time has arrived to perfect organization in all the provinces of Canada, and through such organization prepare those who believe in the traditional policy of Macdonald and Cartier to register their opinion at the impending general election of that great policy."

Such was the substance of a resolution unanimously adopted at a round table conference here today of Liberal-Conservatives, when at least three delegates were present from every province under the guiding leadership of Hon. Robert Rogers. This conference arose from a meeting held here on April 16, and is the first move towards Dominion organization on strict party lines, to be followed, as early as possible this year, by a national Conservative convention at Ottawa, "for the purpose of selecting a leader and dealing with such matters as may properly come before the convention."

While the meeting was private, it was stated afterwards that the proceedings had been entirely harmonious and some dozen resolutions were handed the press as having been adopted unanimously.

These dealt with the problem of returned soldiers and the debt the country owes them; the value of enfranchised women to the political future of the country; the necessity of a united Canadian people, putting aside class prejudice; the encouragement of agriculture; the railying of the ranks of labor against the criminal activities of the I. W. W., and the need more than ever, of the traditional national policy during this period of reconstruction.

One resolution recited that if Canada is to grow and prosper the present ambiguity and vacillation in the councils of our country must give way to definite and firm practices. "This is the time," it went on, "to grasp our opportunities with decision and determination. The time for the Liberal-Conservative party to work out through safe and sound methods, how best the present policy of chronic borrowing without making provision for the repayment of enormous obligations, may be replaced by an economic programme through which, with the aid of our tremendous natural resources, we may look forward to carrying lightly our heavy war indebtedness."

J. T. Edworthy, Conservative Association of Toronto, presided, and Hugh Peat, of Moose Jaw, Sask., acted as secretary.

Frank Stanfield, Truro, N. S.; Geo. B. Jones, Apohaqui, N. B.; J. A. MacDonald, Cardigan, P.E.I., ex-M.P., secretary Kings county Liberal-Conservative Association; P. S. Brown, Charlottetown, member Liberal-Conservative Association of Charlottetown.

HIGH FRESHET ON MIRAMICHI RIVER

Considerable Damage Done to Booms and Seven Million Feet of Logs Loose

Moncton, May 10.—Word reached Moncton tonight that an abnormally high freshet on the Southwest Miramichi had caused considerable damage to the river booms behind which were held millions of feet of logs. Owing to the very heay rains of Sunday, and the fact that there was still considerable snow in the woods along the river banks, the waters of the Southwest branch rose to a greater height than for some time past. This afternoon the heavy pressure of water upon the booms caused a break through which the logs poured. Efforts to repair the damage were unavailing, and late in the afternoon the heavy pressure began to pile the logs against the railway bridge which spans the river near Newcastle. Late tonight the pressure still continued, and grave fears were entertained for the safety of the structure. It was estimated that in the vicinity of seven or eight million feet of logs had broken loose.

MARRIED DAY AFTER SHE BECAME WIDOW

Mrs. Griffin Bastado Is Left $9,000,000—Was Suing for Divorce

Chicago, May 10.—Although she waited less than 24 hours to marry again after the death of her first husband, Mrs. Helen Prindiville Griffin Bastadó will get the whole of the $9,000,000 estate of her husband. This revelation was made today by the lawyers for the late George Francis Griffin as the climax in a sensational affair which has stirred society circles here.

Mr. Griffin, who died in the South on Monday, will be buried in Boston next Monday. Last Tuesday Mrs. Griffin, who had been separated from him two years, went to the parish house of St. Joseph's Catholic church in San Diego with Lieut. Commander Paul Henry Bastado and they were married.

The widow-bride arrived here this morning. She went to the home of her mother, Mrs. Catherine Prindiville, and refused admittance to all except relatives. She was not accompanied by her husband. Two hours later Mrs. Prindiville, the mother, left for Boston to attend Monday the funeral of Mr. Griffin, her late son-in-law, who will be buried at Forest Hills.

The sudden death of Mr. Griffin, due to a stroke of apoplexy last Monday on his yacht near Miami, Fla., and the speed record marriage of his widow caused a variety of sensations among their friends. She had lived apart from her husband for two years. Divorce proceedings were pending, but had not been pressed. There are three children with their mother.

Mr. Griffin was one of the wealthiest younger men in Chicago, his fortune being estimated at from $6,000,000 to $10,000,000. He was the son and one of two heirs of George P. Griffin, founder of the Griffin Wheel Company. He was a member of many clubs and popular.

Mrs. Prindiville said her daughter met Lieut. Commander Bastado in a social way at Coronado Beach, where she has lived for the last four years. He is now commander of the destroyer Jacob Jones, stationed at San Diego.

The widow and three children will be the sole beneficiaries in the will, according to announcement of Raymond M. Ashcraft of the law firm, attorneys for the Griffin estate.

The bill for divorce which was pending when Mr. Griffin died was filed by Mrs. Griffin in the Circuit Court here on Jan. 10, 1919. The bill asked for the custody of the three children, Rosemary, 13 years old; Thomas Francis, 12 years old, and Richard Bulen, 9 years old.

No Appointment Yet Made of Canadian Plenipotentiary to Go to the Post at Washington

The Names of Sir Robert Borden, Hon. Mr. Rowell and C. A. Magrath Mentioned in Connection With the Position, But No Appointment Likely for Some Time

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, May 11.—The statement read in the House yesterday afternoon by the acting Prime Minister regarding the appointment of a Canadian minister plenipotentiary at Washington has created much interest.

The matter was pretty plainly foreshadowed in the House last spring in a statement made by Hon. Mr. Rowell, who said that while the several British Ambassadors at Washington have rendered admirable service to Canada, our business with the United States is now on so large a scale that our interests can only be adequately protected by a Canadian representative resident at Washington. In the meantime the war mission was carried on until this permanent representation could be arranged. At that time the idea received warm commendation from Hon. Mr. Lemieux, who said that the interests of Canada demanded that we should have a representative at Washington as well as in London and Paris. At that time Hon. Mr. Lemieux made the interesting statement that in the year 1898 Sir Wilfrid Laurier had almost decided to appoint a very distinguished Canadian to the position of representative at Washington.

Information is not yet complete as to all the details of the new office. The status of the new Minister will be finally settled by the State Department at ashington, in all probability, and we shall then have an idea as to how Canada ranks among the nations.

As a matter of fact, it is probable that many of the details of the new situation will have to develop and be settled as time goes on. Whether there will be a distinct Canadian ambassadorial residence is not known, but as the sum of $80,000 is being appropriated for the upkeep and expenses of the position, it would seem probable that there will be. Neither the salary nor the name of the new official have been mentioned, and probably have not yet been decided on.

During the discussion last year, Hon. Mr. Lemieux asked if the post had been offered to Sir Charles Gordon, who was in charge of the Canadian war mission at Washington. The answer he got was that while Canada would be fortunate if Sir Charles were to continue to act as our representative, the Minister was not in a position to say whether it had been offered to him or not. In the meantime, several names are mentioned, including those of Sir Robert Borden, Hon. N. W. Rowell and Mr. C. A. Magrath. Either of the two first named would be eminently qualified from their knowledge of international questions and law, while Sir Charles Gordon has had an experience at Washington which should be of great help to him if the position should fall to him. Mr. Magrath, too, has gained extensive experience as chairman of the Joint International Commission. Hon. Mr. Rowell stated this afternoon that no appointment would be made for some little time.

$250 PAID FOR A SAWMILL LOG

Vancouver, B. C., May 10.—A great log, that appeared sound and clean, cost a mainland sawmill $250 this week. When the big circular saw bit into the timber it flew to pieces, and investigation showed a 25-pound shell imbedded in the centre. The tree had been brought from a point up the coast and had probably been used years ago as a target for guns of British naval ships crusing on the Gulf of Georgia. The shell is of the type used by the navy about 25 years ago.

THE CANADIAN FARMER.

A doleful tale for dwellers in cities is told by the Farmers Sun, the official organ of the United Farmers of Ontario, with respect to crop production in the coming season. It is stated that shortage of labor will reduce cultivation in many parts of the province to 20 per cent. of normal, that a cold, wet and backward spring is seriously curtailing farm operations, and that "farmers in many sections have become so discouraged that they are adopting a 'don't care' attitude, and are planning to grow only enough for themselves and their immediate families." There is, according to the same authority, every evidence of an acute food shortage confronting Ontario next year.

This is a dismal enough prospect, but it need not be regarded very seriously, remarks an exchange. The farmer has long been called a chronic grumbler, deriving his pleasure from his misery, a sort of male Mrs. Gummidge, whose plight is never so bad as he pretends. Statistics are against him, though he may plead that nothing lies like statistics. Farm labor is both scarce and dear, not only in Ontario, but over the whole continent. Migration from the countryside to the city proceeds in the United States to as great an extent as in Canada, and as yet no cure for the movement has been devised. It is not that farming is an unprofitable occupation, nor that the lot of the farmer is a wretched one; agricultural labor gives greater reward than ever before, and farmers were never better housed, equipped with better implements, or supplied with more material comforts than now. The problem of keeping men on the land, the problem of greater production, is really economic. Nomadic instinct does doubtless drive young men to pastures new, and the lure of the city is to many of them stronger than the lure of the land; but in the last analysis the magnet of money will be the dominating factor. If, as the Farmers Sun avers, city people who are now boycotting potatoes because of their cost may be glad to get them next year at double today's cost the urbanite has a gloomy outlook, since dear potatoes are merely a symptom of dear everything. If spuds at $6 a bag will not keep the farmer on the farm, much less will motor cars, asphalt roads, and moving pictures.

There is a deal of nonsense written and spoken about the hard lot of farmers. They pay more than formerly for hired help, for the commodities they purchase, but they pay out of a plethoric purse. In 1914 the field crops of Canada had a value of $638,580,000, and in 1919 were worth $1,452,437,000. That does not look like poverty on the farm. Everything the farmer produces has risen in price in like ratio, and if, as contended, the exodus from the farm to the city has gone on uninterruptedly there are fewer of them among whom to divide the greater wealth. According to municipal statistics the rural population of Ontario decreased from 1,027,220 in 1916 to 996,228 in 1918, but in the same period the assessed value of farm property incerased $14,000,000. That is a sort of wealth accumulating the farmers can tolerate even if their numbers decay.

The agricultural production of Canada is not likely to decline, even though the drift to the city of Canadians born on the land continues. The stream of immigration will soon again broaden even, it may be, to overflowing, and the waste lands of the western provinces be occupied. Recently addressing a meeting at Ilderton, Ont., Dr. Sinclair, a well known educationalist, declared that Southern Ontario farms are being rapidly bought by capitalists for intensive farming with foreign labor, and the Toronto Globe states that "capitalists from the Netherlands are known to be buying land in Ontario for colonization purposes." Prices of foodstuffs will remain high over at least another year because of world-shortage of supply, but if farmers are blessed with propitious weather there will be abundance of food products for the Canadian people.

REASONS FOR HIGH PRICES.

Sir John Williston, in his May contribution to the Canadian Magazine, points logically to the Reasons for High Prices when he says:

"The orators who are happy only when they denounce 'profiteers' are responsible for much anger, misunderstanding and confusion. Even the Board of Commerce admits that 'business is, in the main, sound and honest,' and that 'despite high prices undoubtedly prevailing profiteering, so-called—that is, the taking of unjust profits—is not, in the Board's opinion, as common nor nearly as common, as may have been charged or claimed.' But how seldom are these sentences quoted and how seldom are the real causes of high prices explained. Wages in many industries have been nearly doubled. Wages represent seventy per cent. of the cost of production. The prices of all food products have increased tremendously, not through 'profiteering' among farmers, but through a world scarcity which was the inevitable result of the great war, the withdrawal of millions of men from productive pursuits, disorganization of transportation, social and political revolution and the reaction of the long agony in Europe.

"Added, again, to great and general wage increases are the heavy losses from industrial conflict. The losses to labor in Canada by strikes during 1919 aggregated at least $9,000,000 or $10,000,000, and to employers a far greater amount. In the United States the loss to labor through industrial conflict in 1919 is put at $723,478,000, and to capital $1,226,357,000. The loss in production of coal is estimated at 40,000,000 tons and of steel at $300,000,000. In Great Britain 34,000,000 working days were lost by strikes and the hours of work were reduced by 6½ hours a week for 6,000,000 workers. * * *

"There is 'profiteering,' and no judgment too severe can be pronounced upon manufacturers, landlords or traders who traffic deliberately in the necessaries of the people. * * *

"Farmers, manufacturers, traders and capitalists may offer against many of the attacks to which they are subjected the defence of the darkey who was reprimanded by his master: 'Marse Andrew, I has enuff to answer fer wid the secusations what is jest, widout having to be sponsible for dem what ain't so.' If the actual facts of the situation in which we find ourselves are understood and admitted, there will be less angry denunciation by Press and platform and a soberer and sounder temper in the country."

The Canadian representative at Washington will be a Minister Plenipotentiary. As such he cannot have Ambassadorial rank. It is unlikely that the Imperial authorities will willingly consent to a Canadian ambassador with full powers as such; and there is reason to believe that the majority of the Canadian people are not disposed to press for a recognition which suggests, and perhaps involves, the severing of the most important ties connecting us with our grand Mother Country.

DRURY RULES WITH FIRM HAND.

The Financial Post: "The courage of Ontario's Farmer Premier in standing unflinchingly against an increase in the sessional indemnity in the face of a demand supported by seventy-five per cent. of the members of both sides of the House stamps him as a leader of great strength of character.

"Perhaps the greatest asset that a political leader can have is the ability to hold out against his own followers when occasion demands. Dissension within party ranks is always more dangerous than the attacks of the enemy. Mr. Drury's position will be greatly strengthened by his steadfastness of purpose during this week's crisis."

THE NEW ENGLAND LUMBER MARKET

Local advices from the New England lumber market are to the effect that while prices are firm demand is small. Although the demand for houses grows more clamorous every day, there is yet no sign of a building boom of any dimensions, uncertainty making investors shy. For box boards the demand has shown an increase; the production in Maine and New Hampshire last winter was unusually light. Laths at Boston are selling at $15, but retailers are not giving many orders, apparently believing the price will fall off. White cedar shingles are selling at $9, with $8.50 for clears, but the retailers are not doing much buying.

AMERICAN GOLF TEAM FOR OLYMPIC

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York, May 11.—Because of damage caused by the German armies it will be impossible to have the Antwerp links ready for the Olympic tournament ready before July 12, according to word received here today from Belgium by W. D. Vanderpool, secretary of the United States Golf Association. The association had requested that the date be advanced. The association's executive committee announced it would try to assemble a team for play on July 12, although prospects were not bright because of the lateness of the date and the difficulty of obtaining sailing accommodation.

CANADIAN CLUB OF NEW YORK TO MEET

Reports to be Presented This Evening Will Show Increasing Activities of Club

New York, May 10.—The annual meeting of the Canadian Club of New York will be held tomorrow evening in the club rooms in the Belmont Hotel.

The club has had a successful year both from the social and financial standpoint. The reports to be presented tomorrow night will show an increase in membership and a widening of the sphere of activities of the club during the past twelve months. A number of prominent Canadians, including General Sir Arthur Currie, delivered addresses under the auspices of the club, and the increased interest of New Yorkers in Canada and Canadian affairs was reflected in the large attendance at these events.

What is declared to be the only problem which officials of the Canadian Club have had to worry them will be threshed out at tomorrow night's meeting. Ladies have very liberal privileges in connection with the club under the present rules. There are special parlors for members' wives and also a small dining room where they may hold luncheon parties. The majority of the social functions conducted by the club are participated in by the ladies. Some of the members take the view that the club should be more of a man's institution. They favor more "smokers" and fewer dances, and declare some of the ladies do not stay put in the rooms allotted to them but wander into the men's department; yes, even into the sacred precincts of the card room so that a man may not give vent to a good old-fashioned Canadian cuss in his own club without danger of being overheard by some member of the fair sex.

It is said that these and similar hardships, will be reviewed by the "men only" section of the membership at tomorrow night's meeting. The champions of the ladies will argue for the retention of the present privileges for members' wives, and an interesting debate is in prospect.

Arthur Knowlson, the present president of the club, and Douglas R. Henderson, are on the slate for the presidency. There will also be contests for all of the other offices.

MARYSVILLE GIRL NOW FINE ARTIST

Miss Christine L. Chisholm Attracts Attention in Upper Canada by Good Work

St. John, May 11.—William J. Whiteside, Director of Publicity for Canadian National Railways, came to St. John on Sunday and returned on Monday morning. He made the thousand mile trip from Toronto for the purpose of engaging, if possible, a St. John girl whose work as an artist and writer has attracted attention in Upper Canada. The young lady in question is Miss Christine L. Chisholm, living on DeMonts street, in West St. John. Her work is spoken of in publishing circles in Toronto as of the highest quality ever submitted to publishing houses there. Miss Chisholm recently forwarded a few samples to Everywoman's World, but that magazine, not being in a position to make use of material of that class, turned the samples over to the Canadian National Railways Publicity Department for examination and Mr. Whiteside, recognizing the possibility of developing in the Railway Magazine a feature section of more than ordinary value, is making an effort to secure this young lady as a permanent member of his staff. The sketches, water colors and verses, shown to The Standard are exceptional, the surprising feature being that such work is being done in St. John and not more generally talked about. It is questionable whether any magazine in America contains finer art work than is found in those drawings and paintings. Miss Chisholm is the daughter of Mrs. Charles Chisholm, formerly of Marysville, and for the past year or two residing in St. John. She has never studied art, but inherits from both parents ability along this line. She has not yet decided definitely whether to accept or decline Mr. Whiteside's offer, but is naturally pleased that even this measure of recognition has come to her.

The Stock Market

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York (Wall Street), May 11.—Stocks were quiet and irregular at the opening of today's session, denoting further confusion of speculative sentiment. Mexican Petroleum at a gain of 1¾, and United States Rubber at a decline of 1 point, were the only issues to record more than fractional changes. Shippings, rails and sugars were disposed to improve but coppers and textiles eased with popular steels. The general list became reactionary within the first half hour, however, when pressure against steels and motors became more insistent.

Montreal, May 11.—Atlantic Sugar, Brompton and New Abitibi, were the leaders in the first hour's trading on the local stock exchange this morning. Atlantic opened at 84½, which represented a quarter point gain overnight. It then rose to 95 but sagged again to 94. Brompton opened at 101 which was a half point below last night's close, and under fair demand stiffened a quarter point, only, however, to dip again to the opening figure. New Abitibi was fairly active and strong, opening at 66¼ and advancing fractionally to 67 after good demand. Breweries was somewhat inactive, selling at 51⅞.

FROM THE PEOPLE

LIABLE TO PROHIBITION PENALTY

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—For several years past I have been in such a position that I have been compelled to keep a few lodgers in order to properly support myself and my family.

I was informed yesterday that by doing this the New Brunswick Prohibition Act deprives my home of the rights of a dwelling and that I am liable to a fine of $200 for having a small bottle of brandy in my bedroom which I have always been in the habit of keeping in my home to use in case of sudden illness in the family.

As there are a number of other people in this town who are in the same position as myself, I would like if you could let the public know if New Brunswick has any such law as this.

Yours truly,
A. M.

Fredericton, May 7, 1920.

[The Prohibition Act of this province, by Section 7, makes it unlawful for any person to have any liquor of any kind in any place other than in the private dwelling house in which he resides without having first obtained a wholesale or retail license authorizing him to do so.

Section 92 provides that any person who offends against any of the provisions of Section 7 shall be liable to a penalty for the first offence of not less than $50 nor more than $200, and in default of immediate payment to be imprisoned for not less than three or not more than six months, and for the second offence to be imprisoned for not less than six nor more than twelve months without the option of a fine.

If the house in which A. M. is living is not a dwelling house within the meaning of the Prohibition Act, the keeping of the brandy in her bedroom would be an offence for which these penalties would have to be imposed if a complaint were made.

No house is recognized by the New Brunswick Prohibition Act as a home or a dwelling in which more than three lodgers are kept other than the members of the family.

Section 2 of the Act says distinctly that the expression "private dwelling house" shall not include or be construed to include or mean any house or building occupied or used, or partially occupied or used, as an office (other than a duly registered physician's or dentist's office), etc., etc. or partially occupied or used as a boarding or lodging house where there are more than three lodgers other than members of the family or etc., etc., any house or building, the rooms or compartments in which are leased to different persons.—The Gleaner.]

REGARDS TO RUBE

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Kindly grant space through the medium of your People's column for the following:

One of the most trying and difficult of tasks is that of shooting at invisible targets or mere nothings; therefore, I would ask those who may read to be moderate in their criticism.

Now, my dear Rube, if you are responsible for this latest of mudslinging contests, purporting to be an answer to the letter which I wrote regarding your letter referring to the re-establishment of the returned men, and their consequent attitude, as regards their post-war problems, you have earned the reward and sense of satisfaction that comes to those whose only virtue is self. Moreover, the letter of May 1st has a foreign element in it. I have my doubts whether Uncle Rube wrote it or not, no doubt, it was written under his vigilant eye. The only wonder with such brilliant authors is they know so much, but for some reason do not know enough to sign their own name. Funny, isn't it? I suppose you could answer that, Rube, but you haven't the nerve. You fear Harold Bell Wright's masterpiece, The Eyes of the World.

Now, Uncle Rube, or your contemporary, I will speak as man to man. I dare you to sign your own name, and as regards this booby-hatchery term that you use, I am willing to make a one hundred per cent. comparison with you as regards character, education, enlightenment or the various virtues or evils of human life, and I am by no means advanced.

No, Uncle, I never was guilty of the thought that you caused the war. I couldn't. Your imagination is wild. However, I will say that I have fought in the open with Germans face to face, and here is my regards to them, in preference to you, who use the press to slander the returned men adn too cowardly to sign your own name.

Yes, Uncle, you use the correct version when you say we have all heard of those terrible things of the Great War. The trouble is people like you who have heard too much and seen too little. It would be a greater sight than the crushing, gasping, freezing, dying men you have told of searching for gold, the curse of the age, which you so aptly wish to compare with that of the returned man.

You show your contempt when to bring out your point you use this slurring phrase, "not the honor of being a war widow with a moderate compensation," then you hypocritically a few lines further on say with a great warmth of emotion that you are not averse to the paying of a pension to these same people. Down in your heart you really begrudge the war widow her rights.

Moreover, you are like the majority of these critics when you make comparisons you avoid that which you know the least of, namely, the war. You stroll off to the Yukon or lumbering camps and various other happenings of everyday life. The cleverest man in the world today would be the one that could flash a message on your blind brain that we have had a war.

It is real pleasant to hear that you emphatically object to the indiscriminate paying of pensions to those who do not deserve them. You have such a heartache for the pocketbook of your country. I will give you a tip (for your information please). Just drop a line to the Pensions Board, St. John, informing the medical officers that they are allowing chaps to draw pensions who do not deserve them. You will get an answer, no dubt. You see, our allowance is set by them and I never knew of a case where they erred on the side of leniency. I could cite you scores of cases where the opposite takes place. I beg your pardon, Rube. I suppose such a wiseacre as you know all this, so don't accuse me of giving away information.

Oh, yes, about that fishing trip last summer. I was on a fishing trip two days, my first outing for three years. However, to my dismay, I did not enjoy myself. You see, it is very hard to take the spectacles off with one hand, or prepare for further dips without interfering with my companions. You see, Rube, my heart doesn't flutter, have good hearing, my trivial ailment is the loss of a hand, and mine is a minor case, consider myself lucky. If you think I am getting too large a pension, you can follow the previous directions that I gave you.

Regarding that imaginary dream of yours, that $2,000 bonus, I never mentioned it. The fact is that I do not favor such a scheme, nor never did, yet you seem to lay great stress upon this in answering my letter, and that trip, the same to you with knobs on. I would appreciate your room more than your company.

Oh, yes, about the bonus again. I hope some of you busybodies will get it in place of the soldier. In nine cases out of ten, the pieces you see in the paper are written by civilian people who like to have a club to beat with, hecklers like you. [illegible] hundreds of returned men here; we never hear anything about it.

Then, again, you say in your previous letter (I will use your own words) you said considering the talk of the majority, then you say on this issue separate the chaff from the wheat, so by that we must be all chaff in your eyes.

Now, Uncle, when your mind gets clear of silk stockings, teddy bears, and a lot more "d——d foolishness," that you write, so long as you meddle with other people's business and look for trouble you will get it whether you want to fight or not. By request I will sign,

Yours,
BO-PEEP (P. J).

TO CURE LONELINESS

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Just a Woman, in writing to you two weeks ago, said, she's middle aged and lonely and would like to meet with "good companionable people of either sex." Has she tried the church and the Y. W. C. A. and the benches in Fenety Avenue or in the Park?

Observation tells me there are plenty of folks wanting human sympathy. A woman who had supper at the same table with me recently had quivering lips. Poor soul I've felt like she looked. She wouldn't let me sympathize but she enjoyed a little chat and a joke, and we will look for one another again.

No need to go round like a silly old hen setting on doorknobs to hatch them. The good Lord made a place for every soul in this world even if one did lose her mate too soon. Keep smiling. Nearly every one of us has lost some precious thing. Killing did not lose me my mate; mischief did, and I have to see him, living, and know there can never be an explanation. And losing the bairns that might have been is sorer than losing the mate. This can't ever be said, though my heart aches when other women's babies run to me—it's a funny baby who won't come to me.

I may be an old maid, but I have made more than one home happy and saved more than one baby's life. And I set the greatest store on keeping smiling — not just a set grin, but a real smile that comes from the heart. I don't think people really learn to laugh until they have learned to cry. The deeper you plough the better the crop.

Lots of folks want a smiling face. Get a smile if you have to practice it before the mirror till it looks genuine and by that time it will be genuine if the wish behind the effort is to make folks happy.

Yours,
JUST ANOTHER WOMAN.

U. S. Horticultural Board to Consider Placing Quarantine on New England.

Washington, May 10.—The Federal Horticultural Board will combat the spread of gypsy and brown tail moths in New England to the extent of its funds, Chairman Marlett said at the conclusion of a hearing at which government agricultural agents urged extension of the quarantine in the five states affected.

The chairman did not announce whether the quarantine would be extended as a decision on that point will not be made until after review of testimony at the hearing. The quarantine would take the form of additional limitation of the shipment of coniferous trees and such wood products.

A. F. Burgess, in general charge of horticulture inspection work, told the board that if a cleanup of newly infested areas was begun, the work should start in southern New England because of great forests of fruit trees favorable to moth infestation. Ninety per cent. of the moths are found in fruit trees, D. M. Rogers, another inspector, declared.

H. L. McIntyre, in charge of scouting and extermination work, said that a minimum of egg clusters discovered in a district should warrant quarantine.

BIGAMY CASE IN CHATHAM COURT

Francis C. Stocks Confronted by Two Wives Confesses to Guilty Action.

[Chatham World.]

A most remarkable example of rascality and gall was unfolded in the Chatham police court on Friday, when Francis C. Stocks, of St. John, said to be an Englishman and returned soldier, confessed to the crime of bigamy and was remanded for sentence after Rev. Dr. Wyllie had appeared on his behalf and addressed the court, pleading that the cheeky scoundrel be let go on suspended sentence. Both of the man's wives were in court. The victim of this fellow's duplicity, Miss Carrie McEwen, one of the finest young ladies in town, met Stocks when she was attending the millinery openings at Easter, at St. John, and he soon afterwards came to Chatham to see her and was introduced by her to the St. Andrew's church choir. He came once or twice more, spending the Sunday here and singing psalms in the choir, and then he and the young lady were married by Dr. Wyllie, April 28th, after which he returned to St. John and spent a couple of days with his wife and child, then returning to Chatham. The St. John wife got an inkling that something was wrong, and came to Chatham last Wednesday to investigate. An effort seems to have been made to hush the matter up, but, after it came to the notice of the police magistrate, who received a sworn statement from Mrs. Stocks, a warrant for bigamy was issued and served on the much-married man. Clerk of the Peace Whalen appeared for the prosecution on Friday. The prisoner pleaded guilty to the charge, and Dr. Wyllie made an eloquent address on his behalf, asking for his liberation on suspended sentence, so that he might continue to care for and support his wife and child. The magistrate remanded the convicted bigamist till Monday. Mrs. Stocks and Miss McEwen were in court and in tears. Mrs. Stocks is reported as having said that Stocks was no good anyway, as he was always running after other women.

GUERILLA WAR IN EMERALD ISLE

Irish Volunteers Instructed to Raid Fortified Position and Snipe Stragglers.

Dublin, May 10.—An article entitled "Guerilla Warfare," which sheds new light on assassinations in Ireland, has been discovered in the effects of Paul John Vignoiss, of Cork, recently tried by court martial and sentenced to six months' imprisonment "for having in his possession an issue of the official organ of the Irish volunteers."

"It is the duty of volunteers to recognize in all their plans, in methods of training and study and in their general outlook, the existence of this state of guerilla warfare and all that it implies," says the article, which has been made public in an official communication. "It is our business to develop those guerilla tactics which we have found most serviceable in dealing with actual conditions in Ireland at present, and to bring them to the highest pitch of perfection of which they are capable. It is our business to wage war against the forces of the invaders whenever and however we find it can be done most effectively.

"Of all forms of small wars, that most dreaded by imperialist armies of conquest is prolonged guerilla warfare, in which they are unable to obtain a moment's security nor gain any opportunity of effectively crushing their foe. Particularly do they dread the adoption of a well organized guerilla tactics by a civilized foe of keen intelligence and courage. Surprises, ambushes, raids on their fortified positions, sniping of their stragglers, the capturing of their arms and equipment, interruption of their communications, interference with their intelligence, are to be apprehended by them daily, and their forces are driven more and more into the position of invested garrisons in the midst of a hostile country, afraid to venture from their strongholds except in force, living in a state of perpetual apprehension. That such a state of affairs exists to a great extent in Ireland at present is obvious to all and it is the business of the Irish volunteers to see to it that it continues to grow more intense and more menacing to the invaders."

BIRTH AND DEATH STATISTICS IN U. S.

Birth of 15,324 Pairs of Twins and 147 Sets of Triplets Recorded in 1918

Washington, May 10.—Births in the registration area of the United States, which covers about 53 per cent. of the country's estimated population during the year 1918, exceeded deaths 34.46 per cent. Statistics for that year just completed by the Census Bureau show a total of 1,363,649 births in the territory included in the registration area, which is a slight decrease compared to 1917, while the deaths, 1,014,620, show a slight increase. Of every 100 infants born during 1918, the figures show ten died before reaching the age of one year, a fractional decrease over 1917. Mortality rates among male infants was 23 per cent. greater than that for female infants.

The birth of 15,324 pairs of twins and 147 sets of triplets was reported.

ZAM-BUK MAMA!

Mothers who have used Zam-Buk say it is so fine for the many little accidents of daily occurrence in the home—and especially where there are children — that they would not be without it. Not only so, but children who have had Zam-Buk applied to an injury or sore, when again injured, cry for Zam-Buk to be applied. They know that Zam-Buk stops pain. Nothing ends the pain of a cut, bruise, burn, or skin disease like Zam-Buk, and nothing soothes, draws out the soreness and heals so quickly.

Mrs. I. Wilson of Sarnia, Ont., says: "I could not do without Zam-Buk for my children. It is the best ointment we have ever used for burns, sores and cuts."

Mr. L. B. Andresen of 1407 E. 22nd St., Minneapolis, Minn., writes: "When any of the children, my wife or self meet with an accident, we immediately apply Zam-Buk. It has saved us many a doctor's bill."

Mrs. C. B. Ritcey of Riverport, N.S., writes: "My baby had sores on her face, caused by teething. Zam-Buk completely healed them."

Zam-Buk is equally good for eczema, ringworm, running sores, blood-poison, ulcers, abscesses, piles, boils and pimples. All druggists, 50c. box, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. Send 1c. stamp for free trial.

Canadian Budget Will Not Be Brought Down Unil Next Week, is the Report Today

The Reason for Delay Is Given as the Return of Sir Robert Borden and the Desire to Have Him Study the Details Before the Budget Is Presented to the House

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, May 11.—The two remaining outstanding events of interest for this session are the return of Sir Robert Borden and the bringing down of the budget, and both have been somewhat moveable festivals, so that the interest in them has been spread over a considerable period.

It now looks as though it had been arranged after all that the budget would not be down before the Prime Minister got back, although it was finally and definitely promised for Wednesday, and it was expected that Sir Robert would have been back on Monday or Tuesday. It is now understood that it will not be down this week It is still in process of formation and the cabinet is working on it at its daily meetings.

As the date of the budget approaches, the impression grows that there will be no tariff reductions to speak of, and this being the case there now appears to be a possibility of one or two of the remaining Liberal Unionists moving across the House. They are puzzled, however, as to the direction in which to move. Fine as the new chamber is, the architect was hardly abreast of the political situation in his reign, as he has left no place for cross benches, and some of those who now desire to terminate their agreement as supporters of Union Government, and who do not wish to sit with either the Opositon or the Farmers, are somewhat puzzled as to what course to adopt.

Hon. A. K. McLean has left the Cabinet and would now be sitting on the cross benches if there were such. One or two other Liberal Unionists have intimated that they were in the same predicament. While the losses from the Government ranks on the budget will not be heavy, it seems likely that there will be a few, although they may elect to still sit where they are for want of a better place.

Postponement of the Budget.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Ottawa, May 11.—The budget has been delayed. Official announcement was made last week that it would be presented tomorrow, but—to quote a high authority—it is "very doubtful" if the budget will be brought down this week at all. In all probability, it will be submitted to the House next week. This afternoon, it is expected, Sir George Foster will announce in the House postponement of the budget and the government's intentions in the matter.

In political circles, the much delayed budget is the topic of keen discussion. Why further delays and the consequent prolongation of session, such is the question asked on all hands. On this point, while no official announcement is to hand, it is understood that the main cause of postponement is the arrival of Sir Robert Borden tomorrow. Following a five months holiday, Sir Robert would in the ordinary course have reached Ottawa a couple of hours or so before the Finance Minister presented his proposals to the House. In such an event, Sir Robert would have been unable to give complete study to the full details, and it is principally to enable him to give such study before the budget is presented to the house that the decision to postpone has been reached.

Fires of Faith.

"Fires of Faith," the big Paramount special, featuring Catherine Calvert, Eugene O'Brien and Ruby de Remer, made a decided impression at the Gaiety yesterday and, despite inclement weather, large audiences were in evidence. The same splendid programme will be repeated today. Wednesday, Bryant Washburn will be presented in "Too Much Johnson" and a new Paramount Sennett comedy will also be shown.

Progressing Favorably.

Miss Ella Thorne, who was the victim of an accident while in Montreal undergoing treatment for her eyes, is progressing favorably towards recovery at her home on Charlotte street, although it will be some months before she will be able to resume her duties on the High School staff.

Slight Change Today In Sterling Exchange

Montreal, May 11—The pound sterling was quoted today at 3.84½ to $3.85. New York funds were held at 10 25-32 cents.

LOCAL HOSPITAL MUST BE IMPROVED

The regular monthly meeting of the York Commercial Club was held in the Board of Trade rooms last night with George W. Brown in the chair.

Reporting for a special committee George Howie said he had conferred with the Canadian Government Railway engineers since the last meeting and had been assured that the railway authorities were intending to submit the plans for a new bridge and its approaches to the City Council for approval before starting operations.

A report was also brought in by C. D. Richards concerning his recent visit to Ottawa in the interests of the permanent militia force in this city. The main features of the delegation's visit to Ottawa have already been published.

The principal discussion of the evening was regarding the new hospital. Dr. G. C. Vanwart outlined the hospital situation and pointed out thae this was an opportune time for the citizens to add to the splendid Fraser memorial hospital now being built, by two subsidiary buildings, one of which would be for a contagious hospital and the other for a maternity hospital.

A committee composed of J. D. Palmer, J. J. F. Winslow and G. W. Brown was appointed to join with committees from other interested organizations to lay the matter before the City Council.

N. B. Temperance Alliance Annual Convention Opened In This City This Morning

Not a Very Large Attendance This Morning, But More Delegates Expected This Afternoon—Failure of Legislature to Pass "Bone Dry" Resolution

The New Brunswick Temperance Alliance annual convention opened here this morning, the sessions being held in the Y. M. C. A. reading room.

Not more than 30 delegates were in attendance this morning, but it was said more were expected this afternoon. The official statement which was handed out by the secretary said there was a "large and representative attendance from many parts of the Province." Letters regretting their absence were read from Bishop Richardson, Rev. Messrs. Dowling, H. E. Thomas and others. Donald Fraser, of Plaster Rock, presided.

While the principal business of the convention is to prepare for the plebiscite in July on the provincial prohibitory law, about all of the morning session was taken up with the presentation of the report of the executive, which was read by Rev. Thomas Marshall, of Fairville. This dealt largely with the presentation in the Legislature of the so-called "bone dry" resolution for a referendum and declared that "this province now enjoys the unenviable reputation of being the only one in the Dominion whose Legislature has refused to the people the opportunity to vote upon the question of real prohibition for rich and poor alike."

A resolution was passed expressing appreciation of the action of Hon. J. F. Tweeddale and J. L. Peck, M.L.A., for presenting at the session of the Legislature the resolution asking for the Dominion Government to take a referendum on the importation of liquor into the province and also to all the members of both parties who supported the resolution.

Reporters were barred from the afternoon meeting.

The List of Delegates.

The list of delegates in attendance this morning was given as follows: Donald Fraser, Plaster Rock; Rev. Thomas Marshall, Fairville; M. A. Kelley, Campbellton; C. N. Vroom, St. Stephen; W. B. Evans, Minto; E. C. Weyland, Hampton; F. G. Spencer, St. John; Rev. A.C. Chapman, Welsford; Rev. J. Thompson, Fairville; J. W. Smith, St. John; Hanford Price, Moncton; E. A. McCurdy, Newcastle; Rev. L.H. McLean, Newcastle; Rev. J. Lawson, Keswick; Rev. F.E. Boothroyd, St. John; Rev. L.E. Ackland, Woodstock; Rev. G.M. Young, Fredericton; A.C.M. Lawson, Fredericton.

THE FIRST TRAIN OVER THE BRIDGE

no matter what are the conditions another accident of the nature of yesterday's fatality cannot occur there.

General Superintendent's Explanation.

General Superintendent Brown, in an official statement issued this morning declared that the approaches to the bridge across the Nashwaak river, where yesterday's accident occurred, were up to the standard in every respect, there being the usual stone foundation and riprapping. Abnormal conditions, he said, had been the cause of the accident, as the sudden freshet in the Nashwaak river, together with the jams of logs both above and below the bridge had caused whirlpools at the bridge so that the action of the water and logs undermined the approaches and caused that on the southern side to collapse and slide into the river when the heavy locomotive and train ran upon it. Nobody, he said, anticipated such a sudden raise of water or that there could be such a severe freshet in such a short time. When patrols went over the line at 7 o'clock on Sunday night, he said, they found everything all right, except at Taymouth, where they reported part of the line then under water, but that the freshet was subsiding. The Nashwaak bridge above Marysville was one place above all others where he did not anticipate trouble and, had it not been for the jams of logs which formed and thus made the whirlpools which caused the approach to the bridge to be undermined, I feel sure the unfortunate accident would not have taken place. "It is bad enough to lose property, but when an accident costs the lives of two of our valued employees it becomes much more serious and a very sad state of affairs, which we all deeply regret," concluded Mr. Brown.

Deny Auxiliary Train Delayed.

C. N. R. officials issued a denial this morning of reports that the auxiliary train had been held up for an hour and a half at Devon yesterday morning before being sent to the scene of the wreck while waiting for a supply of food to be placed on the train for the crew and workmen.

Superintendent R. Z. Walker said that the first special train with two doctors from Fredericton left at 6.46 a. m. That train brought back to Devon the ten cars of the freight which remained on the rails and thus were blocking the way for the auxiliary train to work, arriving at South Devon at 7.25 p. m. The register shows that the auxiliary left for the scene of the wreck at 7.30 a. m., just five minutes later, with another doctor.

"I know there has been considerable criticism and feeling aroused over the circumstances surrounding this regrettable accident," said Mr. Walker, "and the figures which I have just given are facts and can and will be substantiated by the official records. We did everything that was possible to save the lives of our employees and that thought was always uppermost in our minds."

One of the doctors who was called to the scene of the wreck reiterated this morning the statement he had made yesterday that to have amputated Brakeman Estabrooks' leg while he was lying in the water would have meant sure death to him. A good many overseas soldiers declared they had seen amputations successful under more distressing circumstances during the war and it is understood there is considerable difference of opinion in the medical profession as to whether it would not have been wise to have performed the amputation which the unfortunate brakeman implored the doctors to do.

Two Signs.

Sign painters from the Asch Co. of Montreal have been here painting two signs. One, on top of the Arctic Rink, 50 feet long and 12 feet high, draws attention to the fact that R. Chestnut & Sons are the sole agents for the celebrated B-H. Paint for Fredericton and vicinity. This sign will be illuminated, and can readily be seen from Queen street and by people crossing the Fredericton and Devon highway bridge. Another sign has just been completed for the Chestnut Canoe Co. on their warehouse at the C. P. R. yard in this city, and states that the warehouse contains storage for two thousand five hundred canoes and that the above Company is the largest manufacturers of canoes in the British Empire, which latter fact will be news for many Fredericton people.

Recent New Arrivals.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lawson are rejoicing over the arrival of a baby girl at their home on Charlotte street this morning. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Peterson, of Marysville, are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a baby girl at their home yesterday.

L. E. Veniot, who has just completed a vocational training course at Stanger & Harrison's tailor shop, has opened an up to date pressing and cleaning establishment on Regent street, above the Waverly, and is in a position to execute orders promptly and satisfactorily.

F. D. Tweedie, of Woodstock, is registered at the Barker House.

M. D. Stewart, of Sussex, is at the Barker House today.

WILSON THREW ALL PRUDENCE TO WINDS

Washington, May 11. — President Wilson's hitherto unpublished war instructions to the officers of the United States Atlantic fleet given in person on the quarter deck of the flagship Pennsylvania, on August 11, 1917, were made public here today by Secretary of the Navy Daniels.

Mr. Wilson spoke as commander-in-chief of the American Navy and at a time when the German submarine menace was uncurbed.

"Do not stop to think what is prudent for a moment, said the American President. "You will win by the audacity of the method when you cannot win by circumspection and prudence."

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Florence M. Hobbs, who departed this life May 11, 1919.

One year has passed since that sad day,
When our dear Florence was called away;
Her death was so sudden, her death was so sad,
But she now in the robes of the angels is clad.

But oh, how much we miss her,
But we find it hard to say,
We know that He who giveth
Hath a right to take away.
And we never will forget her,
Never will our memory fade;
Flowers of love may bloom forever,
On the grave where dear Florence is laid.

MOTHER.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Florence Maude Hobbs, beloved wife of Leo J. Hobbs, who died May 11, 1919.

Although one year has passed
Since last that great sorrow fell,
Yet in our hearts we mourn the loss,
Of one we loved so well.

God called her home; it was His will,
But in our hearts she liveth still;
Her memory is as clear today,
As in the hour she passed away.

She found a friend in Jesus,
Better than an earthly friend,
And one who was ever near her,
And was with her to the end.

CHANDLER SIX

Famous For Its Marvelous Motor

See How Chandler Checks With High-Priced Cars

THE Chandler Six throughout its seven years of production has been distinguished for its many distinctively superior features of design and equipment which are used also on the highest priced American cars, and not used in any considerable degree by cars now priced hundreds of dollars higher than the Chandler. See, then, how the Chandler checks with ten of the best-known high-priced cars in these features selected as being characteristic of high-grade design and most efficient service.

Superior Chandler Features and the High-Priced Cars that use Them

ONE PIECE ALUMINUM MOTOR BASE, which ties the frame of the car together at four points, thus providing a stiffer frame as well as a more rigid motor mounting. Also used by Packard, Locomobile (Bronze), Mercer, Winton, Fiat, Brewster, Stutz, Pierce-Arrow.

SILENT CHAIN DRIVE for Motor Shafts. Also used by Winton, Packard, Cadillac, Brewster, Fiat, Mercer.

THEN, see how these seven cars—sixes which may be considered competitive to the Chandler—do NOT check

One car, listing at $980 higher than Chandler, checks in only one feature.
One car, listing at $690 higher than Chandler, checks in only three features.
One car, listing at $405 higher than Chandler, checks in only one feature.
One car, listing at $405 higher than Chandler, checks in only two features.
ne car, listing at $100 higher than Chandler, checks in only one feature.
One car, listing at $50 higher than Chandler, checks in only two features.
One car, listing at $255 higher than Chandler, does not check in any feature.

Not a single one of the seven makes of medium-priced Sixes referred to offers you High Tension Magneto Ignition. The Chandler offers you Bosch, recognized the world over as the best ignition system. Only one of them offers you the silent chain drive, although another one of them in its higher-priced model (listing at $1455 more than Chandler) incorporates this feature.

LOCAL BASEBALL DATES ARRANGED

York County League to Open May 24th—John Palmer Co. Team Withdrawn

The Schedule Committee of the York County Baseball League met at the Y. M. C. A. building last evening and arranged a double schedule of games for the League during the coming season. The schedule provided for the beginning of the baseball season with a double header on May 24th and ended on July 22nd. The report of the committee will be handed to the general committee on Thursday evening and should any of the five teams included in the schedule be unable to play on the dates set for them it will be revised accordingly.

The John Palmer Company, having given up all hopes of having Fred McLean re-instated as an amateur, have decided they will not enter a team in the league under the name of John Palmer Company, but will give their support individually to any clubs who desire assistance in players. This action, while it removes a team, and perhaps the only city team in the league which would have had solid financial backing, gives the remaining city teams a chance to add to their strength from among the eligible players who were being signed up. Some talk has been made of an industrial league, but this, it is thought, would detract rather than add to the success of the present organization.

While some few of the representatives of the various teams have expressed themselves in favor of a home and home schedule only, the majority are in favor of the double schedule which would end on or about July 22nd, and would give time for all postponed games to be played following that date. Such a schedule will in all probability be adopted by the meeting of the team representatives on Thursday night.—W. R. H.

The Big Leagues

New York, May 11.—Most of the teams in the major leagues spent yesterday travelling in preparation for the first inter-sectional series. The National League's eastern teams are due to start their first invasion of the west today, while the American League western teams will hit into the east.

In the American League yesterday Harper, of Boston, held the Athletics to two hits in his first start of the season, Boston winning 7 to 1.

Cleveland and St. Louis played a postponed game and Bagby, of the former team, was hard hit but not when hits meant runs and he aided in winning for his team when he turned in a home run for his side, which won 7 to 3.

In the National League, Cooper, of Pittsburg, held Philadelphia to four hits from which only one run was scored. Causey, for Philadelphia, was hard hit in the first two innings and made some wild pitches besides, the westerners winning by a score of 3 to 1.

Fox Stable Going Down Through Maine in Fall

Lewiston Fair's Entry List Reveals His Plan For September

NEPTUNE BOY JOINS STABLE

Harry Nevers, Houlton Trainer, Also Going to Maine State Fair.

Frank Fox will not include the fall fairs in New Brunswick in his campaign on the Maritime and Maine Circuit, according to the latest announcements.

The plans of the Fox stable are evidently to continue on the Maine Fairs circuit after the Houlton Fair, which holds membership in both the Maritime and Maine and the Maine Fairs circuits, and thus race at the Northern Maine Fair at Presque Isle, afterwards following along to the Maine State Fair at Lewiston, instead of racing at either Woodstock or St. Stephen Fairs.

Nevers' Stable There, Too.

These plans are revealed in the announcement of entries for the Maine State Fair races, which also show that Harry Nevers, the Houlton trainer, who was counted upon as sure to have a large stable at the Woodstock Fair, is evilently also going down into the heart of New England for the late racing. Nevers expects to have a big money winning season, but his stable, unless better than last year, will have all the excitemnt it wants right Down East—the Zom Q.—Fern Hall race at Woodstock to wit.

New Trotter in Fox Stable.

Incidentally the Fox stable have an additional member in the Mainleaf trotter, Neptune Boy, 2.23¼, which has been bought by Austin L. Baker, of Boston, and put in the veteran's stable.

Bernard Austin, writing in the Boston Herald yesterday, has the following on the new member of the stable:

"Yesterday was the first time that Frank Fox, the Combination Park trainer, has missed a Sunday dinner in a long while, the reason therefor being that he passed a busy day showing visitors a "new one" which arrived bright and early yesterday morning.

"Neptune Boy, the name of the latest addition to the Fox outfit, was bought a few days ago from George R. Russell, of Lake George N. Y., A. L. Baker, of Boston, being the man for whom the veteran trainer acted in the deal.

"Neptune Boy is a four-year-old trotter by Mainleaf, 2.08¼, sire of that sterling trotter, Forest B., 2.10¼, which has been such a constant breadwinner for Ed Gillies for the past two years, while the dam of the colt produced, among others, the pacer, Peter Neptune, 2.09¼.

"Fox's new pupil started a few times in the three-year-old events last season, taking a winning race record of 2.23¼ at the Rutland fair, but his best performance probably was at Malone, N. Y., where he was second to C. W. Lasell's unbeaten youngster, Henry Mac, 2.16¼."

The Lewiston Stakes.

James Butler, secretary of the Maine State Fair, has announced entry to spring closing events to be raced at Lewiston Sept. 14-17. He is particularly pleased with the list of nominations made in the $1,000 purse for Maine owned and trained 2.30 trotters, which are as follows, the horses to be named June 1:

Pine Tree Stake—H. R. Bearce & Co., Skowhegan; J. S. Butler, Lewiston; G. N. Eveleth, Auburn; H. N. Gould, Farmington; A. E. Russell, Lewiston; William C. Pullen, Walnut Hill; H. A. Nevers, Houlton; A. J. Dunton, Bath; F. D. Barr, Winthrop; John Ruggles, Carmel; Walter A. Bradford, Strong; H. Crossman, South Portland; L. S. Mumis, Casco; C. C. Mayberry, Casco; P. H. Stewart, Brunswick; C. W. Day, Skowhegan; Albert L. Wells, West Farmington; J. W. Pottle, Portland; Thomas McNamara ('Two Mounts'), Lewiston; George W. Bachelder, Rockland; S. A. Bragdon, Springvale; Ernest P. Piper, Belfast.

Frank Fox, the Medford trainer, and Joe Johnson, of Readville, have nominations in all the other classes.

Only three owners named in the 2.12 pace and this event has been declared off, to be replaced by a late closing 2.10 pace for $500.

New Pacer for Aroostook

Prospective horses for the Maritime and Maine Shortship Circuit keep on appearing on the harness racing horizon.

The Boston Globe of yesterday announces that Albert H. Merrill, of Danvers, Mass., has sold Dixon S., 2.11 1-4, to E. W. MacBurney, of Presque Isle, Me.

Canada Provides Another Harness Racing Sensation For Grand Circuit Honors

Calgary Earl, 2.03¾, Expected to Be One of the Headliners in the Richest Stakes of 1920 for Which He Is Now in Training

[American Horse Breeder.]

Canada has contributed to harness horse history some of the greatest of its stake pacers, and this year furnishes another candidate for honors among the sidewheel brigade in the chestnut stallion, Calgary Earl, 2.02¾ bred in western Canada but purchased last winter by an Illinois horseman and now being prepared at the Indianapolis track, for a trip through the Grand Circuit. The stallion was a good winner in the West last year, but it was at the Lexington meeting last fall that he showed the form which made him look to be a candidate for championship honors and caused his sale to his present owner for a long price.

While Calgary Earl was raced and trained last season by the Canadian driver, John Keener, it was the lanky Hoosier reinsman, "Sep" Palin, who was behind him at Lexington when he showed a couple of miles better than 2.02 in a race in which he was a contender, but did not win. That he didn't top the summary was lucky for his owner; for he would have taken a record which would have condemned him to the free-for-all class, in which the chances of earning big money are not the brightest. As it stands, he is eligible to the majority of the rich Grand Circuit strikes, and any pacer which has shown as much as has the horse from the near Arctice regions must be given serious consideration.

Palin purchased Calgary Earl for Robert Burgess, a resident of Illinois, who for years has been famous as an importer of heavy draft horses, but of late has been investing in the more fascinating, if less utilitarian, light-harness horse breed. It was for him that Palin raced the little white-faced pacing mare, Eva Abbe, last season, a mare which won on the Grand Circuit and in a stake race at Columbus won a heat in 2.03 from the season's leading stake winner, Direct C. Burnett, 2.01¼. It was in a race against the last-named pacer that Calgary Earl showed so well at Lexington.

A Son of Earl, Jr., 2.04½.

If Calgary Earl turns out to be anywhere near as good a race horse as his sire he will prove a profitable investment for his present owner. He is a son of that old grey warrior, Earl, Jr., 2.01½, prominent on the Grand Circuit a decade ago, and which was still racing last season, taking in the free-for-all classes on the half-mile tracks of Maine. As a season-after-season campaigner there is but one pacer to be compared to Earl, Jr., the Indiana stallion, Single G., which has it on the grey warrior in point of speed, but still has a considerable way to go in point of continuous service.

Earl, Jr., raced as a three-year-old in 1908 in the West, and the following season was purchased by Walter Cox. The Yankee reinsman started him at the Buffalo meeting over the Fort Erie track, where he fell down and he only started a time or two afterwards that season. At that time he was a freelegged horse, but when he appeared the following season Cox had decked him out with a set of hopples. His first notable victory was in a split-heat race at Kalamazoo against a rather homely-looking, but dead game, Indiana product named Peter Pan. From that time on Earl, Jr., was a star of the first water. He engaged in a series of especially brilliant duels with the great Cleveland mare, Evelyn W., 2.00½, and was raced in the big ring classes by Cox for several seasons.

Sired at Calgary.

After passing from the Cox stable Earl, Jr., was in the stable of a half-dozen different trainers, for all of whom he raced well, and the old horse is said to have a race or two left under his harness yet in spite of the fifteen years and twelve seasons on the turf. He was wintered the season of 1911-1912 in Calgary, where he sired Calgary Earl.

If Calgary Earl makes good he will be but one of many pacers coming from Canada and winning fame on this side of the border. The Dominion has not been noted for the production of great trotters, but in the pacing line it holds up its end nobly. Among the noted sidewheelers which have been owned or bred there may be mentioned Frank Bogash, Jr., 1.59¼, who won the $5,000 Chamber of Commerce stake at Detroit in 1913, and also took his record over the Michigan State Fair track, the fastest mile ever negotiated there; Angus Pointer, 2.01¾, a free-for-all star more than a dozen years ago; Joe Patchen, II., 2.03¼, which won the 1912 Chamber of Commerce and lost but one race on the Grand Circuit; Vernon McKinney, 2.02¼, another Chamber of Commerce stake winner; The Eel, 2.02¼, one of the greatest race pacers which ever looked through a bridle; Louis Grattan, 2.02¼, a 1919 star; Merry Widow, 2.03¾, and many others.

U. N. B. SPORTS THIS AFTERNOON

Although College Field and the quarter mile track are not in the best condition, owing to the downpour of rain last evening and Sunday, the annual U. N. B. track and field meet is being held this afternoon.

There are thirteen events on the programme, but it was stated this morning that owing to the heavy track conditions there was little chance of any of the standing records being broken.

The following is the programme of events for the afternoon with the present record holders and records:

100 yards dash—Kuhring and Binney, 10.4 seconds.

220 yards dash—Murray and Binney, 24 secs.

440 yards dash—Johnston, 55.4 secs.

Mile run—Melrose, 4.54 mins.

Broad jump—Baird, 21 feet 8.25 inches.

High jump—Vince, 5 feet 6 inches.

Pole vault—Kuhring, 10 feet 2.75 inches.

Hammer throw—McKenzie, 107 feet 6 inches.

Shot put—Baird, 37 feet 9.5 inches.

Standing broad jump—McKenzie, 10 feet 4 inches.

Hop, step and jump—Ryan, 45 feet 9.5 inches.

The officials for this afternoon are Dr. C. C. Jones, Prof. Adam Cameron, G. A. Taylor and C. H. Cochrane.

Heated discussions often cause coldnesses between friends.

PROVINCIAL FERRY SERVICE REJECTED

St. John, May 10.—The offer made by the Provincial Government at its last meeting to authorize an increase in passenger and team fares by the steamer Maggie Miller has been rejected by Captain White on behalf of the shareholders on the grounds that the increase is not sufficient to warrant them in resuming the service this year between Milledgeville and the Kingston Peninsula. The subsidy has been $2,500 a year and the government has been paying the fares of bona fide residents, amounting to about $2,000 a year additional. In consequence of the refusal, arrangements were made this morning with Lewis Keith to operate a motor-boat passenger service and, if necessary, a freight boat service at the usual fare for non-residents with free passage for residents of the peninsula.

Honest, now, doesn't it tickle you to have other men try on your hat and find it too large for them?

IN DAYS OF TERROR

The young man opened his cloak, when an epaulet was visible, glistening on his military costume.

"I am an officer," said he, "as you can see."

"Officer! In what?"

"In the Civic Guard."

"Well, what of that?" replied one of the troop. "What do we know here of the Civic Guard?"

'What is that he says?" asked another man (in a drawling and ironical tone peculiar to a man of the people, or rather of the Parisian populace), beginning to be angry.

"He says," replied the young man, "that if the epaulet cannot command respect for the officer, the sword shall command respect for the epaulet."

At the same time making a retrograde movement, the unknown defender of the young woman had disengaged his arm from the folds of his mantle, and drawn from beneath it, sparkling by the glimmer of a lamp, a large infantry sabre. Then with a rapid movement which displayed his familiarity with similar scenes of violence, seized the chief of the Volunteers by the collar of his blouse, and placing the point of the sabre to his throat, "Now," said he, "let us speak like friends."

"But, citizen," said the chief, endeavoring to free himself.

"I warn you, that the slightest movement made, either by you or any of your men, I pass my sabre through your body."

During this time two men belonging to the troop retained their hold of the woman.

"You have asked who I am," continued the young man, "which you had no right to do, since you not command a regular patriot. However, I will inform you. My name is Maurice Lindey; I commanded a body of artillerymen on the 10th August, am now lieutenant in the National Guards, and secretary to the section of Brothers and Friends. Is that sufficient?"

"Well, Citizen Lieutenant," replied the chief, still menaced with the blade, the point of which he felt pressing more and more, "this is quite another thing. If you are really what you say, that is a good patriot—"

"There, I knew we should soon understand each other," said the officer. "Now, in your turn, answer me; why did this woman call out, and what are you doing with her?"

"We are taking her to the guard house."

'And why are you taking her there?"

'Because she has no civic pass, and the last decree of the Commune ordered the arrest of any and every individual appearing in the streets of Paris without one after ten o'clock at night. Do you forget the country is in danger, and that the Black Flag floats over l'Hotel de Ville?"

"The black flag floats over l'Hotel de Ville, and the country is in danger, because two hundred thousand slaves march against France," replied the officer, "and not because a woman runs through the streets of Paris after ten o'clock at night. But never mind, citizens. There is a decree of the Commune, it is true, and you only did your duty; and if you had answered me at once, or explanation might have been a much shorter, and probably a less stormy one. It is well to be a patriot, but equally so to be polite; and the first officer whom the citizens ought to respect, is he, it seems to me, whom they themselves appointed. In the meantime, release that woman, if you please. You are at liberty to depart."

'Oh! citizen," cried she, seizing the arm of Maurice (having listened to the whole of this debate with the most intense anxiety), 'Oh! citizen, do not abandon me to the mercy of these rude and half-drunken men.'

'Well, then," said Maurice, 'take my arm, and I will conduct you with them as far as the Poste."

"To the Poste!" exclaimed the terrified woman, 'and why to the Poste, when I have injured no on?"

"You are taken to the Poste," replied Maurice, "not because you have done any wrong, or because you are considered capable of so doing, but on account of the decree issued by the Commune, forbidding any one to go out without a pass; and you have none."

'But, monsieur, I was ignorant of it."

"Citoyenne, you will find at the Poste brave and honorable men, who will fully appreciate your reasons, and from whom you have nothing to fear.'

'Monsieur," said the young woman, pressing Maurice's arm, "it is no longer insult that I fear, it is death; if they conduct me to the Poste, I am lost."

CHAPTER II.

The Unknown.

There was in this voice an accent of so much terror, mingled with superiority, that Maurice was startled. Like a stroke of electricity, this vibrating voice had touched his heart. He turned towards the enrolled volunteers, who were talking among themselves. Humiliated at having been held in check by a single individual, they were now consulting together with the visible intention of regaining their lost ground. They were eight against one; three were armed with guns, the remainder with pistols and pikes. Maurice wore only his sabre. The contest could not be an equal one. Even the woman comprehended this, as she held down her head, and uttered a deep sigh.

As to Maurice, with his brows knitted, his lip disdainfully curled, and his sabre drawn from its scabbard, he stood irresolute, fluctuating between the sentiments of a man and a citizen, the one urging him to protect this woman, the other counselling him to give her up. All at once, at the corner of La Rue des Bons-Enfans, he saw the reflection of several muskets, and heard also the measured tread of a patrol, who, preceiving a crowd, halted within a few paces of the group, and, through the corporal, demanded, 'Who goes there?"

"A friend," said Maurice. "A friend! Advance, Louis!"

He to whom this order was addressed, placed himself at the head of his eight men, and quickly approached.

"Is it you, Maurice?" said the corporal. 'Ah, libertine! what are you doing in the streets at this hour?"

'You see, I am going to the section of Brothers and Friends."

'Yes; to visit that of sisters and friends. We know all about that.

"Ah, listen, ma Belle,
When the dusk midnight hour
The church-bell shall toll,
I will haste to thy bower,
To thy side I will steal,
Spite of bolts and of bars,
And my love will reveal,
'Neath the light of the stars.
"Is it not so?"

"No, mon ami; you are mistaken. I was on my way home when I discovered this citoyenne struggling in the hands of these citizen volunteers, and ran to inquire why they wished to detain her."

"It is just like you," said Louis. Then turning towards the volunteers, "Why did you stop this woman?" inquired the poetical corporal.

"I have already told the lieutenant,' replied the chief of the little troop, "because she had no pass."

"Bah! bah!" said Louis, "a great crime, certainly."

"Are you then ignorant of the decree of the Commune," demanded the chief of the volunteers.

"Yes; but there is another clause which has anulled that—which—listen—

"On Pindus and Parnassus, it is decreed by Love,
That beauty's witching face,
That youth and fairy grace,
Without a pass, by day or night, may through the city rove."

TAXICAB STRIKE AT PARIS TODAY

Paris, May 10.—Leon Jouhaux, master of the French Federation of Labor, has failed apparently to strengthen the movement for nationalization of public utilities by ordering a strike on transportation lines, subways and tramways in Paris. At ten o'clock this forenoon omnibuses were going about as usual, but there were only a few cabs seen.

Frequent clashes occurred during the forenoon between taxicab drivers, who were ready to run their machines, and strikers. Tramways were working regularly, but remained within the walls of Paris and did not enter the suburbs.

ST. JOHN RIVER AT HIGHEST PITCH YET THIS SPRING

Water Is Now 15 Feet 8 Inches Above Summer Level at Fredericton

PRECARIOUS SITUATION OF LOGS IN BOOMS HERE

Millions of Feet of Lumber In Booms and Doubtful If They Will Hold

The water in the St. John river here is now 15 feet 8 inches above summer level, which is the highest pitch that it has reached this year—being some inches higher than when the ice run occurred.

The sudden raise in the water has been caused by two heavy rainfalls this week—that on Sunday amounting to .68 of an inch while last night .70 of an inch fell—combined with some of the mildest weather of the spring

Although there has not yet been any material damage caused grave fears are expressed as to whether the booms of the St. John River Log Driving Company both above and below Fredericton can withstand the strain of the freshet and the heavy on-rush of logs.

An exceptionally heavy run of logs has been caused by the sudden return to freshet conditions and millions of feet of lumber now stored in the booms today were admitted to be "in a precarious position.'

There are not so many logs running today but the freshet has reached such a height that the company have been compelled to allow their upper sheer boom, which turned the logs into the Sugar Island and Douglas booms, to be idle, which means that the full run of logs must now run by Fredericton with the Mitchell boom, six miles below here, counted upon to hold them.

A report from the upper St. John river this afternoon said the water had ceased rising at Fort Kent, Me., but was now 22 feet above summer level there. The changed conditions had brought the drives on the upper St. John river along with a great rush.

So far as can be learned the Nashwaak Pulp and Paper Company will not actually lose any of their logs by the breaking of their booms on the Nashwaak river on Sunday night, but a large quantity of their lumber has run out into the main river and will now have to be rafted at the St. John River Log Driving Company's Mitchell booms, where it is now held. These monetary losses, however, in the wrecking of piers and other plant on the Nashwaak river will amount to a good many thousands of dollars.

Flour Prices Went Up $1.45 a Barrel Today

Following the intimation of advancing prices yesterday it was announced this morning that flour prices had gone up $1.45 per barrel, making the retail quotation $16.45 in barrels.

Local dealers said they did not look for a reduction in prices until the new crop was available, which would be about November, and declared that advices from the West indicated such poor early crop prospects that it was doubtful if there would be any reduction even at that time.

HOUSES SHAKEN BY STORM LAST NIGHT

Heavy Fall of Hailstones, Too, and Lightning Played Some Pranks Here

Houses in Fredericton were shaken as if by a seismetic disturbance during the season's first electrical storm last evening and the ground was afterwards covered with hailstones which fell during the second stage of the shower shortly before dark.

The lightning was of a very vivid character and appeared to strike nearby, but, so far as could be learned today, there was no damage done beyond the fact that a number of electric light fuses in stores and dwellings were blown out, particularly on Carleton street. At the Imperial Restaurant two electrict lights in one dining room were blown out, but no other damage occurred.

Ronald Hill, a Crippled Boy of Nashwaaksis, Fell This Morning and Broke His Leg.

Ronald Hill, the ten year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hill, of Nashwaaksis, fell in the schoolyard this morning and fractured his left leg just above the knee.

Ronald, who is a cripple, has had to use crutches, and this morning while engaging in some fun in the school yard with his companions, tripped and fell, fracturing the left leg just above the knee. He was picked up and taken to the store of Fred Seymour and Dr. Holden called, who rendered the necessary medical assistance and he was later brought to the hospital, where he is doing as well as can be expected.

A. J. Taylor, of Houlton, is a guest today at the Queen Hotel.

First Train Passed Over the Bridge Across the Nashwaak At 8 O'clock This Morning

General Supt. L. S. Brown Says Locomotive Will Be Raised Today

TWO INVESTIGATIONS ARE BEING COMMENCED

Official Statements Issued by C. N. R. Officials Today Regarding the Wreck

The Canadian National Railways were able to resume through traffic over the Canada Eastern division this morning as a result of repairs having been effected at the bridge over the Nashwaak river north of Marysville, where the approach slumped yesterday morning plunging a locomotive, tender and two freight cars loaded with pulp over the embankment and costing the lives of two trainmen.

General Superintendent L. S. Brown made the trip here from Moncton by special train as soon as he received advice of the accident, arriving early yesterday afternoon, and he at once took charge of the situation. He brought a party of civil engineers with him and by working a crew with a ditching machine all night the approach to the bridge was sufficiently repaired for the first passenger train to pass over it shortly after 8 o'clock this morning.

The first through train passing over the bridge since the accident was therefore the express, which should have left here this morning at 6 o'clock, all passengers, mails, etc., yesterday having been transferred around the scene of the wreck. The express was followed by the way-freight train for Newcastle and it was said that before night trains would be running practically on schedule time again. Meanwhile both the railway officials and Dr. B. M. Mullin, of Devon, the coroner, are getting plans prepared for investigation into the circumstances surrounding the wreck, and it was intimated today that the family of the late John T. Estabrooks, the brakeman who died under such distressing circumstances after being pinned under the wreckage for about four hours, would have counsel present when the coroner's inquest takes place.

Locomotive 91, which made the fatal plunge, was still in the Nashwaak river this morning, but General Superintendent Brown said that a big 120-ton crane was being brought from Moncton and it was expected that the locomotive would be raised early this afternoon and placed back on the rails again. He also said that it was the intention to have additional foundation provided for the approaches of the bridge across the Nashwaak where the accident took place, and that the engineers would remain on the work until it had been completed, so that

Funerals of Victims Take Place Tomorrow

The body of Driver F. J. Gillis, which was recovered from the Nashwaak river about noon yesterday, was brought here to be prepared for burial and last night the remains were sent to Newcastle, where the funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The funeral of Brakeman John T. Estabrooks will take place here tomorrow afternoon from his late residence on King street. Rev. J. B. Daggett will conduct the funeral services at the house at 1 p. m. and the remains will be taken to Penniac for interment.

Poles Strike Mighty Blow At Bolshevik Supremacy In Southern Part of Russia

Poles Widen Offensive and Cross the Beresina River

ODESSA SAID TO BE CAPTURED

Capture of Towns on Bug River, North of Odessa is Reported.

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Warsaw, May 12.—Polish and Ukrainian forces have struck a mighty blow at the Russian Bolshevik front far north of Kiev, and have driven the enemy back along the Beresina river. Betchitsa, an important Dnieper river crossing, has been captured and serious losses have been inflicted on the soviet army. Fighting is now going on over a front of approximately 420 miles.

Necessity of straightening the Polish line after the capture of Kiev is said to have led to the new offensive, which extends from almost directly west of Vitebsk to below Kiev on the Dnieper. Polish forces have crossed the Beresina river at several points and have taken Wielatisch after heavy fighting.

Northeast of Mazir the Bolshevik have been forced across the Dnieper. Attempts were made by the enemy to destroy the railroad bridge at Betchisa, but Polish units prevented this move and captured a large number of prisoners. Announcement is made that two soviet regiments were annihilated in the fighting around this town.

From Kiev northward to the mouth of the Pripet river, a distance of about fifty miles, the Bolshevik on the west side of the Dnieper are slowly falling back and are building bridges before the main body of the Polish army reaches the stream.

Latest advices indicate the Bolshevik have been driven back out of the Kiev bridgehead. Before this retirement was forced heavy artillry fire was maintained on Kiev often taking the form of a barrage, intended, apparently, to prevent the Poles and Ukrainians from bringing up reinforcements and supplies.

Terror Prevails in Kiev.

Terror prevailed among the popl o

Terror prevailed among the people in the city during the bombardment, the sound of shells passing overhead toward the roads leading into Kiev from the west causing consternation when shells were not bursting in the streets.

Capture of Odessa, the most important Russian port on the Black Sea, is reported.

Official advices of the taking of the city have not as yet been received, the communiques dealing with events of some days ago, apparently, as they tell of the capture of Tultschin and Bratzlau, on the Bug river, some distance north of Odessa.

The Capture of Odessa.

Paris, May 12.—Confirmation of the reports that Odessa, Russia's most important outlet on the Black Sea, had been occupied by the troops of General Petlura, the Ukrainian commander, has been received by the Ukrainian press bureau here, that bureau declared today.

STEAMER SERVICE TO WEST AFRICA

Montreal, May 12.—The new service between Montreal and West Africa will be inaugurated by the steamer Melville of the Elder Dempster Company, which is expected to arrive here about May 25. With the arrival of the Fantee of the same company here yesterday the service between Montreal and South Africa has commenced for the season, the Fantee being due to sail about May 20.

The Gunborg of the Furness Withy Company was reported today and is expected to arrive at the week end. This ship will inaugurate the new Montreal-Sweden line, sailing from here for Gothenburg about May 22.

The Armenians Displace Khatitian And Establish a Soviet Government At Erivan, the Capital of Country

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 12—A local Soviet Government has been established in Erivan, capital of Armenia, displacing that of President Khatitian, according to a despatch received by the Armenian Patriarchate here.

The Russian Bolshevik Forces Demand Permission to Cross Armenia to Asiatic Turkey

Soviet Forces Intend to Co-operate With the Turkish Nationalist Movement of Mustapha Kemal—The Armenian President Rejected Demand and Displaced

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Constantinople, May 12.—Russian Bolshevik forces in Azerbaijan recently demanded that Armenia surrender Karabagh and permit them the liberty to freely cross Armenia to Asiatic Turkey, where they intend to co-operate with Mustapha Kemal, leader of the Turkish Nationalist movement.

This demand was rejected by President Khatitian, but soviet committees in Erivan protested and mustered sufficient power to oust the Khatitian government.

While the Russian Bolshevik in Azerbaijan are comparatively few in numbers, they have formed an organization which seems to be effective.

While the republic of Georgia has so far resisted pressure from the soviet, it is expected to surrender in a short time, as it has oil supplies sufficient for only six weeks.

To Spare Lives of Prisoners.

London, May 12.—Russian Bolshevik authorities have agreed to spare the lives of soldiers captured from General Denekine's army in southern Russia, and those of other anti-soviet troops who may in future be taken prisoner. A note to this effect was today received by British officials in answer to appeals sent to Moscow by this country during the past fortnight.

Suggestion is made in the Bolshevik note that the British government negotiate with Bolshevik representatives, preferrably those now in Copenhagen, regarding final disposition of men captured in the fighting against General Denekine, and also relative to resumption of trade relations between the two countries.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Newark, N. J., May 12.—A city playground was being converted today into a tent colony to shelter more than 100 families who are being evicted tonight. Forty-one families, each with from four to six children, last night had applied for space.

Work of laying floors and water mains and stringing electric light wires was being rushed by workmen, assisted by soldiers from the local recruiting stations. Army field kitchens will be placed at the four corners of the camp and the colony will cook on the community basis.

PROOF OF MESSAGES FROM SPIRIT LAND

Sir Oliver Lodge Tells Montreal Audience That It Took 20 Years to Convince Him

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Montreal, May 12.—The cult of spiritism had one of its most prominent advocates last night in the person of Sir Oliver Lodge, when a large audience gathered to hear his second lecture in this city on the "Evidences of Survival."

The lecturer dealt to a large extent with stories of messages from the other side of existence and affirmed his conviction in regard to the survival of the personal entity. Sir Oliver said it had taken twenty years to convince him, though he had arrived at his conclusions thirty years ago. He believed his audience would accept the evidence he had to offer, even though they might doubt the proofs. To his mind it amounted to proof, not in any one particular, but the whole bulk of it.

As to mediums, he said there were people who thought they had the mediumistic faculty though they have not, as there were people who thought they had the musical faculty, though they have not, "and in both cases you want to get as far away from such people as you can."

THE GERMAN CONFERENCE POSTPONED

The German and Allied Representatives Will Not Meet at Spa Until Late in June

GERMAN OFFICIALS TO BE PLACED ON TRIAL

New List of Germans Accused of Violations of Rules of War Presented

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Berlin, May 12.—Decision to postpone the conference between Allied and German representatives at Spa, Belgium, until late in June, has been reached, according to the Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung. The meeting was to have been held on May 25.

Germany Appraises Damage.

Berlin, May 12. — Germany has made an independent appraisal of damage done in devastated districts of France and Belgium, and has incorporated her findings in a detailed memorial which will be presented to Allied representatives immediately, according to a statement issued today.

German Officials for Trial.

Berlin, May 12.—Men accused of acts of inhumanity are named in the new list of Germans accused of violations of the laws of war which has been presented to the government by Allied nations.

Among them are four U-Boat commanders said to have torpedoed hospital ships, General Stenger, who is alleged to have ordered that wounded prisoners be shot, and officers who carried out that command. Field Marshal Von Buelow, commander of the second army, General Von Below, General Von Langemann, Prince Ernst of Saxony and General Kruska, commander at the Kaiser prison camp, are charged with spreading germs of typhus, while General Von Oven, former Governor of Metz, General Scoultz, camp commander at Hohenraza, General Huff, and Dr. Michelson are charged with killing, ill-treating and robbing prisoners Demand is made that they be brought before the supreme court at Leipzig.

Discuss German Situation.

Paris, May 12.—The council of Ambassadors today devoted most of its session to a discussion of Germany's reported failure to comply with the term of the treaty of Versailles regarding commercial matters, the council considering charges of discrimination and obstructive manoeuvres against certain countries.

The question was left over for further consideration.

It was decided that the Danube Commission should meet in June, probably in Vienna, with representatives present from countries along the Danube that have already signed treaties of peace.

Germany, Bulgaria and possibly Turkey will be made members at the second session, the date of which has not been fixed.

SAYS U. S. ENEMIES SUPPORT JOHNSON

Dr. Atkinson Says Johnson Represents All the Elements of Disloyalty in Country

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Washington, May 12.—Dr. Henry A. A. Atkinson, of Boston, addressing the Southern Sociological Congress last night, attacked the candidacy of Senator Hiram Johnson for the Republican presidential nomination, declaring that "Johnson represents all the forces and elements of disloyalty that fought the United States during the war." Such elements, he asserted, had rallied behind Johnson because of his attacks on the peace treaty, the League of Nations, and President Wilson.

"To a man they are supporting him," the speaker continued, "because they believe that by voting for Johnson they are getting revenge upon American Government, and most of all upon its executive head.

"They are not all pro-German, but every pro-German in the country is a Johnson supporter. I have just returned from a trip across the country. Everywhere I went I discovered the same group of disloyalists who did all they could to impede America's progress in the war, who rejoiced when the Lusitania was sunk, are solidly back of Johnson."

France to Grow Enough Wheat to Feed Herself

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

PARIS, May 12—So good is the French crop outlook for this year that agricultural experts believe the wheat harvest will come close to meeting the nation's full requirements for the following year. This improvement as compared with last year is due in some extent to the increased use of motor driven farm equipment.

The Department of Agriculture estimates that the acreage which has been sown with wheat should produce 26,000,000 bushels, leaving only about 3,700,000 bushels to be imported. Last year the home crop was so small that 13,000,000 bushels had to be imported.

The bumper crop is expected to save France no less than six billion francs and may even have a noticeably favorable effect on the exchange situation.

President Wilson Would Have Risked Allied Navies in Bold Attacks on German Sea Bases

The American President Was Not Satisfied With the Way the British Admiralty Directed the Navy and Wanted American Naval Experts to Direct Campaign

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Washington, May 12.—A confidential cablegram from President Wilson to Rear Admiral Sims in London, sent during the war, was read to the United States Senate Naval Investigating Committee today by Secretary Daniels. It disclosed the fact that the American President was not at all satisfied with the way the British Admiralty was directing the work of the British navy, and also indicated that Mr. Wilson could not understand why the naval experts of Great Britain were reluctant to allow the American naval experts in Washington to tell them just how things should be done. Mr. Wilson intimated that he considered the British naval men too prudent and expressed surprise that "the British Admiralty had failed to use Great Britain's great naval superiority effectively against the submarines."

He called on Admiral Sims for comments and suggestions, "based on independent thought" and without regard to "judgments of any one on that side of the water."

The Admiralty was "helpless to the point of panic" in the face of the submarine situation, was Mr. Wilson's opinion as expressed in the message.

Not a Time for Prudence.

"Every plan we suggest they reject for some reason of prudence," the American President added. "In my view this is not a time for prudence but for boldness, even at the cost of great losses."

In conclusion, President Wilson asked Admiral Sims to advise him as he would give advice, "if you were running a navy of your own."

Admiral Sims' reply, said Secretary Daniels, who presented the President's message in connection with his answer to Sims' charges against the United States navy department's conduct of the war, was "a long telegram of generalities of what the British Admiralty was doing."

Mr. Daniels also read a letter from Admiral Sims to former Ambassador Page at London, written Aug. 7, 1917, which in part said:

"In this connection I have a suggestion to make. I have received word, practically directly from the President, that he was much displeased with my reply to his cablegram; that it did not change his opinion at all; that he regards me as owned by the Admiralty and so pro-British that he seriously considered the advisability of replacing me by some other officer."

Combined Sea and Land Attack.

Admiral Sims' reply to the President told also of plans for a combined sea and land attack to turn the German right flank and cut off Zeebrugge as a provisioning base, Mr. Daniels said.

"That was the kind of 'bold and audacious thing' the President and the Navy Department had been urging from entry into the war," declared the Secretary. "But even then, Admiral Sims said, it had not been definitely decided on the war council through the daring and successful attack on Zeebrugge came much later. It might have been a very different story if it had been undertaken earlier when the Navy Department was urging some such bold plan, all of which Admiral Sims thought 'impracticable' when urged by the Navy Department.

"He added," the Secretary continued, "that we should adopt an organization similar in all respects to the British squadron and virtually transfer all naval authority to his headquarters in London. He was careful not to say, though he regarded the Queenstown base and surroundings as 'the critical area,' that as rapidly as American destroyers arrived the British destroyers were removed to another area, although he now makes the preposterous statement that the failure to have more destroyers in that critical area (we had 34 at that time out of our total of 50) occasioned the loss of 500,000 lives and fifteen billion dollars of money."

Under British Influences.

Admiral Sims was "under the spell of influences that made him believe that the British Government could be depended upon more to take care of America than that America should depend upon her own strong right arm," said Mr. Daniels.

"This attitude of acceptance of everything British," he added, "undoubtedly accounts for his opposition to the creation of an independent American army, and his idea that American troops sent abroad should be used as an annex to the British army, quoting General Bliss as recommending the policy. When General Bliss read that Admiral Sims had quoted him as advocating such a policy he wrote at once to the Secretary of War declaring the truth to be exactly the reverse."

FAINTED WHEN HE DISCOVERED LOSS

New York Auctioneer Had His Pocket Picked and $12,500 Abstracted Therefrom

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York, May 12.—The sudden clang of a motorman's gong cost David Gerstein, an auctioneer, $12,500 in cash yesterday. Gerstein, who had just withdrawn the money to invest in stock for auction, still was thinking of the Going, going," and then "gone," the money was gone. A petulant motorman's clang of his bell startled Gerstein into doing a hasty one-step to safety and in his excitement the package containing the money was jerked from his pocket, along with his hand. When Gerstein discovered his loss on reaching the sidewalk, he fell in a faint. He was revived at a hospital where he made known the cause of his collapse.

Detectives are now searching for the person who picked up the package.

UNIQUE PLEA FOR FRENCH LANGUAGE

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Ottawa, May 12.—In discussion of the amendments to the franchise bill which would provide for the use of French and English languages in printing election proclamations, Lucien Cannon (Dorchester, Que.), in the House of Commons last night made the following remark:

"It is well known that most of the difficulties at the peace conference came from the fact that Mr. Wilson was not properly educated and did not know the French language. The language which was good enough for Marshal Foch to use in giving the final orders of the war should pass anywhere."

FOLLOW CLUE IN DOUBLE MURDER

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York, May 12.—Counterfeit fifty cent pieces, alleged to have been found in the possession of Vito Grillo, a laborer, last night resulted in als arrest on a charge of homicide in connection with the double murder of the Vultaggio brothers. Similar counterfeit coins are said to have been found in the rooms in which the men were slain. Grillo refused to make any statement.

ALL DAY BATTLE WITH 4,000 OF CARRANZISTS

The Carranza Force Virtually Surrounded by Rebels Under General Hill

FAIL TO DISLODGE THE LOYAL TROOPS

Rebel Reinforcements Marching to Scene to Prevent the Escape of Carranza

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Vera Cruz, May 12—President Venustiane Carranza's army of four thousand men, virtually surrounded by rebel forces commanded by Generals Hill and Trevino, is fighting a desperate battle between San Marcos, Puebla and the village of Huamantla, ten miles northwest, in the state of Tlaxcala, according to advices received here. The struggle went on all day yesterday and, according to latest reports, the Carranza forces have not yet been dislodged.

Rebel reinforcements, under command of Gen. Porras, have been ordered up from Cordoba, and have taken up positions at San Andres and Chalchicomula, southeast of the scene of the battle, probably for the purpose of preventing the escape of Carranza, should he succeed in breaking through the lines thrown around him.

Reports state the Carranza forces are entrenched along the Mexican national railroad.

Gen. Aguilar, son-inlaw of President Carranza and Governor of the state of Vera Cruz, has abandoned all chance of escape from the country by making an effort to join his superior and share in his fate, says a despatch to El Dictamen.

Paul H. Foster, American consul here, has reported to the State Department at Washington that conditions are returning to normal, that the lives and property of foreigners have not been molested and that there is no reason for retaining United States warships in Mexican waters, where they may cause friction.

May Give Up Matamoros.

Brownsville, Texas, May 12.—An agreement may be reached whereby the revolutionists will gain control of Matamoros, the last large town in this section of Mexico under control of President Carranza, it was reported from reliable sources in Matamoros late last night.

It is said there is a general desire of army officers in Matamoros to avoid a conflict between the federal troops and the revolutionists and in some quarters an agreement by Saturday has been predicted.

APPLAUD ACTION FRENCH MINISTRY

The Government Urged to Follow Up Energetically Dissolution of Federation

Paris, May 12.—Decision of the cabinet to initiate proceedings against the General Federation of Labor with a view to bringing about the dissolution of that organization is approved strongly by the newspapers of this city, with the exception of the Socialist organs. Many journals declare Premier Millerand "cannot be suspected of hostility to unionism," and assert the action of the cabinet calls to the attention of the General Federation of Labor that "by respect of the law only can a great danger which is threatening the country and workers be averted."

The government is urged energetically to follow up its action of yesterday, but the Matin doubts the existence of a law by which dissolution of the Federation can be enforced.

Transportation conditions throughout the city today were virtually the same as they were yesterday.

MOVIE ENGINEERS MEET

Montreal, May 12.—Heads of the largest industries in the United States gathered at the Windsor Hotel last night at the semi-anual meeting of the society of motion picture engineers in the first convention of the society held in Canada.

Woman Dropped Dead From Shock Over a Tragic Death

The Woman Went to Visit a Friend Who Had Been Struck by a Train and Was Horrified to Find Her Laid Out in a Casket at Her Home

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Mrs. Murray died of injuries received when she was struck by a train. Mrs. Strain had called to inquire as to her condition. The family, assuming that she knew of the death, led her to the casket without enlightening her.

PLEADED GUILTY TO STEALING AUTO

Herbert Dean Remanded at St. John for Sentence—Two Other Cases

St. John, May 11.—Before His Honor Judge Armstrong, under the Speedy Trials Act, yesterday, the case of the King vs. Herbert Dean was heard. The accused pleaded guilty to stealing an automobile, the property of P. E. Ferris, and was remanded for sentence.

Chester Graham pleaded guilty to stealing a watch. It being shown that he had already put in a month in detention and restored the watch, and that he had been intoxicated when the theft occurred, as well as that he was of good character with an overseas record, he was allowed out on suspended sentence.

Frank Crozier, charged with collecting money for the Salvation Army and not paying over, was allowed to go on suspended sentence. He pleaded guilty. He had already been detained one month in jail. Salvation Army officials undertook to look after him.

REJUVENATED BY "VITAL" TABLETS

People are today trying every means to keep young. Some are being fed on monkey glands, and others are having glands of other people injected into their system. We claim the method of injecting glands into the system is unnecessary. The revival of youth can be brought about by taking the French rejuvenator, VITAL Tablets. A person of sixty can feel like a person of twenty. We do not claim VITAL Tablets will do all this instantly, but by taking them regularly for a time, and the time will depend upon the person, but one will gradually feel younger, and eventually you will come back to the land of youth and pep. Diseases of every description will gradually disappear, men and women will be healthy and strong, doctors' bills will be reduced to a minimum. If you are not feeling yourself, go to your drug store and procure a box of these celebrated French Tablets, and you will experience such a change for the good, that you will forever bless the inventor of this wonderful rejuvenating tonic. VITAL Tablets are sold at all good drug stores, at fifty cents per box. Start taking them today. Tomorrow you will feel better.

Experience Saves Money in this Maxwell

THE 300,000 Maxwells built to date saves you many a worth while dollar in the new Post-War Maxwell. Those 300,000 saved in many ways.

1. They taught "short cuts" in manufacturing.
2. They eliminated all experimental work—you don't have to pay for a single engineering mistake.
3. They developed quantity production which has reduced "overhead."
4. They enabled quantity purchases; and better materials are bought at lower costs.
5. They taught now to build an almost troubleproof car; you seldom take a Post-War Maxwell to a repair shop.
6. They taught how to get the most mileage out of a gallon of gasoline, a pint of oil and a set of tires.
7. They taught how to build a car that the less skilled driver would find simple to operate and take care of.
8. They taught that it was better to build more and take less profit per car rather than build less and take more profit per car.
9. They taught how to put more and more value in the car without increasing the cost.

This Post-War Maxwell is next year's car. It contains features developed during the war, many of which will find their way into other cars in the summer of 1920.

GENERAL CURRIE ACCEPTS POSITION

Inspector General of Canadian Militia to Become Principal of McGill University

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Montreal, May 12.—Lieut. General Sir Arthur Currie, who commanded the Canadian forces in Flanders, has accepted the post of principal of McGill University.

This announcement was made by the University authorities this morning.

Sir Arthur is at present Inspector General of the Canadian Militia.

In a statement made this afternoon, in which the appointment of Sir Arthur Currie as principal is announced, the Board of Governors of McGill pay a tribute to the General's great war service and to his fine war despatches. Sir Arthur Currie received the Doctor of Letters degree from McGill this afternoon.

Among other things the McGill statement says:

"The appointment to the principalship of one who, beyond six years' experience as a school teacher, is without academic affiliations, may come as a surprise to some of the friends of McGill. But the Governors were supported by the sanction of high educational authorities in inviting Sir Arthur to accept the position. He was singled out and his appointment enthusiastically urged by Sir Auckland Geddes, and the suggestion was emphatically approved by the master of Balliol and Prof. W.G.S. Adams, Fellow of All Souls', Oxford, who rank with the most eminent educationalists in the British Isles. These two high academic personages united with Sir Auckland in the belief that McGill would be singularly fortunate if it succeeded in securing Sir Arthur Currie's services and that there is no one, either in Canada or Great Britain, whose name they could put alongside his for consideration."

Sir Auckland Geddes, in a letter to the Board of Governors of McGill University, expresses extreme satisfaction at General Sir Arthur Currie's appointment to the principalship of that institution, saying that, in his estimation, Sir Arthur is a man of great organizing capacity and of strong personality.

In part, Sir Auckland writes:

"The position which he must ever hold in the minds of the all who went from Canada to serve in the Great War makes him, in my opinion, the best man who could have been found for that important post."

THE RAILWAY MAIL CLERKS MAY STRIKE

Recommendation of Civil Service Commission to Lower Salaries Causes Trouble

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Toronto, May 12.—Railway mail clerks from North Bay, Ottawa, Hamilton and Toronto held a meeting here last night and discussed the possibility of the Dominion Government accepting the recommendations of the Civil Service Commission to reduce the maximum salary from $1,680 to $1,560. Considerable dissatisfaction with the Civil Service Commission was expressed, as the mail clerks would lose about $10 a month each if the new schedule were carried out. It was intimated that if the suggested reduction took place there would be a strike.

Hon. J. F. Tweeddale, Minister of Agriculture, left this morning for his home at Arthurette to spend two weeks.

WELCOME PREMIER BACK TO CAPITAL

Members of Cabinet and Many Supporters at Station to Welcome Him Back

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Ottawa, May 12. — Bronzed and apparently in excellent health, Sir Robert Borden, accompanied by Lady Borden, arrived in Ottawa shortly before one o'clock today. Sir Robert showed no traces of the illness which had necessitated his five months' holiday. He had the old vigor and to all queries he smilingly replied that his health was of the best.

His arrival was the occasion of a celebration by his supporters. Headed by Sir George Foster and members of the cabinet, they gathered on the platform to welcome him back to Ottawa. As Sir Robert and Lady Borden stepped off the car there was a round of cheering.

On the platform, with the Unionists was Dr. Clark, member of the House for Red Deer, and prominent in the National Progressive party.

It was Dr. Clark's birthday. Sir Robert and he laughingly congratulated each other.

"You look younger than I do," Dr. Clark observed.

In his office at the east block, Sir Robert found the familiar desk covered with a basket of roses, maiden hair fern and forget-me-nots. This afternoon, it is expected, Sir Robert will be in the House.

BURIED TODAY

The funeral of John T. Estabrooks, the C. N. R. brakeman who met such a tragic death on Monday at Penniac, took place from his late home on King Street this afternoon at one o'clock. A large concourse of people were present to pay their last respects to the memory of the deceased.

The funeral was under the auspices of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, and both Brotherhoods were largely represented. A short service was conducted at the home by Rev. J. B. Daggett, after which the funeral wended its way to the C. N. R. station, where the casket was placed on a special train and taken to Penniac, where interment was made in the Baptist Cemtery. At Penniac Rev. Mr. Daggett was assisted in the service by Rev. Mr. Pinkerton and Rev. Mr. Lister. The chief mourners were Wellington Estabrooks, Wm. Estabrooks, Fred Estabrooks, Herbert Estabrooks, Don Estabrooks, Harry Lawson, Percy Booth, Charles Hanson and Fred Robinson.

The floral tributes were beautiful and as follows:

Fire This Afternoon.

The roof and upper portion of the double house on the corner of Regent and Brunswick streets, owned by Mrs. Archie Jewett, was considerably gutted early this afternoon by fire, which resulted from an overheated stovepipe. In the second flat a partition was torn away by the firemen to enable them to fight the blaze while several holes were broken in the roof. The portion of the house where the fire broke out was unoccupied, the former occupants having moved out recently. The total damage will probably be between $150 and $200.

Road Work Being Started.

City Engineer G. C. McDowell has a crew of men busily engaged on the Lincoln Road at Noble's Creek, doing away with the old bridge which has stood there for some time past and putting in a 36 inch corrugated steel conduit. Two cross drains are being installed near the residence of Thomas Blizzard at Victoria Mills and the road machine is engaged on Waterloo Row, levelling the road and spreading gravel.

Speculation on Political Outlook

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, May 12.—The round table conference of the "Macdonald and Cartier" Conservatives at Toronto does not seem to have created even a ripple of interest in parliamentary circles here.

The name of not one member of the present Parliament is given on the list of those present, nor does there seem to have been any outstanding figure there from any part of the Dominion who is now or has been a force in politics, with the exception of Hon. Mr. Rogers himself.

Whatever the Conservative Unionists in active politics may think of the proceedings, they are certainly not lending it much countenance.

The opinion is expressed here that the one man who could lead a movement of this kind with hopes of success is Hon. Arthur Meighen, and he is not showing any disposition to desert his present affiliations so long as the Unionist organization is intact. Whether he may continue permanently in politics or not is another question. It is understood that he has recently had an offer of an unusually tempting nature financially which, if accepted, would sever him from active politcis, but what his decision will be in regard to it is not known.

The present attitude of all members of the Government, and practically all members of the party, is one of unquestioning loyalty so long as the organization remains intact. With the possible exception of one or two Liberal Unionists, who may consider their arrangement in support of the Government has expired, there does not seem any likelihood of defections from the Government's ranks towards the "Macdonald and Cartier" party, or elsewhere.

A good attendance of citizens interested in the public playgrounds was present at the meeting in the interests of the playground which was held in the Mayor's office last evening. After a discussion a committee of J. R. Walker, J. Lawlor, Police Magistrate Walter Limerick, City Engineer G. C. McDowell and J. B McNair were appointed to meet with the committee of five from the City Council to discuss the putting of the grounds into shape.

Locomotive Still in River.

C. N. R. officials expect to be able to get locomotive No. 91, which made the fatal plunge over the approach to the bridge north of Marysville with train No. 644 on Monday morning, removed from the Nashwaak river some time today. While it had been expected to accomplish the work yesterday afternoon, it was found conditions were such that considerable additional foundation was necessary to operate the crane from. The locomotive weighs 83 tons.

LEADING LIBERALS CONFER AT OTTAWA

Discuss Organization and Plans for the Future of the Party

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Ottawa, May 12.—Prominent Liberals from all over Canada are in session with their leader Hon. W. L. Mackenzie-King, here today to discuss organization and plans for the party's future.

It is the executive of the National Liberal organization committee, and among other things likely to be taken up is the projected western tour of the leader of the Opposition immediately the House prorogues. This, it is hoped, will be by the end of next month.

Among those at the conference are Hon. Frank Oliver, Alberta; Senator Bostock, British Columbia; Alec. MacLeod, Manitoba; S. Letourneau and P. Paradis, Quebec, with Hon. D. D. McKenzie, Hon. Chas. Murphy, Jacques Bureau, A. B. Copp, W. C. Kennedy, and Andrew Haydon, general secretary.

A further caucus of Liberal members was held today to discuss the remaining clauses of the Franchise Act to come before the House.

The main point urged was that the preparation of voters' lists be left as much as possible to municipal or provincial authorities. This, some members believed, would mean a saving of three-quarters of a million dollars, "which," one of them stated later, "is quite a consideration in these times."

W. H. White, Victoria, Alberta, presided.

FIX THE MARGIN OF PROFIT ON SUGAR

U. S. Attorney General Allows One Cent a Lb. to Wholesalers and Two to Retail

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Boston, Mass., May 12.—Attorney General Palmer today set the margin of profits to be allowed on sales of sugar at one cent a pound for wholesalers and two cents a pound at retail. In a telegram to United States Attorney Thomas J. Boynton, the Attorney General ordered that steps be taken immediately to prosecute persons taking larger profits.

The Attorney General's order will not have the effect of standardizing the prices either at wholesale or retail, according to Mr. Boynton. Dealers obtained their stocks at different prices and as a result sale prices will vary, but in no case can profits exceed the margin allowed.

Alva Good, Alma Mater was proposed by Miss Helen A. Thurrott and replied to by Dr. C. C. Jones, chancellor of the University. He said he was very pleased to be present at the dinner and that he was very glad to have had so many of the men who answered the call of duty return to take up their studies at the University as members of the senior class. The Class was proposed by Charles R. Townsend and replied to by Samuel T. McCavour. Those Who Sleep in Flanders' Fields was proposed by Ian M. MacLaren, M. C., and responded to by Hilton D. TRIMBLE CLEANS UP IN U. N. B. SPORTS

Wins Sir Frederic Williams Taylor Medal and Makes a New Mile Record

Harrison Trimble, member of the class of 1922, carried off the honors at the annual track and field sports at the University of New Brunswick yesterday afternoon.

Not only did he win the Sir Frederick Williams Taylor medal for the champion all round athlete of the University, but he also hung up a new record in the mile run when he reduced the former mark of 4 mins. 54 1-5 seconds, made by G. P. Melrose, '14, of St. John, to 4 mins. 43 3-5 seconds.

The conditions for record making performances were so unfavorable with a high wind and spongy track that it was not expected any new marks would be hung up, but Trimble, who first jumped into athletic fame as a member of the football squad at U. N. B. last fall, showed wonderful form and great things are expected of him under proper training before his college career is over. He is a returned soldier, a resident of Hampton, and entered U. N. B. in the sophomore class last fall.

Trimble entered six of the eleven events on the programme, and won five of the six events in which he competed, getting second place in the other. He won three of the four running events, showing just as much proficiency in the 220 yards sprint as he did in the mile run, while his time in the half mile in spite of the unfavorable conditions was only about three seconds slower than the record. Atwood Bridges and Russell McLean divided the honors with Trimble, the former winning three firsts, two seconds and a third, while the Moncton athlete captured three firsts, one second and two thirds.

The Summary

The summary of the events follows:

100 yards dash—Bridges, 11 secs.; Stevens, Shea.

220 yards dash—Trimble, 25 secs.; Stevens, Shea.

440 yards dash—Trimble, 58 2-5 secs.; Johnston, Stevens.

Mile run—Trimble, 4 mins. 43 3-5 secs.; Haines, Bishop.

Two Home Runs By Babe Ruth

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

New York, May 12.—In the American League, the spectacular hitting of Babe Ruth, who scored two home runs, featured New York's victory over Chicago yesterday.

Three hits and a passed batter netted Detroit three runs in the ninth inning and won the opening game with Washington.

In the St. Louis-Phillies game, Kinney gave seven bases on balls but held St. Louis to three hits.

In the National League the world's champion Reds won their first game from an eastern team by knocking both Barnes and Douglas of New York out of the box.

Boston defeated St. Louis by bunching four hits with bases on balls in the first inning for three runs. This was Boston's eighth successive victory.

BOSTON PITCHER IS IN HOSPITAL

Boston, May 12.—Waite Hoyt, who strained his groin in a game in New York last week, has gone to the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, where he will be under observation for three or four days.

He was examined by a physician Sunday and it was thought his injury was only slight. It was thought best yesterday to send him to the hospital for a more thorough examination.

Jumps to Steel League.

Pittsfield, May 11.—Robert Messenger, veteran rightfielder for Pittsfield in the Eastern League and .300 hitter last season, has jumped to the Steel League in Pennsylvania. He left Pittsfield today by motor for the Steel section.

Adams, first baseman, is in the hospital with injuries, as a result of being hit with a ball in the opening game.

The team was crippled yesterday, when Prediger, playing first base, was put out because he did not have the proper uniform. Delay in obtaining uniforms through a Pittsfield merchant is given as the cause of Prediger's plight.

V. C. B. Wetmore has sent Jess Y., 2.07¼, and Ecce Volo, 2.29¼, to Readville.

INTERESTING CASE AT ST. STEPHEN

Petitioner Seeks to Have the Child's Father Dismissed As Its Guardian

St. Stephen, May 11.—A case that engaged much local attention for some time had its beginning and ending in a session of the Chancery Court held there this morning, Chief Justice Sir Douglas Hazen presiding. The case was a petition of Herbert N. Beach, of Honeydale, and is niece, Lillian B. Robinson, to have the child's father, Samuel Robinson, of Lower Hill, dismissed as guardian of the girl and Herbert N. Beach appointed in his stead. The petition was based on charges of cruel treatment towards the child by her father and her stepmother made by the girl herself and supported by numerous affidavits. The child, about sixteen years of age, is a grand-daughter of the late George F. Beach, of Honeydale, and was in the care of her grandmother until her death, afterwards being in the care of her father and stepmother. A small estate valued at about $2,000 was involved. M. N. Cockburn, K. C., was the attorney for the petitioners and with him was associated R. B. Hanson, K. C., of Fredericton. N. Marks Mills was the attorney for Samuel Robinson, having associated with him J. B. M. Baxter, K. C., of St. John.

Court was opened in the Town Council room, a large number of interested spectators and witnesses being present. Immediately after opening the court adjourned to Chipman Memorial Hospital, where the girl is a patient and where her evidence was taken. The evidence given by the little girl on this occasion contradicted the evidence given by her in her affidavit, on which the case was based. The application was thereupon withdrawn and the case was at an end.

This afternoon Chief Justice Hazen took occasion to visit the supreme court of Maine, in session in Calais, Justice Wilson presiding.

Letters of administration were granted to Lillian M. Alexander under the will of Frederick Alexander Weatherhead, who died last September in Winnipeg. The estate was valued at $1,000 realty and $2,385 personalty.

Letters testamentary were issued to Georgia W. Charlton, executrix, under the will of Wm. K. Charlton. Personalty $700.

GENERAL M'LEAN OFFERS APOLOGY

Explains the Misunderstanding Over the Words He Used in Pensions' Committee

Ottawa, May 11.—The resignations of Col. C. W. Peck, V.C., and Col. R. C. Cooper from the Pensions Committee have been withdrawn. A statement from Brig.-Gen. H. H. McLean, apologizing for any offense which his words may unintentionally have caused to returned soldiers, their wives or widows, has been placed on the records of the committee, and the whole "McLean incident," which for a time threatened to disrupt the committee, has been settled.

Brig.-General McLean's statement, which he read at a brief meeting of the committee this afternoon, was as follows:

"There has been a distinct misunderstanding as to words used by me in the select committee on pensions. This circumstance I regret exceedingly, as nothing was further from my mind than to reflect in any way either on soldiers or their dependents, and while still affirming my statement as to what I did say on that occasion, I desire to apologize for any offense which my words may have unintentionally caused to the returned soldiers, their wives or widows.

(Signed) "HUGH H. McLEAN."

The chairman, Hume Cronyn, read a letter from Messrs. Peck and Cooper, withdrawing their resignations in view of Gen. McLean's statements. The letter, which was addressed to the chaiman, follows:

'In view of General McLean's statement, expressing apology for any offense which his words caused soldiers, their wives and dependents, and also in view of the fact that many returned soldiers and returned soldiers' organizations throughout Canada have requested us to remain as members of this committee, we have decided to withdraw our resignation.

(Signed) "C. W. PECK.
"R. C. COOPER."

The special meeting of the committee was called by the chairman when, at noon, he received an announcement that General McLean wished to make a statement. General McLean and Colonel Cooper were in attendance when the committee met. Before adjournment, the chairman, in a brief statement, outlined his reasons for calling the meeting, and also expressed the view that every member of the committee would join him in the assurance that there had never been, at any time,, a lack of sympathy with the returned men. Every member of the committee was doing a lot of hard work in the interests of the returned soldier, and all were doing their best for the returned men and their dependents.

The statement of General McLean and the letter of Colonels Peck and Cooper were ordered incorporated in the record, and the committee adjourned until tomorrow morning.

HEIR TO FORTUNE LOCATED IN JAIL

St. John, May 12.—A young returned soldier, named McKenzie, who formerly resided in St. John, and who is said to have been left a fortune of $300,000 in England, has been located in the Westmorland county jail at Dorchester, where he is serving a short term for a misdemeanor committed in Moncton early in the spring.

Hazen Chapman, a Dorchester attorney, is interesting himself in the young fellow. Mr. Chapman says he has taken steps which he hopes will result in securing young McKenzie's release in a short time, when he will probably return to England as speedily as possible.

CARRANZA'S FALL.

Carranza, whose fall the rush of events has apparently brought about within the past few days, never sat his throne very securely. Mexico has been ruled more satisfactorily in the past, and more stably, from the saddle than from any other kind of seat. While the late ruler could ride manfully, as his flight in 1913 on horseback to Sonora proved, he could not govern on horseback.

It has formed the main objection to Carranza's administration that he lacked control over the acts of many of his subordinates. This shortcoming made his regime at times a trial to Americans. It came of his lack of the faculty to lead his own side in warfare. With something of Porfirio Diaz's military gift, Carranza might really have put the country in order. As it was, he subsisted by his ability in political dickering. He knew how to make satisfactory terms with the leaders who could and would fight, and he knew besides how to set some of these, in case of need, against others. But the fox cannot hold sway over a pack of wolves for long.

Parts of the country recovered far enough during his term of power and of relatively healing effort to provide a new crop of pickings for those who should succeed him. The fear lest he should elevate into the Presidency a favored military chieftain likely to display more of forcible initiative, moved the generals and governors to postpone their mutual quarrels and rise together. Enough intelligence has reached us already to show how universally the leaders turned against him. The overturn indicates how far anterior is the stage of Mexican development to a form of government dissociated from arms. The feudal era of Mexico has apparently only begun. Idealism has brought on relapse rather than progress.

ANOTHER ARTIFICIAL FUEL.

Again the report of an artificially produced motor fuel appears. The possibility of such a thing, measured in terms of chance, is better than it was before the perfection of the refining process that produced gasoline from coal oil, and the utilization of the chemical formula that made a cheap, powerful explosive out of nitric acid and glycerine. These accomplishments have fired the imagination of chemists the world over. Once in a while a chemist thinks that he has found a solution, and once in a while a crook pretends that he has done so.

This time an Italian chemist reports the elaboration of a cheap process for producing liquid hydrogen. According to his figures a gallon of this concentrated embodiment of mechanical power would propel an automobile about twenty times as far as a gallon of gasoline. Most persons who have studied elementary chemistry have vivid recollections of the explosion of some ill-starred glass container charged with a mixture of air and a little hydrogen gas. Such a recollection helps to belief that a gallon of the liquefied hydrogen would have the power requisite to kick an automobile a remarkably long distance.

The cost of producing the proposed fuel and of applying without risk so potent an agency forms the missing link in the chain of assurance. Until the element of cheapness can be demonstrated to the satisfaction of some hard-headed capitalist the possibilities of the proposed new fuel will remain unknown.

HUNGRY CHILDREN.

The most recent reports from Vienna indicate that almost the whole population of the great cities of Central Europe is still in urgent need of such primary necessities of life as food and shelter. A rumor spread throughout that district that the American Relief Mission and Red Cross might suspend their work at Budapest, whereupon 20,000 children and women, headed by the burgomaster, appeared before the headquarters of the mission, imploring the American commissioner for continuance of his work. Commissioner Grant Smith promised to notify the American Relief and Red Cross services and add his own petition for the people's need.

Miss Julia Lathrop, chief of the American Child Welfare Department, after examining conditions in Central Europe, has arrived in Vienna with a discouraging report. She finds it "impossible to measure the injury "done to the growing generation by "the six war years; but statistics "show that the reduction in the number of children in Central Europe "will be measured by millions." Not only the workers from the United States, but English, Swiss, Swede, Norwegian and Dutch organizations and individuals are "equally devoted "to the alleviation of the appalling "conditions of child distress."

Such a condition requires more than temporary relief. It is difficult, indeed, to form any idea when the people in Vienna, for instance, will discover new means to support themselves. The inflow of money and visitors to the dead capital has ceased, maybe forever.

Manifestly for the present the simple needs of physical existence must be provided in a regular and steady supply if death and pestilence are not to prevail over the stricken community. Of course, it is a work for all the world to share in; those countries geographically nearest are giving out of their poverty; the extent of relief work done by America has been very great, but its utmost bestowal cannot restore the ruined countries. Such repair work as they can do may serve, after long months and years, to help these peoples to regain their feet. But meantime, and at once, the children and other helpless ones need food to keep them from death by actual starvation.

An Ottawa correspondent well pictures the Federal situation in this way: "Only the feebleness and inaptitude of the Opposition, and the inexperience and crudeness of the Agrarians saved the Government from disaster in the House. Much, perhaps all, of this adversity would have been averted had the Ministry and party been united upon a well-defined platform and with its leadership problem cleared up; and although the parliamentary rank and file, which has been blameless throughout, realizes the futility of recrimination, it is prepared to deal ruthlessly with any and all attempts to perpetuate the source of the difficulty."

TEACHING STAFFS MUST DRAG ALONG

Montreal Catholic School Commission Declines to Increase Stipends of Teachers

[By Canadian Associated Press.]

Montreal, May 12.—A total of $900,000 for the contruction of schools was provided at the meeting yesterday of the Montreal Catholic School Commission, at which the finance committee's report was adopted. This provides for six schools. Of the above amount only $690,000 was voted, the balance to be voted as need arises.

Little encouragement was held out by the commission to a delegation of the Centre District Board, which came to plead the cause of the clerical teaching staffs. At present Sisters receive $325 and the budget next year provides $450. Brothers are to get $800 when principals and $600 when not. It was asked that Sisters be given $500 and $700 for principals, and Brothers $900 for principals and $650 for others. The increases were rejected on the ground that construction would have to be suspended if they were allowed.

GERMAN SAILOR SOUGHT BY POLICE

Hoboken Police Seek to Connect Him With Murder of Frederick Rneckart

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Hoboken, N. J., May 12.—A German sailor, registered during the war as an enemy alien at the German Seamen's Home in Hoboken, last night was being sought by the Hoboken police in connection with the murder Sunday of Frederick Rueckert, wealthy White Metal manufacturer. The police say they had traced the revolver used by the assailant to a local pawn shop, the proprietor of which said it had been purchased there Saturday afternoon by man answering the description of one for whom the police are searching.

The man, whose identity was not disclosed, has a police record in Pennsylvania, the police said, and his finger print records bear a striking resemblance to those found on the gun.

Toronto, May 12.—Gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways for the week ending May 7 were $1,896,201, which indicated an increase of $231,628 over those of the corresponding week of last year. U. S. AND CANADIAN FARMERS CONVENE

Discuss the Establishment of an International Board of Agriculture

Chicago, May 11.—Representatives of farm organizations in Canada and the United States met here today to discuss the establishment of an International Board of Agriculture.

American farmers were represented by delegates from the National Board of Farm Organizations and Farmers' Unions affiliated with this organization.

Canadians present were: R. W. E. Burnaby, Toronto, president of the Canadian Council of Agriculture; N. P. Lambert, Winnipeg, secretary of the council; J. J. Morrison, Toronto, secretary of the United Farmers of Ontario, and G. F. Chipman, Winnipeg, editor of the Grain Growers' Guide.

Mr. Lambert, who addressed the meeting, said that agriculture was completely organized in Canada and exercised immense influence on Dominion politics.

Milo D. Campbell, of Coldwater, Mich., who was until recently President of the National Board, made a plea for better understanding between Canadians and citizens of the United States and between farmers, labor and capital: "The thing which will solve the question of labor unrest will be to give the laborer an interest in his work, just as the farmer has," Mr. Campbell said.

He declared that the people of today would have to recognize the right of collective bargaining—whether that of the worker in his union, the farmer, or the collective bargaining of both.

The question of armament will be taken up by the meeting and delegates say that they expect to pass a resolution advocating reducing greatly the cost of the military and naval arms of the United States.

The sessions will continue for three days, and, according to some of the leaders, a selection of a candidate for the Presidency may be made.

The Stock Market

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York (Wall Street), May 12.—The uncertain money situation, as indicated by yesterday's 10 per cent. rate for call loans, accounted for the further irregularity of prices at the listless opening of today's stock market.

Shippings, especially Pacific Mail and Atlantic Gulf, led the market to higher levels in the first hour. Rails, notably coalers, also responded to a moderate inquiry, but the rest began to sag when steels, motors, leathers and textiles became the centre of another selling movement. American Woollen lost almost four points and reactions of one to three ponits accompanied light offerings of other industrials and specialties. Out of town advices dealing with the motor and affiliated trades were not encouraging and the Mexican situation provoked further liquidation. Signs of tighter money were foreshadowed by the 8 per cent. opening rate for demand loans. Liberty bonds were easier.

MONDAY'S GREAT ATTRACTION

Fifty-five Singers and Musicians to Present Robin Hood—Reservations Now.

Undoubtedly this season's most notable amusement attraction is the performance of Robin Hood by the Boston Light Opera Company, consisting of fifty-five people. Originally the company was booked for two nights, but the present vaudeville policy now makes this impossible. This will no doubt result in the theatre being too small to accommodate those who wish to hear the magnificent company, which during its St. John engagement met with huge success. Reserved seats now on sale.

What's the Plural of Scissors?

"Are you fond of the gladiolus?" asks the Boston Globe's gardener, thus getting around the old question of whether the plural of gladiolus is gladioli or gladioluses. However, the gardener further along in his brief essay refers to the "common gladioli," thus proving that it is impossible to always escape certain plain and simple responsibilities.

FROM THE PEOPLE

SHOULD HE MARRY

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I am a young man of 25 and have been planning to marry within the next year. Now, however, I am in grave doubt for the reason that life insurance has been refused me by two companies. The examining physicians said I have a slight affection of the heart.

How can I make financial provision for a wife, and possibly a family, that will be as good, or nearly as good, as life insurance? If there is any form of life insurance that will fit my case I would like to hear of it. I have a salary of $1,000 per year, but no other income to speak of. Do your readers think I would be justified in marrying, provided the girl knows the truth and is willing, under these circumstances?

Yours,
PROSPECT.

St. John, May 6, 1920.

ENVY'S ANTIDOTE

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I think I can give some good advice to your correspondent who wrote in this column that she was tormented by envy. In my early life I too was tormented in that way, but after enduring the mean feeling that envy engenders for a number of years I began to realize that there was only one way to get rid of this torment, which was to turn my thoughts into the channel of ambition, with a determination to excel in all I undertook to do.

I became so absorbed in the idea that all feeling of envy disappeared. I grew out of it and away from it and forgot it, as I was glad to. Now the old feeling is completely drowned, and I do not seem to know what envy is. I do not care a straw what the other fellow is doing, though I have been always ready to help the other fellow. And I think the plan of life that I thought out as a boy has been good, for I have good health, a vigorous mind and the happy feeling that I have not been mean.

Your correspondent must get alone, go out in the woodland in spring, when all nature is alive, and think and reflect. Do not forget to pray, either, but also don't forget to put your shoulder to the wheel. God expects us to find out what our ambition is, and then to go at it with all our might. In that way ambition will absorb all your energy. Live plainly and simply and go to bed early to store up energy. Good reading is a great help also, as it brings one's mind into contact with the minds of our great thinkers.

Yours,
MAX.

Fredericton, May 7, 1920.

SHE HAS WAKING VISIONS

To the Editor of The Gleaner.

Sir,—Within the last year I have had some strange experiences which I should like to have explained through the People's Column.

Whenever I lie down and close my eyes, in a moment, and without being asleep, faces of people, heads and shoulders, appear before me in the following manner: Several feet from me and about three feet above my eyes a circular cloud appears which expands until it forms a frame for a light centre in which some beautiful face is revealed.

More often have there been two, three or four faces in a row of light about four feet in length. At least a hundred faces have appeared within the last six months. At first these were all children's faces, and the sweetest I have ever seen; more recently older people have been portrayed.

At one time I saw King Edward, Roosevelt, Dickens and Whittier—all in a row. Their faces were clear as could be, and looked exactly like pictures. Often I would open my eyes and wonder if the picture would appear again, and the same picture would appear two or three times when I closed my eyes again. I am a grandmother, and am not a spiritualist, nor do I ever indulge in fanciful creations.

Will some reader explain these things?

Yours,
M. C.

Andover, May 7, 1920.

WHY WAIT?

To the Editor of The Gleaner

Sir,—Why is it that we wait till people die to praise them? Why do we so seldom give expression to the agreeable thoughts we have about our acquaintances, and why are we so quick to criticise?

Consider this from an old Dutch song: "If you have warm thoughts give them freely and save not your pleasant words. Give many and give blindly. The love you feel, let in flames burst forth."

Would it not make life happier, especially for old people, if we expressed freely our appreciation of their good works and our love for them before they pass on?

Yours,
JOHN ——.

THE TEMPERANCE FORCES ORGANIZE

Series of Resolutions Passed at Afternoon Session of the Convention

The convention of the New Brunswick Temperance Alliance here yesterday closed with the afternoon session

Although a public convention had been called reporters were notified that they were unwelcome guests at the afternoon session and that at the conclusion of the convention an official statement would be given out.

Rev. Mr. Boothroyd, the secretary, and A. C. M. Lawson, of this city, acted as the press committee and said last evening that there had been a considerably larger attendance in the afternoon than in the morning, between fifty and seventy-five people being present, and they gave out the following list of resolutions, largely to do with the plebiscite in July, as having been passed:

1. We desire to express our appreciation of the action of Hrn. Mr. Tweeddale and Mr. Peck in presenting in the House of Assembly the resolution requesting the Dominion Government to take a referendum on importation of liquor into the province; also the members of both parties who voted for the resolution.

2. That the executive be instructed to take all necessary steps to thoroughly organize the different polling sections of the province.

3. That full authority be given them to provide all necessary help in organization so as to ensure the success of the referendum vote.

4. That as far as possible each locality be urged to look after the organization of their own polling sections, with the executive standing ready to supply any necessary help that cannot be provided locally.

5. That arrangements be made for an extensive plan of publication in the different newspapers of the province and for the providing of necessary campaign literature for distribution.

6. In view of the manifest blessings, moral and material, which have attended such measures of prohibition of strong drink as have been granted us, in view of the repeatedly expressed wishes of a majority of the country and in view of the stringent prohibitory laws now in force in the United States, the Alliance feels justified in calling upon the Governments of Canada and this province to adopt the most vigorous laws within the several jurisdictions forbidding all traffic in strong drink for beverage purposes and thoroughly enforce all such laws.

7. This Alliance would once again record the appreciation of the sane and judicious efforts of the chief inspector, W. D. Wilson, in the very difficult and arduous task in which he is engaged and would hereby express our utmost confidence in him and also pledge him our strongest support in his work.

The Government Criticized.

The executive report said in part:

"Acting under instructions from the Alliance your Executive laid before the Provincial Government the request of the Alliance that the Government secure the passage of a resolution through the House of Assembly asking the Dominion Government to hold a referendum on the question of importation of liquors into the Province. Your executive laid before the Government the necessity for this referendum so as to make the Provincial law efficient, pointing out that so long as the importation of liquors into the Province continued it made impossible a stringent enforcement of the Provincial law. It was also pointed out to the Government that if the people voted in favor of stopping the importation into the Province it was sufficient evidence that the people did not wish it sold within the Province and therefore the referendum on the Provincial law would be unnecessary and there would also be a saving to the Province of some $30,000 in making the one referendum answer both purposes. The Government did not see its way clear to grant your request and decided to hold a Provincial Referendum. Your committee believed the Government's course to be unwise and not in the best interests of the Province. We agreed, however, to fall in with the plans suggested by the Government that the Provincial Referendum should come first and that it would be convenient for all parties if it should be held some time about the end of June of this year."

Comment on the Vote.

As to the result of the vote on the resolution in the Legislature the report of the executive stated:

"This Province now enjoys the unenviable reputation of being the only one in the Dominion whose Legislature has refused to the people the opportunity to vote upon the question of real prohibition for rich and poor alike. All that the Legislature was asked to do was to give the people themselves the opportunity to express their wishes, for there is now no other way to stop the importation of liquors into the Province until the House passes the resolution and a referendum vote is taken.

"Your Committee used its best judgment and efforts to secure a favorable vote and whilst we did not succeed we have the satisfaction of knowing that the responsibility for its failure does not rest upon the Alliance. The responsibility for all the ills arising from the present condition of things will rest and not very lightly upon the shoulders and conscience of the men who refused to the people the right to decide for themselves what they wished.

"Even the blindest and most obstinate opponent of prohibition knows what the end will be and that it is only a temporary advantage the liquor traffickers have gained. Sooner or later all we are asking for will be obtained.

"It is for us to learn the lessons the situation should teach us and we need not, in the least, be discouraged. A full House would have given us a majority, the majority against us was not one of the whole House.

"One lesson we ought to learn very thoroughly and that is if we want temperance legislation we must see to it, irrespective of our political shibboleths, that we send temperance legislators to do our legislating."

IN DAYS OF TERROR

"What do you say to this decree, citizen? it is clever, it seems to me."

"Yes; but it does not appear to me peremptory. In the first place it has not apeared in the Moniteur; then we are neither upon Pindus or Parnassus; it is not yet day; and, lastly, the citoyenne is perhaps neither graceful, young, nor fair."

"I wager the contrary," said Louis. "Prove that I am in the right, citoyenne, remove your hood, that all may judge if you come under the conditions of the decree."

"Monsieur," said the young woman, pressing closer to Maurice, "having saved me from your enemies, protect me now against your friends, I beseech you."

"You see," said the chief, "how she hides herself. In my opinion she is a spy of the aristocrats—some street-walker."

"Oh! monsieur," said the young woman, stepping before Maurice, and discovering a face radiant with youth and beauty, visible by the light of the lamp, "do I look like what they have termed me?"

Maurice was amazed. He had never even dreamed of beauty equal to that he had caught sight of for a moment, and only for a moment since the Unknown had again enshrouded herself in the hood as quickly as she had previously removed it. "Louis," said Maurice, in a whisper, "claim the prisoner, that you may conduct her to your post; you have a right to do so, as chief of patrol."

"Very good," said the young corporal, "I understand with half a word."

Then, addressing himself to the Unknown, "Let us go, ma belle," continued he; "since you will not afford me the proof that you are within the conditions of the decree, you must follow us."

"Why follow you?" said the chief of the enrolled volunteers. "We shall conduct the citoyenne to the post of l'Hotel?de-Ville, where we are on guard, and there she will be examined."

"Not so, not so," said the chief of the first troop, "she belongs to us, and we will keep her."

"Citizens, citizens," said Louis, "you will make me angry."

"Angry, or not angry, morbleu, it is equally the same to us. We are true soldiers of the Republic, and whilst you patrol the streets, we go to shed our blood on the frontier."

"Take care you do not shed it by the way, citizens, which is very likely to occur ,if you are not rather more polite than you are at present."

"Politeness is a virtue appertaining to the aristocracy, and we belong to the lower orders," replied the chief.

"Do not speak of these things before madame," said Louis, "perhaps she is an Englishwoman. Do not be angry at the supposition, my beautiful bird of the night," added he, gallantly, turning towards the Unknown. "Doubtless you are conversant with the poets, and one of them tells us, 'That England is a swan's nest situated in the midst of a large pond.'"

"Ah, you betray yourself," said the chief of the enrolled, "you avow yourself a creature of Pitt's, in the pay of England. A——"

"Silence," said Louis, "you do not understand poetry; therefore I must speak to you in prose. We are National Guards, affable and patient fellows enough, but still children of Paris, that is to say, if we are provoked we strike rather hard."

"Madame," said Maurice, "from what you have now witnessed you can easily imagine what will soon follow. In five minutes ten or twelve men will be cutting each other's throats for you. Is the cause your defenders have embraced worthy of the blood they are about to shed?"

"Monsier," replied the Unknown, clasping her hands, "I can only assure you, that if you permit me to be arrested, the result to myself will be dreadful, but to others fatal; and that rather than you should abandon me, I would beseech you to pierce me through the heart with the weapon you hold in your hand, and cast my corpse into the Seine."

"Madame," replied Maurice, "I will take all the responsibility upon myself;" and letting drop the hand of the lovely incognita which he held in his own,—

"Citizens," said he, addressing himself to the National Guard, "as an officer, as a patriot, and a Frenchman, I command you to protect this woman. And Louis, if any of these canaille say one word, put them to the bayonet."

"Oh! mon Dieu! mon Dieu!" cried the Unknown, enveloping her head still closer in her hood, and supporting herself against a post, "Oh! mon Deiu! protect me."

The volunteers directly placed themselves on the defensive, and ,one among them fired his pistol, when the ball passed through the hat of Maurice.

"Cross bayonets," said Louis. "Plan, plan, plan, plan, plan, plan."

Then, in the darkness of night, a scene of struggling and confusion ensued, during which the sounds of one or two shots were heard, followed by cries, imprecations, and blasphemies, but no one appeared, because, as we have said, there was this evening a secret question of the massacre, and it was believed the massacre had commenced. Two or three windows only were opened for an instant, but were immediately closed. Less in number, and worse armed, the enrolled volunteers were in an instant defeated. Two were badly wounded and four others pinned against the wall, each with a bayonet through his breast.

"There," said Louis, "I hope now you will remain as quiet as lambs. As for you, Citizen Maurice, I order you to conduct this woman to the post of l'Hotel de Ville. You understand you are answerable for her."

"Yes," said Maurice. Then, in a low tone— "And the password?" added he.

"The devil!" said Louis, rubbing his ear, "the pass-word; it is—"

"Do not fear I shall make a bad use of it."

"Ma foi!" said Louis; "make what use you like of it, that is your concern."

"Tell me, then?" said Maurice.

"I will tell you all in good time, but let us first dispose of these tipsy fellows. Then, before we part, I shall not be sorry to give you a few words of advice."

"Very well. I will wait."

Bringing Good Results.

The clover huller which has been at work in Kings County, under the direction of the Provincial Agricultural Department, has since last autumn hulled 101,250 pounds of clover seed worth $60,750. The seed was grown on the farms of the province and is of a much superior quality than that heretofore imported by the farmers, as it is harder and better suited to the climatic conditions of New Brunswick.

Improving Church Property.

The Methodists of South Devon are planning for extensive improvements and attractions in their church and tenders are being called for. Among the work planned is an excavation under the cellar to permit of the building of a large basement which will be used for a Sunday School, vestry and different church porposes. TWO PERSONS ARE KNOCKED DOWN AND INJURED BY AUTOS

Two Year Old Boy and Matron of Children's Home the Victims.

EXTENT OF INJURIES NOT YET DETERMINED

Police Likely to Be Called to Investigate Speeding on the Woodstock Road

Two persons were knocked down and had narrow escapes from serious injuries when struck by automobiles on the Woodstock Road yesterday afternoon.

Bobby Anderson, four year old boy, was playing near his home between four and five o'clock yesterday afternoon when a McLaughlin car containing some young men came up the road at a good rate of speed and before the little fellow could get out of the way he was knocked down by the car and badly cut on the head and otherwise injured about the body.

The occupants of the car kept on their way and the child was carried into his home and medical aid summoned and today he is resting as comfortably as possible.

Mrs. Davis, who is matron of the Children's Aid Home, just across the street from the Anderson home, on learning of the accident, hastened across to see what assistance she could render to the little boy, and in a few moments started to return to the Home. When on the road Mrs. Davis saw a Ford car coming along and stepped on some gravel at the side of the road to wait until the car passed by. Just as it got in front of her a wheel caught some of the gravel and it swerved around, knocking Mrs. Davis down and passing over her body. The driver of the car carried the injured lady to the Home and then made a quick get-away.

When the doctor arrived it was found that Mrs. Davis was quite badly cut up, her right leg and arm being more or less injured and it is not known how seriously her stomach has been hurt. All through the night she suffered intensely and this morning there was not much change in her condition.

The matter has not yet been reported to the police, but it was given out today that the families were awaiting the verdict of the physicians and no doubt a complaint will be lodged today.

ST. JOHN RIVER IS OVER 16 FT. LEVEL

Booms Are Holding and It Is Believed Precarious Situation Is Over

While the water in the St. John river here is now over 16 feet above summer level—116 feet 1 inch being the actual measurement this morning—it is believed that with the present cold weather the precarious situation of the St. John River Log Driving Company's booms, both above and below Fredericton, will soon be over.

The heavy run of logs has ceased, the booms are still holding, and it will require a tremendous lot of water to keep the river at its present height to say nothing of rising above the present freshet level. On the Miramichi conditions are similar, but as a result of the freshet there the drives are expected to all be out on the Southwest Miramichi at least before the end of this week.

No news has come of the drives on the upper St. John river and an estimate made this morning was that not more than 10 per cent. of the new logs coming down the river had reached the booms here in the run of the past day or two. If there had been a heavier run of logs, it is considered doubtful if the booms would have held them.

Last night the graduating class held a dinner followed by a dance, and during the evening the ivy oration, which used to be delivered while the class ivy was being planted on the morning of Encoenia Day, was read by Miss Louise Friel, of Dorchester, the ivy orator. There were other time honored celebrations by the students last evening also following the annual field and track sports and the appearance of a young freshman on Queen stree at the busiest part of the evening wearing a generous display of lingerie over his ordinary clothing showed that the spirit of initiations has not entirely disappeared even it many of the old time pranks are taboo.

This morning Lieut. Col. H. C. Sparling and Capt. H. G. BIG STRIKE OF CIVIL SERVANTS IS THREATENED

General Strike From Coast to Coast Mooted as Protest Over Salary Question

ACTION TO EMBRACE WHOLE OF CANADA

The Reclassification Announced by Civil Service Commission Not Satisfactory

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Vancouver, B. C., May 13.—A general strike of civil servants, extending from coast to coast, is now being mooted, according to a high official in the postal service here, as a protest against the alleged unsatisfactory salary provisions contained within the reclassification announced recently by the civil service commission.

During the last few days, it is declared, telegrams have been despatched between the eastern and western cities, pledging full support to any action embracing the whole of Canada, which may be decided upon in protest.

TWO LIVES LOST IN OTTAWA FIRE

Nine Women and Six Babies in Hospital at Time of Fire, But Others Saved

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Ottawa, May 13.—Two lives were lost in a fire which broke out at an early hour this morning in Dr. Hagar maternity hospital. The victims, who were both patients at the time, are Mrs. B. Morris, 121 Lebreton street, and Mrs. P. Mitchell, 22 St. Joseph street, Ottawa.

Both victims were suffocated by smoke. The bodies were discovered by the firemen. They were found lying across one another. All the babies were taken out by nurses. The private hospital, which was a three storey brick structure, situated at the corner of Elgin and Somerset streets, was fully occupied as far as bedrooms was concerned. There were nine women and six babies outside of the staff when the fire was first discovered. Mrs. Mitchell, one of the victims, is the mother of five children. Her husband is Phileas Mitchell, who is a painter by trade, and is employed by a local firm. The dead woman was 37 years of age.

ULTIMATUM FROM THE "MASTER MIND"

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Cleveland, O., May 13.—Through friends here, Arnstein, alleged "master mind," last night transmitted an ultimatum to those seeking to capture him. In substance it was: "I will not compromise on my demand that my bail be not more than $50,000. I stand on $50,000 bail as a matter of principle." Arnstein's friends say he sent word that he feels sure he can evade the police as long as he wants to, and for this reason, he has no fear in sending the message.

Battle to Decide Fate of Mexico Raging in Puebla With the Rebels in Force

Carranza Directing the Operations of the Loyal Troops

REBELS SEND ARTILLERY

The Carranza Followers Are In a Difficult Position.

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Vera Cruz, May 13.—Furious fighting between rebel troops and forces commanded by President Venustiano Carranza occurred at Hacienda Tamariz, on the Mexican National Railroad north of San Marcos, state of Puebla, according to Despatches received here. The area of the battlefield is reported to be approximately five square miles.

President Carranza is said in wireless messages from Mexico City to have personally directed the operations of his troops. Terrific storms have swept the mountain region where the struggle is going on, and telegraphic communication has been interrupted in the immediate vicinity of the scene of battle.

Decisive Action of Rebellion.

It is known, however, that heavy rebel reinforcements have been sent to San Marcos, by rebel chieftains, artillery being rushed forward to force the surrender of the troops still loyal to the President. General Guadaloupe Sanchez has gone to Esperanza, with his personal staff and five trainloads of troops, to co-operate in what is believed to be the decisive action of the rebellion. Esperanza is about forty miles southeast of San Marcos.

GENERAL ALVARO OBREGON

A correspondent of the newspaper El Dictamen is with the rebel forces in the battle zone, but up until an early hour this morning nothing had been heard from him. This silence, however, was probably due to the break in the telegram line in the state of Puebla.

Colonel S. Orosoco, chief of operations in Tampico, who was arrested when he arrived on board the steamer Jalisco early this week, has been sent back to Tampico. He is alleged to have had public funds in his possession when apprehended, and will be placed on trial for embezzlement.

Thought Ship Had Carranza Gold.

The Dutch steamer Zuyderdijk sailed from Vera Cruz today after having been detained here for some time. When she arrived it was announced she had in her cargo airplanes which had been bought in Europe by the Mexican government. There was a suspicion, however, that her real mission was to take on board a large amount of gold coin sent here by

GENERAL VENUSTIANO CARRANZA

President Carranza for deposit in Europe. When reports to this effect became current, the ship was forbidden to quit port, and a thorough search was made by officials. It was found she carried no Mexican money, and she was given permission to leave.

General Obregon has spread broadcast by telegraph an appeal to the people to return to their customary vocations. In explaining the cause of the revolution, he says, a revolt was necessary "to liberate the country from a regime which was breaking down the intellectual and material life of the people and which was violating laws."

A Counter Offensive

San Antonio, Tex., May 13—General officers of the Carranza army and the governors of Coahuila, Nuevo Leon and Tamaulipas at a conference held at Monterey decided to stand by the Carranza government and will put up a strong counter offensive against revolutionary representatives in north Mexico, according to official announcement by Gonzales De La Mora, the Carranza consul here.

DUCKED BULLETS FROM TOP OF AUTO

New York Clubman Wagered He Could Ride Up Broadway on Top of Machine

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York, May 13.—The spectacle of a man perched precariously on the top of a speeding automobile, ducking bullets from his police pursuers, enlivened things for crowds going home from the lobster palace district early this morning.

After two automobiles commandeered by policemen had chased the speeding car for fifteen blocks, its driver condescended to slow down and explain. It seemed that the young man on top was winning a wager made in a Broadway restaurant that he could not stick on top of the machine for "a short trip." Both the driver and his reckless passenger were arrested.

Los Angeles, May 13.—Mrs. Catherine Womnacker, whose suspicions caused the arrest of James P. Watson, sentenced recently to life imprisonment after he had confessed causing the deaths of a number of the score or more Canadian and American women he is alleged to have married, brought suit against Watson in the superior court yesterday to obtain restoration of certain property which she alleges she turned over to him after their marriage.

Watson is preparing for departure for St. Quentin to begin serving his sentence for the murder of Nina Lee Deloney, to which he pleaded guilty. Officers are searching for money and property which they believe Watson has concealed in various parts of Canada and the United States.

EMBARGO UPON COAL TO CANADA FROM THE U. S.

U. S. Representative Hulings to Introduce Measure in Congress to That Effect

IN RETALIATION FOR PULPWOOD EMBARGO

Says Canadian Manufacturers Are Enabled to Charge What Prices They Please

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Sharon, Pa., May 13—As a retaliatory measure for the present Canadian embargo upon pulpwood and pulpwood paper, United States Representative Willis J. Hulings announced here today that he would introduce a bill in Congress shortly for placing an embargo upon coal to Canada. He is gathering data now with that end in view, he said.

Representative Hulings said that following the acquisition of large Crown spruce timber lands in Canada by American interests, a limit had been placed upon exports. Mills were constructed then, he said, and afterwards an embargo was placed on pulpwood and pulpwood paper from Crown lands.

This, he asserted, left Canadian manufacturers located on private property, to do business with the United States "at their own prices."

BRILLIANT PAGEANT SEEN AT CALGARY

Great Parade Three Miles Long In Which There Were Over One Hundred Floats

[By Canadian Associated Press.]

Calgary, May 13.—Not since the tercentenary of Quebec has there been attempted in Canada, it is believed, a historical pageant on the scale of that which was offered in Calgary yesterday afternoon in connection wits the 250th anniversary of the Hudson's Bay Company. A pageant over three miles in length, taking an hour to pass, represented practically every feature of the history and development of the west since 1670.

The sections represented the growth of the province, the Mounted Police turning out in force headed by Colonel Walker, nearly 80 years old, riding a charger in the full uniform of a colonel of the Mounted Police of 1870. Indians and cowboys formed a big feature of the pageant. There were models of the Hudson Bay ship "None Such," models of the old forts and other features. Prince Rupert was represented by an officer of the Strathcona Horse. Sir Robert Kindersley rode in front with Lieut. Gov. Brett. There were sections representing the growth of Calgary and its various industries. The patriotic section included floats by the Red Cross, I. O. D. E., Local Council of Women and St. John's Ambulance. There were 400 Boy Scouts, Girl Guides and Naval Cadets in line.

The pure bred horse parade was a fature. The sport section showed every line of sport. In all there were over a hundred floats.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Copenhagen, May 13.—Negotiations with the Russian soviet Government for resumption of trade relations have been suspended by the Danish committee here until the situation in Russia is fuly cleared up. This step was taken in view of the fact that the soviet Government has arrested in Moscow leaders of the co-operative societies and has dismissed representatives of those organizations in London.

CABINET CRISIS ACUTE IN ITALY

Opponents of Premier Nitti Cannot Agree Among Themselves, It Is Said

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Rome, May 13.—The cabinet crisis is considered one of the most difficult to solve because the chamber is divided chiefly into two groups, Socialists and Catholics, neither of which is strong enough to constitute a majority ,while an agreement between them is impossible on a common programme.

In addition, the Socialists absolutely refuse to participate in a Government. Otherwise Signor Giolitti, with his own followers, together with a portion of the deputies who supported Premier Nitti, might have a considerable majority.

Some of the deputies suggest a cabinet formed by Signor Meda, leader of the Catholics, with Signor Lonomi, the present Minister of War, who succeeded the late Leonida Bissolati-Bergamischi as leader of the reformed socialists.

Other deputies suggest that Signor Nitti will be entrusted with the task of forming a cabinet.

THE NOMINATIONS ARE RECONSIDERED

Winnipeg Labor Party Will Not Run Convicted Leaders in Provincial Elections

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Winnipeg, May 13.—The Dominion labor party last night cancelled all previous nominations of their candidates for the provincial election in this city, which have hitherto included the imprisoned labor leaders, and will submit to the membership a new list of names, from which a ticket will be drawn a fortnight hence. On the new list only the name of one of the convicted leaders appears, that of Rev. Wm. Ivens.

The Hungarian Royalist Party Protest Treaty

The Present Cabinet Is Favorable to Signing the Treaty

A POLITICAL CRISIS NEAR

Count Andrassy Declares That the Treaty Crucifies Nation.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Budapest, May 13.—Acceptance by the Hungarian government of the conditions of the peace laid down at Paris is expected here unless extreme nationalist counsels prevail.

The action of the government in preventing a great demonstration by the league of territorial integrity, and the tearing down of posters bearing the inscription, "Damned be the hand that signs the treaty," gives observers reason to think that the treaty will ultimately be accepted. In addition, military patrols have been strengthened to prevent disorders.

Count Julius Andrassy addressed the council of ministers on the question of the treaty yesterday.

"The treaty crucifies the nation," said the former Minister of Foreign Affairs, and is the greatest blunder the Allies could commit, because it entails the greatest danger to the peace of central Europe. However, we must bow before superior forces, coupled with intellectual incompetency."

Demonstrations Being Held.

The royalist party has protested against the signature of the treaty and has also joined the league of territorial integrity, which comprises irredentist Slovakia, Transylvania and Bahat. Popular meetings and processions have been held, in which mourning banners were discarded for the tri-color, the leaders declaring that there was no occasion for grief, as the lost provinces would surely be restored.

Schools throughout the country continue to use Map and Hungary and teachers are telling their pupils the provinces lopped off by the peace treaty are only temporarily lost.

There are signs of a new cabinet crisis. If the present government falls, the situation that will arise will mean a new delay in signing the treaty.

TRAIN BOYS FOR MERCHANT MARINE

Speaker at Navy League of Canada Urges Importance of Definite Policy

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Toronto, May 13.—Declaring that nobody wanted war, but that provision for war must be made, and that a strong merchant marine, a strong navy and a strong naval policy for Canada were essential, Dr. H. J. Cody, former Minister of Education for Ontario, in addressing a convention of delegates to the Navy League of Canada, Ontario branch, here yesterday afternoon, urged the importance of training boys to man the merchant marine, which was vital to commerce, he said, and which became an integral part of the navy in time of war.

President Jarvis, in his annual report, scored the Dominion Government for its failure to acquaint the people of Canada with the details of Admiral Jellicoe's four alternative naval schemes, which were presented to the Government some time ago.

A resolution was passed calling for the adoption of the Jellicoe scheme of having a fleet unit on each coast to cost $25,000,000, also a resolution calling for the acceptance of the scheme outlined by Admiral Jellicoe, which would entail an anual expenditure of $25,000,000.

RETRIBUTION FOR INHUMAN FATHER

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Nelson, B. C., May 13.—Agreeing with the view of Mr. Justice Morrison that it was a wonder Seto Ginn Kee, an inhuman father, was not killed years before, a jury here today acquitted Seto Fong of the charge of manslaughter. Among the practices of the dead Chinese logger was tying his son to a tree in winter and deluging him with water, after which he would force filth down his throat.

THE ALUMNAE AND THE ALUMNI MET

Annual Meetings of U. N. B. Organizations Held Here Last Night

The annual meeting of the Alumnae Society of the University of New Brunswick was held last evening at the residence of Mrs. H. G. Chestnut, Waterloo Row. A large number of members were present, many of whom were from outside the city. Announcement was made that Russel R. Sheldrick, of St. John, a member of the Sophomore class, had won the alumnae scholarship.

The reports of the different committees were received and the election of officers resulted as follows:

President—Miss Hazen Allen.
1st Vice—Miss Louise Kinghorn.
2nd Vice—Miss Ethel Anderson.
Secretary-Treasurer — Miss Grace Fleming.

Members of the Council—Mrs. R. B. VanDine, Mrs. E. McM. Steeves, Miss Ella Thorne, Miss Mary Chestnut and Mrs. Alexander, formerly Miss Beatrice Jewett, of this city.

Mrs. H. F. McLeod, of this city, was elected the representative of the Senate.

After the meeting the wives of the Faculty and the women students were entertained by the members of the Alumnae.

The Alumni Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Associated Alumni of the University of New Brunswick was held in the Normal School last night with a representative attendance.

Officers were elected as follows:

President—William Brodie, M.A., St. John.

Vice-Presidents—P. J. Hughes, B.A., Fredericton; W. J. S. Myles, M.A., St. John; H. H. Hagerman, M.A., Fredericton.

Secretary and Treasurer—H. V. B. Bridges, M.A., LL.D., Fredericton.

Members of Council—A. S. McFarlane, M.A., C. D. Richards, B.A., Philip Cox, B.A., Ph.D, C. W. Hall, B.A., Fredericton; Thomas Walker, M.D., LL.D., C. McN. Steeves, M.Sc., J. M. Robinson, B.A., St. John.

Representatives in the Senate—Col. W.H. Harrison, B.A., LL.B., D.S.O., St. John; W. D. Rankin, B.A., M.D., Woodstock.

The Alumni Medal for Latin prose composition, on the recommendation of the examiners, was awarded to Walter R. Flett, of Fredericton.

The Brydone Jack Memorial Scholarship for Physics was awarded to John E. Babbitt, of the Junior Class. In making the award the society put itself on record as not departing from the regulation under which the prize is given. This year no student is fulfilling all the requirements, but the work of Mr. Babbitt has been of such quality in the departments which he selected that he was recommended.

It was decided to recommend to the Senate that the degree of LL. D., honoris causa, be given to William McInnis, B. A., Directing Geologist of the Geological Department of Canada. Mr. McInnis was graduated by the University in 1877 and has performed remarkable service in the northwest and sub-arctic regions.

Dr. W. W. White and Dr. C. C. Jones reported in regard to the visit of Dr. Vincent, of the Rockefeller Foundation, to the province, but said that little hope of financial assistance to the university from that fund could be held out at present. The fund is for the purpose of assisting medical studies and public sanitation, etc.

Dr. Jones reported upon the application to the Provincial Government for assistance toward the erection of the Memorial Building. He stated that nothing had been heard since the application was made, and stated he believed that the committee which had in hand that matter and also that of increased endowment had waited too long before making the application, an error which would be avoided another year.

The report of the secretary and treasurer showed a balance of $426.39 to the credit of the society. The treasurer, Dr. H.V.B. Bridges, stated that the receipts from membership fees of $1 each were the largest on record, totalling $397.

E. A. McKay reported for the loan fund, to the effect that no applications for loans had been made.

It was reported that G. A. Mowat, of the Sophomore Class, was granted a scholarship of $50. Mr. Mowat was selected as scholar under a former arrangement, but went overseas before completing the term of the scholarship.

Dyson W. Wallace, M.A., A. C. Edgecombe, B.Sc., Prof. W.O. Raymond, B.A., of Ann Arbor, Mich., and Russell Snodgrass were elected to membership upon application. Twenty-one members of the class which will take degrees tomorrow also were elected to membership. They are Messrs. Webb, McWilliam, Bennett, Townshend, Otty, McInerney, G.F.G. Bridges, Good, Fleet, Patterson, Seely, Chestnut, H. A. Bridges, Veness, McKnight, Addison, MacLaren, Armstrong, Burden, Orchard and McCavour.

Several members of the Class of 1884, which is holding a reunion, were among those present at the meeting.

Those in attendance at the meeting were Very Rev. S. Neales, N. W. Brown, C. W. Hall, Dr. W. C. Crocket, M. L. A., J. M. Lemont, Dr. W. T. Raymond, R. D. Hanson, J. T. Jennings, J. E. Page, C. D. Richards, H. H. Hagerman, H. G. Fenety, Dr. Philip Cox, Dr. C. C. Jones, Dr. B. C. Foster, P. J. Hughes, E. A. McKay, A. S. McFarlane, Dr. H. V. B. Bridges, C. W. Clark, Dr. W. C. Kelrstead, Fredericton; Dr. H. S. Bridges, Dr. Thomas Walker, William Brodie, Dr. W. W. White, W. J. S. Myles, C. McN. Steeves, St. John; Rev. Frank Baird, Woodstock; H. M. Goodspeed, Ottawa; Dr. A. Alumni Oration at U.N.B. Encoenia This Afternoon

Dr. A. W. Duff Formerly of Faculty but Now of Polytechnic Institute, Worcester, Mass., Gives Address on Behalf of the Alumni of His Alma Mater--A Striking and Scholarly Oration.

DR. A. W. DUFF,
Professor at Polytechnic Institute, Worcester, Mass.

The Alumni Oration, delivered by Dr. A. W. Duff, Gilchrist scholar at U.N.B. in the graduating class of 1884, formerly professor of physics at U.N.B. and now professor at the Polytechnic Institute, Worcester, Mass., follows:

When asked by the Alumni Society to speak as its representative at the exercises of today, I hesitated at first, because after many years of absence from Canada I could not feel that I had any close acquaintance with matters peculiar to this province or to Canada at large. But after the great world struggle, in which Canada took such a gallant part, we have come to realize that there are many problems of pressing importance common to men everywhere; and so, having accepted, I felt inclined to speak on some of these wider issues, and especially to emphasize the value of that fuller understanding of each other's motives that has come to the English-speaking nations and the supreme importance to the whole world of preserving this good will. But there are topics more suited to a different occasion. If there is any grain of wisdom that a man has to offer to the youth of the next generation on an occasion like this, it is most likely to come from the fruits of his own most familiar experience. I propose, therefore, to speak to you on what may seem a somewhat limited theme, The Motives of Scientific Work; but I hope to be able to show you that conclusions drawn from this narrower field have an application of some value to all forms of intellectual work, and even to work of any kind.

I hope you will not think me guilty of levity in the treatment of a serious theme if I put the matter in a way that would, after all, have appealed to Socrates in his search after human motives. A distinguished astronomer who is something of a humorist as well as a philosopher, is in the habit of asking his fellow-workers "If you were cast away on a remote island from which you could never hope to escape, and if you found there a fully equipped observatory and library, would you go to work at astronomy or not?" Now it is true that no such scientific Robinson Crusoe is likely ever to exist and a man can never be certain what he would do in very improbable circumstances. Yet, since the question is a somewhat novel and striking variant of the more general and more vague inquiry, "Why do some men, who might be otherwise engaged, pursue research?" it is not without interest, considering the extent to which the world has depended for its progress on scientific discoveries. But how can an adequate answer to such a question be obtained? You would not, I believe, be satisfied with a personal answer from any but one of the great investigators who have given a new impetus or direction to the progress of discovery of Nature's secrets. Of these (I speak only of physicists), there are perhaps not more than half a dozen among our contemporaries. Not having them here as witnesses I propose to offer other evidence which, I believe, is both positive and pertinent. The lives of many of the great of the past, who were perhaps only dimly aware of their own motives, tell us in no uncertain way of the spirit that animated them. If the few facts which I shall narrate are familiar to many of you, I can only plead, in the words of Carlyle, that "Great men, taken in any way, are profitable company. We cannot look, however imperfectly, upon a great man without gaining something from him. On any terms whatever you will not grudge to wander in such neighborhood for a while."

Isaac Newton.

Highest in the roll of physicists stands the name of Isaac Newton. His popular fame rests on his discovery of the law of gravitation; but, to the physicist, he is the great master of the science, who laid broad and deep most of the foundation on which the immense structure of Physical Science has been erected. It is no exaggeration to say that his discoveries in Physics, if divided among half a dozen other men, would endow them with immortal names in the history of science. But Newton was not only the greatest of physicists; he was also one of the greatest of pure mathematicians. In a very real sense it may be said that nearly all mathematics and most modern engineering are founded on that bugbear of the non-mathematical among college students, the Differential and Integral Calculus, of which Newton and Leibnitz were independent discoverers. The details of the process by which Newton made his great discoveries, and the well-nigh incredible mental activity which they implied, would be out of place here. That he was a man of practical sagacity is shown by the fact that he was Master of the Royal Mint and a member of Parliament who took his duties seriously. He was also very active in the administration of Cambridge University and devoted much time to non-scientific subjects, especially Theology, on which he wrote several works; he even quaintly expressed the hope that his Commentary on the Book of Revelations would live, even if his scientific work should prove to be unimportant.

Accomplishments in Science.

Turning now to the question of how Newton was able to accomplish so much in science, we may note first the extraordinary power of mental concentration which he possessed. He even expressed the opinion that this was the only exceptional talent which he possessed. At times, in his immersion in profound reasoning and calculation, he became quite oblivious of time and space and even omitted his ordinary meals without being in the least aware of it. It is said on his own authority that on one occasion he passed five days without sleep, but it is probable that an abnormal physical condition had something to do with the circumstance. Now it is evident that such concentration on one subject could come only from the profound satisfaction which the occupation afforded. Indeed, nothing can be more evident than that Newton's chief impulse in his scientific work was the pleasure to be derived from the game he played with Nature to wrest her secrets from her. The thought of any material profit from the occupation, or even any desire of the fame of accomplishment, must have been a distraction that would have made such absolute concentration an impossibility. If there is any doubt about this, it is settled by an incident that took place early in Newton's career. When he had published the first installment of his great work on Optics, he became involved in a dispute with Lucas, a mathematical professor at Liege. After conducting the controversy for some time with great patience and courtesy, he wrote to a friend: "I see I have made myself a slave to Philosophy, but if I get free of Mr. Lucas' business I will resolutely bid adieu to it eternally, excepting what I do for my own private satisfaction or leave to come out after me; for I see that a man must resolve to put out nothing new, or to become a slave to defend it. * * * Philosophy is such an impertinently litigious lady that a man has as good be engaged in lawsuits as have to do with her." Luckily, he was persuaded to break this resolution.

Newton was the greatest physicist of the 17th century.

Henry Cavendish.

Let us turn now to his most eminent successor in the 18th century. With one possible exception, probably no physicist ever lived so completely for the pleasure of reasearch as Henry Cavendish. Brother of a Duke of Devonshire and, by virtue of fortunes bequeathed to him, possibly the wealthiest man of his time, in his three London houses Cavendish lived, with slight exceptions, the life of a hermit. Every Thursday he dined with his fellow-members of the Royal Society. His dinners on other days were ordered by a note placed on his hall table and his servants were directed to keep out of his sight on pain of dismissal. The only relative he saw was his nephew and heir, and him he only saw for a few minutes once a year. About once a year also his tailor visited him by appointment, when his services had become indispensable. The only evidence that Cavendish was not a complete sybarite of science is the fact that, at regular hours on certain days, he attended at one of his houses, where he kept his books, to lend them to anyone who could use them intelligently. Some of his investigations were communicated by Cavendish to the Royal Society and these esaily gained him the reputation of being one of the greatest living scientists, but the most of his discoveries were completely described in documents which were sealed and filed away in his study and were not published until nearly a hundred years later, when it was found that he had anticipated many of the important discoveries made later by Michael Faraday, William Black and others. When we contemplate the life, possessions and position of this singular man of genius, we must admit that the keen pleasure he derived from research was almost the single impelling motive in his life, while there is no evidence that he was constitutionally lacking in any of the ordinary capacities for pleasure.

Leaders of Physics.

Among the leaders of physics in the 19th century I choose William Thomson, Lord Kelvin, as a representative. Any of his great contemporaries, Faraday, Maxwell or Helmholtz would serve my purpose equally well, but Kelvin's life is a singularly agreeable one to contemplate. While popularly known as the creator of the Atlantic calbe, in the extraordinary range of his work he recalls and even excelled Newton; for since Newton's time a new and very important branch, that of Electric Currents, has been added to physics by the discoveries of Volta and Faraday. In fact, the range of physics has now become so wide that it is improbable that Newton and Kelvin will have a successor to bestride the science as a Colossus. It would be difficult to think of any respect in which Kelvin's life would not be considered successful. His discoveries in physics brought him such reverence from fellow physicists and the general public that wherever he went in his numerous journeys in Europe and in America, which he visited several times (as he was chairman of the commission to utilize Niagara), his reception was that of a prince of science. His practical sagacity as well as his scientific knowledge and singular tact led to his appointment as chairman or member of numerous commissions for the improvement of conditions in England. As a by-product of his purely scientific activity Kelvin acquired great wealth from rotaylties on scores of instruments of the most intensely practical nature. Finally, that nothing should be lacking to the outward success of such a career, he was raised to that most coveted of social positions, membership in the House of Lords, thouh it is amusing to note that it led to a foreigner writing to England to ask who was this Kelvin who was claiming to have invented all of Sir William Thomson's instruments. Kelvin's success as a scientist was only equalled by his gentleness, courtesy and humor (and these the present speaker has some cause to remember, as he worked for a time where Kelvin was a frequent visitor) and in consequence he possessed a host of warm friends in all ranks of society. Hence it will be admitted that Kelvin's life was nearly one of perfect success. If we now inquire what was the motive of his immense activity, we must admit that he enjoyed the fame and glory that came to him, that he did not despise any of the good things of life, and further, that in the work for the good of his fellows a strong sense of duty played an important part; but the excitement, glee and humor that permeate his prodigious scientific correspondence show that it was the game of research that filled him with the deepest delight. If landed by shipwreck on the astronomer's island, Kelvin would probably have at once have taken out his little green note book and added some notes that had just occurred to him on his most recent investigation, as he was accustomed absent-mindedly to do among his guests on his own yacht.

Physical Chemistry.

No greater contrast to Kelvin's career could be found than that of the greatest of American physicists, Willard Gibbs of New Haven. The details of his life need not detain us long. Gibbs lived and died an obscure professor of physics on a small salary in Yale University. In fact, for the first ten years of his professorship he received no salary whatever. He did not attend scientific meetings or discuss the work he had in hand with fellow workers. He published the greatest of his work as obscurely as possible in the proceedings of the Connecticut Academy of Sciences. But, even so, it was discovered after many years by two of the greatest of his contemporaries, Clerk Maxwell in England and Boltzmann in Vienna. Later the papers were translated into German and French, but Gibbs never republished them, and until his works were published after his death, they were read in German and French by Gibbs' fellow countrymen. If I say they were on the Phase Rule I shall convey no meaning to anyone but a physicist or a chemist, but I may add that they form the theoretical groundwork of the great modern branch of physics and chemistry called physical chemistry and are being applied daily to the most important practical investigations in metallurgy and applied chemistry. Near the end of his life Gibbs published a book of great originality on Statistical Mechanics, the value of which was not recognized until later, and again it was the product of prolonged study of which, I believe, no one was aware. I can quote no words of Gibbs to show the motive of his life-long study of the most difficult problems of science, but when we consider the absolute lack of ostentation, ambition or desire of reward of any kind that his life and method of working reveal, it must be evident that the pure pleasure of such work was the source of his inspiration. Indeed, it is not clear but that any man of not unocmmon ability might accomplish as great results, if working with similar serenity of concentration in the field that interests him most. Life on the atsronomer's island would have had some compensations for Gibbs.

Newcomb's Astronomy

Of a different type and temperament was Simon Newcomb. Born in Nova Scotia and resident, I believe, for a time in New Brunswick, he went at an early age to the United States and ultimately became the greatest astronomer of his day. It is a curious fact that astronomy is the only branch of pure science in which America leads the world and it is, on the whole, the one least capable of practical application, a point that is worthy of consideration by those who think that the conditions of life on this continent are hostile to idealism. No one who ever saw Newcomb could doubt that behind the glare of his eyes and the singular intentness of attitude of his burly figure lay a character of uncommon strength and intensity of purpose or that he would have been found in the front line of almost any profession that he might have chosen. James Bryce said that if Newcomb had turned his attention to business he would have amassed a great fortune. Yet he remained content through life with a professorship of mathematics in the navy, devoting his spare time to astronomy and physics. Of his career in general this is not the place to speak, but it may be of interest to quote his own somewhat rhetorical account of his aims and motives. "To this work," he said on one occasion, speaking of Celestial Mechanics, "I was especially attracted because its preparation seemed to embody the highest intellectual power to which man has ever attained. The matter used to present itself to me somewhat in this way. Supply any man with the fundamental data of astronomy, the time at which the stars and planets come to the meridian of a place, and other matters of this kind. He is informed that each of these bodies whose observation he is to use is attracted to all the others with a force that varies as the inverse square of their distance apart. From these data he has to weigh the bodies, predict

U. N. B. ENCOENIA.

Once again the annual Encoenia of the University of New Brunswick has come round and congratulations may very deservedly be extended to the young men and the young women who today receive their degrees upon the completion of their courses of study. That event brings to a close the opening chapter in their careers; today they enter upon another and perhaps sterner phase, in that they will now have to face in real earnest the more serious problems of life's work, for which all that has gone before has been but the preparation.

The graduating class this year is one of the largest the institution has ever sent out and indicates a bright promise for the future. The addresses of the various speakers at the exercises today are, in keeping with the times, short and practical, but all the more well worthy of careful perusal by the general public. All are optimistic that the standard of excellence attained by the University of New Brunswick in the past will be lived up to and even exceeded in the years to come.

PRICES GOING UP.

A further advance in the price of bread is imminent. On Saturday the Canadian Wheat Board advanced the price of Northwestern wheat 35 cents, and of Ontario and Quebec wheat 40 cents a bushel, and this week millers put up the price of flour $1.45 per barrel. Naturally bakers will make a correspondingly higher quotation for bread. To add to the bitterness of this blow, the Provincial Treasurer of Manitoba expresses the opinion that next season's western wheat will sell at $3 a bushel. As an exchange points out, there is faint prospect therefore of cheap bread for the next year and more, and when wheat is dear all grains are dear, and dear grains mean dear meats; and so the circle widens. Nor is there any avenue of escape, until the production of the world overtakes the demand with something to spare. It is premature to estimate the harvests of the coming summer, but already the promise of abundance is far from bright. The season in Canada is late, so backward that the area which otherwise would be sown with wheat may be diminished. Russia is still sealed to trade. Australia has a poor crop and will be hard pushed to supply her domestic wants. The indicated yield of winter wheat in the United States is 484,647,000 bushels against a crop of 731,636,000 last year, a reduction of 247,000,000 bushels, or more than the whole exportable surplus of Canada from a bumper crop. Conditions may change for the better, but at best wheat will sell at an extraordinarily high price, and all foodstuffs be affected correspondingly. Nor can a ready remedy be found. Market quotations will respond to the relation of supply to demand, the cost of living will remain high, and farmers will continue to complain that there is no profit in their occupation.

RECREATION.

The plane of government every now and again is raised by being practiced by some gentle ascetic who elevates it by the very simplicity of his high purpose. Such characters emerge only too infrequently; and when they do arise their very modesty often deprives their fellows from recognizing them. One such, in our opinion, is Edward Grey, Viscount of Falloden, for the nine years preceding the outbreak of the Great War secretary of state for foreign affairs in Great Britain, and recently ambassador extraordinary to the United States.

Viscount Grey has written a little book entitled Recreation, which is to be commended to the thoughtful perusal of all men busily engaged in performing the daily task, in meeting life's common obligations. Its revelation is not that of the statesman but of the man; but in that the two be indivisible, the former may the better be understood through the intimacies gleaned of the latter.

For the next century men will turn to a study of Edward Grey, as today they ponder the well-lived lives of national figures who did most for their own peoples. He will be seen to have been a kindly gentleman, active in the world's momentous strife while aching under the most acute domestic sorrow; a lover of books, without being a pedant; high principled, made more notable by innate modesty; one, as a contemporary remarks, "who "walks humbly because of wide "knowledge and due appreciation of "the works of the Creator."

From out of his recreations Edward Grey learned to find the best in nature and in man, which are much akin. He pursued his simple tastes, and occupied his limited leisure, to attain to unsullied happiness in life. He has had his dire misfortunes; but men equipped as he has equipped himself are buoyed upon waters in which others submerge. Not that he contends recreation constitutes life; far from it. It is not the most important attribute of the day's calls; but its total omission deprives man of his complete attainment. Lord Grey points to four attributes even more important. "The first is some "moral standard by which to guide "our actions. The second is some "satisfactory home life in the form "of good relations with family or "friends. The third is some form of "work which justifies our existence "to our country and makes us good "citizens. The fourth thing is some "degree of leisure, and the use of it "in some way that makes us happy."

This is the season in which one should be most aptly disposed to consider how he or she is spending or proposes to spend his or her leisure moments. Lord Grey fishes, being a lifelong devotee to sport with the salmon and trout. He gardens, imbibing far more than he reaps. He walks a great deal, seeing and hearing as he meanders upland paths or traverses highways. And he reads, perhaps most of all.

"Books," he says, "are the greatest "and the most satisfactory of recreations. I mean the use of books for "pleasure. Without books, without "having acquired the power of reading for pleasure, none of us can be "independent; but if we can read we "have a sure defence against boredom and solitude. If we have not "that defence, we are dependent upon "the charity of family, friends, or "even strangers, to save us from boredom; but if we can delight in reading, even a long railway journey "alone ceases to be tedious, and long "winter evenings to ourselves are an "inexhaustible opportunity for pleasure."

If the people of the older countries appear in our estimation to play too much it is certain we play too little. Men and women in the United States are understood to have realized this drawback in their own scheme of life, and are daily correcting it. More and more all classes are forsaking a slavish devotion to business, to the exclusion of every thought for the recreating of mind and body.

Canadians should perceive the same need in themselves. They ought to be enticed to engage more in recreation.

St. John Standard: "There is a "rumor abroad that Premier Foster "is inclined, instead of holding by-"elections in St. John and Carleton "county, to call on a general provin-"cial election in the early future. "Whether there is anything in the "rumor or not, we of course are un-"able to say; but there are many "reasons which would operate to "make such a course advisable from "the Government's point of view."

DOMVILLE CASE BEFORE THE COURTS

Ottawa, May 12.—Senators Edwards and Cloran, who were subpoenaed to appear in the Exchequer Court to give evidence in the case brought by Senator Domville against the assets of the now defunct Central Railway of Canada for $20,000, but pleaded parliamentary privilege for non-attendance, will be required to attend, but not until after the Senate has adjourned. The case has been adjourned until June 1 for this reason.

Allegations of irregularities in connection with the funds of the Central Railway of Canada were made by Mr. George E. Kidd, K. C., counsel for Senator Domville, but he explained that Senator Edwards and Cloran were being called to show that Senator Domville had done useful work for the company, and not in connection with irregularities.

CHATHAM CHILD MISSING TWO DAYS

Chatham, N. B., May 12.—Little Jimmie Anderson, the two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Anderson, has been lost since yesterday morning. All yesterday afternoon and last night friends and neighbors searched everywhere for him, but up to the present no trace of him has yet been found. He was last seen yesterday morning playing in the yard at his home, and although his home is near the river his parents are clinging to the hope that he has wandered off and are momentarily expecting news to the effect that he has been found.

PRICE OF GASOLINE

The Standard Oil Co. of New York announces an advance in the price of gasoline to garages of 1½ cents to 30 cents a gallon. Independents are reported to be quoting 32 cents. This will bring the retail price in the United States to 34 or 35 cents. The advance this year is 2 per cent. altogether. Gasoline in New Brunswick is worth 45 cents retail.

Merrithew was injured internally and is in a serious condition. Mr. Douse was badly cut, bruised and otherwise injured. Both are at the Presque Isle hospital. LEAD DRY FORCES IN THE PLEBISCITE

Rev. Thomas Marshall Selected by the Temperance People of Province for the Job

St. John, May 13.—A special meeting of the quarterly board of the Fairville Methodist church was held last night to receive a delegation from the New Brunswick Temperance Alliance, which was headed by Rev. W. D. Wilson, chief inspector for province. Mr. Wilson explained that the referendum in regard to the prohibitory act would come before the people between July 4 and 10, and he said that his committee was sent by the alliance to make application of the board for the services of Rev. Thomas Marshall, whom they wished to make general manager of the temperance campaign in the province. J. Willard Smith, also of the delegation, spoke of Mr. Marshall's long experience in temperance and felt that there was no other man in the province so capable and efficient in this particular work as Mr. Marshall. The meeting voted unanimously to relieve Mr. Marshall of his duties as pastor for the time specified on the understanding that the church would be supplied with a pastor to fill the pulpit for that time. The delegation thanked the board, saying that it was appreciated that the church was making a considerable sacrifice. Mr. Marshall takes up his new duties this morning.

FREE EMPLOYMENT SERVICE COSTLY

Premier Foster Says the Province Would Have to Pay $15,000 to Continue

St. John, May 13.—At the City Council meeting yesterday a letter was received from Premier Foster with reference to the city's request that the government take steps to maintain the free employments service. The letter said that the service would cost $30,000, of which the province would have to pay $15,000 and the government considered that was too much to pay. The Premier added that the cities of Moncton and Fredericton were willing to pay one-quarter of the cost and that an official of the Labor Department at Ottawa was coming to the province to look into the matter shortly in the hope of working out some scheme.

POTATOES SHOW DROP AT MONTREAL

Montreal, May 12.—The wholesale price for potatoes is down to $5.50 per 90 pound bag, an appreciable drop, according to a large wholesale house in the city, following the arrival of fresh supplies for Montreal. This drop has not yet been felt by the retail trade, and the price remains steady, 90 cents per 12 pounds. There has been practically no decrease in the demand for potatoes noticed in the stores in spite of the high prices, and the general public still remains faithful to the spud, though food experts have pointed out that it is useful as a filler only, and contains a comparatively small amont of nourishment.

The Stock Market

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York (Wall Street), May 13.—Lack of buying power effected further shrinkage of quoted values at the moderately active opening of today's stock market. Overnight advices dealing with the general industrial and financial conditions were mostly of a character to give renewed encouragement to the short account. Pressure continued to concentrate in steels, equipments, motors and textiles, in which reactions averaged a point. Investment rails also lost ground on prospects of a new strike in the middle west and specialties reflected additional liquidation.

FROM THE PEOPLE

PROHIBITION

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I see by The Gleaner tonight that the Rev. Thomas Marshall has been presenting another "executive" report to the so-called New Brunswick Temperance Alliance, which has begun to hold its meetings in secret, and that "the executive's" latest production declares that "this province now enjoys the unenviable reputation of being the only one in the Dominion whose Legislature has refused to the people the opportunity to vote upon the question of real prohibition for rich and poor alike."

It requires "some" boldness to incorporate such a statement in a report of an executive committee of an organization calling itself a "Temperance Alliance" and to hand it out—even from a secret temperance meeting—for public consumption. There is no man or woman who follows public events but who knows that this statement of the executive committee of the New Brunswick Temperance Alliance is untrue.

Why only yesterday, Mr. Editor, I read a despatch from Vancouver, published in Saturday's Montreal Daily Star, reporting that British Columbia has refused the prohibitionists the Dominion referendum. Here is an extract from the despatch:

"There was an act providing for a referendum on prohibition which is likely to be set some time in August. The Prohibition party asked that provision be made to have this followed by a Dominion vote on the question of importation, but this request was turned down, and it is understood that this vote will not be taken until some time next year at the earliest."

But what is to be said of the intelligence of an "executive," whose members themselves compiled the New Brunswick Prohibition Act, with their own lawyer at their elbow, describing their own act as a prohibition act, which is aimed at the poor only, and does not affect the rich?

What else is meant by Rev. Mr. Marshall's reference to the refusal of the Legislature to give the people an opportunity to vote upon the question of "real prohibition for rich and poor alike?"

Yet Mr. Marshall and his fellow agitators of the New Brunswick Temperance Alliance, so it was publicly announced only a day or two ago, are now starting in to expend $30,000 in a campaign to foist this unreal—half-baked, he might better have said—prohibition act upon the poor people of New Brunswick.

I fully agree that this N. B. Temperance Alliance's Act is an act which operates principally, if not entirely, against the poor. To appreciate this fact you have only to read its provisions with regard to obtaining liquor when needed for the treatment of sickness, which make it impossible for a poor man, who cannot have any stimulants in his home, to obtain even the smallest quantity for the most urgent need, without employing a physician to visit his home—in many cases it may be a distance of many miles—and then sending a signed prescription to a licensed vendor—who, again, may be many miles away—and then paying on top of all this expense two or three prices for the stimulant needed for his relief, which, had it not been for this Act, he might have obtained from a kindly neighbor.

Yours,

TRUTH.

MOTHER IN LAW BOGY

To the Editor of The Gleaner.

Sir,—Your From the Public column is always a source of social education to me, because of its practical subject matter.

There is in circulation in this generation such a volume of ridicule and tommyrot aimed at "married life" and "mothers-in-law" through the newspapers and magazines, motion pictures and the legitimate stage, that marriage and parental respect are being cheapened. People are beginning to believe that marriage means not the noble institution and foundation of Canadian life that it ought to be, but a proposition of "I'll try anything once." Hence our courts are overflowing with divorce actions.

The man and wife nowadays seem to have a presupposed and "taken for granted" theory that "mother-in-law" is synonymous with the plague. This is justified in few cases, but once started on the mother-in-law proposition husband and wife do battle, and the wife generally wins and the son forgets his mother.

Mother love and love of wife are entirely reconcilable because they rest on an entirely different basis and are different types of love. But in any circumstances a son who forsakes and forgets a good mother who had to sacrifice to bring him up is not worthy to be called a good Christian or Canadian. And if his wife forces him to desert his mother, she is not a good wife or a good mother, and happiness cannot be theirs if they thereafter live together.

There is nothing so symbolic of a Canadian son's love for his mother as is contained in that favorite hymn, "Tell Mother I'll Be There."

Yours,

A SON.

ARMENIA ONLY PART FREE

To the Editor of The Gleaner:

Sir,—Obviously a misunderstanding prevails on this continent concerning the present political status of Armenia, and newspaper captions such as "Armenia Formally Recognized by the United States" adds to the confusion.

After the Bolshevist revolution of Nov. 17, 1917, the Armenians, the Georgians and the Azerbaijan Tartars, in the Trans-Caucasian region united their fortunes by organizing at Tiflis a joint parliament, which on April 22, 1918, declared the independence of this region under the name of the Federal Republic of Trans-Caucasia. On May 26, 1918, this Federal Republic was dissolved, and there were born the Armenian, the Azerbaijan and the Georgian republics of the Caucasus. The Supreme Council on Jan. 26, 1920, with a view to making Trans-Caucasia a permanent barrier against the advance of Bolshevism, recognized these republics formally.

The Armenian Republic of the Caucasus, with its capital at Erivan, is composed of the Province of Erivan, parts of the provinces of Kars, Tiflis and Elizabethpol—former territories of Russian Armenia. Its area is 26,000 square miles, and it has a population of 2,160,000 of whom 1,233,000 are Armenians.

The recognition by the Allies and by the United States Government of the de facto Government of the Armenian Republic of the Caucasus, which has been in existence for two years, is only a perfunctory step. For the reconstitution of the Armenian State it is necessary that the Allies and the United States recognize the independence of United Armenia, which should include Russian Armenia, the seven Armenian provinces of Turkish Armenia and Cilicia; and that the Allies unanimously offer to assist the United States in the disarming of the Turks and the pacification of the entire area of Armenia.

Yours,

ARMENIAN.

Millions for Luxuries but Pennies for Education, Laments Hilton D. McKnight In Valedictory on Behalf of Class of 1920

Suggests Establishment of Department of Education at the University as Practical Method for Province to Supply Needed Teachers for Schools

Hilton D. McKnight, of Fredericton, in the valedictory at the University of New Brunswick encoenia proceedings today said:

Another college year has passed beyond recall with its failures and successes, with ambitions that have been realized, with ideals that have not been attained and we of the class of 1920 stand with our foot upon the threshold of the open door about to step out into "the wide, wide world. For four years this day has been our goal. Toward it we have looked with expectancy and put forth our best endeavor and it has altimately been reached. We have listened to the "Well done" of our Chancellor, but, even now other scenes, other pursuits await us and we realize that we have made simply a beginning. Our goal has receded and we must now employ our cherished theories to cope with the sterner realities of that larger life for which this has been put a preparation.

Before we pass finally from the halls of our Alma Mater, it is in order briefly to review the history of the class. In the autuma of 1916, as freshmen we numbered thirty-two. We were subjected to a mild form of introduction by the sophomores and learned that in colleeg life "the first great law is—To obey." We entered upon the sophomore year "proud of our student profession." Our number has been diminished by ten, and though at this time the whole student body numbered barely forty, what was lacking in numbers was made up in spirit. A brief sojourn had developed a feeling of loyalty to all that pertained to U. N. B. and of responsibility for maintaining her honors. Custom had made us the leaders of the freshmen and we were painfully vigilant lest harm should in any way befall them. We had at that time, perhaps, an undue amount of confidence in our ability, yet it is to be hoped that we stood for the enforcement of our unwritten laws in such a way as would tell in promoting a clean, well-ordered college life.

During those trying days in 1917, consequent upon the submarine losses, the collapse of Russia, the failure of the French offensive, the disaster which had overtaken the Italian arms and our own failures at Passchendale and Cambrai, where the fighting men paid with their lives for the tuition of the higher command, during this sombre period we endeavored to keep alive the college activities against the dawning of a brighter day. Encoenia Day, 1918, with the fortunes of the Allies apparently at their lowest ebb, found it rather doubtful if the old college would be able to open its doors in the fall.

But had we known, even then the tide was turning. The long sought leader had been found. Marshal Foch, "the organizer of victory," had assumed the supreme command and defeat was to know us no more. And then the glorious hundred days which made the world safe for free peoples; those crowded hours of glorious life which will live forever in our memory.

After the War Progress.

When we returned to resume our work as juniors the old college had secured a new lease of life. A large freshman class and the first of the returned students from overseas brought about this happy result. The ranks of our class were augmented by two of these men, making our number fifteen. On the successful conclusion of the war all college functions were revived on a pre-war scale. For the second time the irrepressible co-eds of the 1920 class responded with a junior tea; the annual "Con" was also revived with complete success.

Our senior year has been one of the most successful in the history of the college. In addition to the return of former students from overseas there has been the largest enrollment of new students on record. We might now survey very briefly the events of the past year.

Much of the time at college must be spent on the purely academic subjects of the prescribed curriculum, and yet the primary object of a college course is to fit us for the duties of life and the development which comes to us from study is one-sided when not supplemented by that which is derived from an active participation in college affairs and the student societies. The undergraduate who does not link himself with some of these and give them an unqualified support has not only missed one of the most enjoyabl phases of college life but has failed to develop some of those characteristics which make us readier men in practical contact with the world.

The Debating Society's Benefits.

Especially is this true of the Debating Society. A university may teach a man to reason soundly and furnish him with ideas but unless he can express himself clearly and forcibly, his influence will be limited. Many of our most distinguished graduates, those who are making themselves felt as leaders in the world, were active supporters of the Debating Society and look upon the weekly debates as an important factor in our course. It is to be regretted that they were not participated in by as large a number as should be the case and we cannot too strongly urge upon those who remain the great importance of tconstant attendance at the meetings. The college man who desires to fit himself for an efficient public service can ill afford to miss the opportunities which they offer. We debated the representatives of Dalhousie University in this city and, while we did not secure the decision, we feel that our efforts were amply repaid by the discipline of the manly contest, the outcome of which was scarcely surprising in view of the size and reputation of our opponent.

The sessions of the annual Mock Parliament, together with the Mock Trial, are intended to give an insight into the official phraseology and methods of our legal and political life and should secure a hearty support.

During the year the issues of the University Monthly have been regular and timely, excelling especially in technical articles.

The Real Object of Athletics.

Another phase of college activity which, rightly used, can be made a powerful complement of our scholastic attainments, is athletics. There is a very noticeable tendency to overlook the real object of college athletics. Not the winning of games but the physical improvement of the largest possible number of players is the result most to be desired. In some of the larger colleges prizes are awarded, not for the best athletes among the students, but for those students who show the greatest imporvement in their physical condition. Thus the greatest incentive to indulge in healthful exercise is extended to those who most need it.

Football practice was well attended and, although we did not succeed in winning the Clark trophy, we did succeed in preserving the status quo. Prospects for next season, when our most formidable rival must play us on our home field, are very bright. In hockey, after a phenomenally successful trip, our team suffered its first set back on the home ice. In basketball our young men were remarkably successful, defeating all the best teams in the Maritime Provinces; while the college team, recruited from the so-called gentler sex, gained a popular victory over the young ladies of Plaster Rock.

The organized societies of the ladies' department have also had a prosperous year. The Ladies' Debating Society has held some interesting and instructive debates, while the Ladies' Society has added much to the social life of the college.

During the past year another name has been added to our list of Rhodes Scholars. Mr. Gregory Bridges has our best wishes for a successful career in that ancient seat of learning, where now as Kipling has said:

"The merry clerks of Oxenford they read and they are told,
Of famous men who drew the sword in furious fights of old:
They hark and mark it faithfully, but never clerk will write
What vision rides 'twixt book and eye from any nearer fight."

Millions for Luxuries, Pennies for Education.

This University has contributed very largely to the teaching profession. A very large proportion of the most successful teachers in New Brunswick are graduates of this institution which, moreover, is the head of the Provincial scheme of education. By the establishment of a department of education at the University, we would secure a closer connection between the Provincial system of education and the examination for teachers' license. The graduate could then be required to teach for a stated period in his own province before going elsewhere. A large number of schools in this province are closed through lack of teachers. Alberta, on the other hand, reports that a teacher is available for every school, many of them trained at the expense of the New Brunswick taxpayer.

Year after year good professors are leaving us. Just when they begin to understand conditions here and thus are better able to help the college, tempting offers come from outside and they go. The University needs more money.

In August, 1914, England possessed roughly, 150,000 motor cars; today Canada, with less than one-fifth of Britain's population, owns twice that number of automobiles. We have millions for luxuries, but pennies for education.

The Thanks of the Class.

To you, Mr. Chancellor and gentlemen of the faculty, we desire to express our appreciation of the just and impartial treatment we have always received at your hands. If our lives are succesful, we owe it in a large measure to the training we have received here. For four years you have been our guides, advisors and friends. We thank you for your patience with us and for your faithful efforts in leading us to think for ourselves. In bidding you farewell we carry away with us only the most pleasant memories and wish you the fullest success in your furure work.

To the citizens of Fredericton we extend our hearty thanks for the many tokens of thoughtfulness and kindness which have come from you to us. The days we have spent in your beautiful city will ever be remembered with pleasure, largely because of your efforts to make our stay pleasant as well as profitable.

To the undergraduates, our fellow students, little ned be said. We understand one another. We have worked together; we have played together; we have yelled over victories; we have accepted defeat; but through all our course we have prided ourselves that U. N. B. has always acted fairly—even to its own disadvantage. This standard we leave in your keeping. May there be no blot upon it when you have laid it down.

One word more and that the most difficult of all to utter, will close our college career; to faculty, students, friends—farewell.

A young man may be as old as he feels, but he is seldom as rich as he looks.

Roosters do a lot of crowing, but the hens egg them on.

NEW COURT HOUSE FOR ST. JOHN COUNTY

Money Granted to Prepare the Plans—$2,500 Toward the Purchase of Steam Ferry

St. John, May 12.—At the morning session of the County Council it was finally decided to authorize an additional overdraft of $1,000 and left the matter of assessment or bond issue to care for the overdraft for consideration at the January meeting.

No definite decision regarding the construction of a new court house was reached but the inclination of the council was indicated by a grant of $600 for the preparation of sketch plans of a new building to guide them in their decision. The local branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada has volunteered to assist with the preparation of such plans.

The council voted $2,500 towards the purchase of a steam ferryboat for the Lancaster route, provided the city will grant the same amount. An advance of $1,000 for maintenance was approved on condition that the city and Provincial government each vote equal sums.

Authority was given for the issue of $10,000 in debentures for the establishment of recreation grounds in Lancaster.

POISON FIENDS IN HANDS OF JUSTICE

Man and Girl Confess to Having Poisoned the Former's Parents

Salina, Kansas, May 12.—Confessions were obtained today from Lee Bunch, aged 21, and Miss Stella Hyman, aged 29, that they had poisoned the parents of Bunch last summer, it was announced by County Attorney M. J. Healy. According to both alleged confessions, Miss Hyman gave fly poison to Mrs. Bunch, who was her sister, and later to Mr. Bunch, because they opposed her marriage to Lee Bunch.

Poisoned pie was given Miss Nancy Bunch, according to Miss Hyman's reported confession, but the girl recovered.

Miss Hyman and Bunch were arrested Monday as the result of a long investigation which followed the death of Mr. and Mrs. Bunch last summer. A charge of murder will be placed against them, Mr. Healy said.

REFUSE TO ACCEPT M'LEAN APOLOGY

Winnipeg, May 12.—Blunt refusal to accept the apology tendered by Brigadier General H. H. McLean at Ottawa for his remarks about the wives of soldiers was the keynote of a resolution passed at a meeting of the central branch of the G. W. V. A. last night. The Women's Service League of the same body passed a similar resolution.

PROTEST AGAINST IRISH EMIGRATION

Dublin, May 12—A semi-official pronouncement on behalf of the Sinn Fein and the Gaelic League has been issued at Leitrim.

It protests against the increasing emigration of young men, declaring that this is not the time for Ireland's manhood to desert her. The pronouncement declares that if this appeal should be disregarded other means will be adopted to prevent emigration.

RECALLS ROBERTS' WORK FOR EMPIRE

Calls Upon Graduating Class to Remember the Motto of Alma Mater

Col. Murray MacLaren, C.M.G., B.A., M.D., LL.D., in his Address to the Graduating Class at the Encoenia of the University of New Brunswick this afternoon, spoke as follows:

The University has allotted to me, on this Encoenial day, the pleasing duty of warmly congratulating you upon the successful completion of your undergraduate curriculum. Diligent application has been required to satisfy the standards and now you are passing out from the university; as loyal sons and daughters, you are not leaving her, but will surely, in the future, manifest that interest and affection in her welfare to which she is fairly entitled.

The steadfast aim of our venerated and honored institution has ever been to offer a training thorough and sound. Amid the peaceful surroundings of the College Hill, without ostentation she has sought to impress upon her students whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report.

You have enjoyed the advantages of university life; of receiving, under the supervision of a staff of able and earnest men, invaluable instruction and mental training and, not least of all, of forming fast friendships. You have studied with diligence, which no doubt varied with the individual, but all, I am satisfied, have worked to a substantial degree. Max Muller once said that Oxford would be Paradise regained if the long vacation lasted the whole year. You have not harbored such a thought. This was not the utterance of an undergraduate, as one might assume. Here amidst my present surroundings let me say, but only sotto voce, it was said by a professor. To be fair, however, it will be admitted that Muller's wish was for an opportunity for uninterrupted work and thought.

Given good health, the future is in your own hands for the making, the responsibility is placed squarely upon your shoulders, there is no skidding; and so, with full appreciation of the difficulties before you, with courage in your hearts, you will gladly and proudly pass on.

You may be assured that the University will follow your progress with keen interest; your welfare will be her hope, your distinction will be her glory.

COL. MURRAY MacLAREN, C.M.G.

Character Is Essentia.

I would that I might say something helpful to you today—a word of wisdom. Much can be done to cultivate wisdom. The ancient philosophers, according to Cicero, defined wisdom to be the knowledge of things human and divine, and the causes by which these things are regulated: a study that if any man despises, what can he think deserving of esteem? As a guide to wisdom, I urge upon you the contemplation of the lives of eminent men.

It is striking, though not surprising, how frequently it occurs that with great professional attainments and splendid scientific capabilities there is associated nobility of character. It is hardly so much an association as that the possession of a noble character is an important factor and assists so much in the full achievement of a successful vocational life.

Character is essential in bringing out and making the most of literary, scientific and all other attainments.

It is but a few years since I had the privilege of being shown the Bodleian library and having had its treasures pointed out to me by the regius professor at Oxford, the late Sir Wm. Osler. Osler was one of the most eminent physicians of his time with remarkable literary gifts. From his intense humanitarianism and qualities of heart and mind, he has been described as the best loved man in the world. He filled professional chairs successively in four Universities—Montreal, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Oxford—and termed himself a University tramp. His addresses on academic occasions are memorable.

One of his ideals was to cultivate such a measure of equanimity as would enable him to bear success with humility, the affection of his friends without pride, and to be ready when the day of sorrow and grief came to meet it with the courage befitting a man.

To the students of Toronto University he told the secret of life. The master word, he said, I propose to give you in the hope, yes in the full assurance, that some of you at least will lay hold upon it to your profit. Though a little one, the master word looms large in meaning. It is the open sesame of every portal, the great equalizer in the world, the true philosopher's stone which transmutes all the base metal of humanity into gold. Not only has it been the touchstone of progress, but it is the measure of success in every life. And the master word is Work. Write it on the tablets of your hearts and bind it upon your foreheads.

For our peace of mind we should never forget the deep conviction he had of the hatefulness of strife, of its uselessness, of its disastrous effect and the still deeper conviction of the blessings that come with unity, peace and concord.

Lord Roberts' Patriotism.

In the autumn of 1914, a few weeks before his end, there came to see the Canadian Overseas Forces then in Salisbury Plain, an old man, the greatest British soldier of his day and yet his grandest work, though ineffectual as it proved, was done at the age of eighty, when, perceiving the danger the Empire stood in from unpreparedness, he carried on his glorious campaign against the ignorance, the apathy and the long standing prejurice of the country, declaring that the tendency to forget the lessons of past events as soon as those events are over seems to be almost irrsistible. Nothing apparently but absolute disaster is likely to cure us of the inveterate belief which somehow or other we are exempt from all the laws which have governed the rise and fall of nations and can always rely upon some miraculous interposition of Providence to see through the hours of danger. Throughout the country, he dared to urge his conviction, which fell for the greater part upon unwilling and hostile ears. Like Cassandra's, his words of warning wisdom were unheeded and were soon followed by those dire consequences which the whole world now realizes. Yet his brave independent spirit and patriotism and the complete vindication of his apepal should surely cause the British nation to be proud and thankful for such a man as Lord Roberts.

Think of the motto of our University, Sapere aude—Dare to be wise. Be dauntless in acquiring wisdom. It means in pursuing one's course in life diligence, application, independence, resolution, abnegation, an open mind, steadfastness of purpose. Write it upon the tablets of your hearts and bind it upon your foreheads.

The motto of the University of Aberdeen, chosen from the Book of Proverbs, gives the guidance to the basis of wisdom—Timor Domini, initium Sapientiae.

When visiting Aberdeen, the granite city of the North, in 1917, I saw inscribed on the walls of Marischal College the quaint words placed there in 1593 by its founder, the fifth Earl Marischal, "They have said What say they? Let them say." There is in them a breath of Boreas. Yet the spirit of the saying is that we should not be carried away by popular clamor or prejudice but courageously pursue the path of wisdom. Wisdom is the principal thing, therefore get wisdom. Sapere Ade.

This is the work that year by year,
While in her place the school is set,
Every one of her sons must hear,
And none that hears it dare forget.
This they all with joyful mind
Bear through life like a torch in flame,
And falling fling to the host behind—
Play up, play up and play the game.

And now, graduates, on behalf of the University I bid you farewell and God-speed.

Prof. Turner of the Engineering School In Address In Praise of the Founders Says Engineers Should Mediate World's Troubles

Declares Engineers Belong to Neither the Capital Nor Labor Class—Knowledge of Sociology and Ability to Think Constructively Valuable Assets

PROF. O. E. TURNER,
Professor of Civil Engineering at the University of New Brunswick.

Prof. Earle O. Turner, professor of civil engineering, in the Address in Praise of the Founders at the Encoenial proceedings at the University of New Brunswick, said:

The annual expression of our appreciation of the spirit of the Founders of this University has become an established custom. But this year of all years I feel that it is more clearly apparent to us that whatever stability of community, province or government we possess, is due primarily to education and religion. Besieged on all sides by radicalism and unrest, during the last year we have based our hopes of a reorganized world on the endurance of education and religion. It is fitting, therefore, that for a few moments today we should consider the advantages we have received from this and similar universities through the devotion of the Founders to the cause of education.

Quite naturally I must use the development of Engineering as an illustration. From the days of Babylon and before, men have practiced engineering. The consulting engineer for the Tower of Babel must have felt quite the same emotions as the present day consulting engineer who witnesses the failure of his bridge with in the inevitable loss of life. The engineering of those days, however, was based on experience alone, and the available data was far from complete.

Today we have available an infinitely greater number of practical investigations coupled with an endless discussion of theory. The prospective engineer who enters our present universtities is therefore introduced to an exceptionally fertile field for the development of any inherent skill he may possess. During his brief four year course he has at his disposal data contributed by the efforts of countless scientists who years ago struggled along with very little definite information. Do we not, therefore, owe much to the Founders who made possible the collection of this material?

Let us now consider in connection with the study of the modern engineer the definition of the term Civil Engineer. The old custom was to divide all engineers into two classes, civil and military. It follows, therefore, that up to the beginning of the nineteenth century we could quite properly have defined a civil engineer as any engineer not a military engineer. During the nineteenth century there sprang from the general profession of civil engineering, three special classes, mechanical, electrical and chemical. All of these three classes are as well known today as the older profession. In addition, much to the disgust of all graduate engineers, we are now deluged with all kinds of trade engineers such as the heating engineer, the plumbing engineer, the kitchen engineer, etc. It seems that anyone who does useful work feels entitled to attach the term engineer to their name. But for the men who have spent four hard years in schools of applied science there are but four classes of engineer—civil, mechanical, electrical and chemical.

The Civil Engineer Today.

I shall attempt in a few words to establish the position of the civil engineer of today. I wonder how many of us while we were peacegully seated in a parlor car, comfortably watching mile after mile of wilderness flit by, have stopped to realize the progress of transportation. How many have tried to visualize the toil and expense of constructing that railroad or just what it is actually worth to be travelling in luxury at the rate of 50 miles an hour, instead of rattling over the rocks in a stone chariot behind some prehistoric animal at the rate of one league in seven days. Before the labor unions became so strong that they could paralyze transportation if

Sir Robert Borden Discusses Details of the Forthcoming Budget at Cabinet Meeting

The Impending Retirement of the Premier From Public Life Revived in Political Circles, But All Agree Nothing Will Be Done for Some Months

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Ottawa, May 13.—Sir Robert Borden today presided over a meeting of the Cabinet. Details of the budget, which Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance, is to present to the House on Tuesday, were, it is understood, under consideration.

Sir Robert's return has revived rumors in political circles of his impending retirement from political life. Whatever the Premier's intentions are in this regard, he has given no indication. But it is learned on high authority that Sir Robert has no intention of retiring for some months yet, at any rate. During his five months' holiday his health improved wonderfully. Whether, however, it would be equal to a prolonged strain remains to be seen. A caucus of Unionist supporters to discuss the situation will, it is expected, be called at an early date.

Returned Soldier Takes Bride.

A wedding of local interest was solemnized at Beaver Dam, three weeks ago when Miss Ellen O'Leary, daughter of Thomas O'Leary, became the bride of Fred Nesbitt, formerly of this city, but now of Calgary. The bride was for some years bookkeeper at Oak Hall in this city and was very popular among a large list of friends. The groom also was a member of the staff of Oak Hall before he enlisted with the 58th Battery and went overseas, and was also a prominent member of the Fredericton Brass Band and other musical organizations of the city. After a honeymoon spent on the Pacific coast Mr. and Mrs. Nesbitt have taken up their residence at Calgary, where the groom holds an important position.

AN INCREASE IN TEACHERS SALARIES

tional city grant the trustees felt compelled to ask for it was found this would not satisfactorily work out. Each teacher, the period of service rendered, qualification and ability were considered, and the trustees were solicitous to do the best possible for the staff in order that each individual might be able to give his or her best for the welfare of the children without giving up too much time in financing for potatoes by the peck and sugar by the pound.

It was ultimately agreed to add one hundred dollars to the annual salary of all grade teachers, numbering over thirty. Then the principals were discussed, as also were the manual training, the household science, music, &c. instructors. These with the members of the High School staff with Dr. Foster at their head, were chiefly dealt with on a per cent. basis amounting to from 16 to 18 per cent. A majority of the janitors have been claiming for some time past that a substantial increase in pay was the only thing that would prompt them to continue holding down the job and these were also treated to an increase.

The increase of salaries to become effective at the beginning of the school year in the fall and will add about $7,000 to the pay list annually.

Four applications for the principalship of Smythe Street School, which has been held by Miss A. L. Taylor, but who intends to retire at the close of the year were read and will be dealt with probably at the regular meeting, with any others that may be received.

The question of fuel for the schools was taken up, and Mr. Lemont and Mr. Shute will study the situation.

The chairman asked for further consideration respecting the erection of a school building at Doak Settlement to replace the present structure which has successfully faced the storms along the Flanagan road for twenty-four years. It seems all the members are dissatisfied with the high tenders recently received for a building from plans drawn by G. Ernest Fairweather. When travelling improves the site will again be examined, and it is possible a very much plainer building may be proposed.

Upon the request of the Women Teachers' Association, the schools are having one session today to allow the teachers to attend the Encoenia exercises at the University of New Brunswick.

600 RAILWAYMEN RETURN TO WORK

Pittsburg, Pa., May 13—Six hundred shopmen, yardmen and trainmen of the Pittsburg and Lake Erie Railroad, who have been on strike at the important terminal at Dickerson Run, Penn., returned to work today, it was announced at the general offices of the company.

It is the most important break in the strikers' ranks since the strike was called a month ago.

At the regular meeting of the local K. of C. last evening a resolution of regret at the withdrawal from Fredericton of E. E. Brian was passed and he at the same time, on behalf of the society, was presented with a purse as a slight token of appreciation for his untiring efforts in carrying out the duties of his office as financial secretary.

MEETING OF THE U. N. B. SENATE

B. C. L. and D. C. L. Degrees Will Be Conferred to the Legal Profession

At the meeting of the Senate of the University of New Brunswick this morning it was decided that honorary degrees of LL. D. would be conferred on Prof. William McGinnis, B. A., Prof. A. W. Duff and Prof. W. F. Ganong.

A special meeting of the Senate will be called in a week to consider the matter of the Memorial Building. A motion was put forward and passed that the degrees of B. C. L. and D. C. L. be limited in future to only those of the legal profession.

After a discussion the Chancellor was authorized to grant the request of Mayor Reid for the use of The College field during the coming summer as a civic playground, provided that playing on the grounds be under supervision.

Armed and Masked Men Make Concerted Raids Throughout Distracted Ireland Today

The Principle Points of Attack Were Various Police Barracks From Which the Force Had Been Withdrawn to the Large Centres—Tax Officers Attacked

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, May 13.—Reports of an unusual number of activities by armed and masked men in various sections of Ireland were received in London today. The reports began trickling in early in the morning, and by noon had reached the proportions of an avalanche. Most of the police barracks which were the object of attack were not occupied by the regular police force, which had been sent to the larger centres.

Income tax offices also were again attacked and many documents were destroyed. A notable instance of such attack was a raid upon income tax offices in the heart of Belfast.

AUTOS CRASHED THIS AFTERNOON

Cars Smashed Up at Corner of Charlotte and St. John Sts. Today

An automobile driven by "Billy" Lounsbury, the well known U.N.B. hockey and football player, crashed with another car this afternoon at the corner of St. John and Charlotte streets.

Mr. Lounsbury's car was the heavier of the two and it turned the other completely over and threw it up against the curbing on Charlotte street at the lower side of St. John street. In some remarkable manner nobody was seriously injured in the wreck, although the cars, particularly the smaller one, were pretty badly smashed up.

Both cars were said to be making considerable speed, the Lounsbury car being on the way to the Encoenia proceedings at the University of New Brunswick, and it is said there was a failure on the part of one or both drivers to give the usual alarm before crossing an intersection of streets.

M. Jacques, merchant, was run into by an automobile on Queen street this afternoon and knocked down, but escaped without serious injury.

CONDEMNATION OF N. B. GOVERNMENT

The Foster-Veniot Administration Roundly Scored by the Members of Moncton

[Moncton Times.]

Strong condemnation of the action of the New Brunswick Government in turning down the legislation of the city of Moncton in so far as it applied to the allowance of the city of Moncton to overdraw its account, to place an addition to the curb and gutter fees, etc., was voiced by several members of the city council at the regular semi-monthly session held last night. The chief complaint seemed to be that sufficient consideration had not been given these items of legislation by the provincial executive. No blame was attached to the Government for turning down the assessment and qualifications bills which, the members of the council stated, had been strongly opposed, but bills which had not been protested against had also been turned down. Ald. Melanson was particularly strenuous in his condemnation, stating that instead of being represented at Fredericton, the city of Moncton was "misrepresented" in his opinion. Mayor Chapman, though less strong in his comment, said he could not understand why the legislation referred to had not been passed when it was considered that no opposition had developed. Ald. MacKinnon also gave voice to his disapproval of the action of the local Government.

Interesting C. N. R. Booklets

The Canadian National Railways has just issued a booklet setting forth the scenic beauties and attractions for tourists on the St. John River Valley, the garden of New Brunswick. The booklet has brilliant and artistic covers and contains cuts which show vividly the beauty spot along the St. John and adjacent country, including Fredericton, Woodstock, Gagetown, Pokiok. The centre pages contain a relief map of the province, showing the streams and railroads and also a list of the leading hotels for the accommodation of tourists. The beauties of the La Bai de Chaleur are also shown in another booklet issued by the C. N. R. It not only sets out the attractions of the bay and its surroundings as ideal summer grounds, but gives a short history of the early days around the bay and the northern part of the province.

Mrs. S. F. McWilliams and Miss L. McWilliams, of Newcastle, and Mrs. E. McInerney, of Richibucto, are here today for the Encoenia and are guests at the Barker House

FORMER WARDEN JOHN SCOTT 89

ly engaged in that line of work, as well as farming, for forty years but in all that time he never cut a log out of York County and never carried on an operation on the east side of the St. John river. He operated on the Shogomoc and the St. Croix and for 20 years loaded logs at Maguadavic, but all his cutting was done on privately owned lands and he never cut a log on the Crown Lands. His first lumbering was done for the late Charles MacPherson, the next was for Isaac W. Bradbury, then for Todd & Co. and finally for Murchie & Sons. His annual cut averaged about two million feet.

It is now thirteen years since Mr. Scott retired from active business but he reads a great deal, takes sufficient exercise to keep himself active and says he feels as young in many ways as he did many years ago. Among other remarkable accomplishments for a man of his age he can place a book on his hand and hold it sufficiently steady to write freely upon it.

A BOWLING RECORD BY SANDY STAPLES

New Ten String Mark of 1045 When He and Paynter Won by 149 Pins

Sandy Staples and Rock Paynter defeated Charlie Burgess and Eddie Edney last evening in their ten-string challenge match by a score of 1964 to 1818, a margin of 149 points, while Sandy Staples broke the Palace Alleys record for ten strings.

The "old man" was in good form and started off with a string of 130 just to warn his opponents that as far as he was concerned they had a hard nut to crack. But his new record for ten strings is 1045 pins, which is 4 pins higher than the former record established by Jimmie Wheaton. Paynter was second high man with a total of 922, while Burgess' total pinfall for the match was 910 and that of Edney 908.

M'TIGUE-EGAN BOUT AT HALIFAX

Middleweights Will Fight at the Garrison City This Evening

Halifax, May 13.—Mike McTigue and Joe Egan, who are to meet in a fifteen round boxing bout at the Armouries Thursday night were pitted against each other at New Bedford, January 6th, 1917. The bout was for 12 rounds and was a draw.

Both men have improved since then. Egan has within the past year met some of the boxers well known in Halifax and among his wins is a decision over Marty Cross. He has won twice over George Robinson, the man whom a number of Halifax people who visited Boston declared would make a great match for McTigue.

Egan is one of the few men who holds a decision over Mike O'Dowd.

Frenchman Dropped in Ring.

Jersey City, May 12.—Lew Tendler of Philadelphia scored a technical knockout over Georges Papin, the French lightweight boxing champion of a scheduled 12 round bout here tonight.

The Frenchman had been knocked down four times in the fifth round. At the beginning of the sixth round he became the aggressor, raining right and left hand blows to Tendler's head. Suddenly he stopped and dropped in the ring from exhaustion without having been struck by Tendler.

their motions in all future time, compute their orbits, determine what changes of form and position these orbits will undergo through thousands of ages, and make maps showing exactly over what cities and towns on the surface of the earth an eclipse of the sun will pass fifty years hence, or over what regions it did pass thousands of years ago. A more hopeless problem than this could not be presented to the ordinary human intellect. There are tens of thousands of men who could be successful in the ordinary walks of life, thousands who could gain wealth, hundreds who could wield empires for one who could take up this astronomical problem with any hope of success. The men who have done it are therefore among the select few of the human race, an aristocracy ranking above all others in the scale of being. The astronomical ephemeris is the last practical outcome of their productive genius.

Newcomb was certainly not an unduly modest man, as this rather arrogant statement shows, but it is evident that if any other motive than the pleasure of productive scientific work animated him, it was the closely allied pride in an almost superhuman achievement.

Here, however, I must guard myself against being misunderstood. Men act, even in the simplest of matters, from a mixture of motives. I have not intended to suggest that even a Cavendish or a Gibbs is a man of but one motive even in his scientific work. I have merely emphasized what I believe to be the chief of many motives that play their part in scientific research. Something must also be attributed to an aspect of the social sense, if I may so call it, the feeling that one is taking part in the march of an army of workers the world over and is, through correspondence, publication of scientific meetings, holding converse with his fellow workers everywhere. Man is a thinking being and delights in the exchange of thought. The publication of a piece of research is also a source of pleasure as marking a more or less definite completion of an undertaking. The sense of a duty one owes to the world and the duty of making the best of his own gifts play their part and help to produce that mental serenity without which the highest intellectual achievement seems impossible. Yet, after making all due allowance for these other motives, one does not get far away from the element of elevated enjoyment as the chief motive in scientific work.

But while you may be inclined to grant all this as regards the generals and captains of the research army, you may very properly ask whether it applies to the much larger number of those in the ranks who plan no great scientific campaign and expect considerable acquaintance with the no niche in the temple of Fame. A sappers and miners in science leads me to believe that, while some of those who enter on research are animated largely by the desire of promotion or reputation, yet their persistence and success in such work depends chiefly on the immediate satisfaction which it affords, and the value of the contributions they make to the advance of knowledge are pretty strictly in proportion to the pleasure they derive from the process. Purely scientific research is, in fact, an exercise of the active imagination, controlled and directed by the reason, and the chief rewards of such work are in the work itself.

Practical Applications.

One motive, however, which is sometimes popularly thought to be the chief motive in Science, must be nearly entirely excluded. Few if any great discoveries have been made by men who had in mind some immediate practical application of the discovery. The practical applications of a fundamental discovery in Science are usually found by a later generation. Faraday's discovery of induced currents of electricity preceded by half a century the beginnings of Electrical Engineering which is founded wholly on that discovery. Maxwell, who predicted electromagnetic waves, and Hertz, who realized them, did not live to see the success of wireless telegraphy. In fact, while the discoveries of science, pure and applied, are in a very real sense the only additions that are, from time to time, made to the permanent wealth of the world, it cannot even be claimed by the most enthusiastic followers of Science that the immediate applications of its discoveries are always of a beneficial nature. I do not know that anyone has ever misused the law of gravitation, unless it be the airplane bomber, but gunpowder is a doubtful blessing, at least to the man at the wrong end of the gun, and improved methods of working in steel make more deadly cannon as well as safer bridges. The telegraph and telephone, following the fast mail train, have probably been the prime factors in making it possible for men to form those great combinations, whether of labor or of capital, which have proved so disturbing to modern life, that many have thought we must try to abolish them and return to earlier conditions. Many physical processes are known to be essentially irreversible and it would seem probable that the reversal of economical changes founded on scientific discoveries is not a hopeful undertaking. For the comfort of those who fear that the world is travelling in a direction that may stifle individual responsibility and initiative, I may add that there is no evidence yet of any such calamity as regards the activity of the scientist. If I am right as to the main motive of research and the test of the ultimate value of scientific activity, no serious failure of incentive is to be feared from any changes of social or political organization.

Nor is there, I believe, any need to limit such statements to the scientist. Those who speak with authority on Art, Music, and Literature, tell us in no unhesitating way that the great artist like the great scientist, is moved chiefly by the fascination of the work, and the lesser artist produces work of intrinsic value in proportion to the zest the work has for him. Whether the same can be said of all whose work is with the mind is too wide a question, but it would seem probable that in the case of a great captain of industry or a great financier it is the game and not the gain that is the chief spur. How much the efficiency of intellectual work might be increased by Bureaus of experts in practical phychology to advise young men in the choice of a profession it would be difficult to say. There is, I believe, much to be done in this direction. As one who spends his time in helping young men to prepare for their life's work, I am inclined to think that the choice of a profession is far too haphazard a process and that only the minority have the luck to find the work that should most appeal to their temperaments. Newton narrowly escaped being a farmer and several eminent English physicists have been professionally lawyers and clergymen. One of the greatest was a brewer.

Creative Science a Pleasure.

Here, however, I must leave the subject of the motives of creative science or creative art. But in these remarks I have not been speaking without a proper regard for the purpose of our meeting today. The young men and women who are now graduating will go into various occupations in which their training here will have in some degree fitted them. That all of them may lead successful and happy lives is, I am sure, the earnest wish of all who have gathered here to speed them on their journey. As a slight contribution to that success I will offer but two suggestions. Success in any line of work is largely in proportion to the pleasure derived from the activity. It is true that to all of us many parts of our work are less interesting than other parts. But I have no hesitation in saying that there is no intellectual occupation, no matter how commonplace, that cannot be turned into a source of pleasure by doing it well. Thus the man who does whatever lies before him with resolute zest and faithfulness can come to derive such a degree of pleasure from it that this enjoyment will form an incentive for further effort. One of the most regrettable failures in life is that of the man who dissipates large natural abilities in pursuing such a variety of different objects, many more or less frivolous, that he does nothing thoroughly and thereby loses all the zest of positive achievement, while the most marked success is often attained by men who do a few things so thoroughly that work becomes a continual pleasure and a continual incentive to further effort.

Personal Success Not All

But I would be leaving the members of the graduating class with a wrong impression, if I have seemed to suggest that personal success of a material kind is the only, or the principal, object of life. Every man must aim at a livelihood that will release him from sordid anxiety, but this after all is but a means to some end. I shall not attempt now to consider the question of what that end should be, but I may add one reflection drawn from our most recent experiences. The world has in the past tried many devices for government, kingships, autocracies, ruling classes, and no one should belittle the aid that these have rendered in enabling men to act in concert. But, for better or worse, authority has passed into the hands of the average man, and, whatever the machinery of government, public opinion is the power behind it. We have recently seen the calamity that can come to the world from leaving the formation of public opinion in the hands of a selfish military class. It should be the duty of intelligent men everywhere to form dispassionate judgments on public questions free from national jealousies, free from class suspicions, and as free from personal ambitions as imperfect human nature will permit.

The education of youth is the nurture of the soul of the race. The lack of higher education does not threaten the individual with starvation of the body, but the community which does not provide for a liberal degree of higher education risks the decay of the spirit of humanity and progress in its midst. When there is no vision the people perish and education is the development of that spiritual and intellectual vision without which man, with all his splendid endowment of latent powers, has no higher collective aim than to exist for his brief day and pass away like the beasts that perish.

This institution of learning had its first beginnings one hundred and thirty-five years ago. Founded by those who founded the province and at nearly the same time, it has, in its successive forms of Academy, College, and University, served the Province faithfully as a beacon light of learning on a hill. Those who have gone out from its halls have (in the words of a Latin poet) served as runners in the race to hand on the torch of life. Distinguished graduates like the present Governor and the present Chief Justice have served the Province in its higher offices. Many others have helped to direct the educational development of the Province as superintendents and teachers in its schools. Legislators, clergymen, lawyers and many in other walks of life have led in the formation of public opinion. From a close acquaintance with a wide range of colleges and universities in several countries I have no hesitation in saying that no institution known to me anywhere has done more in proportion to its resources to advance the higher interests of the community which it serves. I believe that no agency in the Province better deserves increased support from public funds or from public spirited citizens and in no way could a wise generosity do more for the public good.

LIVED SIX DAYS IN SEALED GLASS BOX

Experiment to Calculate the Amount of Oxygen in Blood from the Breath.

Cambridge, Eng., May 13.—Joseph Barcroft, a reader of physiology at Kings College here, has lived for six days in a hermetically sealed glass box.

The experiment arose out of a 30-year-old controversy as to whether it is possible to calculate the amount of oxygen in the blood from a knowledge of the amount of oxygen in the breath. The test was also made to demonstrate whether it was necessary that airmen should have oxygen apparatus when flying at great heights. It proved that oxygen was necessary to flying men but it did not show to what height they could fly with safety.

While in the box Barcroft kept a record of his sensations and made scientific observations. He said he suffered from sleeplessness but otherwise did not experience much inconvenience except on the last day when the atmosphere became extremely rarified. He then had headaches and nausea. He was watched continually while in the box. He took food and slept in two small compartments fitted up with wicker chairs, a table, a small bed and a bicycle on which he exercised every morning.

CO-OPERATIVE MOVE AMONG FARMERS

Chicago, May 12.—Resolutions asking Congress for legislation to reduce greatly the cost of the naval and military establishments were up for consideration today at the conference of representatives of farm organizations of the United States and attended by a number of Canadians, representing agricultural interests in the Dominion.

Co-operative buying to reduce the cost of the farmers' tools and other necessaries was another important topic on the programme today.

Canadian farmers and their organizations were praised by the speakers at yesterday's sessions of the conference for the progress of the co-operative movement among farmers of the Dominion.

Prof. Turner's Address In Praise of U.N.B's Founders

twenty-four hours, we were not particularly aware of the predicament we would be in if we lost our railroads.

There are but few of us now, however, who are not aware of the danger of railroad tie-ups. We should not measure distance in inches, feet or miles, but in that unit of time that it takes to travel those various intervals. Vancouver is no farther away today than Montreal was 100 years ago. Here we expect to have olives, bananas, oranges, grapes, etc., at all seasons, simply because we can rely on our present system of transportation. Once again, what is it worth to have these railroads at our disposal? Let us attack it in a popular style, such as a good salesman might use. How many of us would rather walk 100 miles than pay three dollars to ride? The chances are that the walking trip would cost us more than that in shoe leather. How many would carry a hundred pound sack of meal from here to Boston for two dollars? Very few. Directly this measures the service of the engineers who spent months and years in making the surveys and supervising the construction of these lines, and indirectly it measures the service of the Founders of all schools of applied science. Without them we would still be riding in the stone chariot.

Let us turn to another field. Perhaps during your trips to some of our large seacoast cities you may have noticed in the harbor near some apparent construction operation, large bubbles of air rising to the surface of the water. Very probably you attributed it to some natural gas rising from the bottom. If I am not mistaken it was far more interesting than that. Let us turn the wheels of time back four years and suppose we are standing on Brooklyn bridge, looking down the harbor. Hundreds of sea craft of all descriptions are crossing and re-crossing the East River. In the foreground are those identical bubbles that I spoke of before. Suddenly something happens! A great geyser of water rises ten feet in the air and disgorges the inert forms of three men. They are pulled from the water by a passing tug. One is dead, two will live. Where did they come from? Possibly 5,000 people saw the accident, about five could answer the question. They were working in a pneumatic caisson, 75 feet below the surface of the water and they were blown up through ten feet of mud and 65 feet of water by excessive air pressure in the caisson. In explanation, the air pressure should just balance the water pressure; if it falls below the water will rush into the caisson and if it rises above it will blow out a bubble under the cutting edge of the caisson, carrying the men with it. But what it is all for? Today where those men were working there are two reinforced concrete double track rapid transit tubes, and down under that mud and water you and several million of your fellowmen will ride comfortably in an all-steel train during the next century. How many will think of the poor "sand hogs" who made possible that tube? Thus we have another example of the progress of engineering.

Care of Cities and Towns.

Quite another task for the modern engineer is the care of cities and towns in the matter of water supply and sewage disposal. Some of us can remember when sewage was allowed to flow freely down the main streets. Those were the days when waves of typhoid each spring and autumn were as sure as the vernal and the autumnal equinox. From the year 800 A.D. to early in the thirteenth centry the streets of Paris were described as absolutely filthy. On good authority it is stated that King Philip Augustus was so disturbed at the stench when he opened the window of his palace one day that he ordered all the streets to be paved with stone. The first act for the paving of the streets of London was passed in 1532 and apparently for a somewhat similar reason as was the case in Paris. Today the modern engineer has not only to think of the surface of the streets but also of countless conduits to be placed under the street surface. Our waste materials are removed swiftly from all our centers of population and in a great many cases carefully treated so that they lose all power for doing harm to other communities. Suppose as an example of the modern water supply problem we consider a city of 500,000 population situated on the salt water which implies that its water supply is from a distant source. What would happen to such a city if its water supply broke down for an indefinite period? Every single inhabitant would swarm back into the country or die in the city. Proper training of the engineer has prevented such calamities.

Probably the first human effort toward bridge building was the felling of a tree across a stream. The next step curiously enough was to the masonry arch which is the most indeterminate structure we have today. With the rapid development of rolled steel shapes in the 19th century, trussed bridges of steel became the most common type culminating in such remarkable structures as the Forth Bridge in Scotland and the famous Quebec bridge over the St. Lawrence.

Hydro-electric Developments.

It is needless to mention other enterprises such as the great hydro-electrice developments or countless other feats of engineering to demonstrate our dependence on the young men who are passing through the scientific courses of our universtities. And now to turn to the problems of the present day, it seems evident that our graduates may be called upon to perform a task which, if it is accomplished, will bring back to our present social scheme the stability which it had before the World War. That is the adjustment of the present strained relations between labor, capital and the public. Usually it is customary to leave the public out of this quarrel between capital and labor but it is always the innocent bystander that is shot, and since we have been treated to a continuous vaudeville of strikes during the last eighteen months, it is perfectly evident that the public is that bystander.

Why is the engineer in a position to mediate between capital and labor? Because he belongs really to neither class, yet he assists both and has the confidence of both. It is noteworthy, then, that we are now considering the necessity for giving our graduates a broader education. It is not too much to say that it is evident at the present time the two most valuable assets to and engineer are first, a practical knowledge of sociology and second, the ability to think constructively. The university must supply him with the last, but he will only learn how to handle men by active duty.

It is the duty of the university, therefore, to develop the mind so that it may think constructively. To equip the human machine with tools and parts so that it may go out and do useful work. I recall in this instance one of the bitterest pills which a professrr has to swallow. A friend of mine attacked me with the following denunciation: "Why don't you give up instructing; it is so inactive, you don't build any bridges, or harness any mighty rivers, or move mountains, it must be so monotonous." To which I replied, as best I could, "No' we don't do any of these things, and your opinion is the opinion of the general public; but we are not non-productive, we manufacture the engineers who will move those mountains and will chain those rivers."

Training of Future Engineer.

Now finally let us consider the probable changes in the training of the engineer of the future. I believe that the greatest change will be the introduction into all engineering courses of a fundamental training in the principles of business administration. In the next three years the engneers of Canada and the United States will be called upon to spend $1,500,000,000 in highways alone. Will not business ability be necessary to prevent waste? I also believe that the day of the specialist has gone. I think that in the future a broad general education is a better solution of our training problem rather than a specific specialization. In other words an engineer's ability to do things and work out solutions for himself is worth more than any number of concrete facts he may have memorized. To possess knowledge is good but to be able to do is better, and a combination of both is best. To accomplish this result is the task before us here.

And who are the designers and builders of this laboratory in which we work on the human mind. They are the Founders, and it is to them that we owe social equilibrium. Were they with us today, their interest would be here on the hill, their criticism would help us, we would have their encouragement; but they are gone and we must therefore depend on you, my fiends, to help us with your interest, your constructive criticism, and above all, your enthusiasm.

IN DAYS OF TERROR

Louis then returned to his national guards, who still kept the enrolled volunteers at bay.

"Now," said he, "have you had sufficeint?"

"Yes, dog of a Girondin," replied the chief.

"You deceive yourself, my friend," said Louis coolly; "we are better sansculottes than yourselves, seeing that we belong to the club of Thermopyles, of whose patriotism no one, I hope, entertains a doubt. Let go these citizens," continued Louis, "they resist no longer."

"It is not the less true that this woman is an object of suspicion."

"If she were a suspicious character she would have made her escape during this skirmish, and not, as you see she has done, waited till it had terminated."

"Hum!" said one of the volunteers. "What the Citizen Thermopyle observes is quite true."

"Besides, we shall know, since my friend goes to conduct her to the post while we go to drink to the health of the nation."

"Are we going to drink?" said the chief.

"Certainly, I am very thirsty, and I know a pretty little cabaret, at the corner of La Rue Thomas du Louvre"!

"Why did you not say so at once, citizen? We are sorry to have doubted your patriotism, and to prove it, let us, in the name of the nation and the law, embrace each other as friends."!

"Let us embrace," said Louis.

And the enrolled volunteers and the national guards embraced with warm enthusiasm. At this moment they were more anxious to embrace than behead one another.

"let us now go," cried the two united troops, "to the corner of La Rue Thomas due Louvre."

"And we," said one of the wounded, in a plaintive voice, "do you intend to abandon us here?"

"Ah, well! yes," said Louis, "abandon the heroes who have fallen bravely fighting for their country against the patriots—it is true by mistake, but still true for all that, we will send you some wheelbarrows. Meanwhile, you can sing the Marseillaise, it will divert you."

Then, approaching Maurice, who was waiting for him, with this Unknown at the corner of La Rue du Coq, while the national guards and enrolled volunteers went back again arm-in-arm towards La Place du Palais-Egalite.

"Maurice," said he, "I promised you some counsel, and this is it. Be persuaded to accompany us, rather than compromise yourself by protecting this young woman, who, it is true, is very charming, and on that account not the less to be suspected; for charming women who run about the streets of Paris at midnight—"

"Monsier," said the young woman, "judge me not from appearances, I implore you."

"In the first place, you say monsieur, and that is a great fault. Do you understand, citoyenne, what I say?"

"Ah, well! Yes, yes, citizen; allow your friend to accomplish his kind action."

"What is that?"

"By conducting me home, and protecting me on my road."

"Maurice, Maurice," said Louis, "consider well what you are doing; you will compromise yourself terribly."

"I know it well," said the young man, "but what would you have me do? If I leave the poor woman, she will be stopped at every step by the patrols."

"Oh! yes, yes, monsieur, while with you—whilst with you, citizen, I meant to say—I shall be safe."

"You hear?" said Louis, "safe. She then runs great danger?"

"My dear Louis," said Maurice, "let us be just. She must either be a good compatriot or an aristocrat. If an aristocrat, we have erred in protecting her; if a good patriot, it is our duty to preserve her."

"Pardon, pardon, cher ami; I am sorry ton Aristotle, but your logic is folly. See what he says—

"Iris yy reason steals away,
And yet she tells me to be wise;
Oh! lady, I can only say,
Then turn away those glorious eyes."

"Louis," said Maurice, "a true to Dorcit, to Parny, and to Gentil-Bernard, I pray you Speak seriously, will you ,or will you not, give me the password?"

"That is to say, Maurice, you place me in this situation—I must either sacrifice my duty to my friend, or my friend to my duty; but I fear, Maurice, my duty will fall the sacrifice."

"Decide, then, for one or the other, mon ami, but, in the name of heaven, decide quickly."

"You will not abuse it?"—"I promise you."

"That is not sufficient; swear!"—"Upon what?"

"Swear upon the altar of your contry."

Louis pulled off his hat, presenting to Maurice the side with the cockade, and Maurice, finding the affair very simple, took, without smiling, the oath rquired upon this extemporary altar.

"Now," said Louis, "this is thepassword—France and Lutece; perhaps you would say, France and Lucretia, but let that pass, it is Roman all the same."

"Citoyenne," said Maurice, "I am at your service. Thanks, Louis."

"Bon voyage," cried he, replacing on his head the altar of the country, and faithful to his Anacreontic taste, departed singing—

'Eleonora, Eleonora!
Now I've taught you how to love,
Tell your passionate adorer,
Does the lesson weary prove?"

CHAPTER III.

La Rue Des Fosses Saint Victor.

Mourice finding himself alone with the young woman, felt for the moment deeply embarrassed. The fear of being duped, attracted by her marvellous beauty, troubled his conscience as a pure and exalted Republican, and caused him to hesitace when about to offer her the support of his arm.

'Where are you going, citizen?" said he.

"Alas, monsieur, a long way from here,' replied she.

"But how far?"

"By the side of the Jardin des Plantes."

"It is some distance, let us proceed on our way."

"Ah! mon Dieu! monsier," said the Unknown; "I plainly perceive I am a constraint upon you; but indeed is is no ordinary danger that I incur. Believe me, I will not abuse your generosity."

Say Accident Was Unavoidable

Bobby Anderson, the little boy who was run over by an automobile on Tuesday afternoon, is resting quite comfortably today. Although no bones were broken he was badly bruised and shaken up. In justice to the young men who were in the automobile, The Gleaner has been asked to state that the accident is considered unavoidable and that instead of disappearing they carried the boy into the house of a neighbor and procured the services of a physician and did everything they possibly could. Mrs. Davis, who was also knocked down and run over by a car the same day, is also reported as progressing favorably towards recovery.

FORMER WARDEN JOHN SCOTT IS 89 YEARS OLD TODAY

One of York County's Best Known Men Is Celebrating His Birthday

25 CONSECUTIVE YEARS IN YORK COUNTY COUNCIL

Carried on Lumber Operations for Forty-Five Years, All in This County

Ex-Warden John Scott, one of York County's best known men and for many years identified with lumber business in this province, is today celebrating his 89th birthday surrounded by the members of his family at his residence on Smythe street.

Congratulations have been pouring in upon him today from his friends, many messages coming from outside New Brunswick, some coming from relatives who are now residing on the Pacific Coast. Not only does he enjoy all his faculties but he might readily be mistaken for a man many years his junior as he walks along the street with almost all of his old vigor and smartness.

Ex-Warden Scott like Abraham Lincoln enjoys the distinction of having been born in a log cabin, having first seen the light of day at Pokiok Settlement on May 13th, 1831. His family, who had come to Canada from the Old Country, afterwards removed to The Barony and it was there that he resided until he removed to Fredericton a few years ago and toook up his home with his son, James M. Scott on Smythe street. For twenty five consecutive years of his period of residence in the county he represented the Parish of Dumfries at the York County Council and during his long term of office without a break he became a powerful influence in municipal affairs, for two years serving as Warden of York County.

Long Experience as Lumberman.

Mr. Scott had a long experience in the lumbering industry, being active-

PRICE OF BREAD TO ADVANCE HERE

Will Be At Least One Cent and May Be Two Cents Per Loaf

An advance of at least one and perhaps two cents a loaf was predicted in the price of bread in Fredericton today, as a result of flour prices having increased $1,45 per barrel this week.

The present wholesale price of bread is 13 cents for a pound and a half loaf, while some places sell at 14 cents and others at 15 cents retail. At least some of the bakers feel that the spread of the retailers should be limited to one cent per loaf, as the bread is now wrapped under regulations of the Public Health Department and, they claim, there is no need of further wrapping by the retailers, who are thus saved that much expense.

A. Y. P. A. MASQUERADE

Parish Church Young People Closed the Indoor Meetings and Gave a Masquerade Ball

The closing indoor meeting of the A. Y. P. A. of the Parish Church was held last night and was in the form of a masquerade ball. About 75 young people were present and one of the best social evenings given by the Association was enjoyed.

The costumes were unique, comic and very pretty, and the judges, Ald. T. Wilkinson, Mrs. Fred Everett and Mrs. Don Cameron finally awarded them as follows:

First, Miss Georgie Styran, as spinster; second, Miss H. Mills, as Spanish dancer; third, S. Bently, as village constable, and fourth, G. Allen, as Angelina.

A programme of twelve dances was carried out, the music being furnished by Miss Gatcombe on the piano, and J. Williams on the traps. Three extras were also enjoyed and Miss Georgie Styran presided at the piano.

Dainty refreshments were served and the ball broke up about twelve o'clock with the singing of the National Anthem.

Robert Armstrong Arrested on Warrant Sworn Out by Agent McMillan

POPULAR YOUNG MAN AND ARREST IS A SURPRISE

Released on $2,000 Bail and Case Will Come Up in the Police Court on Friday

Robert Armstrong, employed at the C. N. R. freight sheds here as cashier, was arrested yesterday by the city police on a warrant sworn out by Station Agent McMillan. He was soon afterwards released on bail and his case will be taken up tomorrow morning in the Police Court.

All the police know of the case is that Armstrong is charged with being about $600 short in his cash account with the railway, and Mr. McMillan declined to discuss the case. The warrant named Jan. 1st and May 12th as the dates between which the shortage occurred.

Armstrong is a popular young man about town, has overseas service during the war to his credit, and his arrest was a surprise to his friends. His home is said to be in St. John, but he has relatives here. His bondsmen are G. Gordon Scott and Allen Ward and the amount of bail is $2,000.

AN INCREASE IN SALARIES OF THE LOCAL TEACHERS

About $7,000 Added to Annual Paylist at Meeting of the School Trustees

$100 INCREASE FOR 30 GRADED TEACHERS

Principals, High School Staff and Specialists Get 16 to 18 Per Cent.

A protracted session of the School Board was held yesterday while the members grappled with the question of increase of salaries for teachers.

Dr. Vanwart was in the chair and all the other members were present except Mrs. W. G. Clark, who has been ill for several days. Some question arose as to the reason for placing the minimum salary of the Fredericton teachers at $800, while the minimum at St. John is $700. There can be no real objection to the recognition of Fredericton as the head centre, except on the dollar side.

An effort was made to level up all the teachers on a percentage basis, but notwithstanding the large addi-

Sinn Fein Challenge for Irish Civil War May Be Accepted By Government

The Cavalry and Motor Machine Gun Outfits Strengthened

MARTIAL LAW IS PROBABLE

Soldiers Will Use Machine Guns and Shrapnel on Rebels.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, May 14.—Accepting at its face value the claim the Sinn Fein has been trying to prove by speech and acts, that an actual Irish republic is at war with the British Empire, the government will abandon its present plan for handling crime on the island.

To this end all arms of the British army in Ireland are being tremendously strengthened. This applies to cavalry and motor machine gun outfits. As soon as the force there is adequate, it will, under the command of Sir Neville Macready, take over all police functions. In fact, it was said that southern Ireland may then be placed under martial law.

This would be nothing more or less than notice to the Irish volunteers that their challenge had been accepted and that the government troops would meet rifle and revolver fire with machine guns and possibly shrapnel.

FURTHER DESTRUCTION OF POLICE BARRACKS

Dublin, May 14.—Several additional attacks on government property and other institutions occurred in various parts of Ireland last night, but up to noon today the reports indicated that the continued activity of armed bands was on nothing like the scale of Wednesday nights demonstration.

The police barracks, court house and post office at Bruree, County Limerick, were burned, while a motor van containing provisions for the police was burned near Sheverie.

Armed and masked men raided a motor garage in Dublin, overpowered the caretaker and took away an automobile.

Permitted Occupants to Leave.

Leitrim, Ireland, May 14.—The police barracks near this city and at Kesshartigan, Ballyfarnon, Grevisk and Hillistreet were burned to the ground Wednesday night by bands of disguised men. The barracks here, the finest in the country, were occupied by a Sergeant and his wife, the former being ill. The couple were ordered out before the building was set afire.

The customs office at Carrack-on-Shannon was broken into during the night and income tax papers were destroyed.

Government Must Accept Challenge Of Civil War in Ireland or Acquiesce In Establishment of Irish Republic

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

LONDON, May 14—Decision by the government to make an early appeal to the country by a general election in an effort to fix upon a definite Irish policy has been reached, according to rumors current in London last night. In well informed circles these rumors are ridiculed, and as yet there has been nothing to confirm them.

It is said the government feels itself confronted with two alternatives, acceptance of the implied challenge of civil war in Ireland or acquiescence in the establishment of an Irish republic, as a result of widespread disorders in the island, culminating yesterday in attacks on barracks at fifty places in Ireland.

British Soldiers Will Help Police to Control Turbulent Spirits in the Emerald Isle

The British Government Will No Longer Leave Police Officers at the Mercy of Irish Assassins, but Will Have Them Accompanied by Armed Soldiers

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, May 14.—Some morning newspaper infer from statements made by Lord Birkenhead, Lord High Chancellor, last night, that the government has decided to send more troops to Ireland, as the Chancellor intimated that police officers in future will be accompanied everywhere by armed soldiers.

"We have today taken special and wholly exceptional steps," Lord Birkenhead said, "so that not one of those men in their heroic work will be left unattended by members of the armed forces of the Crown."

He did not directly indicate, however, that the troops now in Ireland were insufficient for the purpose.

Although this morning's newspapers give prominence to despatches telling of yesterday's disorders in Ireland, only one, the Chronicle, comments on the situation. That journal ascribes the new outbreak to the release of hunger strikers from jails in Ireland and England.

The newspaper doubts that the creation of a special judicial body to examine cases of Irishmen under arrest, as announced by Andrew Bonar Law in the House of Commons yesterday, will materially relieve the situation. It says co-operation by police and military is necessary, so that capture of criminals red-handed may be assured.

ANOTHER VICTIM OF THE BOLSHEVIK

Sixth Russian Noblewoman to Commit Suicide by Drowning in Lake Geneva

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Geneva, May 14.—The body of a beautiful young Russian woman has been found in Lake Geneva, off Ouchy. She was clad in expensive clothing and wore rich furs, a pearl necklace and a gold watch. On the reverse side of one of the many banknotes found upon her was written, "Goodbye; am another victim of the Bolsheviki." It was signed "Countess W."

Efforts are being made by the police to establish the identity of this, the sixth Russian noblewoman to commit suicide by drowning in Lake Geneva.

TO INVESTIGATE FIRE AT OTTAWA

Private Maternity Hospital Destroyed Through Defective Wiring, It Is Said

Ottawa, May 14.—It has been decided to conduct a searching investigation into the fire which occurred early yesterday morning at the private maternity hospital of Dr. F. C. Hagar, in which two patients lost their lives. The deputy fire marshal of Ontario, Mr. Geo. F. Lewis, of Toronto, is now in Ottawa investigating another fire and the probabilities are that he will, once his present investigation is finished, proceed to investigate the hospital fire.

Fire Chief Graham and Deputy Fire Marshal Lewis yesterday afternoon made a careful examination of the Hagar hospital and afterwards came to the conclusion that the fire was caused by defective wiring. The wiring they found was of rather a primitive kind.

TRAIN ROBBER WAS KILLED BY POLICE

Said to Have Got $500,000 From Mail Car on the Illinois Central

Chicago, May 14.—A rifle squad of Chicago police early today cornered and shot a train robber who had robbed an Illinois Central Railroad mail car of currency estimated to total $500,000.

The train arrived at the 63rd street station about one o'clock, three hours late, and the train robber left the mail car there. A few blocks away two policemen accosted him and he shot one through the head.

Acording to reports received by the police, the robber boarded a car on the train at Gilman, about fifty miles south of Chicago, and worked his way forward to the mail car, where he compelled one of the five mail clerks to tie the hands and feet of the others.

The shooting of the policeman attracted a squad of patrolmen, who cornered the robber in an apartment building not far away. A rifle squad was summoned, and after two hours of sniping by both sides, the robber was killed.

FALL IN PRICE OF PULPWOOD SURE TO COME

Many of Canadian Pulpwood Companies Have Practically Doubled Production

NO CHANCE OF THE EMBARGO LIFTED

Indian Government Encouraging the Industry of Growing Bamboo to Make Paper

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Quebec, May 14.—Major F. C. Shore, director of the Meige Pulpwood Company of Canada, in an interview here yesterday on the pulpwod situation said:

"The price of pulpwood is doomed to fall within a few months. Most of the pulpwood companies in Canada are increasing their production considerably. Last year was one of the leanest for pulpwood production, this year is one of the greatest. Our company has practically doubled its former production. The idea of the pulpwood industry making more money thus boosting up the price has no through holding back production and place in the minds of the captains of industry.

"The United States is the principal buyer of Canadian pulpwood.

"In my opinion there is no chance of the embargo being lifted on shipments of pulpwood outside the limits of the crown lands, and this will mean that the mills in the United States will be compelled to either locate in Canada or go out of business."

Newsprint from Bamboo.

Toronto, May 14.—A special cable to the Mail and Empire from London says:

The use of newsprint made from bamboo is one one of the measures contemplated by the British newspaper publishers to meet the world's white paper shortage.

W. Raitt, cellulose expert of the Government of India, who had 10 years' experience in experimental work with bambood pulp, states there is sufficient bamboo in sight in Burmah, with the Savannah grasses of Assam, to produce 14,000,00 tons of dry pulp annually. The total cost of production will not exceed one half of the present cost of pulp wood.

The Indian Government has granted concessions to pioneer companies on favorable terms, and plans are being developed for an annual production of 700,000 tons of bamboo pulpwood.

BRITISH LEVY FOR REVENUE PURPOSES

Proposed Levy on Wealth of Country Would Yield Five Hundred Million Pounds

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, May 14.—That a special levy for revenue purposes on wealth accumulated in Great Britain as a result of or during the war, is administratively practicable, is the decision of the parliamentary committee appointed in February to consider this question.

While deciding that the levy is practicable, the committee declines to express an opinion whether it would be advisable to impose it, thus throwing the onus of the decision on the government and Parliament.

Several plans were devised by experts for effecting the levy were submitted by the committee, which considers one by the board of inland revenue the best. This plan estimated a yield of five hundred million pounds sterling.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer often has declared in favor of a levy, though he is imposed to the general levy on capital which the laborites desire. Public opinion is much divided on the whole question.

VALCARTIER FOR CZECHO-SLOVAKS

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Quebec, May 14.—Military headquarters have received orders from Ottawa to provide quarters at Valcartier camp for the first week in June to accommodate 3,500 Czecho-Slovaks, who are due here by that time on their way to Vladivostok, via Vancouver and Quebec, to northwestern Hungary, after doing service with the Allied troops in Siberia.

CANADIAN WITH $10 CAPITAL STARTED A DEAL FOR MILLIONS

E. A. Moulton, a Fifty Dollar a Week Employee of Steamship Firm, Gave His Personal Cheques, Dated in Advance for $340,000, to Purchase Steamers

NEGOTIATED WITH CHARLES W. MORSE TO PURCHASE FOUR STEAMERS AT A TOTAL COST OF $3,000,000

The Deal Fell Through Because of the Refusal of American Authorities to Allow the Vessels to be Transferred to Canadian Registry as Promoters Desired

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

New York, May 14—With a bank account of ten dollars and unlimited confidence in his ability to get hundreds of thousands more, E. A. Moulton, of New Rochelle, a fifty dollar a week employee of a steamship firm, last night started the congressional committee investigations of the Morse interests with the United States Shipping Board with a recital of how he negotiated with Charles W. Morse in an attempted purchase of four steamships valued at $750,000 each. The plan was to transfer the ships to Canadian registry.

Moulton said he intended to purchase the Huron, St. Paul, Binghamton and Minneapolis from the United States Steamship Company, and that he gave Charles W. Morse, head of this company, personal cheques for $340,000 toward the purchase. The cheques were dated in advance. Reminded that he had previously admitted having only ten dollars in a New Rochelle bank, Moulton said he intended to put the money up to cover the cheques.

Moulton said the deal collapsed when the United States government refused to transfer the ships to Canadian registry and that Mr. Morse released him from his obligation and he in turn gave Mr. Morse a release.

Moulton admitted he had attended conferences in Washington with emergency fleet corporation officials in company with other men. He is said to be a son of an official in the Canadian Marine and Fisheries Department.

CEREMONIAL OF CANONIZATION

Gabriel Posseiti and Marie Alacque Inscribed as Saints by the Pope

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Rome, May 14.—Solemn ceremonies for the canonization of Gabriel Possenti and Marie Alacque were held in St. Peter's yesterday. Pope Benedict was carried in the chair of state to the cathedral, being surrounded by a gorgeous group of ecclesiastics, officials of the civil and military courts of the Vatican, members of the Sacred College, archbishops, bishops, Roman nobility and general officers of religious orders. Swiss Guards preceded the procession as it went from the Vatican to the scene of the ceremonies.

When the procession entered the cathedral the choir sang Ave Maria. The basilica was crowded with about fifty thousand invited guests. Throngs of French pilgrims greeted the pontiff with loud cheers, waving handkerchiefs and holding up religious objects for the apostolic blessing, which the Pope benevolently imparted with his upraised hand.

Pope Benedict was seated in a throne erected in the apse behind the high altar, and preceded the canonization ceremonies by intoning a hymn. After he had pronounced the formula for canonization and inscribed the names of the new Saints in the sacred roll the pontiff intoned a Te Dem while the bells announced the happy event. Later Pope Benedict clebrated mass and then with the same gorgeous procession returned to his apartments in the Vatican.

Gabriel Possenti, one of the Passionist Fathers, was renowned for his "sanctity and miracles." He was born at Assisi, Italy, March 1, 1838, and died February 27, 1862. He was buried at Isola Di Gran Sasso.

Marguerite Marc Alacque was a French nun of the late seventeenth century. She was the founder of the worship of the sacred heart of Jesus.

HENRY ACQUITTED NEGLECT OF DUTY

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York, May 14.—Police Inspector Dominick Henry, formerly commander of the "Tenderloin' district, today was acquitted by order of Judge Malone of a charge of neglect of duty in conectnion with New York's vice crusade.

The judge directed the jury in the court of general sessions, which has been hearing allegations that Henry failed to close hundreds of vice resorts in his district, to bring in a verdict of not guilty after seven character witnesses had testified and defense counsel had moved to acquit. Friends of Inspector Henry, the central figure in the war which assistant District Attorney James E. Smith has been waging against the police department, pressed forward and congratulated him.

WHISKY HIDDEN IN TEDDY BEAR

New York Inspectors Found Canister of Whiskey in Place of Sawdust

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York, May 14.—A Teddy bear whose mouth gave forth a strong and intemperate odor aroused the curiosity yesterday of inquisitive customs inspectors searching the crew's quarters on the steamship Morro Castle at her pier in Brooklyn. They ripped off the bear's head and said they found a big canister of whiskey where sawdust and stuffing should have been.

Three hot water bottles, in the room of a strong and husky chef, also excited suspicion. Their contents were poured into a pan and the inspectors took a whiff and a taste and unanimously decided it was whiskey.

Continuing their search, the inspectors, who had been tipped off by some anonymous correspondent, reported they found about 200 bottles of whiskey on the ship, all of it in quarters occupied by the crew.

COMMEMORATE STRIKE

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Boston, Mass., May 14.—Shoe workers from the Thomas G. Plant Company, who have been on strike for one year, today called a mass meeting to "commemorate the anniversary of the strike." About 2,700 workers walked out on May 14, 1919, in protest against the discharge of an employee and since have been picketing the plant.

THE MEXICAN REBELS WIN IN GREAT BATTLE

Carranza Said to be Endeavoring to Break Through the Rebel Lines to the North

ARRIVAL OF REBEL REINFORCEMENTS

British Consul at Vera Cruz Is Said to be in Camp of Carranza and In Danger

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York, May 14.—Mexican rebel forces have apparently won the first phase of the battle against troops still loyal to President Carranza, which have been fighting in desperate battle north of San Marcos, state of Puebla, for the past four days. Advices from Vera Cruz indicate a break in the Carranza lines and an effort on the part of the President's men to break through the rebel lines and march northward.

The struggle is still continuing and new rebel reinforcements are reported to have reached the scene, coming up from the south.

An international incident may be foreshadowed by the fact that W. A. Body, British Consul for Vera Cruz, is in the camp of President Carranza. Advices give no details as to the reason for his presence there, but it seems probable he accompanied the President in his flight from Mexico City.

British authorities in Vera Cruz have arranged for a Mexican naval lieutenant to go by special train to the battlefield and make an attempt to rescue the Englishman. British and French warships have made their appearance in the harbor of Vera Cruz, and four United States fighting vessels are at anchor there.

Negotiations for the surrender of Matamoros, across the frontier from Brownsville, Texas, are under way, and it is expected the Carranza forces there will surrender without fighting today.

The Struggle in the Hills.

Vera Cruz, May 14.—Rebel attacks against the position held by President Carranza near San Marcos, state of Puebla, have been successful at some points, but the struggle is still going on. Two more trains remaining in possession of the President have been taken. According to advices, a detachment of his men is attempting to cut its way out toward the north, and it is expected the main body of the Carranza troops will make an effort to follow.

In the meantime, new rebel reinforcements are being rushed to the scene of the struggle, which extends over a front of approximately three miles.

OTTAWA FACES A SUGAR SHORTAGE

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Ottawa, May 14.—The wholesalers warned the retail grocers at a meeting last night that the city was facing another sugar shortage.

"I doubt very much," said H. D. Marshall, "whether Ottawa will be able to receive any white sugar for the next thirty days."

He asked the retailers to seek to persuade their customers to use more brown sugar.

ARREST IN BOND THEFT SENSATION

Cleveland, O., May 14.—Cleveland detectives early today took into custody a man they claim is wanted in New York in connection with the theft of millions of dollars' worth of Liberty bonds. They refused to divulge the name of the man, but admitted they "were holding a man in connection with the Arnstein case."

It is believed the man knows the whereabouts of two alleged leaders in the bond theft plot.

The Paris Employees of Gas Companies to Strike Today

The Municipal Authorities Take Steps to Keep the City Lighted —The Postal Employees Threaten to Quit Work on Monday If Grievances Not Removed

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, May 14—Employees of gas manufacturing companies will strike today in conformity with the order from the General Federation of Labor, but all steps have been taken to provide the city with gas.

It is rumored that the postal employees will strike on Monday, but the Under Secretary of Posts declared today that in his opinion, not more than ten per cent. of the men would obey a call to quit work.

The cabinet council has been summoned to study the situation. Considerable optimism is felt relative to the strike situation, and reports show that many men who obeyed the first call are resuming work.

DOAKTOWN I. O. F.

Membership Has Increased 100 Per Cent. During Past Month—Deputy Supreme Chief Ranger Visits Lodge.

Doaktown, May 14.—The monthly meeting of Court Doaktown, No. 1632, I. O. F., was held at the hall on Monday evening and was largely attended. The visiting deputy supreme chief ranger, Joseph H. O'Beirne, occupied the chair.

In his opening remarks the chairman congratulated the Court on its having, within the past few weeks, increased its membership over one hundred per cent. He hoped for even greater progress in the immediate future.

Lieut. Col. Geo. W. Mersereau, past high chief ranger, had much pleasure in endorsing the remarks of the dputy chief ranger. In an eloquent and lengthy address he gave interesting reminiscences of his experinces as a past excutive officer, of the rapid progress of the order on the Pacific coast, which territory he had recently visited, of his pride in his home Court which had demonstrated its vitality by doubling its membership, and of his experiences overseas as a soldier and Forester. His speech was well received and enthusiastically applauded.

The following also addressed the meeting: Wm. Whyte, O. Hildrebrand, James Holmes, Henry Swim, James Swim, Major Fred T. Mersereau, J. Andrews of Court La Tour, St. John, N. B. Mr. Andrews gave an interesting account of the advantages in a social way, from being a Forester overseas.

The recording secretary read the call of High Chief Ranger E. A. McKay, of Fredericton, for the choice of delegates to the High Court meeting in St. John on July 6th. The following delegates will represent Court Doaktown: Lieut. Col. G. W. Mersereau, Wm. Whyte, Henry Swim; alternates, James Holmes, James Swim.

Wm. Whyte and Geo. W. Mersereau were appointed a committee to make arrangements for a permanent place of meeting.

LEFT BABY IN CHURCH

Montreal, May 13.—Worshippers in the Notre Dame De Lourdes Church found a baby girl sitting on a bench crying pitifully. The child had been deserted and on its clothes was pinned a note saying: "Christen her under the name of Mary and give her in keeping of the Grey Nuns."

If a girl gets one letter a year she always reads it on the street.

NEEDLE OPENED DOORS TO FREEDOM

Rawlins, Wyo., May 13—With a needle obtained in the prison shirt factory as his only tool, Bert Lofton has escaped from the state prison here. William Smith, his companion, was captured while trying to scale the prison wall.

Lofton and Smith were confined to the death house cell because of their known desperate character. Lofton found that a soft piece of steel covered a drain. With his great patience and skill, he slowly cut a hole through the steel with the needle. After removing a pipe and a plate they crawled through the hole, picked the lock of a steel door connecting with the main corridor of the prison, scaled the tiers of cells, cut holes through the slate roof and dropped to the ground. In the prison yard they found a steel bar, which the prisoners bent into a hook, to fasten an improvised rope to the prison wall.

Lofton escaped, but Smith was caught by a guard.

St. John, May 14.—One of the large bakeries in St. John has announced that it will raise the price of bread to fifteen cents a loaf, wholesale, on Monday, as the result of the recent advance in the price of flour. Other bakers in the city could give no definite statement as to their probable action in the matter.

IMPERIAL GERMAN THRONE TO BE SOLD

Household Effects of Kaiser and Others to Go Under the Hammer

New York, May 13.—The imperial German throne is to be sold here at auction. Household effects of former Kaiser Wilhelm, the former kaiserin and other members of the German imperial family, seized from the imperial palaces of Berlin and Munich for unpaid bills after the Emperor abdicated, also will be sold under the hammer here, May 22, one of the city's largest art collectors announced today.

Sixty-five pieces are in the imperial collection, which was brought here two weeks ago by the purchaser and importer, Valdmar Povelson. He declared he had considerable difficulty in getting an export permit from the German government, which was obtained, he said, only after he had promised to buy food with the net proceeds for resale in Germany. Authenticity of the art objects is vouched for, Mr. Povelson said, by one of Berlin's most reputable art firms.

Three complete salons with portieres embroidered with German eagles, wall hangings, rugs made to order in the Orient for the former Kaiser and antiques, which have belonged to the imperial German and Bavarian families for centuries, are said to be included in the collection. Three complete sets of furniture, including one made for the Empress Elizabeth, wife of Frederick Wilhelm IV., the throne room hangings of red plush, embroidered with Prussian eagles, also are advertised for sale.

The Kaiser, according to Mr. Povelson, was not always prompt about paying his bills. Immediately upon his flight, trades people whose patience was exhausted, he added, seized household belongings in payment for their accounts.

SMILES——LAUGHTER——SHRIEKS

Tribute to Rare Personality Of Late Mrs. W. F. Ganong

The Daily Hampshire Gazette Says Northampton Has Suffered a Loss

The Daily Hampshire Gazette, published at Northampton, Mass., has the following:

On Monday afternoon, May third, Mrs. Wm. F. Ganong passed away, after a sharp and sudden attack of illness at her home on Prospect Heights. Her death has left a circle of sorrowing friends and neighbors.

Mrs. Ganong, member of an illustrious Canadian family, from which poets and writers of renowin have contributed their treasure to the literature of their country as well as their own, passed her childhood and youth in the old town of Fredericton, New Brunswick, where with her brother, Bliss Carman, she gained from outdoor wanderings, simple living, the bloom of country gardens, and the cathedral worship where her uncle, Canon Roberts, preached and brought up his family of brilliant sons, that vivid enjoyment of nature and art and human living, spiritualized by deep religious instinct, which made up her rare personality. Her marriage with Professor Ganong was the beginning of a remarkable companionship and understanding; and through the many happy years of their life together there was added her devoted care, at once filial and motherly, of the invalid aunt who shared their home, and who is now suffering the loss of this devotion in her old age.

Northampton has been richer for the influence and charm of a woman whose social relationships were based on loving service and sympathy, in which personal ambition played no part. She was practical in household ways, investing the commonplace with touches of beauty and flashes of delightful humor that made her a comfort in all neighborly situations; in her club, among books and discussions, an inspiring leader; in her church relations loyal and faithful to the last. At the meetings of the Girls Club, later the Girls' Friendly Branch, of St. John's church, no social gathering was ever complete without her merry participation, no night too wet of her voice to be heard in the little Lenten choir. She was the first president of the Children's Home Association, guiding her board through the difficulties of pioneer work with quiet, wise and equitable judgment, while children and matron alike looked eagerly for her daily visits.

Lastly, for those who were so fortunate as to come within the bright and peaceful circle of her friendships, there were unforgettable generosity without stint, gayety without sting, human interest untainted by narrowness, self-sacrifice with its pain hidden behind a buoyant faith. In the words of her beloved brother, the friends now bereft of her presence will nevertheless

"be forever happier
With blameless memories that shall bring content
And inspiration for all after days."

A Dedication

[To his sister, by Bliss Carman.]

To J. M. G. a spirit undismayed,
Bright as the day with warm and generous aid.

Happy as morning where the river shines,
Serene as sunset through her Belmont pines.

Confronting fortune with a gentle mirth,
With equal love for Heaven and for earth;

Thinking no ill, going her duteous ways,
Sheer loveliness about her all her days;

Quick to respond, unfailing to inspire,
Serving the hearthstone with celestial fire;

With tender strength she plays her quiet part;
A child of transport with a woman's heart.

PINKERTON ON THE CRIME WAVE IN U. S.

Prohibition Is Responsible for Much of It, Declares the Famous Detective

New York, May 13.—What is the present wave of crime in the United States?

"Prohibition, the reaction due to the tremendous strain we have passed through during and since the war, reproductions of crime in the films, and the automobile. These, taken together, have evolved an entirely new type of criminal, difficult under our present methods to deal with, and have produced conditions that never before in the history of the country have been so rotten."

The speaker was William A. Pinkerton, one of the world's most widely known detectives, whose experience in dealing with crime and criminals extends back more than half a century, dating from the time when his father, Allan Pinkerton, organized the secret service during the Civil War, and was the trusted adviser and bodyguard to Lincoln.

Seventy-four years old, alert and active, Mr. Pinkerton was on one of his tours of inspection of his agencies, when he decided to spend a month in California to recuperate, and incidentally pay a visit to his nephew, Allan Pinkerton, who will succeed him when he decides to retire.

BANDIT LEADER IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

"Rickey" Harrison Pays the Penalty for a Long List of Crimes at New York

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Ossining, N. Y., May 14.—Richard Harrison and Chester Gontine were electrocuted at Sing Sing prison last night.

The electrocution of Richard Harrison, aged tyenty-four, more familiarly known in criminal circles of New York as 'Rickey," concludes the notorious career of the man who led a gang of bandits which murdered Geo. J. Griffiths, aged thirty-eight, an invalided Canadian soldier, on September 7, 1918. The murder took place during the hold-up of the Knickerbocker Waiters' Club, 687 Sixth Avenue, New York, at 4.14 a. m.

Twenty members of the club were in the building at the time five hold-up men entered, headed by "Rickey" Harrison and, in response to a command "put up your hands," given by the leader, the twenty men were lined up against the wall and relieved of their money and valuables. The robbers took $700 in cash, and jewelry amounting to $2,000, all of which was afterwards recovered from Harrison, who conducted the search of the victims.

During the process of robbing the club members, Harrison took a fancy to a signet ring worn by Max Pincus. The ring was not removable as it had been worn by Pincus for a number of years, and the flesh had grown around it. Harrison then threatened to break Pincus' finger, and his threat was succeeded by a punch on Harrison's nose, inflicted by George Pritchard, another club member. A mix-up followed, in the midst of which police arrived in response to an alarm given by Chas. D. Renshall, manager of the club, who had previously escaped through the window.

During the melee one of the bandits, Euro De Primo, aged 16, was shot and killed. Policeman Bertram Maskiell fought a gun duel with the gang, the gang holding him at bay from the head of the stairs. He succeeded, however, in wounding Harrison and Gustave Guillaime, aged 19. Two others escaped. Guillaime is now serving life imprisonment. He was found guilty of murder in the second degree, and at his trial confessed to the part he played in the shooting affray during which Griffiths was fatally wounded.

Griffiths, who was an Englishman by birth, was fatally wounded by a bullet which struck him in the head when he was going to the assistance of a fellow club member. He died later at the hospital.

Since Harrison was sentenced to death on October 4 at the General Sessions, his counsel made several applications for a new trial on his behalf, all of which were refused. The final attempt took the form of an application for a writ of certiorari on May 5, which was denied by Justice Richard P. Lydon in supreme court.

On the day he was sentenced to death in the electric chair, Harrison escaped from two prison guards while being taken from Part I., General Sessions, to the Tombs. He was recaptured a week later in Newark, N. J., as he was about to keep an appointment with a young woman near the Lackawanna Railway station.

An attempt was made on Harrison's life by members of the "Hudson Duster" gang when he was in the Tombs, and he was severely stabbed in the arm and back with a pen knife. The stabbing took place during exercise hour. Particulars of the stabbing were never made public, but it was alleged at the time that Harrison had intimated his intention to "squeal" to officials regarding certain information he possessed which implicated the "Hudson Duster" gang. His wounds almost proved fatal.

BARONESS SENT TO BANGOR JAIL

Celebrated Maine Arson Case, in Which Insurance Company Was Defrauded

Bangor, Me., May 13.—George Le Roy Nelson, not less than two nor more than four years in the state prison.

Mrs. George Le Roy Nelson, one year in the Penobscot county jail.

These were the sentences imposed by Justice Smith in the Superior Court Wednesday afternoon in the celebrated Carmel arson case, in which Nelson and his wife, formerly the Baroness Hermance Grether De Beck, were indicted on two counts each, for burning their house in Carmel on the morning of March 4, 1920, with the intent to defraud insurance companies that had taken risks aggregating about $10,000 on house and contents, which contents, the state showed, had been removed previous to the fire.

Preceding the passing of sentence, Nelson made a long statement, in which he declared that the fire was of accidental origin, and that he merely allowed it to burn, a previous accidental fire in the house having suggested to him the idea of burning the place for the purpose of getting the insurance money. This statement places husband and wife in direct opposition, she having on April 28 confessed to County Attorney Blanchard that she and her husband were equally guilty of the crime charged—that they had done wrong and that she desired to be punished equally with him.

County Attorney Blanchard reviewed the case from the beginning, and Edward P. Murray, of counsel for the defendants, made a plea for Mrs. Nelson, in the course of which he made the interesting and somewhat surprising announcement that although she had only a few months ago valued her personal property at $28,000 or $29,000, she now is penniless.

A CONSERVATIVE REVIVAL.

Montreal Gazette: "Such confidence "as was reposed in the Union Government has failed to survive the "eighteen months of irresolution, procrastination and secretiveness which "has marked the conduct of the "administration since the close of the "war. The importance of a definite "declaration of policy, particularly in "regard to fiscal matters, has been "urged repeatedly upon the Government, but to no avail, either because "the Ministers composing the coalition have been unable to get together, or because they have refrained deliberately from taking the "country into their confidence. One "or other of these hypotheses must "be accepted as containing the true "reason for the extraordinary course "which has been pursued, and it does "not matter, from any practical standpoint, which is the real one; the "effect in either case is the same.

"A policy which is kept under lock "and key is as good as no policy at "all, and as bad, and the country has "come to the conclusion, reluctantly "enough, that the Government has, in "fact, no policy. * * * * The prosperity "of the Dominion has been built upon "the strong foundation of the National Policy, the policy of the Conservative party, and if there is to "be a continuance of prosperity there "must be no departure from the great "principle of the National Policy. If "the present Government refuses to "look that simple fact in the face "and to govern itself accordingly, "then the Conservative party must "be reorganized and must take the "field, under strong and aggressive "leadership, in defence of the policy "with which its name has been so "honorably associated for more than "forty years."

THE MEXICAN SITUATION.

In Mexico, instead of presidential elections, they go in for rebellions. The party convention assumes the form of a military conspiracy and the campaign consists of some forced marches, a few volleys of musketry and here and there some blood-letting. It is one of the customs of the country and is no more noisy and scarcely less disturbing from a business standpoint than are the vociferous but bloodless campaigns carried on elsewhere. Moreover, the Mexicans like it and, from long experience, have attained a high degree of proficiency in it. Sometimes the process is fatal to one of the candidates, but this is not always so, particularly if the loser has a fair start upon his pursuers.

The history of Mexico is a record of rebellion, reaching back to Spanish colonial days and including in its grim recital the tragic failure of Maximilian's experiment, remarks an exchange. The names of Santa Anna, the Indian Benito Juarez and Porfirio Diaz stand out from the list of native sons who have played the leading roles in the almost interminable civil and national wars of Mexico. Of the latter, the war with the United States was an expensive business for both countries, but Mexico lost heavily in territory and otherwise, and Mexicans have not been able to look back upon 1847-8 with the same mental tranquility which marks their retrospect of the "pastry war" with France and the subsequent doubtful effort at intervention by a group of European powers. Diaz became president of Mexico as much by means of bullets as of ballots, and held the office for many years, virtually as dictator and because he was a strong man who knew what he wanted and how to get it and keep it.

Venustiano Carranza gained the presidency by the customary route, that of insurrection, the path, in his case, having been a particularly bloody one. He began his "campaign" in 1913, overthrew the existing regime in the following year, and for two years more was engaged in developing a plan of "political reconstruction" while the internal affairs of Mexico went from very bad to a great deal worse. Confirmed in office, he established a new constitution, founded upon the democratic principle that national sovereignty resides essentially and originally in the people, a very excellent thing on paper; but this reform and others which he inaugurated made no great difference in the national life of the country. Revolutions continued to be the order of the day, with Francesco Villa, a former Carranza leader, keeping things warm both for the new government and its neighbors. Obregon, too, was a Carranza leader, presumably the same Obregon who now leads the insurrection which aims at the early retirement of Carranza and seems to be achieving its object. Pablo Gonzales, one of the close friends of Carranza, disappeared from Mexico and turned up in the rebel camp.

Apparently the Carranza reign has terminated. The President, prior to his hasty departure, called a council of military leaders, who advised him to remove himself, which seems to have been good, if not quite disinterested, advice. In the ordinary course, there will be a new president—one Adolf de la Huerta has been named provisionally—and perhaps there will be a new constitution, framed upon ultra democratic lines, and things will go on exactly as before. The difficulty seems to be that all the revolutionary generals cannot be "elected" president at the same time, a fact which will probably lead to the same sanguinary rivalries in the future as in the past. But the fall of Carranza, if permanent—and these depositions are usually made absolutely permanent in Mexico—will excite little regret in other countries. Carranza's policy in international affairs was shifty and his guarantees were fragile. Under his direction Mexico became a German base during the war. His administration offered no adequate protection to either the lives or properties of foreigners in Mexico. He tolerated, to put it mildly, the bloody depredations of Villa, and played so brazen a game of hide and seek with the United States that the thing became a mockery. His empty promises of protection increased as the list of murdered Americans expanded, and Pershing's punitive expedition into Mexico, undertaken upon a promise of co-operation by the Carranza government, found itself hampered and thwarted by Carranza troops and Carranza influences. Unable or unwilling to maintain order in Mexico or to deal honestly with foreign governments, Carranza's exit will afford at least an opportunity for better things.

SCIENTIFIC SUGAR.

News comes by telegraph from Pittsburg that Robert Hyde, a chemist and graduate of the University of Manchester, has announced that high-grade sugar can be made out of ordinary sawdust at a cost of about three cents a pound. One pound of sawdust will make three-quarters of a pound of sugar. Why not a pound of sugar from twelve ounces of sawdust? The discovery was made by the accidental upsetting of a "flask containing a certain liquid upon some excelsior." The peculiar effect led to investigation, and, as the inventor says, "to the realization of my dream. The process of manufacture consumes about ten hours.

"Oh, wonderful! La! how wonderful!" cried the idiot boy in Bulwer's old play. So full fed with wonders have we grown in this age of applied science that we are quite ready to take any new marvel on the face of its claim; if it isn't true, it might be—who can deny that? The rosy glow of new processes, even of new substances and elements, shines ahead on the pathway and we run forward, too often with our mouths open to catch flies.

During the war Germany's unplumbed and inclusive wisdom brought forth marvel after marvel, prodigies of ingenuity in imitation sugar, imitation bread, imitation coal, imitation woolen and cotton cloths, imitation tobacco, imitation soap, imitation tea and coffee, imitation rubber—an apotheosis of ersatz; and yet they were not so much better off. They never tried to produce imitation hunger; there was little occasion.

Mr. Hyde's invention grew out of his memory of a German professor's statement as to the properties of sugar. Its "extraction from wood," thereupon, became merely a matter of experimentation. Fruitless efforts for eight years were forgotten when he saw the reaction of the "certain liquid" upon the shavings. Wood sugar is bound to be less objectionable than wood alcohol; but it might be a good plan to save the wood to make shingles, broomsticks and paper, and allow the country's and world's supply of sugar to come through its established channel, keeping that channel open.

THE NEW CRESCENT.

The victorious advance of the Polish army continues, and the news of the fall of Kief is fully confirmed. The Bolshevik veterans who triumphed so easily over Kolchak and Denekine are proving no match for Pilsudski's men, and at every point are giving way in disorder. Unless Trotsky hastens up large masses of troops, all Ukrainia seems likely to be overrun.

Now that the Bolshevik power in the south is tottering, it is probable that Rumania will list herself beside its enemies. It is significant that the Ukrainian rising in Odessa was aided by Rumanian guns. King Ferdinand cannot but feel that the presence of the Bolsheviki on the shores of the Black Sea is a standing menace to his people, and his obvious interest is to assist in any movement to push them back. Whether the Polish drive was begun with the definite promise of Rumanian co-operation remains to be seen, but there is every reason to believe that assistance will not long be withheld.

The erection of an independent Ukrainia would complete the half circle of hostile or semi-hostile states which now hem in the Bolsheviki. It would be a new crescent, not threatening Christendom as did the Mohammedan symbol of mediaeval times, but with its points extending eastward to protect it against the modern menace of radicalism. Including Finland, the Baltic States, Poland, Ukrainia and Rumania, it would extend in one unbroken sweep from the Arctic to the Black Sea.

These States, all of them carved in whole or in part from the recent domains of the Czar, have a common interest in preventing the restoration of the old Russian Empire. Despite many jealousies and conflicting ambitions, they can be trusted to act in harmony when it is a question of resisting the Power which menaces them all alike. In fact, Gen. Pilsudski's successful advance seems likely to herald a new alignment of nations, a new order of things in the East.

RE-UNION DINNER OF CLASS OF 1884

Reminiscenses of Old Days "On the Hill" Exchanged Last Night

The Class of 1884, of the University of New Brunswick, held a reunion yesterday in connection with the Encoenia, and at 6.30 o'clock last evening they gathered at Washington's restaurant and held a class dinner. All the members of the class except W. C. Cushing, of Philadelphia; Dr. Ganong, of Northampton, Mass.; M. A. Quigley, of Atchinson, Texas; Jos. E. Dever, of New York, and E. W. Jarvis, of Chatham, were present.

Those who sat down to the five-course dinner were Dr. A. W. Duff, of Worcester, Mass.; C. W. Hall, Very Rev. Dean Neales and J. M. Lemont, of this city; Dr. Teed, Mount Watley, N.B.; Dr. Kenney, St. John; H. M. Goodspeed, Ottawa; Colonel J. W. Bridges, Montreal; Dr. McManus, Washburn, Me.; J. R. Dunn, Gagetown; Dr. R. Nicholson, Newcastle; J. W. Bailey, Boston. and Dr. F. Brown, Centreville. Dr. A. W. Duff was in the chair, with Dr. H. S. Bridges on his right and C.W. Hall on his left.

The dinner was a very informal one, everyone present making a short address on reminiscences of the days spent on College Hill. College songs were also sung and at midnight the Class of 1884 dispersed resolving to meet again in 1924 to celebrate the 40th anniversary of their graduation.

One of the members of the faculty of the undergraduate period of the class was also present in the person of Dr. L. W. Bailey, still emeritus professor of natural history at U.N.B.

Graduates of the U.N.B. whose undergraduate days covered a portion of the period of the Class of 1884 were also present. They were W. J. S. Miles, Dr. H.V.B. Bridges, Dr. H. S. Bridges, John T. Jennings, E. A. McKay, Dr. W.C. Crocket, M.L.A., Hon. O. S. Crocket, H. G. Fenety and Col. Murray MacLaren.

DEVELOPMENT OF MOTOR INDUSTRY

New York May 14.—Official confirmation of the reported acquisition of a block of General Motors Corporation common stock by British interests and of new financing now under consideration, was issued yesterday. It was admitted that Explosives Trades, Limited, of London, and the Canadian Explosives, Limited, of Montreal, had arranged to acquire approximately $36,000,000 worth of the new common stock to be issued in the near future. Details of the financing under consideration were withheld.

It is understood that the acquisition of an interest in the common stock, which will be taken by the two companies as a permanent investment, has as its object the development of the motor industry in England and Canada along very broad lines.

HOTEL FOR WOMEN

Winnipeg, Man., May 13.—A woman's hotel is a possibility of the near future for Winnipeg. The Women's Council have a proposition under advisement which will be brought down before a public meeting of wage earning women called for May 24. It involves forming a joint stock company and the purchase of a down town hotel. Eighty thousand dollars is the sum mentioned as the needed capital.

Fishes have been found at a depth of more than four miles.

The Stock Market

New York (Wall Street), May 14.—The stock market was active and firm at the outset of today's session, although overnight news bearing upon industrial and financial conditions was again unfavorably interpreted. Shippings, equipments, steels and oils were higher by substantial fractions to one and one-half points under lead of Atlantic Gulf, Baldwin, Crucible, Vanadium and Replogle, also Mexican and Pan American petroleums. There was little demand for rails and trail shares were disposed to react moderately with specialties in the leather, textile and tobacco groups.

A tramcar collided with a milk cart and sent can after can of milk splashing into the street. Soon a large crowd gathered. A very short man coming up had to stand on tiptoe to see past a stout woman in front of him.

"Goodness!" he exclaimed, "What an awful waste!"

The stout woman turned round and glared at the little man, and said, sternly:

"Mind your own business!"

FROM THE PEOPLE

REPLIES TO UNCLE RUBEN

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Uncle Ruben's method of attack is very imprudent indeed, casting slur after slur at the boys and girls in khaki, who at least had grit enough to go and do whatever they could and thus help win the war.

Some of these boys and girls returned incapacitated for an indefinite period of life, but quite a large number returned as cripples, maimed for life, and some 60,000 made the supreme sacrifice in order that creatures such as Uncle Ruben, alias Junker, might live and enjoy a home and the privileges of free speech.

He is too narrow-minded and mean to enjoy the innocent pleasures of home life, i. e., a little music, etc., and denies them unto others. It is a great pity, indeed, that he is alive and residing in Canada; he ought to be made to live in Hunland, under martial rule for the rest of his life in order that he might learn the difference and gain a lesson of Hun rule and kultur. I am sure that he cannot enter Heaven and that the devil will not allow such as he to make a home in hell. For the sake of his son, who donned the khaki, as we were informed, I will pity him some and put him down as "non compos mentis" who should be taken care of.

Yours,

F. C. L.

IS IT MAN'S TURN NOW?

To the Editor of The Gleaner,—

Sir,—I should like to ask your indulgence for a few observations. Woman's sphere today is hedged around and protected by discriminatory laws that do not square with the feminist cry for equality of rights and opportunity. Equality women are entitled to as they come into "their political independence."

But will they agree at an early date to the shedding of some of the inequalities that have been placed around the relations of man and wife? Will the champions of woman's rights lend their powerful advocacy to some desirable reforms that mere man humbly asks for?

Today man is victimized and penalized by the laws that govern our divorce and domestic courts. The healthy, well to do woman, who through temperamental or other reasons is living apart from her husband can make him pay maintenance and support for her just as long as she wishes to take the advantage of the inequalities that the law of the country forces upon the man in such cases.

Although she is certain that never can she reconcile herself to happiness and contentment with her husband, and he in turn feels that she is unfitted and not mated to him, why should the law discriminate against the man and fetter him by a domestic relations court order compelling him to pay her separate maintenance?

Yours,

PAUL RIMTON.

Grand Falls, N. B., May 8, 1920.

SLEEPS ON THE FLOOR

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I recently read a letter in your From the People column and can readily realize how alone your correspondent feels, for what greater grief can a woman have than to lose the companionship of a good man?

We, too (husband and I), are called an ideal couple. Often newly met acquaintances say they believed us at first to be unmarried, we are so pleasant to one another. He rarely goes out without me, but should he say, "The boys are giving a smoker," I send him off with a smile. When he returns I am waiting for him and over a cup of tea he relates the evening's fun.

Occasionally he brings some of his friends home for a poker party. I ask them for supper, and, if his friends are from out of town, for over night. Several times I've retired on the floor so they could use the spare bed. And he's done the same when I've had a week-end crowd. In short, I give him the same freedom in the things he enjoys as his mother did. That's why boys idolize their mothers.

I am not pretending we never have a misunderstanding, but when I see a storm gathering I put on my hat and trot down the road for a spell until my desire "to nag" leaves me. I don't feel that I have the right to make any one else's life unhappy. I believe in "vamping" my husband rather than to let a real vampire beat me to it.

But don't picture me draping myself about him and catering to him constantly. And ever since our daughter's birth he has taken her out every Saturday afternoon so I can do my work undisturbed.

Our lives are what we make them. We were just two kids when we "took a chance" at wedded bliss, and believe me if we were single again we'd do the same thing all over—I and my happy-go-lucky pal.

Yours,

DORIS DALE.

Fredericton, May 8, 1920.

REVAMPED CORSO

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—The first protest against the arbitrary decisions of the San Remo conference is made by the City Council of San Remo, which changed the name of the beautiful drive along the sea from Corso Wilson to Corso Fiume.

During the Italian-Turkish war of 1910-1911, when the French and the British governments made objections to the annexation of Tripolitania by Italy, the German Kaiser declared that he was ready to assist by his shining sword his faithful ally, and the City Council of San Remo in order to express the gratitude of the city named this drive Corso William II.

After the entrance of the United States into the world war the announcement of the famous fourteen points and the triumphal tour of President Wilson in Italy the City Council of San Remo in order to honor our President changed the name of the drive to Corso Wilson.

The hostile attitude of President Wilson toward the Italian national claims in Fiume, his support of the so-called League of Nations covenant, Article X., by which the United States Government was to guarantee all the territorial gains of the European conquerors and the violation of President Wilson's principles induced the City Council of San Remo to reconsider its former decision and to change the name of the drive to Corso Fiume. The name is in honor of the League of Fiume projected by Gabriele d'Annunzio.

Yours,

T. A. D.

SUBMARINES HAVE LOST THEIR POWER

Development of Submarine Detecting Apparatus Will Make Great Change in Warfare

London, May 13.—Submarines have lost two-thirds of their efficiency since 1914, according to Lieutenant W. S. King-Hall, R. N., in a recent address at the Royal United Service Institute on "The Submarine and Future Naval Warfare."

The speaker maintained that the advantage previously possessed by the submarine was steadily on the wane. Whereas, at the beginning of the war in 1914 it was as 9 to 1 against the surface ship, it was only 7 to 3 in 1919 and was likely to be only 6 to 7 in 1930. He was of the opinion that within the next few years there would be a great development of submarine detecting apparatus which would give large and important ships a certain measure of protection against tactical attack by submarines.

He regarded as impracticable the proposal that battleships should be made submersible. He ventured the opinion that the use of gas might eventually revolutionize naval warfare much as gunpowder did when first introduced. It might be discharged with deadly effect on an enemy coastline. It was actually suggested during the German occupancy that the Belgian coast should be "gassed," but the plan was abandoned "in deference to Belgium's susceptibilities."

The more we need advice the less likely we are to appreciate the kind we get.

When you begin to tell your troubles to a man he always interrupts to tell you his.

TELLS DYSPEPTICS WHAT TO EAT

Avoid Indigestion, Sour Acid Stomach, Heartburn, Gas on Stomach, Etc.

Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble, say medical authorities, are due nine times out of ten to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. Chronic "acid stomach" is exceedingly dangerous and sufferers should do either one of two things.

Either they can go on a limited and often disagreeable diet, avoiding foods that disagree with them, that irritate the stomach and lead to excess acid secretion or they can eat as they please in reason and make it a practice to counteract the effect of the harmful acid and prevent the formation of gas, sourness or premature fermentation by the use of a little Bisurated Magnesia at their meals.

There is probably no better, safer or more reliable stomach antiacid than Bisurated Magnesia and it is widely used for this purpose. It has no direct action on the stomach and is not a digestent. But a teaspoonful of the powder or a couple of five grain tablets taken in a little water with the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation. This removes the whole cause of the trouble and the meal digests naturally and healthfully without need of pepsin pills or artificial digestents.

Get a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia from any reliable druggist. Ask for either powder or tablets. It never comes as a liquid, milk or citrate and in the bisurated form is not a laxative. Try this plan and eat what you want at your next meal and see if this isn't the best advice you ever had on "what to eat."

The Triumph of Hon. Mr. Meighen

Parliament on Friday witnessed a singular tribute to the genius and administrative capacity of the Minister of the Interior. On the presentation of the estimates of the Soldier Settlement Board, members representing all shades of political opinion bore striking testimony to the efficient manner in which the soldier settlement scheme is being administered by the board under the chairmanship of Dr. W. J. Black and under the immediate control of Mr. Meighen.

It was acknowledged on all sides that a great contribution had been made towards the re-establishment of thousands of returned soldiers. Everywhere there is evidence of the careful selection of men established on the land under this scheme and of the strictest supervision after they take up their own farms.

It is not often that a minister of the crown so impresses a public body as Mr. Meighen did on Friday when he detailed the results of the first year's operations. Mr. Meighen was able to show that the Soldier Settlement Board has approved loans of approximately $60,000,000, $45,000,000 of which has been disbursed on behalf of men actually on the land. The number who have qualified to go on the land is in the neighborhood of 36,000. Sixty-nine settlers have already repaid their loans in full. "This," said Dr. Michael Clark, of the so-called Progressive Party, "is a splendid advertisement of this magnificent country. It is an advertisement which should be used in other countries of the earth to let them know what sort of a country Canada really is," and the doctor continued to say that in the minister's statement he found everything to commend and nothing to criticise.

Other members of the same party also lauded the work of the board. Major Andrews (Winnipeg) observing that

"the Liberal members of this House as well as the country at large may congratulate the Government on having enacted the most advanced legislation that has ever been put on the statute book in the country since Confederation;"

while Mr. Caldwell (New Brunswick) said he felt like giving the Government every credit for this Act—

"I believe that it is a good thing and that it serves a good purpose. I believe that it will put returned soldiers into civil life who otherwise would not be able to establish themselves under such favorable conditions."

The soldier land setlement scheme is the most effective piece of constructive legislation that has been enacted since the war. It evidences a desire on the part of the Government, and particularly of the minister whose project it is, to meet the situation caused by the tendency citywards, which set in before the war, and which has done more than anything else to produce the chaotic economic conditions which exist in Canada. Every encouragement should be given to our returned men to take up land and become producers of food. That they are embracing this wonderful opportunity to become established under the most favorable conditions is a matter upon which the people of Canada should congratulate themselves.

REMARKABLE CURE OF CRIPPLED SISTER

Regains Ability to Walk by Fall From a Chair—Can Now Run About

Fort William, Ont., May 13.—A remarkable incident happened at St. Joseph's convent here recently. One of the sisters who for the past twelve months has been unable to walk, suffering from a tubercular knee, and who was told by several doctors that it would be absolutely impossible for her to walk again, fell from a chair in trying to get to a wheel chair that was close by, and in falling she regained her strength. The strange thing was she started to walk; in fact, ran around the convent, and she is now walking, it is said, as if she had never been sick.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Wilmot Mooers.

Southampton, May 10.—The mortal remains of Mrs. Wilmot Mooers were laid to rest on Friday morning, the 9th, at Soutsampton. Her death, which was unexpected, has created deep and pathetic feeling throughout the community. She was a woman of splendid disposition and is remembered as a bride of only two years ago.

She and her husband with her adopted niece, little Violet May, lived in perfect happiness and concord. Up to the Saturday before her death no one had any apprehension of the adverse happening. Sunday, however, developments were not favorable and as a result of a special consultation of the doctors an operation was decided on. Mrs. Mooers was conveyed by special car to Fredericton and without delay the operation was successfully performed. Mr. Mooers was with his wife and so were her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John Cullerton, and though regrets were felt that their first born baby boy had not been saved, yet all felt gratified at the thought of Mrs. Mooers' survival and had high hopes of her speedy recovery. Their hopes, however, were not to be realized, for notwithstanding all that money and human effort and skill could do the precious life ebbed away. The deceased was in her 22nd year.

The funeral was one of the largest witnessed hereabouts, the spacious new church being unable to accommodate all the mourners and sympathizers. The service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Middleton, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Bell and the Rev. Mr. Rutledge. The floral contributions were as follows: A wreath from Mr. Mooers; a pillow from the Cullerton family; a crescent from Mr. James McGuire; a bouquet from Ludlow Young nad a wreath from the Canadian Realty Co.

THE THEATRE AND THE COMMUNITY

Tyronne Power Criticizes the Apathy of the General Public Towards Good Plays

Winnipeg, Man., May 13.—A vigorous invective of the apathy and indifference of the general public towards the production of good plays was delivered by Tyronne Power, when he addressed delegates to the Local Council of Women, at their annual meeting, on the subject, "The Relation of the Theatre to the Community."

"There is no such relation," he declared. "People are not interested in the theatre and know nothing about it. They do not take the theatre and the actor seriously or realize that they can have the best plays and play wrights if they cared enough to ask for them. There is some talk about uplifting the stage, but I tell you, it is not the actors who require uplifting, but the public who must be uplifted to our standard. Let the theatre be more than a place of amusement—one of the noblest platforms in the world for spreading the truth and light," he said. In conclusion Mr. Powers declared: "I would suggest that if you want good drama, instead of twaddle and trash, that you form an organization similar to the Drama League of America, which has already accomplished wonderful things."

Farmer's Dog Starts Quarrel Which Resulted in Murder of Family of Eight in Dakota

Henry Layer Confesses to Cold-Blooded Shooting of Little Girls After Their Parents Had Been First Killed—Is An Atrocity Rare in the Annals of Crime

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Washburn, N. D., May 14.—Injuries administered to one farmer's cattle by another farmer's dog started a quarrel resulting in the murder of Jacob Wolf, his wife, five children and a chore boy, near Turtle Creek, N. D., according to a confession made here by Henry Layer, the police say

The confession attributed to Layer is a record of cold-blooded atrocity rare in the annals of crime. Layer, whose farm adjoins the Wolf place, was arrested at his home Tuesday night, and yesterday, after making the confession, was sentenced to life imprisonment by Judge Nuessle.

According to the statement, there was ill-feeling between the two farms for some time, culminating in a quarrel over Layer's cattle being worried by Wolf's dog. On April 22, Layer went to the Wolf farm and was ordered away by the owner. When he refused to go, Wolf, he says, secured a double-barreled shotgun. As the two men struggled in the doorway to the kitchen for possession of the weapon, it was discharged twice.

One of the shots killed Mrs. Wolf, and the other a 13-year-old chore boy. Layer by this time had taken the gun away from Wolf. He went into the sitting room, obtained a handful of shells from a bureau drawer and hurried outside.

Wolf was running toward the barn and Layer fired, hitting Wolf in the back. He then shot Wolf again in the back as he lay on the ground, according to the alleged confession.

Layer then ran to a barn and shot two of the girls while they pleaded for mercy. Attracted by the screams of three little girls in the house, Layer shot two of them and killed the third with a hatchet.

After the seven members of the family and the chore boy had been killed, Layer went to the barn, covered the two bodies with hay and dragged Wolf's body into the shed and buried it under a pile of hay. He then went into the kitchen, opened the cellar door and threw in the bodies of Mrs. Wolf, the three children and that of the boy. He then took the gun, broke it in two and threw the pieces into a slough north of the Wolf farm, where they were later found.

IN MEMORIAM.

Amos Walter Grady, aged 34, died in Fisher Memorial Hospital, Woodstock, N. B., on April 23, 1920.

Adieu to thee, dear son and brother,
Mourned as thou art by all who knew
Of thy true heart, like many another
Saddened by suffering, tried and true.

While life shall last we shall regret thee,
And hold thy memory ever dear.
Loved friend of all, who could forget thee;
The thought of whom calls forth a tear.
Endeared to all who knew thee best,
Revered beloved, sweet be thy rest.

God in His goodness called thee Walter,
Rich thy reward in His dear home;
At that clear call you did not falter,
"Dear God, you called me and I come,"
Your fond reply, from lips now dumb.

CIVIC PLAYGROUND TO BE READY SOON

Part Allotted to Younger Folks To Be Used on Victoria Day

The Civic Playground Committee met last evening and appointed subcommittees to proceed at once with the work upon the playgrounds on Queens Square.

Ald. C. C. Camp generously offered to supply horses free of charge and to do the work of levelling and grading on the grounds so this will curtail a good deal of expense to the committee.

Yesterday morning the committee staked out the grounds for the work which provide for a baseball diamond for older boys and men, a football field enclosed in a quarter mile cinder track, a bowling green, swings for the kiddies and tennis courts as well as grounds for volley ball.

Ald. Cain and Baxter and Police Magistrate Limerick were appointed a committee to look after swings and other arrangements for the kiddies. Ald. Camp, City Engineer G. C. McDowell and Jack Lawlor were appointed a committee to proceed at once with the levelling and grading of the baseball diamond and a sum of $100 was apportioned them for the work in this connection.

A sub-committee of J. B. McNair, G. C. McDowell and Ald. Walter Jennings was appointed to proceed at once with the putting into shape of the football field and the cinder track. They were also allotted $100 for their work.

The committee are enthusiastic over the work and will proceed at once with getting the grounds into shape as early as possible. It is expected that the part of the grounds allotted to the kiddies and younger children will be in fairly good shape for use on the 24th of May and they are working their hardest for this.

DANIELS CALLS THE CHARGES BASELESS

Never Was a Time When Ships Were Not Available to Carry Troops to France

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Washington, May 14.—Rear Admiral Sims' "fallacious and baseless" charges that the Navy Department delays prolonged the war four months unnecessarily was "practically the only charge of unfavorable results from the many alleged sins of omission and commission" the officer had ascribed to the department, Secretary Daniels today told the United States Senate investigating committee. It was fully refuted, he added, by the Admiral's own testimony.

There never was a time, the witness said, when tonnage was not available to carry troops and supplies to France as fast as they could be landed and transported to the front.

Allocation of ships to the United States by the Allies always was the dominant factor, Mr. Daniels declared.

Old Pipe Laid in St. John Eighty Years Ago Brings Double Original Price

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

St. John, May 14.—Instead of depreciating in value the cast iron water mains laid in King street eighty years ago have been earning interest on the investment. Tenders for the old pipes, which are being replaced by larger mains, were opened at City Hall today, and the highest tender was for an amount almost double the original cost of the pipe. J. A. Barry, for Frank Gorson, tendered $35 a ton. Eighty years ago it cost $18 to $20 a ton.

THE PRINCE GETS EQUATORIAL BATH

Received a Special Drubbing at Hands of Father Neptune When Crossing Line.

When the heir to the English throne a short time ago crossed the line he received a special drubbing at the hands of Father Neptune. All the time-honored rules for the exacting of due deference and homage to his Oceanic Majesty were observed, and more. The affair was on an unprecedented scale, the result of much research into old customs and the cleverness of the rhymesters on board the great battleship which carries the Prince of Wales on his tour to the down-under countries.

The Renown was passing "under the Equator" when the Old One hailed the bridge on an April night and was taken aboard, while showers of rockets flew from the fo'c'sle, jets of water leaped from the capstan, and searchlights played upon the barnacled and hairy visitor. Next morning Neptune received the homage of the Prince and of all others who previously had not entered his domain. The ocean deity is said to have been rather crusty, due no doubt to the henpecking of a rope-skirted Amphitrite, and he was attended by heralds, secretaries, clerks, barbers, police and bears, all dressed with spectacular absurdity. And when they met the Prince they proclaimed their intentions with vigor:

"Shave him and bash him,
Duck him and splash him,
Torture and smash him,
And don't let him go.

The ship's company crowded the guns, turrets, and every possible viewpoint, and as from an amphitheatre watched the proceedings. They saw the procession pass along the deck and halt upon the margin of a long sea-water bath; the lathering of the Prince, pink, white and black; the shaving, and finally the thrice threefold ducking. It is said that while the barbers were not looking he slyly slipped out of his mouth the bitter pill the doctor had forced upon him. And how the boys yelled when he was tipped backwards into the bath where the bears awaited him.

In the investiture the Prince was awarded the Order of the Equatorial Bath; Admiral Halsey received the Order of the Old Sea Dog; Captain North became a Knight of the Aged Cod; and a lieutenant who had crossed the Equator many times was given the Order of the Crusted Barnacle. Thus were the proprieties observed, and once more the present Prince of Wales made himself solid with the hoi polloi as a "good fellow."

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Hamilton, Ont., May 14.—Speaking as a manufacturer, Senator John Milne declares that women are too well paid. At a meeting of the library board Miss E. J. Reynolds, the lady member, asked him if he thought that the pay of library employees, eleven dollars per week, was sufficient, if a girl away from hime could live, dress and be decent on that salary.

"Yes," replied teh Senator, "women everywhere are paid too much money."

London, May 14—The Prince of Wales had a narrow escape today at Greymouth, N. Z., while motoring on a narrow dangerous road skirting a ravine in Buller gorge, according to a despatch to the Central News.

At one point the rear wheel of the Prince's motor car actually hung over the gorge and the earth gave way. The motor car, however, quickly recovered. The Prince did not turn a hair, the despatch adds.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, May 14.—The German cabinet, after a full discussion with the ministers of the federal states, decided unanimously that Germany should not send representatives either to Spa or Brussels conferences unless the French troops are entirely withdrawn from the Main district by May 16, according to a Central News despatch from Berlin today.

It was urged that every pretext for the continued occupation of the Main region by French forces had been removed.

CANNON BOOMED ON COLLEGE HILL

Time Honored Customs Marked Closing of U. N. B.—Windows Broken in Building

The encoenia exercises at the University were marked with the usual celebrations. A cannon boomed all night on the hill and the customary bonfire lighted up the landscape for a long distance. Several windows in the Arts building were broken by the vibration of the cannon.

For some years past it has seemed impossible for the closing festivities of the college to pass off without the ringing in of false alarms of fire and last night was no exception as shortly before midnight the fire department were called to the lower end of the city to answer a false alarm.

The annual encoenia dance was held by the senior class in the University gymnasium. There was a very large attendance as this dance is always regarded as a farewell to the students' friends among the citizens of Fredericton. Mrs. Jones and Mrs. McGinnis were the chaperones.

Prof. A. V. S. Pulling has not resigned his chair at the University, as stated, but will continue in his position at U. N. B. Prof. John A. Spaulding has resigned, however, and this will probably be the only change in the faculty.

During the encoenia proceedings yesterday it was announced that the subject for the city of Fredericton gold medal in 1921 would be senior organic chemistry. The subject for the English essay for the Douglas gold medal was announced as "The development of the English novel." English prose to be translated into Latin prose for the alumni gold medal was announced as Smith's History of Greece, chapter 20, sections 4 and 5.

GET POINTERS ON HOUSING PROBLEM

Members of Fredericton Housing Commission Making Inquiries at Moncton

Moncton, May 13.—R. H. Simonds, Secretary of the Housing Commission, and Ald. R. J. Baxter, of Fredericton, visited Moncton today, to get some pointers from the Moncton Housing Commisison as to building operations carried on last year. The Fredericton Housing Commission anticipates considerable building this summer in Fredericton, under the supervision of the Commission. Messrs Simonds and Baxter expressed the opinion that the cost of construction will be less in Fredericton than in Moncton. A deputation from the Bathurst Housing Commission will visit Moncton next week.

out. Prior to the recent freshet the outlook had not been at all hopeful.

Word was also received this morning from Woodstock that the run of logs, which had eased up during the past day or two, had resumed again and that logs were running thickly again today. Meanwhile the water in the St. John river here is falling off considerably. Hon. N. M. Jones, general manager of the Nashwaak Pulp & Paper Company, arrived here last night and today is inspecting the situation on the Nashwaak river as a result of the recent freshet which carried their piers away.

Premier Borden Will Make Effort to Place the Unionist Party on a Permanent Basis

The Senate Having Adjourned Until After the 24th, There Will Be No Caucus of the Party Until After Their Return, So As To Secure a Large Attendance

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, Maay 14.—Sir Robert Borden was at his office at an early hour this morning, prepared to take up the threads of affairs where he dropped them four months ago when he left Ottawa. The Premier's present intentions are to devote himself more to the position of Union Government taan to the details of work in the House, however, and to make a final effort to put Unionism on a permanent basis. It was expected that a caucus would have been held this week, but the Senate has adjourned until after the 24th of the month, so that the main caucus will probably not be held until after it resumes, in order that there may be as large an attendance as possible.

WEST DOES NOT WANT HAY NOW

Orders for Shipment of Hay to Winnipeg Said to Have Been Cancelled

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Winnipeg, May 14.—The sudden warm weather has caused rapid growth of the grass of western prairies and this, combined with the high price of hay, has led to a number of farmers wiring to the Department of Agriculture of the various provinces cancelling orders already given for hay. The situation thus created is one of embarrassment for the Governments, who are compelled to accept delivery of all hay ordered.

Depty Minister of Agriculture E. P. Pradt stated this morning that locally the Provincial Department of Agriculture had not received orders for any of the hay. Several of the farmers societies had wired quotations on hay to Winnipeg but had not been asked to supply any because it was found that the western farmers could get cheaper hay nearer at hand.

COL. W. G. MORDEN NOW AT OTTAWA

Interviews Ministers in Regard to Capitalization of Big Steel Company

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

Ottawa, May 14.—Colonel W. Grant Morden, member of the British House of Commons, and organizer of the huge steel merger, interviewed Sir George Foster and Hon. Arthur Meighan today in regard to the British Steel Corporation. Colonel Morden was accompanied by his counsel, F. H. Skinner, K. C., of Montreal.

Following his interview Colonel Morden declared to a representative of the Canadian Press that he felt confident that the application before the government would be granted. "It is a mere formality," he said.

The application, in reality, is not one for incorporation but for increase of capitalization. By letters patent issued by the Secretary of State on March 22, the British Empire Steel Corporation was incorporated with a capitalization of $100,000.

The provisional directors are: F. H. Martey, W. W. Skinner, G. G. Hyde, member of the bar; R. G. Grant,, acountant, and R. J. Foster, secretary, all of Montreal.

The powers of the corporation, under its charter, are wide and give the necessary authority to carry on business in steel and steamships.

Under the application now before the government, the British Empire Steel Corporation is asking an increase of capitalization from $100,000,000 to $500,000,000.

The merger was recently the subject of a debate in the House.

C. P. R. EXTENSION IN NORTHERN QUEBEC

Haileybury, Ont., May 14—That the C. P. The plan is said to be to extend the Mattawa Branch to the river Des Quinze, in the vicinity of the series of waterfalls, which constitute one of the greatest water power development opportunities in all northern Ontario.

On behalf of those present Mr. Farrell in a neat address outlining the close friendship and good fellowship which was ever demonstrated by the guest of the evening presented to Mr. Brian, on behalf of those present, a handsome pipe and pouch, already filled with the favorite weed. M'TIGUE WINS THE BOUT FROM EGAN

Canadian Title Holder Was Given Decision on Final Round Work

Halifax, N. S., May 13.—Mike McTigue had the hardest bout since he has been in Halifax at the G. W. V. A. tourney at the Armouries tonight, when he met Joe Egan, the Boston middleweight, who holds a decision over Mike O'Dowd.

McTigue got the decision on his work in the last round when he faced the issue, and with a right and left to the face he had Egan in a bad way for a moment, but outside of that it was such an even bout that at the finish a draw would have been a verdict that would have satisfied the majority of the 1,500 spectators.

It was an interesting bout between two scientific boxers. McTigue scored principally with his left jab, which he landed on the face many times, but Egan escaped many of them by his clever dodging and did good work in in fighting. Most of the rounds were even, there were some in which McTigue excelled, in the others Egan had the advantage but with both clever men anxious to obtain the decision over each other there was an unusual amount of clinching.

Tom Foley, who has refereed for all the important bouts here lately with satisfaction, awarded the decision to McTigue.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Pittsburg, Pa., May 14.—Lee Meadows, pitcher for the Philadelphia National League baseball club, and the only major league player who wears spectacles, was injured here yesterday, when his glasses were shattered by a foul tip during batting practice.

Attending physicians said that while pieces of flying glass had lacerated Meadows' face, it did not penetrate the eyeball. The accident will probably keep him out of the game for two weeks.

The York County Baseball League Will Bar Rowdyism

Extensive Authority Given Umpires to Deal With Players, and Spectators Will Be Handled, Too—Want a Civic Grant of $500

The York County Baseball League executive, at a meeting held last night, determined to have the league games free from rowdyism at all costs this season, and provisions are being made whereby both players and spectators will be compelled to deport themselves properly at the games.

Extensive powers will be given the umpires to banish players who are guilty of profanity or any other unsportsmanlike actions upon the field, and the league executive will act upon reports of the umpires as to rowdy players, if there happen to be any infractions.

Umpires have not been appointed as yet, but C. H. Cochrane, physical director of the Y. M. C. A. and secretary of the league, is likely to be one of the officials. Under a resolution passed last night an umpire was given authority to suspend a player for the balance of the season, if necessary, but such a ruling is not in accordance with baseball laws; an umpire should have authority to banish a player from a game, but further action must come from the executive of the league, who act upon a report from the umpire.

Clubs will be limited to eighteen players and provision has been made that the transfer or other disposal of players can be only with the sanction of the executive of the league, while in the event of a team dropping out of the league, either of its own accord or otherwise, other teams will be allowed to take up the players only upon approval of the executive.

It was decided to ask the City Council of Fredericton for a grant of $500. Mayor Walker, of Marysville, the vice-president of the league, presided.

Cincinnati was shut out by the Giants yesterday. Benton was strong with runners on bases while Fisher, for the champions, was wild in the first inning and Luque was hit hard in the last two rounds.

SASKATCHEWAN RIVER BUSY SPOT

The Pas, Man., May 6.—Water traffic on the Saskatchewan river at The Pas during the coming season gives early promise of breaking all records. There are millions of board feet of logs to come down from the Carrot river for The Pas Lumber Company; thousands of ties and large shipments of ore. The Maudy ore haul requires the largest number of boats, and four steam tugs and eight barges have been placed in commission for this work. There are 8,000 tons of copper ore lying on the dump at Sturgeon Landing and it is planned to transport every pound of this to The Pas for transhipment to the smelter at Trail, B. C., before the end of September.

The only passenger boat in the north is the steamer Nipawin, of the Ross Navigation Co., plying from The Pas to the mine fields of Athapapuskow and Flin-Flon, and all river points, carrying passengers, mail, express and freight. She is modern throughout with stateroom accommodation for thirty people, and deck space accommodation for as many more.

ANGLICANS PRAY FOR GOOD HARVEST

Calgary, Alta., May 13.—Bishop Pinkham, of the Anglican diocese of Calgary, earnestly asks the clergy of the diocese to use, in public worship, suitable prayers from the new Canadian prayerbook for favorable weather during the season for the cultivation of the soil and for a bountiful harvest, and he invites all Anglicans to join him in praying for these blessings when they pray privately, or use family prayer.

MOBILIZATION OF PESTS FOR WAR

The Mosquito and Other Disease-Carrying Pests to Disseminate Deadly Germs

London, May 13.—Mobilization of the mosquito, the housefly, the louse and various other disease-carrying pests for the dissemination of deadly germs in enemy territory is a possibility of "the next war" pictured by Prof. Maxwell Lefroy, a scientist.

"I foresee the mosquito from Brazil starting yellow fever in new lands, the housefly, duly infested with cholera, dysentery or enteric and the typhus-laden louse doing their deadly work much more effectively than spies poisoning wells," said Prof. Lefroy in a recent address.

"This would be part of the work of a war office of entomologists—the working out of strategic plans for the distribution of these pests by airplane. It seems that the world is intent upon furnishing an airplane service for these pests, many of which are now held somewhat in check by natural enemies in their native climes. This will give them just the means of transit they have required. It will be a peace-time danger as well as one that could be used very offensively in war. The danger from these 'winged battalions of death' is more serious than one dare estimate."

BAN FORTUNE TELLER

Vancouver, B. C., May 12.—No licenses for gypsy palmists who have husky husbands, that are considered capable of supporting them, is the dictum just handed out by the Vancouver city council.

The plainer a woman is the longer it takes her to select a becoming bonnet.

POLYGAMY DYING OUT IN PERSIA NOW

Teheran, May 13.—Polygamy is dying out in Persia—another result of greatly advanced living costs, together with jealousy, which is becoming more marked a characteristic of Persian wives with the permeation of Western ideas and standards in the East.

With this change has come another—the custom of having family names. A year ago the Persian government made it compulsory for people to adopt a surname. Before that only peasants had any common name in the family, the upper classes possessing only one. A man, for instance, might be called Ghaffar simply, and his son Hassan, with nothing to show their relationship.

A church in the English village of Stivichall was built by the unaided efforts of one man alone. The man was a stone-mason, and it took him seven years to complete his task.
