His cries were heard by Ubald Thibideau, of Van Buren, who was going to bed at the time. Thibideau ran to the river bank, jumped into a light canvas canoe, but had a difficult time against the current and among the logs in reaching the weakening man. Finally he got hold of Cyr and managed to get him into the canoe. The rescue was cheered by about seven hundred persons who had assembled along the river banks.

Sydney M. Jones, assistant manager of the Nashwaak Pulp & Paper Company, Ltd., has been made manager of the company. His father, Senator N. M. Jones, the general manager, will in future find it necessary to spend much of his time in New York in connection with the company's interests, and the new manager has already taken charge.

F. C. Wry, of St. John, is at the Barker House today.

The Stock Market

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York (Wall Street), May 27.—The only noteworthy feature at the irregular opening of today's stock market was a two point decline in American Woollen. This was attributed to selling resulting from the indictments returned against that company and its officials here yesterday. Elsewhere price changes were mainly higher, especially among representative oils, equipments and steels, but the cheaper oils continued to sag. Rails, including Grangers, were moderately lower, although crop reports from such important states as Kansas and Iowa were very encouraging.

There was an awed silence. The word had paralyzed the youngsters. So the good man went on:
"Epitome, children, is in its signification synonymous with synopsis!"

PARENT'S REAL ESTATE AGENCY

FROM THE PEOPLE

SHALL WE HAVE THE JOY YOUTH?

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Is it really worth while for a young man to be overstudious and industrious at an early age? Or is it better to give one's time to laughter and pleasure while young? Surely we all agree that life is short, and isn't it true that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy"?

Youth's pleasures once lost are never found again.

Through my years since childhood I have devoted fourteen to study and three to business. People say I am studious and industrious, but how do I compare with my social friends? While I can quote Shakespeare and know the current market prices they in turn can talk like human beings and not like trained machines.

I would like to be answered by your readers, young and old, whether it is wise to neglect youthful pleasure for a cold steel business life.

Yours,
J. L. P.

Woodstock, May 26, 1920.

AS IN THE OLD DAYS

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Why should not each one help his neighbor build a home? Let each contribute his own time and labor.

Get up a plan for a house, where the kitchen or enclosed porch can be built first to sleep in. Cook in a tent or shed outside. Then the family and friends, including carpenters, masons, plumbers and office men, can help build the balance of the house. That is how to do something for the man who is willing to work, but has only $200 to $500 cash.

Yours,
IN NEED OF A HOME.

Fredericton, May 26, 1920.

SCOTCH LAKE AGAIN

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Interesting as has been the recent items in the "From the People" column concerning the political economy of Scotch Lake, there is yet more to tell. Sure the highways at Scotch Lake are not as good as we would like. The land is not so rich as some other lands of Canada may be. The residents may not possess so much filthy lucre as some in other districts. The live stock may not be as good quality as can be produced.

But let it be known that wherever there is extreme riches there is extreme poverty. We have ably assisted people from other districts who have come in and were sadly in need of aid. When Sylvester Moore's two oldest boys were called to the colors we gave them a better send off than was given the soldier boys of neighboring districts.

We have decently comfortable homes with facilities for improvement when we get anxious to add the improvements. We have respectable school premises and large playground for the children. We have church services each Sunday when Providence permits, and sermons second to none in the province.

The scenery is not so gorgeous as mountainous regions show, but if we make good use of our eyes and intellect we may be reminded that the Creator has done a good work here. A few years ago when the Dominion Exhibition was held in St. John, York County won second place in the county competitions. The farm products shown were mostly grown at Scotch Lake. Dairy products manufactured here have the reputation of being as good as go on the Fredericton market. Seed potatoes grown here and planted at Guelph Agricultural College have led in production any tested there.

A variety of potatoes improved here have been beaten by only one variety in a six year test at the Fredericton Experimental Station, and was beaten by less than a bushel to the acre.

Students from Scotch Lake have been among the leaders in their classes in various high institutions of learning. The recipe for success as given by Marshal Field if applied here will bring success as well as if applied elsewhere. For the benefit of the readers of The Gleaner we will give that recipe here. Do the right thing, at the right time, in the right way; to do some things better than they have been done before; to eliminate errors; to know both sides of the question; to be courteous; to be an example; to work for the love of work; to anticipate requirements; to develop resources; to master circumstances; to act from reason rather than rule; to be satisfied with nothing short of perfection.

Yours,
BLUE NOSE KID.

Scotch Lake, May 24, 1920.

WHY NOT?

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—In these days of labor and production shortage would it not be a good idea for the police officers to take a census of the young, apparently healthy, ablebodied men who sit around on the park benches or frequent the pool rooms or walk the streets all day?

Let us obtain their names, addresses and occupations (when they work) and why they are not working now.

Yours,
H. C. L.

Events of a Day In Parliament

Ottawa, May 27.—Yesterday in Parliament.

House of Commons:

Dr. Edwards, of Frontenac, continued the budget debate. He said that the tariff policy of the Opposition would be most injurious to the Canadian farmer. He also declared that the Grain Growers' Company was the most colossal profiteering concern in Canada.

F. F. Pardee, of Lambton West, favored abolition of the duties on food, clothing and implements of farm production. He said protection did not foster enterprise nor make for development of industries.

In the Senate:

Concurrence was given to a number of common bills, and other legislation advanced.

Consideration of the act to amend immigration (deportation of undesirable persons) was deferred until Thursday.

W. A. Buchanan, of Lethbridge, and H. O. Wright, of Battleford, who have been supporting the Unionist Government, announced their intention of voting for the Fielding amendment.

OBITUARY

Daniel Regan.

St. Stephen, May 25.—Daniel Regan, one of St. Stephen's most esteemed citizens, died this afternoon after a very brief illness. While plowing in his garden on the holiday he was seized with a stroke of paralysis, which terminated fatally this afternoon, announcement of his death being heard with surprise and sorrow. He was born in St. Stephen 77 years ago and for many years had carried on a successful tinsmith business, established a reputation for honesty and integrity. He is survived by his widow, one daughter, Miss Mary Regan, at home, and two sons, Henry, associated with his father in business, and Frederick, in the United States. One brother, Michael Regan, also survives.

Paul Cote.

Friends of Paul Cote, of Sigas, Madawaska county, will regret to hear of his death, which occurred early on Friday evening after a short illness. Mr. Cote had been in his usual good health up to Thursday evening, and while smoking that evening dropped his pipe. In stooping to pick it up he complained of a dizziness, and sickness that grew rapidly worse, ending in his death the following day. Mr. Cote has for many years operated a store in that town. Mr. Cote's age was about sixty-five.

Ten years without a corn

Countless people boast that record now.

Years ago they started using Blue-jay. Never since has a corn pained twice. And never has a corn stayed a week.

You can quickly prove that corns are needless. Millions have already done it.

Think what it means.

No more paring, no more pain, no more unsightly pads. Dainty shoes without unhappy hours.

The corn pain will end. And soon the whole corn will loosen and come out.

It is not like the methods which are harsh and crude.

Try Blue-jay on one corn. Buy it tonight from your druggist. Live the rest of your life without corns.

EIGHT DAYS RACING HERE THIS SUMMER

Fredericton Park Association Directors Will Soon Make Up Programmes

Eight days of harness racing for Fredericton this season were named by the new Board of Directors of the Fredericton Park Association at their first meeting last night.

The dates selected were:

Midsummer Meeting—July 27, 28 and 29.

Fall Meeting—September 21, 22 and 23.

Programmes for the three meetings will not be completed until early next week, it being necessary to await the receipt of letters from various campaigning horsemen with whom the management have been in correspondence. Airdeay a lareg entry for the two circuit meetings is assured and it is expected that enough horses will come here to provide two good days' racing at the "Curtain Raiser" meeting.

President Accepts Office.

Last evening's meeting was the first at which President P. S. Watson had met the board of directors, having been unable to attend the organization meeting when he was elected because of the death of his mother. He expressed his appreciation of the honor which had been conferred upon him by his election and said that co-operation upon the part of all the local horsemen and followers of the sport was necessary and declared that the track must be carried on upon honorable and business principles to be successful. A resolution of sympathy for the President in his bereavement was passed by a standing vote.

A resolution was passed authorizing the York County Baseball League to use the centrefield of the Trotting Park for playing their games and also for the Y. M. C. A. and City teams to use for practice. If the Civic Playgrounds Committee desire, the management will also allow the portion of the centrefield not used for baseball purposes to be utilized as a playgrounds for the kiddies of the West End. The centrefield of the track will be used by the Hagenback-Wallace circus one day in July, a lease having been confirmed at the meeting.

Funds Not Handed Over.

A report was made by G. E. Howie, the treasurer, who had been appointed a committee to take over from the previous officers the books, records, accounts and funds of the Association, that he had waited upon H. G. Kitchen, the former treasurer, and Hugh O'Neill, the former secretary, but had been unsuccessful in securing any records, accounts or funds. President Watson, Roy W. Smith and W. B. Lint, who were all members of the previous board of directors and associated in the management of the track last year, were appointed a committee to confer with the Association's solicitor in the matter and given power to act. Meanwhile an arrangement has been made to provide finances for carrying on the operations of the Association.

A committee composed of President Watson, the treasurer and secretary were appointed to take up with the A. & B. Club arrangements for Dominion Day so that the programmes of harness racing and water sports will not clash. The tentative water sports programme follows:

Indian canoe race, course to buoy off Railway Bridge and return; boys' swimming race, 16 years and under, 50 yards; tub race, 25 yards; squaw canoe race, ¼ mile with turn; fancy diving 3 dives each (ladies); fancy diving, 3 dives each (gentlemen); swimming race, free for all, 100 yards; double canoe race, ½ mile with turn; ladies' swimming race; tilting match from canoes; single canoe race ¼ mile with turn; sack race; war canoe race, ½ mile with turn; upset canoe race; swimming race, 16 to 20 years, 50 yards; swimming under water; log rolling contest; motor boat race; motor canoe race.

Cleveland Drops; Ruth's 8th Homer

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

New York, May 27.—In the American League yesterday Mogridge for New York pitched his first victory of the season, holding Detroit to four hits. Babe Ruth's eighth home run of the season was a factor in the Yankees' 4 to 1 victory.

Pennock for Boston pitched effectively until the ninth, when he blew up, but Shocker for St. Louis ran wild and neutralized the effect.

Cleveland lost the leadership in the race when they were defeated by Washington.

Philadelphia hammered Williams of Chicago for eleven hits in four innings and won easily.

St. Louis tied with Cincinnati in the eighth and nosed home in the ninth.

SOME NEW HORSES REACH WOODSTOCK

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Woodstock, N. B., May 27.—The Woodstock Driving Club syndicate who recently purchased Oro Fino, 2.02¼, at the Readville sale for the free-for-alls on the Maritime & Maine Circuit this year, have completed arrangements with J. J. (Red) Hanafin, of Boston, to remain here as trainer and driver of their high class pacer. He will open a public training stable here and has been highly recommended to the club.

Colorado Rose, a green trotter by Colorado E., which a Hartland syndicate bought in Providence, R. I., arrived yesterday at Woodstock and is now located at Island Park track, where she is a member of the string being trained by J. A. DeWitt, for many years at Presque Isle, Me. Pope D. McKinnon's horses have also arrived at the local track from Bangor, Me., in charge of Tom Vincent and include Dusty Dan, a pacer, eligible to the 2.15 class, and Bertinl, a trotter, eligible to the 2.20 class.

Peter Carroll Engaged.

[Halifax Recorder.]

Peter Carroll, the veteran horseman, left this morning for Chatham, N. B., where he is to train his stable of speedy horses. He has been induced to go there by Archie Alcorn, of Blackville, N. He will have two other speedy horses in his stable by Capt. Aubrey, 2.07¾. Capt. Kidd, dam by Arcola, 2.18¼, by Aquiri ; and Howard Aubrey, dam Durion. He will also have Peter Black, by Great Barion, by Peter the Great, dam by Jay Bird, and Lochille, by Achille; dam Karava, by Kremlin.

The old saying is that "breeding tells," and if so, with such a collection of well-bred ones, Peter should have a most successful season, and which his many old friends will wish him.

IN DAYS OF TERROR

"Dixmer, you shall decide for us. Do you advocate a shot from the carbine, or a stroke from the poniard?"

"Avoid firearms as far as it is possible—the poniard."

"Then let it be the poniard. Allons!"

"Allons!" repeated five or six voices together.

Maurice was a child of the Revolution, with a heart of flint, and in mind, like many others at that epoch, an atheist. But at the word "Allons!" pronounced behind the door, which alone separated him from death, he remembered the sign of the cross, which his mother had taught him when an infant he repeated his prayers at her knee.

Steps approached, stopped; then the key turned in the lock, and the door slowly opened.

During this fleeting moment, Maurice had said to himself. If I lose this opportunity to strike the first blow, I am a dead man. If I throw myself upon the assassins, I take them unawares—gain first the garden, then the street, and am saved!'

Immediately, with the spring of a lion, and uttering a savage cry, which savored more of menace than terror, he threw down the first two men, who, believing him bound and blindfolded, were quite unprepared for such an assault, scattered the others, took a tremendous leap over them, thanks to his iron muscles, saw at the end of the corridor a door leading into the garden wide open, rushed towards it, cleared at a bound six steps, and found himself in the garden, debating if it were best to endeavor to run and gain the gate. This gate was secured by a lock and a couple of bolts. Maurice drew back the bolts, tried to open the lock, but it had no key.

In the meantime his pursuers, who had reached the steps, perceived him.

"There he is!" cried they; "fire upon him, Dixmer, fire! Kill him—kill him!"

Maurice uttered a groan; he was enclosed in the garden; he measured the walls with his eye—they were ten feet in height.

All this passed in a moment. The assassins rushed forward in pursuit of him.

Maurice was about thirty feet in advance, or nearly so; he looked round about him with the air of a condemned man who seeks his concealment as the means of saving himself from the reality. He perceived the turret—the blind—and behind the blind the light burning.

He made but one bound—a bound of six feet—seized the blind, tore it down, passed through the window, smashing it, and alighted in a chamber, where a female sat reading.

The female rose terrified, calling for assistance.

"Stand aside, Genevieve—stand aside!" cried the voice of Dixmer; "stand aside, that I may kill him!"

And Maurice saw the carbine levelled at him. But scarcely had the woman looked at him, than she uttered a frightful cry, and instead of standing aside, as designed by her husband, rushed between him and the barrel of the gun.

This movement concentrated all Maurice's attention to the generous woman, whose first impulse was to protect him from danger and death. In his turn, he uttered a cry of astonishment.

It was the long sought-for Unknown.

"You!" cried he; "you—"

"Silence!" cried she.

Then, turning towards the assassins, who, variously armed, approached the window—

'Ah! you will not kill him!" cried she.

"He is a spy," said Dixmer, whose usually placid countenance had assumed an expression of stern resolution; "he is a spy, and therefore must die."

"A spy—he!" said Genevieve; "he a spy! Come here, Dixmer; I need only say one word to prove that you are strangely deceived.

Dixmer and Genevieve approached the window, and in a low voice she uttered a few words. The master tanner raised his head quickly.

'He!" said he.

"He himself," said Genevieve.

"You are certain, quite certain?"

This time the young woman did not reply, but smiling, held out her hand to Maurice.

The features of Dixmer now assumed a singular expression of gentleness and indifference. He placed the butt end of his musket on the ground.

This is quite another thing," said he.

Then making a sign to his companion to follow, he stepped aside with them, and after saying a few words, they disappeared.

Maurice quickly drew the ring from his finger, anad slipped it into his waistcoat pocket A moment afterwards the door of the pavilion opened, and Dixmer, unarmed, advanced towards Maurice.

'Pardon me, citizen," said he to him, "that I had nt knoown sooner the obligation I am under to you. My wife, while retaining a grateful remembrance of the service you rendered her on the 10th of March, had forgotten your name. We were therefore completely in ignorance with whom we were concerned; independent of this, believe me, we might not for a moment have entertained suspicion either of your honor or intentions. Again ,I say, pardon me," Maurice was bewildered; with the greatest difficulty he preserved his equilibrium, he felt his head turn round, and was near falling. He supported himself against the mantelpiece. At length—"Why did you wish to kill me? said he.

"This is the secret, citizen," said Dixmer; "I confide it to your keeping. I am, as you already know, a tanner, and principal in this concern. The greater part of the acids I employ in the preparation of my skins are prohibited goods. Now the smugglers have received intelligence of an information laid before the counsel-general. I feared you were an informer. My smugglers were more alarmed than myself at your bonnet-rouge and formidable appearance, and I do not conceal from you that your death was resolved upon."

"Pardieu! and well I know it," said Maurice; "you toll me no news. I heard your consultation, and I have seen your carbine."

"I have already apologized," said Dixmer, in a kindly tone. "You must understand, that thanks to the unsettled state of the times, myself and partner, M. Morand, are likely to realize an immense fortune. We have the furnishing of the military bags, and finish from 1,500 to 2,000 each day. Owing to this blessed state of things in which we live, the municipality are much occupied, and have not time strictly to examine our accounts, so that it must be confessed we fish a little in troubled waters, the more so, as I have told you the preparatory materials we procure by smuggling allow us to gain two hundred per cent."

"Diable!" said Maurice, "that appears to me an honest living enough, and I can now understand your dread lest a denunciation on my part should put an end to it; but now you know me, you fear me no longer. Is it not so?"

Mr. Herbert Osborn Tells How Cuticura Healed His Wife

She bought more and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment she was healed." (Signed) Herbert Osborn, 135 Sherbrooke Ave., Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 2, 1919.

SOME VILLAGES IN VICTORIA COUNTY ARE THREATENED

The Forest Fires Situation in New Brunswick is More Serious

FIGHTING TO SAVE TILLEY SETTLEMENT

200,000 Feet of Lumber Near Rogersville on Crown Lands Burned

Approximately 200,000 feet of standing timber on Crown Lands under lease to the J. B. Snowball Company of Chatham has been burned in one of the worst forest fires now raging in New Brunswick.

This fire was located near Rogersville, Northumberland County, and overnight reports to the Department of Lands and Mines indicated that Fire Warden J. P. Arsenault, who took charge of the situation with a large crew of men, after forty eight hours fighting had the blaze under control. With no rain and none in sight the forest fires situation throughout the province shows no improvement and is, in fact, getting worse every day.

The fire which originated on the Indian Reservation at Perth, Victoria County, is still burning and orders have been received by the Indian Agent from the Federal Government to employ large crews to fight the flames. The fire has spread and is on private lands. Villages in the southwestern part of Victoria County are threatened with destruction and a vigorous fight is being made to save Tilley Settlement, which is in imminent danger. Frank Gregg, of Rowena, is in charge of the fire-fighting crews and the Forest Service Branch are co-operating in the fight. A bad fire is also burning between Plaster Rock and Riley Brook on the Tobique River and every effort is being made by the forest fire fighters to conquer it as well as other smaller fires in that section.

A small blaze at McGivney Junction reported yesterday is under control this morning. A crew of sixty men, who have been working on a fire near Boiestown, has been increased to one hundred men as a bad slash fire is burning in that section. Reports of fires from the Gaspereau River section show that bad slash fires are burning there but no detailed reports have yet been received. Reports of a fire at Glennie, a short distance from this city on the Gibson and Minto Railway, have been received from the lookout station at Penniac. Railway crews are at present engaged in fighting the fire and it was reported to be dying down this morning.

HOUSING BOARD TO CALL FOR TENDERS

Decision Reached at Meeting of the Board Held Last Evening

At their meeting last evening the Fredericton Housing Commission decided to ask the City Council to delegate their powers under the Housing Act to the Board. Twenty-three applications for loans under the scheme have been received by R. H. Simonds, secretary of the board, and as the application forms for the loans are now ready for the applicants' signatures it is expected that work will be started in the very near future.

The Board are in receipt of plans for buildings sent by the Moncton board, with prices attached, but these do not specify whether the prices attached are this year's or last year's prices, and it was decided to write the Moncton board for further particulars regarding the prices. It was also decided to call for tenders for four different styles of houses in groups of from one to five.

The full board were present at the meeting, including A. A. Colter, Ald. R. J. Baxter, W. T. Chestnut, C. D. Richards and the secretary. As soon as a reply has been received from the Moncton board, another meeting will be called.

REDUCTION OF ACREAGE IN CROPS 15-20 PER CENT.

First Official Estimate is in the Weekly Report on Agricultural Conditions

PLANTING LATE BUT IT MAY BE OVERCOME

Dairy Cattle Reported Thin After Long Period of Stable Feeding

The first of the weekly reports on agricultural conditions in New Brunswick issued this season was given out this morning at the Provincial Agricultural Department and says:

"The fine weather of the past week has been very favorable for seeding and planting. The season is late, but with good growing weather a couple of weeks will do much to make up for the lateness of the season.

"Reports from all sections of the province are to the effect that seeding and planting are going ahead rapidly, the general opinion being that the acreage in crops will be reduced from fifteen per cent. to twenty per cent., this being due to shortage of labor, scarcity of fertilizer and high price of seed of all kinds.

"The clover crop has wintered well. Pastures have been very late starting, which has meant a long period of stable feeding for live stock. All sections of the Province report cattle in very thin condition. Feeds of all kinds have been scarce and very high priced.

"The thin condition of dairy cows is very regrettable and it will doubtless show itself in a reduction in the amount of milk and cream delivered to the cheese factories and creameries of the Province. Much may transpire to improve this condition, particularly if there is a good season for the pastures."

CARDINAL LOGUE RECEIVED BY POPE

The Primate of Ireland Carries Back Message to the People at Home

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Rome, May 28.—Pope Benedict yesterday received and bade farewell to Cardinal Logue, primate of Ireland. The Pontiff requested the Cardinal to interpret his sentiments to the Cardinal's flock and to convey to them personally the apostolic benediction.

Replying to an address from Cardinal Logue, Pope Benedict referred to the timeliness of the beatification of Oliver Plunkett, the first primate of Ireland, and expressed his gratification at having been the instrument of God in the beatification. He wished the happiest future for Ireland, and concluded by giving the benediction to Cardinal Logue, as the successor of Oliver Plunkett to the Irish episcopacy, and all those representing Ireland, "and particularly to my beloved Irish people."

STRIKING BARBERS MAKE DISTURBANCE

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York, May 28.—Police reserves were summoned yesterday from two stations to quell disturbances on West Thirty-fourth street, alleged to have been caused by striking barbers, and arrested seventeen on the charge that they spat in the face of two aged barbers and their customers in the midst of a shave. The seventeen were forced into an empty store nearby at the point of pistols before they surrendered. The two customers, still covered with lather, fled.

Hitch in Negotiations With Lithuanians

TO SEND RUSSIAN GOLD TO ENGLAND

Some Criticism of Lloyd-George for His Negotiations With Soviet Government

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

London, May 28.—Premier Lloyd-George will meet Gregory Krassin, the Russian Bolshevik Minister of Trade and Commerce, this week, says the London Times, which also mentions a rumor "circulated through channels notoriously in touch with the Premier's entorauge" that both the subject of negotiations and the persons engaged in them "would be more widely extended than at present acknowledged."

It is said that Earl Kurzon, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, will, in addition to Mr. Lloyd-George, confer with Mr. Krassin.

Mr. Krassin will propose, among other things, says the newspaper, to put ingots of Russian gold, stamped with the seal of the old Russian government, on the English market, and it is believed the main object of his visit here is to obtain a general license to send such gold to England and sell it here.

The Times adds: "By receiveing Russian gold, stolen by the soviet, we would be virtually recognizing the soviet government. It is impossible to dissociate the two ideas of trade relations and official recognition. It is absurd to imagine that two countries can trade with each other and not have diplomatic relations."

The newspaper, which is equally hostile against the Premier and the Bolsheviki, denounces the "pitiful and dishonest pretense that negotiations are not between the soviet and British governments," and ironically congratulates Lenine and Lloyd-George upon "the success with which they have at last carried their point."

TO FIGHT AGAINST SOCIAL INJUSTICE

Boston, Mass., May 28—A lively contest over a proposition to disband the Unitarian Fellowship for social justice, one of the national Unitarian organizations, which are holding their annual meeting here this week, resulted yesterday in a decision to retain the name, but to go on under a revised constitution. The new constitution defines the body as "a fellowship for unity of action against all forms of social injustice and to furnish a platform for free discussion."

Queenstown, Ireland, May 28.—Convalescent soldiers yesterday unloaded the ammunition from the government steamer which arrived here Tuesday from the Woolwich Arsenal, and the steamer departed for Dublin.

Pope Deplores Irish Outrages.

London, May 28.—Irish relations will not be affected by the visit of many prominent Irishmen to Rome in conection with the beatification of Oliver Plunkett, first Bishop of Armagh, says the Rome correspondent of the London Daily Mail. Sean O'Ceallaigh, President of the Irish Parliament, was asked whether the visit of prominent Irishmen in Rome would result in any improvement in relations between their country and England, O'Ceallaigh replied: "None whatever."

"While it would be wrong to say Pope Benedict has departed from his policy of non-interference in the national affairs of Europe," the correspondent writes, "information has been received that he has expressed his pain and displeasure over the continuance of crime in Ireland. If his words have been veiled in diplomatic language, they nevertheless have revealed a definite state of mind—that no solution can ever be reached by one party murdering another. The Pope is keenly desirous of peace everywhere, and if he can in any way bring his moral support into play, he will do it. This was actually done in meeting the Irish Bishops and in receiving Irish civilian pilgrims."

Former Italian Deputy's Acquittal Will Make No Difference With Status in France

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Rome, May 28.—Seven persons, accused with former Deputy Phillipo Cavallinio, of communicating "intelligence to the enemy" during the war, have been acquitted here.

This case has been going on for the last three years and at times seemed to have a close relation with the prosecutions of Bolo Pasha and Jos. Caillaux in France.

Four former deputies were among those placed on trial. It was found the proof of guilt adduced by the government was not sufficient.

A despatch from Paris says the acquittal of the former Italian Deputy Phillippo Cavallinio, of the charge of treason in Italy will make no difference with his status in France, it is declared here. He is still under sentence of death in this country, having been condemned at the same time as Bolo Pasha.

CANADIAN TRADE WITH WEST INDIES

Conference Next Week Between Delegates From Canada, Britain and W. Indies

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa ,May 28.—Much interest is being taken in the conference which will begin here on Monday morning between delegates from Canada, Great Britain and the West Indies and British Guiana, and will continue for the next fortnight. The advance guard of the delegation has now arrived here, and before the convention opens there will be a very full representation of the different British colonies and under the Southern Cross.

The names given are those of leading business men of Government officials, many of whom have a close trade and social connection with Canada. The delegates who have been spoken to are very hopeful of the outcome of the convention. The arrangements for trade and communication, which are the big problems between the two countries, made at the last convention in 1912 have worked out well. Trade between Canada and the West Indian colonies and British Guiana has shown a big increase as a result of the tariff preferences, and it is now expected that this will be still further extended. This is particularly true of the flour trade, which Canada has succeeded in large measure in wrestling from the American mills, and should almost entirely control. The delegates also point out that while the bulk of their raw sugar is now going to the Old Country and elsewhere, Canada is the natural market for it, and with better preferential arrangements ships of the Canadian Government merchant marine should have a constant and lucrative cargo in carrying this product to Canadian refineries.

The British Government will be represented at the conference by Col. L. C. S. Amery, Parliamentary Secretary of State for the Colonies. His presence at the convention is understood to have a particular significance, and he will be much concerned with the discussion of a broader scheme of trade preference which will embrace Australia and all the other parts of the Empire. Any arrangements regarding a renewal of the preference between Canada and the West Indies will be made with that in view. The question of steamship and cable communication will also attract much of the time of the convention.

While Canada has been paying all the steamship subsidy hitherto, it is understood that the West Indies, with the increased prosperity they have experienced since the war began, are now willing to bear their share. Although the service is better than it has been, it is still unsatisfactory to the people in the south, and plans for its improvement will be taken up. The Department of Marine is much interested, as a big part of its fleet is in the West Indian trade, and further expansion there is hoped for.

HEBREW PRIEST ASKS MARRIAGE BE ANNULLED

Simon Kaplan Asks Quebec Court to Quash His Marriage to Divorced Woman

MARRIED AGAINST RULES OF HIS CHURCH

A Priest of the Tribe of Levi Not Allowed to Wed Divorced Woman It Is Claimed

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Montreal, May 28.—An important judgment dealing with the marriage laws of Quebec and the extent to which ecclesiastical annulments can govern civil cases will be delivered by Mr. Justice Bruneau tomorrow in the petition of Simon Kaplan, a priest of the tribe of Levi, who asks for the quashing of his marriage to Bessie Goldstein on the ground that she was a divorced woman. Acording to the rules of the Hebrew Church, a priest of the tribe of Levi cannot marry a divorced woman.

The decision of Judge Bruneau is awaited with great interest in view of the fact that the Tremblay-Depatie case, in which the marriage of second cousins without a dispensation was annuled first by the ecclesiastical authorities and afterwards by the courts, comes up before the privy council next month. The hearing of the appeal was postponed during the war.

This would also solve the unemployment problem to a great extent and would mean a greater production of food.

No Discrimination to be Shown to Returning Workers

MACHINISTS BACK TO WORK

Railwaymen in U. S. Demand Another Wage Increase.

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New Bedford, Mass., May 28. — The general strike of operatives in eighteen cotton mills in this city, which was begun four weeks ago in sympathy with the loom fixers who had walked out two weeks earlier because of dissatisfaction with orders requiring them to attend larger looms than formerly, was declared at an end last night by the textile council on condition that no discrimination be shown the returning workers.

MACHINISTS AGREE TO A CONCILIATION BOARD

Peterboro, Ont., May 28.—The machinists of the Canadian General Electric Company, who have been out on strike for the last two weeks met yesterday and unanimously voted to return to work, provided that the Company will consent to an adjustment by the conciliation board which has been authorized by the Minister of Labor. The men agree to abide by the board's findings.

Winnipeg, May 28.—Fifty photo engravers, who employers said made a demand for a 44 hour week and a $48 per week wage schedule, went out on strike yesterday or at least did not show up at their places of employment. Three firms are affected. Employers declare the men were offered $40 a week and a 44 hour week, this being a minimum wage.

U. S. Railwaymen's Demands.

Chicago, May 28. — Railroad employees of the United States must be granted prompt wage increases regardless of cost to the carriers, or the entire railway industry will face complete disruption, W. N. Doak, vice president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen declared yesterday before the Railroad Labor Board, which is conducting hearings into the demands of the employees.

A CURIOUS STORY OF FREIGHT RATES

British Columbia Importers Pay Less From Great Britain Than From Ontario

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Ottawa, May 28.—In the House last night, J. D. Chaplin, Lincoln, told a curious story of freight rates. From St. Catharines, Ont., to Victoria, B. C., his firm has been charged $1.80 per hundred pounds. From Liverpool to Victoria, right across Canada, the rate was only $1.25. So his firm sent Canadian goods down to Mexico and up the Pacific coast on a ninety cent rate. Then, said Mr. Chaplin, the C. P. R. made an offer of a dollar rate.

T. W. Caldwell, Carleton, speaking late in the evening, said if the tariff were removed, Mr. Chaplin "and his like would certainly lose a great big graft they have been making off the people of Canada."

ASK RELIEF FROM THE TAX ON PIANOS

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Ottawa, May 28.—Claiming that the proposed new taxes on pianos and other musical instruments would at least cut their business in half, a strong deputation representing the piano trades waited on Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance, yesterday, asking that the budget be amended in regard to these proposed imposts.

They were promised by the Minister of Finance that their request for a reduction of the impost on pianos from ten per cent. on ordinary and twenty per cent. on player pianos to five per cent. on all classes, would receive careful consideration by himself and the government.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, May 28—Senegalese regiments which participated in the occupation of Frankfort and other cities east of the Rhine and which were recently withdrawn from German soil, will be sent to the Near East as reinforcements to French forces there, says the Journal. They will leave, it is said, about June 10th.

Railway Strikers Indicted For Obstruction to Commerce

Eleven Men Who Took Part in New Jersey Disorders Summoned to Court—Alleged to Have Attacked Loyal Employees of Road and Uncoupled Engines

Newark, N. J., May 28—Eleven men who took part in the recent railroad strike in New Jersey were indicted by a Federal grand jury here yesterday charged with "retarding, obstructing and interfering with interstate commerce.

The indictments deal specifically, it is understood, with strikers who are alleged to have attacked loyal employees of the roads, uncoupled engines from trains and committed other unlawful acts.

New Brunswick Students in The Honor Roll at Wolfville University Closing Exercises

The Graduating Class of 33 Had 11 New Brunswickers In It—Banquet to Sir Arthur Currie—Gifts of $100,000 to Institution During the Past Year

The closing exercises of Acadia Seminary have this year been in many respects notable. The school has had the largest attendance in its history, the total registration being 431, of whom 186 have been in residence. The graduating class has been one of the largest, numbering 33. Of these 11 have been registered from New Brunswick, thus:

Isabel MacNeill (1) Salisbury, N. B.
Helen Simms (1) St. John, N. B.
Leola Swim (1) Doaktown, N. B.
Hilda Wry (1) Sackville, N. B.
Elspeth King (2) Chipman, N. B.
Mollie Somers (3) Holcombe, N. B.
Maude Davis (4) Brockway, N. B.
Beatrice Ebbett (4) St. John, N. B.
Marjory Hibbard (4) St. George, N. B.
Nina Steeves (4) Shepody, N. B.
Doris Crandall (4) Moncton, N. B.

1. Collegiate course. 2. Sophomore matriculation course. 3. Pianoforte course. 4. Household Science course.

At the Class Day exercises held on Monday afternoon, Miss Ellen Spencer presiding, the valedictory was read by Miss Mary Crandall, daughter of Editor Crandall of the Montreal Star; the pianoforte solo was played by Miss Phyllis Pollard, of Yokohama, a vocal solo was rendered by Miss Leola Swim of Doaktown, while the prophecy was presented by Miss Edith Jenkins, of Charlottetown, P. E. I. This illustrates the breadth of the constituency of the Seminary.

After the Class Day exercises which were admirable in conception and detail of presentation, the large number of visitors adjourned to Alumnæ Hall in the Seminary where was displayed an exceptionally fine exhibition of the work of the members of the Art School. Miss Wilkinson, who has had charge of this department during the last year is a rising young artist of ability and has infused into this school a great deal of her own enthusiasm and taste for the finer things of life. Space forbids more than this passing notice. Miss Gwendolyn Hales, of Wolfville is the first graduate in this department for a number of years. Her work in original design is most noteworthy.

At the same time the work of the Household Science Department and the rooms themselves were on exhibition. Of the eight graduates in this department five are from New Brunswick. The dresses worn by the girls on class day were largely the product of this department, which in itself is not without significance as illustrating the high quality of the work done.

On Tuesday evening the closing exercises of the Seminary took place. The large hall was filled with a thousand people to witness this most popular event of closing week. The following programme was presented:

Processional—Coronation March.....Meyerbeer
Georgina Phinney, Berta Duncanson.

Address to the Graduating Class.

After the address to the graduating class Principal De Wolfe announced the prize list, as follows:

The Payzant Prizes—In English Studies to Grace Perry, Wolfville; in French to Edith Jenkins, Charlottetown; in Music to Bernice Sproule, Falkland Ridge, N. S. The prizes are for $20 each.

The St. Clair Paint Scholarship of $50 was divided between Miss Reta Atkinson and Miss Gertrude Vail, each having made a standing in the year of the collegiate course of 87. Miss Atkinson also carried off the prize donated by Mrs. Charles Crandall for the largest number of original contributions to the school paper, The Pierian, and the Governor General's Medal for highest excellency in English essay work.

The Margaret Millard Memorial Prize of $10 per year was awarded to Maude Davis, Brockway, N. B., for highest standing in Household Science in the Senior. Two other New Brunswickers shared in the Pierian Prize for highest standing in this subject for the Junion year of the course, Alice Gross of Moncton and Tillie Dalzell of Castalia, Grand Manan.

The weather conditions were ideal throughout anniversary week.

Gifts to the university aggregating $103,000 were announced by President Cutten as having been received during the year. One gift of $25,000 was for the purchase of land adjoining the campus that it may be greatly enlarged, and hereafter it will be known as Raymond Campus. Here in future the Acadia and U. N. B. football games will be played. May the best team win.

The banquet to Sir Arthur Currie, tendered by the Acadia Club of Returned Men, was a pronounced success. The guests of honor in addition to Gen. Currie were Col. Ralston, Col. Allison and Col. Parsons, President Cutten, Principals Archibald and De Wolfe, Mayor Fitch and W. H. Chase. In his speech, Gen. Currie gave the men some inside history of the period of the war which he regarded as most critical, the year 1917. It was a revelation of how near the Allies were to a peace of compromise. Sometime the true history of the war will be written and we shall find there was a divinity which shaped the final ends of the war despite our rough hewing.

The banquet was a notable occasion.

And now the next year looms in the distance with nearly every vacancy in the Seminary filled, and at least 100 students who are anxious to come to us. Some adequate provision will be made by the Board of Governors, who are now in executive session, and we hope to turn none away.

Members of House Object to Sitting in Morning and Length Of Session Materially Increased

The Question of An Increased Indemnity Again Discussed From Different Viewpoints—An Extra Living Allowance for Certain Members Talked of

Ottawa, May 28.—After a spirited protest from the Opposition, in which many of the Government members silently acquiesced, the Premier yesterday gracefully withdrew his proposal that the House should meet morning, afternoon and evening and on Saturdays.

The fierceness of the opposition encountered seemed to be rather unexpected, although Hon. McKenzie King has intimated on several occasions that he would oppose the proposal because of the fact that it would leave no time whatever to give the consideration of measures before the House, not to speak of necessary leisure.

The debate on the matter developed into an east vs. west controversy, Mr. McKay of Edmonton intimating that while the eastern members took occasion of week-ends to run off and attend to their private business, western and other members from a distance were obliged to neglect their private affairs, while they stayed in the House and provided a quorum. On both sides there was a more or less tacit admission of the fact that many members on the roll of the House pay comparatively little attention to the business of the country. This scarcely jibes with the plea which has been advanced for an increased indemnity, that the business of the session is so exacting that members suffer a serious loss by absence from their own affairs.

There are certain professional men in the House, notably the doctors, who no doubt do suffer an actual loss by their presence at Ottawa, but there are none to whom the indemnity is an easily earned price of velvet. Although not much is being said about it, certain members are so confident that it is coming through that they are willing to make bets on it. Not all the members are in favor of the increase by any means. Many consider that it would be a piece of very bad policy on the part of the Government, after having turned down the soldiers on the question of an increased gratuity on the plea that the funds of the country would not stand the strain, then calmly turn around and vote a big slice out of the same depleted funds for their own benefit. Those who oppose it say that the proceeding would be indefensible.

That there should be some extra compensation for those members who have to spend the whole time of the session away from their homes and their business is reasonable enough, and the proposal has been made that something in the way of an extra living allowance for such members might be made, but an indiscriminate indemnity would certainly be unpopular in the country at large.

Now that the proposal for morning sessions has been shelved, the probability is that Parliament will sit well on to the end of June or later.

Luxury Tax Discussed.

Ottawa, May 27.—Further criticism of the Government's luxury tax, on the ground that it would come as a blow to working men, was made in the Commons today by Hon. R. Lemieux. He urged there should be a commission to supervise public expenditure and set down to pay only such as were entitled to consideration.

G. B. Nicholson (Algoma) in the evening charged Hon. T. A. Crerar with being the head of the greatest combine in Canada, one which made profits so great that they made those of the Canadian Textiles look like two cents. He further stated that in the recent Temaskaming by-election the Progressives had been responsible for using the services of Mrs. Rose Henderson, of Montreal, and in that way associating themselves with an organization which strove for the overthrow of constitutional government. Mr. Nicholson said that the big union was behind the election of Angus McDonald, though the member for Temiskaming was not a member of that organization.

Moving Picture Tax.

P. F. Casgrain (Charlevoix-Montmorency) declared that income tax did not hit hard enough on big incomes. One of the causes of unrest in the country was the fact that people saw how capital was being concentrated in the hands of a few men. Mr. Casgrain objected to the removal of the tax on moving picture films. He thanked God there was not a moving picture show in his constituency, and hoped there never would be. He had never seen a movie film which did not, in a certain way, reflect on morality or come very near immorality. In many cases the moving picture show was a rendezvous for people who wanted to hide themselves. They were responsible for much evil.

J. D. Chaplin (Lincoln) criticized the National Progressives and Liberals for seeking to destroy industries which were not in their own districts instead of trying to build up others.

In the afternoon the house discussed the Government motion for Saturday and morning sittings at some length. In view of strong objections from the Liberals, the Prime Minister allowed the matter to stand.

Mr. Caldwell Speaks.

Speaking in the budget debate shortly before midnight, T. W. Caldwell, New Brunswick's Farmer member, declared that he would support the Fielding amendment.

Mr. Caldwell said he was more disappointed than surprised that there was no revision in the tariff. If the revision promised a year ago was over due it was more over due today. Conditions would probably not be more stable until there was a tariff revision or perhaps a change of Government. If the Government were wise it would take a warning by the defections from its ranks. Mr. Caldwell warned the Government that if it delayed the investigation of the tariff too long it might not have an opportunity to conduct the inquiry.

The speaker declared that the price limit set for luxury taxes was too low. He suggested that revenue could be raised by placing a ten per cent. levy on the value of all newsprint shipped out of Canada. Such a course would also enable Canadian newspapers to secure much needed newsprint.

There was no miraculous way of raising revenue, Mr. Caldwell said. The present tariff method was a most extravagant way of securing revenue. The farmers, he assured the House, were not afraid of direct taxation. Mr. Caldwell claimed that as the result of a statement issued by the Canada Food Board in November, 1918, the potato growers of New Brunswick reduced their acreage. The statement to which he referred claimed there were twenty-eight million bushels of potatoes in the country for export at that time. This statement was false, he charged. However, as a result of it outside buyers had cut prices. Growers as a result lost 65 cents a bag. Not to be caught napping the farmers had reduced their acreage.

Mr. Caldwell declared that present high prices were due to the false Food Board statement. As a result of the high prices offered by American buyers this spring, New Brunswick growers had sold half of the potatoes intended for seed.

There would in consequence be another shortage this coming fall and prices would again be high.

EFFORT TO SETTLE STRIKE AT MINTO

New Conciliation Board Named to Hear Increased Demands of the Men

That a new conciliation board has been named to attempt to settle the long standing strike at the Minto collieries was the statement given out at U.M.W. headquarters yesterday. According to information reaching the labor men, Harry Herrford, of Ottawa, who has been for some time head of the government employment service in the Maritime Provinces, is to be chairman of the new board.

President Robert Baxter of the U. M. W. is expected at Minto tomorrow to look after the interests of the miners when the board assembles.

The Minto miners struck many months ago for a ten per cent. wage increase, after they had been awarded an increase of a cent a box by a New Brunswick board headed by Chief Justice H. A. McKeown. It differed from ordinary strikes in that the union found work for all of the men at neighboring collieries and in the Springhill and Cape Breton districts.

Owing to wage increases among the miners of the Maritime Provinces since the strike was called, the demands of the men which will be heard by the new board have practically doubled. They now want a 27 per cent. raise for contract workers, a dollar a day for datal workers and complete recognition of the union, employers to meet committees of the workers at all times.

WILLIAM O'KEEFE DIES OF BURNS

For Some Years Was Resident of This City and a Prominent Sportsman

St. John, May 28.—His many friends in this city and throughout the province will hear with regret of the death of Wm. H. O'Keefe, which occurred yesterday afternoon at the General Public Hospital. Mr. O'Keefe has been feeling ill lately and on Monday last while in his rooms at 304 Union street was taken with a fainting spell. Falling against the lamp, the dressing gown he was wearing at the time became ignited and he received severe burns. He was taken to the General Public Hospital, where the utmost efforts were made to save his life, but they proved unavailing and he passed away yesterday.

Mr. O'Keefe, who was 54 years of age, was born in Danvers, Mass. and came to this province about 1896, being brought here by the late Fred B. Coleman, who was the proprietor of the Barker House, Fredericton, at that time. After living in Fredericton for a couple of years, Mr. O'Keefe came to St. John and became connected with the Dufferin Hotel at the time E. LeRoi Willis ran the house. Later he went into business for himself in Union street, and his place became widely known as a rendezvous for the sporting fraternity.

He was a lover of clean sports and made a host of friends for himself by his gentlemanly, quiet and unassuming manner.

It is probable that the remains will be taken to his former home for interment.

A sad coincidence is the fact that his wife, formerly Miss D. Govang, of Shediac, met her death under similar circumstances a few months ago.

If all men were compelled to practice what they preach the majority of them would discontinue preaching.

THE VALUE OF MUSIC IN THE HOME

A noted Canadian professor of music recently said: "The providing of interests which foster the growth of home and family ties is worthy of earnest consideration, and there is nothing like music to keep the young folks home at night, make them happier and draw the bonds of real home influence round your children."

Picture the home without music. Supper is over and the young folks are looking for some sort of entertainment. The neighbors down the street have a piano and all the children flock there—why?.. Because the home possessing a piano is filled with joy, radiance and sunshine, because everyone likes music.

Call and let us give you a helping hand in selecting a piano from our large stock of Gerhard Heintzman, Bell, Gourley and Ennis Pianos.

THE BUDGET DEBATE.

Yesterday's debate on the Budget was uninteresting from the standpoint of matter as well as from the standpoint of the men who participated. There was not a practical suggestion of value, and considerable time was wasted in talk much below the standard of the average boys' debating society discussions. Mr. Caldwell of Carleton-Victoria was one of the speakers. Mr. Caldwell talks frequently, but never from the viewpoint of the man familiar with public affairs or of the man possessing knowledge of broad and practical business. It is unfortunate that he has a mania for talking for his constituency and the province are weakened in the displays he makes. "There was no miraculous way of raising revenue," he said to Parliament. The governments of the world are at their wits' end endeavoring to find a satisfactory solution of the greater revenue problem, yet Mr. Caldwell is blind to the difficulties; but he will talk. Passing from one subject to another with some rapidity of motion, he finally reached potatoes. He charged that the Canada Food Board in 1918 issued a false statement, the result of which was, he said, that outside buyers cut the price and farmers lost sixty-five cents a bag. To retaliate, the farmers reduced their acreage the following year; they were not to be caught napping. There would be another shortage this coming fall, and prices would again be high.

If that kind of talk were not treated as boyish in the extreme it would do an injustice to the farmers who, as thoughtful men, do not cultivate boyish notions nor encourage boyish action.

The debate may drag on until Tuesday. There is much in the Budget to criticize and discuss, but the people are interested only in reasonable criticism and sound argument.

MEXICAN AFFAIRS.

While tragedy holds the Mexican stage, opera bouffe grins from behind the scenes. There are 15,000,000 people in Mexico who do not know what it is to have a quiet day in their lives. Revolution is as regular as breakfast. The dictators change as rapidly as the seasons. Swashbuckling creatures, armed to the teeth, and laughably anachronistic in the day of the wireless, sweep across the country—ferocious, picturesque, as prime a set of scoundrels as could be found on the footstool.

If the particular bandit should be masterful and daring, he will foment a revolution which will result in a sudden slaughter and the setting up of a new authority which may not last a month. As an exchange points out, one revolution succeeds another with kaleidoscopic rapidity. The United States government is kept in a state of breathlessness, for the American border is contiguous to the theatre of action, and a spark would set up a blaze which might not know extinguishment until incalculable political and material damage had been done.

The plain people are quiescent. Revolution is normal. Fighting is like eating. Massacre is a condition which, through repetition, loses its flavor. There is no outcry. There is no attempt to organize stable government in a country, the richest and the most chaotic in the world. Although massacre is a thing of everyday occurrence, and regularity of life is unknown, there is certain chivalry observed by the ferocious bandits who pillage and slay and make merry, according to habitude. The fighting forces will, in the midst of a battle, suddenly cease firing. The leaders bow to one another. It is "siesta," when every good Mexican goes to sleep. The forces rest; and go to it hammer and tongs—when the sleep is over.

Carranza mimicked the gestures and the attitude of the statesman, and bluffed the Americans, who do not know whom to trust; but Carranza was a bandit and murderer. There is no hope for Mexico unless the "Man on Horseback" can be discovered—a man of power, but at the same time benevolently disposed, a man like Diaz. The United States is pursuing a waiting policy, but what with the murder of American citizens, the abrogation of valuable franchises, involving enormous loss on the part of American capitalists, the danger of the irruption of Mexican bandits on American soil—the situation is exceedingly menacing, and many are of opinion that one of these days the United States will proceed "to clean up Mexico"—a phrase pregnant with meaning.

FRANCO-GERMAN CONFERENCES.

Nothing could be more indicative of the trend of affairs in Europe than the present series of Franco-German conferences on railroad and commercial matters. It shows that the war worn nations are turning their backs upon the period of contention and bitterness, and are seeking by co-operation and mutual understanding to hasten the restoration of normal conditions.

An agreement has already been reached under which several great transcontinental express services will be opened. In keeping with the close entente between France and Poland is the establishment of a through passenger line from Paris to Warsaw. But arrangements are also under way for express trains from Paris to Frankfort, from Paris to Munich, and, most important of all, from Paris to Berlin.

Even more significant is the prospect that the conferences will result in closer commercial relations between Franco and Germany. The latter country is in great need of certain raw materials, especially iron, which the French can supply, and for which they wish to give manufactured goods in return.

This is as it should be. To prolong the bitterness of the war, to carry over into the era of reconstruction the memory of injustice and wrong can serve no useful purpose. For their own sakes the French people, no matter how deeply they have suffered at the hands of Germany, must turn their backs upon the war and seek by mutual understandings to hasten the return of prosperity. The conferences between [illegible] powers, so lately locked in deadly combat, augur well for the future.

The St. John morning organ of the Foster Government is apparently encouraging a contest in the provincial by-election in St. John city. Such a paragraph as this in its article of today would ordinarily be accepted as a challenge:

There being no real reasons of public policy for opposing Dr. Roberts or condemning the department of public health, an opposition candidate would be in the unfortunate position of asking the electors to condemn the Foster government and give their support to the men and methods repudiated by the province at the elections of 1917, and at that time, be it remembered, the people had only an inkling of the transactions which were subsequently revealed.

Contracts for road work are being handed out freely, not to all of the members of the party it is true, but to several; and the several and their connections are or ought to be well satisfied.

GIRL WAS LOCKED IN PHONE BOOTH

Conversation With Sweetheart Is Switched to Calls for Help to Police

New York, May 27.—Miss Pearl Lederman, of 348 Newport avenue, Brooklyn, went into a telephone booth late last evening in the drug store of Samuel Austin, 565 Powell street, and was soon deep in a telephone conversation with her sweetheart. Not noticing that the young woman was in the booth, Austin locked up and went away. He took an automobile ride with a friend.

Then Miss Lederman found that she was locked in and her cries attracted a curious crowd outside the window. They did nothing, however, to help her get out. She called the police and fire departments on the telephone, she said, but got only wrong numbers. Finally, she asked central directly to call the police for her, and she got the Brownsville station.

Patrolman Springer went to the store and after a conference with Miss Lederman through the glass of the window went to the druggist's home at 655 Pearl street. After a short wait Austin returned and soon Miss Lederman was released.

Another Popular Dance.

The dance at the G. W. V. A. rooms last evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary was a decided success in every way and once more demonstrated the growing popularity of the dances being conducted by the ladies in aid of the memorial fund. At ten o'clock the nonsense dance was put on, and it certainly warranted the name, as it embraced all the dances in one, and it kept those dancing busy changing time. At half time ribbon confetti was thrown and the merry dancers became all entangled. The music was furnished by the City orchestra for the twelve dances, while the extras were played by Mrs. Lamson, Miss Georgie Styran, Walter McGinn and Willard MacDonald. The committee in charge were energetic in their efforts to make everyone enjoy themselves, and they succeeded, judging by the many favorable expressions heard.

WOMEN DEGRADED FOR EXTRAVAGANCE

Russia Punishes Fair Sex for Display of Finery on the Streets

Berlin, May 27.—The Central Soviet of the Volga Commune has issued a decree punishing extravagance and display by women with ten years' servitude in a Red labor army, the culprits to wear for the first six months garments of sacking and shoes of birch bark.

The Soviet arrested on this charge the wives of Commissaries Platonoff and Mikadin, and compelled the whole city of Kazan to witness their degradation. The two women were deprived of their finery on a red painted platform on a Volga barge, forced to put on the new penal garb, and then driven with whips to their new work on a harbor mole.

In Platonoff's house were discovered 2,700,000 rubles and vast hoards of precious stones, silks, silver and old pictures.

TO SECURE GRIZZLY BEARS FOR MUSEUM

Dr. Saxton Pope Intends to Secure the Bears With a Bow and Arrows

San Francisco, May 27.—With the intention of slaying four grizzly bears with a bow and arrows, Dr. Saxton Pope left yesterday for Yellowstone Park, W. W. Sar[illegible], secretary of the Academy of Sc[illegible] announced.

Dr. Pope, an expert in archery, and his companion, Arthur Young, will carry automatic pistols also, but these are to be used only in cases of emergency.

He hopes to bag a male and female imperial grizzly, the largest type of the grizzly known, and two cubs. The animals are to be mounted for a "habitat group" at the museum of the California Academy of Sciences here, the cost to be defrayed by Ogden Mills, of New York.

TREND OF BRITISH INVESTMENT NOW

London, May 27.—The present disposition of investors to again turn attention to fixed interest bearing stocks is illustrated in the over subscription to the County of Middlesex two million pound loan at six per cent. Essex and Kent counties also are each asking for one and a half million pounds on the same terms, which loans are also going well. New treasury bonds, however, are poorly received, doubtless due, partly, to uncertainty on the Government's intentions concerning a levy on war wealth.

LONDON MUSIC HALL STILL IN MARKET

London, May 27.—The shareholders of the Empire, one of the leading London music halls, refused yesterday to ratify the agreement of sale to the Allen Company of Canada of the property for £450,000.

Sir Alfred Butt, prominent music hall proprietor, made a better offer, which still remains open, and the directors are now authorized to accept any other proposal not less favorable than that of the Allen's.

F. N. Currie, of Woodstock, is at the Barker House.

The Stock Market

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York (Wall Street), May 28.—Leading issues extended recent gains at the opening of today's stock market. Reports that further gold imports are impending and favorable crop prospects were among the encouraging features. Steels, equipments and oils were the outstanding features but leather and food specialties also strengthened with rails, notably Reading, Atchison and New Haven. There were no indications of any unsettlement in the money market over the week-end.

Abitibi in two sales gained an eighth of a point to 66⅛. Wayagamack was in good demand and strong at 96¼. Other issues were quiet.

CHINA REJECTS OFFERS OF JAPAN

Tokio, May 27.—China's reply rejecting Japanese offer to open negotiations relative to the future status of Shantung has been received at the Foreign Office here. It says China is ready to supply guards for the railroad to displace Japanese engaged in that service, and declares the country considers the railroad a distinct and separate question from that of the province.

TRY MAGNESIA FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

Doubtless if you are a sufferer from indigestion, you have already tried pepsin, bismuth, soda, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and you know these things will not cure your trouble—in some cases do not even give relief.

But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic just try the effect of a little bisurated magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate, oxide or milk, but the pure bisurated magnesia which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powdered or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat.

You will find that provided you take a little bisurated magnesia immediately after a meal, you can eat almost anything and enjoy it without any danger of pain or discomfort to follow and moreover, the continued use of the bisurated magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way so long as there are any symptoms of acid indigestion.

FROM THE PEOPLE

THAT CASH BONUS

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Again I make the request of you to be kind enough to publish my reply to one who signs himself as Very Much Interested. Well, my dear interested one, I will not attempt to answer you in detail as I am not interested enough to be drawn into argument, with the new stuff you are introducing. You talk of personalities; but as you sow so must you reap. Your sneers and slurs are blended right through your letter from beginning to end. I do not boast of being such an educationalist as you sneeringly charge. My education has been gained in a cement factory, with pick and shovel, at railway construction, with a freight truck, etc., and I don't feel one bit ashamed of it. I infer that you mean no one can teach you anything; but my belief is that none of us are too old to learn.

Your previous letter was answered point for point. I made no extra statements. I would not have answered at all but for the slurring statements made concerning "war brides," wives of our comrades, some of the latter having made the supreme sacrifice and therefore unable to answer for themselves. After I had read it my eyes turned to the wall, there to read a message from the honored dead:

"Take up our quarrel with the foe—
To you from falling hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die,
We shall not sleep though poppies grow
In Flanders fields."

The war is now finished and I realize that there are foes at home; the tone of your letter causes me to place you in that category. It is to be noticed that the ones who kept quiet and out of sight while the war was on are among the first to tell their country what to do now it is all over; also they are only too fond of mud-slinging, and a fellow would need a hide as thick as a rhinoceros to stand it all.

As for the cash bonus, I am not as interested as you appear to be. If I remember rightly, I replied in my last letter that I was not in favor of that plan, and, as one whom it concerns, I think I can lay claim to being really patriotic for holding that view, at the least.

Now, sir, the real point I took up with you—you know it well enough—you choose to evade with your "Tut, Tut." If that means that you are sorry, well that ends the discussion as far as I am concerned. And to this "cash bonus" nightmare of yours I also say, "Tut, Tut." But coming back to personalities, here is a sample—a quotation from yours: "It does not require much thought or intelligence to fill five or six columns with a mass of meaningless words and feeble sarcasms." I agree on that point—after reading yours. And again, "The returned man may think his responsibilities have ceased once he has doffed the khaki." My responsibilities are here at home, namely, a family to feed; and I will be too busy at work, and with my garden, to attend to your future ravings. As for your kindly interest in the G.W.V.A., and your hope for sane and moderate men at the head, I might say, for your information, that they have as able, sane and moderate men as leaders at present as could be wished for; that is the reason so many of the Flynn fraternity have broken away, and also the reason the country has been free from riots so far. My hope is they may be able to hold the "unruly" ones to the end.

You attempt to bring the munition workers into the argument. I have no quarrel with them, but you make comparisons to which I must add my passing thought. You speak of the "dollar-ten" as clear profit. Do you suppose that I, a married man, could have a "dollar-ten" clear profit? If you are ever in McAdam you are at liberty to ask my wife where it went.

This is the real question: While we were in the service wages advanced; munition workers and others demanded more, and got it. They needed it to live; but did not our wives and families have to live also? Here is another point: While we were over there we knew the struggle our families were having to live. Would it have been right for us to strike, to quit, or to demand more, to have left you in the position Germany was on Armistice Day? That day would have another meaning to you all today. You would be among the first to say we could have at least waited till the war was won, just as you are among the first to squeal now.

Another quotation from your letter: "While we cannot regard them with the hero worship accorded the soldier." Oh boys, that is certainly rich! I suppose we must take your letters as a sample. Personally, I want none of that stuff, as I do not regard myself as a hero, as I admit I did not go bravely and unafraid. I have often been scared and expecting the next minute to be my last, and often wished myself out of it, in fact was relieved when finally I got my "Blighty."

There is one point I am not clear on. You say, "If the shoe fits, wear it." If it means being a spendthrift, I reply that I have had little to spend these past few years. I don't drink or chew; I indulge in a little smoke, about a small tin per month.

If you mean that I am one of those for whom the war finished too soon, I reply for your information that the war finished for me in August, 1917, at Hill 70, when a whizz bang put me up in the air and was the cause of my losing my foot. But that did not finish my responsibilities, as I have been in hospital most of the time since, up to April of this year. My second trip to hospital—for amputation—took all the polish off my five months' gratuity—what was left of it after buying a complete outfit of clothes for all of us, my wife and family of four. When I started in to work on May 1st I faced a debt of which I am not ashamed; it was caused by sickness and death while I was over there. Soon after my return, in St. John, a doctor called me to the side of his auto and asked me when I was going to pay him his bill. I was on crutches at the time.

About this economy talk, you ask: "Is there any more appropriate time?" I reply: This is no time for talk, but for action, of which I fail to see any signs.

I made a point in respect to discharged A1 men in hospital for treatment, and their wives receiving no support. You did not agree. You did not even trouble to see if this was so, which goes to prove your narrow-mindedness. But you can easily see the faults of these men:—

"For it's Tommy this an' Tommy that
An' chuck him out the brute;
But it's "Saviour of 'is country
When the guns begin to shoot;
An' it's Tommy this an' Tommy that
An' anything you please,
An' Tommy ain't a blooming fool—
You bet that Tommy sees."

You can see efforts to re-establish these men independently. That is a good word, as it is the way most men re-establish themselves. But there are some really good efforts, and I cannot be so narrow as not to name them in passing. The government's re-educational system is good, in my humble opinion, not perfect, perhaps—for what is perfect—and this district has been well served with first class officers. I do not want to mix in politics, for I am indifferent to them; but I certainly believe that this present government is as good, if not better, than any other we could get. I see nothing better in sight anyway that I would want to change for. Outside of the government—still on re-establishment—there is one corporation standing far above anything in this country, or any other, that I have yet to learn of. I mean the C.P.R. They are a much abused concern, but still they make good. They have employed an enormous number of ex-soldiers who were not in their employ before, besides re-establishing their own men in their old jobs, if not better ones, regarding them as being on leave of absence indefinitely. They also made their overseas men a present of six months' pay, and have not advertised this fact. I also notice that the papers make little comment as to this. If you need any figures to back this statement, I will be glad to furnish them. Outside of those mentioned, I think most men have had to re-establish themselves, thankful to no one.

You hoped for a reply, and I would hate to disappoint you; and it will not be necessary for anyone to help me out. You have my reply, and as to the help, I don't need it just yet; and, if I did need help, the last person in the world to be asked would be such a narrow-minded individual as yourself. Further, you may sleep in peace; for I think I can safely predict that there will be no "cash bonus" for ex-soldiers. But if you are lucky enough to be in the civil service, I think the country can, and is going to afford $12,500,000 for that department as a bonus. You might invest in the "Veteran" for this month and get posted as to the thoughts of the G. W. V. A. by reading the editorials. So now, if I appear "disgruntled," just say "Tut, Tut," for this is final.

Yours,
HARRY FORD.

Sir,—About the middle of next month I am to take an extended vacation. May I trouble your readers to suggest seven books suitable for vacation reading? I should like a modern, well varied list, but the books need not be all fiction.

CHARGE 57 MINERS WITH CONSPIRACY

To Limit the Production and Distribution of Coal, and Enhance Price Thereof

Indianapolis, Ind., May 27.—Fifty seven bituminous coal miners and operators who entered pleas of not guilty to charges of violating section 9 of the Lever Act in the Federal Court here yesterday, will be tried November 8, 1920.

The date was set by District Judge Anderson after he had overruled a demurrer, filed by Charles Evans Hughes, counsel for the officials of the United Mine Workers of Americ... and attorneys for the operators. The men are specifically charged with conspiracy to limit the production and distribution of coal and to enhance the price thereof as alleged in five counts of the indictment returned by a special federal grand jury March 11.

The Lever Act was declared constitutional as a war measure in an opinion handed down yesterday by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals of New York in the case of C. A. Weed and Company, Buffalo, clothiers. The opinion, written by Judge Martin D. Manton, affirmed the decision of federal Judge Hazel, who refused to enjoin federal district attorney Lockwood of the western district of New York state from proceeding against the company, charged with profiteering.

The court held that "the failure of the Senate to ratify the peace treaty with the German government indicates that congress treats the war as continuing and demobilization as incomplete."

ESTIMATES DOWN IN ONTARIO HOUSE

An Increase of Upwards of Four Million Dollars Over Estimates of Last Year

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Toronto, May 27.—The main estimates for 1920-21 were tabled in the legislature last night. They show an increase of $4,127,299 over the estimates brought down last year, but the actual increase is much less, since the estimates of 1919-1920 were considerably under the actual amounts required for the business of the year.

The vote for education will be $4,403,342, or an increase of nearly a million dollars over the estimates of last year. The new Department of Labor, of which Hon. Walter Rollo is head, will require $770,000.

About $250,000 will cover increased grants to hospitals and charities, while $750,000 additional will be necessary to meet the increased cost of maintenance of public institutions. About $400,000 extra is asked for public buildings and repairs to government buildings, while salary increases to the civil service, etc., are represented in an increase of $390,000 in civil government.

SUMMER TRAINING CAMPS CANCELLED

Final Decision to be Reached This Week—Impossible to Get Men Go to Camps

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Ottawa, May 27.—Summer training camps, which it was announced some time ago would be resumed this year, are likely to be cancelled, according to a statement from official militia quarters last night.

The matter has not yet been denitely decided, but is being considered by the department, and a final decision will be reached toward the end of the week.

The reason given for probable cancellation is that it has been found impossible to get men to go to the camps.

BISHOP OF SIMLA UPHOLDS GEN. DYER

Declares There Would Have Been a General Massacre of Europeans

London, May 27.—The Government of India, reviewing the finding of the special commission investigating recent disorders in India, declares that "General Dyer, the British commander in India, exceeded the reasonable requirements of the case and showed misconception of his duty, resulting in lamentable and unnecessary loss of life."

The Catholic Archbishop of Simla, Monsignor Kenardy, has sent a letter to the London papers defending General Dyer. He says that hesitation by the authorities "would have meant the general murder of European men, the outraging of women, the loss of public buildings and the desecration of Christian churches."

Newman Clark is Sent Up For Trial in September By Grand Falls Magistrate

Preliminary Examination in Victoria County Murder Trial Completed at Noon Today—Peter Wood Discharged—Clark Says Mind is Blank

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Grand Falls, N. B., May 28.—Newman Clark, the young Four Falls farmer, was sent up for trial by Police Magistrate Kelly about noon today upon the charge of having murdered Phoebe Bell, a popular young lady of this town, during a gathering of a number of young people at the home of Mrs. Herbert Woods in Grand Falls on March 25th last.

This afternoon Clark was taken back to the Victoria County Jail, where he will spend the summer, and it is regarded as certain that the plea of insanity will be raised on his behalf when the case comes before Mr. Justice Chandler and a jury the last week in September. Meanwhile Peter Dubois, or Wood, who had been identified by Clark as one of two men he claimed had "kidnapped" him a week after the tragedy, when he escaped from a hospital here, has been released from custody.

One Witness Today.

The only witness examined this morning was Mrs. Herbert Woods, who was too ill at the residence of her father-in-law, about three miles out of town, to attend court. The court therefore, like the biblical mountain, went to her, but there was little startling in her evidence. She told of the gathering at her home on March 28th, said that Clark and the Bell girl were there, said she heard shots fired and ran out of the house, somebody telling her that Clark had "shot Phoebe." The court then returned to town and Judge Kelly sent the prisoner up for trial, having found sufficient evidence to establish a case.

George A. Ryan, coroner, testified yesterday afternoon to holding the inquest on Phoebe Bell and being present at the postmortem examination. The bullets found were produced in court. Four wounds were found on the body.

Dr. Loranzo Chapman testified to being called to the Wood house a little before six o'clock on March 25. He found the body of Phoebe Bell on the bed and Clark lying on the kitchen floor unconscious. He examined him, gave him a hypodermic of morphia and dressed the wounds. He did not expect the man to live. Clark revived and asked for water and also said: "Why did I kill my sweetheart?"

Witness saw him again that evening and the next morning. Court took a recess for supper.

Evening Session

Last night Constable Allan McLaughlin in giving evidence, told about being called to the Wood house on March 25 and finding Newman Clark lying on the kitchen floor. He heard Clark ask for a drink of water. He went into the bedroom and found Phoebe Bell on the bed and a revolver lying about three feet from the bed on which she was lying. He examined the revolver and found that it contained two empty cartridges and one loaded one. The revolver was produced in court. Constable McLaughlin told also of noticing the marks on Miss Bell's body. He had been present at the post mortem examination, and he saw the bullets extracted. He testified to seeing the wounds on the body and seeing where the clothing had been burned with powder.

PETER WOOD'S CASE

The examination of Peter Wood, charged with aiding Clark to escape from the Grand Falls hospital on the morning of April 2, was held before Police Magistrate Kelly this afternoon, Hon. J. P. Byrne, for the Crown, and A. M. Chamberland for the defence.

Newman Clark was called. He testified that he did not remember being put in the hospital and did not remember being there at all. He said he does not know Sheriff Foster and Deputy Sheriff Mooers. He did not remember being taken to Andover from the Curless Hotel. He did not remember being brought back from Maine. He did not know the accused and cannot remember ever seeing him. He could not remember identifying accused as being the man who helped him out of the hospital. He did not remember seeing any of his people at the hotel, and cannot remember ever seeing Wood or making a statement in the presence of the Attorney-General

Peter Wood testified to being at his home in St. Andre on Wednesday, April 1, and being there all that week. He saw Newman Clark once across the bridge and saw him again at the Curless Hotel, when Clark stated that he, Wood, had taken him out of the hospital. He said he had nothing to do with helping Clark out of the hospital

The evidence of Miss Mallen, the nurse, and Miss Wetmore, the matron, of the hospital whence Clark escaped, was also taken, and they repeated their stores as told in The Gleaner at the time of Clark's escape.

Magistrate Kelly then ordered Wood's dismissal.

Lemon Extract Advances.

Extracts and flavorings come under the heading of luxuries in the new budget and a 25 per cent. tax is to be added to their price.

Ontario Farmers Find More Money in Whiskey Running Than in Seeding Land

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Windsor, Ont., May 28.—Their pockets bulging with American currency, the proceeds of rum running, thirteen Petite Cote farmers yesterday contributed more than $13,000 in fines and court costs to the provincial treasury for violating the Ontario Temperance Act.

According to one of the provincial officers, more than fifty complaints against other Petite Cote farmers will be heard in the police court.

Rum running is so well established in Essex county, he said, that farmers are paying little attention to seeding.

Forest Fires Are Raging in Various Nova Scotia Districts And Threaten Great Damage

Two Hundred Men Fighting the Flames in District About River Hebert—The Porter Lumber Area Swept by Fire and Another Big Timber Stand Threatened

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Halifax, N. S., May 28.—Owing to the absence of rain during the past three weeks the woods and forests throughout the province are very dry and the danger of big forest fires is imminent. Although no great fires have been reported, a number of small ones have been burning in the vicinity of Chester and Hubbard's, in Lunenburg County, and Albany, Annapolis County.

A telephone communication from East River brought the information that the two fires that have been raging near there are almost out and unless a strong wind breezes up they can be kept under control. Both fires are close together, about two miles west of East River, towards Chester, and are said to have originated on the railway right of way, after the way freight had passed.

This morning the Canadian National Railway despatched a party of twenty five men from Bridgewater to East River to help keep the fire under control.

Valuable Lumber Areas Swept.

Five hundred acres have already been covered by the fire, and unless it soon rains the entire district will be desolated.

Marysville and Imperial Clubs Won League Games

Y. M. C. A. Nosed Out by Score of 2 to 1 by Marysville Nine at Trotting Park, Visitors Two Runs Being Produced by Hits Mixed With Paynter Brothers' Errors---Good Support Helps Pat Clark Vanquish Devon Team.

The Marysville team took a clear lead in the York County Baseball League last night when they won from the Y.M.C.A. team, who were playing their first game of the season, by a score of 2 to 1.

The contest was one of those hair-raising affairs in which either team had chances to win until the last put-out was made in the sixth inning, when Umpire Arthur Finnamore, who makes just as energetic an arbiter as he was a player, called the game on account of darkness.

The Marysville team showed early evidence of being a smooth running, well organized aggregation, while the Y.M.C.A. team will be a harder combination to beat when they become more accustomed to one another's playing. There was a good turn-out of fans at the game, several hundred turning up in spite of the lack of publicity; but there must be better arrangements for keeping the enthusiasts away from the diamond if the league is to succeed.

E. McPherson, for Marysville, and H. Paynter, for the Y.M.C.A. team, were the opposing pitchers, and the honors were pretty evenly divided until errors commenced to creep into the contest. Right off the reel in the opening inning the Y's pulled off a fast double play when Anderson, the Marysville second sacker, slammed a fast one at Hayward Paynter, who tossed to brother Rock, whose throw across the diamond nipped the fleet-footed Collet, who had drawn a base on balls and was hiking for third like a Ty Cobb on a hit and run play.

Y's Had Many Chances.

Collett got on again in the third inning on a slashing drive to centre-field, and reached second on a passed ball, but two were out and Anderson's grounder was taken care of by Percy Fraser, who provided the best exhibition of all round playing of the evening. The Y's collected two hits in their half, as well as a base on balls, but Murray Kierstead's best effort with the bases full was a weak grounder to the opposing pitcher, who tossed the ball to Finn on first for the third out.

With two down, the second on a high foul which Hayward Paynter took by running into the crowd, E. McPherson hit one through the box that was too fast to handle and Johnny Bolster couldn't get hold of, so that it went for a hit. The other member of the McPhersons also contributed a hit to right field, but Walker, son of Marysville's new mayor, was unable to bring them in, his long drive going almost into Murray Kierstead's hands for a fairly easy out.

In their half the Y's got their first tally when the rotound Mr. Seeley got a base on balls and, as Rock Paynter was striking out, stole second, whence he scored on Davis' well placed safety between first and second.

The fifth opened disastrously for the Y's when Rock Paynter, evidently too confident, played a slow roller from Finn badly, fumbling the ball when he did get it and then finding Johnny Bolster had not come over to first in time to cover the bag for the play. Rock partially redeemed himself when he took Miller's spiral foul fly, but the other member of the Paynter family messed things up on Collett's grounder, Anderson's fly to Wheeler and Bill Boyce's solid hit to right field giving the Marysville team their two runs.

McPherson's Good Pitching.

The Y's opened the sixth inning auspiciously when Trafford Donovan hit safely to centre field. Johnny Bolster was allowed to run for the Y's captain, who is still suffering from a broken ankle suffered in an army ball game, and the southpaw scampered all the way to third when the Marysville catcher made a weird throw to catch him stealing, the ball going to the outfield. However, Pitcher McPherson smiled, turned on steam and struck out Seeley, then Rock Paynter for the third time, and forced Davis to raise an easy fly for Finn—the tying run thus remaining marooned on third base.

IMPERIALS WON

Pat Clark Kept the Devon Team's Hits Scattered and Lifford's Double Play Pulled the Team Out of the Hole.

The Devon team went down to defeat before the Imperials last evening at Nashwaaksis by a score of 6 to 2 in a well played ball game. The superior work of Pat Clark, on the mound for the Imperials kept the Devon nine confined to five scattered hits and two runs; while Staples, for the Devon team, allowed only three hits but they were mixed with errors. Flowers, the Devon third baseman, secured the only extra bases hit, a nice two-bagger into centre field. Lifford, at second base for the Imperials, pulled off an unassisted double play at a time when things began to look serious for the Imperials.

Ruth's Two Homers Tumble Red Sox

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

New York, May 28.—In the American League yesterday, Babe Ruth made two home runs at Boston for New York against the Red Sox, making it ten for the season and the Yankees won 6 to 1. Another feature of the game was an assault by pitcher Shawkey, of New York, on Umpire Hildebrand, resulting in Shawkey receiving a scalp wound from the umpire's mask.

No other games were scheduled.

In the National League, Boston took both games of the double header from New York, the Giants playing poor ball.

The Phillies beat Mitchell, of Brooklyn. The Robins tied in the fifth inning and were nosed out in the eleventh.

St. Louis and Cincinnati indulged in another free hitting contest, Hornsby of St. Louis scoring a home run in the second inning with two men on bases.

No other games were scheduled.

HALIFAX HORSES WILL RACE HERE

Len Acker Will Campaign His Stable of Three—Archie Alcorn Here

Len R. Acker, the Halifax theatre man, is to campaign a stable of horses on the Maritime & Maine Circuit this season. In a wire to the secretary of the Fredericton Park Assocation today he said he had three horses which he wanted to stake and start and asked that entry blanks be sent to him. He said his intention was to have his horses start at the meetings in Fredericton.

Archie Alcorn, the sucessful young lumberman of Blackville, N. B., who some time ago purchased Bill Sharon, 2.16¼, to head the racing stable which he will campaign this season on the Maritime & Maine Circuit, was in Fredericton last night on his way through to Blackville from St. John and visited the Fredericton Park Association's track to call on the trainers located there.

Mr. Alcorn's horses are now at the Chatham track and included in the string is a new green pacer which Peter Carroll, the veteran trainer who will have charge of the stable, has brought along from Halafix. The Alcorn stable will be raced at the meetings in Fredericton this season, probably making their first start of the year at the "curtain raiser" here on June 30th and July 1st.—J. D. B.

THE PREPAYMENT OF FREIGHT CHARGES

Arrangements Made for the Solution of the Difficulty in Ontario and Quebec

Ottawa, May 27.—The prepayment of freight difficulty, which has held up coal imports in eastern Canada for the past month, has been settled as far as Ontario, except Ottawa district, is concerned, and the railway will shortly make an arrangement which will provide for a similar solution of the difficulty for the Montreal and Ottawa districts. The action of the Canadian railways in agreeing to accept coal shipments with charges on the Canadian haul way billed collect was rendered easy in Ontario by the fact that rates to practically all Ontario points are made up on a combination of local rates to and from the international border. The Railway Association of Canada has informed the Canadian Railway Commission that an arrangement will be made whereby the through coal rates to Montreal will be split at the border and a similar arrangement probably will be made for the Ottawa district. This will permit of shipments coming through to destinations with the charges on the Canadian haul way billed collect.

"Now," said Dixmer, "I only require your promise." Then, placing his hand on his shoulder, and smiling, "As it is only between friends," said he, "may I inquire what brought you here, young man? But remember, if you wish to keep it secret, you are perfectly at liberty to do so."

"I have told you, I believe," murmured Maurice.

"Yes, a woman," said the burgess; "I know there was something about a woman."

"Mon Dieu! excuse me, citizen, I am aware some sort of explanation is due to you. Well, then, I sought a female, who the other evening, disguised, told me she resided in this quarter. I neither know her name, position, or place of abode. I only know I am madly in love with her, that she is short—"—Genevieve was tall.

"That she is fair, and of a lively temperament."

Genevieve was a brunette, with large pensive eyes.

"This explains it all," said Dixer, with an affectation of belief, which at least did not contradict his sullen look.

Genevieve colored, and feeling herself blush, turned away.

"Poor Citizen Lindey," said Dixmer, "what a miserable evening we have caused you to pass; and you are about the last I would wish to injure, so excellent a patriot, a brother; but, in short, I believed some 'disinfected' usurped your name."

"Let us say nothing more on the subject," said Maurice, who knew it was time for him to withdraw; "put me in the road, and let us forget that this has occurred altogether."

"Put you in your road!" said Dixmer; "you leave us not yet, not yet; I give—or rather my partner and myself give—a supper tonight to those brave fellows who wished so much to slaughter you a little while ago. I reckon upon your supping with them that you may see they are not such devils as they appear to be."

'But," said Maurice, 'overjoyed at the thought of being for a few hours near Genevieve, "I do not know really if I ought to accept—"

"If you ought to accept!" said Dixmer; "I know you ought; these are good and staunch patriots as yourself. Besides, I shall not consider that you have forgiven me unless we break bread together."

Genevieve uttered not a word. Maurice was in torment.

"The fact is," said Maurice, "I fear I may be a constraint upon you, citoyenne; this dress—my ungentlemanly appearance—"

Genevieve looked timidly towards him.

"I accept your invitation, citizen,' said he, bowing.

"I will go and secure our companions," said Dixmer; "in the meantime, warm yourself, mon cher."

He went out. Maurice and Genevieve remained alone.

'Ah! Monsieur," said the young woman, in an accent to which she in vain tried to convey a tone of reproach, 'you have failed in your word, you have been exceedingly indiscreet."

"Madame," cried Maurice, "shall I expose you? Ah! in that case, pardon me, I will retire, and neer—

"Dieu!" said she, rising, "you are wounded in the breast; your shirt is stained with blood."

Indeed, upon the fine, white shirt of Maurice—a shirt forming a strange contrast to his coarser clothes—a large red spot of blood had spread itself, and had dried there.

"Do not be under any alarm, madame," said the young man, "one of the smugglers pricked me with his poniard."

Genevieve turned pale, and, taking his hand, "Forgive me," said she, "the wrong that has been done you; you saved my life, and I have nearly caused your death."

"Am I not sufficiently recompensed in finding you? You cannot for a moment imagine it was for another that I sought."

"Come with me," said Genevieve interrupting him; "I will find you some clean linen. Our guests must not see you thus—it would be too great a reproach to them."

"I am a great trouble to you, madame, I fear," said Maurice, sighing.

"Not at all; I only do my duty; and," she added, "I do it with much pleasure."

Genevieve conducted Maurice to a large dressing-room, arranged with an air of elegance he had not expected to find in the house of a master tanner. It is true this master tanner appeared to be a millionaire. She then opened the wardrobes.

"Help yourself,' said she; "you are at home." She withdrew.

When Maurice came out, he found Dixmer, who had returned.

"Allons! allons!" said he, "to table; it only waits for you."

CHAPTER IX.

The Supper.

When Maurice entered with Dixmer and Genevieve into the salle-a-manger, situate in the body of the basement, where they had first conducted him, the supper was ready but the room vacant. He saw all the guests enter successively. They were six in number; men of agreeable exterior, for the most part young and fashionably dresed; two or three even wore the blouse and bonnet rouge.

Dixmer introduced Maurice, naming his titles and qualifications. Then, turning towards Maurice, 'You see,' said he, "Citizen Lindey, all those who assist me in my trade. Thanks to the times in which we live, thanks to the revolutionary principles which have effaced all distinction, we all live upon the same footing of sacred equality. Every day we assemble twice at the same table, and I am happy you have been induced to partake of our family repast. Allons! to table—citizens, to table."

"And—Monsieur Morand," said Genevieve, timidly, 'do we not wait for him?"

'Ah, true!" said Dixmer. "This citizen, of whom I have already spoken, Citizen Lindey, is my partner. He conducts, if I may so express myself, the moral part of the establishment. He attends to the writing, keeps the cash superintends the factories, pays and receives money, and, in short, works harder than any of us. The result is that he is sometimes rather late. I will go and tell him we are waiting."

At this moment the door opened, and the Citizen Morand entered. He was a short man, dark, with bushy eyebrows, and wore green spectacles—like a man whose eyes are fatigued from excess of work concealing his black eyes, but not so effectually their scintillating gleams. At the first words he uttered, Maurice recognized that mild, yet commanding voice engaged in his behalf, when endeavoring to save him from becoming a victim to that terrible discussion. He was habited in a brown coat, with large buttons, a white waistcoat; and his fine cambric shirt frill was often during the dinner smoothed by a hand which Maurice, no doubt from its being that of a tradesman, admired much for its beauty and delicacy of appearance.

They all took their seats. Morand was placed on Genevieve's right hand, Maurice on her left. Dixmer sat opposite his wife. The rest of the guests seated themselves promiscuously round an oblong table. The supper was excellent. Dixmer had a capital appetite, and did the honors of the table with much politeness. The workmen, or those who pretended to be such, under this example, became excellent companions. The Citizen Morand spoke little, and ate less; drank scarcely anything, and rarely smiled. Maurice, perhaps from the reminiscences his voice awakened, felt for him immediately a lively sympathy, only he was in doubt as to his age, and this rather annoyed him, as sometimes he imagined him to be a man of forty or fifty years, and at others quite young.

The girls of the band, who are between nine and fourteen years of age, were dressed in Japanese costumes, while the ladies' parlor in the Memorial Hall, where the tea was served, was prettily trimmed with Japaneset lanterns. The tea tables were decorated with flowers and the little girls made dainty and charming waitresses. Five o'clock tea was served and about $40 was realized. The Mission Band has only been organized since February and already has made $60, which will be sent to Mrs. A. H. Barker, a Fredericton missionary in Korea. In looking after the Junior Band last evening Miss Edna Baird was assisted by Mrs. C. Sypher and Mrs. W. Macreadie.

ROADS LEADING FROM FREDERICTON TO BE REPAIRED

AN EXPENDITURE OF $2,500 IS NOW PLANNED

And Work Has Already Been Started on Hanwell and Doak Roads

The Roads and Streets Committee of the City Council met with Hon. P. J. Veniot, Minister of Public Works, yesterday afternoon in connection with proposed repairs to the Wilsey, Hanwell, Lincoln and Doak roads.

While Hon. Mr. Veniot stated that he declined to finance repairs on any roads within a mile of the city proper, it was decided that the Provincial Government would work a 50-50 basis of the cost of the repairs with the City Council. The roads will be levelled, filled in and generally improved to put them in proper shape.

The amount to be expended for the repair work is in the vicinity of $2,500. Work has already commenced on the Hanwell and Doak roads, and it was stated this morning that repairs on the other roads would be started as soon as men could be engaged to carry on the work.

Another Accident on The Valley Railway

The tender of the St. John Valley Railway express for St. John jumped the rails between Gagetown and Hampstead yesterday and, after jumping from one side of the track to another for some distance and tearing up rails, finally became wedged against the end of a small steel bridge.

If the tender had plunged over the bridge and taken the adjoining car along there would have been a most serious wreck. Traffic was tied up for three hours as a result, the wrecking train and crew being despatched from South Devon to effect repairs.

Some Improvement in the Forest Fires Situation, but Heavy Rains Are Necessary

Villages in Victoria County No Longer Threatened With Destruction—1,500 Acres of Privately Owned Lands Burned Near Boiestown Before Fire Was Put Out Last Night and Crew Moved to McGivney Junction, Where There is a Bad Fire Today---Fraser Companys' Mill at Glendine, Quebec, Reported in Danger.

While there are a good many forest fires raging in New Brunswick and considerable damage is being done, there is some improvement in the situation shown in reports reaching Provincial Forester G. H. Prince today; the situation still remains critical, however, and will continue to be so until there are heavy rains.

The improvement is chiefly noted in the fact that some of the largest fires are now under control and that settlements and villages which yesterday were said to be menaced, are now said not to be in danger, so in that respect at least there has been some relief.

Serious Fires in Quebec.

Reports of serious forest fires in the southern portion of the province of Quebec, near the New Brunswick boundary, have reached here from unofficial sources, and it is said that in the vicinity of Glendine, where one of the mills operated by the Fraser Companies, Limited, is located the situation became so serious that the men employed at the mill had to be taken from there and used to fight the fire.

The Taxis River Fire.

The fire that has done the most damage in this province so far this spring is that which has been burning for some time on the Taxis river near Boiestown. This fire was finally put under control last night, but not until 1,500 acres had been burned over, and about 3 o'clock this morning—before daylight—one hundred of the two hundred and fifteen men who had been engaged in fighting that fire had been moved by automobiles to McGivney Junction, where today they are fighting a fire which has become very menacing there.

The fire which started on the Indian Reserve at Tobique and which threatened Tilley Settlement and other villages in Victoria county is still burning today, but it is said the villages are no longer in danger, while a fire which threatened the town of Perth, Victoria county, was reported to be under control at noon today.

Patrols on Railways.

A system of patrols to follow every train on the railroads in New Brunswick has been perfected and the C. P. R., who have been co-operating in every possible way in the protective plans, have had all safety devices on their locomotives carefully inspected and put in the best of shape.

The upwards of 500 highway supervisors employed in the province by the Department of Public Works have been given the authority of fire war-

CONFERENCE AT SPA FIXED FOR JULY 15

The Further Postponement Made for the Convenience of the Italian Premier

PRELIMINARY WORK REQUIRES HIS PRESENCE

For the Same Reason the Financial Conference at Brussels Will Be Postponed

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Rome, May 29. — England and France have agreed, upon request of Premier Nitti, to postpone the Allied-German conference at Spa from June 21 to July 15, according to the Tribuna. This will allow the Italian Premier to participate in parliamentary work here for almost a month longer than would otherwise have been possible.

For the same reason, the newspaper says, the financial conference at Brussels will also be postponed.

The Activity at Krupps.

Berlin, May 29.—Statements from Paris that the Krupps still are manufacturing war materials are countered yesterday by the Krupps, in a communication to the Frankfurter Zeitung, which says the French report is an exaggeration of the fact that the Krupps are making from old stocks an insignificant quantity of infantry guns for the Reichswehr.

The statement adds that the work, which is not being carried out secretly, employs about 75 men and constitutes no violation of the peace treaty.

German Delegates Pleased.

Berlin, May 29.—The German delegates who have returned to Berlin from the Paris International Conference are fairly well satisfied with the progress thus far achieved, says the Vossische Zeitung.

The newspaper says that an agreement was arrived at on the point of necessity for co-operation between certain branches of French and German industries.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

St. Louis, May 29.—The spring auction of the International Fur Exhange was concluded here yesterday, with sales for the seventeen days' period approximating $23,000,000.

This was the second largest volume ever attained in any raw fur market, according to officials of the Exchange, being eclipsed only in February auction, and brought the total fur sales for the fiscal year to more than $80,000,000.

The pelts on the present market represented about one-half of the world's available supply, it was said.

Sales for the closing day amounted to $1,500,000.

Paris, May 29.—D'Annunzio has occupied the village of Cavalaja and threatens to sieze Susak, in the region of Fiume, acording to reports received in Paris from Belgrade.

The despatch adds that the Jugo-Slav government has denounced the action of the poet to the powers and declared that Jugo-Slavia is obliged to take measures forcibly to resist.

The belief is expressed in high quarters in Paris that D'Annunzio by creating an incident seeks to prevent a settlement of the Fiume question, which it had been supposed was almost reached, regardless of the consequences to Italy.

Fierce combats are raging from the Dvina river, on the north, to the Pripet river, on the south, a distance of approximately 220 miles, and the Soviet armies are launching attack after attack.

Canadian Trade Report

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Winnipeg, Man., May 29—According to telegraphic reports received by the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association from ten of the principal business centres of Canada, wholesale and retail trade is active in most parts of the east and in the west wholesale trade is fair and retail trade better with improved weather.

St. John and Halifax offices report wholesalers active with business largely in excess of last year, prices steadily advancing, no slackening in buying and output only limited by supply of merchandise to meet demand. Retail trade report the volume of business greater than in 1919. This may be owing to higher prices and the volume of distribution may not be greater. The Maritime Provinces, having very varied resources, do not experience severe fluctuations in business.

On the whole collections are slow, cash not appearing as readily as last year and far below the average. In the Toronto area, however, collections are reported fairly good.

Wild Scenes in the Senate Over Derogatory Remarks of Senator About Ex-Soldiers

"Billy" Bennett Raises a Storm by His Reference to Senators Sharpe, McMeans and Bradbury in Discussing the Bill to Amend Immigration Act

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, May 29.—The usually quiet and peaceful Senate was a scene of wild excitement and even bloodshed was threatened for a time yesterday afternoon, when four irate Senators, stung by the sarcastic utterances of the caustic tongued "Billy" Bennett, were on their feet at once, shaking their fists and demanding that the hon. gentleman from Midland eat his words.

The incident arose over a speech of Senator Bennett's on the bill to amend the Immigration Act by repealing the clause, passed at the time of the Winnipeg strike, giving the Government authority to summarily deport British born under suspicion of sedition or shown to be engaged in agitation. Very strong opposition developed against the bill, and it is questionable if it will go through. In the course of Senator Bennett's remarks he made reference to several western Senators, including Messrs. Sharpe, McMeans and Bradbury, who "had led their brave men across the seas and kissed them farewell at the white cliffs of Dover, leaving them to cross to the trenches alone," or words to that effect.

This brought the Senators concerned to their feet with brandished fists and cries of indignation, charges of cowardice and unveracity being freely hurled back and forth. Senator Bennett waited calmly until the Speaker called the assemblage to order, and then went on to substantially repeat his remarks, and the incident closed with him still in possession of the field, but with four very fierce grudges chalked up against him.

The main support which Hon. Senator Robertson is getting for his bill is from the French and some of the Liberal members, but so fierce is the opposition to it that it is likely to be withdrawn.

Woodstock Boy Scouts Hold Anniversary Celebration and Present Some Badges of Honor

The Woodstock Troup Now Includes in Its Membership Four "King's Scouts"—Woodstock Citizens Propose to Hold Grand Carnival in July

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Woodstock, May 29.—On Tuesday night the First Woodstock Troop of Boy Scouts held its eighth anniversary meeting. Several boys were "invested" or "sworn in." Many badges were presented, among them being the King's Scout badges to H. Baird and R. Brown. The Wooodstck troop now has four "King's Scouts," the other two being R. K. and George Jones. A supper was served, the guests being His Worship Mayor Nodden, Rev. Frank Baird, Rev. H. F. Rigby, R. Fraser Armstrong, Col. and Mrs. Dibblee and old scouts Jones and Smith. All the guests spoke much to the interest of all the scouts. Mrs. Dibblee was presented with a "Thanks Badge" as a token of the innumerable services rendered in the last eight years. The scouts in reply did not forget to say a good word for the officials of the Anglican church, who have afforded the boys great privileges.

Carnival in July.

At a public meeting in the Town Hall Wednesday night, presided over by Mayor Nodden, the proposed carnival, to supplement the horse races on July 12th and 13th, was advanced a little by the appointment of the following committee to canvass the situation and report on Monday night: From the Hospital Board, John H. Lee; from the G. W. V. A., Rev. F. M. Lockary; from the Agricultural Society, D. V. Storm; from the Driving Club, James W. Gallagher.

A meeting of the congregation of St. Paul's Presbyterian church was held on Wednesday evening. During the evening speeches were made by members present testifying to the good work done by the pastor, Rev. Frank Baird, and their deep regret at his departure from the church and town. A committee was appointed to take the necessary steps for filling the vacanacy.

The funeral of Joseph Sparrow, aged 79 years, took place on Sunday and was attended by Rev. L. E. Ackland. He leaves six children, Joseph and Charles of Newburg, and Walter of Woodstock; Mrs. George Smith of Newburg, with whom he resided at the time of his death; Mrs. John Grant of Waterville, Me., and Mrs. Thomas Abbott of Woodstock.

Late Calgary newspapers report the death of John G. VanWart, at Calgary, aged 82 years, who in his younger days was a leading merchant in Woodstock. His second wife, who survives him, was Miss Drucilla VanWart, daughter of the late Charles VanWart of Woodstock. The end came after an illness of five years, following a stroke of paralysis in December, 1914, since which date the deceased had suffered the loss of his power of speech.

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonzo Niles will be glad to hear that they are doing nicely and expect to be able to leave the Fisher Hospital in the near future.

Mrs. William Dawson of McAdam, who has been confined to the Fisher Hospital, is improving.

J. E. McKinnon, the well known C. P. R. trainman, who was operated on for appendicitis at the Fisher Memorial Hospital, is now able to return to work.

Mrs. Roy McLauchlan, who was called to New York owing to the illness of her sister, Miss Maud Allen, has returned home, as her sister is much improved in health.

Miss Geneva Carmichael, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at Dr. Prescott's hospital, is making a good recovery.

STANDARDIZE THE CLOTHING TRADE

To Check Laziness as Well as Undue Speed Aim of Clothing Workers in America

Boston, May 28.—Standardization of quantity and quality of the work in the clothing industry with a view to checking laziness as well as undue speed of production is one of the aims of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America and the co-operation of the manufacturers is hoped for by the union, according to the general secretary of the clothing workers, Joseph Schlossberg. The plan which is in the hands of the general executive board of the organization is regarded as a new departure in the management of labor.

The general executive board will make a study of the market conditions in each large city and then invite a conference with the clothing manufacturers for the purpose of agreeing upon a scale of work. It is planned to establish a standard quantity and quality that must be performed for the maximum pay, and there is to be a lower standard of quantity and quality, with a corresponding rate of pay for the worker who cannot reach the first standard.

In the past the workers have claimed that they have been speeded up too much by the manufacturers and have met that issue by fixing an arbitrary limit upon production in certain fields, while some manufacturers have been contending that the men and women in the trade have not been doing an honest amount of work for the pay. Piece work tended to drive the workers too fast, according to their own view of it, and was everywhere discouraged by the unions; pay by the week regardless of the amount of work performed, has not been satisfactory to the manufacturers.

HOUSEHOLD LABOR PROBLEM OF WEST

Limited Number of Girls Might Be Obtained From Mother Country if Aided

Winnipeg, Man., May 28. — "The problem of obtaining household workers for western Canada will not be solved by immigration from the Old Country, but a limited number of girls might be obtained if the provincial governments would advance part of their passage money," declared Mrs. Charles Robson, who has recently returned from investigating conditions in England and Scotland on behalf of the Dominion government. The result of Mrs. Robson's investigation reveals the fact that England's war conditions have succeeded in diminishing the servant class to such an extent that in England alone there is a shortage of 40,000 servants.

ASIATIC PROBLEM IN SOUTH AMERICA

Buenos Aires, May 28.—Peru, like the United States and Canada, has its "Asiatic problem." Advices from Lima tell of the distribution of circulars among the workers of that city protesting against "the monopolization by the Asiatic and Japanese element of our small industries" and the holding of a protest meeting. The advices state that the police "very discreetly dissuaded" the protestants from holding a street demonstration.

There has been a large increase reported in the Japanese immigration to Peru recently.

RECORD APPLE CROP IN THE SOUTH

Winchester, Va., May 28.—A record apple crop is indicated in the Shenandoah-Cumberland district, extending 215 miles from Staunton, Va., to Harrisburg, Pa., which has approximately 3,000,000 bearing trees. Weather conditions during the winter and spring were more favorable than in several years, say expert growers. No damage from frost has been reported and the blooms have set well. The district, according to federal horticulturists, is one of the most important apple producing sections of the country.

ENABLE SCHOOLS TO OPEN IN WEST

Regina, Sask., May 28. — Schools in the southwest part of the province will be enabled to keep open during the coming year as the result of negotiations between government officials and the banks. Due to the poor crops in this district during the past few years, the municipal councils are unable to collect taxes and consequently the banks have shown some reluctance to make advances even for school purposes. Representations made to them by inspectors of the Municipal Department induced the banks in practically all cases to make advances sufficient to meet the financial needs of the schools.

It cost $60,000 when a farmer cut down a tree near Frankenmuth, Mich., because the tree fell across an important electric wire, causing a short circuit that turned loose 146,000 volts and threw 50,000 factory employees out of work for a quarter of a day, since their machines stopped for lack of power.

DOUBLE SPEED IS THE LATEST

Robbed of Funds and "In Bad" Breezy Hero Stages a Fine Comeback

Following right on top of some of the finest photoplays yet shown in this city, including "The Sporting Duchess" and "The Brat," The Gaiety Theatre will present on Monday and Tuesday of next week the popular favorite, Wallace Reid, in his latest production, "Double Speed," a breezy comedy drama packed full of surprises. Like his previous picture,

"The Roaring Road," it has a lot to do with speeding autos and pretty girls.

Handsome Wallie is "Speed" Carr, who on the way to the West Coast from New York is robbed of his car and his funds and arrives at his destination resembling a hobo. That doesn't bother Wallace much, as he soon becomes chauffeur for a beautiful lady and marries her, after he has given her father, a bank president, heart failure on account of his part in a financial transaction the latter is attempting to put over.

This is a rather cryptic description of the plot, but after all the pleasure in a Reid vehicle lies in seeing it. You will be well rewarded. Wanda Hawley, who is extremely easy to look at, is the girl, and those fine character men, Theodore Roberts and Tully Marshall, are in the cast. The story is by J. Stewart Woodhouse, and Sam Wood directed it for Paramount Artcraft.

HOME BREWER FINDS PARADISE

Brooklyn Man Discovers All the Ingredients on Sale Near Home

New York, May 28.—Home brewis said to be a very simple matter for those who have mastered it. So is building an omelet or making a watch. But those who are still struggling with their conscience or the machinery are said to find a lot of trouble in assembling the necessary combination of flavor and "kick" to say nothing of the utensils.

One of the latter class was confiding his troubles to a friend the other day. He had managed to assemble a copper lined wash boiler, a beer barrel sawed in two and about two dozen bottles with which to handle his ingredients, but according to the long list he needed a great many other articles, such as a length of rubber tubing, some wire for his stoppers, filter paper and one thing and another.

Accordingly he made arrangements to take the afternoon off and make a search of the combined boroughs of Manhattan and Brooklyn — where he lived — in order to find exactly what he required. It was a long hunt, and the afternoon was merging into the dinner hour when he appeared in a final desperate attempt in a minor department store only a block or two from his home.

He was tired of asking for the various articles on his list and looked about the counters in rather a hopeless way. Then he saw 'em. All on one counter was displayed everything he had in his cellar and all the missing articles on his list together with several things he had not thought of but for which he could see immediate use.

As he said to a friend: "You can buy other things in Brooklyn besides rubber plants and baby carriages."

THE VALUE OF MUSIC IN THE HOME

A noted Canadian professor of music recently said: "The providing of interests which foster the growth of home and family ties is worthy of earnest consideration, and there is nothing like music to keep the young folks home at night, make them happier and draw the bonds of real home influence round your children."

Picture the home without music. Supper is over and the young folks are looking for some sort of entertainment. The neighbors down the street have a piano and all the children flock there—why?.. Because the home possessing a piano is filled with joy, radiance and sunshine, because everyone likes music.

THE SHOE INDUSTRY OF THE DOMINION

Retail Shoe Merchants Criticize the New Tax Placed on Shoes Costing $9

[Ottawa Journal.]

The retail shoe merchants of Ottawa, at a banquet held last evening at the Chateau Laurier, arranged for the purpose of hearing delegates from the National Shoe Retailers' Association, Montreal, discuss the effects which the budget proposals would exert upon the retail shoe business of the country. Mr. F. S. Scott, M. P., South Waterloo, president of the Shoe Manufacturers' Association, one of the principal speakers of the association, struck a very optimistic note with regard to the future of the shoe industry and declared that "out of this present situation things are going to come out all right." Mr. Scott also stated that, while the situatin now confronting the Dminion was a most difficult one, everyone, while they might not agree with the measures that were proposed, realized that the necessity of raising a vast sum of money was existent.

During the evening addresses were given by Messrs. Peter Dig, George Gales, chairman of the entertainment committee, and J. Daoust, and all extended a hearty invitation to Ottawa members of the Shoe Retailers' Association to attend the big conventin, which, lasting for a week, will commence on July 13.

Disclaims Responsibility.

Mr. Scott stated that he assumed no responsibility for the budget which had created so much discussion throughout Canada. It was as surprising to him as to others. He doubted whether, under its present provisions, the proposals embodied in the budget would be final, but he hoped that it would be possible to secure some changes.

Mr. Scott told his audience that, as president of the Shoe Manufacturers' Association, he had completed arrangements for a meeting in Ottawa this evening, and he stated that he thought certain representations would be offered to the Government as a result.

Urges Co-operation.

He emphasized the necessity of co-operation among the retailers. He stated that throughout the war as it appeared to him, shoe dealers had been the target for attack by the Board of Commerce, politicians and the press, all of whom classed them as profiteers. As a result of efficient organization they had been able to meet these attacks, which, he declared, were inspired by ignorance. Mr. Scott declared emphatically that the shoe industry had been carried on along conservative lines, which would compare favorably with any other industry. Reasonable profits were also accepted by the shoe industry.

Predicts Bright Future.

"You are feeling greatly concerned about what effect the new tax will have on your business," continued Mr. Scott. "I feel the great thing for every man in this business is to keep his head. Out of this present situation things are going to come out all right. The situation is that you can sell every dollar's worth of goods on your shelves; but you cannot replace them for the same price."

Mr. Scott stated that it was simple for politicians to set an arbitrary price such as $9 and expect the manufacturers to bring prices into conformity with that. But, as far as he was aware, the manufacturer was producing as cheaply as possible and the present high prices were, unquestionably, the result of the high cost of labor. He assured his hearers that there could be no reduction in price as long as wages were permitted to remain at their present high level.

In conclusion Mr. Scott made comparison with obtaining conditions in the United States and remarked that had the United States been as long at war as Canada he could not see where the people of that country would have "got off at."

Bear Part of Burden.

Mr. Peter Doig emphasized the fact that all Canadians should shoulder their share of the country's financial burden, and pointed out that, while it was an easy matter to criticize the present legislation, the Government would be shirking its duty if it made no effort to reduce the public debt. "We could not afford to leave our debts for posterity to pay," he said.

Mr. Doig dealt at length with the coming convention, stating that it would be the forerunner of a great "made-in-Canada" movement. The convention was to be exclusively Canadian, at which products which could not be beaten in any of the world's markets would be shown.

Mr. G. Gales outlined the plans which had been prepared for the entertainment of delegates to the convention which would be held in Montreal in July.

RETURN INTERNED HUN MINE SWEEPER

German Crew Ran Away With Vessel and Tried to Sell it at a Dutch Port

The Hague, May 28.—The Dutch naval authorities have decided to return the German mine sweeper U. Z. 18, which was interned a few weeks ago, to the German mine sweeping flotilla, from which it deserted.

The vessel was taken by the German crew into the Zuiderzee. At Muyden, a little fishing town, the captain, mate and two other members of the crew went ashore in order to find a buyer for their boat, but were arrested. The rest of the crew, who, waiting in vain for their comrades, had grown impatient, were just going to leave the Dutch waters again when they were caught by a Dutch torpedo boat.

New England Lumber Market

Boston, May 28.—No one is sanguine enough to believe that in spruce dimension business would be active even if the railroad situation were normal but everyone probably would be willing to admit that embargoes involving uncertainties as to the dates of delivery not only of lumber but of all else required for constrution work tends to decrease the number of orders for frames received by manufacturers and the wholesale trade. Some of the large houses with travellers in many different directions are securing some orders, but those with a comparatively limited equipment and restricted territory are reaping a very meagre reward for the expenditure of much energy. The retailers are not exactly scared perhaps by the news of price cutting in different commodities, including some lines of lumber, but they feel that a little procrastination in the matter of buying may just now prove to be a good rather than an evil thing. In the price of dimension there has not as yet been any change.

Random.

In all sorts of random business is quiet this week, the comparatively modest prices quoted by several firms having so far quite failed to increase retailers' interest in this department of the market for lumber.

Narrow random from a widely known Maine mill, that always includes in its offering a really good proportion of the best lengths, may be bought this week for $53. It seems probable, therefore, that efforts to obtain $54, although not yet abandoned, will soon be a thing of the past. All sellers recognize that to ask $55 today for a carload lot is hopeless.

There is no doubt that 2 x 8 may be purchased for $56 although $57 is probably a more usual price. For a very nice lot or for a little in with a frame $5 18s occasionally asked with success.

For 2 x 10 and 2 x 12 the demand does not improve in the least, and it is only for the nicest of the offerings that the higher figures given in the table below are possible.

Boards.

In boards as in thicker lumber transactions this week are few and the tone of the market cannot be described as firm or even steady.

Some very nice makes of matched spruce boards, 10, 12, 14 and 16 feet for which not many days ago $65 was asked are now offered at $60. People asking more are not meeting with many eager customers. Even at $60 the demand at present cannot be called brisk.

For clipped hemlock boards, eastern lengths, $55 continues to be asked by the sanguine but a manufacturer of nice stock trying to induce the wholesale trade here to buy of him at $53 less 5 per cent. failed to secure a bid. In the absence of important business it is hard to give a price for random hemlock boards. It seems quite safe to say, however, that any one getting $50 is doing well.

Random spruce covering boards 5 inches and up wide, 8 feet and up long and planed one side are holding up better in price than under the cricumstances might be supposed. The price in fact is $55.

Laths.

The feeling about laths is no doubt unsettled. The truth is that it is so hard to find a buyer just now in the neighborhood of Boston that it is hard to speak very positively about the current local price. From the West the demand has petered out altogether, but some firms here can still find in New York buyers at about the prices prevailing when the excitement was at its height. Almost everyone admits, however, that the trend is downward.

It is often claimed still that the price of 1½-inch scant is $14, but a salesman who can find a yard in or near Boston that will pay him $13 is to be congratulated. Wholesalers had a chance to buy 1½ inch at $12.50 less commission this week but they did not avail themselves of it.

For 1⅜ inch some firms still want $15, but buyers here at this price are not easily found this week. The fact is local retailers are not interested in laths.

Furring.

For 2 inch furring there is still some demand, but it is not easy to obtain for it over $53, but sales were reported early this week at $55. For 3 inch there is very little call and now that a well known Canadian firm is offering it at $50 it would not seem to be practicable to get more. It is by no means certain, however, that a purchase could not be made for less.

Shingles.

In shingles business does not show the activity expected of it in the spring. Instead of being active, it is quiet, a fact easily explained of course by the absence of important building. The outlook for the summer is not at the moment particularly encouraging.

For the white cedars prices remain much as they have been. More than one good make can be bought today however at $8.75 for the extras and $8.25 for the clears. There are still people holding out for the higher figures given in the table of prices.

The market for the red cedars is easier and prices are irregular. For the best British Columbia makes $8 per 1,000 is asked. There are good Washington brands of extra clears offered at $7.37 to $7.50 per 1,000.

Clapboards.

It is the same story. There are no spruce clapboards available and no one can be sure just when there will be

The prices for lumber immediately following are those at which retailers can buy of the wholesale trade. Spruce prices refer to lumber 8 to 20 feet in length. For every two feet or fraction of two feet over 20 feet $1 is added when the sale is of dimension lumber.

Coroner's Jury Rendered Verdict in C. N. R. Wreck Inquest At Marysville

Declare Construction of Fill Where Train Plunged Into River Was Not Sufficient for Present Heavy Traffic —Make Some Suggestions

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Marysville, N. B., May 29.—The investigation into the death of John T. Estabrooks and Frank J Gillis, was concluded by Coroner B. M. Mullin, in the Odd Fellows Hall last evening.

The first witness called was James Estabrooks, of Marysville, but in his evidence and cross examination no new facts were brought forward.

The next witness was Justus Underhill of Blackville, track master of this division of the C. N. R. Mr. Underhill explained the system of patrolling the road, which coincided with evidence previously given. He also outlined his duties as Track Master. When asked about the composition of the fill where the accident occurred, he stated that he was not sure what was used in the foundation, but that he had completed it, and gravel was the only article used by him. It was his opinion that the jam of logs in the river had caused the water to back up, and soften the foundation of the fill, and when the weight of the heavy train came upon it, caused it to slide.

George Kilburn, of Fredericton, was the next witness. He is local manager for the Nashwaak Pulp and Paper Co. His duties include to take charge of driving the logs on the Nashwaak River, and in looking after repairs and other necessary work for the Company. He told of the jam piers and abutments which were built in the Nashwaak during the past winter season, and the purpose for which they were built. He had visited Marysville on Sunday, May 9th., and inspected the jam of logs and the piers, and thought at that time that there was no danger of the jam breaking. He also went as far as the railway bridge and from the opposite shore could see nothing wrong with the bridge or piers.

Asked by one of the Jury if his Company had a permit to build the piers in the river, Mr. Kilburn replied that the work of constructing the dam was carried on under the joint supervision of the government engineers and the company's engineers, but that he did not know anything about a permit.

Sylvie Nash was the next witness. He told of arriving at the wreck with a boat and of working in assisting to get Estabrooks free. He described how Estabrooks' foot was pinned, and how he extricated the amputated foot the following morning. It was Mr. Nash who discovered Engineer Gillis' body. He said that the body was lying in the engine cab under about two and a half feet of water, and was held firmly by some of the wreckage, his jumper being caught in some way.

Samuel D. Burns, of Fredericton, train dispatcher at South Devon, was the next witness. He gave in detail the several train orders which were issued on the morning of the 10th, showing the time that the different trains which visited the wreck left Devon.

The Jury's Verdict.

This concluded the evidence, and after brief addresses from the Coroner and a few remarks from F. H. Peters and C. D. Richards, the jury retired and after three-quarters of an hour deliberation, returned the following verdict:

"We, the jury empanelled to inquire into the death of John T. Estabrooks and Frank J. Gillis, which occurred on May 10th inst., after hearing and considering the evidence submitted, beg leave to report the following verdict:

"We find that the aforesaid John T. Estabrooks came to his death from exposure and exhaustion while in the water, by being pinned down in the wreckage of the engine of train No. 644.

"We find that the aforesaid Frank J. Gillis came to his death by being drowned in the cab of his engine of train No. 644, the wreck having been caused by engine No. 91 and two cars of train No. 644 going over the embankment of the western approach of the Nashwaak bridge above Marysville. The immediate cause of the said wreck was the sliding of the fill at the west end of the aforesaid bridge.

"We believe the contributing causes were:

"(1). That the jam of logs in the river below the bridge caused the water to rise about the fill, which had the effect of undermining it, and when the heavy weight of the train came upon it, it slid away, causing the wreck.

"(2 While we believe that the construction of the fill was adequate under ordinary conditions, we believe that, from the evidence set before us, it was not up to standard for heavy traffic, such as is carried on the road at the present time.

"(3). We believe that, under existing conditions and with railway equipment which was available, all possible efforts were made to save the life of John T. Estabrooks.

"We recommend that the C. N. R. officials provide a wrecking equipment of sufficient capacity to handle all probable wrecks, which may occur on this division in future.

"We also recommend that a thorough inspection be made of all such fills as heretofore referred to, in order to prevent further accidents.

"We also recommend that the government give close inspection to all obstructions placed in any river in the province. We feel that the present system of patrolling the tracks of the railroads is insufficient for the safety of the trainmen and travelling public.

"W. H. Gray, foreman; H. B. Brewer, J. B. Daggett, Burton E. Dennison, John B. McInnis, E. B. Staples and F. W. Walker."

APPLE CROP IS NOW THREATENED

life histories of the two insects are the same.

"The caterpillars may be destroyed on small trees by crushing their tents with a piece of sod or old sack. This is best done on a dull day or in the evening when all the young caterpillars are in their tents, because if tried on a bright, sunshiny day the caterpillars will be spread all over the trees feeding on the young leaves.

"On trees that are too large for the nests to be reached handily, the simplest and best way to control these caterpillars is to spray the trees with some form of stomach poison early in the season before the caterpillars are more than half grown.

"The method of killing these caterpilars in their tents by burning them with a swab soaked in kerosene is to be discouraged, as quite often part of the branch on which the tent is, is destroyed by the burning."

A GOOD OPPORTUNITY

Some Rare Bargains Being Offered at Shepherd's Auction Room on Regent Street.

The big Bankdupt Sale of fancy dress goods, silks, voiles, serges, embroidered waists, etc., now going on at Ralph Shepherd's Auction Rooms, 79 Regent street, is being taken advantage of by a great number of citizens. Most of these goods have been imported from France. As this is the chance of a life time it should not be overlooked by anyone. The values speak for themselves, and while the stock was large it has gone down at a remarkably fast rate. Every article purchased during this sale will mean a big saving. The prices in nearly all cases are far below the actual cost of production.

Excise Tax on Automobiles.

Official notification has been received from Ottawa that the new excise tax on automobiles, talking machines, etc., is not to be collected as an addition to the old tax, but supercedes the old tax. This makes the tax somewhat lighter than was indicated in the first reports.

Political Upheavals and Thrones Re-established in Europe This Year Predicted

Hungarian Soothsayer Says Kaiser Will Go Insane and Crown Prince Be Murdered, But Hohenzollerns Will Return to German Throne—New Kingdom for France

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Budapest, May 29.—Startling prophecies relating to world peace, political changes impending in Europe, and the fate of prominent figures in the Great War, are made by Hungary's national soothsayer, Mme. Sybilline Bellaugh.

"Thrones will be re-established all over Europe, including France, Germany, Austria, Poland and Hungary, within a year," she says. "The Hohenzollerns will return to Germany, but the former Emperor will go insane and the Crown Prince will be murdered. There will be sanguinary upheavals in France, preliminary to the constitution of a kingdom. Bolshevism will end in 1921 in Russia. Mexico will be the starting point of the next war. High prices will abate and European exchange will be quoted at par in two years. There will be the greatest exodus of Jews from Russia and Central Europe in history, but they will not go to Palestine. They will, rather, emigrate to Argentina and Mexico.

During the past day or two Superintendent J. E. Marshall of the construction department has been here from St. John, and the work which he is undertaking, while it does not include lines in any new territories, comprises nineteen new circuits covering 553½ miles with a total wireage of 762 miles. The estimates for this work run up to about $85,000 and which will require some 9,000 new cross arms on existing pole lines in addition to those now in place which can be used.

The longest of the new circuits extends from Fredericton to Newcastle and two covering that territory have just been completed. The three crews which have been on that work are now engaged on three new circuits from Fredericton to St. John. Two new circuits to Stanley from here have already been completed, and two to Keswick will be run from here soon. One from Andover to Fort Fairfield, Me., has already been completed and others which will be finished in about ten days include two from Florenceville to Andover and two from St. John to Westfield. Those which are yet to be undertaken include two from St. John to St. George and two to Rothesay and one from Rothesay to Norton.

THE FALSE PUCELLE.

Comparatively few persons, we believe, have given any attention to the curious historical doubt which has been entertained by some few writers that Joan of Arc was really burned at the stake at Rouen in 1431. The canonization of the Maid, after exhaustive inquiry into her career, has finally set the matter at rest. The Vatican, with its means of gleaning all possible evidence, its rigid standards of investigation and its patience and disinterestedness of judgment, has reached the conclusion that the traditional account of her end is historically true.

It is assuredly in no spirit of scepticism that we advert here to the curious collection of facts which were regarded at one time as constituting a problem. The incident of the appearance in France of the False Pucelle has an interest of its own like the case of Perkin Warbeck or Naundorf. It shows how far imposture, supported by a certain degree of courage, can be carried.

The curious fact is that in 1436, five years after the execution of the true Maid of Orleans, a young woman appeared in Alsace and passed over into France, claiming to be Joan, the savior of her country, and was not only accepted by the populace of Orleans, Rouen and other cities, but also by Pierre and Jehan, the brothers of the true Maid, and by her cousins; by the Marshal de Rais, who knew the true Maid intimately, and by numerous other companions in arms of the great days of the French reawakening. The historic evidence of the appearance of this woman is unquestionable. There are public documents recording her entertainment and gifts to her. Shortly after her appearance she took a husband in the person of the Sieur d'Armoises or Hermoises of Metz, and as late as the middle of the seventeenth century her marriage contract was shown to a perfectly credible witness, who says she was described in it as Jeanne d'Arcy, the Maid.

Finally, after many delays, the woman was forced in 1439 to a meeting with Charles VII., whose kingdom the true Joan had saved. As on the occasion of the real Joan's first appearance at court, the King stood undistinguished among his gentlemen, one of whom posed in his place. The impostor went straight to the King and saluted him. It is said that the King, having injured his foot, was wearing a soft shoe; the woman had heard of this and so distinguished him. But he put her to a test to which she could not respond. He said, "Pucelle, m'amie, you are welcome "back, in the name of God, who "knows the secret that is between "us."

He alluded to some communication between himself and the true Pucelle, which had satisfied him of her divine mission. What this was has never been revealed. Even the threat of torture failed to make the true Joan disclose it at her trial. The Pretender was overcome by the King's utterance. As the story goes, she fell on her knees and confessed her treason, "for which some were sharply punished." But she was not punished, nor Joan's brothers. She lived on for years in peace and prosperity, becoming the mother of at least two children. There are traces of her on record as late as 1457, including one probably libellous story that she had deserted her husband.

In recent times some weight has been given to this woman's claim, because, according to the practice of the Inquisition, Joan of Arc was taken to the scaffold veiled. The notion was that she had really escaped, but the English to overcome the psychologic effect of her mission on their soldiery, carried out their plan of discrediting her by actually burning another woman in her place. Henri Martin, the French historian, and Octave Delepierre, a Belgian student, have refused to believe in the imposture of the False Maid, and constructed more or less ingenious theories to support the idea that the national heroine escaped martyrdom and lived happy ever after.

But on the face of the evidence there is no case. There are odd circumstances, hard to explain; but it is harder to account for the years between the execution and the reappearance of the Maid, for her failure ever to meet her mother, and for her failure to take any such great place at court and in the life of the country as her glorious deeds would have warranted had her claim of identity been genuine. Above all, the proceedings in review and rehabilitation, conducted in 1456, instigated by Charles and as a result of which the Pope reversed her condemnation, leave no ground for the belief that the sentence of death was not carried out. It is simply incredible that if the victim were then alive or were known to have been alive after the date of the execution, any such action should have been taken.

Those who are interested in the details of the evidence can find them summarized in an essay by John Fiske on Historical Difficulties, to be found in his collected works, and also in Andrew Lang's paper on The False Pucelle, which appeared in The Nineteenth Century for May, 1895, and is now included, we believe, in the volume entitled A Valet's Tragedy. Both of these writers dissect the evidence in masterly fashion and both agree in the judgment that the claims of the Joan of 1436-1457 were absolutely spurious.

INTERRUPTED IMMIGRATION.

According to William H. Burr, president of the Inter-Racial Council, American industries are short 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 unskilled workers, as a result of the curtailment of immigration during and since the war. There can be no surprise, then, that production has been cut down, that costs have so greatly increased, that the country is faced with the prospect of a serious food shortage.

In 1913 no less than 1,403,081 immigrants came to the United States, while emigration was but 611,805; in 1919, however, the number of incoming aliens had shrunk to 237,021, and this was almost completely offset by the 216,231 persons who left the country. In the past few months there has been a slight gain in immigration, but the situation is not materially changed and there are no present indications of a return to pre-war figures.

In the decade from 1904 to 1914 the immigrant stream found its chief sources in Italy, Poland and in the dependent states of Austria-Hungary. But the creation of the new Poland, the emancipation of Czecho-Slovakia and Jugo-Slavia, together with the need for industrial reconstruction in Italy, has completely changed the situation. These states will undoubtedly wish to retain their workers for their own factories and fields.

There remains, however, the strong probability of an increased migration to America from Austria proper. Of all the nations of Europe it has suffered most. Cut off from the provinces which for centuries contributed to its prosperity and power, it is left isolated, a head without the body. The people, to a large extent deprived of the old means of subsistence, are reduced to poverty and misery, and many must seek relief by leaving for more promising lands. Of these America will secure the lion's share.

But be the situation in Europe what it may, sooner or later the tide of migration across the Atlantic will set in again. At present labor is bringing here a return not only greater than in any other country, but greater than at any other period in human history. In the end this will prove irresistible. The vast wave of migration, which in the past one hundred and forty-four years has brought 33,000,000 persons to these shores, has not come to an end; it has met only a temporary check.

AMERICANS SHOULD LOOK CLOSER HOME.

Sir Sam Hughes Introduces a Resolution Regarding U. S. Advice Regarding Ireland

Ottawa, May 28.—The action of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the United States House of Representatives in reporting a resolution expressing "grave concern" over the conditions in Ireland and the "sympathy with the aspirations of the Irish people to have a government of their own choice" has awakened some echoes in Ottawa.

Sir Sam Hughes has given notice of a long resolution to be placed upon the order paper of the House of Commons, which may be regarded as a suggestion to the legislators composing the Congress committee that they reform certain conditions in their own country before directing their attention to affairs in Ireland.

The proposed resolution conveys the impression that Irish tenants in the United States are subject to more stringent laws than tenants in Ireland, and urges that "some effective means be adopted to educate the citizens of the United States, and especially certain members of the United States Congress, to study their home concerns with a view to mitigating the horrible situation concerning the negro problem and such other problems requiring attention in that country."

The motion of the ex-Minister of Militia may not be reached before the close of this session of Parliament.

W. F. Cockshutt, of Brantford, made a passing reference to the United States' resolution in his speech in the Budget Debate yesterday. He said that when he read of certain United States Congressmen trying to tell Great Britain how to manage Ireland he thought of the outrages being perpetrated among the colored people of the Southern cities of the American Union, where men were being hanged and even burned without a trial.

TO LIMIT PROFITS OF RACING ASS'N

Amendments to the Criminal Code Proved Sliding Scale of Percentages

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Ottawa, May 28.—Profits of racing associations are limited, acording to the amount bet on each race, by a provision of the amendments to the Criminal Code introduced in the Commons this afternoon by Hon. C. J. Doherty.

These amendments provide that betting shall be by the parti-mutuel system only, and that profits of race-track owners shall be limited to seven per cent. of the amount bet on each race where the amount is under $20,000. On all amounts over $20,000 and under $30,000 the percentage is restricted to six per cent.

Amounts over $30,000 and under $40,000 to five per cent.

Over $40,000 and up to $50,000 four per cent. and all amounts over $50,000 three percent.

In each case the percentage of the racing club or association is to be gauged by the total amount of money bet on the race by the pari-mutuel system.

There is also a change in regard to the "breaks" which the association is allowed to retain. Provision is made for the racing association retaining the odd cents, which are less than any multible of five cents.

Pari-mutuel machines, operated under the new amendments, are to be inspected, approved and operated under supervision of government officials appointed by the Department of Agriculture.

There will be an official at each track to see that no bets are accepted after the horses come to the post in each race, when the machines must be locked, and in that way it is aimed to check any attempt at fraud. Racing associations are to pay the cost of such supervision.

All the present conditions regarding the operation of betting on race tracks with regard to the number of days of racing, etc., are continued in force, and the provisions that pari-mutuels alone shall be used, and that profits shall be restricted as above are added to the present regulations. No definite date is set for the bill coming into effect, but it is anticipated that it will be made law immediately on receiving the Royal Assent.

Further amendments to the Criminal Code, submitted by Mr. Doherty, extend the number of kinds of firearms, the carrying of which is forbidden; they provide for increasing the age of consent; they make it an offence for an unauthorized person to wear military or naval uniforms; they provide that a summons issued in one province for the appearance of a person in another shall be issued only under the authorization of the Attorney General of the province in which the summons is issued, and they provide for more severe penalties for keeping disorderly houses. In regard to the last named, a third offence must be punishable by imprisonment whether the person is the same or not.

First reading was given to three bills introduced by the Minister of Justice, amending the Penitentiary Act, the Admiralty Act and the Juvenile Delinquents' Act.

An extension of time of the remand which may be granted by a judge of the juvenile court is provided in the third measure and certain definitions are made for the application of juvenile delinquents' law.

The Minister of Justice announced that a proposed measure which has been on the order paper for some time to amend the Act respecting prison and reformatories in Nova Scotia is dropped.

On the Job

When the man at the head of a business is always on the job, keenly alive to business opportunities and the chance to do shrewd buying and profitable selling, he keys up every man in his employ. And the "Boss" must be prepared to act with swift decision on information supplied him.

As an example: A cargo of leather was recently lying at Halifax subject to forced sale. A traveller for Clark Bros., Ltd., St. Stephen, N. B., so informed the firm and as a result Mr. John F. Clark, general manager, paid a visit to Halifax. He bought the entire cargo far below the market price, shipped it to St. Stephen, then journeyed to Toronto, where he placed an order with ONE firm for $60,000 worth of shoes to be made from this happy purchase of leather.

We will be pleased to tell you more of this enterprising firm and of their new issue of eight per cent. preferred stock which we are undertaking to sell after a thorough investigation of the values, purpose, products and people behind the investment. Free from normal Income Tax and fully protected by insurance on lives of the principals.

HOW TO GAIN FLESH

The Remarkable Statement of Woman Who Was Nothing But Skin and Bones

You have heard the old adage, "Laugh and Grow Fat," but this woman tells of a more reliable method. She says: "I was nothing but skin and bones—was weak, nervous, rundown—could not sleep, and was unfit for work. Three doctors had failed to help me. One day I saw VINOL advertised and commenced to take it, and I really believe it saved my life. I have regained my strength, flesh and health, and everyone is so surprised to see such a change in me in such a short time."

The reason VINOL was so successful in this case is because it contains the tissue building and medicinal elements of cods' livers, aided by the blood making, strength creating properties of tonic iron, beef peptone and hypophosphites.

Thus in a natural manner it increases the appetite, aids digestion, enriches the blood with thousands of red corpuscles, and imparts strength, health and vitality to every organ, muscle and tissue of the body.

Physicians recommend it and druggists guarantee it.

FROM THE PEOPLE

PROHIBITION

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—In The Gleaner of May 11th is a letter signed Truth in which my name finds some prominence. I am afraid from the tone of the letter its writer's desire was to get a slap at Prohibition rather than to spread truth. There is a peculiar style and flavor about this letter and others appearing in The Gleaner which would seem to indicate a common parentage. That may account for the neglect of the writer to sign his name, as naturally that would kill the influence the writer seeks to exert. The sneers at Prohibition works and the innuendoes of the letter I am not caring to notice. Truth, commenting on the statement in the report of the Alliance Executive that "this province now enjoys the unenviable reputation of being the only one in the Dominion whose Legislature has refused to the people the opportunity to vote upon the question of real prohibition for rich and poor alike," says "that there is no man or woman who follows public events but knows this statement to be untrue."

The claim of Truth to wisdom and knowledge greater than that possessed by the members of the Alliance is hardly borne out by the facts. Some persons who have followed somewhat closely public events did not then know and do not now believe the Alliance's statement to be untrue. His belated information, gathered from a brief telegram in the Montreal Star, does not prove great knowledge of current events. This is the telegram on which he bases his claim that the Alliance published an untruth: "There was an Act providing for the referendum . . . The Prohibition party asked that provision be made to have this followed by a Dominion vote on the question of importation, but this request was turned down."

This quotation does not show that the British Columbia legislature refused the people the opportunity to vote on the question of importation and in itself is no justification for saying that the statements of the Alliance were untrue. At the time the paragraph was written we had information leading us to believe in the absolute truth of what we said. I have now before me a telegram from British Columbia which states that the Legislature of that province did not refuse the people the opportunity to vote upon the question of importation; in fact there was no vote taken in the Legislature upon it. So New Brunswick's unenviable position is still as the report states.

It doesn't say much for a writer who calls himself Truth and writes, "But what is to be said of the intelligence of an "executive" whose members themselves describe their own Act as a Prohibition Act, which is aimed at the poor only and does not affect the rich." Evidently Truth was in some doubt whether he was writing truth, for he asks, "What else is meant?"

If he had read the report itself, and not as he says The Gleaner's fragmentary report, he would have found the meaning abundantly clear. There is no paragraph in the report "describing their own Act as a Prohibition Act, which is aimed at the poor only and does not affect the rich," and when Truth wrote it he must have known, or might have known, his own statement to be altogether incorrect.

The Provincial law, when drafted, would have prohibited importation into the province if the power had been vested in the province instead of in the Dominion. When the order-in-council prohibiting importation was repealed, the Dominion government passed through the House of Commons an Act providing by statute what had been given before by order-in-council prohibiting importation, but the Senate refused to pass it. The Dominion government then passed legislation providing that on a resolution adopted by any local legislature asking if the Dominion would hold a referendum giving the people a chance to say for themselves what they wished. "This is what our Provincial Legislature, at its last session by a majority of four, refused to give us.

Real Prohibition, in our view, means the prohibition of the manufacture, importation and sale of alcoholic liquors for all beverage purposes, simply allowing it for manufacturing, medicinal and sacramental purposes. We think the privilege given under the Dominion law of a man being able to send to Montreal and stock his cellar at his leisure gives the rich man an advantage over the poor in the purchase of liquors.

When the request to the Legislature, made by the Alliance, is granted—and it will at no distant date assuredly be done—and the importation of liquors is prohibited, the rich and poor will stand exactly on the same level. Yours,

THOMAS MARSHALL.

BLAMES HER OWN SEX FOR WRONG?

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I agree with what your correspondent wrote in The People's Column about marriages being unhappy. In nine out of ten cases of divorce or separation I blame the woman, although I am one myself. Women of nowadays seem better fitted to parade the streets, all painted up and half dressed, rather than to stay at home to cook a good meal or darn her hubby's socks or sew or crochet.

I think my husband is the most perfect man in the world. But nevertheless I try always to keep him satisfied and contented. Why should I or any woman spoil a good man by nagging him or neglecting our home? A shiftless housewife is rightly disgusting and displeasing to the other sex.

Wake up, married women, who think you and your husbands are not suited to one another. Show him what a wonderful little wife he has. God will take care of the love ties if we do our share. My sincere sympathy is extended to your correspondent.

Yours,

E. G.

IS IT FUNDAMENTALLY WRONG

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—My husband, a salaried man, in the last year has made more than $500 extra by speculating. He makes a close study, for instance, of industrial conditions, and when he thinks the time is right he buys or sells a few shares of stock. Three times out of the last four of these ventures he made from $50 to $100. The fourth time he lost about $25. He also studies the races and baseball and occasionally makes a wager. On the whole, he is successful in these ventures also, and he never speculates with the home money or my allowance.

Is this practice fundamentally wrong? He says not, asserting that he studies for success and merely matches his wits against others.

What do your readers think?

Yours,

JANE.

BUILDING BOOM STRIKES THE WEST

It Is Estimated That $85,000,000 Will Be Spent This Year in Construction

Winnipeg, Man., May 28.—The 1920 building programme in western Canada, for which it is estimated $85,000,000 will be spent, includes the building of fifty new branch banks, 25 churches, 60 public garages, 10 hospitals, hotels and institutions, 10 mills and factories, three packing plants, eight power development schemes, Canadian Pacific Railway docks and station, technical school at Calgary, universities at Saskatoon and Edmonton, ten new ships at Vancouver and Victoria, and an irrigation scheme at Sumas Lake, B. C., which has already been commenced and which will reclaim a vast acreage of land, costing $2,000,000. These figures were given out by A. R. Whittemore, manager of the MacLean Daily Reports, Ltd., Toronto, on his return from a two months' tour of the west.

Speaking of building trade conditions, Mr. Whittemore declared that there is not much likelihood of prices in the trade coming down this year. He has figures to show that in the case of 15 basic building materials the prices have advanced 108 per cent. since 1914.

Manitoba's programme is well under way and it is expected that 800 houses, forty schools and ten warehouses, involving an expenditure of $25,000,000, will be erected. In Winnipeg and its environs 600 houses and 14 schools, costing approximately $4,500,000, will be erected, it is expected.

AUSTRIAN VANDALS ROBBING CHURCHES

Vienna, May 28.—Vandals and robbers have turned from plundering graveyards to robbing churches. Several famous Vienna edifices have been entered recently, among them the historic Mariahilf and Rochus churches, and robes and altar vessels of great value have been stolen. The police say there are about 40,000 persons in Vienna who may be classed as criminals.

They report 1,405 burglaries in the city in the last 90 days, with 965 arrests and the recovery of loot to the value of 60,000,000 crowns.

Why hens never lay half an egg!

The usual method of feeding mostly grain, makes yolks but not enough whites to complete the eggs. As the hen cannot lay these half-made eggs, she absorbs them back into her system. Missouri Experiment Station tests showed that 100 lbs. of wheat, corn, oats, barley and kaffir corn make (above bodily maintenance) an average of 224 yolks but only 154 whites. Based on data from the same experiments, Purina formulas produce, (above bodily maintenance) as follows:

Purina Chicken Chowder	182.05 "	282.55 "
Combined Ration	429.54 yolks	424.66 whites

Note the perfect balance of yolks and whites and the large number of each. This combination of Purina Feeds makes the maximum number of complete eggs, eggs a hen will lay. That's why we can absolutely guarantee

on Purina Chicken Chowder if fed with Purina Scratch Feed as directed. You take no risk.

RE-ORGANIZING OLD 73RD REGIMENT

All Members of Northumberland Regiment Have Had a War Record

[Chatham Commercial.]

The work of reorganizing the old 73rd Northumberland Regiment is progressing satisfactorily, though the appointment of several of the staff and other officers has not yet been completed. An officer's overseas record has figured to a large extent in the appointments to the permanent forces, and all who have so far been commissioned have rendered meritorious service overseas.

The staff, according to latest announcement, is as follows:

Officer Commanding—Lt.-Col. Cuthbert Donald, Upper Blackville.

Second in Command—Major N. A. McKay, Campbellton.

Adjutant—Capt. A. L. Barry, Newcastle.

Chaplain—Rev. Capt. Thomas Harrison, Black River.

Quartermaster—Capt. W. J. Duncan, Chatham.

Signalling Officer—Major G. A. Mowat, Campbellton.

Medical Officer—Major A. J. Losier, Chatham.

Company Commanders—Major H. S. Murray, Chatham; Major T. C. Creaghan, Newcastle; Major J. C. White, Bathurst; and Major G. A. Wallace, Campbellton.

Lt.-Col. Donald, who was second in command of the 73rd Regiment at the outbreak of the war, went overseas as junior major with the 55th N. B. Battalion, and served in France.

Major McKay enlisted with the 132nd Battalion and went to France with the 73rd Battalion.

Capt. Harrison rendered distinguished services as chaplain during the recent World War and is also a veteran of the Boer War.

Capt. Duncan went overseas with the 132nd Battalion and was for a long time quartermaster of the 2nd Division Reinforcing Depot at Etaples, France.

Major A. J. Losier went overseas early in the war. He was in charge of one of the most important Canadian Hospitals in France, and since his return has been medical officer for this district for returned soldiers.

Major White went overseas with the 132nd Battalion, but served with the 26th.

Major Wallace enlisted with the 55th and went to France with the 25th Nova Scotia Battalion.

Major Creaghan is another ex-55th officer. He was transferred to the 2nd Pioneers and later served with the Royal Air Force.

Major Murray was a lieutenant in the 73rd Regiment in pre-war days, and after serving with the Wireless Garrison at Newcastle, received an appointment with the 55th Battalion. He served in France with the 26th Battalion, and was decorated for bravery on the field. Since his return, he has been record officer for this district at Military Headquarters, No. 7, St. John.

ENGLISH CLOTH FOR GERMANY'S POLICE

Pan-Germans in a Rage at "Insulting" Contract—Cloth Will Be Khaki

Berlin, May 28.—Germany's "green boys," as the members of the military police force are popularly called in reference to the color of their uniform, are in the future going to wear English cloth, the government having placed an order for 700,000 metres to the value of about a million and a half marks, with a British textile firm. This fact was disclosed by the Vossische Zeitung, which accompanied the announcement with a violent denunciation of what it called "this absolutely incomprehensible circumstance." Later the Home Office issued a defence in which it stated pathetically:

"For nearly a year our officials have been trying to get clothing for the military police. They begged, implored, threatened and applied everywhere at the State and War Departments textile factories, all in vain. Many police are going about in rags, hundreds of others are doing duty in civilian clothing. After all these fruitless attempts we had to act before the whole organization for security was endangered."

Now, after the contract has been concluded, all sorts of people are coming forward saying they could have provided material at a lower price than the English offer, and the Pan-German press is in a rage. Die Post, for instance, describes the transaction as a crime to German industry and a scandal that cries to heaven.

A piquant detail is that the cloth coming from England is khaki, and will have to be dyed in Germany to the particular shade of green which the government considers goes best with the Prussian complexion.

DECLARE IN FAVOR OPEN SHOP POLICY

New York, May 28.—The citizens' transportation committee, recently organized to relieve the city's freight tie-up, made public last night its declaration of principles, which virtually is for an open shop policy in the port of New York. The committee took the attitude that "impartial services should be extended to all merchandise regardless of whether it has been worked upon or handled by union or non-union men."

TENANT STABBED THE OWNER'S WIFE

She Stops Blow When He Attacks Landlord In Quarrel Over Repairs

Haverstraw, May 28.—The age old dispute between landlord and tenant as to who should make repairs, and when they are needed, is responsible for the wounding of Mrs. John Roselle, wife of the owner of the two story house on Benson street, West Haverstraw, and the presence today of Samuel Penesse, tenant, in the county jail at New City, with three bullet wounds in his leg.

Penesse is charged with assault in the second degree. When he was being led limping from the taxicab in which he had been carried to the court on the outskirts of Haverstraw, last right, where he was to be arraigned on a charge of attacking Mr. Roselle with a pocketknife and wounding his wife instead, three Italians surrounded the prisoner and two policemen, and began firing off revolvers into the air.

Release Ordered.

Fearing that it was the prelude to an attempt to effect the rescue forcefully of Penesse one of the officers hastened ahead to the court and called by telephone to the Haverstraw police station for reserve forces. When they arrived in automobiles the Italians had fled

Judge Eckreyd ordered Penesse to be committed to the county jail, pending trial. Mrs. Roselle, it was said today at her home, where she is under the care of a physician, is in a critical condition. It is feared she may not live.

Penesse occupied the second floor of Roselle's home. Late last night, in answer to his tenant's request that he go up to examine certain places that needed repairs, Mr. Roselel and his wife went to Penesse's rooms. An argument started as to which of the two was responsible for the repairs needed. This quickly broadened out into a discussion of growing heat in regard to all questions of high rentals and the relations between tenants and landlords. As the argument waxed hot both men became excited and angry.

Pulls Out Knife.

Penesse reached into his pocket, pulled out an open knife and lunged at Roselle. But he struck Mrs. Roselle, for the latter had seen the movement before her husband and jumped betwen them to take the blow. The knife blade entered her side below the ribs. She fell to the floor unconscious. Roselle jumped at Penesse, who fled downstairs.

The cries of his father aroused John Roselle, Jr., who ran for the family revolver. As Penesse fled out the door John, Jr., let fly with all five chambers. Three of them lodged in Penesse's leg. Neighbors aroused by the firing summoned Dr. Sengstacken, of Stony Point, five miles distant, and notified the police. Penesse's arrest followed.

Today members of the Haverstraw police force were searching in vain for the youthful Roselle.

URGES EMBARGO ON SUGAR EXPORTS

U. S. Investigator Would Also Stop Sales to Non-Essential Industries

New York, May 28.—An immediate embargo on exportation of sugar and the stopping of sales to non essential industries in the United States is the only remedy for the present sugar shortage according to Armin W. Riley, chief investigator of the Flying Squadron of the Department of Justice. Mr. Riley sent a telegram to the office of Attorney-General Palmer in Washington today embodying the suggestion and for an embargo on exports and for control of supplies in this country.

Mr. Riley said that in the last four months 175,000 tons of sugar have been exported to Europe and vast amounts have been received here by confectioners and ice cream manufacturers. For several weeks agents of the department have been investigating the sugar situation in this city, as well as at other points throughout the country. Mr. Riley said he based his conclusion on evidence obtained by men operating under his direction. Besides the embargo on exports, he suggested that the Department of Justice at Washington be vested with power to stop sales to non essential industries.

A number of Mr. Riley's men have been calling on the refineries and warehouses in and around New York for statements of the actual amount of sugar in their possession. Similar work is being performed by federal agents throughout the United States. Mr. Riley said today that it is hoped soon to have a fairly accurate record of all the sugar in the United States.

MOUNTED POLICE PROTECT GROWERS

Detroit, Mich., May 28. — Reinforcements of state constabulary arrived in the Saginaw Valley today to aid in patrolling the section where night riders representing striking sugar beet growers are alleged to have burned five farm houses, dynamited quarters of farm laborers and destroyed farm implements worth many thousands of dollars during the past ten days.

Every farm in the district has been visited by officers of the state police urging the farmers to disregard the threats of the night riders. Notes containing threats against farmers who have agreed to grow and sell beets to the sugar refiners in this vicinity have been posted on gateposts and mail boxes near Hemlock. They read:

"Either quit planting sugar beets and cancel all contracts with refiners or your home will be burned, your cattle killed, your machinery destroyed and your wives and daughters 'fixed.' We will tolerate the presence of no strikebreakers in the Saginaw Valley."

Government investigation of the beet growers' war started in Detroit today when F. R. Hatheway, secretary of the Michigan Sugar Co., was called into consultation with Frank Murphy, assistant U. S. district attorney. Mr. Hatheway told Mr. Murphy of the cause of the trouble, which has sent parties of night riders through the valley and has brought state constabulary into action to check the activities of the riders.

Under the terms of the contract offered the beet growers and refused by the Michigan Beet Growers' Association, which is composed of the farmer "strikers," producers would get $28 a ton for their beets as compared to the $12.50 a ton of last year.

ADM. PLUNKETT ENDORSES SIMS

Asserts Navy Is Not Only Demobilized, but Almost Demoralized

Newport, R. I., May 28. — Rear Admiral Charles P. Plunkett, commander of a destroyer squadron, enlivened the graduation exercises of the Naval War College today by a brief address in which he asserted that the navy was not only demobilized but almost demoralized.

He endorsed views expressed by Rear Admiral Wm. S. Sims in his address as president of the college regarding the responsibility of naval officers and the great influence that their opinions unofficially expressed might exert upon the civilian population in war-time. Admiral Sims had said that in the late war this influence was detrimental because the opinions expressed were based on incomplete and even erroneous information.

Cannot Be Juggled.

"The navy," said Admiral Plunkett, "is not a thing to be played with and it cannot be juggled. We have got to rebuild it. The principles, as expressed by Admiral Sims, must be accepted, and the sooner they are accepted the better off the navy will be. There must be a perfect junction between the naval war college and the fleet, and I would urge that all officers who are destined for high command be sent to the war college not once but twice."

Admiral Sims in his address said that, barring a very few cases, "our navy personnel not only responded to all requirements, but exceeded our most sanguine expectations in the endurance, zeal and loyal initiative they displayed" in the world war.

"This applies," he added, "not only to the forces in the war zone, but to the navy in general, and particularly to the very intelligent and skilful handling of the transport services in effective co-operation with the forces abroad."

He urged the members of the class to explain to the officers under their command the great influence they might exert, "for good or for evil," upon the civil population in war-time.

"This is a matter," he said, "which concerns the people's confidence or lack of confidence in their military leaders. Much of this influence is exerted through the unofficial opinions expressed by officers to their civilian acquaintances, and by the reflection of these opinions in the press.

"That these opinions had a marked influence upon the conduct of the late war there can be no doubt, nor can there be any doubt that this influence was detrimental. It could hardly have been otherwise, because the great mass of such opinions must necessarily have been based upon incomplete information, and much even of this information was necessarily erroneous."

Misled by "Experts."

He said it was natural that some officers should have expressed opinions upon the conduct of the war when questioned by anxious relatives and friends and that these opinions later appeared "in many grotesquely mistaken editorials criticising the strategy and conduct" of the army and navy, "usually based upon the expressed authority of so-called 'experts'."

"I believe," he went on, "that few people know the extent to which public opinion was formed in this manner, or the extent to which such necessarily erroneous opinions actually influenced even many of the most important government officials, both in our country and in Allied countries."

Admiral Sims said that during the war he received many letters of criticism from "leading members of the government," naval officers and civilians.

"Without exception," he said, "they showed ignorance of the conditions governing the naval campaign."

He added that perhaps the most numerous and insistent of the critics "pointed out the crass stupidity of hunting and fighting enemy submarines in the open sea, rather than capturing and destroying their bases or blocking their egress therefrom." He said such criticisms "were easily refuted," but that the most disquieting feature was the number of letters from civilians "stating that such and such a naval officer had told them of the various fatal mistakes" being made in the conduct of the war.

"One regrettable result" of the erroneous information circulated, he said, was "the paying of many millions of insurance against losses at sea, bombardments of coast and even bombing of inland cities."

"One poor mother of a boy serving in the destroyer forces abroad wrote a tearful letter imploring me not to let her beloved son starve to death. She had been informed that the food supply was failing."

Admiral Sims said that all officers should be warned of the danger of such a condition and how it could have been averted or greatly minimized if each officer had realized that he did not have the necessary information to form a just opinion and had the courage when asked questions to say, "I don't know."

Interesting Figures on Work of Players in the Major Leagues

Chicago, May 29. — Jack Fournier, the former American Leaguer, now playing first base with the St. Louis Nationals, is on a batting rampage which promises to rival him to the front of the National League race. The big first baseman boosted his batting mark from .293 last week to .336 this week, according to averages including games of Wednesday released today.

Cy Williams, Philadelphia outfielder, also has made a spurt toward the top. Williams acquired an average of .320 as compared with .276 a week ago. In addition to his batting dash, Williams bagged his fourth circuit drive.

Max Carey, the speedy outfielder with Pittsburg, added three more stolen bases to his credit and is out in front among the base stealers with an even dozen.

Janvrin, St. Louis, .312.

Rice, of Washington, pulled away from his team-mate, Bobby Roth, in stolen bases and is showing the way in the American League with fourteen thefts. Roth has pilfered ten.

Ty Cobb, the Detroit star, who last week appeared to have struck his batting stride, suffered a slump and dropped from .277 to .252.

Babe Ruth's 1920 Home Run Record

Boston, May 29—Babe Ruth set his season's home run record at 10, by making two circuit drives at Fenway Park on Thursday. A year ago when on his way to his world's record of 29, Ruth did not make his third homer until Memorial Day. His record this year follows:

Date	Opposing pitcher and team
May 1	Pennock, Boston
May 2	Jones, Boston
May 11	Wilkinson, Chicago
May 11	Kerr, Chicago
May 12	Williams, Chicago
May 23	Weilman, St. Louis
May 25	Leonard, Detroit
May 26	Dauss, Detroit

May 27	Karr, Boston

Of the above pitchers, Jones, Wilkinson, Dauss and Karr are the only right-handers.

1920 Racing Plans Will Be Completed Next Week

The Maritime and Maine Circuit Programmes to Be Made Up

LATEST PLANS OF FOX STABLE

L. R. Seeley is Ready to Send His Stable Here For "Curtain Raiser".

The next week will, it is expected, see the entire racing programme of the Maritime and Maine Circuit completed and horsemen will then know exactly what classes they will have at practically all the meetings.

The new time allowance rules have made it difficult for some of the associations to make up their programmes, but meetings of the directors of most of the tracks which have not already announced their programmes are called for next week, and it will not be long before announcements will be made.

Next week will also furnish the first line on the stables which will actually make the complete campaign down the M. and M. line this year, as the entries for the stakes at the fall fairs at both Woodstock and St. Stephen close on June 1st. The fall stakes for the Fredericton Park Association's meeting in September will probably include six in number and will likely close the last week in June.

Frank Fox's Plans.

Latest word from Frank Fox, the veteran trainer who makes his headquarters at Combination Park, Boston, is that he will positively be in Fredericton with his horses for the "curtain raiser" meeting there on June 30th and July 1st, but his plans for shipping east were unsettled.

Until the new management of the Fredericton Park Association got into action his plans were complete to ship to Houlton, Me., about June 1st, and he had even gone so far as to arrange to make the shipment by express. However, now that it is possible to make the shipment all the way here by boat and incidentally because of the difficulty in securing a suitable car for shipment by express, it may be that the negotiations to have the horses come here will be successful after all.

A letter from Mr. Fox to the secretary of the Fredericton Park Association yesterday gave the number of horses in his stable as nine, including May Bird, 2.07¼; Alfred King, 2.13¼; Bannard, 2.15¼; Jimmie Forbes, 2.20¼; Klyo Todd, 2.21¼; Dan Murphy, 2.17¼; Neptune Boy, 2.23¼; the green pacer Carlotta the Great, by Peter the Great out of Mary Dillon, 2.06¼, and a three year old trotter.

Seeley Stable Coming.

Word also was received today that Len R. Seeley, the well known Fort Fairfield, Me., horseman, will bring his horses to Fredericton for the "curtain raiser" meeting on June 30th and July 1st, if satisfactory arrangements can be made for them to ship back to Aroostook county for the races at Caribou, Me., on July 5th. Mr. Seely will campaign three horses this season.—J. D. B.

Ruth W., 2.12 1-4, at St. Stephen

Ruth W., 2.12 1-4, a bay mare by Aldeen, which has been owned by J. W. Hall, of Edmundston, N. B., for some months, has joined the Keyes-McBride stable in training at the St. Stephen track.

This stable includes also Little Gillig, 2.14 1-4, eligible to the 2.21 class; Lucky Strike, 2.16 1-4, eligible to the 2.19 class; and Saskia (t), 2.16 1-4, eligible to the 2.19 trots. Four stables owned at St. Stephen, Milltown and Calais will be campaigned and Fred Southard's stable at Machias, Me., has six horses and efforts are being made to land a suitable free for all pacer.

Geers' Fish Story

THE FIRST OF A SERIES OF ARTICLES BY W. H. GOCHER, SECRETARY OF THE NATIONAL TROTTING ASSOCIATION, IN WHICH HE TELLS OF AN INTERESTING INCIDENT IN WHICH ED GEERS, THE FAMOUS VETERAN OF THE HARNESS TURF, WAS THE CENTRAL FIGURE.

The Gleaner publishes today the first of a series of articles written by W. H. Gocher, secretary of the National Trotting Association, who became familiarly known to many horsemen identified with the Maritime and Maine Circuit when he attended a meeting of the executive of the organization in Fredericton several months ago:

[By W. H. Gocher, Secretary of the National Trotting Association.]

In 1919, after the veteran driver, Ed Geers, returned from a vacation in Florida, he smothered the Memphis training camp with hints about tarpon fishing, alligators, and other fin and feather talk which is rarely heard on a race track. McMahon, Edman, and the other trainers accepted it gracefully until "Pop" began to repeat and pass around snap shots out of the old desk which his nephew, Robert Neil, has carted through the Grand Circuit for a dozen years.

Finally the members of the Knockers' Club held a caucus and decided that it must act in self defence. Edman was the only member who remained loyal to Geers, as he was too deaf to hear any of the stories without an ear trumpet.

One morning during the high water, while the club was in session on the bench near the track gate, some one suggested that it would be a good idea to take Geers fishing. As he did not fall in with it, a few of them began telling of the big catches which were being made by the town folk. This was continued until the old reinsman began asking questions. As the replies were satisfactory, he decided to make a trip one day when the track was wet.

McMahon secured a pole and line, while Edman brought a few pieces of pork from the cook house for bait. When the party arrived at the place selected, the pole was handed to Geers. A piece of pork was placed on the hook, which was large enough to haul in a small shark, and Ed was told to go to it.

The wind was blowing a gale and when Geers dodged behind a pile of lumber to light a cigar, Rash and McMahon slipped a big fish, which they brought with them, on the hook and dropped it in the water. Upon his return, Geers felt the weight on the line as soon as he lifted the pole, and landed the prize. The balance of the party made a rush for it, and after wrapping the fish in a rubber apron, stowed it away in the auto. As soon as this was done they were anxious to pull out and go to town. Geers, however, refused to leave and said that as the fish were biting it would be advisable to remain and get a few more. After walking along the bank for some distance he finally did get a bite and pulled in a big cat fish.

When it was landed "Pop" suggested that they go to town and have the fish cooked for dinner. Two or three of the others objected, but in due time all of them weer grouped around a table with Geers at the head of it. As the management of the restaurant was too busy to prepare and cook the fish Geers caught, the old veteran took a bill of fare and ordered a dinner in which green turtle soup, pompano, and a planked steak were given a place.

The race track appetite carried all of the guests through the different courses at top speed. When the coffee was coming Geers was paged. He went out and found a Marion, Ohio, man who had come to measure Dudette and Goldie Todd for their new sulkies. Getting into a car with him Geers started for the race track, leaving his friends to finish the meal.

After the finger bowls had been removed the waiter dropped a long bill on the table. He also looked for some one to grab it, and at the same time pass him a tip as big as Henry Ford left after he and Edison lunched at Hartford. Edman took a peep at it and said "Charge it to Geers." Rash suggested that McMahon add it to the account of one of Thompson's horses. When the waiter saw that every one was shy he called the manager. Each of them tried to explain what had happened, but "trust was dead" so far as that food emporium was concerned.

Before long it dawned on the party that "Pop" had put one over on them, and when the manager would not take the auto as security an assesment was made and the bill paid. The manager smiled when he heard the details, and on the strength of it asked the outfit to sample a special brand of cigar which had been received that morning. While they were being lit Geers called McMahon on the telephone and said: "Very sorry, Dick, I had to leave you all. Trade the fish for the dinner and bring me the change. It should be worth some money when food is so scarce and prices high."

WEIGHT FAKERS ARE NUMEROUS

More Than One Champion Does Not Belong in Division He Pretends to Lead

New York, May 28. — Because Joe Lynch insists upon trying to masquerade as a bantamweight when he really is a full fledged featherweight many New York fans took the long trip to Jersey City Monday night only to be disappointed. Lynch had signed to meet Pat Moore at 118 pounds in the afternoon. He was not within two pounds of that mark, so Moore very wisely refused to allow him to put something over and the bout was called off.

If Lynch scaled 119¼ at 3 o'clock he probably would have scaled at least 123 by fight time. The featherweight limit is 122 pounds and yet Lynch poses as a bantam!

This is merely one instance of what is going on all through the various divisions. Every class except the heavyweight needs to be revised, for about 50 per cent. do not belong.

When boxing begins in New York State every boxer should be made to register his weight when he takes out his license. That would give the sporting public a line on who is who in the various divisions. It goes without saying that some startling revelations would be made. It probably would result in a compete new set of champions for the lighter classes.

If Pete Herman, the bantam title holder, ever makes 116 pounds ringside he will surprise every one connected with the sport. When Herman makes weight at all he scales 118 in the afternoon and weighs about 120 by fight time. That is only two pounds less than the limit of the class above. It is obvious that a two pound difference between the classes is a joke.

Featherweight Champion Kilbane is the most unsportsmanlike of all the champions in this matter of weight. Kilbane recently took a forfeit from an opponent who weighed less than he did himself. It is Kilbane's habit to force his opponents to make weight while he comes in at catch weights, so that he always has a substantial advantage in that respect. However, Kilbane may be able to make 122 pounds if he trains hard enough. He did not grow much bigger as he grew older.

What Does Leonard Weigh?

It would be intensely interesting to see Lightweight Champion Benny Leonard on the scales. Leonard's poundage is a profound secret. Ever since he won the title it has been charged that he really belongs in the welterweight division. These charges have hurt Leonard's prestige greatly. If they are not true it would be the easiest matter in the world to refute them. All he would have to do is get on the scales in public the first time he trains for a fight. But he will not do that.

Back in 1916, when Leonard was a rather slimly built stripling, his weight was announced at 136 pounds for one of his bouts with Johnny Dundee. Since then he has filled out to such an extent that he now possesses the back and shoulders of a middleweight. Leonard always did have rather heavy legs and they have grown in proportion to the rest of his body. What he actually does weigh is, of course, merely a matter of guesswork. Some of his closest friends say he cannot make 142 pounds, no matter how hard he trains. He certainly looks like a 145 pounder.

It isn't always a compliment to the baby to say it looks like its parents.

ENGLAND GASPING AT BATHING SUITS

Futurist Costumes Streaks of Crazy Colors and Designs

Life on England's sandy shores this summer promises to be just one gasp after another.

Bathing costumes unbelievable are beginning to glare upon a startled public from the "exclusive" London store windows. A recent exhibition of women's wear included a collection of weird and wonderful creations for the modern mermaid.

Futurists are catered to by costumes slashed helter-skelter with streaks of crazy color rioting regardless of blend or design.

Dixmer, on placing himself at table, to his guests for the admission of a stranger into their little circle. He acquitted himself like an artless man, one accustomed to deceit; but the guests, as it seemed, were not difficult on this point; for, notwithstanding the awkwardness displayed by this manufacturer of hides in the introduction of the young man, they all appeared perfectly satisfied.

Maurice regarded him with astonishment.

"Upon my honor," said he to himself, "I shall really soon think that I myself am deceived. Is this the same man who, with flaming eyes and furious voice, pursued me gun in hand, and absolutely wished to kill me, three quarters of an hour since? At this moment one might take him for a hero rather than an assassin. Mon dieu! how the love of hides transforms a man." While making these observations Maurice experienced a strange feeling of joy and grief, and felt unable to analyse his own emotions. He at length found himself near his beautiful Unknown, whom he had so ardently sought. As he had dreamed, she bore a charming name; he was intoxicated with the happiness of finding himself at her side; he drank in every word; and at each sound of her voice the most secret chord of his heart vibrated, but he was deeply wounded by all he saw. Genevieve was exactly what he had pictured her; the dream of a stormy night reality had not destroyed. Here was an elegant woman, of refined mind and superior education, affording another instance of what had so frequently occurred during the latter years preceding this present celebrated year 93. Here was a young woman of distinction compelled, from the utter ruin into which the nobility had fallen, to ally herself to a commoner and a trusty man. Dixmer appeared a brave man. He was incontestably rich, and his manners to Genevieve were those of a man uniting every endeavor to render a woman happy.

But could kindness, riches, or excellent intentions compensate her for what she had sacrificed, or remove the immense distance existing between husband wife, between a poetical, distinguished, charming girl, and a vulgar-looking tradesman? Alas! Maurice now guessed too well. With love! And he therefore return to his first opinion of the young woman, influenced by appearances on the evening of their meeting, that she was returning from some rendez-vous d'amour.

The idea of Genevieve loving any one was torture to Maurice. He sighed, and deeply regretted having exposed himself to the temptation of imbibing a still larger dose of that poison termed love. At other moments, while lisening to that ductile voice, so soft and harmonious, examining that pure and open countenance, evincing no fear that he should read every secret of her soul, he arrived at the conclusion that it was utterly impossible that this matchless creature would descend to deceit; and then he found a bitter pleasure in remembering this lovely woman belonged solely to this good citizen, with his honest smile and vulgar pleasantries, and would never be to him more than a passing acquaintance.

They conversed of course on politics. How could it be otherwise at an epoch when politics were mixed up in everything. Political subjects were even painted on the plates, political designs covered the walls, and politics were daily proclaimed in the streets. All at once, one of the guests who had hitherto preserved silence, inquired concerning the prisoners of the Temple.

Maurice started, in spite of himself. He had recognized the voice of that man, a strenuous advocate for extreme measures, who had first struck him with his dagger, and then advocated his death. Nevertheless, this man, an honest tanner, and head of the manufactor, at least so Dixmer represented him, incited the good humor of Maurice by the expression of ideas the most patriotic, and principles the most revolutionary. The young man, under certain circumstances, was not inimical to these extreme measures, so much in fashion at this period, of which Danton was the apostle and hero. In this man's place, whose voice he had heard, and from the effect of whose weapon his wound was still smarting, he would not have attempted to assassinate the man he imagined to be a spy, but would rather have locked him in the garden, and there, equaly armed, sword to sword, have fought without mercy, without pity. This is what Maurice would have done; but he comprehended soon that this was too much to expect of a journeyman tanner. This man of extreme measures, who appeared to possess in his political ideas the same violent system as in hi private conduct ,then spoke of the Temple and expressed surprise that the prisoners were confided to the guardianship of a permanent council liable to be corrupted, and to municipals whose fidelity had already been more than once tempted.

"Yes," said the Citizen Morand, "but it must be remembered that on every occasion, up to the present time, the municipals have fully justified the confidence reposed in them by the nation, and history will record it is not only Robespierre who merits the title of 'incorruptible.'"

"Without doubt, without doubt," replied the interlocutor; "but, because a thing has not yet happened, it would be absurd to suppose it never can happen. As for the National Guard," continued the principal of the manufactory, "well, the companies of the different sections are assembled, each in their turn, on duty at the Temple, and that indifferently. Will you not admit that there might be, in a company of twenty or five-and-twenty men, a band of seven or eight determined characters, who one fine night slaughter the sentinels and carry off the prisoners?"

"Bah!" said Maurice; "you see, citizen ,this would be a foolish expedient. It would occupy them three weeks or a month, and then they might not succeed."

"Yes," replied Morand; "because one of those aristocrats who composed the patrolle had the impudence in speaking to let fall the word monsieur, I do not know to whom."

"And then," said Maurice, who wished to prove that the police of the Republic did their duty, "because the entrance of the Chevalier de Maison Rouge into Paris was already known—"

"Bah!" cried Dixmer.

"They knew that Maison Rouge had entered Paris?" wildly demanded Morand; "and did they know by what means he entered?"

"Perfectly."

"Ah! diable!" said Morand, leaning forward to look at Maurice. "I should be curious to know that, as up to the present moment no one can speak positively. But you, citizen, you, secretary to one of the principal sections in Paris, ought to be better informed."

"Doubtles; therefore, what I am about to tell you is the true statement of facts."

All the guests and Genevieve appeared prepared to pay the greatest attention to this recital.

"Well," said Maurice, "the Chevalier de Maison Rouge came from Vendee; as it appears, he had traversed all France with his usual good fortune. Arrived during the day at La Barriere du Roule, he waited till nine o'clock at night. At that hour a woman, disguised as a woman of the people, went out from the barriere, carrying to the chevalier a costume of chasseur of the National Guard. Ten minutes afterwards she re entered with him; but the sentinel, who had seen her go out alone, felt rather suspicious when he saw her return with a companion. An alarm was given at the post, the post turned out, when the two culprits, knowing whom they were seeking, flung themselves into an hotel where a second door opened into Les Champs Elysees.

HAREM GIRL TO BE AMERICAN BRIDE

New York, May 2?.—Anna Scherbetgjin, an Armenian girl, who spent six years in a Turkish harem, was released from Ellis Island today and will go to Philadelphia to be married to Tampizoom Pevekelian, whom she has never seen.

The girl arrived in America two weeks ago, but was held by the immigration authorities for deportation. Several Armenian societies, however, obtained her release under a $500 bond furnished by Pevekelian, who is a rug dealer.

Her marriage will admit her to citizenship, nullifying the temporary order and allowing her to remain in America.

SERIOUS FIRES ON INTERNATIONAL RAILWAY TODAY

Hazen and Grimmer Settlements Are Declared to Be in Danger

FIRE AT GLENNIE HAS GOT BEYOND CONTROL

Over 700 Men Now Engaged in Fighting Fires in This Province

The forest fire situation in New Brunswick took on a more serious aspect this morning with the receipt of a report at the Department of Lands and Mines that serious fires are raging at Hazen and Grimmer settlements on the International Railway in Restigouche county, and that the fire at Glennie, Sunbury county, on the Gibson & Minto Railway, had got beyond control, requiring the despatch of a larger crew of fire fighters there.

The despatch with the information respecting the fires on the International Railway said that fires which had been raging on the Upsalquitch, near the Quebec border, had been extinguished and that large crews of men were being rushed to the new fires in a desperate effort to save the two settlements named.

Several new fires were reported to the Department yesterday afternoon, one of these being near Gaspereau Settlement. No details have yet been received of the fire and the fire warden of that section, Ranger Boyce, was sent to the scene. The fire at McGivney Junction, upon which 80 men were working and which covered an area of two and a half miles, mostly on the lands of the Nashwaak Pulp & Paper Company, was reported under control late yesterday afternoon. Fires were reported yesterday afternoon from the neighborhood of Tracadie and from the Southwest Miramichi section, but as yet no details have been learned from these.

It is estimated by the department that over 700 men are at present engaged in fighting the fires in the various sections. The damage done by forest fires throughout the province has not been very heavy up to date because nearly all the fires have been on burned over lands. The largest damage caused was by the fire in the Taxis River district, which covered an area of over 1,500 acres. In all, about one hundred and fifty fires have been reported this season. The number of forest fires reported last year to the Department of Lands and Mines was 409, covering an acreage of 11,557 acres with an estimated damage of $139,754, of which the Kedgewick fire was charged with $120,000.

FARM LABORERS STRIKE

Operations at the Dominion Experimental Farm here have been held up somewhat recently by a strike of the laborers employed at the farm. They demanded 40 cents an hour and when Superintendent W. W. Hubbard informed them that 37½ cents an hour was the utmost he was authorized to pay, they went on strike.

Some few have since returned to work at the latter price, but the majority have not resumed their positions. In some cases new men have been employed, but the strike has somewhat delayed the work at the farm at an important season.

Not so long ago jobs at the Experimental Farm were much sought after; but times have changed.

APPLE CROP SAID TO BE THREATENED BY CATERPILLARS

But If Pest Is Overcome and Early June Frosts Escaped, Big Crop is Expected

BLOSSOMS IN GREAT PROFUSION ALREADY

Horticulturist Tells How the Orchardists Can Destroy the Troublesome Insects

New Brunswick's apple crop for 1920 is threatened with damage from the apple tent caterpillar, but if this can be overcome and early June frosts are escaped, more than an average yield of apples in this province this year is anticipated.

Provincial Horticulturist A. G. Turney declared this morning that the new menace was reported in larger quantities than usual this year and promises to cause considerable defoliation of the leaves and other damage unless it is checked.

Otherwise, however, the amount and excellent condition of the apple blossoms in the orchards of the province indicate an exceptionally good crop. The blossoms of the Dudley Winter, Duchess, Fameuse, McIntosh, Milwaukee and Wealthy varieties are already out and those of the other varieties will be out in a few days, thus necessitating early precautions against the pest, if the crop is to be saved.

The apple tent caterpillar is distinguished from the forest tent in that the former has a broken white stripe down its back while the latter has a row of white spots, according to an official circular on the subject which has just been issued by the Provincial Horticulturist. This letter also gives the following additional information:

"The apple tent caterpillar spins a true tent or web, and can by this feature be easily distinguished from the more destructive forest tent. Within the tent the caterpillars spend the nights and stormy days. With this exception and the fact that the apple tent does not feed on forest trees, the

Bolshevik Have Occupied Important Port of Resht, Situated on Caspian Sea

The Soviet Government is Spreding Its Web About Persia

BOLSHEVIK IN CONTROL AT BAKU

Foreigners There, Including British, Have Been Imprisoned.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Constantinople, May 31.—Resht, an important city in Persia, sixteen miles southeast of Enzeli, the most important Caspian seaport of that county, and about 150 miles. northwest of Teheran, has been occupied by Russian Bolshevik troops, according to advices received by the Persian legation here.

BOLSHEVIK IMPRISON FOREIGNERS AT BAKU

Paris, May 31.—A despatch to the Temps from Tiflis, Trans-Caucasia, says the soviet at Baku have been removed from power by the Bolshevik emissary Pankratof, who was sent from Moscow. The despatch adds that foreigners at Baku, particularly British, have been imprisoned or detained.

The petroleum industry has been organized on a large scale in Astrakan in order to supply soviet Russia by way of the Volga river.

The despatch says that no Bolshevik attacks on Georgia or Armenia have been recorded.

$500,000 RAID ON THE TREASURY

Report That Government Has Capitulated to Demand for Increased Indemnity

Ottawa, May 31.—The majority of the commoners in Ottawa appear more interested in the sessional gratuity than in the budget. Certain government members claim that the leaders of the two opposition parties have agreed with the government not to oppose the $500,000 raid on the treasury. There is a marked change in the attitude of government supporters. Some left for home last Friday week after declaring they would not return for the budget division without the promise of the increased indemnity. They came back again and will be here for the vote, so the conclusion is that the government has yielded to the insurgents holdup for more pay.

CALGARY VETS ARE AGAINST UNIONISTS

Calgary, May 31.—Veterans of Calgary, meeting yesterday, endorsed the stand of the Dominion branch president, favoring dissolution of the present parliament and resignation of the Government, and have appointed a local committee to work in conjunction with the Farmers, Labor and Liberal parties to bring this about, if possible.

Melbourne, May 31.—Reports have been received here that a prospector has discovered a large body of oil shale east of the Kimberley gold fields in western Australia.

Paris Communists Parade Streets in Great Numbers in Celebration of the 49th Anniversary of French Commune

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

PARIS, May 31.—A Communist parade yesterday that took three hours to pass a given point, was held to celebrate the forty-ninth anniversary of the French commune. Veterans of the commune and various communistic societies participated, marching past the famous wall of the Pere Lachaise cemetery, against which many communists of 1871 were lined up and executed.

Beside the wall stood the leaders and the paraders as they went by shouted: "Long live the commune," and "Down with war."

They placed flowers and wreaths before the wall in memory of those executed there and elsewhere in Paris after the commune had been put down.

Declare Soviet Government Would Fall Within Six Months If the Blockade Maintained

British Press Criticize the Coming Conference With Soviet on Trade Matters

VAST RUSSIAN SUPPLIES DECLARED A MYTH

The Russian Government Willing to Pay in Gold for Railway Supplies and Stock

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

London, May 31.—Gregory Krassin, the Russian Soviety Minister for Trade and Commerce, and his fellow commissaries, now in London, have remained men of mystery thus far during their visit here. They are secluded in a quiet hotel, frequented chiefly by business men from the provinces, and in accordance with the conditions arranged previous to their coming they are refusing to see newspapermen, or even representatives of the business world who wish information or desire to present plans for trade with Russia.

The London newspapers, which are against any negotiations with the soviet government, are continuing to protest against the admission of Krassin and his collaborators and against the proposal for a meeting between them and Premier Lloyd-George, and Lord Curzon, the Foreign Secretary.

These newspapers are making a great deal of the prediction recently made by Rev. F. W. North, Chaplain of the English Church in Moscow who, on his return from Russia declared that the soviet government would fall within six months if the blockade were maintained.

All the talk of what the plans for trade are that the Russians brought with them is in the realm of gossip. One point, however, appears to be accepted, and that is that there is little expectation that Europe can secure large quantities of supplies from Russia within any time in the near future. It is pointed out that the great work of restroing the Russian railways must precede any opening of trade on a large scale. Rolling stock and railway supplies are Russia's first need, and apparently will be the object of the first negotiations.

For these supplies, it is believed, the Russian delegates propose to pay with gold from the Russian state banks. Some of the newspapers characterize this as "stolen goods," and declare that to accept it would be recognition of the soviet as the legitimate government of Russia.

The Englishmen who came from Russia with Chaplain North's party express skepticism regarding the existence of quantities of grain and other supplies within the soviet domain. They declare that great stocks of grain in Russia have spoiled and that vast numbers of hides have rotted because of the lack of materials and facilities for tanning them.

American Firms Are After Russian Trade

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, May 31.—A wireless despatch from Moscow says that sixteen New York firms and several firms from other cities in the United States have requested the Russian soviet Government immediately to resume trade relations with them.

CANADIAN TRADE WITH RUSSIANS

Sir George Foster Points Out No Embargo in Canada on Trade With Russia

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Ottawa, May 31.—Whether or not trade relations will be reestablished between Canada and Russia will probably depend to a great extent on the result of the conference between the Bolshevist commercial commission and representatives of the supreme economic council, in London, news of which was received recently.

When asked with regard to the attitude of the Canadian Government on the matter, Sir George Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce, stated last night that Canada still retained a trade commisisoner in southwestern Russia. The other Canadian Trade Commissioners had been withdrawn owing to the disturbed state of the country, but he pointed out that there was no embargo on trade with Russia, should Canadians desire to engage in it.

It is questionable, however, whether trade between Canada and Russia could develop to any degree, unless the soviet government is willing to give the undertakings demanded by the British government and the supreme council of the Allies. These stipulate that the attitude of hostility against the Allies must cease and that the Bolshevists must refrain from military expeditions outside the borders of Russia.

Sir George stated that Canada's interests in the matter of trade with Russia would be taken care of, just as those of the rest of the Empire, at the London conference.

HUN OFFICERS TAKE OATH

VILLAGES AND TOWNS ARE IN DANGER AGAIN

"Whole Forest Is Ablaze," Said Message at Noon From Up The Tobique

J. D. McLAUGHLIN'S MILLS AT FIVE FINGERS BURNS

Pile of $100,000 Worth of Pulpwood on International Railway Saved

Fresh winds which have sprung up this morning have again fanned the forest fires that have been raging throughout New Brunswick to renewed fury.

Numerous settlements, villages and towns are once more menaced, and unless there is a heavy rainfall at an early date there is no telling where the fires will stop, and under present conditions they will soon be beyond control.

The most serious new loss reported this morning was the destruction of J. D. McLaughlin's lumber mill at Five Fingers, a short distance from St. Quentin. The mill was situated about a mile from Five Fingers village, and the flames were stayed before the village had been reached. Mr. McLaughlin's loss is said to be not less than $40,000, while the insurance is not over 50 per cent.

A telephone message to The Gleaner at noon today from Three Brooks, well up in the Tobique woods, was to the effect that fresh winds had started this morning, had awakened the old fires and, the message stated, "the whole forest is ablaze." At noon the fire was about half a mile to Three Brooks, where Mr. McLaughlin has another mill, and the settlement was regarded to be in serious danger.

On the International.

Families who were forced to flee from St. Quentin when the flames swept down from the forests upon the little lumbering town on the International Railway, have scattered to Campbellton, St. Leonards and various other places, but it is believed most of them will return to the stricken town as soon as the present menace has passed. The C. N. R. management have started to build a temporary station there, are getting their telegraph line, fifty poles of which had been burned, repaired again and were able to run through trains over the International division again today. Reports received at the C. N. R. offices at Campbellton today were that the fires along the International division were under control and that a pile of 5,800 cords of pulpwood stored at Collins' siding and worth about $100,000 had not been destroyed, although a desperate fight had been necessary to save it. Peters' siding on the international, near St. Quentin, is reported to have been burned.

Rainfall in May Third of Average

Aside from a slight mist on May 21st—ten days ago—there has been no rain here since May 10th, just three weeks ago.

The total rainfall for the month up to noon today had been 1.44 inches, according to the records at the Dominion Meteorological Station at the University of New Brunswick, while the total rainfall for the month of May, 1919, was 5.28 inches and in May, 1918, it was 2.70 inches, while the average rainfall in May for the past forty-six years is 3.31 inches.

TO REORGANIZE COLONIAL OFFICE

Dominions Overseas to Enter Highest Council of Empire on Equal Footing

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

London, May 31—The Daily Express says that the colonial office is to be reorganized and the Dominions in future will deal solely with the Privy Council, of which Mr. Balfour is Lord President.

The Express adds: "The sister nations overseas will enter the highest council of the Empire on equal footing with the mother state. Their High Commissioners in London will become Ambassadors and members of the family council of the race."

This announcement has not been confirmed in any other quarter and the Dominion representatives have had no information concerning it.

U. S. Business Reviews

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

WASHINGTON, May 31—Despite recent reductions in prices, little relief from the general reign of high prices is seen by the Federal Reserve Board in its analysis of May business conditions, made public last night. The board expressed the view that there has been no change in the underlying conditions responsible for the high cost of living.

Asserting that while "store sales" and a tendency to lower prices bears witness to the presence of "disturbing factors," which suggest the advent of wide alteration in price levels, the Board declars it cannot accept the situation as a whole at its face value.

The explanation is added that there has been only a slight increase in production and there is no greater disposition on the part of the general public to economize and invest than had ruled heretofore.

SAY TURKS DARE NOT SIGN TREATY

The Grand Vizier Drafting Representations Regarding Thrace and Smyrna

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Constantinople, May 31—The full text of the Turkish treaty is expected to reach Constantinople within two or three days. In the meantime the Turkish papers are making clear their view that no government dare sign the treaty without modifications.

Damad Ferdid Pasha, Grand Vizier, is busily engaged in drafting representations asking that the provisions relating to Thrace and Smyrna be altered, as well as the capitulation provisions.

It is generally believed here that failure of the Turks to sign would result in a movement of Greek forces from Smyrna toward the interior of Anatolia.

The Nationalist leaders at Angora have repeatedly declared that should the Greeks move eastward from Smyrna, they could not guarantee protection to Christians anywhere in Anatolia.

HUN MILITARISTS ORGANIZE COUP

Revolutionary Movement Said to Be Under Leadership of Prince August William

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Berlin, May 31.—A newspaper of Frankfort-on-the-Oder learns that the military party there is organizing an anti-republican coup for June 5 or 6, when it is intended to prevent the elections. The action has been carefully prepared, according to the paper, and will be carried out under the leadership of four generals. Twenty-three hundred officers in the uniforms of private soldiers have been fully equipped as a Frankfort assault detachment.

The capture of Berlin will be conducted from Pomerania, with Greifswald as the base of operations. It is hoped to prevent a repetition of the general strike by arresting the most important labor leaders. Hanover will be the center for the coup in central Germany.

A London despatch says that rumors of an impending revolt are steadily growing in Berlin, and there are indications the headquarters of the new revolutionary movement are at Potsdam, where Prince August William, is staying. He is regarded as the leader of the military party, says a despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

Advices from Doorn, where the former Emperor is now living, declare William Hohenzollern is in high hopes of a successful coup, and believes he will once more become ruler of the German Empire, the despatch says.

STEAM PIPE BURST UNDER PAVEMENT

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York, May 31.—Explosion of a steam pipe beneath the pavement in Fifth avenue, near 58th street, last night, shook buildings in the neighborhood, causing rumors of an earthquake, drenched hundreds of passing pedestrians and automobolists and resulted in a call for police reserves and firemen. The explosion tore a hole in the pavement through which a stream of steam, stones and debris shot several score of feet into the air. Traffic through the avenue was blocked for two hours before the steam was shut off.

FORCED POLICE TO RELEASE PRISONER

Mob at Windsor, Ont., Surround Jail and Compel Release of Returned Soldier

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Windsor, Ont., May 31.—A mob of between four and five hundred men, made up of returned soldiers and civilians, surrounded the city hall, where the police headquarters is located, on Saturday night, and demanded the release of Fred McLean, a returned man, who had been arrested a short time previously by police constable Murray for being drunk and disorderly.

At first the police refused to give him up, but later the mob smashed many windows and became so threatening that the cell was unlocked and McLean turned loose.

Later several of the men who had assisted in McLean's release called at the home of Constable Murray and demanded to see him, but the officer's wife stood at the door with a revolver in her hand and pluckily ordered the men off, declaring she would shoot the first one who attempted to enter her home.

A special meeting of the police commission has been called for today to investigate the affair, which the authorities declare was the result of an agitation by a rum-runner, who had been recently arested and heavily fined.

U. S. PUBLISHERS ON PULPWOOD MATTER

Have No Sympathy With the Proposed Retaliatory Move by American Government

Montreal, May 31.—On his way to Boston from Chicago with a party of eighty editors of American newspapers, where they were to attend the 35th annual convention of the Editorial Association of the United States, Will Wilkie, Vice President and future President of the Association, said that "this proposition to put an embargo on United States coal to Canada if the Canadian provinces do not raise their embargo on the export of pulp wood is simply a matter for politicians.

"The American publishers do not want it. What we want is a commission to meet with the Canadian Commerce Board and discuss the situation intelligently."

The party which represents 112 American newspapers will spend 24 days in eastern Canada, visiting all the principal points in the Maritime Provinces, Quebec and Ontario, and will visit pulp and paper plants.

BOSTON NEGRO CONVICT IS IN PRISON AGAIN

SERVING LONG SENTENCE FOR CRIMINAL ASSAULT

Made Their Escape by Use of a Master Key and Then by Way of Ventilator Shaft

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Boston, Mass, May 31—Charles Ward, a negro convict, who escaped with two other men from the state prison on the night of May 25, returned voluntarily to the prison last night and gave himself up to the Warden.

Ward, who was serving a sentence of from 35 to 50 years for criminal assault, escaped in company with Herbert L. Barney, who was serving a sentence of from 15 to 20 years, and Harry Mansler, who was serving a life sentence, both for murder.

The men made their escape by the use of a master key, which, it is believed, was made by Ward, who with the key unlocked their cells. They then ascended a ventilator shaft on a rope and strips of blanket, crossed the prison chapel roof, descended the walls and entered a waiting touring car.

No definite trace was secured of them and reports of their whereabouts varied from this city to Canada.

Rewards totalling more than $3,000 were offered for their apprehension, Governor Coolidge offering $1,000 for each man, and Warden Shattuck one hundred dollars.

Man Hunt for Escaped Convicts

Boston, Mass., May 31—With one of the three convicts who figured in the escape from the state prison last Tuesday night again behind its bars, the police and prison officials today had high hopes of apprehending the other two fugitives. Their net was extended to the Canadian border at points in Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine, toward which they said they had reason to believe the men were heading. The orders were virtually to shoot on sight.

Charles Ward, who surrendered himself at the prison last night, said he had not seen either of the men since they fled the prison. He gave himself up, he said, at his mother's plea, and because he knew it would break her heart if he continued long the object of a man hunt.

He said he had not left Boston at any time since the escape and he had passed scores of police officers at various times, entered and left the house of his mother, which was under strong guard, and had to declare his identity to get into the prison.

The escape, Ward said, had been planned for eight months. He made the master key and the blanket rope which were used to gain release.

There was no automobile awaiting the men and they had no outside aid, he said.

NEW FIRES ON THE INTERNATIONAL

Forest Fires in Nova Scotia Do Immense Damage and Sweep Down on Defenseless Towns

About Fifty Buildings Destroyed at the Town of Londonderry, at an Estimated Loss of $150,000—Heroic Work of Firemen Saves Town of New Waterford

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Halifax, N. S., May 31.—Forest fires are still raging in different sections of the province, and while there is no great danger, the situation is still serious in some districts.

Yesterday morning the fighters succeeded in getting the fire at Selma, which is seven miles west of Maitland Centre, under control, but in the afternoon the strong wind caused the flames to gain headway rapidly. The fire burned throughout the night and the village is still menaced.

It was reported yesterday that the fire, which is raging about one mile and a half from Maitland Centre, had destroyed about $10,000 worth of property.

It was reported to be nearing South Maitland, which is five miles from Maitland Centre.

About noon today word was received that the fire near Burton, on the Midland Railway, had broken out again and was rapidly gaining headway. Yesterday afternoon a fire was discovered near Indian river, at the head of St. Margaret's Bay, about 22 miles from Halifax. Fire Warden Christie and some men from the Lewis Miller Company's mill at Ingramport succeeded in getting it under control by eight o'clock last night. It started near the main road and was driven by a high wind toward St. Margaret's Bay. Had it not been fought at once it would have had done much damage. A large area was destroyed before the fire was got under control.

$150,000 Loss at Londonderry.

Londonderry, N. S., May 31.—The property loss in the fire which destroyed a portion of this town yesterday is estimated at $150,000. Forty-eight buildings, including four churches, were burned. The other buildings destroyed were dwellings. Forty out of about two hundred and fifty families in the town are homeless.

The situation is a serious one for Londonderry and it has been decided to make a general appeal to the public for financial relief. It will be necessary to rebuild several of the churches, the schoolhouse and a number of the dwellings. A relief committee has been formed with Dr. R. L. Shatford as chairman, Howard Mills as secretary-treasurer and the following executive: G. R. Smith, A. A. MacLeod, R. E. Richards, J. A. MacLennan, E. A. Phillips, Walter Angevine and Samuel Fields.

Many communities and private citizens are offering aid. Particularly early offers came from Truro, Amherst, New Glasgow and other Colchester, Cumberland and Pictou points.

Although a large quantity of provisions and other life essentials were destroyed, there is no serious shortage of food. The Red Cross Society at Truro has undertaken to supply all local wants in this connection. It is not food but money that Londonderry needs, and Chairman Shatford asks that the public give assistance. Since the cessation of the operation of the Acadia Iron Mines, Londonderry has lost much of its prosperity and the fire yesterday has been a real disaster for the town.

The people rendered homeless by the conflagration are being sheltered by their more fortunate neighbors. The town is quiet after the excitement of yesterday, but the people are grief-stricken over their loss.

Fifty Two Buildings Lestroyed.

Halifax, N. S., May 31.—Major J. P. Edwards, of the Income Tax Department, and at one time manager of the Acadia Iron Mines at Londonderry, was in Londonderry yesterday and witnessed the disastrous fire which swept the town.

Major Edwards placed the number of buildings destroyed at fifty two. He vividly described the course of the fire as it swept through the main portion of the town, devouring everything within its path, and the heroic but futile efforts of the residents to save the property.

At first all concentrated at the scene of the origin of the fire, but as the blaze swept on, it became a question of everyone saving whatever they could of their personal effects. As it was Sunday morning, many of the residents were sleeping later than usual and lost time in getting to the assistance of others.

So quickly did the flames advance that the people seeing the hopelessness of trying to save their houses, devoted their efforts to saving their effects. In many cases, said Major Edwards, so excited were many of the people that they grasped the first articles to come within their reach, while bedding, food and other necessities were allowed to remain in the houses and were destroyed. A few saved articles that were of need and piled them in spots some distance from the fire, but these were quickly caught by flying sparks and consumed.

Old people, dazed and almost helpless, had to be assisted from the scene of the conflagration, while several people who had been ill in bed were carried from their homes.

Many of the houses destroyed, Major Edwards said, were the property of the Londonderry Iron and Mining Company.

Extinguish Fire at Aylesford Lake

Kentville, N. S., May 31—Forest fires which have been raging around Aylesford Lakes and Gaspereau Lakes are extinguished; also those at Blue Mountain and Forest Home. Men are still at Aylesford Lakes on guard as everything is so dry there is great danger of this fire coming up again. The bungalows at Aylesford Lakes have been in danger. It is stated that the fires were caused by campers on Victoria Day.

Removing Their Valuables

Halifax, N. S., May 31—Fire which has been burning between the Preston and Waverley roads, Halifax county, for the past four days, and which yesterday was within three miles of the Dartmouth Ferry, was still spreading rapidly this morning towards the village of Preston, three miles outside of the town of Dartmouth. Although no buildings are in immediate danger the residents are greatly alarmed and contemplate removing their valuables and furniture, if the fire is not soon under control.

Save Town of New Waterford

Sydney, N. S., May 31—Four hours' desperate fighting by town firemen, reinforced by the powerful engines of the Dominion Collieries, was necessary to save a portion of the town of New Waterford from a serious forest fire which threatened it. The fire cut a swath fully half a mile wide and at one time threatened the destruction of Mount Carmel church and many residences in that vicinity.

The fire commenced at the old Lingan road and worked its way with alarming rapidity through the forest to Mount Carmel Cemetery, where it was met by Chief Weatherbee and a motor fire engine.

The firemen worked heroically, their efforts being supplemented by a huge electric pump at No. 15 colliery, the power station nearest to the fire. The coal company rushed 2,000 feet of hose to the assistance of the town firemen, and after a hard struggle the blaze was conquered. An investigation is to be demanded by the chief fire ranger of the province to fix the origin of the fire and punish the responsible persons.

Town of Joggins in Danger.

Amherst, N. S., May 31.—Half a million dollars damage has already been committed by the huge forest fire that is raging in Cumberland county. The town of Joggins, and the villages of River Hebert and MacCan are in serious danger from the flames, and unless rain falls within the course of the night it is more than likely that the villages will be wiped off the map. Backed by a forty-mile wind, the fire is speedily sweeping all before it. Thus far, beyond a schoolhouse, no houses or mills have been destroyed, but this state of affairs cannot continue. Over ten thousand acres of valuable timberland have been devastated and today thousands of other acres will be swallowed in the maw of the raging flames. Changes in the direction of the wind have caused the fire at various times to swing in a circle. On each occasion the fire has covered new territory. Many large lumber operators are in this vicinity, and their standing timber has all been burnt.

ELECTION AT ST. JOHN

Major D. King Hazen and Major Norman P. McLeod Mentioned for Opposition Nomination.

St. John, N. B., May 1.—The Opposition party convention, to be held on Wednesday evening, is already the subject of considerable discussion about the city as well as in the newspapers, but so far there doesn't seem to be any unusual interest taken in the bye-election, which has been caused by the acceptance of a portfolio with a salary.

The Globe on Saturday mentioned the name of Major D. King Hazen, who served during the war in England, France and Russia and who would doubtless have a strong following in a convention. Major Norman P. McLeod, M. C., who also has a fine war record and is president of the G. W. V. A., has been mentioned prominently also, and another whose name has been included in lists of prospective candidates recently is Dr. C. M. Pratt, while Hugh H. McLellan has also been talked of.

There would seem to be every indication at the present time that there will be an election, and it seems likely that the Opposition party's selection will be a returned soldier.

MISS JOAN ARNOLDI I. O. D. E. PRESIDENT

The Kingsmill Faction Eliminated From All the Higher Offices on Saturday

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Calgary, Alta., May 31.—Practical elimination of the Kingsmill faction from the higher offices of the National I. O. D. E. resulted in the election Saturday, when Miss Joan Arnoldi, of Toronto, was elected president. Miss Arnoldi appealed for unity in the national chapter. Feeling ran high when a Quebec amendment was presented which would deprive life members of a vote in annual meetings. Mrs. Bruce made an appeal for the life members. The Kingsmill faction appealed against a vote on this amendment, during the absence of the forty councillors who were absent electing officers. However, the question was put and the amendment lost.

up while Ferguson was cut about the forehead and rendered unconscious, so that he had to be dragged from the car by his companions, and the extent of his injuries is not yet known.

They turned out to pass another car on the bridge after rounding the turn at the approach, the car getting in a rut on the side of the bridge and skidding along until the railing of the bridge gave away, the car plunging 50 feet into the gully, 15 feet below the level of the bridge. It was therefore only by a miracle that they escaped with their lives.

Mr. Ferguson, who was said yesterday to be in a serious condition, was gradually recovering this morning and Dr. Gerow, who is in attendance, said he planned to remove the patient to the Hospital to have an X-ray made as soon as possible.

Reception at St. Dunstan's.

At St. Dunstan's church last evening the Sodality of the Children of Mary held a reception, and between 40 and 50 young girls were received into the sodality. The act of consecration was read by the pastor, Very Rev. Father Carney, who after the reception delivered a short but impressive sermon on the purity of the mother of God. The crowning of the Blessed Virgin by eight little girls was a scene of beauty and splendor and one long to be remembered. Eight little girls dressed in white with white veils, four of whom assisted in the crowning, presented a beautiful sight. During the crowning the junior sodality sang O Mary We Crown Thee With Blossoms Today. The congregation completely filled every seat in the church and many had to stand at the back of the church.

Fraser's Mill at Glendine Saved---Two at Cushane, P.Q., And Houses There Burned

None of the Fraser Properties Now in Danger—Report This Afternoon Says Fires Have Broken Out Afresh on the International Railway

Two sawmills and a number of houses at Cushane, in the province of Quebec, about thirty miles north of Edmundston, N. B., were destroyed the latter part of last week, but the fire was prevented from spreading to Glendine, a short distance away, where the Fraser Companies, Ltd., have one of their chain of lumber mills.

Archie Fraser, who arrived here from Edmundston at noon today, said the fire fighters had had a hard time saving Glendine, but had finally succeeded in doing so. Mr. Fraser said that there were no other fires menacing any of the Fraser Companies' properties.

Fires Break Out Again.

Reports received from Campbellton this afternoon indicate that the forest fire which wiped out the village of St. Quentin, Restigouche county, on Friday, is not diminishing.

It was said that the fire was now sweping along a heavily wooded district extending from St. Quentin along the International Railway for about eight or ten miles along each side of the tracks. The Campbellton fire brigade which had been battling with the flames found their efforts ineffectual and have reutrned home.

All the rvailable men in the district are engaged in the effort to cut off the fire and another special train with reinforcements leaves Campbellton this afternoon.

Fires Reported Here.

Two new fires were reported to the Department of Lands and Mines over the week-end. One of these is from the neighborhood of Salisbury in Westmorland county, but no details have been learned as yet of the damage done. The other fire is reported from the neighborhood of Cardigan Settlement, supposedly in the vicinity of the Partington Pulp & Paper Company's lands.

The fire reported from the Serpentine waters, supposed to have been started by a driving crew of the Fraser Lumber Company, covered an area of three hundred acres, but is reported under control. The fire was caused by a fire, which one of the drivers had started for the purpose of heating his lunch, spreading and getting beyond his control. He went for help and upon getting three other men to assist his the blaze was extinguished.

Reports have been received that the fire at the Indian Reservation at Perth has been gotten under control but these reports have not as yet been confirmed.

Lumber Camps Burned.

At Glennie on the Minto line forest fires were raging on Saturday night and men from the surrounding district and this city fought the flames for hours.

A telephone message today from Maugerville said that for a while on Saturday night, the fire which was about ten miles in circumference, looked as if nothing could save the Clowes mill at Glennie, but that the efforts of the fire fighters were successful, as the mill was saved, but that several of the logging camps had been burned.

Engagements Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Savage of Campbellton, N. B., announce the engagement of their daughter, Bertha E., to E. R. Malley, of Chatham, the marriage to take place on June 23rd. Carl O. de Dardel, consul general for Sweden, and Mrs. de Dardel, announce the engagement of Mrs. de Dardel's sister, Miss Si Ahman, daughter of Mrs. and the late Col. A. Ahman, M. D., of Stockholm, Sweden, at present on a visit to Montreal, to Mr. J. E. Ander of Montreal, formerly Swedish vice-consul at Newcastle, N. B. The marriage will will take place shortly.—Montreal Gazette.

A Million Dollars Damage In Forest Fires---Whole Town Of St. Quentin Destroyed

Practically Every Building in Restigouche Town on International Railway Wiped Out—Population Fled on Waiting Train.—Other Fires

More than a million dollars' damage is estimated to have been done by forest fires in New Brunswick so far this season, the most serious being that which has destroyed the incorporated town of St. Quentin, Restigouche county, on the International Railway.

Practically every building in that town with the exception of the Catholic parish church and one store conducted by a Syrian named Yesbec have been destroyed, the women and children and many of the male population fleeing from the burning town on a waiting freight train. Thus far there has been no loss of life reported in any of the fires.

The counties in this province where the forest fires are the worst are Restigouche, Victoria, Gloucester, Northumberland and St. John, Sunbury and Charlotte.

In Gloucester county heavy fires are burning along the Big Tracade river for a dozen miles or more, and also also along the Pokemouche river, where much valuable standing timber has been destroyed. Large crews of men are working night and day to prevent the flames from sweeping down on Tracadie village and several settlements. There is also a brisk blaze on Shippegan Island.

Serious Fire at L'Etang.

Another serious fire occurred on Saturday, when fire in the brush spread to buildings at L'Etang, Charlotte county, and consisted of the Dominion Government wharf, Lee and O'Leary's sardine factory, the L'Etang hotel, three dwellings, two barns, a new motor boat and a large amount of weir twines, seines and farming machinery. Hundreds of men worked yesterday to prevent the flames from spreading to a section of woods which would have endangered the town of St. George.

Victoria County.

In Victoria county seven buildings have been destroyed by woods fires. In addition to the recent fire at Plaster Rock, where the Baptist church and three other buildings were burned, James Burgess & Sons' lumber mill at Tie Camp and 120 cords of pulp wood have been destroyed. In the Blue Bell district two buildings have been burned and also five hunhundred cords of pulp wood.

ST. QUENTIN BURNS.

Whole Incorporated Town on International Railway Wiped Out—People Fled in Waiting Train.

A forest fire completely destroyed the new town of St. Quentin, formerly the village of Anderson, situated on the International division of the Canadian Government Railway system, in the county of Restigouche, at 3 o'clock on Friday afternoon, with the sole exception of the Roman Catholic church property, consisting of the church and presbytery.

In all seventy-two buildings were wiped out of existence, together with most of their contents, besides an enormous acreage of forest tract and large quantities of sawn lumber, pulp wood and cut logs. It is difficult to figure the total loss at this time, but estimates vary from $400,000 to half a million dollars. The insurance is understood to be comparatively light because of the great fire hazard in that region. Happily no lives were lost in the fearful conflagration, but fugitives from the stricken town, who have arrived at Campbellton and other places, say that had it not been for the providential presence of a train at St. Quentin when the town began to burn, the lives of many women and children would undoubtedly have been lost, as inhabitants were confused and almost helpless in the intense pall of smoke and firebrands. The train moved the women and children to safety. Many saved only the clothing they wore, and there is great need of supplies in the stricken district. Relief work is being organized in Campbellton and other places, and it is expected various parts of the province will send aid.

An immense sheet of flame, extending for twenty or twenty-five miles in the forest, at most points well removed from the International division, continued to sweep along yesterday and last night, devouring vast quantities of valuable standing timber. At several points, however, near the railroad villages are in danger, and hundreds of men are fighting the fire Hot, dry weather continued in the northern part of the province yesterday, and unless rain comes soon the losses, it is feared, will be much greater.

Business Places Lost.

St. Quentin was the largest place along the one hundred and eleven miles of railway between Campbellton and St. Leonard's, on the St. John River. It was originally a small settlement built on provincial government land, set apart during the regime of Premier Hazen and was called Anderson. The town was about nine years old and had been growing rapidly until the residents, nearly one thousand in number, decided to apply for incorporation as a town. The town was about to have a mayor and council and had planned extensive improvements. It was re-named St. Quentin during the war in honor of the victory of the Canadian boys, at the French town of that name, where Restigouche soldiers fought.

St. Quentin was located forty-two miles east of St. Leonard's and seventy miles from Campbellton by rail. The nearest villages are Five Fingers, a mile to the eastward, and Hazen, two miles and a quarter to the westward. Many of the homeless inhabitants of St. Quentin found refuge in Hazen, Five Fingers and other settlements along the International Railway line.

Among the buildings burned in St. Quentin were the following: Canada House, Lavoie's Hotel, J. E. Michaud's mills, store, warehouse and dwelling; Roy's window sash and door factory, Banque du Provinciale of Canada, Michaud & Chouinard's bakery, theatre in course of erection, C.N.R. railway station, post office, school house, tinware shop, skating rink, town lockup, Gautreau's bowling alley, Lynch's lumber mill, Lynch & Fournier's store, Chouinard's store, Yesbec & Co's store, Millard's store, Seneschal & Co's store, Savoie's store, Leveque & Co's store, Cagnon's store and Nadean & Lynch's store.

Dozen Cars on Sidings Burned.

Several stores and warehouses were destroyed. In addition the flames licked up seven cars loaded with pulpwood and five cars of logs on the sidings.

Mr. Levseque, who arrived in Campbellton yesterday, said that of all the large stock of goods in his store he saved only a sweater he wore. The other merchants lost much of their stock, the majority all of it.

Many of the fifty or sixty dwellings burned were comparatively new and well fitted up.

Fires have been raging in the woods along the International line for a week or more and several settlements have been in danger. Last week the Campbellton fire department had men working for three days near Kedgewick to save buildings. The government has also a large force of fire fighters out along the twenty-five miles of fire belt.

All the villages along the railway are situated in the heart of a vast forest, all having been built during the last dozen years, and important lumbering operations are carried on. The only means of travelling to and from the outside world is by the railway line.

There has been no rain for more than two weeks and the entire country is extremely dry, the flames spreading rapidly throughout the clearings and forest whenever a stiff breeze prevails, and a dense pall of smoke has hung ever the northern country for many days. Flames and smoke were visible in St. Leonard's, more than forty miles distant, on Friday and Saturday.

Town Overwhelmed.

The situation was regarded as dangerous at St. Quentin on Thursday and every available man for miles around was out fighting the flames. On Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock the fire bore down upon the town. Soon the wooden buildings nearest the burning forest were ablaze and resisted all efforts to save them. Burning brands and cinders fell all over the place, which soon was in the grip of the flames.

Women and children fled in terror from their burning homes, some taking what they could, but the majority lost everything but what they stood in. A train was standing at the station at the ime, and the railroad hands worked heroically to calm the population. They helped the women and children aboard the cars and made them as comfortable as possible. The train then pulled out of the danger belt.

Parish Church Saved.

The men of the town were able to save the St. Quentin parish church and the residence of the pastor, Rev. Father E. Martin. These buildings stood on higher ground than the rest of the town, and remain standing as monuments to what was a thriving and prosperous community. Father Martin was injured while working on the roof of the presbytery and did grand work to aid the stricken population. There were many instances of heroism in face of terrible danger, and although many of the people feel the loss of their fine town keenly yet they are not discouraged and hope to rebuild. Some, however, have lost all, and these consider that they were fortunate to escape without serious injury.

Much relief work remains to be accomplished, and it is expected that within the next few days supplies of provisions will be rushed to the homeless townspeople. Fortunately the weather is warm and those camping out of doors are suffering little discomfort. Many of the women and children are being housed in nearby settlements and lumber camps, at a safe distance from the raging fires in the forest.

According to late advices, it is still possible to send trains over the entire length of the International Railway, although they were held up for a time by fires.

One year ago on June 16 next thirty-one houses, nine barnes and three lumber mills were destroyed at Kedgewick, ten miles from St. Quentin; the loss amounting to a quarter of a million dollars. This fire started in the forest, where a territory twenty miles in length and a mile and a half in width was burned over.

HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN ON BUDGET

The Minister of Interior in Powerful Argument Retention National Policy Moderate Protection for Industries

Minister Shows Absurdity of Free Trade Pretensions of the Liberal Party and the Slight Tariff Changes in Their Fifteen Years at Treasury Benches--- The Cobden School of Thought for Theory but Not for Practice in a New Country Like Canada.

The following speech by Hon. Arthur Meighen on the tariff policy of the Dominion of Canada was delivered in the House on Tuesday, May 25, and is taken from Hansard:

Mr. Speaker, much as I admire the hon. member for Red Deer (Mr. M. Clark) and, indeed, envy many of his gifts as a public speaker, I cannot say that I stand altogether appalled at the task of answering his arguments this afternoon. The hon. member has given us an example of the maximum of merit that a speech may reach, without the ingredient of logic and without the assistance of facts. There were, incidentally, as he proceeded, matters that emerged and as to which I do not feel myself in possession of all the conditions and circumstances to enable me to reply. He made mention of certain items in the Auditor General's Report that were marked in that report "unaccounted for," and large items they were. They were referred to first by the hon. member for Guysborough and Antigonish (Mr. J. H. Sinclair). I was not in my place at that time; but I would presume that the items were British or foreign credits, the accounting for which had not yet reached the Auditor General, and that consequently they appeared in the report in that form. But the hon. member for Quysborough, or the hon. member for Red Deer, knows that if there is anything he does not understand in the report of the Auditor General, there is a standing committee of this House for the purpose of investigating every item questioned, and although we have been in session three months, that committee has never been called. If there be any reason for calling it, hon. members have it in their power to have it called, and if there be anything dark it will be revealed.

My hon. friend rataher surprised me this afternoon by a prolonged and violent attack on what is described as the "luxury tax" of the Budget. He says that this is only a case of more tariff, 10 per cent. upon articles of special value; that is upon luxuries so far as luxuries can be isolated and designated by name. All these things, he says, are only additions to the tariff and cannot even enjoy the good name that belongs to an excise tax; there is nothing right about them; they are too big and they are too small; they came too soon and they came too late; everything that he can think of in connection with the luxury tax is wrong. He says: If this were an excise tax it would be all right, because an excise tax is on home manufactures alone. An excise tax is on home manufactures alone when there is a corresponding duty against the import of the same goods, and this is exactly the same thing. There is a tax on the goods produced in Canada; there is a tax on imported goods—there is the corresponding one to offset the other. If the hon. gentleman would have us pay ten per cent. extra for a suit of clothes if it were made in Canada and nothing at all extra if it were imported from the United States, do you think, Mr. Speaker, many more suits of clothes would be made in this country? But that is the character of the tax my hon. friend (Mr. Clark) says he would support. I would be sorry for the country that ever took the hon. member for Red Deer as its business mentor. My hon. friend says that we know where his political associates stand. I do not know where they stand.

Mr. Cowan: Nor anybody else.

Mr. Meighen: His leader (Mr. Crerar), who sits to his right, was down in New Brunswick not long ago and he told the people of that province that he was against the tariff and that he wanted to raise revenue by a luxury tax. With the leader arguing in favor of a luxury tax and his first lieutenant opposing it, how are we supposed to know where they stand?

Mr. Crerar: Does the minister consider a $45 suit of clothes a luxury?

Mr. Meighen: If a $45 suit of clothes is not a luxury, then we have a pretty prosperous country.

Some hon. members: Oh, no.

TENDENCY HAS BEEN TO BRING DOWN SALE PRICE

Mr. Meighen: It may be that the limit on certain articles is too low, but does that affect the principle? Would the argument of the hon. member for Red Deer not be just the same against a tax on a $100 or a $150 suit of clothes or against anything in the whole range of the luxury tax? He did not oppose any item in the tax; he opposed the tax on principle, and his leader supports the tax on principle. How then are we to know where they stand? The hon. member for Red Deer says that this tax will add to the cost of living. The reorts that have so far come to hand—and they have come direct from dealers in these articles—are to the effect that the tendency has been to bring down the sale price within the limits of the lexury tax. That tendency is in operation and in effect.

Mr. Michael Clark: Where does the revenue come from then?

Mr. Meighen: If we do not get the revenue, no harm is done, and my hon. friend would not oppose the tax; at all events, his objection is gone and we get the economy. Does the hon. member not know that in this country, no matter who should do the teaching, we should have less extravagance and more economy? Will he not admit that?

Mr. Michael Clark: On the part of the Government, certainly.

Mr. Meighen: Will he not admit that that is necessary on the part of the people? He is silent; he knows he has to admit that. He knows the country stands to gain by a diminution of extravagance, by an increase in economy on the part of every individual. If that be the case, how is it wrong on the part of the Government so to arrange its taxation so as to encourage that?

Mr. Michael Clark: My hon. friend is putting into my mouth words which are absolutely contradictory to what I said. I said that the State has not much to with an individual's expenditure so long as he spends his own money. If my hon. friend was listening he could not help hearing what I said.

Mr. Meighen: I know he said that, but I am arguing that he is wrong. If it is in the interests of this Dominion that we have less personal extravagance and more economy why is it wrong on the part of the Government so to arrange its legislation as to aim at that end? The hon. member is silent. I knew he would get silent just at the opportune time.

After getting $81,000,000 by direct taxation, here is a Budget that by a luxury tax and other means seeks to raise $100,000,000 more by direct taxation. That is $181,000,000 by direct taxation, and the hon. member opposes this Budget because there is a luxury tax in it. He says he wants more income tax, and presented a rather prolonged argument along that line. He made some strictures on the Administration, strictures that are so commonplace and which have been so often exploded as to come better at this time from a member not quite so intelligent as my hon. friend from Red Deer—strictures on the Administration of saving and sheltering the millionaire and taxing the poor man, and he asks us to follow Britain's example in income taxation. Is he aware that as respects the men of higher income in Great Britain, the tax in Canada today is higher on them than is the British income tax?

Mr. Michael Clark: I shall not accept that statement until proved by exact figures taking into account the super-tax.

HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN

THE TAX IN CANADA EXCEEDS BRITISH TAX

Mr. Meighen: I will provide the hon. gentleman with the figures and they will show that beyond incomes of about $200,000 a year, as near as I remember—and I shall have time to get the figures—the tax in Canada exceeds the British tax and has done so for a year, and now we are adding five per cent. more to it. We have been on a level with the United States for the last year, and we are now increasing over them by five per cent. The hon. member does not like following the United States in that regard. Well, it is not for the sake of following them that we do it. It is for the sake of seeking to collect the largest revenue we can. We are alongside the United States whether we like it or not. We are a people of eight or nine millions alongside for 4,000 miles a people of one hundred millions. There is no barrier between, no wall there. Capital is mobile, and as soon as you reach the point where it pays capital to stay there instead of coming here, we are not likely to get much capital. It is not that we love their example. It may be all right or it may not. It is because conditions compel us in the interests of Canada to have regard to the level of income taxation that prevails in that country.

The hon. member also talks about New Zealand. Certainly New Zealand has a heavy income tax. New Zealand has had an income tax for twenty or twenty-five years. We have had an income tax for only three or four years. We were not in office twenty or twenty-five years ago, but some of the hon. member's friends were. I might point out that after New Zealand has had an income tax for ten years they were collecting less than a million dollars a year. New Zealand today collects a heavy income tax, but they do not collect any profits tax or any corporation tax. They do not collect any of these other direct taxes that are imposed so heavily in this country, and they have had their income tax in operation for twenty or twenty-five years. New Zealand is not a manufacturing country, but they have so managed their affairs, (much to the delight of the hon. member for Red Deer) that they have today reached the point where they have a debt per capita three or four times as great as has Canada. We will reach their point in income taxation at the rate of increase at which we are proceeding, just as soon perhaps as the most ardent income taxer in this country may desire, and we are a lot closer to them now than the hon. member for Red Deer would give us to understand. If he adds to our income tax our direct taxes, which are not imposed in New Zealand, and that is the only fair way to compare, we are up now to about half of the New Zealand tax, and when he gets the tax of next year, which is a direct tax, too, though not of the nature of income taxation in the same way as the corporation and the profits taxes are, the hon. member will have as much direct taxation as will make him as a public man comfortable in any constituency in this country.

THE PROPER TARIFF POLICY FOR CANADA

My hon. friend devoted a considerable portion of his speech, although less than formerly, to a disquisition on the proper tariff policy for Canada. I purpose following him with some care into a discussion of that subject for reasons that are apparent to every one. The tariff issue has been again forced to the front in public discussion in Canada, and is likely to be there for some time to come. We have two wings of the opposing party, one represented by the hon. member for Red Deer and the hon. member for Marquette (Mr. Crerar), and the other represented by those who, opposite, follow, I presume, the leader of the party, at all events follow one of the triumvirate which has shared leadership within itself for the last several months.

As regards the group angularly opposite, the principal at all events that they expound is clearly known. They stand, as the hon. member (Mr. Clark) sasy, where Sir Wilfrid Laurier stood previous to 1896. I do not think there is any doubt that that is an accurate description of where they stand. They denounce all tariffs applied on that principle. Indeed, they believe that tariffs themselves are a curse, and argue that we should follow instead the example of England and abolish the protective tariff altogether and the "tariff tax," as the hon. member puts it, practically altogether too.

As regards those directly opposite, I am afraid it waudl be with a smile that they would read the enunciation of the doctrine of Sir Wilfrid Laurier previous to 1896. I watched them as I heard it read this afternoon. There was no clapping of hands, no rejoicing. It brought back to them memories not quite so pleasant as those that fluttered through the mind of the hon. member for Red Deer. We are opposed by two wings of wholly opposite views on the tariff, two wings, however, that gather around the motion of the hon. member for Shelbourne and Queen's (Mr. Fielding), two wings that hope to go before the people of this country fighting under two flags and under two leaders to make the pretence all the better, but who hope afterwards to coalesce and entwine the two flags into one in an infamous untiy, who hope after taking one camp of public opinion behind them and the opposite camp as well, to the utmost of their power to end up by deceiving both, by betraying both, because they must either deceive the one or double deceive the other.

The hon. member for Red Deer acts as he has done for ten years in this House, to the example of his native land. If I direct my attention chiefly to the hon. member for Red Deer, it is not that I feel that he is the embodiment or the head of this manoeuvring that is going on, and that is using his great ability as a platform speaker for his own ends. It is rather because he presents this thing as an argument on principle. He has placed before us everything that can be said for his cause, and I believe he has placed it before us sincerely. He is a man who has shown his true worth as a citizen, he has shown that he possesses the realities of patriotism, and for himeas a man I have the profoundest respect.

COMPARATIVE TRADE FIGURES TELL THE TALE

But coming to the issue that is now before this House in its naked form. I want to discuss whether we should be led by the example of England as depicted by the hon. member for Red Deer, into the course he would have us pursue, or whether we should not rather have regard to the experience of Canada, to the experience of the United States, which of all countries, is most like us, to the experience of every advanced nation in the world, and particularly to the actual and true experience of the United kingdom itself. He tells us, as he has frequently told us, that it has been given its position of supremacy by a policy of free imports, that it is an example to the outside world, that its trade has advanced all through the years. In that, in some degree, he is correct. He has told us this afternoon that we in Canada must sell more goods than we buy; that is the only way we can discharge our outside obligations, and he says that we must sell more than we can buy to the extent annually of at least $200,000,000 a year. While I am free to admit that British trade has advanced since free trade became British policy, British trade shows certain features since free trade became the policy over there that utterly discredit it as a policy for this or any other country that seeks to sell more goods than it buys. And it must be remembered as well that while there has been absolute advance, there has as compared with great rival countries been a melancholy relative decline. Aggregate trade is one thing, but aggregate trade in itself means very little. It is comparative trade figures that tell the tale; it is also the nature of the trade that counts. I do not know that any country is better off—in fact, I know it is far worse off—that buys, as the United States bought for many years, the whole of its tin plate, thereby adding to its import and its aggregate trade. I do not know that it is better off on that account. It would seem to me that the United States was beter off when it set about revising its tariff policy and so improved it that later on, in 1913, according to the figures given by the hon. member for Fort William, (Mr. Manion), in a speech pregnant with illuminating facts that go to the heart of this question, it made two billion pounds of tin plate in a year. The United States were importing 680,000,000 pounds of tin plate in 1890. That added to their aggregate trade it is true, and the hon. member for Red Deer, (Mr. Clark), would possibly think that was a glorious achievement. But they set about changing their policy, and instead of importing 680,000,000 pounds and making only 2,000,000 pounds at home, they imported 28,000,000 pounds and finally were making 2,000,000,000 pounds in their own country.

BRITISH TRADE IS SECOND IN THE WORLD

Now, coming to Great Britain, the remarkable fact about the position of that country today—and they know it over there just as well as we know it and regret it more keenly than we do—is, thot while they have an aggregate trade which I think is second in the world, (being next to that of the United States of America), they are selling in the world today something over $3,000,000,000 worth of goods and are buying over $7,000,000,000 worth. They are buying at the present rate almost $2 for every $1 they sell, and that is directly the consequence of the trade policy they have pursued. The United States, on the contrary, with a bigger aggregate trade, is selling $8,000,000,000 (round numbers) worth and is buying only $3,000,000,000 odd, a balance in their favor of goods sold over goods bought—and surely that is what counts—of over $4,000,000,000 annually. That, at all events, was the balance in their favor in the year 1919. It was almost that in 1918, almost that in 1917, and back to the year 1893, you cannot find a year in American history in which they have not sold more than they have bought.

Mr. Michael Clark—May I interrupt my hon. friend? I do so only to elucidate the argument. Does my hon. friend really think that his argument, at the end of the war, is worth the breath expended on it? He should give figures prior to the war.

Mr. Meighen—I went back to the year 1893 and that is quite a while before the war, I should think. If the hon. member seeks to dispute in any way whatever the facts I have stated I have the exact figures before me. He will find that last year's American imports were $3,904,000,000 and its exports $7,922,000,000, and he will find for the year before the figures that are virtually the same. I can give the hon. gentleman the figures right back to the year 1860, and until he gets back at least to the year 1884 he will find only three years in American history, the last year being 1853—a long while before the war—when they did not have a balance in their favor of an immense sum as against the adverse balance of England. There was a time when things were not thus.

ENGLAND HAD FAVORABLE BALANCE OF TRADE

Before and at the year 1850 England had a favourable balance of trade. The hon. member, who reveres the memory of Cobden and Peel, will know that it was just before 1850 that they abolished the Corn Laws in the Old Country. In 1850 they had a balance of trade in their favor, but they did not hold it very long, and from about 1850 to the present day the trade of Great Britain has shown an adverse balance every year at least every decade year; they have been selling less than they have bought, until today it is a cost of almost two to one, while the situaion is getting worse all the time. It is a remarkable fact that the year 1850 marks the time when the change took place in the trade balance of Britain. Some years after that they had annually about £150,000,000, or some $700,000,000 against them, and as they approached 1913 and 1914 the adverse balance kept on increasing, and in the years 1917, 1918 and 1919 it had reached colossal totals indeed. Now, I know that the years of war were certainly not normal years, and British trade suffered severely. But since the war the same story is being told. The balance against Great Britain last year was no less than £670,000,000, and for the first three months of this year the trade balance against them there of such a sum as, multiplied by four for the aggregate of the year, gives us a total of £680,000,000, a worse situation than that of last year. British trade is increasing because prices are increasing and because transportation facilities are increasing, but the adverse trade condition is present today in an even more aggregated form than at any time before in the whole trade history of Britain. In the United States, I repeat, the contrary has been the case. Since the year 1893, they have never had an unfavorable balance. Their people have become richer year by year, in that they bought less than they sold to the outside world. On the business done at home the United States was improving its position year by year, and so was Germany, and so was Canada. But that was not so in regard to Great Britain. Canada last year had a balance in its favor of $222,000,000; the year before some $300,000,000 odd; the year before a little more than that. It was only about the year 1915 that we caught up. Previous to that we had balances against us, as every new country has. But Great Britain should long ago have been in that position where its exports should far have exceeded its imports.

ASSUMED SUPREMACY AS COMMERCIAL NATION

Now, the hon. member will no doubt ask me this question: How is it they get along when they are paying out every year £670,000,000 more than they are buying? Well, they get along for this reason: They asserted their supremacy as a commercial nation away back in the last and the preceding century. Great Britain was in those times the wealthiest nation by far on the face of the globe. Their people have had their money invested and year by year they have been investing more. Their returns from outside are great and they have investments on all the seas of the world. While last year they lost £670,000,000—"lost" is hardly the correct term to use; I should say, while they were behind about £670,000,000 in their balance of trade last year, they had an income of £500,000,000 from transportation systems, money invested in ships that were traversing the world, and from investments in the United States, and in Canada, and in other lands. They had £80,000,000 from certain outside investments, £40,000,000 from other outside banking and insurance earnings—a total of £520,000,000 in all to put against that £670,000,000 which they were behind in trade. Now, is it to be the policy of this country so to arrange its trade activities that we should have to make up every year by investments in other lands what we lose by making and selling less goods than we buy? Are we to direct our efforts to enable our people to invest in the United States or to invest in France, Australia or New Zealand? What does it result in? It results in the acumulation of money in the hands of a few people and not in the multiplication of industries, except in foreign lands. Money that represents the accumulated energy of the British peoples is spent today to expand the industries of the United States and of Australia and South Africa and even China. There is no doubt about that. And the result is—while it is putting it somewhat strongly, in substance it is true—a tendency to make the people over there, while solvent and while perhaps getting wealthier by reason of these investments, a nation of remittance men, and at the same time, to use the words of John Barnes, the Labour leader in England, to being a sea of workless workers surging around their doors. It is not very long since the hon. member for Red Deer told this House that the condition of labour was most desirable in England and better than in this country and in the United States.

Mr. Michael Clark—Not this country.

Mr. Meighen—Well, better than in the United States; but that does not modify the statement in principle in any degree. And the hon. member also quoted some one to that effect, whose names I cannot remember. Well, I think the hon. gentleman has respect for the authority of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman in 1905 that there were 13,000,000 of the British population who were at or below the line of poverty, not having enough to eat.

Mr. Michael Clark—Has the hon. member the quotation?

TEACH THE VALUE OF IMPROVED METHODS

Mr. Meighen—Yes; I have it here in a book written by Messrs. Gray and Turner. Mr. Gray is an economist of Britain who has done much investigational work in this country and in the United States. He is a graduate of Oxford. I do not know who Mr. Turner is. They quote Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman as saying that "there are about 30 per cent. of the British population on the verge of hunger;" that is about 13,000,000 definitely; and Sir William Booth, who spent many years investigating the subject in the cities of England, and particularly in London, gives the number at 30.7 per cent. who are below the poverty line. Mr. Rowntree also, who is a celebrated authority—all these people are British people, not Americans—says that the same thing is true of every part of Britain as of the city of London.

Mr. Michael Clark—Does my hon. friend not know that Mr. Rowntree is a temperance reformer?

Mr. Meighen—I was not aware of that fact.

Mr. Michael Clark—He is a temperance reformer and attributes the poverty to drink.

Mr. Meighan—I do not know what he attibutes it to but is it not better to have as authority a man who is not interested in trade matters, and therefore not prejudiced, than a man who is prejudiced. This work (Gray and Turner s) is not written on trade subjects at all, it is written on social subjects. They present these facts in order that they may teach—not that there should be a tariff, that is not the purpose of the book; the purpose of the book is wholly different, it is to teach the value of improved methods. Consequently these men are not saying, or colouring, these things in order to make an argument against free trade; although it is not hard to tell what their opinions are. I quote this from those authorities:

It is generally known that American wages are from two to three times as high as the British wages. They are so very much higher than British wages because American production per man is from two to three times as great as is British production, as has been shown in sections 1 and 2.

Again we find these statements:

Those who know America and the British Dominions well are aware that not only are wages from two to three times as high as they are in this country, but that the workers live far better than they live over here, that they are better dressed, better fed, and are able to put by substantial sums of money.

In America, generally speaking working hours are shorter than in Great Britain, and work is less arduous.

STRONG STATEMENTS BY MEN OF AUTHORITY

More Mileage from Tires

MANY tires which because of long, hard driving or accidents give only average mileage, could be made to give unusual mileage simply by the use of Goodyear Reliners. This Goodyear Reliner is a Tire Saver produced by Goodyear to help car-owners keep down tire costs.

They are complete new linings, of new fabric and rubber, shaped to fit the inside of the tire. Cemented in, they strengthen any tire weakened by road shocks or other injuries, often increasing the mileage 25% or more.

You can easily and quickly apply a Goodyear Reliner to your casing Or if you prefer, your repairman will apply it for you at little extra cost.

HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN ON BUDGET

a study of this question—particularly the attention of the hon. member for Temiskaming (Mr. McDonald). Such statements could be cited page after page throughout this book; but the case is admitted by the British people. Mr. Lloyd George, stated before the Imperial conference in 1907 that the degree of unemployment with which they were confronted in Great Britain was very "unpleasant to contemplate," and following that he said: "that undoubtedly the conditions of employment in Germany were far better than they were in England and than they were in the United States." Further than that, at the time Great Britain was in this position, at the time Mr. Lloyd George made these statements, Great Britain was losing in population, chiefly her working men, at the rate of 225,000 a year. In 1907, 237,000 of her people left these happy shores, and at the same time Germany was gaining more in population, by immigration of working men, than she was losing. In 1906, 600,000 workingmen from other countries went into Germany and helped to enrich that protected country and that in great degree at the expense of Great Britain herself. Between the years 1850 and the year 1908, 12,000,000 people left British shores, and many millions of them entered the United States. All this was going on under the aegis of free trade with results which I shall describe a little more fully later on.

If the hon. member thinks—and he has argued it time and time again—that free trade is a great boon to the agriculturist why does he not contemplate his own native land? When free trade came into effect—I have the exact official figures before me from the statistical department—the proportion of agricultural population to the whole population of the British Isles was 49.8 per cent., or practically one half. In the year 1913, before the war, that had been reduced to 21.3. One half of the whole population when free trade came into effect was agricultural; one-fifth of the whole population agricultural after it had been in effect for about 70 years.

Such is the result on agriculture. I give Mr. Lloyd George again as my authority for the statement (I feel sure it was he; anyway it is true) that between 1870 and 1905 3,000,000 acres in Great Britain went out of production in corn, and that in the year 1905 there was less and less wheat land in cultivation than had gone out of wheat production since the introduction of free trade. One million men today work in Great Britain in the industry of agriculture. There were more than twice that number at the time free trade came in to make them happy and rich! It was the manufacturers and not the farmers who wanted free trade in Great Britain, and they had good reason to want it as I will explain. Lord Macaulay in a speech delivered, I think, on his last election for the University of Edinburgh, about 1851, in ridiculing the antics of the men who opposed his party—I cannot help adopting his language now as regards those who oppose us—said that he did not know where any man stood on this question of free trade or protection. He went into the country and found that there were standards, and printed flags, wherever the agricultural population predominated, bearing the legend "Vote for Smith and Protection." But as soon as he got across the river and into the city it was "Vote for Smith and Free Trade." These were the prevailing conditions at that time.

ENGLAND HAD MORE TO GAIN THAN OTHER NATIONS

Why did England take up free trade? One never can answer for another but had I been at that time an Englishman, as I am today a Canadian, and had I expected as Cobden expected and believed that other countries would follow the example of Great Britain, I would have taken the step that Cobden advised. Why? Because British industries were then in a state of supremacy. They had the lead in magnitude, in perfection of operation and in the skill of their operatives. They had the lead over the industries of every other country in the world and England had more to gain by free access to the markets of other countries than she had to lose by free access being granted to her own markets. But had I been at that time a Canadian, or a subject of the Mikado of Japan, or a citizen of the United States, I would not have consented to follow the free trade example that Great Britain has set to the various countries of the world for the very simple reason that the industries of the United States of America were less mature, that they were in comparison with British industries, infant industries. These countries were wisely for themselves opposed to following Britain's example because they had more to lose by unrestricted access to their own markets than they had to gain by unrestricted access to the markets of Great Britain. And being at this time, as I am, a citizen of a country that in relation to the United States, to England, and to many of the great industrial countries, has its industries in a position of comparative immaturity, I would say it would be madness—manifest madness—for us to adopt the principle enunciated by or to follow the trail blazed by the hon. member for Red Deer.

Great Britain, he says, is the example for us, but still we must have an excess of exports over imports. If Great Britain has a deficit in exports, as compared with imports of $3,000,000,000 a year, how are we by following Great Britain's example going to get an excess of exports over imports which he says we have to get to the amount of $200,000,000 a year? Then he says, "Follow the United States in these matters; there you have a comparatively free trade country." I admire the hon. gentleman's ability in eulogy, and I admire the skill with which he is able to deceive himself. The United States a free trade country! If the hon. gentleman would go to the United States and make a speech such as he has made here today in the presence of any number of its citizens they would not know what to do with him. A free trade country! If there is one country on the face of the globe that has been rigidly, emphatically and consistently protectionist, it has been the United States. I would like to know what the hon. gentleman means when he talks about the United States being a free trade country of a comparatively free trade country. Of course they have got to the position by their policy of protection where they do not have to import much except raw materials or semi-raw materials and raw materials in the United States are free just as generally as they are free with us. When a country advances to a state of industrial maturity, it is not going to have very heavy import taxes imposed on the body of its people because imports will be relatively small. But England, he says, got into its position whatever it is by following the path of free trade instead of adopting the course which the United States pursued. The tariff taxes in England are far greater than they are in the United States and greater than they are in Canada.

Mr. Michael Clark: So was their job in the war.

U. S. DOES NOT IMPORT MANUFACTURED GOODS

Mr. Meighen: Undoubtedly their people were equal to the job of the war. They have a great many people of the type of the hon. gentleman himself, and as long as they have men of his blood and of the blood of his family, they make grave blunders in tariff matters, but they will not soon be beaten in war. The fact is that Mr. Austen Chamberlain contemplates collecting next year one and a half billion dollars through his tariff tax much of which is a protective tax. We do not contemplate collecting more than $150,000,000. The United States, pursuing not a revenue tariff course but a protective tariff course ranging from 40 to 50, 55, 60 and 75 per cent. on dutiable articles all down through the past sixty years to the present time, are now in a position where they are selling about $7,000,000,000 worth and buying about $3,000,000,000 worth a year, mainly raw or semi-raw materials. They do not need to import much manufactured goods today but Britain has to import manufactured goods and Britain does import manufactured goods and every other kind of goods to a greater extent than any other country in the world.

I mentioned a moment ago that the policy of free trade in England had reduced agriculture to a very low standard of prosperity. That is putting it very gently. No wonder the Lord Selborne Committee to which my hon. friend referred advocated that the people of England should grow more agricultural produce because agricultural production has diminished year by year. They produced less and less of what they consume, all due to this policy. Their farm lands have diminished in value. While their farm lands have diminished in value and are being abandoned we find that the United States, in the same period, have multiplied the value of their farm lands from $19,000,000,000 to $41,000,000,000. In Canada the same thing is going on. It is not long since the hon. member for Marquette (Mr. Crerar) was talking about the abandonment of farms in Canada. I have been through quite a lot in Canada. I have seen many farms being worked that I thought to be abandoned because they were never fit to be farms but I never saw a farm abandoned that appeared, at all events from the road, to be fit for anybody to farm.

And the figures are wholly against him—statistics that cannot be denied, gathered under the charge of a man who certainly has no political affinity with gentlemen on this side of the House. According to these figures, the average value per acre of farm land in Canada in 1910—and you could go back to 1896; it is just the same story—was $38, while in 1919 it was $52, an increase since 1910 of 37 per cent. Now, a basic asset like that upon which money must be made increases in value only because you can make more money out of it; it could not increase for any other reason. In Nova Scotia, the Province from which the member for Shelburne and Queen's (Mr. Fielding) comes, the value of farm lands increased within the period mentioned from $25 to $41 per acre, an increase of 41 per cent., and in British Columbia the increase was from $74 to $174, an increase of 135 per cent. In every Province of Canada the very same process has gone on, so much so that while we have a tremendous increase in the value of our farm lands—I mean, in the lands actually farmed, because that is what these figures apply to—the value of farm lands in Great Britain according to Mr. Rowntree, went down during the same period by £1,700,000,000, or nearly $8,000,000,000. Our rural population diminished between 1901 and 1911 from 62.35 per cent. of the whole to 54.47 per cent.—I do not think it diminished in the absolute, but it diminished as compared with the rest of the population. In the United States the diminution was very small, from 59.03 to 53.07.

GENERAL DIMINUTION IN RURAL POPULATION

But, this diminution which has come to Canada, to the United States and to every country in the world—and it is terribly aggravated in Great Britain by reason of their fiscal policy, undoubtedly,—this general diminution in rural population is inevitable; no change of policy can ever alter it. Why? Well, it seems to me that the reason is obvious. The farmer produces food; that is the great product to the turning out of which he applies his energy. As the world advances in population, people do not eat any more food individually; the need of food increases just as the population advances and no more. But as civilization advances the other needs and indulgences of mankind multiply an hundred-fold. Transportation needs, clothing needs, entertainment needs, all these requirements advance by leaps and bounds, whereas food remains relatively stationary. Consequently a larger proportion of the world's people are engaged in making these other products and rendering these other services than are engaged in the growing of food. Do what we will, we would be foolish to try to beat back logic itself, and the whole trend and movement of the age. You cannot defeat these things; you cannot conquer economic forces. Our rural population is diminishing—not in the absolute, but relatively. The rural population of Britain, for the simple reason that their farmers could not begin to compete with those to whom they were exposed to competition by the abolition of the Corn Laws, has gone down from great to small unt'l today it is almost negligible in relation to the rest of the people. While all this has been going on, have manufactures flourished? Have the great basic industries of England advanced? Did England find herself, when she was confronted with war with Germany, in a position impregnable or even desirable? Why, the story is so plain that everybody knows it; in the great key industries of Britain they found themselves in a position next to humiliation itself. Certainly they pulled through the war; they fought through, muddled through and got through. They got through, and all credit to them, but they got much of their basic supplies from their Allies. They got their great supplies of iron and steel from other countries on whose friendship they had to depend and without whose friendship their position would have been worse than precarious.

Now when Britain was in the war and under Liberal leadership—not under the guidance of the present coalition leader, Mr. Lloyd George, but under the leadership of a man revered by the hon. member for Red Deer, Mr. Asquith—they set about to ascertain why all this trouble was; why it was that they had landed themselves in a position of comparative helplessness and of depending upon other nations in this regard. I want to lay before this House the facts as to that investigation, in my judgment about as illuminating facts as ever have been presented to the world, at all events on any fiscal or trade subject.

APPOINT COMMITTEES ON VARIOUS INDUSTRIES

Mr. Asquith's Government appointed through its Board of Trade, presided over by Mr. Walter Runciman, four committees, one on the iron and steel industry, one on the engineering trades, one on the textile trades, and one on the electrical trades. The committee on the iron and steel trades was composed of seven men. Now, I want the House to keep in mind the fact that these committees were not appointed for the purpose of finding a certain verdict; they were appointed under the leadership of a Prime Minister who was a free trader and who doubtless hoped that free trade would be permanent in Great Britain. They were appointed under the presidency of Mr. Runciman, who was also a free trader and who certainly would not engineer his department to bring in a verdict hostile to his own course and principles. But here is the verdict; here is the report, and to it I invite the attention not so much of hon. gentlemen opposite—because in my heart I do not believe that very many of them would disagree with a single line or letter of what I am going to read—but particularly to the attention of hon. gentlemen "angularly" opposite, men who, I am bound to assume, are sincere in their discussion of this question; men who have gone up and down the township lines in Western Canada and in Eastern Canada and who denounced protection as bondage; men have pointed to the example of Britain; men who have referred to everybody whose product receives a protective duty as a specially privileged person—often, indeed, calling them "scoundrels great and scoundrels small," language which will revive memories in hon. gentlemen opposite. Here is the report of the committee on the iron and steel trades of British free traders—at least a committee of Britishers; I do not know what they were before, but I know they were not free traders after they got into the facts:

A comparative examination of the iron and steel industries of the U.S.A., Germany and Great Britain reveals the fact that the proportional capacity of production of these three countries stands in the ratio of 40; 20; 10—

—millions of tons; and a survey of the historical progress of these industries indicates clearly that as a competitor in the markets of the world the United Kingdom has steadily lost ground. In 1889 Great Britain produced 7.7 million tons of pig iron; the U.S.A. produced 3.8 million tons, and Germany 2.7 million tons. In 1909 Great Britain produced 8.9 million tons, the U.S.A. 13.8 million tons, and Germany 6.5 million tons. In 1913, the record year of British iron manufacture, Great Britain produced 10.3 million tons of pig iron, the U.S.A. 31 million tons and Germany 19 million tons.

In 1880, therefore, Great Britain produced 54 per cent. of the total output of the three countries. In 1900 her production was only 28 per cent., and in 1913 it had fallen to 17 per cent.

BRITISH PERCENTAGE STEADILY DECLINING

Today it is probably 15 per cent. of the output of these three countries—flourishing indeed! and all in the absense of "special privilege" and "scoundrels great and scoundrels small." But, to pass on, what is the remedy?

There is a general consensus of opinion among British manufacturers—

The men who wanted free trade in 1850, the men who forced it on agricultural England.

—that the British interests have suffered severely through the action of foreign syndicates which have ben free to exploit the British home markets wherever it suited them to do so, while they themselves were protected from reprisal by the protection extended to them by their respective governments, and that British producers were defenceless against the aggressive methods of their foreign competitors.

The general result of these various conditions is that the iron and steel industries of Great Britain have become thoroughly discredited as a field for the investment of capital.

That report is signed by seven men out of the nine, and included in the signature in favor of the report that of Mr. John Hodge, labor leader of England and later Minister of Labor in the Government of Mr. Lloyd George. But I find two signatures against it, not of the plain people about whom the hon. member for Kent (Mr. McCoig) granted so much, I find an hon. baronet, Sir Hugh Bell, and what he and a Mr. Davison says was so characteristic of the hon. member for Red Deer (Mr. M. Clark) that I had to look several times at the signature to be sure it was not "Michael Clark." This is what is said by Mr. Davison and concurred in by Sir Hugh Bell who dissented from the report:

While in agreement with the recommendations, and with the greater part of the report, I wish to record my complete dissent from those passages which appear to suggest the necessity of a change in the fiscal policy of the United Kingdom.

No reasons given. The report is all right, they say; it is true that the British iron and steel industries have gone down almost to decay; it is true that other countries have taken from us the supremacy that we have enjoyed for years; it is true that we found ourselves faced with a war without such equipment in this great basic industry as would alone enable us to survive; all that is true; we hold up both hands as to the truth of every word of it; but we cannot stand for a change in the fiscal policy of England.

Mr. Michael Clark—I suppose my hon. friend knows that Sir Hugh Bell is one of the greatest ironmasters in the north of England and, indeed, in the world, and he probably knows what he is speaking about.

Mr. Meighen—That makes it worse than ever.

Mr. Michael Clark—Why should he not want protection?

DOGGED DEVOTION TO CUSTOM IN BRITAIN

Mr. Meighen—Because of the very characteristic that—while it is admitted they have many great qualities—very often pervade the citizens of the British Isles, that dogged devotion to custom, obstinately refusing to make a change, that worship of tradition. These, notwithstanding many qualities that have brought them to the forefront of the world, have undoubtedly held them back and handicapped them in a war, and these, as nearly all of them admit now, have cost them thousands and hundreds of thousands of lives to succeed in the struggle that has passed. Those peculiarities compelled them rather to muddle through instead of being in a position, by virtue of the very superior characteristics of that nation, to win the war at the least possible expense.

We must remember that this report is not the opinion of dogmatists; this is the deliberate judgment after thorough and complete investigation, the full facts of the matter having been laid bare. Does the hon. gentleman contemplate with satisfaction, to use the words of Lloyd George, a change from the position when free trade came on of supremacy in the iron and steel industry down to a ratio of 40 and 20 to 10 against Great Britain and in favor of the United States and Germany? Does he think that is all right? If it is not, how does he expect it to be overcome? Do not have any artificial means, he says; everything is all right, cure it, somehow, but do not have the Government do anything. That is the policy of the hon. member for Marquette (Mr. Crerar) and the hon. member for Red Deer (Mr. M. Clark). Let us see, just by a few more quotations, what these leading Englishmen think of that policy. They say this in the report from which I am quoting:

The war has taught at once how urgent was the need for vast resources of iron and steel, and how insufficient were the British iron and steel industries to meet that need. The causes of this insufficiency have been dealt with in some detail elsewhere, and the committee have made recommendations with respect to action within the industries which they believe will go far to remedy the defects which the strain of war has only too prominently revealed. Several of these causes, springing mainly from the pressure of foreign competition, cannot be removed by the private action of the industries themselves, and for their elimination direct governmental action is required.

POUR GOODS AT BELOW COST INTO BRITAIN

What is that governmental action? They proceed to discuss dumping; they proceed to show that, by virtue of the free trade policy of England, dumping inevitably result when nations pour goods at below cost into England, but not at a loss to the industry in the nation producing these goods because by doing so, the manufacturers were enable to increase the scale of their product, and in that way to keep down costs, while enabling them to destroy the industries of England at the same time that they were building up their own. They show that in the clearest terms; they advocate protection against dumping, and then they say:

Moreover, the committee are convinced that for the future safeguarding of the iron and steel industries it will be necessary to establish a system of protective duties, and in this opinion they are supported by the practically united feeling of the British iron and steel producers who have given evidence before the committee.

These are from the same class of men who precipitated free trade on England, and they are practically united in their opinion that the industry cannot live, and without the iron and steel industry, what other industry can live? The iron and steel industry is at all events the basis of a huge percentage of all other industries; it is the great substructure of all the industries of the country. But they go on:

The maintenance of a great open market in the midst of the greater producing nations of the world is incompatible with the prosperity and even with the existence of a native iron and steel industry. Under modern conditions, the expenditure of capital is immense; renewals of plant must be rapid and frequent, and amortization must, therefore, be swift. This capital cannot be obtained unless there is reasonable security for the industry into which it is to be placed. So long as the British home market can be flooded with foreign imported material, a native industry will continue to be unprofitable and will become more and more unsafe.

I ask the indulgence of the House while I read further, because a more succinct and better informed presentation of the case, carrying clearer reasons with it, could not possibly be given:

The conditions of competition between Great Britain and her rivals are thoroughly unequal.

Not because British character and ability are not equal to those of other nations, but for the reasons they set out:

The iron and steel industries of Germany and America are protected from retaliatory action by heavy tariffs.

That is, in a comparatively free trade country.

Their home market is practically assured to the national industries, and the whole weight of their competitive force can be thrown into the trade in external markets. Great Britain depends for her prosperity much more upon exports than either Germany or America; but by reason of her free-trade system she has been compelled to divert her greatest strength from exports to the struggle for maintenance of her markets at home. The non-existence of a fiscal policy of any kind renders effective governmental action impossible, since Great Britain possesses no economic weapon by which concessions of any kind can be won from her trade rivals.

SOME FACTS REGARDING THE TIN-PLATE INDUSTRY

Now this is most significant, and I should like this to be read in association with the figures as regards the tin-plate industry given by the hon. member for Fort William and Rainy River (Mr. Manion):

A signal instance of this disadvantage is afforded by the history of the Welsh Tinplate Trade after the introduction of the McKinley Tariff in the U.S.A., which resulted in the building up within a few years of an immense tinplate industry founded largely upon labor which migrated from South Wales.

"Which migrated from South Wales!"

The Welsh industry was for many years well-nigh ruined. Its mills and works were idle; its workmen were scattered far and wide, and cruel distress reigned in South Wales. Yet nothing could be done, save to yield to the operation of "natural" causes.

And, as if to avoid plagiarism of the hon. member for Marquette, they put the word "natural" in quotation marks. It goes:

The Committe therefore recommend that customs duties be imposed upon all imported iron and steel and manufactures thereof. They are of opinion that a specific duty should be levied upon each class of commodity, and that there should be maximum, general and minimum tariffs. The amount of tariff should be determined by consideration of the needs of the industry protected, and by the needs of the nation as a whole; and the amount of specific tariff should be varied readily, according to the changing demands of national policy.

Another familiar phrase!

Mr. Michael Clark: Was this committee appointed by the present Government in England?

Mr. Meighen: No, by the Asquith Government, distinctly a Simon-pure Liberal Government, and it just reported in 1918. It took two years for its work. It goes on:

The existence of a tariff of this nature would, in the opinion of the Committee, be of the greatest advantage to the industries and the nation. There is no reason to believe that the price to the consumer would rise.

Listen to this:

On the contrary, the increase in production at home would lead to very material reduction in costs, since it would be possible to effect economies in production by the installation of more complete and better plant. The experience of the United States proves that the stimulating effect upon production through the conservation of the home market results in an actual reduction rather than in an increase in price.

There is scarcely one of the romances in the theory which the hon. member for Red Deer has preached for the last twelve years that is not knocked in the head, or, as he himself expresses it, has not its head cut off at the tail, by this report of experts in his native land. It goes on:

Again, the existence of a tariff will place in the hands of the State a most powerful weapon of economic defence.

That is the argument urged by the hon. member for Shelburne and Queen's in the very first Budget Speech he ever made in this House—the existence of a tariff was necessary for economic defence. So impressed was he with that argument that before his Budget Speech he did what no Finance Minister has ever done before. He made a preliminary statement in the city of Montreal in which he said that on account of the contemplated 75 cents a ton duty in the McKinley tariff, there would be no reduction in the coal duty in this country, and he further stated in the same speech that if they would dare to put on that 75 cents a ton duty he would retaliate with a duty on anthracite coal itself. Everyone gets to see these things when they get into office. The report goes on:

The weakness of any scheme of imperial preference has hitherto been the inability of Britain to offer any real privilege in return for those accorded to her by the Dominions. The possession of a tariff will enable this country to discriminate in favor of the Dominions and to give them concession for concession.

(8) A tariff will be not less advantageous in the course of negotiations with independent foreign countries. Here, too, Britain has in the past had nothing with which to bargain, and has, therefore, been unable adequately to protect the interests of her subjects.

(9) From the labor standpoint a tariff is no less necessary.

And remember this is signed by John Hodge, and I emphasize this, because there is a sort of bewildering combination now being sought between the U.F.O. or something else and Labor:

From the labor standpoint a tariff is no less necessary. The anxiety of Germany is to preserve an open market in Britain; and it will not be to the interest of the workmen employed in the British iron and steel industries to permit the unchecked importation of the product of foreign labor, working under conditions far less favorable than those of British labor.

Mr. Lemieux: Is that report signed by Balfour or Burleigh?

Mr. Meighen: No, I will give the signatures. I do not know who they are: G. Scoby-Smith (chairman), John King, G. Mure Ritchie, Hy. Summers, Benj Talbot. From that there is a dissenting statement by Sir Hugh Bell and Mr. John E. Davison.

Mr. Lemieux: The committee reported in 1918?

Mr. Meighen: But was appointed in 1916 by the Government of Mr. Asquith.

Mr. Lemieux: Has any action been taken by the British Government along the lines of that report?

REPORT ON BRITISH ELECTRICAL TRADES

Mr. Meighen: I do not think any action has been taken except what I shall describe a little later on. Over there they are now going through the contortions and groanings and sufferings that precede repentance. As respects the electrical trades, a committee consisting of six men was appointed, and their report is unanimous. In the Old Country, just as here, these men are appointed for the purpose of a specific investigation, they are appointed because they have special qualifications for the purpose, the committees are composed of representatives of every class of the community, they report after their investigations, and they are confronted there, just as we are here, with orators of the same sort as the hon. member for Red Deer, and with demagogues like other hon. gentlemen who go up and down the side lines in Western Canada and elsewhere talking "special privilege." All that they have to overcome, and they are now in process of overcoming it. The report on the electrical trades says:

Again, foreign governments, appreciating the importance of conserving their home markets as a basis for the development of overseas trade, imposed protective duties, and exerted influence on State Departments to purghase native goods.

They go on and say:

The necessity for protective duties has been emphasized by many witnesses connected with manufacturing interests and has been frankly recognized by representatives of purchasers.

Of purchasers. That is consumers.

The Committee is convinced that adequate protection is necessary and should be given at least for a period.

Mr. Lapointe: Hear, hear.

Mr. Meighen: The hon. member for Quebec East applauds.

Mr. Lapointe: The word "adequate" is so often used.

Mr. Meighen: My hon. friend ironically applauds at the phrase "adequate protection." The Finance Minister (Mr. Fielding) whom he supported and the father of this milk and water amendment now before the House described his tariff, the Fielding tariff, as "adequate protection" himself, and I shall quote from his remarks after recess.

At 6 o'clock the House took recess.

After Recess

The House resumed at eight o'clock.

Hon. Arthur Meighen (resuming): The unanimous report of the British Government Committee on electrical trades states:

The necessity of retaining the home markets as a basis of overseas trade has never been properly recognized in this country—

That is, in England; and their recommendation is as follows:

The imposition of import duties sufficiently high to protect effectively the electrical industry.

And this following is something that is of moment in relation to a charge made in speeches of hon. members opposite, that Great Britain had been free from mergers and combines, invariably against the interests of the consumers and the common people. This is the recommendation:

The recognition of the advantage of combination among manufacturers, and official co-operation with such action.

I can be very brief with the other reports; they are all precisely to the same effect.

Mr. Charles Murphy: Is the report from which the hon. minister is quoting signed by the same gentleman as the report which he read this afternoon?

Mr. Meighen: No; it is signed by a separate committee appointed on this subject. The members of that committee are Hon. Sir Charles A. Parsons, Mr. John Annan Bryce, Mr. T. O. Callander, Mr. James Devonshire, Mr. Bernard Mervyn Drake and Sir John Snell. There was no minority report. In the case of the engineering trades the committee was composed of the following: Sir Clarendon Golding Hyde Mr. Arthur Balfour—I do not know whether that is Arthur J. Balfour or not; I do not suppose it is; Mr. Albert John Hobson, Mr. William B. Lang(Sir Hallewell Rogers, Mr. Herbert B. Rowell, and Mr. Douglas Vickers.

The report of that committee was to the same effect as the previous report and I can summarize it in a word. They first of all, of course, outline the difficulties against which the trades have labored. They depict in very clear and emphatic language the position to which they have been relegated in the struggle for world trade, and they end with this recommendation, among others:

That a Givernment department be charged with the duty of exercising vigilance over the adequate provision in this country of manufacturers as distinct from our staple trades which are at any time essential to the national safety, such as tungsten and magnetoes.

(b) That the development of the supply of raw materials within the Empire for such essential industries be supervised, encouraged and assisted by the Government.

(c) That all necessary steps to protect such essential industries be taken by the Government, whether by prohibition, tariff protection or subsidy.

Mr. Michael Clark: That is, during the war?

THE TEXTILE INDUSTRY IN UNITED KINGDOM

Mr. Meighen: No; it is a report of what is to be done after the war. They do not refer to the war at all. What would be the sense in starting a subsidy system or a protective tariff in 1918 to help England during the war? Next, the committee on the textile trades take up each separate department of those trades in England, and make investigation into their conditions and their needs. If there is any respect in which England has managed to hold part of her own in connection with business, it is with regard to the textile trades. As to iron and steel she long ago abdicated her position, but with the textile trades this has not been true to the same extent. This is what the report says with regard to these trades. As to the cotton trade they say:

In the cotton trade there is very little demand for any change in our present policy. The trade is predominantly an export trade, 80 per cent. of its output being exported, and it cannot expect to derive direct benefit from any system of import duties upon yarns or manufactured goods. On the other hand, there is a generally expressed fear that the imposition of anything like a general tariff might raise costs of production, and to that extent handicap and lessen efficiency of trade in world competition. A majority of witnesses were in favor of restrictions upon trade with the Central Powers after the war.

Mr. Crerar: When was this committee appointed?

Mr. Meighen: In 1916.

Mr. Crerar: All these committees were appointed during the war.

Mr. Meighen: Yes, but they report what is to be done after the war, and they say so definitely in the report which they make in 1918.

They report late in 1918, having been appointed under the Asquith Government, on the 27th of April, 1916. I will take up the little comfort that the hon. gentleman has been able to

SPEECH OF THE HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN.

The speech of the Hon. Arthur Meighen in the Budget Debate, which The Gleaner publishes in full today, is a splendidly enlightening presentation. Students of political affairs will read it closely with profit. "Always a "keen student, a tireless investigator, "and blessed with a mind singularly "logical and acute, Mr. Meighen today "displayed a range of knowledge and "an historical sweep which placed his "utterance upon a high plane as a "parliamentary effort, and, although "there were times when he seemed "to tax his auditors with a surplus of "lengthy quotations, it was a notable "tribute to his ascendancy in the "House that he held a crowded cham-"ber for upwards of three hours"; that was the comment by one of the most exacting of the parliamentary press reporters. "He speaks like a "lawyer from a brief," Mr. Chamberlain complained of Mr. Asquith in the old tariff reform days, whereupon a famous Liberal retorted, "Yes, but what a brief"; and, as the reporter says, "that is what must be said of "the speech which Mr. Meighen de-"livered in the Commons. It was the "brief of a lawyer but a very remark-"able one, the case for the Ministry's "proposals being set forth in a form "so exhaustive, so lucid and so com-"prehensive that it will serve as a "veritable handbook for political "writers and speakers for a long time "to come." A decidedly interesting part of the speech was the evidence Mr. Meighen produced bearing upon the present economic condition of Great Britain under free trade, which showed the culmination of a gradual decline in commerce since 1850, and now flourished only by reason of returns from its investments. He read extensively extracts from a commission appointed there a few years ago, and which had recently reported, showing that the salvation of the coal, iron, electrical and other industries of that country depended upon the institution of protective measures, including prohibition of imports, protective tariffs, bonuses or anti-dumping measures. In this connection he threw such a volley of caustic rhetorical questions at the sage from Red Deer (Dr. Michael Clark) that the latter left the House.

Mr. Meighen pointed out that Mr. Fielding's amendment only covered half of the official platform adopted at the Ottawa convention, and did not even represent the real convictions of the Liberal ex-Minister of Finance, who had stated in his paper that the Liberal platform was made "to get in on, not to stand on." Its sole purpose was the hope of securing a vote of want of confidence in the government. The Farmers' party had done their share in the alleged conspiracy by not daring to move their platform in the House, lest they embarrass the Liberal protectionists, who dared not openly support it. Again:

I hold in my hand the official percentage figures of duty charged under the tariff of the hon. gentleman (Mr. Fielding) and under the preceding tariff and I purpose to show the House just the extent to which his tariff was in the least degree different. The last tariff under the Conservative Government — because the scale had been reduced very much by the Conservative Government in the revision of 1894—gave an average percentage of duty on dutiable goods of 29.96 per cent. That was the tariff which went out of effect when the Fielding tariff came in. The hon. gentleman gave us a tariff in which the percentage, instead of being 29.96, was 29.22, or the great reduction of .74 per cent. That is precisely the reduction that was made and that I suppose is all the hon. gentleman had to do to bring the tariff out of the Tory category and make it in keeping with the "historic" principles of Liberalism. The next year the percentage was 28.65. It remained around there till 1897. And in neither year was there anything like the change that was made by way of reduction by the Minister of Finance in connection with the revision that preceded it in 1894—nothing to compare with it in any degree and nothing to compare, in the whole fifteen years, during which the responsibility was upon the Liberal Government, with the reduction that is embodied in the Budget which we are debating today or even in the Budget we were debating last year. THE REDUCTION TODAY IS 40 TIMES GREATER THAN THEIRS.

In 1911 the Liberal party, fearing the growth of Free Trade sentiment in the West, made an eleventh hour effort to implement its twenty-year-old pledges, but even then it did not propose to go as far toward tariff reductions as the Borden Government, and, subsequently, Union Government, have gone. On this point also Mr. Meighen was able to shed considerable light. He said:

The following are the duties that he (Mr. Fielding) supported through the whole fifteen years of Liberal Government, and I will give the reasons, taken from Hansard, why they did so. In order to keep things clear before hon. members, I had better give three scales of duties, first the one that prevailed for fifteen years. On some articles it was a little higher prior to 1907; they did not reduce the duty on farm implements by a copper between 1896 and 1907, a period of eleven years; then they took 2½ per cent. off certain farm implements, and they said that was a very substantial reduction.

	Fielding Tariff Per cent.	Under Reciprocity Per cent.	Today Per cent.
Binders	17½	15	12½
Mowers	17½	15	12½
Reapers	17½	15	12½
Seed drills	20	15	15
Weeders	20	20	15
Manure spreaders	20	20	15
Harrows	20	15	15
Traction engines	20	20	Free up to valuation of $1,400
Separators	20	15	17½
Farm wagons	25	22½	20
Windmills	20	20	17½
Fanning mills	25	20	20
Cultivators	20	15	15

Referring to the inconsistencies of the Liberals, Mr. Meighen pointed out, among other things, that the leader of the Opposition had been touring the country telling the farmers that they and the Liberals were near relations, and that there was little difference between them on the tariff. It was a noticeable thing, however, that the Liberals did not include coal in their free list articles. The member for North Cape Breton and Victoria (Mr. D. D. McKenzie) and the member for Queens and Shelburne (Mr. Fielding) would never stand for coal being placed on the free list, and it looked as if they had succeeded in "putting it over" the leader of the Opposition.

It is with much pleasure that we publish Mr. Meighen's great speech in its entirety.

MEMBERS OF THE COMMONS AND THE INDEMNITY.

The reports from Ottawa bearing on the question of an increase in the sessional indemnity are suggestive of a situation that will be generally deplored. Aside from the force of the argument for an increase or the lack of weight or force, it is a serious blow to the reputation of parliamentary institutions in Canada if the Government of the country is to be held up by its supporters in the Commons, if the Budget is not to be passed and other important business blocked, until or unless these private members are guaranteed the increase in sessional indemnity that they ask for. We cannot have independence of Parliament while such a condition of affairs exists, nor can we have constitutional government other than that in the form of mockery. If reports be true, members of the Commons have taken advantage of what they regard as serious political party conditions to strike for more pay, and perhaps shorter hours of so-called work, to force the Government to increase the indemnity by nearly one hundred per cent; and this absolutely regardless of the public interests and the needs of the people whom the members represent or misrepresent —a deliberate holdup. It is earnestly to be hoped that the reports are exaggerated; it would be a great satisfaction to learn that the reports are absolutely without foundation.

MARYSVILLE LADIES TO CHARLOTTETOWN

Women's Auxiliary of Methodist Church Meeting in Charlottetown

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Marysville, N. B., May 31.—Miss M. Nichol, of Chatham, sang a solo at the evening service of the Methodist church Sunday in a very acceptable manner. Miss Nichol is leaving tomorrow for Charlottetown, P.E.I., to attend the branch meeting of the Women's Auxiliary Society of the church. Mrs. J. J. Pinkerton and Mrs. A. A. Gibson are the delegates from Marysville.

George Nowlin, of Dorchester, Mass., who has been visiting his sisters, Mrs. Fred Stafford and Mrs. Eugene Connolly, for the past week, left this morning for St. John en route to his home.

J. Brown, of Merriton, R. I., is visiting friends here. Mr. Brown is superintendent of a large moulding factory at Merriton.

Herbert Steeves, of Campbellton, spent the week-end with friends here.

J. Dolphin, G. A. Tapley, J. A. Stafford and James Dolphin visited the Dunbar Saturday afternoon and caught about four dozen speckled beauties.

Rain is very much needed for the farms and gardens. Everything is parched for the want of rain, and the dust on the streets is terrible. Why not get a watering cart for Marysville?

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Dickson, of Fredericton, spent a portion of Sunday with Mrs. Alex. Gibson.

Abner Gordon, of South Devon, visited friends here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Cody, of St. John, spent the week-end with Mrs. Cody's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Stafford. They made the trip in their auto.

Archbishop Casey Better.

Archbishop Casey, who was seriously ill at St. Paul's Hospital, Vancouver, a short time ago, is now almost recovered. It is expected that he will be able to return to his home within the next two weeks.

MEMBERS DEMAND $4,000 INDEMNITY

A Determined Assault Being Made on the Government for Increased Allowance

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, May 31.—The move for an increase in the sessional indemnity of Senators and members of Parliament from $2,500 to $4,000 appears to attract in political circles at Ottawa far more attention than what is going on in the House.

The movement started vigorously some months ago, but sustained a severe jolt when the Ontario government turned down a similar proposal; but latterly the drive has been resumed with greater force than ever, and, while the government has bravely resisted, there are indications that it may have to capitulate and "come across."

While the demand for more money is very persistent, it is a fact that no session has seen the attendance in the chamber so slim and irregular as this one, especially on the ministerial side. It is the custom to turn out fairly strong at the start of proceedings, but once the routine is over and the orders of the day are proceeded with, there is a wholesale exit. Night after night a quorum has to be gathered from the highways and byways by the whips, in the Scriptural phrase, "compelling them to come in." Time and again during this session, if the Opposition had wished to delay business, they could have "counted out" the House by reason of absentees. There are three Ontario members whose attendance in the House during the session could be counted on the fingers of one hand. The delinquents come mainly from that province. Members from the West, from Quebec and the lower provinces are rather more regular in their attendance.

The government, in endeavoring to resist the onslaught to increase indemnities to four or five thousand dollars a session, takes the ground that when the soldiers have been refused any cash gratuity and when urgent public works are held up because of financial conditions, it would be peculiarly out of place should Parliament proceed to raise their own allowances. It is further pointed out that it is an indemnity and not a salary which is paid, the assumption being that every member of Parliament has some other means of support. These arguments, however, are not serving as any deterrent against the drive, and some of the members are not only demanding more money but also that it be exempted from the process of income taxation on the grounds that it is an indemnity rather than a salary. In its resistance, the Cabinet is having considerable support from the press throughout the country; but it is feared that unless public opposition is strongly manifested the assault will prove successful. Since the present Parliament was returned there has been no such thing as a long session, and at the end of the present session every member and Senator will have drawn $10,000 in indemnity, as well as free transportation for themselves and the dependent members of their family.

The amount of the proposed increase will figure out at about half a million dollars a year, or a capitalized sum of over eight million dollars. So far, the Farmer party in Parliament has declined to sign the "round Robins" on the ground that they knew what indemnity they were to receive when they came into Parliament, and that they are prepared to carry out their contract, especially when so many other demands are being turned down on grounds of national economy.

HALIFAX MAN DROWNED

Halifax, May 30—Roland G. Morton, a Halifax business man, was drowned near Windsor on Saturday. He went to Three Mile Plains to spend a holiday at the home of his boyhood, and Saturday morning he started off for the reservoir at Fall Brook to spend a few hours fishing. When he did not return his friends became anxious and a search was made. His hat, gloves, a cup of tea and part of his lunch were found on the edge of the reservoir.

Mrs. Fred Ebbeett, of The Barony, was a guest for the week-end at Windsor Hall.

The Stock Market

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Montreal, May 31.—The local market put in an exceedingly active first hour this morning. Outside of Brazilian, the paper stocks were practically the only issues touched. Riordan, on the strength no doubt, of the merger talk, opened strong at 197, seven points above last week's high. After heavy trading, however, it dropped to 190, recovering a point to 191. Abitibi was steady around 70 and Laurentide at 100. Brompton, which was very active this morning, hung around 115. Spanish River weakened fractionally at 95¼. Wayagamack, which was also on the active list, stood around 109.

MANY ACCIDENTS ON NORTH SHORE

Several accidents occurred recently in Campbellton and vicinity, one of which was fatal. The eight year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Love, while playing about a fire in the yard of her home fell into the blaze. Her mother was severely burned in rescuing the child, but the latter was so seriously burned that she died in the hospital.

John Hurley, of Ferguson Manor, aged nine, was struck by an automobile. A leg was fractured and he was otherwise hurt.

While driving pickets for salmon nets near Oak Bay, Joseph Duncan was struck by a maul in the hands of a fellow fisherman. Duncan was struck on the head, becoming unconscious, but his skull was not fractured.

Three stream drivers, while working on a drive in the Charlo river, were injured by rolling logs.

During a drive on the main Restigouche, James Main, young son of William Main of Dawsonville, was carried out into the middle of the river. With only two logs to stand on he was swept down stream five miles before he could reach shore.

On the Job

When the man at the head of a business is always on the job, keenly alive to business opportunities and the chance to do shrewd buying and profitable selling, he keys up every man in his employ. And the "Boss" must be prepared to act with swift decision on information supplied him.

As an example: A cargo of leather was recently lying at Halifax subject to forced sale. A traveller for Clark Bros., Ltd., St. Stephen, N. B., so informed the firm and as a result Mr. John F. Clark, general manager, paid a visit to Halifax. He bought the entire cargo far below the market price, shipped it to St. Stephen, then journeyed to Toronto, where he placed an order with ONE firm for $60,000 worth of shoes to be made from this happy purchase of leather.

We will be pleased to tell you more of this enterprising firm and of their new issue of eight per cent. preferred stock which we are undertaking to sell after a thorough investigation of the values, purpose, products and people behind the investment. Free from normal Income Tax and fully protected by insurance on lives of the principals.

FROM THE PEOPLE

FREDERICTON HOSPITAL REQUIREMENTS

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—In reply to a letter which appeared in your paper of the 26th inst., entitled City Council and the Hospital, by Citizen, may I be allowed to say that the apparent haste in placing the matter before the Council was unavoidable, and at the same time of absolute importance, for the reason that in order to economize in the building of the very much needed additional wing as proposed, the trustees of the Victoria Public Hospital necessarily awaited action by the Messrs. Fraser, and until a very short time ago were unable to know what those gentlemen definitely proposed doing.

For many years the necessity of adequate hospital accommodation has been keenly realized by both the physicians and the trustees who have administered this institution under all kinds of handicaps, especially of late years, and it has been evident that means must be provided for the ever increasing numbers of sick who demand and must have attention. True, very many have been refused hospital admission or have gone or been sent elsewhere. Prospective mothers have had absolutely no hospital protection here, and many a poor person has been obliged to suffer under the most distressing conditions because the hospital could not admit them.

To give an idea of what obtains here only recently an emergency case had to take the bed of a patient who should have remained at the hospital longer, and at the same time an unfortunate emergency (a case of a broken back) could only be housed in the contagious hospital, that is, the isolation wing. With such knowledge at hand, and with the additional fact facing us that the Fraser Memorial unit was to be, and it now being pushed to completion, and being assured by the architect that any changes required to establish unity of service, heat, lighting, elevator, arrangements of the necessary maternity and public ward of the annex (proposed), along with the Fraser unit, would necessitate immediate readjustments of his plans, several emergency metings were held of the representatives of the hospital staff, hospital trustees, of the City Council, Ladies' Aid and other interested and active citizens. It was evident that nothing else could be done than was done on the evening of the day on which the architect gave his final advice that the City Council be seen with the view of carrying out the scheme mentioned, that is, that in order to provide a home for the city poor or other ward cases, means be provided, also provision for maternity cases, the conversion of the old hospital into a home for the nursing staff and student nurses, and the absolute removal of the infectious wing toward the bank of the river.

Let it be understood that the Fraser Memorial Hospital unit is not at all adequate for any more than a small hospital, about 30 beds, but it will be an ideal administrative building, of elaborate design, and an asset in beauty and efficiency. A most essential feature, however, which this speed of action had to deal with was the central building for heat, light, power and laundry which, as is evident to anyone, means considerable change in the plumbing and other specifications.

So far as the imperative need of such vitally important hospital requirements are concerned, no person—unless he be one of those inhumane icebergs who place economy before life or health—questions, and the more one knows of the subject, the greater he feels the necessity of immediate action.

There has never been any improvement measure along humanitarian, social or sanitary lines advocated, no matter how important they were to the health, happiness and welfare of our citizens, but was opposed by a certain type of "economist" who found those improvements extravagant and against the rights of the common people. "Reckless" were the sewage and filtration system, which has prevented hundreds of deaths from typhoid alone since its inception; decent city streets, as now under way, lighting, permanent bridges, or in fact, anything of real worth to the other fellow.

Our present hospital is unfit in every way and cannot be made to meet the standard of hospital efficiency, and the sooner it is remedied the better. Our nurses and student nurses must have sanitary quarters; our isolation hospital must be removed from the present site; provision must be made for maternity cases, and provisions likewise made for the poor, (the Fraser unit will be elaborate enough for the people of means). It is imperative that an isolated building for power, heat, light and laundry be far enough away to preclude all noise and malodors, and I am sure that no citizen "worth his salt" to the community will oppose such, no matter what opposition he may concoct.

For the benefit of Citizen I might say that all the legal troubles he anticipates have been thought of and means adopted to meet the "emergency" and whilst he may be an adept in telling us that Mr. Hutchinson's example should be emulated, we are able to say that our plans will be better for this community, for we will have a much more desirable building through the generosity of the Messrs. Fraser and at the same time will not have on our hands a building not at all adapted to modern hospital ideals, as our friend Citizen supposes exists elsewhere.

Yours,
DOCTOR.

DON'T DO IT

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I have seen no reply to your correspondent's request for advice regarding the matter of living with her husband's mother and brother after they are married, and I think it deserves one. I would say, most emphatically, don't do it. This, however, is no reflection upon either party. It is only natural that the younger woman—a girl of 21—should have entirely different ideas about the arrangement and management of her home and her life in general from those of a woman old enough to be her mother, even if she had lived in this country all her life, and it is her right to have the opportunity to express her ideas in her home making without feeling that anyone is disapproving of her methods. Live in two rooms, if necessary, with only your husband, rather than in a large apartment with his people. And right here let me say that if he still insists upon your living with them after you have told him your reasons for not wishing to do so (being sure, of course, that you speak kindly about it) he might be inclined to be arbitrary in other matters.

I have a friend who always speaks affectionately of her husband, who died a good many years ago, but she has always felt that she was cheated out of her right in one respect. Her husband insisted upon living with his people. They had a large house and plenty to do with, but she never felt that she had a home that she could call her own, and she would have much preferred to live in two rooms by themselves. This is only one instance of several I could mention in which living with "in-laws" was not a happy arrangement for either party. I am more than old enough to be your mother, and for the sake of the happiness of all concerned my advice is, don't live under the same roof with your husband's people.

Yours,
HAPPY LIFE.

Calais, Me., May 27, 1920.

"IS" OR "ARE" PROBLEM

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—With reference to the argument about which is correct, "Sweaters is our specialty" or "Sweaters are our specialty," it strikes me that the solution of this problem lies in deciding whether the mind naturally would conceive the word "sweaters" as expressing numbers or parts of a whole or whether it would naturally take "sweaters" to convey the sense of totality, of a whole.

Take the sentences: "The audience was (or were) interested in the speaker's description," "two hundred dollars is (or are) needed." High authorities affirm that this same kind of conception we get of the subject nouns "audience" and "dollars" determines the use or the singular or the plural verb. They hold too that often it is correct to use either the singular verb or plural verb, as "six and four are (or is) ten."

With regard to the sign "Sweaters Is Our Specialty," the subject noun "sweaters" (denoting a line of goods) conveys a distinct and natural impression of a whole as distinguished from an impression of the parts that go to make up a whole. Consequently I take it that the sentence, "Sweaters Is our specialty" is grammatically correct as it stands. Yours,

JOHN.

Oak Hall

HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN ON BUDGET

think up during the dinner hour in a moment and see how far it takes him. Now let me finish with this report.

Mr. Demers: What is the date of the report?

Mr. Meighen: 1918 is the date of the report in the case of the iron and steel industry, and the date is the same in this case. I do not know that the report gives the day of the month, it gives the year.

Now in regard to the woollen and worsted industry the report says there is not unanimous opinion prevailing as to the trade in men's wear, the majority being against an import duty.

As regards women's wear the majority is the other way. But passing from that to the carpet industry let me read the report:

By a large majority the representatives of the British carpet industry advocate the imposition of minimum and maximum tariffs on foreign carpets entering the United Kingdom.

THE SILK BUSINESS ASKS TARIFF ASSISTANCE

They go to explain that recommendation. Now as to the silk industry:

The Silk Industry.—This industry is practically unanimous in its request for tariff assistance on the ground that it cannot compete with the highly protected and carefully fostered silk industries of other countries—some of which habitually "dump" their goods in this market—unless such assistance is given at all events for a period.

Now comes the jute industry. In that connection the report says:

The Jute Industry.—This industry asks that an export tax of ½d. per lb. (approximately £5 per ton) may be imposed upon all jute leaving India with a total rebate in favor of the British Empire, total or graduated rebates in favor of our Allies, and graduated rebates in favor of such neutral countries as may offer reciprocal concessions of some kind. In the case of the present enemy countries there should be no rebates.

Meeting the case just the other way by an equal interference with free trade, an entire defiance of every principle of free trade getting at it by an export duty on the jute industry in India where the monopoly exists, with rebates to the British Empire, and lesser rebates for other countries.

On the linen industry they report that the prevailing feeling in the linen industry is in favor of a graduated scale of duties on manufactured goods, distinctions being made between Allies, neutrals and enemy countries.

The Hosiery and Fabric Glove Industry.—There is a practically unanimous demand in the hosiery trade that duties should be imposed upon all hosiery, underwear, knitted fabrics and glove fabrics, whether of woollen, worsted, cotton or silk, imported into the United Kingdom from foreign countries.

The Lace Industry.—This industry is in practically the same position as the hosiery industry. One branch of it, namely, the manufacture of Leavers lace, plain nets and lace curtains is prosperous and is able to hold its own in international competition, while another branch, namely, the manufacture of Plauen lace, Barmen trimmings and embroideries, encounters almost overwhelming competition from the specialized industry of Germany in these articles based upon large scale production.

I do not know whether there are any more or not, but at any rate this committee, in language the intent of which cannot be gainsaid but expressed in a sort of covering, concealed way, as if they were seeking to avoid political opposition, reports as follows:

That when the settlement of the general fiscal policy of the United Kingdom comes up for consideration and decision due attention should be given to the differing wishes and requirements of the textile trades, and to the facts in connection with international competition upon which they are based.

There is the clearest intimation in the report of this committee that by departure from the principles of free trade, and by that alone, can they expect to survive. Here are virtually all the industries of the United Kingdom brought under review by expert committees appointed by a Liberal Government, and these committees report, not for temporary expedients as for the purposes of the war—nothing of that mentioned in the report at all—but on a permanent policy based on the history of sixty years and rotted in the extraordinary condition of weakness into which British trade was seen to be by virtue of the strain of the war, or as portrayed by the strain of the war?

MERELY THE PLAY OF POLITCIAL PURPOSES

Now I have taken up much time to indicate to hon. gentlemen of this House that no encouragement can be obtained from England for free trade principle,—and remember it is principles we are discussing and only principles that count.

I can understand a man whose feet are based on free trade, however sinking the sand, voting against this Budget; but outside of merely the play of political purpose—what one might call political poker play—I cannot understand those who believe in the principle of protection voting against it. I have shown, I think, that there is no lesson to be learned in the United States in favor of such a contention; no lesson to be learned in Germany; the teachings are so plain in both countries that he who runs may read; and certainly, above all, there is no lesson to be learned in free trade in England.

We are at a stage now where we cannot mistake the teachings of experience. We have seen the result through seventy years in the Old Land. It is traced in the history of their trade returns that turned in 1850, the last decade year when they had a balance in their favor, and every decade year since a balance against them. Free trade has depopulated rural England; it has filled the emigrant ships with fugitives from her shores; it has scattered the manhood of Great Britain through the fields and workshops of the United States; it has starved and repressed and dwarfed the nascent industries of Ireland; it has reversed the supremacy that Britain held through centuries of industrial life in the world, and caused her to concede the place to other great competing nations that adopted a different policy. Such is the history of free trade.

Hon. gentelmen opposite have been in a position to learn from experience. They went through a trial of fifteen years in office. They knew the principles upon which they were elected. They know the appeals they made and in those appeals they were associated with many hon. gentlemen in the Agrarian party. They know the appeals they made against protection in every form, of all characteristics and by whatever adjectives described. they know they appealed on a platform in 1893 that denounced the whole principle of protection as false and unjust to the mass of the people and that proclaimed their policy to have for its goal free trade wich England and with the United States—that was the immediate goal and the whole world after. They know they confronted conditions in 1896 that made them determined that rather than sacrifice their country they would sacrifice their party, and for myself I give them credit for that decision. When the alternative was what it was that was the right thing to do. But the hon. member for Shelbourne and Queen's comes into this debate and in support of his vague, misty amendment, he tries to indicate to all, if he can, that he is for a lower tariff; he tells us that when he came into power before he did shape a different policy from that which had been in force, that he was true to this much described principle of Liberalism, whatever it may be. He says that in those days some one described his tariff as ruination to this country. No one ever described the Fielding tariff as it actually was as ruinous, or likely to be ruinous, to Canada. At the time he brought down a tariff supposed to give a preference to Great Britain alone but which would in effect give a preference not only to Great Britain but to Belgium, and Germany, and by virtue of treaties, to nations practically all over the world enjoying favored nation treatment; it was pointed out that its extension would be world wide. He denied the point when it was raised but he later conceded its correctness by coming down to the House and confining his tariff to Great Britain and Germany; because the treaties with these other nations had, I believe, at the request of Canada, specifically been denounced. But when the Budget Speech was delivered at that time the interjections which were offered by the Conservatives who were in Opposition clearly showed that they regarded the tariff that he had brought down as indistinguishable from the tariff which had preceded it and clearly showed that he then and there had departed from the principles to which his party had long given their adherence.

EXTENT TO WHICH THE LIBERALS CHANGED TARIFF

I hold in my hand the official percentage figures of duty charged under the tariff of the hon. gentleman Mr. Fielding) and under the preceding tariff and I purpose to show the House just the extent to which his tariff was in the least degree different. The last tariff under the Conservative Government—because the scale had been reduced very much by the Conservative Government in the revision of 1894—gave an average percentage of duty on dutiable goods, and these articles in effect remained the same) of 29.96 per cent. That was the tariff which went out of effect in 1897 when the Fielding tariff came in. The hon. gentelman gave us a tariff in which the percentage, instead of being 29.96, was 29.22, or the great reduction of .74 per cent. That is precisely the reduction that was made and that I supose is all the hon. gentleman had to do to bring the tariff out of the tory category and make it in keeping with the "historic" principles of Liberalism. The next year the percentage was 28.65. It remained around there till 1907. In 1908 it was increased and in 1909 it was further increased. It was increased indeed as much in 1909 as it was diminished in 1897. I do not know whether that was apostacy from the principles of Liberalism in 1909 but there was the same raise in 1909 as there was reduction in 1897 and in neither year was there anything like the change that was made by way of reduction by the Minister of Finance in connection with the revision that preceded it in 1894—nothing to compare with in any degree and nothing to compare, in the whole fifteen years, during which the responsibility was upon the Liberal Government, with the reduction that is embodied in the budget which we are debating today or even in the Budget we were debating last year. The reduction today is 40 times greater than theirs.

The tariff brought down now and under review by this House is the tariff of 1911 reduced in very considerable degree through all the long scale of articles enumerated in the excellent speech of the hon. member for St. John city (Mr. Elkin) a scale involving large aggregate reductions in the duties collected.

Now what position do we find ourselves in? In the meantime a new party has arisen. In the meantime the old creed—that which was the creed of the Liberal party of Canada before 1896—has been passed over to a new group originating in Western Canada and represented in this House by the members called the Agrarian party. The spokesman of that party this afternoon quoted the words of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1893 denouncing protection and stated that his party was the heir to that doctrine, which was in its possession now. It is not a legacy at all. It is nothing that passes by way of will on the death of the testator. It was assigned and put out of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's possession away back twenty-one—yes, twenty-four years ago. It was his property in 1895 but it never was his property afterwards.

Mr. Michael Clark—It is coming.

Mr. Meighen—It is coming, the hon. gentleman says. The hon. gentleman was complaining this afternoon that it was not coming. He was reading speeches to show that hon. gentlemen opposite are apostates to their doctrine.

Mr. Michael Clark—Assiniboia.

WHAT DID THE LIBERALS DO IN FIFTEEN YEARS?

Mr. Meighen—Yes, there is the hon. member for Assiniboia (Mr. Gould): I know he agrees with it, but how many hon. gentlemen on the other side of the House agree with it? I shall proceed in a minute to show that in 1893, before they knew what the responsibility of office was, before they had come close up to the real situation in Canada and were compelled to study it with a view to action, these hon. gentlemen denounced protection in adjectives that would almost burn the tongue. Nothing was too strong and they put forward a platform that denounced it. But in fifteen years of office what did they do?

They met last August. Did they denounce protection then? Last August they adopted a platform which started out with the resolution, moved now as an amendment by the hon. member for Shelbourne and Queen's (Mr. Fielding). They had a platform last August which called for reduction with a view to securing these two visionary things that are so useful on the stump and so meaningless in themselves:

Diminishing the very high cost of living which presses so severely on the masses of the people; reducing the cost of the instruments of production in the industries based on the natural resources of the Dominion, the vigorous development of which is essential to the progress and prosperity of our country.

That was the first half of the Liberal tariff platform. Then it goes on—here is something practical; here is the method, here are the actual, specific concrete things they are going to do in order to bring about these highly desirable results.

An hon. Member—Hear, hear.

Mr. Meighen—An hon. gentleman says "Hear, hear." They proceed:

That, to these ends, wheat, wheat flour and all products of wheat; the principal articles of food; farm implements and machinery; farm tractors, mining, flour and saw-mill machinery and repair parts thereof; rough and partly dressed lumber—

The House will please observe the word "party." In some of the newspaper editions of the platform they had it "dressed" lumber, but I see that the hon. member for Brome (Mr. McMaster) has part of the "dress" off and it is "partly" dressed when it comes into the debate in this House. That is a significant difference.

—gasoline, illuminating, lubricating and fuel oils; nets, net-twines and fishermen's equipments; cements and fertilizers, should be free from customs duties, as well as the raw material entering into the same.

Mr. MacKenzie King—Hear, hear.

Mr. Meighen—The leader of the Opposition says: "Hear, hear." I will have a few questions to put to him later on, and I hope he will be as prompt with his reply. Then the resolution goes on:

That a revision downwards of the tariff should be made whereby substantial reductions should be effected in the duties on wearing apparel and footwear, and on other articles of general consumption (other than luxuries), as well as on the raw materials entering into the manufacture of the same.

That the British preference be increased to fifty per cent. of the general traiff.

And the Liberal party hereby pledges itself—

Just think of what goes into that pledge.

—to implement by legislation the provisions of this resolution when returned to power.

PUBLISHED PLATFORM OF THE AGRARIAN PARTY

Now, just let me read in that connection the platform of the Agrarian or Farmers' party that had previously been adopted, so that hon. gentlemen may get a little inside look into what went on at this Liberal convention, when they managed to evolve the beautiful production that I have just read. Hon. gentlemen will remember that the leader of the opposition has been touring the country telling the people that the Liberals and the farmers were first cousins; that there was really little difference between them; that they both had the same great cause at heart; and he appealed and looked for a union of the twain, of course, under his supreme leadership. Now, here was the Farmers' platform that they were trying to copy; they wanted to produce a little ship painted as nearly like the Farmers' vessel as they could make it, and get it through the convention. The farmers wanted the high cost of living reduced, and wanted also the same thing with regard to the instruments of production. The first parts of these two platforms are practically the same. Now does the hon. member for Red Deer (Mr. Clark) see why hon. gentlemen opposite sought to lure them with the milk-and-water resolution moved in this debate? I think he sees that all right. Now, let us look at the Farmers' platform; I have it here.

It says that our tariff laws should be amended as follows:

(a) By an immediate and substantial all-round reduction of the customs tariff.

(b) By reducing the customs duty on goods imported from Great Britain to one-half the rates charged under the general tariff, and that further gradual, uniform reductions be made in the remaining tariff on British imports that will ensure complete free trade between Great Britain and Canada in five years.

(c) By endeavoring to secure unrestricted reciprocal trade in natural products with the United States along the lines of the Reciprocity Agreement of 1911.

(d) By placing all foodstuffs on the free list.

This is the one that hon. gentlemen opposite took for imitation:

(e) That agricultural implements, farm and household machinery, vehicles, fertilizers, coal, lumber, cement, gasoline, illuminating, fuel and lubricating oils be placed on the free list and that all raw materials and machinery used in their manufacture also be placed on the free list.

(f) That all tariff concessions granted to other countries be immediately extended to Great Britain.

That is the one they sought to imitate. It will be observed that in this second part enumerating the articles that they were going to have free, the farmers included agricultural implements, farm and household machinery, vehicles, fertilizers, coal, lumber, cement, gasoline, illuminating, fuel and lubricating oils, and no more.

Mr. Mackenzie King—May I ask my friend if that part of the Farmers' programme is not taken from resolutions moved on this side of the House and supported by Liberals in this House in previous sessions? If there is any imitation, it is not on our side.

CONTENTION THAT FARMERS STOLE LIBERAL PLATFORM

Mr. Meighen—The hon. gentleman is contending that the Farmers stole their programme from hon. gentlemen opposite.

Mr. Mackenzie King—Certainly, that part of it.

Mr. Meighen—That feature of it. Well, if that is the case, why did the hon. gentleman change it at the Liberal convention?

Mr. Mackenzie King—It was not changed.

Mr. Meighen—It was not changed? What about vehicles? What about coal? Did the hon. member for Cape Breton North and Victoria (Mr. McKenzie) put something over on my hon. friend? Where does he find coal in this list of free goods?

Wheat, wheat flour and all products of wheat; the principal articles of food, farm implements and machinery; farm tractors, mining, flour and saw-mill machinery and repair parts thereof; rough and partly dressed lumber; gasoline; illuminating, lubricating and fuel oils; nets, net-twines and fishermen's equipments, cements and fertilizers.

No coal there; no vehicles there. Does the hon. gentleman think that the member for Cape Breton North and the member for Shelburne and Queen's would stand for free coal? Does he not remember the speeches of the hon. member for Shelburne and Queen's in this House when he was Minister of Finance? Does he think that the member for Cape Breton North would submit to free coal? Free coal is left out, but they meet the gentlemen of the Farmers' party half way, as they call it. How do they do it? They leave out free coal and vehicles, and they say to the gentlemen of the Farmers' party: Now, you just do without free coal and vehicles and we will give you—what? Free wheat, free flour and the products of wheat; farm tractors; rough and partly dressed lumber; nets, net twines and fishermen's equipment. We will put every one of these on the free list—every one of them was free before they passed the resolution and is free today. Of this list of eighteen articles that I have just read, the following are altogether free: wheat, wheat flour and products of wheat; farm tractors up to $1,400—that includes the bulk that are used—rough lumber; partly dressed lumber; gasoline—12 cents a gallon in free trade England but free in Canada—nets, net-twine and fishermen's equipment. Just think of the hon. member for Brome solemnly getting the Liberal convention to put in this new article in order to make the list look long: "nets, net-twines and fishermen's equipment," all of which, together with the articles that I have read, are free already. And this is the Liberal platform that takes the place of the pronouncement of 1893, where protection was consigned to everlasting oblivion. Even fertilizers uncompounded are free now, but of the eighteen articles I think it is eleven that are free already; and the making free of these eleven already free and of the six others that I will refer to in a minute constitutes the concrete policy of the Liberal party today.

Then, they speak of making farm implements free. I will come to that in a minute, but let me first ask the leader of the Opposition why was not the Liberal tariff platform moved in amendment to this budget?

Mr. Mackenzie King—I will give the answer when I make my speech.

WHAT IS THE MATTER WITH THE LIBERAL PROGRAMME?

Mr. Meighen—What has become of the Liberal platform? What is the matter with the latter half of it? The member for Shelburne and Queen's knows that he cannot move another amendment; he knows that right well. Why, they have taken this Liberal platform and they have cut the dog—well, not at the tail, but they have cut it horizontally right through the middle; they have left the whole travelling part at home.

What is the matter with the active, concrete portions of the Liberal platform? Why is it discarded? Is it a scrap of paper? Has it gone the way of the Liberal platform of 1893 and the denunciations of protection? I think it has. The leader of the Opposition has a somewhat difficult task in trying to sing the siren's song to the Agrarian party and at the same time to keep pretty close to the tune of the hon. member for Shelburne and Queen's (Mr. Fielding). But my prognostication is that my hon. friend (Mr. Mackenzie King) will get a great deal closer to the note of the hon. member for Shelburne and Queen's than he will to that of the hon. member for Red Deer. What has become of the active, concrete portions of the Liberal platform? Where is this 50 per cent. British preference? Why has it gone by the board? Nothing doing! No one speaking! Where, too, has the Farmers' platform gone, this Farmers' platform which has been proclaimed not for months but for years in this country? Have we ever heard it moved in this House?

Mr. Michael Clark—We did pretty well in Carleton, N. B.

Mr. Meighen—We shall stay in Ottawa just now. Is it the amendment to the budget? Not at all. All they are seeking is to pick out something that is common to the two and that means the minimum, nothing, if they can get to it, in order, if they possibly can, to get a vote of want of confidence in the Government of the day. That is what I called political poker playing.

I set out to say that both parties, if you call them such or rather both horses of the same team, for political purposes, ask for a reduction in the duty on agricultural implements.

Mr. W. H. White—Did the minister not move in this House in 1910 a resolution asking that all duties be removed from agricultural implements?

Mr. Meighen—He did not. The trouble with hon. gentlemen opposite is that they do not investigate and get at the facts.

Mr. W. H. White—Perhaps I did not ask the question aright?

Mr. Meighen—The hon. member asked the question aright, but he was under a wrong impression.

Mr. W. H. White—Perhaps, it was the wrong year. Did the minister do so at any time?

Mr. Meighen—No, never in the world.

Mr. W. H. White—All right.

Mr. Meighen—I know what the hon. gentleman is thinking of. In the month of January, 1911, when the duties on farm implements were as I shall give them in a minute, I moved for a substantial reduction in those duties.

Mr. W. H. White—Just that and no more.

THE SCALES OF DUTIES UNDER LIBERAL REGIME

Mr. Meighen—Just that, and just that I obtained. Why, the hon. gentleman does not know what the duties are. The following are the duties that he supported and that hon. gentleman angularly opposite supported through the whole fifteen years of Libreal government, and I will give the reasons, taken from Hansard, why they did so. In order to keep things clear before hon. members, I had better give three scales of duties, first the one that prevailed for fifteen years. On some articles it was a little higher prior to 1907; they did not reduce the duty on farm implements by a copper between 1896 and 1907, a period of eleven years; then they took 2½ per cent. off certain farm implements, and they said that was a very substantial reduction.

Mr. Edwards: And they increased the valuations.

Mr. Meighen: The valuations increased. Under the Fielding tariff the duty on ploughs was 20 per cent.; under reciprocity it would have been 15 per cent.; now it is 17½ per cent.

Mr. Cockshutt: Fifteen per cent.

Mr. Meighen: I think it is 17½ per cent., although possibly I am wrong in that, but that I think is one of only two exceptions in the whole list where the present level is not as low as under the Reciprocity tariff.

	Fielding Tariff Per cent.	Under Reciprocity Per cent.	Today Per cent.
Binders	17½	15	12½
Mowers	17½	15	12½
Reapers	17½	15	12½

Mr. W. H. White: At the same valuation?

Mr. Meighen: No, the Liberals raised the valuations.

Mr. W. H. White: You have raised the valuation somewhat since.

Mr. Meighen: The valuations raise with the value, and always did. I continue:

	Fielding Tariff Per cent.	Under Reciprocity Per cent.	Today Per cent.
Seed drills ...	20	15	15
Weeders	20	20	15

The hon. member for Shelburne and Queen's would not reduce this tariff.

Manure spreaders ..	20	20	15
Harrows	20	20	15
Traction engines	20	20	Free up to valuation of $1,400
Separators ...	20	15	17½
Farm wagons	25	22½	20
Windmills ...	20	20	17½
Fanning mills	25	20	20
Cultivators ..	20	15	15

I have taken a list of the fourteen principal farm implements, and I find that the duties on eight out of the fourteen are lower today than they were under the Fielding tariff and lower today than they would have been under reciprocity.

An hon. member: Who lowered them?

DUTIES LOWERED BY SIR ROBERT BORDEN

Mr. Meighen: Lowered by the Government of Sir Robert Borden. On eight the duties are lower even than under the reciprocity; on four more the duties are lower than under the Fielding tariff and equal to what they would have been under reciprocity; on two of them, or the balance, the duties are lower than they were under the Fielding tariff.

Mr. Crerar: Why does the minister not get to work and reduce the duties on those articles still further?

Mr. Meighen: I will tell my hon. friend why just in a minute; but I have said enough to show that if in 1907 there was a substantial reduction made which hon. gentlemen supported as such, twice that reduction was made by the Government that is now in office. The duties on farm implements today under the Fielding tariff would average 20.18; under reciprocity they would have averaged 17.32, and under the present tariff they average 14.64. What I should like to submit to hon. gentlemen is this: If they believe what they profess to believe on this question, would not the better thing for them to do be to support a government that acts, rather than a government that professes and fails to act?

Mr. Michael Clark: I will answer that question.

Mr. Speaker: Order.

Mr. Meighen: I have no objection, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker: The hon. gentleman (Mr. Clark) has already spoken.

Mr. Michael Clark: Might I suggest that the minister do not speak by way of asking questions.

Mr. Speaker: The minister is quite within his right to submit any questions he chooses.

Mr. Meighen: Just before the House took recess at six o'clock, I stated, in answer to an ironical interruption by the hon. member for Quebec East (Mr. Lapointe), who seemed to take a sort of sarcastic pleasure in the use of the term "adequate protection," that the leader whom he will undoubtedly now support and the ex-Minister of Finance (Mr. Fielding) whom he supported for many years, proclaimed the Fielding tariff as a tariff of adequate protection. Now I propose to show that that is correct, and I do not think he was very far wrong. In fact, in some cases I thought, and think still, he had too high protection. Speaking on the 7th of June, 1904, in the Budget Speech he said that his tariff had:

included a considerable measure of incidental protection—

That was the favorite word of the hon. member for Shelburne and Queen's all the time he was in office in describing his protective tariff. He took care almost universally to call it "incidental" protection, as if it made a bit of difference what adjective he applied to it, whether it was incidental, accidental or transcendental. It was not the adjective, but the amount of the duty that counted, and those who were interested in the tariff of Canada did not care whether he called it incidental protection or anything else. He went on to say:

—and in that respect it will command the admiration perhaps of hon. gentlemen opposite who are more anxious for protection than some of us on this side of the House.

"Some of us." He did not name them. He goes on:

I think as to whether or not it is adequate protection we have some evidence of a gratifying character that the tariff, without being excessive, is high enough to bring some American industries across the line—

Pretty real protection!

—and a tariff which is able to bring these industries into Canada, looks very much like a tariff which affords adequate protection.

"Adequate protection."

And in the year 1909, I think it was or 1908, speaking on a motion for the further reduction of the duty on these very implements he made this statement, and I ask hon. gentlemen who feel like supporting the hon. members for Shelburne and Queens' in this vague, visionary, misty, and cloudy resolution, after he has lopped off the specific and the actual, just to read what he said when in office and in which he still believes today, judging from the whole tenor of his seepch. Opposing the motion for reduction he said:

With a moderate duty we have induced American capital to come into Canada and to establish that great industry (The International Harvester Company of Hamilton) and after we have brought it in and established it in Canada, I believe that if were to pass this resolution—

Reducing the duties, not making them free, but still leaving on 10 per cent. He says:

I believe that, if we were to pass this resolution the company operating that industry would find it profitable to close the Hamilton factory and bring in goods which they make in the United States.

That was his reason for opposing the motion. He was opposed to reducing the duty by 7½ per cent. when in office. But once out of office and when he wanted to perform a marriage ceremony with hon. gentlemen angularly opposite he is ready to take the whole duty off and leave it just as it was before 1896. He said:

On behalf of the Government I wish to say, following the statement of my hon. friend the Minister of Customs, that while we are not advocating a high tariff, while we are not advocating a Chinese wall tariff, while we are not seeking to shut every thing out, we are willing that a moderate—

Listen to the words:

—that a moderate degree of protection, if you care to use the word, arising out of a tariff designed for revenue, but incidentally—

The same old phrase.

—giving some protection — in some instances a considerable measure of protection—we are willing that, where there is a great industry in Canada, it shall receive a fair share of consideration which we have given by this tariff on agricultural implements, and so I must ask the House to reject the amendment of the hon. member for Souris.

Now it was argued in that debate, and argued again in the reciprocity debate in 1911, that the tariff that existed at that time, particularly the tariff on implements, was no more than a revenue tariff, and when the hon. member for Shelburne and Queen's came back from Washington and announced his programme, he told the House that he could not reduce the duty on implements, and he said that the reason was that to do so would be getting below the line of a revenue tariff. Now I ask hon. gentlemen opposite if, at a time when the revenue necessities of this country were $125,000,000, the Fielding reciprocity tariff was no more than a revenue tariff, how does a much lower tariff become too high for a revenue tariff when the revenue necessities of this country are $350,000,000? Besides, through all those years, and many of them were hard years—there has never been a depression in Canada for twenty or thirty years like the depression of 1907 and 1908—he adhered to these means, and these means alone, of raising the revenue and never dared to impose one dollar of direct taxation in this country. I ask again if that Fielding tariff, if that scale of tariff, was no more than a revenue tariff, when we had not the courage to have direct taxation at all, how can hon. gentlemen complain of this scale now that we have $81,000,000 by direct taxation and propose to have $181,000,000 next year? There could be nothing more inconsistent, nothing more ludicrously grotesque, than the position of hon. gentlemen opposite in respect of the scale of this tariff if they remember for one minute not only their own innate beliefs on this subject, but the beliefs they put into practice through fifteen years of power.

Now I observe in this Liberal platform of August last, the greater part of which is now left at home, that they have changed the words of the farmers' resolution which calls for all foodstuffs to be put on the free list to read "the principal articles of food." The House will appreciate the skill of the generality, but would it not be interesting, and, indeed, is it not absolutely necessary, that the people of this country should know from hon. gentlemen opposite what these principal articles of food are? What are the principal articles of food? May I ask, is tea a principal article of food? I venture to say I shall never get an answer from the leader of the Opposition, and I venture to say he will not give me an answer when he speaks in this debate. Is sugar a principal article of food? I would think it would be. We use something like $100,000,000 a year of sugar and import $75,000,000, and we make quite a lot here. Is it the intention of hon. gentlemen opposite to put raw sugar and refined sugar on the free list? If it is, I think the country has a right to know; whether it is their intention or not, I think the country has a right to know. Here is our tariff. What do you mean by your professions? Are meats a principal article of food? Are biscuits a principal article of food? Biscuits, the hallowed biscuits on which they never thought of revising the duty, even under reciprocity, below 30 cents a pound. Are they a principal article of food? What are these principal articles of food? No answer; and there will be no answer, Mr. Speaker. It is in the vagueness and the generality of it that they take their refuge. Virtually all is vague and meaningless except the things that are free now, that were put in for mere padding, to make an appearance, and to paint a little ornament to look like the Farmers' platform. I have not succeeded in getting much in the way of answer from the leader of the Opposition.

Mr. Pedlow—He has not been given an opportunity to reply.

Mr. Speaker: The hon. leader of the Opposition will have his opportunity in due course.

Mr. Pedlow: I——

Mr. Speaker: If any hon. gentleman has a remark to make he might do the House the courtesy of rising in his seat.

Mr. Pedlow: I rise to a point of order.

Mr. Speaker: What is the point of order?

Mr. Pedlow: My point of order is, Sir, that by your ruling we are precluded from the possibility of answering questions asked by the member who has the floor.

Mr. Speaker: I fail to observe the point of order. I think that the hon. member who has raised it has trifled with the rules of order of the House, which are clear and distinct. A question may be asked by an hon. member who has the floor but no member has any right to make any statement in reply except with the consent of the hon. member who has the floor.

Mr. Lapointe: It was just a figure of rhetoric.

WOULD NOT PRECLUDE REPLY TO ANY QUESTION

Mr. Meighen: It has been the practice that an hon. gentleman, with the consent of the member who has the floor, may reply. I do not wish to question the ruling of the Chair, but I want to add this, that no hon. member has been precluded from replying to any question by any act of mine, either on this or on any other occasion. In fact, I should be pleased if the rule of the House could be ignored so far as this point is concerned.

Now, I desire to refer to one thing else, and it is clearly in harmony with the whole proceeding we are witnessing now. Hon. members will recall that a leading figure in the Liberal convention in August last was the hon. member for Shelburne and Queen's (Mr. Fielding). Not satisfied with the result of his labors, and no doubt having some recollection of the agony he went through in 1896 and the humiliating position in which he was frequently placed thereafter, he went back and wrote in the Journal of Commerce, a paper which he edits in the city of Montreal, a clear intimation, which I can read to the House if it desires, that the only practical acceptation of the platform of hon. gentlemen opposite was one with interpretations and reservations, and that anyway platforms that were made at conventions were made in a hurry and were not the footstools of policy or the declarations of principles, but were merely in the nature of platforms on the Pullman coaches to get in upon. That is the frank confession of the hon. member for Shelburne and Queen's, and this platform, which he himself denominated as a mere means to get in on, is the platform of which he takes a truncated section and brings it into this House seeking by so doing to get a vote of want of confidence against the Government.

I remarked a few moments ago that we never had even from hon. gentlemen of the Agrarian party any motion in this House asking this House to debate and declare its judgment upon the platform which they profess. A year, or two years ago—I forget which—we had an attempt on the part of the hon. member for Red Deer to bring in something of the kind. It was stated at that time by you, Mr. Speaker, that on a motion to go into Ways and Means, that is to say, on the Budget debate, one amendment could be moved but no sub-amendment could be moved thereto. That is to say, no amendment could be moved after the first amendment had been defeated; in other words, there can be only one amendment. Hon. gentlemen knew that right well. It was shown them clearly by Mr. Speaker two years ago. But they come to this debate with a motion in amendment made by the hon. member for Shelburne and Queen's, a member of the official Opposition; and members of the Agrarian party know that by allowing him to make this motion they are precluded from moving their platform by way of amendment. Why was that? Was a request made that they be allowed to move their platform by way of amendment, and was it refused? I think not. Is it not clearly the purpose to protect those hon. gentlemen from declaring where they stand on the farmers' platform? The hon. member for Marquette (Mr. Crerar) laughs. For two years, or for something more than one year at any rate, the hon. gentleman has been a private member, and neither he nor any of his followers has ever put that platform on the Orders of the Day. They have never sought a discussion of it in this House; they have never challenged the opinions of hon. members in regard to it; they have never put hon. gentlemen opposite in the position of voting Yea or Nay. They have left them in such a position that they can go hand in hand with them in the country never having come into a recorded antagonism in Parliament. Each side can hold up a different flag and follow a different leader, seeking to get the free trade vote in one part of Canada and the protectionist vote in another, and then afterwards come back together to show the people of the country just what they care for the opinions and professions they make before a contest. That was the performance in 1897. It looks something even worse were on the programme today, and I am confirmed in that statement by the opinions freely and definitely expressed on the part of hon. gentlemen opposite. I know that the hon. member for Beauce (Mr. Beland) went to Montreal to the sanctuary of Liberalism, the Reform Club, and stated there at the time of the bye-election in St. James that he did not stand for free trade; that, in fact, there was not a single free trader in his party. He said he stood for a well-regulated system of protection. And the hon. member now for St. James (Mr. Rinfret) declared in his speech in that campaign that he too stood for the encouragement of industries by a protective system. He was elected, not on the platform that is here moved in amendment, not on anything that bears a family resemblance to the professions of hon. gentlemen in the Agrarian party. He was elected on the platform upon which this Government stands in regard to tariff matters. That, Sir, is what he was elected on. He utilizes the tariff policy of this Administration to get elected in order afterwards to vote a want of confidence in the Government that put forward that policy. That is his position.

Mr. Power: Why did you not get him elected?

VOTE ACCORDING TO PROFESSIONS HE MADE

Mr. Meighen: Well, he got elected and the man on the other side stood for the same. As between the two, there was not much difference so far as we were concerned; and all we ask of the hon. member for St. James is that he now vote according to the professions he made, that he stand true to the electors to whom he made those professions, on the strength of which he got their votes. And what about the hon. member for Huntingdon (Mr. Robb)? He too was in the Montreal Reform Club and made a speech in which he defined himself as clearly in favor of the encouragement of the industries of a country by legislation. That is where he stands. And what about the hon. member for West Lambton (Mr. Pardee) who represents the city of Sarnia and the thriving county of Lambton? He went to the same Montreal Reform Club and he denounced free trade hip and thigh. He declared himself in favor of a tariff not only for the purpose of revenue but because we had to have a tariff for economic reasons, for protective reasons, and he knows that he stands for that principle. He knows he is an advocate of protection as a principle; he would not dare to vote for a resolution in this House that denounced the principle of protection. Now I ask him if in this debate, where there is nothing at all in controversy but that principle, to stand up and vote as he professes and believes. We have all these declarations of faith on the part of hon. gentlemen opposite saying to the people of Eastern Canada to its farthest limits "Do not be afraid of us. Here is our faith presented by Mr. Pardee of Lambton, Mr. Rinfret, of St. James, Mr. Beland of Beauce, Mr. Robb of Huntingdon, and Mr. Lemieux"—they might just as well add him and they could add fifty more—"here is our faith, do not be afraid of us, vote for us on a policy of moderate protection." At the same time we have hon. gentlemen across the way saying in Western Canada "vote for us as free traders pure and simple, seeking free trade with United States, and with Great Britain first, and then with all the world." Then we have the leader—who hopes to be the leader of both parties if they get into power—trying to sing a song that attunes with each, and telling the people in all ends of Canada that the Liberal party and the Liberal platform are, to all intents and purposes, the same of the farmers' party and the farmers' platform. That is to say that protection and free trade are to all intents and purposes the same. The one principle is the profession of my hon. friends opposite, the other principle is the profession of hon. gentlemen on the cross benches; and the leader, (Mr. King), claiming them in order to pave the way for the great betrayal when the day comes, if it ever comes, that their united numbers are greater than the numbers behind the present Government.

Now I stated a moment ago that in this country today we had not anything in the nature of an immoderate tariff. It may be—it doubtless is the case—that there are portions of that tariff that can be scaled down, that upon investigation it will be seen that deductions can be made. There may be other changes that may be necessary. The principle upon which the revision will be made is clear and well defined and all understand it. It will be designed to keep industries in Canada, to enable industries to expand, but will go no further than is essential for that purpose when accompanied by competent business management. Now surely that principle is plain. Will the hon. member for Quebec East (Mr. Lapointe) say he could not support a tariff designed for that purpose and with that restraint? He could not say so. Why do not hon. gentlemen who believe in the principle I am expounding and who know this tariff is true to that principle—why do they not support it? Just in order that a political manoeuvre may be played and for no other reason whatsoever.

DOMINION NOW HAS DIRECT TAXATION

We have direct taxation now in this country, and the Government that imposed it is the Government in office. The Government that took all the responsibility and unpopularity of imposing direct taxation, that is the Government that now appeals to the House of Commons. The hon. member for Marquette (Mr. Crerar), the great champion of direct taxation, who has been preaching it in season and out of season all over this country, votes against the Government of direct taxation. He votes for hon. gentlemen opposite who never introduced the policy of direct taxation, and he holds the sheltering hand of his protection over Provincial Governments that do not put on the direct taxation that he advocates. Let us now have an examination into the policy of the hon. member. He says "I want to do away with custom duties." That is what he tells the people of the West,—to do away with them. "It is no way in the world," he says, "to raise a revenue."

"It is the most costly way" is the way he expresses in Brandon "ever devised by man."

Mr. Crerar: Hear, hear.

Mr. Meighen: "Hear, hear," the hon. gentleman says today; he says: put in its place income tax, a graduated income tax, and a tax on the unearned increment of land. That is his statement. His platform does not call for a tax on the unearned increments of land but for a tax on the unimproved value of land, a different thing altogether. However, I want the House to know that those are his two main substitutes. The others are purely provincial taxes, inheritance and the like—those first are the two main substitutes the hon. gentleman advocates—land tax, and income tax. Now I hold in my hands the report of a tax commission appointed by the Government of Manitoba, the Government which is very close to the hon. member for Marquette, and whose continuance in office is one of the things dearest to his heart. I am not saying anything against that Government at the present time, that is not an issue in this debate; I am saying something about the consistency of the hon. member. That Government appointed a commission, and so far as I know a commission of pretty able men, to go into the question of this taxation and to report to the administration. That commission was composed of, I think, ten or a dozen men. There were represented on it the farmers of Manitoba, representatives of the rural councils of that province. Other interests in Manitoba were also represented, and among them the actual Grain Growers' Association that is the very party that the hon. gentleman (Mr. Crorar) champions and leads in this House. They were directly represented on that commission by two men. Of these, one, Mr. Peter Wright, is a director of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, is he not?

Mr. Crerar: One of the directors.

Mr. Meighen: One of the directors of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, the council that propounded this Farmers' platform, and Mr. W. Wood is the secretary of the Farmers' party in Manitoba. Now the commission examined into this land tax, it examined into the income tax, it examined into single tax, and all other taxes; and it reported against single tax in the most decisive terms. On discussing the merits of the land tax, a tax on land of any kind—on unimproved land or an unearned increment tax—it decided that a tax on land was a good thing by local authorities for local purposes but that a tax on land was a bad thing for the federal authorities for any purpose at all. Now I have the very words of that report in front of me.

Mr. Crerar: Did Messrs. Wright and Wood sign that report?

Mr. Meighen: Mr. Wright signed the report. Mr. Wood did not sign the report, but he made no minority report. I have the report before me and Mr. Wright's signature appears thereon. Here is what they say about the land tax:

> There are accordingly several cogent reasons why the taxation of real property has tended more and more to become the special prerogative of the local authorities. For the Dominion Government in this country, for example, to encroach on the field of real property taxation would, in the light of both history and theory, be a distinctly retrograde step.

And that is one of the taxes that the Farmers' party led by the hon. member for Marquette says that we should adopt, that is one of the fields he says we should invade which the Manitoba Government commission unanimously find—every man who signs the report finds—to be debarred by its own nature from adoption by the federal authorities at all for any purpose. Then they go on to the income tax, and what do they say about it? I am sorry that the hon. member for Red Deer is not here. This would be very interesting to that hon. member who complains of the small amount of income tax collected from the farmers. The commission quote with approval what Professor Adams says:

> The income tax yields little or no revenue in rural or farming districts, and for that reason I would not recommend it to farming communities; but for thickly settled manufacturing and urban communities, it is bound to spread and in the end to supplant the relatively unjust and unfair tax on personal property.
> This seems to be the prevailing opinion everywhere.
> In the income tax provisions of the province of Ontario we find that the income of farmers derived from the produce of their farms is expressly exempted from taxation under the income tax law.
> We have carefully and fully considered this feature, and recommend that the provisions of any general income law that may be enacted in this province, be confined wholly and exclusively to urban communities.
> It is to be borne in mind that the application of a provincial income tax to the farmer would, in any event, be lost energy, in that, if such were imposed, and the amount derived in each municipality was returned to the source derived, it would be equivalent to travelling north by south.

There is the report of this commission unanimously adopted and concurred in by a director of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, Mr. Peter Wright. Mr. Peter Wright is a man for whose opinion and personality I have the profoundest respect. He is a man who has rendered splendid service in our soldier settlement work. Mr. Peter Wright, after investigation signs that report and says that, of the substitute taxes which the hon. member for Marquette proposes to take the place of the customs tax, the land tax is one you should not adopt and that the income tax is all right so long as you do not touch the farmers of Canada. I will ask the hon. member for Marquette—I will not ask him to reply now but I will be happy if he replies when he takes his feet: Does he choose to repudiate Mr. Peter Wright who has gone into this case and got the evidence, and who is a director of his own association, and one of the framers of its platform, or does he propose to change his policy?

I stated to the House that the tax on large incomes in England was lower than in Canada. This is interjected out of its place because I did not have the figures before me then. I stated that the turning point was about incomes of $200,000. I have been sent over from the Finance Department the figures which give the tax on incomes of $100,000, $500,000 and up to $1,000,000. I do not have the figures for an income of $200,000, but I think that is about the turning point. The tax on incomes of $500,000 in Canada, under last year's scale, is $303,190. The tax on the same income in the United States is exactly the same amount. The tax on the same income in Great Britain is $257,321, or almost $50,000 less than the tax that we collect in Canada.

Mr. Crerar: Would the hon. gentleman give the tax on an income of $100,000?

WHERE CANADIAN TAX HIGHER THAN BRITAIN'S

Mr. Meighen: An income of $100,000 is more heavily taxed in England, and so are smaller incomes all down the line, whereas the tax on an income of $100,000 in Canada is $31,190 and in the United States the same. In England the tax is $47,327. Coming to the incomes of $1,000,000, our tax is $663,190 while the British tax is $519,812.77, or a difference of almost $150,000, between the tax on a million-dollar income in England and in Canada. Yet, we are upbraided—upbraided, it is true, for political purposes and no other—by hon. gentlemen opposite who say we are protecting the rich man and the millionaire and that we ought to follow the example of England. Our tax with respect to both of these cases is emphatically higher than in England, it is higher than in Australia, higher than in that paradise of income taxation referred to by the hon. member for Red Deer, New Zealand. Their tax on an income of $1,000,000 is $374,993—away below ours—and on an income of $500,000 it is $187,496, or very little more than half the tax in Canada.

I have sought to show that the tariff as now proposed should remain in effect pending a thorough revision, which hon. gentlemen opposite admit could not have been made up to the present time. The hon. member for Red Deer clearly admitted that. This is the tariff, and not higher, but lower than that adopted by hon. gentlemen opposite when they were in office under circumstances of far less urgent need. It is admitted to be a tariff which is lower than that which hon. gentlemen opposite unanimously supported all through those fifteen years. It is a tariff not designed to benefit the rich in this country; it is designed, so far as our own information goes—and it cannot be complete without investigation—only to give such measure of assistance as to retain within this country its industrial strength and which does not alienate from this country a measure of the industrial strength that we have. We never can have a high tariff in Canada. We cannot have a high tariff in Canada for the most obvious reasons. In the first place, a high tariff is unsound in principle in that it tends to eliminate one of the factors of competition, namely, foreign goods. Foreign goods must be allowed to enter into competition under fair conditions in this or in any other country. But the conditions under free trade or without protection are such that the foreign competitor has every advantage.

Take an illustration. Here is a foreign competitor in the United States competing with the manufacturer in England. Are the conditions equal? Is a man in the United States, where he can get the biggest concern, the biggest industrial unit; the biggest output, in the same position as the man in England? He can have a much larger unit. He has a market of 110,000,000 assured to him right at home that no government can take away. In Great Britain he has another market of 43,000,000 almost at hand and free of access to him. He has the same show exactly as the British manufacturer in all the other countries of the world. He therefore has a free market of 153,000,000 to sell his output to. Where is his British competitor? What is his position? He has the bars up against him in the United States; he cannot get into that market save over the tariff wall. He has the same restrictions against him in other countries of the world, and all he has left to him is that portion of his own home market of 43,000,000 that may be uninvaded by the products of other lands. Is that equal competition? Bring similar conditions here and you would soon paralyze and destroy the whole industrial fabric of this country. So I say we cannot have any immoderate or high tariff for the reason, first, that it tends to exclude that healthy element of fair conditions, namely, foreign competition; secondly, we have in Canada a territory of wide extent. We have one portion of Canada, newer than the other portion, a more predominatingly agricultural country, newer to manufactures and industrial development, and consequently the advantages of the tariff do not accrue to them as yet as they ultimately will accrue to them. They come more immediately to one portion of this country than to another. On account of these two reasons we must always have in this country nothing more than a moderate tariff under any conditions whatsoever. That will be the purpose of the revision, under the principles clearly set out, enunciated by the Minister of Finance, to which we adhere. On that policy I appeal to hon. gentlemen who have something great or small at stake in this Dominion—yes, I appeal to citizens, men and women who have nothing of this world's goods at stake, whose only concern is the well-being of their native land. There are those among us who will not see with their eyes or hear with their ears or understand with their hearts; there is that class in Canada, as in England, and there always will be in every land. I cannot appeal to those to whom experience has taught nothing and for whom reason has no persuasion. But to all others who will thoroughly study the needs of Canada; who will thoroughly study the example of other nations, and most of all, the example of the Mother Country herself—I appeal to them to yield support to what is fair and right. Come what may, good or ill fortune, I prefer to be of the number of those who have stood loyally by clear and well-defined and well-tried principles, who have been loyal to them in office and out of office, rather than among those who have two policies, one to profess and the other to practice.

This Service Increases Tire Mileage

The largest single group of tire users in the world agree that the first step on the way to maximum tire mileage is a set of Goodyear Tires.

A large proportion of these users also realize that even Goodyear Tires will more surely deliver greater mileage when they are cared for.

Our agreement with this is evident in our sincere attempt, through Goodyear Service Stations and Goodyear Tire Savers, to further tire mileage in every possible way.

Among other things, we have produced Goodyear Tire Putty—the cure for small tread cuts, the prevention of tread separation and tire decay.

Not even the toughness of the Goodyear All-Weather Tread can protect tires from all tread cuts. Scraps of metal, glass, switch-points will cut the toughest tread when struck squarely.

The Goodyear Service Station Dealer who supplies and uses Goodyear Tire Putty, will do other things for you, and will tell you of things you should do yourself to increase your tire mileage.

We will be glad to send you free our Tire Conservation Course if you will write us at Toronto.

Ruth Makes His 11th Homer As Yankees Get Near the Top In American League Race

Chicago Cubs' Upward Climb Feature of the National League Race

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York, May 31.—Chicago's upward climb to first place in the National League, after hovering around last position in the early weeks of the season, is the outstanding feature of the major league pennant race to date. The Cubs won their eighth straight game yesterday.

Cleveland still retains the lead in the American League despite a falling off from the fast pace of the previous week. The New York Americans, which won seven games out of eight last week, mainly through "Babe" Ruth's batting, have advanced to third place behind Boston. Washington went into fourth place yesterday by winning its sixth game in a row while Chicago was losing to Cleveland.

The steady pitching of Alexander, who has won ten straight games, and Vaughan, with six straight victories, promises to aid the Chicago Nationals in warding off attacks on its leadership. Cincinnati was the only other National League team able to maintain better than a five hundred pace last week, winning four out of seven. The world's champions batted hard, but their pitchers were ineffective in many contests.

Although Brooklyn, Boston and St. Louis improved at the bat, the teams failed to give adequate fielding support to their pitchers. Pittsburg and Philadelphia lacked batting power. New York appears unable to get an upward start.

Six Home Runs in a Week.

While the Cleveland Americans were busy shifting pitchers toward the end of the week in the hope of victory, the New York Yankees advanced to within striking distance by four straight victories over Boston, which previously had won six consecutive games.

Ruth, of the Yankees, made six home runs during the week, bringing his season total to eleven. The Yankees had little difficulty in hitting the Red Sox twirlers, while the New York staff appeared in excellent condition.

The opposition averaged more than six runs a game against Chicago, which seems to be losing its grip on the first division. The White Sox succeeded in administering the first defeat to Bagby, of Cleveland, who had won eight straight from the beginning of the season.

More Than $50,000 Will be Raced For This Season on Maritime & Maine Circuit

Harness Racing to Have a Great Revival—More Horses Than Ever

THE CHATHAM STALLS FILLED

Four Race Meetings In New Brunswick on July 1st This Year.

There will be more horses campaigned on the Maritime and Maine Circuit this season than have ever before been raced in the East.

This information has been revealed by a careful survey of the situation which has been made by The Gleaner and which shows that, no matter what else can be said of the latest time allowances adopted by the National Trotting Association, the new conditions have no doubt been an important factor in the revival which the sport is evidently about to enjoy hereabouts.

The Maritime and Maine Circuit does not open until July 5th and 6th at Houlton, Me.; this has left Dominion Day an open date, and no less than four meetings are planned in New Brunswick in conection with the celebration of July 1st. Fredericton, Moncton, Woodstock and St. Stephen have all planned meetings and there is every indication that all four tracks will have sufficient horses to fill their races.

The Real "Dress Rehearsal" Here.

The Woodstock and St. Stephen meetings will be one-day affairs, with programmes made up largely for local horses, but Moncton and Fredericton will give more pretentious programmes and these two meetings promise to be fully up to the standard of the circuit events which follow. The Moncton meeting will, it is expected, prove a convenient stop-off for stables from Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Eastern New Brunswick, which will not cross the border into Maine for the formal opening of the circuit at Houlton the next week.

The Fredericton meeting, on the other hand, will give an opportunity for the horses to start here and then make the jump to Houlton, arriving there Friday night, July 2nd, in ample time for the opening of the circuit the following Monday, while the shipment to Fredericton will be the most economical and convenient for the horses in training at St. John, Chatham and elsewhere, wishing to get to either Houlton or the Woodstock meeting—the second on the circuit, if they don't wish to go into American territory. It is therefore believed that the racing here will attract a very large number of campaigning stables and there seems but little doubt that the six races that are offered will be well filled.

The Circuit Programmes.

The St. Stephen dates for their summer meeting on the Maritime and Maine Circuit have been definitely named as July 21st and 22nd and the programme will probably be made up during the next day or two. Six races with purses totalling $3,500 will, it is said, be offered. Fredericton's first circuit meeting will follow the week after the St. Stephen races and will consist of three days' racing on July 27th, 28th and 29th, but it will be the last of this week before the programe is made up, and it will probably include eight or perhaps nine races, all depending upon the support of the campaigning stables.

Chatham Track Stalls All Taken.

Chatham will follow Fredericton the first week in August and will give three days' racing with probably not less than eight races and an offering of about $3,300 in pruses. Indicative of the general boom which the harness racing sport is enjoying is the announcement made by Secretary Fred M. Tweedie of the Chatham track that for the first time in history all of the accommodatins at the track over which John A. Hal, 2.03¼, placed the Maritime record of 2.08½ last season, are taken up and some of the exhibition stalls have got to be utilized to provide for some of the late arrivals which are training there.

From Chatham the circuit will swing down to Moncton, thence to Springhill—the only meeting in Nova Scotia—after which there will be a return to New Brunswick, the dates to be confirmed during the next few days as soon as it is definitely known whether St. John is willing to give up or go on with the dates which were allotted to Moosepath Park but which are now sought by several other tracks if not taken up by the St. John management.

There is a solid season's racing of 15 weeks on the Maritime and Maine circuit assured, without a letup until well on in October, and the total offering of purses is estimated at more than $50,000, of which $7,500 will be hung up by the Woodstock Driving Club for their New Brunswick Provincial Exhibition in September.—J. D. B.

Six September Stakes

Six stake races will be included in the programme for the Fredericton Park Association's fall meeting on the Maritime Circuit, the dates for which have been fixed as September 21st, 22nd and 23rd, but which may be extended an additional day.

The stakes will be:

For Trotters—2.27, 2.22 and 2.19 classes.

For pacers—2.27, 2.20 and 2.16 classes.

These stakes will each be worth $400 and the entrance will be 3 per cent. with 7 per cent. additional from winners. Entries will close on June 28th and horses will not be named until early in September, although they must be eligible when the first payment is made. These conditions, it is believed, will bring a record breaking entry as the Fredericton fall meeting will follow the week after both the Woodstock and St. Stephen Fairs.

All races at the fall meeting will be on the 3-in-5 plan.

It has also been definitely determined to offer two free for alls at the September meeting, one for pacers and the other for trotters.

"Every-Heat-a-Race" and Other Important Changes for "Curtain Raiser" Meeting

Programme of Six Races, Including a Free for All for June 30th and July 1st—Four Seconds for Trotters in Mixed Events—3 Per Cent. Entry

The Fredericton Park Association's programme for their "curtain raiser" meeting has been made up and calls for six races on June 30th and July 1st under new conditions—the three heat plan, every heat a race—which will be tried out here for the first time in the Maritime Provinces.

The three heat plan is looked upon with favor by horsemen for early racing. Under the conditions one-third of the purse will be hung up for each heat and with the assurance that the race is not going more than three heats and the money being paid on each heat it means good racing for the "dress rehearsal" for the circuit campaigners.

Free for All, trot and pace — Purse $400.
2.14 trot and pace—Purse $300.
2.16 trot and pace—Purse $300.
2.24 trot and pace—Purse $300.
2.19 trot—Purse $300.
2.24 trot—Purse $300.

Some Important Departures.

The directors of the Association have also decided to depart from the custom which has always been in vogue here of charging 5 per cent. entrance fee and in order to assist the campaigning horsemen to meet the High Cost of Racing will reduce the entry fee to 3 per cent., making the additional charge from winners 7 per cent. It is believed that this departure will meet with the approval of the horseemn.

During the past ten days J. D. Black, the recently appointed secretary of the Fredericton Park Association, has been in communication with horsemen all over the Maritime Provinces and New England States and assurances have been given of a generous support for the new management and its progressive reforms. Another important change which has been agreed upon has been to allow trotters four seconds in mixed classes and that will be the rule in all races over the local association's track this year in which trotters start with pacers. When the custom of allowing three seconds to trotters in mixed events was inaugurated some years ago the Fredericton Park Association were among the first to take it up, and the suggestion to increase the allowance to four seconds has met with the approval of every campaigning horseman who has been communicated with on the subject.

Meanwhile much satisfaction is being expressed with the work which Roy W. Smith has been doing in his position as superintendent of the track. Trainers located at the Trotting Park say the track was never in better shape than it is at present after the work which was done upon it the last of last week. Arrangements are also being made whereby the use of a watering cart at the track daily will be secured, thus offsetting the effects which would otherwise result from a continued drought, such as has existed for the past few weeks.

Twenty-three bowlers have qualified for the weekly roll-off at the Palace Bowling Alleys this evening. B. Pugh leads with a string of 123, followed by Pedersen in second place with 117. W. Kelly and W. Minue are tied for third place with 112 each.

Hersey both secured home runs.

HOPE TO REMOVE PULP RESTRICTIONS

American Editors Who Will Visit Canada and Look Over Pulpwood Reserves

Chicago, May 29—Editors of dailies and weeklies of the west and middle west will gather here today to take a special train for the annual meeting of the National Editorial Association at Boston which will meet from May 31 to June 6.

According to Willard E. Carpenter, Chairman of the Association's Committee on Newsprint, about one hundred of the editors will go from the meeting at Boston to Canada, where for a month they will be the guests of the Dominion Government, which will furnish them a special train for visiting the wood pulp reserves of Canada.

"We hope our visit will be of assistance to Congress," Mr. Carpenter said, "in its efforts to persuade the Canadian Government in removing the restrictions on the shipment of wood pulp to factories in this country."

The National Editorial Association is an organization of about 5,000 publishers of weekly and small daily papers throughout the United States.

RUSH OF SETTLERS COMING TO CANADA

Winnipeg, Man., May 29.—That the prosperity of Canada will be assured when the country is filled with workers from Europe, people who will devote all they possess to the exploiting of Canadas resources was the substance of a statement made yesterday by W. L. Griffith, Permanent Secretary of the Office of the High Commissioner for Canada in London, who was a visitor here yesterday.

The facilities for emigrants are insufficient to cope with the demand for accomodations on steamers sailing for Canada, he said.

"Farmers with capital are insufficient to increase the powers of the Dominion, the workers themselves are necessary," he declared, "So that wages will be a great factor in the expansion of the Dominion's trade."

Some men hustle almost as hard for a job as some women hustle for a husband.

IN DAYS OF TERROR

"It seemed that a patrol devoted to the tyrants waited for the chevalier at the corner of La Rue Burre-du-Bec. You are acquainted with the rest."

"Ah! ah!" said Morand; "this is very strange."

"But positively true," said Maurice.

"Yes, it has an air of truth; but the female, do you know what become of her?"

"No; she has disappeared, and they are quite ignorant who she is, or what she is."

The partner of Citizen Dixmer, and Citizen Dixmer himself, appeared to breathe more freely.

Genevieve had listened to the whole of this recital, pale, silent, and immovable.

"But," said Morand, with his usual coolness, "who can say that the Chevalier de Maison Rouge made one of the patrolle who caused the alarm at the Temple?"

"A municipal, one of my friends, that day on duty at the Temple. He recognized him."

"He knew him from description."

"He has formerly seen him."

"And what sort of man, personally, is this Chevalier de Maison Rouge?"

"A man of five or six-and-twenty, short, fair, and of a pleasing countenance, with magnificent eyes and superb teeth."

There was a profound silence.

"Well," said Morand, "if your friend the municipal recognized this pretended Chevalier de Maison Rouge, why did he not arrest him?"

"In the first place, not knowing of his arrival at Paris, he feared being the dupe of a resemblance; and then my friend, being rather lukewarm, acted as the lukewarm generally act, he let it alone."

"You would not have acted thus, citizen?" said Dixmer, laughing boisterously.

"No," said Maurice; "I confess it, I would rather find myself deceived than allow to escape so dangerous a man as the Chevalier de Maison Rouge."

"And what would you have done, then, monsieur?" timidly inquired Genevieve.

"What would I have done, citoyenne" said Maurice. "I would have walked direct up to the patrol, and placed my hand on the chevalier's collar, saying to him, 'Chevalier de Maison Rouge, I arrest you as a traitor to the nation;' and my hand once upon his collar, I would not soon release him, I can tell you."

"And what would happen then?" said Genevieve.

"It would happen he had done this much for himself and friends, that the same hour they would be guillotined; that is all."

Genevieve shuddered, and darted on her neighbor a look of affright. But the Citizen Morand did not appear to notice this glance, and phlegmatically emptied his glass.

"The Citizen Lindey is right," said he; "there was nothing else to do; but, unfortunately, it was not done."

"And," demanded Genevieve, "do you know what has become of the Chevalier de Maison Rouge?"

"Bah!" said Dixmer; "in all probability he did not wish to remain longer, and finding his attempt abortive, quitted Paris immediately."

"And perhaps France even," added Morand.

"Not at all, not at all," said Maurice.

"What, has he had the impudence to remain in Paris?" said Genevieve.

"He has not stirred."

A movement of general astonishment followed this assertion, which Maurice had stated with so much confidence.

"This is only a supposition, citizen, on your part," said Morand; "merely a supposition, that is all."

"No; it is a positive fact that I affirm."

"Ah!" said Genevieve; "I acknowledge, for my part, I cannot believe it is as you say; it would be such an unpardonable imprudence."

"You are a woman, citoyenne; and can comprehend, then, what would outweigh, with a man of such a character as the Chevalier de Maison Rouge, all considerations of personal security?"

"And what can outweigh the dread of losing his life in a moment so dreadful?"

"Eh! Mon Dieu! Citoyenne," said Maurice; "love."

"Love!" repeated Genevieve.

"Doubtless. Do you not know, then, that the Chevalier de Maison Rouge is enamored of Marie-Antoinette?"

Two or three incredulous laughs were faintly heard. Dixmer looked at Maurice as if he sought to penetrate the very depths of his soul. Genevieve felt the tears suffuse her eyes; and a shuddering she could not conceal from Maurice ran through her frame.

The Citizen Morand poured some wine into his glass, and at this moment carried it to his lips. His paleness would have alarmed Maurice, had not all the young man's attention been at the time centred on Genevieve.

"You are silent,, citoyenne," murmured Maurice.

"Have you not said I should understand this because I was a woman? Well, we women, even if opposed to our princes, feel for such devotion."

"And that of the Chevalier de Maison Rouge is the height of devotion, as it is said he has never even spoken to the queen."

"Ah! there now Citizen Lindey," said the man of extreme measures; "it seems to me, permit me to observe, that you are very indulgent to the Chevalier—"

"Monsieur," said Maurice, perhaps intentionally making use of a word which had ceased to be in vogue, "I love all brave and courageous natures, which do not refuse to fight when I meet them in the ranks of my enemies. I do not despair of one day encountering the Chevalier de Maison Rouge."

"And—" said Genevieve.

"If I meet him—Well; I shall fight him."

The supper was finished. Genevieve set the example of retiring, by herself rising from the table. At this moment the pendulum struck.

"Midnight!" said Morand, coolly.

"Midnight!" said Maurice; "midnight already?"

"That exclamation affords me much pleasure," said Dixmer; "it proves you are not ennuye, and induces me to hope we may see you again. It is the door of a true patriot which opens to receive you; and, I trust, ere long, you will find it that of a sincere friend."

Maurice bowed, and, turning towards Genevieve,

"Will the citoyenne also permit me to repeat my visit?" demanded he.

"I do more than permit, I request you to do so. Adieu, citizen;" and Genevieve retired.

Maurice took leave of all the guests, particularly saluting Morand, with whom he was much pleased; squeezed Dixmer's hand, and went away bewildered; but, on the whole, more joyful than sad, from the various and unexpected events of the evening.

"Unfortunate encounter, unfortunate encounter!" said the young woman, after Maurice's departure, and then bursting into tears in the presence of her husband, who had conducted her to her room.

ORGAN RECITAL

Cathedral Organist Played to a Large Congregation at St. Paul's Church, Halifax, N. S.

Wm. J. Smith, A.R.C.O., organist and choir director of Christchurch Cathedral, Fredericton, N. B., gave a delightful recital in St. Paul's church, Halifax, on Wednesday, 26th May, by special invitation of the Ven. W. J. Armitage, D.D., Ph. D., rector of St. Paul's and Archdeacon of Halifax, N. S. During his short stay in Halifax he was the guest of Archdeacon and Mrs. Armitage.

The organ in this wonderful old church which is situated in the busy part of the city, is a large four-manual instrument by Warren, containing some excellent solo stops, and operated by a powerful electric orgo blo.

Mr. Smith's recital greatly pleased the large congregation present, and at the end of the recital, after playing for one hour and three-quarters, was requested to play a composition of Mozart's found on a dead German soldier.

Complaints About Playgrounds.

Several complaints have been received by The Gleaner today to the effect that there seems to be an utter lack of supervision at the public playgrounds which have been established on Queen Square. Residents who live nearby have informed The Gleaner that a crowd of tough boys gather there and use profane and obsence language and keep up their racket until almost midnight. It would seem that it was a good chance not only for the committee who are supposed to look after the playgrounds but for the police to exercise some authority.

Mr. and Mrs. Baird enjoyed extensive auto trips to many of the larger cities and had a most enjoyable trip.

PRE-WAR GERMAN OWNED C. P. R. STOCK UNDER DISCUSSION

Shares With Accrued Interest Valued at $20,000,000 Claimed

CONFERENCE TO BE HELD ON JUNE 2ND

Under Secretary of State and Purchasers of Stock to Hold Conference

J. J. Fraser Winslow, of Winslow & McNair, barristers, is leaving this evening for Ottawa, where he will represent American purchasers of C. P.R. stock in a conference held in that city with the Under Secretary of State and the purchasers to enable the latter to present claims to the Dominion Government for the return of the stock which had been purchased from German owners prior to the entry of the United States into the recent war.

At the time of the entrance of the United States into the war upwards of 148,676 shares of C. P. R. stock were held by German owners. In April by an order of the Supreme Court of Quebec all these stocks with the accrued dividends since July 1914, were vested in the Minister of Finance of Canada as custodian of enemy property. Prior to the making of this vesting a large number of shares had been purchased by Americans from the German owners and the conference to be held in Ottawa is for the purpose of enabling the purchasers to present claims against the Dominion Government for the return of the stocks so purchased.

The shares with accrued dividends represent at their present valuation upwards of $20,000,000 and this amount will be available if the shares are retained by the Dominion Government towards the payment of Canada's share of the German indemnity. At the same time the order was made vesting the stock in the custodian the C. P. R. claimed lien on some 80,000 shares of the stock held by the National Bank of Germany for an indebtedness amounting to £500,000, also for a claim of $200,000 for the value of Railway cars held by Austria and belonging to the C. P. R. Another claim of £6,000 was also included against Austria for bail for the Company's Agent, this sum having been confiscated by the Austrian Government.

COMMITTEE MEETING OF CITY COUNCIL

Matter of Issuing Bonds for the Victoria Hospital To Be Discussed Tonight

The regular June meeting of the City Council in committee is to be held this evening with several matters of importance to come up for consideration.

Among these is the consideration of the Victoria Hospital question which came before the Council at a special meeting recently. In the absence of Mayor Reid, Deputy Mayor Wilkinson will preside.

As the hospital question now stands there is a great difference of opinion among the aldermen as to the city issuing bonds to the extent of $100,000 for the proposed extensions to the Hospital, and it is doubtful if the matter will be settled this evening. At the recent meeting of the Council the delegation from the Hospital Board waited upon the Council and expressed their wishes in the matter but the question was stood over until it could be properly discussed, as it was thought inadvisable to go ahead in the matter without a good deal of thought. While several of the Aldermen were in favor of the scheme others were very much opposed to immediate action and urged the delay.

It is doubtful if thte electric lighting question will come up this evening as the Maritime Electric Company have not had time to draw up proposals.

Two Automobile Accidents During the Week End---A Car Plunges Off Highway Bridge

Public Car Crashed Into Horse and Wagon Near Elmcroft—Horse Went as Far as Lincoln, Sunbury County, and Broke Two Sets of Harness Before Being Caught—Five Young Men Had Miraculous Escape When Car Plunged Off Bridge at Garden Creek on Sunday at Noon.

Two automobile accidents took place during the week end, one of which only appears to have been saved from resulting fatally by little short of a modern miracle.

While Herbert Jamieson, who is employed by Ralph Hodgson, and Miss Margaret Hodgson were driving to their home at Doak Settlement on Saturday night, about eleven o'clock, they were the victims of an accident, and today Miss Hodgson is confined to her home as the result of injuries received.

Mr. Jamieson and Miss Hodgson were driving over the bridge below Elmcroft on the proper side of the road when a public car coming towards the city is said to have turned to the wrong side of the road and collided with the horse and wagon, which were caught between the car and the bridge railing. The occupants of the carriage were thrown out and the young lady received some nasty bruises about the shoulder, it at first being feared it had been dislocated.

When the car moved the horse started to run away and broke almost every bit of harness. Nathan Tims, who was going to his home nearby, caught the horse and took it to his father's to put some good harness on it, but just as he got it hitched up to the wagon it got away again and started down the Lincoln road. Near the residence of John Jeffries the horse was met by Ernest Hayward and caught. By this time it had cleared itself of the wagon, the shafts having broken, and the new set of harness was more or less broken, too.

The driver of the car in the meanwhile had taken the young man and the girl to their home at Doak.

Car Plunged Off Bridge.

An automobile, owned and driven by Louis Monahan, chief clerk at the Barker House, plunged through the railing of the highway bridge over Gorden's Creek, four miles north of Fredericton on the Woodstock Road, at noon on Sunday, turned over and landed with its nose in the creek, the rear portion of the car being held up by some sapling trees in such a manner that its occupants were not crushed under it.

With Mr. Monahan in the front seat was Harold Limerick, of the post office staff, and they were precipitated into the stream but escaped with bruises and cuts about the legs. Sterling Limerick was hurled from the car during its plunge and was not badly hurt, as he also landed in the water; but George Ferguson and Ralph Sinnott, of the post office staff, who were also in the rear seat, were thrown against the back of the front seat. Sinnott's teeth punctured his

FOREST FIRES GROW WORSE

New Brunswick is Now Enveloped in Flames and Smoke

St. Quentin Fire Now Raging in Crown Lands With Great Fury

DAMAGE MAY BE ABOUT $2,000,000

Madawaska Settlements In Danger—Bad Fire on Miramichi.

New Brunswick is getting more and more enveloped in flames and smoke each day the forest fire scourge continues.

Today the sun is almost entirely obscured from view by the smoke screen and appears as a red ball of fire, which should serve as a signal of warning to the people to exercise more care in the prevention of fires starting.

This is the 22nd day since there has been an appreciable rainfall in this province and fires are springing up in every district. There are almost a dozen major fires in various sections of the province today and the damage that is being occasioned is rapidly mounting up.

Over 200 Fires.

One estimate made today was that the destruction would doubtless run up to $2,000,000 unless there were early rains, but it was said to be too early as yet to make accurate estimates or to give figures of the acreage burned over. So rapidly have reports of fires been coming into the Department of Lands and Mines here that it is even impossible to get accurate details compiled of the actual number of fires that have occurred. Provincial Forester G. H. Prince, at noon, estimated the number at more than 200.

The district most seriously menaced continues to be Restigouche and Madawaska counties, along the international Railway line, and extending down through Madawaska settlements into Victoria county, including along the Tobique river, where yesterday afternoon it was reported that the "whole forest is ablaze." Emergency crews are being rushed to the scenes of the worst fires by special trains and experienced fire fighters capable of taking charge of crews are being hurried to St. Quentin to reinforce the crews there in a desperate effort to prevent the fires from gaining such headway in the virgin Crown timberlands as to cause a conflagration extending over the whole northern portion of the province and sweeping towards the Quebec boundary.

Bad Fire at Red Bank.

One of the most serious fires, in the opinion of Provincial Forester G. H. Prince, is that which is now raging on the Southwest Miramichi river about ten miles from Red Bank. This fire is only about four miles long, but it is in a country which is literally filled with slash and is likely to spread into a great conflagration. The heavy winds which fanned the various fires into fury yesterday had abated today, but not until they had given the crews fighting the fires a disheartening undertaking.

"If it keeps dry many more days it will be absolutely fruitless to attempt to control the forest fires situation in New Brunswick," declared Provincial Forester G. H. Prince today. He said that in spite of the critical situation at present, reports were hourly coming in to his office of new fires being started by absolute carelessness, indifference and neglect and that the department would prosecute every person found to have violated the law.

While the official weather report sent out from the Dominion Meteorological Observatory at Toronto this morning said there had been showers in northern New Brunswick, no word of any such showers had been reported here up to noon, and it is not believed there have actually been any showers. Reports from various sections, however, were that there was every indication of showers some time today and the falling smoke is said to be another sign of coming rains. Indicative of the situation was the statement at noon today that from the Mount Hope lookout tower, from which it was usually able to see 40 odd miles, it is impossible to see more than five miles today.

Serious Fires In Seigas District

Latest reports received from St. Quentin are to the effect that the fires in that vicinity are not yet under control and are spreading from the settlement to the adjoining crown lands.

The situation there is at the present time very serious, but the fire fighters are working their hardest.

The general report from the fires on the Tobique is somewhat more favorable today than it has been, but the situation is still very serious.

Word has been received by the Department of Lands and Mines that some serious fires have broken out in the vicinity of Seigas Settlement, in Madawaska county. The local wardens are organizing their fire fighters there to take charge of the situation. Chief Game Warden L. M. Gagnon is at present in that region. Additional men have been sent to Red Rapids to assist crews there.

The fire at Glennie was reported at noon to be dying down and the fighters were doing what they could to control the blaze. At 2.30 o'clock this morning the Fredericton and Grand Lake Railway sent out an extra train from here and a gang of fire fighters from the Nashwaak boom were sent to the scene of the Glenie fire, in charge of Thomas Jones.

Road Supervisor Hayward reported that a fire covering 300 acres on the back part of the farm owned by William Geoffrey near Lincoln had broken out yesterday, but the fire was said to be under control.

A fire was reported by Chief Fire Warden Lunn of Westmorland county in the vicinity of Cocagne river, and he with a crew of men have started work fighting it.

Additional men have been sent by the Department of Lands and Mines to fight a fire reported on the Little Southwest Miramichi river. Fires were also reported over night from near Minto and Chipman, but these are not of a very serious character.

Two fires were reported over night which will lead to prosecutions. One of these is in the city limits of Fredericton near Brick Hill, where a fire started to burn straw got away and covered a considerable area before it could be checked. The other was at Piccadilly, about two miles from Sussex, where a brush fire was started by a settler and got out of control. Latest reports received this morning stated that that fire had been extinguished.

UP TO THE FARMERS

Calgary, Alta., June 1.—Whether the wheat board will be continued or not depends on the desire of the farmers, according to H. W. Wood, President of the United Farmers and Alberta and a member of the Board, who returned yesterday from the east. If the farmers desire the Board, it will be continued, he said.

Inhabitants Advised To Leave Quebec Village

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Quebec, June 1.—Around Lac Beauce and McCarthy much of the forest is on fire. Fire is also reported ten miles west of Parent and this is probably the most alarming, as it keeps approaching the village. It is learned today at the Provincial Department of Forestry that Parent is menaced by the fire, and the inhabitants have been advised to leave the place.

BLAZING FORESTS IN QUEBEC SUBDUED

General Improvement In the Fire Situation Shown Today Throughout the Province

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Quebec, June 1.—Reports received from the Metapedia Valley this morning concerning the forest fires in that region show an improvement. The fires at St. Andre, Kamouraska, are extinguished and those of Neigette and St. Marcellin are under control.

Other important fires broke out in the limits belonging to Price Brothers at Lac des Iles, along the Red River. For the past ten days no colonist has been permitted to burn any brush.

Numerous fires are breaking out along the Transcontinental line west of this city. The track at Vandry was washed out last week over a distance of 200 feet, a dam giving away and train service has been interrupted since, but the damage is expected to be repaired by tomorrow.

At Village 48, in the Monk division, forest fires are said to be under control.

St. Apolline, in the Edmundston division, is surrounded by blazing forests.

WOMAN KILLED IN VETERANS' PARADE

Palmer, Mass., June 1—Mrs. Grace A. E. W. Clark, aged 85. The relief corps was marching ahead of the veterans in automobiles and it is supposed Captain Clark's foot touched the accelerator instead of the brake.

SUPREME COURT ARE DIVIDED ON BOARD OF COMMERCE POWERS

The Case in Which Judgment Was Asked Was One in Which the Board Proposed to Limit the Profits of the Retail Clothiers to Fifteen Per Cent.

THE RIGHT OF THE BOARD TO MAKE ORDER WAS UPHELD BY THREE JUDGES, WHILE OTHER THREE DISSENTED

The Result of the Judgment is That the Status Quo Remains Unchanged as Regards the Jurisdiction of the Board, and Appeal to Privy Council Must Be Taken

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Ottawa, June 1—The Supreme Court divided in its opinion today on the jurisdiction of the Board of Commerce of Canada as a profit fixing tribunal.

An order which the Board proposed to serve on retail clothiers in Ottawa limiting the profit which any retailer may take on men's suits and overcoats to a net fifteen per cent., was upheld by the Chief Justice, Sir Louis Davies, Justices Anglin and Mignault. Justices Idington, Duff and Brodeur refused to uphold the order.

It is understood that the reference will be taken to the Privy Council of England.

The result of the judgment is that the status quo remains unchanged as regards the powers of the Board of Commerce.

BODY BLOW TO THE U. S. BUNKER TRADE

Campaign of Coercion Proposed by the United Mine Workers Causes Apprehension

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Halifax, N. S., June 1.—The Halifax Herald today publishes the following despatch from its Sydney correspondent:

"The whole business community here has been roused to a profound pitch of nervous apprehension by a 'fifty per cent. coal cut' speech of J. B. McLachlan to the United Mine Workers' district board at Glace Bay. Not only would the colliery districts themselves suffer from a campaign of coercion, as is suggested by the U. M. W. leader, but it would be a body blow to the growing bunker trade of the port of Sydney, a trade of which the citizens are only now beginning to realize the tremendous possibilities.

"It was thought by some that the war rush for coal here was temporary and forced, but the contrary proved to be the case. Ever since the armistice steamers have been coming in large numbers for fuel, and this movement has been assisted by the almost prohibitive price of steam coal in England. In addition, several foreign Governments have been giving huge orders for Cape Breton coal and sending their own vessels after it. The result is that every day there are lying in the stream here as many steamers as the piers can handle, while scores of sailing vessels wait for weeks at a time to be loaded for various countries.

30,000 MEXICAN TROOPS PARADE

Manifestation of the Military Strength of the Revolutionary Movement at Capital

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Mexico City, June 1.—This city is virtually "dry" during night hours, as a result of orders from the new Government, which were given for the purpose of eliminating all chances of untoward happenings during these days when large bodies of troops are concentrated here.

Disorders were feared because of the large number of troops from lonely outlying districts which are at present in the capital. It is expected 30,000 soldiers will participate in the parade to be held tomorrow, as a manifestation of the military strength of the revolutionary movement.

Criticizes Partition of Ireland.

Farmers' Leader Disappoints Followers in House By Crude Arguments in Budget Debate

Hon. Mr. Crerar's Defence of Free Trade Principles Very Amateurish and Not Convincing Even to Ardent Supporters—His Attack on Luxury Taxes

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, June 1.—The speech of the leader of the Farmers' party, Hon. T. A. Crerar, on the budget was delivered today, and seems to have been somewhat of a disappointment. Mr. Crerar's delivery, never very good, does not seem to improve with practice, and, although he had prepared considerable matter to reply to the very exhaustive speech delivered by Mr. Meighen last week, he delivered it like a man who was coached rather than personally conversant with the arguments he was advancing.

Mr. Crerar called upon all the gods of free trade for a century past to refute the argument of the Minister of the Interior that Great Britain had gone back under free trade, but he cited them in this bare and amateurish manner, "Take Ricardo, take Adam Smith, take John Stuart Mill," without attempting to apply them in detail for the support of his argument. The fact is that, so long as Mr. Crerar confines himself to the grain business of Canada, of which he has good knowledge, he is apt to be interesting, but as soon as he starts to make excursions into the realm of economics he is apt to exhibit a very slight acquaintance with them.

A Fragmentary Address.

His address was very fragmentary, and compared badly with the well sustained argument supported by a wealth of instances and statisics with which the Minister of the Interior held the attention of the House last week and which the leader of the Farmers was attempting to answer. In some respects he made explicit reply to charges which have been made against the operations of the companies with which he is conected, and put himself on record on some important questions. With regard to the Wheat Board, he said that Government control was not desirable as a permanent policy, and made the rather peculiar suggestion that Messrs. Meighen and Calder were thinking of adopting it as a permanent policy in order to appeal to the Farmers as an offset to their tariff demands.

Referring to the O. B. U., he said it was a misguided movement, but was largely the product of unjust conditions. On the luxury tax he said that it was more a tax upon the necessities of life than upon the luxuries, quoting the absurdity of putting caps at over two dollars in the luxury class. In this criticism he was on fairly safe ground, and it is interesting to note that there will probably be a change in this schedule making three classes, as follows, cloth caps over two dollars, cloth and fur, exempt of changes, which will be made in the luxury taxes in committee. There are probably a number of others.

Agriculture in Great Britain.

In undertaking to refute the argument of Mr. Meighen regarding the decline of agriculture in Great Britain, he said the people had left the land there because of the exactions of the landlord it was he land policy and not the trade policy which was the actuating cause. He denied that there had been any phenomenal decline in agricultural population, and what there was was largely due to the attractions of cheap land in Canada, and the average yield per acre in Great Britain had been steadily increasing. His figures regarding the relative agricultural and rural population of Canada and Great Britain differed from those of the Minister of the Interior, although both claimed to have secured them from the same source—the Department of Statistics. He stated that in Great Britain the decline in agricultural population had been from 49.8 per cent. when free trade was adopted to 21.3 per cent. in 1918, while in Canada the decline was from 78.9 per cent. in 1881 to 45.56 per cent in 1911.

To a question from a Nova Scotia member, Mr. Crerar said he was in favor of making apples free of duty.

If Great Britain had lagged behind Germany, the United States and other protectionist countries at all, it was due to her neglect of technical education.

Want Farmers, Not Factories.

Canada could still get a great deal out of revenue from the tariff and at the same time eliminate the principle of protection in industry, which was bad, particularly in exotic industries such as cotton manufacturing. Canada will eventually become a great manufacturing country, but in the meantime we should put two million farmers on the land and make them prosperous as consumers for the manufactures to come. The time had come when we should get away from make-believe on the tariff, and from such milk and water amendments as that moved by Mr. Fielding. But from start to finish Mr. Crerar gave no intimation whether he would support the amendment or not. He carefully refrained also from the mention of some of the propositions he had put forward last year, such as his taxation proposals. The entire speech was critical, or explanatory, but was entirely lacking in anything constructive.

Mr. Crerar has made no advance as a leader of public opinion during the past year, as many expected he would do so, and the farmers are believed to be coming to the opinion that they have put their money on the wrong horse, an opinion which it is not unlikely Mr. Crerar himself shares.

An Attack on Crerar.

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Ottawa, June 1.—Donald Sutherland, of South Oxford, who followd Mr. Crerar in the budget debate, made an attack on the latter. He said that while a member of the Government Mr. Crerar was drawing a salary from the United Grain Growers Limited larger than his salary as a minister and his indemnity as a member combined; further, that the directors of the United Grain Growers set a "recall" into operation by increasing Mr. Crerar's salary as president from $10,000 to $15,000.

Fuller Information.

F. B. McCurdy (Colchester) said that the public must be given a fuller understanding of the difficulties of the national financial position. The budget speech would be given widest publicity and it would be well that the salient points be condensed into a statement in popular language giving to the public a clear and concise presentation of the national dilemma. "Canada's need today challenges every one of every party to unite their services in a long, strong pull to repay the massive liabilities that were incurred during the years of war," he said.

Mr. McCurdy pointed out that until an official estimate is forthcoming of the revenue to be derived from the luxury and sales tax, it was impossible to know to what extent in come from this source would offset the loss due to the abolition of the seven and one-half per cent. customs war duty and the reduction in the rate of business profits tax. Meantime, the Minister of Finance had estimated the income to be $381,000,000 and the expenditure on the ordinary account to be not less than $341,000,000 during the coming year. There remained expenditures for such items as the operation of national railways and the loss in operation of the postal service. Then there was the supplementary estimates yet to be tabled, and last year these involved an expenditure of $36,723,120, and the minister also announced the retirement of floating obligations this year to the extent of $74,058,400. The impression was incorrect that the latter item would have to be paid out of revenue.

Britain's Debt.

Mr. McCurdy drew attention to the fact that Great Britain's debt averaged more than $800 per head, compared to Canada's $256 per head. The British Government proposed by extraordinary taxation in the coming year in a time of comparative prosperity to raise a surplus over expenditure which will reduce the British national debt by 164,000,000 pounds. An appreciation of the present financial position must impel everybody to support the Government's effort to reduce Canada's national debt at the time when the pre-war dollar is worth forty-six cents rather than wait until it had resumed its hundred-cent value. By providing for the payment annually of $68,000,000 towards debt extinguishment Canada could wipe out her deadweight debt in twenty years.

Existing ills were the natural consequence of the war. The recovery of industry depended on the wisdom of the Governments, but far more on the energy and hard living of the people of each country. Many people seem to think that the state proposed to spend vast sums on housing and general rehabitation and to find the funds by raising great sums from the rich, voluntary, if possible, if not by compulsion. To secure to the state the lion's share of all profits of business or industry or, if necessary, to confiscate a good part of existing wealth. Such a programme is not feasible, said Mr. McCurdy. The proceeds of a capital levy could only be devoted to reducing existing indebtedness and not to meeting further expenditure. Mr. McCurdy urged an honest effort on the part of all from members of parliament to the simple citizen to get a grasp of public affairs and to work for the single purpose of national welfare.

Difficulties of Proceeding With Construction Under Present Costs and Financing Conditions Discussed But No Decision Reached

Although the resolution by which the discussion on the Victoria Hospital question was stood over at the last special meeting of the City Council named the "regular meeting," which falls tonight for the renewal of the discussion the matter was brought up last evening at the committee meeting. In the absence of Mayor Reid Deputy Mayor Wilkinson presided.

The idea of a plebiscite on the question of a bond issue of $100,000 to cover the request of the Hospital Board for proposed additions to the Hospital was favored by the majority of the Council last night.

The matter was first introduced by Ald. Young who stated that it should be gone over thoroughly by every member of the Council before any decision was made.

Ald. Cooper stated that while he would like to see a proper hospital in Freedericton he did not think the City Council should issue bonds to the extent of $100,000 to cover the expenditure of the proposed additions. He thought that the matter should be left to the citizens to decide by plebiscite their wishes regarding the proposed issue of bonds.

Ald. Baxter stated that he had discussed the matter with many prominent business men and merchants of the city and they expressed the opinion that the Council would be foolish to go ahead and vote for the issue without consulting the people. He thought that after the Fraser Memorial had been constructed additions could be added later. At the present time prices were very high and he thought that to wait would do no harm.

Ald. Neill stated that Ald. Baxter was too pessimistic in his views. The need for a proper hospital had been very clearly shown. He thought that should the city do as asked by the Hospital Board they should have con- of the buildings. He thought the suggestion for a plebiscite to decide the question was a good one.

Present Financing Conditions.

Ald. Cooper stated that the City Council had no right to assure the Board that they would issue the bonds as in case they applied for the legislation and it was denied them they would be in a bad fix.

Ald. Jennings thought that the matter should be put before the people as suggested. President Hughes of the Hospital Board had laid great stress upon the need for the nurses' home and he thought it would be a good thing if the city were to build a nurses' home and still use the old building for a Hospital. That was one way out of the situation but still he favored the plebiscite.

Ald. Hall was also in favor of the plebiscite and he outlined the position the city would be in if after promising the Board to issue the bonds for the amount desired their application for legislation should be refused. The Board had stated that they would finance the affair until the City Council were enabled to have the bonds issued, but on asking local bankers about the possibility of their doing so had learned that it was almost impossible to do so at the present time and under present conditions.

Ald. Barker stated that the name "the most expensive Council that ever sat," had been applied to the present Council and he thought that the matter ought to be left to the people to decide.

Too Many Plebiscites.

Ald. Young said that the council were appointed by the people who put their trust in them to see that they did their work faithfully and he thought that to leave the matter to a plebiscite would be throwing the people's trust back upon them. This might lead to plebiscites on minor matters. He was in favor of a plebiscite but did not think it ought to be held at once. It would take until next winter before the city could gain any legislation and he thought that the question of the issuing of the bonds should be made an issue at the civic elections which wou'' occur about that time.

Ald. Camp agreed with Alderman Barker in that the Council were very willing to spend money, but if the question came to a vote he could not vote for the bond issue. eH agreed with speakers who said that certain places in the Hospital were not fit for occupation but at the same time he thought that the idea of issuing bonds to the extent of $100,000 was ridiculous. He would be in favor of a small grant to the Board, but would not favor the issue in this case, particularly where the city would have no control.

Ald. Cain stated that he thought the people should have more say in the matter and he favored the plebiscite.

Ald. Young stated that he was in favor of the grant and thought that if the matter went to the people they would favor the issue.

Ald. Neill said Ald. Camp had stated that a citizen had told him that he would put up the $100,000 until the bond issue had been arranged for. He was in favor of the bond issue.

Ald. Camp said that Ald. Neill had misunderstood him. He had stated that while taking to a member of the Hospital Board on Sunday he had been told by him that a citizen had promised to put up the money if the City Council would guarantee the bonds. "Anyone who says that a poor man stood as much chance in Victoria Hospital as a rich man is spreading an awful falsehood," declared Ald. Camp.

A motion to adjourn was then suddenly offered and passed without a decision in the Hospital matter being reached.

President G.W.V. . of Canada Insists Upon Early Election

The following has been issued to the G. W. V. A. of Canada by R. B. Maxwell as president of the Association:

"From knowledge gained of political and economic conditions in Canada during the three years' effort on the part of the Great War Veterans Association to obtain equitable reconstruction legislation, I dem it my duty to urge upon you the necessity of an early general election.

"Parliament has confessed inability to redeem former pledges and restore to returned soldiers and dependents in a substantial measure those economic advantages they would now enjoy but for war service.

"Parliament has shown reluctance to offset such failure by general measures for the improvement of living conditions throughout the country, whereby returned men might more easily regain a secure foothold in the national life.

The New Taxes.

"Parliament now requires that those who served in the war shall share in the payment of the major portion of the war debt, despite the fact that war-accumulated wealth remains practically unmolestoed.

"Parliament as at present constituted apparently cannot cope with the distressing living conditions which affect not only the returned soldiers but the public generally.

"Parliament has denied to the electorate of Canada any opportunity since 1911 to assert their views upon domestic questions by means of the ballot.

"Parliament continues to ignore the fact that the demand for a general election does not arise solely from among returned soldiers, but is supported by the vast majority of those who have the interests of the country at heart, and who view with alarm the increasing unrest.

"Parliament has outlived its mandate.

"The time has arrived for the people to declare themselves on the vital questions of the day. I therefore call upon you, in defence of the basic principles upon which this association was founded to assemble in mass meeting with your fellow citizens and secure without delay an unmistakable expression of the wishes of the people in regard to the necessity of a general election.

"Dominion President G. W. V. A. of Canada."

Events of a Day In Parliament

Ottawa, June 1.—Yesterday in parliament.

In the House:

Bills to amend the Yukon placer mining act and the Northwest game act were introduced by Hon. Arthur Meighen and given first reading.

T. A. Crerar, Progressive leader, continued the budget debate. He suggested it would be better to cut the national expenditure than to try and make national revenue meet the enormously increased expense. The new taxes pressed more heavily on necessities than luxuries, he thought. The whole tenor of the budget was to place the burden on the shoulders of those who were least able to support it.

Donald Sutherland, South Oxford, charged the Farmer members with trying to disorganize the country. He had no sympathy with what he regarded as the class movement supported by the new party.

Mr. Gould, Assiniboia, spoke from shortly after midnight until one forty-five.

Attendance was so slim that for a time there was not even a quorum in the House.

The House adjourned at one fifty.

J. D. B. MacFarlane, of Macdonald College, Quebec, is at the Barker House.

COUNCIL DISCUSSED WORK ON THE ROADS

Estimates of Cost of Proposed Work on Outlying Roads In the City

Ald. Cooper reported to the City Council last evening that he and City Engineer McDowell had interviewed Hon. P. J. Veniot, Minister of Public Works, on Thursday of last week with reference to the repairing of the outlying city roads.

Hon. Mr. Veniot had stated that he would be willing to work on a fifty-fifty basis with the City Council on the expenditure for repairs and had stated that he would grant $1,200 as the Government's part of the work. The different roads were discussed and it was stated that about $400 worth of repairs had been made on the Hanwell road, while it was estimated that the cost of putting the Wilsey and Doak roads in proper shape would be about $600.

The suggestion was made with reference to the roads in this section that the Roads and Streets Committee of the City Council interview Archibald Fraser and see what plans, if any, the Fraser Comapnies, Ltd. would make for the repairing of the road in front of and in the vicinity of the Victoria mill in that section. The suggestion was made that Mr. Fraser might be willing to have a stretch of concrete road constructed.

GENERAL CURRIE ON TRAINING CAMPS

St. John, N. B., May 31—"I am not in a position to say definitely that the camps are off or not," General Sir Arthur Currie said this morning in an interview, but he thought this year "would be better for the efficiency of the service if we took out of the training vote sufficient money to give to all units some help in the way of a permanent adjutant or quarter-master sergeant instructor and to allow them to carry out their training for this year at local headquarters. He could also look after the recruiting of the unit, issuing of clothing, get their records into shape and form the classes for junior officers and non-commissioned officers in order to carry out the training work."

THE POLITICAL PARTIES.

The defection of a number of Government supporters from the Northwest on the Tariff issue is in the nature of things, and need cause no surprise. As the Montreal Gazette says, the time has come to revert to peace time policies, and the realignment of parties on the fiscal question is a natural sequence of the dissolution of the coalition into its original elements. This tendency was manifested a year ago when Hon. Mr. Crerar withdrew from the Ministry and formed a third party, whose recent electoral success gives warrant for its existence; and the force of events has compelled both Ministers and members to take a clear position on the fiscal question, whether their attitude springs from conviction or from the presumed views of constituents. It is well to have the issue definite. Three policies are now before the people—protection, free trade, and one which savors a little of both. Protection we know, free imports we know, but of the Liberal policy it may be asked, what art thou? Mr. Fielding, the authoritative interpreter of Liberal policy, scouts free trade as impracticable, finds merit in mergers, blessings in bounties, and plenty in provincial protection; but behind him sit men of discordant opinions, who fashion their alleged principles to local circumstances, and to whose hands the shaping of fiscal policy cannot safely be entrusted. The Farmers' platform, on the contrary, is precise. It leaves no doubt as to what form that party's fiscal policy takes. A Farmers' Government would immediately lower the tariff all round, extend a preference of 50 per cent. to British products, secure unrestricted reciprocity with the United States in natural products, and remove duties from all foodstuffs. The Farmers Party, in a word, favors free imports and while giving its support to the Fielding amendment as "a tempor "arizing, shilly-shallying, opportunist "piece of print,"—the words are Dr. Clark's,—do so only as an instalment of the greater reduction in duties they desire to effect.

The policy of the Government, like that of the Agrarians, is perspicuous. Canadian industries are to be given first consideration, industries of the farm, forest, factory and fisheries. Those who believe that policy essential to the development of resources and the welfare of the people need not haggle over words, nor dispute whether moderate protection or adequate protection is the better term. The end sought is reached by either avenue, since protection that does not protect ceases to be either moderate or adequate. Electors will fight once again in defence of the National Policy adopted in 1879, and continued down to this day, even through fifteen years of Liberal rule. To that policy may be applied the words of the inscription on Sir Christopher Wren's statue in St. Paul's, "If you would see my monuments, look around." The growth and development of Canada, the signal prosperity her people have enjoyed, are attributable to the fiscal policy that invites capital investment, protects and encourages industry. To reverse that policy, as the Farmers propose, to dilute it as the Liberals desire, would be to remove the foundation stone upon which the financial, commercial and industrial edifice has been erected, and to precipitate a collapse.

Tariffs are not immutable laws, nor based on eternal principles. They are shaped according to circumstances and conditions. A fiscal system suited to Great Britain may be quite unsuited to Canada, for which reason an analogy between the two countries does not exist, and deductions drawn from the results of the British tariff policy are frequently not pertinent. There is much more point for the Canadian people in the fact that industrial America was built up under protection until the United States has become the greatest manufacturing nation in the world, that Germany's immense commercial strides were made under a policy of high protection, and that Australia has recently turned from a revenue to a protective tariff. If the consequence of free imports or a strictly revenue tariff in Canada is to be prostration of industry, depopulation of cities and towns, unemployment, business dislocation and financial distress, would the policy of the farmers be supported? Would even the agriculturalists invite these results? Yet that is the inevitable end of their policy if they are sincere in its advocacy to the point of practical experiment.

The revenue aspect of the question is important to serious-minded persons, though the Farmers party give no heed to the matter. From customs duties upwards of $160,000,000 was last year derived; how is a loss of a half or a third of this revenue to be recompensed? Not by an excess profits tax when the profits of manufacturers no longer exist, nor from income taxation when incomes fold their tents like the Arabs and silently steal away. The notion that a large revenue can be obtained from land taxes has been exploded; exploded in Great Britain where a barren law has recently been repealed, and exploded in the Northwest provinces, where this impost has failed to bear fruit.

It is a good thing to have the issue clearly demarked. The Ministerial party stands firmly for fiscal protection to Canadian industry. Liberals and Farmers line up in opposition. The division on the Budget will determine where members of the Commons stand. There is no half-way ground; and from the House to the country the issue will be carried and the controversy conducted until in due course the electors speak.

CALL OF THE CITY TO THE FARM.

"City life is depleting the rural population," is the statement of the Hon. Mr. Caron, Minister of Agriculture in Quebec. This is producing serious consequences. These consequences are related to production, and production is related to the economic situation, and the economic situation is determinative of the general condition and life of the people.

The bright lights lure the young, who have the instinctive elemental desire for brightness and warmth and thrilling emotion in their lives. The big city offers, or seems to, those pleasurable seductions which are not found on the farm. Young people do not pause to analyze what is largely meretricious glitter, but are lured, as the moth is lured, to the devouring flame.

Farm life is greatly improved, points out the Montreal Gazette. Its aspects are infinitely more inviting than they were twenty-five years ago. Better prices, modern machinery, larger and closer markets—these things have modified the hardships of rural life. The telephone, rural delivery, electric lights, motor cars—these features have completely transformed the simple life of the country. At the same time, there is great monotony and drabness in the accustomed round of duties under circumstances which deny that social and gregarious life for which it is instinctive on the part of the young to long.

Instead of having the rural homes all together, as is the case in many parts of Europe, with the farms radiating from a common centre, each farm house expresses an aloof individuality and isolation. The Quebec Minister of Agriculture pleads for modern sanitation in the rural home, as a feature of worth, and he is right; but what the heart must always crave for is the human voice, friends and happy laughter, to make the day tolerable and the hours light and winsome.

There should be, in every rural centre, a common meeting place, hall or church, and this should be open at all times. It should be understood that this hall or church was for the use of the people. Movies might be introduced; concerts might be given; but the great thing is to make our rural life, hard as it is in the long and desolate winter, alluring to the young. The churches of the country could be made a centre of human interest if they were flung open for social purposes, which purposes are entirely honorable and desirable, and would make for the bringing in of the young people of both sexes, with ultimate wholesome mating. In this way life would be broadened and various; human interests would be created; contentment would supervene; production would be increased, and, with such increase, many a poor devil in the city, who cannot make ends meet, and envies the simple life in the open, would be able to buy a suit of clothes—even with the newly imposed ten per cent.

The depletion of the rural communities is a serious question, not only in Canada, but all over the world, for the soil is the ultimate solution of all economic disturbances, and to make for rural contentment and effort is of more importance to civilization than standing armies or "biggest" navies.

KOLCHAK'S CIGARETTE.

Kolchak, according to the account of the returning Captain Webb, borrowed a cigarette for his viaticum, with which to face the executioners. Cigarettes have blended strangely with violent extinction in wartime story and no doubt in fact. There is that about the transitory life of a short smoke which fits with the termination of a life, and no doubt the modern sceptic finds in the very trifling with so small and silly a thing a means of reaffirming his non-faith in larger and less sure matters.

Modern in its smaller detail, the death of Kolchak is in its main lines an old, old story. The same thng happened to Carranza the other day and to several thousand at least of other gallant leaders whose careers would lack something as to dramatic fitness if they had quit life by way of the pillow.

Kolchak played the gallant partizan leader even to the normal finale. Considering how crowded with events were his days, his life measured in events was no brief one.

Mr. Crerar was again disappointing in Parliament yesterday. He lacks appreciation of generally recognized principles, does not appear to understand the importance of accuracy of statement in preparing his case and is strangely illogical in his presentation. A comment on his speech concludes in these words, "the result was grotesque if not ludicrous." That may possibly be an exaggeration; but it is certainly not inaccurate to say that Mr. Crerar's influence as a party leader has disappeared, whatever his position may be with the wheat buyers and speculators within his own province.

The powers of the Board of Commerce are not impaired by the decision of the Supreme Court of Canada, which was handed down today. Yet it may not be wise to continue the operation of the Board, which has not in itself accomplished much of practical value.

DETAIL OF LOSS IN ST. QUENTIN FIRE

Only $151,050 Insurance Held by Agencies in New Brunswick

St. John, N. B., June 1.—The total loss in St. Quentin is estimated at $500,000. Property in the town was insured to the amount of $151,050 in St. John offices, and for an additional amount in Quebec city offices. It is understood that the insurance placed by St. Quentin property owners with Quebec agents is much less than the amount placed with St. John agencies. The insurance here is distributed as follows:

Palatine, $11,000; Canadian Accident Insurance Co. (fire) $6,500; Hartford, $15,000; London and Lancashire Fire Insurance Co. Ltd., $7,500; North British and Mercantile Insurance Co., $1,000; Western, $2,500; Newark, $1,000; Commercial Union, $24,000; St. Lawrence, $4,400; Queen, $8,000; British Crown, $12,000; British Empire, $10,000; Eagle, $9,000; Lochart & Ritchie, $30,000; Yorkshire, $4,150; Hudson Bay, $1,000; Royal, $4,000.

The St. Quentin fire was discussed at a meeting of the New Brunswick Board of Fire Underwriters held in this city yesterday afternoon. After the meeting W. L. Patterson and C. Percy Howard, inspectors and adjusters, left for St. Quentin.

Lumber Losses.

In addition to the half million loss at St. Quentin there have been enormous lumber losses in Restigouche county, estimated at $300,000 additional. The lumber yards between Kedgewick and St. Quentin have been cleaned up by fires and large quantities of lumber at Peter's Siding, Marcotte, Murray Gulch and Maltais have been burned. It is estimated that more than two hundred square miles of standing timber has been swept over. Telegraph poles along the International line have been burned for about a mile and communication by wire is interrupted. It is difficult to move trains on account of the intense heat, dense smoke and because of the buckling of rails from the heat.

Large quantities of lumber have been burned in Madawaska county and in the adjacent sections of Maine and Quebec. At Belanger Siding, Madawaska county, everything but the station was burned. All the railway fences and telegraph poles were burned. In places the copper wires of the telephone and telegraph lines were melted and trains were held up. Large numbers of men are patrolling the railroad.

Several residents of St. Quentin, who were in Campbellton yesterday, said that the fire originated in the forest, embers lighting in a pile of lumber some distance back of Lynch & Fournier's store. The fire spread from the lumber pile to the buildings, live embers and cinders firing numerous dry roofs. In all seventy buildings were destroyed.

A. M'N. SHAW PASSED AWAY AT MONTREAL

Montreal, Que., May 31—A. McN. Shaw, of 709 St. Urbain street, died at his residence last night of nephritis, after an illness of more than two months. The late Mr. Shaw was in his 67th year, and was a member of the Douglas Methodist church, of this city. He is survived by one son, H. Leroy Shaw.

Major Shaw had spent the winter at Barbadoes, and fell ill on March 30, two days after his return to Montreal. He was born in Prince Edward Island, but had lived most of his life in New Brunswick. There he was for many years manager of the Imperial Life Assurance Company for the Province of New Brunswick. He then became manager of the same company for the Province of Quebec. He came to Montreal in January, 1905, and in 1907 went to Toronto, where he held the position of Superintendent of Agencies for Canada of the Imperial Life Assurance Company, with headquarters in Toronto.

Mr. Shaw retired nine years ago Since then he has spent all his winters in the South, either at Bermuda, Barbadoes or at some neighboring Island. The summers he has spent at his summer cottage on the St. John River, N. B. He had many friends in Montreal, in the West and in the Maritime Provinces, where he had spent most of his time. In the latter provinces he was very well known.

A. V. Currie, of Bucksport, Me., is a guest at the Barker House.

The Stock Market

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York (Wall Street), June 1.—Heavy selling accompanied the resumption of trading on the stock exchange today. Offerings for both long and short account were precipitated by further credit contraction. This was indicated by the higher discount rates announced over the week-end by the Federal Reserve Banks of this city and Chicago. Losses ranged from 1 to 4 points, greatest weakness being shown by Crucible, Bethlehem and Republic Steels, Mexican and Pan American Petroleums, Studebaker, American Locomotive, Baldwin Locomotive and affiliated industries. Rails also reacted under lead of Union Pacific, Texas & Pacific and Rock Island.

THE METHODISTS OBJECT TO UNION

Toronto, May 31. — Informal approaches were made several months ago by Archbishop Matheson, in behalf of the House of Bishops of the Church of England in Canada, to Rev. Dr. S. D. Chown, General Superintendent of the Methodist Church, with a view to the inclusion of the Anglicans and Baptists in the proposed union of Methodists, Presbyterians and Congregationalists, according to a statement made public here today.

The Methodist General Conference special committee met today and went on record with reference to the matter as follows:

"We cordially welcome the proposal from the Board of Bishops of the Church of England in Canada to consider a more comprehensive plan of church union, but, in our opinion, we think that the union now contemplated should be completed before a larger ecclesiastical union is brought about."

FROM THE PEOPLE

PROHIBITION

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—On May 11th I addressed to you a communication in which I quoted a statement contained in the report of the "executive" which was handed out for public consumption from the secret meeting of the New Brunswick Temperance Alliance. I attributed the authorship of this executive report to the Rev. Thomas Marshall, and I charged that the quoted statement was untrue. The statement referred to was as follows:

"This province now enjoys the unenviable reputation of being the only one in the Dominion whose legislature has refused to the people the opportunity to vote upon the question of real prohibition for rich and poor alike."

That statement was made in denunciation of the Legislature of New Brunswick voting down the New Brunswick Temperance Alliance's resolution asking for a referendum under the Dominion Act of last session on the question of the prohibition of the importation of intoxicating liquor.

In support of my charge of untruthfulness I quoted the following extract from a Vancouver despatch regarding the proceedings of the British Columbia Legislature, which was published in the Montreal Daily Star on the Saturday before the Alliance meeting.

"There was an Act providing for a referendum on prohibition which is likely to be set some time in August. The Prohibition party asked that provision be made to have this followed by a Dominion vote on the question of importation, but this request was turned down."

I then proceeded to deal with that part of "the executive's" statement which spoke of "real prohibition for rich and poor alike," and endeavored to show that this was susceptible of no other meaning than that the provincial prohibition, which exists today in New Brunswick under the New Brunswick Prohibition Act, was unreal and inapplicable to the poor alone. [illegible] which was issued by the executive of the New Brunswick Temperance Alliance, was compiled by members of that executive with their own lawyer at their elbow. I referred to the provisions of the Act with regard to obtaining liquor when needed for the treatment of the sick as my reason for fully agreeing that this Act, which was framed by members of the N. B. Temperance Alliance, was an Act which operated against the poor.

I did not sign my name to the communication, for I am not a lover of or seeker after cheap publicity, but I used what I thought was equally good and a fitting nom de plume for such a communication,—the name "Truth."

The Rev. Thomas Marshall has made an attempt to reply to that communication in a thoroughly characteristic production. He indulges his well known inclination for abuse of any and all persons whose opinions and tastes are not regulated by his own by taking a fling at the "tone," at the "style" and even at the "flavor" of my letter, and accuses me of the grave sacrilege of claiming "wisdom and knowledge greater than that possessed (not by our Divine Creator) by the members of the Alliance." He suggests that if I had dared to sign my name (and thus expose myself to the castigation of himself and other pulpiteers of his kind), it would have killed all the influence I sought to exert. Passing over this camouflage with no further comment than that I am neither a liquor trafficker, the hireling of a liquor trafficker, nor a "rummy," let me analyze the defence which the reverend leader of the New Brunswick prohibition campaign has offered to the charges in my communication:—

He does not deny that he wrote the Alliance's executive report.

He does not deny that I quoted the statement, which I charged was untrue, exactly as he wrote it.

He does not challenge the truth of the Vancouver despatch to the Montreal Star.

He does not deny that the Prohibition party of British Columbia asked that provision be made to have a vote in that province under the Dominion Act on the question of importation.

He does not deny that "this request was turned down."

What then is his answer to the charge that "the executive" of the N. B. Temperance Alliance gave out for publication, for the purpose of discrediting our Provincial Legislature, a statement which was untrue?

I am going to ask your permission, Mr. Editor, to set it out in full again, in order that it may be closely scrutinized. Here it is, word for word as the reverend gentleman has written it, no doubt with his usual care:

"The claim of Truth to wisdom and knowledge greater than that possessed by the members of the Alliance is hardly borne out by the facts. Some persons who have followed somewhat closely public events did not then know and do not now believe the Alliance's statement to be untrue. His belated information, gathered from a brief telegram in the Montreal Star, does not prove great knowledge of current events. This is the telegram on which he bases his claim that the Alliance published an untruth: 'There was an Act providing for the referendum. . . The Prohibition party asked that provision be made to have this followed by a Dominion vote on the question of importation, but this request was turned down.'

"This quotation does not show that the British Columbia Legislature refused the people the opportunity to vote on the question of importation and in itself is no justification for saying that the statements of the Alliance were untrue. At the time the paragraph was written we had information leading us to believe in the absolute truth of what we said. I have now before me a telegram from British Columbia which states that the Legislature of that province did not refuse the people the opportunity to vote upon the question of importation; in fact, there was no vote taken in the Legislature upon it. So New Brunswick's unenviable position is still as the report states."

Putting aside the irrelevant pettifoggery about my pretentions to wisdom and knowledge superior to that of the omniscent deities of his Alliance, let us see just where this characteristic screed has landed the reverend gentleman.

My "belated information" was gathered from a Vancouver despatch to the Montreal Star. This was published on May 8th, just three days before the "Alliance" handed out its "executive" report. Mr. Marshall says that "at the time the paragraph was written we had information leading us to believe in the absolute truth of what we said." Is this a confession and apology or a denial? Will the reverend gentleman say that when he wrote his report he had information that the British Columbia Legislature had passed a Dominion referendum resolution? Or does he mean that he had information that they had failed to pass it or would not pass it? Upon which horn of the dilemma does he place himself?

The Montreal Star despatch, he says, is "in itself no justification for saying that the statements of the Alliance were untrue." Why not, in the name of common sense, if the despatch was true? And the reverend gentleman knows that every word of it was and is true. He knows now, if he did not know when he wrote his castigation of the New Brunswick Legislature, that the Prohibition party of British Columbia had asked for the passing of a resolution by the Legislature of that province at its last session praying that a vote be held under the Dominion Act on the question of importation, and that "this request was turned down."

What then is his answer? A telegram from British Columbia which he says he had before him on the 21st inst. and "which," he says, "states that the Legislature of that province did not refuse the people the opportunity to vote upon the question of importation."

Will the reverend gentleman venture to explain to the readers of The Gleaner how he came to receive a telegram from British Columbia which used the exact words of the N. B. Temperance Alliance's report? Was it in reply to a telegram which he or someone else addressed to British Columbia, setting these words out? Has he any objection to giving to the public the complete words of the telegram to British Columbia and of the telegram from British Columbia? Seeing that he is such a stickler about names, he will of course have no objection to giving the names subscribed to the two telegrams.

This then is the reverend gentleman's defence: That notwithstanding the admitted fact that the Prohibition party of British Columbia asked for the passage by the Legislature of a resolution for a Dominion referendum, and notwithstanding that "this request was turned down," and turned down so flatly that the Legislature would not even entertain such a resolution at its last session, the Legislature of that province did not "refuse the people the opportunity to vote on the question of importation," because, forsooth "there was no vote taken in the Legislature upon it. And the reverend leader of the New Brunswick Prohibitionist party therefore triumphantly concludes: "So New Brunswick's unenviable position is still as the report states."

Appending only the recognized definition of "prevarication" as the act of using evasive language for the purpose of deceiving or diverting attention, I leave it to you intelligent readers to judge between "Thomas Marshall" and "TRUTH."

Fredericton, May 29, 1920.

P. S. By the way, now that the reverend gentleman has dealt so carefully with the case of British Columbia, will he give the public the benefit of the information he has as to legislatures of Quebec, Manitoba and Alberta. T.

ETHICS OF SPECULATION

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—In one of your issues of last week a woman asks if her husband's practice of speculating in stocks, (stock gambling is its real name), is fundamentally wrong? I for one say it is wrong, because it is getting something for nothing, and that beats even highway robbers, who many times have to do an enormous lot of work in order to land their loot.

The wit of a gambler will sometimes fail and sooner or later he will be down and out, and not only himself but his family will suffer from it. If your correspondent only knew how much misery stock gambling is bringing about and how many homes have been broken up through it, how many cases of suicides can be traced to such gambling and how many have had to spend time behind prison bars because they stole money from their employers in order to gamble or pay gambling debts, she would not ask if gambling is wrong.

Yours,
EXPERIENCE.

St. Stephen, May 29, 1920.

THE FANNIE HURST PLAN

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—In answer to a letter which recently appeared in the People's Column, I ask, may there not be more in the Fannie Hurst marriage idea than appears on the surface? What is the average married woman's lot, anyway? Is it not something like this? She gets up in the morning, prepares her husband's breakfast, "sees him off" to business, and for the rest of the day is largely occupied with the children and housework.

When husband comes home, there is more work for the wife, and at last, tired out, she goes to bed, with nothing to do till to-morrow, when she repeats the same routine.

What chance has she to broaden, to study, to have the ordinary and necessary recreation? What time has she to herself?

These conditions are the reason that many women often express the wish, "I wish I were a man," with the opportunites men have. But do you ever hear a man wish he were a woman?

I repeat, a woman's life is circumscribed, and that is why I hesitate to criticise, much less condemn Fannie Hurst's plan. Yours,
IN SYMPATHY.

Chatham, May 29, 1920.

Further Details of the New Candian Taxation

Further information has been given out in regard to the application of new taxes. This information comes in answer to queries, the department at Ottawa issuing the following list of questions and answers:

Q.—Are we to add one per cent. to all invoices since nineteenth. When we sell to farmers does this tax also apply?

A.—Fertilizers not exempt, therefore one per cent. sales tax must be added to invoice unless absorbed.

Q.—Advise exact tax retailer must collect from consumer on sale of jewelry amounting to two dollars, forty cents ($2.40), also another amounting to two dollars, sixty cents ($2.60).

A.—Jewlery sold to consumer at $2.40, tax 48 cents. Jewelry sold to consumer $2.60, tax 52 cents.

Q.—As textile manufacturers are we required to add the one per cent. tax to invoices now being sent out for goods sold?

A.—Manufacturers must furnish invoices and state separately thereon amount of sales tax when not included in purchase price. Such tax must be included in cost on which profit is calculated.

Q.—We are manufacturers of silver plated ware, also sterling silverware. We sell to wholesale and retail trade only. Are we required to add excise tax ten per cent. on sales invoices of silver plated ware and also twenty per cent. on sterling silver sales to the wholesaler and retail trade. Our only interpretation is manufacturers are required to add one per cent. only excise tax to invoices and remit on this basis to the Government.

A.—Luxury tax on silver plated ware and sterling silver ware shall be paid by the purchaser to the vendor at the time of sale for consumption or use. Sales tax payable on sales by manufacturers and wholesalers or on importations. This must not be included in cost on which profit is calculated. Invoice must separately state the amount of tax when not absorbed in purchase price by manufacturer or wholesaler. Your interpretation of luxury tax is correct if sales are only made to wholesale and retail dealers and not to consumer.

Q.—Advise what tax is borne by diamond market jewelry under new schedule and under whose authorization item appeared in daily papers stating that tax on five hundred dollars ($500) diamond ring would be $250?

A. — Jewelry containing precious stones subject to twenty per cent. luxury tax from the retailers and one per cent. sales tax from manufacturers, wholesalers and importers.

If sold duty paid tax is chargeable on price duty paid. Bracelets composed of metal as above when detachable are liable to the tax upon the value of such bracelet only.

We are wholesalers of hardware, but do a large business with loggers, saw mills and other consumers in which we are in competition with large firms who do this class of trade exclusively. Are we to collect tax on this trade and will mill and logging supply houses also have to collect or does tax only apply on goods sold for resale? Sales tax applies to goods sold for resale.

Newspaper reports indicate sale tax one per cent. on all sales, but specifically exempt anthracite and bituminous coal, as you know practically all coal mined in Alberta for domestic use is lignite and presume that this coal will not be subject to the tax although it is not mentioned as being exempted. Advise if my assumption is correct. Lignite will be exempt.

Advise if the sales tax of one per cent. applies to salt fish sold for consumption in Canada or coarse salt for use of fisheries or West India products, such as green limes, lime juice, sugar, molasses. Understand all goods for export are exempt. Goods specified in schedule C, West India agreement, exempt. Generally speaking, West India products taxable.

Excise tax is two dollars ($2.00) per proof gallon in addition to regular duty of two-forty per proof gallon. Excise tax to be accounted for on D-11 Entry. Excise tax is payable on goods taken out of warehouse for consumption or removal after eighteenth instant. Distillery deficiencies are exempt. Excise tax payable by distiller at time of sale. Sales tax of one per cent. payable in addition by distiller at time of sale.

One per cent. sales tax applies on goods even though sold to Federal or Provincial Governments. The tax on fans does not refer to electric fans. If wages are to stay up in Canada there must be money to pay them.

Every time you buy an "imported" product in place of one made in Canada you are helping to build up "outside" industries and provide work and wages for "outside" labor.

The way to protect your job is to buy Canadian-made goods.

Be sure, too, that the machines or goods you buy are actually made in Canada.

Look for the C.C.M. trade mark.

It is the sure guide to a true made-in-Canada bicycle.

The frames, forks, axles, cranks and sprockets of C.C.M. Bicycles are made in Canada.

Also the handle bars, seat posts and front hubs.

And that is not all—

The pedals, chains, mudguards and grips are made in Canada.

The wood rims, spokes, nipples, cups and cones are made in Canada.

Yes, and the Hercules Coaster Brakes, frame pumps, and tires are made in Canada, too.

Only the saddles and the steel balls are imported. No one in Canada makes these lines as yet.

If the C.C.M. Company imported their parts and merely assembled C.C.M. Bicycles a much smaller plant would be required. Only about one-twentieth of the number of workmen would be employed.

By buying real "Made-in-Canada" Bicycles—C.C.M. Bicycles—you provide more employment for Canadians. You keep Canadian dollars working at home where they are worth one hundred cents.

And you get a better bicycle for your money—a bicycle with the new Hercules Positive Drive Brake—the Coaster Brake without a side arm.

Nova Scotia Forests Still Ablaze and Vast Damage Done To Timberlands of Province

The Village of River Hebert in Serious Danger, With the Inhabitants All Out Fighting the Flames—A Number of Other Villages are Menaced

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Halifax, N. S., June 1—The continued drought has made the forest fire situation in many parts of Nova Scotia very serious. Already over a hundred thousand dollars worth of timberland has been destroyed, and the fires are now menacing a number of villages in several counties. Last reports from Amherst were that River Hebert, Two Rivers, Shulee, Sand River and Maccan were all in imminent danger. In Halifax County fires are still raging in the vicinity of Dartmouth, but are under control. The situation in the district of Maitland, Hants County, where the village of Selma was threatened yesterday, is now reported to be less alarming.

The village of River Hebert, in Cumberland County, is still in great danger and its 800 odd inhabitants are prepared to fight the flames, when they reach the limit of the village. Word was received from River Hebert this morning to the effect that the fire had started to burn up again and was gradually working its way to the village. The section now on fire is about half way between River Hebert and Joggins. A gentle westerly breeze was blowing this morning.

Fire Situation in Quebec

Sherbrooke, Que., June 1—Forest fires started early yesterday near Roy's Siding, four miles west of Daaquaz Station, burning large quantities of pulpwood and doing considerable damage to standing timber. Another fire started near Champagne's siding, two miles east of St. Sabine Station, doing considerable damage. The Quebec Central was obliged to move cars from the sidings in that vicinity and did not run trains last night beyond St. Camille. The telegraph service is interrupted east of St. Camille. Large gangs of men are fighting the fires but the weather is very dry. Reports received from Lake Frontier and Daaquam over the rural telephone line state that everything is safe at those two points so far.

Strewing the Way With Flowers

General Offices and Station, Woodstock, N.B

North Bend, B.C.

Flowers are amongst the assets of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Flowers bloom in C.P.R. gardens at most of the principal stations from one end of the country to the other. There are flower knots outside the Algonquin Hotel at St. Andrews, on the Atlantic coast, and one of the most beautiful flower gardens in America blooms around the Empress Hotel in Victoria.

In the old days most of the pioneers were too busy opening up the untrodden ways to give much attention to the cultivation of flowers. Yet flower cultivation along the C.P.R. seems to have progressed with the commercial prosperity of the railway system itself, for it is now thirty-one years since one of the C.P.R. employees produced a few varities of flower seeds in his own plot and distributed them amongst his friends at some of the stations—with the object of starting flower gardening along the line. The start was auspiciously made, and now the C.P.R. has a floral department with headquarters at Windsor Street Station, Montreal. Mr. B. M. Winnegar is the horticulturist and forester.

Every year thousands of packets of flower seeds, bulbs, trees, shrubs, grass seed, and large quantities of fertilisers are distributed free of charge to station agents, section foremen, caretakers of round houses and employees living on the property of the company. The seeds that will flower along the railway in the summer and autumn are sent out in March. Full particulars for cultivation are printed on each seed packet. Bulbs for spring flowering are sent out in the fall.

Seeds and plants of the best kind are always provided. Standard flower seed packets contain nasturtiums, alyssum, mignonette, sweet peas, phlox and kochia. Ferns and house plants are sent to large stations. An endless variety of perennials are distributed, and amongst the varieties of trees supplied are maple, birch, beech, poplar and catalpa. Shrubs include laurel leaf willow, sumac, berberries and weigelia.

In all cases the cultivation of flower beds is done by the employees of the company, many of whom have become expert gardeners. On each division of the C.P.R. prizes are given every year for the best display of flowers, and some of the products of gardens kept by the railway amateurs have won prizes at Canadian and United States floral exhibitions.

During the last thirty-one years the encouraging influence of the C.P.R. flower growers has materially assisted in the inauguration of floral societies all over the country. Many of the railway officials are members of these societies. Flowers have improved the appearance of the railway stations, and inspired by the beauty of the stations, residents of the towns have planted flowers that beautify their homes. A little flower flame along the C.P.R. has often thrown the spark that ignited a fire of flowers.

TRUE LOVERS ARE SEVERED BY GRUDGE

"The Thunderbolt," Starring Katherine MacDonald at the Gaiety Theatre This Week

What promises to be an exceptionally strong photoplay is "The Thunderbolt," starring Katherine MacDonald, a First National star who has sprung into immediate popularity by her wonderful work in this production, which will be shown at The Gaiety for two days, commencing Wednesday, June 2nd.

How the love of Ruth Pomeroy and Spencer Vail was denied them in order that Bruce Corbin might vent his spleen against the Pomeroy family is the unusual incident around which most of "The Thunderbolt" is based.

Loveless Marriage or Disgrace.

The engagement of Ruth Pomeroy, played by Katherine MacDonald, to Spencer Vail, is suddenly broken off when Ruth discovers that Bruce Corbin, holding a hatred for her family due to a feud of long standing, demands that she marry him and threatens the exposure of her father as a contemptible check forger should she refuse.

Uncomplainingly, Ruth marries Corbin, fully knowing that she hates him and that she can only love Vail, whose affection she is denied. However, the meekness on the part of the girl is turned into a stubborn resistance when she is told that Corbin married her not out of admiration for her beauty but to make good on his father's charge—that he "get the last of the Pomeroy's."

How the girl, fighting for the honor of the Pomeroy's, bests the man fighting for the honor of the Corbins makes an absorbing picture, which enables Katherine MacDonald to show exceptional histrionic ability.

BLAZING WOODS ON THE NORTH SHORE

The Wires on International Railway Destroyed and Situation Today is Unknown

On account of the fact that the telephone wires along the International Railway had been destroyed by the fire, it was impossible to obtain definite information through Campbellton this morning regarding the progress of the forest fires raging in that locality. It was said, however, that there seems to be no signs of abatement in the strength of the flames, and although no other settlements had touched since St. Quentin was destroyed several detached farm houses have been swept away.

Last evening, the reports says, fire was burning within two or three miles of the Campbellton-Dalhousie highway, about six miles from Campbellton. Everything was very dry in that region and a fairly brisk wind was blowing. Campbellton is said not to be in any danger.

Wants an Increase.

R. T. Baird appeared before the City Council last evening asking that the city increase the contract price of traprock per ton from $1.30 to $1.50 delivered by him at the city yards. He stated that he had taken on the contract before he had understood conditions and that he had lost by the contract. The matter was thoroughly discussed by the council when it came up and two propositions were considered outside of the increase. One of these was the proposal that Mr. Baird buy the city stone crusher and deliver crushed rock. The other proposal was that the city buy the quarries from Mr. Baird. The matter was finally left in the hands of the road and streets committee and the city engineer to approach Mr. Baird and report back to the council at tonight's meeting.

Little Girl Lost and Found.

Marion Cooper, aged twelve years, the adopted daughter of Mrs. Hewlett Cooper, of this city, left her home about six o'clock last evening apparently to play with the neighbor's children and did not return. A search was made but no trace of her could be found. The police were notified and they kept up the search and this morning about 11 o'clock Chief of Police Finley returned her to her foster parents. She spent the night at Mrs. Walter Blair's and this morning was at the home of Charles Hall.

A Million Dollars a Week is Added to the Payrolls of the Textile Mills in New England

1,800 Employees of the Halifax Shipyards Company Went on Strike Today for Increased Wage—The Men Ask as High as $1 an Hour for Skilled Labor

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Boston, June 1.—A general increase in wages affecting approximately 300,000 textile operatives went into effect today in New England textile centres. Approximately one million dollars will be added to the weekly payrolls of the mills granting the increases, and textile wages, already at the highest stage in history, will be brought to a point about 150 per cent. higher than they were four years ago.

A majority of the unorganized mill workers have accepted the increase, as have many who belong to the various unions. In some instances, however, no action has been taken on the offer and a few unions have refused it.

National Guards Protect Workers.

Bristol, R. I., June 1.—The offices of the National India Rubber Co. were reopened to the clerical force today under the protection of national guardsmen and with no repetition of the rioting of last Friday in which several persons were injured.

The troops escorted the workers in groups to the factory without once coming in contact with striking operatives or sympathizers.

Shipyard Strike at Halifax.

Halifax, N. S., June 1.—Union men employed at the Halifax Shipyard went out on strike this morning as a result of the refusal of the company to increase their wages. The employees had submitted a schedule to be effective today, calling for 90, 95 and $1 per hour for skilled labor and 63 cents for unskilled, instead of 67½ up for skilled and 37½ for unskilled, as at present; a 44-hour week, closed shop, payment in company's time and an allowance of five minutes for washing up. The company's offer of five cents per hour increase was not accepted.

The strike is the largest in point of numbers that Halifax has ever experienced. Approximately 1,800 shipyard employees did not go to work today and the plant, which has contracts for four large steamers, on Dominion Government account, is virtually tied up. The strike also affected the company's marine slip at Dartmouth.

The strikers formed up this morning outside of the shipyards and then marched down town to their hall, where they held a meeting. Union officials said today that the company's offer of a five cents per hour increase was not acceptable and the situation is regarded as a deadlock.

$1,000,000 LOSS IN GALVESTON FIRE

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

The sisal was the property of several New York firms which had been accumulating it here from Mexico.

GENERAL CURRIE'S PLEA TO CANADIANS

St. John, June 1. — No St. John audience ever received a more impressive message than that delivered by Sir Arthur Currie before the Men's and Women's Canadian Clubs of this city at the Imperial Theatre last night on the work of the Canadian corps in the war, the unselfish and untiring efforts of the Red Cross and other patriotic organizations, and the lesson taught by the great struggle and sacrifice of our noble dead. He was tendered an ovation as he rose to speak, and his remarks, as he referred to the glorious achievements of the Canadian army, were frequently applauded. What he said of the last hundred days of the war was particularly interesting and inspiring. He told of how the morale of the Allied troops was maintained through the Vimy campaign; gave considerable inside information of the important engagements of 1917 and 1918, and warmly praised the splendid service rendered the Empire by the troops from New Brunswick. In stirring language he urged the citizens of Canada to cultivate true Christianity, and develop in every possible way sobriety, patriotism, industry and unselfishness.

AUSTRIAN CRISIS BY END OF WEEK

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Vienna, June 1.—The collapse of the coalition government before the end of the week is predicted by Der Morgen, which expresses the belief that the breaking up of the ministry is being delayed only by the efforts of the two parties to secure tactical electoral advantages.

A convention of workmen's councillors of Austria began here yesterday. This convention, it is thought, may precipitate a crisis.

DECREASE IN CANAL TRAFFIC THIS YEAR

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Montreal, June 1. — The fact that the Lachine Canal was late in opening is reflected in the traffic returns for May. 3, 643,025 bushels of grain were carried this month against 4,382,498 for May, 1919. The one increase is in oats, of which 307,269 bushels were carried, against 139,358 for May, 1919. In coal and produce, there is an all round decrease as compared with May, 1919, and in general traffic there were 849 trips against 961 in May, 1919.

Fredericton and Houlton Tracks Will Co-operate In Early Races This Season

The Programmes Will Be So arranged as to Give Horses Plenty of Rest Between Races—Moncton's Opening Programme Completed for Three Days

Early reports which have been received from the various training camps indicate that horsemen are well pleased with the programmes which were yesterday announced by the Fredericton Park Association.

There is, of course, much doubt as to whether the classes advertised for the "curtain raiser" meeting on June 30th and July 1st will all fill or not, but the Association feel morally obligated by announcements made by the former management to proceed with that meeting, and no pains will be spared to make it a success.

Entry blanks for the "curtain raiser" will be issued during the next few days and, if it should seem advisable to make any changes in the classes to attract more horses that will be done by the Race Committee, which is composed of President P. S. Watson, Treasurer G. E. Howie, Track Superintendent R. W. Smith, H. C. Jewett and Secretary J. D. Black, who have been empowered by the Board of Directors to take any such action as may be necessary. There are few horses which are available for the "curtain raiser" meeting however, that are not reasonably well taken care of by the programme as announced.

Co-operating with Houlton.

The Fredericton and Houlton managements are now working in close co-operation, one result of which will be a favorable adjustment of the programmes at the "curtain raiser" meeting here and the circuit opening the following week at the hustling Aroostook town. Dr. E. P. Henderson, secretary of the Houlton track, sent word yesterday that their programme on July 5th and 6th would probably be divided so that the 2.13, 2.17, 2.19 and 2.22 mixed classes would take place the first day and the free for all, the 2.24 trot and the 2.30 pace on the second day. The local management, in drawing up their programme, will so arrange it that the horses will have as long a rest as possible between the days they race here and at Woodstock, which would bring the 2.14 and 2.16 mixed events and the 2.19 trot on the first day here and the free for all, 2.24 trot and pace and the 2.24 trot on Dominion Day.

The Moncton Programme.

Manager P. A. Belliveau, of the Moncton track, has completed his programme for his first meeting and will start three days' racing on Dominion Day, the dates being July 1st, 2nd and 3rd. His classes will be a free for all, 2.15 trot, 2.16 pace, 2.19 trot, 2.22 mixed, 2.25 trot and 2.30 mixed. Mr. Belliveau expects to have about a dozen horses from P. E. Island at this meeting, three or four Island stables having determined, it is said, to join the Maritime and Maine circuit after opening their campaign at Moncton. He also expects a number of Nova Scotia stables and will, no doubt, have a successful meeting.

Roy Volo and The Exposer.

It may not be significant, but it is an interesting coincident at least that one of those instrumental in putting through the resolution at the week-end meeting of the directors of the Fredericton Park Association to give the trotters four seconds allowance was Bert Lint, owner and driver of Roy Volo, 2.13¼, and the new rule makes The Exposer, 2.06, which set the Canadian trotting record for stallions on a half mile track at 2.10 last season at Chatham, eligible to the 2.14 class—in which Roy Volo is sure to be a starter at the "curtain raiser" meeting. When Mr. Lint's motion was before the directors, President P. S. Watson—with Mr. Lint and Mr. Jewett sitting together in one corner of the room—jocularly asked if that was to be regarded as a challenge. Mr. Jewett declared that he did not intend to start The Exposer in any mixed events, but the big trotter has been showing so well in his workouts recently—he holds the local track record for the season—that it may be he will change his mind between now and Dominion Day; he will help to furnish a great attraction for the local followers of the sport, if he does.

The Exposer is now in charge of "Mac" Steele, brother of Danny Steele, of Summerside, P.E.I., who has had a lot of experience on the Island and elsewhere in the East and who has been engaged as trainer to succeed Wm. Sharon, who is now located at Presque Isle, Me. "Mac" arrived here several days ago and is in charge of ex-Ald. H. C. Jewett's stable at the local track.—J. D. B.

The unlawful winnings of Gerald T., 2.15¾, who raced in Maine more than a dozen years ago as Jerry L., have been recovered and redistributed by the National Trotting Assoiation.

McLean is Only Hope Now To Beat Marysville Team

Old Timers Prepared to Pass Up Gate Receipts To Pitch Him

MARYSVILLE WINS AGAIN

Imperials Beaten By Y.M.C.A. in Loosely Played Game Last Night.

The Marysville team further increased their lead in the York County Baseball League last night when they won from Devon by a score of 6 to 3, while the Y. M. C. A. team were beating the Imperials 8 to 4 in a loosely played game at the Trotting Park.

The Marysville team have now defeated all except the Old Timers in the league and unless there is a remarkable reversal in form should breeze through the schedule. The only chance to pull them down seems to rest with the Old Timers, who will be their opponents in the next games on the King's Birthday.

With Fred McLean twirling it is believed the Old Timers can win from Marysville, but with the big pitcher still under the ban of the amateur authorities it has been ruled that neither an admission price nor a public collection can be taken up by the Old Timers, if they play the hockey expert. It was said today that the Old Timers would pass up the chance of getting a big gate in order to play McLean. Meanwhile there is much speculation here as to why the reinstatement of McLean and other local athletes is held up when St. John ball players equally guilty of offences under the amateur code are back in good standing already.

MARYSVILLE WON

Devon Team Took a Lead in the Early Innings But Home Team Came Through Later.

Marysville, June 1. — The Devon baseball team played the local nine last evening, and the final score stood 6 to 3. The game was a good one. After the first half the home team took a spurt and won out easily. The Devon boys played a good game and Smith made some spectacular catches. Walter Walker acted as umpire. The score:

Y. M. C. A. WON

Poor Support and Erratic Pitching by Clark Spelled Defeat for the Imperials.

With his support of an unsteady nature Pat Clark's pitching in the game at the Trotting Park last night became erratic, too, at times and the result was a win for the Y.M.C.A. team by a score of 8 to 4.

Good plays were mixed with crude baseball after the game got going and when it was all over the Y's with Bunny Williams, their 105 pound pitcher, were easy winners. The Imperials seemed more or less disorganized but when they get some home games will probably do better, as they have good material and one of the best pitchers in the league in Pat Clark, their captain. It was the last game Art Finnamore will umpire as he left today with the bug hunting expedition to the Tobique woods.

The Friendly Smoke

THERE is something mighty comforting and satisfying about "OLD CHUM" Tobacco; a sort of soothing restfulness that pipe smokers have come to associate with this friendly smoke.

"OLD CHUM" is an old, old chum with all pipe smokers.

It has the perfect tobacco taste—the mellow richness—and men know that they can be chummy with "OLD CHUM" all day long and that the "good night pipeful" will be as sweet and cool as the one enjoyed just after breakfast.

For years and years "OLD CHUM" has been Canada's favourite pipe tobacco and today is more popular than ever.

ODD COLLISION OF PASSENGER TRAINS

Piece of Iron Hose Rolled Into Frog of Switch, Which Failed to Operate

Jersey City, N. J., May 31.—Twenty persons were injured here yesterday, in an odd collision between two Erie Railroad passenger trains. The collision was caused, the road's officials said, by a piece of iron hose that dropped unnoticed from another train and rolled into the frog of a switch, where it jammed.

Both trains were moving in the same direction when the switch failed to operate. One of the trains took the switch and side swiped the first coach of the other train.

The striking engine was overturned, while three cars of the train that was struck were derailed. All but one of the injured are expected to recover.

DOYLE ACQUITTED OF C. P. R. THEFT

St. John, May 31.—The jury this morning in the case against Charles Doyle, charged with theft from the C.P.R., returned a verdict of not guilty. There is still another indictment to be tried against him, which is being taken up this afternoon.

There were 25 prisoners in the police court this morning, including 16 on drunkenness charge.

PRINCE IS INDICTED

Gave a Worthless Cheque for $2,000 in New York.

New York, May 31.—Prince Michael Murat of Paris, was indicted today by the May grand jury on a charge of grand larceny involving a cheque for $2,000 for a fur purchased in July, 1919. The Prince, who had served in the French Army during the war, was a visitor here last year, accompanied by his American wife. H. E. Watson, of 4 West Forty-fifth street, delivered the furs to Murat at Saratoga. Murat's cheque, drawn on the Guaranty Trust Company, Watson charged, came back marked "insufficient funds."

After the Murats had returned to Paris a payment of $500 was made on account of the cheque, Watson testified. Murat is reported to have said that the low rate of French exchange and the difficulties of realizing on his invested funds had caused delay in payment.

The indictment was handed up to Judge Crain in General Sessions, Assistant District Attorney E. P. Kilroe, who presented the case to the grand jury said a bench warrant would be asked for if proper settlement were not promptly made. It was said that Bernard J. Flood of the detective bureau, going to France on another case, would be instructed to serve the warrant and to ask for extradition of the titled debtor.

EXTEND PERIOD OF RECRUITING AIRMEN

The Air Board Not Likely to Extend Time Beyond June 5, It Is Said

Ottawa, May 31.—The Air Board will probably extend for one week the period in which applications may be made by ex-members of the Royal Air Force for membership in the Canadian Air Force. This period expired on May 29, but pero clubs and air service associations have informed the Air Board that they have not yet been able to get in touch with all their members and direct their attention to the importance of applying to join the air force.

The next meeting of the board will be held this week ,and it is understood that an extension of the time for receiving applications will be considered.

No extension, however, is not likely to be beyond June 5 next.

IRISH HOSTILITY TO VISCOUNT FRENCH

His Name Removed From Roll of Londonderry Freemen by the Corporation

Londonderry, Ireland, May 2[illegible].—By nineteen votes to sixteen the corporation yesterday decided to remove from the role of the city's freemen, the name of Viscount French, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland. The unionists challenged the legality of the proposal.

The Mayor voted for it. He said later that if he had not done so, capital would have been made out of his refusal.

Alderman Brazeley, proposing the resolution to strike out the name of Viscount French, said that under Lord French the "social and civil life of Ireland has been tortured."

"Viscount French," the Alderman declared, "stands for 'Cromwellian cruelty,' and is the Pontius Pilate of Ireland."

IN DAYS OF TERROR

"Bah!" said Dixmer, "the Citizen Lindey, a known patriot, secretary to a section, admired, worshipped, and highly popular, is, on the contrary, a great acquisition to a poor tanner who has contraband merchandise on his premises."

CHAPTER X.

Simon the Shoemaker.

The month of May had commenced. A bright clear day expanded the lungs tired of inhaling the icy fogs of winter, and the rays of the sun, warm and exhilarating, shone upon the black walls of the Temple. At the wicket of the interior, which separated the tower from the gardens, the soldiers of the post were smoking and laughing. But, notwithstanding the beauty of the day, and the offer made to the prisoners to descend and walk in the garden, the three females refused to do so; as, since the execution of her husband, the queen had obstinately secluded herself in her chamber, dreading to pass the door of the apartment lately occupied by the king on the second story. When by any chance she took the air, since the fatal occurrence of the 21st of January, she did so on the platform of the tower, where even the battlements were enclosed with shutters.

The National Guards on duty, who knew the three females had received permission to go out, waited in vain all day, wishing much to turn this same authority to some account. Towards five o'clock a man descended, and approached the sergeant in command of the post.

"Ah! ah! is that you, Father Tison? said he, who appeared to be a right merry fellow.

"Yes, it is I, citizen; I bring you, on the part of the municipal Maurice Lindey, your friend, who is now upstairs, this permission, granted by the Council of the Temple to my daughter, to pay a visit to her mother this evening."

"And you are going out just as your daughter is coming in? unnatural father!" said the sergeant.

"I am going much against my inclination, Citizen Sergeant. I also hope to see my poor child, who I have not seen for two months, and to embrace her this evening. I am going out now. This service, this damned service, compels me to go out. It is necessary I should go to the commune to make my report. A fiacre is waiting for me at the door, with two gendarmes, and it is exactly the time when my poor Sophia will arrive."

"Unhappy parent," said the sergeant.

"And, Citizen Sergeant, when my child comes to see her poor mother, who is dying to see her, you will allow her to pass?"

"The order is correct," replied the sergeant, whom the reader has no doubt recognized as our friend Louis; "so I have nothing to say against it; when your daughter comes, she can pass."

"Thanks, brave Thermopyle, thanks," said Tison; and he went out to make his report to the commune, murmuring, "My poor wife, how happy she will be!"

"Do you know, sergeant," said one of the National Guard, seeing Tison depart, and overhearing the last words; "do you know there is something in this that makes my blood run cold?"

"What is it, Citizen Devaux?" demanded Louis.

"Why," replied the compassionate National Guard, "to see this man, with his surly face and heart of stone, this pitiless guardian of the queen, so but with his eyes full of tears, partly of joy, partly of grief, thinking that his wife will see his daughter, and he shall not. It does not do to reflect upon it too much, sergeant; it really is grievous."

"Doubtless that is why he does not reflect it upon himself, this man who goes out with tears in his eyes, as you term it."

"Upon what should he reflect?"

"That it is three months since this woman he so brutally uses has seen her child. He does not think of her grief, only of his own, that is all. It is true this woman was queen," continued the sergeant, in an ironical tone, rather difficult of comprehension; "and one is not obliged to feel the same respect for a queen as for the wife of a journeyman."

"Notwithstanding, all this is very sad," said Devaux.

"Sad, but necessary," said Louis. "The best way then, is, as you say, not to reflect." And he began to sing—

"Where the branches met
On a rocky stone,
There I found Nicette,
Seated all alone."

Louis was in the midst of this pastoral ditty, when suddenly a loud noise was heard from the left side of the post, composed of oats, menaces and tears.

"What is that?" demanded Devaux.

"It sounded like the voice of a child," said Louis, listening.

"In fact," said the National Guard, "it is a poor little one they are beating. Truly they ought only to send here those who have no children."

"Will you sing?" said a hoarse and drunken voice.

And the voice sung in example—

"Madame Veto promised
That all our heads should fall—"

"No," said the child, "I will not sing."

"Will you sing?"

And the voice recommenced—

"Madame Veta promised—"

"No! no!" said the child. "No, no, no."

"Ah, little beggar," said the hoarse voice; and the noise of a lash whirring through the air was distinctly heard. The infant screamed with agony.

"Ah! sacre bleu!" said Louis; 'it is that rascally Simon beating the little Capet."

Several of the National Guards shrugged their shoulders. Two or three tried to smile. Devaux rose and went out.

"I said truly," murmured he, "that parents should never enter here.'

All at once a low door opened, and the royal child, chased by the whip of his guardian, made a flying leap into the court, when something hard struck his leg, and fell on the ground behind him.

He stumbled, and fell upon his knee.

"Bring me my last, little monster, or else—"

The child rose, and shook his head in token of refusal.

"Ah! this is it, is it?" said the same voice. "Wait, you shall see." And the shoemaker Simon rushed into his hut as a wild beast to its den.

"Hallo! hallo!" said Louis, frowning. "Where are you going so fast, Master Simon?"

"To chastise this little wolf's cub," said the shoemaker.

"To chastise him, for what?"

"For what?"

"Yes."

PENETRATED INTO HEART OF CHINA

Vancouver, B. C., May 2[illegible].—Arriving in Vancouver arrayed in a borrowed unclerical looking suit of grey tweed which had seen better days, Rev. R. A. Whiteside, a missionary, who has penetrated about as far into the heart of China as any living white man, has a thrilling tale to tell of having been held up and robbed by Chinese brigands while on his way, with his wife and children, to join the steamer Katori Maru at Shanghai.

They were robbed of all their belongings, even Mrs. Whiteside's wedding ring, but the parents are very happy in that their two little children were not taken away from them and held for ransom as the brigands had at first planned. In Sze Chuan province, where Rev. Mr. Whiteside was stationed for fifteen years, military chiefs demand as high as 30 per cent. tax, he stated, and the only hope of the people is that if a strong and fair minded governor comes into power he orders a general beheading of tyrannous tax collectors.

Besides these, a large number of relatives and intimate friends were present to pay a last tribute to one so truly beloved and respected.

The service was conducted by Rev. H. E. Cooke, and amid flowers and many tears she was laid to rest until "we meet again." The Burtt's Corner Band contributed a beautiful wreath of flowers, a mark of respect that shall not be forgotten.

Frasers Given Option on N. B. Railway Lands By The Shareholders Today

First Public Step in Biggest Timber Limits Deal Ever in New Brunswick—Between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000 Said to Be Price

An option on the timber limits of the New Brunswick Railway Company will be given to the Fraser Companies, Limited, at a special general meeting of the shareholders of the New Brunswick Railway Company this afternoon thus marking the first public step in the completion of the biggest timber lands deal that has ever occurred in New Brunswick.

The actual extent of the limits which will be transferred when the deal goes through is 1,580,000 acres and, although no public statement has been given of the price at which the transfer will be made, it is said the price will be between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000. So far as could be learned today the option which is being given is not for a very long period, although it would naturally take a considerable length of time to finance a deal of such proportions.

In Several Counties.

For some time past the Fraser Companies have been cruising the N. B. Railway lands and it is understood that the completion of the deal really only awaits the receipt of their reports on the estimated quantities of standing timber and the lands. The limits originally included almost 1,700,000 acres, but certain quantities were taken for the Blue Bell Settlement tract and also a portion in Madawaska were also recently transferred for settlement purposes. The remaining 1,580,000 acres are located largely in York, Carleton, Victoria and Madawaska counties, and were granted to the company which undertook the construction of the railway up the eastern side of the St. John river north of Fredericton and which is now part of the C. P. R.

What It All Means.

As a matter of fact the Fraser interests were this season operating on almost one-third of the lands they are now about to acquire and the big deal which is being swung is one of the necessary factors in the working out of their plans for the development of their pulp and paper and lumber business in New Brunswick. The acquisition of the N. B. Railway lands will put them in a postion to go ahead with their pulp and paper mills project on the Tobique and may lead to their getting the Grand Falls powers rights—the most potential power in the Maritime Provinces; it is necessary to provide raw material for the Dominion Pulp Company's mill on the Miramichi, which they are to take over on June 15th, as well as for their pulp mill at Edmundston, the capacity of which is about to be increased, and it means much in their lumber business in providing saw logs for their mills on the Tobique and the Miramichi rivers.

The directors of the New Brunswick Railway Company in their report to the shareholers at a special general meeting in St. John this afternoon was in favor of giving the Fraser interests an option and it was later learned that the shareholders had accepted the directors' report.

Mrs. Birdie Ascher of St. Louis, suing for divorce, testified that her pro-German husband, Henry, reputed to be worth at least $100,000, was so miserly that he washed the dishes himself because he claimed his wife used too much water.

Government Majority of 26 on Budget Vote After An All-Night Session

Buckanan of Lethbridge, Was Paired-- Galleries Well Filled During Enening and Many Remained Until the Vote Was Taken at 6.30 This Morning---French Members Sang Folk Song While Waiting for Division---Important Matters to Come Before the House This Afternoon.

Ottawa, June 2—By 120 votes to 94, the Fielding amendment to the budget speech was defeated in the Commons at 6.30 o'clock this morning.

The House had waited throughout the night and the early morning hours for the result of the vote and when the division bells rang there was a general flocking of members to the chamber.

When the vote was announced, cheers arose from the government benches. The government majority on the vote was 26.

H. C. Wright, Battleford, and J. A. Campbell, Nelson, former Government supporters, voted for the Fielding amendment.

W. A. Buchanan, Lethbridge, who had announced his intention of opposing the Government tariff proposals was not in the chamber when the vote was taken, but was paired with Dr. J. W. Edwards, Frontenac.

Many Visitors in Gallery Remained During Night Until Vote Was Taken at 6.30 in the Morning

Not only the members of the House, but also many visitors, who came to the galleries early Tuesday evening to hear the debate, remained to get first hand information on the result of the division.

Nearly a score of ladies who had occupied seats in the members of the Commons gallery during the whole evening session, remained for the taking of the vote.

During the long hours of the night and morning session, while speaker after speaker added his weight to the argument on one side or the other, a lonely and bewildered bat, which somehow had gained entrance to the chamber, circled disconsolately over the heads of the members, and at times flew so low over the heads of the ladies in the gallery that papers and fans were waved to repel the unwelcome visitor.

Premier Borden Announced Several Important Measures Will Come Up in House This Afternoon

While the division bells were ringing and while the members waited for the taking of the vote songs arose from the benches on either side of the chamber.

The French members were to the fore with their folk songs, in which a number of Government supporters joined at times, and good natured chaff prevailed between members of either side as one or another of the members took his seat, coming from his room or from the caucus rooms.

At five-forty this morning, as A. L. Desaulniers, Champlain, arose to address the House in French the lights in the chamber were extinguished for a few seconds.

There was sufficient daylight to continue the debate, and Mr. Desaulniers attempted to proceed amid cries of "question."

The lighting was soon flashed on again and the cries dying down, Mr. Desaulniers proceed with his speech.

The House adjourned at six thirty-five, the original motion to go into committee of ways and means carrying by the majority of 26.

Sir Robert Borden announced that later in the day the House would take up the opium and narcotic drugs act, the admiralty act, employment offces co-ordination act, Canada shipping act, placer mining act and the Northwest game act.

The House adjourned until 3 o'clock this afternoon.

H. A. MacKie, Edmonton East, who had voted for the Fielding amendment, rose again when the "nays" were called and stated that he had previously voted in error.

Much Confusion Over Payment of New Taxes

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Montreal, June 2.—The office of the Inland Revenue Department here was the scene of unbounded confusion yesterday owing to what should be paid in the way of luxury or sales taxes. About $3,000,000 should have been paid, instead of which a trifle over $5,000 was collected, with 200 entries.

John D. Fox, of the department, said this was not through any apparent unwillingness to pay the taxes, but simply that the people did not know just what to do and had not their figures ready.

U. S. WHEAT BOARD CEASES TO FUNCTION

The Government Guarantee of $2.20 a Bushel is Now a Thing of the Past

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Washington, June 2.—Federal control of wheat and wheat products ended yesterday, the wheat director ceasing to function under the limitation of the law creating his office and the food administration control ending by proclamation of President Wilson.

This means the passing of the government guarantee of $2.20 a bushel for wheat established during the war, as a means of stimulating production.

Officials on the grain corporation here said the corporation had operated at a slight profit, but that the exact figures would not be known until the corporation had wound up its affairs.

THE VATICAN AND LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Rome, June 3.—Reports published late last week that A. J. Balfour, former British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, had proposed the admission of the Vatican to the League of Nations, are denied in an official statement printed by the Osservatore Romano, organ of the Vatican. It is also said that "no other person" has made any such proposals.

KING CONSTANTINE WOULD GO BACK

Ex-Ruler of Greece Waiting Anxiously for the Result of the General Elections

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, June 2.—A Rome despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company gives an interview which a correspondent had with former King Constantine of Greece. The meeting took place at Salsomaggoire, where the King is taking the cure. Constantine predicted that the elections in Greece would result in the triumph of his party. Asked what he would do in such a case, he replied: "I never abdicated. I simply left Greece during the war. Even the French Commissioner Jonnart admitted that the powers would not oppose my return, if after the war the country called me back. Greece is opposed to a republican form of government. Venizelos knows that."

TO RETAIN PART OF CUBAN SUGAR CROP

Havana, Cuba, June 2.—The Havana Chamber of Commerce today petitioned the Cuban Government to take necessary steps to see that 400,000 sacks of sugar of the present crop be retained on the island and withheld from export. The Chamber of Commerce explained that unless this measure is taken the shortage of sugar in Cuba will be very acute.

German Officers Celebrate the Anniversary of the Battle of Jutland

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

London, June 2.—In the course of a discussion in the House of Commons yesterday on the naval estimates, an attempt was made to elicit details of the future naval policy.

Carlyon Bellairs, Unionist, wanted to know whether the fleet would be concentrated in home waters or whether Great Britain should have a great Pacific fleet.

He thought that now there was no menace in the North Sea, England must have an outlook on the Pacific.

Walter Hume Long, First Lord of the Admiralty, depreciated a discussion in parliament. He said there was a whole series of questions regarding future policy before the committee on imperial defence, and whatever statements of policy were possible would be made at the proper time.

Huns Celebrate Jutland Battle.

Berlin, June 2.—The National Union of German officers celebrated the anniversary of the Jutland Battle Monday. They telegraphed to Admiral Von Scheer, "the victor of the Skagerrak, the homage of the celebrants, amid the sacred colors, black, white and red, to which we are also sworn to which we are also sworn to be faithful until death."

"National hymns were sung, but the chairman in a speech emphatically denied any intention on the party of officers to re-establish a monarchy.

Major General Reinhardt, former Minister of War, who supported the Government during the Kapp revolution and now commands the newly formed Doeberitz Reichswehr brigade, has informed the Tageblatt representative that reliable republican troops were everywhere alert already to subdue any subversive attempt.

The Tageblatt, however, learns that many families in the country districts in Mecklenburg, Pomerania and Central Germany are moving into the towns for fear of trouble with the field laborers, who are increasingly leaning towards independent socialism and communism.

Peak of Forest Fires Menace is Said to be Over

Showers Last Night and Today Are Helping to Subdue Flames

ST. QUENTIN FIRE EASES UP

100 Square Miles Said to be Extent of Timber Limits Burned.

The peak of the forest fires menace in New Brunswick is believed today to have passed.

There have been light intermittent showers during the night and this morning, and while these have not been sufficient to extinguish fires they have made it easier to prevent the spread of the flames.

There is every indication of impending rain today, although the forecasts say there will be no more than showers, but all reports from the fire infested districts this morning indicated an abatement of the fires, many of which are now under control for the first time in days.

Applications for Permits.

In fact applications for permits to light slash and brush fires in some sections are being made again upon the grounds that there have been showers and that the danger of the fires spreading has thereby been eliminated. The Department of Lands and Mines, however, will not issue any more fire permits just yet.

Indicative of the improved situation is the almost complete disappearance today of the heavy smoke which prevailed here yesterday and which acted like a screen in partially obscuring from view the sun all day yesterday. Today the sun is hidden behind clouds, which it is hoped will produce sufficient rain to finally extinguish the fires. Last night the moon resembled a ball of fire.

Shower at St. Quentin.

From Campbellton this morning word came that there had been a light shower during the night in the St. Quentin-Kedgewick section on the International Railway which had been insufficient to put out the fires but which had aided the fire fighting crews in preventing the spread of the flames. It was said that the general opinion was that the worst of the trouble was over and the fires seemed to be largely under control for the first time. The C. N. R. have completed the erection of a temporary freight shed and station there and the reconstruction of the burned portion of the town has been commenced, a combined hotel and store being now under way.

Estimates of Losses.

Provincial Forester G. H. Prince declared this morning that it was as yet impossible to give an accurate estimate of either the monetary loss or the acreage which has been burned over by the fires, and it can quite accurately be said that officialdom have been and still are too occupied with the task of putting out the fires to give much attention to the compilation of statisics. However, Mr. Prince this morning declared that reports which have so far been published have in many cases given extravagant estimates of the losses. He said that the timberlands that have been burned over would not exceed 100 square miles in the whole province, although a story sent out from Moncton the other day boldly declared there had been 200 square miles of timber lands destroyed along the International Railway line alone.

Pulpwood Supplies.

The effect of the fires on the pulpwood supply will not be large except the losses suffered by farmers, the wooded portions of many farms having been burned and there have been some fires on lands owned by American parties who were cutting pulpwood for shipment to the United States. One of these fires is at Eel river, forty miles from here on the Maine border, where a crew of 100 men were said to have the fire under control after it had burned over a territory of little more than one square mile.

Nova Scotia Fires Are Petering Out

Halifax, N. S., June 2.—The forest fire menace throughout the province appears to have materially lessened during the past twenty-four hours. In many sections the weather is cloudy and there is every indication that rain will soon fall. Estimates of the loss due to the fires today are between $250,000 and $500,000. The pulpwood sections of the province are not affected.

TWO NEW FIRES IN NORTHUMBERLAND

One at Legocyville Is Said to Be Serious—Situation Generally Improved

The only new serious fire is at Legaceyville, Northumberland County, where the settlement as well as valuable Crown timber lands are said to be menaced.

This is one of two new fires reported to the Department of Lands and Mines overnight, the smallest number for more than a week. The other is at Beveridge siding, near Newcastle, on the C. N. R., on the lands of the Dominion Pulp Company, which was recently acquired by the Fraser Companies, Ltd., the transfer to take place on June 15th. It is supposed to have been started by a spark from a passing locomotive but is now under control. A fire which was yesterday reported on the South West Miramichi to be eight miles long was today said to have burned over only about one square mile.

A telegram from Plaster Rock to the Department this morning said conditions in Victoria County along the Tobique river were much improved today and that there had been showers there this morning.

The fire at Glennie on the Fredericton and Grand Lake aRilway has covered about 1,200 acres, although reported previously as three times as large, and is now under control. The fire which started on Sunday on the Jeffries farm in Lincoln, less than seven miles from this city, was reported entirely out this morning.

PLUMBERS ASKING $12 FOR DAY'S WORK

Cleveland, O., June 2.—Between 500 and 600 plumbers went on strike yesterday, following refusal of their employers to grant their demands of twelve dollars for an eight hour day and furnish all tools. The old contract, which expired today, called for one dollar an hour. Under this agreement the workers furnished most of the small tools.

NO TAX ON SALARY OF U. S. PRESIDENT

Washington, June 2.—Provisions of the war revenue act requiring the President and all federal judges to pay an income tax on their salaries were declared unconstitutional yesterday by the supreme court in a seven to two decision.

Under the act the President paid on his salary of $75,000 a year approximately $16,000 in taxes. Revenues already collected under the invalid provisions will, under the court's decision, be refunded by the treasury.

TURKS READY TO RESIST THE GREEK TROOPS

TURKS AND BULGARIANS PREPARING OFFENSIVE

Turkish Officials Hope for an Extension of Time to Consider the Peace Treaty

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Constantinople, June 2.—Three divisions of Greek troops are occupying the Dedeagatch-Adrianople line, and another division is expected to land at Rodosto shortly.

Despatches from Adrianople report that there is much uneasiness there, where Turks and Bulgarians apparently are preparing to resist the entry of the Greeks.

The French administration in Turkish Thrace has been well received by all classes of the population, including the Greeks, who are said to be begging the French not to leave.

The Turkish troops are concentrated chiefly in the vicinity of Lule Burgas, on the railroad between Constantinople and Adrianople, and westward along the railway line for a distance of thirty miles.

Turks Ask Extension of Time.

Constantinople, June 2.—Couriers bearing the full text of the peace treaty reached Constantinople Saturday and a cabinet council was immediately held that the ministers might hear a reading of the vital sections.

Turkish officials express confidence that an extension of time will be granted them for consideration of the treaty. Damad Ferid Pasha, the Grand Vizier, probably will leave for Paris this week.

The Sultan's Government has made known through the Government organs, although no announcement has been made officially, that aggressive action against the Nationalists in Anatolia will be discontinued until a decision is reached as to their attitude toward the peace treaty. This action is regarded in high quarters here as humorous, as the Nationalists already have defeated the Sultan's forces, driving them back into the Ismid area, where they have the protection of British artillery.

The Government Met War Problems With Courage

CANADA STANDS HIGH IN NATIONS

Mackenzie King Declares Government Should Go to People.

Ottawa, June 1.—Members of the Commons were in their seats, and the galleries were crowded this evening, with persons waiting to hear the result of the division on the budget, which, it had been announced, would be taken before the House again adjourned. After Hon. Mackenzie-King, leader of the Opposition, had spoken for three hours at the afternoon sitting, Hon. N. W. Rowell, president of the Privy Council, resumed the debate from the government benches in the evening.

The Opposition, declared Hon. Mr. Rowell, would be much better occupied in assisting the Government through the stress of reconstruction, than in criticizing alleged wasteful expenditure of public money, which wasteful expenditures existed only in the minds of the Opposition members.

Mr. Rowell asked the Opposition if it would oppose the increases in the country's expenditure through increased pensions, re-establishment, land settlement and civil service bonuses to meet the increased cost of living.

The Minister declared there was no truth in the statement that the $200,000 spent for public information had been used for political purposes. "It was chiefly to sustain the courage and patriotism of the people at home," declared Mr. Rowell amid ironical Opposition laughter. One-eighth of the money had been spent in sending daily news to the men at the front.

Opposition criticism had been levelled at an item of $121,000,000 in the auditor-general's report for which no vouchers had been received. Mr. Rowell said two vessels carrying vouchers were torpedoed and further shipments had been deferred, but a thousand boxes of vouchers had finally arrived. The great bulk of the money in question went to pay the overseas troops.

There were several warm moments during Mr. Rowell's speech, when he charged members of the Opposition with making false statements. "The war is over, but the use of poison gas goes on," he declared amid a roar of protest from the Liberal benches. The public debt of Canada was substantially less than that of any of the warring nations except the United States, which had only been a year and a half in the war. Her foreign trade had shown enormous increases, and the Government had met war problems with vision, courage and ability. As a result the country stood high among the warring nations.

Mr. Rowell declared that Sir Robert Borden's mandate had been to carry on during the war and through reconstruction, and that was the mandate the Government intended to carry out.

Liberal Leader.

Hon. Mackenzie King, speaking in the afternoon, declared there had been admirable professions of economy and retrenchment from the Government. Practice of these virtues would be more acceptable to the people, however. The Government, he charged, was holding office for the sake of office. The Government had the war habit of mind, which meant autocratic rule and lavish expenditures. The budget was a budget to protect the profiteer and let the common people bear the burden.

The Liberal, Labor and Progressive groups in the House represented the common people and therefore they together opposed the budget. The Liberals, he declared, stood for free food and freer trade, and that had always been their policy. Government speakers sought to drive their opponents, but he did not think they would be successful.

Mr. King said that Sir Henry Drayton's professions were in the right direction and he believed that the Minister's purpose was in accord with them. He was, however, a member of a government which had its own particular policy of taxation. It was a debateable point if the proposed taxes really placed the burden on those who were best able to bear them.

Much to Criticize.

Leaving aside the actual war expenditures, there was much to criticize in the Government's expenditure on public account during the past year. In the speeches of several critics of this budget serious charges had been made in this direction, and these remained unanswered by any Government supporter.

The government, Mr. King said, proposes to hang on, but in his opinion it should be prevented from doing so if it was possible to stop it. One reason why this Government should resign and go to the country was that it had acquired the "war habit of mind." What did he mean by the war habit of mind, asked Mr. King. He said he meant the habit of mind which encourages autocratic rule and lavish expenditures. So long as the present administration was in power, just so long would the war habit of mind persist.

NEWSPAPER'S NEW HOME

Edmonton, Alta., June 2.—A building permit for the Edmonton Journal's new $200,000 home, on 101st street, was issued recently. It will be four storeys high and occupy a frontage space of 50 feet and be 122 feet deep. There will be a large concrete basement, while the remainder of the structure will be of concrete and brick.

The meek may eventually inherit the earth, but the chances are that when they do there will be very little demand for real estate.

Yesterday in Parliament

House

Sir Robert Borden said he had seen no round robin signed by members asking for an increased indemnity.

The budget debate continued by Hon. Mackenzie King, leader of the Opposition. He said that the Covernment, having been elected for the period of the war, should resign. He declared that the budget was designed to protect the profiteer.

Hon. Mr. Rowell defended the Government and advanced arguments to meet criticisms of Opposition members.

The budget was voted on and passed by 94 to 120.

Premier Borden Declares That He Has No Knowledge of "Round Robin" on Indemnity

The Agitation for an Increase, However, Is Still Very Active About Parliament, and Members Express Confidence That the Increase Will Be Granted

Ottawa, June 2.—In the House yesterday afternoon Sir Robert Borden made a statement on the reports regarding an agitation for an increased indemnity, including the report that a "round robin" had been circulated asking the Government to take action. He denied that he had any knowledge of such a document, but admitted that he had been approached by a committee of members asking for an increase He did not indicate what the attitude of the Government would be on the matter. Whether the application has been circulated or not, it is known that different members of the Farmers' party have stated that they have been approached, asking their support for an increase, and in the House last night the first open speech in favor of an increase was made by Major Andrews, of Winnipeg, who declared that seven dollars a day was not sufficient to keep a family on, and particularly keep up two establishments in different parts of the country. It may be noted that last year the members drew just double this amount, as they received a double indemnity.

Although the members loudly applauded Sir Robert Borden's speech, it is well understood that the application for an increase is still going on, and members expressed confidence that the increase asked for will be granted although it may not apply to the present session.

OTTAWA STRUCK BY TERRIFIC STORM

Buildings Hit by Lightning, Trees Blown Down and Electric Service Interrupted

Ottawa, June 1.—A terrific storm broke over Ottawa this afternoon when two buildings were hit by lightning and destroyed, telephone and electric services were interrupted, many windows broken by the hail, awnings and trees blown down and the street car service stopped. In the twenty minutes during which the storm raged, 1.43 inches of rain fell, which is the highest ever recorded i nthis city. The lightning and rain came with a strong southwest wind which, before it was over, had blown from practically every point of the compass.

The Bell Telephone Company announced between 10,000 and 12,000 'phones are out of order as a result of the storm, mostly caused by wires being broken by fallen trees and by underground cables grounding owing to the flood of water.

As far as can be learned the storm was centered here. No damage has been reported from any of the surrounding towns with which it was possible to get into communication tonight.

City Council Will Conter With the Hospital Board

No Seconder for Ald. Neill's Motion to Proceed With Issue of $100,000 of 30 Years 6 Per Cent. Bonds.—Street Extensions Discussed

The regular meeting of the City Council was held last evening and several matters of importance together with minor maters came up for discussion. In the absence of Mayor Reid, Deputy Mayor Wilkinson presided. Ald. Cooper, Camp and Barker were absent.

Among the matters discussed were the extension of the water system from the Military Hospital to Bailey Creek bridge on the Woodstock road, proposed street extensions and the proposal of the Victoria Hospital Board that the city apply for legislation for a bond issue of $100,000 for proposed extensions to the hospital.

Auditor's Report.

The auditor's report of expenditures during the month of May was confirmed as follows:

Water	$4,013.38
Fire	276.47
Roads and streets (ordinary	4,551.06
Roads and streets (capital)	309.35
Public works	856.16
Contingencies	141.92
Justice	572.46
Street lights	394.63
Sewerage	1,282.44
City Hall	33.20
Wharves	11.82
Municipal Home	2.50
House connections, sewerage	5.20
	$12,450 64

The report of the finance commit'ee on tax collections was as follows:

Taxes collected in 1919	$2,782.71
Taxes collected in 1920	3,175.10

The report of the chairman of the Municipal Home was presented and a check for $250 ordered issued to the commissioner of the Home.

Water Committee Recommendation.

Ald. Neill for the water committee presented a recommendation that the water system be extended from the Military Hospital to Bailey Creek, a total extension length of 5,600 feet, at a cost of $24,757.

Deputy Mayor Wilkinson said that the matter of financing the proposition must be considered before such a recommendation could be adopted. The expenditure was heavy and should be done on capital account. The banks, he stated, would hardly finance such an undertaking to be paid out of assessment.

Ald. Neill stated that his idea was a bond issue. The expenditure must be made if the city was to grow.

Ald. Young was in favor of the extension. If not completed in one season it could be carried over.

The recommendation was adopted.

Proposed Street Extensions.

Deputy Mayor Wilkinson presented a recommendation from the city engineer with reference to the Graham property, that Church street be extended to the City Road, so called, and Victoria street to Church street extension, a survey of the enclosed area to be made.

Ald. Neill was strongly in favor of a survey and the laying out of streets in accordance with the city plans in order to prevent any more irregular location of houses. Dwellings in that section were in a mess as far as location was concerned, although the land provided an excellent location.

Ald. Young stated that the St. John street extension should be made before Church street extension, although it would be more difficult. He favored extending Victoria street to the college property line.

There was a general discussion on the matter, the opinion being expressed that the location of streets could be shown to street residents of the locality and those building in the future.

On the motion of Ald. Neill, seconded by Ald. Jennings, the City Engineer was instructed to make a plan of the area bounded by the City Road, Regent street, the College line and the C. P. R. right of way, showing the location of streets in accordance with the city street plans.

R. T. Baird's Contract.

Ald. Young stated that the Roads and Streets Committee with City Engineer McDowell had gone over with R. T. Baird the matter of an increase in his contract price for trap rock but had reached no agreement. They had gone over the ground and had estimated the cost of hauling the rock to be at the figure quoted by Engineer McDowell and they thought that Mr. Baird ought to finish out his first contract and then the city could regulate the price for the second one.

Victoria Hospital Proposals.

The matter of the Victoria Hospital Board proposal was next discussed. Ald. Neill moved that the City Council ask the Provincial Legislature for legislation to issue bonds to the extent of $100,000 for the proposed additions to the Victoria Hospital and that the Council appoint a committee to confer with the Hospital Board concerning increased representation for the city on the Board, the bonds to be for thirty years at 6 per cent. interest.

This resolution received no seconder but Ald. Young stated that he would be willing to second it with certain amendments. He would add to the resolution clauses to provide that the city would not apply for the legislation unless the York County authorities would agree to accept responsibility for $50,000 of the bond issue and that nothing would be done without the Legislature's sanction.

Deputy Mayor Wilkinson stated that it would be putting the cart before the horse if a committee of the Council were to appear before the Hospital Board concerning representation on the Board. He thought that the Board ought to make the proposals. Without the guarantee that York County would come in with the city in the matter of the bond issue the Council had no right to apply for legislation for a bond issue. In case legislation was sought under those conditions it would meet a good deal of opposition and would undoubtedly be turned down. He thought that the matter ought to rest until it was seen what the municipal authorities would do and what proposals the Board would make re the representation.

A motion put forward by Ald. Baxter that in the absence of four members of the Council decision should not be taken in the matter and asking for postponement of the decision of the Council upon Ald. Neill's resolution, was not seconded and allowed to drop.

An amendment was moved to the resolution that the Hospital Board be ask to meet the City Council in the matter of increased representation for the city on the Hospital Board.

Ald. Jennings stated that the Board wanted a guarantee that the bonds would be issued, so that when they got the guarantee they would be in a position to carry on the work until such time as the bond issue was made. The Council could not give such a guarantee, he thought, as that could only be decided by plebiscite.

The amendment to Ald. Neill's motion moved by Ald. Cain, and seconded by Ald. Jennings, was then passed, and a resolution was passed asking the Deputy Mayor to arrange for a meeting of the Hospital Board representatives with the City Council.

Former Pastor Visits Marysville Much Improved in Health

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Marysville, N. B., June 2.—The Town Council met in regular monthly session last evening, Mayor Walker presiding. The minutes of former session were read and adopted. The bills for the past month were received and cheques ordered for same. The reports of the several standing committees were received and adopted. Outside of routine business nothing of importance came before the meeting.

Rev. E. J. Barass came to Marysville yesterday from Hatfield Point, Kings county, and was warmly welcomed by his many friends. Last evening he was present at Olivette Baptist church prayer meeting, where he met a large number of his congregation. Mr. Barass is considerably improved in health.

A meeting of the Temperance Alliance committee of Marysville was held at the home of G. A. Tapley Monday evening to make preparations for the referendum which is said to be going to be held early in July.

Tilburn Gray, of Hamford Brook, St. John county, is visiting friends here. Tilburn, who was formerly of Marysville, is a returned man, and saw much service at the front.

GOVERNMENT MUST DECIDE ABOUT BOARD

MINISTER JUSTICE AWAITS TEXT OF JUDGMENT

Much Discussion of Situation in the Legal Circles About Parliament

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, June 2.—If the judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of the Board of Commerce were expected to remove the doubts that surround the constitutional authority of that body, the findings announced yesterday are quite abortive. On the vital question submitted the court is equally divided. Chief Justice Sir Louis Davis, Justice Anglin and Justice Mignault hold one way, supporting the authority of the board, while dissenting judgments are rendered by Justices Idington, Duff and Brodeur. The result is such as to make a confused situation worse confused, and the government will have to consider what it is going to do in the matter. It is to be remembered of course that the question submitted was merely that of a reference upon which the opinions of the court were asked, and a distinction should be drawn between its pronouncement in such a matter and a case regularly arising from a suit at law.

The reference, nevertheless, had a specific aspect, inasmuch as it related to a definite ruling by the Board in the case of certain Ottawa clothiers, who were named. An order was made restraining them from dealing in or offering for sale clothing by the addition of fifty per cent. or more of profits on the cost price. The court was asked to say: First, has the Board lawful authority to make the order; second, has the Board lawful authority to require the registrar or other authority of the Supreme Court of Ontario at Toronto to cause the order when issued to be made a ruling of the court. On questions 1 and 2 the Chief Justice, Justices Anglin and Mignault answer in the affirmative, while on question 1 Justices Idington, Duff and Brodeur answer no. In view of their answer, question 2, as far as they are concerned, does not need reply.

When spoken to today as to what effect the judgment would have upon the Board, the Minister of Justice was cautious, stating that he would first have to read the reasons of judgment and that in any event the matter was one for consideration by the government. He alluded, however, to the fact that the case is a reference rather than a specific suit of law, and drew a distinction between the law.

In the general discussion of the situation, especially in the legal circles of Parliament, it is conceded that the judgment only goes to add to the uncertainty and doubt which surround the Board and the authority it seeks to exercise. While, as stated, the pronouncement is only a reference, the opinion of the court is there, and the identical points might readily arise in any order issued by the Board, or in any action taken by an affected party by way of appeal. The whole situation will have to be considered.

The Board of Commerce was created in the session of Parliament a year ago as one means of combatting the cost of living. One Act created the Board, and prescribed its authority, the other was known as the Combines and Fair Prices Act, and the Board was called on to enforce it. It has made a great many inquiries and issued a large number of orders, but throughout its authority has been questioned, notably in the case of an order with regard to newsprint. The situation became complicated a few months ago when the chairman, Judge Robson, resigned, and there has been much haggling in the meanwhile as to the reasons underlying his retirement and the publication of correspondence incidental to it. The remaining members of the Board have been of divided opinions on that subject, one holding one way and the other dissenting. Judge Robson, in resigning, held that, in the light of his experience, the operation of the Combines and Fair Prices Act was not practical.

Up to the Government Now.

In view of all the doubt that had been raised, it was decided to submit a reference to the Supreme Court, and meanwhile no successor to the chairman was appointed, while to a considerable degree the activities of the Board were suspended. The judgment has been awaited eagerly in the anticipation that it would clear up the situation, but the judicial deadlock announced today has the contrary effect. The Government now will have to decide whether the Board will be continued or abolished, or what will be done, and until it is considered no one is in a position to make any confident prediction. The original reference to the court was in very general terms, but after considering it the judges ordered a reargument on more specific lines, such as are furnished by the case of the Ottawa clothiers, who in the reference are specifically named. Judges who answer "no" on the question of the Board's powers had not filed reasons for jurgment yesterday, but Mr. Justice Anglin's judgment in the affirmative is concurred in by the Chief Justice and Justice Mignault.

THE BUDGET—DEFEAT OF THE OPPOSITION AMENDMENT.

The Government majority of twenty-six on the amendment to the Budget resolution sustains the forecast that a combination of the Agrarians and Liberals would not materially weaken the Government's strength in the House. The debate consumed much time, but the speeches generally were of a high standard, although, on a question or questions of such importance, it may be said that the spirit and notions of party and partyism held in some instances too large a place. An interesting result of the discussions is the placing of leading Liberals in the ranks of the Protectionists. Members who had hitherto been identified with the Tariff for Revenue or Free Trade parties have announced their acceptance of the principle of Protection, and argued without hesitation and clearly that, if Canada is to successfully develop her natural resources and take a first place in agricultural enterprise and in the industrial life generally, we must continue to apply the stumulant of Protection. And this position thus taken by prominent members of the Liberal party gives further support to the opinion generally held that the trade plank in the party platform, adopted in convention some months ago, was intended by the leaders as a meaningless sort of thing. The Agrarians or the Grain Growers' representatives were apparently unimportant factors in the discussions, if not unimportant in voting strength. They were, strangely, without a platform to stand upon. They appeared not to have settled convictions in matters of public policy. One wanted a measure of Free Trade, a mongrel kind of thing; another advocated Free Trade out and out, but lost his bearings when greater revenue necessity was pressed to his attention; and, quite unexpectedly, even the leader, Mr. Crerar, was without a definite policy, lamentably lacked knowledge of the essentials and became peculiarly ludicrous in his suggestions. That was unfortunate; for whatever may be the aims and ambitions of the Agrarians, Parliament and the country will invariably be interested in, if not influenced by, the presentation of any measure of public policy definitely and comprehensively stated.

There was naturally quite a difference of opinion as to the effect, if not the wisdom, of the so-called luxury and other taxes, and undoubtedly this difference of opinion also finds expression in the country. But the need of much greater revenue—very many additional millions of dollars—is admitted; and direct taxation is, admittedly, imperative. Except the business profits tax, the general principle of the Government's proposals is almost universally accepted. But there is unquestionably a good deal of dissatisfaction expressed with the methods employed in working out the details. Possibly many of the objections will be removed in a measure as a result of the discussions that will take place when the subject again comes to the attention of the House. It may then appear that "luxury," in the conception of the plan, has been strained considerably.

If there were any in doubt as to the ability of the Government to continue to carry on, the majority of this morning is satisfying—to the friends and supporters of the Government.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Premier Drury and his Government were no doubt much relieved when the first session of the Legislature under their guidance came to an end. The outcome of the legislative mill has not added to the prestige of those directing the experiment of an administration from which what are called the historic parties are excluded. In Ontario, as in practically all of the provinces, the tendency has for years been to increase the expenditure and add to the taxes. But, as the Montreal Gazette says, in the election which gave the United Farmers their chance, their speakers were almost alone in recommending economy in the public outlays. The Canadian electorate as a rule has learned not to expect much from the makers of such pledges. There will be little surprise that ministers of the Drury Government, like members of preceding governments, found conditions stronger than their theories or their good intentions, and gave way to the demands for money that are presented from every quarter. The estimates of expenditure for the current year on ordinary provincial services were $13,814,000. Power was taken at the past session to spend in the coming fiscal year almost $18,000,000. Increases in the taxes on successions and business interests were an accompaniment of such proposed outlays. They come at a time when federal and, generally, municipal taxes also, are being added to, and will not help the Government's cause among those who have to pay the imposts.

While during the session the Government sought to avoid tests of strength with the two-party opposition which confronted it, there was one occasion wherein it suffered. The measures introduced included one to provide for the superannuation of civil servants. This was contrary to the theories of the United Farmers, who advocate equality of the classes, as well as economy. In a division on a motion to kill the bill there voted against the ministers ten members, seven United Farmer representatives and three of the Liberal wing of the Opposition. The Conservatives and the majority of the Liberals voted for the greater outlay, and the bill was saved on a division of 64 to 10. The incident suggests that there is more independence as yet in the Farmers' party than is usual among government supporters. It was not a happy omen, and as the Labor section of the Government support, though it got most of the things it sought, has, through its spokesmen, intimated that the coalition may not last forever, Mr. Drury may have need for all his skill to bring his ship through coming squalls. He managed his first session with no little political ability.

MR. MEIGHEN'S SPEECH.

Montreal Gazette: "Parliament has "heard two great speeches on the "Budget. Hon. Arthur Meighen's "arraignment of the British fiscal "policy was an effective piece of "criticism. He used British reports "on the decadence of British indus-"trialism under the British fiscal "policy. The reports were the find-"ings of commissions appointed by a "free trade government, and their "recommendations, if accepted, mean "protection in Britain by customs "tariff, prohibition of imports or boun-"ties, or all three. All are in effect "now to some degree, but will be "recognized principles in the British "fiscal policy if the recommendations "of the commissions are adopted. Mr. "Meighen's address had a profound "effect and has given great encourage-"ment to the Unionists."

THE CHURCH IN OTHER DAYS AND NOW.

The last thing that political science will admit is its own inefficiency. Says the Montreal Gazette, in spite of every sort of political science failure, the world is still largely governed or misgoverned by patent nostrums, every one of which is to bring in the millenium—while the heavy-headed citizen snores. The war has had interrelated effects which concerned every creature on the planet; but one of the most extraordinary phenomena of the latter is the conviction, on the part of the great statesmen and publicists and politicians, that human agency alone will never bring peace and order out of the present welter, which becomes more confusing and alarming every day.

Lloyd-George has gone on record as solemnly attesting his belief in a power higher than that which can ever be expressed by human device, however clever or seemingly efficacious, and as appealing to all in authority to recognize the fact and function and purpose of God in human affairs, as tending to calm and assuage the maelstrom which marks the world's condition today.

Recently, it was Sir Auckland Geddes, the new British ambassador to Washington, and Vice-President Marshall, who, in public addresses, urged as a solution of the present unrest the recognition of God in human affairs.

These important public men took the ground that the churches must get back to the position which seemed to have been vacated by them—the position of instructor in morals and religion. Latterly, the church—using the word in its broad sense—had rather expected the state to do the work which belonged as of right and privilege to the church; but most urgently the speakers insisted upon the recognition of the root fact of the existence, the purpose of God in history and human relations. The absence of such belief, more than anything else, tended to recklessness of conduct, contempt for authority; the lessened value of human life, and the woeful confusion of the time.

Vice-President Marshall, who is no visionary, but a hard-headed business man, said that the church had handed over to the state the enforcement of the moral law, and the state had failed. "When the church takes back "the disciplining of the moral and "religious life of its members, when "it trains up its children with fixed "views, when it proves its faith in "the communion of the saints by its "works, its courts will be thronged "with worshippers and there will be "no need for patchwork legislation to "reconcile labor and capital, nation "and nation."

This attitude is one of the significant signs of the times. Statecraft was sure of its efficiency till the war, and the consequences of the war, showed how feeble was every human instrument which took no account of the spiritual in man's relation to the universe.

Bewildered by the enormous economic, political and social disruption, the leading men in the world today acknowledge more sovereign power and are not ashamed to publicly invoke it—at the same time urging the general belief in the overruling guidance of that power "outside ourselves," as Matthew Arnold put it—"making for righteousness."

The rain showers of yesterday afternoon and last night have checked the forest fires which have been doing great damage on the North Shore. The probabilities to day are that showers will be general throughout the province tonight and tomorrow. This is gratifying news, for the fires have been for some days beyond the control of the officers of the Lands and Mines Department and their men, who were deplorably inadequately equipped to meet the situation.

SETTLERS LOSSES ON INTERNATIONAL

Between 30 and 40 More Houses Burned at St. Quentin and Kedgewick

Twenty or twenty-five houses have been burned in the settlements on the ranges, scattered along from one to five miles from St. Quentin.

In the vicinity of Kedgewick, where a disastrous fire occurred last June, a dozen houses were burned on Monday. Kedgewick is fifteen miles east of St. Quentin. Conditions continue bad along the International line, but up to last night Kedgewick and the other towns menaced had escaped the flames. The occupants of these houses saved practically nothing and were forced to take refuge with families in near by settlements. The losses to settlers since the St. Quentin fire probably exceed $50,000.

A relief committee has been organized at St. Quentin, with Rev. Father E. Martin chairman. What are most needed there at this time are clothing and quilts and blankets, particularly clothing and underclothing for women and children.

Arthur T. LeBlanc, M. P. P., and W. S. Richards, of Campbellton, have returned from a trip to St. Quentin, where they went on a special train on Monday night carrying a car of provision and a half a hundred blankets which were turned over to a relief committee, headed by Rev. Father Martin, the parish priest. Mr. LeBlanc says that eighty buildings were burned at St. Quentin, including the entire business and industrial district. On the outskirts about fifty houses are still standing. The total loss in St. Quentin is estimated at $500,000, although it may amount to a slightly higher figure. Lots of those who are homeless and had means have gone to friends and relatives outside the town, although many poor people, including women and children, are living with neighbors in the vicinity. They saved nothing and are in urgent need of clothing, and bedding and blankets sheets and children's underclothing are greatly needed. It is requested that all supplies contributed be forwarded to the relief committee at St. Quentin.

Mr. LeBlanc said last night that the fire started in the woods, but whether from a settler's fire originally or from an engine spark was not known. During the height of the fire many residents escaped without much clothing, fearing they would be burned to death. No person was seriously injured and hospital supplies are not needed.

Mr. Richards reports that the property of the Richards Manufacturing Company at Red Bank, Kedgewick, White's Brook and other places has not been burned. It had been reported that the company had lost a mill at White's Brook.

The fires in Restigouche county raged furiously on Monday night, but the situation yesterday was not quite so threatening, although still very serious.

The Stock Market

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York (Wall Street), June 2.—Nominal changes were registered by the more important shares at the apathetic opening of today's stock market, but speculative issues were under further pressure. Moderate selling was reported by commission houses for account of western interests, credit conditions in that section pointing to increased stringency. Losses averaging a point each were made by Inspiration Copper, Goodrich Copper, Coco Calo and several of the food issues. Rails and standard industrials were comparatively steady.

THE LIGHTER SIDE OF LIFE

The Sign That Caught Them.

"I never was rebuffed in so pleasant a way as on my last journey," said Joblots, the commercial traveller lately. "I was just about to enter an office when I saw a staircase with a sign: 'This way for commercial travellers.'

"I supposed the stairs led to the counting house, so I went up and found myself in a long hall, with walls where pointing boards directed the way. I passed through the hall and came to a staircase leading down, as another board pointed. I descended, and, opening the door at the lowest step, found I was on the street again!"

"What's the matter? You look thoughtful."

"My six-yearold son brought home a list of question to answer."

"What of that?"

"My average ranks me as a deficient kid."

And It Did.

Bax—"I hear your friend, the naturalist, has met with an accident. What was it?"

Cox—"Someone gave him a tiger cub and said it was so tame it would eat off his hand, and it did."

Swift Times.

Profiteer—Well, we've been in clover for six months now."

His Wife—"A few months more and we will belong to the old aristocracy."

Cost the Same.

"What is the difference between a luxury and a necessity?"

"There is no difference at all, nowadays."

Liked That.

She—"Don't you think our minister preaches polished sermons?"

He—"Yes, I must say I like the finish to them."

"A husband leads a dog's life," said Mr. Gabb. "That's right," agreed Mrs. Gabb. "He growls all day and snores all night."

Some people get credit for being patient when in realtiy they are too cowardly to start something.

FROM THE PEOPLE

THE RETURNED MEN'S PROBLEM

To the Editor of The Gleaner:

Sir,—If space permits will you please publish this letter in your popular From the People column, as I am sure it will interest many other returned men similarly situated as myself.

I was honorably discharged from the service recently, being one of those who could not obtain his release right after the signing of the armistice. Owing to the present unsettled conditions in the commercial world I was forced to accept a minor position or job at a somewhat meagre salary. This job has two advantages—its hours are only from 9 a. m. to 4.30 p. m. and it does not tax me greatly either mentally or physically.

My problem is this: What additional pursuit can I take up from about 7.30 to 11.30 p. m. which will net me a substantial return for the extra time expended? I am a good correspondent, can drive a car, and have a fairly useful knowledge of automobile electrical troubles and their remedies. Suggestions and advice from readers of this valuable column will be greatly appreciated.

Yours,
RETURNED MAN.

Moncton, May 29, 1920.

BOOTBLACK HAS TO LIVE

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—As I am a constant reader of your From the People column I saw T. E. C's complaint about paying 15 cents to have his shoes shined. I was absolutely shocked to think that any one could be so stingy as to deny a poor man who works hard for his family five cents more for bread for his children.

I am not a "Tony," so don't think I am trying to get sympathizers. If you want to know the truth I am a 12-year-old schoolgirl. I can almost picture T. E. C. asking for a raise or, if he is working for a business man, charging higher prices, and he "kicks" at paying five cents more for a shine.

I bet T. E. C. is constantly complaining of the H. C. of L., yet he doesn't consider that his shoe shiner has to eat and live also. I hope this piece of advice will put one thought in T. E. C's mind, and that is that all mankind has to eat and live—and not on air and water either.

Yours,
BE REASONABLE.

Fredericton, May 31, 1920.

CANDY MEN NOT GUILTY

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—A letter in a recent number of your paper refers to the shortage of sugar as caused by the candy manufacturers.

In the first place, the candy business in normal times only uses 8 per cent. of the sugar output. For the last few years the business has been handicapped to such an extent that it does not get over 50 per cent. of what it formerly received.

Some of the reasons for the shortage: It started with the refusal of the United States government to buy the Cuban crop at 6½ cents a pound. Then the government came along out of a clear sky and allowed Louisiana sugar to be sold at 18 cents, when the best granulated was being sold for nine cents and no one allowed to charge more.

This set the planters of Cuba crazy; they had made so much money the previous year on the lower prices that they made up their minds if the United States was going to allow poorer sugar to be sold at 18 cents, they were going to get theirs; and they are. The warehouses are breaking down from the weight of their contents held for higher prices.

All this has had a tendency to make people panicky, and householders have been chasing around buying one hundred pounds, or even a barrel, where they formerly bought three pounds.

You can buy sugar at a price.

Before the war sugar was three and three-quarters. Why this great advance? Sugar has profiteered perhaps more than any other item. Why?

Yours,
ONE WHO KNOWS.

Calais, Me., May 26, 1920.

ANOTHER VIEW

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—The letter from E G., Doaktown, is really amusing. I am sorry that one of my own sex can be so easily duped into thinking her husband the most perfect man in the world. Now, let me ask E. G. something. If you had a man who drank up all he earned and stayed away from his wife and family for weeks at a time, drunk, would you feel like showing him he had the best little wife in the world when he came home? If you have the best husband in the world, my advice to you is to put him in a glass case and keep him there, because the specimen is very rare. As far as the paint and powder are concerned one knows only the cheap class of women use that. They do not want a home or one husband.

Yours,
A DRUNKARD'S WIFE.

Bangor, Me., May 31, 1920.

CAN'T DOWN A GOOD SMOKE

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Experience is both right and wrong in his letter concerning the tobacco question, printed in your People's Column. He is right in thinking we are not to have an anti-tobacco law, but he is wrong in the reasons he gives. It is not because women are smoking more than ever before, but for another and more important reason.

The prohibition law was brought about because a few men drank to excess and when under the influence of liquor committed crimes. It was because some men spent all their money for intoxicants and left their wives and children in poverty. Such charges as this cannot be brought against tobacco. No one ever committed crime because he had been smoking too much.

The influence of tobacco on a man is as likely to be good as bad. I have heard it said that no man ever commits a crime if he stops first to smoke on it. It mellows him and turns his thoughts into gentler channels.

There may be a few fanatics who think that tobacco will go as alcohol did; also some who are in favor of prohibiting everything that gives others pleasure, but they never can "down" a good smoke.

Yours,
PIPE.

Woodstock, May 31, 1920.

TURKISH RULE REPRESSIVE

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I trust you will allow a constant reader of your newspaper to say a few words concerning whether the Greeks' ambitions are imperialistfc or are based upon liberation and peaceful progress. A correspondent claims in your columns that the present Greek policy became imperialistic by acquisition of soil in Asia and Europe.

Indeed the Turks governed those disputed lands for centuries, but various periods showed that the Turk was not capable of ruling other nationalities, therefore the Turk must go. Who, then, is the legitimate heir more than the Greek?

It is a pity that your correspondent undervalues (without knowing) the Greek nation, who found ruins and desolations left by the Pashas in 1821, and on those ruins created institutions, roads and other establishments where the Turks cared only to collect money.

The allegations of your correspondent that on such grounds the United States should be given to the Spanish, Dutch, French and English are absolutely in no comparison to the case of Turkey. The United States has immensely progressed in everything, while Turkey went from bad to worse. Has your correspondent read the history of Thessaly since 1871, when it was annexed to Greece, to see the difference between the Turk and the Greek?

Yours,
A. McC.

ALBERTA FROST HIT STRAWBERRY

Calgary, Alta., June 2.—Owing to frosts recently experienced in the Gordon Head district in British Columbia, there is likely to be a shortage of about a fifth of the strawberry crop this year, stated J. A. Grant, British Columbia fruits commissioner, while visiting here. The first blossoms of the crop have been frozen, but it is hoped the crop will pick up sufficiently to produce a fair amount.

New England Lumber Market

Boston, June 1.—In the price for dimension there does not seem to be any quotable change. Occasionally there is word of a yard order placed at less than $65 base, but in such cases it is supposed the lumber was taken from the mills racks.

Shipping facilities have improved but then no one seems to feel quite sure what may be going to happen next week. It is now possible to ship from Bangor and Aroostook points to New York points.

Random.

This week has failed to bring with it any pleasant change in the demand for random or in the prices it is possible to secure for it. If indeed, there is any alteration in the attitude of retailers it is that their caution is increasing. All that salesman can say about the impossibility of any appreciable decline has no effect.

For 2x3 to 2x7 inclusive the price in nearly every sale now is $53. Every well informed yardman in or near Boston knows full well that he can buy as good random as any coming on the market for that money and naturally therefore declines to pay more.

The full range for 2x8 is $55 to $58. There is not very much decline in it at present and the usual price is $57. The retailers all profess to believe that it is going to be lower and are inclined to wait.

For 2x10 some people would gladly accept $50. There are others who would scornfully reject such a bid. Buyers of 2 by 12 are scarce and when found are given to haggling about price. The situation is rather trying for salesman.

Boards.

Retailers in urgent need of boards are not many. They are watching the course of the market for roofers and their inferences render them cautious. They lack faith, in fact, in the permanence of the present level of price for northern and eastern boards and are postponing purchases whenever it is at all possible.

The quotation for random spruce covering boards seems to be well maintained notwithstanding the quiet. For the regulation 5 inches and up 8 feet and up and planed one side $55 is always asked when the lumber is from a good mill. Sellers are not unduly urgent.

About the price of random hemlock boards there continues to be different stories, but it is generally thought that it would be unwise to turn down today a bid of $48. There have certainly been sales at that price. In clipped hemlock there has been business within a few days at $55, but it is possible to buy for $2 less.

Very nice matched spruce boards 12, 14 and 16 feet may be bought today for $60.

Laths.

The lath situation is still a good deal mixed. There is very little demand from near by yards, but holders nevertheless are generally insisting upon abnormally high prices.

For 1⅝ inch laths the lowest price is still supposed to be $15, but since last writing this width has been offered to many retailers in Boston at $13.50 without business resulting.

It is questionable if it would be possible today to extract a bid of $12 for 1½ inch from any retailer in this neighborhood nor indeed anywhere in New England unless circumstances absolutely compelled him to buy. Some large handlers here are still getting $15 Boston rate at some points. A large Canadian company has just reduced its price to $12.50.

How much longer this anomalous state of things is likekly to last no man knows.

Furring.

In this department of the market, too, there are peculiarities. For two-inch as high as $55 has been obtained by one good salesman. The 3-inch which ordinarily sells for $1 less than the 2-inch may be bought for $50.

Shingles.

There is very little demand for shingles this week. The retailers seem to have made up their minds that whatever other mistakes they may make they will not overburden themselves with shingles. They have lost faith in the early advent of a building boom.

In the price of the white cedars there is a chance to record this week, one well known Canadian company quoting $8.50 for extras, $8 for clears and $6 for second clears.

Prices for the red cedars have been reduced recently of course, a fact which has not in the least increased the buying.

Box Boards.

That box boards are wanted at firm prices is a fact to which all interested in the market will gladly testify. It is some time since activity in this branch of the business succeeded inertia and prices strengthened, but the change was never quite so conspicuous as it is today. Of round edge inch pine box boards there have again been sales at $39 Boston rate and upward. It is said indeed to be already possible to obtain rather more.

Clapboards.

It is not possible to vary the tenor of the reports on spruce clapboards. It may be summed up by saying that there are none to be had.

The prices for lumber immediately following are those at which retailers can buy of the wholesale trade. Spruce prices refer to lumber 8 to 20 feet in length. For every two feet or fraction of two feet over 20 feet $1 is added when the sale is of dimension lumber.

No Hope of Immediate Rain In Nova Scotia and Forest Fires May Spread Further

Some Serious Fires in Halifax County Which Appear to Be Gaining Headway—The Greater Part of the Village of Hillhurst, in Quebec, Destroyed by Fire

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Halifax, June 2.—A message received at noon from River Hebert, said that the weather had cleared, and that there were no hopes of immediate rain. Forest rangers reported that, while there was no danger at present, there is a possibility that the fires would again spread if the wind increased.

While the fires in Cumberland county are not now spreading to any extent, those in the vicinity of St. Margaret's Bay road, Halifax county, are still serious. The fire near the extreme end of Hubley's Big Lake, about five miles from Hubley's Hotel, appeared today to be spreading. Welsley Hubley and some men left this morning for the scene to ascertain if any camps were in danger and if they could fight the fire.

A Quebec Village Swept.

Hillhurst, Que., June 2.—Fire which broke out late yesterday afternoon swept this village and destroyed the greater part of the property, entailing a loss estimated at $15,000.

The flames were first noticed in a barn at the rear of the general store occupied by A. Beaudin. Spreading rapidly the store and its contents fell a prey to the flames. Fanned by a heavy wind, the fire was carried to a flour and grist mill, which is also a total loss. In addition two residences were burned down, that occupied by Mr. Beaudin, and another owned by J. McLean, of Coaticook.

TRIUMPH OF NEW MEXICAN REGIME

Opponents Being Overcome or Conciliated in All Parts of the Country

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Mexico City, June 2.—General Marisical, former Governor of Guerrero, who has been an opponent of the new Mexican Government in that state since the fall of the Carranza regime, has been wounded and captured by a revolutionary detachment commanded by Juan Millan, of Arteaga, state of Michoacan, according to a message to General Obregon from General Lopez, at Launion, Guerrero.

The encounter occured at La Higuerita ,in Guerrero, which state, it is claimed, has now been cleared of rebels.

General Pelaez, revolutionary leader in the state of Temaulipas, has been here and conferred late last night with General Obregon. He refused to be interviewed.

A numerous staff, including eight generals and about fifty other officers, accompanied General Pelaez, and the entire party is said to be plentifully supplied with gold coin, principally American.

Reports quote General Pelaez as saying he had 50,000 soldiers who are perfectly armed and equipped and drilled.

MOST REMARKABLE ACT OF VATICAN

Rescinds the Veto on Official Visits of Catholic Sovereigns to King in Rome

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Rome, June 2.—The Papal Encyclical on "Christian Reconciliation" rescinds the veto on official visits of Catholic sovereigns to the King in Rome. It is undoubtedly one of the most remarkable acts of the Vatican since Pius IX. fulminated the famous decree just half a century ago.

In cancelling this particular act of protest against the overthrow of the civil princedom of the papacy, Benedict XV. says that "it seems to be called for by the gravity of the moment and the established custom of exchanging visits for consultation between the heads of states and governments." but that, so far from relinquishing his protest against the actual abnormal position of the Holy See and its supreme representative, the Pope expects a reconstructed society to facilitate a solution compatible with the dignity of the church.

A TRUE BILL IN THE ENGLAND CASE

nim (witness) and then had been handed to him.

When asked if he paid his board at the Waverley Hotel, he stated he thought he paid it pretty well as he had lost his $125 when at the hotel. Questioned further, he said he had paid all but a couple of dollars.

When asked by Mr. Richards if steps were being taken to take back his farm, he refused to answer; but finally he said no steps were being taken, as far as he knew. When asked if he were employed in this city as an inspector under the Prohibition Act he stated he did not think so, nor did he think he ever had been. He was paid nothing for his information, and stated that about the time England was said to be issuing the prescriptions he had refused a job as inspector, when pressed by Fraser Saunders to do so, because he did not like the job. He expected to make no money out of the case except his ten cents a mile for railway fare and twenty-five cents a day for witness' fees. When asked if he had told anyone he expected a big thing out of the case, he refused at first to answer, saying Mr. Richards was trying to set a trap for him; then he said he had been promised $4.75 a day by Fraser Saunders if he took a job as an inspector, and in this case he would have got a big thing out of it but he refused the job as he did not like it.

Asked if he made a statement before several men at Fredericton Jct. that he would swear anything for $1,000, he denied it.

Here the accused arose to leave the court to answer a telephone message but Mr. Justice Chandler called him back, telling him he was not a free agent and would have to have permission to leave the room. If he would not realize this, His Honor said he would have to put him in the dock.

The witness, asked if he stated to the men that he was an inspector getting paid for spotting, denied it. In reply to a question by Mr. Richards he said he had not stated he wanted to get square with England.

Allison E. McKay, for the Crown, then re-examined the witness. He asked if Fraser Saunders had offered him a job as "inspector" or "spotter." Witness could not tell which, but said Saunders had told him just what to say to the lawyers when questioned on the witness stand. The latter part of this evidence was objected to by C. D. Richards, for the defence. McKay's evidence was completed shortly before 1 o'clock and the court adjourned until this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

Check for School Trustees.

TORONTO PASTOR ON NEW CHRISTIANITY

Protestantism the Christianity of the Trading Classes and Must Pass Away

Toronto, June 2.—Rev. Dr. Bland, Pastor of Broadway Methodist Tabernacle, this city, whose advanced labor views brought him into collision with some of the members of the Quarterly Official Board of Broadway Tabernacle last year, who vainly tried to have Dr. Bland removed from the Pastorate of that church, has published a book entitled "The New Christianity."

It is thought that some of the views expressed in this volume may start a controversy among Methodists.

Dr. Bland predicts that the bitter conflict between capital and labor will cease to be, because capital will cease to be a factor in the affairs of men, and "only labor, in the broadly inclusive sense of the term, will remain."

Brotherhood and democracy, the two great principles of the new Christianity, according to Dr. Bland, cannot be found in sufficient measure either in Protestantism or Roman Catholicism, and in this connection he states that Protestantism must pass away.

Dr. Bland refers to Protestantism as "bourgeois Christianity," and says further, it is the Christianity of the middle or trading classes. Protestantism, by its very origin, is Christianity shaped to suit the trading and manufacturing classes.

Counter Attacks by Poles Have Blocked the Bolshevik Plans Along the Beresina

Several Hundred Prisoners and a Number of Machine Guns Captured in the Plessenicz Section—Poles Also Successful South of Bobruisk

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Warsaw, June 2—Polish troops have turned to the offensive between Burisov and Bobruisk, in the centre of the front, which is under attack by the Russian Bolshevikii, and on May 27 occupied the line of the Beresina river, according to an official statement issued at army headquarters here today. The spirit shown by the Poles in the fighting has "blocked the enemy staff's offensive plan," the statement adds.

Counter attacks against the Bolshevik line on May 30 in the Plessenicz section were succesful, it is declared, and several hundred prisoners and a number of machine guns were captured. South of Bobruisk, Polish raids have resulted in the taking of prisoners and of war materials.

NEW YORK LIQUOR MEN ARE SHAKEY

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York, June 2.—The eighteenth amendment can be enforced only through government purchase of every ounce of distilled liquor now in bond, is the opinion of James S. Shevlin, supervising federal prohibition agent. He said that 'at least 200 dealers in this city' would be promptly arrested if the supreme court should decide the act unconstitutional.

The arrests would be made, he said on evidence already in possession of federal authorities, and added some of the biggest ones in the city are included in the number.

K. OF C. WANT THE CHAPLAINS KEPT ON

St. John, June 2.—The Maritime convention of the Knights of Columbus, which is meeting here in the K. of C. hall, Coburg street, at their afternoon and evening sessions yesterday, besides receiving the reports from the different districts, passed several resolutions of public interest. They decided to take action to prevent the demobilization of all Canadian chaplains, which, according to a militia order, was to take place yesterday. Telegrams were sent to all parts of Canada protesting against this move on the grounds that soldiers, no matter what their religious persuasion, should not be deprived of the religious direction afforded by the chaplains at the different military centres.

It was decided that a scholarship fund should be established for the Maritime Provinces' jurisdiction, this fund to be managed by a central board of control composed of the state deputy and district deputies. The idea proposed and adopted was to set aside a certain amount of capital in order to insure the permanency of the fund. A resolution of whole hearted and unswerving loyalty to His Majesty King George V. and another resolution expressing fidelity to His Holiness Pope Benedict XV. were unanimously adopted.

Suspensions of Horsemen Are Ordered Cancelled

Fredericton Park Ass,n Directors Take Action In Standing Cases

GIVE HORSEMEN A SQUARE DEAL

One of Cases Had Been Carried to the Board of Review.

The directors of the Fredericton Park Association have decided to notify the National Trotting Association of cancellation of the suspensions standing on behalf of the local track as a result of the reports turned in to headquarters at Hartford last fall by the former management of the local track.

These suspension are:

Dr. J. B. Gilchrist, Norton, N. B., and the chestnut mare MacDillon.

Higgins & Crouse, Presque Isle, Me., and the bay gelding Commodore Dallas, and the bay mare Tilly Tipton and also Jay Man.

A letter from W. H. Gocher, secretary of the National Trotting Association, was read at the last meeting of the directors of the local track association and all the circumstances surrounding both cases were considered, the outcome being that a resolution was unanimously passed cancelling these outstanding claims. In the case of the suspension of Dr. Gilchrist the case had been carried to the Board of Review at the May meeting and, upon the evidence produced, the suspension was upheld.

While the Fredericton Park Association under its present management stands for a proper adherence to rules and regulations, it will be the policy to consider all the circumstances surrounding such cases and deal fairly with the horsemen. Last fall, it is said, no less than fourteen horsemen were reported to National Trotting Association headquarters by the then mangement of the Fredericton Park Association for non-payment of entrance money—some of them under circumstances that have proven most surprising when revealed.—J. D. B.

Early Dreams, 2.03¼, is on the doubtful list.

SPION KOP WINNER OF DERBY TODAY

Rank Outsider Takes English Classic—Sweepstakes are Worth 80,000 Pounds

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

London, June 2.—Captain G. Loder's Spion Kop won the classic Derby at Epsom Downs today.

Lord Derby's Archaic ran second and Orpheus third. L. Neumann is the owner of Orpheus.

The horses which ran in the Derby were:

Abbot's Trace, Allenby, Archaic, Ittitus, Daylight Patrol, Dynamo, Firework, He Goes, Kerasos, Marshal Neil, Orpheus, Prince Poltava, Polumetis, Sarchedon, Silvern, Spion Kop, Tetratema and Torelore.

Was 100 to 6 Shot.

The betting on the course follows:
Spion Kop, 100 to 6.
Archaic, 10 to 1.
Orpheus, 50 to 1.

Tetratema Was Favorite.

London, June 2. — Major McCalmont's Tetratema was the favorite of the twenty-two splendid entries that went to the starting barrier today in the greatest event of the British flat racing season, the Derby stakes, over the historic course of Epsom Downs. Other thoroughbreds in the race that were fancied were Lord Derby's Archaic, Allenby, Daylight Patrol, Polumetis and He Goes,

The day broke fine and large numbers of people were soon after dawn making their way to Epsom over various routes, the indications being that the attendance would be one of the largest in history.

The fashion of race goers to drive in coaches from London to the course, which for many years was a feature of the day, has been gradually dying out since the introduction of the automobile, and was this year less in vogue than ever. King George, who attended the opening meeting of the Epsom season on Tuesday and was given a great reception, was accompanied by Queen Mary to the race today.

One of the conspicuous features of this year's Derby was the increased popularity of sweepstakes on the result, and it was difficult to find any gathering of people where this form of "having a flutter" was not adopted. The world famous Calcutta Sweepstakes is stated to have eclipsed all records, and it is estimated the first prize will be in the neighborhood of £80,000. The London Stock Exchange Sweepstakes will give the winner of first prize £5,000.

Promoters of war charities and other movements were today appealing to lucky prize winners to devote part of their winnings to the assistance of unfortunates.

SHARKEY LOST TO DICK LOADMAN

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Milwaukee, Wis., June 2. — Dick Loadman, eastern bantamweight boxer, had a slight shade advantage over Jack Sharkey, New York, in a ten round bout here last night, according to a majority of ringside critics. Loadman appeared to beat Sharkey to the punch in the early rounds and held the New Yorker even in the later sessions.

FARMERS' SONS BUYING AIRPLANES

Winnipeg, Man., June 2.—Aviation as a recreation from the hardship of farm life and a means of rapid transit to the city and its pleasure, is attracting the attention of many farmers' sons who, during the war, were connected with the air forces. Application for details from over 30 Manitoba and Saskatchewan farmers have been received by a local airplane company. Two small "Curtiss" planes were sold recently to Manitoba farmers.

Austin L. Baker has sent the 3-year-old Bertha Volo, by Peter Volo, 2.02, to Frank Fox.—Boston Globe.

The Combination classes are: 2.12, 2.15, 2.18, 2.21 trotting, 2.09, 2.12, 2.15, 2.17 and 2.20 pacing.

Charles W. Leonard has a new pacer, a brown colt, by Peter Mozart, 2.15¼, out of an Axworthy dam.

Mrs. Eugene McKelvey, who picked up at Altoona, Penn., a package containing $1,200 in bills and $400 in checks, notified the owner, a resident of Newry, who reclaimed the money and forgot to thank the finder.

COMPLETELY CRIPPLED

Terrible Experience of Mr. J. Harrop

It is seldom that anyone who has been continually exposed to every weather condition does not contract some form of Kidney or Rheumatic trouble. In many cases, cold, settling in the kidneys, so weakens those important organs that they are unable to filter the waste and poison out of the blood. The latter is carried throughout the body, causing uric acid to accumulate in the joints, with consequent rheumatism, stiff joints, swollen ankles, lumbago, sciatica, neuralgia, constipation, torturing pains in back and side and head. These ills can all be made right. Gin Pills give quick, certain and sure relief. Read what Mr. J. Harrop writes to us:—

"I have been crippled up so completely that I could not stand. Work was out of the question. A few doses of Gin Pills put me right. I cannot praise Gin Pills too much, and every home should have a box."

Gin Pills can help you. If you suffer from backache, or have that dreadful feeling of lassitude, with floating specks before the eyes, highly-colored urine, stone in the bladder and general debility, get Gin Pills at once. At all druggists or dealers, 50c. Money refunded if you are not relieved. A sample large enough to demonstrate its value, free on request.

NOBLES ASK RIGHT TO DIE BY THE AXE

Swedish Titled Class Insist on Being Beheaded Rather Than Hanged

Stockholm, Sweden, June 1.—Sweden's high-nosed, stiff, quixotic, knightly and unapproachable nobles are up in arms in defence of the proudest privilege of their caste—the privilege of being beheaded like gentlemen instead of being hanged like mere men. It is their last, lingering right.

In 1865, their historic Chamber of Nobles was abolished; in 1919 Premier Eden's democratic reform robbed them of control of the Riksdag upper house; their estates are mortgaged and silk thread has grown so dear and they have ceased embroidering armorial bearings on their socks.

But there are limits to patience. They have still a legal, historical, traditional and unimpeachable right to be decapitated by the headsman in a red doublet and hose instead of being hanged like mere unnoble men named Janssen and Johanssen, and they vow that sooner they'l jump into the Gulf of Bothnia than surrender that right.

The struggle first flared up when Socialist Premier Hjalmar Branting proposed to abolish capital punishment. This plan was suspended because two majestic institutions known as Svea High Court and Goeta High Court declared that "the war has produced such contempt for human life that capital punishment is an indispensable safeguard."

After that the Government produced a plan merely to regulate capital punishment, but this plan omitted to enact that a Swedish noble must have his head choped off with all the pomp and circumstance of a mediaeval retribution. So the Nobles' Assembly, which sits monthly in the Hall of Knights, issued a fiery protest and vowed that if any noble were unlawfully condemned to be hanged instead of being lawfully beheaded by a headsman he must cheat the hangman by hunger striking to death.

And the Assembly unearthed proof in history, law and tradition, that Swedish nobles have a right to be beheaded, not hanged. They got this high privilege from Charles XI. Charles was a meanish sort of King, in fact, a royal skinflint, whose one aim in life was to fill his treasury—without foreseeing that his bold buccaneer son, Charles XII., would squander the cash in licking the Kings of Denmark and Poland, and getting licked by the Czar of Russia.

So Charles grabbed his nobles' estates. He proclaimed dishonestly that these estates were held from the Crown as mere temporary fiefs, which might any day be drawn in, and he seized a full two-thirds of the lands in Sweden. The nobles fumed.

"We are beggars," sir," they vociferated, "we have not one right left."

"You have," said the skinflint king, "you have the right to be decapitated. I pledge my royal word no man will rob you of that."

And he decapitated six.

GIVES $300,000 TO DALHOUSIE

Ottawa, June 1.—Mrs. J. H. G. Eddy, widow of the founder of the Eddy Match Company, of Hull, has donated the sum of $300,000 to Dalhousie University, Halifax.

The money is to be used in building Shireff Hall, a dormitory for the girl students of the University, as a memorial to Mrs. Eddy's parents, the late John Shireff, who was for over twenty five years high sheriff of Northumberland County, New Brunswick, and M. Henriette Shireff, his wife.

ONTARIO PRISON GUARD MURDERED

Had Charge of Gang of Convicts and Body Was Found Under Heap of Stones

Midland, Ont., June 1—While in charge of a small gang of inmates at the Penetang Government Hospital, Saturday, William Gilchrist, a guard, was murdered. As he did not return with the men at dinner time, a search revealed his body on a heap of stones, a number of stones having been used to conceal the body. One of his ears was torn from his head, supposedly by a hoe or shovel, one of his legs was broken and a crowbar was jammed through his body.

A few days ago the murdered man had occasion to capture a man whom he thought was escaping. On being locked up, the inmate threatened to "get" him and the above is alleged to have been the result.

Sowing Garden Beans

[Experimental Farms Note.]

Beans are an important truck crop. Garden beans are one of the important truck crops and practically every farmer should grow a patch either for sale or for home consumption, according to his location. Being a leguminous plant, this vegetable stores in the soil netrogen gathered from the air, and the cultural methods generally given to it leave the ground in splendid shape for the following crop. The consumer also has great advantages in buying them as they are a delicacy, they may easily be canned and are considered a very healthful food indeed.

One or more varieties? To be profitable and palatable, garden beans should be eaten when the pods are well grown but still green, and this period only lasts during about a week of the plant's life. This is why a succession of sowings is generally made by persons who desire to have this fine vegetable on their table for any length of time. It was suggested that a number of varieties of different seasons, put in the same day, might do as well, and this prompted an experiment at Cap Rouge.

The Cap Rouge Experiment.

The object was to compare the yield of green pods from one variety, sown at four different intervals of about a week, with that of four varieties of different seasons the same day. The results of five years showed that Round Pod Kidney Wax, sown at four different intervals, yielded at the rate of 3,139 quarts of green pods per acre, whilst Round Kidney Wax, Stringless Green Pod, Early Red Valentine, Refugee, sown the same day, yielded at the rate of 3,298 quarts per acre.

One variety generally enough. The difference between the two methods was only around five per cent., which is practically negligible, and it seems that either will about give the same results. Persons who would rather make only one sowing, and be done with it, will have, of course, to choose varieties of different seasons, whilst others, who prefer to sow at intervals of a week or ten days, should take an early variety, such a Round Pod Kidney Wax or Pencil Pod Wax, so as to get the first edible pods as soon as possible.

Save your own seed. Probably the latter way is preferable as ripe beans can be gathered from strong healthy plants each year, for the next, which not only means a saving of money, but, which is quite important, one is thus sure of getting seed of good vitality and of the right strain.

NORRIS PLATFORM OUT IN MANITOBA

Agriculture Aided by Extension of Farm Loans and Rural Credits System

Winnipeg, Man., June 1.—There are ten planks in the platform upon which the Norris government is going to the electors of Manitoba this summer, covering education, agriculture, labor, hydro-electric development, temperance, public health, development of northern Manitoba and natural resources, telephones, law enforcement and financial.

The government aims, it is said, "to ensure to all a knowledge of English." The "basic industry" of agriculture is to be encouraged through the extension of farm loans and rural credit systems. Through the newly created joint council of industry an effort is to be made to prevent labor troubles and secure a better understanding. Development and extension of electrical power lines are planned. Existing temperance measures will be altered only on popular vote. The system of rural health nursing is to be extended. The government plans to use "every available means to obtain possession of the natural resources of the province, and to encourage their development by means of scientific research bureau."

The automatic telephone system is to be extended and rural lines increased. The reorganized provincial police force is to be made responsible for the enforcement of provincial laws as well as the criminal code. The government endorse "the public savings system, by which the government shall accept deposits from the people to finance the Rural Credits scheme and ultimately other provincial requirements."

IN DAYS OF TERROR

"Because the little beggar will neither sing like a good patriot, nor work like a good citizen."

"Well, what have you to do with that?" said Louis. "Did the nation confide Capet to you that you might teach him to sing?"

"And what business have you to interfere, I should like to know, Citizen Sergeant?" said Simon, astonished.

"I interfere, as it becomes every man of feeling to do."

"It is unworthy of a man to see a child beaten, and to suffer him to be beaten."

'Bah! the son of a tyrant."

"Ho is a child; and the child has not participated in the crimes of the father. The child is not culpable, and, consequently, ought not to be punished."

"And I tell you he was placed with me to do what I choose with him. I choose him to sing 'Madame Veto, and he shall sing it."

"Contemptible wretch!" said Louis. "'Madame Veto' is mother to this child. Would you yourself like your child to be made to sing that you were one of the canaille?"

"Me!" cried Simon. "Vile aristorat of a sergeant."

"No names," said Louis. "I am not Capet; and they will not make me sing by force."

"I will have you arrested, vile cidevant."

"You!" said Louis; "you have me arrested; you had beter try to arrest a Thermopyle."

"Good, good; he laughs best who laughs last. And now, Capet, pick up my last, and come and finish your shoe, or mille tonnerres."

"And I," said Louis, turning deadly pale, and advancing a few steps forward, his hands clenched, and his teeth set—"I tell you he shall not pick up your last, he shall not make shoes; do you hear, idiot?"

"Ah! yes; you talk very largely; but that will not make me fear you any the more."

"Ah! massacre," roared Simon, turning pale with rage.

At this moment two men entered the court. One held a paper in her hand. She addressed herself to the sentinel.

"Sergeant," cried the sentinel, "it is Tison's daughter, who asks to see her mother."

"Let her pass, since the Council of the Temple permit it,' said Louis, who did not wish to leave for a moment, for fear Simon should avail himself of his absence and again beat the child.

The sentinenl passed the two women; but, hardly had they ascended four steps on the dark staircase, when they encountered Maurice Lindey, who at that moment was descending into the court. It was almost dark, so that he was unable to distinguish their features. Maurice stopped.

"Who are you, citizens?" said he; "and what do you want?"

"I am Sophia Tison," said one of the women; "I obtained permission to visit my mother, and have come to see her."

"Yes," said Maurice; "but this permission was for yourself only, citoyenne."

"I brought my friend, that there might be two of us in the midst of the soldiers, at least."

"Very good; but your friends cannot go up."

'As you please, citizen," said Sophie Tison, pressing the hand of her friend, who, close against the wall, seemed paralyzed with surprise and terror.

"Citizens sentinels," said Maurice, raising his voice and addressing the sentinels who were stationed on every landing, "allow the Citoyenne Tison to pass, but do not permit her friend to pass; she will remain on the staircase; see that she is treated with all due respect."

"Yes, citizens," replied the sentinels.

'Go up, then," said Maurice.

The two women then passed on; and Maurice, leaping over the remaining five or six stairs, advanced rapidly into the court.

"What is all this?" said he to the National Guard; "and what is the cause of this noise? The cries of a child were heard in the prisoner's antechamber."

"It is this," said Simon; who, accustomed to the manners of the municipals, believed, on perceiving Maurice, that he came as an ally; "this traitor, this spy, this cidevant, this aristocrat, prevents me from belaboring Capet;" and he shook his fists at Louis.

"Yes, mon dieu, I did prevent it," said Louis, drawing his sword; "and if you again call me cidevant, aristocrat, or traitor I will run my sword through your body."

"A threat!" cried Simon; "the guard, the guard."

"I am the guard," said Louis; "so you had better not call; for if I come to you, I will exterminate you."

"Come here, Citizen Municipal, come here," said Simon, now seriously alarmed at Louis' threats.

"The sergeant is quite right," said the municipal, to whom he had appealed for assistance; "you are a disgrace to the nation, coward, to beat a child."

"And why did he beat him? do you comprehend?" said Maurice

"Because the child would not sing 'Madame Veto;' because the child would not insult his mother."

"Miserable wretch!" sadi Maurice.

"And you also?" said Simon; 'I am surrounded with traitors.'

'Rogue!" cried the municipal, seizing Simon by the throat, and tearing the last from his hand; "try to prove that Maurice Lindey is a traitor." and he applied the leather strap pretty heavily to the shoulders of the shoemaker.

"Thanks, monsieur," said the child, who regarded this scene with the air of a Stoic; 'but he will revenge himself upon me."

'Come, Capet, come, my child," said Louis; "if he beats you again, call for help; I will chastise him, the hangman. And now, Capet, return to your tower."

"Why do you call me Capet? you know very well that Capet is not my name."

"Not your name?" said Louis; 'what is your name, then?"

'I am called Louis Charles de Bourbon. Capet is the name of one of my ancestors. I know the history of France; my father taught me."

"And you want to teach a child to make old shoes to whom a king has taught the history of France?" cried Louis; "allons done."

"Ah, rest assured," said Maurice, "I will make my report."

"And I mine," said Simon; "and among other things I shall say, that instead of one woman being allowed to enter the tower, two were permitted to pass."

At this moment two women went out from the keep. Maurice ran after them.

'Well, citoyenne," said he, addressing the one by his side, "have you seen your mother?"

"Yes, citizen, thank you," said she.

Maurice had wished to see the young girl's friend, or at least to hear her voice, but she was enveloped in her mantle, and seemed determined not to utter a single word. He also thought she trembled. This appearance of fear excited his suspicion. He re-ascended the stairs quickly, and through the glazed partition saw the Queen endeavoring to hide something in her pocket which looked like a billet.

'Ah! ah!" said he, "I have been duped."

He called his colleague.

"Citizen Agricola," said he, "enter Marie Antoinette's room, and do not lose sight of her."

CLOTHING FIRM WAS FINED $31,000

Convicted of Profiteering in Syracuse and of Violating the Lever Act

Syracuse, N. Y., June 1. — Weed's Inc., a large mercantile corporation of Binghamton, was found guilty in the United States Court here today of profiteering in violation of the Lever act and fined $31,000 by Judge Martin Manton.

The firm was accused of selling clothing at excessive prices.

The verdict was returned after seventeen hours of deliberation. In his instructions to the jury Judge Manton mentioned the failure of the corporation to produce its books at the trial and said that under such circumstances the jury would probably have to find the company guilty.

The court divided the fine as follows:

First count, charging conspiracy between Charles A. Weed and Gordon H. Smith to place twenty-six articles of clothing on sale at an excessive profit, $1,000.

The other six counts, charging profiteering, $5,000 each.

The case will be appealed.

True Bill Against England Brought in by the Grand Jury On Charge of Forging "Per"

Ernest McKay, of Fredericton Junction, Says "Dr." England Wrote Out a "Per" Which He "Cashed"—Offered Job as "Inspector" or "Spotter" But Won't Say Which

The Grand Jury in the case of Albert W. England, charged with forging prescriptions for liquor, which is being heard before Justice Chandler in the York Circuit Court, brought in a true bill against the prisoner this morning after they had finished examining the five witnesses, Dr. G. W. Bailey, of Fredericton Junction, John Belyea, of this city, Ernest McKay, of Fredericton Junction, and Judson Hinchey and Elbridge Hunter.

The case then went before the trial jury who were sworn in as follows:

Frank Burnett, Stewart L. Morrison, Sterling Brannen, William Love, Edward Hillman, B. B. Jordan, LeBaron Bull, John H. Noble, Charles K. Palmer, Ernest W. Stairs, George Camp and Moses Dennison.

Ernest McKay was the first witness called by the Crown and at the conclusion of his evidence the Court adjourned until this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Among the other witnesses to be called by the Crown are Dr. G. W. Bailey, Elbridge Hunter, Judson Hinchey and Jack Belyea. The witnesses to be called for the defence are Edgar Robinson, Mrs. Newton Lindsay, Alice Howland, Albert Letroneau and Turney Manzer.

The "Star" Witness.

In his direct examination Ernest McKay swore that he had been given a prescription for a quantity of liquor that he had seen the accused write it out and sign it and that he afterwards "cashed" it and obtained the liquor from a vendor. Under cross examination by C. D. Richards, for the defence, he told of having been informed that England was a doctor and told of getting the prescription from him which he had had filled. As at the preliminary examination he told of two men, Munn and Scott, going to England for "pers." England went into another room of the Waverley Hotel and on coming out handed the two prescriptions to him (witness), and he passed them to the others. He gave evidence of the call of Elbridge Hunter and Judson Hinchey upon England and told of their obtaining a prescription for 48 ounces of whiskey. When asked what he came to this city for he stated for supplies. Asked if he were drunk he said no, that he did not drink much, as he used whiskey the same as other people for rubbing it on externally. He had prescriptions filled at a local drug store. When asked if he had lost any money while here he said he had lost about $125 in all. Some of this he stated had been lost by gambling while the rest of it he had "let some other men lose" for him.

He denied going to a doctor's office in the city and telling the doctor's wife that he was a son of a member of the Provincial Parliament. He stated that he "bought Dave Mersereau out at Fredericton Junction" and that "Dr. England had forgoten his prescription blanks and wished to borrow some.'

He stated that England had refused money for the prescriptions. He had seen England write two or three papers tear them up and then write one which was then laid aside near

HUNGARIAN PEACE TREATY IS SIGNED

Piccadilly Settlement on Blue Bell Tract Entirely Wiped Out By Forest Fire

Flames Swept Down on Settlers When the Wind Changed at Dusk

HOLIDAY RAINS ENDED MENACE

Million Dollars Likely To Cover Gross Losses in New Brunswick.

Piccadilly Settlement in the Blue Bell district of Victoria county was wiped out by the forest fires before heavy rains on the holiday put an end to the menace in New Brunswick, according to reports received here this morning.

The flames swept down from the forests upon the settlement when the wind changed suddenly on Wednesday evening, according to a Government official who just returned from the district, and within a comparatively short time the entire settlement of about twelve miles was destroyed.

The first settlement in New Brunswick scourged by the flames during the forest fires menace was Theriault, in Madawaska county, then followed the disaster at St. Quentin, the wiping out of Allainville, Northumberland county, the destruction of Peters' Siding on the Internationa Railway and now the Piccadilly.

A MILLION DOLLARS MAY COVER LOSSES

No official estimates of the area burned over in this province have as yet been compiled by the Department of Lands and Mines, but the view prevails that its extent or the monetary loss will not be as great as first reports indicated. It was declared by a usually reliable source today that a million dollars would probably cover the gross loss in New Brunswick to both crown timber limits and private owners, but the cost of fighting the fires has been much beyond other years.

Danger is Now Over.

Chief Forester G. H. Prince stated this morning that the danger from the fires was practically a thing of the past now and no more need be feared from that source. Heavy rain was reported to the Department of Lands and Mines over the holiday from Bathurst, Keedgewick, Plaster Rock and other northern points where the forest fire menace was considered most dangerous, and this morning word was received that there were no new fires in that section of the country.

The forest fires already reported earlier than last year will now be kept off until the greening season, about the second week in June, which will probably stop further inroads by the flames.

City Council to Meet.

A special meeting of the City Council has been called this evening to consider steps to be taken toward the relief of the St. Quentin fire sufferers. A letter received recently by Premier Foster states that all cities and towns of the province are uniting in the matter as well as all societies and organizations and the city of Fredericton is being counted upon to organize for this district. It is probable that delegations from the various societies will be present at the meeting also to discuss the matter.

Rome, June 4. — King Victor Emmanuel today signed a decree creating a ministry of labor and public welfare. Signor Abbiatei, Minister of Labor, will take charge of the new department, and Signor Deniva, Minister of Finance, has been named Minister of Labor ad interim.

Wool Prices Fall Suddenly in the Italian Market, and a Similar Drop Has Occurred in Some Other Materials

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

ROME, June 4—A notable decrease in prices which has suddenly taken place here is attributed to the influence of the American market. Wool, which a few days ago reached 50 lire per kilogram (2 1-5 pounds), has fallen to 10; a similar decrease has occurred in other materials. Food staples, however, are still very high.

Break Up in Liberal Party Over the Disappointment in Mackenzie King Leadership

The Budget Debate Has the Effect of Defining the Position of Parties in the House—The Cabinet Will Probably Be Strengthened by Promotion of Some Members

[Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.]

Ottawa, June 4.—The Western Farmers who stood by the Government on the budget [illegible] break away at a future session, [illegible] the Liberals are threatened with a defection of some of their members who are talking of joining the Farmers' group.

The Liberals are also embarrassed by the dissatisfaction in Quebec over the leadership of Hon. Mackenzie-King. Quebec really brought about Mr. King's election as leader, but has been more or less grouching ever since. One reason is his inability to speak French, which makes it impossible for him to meet and canvass the people of Quebec.

It was observed that neither Ernest Lapointe nor Hon. Jacques Bureau took any part in the budget debate. It is said, on what seems to be good authority, that they were requested not to do so by Sir Lomer Gouin. Sir Lomer is looking for a big inflow of capital into Quebec for industrial development and views with a distrustful eye any movement towards free trade.

Position of Parties Defined.

The three parties in the House all found their feet more or less in the budget debate. Government supporters, as a rule, came out for protection. Hon. T. A. Crerar, the leader of the Farmers' party, boldly stated that he wanted the protective principle eliminated from the tariff. The Liberals were somewhat divided among themselves, but showed a tendency to get in the middle of the road and accuse the Unionists and Farmers of being extremists. On an issue between Protection and Free Trade the Government would carry the next election; but it is the people who make the issue and not the politicians. The luxury tax is proving unpopular, and the Government may be opposed on other grounds by people who ordinarily would support it on the tariff question.

A prominent Conservative Unionist stated last night that, unless the Unionist caucus soon to be addressed by Sir Robert Borden kept the Conservative or[illegible] native principle of Protection, the fate of the Unionist party would be sealed. There would be, he said, a revival of the old Conservative party, and the Government would be between two fires, not to mention the very lively backfire the Farmers have started. But the whole situation is more or less misty. The Farmers' movement has practically forced the Liberal party into a reserve east of the Ottawa river and it may seriously disturb the sleep of the Conservatives and Unionists in the province of Ontario. On the budget the Government had the advantage of taking an affirmative position and they have come through with a good working majority.

The next step will probably be to strengthen the cabinet by promoting some members of the House to portfolios. It would be dangerous to appoint outsiders, because the Government cannot afford to lose many more bye-elections.

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Winnipeg, June 4.—At the annual meeting of the Good Roads Association last night the question of the Canadian highways came up in the form of a recommendation of the resolution committee that the association urge upon the Dominion Government and the provincial Governments co-operative action to bring about an early planning of a scheme.

After discussion the matter was referred to the executive committee, the view of many at the meeting being that attention should be mainly directed for years to come to the building of necessary roads in the various provinces for the development of the rural districts.

DENY PERSIAN CAPITAL TAKEN BY BOLSHEVIK

No Authentic Information That the Bolshevik Troops Have Moved Inland

ARE OPERATING IN VICINITY OF ENZELI

The Persian Foreign Minister Has Demanded Protection of League of Nations

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, June 4.—Persian officials in London announced today that there was no truth in the reports that the Bolsheviki had occupied Teheran, the Persian capital.

An official telegram, dated Thursday, was received this morning from Teheran and no mention was made in it of any Bolshevik advance from the Caspian sea coast.

Prince Firouz Mirza, the Persian Foreign Minister, who is now in London, later offered further evidence that the reports were untrue by announcing that the Shah of Persian had arrived in Teheran yesterday from his visit to Europe and had been welcomed by 300,000 people there.

Bolshevik on the Sea Coast.

London, June 4.—Direct advices from Teheran, the capital of Persia, have not been received for several days by the British foreign office, but despatches from elsewhere in the near east recently have mentioned nothing indicative of the Bolshevik military undertaking in that region. The only exception is a despatch from Constantinople, in which it was stated Russian Bolshevik forces had entered Teheran.

"All circumstances," said an official this morning, tend to discredit reports that soviet forces are menacing Teheran. Our latest information is that they have not attempted any operations beyond the environs of Enzelion, the Caspian Sea coast of Persia."

Asks League to Intervent.

London, June4.—Demands that the League of Nations intervent in Persia, recently presented by Prince Foruz, Foreign Minister of that country, will be considered by the council of the league at a meeting to be held soon in London, according to announcement here.

The Elections in Germany Marked By Much Violence

Independent Socialists Determined to Win by Any Means

THE OPPONENTS MALTREATED

If Elections Do Not Give Majority They Will Fight for Power.

Berlin, June 4.—The election campaign in the provinces continues with much violence. There is frequent fighting at the meetings of the various candidates.

At Darmstadt Wednesday a people's party meeting had just commenced when Independent Socialist supporters dropped chairs from the gallery on the people below and turned on the hose on those in the hall, bringing the meeting to an abrupt end.

A meeting with similar scenes occurred in Pomerania.

THREATEN OPPONENTS WITH REVOLVERS

London, June 4.—Ever-growing excitement marks the election campaign in Germany, which ends on June 6. Independent Socialists report that at a meeting in Mecklenburg the Conservatives, when they could no longer sustain the debate, threatened their opponents with revolvers, and that the Independent Socialists and their supporters escaped being killed only by the intervention of the Majority Socialists, according to a Berlin despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co.

Complaint is made to the German Ministry of Home Affairs, the despatch states, by the German national land union of Hesse that its meetings are systematically broken up, its candidates maltreated and its followers assaulted. Independent Socialists are reported to make no secret of the fact that, should the election result fail to reach their expectations, they will not submit to the new parliament. Herr Koelitz, the widely known Independent Socialist leader, declared recently at a meeting in Berlin that in case the new parliament does not show a majority for the Radical Left, the Independent Socialists will seize power by violent means. Herr Daumig, another leader of the party, has declared every member of the organization must understand that street fighting is unavoidable.

"If the elections," he added, "do not give us our right, we will seize it by our might."

SPIRITUAL HEALER HIMSELF STRICKEN

Dr. Hyslop published an article in 1918 announcing his conviction that spirits could cure physical ailments. He named his two daughters as having been benfitted by spiritual healing. Among the ailments he then said spirits had been the agents in curing were tyyphoid, deafness and bronchial trouble.

USE AIRPLANES FOR PURSUIT OF BANDITS

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York, June 4.—Just after having been taunted by "Nicky" Arnstein, long hunted in connection with New York's $5,000,000 bond theft plot, when he returned to Manhattan in his wife's automobile under the very noses of the city's 11,000 police occupied with their annual parade, the department yesterday announced an airplane "bandit pursuit" demonstration for next Sunday.

In this programme a car containing a perfectly safe and reliable "bandit" will rush out of town along a prearranged route from Riverside Drive to Broadway to the Polo Grounds and the open stretches beyond.

Ask Them to Support the Irish Position by Refusing to Handle Munitions

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, June 4.—David Lloyd-George, the Premier, yesterday received a deputation of the National Union of Railwaymen with reference to the movement of munitions to Ireland, says the London Times today.

The Times asserts that after the railwaymen put their case before the Premier, Mr. Lloyd-George made a forcible statement, declaring that the Government would do all in its power to maintain law and order and that the railwaymen seemed to be somewhat surprised by the uncompromising nature of the Premier's reply.

Asks Support from English Labor.

Dublin, June 4.—The strike committee in Dublin yesterday issued a manifesto to the workers in Great Britain asking them to support the Irish position by refusing to handle munitions destined for Ireland. The manifesto referred to the attitude of the labor leaders in England against the handling of munitions for Poland and declared that the action of Irish labor on the matter was justifiable.

"Strip your minds of the religious and political aspects of this question," says the manifesto, "and face it in the same light you did when you landed on the shores of France to fight the Prussian there."

De Valera is Gong West.

New York, June 4.—Eamonn De Valera, "president of the Irish republic," yesterday gave up his apartments in the Waldorf Astoria Hotel and departed for the west. For the first time since he made his headquarters at the hotel a year ago, no arrangements have been made for his return.

De Valera plans to be in Chicago on the eve of the Republican national convention. Some of his friends here reported that after leaving Chicago he planned to go to San Francisco, meet Archbishop Mannix, of Australia, there and proceed with him to Rome, but his advisers refuse to discuss the report.

The report recommended an increase from the present rate of 50,885 cubic feet a second to 120,000 cubic feet.

Sinn Feiners Secure Control Of County Tyrone in Elections

They Have Also Maintained Their Ascendancy in County Fermanagh—Keen Interest Has Been Taken in Elections Because Both Counties Are in Ulster Area

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Belfast, June 4—As a result of county and district county elections, the Sinn Fein-Nationalist alliance has secured control in County Tyrone for the first time. In addition, it has maintained its hold on County Fermanagh by a majority of 559.

Keenest interest was taken in these elections, because both counties are included within the Ulster area outlined in the Irish bill now before the Irish parliament. Various election tricks were revived, one woman disguising herself and voting as her own mother. Another woman is said to have voted seven times. The feature of the elections generally in northern Ireland was the ascendancy gained by the Sinn Feiners over the followers of Redmond.

JOHN R. DUNN IS DEAD AT GAGETOWN

One of the Best Known Barristers of Province Succumbs to Heart Failure

Gagetown, June 3.—John R. Dunn, one of the best known barristers of the province, was found dead in his office last evening by his friend, Frederick N. O'Neill. His death, which was attributed by Dr. Jenkins to heart failure, was a severe shock to his hosts of friends throughout the province.

Death was presumed to have overtakn him suddenly, for he had not been in his office more than five minutes when Mr. O'Neill called to arrange for both to attend the funeral of a mutual friend.

The late Mr. Dunn graduated with honors from the University of New Brunswick in 1884 and after studying law in the office of James Currey, St. John, was admitted to the bar in 1888 and practiced in this city for some time, later removing to Gagetown, where he remained until his death.

During his life, no public gathering was considered complete without the presence of John R. Dunn, a public spirited gentleman who had the confidence of a very wide acquaintance. As high sheriff of Queens county, he served for many years in administering the justice of his district. Last year he resigned the office of clerk of the peace for Queens county, a post which he held for many years with honor and distinction.

Mr. Dunn, who was in his sixtieth year, is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Saron Babbitt; one daughter, Mrs. Frank Farley, of Florenceville, N. B.; and three sons, D. F., manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce branch at Canora, Sask.; Benjamin R., also of Canora, and Frank, of the Bank of Nova Scotia branch at Halifax. One brother, Frank Dunn, of Houlton, also survives him.

The funeral will be held from his late residence tomorrow afternoon to the St. John church.

ORGANIZE STANLEY FOR PLEBISCITE

Secretary of N. B. Temperance Alliance Addressed Meeting on Monday Last

Stanley, N. B., June 3.—A meeting was held in Stanley on Monday, under the auspices of the Temperance Alliance, on the plebiscite on the Prohibition Act.

Rev. F. E. Boothroyd, secretary of the Alliance, spoke explaining the act and circumstances connected with the taking of the vote. Referring to the present importation of intoxicants for general use, it was pointed out that the Provincial Government could not prohibit that, as it came under federal jurisdiction. What was necessary was for the local House of Assembly to pass a resolution requesting the Dominion Government to arrange for a plebiscite on the question of importation. The local House had, at its last session, refused to do this, giving as a reason that the people should first pass on the Prohibition Act. If the vote is in favor of the latter the provincial authorities would probably pass such a request at the next session. Meantime, of course, personal importation from Quebec could not be prevented.

The general benefit of the act, especially during the time that the Dominion war-time order in council prohibting importation was in force, was dwelt upon.

After the address a branch of the Alliance for the district was organized with the following officers: President, Rev. R. A. Robinson; vice-president, Thomas Boulter; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Arthur Pringle, with the local ministers and a dozen other members on the executive.

England Was Sentenced To Four Years in Penitentiary For Uttering "Forged Pers"

Jury Found Him Guilty of Uttering Two Forged "Pers" But Not Guilty of Forging Them, and Judge Chandler's Sentence Was Two Years on Each Count

A. W. England, of Boston, who went overseas with the McLean Highlanders and since being invalided back from England has spent most of his time in military hospital here, was yesterday sentenced by Mr. Justice Chandler to spend four years in the Maritime Penitentiary or Dorchester, having been found guilty on two counts of uttering prescriptions for liquor bearing the forged signature of Dr. George W. Bailey, of Fredericton Junction.

On the two counts charging the accused with having forged the prescriptions, the jury failed to find the accused guilty. In passing sentence His Honor stated that he had to take steps to see that the public were protected from such men going around the country forging documents, and he sentenced him to two terms of two years each in the penitentiary for uttering prescriptions to Elbridge Hunter and Ernest McKay.

The case, which was begun before Justice Chandler on Tuesday afternoon, was continued on Wednesday, when it was adjourned until Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock for the Judge's charge to the jury. On Wednesday evening the jury brought in a verdict of guilty on the two counts of the indictment for uttering the forged prescriptions, but found the prisoner not guilty on the two charges of forgery. Justice Chandler then reserved sentence until yesterday morning.

Wednesday Afternoon Session.

The witnesses called on Wednesday afternoon were Dr. G. M. Bailey, of Fredericton Junction, Jack Belyea, of this city, Elbridge Hunter, of Bloomfield, and Judson Hinchey, of Parker's Ridge, for the prosecution. Mrs. Hattie Lindsay, proprietress of the Waverley Hotel, Mrs. Alice Howland and Edgar Robinson for the defence.

Dr. G. M. Bailey, of Fredericton Junction, denied having written the "prescriptions" produced, stating that they were not in his handwriting.

Jack Belyea, clerk in a local drug store, testified, under examination by Allison McKay, that he had filled a prescription signed by Dr. G. W. Bailey for 24 ounces of whiskey made out to Ernest McKay. To C. D. Richards, under cross-examination, he said that when the "prescription" was presented he had taken the usual precautions, but when a second prescription was presented to him calling for 48 ounces of whiskey for Elbridge Hunter and signed by Dr. Bailey, he could not recollect what had transpired or who had presented the prescription.

Elbridge Hunter, of Bloomfield, was then called. He stated that on the morning of March 9th he had received a paper from Ernest McKay and had later received a bottle of whiskey from him, for which he paid $4.50. He left the city that evening and took the bottle with him. Hinchey was with him at the time, but he could not tell whether or not Hinchey had received any whiskey from McKay. He saw England on the 19th of March at the Waverley Hotel in his room. While there he heard one man, Hinchey, ask him for a prescription, and England answered him by asking what Hinchey thought he was. On the morning of the 19th he heard McKay ask him for a prescription, and England told him he was not writing them. To C. D. Richards, Hunter stated he did not know where McKay obtained the prescription.

Judson Hinchey, of Harper's Ridge, was then called and stated he gave Ernest McKay $5 on March 19th for a bottle of whiskey. He had seen England on the 17th at the Waverley Hotel in his room there and had asked him for a "per." England said he might get him one, and left the room. Returning in a few minutes, he handed him a "per," which Hinchey handed to John Urquhart, who was in the room at the time, and Urquhart went out and got the prescription filled, getting two bottles of whiskey, which were opened there. To Mr. Richards Hinchey stated he had been informed that England would get him a "per."

Asked for Dismissal.

This closed the case for the prosecution, and Mr. Richards then moved that the case be dismissed on the ground that there was not sufficient evidence in corroboration with that of Ernest McKay to convict the accused; also that McKay's evidence was not of the character which implicated the accused. He argued that there was no direct evidence produced to show that England had written the prescriptions or to show that the prescriptions had been uttered to England's knowledge.

Justice Chandler stated that he could not take the case out of the hands of the jury as he thought there was some corroboration of McKay's evidence.

The Defence's Case.

Mr. Richards then addressed the jury, stating that four separate charges were laid against the accused, respecting the forging and uttering of the two forged prescriptions as if they were genuine.

Mrs. Hattie Lindsay, proprietress of the Waverley Hotel, was then called and examined by Mr. Richards. She recognized the accused and stated that he was ont at the hotel until 5 o'clock in the afternoon of March 18th. He went away on the morning of the 17th of March and was away until 5 o'clock in the afternoon of the next day. On the evening of the 17th his room was occupied by Edgar Robinson and another man.

To Mr. McKay, for the crown, Mrs Lindsay stated that England had "helped out" during the sickness of her husband and later he was employed as clerk at the hotel, receiving a salary of $2.50 a day and his board.

Mrs. Alice Howlnd, chambermaid at the Waverley Hotel, was then called to the stand. She stated, when questioned by Mr. Richards, that England was not at the hotel on the day of March 18th. During the evening of the 17th the room was occupied by Edgar Robinson and a friend of his. She recognized Ernest McKay and said she remembered seeing him around the hotel on the day of May 18th.

Edgar Robinson, of Blissfield, Northumberland county, locomotive fireman on the C. N. R., was then called. He stated he had occupied room No. 27 in the Waverley Hotel on the evening of March 17th. A man named Woods was also in the same room over night. He did not see England at the hotel on the 18th of March until about 6 o'clock at night. The hotel register was produced in court and Robinson was called upon to identify his own signature.

Addresses by Counsel.

This finished the evidence and Mr. Richards then addressed the jury. He stated that the charge was a very serious one, and it was left to the jury to decide whether the facts brought out in the evidence by the prosecution were in bearing with the charge or not. He asked the jury to consider the demeanor of the "star" witness for the prosecution, Ernest McKay, and make their decision concerning his evidence. The charge in the indictment named March 18th, and witnesses had been produced whose evidence proved that England had not been at the Waverley Hotel until after five o'clock in the afternoon of that day. Again, there was no direct evidence that England had written the prescriptions, and the evidence of Ernest McKay was not corroborated by that of the other witnesses for the prosecution.

Allison McKay, in summing up for the crown, stated that the evidence of Hunter and Hinchey corroborated that of McKay, and that it was the duty of the jury to consider the evidence brought out concerning prescriptions on the 17th and 19th of March as corroborative evidence.

Judge's Charge to Jury.

At eight o'clock the court was resumed. Mr. Justice Chandler in charging the jury stated that the indictment included four charges: First, that England forged the Hunter prescription for 48 ounces of whiskey; second, that he forged the McKay prescription for 24 ounces of whiskey; third, for uttering the Hunter prescription; and fourth, for uttering the McKay prescription. His honor then dealt with the crime of forgery, showing that it was the issuing of a false document for use as genuine. Uttering a false document for use as genuine, he stated, was an indictable offence. The documents in evidence which the accused was charged with forging were the two prescriptions with Dr. G. W. Bailey's name signed to them. If the jury believed Dr. Bailey's evidence they would be quite justified in starting with the two forged documents. Then there was the fact that they were uttered, if they believed Belyea's evidence. The question as to who forged the documents was for the crown to prove. England was charged with the offence, but, if a doubt were felt that the prisoner had forged them, the jury should acquit him.

Justice Chandler reviewed the evidence, stating that there were always discrepancies concerning dates and other facts, and whether McKay was telling the truth or not was for the jury to decide. His honor pointed out that McKay, while he said he obtained the prescription on the 18th of March, stated that it was just previous to the time when Hunter and Hinchey left, and His Honor pointed out that it would be an easy matter to have mixed the date.

There was sufficient corroboration required in the charge to cause the evidence to be accepted and acted upon, he said, and if the jury believed McKay's evidence, he thought there was sufficient evidence to corroborate it; but it was left to the jury to decide as to the truthfulness of McKay's evidence. As to whether England wrote the document made out for McKay's benefit or not, was a matter for their decision. In the second case Hunter had described how he had come into possession of the document.

The defence, he stated, had sought to establish the fact that he was not in the hotel building at the time the indictment names the offence as taking place. Mrs. Lindsay, the proprietress of the hotel, stated she did not see England around the hotel on the night of the 17th or the morning and afternoon of the 18th. Mrs. Howland, the chambermaid, also gave evidence that she did not see England during that time. In spite of the fact that the evidence was in some places indefinite it had to be considered just the same.

His Honor urged the jury to find out who forged the documents and asked them to give the matter their deepest consideration. The practice of forgery was a dangerous one and it was for the public good to see that the practice was stopped.

In answer to a question by Juror S. L. Morrison as to whether in case the jury found the prisoner guilty of forging the prescriptions on the 19th of March instead of the 18th they would be justified in finding him guilty of the offence, Mr. Justice Chandler stated he thought it was for them in that case to bring in a verdict of guilty.

Mr. Richards stated that he disagreed with His Honor's judgment on the question of the juror.

Jury Went Out Twice.

The jury then went out and after twenty minutes they came in again and Stewart L. Morrison, their foreman, stated that they had agreed on one count of the indictment but had disagreed on the other three. Mr. Justice Chandler told them not to mention the one count referred to, but to go out again and try and bring in a unanimous verdict. After remaining out over an hour the jury came in again and Foreman Morrison announced they found the prisoner not guilty on the first two charges of the indictment and guilty on the last two. They commended the prisoner to the clemency of the Court.

Justice Chandler stated that he would pass sentence on Wednesday morning at ten o'clock and dismissed the jury, after which Court was adjourned and the prisoner was remanded to jail.

On Thursday morning Court was resumed but before sentence was given Mr. Richards, for the defendant, argued that the remarks of Hunter and Hinchey relative to their getting "pers" from McKay should not have been admitted in evidence. He also stated that the hotel register showing the dates of England's occupancy of Room 27 in the Waverly Hotel should not have been admitted in evidence, but His Honor stated that Mr. Richards had not at the time opposed it being entered in evidence. Mr. Richards also stated that the answer to the question by a juror as to whether or not the jury could bring in a verdict of guilty in case they found England guilty of forgery on another date from that set in the indictment by the Grand Jury, should not have been included in the charge to the Jury.

Mr. Justice Chandler then pronounced his verdict and the prisoner was visibly surprised and affected by its severity, having been confident at first of acquittal and later of receiving a jail sentence of a few months.

RIGHT TO QUIT.

Mr. Gompers' recent justification of strikes, if accepted at its face value, would justify any conceivable cessation of work, not excluding the extreme case of the laborers who, in the modern parable, concertedly quit work at such a moment as to drop a girder on the boss below. He claimed for labor the unqualified, paramount right to refrain from work, a doctrine new in the preachings of Gompers, who is one of the ablest of labor leaders. This includes the right to concert walkouts for the direct purpose of damaging the employer or the public.

This is a most dangerous doctrine, since it must lead eventually to one of two further inroads on our social organization. In the first place, we will suppose that Mr. Gompers based the right to strike upon the general liberty of the freeman. Such liberty would absolve all men from performing any involuntary tasks. It would therefore apply to other men as well as to wage earners. It would apply to the employers of labor, the owners of business. It would assure them the right to abstain from producing goods, however essential to the public, save at such prices as it cared to enforce.

Add to this, however, the power of concerted shutdown, identical with the power of concerted walkout asserted for labor, and you erect capital into a menace capable of dictating to the public absolutely what it may have and what it must pay. This menace, and the twin menace of equally unbridled labor, would not long waste time fighting each other. They would immediately amalgamate for the common purpose of throttling all competition, starving all opposition, gathering all the fruits of the nation.

Now let us suppose that Mr. Gompers based the right to strike on an especial privilege of the laboring class. They alone, according to such a view, have the right to effect in the concerted refusal to work that which becomes conspiracy when done by others: criminal boycott if by the consumers, criminal restraint of trade, cornering or monopoly if by the producers. The one class thus specially favored, thus made immune from the restrictions put upon general human liberty, will quite logically look upon itself as more exalted than ordinary humanity, since its contribution to the human fund of acquisition, hired service, ranks it above the classes of men that contribute other things.

But, obviously, in presence of this more exalted class, none of our fundamental ideas of individual equality can stand unscathed. If organized labor is veritably a superior caste, the man who would oppose any extension of its interests, at whatever detriment to his own inferior lot, offends and deserves suppression.

We do not attempt to settle which of these two necessary alternatives underlying the Gompers theory of a paramount right to strike the more completely collides with the theory of a free country and the successful conduct of a free country.

CAMPAIGN FUND OF GEN. WOOD.

The disclosure of campaign expenditures by candidates for Presidential nomination in the United States is causing the usual flash in the pan denunciation. Hypocrisy, says the Montreal Gazette, is not yet dead. Smug-faced Pharisees will roll their eyes and hold up hands in horror at the political depravity revealed in a contribution of $1,200,000 towards the candidacy of General Wood, and of lesser sums in aid of other aspirants, and a deal of nonsense will be written and spoken about slush funds to destroy the rectitude of free and independent electors; and to corrupt the conscience of the people. There is nothing necessarily immoral in a campaign fund. All depends on the uses to which it is put. The money raised to promote General Wood's candidature before the primaries was not employed in corrupting voters, and there is not a tittle of evidence to show that a dollar has been improperly expended. The United States is a pretty big constituency to canvass, and when the Wood managers set out to cover the whole country they knew that a lot of money would be necessary for this purpose. So the hat was passed around among his friends, and $358,000 collected from wealthy Republicans who esteemed the General the most desirable of the party aspirants. The balance of the fund, $821,000, was borrowed. How was this considerable sum spent? State organizations cost $433,000; speakers, travelling expenses, printing, billboards, and telegraph absorbed $377,000; and newspaper advertising accounted for $204,000. These are all legitimate expenditures. Per se they give no ground for reproach. Nowadays all great movements use identical means to effect their purpose. Victory bonds, Liberty bonds, Patriotic Fund, and Church Forward campaigns are all engineered with money, by the use of speakers, advertising columns of newspapers, posters, and a large clerical staff. What is the objection to the friends of a presidential candidate doing likewise voluntarily and in sincere conviction that they are performing a patriotic act? In Canada, members of the Farmers' Party hand over their dollars to promote their cause, and very reasonably became indignant when they construed the new Franchise Act as forbidding such subscriptions.

The truth is General Wood happened to have more friends willing to aid him than had the other candidates, and the feigned righteousness of his opponents springs from no loftier motive than jealousy. One line of distinction, and one only, is properly to be drawn, that between legitimate and illegitimate expenditure. The purchase of votes cannot be too severely punished, nor any of the devices by which elections are corruptly won. But propaganda, publicity, platform persuasion are as proper as they are desirable in electoral campaigns. There cannot be too much education of the people upon political questions; nothing can well be more harmful than an uninformed electorate. General Wood's friends may have vainly spent a million and a quarter dollars in his cause, but they have made him and his platform better known than otherwise would be possible; and in that there is no offence.

THE ST. JOHN BYE-ELECTION.

There were reasons for the belief that Hon. Dr. Roberts would not be opposed in the St. John bye-election, notwithstanding the fact that important principles of policy were at stake. It was, in fact, quite generally assumed, when the bill was brought down fixing a salary for the Minister of Health, that the Premier was sure of the ground upon which he was operating. It is useless to deny that, from the party standpoint, Premier Foster and Dr. Roberts have scored, and scored easily. There is now no party reason why the writ should not be issued for Carleton county.

BUSINESS ACQUAINTANCES.

Returning German economic delegates tell the Zeitung am Mittag that they found French leaders free from the rabid hate which for some reason the Teuton believes the folk across the Rhine feel toward him. The French never cultivated antagonism of the forced-growth, hothouse variety produced in the various displays of German hate. Circumstances have worked lately to reduce in their breasts the impulses of malignant and of unreasoning bitterness inevitably prevalent among those who have borne overwhelming agony and wrong.

Even the fact that Germany escapes materially unscathed, while France has been materially crushed, aids the peaceable impulse rather more than the defiant one. Where one Frenchman may cry out that Germany, her great mechanisms of production unscathed, has virtually won the war, two Frenchmen will reply that only a Germany able to produce amply can make good the losses which France expects thus to retrieve.

Moreover, the two countries lie as close together as ever—closer, with the stupid barrier of a topsy-turvy Alsace-Lorraine set right again. Like two creatures confined in one compartment, the neighbor nations must either fight or enter into a mutual life. The French cannot long sit fixed in passive aversion. So they do the natural thing and prepare to treat their unwelcome but necessary neighbors, not as friends indeed, but as important business acquaintances.

Unless upset by disappointment in the coming conferences to fix the mode of making the German amends, this feeling among the French should grow. Eventually, in spite of the Teutons' bad conscience, it should draw forth a sincere reciprocal feeling in Germany.

ONLY MINISTERS TO ACCEPT SACRIFICE

Budapest, June 3.—General Soos, at the last moment, declined the unpopular mandate to sign the peace treaty.

Mrs. Charles Belyea and Miss Ida Belyea, of St. John, spent the holiday in South Devon, the guests of Mrs. J. J. Matthews and Mrs. Wilfrid Pickard.

Dr. G. G. Melvin, chief medical officer, returned last night from St. John.

Government Taxes and Other Causes Make Additional Increase in Rates

St. John, June 4.—It developed yesterday at a hearing given by the New Brunswick board of commissioners of public utilities, in the Provincial Government rooms, on the application of the New Brunswick Telephone Co., for authority to increase rates and reclassify the exchanges, that the company's requirements financially will be somewhat greater than estimated by Samuel H. Mildram, of Boston, the commission's expert accountant and consulting engineer, in his report on the corporation's affairs submitted early in the spring. At yesterday's session of the board, which was largely taken up by various counsil questioning Mr. Mildram, the latter said he had not allowed for a general advance in the wages of the company's employees, which apparently would have to be made in the near future nor for a public utilities tax imposed at the last session of the Legislature. There would also be some increase in insurance rates. The increases bring the additional new revenue required up to $300,000.

Mr. Mildram informed the meeting that he estimated the company was losing about $20,000 a year in its pay station department by free telephoning, that is by reason of large numbers of people borrowing the use of subscrigers' telephones for calls, for which service no return is given. The "borrowing" habit was prevalent throughout the province.

It was also brought out at the hearing that the company had been unable through scarcity of labor and materials during the war years, to make greatly needed renewals and to engage in much necessary new construction, although the company had a fund for this purpose. Since that period labor and materials had vastly increased, and the fund would not go much more than half as far now as it would have gone then.

The chairman, A. B. Connell, K.C., of Woodstock, opened the session at 2.30 o'clock. Among those present, besides the commissioner, were: Colonel Frank B. Black, of Sackville, president; H. P. Robinson, managing director; O. J. Fraser, superintendent; Hon. J. B. M. Baxter and Peter J. Hughes, of Fredericton, counsel for the company; M. G. Teed, K.C., reprepresenting Retail Merchants' Association; E. C. Weyman, the Wholesale Grocers' Guild; Mayor W. D. Turner, of Sussex; Warden Keith, of Westmorland; Councillor Gaskin, of Coverdale, Albert county; Alderman H. M. Lambert, of Sunny Brae, and Alban McIntyre, of Sackville.

DOZEN INJURED IN WRECK OF TRAIN

The St. John-Boston Night Express Derailed Near North Lincoln, Maine

St. John, June 4.—When yesterday afternoon's train from Boston arrived fuller particulars of the derailment of the St. John-Boston night express, early Wednesday morning, about one mile west of North Lincoln, Me., on the Maine Central railroad, were received. The details were not available before as trains were sent around the wreck by way of Greenville Junction and were, therefore, not near the scene of the accident. It develops that more than a dozen persons were injured, including Angus McEachern, of Chatham, who sustained a fracture of one rib and some bruises. Mr. McEachern is doing well at the Eastern Maine General Public Hospital in Bangor.

Leo Willett, of Fort Kent., Me., a village oposite Clair, Madawaska county, was bruised and his neck was severely twisted.

James S. Upton, of Brewer, Me., opposite Bangor, railway express messenger of the American Exuress Co., received lacerations and bruises on his arms and a side scalp wound.

Frank L. Fletcher, of Bangor, Maine Central baggage master, was cut and bruised among the tumbling baggage and was severely shaken up. These four were taken to the Eastern Maine Hospital, but Mr. Fletcher was able to be taken to his home yesterday.

A dozen passengers were bruised and shaken up, but no one is in a serious condition.

The Stock Market

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York (Wall Street), June 4.—The usual irregular price changes were recorded at the opening of today's stock market. Indications pointed to another uneventful session. Baldwin Locomotive, Crucible Steel, Atlantic Coast Line and International Paper were conspicuous for their one point gains, while American Woollen represented the reactionary issues at a two point decline. Oils and coppers were inclined to waiver with food issues. More uncertain tendencies developed within the first half hour.

THE LIGHTER SIDE OF LIFE

Not Her Fault.

The young bride, after serving to her husband a dinner that was so so said, as the dessert of mince pie was brought on: "I intended, dear, to have some sponge cake, too, but it was a total failure."

"How was that?" the husband asked, in a disappointed tone, for he was fond of sponge cake.

"The druggist," she explained, "sent me the wrong kind of sponges."

Progress.

"So you are having your house redecorated?"

"Yes."

"How are you getting along?"

"Fine. The painters and paperhangers worked a full day last week."

FROM THE PEOPLE

MANY LANGUAGES NEEDED

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I read with a great deal of interest an article that appeared in the People's Column concerning Hebrew as a universal language. The writer is rather rash in her innocent statement that "Hebrew is studied and spoken by scholars and the clergy throughout the world." Hebrew is studied, to be sure, but spoken, never! It is purely a language of a literature of an ancient age, generally studied as a means to an understanding of that literature, but not as an end, usually.

And wherein lies the practicability of Hebrew as a universal language? It is a tongue spoken by a very small number of people of a particular religion. Would it not be simpler and wiser to choose a language that is spoken and understood by the greater number of mortals? Besides I ask wherein lie the "richness and sublimity of expression" of Hebrew? How are these possible in a language that has but two tenses, two modes and a very limited vocabulary? In a word, Hebrew is a very primitive language, incapable of nice distinctions and shades of meaning, inadequate for the conversation, business and literature of our modern complex civilization.

If a universal language is really desirable, one famous for its richness and sublimity, what language can be more wisely advocated than the Greek of the classical age? But classical Greek also has exactly the same disadvantages as Hebrew: it is studied by many, understood by some, spoken by few.

But as a matter of fact I fail to see the advantages of a universal language. Let us grant, for the sake of argument, that such exists. Do the laws of natural evolution find a place in the growth of a language? All languages, ancient and modern, provide enough evidence to prove their operation in this sphere of activity also. Why are there such things as irregular verbs? We also have the further statement of archaeologists and philologists, who denies their authority in their own particular sphere? Will not climate, environments, customs, national inspirations and the like give expression to themselves in this assumed universal language? This fact would necessarily give rise to idioms, provincialisms, colloquialisms and irregularities, which, in time, by natural growth, become bases for new and distinct languages.

The experiment would probably prove the necessity of the existence of many languages and would also wonderfuly demonstrate the truth of the hypothesis of Variation of Species in evolution, natural as well as philological. Why, then, worry about such a trifle? Yours,

READER.

WEAR DECORATIONS, NO MONUMENTS

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I was reading in the paper about some of our cousins from across the line wondering what Canada had done in the great war, because they did not see any monuments or anything to show for it. Well, I would like to suggest through your paper that men in uniform, such as firemen, postmen, railway men, etc., be requested to wear their ribbon decorations, and then the people from across the line would soon see what we had done. Wishing your paper every success, Yours,

CANADIAN.

P. McGINN DEAD

Well Known Citizen Passed Away on Wednesday at Age of 89 Years.

Patrick McGinn, one of the oldest best known and most highly respected men of the city, passed away on Wednesday at his home on King street at the age of 89 years.

Mr. McGinn was born in Tyrone, Ireland 89 years ago, and when 13 years of age with his parents came to Canada and since that time made his home in this city. He conducted McGinn's wagon works on King street until failing health a few years ago forced him to retire. He was a man noted for his honesty and integrity, and his word was as good as a bond. He was active in the welfare of the city and his death while not unexpected, will be learned of with sincere regret.

Mr. McGinn is survived by four sons, Edward, Walter, John and Charles, and three daughter, Mrs. W. E. Seery, of this city, Mrs. Simon Gallagher, of Bath, N. B., and Mrs. E. A. O'Brien, of Saskatoon. His wife predeceased him about ten years.

The funeral took place this afternoon at 2.15 o'clock from his late home on King street and was very largely attended. At St. Dunstan's church at 2.30 o'clock Very Rev. F. L. Carney conducted solemn service at which a large congregation was present, and interment was made at the Hermitage.

WEDDINGS.

Weaver-Sutherland.

Boiestown, June 3.—The marriage of Miss Violette Ellen Sutherland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Sutherland, and William Melvin Wheeler, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Weaver, of Blissfield, was solemnized at St. Mary's Roman Catholic church on Wednesday at 7 o'clock, with nuptial mass celebrated by Rev. Father Chaisson. The bride was charmingly gowned in blue satin with georgette and beaded trimmings and a hat of georgette and ostrich plumes. She was attended by Miss Sarah E. Weaver, a cousin of the bride, who was dressed in copenhagen blue georgette with hat to match. The groom, who is a returned soldier, was supported by William H. Holmes.

After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the McKay Hotel, where a dainty wedding breakfast was served. Mr. and Mrs. Weaver then left for Calais, Me., where they will spend their honeymoon with the groom's sister. Going away the bride wore a travelling suit of navy blue with hat to match.

A simple dessert may be made of grape ice.

THE FRENCH MINERS STRIKE WAS COSTLY

40,000,000 Lost in Wages, While Coal Production Was Lowered 800,000 Tons

Paris, June 3. — The miners of France, who have been on strike intermittently for several months and recently supported the railwaymen in their strike for nationalization of the roads, are now reported to be all at work.

It is computed that the 120,000 miners affected lost wages totalling 40,000,000 francs, and caused a loss in production of nearly 800,000 tons of coal, which must be replaced by imports. It is also pointed out that production will be lessened another month because of the long idleness of the miners and their will be a further economic loss to France in sending money out of the country for imported coal.

Never a corn on millions of feet nowadays

Do you know that millions of people who use Blue-jay keep entirely free from corns?

If a corn appears it is ended by a touch. A Blue-jay plaster or a drop of liquid Blue-jay is applied.

The corn pain stops. Soon the whole corn loosens and comes out.

The method is scientific. It is gentle, easy, sure. Old-time harsh treatments are supplanted by it with everyone who knows it.

It is made by a world-famed laboratory, which every physician respects.

It is now applied to some 20 million corns a year. You can see that corn troubles are fast disappearing.

Then why pare corns and keep them? Why use methods which are out-of-date?

Try this new-day method. See what it does to one corn. You will never forget its quick and gentle action. Your druggist sells Blue-jay.

N. B. Telephone Company's Application For Increased Rates Before the Commission

Expert Engaged by Public Utilities Commission to Investigate Company's Position, Reports That Company Needs More Money to Work Efficiently

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

St. John, June 4.—In this morning's session of the hearing of the case of the New Brunswick Telephone Co. in connection with their application for increased rates before the Public Utilities Commission, Samuel H. Mildram, the expert engaged by the Commission to investigate the Company's financial position, said that in his opinion the Company was entitled to considerable more revenue to carry out their work efficiently. He considered that an additional revenue of $212,000 was reasonable at the time of his investigation, but since that he had been advised that a further increase would be necessary, bringing the amount up to the vicinity of $300,000.

O. J. Fraser, General Superintendent of the Company, said that since Mr. Mildram's report had been made the Company had become liable for $6,000 additional taxes; $3,300 additional insurance premiums; the investigation would cost them $7,500, and increase in wages and additional staff would amount to $86,000, a total increase of $96,800 above the figures submitted by Mr. Mildram, or a total increased revenue of $309,186. This would be 41.7 per cent. increase over the revenue of last year.

The Amount of Depreciation.

In reply to E. C. Weyman, Mr. Mildram said that he was of the opinion that the $831,000 depreciation amount included in his report would have been sufficient to replace the worn out portions of the plant at the time they became necessary, but he was in doubt if that amount would cover the cost today.

The amount of $550,800, figured as operating expenses for the year, was based on the expenses for the nine months. He said that the figures presented at the annual meeting held recently were almost the same as his estimate.

Mr. Teed read from the auditor's report that the gross revenue of the company for the year 1919-20 was $740,808.35, expenses and depreciation was $615,556.05, leaving net revenue of $125,252.30. He quoted from the 1911 finding of Dr. Hayes, who put the replacement values of the total plant and equipment at $1,613,628.03 and deducting an amount for estimated depreciation he placed the plant value at $1,219,392, whereas the company's book values figured by Mr. Mildram was $1,164,737.10, or some $65,000 less. Mr. Mildram said he did not consider that land depreciates.

H. P. Robinson said that depreciation had always been figured on the book values. He said he did not think $104,000 depreciation should be deducted. He said there was no water in the stock and they should get their total 8 per cent. return.

Mr. Baxter pointed out that the Hayes investigation was to ascertain if money invested in the company had been diverted to improper purposes, or, in other words, to ascertain that the amount invested was represented in stock values.

The chairman was of the opinion that the investigation was to ascertain the depreciated value at that time.

Mr. Baxter said that depreciation must be figured on the original cost.

Mr. Teed said he resented this remark. He said the board in 1911 allowed eight per cent. on the plant values as determined by Dr. Hammond. The original cost could not be ascertained as the figures were noto available.

A Dual Standard of Morality.

During the discussion Mr. Robinson said there seemed to be a dual standard of morality nowadays, one for wholesale grocers, allowing 30 or 40 per cent., and one for the public utility service. He said that the Telephone Company could not be classed as profiteers. "I'll have some of your friends investigated," he said to Mr. Weyman.

Mr. Mildram said it was his opinion that the Company was entitled to considerable more money to carry on and he would leave it to the commission to determine the amount.

In reply to Mr. Baxter, Mr. Mildram said that the suggested requirements of $212,000 were reasonable at the time his investigation was made. Since that he had compared their wage schedule with other adjacent companies and found them lower than the others. He said the Company would have to pay higher wages to take on addtional staff in order to maintain an efficient service. He repeated that the company would require in the vicinity of $300,000 more revenue, instead of $212,000 as first applied for.

The meeting adjourned until 2.30 p. m.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE AUTOMOBILE PARTY

Car Backed Over a 20 Foot Embankment and No One Injured

[Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.]

Newcastle, June 4. — A miraculous escape from serious injury or even death was recorded here on Monday when a car driven by Walter Amy with Mrs. Amy and two children and Mrs. C. C. Hubbard as passengers backed over the bank at Lower Mill Cove and made a drop of about twenty feet into the brook below. Mr. Amy was unable to make the grade on the lower side of the hill and was backing up for a start, when the car became unmanageable and backed over the bank. Neither car nor occupants suffered a scratch, but needless to say the latter had a very bad scare.

A heavy rain storm which set in on Wednesday evening and continued all night has been a veritable Godsend to the Miramichi. Not only has it produced the necessary moisture for the crops, but it has succeeded in quenching the serious forest fires which have been raging for the past week. The most serious was near Dennis, about 26 miles from Newcastle, where over one hundred men were engaged for over five days and nights trying to extinguish it.

BYE-ELECTION IN CARLETON COUNTY

next week. It is also interesting to recall that when asked about Carleton county at the time the writ was issued for St. John City, a person who is prominently identified with every political move made by the Government stated the second writ would "not be issued at present."

It seems to be expected here that Premier Foster will follow up the advantage which close observers of provincial politics believe he has gained by the return of the Minister of Health by acclamation. Hon. Dr. Roberts will be declared elected next Monday, June 7th, which was the date originally named for the bye-election and afterwards made nomination day.

Lucky Dance Well Patronized.

A happy crowd of holiday makers was present last evening at the dance given by the Ladies Auxiliary of the G. W. V. A. The dance hall presented a very pretty appearance with its trimmings of flags and bunting. The music furnished by the City Orchestra was excellent and the floor was in good shape. Electric fans were used to offset the heat and everybody had a most enjoyable evening. At 10.15 o'clock the lucky dance was announced and only those who held a ticket could participate. Major Mackintosh called the numbers and the lucky ticket was held by James Valentine, who with his partner, Miss Florence Goodine, had to waltze around the dance hall alone. The prizes were a five pound box of chocolates donated by T. V. Monahan, and a necktie given by J. H. Fleming. The extras were played by Mrs. G. C. McCoy and Miss Minna B. Parker and the committee in charge were indefatigable in their efforts to see that everyone had a pleasant evening.

1-20 of Inch of Rain In a Freak Shower

Although only one-twentieth of an inch of rain fell in the shower which drenched Fredericton yesterday afternoon, it was a notable downpour at that. While it rained hard in the city for a short time, there was no rain, to speak of anyway, on Maryland Hill above Frogmore, and there was the same kind of a situation below the city, where some sections escaped. The rain, however, helped the amateur as well as the professional gardeners in the city to an appreciable degree.

METHODISTS IN ANNUAL MEETING

Fredericton District Received 139 New Members During the Year

The Fredericton Methodist District met in annual convention in the Methodist Church in this city on Wednesday last.

Those present at the meeting were Rev. G. M. Young, chairman; Rev. A. D. McCully, of Stanley; Rev. J. B. Young, of Oromocto; Rev. B. W. Turner, of Sheffield Rev. L. H. Jewett, Gagetown; Rev. J. J. Pinkerton, of Marysville; Rev. A. D. McLeod, of Devon; Rev. L. J. Wason, of Grand Lake; Rev. E. A. Westmorland, Rev. William Lawson, of Keswick; Rev. H. T. Smutt and Rev. J. J. Cotter, of this city. The following laymen were also present: J. J. Weddall; W. T. Day, D. S. Moore, Leonard Colwell, W. L. Maxwell, Geo. T. Bradley, Thomas Boulter and J. L. Ward.

The work of the year on the District was passed in careful review, showing a most prosperous and successful year. One hundred and thirty-nine new members had been added to the church and while death and removals reduced the net gain to something less than that, yet there has been a substantial gain.

The Methodist National Campaign had resulted in increased financial gains, not only for that special fund, but in the ordinary revenues of the church. Every minister had received at least the minimum salary of $1,200 with horse keep $150 and free furnished house, and as the minimum salary has been raised to $1,500 for the next year, the ministers will have some encouragement to fight the high cost of living.

The following laymen were elected as members of the annual conference that will meet at Sackville on June 11th:

John J. Weddall, J. E. McNabb, Charles A. Sampson, Walter Johnson, A. C. M. Lawson, George T. Bradley, J. M. Lemont, Thomas Boulter, Mrs. G. M. Young, Robert McDonald, George Dingee, Geo. W. Kimball, with David Moore, William Munroe and Leonard Colwell as alternates.

Rev. A. D. McLeod was elected the representative on the stationing committee, and Rev. J. J. Pinkerton, reserve.

Rev. J. W. Howe, B. A., was recommended for a year's leave of absence.

The connexional funds showed a slight increase, and the members of the District have an optimistic outlook.

The tables were prettily trimmed with flowers and the supper, which consisted of cold meats, salads, breads, cakes, coffee, ice cream and cigarettes, was served by Mrs. W. J. Osborne, Mrs. Havelock Coy, Mrs. Bedford Phillips, Mrs. Harry Robertson, Mrs. J. C. Allen, Mrs. J. Bebbington, Mrs. A. E. Mathewson, Miss McConaghy and Miss Madge Smith. At the conclusion of the supper the boyos gave three hearty cheers for the ladies who gave them such an excellent supper.

Several Changes on Staff Before Fall Term Opens—Medals Presented This Morning at Closing Exercises—Reception This Evening in the Assembly Hall

The closing exercises of the Provincial Normal School took place this morning before a large attendance of visitors including the relatives and friends of the students.

The principal also referred to the work of the past year, stating that the students were on the whole younger than those of any previous year, as the authorities had seen fit to enter them as student teachers at the age of seventeen instead of eighteen in order to fill the demand for teachers throughout the province.

Following the principal's address the following programme was carried out:

Carter, Chief Superintendent of Education, who in presenting the certificate referred to the fact that the number of students in attendance at the Normal School during the past year was within 10 0of the "high water mark" of that institution.

The Governor General's bronze medal for the highest professional standing in Class B. wes presented to Miss Kathleen Wemp of Notre Dame, Kent County, by Dr. C. C. President Covey Allows McLean to be Played in the York Baseball League

Action Taken Pending Decision by Dominion Headquarters on His Reinstatement, But Rain Prevented Baseball Games Here Last Evening

President Covey of the M. P. B. A. A. U. yesterday authorized the appearance of Fred McLean in games of the York County Baseball League "under protest" until such time as a decision is received from the Dominion headquarters at Toronto on his application for reinstatement.

This action followed telephone conversation which commenced as soon as an article declaring local athletes under suspension were being unjustly treated inasmuch as their reinstatements were not being put through as rapidly as those of St. John players. President Covey said that he expected a definite ruling from headquarters at Toronto at an early date, promised to expedite the business all he could and vehemently declared that Fredericton athletes would be given equally as generous treatment as those of St. John or elsewhere.

The ruling of President Covey did not go into effect yesterday, however, as the heavy shower yesterday afternoon made it necessary to call off the holiday games scheduled in the York County League. It may be that the Old Timers Marysville game postponed from yesterday will be played this evening and, if so, McLeon will be on the mound for the local team with Mike McDonald doing the catching. The next scheduled games are on for next Monday evening.

Local athletic interests are said to be prepared, if necessary, to show that local applicants for reinstatement have not violated amateur rules any more than some others who are now performing in the ranks of the "simon pures."—J. D. B.

Babe Ruth Boosts His 1920 Home Run Record to 15

If He Keeps Up Present Gait, Will Make About 62 This Season.

THREE HOMERS IN AFTERNOON

One of Them Was Longest Hit Ever Made on Polo Grounds.

Battering Babe Ruth has jumped his home run record up to fifteen, as compared with three at this stage of the season last year, and if he keeps up his present gait will have 62 home runs at the end of the 1920 season. He made 29 last year.

Ruth hammered out three home runs in the course of a double header with the Washington team at the Polo Grounds in New York on Wednesday afternoon, the Yankees winning the first game by a score of 8 to 1 and losing the second, 7 to 6.

Two of Ruth's homers were made in the first game while in the second he made what is said to have been the longest hit ever seen in a major league game in New York. Incidentally five other players—Meusel and Ruel of the Yankees and Milan Shanks and Roth of the Washington Club—each made a home run apiece, but this did not detract from the lustre of the remarkable performance of the former Boston slugger, who brought his season's total up to 15.

A Busy Day for Ruth.

After drawing three balls and two strikes in the first inning, Ruth slammed the ball into the upper tier of the right field grandstand for a home run, scoring Pipp ahead of him. In the third inning, he drove a line fly to left field which Milan caught after running back almost to the fence. In the fifth inning, he beat out an infield hit and then stole second. He was the first man up in the eighth inning, and drove the second ball pitched into the right field for his 14th home run.

In the second game Ruth was thrown out at first in the first inning. In the third inning he singled to center, scoring Peckinpaugh ahead of him. In the fifth inning with a man on third he was purposely walked. In the eighth he drove out his 15th home run, knocking the ball over the exit gate in the right field bleachers for what is believed to be the longest hit ever made at the Polo Grounds.

At this time last year Ruth had only made three home runs, the fourth coming on June 7th.

SAYS MAGEE BET AGAINST OWN CLUB

Then Helped to "Throw" the Game in Boston, Says Pres. of the Chicago Cubs

Cincinnati, June 3.—That Lee C. Magee, Cincinnati, professional ball player, confessed to William L. Veeck, president of the Chicago National League baseball club, Feb. 10, 1920, that he bet against the Cincinnati Reds in July, 1919, when a member of the Reds, and made "intentional wild throws" and "otherwise" played to cause his team to lose to Boston, is alleged in an amended answer filed in United States District Court today by the Chicago club to Magee's suit for $9,500 alleged to be due as damages for the refusal of the Chicago club to permit him to play with the Chicago team this year.

The amended answer was filed as a result of the ruling of United States District Judge John W. Peck, Saturday ,sustaining in part Magee's motion to require the Chicago club to set forth with definiteness and details its allegations concerning his alleged dishonest ball playing.

The name of Hal Chase, ex-Cincinnati first baseman, also is mentioned in the answer of the club, it being averred that Magee told Veeck that he had conspired with Chase to bet against the Reds. These matters are set out by the club as its third defence to Magee's suit.

The Chicago club asks the court to dismiss Magee's suit. The case is assigned for hearing June 7.

"On said February 10, 1920, the plaintiff told the president, William L. Veeck, of the defendant, in substance, as follows, namely, that he, Magee, had been guilty of dishonest ball playing in that, in Boston, Mass., on or about July 25, 1918, when a member of the Cincinnati National League baseball club, he, Magee, bet $500 that said club would lose the first of two games to be played July 25, 1918, against the Boston National League club at Boston; that he had conspired with another player at that time of the Cincinnati team, one Hal Chase, who bet the same amount, that the Cincinnati team would lose said first game to be played July 25, 1918; that thereupon, he, Magee, did his utmost by intentional wild throws and otherwise to cause said Cincinnati team, of which he was then anad there a member, to lose said game. When said Magee confesed on February 10, 1920, that he had been guilty of dishonest ball playing, as aforesaid, the defendant then for the first time knew positively that such was the case."

Tommy Elms Won From Harry Jones—Billy Parsons Scored a Knockout

Halifax, June 3.—Tommy Elms, of Paterson, N. J., was awarded the decision over Harry Jones, of Halifax, at the G. W. V. A. tourney, in the 15th round tonight. Jones had weight and strength on his opponent, who was more aggressive and excelled in cleverness. It was nip and tuck to the 10th round, but Elms' work in the last two rounds settled any question as to the decision. Willie Belmont, of Boston, was given the decision over Freddie Hoskings, of Montreal, in the sixth round.

Billy Parsons Wins.

Amherst, June 3.—Billy Parsons scored a clean-cut knockout over Alex. Mason, of Sackville, in the fourth round of a scheduled ten round fight. The preliminaries were exceptionally clever. Farnell, of Amherst, had the advantage over Lewis, of Hackville, in four rounds. Irish Ginley, of Halifax, won a newspaper decision over Hull, of Edmonton, a featherweight bout.

EXPLAIN HITTING BY BIG LEAGUERS

Better Construction of the Balls —Cannot Agree on Baseball Head

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York, June 4.—John A. Heydler, President of the National League, and B. B. Johnson, President of the American League, failed at a conference here yesterday to agree on a choice for chairman of the National Commission. It was said unofficially that selection of a successor to Garry Herrmann may not be made for several months.

Considerable time was devoted to a discussion of the playing rules and the heavy hitting which has developed this season in both major leagues. It was stated that the heavy hitting could be attributed to a combination of circumstances, not the least of which is the better construction of the baseball. A better grade of material and winding the spheres is said to have followed the cessation of war and the releasing of wool, rubber and other material used in the balls used by both leagues.

IN DAYS OF TERROR

"Heyday!" said the municipal, "is it because . . ."

"Enter, I tell you, and do not lose sight of her for an instant, a moment, a second."

The municipal entered the Queen's apartment.

"Call the woman Tison," said he to one of the Natoinal Guard.

Five minutes afterwards Tison's wife arrived in high spirits.

"I have seen my daughter," said she.

"Where was that?" demanded Maurice.

"Here, of course, in this ante-chamber."

"Well; and did not your daughter ask to see the Austrian:"

"No."

"Did she not enter the room?"

"No."

"And during the time you were conversing with your daughter, did no one come out of the prisoners' chamber?"

"How should I know? I was fully occupied with my daughter, whom I had not seen for three months."

"Recollect yourself."

"Ah, yes; I think I remember."

"What?"

"The young girl came out."

"Marie Therese?"

"Yes."

"Did she speak to your daughter?"

"No."

"Your daughter restored nothing to her ?"

"No."

"Did she pick up nothing from the ground?"

"My daughter?"

"No the daughter of Marie Antoinette?"

"; he picked up her pocket handkerchief."

"Ah; malheureuse!" cried Maurice. And he rushed towards the string of a bell which he pulled violently. It was an alarm bell.

CHAPTER XI.
The Billet.

The other two municipal guards came up hastily. A detachment of the rost accompanied them. The doors were shut, and two sentinels intercepted the egress from each chamber.

"What do you want, Monsieur?" said the Queen to Maurice, when he entered. "I was retiring to bed, when, five minutes since, the Citizen Municipal suddenly forced his entrance into my chamber, without informing me what he desired."

"Madame," said Maurice, bowing, "it is not my colleague who desires anything from you, it is myself."

"You, Monsieur?" demanded Marie Antoinette, looking at Maurice, whose courteous behavior had inspired her with almost gratitude; "and what do you desire?"

"I request you will be kind enough to show me the letter you were concealing in your pocket when I entered just now."

Madame Royale and Madame Elizabeth trembled. The Queen turned very pale.

"You are mistaken, Monsieur; I concealed nothing."

"You lie, Austrian," cried Agricola.

Maurice quickly paced his hand on the arm of his colleague.

"One moment, my dear colleague,' said he; "leave me to speak to the citoyenne, I am a little bit of a lawyer."

"Go on then, but you will not contrive it; morbleu!"

"You have concealed a letter, citoyenne," said Maurice, austerely; now it is necessary we should see this letter."

"But what letter?"

"The letter that Tison's daughter brought you, and which the citopenne, your daughter" (Maurice alluded to the young princess), "picked up with her pocket handkerchief."

The three females looked at each other with terror.

"But, Monsieur, this is worse than tyranny," said the Queen; "these women! these women!"

"Do not mistake," said Maurice, with firmness; "we are neither judges nor executioners, we are overseers; that is to say, your fellow citizens, commissioned to guard you. We have our order; to violate it is treason. Citizen, I pray you to give me the letter you have concealed."

"Meisseurs," said the Queen, with much hauteur, "since you are overseers, search, and deprive us of our rest tonight as usual.

"God forbid we should lay our hands upon these women. I am now going to inform the commune, and await its orders; but you canot retire to bed, you must sleep upon these fauteuils, if you please, and we must guard you. If necessary, they will search you."

"What is the matter?" said Tison's wife, appearing at the door quite bewildered.

"It is this, citoyenne," said Maurice, "that by lending yourself to treasonable practices, you will debar yourself from seeing your daughter any more."

"From seeing my daughter? What do you tell me, then, citizen," demanded Tison's wife, who could not yet comprehend why she was not to see her daughter.

"I tell you, that your daughter did not come here to see you, but to bring a letter to the Citoyenne Capet; and, therefore, she will return here no more."

"But if she does not come here, I shall not be able to see her, as we are forbidden to go out."

"This time you have no one to blame but yourself—it was your fault," said Maurice.

"Oh!" screamed the poor woman, "why do you say it is my fault? Nothing has happened, I tell you. If I thought anything would happen, woe to you, Marie Antoinette; you should pay dearly for it." And the exasperated woman shook her fist at the Queen.

"Threaten no one," said Maurice: "but rather gain by kindness what we demand ,or you are a woman, and the Citoyenne Marie Antoinette, who is herself a mother, will take pity on you. Tomorrow your daughter will be arrested—tomorrow imprisoned: then, if they discover anything, and you know that when they choose they always can do so, she is lost, and also her companion."

The woman Tison, who had listened to Maurice with terrified credulity, turned wildly towards the Queen.

"You hear, Antoinette? My daughter! It is you who will ruin my child!"

The Queen in her turn appeared bewildered, not by the fury which sparkled in the eyes of her female gaoler, but by the despair legible there. "Come, Madame Tison," said she, "I have something to say to you."

"Holloa! No cajolery; there are not too many of us," said Maurice's colleague. "Before the municipality—always before the municipality."

"Never mind, Citizen Agricola," said Maurice; "provided the permission comes from us, it does not matter in what fashion."

"You are right, Citizen Maurice, but—"

"Let us pass behind the glazed partition, Citizen Agricola; and if you think with me, we will turn our backs, and I am certain the individual for whom we evince this consideration will not make us repent it."

The Queen heard these words, intended for her to hear, and cast upon the young man a look of grateful acknowledgment. Maurice carelessly turned his head, and walked to the other side of the glazed partition. Agricola followed him.

"You see this Queen," said he to Agricola; "as a Queen she is very culpable, as a woman she is high-minded and dignified. They destroyed the crown—woe to the model."

"Sacre bleu! you speak well, Citizen Maurice; I love to listen to you and your friend Tison. Is this also poetry you are reciting?"

Maurice smiled.

Wedding Gifts

THE very reasons which make silverware the most desirable of all gifts to a bride—beauty coupled with utility—are the very reasons why you should be intent on securing silverware marked "HOLMES & EDWARDS."

"HOLMES & EDWARDS" is the highest-priced silverware made. That fact alone bespeaks its superlative quality.

Nothing finer in silverware designs has been produced than the pleasing, dignified "Jamestown" and "De Sancy" patterns. They are exquisite in refined simplicity—and exclusive.

Even the untrained eye will promptly note the better craftsmanship and finish. And your jeweller will be interested in explaining to you the two superior qualities in HOLMES & EDWARDS—"Silver Inlaid" and "Super Plate"—both protected at the wear points.

Manufactured Exclusively in Canada by THE STANDARD SILVER CO. OF TORONTO, LIMITED

"Silver Inlaid"
(Set of six teaspoons, $4.75)
On the back of the bowl and handle—just where the wear comes—a piece of pure silver is welded in. Because of this protection the even beauty of Holmes & Edwards Silverware is not marred by use.

"Super Plate"
(Set of six teaspoons, $4.00)
Holmes & Edwards Super-Plate is protected at the wear points, including the tip of the bowl, by an extra heavy coat of silver. This double plating means added service and satisfaction.

These two processes of wear-protection are applied only in the five staple pieces, but throughout the line, Holmes & Edwards offers you an exceptional quality of plate.

Meanwhile Sheriff is Getting Ready to Take England to Dorchester

Announcement was made today that there would be an appeal taken to the New Brunswick Court of Appeal in the case of A. W. The jury found England not guilty on two counts of forging the prescriptions and it is understood the appeal hinges upon a question asked Mr. Justice Chandler by S. L. Morrison, foreman of the trial jury, respecting differences as to whether it was March 18th or 19th that the "pers" were handed out by the accused. C. D. Richards, counsel for England, said this morning he would make his application for a reserved case to the Court of Appeal next week, if possible, but it might be September before the Appeal Court could take up the case.

Montreal, June 5. — The superior court yesterday annulled the marriage on the wife's petition, of Albert Lorne Garvin, now of Winnipeg, and N. O. Lalonde, of Montreal, for two reasons, first, that it took place without her consent and secondly, because she being a Roman Catholic, the Protestant minister, Rev. A. F. MacKenzie, who officiated at the ceremony at Toronto on January 17 last, was not competent to perform that office so far as she was concerned.

Miss Lalonde went to see Garvin in Toronto and alleged that while ill and despondent and unable to give free consent, defendant took her to the house of a Methodist minister, Rev. A. F. MacKenzie, before whom they were married.

The husband wrote a letter quoted in court in which he agreed to the annulment of the marriage.

NORWEGIAN SHIP BURNING AT SEA

Radio Message Asks Immediate Assistance as Fuel Oil Was Blazing on Ship

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York, June 5—The Norwegian steamer Bergensfjord, bound out from New York, is on fire 150 miles east of Fire Island, according to a radio S. O. S. message picked up by the Department of Naval Communications early today. The message, asking immediate assistance, said the Bergensfjord's fuel oil was on fire and that an explosion had occurred.

The steamer reported later that the fire was under control and the vessel proceeding on her way.

The Bergensfjord sailed yesterday for Bergen with a passenger list of 1,200, including 133 first cabin and 229 second cabin passengers. The vessel is of 10,709 tons gross burden and is owned by the Norwegian-American Steamship Company.

A message received by officials of the line from Captain Ole Bull said the fire had been confined to the engine room where one boiler was rendered useless. A pipe exploded, causing confusion among the passengers for a time, they said.

No one was injured and after further danger from the flames had been averted Captain Bull decided to proceed on his way.

A Large Crew of Men Engaged on the Work, as the Company is Forced to Use Coal Instead of Water Until the Repairs Are Completed

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Woodstock, N. B., June 5.—Rev. Mr. Bennett, who was lately ordained to the ministry, has taken charge of the Anglican mission of Richmond. He was a soldier during the war and was with the 140th Battalion in Woodstock for a time.

Rev. Saunders Young, of Woodstock, for some years pastor at Plaster Rock, has just been unanimously elected to remain for the fourth year pastor of the Millstream group of churches in Kings county.

Among the students of Trinity College, Washington, who received the degree, Bachelor of Arts, on June 3rd was Miss Madeline Griffin, daughter of Dr. Griffin, of Woodstock. Miss Griffin was an active member of her class and belonged to the various clubs and college societies in the capital.

A brass tablet containing the honor roll of the young men of St. Paul's Presbyterian church who paid the supreme sacrifice in the late war will be unveiled in St. Paul's church on Sunday, June 13.

Woodstock Carnival.

The Woodstock Agricultural Society has decided to carry on, with the assistance of the citizens, the carnival in connection with the races on July 12th and 16th. This was decided at a meeting held this week. A committee consisting of Mayor Hodden, Robert Strain and D. V. Storm will arrange for the carnival end of the programme. This will consist of water sports on the river, ball games on the Island Park, decorated boats for the river and decorated floats for the parades through the streets. The processions will be on a grand scale. Correspondence is being carried on with oarsmen in St. John for the boat races and with some of the more wealthy of the Woodstock boys in the United States who it is expected will be present and assist in the water sports and with the display of fireworks.

Stewart Stockford and Stanley McBride, who have been seriously ill of typhoid fever, are improving.

Both Legs Amputated.

Gordon Bell, of Oakville, who had both legs amputated at the Fisher Memorial Hospital some weeks ago, has completely recovered and was able to drive to town from his home this week.

Mrs. Albert Brooks, of East Florenceville, underwent a serious surgical operation at the Fisher Memorial Hospital this week. The operation was successfully performed by Dr. T. F. Sprague.

Mr. and Mrs. James Stephenson, of Gordonsville, were here on Tuesday for medical services for their child, who was successfully treated by Dr. N. P. Grant.

Gladwin Wilson, of Plymouth, has been taken to the Fisher Memorial Hospital, where he will undergo an operation for appendicitis.

C. Gordon Sharpe, secretary of the United Farmers of New Brunswick, has successfully come through a serious operation for appendicitis, and was able to be around the town this week.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Olmstead, of Woodstock, announce the engagement of their daughter, Myrtle Idelia, to Walter R. Estabrooks, of Lakeville.

Mrs. George Chase left on Wednesday for Amesbury, Mass., to be present at the wedding of her granddaughter, Miss Grace Brewster, which took place on Wednesday of this week to Mr. Hubert Trembly, of Salem, Mass.

At Dr. Prescott's Hospital, there was recently born to Mr. and Mrs. Maurice London, a daughter.

Word has only just now been received here of the birth at Dauphin, Man., April 1st, to Mr. and Mrs. Roy McGregor Watt, formerly of this town, a son, John Simmons.

At Woodstock, on Sunday, to the wife of W. H. Rowe, a son.

Personal Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Gillespie have gone to Bloomfield, N. B., to spend the summer months.

Normal Campbell and wife, of Calais, Me., were the guests this week of his father, E. M. Campbell.

Mrs. Robert King, of Fort William, Ont., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Hartley.

Mrs. Henry Flewelling and Miss Dorothy have returned from a visit to Fredericton

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Steeves, of Fort Fairfield, are visiting Mr. Steeves' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Steeves.

Stewart Bailey, manager of the Royal Bank at Canterbury, spent the King's birthday in Woodstock.

Rev. F. M. Lockary, A. E Jones and W. B. Belyea have returned from a few days' fishing trip on the Pokiok waters and report success.

On Trip to Ottawa.

Messrs. E. R. Teed and Alfred Page left on Wednesday afternoon for a business visit to Ottawa. Mr. Page will return in a few days, but Mr. Teed will visit some of the American cities, including Butte, Mont., where Mrs. Teed is now visiting, and accompany her home in about six weeks.

Ted Saunders, of the C. P. R., left on Wednesday for a trip to Vancouver.

The King's birthday was almost generally observed in Woodstock. There was no celebration of any kind, and the day was quietly observed by family parties, auto drives through the country and fishing excursions to nearby resorts.

The staff of the Bank of Montreal moved into their new building on Saturday last.

E. L. Hagerman and wife arrived on Monday from Toronto, where they have decided to make their home. They have sold their residence in Union street to William F. Bolger, chief of the fire department, and are now disposing of their furniture.

Mr. Powers, of the firm of Powers & Brewer, is in charge of the work of repairing the dam of the Woodstock Power Company, and a large crew of men are at work. The company has been using coal instead of water for some weeks.

The Business Profits Tax, Income Tax and the Tariff Changes Were Concurred in

The Members of the House Allow This Portion of the Budget to Pass the Committee Stage With Little Discussion—The Excise Taxes the Contentious Feature

[Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.]

Ottawa, June 5.—Sights and sounds in the House today were somewhat simplomatic of the end. After over two weeks of fitful financial frolic, with the interval of a holiday on Thursday, the House settled down to business and did a lot of it with extraordinary expedition.

The main thing to the front was the budget in committee stage, but in place of any long and controversial discussion, six o'clock saw the brief tariff changes, the business profits tax and the income tax all discussed, concurred in, and disposed of.

Of course, the vitally contentious feature—the excise taxes—are yet to be dealt with and are likely to give rise to considerable criticism, but the progress made so far suggests that two or three days more may see them out of the way, especially if, as is expected, the Government shows consideration to the critics.

There are certain to be a number of variations in the schedules. The taxable limit of a number of articles will be raised and there will be classification as to quality and price. In that category it is expected that such articles as boots, caps and other wearing apparel may figure, as the operative effect has been found very hard, especially on those of small means and large families. Quite possibly also the percentage of taxation in cerain lines may be somewhat modified, and though maintaining the principle varying the incidence of the tax.

The innovation of two o'clock sittings started today and if in sucessive days the attendance is no larger at the start than it was today little advantage will accrue, compared with the morning sittings, which it is supposed to replace. A lot of chaff went through the mill in short order. Dr. Thompson assured the House that there is a kick left in the Yukon yet, and so a number of amendments were made to the placer mining act, designed to stimulate prospecting for low grade stuff, which in the days of '97 would not have bought bacon and eggs. Another bill rushed through regulates the dimensions of apple barrels, but for the benefit of the anxious householder it may be explained that the shape and not the cubic contents will be affected.

In the twinkling of an eye, and with no regret, the 7½ per cent. war duty, wiped out by the budget, was concurred in. This is the tax for the maintenance of which Sir Edward Kemp hold out till the last ditch, and then, when it was decided, took a noon train home for Toronto without waiting for the delivery of the budget the same afternoon. It is also noteworthy that Sir Edward, although a member of the cabinet, did not show up either during the debate or at the vote. He was peeved—not paired. A few questions were asked on the business profits and income taxes, some incidental criticism of a mild nature indulged in and that was all.

The civil service act amendment brought the usual crop of grouches from various quarters. One of the principal things the amendment accomplishes is to make the financial features of the classification retroactive to April of 1919. Several gentlemen aired their views to the effect that while they are shorn of their patronage it is still exercised comparatively, by the civil service commission. There was also talk about soldiers in the service, and claims that while benefitting by statutory increases they do not share sufficiently in promotion. For a considerable time Mr. Rowell, who had charge of the bill, and Hon. A. K. McLean, who used to administer that part of the service, were kept busy returning the fire from tthe front and the rear. Nothing in the discussion, however, indicated that the government is either going back on the commission or on the classification, which is the essential base of the new order.

FLIN FLON MINES WANT A RAILWAY

Manitoba Government Must Have Certain Guarantees Before Construction

The Pas, Man., June 4.—"Before the province of Manitoba will undertake to build a railway from The Pas to Flin Flon, a distance of about 80 miles, certain conditions must be met," declared Hon. Edward Brown, provincial treasurer, addressing a meeting of his constituents here recently. "It was not enough," he said, "to have the guarantee of a joint stock company that operations would be conducted at Flin Flon, but a personal guarantee of the responsible men behind it would have to be made before the province would act.

"Further, a guarantee must be given that the erection o. a 2,000 ton customs smelter, to treat the ores of the small miner as well, would be undertaken."

Mr. Brown declared that the Canadian National Railways must agree to lease the road. "If these conditions were accepted," he said, "there could be no reasonable excuse for the government failing to construct the road when a request is made by the Flin Flon syndicate."

It is expected that the syndicate will come to a decision about the railway early in September next.

WEDDINGS.

Morrison-Elliott.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Elliott, Pokiok, was the scene of a quiet wedding on Wednesday afternoon, June 2, when their eldest daughter, Beulah, was united in marriage to Hector F. Morrison, of Kensington, Prince Edward Island. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. T. Clark, pastor of the Pokiok Baptist church. The happy couple left by auto for a wedding trip that will include Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island.

Fox-Stairs.

At Lower Southampton, on May 27, by Rev. C. T. Clark, Stirling Fox, son of Rankin Fox, and Miss Hazel Stairs.

Horlick-Blizzard.

A very pretty wedding took place in the Union church at Millville, N.B., on Wednesday evening, June 2nd, at 8 o'clock, when Reita E. Blizzard, of that place, was united in marriage to John Horlick, of Fredericton, the ceremony being performed by Rev. H. C. Archer. The bride was given away by her brother. As the bridal party entered the church, Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Miss Eunice Peters. The church was prettily decorated with evergreen and apple blossoms. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. The happy couple left the next day for their future home at Fredericton.

THE VALEDICTORY

Interesting Review of Year's Events at Normal School by W. Stuart MacFarlane.

W. Stuart MacFarlane, of Nashwaaksis, in the valedictory said:

"Dr. Carter, members of the Board of Education, Dr. Bridges and members of the staff, fellow students, ladies and gentlemen:—

"One more year has slipped from our grasp, one more year of work done, one more graduating class is met in this building to say farewell; but with word "farewell" comes a sigh when we think that a year abounding with so many pleasant associations is lost from us forever, when in a few short days we must pass from this building to take up the profession of our choice.

"Although it seems almost as yesterday that we assembled here for the first time, yet we are forced to realize that in the passing of another year into the great beyond there pass also many privileges and opportunities never to return.

"At this particular time when we, the Class of 1919-20, are gathered together in this gymnasium for the last time, is it not natural and proper that our minds should swing backward and recall the only too few days spent in honest labor seasoned with happiness in this capital city, and forward to the days spent in teaching school, should I say? No, not exactly; for Miss Downey and Miss Skidd have already looked into the future for a large number of us.

"It has fallen to my lot to leave carefully over the pages of history of the Provincial Normal School for the school year ending 1920.

"Early in September of 1919 this Celestial city seemed all at once to have awakened from its slumbers of the holidays to welcome the throng of Normal students who are about to depart as hurriedly as they came. On Sept. 2nd the ringing signals, as heralds of this old building, proclaimed the beginning of a new school year for a new class of student teachers.

The Work of the Terms.

"The first term's work was carried on in the smoothest possible manner, all working harmoniously together, bound by ties of friendship established by the unity of our common interests,—ties that time cannot destroy—until just before the Christmas vacation, when the French and third class students were bade farewell at a reception held here in honor of those students who were about to take up their places on the broader walk of life. All credit for this reception is due to the Y. W. C. A., which has been a very active organization throughout the year.

"After coming back from a two weeks' rest, our numbers were increased by students seeking an advance in license; and since before Christmas the so-called fairer sex had a vast majority over the opposite sex, we were overjoyed to find so many of the returned students belonging to the latter. We have done our best to make them enjoy the extra term spent here, and judging from the interest they have taken in all lines of the work we feel inclined to say that we have been fairly successful.

"Soon after taking up our work of the second term Miss Lynds, our teacher in elocution, left for New York, where she has been taking a post-graduate course at Columbia University. Her position has been capably filled by Miss Giberson.

"This class has been very fortunate in having had the opportunity of listening to interesting and instructive speeches by such men as Dr. Carter, the chief superintendent of education, who gave us a talk on school work; Dr. Roberts, speaking on public health with relation to schools, and Dr. Burden, Col. Birdwhistle and others.

The Athletic Record.

"Although not reaching the high stage of development in athletics that is attained in other schools and colleges, owing to the short time spent together and the lack of necessary pre-experience, yet as far as time and opportunity permitted we have done what we could along this line.

"The training of the cadet corps and the physical training as in former years have been capably and successfully carried on under the direction of Capt. McFarlane. We are glad that once more the time has come when we can look on military training from a much different viewpoint than that of the last few preceding years.

"On account of ill health and for other reasons some of our number were forced to give up their studies for a time and leave us with our sincere wishes that very soon their studies would be taken up again. We are glad to note that with one or two exceptions these have returned and are among our number tonight.

The Class' Farewell.

"To you, Dr. Bridges, and members of the staff, do we owe a great debt, a debt that will not and cannot be paid by a few humble words in this farewell address but will be paid by true effort in our life work that you have so carefully and skilfully prepared us for, and by results which the right methods of imparting instruction to the young cannot fail to produce. During our course here you have ever been patient and willing to assist us in our difficulties and perplexities and in our social and athletic activities we have always met with your hearty co-operation.

"In bidding you farewell we leave with thoughts of your kindness towards us and wish you every success in your most noble work.

"Citizens of Fredericton, to you also we must say farewell. Although we spent but a few months in your most beautiful city, we appreciate to the fullest degree your kindness and thoughtfulness, and the pleasant times spent in your churches, Sunday schools and under the hospitable roofs of your dwellings.

"Fellow students, we feel more in this parting than mere words can express and are glad that it is so; we have worked together these nine months in perfect harmony, helping each other through his difficulties and rejoicing with each other in his successes, and in all creating a friendship which will linger with us for the rest of our lives.

"There are moments in our life that are never forgot;
That brighter and brighter as time
steals away,
They give a new charm to the happiest
lot,
And they shine in the gloom of the loneliest day.'

"Now that we are at the parting of the ways, let us go forth in our different spheres strong in the resolution to make ourselves more efficient for whatever service is demanded of us, not forgetting our duty to God, to country, and to self. Farewell."

The Valedictorian

AM. WOOLEN MILLS ON FOUR-DAY WEEK

Curtailment Going into Effect at Once—Uncertainty Due to Railroads

New York, June 4.—The American Woolen Company announced last night that it is compelled, because of uncertain conditions throughout the country, due mainly to the railroad congestion, to curtail production and will operate upon a four-day-a-week schedule until conditions improve. The new schedule goes into effect at once, the mills at Lawrence and other centres closing tonight for the week.

In less than a week, the company's bulletin states, the situation, which promised to straighten out rather quickly, has become more unsatisfactory. Cancellations of woolen goods were fairly heavy just before the holiday.

Another depressing factor, according to this bulletin, is the raw wool market, where prices are off about 10 per cent., and where such great conservatism prevails that there has been no big buying in the West.

TWO ASPIRANTS FOR CUP DEFENCE

Newport, R. I., June 4.—With new bridles on Vanitie's main boom and new jaws on Resolute's gaff, the two aspirants for America's Cup defence hoisted sail today for the second of the elimination races off this port.

The sailing conditions were almost the reverse of those of the first day when Resolute defeated Vanitie by five minutes in a fourteen-mile thrash to windward and return in a sticky southwester. Today the air was cool and a light breeze was blowing from the north, with just power enough to waft the yachts down the bay and out to the start at Brenton's Reef lightship. Today's race is over a 30-mile triangle.

PAY WIFE $400 A MONTH

Montreal, June 4.—A wife's demand against her husband for an alimentary pension of $400 a month caused attendants in the Practice Division of the Superior Court yesterday to sit up and take notice on account of the big sum asked for.

The petitioner is Dame E. M. Cornwall, wife of L. W. Just. It was said that she claims to be a princess. Having obtained permission of the court to take action against her husband in order to obtain an alimentary pension, she asked in her present petition that he be compelled to pay her a provisional allowance of $400 a month pending judgment on the merits of her action.

The judge was manifestly surprised at the amount asked for, but his inquiries satisfied him that it was in accordance with the needs and the position of the petitioner and within the means of the husband; and, there being no appearance of the defendant the court granted the provisional order asked for.

Mr. Deguire appeared for the petitioner.

Conciliation Board to Hold Informal Talk Today on the Cape Breton Coal Situation

The Conciliation Board Not Yet Empowered to Act in Matter and Awaiting Instructions—Miners' Leaders Await Some Proposition From Company on Wage

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Halifax, N. S., June 5.—So far there have been no developments in the matter of the demands of the Dominion Coal Company miners, in reference to which members of the United Mine Workers' executive board and scale committee are in the city. The McKinnon Conciliation Board, consisting of Rev. Dr. McKinnon, Col. W. E. Thompson and J. C. Watters, has been re-convened, but the matter is not yet officially before them. A conference with the mining representatives is called for today, but it can be only an informal affair to talk over the situation, as the conciliation board is without authority from the government to proceed, its only instructions being to re-convene here.

Miners Have Alternative.

Sydney, N. S., June 5.—"Those fellows can shoot off as much as they like—I do not propose to make my proposition until the proper time comes. And that will be when the company has had time to announce what it intends to do about wage increases."

This was the statement made last night by Silby Barrett, United Mine Workers' International Board Member for District 26, in reply to criticisms levelled at him by District Board Member J. J. McNeil in Halifax Wednesday night.

Mr. Barrett had previously intimated that he had an alternative scheme to the fifty-per-cent.-production cut proposals of J. B. McLachlan, in case the company refused to accede to the new wage demands of the men.

J. J. McNeil's statement declared that the situation was a serious one and if Barrett had any panacea for the ills of this district, he should lay his cards on the table immediately—as "schemes held up the sleeve are of little use."

When informed of Mr. McNeil's attitude, Mr. Barrett said:

"It is simply foolishness for us to be shooting off about what we are going to do in this matter. Should the Dominion officials refuse all increases of pay, then it will be time for me to lay my alternative proposal before the board; and I will do so."

Mr. McLachlan advised the board, as a last resort, to cut production by fifty per cent. to force the companies to come to time. Mr. Barrett's alternative is not so drastic, it is believed.

DRIVES HUNG UP ON UPPER RIVER

scarcity of labor and the rapid way the water fell off because of the continued dry weather. The rate of pay was $5 per day, but on all the driving operations on the upper river this year it was difficult to get sufficient labor.

The lower limit of the upper corporation is at the mouth of the Allegash, whence the Madawaaska Log Driving Company take the logs to Grand Falls, where the lower corporation limits commence. There is every indication that the logs in the upper corporation will only be brought down the river by hard driving, unless there are heavy rains; in fact, a considerable quantity of logs have already been left behind on various tributaries of the upper St. John river, although heavy rains would bring them out. The Allegash drive got out earlier than usual, it is said, but on Black River a considerable quantity of lumber had to be abandoned.

On the Nashwaak river driving has had to be stopped because of the lack of water, the main drive being abandoned at a point about eight miles north of Stanley. These logs are largely for the Nashwaak Pulp and Paper Company, but will be quickly brought along in the event of rains, as that river is easily affected.

The St. John River Log Driving Company started rafting operations at their booms here this week. There is a large quantity of lumber in the booms and the first rafts will soon be ready for shipment to St. John.

MASSACHUSETTS PASSES 629 ACTS

Three Bills Vetoed by the Governor, One on the Sale of 2.75 Per Cent Beer

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Boston, June 5.—The Massachusetts Legislature was prorogued at 1.30 this morning. During the session, which began on Jan. 7th, the Governor signed 629 acts and 85 resolves, and provisions totalling $44,000,000 were made. One of the last acts of the Legislature was to authorize the committee on necessaries of life to continue its work until March 1, 1921.

Important bills enacted provided local option for amateur sports on Sunday afternoons, ten-round boxing bouts under state supervision, and daylight saving during the summer months.

Gov. Coolidge vetoed three bills, one providing for the sale of wines and beers containing not more than 2.75 per cent. of alcohol, one for the censorship of motion pictures and one granting an increase of salaries to county employees.

DEVON TENEMENT GUTTED BY FIRE

Blaze This Morning Caused a Loss of About $1,500 in South Devon

A double tenement house in South Devon, owned by Mrs. Charles Forbes and occupied by Roy Robertson and Fred Smith, was badly gutted by a fire which broke out about 8 o'clock this morning.

About 8.30 o'clock the firemen were called to the scene, and after working on the blaze for about an hour they succeeded in getting it under control. The house was partly covered by insurance, but the loss is estimated at about $1,500, which does not include the loss suffered by the two tenants. Mr. Robertson succeeded in getting the greater part of his furniture out of the building, while Mr. Smith, in whose part of the house the fire is supposed to have started, succeeded in getting only a small amount of his furniture out of reach of the flames. The inside of the house was badly gutted and the roof was burned through in several places.

PROVIDE RELIEF FOR ST. QUENTIN

City Council Decide to Get Further Information Before Acting

At the special meeting of the City Council which was held last evening the six aldermen present, including Deputy Mayor Wilkinson, decided to dispatch a telegram immediately to A. T. Leblanc, M. L. A., at Campbellton asking him the most urgent requirements of the St. Quentin fire sufferers.

In the absence of Mayor Reid, Deputy Mayor Wilkinson presided and after some discussion it was agreed that a committee of the Council should be appointed to act in conjunction with a citizens' committee in connection with the relief of the St. Quentin fire sufferers. Ald. Jennings favored the city council naming a sum which they would be willing to give for the purpose of relief, but Ald Camp was opposed to this idea as he thought that the council ought to allow the matter to stand until it was found out what the requirements were and what other localities were giving. He said that too much of the people's money was being given away illegally for such purposes.

Ald. Cain outlined the present state of the homeless people and said it was every man's duty to held his neighbor and for this reason he stated the council ought to proceed at once with giving its shares to help out the people of St. Quentin. One of the greatest needs of the people, he thought, was bedding. Ald. Barker agreed with Ald. Cain and after passing a resolution that the six members of the council present, Ald. Cain Camp, Jennings, Young, Barker and Deputy Mayor Wilkinson, be a committee to meet with a citizen's committee and to communicate with A. T LeBlanc of Campbellton to ascertain what was most urgently needed in the way of relief the Council adjourned.

worm has no balsam to feed upon it will leave for other districts.

Five crews have been sent out by the Entomological Bureau in this city to examine the spruce trees in various districts and ascertain what damage had been done by the pest. Four of these crews left the early part of the week for Plaster Rock, whence they will set out for Nictau Lake in Restigouche County, where they will establish a camp as their headquarters. From there they will conduct research work in the surrounding sections of the country. The crews who went into the Tobique Woods took canoes with them and were accompanied by Prof. Stevens of the University of New Brunswick, who took a motor boat along. Upon reaching Nictau Lake the crews will separate, going in various directions. The fifth crew left here for Napudogan, where they have started work, continuing their experiments down the Miramichi River and its branches.

It is stated that the damage this year is not expected to be as heavy as last year, trips into the forests in the vicinity of this city showing that the worms are not as plentiful this year as they were last year.

Telephone Company Revenue Increase Allowed Is Said To Be Less Than $300,000

Company Asked for $309,000 Additional Annually and Public Utilities Commission Order is Said to be for About $25,000 Less Than That Amount

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

St. John, N. B., June 5.—It was reported here this morning that the Public Utilities Commission, at a private session yesterday afternoon, following adjournment of the public hearing, came to a decision on the most important phase of the New Brunswick Telephone Company's rates case.

It is understood that the Commission have agreed to make a ruling that the Telephone Company be allowed to realize an amount somewhat less than $300,000 per annum in additional revenue and it is said the order will cover a period of the company's present fiscal year as well as part of or all of their next fiscal year, which would make it effective until about December 31st, 1921. The company asked for $309,000, and the ruling reduces the amount about $25,000.

No official announcement has as yet been made, but it is expected that the Commission's decision will be given out when the Telephone Company's case is taken up again next Friday.

A Temporary Order Only.

St. John, June 5.—It was announced at yesterday afternoon's session of the hearing before the New Brunswick board of commissioners of public utilities, on the application of the New Brunswick Telephone Company for permission to increase rates and reclassify exchanges, that the proposed new rates were not intended to be permanent, but to be operative only while the high cost era lasted. The chairman, A. B. Connell, K. C., said that whatever order the board would issue would be a temporary order. Hon. J. B. M. Baxter, counsel for the company, said he thought that fifteen months would be a reasonable time for the order to be in operation. That probably would give the company sufficient time to readjust rates and to obtain more money.

At the opening of the afternoon session the sentiment was expressed that all parties were agreed that an increase in rates was necessary, the issue being to what extent and as to paying towns bearing a share of the burden of districts not paying.

The questioning of Mr. Fraser was continued by counsel, H. P. Robinson occasionally replying to interrogatories and Mr. Mildram sometimes throwing some light on the situation. To Mr. Teed, Mr. Fraser said he had nothing to do with issuing stock. He imagined that $250,000 new stock should be issued at once for reconstruction purposes. His idea was to get the stock on the market at one time to restore money borrowed from the reserve fund. The latter fund was to have been used for the replacement of the worn-out portions of the plant. The new money would not go altogether into new work. The company was expanding all the time. It had to replace the St. John switchboard, also those at Newcastle, Sussex, Sackville, St. Stephen and Chatham. Part of the expenditure on the St. John switchboard was to come out of the fund created by a stock issue. The company had to make improvements in order to provide proper service. Part of the replacement was to be charged to capital. The company's figures were low, as costs had gone up since the application was put in.

Campbellton Switch-Board.

A new switch-board was necessary in Campbellton, said Mr. Fraser, as the present board had outgrown its usefulness.

Mr. Weyman said that the object of his clients was to see if all these improvements should be made at the peak of high prices or if they could wait until more normal conditions prevail—whether it was wise to increase rates with the high prices on.

Mr. Fraser—"We have been holding off since 1915."

Mr. Teed said that it was admitted that increases would be needed, but did not think the full amount would be required.

The chairman said that the board's order would be temporary, for one year. Dr. Baxter favored an order for fifteen or eighteen months.

Mr. Teed considered that a forty-two per cent. increase was a large one. Several of the visitors said it was the first time they had heard that the increase was to be but a temporary one.

The hearing was then adjourned for one week to permit Mr. Mildram to prepare estimates and other figures.

POLISH "AGGRESSION."

Polish invasion of the Ukraine, say certain critics, was a military blunder and a moral wrong. Pilsudski should have remembered what happened to Charles XII. and to Napoleon. Even Germany's showy triumphs on the eastern front during the late war had been in the end more damaging to the victor than to the vanquished.

It is true that it is virtually impossible to crush a united Russia, points out an exchange. Armies are destroyed, but fresh armies spring up; the conqueror loses himself in the wide spaces which his conquests open to him. But Russia is no longer united. Pilsudski did not advance into an enemy country. He was not an invader, but a deliverer. The people of Kiev are not likely to burn their city to get rid of him. The Bolsheviki are now engaged in a great counter-offensive; but their gains, important enough, do not affect the Ukrainian area. The Russian front is not one front, but two. The Pripet fenland effectively separates the northern and southern sections. While the Bolsheviki advance in the north, the south is not disturbed. It is probable that when the soviet effort has spent itself the Polish-Ukrainian hold on Kiev will be found unshaken.

So much on the military side. But many good people are scandalized by the "wanton" aggression of the Poles. Frankly, we do not know why they should be. Poland is, and has been, at war with soviet Russia. Moscow made armistice proposals, the bad faith of which was unmistakable. Then the soviet commander launched an offensive, which, if it had not been gallantly met and defeated, would have meant the overwhelming of the Polish state. Next, Pilsudski took the initiative, attacked, routed and pursued his adversary. Why should he be condemned?

THE NEWSPRINT SITUATION.

The newsprint situation in Canada is naturally becoming somewhat complicated and somewhat serious, for Government control of the price, up to a few months ago, created a condition of affairs from which it will be difficult to get away. While the market value of print was increasing during the early period of the war, newspapers in Canada brought their influence to bear on the Government to appoint a commission and give it authority to fix, regulate and control the price; and through this influence the price was maintained for at least two years at a figure considerably below the value. Representatives of the print industry questioned the Government's right to control the price, either through a commission or otherwise. The manufacturers were ever prepared and expressed a willingness to supply Canadian papers with all the print they wanted at the market value; but while newspaper men could lead the Government to keep the price hammered down—away below market value,—they refused to meet the manufacturers on a reasonable business basis, and continued to show an utter disregard for the conservation of print and an indifference to the need of preparation to meet the difficulties of the future: the Government would look after their interests; the law of supply and demand was a theory for others. The newspapers went along merrily on the Government controlled low price basis, with the supply perhaps somewhat restricted. Finally, the newsprint industry won out. The Supreme Court of Canada decided, in a test case, that the Government, or its commission, had not the authority which it assumed to fix or control the price of newsprint. And the price in Canada having been forced down by the Government, at the instance of the newspaper men, far below the market value, the manufacturers quite naturally and reasonably accepted contracts from the United States for their surplus at figures based upon the value of the product. These contracts must be filled; the obligations must be met. And now a world shortage, a very serious shortage in print, makes a further great demand upon Canada's paper manufacturers, whose duty it is to assist as far as possible in meeting the situation. The Canadian newspapers are without stores of print; they are now struggling along on the hand-to-mouth basis. They were unwilling to make contracts on the market value basis when the manufacturers were open to take on such contracts. They worked on the notion that the Government was supreme in all things, and also apparently that their influence over the Government was sufficient to lead the way. Already two or three well known journals have suspended, partly because of the great increase in wages and in materials and partly because of the difficulty in securing print; and it is announced that from twenty-five to thirty other newspapers in Canada will be obliged to go under within the next few months. The situation is quite as serious in the United States, where many newspapers not in a financial position to make and carry out contracts at the market value in advance of day to day requirements are threatened with suspension.

There is no evidence that the available supply of print for Canadian newspapers for 1920 will be materially less than the quantities available in 1919, but the price will be considerably higher than last year. The increased cost, however, will give us print at a figure lower than the present market value in the United States. It is due to the manufacturers of print in this country that the position of Canada, from the newspaper standpoint, is much better than that of the United States; and yet newspapers are demanding of the Government, which has no authority to fix or control the price, that it now restrict the export of print—another selfish demand—a demand which cannot be justified from any broad business standpoint as long as the reasonable requirements of the Canadian newspapers can be filled on the basis of market value.

The root of the trouble in Canada, in so far as print is concerned, lies largely in the reckless waste of paper by journals which insist on printing daily many pages of useless and trashy matter. Many thousands of tons disappear annually in this worthless service. Another of the evils is in the ridiculously low sales price of newspapers; in some instances the price is one cent, while the cost of the plain print alone is nearly two cents, in others a daily paper for two years for four dollars: the result of an unfathomable mania to get a circulation which cannot be reached on the merits of the paper as a newspaper. We have also the evil of the mere advertising sheet, too frequently termed a newspaper. These absorb many tons of print annually for no generally useful purpose, and also, by the way, cheat the postal revenue of a good many thousands of dollars a year. If the Government feels called upon, in the interests of the public, to seriously consider the question of restricting the export of print, it is its duty also to seriously consider the unreasonable abuses through which the demand for print in Canada is very much greater than it should be, or than the conditions warrant, and then take action. While we allow newsprint to be absorbed for a generally useless purpose, and also sold in the shape of newspapers at a price very much below the actual cost, for the mere gratification of the publishers, there can be no reasonable justification for restricting the export of print; and upon the export of pulp and paper Canada must depend quite largely in her efforts to balance exchange.

MILLIONS STAKED ON THE ENGLISH DERBY.

Toronto Telegram: "What the "King's Plate is to Toronto and "Ontario the English Derby is to the "racing world.

"Thousands of people who never "attend a race track show a passive "interest in the winner of the King's "Plate, but the English Derby is the "classic event of the sporting world.

"While some of the American race "meets put up a richer stake, the race "at Epsom Downs, held the last Wed-"nesday in May or the first Wednes-"day in June, is easily in a class by "itself. It is a historic fixture, hav-"ing been run continuously since "1780. Millions of pounds are staked "on this race every year. It is esti-"mated that in India alone fifty mil-"lion rupees (over $25,000,000) are "wagered on the winner. There is "hardly a club throughout the British "Empire that does not recognize the "running of the Derby by at least "conducting a hat pool. In Toronto "alone thousands of dollars are put "up, largely by people who do not "usually bet on a horse race, and who "strongly disapprove of race track "gambling in the abstract.

"Before the automobile monopolized "the highways as a means of trans-"portation, Derby Day was the occa-"sion of a picturesque migration from "London. Royalty always graced the "scene, while the other end of the "social scale was represented by hun-"dreds of costers and their families "crowded in their little coster bar-"rows, drawn by a faithful donkey. "Well supplied with beer and whelks, "Derby Day was their great holiday "of the year."

THE PUBLIC WORKS FOR THE PROVINCES

The Estimates for the Works in Maritime Provinces Discussed in House

Ottawa, June 4.—The public works department estimates which were before the House tonight, brought out a flock of requests for improvements needed in this or that constituency. Several members from the Maritime Provinces wanted money spent in their districts, and the Minister of Railways was given a busy time explaining why he was unable to meet all the requests and at the same time practice economy to the letter.

The Maritime Province estimates passed this evening were:

Nova Scotia—Amherst, drill hall, grading, paving, etc., $25,000, a revote of $12,000; Halifax, Dominion buildings, improvements, repairs, etc., $7,000; Halifax quarantine station, repairs and improvements, $5,000 revote; Sydney, quarantine station, repairs and improvements, $5,000 revote.

New Brunswick—St. John, Dominion buildings, improvements, etc., $5,000; St. John post office repairs and renewals to heating system, $2,500; St. John quarantine station on Partridge Island; rebuilding detention station, $9,000, of which $5,000 is a revote.

P. E. Island, appropriation not required for 1920-21, $2,000.

Maritime Provinces generally, Dominion public buildings, repairs, etc., $25,000.

D. D. Mackenzie pleaded that Sydney harbor be improved. He said some changes were necessary for the growing trade there.

Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King asked for government buildings in the towns of O'Leary and Alberton, P. E. I.

A. B. Copp, Westmorland, asked for post office improvements at Sackville, where the people had to stand in line for two hours to get the mail.

To these and other pleas Dr. Reid made similar answers. The appropriations had been made only to cover upkeep or necessary repairs, he stated, but in some cases he would see what could be done in the supplementary estimates.

During the afternoon and evening the House took up in committee the taxation resolutions. Those repealing the customs war tax of 7½ per cent. and adding books to the free list were passed, as also were the income tax provisions and the business profits tax.

NEWFOUNDLAND BRIBERY CHARGES

St. John's Nfld., June 4.—This week has seen the handing down of decisions affecting two districts and the unseating of three members of the local House of Assembly. The more recent case concerned the district of Harbor Main. Last November, this district elected two candidates, put in the field by the late Cashin Government, William Wooford, formerly Minister of Public Works, and Dr. R. W. E. Jones. Within the statutory time, petitions were filed against both alleging bribery on the part of the candidates during the election.

The Mysterious Fascination.

"I don't approve of some of these popular songs," remarked the severe person.

"You don't have to pay any attention to those you disapprove."

"Oh, yes, I do. There's the worst of it. They are the very ones that keep running through my head."

Results Guaranteed.

Mother—"Theobald, I wish Ethel would give that young Soper more encouragement. He'd make her such a splendid husband." Father—"Have you tried telling her he's a worthless vagabond and that she must never speak to him again?"

Much Better.

The little boy was attending a sale with his father.

"What's that they're selling now, daddy?" he asked.

"A mummy," the father replied.

"A mummy!" answered the little boy. "A mummy! Well, thank goodness I've got a better mummy than that."

What They Got.

"Burglars broke into our house the other day."

"Did they get much?"

"I'll say so. Four quarts."

No French Kid.

Lady—I want a pair of shoes for this little boy.

Shop Assistant—Yes, certainly; or—French kid?

Lady—No, sir. He is my own son and born at Brixton.

FROM THE PEOPLE

THE RETURNED MAN AND THE LUXURY TAX

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I am a returned soldier, trying hard to get reinstated in civilian life again, and each time I go into a store to make a purchase I find myself confronted by the fact that I must pay a Luxury Tax.

There is no danger of anyone buying anything luxurious, as it is about all one can manage to do to buy the necessities of life. Uncle Ruben does not want to worry about returned soldiers getting too much money from the Government, because it takes it all to live, according to the High Cost of Living. There will be no money left over to buy booze with.

I want to ask: Is it fair for returned soldiers after having given the best of themselves in the Great War to return to their native soil, and pay this same Luxury Tax which the ones who stayed at home have to pay?

The question is, "Should returned soldiers be forced to pay this tax, the same as the slackers?"

Yours,
R. D. BOYLE.

GAMBLING IN STOCKS

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—In reference to your correspondent's letter in a recent edition I would like to say that as far as betting upon horse races or baseball goes I have had a limited experience but, using a slang expression, "A man gets a run for his money."

In the good old days of the race tracks I started out on Saturday afternoons with a round trip ticket and five $5 bills, no more, no less. At the end of the season I generally broke even, but I had had a grand time and "a run for my money."

Now as far as the stock market is concerned I would like to put this question to your correspondent. Why is it that a man or several men having a capital of a million dollars buy a seat on the Stock Exchange, say at Montreal, and engage in the business of buying and selling stocks for other people? Why couldn't they take that money and beat the game? Just ask them.

After thirty years' experience I am willing to throw up my hands and admit that the Stock Market is an unbeatable game, and what is more, a man does not "get a run for his money."

It is well known to all brokers that with very few exceptions no account of an active trader covering a period of two years will show a profit.

If, as your correspondent says, her husband is ahead $500, I would strongly advise her to induce him to buy her a diamond ring or spend the money for a vacation at the seashore.

Yours,
LAWRENCE.

LONGS FOR TIPLERS' AGE

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Through your interesting People's Column I would like to hear what your readers have to say about the tipping habit.

It has reached such a stage that lunch rooms where working girls eat depend on it, and if a waitress recognizes you as being the girl at her table yesterday who failed to leave a tip the service will be very poor and she almost hurls the dishes at you.

It seems to me when that state of things exists it is time something was done.

I was more than astonished while sitting in the movies the other night to see a man tipping an usher for getting him a seat. What in the world was the usher there for but to get him the seat?

It is just such people who have so much loose change they don't know what to do with it all who make it hard for other people. I suppose in time to come everybody will be tipping the ushers.

But not I. Indeed, I for one make a motion that the tipping menace be wiped out. Believe me, some of the tippees make more money than the tippers.

Yours,
EX- TIPPER.

THE UNANSWERED QUESTION

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Will you allow me space in your paper to give my views on the question, "Does it pay a girl to use artificial means to beautify herself or not?

Jenny Young was a fairly beautiful and industrious girl, all her salary spent on dress and beautifying herself. She knew that fancy dresses made a girl look good and that even if a girl was not pretty she could easily make herself so if she only knew how. When a girl is pretty and she can make herself still prettier by artificial means, it is only natural that she should do so. She knew young men fall in love with this sort of girl rather than the girls who have college diplomas, and she knew that girls who dress themselves commonly and avoid society are generally left behind; therefore every dollar she earned she spent for clothes, not considering it a luxury, but a matter of business.

Jennie, being so good looking and attractive with all these good clothes, had men around her as thick as bees around a hive. They made love to her, promising her a good fortune; but she liked none of them. They were all "cheap sports," and she wanted a bright young man with a good education and reputation.

Mr. Kelly was a man of this sort. When she first met him she fell in love with him, and she knew he was in love with her, not for her good looks, but simply for her good nature and reputation. Still she was in doubt about his love being true. Though he used to call often and spent a good many hours with her talking about things in general, he never made love to her; why, she did not know, but thought maybe she did not suit him. She tried to appeal to him with a new dress, then with a new waist, a new hat and all the latest coats. But to no avail. He did not make love to her or pop the question. Then she tried fixing her hair in different styles, practiced walking like Mary Pickford, Pearl White and other movie stars; but, unfortunately, none of these ideas helped. At last she was determined to find out what his intentions were towards her, so in the course of a conversation with him about the high cost of living she told him about her uncle, who spent $20,000 annually on his family. Kelly was surprised to learn that a man could afford to spend so much money for his household and asked Jenny how much she thought it would take for a young couple to live? She answered, "I should say $100 a week would be sufficient, but it would not provide many luxuries." Kelly asked her what a young man only earning $50 a week would do? Jenny replied, "Why, a man of that sort should never marry, as that would only be sufficient to pay the rent and clothe his wife." Kelly saw his finish and stopped coming around. Now, Jenny relented for what she had said; but to her regret she learned he had married another girl and was living comfortably on his $50 per week.

Jennie was a sadder but wiser girl, and she stopped using paint and powder and dressed herself plainly, but neatly. She did not throw away her old clothes, but made them over and wore them again. But the sports did not call around as they used too and she soon found out that they did not care to keep company with plainly dressed girls. This did not worry Jenny very much, as she felt sure the right man would come around in time, and she would be a true and loving wife to the man she loved and be contented with $50 a week, for a man like Kelly was better than a rich man with all the luxuries if one did not love him. Many a time she thought if she had only known as much when Kelly was single how happy she would have been today.

Year after year passed, and Jenny was 28 years of age, and not married. Still she waited and hoped. One day looking in the mirror she noticed her fine youth was gone and that she was not as pretty as she used to be. Once again she asked herself whether she should use artificial means to beautify herself or not. Common sense won this time and she decided to wait and see if someone would not love her for her natural looks.

Poor girl, God bless her, at last the man came along whom she had been waiting for. This man, Burtt, was a serious, smart and well educated man of 40 years.

One evening he said to Jenny, "You are the girl I have been waiting for all these years, so neat, so plainly dressed and no smell of drugs around you. I feel so happy that I have found such a fine girl who does not keep up all the crazy styles, and can look upon a face that has its real natural color."

The next evening when Burtt was calling on her a girl friend of hers came in. Ruby was four years younger than Jenny, good looking and very stylish. She wore a dress that allowed a good view of her silk stockings, her painted cheeks shone like two apples in full bloom, and she gave such loving smiles at every word she spoke. Mr. Burtt as soon as he looked was captivated and could not take his eyes away from her. Soon Jenny noticed a big change in him and when Ruby bade her good night he offered to accompany her home and she accepted. Jenny has never seen him since and is seriously considering whether she should go back to artificial means or not.

The writer of this article is a young man who is of the opinion that it is better for a girl not to use artificial means.

Yours,
S. W. S.

Why hens go on a strike!

The feed elements that make whites of eggs are entirely different from those that make yolks. When hens aren't fed both the white and yolk making elements, they can't lay.

Missouri Experiment Station tests prove that 100 lbs. of wheat, corn, oats, barley and kaffir corn make (above bodily maintenance) an average of 224 yolks to 154 whites. Based on data from the same experiments, Purina formulas produce, (above bodily maintenance), as follows:

Purina Scratch Feed	247.49 yolks	142.11 whites
Purina Chicken Chowder	182.05 yolks	282.55 whites
Combined Ration	429.54 yolks	424.66 whites

These Purina feeds not only make a practically equal number of whites and yolks but more of both than ordinary feeds.

Note that Purina Chicken Chowder contains the necessary white-forming elements to balance up the yolk-making grain ration. That's why it makes hens lay so heavily. Instead of the yolks being absorbed by the hen's system, Purina Chicken Chowder makes the whites to complete the eggs and they are laid. Then we can absolutely guarantee

more eggs or money back

on Purina Chicken Chowder if fed with Purina Scratch Feed as directed. You take no risk.

GALLANT RESCUE OF DROWNING LADS

Two Boys Fought Their Way Through Heavy Waves to Rescue the Drowning

Ottawa, June 4.—After fighting desperately for forty minutes to retain their precarious hold upon a capsized dinghy, battered by the highest waves which have swept Lake Deschene this summer, Fred McDougall, son of Dr. A. H. McDougall, Principal of Ottawa Collegiate Institute, whn two companions, were rescued from a watery grave yesterday afternoon through the gallantry of two Aylmer youths, Douglas Currie and Andrew Blair. The two young lads, undaunted by the heavy seas which had baffled a previous effort at rescue, unhesitantly launched another dinghy and through a smother of spray fought their way across the lake, finally bringing the imperilled yachters, exhausted with their long struggle against the waves, to safety.

CRITICISM OF THE PENSIONS INQUIRY

Ottawa, June 4.—W. H. Willing, Dominion Secretary Treasurer of the Imperial Veterans in Canada, and also Secretary Treasurer of the Manitoba Command, leaves this morning for the west, after having been in Ottawa some days for the purpose of giving evidence before the Pensions and Re-establishment Committee of the House of Commons.

"I am going home," said Mr. Willing last night, "disgusted with the government. I came down here in the spirit and belief that the government was willing to do what the returned man wanted them to do. I am leaving with the idea that the committee in question, before which I gave evidence, is appointed merely to deal with quibbles and to support those policies which the government has already decided upon."

The Newsprint Shortage

A PRACTICAL REMEDY FOR THE PRESENT SITUATION SUGGESTED BY FRANK J. D. BARNHAM.—DON'T TRY TO HOLD THE PRICE DOWN.—NOTHING WILL STIMULATE PRODUCTION LIKE HIGH PRICES FOR PULP AND PAPER.

[Frank J. D. Barnjum, Annapolis Royal, N. S.]

These so-called high prices for pulpwood and paper are here to stay, with a continual upward trend, but as a matter of fact the price for wood and paper is not high as compared with other commodities and especially based on cost of reproduction. A crop that takes seventy-five years to mature and to which, in addition to the use of the land and the long wait for returns, must be added the cost of planting and seedlings, protection from fire and insects, taxes and interest, together with the losses continually occurring in the forest from disease, wind and fire, must of necessity cost high.

Take a cord of wood today, even at $40 f. o. b. cars at shipping point, and deduct the charge for cutting, peeling, hauling and loading, say $12, this would leave $28 for growing a cord of wood or a matter of less than 38 cents per cord per year for gross receipts from which it would be safe to deduct at least one-half for costs and wastage above enumerated, showing only 19 cents per year per cord, which certainly, to say the least, could not be classed as "profiteering" by the individual or corporation who undertakes to reproduce the trees that are now being cut. This is so unattractive to the individual that this, the most important work confronting the continent today, must be assumed by governments, communities and the large paper companies.

Crying Need of the Hour.

Everyone, from one end of Canada to the other, is now advocating reforestation, and it is certainly the crying need of the hour but why plant tiny seedlings while a continual stream of mature trees are allowed to be shipped out of the country in the shape of more than a million cords of pulpwood per year and at a loss to Canada of more than seventy-five million dollars annually, if simply turned into ground wood only.

Any man who advocates reforestation and still approves or even countenances the shipment of raw wood out of the country is neither consistent nor a true Canadian. All this hue and cry and flourishing of the "Big Stick" for the removal of the restrictions on crown land wood is simply made in the vain hope that it may prevent the placing of an embargo by Canada on fee land wood as well, and not with any expectation that the present regulations will be in any way changed. American paper manufacturers have frequently expressed surprise to me that Canada has not restricted the shipment of fee land wood before now and is the one thing they are all expecting from day to day.

If the boot were on the other foot and wood was being shipped from the United States to Canada, how long would it be allowed to continue While, as a matter of fact, from an economic standpoint, that is just what should be occurring at the present time, as peeled wood is selling in Maine at from $15 to $18 f. o b. cars while the same is being sold in Quebec for $25 with the asking price running up as high as $40 per cord f. o. b.

Work at Wrong End of Problem.

All these government investigations and attempts to regulate the price of newsprint paper are simply like trying to sweep Niagara Falls back with a broom! The more investigation and regulation, the higher the price goes. They are working at the wrong end of the problem. Germany, the most highly organized country in the world, tried price regulation during the war and abandoned it as a miserable failure.

Don't try to hold the price down—let it advance as far as the law of supply and demand will allow. The best remedy for newsprint shortage is high prices. Nothing will stimulate production like high prices for pulp and paper, and nothing will so well keep down consumption and prevent waste. Let prices advance to a point where the mills can go out into the remote sections for wood, even up to a cost of $50 to $60 per cord or even more.

High prices for paper are bound to curtail waste—this applies not only to the print paper but the newspaper as well. With high prices the paper companies can afford to spend more money on their woodlands for fire protection and reforestation which, for the future, will be quite a burden, as six trees at least must be planted for every one cut down, as only one tree out of every six reaches maturity; in fact, the mortality is even greater than this.

The remedy, therefore, for the newspaper publisher is a five or ten cent paper, which is bound to come in any event in the very near future. The newspaper will even then be one of the cheapest articles obtainable today.

The pulp and paper business is on an entirely new basis and it has come to stay, s owe might as well acknowledge the fact, face the issue and prepare for the future.

Ridiculous Statements.

Some of the statements made at the recent Underwood hearing at Washington are so ridiculous that they are hardly worth a passing notice. If there is a four per cent. growth, as intimated at the hearing, and there is the amount of standing timber claimed, there would be more standing wood today than there was a hundred years ago. In fact, the trees would be crowding us off the earth. Just think of an annual growth of 24 million cords in Quebec against a cut of only 3 million cords, or a net gain of 21 million cords per year in one province! The same would be applicable to the State of Maine, only in a greater degree, as the growth is much more rapid there than in Quebec. As a matter of fact, there is no net annual growth in our forests as they exist today. The wastage and destruction by wind, fire, insects, fungi and waste in logging are so enormous that they more than offset the growth. Any man of ordinary intelligence must acknowledge that all of the above causes of destruction combined must of necessity amount to more than the 2 per cent. growth claimed by some.

A paper company must be in desperate straits indeed when it would permit such ridiculously misleading figures to be presented to a committee composed of Senators of the United States in the vain endeavor to obtain an increased wood supply through a release of Canadian crown land restrictions. These statements are an insult to the intelligence of the Senators and will no doubt result in a well merited rebuke from the committee.

Sir Lomer Gouin's Assertion.

Reference was made at the above hearing to a single quotation from a speech delivered at the annual meeting of the Canadian Pulp & Paper Association by Sir Lomer Gouin in which the Prime Minister stated that under proper management four or five times the present cut might be made. But this remark was applicable to what might happen in the distant future under a well-regulated forest. Every one knows there is no such thing on this continent today, and it will take from 50 to 75 years to produce one.

Any further quotations from the speech of Sir Lomer Gouin were carefully omitted and I will merely repeat the following:

"Our province, Mr. President, as you were kind enough to say a few moments ago, was the first to realize the importance of keeping in our province our raw material for the use of our own mills. We do not intend to relax that policy at all. We may have to go further, and the time may come when we will have to limit the cutting of our Quebec forests for the exclusive use of the Quebec mills, and if the situation demands it, we shall not hesitate, sir, to take the necessary measures, because we cannot forget that "Charity begins at home.

"But this is not enough. I do not think it is sufficient for you to reduce the volume of your cutting. The time is come, we are told; for you to think that you should restock your timber lands."

I would suggest in this connection that there is still probably rising a million acres of land that this paper company can buy in the State of Maine at or around $20 per acre—land that will average 4 cords or more per acre, or $5 per cord stumpage, and $5 stumpage with ground wood selling at $100 per ton is just as low as $1 stumpage was when pulp was only bringing $20. This would make cheaper wood for these American mills than wood shipped from Canada.

The elevator may be lowered, but the boy who runs it is hired.

A SATISFACTORY MAJORITY IN HOUSE

The Ministry Must Mend Its Political Fences and Consolidate Its Ranks

Ottawa, June 4. — The budget is now adopted in principle, but not in detail. Every item will have to be gone over, scrutinized and passed separately, and incidental to this process a number of changes are certain to be made in relation to where the taxable limits should apply. Two full weeks have been devoted to the discussion, and if any angle has been overlooked it has been an inadvertance. The better part of a week will be taken in committee. The criticism has been on the score that necessities not luxuries are taxed, the government reply being that a wide range of taxes had to be imposed and that the tax applies only to higher priced stuff, a fact likely to encourage economy. Considerable evidence is forthcoming that already it is having this effect. As to the tariff and the lack of changes now, the answer has been that revision is impending.

Apart from its immediate bearing on the budget, the majority of Tuesday morning in a full house and with pairs banned, save in a few exceptional cases, means that twenty-six is about the maximum obtainable. It is a good working majority if they stay there, but not much more. Those who have bolted have gone to stay so far as any question of policy with a tariff aspect is concerned. On other matters they are free agents, but it is noteworthy that all through this session the tendency of the Farmers' party has been to line up with the opposition in part if not wholly. While the government's lead is both substantial and sufficient, it is interpreted as emphasizing the necessity for the ministry to mend its political fences, consolidate its ranks, enforce attendance and particularly to develop its policy.

The Republican National Convention on Tuesday

Stage Set at Chicago for Nomination of Candidate

493 VOTES FOR NOMINATION

Gen. Wood, Senator Johnson and Gov. Lowden Leading Candidates.

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Chicago, June 4.—The stage is all set for the opening here on Tuesday next of the Republican National Convention for the selection of a presidential candidate. On the 28th of this month the Democrats, meeting in San Francisco, will also choose a champion. After that what has been styled the "open season" for presidential candidates will be over, and the fight will narrow down to a struggle between the nominees of Chicago and San Francisco. There was talk of a "third party" being formed and led by Senator Hiram Johnson of California, should he fail of nomination here, but recent assurances by Mr. Johnson seem to have removed that danger.

In their general lines the two great national conventions are very similar, and nothing in British political institutions offers a parllel to them. About 1,000 delegates attend, representing the various states in the ratio of the representation of each state in Congress. Political and spectacular considerations attract great crowds to the convention cities as well. Chicago for example, is housing 40,000 convention visitors, hotels and rooming houses reaping a golden harvest. As a spectacle, the usual national convention is worth going far to witness. There is much fervid oratory, and the demonstrations as each name is placed in nomination recall the wildest scenes of Mardi Gras. This year, the newspapermen who are to report the proceedings at Chicago have asked for police protection. Past experience has taught them that it is not pleasant to be trampled upon and kicked in the fact by enthusiastic partisans.

The Chicago Colisuem, where next week's convention will be held, has been the scene of five such gatherings, which constitutes a record. Every four years since 1904 the Republican party has met in the Coliseum to nominate its candidates for president and vice president and in 1912 tthe Progressive party also met there to nominate Theodore Roosevelt for prestdent. Thanks to the addition of a second balcony for this year's event, the Coliseum now has a seating capacity of 13,187. The main floor will seat 9,400 delegates, alternates, press representatives and spectators. There will be 100 doorkeepers, 200 ushers and 2,000 sergeants-at-arms. All the ushers and doorkeepers will be overseas soldiers, sailors and marines, directed by former army officers. They will be "hard-boiled." The reason for this is that four years ago the doors were stormed by the curious mob, and the "seats of the mikhty" pre-empted by Tom, Dick and Harry.

At the Republican national convention its requires 493 votes to nominate. None of the leading three contestants in the state primaries, Major General Leonard Wood, Senator Johnson and Governor Lowden of Illinois claims anything like that number of pledged votes, so that there is little likelihood of a nomination on the first ballot this year. There is instead an excellent opening for jockeying and trading of delegates for the nomination. It has been said that sixteen men in a room at 2 a. m. nominate the candidate, and it is possible that this year may see something of that nature done.

The Contested Delegates.

The first gun of the convention is the fight of the contested delegates. Some states will send opposing delegations with claims for recognition. The national committee will hear the claims, take evidence, and decide the case as it seems best. In some instances the evidence appears to be so close that the committee may seat both delegations, allowing each man half a vote. Merit does not always carry the day in these decisions. In 1908, for example, there were some 300 delegates whose credentials were in question. At the time Taft dominated the Republican National Committee, and the whole delegation was seated for Taft. It has been reported this year that some 50 delegates are open to question. It is possible that a candidate who has influence on the national committee may win them all. A delegation refused admission by the national committee may appeal to the credentials committee of the convention.

While the National Committee and the credentials committee are at work on the protested delegations, the resolutions committee is busy drafting a national platform for adoption by the convention. This is an important task, for the platform thus reached becomes the creed and war cry of the party in the election campaign. Preliminary work on the platform has been going on for some time in the National Committee, and the actual work during convention time is in co-ordinating the various "planks."

Politicians, like other people, are not disposed to disregard the humble but potent "jinx." For instance, it is announced that a brand new gavel is to be used by the convention chairman this year. The mallet used in 1912 and 1916 is regarded as "bad medicine" because on both occasions the Republican candidate made under it was defeated by Woodrow Wilson.

Real Work of Convention.

The convention really begins, and the excitement rises to fever point, when the preliminaries are over, and the chairman announces: "Gentlemen, the convention is now open for nominations for President of the United States." The state delegations are called upon in alphabetical order to make nominations, Alabama first. If the Alabama delegates have no man of their own, but are interested in the selection of a particular candidate, they will yield to the state nominating that candidate. The chairman of the state delegation in question at once presents the man who is to make the nominating speech. He has already been selected weeks before, and there are one or two alternates all coached and ready to take his place should he be ill or absent. He takes the platform, and as soon as he mentions the name of his candidate the applause breaks out and bedlam is on.

It must be admitted that the professional "claque" is a most important feature of the national convention. The applause may run an hour, or it may run two. It is purely mechanical, and is carried on as systematically as the "rooting" at a college football game. Professional cheer leaders get up on the stage, and incite their followers to greater volume of racket. Flags are waved, and slogans, already prepared, are chanted until the welkin rings. This is the phase of the game that the press representatives found trying, for the bellowing enthusiasts were wont to overrun the press stands and trample on everything and everybody in their way.

There is great competition in the matter of applause. Should the followers of one nominee cheer for one hour, those of the next man nominated will endeavor to cheer for two, and so it goes. Tumult and shouting have always been, and probably always will be, outstanding features of national political conventions in the United States.

Should the state first in order pass, the name of the next is called, and so goes the process until all the nominations have been made. Then comes the balloting. The roll is called and the states cast their ballots in alphabetical order. There have been many occasions when a nomination has been made on the first ballot, but that was when the candidate was an outstanding figure, or was appearing for reelection. McKinley was twice nominated on a single ballot, the second time by acclamation; Roosevelt was nominated by acclamation in 1904; and Taft was nominated on the first ballot both in 1908 and 1912. The record in Republican history was scored in 1880, when 36 ballots were found necessary for the nomination of Garfield.

Nomination on First Ballot Unlikely.

It is deemed unlikely, however, that there will be a first ballot Republican nomination this year. After the result is announced the real business of the convention begins. Campaign managers set about trading and making concessions. The second ballot is taken and some candidate shows a gain, others show losses. Some managers may hold back votes on the first ballot in order to make an impressive showing on the second. All is fair in politics. Ballot follows ballot, and in the process the votes that went at first to the weaker candidates shift to the stronger ones, for it is human nature to feel a desire to "get on the band wagon."

The balloting may last several days, as in 1880. In the Democratic National Convention of 1912 Wilson did not win the nomination until the forty-sixth ballot, after a neck and neck race with Champ Clark. During that time the campaign managers throw union rules overboard. They work and scheme twenty-four hours in the day, promising, and even threatening in the effort to bring unwilling delegates to see the light. In the end somebody is nominated, and then, after a final scene of pandemonium, the convention adjourns.

The directing genius of the Chicago convention, Fred W. Upham, Republican national treasurer, has already four conventions to his credit. He has been chairman of the Chicago convention committee for 16 years. This year the expenses of the convention are estimated at $150,000, a new high record. In 1916 the cost was $110,000. To raise this money, contract for building alterations, extra seats, decorations, tickets, badges and all the other myriad details of staging the great quadrennial spectacle is Upham's task.

It is some job. The matter of safeguarding the tickets alone is not at all simple. Admission cards are printed on safety paper in special inks, and then locked in vaults until the Thursday before the convention. All are distributed in Chicago by hand. In spite of these precautions, many fall into the hands of speculators who sell them at anywhere from $60 to $100 each, and even counterfeiting the cards is not unknown.

CALL OFF MANY SPANISH STRIKES

So Many Persons Without Work That Strikers' Places Immediately Taken

Madrid, June 4.—The workers' organization has reached a tacit agreement to abandon its system of calling small strikes, most of which recently have proved a failure. So many men and women are without work in the big cities of Spain that whenever a partial strike occurs those persons leaving the shops are replaced almost immediately.

This was particularly the case with the striking bakers in Madrid. To a large extent women replaced the bakers, many of whom are still without work, although the strike has ended. The builders today decided to return to work as their employers refused to treat with them.

Similar failures of strikes have happened in Valencia, Barcelona, Bilboa and other cities.

Two Circuit Meetings at St. John During This Season

Lessees of Moosepath Park Are Preparing to Give Races

REPAIRS BEING MADE AT TRACK

Readjustment of Dates of Latter Part M. & M. Circuit Necessary.

A readjustment of the dates of the latter part of the Maritime & Maine Circuit appears to be imminent as a result of the decision to hold an exhibition at St. John this season.

Moosepath Park is under lease to S. E. Rice and A. P. Ryan, two well known St. John horsemen, and they have workmen engaged in rebuilding the fences and making general repairs to the plant. The continued dry weather has made the track better than it usually is at this season and Mr. Rice declared yesterday they were prepared to give two race meetings this season.

When the Maritime & Maine Circuit met and allotted their dates there was no representative present from St. John but assurances were given that the Winter Port City could be safely included in the circuit and dates were allotted for two meetings, one the week of August 23rd and the other the week of September 27th. With St. John now due to have an exhibition the week of September 6th the dates which were allotted do not fit in.

One suggestion that has been made is for St. John and Chatham to exchange dates, Chatham having drawn the week of August 2nd and the week of September 6th. The latter week, however, includes Labor Day and is looked upon as one of the most desirable and it is questionable whether the Miramichi town would care to give up that week at this late time. It is likely that a meeting of representatives of the tracks of the circuit interested will be held to decide the question which is now being considered by President Heckbert and Secretary Fred M. Tweedie of the Maritime & Maine Circuit and the Chatham management.—J. D. B.

Fox Stables at Houlton

Frank P. Fox, the veteran trainer who makes his headquarters at Combination Park, Boston, is now located at Houlton, Me., with his racing stable of nine horses.

Word was received here yesterday that he had shipped by express to Houlton and would remain there until the opening of the racing season. He will ship as many of his horses as there are classes here for the Fredericton Park Association's "curtain raiser" meeting on June 30th and July 1st.

Arrangements are now going on to have another lot of horses from Houlton come down here to start at the opening meeting. Shipping plans have been made whereby the horses will be able to be back in Houlton on the evening of July 2nd, thus affording a sufficient letup before starting there in the circuit opening on July 5th and 6th. Under the proposed programmes horses starting here on Wednesday would start at Houlton the next Monday, while those racing here on Thursday would have a let-up until the following Tuesday.

St. John Horsemen Promise To Support Fredericton's Curtain Raiser Meeting

But the Horses Located at Moosepath Are About All More or Less Late in Preparation—Peter Farren Had Not Had a Workout Up to the Holiday

The Fredericton Park Association had a representative at St. John this week interviewing horsemen located there and all the campaigning stables now at Moosepath Park have agreed to race whatever horses they have available at the local meetings this season.

The St. John stables are not very far ahead in their training; in fact Peter Farren, 2.07½, the popular free for aller, and some others of their horses haven't had a workout mile on the track as yet, but all those which are ready will be here for the "curtain raiser" meeting on June 30th and July 1st.

Singer, 2.15¼, which was sucessfully campaigned last year by E. Burke, of St. John, was one of the horses worked at Moosepath Park yesterday afternoon and looked to be better than last season. "I always ha dgood luck at Fredericton and I will certainly be there for all three meetings this season," said Mr. Burke.

David O'Keefe said that Peter Farren would make his first start this season at Fredericton. S. E. Rice, A. P. Ryan, L. T. Dryden and other St. John horsemen will also send their horses here and indications point to the largest number of St. John people being here on Dominion Day that ever came out of that city to attend horse races.

The Acker Hood Stable.

The Sydney Post gives some information respecting the stable of Len R. Acker, the Halifax theatre owner, is interested in. It appears they will make their first start at a meeting at Sydney on June 9th, and then, says the Post, "after this meeting here Billy Hood will leave Cape Breton for the Maritime and Maine Circuit, he will campaign Gay Moko, 2.16¼, the handsome trotting stallion that Frank Redding of North Sydney secured last fall. Gay Moko is said to be one of the finest prospects that ever came to the provinces and Cape Breton friends of the popular owner will watch his career on the Maritime and Maine Circuit with unusual interest. Hood will also handle Jennie Frisco on the Maritime and Maine Circuit and will have in addition Len Acker's recent importation. He is to train at Moncton and will leave for that city late in June."

POSTPONED GAME NOT YET PLAYED

League Executive Must First Act—Junior Games Played Last Nght

Under the bye-laws of the York County Baseball League it is impossible to play postponed games until a meeting of the executive has been held and dates fixed by that body.

For that reason the Marysville team and Old Timers did not play their postponed game last evening, and it is not yet known when they will play. There is, however, reason to expect that the unusual section in the bye-laws will be amended so that the opposing clubs may agree upon dates for postponed games, and, if unable to do so, the league will then take action.

Junior Games.

In the Church League last night St. Ann's team defeated the Cathedral nine by a score of 12 to 9 in a game played at College Field. The Fredericton Juniors, who won in Devon last week and on the holiday defeated Regent street school team by a score of 9 to 8, won from the Young Imperials last night by a score of 15 to 4. There are more junior games being played in Fredericton this season than for many years.

Today a McAdam team will be here to play the Fredericton High School team

Vancouver, B. C., June 5.—On June 26 trials for the Olympic games team to represent British Columbia will be held at Brockton Point, it is announced by the Greater Vancouver Athletic Association.

A Brockton railbird reports a quarter in 30½ seconds by Cord Axworthy, 2.18, the young trotter in the string of Joseph Bolduc.

Silver King, 2.05½, the bald-faced pacer in Lester Dore's stable, breezed around the Combination Park track in 2.16¼ Friday, registering the fastest mile to date this season on the Medford course.—Boston Herald.

$1,000 for Jenny Hal

Jennie Hal, a bay mare which was brought here in a carload of horses from Montreal and was for some time afterwards in use in P. S. Watson's livery stable at North Devon, was sold a few days ago for $1,000.

While her breeding is questionable, she is a big rugged bay mare and she showed a lot of speed in matinees on the ice. In fact she looked so good that A. E. Quartermain, a former Fredericton man now located at Newcastle, picked her up and took her back to the Miramichi.

On the Chatham track this season, Jennie Hal showed plenty of early spring speed. Quarters in 33 seconds didn't seem to bother her and finally Phil Belliveau, manager of the Moncton track and owner of speed, is said to have bought her at a reported price of $1,000.

The 1920 Three Year Olds

PROSPECTS OF THE TOP LINERS FOR HARNESS RACING'S BIG FUTURITIES ARE DISCUSSED BY W. H. GOCHER, SECRETARY OF THE NATIONAL TROTTING ASSOCIATION.—OTHER TRAINERS MUST LINE UP TOGETHER IN A BATTLE FOR THE MONEY ON THE GRAND CIRCUIT WITH LAUREL HALL CANDIDATES.

[By W. H. Gocher, Secretary of the National Trotting Association.]

Next month the 1920 three-year-old trotters will be out for the word on the mile and half-mile tracks. While the northern trained youngsters are rather backward in their work on account of the wet and cold weather in April and May, all of them have had plenty of slow miles and will be in trim to make a favorable showing in July. In fact, the unfavorable weather may have been a blessing in disguise for many of the youngsters, whose trainers might have turned on more speed than was required to get them legged up for their engagements.

The reports from the training camps show that all of the topliners, which are expected to appear in the big futurities, are taking their work satisfactorily. Cox has a stable full at Indianapolis. All of them are engaged from Cleveland to Atlanta and on race day it will bother him to select a starter. His lot includes The Great Miss Morris, the sister of Peter Volo and Volga that showed her ability to trot in 2.10 in the three events in which she took the word in her two-year-old form; Daystar, Natalie the Great, Peter Pfaff, Peter Stilwell, Jane the Great, and half a dozen others.

At the present time it looks as if the other trainers who have three-year-olds in their stables and expect to make a trip over the Grand Circuit tracks would be forced to line up in a battle for the money with the Laurel Hall outfit. Another great year for the Peter the Great family is the Indiana slogan and it will be up to Geers with Dudette and Serrill with Sister Bertha and Madam Dillon to check them.

Dudette was started in ten races as a two-year-old. At the end of the season she skipped a few engagements on account of lameness caused by a splint. It has yielded to treatment. Her mark of 2.10 drops her in the same notch as Natalie the Great and Daystar, both of which were very busy youngsters in 1919. Natalie the Great carried everything before her until Mr. Dudley caught her at Philadelphia. She made ten starts during the season, while Daystar, who was handicapped by sickness, took the word in twelve events. He also won his last three engagements, one of them being the junior division of the Kentucky Futurity, in which Mr. Dudley dropped dead.

Graduates of Pinehurst.

Sister Bertha, one of the Dillon Axworthy fillies, is as her name implies a sister to Miss Bertha Dillon, that trotted in 2.03¼ in her three-year-old form and reduced her mark to 2.02¼ when she defeated Mabel Trask and St. Frisco at Boston. She carries a two-year-old record of 2.09, which was made over Belmont Park, Philadelphia, late in the season. Madam Dillon, her stable companion, has a mark of 2.10¼. Both of them were wintered at Pinehurst, N. C., and showed miles below 2.30 over the half mile track before leaving there.

Adelaide Guy, another graduate of the Pinehurst winter colony, promises to cut a wide swath on both the mile and half-mile tracks this year. She is a sister to David Guy, 2.05¼, and made a record of 2.18¼ before leaving Pinehurst. The last week in May she won her first race at Findlay, O., in 2.16¼. This filly has a number of engagements in New England, the first two being at Avon, and Windsor, Conn.

Ben White has three fillies in his stable, which have a number of important engagements. They are Miss Em, that made a yearling record of 2.23; Great Expectation, a sister to Busy's Lassie, 2.05¼, that recently worked a mile in 2.24, and the Hamburg Place filly Laughter, sister to Periscope, 2.04¼, last year's Kentucky Futurity winner. Pitman also has a clever pair in the Peter Volo colt Sunflash and the Peter the Great filly Klio, which won in 2.15¾ over the half-mile track at Mineola, N. Y., last fall. Voltage is another colt that promises to place Peter Volo among the Futurity sires. He won in 2.11½ at Lexington last fall from Harvest Hope, who is now in Geers' stable, Lucille Harvester and Sunflash.

To this group of three-year-olds it is necessary to add Lady Mozart, that won over Native Girl at Readville last season in 2.14½, Margaret Harvester, a filly that could trot in 2.12 before she was sold by the Fatherland Farm, King Harvester, 2.14¼, and Emma Harvester, 2.12¼, which was purchased to take Mr. Dudley's place in the Brook Farm stable.

A California Bred Filly.

The California bred filly Belle McKenzie is very apt to be seen in the first flight of three-year-olds this year. She is by Dudie Archdale's old stable companion, Anvil, 2.02¾, out of a mare by The Harvester, 2.01, and showed a mile in 2.14¼ at Milwaukee last fall with but very little work. Belle McKenzie is being tutored in Charles Dean's training school at Palatine, Illinois, and is considered as promising a pupil as Minor Heir or The Broncho.

Among the other promising three year-olds those who consult the entry lists will find the Peter Chenault colt Great Britton that recently worked a mile in 2.21 at Lexington; the Czar Peter filly Alta Coast Second, out of the double gaited mare Alta Coast with a trotting record of 2.11¼ and a pacing tab of 2.08¾; the Alabama owned filly My Regalia, 2.23, by Ortolan Axworthy, out of the dam of Edna Early, 2.07¼; Arion Guy, 2.20¼, by Guy Axworthy, out of Margaret Parrish, 2.06¼; Sister Azoff, 2.21¼, by Azoff out of Sister Alice, 2.10½; Laurette Taylor, 2.21¾; Setzer Belle, 2.24; Red William with a yearling record of 2.28½; Peter Buskirk, 2.24¾; Eva Frisco, 2.23; the colt Maxey Todd with a record of 2.24¼ made over the half-mile track at Kearney, Neb. last July; and General Knight, who worked in 2.20¼ last month.

To this lot can be added the unknown division which will make its debut in 1920. While but very little is known at present in regard to the members of this group, outside of the stables in which they are located, they cannot be overlooked, as a few of them are apt to flash out in front of the best that were raced last season, just as The Harvester, Mary Putney and David Guy did in their respective years.

GOWDY FINED $100 FOR WEDDING TRIP

Big Catcher is Fined Because He Took a Day Off From the Braves

Boston, June 5.—Getting married was responsible for a fine of $100 for Hank Gowdy, star catcher of the Braves and the first major league ball player to enlist for the world war. Gowdy learned of the penalty when he got his pay check yesterday.

Gowdy notified Manager Stallings recently that he would like to have a day off to play in the matrimonial league. Now Hank is "sore." He says the fine imposed for taking that extra day is rank injustice.

RUTH'S BATTING AVERAGE IS .333

The Home Run King's Hits This Season Are Averaging Three Bases Each

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Chicago, June 5.—"Babe" Ruth, King of the home run hitters, has pulled himself up among the batting leaders of the American League, according to averages including Wednesday's games released today. Last week he was hitting .302. This week's figures show him to be batting .333. He leads the league in total bases with ninety six, which besides the homers, include six doubles and three triples. He has made thirty nine hits in thirty four games.

Dave Robertson, the flashy outfielder of the Chicago Nationals, is the whole show with the stick in the National League this week. Robertson moved from 12th to 2nd place, where he is the runner-up to Hornsby, the St. Louis star, who continues to lead.

Grover Alexander, premier pitcher of the Chicago Cubs, has a batting average of .400, but he has played in only 18 games. Jack Fournier, the slugging St. Louis first baseman, who was making such a showing a week ago, fell into a slump and dropped from fifth to twelfth place, his average now being .310, as compared with .336 last week.

Cy Williams, the outfielder of Philadelphia, bagged two homers in the past week and is leading the round trip hitters with six.

Max Carey, of Pittsburg, continued to show the way to the base stealers, with 14, his nearest rival being Rousch, of Cincinnati, who has pilfered 11.

HISTORIC SHIP ON AUCTION BLOCK

The Vessel With Which Martyred Captain Fryatt Rammed German Submarine

Zeebrugge, Belgium, June 4.—Captain Charles Fryatt's history ship Brussels will be sold at auction on June 23, it being tipulated that no bids will be accepted but from any but British subjects.

The Brussels, which was captured in June, 1916, by the Germans and brought to this port, was torpedoed by the British during a raid here on April 24, 1918. When the Brussels was hailed by a German submarine early in 1916 Captain Fryatt ordered the ship to ram the U-boat. Later when Captain Fryatt was captured by the Germans he was tried for a violation of the laws of war and later executed at Bruges upon orders from Admiral Von Schroeder.

THE U. S. DESIRE TO EXPLOIT MEXICO

Samuel Gompers Criticizes the Recommendations Made by the U. S. Senate

Washington, June 4.—Calling it a "Prussian proposition," Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, declared in a formal statement last night that war between the United States and Mexico would result from the carrying out of the recommendations made by the Senate committee which investigated Mexican affairs.

The report, he said, amounted to a declaration that unless the government of Mexico re-writes its constitution in accordance with the ideas of American oil and mining interests government of the United States "will interevene" in Mexico.

"Those who know Mexico and the Mexicans," said Mr. Gompers, understand that the sending of the suggested 'police force' into that country would mean war. This has long been desired by the American interest the gaged in the exploitation of the natural wealth of Mexico. Such a course as recommended must be opposed by every justice and freedom loving American."

OPPOSE GRANTING PULPWOOD LEASES

Ontario Newspaper Publishers Seek to Prevent Export of Pulpwood to U. S.

Ottawa, June 4.—Announcement in the press last night that the Backus interests at Fort Frances have applied to the Ontario Government for additional pulp leases and power concessions aroused a storm of protest from the publishers of Ontario daily newspapers, who are in Ottawa this week endeavoring to prevent the diversion of their newsprint supplies to the United States.

At a special meeting of these publishers held here last night a reslution was adopted unanimously urging that in view of the attitude of the Backus interests towards domestic requirements of newsprint it is not in the public interest that they should be granted any further pulpwood or power concessions in Canada; and that all pulpwood concessions previously granted to those interests in respect of which they may be in default should be cancelled forthwith.

THE AUSTRALIANS OPPOSE ALLIANCE

London, June 4.—Renewal of the Anglo-Japanese aliance is being sharply criticized by the Australian press, says a Melbourne despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company. It is suggested the terms of the alliance should include a proviso which would prevent Great Britain from being dragged into a possible war between China and Japan, and newspapers there are insiting upon the right of Australians to control domestic legislation.

IN DAYS OF TERROR

During this conversation, the scene which Maurice had anticipated was passing on the other side.

The woman Tison approached the Queen.

"Madame," said the Queen, "your despair grieves me. I do not wish to deprive you of your daughter—that would be too cruel; but do you consider, that by doing what these men require, your child will be equally lost?"

"Do as they tell you," cried the woman, with an almost savage curiosity.

"Your daughter brought a friend with her."

"Yes, an artificiel, like herself. She did not like to come alone, because of the soldiers. This friend committed a letter to your daughter—your daughter let it fall. Marie, who was passing, picked it up. It is, doubtless, a paper of no consequence, but still one upon which evil-minded people might put a bad construction. Has not the Municipal just told you, if they wish to do so, they can do so?"

"What next? What next?"

"Well, this is all; you wish me to send back this paper—do you wish me to sacrifice a friend, without perhaps benefiting your daughter?"

"Do as they say," cried the woman; 'do as they say."

"But if this paper implicates your daughter," said the Queen; 'do you understand?"

"My daughter is, like myself, a good patriot,' cried the housekeeper. "Dieu-Merci. The Tisons are well known. Do what they tell you."

"Mon Dieu!" said the Queen; "what can I say to convince you?"

"My child, I want them to return me my child," cried Tison's wife, stamping her feet. "Give me the paper, Antoionette, give me the paper."

"There it is, Madame." And the Queen tendered a paper to the wretched creature, which she siezed, and held joyfully above her head, crying:

"Come here, come here, Citizen Municipals. I have the paper; take it, and give me back my child."

"You would sacrifice our friends, my sister," said Madame Elizabeth.

"No, my sister," replied the Queen, mournfully, "I only sacrifice ourselves. This paper implicates no one."

At the cries of the woman Tison. Maurice and his colleague came towards her, when she immediately held out the paper to them. They opened and read—

"A L'Orient! again an old friend."

Maurice had no sooner cast his eyes on this paper than he started. The writing was not quite unknown to him.

"Mon Dieu," cried he; can it be that of Genevieve? but no, it impossible; and I am mad. As for the woman Tison, as she awaited her fate, she devoured Maurice with her eyes.

'You have done a good action," said he to Tison's wife; "and you, citoyenne, a great one," addressing the Queen.

"Then, Monsieur," replied Marie Antoinette, 'follow my example. Burn this paper, and you will perform a charitable one."

"You are joking, Austrian," said Agricola. "Burn a paper that may perhaps enable us to discover a whole covey of aristocrats? Ma foi; no! that would be too much like blockheads."

"Do what? Burn it!—That might compromise my daughter," said the woman Tison.

'I believe you; your daughter and some others," said Agricalo, taking the paper from the hands of Maurice, which, had he been alone, would most assuredly have been destroyed.

Ten minutes afterwards, the letter was deposited on the bureau of the members of the Commune, and commented upon in various ways.

''A l'Orient—an old friend.' What the devil can this mean?" said a voice.

"Pardieu!" replied a geographer; "to Lorient, that is clear enough Lorient is a little town of Brittany, situated between Vannes and Quimper."

"Monbleu! they ought to burn the town, if it be true that it shelters aristocrats, who keep watch still upon the Austrian."

"It is the more dangerous," said another, "that Lorient being a sea-port, they might establish communication with England."

"I propose," said a third, "that a mandate be forwarded to Lorient, that an inquiry may be made."

This proposition made a minority smile, but excited the majority; they decreed a mandate should be sent to Lorient to watch the aristocrats.

Maurice had been informed of the consultation.

"I think it may perhaps mean the East," said he, "but I am quite sure it is not in Brittany."

The next day the Queen, who have previously said, would not enter the garden, to avoid passing the door of the apartment where her husband had been imprisoned permission to ascend the tower to take the air with her daughter and Madame Elizabeth. Her wish was instantly acceded to; but Maurice followed her, and mounting the stairs, ensconced himself behind a little turret; there, concealed he awaited the result of the letter of the preceding evening. The Queen at first walked indifferently with Madame Elizabeth and her daughter, then stopped, whilst the two princesses continued their promenade; then turned towards the "East," and observed very attentively a house, at the windows of which were visible several persons. One of the number held a white pocket handkkerchief.

Maurice, on his part, drew a telescope from his pocket, and while he adjusted it, the Queen made a quick movement ,as if to request those at the window to retire; but Maurice had already remarked the head of a man, with fair hair and pale complexion, whose salutation was so respectful as almost to border on humility. Behind this young man, for he appeared to be five or six and twenty years of age, a woman remained partially concealed from view. Maurice directed the glass towards her, and thought he recognized Genevieve, Immediately the female, who also held a telescope in her hand, drew back dragging the young man away with her. Was this really Genevieve? Had she also recognized Maurice? Had this couple only retired at the signal given him by the Queen? Maurice waited a moment to see if this young man and woman would appear; but seeing the window remain unoccupied, he recommended the strictest vigilance to his colleague, Agricola, quickly descended the staircase, and went to lie in ambush at the angle of La Rue Portefoin, to see if they came out of the house. It was in vain; no one apepared. He could not resist the suspicion which had entered his mind at the moment the companion of Tison's daughter had persisted in maintaining so obstinate a silence. Maurice directed his course towards the old Rue St. Jacques, where he arrived, bewildered by the strangest suspicions, doubts, and fears. When he entered, Genevieve, attired in a white morning dress, was seated under an arbor of jasmine, where they were accustomed to take their breakfast. She, as usual, accorded Maurice a friendly greeting, and invited him to take a cup of chocolate with her. Dixmer, on his part, who had in the meantime arrived, expressed the greatest joy at meeting Maurice at this unexpected hour of the day; but before he permitted Maurice to take the cup of chocolate he had accepted (always enthusiastically attached to his trade), he insisted that his friend the secretary to the "Section Lepeletier," should make a tour through the manufactory with him, Maurice consented.

"My dear Maurice," said he, 'I have important news for you."

"Political?" asked Maurice, always occupied with one idea.

St. John Grocer's Experience.

A city grocer today said that on ordering a case of canned peaches from a local wholesale dealer he was informed that the price had jumped from $7.45 to $9.00 per case. The high cost of sugar was given as the reason for the advance. As, according to the grocer, the peaces were canned last season, he was convinced that he had been the victim of real profiteering.—St. John Globe.

DECIDE DATE AND BALLOT NEXT WEEK FOR PLEBISCITE

Among Important Questions for the Government to Decide Here

TWO QUESTIONS TO BE ON THE BALLOT

Date for Prohibition Vote Also To Be Announced Here Next Week

The Provincial Government have been summoned to meet here next week, the sessions opening at 8.30 o'clock on Tuesday evening.

Several important matters are expected to be taken up at this meeting including the appointment of the new Hydro-Electric Commission, decision as to permanent aid for the St. Quentin fire sufferers and the political situation as a result of the return by acclamation of Hon. Dr. Roberts in the bye election in St. John, which may mean the issuing of a writ for the bye election in Carleton County and the possibility of a general election not now regarded as remote.

Definite decision will also be made at this meeting of the date for the provincial plebiscite on prohibition. This will be the second week in July and in that connection formal announcement is also promised for next week as to the form of ballot to be used and the questions to be submitted to the people. Some time ago it was intimated that there would be two questions and that they would be about the same as those used in the plebiscite in Quebec, viz: one on the retention of the prohibition law and the other on the sale of beer and light wines.

A BUMPER APPLE CROP PREDICTED

With Continuance of Weather That Is Suitable Prospects are Very Bright

Provincial Horticulturist A. G. Turney stated today that the weather up to date had been very favorable for the apple orchards in this section and throughout the province. The blossoms in the Douglas section are almost ready for the second spraying, while those further down the St. John river will be ready for a second spraying in a short time. The sprayings at this time of the year must be more numerous than ever particularly because of the exceptionally good weather.

In the Douglas section the orchards are past middle bloom and the bloom is in many cases going off, while in the other districts the bloom is still holding. All varieties are now in bloom and it was stated today that the prospects for a large crop of fall and early winter apples is better than at this time for some years. "With the good weather holding out, a bumper apple crop is looked for," said Mr. Turney. When asked concerning the late winter apples, he stated no estimate could be given relative to these so early in the season.

PLANTING 5,000 SPRUCE SEEDLINGS ON BURNED LANDS

The Conservation Commission's Experimental Reforestation Work in Province

EFFORTS TO CONSERVE SUPPLIES OF TIMBER

Entomological Branch Says the Spruce Bud Worm is Not So Plentiful

W. M. Robertson, of Ottawa, forester for the Dominion Conservation Commission, is in the city today, having arrived from Gloucester County where he has been in charge of the planting of 5,000 spruce seedlings on experimental reafforestation plot in that section.

The work is being undertaken through the co-operative efforts of the Conservation Commission, the Department of Lands and Mines of this Province and the Bathurst Lumber Company, with an eye to the future development of New Brunswick forests.

Mr. Robertson stated today that within the past few days about 5,000 Norway spruce seedlings had been planted on all grades of burned lands to judge the results in growth in order that the forests of the province might not be depleted by further forest fires. The experimental plot upon which the planting is taking place consists of about 500 acres of cut over lands on the limits of the Bathurst Lumber Company's holdings, about twenty-five miles from Bathurst. Upwards of five acres of the seedlings have already been planted and the work of planting will be further continued during the month of August.

DELEGATES LOST PART OF WET STORES

The Massachusetts Republican Delegation Have Unwelcome Experience at the Border

THE REVENUE OFFICERS MAKE STRICT SEARCH

Three Bottles of Gin and Two of Brandy Taken From Baggage of the Delegates

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Chicago, June 7.—Members of the Massachusets Republican delegation reported yesterday on their arrival that a blighting drought had threatened their special train while passing through the Detroit internal revenue district.

As the train crossed the Canadian border they said an enforcement officer conducted a single handed raid, searching baggage in so thorough a manner that three bottles of gin and two of brandy were taken into custody. Later, while the train was held, an appeal was made to the chief of the district, delegates said, and finally an order that the bottles be returned, presumably for medicinal purposes, was handed down.

Preparations to proceed were made when the raiding officer discovered that three of the trophies of his search had disappeared. Delegates said the officer threatened to hold the train forever if the missing bottles were not produced, but his efforts were in vain and the men from Massachusetts came on, short of part of the stores with which they started.

LABRIE BROTHERS TAKEN TO PRISON

Two Boys, Liberated After Sentence for Manslaughter, Re-arrested Saturday Night

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Sherbrooke, Que., June 7.—Joseph and Emile Labrie, the two brothers liberated by Mr. Justice Duclos on May third last after they had received sentences of life and twenty five years' imprisonment for manslaughter in the December sessions of King's Bench, presided over by Justice Desy, were re-arrested late Saturday night and have been taken to St. Vincent De Paul penitentiary, Montreal.

Mr. C. C. Cabana, K. C., counsel for the boys, has as yet been unable to determine under what specific authority the arrest was made, but when interviewed this morning, stated that upon being advised of the move he had immediately set to work to find out the details of the arrest, and thus far, the following had been ascertained:

"At eleven forty five Saturday night," says Mr. Cabana, five men arrived at the boys' residence in Stoke and placed them under arrest. The party was composed of Chief Lorrin, of the provincial police; A. Marcoux, of the department of Justice, Ottawa; the deputy prefect of the St. Vincent De Paul penitentiary, Montreal, and two others whose names are unknown."

Dalhousie Given Million Dollars

Carnegie Corporation and Rockefeller Foundation Each Appropriate $500,000 to Develop Medical School of University---Total Increase in Buildings, Equipment and Capitalized Maintenance Will Exceed $2,000,000

Halifax, N. S., June 7.—The Carnegie Corporation and the Rockefeller Foundation have each appropriated $500,000 to Dalhousie University to aid in the realization of a plan of development for its medical school as formulated and presented by President Mackenzie and the Governors of the University.

In making public these munificent gifts the Carnegie Corporation and the Rockefeller Foundation have issued the following memorandum:

"The Carnegie Corporation had contemplated a gift for this purpose before Mr. Rockfeller made special provision last December for aid to medical education in Canada. The corporation postponed final action until a programme of co-operation could be arranged.

"The plan for Dalhousie Medical School includes additions to buildings in order properly to develop work in the medical sciences, assistance in the maintenance of these laboratories, establishment of a dispensary and public health centre, and aid tending to greater efficiency in clinical teaching. Of the total gifts of $1,000,000, approximately $400,000 will be used for buildings and equipment and $600,000 for endowment."

Expect Aid from Province.

In the development of this plan the cordial co-operation of the Provincial Government is expected by their making an addition to the Pathological building in order that this laboratory may broaden its work in caring for the public health of the province. The new additions now under construction by the Hospital Commission at a cost of over $500,000, including a new wing with fifty beds, new kitchens and an extension to the nurses' quarters, will go far to bring the Victoria General Hospital up to the standard demanded by modern medical requirements and expected by the Carnegie and Rockefeller Corporations in making their gifts for the betterment of the training of the medical practitioners and nurses of eastern Canada, and ultimately for the betterment of the health of the people.

It is further expected that the Halifax dispensary will co-operate with the medical school and unite in the operation of a central dispensary, outpatient department and public health centre to be built by the medical school near the Victoria General Hospital. The money for the erecting of this building is specifically provided in the gift of the Rockfeller Foundation.

Total Capital of $2,000,000.

The Massachusetts-Halifax Health Commission, now in charge of certain public activities in Halifax, will also co-operate for a term of years at least in the work of this university health centre. In this way it is planned to link up every agency now actively engaged in service for the public health and increase the result many fold.

It is understood that none of the present sources of support by the provincial government or otherwise will be abandoned, but that every effort will be made to secure funds for maintenance of the enlarged plant. It is now estimated that the total increase in buildings, equipment and capitalized maintenance will exceed $2,000,000.

The Dalhousie University has already a very compact group of buildings for medical education, public health work and care of the sick, forming an active medical centre. It is hoped that this gift will add to the efficiency of this centre in serving the Maritime Provinces, which, with a population of a million, have only one medical school. This on account of its distance from other medical centres in Canada should become of great service in the training of physicians and the promotion of public health programmes.

Halifax Subscriptions.

Halifax, N. S., June 7.—Halifax subscriptions to the Dalhousie University campaign today included $5,000 each from the Eastern Trust Company and Farquahar & Company.

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Montreal, June 7.—Several deaths by drowning are reported here over the week-end. A man, who has not yet been identified, lost his life when the boat in which he was rowing capsized off Dorval Island. There were three other occupants in the boat, but they managed to escape.

The body of another unidentified man lies moored to Brown Island in Lake St. Francis, and owing to the high waves it has been impossible to recover it. This man was found by Mr. Brown, who resides on the island, floating in the water and on being notified, Coroner McMahon sent two men to bring the body to the morgue. The weather has so far made it impossible to do so.

SENSATIONAL END OF A MURDERER

British Deserter Who Killed Taxi-Cab Driver Hunted All Over the British Isles

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

London, June 7.—The hue and cry throughout the United Kingdom for the murderer named Topliss was brought to a sensational end last night when he was shot dead by the police at Plumpton, five miles north of Penrith. Topliss, who deserted from the army, murdered a taxi-cab driver at Andover on April 25, and made a wild night ride in the stolen taxi-cab to Swansea, where the car was found abandoned.

The police circulated a description and photographs of Topliss and ever since the whole country has been searched for the criminal, by the public as well as the police. For some days he was believed to be going about London and there was much excitement, since it was known he carried a revolver.

Then he was reported in Wales, and last week he appeared in Scotland, where he shot and seriously wounded a farmer and policeman at Tomintoul, in Banifshire.

He escaped southward through the police cordon, to be run to earth last night at Plumpton. He drew a revolver on the police, who returned the fire, shooting him through the heart.

Houghton will be handed back to the Immigration Department.

FALSE STATEMENTS SENT TO COUNTRY

H. B. Willing Denies Statements Re the Pensions Committee Attributed to Him

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Port Arthur, Ont., June 7.—H. B. Willing, of Winnipeg, Dominion secretary treasurer of the Imperial Veterans in Canada, who is here today on his returned from Ottawa, where he appeared before the special committee on pensions and re-establishment, gives to the Canadian Press denial of a statement attributed to him, first in an Ottawa paper and later telegraphed throughout the country, containing criticism of the committee.

Mr. Willing says it did not state that the whole committee appeared to have been appointed for the purpose of dealing with quibbles and carrying out the policy that the government had already adopted.

"I used the qualifying word 'some'," said Mr. Willing. "The majority of the committee, particularly Chairman Nesbit, were very courteous and gave us all the assistance in their power.

"As to the report that the Imperial Veterans have decided to take part in politics and are joining in the demand on the government to resign, this is false. The association is taking no part in politics, although some of its individual members may be doing so. We are supporting the G.W.V.A. in its attitude on re-establishment."

The President of Canadian Manufacturers Association Commends Government for Taxing People to Pay for War, Rather Than Borrow

Canada Must Face the Fact That the War Cost an Enormous Sum of Money and That the Only Sane Way to Pay Off the Debt is to Increase the Taxation—The Best Way to Secure Relief is to Increase Production—The Object of the Fiscal System of Canada Should Be to Diminish the Buying of Goods From Foreign Countries Which Can Be Produced at Home.

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Vancouver, B. C., June 7.—President T. P. Howard, of Montreal, addressing the Canadian Manufacturers' Association here today, said in part as follows:

In my remarks I shall try to define the point of view of the executive council in dealing with various problems that are of interest to us as citizens of Canada as well as of technical importance to us as manufacturers.

We are especially interested in the industrial growth of Canada. For a period of 50 years this can best be illustrated by a comparison of the value of goods manufactured at the beginning and end of that period. The census estimate of the value of the output of Canadian factories for 1870 was $221,000,000. For 1917, the last year for which figures are available, it was $3,000,000,000, an increase of about 1,400 per cent.

Immediately following the armistice Canada was confronted by the problem of transferring the activities of her citizens from a war to a peace basis. Half a million men had been withdrawn from ordinary occupations to military duty Agriculture, manufacturing, and transportation had been transformed by the necessities of war and enormous export trade had been developed. The prospect of the loss or partial loss of this export trade at a time when employment was urgently needed caused great misgivings. It was feared that a shrinkage of export trade and a possible delay in getting the country back to peace conditions would cause widespread unemployment, and a serious depression. I do not think this association ever admitted that these evil results would necessarily follow the war. Certainly the members did not shape their policies as though they were actuated by any such ideas. Time has proved that these misgivings were not justified. We have held the greater part of our export trade, and instead of unemployment we are now experiencing an actual shortage of labor. I believe that these dangers were avoided by the courage and resourcefulness of the Canadian people, who looked the situation fairly in the face, and took the most practical means of dealing with it. The Dominion Government appointed the Canadian mission in London, and later extended credits to certain European countries for manufactured and agricultural products. Scores of Canadian manufacturing firms immediately sent their travellers to Europe, and were successful in securing a great volume of business. Manufacturers taking a great chance, not only began immediately to change their factories back to a peace basis, but also cast about with the greatest possible energy to develop foreign markets and manufacture new lines of goods. Farmers' organizations also sent their representatives abroad and were successful in selling their products. The result was that the industry of the country scarcely hesitated in spite of the critical conditions existing all over the world. Our export trade during the year ending March 31st, 1920, amounted to $1,286,658,709 as contrasted with $1,268,765,285 for the year ending March 31st, 1919. Today in Canada as for employment no man or woman who wants to work need not be without work at the highest wages ever paid in this country.

The Canadian Army.

The people of Canada owe a triple debt to the Canadian army. First, for its war record; for the manner it which it has resumed the occupation of peace. There are bound to be some exceptions among 500,000 men, but I think I am safe in saying that over 95 per cent. of the Canadian army have resumed peaceful occupations successfully. We owe a third debt to the army because the great majority of ex-soldiers were opposed to any revolutionary methods of redressing grievances in this country and have stood firmly on the side of law and order.

About half the Canadian army came out of the factories, and it has been encouraging to see the way in which they have resumed their work in the factories, and the splendid manner in which even the disabled men have become independent and efficient. It is also gratifying to see that the Government has spent up to the end of 1919, the sum of $40,000,000 in the work of re-establishing soldiers, and that, through the Government employment agencies up to the end of last year, over 106,000 soldiers had been placed in positions. Splendid work is being accomplished by the military hospitals and training schools. In the matter of pensions, we hope that the most generous treatment possible will be given. Canada must take proper care of her wounded and disabled soldiers and also of the dependents of those who were killed or disabled in the war. These pensions must not be pittances, merely sufficient to keep the recipients alive, but must be adequate to maintain them in decency and

Report of Executive Council Of American Federation of Labor Meeting at Montreal

The Failure of the United States Congress to Take Action to Control the Cost of Living the Outstanding Feature of the Report

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Montreal, June 7.—A reference to the disastrous results of the One Big Union experiment in Canada, denunciation of Bolshevism, profiteering, the action of the United States government in invoking the food control law against the late miners' strike, and the failure of the American Congress to take action to control the cost of living are among the outstanding features of the annual report of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor presented today to the annual convention here.

With the council's review of organized labor's position and activities for the last year was also presented "a specific programme for remedy."

The Cummings railroad law was denounced, as was the Kansas law establishing the court of industrial relations. The high cost of living was laid largely at the door of "big profiteers," while the report declared the United States government, principally through the Department of Justice, "has conducted a campaign of stupidity."

Congress was assailed for cutting appropriations designed to carry on the work of the collateral branches of the Department of Labor and for various proposals, such as the sedition bill, which the report says the labor movement was instrumental in defeating.

In its references to the foreign field the report denounced what it characterized as propaganda for American intervention in Mexico and declared that the executive council sees "no justification for interference," which it argues would be in the interest "of the exploitation of its workers, and its boundless wealth of oil and minerals."

The United States Steel Corporation was assailed for its refusal to deal with labor organizations in the recent unsuccessful strike, and the authorities of Boston also were denounced for their attitude in the celebrated strike of policemen in that city.

Defeat of One Big Union.

The workmen of Canada were congratulated for defeating "the one big union" idea and their stand was characterized as "a magnificent triumph for trade unionism, and a vindication of the purposes, policies and achievements of the American Federation of Labor."

The industrial conferences called by President Wilson were characterized as unsuccessful because "the employers stubbornly resisted every attempt at conciliation" and would not accept any resolution on collective bargaining" unless it was so worded as to be anti-trade union in spirit and to provide encouragement and support for company unions." The machinery proposed by the second conference, the report attacks, as in many respects "actually pernicious" and it declares that "the machinery designed by the President's commission is entirely out of contact with the life for which it was designed and entirely unfitted for the needs of that life."

Existing machinery, the report declares, "is superior in every respect."

As a programme of "specific remedy" for existing conditions the council's report proposes the following:

"We demand that the government be authorized to buy standard commodities direct from producers and that these commodities be distributed through regular retail channels at a retail price to be fixed by the government.

"We demand that this power be made use of as a corrective for profiteering and we call attention to the fact that the government has established a precedent for such action in its sales of surplus war supplies.

Excessive War Profits.

"We demand that the Federal government, through the Internal Revenue Department, ascertain the amount of excessive war profits extorted from the American people during the years 1916, 1917, 1918, 1919 and 1920, and that these excessive war profits be taken through the taxing power of the Federal government and applied to the extinguishment of the floating debt of the government and to the partial retirement of Liberty Bonds at par in order that the existing inflated structure of currency and credit may be reduced and that the government may carry out its sacred obligation to the people to maintain its liberty and victory bonds at par.

"Co-operation should be encouraged as an effective means of curbing profiteering. To stimulate rapid develpment of co-operatives the federal farm loan act should be extended so as to give credit to all properly organized co-operatives, just as credit is now given to individual farmers. Co-operation is no less vital and worthy of support than are the railroads, which were given hundreds of dollars and an area of land equal to New England to facilitate their establishment. There should be legal enactment to protect co-operatives against discrimination by manufacturers and wholesalers.

"Control of credit capital by those whose chief interest is the cumulation of profits results inevitably in the open door for profiteering. We repeat and emphasize the demand of organized labor that control of credit be taken from the hands of private financiers and placed in the hands of a public agency to be administerd by voluntary and co-operative methods.

"We urge that the U. S. Department of Labor compile and issue monthly statements of the cost of manufacture of those staple articles in fixing the cost of living.

"As a means of aiding these and other anti-profiteering measures the federal government should be authorized to establish permanent boards for the prompt investigation of profits and prices. All income and other tax returns should be available for inspection.

"We do not demand, nor do we desire, a precipitate collapse in prices generally, for in such collapse there would be the greatest danger of national calamity. The programme we have here laid before the nation is constructive and is practical. Because it is constructive and practical, because it contains measures native to American life and American thought, we urge and demand for it the immediate and effective consideration of the people and of the authorities of our country.

The Cost of Living.

"The cost of living must go no higher. Wages must be advanced in every case to a point at which the American standard of living is secure. The life and the productive capacity of the great farming community, now stricken sorely, must be brought back to the richness that has marked it above the agriculture of all other nations. This will be possible only when the vicious forces that load the values of the farm with fictitious and fabulous profits have been curbed and made powerless.

"Finally we call attention to the vital fact that the present non-partisan political campaign of the A. F. of L. offers to the people everywhere an opportunity to enforce remedial measures with their ballots. The enemies of the workers are upon the platforms of the nation seeking political preferment. Defeat them. Defeat enemies everywhere. Let righteous wrath and indignation find its expression in constructive effort and in the intelligent use of that greatest of democracy's weapons, the ballot. Press upon every candidate everywhere the wisdom of Labor's constructive programme. Defeat enemies Elect friends. The national future is in the devoted keeping of the working people."

In a summary of "the essential facts of the present industrial situation," the report refers to the momentous loss of life and productive power and the rapid consumption of many basic materials. It asserts that these are responsible for much of the shortage of commodities now experienced.

"Evidence in possession of the Trade Union Movement is that workers today are as willing to work as ever and that their roductive capacity is as great if not greater than ever," the report states. It declares that the influences which have operated since the war to check production are under the control of employers and not of the workers" and it adds:

The Control of Industry.

"In so far as possible employers hostile to labor have sought to reintroduce autocratic control into industry, making necessary a resistance on the part of the workers. Labor has enunciated the principle that the workers are entitled to an effective voice in the management and control of industry. To a larger degree than ever before this principle was agreed to by employers during the war. It was found that it produced results of great value in the winning of the war. It made industry more productive.'

Industry today requires these remedial measures:

"It requires greater democracy in order to give to the workers full voice in assisting in its direction.

"It requires more intelligent management and acceptance of the principle that production is for use and not for profit alone.

"It requires full and free acceptance and use of the best that invention has to offer.

"It requires bold and audacious reconstruction of method and process in the conduct of basic industries.

"Labor does not oppose introduction of improved methods in industry. It courts and encourages improvements, processes and in machinery. What it will always resist is the introduction of these processes and this machinery at the expense of the workers.

"There is a knowledge of industry among the workers in industry of which society has not begun to avail itself. The effort has been to suppress use of that knowledge and to demean those who possess it. The workers know their work as none but the workers can know it. The shoemaker knows his last and the engineer understands the capacity of his engine.

"The workers are appalled at the waste and ignorance of management, but they are too frequently denied the chance to offer their knowledge for use.

"They decline to be enslaved by the use of their own knoweldge and they cannot give of it freely or effectively except as equals in industry with all of the rights and privileges and with all of the stature and standing of the employers.

"Adoption of the principle of voluntary effort, of full co-operation in industry, will bring to the industrial life

PROHIBITION IN THE CITY CHURCHES

Pastors of Different Churches Urged Congregations to Support Prohibition

Yesterday was Prohibition Sunday in the various city churches and the pastors urged their congregations to vote for the retention of the Prohibitory law. The theory of the evil effects of liquor was discussed and praise was given the various temperance workers for the campaign for the coming plebiscite.

At the Methodist church Rev. G M. Young, the pastor, asked his congregation to vote for the retention of the present prohibitory law at the coming plebiscite, stating the prohibitory law was the best way to handle the situation, and although it was not as good as it might be, it was the best thing to be had, and by sticking to it something better might result. The names of all the voters in the church who had not been placed on the voters' lists were being gone over and the names of all eligible to vote in the coming referendum would be placed on the list.

At the Brunswick street Baptist church the pastor, Rev. G. C. Warren, briefly reviewed the progress of temperance during the last hundred years in Canada and the United States and asked his congregation to vote for the retention of the prohibitory law at the coming plebiscite.

At the George street Baptist church Rev. Z. L. Fash in his morning sermon cleared the decks for action in the evening. He discussed the scientific arguments against the use of liquor and summed these into five points. In the evening sermon his subject was "How much do you weigh in this Prohibition plebiscite?" and his text was chosen from Daniel, 5:27.

At the beginning of his sermon he commended the executive of the New Brunswick Temperance Alliance for their faithful, efficient and self-sacrificing services in the cause of righteousness, and he especialy commended Rev. Thomas Marshall, the manager of the plebiscite campaign, as a man of unselfish devotion to the cause of temperance, deprecating the attempts of any who "tried to undermine his influence." He also commended Rev. W. D. Wilson, chief inspector, as a man "faithful and efficient in the cause of temperance" and said that this province was "fortunate in possessing such a man as its chief inspector."

He stated that at the present time the balances of God were weighing each one of us in the temperance cause. The little petty criticisms the foes of temperance were now making were false balances and unjust weights. The argument that prohibition interfered with personal liberty, he stated, had been long since relegated to the scrap heap, as Prohibition gave liberty to the tempted and oppressed. The world, he said, had stood the commands of the saloon and intemperance long enough, and now righteousness was claiming its own. He put temperance above party politics, stating he would vote for no man who voted against a temperance measure, and he urged all his congregation to cast the full weight of their influence to obtain a rousing majority for prohibition. In the Bible, the handwriting on the wall spoke the doom of a drunken king and his kingdom, and today it speaks for a great victory for the temperance cause.

Supt. H. T. Brewer gave an interesting talk to the Sunday School pupils in the afternoon, dealing with the harms of intemperance.

PUBLISHERS PLAN TO GET NEWSPRINT

Ottawa, June 6.—At a special general meeting of the Canadian Daily Newspapers' Association held here today to consider the precarious positions of many Canadian newspapers with regard to newsprint supplies, it was decided to appeal to the federal Government for legislation requiring each newsprint manufacturer unwilling to do so, to supply his proportion of the domestic requirements of newsprint at prices not higher than the current contract for export to foreign countries.

Although the meeting was an emergency one, called by wire on short notice, it was large and representative, publishers being present from seven of the nine provinces. Telegrams were read from many publishers unable to be present recommending legislation as the only solution of the present crisis, and the only means of preventing the enforced suspension of many Canadian newspapers.

MONEY HIDDEN AWAY

New York, June 5.—The executors of the estate of Mrs. Harriet J. Kingsland, who died here recently, have discovered seventy-six different bank accounts which belonged to her. Investigation has shown that, while apparently poor, she had thousands of dollars hidden away in savings banks in all parts of the city. Only one of the accounts was in her own name.

C. N. R. TO TAKE OVER CARAQUET RAILWAY

Announcement Made that Road Will Be Operated as Part of C. N. R. System

Negotiations between the federal Government, the Caraquet and Gulf Shore Railway management and Gloucester county business men have progressed so far that it is announced in Bathurst that the Government will take over the system and operate it as part of the Canadian National Railways. It is expected that the terms and details of the transfer will be announced shortly. F. V. Burton, manager of the railway, says that arrangements have been made for the transfer, a few details remaining to be perfected before a formal announcement is made.

The acquisition of the road by the Government will give the C. N. R. control of all the branch lines in New Brunswick except those operated by the Canadian Pacific Railway and a small coal road from Adamsville to Beersville, in Kent county, which furnishes no pasenger or freight service at the present time.

The Caraquet and Gulf Shore railroad lines though something like one hundred miles of territory, starting at Gloucester Junction, then through Bathurst up along the Nepisiguit Bay, and then proceeding to Pokemouche Junction and Shippegan, with a branch line from Pokemouche Junction along the Gulf Shore to Tracadie. It serves a population of about 20,000 people.

WESTERN TRIBUTE TO GRANT HALL

Eulogistic References to New General Manager of Greatest Railroad in World

[Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.]

Winnipeg, June 7.—Nearly three hundred citizens of Winnipeg and the west paid a tribute to Grant Hall, vice president of the C.P.R., at a banquet in the Royal Alexandra Hotel, to make up for their inability to give him a suitable farewell when he was so suddenly called to Montreal to assume his present high post in the company.

Sir James Aikins, Lieutenant Governor of Manitoba, capably filled the office of toastmaster, and in his address expressed the maxims of industry to which he attributed the rise of Grant Hall to his present responsible position of General Manager of "The Greatest Railway in the World."

Premier T. C. Morris was intrusted with the duty of representing all the Premiers in the West in paying tribute to the great western railroader and citizen.

Mayor Charles Gray, both as Chief Magistrate of Winnipeg and as an engineer, added to the eulogy of Mr. Hall and was followed by Mayor Church, of Toronto, who, while complimenting the C.P.R. on having been such a successful privately owned and operated concern, due to the ability and personality of its executive, men like Grant Hall, claimed that public ownership has not yet had a fair show.

A. Dunning, Provincial Treasurer of Saskatchewan, and Peter Hannan, M. L. A. for Kenora, Ont., closed the speakers' list.

Grant Hall's reply was a feeling appreciation of the demonstration of friendship of Winnipeg and western business men, and an expression of his regret and that of his family at severing ties in the West on removal to Montreal, but asked his Western friends to learn to appreciate the East.

The attendance was frequently referred to as most thoroughly representative of the business men of Western Canada. The gathering also included a number of ladies, guests of Mrs. Grant Hall.

Before opening the toast list, a number of letters and telegrams of regret were read from all parts of the country Though brief, the letter and telegrams were cordial and sincere, that of President Beatty being especially warm, as he writes: "I deeply regret my inability to be absent from Montreal at the time you mention, as nothing would give me more certain pleasure than to attend a dinner in honor of so worthy a recipient of this compliment as Mr. Hall."

THE COAL PROFITS JUMPED IN WAR

Unions Say Operators Made Half a Billion Extra, Doubling Profits

Washington, June 7. — Consumers of soft coal were gouged to the extent of $500,000,000 during the war, according to estimates made public today by W. Jett Lauck, economist for the railroad brotherhoods and unions.

"In other words," said Mr. Lauck, "the profiteering of the bituminous coal operators was translated into a tax of approximately $25 on each family in the United States."

The report of Mr. Lauck has been submitted to the United States Railroad Labor Board for its consideration. In support of his charges, Mr. Lauck presented data consisting of the Federal Trade Commission and the Fuel Administration and financial statements of the companies themselves.

Profits More than Doubled.

Analyzing the financial reports of the coal companies whose financial statements are available for the full period of from 1912 to 1918, Mr. Lauck said:

"Of the seventeen coal companies whose reports have been issued all but two were engaged solely in the mining of bituminous coal. These seventeen companies, representative of the entire industry, had aggregate profits of $42,737,000 during the period of 1912-14. These same companies during the war period, 1916,18, after paying all Federal taxes and making unprecedented deductions for depletion, made a total profit of $101,074,000, or more than two and one-half times as great as during the pre-war years. Figured in tons of coal produced the net income per ton before the war averaged 21 cents. For the war period the profit was 48.3 cents a ton, representing an excess profit of 27.3 cents a ton. There is every reason to believe that the net income per ton, as shown here, is approximately that for the entire volume of production.

"The people of this country paid all the war taxes of the coal operators, paid their contributions to the Red Cross and other war time welfare organizations, paid huge sums for depletion and on top of this paid thtem half a billion or more in net profits than they were capable of earning in a similar period during normal times.

Output Little Increased.

"The usual contention that increased profits were justified by greatly increased production does not obtain with respect to this industry, since during the three war years the total output of coal increased only 21 per cent. over the three pre-war years, while profits rose well over 100 per cent."

Mr. Lauck denied that increased labor costs are in any serious degree responsible for the greatly increased prices of coal.

"The causes for the abnomally high coal prices are not to be found in wage increases, but rather in the profiteering of the coal operators and the wholesale and retail dealers," he asserted.

Mr. Lauck presented evidence to show that the coal operators did not stop profiteering with the signing of the armistice.

AN EXPERIMENT THAT FAILED.

The official organ of the Russian Bolshevist Government reports an estimated deficit for 1920 on the operations of nationalized industries of 23,756,700,000 rubles. These figures appear to measure accurately the failure of Lenine's great communistic experiment. Even when the depreciation of the ruble receives full consideration, they show clearly enough that the Bolshevik factories have not been able to make ends meet and are kept open only by generous assistance from the Government.

No wonder Russia is cold and hungry and desperate. No wonder her cities are dark and dirty, her people listless. She is the victim of an insane experiment in industrial reconstruction, and the outcome is the greatest failure in all history.

The marvel is that there are still men who would, if they could, rush other nations over the very precipice at whose base Russia lies crushed and bleeding. They simply ignore the Bolshevik lesson. If experience does not conform with their theories, well, experience must be wrong.

But though they are blind, others see. Russia was turned by Lenine and Trotsky into a great political and industrial laboratory, and the experiment they tried there collapsed. The world has been watching, it has witnessed the disaster, it will not repeat the blunder.

CANADA AT WASHINGTON.

The Government's action in withholding correspondence relating to the appointment of a Canadian diplomatic agent at Washington was again the subject of brief discussion in the House of Commons on Wednesday last. The Opposition has taken the position that this correspondence, dealing with what may amount to a constitutional change, should be placed in the possession of Parliament. Sir Robert Borden and his colleagues believe that its publication, at this time, would not be in the public interest, and the Government has proceeded upon that view of the matter. While there may be much to be said for the position taken by the Opposition, namely, that Parliament ought not to be left in the dark respecting a development of possibly far-reaching consequences, there is nothing unreasonable or unconstitutional, or even unusual, in the course which the Government, knowing all the circumstances, has pursued, remarks the Montreal Gazette. Negotiations looking to such an arrangement as that which is now in prospect must necessarily involve exchanges of opinion and references involving matters of extreme delicacy. Such negotiations would, if conditions permitted, be conducted by verbal conferences. That procedure is rendered impracticable between governments as widely separated, geographically, as are those of Great Britain and Canada, and questions which would otherwise be disposed of in conversation become necessarily matters of record. It is obvious that the success of the project under consideration ought not to be prejudiced simply because the conditions under which the negotiations have been carried on have necessitated the putting down in black and white of material which would have been made the subject of verbal communications but for the physical impediment above mentioned.

The situation, so far as the House of Commons is concerned, does not differ greatly in principle from that which is illustrated in the everyday course of domestic administration. It is no strained analogy to liken the discussions which take place between the Canadian and Imperial Governments to the deliberations of the Canadian Cabinet Council, yet these deliberations are not put upon record and given to the House of Commons. The results and decisions only are made known, and this has been done with regard to the matter of appointing a diplomatic agent. It is to be noted, however, that no perpetual embargo has been placed upon the publication of the correspondence between the two governments. "I am not prepared to say," said Sir Robert Borden on Wednesday, "that the time will "not arrive when the correspondence "can be brought down, but in my "judgment it is not desirable that it "should be published at present." At the proper time—and the Government must be the judge as to the proper moment—the documents will be brought down. In the meantime such of the correspondence as is of a purely formal nature could be given to Parliament, but it would have little value and the House is losing nothing by not having it. The difference of opinion which appears to exist as to whether the Canadian or Imperial Government is responsible for the non-production of the correspondence is due to an impression conveyed in a statement made to the British House of Commons. Sir Robert Borden's statement that such an impression is incorrect may be accepted. His own disposition in the matter he has clearly indicated, and it is reasonable to assume that the reasons which would actuate one Government would influence the other.

GOVERNMENT FARM LOANS.

The Government of Manitoba has outlined its plans for receiving savings deposits for the financing of the provincial rural credits and farm loans associations. These organizations have had a considerable development, points out the Montreal Gazette. They are on the general lines familiar to students of European agriculture. Their purpose is to secure cheap money for farm development. They have done this to a considerable extent, through the agency of the chartered banks, and had not the war created new conditions that make money as well as other things dear, there might have been no need of the Government going into the loan business. The banks did not find it advisable to continue the arrangement, however, and rather than consent to an increase to more than six per cent. interest on advances, the Legislature at its late session passed what is known as the "Act to Encourage Provincial Saving." This measure authorizes the Government of the province to receive money on deposit and make advances to the rural credit societies, which are brought under direct government supervision. By the plan now outlined, interest on these deposits will be paid at the rate of four per cent. for short terms and 4½ per cent. if the money is left for three months or more. The banks ordinarily pay three per cent., so that the Manitoba rates will be from 33 to 50 per cent. higher than the savings holders now receive. Those who, in spite of facts transpiring before their eyes, think government control is an assurance of success, hold that the arrangement will benefit both the depositor and the borrower. The difference of 1 to 1½ per cent. in the interest on deposits in favor of the provincial institution is expected to attract the money of the thrifty, while the difference between the interest paid on deposits and the 6 or 6½ per cent. charged on advances will meet all the expenses and, perhaps, permit of a lowering of the cost to borrowers. The authors of the measure expect the idea on which it is based will rapidly spread throughout the country and put the loan companies, if not the banks, into a second place. Prospectus writers have rarely put forth a pleasanter prediction. There is much to happen, however, before the new idea will establish its practicability. To gather large sums from savings bank depositors requires time and confidence; and confidence in financial matters grows somewhat slowly. Then there are expenses of management and of oversight to be provided for. And all the money received may not safely be loaned. Bankers and others who receive deposits payable on demand or on short notice maintain reserves of unused money in their vaults, sometimes up to 25 per cent. of their total deposit obligations, so that they may promptly meet the demands of depositors; and this, while it ensures their solvency, reduces their earning power. The Manitoba savings managers will have to do the same thing, or the public which trusts them will receive a shock, which may react on their credit and spoil the plan. Banks and loan companies which have neglected the lessons of experience and forgotten a necessary precaution have become financial wrecks. It will be time enough for other provinces to follow the Manitoba example when those engaged in it actually show they can do better than the banks and the loan companies.

FREIGHT LOOTER SHOT AND KILLED

Guiseppe Visanti Killed by the Detectives in Running Battle at Springfield, Mass.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Springfield, Mass., June 7.—In a running battle with Boston and Albany Railroad detectives, Guiseppe Visanti, of this city, was shot and killed yesterday, and Louis Maltoni, also of Springfield, was arrested charged with larceny from a common carrier.

According to the police, Visanti and Maltoni, together with a third man, were found looting a freight car and when the officers approached they dashed for liberty.

The third man escaped.

CO-OPERATIVE, LIMITED

Will Open Their Doors to the Public on Wednesday, June 9th.

After a thorough organization of their company, Fredericton Co-operative Limited, are now ready for business and will formally open their store on Queen street, opposite the Fredericton Board of Trade rooms, on Wednesday, the 9th instant, with a full line of groceries such as may be required by any household and carried in stock by first class and most progressive grocery stores in any city. The company occupy the Adams building, which has been completely renovated for their purpose, and is fitted up with fixtures and equipment necessary for the carrying on of their business. A glance at the store from across the street will reveal a unique and most attractive front. The inside, which has been thoroughly decorated, compares most favorably with the front part and presents a bright, neat and sanitary appearance. The store is well stocked with fresh goods of the best quality at current prices, and, although operated under the standard co-operative system, will be open to the general public and cater to both city and country trade.

The directors fortunately procured the services of a man highly recommended and with considerable experience, in the person of F. J. Brewster as manager, and purchasers are assured of a most efficient, prompt and courteous service.

The object of the co-operative store in Fredericton is not to cut prices, compete or undermine merchants conducting business in a similar line, but the movement is patriotic and the purpose is to place in the hands of consumers desirous of combating the steadily increasing cost of living, the ways and means to buy from themselves—at their own store—all the net profits to go back in the pockets of the members in dividends and interest in proportion to amount of purchases made and stock subscribed. The public will remember that purchasers, whether members or not, are guaranteed same service and prices prevailing in any other store, with unfailing courtesy. In order, however, to participate in the profits, which is equivalent to buying goods at cost, it is necessary to become a member, which can be done under absolutely easy arrangements. Hundreds of consumers already have their names on the list of shareholders made up of some of the best citizens of this city and vicinity, including the mayor and most of the board of aldermen, professional men, heads of local manufacturing concerns, University, Normal School, High School and Business College professors, Government officials, store and bank clerks, and a strong representation of the Labor Council and honest working men.

President—W. H. Christie.
Vice President—A. S. McFarlane.
Secretary-Treasurer—E. J. Cormier.
Other directors—E. C. Barry, Geo. C. Crawford, Thomas Carr, W. A. Dickie, Harry Ryan, John C. Smith, Weldon Burden, William O'Donnell and Percy Parkins.

Have Moved.

The up town office of the Maritime Electric Company has been moved from 68 to 91 York street. Remember it is still in the store of Harry C. Moore, directly across the street from his former stand, and will be open as usual from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. from the fifth to the tenth of each month.

The Stock Market

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York (Wall Street), June 7.—Reactionary tendencies were uppermost at tthe beginning of the week in the stock market. Further unsatisfactory credit conditions, as set forth by the local Federal Reserve bank, the political situation and the probability of several important decisions by the United States supreme court in the course of the day were regarded as deterrent factors. Several of the steels, equipments, oils and popular specialties lost one to 1½ points in the early trading. American Ship and Commerce, Chandler Motor and Kennecott Copper were among the firm to strong issues.

"Yes," remarked Jenkins, "I gave it to him straight, I can tell you; told him just exactly what I thought of him—and a bit more perhaps. Bigger than me?" he continued, noting the look of interrogation on Robson's face. "Yes, I should think he was, and he's got a temper like a—"

"I know he has," said Robson, "and that's what puzzles me. D'ye mean to say he did not try to go for you and hurt you?"

Jenkins shrugged his shoulders.

"Really, I can't tell you," he said. "You see, when I'd finished, all I had to say I just hung up the telephone receiver and walked away!"

He Did.

The painter was proceeding down the street of a small town when he was accosted by a fellow-worker.

"Hullo, Tom!" said the latter. "Why, I thought you were working on old Skinflint's house today?"

"I was about to commence the job," replied the painter, "when the old man picked a quarrel with me. He said he'd put the paint on himself."

"Do you think he'll do it?"

"Well," said the painter, with a smile, "as I passed just now, that's where he'd put most of it."

FROM THE PEOPLE

FIGHT AND (NOT OR) PAY!

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I was interested to read the letter of R. D. Boyle, a discharged soldier, who pointed out the injustice of the Government making former service men pay the same socalled luxury taxes that those who stayed at home and accumulated wealth while we drew $1.10 a day. At the prices which have been allowed to exist in this country since the end of the war it has given all ex-soldiers a hard time to get themselves re-established, particularly those who are married and thus have dependents.

I want to add to the protest against the imposition of the taxes growing out of the war upon the ex-soldiers. I have just had to pay an income tax to the Federal Government and it has handicapped me more than I can tell you, especially in view of the measly little pension I have been given in lieu of my diminished earning capacity as a result of my experiences.

I don't think the Government should make the men who fought in the war pay the same proportion of the bills as those who stayed at home. The G. W. V. A. should take the matter up.

Yours,
LATE OF 12TH BATTALION.
Fredericton, N. B., June 6, 1920.

HAS THE WAR IMPROVED US?

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—During the war we consoled ourselves for the great tragedy we were passing through by saying that it would be a great spiritual blessing, that it would refine human nature and make better men and women of us.

The armistice ended the war eighteen months ago. Have we really improved? Is our conduct during the last eighteen months better than it was during any eighteen months before the war? If the world war was too far away to benefit us, are the people of Europe improved by their ordeal? Or is human nature so fixed a thing that it takes the pressure of centuries rather than of years of life to change it?

Yours,
DOUBTFUL.
Woodstock, N. B., June 4, 1920.

A CHARLOTTE STREET MOTHER'S WORRIES

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I am going to ask the liberty of making an appeal through your From the People column to see if something cannot be done to have a fair measure of protection afforded children who live on Charlotte streeet between Regent and York streets from the danger they are almost continually in as a result of the automobile speeders who are allowed to race unheeded up and down the two new blocks of tarvia there.

Several times this summer I have noticed policemen in uniform passing up and down the street, generally two of them together in uniform, and probably that served as a notice to the motorists to go slowly until the police got out of the way, anyway. The speeding is not all either; there seems to be a general disregard for the regulations which I understand exist and which should make it necessary for drivers to signal the course they propose taking when making a turn, give warning when about to stop and prevent the use of bright headlights.

When the police enforce these regulations and the provincial law is changed so that everybody permitted to drive a car will have to undergo proper examination as to efficiency and fitness, life will be much safer and parents will worry less as to the safety of their children.

Yours,
A MOTHER.

GRUESOME FIND IN ST. CROIX RIVER

Bag Containing Body of Infant Fished From the River Near Milltown

St. Stephen, N. B., June 6.—Workmen employed on the boom, a short distance above Milltown, made a rather gruesome discovery Saturday at noon, when one of their number drew to the shore a bag that was floating past and in which they found the body of a child. Dr. J. D. Lawson, coroner, was notified and made an investigation, but was unable to ascertain anything of great importance. The body was of a female child, apparently two or three weeks old, but without marks on the clothing by which an identification could be made. The bag had been weighted with a small piece of lead pipe, but evidently had been in the water long enough for the gasses in the little abdomen to cause the weighted bag to float. The little body was quite badly decomposed, and was later given burial. There are no means by which to ascertain at what point up river it was cast into the stream.

STOP SUNDAY WORK ON ALBERTA FARMS

Lethbridge, Alta., June 5.—Considerable protest is being voiced by farmers in certain districts in being interfered with by the provincial police in asking them to desist from working on the land on Sundays. The farmers claim they are obliged to work Sundays on account of the late season so as to make up for the lost time which the weather occasioned. The action of the police, it is said, is the result of complaints made by the Lord's Day Alliance of the province.

APPENDICITIS IS OUT OF STYLE NOW

Portland, Oregon, June 5—Operations for the removal of the vermiform appendix are going out of style, according to views expressed at the annual convention of the Oregon State Medical Association.

Much that was called appendicitis in recent years was not that at all, but plain stomach ache in varying degrees of intensity, according to these physicians.

REAL CHALLENGE TO ORGANIZED LABOR

American Federation of Labor Asked to Stand Behind the New York Unions

New York, June 5.—Peter J. Brady, of the Allied Printing Trades, announced last night that he would present the transportation situation here to the American Federation of Labor convention in Montreal next week. He said if the plans of the citizens transportation result in a fight for the "open shop", he will try to enlist the support of the entire Federation.

The plan of the committee to raise a $5,000,000 fund for independent trucking facilities, Mr. Brady declared, is a direct challenge to organized labor."

"The American Federation of Labor," he said, "will be asked to stand back of the unions in this city so as to prevent the crushing of the longshoremen or the truckmen or any other member of the unions."

AMERICAN F. OF L. MEETING TODAY

of the nation such an impetus that production will cease forever to be a problem in American life.

Decrease Non-Producers.

"Adoption of the principles we here urge will inevitably result in a rapid decrease of the number of non-producers who at present live by fastening themselves in one usless capacity or another upon the industrial life of the country. Proper absorption or non-producers into useful channels would be a simple problem.

"We urge the setting up of conference boards of organized workers and employers, thoroughly voluntary in character and in thorough accord with our trade union organizations, as a means of promoting the democracy of industry through development of co-operative effort. We point out to employers the fact that industry, which is the life blood of our civilization, can not be made the plaything and the pawn of a few who by chance today hold control. Industry is the thing by which all must live and it must be given the opportunity to function at its best.

"Labor turnover is but one of the evils which will disappear in proportion as the workers are given voice in management. This is proven by statistics which show the lowest turnover in those industries where the workers exercise the most effective voice by reason of the highest degree of organization.

"We propose the salvation of industry. We propose the means whereby the world may be fed and clothed and housed and given happiness. We have service to give and if permitted to give freely and on terms of manhood and equality we will give in abundance. We can not be driven as slaves, but we can give mighty service in a common effort of humankind."

On the subject of Bolshevism and other extremist propaganda, the report has this to say:

"During the year just passed the labor movement has stood its ground solidly and maintained the progressive, constructive policy which has marked it apart from most of the labor movements of the world throughout the whole period of the world war.

"But the nation has witnessed sporadic outbreaks of extremist sentiment and has been compelled to deal with extremist propaganda in a number of cases since the war period came to an end. This tendency toward unreasoned conduct and unreasoned thought has been most unfortunate for the nation and still more unfortunate for those who have been the participants.

Bolshevism a Lure

"Bolshevism has been a lure for some of our people and its doctrines have been propagated with great vigor. This hideous doctrine has found converts among two classes of people principally—those intellectuals, so-called, who have no occupation save that of following one fad after another, and those so beaten in the game of life that they find no appeal in anything except the most desperate and illogical schemes. The rank and file of the organized labor movement, as was to have been expected, has given no countenance to the propaganda of Bolshevism, but has, on the contrary, been the most effective opponent in America.

"The propaganda of revolutionary thought has not been limited to the propaganda of Bolshevism. It has on the contrary, been its most effective opponent in America.

"The propaganda of revolutionary thought has not been limited to the propaganda of Bolshevism. It has taken other forms. The 'one big union' idea has had its adherents, despite the disastrous results of the experiment in Canada with its treacherous machinery during the year preceding our 1919 convention. It is gratifying to note that everywhere the ostensible strength of this propaganda has been lost and that its fallacies are daily becoming clearer to its former victims.

"Of more importance than the results of studied propaganda of revolution and extremism is the feeling of unrest among our people which is due to abuses in our political and industrial life and which seeks relief and freedom and not revolution and catastrophe.

"The written and spoken propaganda of unreason and extremism can be met and defeated by truth. But legitimate unrest, growing out of conditions of injustice can be met and overcome only by intelligent dealing with conditions. Those who drink from a poisoned well will be poisoned until the well itself is cleansed."

Covering nearly 250 closely printed pages the report makes references to almost every phase of the organized labor movement.

A guest may be as glad to go as the host is to have him go.

VICE REGAL PARTY ATTEND ASSEMBLY

Moderator Ballantyne Presents Address to Which Governor General Replies

Ottawa, June 5.—The great feature of this morning's sederunt of the general assemly of the Presbyterian Church of Canada was the visit of their Excellencies the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire, to Chalmers Presbyterian Church, in order formally to welcome the assembly to the Dominion capital.

Their Excellencies arrived at the church by motor car from Rideau Hall promptly at eleven o'clock. They were accompanied by a number of aides and ladies in waiting.

As the vice regal party arrived at the church, the audience, which quite filled the church, rose while the organist played the National Anthem.

Their Excellencies were received at the church door by Rev. Dr. Campbell, secretary of the General Assembly, and Rev. Dr. Stewart, of Halifax.

Rev. Dr. Campbell walked beside His Execllency, while thte Duchess of Devonshire was accompanied by Rev. Dr. Stewart.

At the platform the Duke and Duchess greeted the Moderator, shaking hands with him and chatting with him for a moment. Then the Moderator presented an address which was read to His Excellency.

After a number of announcements had been made, the Assembly adjourned to meet this evening at 8 o'clock.

His Excellency replied with deep feeling to this address, speaking with much eloquence for fifteen minutes. Afterwards the Moderator, Rev. Dr. Ballantyne, spoke briefly. The vice regal party then withdrew and the audience rose and sang the National Anthem.

Rapidly-changing industrial conditions demanded new and more efficient methods.

Breaking away from preconceived ideas of tire-building created the Goodyear Cord Tire—the finest tire in the world.

Applying the same analytical methods to industry, Goodyear redesigned Industrial Hose—scientifically developed it to meet the needs of present-day industry.

Take Goodyear Water Hose as an example.

Water Hose is rarely destroyed through high pressure. But every year thousands of feet is prematurely worn out because the outside covering is not sufficient to stand the constant scuffing and pulling over cinders, pieces of iron—against the edges of machines—and so on.

To overcome this, Goodyear Water Hose is built with an extra thick covering of exceptionally tough rubber. A cover which gives greater protection, longer wear—lowers costs. And a good inner tube and strong fabric are in keeping with its superior covering.

There is a particular Goodyear hose scientifically designed—as in the case of Goodyear Water Hose—for every Industrial use.

A man trained by Goodyear will be sent to study your hose problems—without obligation. Phone, wire, or write the nearest branch.

EXPECT 50,000 LBS. OF WOOL THIS WEEK

Mr. Walsh stated that there was no scarcity of raw material and that he did not think that reports that the bottom had dropped out of the wool market in Boston would affect provincial wool much because by the time it is shipped, in the latter part of July, there is likely to be a big change in the condition of the market. However, it is said that wool buyers who two years ago were offering in this province 91 cents a pound for wool, are this year offering 25 cents for unwashed and 35 cents for washed. It is said they are indifferent whether they get the wool or not, and it is evident there is no scarcity of the raw material.

A report received by Mr. Walsh from the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers' Association states that in Boston last week conditions were thoroughly gone into by them, with the result that it was found there was practically no market in that city for wool. This they stated was owing to the scarcity of money and the high interest on loans, the fact that cancellations were being received by mills on orders placed, and the difficulty experienced in transportation. The tight money question was the most important factor in the condition of the market.

Mr. Walsh also said that these conditions he thought were only temporary, and while for the time being the market was depressed the underlying conditions were sound. The dealers and buyers of wool, he stated, were in the same state, only buying the wool where they considered themselves perfectly safe in paying the prices they did for it. He further stated that the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers' Association would prove a good thing for wool growers this year.

President of Manufacturers Commends the Government

comfort, and to afford them opportunities for education and advancement.

The Labor Situation

In the Canadian labor field during the past year there have been three outstanding events. First, the investigation of the Royal Commission on Industrial Relations, which toured Canada in the spring of 1919, and reported to the government last summer; 2nd, the National Industrial Conference which was held in Ottawa last September, and third, the first International Labor Conference authorized by the Peace Treaty, which was held in Washington last November. Members of this association gave evidence at the twenty-eight sittings held by the Royal Commission on Industrial Relations from Victoria, B. C., to Sydney, N. S. Representatives from the chief lines of industry in this association, were present at the National Industrial Conference, along with representatives from railways, lumbering, mining, fishing, banking, and other employers. A past president of this association, represented the employers of Canada at the International Labor Conference in Washington.

One would think from reading certain newspapers and listening to some speakers, that all Canada was suffering acutely from a malady vaguely described as "unrest." No doubt there are fever spots where there are either malignant influences at work, or where there are real grievances that require remedy, but these isolated cases are not typical of conditions throughout the country, nor the mental attitude of the majority of Canadians.

The outstanding feature in labor matters during the year has been the gradual elimination of the revolutionary element by moderate labor men. The political and social ideas put forward with considerable vehemence by a minority have been tried partially, and have failed utterly in the estimation of wage earners themselves. On the other hand, a great deal has been done by the moderate wage earners themselves. On the other hand, a great majority, with the co-operation of other citizens who have the welfare of the country at heart, to make the conditions and rewards of wage earning citizens more satisfactory. More will be accomplished, but it would appear now that progress will be made in the spirit of co-operation and in the knowledge of the fact that there is a relationship between the interests of all classes of citizens, irrespective of their occupations.

Hours of work must be governed by a country's necessity for production. The result of the experiment of establishing the national eight-hour day in France by law does not seem to have been satisfactory, according to an announcement made by the Minister of Commerce for France at Paris on April 11th last. In referring to the report of the commission which had been appointed to investigate the results of the establishment of the eight-hour day, the Minister said that production in France had decreased in exact proportion to the reduction in the hours of labor. It is being realized that there is no vague fund provided by supernatural means out of which wages, interest charges, operating costs, and dividends are paid.

Group Government.

The separation of elected representatives of the people into groups, which has been in existence in Europe for some years, shows signs of being introduced on this continent, where up till the present time the two-party system of government has operated. If a parliament is made up of a group of farmers, another group representing labor, another group representing retail and wholesale trade, another group representing transportation, etc., it may be difficult to carry on government without considerable intrigue and friction. Under the old system of government, with all its faults, the members of a party were held together by a common belief in one principle or policy. Under the group system of government each group, according to experience, pursues very persistently these objects which are of peculiar interest to the group. There is also a constant shifting of alliances among the groups. It may be that the group system is the next logical development in government, and, if so, it will be inevitable; but it seems reasonable to fear that if the respective groups forming the government are actuated by entirely selfish motives, parliament and legislature may degenerate into a half dozen hostile, intriguing camps, and public business, which should be conducted with the national point of view and for the national welfare, will be impeded.

It is a historical fact that no one class or group can long maintain privileges that are secured at the expense of other classes, because the injured classes finally combine to limit such privileges. We do not want warring groups in Canada, but rather a union of all groups to advance the interests of our common country.

The Cost of Living.

The high cost of living, which oppresses us all, is not a local condition in Canada; it is world wide—the inevitable result of a great war—and is caused partly by scarcity of materials and the immense demand of Europe for everything we produce. Another cause is the great inflation of currency which is largely a credit expansion necessitated by government borrowing. A further cause is extravagant living; for it is obvious that, if every family in Canada increases its luxuries and comforts, the scarcity of material will also be increased, and the price of commodities will rise in consequence. It has been stated, in some quarters, that manufacturers favor high prices. This is not true, for a very good reason. Manufacturers are the heaviest buyers. During a period of high prices materials are scarce, dear, and difficult to secure. Wages are enormously increased owing to the increased cost of living. This adds to the risk of manufacturing operations. Moreover, when prices are unduly high, the purchasing power of the public is decreased, which results in a decrease in the manufacturers' output. People will not build, for example, after prices reach too high a point. In a country such as Canada, which is of great area and of a relatively small population, a manufacturer especially desires output because the most satisfactory results are secured from a large turnover at a price that will induce the public to buy freely. An increased production of all materials from farm, factory, mine and forest is the greatest need of Canada today, and will do more than anything else to lower the high cost of living.

Canada's Debt.

The net debt of Canada, after deducting inactive and non-productive assets, is $2,273,305,436, a great sum it is true, but not serious if balanced against the industry of our people, and our national wealth, which was estimated in December, 19[illegible] by the Dominion statistician at sixteen billion dollars.

It is desirable for us to curtail as much as possible the imports of those goods that can be made in Canada. The purchase of material made at home is not in the interests of producers only, but benefits all classes who share in the proceeds of the sale directly or indirectly. The quality of Canadian products, in many respects, stands very high, but efforts should be made to improve still further the quality of all classes of goods and to keep the prices at as low a level as possible so as to encourage the sale of our own goods to our own people.

Taxation.

Taxation is not a popular subject, certainly not with the manufacturers, who are the heaviest taxpayers. Manufacturers pay the bulk of customs tariff duties. They pay business taxes, excise taxes on materials, stamp taxes, taxes on insurance, taxes on goods sold to them, income taxes, corporation taxes, and, in addition, the ordinary taxes paid by the consumer; but we must face the fact that Canada has been through a great war which has cost enormous sums of money, and our increased taxes are for the purpose of helping to pay the cost of the war. The Government must have revenue, and it is much better to struggle with the difficult problem of securing it by current taxation than to adopt the easier and more dangerous method of unnecessary borrowing. Sir Henry Drayton Minister of Finance, is to be commended for defining in his budget speech the policy that Canada must stop borrowing and must pay as she goes. The best way to secure relief is to increase production. If our country is prosperous, the citizens can pay the taxes, but if the country is poor and nonproductive taxes will become an intolerable burden. This point should be remembered. Taxes may be heavy although we won the war, but what would these taxes have been if we had lost the war? In spite of our great national debt and increased burden of taxation and other domestic problems, Canadians, in comparison with other peoples, are surely not in any dangerous position. Does any Canadian really doubt the future of this country? There will be periods of prosperity and periods of hard times, but with our resources, our industries, our fertile agricultural lands, the character of our population, is it not certain that the progress of Canada in the future, as in the past, will be steadily onward?

Since the conclusion of the war, there has been a very general increase in the protective tariffs of nearly all the industrial countries of the world, because these countries, particularly those that were engaged in the war, were anxious to provide employment for their own population. The tariff of the United States has not been altered. In Canada, the 7 1-2 p. c. war tariff has been entirely removed. The position of this association in regard to the Canadian customs tariff was clearly defined at the last annual meeting, where a resolution was passed advocating a revision of the tariff and the establishment of a permanent tariff board of experts who would act in an advisory capacity to the government. I do not see any reason why this resolution should not be reaffirmed at this meeting. The objects of the fiscal system of Canada should be to diminish, as far as possible, the buying of goods from other countries, which can be produced here; to facilitate the importation of raw materials which cannot be produced at home; to export our own materials in the shape of finished products; and to make Canada as self-contained as possible by developing and encouraging activities which will give occupation to our citizens. The association last year also went strongly on record in favor of tariff preferences among the various countries constituting the British Empire. The war strengthened the ties which bind the Empire together, and we believe these ties would be further strengthened by the extension of Imperial preferential tariffs.

URGENT NEED OF FIRE SUFFERERS

Appeal From City Pulpits Yesterday for Aid for the St. Quentin Sufferers

The City Council on Saturday afternoon received a telegram from A. T. LeBlanc, Campbellton, stating that the most urgent needs of the St. Quentin fire sufferers at the present time were clothing and money.

Following the communication from Mr. LeBlanc, the members of the City Council got in touch with the ministers of the various churches and asked them to make an appeal from their pulpits for clothing for the afflicted people. The Employment Bureau office on York street is being held open for any articles which the citizens are willing to give, and any parcels that are to be called for will be collected by Ald. Harold M. In this tiny building, 133 Queen Street, Kingston, Ont., Governor Simcoe, Sir Richard Cartwright and other Canadian statesmen assembled for the first time to shape and plan the policies of Canada.

What Simcoe Would Now Find At Kingston

WHEN Kingston became the capital of Upper Canada in July, 1792, and Governor Graves Simcoe, with his counsellors, formulated their policies in a little wooden building at 133 Queen Street, who knows what they may have thought about the length of time it would survive them?

How do you feel about your own home—so valued by you now?

Simcoe's little council house is a monument to the gospel of long preservation through surface protection. It still stands, the first parliament building of Canada, braving the elements of more than a century. Its care was habitual. Unprotected by regular coatings of paint, it could not have lasted one-quarter the time.

The whole country is dotted with similar examples. Your home can look forward to belonging to the same illustrious company through the same means—surface protection.

Think of it! Every attack of decay and rust must necessarily begin at the surface. These insidious enemies are completely checkmated by surface protection. With frequent protective coatings of the surface, the property is invulnerable.

Look over your property—all of it and do it now. Save it—Save the surface and you save all.

THIS ANNOUNCEMENT is issued by the Canadian Save the Surface Campaign Committee, for the purpose of educating the public in the Preservative and Protective value of Paint, Varnish and Allied Products for the Conservation of Property, and has received the approval of the Canadian Trade Commission in the following words:

154 Nominations Made in 12 Early Closing Stakes at Maritime & Maine Tracks

Forty-Six Entries at Houlton, Forty-Nine at Woodstock and Forty-Nine at St. Stephen—Fredericton's Stakes Will Be Out This Week

Complete returns compiled today show a total entry of 154 nominations in twelve early closing stakes for the fall races at three of the Maritime and Maine Circuit tracks, which closed on June 1st.

Thus unparalleled success has attended the fall stakes for the 1920 season, the practice of offering early closing events will no doubt be continued in greater numbers in the future and the assertions which have been made by The Gleaner that investigation showed a larger number of horses would be racing in the East this fall than ever before are being amply borne out.

And on Clashing Dates.

On Saturday the record entry for the St. Stephen Fair stakes was reported, showing eighteen entries for the 2.20 mixed, eighten for the 2.30 mixed, fourteen for the 2.24 trot and nine for the 2.20 trot. Word today from J. Henry DeWitt, secretary of the Woodstock Driving Club, is that the 3-year-old race, which was offered as an experiment, was the only one of the stakes for the Woodstock Fair races that did not fill. For their 2.30 pace they received eighteen nominations, fourteen for the 2.30 trot, ten in the 2.24 trot and pace and seven in the 2.18 trot and pace. Harry Nevers, the Houlton trainer, had the only nomination in the stake that was offered for the colts.

Few Eastern Horses at Houlton.

The Houlton Fair stakes also closed last week, and all expect the exceptionally fast classes filled and filled well. Dr. E. P. Henderson, the Houlton secretary declared today that he had received fifteen nominations for the 2.30 pace, fourteen for the 2.22 trot, nine for the 2.19 mixed and eight for the 2.17 mixed. The 2.13 and the 2.15 mixed stakes did not fill and will be reopened or converted into class races. The Houlton management expressed surprise at the small number of entries they had received from the eastern part of the Maritime Provinces, saying that Bill Sharon, 2.16¼, was about the only horse from east of Woodstock that had been nominated in their stakes.

Inasmuch as the Houlton Fair will be the only meeting on the Maritime and Maine Circuit the week of August 31st, September 1st, 2nd and 3rd, this failure on the part of eastern horsemen to patronize their stakes is one of those oddities about the racing plans of campaigning stables which cannot be explained. It may be, however, that a good many of them have figured on taking in Bangor, Me., Fair, then Machias Fair and St. Stephen, which is a convenient shipment for those not wishing to go up North.

They All Meet at Fredericton.

One thing, however, seems certain and that is there will be a great gathering of horses and horsemen in Fredericton for the Fredericton Park Association's fall opening. This will follow the week after the Woodstock and St. Stephen Fair, and with such tremendous entry lists at those opposition meetings there should be a wonderful week's racing when they all get together here. The Fredericton stakes will be announced this week and there will be at least five and perhaps as many as eight with a free for all pace and a free for all trot definitely decided upon as two of the class events.—J. FREDERICTON HIGH WON FROM M'ADAM

Railway Town's Twirler Had Too Much "On" the Ball Even for His Catcher

The Fredericton High School team defeated McAdam Junction junior team at College Field on Saturday afternoon by a score of 22 to 4 in a loosely played baseball game.

From the second inning the High School team by steady fielding held the McAdam team down while the visitors gave their pitcher no support and lost by countless errors. Currie on the mound for the Fredericton High proved a mystery that the McAdam boys could not solve at all, and this combined with the steady fielding of his team-mates gave the local boys a one-sided victory. Miller, on the mound for the visitors, allowed only three hits and had 16 strike outs to his credit, but his catcher couldn't hold his shoots. In the sixth inning Miller himself took the catcher's position while "Tommy" Estabrooks went on the mound, and for a time the High School team were held down by a slow ball effectively hurled by Estabrooks, but he gave away in the seventh inning to Miller. C. H. Cochrane, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., proved an impartial umpire.

Will Urge Co-ordination of Dominion Day Sport Events

Fredericton Park Association, A. and B. Club and Baseball League Can Provide Programme That Will Attract Many Visitors to City and Make Fine Holiday

A committee from the Fredericton Park Association will meet the A. and B. Club members this evening and endeavor to have an arrangement of the proposed boat and water sports programme for Dominion Day made so there will not be a clashing of attractions.

It is believed that if a general programme is prepared to give a good day's sport a large number of visitors can be attracted to Fredericton, particularly with the improved train service which will then be effective and the excellent opportunities for motoring.

The suggestion will be made that the water sports should commence in the morning and continue until 1 p. m. The afternoon would then be given over to horse racing and baseball at the Trotting Park, and at 6 p. m. the water sports and boat races could be continued, concluding at dark with an illuminated boat parade, band concert and dance at the A. and B. Club.

Entry blanks for the races will be sent out this week and, if there are not sufficient horses available for two days' racing, there will be one day's racing on Dominion Day with three classes on the three heat plan. Such a programme would meet the ideas of the present management of the Fredericton Park Association, who are more interested in pulling off two successful Maritime and Maine Circuit meetings than in racing small fields at a curtain raiser when horses are not available.—J. IN DAYS OF TERROR

'Ah! dear citizen," said Dixmer, smiling, and taking the young man's arm, "do you think we trouble ourselves about politics? No, no; relating to business, Dieu merci. My honored friend, Morand, who, as you know, is a celebrated chemist, has discovered the secret of staining leather red in an unequalled manner, that is to say unalterable, a process never discovered till now. It is this color I want to show you. Besides, you will see Morand at work; he is quite an 'artiste.'"

Maurice did not exactly comprehend how making a red dye constituted an 'artiste;' but nevertheless acceted his offer, and followed Dixmer across the tan-yards, and in a separate sort of office saw the Citizen Morand at work. He wore blue spectacles, was in his working dress, and seemed fully occupied in changing a skin from dirty white to purple. His hands and arms, visible under his sleeves, which were turned up, were red to the elbow.

He merely moved his head to Maurice, so entirely was he preoccupied.

"Well, Citizen Morand," said Dixmer, "what say we?"

"We shall gain 100,000 livres by this process alone; but I have not slept for eight days, and these acids have affected my sight."

Maurice left Dixmer with Morand, and joined Genevieve, murmuring sadly, "It must be confessed the trade of municipal stupifies the hero! About eight days in the Temple, one might fancy oneself an aristocat, and denounce oneself. Good Dixmer! Brave Morand! Sweet Genevieve!"

And for an instant they suspected me. Genevieve awaited Maurice with a sweet smile, calculated to make him forget all his latent cause for suspicion. She was as usual sweet, amiable, and charming. The hours passed in Genevieve's society were those only in which Maurice could be said really to exist.

At all other times he was infected with that fever, which might be termed the fever of '93, by which Paris was separated into two camps, and existence rendered a perpetual combat. Toward noon he quitted Genevieve and returned to the Tower of the Temple.

At the extremity of La Due Sainte-Avoye, he encountered Louis, now relieved from guard. He left the ranks and came to meet Maurice, who still wore upon his countenance the impress of the happiness he had enjoyed in the society of the lovely Genevieve.

'A'h!" said Louis, cordially shaking his friend by the hand,

"In vain you seek your anguish
Within your heart to hide,
I know for whom you languish,
For whom so long you've sighed;
Within your heart, within your eyes,
Love reigns, and triumphs in his prize."

Maurice put his hand in his pocket to search for the key. This was the method he adopted to put a stop to his friend's poetical vein. But he saw the movement, and ran away, laughing. "Apropos," said Louis, retracing his steps, "you have three days more at the Temple; I recommend the little Capet to your care."

CHAPTER XII.

Love.

In fact Maurice for some time had experienced a strange mixture of happiness and misery. It is always thus at the commencement of "des grandes passions." His daily occupation of the Section Lepelletier, his evening visits to the old Rue Saint-Jacques, and some occasional visits to the club of the Thermopyles filled up his days.

He did not disimulate. He well knew that to see Genevieve daily was to imbibe large draughts of love unaccompanied by hope. Genevieve was a woman of retired manners and pleasing appearance, who would frankly tender her hand to a friend, and would innocently approach his face with her lips, with the confidence of a sister, and the ignorance of a vestal, before whom the words of love appear as blasphemy.

Thus in the purest dreams that the first style of Raphael has traced upon the canvas is a Madonna with smilnig lips, chaste eyes, and heavenly expression. Ie is necessary to borrow from the divine pupil of Perugino to portray the likeness of Genevieve.

In the midst of flowers, she imbibed their freshnes and perfume; isolated by the occupation of her husband, and by her husband himself, she appeared to Maurice each time he saw her like a living enigma, of which he could not divine the meaning, and dare not ask it. One evening when, as ushual, he remained alone with her, they were both seated at the same window by which he had entered, a few nights since, with so little ceremony; the perfume of the lilacs in full bloom upon the soft breeze that had succeeded the radiant sunset.

After a long silence, Maurice, having during this silence folowed the intelligent and holy eye of Genevieve as she watched the appearance of the stars in the azure vault of heaven, ventured to inquire concerning the great disparity between herself and husband. She so young, and he already pass the middle age; she so distingue, while everything around announced him a man of inferior birth and education; she so refined in her tastes, while her husband had not an idea beyond his manufactory.

"Here, at the abode of a master tanner are harp, piano and drawings, which you acknowledge to be your own. How is it that this aristocracy which I detest in others I adore in you?"

Genevieve fixed upon Maurice a look full of candor.

"Thanks," said she, "for this inquiry; it proves to me you have not sought information concerning me from an yone else."

"Never! madame," said Maurice; "I have a devoted friend who would die for me; I have a hundred comrades ready to follow wherever I may lead them; but among all these hearts, when a woman is concerned, and above all, such a woman as Genevieve, I know but of one I would trust, and that one is myself."

"Thanks, Maurice," said the young woman, "I will myself tell you all you desire to know."

"Your maiden name first," said Maurice "I only know your married one at present."

Genevieve detected the selfishness of love in this question, and smiled.

"Genevieve du Treily,' said she.

Maurice repeated, "Genevieve du Treily."

"My family," continued Genevieve, "was ruined after the American war, in which both my father and elder brother had taken part."

"Both gentlemen?" said Maurice.

"No, no," said Genevieve blushing.

"And yet you said your maiden name Genevieve du Treilly."

"My family, Monsieur Maurice, was rich, but not noble."

"You challenge me," saald the young man, smiling.

"Oh! no, no," repled Genevieve. 'nn America my father was connected with the father of Monsieur Morand. Monsieur Dixmer was managing man to Monsieur Morand. We were ruined, and Monsieur Morand, knowing that Monsieur Dixmer was a man of independent fortune, presented him to my father, who in his turn presented him to me.

"I saw he had beforehand formed a resoution of marriage. I understood it was the wish of my family. I did not love, neither had I ever loved any one, and I accepted him.

"I have now been Dixmer's wife for three years, and I am bound to say he has proved to me so good and excellent a husband, that notwithstanding the difference of taste and the disparity of age, I have never even for a moment experienced the slightest feeling of regret."

"But," said Maurice, "when you married Monsieur Dixmer he was not at the head of this manufactory."

You Can Get All the Mileage which is Built into Goodyear Tires

OBVIOUSLY, the maker cannot guard an automobile tire against all the accidents incident to a strenuous career.

But Goodyear has produced Tire Savers and Service Stations to cure or prevent things which shorten tire life.

The Goodyear Tire Reliner is one of these Tire Savers—a complete new lining for tires weakened by injuries or hard driving—the cure for fabric breaks, the prevention of premature blowouts.

This reinforcement, given the tire as soon as weakness shows in the fabric, should add a thousand or more miles to the service you usually get.

Goodyear Service Station Dealers recommend and use Goodyear Tire Reliners and other Goodyear Tire Savers solely for one purpose—to make Goodyear Tires go farther, and thus build up their sales.

GOODYEAR Service Station

These same Service Stations do many other things for their customers—watch wheels for alignment, warn against under-inflation, give advice on tire care.

All of which is part of a Goodyear policy—to help users get all the generous mileage which is built into Goodyear Tires—a policy which has built the largest sale of any tire in the world.

You can benefit directly by going to a Goodyear Service Station for tires and tubes, and by writing us at Toronto for our free Tire Conservation Course.

CRITICIZE U. S. ADMINISTRATION

Washington June 5—The majority members of the House sub-committee which investigated expenditures of the American Expeditionary Forces made public today what they described as a preliminary report in which they criticized the sale of surplus equipment to the French government, charged that "useless and criminal" waste of life occurred on armistice day, condemned American prison conditions overseas, and asserted that junior officers and enlisted men had been excluded almost entirely from the award of war medals.

The average man is a poor judge of his own importance.

Under this schedule the customer really profits most.

The $60 ring plus 20 per cent. luxury tax ($12) is now only $72 —a saving of $3.

RESIGNATION OF THE GERMAN GOVERNMENT

DIFFICULTY OVER ELECTION RETURNS

President Asks That Steps Be Taken for Early Meeting of the Reichstag

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Berlin, June 8.—The government today tendered its resignation to President Ebert, who requested it to remain in office provisionally.

The President also asked Chancellor Mueller to take steps so that the results of Sunday's parliamentary election can be established as soon as possible in order that the Reichstag may be summoned at the earliest possible date.

INTOXICATION OF THE INTELLECT

The Sinn Fein Wedge Is Being Hammered in Against Will of Real Americans

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

New York, June 8.—The widespread effect which the Sinn Fein propaganda has had upon certain sections of the public in the United States is attributed to "intoxication of the intellect" by Commissioner D. D. Irvine, of the society for American and British Friendship.

Mr. Irvine, in a statement on the Irish question, declared the Sinn Fein wedge is being hammered in "by the wielders of the mallet of disruption," in an effort to cleave apart the United States and Great Britain. "Much labor, oratory, advertising, and finance is being spent on this ignoble enterprise," he says. "Yet with all the brains to direct, agencies to co-operate and gifts to finance the mad effort will be futile."

After likening the movement to "a trothy sea hammering with great display the granite portals of a coast," and predicting that the storm will soon settle down, Mr. Irvine continues:

"It seems essential for the world to get drunk on something. There are mental potions that set the brain on fire and, in this intoxication of intellect, reason staggers from her throne, logic lies in the stupor of false deductions, and conscience sleeps the sleep of senseless stupidity. Sinn Fein is a dangerous stimulant for the Irish temperament. A few prohibition laws for this mental drunkenness seem essential for the safety of the rest of the world.

"Sinn Fein is doomed! Nature dooms it. It is a cross-over of species born of Home Rule and lawless radicalism. Nature debars perpetuation of this type and the hybrid is barren. Sinn Fein is a kicking mule which will live the allotted span of kindred movements and then die, and in death its name ends. Every kick brings it nearer its end. Let it kick, but keep away from its heels and hold the bridle taut. In the circus of national freaks, Sinn Fein is the trick mule which for a time is holding the attention of the crowd, while clever clowns use the beast for acrobatic antics for financial gains.

"Some movements attracts strange followers. Freak movements always fascinate brains without breeding and breeding without brains; money without character and character without money. Sinn Fein is no exception. It lures the unthinking, it dupes the thoughtful, it fascinates the bad and deceives the good. But when the awakening comes keep the gangway clear for the rush ashore from the sinking ship will be a spectacle to behold. We will see it one of these days. Live awhile and see the fun."

KEEP PARTY POLITICS OUT OF G. W. V. A.

Halifax Vetorans Vote Down a Resolution Calling for Participation In Politics

COLONEL MARGESON DENOUNCES MANIFESTO

Says Public Will Stand Behind Widows and Orphans But Not With Perfectly Fit Men

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Halifax, N. S., June 8.—At the monthly meeting of the local branch of the G. W. V. A., held last night, a resolution calling for participation in politics on the part of the association was discussed and rejected.

An Ill-Advised Document.

Ottawa, June 8.—An unqualified denunciation of the manifesto of R. B Maxwell, Dominion president of the G. W. V. A., in which he called upon the Union Government to resign, was made by Colonel J. W. Margeson, president of the Ottawa command G. W. V. A. at the regular meeting last night.

"I deem it an ill-advised document, inspired from Alberta," he declared when a member insisted that his views be given on the subject before a general discussion ensued among the members.

Colonel Margeson said that the Dominion president should have at least waited till the report of the parliamentary committee on re-establishment and pensions had been received.

"If you want to out-flim-flam support this measure," he declared in an impassioned address.

Playing Party Politics.

He said that if the G. W. V. A. persisted in presenting such a measure as representing the policy of the association, the present Government could rightly conclude "that certain people in the G. W. V. A. were playing party politics."

"We, as returned soldiers, have not the support of the people behind us in this thing," said Colonel Margeson, pointing to the disastrous attempt at a similar movement in New South Wales a few weeks ago.

"If you think that you will get better re-establishment from a Farmer Government or a Liberal Government who would be elected on platforms of retrenchment, then you had a better insight into politics than I have," he said. "Public opinion is now with the returned soldier today. The public are ready to stand behind the widows and orphans, but not with men 100 per cent. fit who are looking for cash grants. It is only the idle men who are seeking such a thing," he declared.

LEAPED INTO SEA FROM THE STEAMER

Lifeboats From the Liner Corsican Searched for Man, But Found No Trace

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Quebec, June 8—Passengers arriving here by the C. P. O. S. Corsican yesterday reported that on Sunday night a male passenger leaped over the railing of the vessel into the sea. The vessel had just passed Martin River at the time and when the cry of "man overboard" went up, lifebelts were thrown into the water and the vessel immediately swung to and began to circle.

A life boat was also put out, but after searching in vain for some time had to return to the ship without seeing any trace of the victim.

STEAMER AGROUND

Quebec, June 8.—The Furness liner Manchester Division, from Manchester, which yesterday morning grounded in the mud at the mouth of St Charles river, was still fast at midnight last night despite efforts of tugs to release her. A further effort will be made at high tide today to pull the vessel off.

Manitoba Crop Prospects Ideal

Every Reason to Expect Bumper Crop

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Winnipeg, June 8.—"Never have I seen crop conditions more hopeful; there is plenty of moisture, the land is in good shape and the conditions reported to me from every point in the districts visited, without exception, is nearer the ideal than it has been for years," declared James H. Evans, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, in a report of crop conditions in central and southwestern Manitoba.

As to the grasshopper situation, he said good work was being done all over the area and much headway was being made.

Conditions Better Than in Any Year Since the Bumper Crop of 1912

GRASSHOPPER MENACE YET

A Fine Organization to Fight the Pest in the Province.

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Winnipeg, June 8.—In presenting its second crop report for 1920, the Manitoba Free Press announces that it indicates about the best condition of crops at the date of any year since 1904, when these reports began, with possibly the single exception of 1912, when the June crop conditions were as nearly perfect as it is possible to hope for.

This present report is much more encouraging than the early June report of the famous bumper year of 1915, as during the early part of June of that year heavy frosts occurred and the crop had not fully recovered from them.

Very grave apprehension has existed as to grasshoppers, and all correspondents in the infected areas were asked as to hoppers. The replies on the whole show that the wet weather has retarded hatching, but whether permanently or not remains to be seen. Only two points, both in Manitoba, namely, Waskada and Clearwater, report any serious damage up to the present. All points report fine organization to fight the pests and abundant supplies of poison for bait.

Under general conditions the report could scarcely be more optimistic, "never better," "ideal," and similar expressions abounding.

Argentina Export Duties.

Buenos Aires, June 8.—Protests by the British, French and Italian Ministers against the new export duties on wheat exportation, which were filed with the Foreign Office last week, have not as yet produced results, and ships ready to leave for European ports have not been able to complete their cargoes.

President Irigoyen has the whole matter in his hands, and he is said to take the attitude that it is important to the country that no further wheat be exported until some means of reducing the price of bread are assured.

MANUFACTURERS DOWN TO WORK

The Reports of the Industrial Relations and the Insurance Committees Adopted

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Vancouver, B. C., June 8.—The report of the industrial relations and insurance committees were read and adopted at last evening's session of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

A vote of thanks was tendered R. Parsons for his work as representative of the Association with the Canadian delegation to the International Labor Congress at Washington. At the conclusion of the session, A. E. Bryan, Canadian Trade Commissioner to Japan, delivered an address on Canadian-Japanese trade conditions.

Industrial Relations Committee.

The report of the industrial relations committee showed that a considerable number of factories in Canada have established idustrial councils. The simplest form, and that which apparently finds the most favor, is a joint committee, consisting of representative of the management and the employees. This committee is usually divided into sub-committees, which study such subjects as wages, production, hours of labor, conditions of the plant, and suggestions to improve process of manufacture. Your committee believe that, in so far as such councils awaken the interests of employees and make them feel that the prosperity of the individual plant adds to their own welfare, they are to be commended.

Your committee have also secured and circulated such documents as the statements of principles of the United States' employers, labor platform of Australian employers, and other documents of a similar nature.

Your committee does not believe that it is the province of the department to interfere in any way with local strikes or disputes. A report, embodying the views of the committee on these points, has been approved by the executive council.

Your committee are convinced that the radical and unreasonable elements of labor have lost a great deal of ground during the past year, and are being discarded by the moderate elements, who realize that they and the employers are mutually concerned in the productive organization of the country, and that their interests can best be served by consultation and co-operation rather than by disagreements and strikes.

Delegates at Luncheon.

Vancouver, B. C., June 8.—About four hundred members of the Canadian Manufacturers Association were guests at a luncheon tendered by the Vancouver Board of Trade yesterday. Addresses of welcome were delivered by Premier John Oliver, who dwelt at length on the abundant resources of British Columbia in particular and Canada in general; Mayor Gale and J. P. Mulkin, President of the Board of Trade.

Bridgeman, parliamentary secertary of the Board of Trade, replying to a question in the House of Commons yesterday, said it was not proposed to prohibit the export of coal frm the British Isles to South America. The quantity expected to be available for export to South America was approximately 80,000 tons monthly, and directions have been given that this amount might be released from the South Wales district.

MARYSVILLE GIRL IN WAR ROMANCE

Miss Bessie Gailey and Dr. Campbell Married at New York

[Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.]

Marysville, N. B., June 8.—A fitting conclusion to a pretty war romance occurred at St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Cathedral, 5th avenue, New York, at 10 o'clock a. m., June 3nd inst. when Miss Bessie A. Gailey, sister of Hugh A. and Miss Mary 9. Gailey, of Marysville, became the bride of Dr. Alton C. Campbell, of Raleigh, North Carolina. Miss Gailey was attended by Miss Lulu Lee, of Philadelphia, Pa., and the groom was supported by Dr. John C. Burns, of Boston, Mass. The bride wore a gown of white silk and carried a bouquet of white roses. The happy couple are spending a few days in New York before proceeding to their home at Raleigh.

Mrs. Campbell graduated from the Morrison Hospital at Whitefield, N. H., and practiced her profession as a nurse for some time in the New England States. When the war was on she volunteered for service at the front and was attached to the American Red Cross Society, and went to Camp Johnstone, near Jacksonville, Florida. It was here that she met Dr. Campbell, who was attached to the American army as chief surgeon of the camp.

While out boating one day the boat was capsized and she was rescued from drowning by Captain Campbell, and this was the beginning of the romance which has had such a pleasant ending.

Miss Lee was a fellow nurse of Mrs. Campbell and Dr. Burns was also a surgeon at Camp Johnstone.

After the cessation of hostilities Mrs. Campbell was appointed assistant superintendent of St. Luke's Hospital at Jacksonville, Fla., which position she held until she resigned to come home at the time of the death of her father, the late George A. Gailey.

Dr. and Mrs. Campbell have the best wishes of a host of friends in this community for their future welfare and success.

Mrs. V. Hodgson, of Fall River, Mass., with her son, Ralph, are visiting friends here.

Miss Mattie Pond was taken to Victoria Hospital last evening to undergo an operation for appendicitis.

Jack Thornton arrived here from Montreal a few days ago and is visiting relatives here.

Miss Mabel Mackey is leaving today for Edmunston to visit friends.

CALL ON WOMEN TO SAVE THE STATE

Helen Ring Robinson Deplores Fact That There Are Few Women Legislators

Geneva, Switzerland, June 7.—Helen Ring Robinson, formerly state senator of Colorado, was one of the speakers today at the mass meeting held here by the Congress of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance and addressed exclusively by women members or former members of parliaments or other governing bodies.

"It is a great pity that there have been relatively so few women legislators in my own country," she said. "In our various state legislatures some sixty different women have served. But they have been spread over a good deal of territory and time, which makes the spreading much too thin.

"So far but one woman has been elected to our national Congress and during the entire term of office of Congresswoman Rankin the press never ceased debating whether she was a flower or a vegetable. For myself, I vote for the vegetable. What the world needs today is a big crop of vegetables, and nature looks out for the flowers anyway.

"There are four callings for which women are plainly better fitted than are men—acting, caring for children, nursing and legislating. I do not say women have surpassed men as legislators, which should deal primarily with improvements in social relations.

"Count Sulein is credited with saying that the Great War was caused by a quarrel between Hungary and Serbia over the shipment of hogs. All the great wars of history have been caused by quarrels over the shipment of hogs—in some guise or other. All of the legislation back of those wars has been built on hogs and the belief that the measure of a nation's greatness is the production of wealth-hogs.

"Now another estimate of value is shaping itself out of a world's agony, the ideal that women have always held that the measure of a nation's greatness is the production of health and happiness. Here is the especial task of the woman legislator. Here is the solemn duty of the women assembled in Geneva at what may justly be called an internationale of goodwill—to put this new vision across the flux of the whole world's thinking by every possible expedient, to embody it into law, to weld it into constitutions, to interpret it into every international movement."

And yet it should be easier to tell the truth than to manufacture a lie.

Go slow and the other fellow may beat you to it.

POTATOES $7.20 A BUSHEL IN CHICAGO

Prices Highest in History of Country—New Potatoes on Market

Chicago, June 7.—Potato prices today reached their highest price in the history of the country. This was reported by the federal bureau of markets after new potatoes had advanced $2 a hundredweight over yesterday's figures and old potatoes had moved up 70 to 75 cents.

New potatoes sold here yesterday at $11 and $17 a hundredweight, which figures out around $7.20 a bushel. One car of old potatoes sold at $9.25 a hundredweight, which is at the rate of $6.75 to $7 a bushel. Old potatoes are reported in small quantity, and new potatoes are the chief supply.

At these figures most of the potatoes on the market will cost the grocer around 13 cents a pound, it is estimated, and grocers in high priced neighborhoods will retail them around 20 cents a pound, while other grocers may sell around 18.

The principal reason for prices reaching this peak, according to the bureau of markets, is that this happens to be an interim between production sections coming into the market. Shipments from Florida are done and Louisiana shipments are dwindling. Only 16 cars of new and old potatoes arrived here today as against ordinary arrivals of 60 to 75. New stock from the Carolinas is now beginning to come in.

The situation is reported as general and not confined to Chicago.

The highest previous price of potatoes on record here is $3.50 to $4 a bushel for old stock in the early spring of 1917.

Opposition in the House to Bringing Mounted Police East

Some Members Thought It Would Be Degrading to Fine Record of the Force to See It Brought Down to the Menial Work of Hunting Illicit Stills

[Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.]

Ottawa, June 8.—That the Mounted Police are growing tired of praise and would like something more substantial was the burden of the criticism which "Nobby" White, member for Victoria, Alberta, and himself an old member of the force, made to the House when the estimates for the force were made up last night.

There was a pretty strong attack on the new system of placing the Police in the East, and it came from both sides of the House, Mr. Butts, the member for Cape Breton, strongly advising the Government to drop the idea of sending them to Nova Scotia, while Hon. R. Lemieux also protested against bringing them east, where he said there was no need for them.

More than one member thought that it was somewhat degrading to the fine record of the force to see it brought down to the menial work of hunting illicit stills, and urged the Government to disband the force altogether, rather than see it brought to such base uses. Hon. W. S. Fielding recalled that he had been told by a leading public man in England that what had struck him most in Canada was the Mounted Police and the respect for law and order they had inculcated in the West. Mr. Fielding assumed that part of the Government's object in bringing the force East was to perpetuate it by giving it employment there rather than disband it altogether. To which the Minister nodded assent. Like nearly all who spoke, the former Minister of Finance expressed an earnest hope that the force would not have to be disbanded, but that it would be maintained in its proper sphere.

Mr. Rowell allayed the fears of Mr. Butts by stating that the Police were to be stationed only at Halifax, to take the place of the Dominion Police, who had always been there, and would not be spread throughout the province. He called attention to the great moral effect presence of the force had had in Winnipeg and Vancouver during the labor unrest last summer, saying the latter city might have had the same experience as Winnipeg if the police had not been there.

The need of increased pensions for retired members of the force was urged by Mr. White, who said there were old Mounties who were trying to eke out an existence on pensions of from $12 to $18 a month. They had got more praise than any other organization in Canada, but appreciation had ended there. They would now like something to keep them out of the poor house. The Minister did not hold out much hope of an increase either to Mr. White or Mr. Stevens of Vancouver, who spoke in similar tones.

The force of 150 police now stationed here attracts much attention on its weekly rides which take place on Wednesdays, although in the hardened breast of Mr. Cahill of Pontiac, they evoked only the thought that they should be out planting potatoes. Included in the estimates is an item of half a million for barracks for the force here, so the policy now pursued is not likely to be changed.

NOMINAL MARRIAGE BY RUSSIAN GIRL

Moscow Teacher Had Been Chosen as Wife for One of Lenine's Ministers

Geneva, June 7.—Faced with the alternative of being nationalized or getting married, Lydia Zelinskara, of Moscow, chose the latter solution temporarily, she explained in a Geneva divorce court yesterday.

According to Miss Zelinskara's story, which was corroborated by her husband, the Bolshevik secretary of the nationalization committee, called on her at her home in Moscow and informed her she had been chosen as the wife of one of the leaders in Lenine's cabinet. Either she must submit or be "nationalized," the Bolshevik envoy said. Miss Zolinskara, who was a young school mistress, decided to do neither. She persuaded a Swiss, Nicholas Weiss, of Appenzell, to marry her nominally. Two sacks of white flour were instrumental in securing the services of a Russian priest to perform the marriage ceremony without the usual religious functions. The marriage, however, was registered at the Swiss consulate in Moscow, the bride becoming a Swiss citizen.

Weiss and his wife never met again after the ceremony until a steamer transporting Swis refugees from Russian arrived at Marseilles. Yesterday Miss Zelinskara sued her husband for absolute divorce. The suit was not defended and she obtained a decree.

GENERAL PROBE INTO SUGAR PRICES

Montreal, June 7.—The Board of Commerce today continued the probe into sugar prices and profits, the chief witness being Robert Anderson, and for two hours he was put through a merciless cross-examination by Chairman O'Connor who plainly intimated that he considered Mr. Anderson as one of the speculators who had thrust themselves into the sugar business with a view to making profits and had thus brought about a general increase in the prices.

The Board adjourned to meet at Ottawa on Thursday and Toronto tomorrow week.

WORTH MILLIONS BUT INCOMPETENT

New York, June 7.—John W. O'Bannon, founder of the O'Bannon Corporation of West Barrington, R. I., and Boston, manufacturers of artificial leather, whose fortune is estimated at more than $15,000,000, today was pronounced mentally incompetent by a sheriff's jury on petition of his mother. He was born in St. Louis 52 years ago.

THE PRESBYTERIAN GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Much Business Transacted at Yesterday's Session—The Next Place of Meeting

Ottawa, June 7.—After several eloquent speeches in which the respective merits of St. John, N. B., and Vancouver, B. C., were discussed, the Presbyterian General Assembly meeting in Chalmers Presbyterian church this afternoon decided by a large majority to meet in the West next year. The vote was by a show of hands, and was so decisive that the moderator did not even have to count the vote.

An animated discussion took place on the question of payments to aged and infirm ministers. Peter Campbell, a layman from Stratford, put things in a pointed way. He said that the assembly stated a minister could not live on less than $1,500 a year, yet after a lifetime of service ministers were pensioned off, after their usefulness was gone, at far less sums than that.

Moreover, he said that the church had never made an apeal for these men. He had been contributing since 1877 and had never been asked for money on behalf of these men. If the church would trust the laity and ask them for money needed it would be forthcoming just as when the church asked four million in the forward movement five million was received. Men were leaving the ministry because they saw the treatment that old and infirm ministers received. The discussion became very animated when it was adjourned to allow the selection of assembly meeting place in 1921.

Applications seeking retirement included the following ministers: Dr. J. Nicholson, Pictou; J. A. McLean, Lunenburg; R. O. Sinclair, P. E. I These were all accepted.

The committee submitted for approval the following recommendations as a method of securing sufficient income to reach the goal set by the London Assembly:

1. An assessment to be made upon every congregation to be based upon the stipend paid by the congregation, such assessment, together with the stipend, to be a first charge upon the revenue of the congregation.
2. All ministers shall pay rates.
3. Interests from endowments.
4. An amount to be allocated by the finance board to supplement the foregoing amount to the extent necessary.
5. That the general assembly effect an organization to secure sufficient endowments to carry out the proposed scheme of annuities in the near future.

(It is obvious that as the endowment is increased the drain on the budget of the church will be proportionately decreased.)

6. That it be a regulation of the church that every minister at ordination be connected with the pension funds by paying rates.
7. That the interests of those already connected with the present funds be conserved.

CANDIDATES FOR RHODES SCHOLAR

St. John, June 8—The committee charged with the selection of the Rhodes scholar from New Brunswick, met yesterday afternoon and evening in the Law Library to examine the six candidates, two from Mount Allison, two from the University of New Brunswick and two from the University of St. Joseph's College. The committee will also meet today and it will probably be at least a week before they make known their choice. Sir Douglas Hazen, C. J., is chairman of the committee, and the other members are R. St. John Freeze, Rupert Rive, J. McNair and Mr. Taylor. All except the chairman are past Rhode scholars.

The candidates are George Skinner and R. Barraclough, of Mount Allison; H. T. Reilly and H. P. Binet, of St. Joseph's, and W. M. Addison and F. A. Patterson, from U. N. B. The successful candidate will leave for Oxford in January, the selection for October having already been made, G. F. C. Bridges, of Fredericton, being the successful candidate.

DETAILS OF BONUS TO CIVIL SERVANTS

Otawa, June 7.—Full details of the bonus to civil servants were given in a return tabled in the House of Commons today. Civil service employees of eigteen years of more, and supporting dependents, receiving less than $1,200 a year, get a bonus of $35 per month throughout the present fiscal year. In the same class the bonus decreases $2 a month for every extra $20 of salary. Bonus of $20 a month applies to all salaries between $2,040 and $6,000 per annum.

Civil servants twenty-one years or more and not supporting dependents receive a bonus of $21 per month if their salary is less than $960 a year. For every extra $20 per month in salary the bonus drops $2.50. Servanes in the same class between eighteen and twenty-one years and getting less than $960 yearly, receive a bonus of $12.50 per month.

Civil servants working full time for part of the year receive bonus for the period of their service. Those working less than full time the year round are not entitled to bonus. Among these are rural postmasters and their employees who get no bonus.

When Life Was Swift And Death Was Sudden

OH, YOU TEX!

In "Oh, You Tex!" Mr. Raine again shows that he is one of the few authors who can write stories of Western adventure that ring true.

His new tale takes its title from one Jack Roberts, a Texas Ranger in the old days of the Civil War, who was known to his friends as "Tex." It is just the book for every one who craves the wild, free life of the old-time West.

THE NEW TAXATION.

There is a prevalent notion that the Finance Minister should apply his luxury or economy taxes only to the amounts paid for in excess of the fixed price of the specified articles, points out the Montreal Gazette. In the case of boots, for example, it is contended that the tax on $15 boots should be 60 cents or ten per cent. on the excess price over $9, the maximum exemption, and not $1.50 on the total price paid; and so on throughout the list. This new suggestion ignores the fact that the main purpose of the taxation is to raise revenue; so that if the Finance Minister parts with a material portion of his estimated income he must derive the amount thus lost from other sources, and in the end the difference may be that of tweedledum and tweedledee. Of a surety more money must be had by the Government if public credit is to be maintained, if an equilibrium is to be established between income and expenditure, and if new borrowing on capital account for current expenses is to be stopped. There is none other way to do this than by increased taxation. Differences of opinion will exist as to methods, but whatever the plan the hard fact remains that unavoidable expenditure requires an additional contribution to the Treasury by the people of approximately a hundred millions annually.

Tariff reduction might, conceivably, temporarily enlarge revenue from Customs by increasing importations, but this policy obviously implies destruction of home industry and in the end means prostration of domestic manufactures, unemployment of labor, and general disturbance of trade. It means substitution of foreign made for Canadian made goods. Criticism, it seems to us, can more pertinently and effectively be directed against the price limits of non-taxable articles set by the Finance Minister. It is not an indulgence in extravagance to buy a $9 pair of boots or a $45 suit of clothes, and if the Finance Minister insists in retaining the tax-exempt prices at present figures he must alter the designation of his tax, which is not in fact a luxury tax, and call it by another name.

THE U. S. AND PULPWOOD.

A despatch from Washington states that Congress has adopted the resolutions proposed by Senator Underwood to take a big stick to Canada unless Canadian restrictions on export of pulpwood to the United States are abolished. We use the phrase "big stick" because it is Senator Underwood's phrase, says the Ottawa Journal. His resolution is nominally one to appoint a United States commission to negotiate with Canadian governments for cancellation of the restrictive pulpwood legislation, but Senator Underwood, in proposing it, stated bluntly that the object was to get a recommendation to Congress to club Canada in case the restrictive legislation were not abandoned by our provinces. At a hearing before the House Committee on Foreign Affairs he told the committee that the purport of the commission he wanted was "to find the most effective 'big stick' "we can lay on the necks of the Cana-"dians if they refuse." He said he favored "strong-arm" methods in dealing with Canada. Congressman Treadwell used similar language. Col. W. E. Haskell, of the International Paper Company, gave his opinion that "a "stick behind the back is a good "thing to have." When some one suggested approaching Canada in a conciliatory way, a member of the committee remarked, "be conciliatory, but carry a club." Other members talked in a general way of the adoption of a "retaliatory tariff" as a "coercive measure." Col. Haskell suggested prohibiting export of coal and sulphate to Canada.

It is well to be clear what the Underwood demand is. The pulpwood export restrictions which prevail in some provinces of Canada are aimed merely to promote manufacture of pulp and paper in Canada. They do not discriminate against Americans. Any American who owns or can get pulpwood in Canada can manufacture it in Canada into pulp or paper on exactly the same terms as any Canadian. No Canadian, any more than any American, can export pulpwood from some of our provinces. The idea is to keep pulpwood in Canada so as to induce erection of pulp and paper mills in Canada. But Americans are welcome to erect such mills, and indeed do so largely. What the Underwood proposition asserts is an American right to compel Canada to let her pulpwood go to the United States to promote the erection and business of United States mills. The Underwood proposition asserts that the United States shall try to compel Canada to abandon effort to promote Canadian manufacture from Canadian raw material in order that the United States shall get the manufacture. This is, in essence, a fighting proposition. It is a challenge to war—commercial and industrial war to begin with, and any old kind of war later if Canada could dare it.

The Underwood excuse is that some Americans leased pulpwood limits in Canada prior to restriction of export of pulpwood. In other words, that a foreigner who enters into a lease in some other country than his own shall thenceforth, as regards that lease, be immune from the law which that other country may pass affecting leases in general. In still other words, that an American who makes any investment in Canada should be able to defy any Canadian law which afterwards may touch his investment, even though it touches all Canadian investments equally. This is a proclamation of the determination of a foreign country to control another country. It is an assertion which no self-respecting people could tamely acquiesce in. It is to be hoped that the United States commission which has been decided on will find itself obliged to come to a different conclusion from Senator Underwood and those who at present agree with him.

THE TRADE WITH RUSSIA.

For several weeks, following the death of Kolchak and the defeat and flight of Denikene, there has been talk of a Soviet peace movement. Perhaps the revolution is wearing itself out, as an exchange remarks. Wide differences as to the actual conditions existing in Russia mark the testimony of missions and individuals who have been in the country and have succeeded in getting out again, but it is to be noted that little is now being heard of the orgies of destruction and slaughter which characterized the rule of the Soviet for so many months. Some significance, too, may be attached to the fact that one of the ablest and most resourceful of the generals of the armies of the Czar now leads the Soviet forces in their struggle with the Poles. Moderate Russians, it may be, have reached the conclusion that there is no alternative but to make the best of a bad job and work through the de facto government rather than against it. Statesmen and observers in other countries are getting around to pretty much the same view.

The presence of Gregory Krassin in London, as Soviet Minister of Trade and Commerce, is a part of this development. The British Prime Minister has been, bitterly assailed for meeting this man, and the indignation which the incident has aroused is not unnatural. No one likes the idea of doing business and establishing peaceful relations with a group of assassins. Nor is the contention that recognition of the Soviet Government implies condonation of its acts, one that it is easy to answer. The question is, however, a practical one, soluble only by practical means, and it is very pressing. General Smuts says that "You cannot defeat Russia. "Napoleon learned that lesson and "now Kolchak and Denikene have "learned it too." The Allies long since dismissed the idea of extensive military operations against Russia, and have learned that nothing is to be gained by half-way attempts at intervention. The Polish campaign, which General Smuts had in mind, cannot be maintained for long with the very limited resources which the Poles have at their command. Yet something must be done if the distractions of eastern Europe are to cease, and the longer it is put off, the more difficult it will be.

If peace cannot be restored by any other means than by the re-establishment of commercial intercourse, then the argument is all on the side of such reestablishment. Mr. Lloyd-George, in his statements to the House of Commons on Thursday last, said the promotion of trade relations with Russia had been decided upon by the Supreme Council. Negotiations had not begun, for the reason that certain conditions must first be complied with by Russia, such as the release of British prisoners, and the adoption of measures necessary to safeguard British interests in the east and elsewhere. When these conditions have been fulfilled, negotiations can proceed, and, presumably, will proceed. If they are successful, and if they are the means of restoring tranquility in eastern Europe, the attitude of Mr. Lloyd-George and of the Supreme Council will be justified in the result achieved. In France there is a disposition to block the movement, but France is, perhaps, least qualified of any European nation to judge the case of Russia. France has had its revolution, its slaughter of the innocent, and the commune.

U. S. FARMERS FOR CANADIAN WEST

Cheapness of Land in Canada Responsible for Exodus From the United States

Omaha, Nebraska, June 7.—The great exodus of farmers out of the trans-Missouri country into Western Canada, which was in full swing in 1914, and which was checked by the outbreak of war, is again getting under way, according to a recent statement made by W. V. Bennett, who is in charge of the Canadian Government Land Office here. Mr. Bennett asserts that the cheapness of land offered in the Dominion is responsible for some of the best farmers and citizens of Nebraska leaving the state and since the beginning of the year they have been crossing the international boundary in a steady stream. In short, Western Canada has reassumed its pre-war attractiveness to farmers from the central western states.

The Canadian Government's land office has been functioning in Omaha under the management of Mr. Bennett since 1896. In that year sixteen farmers with very apparent misgivings started out of the Missouri Valley, and proceeded to Western Canada provided with round trip tickets by Mr. Bennett. Incidentally the return tickets were not used. Since then the stream of farmers has poured continually out of the Missouri valley into Western Canada until 1915, when the war sounded a death knell to emigration from the United States to the Dominion.

According to Mr. Bennett's recent statement, in the first three months of 1920 almost as many settlers from the trans-Missouri country have gone to Canada as went in 1919, when 498 emigrants applied for certificates. The value of the goods taken by the contingent last year was $1,050,000. During the first three months of this year 383 settlers applied for certificates at the Omaha office and took with them to the Dominion $1,094,030.

Mr. Bennett has kept an accurate account of the men and millions movement through the Canadian land office. At least 50 per cent. more men and millions have gone from this territory in the last twenty-four years than passed through the Canadian land office, but no account is taken of this movement.

In the twenty-four years the Omaha office has been open 44,856 settlers applied for certificates to Canada. The value of goods taken out of the United States by this number amounted to $49,919,205. Practically none of these have come back to the United States so far as can be ascertained.

The year 1912 was the big year in emigration from this district to western Canada. When the war started the exodus was at its highest, but hostilities checked it. In 1912 emigrants numbering 4,463 applied for certificates at the Omaha office, and their valuables amounted to $5,165,485. The following year fewer applications were filed, but the amount of money possessed by them was larger. In that year the number of emigrants was 3,529, and their possessions worth $5,512,395.

Then emigration ceased with the outbreak of war. In 1915 but 732 crossed the border through the Omaha office, taking with them $1,509,360, which was practically the last movement until the resumption of emigration last year.

In explanation of the revival of emigration to Western Canada Mr. Bennett offered a very brief solution. "Farmers down here," he said, "are selling their lands at tremendous prices and going to Canada and buying land just as good for one-third of what they sell for. That explains the whole thing."

CORN PRICES DROP TO LOWER LEVEL

Decision on U. S. Prohibition Amendment Cause Distillers to Go Out of Market

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

New York, June 8.—Corn prices broke about 3 cents a bushel yesterday afternoon, following the announcement of the supreme court decision upholding the eighteenth amendment.

It was believed that the demand would be considerably restricted in consequence of the partial withdrawal of distillers, although much of this will be made up, probably through increased use of corn by manufacturers of breakfast foods.

Other grains were not materially affected by the decision.

The Stock Market

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York (Wall Street), June 8.—Stocks were inclined to react at the quiet opening of today's session, yesterday's late flurry in call loans encouraging the shorts to resume their recent aggression. There were a few exceptions, however, Reading, Harvester and Royal Dutch scoring gains of two to three points. The heavier issues included Mercantile Marine preferred, which fell 1¾, low grade oils, several of the steels and also equipments and motors, in which losses ranged from large fractions to a point. Shares of the Granger railroads were backward, despite further favorable crop prospects.

POLICE THREATEN GOOD SAMARITANS

Lancaster, Ohio, June —This town has been divided into bitter rival camps by an ad. which appeared in a local paper. It read:

WANTED—A little whisky for medicinal use for five-year-old child who is desperately ill.

The ad. was inserted by Mr. and Mrs. Huftle, theatrical people who were forced to leave their show by their child's illness. On Sunday, the day after the ad. appeared, a number of people on their way to church stopped at the hotel where the Huftles were staying and left whiskey. Dry detectives are now threatening arrests, supported by some of the local prohibition forces, while a large section of the population has lined up behind the actors.

Share in Building St. John Dry Dock

By buying some of the First Mortgage 5 1-2 Serial Gold Bonds Issue to finance the work. This Bond Issue is purely a capitalization of the semi-annual Subsidy which the Dominion Government covenants to pay and therefore places this security on practically the same level as Victory Loan Bonds. In the case of Victory Loan Bonds, the Government pays interest and principal to the holders direct through the banks. In the case of the St. John Dry Dock and Shipbuilding Co., the Government of Canada pays interest and principal to the holder of the bonds through the Trustee, the Montreal Trust Co., who in turn pay through the Royal Bank of Canada.

We offer these Bonds with our recommendation.

FROM THE PEOPLE

NEW FEDERAL TAXES

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—One cannot help but be amused at the struggle of the retailer to shelve the responsibility for the collection of the luxury tax.

He wishes it to be collected from the manufacturer, and though he knows that the manufacturer would add it to his cost and establish an extra profit on it, a profit which the retailer in turn would use to pile up more charges upon, he also knows that the public will pay the price, because it would appear as the value of the goods. The consumer will pay cheerfully for the value of the goods, but he will pay grudgingly the tax. So Mr. Consumer will, wherever he can, buy articles which are tax free. The retailer will thus have a greater demand for the more moderate priced goods, and both he and the manufacturer will have to be satisfied with smaller profits. No act that could be brought forward will have a better or more far-reaching effect in bringing down exorbitant profits and checking extravagance. Let Sir Henry stick to his guns. He has struck an effective blow in the name of common sense. More power to him.

Yours,
ONE OF THE MANY.
Fredericton, June 7, 1920.

THE SLACKERS PEEVE HIM

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I have been interested in what I have read in your People's column about the gratuities suggested for the Canadian soldiers and the various discussions that have been carried on as to the treatment of the returned men by the Government.

I volunteered for service soon after the outbreak of the war, went to France, saw considerable action and spent three months in hospitals recovering from wounds. I want no bonus for that service or my wounds, but I do feel that the pay I received in France as a sergeant compares rather oddly with the pay received by my valiant friends who protected their precious hides by grabbing "war jobs" on the civil service or munition factory front, or in the various other bomb-proof sectors in America.

To my mind the people forget quickly. The novelty of the war wore off quickly and the soldier and his plea for a job or common justice became a public nuisance. Our friends in the House and elsewhere tell us we can hold our heads higher, that our service was beyond price.

Holding our heads higher gets us nothing. As far as retaining our self-respect is concerned the man who was a slacker feels no shame for having done nothing in his country's hour of trial.

If this country went to war again I would volunteer as before, but I certainly would entertain no false hopes of any aid or display of gratitude beyond speeches and parades from my country. The country took our services as a matter of course, which was right, but it allowed some men to become vastly rich and refused adequately to compensate its fighters.

That's the way the situation seems to me.

Yours,
AN EX-SOLDIER.
St. Stephen, N. B., June 3, 1920.

THE SHORTAGE OF LABOR

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Do we not all agree that one large factor causing the much discussed H. C. of L. is the lack of labor? Particularly men of pick and shovel calibre alone. We hear every day of our lives that this article or that is impossible to get because there are not men enough to make it or to move it after it has been made, or to load it on trucks or to get it up again when it is delivered — due time elapsed. Food is high because there is no adequate supply of farm labor. The number of examples is legion.

Why not resort to war measures again and get some relief, if not permanent, from this intolerable condition? In France, when man power was at a premium, the Allied Powers imported large bodies of Chinese, African or Indian coolies to do the heavy manual labor. These men were obtained by contract, wages and the duration of the labor specified; they were under strict discipline so that intercourse or trouble with the populace was quite negligible. At the end of their contract time they were transported back to their homes with no exceptions, all quite content in the possession of many times the sum they could ever hope to amass in a lifetime in their own homes. The pay granted them was but a fraction of what we now pay to get a great deal smaller volume of work done. Why not import such bodies under similar conditions for periods of say three to five years, keep them in some of the cantonments no longer in use, with enough guards to insure the safety of the community and to keep them together; farm them out to the railroads for section hands, to farmers for the heavy work, to contractors for the pick and shovel work in large projects, to road builders—any place where their services are required in large numbers?

I forestall the howl from organized labor. Bread snatched out of the mouths of men and babies. But would this follow? If the men now drawing $4 and $5 a day for unskilled labor cannot learn to do anything better they can be paid as much to guard the "gangs" proposed, with much less effort for them. It is the large wages paid to the big numbers of men required for unskilled labor that has jacked things out of sight.

What do your readers think of the plan?

Yours,
AN OBSERVER.
St. Stephen, N. B., June 5, 1920.

ALL'S WELL THAT ENDS WELL

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Some time ago I read an inquiry made by one of your women readers who asked if it would be proper for her to help a man friend who had become involved in business troubles. Although I am a faithful reader of the column, I failed to notice any printed replies. So I am writing to tell the woman that I had a similar experience a few years ago which terminated happily all round.

I simply advanced the money anonymously, with a statement indicating that the writer was a man who would in due time make himself known. So there was a touch of humor in the situation as well as a very practical help, with no injury to pride of the recipient.

All ended well, and we are now engaged to be married.

Yours,
PORTIA.

Chicago, June 8.—Senator Hiram Johnson put forward last night the argument in favor of his own nomination for President by the Republican national convention. He denounced the League of Nations covenant as a triumph of "cynical old world diplomacy; the defeat of the new world liberalism."

The Republican Fight.

Chicago, June 8.—The only definable action of the Republican party seems to be driving Wood, Lowden and Johnson into a deadlock fight for the nomination of the presidency, which it is generally recognized may destroy them all and stampede the convention into voting for a dark horse. Voting will take place Wednesday or Thursday.

The Canadian Manufacturers.

Vancouver, June 8.—The Canadian Manufacturers' Association convention opened here yesterday. About 300 delegates from all over Canada were present and welcomed by Mayor Gale, of Vancouver. Captain Robert Dollar addressed the meeting and predicted that the day was not distant when the Pacific would be the world centre of commerce.

MEDICAL COUNCIL OF CANADA MEETS

Final Session of Present Council, With New One to Be Elected for Four Years

Ottawa, June 7.—The eighth session of the Medical Council of Canada was held in Ottawa last week. This council is the legislative body, having representatives from every province and from every university teaching medicine, and three representatives of the governor-in-council.

Those obtaining registration on the Canada Medical Register under the provisions of the statute in that behalf, are qualified for license to practice medicine and surgery in any province of Canada, and every province has accepted this qualification by an Act of the Legislature.

The recent session of the council, or parent body, that creates the regulations and appoints the various boards of examiners, was of interest inasmuch as it was the final session of the present council, the term of office of which is four years.

In 1920 a new council will be elected or appointed as the case may be.

The recent session was presided over by the vice president, Dr. A. MacNeill, of Summerside, P. E. I.

There were present besides the vice president, Hon. Dr. Brett, Edmonton; Dr. Clarke, Toronto; Dr. Jenkins, Charlottetown; Dr. Dagneau, Quebec; Dr. Eaglesham, Weyburn; Dr. Crang, Edmonton; Dr. Griffin, Hamilton; Dr. Harris, Halifax; Dr. Braithwaite, Edmonton; Dr. Jarvis, London; Dr. Harwood, Montreal; Dr. Millar, Battleford; Dr. Normand, Three Rivers; Dr. Popham, Winnipeg; Dr. Morgan, Montreal; Dr. Rogers, Winnipeg; Dr. Simard, Quebec; Dr. Spankle, Wolfe Island; Dr. Sugden, Winnipeg; Dr. VanWart, Fredericton; Dr. Walker, New Westminster; Dr. White, St. John; Dr. Mackay, Halifax; Dr. Young, Saskatoon.

Dr. Robert W. Powell, Ottawa, the registrar of the council, was present throughout the meetings as the official of the council.

At the closing session, Dr. A. MacNeill was elected president for the current year. Hon. Dr. Brett was elected vice president. Sir Thomas Roddick is the honorary president of the council.

Some familiar faces were unfortunately absent at this session, viz.: Dr. J. C. Connell, the president for the past year; Hon. Dr. Thornton, of Winnipeg; Sir Thomas Roddick, of Montreal; Dr. McKechnie, of Vancouver, and Dr Blackader, of Montreal.

Boards of examiners were appointed for examinations in Montreal next October and for exams. in June, 1921, in Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver. It was decided to hold an examination also in October this year in Halifax if a class should form.

FEDERATION OF LABOR CONVENED

500 Delegates From United States and Canada Are at Montreal Today

Montreal June 7.—With delegates present from all parts of the United States and Canada and Great Britain the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor began its deliberations in the St. Denis Theatre this morning.

The delegates, 500 strong, marched through the streets to the convention building. They were formally greeted by Hon. Athanase David, provincial secretary; E. R. Decary, chairman of the civic commission; Mayor Martin, Hon. G. D. Robertson, federal Minister of Labor, and Tom Moore, president of the Canadian Trades and Labor Council.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, replied to the speeches of welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Power, of St. John, who spent the week-end with their daughter and son-in-law, F. O. Conlon, have returned home.

INSPECTED ROADS IN WESTMORLAND

Chief Engineer Hill Returns From Tour With Minister and Members

Chief Road Engineer B. M. Hill, returned yesterday from Westmorland County, where he had been in company with Hon. P. J. Veniot, Minister of Public Works, Hon. Dr. E. A. Smith, Minister of Lands and Mines, District Engineer Melanson and the members of the Provincial Legislature from Westmorland County, on a tour of the Westmorland County roads. Mr. Hill stated this morning that the party had proceeded by car from Petitcodiac towards Havelock. The McLaughlan and Irishtown roads, on their way to Kent, were inspected, and Communication Hill, at the junction of the Irishtown and McLaughlin roads, was inspected and found the roads there to be in need of repairs.

The party proceeded towards Shediac and also towards Dorchester, and, Mr. Hill says, they found the roads in "excellent condition" though at that time they needed rain to enable dragging over them on account of their hardness and dryness. The party will later finish the inspection of the roads in the eastern end of the County of Westmorland as well as those in Albert County.

BOSTON IN FIFTH RANK U. S. CITIES

Census Shows Increase of 77,338, With a Total Population of 747,923

Washington, June 7.—The census bureau tonight announces the population of Boston to be 747,923, an increase of 77,339, or 11.5 per cent. over 1910. The increase in Boston's population was not so large as that of St. Louis, whose total population this year, as anounced several weeks ago, is 773,000, an increase of 11,791, or 19.4 per cent., over 1910. St. Louis therefore retains its rank as fourth most populous city of the country, and Boston will hold fifth rank, which it has held since 1890, unless Cleveland, sixth city in 9910, whose population has not yet been announced, shows an increase exceeding 186,0000 people to bring its total past Boston. St. Louis during the past year increased its lead over Boston from 16,500 to 25,000.

The order of cities up to the present census has been—New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Boston, Cleveland, Baltimore and Pittsburg, in the order named.

In 1879 St. Lous took rank as fourth city, with her population 60,000 more than Boston's. Boston's population exceeded St. Louis' in 1880 by 12,000, Boston ranking as fifth city and St. Louis as sixth. In 1890 St. Louis passed Boston with a population 3,000 larger, St. Louis taking fifth rank and Boston sixth. In the census of 1900 St. Louis took fourth rank and Boston fifth, St. Louis leading with a population about 14,300 larger than Boston. Brooklyn, which ranked as fourth city in 1890, had been incorporated into New York city, causing the two rival cities to move up in rank. The census of 1910 showed St. Louis with 16,500 more people than Boston and holding fourth rank.

Boston's population in 1910 was 670,585, an increase of 109,693, or 19.6 per cent. over 1900. Her largest numerical increase was 112,415 in the decade 1890-1900, while her largest rate of growth was 52.1 per cent. in the decade 1830-40.

In 1910 Boston and St. Louis were the only cities within the 60,000 class.

New York Leads London.

Announcement of the population of three of the country's ten largest cities by the census bureau tonight gave the first definite indication of how New York city stands in the race with London for the honor of first city in the world.

The New York city figures were 5,621,151, an increase of 854,268, or 17.9 per cent. This is estimated to be a round million more than the population of London.

OBITUARY

Dunbar Nason.

Nasonworth, June 7.—Death entered this community June 1 and claimed Deacon Dunbar D. Nason, an aged and respected lifelong resident of this place, with the exception of five years spent in California. He left here in the spring of 1872 and returned in 1877 and settled at his home, where he died. His wife, who predeceased him fourteen years, was formerly Miss Lettie Mersereau. Deceased had been a deacon of the Baptist church of this place for several years. The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon, Rev. Z. L. Fash, of Fredericton, officiating. A short but impressive service was held at the house and at Russlagornis, where interment was made. Deacon Nason was a member of Russlagornis Loyal Orange Lodge, by whom the burial service was conducted. Mr. Nason leaves one son and two daughters, Leland S. Nason, at home, and Mrs. W. H. Smith, at home, and Mrs. Fred A. Nason, Fredericton.

A Tewksbury, Mass., man, on his way home from work in Lowell with two loaves of bread, met an old man, a neighbor, who said he had been unable to get any bread at the stores, and offered to divide with him, but when they got to the door he found he had lost one of his two loaves. However, he cut the remaining loaf in half and gave half to his neighbor, and then started back to see if he could find the lost loaf. After going a little way, he met the neighbor's son carrying the loaf, which he had found. Then the second loaf was cut in half and divided, so that, after all, each family had a loaf of bread.

Sometimes a man's past takes a short cut and heads off his future.

U. S. REPUBLICAN CONVENTION TODAY

Senator Lodge Gives Keynote Of Republican Policy in Fight For Presidency of Republic

Republican Party Will Make Issue on the League of Nations, to the Wilson Idea of Which They Are Unalterably Opposed—Would Take Firm Hand in Mexico

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Coliseum, Chicago, June 8.—The Republican National convention was called to order at 11.34 a. m. and soon after Chairman Hays appeared on the platform and was greeted with rounds of applause and shouts.

Position of Candidates.

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Chicago, June 8.—The country must drive President Wilson and his "dynasty" from power and defeat the League of Nations as he desires it, declared Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, temporary chairman of the Republican National Convention, in his keynote address here today.

Defending the Senate's opposition to the Treaty of Peace as a high and patriotic duty, the Senator flung down this gauntlet:

"We make the issue; we ask approbation for what we have done. The people will now tell us what they think of Mr. Wilson's League and the sacrifice of America."

While emphasizing the point that around the League must be waged the 1920 Presidential campaign, and devoting much of his speech to arraignment of the Wilson administration, the Senator found time to lay before the delegates the stand of the Republican party on other salient problems facing the nation.

The Mexican Situation.

Chief among these was Mexico. Declaring it was time for the United States to take a firm hand in things Mexican and end the "disgraceful record" of the last seven years, Senator Lodge urged that this country let the Mexicans choose as their president some strong and upright man who is friendly to the United States and determined to establish order and then lend him a real and cordial support.

"Mexico lies at our doors," he declared. "It is a primary duty for us to deal with it under the Monroe doctrine, but nothing has been done and yet we are asked to take a mandate for Armenia."

Salient points made by Senator Lodge were:

"Mr. Wilson and his dynasty, his heirs and assigns, or anybody that is his, anybody who with bent knee has served his purposes, must be driven from all control, from all influence upon the Government of the United States.

"They must be driven from office and power, not because they are Democrats, but because Mr. Wilson stands for a theory of administration and government which is not American.

"Mr. Wilson and the autocracy he represents, and all which those who believe in his doctrines and share his spirit represent, must be put aside and conclusively excluded from any future control.

The High Cost of Living.

"The rise of prices, the high cost of living which reach daily into every home, is the most pressing, as it is the most difficult and most essential problem which confronts us. Some of the sources of this trouble can be reached by legislation, although not all, but everything that can be effected by law should be done at once.

"Profiteering, the charging of extortionate and unjustified prices, which is stupid as well as unlawful, are subject now to ample punitive laws. Those laws should be enforced, others if necessary added, and the offenders both great and small should be pursued and punished.

"The most essential remedy for high costs of living is to keep up and increase production and particularly should every effort be made to advance the productivity of the farms.

"The phrase 'government ownership' means not only that the government shall own the railroads but also, it is to be feared, that those who run the railroads shall own the government. General government ownership under our political system would inevitably bring about the mastery of the government by those who operate the machinery of transportation or of any other industries which come into government possession. The rights of the general public, for whom all industries exist, would disappear under this scheme and nothing would be left to the people except the duty of paying taxes to support the roads.

Takes Firm Stand on Mexico.

"Over 600 Americans have been murdered in Mexico. Carranza insulted the American government in every possible way and still nothing was done. We fell so low that when an American was seized by one of the many bands of brigands and held for ransom, all that the government of the United States would do was to offer to be the channel for conveying the ransom of their citizens to the highwaymen who had seized them.

"We have watched and waited long enough. We need a firm hand at the helm. The time has come to put an end to this Mexican situation, which is a shame to the United States and a disgrace to civilization. If we are to take part in pacifying and helping the world, let us begin here at home in Mexico.

"Let the Mexicans choose as their president some strong and upright man who is friendly to the United States and determined to establish order and then let the United States give him a real and cordial support, and so strengthen and uphold him that he will be able to exterminate the bandits and put an end to the unceasing civil war.

The Treaty with Germany.

"When the armistice with Germany was signed the course to be pursued was clear. That course was to make the peace with Germany at once and then take up for reasonable consideration the question of establishing such future relations with our associates in the war as would make for the future peace of the world. This Mr. Wilson prevented. He went to Europe.

"He had apparently only one aim, to be the maker of a league of which he should be the head. He was determined that there should be a League of Nations then and there, and in order to nullify the powers of the Senate given by the Constitution of the United States, he decided to make the league an integral part of the treaty of peace with Germany. Thus he presented to the Senate, and intended to present, a dilemma from which he believed there was no escape. In order to have peace with Germany, he meant to compel the Senate to accept with it the League of Nations.

"The Republicans of the Senate, perceiving the dangers of the League, determined to resist Mr. Wilson's demand. The American people will never accept that alliance with foreign nations proposed by the President. The President meantime has remained inflexible. He is determined to have that treaty as he brought it back or nothing; and to that imperious demand the people will reply in tones which cannot be misunderstood.

"We have stopped Mr. Wilson's treaty and the question goes to the people. In 1916 Mr. Wilson won on the cry that 'he had kept us out of war.' He now demands the approval of the American people for his party and his administration on the ground that he has kept us out of peace.

League of Nations the Issue.

"We make the issue; we ask approbation for what we have done. The people will now tell us what they think of Mr. Wilson's league and its sacrifice of America.

"They (the people) will tear aside the veil of words woven to blind and deceive and come down to the essential and vital point—Mr. Wilson's plan on one side and the independence and safety of the United States on the other.

"All Americans must join together in their own way and with their own arguments defeat Mr. Wilson's league as he desires it, whether amended by him or in its prestine simplicity."

Senator Lodge charged the Democratic party with responsibility for the "perilous conditions of the hour" and said, if the Republican party fails to grapple it effectively "the Russian descent into barbarism will begin to draw near."

A beginning had been made, he said, by a Republican Congress in restoring economic conditions, "working under all the difficulties and opposition imposed by a hostile executive." He enumerated various beneficial measures, adding that the estimates had been reduced over a billion dollars. He advocated enforcement of the laws against profiteering and said it was possible to check the advance of prices by law, by providing for "the control of credits in such manner as to give preference to the most essential products." He described the Railroad Act "as a single great law which in any period would be sufficient to distinguish a Congress as one of high accomplishment."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SPREADS IN EUROPE

Membership of Church in Germany and Switzerland Increasing Rapidly

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Boston, June 8.—John W. Doorly, retiring president of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Mother Church of the Christian Science faith, in his address at the annual meeting of the church yesterday, declared that the meeting "sees the clouds which have threatened the Christian Science cause during the past year rolling steadily away."

The retiring president said he had met with "unfailing courtesy" from the Board of Directors of the church. Religious and secular, in the main, are "sympathetic" toward the "apparent difficulties" of the mother church, according to the report of the committee on publication.

Hermann S. Hering, who recently returned from a lecture tour in Europe, said that the membership of Christian Science churches in some European cities had doubled since the war, and that there was particular activity in Germany and Switzerland. He said the German government in 1918 forbade Christian Scientists to hold public services, but that under the present government the services had been resumed.

A New Motor Delivery.

The presence of so many delivery cars on the streets of Fredericton is not only an indication of the prosperity of its merchants but speaks volumes for the up-to-date methods of this city. The latest addition noticeable is a handsome Overland light truck belonging to that enterprising firm, Lindsay, Beattie & Co., who last fall purchased the grocery business of G. T. Whelpley. With the use of the car this firm will be able to greatly improve their delivery service, which has always been a feature with them.

Presentation of Reports at Federation of Labor Convention Tomorrow

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Montreal, June 8.—After a brief session, the American Federation of Labor, in annual convention here today, took an adjournment until tomorrow, as there was no further business on hand until the resolutions committee's report was ready.

The auditors report read to the convention revealed that the Federation has a "defence fund" of $254,074, and paid out $67,912 in strike benefits during the last year.

James Duncan, vice-president, presided today in the absence of Samuel Gompers, president, who is in Chicago.

The resolutions committee and the various other committees were in session throughout the day and will begin presentation of their reports tomorrow.

Given Novelty Shower

About one hundred friends gathered in the A. O. H. rooms in the Old Gaiety last evening and gave Miss Gertrude Barry a variety shower. Miss Barry, who was in total ignorance of the affair planned in her honor, went to the hall presumably to attend a whist party. All present were asked to join hands for a "Dan Tucker," with Miss Barry and Mr. O'Neil in the centre. At a given signal the doors were thrown open and little Dorothy Rowan and Charles Farrell, dressed as a bride and groom, wheeled in a baby carriage beautifully decorated and loaded with gifts for the bride-to-be. Dainty refreshments were served and the gathering broke up wishing the bride-to-be many years of happy married life. Miss Barry and Mr. O'Neill, Jr., are to be married tomorrow morning at 7 o'clock at St Dunstan's church.

Dramatic Recital Next Week.

One of England's most eminently successful dramatic readers is to be in Fredericton next week, Prof. John Duxbury, of London, who has achieved a popularity as a public reciter, second to none, and a large audience should be present at the Fraser Memorial on Thursday evening, June 17th, to hear him. A rare treat is in store for all who attend.

The U. S. Friends of Ireland Demand Republican Plank Recognizing Freedom of Erin

Threaten to Start a Third Party if Their Demands Not Acceded To—De Valera Warned That He Must Not Dictate to the American People

Chicago, June 8.—Eamon De Valera, "President of the Irish Republic," was warned in a meeting of Irish sympathizers this afternoon that he must not attempt to dictate to the American people.

This warning, served by Patrick H. O'Donnell of Chicago, a prominent leader in the Irish movement, was given during a debate behind closed doors as to the methods to be pursued in attempting to obtain a plank calling for the immediate recognition of the Irish Republic by Congress.

In this debate, Frank P. Walsh, of Kansas City, after declaring that he would support Johnson if Johnson was named on the right sort of a platform, brought up the question of a third party.

"Make no mistake," said he, "there will be a candidate running on a free Ireland platform."

Walsh did not name the party, but he left no doubt as to what he has in mind, the American Labor party, of which he is one of the founders and leaders.

Cohalan and Devoy Absent.

Walsh as chairman of the American committee on Irish independence, presided at the meeting, which took place behind closed doors in the French room of the Blackstone. Attendance was restricted to members of this commission and to chairmen of the State organizations of the Friends of Irish Freedom, including the officers of the Massachusetts Irish bond drive. The absence from the meeting of Justice Daniel F. Cohalan of New York, who arrived yesterday, and of John Devoy, who is understood to be in Chicago, cause no little comment.

It was reported that a committee which saw Chairman Will H. Hays last week assured it that the committee on resolutions will receive Mr. De Valera and whoever he may wish to bring with him. Beyond this he gave no assurances, saying it was for the committee and not for him to say what action will be taken.

From other sources, reports came to the meeting that it is doubtful whether favorable action will be taken by the resolutions committee.

Exchange Situation Shows Little Change

Glace Bay, N. S., June 8.—A strike of the civic employees at the pumping station and the electric light and power plant has been called for Thursday of this week by the Central Federation of Labor in the event of certain demands not being conceded by the town authorities. The town clerk has issued a notice to the public to govern itself accordingly.

Roads and Streets Committee Meet.

The roads and streets committee of the City Council met last evening to consider the contract of R. T. Baird for delivering trap rock to the city which Mr. Baird has asked the City Council to annul. After discussion it was decided by the committee that if Mr. Baird were willing to allow an auditor named by the committee to go over his books and find out the true state of conditions and report back to the council they would make up on the next three thousand yards of trap rock what Mr. Baird had already lost on his contract.

BASEBALL BETTING CASE IN COURTS

Boston Pool Room Proprietor Star Witness in Magee's Case at Cincinnati

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Cincinnati, O., June 8.—A motion for a directed verdict in favor of the defendant was overruled by Judge John W. Peck at the conclusion of the testimony yesterday of Lee Magee, who is suing the Chicago National League baseball club for salary which he claims is due him and for breach of contract.

James Costello, of Boston, proprietor of a billiard hall, was the star witness for the defense. He said that on July 24, 1918, Magee approached him with a proposal to "toss" the first game of a double header to be played next day by the Cincinnati Reds with the Boston Braves.

Next morning, said Costello, Magee returned with Hal Chase, who was then first baseman for the Reds. The pair said they had the pitcher, Schneider, "fixed." As evidence of their good faith, the witness said, the two players put up checks for $500 each. Costello cashed the checks and the money was put up on the game. Magee and Chase, if their team lost, were to get back their money, together with their winnings, and one-third of the winnings of others who were induced to bet. Anotoher pitcher was put in that day, and the Reds won. The witness said he did not see Magee until he went to New York looking for him to make good on the $500 check, on which Magee had stopped payment.

Christy Mathewson, who was manager of the Reds in 1918, testified that he believed Magee had deliberately made the errors that almost cost the Reds the first game in Boston on July 25, 1918. He admitted that there had been gambling among the Reds' players, but so far as he knew they had always bet on their own team.

Cleveland, June 7.—The Cleveland Americans defeated the Pittsburg Nationals in an exhibition game here today, 5 to 3.

Ol McGregor 2.14 1 4 Coming

Ol. McGregor, 2.14 1-4, is the latest purchase for the Maritime and Maine Circuit campaign.

The chestnut stallion has been in Roy Nickerson's stable at Combination Park and he has now been sold to Presque Isle parties, who plan on campaigning him on the M. & M. Circuit.

Ol. McGregor is eligible to the 2.19 class, having made his winrace record of 2.18 1-4 last season. It would look like as if the Aroostook parties had been angling for something with which to take a whirl at Royal McKinney, 2.11 1-4, which happens to be eligible to the 2.19 classes this season.

James Albert, Baby Doll and Hal King Show Miles Faster Than 2.10 in Their Trials

James Albert's Mile in 2.07½ the Fastest Shown by Any of the Horses in New England.—The Rail Birds' Checks on Trainers' Workouts

Despite the fact that up to the past two or three weeks the season for spring training has been anything but favorable for making speed, the trainers at the various tracks in New England lately have been making hay while the sun has been shining, and the majority now are well advanced in the work of getting their charges ready for the coming campaign which is scheduled to open at Combination Park on June 14, writes Bernard Austin in the Boston Herald.

Flemming Sets Mark.

Reports from Hartford are to the effect that at least two of the steeds in the stable of Will Crozier have touched the 2.10 notch in their work, with fractional parts of miles at a much faster gait, but it is almost a certainty that none has equalled the mark hung up at Readville last week by Billy Flemming.

On one of those warm days, when speed really was in order, Flemming took the bay pacer, James Albert (2.09¼), owned by C. C. Pendergast of Boston, and slipped around the Readville course in 2.07½, with the last half a shade slower than 1.03, undoubtedly the fastest mile negotiated hereabouts so far this year.

Working with James Albert that day was the bay pacing mare, Baby Doll, 2.10¼, the property of G. M. Colbath of Presque Isle, Me. The Maine-bred mare started from the wire a few lengths in the lead of the "Canadian Express" and was not far behind at the finish, so she must have shaded 2.10 materially. Flemming has worked Berney Hayt, 2.14, in 2.15, and Boston Man, 2.17½, the young pacer which he expects will be a trouble maker this season, is not far from the same notch.

But James Albert and Baby Doll are not the only 2.10 speedsters at the two-minute track. Jack Kingsley also has shown the railbirds whiz of that brand, furnishing a sample the other day with the Providence-owned sidewheeler. Hal King, 2.10¼, which is training to order. The Hal Chaffin pacer buzzed around the oval in 2.09½ and did the trick in such a manner that he looks like a real prospect for this year.

Although she has not covered an entire mile as fast as the King pacer, Sister Pearl, 2.10¼, another member of the Kingsley stable, already has shown a lot of that stuff called lick in her work so far this spring. At the 2.10½ mile last week she tripped off a half in 1.03, and breezed the last quarter in 29¾ seconds, probably the fastest quarter shown so far this season at the Readville course.

Gladys C., 2.16¼, which Kingsley bought out West a few months ago, has covered the last half of a 2.14½ mile in 1.06½, while the trotter, Direct Patch, 2.12¼, has registered in the same notch. In Little Frank B., 2.16¼ Kingsley has a "gulleless pacer." With no one in the sulky, Jack turned him loose at the wire the other day. The gelding covered the distance in 2.16½, the last half in 1.06, and the last eighth in 15 seconds. The sidewheeler has shown such an aptitude for going it alone that his trainer has visions of offering him as that sort of an attraction at the fairs this fall.

Monroe Going Easy.

Jack Monroe has been content in going comparatively slow miles. Prior to being shipped to the Charles River speedway, where she will be qualified for the junior league meeting, Margaret Dillon, 2.10¼, stepped a mile in 2.17¼, while The Lincoln, 2.13¼, has been let down to about the same notch.

Monroe is well pleased with the showing of the young trotter, Peter Sunshine, which has been liberally staked in the Bay State and Orange County circuits, while two others that are working to order are the young stallion Skyline (4), 2.12½, and the five-year-old mare Badia, an own sister to Baden, 2.05¼. The Sunshine stable yearlings now are well broken and soon will be turned out for the summer, as nothing more will be done until Jack comes home from the season's campaign.

Frank Monahan has been busy with the steeds owned by John W. Coakley of Boston, and while Ben Earl, 2.00¼, Kathleen Gale, 2.06¼, St. Frsuquin, 2.27¾, apparently are working to order, he particularly is well pleased with Coakley's recent purchase, Todd Temple, 2.09¼.

Despite the fact that the Readville trainers now are "honing" their pupils, there are few evidences of the dreaded lameness which always begins to crop out at this time of the year.

PREPARING FOR HOLIDAY EVENTS

Efforts Being Made to Arrange Programme That Will Satisfy All

Representatives of the Fredericton Park Association appeared before a meeting of the Automobile & Boat Club last evening and advocated the formation of a general committee to arrange the co-ordination of various sporting attractions planned for Dominion Day so there would not be a clashing of events in the day's programme. The difficulty seems to be that the Boat Club have counted upon carrying on their water sports during the afternoon, which is the time at which the horse races must be held under the rules. There was a general desire for co-operation expressed and committees from the A. & B. Club will be named by President George H. Clark, who will probably confer with the representatives of other organizations in arranging a day's programme. Deputy Mayor Wilkinson, Ald. Cooper and other members of the City Council also have expressed an interest and willingness to co-operate in making a general holiday programme for Fredericton on Dominion Day.

Fenesta, 2.06½, has failed to stand the "prep" and will be bred.

Quinn of Yankees Wins 8th Straight

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

New York, June 8.—In the American League yesterday New York divided a doube header with Philadelphia. Quinn won his eighth straight game in the first contest.

Three Detroit pitchers were found for sixteen hits by Chicago and the 1919 champions won easily. Ty Cobb, who was injured Sunday in a collision with Flagstead, will be out of the game for about ten days.

In the National League the Giants improved their play but were unable to defeat Brooklyn, the National League leaders, who bunched hits off Toney and Hubbell in three innings.

START PLAYING POSTPONED GAMES

Y. M. C. A. and Imperials Play Tonight and Marysville and Old Timers Wednesday

The executive of the York County Baseball League, at a meeting this morning, decided that postponed games were mounting up so rapidly that it would be advisable to change the arrangements and start playing the postponed games at once.

It was therefore ordered that the Y.M.C.A. and Imperials play tonight at the Trotting Park and Marysville and Old Timers play there tomorrow night. The games are schedued to start at 6.45 p. m.

The executive of the league at a previous meeting considered the protested game between the City team and Devon which was won by the City team with Fred McLean on the mound. The matter was left over until it was definitely known whether or not McLean would be re-instated as an amateur and be allowed to play amateur ball in the league.

Schnieder Denies Guilt.

Beaumont, Tex., June 8. — Pete Schneider, formerly with the Cincinnati Nationals, now a member of the Beaumont Texas League club, today denied that he was implicated with Magee and Chase in an alleged plan to have Boston defeat Cincinnati while he was a member of the Reds.

48 Home Runs In Big Show Last Week

The close races for leadership in the two major baseball leagues are almost eclipsed by the heavy batting and scoring of nearly all the teams. The American League amassed a total of 309 runs and 571 hits in 28 games last week, while the National League had a total of 250 runs and 532 hits in 27 games.

Of the 30 home runs made in the younger league, 21 were pounded out at New York, where "Babe" Ruth, the Yankee slugger, brought his season total to 15. In the National League 18 circuit smashes were made.

SUSPEND OWNERS AT DORVAL TRACK

Sequel to Claiming Race War That Has Been Going on at Running Races

Montreal, June 8.—On charges that they had been making friendly claims, an infraction of the rules governing racing under the Canadian Racing Association, two owners, Stuart Polk and J. Price, were suspended indefinitely last night.

This is the sequel to a claiming race war which has been carried to unusual lengths at the Dorval race meeting. For horses taken out of races yesterday, twenty-nine claims were filed. This has had an injurious effect on the racing, since owners were chary of entering horses in the races for fear they would lose them.

DEMPSEY'S CASE IN COURT AT 'FRISCO

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

San Francisco, Cal., June 8.—Trial of William Harrison (Jack) Dempsey, champion heavyweight pugilist, and his manager, Jack Kearns, on a charge of conspiring to evade the selective military service act was scheduled to begin today in the United States District Court here.

The indictment on which they are brought to trial charged specifically that as a result of the alleged conspiracy Dempsey falsely swore that his mother, father and wife were wholly dependent upon him and that he thus obtained deferred classification.

The Federal grand jury returned the indictment following the appearance before it of Mrs. Maxine Dempsey, divorced wife of Dempsey. Attorneys for the Government have announced that she will be called as a witness for the prosecution.

"That's the Bike I Want, Dad"

"It's one like Bob Harding's.

"He isn't a bit stronger than I am, Dad. But he can always trim me, no matter how hard I strain. My cheap old bike doesn't run as easy as his C.C.M.

"This is the third season for his C.C.M., too, and it runs just like new."

"Is that so, Jimmy?"

"Yes, there's good stuff in the C.C.M., Dad."

"It's a beauty to look at, Jimmy."

"Sure. And the swell nickelling and bright enamelling won't wear off."

"When Bob's C.C.M. gets dusty he wipes her off and she looks just like new."

"Oh, well, Jimmy, I see your heart's set on a C.C.M. If you'll promise to study hard and pass into the next room, I'll give you a C.C.M. Bicycle."

C.C.M. Bicycles are the pride of the boys. They have earned their good reputation by standing up under the extra strain and wear that sturdy, active lads are bound to give a bicycle.

The C.C.M. has the new Hercules Positive Drive Brake—the Coaster Brake without a side arm.

Foot Comfort and Economy for All the Family

There is a Palmer-McLellan Patented Farm Boot of the right style, shape, and weight to meet the requirements of each member of the family.

The long wearing, water resisting, shape holding, perfect fitting qualities of this footwear make for economy and lasting comfort.

We own exclusively the patents on these boots. They are made from heavy Palmer-McLellan Chromoil tanned leather, shaped on right and left lasts, and fitted with strong counters to support the heels. The soles are nailed on by improved machine method. These boots have all the foot fitting comforts of a real moccasin, but will hold their shape and outwear footwear of much heavier construction, for they are all solid leather.

It will pay you to look up our line. If your dealer does not carry it, write to us direct.

THE HIGH PRICES AFTER CIVIL WAR

Analogy in Conditions at Present and Those Following the Struggle in U. S.

[Toronto Mail and Empire.]

Many comparisons are made of commodity price conditions now and those in the United States after the Civil War. But the analogy is somewhat defective, because while prices were relatively as high in the United States in 1866, the outside world was producing as usual. In this war the main productive part of the world has been involved, and improvement in communications and transportation has linked up each part as closely as were the various parts of the United States to each other in 1865. But still the similarity is striking, as witness the following facts:

"Early in 1865 flour was selling at $22 a barrel, sugar had advanced to 33 cents a pound, butter to 75 cents, and vegetables, canned goods, teas and coffees had doubled in price. Pork had moved up from $20 a barrel wholesale to $60. Coal was selling for $19 a ton, kerosense for 90 cents a gallon, a spool of cotton thread for 30 cents and muslins that had sold for from 6 to 7 cents a yard in 1860 were hard to get at 75 cents a yard."

When the war came to an end in 1865, there was a slight decline in prices, but in 1866 an upward movement began that continued for two years. For another year prices hesitated, then with 1869, four years after the war stopped, a steady decline set in. From 1871 to 1874 the decline paused, and then continued until 1878, when specie payment was resumed, and pre-war levels were reached. What happened in this interval was that the population of the United States had grown, production had enlarged, and the country "grew up" to the new scale of currency in circulation. There is no doubt that, broadly viewed, the world situation now will follow such a course. We have seen an outburst of buying, of extravagance, and a great hoisting of prices as soon as war restrictions were out of the way. The peak has apparently been reached, and in many lines production is increasing near to the consumption limit. In time, as consumption becomes normal, pressure to get goods will lessen, and it will be a buyers' market, with general declines. But buying power is far too large to permit of any large reaction for several years, until the supplies are more abundant, and in any case, Canada will get a big immigration and have a period of continued abounding prosperity if politically she has sanity and conservatism.

PETITCODIAC, N. B.

Petitcodiac, N. B., June 2.—Many of the citizens took advantage of the perfect weather which prevaied 24th and went fishing. Some had very good catches.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, of Salisbury, were the week end guests of their daughter, Mrs. Wm. Blakney.

Mrs. Annie Rawson, of Moncton, spent the week end with Alice Blakney.

Mona Fleming, who has been attending the pharmaceutical college at Halifax, has finished her course and came home Tuesday.

Frank Constantine, Luenette McCully, Bob Lockhart, Zile Blakney, Alva, Ellen and George Gregg Blakney spent 24th at their homes here.

Deep regret is being expressed by all at the removal of the manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, R. M. Owen, and family to St. John West. Mr. Owen has hosts of friends, and beside being a most efficient banker his interest as a citizen is unparallelled.

Rev. Milton Addison has accepted a call to the United Baptist churches of this field. Mr. Addison was a former pastor.

Rev. J. S. Gregg of the Methodist church received thirteen into the church and baptized four last Sabbath.

Mr. and Mrs. Macabe and little son are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Munroe.

The Manufacture Of Clover Silage

[Experimental Farms Note.]

We are but beginning to appreciate the value of clover silage in modern stock feeding. When properly made, clover silage is an excellent feed for nearly all classes of live stock. Aside from its higher protein content, it has an advantage over corn silage in point of lower cost of production. The yields of clover compare favorably with those of corn when the land has been equally well prepared.

Seldom are fields seeded down to a purely clover mixture. Usually some of the standard grasses are added. On the Agassiz Farm we use a mixture containing red, alsike and white Dutch clover, also Italian rye and orchard grass. This makes good silage but the greater the percentage of clover in the mixture the higher the feeding value, and the easier it is to make a silage of good quality. The grasses are inclined to be more wiry, stiff and dry, thus requiring more weight to press the mass firmly into the silo to exclude the air.

The most common practice is to cut the clover for the silo when in full bloom, that is, when right for hay making. Care must be taken not to leave the harvesting period too late. It is better to err on the early side rather than postpone the cutting too long. While the plants are young the stalks and leaves are more tender and break up more easily. There is also the advantage of obtaining an earlier second crop. Only as much should be cut at one time as may be placed in the silo during the day. The mower should be started early in the morning while the dew is on and followed at once by the rake. The clover should not be left to wilt between cutting and siloing. If severe wilting does take place, better results are obtained by adding water. The clover ought to feel wet as it drops in the silo. Frequently attempts are made to make silage out of clover after it is spoiled for hay. This is a poor policy. Partly spoiled clover makes a very inferior silage as it loses its color and likely decay has begun.

Clover silage has been made with some degree of success by placing in the silo without cutting. This should not be done if it can be avoided. Not only is there less liability of the clover spoiling when cut into short lengths but it can be placed in the silo and also removed with much greater ease. The knives on the cutter must be kept sharp and set to cut approximately half inch lengths. It is a good plan, where possible, when siloing clover, to put a layer of corn on top to weight down the mass below and secure a more thorough packing and thereby also a better quality of silage.

IN DAYS OF TERROR

"No, we live at Blois. After the 10th of August Monsieur Dixmer purchased this house and the adjoining workshops, and that I might not be annoyed by the workmen, and to spare me the sight of many things repulsive to a person of my habits, which are, as you observed, Maurice, a little aristocratic, he gave me this pavilion, where I live alone retired, gratifying my various fancies and desires, and happy when a friend like yourself, Maurice, comes either to distract or partake in my reveries."

And Genevieve tendered her hand to Maurice, which he ardently kissed. Genevieve blushed slightly.

"Now, my friend," said the young woman, drawing away her hand, "you know how I became the wife of Monsieur Dixmer."

"Yes," said Maurice, regarding Genevieve with great attention; "but you have not told me how Monsieur Morand came to be associated with your husband."

"Oh! that is very simply," said Genevieve. Monsieur Dixmer had, as I have told you, some fortune, but still not sufficient to engage alone in a large concern like this. The son of Monsieur Morand, his protector, as I have before said, this friend of my father, you will remember, provided half the funds, and as he possesses a good knowledge of chemistry, he devotes himself to various improvements with the energy you have remarked, and, thanks to which, the business of Monsieur Dixmer has extended considerably."

"Monsieur Morand is also a friend of yours, is he not, Madame?" said Maurice.

Monsieur Morand is a noble hearted being, one of the worthiest men in existence," gravely replied Genevieve.

"If he has given you no other proofs," said Maurice, a little piqued at the importance accorded by Genevieve to the young man, the partner of her husband, "than dividing the expenses of this establishment with Monsieur Dixmer, and inventing a new color for the morocco, allow me to say you rather overrate his merits."

"He has given me many other proofs, monsieur," said Genevieve.

"He is young, is he not?" said Maurice. His wearing green spectacles renders it difficult to tell his age."

"He is thirty-five."

"You have known him, then, a long time?

"From infancy."

Maurice bit his lips; he had always suspected Morand loved Genevieve.

"Oh!" said Maurice, "that explains his familiarity with you."

"It seems to me, monsieur," said Genevieve, smiling, "that this familiarity, which is only that of a friend, does not need any explanation."

"Oh! pardon me, madame, you know all affectionate natures are jealous, and my friendship was jealous of that you appear to feel for Monsieur Morand."

He was silent. Genevieve also remained sdilent. There were no more questions today respecting Morand, and Maurice quitted Genevieve, more than ever in love, for he was jealous.

So blinded was the young man by his passion, that he had not remarked, during the recital of Genevieve, many gaps, much hesitation, and many concealments, which, although at the moment had escaed his noitce now returned to his memory, and strangely tortured him; and then he might not be able to secure to himself the liberty allowed him by Dixmer, of conversing with Genevieve as often and as long as he pleased, and in solitude, as they now found themselves every evening; and more, not only had he become a constant and expected guest at the house—not only remained in perfect security with Genevieve, who seemed guarded by her angelic purity from any advances on the part of the young man, but he now escorted her in all the excursions made from time to time in that quarter.. In the midst of this established intimacy one thing surprised him. The more he sought (perhaps the better to watch his sentiments for Genevieve the friendship of Morand, by whose genius, notwithstanding his prejudice, he felt himself captivated, and whose pleasing manners won him more and more every day, the greater the inclination evinced by this whimsical man to avoid him.

Of this he complained bitterly to Genevieve; for he did not doubt but that Morand had discerned in him a rival, and therefore his conduct was actuated by jealousy.

"The citizen Morand hates me," said he one day to Genevieve.

"You?" said Genevieve, with a look of astonishment. "You—Monsieur Morand hate you?"

"Yes; I am sure of it."

"And why should he hate you?"

"Do you wish me to tell you?" cried Maurice.

"Without doubt," replied Genevieve.

"Well, then, because I—"

Maurice stopped; he was going to say, "because I love you."

"I cannot tell you why," replied Maurice, coloring. The fierce Republican near Genevieve was timid and confused as a young girl.

Genevieve smiled.

"Say," replied she, "there is no sympathy between you, and I may perhaps believe you. You possess an ardent mind, n ambitious spirit, are a man of birth and education, while Morand is a merchant grafted on a chemist. He is timid and retiring. It is this timidity that deters him from taking the first step towards your acquaintance."

"And who asks him to make the first advance towards me I have made fifty to him, and he has never responded."

"What is it, then?" said Genevieve.

Maurice chose to remain silent.

The day after this conversation with Genevieve, he arrived there at two o'clock in the afternoon, and found her ready dressed to go out. "Welcome," said she; "you will act as my chevalier?"

"Where are we going, then?" demanded Maurice.

"I am going to Auteuil. It will be a delightful excursion. I mean to walk part of the way. Our carriage will convey us to the barrier, where it will wait for us. We will then walk to Auteuil, and when I have finished my business there, we will return to take—"

"Oh!" said Maurice, "what a delightful day you offer me:

The two young people went out. Beyond Passy the carriage put them down. They sauntered along slowly and continued their journey on foot.

On arriving at Auteuil, Genevieve stopped.

"Wait for me," said she, "at the entrance to the park, when I have finished I will join you."

"Where are you going then?" demanded Maurice.

"To a friend's house."

"Where I cannot accompany you?"

"Genevieve smilingly shook her head.

"Imposible," said she.

Maurice bit his lips.

"Very well," said he, "I will wait."

"Ah! what?" said Genevieve.

"Nothing," replied Maurice. "Shall you be long?"

"If I had thought it would inconvenience you, Maurice, if I had known you were engaged," said Genevieve, "I would not have requested you to do me the slight favor to accompany me today. I might have asked—"

"Monsieur Morand," interrupted Maurice, sharply.

"No, you are aware Monsieur Morand is at the manufactory at Rambouillet, and does not return till this evening."

"Then to what do I owe the preference?"

CARVELL, N. B.

Carvell, N .B., May 31.—We have had beautiful weather for the past two weeks, and the farmers in this vicinity have certainly taken advantage of the good weather and are hustling to get their seeds sown.

Willie Pryor Brookville is in the employ of Harry Lane for the summer.

Evangelist Fred Foster, Fort Fairfield, Maine, was here with the praying bands on Saturday night which he organized about two and a half years ago. He gave us a very interesting sermon, which was enjoyed by a large congregation.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lane spent Sunday with Mrs. Lane's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Long, Long Settlement.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Pryor, Messrs. Stanley London, Ralph B. Adams, Milton Burk and Clarence Carvell attended the services and baptism on Sunday at Ludlow, Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert London and family were callers at Elmer Reid's Sunday evening.

Edward McAuley is painting Stanley Pryor's house, which adds very much to the appearance.

OVER $150,000 FROM AUTOMOBILE FEES ALREADY

Hon. P. J. Veniot Predicts That $200,000 Mark Will Be Excelled

BELIEVES $210,000 MAY YET BE REACHED

Ministers Arriving Here for an Important Meeting of the Government

Receipts from motor vehicle license fees in New Brunswick this year have already exceeded $150,000, Hon. P. J. Veniot, Minister of Public Works, declared at noon today.

The total receipts for last year from this source were $117,000, but for this year the estimate was $185,000 and when doubt was expressed in the Legislature last winter as to whether that amount could be reached the Minister of Public Works hazarded the opinion that when the session was finished the amount received would probably be $200,000.

"Reports which I have received since arriving here this morning," said Hon. Mr. Veniot at noon, "show that somewhat more than $150,000 has already been received in motor vehicle license fees and from information that our inspector has obtained and has come to me from various sources, I do not hesitate to predict now that the year's revenue for the province from this source will reach the $200,000 mark; in fact I am confidently hoping the gross receipts will be as much as $210,000."

The Minister said that much depended upon whether dealers were able to obtain deliveries of cars which they have on order and many of which are already sold. Attorney General Byrne was the only other member of the Government here today for the meeting of the cabinet, which is to open here this evening. Decision as to the date and form of ballot for the prohibition plebiscite is now expected to be announced some time tomorrow; the date will, it is said, be July 8th, 9th or 10th—although there is a possibility of a Monday early in July being named—and there will be two questions on the ballot—one on the retention of the present provincial prohibitory law and the other on the sale of beer and light wines, as in Quebec.

There are a number of other important questions to be taken up by the Government at this meeting, including the appointment of the Hyrdo-Electric Commission to carry on the development of the water powers of the province under legislation passed last session.

Miss Florence Gilbert Graduated from Rhode Island Hospital—Tablet to Nurses Unveiled.

Miss Ernestine Gilbert, chief operator at the N. B. Telephone Company's exchange here, has returned from Providence, Rhode Island, where she attended the graduating exercises of the Rhode Island Hospital.

The graduating class, which numbered 36, had among its number five New Brunswickers, Miss Florence Gilbert, of North Devon, Miss Evelyn Bale, of Blackville, Miss Clair Mulherrin and Miss Pearl Leslie, of Grand Falls, and Miss Eula Cronkite, of Andover.

An interesting and impressive feature of the closing exercises was the unveiling of a bronze tablet to the memory of the student nurses and nurses who died during the war and the outbreak of influenza. On the tablet are engraved the names of ten young women who died during the "flu" outbreak, including Miss Vesta Brewer, of North Devon, and Miss Bertha Kelly, of Grand Falls, three nurses who died in overseas service and six who died at cantonments.

The tablet is of bronze and was presented by the trustees of the hospital to the nurses home.

HOSPITAL BOARD HOLDING ANOTHER MEETING TODAY

The Proposed Bond Issue Was Discussed at Meeting on Monday

ARCHITECT HERE TO MEET BOARD TODAY

City Council to Decide Upon Financial Assistance at a Special Meeting

The Board of Trustees of the Victoria Public Hospital met yesterday to consider the question of the proposed bond issue for the extension of the hospital. In view of the fact that work on the Fraser Memorial hospital building has been held up since the meeting of the Board with the City Council, it was decided that some plan of action must be decided upon immediately in order that the work on the memorial building can go on.

The suggestion was made that the Board endorse an expenditure of $30,000 or $40,000 for a new heating plant and depend upon the public to back them up in their work. After considerable discussion in the course of which it was stated that the City Council by their lack of action had upset all the plans of the Board, it was decided that a meeting would be held this afternoon to confer with the architect, Kenneth G. Rea, of Montreal, who arrived here this afternoon. Since the meeting with the City Council the complete plans of the proposed extensions have been placed in the hands of the Board and these will be gone over at the meeting this afternoon and some course of action decided.

Tomorrow evening a special meeting of the City Council in committee will be held at the Mayor's office and the question of the proposed bond issue will be again taken up and definitely settled. Among the other matters to come before the meeting will be a report from the local housing commission.

PROHIBITION PLEBISCITE ON JULY 10

$750,000 Development at The Lake George Antimony Mines is Now Planned

President S. E. Elkin, M. P. on an Inspection Trip to Mines Today

DEPENDS UPON ORE AVAILABLE

Hydro-Electric Power Development Would Be Important Factor.

An expenditure of $750,000 in the development of the antimony mines at Lake George, twenty odd miles from Fredericton in York County, was forecasted this morning by Stanley E. Elkin, M. P., of St. John, president of the North America Antimony & Smilting Company, Ltd., before he left here today for an inspection of the mines.

Mr. Elkin said that the necessary investigatory work had not yet been completed, but if the outcome of the scientific investigations which were being carried on was truthfully indicated by the results which had so far been reported there was no doubt that the complete development work upon a most extensive scale would be carried on.

"It all resolves itself into a question of the quantity of ore available and we believe it is there," said Mr. Elkin. "If we are right, then all the capital required is assured."

MONTREAL PARTY WILL BE AT MINE JUNE 27

The trip which Mr. Elkin is making to Lake George today is really for the purpose of inspecting the progress which has been made in the work that is going on at the plant under the mine manager, C. N. Crowe, formerly of Bridgewater, N. S., including the installation of a mammoth boiler, which will first be used to pump out the old shafts, which have been flooded. This boiler was upset once or twice while being taken in to the mines last fall and a dozen or so of the tubes were broken.

This has somewhat delayed the preparatory work at the mines, but it is expected that everything will be in good shape by June 27th, when a party of six Montreal men will arrive at Lake George to inspect the mines and plant. Included in the party will be two geologists, one of whom will be Capt. Wood of Milton-Hersey, while the others will be representatives of various powerful financial interests and a metallurgist of note from New York. The geologists and probably the metallurgist will remain at the mines for some time to carry on their investigation and upon their reports the future development will, of course, depend very largely.

Hydro-Electric Power Will Help.

President Elkin declared this morning that before the end of this season he expected the shipment of antimony ore would be commenced from the mines and a siding for this purpose is now being installed by the C. N. R. at Lake George and the shipping route will be via the St. John Valley Railway to the port of St. John. He also expressed the opinion that if the development of the water powers on the Pokiok and the Shogomoc was to be proceeded with as outlined in the Provincial Government's plans this would have an important effect upon the plans of the Company. The hydro-electric power, he said, would no doubt be used at the concentrating plant at the mines and with such power available the refining mill for the manufacture of sulphurettes would probably be located at Lake George on the Valley Railway, rather than at some far distant point.

It is understood that British interests now engaged in the manufacture of the highest class of sulphurettes produced in the world are interested in the proposition, while some of the biggest rubber manufacturing interests in America have already been anxious to close contracts for the output of the refining mill.

Eleven Killed and 21 Injured In Terrible Train Wreck Near Schenectady at an Early Hour

Express Crashed Into Accommodation Passenger Train on New York Central and the Rear Car Was Splintered to Pieces.—Two of the Dead Identified

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Schenectady, N. Y., June 9. — At least eleven persons were killed and twenty-one were injured, some of them perhaps fatally, when a fast eastbound American Express special crashed into the rear of an accommodation passenger train on the New York Central lines about four miles west of this city early today.

Only two of the dead have so far been identified. They are Martin Doyle, of Albany, engineer on the express train, and a two year old baby, supposed to be the child of Nellie Crouse, of Utica. Mr. Crouse was removed to a hospital here unconscious, and the child was identfied by the Pullman conductor.

Among the dead also was a man believed to be W. J. Zuill, of Syracuse.

The train which suffered the shock of the collision and on which virtually all the killed and injured passengers were, was No. 28, a New York Central passenger train from Buffalo to New York. It consisted of baggage and mail coaches, express car, two day coaches and two Pullmans, one of which was destined for New York and the other for Boston. The train which crashed into it was a Michigan Central special of ten cars carrying express for the American Railway Express Company.

The rear car of the passenger train was split to pieces by the impact. The train had stopped in an open field between Gleville and Scotia, villages near here, because of a defective water pipe in the engine.

Just before the crash came, the fireman on No. 24 leaped from his cab and escaped serious injury, but Doyle, the engineer, was pinned under the wreckage, and was in a dying condition when he was extricated. Rescuers said his hand had to be pried from his throttle. He died as he was being placed on a stretcher.

Strike of Trade Unions in Holland Proved a Failure

The 24 Hour Strike Was Called As a Protest Against the Government's Anti-Revolutionary Bill—Public Services Ran on Regular Schedules

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

The Hague, June 9—Yesterday's 24 hour strike, called by the trade union federations as a protest against the government's anti-revolutionary bill was not entirely successful. The tramways and public services here and at Amsterdam ran on normal schedule throughout the day and work was continued on the docks. In some trades there was a partial cessation of operations and many thousands of persons took part in street demonstrations before the parliament building.

Disturbances here were suppressed by the police.

DATE IS NAMED BY GOVERNMENT THIS MORNING

Premier Foster Announced the Decision of the Government This Morning

TWO QUESTIONS WILL BE ON THE BALLOT

Retention of Present Law and Sale of Beer and Light Wines to Be Submitted

Saturday, July 10th, was announced by Premier Foster this morning as the date of the plebiscite on the provincial prohibitory act.

The Provincial Government opened their cabinet meeting here last evening and shortly before noon today the Premier gave out the date which had been reached for holding the plebiscite and said that later on he would issue a formal statement indicating the action taken by the Government and stating the conditions under which the plebiscite will be held.

TWO QUESTIONS WILL BE ON THE BALLOT

There will be two questions referred to the people in the plebiscite, Premier Foster declared, one of which will be on the retention of the present prohibitory law and the other as to the sale of beer and light wines. In other words, there will be a simple ballot such as was used in the plebiscite in Quebec rather than a complicated lot of questions such as were submitted to the people of Ontario.

The order-in-council which is being drawn up for the signature of Lieutenant Governor Pugsley, who is here to sign it, is a lengthy affair consisting of several typewritten pages, and it has been more or less revised, it is understood, during its consideration last night and this morning. Copies of the order-in-council, it was said, would be available for publication tomorrow and will supplement the statement which Premier Foster is preparing.

Women Will Vote.

The Prohibition Act was enacted in 1916 by the late Provincial Government and was then declared to be the most drastic prohibitory legislation placed on the statute books of any province in Canada up to that time. It became law as a "war measure" with a provision that after the declaration of peace the Lieutenant Governor in Council should have authority to name a date for the holding of a plebiscite on the question of the retention or not of the Act. It is under that authority the Government is now proceeding in calling on the plebiscite.

The plebiscite will be the first election in New Brunswick under provincial laws at which women will have equal suffrage.

WHOLESALE SHOE PRICES REDUCED

Lower Prices on Leather and Tight Money Contributory to the Decrease

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

St. Louis, Mo., June 9.—Reductions in the wholesale prices of various styles of shoes of from 25 cents to $2 a pair, were announced yesterday by officials of three of the largest shoe manufacturing establishments here.

A. C. Brown, President of the Hamilton-Brown Company, asserted that "tight money" and the resultant difficulties met by retailers on the borrowing money was the chief cause of the lowered prices.

Reduced prices on certain lines of leather was assigned as a contributory cause.

PERSHING'S RETIREMENT

Washington, June 9.—General Pershing declared emphatically yesterday that his contemplated retirement from active service was without political significance. He said he would enter private business, the nature of which had not yet been determined.

No Nomination Before Friday

No Indication as to Who the Republican Candidate Will be

DEMONSTRATIONS ARE YET LACKING

Adherents of Wood, Johnson and Lowden All Remain Confident.

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Chicago, June 9.—Delegates to the Republican national convention assembled at the Coliseum today for the second session, with their views as to who shall lead the party at the polls next November still a mystery, even to themselves.

While giving uproarious approval yesterday to Chairman Lodge's keynote address calling for destruction of the "Wilson dynasty" not a sign of any preference came from the thousands whose votes will select the Republican presidential candidate to undertake the job. There were no demonstrations, even for favorite sons, no mention of the "Big Three" among the aspirants, Wood, Johnson and Lowden.

Nomination on Friday.

Working with unprecedented freedom from centralized leadership or "boss" control, the delegates promptly ratified a programme designed to make permanent the temporary organization. Adoption of the organization committee's report, a foregone result, will place the gavel in Senator Lodge's hands as the permanent presiding officer, and set the convention off on the second stage of its journey, with little prospect that it will reach a ballot on the presidential nomination before Friday, or possibly Friday night.

Little business confronted the delegates when they assembled for the day. With the temporary organization to be made permanent, no speech of the permanent presiding officer was on the programme.

Report of Resolutions Committee.

Matters in order were reports of the resolutions committee as to its progress in shaping up a platform for ratification and that of the credentials committee on the permanent roll of the convention on which the voting will be done.

The resolutions committee worked late, but it still had many interests to hear when it resumed today.

Among those to be heard today was Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, bearing suggestions he did not outline in advance.

Complete Permanent Roll of Convention

Chicago, July 9—Working all night at forced draft speed, the credentials committee completed the permanent roll of the Republican national convention at 4.30 this morning. Previous rulings on contests by the national committee were sustained in all but three cases.

The First G.O.P. Convention in '60

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Chicago, June 9.—At the first Republican national convention held in Chicago 60 years ago:

An Iowa delegate walked 150 miles to get to a railroad to come to the convention.

Special railroad rates were made and Chicago's population probably doubled in convention week.

Hotel rooms were $1.50 to $2.50 a day.

Crowds were so great that billiard tables in the hotels were pressed into service as beds.

The "Wigwam" in which the convention was held was probably about the size of the annex to the Coliseum in which this year's convention takes place.

The Wigwam's profuse decoration was largely furnished by the Republican women of Chicago. They were invited to come "armed and equipped with those formidable weapons, needles, thimbles, scissors, etc., etc."

When a special train pulled in with the Massachusetts and other New England delegates, rockets were sent up and a cannon boomed to announce their arrival to waiting friends.

The gallery in the convention hall was reserved for women and their escorts. Because of the great number of men unable to get in, one man was reported trying to get into the gallery with an Indian squaw selling moccasins as his credentials, but was excluded on the ground that she was no lady.

The two chief nominating speeches were made in less than 30 words. Abraham Lincoln was placed in nomination in 26 words.

The making of the presidential nomination was announced to the city by the firing of a cannon placed on the roof of the convention hall.

That night cannon and rockets were fired, bonfires lighted, and mutitudinous parades formed, their participants carrying anything that would serve—even to rakes and fishing poles.

(The foregoing data was obtained from the library of the Chicago Historical Society, which has various relics of the convention and the campaign that followed.)

ALLIED HEADS TO MEET AT BRUSSELS

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, June 9.—The conference between representatives of the Allies and Germany to be held July 5, will be preceded by a meeting of the heads of Allied Governments at Brussels on July 2, 3 and 4, it was stated yesterday. The London correspondent of the Temps says that Premier Lloyd-George expects to go to Paris about June 20 to confer with Premier Millerand on certain questions regarding the German indemnity, which will be brought before the Spa conference.

PLAGUE IN MEXICO NOW DYING OUT

Vera Cruz, June 9.—Only four new cases of bubonic plague, with three deaths, were reported Sunday and Monday. It appears certain that the epidemic is decreasing in intensity and it is hoped that with the arrival of medical aid from New Orleans and the sanitary measures taken the disease will be wiped out completely.

The city, which was much alarmed, is again tranquil.

$2,000,000 ACTION AGAINST RAILWAY

Jersey City, N. J., June 9.—The trial of the joint suits brought by Great Britain, France and the Aetna Explosives Company, aggregating $2,811,376, against the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, to recover the value of munitions destroyed in the Black Tom explosion four years ago, was begun here yesterday in the supreme court. Several preceding suits of like character have been won by plaintiffs and the judgments upheld by the United States Supreme Court.

JEWS ON STREETS BEATEN BY MOBS

Vienna Police Have Difficulty in Suppressing Persecution of Hebrews

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Vienna, June 9.—Sporadic disorders followed an anti-Semetic demonstration Monday night. Bands, composed chiefly of students, beat Jews they met on the streets and smashed cafe windows in their search for others.

Police and soldiers prevented attempts to enter the Jewish quarters. The disturbances lasted until early in the morning.

IDENTIFY AUTO VICTIM

Montreal, June 9.—Miss Eugenie Protin has been identified by her father as the third victim of the automobile accident which occurred last week-end, when the car in which she and six others were driving plunged into the canal at Chambly. Four people survived the accident and two others were drowned.

FOUGHT DAYS TO SAVE TOWN FROM FLAMES

Men, Women and Children of Ontario Town Battle With Fierce Forest Fires

FIRES RAGING THROUGH THE NORTHERN COUNTRY

The Fire Rangers Have a Heavy Task to Save Many Threatened Settlements

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Cobalt, Ont., June 9—For three days and three nights, practically without sleep, the men, women and children of Boston Creek battled to save their town from a terrific forest fire which swept down upon it. They battled succesfully, but in the meantime all communication with the town was cut off and there were many who feared that the town had been wiped out.

It was the third time the settlers have faced a terrible fight with a fire from the forest. Deputy Fire Ranger Davis took charge of the fight and divided the women, children and men into groups.

For a long time the school house was threatened, but it was the children who put up the battle that saved it.

From Gowpanda comes news of a menacing fire which threatened the silver camp. It has approached the Bonsalt mine. The O'Brien Power Transmission Line has been burned and Wigwam is threatened, along with the big sawmill there. Swastika reports that there are fires a long distance back in the bush in that area. From there north to Porquis Junction, there are no fires of any account and Timmins and Porcupine are not molested. The battle to save the settlers around Twin Lakes was a terrific one. The rangers had a heavy task saving the Hammond and Aitchseon settlements.

Latchford reports that the fires are still bad in that area. The crying need is rain.

GERMAN GENERAL VOLUNTARY EXILE

Field Marshal Von Kluck, Accused War Criminal, to Live in Switzerland

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Geneva, June 9. — Field Marshal Alexander H. R. Von Kluck, who commanded the right wing of the German army in its advance on Paris in 1914, has arrived with his family at Aarau, forty-one miles northeast of Berne. He declared today life had become insupportable in Germany and said he intended to buy a chateau and live in Switzerland henceforth.

Field Marshal Von Kluck was one of the Germans demanded for trial by the Allied governments. He was accused of the assassination of hostages at Senlis and the massacre of civilians at Aerschot.

DISPOSAL OF THE FLEET OF TRAWLERS

Victoria, B. C., June 9.—As a result of representations made by the provincial department of industries to Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, the fleet of trawlers used on the Atlantic seaboard in mine sweeping and patrol operations, will not be sold in Great Britain as long as there is likelihood of a market for them in Canada. It is understood that a Victoria firm desires to purchase two of the vessels.

Report of Tariff Committee Of Manufacturers Association Presented at the Convention

The Report Shows That While the Leading Industrial Countries of the World Were Increasing Their Tariffs, Canada Has Been Reducing Her Safeguards

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Vancouver, June 9—At the convention of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, yesterday, the report of the Tariff Committee was presented, which in part read as follows:

On the 18th day of May, 1920, the customs war tariff rates were completely removed by Parliament. While the leading industrial countries of the world were increasing their tariffs, Canada reduced her general tariff by 7 1-2 per cent., and her British preferential tariff by 5 per cent. Surely, in view of the world-wide increase of tariffs, the national welfare of Canada requires the remaining safeguards by her customs tariff as it now stands.

The reasons that have led other industrial countries to maintain or increase the protection afforded by their tariffs to their own countrymen are the same reasons that convince your committee of the wisdom of maintaining adequate safeguards for Canadian industry, agriculture, industrial workers, business men, and all other classes of the population. Under this policy Canada has grown in the last forty years to be a great industrial country. At the present time over two million Canadians depend directly on the factories of Canada for their living. This year the value of goods made in Canadian factories will be about four billion dollars. When we include those engaged in business and professions which depend entirely or in part upon manufacturing for their welfare, we find that over one-half the population of Canada get their living directly or indirectly from the factories of Canada. When it is considered that eighty per cent. of all the products of Canadian farms is consumed in Canada, it follows that the agricultural population is also vitally concerned in the prosperity of Canadian factories. Agriculture is in the most flourishing condition today that it has experienced in its entire history in this country. Statistics, although valuable, are unnecessary to prove this statement. It is a truth beyond dispute, and all citizens of Canada rejoice that it is a truth. It has been argued that our remarkable industrial growth has tended to direct rural population to the cities and towns, but those who advance this argument do not attempt to explain the fact that the same complaint is heard in the British Isles and other countries which have widely varying fiscal systems. In any case, it is more desirable to have Canadians leave the country districts to work in Canadian cities than in United States cities, where they were forced to go in large numbers before the establishment of the National Policy, which was the foundation of our industrial system.

Tariff Legislation

This Dominion's tariff legislation, designed for national development, must be affected by the fact that every great industrial nation today throughout the world operates under protective tariffs. Each of these countries fences its borders by protective laws for the purpose of safeguarding the interests of its own industrial workers. With every great trading nation guarding its own commercial interests by protective customs tariffs, it would be impossible for Canadian factories to continue in existence without a tariff which would secure to them a large output for the domestic market. The natural resources left in the world seem to be growing smaller, and Canada has more left than the majority of other countries. Consequently, it seems reasonable that we should try to develop our raw material and carry it to the most advanced stage of manufacture before exporting it, in order to provide work for our own people, and to produce the largest national wealth.

The Fathers of Confederation, for the purpose of development in this Dominion and connecting it more directly with other British countries, sought to consolidate our interests on the lines of trade moving east and west within the Dominion.

Since the beginning of our history, Canadian transportation system has run east and west, forming one of the links connecting this country and other countries of the British Empire. We have invested hundreds of millions in our east and west transportation system; and free trade between this country and the United States would inevitably deflect a great proportion of traffic north and south, to the benefit of United States transportation and a consequent loss to Canadian transportation.

Canada's Geographical Position

The overwhelming commercial weight of the United States, coupled with our geographical position in relation to that country, must be considered in framing all trade legislation affecting this Dominion's national growth and development. That country, with a population of 110,000,000, buys from this country of 8,000,000 people only about one-half the value of the goods which it sells us. Our exports to the United States and imports from the United States each year since 1907 follow:

1920	464,029,273

Last year each inhabitant of the United States bought $4.21 worth of Canadian goods, while each Canadian bought $102.62 worth of United States goods.

The United States, even under the present customs tariff, which represents the policy of the United States low tariff (Democratic) political party, still highly protects those industries which need such protection as a safeguard for development; and we must not forget that even those manufactured articles which now enter the United States free of duty will probably be protected if the Republican party is returned to power. Thus, no Canadian industry can afford to make investments based on the possiblity of access to the United States markets. All investments of Canadian industries must be made primarily with the view to east and west trade within the Dominion, and to export trade with other British Dominions which favor British products with tariff preferences. It is the Canadian tariff which has caused large numbers of United States industries to establish branch factories in this country; and these branch factories now number over six hundred and employ over 87,000 Canadian people.

Policy of the Association.

The policy of this Assocaition today is what it always has been, viz., There should be a Canadian customs tariff adequate to conserve and develop our natural resources, to encourage the exportation of our raw materials in the most advanced stages of manufacture, to attract immigration, to safeguard present industries and investments, to encourage the establishment of new industries, to provide employment for the Canadian people, and to continue the development of Canada as a great country within the British Empire.

The Canacian customs tariff was revised last in 1906-7. During thirteen years of great industrial development, including the war period, many inequalities crept in which should be removed. It must be remembered, too, that manufacturers are heavy importers of such articles as materials, equipment and machinery which are subject to revenue duties, and consequently pay a great portion of the total duties collected. As it has been the custom of Governments to revise the tariff every ten years, our tariff revision is more than three years overdue, and the tariff should be revised as soon as international industrial conditions approach reasonable stability.

Preferential Tariff System.

Prospects seem bright for the general extension of British preferential tariff systems throughout British countries. Such an arrangement amongst British Overseas Dominions would correspond with the policy followed between the United States and United States' overseas countries, including Cuba. A similar policy is followed toward their respective possessions by France and Italy, and was followed by Germany.

Tariff preferences would overcome the handicaps upon the exports of Canadian products. Import duties as collected in Australia apply upon higher values, in many instances, in respect to shipments from Canada than upon like shipments from the United States.

The tariff of Australia consists largely of percentage duties. These duties are assessed upon the value of imported goods as sold for home consumption at the time and place whence shipment is made directly to Australia, plus freight thence to the port of exit from the exporting country, and the whole, plus ten per cent. New Zealand appraises importations similarly for duty purposes. South Africa appraises importations on the same basis, but without adding the ten per cent. The home selling price in Canada is higher on a large number of groups of commodities than the United States' home selling price on like goods, caused by our higher manufacturing costs, owing to revenue duties on imported materials, equipment and supplies of a kind not obtainable here. Thus, goods shipped from Canada into such British Overseas Dominions are assessed duty on a higher valuation than would apply on like goods shipped thereto from the United States. But, as already stated, tariff preferences would overcome these handicaps, while allowing each great British State to build up its own-self-supporting fiscal system.

Dumping Due to Depreciation in Exchange.

Your committee point out that the War Measures Act will automatically be repealed when peace is finally signed and proclaimed. The result will be that a foreign country, in which there has been a great depreciation in exchange, may be able to dump manufactured goods in Canada at less than the cost of production of similar goods in Canada, notwithstanding that duty is assessed on the par value of the currency of such country.

Your committee has recommended that the Government should take the necessary power to restrict the importation, by prohibition, or the payment of counter-balancing fees under license, of all, or of specified goods produced in a foreign country, on being satisfied that the depreciation in foreign currency is likely to cause sales in this Dominion of the products or manufactures of that country, in substantial quantities at prices considerably below those at which similar articles manufactured in this Dominion can be sold.

Depreciated Foreign Currencies.

When sterling in New York was at $3.69 the tariff of Canada against British goods was practically eliminated; and only the enormous world demand for the products of United Kingdom factories, under conditions which clearly are temporary, prevent-

CHURCH WOULD BAN SECRET SOCIETIES

Greeley, Ohio, June 8.—Secret societies are "contrary to the spirit of Jesus Christ," and tend to become a substitute for the church, said a resolution adopted yesterday by the National Synod of the Reformed Presbyterian church in session here. WILL INVESTIGATE DEATH OF INFANT

Milltown Authorities Have Some Facts Relative to the Child Found in River

St. Stephen, N. B., June 8.—In connection with the finding of the body of an infant female child floating past a boom in the river above Milltown on Saturday, Dr. J. D. Lawson, coroner, held an inquest in Milltown this afternoon with the following jury empannelled: Frank C. Murchie, foreman, H. W. Smith, Harison McAllister, Harry S. Haley, P. Casey, Joseph Smith and Percy Laughlin.

After viewing the body and hearing evidence the jury returned the following verdict:

"In our opinion, and from the evidence presented, the unknown female child found in the St. Croix river on June 5th at the Milltown boom at the Hill Farm in the parish of St. Stephen did not come to its death from natural causes, but by the culpable or criminal act of a person or persons to us unknown, and we recommend that further investigation of this case be made by the proper authorities.

Some facts are known that may yet lead to important developments in the matter.

HALIFAX GREETS VISITING EDITORS

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Halifax, June 8.—The hundred odd members of the National Editorial Association, who are touring the Maritime Provinces, spent a busy day in Halifax today. The weather man granted a special dispensation and the rain held off long enough to permit the carrying out of the scheduled programme. In the morning there was an excursion on the harbor and basin, with a walk through the devastated area on the side. At 1.30 there were two luncheons, one at the Waegwoltic for thirty ladies, the other at the Green Lantern. An automobile drive around Waverley to the Brightwood Country Club filled up the afternoon and a number of the visitors called at Government House. A dance at the Waegwoltic was the closing episode of the entertainment provided by the city.

MONCTON BONDS SOLD IN ST. JOHN

Moncton, June 8.—The City Council tonight accepted the offer of J. M. Robinson & Son, St. John, for $190,000 worth of city bonds at 94 and $203,500 twenty year bonds at 95.33. Both lots of bonds carry six per cent.

J. S. Magee tendered his resignation tonight to the City Council as city clerk a position he has filled about fifteen years. His health is the cause of his resignation.

G. F. SKINNER FOR RHODES SCHOLAR

Mr. Skinner was graduated from Mt. Allison University last year. He has completed two years in medicine at McGill, having fulfilled one year's requirements during his Mount Allison course. At Oxford he will pursue the science course leading to the further study of medicine.

The committee, which made the selection for the Rhodes scholarship was composed of Sir Douglas Hazen, chairman; Ralph St. John Freeze, Rupert M. Rive, John B. McNair and William H. Irving.

RECOMMEND MORE PAY FOR MINISTERS

The Question Discussed by the General Assembly of Presbyterian Church Yesterday

Ottawa, June 9.—At the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon there was a strong plea made for greater salaries in the church, both to the headquarters officials and ministers generally. The motion of John Patterson, K. C., Toronto, for additional salaries to the following officials of the church was not carried, but it is expected it will be at one of the coming sessions.

The salaries asked for are:

The treasurer of the church, the secretaries of the board of home missions and social service, foreign missions, Sabbath schools and young people's societies, and the editor of Presbyterian publications, $4,000 per annum.

The junior clerk of the assembly $500, for his services as clerk and statistician for the past year, and from June 1, 1920, $3,500 per annum for all the duties assigned to him by the assembly.

The associate secretaries of foreign missions, Sabbath schools and young people's societies and the secretary of the Evangelism, $3,500 each per annum.

The district superintendents of home missions and social service $3,000 per annum each.

The assistant treasurer of the church $2,500 per annum with an annual increase of $100 until $3,000 be reached.

The field secretary of the board of home missions and social service and the business manager of Presbyterian publications $3,500 each per annum from date of appointment, with an annual increase of $100 until $4,000 be reached.

The secretary of non-Anglo-Saxon work $3,500 per year from date of appointment.

It was intimated during the discussion that the reason this motion did not pass at once was the desire of those present to, at the same time, raise the minimum salaries of the ministers of the church.

Rev. Dr. Drummond, of Hamilton, moved a resolution which had the effect of amalgamating several funds in connection with pensions, widows and orphans, and assembling help and carrying the matter out. The motion carried.

The moderator read a telegram from ex-Moderator Forrest, of Halifax, thanking the assembly for the sympathy expressed with him in his sickness.

Prof. J. W. Falconer, D.D., of Halifax, presented the report of the committee of the ministers', widows' and orphans' funds. The receipts for the year total $21,665.78 and the expenditures $8,781.18. The assets of the fund are now $268,324.48 as against $255,072.

EXPLOSION FROM HUN FISHING ROD

Sydney Boy Injured While Putting Together a Souvenir From the War

Sydney, N. S., June 8.—When Chas. McKinnon, of the 85th Nova Scotia Highlanders came home from France, he brought with him as a souvenir, a fishing rod which he found in a German dugout. He has never used it and it has been lying about the house ever since. Yesterday a fourteen-year-old boy, Melville Brennan, borrowed it of McKinnon to go fishing near Port Morien. When Brennan attempted to put it together the rod exploded, cutting his face and inflicting other injuries as a result of which he now lies in a serious condition at Glace Bay General Hospital. Examination after the accident showed that a portion of the rod was filled with high explosive.

SHORTAGE OF TIES HOLD UP RAILWAY

Inability to procure sufficient supplies of railroad ties, or sleeprs, is hampering numerous railroads in Canada and the United States. An ordinary tie costs $1, while extra quality are worth 25 to 30 cents more, and are difficult to get at that price. Lumbermen say that the shortage will exist several years. During the great war the number of ties cut fell greatly. Last year there was an execessive demand for ties and the supply was soon absorbed.

The scarcity of ties has stopped construction of the proposed electric road across northern Maine from Presque Isle to the border of the province of Quebec, more than one hundred miles. This road, backed largely by A. R. Gould, the original contractor for the Valley road, is designed to provide a short route between Quebec, Montreal and St. John.

It is probable that work will not be undertaken on the proposed line until next year.

BANKRUPTCY ACT IN FORCE IN JULY

Discussion in Parliament Over Income Tax Act—Taxation of Investments

Ottawa, June 8.—Two of the government taxation bills were discussed at some length by the Commons today. They were the business profits war tax and the income tax act. The former, after criticism mainly contributed by Quebec members on the Opposition side, passed through committee and was given third reading. The latter was left in commitiee.

Quebec members took the ground that the hydro-electric commission of Ontario should be subjected to business profits tax. It was a demonstration against privately owned companies to exempt it, they said, especially as it was not giving the people light and power any cheaper than the private organizations. On the other side the argument was advanced that private or municipal institutions were not making profits for private gain, surpluses earned were returned to the consumers.

Sir Henry Drayton said it was not merely a question of exempting the hydro-electric, but also the municipal enterprises all over the Dominion. The hydro-electric was giving service at cost and not for profit.

In connection with the income tax act, the Minister of Finance said that provisions had been made for taxing incomes earned in Canada by nationals of other countries, notably the United States. He felt that men who spent a part of the year in Canada should be taxed for the money they earned in this country naturally. The taxation of investments made by citizens of the United Kingdom in Canada was being investigated by a royal commission.

Objection was taken to the clause providing that persons shall send in the amount of their tax with their declaration of income.

A comparatively short time at the evening sitting served to dispose of the amendments to the new bankruptcy act, which goes into effect by proclamation on the first of next month.

This act was passed last year, but does not come into force until July 1 next. In the interim several minor amendments have been suggested by judges, bar associations and other bodies, and these are now up for consideration in committee. Hon. Hugh Guthrie explained that most of the amendments were of a technical or clerical nature and intended to simplify the act. The machinery to administer the act was well under way and would be complete by July 1. One amendment made it possible for a bankruptcy judge to send a case to the right court where his own court was found to be the wrong place for hearing. Another amendment sought to protect judgments in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, where judgments were regarded as mortgages and where interest was collected upon them for long terms. A third amendment sought to leave to the discretion of the court the matter of trustees' fees which hitherto had been fixed at nothing higher than five per cent. on small estimates.

One clause adopted by the committee provides a penalty of $500 fine or a year's imprisonment if any bankrupt borrows more than $500 following his bankruptcy without notifying his assignee, or if he engages in any new business on his own account.

Another amendment provides for the repeal of clause 97 of the bill, which has to do with the institution of malicious bankruptcy proceedings. The amendments were given third reading.

The house then went into committee on the estimates of the Department of Indian Affairs, the total amount to be voted being $2,090,163.
