THE PERSIAN IMBROGLIO.

The advance of the Bolshevik forces in Persia continues. Unless something is done promptly to check them, it is possible that Trotsky's men may conquer all the northern part of the country.

The situation created by this invasion is most embarrassing for Great Britain. Under the terms of the Anglo-Persian Treaty of August 9th, 1919, Persia is a British protectorate, and it was a British force which the Soviet army of invasion chased out of Enzeli, on the Caspian Sea, a few weeks ago. A continuation of the advance southward would seriously imperil, not only the important Persian oil fields, but the vital passage to India. Yet there is no indication that Lloyd-George is rushing troops to the East, or that he intends to offer serious resistance to the invaders.

A partial explanation of this inactivity is found in the recent appeal of Prince Ferouz of Persia to the Council of the League of Nations, asking protection against the Russians. According to Article XI. of the covenant this should have been followed by a meeting of the Executive Council to take steps to preserve the peace. But the League has no desire either to use force against the Soviet Government or to recognize it by entering into negotiations. So it, too, has done nothing. Yet for Great Britain to act alone would be an open breach of the constitution of the League, a breach which would reveal a fatal weakness and subject it to universal contempt.

In this dilemma Lloyd-George apparently is resorting to the dubious expedient of entering into negotiations with Gregory Krassin, the Soviet Minister of Trade and Commerce. Russia is in desperate need of machinery and raw materials and is willing to make any concessions to get them. Knowing this, Lloyd-George has made it a condition precedent to the trade negotiations that there shall be no further attacks upon British interests in the East.

This may halt the Bolshevik armies in Persia, but it has the double disadvantage of giving a measure of recognition to the Soviet Government and of offending France. Already the Paris press has taken the alarm and criticism of the British Premier has been open and emphatic.

It is an embarrassing position in which Lloyd-George finds himself, a position from which he cannot escape without endangering important British interests on the one hand or the other.

MOVIES AND DIVORCE.

There were estimated to be more in the United States last year than the 112,038 divorces and separations legalized in 1918. The cause is being sought. Why has the country to the south of us, and even our own, grown so dissatisfied with the sacred form of mating which has so well served civilization, asks an exchange. Underlying causes have to be found, or else the marriage relation must be assumed never to have fulfilled the mission so blithely claimed for it in the centuries past. If the cause be not exceptional, be not found in the tension or other peculiarities denoting attributes of this age, then marriage in the past must have been a failure. Was it? It may have constricted the family merely into semblance of respectability; and it may often have been unaccompanied without any of the saving grace of spiritual life or sexual love.

No such all-pervading blight can be laid upon a marriage custom in the Anglo-Saxon races for ages past. The custom remains the same. Youth woes and weds, and takes its way, by high roads, by low roads, through life, and almost invariably has reached the journey's end in the same mated companionship in which it set out. The custom is the same. The springs which gave rise to it remain. The need for mating ever remains. Few couples start out together unless with the intention of going hand in hand so far as life will take them. If they be sundered, something must have arisen to create the unconquerable dissension. What is that?

The fault may lie in people them selves; but their nature cannot be so different from that of their contented ancestors. Conditions which govern their early married lives may differ greatly from those under which "the old folk" together crossed the portal of their home, to live, to perpetuate and to die. The social revolutions now spin so fast they shake the screws out of the machinery of marriage, when before, in other times, in days even before the war, men and women would take pause to tighten up the loose nuts and repair the wagon. But to lay your hand upon any one cause, or definitely specify any number of causes as the direct and sole cause of the prevalence of divorce and separation, has defied very expert commissions. With easy certainty which becomes some religious sects, a convention of religionists in the Southern States a few days ago held the cinema movies solely responsible for the appalling increases in the yearly number of sundered marriages in the United States. The same convention, doubtlessly, would have applied the same reasoning to this country. But it is not true.

The movies may be blamed for much, and deserve a great deal of blame; but is it not true that generally the pictures they show have to tell the tales which end in happiness and smiles of joy? Who would go to see them unless they did? If they did not, their seats would be empty. They may, and very likely do, inject thrills and scenes and episodes which cannot tend to the elevation of the minds of the very young; but if those same young persons sit through until the end of the tale, which they always seem to do, they see, and are glad to find out, that after all the humble hero and the lovely heroine again meet, embrace, and pass through the bower where the orange blossoms bloom.

No; divorce is due to deeper causes than the movie theatre. What those causes are we would hate to say, even if we knew. But if divorce continues to hold this people in its thrall as they have been gripping it of late years, it will result in the coming of that bad, graceless, heartless time when the newspapers will recall with the fervor of a breathing a great piece of news, that some man and some woman have "gone and got married."

ERA OF INEFFICIENCY.

Toronto Telegram: "Future generations will reap the full benefit of "the great struggle for liberty. But "the present generation, in addition "to paying in blood in treasure, is still "paying heavily in many other ways. "An epidemic that spared no land "was only one of the disastrous by-"products of the great war. An era "of inefficiency and laziness is now "sweeping the civilized world and "threatens destruction to the present "social organization.

"A serious scarcity of farm help "which inevitably means, sooner or "later, a corresponding scarcity of "food and clothing, is only the most "obvious sign of the manifest un-"willingness of the people to work. "Inability to secure help does not "mean that there are not enough "people to produce what the nation "requires. It does mean that the "mass of the people do not realize "that they must work or face a seri-"ous shortage of all the necessities "of life.

"More wages and less work is the "invisible motto that is inscribed on "labor's banner. It applies to every "industry. Fantastic prices paid for "unskilled work owing to the exigen-"cies of wartime conditions have "destroyed old standards and caused "labor to lose all sense of proportion. "When bricklayers limit their output "to 700 bricks per day when 1,200 "would represent a fair day's work, "it is inevitable that houses will "continue to be dear and scarce."

B. C. TO CHANGE THE RULE OF THE ROAD

Vancouver, B. C., June 9.—When at a date yet to be indicated by the Lieutenant-Governor of the province, British Columbia falls in line with the rest of the American continent and changes the rule of the road from left to right, one of the largest and most intricate feats of engineering in the history of street railway operation in Canada will confront the British Columbia Electric Railway Company, costing anywhere from five hundred thousand to one million dollars. Large crews of men will have to work at least 150 days in Vancouver, probably somewhat less in Victoria, where the problems are not so involved.

All cars, with the exception of the interurbans, are built to conform with the "keep to the left" rule, and to change the rule of the road does not simply mean turning the cars around and running them on the other track. Many replacements must be made.

All switches must be taken up and new ones installed, but perhaps the most delicate operation involved will be the rectifying of trolley wires, which do not follow the natural curve of the car around the track, but are adjusted to the swing of the car.

As a result of the change a large influx of automobile tourists, eager to view the splendors of the Sunset Province and undeterred by fear of accident, is expected.

MEXICAN PRIEST EXPOSES MEDIUMS

Practices Craft for Enlightenment of Fordham University Alumnae Sodality

New York, June 8.—About 800 members and guests of Fordham University Alumnae Sodality spent three hours last night with Father Charles S. DeHeredia, the Mexican priest who has been giving "seances" throughout New England, exposing the tricks of the mediums, the ouija board and other implements of alleged contact with the spirit world.

The clergyman showed the ability of a big time performer, taking his audience from hilarious laughter to tense, grim fear; thrilling them with the lighter side of the game and then sending a cold shiver down their spines with a ghostly deception.

"The ouija," said the little priest, "is nothing but the sub-conscious mind, working sub-consciously upon the hands. It makes Newton forget all his theories, provided the one working the board is not well up on the subject, and could never have fooled Sir Oliver Lodge and Conan Doyle if they hadn't been unwise enough to ask questions that everyone knew the answers to."

Father Heredia communicated with the "spirts" and then went about the audience and actually told some of them their secrets. For instance, he told one elderly gentleman that he had come to the hall for a chance to expose the priest's work. He told a reporter of his journeys in the West Indies and Ireland, and he told a young Spanish girl the name of her lover and assured her of his devotion.

He did many other things in the way of mind reading and crystal reading, even telling Alice Gallagher that the all important question will be "popped" to her on the coming trip of Fordham followers to West Point for the big ball game with the army nine.

He permitted himself to be tightly bound to a chair and then summoned many to the stage, where, despite his shackled wrists, he managed to partly disrobe them in a jiffy. He took particular pleasure in making the scribes present his victims, and one is still looking for his coat. He made an ordinary table do the "shimmy" dance across the stage and back and gave a full demonstration of the knocks and taps code of the mediums. Common sense, if properly applied would, he said, expose all the tricks.

SALVATION ARMY CHANGES IN WEST

Winnipeg, Man., June 9.—Commissioner William Eadie of the Salvation Army announces some important changes in the Army staff in Winnipeg. Major Walter Peacock, well known throughout the west, who has been acting editor of the Western War Cry since its inception, has been notified to enter upon an appointment in one of the neighboring territories early in August. He will be succeeded as editor of the Western War Cry by Adjutant H. G. Carter, secretary for trade and publishing affairs, who in turn will be succeeded by Staff-Capt. Joseph Gosling.

Lethbridge, Alta., June 9.—The poll tax of $10 to be levied covers every individual, male and female, whose name does not appear on the assessment roll. School teachers, stenographers, miners, clerks, and all engaged in business, trade, and labor, not paying taxes will come under the imposition, and all householders who rent and do not own property.

The Stock Market

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York (Wall Street), June 9.—A firm undertone was shown by popular issues at the opening of today's stock market, although rails, with the exception of Reading, continued under moderate pressure as a result of the reduction in the Chicago and Northwestern dividends. Most of the steels, equipments, motors and oils scored variable gains. Crucible soon rose 1½ points, with gains of one to almost two points for American Car, Baldwin Locomotive, Chandler Motor, Royal Dutch and Middle States Oil. Shippings, Utilities and miscellaneous specialties made fractional advances.

The Market at Noon.

Selling of investment rails became more general before the end of the first hour. The shorts evidently proceeded on the theory that other high grade transportations might be forced to follow the lead of Chicago and Northwestern and curtail dividend disbursements. Northwestern common and preferred extended yesterday's decline by two to three points. Norfolk & Western also lost three and transcontinentals, Illinois Central, New York Central and Delaware & Hudson fell one to almost two points. The reaction was partially checked before noon on buying of equipments and specialties, particularly Baldwin Locomotive, Industrial Alcohol, Tobacco Products, International Paper and Barrett Company. Call money opened at seven per cent., and Liberty bonds, especially the 3½s, were firm to strong.

The Montreal Market.

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Montreal, June 9.—The local market opened strong this morning with some notable overnight advances. Atlantic Sugar, which was the big leader yesterday, commenced at 123 a quarter above last night's close. It strengthened to 125 but dropped later to 124½. Brompton was the most active stock, opening at 127 and then rising to 128, later sagging fractionally. Breweries made a fractional gain in the first half hour. Spanish River, Wayagamack and Riordan were all strong.

FROM THE PEOPLE

ARE MARRIED PEOPLE HAPPY?

To the Editor of The Gleaner.

Sir,—I would like to reply to a correspondent who recently had a letter in your interesting column in which she asks if any married people are happy.

Yes, there are a great many happy people in the world, and I think you are mistaken when you say they are all indifferent. The happiness of married people is different from that of engaged couples, for one is realization and the other anticipation. The love of married people is deeper, truer and less showy than engaged couples. When you are engaged you think of nothing but love, but when you are married you must buckle down to your job of wife making and home making. Many marriages are failures because women are not onto their jobs. A man likes to come home to a well ordered house, a well cooked meal and a pleasant, companionable wife. He likes to brag on what a good cook his wife is and how well she can manage the home, etc.

If you expect to have servants it is just as necessary that you know how to manage a home and it is also necessary that you know how to manage servants. A good mistress goes a long way toward making a good maid. When I hear a woman say she can't keep a maid I know something is wrong.

I am a married woman and I wouldn't change places with any single woman I know. I married my husband when he was on a small salary and have had the pleasure of seeing him study and advance very rapidly. He could do this because when he came home he could rest and relax, and when he wanted to study his mind was free from home worries.

So, it is up to you to make your married life happy or miserable, provided, of course, that your husband is sane and reasonable.

Yours,
ONE OF THE HAPPY.

Woodstock, N. B., June 7, 1920.

CALLS ON WOMEN TO HELP

To the Editor of The Gleaner.

Sir,—May I through your From the People column, which so largely represents the pulse of the people, express my admiration for the men who are dedicating themselves to the simple life and simple raiment? It seems to me like a trumpet call to the women of Canada.

Surely we cannot shirk the task which our husbands and brothers are facing. Our share of it plainly lies in the direction of our households. Let us dismiss some of our ignorant and arrogant maids and do a little work ourselves. It will not hurt any of us! And it will reduce our daily expenses very materially and satisfactorily.

What do you readers think?

Yours,
A. W. R.

VACATION READING

To the Editor of The Gleaner.

Sir,—A recent contribution to the From the People column asks your readers to suggest for him seven books suitable for vacation reading and well varied in their scope. How will this list do? The books suggested cover a wide range of subjects and no two of them exploit the same field of thought:

"The Fair God," by Gen. Lew Wallace.
"A Circuit Rider's Wife," by Corra Harris.
"The Yellow Pine Basin," by Henry Guy Catlin.
"Perdida," by Frederic W. Panghorn.
"Years of My Youth," by William Dean Howells.
"The Land of the Spirit," by Thomas Nelson Page.
"White Man's Africa," by Poultney Bigelow.

Yours,
A BOOK LOVER.

EDUCATION AND LIFE

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I am a constant reader of your From the People column and therefore I wish to write a few words on Education and Life. Education is the foundation for life. It is for that reason that our universities offer a liberal education. It releases and quickens the faculties of the mind. It teaches the student to enjoy and appreciate, thereby placing him in harmony with nature.

My profession lies in the inanimated world, and if I were to exclude myself from the "stream of the world" I would be a perpetual bore to my friends and associates. Why should I confine myself to the realm of ideas and principles alone. Am I not as human as those who dwell in the animated world? When my work in the material world is finished, I spend the remaining hours enjoying life. Education has taught me to enjoy and appreciate. It gives me as much pleasure to apply my skill to a dance as it does to apply Newton's law of motion to an engineering problem.

Yours,
FRED.

Fishing for Salmon in N. B. The Pinnacle of the Sport

Morris Ackerman Relates Experience During Struggle With Eight Pound Salmon Caught on Four-Ounce Rod With Three Small Trout Flies and Six Feet of Line

[Morris Ackerman in Cleveland Sunday News-Leader.]

It's a mistake to boil tea for more than an hour," says that venerable and noted old guide, W. Harry Allen, to us last week as we sat in the glowing warmth of the nightly campfire on the bank of the Cains river in New Brunswick. Which brings to mind that in our opinion it's a mistake to live a life without really living it. Which, kind friends, is the reason for our insatiable love of the outdoors that takes us to the back and beyond places that God has so richly endowed us with. It was this longing for the woods and streams that took us on our quest for salmon in far off New Brunswick, a trip that will long fondly rest in our book of mental memories as the best of all fishing trips. That is our idea of the way that life can be made worth while and the way man was created to live part of his time.

Leaving Cleveland on May 8 on the afternoon train we duly whisked over the rails to Buffalo and thence to Toronto, from which point we journeyed over to Peterborough to have an hour's chat with our good friend Chris Graham and leave with him an autographed baseball sent over in our care by that angling-baseball manager of ours, T. Speaker. More than that we arranged with Chris to take care of Spoke this fall on another muskellunge and duck hunting trip at Rice Lake, Ontario. You will remember that our noted centre fielder took a twenty-five pound musky from Rice Lake last fall and this so whetted up his appetite for this sort of fishing that he is going back again "to catch that ol' fish's grandfather," as Spoke puts it.

Leaving Peterborough we jumped down to Port Hope and caught the Montreal sleeper, reaching that largest of Canadian cities on Sunday morning. In the evening we boarded the train again for Fredericton, N. B., where we arrived Monday noon. At the Barker House we ran into George Allen, Harry's nephew, who was going over to the Cains the next morning with Frank Fay, of Greenville, Pa. George told us that the moving picture man of the Department of Trade and Commerce, from Ottawa, was "due in the morning" and that as the waters were so high and there were so many log jams in the rivers that Harry wanted to get a new logging reel and that the next couple of days would be put in on this work.

This gave us a chance to get in touch with our friend Fraser Gregory, of St. John, one of the largest lumbermen in the province. We fixed up a little trout and ouananiche trip with him for Loch Lomond and the next noon found us on the job at St. John, where we spent several pleasant days at Mr. Gregory's camp and in making the rounds of some of New Brunswick's southern lakes.

Leaving St. John we travelled back to Fredericton, starting from that point the next morning for McGivney Junction, picking up Harry Allen and Alf Nichols, another guide, at Penniac, Allen's home. In our party were J. M. Gibbon, of Montreal; J. Harold McMurray, of Fredericton, secretary of the N. B. Guides' Association; John Alexander, movie man of Ottawa, and ourself. We changed at McGivney and at 9 a. m. hit the headwaters of the Cains at Bantalor, where we left the train and packed our boat, two canoes and duffle to the river. We were then seventy-five miles from the mouth where it enters the S. W. Miramichi.

Thirty minutes later we started our downward journey. The river is only about fifty feet wide at this point, but soon broadened out into quite a sizable stream. We had not gone far down the stream, heavily wooded on either side with birches and spruces, until we saw our first deer, then a porcupine, then we heard a partridge drumming, then a pair of black ducks rose ahead. And so it went, something to see every minute of the time. Always and ever entertaining and appealing sights for the eye, unusual and pleasing sounds for the ear, the odor of wild flowers and balsam and pine and spruce, along with the sun-tempered frosty air to breathe, while your sense of feeling is tickled beyond words of expression. Imagine all of this, dear readers, then add to it that sense of taste that closes down on the sweet meat of the freshly caught brook trout and salmon and you get a faint idea of why we love the outdoors as we do—and why we keep ourself in a state of financial embarrassment to meet the requirements of the pastime.

During the first two days we counted exactly nineteen deer. Some of them we got some splendid pictures of. We saw no moose or black bear on the trip but they are there, lots of them, and it might be your good fortune to paddle up to one at any turn in the river. We counted porcupines until we got tired. They sleep lazily in the trees and you glide so quietly by that they would never notice you.

Porcupines are known as "land beavers." They have teeth like a beaver, are vegetarian feeders, live on herbs and bark, and are, so the guides tell us, very fond of canoe paddles and other camp equipment that they put themselves very much in bad with the woodsmen.

We saw two beavers swimming across the river, while beaver cuttings and houses are to be seen along your way. These beaver and their work are always interesting and their hides are worth a lot of money at the present time. Trapping of beaver is not permitted during the late spring and summer months. The mother beavers are now "at home" taking care of their little families, while the male population is foraging miles away.

After paddling down the river for two days we came to Aurobo pool, where we found a note on a slip of birch bark from George Allen, who had preceded us several days before with Mr. Fay. It read: "Notice. Uncle Harry got large catch here. Largest salmon I ever saw. Got him at turn of river. Fish weighed about thirty pounds and was forty-six inches long. Best flies Durham ranger, silver doctor and silver Wilkinson.

"GEORGE."

Up to this time we had seen no salmon jumping, but had caught a few trout. But when we got this note all hands got busy. A short time later Mr. Gibson hooked onto a salmon of about fifteen pounds. This was the first fish and the movie operator was got into play in a hurry. The first two jumps of this fish went to waste, as far as the movie camera was concerned, but Mr. Gibbon reeled in short again so that the camera could get the next jumps. Alexander succeeded in getting the pictures and the salmon succeeded in getting away. Thus ended our first actual play on the salmon grounds.

In playing these fish you need a lot of line, for quite frequently they will run for a couple of hundred feet and if you fail to give 'em line you give 'em liberty, that's all there is to it. They will start with a dash of a few yards, jump high and dry out of the water, come down heavy and strike at the leader with their tails. This means with every jump you have to lower the tip of your rod and take up slack immediately after, drawing the fish across stream, if possible, as soon as the run is finished.

Not long after this episode, no more salmon seeming to care to get hooked, I went out after a mess of trout, using at the time a four ounce rod with three small trout flies and about sixty feet of line. After catching two trout, while drawing in for the next cast, something grabbed that lead fly, a Parmachene Belle, and started up stream with it. At the time I thought it was a grisle (a small salmon) or a large trout.

For several minutes this fish sulked, and THEN it happened! A mad rush of a few yards and out of the water for two magnificent leaps. Folks, it was an eight-pounder and it looked at the time as if the odds were in favor of the salmon. One hour and fifteen minutes later this beautiful fish came to the net and we are here to tell you that in all of our fishing experience we never spent such a nerve-racking seventy-five minutes.

We could not budge that fish with the slender outfit. We had to throw stones in the water to make the salmon start and then throw fits to make it stop. Time and again every inch of line went out and we gave the full extent of our arm for good measure, but if that salmon knew as much about out end of the line as we did—well it would just be another story of the "biggest one got away."

During the exciting period we hopped in a canoe and Alf poled us up and down the pool, then back and then forward until we were as dizzy as the fish. Harry Allen had to finally go out in another canoe and start that durn "sammin" up again, and then there would be another spell of anxiety during the subsequent leaps and rush and Alf's poling ability to stay in the same county the fish was in. In the end the barb was gone from the hook and we believe if the net had been big enough we would have just naturally fallen in it with the fish.

Splendid moving pictures of this part of the performance should result, for most of the time our face was clouded with gloom and our spirits far from 2 per cent. We never had an experience like that and never expect another, but we are glad to have had one such thrill as that in our lifetime.

After we reached this first salmon pool all hands had more or less luck. Several fish were taken that weighed in the neighborhood of fifteen pounds, while the smallest was three pounds. The customary outfit is about 300 feet of line on a salmon reel and a sixteen or eighteen-foot salmon rod. The rods usually used are of split bamboo, lancewood, greenheart or bethabara. Personally our advice would be an eight-ounce trout rod of split bamboo. This is personal, however, as it puts the "grief" as much on the angler as the salmon.

At the present time Malcolm McBride, E. S. Burke, Jr., Reuben Hitchcock, R. F. Grant, W. B. Hickox and G. W. Grandin, all of Cleveland, are fishing on the Cains, Allen waiting for them at the salmon pools down near Sainnickburn, some fourteen miles above the mouth.

The White House is probably the most intricately equipped electrical mansion in the world. There are in the house more than 170 miles of wires, providing for 3,000 incandescent lights, a bell system, and a private telephone system for the President and his family, exclusively.

Why Do People Take Monkey Glands?

Rejuvenation, both physical and mental, can be acquired much easier and more pleasantly than by taking or eating the glands from monkeys. The French have invented a Medicine, in tablet form, that does away with all other means of rejuvenation. These Tablets are now universally sold throughout Canada, and are known as VITAL Tablets. They supply the necessary Vigor and Youth. There is no need to import chimpanzees from Africa to take their glands to inject into people. Why go to all this trouble and expense, when VITAL Tablets can now be procured right in your own town, from your drug store? VITAL Tablets taken for a short period, disease of every description, old age with all its aches and pains, will be a thing of the past. Young men and women with their pale faces, thin blood, impure blood, blotches on the skin, run-down, worn out, tired people can be placed in a state of good health, with pure blood, strong nerves, a strong stomach, a healthy body, full of youth and vigor. Every Tablet of this new medicine contains the elements to make you feel as nature intended you to feel, no matter what your trouble is, go to your druggist and procure a box of VITAL Tablets. If they do not do you good, go back and get your money. Get on your feet, away with that pale, worn out look on the face. VITAL will bring back the rose of youth. Price fifty cents per box at all drug stores.

What You Will Be Tomorrow Depends Upon What You Do For Your Health Today—

You Must Keep Your Blood Filled With Iron To Stand the Strain of Modern Day Life Says Physician—Explains How

Nuxated Iron Helps Build Red Blood

Strength and Endurance

Have you ever stopped to look yourself squarely in the face? Are you getting anywhere? — or just drifting — a little weaker, a little more nervous, a little more run-down every day? Nothing slips away so easily as HEALTH. Unless YOU hold fast to HEALTH by your own efforts—by keeping your blood pure, red and rich in iron—the day may come when all you can do is WISH you had acted sooner. Physicians explain below how to help make rich, red blood and increase strength, power and endurance, through the health-giving, strength-building power of organic iron—Nuxated Iron—which is now being used by over three million people annually.

"Success is in the blood," says Dr. John J. Van Horne, formerly Medical Inspector and Clinical Physician on the Board of Health of the City of New York. "There are men whom fate can never keep down. They triumph over difficulties and ill-fortune because they have within them the never-failing source of courage, confidence and power—pure, red blood, rich in stamina-building iron. Where others hesitate and stumble, these men march forward with a firm step and take the best prizes of life. Their brains are keenly alive, their bodies are fortified with the strength and energy that enables them to take and keep the best the world has to offer. But in the rush and tear of modern day life, many a man and woman neglects to keep their blood filled with strength-building iron and as a result they find themselves on the verge of a physical and nervous breakdown at a time when they should be enjoying their best years. In my opinion, physicians cannot emphasize too strongly the necessity of keeping the blood pure and red with plenty of iron, and I believe they should at every opportunity prescribe organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for in my experience it is one of the best tonic and red blood builders known to medical science."

Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital, in commenting upon the foregoing statement, says: "Every keen, active successful man and woman of today recognizes that a sound, strong body is the basis of all real achievement and they leave no stone unturned to safeguard their health. Lack of iron in the blood not only makes a man a physical and mental weakling, but it utterly robs him of that virile force, that stamina and strength of will which are so necessary to success and power in every walk of life. I strongly advise every man who is fagged out by worry, work and other strains to build up his strength, energy and endurance by taking some form of organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for I consider it one of the foremost blood and body builders; the best to which I have ever had recourse."

MANUFACTURERS' NOTE: Nuxated Iron, which is recommended above is not a secret remedy but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products it is easily assimilated and does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach. Each tablet of genuine Nuxated Iron is stamped as follows N and the words Nuxated Iron are stamped into each bottle, so that the public may not be led into accepting inferior substitutes. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed by all good druggists in tablet form only.

Urge Hospital Extension At Present Time as Likely To Prove Most Economical

Kenneth Rea, the Montreal Architect, Conferred With Board of Trustees Yesterday—Decision That Power Plant Should Be Built at Once

A special meeting of the Trustees of Victoria Hospital was held yesterday in the rooms of the Board of Trade for the purpose of consultation with Kenneth G. Rea, of Montreal, who came to the city in order that further delay might be obviated in proceeding with the new building. He furnished the Board with details and explained the plans, emphasizing the fact that to put off the enlargement of the plant at this time would be not only false economy but an expensive mistake.

After an extended conference with Mr. Rea, a resolution presented by R. B. Hanson to the effect that so important a stage in the work had been reached that the Board will use every effort to have at least the power plant erected in connection with the memorial building at once, was approved. However, it is hoped the City Council will see that the additional proposed construction is greatly needed and for the need of the community this work cannot be delayed very much longer.

The Monthly Accounts.

In his statement of expenditures at the monthly meeting for May the secretary-treasurer submitted an unusually large row of figures and the only explanation he could suggest was the H. C. of L.

The Superintendent in her report showed that ninety-four patients were cared for during the month, seventy-eight of these being surgical cases. Six deaths occurred in May, an unusual number. The contagious wing has been constantly occupied for several months, and with waiting lists in the general hospital the officials and nursing staff are kept in close contact with the physicians.

This was the first regular meeting held since the appointment of Chancellor Jones to a seat at the Board and the president cordially welcomed him, as did the other members. Dr. Jones was assured that the present is an important era in the life of the hospital, but he is not at all disturbed over the promised heavy work ahead of him.

Col. Loggie, from the supplies committee, reported they had purchased a formidable kitchen range at a cost of nearly $200. Notwithstanding the straitened finances at the hospital, the committee, without any desire to be classed with profiteers, have also succeeded in procuring several barrels of sugar and flour.

An effort has recently been made to procure the services of a hospital dietician, but nothing decisive has yet been reached. In the Fraser memorial building the architect has made provision for this important work with all the up-to-date fixings.

The Trustees of Victoria Hospital will meet with the Aldermen this evening at a special meeting of the City Council.

MAGEE'S SUIT FOR $9,500 IN COURTS

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 9.—Lee Magee, Cincinnati ball player, was expected to be given a gruelling cross-examination in the trial today of his suit for $9,500 against the Chicago National Baseball Club in the United States District Court.

Magee yesterday testified in direct opposition to the statement of President Wm. Veeck, of the Chicago club, and President John A. Heydler, of the National League, regarding his "midnight confession."

He testified that when he placed the $500 between the first game of the double header between the Cincinnati Reds and the Boston Nationals on July 25, 1918, he was under the impression that he was betting on his own team. He said that he was unaware that it was made against the team until after the game, when Hal Chase, Reds' first baseman, informed him that the bet had been lost.

Magee said it was his playing which won the game. In the thirteenth inning, he declared, he made a sharp hit which broke the Boston shortstop's nose. He then stole second, he said, and scored on Roush's home run. The case is expected to be turned over to the jurors for a verdict later today.

Maxwell

More miles per gallon
More miles on tires

The Rise of Maxwell is Due To Its Metals

Fine soil makes fine wheat; fine feathers make a fine bird; and fine metals have made the Maxwell. They have given it:

1—A life of 100,000 miles. 2—Thriftiness.

But these metals are of extra strength. Therein comes long life.

Metallurgists—those who have made the study of metals a science—will tell you that such metals are costly, but they guarantee quality in a car and their generous employment in a Maxwell is by far the best evidence anyone may need to determine its quality.

They are almost alone responsible for the rapid rise of Maxwell, for the fact that nearly 400,000 now have been built, for that ever-growing friendliness to Maxwell the world over.

A FRENCH FUND TO TRAIN BOXERS

20,000 Francs Subscribed to Train Boxers to Represent France at Olympic

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Paris, June 9.—A gift of 20,000 francs by sportsmen for the training of amateur boxers to represent France in the Olympic games at Antwerp this summer, announced today, has put new spirit into the contestants who are meeting here for the elimination matches. It is intimated other gifts will follow.

There had been much pessimism in French sporting circles, as in Great Britain, because of the lack of funds to properly prepare teams in all sports. The boxers to represent France will be selected in twenty-four regional tournaments.

JOE IRVINE WINS WRESTLING MATCH

St. John, June 9.—Before about 300 wrestling fans last evening in St. Andrews rink, Joe Irvine, formerly known as Young Hackenschmidt, defeated Arthur Larabie, of Halifax, in two straight falls. Irvine, who comes from Oromocto, N. B., had no difficulty in winning the bout, his superior weight and strength making him the master of the affair. He won the first fall in thirteen minutes with a double arm lock and took the second in eight minutes with a head and arm lock. The men spent very little time actually on the mat, being on their feet most of the session. Two preliminaries were scheduled, but the participants, who are amateurs, were notified that if they appeared they would be professionalized, and therefore did not wrestle. George Laird was the refere and satisfied all parties.

Walter Newbert has bought a trotter for his vacation campaign in Maine, the 5-year-old Eva Frisco, 2.23, daughter of San Francisco, 2.07¾, and Eva Tanguay, 2.09¾.

One of the best yearlings in the Cox school at Laurel Hall Farm this spring was the son of San Francisco, 2.07¾, nd Alla Stretta, 2.29¼, the dam of Hilda Fletcher, 2.10.

Big Stables For M. & M. Circuit

R. Potvin Will Bring Nine Horses from Montreal, Making His First Start at Moncton's Opening Meeting—Irving Pottle, the Portland Trainer, Plans Are to Hit Circuit at St. Stephen.

One of the biggest and probably one of the most formidable stables which will be campaigned on the Maritime and Maine Circuit this season will be that of R. Potvin, the well known Montreal trainer, who handles the horses owned by several well known Montreal and Quebec horsemen.

Some time ago an announcement was made that Mr. Potvin had arranged to come to Fredericton for the "curtain raiser" meeting here on June 30th and July 1st, but the Fredericton Park Association have recently received letters from Mr. Potvin stating that he had never received any communications from the person responsible for that announcement, which therefore seems to have been made without foundation.

The Potvin stable will make their first start at the opening meeting at Moncton on July 1st, 2nd and 3rd and will join the M. and M. Circuit at Woodstock, continuing from there to St. Stephen, then to Fredericton, Chatham and elsewhere, remaining on this circuit until well along in the season. Efforts were made to have Mr Potvin make his first start here, but he replied that arrangements had already been made for his stable to go to Moncton before the present local management were in charge of the association's affairs.

The Potvin stable, according to latest advices, will consist of nine horses and will be headed by a free for all pacer whose identity is not announced but who is supposed to be Budlight, 2.04¼, a former member of Tommy Murphy's string, and owned for a short time by Phil Beliveau, the Moncton track manager and speed owner. The other pacers in the stable include Lake Be Sure, 2.14¾, Lady Gratton, 2.15¼, and Rhoda Mack, May Gratton and Harry Gratton, all green; the trotting members of the string are headed by Clay Watts, 2.14¾, and there are two unmarked trotters, incomparable and Two Step.

Another stable which it was announced would come to Fredericton for the "curtain raiser" is that of I. W. Pottle, the well known Portland, Me., horseman. This anouncement also appears to have been without foundation, as Mr. Pottle has written that it is not his intention to come East before the middle of July. His plans are to join the Maritime and Maine Circuit at St. Stephen, where there will be racing on July 20th, 21st and 22nd, and to come on to Fredericton the next week, remaining on the circuit until the week of the Bangor, Me., Fair, where he has stake engagements.

Mr. Pottle will campaign a good size string of horses this season, The Ghost, 2.09¼, being the free for aller of the stable. He will also have a pacer with a mark of 2.14¼, another with a mark of 2.22¼, one eligible to the 2.26 class and two green ones, while his trotters include one with a mark of 2.21¼ and two that are unmarked.

The Fredericton Park Association are endeavoring to have the Pottle stable ship down East at an earlier date and would like to have them here for the "curtain raiser" meeting on June 30th and July 1st.—J. D. B.

Cape Breton Teams After Fred McLean

The services of Fred McLean, the local baseball and hockey player, are evidently in great demand in Cape Breton, and it is giving him a busy time to stay in the amateur show again.

About every day he gets telegraphic offers of jobs with the teams in Cape Breton, and one or two of them have been having a busy time angling for his services. So far he has not accepted any of the offers and plans remaining here—if his amateur standing is confirmed as a result of President Covey's recommendations.

DAVE MOREY QUITS COACH AT MALDEN

Former Fredericton Baseball Pitcher to Become College Coach

[Boston Herald.]

Malden High will lose the services of David B. Morey, its very successful athletic coach at the close of the present baseball season. For some time he has had two excellent offers from colleges under consideration and decided a short time ago to make the change. His resignation has been accepted by the Malden school board after an effort was made to have him change his mind.

Morey first came into prominence at Malden High, where, as a football and baseball player he was an all scholastic choice. Journeying to Dartmouth to complete his education, he showed his value and magnetism by becoming a leading player and captain of the freshman football team. He also pitched the Dartmouth freshman nine to many victories.

For three years he was one of those bruising type half backs, so dear to the heart of Frank Cavanaugh when the latter was coach at Dartmouth. Morey was a real star, fitting into the big green attack and with his punting producing many a prod to victory. On several occasions he was mentioned as an All-America player by experts.

He played baseball, being the leading Dartmouth pitcher during his stay in Hanover. In 1913, he was captain of the Dartmouth nine. After he was graduated he returned to Dartmouth as assistant to Cavanaugh, spending considerable time developing a strong freshman eleven.

Dave Morey will be well remembered by New Brunswick followers of baseball as one of the pitchers of Fredericton's three times champion teets of the New Brunswick and Maine League and his many friends will be glad to learn of his success.

Johnny Bolster's Pitching For Y.M.C.A. Team Whiffs 15 Imperials in 7 Innings

MARYSVILLE TO PLAY OLD TIMERS TONIGHT

Fred McLean to Twirl Against the League Leaders Who Are Unbeaten

The Imperials went down to defeat before the Y. M. C. A. team last evening in a fast seven inning game in the York County Baseball League, played at the Trotting Park.

Johnny Bolster pitched in fine form for the Y. M. C. A., having fifteen strikeouts to his credit and allowing only five hits, while Clark on the mound for the Imperials received poor support, his team having seven errors to their discredit. He allowed eleven hits.

McAdam for the Imperials, and Donovan, for the Y. M. C. A., were the only players securing hits for extra bases and each got a two bagger. Mike McDonald proved an impartial umpire, and kept the game well in hand. Bolster's pitching was the feature of the game, time after time demonstrating his ability to pull himself out of bad looking holes. Clark's pitching was also good but owing to the poor support given him the Y. M. C. A. got away to an early lead sending four runs across the plate in the second inning.

The box score follows:

TARIFF COMMITTEE OF MANUFACTURERS

ed the flooding of our markets with shipments of goods from the United Kingdom. Evidence of this fact is found in the imports from the United Kingdom for January, 1920, which exceeded in value all such importations in any previous month of our history. As sterling falls in New York, the conditions are accentuated. And if the value of sterling were determined for duty purposes by the exchange rate, customs duty would be collected on lower values than the fair market value of the goods as sold for "home" consumption in the United Kingdom. This would be contrary to the Customs Act of Canada; but if the concession could be, and were, granted, the loss in customs revenue would be very great. Moreover, it cannot be contended that transactions for "home" consumption in the United Kingdom are appreciated in price to the extent or in correspondence with the depreciated value of sterling in Montreal. This can be realized at once by consideration of our own condition for transactions in general for "home" consumption in Canada are not appreciated in price to the extent or in correspondence with the depreciated value of the Canadian dollar in the United States. The basis of sterling, the franc and the lira is still gold, and it is to the interests of Canadian importers that there should be a settled basis for the valuation of imported European goods. If the rate of exchange were to be allowed in calculating the value for duty, it is probable that no two importers of the same goods would pay the same amount of customs duties. Thus, there would be all sorts of invidious discriminations.

The action of the Customs Department of Canada in placing the same par valuation on sterling exchange which the United Kingdom attaches thereto in respect to sales for "home" consumption in that country, does not destroy, as some erroneously contend, the effect of the British Preferential Tariff of Canada.

The Executive Council, on the recommendation of your committee, has asked the Dominion Government to amend the customs regulations so as to provide that each and every manufactured article imported into Canada from any other country, including countries of the British Empire, shall be clearly marked so as to indicate definitely the country of origin.

Orders-in-Council and Rulings.

Notice of changes in customs regulations as effected by orders-in-council or by customs rulings have always been sent promptly to members primarily interested. In addition, full announcements have appeared in Industrial Canada each month.

During the year the Tariff Department, in co-operation with members concerned, has handled a large number of questions before the Department of Customs as to customs tariff interpretations, of questions as to value for duty of imports, of matters requiring new statistical classification, of customs seizure charges, the return of duties overpaid, and the settlement of drawback claims. Members are again reminded that the Manager of the Tariff Department is available to all members for consultation and assistance in respect to any customs matter, either foreign or domestic. In this connection it is gratifying to report that the facilities of the Tariff Department for advising on foreign tariff rates, invoice forms, etc., have been extensively used during the past few months.

PISTOL WAS USED AS ALARM CLOCK

Woman Accused of Murder Says She Always Snapped Trigger in Husband's Ear

Paterson, N. J., June 8.—A strange story of how every morning, when she was living with her husband in Ridgefield Park, four miles from here, she was accustomed to wake him by pulling the trigger of an old revolver close to his ear, and that it never exploded until yesterday morning was told to the police today by Mrs. Edna Mensing, who is committed to the county jail here on a charge of murder.

Mrs. Mensing, who is only 17 years old, was arraigned in the Paterson Police Court today before Recorder William H. Young on a charge of killing her husband. Her face white and drawn and apparently in a stupor, she was supported to the court room by Matron Minnie Nolan. Twice she stumbled and would have fallen but for the police matron's arm.

In a low voice, without expression, she said "Not guilty" when told to plead. She was remanded to the county jail without bail pending action by the grand jury. As she left the room, her eyes held straight to the front, women in the court room sobbed. An appeal to Supreme Court Justice Minturn for bail for his client will be made today by J. Vincent Barnitt, counsel for Mrs. Mensing, and for her mother, Mrs. Mary Loges, paroled as a material witness, who appeared in court with her daughter today.

Three unexploded cartridges found in the revolver with which she killed her husband, Henry, 32 years old, while he lay asleep in his home at 608 Main street, yesterday morning, the police said today, show the marks of the hammer against their percussion caps. The fourth chamber of the five the pistol contained, they said, held an exploded cartridge which must have been fired years ago, as it is rusted into place. The fifth is the freshly exploded cartridge that did the killing.

Police Believe Story.

Examination of the revolver and these discoveries have made the police change their original theory that there had been a quarrel and Mrs. Mensing shot him intentionally, to one of accident. It is possible, they believe, that, as the girl asserts, she had clicked the trigger to awaken her husband every morning. The hammer struck the "dead" cartridges and never did injury, until it happened to hit the vulnerable spot in the one remaining cartridge capable of damage.

This was in the National Tuxis Athletic contest held recently throughout Canada.

IN DAYS OF TERROR

"Maurice," said Genevieve softly, "I cannot keep the person I came to see waiting; but if I am the least constraint upon your return to Paris, only send back the carriage."

"No, no, madame," replied Maurice, quickly, "I am at your service." He bowed to Genevieve, who, sighing softly, proceeded on her way, and entered Auteuil.

Maurice went to the appointed place, and continued walking backwards and forwards with long impatient strides, cutting off with his cane, like Tarquin, all the heads of the weeds, and flowers of the thistles, which he found upon the road; and this road being narrow and retired, left him at full liberty to trace and retrace his footsteps as often as he pleased. And what occupied his thoughts? The desire to know whether Genevieve loved him or not. Her manner to him was that of a friend, or sister, but he felt this was not sufficient. He loved her with an entire love. She had become his sole thought by day, his renewed dream by night. At one time he only asked to see her again; he now required her to love him. Genevieve was absent for an hour, which to him had appeared an age; when he saw her returning with a smile upon her lips, Maurice, on the contrary, went to meet her with a frowning brow.

"Here I am," said she; "pardon me, mon ami, for having made you wait."

Maurice only replied by a bow; and they then entered a shady lane, which, by a winding path, conducted them into the high road.

It was one of those delicious evenings in spring, when every plant sends its fragrance on high, when every bird, either seated on the branches, or skipping from spray to spray, warbles its songs of praise to God; one of those evenings that seem destined to live for ever in our memory. Maurice was silent, Genevieve pensive. She plucked with one hand flowers for a bouquet, the other rested on the arm of Maurice

"What is the matter with you?" said he, all at once, to Genevieve; "and what makes you so sad today?"

Genevieve might have answered—my happiness. She regarded him tenderly.

"But you," said she, "are you not more than usually sad today?"

"I," said Maurice, "have reason to be sad; I am unhappy; but you—"

"You unhappy?"

"Doubtless; do you not perceive sometimes from my trmeulous tones how much I suffer? Does it not often happen, when I am talking with you, or your husband, I am compelled suddenly to seek the air, because I feel as if my heart would burst?"

"But," demanded Genevieve, embarrassed, "to what do you attribute this suffering?"

"If I were an affected lady," said Maurice, attempting a laugh, "I should say it was a nervous attack."

"And at this moment do you suffer."

"Much," said Maurice.

"Let us return, then."

"What, already, madame?"

"Without doubt."

"True," said the young man; "I forgot Monsieur Morand would return from Rambouillet this evening; and it is fast approaching." Genevieve looked at him reproachfully.

"Oh! again," said she.

"Why then did you, the other day, favor me with so high an eulogian on Monsieur Morand? It is your own fault."

"How long is it since, to people we esteem," demanded Genevieve, "we may not express our real opinion of an estimable man?"

"It must be a very lively esteem to cause you to accelerate your pace, as you at this moment are doing, for fear of being too late by a few minutes."

"You are today absolutely unjust, Maurice. Have I not passed part of the day with you?"

"You are right; and I am indeed too exacting," replied Maurice, subduing his impetuosity. "Let us return to Monsieur Morand. He at least is a friend who never causes me pain."

"They are, indeed, valuable friends," said Maurice, "and I, for my part, should like a few such."

They were now upon the high road; the horizon crimsoned as the departing rays of the setting sun glistened upon the gilt mouldings of the dome des Invalides. A star, which on the previous evening had attracted the attention of Genevieve, sparkled in the azure of heaven. Genevieve quitted Maurice's arm with melancholy submission.

"Why have you made me suffer?" said she.

"Ah!" said Maurice; "I am not so clever as some people, and do not know how to make love."

"Maurice!" said Genevieve.

"Oh, madame, if he is certainly so worthy and so just he ought not to suffer."

Genevieve again placed her white hand within the powerful arm of Maurice.

"I pray you," said she, in an altered tone, "to speak no more; to speak no more!"

"And why is that?"

"Because your voice makes me ill. "You are displeased with everything, even my voice?"

"Be silent, I conjure you."

"I will obey you, madame." And the impetuous young man passed his hand over his face, damp with perspiration.

Genevieve saw that he really suffered. "You are my friend, Maurice," said Genevieve, looking at him kindly; "do not deprive me of your valuable friendship."

"Oh! you would not regret it," said Maurice.

"You are mistaken," said Genevieve, "I should regret it very long, and for ever."

"Genevieve! Genevieve!" cried Maurice "have pity upon me."

Genevieve shuddered. It was the first time Maurice had uttered her name in these passionate accents.

"And now," continued Maurice, "since you have divined me, let me tell you all, Genevieve, for might you kill me with a look, I have been silent too long; I will speak, Genevieve."

"Monsieur," said the young woman, "I have supplicated you in the name of your friendship to remain silent; I still pray you to do so, if not for my sake, for your own. Not another word; in the name of Heaven; not another word."

"Friendship, friendship if it be a friendship like this you profess for me, that you feel for Monsieur Morand, I wish for no more of your friendship—I, Genevieve, require more than others."

"Enough," said Madame Dixmer, with the gesture of a queen; "enough, Monsieur Lindey; here is our carriage, please to conduct me to my husband's house."

Maurice trembled with fever and emotion when Genevieve, to rejoin the carriage, which indeed was only a few paces distant, placed her hand on his arm.

EXPECT BOARD OF EDUCATION TO SELECT HISTORY

Meeting Has Been Called for This Afternoon But the Programme Not Announced

THE NORMAL SCHOOL TEACHERS' SALARIES

Personnel of Hydro-Electric Commission Has Not Yet Been Announced

A meeting of the Board of Education has been called for this afternoon at 4 o'clock, following another meeting of the Provincial Government, who were in session all morning until considerably after noon.

This morning no information was available as to the programme for the Board of Education, but one question which has been standing is a definite decision as to the new general history to be prescribed to replace Myers' History, which has been tabooed.

At the last meeting of the Board it was reported that objection had been entered to the adoption of the Outlines of General History by Edgar Sanderson, which had been selected, and Botsford's History, which is in use in Ontario and was recently adopted by Alberta, which also tabooed Myers' History, was recommended, it is understood, but no action was taken.

Another matter standing for decision is the application of the members of the faculty of the Provincial Normal School for an increase of 25 per cent. in their salaries. This was referred to a committee at the last meeting and it is expected that a definite decision will be reached today. Some of the members feel, it is said, that the applications for advanced salaries have been coming too rapidly.

There has been no announcement as yet as to the personnel of the Hydro-Electric Commission, expected to be appointed by the Government at this meeting.

O'NEILL-BARRY NUPTIALS TODAY

Pretty Wedding at St. Dunstan's Church Early This Morning

One of the prettiest weddings of the season was that solemnized at St. Dunstan's church this morning, when Miss Gertrude Barry, daughter of the late James and Mrs. Susan Barry, became the bride of Hugh O'Neill, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh O'Neill, of this city.

Nuptial mass was celebrated by Very Rev. Dean Carney, who performed the ceremony in the presence of a large congregation. During the mass the choir sang several hymns, Gregory Feeney and Leo Cain singing the Ave Marie, and while the bridal party were signing the register Miss Dorothy Feeney, the organist, played O Promise Me, and as the bride entered and left the church the wedding march was played.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Peter Farrell, wore a beautiful gown of reindeer charmeuse with sequin trimming, with large picture hat and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses. She was attended by Miss Martha O'Neill, sister of the groom, who was gowned in Pekin blue panne velvet and georgette with large picture hat and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses and sweet peas. The groom was supported by Murray Farrell, a cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Barry, mother of the bride, wore a gown of black pailette silk with black lace scarf and black jet hat.

Mrs. O'Neill, mother of the groom, wore black silk and georgette with net and jet hat.

The bride is one of Fredericton's most popular young ladies, having been for some time organist of St. Dunstan's church and was prominent in church work.

The groom is one of the best known young men in the city, he was prominent in sporting circles and went overseas with the 20th Battery from Winnipeg and was in France for about three years.

After the wedding ceremony a dainty wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home on King stret. During the breakfast several piano solos were rendered.

After the breakfast Mr. and Mrs. O'Neill left by C. P. R. for St. John, Halifax and other provincial points, where they will spend their honeymoon. Going away Mrs. O'Neill wore a suit of taupe brown with summer cape of seal and ermine, with small hat of Algerian green and brown.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful gifts ,including Victory bonds, gold and cheques, silver, cut glass, linen, mahogany and china.

Among those here for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Farrell and son Charles, of St. John, and Miss Mary A. Farrell, of Dalhousie.

Simplify Method of Spending Money on Roads—Abolish Legislative Council

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Truro, N. S., June 10.—At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the United Farmers of Nova Scotia, held here yesterday, it was decided to take no steps looking to the nomination of candidates for election to the provincial legislature pending the complete organization of the party throughout the province.

Preceding the list of planks was placed the following resolution:

"Whereas the United Farmers of Nova Scotia has only recently come into being and as yet has had no opportunity of obtaining an expression of opinion from its local branches:

"Be it resolved, that until such time as opportunity will have been provided for each polling sub-division to organize a branch and by resolution instruct this executive, no action be taken looking to the placing of provincial candidates in the field, but that we, as an executive, endorse the following as a set of principles of which local organizations of the United Farmers of Nova Scotia may place candidates in nomination pending a provincial election."

MORE PHYSICAL TRAINING NEEDED

Sir Arthur Currie Would Rather Have More Physical Instructore Than a Big Army

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Ottawa, June 10.—"Let me convey to you the assurance that the military advisers of the Government have no idea of saddling any form of militarism in this country," said Sir Arthur Currie to the Presbyterian General Assembly yesterday. "I ask you to accept that assurance in all sincerity.

He did not want to see this country saddled with militarism. To show how much of a militarist he was, he had offered to reduce the Canadian standing militia by many thousands, if the Government would supply him with a thousand physical instructors. They should have more physical training in the schools, and there were many diseases to be overcome. Sir Arthur said they had lost more men through tuberculosis than on the battlefield. There was also the problem of venereal diseases. These matters ought to be dealt with in an outspoken manner.

BLOODHOUNDS FAIL TO TRAIL ROBBERS

Posse of Volunteers After the Thieves Who Looted $500,000 Jewels of Caruso

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

East Hampton, N. Y., June 10.—Two bloodhounds and a posse of volunteers yesterday joined the police in the hunt for the thieves who Tuesday night stole $500,000 worth of jewels from the home of Enrico Caruso, opera singer.

The dogs picked up a scent where footprints were found near the house and followed it for some distance, finally losing it at a point where the searchers said there was evidence an automobile had stood.

The belief of dectectives that the robbery was an "inside job" was strengthened yesterday by Mrs. Caruso, who said she was convinced her movements and those of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Park Benjamin, Jr., had been watched before the robbery.

TO INCREASE NEWSPAPER POSTAGE TAX

The Newspaper Rate, Now One Quarter of a Cent a Pound, Increased to One Cent

DEPARTMENT CLAIMS LOSS OF FIVE MILLIONS

The Registration Fee on Letters is Also Increased From Five to Ten Cents

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Ottawa, June 10.—A few minutes before eleven o'clock last night the House of Commons went into committee on a resolution which prvides for several amendments to the post office act. It provides for an increase in the registration fee on letters and other matter passing through the mails, from five to ten cents. The rate of postage on newspapers and periodicals printed and published in Canada, and issued at intervals of less than one month, is increased from one cent to two cents a pound or fraction thereof.

Newspapers and periodicals which are to be transmitted for a distance of more than forty miles, or the publication of which is of greater frequency than once a week, shall be subject to postage at the rate of one cent a pound or fraction thereof, for the year beginning January, 1921, and one and a half cents a pound or fraction thereof, for the following years. This postage is to be affixed by stamps or as the Postmaster General may direct.

Loss on Registered Letters.

Hon. Martin Burrell, Minister of Customs and Inland Revenue, explaining the resolution, said there had been a loss of a quarter of a million on registration of letters in the past year. The ten cent rate was the same as that of the United States and practically the same as that in England.

Mr. Burrell said that while post offices were carrying 54 per cent. of the total weight of mail matter in newspapers, the revenue from these was only one per cent. Taking 87,000,000 pounds of newspaper at one quarter of a cent per pound, the present rate, brought in $290,000 per year. The department was losing $5,000,000 a year by the present rate.

Opposition Criticism.

Hon. R. Lemieux charged that the Government, by this resolution, was promoting sectionalism, dividing the avenues between east and west, and hindering the free exchange of thought. If the Government wished to increase revenue, it should chop off the heads of top-heavy post office staffs.

Mr. Lemieux thought that the increase would tend to reduce circulation of Canadian publications and let in a flood of yellow literature from the United States.

W. A. Buchanan, of Lethbridge, pointed out that the publishers of daily newspapers in Canada were agreeable to an increase in postal rates. They thought, however, that an increase of one quarter of a cent at first, to be followed with other increases a tintervals of say six months until the maximum rate suggested was reached, would be just.

Hardship on Newspapers.

A sudden increase up to a cent a pound would work hardship on many newspapers, because their subscription lists were made out for some time in advance at a certain rate, and could not be raised until they expired. The increased cost of postage would have to be met by increased subscription and advertising rates.

Mr. Burrell pointed out that there would still be a large deficit in the handling of newspapers, even when the increases went through.

The clauses in regard to franking of letters and other mailable matter were aimed to remove abuses, Mr. Burrell explained.

The resolution was reported, and the bill based on it given first reading.

Sensational Story of Bribes Offered the Farmer Members

Government Whip in Ontario House Declares That Enormous Sums of Money Were Offered U. F. O. Members to Pass Legislation, But Not One Succumbed

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

London, Ont., June 10—The sum of money offered to representatives of the people to pass certain pieces of legislation during the last session of the Legislature was appalling, was the startling statement made by Andrew Hicks, U. F. O. whip, in an address to the East Middlesex U. F. O. picnic here yesterday afternoon.

"But, thank God," he added, "not one of your U. F. O. members succumbed to the effort at bribery."

Mr. Hicks, who with Hon. Peter Smith and Mayor Little addressed the gathering, predicted a Farmers' Government at Ottawa after the next election.

Civic Plebiscite on the Proposal Issue $100,000 Victoria Hospital Bonds

Decision Reached on Casting Vote of Ald. Wilkinson, Who Presided as Deputy Mayor—Going on With $40,000—Power Plant Anyway

The City Council decided last evening to have a plebiscite on the question of issuing $100,000 of bonds to provide for the extension of Victoria Public Hospital.

This vote came after there had been a resolution favoring the issue of $40,000 of bonds to provide for a power plant and laundry building at the Hospital, an amendment in favor of making an issue of $100,000 bonds and the amendment to the amendment which provided for a plebiscite on the question, which carried on the casting vote of Ald. T. S. Wilkinson, who presided as deputy mayor in the absence of Mayor John A. Reid, who is attending the annual meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association in Vancouver.

Plans Are Presented.

At the opening of the meeting the members of board of trustees of Victoria Public Hospital were in conference with the Council and submitted their plans.

P. J. Hughes, chairman of the Hospital Board, said the delegation were present to give whatever information might be wanted in addition to that already given.

Deputy Mayor Wilkinson asked that the general plans be placed before the Council for inspection and explanation and this was done.

Mr. Hughes stated that to provide for the hospital at the present time would mean a great saving for the future. The need for a hospital was very clearly seen. He said that any representation the Council wished on the Board would certainly be given.

Ex-Mayor Hanson stated that if the Council came to the assistance of the Board with a large capital expenditure the Board would naturally provide for a much larger civic representation than at present. He asked that the Council give $40,000 for a power plant and stated that if the Council did not give such a grant the aid of the public would be solicited and the money obtained. The Board, he stated, were going to build a power plant whatever happened. The original idea was that the money should be obtained by taxation and, when it was seen that the Council were slow in the matter, it was thought that the money could be obtained from some of the freer giving citizens.

In answer to a question by the Deputy Mayor, Mr. Hanson stated that the entire Hospital Committee of ten had been appointed to confer with the Municipal Council at their regular meeting and ask for $50,000 from that body.

The Aldermen's Opinions.

When the matter came up for discussion Ald. Neill expressed the opinion that all the aldermen should be heard on the question.

Deputy Mayor Wilkinson stated he could see from the plans where the hospital having a bond issue of $200,000 did not like to jump into the matter and he favored the idea of expending the $40,000 for a boiler house and laundry combined. About that amount of bonds, he thought, could be issued by the hospital in small denominations of the city would guarantee the interest upon them. Should the city sell the bonds the interest would be about $2,400.

Ald. Hall thought the scheme as outlined by Deputy Mayor Wilkinson was a very good one. He thought that the city could apply for legislation for the whole bond issue but at the present time only issue $40,000 worth.

Ald. Cain stated concerning the heating that he was in favor of unified plans. He was in favor of the $40,000 plan but if the Hospital Board would agree to issue the bonds they would, if issued in small denominations, be taken up by citizens willing to assist.

Ald. Jennings stated that he could not agree with the Deputy Mayor that the Hospital Board issue the bonds. The city, he stated, would have to guarantee the interest as well as the principal, as he had learned that the bonds if issued by the Hospital would hardly be taken up without the city guaranteeing the principal as well as the interest. He was in favor of the city issuing serial bonds for $40,000.

Ald. Camp said that the County of York should not be left out in the request for $40,000. The opinion had been expressed by one of the aldermen, he stated, that the application for legislation might be refused and if the Legislature would refuse this they must have a pretty dark looking eye on the City of Fredericton.

Ald. Jennings did not think the application would be turned down.

Labor Men Buying Cars.

Ald. Neill stated that the "laboring man's claims" as put forward by Ald. Camp were not founded upon facts. The so-called laboring man, he stated, was coming into the garages and buying $1,500 and $1,800 cars. He did not think labor would be cheaper at any time and stated that if the Hospital Board did not obtain the guarantee of the Council for the bonds, they would go to the public spirited citizens for contributions. He favored a bond issue, stating that to issue $100,000 in bonds for thirty years would be an increase of only 3 per cent. in the taxation of the citizens. He was ready to favor the issuing of bonds for $40,000. He said he did not understand the matter with reference to the County of York as Ald. Camp did; he thought that the county authorities were to be asked for equally as much as the city had been asked to do.

Ald. Camp favored equal valuation and equal taxation for all classes. If, as had been stated, men earning $30 a week could buy a house and two $2,000 cars in two years' time the poor house instead of the hospital ought to be renovated. He declared Ald. Neill's statement about the man buying the house and two cars in two years' time was an absurdity.

Ald. Hall said that the matter of free wards in the new building had been omitted by the council in their discussions.

Ald. Baxter stated that as far as he knew the labor men were not opposed to the bond issue. They agreed that the city and county should go fifty-fifty in the expense. He did not know why Ald. Neill was hitting the labor men so hard unless it was because he thought they had not supported him in the aldermanic elections, but, he stated, had it not been for the labor men Ald. Neill would not have been elected. He thought the county of York should pay as much as the city.

The Motion and Amendments.

Ald. Jennings moved that the city assure the Hospital Board that they would apply to the Legislature for the authority to issue bonds to the extent of $40,000 for the purpose of building a power house and laundry.

This was seconded by Ald. Young, who stated that it would be a great saving to the Hospital Board to unify the heating plant at the present time.

Ald. Camp said he did not want to appear obstinate or overbearing, but he thought if the matter were left to a plebiscite it would only be the cost of the plebiscite thrown away.

Ald. Neill said he wished to correct the impression Ald. Baxter had that he had taken a stand against the laboring man. "It is true," he stated, "that the labor men went out against me, but that is neither here nor there. I am in this council representing the laboring man's interests, not those of the business man nor the rich man." He thought the original scheme ought to be carried out. He moved as an amendment to Ald. Jennings' motion that the council apply to the Legislature for authority to issue bonds to the extent of $100,000 in aid of Victoria Hospital, stating that the council was not pledged to issue any part of this but could issue as much as necessary.

Ald. Hall thought that $40,000 could be issued and, if found necessary, the other $60,000 could be decided by plebiscite. He seconded Ald. Neill's amendment.

Ald. Cain moved as an amendment to the amendment that the matter of a bond issue be decided by a plebiscite. This was seconded by Ald. Baxter.

Ald. Camp stated of two evils he would choose the lesser and felt he would support the plebiscite if the motion and amendment were not withdrawn.

On the vote being taken on the amendment to the amendment Ald. Cain, Camp, Barker and Baxter voted in favor and Ald. Neill, Young, Hall and Jennings were against. Deputy Mayor Wilkinson cast the deciding vote for the plebiscite.

WESTERN TOUR OF LIBERAL LEADER

If Session of House Does Not End Shortly the Tour Will Be Postponed

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, June 10.—Unless the session ends sooner than at present anticipated, Hon. W. L. Mackenzie-King, leader of the Opposition, may postpone his western tour. His original intention, as announced some time ago, was to have left Ottawa immediately at the close of the session, but it was not anticipated at that time that it would be so prolonged. If the close comes within the next week or two he will likely carry out his original plans, but if it is to run on towards the first of July or even later, as now seems probable, he will arrange to leave here in September, so as to be in the west when the harvest work is pretty well over. It is not yet decided who shall accompany him, but Ernest Lapointe of Quebec is likely to be one of them, and probably Mr. McMaster, whose free trade views are expected to appeal to the west.

A small piece of land in the business section of Biddeford, Me., was sold recently for $727.37 a front foot, or a little more than $12 a square foot.

Even if Prohibition Act Is Defeated There Will be No Open Bar, Says Premier Government's Policy Is Announced by Premier in Statement

WHAT FOLLOWS AFTER THE VOTE

What It Is Proposed To Do In Event Of Either Decision.

In a statement issued last evening in which the announcement of the Prohibition plebiscite in New Brunswick for Saturday, July 10th, was made, Premier Foster declared that "the Government have adopted the policy that whatever may be the result with respect to either of the questions submitted there shall be no return to the old system of the open bar."

Included in the statement was an outline of the form which the ballot for the plebiscite will take and the questions to be submitted were definitely announced. The complete statement follows:

"The New Brunswick Prohibitory Act was passed by the Legislature during the session of 1916, without any mandate from the people. It was passed as a war measure, which was the justification for the passage of the act. The promise was made and it was distinctly understood when the bill was passed, that as soon as the war was over and the necessity of the act as a war measure was at an end, the question would be submitted to the people by way of a referendum for decision; and indeed a clause in the act provides that after the act shall have been in force and operation for a sufficient length of time to enable its efficiency to be tested, such a course was to be taken. With these facts before us, it is surprising that at a recent meeting held in Moncton, according to press reports, the course of the Government in submitting this question to the people should be questioned. As I see it, the first duty of the Government is to keep faith with the people in this regard, and whatever the will of the people is on this important matter, as expressed at the polls, will prevail.

Date of Referendum.

"The date fixed for the referendum is Saturday, July 10th. Since it was known that a referendum was to be held, at an early date, I have had numerous representations made to me and reasons have been advanced why this day or that day or date would not be convenient to some; but recognizing, as it has been recognized of recent years when Dominion and Provincial elections have been held, that the end of the week affords a better opportunity for all those whose duties take them from home during the week to record their votes, we have concluded to name Saturday the 10th of July.

"In submitting the questions to be voted upon, the desire of the Government has been to submit such questions in the simplest possible form, in order to avoid confusion and in order that there might be the clearest possible expression of opinion. The questions we have decided to submit are to be in the following form:

"'For Provincial Prohibition Act.'

"'Against Provincial Prohibition Act.'

"'For sale of light wines and beers under Government control.'

"'Against sale of light wines and beers.'

"In arriving at a decision as to the questions to be submitted, we had in view the particular groups into which our people are apparently divided. First, there are those who desire the continuance of the N. B. Prohibitory Law as it exists today, or with minor amendments. Second, those who favor the obtaining of light beer and wines as a beverage but who do not favor the sale of stronger liquors. Third, those who desire the opportunity of purchasing liquors of all kinds for personal and private use, but do not favor consumption in public, or the open bar. Fourth, those who are in favor of returning to conditions as they existed prior to the passing of the Prohibitory Law.

Results.

"Should the first question be answered in the affirmative, then the will of the first group of citizens I have mentioned must prevail and the N. B. Prohibitory Law will continue as at present. Should the second question, relative to the sale of light wines and beers, be answered in the affirmative, then it will be the duty of the Government to arrange for the distribution of these beverages under some system of Government control and supervision.

"Should the first question be answered in the negative and a vote recorded for the repeal of the act, it will devolve upon the Government to substitute some system to give expression to the will of the people in this regard, by making all necessary and proper regulations for the sale through Government agencies of liquors of all kinds for consumption in the homes of the people who desire its use in this way.

"From the statements I have made, and from the wording of the second question which refers to the selling of light wines and beers, you will see that the Government have adopted the policy that whatever may be the result with respect to either of the questions submitted, there shall be no return to the old system of the open bar. In the adoption of this policy without placing it upon the referendum ballot, I believe we can safely speak for the vast majority of the people, who do not wish to see the open bar again restored.

"I feel the questions which we have framed for submission will appeal to the public generally, and to all fair-minded men and women as being reasonable and well adapted to the purpose for which they are intended.

"Official ballots will be supplied by the Government to all returning officers. Voters after entering the polling places will receive their ballots and will give expression to their opinions by placing "X" opposite the way in which they desire to vote.

"Further instructions to returning officers, and information for public guidance will be issued before the date of polling."

The Form of Ballot

For Provincial Prohibition Act.

Against Provincial Prohibition Act.

Against Sale of Light Wines and Beers.

Voters will give expression to their opinions by placing "X" opposite the way in which they desire to vote.

Important Changes in New Tax Schedules Forecasted By the Minister of Finance

It Is Now Suggested That a Price Be Fixed Above Which Essentials Shall Become Luxuries—Changes in Boots and Shoes and Clothing

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, June 10.—When the luxury schedules in the budget were under consideration in the House last night the Minister of Finance let out to the world in a somewhat unusual and fragmentary manner very important changes in a number of items. It had apparently been the intention of the Minister to make an announcement that changes were contemplated, and following the usual procedure, give the particulars later, but in the course of interrogations from different members he appears to have "let the cat out of the bag" to a greater extent than he intended, and certainly in a very different manner from which such important tariff changes are usually announced.

The attitude of the Minister in announcing the changes was a very reasonable one, nevertheless, and his very apparent endeavor to get all the light possible and meet what might be considered reasonable objections from whatever quarter they came, was above praise. The criticisms made on the schedules as originally issued, particularly with regard to points in the scale where the line should be drawn between "necesaries" and "luxuries" have no doubt influenced the changes announced last night.

The Minister stated in the course of his speech: "I was asking for suggestions and I still think it is the proper thing to do in connection with new and novel legislation to ask for constructive suggestions."

Some of Amendments.

Ottawa, June 9.—Important amendments in the schedule of articlesj subject to taxation under luxury tax were forecasted in the House tonight by Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance. On essential articles of clothing, boots and shoes it was suggested by the Finance Minister that a price be fixed above which these articles shall enter the luxury tax, and that the tax be reduced from ten per cent. on the full cost to fifteen per cent. on the excess.

Boots and Shoes.

On boots and shoes, costing over $9 per pair, the tax would be figured on the cost at fifteen per cent. over $9 instead of 10 per cent. on the whole amount.

Orthopedic boots would still be exempt.

"Well, the present process is described by some as crippling them severely," replied Sir Henry Drayton.

Clothing.

Other articles of clothing on which the tax is changed from ten per cent. on the whole cost to fifteen per cent. on the excess are:

Trousers, sold separately, in excess of $12 per pair; men's and boy's coats, sheep skin coats (in excess of $25 each); cloth overcoats, men's and boys', women's and misses' in excess of $50 each; waist coats, men's sold separately from suits, in excess of $5 each; dresses, women's and misses (except silk) in excess of $30 each; separate skirts from dresses (except silk) in excess of $15; suits, women's and misses' (except silk), in excess of $60 each; coats for women and misses, sold separately from suits (except silk) in excess of $30 each. "We have included in that list practically everything which would fall within the general description of absolutely esential articles of clothing, in so far as suits, coats, boots and the like are concerned," said Sir Henry, "and we reduce the tax from ten per cent. on the full cost to fifeeen per cent. on the excess." There is another stipulation, that on articles of clothing the selling price of material and cost of manufacture, when sold separately are to be combined for determining the selling price. No change is proposed in the tax on articles which may be regarded as an extravagance entirely within the control of the purchaser.

Refunds.

Answering F. S. Cahill (Pontiac), who asked as to the effect tomorrow of sales of goods, the minister said no change had been made until the resolution passed the House. He would prefer to place a full list of the changes on the House records and give the members until Thursday night to consider the changes.

On hats the $5 limit is left and the tax remains at ten per cent. on the whole amount when there is any excess on hats, caps, men's socks, neckties, shirts, ladies' hats, ladies' stockings, corsets in excess of $5.

A tax was also proposed on walking sticks. Fur coats would be exempt to $200 in value instead of $100. Antique furniture and expensive china and crockery would be taxed. In regard to refunds where persons had paid taxes which were not now subject to levy, Sir Henry said, he hoped these would be made. As far as possible the Finance Department would see they were made.

Answering Fernand Rinfret (St. James), Sir Henry said the amended taxes would become effective when the resolution was tabled. It was hoped to make them retroactive. As soon as possible the Government hoped to send a plain statement out throughout the country advising everyone of the changes.

A motion was proposed, Sir Henry added, regarding taxes on sporting goods.

Articles required for the popular games would be exempted from tax up to a certain amount, as for instance baseballs and bats exempt up to $1.25; mitts and gloves exempt to $1.50; skates exempt to $2; footballs exempt to $3; lacrosse sticks to $1.50; hockey sticks to 75 cents.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

No matter who may ultimately win the Republican nomination at Chicago, it is anybody's race today. Not the most expert guesser will venture to say which of the prominent candidates will win or whether any one of them will. In the dark horse field, the prospect is equally obscure. Should the convention turn to it, one of the least advertised of its group may come out ahead of those who now seem to have an appreciable chance.

The condition seems to be an excellent one for a convention representing the people at a time when no one commanding personality such as that of the lamented Roosevelt focusses public confidence and enthusiasm. Mouthpieces of hostile sentiment pretend to find this sort of open contest a sign of lack of leadership; they are the very Jeremiahs who would shout "bossism" with voluble superiority of virtue if something like centralized power were manifested. It is impossible to please those whose interest and desire it is to see evil anyway and to speak it too.

Disregarding the elongated faces and lachrymose verbiage of the preordained variety, it will impress the dispassionately cool and disinterestedly intelligent citizen, the man who is thinking of the country and not of any party, that it would be a pretty difficult thing for the Chicago gathering to go very far wrong in fixing its choice. The field is a reasonably good one to pick from. The delegates are unhampered in their choice, so far as can be seen. All the cards are on the table. All the men are fully known. It is fair to anticipate that a selection will be made satisfactory to the party, to the voters at large, and ultimately to the whole country.

THE FEDERATION OF LABOR.

The annual convention of the American Federation of Labor has long been a notable event upon which have hung the hopes, the fears, the inspirations of unionized workmen, remarks the Montreal Gazette.

Organized labor is an enormous power for good or ill, a mighty instrumentality for industrial peace and progress when rightly employed, and a no less potent agency of destruction and desolation when wielded by men devoid of judgment, moderation and discernment. It can never be adequately known how beneficial to society on this Continent has been the influence of that remarkable leader of men, the perpetual president of the Federation of Labor, Mr. Samuel Gompers, who has been called an exceptionally moderate and good unionist, whose methods would always be peaceful, and whose conscientiousness has had attestation on more than one occasion.

In his foreword Mr. Gompers states that the great work of the American Federation of Labor "is to "press forward day by day, bringing "to the men and women of labor more "of life and living each day, more of "the fullness of life, more of freedom, more of happiness, more of "knowledge and comprehension, more "opportunity and a growing service "to the human race"; all most worthy aims. Unionism has done much in Great Britain, in America and elsewhere to mitigate the lot of the laborer. He is better fed, better housed, better clothed, better paid; schools from the primary to the technical have been placed within his reach; his political power is as great as that of the wealthiest capitalist, most learned scholar, or bluest-blooded aristocrat in the land; his hours of work have been shortened; his children are no longer compelled to toil at a tender age; liberty, opportunity, the means of advancement, the pursuit of happiness have all been given him These be the triumphs of unionism, and looking backward none can say that Federated Labor has failed of purpose.

Yet there are perplexities to the other and larger public in the ways of the Union. Strikes persist. The divine right to strike is insisted upon, but its corollary, the divine right to work, is not admitted. Compulsion is the weapon of organized labor, and while that weapon continues to be employed, the laborer is still a serf. If slavery consists in coercion to work, as the Union contends, surely it equally consists in coercion not to work; and this is the paradox puzzling the public, that not content with withdrawing its members from work, by means of a strike, labor leaders resort to the arbitrary measure of forbidding non-unionists, by force if necessary, to take up the tools and carry on the industry. There is something wrong in this attitude. Wherein does the tyranny of the Union in preventing the willing laborer to work differ from the despotism of an absolute monarchy exercising compulsion? Unhappily, there is no sign of a better understanding. Strikes have been more prevalent in the last year or two than ever before; yet they are barbaric, immoral, harmful, crude, an admission that the centuries still find mankind little advanced from the savage in the constitution of a well-ordered society.

The convention this week will deliberate upon many problems, will seek to further ameliorate the condition of workers, will point the way to social betterments; but no problem confronts it of such profound concern to Labor as that of securing fair pay for a fair day's work by other instrument than a strike, enforced by pickets and powder, and fraught with heavy loss, be the issue what it may.

STAND OR FALL ON TAX.

Toronto Telegram: "Excise duties are described in the free trade oracles as a tax on consumption.

"Excise duties have already worked "out as a tax on high prices.

"Sir Harry Drayton has only to "stand firm, and the Drayton budget "will do more to bring down high "prices in this country than all the "Boards of Commerce that were ever "created.

"The Drayton budget may be capable of improvement in detail. That "budget in principle will stimulate "the sale of the best possible article "for the lowest possible price.

"The Drayton budget is not wholly "isolated from the free trade taint. "The Drayton budget shines amidst "the spineless shuffles of Ottawa "policy like an example of courage "and attempted constructive statesmanship. The Union Government, "as at present constituted, cannot do "better than to decide to stand or "fall on the Drayton budget."

THE AUTO SPEEDER.

The number of automobile accidents noted in the news of late has been startling even to a public somewhat hardened to such things. As fine weather tempts everybody to stay outdoors, all those who own cars or who can borrow or hire them are taking to the road. On Saturday and Sunday afternoons many highways are almost hid from view by the motor procession.

There is a danger which the reckless automobilist apparently has not considered at all. That is a collision with public wrath. He may sometimes escape the specific punishment of his disregard for others' safety. But if such disregard goes too far it will result in the erection of legal stone walls which he cannot break through.

The public will demand a stern and unrelenting repression unless there are signs of a change. It is better for the automobilist to avoid such a reaction by his own more reasonable, more public spirited attitude. If he keeps on saying "After us the deluge" the deluge may overtake him. There are some forces even more swift and powerful than exploding gasolene.

MIRAMICHI WATER FRONT WORKERS MET

Newcastle, June 9.—A meeting of the Miramichi Water Front Workers Union was held on Monday night with Joseph P. Manderson, vice-president, in the chair.

In his opening speech he informed the members that at an executive meeting held in Nelson the river was divided into sections, each section to have its own president and secretary and other officers necessary, in order that meetings might be held more conveniently.

There are at present about 2,500 men in the union, and all the members feel that it has already accomplished much for them.

The following officers were elected for the Newcastle division of the union: President, Joseph P. Manderson; first vice-president, William A. MacLean; second vice-president, Ernest MacLean; finance and recording secretary, George M. Lake; marshal, Allan MacDonald.

Mr. Lake thanked the members for taking him into the confidence and gave them some advice. He told the members not to be suspicious of their employers, but to ask for a good wage and do good work, let the employer see that the union man is the best man. The speaker thought it time that the laboring man should have his say in running the affairs of the country, as it is he who ultimately pays the bills.

MANUFACTURERS ELECTED OFFICERS

J. F. McKinnon, of Toronto, the New President—Ask Permanent Tariff Board

Vancouver, B. C., June 9.—J. F. McKinnon, of Toronto, was today elected president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association at the anual convention here, succeeding T. P. Howard, of Montreal. Other officers elected includes: First vice-president, W. S. Fisher, St. John, N. B. Executive officials include Thomas Cantley, New Glasgow, N. S., and Nathaniel Curry, Montreal.

The first business considered at this morning's session was the amendment of the by-laws. The name of the Pacific Coast Division was amended in the by-laws to the British Columbia Division.

It was announced that owing to illness, J. F. Ellis, treasurer and a past president of the organization, was not a candidate for re-election, and it was unanimously decided to elect him a life member of the association.

The first resolution presented urged the Dominion Government to appoint a permanent tariff board, acting in an advisory capacity to the Government to make a special study of the Canadian customs tariff and the tariffs of other countries with those products Canadian producers are forced to compete. There was no discussion and the resolution was carried without opposition.

CARLETON COUNTY CIRCUIT COURT

Woodstock, June 9.—In the circuit court here today before Mr. Justice Crocket and a jury, the adjourned case of the C. P. R. versus Hatfield and Scott, was finished. It was an action for damages for the loss of five carloads of potatoes which were shipped about one year ago to New York. The jury found that the railway company was culpable in New York by storing the potatoes without first giving notice of its intention so to do and found a verdict in favor of the plaintiff to the value of the potatoes in the sum of $6,148.32. W. P. Jones, K. C., argued for the plaintiff and F. R. Taylor for the defendant.

John Chandler, who was chosen on the Bisley team left here today for England. He is a returned soldier, having served in France with the 26th Battalion, and is now only twenty-four years of age.

Dan Stephenson, who was arrested charged with assault on a young girl, was today committed for trial at the next county court.

Mrs. Jennie E. Johnson, who has spent the past ten weeks in Montreal, Boston and New York, has returned home. She was accompanied by Mrs. Mildred Armstrong of Manchester, N. H., who will be her guest for some time.

The Stock Market

New York (Wall Street, opening), June 10.—Advances and declines were quite evenly distributed at the dull and hesitant opening of today's stock market.

The Noon Report.

New York (Wall Street, noon, June 10.—Bears renewed their attacks upon railway shares during the morning, forcing Chicago and Northwestern down 1½ points to a new low level. St. Paul preferred lost almost two points, Great Northern and Northern Pacific a point each and other western and southwestern issues 1 to 1½. This was balanced by further pool buying of equipments, chemical and food shares. Gains of 1 to 3½ points were made by Crucible, Harvester, railway steel springs, American car, pressed steel car, Baldwin locomotive, American linseed, American cotton oil, National Aniline, Barret Company and Cuba cane sugar. Trading was a little more active than usual on the rally. Call money opened at 7 per cent. and Liberty bonds recovered from their early irregularity.

FROM THE PEOPLE

IRRESPONSIBLE DRIVERS

To the Editor of The Gleaner.

Sir,—I notice in a recent issue of your paper that a lady is making complaints regarding automobile speeding on Charlotte street to the great danger of citizens, especially young children. The same thing might also apply to Regent street and the police would do well to keep an eye in that direction also.

The writer witnessed a very narrow escape of a little child from being killed yesterday afternoon by a fool driver who brought a couple of parties up to the A. and B. Club in a public car. Instead of taking the roadway provided for those who wish to go by car to the Club House, the man drove along the walk approaching the front of the club. The little child who was playing on the grass had a narrow escape from being run over by this apparently irresponsible driver. Had the writer been near enough to the car to see the number distinctly he would have lodged a complaint against the driver.

A more general supervision of auto traffic on the part of the police force is greatly to be desired.

Yours,
CITIZEN.

SELFISHNESS OF SMOKERS

To the Editor of The Gleaner.

Sir,—A correspondent in the From the People Column has recently written in praise of the use of tobacco. It may be that tobacco sweetens the temper, but, I ask, why does it deaden the sensibilities for the rights of others? To some of us fresh air is as great a solace and enjoyment as tobacco is to the smoker. But does a smoker ever consider our rights in the matter? He calls us cranks who want to deprive him of his pleasure. Our pleasure in fresh air is of no account. His pleasure in smoking is of importance. Does the smoker own the air? He acts as if he thought so.

Moreover, smokers are brutally inconsiderate in adding to the badness of already bad air by smoking in crowded places, and they smoke bad tobacco, cheap tobacco, which is nauseating to those persons who must be near them. It is only because it is against the law that they do not smoke in the railway trains during the rush hours.

The smoker is a tyrant, never caring who is tortured by his smoking. The smoker is a fanatic upon the subject of tobacco. The smoker is a selfish pig. He thinks more about his pleasure in smoking than he does about the comfort or safety of his fellow men. He will smoke in a gunpowder factory unless closely watched. He will smoke on the front seat of the street car, regardless of the fact that his cast-off smoke prevents all behind him from enjoying the nice odor of the trees, of the grass, of the flowering shrubs. He will smoke in the sick room of a croupy baby.

The selfish smoker is the rule, not the exception.

Yours,
FRESH AIR.

TURN OF THE TIDE

To the Editor of The Gleaner.

Sir,—Has the tide turned? To put the question in other words: Have the Canadian people overcome their hysteria, their craze for loafing, striking and extravagant spending, and are they going to work and to save as they formerly did? Are they ready now to quit worshipping the strange gods, leisure and pleasure?

The question is not a currency question nor a banking or credit question. On the great flood tide of advancing wages, interest rates, prices, profits and rents the producers, manufacturers, merchants, bankers and wage earners were swept along to the high point of the present time. There will be an ebb tide and everybody and every organization will feel it, but in far different degrees, depending in most cases perhaps upon foresight. Trade and industry will use less money and less credit.

In the forward movement, prices, wages, interest rates, profits and rents seemed to take turns in boosting each other. In the recession they will seem to depress each other. Nobody can be sure that the downward movement has already started or if not that it will start at once, for nobody can be sure of the temper of the Canadian people. But the vast majority need have no doubt whatever of the wisdom of working and saving while the working and saving are good.

Yours,
A MERCHANT.

THE "DRIVING BOSS"

To the Editor of The Gleaner.

Sir,—At a recent lecture on the "Driving Boss," I read that the lecturer claimed that the driving boss makes the bigger success. I find fault with such methods in the control of an office force of girls. I claim it is possible to exact by opposite methods a proficiency near 100 per cent.

My experiences with stenographers, filing, recording and associated clerks in a busy modern office proves the gentle touch superior to the iron hand and the best interests of the boss are served thereby.

When occasion arises to admonish a clerk the soft word of caution is superior to the whip lash tactics of a Simon Legree. No girl will long bear up under the strain of nagging, unless she is absolutely stupid. Intelligent effort is stifled in the capable girl by unintelligent supervision of her duties and the result is that she resents such treatment and gets the impression that her boss does not trust her. She gets disgusted with the job and wants to leave whether she has good prospects or not. She feels she must escape from the boss who hounds her.

When the bosses realize that human beings are finite with natural limitations then a larger appreciation of their clerks will develop to the mutual advantage of both.

Yours,
DAILY READER.

W. S. Loggie Upholds the Principle of Taxation

Member for Northumberland Says That No Saner or More Courageous Policy Than That Submitted by the Finance Minister Could be Placed Before the People of Canada Under Circumstances That Exist In Country Today.

W. S. LOGGIE, M. P.

The following speech on the Budget by W. S. Loggie, M. P., for Northumberland, N. B., was taken from Hansard:

Mr. Speaker, before I enter upon a discussion of the matter, before the House, might I be permitted to extend a word of welcome to the Prime Minister (Sir Robert Borden) who has returned to this House, I hope, so thoroughly restored to health that he may be able to continue in the good work in which he is engaged? May I also express a word of congratulation to the Speaker of the House and to the Deputy Speaker of the House, that they are the first two gentlemen to occupy the Chair in this wonderful chamber of this magnificent building.

Mr. Speaker, as I wander through these spacious halls—marble halls, may I say?—I am reminded of the contlagration that took place so short a time ago and of the wonderful deliverance some members had on that occasion. It is fitting that I should congratulate the people of Canada for giving the lawmakers of this country, not only the present lawmakers but the lawmakers for generations to come, such a beautiful chamber to occupy.

May I have this opportunity of congratulating the Minister of Finance, (Sir Henry Drayton), on the Budget that he has presented to the House? It is the first Budget that he has delivered as a member of the House of Commons, and it certainly is one of the best that I have ever heard.

REDUCING CUSTOMS TAX BY ABOUT $20,000,000

Let me refer for just a moment or two to a statement he made. He told us that for the past year he has a surplus of $33,000,000, and in that regard he has done very well. But he told us also that he will require altogether about $541,000,000 for the coming year. That, of course, takes up some treasury bills to the extent of $74,000,000, which, I think, mature during the present year. We find from his statement that he expects to receive from the customs $167,000,000 for the current year. But last year, that is the fiscal year ended March 31, 1920, he received from the customs no less a sum than $187,520,613. Those figures clearly show that, over and above any amount that is added to the customs tax, he is reducing the customs tax during the coming year by an amount of upwards of $20,000,000. And yet the leader of the Opposition (Mr. Mackenzie King), told us this afternoon that the Government had not taken any duties off the necessaries of life. He also said that the Government have taken no steps to make it possible to relieve the cost of living, and further, that the Government were protecting the profiteers instead of the consuming public. If I were to use unparliamentary language it could, perhaps, say something that I ought not to say, but I will say in the meantime that those statements are inaccurate. If we have taken off $20,000,000 more than we are putting on through the customs, then surely we have reduced the duties. I may be asked, what we are reducing them on. We are certainly reducing them on the necessaries of life. Let me point to one item of the necessaries of life. For a number of years we have had a war tax of 7½ per cent. on raw cotton, and I am sure that every hon. gentleman present will admit that cotton textiles are a necessary of life. Do hon. members know how much duty the consuming public paid into the treasury during the past fiscal year on raw cotton? Nearly $3,000,000. Yet, as was pointed out by the President of the Council (Mr. Rowell), during the fifteen years of the Liberal regime a reduction of only about $2,400,000 was made in the way of tariff taxes. A reduction of some $125,866 has been made in the duty on nails, which are a necessary of life. If you go right through the schedule, you will find that we have reduced the duties on the necessaries of life and, to that extent, have reduced the cost of living. If that be true, is it statesmanlike for the leader of the Opposition to say that this Government have not taken any duties off the necessaries of life?

ALL CANADA WILL SHARE IN BENEFITS

Then he goes on to say that we have protected the profiteers and ignored the consuming public, but he gives no proof in substantiation of that statement. It is a mere allegation, and so far as I can see it is not in accordance with the facts. The hon. member further says that we tax the middle and poorer classes. Well, of course, it is a matter of dispute as to who are the middle and poorer classes who will pay this tax, but I venture to say that all the people in Canada will share in the benefit that will be derived from the net reduction of $20,000,000. Then the leader of the Opposition says that we are safeguarding the rich and their friends. I do not know what ground he had for that statement, but I can see not the slightest shadow of acual fact in it.

Now, Mr. Speaker, let me point out what a constructive tariff policy is. The Minister of Finance tells the people of Canada that he intends to have a thorough revision of the tariff; and, more than that, he tells them on what basis that revision and investigation will be made. It is to that point that I wish to direct attention particularly, because if the Minister of Finance carries out his proposal on the basis which he has stated, then I say that the effect will not be such as has been suggested by the leader of the Opposition. I say that the policy of the Minister will tend to reduce the duty on the necessaries of life and will be a step in the direction of relieving the cost of living. I say, Mr. Speaker, that it will not protect the profiteers instead of the consumers, nor will it unduly tax the middle and poorer classes any more than those who are better able to bear taxation. Indeed, Sir, there is every indication that those best able to bear taxation will be asked to shoulder the brunt of it. Now, the first plank in the minister's platform—and this will surely bear out my statements—is an undertaking to prevent the abuse of the tariff for the exploitation of the consumer. I would ask the hon. member for Shelburne and Queen's, (Mr. Fielding) whether he does not approve of that plank. That hon. gentleman would protect infant industries, but I am sure he will agree that it is an eminently wise provision of this plank that the consuming public are not to be exploited. The first plank of the minister's platform therefore announces the fact that the consumer will be taken care of. The second plank is to stabilize legitimate industries and encourage the establishment of new industries essential to the proper economic development of the nation. Perhaps some hon. gentleman will contend that these cannot go together. My view is different; I think they can and ought to go together. As to details of the way in which the mater is to be carried out I shall have a word or two to say later on.

DEVELOP TO FULLEST OUR NATURAL RESOURCES

The next plank is to develop to the fullest extent our natural resources. I am sure there is not much opposition to that on either side of the House. On the question of developing our natural resources I think we are all at one. The hon. member for Marquette (Mr. Crerar), in order to do that, wants to have the duty taken off agricultural implements. He asks us to take the duty off the instruments of production, but he says not a word about taking the duty off farm products. I cannot see the consistency of this.

Mr. Michael Clark: May I tell my hon. friend that the first plank in the platform of the Dominion Council of Agriculture is absolute freedom of all food?

Mr. Loggie: I am very glad to take this opportunity to state that I cannot entertain any such proposal for one moment, and I will give my reasons. There are very many manufactured food products in this country, and if you let goods of that kind in free you will destroy those industries. I challenged the hon. member for Brome (Mr. McMaster) last year to go to Montreal and tell the Clark Company there that he would let Kansas City and Chicago send in canned goods here free. I contend, Sir, that you cannot let these goods in free without destroying the industries.

An hon. Member: What about fish?

Mr. Loggie: Fish can come free. There is no reason in the world why there should be a duty on fish, so far as I can see. There is no duty on fish going into the United States, and that is the greatest boon that has come to the fishing industry in the last decade.

There is another plank that I want to give my concurrence to; it is to assist in providing adequate revenue. I am glad that the minister has put that forward. It would be silly to say that we can have a tariff for revenue these days. There was a day when a tariff for revenue might possibly have met the case. In 1897 our total customs receipts were under $20,000,000; today we have reduced the customs revenue by that sum. Hon. gentlemen opposite talk about tariff for revenue, but when you consider that we have to raise no less than approximately $500,000,000 for some years to come and that $140,000,000 of that is for interest, you will surely not say that we can raise it from the customs. If you destroyed all your industries and let all the goods we consume come in under a reasonable duty, I suppose you could get a very large sum, but I do not think you could get anything like $500,000,000. The minister was wise when he laid emphasis on the fact that the customs taxes were to assist in providing adequate revenue.

INCREASE TRADE WITH THE MOTHER COUNTRY

Then, the next step he takes is to especially promote and increase trade with the Mother Country, sister dominions, colonies and Crown dependencies. I have not heard any opposition to that; therefore I presume this is a plank that hon. gentlemen would not object to vote for.

The next is to secure the interests of the Canadian people in the existing world struggle for commercial and industrial supremacy. In this young nation, with the natural resources that we have, it does seem to me that if we are to grow, if we are to become a great nation, we surely ought to manufacture the most of the goods that we consume. We should do more than that. We should endeavor to export goods as well. Let me here illustrate as to the cost of goods. Today hon. gentlemen claim that the consumers pay the manufacturers the duty in their price; that is to say, that the manufacturers charge a rate for the goods that includes the cost of a like commodity plus the duty. If that were so years ago, I can tell hon. gentlemen that is not so today.

Prints and cottons are practically as cheap today in Canada as they are in the United States or the United Kingdom. There is a good reason for it. If the United States attempted to send their cottons over here, the buyer would lose about 11 per cent. because of depreciated currency. The United Kingdom cannot get the raw cotton of the United States to advantage because it takes £1 to buy $3.80 worth of cotton, where a few years ago £1 would buy $4.80 worth of cotton. The manufacturer in England is at a disadvantage and in so far as I know there is not a dollar's worth of English or American prints in the large warehouses of the great cities of Canada. If the proposal of the amendment were carried out and there was an immediate reduction in the rate of duty on cotton textiles, these goods, in my judgment, would not be any cheaper to the consuming public at the present time. The proposal of the Minister of Finance will be fair to consumers, will protect the great industries and will foster and conserve those that are young and infantile. They will enable our manufacturers to get their raw material free and they will make all citizens pay some share of taxes. I think that is a very desirable point in the platform—that all citizens pay some share of the expenditures of the country. They pay into the revenues to some extent and it is only fair that they should pay some portion; but the greatest burdens are on those best able to bear them.

REDUCE TARIFF TO THE EXTENT OF $30,000,000

I have already explained how the proposals reduce the tariff to the extent of $30,000,000, based on the imports and values of last year. While they reduce it $30,000,000 they add $10,000,000 by way of excise taxes. Inasmuch as this money did go into the treasury last year, it is a real reduction. I give the Minister of Finance credit for the courage he displayed in reducing customs taxes of this kind. Remember that the total customs taxes in 1897 were under $20,000,000. I am quite sure that the consumers not only paid the duty on raw cotton when they bought their textiles but they also paid the difference in currency which hon. gentlemen will recall was as high as 17 per cent.

They paid 7½ per cent. and also the amount of the depreciated currency. Placing raw cotton at forty cents per pound, taking 7½ per cent. of that sum, then the adverse exchange and then the profit, by the time the article gets to the retailer you have a reduction in the cost, because the duty is shaken off the raw material, equal to about 5 per cent. on the finished product.

True, the most of it went into the Treasury; and many of us will say, "Well, if it goes into the Treasury I do not mind." The objection raised by some hon. gentlemen is that the Treasury does not get the benefit, but that millionaires profit. I am not so sure that is the case at the present time. The conditions at present are abnormal. Labor in the United Kingdom is as high as it is in Canada, and the same condition prevails in the United States. If we could get our raw material in free of duty I do not see why we cannot produce the goods very nearly as cheaply, at any rate, as they can on the other side of the line. We are doing it at the present time. What may transpire later if business becomes normal I cannot say; but at present conditions are abnormal, and the prices of textiles in the United States and in the United Kingdom are practically as high as they are here.

Let me illustrate that in another way. I was in Winnipeg a few days ago and I went into a knitting factory there, and I was surprised to see them packing up knitted goods to go to New Zealand, goods that were sold at the same price as they were sold to Canadian consumers, or to the Canadian trade. Now, if it be true that that knitting company sold these goods to go to New Zealand, did they not sell them at the world's market value? At any rate they sold them on the basis of the price they could get them for in England; and surely that demonstrates the fact for which I have been contending. Whether they sold them cheaper I do not know—all I know is that the buyers, as business men, were purchasing them to the best advantage, and the goods were going from Winnipeg to New Zealand.

PLACE BUSINESS ON FIRM FOUNDATION

Now this proposal of the Minister of Finance—and it is to my mind the most important fact—stabilizes the general tariff and places businesses on a firm foundation. In that policy you have the interest of the consumer and the industrial life of the country looked after. If you can frame a tariff based on these two principles, then I think you can have a stable tariff. You will not get the revenue that is necessary from a stable tariff, but the minister has very wisely proposed a new plan for that purpose; let me tell you, I tthink it is a very important plan. Before I make any observations as to that let me read what I said last year in that regard, and the extract shall only be a very brief one. My words on the occasion referred to were as follows:

If we frame a tariff and reduce the cost of livnig and we are short $50,000,000, how are we to get the money? If you refer to the imports in 1918 you will find that we imported into Canada about $860,000,000 worth of goods, and if we framed an adequate tariff on the basis I have indicated—and by adequate I mean in the interests of manufacturers and consumers alike—

Mr. Speaker, you will admit, I am sure, that I have not changed my mind this year in regard to the matter; I am arguing tonight exactly the principle I argued last year—

I would add a surtax of, say, 2 per cent. on the $800,000,000, and would get $16,000,000 thereby. But I would still be short $34,000,000, and to raise that balance I would do this: I find by the Canada Year Book of 1918 that we manufactured $1,381,547,225 worth of products. I would put an excise duty of 2 per cent. on $1,700,000,000 of Canadian manufactures and obtain $34,000,000, and that together with the $16,000,000 would give me my $50,000,000.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I have very much pleasure in congratulating the Government upon having adopted a policy that will enable them to get the money they need without interfering unduly with the industrial life of the country. That is to say, they get a portion of the money from the manufacturers and the importer of like commodities must pay that additional tax. It is a fair and businesslike proposition. If our values fall and if our imports decline, our tariff may remain stable and you can change the surtax and the excise tax to meet the circumstances in which you find yourself. If you have too much money you can decrease these taxes, and if you have not enough you can increase them without interfering with, and upsetting, the business of the country. I think the minister was wise in not putting any tax on food products. You will remember, Mr. Speaker, that in the new taxes that we are imposing—the excise tax and the surtax—food products are not included, and yet the leader of the Opposition contends that the Government is taking no steps to make it possible to reduce the cost of living. Why, we are raising $90,000,000 of extra revenue, and we are not getting a dollar of it out of the food products. I must say, therefore, that the leader of the Opposition was not at all accurate in his statement. The hon. member did not say upon what his statement was based, he merely made the allegation, and allegations without proof are, of course not very reliable and I do not attach very much weight.

A TAX ON EXPORTS WOULD BE UNFAIR

Some hon. gentlemen thought taxation should be applied to exports. Would it be fair to the manufacturer of this country to pay an export tax when he had to compete with the manufacturer in another country? I think the minister was cautious and wise, and acted the part of a statesman, in not making exports subject to taxation. I did not suggest these additional taxes last year, which I think are an improvement—at any rate for the present. The Minister of Finance is imposing a straight tax of one per cent. on imports, and proposes to collect an additional one per cent. from wholesalers. Personally I would have preferred that a rate of two per cent. be levied upon imports, and leave the wholesaler alone; but the minister has thought it wise to do as stated, and after all there will not be very much difference. Then again, the minister is collecting one per cent. from domestic makers, plus one per cent. again from the wholesalers. Personally I would have preferred collecting two per cent. from the manufacturers. However, I understand there were difficulites in the way, and I can conceive that such is the case. Let me illustrate what I mean; it will only take me a moment. This is my objection to placing the 2 per cent. on the manufacturer: Supposing I manufacture automobiles. Of course, I do not make all the component parts that enter into the complete machine and I have to purchase from my friend here rubber tires, and from another manufacturer wheels; those wheels and tires are subject to the excise tax, and when I build them into my automobile the Government will collect another 2 per cent. on the finished product. However, I think this anomaly might be rectified in the revision of the tariff, and I am sure the Minister of Finance will consider the matter. I would suggest as a means of overcoming my objection that the manufacturer of the wheels should get his receipt from the Inland Revenue people, and the manufacturer of the tires should do the same, and when the automobile was completed the tax so paid on the parts could be deducted from the excise on the assembled machine. Possibly other commodities would be affected in the same manner. But these are only suggestions, and it gives me a good deal of pleasure to support the proposals made by the Minister of Finance in such a businesslike manner. And I venture the opinion, Mr. Speaker, that when the people understand the financial condition of the country, they will welcome a stable customs tariff on business principles, and will be per-

Belief That Overflow Votes Will Give the Coalition Government a Majority

Berlin, June 10.—Unofficial returns from 31 districts for 380 mandates are about equally divided between the present coalition government and the right and left opposition. It is generally believed that the allotment of the overflow votes to the empire list will give the coalition enough mandates to secure it a small majority.

On the basis of figures supplied by the semi-official Hoffman Agency of Munich for the whole of Bavaria, the Bavarian people's party has secured 12 Reichstag seats. The social democrats won five, the independent socialists four, the peasants' party two, the democrats two and the so-called Mittel party two.

The communists polled only about 46,000 votes and hence have secured no seats.

Federation of Labor Would Eliminate the Color Line and Give Negro Full Membership

Resolution Passes Convention at Montreal After Heated Debate Today—Members Opposed to Permanent Non-Partizan Political Educational Department

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Montreal, June 10.The American Federation of Labor went on record in its annual convention here today as opposed to the establishment of a permanent nonpartisan political educational department to make a nation-wide campaign in support of the Federaton's non-partisan policy.

The report of the committee on organization on this proposal recommending that it be rejected as "unnecessary at this time," and would mean "unnecessary expense," was received with applause and was unanimously adopted.

The resolution proposed by the Central Labor Union of Popular Bluff, Mo., would not only have created a non-partisan propaganda bureau but would have established a great campaign fund. The proposal of the policemen's union of Oklahoma City that an International Policemen's Union be chartered was given favorable consideration and the convention authorized the executive council to take this matter up as soon as the membership of policemen's unions total six thousand.

Food Distribution Department.

The first contest on the convention floor came when the organization committee "non-concurred" on the resolution of the Chicago Federation of Labor asking that the executive council appoint a special committee to investigate the feasibility of combining all workers in the food and catering industry of America into a food producing and distributing department.

Delegates from Chicago led by Max Hayes spoke in support of the resolution declaring that the "gigantic hotel interests" of the country had combined against union workers and must be met by a similar organization. They said that this was the only "effective way to procure justice for the millions of toilers employed in this important work."

Combination Unnecessary

The members of the organization committee declared the combination of these workers was unnecessary, and too many special departments in the Federation would "do more harm than good," and mean "unnecessary expense."

The convention referred the matter to the executive council to call a conference of the various unions interested and if all desire to be united under a food producing and distributing department, draw up plans for such a department.

Should such a department be established, it would unite the following organizations:

Cooks, waiters and waitresses, general hotel employees, bakers, ice cream makers, flour mill workers, egg inspectors, butchers, milk, bread, grocery, butcher and ice wagon drivers, and other similar chartered organizations of the Federation.

Irish Trade Union Request.

A cablegram from the executive committee of the Irish Trade Union Congress was read to the convention urging the Federation to demand the release from prison of comrade James Larkin, Irish labor leader, and to use "every effort to secure for Ireland the principles for America claimed to enter the war."

Larkin is now serving a sentence for criminal anarchy.

After a bitter debate marked by fiery oratory, the American Federation of Labor adopted a resolution requesting the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks to eliminate the "color line" from its constitution and give the negro full membership.

TO SEND SEED TO FIRE SUFFERERS

Provincial Government Voted $500 to Aid St. Quentin Sufferers Today

The Provincial Government this morning voted $500 to provide for the purchase of seed to assist the settlers at St. Quentin, Restigouche county, who suffered in the recent forest fires.

The fires which swept over the district on the International Railway late in May ruined the crops which the settlers had planted and they are all set back considerably with their farming operations as a result of the conflagration. Upon the recommendation of the Minister of Agriculture, who had received a report from A. T. LeBlanc, M.L.A. for Restigouche, the appropriation was passed so that seed would be available to grow oats, which, while late, would provide fodder for cattle, and also for a late hay crop.

This brings the total aid to the fire sufferers at St. Quentin from the Provincial Government up to $2,500. The seeds have been purchased through J. Clark Son, Ltd., of this city, and will be distributed through the St. Quentin relief committee.

Weekly Report on Provincial Crops

The weekly report on agricultural conditions in New Brunswick, as reported by district representatives of the Provincial Department of Agriculture, was given out today as follows:

"J. H. King, B. S. A., agricultural representative for the counties of Westmorland, Albert and Kent, reporting on agricultural conditions in his district for the week ending June 5th, reports ideal seeding conditions and splendid progress; and comparative acreage in crop to date nearly 90 per cent. Grain is appearing nicely above ground, but rain is badly needed to give it a good start. Little growth is taking place because of drought.

"In Restigouche, Northumberland and Gloucester counties the report is that wheat is doing fine; late grain is growing slowly on account of dry weather; clover is doing exceptionally well; pastures are not improving and milk production is increasing gradually.

"J. H. Hoyt, agricultural representative for Carleton, Victoria and Madawaska, reports: 'Seeding and planting well advanced. Grain crops nicely started, but have been at a standstill owing to dry weather, until the arrival of recent showers. Newly seeded clover seems to have wintered well and promises to be a good crop.

"Many potato growers planned for a considerable increase of acreage, but not a few have been held up, more or less, owing to difficulty in securing fertilizer.

"Pastures will be greatly improved by rain.

"Live stock does not occupy a very prominent place in the farm work in any of the districts where potato growing is carried on extensively. In many districts somewhat remote from the railways there seems to be a desire to improve the live stock conditions.

"Experienced farm help is scarce, with wages ranging from $45 to $75 per month, depending on the ability of the man."

Since the above reports were written heavy rainstorms have very materially helped the outlook for big crops. Cattle are going to pasture in good condition.

England Sends Her Players Here.

With her army almost wholly demobilized, her navy practically down to pre-war strength, Mother England is now pleased to set at liberty her actor-fighters and to let down the bars of transportation and other strictures existent during the great strife when every ounce of strength was kept overseas. So, with the coming of the all-English comedy aggregation to the Opera House next Wednesday and Thursday, Messrs. Compton & Lewis are presenting for Fredericton's approval a cast of players who represent such splendid organizations as Sir Herbert Tree's, Sir George Alexander's, Gerald Du Maurier's and Robert Mantell's. The ten leading performers in "Grumpy"—which is the delightful comedy booked—are banded together to put on Cyril Maude's famous version of the story from this far east side of Canada right across to Victoria. The critics of Montreal and Toronto, also in Winnipeg and Vancouver—people who know what this company is capable of—are heralding their coming with much eclat. Seat sale Saturday.

Provision had been made that the company's rights would be relinquished unless $100,000 was expended in bona fide development work before January 10th, 1921, one year after the official conclusion of the war, but at the last session of the Legislature expropriation powers were given the Government in the event of a report by commissioners indicating the company were not proceeding with the bona fide development of what is the most potential natural water power in the Maritime Provinces.

Root Resolution on League Of Nations Plank Accepted By Republican Convention

The Resolution Provides for a New Agreement With the Other Nations, Which Shall Include a Tribunal for Settlement of International Disputes

Chicago, June 10.—A League of Nations plank drafted by Elihu Root was accepted as a basis of compromise today by irreconcilables on the resolutions sub-committee of the Republican National Convention.

When the resolution sub-committee went into session again this morning with the League of Nations plank still threatening a party split, a tentative foreign relations plank was under consideration, declaring opposition to the treaty without reservations but favoring ratification with American rights safeguarded.

The plank was framed after all night conferences in which former Senator Murray Crane, of Massachusetts, leading the mild reservation group, participated. It contained in substance the declaration submitted by Senator Crane yesterday and had not been accepted by the irreconcilables.

Omitting all endorsement of the pending League covenant, the Root resolution provides for a new agreement with other nations which shall include a tribunal for the settlement of international disputes.

It was prepared by Senator Root before his departure for Europe, but has been modified considerably by the sub-committee.

They end corns

now in this scientific way

People who know—millions of them—now end all corns in this way.

They apply Blue-jay, either in liquid or in plaster form. It means but a touch and takes but a jiffy.

The corn pain stops. Then the Blue-jay gently undermines the corn so it loosens and comes out.

The modern way

It is made by a laboratory of world-wide repute.

Old-time treatments were harsh and inefficient. Blue-jay is gentle, quick and sure.

Now all corns are needless. All these pains can be avoided. To let corns remain while you pare and pad them is folly.

You can stop a corn ache the moment it appears. You can end a corn completely before it can develop.

Blue-jay has proved these facts to millions. It will prove them to you—and tonight—if you let it.

Quit the old methods of dealing with corns and see what this new way means. Your druggist sells Blue-jay.

Bathurst Racing Stable's New Pacer is Hal Gentry

Identity Of Unmarked Importation from Carolina is Revealed

ROYALLY BRED TO PACE FAST

Bathurst Stable Will Race on Maritime and Maine Circuit.

Hal Gentry is the name of the unmarked pacer which was imported some months ago from Carolina for the Bathurst Racing Stable and now in training at the Chatham track in charge of Driver James Boutilier.

This information is published in The Gleaner today upon the authority of W. G. Fenwick, of Bathurst, chief owner of the Bathurst Racing Stable, one of the best known horsemen in New Brunswick and owner of John A. Hal, 2.03½, champion pacer of the Maritime Provinces for 1919.

Last year the Bathurst stable uncovered in Touz, 2.13½, the most sensational pacer in the slow classes and stakes and successor to the chestnut daughter of Direct Hal in the shrewd North Shore horseman's string is Hal Gentry. He is five years old, unmarked and sired by Argot Hal, 2.04¾, by Brown Hal, 2.12¼, while his dam is Cassie Gentry, 2.15¼, a daughter of the famous John R. Gentry, 2.00½.

SPECULATION AS TO NEW ONE'S IDENTITY

Ever since the arrival of the royally-bred pacer there has been continued speculation among horsemen as to his identity, and the announcement which I have been authorized to make today will cause a lot of racing followers in the East to sit up and take notice. According to Mr. Fenwick's letter, Hal Gentry never wore hopples until he came to New Brunswick, but he is said to be taking to the straps kindly, although Mr. Fenwick avers that 2.32 is the fastest mile he has been asked to step. In fact 2.20 is the fastest mile Mr. Fenwick says any of his stable have been asked to work, and John A. Hal is the one with that 2.20 mile to his credit. Bill Be Sure, 2.21¼, has not been asked to show faster than a fraction of a second below 2.30.

An announcement made some time ago by the previous management that the Bathurst Racing Stable would be in Fredericton for the "curtain riser" on June 30th and July 1st is said by Mr. Fenwick to have been without authorization. His stable will be here for the two Maritime and Maine Circuit meetings, he says, and he will make nominations for the local management's early closing stakes for the September meeting, as he does not contemplate making the talked of invasion of the New England States this fall.—J. Trotters Get 5 Seconds at St. Stephen Circuit Races

ST. STEPHEN, June 10—F. D. Graham, secretary of the St. Stephen track, announces the following classes for July 21st and 22nd: Free for all, 2.13 mixed, 2.1'5 mixed, 2.18 mixed, 2.21 mixed and 2.28 mixed. Trotters will be allowed five seconds in entering mixed events. Entries close July 5th. Records made on that day not a bar. Purses will be $500 for free for all and $400 for each of the other classes.—R. E.H.

Moncton's Programme Gives $2,300 For 3 Days Racing

$400 for Two Free For Alls and $300 for the Other Classes —Old 5 Per Cent. Entry But 4 Seconds Allowed the Trotters—Will Hurt Circuit Opening

The programme for the opening race meeting at Moncton has been made public and allows for three days racing, although not quite so pretentious as intimations some time ago indicated.

The dates are July 1st, 2nd and 3rd and the purses are largely $300 with $400 for each of the free for alls. The races are to be on the three heats plan and trotters will be allowed four seconds in entering mixed classes. The entrance fee is at the old figures of 5 per cent. with 5 per cent. additional from winners.

Horses entering the Moncton races will not be able to be at the first meeting of the Maritime and Maine Circuit at Houlton, Me., and it will thus interfere considerably with the success of the opening of the circuit, as many stables located in Eastern New Brunswick and Nova Scotia will doubtless race at Moncton, the management there having been active for some time past with inducements for some of the stables to start their campaign there. Hard racing and fast time is looked for at the Moncton opening, although it is said the track has been kept pretty well harrowed up for the benefit of Brage, 2.15¼, the star trotter in Frank Boutilier's stable which doesn't take kindly to solid footing.

Entries are to close on June 18th, the complete list of races being as follows:

First Day, July 1.—2.30 trot and pace, purse $300; 2.19 trot, purse $300; free for all trot, purse $400.

Second Day, July 2.—2.25 trot, purse $300; 2.16 trot and pace, purse $300.

Third Day, July 3.—2.40 trot, purse $300; free for all trot and pace, purse $400; 2.22 trot and pace, purse $300.

MARYSVILLE WON FROM OLD TIMERS

Fred McLean Batted Freely and Given Poor Support Last Evening

The Marysville team retained the leadership in the York County Baseball League when they emerged unbeaten from their game with the Old Timers at the Trotting Park last night. The game was a one-sided, loosely played contest, the final score being 9 to 3. The Marysville team gave Earl McPherson, their pitcher, fairly steady support, while Fred McLean, who was on the mound for the Old Timers, was hit freely at times and errors of omission were mixed with errors of commission in a disastrous manner.

Absence of foul flags caused disputes on a couple of long hits which were allowed to go as fair balls in spite of the protests of the Old Timers. One of these long drives by Anderson, the Marysville second baseman, went as a home run with two on bases. However, the Marysville team played much the steadier game and deserved to win.

IMPERIAL Polarine reduces automobile operating costs in many ways. By providing a piston-to-cylinder seal which assures maximum power. It helps to save friction waste in every moving part, keeps the engine running smoothly and out of the repair shop and minimizes depreciation.

Imperial Polarine prevents friction by coating every wearing surface with a heat and wear-resisting oil film. It seals all the power in the piston chamber. Imperial Polarine gives correct lubrication to every part of your car.

One of the three grades described below is specially suited to your motor. Look for the Imperial Polarine Chart of Recommendations when you buy oil and learn which grade to use.

Imperial Polarine is sold in sealed gallon and four-gallon cans, 12½-gallon steel kegs, steel half-barrels and barrels, by dealers everywhere. There is an appreciable saving in buying half-barrels and barrels.

W. S. Loggie Upholds Principle of Taxation

fectly willing to bear the burden of these special post-war taxes. Again I say I most heartily approve of the tariff proposals; in my opinion none better could be devised.

NO RELIEF FOUND IN THE AMENDMENT

Now a word or two on the amendment. I submit that to carry out the proposals it contained would be to precipitate the country into chaos. For the present we do not know what commodities we are to reduce the taxation on. If we reduce the duties on grey cotton, white cotton or any other cotton, I do not think the people of this country will be able to buy those commodities any cheaper than they can be purchased under present conditions. If the amendment suggested our taking ten cents off the tea duty, I would say that would be a step towards reducing the cost of living; but nothing of the kind is suggested. The amendment asks for relief to the consumers and producers, without giving to the people anything tangible whereby that result will be brought about.

Then the amendment proposes to make substanital reductions on the burdens of customs taxation. The Government is doing that. I have already explained that a net reduction of $20,000,000 has been made. In effect the amendment asks us to take a leap in the dark—to take so much off prints, so much off woollen goods, so much off knitted—goods, as I mentioned a few moments ago, that we are producting in Canada about as cheap as they are produced in England.

The amendment also proposes to reduce the cost of the instruments of production. Yes, it will reduce the cost of those instruments, I presume, that are used on the farms. But what about the instruments of production for making prints, cottons, knitted goods? The amendment ignores those instruments; they are to be left under the same duty as they bear at present.

I see my hon. friend from Gloucester (Mr. Turgeon) right opposite, who spoke the other night in this debate, but this amendment does not contain any of his ideas regarding free trade, so he must be running counter to what the amendment proposes; and the same with respect to my hon. friend from Brome (Mr. McMaster), and my hon. friend from Red Deer (Mr. Michael Clark). If the latter were here I would draw his attention to the fact that last year he told hon. gentlemen opposite:

> I would as soon look to this side of the House—
>
> that is to your right, Sir,
>
> —for a reduction in tariff as to your left, Mr Speaker.

REAL REDUCTION ON NECESSARIES OF LIFE

I am really sorry that my hon. friend, whom I esteem very much, should go back on that declaration, because under the Government's proposals he will get a real reduction on the necessaries of life—the very thing he is asking for we are giving to him. What he is voting for is a leap in the dark. I am disappointed—that is all I can say in regard to my hon. friend's attitude today.

Then again the amendment does not contain a word of how the loss of revenue is to be made up if the proposed reductions in duties are put into effect. In a word, the amendment lacks any practical basis on which the suggested reductions can be made—it lacks the earmarks of the declared policy of the Liberal party. The President of the Privy Council (Mr. Rowell) made that so clear tonight that I do not think I need enlarge upon it. This amendment, it seems to me, would tend to the destruction of Canadian industry, in that it asks for an immediate reduction under present abnormal conditions without any investigation to determine the practicability of such reduction, so it would be a leap into the unknown future.

Today the cost of living is not very different here from what it is in the United Kingdom or in the United States, and with textiles in Canada practically as cheap as in those two countries, any reduction in duty would not lower the cost of living. If that be so, then what duties are we to lower in order to reduce the cost of living?

I want to say just a word about the tariff plank in the platform of the Liberal party. The preamble is apparently the same as that set out in the platform of the United Farmers. But to me the funny part of it is that a great party should itemize certain articles and ask that they be put on the free list when they are already on the free list. Mr. Speaker, listen: I want to tell you a secret. The Liberal party have asked that nets and net twines be put on the free list, whereas they have been on the free list ever since Confederation. Why do they ask that goods which have been on the free list for a long time be put on the free list? Do you not think, Mr. Speaker, that such a course would have a tendency to deceive the reading public? Would the people not conclude that nets and net twines are now on the dutiable list? Would they not conclude that lumber, rough and planed on one side, is also on the dutiable list; that gasoline is now dutiable? Whereas all the items I have mentioned are on the free list? Yet that is part of plank in the Liberal platform.

NOT PRACTICABLE TO FREE FOOD PRODUCTS

Now, the next thing they ask is that the principal articles of food be made free. Evidently the member for Brome (Mr. McMaster) has been educated since this time last year, because in his amendment of last year he asked that all food products be made free; now the demand is that the principal food products be made free.

Mr. McMaster: We wanted to protect the public from lobsters.

Mr. Loggie: Allow me to say to the hon. member that that will not be a very easy matter. If you get a lobster after you, you have to look out. In my judgment it is not practicable in Canada to make all the principal food products free. Of course I am referring not to the food products that are now free, but simply to those that are on the dutiable list. I say that it is not practicable to make them all free, because if you did you would destroy a domestic industry.

Now, they ask also that mining, flour and sawmill machinery and agricultural implements be made free. On what basis are they to be made free? Why do you ask that sawmill machinery be made free while other machinery shall be dutiable? No basis is submitted, so far as I can see. No provision is made for the continued output of domestic-made machinery; no provision for loss of revenue incurred through abolishing duties; no suggestion for the imposition of duties on the basis of revenue. Perhaps hon. gentlmeen are quite right in that, because a tariff for revenue is not practicable at the present time, although hon. gentlemen have argued in favor of it. This platform does not recognize the gigantic annual revenue that is required, nor does it suggest how we should overtake it if it were reduced as is set forth in this platform.

WHAT THE FARMERS OF THE WEST ARE ASKING

Now, Mr. Speaker, just a word about our friends on the other side at the end of the Chamber. They ask for free agricultural implements; they do not ask that natural products be made free. I have been in conversation with hon. gentlemen from the west who are farmers and they have indicated to me that they do not care whether or not the duty is taken off all farm products. But strange to say I have never heard them argue in the House that it would be all right to put all natural products of the farm on the free list. The consuming public of Canada paid into the treasury during the past year on meat products alone duties amounting to $716,271.11; yet hon. gentlemen in their discussions would certainly lead me to believe that farm products were free. I know that wheat and wheat flour are free, but because these products are free and they must look to the world for a market, they think that everything else should be free and that they should buy wherever they can buy the cheapest. If we are to succeed in this country—and I am sure that it is our destiny to be a great country—first of all we ought to manufacture most of the goods that we consume. No country situated as we are adjacent to the United States can be a great country unless it manufactures most of the commodities which it consumes. The member for Marquette (Mr. Crerar), speaking the other day, said that he saw no great advantage in our people manufacturing cotton textiles; that we should rather devote our efforts to the production of farm products. I do not want to minimize the importance of farm production, but we cannot all be farmers. If we are to be a successful country, we must pay due attention to our industrial life as well as our agricultural life. In our legislation respecting the farming interests we must not run counter to the interests of our industries. To my mind the Minister of Finance has set out to take care of these two interests, the consumer, and our industrial life. I cannot see how a saner, a wiser or more courageous proposal could be put before Canada today, when we have to obtain a revenue of $500,000,000 annually. We cannot get it through the customs; we must stabilize the tariff and then raise what we are short by an excise and super tax.

AN AUSTRALIAN MINISTER RESIGNS

London, June 9.—W. A. Watt, treasurer of the Australia Commonwealth, has resigned that position as a result of telegrams exchanged between him and Premier Hughes of Australia. These messages have been taken as an indication that Mr. Watt is in conflict with his cabinet colleagues on the important issues connected with his recent mission to London.

All the disagreeable people do not live on cross streets.

IN DAYS OF TERROR

They both entered the carriage; Genevieve took the front seat, and Maurice the one oposite. They traversed Paris without either one or the other having uttered a word. Only, all the way, Genevieve had held her handkerchief before her eyes. When they entered the building, Dixmer was occupied in his counting-house, Morand had just returned from Rambouillet, and was changing his dress Genevieve held out her hand to Maurice, as she entered her chamber.

'Adieu! Maurice, you have wished it."

Maurice said nothing, but walked directly to the mantel-piece, where hung a portrait of Genevieve. He ardently kissed it, presesd it to his heart, replaced it, and went out. Maurice reached home without knowing how he arrived there; he had passed through Paris without seeing anything, without hearing anything; all that surrounded him appeared like a dream; he was unable to account for his actions, his words, or the sentiments which induced them. There are moments when the most serene spirits succumb under the violence of their own emotions.

It was, as we have said, rather a race than a return, on the part of Maurice. He undressed himself without the asistance of his valet-de-chambre, neither replied to his cook, who displayed his supper duly prepared for him, but taking the day's letters from the table, he read them all, one after other, without comprehending a single word. The burning jealousy, that intoxication of reason, was not yet dissipated. At ten o'clock Maurice mechanically sought his bed, as, indeed, he had done everything else since his parting with Genevieve.

If Maurice in his cooler moment had been told of this extraordinary behavior in another, he would not have been able to comprehend it, but would have considered him mad to have pursued this desperate conduct, totally unauthorized either by too much reserve or too much "abandon" on the part of Genevieve. He now only felt this was a terible blow to all his hopes, of which he had never even to himself rendered an account, and upon which, vague as they were, reposed all his visions of happiness, dreams which like an unseizable vapor floated shapelessly towards the horizon, and there disappeared. Thus it happened, as in similar cases, that Maurice, stunned by this blow, dropped asleep directly he found himself in bed, where he remained free from all sentiment till the morrow. He was awakened by the noise of the official opening the door, who came as usual to unclose the windows, which opened upon a large garden, and to bring some flowers.

At that time, in the year '93, much attention was paid to the culture of forced flowers, and Maurice dearly loved all flowers; but now without even bestowing a glance upon them, he half raised his heavy head, and supporting it on his hand, endeavored to recall the events of the preceding evening. Maurice asked himself, without being able to account for it, the cause of this mad folly; the sole cause was jealousy of Morand; but the moment was certainly badly chosen to amuse himself by being jealous of a man, when this man was at Rambouillet ,and whilst enjoying a tete-a-tete with the woman one loves, surrounded by the most enchanting scenery on one of the lovely days of spring. It was not suspicion of the inmates at the house at Auteuil, where Genevieve had remained an hour, no, the incessant torment of his life was the idea that Morand loved Genevieve, and yet, singular fantasy of the brain, strange combination of caprice, not a gesture, a look, not even a word from Dixmer's partner had afforded the slightest grounds for this belief. The voice of the valet-de-chambre aroused him from this reverie.

"Citizen" said he, showing him the open letters on the table, 'have you selected those you wish to keep, or shall they all be burned?"

"Burn what?" said Maurice.

"The letters the citizen read last night, before he retired to bed."

Maurice could not remember having read one.

"Burn all," said he.

'Here are two days' letters, citizen,' said the official.

He presented a packet of letters to Maurice, and threw the others under the grate. Maurice took the letters, felt the impression of a seal, and fancied that he recognized the perfume of a friend, and looking over his correspondence he found an envelope and handwriting that made him tremble. This man, who bravely faced danger, trembled before the odor of a letter The official approached Maurice to inquire what he would take, but he signified a wish to be alone. Maurice turned and returned this letter; he felt a presentiment it contained misery for him, and started and trembled before unknown misfortune. Having collected all his courage he at length opened it, and read as follows:

"Citizen Maurice—It has become necessary that we should burst these bonds—bonds which, on your side, affect to exceed the bonds of friendship. You are a man of honor, citizen; and now a night has passed since the occurrences of yesterday evening, you ought to comprehend that your presence at our house is no longer desirabl. I leave it to you to excuse yourself in any way you think best to my husband. On the arival this day of your letter to Monsieur Dixmer, I am convinced I shall regret the loss of an unfortunate friend, whom all social propriety will deter me from meeting for the future. Adieu for ever—Genevieve.

'P. S.—The bearer awaits your reply."

Maurice called; the valet-de-chambre reappeared.

"Who brought this letter?"

"A citizen commissionaire."

'Is he waiting?"

'Yes."

Maurice did not for a moment hesitate, but, partly dressing, seated himself before his writing-desk, and taking the first sheet of paper that came to hand (he found it had on it the impression of a heart with the name of the Section), he wrote:

"Citizen Dixmer—I respected you, and I still do so, but I cannot visit you any longer."

TWO—STORY

Maurice considered what reason he could assign for not visiting Dixmer, and one idea alone presented itself to his mind, that which at this epoch occurred to every one. He thus continued:

"Certain rumors are afloat relative to your luke warmness in public affairs. I have no wish to accuse you and no mission to defend you. Receive my respects, and feel assured your secrets will remain for ever buried in my heart."

NORMAL SCHOOL TEACHERS' SALARIES ARE INCREASED

Full Demand of 25 Per Cent. Increase Not Entirely Met

SCHOOL LAW CHANGED IN REGARD POOR DISTRICTS

Matter of General History for the Schools Not Definitely Decided

The Board of Education this morning decided upon an advance in salaries for the staff of the Normal School and the Model School in this city. The amount of the increase was not stated, but it is understood that the full demands of the teachers who asked that their salaries be increased 25 per cent. was not entirely met.

The meeting this morning followed a previous meeting held yesterday afternoon, when a delegation of the teachers appeared before the board to support their application, which had been filed a month before. Included in the delegation were Dr. H. V. B. Bridges, A. S. McFarlane and H. H. Hagerman, of the Provincial Normal School, as well as the teachers of the Model School. Premier Foster when asked whether Dr. Carter, the Chief Superintendent, applied for an increase in salary replied, "Oh, we're always getting applications like that."

Among the matters to come up yesterday afternoon was the amendment of regulation 33, sub-section 6, of the school law changing the minimum valuation of a poor district, which was allowed to have third class teachers, from $15,000 to $20,000.

The matter of the selection of a general history for the schools to take the place of Myer's General History, which was tabooed, was not definitely decided, the matter being left in the hands of a committee who will report at a later meeting of the board.

FREDERICTON MAN HERE FROM WEST

Samuel Cook Says That Hay is $65 a Ton in Province of Alberta

Samuel Cook, formerly of this city and now of Wainwright, Alberta, is in the city today on a visit to old friends and a business trip. Mr. Cook, who removed to the West about six years ago, is living with his son, Max, in Wainwright, where the latter has a large farm.

In describing conditions in the West Mr. Cook stated that at the present time building around Edmonton is very brisk, money is plentiful and freely spent and the city of Edmonton was in the booming stage. He stated that as far as crops were concerned he did not think there was as large an acreage in seed as in previous years. The crops were all in and there was sufficient moisture in the ground to tide them over for a month or so, and the crop looked like a bumper one if it goes unharmed by hail and frost. When asked what prices were paid for seed in the West he stated potato seed sold for $3 a bushel, seed oats $1.30 a bushel and seed wheat at $3 a bushel. Timothy hay, he said, was selling when he left Edmonton at $60 and $65 a ton.

How Carranza Met His Death.

Mexico City, June 11.—Circumstances attending the death of former President Carranza were not fully cleared up by Federal Court of Investigation yesterday, although it remained in session for ten hours. General Herrero, who commanded the revolutionary forces which attacked the Carranza camp, insisted Carranza committed suicide when wounded and abandoned by his companions. He was confronted with companions of the dead President, including Gen. Barragan, General Murguia and General Montes, but insisted upon the accuracy of his story.

Examination of General Herrero failed to reveal definite particulars of the tragedy, and no one has been found who is able to testify from personal observation how Carranza met his death.

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York, June 11.—Motor trucks manned by former service men began yesterday to clear up the freight congestion at the piers of coastwise steamship lines, resulting from the longshoremen's strike. The citizens' transportation committee, in placing the service in operation, despite the union's ultimatum of a general strike if such action were taken, is waging war on the refusal of union truckmen to handle merchandise at piers where a strike is in effect.

Need Legislation to Solve Print Situation

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Ottawa, June 11.—While the stocks of Canadian newsprint companies are soaring as much as ten points in a day, reflecting the unprecedented prosperity of the Canadian newsprint industry, a group of Canadian publishers is still in Ottawa struggling to prevent the extinction of their newspaper properties through inability to get newsprint supplies in a country that is exporting six times as much newsprint as it requires for domestic consumers.

An impasse has been reached and apparently nothing short of legislation conserving the domestic requirements will prevent the extinction of a substantial number of the daily newspapers of Canada.

SCHOOL TEACHERS SCARCE IN QUEBEC

The Dominant Note Struck by Speakers at Closing of the MacDonald College

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Montreal, June 11.—In the closing exercises of the school for teachers of MacDonald College yesterday, 162 women and four men teachers received their diplomas. Among those in attendance were Hon. Sidney Fisher. Principal Laird of the College, stated that the scarcity of teachers is increasing and this was the dominant note of every speech made.

The Ottawa Valley and Gaspe district were statd to be worse off in this regard than the Eastern Townships or the cities of the province.

Hon. Sydney Fisher announced that in order to get in touch with the wishes of average residents of the province of Quebec, especially in the rural districts, the Protestant committee of public instruction had decided to hold meetings throughout the province to which ratepayers, teachers and even the school children would be invited to give their views on the particular kind of teaching in their special districts.

FEAR GERMANS WILL NOT CARRY OUT THE TREATY

Likelihood That French Government Will Decline to Attend Spa Conference

FRANCE TO OPPOSE ANY YIELDING ON INDEMNITY

New Italian Premier Disturbing Personality in the Proposed Negotiations

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

London, June 11.—Possibility of the abandonment of the Spa conference between representatives of the Allied Governments and Germany is being discussed in European capitals.

The success of the independent socialists and the conservatives in the German elections leads to the belief in France that Germany is less inclined to carry out the treaty.

This belief, with the prospect that Giovanni Giolitti, former Italian Premier, will form a new ministry in that country, is said to have moved Premier Millerand of France to oppose any further yielding on the question of the German indemnity, such as might be expected to result from the Spa meeting. It is recalled that Signor Giolitti opposed Italy's entrance into the war, and it is stated his foreign policy includes resumption of full relations with Germany.

Premier Millerand is said to feel he might hazard his own position if the Spa conference was held, and belief is expressed here that Signor Giolitti may decline to attend the meeting.

"Not all the armies in the Empire will compel us to become traitors to our own nation. We will not shrink from the consequences of that view, although the whole fabric of the commonwealth be convulsed."

Appeal to every man and woman in Ireland to support the Dublin men is made in the manifesto. It says thousands of pounds are needed weekly to provide for the workers.

The railwaymen generally up to this time have only refused to handle munitions trains, but railwaymen at Dingle, County Kerry, Wednesday refused to man a tarin with soldiers aboard. The soldiers were obliged to leave the train before it could proceed.

Some dealers have made considerable reduction of building materials, it is noted, but from information collected on the subject, the Board is of the opinion that further decreases ought to be made.

"With the information at hand," concludes the statement, "the board will shortly move (if it can get the necessary assistance), in the direction of insuring additional reductions in the cost of such materials, which in many cases still continue to include unfair profit to the dealers."

Toronto, June 11.—The contract for the McGivney, N. B., rivision, has been awarded to H. R. Stewart, according to announcement yesterday by the directors of the Canadian National aRilway.

This, with two other extensions in the west, involves an expenditure of more than $100,000. In each case the lowest tender for the work was accepted.

The contract which has been awarded to H. R. Stewart, of Perth, N. B., is in connection with the improvement of the Canada Eastern division line between Frederirton and McGivney Junction to bring it up to the necessary standard for handling the Canadian National Railways trunk line traffic.

While the amount involved is comparatively small the awarding of the contract is significant as it is the first actual work in connection with the C. N. R's steps to provide their new route for both passenger and freight traffic from Quebec, Montreal and the West to the port of St. John via the Transcontinental Railway to McGivney Junction, thence Canada Eastern Division to Fredericton and from here to St. John via the St. John Valley Railway.

Consists of Rock Cuttings.

The awarding of this contract also follows immediately upon the filing of plans of properties expropriated in Fredericton in connection with a change in the C. N. R. layout in this city consequent upon the construction of the proposed new railway bridge across the St. John river at an estimated cost of more than $2,000,000. Mr. Stewart, whose last work for the C. N. R. was the construction of the Moncton diversion on the International Division, will make several large rock cuttings for the reduction of curves and other contracts for the improvement of the line between Fredericton and McGivney will soon be awarded, it was said by officials of the C. N. R. at Moncton with whom The Gleaner was in touch today.

"We want to get this work completed as soon as possible," declared General Superintendent L. S. Brown.

APPEAL IN MURDER CASE IS DECIDED

The Crown Appeal From Manslaughter Verdict of Jury Upheld by Court

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Winnipeg, June 11.—One of the most remarkable appeals ever heard in Canada was ended yesterday when the Manitoba Court of Appeals delivered judgment in which W. H. Elnick, Harold Burdis and Jack Clements were found guilty of murder in connection with the killing last October of W. J. Deforge. The three accused were found guilty at the last assizes of manslaughter and sentenced to long terms in the penitentiary.

The crown appealed the case, bringing up the appeal only for the purpose of deciding fine points of the law. The decision will have no effect on the men sentenced.

RIPPLES, N. B.

Ripples, N. B., June 7—The weather for the past few days has been inclined to be wet, which is a great help for crops and forest fires.

A pie and ice cream social was held in the school house for Melvin MacBeth, whose house was destroyed by fire. A large sum was realized.

The Coburn Lumber Company are making great progress with their mill. They are also putting in a siding, which is costing a large sum of money. George Fulton, Jr., is boss of the work.

Harry A. Flewelling is having a house built. It is situated on a pretty slope near the Baptist church.

Chas. Lunergan, Jr., has purchased a new Ford car.

The Ripples sports took a flying trip to the celestial city in a car, returning in the small wee hours in the morning.

Mr. Roy Campbell has purchased a new driving horse.

Mr. William Beattie, Mr. Arthur Wasson and Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Flewelling and Mrs. Lyda Cogswell attended the party at L. Loudon's at Scotchtown. All had a very good time.

B. C. PROHIBITION ACT GOES IN EFFECT

Not More Than Eight Ounces of Liquor Can Be Obtained on Prescription

Victoria, B. C., June 10.—On the first of May the remaining four sections of the amendments to the British Columbia Prohibition Act, passed at the recent session of the Legislature, went into effect. It is not possible to obtain a prescription for more than eight ounces of liquor now, save and excepting under the special conditions set out in the amended statute. Sale of tinctures and essences are similarly regulated. It is also impossible to obtain delivery of liquor from a local warehouse within the province, and all manufacturers of near-beer must label their bottles and barrels with the name of the brewery from whence the product comes.

MANY EX-SOLDIERS STUDY MEDICINE

Montreal, June 9.—A total of 743 students were registered in the medical faculty of McGill University, being a record that far exceeds that of any other year in the history of the faculty, was the statement of Dean H. Miss Jennie Woods and Miss Jean Wynne, of Fredericton, were visiting in the city this week, guests at the Royal Hotel.—St. John Standard.

LABOR CANDIDATE FOR WINNIPEG

The Labor Party Will Attempt to Regain Control of City Council Next Year

Winnipeg, June 10.—S. J. Farmer, who opposed Mayor Gray at the last civic elections, again will be advanced as a Labor candidate for mayor at the elections for 1921. Labor aldermen predict. "I believe Labor will again control the council next year," Alderman John Blumberg declared. He said if Labor candidates were elected every dollar would be spent advantageously to the city as a whole and no section would be given preference. "I believe Winnipeg would appreciate a Labor council," Alderman Blumberg continued. "It would endeavor to keep the tax rate down to a minimum and, I believe, some civic grants favored in the past would be discontinued."

MEMORIAL HALL IN MANITOBA TOWN

Carman, Man., June 10.—Premier T. C. Morris, of Manitoba, recently participated in a historical day for the municipality of Dufferin and the town of Carman, when he opened the new memorial hall here. The building is of red brick with stone facings. Aside from the memorial tribute the building is a magnificent effort to promote a community spirit. The cost was $60,000, divided between the town and the municipality. Over four hundred men enlisted from the Carman-Dufferin district, eighty-five of whom were killed in action.

7,000 MURDERS ARE CHARGED TO DJEMAL

Turkish General Who Ordered Massacres in Syria Now in Switzerland

Geneva, Switzerland, June 10—In one of the most luxurious hotels in Lausanne is now living the Turkish multi-millionaire named General Ahmed Djemal Pasha, former Turkish minister under the Young Turk regime at Constantinople and former commander of the fourth Turkish army in Syria.

He is the first upon the black list of the Arabian government for extradition and punishment, being accused, says the Tribune De Geneve, of the deaths of 7,000 Arabian, Syrian and Armenian families, whom he is alleged to have ordered to be massacred or deported into the desert, where they died of hunger and thirst in the war. He has been sentenced to death after a hearing in Turkey.

Djemal Pasha, who called himself the "Hero of Hislam," admits, according to the newspaper, that he was "only directly responsible for about 200 deaths of heretics." By tyranny, it is charged, he obtained his vast wealth in Turkish gold, always refusing bank notes. Once a week his wife or one of the members of his family travelled to Constantinople from Djemal's headquarters in Syria under military escort with small boxes of gold, which were forwarded subsequently to Switzerland and Holland.

It was Djemal and Djavid Pasha who were at Paris in July, 1914, and, foreseeing the war, bought the German warships, Goeben and Breslau, for their government by orders from Constantinople.

Djemal, who has only a temporary permission to sojourn in Switzerland, was recently requested by the Swiss government to leave this country, but he managed to procure a medical certificate proving that travelling would be prejudicial to his health and remains at Lausanne.

The Tribune demands his expulsion from Switzerland with several of his satellites. Djemal, however, cannot return to Turkey, as the death sentence awaits him there.

This Djemal Pasha should not be mistaken for another Turkish leader of similar name and title, who recently was appointed a minister of the new Turkish cabinet.

WEDDINGS.

Smullin-Greene.

A quiet wedding took place at 8.30 on Tuesday morning, June 8, at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. John Sharpe, Pokiok, York county, when Mrs. Bertie E. Greene was united in marriage to William J. Smullin, of Lower Southampton. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. T. Clark, M.A., B.D., pastor of the Pokiok Baptist church, and was witnessed by the immediate friends of the contracting parties, who were attended by Chester Sharpe and Miss Lulu Smullin, of Lower Southampton. The bride was becomingly dressed in taupe serge with hat and veil to match. At the conclusion of the ceremony the happy pair left on the Valley train for St. John. On their return they will reside at Lower Southampton.

URGE CONSTRUCTION OF RAILWAY IN N. B.

The Advantage of Linking Valley Railway With the Maine Central Shown in House

Ottawa, June 10.—The desirability of the Government immediately authorizing the construction by the C. N. R. of the twenty-two miles connecting link betwen the St. John and Quebec Railway at Meductic to the Maine Central at Bancroft, Maine, was urged before the committee of the Commons today by T. W. Caldwell, member for Carleton-Victoria.

Mr. Caldwell drew the attention of the Government to the need for the link being built when a bill granting quarters of the freight, composed Railway for three short branch lines in the West was under consideration. He pointed out that practically three-quarters of the freight.d compose chiefly of pulpwood, manufactured pulp, potatoes and hay which originates in the Maritime Provinces and eastern Queec, is destined for the eastern states.

At present there are two routes by which it could be transported, one by the C. P. R. around by the north shore of New Brunswick, which was both long and costly.

Complaint had been made that the St. John and Quebec Railway had not and was not paying its way, Mr. Caldwell said. He was confident that if the connecting links were constructed there would be a different story to tell.

"There is no doubt that it should be carried out," admitted Dr. Reid. However, he said, no person in New Brunswick was suffering from lack of any kind of transportation as was the case out west, where the branch lines referred to in the bill were proposed to be constructed. Therefore it was not the intention to construct the link this year.

OBITUARY

Geoffry M. Wheelock.

St. John, June 10.—Mrs. W. C. H. Grimmer, Germain street, received a telegram yesterday announcing the death of her son-in-law, Geoffry M. Wheelock, who passed away in Boston yesterday morning. Mr. Justice Grimmer, from whom the sad telegram came, was called to Boston on Monday by a telegram from his daughter, Mrs. Lois Wheelock, saying that her husband's illness had taken a very grave turn and that there was practically no hope.

The late Mr. Wheelock was a son of the late T. R. Wheelock, of Shanghai, China. He and Miss Grimmer were married here in Feburay and went to Boston, their plans including an extended tour in the United States before sailing for Shanghai. Mr. Wheelock, however, became ill and his condition necessitated hospital treatment. Recently he was removed from the hospital and only about a week ago they set up housekeeping at Chestnut Hill, Boston. All that medical skill could do was unavailing and for some days past Mr. Wheelock's condition had been critical.

A host of friends will extend their most sincere sympathy. Mrs. Wheelock, before her marriage, was most active in patriotic work here during the war and gave unsparingly of her time to patriotic activities. To the many friends of the breaved here and elsewhere the sad news of yesterday will be the cause of most sincere regret.

THE FARMER AND LABOR.

In his address to the Canadian Society of Technical Agriculturists, Mr. Tom Moore touched on one or two of the basic causes of the shortage of farm labor and of the misunderstanding between farmers and city workers. Farmers believe that the lot of city workers is better than theirs and many city workers think that the farmers have the best of them in their mutual economic dependence. The misunderstanding leads many farmers to abandon agriculture and move to the city, but the conditions of labor in the country deter city people from seeking the advantages of farm life, remarks the Ottawa Journal.

Mr. Moore urged that efforts be made to have the relative situations of each class better understood. But it is not easy to compare the two situations because of their differing conditions—or, more directly, because of the peculiar conditions of the farmer's situation.

Mr. Moore declared that the farm worker was a skilled laborer. But he is not regarded as such. His remuneration is not regulated according to degrees of skill. It is not held that skill is required in his work. In that way his position is beclouded, and a standard of remuneration cannot be arrived at as in the case of urban employment or urban business.

Another factor making for dissatisfaction among farmers and farm laborers and which leads them to envy the city worker is the maner in which they receive their remuneration, either as independent farmers or wage-earning farmers. In the case of the independent farmer, his business has not been systematized and so he seldom knows how successful he is or what his profits are. Although he may be providing a generous living for his family and erecting an estate, he does not know what those accomplishments equal in actual cash. In the case of his employe, a large part of his remuneration takes the form of housing and boarding. The city worker receives all his remuneration in money and has to go out and pay for those things out of it. In the case of the farm laborer a guess is made at their value and the amount of that guess deducted from his wages.

The difference is that the city worker has the spending of his wages while the farmer gets only a small portion of his in cash that he may have the spending of. In addition to housing and boarding he may also have the use of his employer's horses and other equipment for his pleasure. In season he has the choicest of the fresh fruits and vegetables that the farm of his employer provides. He sees the city wage-earner spending money for these things or their equivalent and imagines the latter is having a better time and is better off.

If either the value of the part of the farmer's remuneration that he does not receive in actual cash were established or, in the case of the farm employe, he were paid entirely in cash and allowed to buy his own necessaries and luxuries, it would be possible for the positions of the city worker and the farm worker to be compared, and perhaps the latter might be more content with his lot. The more farming becomes a technical business or employment the more chance there will be for a lessening of the misunderstanding, which sometimes takes the form of antagonism between urban and rural classes.

WORK OF THE CHURCH.

The Duke of Devonshire made some preganant remarks at the meeting of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church at Ottawa in answer to the loyal address which that body presented to the Duke as the representative of His Majesty the King. The Governor-General praised the work of the churches in general, but he pointed out, in especial, that the functions of the church—using the word in a broad sense—were in peculiar demand in connection with the stabilization of the great interests of society.

These functions, efficaciously carried out, are calculated to produce contentment, good citizenship, and reconstruction, remarks the Montreal Gazette. The church is a great moral and spiritual agency, as His Excellency pointed out, and such an agency was never more needed than at the present moment. The Governor-General praised the work of the Presbyterian Church; but, taking the broad view, he stressed the point that the church has a peculiar mission at the moment to assuage restlessness and bring in the sense of stability and regularity in the general life of the nation.

That the church is not indifferent to the demands made upon it is proved by the fresh efforts made to extend its influence, to achieve larger results, but especially to meet the new spirit of the time, which asks for service rather than doctrine. Indeed, many of the churches have travelled far in this new road, and have thereby incurred some criticism for departing from the "old ways"; but the movement for a fuller social life, for candid happiness in environment, for the general betterment of conditions here, for cheerful work in respect of actual conditions as these present themselves from day to day in the community, is congruous to the general demand for the elimination of age-worn dogma, which answers to nothing in the general life, and the substitution of service and ministry in respect of the actual life of the people.

In England many of the churches have introduced the movies with good effect, while in the cases in which there might be hesitation in taking this step there is candid recognition that new methods for gaining and retaining the public interest in church life must be boldly carried out. The point of value and interest is, as the Duke of Devonshire pointed out, that the churches now have it in their power to savingly influence the grave situation in which a torn world finds itself. His Excellency did not go into details; but the churches themselves are recognizing the necessity for fresh presentations which shall deal with life and its problems as they are. In this way, lost ground may not only be recovered, but the churches may become a dominating factor in the restoration of a weltering world, which has lost its moorings.

A REFORESTRY POLICY.

Mr. G. R. Hall Caine, son of the famous British novelist and formerly British deputy paper controller, who was in Ottawa recently after a tour of investigation, urges the investment of British capital in the development of Canadian pulp wood resources to meet the world shortage of newsprint.

Canada will welcome the investment of this capital in the extension of an important industry; but the "development" of our pulp wood resources should include an adequate system of reforestation, otherwise the word "destruction" would be more correct, says an exchange. The conservation of Canada's forest resources has been much talked of, but mere talk does not get very far in preventing irreparable destruction, as the United States is discovering when it is too late.

Unfortunately, posterity is not here to "lobby," and the votes of the present beneficiaries of state property are a strong influence against the recognition of our obligations to the future when coupled with the selfish apathy of the great mass of electors. So long as the ordinary elector does not care a hoot about posterity, and so long as it is to the advantage of some to grab as much of the public resources while it is possible to grab them and pay as little as possible in return, reforestation in Canada, we fear, will not make very much progress.

Yet the reforestry policy of France and other countries begun in Napoleon's time stands out as a striking object lesson of what can be accomplished.

The Stock Market

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York (Wall Street), June 11.—Bull pools were moderately active again at the outset of today's stock market session, despite predictions of higher rates for call money. Steels, equipments, shippings and chemicals gained one to two points in the first transactions, the outstanding features being Lackawanna steel, Haskell and Barker, Mercantile Marine preferred and industrial alcohol. Among oils, Mexican petroleum was strong and some of the motors and their subsidiaries made fractional gains. Rails were in the background and coppers reacted slightly.

The Noon Market.

New York (Wall Street Noon), June 11.—With no pronounced increase of business, gains among steel, equipment, oil, chemical and food shares were materially extended during the morning. Crucible rose five points, Lackawana 4, Replogle 3½, Vanadium 2½, Hexican Pete 3 and Pan American pete2. Stromberg featured the motor specialties, gaining 5 points and industrial alcohol, food products and Barrett rose 2 to 3. Rails continued sluggish, the only noteworthy movement being a gain of 1½ for Missouri Pacific. Call money opened at eight per cent., the maximum initial rate of the week. Exchange on London was firm and Liberty Bonds were steady.

THE LIGHTER SIDE OF LIFE

You Never Can Tell.

With a bashful smile on his honest, simple face, a countryman walked into a second-hand clothing store and said:

"You remember that coat I bought here yesterday for $5?"

"Yes, but I never take back anything when once sold," said the dealer quickly.

"Oh, that's all right!" replied the customer. "I only wanted to tell you that I found a $20 note sewn up in the lining. Perhaps the owner may call for it."

"Of course, he will!" exclaimed the dealer, capturing the note. "You are an honest man; here is $5 for you as a reward. That will be all right."

And by the time the dealer found out that the note was a counterfeit the simple-looking lad from the country had vanished.

How It's Done.

Brown was about to have some alterations made, and asked Jones—who had just got rid of the builders—the best way to go about it.

"Oh," said Jones, "you call in a decent builder and tell him the limit you are prepared to pay, being sure that the sum you mention to him is about a quarter of what you can afford for the alterations; and then, if you are lucky, you may get half of what you want done for about twice the total sum you want to spend."

Nothing But Sympathy.

"Then you have no sympathy for the deserving poor?" asked the man who was collecting for charity.

"Me," replied the rich man. "Why, sir, I have nothing but sympathy for them."

CURE FOR BLUSHING

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I have been reading your valued People's Column for a long time, and have noticed that there is some real good advice, and I have been wondering if I could find out from some one as to what is the best cure for blushing. It is a very embarrassing condition and oftentimes it gets me disgusted with life, especially when I am among some people and they start "kidding." Just as soon as some one starts "kidding" my face gets as red as a "boiled lobster," and I am all fussed. A condition like that may be all right for a young lady, but not for a young man. I hope some one will help me. Yours,

J. G. L.

ROBBED BY CONVENTIONS

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I heartily agree with "Canadian" that making acquaintances unconventionally is not necessarily wrong and that the result of such "introductions" depends entirely upon the woman in the case.

I absolutely fail to see the harm in people making acquaintances in this manner, providing, of course, that they be persons of good character. Convention stands in the way of many a fine friendship, and often persons who could otherwise make the acquaintance of some one who would take an interest in their affairs are compelled to perform their daily duties without the sympathy and guidance of friends.

Yours,

A BRITISHER.

FRUIT PROTECTORS

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—A grave mistake is made by those fruit growers who complain that the birds destroy much fruit. This is due to careless observation of birds. Drive away the birds and then see what will happen to your fruit.

Do you not realize that they are your best friends? While your trees and bushes are budding and blossoming they are performing a service for you by destroying creatures that destroy your fruit and that will lay waste whole orchards—caterpillars, worms that get into apples and berries and beetles and grubs that fruit growers are constantly fighting. When the fruit has ripened you would be selfish indeed to begrudge the bird his tiny share of the fruit that he so earnestly worked to protect while it was growing.

It has been proved by the scientific men in the service of the United States Government, who have killed thousands of birds to see what they are eating, that they do far more good by destroying injurious insects than the cost of the fruits and vegetables they eat.

Canker worms destroy our apples. Chickadees eat an average of 250 canker worm eggs a meal—and they eat several meals a day. Do you not realize that your little friends, while perhaps eating a little of your ripe fruit, are at the same time eating the worms in the fruit, on the leaves, on the bark of the tree and saving you more fruit than you would have if they were not working for you?

Yours,

A FRUIT GROWER.

TIPPING AT THE MOVIES

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—In reply to a letter of recent date regarding the absurdity of tipping an usher for a seat in a moving picture theatre, I would like to add the following:

While in Paris on leave I had the opportunity of visiting several moving picture theatres. After paying a good price for admission a lady ushers you to a seat and before you have had time to get into a comfortable position the usher flashes a searchlight directly at you, making it almost impossible for you to see the picture on the screen. Then, after you have dug down in your pocket for various centime pieces, she turns the light on your money so that you will have no difficulty in picking out the right coin. Fifty centimes is the usual tip, which is about eight cents. They often say, "Tip pour moi?" or "Tip pour service?" so that you will know what they are waiting for.

Considering this way of "holding up," I do not think a tip now and then in a moving picture theatre is anything to talk about. Of course, it is nonsense to pay someone for such little service as conducting one to a seat, and I believe the majorty of people would prefer finding their own seats.

Yours,

A MOVIE FAN.

STORE MOISTURE WHILE ON OCEAN

Prohibition Is a Regular Bonanza to Steamship Companies on the Atlantic

New York, June 10.—They that go down to the sea in ships these days see greater wonders than ever on the deep. This is the testimony of seawise mariners who have piloted liners over the Atlantic and back for many years. Since a major portion of the North American continent went dry the lure of the sea has grown more alluring than ever, and the fauna and flora of the ocean have been added to with many specimens surpassing pre-war imagination.

Captains of ships have a simple explanation for the undoubted fact that passengers from this side of the pond now do more drinking at sea than they ever did before. The explanation goes like this:

"When they leave a dry country, going Europe-ward, they drink because they are so glad to be away from prohibition. When they are coming back to America from less arid lands, they drink because they are once more approaching the desert. Like the camel, they desire to store moisture away in their humps."

Since the United States went dry by constitutional amendment, many and various schemes have been proposed to beat the prohibition laws. Some visionaries have dreamed of purchasing an island well out beyond the three-mile limit, and establishing there a heavenly oasis where the bar would never close and sumptuary laws would never be known. Others thought of a wonderful yacht, stocked with the juice of the grape and the corn, that would cruise and cruise, and never make port except to replenish. The more practical minded did not stop to dream, but, if they had the price, purchased a steamship ticket. The boats to Cuba are crowded, and so are those to Europe. On every vessel the bar steward is overworked.

Prohibition should be favored by the steamship companies. In one week 14,000 persons left New York recently for ocean voyages. One large British liner reported the other day that its bar receipts on one crossing were $5,025, a record. Ships officers say that men who travelled dry before now take a drink, while travellers who took a drink in the old days now take three or four. This they describe as the "psychology of prohibition."

Of course, the three mile limit has to be observed, more or less. But the ship's log, if it were asked, might tell that the thirst of the parched passenger from this side is no respecter of the 18th amendment. Long before the bar opens there is a line waiting. Some of the more thirsty make the smoke room their headquarters during the voyage lest they miss something. Men who once imbibed a solitary cocktail before dinner now miss the dinner and specialize on liquids. Instances are not rare where the visible supply of drinkables has been exhausted before the voyage ended, this resulting in scenes of infinite pathos.

MANGLED TO DEATH BY A BROWN BEAR

British Columbia Logger Had Every Stitch of Clothing Torn From Body

Prince Rupert, B. C., June 10.—Clarence Thompson, a logger on Chicago Island, died recently from wounds inflicted by a large brown bear. Terribly lacerated, Thompson was found by a searching party, to whom he gave a connected account of his experience before he died.

Unexpectedly he came upon the bear while it was feeding on the carcass of a deer. It rushed at him and he shot once before the huge paw landed with smashing force on his face. The animal knocked and buffeted him about for a time and then walked away. When found Thompson had not a stitch of clothing on his body and he had suffered terribly from cold and loss of blood.

In Plymouth, Me., May 7, Maurice Curtis cooled his milk for the creamery in a snowdrift in the yard, while in a field nearby strawberry plants were in blossom.

MAINE SUFFERED FROM FOREST FIRES

Loss Estimated at a Million—10,000 Acres in Aroostook Burned Over

Bangor, Me., June 10.—"The damage by the recent forest fires in Aroostook county will, according to the best estimates that it is possible to make on such a difficult problem to figure, amount to a million dollars," said Deputy Forest Commissioner Neil L. Violette, who returned Monday night from a week's trip to and through the fire district. He added: "The rainfall was a Godsend to that section, for had it held off two or three days longer, the dryness of the country and the wind would have swept those fires—some 25 in number—along until they would have met and united, setting a blaze over a territory about 40 miles in length and as many miles wide."

As it is, the rain enables the department to report: "Fires all out."

Mr. Violette says it estimated that abut 10,000 acres were burned over, mostly cut-over land. And most of these fires were caused by the carelessness of farmers in burning brush and other refuse. It may be an object lesson to some.

The worst of the fires was in the Nashville region, where about six square miles was burned over. Another bad one was reported in the northern Somerset county region, not visited by Mr. Violette. Warden W. H. Hinkley reported that the fires around there extended 30 miles on the Canadian side. Two were burning at once on Township 11, Range 17, and two more on T. 10, R. 11. They destroyed four camps of the American Realty Co. on T. 11, R. 17, and seven on T. 10, R. 17, of B. C. Howard, who lost $7,000 worth of supplies and all his camp outfit and sleds. He said the fires were very difficult to fight on account of there being so many.

About 20,000 cords of pulp wood was burned on sidings, besides a large quantity in the woods.

Fires were also reported on Township 8, Range 19, English Lake at one time was surrounded by fire but finally was saved. The St. Camille railway station was threatened.

About 1,000,000 feet of sawed lumber was reported by Warden Howard as burned on one siding, with a large quantity of shingles, cedar ties, etc.

Mr. Violette said two houses were burned at Eagle Lake and two at Winterville Plantation, one of the owners also losing his barn and stock. He said that everyone in that neighborhood had to fight to save their buildings and new homemade ladders were as common as buildings, being seen at practically every place.

The Republican Convention Is Balloting This Afternoon For Presidential Candidate

Followers of Wood, Johnson and Lowden Still Maintain Confidence in Their Favorites, While Supporters of Dark Horses are Working Among the Delegates

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Chicago, June 11.—Animosities of the platform battle swept away by the roar of affirmation which wrote the Republican creed for 1920 into American history, delegates to the national con ention gathered early today to fulfil their chief duty and name a presidential candidate.

Who would receive this highest honor in the party's gift was as much on the lap of the gods as ever. Field marshals for the "Big Three," Wood, Johnson and Lowden, expressed confidence. They made no specific claims to more than the votes pledged to their candidates by primary action.

The balance of power still lay with the more than 500 uninstructed delegates. Desite days of missionary work among them, lieutenants of the leading candidates had learned little of their state of mind. It remained for the first ballot to reveal any decisive drift of sentiment among the rank and file of the party. First on the programme came the nominating speeches. To get these swiftly out of the way the convention met at 9 o'clock instead of 11 as on previous days. Further steps toward short circuiting useless and often tiresome oratory were taken in connection with second'ng speeeches.

To Vote This Morning.

Under the rule adopted, each candidate may be seconded in two five minute addresses. He may have as many seconders as he likes, but if he elects to have more than two, none of those who speak for him may talk for more than two minutes. Under this ruthless curb on eulogists, the first ballot should be reached by mid-afternoon. Indications are that it will show the instructed strength of the major candidates lined up virtually solidly as the mandates the instructed delegations carry direct.

Dark horse movements spring out of deadlocks. Up to the time the convention assembled today there was every indication that a triangular deadlock between Wood, Johnson and Lowden would be shown on the first counting of noses.

Claims of Wood Supporters.

Wood supporters affirmed that he would show strength in excess of 300 on the first ballot. Some placed it at 350, and it requires 493 to nominate. Previous Wood claims had not exceeded 250.

Lowden supporters also were active. They asserted that they needed only the adherence of a strong eastern delegation to the Illinois Governor's standard to put him over.

Johnson supporters last night treated the convention camp to a taste of old time methods in the way of bands and banners and stump oratory at the curb. They made no claims this morning beyond asserting that the Californian would show a steadily growing strength as the balloting proceeded.

Prominent Dark Horses.

Workers for Governor Sproul, of Pennsylvania; for Butler, the darkest of the dark horses, and for Charles Evans Hughes were reported as conferring and negotiating, but there was no outward evidence of their labors. One report had it that a group of men who held important places in the party councils had caucused in preparation for putting Judge Hughes forward at the right moment with sufficient initial strength to give the movement a winning impetus.

There was a marked quiet among the avowed adherents of Herbert Hoover. In fact, doubt seemed to prevail that he would be placed in nomination at all, but plans of his supporters were not revealed.

Senator Lodge, chairman of the convention, did not expect that the Presidential nominee would be selected in time to permit balloting on the Vice-Presidency before Saturday.

Beat against the golden shore.

Loving Saviour, be Thou near us,
Richly bless and safely guide,
And may neither death nor danger
Ever from Thy love divide.
And may we when life is o'er,
Meet upon that golden shore.

Become Haynes Distributors for Province of New Brunswick

Eastern Motors, Ltd., and Fredericton Motor Sales, Ltd., have acquired the exclusive selling rights for Haynes character cars throughout the Province of New Brunswick, Canada, according to an announcement by Mr. S. M. How, General Sales Manager of the Haynes Automobile Company, Kokomo, Indiana, U. S. A.

The firm members, including J. Stewart Neill, as General Manager, are well known to the motoring public of Fredericton and St. John, and in fact, of the entire province. When it became known that the New Brunswick territory for the popular Haynes character cars was open, the factory at Kokomo was beset with requests and applications from automobile men in New Brunswick for an opportunity to acquire the Haynes selling rights.

The list of requests was carefully analyzed in an endeavor to obtain the best possible representation for the Haynes in the New Brunswick territory. After a great deal of consideration the above companies were selected because of the excellent reputation they hold from one end of the Province to the other as automobile merchandisers. A carload of these new series Haynes Seven Passenger Touring Cars has arrived and they have been greatly admired by the motoring public.

PINE GROVE FOR MUNICIPAL HOME

the transfer will include all farm machinery and buildings as well as shore rights under lease to the St. John River Log Driving Company. A committee of commissioners composed of Warden Tabor C. Everett, Mayor Walter Walker of Marysville and Coun. Charles E. Allen, of Southampton, have been appointed to close the deal with Mr. Morgan, the county solicitor being authorized to prepare the agreement.

Thirteen members of the commission met here yesterday to decide upon the site of the establishment, there being three absentees when Mayor Walker of Marysville, the chairman, called the meeting to order. The committee on location made a report saying the selection had, in their opinion, narrowed down to two properties, Pine Grove and the Springhill Hotel, and the committee had voted three to two in favor of purchasing the latter at $20,000 complete with furnishing and ready with immediate accommodations for about fifty persons. In addition to the buildings there were fifteen acres of land, all cleared and practically all under cultivation. However, they recommended that the commission visit the two suggested sites and make a selection.

This they did and afterwards, by a vote of 7 to 5, decided upon the purchase of the Pine Grove property. Another meeting will be held on the evening of July 7th, when it is expected action will be taken towards increasing the accommodations by extending the present buildings and arrangements made for the purchase of the furnishings for the Home.

Mystery Dance Successful.

The mystery dance at the G.W.V.A. rooms last evening drew another large crowd and once more evinced the popularity of the dances being held by the Ladies' Auxiliary in aid of the War Memorial Fund. The mystery dance was called about 10 o'clock and only those who had tickets could participate. When the last bar of the waltz was played the couple standing nearest the mysterious mark on the floor were awarded the prizes, and the fortunate ones were Miss Tracy, of St. John, a silver nut dish, donated by J. J. McCaffrey, and Mr. Sears, a box of cigars, donated by Hedley Forbes. The Countess of Ashburnham presented the prizes and Mrs. J. H. Brooks and Mrs. A. R. Slipp were the chaperones. The music was furnished by the City Orchestra for the programme of twelve dances, while Miss Lorna Fenety played the extras.

Variety of Charges.

A local man who was arrested last evening on King street, appeared before Police Magistrate Limerick this morning, charged with a variety of offenses. The charges of drunkenness, fighting on the public streets, assault on his wife and neglect of his family were read to him. He pleaded guilty to the charges of drunkenness and neglecting his family but offered no plea in the other two charges as he stated he did not remember anything about them. He was remanded until Tuesday when he will be given a hearing.

CARLETON COUNTY CASE WAS DECIDED

Trustees Application For a New Trial in School Tax Case Granted

This morning, being the second Friday of the June sittings of the Court of Appeal, Sir Douglas Hazen, chief justice, was present to attend to the only business to come up since the adjournment of the court on Wednesday of last week, namely, to hand down the court's judgment in the case of the appeal of the Trustees of School District No. 11, Carleton county, from a judgment rendered in favor of Florence Sullivan, plaintiff, for $225 upon a trial before Judge Barry at a recent circuit there.

The plaintiff is the wife of Daniel Sullivan, against whom an execution was issued for taxes by a justice of the peace for the county, resulting in the seizure and sale of a mare which the plaintiff claimed to be not his but her own. At the trial in the court below she was represented by M. L. Hayward, and the defendant (Trustees) were represented by R. P. Hartley, K. C., and J. C. Hartley, the latter two being subsequently the appellant counsel, and Mr. Hayward appearing for the plaintiff respondent when the case came up upon appeal. In the court below, plaintiff's evidence was to the effect that when the mare was bought by her husband she told him that she wanted her; and he said she could take her and pay for her herself, which statement her husband endorsed on the witness stand. Promissory notes of her husband had been given in payment for the mare; and once when her husband was sick a renewal note was afterwards given signed by herself; but this had later been lifted by notes of her husband.

The judgment of the court on appeal delivered today was prepared by Chief Justice Hazen, and the court thereby grants the Trustees their application upon appeal, which was for a new trial. The question turned upon whether or not there was an actual sale of the mare to his wife by her husband. While this would be admittedly valid on general principles, there was not, so the court finds, in this case sufficient evidence as is required to establish that such sale was not unequivocal and beyond suspicion,—the burden of proof being upon the plaintiff to show this. The drift of the other evidence was to the effect that the wife had no separate estate of her own, and this property had been treated and used as all the other property of her husband on the farm.

The associate judges at the time of the argument upon appeal, and now concurring in the judgment of Chief Justice Hazen, were Chief Justice McKeown of King's Bench Division and Mr. Justice White.

This was the ninth judgment delivered by the court at the June sittings, which are now adjourned sine die.

Distribution of $287,500 Additional Annual Revenue From Telephones Considered

The Public Utilities Commission Today Considering the Distribution of the Additional Monies Received to the Various Services of the Company

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

St. John, N. B., June 11.—Before the Public Utilities Commission today, S. H. Mildram, expert engaged by the commission on the New Brunswick Telephone Company's application for rate increases, submitted system of measured service for the business subscribers in the St. John exchange and a schedule of increased net revenue of $287,500.

The new rates would give a revenue of $1,054,500 approximately, as compared with $767,000 received last year, excluding St. John, the present average rate is $17.39 per station and the proposed rates would make the average $23.73. Including St. John, the present average is $20.07, and the proposed average $28.50, making the average increase about 41.9 per cent.

He also suggested increases in charges for long distance and shortening of hours for night rates in that department, also to charging 'phones of doctors and boarding houses on business rate. The matter is still before the commission.

Estimated Depreciation.

In connection with the statement of an amount of $104,000 which had not been included in the amount showed for depreciation, Mr. Mildram said that in allowing for depreciation Mr. Hayes allowed for depreciation on land outside of St. John, but did not include the plant in St. John. Leaving out depreciation on land value, he had arrived at a corrected plant value based on the Hayes inquiry. The plans value arrived at by Mr. Mildram in his recent investigation was $1,266,252, while the company's book values were placed at $1,370,436, or $104,090 more.

If the company is to be allowed additional plant value, Mr. Mildram said he would place the amount at $35,891, based on the difference between $1,230,361, the Hayes depreciated value, and $1,266,252, the Mildram depreciated value.

In reply to Dr. Baxter, Mr. Mildram said that Dr. Hayes' plant valuation was placed at $1,613,628, without depreciation. Adding additional plant, costing $10,968, during the three months up to March 31, 1911, would make undepreciated plant value at that time $1,624,596. He said his figures represented total depreciated values, but that depreciation should be figured on the original cost.

Hard to Get at Original Cost.

M. G. Teed, speaking of original cost, said it was very hard to get at the figures, as a comany in its infancy is liable not to keep a very accurate account. He favored changing the rate rather than the base figures.

Dr. Baxter said that before 1910 a company could charge any rates which they saw fit, and if the public had any complaint the only recourse was to discontinue using the service. Any amount above the usual return might be invested in additional plant if the company so desired. Since 1910, however, the charges have been controlled by the Public Utilities Commission, which also safeguarded the stock holder by authorizing a certain return on his money. He said that the fundamental error in this case was the amount given to Mr. Mildram on which to figure the depreciation was in itself a depreciated value. The depreciation, he said, should be figured on the book value at the tmie of the Hayes inquiry, i. e., $1,406,000

Dr. Baxter suggested that the Commission should not fix a definite amount on which to base depreciation, but rather to name an amount which would be reasonable to set aside for this purpose.

ONTARIO TO PAY $17 FOR ITS COAL

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Toronto, June 11.—Seventeen dollars a ton is the high water mark which Fuel Controller Harrington predicts for coal in Ontario next winter.

Freight rates, he said today, would probably bring the price of coal up to a dollar a ton, but he thought seventeen dollars would be the top price. He did not think coal would go to twenty dollars, as had been stated in some quarters.

Mrs. George Camp left last evening for Calgary, Alberta, where she will spend the summer.

Charlottetown Fair Dates Are Adjusted so as to Avoid Conflict With Fredericton

P. E. Island Fair Will Now Follow the Week After Fredericton's Fall Maritime and Maine Circuit Races—$6,000 in $500 Purses at Charlottetown

The most important move that has yet been made by the new management of the Fredericton Park Association has been brought to a successful conclusion, according to word received here yesterday.

This announcement was that the threatened clashing of the Prince Edward Island Exhibition at Charlottetown this fall with the Fredericton Park Association's Maritime and Maine Circuit autumn meeting on September 21st, 22nd, 23rd and 24th, has been avoided and Fredericton will have the week entirely open and without opposition in the Maritime Provinces.

Negotiations in connection with the adjustment of the dates have been carried on by the local management through Frank J. Power, of Halifax, who is to be the starter at the Fredericton Park Association's meetings this season and who has for almost a score of years acted in a similar capacity at the Charlottetown fair, and yesterday word came from Mr. Power to say that he had been advised that the Charlottetown management had set their dates back a week so as to avoid clashing with Fredericton, thus taking their old dates.

Under the new arrangement the Fredericton Park Association's fall meeting should be the biggest racing event of the season—the climax of the Maritime & Maine circuit. It will follow immediately after the Woodstock and St. Stephen Fairs, there will be a programme of about a round dozen events, and special C.N.R. trains will take the racing stables from here to the car ferry to Prince Edward Island, the shipment taking less than 24 hours. The Charlottetown management have decided to have five days' racing from September 28th to October 2nd and will have a programme of twelve events, each worth $500, making a total offering of $6,000, according to a telegram received from C. R. Smallwood, the secretary.

Following the Charlottetown racing there will be a meeting at Moncton on the return to the mainland, after which some one of the Maritime and Maine Circuit tracks will probably put on an "overcoat" meeting on the lines of the successful affair given by the Woodstock Driving Club last October to wind up the season.—J. MARYSVILLE TEAM ARE HELD TO TIE

Y. M. C. A. Played York County League Leaders—The Old Timers Defeat Imperials

In the York County Baseball League the Marysville team's string of victories was bent but not broken, the Y. M. C. A. team with "Tot" Wheeler in the box holding the league leaders to a 3 to 3 tied score on their home grounds.

A good many local fans motored to Marysville to see the game, which turned out to be the best contest the league has so far produced. Marysville won from the Y. M. C. A. at the Trotting Park earlier in the season by a score of 2 to 1 in what had been the best game played up to last evening.

The Old Timers, with a number of changes in their line up, won from the Imperials at the Trotting Park last evening. It was a free hitting contest but much better played than the game of the previous evening.

THE BEST GAME YET

Anderson Came to the Rescue for Marysville After Miller Had Been Driven from the Mound.

(Special despatch to the Daily Gleaner.)

Marysville, N. B., June 11.—The game between the Y. M. C. A. team and the local nine last night was by far the best exhibition of ball seen here yet. The visitors started in with a rush, hammering Miller for three runs in the first inning. Anderson then replaced Miller on the mound, and after that the Y. M. C. A. team failed to again cross the home plate.

It was a good exhibition throughout, and each team had a strong following of fans, who cheered lustily for their favorites.

At the end of the sixth inning the game was called on account of darkness with the score 3 to 3. The following is the box score:

OLD TIMERS WON

At the Trotting Park last evening the Old Timers defeated the Imperials in a six inning contest by a score of 5 to 1. The game was not won by steady hitting, as neither side succeeded in getting more than five hits.

Fred McLean and Kenny for the City team succeeded in getting the only hits for extra bases, the former getting a drive for two bases into centre field while McLean poled out a three base hit into right field.

Clark on the mound for the Imperials had five strikeouts and allowed one base on balls but he allowed five clean hits all of which figured in the scoring. Billy Kenny, for the Old Timers, secured two strikeouts, allowed one base on balls and had three put outs and five assists to his credit, fielding his position well.

BASEBALL LEAGUE HOLDS A MEETING

Arrangements Regarding the Trotting Park Diamond and Postponed Games

A meeting of the York County Baseball League was held last evening at the Y.M.C.A. to consider matters of importance arising since the last meeting of the league.

J. D. Black, secretary of the Fredericton Trotting Park Association, appeared before the meeting, stating that the Association had leased the centre field of the Trotting Park on a day in July to a circus which would show in this city and that the Park Association would co-operate with the League in any effort made to protect their baseball ground from being cut up by the heavy teams which would naturally be with the circus. He advised the League to have the infield of the baseball diamond roped off in order to keep the teams off and stated the League ought to appoint a certain number of representatives to see that the circus people were kept from dragging their heavy teams over the diamond when moving off at night.

After Mr. Black retired a motion was passed calling upon the Executive to appoint two men from each team to be sworn in as special constables on the day of the circus in order to protect the baseball grounds.

The representatives present were unanimous in their decision that the money received from the games of the city teams should be pooled in order to help run the clubs together. One representative of each Fredericton team will be named as a member of the Finance Committee and Secretary Cochrane will act as secretary of the committee.

Trafford Donovan and Eddie Edney were named as a special committee to arrange for a tag day for the benefit of the Fredericton teams in the league, and this will be brought on by the committee in the very near future.

The question of what games would be played on July 1st was discussed by Mr. Black in addressing the meeting, and following out his suggestion that a game to attract the public ought to be played in the afternoon, the secretary of the league was directed to get in touch with outside teams and arrange for one of them to play in this city on the afternoon of the 1st of July against a combined picked team of the three Fredericton teams. The Alerts, G.W.V.A. and St. Peter's teams of St. John were mentioned as teams to be secured.

The question of postponed games was considered and it was decided that they should be played on a date set by the managers and captains of the opposing teams, the postponed games to be played in the order scheduled.

BAR SILVER DOLLARS

New York, June 10.—Bar silver experienced another violent decline abroad and in the local market yesterday.

The London quotation added 2¾ pence to yesterday's break of slightly more than six pence and brought the price down to 45⅝ pence per ounce. This is just a fraction more than one-half the high record price for the metal last February.

Dealers in silver bullion continued to attribute the decline to the demoralized conditions prevailing in East India and China and also to further heavy selling of melted coin by German and other continental European centres.

UNION OF CATHOLICS WITH PROTESTANTS

Methodist Pastor Suggests the Possibility at Toronto Methodist Conference

Toronto, June 10.—Union of the Roman Catholic and the Protestant churches was suggested as a possibility at the Toronto Methodist conference yesterday by T. W. Duggan, a lay delegate from Brampton.

Mr. Duggan had other rather radical suggestions to offer, among them the proposition that Sunday night at church should be made as attractive for the masses as a week night at the movies.

Rev. Dr. S. G. Bland's declaration that Protestantism was passing, made in his book, The New Christianity, was one thing that stirred Mr. Duggan to score "the pessimistic prophets."

IN DAYS OF TERROR

Maurice did not even read this letter, written, as we have said, under the impression of the first idea that presented itself. He did not doubt the effect it would produce. Dixmer, an excellent patriot, as Maurice imagined from his conversation at least, would be much grieved at receiving it, his wife and Monsieur Morand would no doubt influence him not to reply, and forgetfulness would gradually spread itself like a dark veil over the past, laughing at the melancholy transformation. Maurice signed and sealed his letter, gave it the official, and the commissionaire departed. Then a slight sigh escaped the Republican; he took his hat and gloves and proceeded to the Section. He hoped, poor Brutus, to recover his stoicism, by occupying himself with public affairs. These were indeed terrible; the 31st of May was preparing. The tereur which, like a torrent, recipitated itself from the height of la Montagne, endeavored to carry away this dike, opposed to it by the Girondins, those audacious Moderes who had dared to demand vengeance for the massacres of September, and to wrestle for an instant to save the life of the King.

Whilst Maurice pursued his way with a rapidity that drove the fever from his heart to his head, the messenger had re-entered the old Rue St. Jacques, filling the dwelling there with terror and astonishment. The letter, after passing through Genevieve's hands, was given by her to Dixmer. Dixmer opened and read it, without at first understanding it; he then communicated the contents to the citizen Morand, who supported his head upon his hand. His face was pale as death. In the situation in which Dixmer, Morand, and their companions found themselves (a situation totally unknown to Maurice, but which our readers have penetrated) this letter was like a thunderbolt.

"Is this an upright, honest man?" asked Dixmer, much grieved.

"Yes," replied Morand, without the least hesitation.

"Never mind," said the advocate for extreme measures, "you see we were very wrong not to kill him."

"My friend," said Louis, "we struggle against violence, we brand it with the same crime. We have acted rightly, whatever may be the result, but not assassinating this man. I again repeat I believe Maurice to possess a noble, generous spirit."

"Yes; but if so noble and generous a spirit belongs to the warm republican, perhaps he may regard it in the light of a crime, if he has made any discovery, not to immolate his own honor, as they say, 'on the altar of the country.'"

"But," said Morand, "do you think he knows anything?"

"Do you not hear? he speaks of secrets buried in his own heart.

"Those secrets are evidently those confided to him by me relative to our contraband transactions. He knows no others."

"But this interview at Auteuil? does he suspect anything?you know he accompanied your wife?"

"Listen," said Morand, "we shall soon see if these surmises be true. The turn of our battalion to guard the Temple arrives on the 2nd of June, that is to say, in eight days. You are captain, Dixmer, and I lieutenant; if our battalion or even our company receives a counter-order, like that received the other day by the battalion of la Patles-des-Moulins, which Santerre has replaced by that of Gravilliers, all is discovered, and we have only to flee from Paris, or die fighting. But if all follows in the usual course of things—"

"We are lost all the same," replied Dixmer.

"How so?"

"Pardieu! does not all revolve upon the co-operation of this young municipal Was it not he, who without knowing it, must open the road for us to the Queen?"

"That is true!" said Morand, confounded.

"You see, then," said Dixmer, knitting his brows, "that, at any price, we must renew our intimacy with this young man."

"But, if he refuse, if he fear to compromise himself?"

"Listen!" said Dixmer, 'I will question Genevieve; she saw him last, perhaps she may know something more."

'Dixmer," said Morand, "it is with pain I see you mixing Genevieve with all our plots, not that I fear any indiscretion on her part. Oh! great God! the drama we are acting is a dreadful one, and I blush and tremble at the same time to place the head of a woman at stake, as well as our own."

"The head of a woman," said Dixmer, "ponders as gravely as that of a man, when stratagem is required, and often achieves more by candour and beauty than by force, strength, power or courage. Genevieve shares in our convictions and our sympathies. Genevieve shall also share our fate."

"Well, my friend," said Morand, "I have said all I ought to say. Genevieve is in every way worthy of the mission you have given her, or rather that she has taken upon herself. It is martyrs who become saints."

And he held out his delicate and effeminate hand to Dixmer, who roughly pressed it between his own. Then Dixmer, recommending Morand and his companions to watch with increased vigilance, quitted them, and entered Genevieve's apartments. She was seated before a table, bending over a piece of embroidery. She turned round at the noise of the opening door, and recognized Dixmer.

"Ah! it is you, mon ami?" said she.

"Yes," said Dixmer, with a placid, smiling countenance. "I have received a letter from your friend Maurice, which I cannot understand in the least. Read it and then tell me what you think of it."

Genevieve took the letter with a hand, of which (with her self command) she could not disguise the tremor and read. Dixmer followed her eyes as they ran over every line.

"Well?" said he, when she had finished.

"Well! I think that Monsieur Maurice Lindey is an honest man, and from him we have nothing to fear," replied Genevieve, with the greatest calmness.

"You think he is ignorant who the persons are you visited at Auteuil?"

"I am certain."

"Why then this sudden determination? Did he appear yesterday less friendly and more silent than usual?"

"No," said Genevieve; "I believe he was just the same."

"Consider well before you answer me, Genevieve, for you must understand your reply will greatly influence our future projects."

"Listen, then," said she, with an emotion that overthrew all her attempt at calmness. "Wait—"

"Well!" said Dixmer, all the muscles of his face slightly contracting; "collect your thoughts, Genevieve."

"Yes!" said the young woman, "yes I remember, yesterday he was not particularly civil Monsieur Maurice," continued she, is a itte tyrannical in his friendship, and," hesitatingly added, "sometimes we have quarrelled for a whole week."

"Most probably."

"Genevieve, understand this, in our position it is not probability that will suffice, it is certitude we require."

"Ah, well, mon ami, I am certain."

"This letter, then, would be only a pretext for not visiting us again?"

"Mon ami, as you wish it, I will tell you."

"Speak, Genevieve, speak; of any other woman I would not ask it."

"It is a pretext," said Genevieve, looking down.

Fine Silverware
worthy to grace your table

GLISTENING beneath the mellow touch of stately candles, catching the ruddy lights of rich mahogany, sparkling over the lacy patterns spread by snowy tea sets, fine silverware gives charm to hospitality—it helps you entertain; it helps to make a home; it fascinates and charms through all the years.

HOLMES & EDWARDS Super-Plate and Silver-Inlaid represent the highest achievements of the modern silversmith's craft.

Wear cannot mar its wonderful lustre and finish.

In "SILVER-INLAID," blocks of solid silver are actually laid in with cunning care at rest-points before plating.

These two processes of wear-protection are applied only in the five staple pieces, but throughout the line, Holmes & Edwards offers you an exceptional quality of plate.

Silverware is a lifetime investment. It is true economy to pay a little more to secure the highest quality. See your jeweller's display of HOLMES & EDWARDS in these two exclusive, exquisite patterns.

READY FOR LETTER CARRIERS' STRIKE

Government to Consider Strike as Resignations

Hon. Mr. Rowell Throws Gage of Battle to Civil Servants

SAYS CARRIERS ARE WELL PAID

Allowances for Clothing, Etc., Added to Their Salaries.

Ottawa, June 12.—Hon. N. W. Rowell, speaking for the government and announcing it as a matter of settled government policy, has thrown down the gage to the postal employees to go on with their strike.

After detailing the wages and perquisites received in the way of clothing and holidays in Parliament yesterday afternoon, he said "the letter carriers are paid more than any other class doing such work in this country, and if, in the face of the fact, they go on strike, this will be treated as their resignation and they will not be reappointed."

The matter arose over a question asked by a member for Toronto as to whether the government had received any communication regarding a strike of the letter carriers in Toronto and elsewhere.

The Minister's Reply.

The Minister made a lengthy and carefully considered reply, in which he enumerated the alleged grounds of complaints. Their first complaint was with regard to the bill now before the House, and here the Minister professed his inability to understand what the ground of complaint could be, as it was all in the interest of the employees and was going to recast the classification. Any changes in this respect had been at the instance of the employees and approved by their representatives. The third complaint was with regard to pay, and the Minister went into the different schedules of old and new very fully, which served to show that the postal employees had had their position very much improved. Under the old classification the range of salaries range from $626 per year to $939, plus allowances in respect to clothing and transportation. The new classification is from $780 to $1,260, plus bonus and allowances. Under the new classification any man who was at the maximum April 1st, 1919, will this year get, if head of a household, in salary and bonus, $1,560, plus allowances; and, if a single man, $1,322. If he was in receipt of the maximum under the old classification for five years his total pay will be, if head of a household, $1,656; single man, $1,422.

Allowances to Carriers.

In the statement which the Minister laid on the table he headed the above particulars "Maximum of Class." There was another division headed "Minimum of Class," of which the particulars are as follows: Any man who was at the minimum of his classification of April 1st, 1919, will this year get, if the head of a household, $1,320; or, if a single man, $1,152. The allowance for clothing, boots and transportation is a considerable item. He receives a new suit of clothing every summer. He gets a winter suit every second year and also a new overcoat, hats, caps and so forth, together with street car transportation to and from work, and while at work.

After enumerating the above benefits, the Minister wound up with the above declaration of policy, delivered in a very emphatic manner and to the applause of the House.

To Fill Places of Letter Carriers if They Strike

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

TORONTO, June 12—Hon. N. W. Rowell's announcement in the House of Commons yesterday that if the Toronto letter carriers go on strike they will be considered as having left the service, and their places will be filled, is said to have aroused the ire of practically all the post office employees in this city and made a strike next week almost inevitable.

Hon. Mr. Rowell's ultimatum is regarded here as virtually an invitation to the letter carriers to strike, and it is feared that they will take up the gauntlet thus thrown down.

An Analysis of the First Four Ballots

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Chicago, June 12.—After four ineffectual ballots on the nomination of a candidate for President of the United States, the Republican National Convention adjourned last evening until 10 o'clock this morning.

General Leonard Wood led all the contestants, receiving 314½ votes on the fourth ballot, a gain of 27 over the initial ballot, which gives him 287.

Governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, had 289 votes on the fourth ballot, a gain of 77½ over the first.

Senator Johnson made a gain of seven, and stood at 140½ votes on the final tally.

Senator W. G. Harding, of Ohio, made a poor showing, having fewer votes on the fourth ballot than on the first. He started off with 65½ votes and ended with 51½ on the fourth.

Governor Coolidge, of Massachusetts received 34 votes on the first ballot, 32 on the second, 27 on the third and 25 on the fourth ballot. Various others got smaller votes.

The four ballots showed that in this intense contest for the prize that the convention has to bestow it is Wood against the field.

AFFRONT TO U. S. WORKING PEOPLE

Labor Leaders Greatly Displeased Over Labor Plank in Republican Platform

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Montreal, June 12.—The Republican convention has "turned its back upon labor," and has adopted a platform "defiant in its defense of the enemies of labor and calculated to secure for them fresh advantages and greater privileges," President Samuel Gompers and Vice President Matthew Woll, of the American Federation of Labor, declared here today in a statement presented at the annual convention of the Federation.

The labor declaration of the platform, as adopted by the Republican party, they assert, "proposes an industrial enslavement and an abrogation of rights as precious as life itself."

The Republican platform practically ignores the profiteer, the statement adds, and while recognizing the evils of currency inflation, offers no remedy for that condition. Specific proposals submitted by labor for relief from the high cost of living and profiteering are given no place in the platform.

Vice President Woll, in a statement issued last night, denounced the Republican platform adopted in Chicago as "an outrage and affront to working people" and "a document with which Wall Street and the steel trust ought to highly pleased." Mr. Woll added that the platform provides for compulsory labor in all government and semi-government services, is silent on the injunction issue and gives "what I take to be a pledge that the United States will police Mexico for the benefit of organized oil, mineral and mining appetites."

Appeal for Independence.

Montreal, June 12.—A strong stimulus to the American Federation of Labor to pass a resolution in favor of Irish independence, was provided by Frank P. Walsh, D. C. L., of this city, who addressed a largely attended meeting in the Windsor Hotel here last night on "Ireland of today."

Mr. Walsh claimed that the passing of such a resolution would save more innocent lives in Ireland than the Red Cross Society had saved in any sector of the battlefields, and his suggestion was received with loud and prolonged applause, there being obviously many delegates present at the address.

Alderman Dixon, representing Mayor Martin, was present and said he had been authorized by the Mayor to say that the French Canadian people were heartily in sympathy with the people of Ireland in their struggle.

Richardson-Ware.

Bangor, June 11.—In St. John's church on Wednesday William P. Richardson, formerly of Bathurst, N. B., and Miss Catherine E. Ware, eldest daughter of the late Charles Ware and Mrs. Wm. Mullins of Brewer, were united in marriage. The bride wore white georgette crepe with hat to match and was attended by her sister, Miss Laura Ware, also gowned in white georgette crepe, as bridesmaid. Don Mullins was best man. After the ceremony the couple motored to the home of Mr. Richardson's parents at Still water avenue, where a reception was held at night, and a large party gathered.

The groom has made many friends in this vicinity since his arrival here about a year ago, and many pretty and useful presents testify to the young couple's popularity. They will make their home in Worcester, Mass., and a host of friends join in wishing them a long and prosperous wedded life.

John Muller, a farmer at Greenlawn, L. I., sued a moving picture company for $2,000 for trespass, because to make a moving picture, "All for France," the company invaded his property with 1,000 men, horses, machine guns, cannon and a lot of peasantry, and a big airplane scared Muller's horses so that they refused to work. Also, the airplane alighted in the middle of 27 acres of young corn and in trying to fly again gouged the whole length of the field two or three times lengthwise and two or three times crosswise, while the moving picture army trampled Mr. Muller's cabbages. The jury gave him $300 damages.

GRAND DISPLAY CHILDREN'S WORK

The closing exercises of the Manual training, industrial art and household science classes of the city schools was held yesterday afternoon in the York street school, from 3 to 5 o'clock, and there was a constant stream of visitors during the time.

As one entered the main hall they could not help but be impressed with the wonderful showing of the pupils in industrial arts. Beautiful colors blended in harmony and the designs were beautiful and unique, and reflected great credit on the teacher, Miss McFarlane, and the pupils of Grades IV. and V. of the York street, Smythe street, Regent street and Charlotte street schools.

On one table were displayed needle books, story books, cardboard boxes, wash cloths, handkerchiefs, drawings, jackknife carvings and many other articles, all designed by the pupils with the idea of bringing out the artistic side, and they certainly succeeded.

Another table displayed bedroom slippers, fancy raffia bags with pretty silk tops, knitted sweaters, doll's sweaters, fancy caps, embroidered cushion tops, cut-out work, blotters in all the different colors, and dressed dolls, and here again the work and artistic coloring were designed by the pupils.

In the manual training department R. J. Murray, the teacher, had an exhibition of work done by the boys that would have done credit to older hands. Among the many articles shown, all of which were designed by the boys of Grades VI., VII. and VIII., were hat trees, clothes dryers, camp stools, fancy tables, desk cases, mechanical toys, bookracks, ironing boards, chicken feeders, tabourettes, single hand sleds, double-runners, screens, clothes horses, waste paper baskets, shoe shine box, bookcases, medicine cabinets, different lines of carving, desk sets, trays, electric light stand all equipped, desk with clock, chairs, bird houses and bow guns. The boys pay for all the material and thus keep down the expense.

In the Domestic Science Department, conducted by Miss Gillis, the display of cakes, breads, biscuits, cookies, canned corn, tomatoes, beets, middy blouses, skirts, nightdresses, combination suits, aprons, caps, towels, holders, was a most remarkable one and there was a ready sale for the cookery, the proceeds of which are to go towards buying extra furnishings for the dining room.

Grade VIII. had a display of middy blouses and skirts that brought forth much favorable comment on the workmanship and skill shown. The nightdresses and combination suits shown by Grade VII. would delight the heart of the most fastidious lady, while the aprons, caps, towels, holders and nightdresses shown by Grade VI. were much admired.

In the dining room the visitors had a chance to sample the cooking done by the girls, as Miss Betty Hawkins, Miss Marion Edney, Miss Kathleen Deedes, Miss Daisy Pickard, Miss Beatrice Brooks and Miss Katherine Cox served punch and cakes. The dining room presented a pretty appearance with its polished tables and dainty linen with yellow roses for a centrepiece.

12 FEET OF SNOW ON B. C. HILLS YET

Nelson, B. C., June 11.—That there is as much snow in the hills as there was in February, if not more, owing to the almost constant rains of the month of May, is the statement of prospectors and timber cruisers.

Considering the date, and that the cold weather has held back the snow from melting, flood conditions are beginning to be anticipated by some of the old-timers when the snow does begin to let down its moisture.

On Toad Mountain, in the vicinity of Silver King, there was 12 feet of snow some days ago.

CONFERENCE OF METHODIST BODY

Ministerial Session of N. B. and P. E. I. Conference Held at Sackville

Sackville, June 11.—The Ministerial Session of the Annual Conference was opened Wednesday night, the President, Rev. H. E. Thomas, in the chair. Prayer was offered by Revs. W. J. Kirby and G. F. Dawson.

It was reported that the following transfers had been made: Rev. H. B. Clark and W. M. Ryan, B. A., from the Nova Scotia Conference. A. Clare Motyer and J. E. Whitham out of the Conference, the former into the London Conference and the latter into the Hamilton Conference. Supperannuates Revs. W. G. Lane and J. S. Allen were transferred, the former into the N. S. Conference and the latter into the B. C. Conference.

Leave of absence was given in the case of Rev. F. T. Bertram, of Newcastle, Rev. George Morris, of St. John, and Rev. C. Stebbings, of Harcourt. Rev. H. D. Marr was given permission to travel for the Bible Society. The cases of Rev. F. E. Bothroyd and J. E. Howe were laid over for the present. A committee on Superannuated Ministers was nominated by the chair as follows: Rev. F. A. Wightman, G. A. Ross, George Steele, D. D., A. D. McCully, C. K. Hudson, G. W. F. Glendenning, H. C. Rice.

To this committee the following were submitted—St. John District—Rev. T. J. Dienstadt, J. C. Berrie, R. S. Crisp, W. B. Thomas, Henry Penna.

Fredericton District—John J. Colter.

Chatham District—Thomas Pierce.

St. Stephen District—J. S. Allen.

Summerside District — W. A. Thompson, W. E. Johnson.

The question of the moral character of the members was then reviewed and each district answered satisfactorily.

It was reported that Rev. J. E. Whitham had been ordained during the year at the direction of the Conference.

The cases of probationers were then dealt with and the following were reported as having passed satisfactory examinations and were recommended to be continued at College—Charles Wesley Kierstead, Hewlett C. Upton, Bruce Eldrige Carew, Mason Sheffield Linton, Earl Edward Fytche, George A. D. Elliot.

During the session a discussion took place upon the new policy in regard to the issue of half fare permits to ministers and it was felt that as at present carried out the system was very unfair, permits in many cases being withheld where the claim was just as great. The matter will probably be reopened at a later session.

At the morning session only routine business was done, after which Mr. G. E. Knight addressed the Conference on the Brotherhood Movement, showing its wonderful growth since its introduction into Canada.

The maximum speed justifiable under the regulations is 12 miles an hour and all cars must slow down to six miles on approaching the highway bridge or on turning a corner. All drivers on making a turn must indicate the direction which they will take and must in all cases turn to the left of the centre of the street. In stopping suddenly a signal must be given so that cars or teams behind will not be in any danger of colliding. In taking on or putting off passengers cars must be stopped on the left hand side of the road in the direction in which they are travelling.

Another matter which is being commonly reported is the fact that cars in the evening hardly ever dim their lights in the city. This is a matter of discretion and is usually left to the driver of the car to judge when he requires bright lights and when the lights should be dimmed. One of the regulations misunderstanding of which is the cause of too frequent accidents is that governing the right of way. This regulation, which requires that motor vehicles or teams being driven on the streets running north and south have the right of way over those driving on the streets running east and west, is not clearly understood by all motorists and as a result numerous accidents have occurred.

Youths under eighteen years of age who have been warned against driving cars are being watched closely and will be severely fined if caught again for the same offense.

PALESTINE HAS NO POSTAGE STAMP

London, June 9.—Palestine is now the only nation which has no postage stamp of its own. But representatives of the Zionist government here have informed London philatelists that this anomaly promises soon to be rectified, for with the establishment of Palestine as the national home of the Jewish nation, it is believed little time will be lost in emulating the examples of other small nations called into being by mandates of the Peace Conference by the issuance of distinctive stamps.

Pending the preparation of definite designs, stamps sold by British Army postoffices in adjacent former enemy territory are being utilized by overprinting with the word "Palestine."

Sir Lomer Gouin to Resign As Premier of Quebec Next Week, is the Report Today

Rumor That Sir Lomer is to Engage in the Work of Bringing All Pulp and Paper Companies in Eastern Canada Into a Huge Merger at an Early Date

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Quebec, June 12.—It it understood that the cabinet ministers will sit every day next week, and that important events are forecasted. It is also understood that Sir Lomer Gouin is resigning in the course of next week.

Sir Lomer Gouin recently took a trip to England and while there he made a speech describing the illimitable forest wealth of this province. On his return to this country rumors began to get into circulation that he was to retire from the Premiership of Quebec, to engage in the work of merging all the paper and pulp companies in eastern Canada, with a capitalization promoted by Canadian and British financiers up in the hundreds of millions.

No definite information has been obtainable in reference to the merger and Sir Lomer, when asked about his rumored resignation, referred to the story as a "revival of an old yarn."

Liberal Leader Addresses Women.

Hamilton, Ont., June 12.—Hon. Mackenzie King was the chief speaker at a banquet here last night which concluded the fifth annual meeting of the Ontario Woman's Liberal Association. Hon. Mr. King spoke of "a certain temporary lessening of the power of Liberalism" as being one of the evidences of wreckage caused by the war. He declared that the Union Government should not try to hold on to power till the last possible moment. "Several Liberals have withdrawn," he said, "but some professed Liberals are willing to stay with a government which is prepared to usurp power for some years to come, and which wholly ignores the wishes of the people."

Referring to the recent budget, Hon. Mr. King said it placed the tax on the wrong shoulders. The tax should have been placed on war time wealth, he declared.

A resolution was passed favoring instruction in the schools in both English and French, and the establishment of exchange courses between English and French Canadian universities and secondary schools.

The association decided to offer a scholarship in the University of Toronto for conversational French, the award to be made only to an English-speaking Canadian student, and the scholarship to perpetuate the memory of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

A resolution was passed calling upon the Liberal women to refrain from buying luxuries, made either in Canada or the United States.

BRITISH LABOR ON SOVIET RUSSIA

Delegates Who Visited Russia Are in Favor of Recognition of the Bolshevik

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

London, June 12.—The first report of the British labor delegates, who have just returned from an investigation of conditions in soviet Russia was made public last evening. The delegates declared themselves deeply impressed with the distress and disorganization which they found in Russia, the dejection of the people and the extent of the government's interference with individual liberty. The report is said to be unanimous.

The report describes the blockade as injurious to the world and disastrous to Russia and makes reference to the epidemic of diseases to which the absence of soap and medical supplies has given full sway, although great efforts have been made toward sanitation.

Denouncing the Polish war, the report says:

"The appeal for creative work is being once more set aside in favor of an appeal to military enthusiasts, while the war conditions provide new pretexts for restricting individual liberty and preventing freedom from discussion."

The report says war rallies all parties to the defence of the country; it emphasizes the breakdown in manufactures through lack of raw material and advocates the immediate recognition of Russia.

The report was brought to England by Benjamin Turner and Tom Shaw, members of the British labor delegation, which visited Russia for presentation to the Labor Congress at Scarborough. They brought also a letter from Nikolai Lenine, the Bolshevik Premier, exhorting the workers to revolution in England, which has created a sensation.

Lenine criticizes the surprise expressed by the delegation at the "Red Terror," the suppression of freedom of the press and free assembly, and declares that the "Red Terror" is the defence of the workingmen against exploiters, and that freedom of the press and assembly in a bourgeoisie-democracy means freedom to plot against the workingmen.

In turn, Lenine expresses surprise that the viewpoint of part of the delegation coincides with the bourgeoisie.

MAJOR TURNER'S NEW POSITION

Becomes O. C. of Fortress Co. of Royal Canadian Engineers at Toronto

RESPONSIBLE FOR CARRANZA'S DEATH

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Mexico City June 12. — Generals Murguia, Urquizo, Montes and Barragan have been formally detained in connection with the death of former Premier Carranza. This action was taken by the Third Federal District Court last night.

A committee of two military experts reported to the court that Generals Murguia, Urquizo, Barragan and Mariel were chiefly responsible for the death of Carranza because, among other reasons, "they did not die at his side as they should have done."

General Mariel was not, however, held by the court in connection with the assassination of the former President, but with the other accused men, is charged with the taking away of national funds at the time of Carranza's flight from the city.

ONE—ADD republicans .. ..

The plan of originators of the new Harding boom was contingent upon failure of early votes today to result in nomination of Wood, Lowden or Johnson.

Participants in the various conferences and floor managers for Wood, Lowden and Johnson agreed that first ballots today would show increased strength for the leading candidates. The managers for the "big three" in no way relaxed their energy or lost confidence in success. Backers of the Harding compromise contended that no nomination would be reached as the situation now stands. They put forth their plan to meet this condition and, believing that delegates would not remain over until Monday, necessitating taking action today.

The Harding boomers expected on early ballots to rejuvenate support in addition to the 61½ votes he polled on the last roll call yesterday, to pave the way for a drive for his nomination later.

Originators of the Harding compromise plan were known to be seeking support of the California senator's adherents if it became clear that Johnson could not be nominated. To insure strong reinforcements from that direction, some leaders urged during the night conferences that a ticket of Harding for President and Johnson for Vice-President be put forward.

There was nothing to indicate that Johnson would consent.

General Wood was informed of the new move. He brought his managers together during the night and they determined to stick by their guns.

Conferences between leaders of all factions looking to a nomination today began at many hotels and clubs immediately after adjournment yesterday.

They were still going when the sun brightened Lake Michigan.

No Agreement Reached

Chicago, June 12—Leaders participating in the all-night conference said at two o'clock this morning, on coming out of them, that it had not been possible to come to any agreement and that the convention would resume in the morning at the point where it left off at the end of the fourth ballot.

The leaders were in accord that Wood and Lowden must further try out their strength before efforts to concentrate on a dark horse could be successful.

The main difficulty has been the refusal of minor candidates to sacrifice their opportunities until they can receive reasonable assurances that their votes will furnish the necessary majority to some candidate who can win.

Under these circumstances no one of them is willing to retire, for each feels that the pledge to him may supply the nucleus for success if the deadlock between those now leading becomes an established fact. Chief among these are Harding, Sproul and Coolidge.

NEW TEACHER FOR FRENCH DEPARTMENT

Theodule Lejeune, Now at Caraquet, to Join Staff of Normal School

Announcement was made this morning by Dr. W. S. Carter, chief superintendent of Education, that Theodule Lejeune, now teaching at Caraquet, has been appointed to succeed Prof. Belliveau as instructor in the French Department at the Provincial Normal School.

The Chief Superintendent was authorized by the Board of Education to make an appointment when Calixte Savoie, now teaching at the Sussex Grammar School, declined to accept the position after having been appointed by the Board. It is understood Mr. Savoie is likely to become principal of the Sussex High School.

Mr. Lejeune holds a grammar school license, has had a successful career as a teacher and, the Chief Superintendent said, he is believed to be well fitted for the position.

TO TEST STRENGTH OF ONE BIG UNION

Committee on Resolutions to Present Report Early Next Week, It Is Said

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Montreal, June 12.—The strength of the followers, agitators and advocates for the "One Big Union" idea among the delegates of the American Federation of Labor will be tested in the early days of next week, when the committee on resolutions presents its report on the resolution handed in by Delegate James A. Duncan, of the Seattle Central Labor Union.

This resolution praises the workers of Russia for "the noble defensive fight they waged against tremendous odds for the right to work out their own salvation without outside interference," says it is conceded that the Russian Soviet government cannot be crushed by force, and that the world cannot have the peace that humanity demands as long as war continues in Russia.

A congressional investigation into alleged "unspeakable outrages" inflicted upon the mine workers by the "coal interests" in West Virginia, is demanded in a resolution unanimously adopted.

POLES CAPTURED AN ARMORED TRAIN

Train Manned by Germans and Had Machine Guns on Board

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Warsaw, June 12.—Another Bolshevik armored train, officered and manned by Germans, with German machine guns, has been captured by the Poles near the Kiev bridgehead. Its capture is attributed to the performance of Capt. Edward J. Corsi, of Brooklyn, N. Y., a member of the Kosclusko Aero Squadron, who, they say, flew behind the train and cut the track by means of bombs. Polish infantrymen later captured the crew.

Allocation of the Increased N. B. Telephone Co. Charges Discussed Before Commission

The Charges on Municipal Telephones in Various Towns of the Province Considered—Suggestion of Classification for Rural Lines According to Location

[Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.]

St. John, N. B., June 12.—Hearing of the New Brunswick Telephone Co. application for increased rates was continued this morning. The chairman asked about the charges on municipal telephones in the various towns in the province.

M. G. Teed said he saw no reason why the municipalities should not pay as much as the business people of the town.

H. P. Robinson said that in the case of the city of St. John the low rate was partly due to the fact that fire alarm poles were used.

Mr. Mildram, the commission's expert, said that the charges on rural lines were not uniform, due to the rapid growth of these lines. He suggested a classification graded according to the group in which they were located.

The Municipal Phones.

Dr. J. B. M. Baxter said if the matter of municipal phones was taken into consideration, he would have to withdraw from the hearing, as being city solicitor for St. John he would not very well represent the Telephone Company.

It was decided that the commission should take this matter up themselves.

Mr. Mildram suggested that the Board fix the amount of guarantees on toll stations. At present they vary from $30 to $45, the owner of the house in which the station is located getting 10 per cent. commission. There are 204 of these stations in the provinces.

The present average charges in each group of exchanges with the proposed average charges are as follows:

	Present	Proposed
Group 1	$17.35	$19.26
Group 1a	16.94	21.27
Group 2	16.18	20.11
Group 3	17.15	23.17
Group 4 (Fredericton) .	18.74	23.17
Group 5 (Moncton) ..	18.49	28.43

Group 1 represents exchanges of less than fifty subscribers; 1a, less than fifty but with special mileage; 2, 50 to 300; 3, 300 to 1,000; 4, 1,000 to 2,500; 5, 2,500 to 5,000; and 6, 5,000 to 12,000 subscribers.

By Classes.

Group 3—
One party business	$26.00 to $29.00
One party residence	27.00 to 30.00
Others, no change.
Group 4—
One party business	$42.00 to $45.00
One party residence	30.00 to 33.00
Two party business	33.00 to 36.00
Two party residence .. .	24.00 to 27.00
Four party residence .. .	21.00 to 24.00
Group 5—
One party business	$48.00 to $54.00
One party residence	33.00 to 36.00
Two party business .. .	39.00 to 45.00
Two party residence	27.00 to 30.00
Four party business	24.00 to 27.00
Farmer business line....	33.00 to 36.00

Group 6 (St. John)—One party business lines and private branch exchanges worked out on a measured rate based on $36 for the first 720 messages yearly; three cents each for the next 1,200 completed calls, and 2½ cents each for all subsequent calls, and the following charges for residences: One party, $36; two party, $36; four party, $30; farmers' business line, $42, and farmers' residence line, $33.

Mr. Mildam said that the apparent abnormal increase in the Moncton rates was based on the fact that the town had grown rapidly and no increase had been made for the extra business during the process of expansion.

Excluding St. John, the present average rate is $17.39 per station and the proposed rates would make the average $23.73. Including St. John the present average is $20.07 and the proposed average $28.50, making the average increase about 4.19 per cnt.

Long Distance.

Besides the general increase in the local 'phones other means suggested to obtain the increased revenue were as follows: Toll rates increased from six-tenths of a cent a mile to seven-tents; night rates to remain fifty per cent. of day rates, but the hours shortened from 6.30 p. m. to 7 a. m., to 8.30 p. m. to 7 a. m., an estimated increase of $56,800.

Inter-company business, estimated increase $19,000.

Short tolls, Rothesay, Westfield, etc., estimated increase $3,000.

Pay stations, estimated increase $4,500.

Charging doctors, boarding houses, etc., on business basis, estimated increase $3,500.

A five cent toll between St. Stephen and Calais, which is now free, estimated revenue $2,000.

Increase in charges for removals and service work estimated revenue $15,000.

A decrease of $2,500 is figured in interest on account of the fact that Victory Bonds have been disposed of to provide additional equipment.

CATERPILLAR PEST INFESTS ALBERT CO.

Hopewell Cape, N. B., June 11.—Albert county is experiencing this week an unwelcome visitation from myriads of caterpillars, or army worms, which are infesting the orchards in such swarms that considerable anxiety is felt for the safety of the trees. The residents of this locality are using all kinds of means to destroy the pests by the use of kerosene and various poisons, used as sprays, but it seems almost impossible to cope with the grubs so great is their number. The Albert train for the last two or three days, it is reported, had considerable difficulty in climbing the grades on the upper section of the line, on account of the swarms of caterpillars on the rails. The train was compelled each day to hold up and the train crew went out and swept the rails with brooms before they could proceed.

THE U. S. REPUBLICANS.

The first four ballots taken at the Republican convention at Chicago to nominate a candidate for the Presidency of the United States failed to effect a choice, and the indications are that there will be a long-drawn-out struggle to obtain the coveted distinction. As was predicted, General Wood was the leader in the preliminary ballots, followed by Governor Lowden and Senator Johnson, but the final choice is quite likely to be a "dark horse."

There has usually been an outstanding issue in the presidential elections in the United States. In 1860 it was the abolition of slavery; four years later, when the schism between North and South had occurred, it was the preservation of the Union; then for a long period a Republican nomination was tantamount to an election without regard to either local or national questions; and it was not until 1884 that disorganization of that party from long tenure of office enabled the Democrats to elect Grover Cleveland. Four years later the policy of tariff protection gave victory again to the Republicans, and from 1896 onward for sixteen years that party elected its presidential candidates mainly on the platform of sound money and fiscal protection. Then came Woodrow Wilson to the White House, fresh from the presidency of Princeton University via the governorship of New Jersey, a striking personality, animated by desire to effect social and political reforms, an idealist, a student, and withal a man of convictions and self-confidence even to the point of obstinacy.

The brilliant political career of President Wilson seems now to have been closed by physical ailment, and it boots not to speculate how dominant a part he might have played in the coming campaign had his strength remained unimpaired. There will always be difference of opinion as to the sagaciousness of his action at the Peace Conference, at which he was a commanding figure, but his faith in the righteousness of his cause never abated, and when he set out to appeal from the Senate to the people he was heartened by enthusiastic crowds and appeared to have the ball at his feet. Since the stroke of ill-health fell upon him, he has been unable to personally participate in public affairs, and in the absence of the man his name has lost much of its potency.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

President Wilson still appeals to a lofty idealism. He urges American concern for the state of the world. He insists that the United States should act according to its best convictions expressed, not by politicians, but by the great body of the people.

Mr. Wilson would accept the mandate for Armenia; he would drive the unspeakable Turk out of Europe; he would support the League of Nations as making for the general peace. The Senate will have none of these things. It demands a hermit-like existence—avowedly selfish. Europe may stew in its own juice for all it cares. And, noting the failure of the United States to implement its promises, the cleavage of opinion as between France, England, and Italy on many issues of the peace terms, "Pertinax," the great French political writer, says that virtually the League of Nations is dead. The machine does not function, says an exchange. The old system of alliances is all that can be hoped for; and the business of France is to secure such alliances as will protect her from the possible onslaught of Germany, which France believes only awaits the fitting opportunity.

Italy and England, according to "Pertinax," are disposed to deal softly with Germany; but they do not know, as France knows, the German purpose and policy as shaped toward the latter country, which for centuries endured the repeated invasions of the barbarous hordes which, as today, knew no pity.

The League, then, has fallen from its high estate. It has no moral force in the world, according to the French writer. It has no physical force upon which it could call in the exigent moment. It has no sanction in the chancelleries of Europe. "Pertinax" may be too pessimistic, expressing, as he does, French cynicism in regard to the League and the future of Europe; but the attitude of the United States has been of incalculable hurt to the idea of the League, which would have enjoyed better credit if it had come after the Peace Treaty, and not been incorporated with it. If Europe has to fall back upon the old political balance of power, so prolific of evil in the past, modern civilization will lose a purpose of the war.

AFTER-WAR TAXATION.

The difference of views between the French public and those of England and the United States over the taxation of incomes has grown ever more striking since the war taxation commenced. The American finds it hard to understand why even now, laboring to shoulder their financial burdens, the French continue quite generally averse to a method that other nations have proved abundantly productive in raising revenue.

The French public contains a strong element opposed to income tax even on a flat pro-rata basis. Views as to an income tax with rates graduated to bear more heavily upon the greater incomes are perhaps yet more commonly unfriendly. In part the disapproval of such taxes may arise from the fact that French incomes tend more toward uniformity in size than those of the individuals of other important countries. To catch much revenue a tax would have to cut heavily into a much greater proportion of the poorer people's incomes than in many other lands.

Another reason may exist in the political sagacity of an experienced nation. It has been noted in the United States that the legislators, of whatever section or party, appropriated with a certain blithe unconcern the billions in revenue raised from the pockets chiefly of three per cent. or so of the voting population. It may well be that the taxation of a class without its specific representation or consent breeds certain evils such as reckless expenditure and so does not conduce to unmixed happiness for the multitude in the long run.

ABSURD INSINUATION.

Hon. Mackenzie King, from his responsible position as leader of the Opposition in Parliament, succeeded in having sent throughout the country an insinuation that the expenditure of $121,000,000 voted by Parliament for war purposes remained unaccounted for. The public was invited to infer that this amount had been misappropriated.

Is there a doubt in the world that Mr. King knew the money had been properly expended and that there was no irregularity in connection with it? Surely Mr. King must have known the facts, remarks an exchange. If he did not know them, was it not his duty to demand an investigation instead of contenting himself with a dangerous insinuation?

The facts were given by Hon. Mr. Rowell. Two ships carrying back to Canada vouchers for military expenditures overseas having been torpedoed, it was decided to retain all future vouchers in Britain till the conclusion of hostilities. This made it necessary for the Auditor-General to report the expenditures without having seen the vouchers. The vouchers have now arrived in this country. But the uses made of the money were known all along. Most of it went to pay Canadian troops.

Mr. King's action in lending himself to the circulation of the insinuation that the expenditure of $121,000,000 was unaccounted for may be legitimate politics, but it is old-fashioned politics. Mr. King may have succeeded in causing some few people who fail to read the denial of his charge to distrust the Government, but the chances are that a far greater number will distrust his own honesty of purpose. The circulation of such a story obviously is inimical to the public interest, which should be Mr. King's concern.

SIR EZEKIEL M'LEOD ENDS LIFE WORK

Distinguished Jurist Passed Away at Hampton Home Last Evening

St. John, June 12.—Sir Ezekiel McLeod, an eminent jurist of this province, and, during his active career most prominent in the affairs of the province and nation, passed away at "Linden Heights," Hampton, where he made his summer home, at 8.30 last night.

He had been ill only three days with pneumonia, and his transition to the higher life was peacefully and quietly accomplished.

The deceased was born 80 years ago at Cardwell, the son of John and Mary McLeod.

He received his education at the Cardwell High School, U. N. B. and at Harvard College. Called to the Bar in 1862, he soon took a leading place in his chosen profession and received the honors his ability so richly merited. As a lawyer practicing in the courts he was one of the ablest. As a judge, presiding over the courts, he brought a dignity and fairness in judgment, based upon his thorough conception and understanding of laws, and commanded the respect of all who practiced in the courts.

He became Judge of the Supreme Court of New Brunswick in 1896, and also local Judge in Admiralty. In 1914 he was elevated to the position of Chief Justice, which he retained until 1917, when he resigned to enjoy the retirement from active work which he had so well earned.

While practicing law in the city he was associated for a time with his brother, Robert, and on the latter's death he became associated with the late Wm. A. Ewing.

Politically he was a Liberal-Conservative and represented St. John City in the local legislature and in Parliament. He was an adherent of the Baptist faith.

ONE PER CENT. SALE TAX EXPLAINED

Ottawa, June 11.—It has come to the attention of the Department of Customs and Inland Revenue that certain purely retail dealers are charging the customers with the sales tax on the sales made to consumers, and showing such sales tax as a separate item on their bills or invoices.

Under the resolution before parliament, the sale of goods by the bona fide retailer, selling exclusively to the consumer, is not liable to the one per cent. sales tax.

The amount of the sales tax which the retailer has paid upon goods at the time of purchase from the wholesaler may be included in the retailer's bill to the consumer, provided that it is not included in the cost on which profit is calculated, and provided also that it is not shown as a separate item on such retailer's bill or invoice.

Afterward the ambitious amateur sought an introduction to the "star," and asked hopefully:

"Did you see my imitation of you?"

"I did," replied the great man, promptly.

"Then, sir," persisted the aspiring youth, "may I ask you to give me your opinion of my art as shown in that impersonation?"

Reason Enough.

"Why did you strike the telegraph operator?" asked the magistrate of the man who was summoned for assault.

"Well, sir, I gives him a telegram to send to my gal, an' he starts readin' it, so, of course, I ups and gives him one."

Height of Happiness.

"What is the height of happiness?" mused the philosophical girl.

"Well, in my case," laughed the pretty bride, "he is about five feet ten."

Met the Emergency.

"Yes," said a woman, "housecleaning time will soon be here and I hate it; it dirties everything up so."

Inference.

FROM THE PEOPLE

TRIAL ENGAGEMENTS

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I would like to use your From the People column to offer some advice to engaged couples.

When two young people come to the conclusion that they are suited to each other and that their marriage would be an ideal one it is necessary, of course, to fix a date for the wedding, but I do not believe there should be any iron-clad formal engagement, or indeed anything in the nature of a "promise" to marry. On the contrary, during the period preceding marriage each should associate as much as possible with people of the opposite sex, in order to make sure that the "first choice" really is the most suitable.

Surely, a girl would not feel very secure in her fiance's affections if the only reason he remains true to her is that his "promise" to her has kept him from associating during the engagement with some other girl who might suit him better than she does. Similarly, she owes it to herself, up to the very day of the mariage, to associate with as many men as possible.

Finally, when the marriage day arrives, I believe they should play a couple of sets of tennis in the morning; then, without bothering to change clothes, repair to the office of a justice of the peace with the minimum number of witnesses required by law, sign the necessary legal papers, but have no other ceremony. Next, go for their honeymoon trip, and establish their residence as far away from all their relatives as circumstances will permit.

Yours,
PEGGY.

LABOR AND IRELAND

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Although a working man and a member of a labor union, I am of opinion that it is to be regretted that Irish Americans at present enjoying the hospitality of British people at Montreal should endeavor to push resolutions for presentation to the English government dictating what should or should not be their policy concerning affairs in Ireland.

English traditions embody all that is just and merciful and the English Government will do all that is right, just and merciful in legislation for the betterment of Ireland. But the English Government will not permit any dismembering of the British Empire.

Rather than this should happen, every Englishman would rise up the world over to maintain the tradition, "What we've got we'll hold."

Let Irishmen examine the laws that have been passed for the betterment of Ireland during the past century and find out why Ireland has not Home Rule, even as Canada. It is due entirely to Irishmen, as in fact all the disadvantages that Ireland suffers today are due to the ridiculous and foolish policy of her own countrymen.

Yours,
A LABOR MAN.

TOO HASTY MARRIAGE

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—For the most part, we are ruled by the tomb. We, the living, are tyrannized over by the dead. Like many children, we are hedged in by fences, and each stake in the fence represents a "Thou shalt" and a "Thou shalt not."

In the limelight at present are a few Pharisees who, possessed of the idea that they are "their brother's keeper," are irring their hands in holy horror, and fulminating against what they are pleased to term "the divorce evil." They waste a great many words attempting to prove to us the sacredness of the marriage tie. With great gusto, they tell us what Moses, or some other ancient and holy character of a dim, dark and distant past, is supposed to have said. Marriage is not a sacrament. It is a social contract, and is purely man-made. If, as they tell us, all marriages are God-ordained, and if all couples are joined by God, then, I must say, God has made a mighty poor job of many unions.

The sacrosanct character and color which the Christian church attempts to shroud marriage in is quite ludicrous and supremely absurd. No person created marriage. It is the result of evolution and has been handed down to us by ancestors whose conditions of life were totally different from the present state of ours.

Marriage and divorce are not the business of the church. They lie wholly within the domain of the state. The marriage of two persons should be performed by some official of the state only, and by the same means only should a marriage be annulled. It is purely a secular affair and contract, and should be observed as such.

The reason for so many unhappy marriages and consequent divorces is that marriage is a contract which couples are allowed to enter into with too much ease. Marriage laws should be made a great deal more strict, while divorce laws should be made correspondingly easy. This is the one, and I believe the best, means of minimizing the number of divorces. The only sane method is to grasp the evil at the roots. The roots of the evil are thoughtless, hasty, and promiscuous marriages.

Yours,
J. R. C.

AN ARMY LESSON

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—At this time of the year, when the house fly is mobilizing in every privy and garbage heap for his annual summer offensive, and writing as one who has seen something of the wonderful manner in which this scourge was overcome and practically eliminated in areas congested by troops, both in England and France, the writer ventures to suggest that in combatting this dangerous and unwholesome pest, civilians could well take a leaf out of the army's notebook.

In the military camps during the late war, chloride of lime was placed in all lavatories and privies, not just once or twice a week, but every day, and woe betide the party responsible, if this was not done when the orderly officer made his daily round of inspection.

The privy is the most common and by far the most deadly breeding place, and if all such in the suburbs and summer resorts within a good radius of the city were given a daily treatment of chloride of lime, it would not be exaggeration to say that within a few years fly swatters, fly papers, and screen doors (except to keep out the troublesome but far less deadly mosquito) would become things of the past.

Chloride of lime is easy to handle, its price is within easy reach of all, and even if there is no daily inspection the same as in the army, yet if every owner of a privy realized his responsibilities to his own family and to his neighbors he would not fail to make daily use of this splendid remedy which, on account of its warfare against the disease-carrying fly, did so much to conserve the lives and health of the troops in the late war.

Yours,
CHLORIDINIUS.

3,500,000 SHEEP IN THE DOMINION

Australia Sustains 80,000,000 Sheep and Canada Should Multiply Flocks

In introducing the estimates for his department to the House of Commons Hon. Dr. Tolmie, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, pointed to the fact that in Australia there are no fewer than 80,000,000 sheep, in the United States 40,000,000, in Great Britain 27,000,000, and in Canada only 3,500,000. As shown in the Agricultural Gazette of Canada for May efforts are being made in all the provinces to remedy this state of things. That is to say encouragement is being given to the raising of sheep in a variety of ways—by pure bred rams being distributed or sold on easy terms, by the holding of competitions at which generous prizes are given for the best ewes and for the best flocks, by obtaining the highest price for wool through the departments, and through the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers' Association, by organized sheep sales, and, as in Ontario in particular, by placing flocks on a share basis. Amended legislation has also been passed for the protection of sheep from dogs. As a sample of the good work that is being performed it might be mentioned that in Saskatchewan in the last four years the amount of wool consigned to the co-operative branch of the Provincial Department of Agriculture increased from 179 consignments, weighing 69,404 pounds, for which the average price realized was 17¾ cents, to 916 consignments, weighing 394,068 pounds, at an average price of 61½ cents per pound. The articles in the Gazette would imply that what has been done in Saskatchewan is also being accomplished in the other provinces of the Dominion.

For a year D. T. McRoberts, a business man at New Castle, Penn., has not been aable to open his safe on account of the combination being lost, and so has been unable to get at papers and other property inside the safe. Monday night burglars broke it open, found no money, left the papers and other property, and Mr. McRoberts is very much obliged.

New England Lumber Market

Boston, June 11. — There is some pussyfoot shading of $65 base for spruce dimension. Everyone knows it but more than a few people are puzzled about the identity of the manufacturers and distribueors, whose confidence is shown to be wanting. The buyers who have been obliged will not as yet tell on their friends, but in the course of a short time, no doubt, all to be learned on the subject will become public. As to just the lowest price at which it is possible now to buy there is some confusion, but it is known that $62.50 has been quoted by more than one manufacturer and there is reason to believe that even bids of $60 have not invariably been ruthlessly rejected. There are people still adhering to $65 and who get as much because of their ability to ship promptly. They are doing so well in fact that they are not at all perturbed by the concessions.

Random.

The news about random this week is not of the sort to gladden the hearts of the manufacturers thereof. It is, in fact, as true as it is discouraging that there is very litle demand and that prices continue to soften for all thicknesses and widths.

The retailers have taken it into their heads that narrow random will soon be offered them at $50 and will not therefore pay over that unless the condition of their piles compels them so to do. As a matter of fact they can already buy Maine lumber at $50.50 and Canadian stock at less.

In desirable 2x8, embracing a nice assortment of the lengths usually most wanted, there has been business within a few days at $55. There is no use attempting to conceal this fact.

There are firms today that would not turn down a bid of $58 for 2x10 and that would accept $1 more for 2x12.

Boards.

Interesting yardmen in northern and eastern boards is not just now an easy task, and the tone of the market for them can no longer be described by them as firm or even steady. The conciliating attitude of producers has not up to this time, however, encouraged buying.

Random spruce covering boards, 5 inches and up wide 8 feet and up long and planed one side, may be bought today without much shopping around for $53 from houses that do not concede unless necessity dictates.

For random hemlock boards it is a waste of time to ask more than $48 of any retailer who pays his bills promptly. For the eastern clipped hemlock $53 has become the usual quotation. Northern boards may perhaps be bought for less.

The recognized price for matched spruce boards is today $60. It is certainly difficult and probably impossible to sell for more.

Laths.

This is a branch of the market that is puzzling everyone conected with it. There is no settled price for either width and it does not seem likely that there soon will be.

The demand from the West has completely ceased and some of the buyers there are doing their very best to cancel their contracts. It is said that the lawyers will have something to do in consequence.

It never has been in days past and probably never will be in the future so hard to quote a price for 1½ inch laths. In New York there are still some people who are paying $15 Boston rate, although as all the world now knows a large Canadian is willing to sell for $2.50 less. Even $12.50 is by local retailers deemed too high and there are wholesale people who agree with them. A shrewd up-to date buyer could probably find in Boston today someone who would accept less.

Good salesmen with wide connections have been trying to induce their trade here to buy 1⅝ inch for $13, but they have not been successful up to this time.

Furring.

For 2 inch furring it is impossible today to obtain over $53 and not many buyers will consent to pay more than $52. For 3 inch $50 is the top price.

Shingles.

People are not more anxious to buy shingles than they are to invest in other building material, and this is tantamount to saying there is very little demand.

For the white cedars it is not likely that more than the lower prices quoted below can be obtained today. There is too little business passing to permit manufacturers to be very dictatorial.

For the red cedars, however, the tone of the market is rather firmer, a condition explained by the shutting down of some of the mills and the disposition of cars in transit. For the best British Columbias we quote $8.25 to $8.50 and for the nicest Washington makes of extra clears $8.

Spruce Clapboards.

There is nothing new. Those who look forward to dealing in such lumber in a wholesale way do not yet know what the price this summer will be.

Box Boards.

The feeling in this branch of the market keeps very firm for everything at all desirable. For nice pine boards inch $40 would not be deemed today an extravagant price.

The price for lumber immediately following are those at which retailers can buy of the wholesale trade. Spruce prices refer to lumber 8 to 20 feet in length. For every two feet or fraction of two feet over 20 feet $1 is added when the sale is of dimension lumber.

ROCKEFELLER GIFT TO LONDON COLLEGE

1,205,000 Pounds Offered to College to Be Devoted to Research Work

London, June 11.—University College and its hospital and medical school have been offered £1,205,000 by the Rockefeller Foundation, devoted to teaching and research work, according to the London Daily Mail. This is not a charitable gift, it is understood, but involves conditions including the construction of a new obstetric unit, a bio-chemical laboratory, the rebuilding of some of the hospital buildings, and the establishment of various endowments. In addition a new institute of anatomy, which it is hoped will be the finest in the world, will be erected.

The hospital must raise an additional £20,000 annually to carry out the programme.

FRENCH MERCHANT FLEET IS GROWING

ALBANIANS WILL FIGHT FOR FREEDOM

Claim the Greeks Are Massing Troops Along Frontier of Epirns to Seize Province

Washington, June 11—Official cable advices today reported that the province of Koritza, in southern Albania, has been evacuated by the French troops and turned over to the forces of the Albanian government. This is the first time the Albanians have been in control of their entire country since December, 1916, when the French army of the Orient occupied the southern portions in the campaign against Austria-Hungary. The Italians still occupy the port of Valona.

Albanian Commissioner Chekrezi, in announcing the advices, said:

"The action of the French military authorities in turning over the province of Koritza is one of the greatest importance, for with the addition of this province to Albania, with the exception of Valona, which the Italians seem determined to hold against the wishes of the inhabitants.

"The Greeks are massing troops along the frontiers of Koritza and the rest of northern Epirus, with the evident intention of laying hands upon these provinces at the first opportunity. But we Albanians feel thankful because we are now given the opportunity of fighting back and the Albanian people are determined to stand by their national patrimony to the last drop of their blood."

Amendments to Luxury Taxation Causes Relief

Tax on Clothing is to Affect Excess Amount Only

WILL PREVENT SPLITTING SUITS

Reduced Tax on Patent and Proprietory Medicines.

Montreal, June 11.—The proposed amendments to the luxury tax announced by Sir Henry Drayton in the House Wednesday are arousing much interest and comment among those directly affected in this city. It is felt by many that in a number of cases the manufacturer and dealer have had their side of the question put before the government with the result that matters are improved from their standpoint. In other cases, however, where taxation is increased on articles regarded as luxuries dealers are most despondent today, feeling that a stifling of trade will result.

With regard to the change in taxation on certain articles of clothes, it is felt that it is only justified from the point of view of both dealer and customer for a number of articles really necessities to the public could not be bought at the price specified by the original measure except in a very poor quality. The change in the taxation of boots, shoes, men's and women's clothing, including suits bought in whole or in part, dresses, skirts, and coats, form a ten per cent. tax on the whole amount over the specified price, to a 15 per cent. tax on the excess, is thought by some to be an improvement, while others consider that the difference will not be appreciable, and the amendment will entail additional clerical work in the stores.

Fur exemptions, however, meet with general approval, though all is not satisfactory yet from the point of view of F. G. Gnaedinger, of F. Gnaedinger, Sons Co., who, as a member of the firm, expressed his opinion that matters might be still more simplified. The amendment, he considers, a great improvement on the original taxation, but even yet it gives little opportunity to Canadian furs, particularly in the case of women's coats, the majority of which are over $200 in price. He could not give the opinion as a whole of the Fur Manufacturers' Association, of which he is president. Another member of the Association, however, expressed himself as "fairly well satisfied" with the change.

Alterations in the jewelry tax received the approval of J. H. Birks of Henry Birks & Sons, in so far as he was able to procure information upon it. The amendment he considered would simplify the matter of collecting for the Government and make the chance of questionable dealings considerably less, while at the same time making but little difference to the amount of increase in the revenue.

Confectionery dealers were loth to express opinions. Mr. deGorog of Joyce's, Ltd., announced that receipts for candy and confectionery had dropped nearly 50 per cent. since the imposition of the tax and he could not see that the amendment would make much difference. Others preferred to make no statement with regard to the possible effect on the trade as yet.

The burden of the tax on sporting goods was considered to have been removed to a certain extent from the boy, by Mr. McKerrow, of Spalding & Bros., who expressed his opinion that the amendment was a step in the right direction. John L. Kerr, of R. & W. Kerr, Ltd., thought slightly differently, feeling that the tax was affecting only the cheapest grade of sporting goods and in the case of his firm specifying for some articles a price which was lower than the cheapest make sold at the present time. He did not think that the amendment to the sporting goods tax as it stands would make much difference to the trade.

The change regarding alcohol and proprietary medicines, it was said, would not give much relief to the hospitals. The tax on alcohol still remains at $2 a gallon, although it will not be cumulative.

As regards the tax on imported medicinal preparations and patent and proprietary medicines, this is reduced from 30 to 20 per cent., but it will not affect matters much, as the Canadian manufacturers presumably do not now come under this tax, although in the original proposals it was thought that all patent and proprietary medicines were affected whether manufactured in Canada or imported. If this has been changed it will be an encouragement to Canadian manufacture of proprietary and patent medicines, while the fact that the stamp taxes have been removed from these medicines will be a benefit to the consumer and also save the retailer a lot of trouble.

The Department of Inland Revenue in this city has received no notification from Ottawa with regard to amendments, and the collection of taxes proceeding as formerly until such time as some definite orders are received.

Proposed Tax Changes

Boots, shoes, clothing, including coats, pants and vests sold separately—15 per cent. over the prices originally fixed ($9 for boots and $45 for clothing), instead of 10 per cent. on the whole value. To prevent evasion by the purchase of parts taxes are imposed on separate parts.

Lumbermen's and fishermen's top boots exempt.

Fur coats—exemption value raised from $100 to $200; fur robes exemption value reduced from $100 to $50; gloves, fur, in excess of $15 pair, 10 per cent.; caps, fur, in excess of $10, 10 per cent.; muffs and neck pieces, in excess of $35, 10 per cent.; other wearing apparel, not otherwise specified, made chiefly of fur, 10 per cent.

Corsets, in excess of $5, 10 per cent.

Walking sticks, knitted sweaters, over $15, ebony and ivory toilet ware, 10 per cent.

Ware—plated with nickel, exempt.

Clocks and watches, in excess of $10, 10 per cent.; velvets, velveteens, plush silk and artificial silk, 10 per cent. in excess of $2 a yard.

The 10 per cent. tax is applied on the "excess" of the following articles:

Lace and braid over 25 cents per yard, collars and collarettes of lace and all lace, in excess of $1 per yard. Ribbons, all kinds, except typewriter ribbons, in excess of 50 cents a yard.

In the 20 per cent. class the following are the suggested variations:

Fur wearing apparel, not otherwise provided, dropped.

Oriental rugs, reduced 20 to 15 per cent.

Carpets, 10 per cent. in excess of $6 per lineal yard.

Jewelers, retail, including jewelry branches of departmental stores, 10 per cent. on "total sales."

Chandeliers, except for churches, in excess of $12 each, wall brackets over $3, gas and electric fixtures over $3, 10 per cent. instead of 20 per cent., to be paid by the manufacturers.

Candy, 10 per cent., chewing gum reduced from 10 to 3 per cent.

Automobiles, tax on passenger cars retailing at $3,000, increased from 15 to 20 per cent.

Tax of $2 per gallon on spirits, lime and fruit juices not to be "cumulative," but kept at $2, instead of $4, as the effect otherwise might be.

Stamp taxes on patent and propriety medicines, perfumery, etc., abandoned.

Children's Toys Exempt.

American Dentist Forced by Bolshevists to Shift Scenes in Moscow Theatre

London, June 11—How an American dentist, Dr. Lambie, one of the best known in the profession in Moscow, was compelled to do scene shifting by the Bolshevists, but failed to please them, was told to an Associated Press correspondent by Robert Wale, a returned British hostage from Moscow. Wale had a fortune of £25,000, but arrived here penniless.

He says that Dr. Lambie after being arrested and imprisoned was afterwards released to do some scene shifting in the Moscow theatre. In a particular play there was to be the scene of a tree struck down by lightning.

Being unaccustomed to such work, Dr. Lambie felled the tree before the lightning struck it and, in consequence of this mistake, was taken back to prison again.

The United States Government has taken steps to induce the Soviet authorities at Moscow to release Americans they are holding as prisoners, among them Dr. Lambie, whose address has not been made public.

An English Custom
Becoming Quite Common in Canada

Every country has its national customs and habits.

For instance, England has the custom of serving afternoon tea.

English homes, stores, offices, factories, work shops, hotels and tea rooms serve afternoon tea. It is part of the national life of England.

Our soldiers poked fun at it, but were not long in acquiring the habit.

And they are not giving it up now that they are back home.

They are influencing a more general adoption of afternoon tea in Canada.

To-day this English custom is quite common in Canadian homes.

It is spreading. New tea rooms are opening all over Canada. Hotels are making a specialty of afternoon tea. The habit is invading offices, stores and work shops.

A few minutes rest in the afternoon with a cup of good tea is a wonderful reviver, giving new zest to the busy business man, stenographer, clerk and worker.

Afternoon tea is a good business proposition.

Easily and quickly made. Very inexpensive.

Favorites Were Beaten In Races at Sydney---With Plenty Of Roughriding a Feature

Billy Hood and Some Other Cape Breton Drivers Blamed for Carrying Horses Wide—Big Crowd Out to See Early Races This Week

Fourteen heats of sensational racing the like of which has seldom been seen in Cape Breton were required here yesterday afternoon at the Sydney second meeting of the 1920 season before the winners were declared in all three classes. Two favorites were beaten. Prince Rupert furnished the first surprise of the day in copping the free-for-all, while Wingohocken's victory in the 2.23 class provided the second. The 2.30 trot and pace went to ex-Ald. Bill Rudderham's trotter, Better Not, after five gruelling heats. Tonita C. had sold favorite in the free-for-all but was able to win only one heat while both Our Peggy and Lottie Axworthy were picked by the talent to defeat Wingohocken.

Yesterday's meeting was a tough one for Starter Dan McKay and the judges in the stand. There was considerable rough riding during the entire afternoon and the judges failed to take a firm hold of affairs and punish the offenders. Then Starter McKay gave two or three bad starts, one to Lottie Axworthy, another to Better Not and a third to Annie Laurie, when every one of the three were at the pole.

Billy Hood, the North Sydney trainer, gave Tonita C. a long mile in the second heat of the free-for-all that Prince Rupert won and again in the fourth heat the grey mare had to take to the outside as a result of Hood's wide driving. Just to give the North Sydney man a taste of his own medicine, so to speak, Peter McNeill carried Our Peggy to the outside of the track in the final heat of the 2.23 class, enabling Wingohocken to get the race and first money.

There were about 1,600 people in attendance yesterday and from a financial standpoint was one of the most successful race meetings ever held here with the exception of the holiday races.

Early Closing Stakes at Local Circuit Meetings

Directors of the Local Track Decide to Offer Two Lots

STAKES AT BOTH LOCAL MEETINGS

Moncton Opening Will Probably Have Some Hard Racing.

Four or five stakes will be offered for the first Maritime & Maine Circuit meeting here the last week in July by the Fredericton Park Association.

This decision was reached at a meeting of the directors, which was held last evening, when the programme for the first circuit meeting was discussed. The stakes will close the last of June, probably the 28th, when horses must be eligible, but horses will not have to be named until July 14th, the day after the Woodstock circuit meeting, when the class races will also close.

These stakes will be in addition to those which are to be offered for the fall meeting in September, the programme for which will probably include five early closing events, the entries for which will close the last of June, although horses will not be named until August 30th. Both programmes of stakes will probably be pretty much alike and will not include any of the faster classes but will provide for green pacers and trotters as well as the horses with moderately fast marks.

Campaigning stables which patronize the local meetings this season will naturally be looked after as well as possible in the framing of the association's programme and it is believed that for the two circuit meetings there will be the largest fields of horses that have been here in ten years. Because of the enforced absence for the summer from the city of George E. Howie, the treasurer of the Fredericton Park Association, who is engaged on a contract in Charlotte county, the duties of treasurer will be taken over in the meantime by P. S. Watson, the president, and L.B.C. Phair has been elected to the finance committee to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Howie's temporary absence.

Prospects for the Opening.

There is still considerable doubt as to what kind of an entry there will be for the so-called "curtain raiser" meeting on June 30th and July 1st, entries for which will close next week. The entry blanks have been sent out and everything that can be done under the circumstances is being done to induce horsemen to open their campaign here, but the Moncton meeting on July 1st, 2nd and 3rd seems certain to have a serious effect, not only upon the local opener, but also the first couple of meetings on the Maritime & Maine Circuit. It has also been found that the announcements which were made without any apparent foundation that the Pottle, Potvin, Reed and other formidable racing stables had given assurances they would be here for the first meeting have had the effect of scaring away some of the provincial horsemen under the belief that they would find very tough racing here.

As a matter of fact, it looks as if the tough racing would be at Moncton, where the Potvin, Boutilier, Fenwick and various other stables from the mainland will be racing, as well as a dozen or so of the pick of the Prince Edward Island horses. Some of those who have been figuring on going to Moncton to get away from tough racing will get an awful jolt when they see that bunch of birds Phil Belliveau, the hustling Moncton manager, has rounded up.—J. D. B.

18 YEAR OLD GIRL BECOMES CHAMPION

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Shringham, Eng., June 12.—Miss Cecil Leitch lost the British women's golf championship yesterday to an 18 year old girl, Miss Joyce Wethered, of the Worplesdon club. Miss Wethered won by 2 up and 1 to play. Had Miss Leitch won, she would have celebrated her third consecutive victory for this championship.

Why hens never lay half an egg!

The usual method of feeding mostly grain, makes yolks but not enough whites to complete the eggs. As the hen cannot lay these half-made eggs, she absorbs them back into her system. Missouri Experiment Station tests showed that 100 lbs. of wheat, corn, oats, barley and kaffir corn make (above bodily maintenance) an average of 224 yolks but only 154 whites. Based on data from the same experiments, Purina formulas produce, (above bodily maintenance) as follows:

Purina Chicken Chowder	182.05 "	282.55 "
Combined Ration	429.54 yolks	424.66 whites

Note the perfect balance of yolks and whites and the large number of each. This combination of Purina Feeds makes the maximum number of complete eggs, eggs a hen will lay. That's why we can absolutely guarantee

more eggs or money back

on Purina Chicken Chowder if fed with Purina Scratch Feed as directed. You take no risk.

Care of Ewes and Lambs at Weaning

[Experimental Farms Note.]

The ewe that has raised one or two lambs is never in high condition at weaning time, as this is the hardest period of the whole season on the breeding ewe.

Lambs should be weaned by the last of August or first of September, and the ewes then should have the best of feed, such as good aftermath, clover or rape. If this feed is not available, a few roots with a light grain ration should be fed in order that the ewes may be in good flesh before being bred, which will add very materially to the crop of lambs the following spring and also the condition of those lambs.

With experiments that we have conducted it has been found that ewes that have not been "flushed" but have just been kept on dry pasture until breeding, have not produced over 100 per cent. of lambs, where those that have been turned on clover or rape and fed a light grain ration have produced 150 per cent. of lambs, which we consider is due altogether to the condition of the ewes at time of breeding. This is a point that every farmer should remember and put into practice as it is very profitable in sheep rearing.

There is no time that mutton can be produced as cheaply as in the fall of the year after weaning the lambs. By weaning lambs early and running them on clover or rape pasture and feed them a light grain ration of one-half to one pound each of equal parts oats and barley with a little bran added, for larger gains are produced than leaving them with the ewes.

It is a recognized fact that no class of animals are put on the market in such an unfinished condition as are lambs, for quite a large percentage of them are sold very soon after weaning, at a time when the market is practically oversupplied, where, if they had only been turned out on good clover or rape pasture with a light grain ration, they would have very profitable gains and also be in better condition, which would enable them to demand the highest price.

IN DAYS OF TERROR

"Ah!" said Dixmer. Then after a moment's silence he replaced it in his waistcoat, and placing his hand upon his wife's chair to compress the beatings of his heart.

"Will you do me a service?" said he.

"What service?" said Genevieve, turning round surprised.

"To prevent even the shadow of danger. Maurice is, perhaps, deeper in our secrets than we imagine. That which you believe a pretext may, perhaps, be a reality. Write him one word."

"I!" said Genevieve, starting.

"Yes, you. Tell him that you have opened the letter and desire an explanation. He will then call, you can interrogate him, and will easily discover what is the matter."

"Oh! no," cried Genevieve, "I cannot do as you wish me; I will not do it."

"Dear Genevieve, when interests so powerful as those that rest upon us are at stake, will you recoil before the paltry consideration of self-love?"

"I have told you my opinion of Maurice, monsieur," said Genevieve, "he is honest, and brave, but capricious, and I do not choose to submit to any authority but that of my husband."

This answer, returned with so much calmness, and at the same time, firmness, convinced Dixmer that to insist further at this moment would be worse than useless. He did not add another word, but looked at Genevieve, without seeming to do so, and went out. Morand was awaiting his return with great anxiety. Dixmer repeated word for word all that had occurred.

"Well!" said Morand, "we will wait, and think no more about it, rather than I would cast a shadow of suspicion on your wife, rather than wound her self-love, I would renounce . . ."

Dixmer placed his hand upon his shoulder.

"You are mad, monsieur," said he to him, "or else you do not know what you are saying."

"Do you think so, Dixmer?"

"I think, Chevalier, that you have no more self-command that I have, to give utterance to sentiments on the impulse of the moment. Neither you, I, or Genevieve belong to ourselves, Morand. We are the chosen defenders of a certain cause, and this cause depends upon its supporters."

Morand trembled, and preserved a gloomy and thoughtful silence. They took several turns round the garden without exchanging a word. Then Dixmer left Morand.

"I have some orders to give," said he in a calm voice. "I must leave you, Monsieur Morand."

Morand held out his hand to Dixmer, and looked after him as he turned away.

"Poor Dixmer," said he, "I fear much that in all this you risk the most."

Dixmer returned to the manufactory, and having issued several orders, looked over the day book, and distributed bread and fuel to the poor of the section, went home and changed his working dress for his walking costume immediately on his arrival there.

An hour afterwards, Maurice Lindey while deeply engaged in his readings and allocutions, was interrupted by the voice of his official, whispering in his ear, "Citizen Lindey, some one who, so he pretends at least, has something of importance to say to you, is waiting at your house. Maurice, on entering, was much surprised at meeting the master tanner, who had there comfortably installed himself, and was turning over the newspapers. All the way along he had questioned the domestic, who, of course, not knowing Dixmer, could afford him no clue to his recognition. On perceiving Dixmer, Maurice stopped at the threeshold of the door, and blushed in spite of himself. Dixmer smilingly arose, and held out his hand.

"What ails you? and what have you written to me?" he inquired of the young man. "Indeed, my dear Maurice, I feel it sensibly. You designate me as 'lukewarm and a false patriot. Now as you dare not repeat these accusations to my face, acknowledge you wish to seek a quarrel with me."

"I will avow anything you please, my dear Dixmer, for your conduct to me has always been that of a worthy man, but I have nevertheless made a resolution, and that resolution is irrevocable."

"But how is that?" said Dixmer, "when according to your own account you have nothing to reproach me with and yet, notwithstanding, you leave us?"

"My dear Dixmer, believe me, acting as I now am, and depriving myself of such a friend, I must be actuated by powerful motives."

"Yes; but under any circumstances," said Dixmer, affecting to smile, "these reasons are not those you have written. What you have written to me is merely a subterfuge."

Maurice reflected an instant.

"Listen, Dixmer," said he; "we live in an epoch when a doubt conveyed in a letter could and would annoy you, I can well understand. It would then be acting likek a dishonorable man to allow you to remain in this state of inquietude. Yes, Dixmer, the reasons I gave you were not the true ones."

This avowal, which should have cleared the face of the merchant, only seemed the more to cloud it.

"But at least tell me the true motive," said Dixmer.

"I cannot tell you," said Maurice, and yet I am certain if you knew it, you would afford me your approval."

Dixmer still continued to press him.

"Then you really wish to know it," said Maurice.

"Yes," replied Dixmer.

"Well, then," replied Maurice, who felt a sensation of relief as he approached the truth; "this is the truth. You have a young and beauteous wife, virtuous as she is beautiful; yet it is well known that I cannot visit at your house without my visits being misinterpreted."

Dixmer turned rather pale.

"Truly, then, my dear Maurice," said he, "you ought to thank the wife for the wrong you do the friend?"

"Understand," said Maurice, "I have not the folly to suppose my presence can be dangerous to your repose, or that of your wife; but it might, perhaps, afford subject for calumny, and you are aware the more absurd the scandal, the easier it gains belief."

"Absurd!" said Dixmer, shrugging his shoulders.

"Absurd, as much as you please," said Maurice, "but separate, we shall not the less be good friends, for we shall have nothing to reproach ourselves with, while, on the contrary, if near—"

"Well! What then?"

"There would be food for scandal."

"Do you think, Maurice, that I should believe—"

"Eh! mon Dieu!" said the young man.

"But why did you not write this instead of telling it to me, Maurice?"

"And are you vexed, Maurice, that I respected you sufficiently to demand an explanation?"

"No; on the contrary, I swear I am glad to have seen you once again before our final separation."

"Our final separation, citizen; you whom we esteem so much!" taking Maurice's hand and pressing it between his own.

Maurice started.

"Morand," continued Dixmer, who failed not to notice this start, "Morand said to me only this morning, 'Do all in your power to bring back Maurice.'"

"Monsieur," said the young man, frowning, and drawing away his hand, "I do not believe I stand very high in the estimation of Monsieur Morand."

"You doubt it," said Dixmer.

CONSISTENCY IS NOT NECESSARY IN THE PLEBISCITE

Government Official's Ruling Is Opposite Votes on Two Questions Can Be Given

SHERIFF PREPARING YORK COUNTY VOTE

Proclamation Being Printed and Election Officials Soon to Be Named

"You can vote on both the questions—the retention of prohibition and the sale of beer and light wines under government control—and you don't necessarily have to be consistent either," declared an official of the Provincial Government this morning in commenting upon the plebiscite on Prohibition to take place in New Brunswick on Saturday, July 10th.

The statement was made when The Gleaner asked for a ruling in response to many requests for information as to what would happen if ballots were marked in such a manner as to express what might be regarded as conflicting opinions on the two questions. The ruling received was that under Section 20 of the order-in-council published in the Royal Gazette by its references to "questions" means that electors are certainly entitled to vote upon both questions.

"It means that you can vote in favor of prohibition and then mark your ballot at the same time in favor of the sale of beer and wines under Government control," declared the official who was asked for a ruling. "In other words, you can vote on both the questions and you don't necessarily have to be consistent, either. There will probably be a double rule on the official ballot between the questions for and against prohibition and for and against the sale of beer and wines."

Sheriff Hawthorn has started to make the necessary preparations for the holding of the plebiscite in York county. He is having the proclamations printed and during the next few days they will be posted. The list of returning officers and other officials for the various polls will also soon be announced.

Nashwaak Raftsmen Are On Strike Today

Employees of the Nashwaak Pulp & Paper Company, Ltd., at the company's rafting grounds at the mouth of the Nashwaak river across the St. John river from Fredericton, blew the whistle at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and quit work.

They had completed a nine-hour day and took this method of serving notice on the management of their intention to strike to enforce their demands for a nine-hour day at the same rate of pay they have been receiving for ten hours. It was said that between 50 and 60 men who had been employed in rafting were concerned in the strike and this morning they had not returned to work.

Old Dan Cupid has certainly been casting his darts at the local exchange of the N. B. Telephone Company during the past year, as no less than fourteen of the young lady operators have resigned their positions on the switch board to grapple with the more serious problem of home making.

Last week Miss Fannie Daye resigned her position as an operator and on Tuesday next will be married to George Nason, of North Devon.

This week Miss Iva Seymour, another of the operators, resigned her position, presumably to join the ranks of the June brides.

THE POLES FORCED TO RETREAT ON DNIEPER

The Bolshevik Said to Have Lost Heavily in the Attempt to Cross Dnieper River

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Paris, June 14.—Ukrainian troops, acting in conjunction with Polish forces, have occupied Odessa, according to a Havas despatch from Constantinople, quoting current reports on Saturday.

The Retreat of the Poles.

Warsaw, June 14.—General Smigley's retreat before the Russian Bolshevik in Ukraine has been executed in perfect order, according to an official statement issued at army headquarters here. The advance of the Bolshevik upon Czernobyk forced the retreat.

In Polisia the enemy has lost heavily while trying to break the Polish front near Glibow. One thousand Bolshevik, under cover of artillery fire, reached the right bank of the Dnieper, but were cut off and annihilated. Two hundred were taken prisoner and many were drowned.

There is intense activity in the region of Lake Scho and to the northward.

Polish Political Crisis.

Washington, June 14.—A cablegram from Warsaw to the Polish legation today explained that the recent resignation of the Polish cabinet was caused by a difference of opinion among the members as to the "sequestration of grain."

The cabinet will continue to serve, however, until a new one is appointed, the message said, and added that the difficulties probably would be overcome by making certain changes in portfolios.

Twenty five hundred Arditi were embarked from Milan for Albania Saturday, the despatch says, but the dockers refused to load munitions destined for Albania.

BRITISH COMMENT ON NOMINATION

Some Papers Infer That Democratic Chances Have Been Enhanced by Choice

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

London, June 14.—Warren G. Harding's personality and record being virtually unknown here, newspaper comment this morning expresses neither satisfaction nor disappointment with the Republican choice of a presidential candidate. Several newspapers refer to him as a "dark horse," and infer from cabled reports that he represents a compromise. Two or three journals assume the result of the Chicago convention has opened the possibility of the election of a Democrat to the presidency, which of late has been regarded here as extremely improbable.

Among those taking this view are the London Times and the Daily News, the latter telling the Democrats "the best card they can play is to persaude Herbert Hoover to accept their nomination in spite of everything."

The future of the League of Nations and of British-American relations are much discussed.

The Times, referring to a statement by its Chicago correspondent that the British must be prepared for a thorough readjustment of their relations with thte United States, and his prediction that the process will not be easy, says:

"That depends, in great measure, upon ourselves. If we have a straight clear and honest policy in world affairs, affirmatively based upon those principles which are common to us and Americans, we may have tiresome disputes to reach an arrangement, but there can be no doubt as to the result."

"The vagueness of the Republican platform," the newspaper continues, "leaves plenty of scope for its favorable interpretation in strong and honest hands. We have much faith in the American conscience, and if we appeal to it, we must come into court with clean hands."

The Express believes that "friendly relations with Great Britain will undoubtedly be part of Mr. Harding's policy."

HEINZE FAILS TO FORM NEW HUN CABINET

The Majority Socialists Refuse to Enter a Coalition With German People's Party

ACTION OF SOCIALISTS SAID TO BE UNANIMOUS

Talk of Coalition of Clericals, Democrats and Members of German People's Party

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Berlin, June 14.—Hedd Heinze, the moderate conservative, who was asked by President Ebert to form a new cabinet to replace the government of Chancellor Mueller, which tendered its resignation last week, renounced the task after meeting with opposition by the majority socialists.

Leaders of the majority socialist party today notified Herr Heinze, the moderate conservative chieftain, who is trying to form a cabinet, of their refusal to enter a coalition government in which the German people's party was represented. Herr Heinze, according to one report, then abandoned further negotiations.

Another report, however, states Herr Heinze will confer with Bourgeoise party leaders for the purpose of attempting to form a coalition government made up of clericals, democrats and members of the German people's party, which would command 199 votes, against 190 held by the two socialist factions.

This number of votes would not afford a working majority, but it was hinted here today that German nationalists would practice benevolent neutrality in order that the bourgeoise combination might be enabled to conduct the government. It was said that the nationalists would even support the coalition at critical stages by giving it the necessary votes.

The action of the majority socialists is said to have been unanimous, the party's governing board and newly elected deputies in the Reichstag participating in the conference.

The Deputy Minister of Agriculture of Saskatchewan, F. H. Field, says: The recent reports of hoppers hatching indicate that the area affected last year is extending considerably this year and in general the situation is more serious.

Republican Nomination Did Not Affect the Stock Market

The Undertone of the Market Was Steady at Opening Today, Although a Few Leaders Soon Became Reactionary —Improved Showing of Banks

New York, June 14—The outcome of the Republican National Convention and the improved showing of the local banks at the close of last week's business exerted no perceptible influence over the stock market at the opening of today's session. The undertone was steady, although a few leaders soon became reactionary.

AMALGAMATE UNION WORKERS OF WORLD

British Fraternal Delegate Presents His Views Before the Federation of Labor

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Montreal, June 14.—An international organization of the union workers of the world to further their aims and prevent another world war, was advocated by J. W. Ogden, fraternal delegate of the British Trade Union Congress, in an address here today in the convention of the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Ogden, however, warned the Federation that they must ignore any international similar to that formed in Russia and other countries.

"The only interest we can recognize is one that is formed on a right, proper and legal basis," he added.

"The only way we will be able to prevent useless conflict," he said, "is by linking the workers of the world into a great international organization."

The spirit of organization is sweeping England and the "non-unionist is almost extinct" in that country, Mr. Ogden asserted.

He predicted that the British Congress will have a membership of six million workers by next August. This would be an increase of one million members in the past year.

The British workers are constantly fighting the high cost of living, Mr. Ogden said, adding that they had assured the government if it would smash prices and profiteering, the workers would ask no further wage advances and "wages will attain their proper stability."

While we are seriously complaining of the high cost of living in England, it is not any higher than in Montreal, he added.

Mr. Ogden asserted that the labor party in England was the second in power, only being outstripped by the coalition party, which is "now threatened by the great labor party."

800 ENGINEMEN IN AUSTRALIA STRIKE

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Melbourne, June 14.—Enginemen in the electric power stations to the number of 800 have struck. It is estimated that the lighting and cooking arrangements of 200,000 families are affected. Many factories are idle. The streets and railway stations are lighted, but the suburbs are in darkness.

Indications seem to forecast a worse upheaval than that in 1917, as it is feared virtually all the trade organizations will eventually be involved in the present movement.

FRANCE LOOKS FOR IMMENSE GRAIN CROP

With Another Month of Good Growing Weather France Can Feed Herself

FRANCE BOUGHT IN 1919 150,000,000 BUSHELS

Agricultural Experts Place the Value of This Year's Crop at 3,000,000,000 Francs

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Paris, June 14.—Another month of good growing weather, with favorable harvesting conditions, will be worth three billion and four billion francs to France in the opinion of agricultural experts.

"It is impossible to tell what will happen in the next few weeks," said a high official of the ministry of agriculture today, "but if the crops meet with no disaster France will buy but little wheat abroad next year, if conditions continue as favorable as now, she may not buy any. This means a minimum economy of two and a half billion francs, which may reach nearly four billion francs.

In 1919, a poor year, France raised 173,000,000 bushels of wheat and had to buy 150,000,000 bushels abroad. This year is declared to be the best in the memory of farmers for all crops with 800,000 acres more seeded than last year. The crop is estimated by experts to be at least fifty per cent. better, bringing the yield to 260,000,000 bushels.

Reasonable restrictions, with a mixture of rye and corn meal, will further eke out the food supply in the opinion of the revictualling department, so that France may virtually be independent with regard to bread stuffs for the year beginning next August, which cost her last year 3,867,000,000 francs to keep the people supplied with bread. The most the Revictualling Minister expects to pay next year is 1,850,000,000 francs.

The devastated regions, where there are still little more than temporarily roofed ruins and hastily thrown up shacks to shelter the population, funish two-thirds of the increased seeding with 500,000 acres more of wheat than a year ago, and with a million acres more of all grain crops. They compare favorably with the best of France's wheat growing country, contrary to pessimistic opinions regarding recovery of the trench lacerated and shell ploughed land.

FRANCE AWARDED $123,566 DAMAGES

Claims of England Against the Lehigh Valley Not Allowed by New Jersey Court

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Jersey City, N. J., June 14—The jury which heard the suits brought by France, England and the Aetna Explosives Company against the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company for loss of munitions destroyed in the Black Tom explosion, July 30, 1916, Saturday night awarded damages of $123,566 to France and found for the defendant in the other two cases. The French claim was for explosives stored in the railroad yards, the English and Aetna claims were for munitions loaded in barges which were tied to the piers and characterized as "trespassers" by the railroad.

The amounts sued for were: France $1,060,000, England $1,026,000, and the Aetana Explosive Company $139,000.

A TRIUMPH FOR PARTY MACHINE

Powerful Personages Unable to Make Headway Against the Party Discipline

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Paris, June 14.—Few newspapers in this city venture to comment on the action of the Republican National convention at Chicago although they all devote considerable space to the nomination of Warren G. Harding for President, and Calvin Coolidge for Vice-President.

"It is a triumph of the machine of the party organization, or its bosses, over personalities sufficiently powerful or well supplied with funds to be in a position to appeal directly to the nation," declared Pertinax, political editor of the Echo De Paris.

In examining the platform of the Republican party, Pertinax pays special attention to the possible resuscitation of the Panama controversy and the Canadian wood pulp question. This posture relative to England and Canada, he finds, to a certain extent symptomatic, but he adds: "We need not fear that such an attitude will degenerate into absentention from European affairs or hostility toward Europe. Too many elements of the Republican party are bound up in our affairs and our preoccupations. The silence observed regarding Ireland shows the desire felt at Chicago to keep on good terms with England."

St. Bryce, in the Journal, thinks the nomination was a triumph of party discipline, remarking: "The organizers had to steer between two rocks—a battle between persons and a clash of principles—and they manoeuvred with remarkable skill."

The newspaper comments on the fact that Mr. Harding is an intimate friend of Myron T. Herrick, former United States Ambassador to France, and a real friend of this country.

Young Quebec Girl Seriously Wounded by Man Fooling With Revolver

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Quebec, June 14.—Juliette Labonte, aged 17 years, of Levis, is lying at the Hotel Dieu Hospital, in a critical condition as a result of having been shot through the body on Saturday afternoon. The young girl was on her way to a circus with her young sister and another girl friend, when they met Jean Charles Lacroix, of Bienville. They stopped to chat for a while, and Lacroix exhibited a revolver. One of the girls remarked that it was dangerous, but the young men contended that it was not loaded and he began pressing the trigger. There was a cartridge in the revolver and the gun went off, the bullet striking the young girl in the abdomen.

YOUNG MICHIGAN TREASURE SEEKERS

Detroit, Mich., June 14.—Four youthful explorers, aged 3, 6, 9 and 11 years, who set sail from Lakeside, Michigan, Saturday in a frail rowboat in search for treasure islands in Lake Erie, were picked up Sunday thirty miles off shore after having been adrift for twenty-five hours.

The children, three boys and a girl sons and a niece of Merwin Daze, of Toledo, were rescued by a passenger steamer. A prayer of thanks was offered by 1,500 passengers when they had been transferred safely from their frail craft.

Gov. Coolidge's Plans.

Boston, June 14.—The plans of Governor Coolidge, Republican vice-presidential nominee, to go to Amherst for the opening of the commencement week of his alma mater and then to his home in Northampton, were changed yesterday upon receipt of a telegram from the Massachusetts delegates saying they would arrive here this afternoon and parade to the State House. The Governor decided to remain in Boston to receive them after which he will journey to his home.

Get Campaign Under Way.

Washington, June 14.—Senator Warren G. Harding, of Ohio, Republican presidential nominee, was back at his desk in his office at the Capitol today. Accompanied by Mrs. Harding, he arrived here a few minutes after midnight and went directly to his home on Wyoming Avenue. While the Boy Scout band of Oil City, Pennsylvania, sounded a noisy welcome, the Senator and his party made their way through the cheering crowd at the station, pausing just long enough for two flashlight photographs to be taken, an incident that was repeated upon his arrival at his home.

Senator Harding told the Associatde Press he would remain in Washington about a week. He expected to be busy for a day or two cleaning up the business he accumulated as Senator, but the coming of William H. Hays, Chairman of the Republican committee, will force him immediately into the part assigned to him by the convention. He will confer with Mr. Hays and his political managers with the idea of getting his campaign under way at once, although formal notification of his nomination will not be received by him until he returns to his home in Marion, Ohio.

Samuel Gompers Strongly Favors the League of Nations Before Federation of Labor

President Gompers Declares That if the Question Was Submitted to the People of the United States It Would Be Overwhelmingly Sustained

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Montreal, June 14.—It is "pitiable" that the United States has not yet ratified the League of Nations, President Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, declared here today in an address before the convention of the Federation. He said if the covenant was submitted to the American people "without any other entangling questions, it would be overwhelmingly acepted."

"It is pitiable that the United States has not ratified the League of Nations," said Mr. Gompers, "but has forgotten the effort of the nations of the world to prevent another horrible conflict such as was started about six years ago."

"The labor draft of the covenant," he added, "would help in the reunion of the working people of the world and would help workers in the most backward countries."

Mr. Gompers made a strong appeal to the convention to support the League and "lend a helping hand to the toilers of the smaller nations and aid them to take their places among the civilization of the world."

Declaring that conditions are "appalling", J. A. McCleland, fraternal delegate from the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, called upon the Federation to appoint a committee to investigate the Catholic Labor Union movement and take steps to put an end to its activities in Canada.

The Caholic Union, which has been in existence about ten years, Mr. McCleland asserted, is opposed to any international labor organization and has been "organized labor's greatest enemy in Canada."

Mr. McCleland declared that organized labor was slowly conquering the "one big union movement." He pointed out that there are now 2,309 local unions in Canada, with a membership of 260,247.

In outlining the grwth of the labor party in Canada, Mr. McCleland said, "We are growing slowly, but are assured of success."

Republicans Select Harding As Presidential Candidate on The Tenth Ballot Saturday

Most of the Lowden Supporters Turned to Harding When They Found Cause Lost

PENNSYLVANIA VOTE GAVE THE FINAL PUNCH

Governor Coolidge of Massachusetts Nominated for the Vice-Presidency

Chicago, June 13.—Warren G. Harding, United States Senator from Ohio, was nominated for the presidency last night by the Republican national convention after a dealock which lasted for nine ballots and which finally forced out of the running all the original favorites.

As his running mate the convention named Governor Calvin Coolidge, of Massachusetts, upsetting a plan of a combination of the Harding backers to nominate for the place Senator Lenroot, of Wisconsin.

The collapse of the forces of Governor Frank O. Lowden and their transfer in large part to Senator Harding put the Ohio candidate over.

General Wood lost heavily, however, when the Harding drift began and Senator Johnson, the third of the trio of leaders on the early balloting, also went steadily downhill.

Entering the convention four days ago as a candidate distinctly of the "dark horse" class, Senator Harding got only sixty-four votes on the first ballot, and on the second he dropped to fifty-six. When the convention adjourned Friday night, at the end of the fourth ballot, he had sixty-one.

As the tenth roll call began delegates quit Wood and Johnson right and left and the big hall was in almost continuous applause as state after state announced its accession to the Harding standard. It was reserved for Pennsylvania to add the crowning touch of enthusiasm. When the Keystone state was reached, the Ohio senator needed thirty-two votes to nominate him and Pennsylvania gave him sixty. It was Governor Sproul, himself the candidate for his state on every preceding ballot and mentioned many times a possible dark horse, who broke the deadlock when he announced the big Pennsylvania vote for Harding. Entering the coliseum floor for the first time since the balloting gan, he made his way to the Pennsylvania standard, and amid cheers, released the delegates from longer supporting him. Then he took a poll, got the floor and threw in the winning Harding votes.

A demonstration of several minutes followed, most of the delegates and spectators standing and cheering while a procession carrying large pictures of the candidate and standards of some of the states that supported him took up its march around the hall. But it was too tired a convention after the gruelling excitement of the two sweltering days of balloting to long keep up such a demonstration. Senator Lodge presiding, rapped for order, and the delegates did not argue with him.

The final check up showed 692 for Harding, with only 120 left supporting Lowden, 157 for Wood and 80 for Johnson. At their best, earlier in the day, the Wood people had mustered 312 votes and the Lowden forces 311. Johnson's high point was 148, recorded on the third ballot on Friday.

A motion to make the nomination unanimous was passed on the great chorus of approval, but when opportunity was given for negative votes there were some "noes" from Wisconsin, whose delegates throughout the day had voted amid hisses and catcalls almost solidly for Senator Robert M. Lafollette.

The plan to nominate Senator Lenroot for the vice-presidency had the backing of many of the men who had helped put Harding over, but the name of Governor Coolidge stirred the delegates and galleries to cheering and he was swept into the second place on the ticket before the first roll call had gone two-thirds of its length. Again it was Pennsylvania which furnished the winning votes.

Governor Coolidge got 674 votes to 146 for Senator Lenroot and 68 for Governor Allen, of Kansas.

OBITUARY

George Allan Nagle.

The parish of Ludlow has lost one of its oldest settlers in the death, after a painful illness borne patiently, of George Allan Nagle. Deceased was the only child of Richard Nagle and Lydia (O'Donnell), and was born on March 29th, 1848. He lived in Ludlow all his life, and was highly esteemed by all in the vicinity, as was evidenced by the large numbers who attended the funeral, many coming from a distance.

He is survived by his widow, his son Bentley and daughter Lottie, at home; and by Nathan, of Chatham, Herbert, of Ludlow, and two married daughters, Mrs. Arthur Carr and Mrs. C. Doak, of Bolestown.

Interment was made in the burying ground of St. James', Ludlow, after the usual service in the church.

It was only fitting on so glorious a summer day that those present should be reminded of the infinite care with which earthly homes had been prepared by a God of love and encouraged to believe that the same loving care and almighty power were being exercised in the preparing of the Christian's eternal home.

Those who have been bereaved have the sympathy of the whole community.

WARREN G. HARDING A NEWSPAPER MAN

Born on an Ohio Farm in 1865 He Later Graduated Into Journalism

Warren G. Harding has always been a resident of Ohio, which state he has represented as United States Senator since 1914. In private business life he is publisher of the Marion, Ohio, Star.

He was born on a farm, near the village of Blooming Grove, Morrow county, Ohio, November 2, 1865, the eldest of eight children. His father, George T. Harding, was a country doctor whose forebears came from Scotland. Before going to Ohio, the Hardings were residents of Pennsylvania, where some of them were massacred by Indians. Others fought in the revolutionary war. The mother of Warren, Mrs. Phoebe Dickerson, was descended from an old-time Holland family, the Van Kirks.

In his youth Warren Harding lived the life of a farmer boy, attending the village school until 14 years of age, when he entered Ohio Central College of Iberia, from which he was graduated. As editor of the college paper he first displayed a talent for journalism. He was obliged to stop school now and then and earn the money with which to pursue his college course. At one time he cut corn, at another painted barns and at still another drove a team and helped to grade the roadbed of a new railway. At 17 he taught a district school and play a horn in the village brass band.

At odd times he worked in the village printing office, in time becoming an expert typesetter and later a linotype operator. He is a practical pressman and a job printer, and as a "make up man" is said to have few equals. The luck piece he has carried as a Senator is the old printer's rule he used when he was sticing type.

In 1884 Dr. Harding moved his family to Marion. A short time afterward the father purchased for Warren Harding the Star, then a small paper.

On the paper Warren Harding performed every function from devil to managing editor. In all the years the Senator has owned it there has never been a strike or a threatened one.

Senator Harding is closely identified with many other large business enterprises in Marion and other parts of the state. He is a director of a bank and several large manufacturing plants and is a trustee of the Trinity Baptist church.

Mr. Harding has twice represented the 13th Senatorial district of Ohio in the state legislature and served one term as lieutenant governor. At the 1914 election Harding was elected United States Senator by a majority of more than 100,000, running 73,000 ahead of the next highest on the ticket. In the senate he is a member of the Committee on Foreign Relations. Senator Harding married Miss Florence Kling in 1891.

Memorial to Members of St. Paul's Church, Woodstock, Who Lost Lives in the War

Woodstock, June 13.—A very impressive memorial service was held in St. Paul's church on Sunday evening, when a brass tablet containing the names of the young men of the church who lost their lives in the late war, and those who served with the colors, was unveiled in the presence of a large congregation.

The tablet unveiled is of brass and a splendid piece of workmanship, the work of Henry Birks, Montreal, and cost over $300. The inscription reads:

THE GERMAN SITUATION.

Industrious correspondents in Germany are busily engaged in telling the outside world that chaos reigns as a result of the recent election, that reactionaries are gaining power and that a change of government is imminent. These same observers, but a few days since, confidently predicted another revolution in Germany as an accompaniment of the elections. The revolution was not delivered as per invoice, nor does it appear that there was ever any real ground for the gloomy prophecies made so freely in that connection, says an exchange. Reports of the kind, however, are not likely to be discouraged by the Germans, who would very probably send them out themselves if others were not found ready to do the business for them. The actual result of the polling is still uncertain. The Majority Socialists, Democrats and Centrists, forming the coalition upon which the Government relies, has been weakened, but not destroyed. In a Reichstag of 447 members the Majority Socialists will have 109 seats; the Independent Socialists, 76; Centrists, 66; National Party, 62; Volkspartei, 60; Democrats, 44.

The Government has tendered its resignation, doubtless with a view to testing the new strength of the Right, the Nationalists and the so-called People's Party. The opinion of Germans, as reflected in the German press, is that the resignation will not involve a change, but that the Government will be able to carry on, and this would seem to be a reasonable expectation for the reason that no other combination of parties having sufficient strength to form and carry on a government seems practically possible. The groups of Socialists forming the present coalition, on the other hand, are fairly certain to appear as the backbone of whatever new party is to exercise control of German affairs. So far as the rest of Europe is concerned, an outcome of the sort indicated is the one most to be desired, inasmuch as the only alternative will be a government of reactionaries. Whatever Government is in power may be relied upon to pursue a policy of obstruction and evasion in respect of the international obligations of Germany arising out of the Versailles Treaty, but if there is any preference at all, from the Allied standpoint, it is in favor of the present coalition rather than of a government controlled by reactionary militarists of the German old guard. In this regard it is not unpleasing to note that the resourceful and versatile Von Bernstorff, former German Ambassador to the United States, has failed to secure a seat in the new Reichstag.

That the outlook, as regards the treaty, is not particularly bright, is unfortunately true, but this is not so much due to German domestic disturbances as to the regrettable evidences of disunion among the Allies, not to mention the "Associated Powers."

SOCIAL SERVICE IN CHURCH.

The Montreal Methodist Conference and the Presbyterian General Assembly have gone on record as emphasizing the need for greater social service in the life and habits of the people. Twenty years ago it would have seemed heterodox to advocate increased comfort or happiness for the masses, because deprivation tended to fix the mind and thought upon another world in which inequalities would be righted, and therefore it was the general duty to be resigned to misery in a world through which we were only passing—"a vale of tears," which was as nothing compared to that other world to which the absorbed thought should be directed.

Today it is the churches which have stood as a flint against what we call "human pleasures," which advocate the general brightening of life, here and now, remarks the Montreal Gazette. A lady missionary from China remarked the other day in Montreal that social service, applied to the so-called "heathen," was a more hopeful attitude than the inculcation of a theology which the Christian church itself had outgrown; and today the churches—all the churches—are concerned not so much about theological hairsplitting as how best they can gain the confidence and support of the masses which have become largely unchurched through the sense of unreality attaching to age-old creeds.

It is gratifying to see that the churches are in earnest in the purpose to reach and interest and retain the people, through the introduction of features related to the life of every day. That has been the lack of the churches—the vital sense of reality, in respect of problems confronting the individual at all points of human contact. In a word, the churches, haltingly at first, are coming to see the necessity for human warmth and interest, for service, not in the nebulae, but in the concrete. Above all, the churches are finding out that, if they are to serve any large purpose, they must stand back of the demand for larger comfort in the general life. The Churchman, the organ of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States, says that, as, according to Sir Oliver Lodge, the folk "over there" smoke cigars and cigarettes and live pretty much as they lived on earth, the churches should meet that with more intimate human and joyous experiences, not in the distance, but here in the common life of every day.

Just how far the churches can go in these liberalizing directions and still preserve their distinctive character—that is the crux. But the keynote is service and uplift over wide areas. Many are the ingenious plans which are in preparation for the new service and message, rendered necessary by the independence of thought, in these regards, produced by the war, which flashed the awful realities of things upon the minds of millions, and which made all pretence or empty form tragically negligible.

The world is new and virgin for fresh impression. The church can only win it through a cordial and happy and inspiring spirit of service.

SELECTIVE IMMIGRATION.

The steady increase in the number of immigrants coming to the United States is an unmistakable indication of the return of normal conditions, remarks a New York paper. Despite the great loss of life in the European countries occasioned by the war, despite the need of men to rebuild their ruined industries, the lure of America is as strong as of old. Nor is the reason far to seek. For years to come the struggle for existence in the Old World will be hard and bitter. Production will be short, food dear, taxes enormous. These conditions, together with the labor shortage on this continent and the consequent high level of wages, cannot fail to direct the immigrant to these shores.

This development will be welcomed by all who have the good of the peoples of this continent at heart. The vitality and growth and prosperity of the United States is the result in no small degree of the vast stream of immigration which for so many decades has poured across the Atlantic. Themselves a nation of immigrants and descendants of immigrants, how inconsistent it would be for them to close the door to others who wish to follow in their footsteps! And, in this respect, the conditions in Canada are similar; we must welcome the immigrant.

But the old haphazard methods in this vitally important matter should be superseded by a constructive policy of selective immigration. Through official agencies in foreign lands, there should be gathered accurate information concerning the character of each alien applicant for admission. If he be found physically unfit, if he be diseased or defective or criminal, if his purpose in coming to Canada is to assail the established government and social fabric, he should be warned before leaving his native land that he will not be admitted. If, on the other hand, he wishes in good faith to incorporate himself into our society and can prove that he is honest and worthy, he may well be welcomed as an accession to the national resources.

For three centuries this has been the land of opportunity and hope for the lowly and oppressed. All have been welcomed, all have contributed richly to the nation's life and vitality. America cannot at this late day reverse its ancient policy. To do so would not only react injuriously upon its own prosperity, but would be an abandonment of the principles upon which it was founded.

LATH MILL BURNED

St. John, June 14.—The lath mill owned and operated by Fred T. Hazen, situated in the highway leading from the Black River road to the Hickey road and known as the old Ben Lomond road, was destroyed by a fire at 11.30 o'clock yesterday forenoon. All the cantents of the mill, with the exception of the boiler, were burned or so seriously damaged as to be worthless except as scrap.

FATAL ACCIDENT

St. John, June 14.—A particularly distressing accident occurred in Main street, Fairville, opposite the drug store of O. D. Hansen, shortly before 9 o'clock on Saturday evening when J. W. McDuffee, eighty-two years of age, was struck and knocked down by an autmobile driven by Hazen Hamilton of West St. John. Mr. McDuffee was removed to Hansen's drug store, but never regained consciousness and expired about half an hour after the accident.

N. S. FARMERS' PARTY

Kentville, N. S., June 11—The Farmers' party of Kings county had a largely advertised meeting to be held at the Court House this afternoon for the purpose of discussing the advisability of joining the Farmers' movement in Canada. Only fifteen farmers were present. As a result the meeting was called off.

ENGLAND WILL NEVER GO DRY

British Delegate to A. F. of L. Convention Says Conditions Stabilizing

Montreal, June 12.—A message of fellowship and international solidarity of the working class was brought to the American Federation of Labor convention, which opened here on June 7, by J. Jones, M. P., and John W. Ogden, fraternal delegates to the convention from the British Trades Union Congress.

The British delegates report that industrial conditions in Great Britain today are stabilizing, but that the high cost of living is still responsible for a good deal of unrest, and that increased wages have not done more than to keep pace with the rising cost of living, while in some cases they do not cover the present cost of living.

Mr. Ogden is president of the Weavers' Association, representing 200,000 workers in the Lancashire textile district, and in an interview today stated that the workers in his industry are satisfied with their conditions and that the mills are all working to capacity. Wages, which before the war ranged from 25 to 30 shillings weekly, now are from £3:10 to £4, and a 48 hour week is worked. The present wage agreement is binding for twelve months, but in nine months from now the hours question will come up and the workers will endeavor to secure the 44 hour week. Mr. Ogden stated that the textile industry in England had been singularly free from strikes both during the war and since, and that production was being maintained to capacity.

Delegate Jones, who is a member of the Transport Workers' Federation and the National Union of General Workers, and represents the London dock district of Silvertown in the House of Commons, is the mouthpiece of 500,000 workers, most of whom are of the unskilled and semi-skilled class. He stated to a reporter that the average wage increase of this class of labor was 100 per cent. over pre war rates, while the cost of living had increased 140 per cent. The dockers had recently secured a minimum wage of 16 shillings for the 8 hour day, and employers had been forced to admit that a worker in steady employment could not support his family on less than £3:10 a week.

A feature of after-war labor conditions, said Mr. Jones, was the large number of women workers who had been admitted to the unions. The unions had lain down the principle that women should be paid the same standard rates as men, but in recent awards of courts of arbitration women had been excluded from the findings, and this had occasioned considerable dissatisfaction.

Women were being employed more and more in public service institutions as clerks and stenographers owing to the fact that men were not going in for that class of work after their return from the war, said Mr. Jones, but despite the fact that men were scarce for these positions, some sections of retnrned soldiers were taken, exception to the employment of women.

FROM THE PEOPLE

CANADIAN BILLS IN U. S.

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—For the benefit of New Brunswickers motoring across the border, I would like to give an instance experienced during the past few days showing how at least some of our American friends look upon Canadian currency. Being obliged to leave town one day last week before the banks opened, I know that it would be necessary for me to pay a premium to exchange my Canadian money into American bills and, in hopes that I would not be held up and charged unreasonable rates, the first place I tried was a bank. Being an ex-banker myself, I approached the proper party and, as I was standing at the wicket with my Canadian money in hand, the cashier said to me without my having even made a request: "We don't want it at all. We are not interested."

This somewhat surprised me and I politely asked if they would not care to change some Canadian bills for me, for which, of course, I expected to pay the premium asked. To this he replied very sharply: "We do not want your money at all."

This surely is a very surprising state of affairs and one would hardly expect such discourteous treatment from a bank. I afterwards went to another bank nearby and was able to change the money by paying 14 per cent. I am quite aware that one is obliged to pay a considerable premium at the present time for American money, even here, but when it comes to an American bank positively refusing to change money under any consideration, it seems rather strange. There are hundreds of Canadian motorists going across the line every day and it might be well for them to know of this experience and perhaps be guided thereby.

Yours,

MOTORIST.

A PERTINENT QUESTION

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Each year at this time the closing of the colleges sets free a great many students seeking employment for a period of months. I will merely cite my case as typical of these poor students.

I am 23 years of age and have had two years general education at a University and two years at a medical college. Yet each summer I must obtain employment in order to help pay most of my next year's college expenses. When, however, I apply for a position I am always confronted with the query: "What business experience have you had?" Unless I lie I find that I cannot obtain employment. I am not ashamed to work as a conductor on any of the car lines, but I find that even here I must tell a number of falsehoods to obtain the job. The casual mention of "college student" is enough to terminate the interview with a negative reply. Surely we college students are not the useless members of society we are made to seem to be! If some of the small towns, as I am told by out of town fellow students, are showing them preference in some of the more lucrative positions, no doubt city employers should find them very valuable additions to their forces for even the temporary period of four months.

What do your readers think?

Yours,

A STUDENT.

St. John, N. B., June 12, 1920.

ADVICE TO PAINTER'S WIFE

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I read with interest the letter of a painter's wife in the From the People column recently, in which she complains that while her husband works only short hours on five days a week she finds that she must work twelve hours or more seven days a week.

I think she has an honest kick, and the only solution I can suggest is that she follow her husband's methods. When he soldiers on the job, as he and most union men are now doing, his employer is forced to hire more men to get the work done. Let her try loafing on the job, and when the work piles up let him hire help to get the meals cooked, wash the clothes, do the mending and the thousand and one other tasks which she now does to make life comfortable for him.

To meet the extra expense he will be forced to work a few more hours. This is what the world needs today.

Yours,

A SYMPATHIZER.

Public Will Soon Get Line On Season's Racing Stables

Entries for a Number of Meetings Which Close This Week Will Reveal the Composition of the Strings to Race in the East This Year

Entries for a number of meetings in the Maritime Provinces and Maine will close this week and when they are announced the followers of the sport will have a good line on the stables which will be campaigning in the East this season.

The Fredericton Park Association's "curtain raiser" entries close on Thursday, June 17th, and the day following the entries for the opening meeting at Moncton will close. The stakes for the Northern Maine Fair at Presque Isle, Me., which have been re-opened, will close tomorrow.

The classes of the early closing events at Presque Isle are: 2.13, 2.16 and 2.20 mixed and 2.22 and 2.25 trots and 2.30 pace, each for $500, and it has been one of the surprises of the season that they failed to fill, as Presque Isle always have had a big entry. If they cannot fill their stakes, it would look as if Aroostook tracks would be sure to have their meetings in midsummer in opposition to the Maritime & Maine Circuit.

Woodstock Stakes Nomination.

Entries for the stakes at Woodstock's fall fair meeting show a total of 61 nominations for four events, there being 20 for the 2.30 pace, 19 for the 2.24 mixed, 11 in the 2.30 trot and 11 in the 2.18 mixed, the list being as follows:

Addie A. won the 2.35 class in 2.31½, Teddy Mack winning the first heat in 2.30¼.

N.Y. Yankees Win 20 Out of 24 Games, Averaging 7 Runs

Battle With Cleveland for Leadership Now in Full Swing

CARDINALS WIN 11 OUT OF 14

Reds and Robins Fight For National League's Top Position.

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York, June 4.—Cincinnati ousted Brooklyn from the National League leadership yesterday, while the New York Americans overwhelmed Cleveland and brought about a virtual tie in that league, although several points behind the Indians in the league standing.

With the two leading teams in each league fighting each other, the St. Louis Nationals loom up as a rival to Cincinnati and Brooklyn. Cincinnati was far from world series form in the New York series, but showed to better advantage against Brooklyn. Brooklyn is averaging only about two runs a game since returning to its home grounds, while the pitchers are proving ineffective against the western visitors.

Cardinals Going Well.

St. Louis, in the midst of its first winning streak, is meeting little opposition in the east. The Cardinals have won eleven of their last fourteen games. Chicago dropped from the top of the league to fourth place in two weeks, winning its first victory Saturday in eleven games. Boston and Pittsburg showed much improvement over the previous weeks.

The exchange of shortstops by New York and Philadelphia apparently gave new life to both teams, as the Quakers had their first winning streak in a month and the Giants began to play steadier.

Yankees' Great Hitting.

In the American League Cleveland and New York seemingly have nothing to fear at present from the other teams. Good pitching aided the Indians last week, but yesterday the Yankees pounded their pitchers for eighteen hits and fourteen runs. New York averaged seven runs a game to the last twenty-four contests, of which it won twenty.

Boston ended its losing streak when it went west last week, taking three games out of four from Chicago by good batting and steady pitching. St. Louis found the Red Sox twirlers easy. Chicago hit hard in its other games and downed Washington yesterday for the second time. Washington at St. Louis are putting up a strong attack but the Senators are being scored upon heavily. Detroit's second victory over Philadelphia yesterday pitched the Athletics into last place, which the Tigers had been occupying since the season opened.

St. Croix Baseball

St. Stephen, N. B., June 12.—St. Stephen met defeat in their second league game at the hands of the Milltown, Me., nine this afternon on the Milltown diamond. Following is the score:

		R.	H.	E.
Milltown	31000503x	12	15	3
St. Stephen	000000220	4	13	3

Batteries—For Milltown, McKay and Markee; St. Stephen, Simpson, Waterson, H. Vanstone and R. Vanstone.

Umpire—Foss.

Two other games in the N. B. and Maine League were played this week when Woodland, Me., defeated Milltown, Me., with a score of 5 to 4, and Calais defeated Milltown, N. B., by a score of 9 to 5.

Lucille McPherson, 2.17¼; Roxy McPherson, 2.20¼, and Rex Dragon, 2.23¼, were the record horses shipped from New York to London last week.

Umpire Forfeited Game After Shower of Bottles

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

New York, June 14.—The removal from the field of Umpire Corcoran by Police Captain Nugent during the Toronto-Jersey City game yesterday after he had been the target for a shower of pop bottles because of dissatisfaction over some of his decisions, was followed by the forfeiture of the contest to Toronto. Umpire Stockdale refused to continue the game.

Babe Ruth's 17th Home Run; Reds Lead National Again

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

New York, June 14.—In the American League Babe Ruth made his 17th home run of the season in the 6th inning of the New York-Cleveland game yesterday, driving the ball over the right field wall. The score was 14 to 0 for New York.

Chicago won easily from Washington by a score of 9 to 3.

St. Louis continues its hitting streak, defeating Boston 11 to 5.

In the National League St. Louis made it two straight from New York, winning by a score of 5 to 3.

Brooklyn was displaced from first place in the standing by Cincinnati, the score being 1 to 0.

MARYSVILLE TEAM ARE HARD HITTERS

[Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.]

Marysville, N. B., June 14.—The Marysville baseball team arrived home on Saturday next from St. John and report having been treated in a royal manner by St. Peter's baseball club. Harry Anderson received a bad spike wound in the leg and it was found necessary to take him to the hospital where Dr. Broderick rendered necessary surgical treatment. The wound was a bad one and Harry will be out of the game for some time. A return game with St. Peters will take place in the near future.

ST. PETERS WON.

Marysville Team Hammered Ray Hansen's Offerings but Game Was Loosely Played.

St. John, June 14.—In a heavy hitting and rather loosely played game Saturday afternoon on the St. Peter's grounds, the Marysville aggregation of ball tossers went down to defeat before St. Peter's, the score being 15 to 10. A large number of fans witnessed the contest. Time had to be called twice on account of rain, but was resumed and the nine innings played. The rain undoubtedly caused the loose playing, the visitors having nine errors and their opponents seven. The Marysville team is a heavy hitting one, getting sixteen safe bingles off Ray Hansen. They also have a fast infield and a better game is expected when these teams meet again under more favorable circumstances. A slight accident occurred in the eight inning when Dever, as he was sliding into second, spiked Anderson, who had to leave the game.

The times that Moir's had come in "courting days" were sweet memories to her in more than one way. Always fresh, delicious and rich, the heavy coatings made Moir's Chocolates the favorites for all time.

Promoters Say Desirable Site Has Been Found and May Start Operations Soon

St. John, N. B., June 12.—Frank A. Dudley, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., and George N. O'Neill, of Toronto, members of the United Hotel Association, who have been in the city for the last two days in connection with the erection of a hotel costing $1,500,000, returned to their homes yesterday afternoon without making any announcement, but it is said that a desirable site has been selected and that building operations may start soon, according to information given by members of the local interests who have the project in hand.

"I am not saying anything except that I am highly pleased with St. John and that I will be back here soon," said Mr. Dudley as he boarded the Montreal express. "I certainly like St. John and feel quite cheerful about the success of the hotel proposition."

SOME ASSISTANCE FOR SHIPBUILDING

Canadian Yards Could Get Large Foreign Contracts and Ask for Subsidy

Ottawa, June 12.—There is not the best outlook for anything during this session in the line of shipbuilding subsidies as such, though it is possible that some assistance by way of financing foreign contract will be forthcoming. Financial conditions and also political conditions are not the most favorable for money grants. The shipbuilding interests, however, are keeping up the demand and for the third time a delegation representing them interviewed the Premier yesterday. It was represented that large foreign contracts for Canadian yards can be secured if the Government would make certain advances. This is the alternative to the proposal for a subsidy of $10 per ton on displacement and $10 per indicated horse power.

MRS. CARRIE COTT HEADS SUFFRAGISTS

Geneva, June 12.—Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt was unanimously re-elected president of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance at yesterday's session of its congress here. She has agreed to accept the office, it was announced, despite her declaration in a speech yesterday that she felt compelled to retire.

When kerosene oil spilled from the spout of a can a man was carrying out of the grocery store of Howard K. Toley at Columbus, Ind., the man took a potato from a basket and was about to stick it on the spout, but Mr. Tooley took it away and gave him a gumdrop instead. "See here," said he, "potatoes at 12 cents a pound cost too much for stoppers."

IN DAYS OF TERROR

"Me!" replied Maurice, "I neither believe or doubt it, and have no motive to inquire on the subject. When I went to your house it was to visit yourself and your wife, and not on account of Monsieur Morand."

"You do not know him, Maurice," said Dixmer; "Morand possesses a noble soul."

"I grant it," said Maurice, smiling bitterly.

"Let us, however, return to the object of my visit," continued Dixmer.

Maurice bowed, like a man who hears all, but has nothing more to say.

"You say, then, that these reports have already circulated?"

"Yes, citizen."

"Well, then, let us speak frankly. Why should you pay any attention to the silly prattling of idle neighbors? Have you not your own clear conscience, Maurice, and Genevieve, has she not a sense of honor?"

"I am younger than you," said Maurice, who began to be astonished at this pertinacity, and perhaps view things with more susceptibility. "This is why I declare that on the reputation of such a woman as Genevieve, a shadow even should not be permitted to be cast. Permit me, therefore, my dear Dixmer, to adhere to my former resolution."

"And now," said Dixmer, "since we are in order for confession, tell me one thing more."

"What!" said Maurice, coloring; "what more do you wish me to avow?"

"That it is neither politics, nor the report of your assiduities at my house, that induces you to leave us?"

"What is it, then?"

"The secret you have discovered."

"What secret?" demanded Maurice, with so naive an expression of curiosity, as completely to reassure the tanner.

"The secret of the smuggling affair, which you discovered the same evening when our singular acquaintance commenced. You have never forgiven me this fraud, and accuse me of being a bad republican, because I employ English produce in my manufactory."

"My dear Dixmer, I solemnly declare to you that when I visited at your house, I had totally forgotten I was in the house of a contrabandist."

"Truly?"

"Truly."

"You really, then, had no other reason for abandoning the house than that you have stated."

"Upon my honor."

"Well," said Dixmer, rising and offering his hand to the young man, "I hope you will consider this resolution, which has been productive of pain to us all, and will again return to us as usual."

Maurice bowed but made no reply, which was of course equivalent to a refusal. Dixmer left, annoyed at not having been able to re-establish an intimacy with this man, whom certain circumstances had rendered not only useful to him but absolutely indispensable. Maurice was agitated by a variety of emotions of a contrary nature. Dixmer entreated him to return. Genevieve would pardon him. Why then should he despond? Louis, in his place, would have selected a crowd of aphorisms from his favorite authors. But then he had Genevieve's letter, that formal dieu, which he had carried with him to the section and placed near his heart; also the little word received from her the day after he had rescued her from the cowards who insulted her; and, lastly, the obstinate jealousy still retained by this young man against the detestable Morand, the first cause of his rupture with Genevieve.

Maurice remained inflexible in his resolution. But it must be acknowledged, the privation of his daily visits to the old Rue Saint Jacques formed a sad blank in his existence; and when the hour arrived at which he had been accustomed to pay his daily visit to the quarter Saint Victor, he fell into a profound fit of melancholy, and began, from that moment, to survey every aspect of hope or regret. Each morning on awakening he expected to receive a letter from Dixmer, and acknowledged to himself that he had so firmly resisted all persuasion would now at least yield to a letter; each day he sallied out in hopes of meeting Genevieve, and, beforehand, had arranged a thousand ways of speaking to her; each evening he returned in hopes of there finding a letter or message left since the morning, though, doubtless, it would bring an addition to the grief, now become his constant companion.

Often, in his hours of despair, his strong nature rebelled at the idea of enduring so much torture, without retaliation upon the primary cause of all his suffering and all his misery, Morand. Then he formed a project to go and seek some quarrel with Morand, but Dixmer's partner was so inoffensive and gentlemanly, that to insult or provoke him would be a cowardly proceeding on the part of a Colossus like Maurice.

It was fortunate Louis came to distract the attention of his friend from troubles which he obstinately concealed in his own heart, without having the power to destroy them. He had used every argument of theory and practice to secure to its country that heart totally engrossed by another love. But, although this was to be regretted, and although, in another state of mind, it might have dragged Maurice into the centre of the political whirlpool, it had not restored to the young Republican that first activity, which had distinguished him as a hero on the 14th of July and the 10th of August. These two systems, for the last ten months in view of each other, and which, thus far, had only carried on light attacks, and commenced a few skirmishes, prepared to meet body to body, when it was evident that the struggle once begun would end fatally for the one or the other. These two systems, born from the breast of the revolution itself, were those of Moderation, represented by the Girondins, that is to say, by Bressot, Petion, Vergniaud, Valaze, Lanjuinnais, Barbaroux, etc., etc, and La Terreur, or La Montagne, represented by Danton, Robespierre, Chenier, Fabre, Marat, Collot d'Herbois, Hebert, etc., etc.

After the 10th of August, as after every action, the power appeared to pass into the hands of the Moderes. A ministry had been formed from the wreck of the former ministry, and of a new adjunction. Roland, Servien, and Clavieres, former ministers, had been recalled. Danton, Monge, and Le Brun had been nominated afresh. With one exception only, all these ministers belonged to the moderate party. Of course when we say "Moderate" we speak relatively. But the 10th of August had had its echo from afar, and the coalition hastened to march, not to the assistance of Louis XVI. personally, but to the royalist principles tottering at its basis. Then were heard the menacing words of Brunswick, and, as a terrible realization, Langwy and Verdun had fallen into the power of the enemy. Then a dreadful reaction had taken place—then Danton had dreamed of the days of September, and realized the bloody dream, which displayed before the enemies of France an entire scene of immense assassination, ready to struggle for an existence, compromised with all the energy of despair.

September had saved France, but all, in saving her, had exceeded the limits of the law. France saved energy became useless; the Moderes had regained some strength, and then wished to recriminate those dreadful days. The word murderer and assassin had been uttered, a new name had even been added to the national vocabulary—it was that of Septembriseurs Danton had bravely accepted.

FRASERS TAKING OVER DOMINION PULP BUSINESS TODAY

Archie Fraser Left Saturday for Formal Transfer at Montreal Today

CAPACITY OF PLANT WILL BE INCREASED

Deal Has Important Relation to Acquisition of the N. B. Railway Lands

The formal transfer of the Dominion Pulp Company's plant and properties to the Fraser Companies, Limited will take place at Montreal today.

The deal has been under way for some time and Archie Fraser, who has recently returned from Fredericton from Edmundston to reside, left here on Saturday night for Montreal to complete the formal transfer.

A cheque for between $1,000,000 and $1,250,000 will be handed over by the Frasers to the British interests, which have owned and operated the Dominion Pulp Company's business for some years, and tomorrow, June 15th, the new owners will take over the property and commence the operation of their new mill.

The Dominion mill is situated on the Miramichi river opposite Chatham and is known as an easy bleaching sulphite mill. It has a capacity of 50 tons daily and the manager is Walter G. Steevens, who, it is understood, will continue in that position. It is the intention of the Fraser Companies to increase the output of the mill and as soon as the necessary additional plant can be arranged it is expected the capacity will be brought up to not less than 65 tons daily.

The timber limits being transfered are largely areas under license from the Department of Lands and Mines, consisting of about 288 square miles of Crown timber lands, but it is believed the source of supply for raw material which the Frasers are depending largely upon for their new plant is the Miramichi porton of the 1,580,000 acres of timber limits they are acquiring from the New Brunswick Railway Company and upon which the Frasers now hold an option.

The Dominion mill will be the second pulp plant operated by the Fraser Companies, their other mill being at Edmundston, where the bleached sulphite plant is being increased from a capacity of 110 to 180 tons daily. They also operate ten band saw lumber mills, most of which have shingle mills in connection.

NASHWAAK STRIKE ENDS WITH THE MEN GETTING 9 HOURS

Rafting Crews of Nashwaak Pulp and Paper Company Returns to Work

OTHER RAFTSMEN SAID TO BE READY TO STRIKE

Lumbermen Claim Seasonable Work Cannot Be Carried on With Shorter Day

The strike of the Nashwaak Pulp and Paper Company's rafting crew ended this morning when the men returned to work on an agreement for a nine hour day on the same pay they had received for ten hours.

George Kilburn, the company's operations manager, said today that the men had left the work, after blowing the whistles as a signal, on Friday afternoon and had given the company no notice whatever of their intention to quit. "They just walked off the job," said Mr. Kilburn.

This is the first instance in which the nine hour day has been granted for rafting and similar work on the St. John river. The Nashwaak Pulp and Paper Company's rafting grounds are at the mouth of the Nashwaak river opposite Fredericton and are located between the Douglas and Mitchell booms of the St. John River Log Driving Company. So far no move has been made by the latter company's crews for a nine hour day, but one of the men who went out on strike at the Nashwaak said the other crews would follow suit unless granted a nine hour day.

Lumbermen claim it is impossible to profitably carry on rafting and other work on the river on a shorter day than has been in vogue.

THE BRITISH TO EVACUATE BATUM SOON

The Two Thousand Troops There to Be Removed to Constantinople in Fortnight

SAFETY ENDANGERED BY RECENT EVENTS

The Russian Soviet Has Recently Recognized the Right of Georgia to Batum

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

London, June 15.—The British are about to evacuate the Black Sea port of Batum, according to the London Daily Mail, which says the 2,000 soldiers there are to be removed to Constantinople on British warships within a fortnight. Their safety, it declares, has been endangered by the recent overthrow of the Azerbaijan government and the seizure of Baku by the Bolsheviki.

Belief is expressed by the newspaper that an additional reason for the evacuation is the recent treaty between Georgia and Soviet Russia, whereby the latter recognizes Georgia's right to Batum.

Plan to Link Up the Valley Railway With the Eastern Maine Will Be Taken Up Next Year, Declares the Minister of Railways at Conference

THE OFFICIALS OF THE CANADIAN NATIONAL FAVOR LINE AND THEY CONSIDER IT WOULD BE PROFITABLE ONE

The New Line Would Be Approximately 24 Miles Long in New Brunswick to the Border, and the Cost of the Road Is Estimated at Less Than a Million

[Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.]

Ottawa, June 15—A meeting was held yesterday morning at the office of the Minister of Railways, between Hon. Dr. Reid, the minister, Hon. W. P. Jones, president of the St. John and Quebec Railway, the president of the Eastern Maine Railway, and Messrs. Caldwell, Turgeon, Hart and Legere, New Brunswick members, when the question of the building of a link between the Canadian National and the Eastern Maine was taken up.

Canadian National Would Build to Border While Eastern Maine Would Link Up at Same Point

The proposal to build a line connecting the Canadian National with the Eastern Maine, the latter road to build a similar link from Bancroft to the boundary, was taken up. Mr. Caldwell, member for Carleton, acted as spokesman for the members, while Mr. Jones explained the project fully from the railway standpoint.

Minister of Railways Said Nothing Could Be Done This Year, But Would Be Taken Up Next Year

The Minister stated that while there could be nothing done this year, he said if he were in his present position next year he could state that the matter would be one of the first things taken up before the cabinet. He, personally, and all the officials of the Canadian National favored the project, as they considered it would be a profitable line.

Estimated Cost to Canadian National Would Be Less Than Million, and Line Would Be Profitable

The survey of the line has already been made and the estimated cost of construction will be less than one million dollars, while the returns will be such that it is estimated that the line would pay for itself in less than ten years.

The project referred to in the above despatch is that which was originally made some years ago to provide a short line through the Maritime Provinces via the Canadian National Railways, the Maine Central and the Boston & Maine lines to Boston, thus making a new connection with the New England States.

Plans which have been prepared are for two alternative routes from the St. John Valley Railway, one branching off at Allandale and the other at Eel River. The route from Allandale is said to be the most favorable for operation of heavy traffic from the East, while the Eel River route is the easiest of construction, although somewhat longer. Approximately 24 miles of the new line would be in New Brunswick, while the distance from the Maine boundary to connect with the Maine Central at Bancroft, Me., is about 16 miles, this being the portion to be constructed by the Eastern Maine Railway Company, which is being promoted by a Mr. Maxfield, of Maine.

New York, June 15.—Benjamin Silverman was arrested today charged with having received and sold securities valued at thirty thousand dollars, alleged to have been stolen from a Wall street broker. The signatures on the bonds are in the handwriting of Leroy Gardiner, a messenger who was convicted of stealing $118,000 worth of bonds from a Broadway firm, detectives said.

DISCONTINUE ITS FREIGHT BUSINESS

Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company Has Been Operating at a Loss

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Boston, June 15—Discontinuance of its trolley freight business, effective on Wednesday, is announced by the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company. The company for some years has operated an extensive freight service between Boston and Providence, New Bedford, Fall River and other cities in the eastern part of Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

Increased terminal rentals and the high cost of coal were given as the principal reasons for discontinuing the service, which officials said had been conducted at a loss recently. It was announced that the forty heavy freight cars would be converted into snow plows and that the money received from sale of real estate and other property used in connection with the freight business would be devoted to an improvement of the passenger service.

SUPERANNUATION OF HOUSE LIBRARIAN

Sir Robert Borden Explains the Appointment of Mr. Tache to Succeed Mr. Decelles

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Ottawa, June 15.—Sir Robert Borden announced in the House yesterday that the retirement of A. D. Decelles as parliamentary librarian had been under consideration for some time before it actually took place.

Mr. Decelles had arrived at the age of 76. He was not required to retire, and the date of his superannuation was left to his own good judgment, as it was thoroughly realized that his services as librarian had been conspicuous and worthy in every sense.

In the reorganization of the printing bureau it was found unnecessary to continue the office of King's printer, and as Mr. Tache possessed the qualifications for appointment to the office of librarian it was decided to offer him the position. The salary of the librarian of parliament was $6,000 per annum.

The superannuation granted to Mr Decelles was $3,772.22 per annum.

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

London, June 15.—Governmental determination to pass the Irish Home Rule bill was expressed in a long emphatic statement to the House of Commons when discussion of the bill in the committee stage was resumed by the House yesterday. The members were warned that "any supposition of an intention to abandon the measure is quite illusory."

Some observations were made during consideration of an amendment to the measure, moved by Sir Edward Carson and designed to omit the section of the bill giving control of Irish railways to an Irish council. The amendment was defeated by a large majority.

HALIFAX VICTIMS OF DIAMOND THIEF

Crook Represented Himself to Be Australian Ace and Society Took Him In

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Halifax, N. S., June 14.—The local police have made the telegraph wires hot in an effort to find some trace of "D. C. M. Coughdon," a clever diamond thief, who escaped from Halifax last week with a quantity of costly gems and other valuables. The man registered at the Birchdale Hotel, where he gave out that he was an Australian ace, with a fine war record. He was lionized by people socially prominent and was entertained at Government House. A lady at the hotel cashed for him a check, which was subsequently found to be worthless, and introduced him to an official at Birks, Limited, jewellers, who allowed him to take out about $1,000 worth of diamonds "on approval." A day later he disappeared with these precious stones and a number of jewels, worth $2,000, belonging to the lady at the Birchdale, which he filched from her rooms while she was away from the hotel.

Besides the police, private detectives employed by the lady in question and the jewellers are engaged in the case. They have made exhaustive inquiries in Halifax in the hope of securing some clue to the man's whereabouts, but apparently without success.

Today stories are going the rounds of other jewel crooks operating in Halifax, but of these the police say they have no report.

HOW TRAIN BANDITS WORKED IN QUEBEC

Proteau Told Another Prisoner How He and Topping Held up Ocean Limited

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Quebec, June 14.—A graphic description of how the Ocean Limited train was looted by masked bandits at Harlaka last September was told on Saturday at the criminal assizes in the trial of J. B. Proteau, one of the accused.

One of the principal witnesses was Albain Castonguay, who was in the Quebec jail at the time the prisoner at the bar was arrested.

He said he had seen the accused, Proteau, at the jail the day after he (Proteau) was arrested. The accused had told witness that the night of the robbery he and Topping had met at Gosselin's Hotel and had there met Levasseur and Boulanger. They had crossed to Levis and had waited at the Victoria Hotel. When the train passed Proteau and Topping jumped from the gallery to the train. Topping remained on the steps of a passenger car. He was told to get off, but only left when the train stopped. Both men then boarded the mail coach as the train started and held up the mail clerks and took the money to a barn. They had taken $10,000 out of a suitcase before leaving it in the barn.

The pall-bearers were Sir Ezekiel's two brothers, Willard McLeod, of Boston, Mass., and Edward McLeod, of Petitcodiac, and his three nephews, John and Charles McLeod, of Penobsquis, and Herbert McLeod, of St. John. Among the members of the bar attending the funeral were Mr. Justice White, Mr. Justice Barry, Mr. Justice Crocket, Hon. J. G. Forbes, Hon. J. B. M. Baxter, G. O. D. Otty, C. F. Sanford, W. D. A New Beauty of Line Seen in this Chalmers

IT'S a car very easy to look at; and there's a wealth of comfort in those new type seat cushions of this Chalmers. At the radiator the lines are high. At the rear they are low. But this new beauty has in no way penalized roominess.

From the cowl back the top line of the coach is low, but as you sit in the car you lounge even lower.

Once in motion this position becomes even more alluring as you sink into the seat, note the absence of sidesway, and feel that the car is hugging the road closely.

Particularly is your enthusiasm stirred when you observe the ease of the engine's effort, its intense silence, the quick response when you turn loose the power stream.

You tacitly pay a compliment to Hot Spot and Ram's-Horn, for they have Fletcherized the raw gas, utilized the last drop of power that nature stored away.

And you admire a Chalmers the more for it, for in addition to its beauty of action, it is arrayed in new garments that are refreshing to a degree.

Future of the Canadian Navy Discussed in Parliament When The Estimates Brought Down

The Government Has Accepted the Offer of Great Britain of One Light Cruiser and Two Torpedo Destroyers and Will Withhold Policy Until Imperial Conference

(Special despatch to the Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, June 15.—A member of the cabinet expressed the hope this morning that the House would adjourn about the end of June, but that was before Hon. Mr. Ballantyne began his naval estimates. Judging from the excited and belligerent way in which they have received his proposals the end of the session is still further off. The proposals embodied in the speech delivered by the minister seemed to take parliament somewhat by surprise, following on the history of the naval proposals earlier in the session and actions of the minister.

It will be recalled that soon after the session began the proposals contained in Lord Jellicoe's report were presented to the Government caucus and according to the generally accepted report turned down hard. Soon after came the minister's order practically demobilizing the Canadian naval establishment. On March twenty-fifth the minister read a statement in the House that it had been decided to defer action in regard to a permanent naval policy until after the meeting of the Imperial Conference, but the Government had accepted the offer of Great Britain of one light cruiser and two torpedo destroyers to take the place of the Rainbow and Niobe. The minister declared again today that was still the policy of the Government, and in addition he announced the receipt of submarines. So our fleet will now be as above outlined and the old Laurier navy is to be sold under the hammer.

History of Canadian Navy.

Mr. Ballantyne reviewed very fully the history of the Canadian navy and the work of the department during the war. As to the future he mentioned that several Canadian officers were now being trained in Great Britain and the Government would continue to send cadets from the Naval College each year for training in the British navy. The new vessels to be received from Great Britain will be manned exclusively by Canadian officers, except the senior officers of the cruiser, while two-thirds of the men will be recruited from the imperial navy and the remainder in Canada.

The ships, Mr. Ballantyne said, will be kept part of the time on the Atlantic and part on the Pacific. They will be kept at sea getting training, and arrangements have been made with the Admiralty to interchange ships and officers with the British home fleet, so that the Canadian navy may be kept in a constant state of efficiency.

The minister made the further interesting statement that arrangements have been made for the training of thirty-four boys from among those trained by the Navy League and place them on the larger ships of the Canadian Government merchant marine, to be trained as deck officers. The training will last four years, during which they will receive a total of $1,100 and rations. As to the future, the minister said, as to what extent the Dominions will participate in naval expenditure of the Empire will, I hope and I believe the British Government hopes, be determined at the Imperial Conference to be held in London in 1921. It is to be sincerely hoped that as a result of that conference Canada will adopt a permanent naval policy in keeping with her position as a self-government nation within the Empire. She ought to take measures to see that her long coast lines, important seaports and merchant marine should be protected at all times.

Liberal Leader Criticizes.

Speaking immediately after the Minister, Hon. Mr. King said that in view of the Government's former statement of waiting until after the Imperial Conference to decide as to a permanent policy, and today's announcement, it was difficult to know where the government stood. Either acceptance of these ships referred to by the Minister means the adoption of some policy which is to be maintained, or is to make the link for the next year or two, declared the Liberal leader. At this time of all times Parliament should be given full details in regard to any naval policy, whether temporary or permanent. The burden of Mr. King's criticism was that Parliament has been deceived in that the Minister had first come down with estimates of $300,000 and no policy, whereas here they were with estimates for eight times that sum and a policy. Parliament in the first instance should have been consulted on these matters. The people of Canada at this time should be asked to spend the amount of money we are going to be asked to spend. He said that a wave of indignation would sweep the country when the facts went forth. He did not offer to lay down any contra policy at present, but he thought Canada had a right to have her naval policy determined on the floors of the House and not in secret.

The general line of criticism adopted by Messrs. Lemieux and Beland, who followed Mr. King, was that there should be a reduction instead of an increase in naval expenditure, particularly until a definite policy was announced. Mr. Duff, of Lunenburg, who has come to be looked upon as the chief Opposition critic of naval affairs, began to reply shortly before 6 o'clock, with the suggestion that further discussion should be postponed until there was time to consider the proposals. He paused to see if the Minister would accede to the proposal, but getting no response he proceeded with his speech. He had not delivered his criticism when the Speaker left the chair, the understanding being that the debate would be continued in the evening. In the meantime an arrangement was arrived at to postpone the debate.

Support for the Minister.

The only member who spoke on the government side was Mr. Mowat, of Parkdale, a member of the Navy League, who spoke briefly, supporting Hon. Mr. Ballantyne's proposals. Judging from the vigorous way in which the Opposition has begun its criticism of the naval policy, and the fact that there is expected to be considerable opposition develop in the Farmers' party and possibly among the Government ranks as well, it would not be surprising if a pretty strenuous debate would ensue when the matter comes up again. In the meantime there will probably be a Government caucus held, when there will be a chance to get a line on the sentiment of the government followers. The proposals made by the Minister today seem to have been a surprise to the Government as well as to the Opposition. There is said to be a feeling against so large a naval expenditure at the present time, although the members from the Pacific and Atlantic constituencies will likely support the Minister strongly.

ST. JOHN WELCOMES AMERICAN EDITORS

St. John, June 15.—St. John opened wide its heart yesterday and gave the 129 members of the American press party an enthusiastic reception when they began their visit in the Loyalist City. The ovation, which started when the Million Dollar special train arrived at the Union depot and continued when the factory and mill employees cheered the party on its trip along the St. John river, was continued last night when repeated cheers were given the visitors at the banquet given in their honor by the city in the large hall of the Knights of Columbus building, Coburg street.

The fact that Canada and the United States have lived in peace and amity for the last hundred years and that kindred ties unite the two peoples, were the keynotes of the sentiments expressed at the dinner last night. A plea for closer co-operation between the two countries, an appreciation of the work done by Canada during and since the great war, and a denunciation of the tactics of certain "yellow journalists" marked addresses of the visitors.

KODAK AS YOU GO

At every turn of the road are pictures that lend interest to the Kodak Album—charming "bits" of scenery, quaint old buildings, historic spots—such pictures help to make the trip worth while.

But even more delightful, because personal, are the pictures of the haps and mishaps of the journey—grown-ups and children, pictures that have the very life and breath of the holiday spirit.

These are the pictures that are cherished.

ST. JOHN & QUEBEC AND MAINE CENTRAL CONNECTIONS.

The proposal of Mr. W. P. Jones and others, made to the Minister of Railways at Ottawa yesterday, to connect the Maine Central and the St. John & Quebec roads by building a short line from a point on each road and connecting at the boundary line, is not new. It is the scheme of the late Hon. Frank Cochrane, who as Minister of Railways devoted considerable attention to wholesome and practical development of the transportation systems, and whose principal advisor was Mr. Gutelius, then manager of the Government railways. There is no doubt as to the soundness of the original proposition, and there has never since been any doubt that the connection will be made. The Minister of Railways admits that surveys have already been completed, that the estimated cost of construction is less than a million dollars, that the link will make a profitable investment and that the general scheme has the support of officials of the Canadian National.

This connecting link, however, should be built by the Federal authorities, who will operate it. There is no valid reason why the province should build lines of railway for Dominion Government owned systems. We have already had too much of that kind of business in this province. The principle is unbusinesslike and unsound; our experience has been costly and sad. The scheme of the late Hon. Frank Cochrane involved the purchase of the St. John & Quebec by the Dominion Government; and there is yet reason to believe that, if the excessive cost of construction, in the present operations as well as in the past, is not a difficulty which will delay negotiations, the transfer will be made within the next twelve months. The Minister of Railways may have had this phase of the situation in view when he told the delegation yesterday that the proposition, as submitted, could not be taken up this year, but the scheme as favored by the officials of the Canadian National would be given first attention at the next session of Parliament. There is no doubt that the Cochrane and Gutelius scheme will be carried through. It is part of a large national development proposition, and must be treated as such. Fortunately the St. John & Quebec road is an important factor in the working out of the scheme.

The reply of the Minister of Railways shows that his department is as deeply interested as ever in the original proposition. And there can be no doubt that, when satisfactory arrangements are completed, the department will proceed.

THE CANADIAN TAX.

The Finance Minister, in compliance with criticisms levelled against the new luxury taxes, proposes to modify materially some of the levies. Following the plan in the United States, the tax on clothing will apply to the excess only of a fixed price, and not to the whole price of the article above a specified figure. In this way the weight of the tax is lightened in favor of all classes, but more especially those of moderate means, points out the Montreal Gazette. Lower taxation, however, means less revenue, and as the Finance Minister cannot afford to part with revenue, if an equilibrium is to be maintained in the public accounts, he has extended the new levy on sales for consumption to porcelain and furniture.

The modified measure will scarcely assuage the resentment of a people like Canadians, who have only within the last two years become acquainted with a Federal tax gatherer. Tariff taxes, whether of Customs or Excise, are evidence of things neither seen nor felt, so covered up are they in the cost of goods, while postal and railway taxation is so obviously the price of service given that the popular mind does not regard it as taxation. The Finance Minister has changed all that. In cities and towns the public will have constant reminder hereafter that the war has left a legacy of heavy debt to be carried through the years. The regret is that a less complicated system of taxation has not been found. Adam Smith long since laid down maxims with regard to taxes which have commanded general assent:

The subjects of every State ought to contribute towards the support of the Government, as nearly as possible, in proportion to the revenue which they respectively enjoy under the protection of the State.

The tax which each individual is bound to pay ought to be certain and not arbitrary.

Every tax ought to be levied at the time or in the manner in which it is most likely to be convenient for the contributor to pay it.

Every tax should be so contrived as to take out and keep out of the pockets of the people as little as possible over what it brings into the public treasury.

The Finance Minister has had some regard to these maxims in requiring that sales tax and luxury tax shall be shown separately from and not intermixed with the cost of goods; and in respect of both income and luxury levies, he has sought to temper the wind to the shorn lamb by exempting persons of scant means. He has sought to spread the burden according to the strength of the backs that bear it. What may be apprehended, however, is that the taxes will be costly to collect if they are to be equitably applied. The plan imposes expense and labor upon a large number of traders, probably a considerable majority, and although it may be assumed in courtesy that all persons are honest, especially in payment of dues to the Government, we fear that in practice it will be found otherwise. Yet Sir Henry Drayton has looked in vain to Parliament for a substitute system. In all the long Budget discussion there came from neither the Liberal nor the Farmer party a single proposal of practical method of raising needed revenue in better way than that of the Finance Minister. Reduction of tariff duties is a means of reducing, not of increasing, revenue, and the Opposition contention was embraced in tariff reduction alone. The Finance Minister, we believe, is desirous of raising needed revenue by the simplest and most convenient ways, if exception is made of the method proposed by some, that railway rates be increased, and he can truthfully claim that no better plan to produce revenue has been recommended to him by his parliamentary opponents than that he has adopted.

The Federal finances are in straitened circumstance; the country cannot longer carry on with borrowed money without impairment of credit; and the people must pay the cost of government from day to day. Complicated, irritating, cumbrous and costly as is the new plan of taxation, no alternative other than terminating the drain of railway deficits has been proposed, and to that alternative we believe the Government must come at last.

GERMANY'S ELECTIONS.

The results of the German elections, carrying as they do a virtual defeat for the present government, will cause grave misgivings for the future of the new republic. From the very first the Ebert regime, which rests upon a coalition of three republican groups, the Majority Socialists, the Democrats and the Centrists, has had to contend with strong opposition both from the Left and the Right. And this opposition is founded not on differences in national policy, but upon hostility to the republic itself. The radicals wish to establish communism or sovietism, the reactionaries to restore the Empire and the junker supremacy.

It is ominous, then, that in the election the coalition groups should have lost strength, and that both the extreme wings should have made important gains. Apparently the republicans still have a majority in the Reichstag, but a majority so small that any government founded on it alone must have great difficulty in maintaining itself.

In fact, it seems certain that Ebert will have to strengthen the coalition by coming to an understanding with the People's Party, the group which has been the greatest gainer in the elections. But the Volkspartei is openly opposed to the republic, openly demands the restoration of monarchy with all its old objectionable features, militarism, centralization of power, an aggressive foreign policy. To compromise with it would be for the government a step backward, a step toward a return to the old regime which led Germany into its present unfortunate situation.

That there is still hope for the present government lies chiefly in the fact that it occupies the middle ground between the extremists on either hand. Its overthrow would almost certainly lead to civil war, in which Germany, already exhausted and suffering, would be torn anew, a civil war, not only between classes, but between different sections of the country. It would also assume the aspect of an economic struggle, in which the agricultural north and east would pit its strength against the radicals of the industrial south and west.

Even the most violent Red, even the most hidebound Junker, must recoil from the prospect of such a contest. To precipitate it would be to sacrifice all that has been gained in the months since the armistice and to plunge Germany into despair and chaos. But the fact cannot be concealed that the nation has been brought nearer the crisis by the result of the election, that the position of the government has been made far more difficult.

GRUMPY AT OPERA HOUSE TOMORROW

Famous English Comedy Coming Tomorrow—Eminent Players in Cast

Cyril Maude's famous play "Grumpy" which comes to the Opera House for a two days' engagement beginning tomorrow derives its title from an old criminal lawyer nicknamed "Grumpy" by his adoring and adored granddaughter because of his octogenarian querulousness. He is retired from practice and when under his roof his grand-nephew is robbed of a valuable diamond sent home in his keeping by the South African firm he serves. The old man's sleuthhound instincts are awakened and he does not rest until he has discovered the thief and compelled restitution of the diamond.

This is sligl material for a big play but the joint authors Horace Hodges and Wingey Percyval, are said to have built up a comedy that is evidently capable when played by Edward Lewers, Frank Compton and others of not only gripping an audience but of holding their attention unremittingly from the opening to the final fall of the curtain. The whole plot hinges on a very trifling trifle indeed, nothing more than a girl's hair wound around the stem of a flower. But slighter things than this have betrayed criminals before now, and there is nothing illogical in the development of the plot, nor is there anything improbable in the story, which is based upon an incident that many people in the old country will remember having been a cause celebre some years ago.

The "Grumpy" company, which consists of twelve eminent London players, will open their trans-Canada tour in the Maritime Provinces.

The Stock Market

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York (Wall Street), June 15.—Further division of speculative sentiment was indicated by the uncertain trend of prices at the opening of today's stock market. Mexican oils recovered a small part of yesterday's losses and equipments, shippings and specialties, notably chemicals, were firm to strong. Changes elsewhere were very confusing, however. Transcontinental rails showed marked irregularity. Crucible steel continued its recent erratic course, reacting over a point, making full recovery and then falling back 3½ points.

FROM THE PEOPLE

COMPULSORY EDUCATION

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—A recent change in the compulsory education act of one of the states of the neighboring republic has advanced the age at which a boy may lawfully leave school to obtain work from 14 to 15 years. It is not for me to dispute, or even to discuss, the propriety of this advance in the great majority of cases. But by own experience has satisfied me that there are special cases in which it is harmful. There are some boys whose capacity for acquiring and benefitting by that kind of education that exclusively belongs to schools is limited. The limit in such cases is usually reached by the fourteenth year. To keep a boy in school when it has ceased to benefit him, when he has no ability for it or interest in it is to do him harm. I have known a boy so kept to deteriorate seriously, to form bad habits, to fall into truancy. When allowed at last to go to work the new and vital interests put a new life into the boy, but serious harm had been done, and I know that in some cases the harm had been almost irreparable.

When it has become clear that a boy has ceased to get proper benefit from school the common sense course of trying him somewhere else could then be taken.

Yours,

A PARENT.

THE PROHIBITION LAW

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Having read with some attention the reports of the various church conventions on prohibition, as published in the press, I crave the courtesy of your columns for the reason of (1) making a protest, and (2) making a suggestion.

Now, sir, it must be obvious to anyone who reads the newspapers that there are a great many cases brought up for trial of men engaged in procuring spirits and transporting the same contrary to the law. These contraventions take place both in this country and in the United States. It must also be obvious that these wrongdoers are acting, in most cases, at the instigation or for the benefit of a much larger number of people, since the amounts of alcohol usually confiscated at the time the culprits are apprehended are very large, often as much as 100 cases.

It will thus be seen that there are a great many people in this Dominion who really want liquor (the writer begs to acknowledge himself in this number), although it is unfortunate that the majority of sane and reasonable wouldbe drinkers avail themselves of the services of questionable characters, who, for a consideration, adopt the role of "bootlegger." It is much to be regretted that any honest man who really appreciates "a little wine for the stomach's sake" should go behind the back of the law to obtain it. One must deplore the fact that many people would rather spend $100 in circumventing the law then spend $10 openly in attempting to get amended a law which all sensible men must regard as tantamount to interference in a man's liberty of action. So much for the protest.

The suggestion (the details of which I leave to better organizers than myself) is that the Government itself should dispense spirits through a special department. By this means any man could openly procure a reasonable amount of spirits at stated intervals by application at the department—thus no man would be allowed more than a certain amount, which would be personally delivered to him and a receipt obtained. Another benefit would be that, as men would always be sure of a small quantity of drink, there would be eliminated most of the disgraceful orgies which the writer has recently witnessed all over the Dominion, and which he ascribes to the fact that men will drink a great deal if drink is on hand, since they never know when they will obtain the next lot.

Finally, the Government would benefit by receiving direct payments much in advance of the fines reluctantly paid by convicted persons.

Yours,

MODERATE DRINKER.

St. Stephen, N. B., June 12, 1920.

WHY?

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Why should the spirit of man shroud itself in the same drab, standardized garb? Masculinity goes about garbed in the uniform dulness of mourning, while femininity flutters about in the variegated hues of the butterfly. Mark Twain, courageous soul, sought to lead the way in breaking away from the shackles of conventionalized attire, but no one appears to have taken the mantle of Elijah from him. Strikingly different costumes need not cost much; and there is no reason why a man should be thought queer because he wears a sash instead of a belt or has something colorful and imaginative about his garments. Can't something be done?

Yours,

A. R. W.

Fredericton, June 14, 1920.

ANTIQUITY OF CHESS

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—The controversy in some of your contemporaries without the province regarding the game of chess recalls a story that may interest your chess playing readers. The story is an old one, but may bear retelling.

The story is to the effect that the game was the invention of a poor peasant in India. He taught it to a wealthy rajah, who became infatuated with it and asked the peasant to name his own reward—whatever he named would be his.

The peasant asked for one grain of rice for the first square on the chessboard, two for the second, four for the third, eight for the fourth, sixteen for the fifth and so on up to the sixty-fourth square. The rajah regarded this as very modest, smiled at getting off so easily and grandly ordered his treasurer to pay the sum demanded.

It appears, however, that the amount of rice asked by the peasant would exceed all the rice ever gathered an the earth since the creation of man, so the rajah's grand bluff was "called," and in lieu thereof the peasant got a "vote of thanks."

The story may or may not be true. But we've got the game and a fine one it is, too, so what's the odds?

Yours,

GAMBIT.

DESTROYERS of stockings! Truly. The rules of wear and tear they know from A to Z. Yet, try as they will, it takes them longer to go through the knees of Penmans stockings.

There's something more than strong re-inforcing to defy the wear and tear. The yarn is of special long-fibre, spun carefully to insure strength.

To make sure of extra wear as well as neatness and warmth, mothers need only remember the name Penmans.

STEAM DRIFTERS TO GO TO BRITAIN

Halifax, N. S., June 14.—Word has been received that forty steam drifters belonging to the British Admiralty, most of them moored in Halifax harbor, are to be forwarded to England. Owing to the marine trades strike, however, there is delay in getting them ready, as many of them require repairs and attention before starting to cross the Atlantic. These drifters were constructed for or purchased by the Imperial Munitions Board for use as mine sweepers during the war. Some of them were in opertion on the Canadian coast during the latter part of the war.

Metal Beds in "Period" Designs—Just Brought Out by Simmons Limited

THE "SHERATON" Bed illustrated above in Twin Pair is one of those beautiful new Simmons designs that women all over the city are talking about because of their exquisite harmony with the very best bedroom decoration today.

You will see perhaps a dozen designs in the leading stores—and not the least remarkable thing about them is that they cost little if any more than the ordinary metal beds you have been seeing for years.

* * *

THE woman who has been divided in her mind between her liking for the undoubted cleanliness of metal beds, and her distress at the way they look in the room—will be interested in knowing just how these new Simmons designs came about.

Simmons Limited has been working on the problem of good design in metal beds for years.

But really good designs cannot be carried out in old-style tubing. It has a seam running the full length of the tube. It cannot be worked into the shapes. It is apt to be rough—does not take the enamel smoothly.

All these new designs are made with the Simmons Seamless Tubing— a new invention of the greatest practical importance.

Square and trim—free from joint, seam and roughness. Beautifully smooth, so that the enamel lies tight and evenly all over—does not scratch, check or chip.

* * *

YOU will find these fine new Simmons designs in Beds Built for Sleep in the leading stores. Quiet beds, with the Simmons Pressed Steel Corner Locks—free from squeak or rattle.

Your choice of many different patterns—and of Twin Pairs and Double Width in each pattern. Enameled in the accepted Decorative Colors, and in Mahogany, Oak and Circassian Walnut.

Simmons Springs, too—

"Waldorf" Box Spring—Composed of finest oil-tempered double-cone spirals, mounted on a frame of seasoned hardwood and upholstered with heavy layers of white cotton felt. Covered with attractive ticking. Finished with roll edge. A spring that really does give freely to all the contours of the body, yet supports the spine in any sleeping position.

And some very charming Brass Beds and Children's Cribs, together with Simmons Mattresses and Pillows—all built for sleep by Simmons Limited.

* * *

SIMMONS Beds, Springs, Mattresses and Pillows cost little if any more than the ordinary merchandise of the average store.

A post card to us will bring you the names of Simmons merchants near your home.

Anarchist Conspiracy to do Away With Lenine and Other Soviet Heads Not Successful

Reports That Trotsky Had Been Slain and Lenine Forced to Flee From Russia Not Confirmed—The Russian Liabilities to Foreign Powers Repudiated

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Copenhagen, June 15.—The receipt here of telegrams from both Trotzky and Lenine is held to dispose of rumors originating in Tokio that Trotzky had been murdered and Lenine had fled from Moscow.

The Plan to Murder Lenine.

London, June 15.—An "anarchist conspiracy" against the soviet government is reported from Moscow, says an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Berlin dated Sunday.

The plan was to murder Premier Lenihe and M. Bucharin, president of the Third Internationale, during the May Day celebration. This plan, however, was a failure and the date of the murders was set for June 21, according to the account received in Berlin.

Under the second plan, it is declared, Finance Commissary Krestinsky and other of the Bolshevik commissaries, including M. Zinovieff, also were to be killed.

British officials are unable to confirm or deny the report of a conspiracy against the Bolshevik government.

Bolshevik Atrocities

Warsaw, June 15.—No change in the battle situation is reported from the upper and middle Beresina River regions.

Confirmation has been received of reports that the Bolsheviki during their brief stay at Berdicheff, about 100 miles southwest of Kiev, wounded the members of the medical staff and the sisters of charity and burned the hospitals.

Repudiate Russian Liabilities.

London, June 15.—Soviet Russia does not recognize its liability for debts contracted by Russia up to November, 1917, and if compelled to meet them will have various offsets, says the London Times, in reporting conversations between British Ministers and Gregory Krassin, Russian Bolshevik Minister for Trade and Commerce.

Krassin, when the matter was called to his attention, is said to have denied the existence of any liability, but intimated that if the force of circumstances should make it desirable for the soviet government to accept such liability, then the soviet government would, as a counter balancing factor, insist upon inheriting the rights and privileges secured by Russia, by former treaties. He laid especial emphasis, it is declared, on the convention of 1915, which awarded Constantinople to Russia. In addition, the newspaper asserts, Krassin stated that if soviet Russia was compelled to bear the burden of the debts of the imperial regime, it would insist on writing off against that debt charges incurred in overcoming the attacks of "White rebels," insofar as such attacks were financed or supported by any foreign power.

MATINEE, THURSDAY AFTERNOON

OBJECTIVES FOR RED-BLOODED CANADIANS

What are the objectives of the Navy League? Briefly, they are these:

To keep alive the memory of the valor and sacrifices of our seamen during the great war and to impress upon present and future generations, as well as upon foreigners who make their homes among us, what the Union Jack stands for, the respect that is due it, and the necessity for supporting it to the fullest extent of our country's ability.

To constantly remind Canadians that the liberty and peace they enjoy they owe to the Navy.

To render relief to the dependents of sailors who lost their lives during the war and to help disabled seamen, through aid to Hospitals and otherwise.

To assist in the training of men and boys for the Navy and Mercantile Marine.

To impress upon the Government the importance of maintaining an adequate naval fleet to co-operate with the Imperial Navy.

To do everything possible to strengthen Canada's position as a seafaring power and as a member of the great family of British Nations.

To educate Canadians as to the meaning of "sea-power" in its fullest, broadest sense.

To look after the welfare of sailors at our ports through the medium of the thirteen Institutes extending from Sydney, N. S. and Charlottetown, P. E. I. to Victoria, B. C.

Generally, to promote the interests of Canadian shipping, sailors and sea-ports.

Worthy objectives truly. Every red-blooded Canadian should stand by the Navy League in the carrying out of these objectives.

FALL IN SILVER ON BRITISH MARKET

Market Affected by the Large Amounts Being Offered From Continent and India

London, June 15.—The market is inclined to look for a further considerable fall in silver, according to the London Times, owing to the very large amounts which continue to be offered from the continent and elsewhere. The position, however, is obscured by lack of definite information as to the intention of United States authorities with regard to the Pittman Act.

Silver suffered another set back yesterday of nearly six pence per ounce on execution of fair sized selling orders from India which had accumulated over the week end, while offerings from the continent were on a liberal scale.

The decline in eastern exchanges helped the downward movement and in the absence of any supporting orders the market closed weak.

EXPORT OF WHEAT FROM ARGENTINE

London, June 15.—Premier Lloyd-George has informed the House of Commons that the government has sent representations to the ambassador at Washington concerning the effect of the Jones bill on British mercantile marine. The government, said the Premier, is inquiring into the question of export of wheat from Argentina. He expressed the belief that shipments could not be resumed.

THE NATIONAL EDITORIAL PARTY

about the city and to various points of interest, including the St. John River Log Driving Company's rafting grounds, the Canadian Cottons' mills at Marysville, the military hospital and vocational school.

The auto drive was commenced as soon as informal welcomes had been extended by Deputy Mayor T. S. Wilkinson, members of the City Council, Board of Trade, representatives of the Provincial Government and others. This evening the province's official welcome will be extended at a public reception to take place in the assembly chamber at the Parliament Buildings Premier Foster and Dr. W. C. Crocket, M. L. A., and former mayor of Fredericton, will deliver addresses to which representatives of the visitors will reply. Mrs. Crocket will receive the guests with the Premier and an informal dance will be followed by a showing of special moving pictures of big game, fishing and lumbering in New Brunswick at the Gaiety Theatre. During the evening there will be a concert by the Fredericton Brass Band at the bandstand at Parliament Square.

Flags and bunting are being displayed and there is every indication that the party's visit in Fredericton will be much enjoyed, although showers were threatening when the special train arrived here. The special train is in charge of C. K. Howard, general agent of the C. N. R. at Boston; F. W. Robertson, general passenger agent at Moncton; A. H. Lindsay, advertising agent at Moncton; J. D MacNutt, inspector of despatching offices, and other C. N. R. officials. The party will leave here tomorrow morning for Dalhousie, where they will be guests of the All New Brunswick Tourist Association, after which they proceed through Quebec and Ontario to Windsor, Ont., where the tour ends. There were 129 people in the party, including 59 men, 57 women and 13 children. The complete list appears on page 6 of The Gleaner today.

Meetings at Calgary Were More Peaceable Than Newspaper Reports Would Indicate

Mrs. G. C. VanWart, who has just returned from Calgary, where she attended the National Convention of the I. O. D. E., speaks in glowing terms of the hospitality of the Western people, who did everything they could to make the delegates stay in their city a happy one, and for one day they were the guests of the people of Calgary at Banff, the great C. P. R. resort.

In speaking of the meetings, Mrs. VanWart said a great deal of routine work was transacted and that they were "much more peaceable than would appear from the reports published in the different newspapers of Canada."

There were only five delegates from New Brunswick present at the National Chapter Convention, Mrs. Vroom, St. John; Mrs. H. F. McLeod, Mrs. A. M. Adams, of St. John; Mrs. G. C. VanWart and Miss Harriet VanWart, of this city, and of these four were appointed on the executive, Mrs. R. FitzRandolph, member ex-officio; Mrs. G. C. VanWart, who has been a member for years, and Mrs. Vroom and Mrs. Adams. Last year the Standard Bearer was elected from this Province, but this year Nova Scotia has the honor.

In speaking of the work of the National Chapter, Mrs. VanWart said that education was the big work planned by it as well as the Provincial Chapters.

BOXING CHAMPION TAKES THE STAND

San Francisco, Calif., June 15.—William Harrison (Jack) Dempsey, heavyweight boxing champion, testifying on his own behalf in his trial on charges of evading the United States Selective Draft Act, yesterday denied charges of non-support and cruelty made by his former wife, Mrs. Maxine Dempsey.

Dempsey described himself as having been the principal support of his family from the time he was fourteen years old. He detailed experiences as a farm hand, miner, carpenter and boxer, including reverses when "the boxing was dull", and toward the end, his life as a budding champion. Dempsey said he had supported his wife until she left him in 1917.

Dempsey said he never had struck his wife, and that the jaw fracture she sustained was caused by a fall. Mrs. Dempsey's testimony early in the trial alleged that her husband struck her on the jaw because "she had not earned any money for him."

ONLY 7 OPPOSED BONDS GUARANTEE

Woodstock, June 15—The proposal to guarantee the bonds of the Agricultural Society for $35,000, to cover the indebtedness on the exhbition plant and race track at Island Park, met with almost the unanimous consent of the ratepayers of this town here yesterday in the plebiscite that was held on the question. Only seven persons voted against the plan, which will now be put into effect at once.

Lemon Obtained from Local Grocer.

A Woodstock Indian, who appeared before Magistrate Limerick some days ago charged with drunkenness and was remanded, today appeared before the Magistrate again and on his promising to leave for Woodstock this evening he was dismissed. Upon being questioned he admitted that he obtained the lemon from a local grocer. When asked this morning if anything further would arise out of the Indian's assertion that he obtained the lemon from a grocer in this city, Police Magistrate Limerick stated that nothing further would arise in his court as there was no Provincial law forbidding the sale of lemon extract and he could not make laws of his own to cover the offense.

The Navy League.

The objects of the Navy League are to keep alive the memory of the valor and sacrifice of our seamen during the great war and to impress upon present and future generations, as well as upon foreigners who make their home with us, what the Union Jack stands for. Also to remind Canadians that the liberty and peace they enjoy they owe to the navy; to impress upon the Government the importance of maintaining an adequate fleet, and to look after the welfare of sailors at our ports through the medium of the institutes. A worthy object truly. Every red-blooded Canadian should stand by the Navy League in carrying these out.

STRIKE OF BRITISH WIRELESS MEN

The Operators Quit This Morning, Demanding an 180 Per Cent. Increase in Wages

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

London, June 15. — A strike of marine wireless operators which will affect all ports and shipping was declared this morning by the Association of Wireless Telegraphists.

The men are demanding an increase of approximately 180 per cent. in wages, over the pre-war rates and also better conditions of employment.

Under the strike order operators on ships are instructed to cease work when their voyages end and not to sign for further trips.

This is the first general strike of its kind and according to union men today it may take on international aspects. The Marconi headquarters on the Strand and the docks will be picketed by the strikers, it was stated.

TELEGRAPH RATES LATEST TO GO UP

H. C. L. Hits the Telegraph Service and Messages Cost More

An increase in telegraph rates went into effect yesterday. The rate to points in eastern Canada in the past was the lowest of any rate in America. To these points the rate has been brought up to that in effect in western Canada and in the United States. The rate from here to American points has been increased very slightly. The increases, it is announced, have been made necessary by the increased cost of copper wire and all other materials used in the telegraph business. The wages of telegraph operators have more than doubled since the war. The increases are as follows:

	Old rate.	New rate
To points in N. B. and N. S.	25 & 1	30 & 2
To points in Quebec	30 & 2	40 & 3
To points in Ont.	30 & 2	45 & 3
To points in Man.	75 & 5	95 & 5
To points in Sask.	100 & 7	119 & 7
To points in Alberta	100 & 7	125 & 8
To points in B. C.	100 & 7	125 & 8

To points in the United States the increase is very small. The rate to Boston, New York and nearby points increases 50 to 55 cents. The 60 and 70 cent rates also increase by five cents each, while the 75 cent and $1 rates increase by ten cents each.

Plans for a building have been prepared and estimates are being made at the present time. At Moncton a meeting was held with the City Council and the outlook for vocational work is that the city of Moncton will take up evening work and day commercial courses in the High School.

Methodist Minister Made No Charge Against Any Member Of House of Being Bribed

His Remarks on the Question of Race Track Gambling Legislation Misconstrued by a Portion of the Press—Sends Letter to Speaker of the House

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, June 15.—Rev. Dr. Speer, of Toronto, whose reported remarks before the Toronto Methodist conference created considerable commotion in the House yesterdya, will not be haled before the bar of the House. The story of his remarks, as carried by the Canadian Press is not the same as that more fully reported in the Toronto papers, and the explanation which the reverend gentleman has sent to the Speaker puts a different complexion on the matter. It will be read in the House this afternoon.

The Speaker asked Mr. Speer if he were correctly reported in the despatch quoted yesterday in the House by the Premier, and if so, what was his explanation. The text of Dr. Speer's reply is as follows:

Toronto, June 14, 1920.

To the Speaker of the House,
Ottawa, Ont.:

Sir,—In replying to your telegram today, re reported statement of mine at the Methodist Conference, re race track legislation, I beg to state that I had no intention of casting any reflection on any member of the Ottawa Parliament as to his integrity or honor. My statement was that the church had no money to send deputations to watch legislation and lobby for our side; the race track men, of course, had the money. My thought was not that money was used in the sense of bribery, but in keeping men there. We were berated by one speaker because we did not send letters. The words "foregone conclusion" referred to the fact that after the war was over this matter of racing would come back. I did not leave the impression on the Conference that I thought it a foregone conclusion that the Government would stand in with the race track people. I greatly regret that a false impression was left by the half dozen sentences which I uttered on this question. I shall be glad, Sir, if you will make the substance of this telegram clear to the members of the House.

(Signed) J. C. SPEER.

REPORTS BEFORE METHODIST BODY

The Hartland Circuit Detached From All Appointments on West Side of River

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Sackville, N. B., June 15.—At the Monday evening session of the N. B. and P.E.I. Methodist conference a resolution was passed giving direction that all circuits which had not reached independency by May 15th, 1921, should be recommended as missions at the annual district meetings and that the matter should be dealt with at the first day of the annual conference, 1921.

The Hartland, N. B., circuit was detached from all appointments on the west side of the St. John river.

Lindsay circuit was made a separate circuit.

At this morning's session the report of the committee on evangelism and social service was presented. The chairman of this committee is Rev. H. A. Goodwin and the secretary is Rev. H. A. Brown. Reference is made to the prohibition referendum in this province on July 10th. An appeal is made to the electors "to roll up such a majority for prohibition in this election as will guarantee success to the future endeavors of our temperance leaders, to secure from the government such amendments and powers as will give to our province the only kind of prohibition which is worth while."

STRANGLED HIMSELF

Toronto, June 15.—William C. Schmidt strangled himself to death with a quilt yesterday. He left two notes which indicated that his mind was unbalanced.

John Hazen, of New York, is spending a few days in the city, the guest of his mother, Mrs. George Hazen, George street.

A Ready Response

There is something about Moncton, N. B., which appeals strongly to the investor in Municipal Bonds. On Thursday morning we made the first announcement of the new issue of $393,000 in

6 p. c. Bonds

A sale which constitutes something of a record. The remarkable growth of Moncton and the satisfactory state of the city's finances no doubt contributed largely to this result and the remainder of the issue may be expected to go quickly.

"Curtain Raiser" Meeting Sure to Produce Good Racing For Opening of the Season

Horses Already in Sight to Fill All Six Classes That Were Offered—Frank J. Power to be Starter—Dr. McAllister, of Sussex, Here

Reports presented to a meeting of the directors of the Fredericton Park Association last evening cleared up any doubt there may have been as to whether the "curtain raiser" meeting here on June 30th and July 1st would take place.

There are sufficient horses now in sight for the meeting, although entries do not close until Thursday, June 17th, an indications point to six good races on the two days. Frank J. Power, of Halifax, has been engaged as starter and will go from here to Houlton, Me., to start the horses at the opening meeting of the Maritime and Maine circuit there on July 5th and 6th. He has also been engaged for the Woodstock circuit meeting on July 12th and 13th, in fact he will officiate at practically all the Maritime and Maine circuit meetings this season.

In spite of financial inducements which horsemen declare they are being offered to race at the opening meeting at Moncton on July 1st, 2nd and 3rd, there is evidently not much attraction for most of the stable managers to make a shipment which carries them so far out their way, especially when they are sure of hard racing against the Potvin stable of Montreal and others which are coming in from outside to open at Moncton, and it means they must miss the opening of the circuit. If reports of favors being handed out from Moncton are correct the horsemen are really being virtually handed back what is merely their own money. The same tactics were tried last year and failed to prove a howling success.

This morning Dr. D. H. McAllister, of Sussex, whose horses have been in training here for some weeks under the direction of Fred Cameron, the well known campaigner, arrived to look over his string and see what kind of shape they are in for the opening meeting. The genial doctor announced his intention of having his horses race here in spite of inducements to have him go elsewhere and said his stable of horses were at the disposal of the management to make the "curtain raiser" meeting as much of a success as possible. He also announced that his horses would be shipped from here to Houlton for the M. and M. Circuit opening there and would then race at Woodstock and the balance of the meetings throughout the entire circuit. The local management have been much pleased with the spirit of co-operation which has been shown by the Sussex horsemen and hope that Fred Cameron will be here each spring with the McAllister stable.

Devon Surprises Fans by Beating Marysville, 11 to 3

Tanker Hughes Played With Devon and Proved a Great Help

Y. M. C. A BEAT OLD TIMERS

Fred McLean and Mike McDonald Failed to Play For City.

The Marysville team lost their first flame in the York County Baseball League when "Tanker" Hughes, playing under protest pending the settling of his amateur status, led the Devon team to a 11 to 3 victory over the league leaders.

Fred McLean failed to appear with the Old Timers in their game with the Y. M. C. A. team at the Trotting Park and Mike McDonald, the veteran catcher, was also absent; but it was not until the final inning that the Y. were able to swing into the lead, finally winning by the score of 7 to 4.

"TANKER" HUGHES HELPS

Hammers Out Three Hits in as Many Times at Bat and Pulls Team Together.

The Devon team surprised their followers last evening by pulling off a victory over Marysville to the tune of 11 to 3. The Devon boys fielded well and hit McPherson hard with the result that they had the game in hand from the start.

"Tanker" Hughes made his return to baseball and showed up in his old time form, getting three hits, two singles and a two-bagger in three times at bat. His presence behind the bat for Devon was the making of the team, which seemed to pick up with him in his old position:

Y. M. C. A. WON

The Old Timers Blew Up After Taking the Lead in the First Half of the Seventh Inning.

One of the best games of the season at the Trotting Park was won last night by the Y. M. C. A. team when, with Hayward Paynter in the box, they won from the Old Timers by a score of 7 to 4. The Old Timers' regular battery—Fred McLean and Mike McDonald—were absent but the team almost won without their help. They took the lead with three runs in the fourth and then pulled out again in the seventh by hard hitting, only to blow up in the last half of the inning when the Y. mixed three hits with their opponents' errors.

The game was marked by a lot of crabbing over the umpire's decisions, a feature which doesn't take well with the spectators.

GRADY KNOCKED OUT BY MIKE M'TIGUE

Halifax, June 14.—Mike McTigue made his first appearance here since his return from New York at the G. W. V. A. tournament when he knocked out Young Grady, of Boton, in the fifth round of a scheduled fifteen-round bout. Grady was outclassed. McTigue knocked him down for the count of nine in the second round, and had him practically out in the fourth, but he was saved by the gong. McTigue finished shortly after the opening of the fifth. Hector McInnes, who was referee of the recent O'Dowd-Wilson fight at Boston, was one of Grady's seconds.

Lyman, of Moncton, had the best of the bout with Patterson, of Halifax, when the latter injured his foot in the third round and retired.

Gunner Arnold and Vic McLaughlin were ordered out of the ring in the second round by the referee, declaring no contest.

You buy a mower to cut grass and you expect it to do so under all ordinary conditions without wasting the grass, clogging the mower or putting excessive strain upon the horses. There are reasons why the Deering Mower will cut grass even when conditions are bad, without danger of encountering any of these difficulties.

1. The Deering Mower Wheels with staggered lugs give ample traction.
2. The Wheels are exceptionally strong.
3. The Wheels are adjustable at Hub to take up End Play.
4. The Deering Mower has very LIGHT DRAFT because of Ball and Roller Bearings.
5. The Deering Mower is strong in the Framer where strength is needed.
6. The Deering Mower Crankshaft retains oil and for this reason the Bearings last longer.

The Friendly Smoke

THERE is something mighty comforting and satisfying about "OLD CHUM" Tobacco; a sort of soothing restfulness that pipe smokers have come to associate with this friendly smoke.

"OLD CHUM" is an old, old chum with all pipe smokers.

It has the perfect tobacco taste—the mellow richness—and men know that they can be chummy with "OLD CHUM" all day long and that the "good night pipeful" will be as sweet and cool as the one enjoyed just after breakfast.

For years and years "OLD CHUM" has been Canada's favourite pipe tobacco and today is more popular than ever.

IN DAYS OF TERROR

Clovis had for a moment inclined his head under the baptism of blood to raise it only still more lofty and menacing. Another opportunity to renew La Terreur presented itself, it was the process of the King. Violence and moderation entered, not altogether to wrestle against persons but principles. The hope of relative strength was founded on the royal prisoner. Moderation was overcome, and the head of Louis XVI fell upon the scaffold. On the 10th of August, the 24th of January had rendered to the coalition all its energy. It was still the same man who they opposed, but not the same fortune. Dumouriez, arrested in his progress by the disorder of all the administrations which prevented the succour of men or money reaching him, declared against the Jacobins, whom he accused of causing this disorganization, adopted the party of the Girondins, and ruined them in declaring himself their friend. Then La Vendee rose threatening the districts misfortune producing treason, and treason misfortune. The Jacobins accused the Moderes, and wished to strike the blow on the 10th of March, that is to say, during the evening when our story commences. But too much precipitation on the part of their adversaries saved them and perhaps also the rain, which had caused Petion (that profound anatomist of the Parisian mind) to remark—

"It rains! there will be nothing tonight."

But since the 10th of March everything threatened ruin to the Girondins. Marat was accused and acquitted. Robespierre and Danton were reconciled as a lion and tiger would reconcile themselves before fighting the bull they both intended to devour. Henriot, the Septembriseur, nominated Commandant-General to the National Guard; everything presaged that awful day, which would carry away by storm the last dike the Revolution oposed to La Terreur. Such were the great events, in which under any other circumstances Maurice would have taken that active part, for which his powerful nature and exalted patriotism so fully qualified him. But happily, or unhappily, for Maurice, neither the exhortations of Louis, nor the terrible preoccupations abroad, had been able to divert his mind from the one idea that possessed it; and when the 31st of May arrived, the fierce assailants of the Bastile and the Tuileries was laid upon his bed, devoured by that fever which destroys the strongest, and yet only requires a week to run its course, look to heal.

CHAPTER XIII.

The Thirty-first Day of May.

During the morning of the 31st of May, when the tocsin and beat of drum had ben sounding since the break of the day, the battalion of the faubourg St. Victor entered the Temple. When all the usual formalities had been gone through, and the posts distributed, the municipals on service arrived, bringing with them four pieces of cannon, in addition to those already forming the battery at the gate of the Temple. At the same time Santerre arrived, with his epaulets of yellow wool, and a coat on which his patriotism was displayed by large spots of grease. He reviewed the battalion, which was in a proper state, but on counting the municipals, found only three.

"Why are there only three municipals?" inquired he; "and who is the bad citizen who fails us?"

"The absent citizen, General, is not, however, un tiede," replied our old acquaintance, Agricola; "for it is the Secretary of the Section Lepelletier, the chief of the brave Thermopyles, the citizen Maurice Lindey."

"Well, well," said Santerre, "I know as well as yourself the patriotism of the citizen Maurice Lindey; but that will not deter me, if he is not here in five minutes, from inscribing his name in the list of the absent.'

And Santerre passed on to other details. A few paces from the General, at the moment he pronounced these words, a captain of chausseurs and a soldier had stationed themselves, one leaning again his gun, the other seated on a cannon.

'Did you hear?" said the captain to the soldier in a low tone. "Maurice has not yet arrived."

"Yes; but rest assured he will arrive, he will not remain quiet."

"In case he should not come," said the captain, "I will place you sentinel on the staircase; and as she ascends to the tower, you will be able probably to speak a word to her."

At this moment a man, evidently a municipal from his tricolored scarf, entered; but this man being a stranger to the captain and the chasseur, they both regarded him attentively.

"Citizen General," said the new comer, addressing Santerre; 'I request you to accept me in place of Citizen Maurice Lindey, who is ill. Here is the medical certificate; my turn of guard arrives in eight days. I now exchange with him; in eight days he will do duty for me, as today I will for him."

"Provided Capet and the Capets live eight days longer," said one of the municipals.

Santerre replied by a slight smile to this pleasantry, and turning towards Maurice's proxy

"Very good," said he; "sign the register, in lieu of Maurice Lindey, and consign to the column of observations the reason for this exchange."

"In eight days," said they.

"Captain Dixmer," said Santerre, "take your position in the garden with your company."

"Come, Morand," said the captain, to the chasseur his companior. The drum sounded, and the company divided itself into groups, which dispersed themselves according to their inclination, far and wide. Their place of promenade was the same garden where, in the time of Louis XVI., the royal family came sometimes to take the air. This garden was naked, barren, and desolate, completely despoiled of trees, flowers, or verdure of any kind. At about five-and-twenty paces, or perhaps rather nearer, that portion of the wall built on the Rue Porte Foin, rose a species of cottage, which the foresight of the municipality had established for the convenience of the National Guard stationed at the Temple, who during the days of riot, when they were not permitted to go out, found it an accommodation to take their meals in this little cottage. The direction of this little alehouse had been a matter of contention, till at length concession was made in favor of an excellent patriot, wife of Faubourien, killed on the 10th of August, and who bore the name of Plumeau. This little cabin, built of planks and mud, rose in the middle of a border, of which the bounds may still be recognized by a hedge of dwarf box trees. It was composed of a simple chamber, twelve feet square, under which extended a cave, entered by steps rudely cut in the earth itself. Here the widow Plumeau stowed away her wine and provisions. This department was ultimately managed by herself and daughter, a girl of twelve or fifteen years of age. Hardly established at their bivouc, the National Guards separated, as we have said, some to saunter in the gardens, while others chatted with the hostess. Some amused themselves by criticizing the designs traced upon the walls which were all of a patriotic tendency, such as the King pendant with this expression—"Monsieur Veto taking an airbath;" or the King guillotined, with this—"Monsieur Veto spitting in the sack;" while some offered hints to Madame Plumeau concerning the gastronomical designs, that might more or less excite their appetites. Among the latter were the captain and the chasseur whom we have previously remarked.

PRICEVILLE, N. B.

Priceville, N. B., June 10.—A very enjoyable evening was spent at this place on Friday, when a pie social and fancy sale was held for the benefit of the school. The nice sum of $108.63 was realized.

Mrs. Tennyson Munn spent a few days with relatives here.

Mrs. E. J. Smyth spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Price.

Our school is making splendid progress under the skilful management of our popular teacher, Miss Doris Ellis, who, we are very sorry to learn, is leaving this term and will take a school near her home in Bathurst.

Crawford Smith, of Georgiaville, R. I., now in his 90th year, recently cut down 18 gnarled old apple trees to make room for a new orchard, and with no help whatever chopped and sawed off their branches and with a buck-saw cut the trees into suitable firewood lengths. He has been working from 5 in the morning till 4 in the afternoon, and has six cords of sawed and split apple tree wood as testimony to his youthful vigor.

The Importance of an Easy-Running Bicycle for the Boy

A "BUNCH" of joyous boys and girls on a bicycle ride! How they do breeze along the smooth, level stretches! What fun! What exhilaration!

But pity that poor boy on the hard-running bike. How he has to pull on the handles and push on the pedals to keep up with those on the easy-running C.C.M. Bicycles. It's no joy ride for him.

And the strain is always there, to some extent, even when he only runs errands on his hard-running bike.

Overtaxing the strength of a growing boy or girl is to be avoided. It might lead to serious consequences.

Be safe. Buy your boy a C. C. M.

C. C. M. Bicycles for boys and girls are built of the same high grade materials and with the same skilled workmanship as the adult models.

They have the same special construction that gives the easy-running direct line drive—

The same case-hardened polished bearings that turn so smoothly.

And, of course, they have the new Hercules Positive Drive Brake—the Coaster Brake without a side arm.

There's a light, strong, easy-running bicycle waiting for your boy or girl at the C. C. M. dealer's right now. He will be glad to show it to you.

Also ask to see the new 18-inch Curved Bar Model—the bicycle the boy won't outgrow.

E. P. Bradt, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, returned yesterday from the Niagara District, Ontario, where he had been looking over the fruit prospects for the coming year. Mr. Bradt stated this morning that conditions in the Niagara District, which he had covered by car, promised a bumper crop in peaches, plums and grapes. The market conditions were not very good at present as the canning factories were slow in their contracts because of the uncertainty of sugar supplies. The earlier fruits were being shipped to the outlying markets but the fruit growers depended upon the canning factories to take over their surplus product, and these were holding back at present.

Twelve Tons of Whiskey Seized in Madawaska County Is Being Brought Here

LIKELY GOING TO THE NEW ENGLAND STATES

Would Have Produced $40,000 If Landed Safely in Boston

What is said to be the largest seizure of liquor ever made in New Brunswick was reported this morning and consists of barrels and cases of whiskey and other varieties with a gross weight of more than twelve tons.

Thos seizure was made at Baker Brook, Madawaska county, by Sub-inspector McLaughlin, of Grand Falls, and Rev. W. D. Wilson, the chief inspector, said this morning that he expected the liquor would arrive here some time today by C. N. R., being shipped here by the Transcontinental division, over which route shipment had originally been made from Montreal, the stuff being billed as fertilizer.

The seized liquor was said today to consist of thirty-seven barrel and two hundred cases, which would mean a total of three hundred and eighty-five dozen bottles, which at present prices would probably cost about $14,000 f. o. b. Montreal. There is every reason to believe that the shipment's ultimate destination was Boston or elsewhere in the New England states, as it was following closely the most popular route for contraband shipments that have been crossing the international border. Landed in the United States safely this shipments would doubtless have produced in the vicinity of $40,000.

Inspector McLaughlin has made some of the most important liquor seizures that have taken place in this province. He makes his headquarters in Grand Falls and has a busy district because of the rum-runners operating along the Maine border.

Attempt to Burn Inspector's Barn

An attempt has been made to burn down the barn on the farm of a constable engaged in the enforcement of the Prohibition Act in Victoria county, according to a report given out this morning by Rev. W. D. Wilson, the chief inspector.

A neighbor is said to have extinguished the flames a short time after the blaze had been discovered and it is said that an investigation showed kerosene oil had been generously sprinkled over the floor of the building. Some arrests in the case are expected at an early date.

OATS ADVANCE, BUT HAY IS NOW CHEAPER

Scarcity of Oats Now Said to Exist—Fair Quality of Loose Hay $25

Oats have advanced 15 cents a bushel during the past few days and are now costing $1.56 a bushel wholesale with the retail price about $1.65 a bushel.

Dealers reported today that there was a marked scarcity of oats and they anticipate considerable difficulty in obtaining supplies even at the advanced prices to carry them along until the new crop is available. It was said the elevators now had practically no oats in the West and the situation is thus looked upon as critical.

On the other hand hay is cheaper, a fair quality of loose hay having been sold this week in the local market at $25 a ton and even lower prices have been predicted.

The Bolshevik Forces Being Driven Northward From the Crimea to Sea of Azov

4,000 PRISONERS AND 40 BIG GUNS TAKEN

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Constantinople, June 16.—The forces of General Wrangel, anti-Bolshevik leader of the Crimean front, are moving northward from the Crimea and Sea of Azov in three columns. They have been phenomenally successful against the Bolshevik and have established a front along Kaskovka on the Dnieper eastward through Melitopol to Mariopol.

General Wrangel's troops have captured 4,000 prisoners and forty big guns of the 100 estimated to be in possession of the Bolsheviki. They have lost only eight hundred men.

"In the Gasin region (southwest of Kiev) our troops are crossing the river Bug and approaching Bratzlav."

League Postpones Conference Over Persian Question

To Await Result of Negotiations Between Persia and Soviet

NO RELIANCE IN BOLSHEVIK

Criticism of the Present Membership of League of Nations.

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

London, June 16.—A report was current among diplomats yesterday that the League of Nations' conference on Monday had practically postponed the Persian-Bolshevik question by deciding to await the result of the direct negotiations between the two parties.

Prince Firous has protested to the Bolshevik Foreign Minister Tchitcherin that it is impossible for Persia to enter into negotiations because his promise that the Bolsheviki would be withdrawn has not been fulfilled.

Some of the British Liberal papers criticize the membership of the conference, because while Earl Curzon represented Great Britain, and Viscount Chinda, Japan, the six other governments participating — France, Italy, Belgium, Brazil, Greece and Spain—were represented by their charges in London.

The Daily News considers that this belittles the League and says that the council was intended to be composed of Ministers able to speak for their governments.

Others point out that while the supreme council continues to operate, the League necessarily must be a subordinate body.

SINGS TO EUROPE THROUGH WIRELESS

Madame Melba, Singing in London, Heard Distinctly in European Capitals

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

London, June 16—Madame Melba, the opera singer, sang yesterday to an audience spread over the British Isles and a large part of Europe. By arrangement with the London Daily Mail, the Prima Donna, standing in a small room at the Marconi works at Chelmsford, sang several songs into a microphone, whence they were transmitted by wireless telephone on a wave length which should have enabled them to be heard within a radius including Rome, Madrid, Berlin and Stockholm.

Telegrams have been received from Paris and The Hague reporting that the songs were heard there very clearly, while numerous owners of wireless apparatus in Great Britain also heard them with distinctness.

Direct Negotiations On Persian Question

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, June 16—The Central News says it learns that as a result of direct negotiations between Persia and George Tchitcherin, Russian Soviet Foreign Minister, the latter has announced the readiness of the Bolshevik to evacuate Persia under certain conditions.

OBLIGATIONS UNDER LEAGUE COVENANT

Article X. of Covenant Undertakes Preserve Members of League From Aggression

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

London, June 16—Forecasts that the reply of the council of the League of Nations to Persia's request for intervention against Bolshevik aggression would announce a postponement of any final decision were borne out by an official announcement made at a public meeting of the council this morning. The meeting followed two days of executive sessions. The council's reply stated:

"The council decided that before advising upon means by which the obligation prescribed by the covenant shall be fulfilled, it is desired, in order to give every opportunity for the success of the conversations now progressing, to await the result of the promises made by the Soviet authorities. Meanwhile the council requests the Persian representative to keep it informed of the march of events."

Communications regarding the invasion of Persian territory by Bolshevik forces from the Caspian Sea have been exchanged between Persia and the Soviet government of Russia. Recently, however, Prince Mirza, the Persian Foreign Minister, protested to the Bolshevik Commissary for Foreign Affairs that it was impossible for Persia to enter into negotiations because the Russian Foreign Office's promise that the Bolshevik forces would be withdrawn from Persia had not been fulfilled.

The obligation referred to by the council in its statement is contained in the famous Article X. of the covenant, in which the members of the League "undertake to respect and preserve against external aggression, the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all members of the League."

The articles add that in case of any such aggression or the threat or danger of it, the council shall advise upon the means by which this obligation shall be fulfilled.

THE MISSING MILLIONAIRE KIDNAPPED

Clues Followed in the Ambrose Small Mystery Show He Is Still Alive

SAY RANSOM WILL HAVE TO BE LARGE

Small's Solicitor Was in Negotiation With Man Who Said He Represented Abductors

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Toronto, June 16.—That the Ambrose J. Small mystery is rapidly nearing a climax was the belief yesterday. Many clues, which have been patiently gathered for months past, seem to be merging in a way to bring success.

In this connection a recent letter received from a lady in the United States declaring that she could reveal the whereabouts of the missing man and demanding the $50,000 reward may not be altogether valueless. From a time shortly after Ambrose J Small's disappearance on December 2, 1919, until a month ago, certain letters were received by a party in Toronto boldly declaring that the missing millionaire had been kidnapped and suggesting a ransom or reward.

These letters, while anonymous, were all in the same handwriting, and revealed intimate knowledge of the details of the case. No mailing address was given. All replies were to be sent as advertisements to the New York Herald or the Buffalo Courier.

The writer represented himself as one who is playing the role of informer to a gang of kidnappers.

"Any ransom paid will have to be big enough to keep these men in luxury for the rest of their lives," he declared.

On the strength of those letters Mr. Small's solicitors went to New York some time ago and entered into negotiations with an American solicitor, who claimed to be representing men who had knowledge of Small's whereabouts. They worked independently of the police, fearing that any hint of police interference would defeat their object.

Negotiations had reached an interesting point when one of the New York papers gave some injudicious publicity to the affair. At once the connection was broken. When the Toronto men returned to the lawyer's office he refused to discuss the matter any further.

SYDNEY STRIKERS TO RETURN TO WORK

Steel Plant Machinists Have Been Out Two Months—Slight Concessions

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Sydney N. S., June 15.—After a strike of two months the steel plant machinists have announced that they will return to work on Thursday. The men struck in April for from sixty to seventy cents an hour and an eight hour day. The company held ou for a ten hour day, as at present, but offered sixty-eight cents an hour and some minor concessions as to working conditions. The strike followed. Several attempts to compromise have been made at intervals, but the final settlement follows the terms of the company's original offers.

The men are to get sixty-eight cents an hour for a ten hour day time and a half for Saturday work and double time for Sundays and overtime. They will also work only five twelve hour night shifts each week, instead of seven twelve hour shifts, as at present. The settlement of the strike comes as a relief to both company and machinists and also to the public of the district.

POLICE CAPTURE TWO AUTO BANDITS

Believed to Be Participants in Auto Thefts Not Only in the United States But Canada

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Wilkinsonville, Mass., June 16.—Two alleged automobile bandits who are believed to be mixed in automobile thefts from Maine to California, as well as in Canada and who admitted to the state police that they are the heroes of the shooting beet in Westfield a year ago, were arrested by state police and deputy sheriffs yesterday in the woods of Wilkinsonville.

William Messenger, alias W. I. Walter, alias Harry Holbrook, alias Baker, got away and the police are looking for him.

William Curry, of Paterson, N. J., New York Sutton, New London, and other places, and Frank Rice, Paterson, N. J., were arrested and are charged with receiving stolen property.

The first two had in their possession number plates of nearly every state in the union and of Canada. They had, in a suit case, steel number plates to fasten over engine numbers. The police explain that the pair are being held on the technical charge of receiving stolen property until their records can be investigated in other states.

Federation of Labor Absolutely Against Asiatic Immigration

SECESSION MOVEMENT

Non-Partizan Policy of Gompers Endorsed by Federation.

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Montreal, June 16.—The American Federation of Labor in its annual convention here today called upon congress to cancel the "gentlemen's agreement" and absolutely exclude Japanese and other Asiatic immigrants. The exclusion of "picture brides" was also demanded.

The departments and international unions were instructed to "co-operate and press" this legislation.

The Federation rejected a resolution that would have established a legal department to serve as a clearing house for the defence of "all labor organizations, against whom the use of the injunction is directed in the course of their legitimate trade union activities."

Condemn Secession Movement.

Declaring that a band of "irresponsible agitators" are attempting to discredit the "recognized organizations in the railway service," the Federation unanimously condemned the "secessionist movement" which resulted in the recent railroad strike.

The convention also instructed its affiliated organizations to "refrain from giving moral or financial assistance of any kind to any secessionist movement." Any organization giving such asitance is threatening with having its charter revoked.

The executive council was instructed to investigate the desirability of forming an international union of building service employees of America, to include all workers known as janitors, janitresses, scrub women, window workers and watchmen.

To Settle Labor's Grievances.

The plan proposed by E. L. Edgerton, of Schenectady, to have organized labor form with the employers and business interests of the country a "voluntary arbitration body" to "settle labor's grievances in the future", was rejected. Other legislation along this line will be brought before the convention later, it was announced.

Organized labor declared war on court of industrial relations, when the Federation adopted a resolution which condemned such legislation as "confiscatory of the liberty and property and a denial of the human rights of organized labor.

The non-partisan political policy of President Samuel Gompers was unanimously endorsed by the convention.

AMENDMENTS TO HOME RULE BILL IN HOUSE

Unionist Party Taking Advantage of Any Real Opposition in the Commons

PROTECTION FOR THE MINORITY IN SOUTH

The Government to Insert New Clauses in Bill to Overcome the Difficulties

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

London, June 16.—In the absence of any real opposition from the Liberals, Laborites or Nationalists, the Home Rule bill in the House of Commons is undergoing considerable amendment, mainly on lines desired by the Unionist party. The committee reached clause 13 yesterday when Colonel Guiness moved an amendment to add seventeen non-elective members to the southern parliament as constituted by the bill, such members to be selected on property qualifications, in order to afford the minorities greater opportunities to make their views known in the southern parliament.

Walter Hume Long, in behalf of the Government, expressed great sympathy with the object of the amendment, but thought the minorities should rely on the protection of the promised second chamber, which would have to be constituted in a special way. For this purpose the Goveernment had formulated two new clauses which would be presented in the report stage and which the Government believed would afford the necessary protection in the event of the southern parliament defying the crown, or if the parliament was not properly constituted.

On this assurance Colonel Guiness withdrew his amendment.

The Minister of War said there was no intention of disbanding the Irish or Welsh Guards so long as recruiting of men of their nationality was satisfactory.

WHISKEY RUNNERS IN A FATAL FEUD

One of Men Accused of Selling Poisonous Whiskey Shot at New Haven Last Night

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New Haven, Conn., June 16—Dominick Perrotti, who is at liberty on bonds of ten thousand dollars in connection with the alleged sale of poisonous whiskey for which he was charged with manslaughter in Springfield, Mass., was shot and probably fatally wounded here last night.

Michael Fiore, of Torrington, was arrested as Perotti's assailant and is held without bonds by order of the coroner.

The shooting was the culmination of a feud among "whiskey runners," according to the police.

Speculation Kept the Sugar Prices High and Supply Small

The Board of Commerce Continues Investigation at Toronto—Wholesale Dealers Made More Money by Selling to Brokers Than Direct to the Trade

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Toronto, June 16—The Board of Commerce, represented by Commissioner James Murdock, heard yesterday the representatives of a number of wholesale grocery firms outline the dealings of Robert Anderson, the Montreal broker, with wholesale dealers in sugar. The dealers stated that selling to brokers was not part of their usual business, but that the state of the market and the prices offered were such that they could make more money on a quicker turnover than was possible in the past. The Commissioner commented that it was this method of speculation that kept the price high and the supply small.

Chairman of Board of Commerce Accepts Position With Financial Company

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, June 16.—The resignation of Mr. W. F. O'Connor, who has been acting chairman of the Board of Commerce since the resignation of Judge Robson, comes at the same time as the announcement that the H. V. Green Company will invade Canada. There is a very close connection between the two announcements.

In Boston last night a banquet was given by the H. V. Green Company, a prominent financial concern in the United States, to its salesmen. At the banquet it was announced that the company will extend its operations to this side of the line, where it is already incorporated as the H. V. Green Company of Canada, and that it will establish a number of offices here. The announcement also was made there that Mr. W. F. O'Connor, chairman of the Board of Commerce, has resigned and will assume the position of director and general counsel of the Canadian Green company.

When seen regarding the announcement Mr. O'Connor stated it was substantially correct. His resignation is understood to have been in the hands of the Premier for a week, but he has consented to carry on as a member of the Board of Commerce until the end of the present month in order to dispose of certain pressing matters. As to his reasons for resigning from the Board, he would say nothing except that conditions had developed at a very early stage of the Board's operations which made his service as a commissioner uncongenial, and that from a financial standpoint he had been in a position to better himself during the time of his service as well as before he joined the Board. As general counsel for the H. V. Green Company of Canada he would also engage in the practice of his profession as counsel, with offices at Ottawa, Toronto and Montreal, but continue to live in Ottawa.

The retirement of Commissioner O'Connor opens up a new element of speculation as to what the Government will now do with the Board, which has been somewhat in the nature of a white elephant since it was created. The Government cannot very conveniently let the Board die, although it probably would not be averse from doing so.

The Act under which it was created names the term of its duration as ten years, of which barely one has expired, but with the departure of Commissioner O'Connor Mr. James Murdock is the only remaining member, and he is understood to be not particularly anxious to remain and is to leave from the labor organization with which he was connected before he assumed office with the Board, and to which he can return at any time at a larger salary than he is now getting. It is doubtful if he will remain long after his fellow commissioner departs. Mr. Murdock is said to be determined to have all the facts in connection with the resignation of Judge Robson made public. Whether these facts will ever be brought out in the House is a question, but Hon. Mr. Lemieux now has a motion on the order paper for the production of all the correspondence in connection with Judge Robson's resignation. If it does not come out before Commissioner Murdock severs his connection with the Board, it is pretty certain to do so afterwards.

ROOF OF STATION CRASHES ON CARS

Roof of St. John Union Station Collapses—One Man Has Fractured Leg

St. John, June 16.—Although many tons of metal in the trusses of more than half of the entire roof surface of the train shed of the Union passenger station collapsed early last evening only one person was injured and not a single pane of glass in six passenger coaches standing in the station was shattered. The only unfortunate person is William Shea of Fairville, baggagemaster on the outgoing Fredericton local passenger train, almost due to leave the station when the crash came. Shea was hit by a falling plank which fractured his left leg. There were several narrow escapes, but fortunately there were few trainmen, expressmen, baggagemen or passengers in the danger zone at the time of the collapse. Four passenger cars belonging to the Canadian National Railways and two coaches of the Canadian Pacific's Fredericton train were slightly damaged, mainly on the roofs. The accident did not delay traffic and the damage to express packages was slight.

INGENIOUS PLAN TO RAISE BILLS

Hamilton, June 15.—The Bank of Hamilton is in receipt of $20 notes on its own bank which appear to have been torn and fastened together in quite an innocent manner but behind which lies an ingenious attempt at fraud balked by the bank. A strong light revealed that the two pieces did not meet between the adhesive tape fastening them together, there being a gap of three-quarters of an inch. By fastening the pieces together like this one extra note could be made out of seven or eight genuine ones. The Bank of Toronto, Bank of Montreal and Molsons Bank have also received notes operated on in similar manner.

"EVERYWOMAN" IN MOTION PICTURE

Big Allegorical Play Has Been Filmed on an Elaborate Scale

The famous morality play, "Everywoman," has been made into a motion picture and will be shown at the Gaiety Theatre for two days only beginning Monday next. The story is declared to have been filmed on an extremely lavish scale and to abound in beautiful settings, lovely women attired in handsome gowns, and spectacular effects. Against this extravagant background Walter Browne's celebrated allegory of life and its temptations is acted by an extraordinary cast of players. The role of Everywoman is played by Violet Heming, a beautiful actress well known on the stage and the screen. Monte Blue has the part of Love, Wanda Hawley is Beauty, and Theodore Roberts is Wealth. Others in the company include Margaret Loomis, Mildred Reardon, Bebe Daniels, Irving Cummings, Raymond Hatton, Noah Beery, Charles Ogle and Tully Marshall. The picture was directed by George H. Melford and is released as a Paramount-Artcraft super special.

ROCKY ROAD FOR NAVAL ESTIMATES

The Opposition Show Their Distaste for the Temporary Naval Policy

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, June 16.—The naval question in Canada has always been a storm centre, and it bids fair to maintain its reputation again before the session closes. The matter was introduced into the House in connection with the estimates of the naval department by Hon. Mr. Ballantyne on Monday, and met with strenuous criticism on the part of the opposition, but the debate was adjourned until a future date when the naval estimates will be taken up.

In the course of the discussion on fisheries, after the naval estimates had been allowed to stand over, Mr. Duff of Lunenburg made the statement that he come to the House, with his friends, determined that the vote for the naval service should not go through if it took all night. This is the temper of the opposition on the matter and there is the further fact that a rather alarming situation from a government standpoint is being developed on the right of the Speaker.

The Minister is said to be somewhat alarmed and discouraged by the attitude of certain of those behind him. The prairie members on the government side are understood to be very cold towards the proposition and some of them even threaten to repeat in the House the opposition which was understood to have been manifested in the caucus when the matter was brought up. If this attitude is persisted in, in the face of the combined effort which the Opposition and the Farmers are likely to make, the Minister might find a good deal of trouble getting his estimates through the House.

The Minister of Marine is not the most diplomatic member of the cabinet, and does not take into his confidence those who might be expected to be his supporters. When the estimates were brought down on Monday and he made his announcement of a temporary government policy on the navy, those who might be expected to give him support were totally unaware of what was to take place, and were not prepared to back him up. Mr. Burnham stepped into the breach temporarily, but his support was of such an equivocal character that it did not bring much comfort to the Minister, and was even seized on by the Opposition as an endorsement of the Laurier naval policy. It is probable that the majority of them will be brought into line before the estimates are again taken up, but the situation at present is rather disquieting.

There are times when nothing speaks so eloquently as silence.

Premier Foster and Dr. W. C. Crocket, M.L.A. Gave Addresses.

Welcomed the Visitors

PREMIER FOSTER.

DR. W. C. CROCKET, M.L.A.

Fredericton yesterday afternoon gave the American press party an enthusiastic welcome on their arrival here. The party were met at the train by a very large and representative gathering of the citizens of the capital city, who cheered them as they set foot on Fredericton soil.

Promptly on scheduled time the "Million Dollar" train bearing the men, women and children of the National Editorial Association party, arrived at the C. N. R. station and were welcomed informally by Deputy Mayor T. S. Wilkinson, members of the City Council and the Board of Brade, representatives of the Provincial Government and others. Automobiles were on hand and the visitors were taken to the different points of interest in and about the city.

The Million Dollar Train.

The train equipment furnished for the press party by the Canadian National Railways is one of the finest that has ever come over the C. N. R. lines. Railway men estimate the cost, with engine, at one million dollars.

The special train consists of six standard sleeping cars, two diners, one of the most modern of tourist cars, and a car for baggage and supplies; they are all steel built, fireproof and fitted with the latest and most complete equipment for the convenience and comfort of the tourists. The passengers are billeted on the hotel system, each car being numbered from one to seven; each accommodation is numbered and the passengers registered as in a hotel. All mail and telegrams are immediately delivered and despatched at the various stations and business can be transacted with as much ease and as great facility as in a hotel. There is a valet, a laundry and first aid (two trained nurses) service on board, keeping the passengers comfortable, clean and healthy during the tour. At each station the Canadian National Railway's medical officers are on hand or within call, so that the last word in passenger service may apply to this "Million Dollar" train.

A second reason for the "Million Dollar" description is the fact that all the passengers are insured for a million dollars against accident or death, the policies being taken out in Canadian companies. In addition the baggage and personal effects of the passengers are insured against loss or destruction.

Officials on the Trip.

Officials accompanying this train on the tour are Charles K. Howard, formerly of this city but now general agent of the C.N.R. at Boston; C. Price Green, commissioner industrial and resources department, Toronto; A. H. Lindsay, advertising agent, Moncton; H. C. McFarlane, district passenger agent, Halifax; F. L. Dougan, travelling passenger agent, Moncton; J. Coleman, assistant superintendent sleeping and dining cars, Halifax; H. Potts, inspector sleeping and dining cars, Halifax; J. D. McNutt, inspector of train despatching, Moncton. Other officials of the operating and mechanical departments are also looking after the train en route. Clifford P. Trites is along as official stenographer, W. R. Devenish, eastern superintendent of the C.N.R., M. F. Tompkins, general freight agent, and L. S. Brown also accompanied the party from Moncton.

Automobile Trip About City.

Upon their arrival in the city the members of the Association were taken for a tour of the city by car and to points of interest outside the city. The lining up was in charge of Ald. J. Stewart Neill.

From the C.N.R. station the party drove up Queen street and out Smythe to Wilmot Park, which they were taken through, then proceeding to the Old Government House, the D.S.C.R. buildings and the Military Hospital. After leaving these places the party split up, some going to the University of New Brunswick and some to Christchurch Cathedral, but the majority were driven through Devon and along the Nashwaak valley to Marysville. The scenery of the Nashwaak as far up the river as Penniac was greatly appreciated by the visitors who were at that point driven across the river over the Penniac Bridge. After driving through the town of Devon the party were taken to the Douglas Boom, where they showed great interest in the rafting operations being carried on there. From the Douglas boom the party were driven through Devon on the return trip and into the city again, returning to the special train.

The one complaint registered by the visitors was that they had no opportunity to visit the stores of Fredericton, and the majority of the party complained especially that they had no chance to visit the store of F. B. Edgecombe on Queen street, of which they had heard so much. Praise was given by them for the splendid trip they had enjoyed and they were enthusiastic in their trip through the city, stating they had never yet been through such prettily shaded streets.

The Evening's Programme.

After dinner on the train the Fredericton Brass Band entertained the party at a band concert at Parliament Square, at which a very large number of the citizens were present. An excellent programme was carried out, including the Star Spangled Banner and many other American airs. At eight o'clock the party repaired to the assembly chamber of the Legislature, where an informal reception was held by Premier Foster and Dr. W. C. Crocket, M. L. A., who were assisted in receiving by the Countess of Ashburnham, Mrs. W. C. Crocket, Mrs. J. H. Barry, Mrs. O. S. Crocket, Mrs. W. G. Chestnut, Mrs. W. J. Osborne, Mrs. D. Lee Babbitt, Mrs. H. R. Babbitt, Mrs. T. G. Loggie, Mrs. W. T. Whitehead and Mrs. A. R. Slipp.

At the conclusion of the reception Premier Foster welcomed the American press party on behalf of the province in the following speech:

THE PROVINCIAL WELCOME

Premier Foster on Behalf of the Province Welcomed the National Editorial Association to New Brunswick.

It is a great pleasure and a very pleasant duty to extend to our distinguished guests—members of the National Press Association of the U. S. A.—a very warm welcome to New Brunswick, if only for a brief visit. Those of us who have been privileged to visit your great country from time to time, whether on busines or pleasure, will know and appreciate the warm welcome that always awaits us and is extended in a most hospitable way. Therefore, we are most happy to be in a position this evening to reciprocate and show in our small way some slight appreciation of your warm American hospitality. You are not only welcome as representatives of the various enterprises with which you are connected, but also as representing the great republic to the south of us, with whom it is our privilege to live so peaceably side by side. I assure you we always take a lively interest in everything that pertains to your welfare, and there is no denying the fact that we have for some years looked somewhat with envious eyes upon the progress and prosperity that has marked your development, and while we have seen you grow and prosper, we have at the same time admired your ability, your pluck and your energy, which has so successfully developed your resources and worked out your destiny. With this prosperity and growth of your internal trade has also come the growth and expansion of the trade, commerce and intercourse between our two countries, and this notwithstanding the fact that an unnatural barrier existed which to some extent, whether wisely or not I would not like to discuss here, has retarded what otherwise might have reached larger proportions. Nevertheless we have both contributed to that great expansion of business between us, and it is I am sure the wish of us all that we should continue to do business and retain those friendly relations that have existed for so many years.

Welcome to Assembly Rooms.

In extending a welcome to you to New Brunswick, one of the smaller provinces of Confederation, I also include that same warm welcome to the city of Fredericton, our capital city, and seat of Government, that welcome also extends to you within the walls of our Legislative Assembly Chamber where we as a Government carry on the affairs of our province, or to be more precise, those functions which the fathers of confederation and the British North America Act define as our "sphere of authority," under the shadow of the portraits of some of the great men whom we have been taught to honor and who in the past laid broad and deep the foundations for our future, we meet for some few months each year to legislate along those lines which I have mentioned by a system of government which is the most democratic system of government in the world. Democratic because the voice and will of the people here must always prevail. Of all that we have inherited through our British connection we prize most highly our British system of government. We prize that great freedom which comes to us through that system more than any other. As members we occupy our seats in this House as an elected chamber or a representative chamber, having been sent here upon a policy which has been placed before our people. Here it is that legislation is passed and presented to the representative of the King in the person of His Honor the Lieutenant Governor for his approval, and which approval cannot be denied when once passed by this representative body, except in exceptional circumstances, and then if his approval is refused we can at once appeal for approval of our course to the people by way of a general eelction. In this way we claim our system of government is the most democratic that exists, as nothing can be denied the people which they through their elective representatives demand shall be law.

Pulp Question Referred To.

Your visit to our country will I trust be interesting to you; but apart from that it will afford us an opportunity for personal intercourse which will help to clear and establish a mutual understanding on urgent questions concerning us all. Each country has power to render great service to the other; indeed, each has a great deal to learn from one another, and each has some better things than the other. In this regard you apparently think we have a better supply of pulpwood than you have, for I observe that Senator Underwood has had a commission appointed to confer with the Canadian government with reference to the exportation of pulp wood from Canada to the United States. I can assure you your commission will be welcomed and every opportunity afforded for a better understanding of the questions that will come up for discussion, and while I would not want to anticipate in any way what the nature of the business of the commission will be, yet I feel that a considerable misunderstanding exists relative to our exportation of pulp wood from this country. There has been apparently an impression that an embargo has been placed on pulp wood from this country. That is not so; there is no embargo on pulp wood from Canada to the United States. True it is that strong efforts have been made to prohibit the export of pulp wood, and I am free to admit that I have heard strong arguments advanced in support of such a policy, but it is not in the power of the Provincial Government to forbid the export of pulp wood, and the Canadian Government has never granted the request. True, there are certain restrictions which have been applied by this and other provinces where we are free to make our own laws with

EFFECTS OF THE LUXURY TAX.

Changes have again been made in the luxury tax, and we may yet hear of other changes. But are the changes for the general good? Will they serve a broad purpose? Unfortunately, the shoe and the clothing industries were quite heavily hit in the original schedule. The amendment, intended to give some relief, does not serve to better the situation to any appreciable extent. Industries manufacturing the better class of goods are still penalized, and the man of experience insists that the better classes of goods are the cheaper goods in the long run and the most satisfactory throughout. Good quality shoes and quality clothing are not luxuries; they are economical investments, regarded as such and treated as such by the prudent man and prudent woman. There is no economy in buying shoddy goods to wear. Men and women who are economical and saving do not use shoddy goods. The present so-called luxury tax on shoes and clothing encourages the shoddy industry and penalizes the manufacturer of the superior article. It encourages sloppy work and discourages skilled labor. It puts a premium on inefficiency. It serves to establish conditions in industry in Canada which a young country such as ours, seeking a reputation for its sound, serviceable, economical products, should not encourage.

It is no secret that the manufacturers of the finer class of shoes, of cloths, of clothing, etc.—the really economical product—have received, since the announcement of the luxury tax, many cancellations of large orders placed with them some months ago. Wholesalers and retailers fear that the luxury tax will, unfortunately, mislead people for a time into false notions, will force a demand for the so-called cheaper article; and their orders for the better qualities are therefore being reduced, and seriously reduced. And the result of this may be that the higher class industries will be compelled to curtail in help.

Canada needs a very much greater revenue than ever before, and the people will undoubtedly do their part willingly and cheerfully. But it is possible that the burdens are not being equitably distributed; and if not reasonably equitable in the distribution, there will be dissatisfaction and unrest. Possibly it would have been much better had there been no such thing as a luxury tax, which is largely a United States expedient. The people of Canada are not so accustomed as the people of the United States to the direct tax method. Would not the indirect tax have been more satisfactory, and better served the situation in Canada? It is useless to seek to disguise the fact that at present the luxury tax is not largely acceptable.

THE PARADE OF WEALTH.

The Presbyterian General Assembly put its finger on a diseased spot in the social life of our people when it drew attention "to the selfish and "vulgar parade of wealth at a time "when all our resources are required "to meet the needs of the world," and urged that it was 'one of the chief causes of discontent."

That the disease has not become so pronounced in Canada as in some other countries is not saying very much for us, remarks the Ottawa Journal-Press. The lengths to which the vulgar display of wealth can go is evident to a much greater extent in the cities of the United States, where the air is polluted with ostentatious extravagance. But there is enough in the cities of Canada to warrant the serious warning of the Presbyterian General Assembly.

Men to whom the doctrines of the Bolsheviki are naturally repugnant often find themselves turning sympathetically towards those doctrines as a remedy for wretched practices that seem to be on the increase on this continent. Is it any wonder, then, that these practices should be an aggravation of discontent and unrest in circles less immune to seductive appeals for the confiscation of wealth?

The flaunting of wealth, at any time, by men or women, is really a display of gross ignorance and of an unbalanced mind. It is an indication that the offenders have failed to equip themselves with anything but wealth—which they may have secured by accident—that their interests have been selfishly circumscribed, that their outlook is narrow, that their ambitions have been sordid, that their associations have been low, that their reading has been limited or nil, that for them there is no joy in nature and no love in humanity, that their lives have really been an empty void because they have not learned to "play the game." That they are to be pitied is no reason why they should not be made to feel, by men and women generally, that they are bounders, for the harm they are doing—perhaps innocently because of their ignorance—is so great that it cannot be estimated.

The church can do much toward curbing the evil; but the repudiation of the "vulgar parade of wealth" at a time when there are so many opportunities for the use of money in the betterment of the world and the living conditions of our own people should extend beyond even the limits of the church.

The "vulgar" rich are as abhorrent to the right thinking as the piker is to the true sportsman—let them reap the scorn that is their true portion.

CASE OF THE PRESIDENT OF THE G. W. V. A.

Ottawa Journel-Press: "Consider the "case of Robert B. Maxwell. A native "of Ireland, he was living in Canada "when the war broke out, but he lost "no time in getting to the front and "doing his bit. There he was disabled. He came back to Canada "and was given treatment, and training in bookkeeping and stenography "at a Convalescent Hospital then "under the Military Hospitals Commission. Previous to the war he "was a painter and decorator, but his "disability prevented him from going "back to that occupation, so he elected to take a commercial course "which was granted him with pay and "allowances by the Department of "Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment. He "did so well that he became an instructor. Early in 1919 he came to "Ottawa as a member of the Advisory "Board of the Great War Veterans' "Association, which co-operated with "the Repatriation Committee of the "Cabinet, and drew a salary of $300 "a month. While thus engaged he "and his colleagues, Mr. Tait and Mr. "Loughnan, practically handled patronage for the whole Dominion of "Canada under the preference extended to returned soldiers.

"Today Mr. Maxwell, as president "of the Great War Veterans' Association and in that capacity, demands "the dissolution of Parliament on the "grounds that it has failed to do the "proper thing by returned soldiers!

"Would Mr. Maxwell oblige us by "throwing back his mind to the date "of his enlistment? Did he know then "that if he was disabled he would get "free medical treatment with pay and "allowances in Canadian hospitals? "Did he know that if he was disabled "so as to be unable to go back to "his former occupation he would be "given a course in vocational training "with pay and allowances? Did he "know that when he received his discharge he would be given a gratuity "ranging for single men up to $420, "and for married men up to $600? "Did he know that whether disabled "or not he would get free medical "treatment for one year after discharge? Did he know that as far "as the Government could manage it, "every returned soldier would get "work, and that for instance he himself would get a Government position at $3,600 a year? Will he admit "that the Government has done more "for the soldier than he expected or "was promised when he enlisted?

"If the story circulated by G. W. "V. A. leaders be true, namely, that "the Parliamentary Committee on "Pensions and Re-establishment is indifferent and negligent, where not "wholly in opposition, to the demands "of the G.W.V.A.—'What is the "answer?' Here is a body prepared "to do anything in reason for the re-establishment of the returned soldiers and backed up by an almost "solid body of public sentiment "throughout the country which would "compel favorable action. If that "sentiment no longer exists, where "may we find the cause? Has it ever "occurred to Mr. Maxwell that it may "be found in G.W.V.A. leadership? "Could that public sentiment exist "after the spectacle of last year's "attempt to force half a billion dollars out of the pockets of the public "for distribution among the soldiers? "could it exist after the annual meeting of last March in Montreal, when "resolutions were passed making requests or demands of the Government which, if granted, would cost "the country two billion dollars at a "time when Canada is struggling "under very heavy debt and deficits?"

In his address of welcome to the National Editorial Association of the United States in the Legislative chamber last evening,—the portrait of King George the Third hanging on the walls—Dr. Crocket parenthetically remarked, "The Father of your country, "George the Third, looks down upon "us." The remark is pregnant with suggestion. If King George could have foreseen the editors of United States journals and the people of the capital of one of the provinces in British dominions exchanging greetings in their Parliament house, he would probably have sought a retreat in his Hanoverian possessions. Obstinacy and lack of foresight gave to the forceful, thriving people of half a continent a priceless possession.

WEDDINGS

Harvey-Maxwell.

St. John, June 16.—The marriage of Miss Edythe Deinstat Maxwell, daughter of Mrs. Maxwell and the late Hon. Robert Maxwell, 385 Union street, to Frederick William Harvey, of Fredericton, took place at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. A. Goodwin, pastor of Centenary Methodist church. The bride, who was given away by her brother, C. Tilley Maxwell wore a suit of old gold silk with hat to match and carried a shower bouquet of ophelia and sweetheart roses. She was unattended. The house was decorated with ferns, apple blossoms and lilacs. After the ceremony the bride and groom left for Halifax and other points in Nova Scotia, to be away about two weeks, and on their return will reside in Renforth for the summer. The groom is a returned soldier, a member of the original 26th Battalion, having been with the battalion from the time it left Canada until its return. Many beautiful presents of furniture, cut glass and linen testified to the esteem in which the young people are held.

The Stock Market

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York (Wall Street), June 16.—Trading at the firm opening of today's stock market indicated a continuance of recent operations by pools in selective issues, particularly steels, equipments and chemicals. Crucible lost a fraction at the outset, but immediately rallied three points. Barrett, one of yesterday's foremost features, extended its moderate initial gain to five points and General Chemical rose 7. Rails, especially the Transcontinental group, were distinctly strong under lead of Northern Pacific and Union Pacific. Many early gains were substantially increased within the first half hour.

The Montreal Market.

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Montreal, June 16.—The local market opened strong this morning and was distinctly active. Brompton was again the centre of attraction with Spanish common and preferred running it a close second. Brompton opened at 141, one point above last night's close. It sagged a point and held around 140. Spanish commenced at 107 and gradually by fractional gains added a point at the end of the first half hour. The preferred advanced a point and a half to 149. Other issues were quiet.

FROM THE PEOPLE

TIME TO CONSCRIPT LABOR

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I have been a builder for over twenty years and I have an idea to reduce prices of material. This plan will require two years time to succeed.

Each government in the world should call all the single men who are between the ages of 20 and 30 years to serve as soldiers for a term of six months. The men should be classified according to trade or occupation. After the men are classified the Government should send those with farm experience to work on farms throughout the country wherever the farmers need help. In case of necessity the Government should organize groups to work on farms furnished and controlled by the Government, the produce to be sold at market price.

All who had manufacturing experience should be sent to food manufactories which need men. Before these soldiers are supplied the firms should employ available civilians to work and use soldiers to fill the vacancies left.

Help likewise should be sent to mines, contractors, etc., each man being placed at his own trade.

The wages of these soldiers should be those paid five years ago. Farm hands ought to get $2.50 per day with board. In the building line wages would be as follows: Bricklayers, $6.50 per day; plasterers and stonemasons, $6 per day; carpenters and steamfitters, $5.50; hodcarriers, $3.50; shovelmen, $2.50. Instead of soldiers receiving the wages let the Government take the money and pay their expenses.

Government through the banks should loan money to business men, especially in the building line, in amounts up to 50 per cent. of value at 5 per cent. interest, 75 per cent. value at 6 per cent. interest, 80 per cent value at 7 per cent. interest.

After two years time, provided the cost of living is reduced, the Government should discharge the soldiers working in the various trades. This plan may not suit the whole world, especially capitalists, business men and labor unions, but it is necessary to sacrifice a little for at least one or two years. Parents should not object when their sons are called to help the country.

Yours,
ONE INTERESTED.

HOW PROHIBITION SLEUTH DEFIES THE LAW

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Fosterville, N. B., supplies as shameful an example of the misuse of the law by prohibitionists as has come to our notice.

There is in that village a returned soldier, Claude Peck, who served in the 26th Battalion, fought in all the battles in which that unit was engaged, was twice wounded, and came home to be honorably discharged. When the war time order-in-council was lifted in January, he sent to Montreal for some whiskey for his personal use, his doctor having prescribed it, an act which was perfectly within his legal right as a citizen. When the shipment reached Canterbury, its destination, it was seized by the Prohibition local sleuth, R. Willard Demings, a one-time preacher, who is now engaged in curtailing the liberties of his fellow citizens for his personal profit. When the case came before Thomas Jarvis, a local magistrate, he found in favor of Peck, and gave that gentleman an order for the return of the seized whiskey. Inspector Demings appealed to the Police Magistrate in Fredericton, Walter Limerick, who also found in Peck's favor, and ordered that the seized whiskey be returned. Then the inspector got an order of review on Magistrate Jarvis' decision and the judge found in favor of Peck and sustained Magistrate Jarvis' decision. Still the inspector refuses to obey the orders of the two magistrates and also the judge for the return of the liquor which he has illegally seized and in addition is attempting to compel Peck to pay the expenses of both the lawyers engaged in the two cases before the magistrates. Is it any wonder that Peck is asking what he volunteered and fought for in France and Flanders. He left a country of freedom to return to a land where a citizen's rights, twice recognized by the courts, are thus flouted by a local prohibition inspector.

Claude Peck asks no favors. All he asks is what he went over to France and fought for, British fair play and liberty.

Yours,
FAIR PLAY.

THE AMATEUR GARDNER

To the Editor of The Gleaner.

Sir,—This is the season when many an amateur garden maker laments the fact that he sowed his seeds thickly. It is a mistake which almost every novice makes and if the seed is good it inevitably results in the necessity for much tedious thinning. The thinning must be done, however, or you will get a greatly restricted yield. This is especially true of carrots, parsnips, turnips, beets and vegetable oysters. You still have more sowing to do, but probably have learned your lesson, although it is well to remember that seeds are not quite so certain to germinate readily in hot weather as in the spring.

W. H. L.

LIFE IN CANADA AS IT SHOULD BE

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Your correspondent in a recent issue, signing himself Citizen, asks a very timely question: "Where are we drifting?" There is great food for reflection in this question for all who think.

It is notorious amongst churches of any or every denomination that the needy fly to them for assistance, when they are, metaphorically speaking, getting out of their depth, and some aid or assistance is never denied them.

But what of these same people when times are good? Do they attend their respective churches or any church?

Again why blame the legislators? Who put them there? Did these same people exercise the full privilege of their franchise and vote for those who govern or direct our affairs?

The people forget to think in the right lines until the pinch of affairs gets them. They have forgotten their strength as individuals and citizens. Have lost sight of the fact that our forefathers fought, suffered and died for that franchise, which today the vast majority of legal voters do not consider worth worrying about. Someone will govern or legislate for us on someone's vote. If we do not like the form of government we can protest. This sentiment has been with the voter, who does not vote, for a considerable time.

Teach these people (one cannot class them as citizens, as they are not such in the full sense of the word), the value of their franchise, the power of Christian living, or an aid to true citizenship in its fullness, then something will be done towards the amelioration of the conditions of today, and they will begin to realize that life can be lived, as it should, in Canada for the Canadians. Not till this is instilled will the keystone be found for the reconstruction of the nation.

Yours,
CANADIAN.

Fredericton, June 14, 1920.

ARE COLLEGES AT FAULT?

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I heartily agree with a correspondent in his criticism of the literature that children in the public schools are made to read. I was graduated last year from high school and I had to go through it all. I used to ask my teachers why we had to read such uninteresting books. Invariably they answered that they agreed with me.

When I asked them why we were made to read these books, if the teachers didn't think they ought to be taught, they answered that they had to conform to the curriculum prepared by the Board of Education. They added that the reason the Board of Education prescribed the books they did was to meet the college requirements.

So it is there where the trouble evidently lies, and it is the colleges that are to be reformed before the schools can be reformed.

Yours,
ONE OF THE BOYS

Labor Party and Russia.

Montreal, June 16.—After a bitter debate the American Federation of Labor in its annual convention here late yesterday refused to call upon the United States government to lift "all the blockades" against Russia and recognize the soviet government. The building trades organizations of the American Federation of Labor yesterday declared war on the One Big Union of Canada and will send representatives to Winnipeg to open the campaign.

RUMANIA NEEDS IRON AND STEEL

Jassy, Rumania, June 15.—Rumania is badly in need of iron and steel. For nearly seven years steel and iron imports have been far below normal. All reserve stocks were used up during the war. For reconstruction purposes hundreds of thousands of tons are needed.

Hitherto the German and Transylvanian furnaces have furnished most of Rumania's steel. However, all of Rumania's needs could be met if Americans devoloped her iron mines. There are rich undeveloped deposits both in old Rumania and in Transylvania, especially along the Carpathians. Other iron ore deposits of an exploitable importance are in the Dobrudja.

"Ecce homo"

Behold the man. Do not forget that the groom plays a stellar role in the June wedding.

Somebody, somewhere, has had a "pink thought." This anomaly suggests a "shower" for the groom. How about a necktie shower? Men, don't forsake the groom "when a feller needs a friend."

Grey Silk Gloves, Grey Silk Cravatt, Black Half Hose (silk or cashmere), White Shirts, Soft Felt or Derby Hats, Pyjamas, Underwear, Handkerchiefs, etc., etc., for the groom.

respect to our own public domain, just as your legislatures are free to do across the border. Today stand at the border where the railways cross the international boundary and you will see thousands upon thousands of carloads of pulp wood grown on private lands in this province, being shipped to your country. Now only a law passed by the government of Canada could stop this, and no such law has ever been passed. What has been done is this, and I hope I can make myself clear—In this province we own large areas of land, in all about ten million acres, which we lease to parties who wish to use them, upon certain terms and certain conditions, acquiesced in by the lessees when the leases were granted. No variation has been made in the terms under which we lease our property except as stipulated in the leases, which were entered into in the year 1914 for a period of 20 years. Some years previous to this, and to be more accurate the year 1911, an Act was passed prohibiting the export of pulp wood cut upon Crown Lands. How far that policy may be wise is open for consideration, and the greatest amount of good, I am sure, will accrue by an open and frank discussion of the whole subject with your representatives, whom we will be pleased to receive in the most friendly and sympathetic spirit. When they come we will be delighted to meet them. The more we can get together and talk these things over in a businesslike way the better neighbors we Americans and Canadians will be.

Co-operation Desired.

It is the hope and wish of British people, wherever they may be, that the co-operation and friendship between the people of your great country and ours may be strengthened and developed and that no cloud of misunderstanding may ever arise; that that good will and affection which has endured for so many years may continue and that the imaginary line stretched for so many thousands of miles which separates us, may remain as it is at present—unguarded.

REPLY TO WELCOME

A. E. Albright, of Tennessee, Replies to Premier's Address of Welcome on Behalf of Province.

President Albright thanked the Premier for the welcome extended to them by the Province of New Brunswick, stating that the party had greatly enjoyed their short trip to this province. While travelling for recreation purposes they were also on an educational tour and were very pleased to find that such friendly relations existed in Canada for the United States. Referring to the address of Premier Foster he stated that America had vast undeveloped resources and in spite of the fact that her population was becoming more numerous she wished no further territory but wanted to settle down and live at peace with all her neighbors.

The recent Great War, he stated, had brought the two countries very close together as both had sent their sons to the battle fields of France and Flanders where their blood had been shed and mixed in a common cause.

The speaker referred to the visit of the Association to Halifax and stated that while there they had been informed that three-fourths of the Canadian soldiers had passed through the port of Halifax on their way overseas. American soldiers also had passed through that port and this fact ought to bring the two nations closer together.

There was no fear but what all questions between the United States and Canada, such as the present pulp question referred to by Premier Foster, would be amicably settled by the two nations just as other questions had been settled by them in past years.

THE CIVIC WELCOME

Dr. W. C. Crocket, M.L.A. and Former Mayor, Speaks on Behalf of the Citizens of Fredericton.

Dr. W. C. Crocket, M.L.A. and former Mayor of Fredericton, then on behalf of the civic corporation and the citizens, spoke as follows:

"In the regrettable absence of the Mayor, who is attending a meeting of the Manufacturers' Association at Vancouver, I extend to you, on behalf of the citizens of Fredericton, a cordial welcome to the capital. I trust that your visit has already been a pleasant one and will not be without profit to you and to ourselves.

"We are greatly pleased to have among us even for a portion of a day, a host of journalists with a far-reaching influence. The daily paper with its announcement of the happenings of yesterday in every quarter of the world, is one of the necessities, one of the very elements of our modern life. What a power a well-conducted journal, with keen and ample vision, can exert. The views of a strong, alert and well-informed mind reflected in its columns are a message to many who cannot, or who do not think clearly and liberally for themselves, while from a whiff or two of well-directed editorial grapeshot, an unthinking, an agitated crowd recoils.

"It would hardly be fitting, perhaps, if I were to proclaim, as from the house-tops, the attractions Fredericton offers and the advantages it affords. You have been about, and looked around you. The Tourist Association, however, bids me say that we have thriving industries, some of them long emerged from their infant state and still expanding, industries not unknown in your Republic; a fine railway service, with a most encouraging outlook for trunk line connection with New England; a noble river with a history; scenery not far from us rivalling the Hudson; educational institutions which have long been our pride; an elmed and maepled city which our genial hostile friends, the members of government, regard, except when the Legislature or the cabinet are in session, as an abode nestling as in Eden. I hope that your visit to Canada will contribute to make our common friendship as nations, firm and abiding, and enable you to realize, perhaps, that, after all, there is but a line and that a legislative one, dividing the great peoples on this continent. If you wish that line obliterated, if you desire a closer, a more intimate union, even a re-union, we are ready to embrace you.

The Stately St. John.

"I mentioned, a moment ago, the stately St. John, which Champlain's large eye discovered for us. On its left bank, and nearly opposite, stood over two and a quarter-centuries ago, the Recollet-chaplained fort of the picturesque and sturdy Villebon, the commander of Acadia—Acadia with its engaging history, the bitter, cruel strife between the La Tours and Charnissay, with its romantic end; and other struggles for dominion in which British New England bore her part. We go much further back, but though we may, perhaps, be regarded as a comparatively recent people, we have no yearnings for a hoary antiquity.

"There is a feature of the St. John which has probably not yet been forced on your notice. It is very observable at Fredericton, not so much so perhaps along the lower stretches of the river where it approaches the Bay; a feature which is to many visitors, at first, disappointing. It is this: When it nearly reaches the full, it swells along with majestic stride, as if owning everything about it, but during periods of excessive drought it becomes languid, spiritless, insipid, wholly without a kick—it is our only beverage.

"I hope you will have an opportunity of visiting the Grand Falls, a hundred and twenty-five miles up the river, in the scenic county of Victoria. I do not wish to invade the Premier's domain, but a modesty inherent in politicians probably prevented him from proclaiming their splendor and dwelling on their industrial possibilities. You will find there a charming, an enchanting cataract, and in the seething, distracted gorge that never knows repose, a rugged grandeur, unequalled, with the exception of Niagara, by any scene this side of your own Mississippi. During the last session of the Legislature, assembled in this very chamber—the Father of your country, George the Third, looks down upon us—an instrument was devised and approved for uncrowning their majesty by taking or turning them over to trade's iron hand. Let it do its work. This is a democratic, a levelling age. Things that are down aspire to be up, and those that are up seem destined to come down. Instead of a flashing mass of 90,000 horse-power sweeping uselessly every second over that historic crest, Fredericton will before long I trust have her industries run, and her streets, business houses and residences lighted by hydro-electric power, the Grand Falls becoming a light that illuminates and a power that tells.

New Brunswick's Resources and Capabilities.

"I realize that it is no part of the duty assigned me to wander afield and to discourse on the outstanding features of every section of the province, but as on St. Andrew's nights the sons of Scotland own the world, and as today Fredericton owns and presides over the fifteen counties within our borders, I will give you as succinctly as I can (for I perceive that our people intend to move along quickly, to be even dancing soon) a further idea of the resources and capabilities of New Brunswick as a sort of addendum to what the Premier has told you. Surrounded by six hundred miles of ocean or of bay, with noble rivers, picturesque and traffic-carying lakes, splendid harbors, fisheries renowned, unmatched game, millions' worth of forests that have already caught your eye, mineral wealth unexplored, a fertile fruitful soil, markets abounding and at hand, with our modern means of transportation, well-nigh as near to Europe as to our own remotest West, water powers adequate to every call, education striving hopefully, manfully to ajust the ill-poised balance of our day; a healthful, bracing climate a hardy, an industrious, an ambitious, a hospitable people, a people with fine traditions born of an early, an historic time—with this equipment, with a yet broader vision and a larger faith, we will one day rise to the level of our destiny.

"Fredericton greets you."

REPLY TO CIVIC WELCOME

Will Wilke, President Elect, Replies to Civic Address of Welcome.

President-elect Will Wilke, of Minnesota, who replied to the address of welcome, thanked the citizens of Fredericton for their cordial welcome and stated that he knew the Fredericton spirit of old, because many of his best friends and those with whom he associated constantly were old Frederictonians. Among the former Fredericton people he referred to his acquaintance with Lieut. Col. P. A. Guthrie and Senator McKnight, a former Fredericton man and a U. N. B. graduate. He further stated that he could well recommend one former Fredericton man for the best all round guide in the province of New Brunswick This he stated was Charles K. Howard, who had led them in their tour of the province of New Brunswick. He referred to the friendly relations between the two nations and stated that as long as the inhabitants of the United States were English speaking people the relations between the two countries would also be amicable.

Dance and Movies.

Following the addresses of welcome and the replies from the visitors a short programme of six dances was carried out as follows:

1. Waltz.
2. Fox trot.
3. One step.
4. Waltz.
5. Fox trot.
6. Waltz.

Tennant's orchestra supplied the music for the dancing, which was greatly enjoyed by the visitors.

Following the dancing refreshments were served in the library, after which the members of the association adjourned, some to the train and some to the moving pictures at the Gaiety theatre.

Pictures of the Miramichi district with its abundance of moose and deer were shown, W. Harry Allen, president of the New Brunswick Guides' Association, explaining them. From these pictures the scene changed to scenic, lumbering and fishing pictures, and judging from the hearty applause given the pictures were greatly enjoyed by all present. Not only was the province of New Brunswick shown but also scenes from Quebec, Ontario and other provinces. Needless to say the fishing and hunting pictures proved the most popular with the visitors, who time after time showed their appreciation of them by their hearty applause.

The Minto Coal Strike.

The conciliation board which has been investigating the long standing strike at the Minto coal mines in Queens county has submitted a report, which the men have rejected, and in consequence a royal commission will be appointed soon to investigate the entire situation at Minto and endeavor to establish permanent peace between the mine owners and the operatives. J. B. McLachlan, secretary of the United Mine Workers of America, who has been giving some attention to the situation at Minto, says that his organization favors the appointment of royal commissions, wherever possible, instead of conciliation boards. It is expected that the sittings of the royal commission will be held either at Fredericton or Minto.

DEATH RATE IN SPAIN IS HEAVY

Demand for Ministry of Health to Introduce Hygenic Measures in Country

Madrid, June 15.—Spaniards are awakening to the necessity of improved hygienic measures to decrease the mortality of this country. Several of the leading newspapers have joined in a demand that a ministry of health be organized to give proper attention to sanitary conditions in factories and houses, to reduce accidents to workers and to have charge of the erection of cheap houses for the poor, old age pensions, health insurance, maternity allowances, prevention of epidemics and hygienic instruction for the people.

One newspaper quotes Dr. Juarros as having asserted that smallpox, diphtheria and tuberculosis had increased enormously; that births had decreased and the death rate among infants grown to such an extent that these deaths now comprised 20 per cent. of the national mortality. An infinitesimal number of houses boast of a bath, he said, public baths were entirely lacking and the houses of the poor were so badly constructed that the occupants did not have as many conveniences as were afforded by the prison.

The Institute of Civil Engineers has taken up the subject and is agitating for hygienic measures to reduce the death rate.

Duluth Mob Takes Negroes From Police and Hang Them Assault Upon a White Girl

The Police Quarters Attacked With Bricks and Fire Hose and the Three Blacks Taken Out, Given Mock Trial and Then Strung Up by Mob

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Duluth, Minn., June 16—Virtually normal conditions prevailed today on the Duluth business streets over which a mob of five thousand persons surged last night, sweeping the police from power and seizing and lynching three negroes held in connection with an attack on a 17 year old white girl.

When two companies of Minnesota National Guardsmen reached here early today, after a special train trip from St. Paul, they found only a damaged police station and littered streets as visual evidences of the mob's activity. The 124 men and six officers went into temporary camp preparing to patrol the streets, if necessary, to guard against any eventuality that might arise as an aftermath of the mob's mad run. The men are equipped for riot duty.

Last night's lynchings were accomplished after the city's police force had been overpowered by bricks and streams from fire hose in an attack on police headquarters, which fronts Superior street, Duluth's principal business thoroughfare. For at least two hours the mob ruled, only relinquishing its power after the negroes had been lynched.

Held a Mock Trial

Six negroes had been arrested by the police in connection with the attack on the girl, which took place at a circus grounds Monday night. The negroes were attached to the circus as roustabouts. The mob held a mock trial, declared three of the negroes guilty and acquitted the other three, who today still were in the hands of the police.

The three "convicted" negroes were hanged within a block and a half of the police station, the mob hooting down pleas of two priests that the law be permitted to take its course. It took three starts to hang the first negro, as the rope broke the first two times.

The negroes hanged were Isaac McGhie, Elmer Jackson and Nate Green, all about 22 years old.

Declared Their Innocence.

McGhie was the first to feel the noose. He cried for mercy, declaring he was innocent.

One priest, Father F. J. Howard, climbed fifteen feet up an electric light pole and pleaded with the mob to turn the negroes over to courts of law.

He was met by hoots and cries of "Remember the girl—lynch them."

Twice McGhie was jerked into the air to the shouts of the mob, and each time the rope broke, dropping him to the ground.

"God be with them; I am not the right man," was his last cry as on the third trial he went to his death.

Bodies Not Mutilated.

A similar fate quickly was meted out to Jackson and Green, who likewise protested their innocence and pleaded for mercy. There was no demonstration after each body soared into the air, and no attempt was made to mutilate the bodies in any way, it was said by onlookers.

After the mob had dispersed early today the police cut down the bodies of the negroes, which had not been mutilated.

Injuries suffered by eight policemen and a newspaper man in the brick fight and fire hose attack on the police station, were said today to be trivial.

An investigation of the action of the mob will be made, it was understood today, but just what form this investigation would take had not been determined when the guardsmen reached here.

CARPENTIER GOING BACK TO FRANCE

Hughie Milam is going to the Orange county circuit with Dominion Day, and here goes a prediction that the three-year-old will make equally as good an impression as did Echo Direct, 2.05¼. D. H. Bay State Circuit Opens At Combination Park Today With Good Race Programme

Most of the Big New England Stables Will Have Entries—Seven Races in Two Days Under Revised Card—2.15 Pace and 2.18 Trot on Today

Boston, Mass., June 16.—Famous old Combination Park, the Medford course, where the fastest mile ever paced on a New England half mile track was put on record many years ago when Joe Patchen buzzed around the oval in 2.04¼, will be the scene this week of the initial meeting of the Bay State Circuit of the season of 1920, and in view of the fact that the Bay State is is the leading chain of half-mile tracks in the East, the affair generally is considered the real opening of the harness racing season.

Many stables, in addition to those which have been trained at the Medford track this spring, have arrived at Combination Park. Several strings, including those of Jack Kingsley, Billy Flemming, Frank Monohan, Jack Monroe and David Warman, have been moved over from Readville.

Pat Donovan, of Derby, Conn., pulled in with a pair of speedsters. F. C. Tobey, of Plymouth, N. H., is there with the trotting gelding, Silent Brigadier, which Frank Burkes raced on the Bay State as a three-year-old, while the Vermont teamster, Arthur Woodrow, who did his spring training at the Greenfield track, has a good two-horse "string" in the four-year-old filly, Dolly Guy, and Maella.

Albert H. Kline, the Pennsylvania trainer, has arrived from Philadelphia, where he raced last week in the sweepstakes races. Other stables, including that of the Connecticut trainer, Harry Brusie, who has entered several speedsters, are also here.

Classes Well Filled.

Of the nine classes announced for the meeting, only two failed to fill satisfactorily, so instead of reopening the events the management of the meeting has decided to stage a two-day programme, with three races today and the remaining four on Thursday, Bunker Hill Day, which is a big holiday in that section of Greater Boston.

The complete programme, together with the list of entries in each event, follows:

Entries for Curtain Raiser Meeting at Fredericton Will Be Opened Here Tomorrow

Little Doubt But That All Six Classes on the Programme Will Be Filled and the Meeting Assured of Success—The Rival Meeting at Moncton

Entries for the Fredericton Park Association's "curtain raiser," meeting to precede the Maritime & Maine Circuit will close tomorrow and there seems to be little doubt that the six classes that are on the programme will all be filled so they can be raced.

Under National Trotting Association rules any entries bearing postmarks previous to noon on Friday will therefore be eligible and it will thus be probably Monday before a complete list of the entries can be made up to be submitted to a general meeting of the direcotrs. As nothing is sure in racing until the entries are received there will be much interest in what the mails of Thursday, Friday and Saturday bring to the Association.

As has always been the case the principal difficulty seems to be to round up enough free for allers and everything is being done that can be done—and not violate the rules by offering inducements not in accordance with the conditions—to get a bunch of the fast record pacers together. Some of the stables which are now booked to go to Moncton may realize the fast company they are likely to run into there before it is too late and in that way it is believed that a number of strings of horses not really expected here will be turning up after all.

There has been no intimation as yet that Oro Fino, 208¼, will not race here, nor has there been any assurance from the Woodstock syndicate who own the handsome bay pacer that he will be sent to Fredericton's opening meeting. On the other hand the Woodstock people know how much the success of the northern and western end of the circuit will depend upon Fredericton's "curtain raiser" and it may be that for that reason they will decide to give their pacer an earlier race here than they intended just to get a line on how he performs and at the same time help to make a "go" of the free for all here. This would be a considerable sacrifice by the Woodstock people, but it is cypical of what they are prepared to do to make things go along properly.

Meanwhile the Fredericton Park Association's stakes for fall and their jurses for the July circuit meeting have not yet been made up finally and announced; nor will they be until entries have closed for the "curtain raiser."

ROGERS HORNSBY OUT OF THE GAME

The Great Batter of St. Louis Nationals Hit by Ball on Head and Was Unconscious

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York, June 16.—Rogers Hornsby, St. Louis National second baseman, for whom Branch Rickey announced he recently had refused a $200,000 offer, was knocked unconscious yesterday by a ball thrown by Shortstop Lavan, of the Cardinals, in the contest with New York. The ball hit him on the back of the head. It is believed he may be out of the game for several days.

Helen Stiles, 2.06¼, winner of two races in Ohio so far this season, is one of the many benefited by the new time allowance.—Boston Herald.

Hollyrood Fancy, a two-year-old owned by J. L. Dodge, who campaigned Periscope (3), 2.04½, last season, is said to be a promising candidate for the futurities, having worked in 2.18½ at the Lexington, Ky., track.

DEMPSEY WOULD FIGHT LABOR DAY

Heavyweight Champion Ready to Meet Carpentier, Declares His Manager

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

San Francisco, Calif., June 16.—Jack Kearns, manager for Jack Dempsey, heavyweight pugilistic champion of the world, announced today that Dempsey would be ready within two weeks to meet Georges Carpentier, the French heavyweight. Labor Day was suggested as the date for the proposed contest.

Kearns' statement, in part, said: "Now, Carpentier, we're ready. If you have come to America to fight, here's your chance. Jack Dempsey is free and ready to meet you anywhere in the world. The chance you have been asking for a crack at the title is yours. The next move is also yours."

She looked down the row of passengers and selected a very sedate man, who bore the general settled appearance of a married man. She sailed up to him and boldly opened fire:

DEERING MOWER
"Cuts Clean Regardless of Conditions"

You buy a mower to cut grass and you expect it to do so under all ordinary conditions without wasting the grass, clogging the mower or putting excessive strain upon the horses. There are reasons why the Deering Mower will cut grass even when conditions are bad, without danger of encountering any of these difficulties.

1. The Deering Mower Wheels with staggered lugs give ample traction.
2. The Deering Mower Wheels are exceptionally strong.
3. The Wheels are adjustable at Hub to take up End Play.
4. The Deering Mower has very LIGHT DRAFT because of Ball and Roller Bearings.
5. The Deering Mower is strong in the Framer where strength is needed.
6. The Deering Mower Crankshaft retains oil and for this reason the Bearings last longer.
7. REPAIR SERVICE.

We carry a good supply of repairs for the Deering Mower and can supply any repair part quickly.

Now is the time to place your order for Your Harvesting Machinery for this summer and we solicit your business.

A TEN PER CENT. SLUMP IN SHOES

The New Tax on Shoes Given as the Reason for Decrease at Montreal

Montreal, June 15.—A slump of approximately ten per cent. in shoes has taken place in this city, but it is not regarded by manufacturers to be a permanent change for the better. The new tax on shoes is given as a reason for th slump. Cheap hides, due to accumulation here on account of transportation troubles, are also a contributory factor.

TELLS WHY WOOD LOST NOMINATION

New York, June 15.—Charges that "a motley group of stock gamblers, oil and mining promoters, munition makers and other like persons seized upon so good a man as General Wood and with reckless audacity started out to buy for him the presidential nomination," were made in a statement given out here last night by Nicholas Butler, an unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination.

"There was nothing to do in order to save the Republican party but to defeat the band of men that were behind him with their bank accounts and their great financial influence,' Mr. Butler said. "This meant that we had to defeat General Wood himself.'

RUSSIA MUST PAY HER OBLIGATIONS

Paris, June 15.—Representatives of ten nations attending the international conference for the protection of foreign interest in Russia have decided on the principle that all states of the former Russian empire must give guarantees that they will carry their share of the engagements of the imperial regime, according to the Matin.

It has been decided to oppose resumption of commercial relations until an international agreement giving satisfaction to holders of Russian bonds has been concluded, the paper says.

TOO MUCH BOOZE

Chatham Seems to Have an Over Supply of Liquor at the Present Time

[Chatham World.]

There is much more booze on sale in Chatham than there should be under Prohibition. Anybody who is foolish enough to exchange $5 for a bottle of whiskey can do so and many citizens are foolish enough to do so. Inspectors seem to have no detective ability, or else they don't try to find out the sources of supply. Instead of spending so much time and energy in looking for flasks in the pockets of visitors they should endeavor to locate the supply depots. It ought to be easy to do so.

CHILD'S HEAD CRUSHED

Montreal, June 15.—Pushed into an elevator shaft at the Dominion Express Company's stables by a boy, Sarah Reso, nine years old, died in the General Hospital today. The child's head was thrust over the gate and a descending car struck her and fractured her skull.

The police are searching for the boy.

IN DAYS OF TERROR

"Ah, Captain Dixmer!" said the cantiniere, "I have some famous Vin de Saumer."

"But, citizen Plumeau, in my opinion at least, the Vin de Saumer is nothing without the cheese of Brie," replied the captain, who, before he stated this opinion, had carefully looked round, and detected the absence of his favorite commodity.

"Ah! captain, it is true; but the last morsel has been consumed."

"Well," said the captain, "if there is no cheese of Brie, no Vin de Saumer for me, and remark, citoyenne Plumeau, the consumption is worth the trouble; listen to what I intend to propose to the company."

"But, captain, I ask you to wait only five minutes, and I will run and procure some of the house of the citoyenne concierge, who competes with me, and who always has it. I shall pay very dear, and you I am sure are too good a patriot to injure me."

"Yes, yes," replied Dixmer, 'and in the mean time we will go into the vault, and select our own wines.'

"Make yourself at home, captain, pray do."

And the widow Plumeau began to run with all her might towards the lodge of the concierge, whilst the captain and chasseur, provided with a light, raised the trap-door, and then descended into the cave.

'Good," said Morand, after an instant's examination, the cave advances in the direction of la Rue Porte Foin. It is nine or ten feet in depth, and there is no brickwork."

'What is the nature of the soil?" inquired Dixmer.

"Sandstone; it is all made earth; these gardens have been thrown into confusion, and then restored many times. There is no rock in any part.'

"Be quick," cried Dixmer, "I hear the sabots of our vivandiere; take two bottles of wine, and let us go up."

They both appeared at the entrance of the trap-door as Madame Plumeau entered, carrying the cheese so strenuously insisted upon by Dixmer, while several chasseurs followed her, attracted by the presence of the said cheese. Dixmer did the honors; he offered twenty bottles of wine to his company, whilst the citizen Morand recounted the devotion of Curtius, the disinterestedness of Fabricius, and the patriotism of Brutus and Casius, histories almost as much appreciated as the cheese of Brie and the vin d'Anjou offered by Dixmer, which is not saying a little. Eleven o'clock struck. At half-past the sentinels were relieved.

"Does not the Austrian take her walk in half an hour?" asked Dixmer of Tison, who passed the cabin.

"Half-an-hour after noon, exactly," and he began to sing.

He was received with a shout of laughter from the National Guard. Dixmer immediately summoned those men in his company whose duty it was to mount guard at halfpast eleven o'clock for an hour and-a-half, recommended them to hasten their breakfast, and made them take the arms to Morand, to place them, as it was agreed, on the highest story of the tower, in the same turret behind which Maurice was hidden the day he intercepted the signs intended for the Queen from the window of la Rue Porte Foin. If anyone had noticed Morand at the moment he received this message, simple as it was, he would have seen him blush beneath the masses of his long black hair. Suddenly a dull noise shook the court of the Temple, and sounds were heard like the roaring of a hurricane in the distance.

"What is that?" said Dixmer to Tison.

"Oh!" replied the jailor, "it is nothing; some little uproar they are making as these rascally Brissontins go to the guillotine."

The noise increased, the roar of artillery was heard, and a crowd of people rushed past, near the Temple, shouting, "Long live the Sections," "Long live Henriot," "Down with the Brissontins," "Down with the Rolandists," "Down with Madame Veto."

"Ah!" said Tison, clapping his hands, 'I will go and open the door for Madame Veto, that without any disturbance she may enjoy the love the people evince for her."

He approached the wicket of the donjon.

"Holloa! Tison," cried a loud voice.

"Yes, General," replied he, stopping short.

"Not to go out today," said Santerre; 'the prisoners are not to quit their chambers today." This order was peremptory.

"Good," said Tison, "so much the less trouble."

Dixmer and Morand exchanged looks of disappointment, then waiting till the hour for duty had struck (though now uselessly), they both left to walk between the cabin and the wall built on the Rue Porte Foin. Morand began walking fast, a distance of easy and geometrical steps, that is to say of three feet.

"What distance?" inquired Dixmer.

"Sixty to sixty-one feet," replied Morand.

"How many days will be required?"

Morand considered, then traced upon the ground some geometrical signs, which he effaced directly.

"Seven days at least are necessary," said he.

"Maurice is guard in eight days,' murmured Dixmer. "It is then absolutively imperative that within eight days we should be reconciled to Maurice."

The half hour struck, Morand, sighing, resumed his gun, and conducted by the corporal, went to relieve the sentinel who paraded the platform before the tower.

CHAPTER XIV.

Devotion.

The day following these events, that is to say the 1st of June, at ten o'clock in the morning, Genevieve was seated in her accustomed place near the window. She asked herself why, for the last three weeks, the days for her rose so sad, why they passed so slowly, and lastly, why instead of anticipating each evening with delight, she now dreaded its return. Her nights above all were wretched, those nights that used to be so happy, those nights passed in dream of the past and of the future. At this moment her eyes fell upon a case of magnificent striped and crimson carnations, which since the winter she had removed from the little greenhouse where Maurice had been imprisoned, to bloom in her own apartment. Maurice had learned her to cultivate them in this case where they were enclosed, they were watched and daily trimmed as if Maurice had been there; for when he came in the evening, she delighted to show him, thanks to their united care, the progress they had made during the night. But since the cessation of Maurice's visits, the poor carnations had been quite neglected, and for want of requisite care and attention, the opening buds had withered, turned yellow, and fallen down outside the balustrade. Genevieve now comprehended from this sight alone the reason of her own melancholy. She said to herself—'It is with flowers as with certain friendships, which we nourish and cultivate with ardour, till they bloom in the heart, and then in a moment a suspicion, a caprice, an unkindnes, strikes at the root of this frendship, and the heart that this friendship has bound up and brought to life languishes and dies."

30,000 POUNDS OF WOOL ALREADY GRADED IN CITY

It Is Coming Into Station at the Rate of 6,000 Pounds a Day

UNSETTLED CONDITION OF MARKET TEMPORARY

Recession in Prices Looked for When the Market Does Open Up

Up to date about thirty thousand pounds of wool have been graded at the ware house in this city by James D. Thompson, of the live stock division of the Federal Department of Agriculture, and in spite of the fact that the grading is very severe this year, the wool is grading exceptionally well, over 96 per cent. of it coming into the first three classes.

The severity in grading is due to the difference of thirty cents or more per pound in the price of the fine and coarse wool, the conditions being the same in all parts of Canada today. The wool at the present time is coming into the station at the rate of 6,000 pounds a day and it is expected that by the end of the week over 60,000 pounds will be graded. Mr. Thompson is leaving at the end of the week for Prince Edward Island in order to grade the wool of that Province and will return to this city about the first of July to complete the grading here.

During the past week A. E. McLaurin, supervisor of the wool graders of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, was in the city inspecting the grading, which is being carried on in the rear section of the main exhibition building, which has concrete flooring and is well lighted. Mr. McLaurin found the building very satisfactory for the purpose and the rear of it was partitioned off in order to separate each grade and keep the different grades in good condition.

F. W. Walsh, Assistant Superintendent of the live stock branch of the Provincial Department of Agriculture stated today that although the market for wool was in a very unsettled condition this would only be for a short time and that as soon as the bulk of the wool was on the market it would return to its normal state. During last week he said the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers' Association had shipped a carload of wool from Quebec at 53 cents a pound, which was a good price for it. "Growers should market their wool co-operatively this year," he stated, "since buyers are trying to protect themselves against not knowing the selling side of the market. It is only logical to expect when the market does open up that while there will undoubtedly be a considerable recession in prices, yet they should be considerably higher than the present buying prices."

Contest to Last 52 Weeks and to Begin in November

New Brunswick will have an egg laying contest during the present year according to the decision of the Experimental Farms Branch of the Federal Department of Agriculture, which was received recently by A. C. McCulloch, Poultry Superintendent of the New Brunswick Department of Agriculture.

This Province has been the only Province of Canada which has not yet been authorized to hold a contest of this nature and the decision of the Federal Department of Agriculture will be a welcome one to provincial poultry owners. The contest will last 52 weeks with one day for changing the pens and will begin on November 1st.

Each pen in the contest will have ten birds and each one is trap nested so that there is no danger of the eggs being credited to the wrong hens.

BOLSHEVIK ADVANCE NORTH OF BERESINA

The Moscow Report Says That Enemy Rear Guard Was Driven in Near Kiev

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

London, June 17.—Bands of General Denekine's forces and soldiers of the Russian "White" Government have occupied the Black Sea port af Batum, and attacked the Georgian army, according to a Moscow despatch to the Daily Herald.

As a protest the Georgians arrested some members of the Entente mission at Tiflis, says the newspaper, which ascribes its information to the Georgian mission at Moscow.

London, June 17.—Russian Bolshevik forces have again advanced on the northern end of the Polish front, according to a wireless despatch from Moscow, quoting an official statement issued there yesterday. Soviet successes on other sections of the line are also reported.

The text of the statement follows:

"On the upper reaches of the Beresina river our troops by an energetic advance have occupied a number of villages north and south of Beresina village. In the direction of Korosten, near Kiev, we are pursuing the enemy and driving in his rear guard. In the Zhmerinka district our troops are successfully pursing the retreating enemy and have occupied a line running through Bratzlav, the town of Vapniarka and Tomashpol."

ADMINISTRATION OF INDIAN AFFAIRS

Special Committee of House Makes Recommendations Regarding Indian Act

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Ottawa, June 17.—That the government should institute the selective system of securing councillors for Indian bands wherever possible and that there should be a standing select committee of the House on Indian affairs, were the recommendations brought into the House of Commons yesterday afternoon by the special committee on bill number 14, to amend the Indian Act whose report was tabled yesterday.

The committee was of the opinion that the administration of the affairs of an Indian community or band by an hereditary council might be detrimental to the best interests and progress of such Indians.

CALL NEW LEAGUE A POMPOUS FARCE

Decision to Postpone Action Regarding Persia Looked Upon as Humiliating

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

London, June 17.—Sharp criticism of the decision reached by the council of the League of Nations to postpone action on the plea of Persia for defense against the Bolsheviki is expressed in some quarters here, and one section of the press openly attacks the council for its action.

Some of those present at the meeting of the council, it is declared, were given a bad impression, and it is understood, Prince Firouz, Persian Foreign Minister, notwithstanding his outward acquiescence, was considerably disappointed, although he comforted himself in the confident hope that in the event that Bolshevik troops did not withdraw from Persia, the League would take active steps to protect his country.

Press Comment.

The London Times captions its editorial on the subject: "A pompous farce," and calls yesterday's proceedings "humiliating."

It says: "Malice was the cause of discredit being brought upon the League."

"This body (the council) was pledged to the furtherance of open diplomacy," complains the Daily News, "but threw now the light on the text of the correspondence which has passed between the Persian and soviet governments, and certain conditions alleged to have been imposed. This is one way of killing the League."

The Herald, organ of Labor, declares: "The League is already dead, because it never lived, and this because the men who formd it were militarists and imperialists, greedy for power and territory."

The Bolshevik Claims.

A Copenhagen despatch to the Herald refers to the unpublished correspondence between Persia and Soviet Russia, and, championing the latter, claims Persia has not answered the soviet government's protest against what it calls Persia's violations of international law. Giving details of these violations, the despatch declares a plenopotentiary sent from Moscow to Teheran last year with a note laying down the principles of the soviet government's attitude toward Persia, was "siezed and shot by the British and the Russian anti-Bolshevik forces."

It is also claimed that soviet consuls in Persia have been siezed and deported.

St. John, N. B., June 17.—The official opening of the twenty seventh annual meeting of the National Council of Women took place in the Germain Street Baptist Institute this morning. Some of the most illustrious women of Canada were in the gathering. It is evident from the first general meeting that much business of importance will be transacted.

This morning's session was largely taken up with addresses and the presentation of reports, which were received with hearty applause. The National President, Mrs. W. E. Sanford, of Hamilton, Ont., presided.

In the reply, Miss E. L. Mowatt, President of the Queens College Alumnae, of Kingston, Ont., a nationally affiliated society, spoke kindly words of St. John and its hospitality.

Telegrams of greeting and wishes for success were received from Lady Aberdeen, Scotland; R. Torrington, Toronto; Margaret Taylor, Winnipeg; Rev. J. G. Shearar, Toronto; Judge Emily F. Murphy, Edmonton; for the Canadian Women's Press Club, and the Fredericton Women's Institutes; Tessie Ingram, local council of St. Thomas, Ontario; and a telegram from Hon. W. E. Foster, Premier of New Brunswick, regretting he could not be present, as he is away, but saying he would be pleased to address the National Council on another day.

Reverends H. A. Goodwin, R. T. McKim and F. S. Dowling of St. John, representing the social service council of Canada, presented greetings in person.

Address of National President.

In her address as National President, Mrs. H. Sophie Sanford said the last year had been one of earnest endeavor. "The chaos of our world, the almost universal spirit of unrest, the abject misery of our fellow creatures have weighed heavily upon us.

"Every God-given talent is called into action with fourfold energy. The opportunities are tremendous and are ours but for a moment.

"The members of our National Council tough with their potent influence almost every part of our beloved land. That this has meant blessing and helpfulness throughout the twenty-seven years of our existence is beyond all question. We have labored diligently; we have loved the council; we have tried to give it our best. Are there then still greater achievements possible to us?

"Evil stalks unblushingly on every hand, the mikhty forces of unrighteousness are everywhere rampant. Is it then a time for selfish ease? Dare we for a moment relax, or loosen our armor, or put aside our weapons of defense? There must be no looking back, ever onward, ever upward must our pathway tend, no obstacle insurmountable, no hindrance too great, for our trust is in the Lord Jehovah who strengthens us with all might according to His glorious power, unto whom be praise and dominion forever and ever."

The Secretary's Report.

The corresponding secretary's report was presented by Mrs. Horace Parsons.

Glowing tributes to Mrs. Parsons were paid for her efficiency and zeal and courtesy and a motion of thanks to her was adopted.

It was decided to have prepared a list of all members of the various councils who have received honors or recognition from governments and heads of departments in their own provinces.

The report of Margaret C. Watt, treasurer, showed receipts of $3,582 and a balance from last year of $2,077. The expenditures were $4,330.

The treasurer's report was under discussion at adjournment for luncheon, which was given today by the Women's Canadian Club. An automobile outing and tea at the Country Club are fixtures after the afternoon session.

Welcome to Council.

Mrs. Atherton Smith welcomed the delegates on behalf of the St. John local council of women. Extolling the work of the national council, Mrs. Smith said it had indeed justified its existence as a parliament of women, excluding party politics and theology, but aiming at the application of the golden rule to society, custom and law. In fact, there was no social or public welfare work today which has not engaged the alert minds and sympathetic hearts of the women in the council. They must not, however, give themselves over to exultation and congratulation.

Mrs. Smith asked for a continuation of the same spirit of unselfishness, service, love and unity that was displayed by the women of Canada during the war.

Mrs. Smith presented the President, Mrs. W. E. Sanford, with a gavel made from the wood used in the first suspension bridge which crossed the St. John river. In doing so she said that it would act as an emblem of unity and also be a souvenir of the convention.

Prohibition Case in Chambers.

An appeal was heard before Mr. Justice Crocket this morning in chambers in ex parte Gorayeb, a prohibition case from Restigouche county. E. Allison McKay appeared for defendant, taking the point that the defendant had been arrested on a warrant in which the information was not sworn to, and he contended that it was illegal; P. J. Hughes, contra. Court considers.

An Assault Case

As a sequel to a scrap in Marysville recently two young men, one from this city and one from Devon, have been served with summonses to appear before Magistrate Clayton at Marysville and answer the charge of assault which is preferred against them by the parents of a young man who was knocked down. Counter charges are likely to be made in the case.

Fire at the Dump.

The dump at the west end of the city has been on fire for the past few days and all day yesterday the firemen kept a stream of water playing on it. Today the fire is still smouldering.

BAPTIST DISTRICT MEETING AT DOUGLAS

Reports on Various Activities of the Church Presented at Annual Meeting

The weather was favorable for the Baptist District at Douglas yesterday and the church was filled with delegates and friends. Rev. C. T. Clark gave the second in the series of devotional addresses which he is giving the meetings and his subject was The Holy Spirit in the Acts of the Apostles. The nominating committee reported as follows: Committee of arrangements, Rev. H. H. Ferguson, Rev. Mr. Williams and Charles Parent; committee on licenses, all the ordained ministers in the district and S. J. Hallett and E. W. Stairs. The name of E. W. Stairs was added to the executive committee.

Rev. C. T. Clark then reported on the Forward Movement. It has been a great success in the third district. Thirty-one churches had subscribed in cash and pledges $19,644.75, of which 50 per cent. had been paid in cash. This amount exceeded the allocation for the district which had been made by the central committee. Rev. J. B. Daggett, Rev. Z. L. Fash and Rev. G. C. Warren expressed the thanksgiving of the district for the splendid response of the people to this largest call that had ever been made upon them for money for the advancement of the kingdom of God.

Rev. G. C. Warren gave the report for the denominational funds. This is the regular contribution for the different objects which the Maritime Baptists are promoting, including missions, foreign and home, and education and ministerial auunity, Grande Ligne and western missions. Notwithstanding the extra splendid contributions to the Forward Movement the giving to the regular denominational funds had greatly increased. The resident membership in the district, which included only the county of York, was 2,044, and these from Oct. 1, 1920, to June, 1920, had contributed $2,412.67, which was an increase of $637 over the same period last year. S. J. Hallett, J. W. Spurden and a number of others discussed the report, which was adopted.

The report on the Grande Ligne mission work in the province of Quebec was read by Rev. Z. L. Fash. This mission has a splendid school at Grande Ligne, Quebec, and a number of churches in Quebec and Ontario. It has a membership of 7,000 French Canadian Baptists, the greater part of whom are converts from Romanism. The report was discussed and passed.

The report of the Maritime Baptist home mission work was then read by Rev. J. B. Daggett. This was the first report of the united board. Rev. E. S. Mason, the superintendent, is to be in attendance. R. B. Wallace, Fredericton, is the president of the board and its work includes the Maritime Provinces. Results have justified the union of the boards. A splendid work is being done, which will be greatly expanded when the contribution from the Forward Movement is received.

After a discussion on the pastorless churches the meeting adjourned until 7.30.

David Jones, a licentiate, led a song service at the opening of the evening session. An interesting address was next given by Eugene Therrien, of Grande Ligne, Quebec, who is a student at Acadia University, and who is now speaking in the Maritime Provinces for the mission at Grande Ligne. Mr. Therrien is a French Protestant whose grandfather, Rev. Mr. Therrien, was a convert from Roman Catholicism and who for 40 years has been pastor of the French Baptist church in Montreal. Mr. Therrien showed in a very convincing manner the importance of the Grande Ligne mission and the quiet and splendid work it is doing.

The next speaker was Rev. E. S. Mason, superintendent of home missions for the Maritime Provinces. There are about 200 home mission churches under the control of the board. The efficient manning of every one of our churches is a matter of the greatest importance. Pastors at large are doing fine work in visiting and organizing the fields where there are at present no pastors. Twenty-one students have been appointed by the board to fields during the summer months. The gratuitous work of a number of laymen was mentioned and the superintendent said that the services of 100 of these laymen could be utilized by the board. The Home Mission Board was never in such good condition financially, and this was on account of the Forward Movement. There was, however, great need of increased contributions for the work, as it was developing very rapidly.

The committee on resolutions gave their first report through Rev. J. B. Daggett. They called upon every member of our Baptist constituency to vote for the retention of the prohibitory law on the 10th of July and a second resolution spoke the decided and determined opposition of the Baptist people of this province to voting for the sale of light wines and beer under Government control. This was characterized as a device of the devil to defeat in an underhanded way the prohibition law, and everybody was urged without any hesitancy to put an emphatic no against the sale of beer and light wines in this province.

Rev. W. D. Wilson then gave an address on the prohibition law and the plebiscite on July 10.

Halifax, N. S., June 17.—The steamers Royal George and Caronia are due to arrive tomorrow from Liverpool.

Halifax, N. S., June 17.—Ralph Pepper, a young painter, fell this afternoon from a ladder placed at a Cornwallis street house. He was seriously injured and was taken to the Victoria General Hospital.

Moncton, N. B., June 17.—A coal shed owned by J. E. Masters Company, at the foot of Downing street, was totally destroyed by fire this morning. The estimated loss is about $5,000; insurance $3,000.

Madrid, June 17.—Five thousand pesetas has been paid for the head of the bull which recently killed the famous bull fighter Gallito. It was purchased by a well known amateur bull fighter of this city.

Ottawa, June 17.—Six more divorce bills were passed by the select standing committee on miscellaneous private bills yesterday.

Montreal, June 17. — Government ownership with democratic operation of the American railroads was endorsed here today by the American Federation of Labor in its annual convention, after one of the bitterest fights on record.

Guelph, Ont., June 17.—It was stated at the second annual meeting of the Canadian Fertilizer Association, which opened here yesterday at the Ontario Agricultural College that the yield of potatoes in New Brunswick had been increased one hundred per cent. in eight years through the judicious use of fertilizer.

NEW BRUNSWICK'S 1920 POTATO CROP

rejuirements of poisons have been ordered for the potato districts of New Brunswick. The reason given by the dealers is, 'The farmers say that the cold winter has killed off the potato beetles, and there will be no need of using poison this year.'

"Investigations during the past two weeks in New Brunswick go to show that potato beetles are fully as numerous and as lively as ever. A report from Fredericton, May 31, 1920, states 'A large number of potato beetles on the wing.'

"In view of this fact there seems but little doubt that unless orders are placed at once for more insecticides that there will be an acute shortage of poisons when spraying time comes. On account of the extreme high cost of growing potatoes at the present time, the grower must get the maximum crop in order to clear expenses, and also in view of the possible food shortage facing us, it is in the interests of all to have potatoes produce the maximum this year. If potato beetles are not controlled the maximum crop cannot be produced.

"It would seem good business for dealers to lay in larger stocks of poisons at once, in view of the probable shortage and its consequences. Any of the common poisons may be ordered, arsenate of lime being preferred."

Latest crop reports indicate that there may still be a fair crop of hay, if there is good growing weather, and that seeding is practically completed in the province, except for buckwheat and turnips. Recent rains have given all the crops in New Brunswick a good start, it is said.

Three Tenders Received.

Three tenders have been received by A. H. Vanwart for the heating of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, and they will be opened at a special meeting called for tomorrow night.

THE TOURIST ASS'N RETAINS IDENTITY

Fredericton Association Oldest in Canada and Won't Be Absorbed

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Dalhousie, N. B., June 17.—Most of this morning's session of the All New Brunswick Tourist and Resources League was taken up with a general discussion of the reorganization plans under which it has been proposed to unite all the tourist organizations and similar associations in New Brunswick under one head.

The Fredericton Tourist Association have declined to give up their identity, having been the first organization of the kind, not only in New Brunswick, but in all Canada, and R. H. Simonds, secretary of the Fredericton Board of Trade, so informed the meeting, declaring, however, that the Fredericton Tourist Association was working for the good of the whole province and stood ready to co-operate in the general plan.

Officers of the League are to be elected this afternoon, organization completed and the delegates will return to their homes tonight.

ST. JOHN'S SUPPLY OF MILK IS SHORT

Some Curtailment Today and Dealers Are Making New Arrangements

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

St. John, N. B., June 17.—The action of many of the Kings county farmers in shutting off their milk supply to the city did not seriousl effect the local dealers and consumers today, but may be felt greater later. However, out of the ordinary shipment of milk from Kings county, which is about 1,500 cans, only about 450 were received today and there may be none tomorrow.

Several local dealers said that they had made arrangements to have their teams and motor trucks go out to the country tonight to arrange for a supply from other sources. A large portion of the cream used for manufacturing ice cream did not come from Kings county, but about eighty per cent. of the city's milk supply came from there. Where the demand cannot be filled in the country, arrangements with Prince Edward Island and the farmers in the vicinity of Moncton to supply St. John with milk were being planned.

Mr. Richards was naturally elated when Colonel McLeod's telegram came this morning indicating the success of his efforts and his clients were a happy lot of prisoners when advised. The official orders for the men's release will probably arrive within a day or two.

Young Men Had Narrow Escape.

Two young men belonging to St. John had a most remarkable escape from instant death yesterday while on their way to this city in an automobile. The car was going at a rate of about 45 miles an hour and when about four miles this side of Oromocto the steering gear collapsed. The car shot to one side of the road with such force that it made deep furrows in the turf and was only prevented from going over a fence, which would have meant instant death, by running against a huge bowl of a tree on the side of the road. The young men spent the day on the roadside endeavoring to fix the radius rods of the Ford, but passersby late yesterday afternoon were doubtful as to whether they would be able to proceed on their journey or would have to be towed into the city.

Toronto Shoe Dealer Found Guilty of Charging Unjust Price for Goods in Stock

Shoes Marked for Sale at $14 a Pair Were Sold to Customer for $22—The Finding of the Board of Commerce Commissioners

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Ottawa, June 17.—In a judgment signed by Commissioners O'Connor and Murdock, the Board of Commerce finds S. N. & K. N. Saba, trading as the Manhattan Shoe Company, of Toronto, "guilty of an offense against section 17 (2) of the Combines and Fair Price Act, in that they sold to Robert Lachapelle a pair of shoes for $22, being a price higher than was reasonable and just; and the board directs K. N. & S. N. Saba and each of them to mark in plain and legible figures on the sole of each pair of boots, shoes, slippers, pumps and other like articles which are now or may hereafter for the space of twelve months from this date, be held for sale or offered for sale by them, or either of them, the price to the customer."

The shoes were marked for sale at $14 a pair, but were actually sold to the complainant for $22.

Appeal to Privy Council.

Ottawa, June 17.—The question of the jurisdiction of the Board of Commerce of Canada as a profit fixing tribunal will be taken to the privy council in England. E. L. Newcombe, K. C., is on his way to England to make application on behalf of the government for leave to appeal against the findings of the supreme court of Canada in the case of Board of Commerce vs. the Ottawa Clothiers.

This case, involving the right of the Board to limit the profit which any merchant in Ottawa might make on the sale of men's clothing, was argued before the supreme court, which divided in its opinion, three judges upholding the legality of the Board's order and three judges dissenting.

BURGLARS GET $50,000 BOOTY

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Montreal, June 17.—Burglars last night blew out the fronts of two large safes in the premises of M. Lasker, manufacturing jeweler, 7 Bleury street, in the heart of the city, and stole diamond, platinum and gold jewelry valued at $50,000. They broke open a neighboring office and stole a cloth, which they used to deaden the sound of the explosion.

POWER TO RESTRICT CANADA EXPORTS

The Resolution Introduced by Premier Borden Opposed by Quebec Liberals

[Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.]

Otawa, June 17.—Considerable opposition is likely to develop against the bill introduced by Sir Robert Borden for the Minister of Customs in the House yesterday to the customs act, giving the governor-in-council power to impose restrictions on any article, commodity or material produced or manufactured in Canada, necessary or desirable for the use or consumption of the Canadian people, or for the encouragement, maintenance or preservation of nay trade, industry, business or occupation, and putting the export of the same under license regulations.

In asking that it be referred to a committee, Sir Robert stated that important representations had been made regarding the situation in such commodities as coal, sugar and newsprint. He expressed the hope that a special committee such as he suggested would find some means of relieving the governor-in-council from the duty outlined in the resolution which introduced the bill, and in the opinion of some members of the House was looking to some amicable settlement being arrived at possibly without the necessity of government intervention in the terms of the bill.

The resolution carried and the bill was introduced, but not without a strong lot of opposition, particularly from the Quebec members of the opposition, several of whom have a strong personal interest in one form or another in the fortunes of the pulp and paper concerns of Canada. They, however, put it on constitutional or other grounds. Hon. Mr. Bureau, of Three Rivers, declared that a restriction of imports was generally considered immoral, while Mr. McMaster, of Montreal, characterized it as vicious and an attempt to control industry. The Premier made it very clear that no such atrocities were contemplated, and the bill was given its first reading and referred to a select committee.

New Brunswick Tourist, Game and Resources League Convention Opens at Dalhousie

Dalhousie, June 16.—The second annual convention of the All-New Brunswick Tourist, Game and Resources League opened here this morning at the Inch Arran House. Many delegates were present from different parts of the province and from the enthusiasm displayed at the opening session great benefits to the province ought to result from the convention. Little business was done at the morning session other than the appointment of a committee for the purpose of arranging what business should be brought before the convention. Most of the time was taken up in speeches of welcome and others of like nature.

The convention opened with the singing of the National Anthem, following which Hon. C. H. Labillois was unanimously elected to the chair. C. B. Allan acted as secretary.

In acepting the chairmanship Mr. Labillois told of the organization of the league and its aims, which are to reorganize the tourist business, take up the question of game protection and other similar matters. Appropriate addresses of welcome were made by Mayor Barberie, of Dalhousie, who appreciated the fact that this town had been chosen for the convention and Mayor Murray, of Campbellton, who welcomed the delegates on behalf of his town. He also touched on the question of development of natural resources of the province.

Mayor Schofield, of St. John, the next speaker, said they were gathered for the purpose of getting the people of the province to take a greater interest in the natural resources.

To Arouse Enthusiasm.

C. C. Avard said two things were necessary: to arouse the enthusiasm of the people and then get outsiders to come here. He invited the league to meet in Sackville next year.

R. T. Hayes paid a tribute to the chairman and said no part of America can beat New Brunswick on scenery.

L. P. D Tilley told of the interest the various mayors throughout the province are taking in the movement and he paid a tribute to the hospitality of the north shore people and praised the Restigouche for its scenery.

Judge McLatchey was deeply interested in the work. Too many people knock the province instead of boosting it, he said. All should become boosters. He paid a warm tribute o Mayor Schofield for his public spirited work.

David Champoux told of many Americans coming to the province for fishing or shooting, and then putting in money to develop natural resources.

More Delegates

No afternoon session of the convention was held here today on account of the local delegates preparing for the arrival of the National Editorial Association. It is expected the convention will get down to business tomorrow. Additional delegates arriving are Hon. W. E. Foster, St. John; Hon. Peter J. Veniot, Chatham; B. R. Armstrong, St. John, and W. Harry Allen, president New Brunswick Guides Association.

The press party arrived this evening shortly after 6 o'clock being brought from Campbellton in automobiles. They were served with dinner at the Inch Arran House being the guests of the towns of Dalhousie, Campbellton and Bathurst. One of the features of the banquet being baked beans cooked on the beach by New Brunswick guides.

Toast List

Following the banquet the chairman, Hon. C. H. Labillois, proposed the toast to the King, which was responded to by the singing of the National Anthem. T. H. McEvoy next took the floor and in an able address welcomed the guests of the evening.

The President of the United States was next proposed by Dr. Murray, Mayor of Campbellton, and responded to by W. Wilkie, of the Editorial party. The toast to our guests was proposed by Hon. P. J. Veniot, a former newspaper man, who spoke of the power of the press. This was responded to by President Albright, of the National Editorial Association, who appreciated the courtesies extended the party on its trip and thanked the entertainers. He told how ideas of the members of the party had changed as a result of the trip and was surprised at the extent of the natural resources of this province. In concluding, he hoped that the friendly relations of the two countries would continue. The Province of New Brunswick was proposed in a short speech by J. B. H. Storer, Secretary of the Bathurst Board of Trade. Hon. W. E. Foster in rising to respond to the above toast, was loudly cheered. It was his first visit to Dalhousie but he promised to come back maybe before winter when he would have a different message for his hearers. He told how the Province welcomed American capital in development of natural resources and how they appreciated the visit of their neighbors from the south. Commodore J. L. Stewart, of Chatham, in a bright and witty speech, proposed a toast to the ladies. During the evening a solo was sung in an acceptable manner by Mr. Parsons and Miss Hilda Stewart gave a reading which were well received. An informal dance was held, following which the party left for their train by automobiles.

SIR SAM ATTACKED SIR ARTHUR CURRIE

The Old Charges Rehashed, But House Little Interested in Matter

(Special despatch to the Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, June 17.—Sir Sam Hughes woke up the House with a 15-minute speech just before dinner last evening in which he took rather a new tack, coming out against the spirit of militarism.

"I do not think," he said, "we should cultivate the spirit of militarism by building up a great permanent force, but rather that there should be on the part of the people themselves, free from any military control, the true soldier spirit of wanting to protect the country in time of need. The military spirit must be in the people as individuals, and if they have a true sense of responsibility they will always be ready to play their part in the defence of their country." He urged the Minister to consider two thoughts, whether Canada should be built up on a permanent militaristic spirit, embodied in a permament force and permanent barracks, overriding the people by officialdom, or whether we should try to inculcate in the people themselves the true soldier spirit of service and sacrifice, every farmer's son in the nation considering himself part of the militia, ready to take his fair part in the defence of the country in time of need. In other words a non-permanent force on the one hand or permanent militia with an overriding officialdom on the other.

Had the ex-Minister of Militia confined himself to such sentiments he would have won a considerable measure of approval in the country, as he did from the Opposition, at least in the House; but he spoiled the effect of his utterances by returning again to the attack on Sir Arthur Currie, going even further than he did in the House last session, and making very definite charges of cowardice against him. It would seem that such charges had been sufficiently refuted last year, and for the most part they were ignored last night, although General Griesbech, of Edmonton, gave them an explicit denial.

The Opposition is putting up a rather vigorous fight against the militia estimates, Hon. Mr. Mackenzie-King moving that the item for active militia allowances be reduced by $20,000 to last year's figures of $100,000. He received the support of the Farmers' party, Mr. Crerar taking the ground that Canada was desirous of getting away from heavy military expenditures at the present time.

In endeavoring to conduct an intensive criticism of the estimates, Mr. Cannon, who rarely speaks without raising antagonism in some quarters, fell afoul of the Deputy Speaker. The latter, on a point of order, ruled against the member for Dorchester, who appealed from the ruling to the House. The Speaker not being in the House, the Deputy had to vacate the chair of the committee and assume the Speaker's chair to consider the point against himself. Mr. Cannon then appealed against this procedure, when the Speaker chairman ruled against him. On a vote being called for, all the rulings were sustained, the Farmers' party voting with the government.

Mr. King's amendment was voted down by 69 to 54.

GRUMPY PLEASED LARGE AUDIENCE.

Cyril Maude's Comedy Drew Good House and Was Highly Appreciated

The performance of "Grumpy," the play which Cyril Maude made famous in London, by the English company of Edward Lewers and Frank Compton in the Opera House last evening, was one of the most succesful dramatic presentations that Fredericton theatre goers have had the good fortune to attend. The audience was wrought to high excitement by the fine acting in a play which is at once a very witty comedy and gripping detective story. Applause and laughter assured the performers that their audience were thoroughly enjoying the performance.

A gardenia figures very prominently in the play. Grumpy, otherwise Andrew Bullivant, a irritable, old grouch whose grouchiness is hardly skin-deep and who is old and childish but not so childish as he appears at times was played by Edward Lewers so well he seemed to live the part, not act it. Grumpy's nephew, Ernest Heron, was trusted with the care of a valuable diamond and he is robbed by the villain, Mr. Jarvis, who has engaged the affections temporarily of Grumpy's granddaughter, Virginia, whom Ernest proposes to marry. The gay housemaid, Susan, in welcoming Ernest obligingly twines a hair round a gardenia for his buttonhole. When the villain attacks Heron at night and steals the diamond at the same time stunning him, Ernest catches at another gardenia which Mr. Jarvis is wearing and his own hair-bound one falls to the ground. It is noticed by Mr. Jarvis who picks it up and sticks it in his own buttonhole since he sees Ernest Heron has his clasped in his hand where he lies as he fell, and the flower plays an important part right through. Ruddock, the valet, assists in every scene and is one of the stars of the play. Rupert Lumley in the part gave it with dignity and faultless mannerisms. As Heron, Bailey Hick was easy and natural. Frank Compton played the smooth villain so successfully that he gained the dislike of his audience by his perfect art. Isaac Wolfe, the dealer, was taken by Frank Hollins. Keble, Mr. Jarvis' valet, was chiefly remarkable for his sloppy face in the opinion of Grumpy but he took his minor part well. As Virginia, Peggy Dundas had a rather exacting part to play and she carried it through pleasingly. Susan, the maid, played by Violet Hall Caine was an admirable piece of acting.

There will be another performance of Grumpy in the Opera House this evening and no doubt every seat will be taken.

REGULATING CANADIAN EXPORTS

The Federal Government, in seeking authority to regulate the exportation of any commodity manufactured in Canada when circumstances call for restriction, is apparently preparing to grapple with the coal, sugar and newsprint situations. It is asking Parliament for a wide range of power, which, if not prudently exercised, might be serious in the results to the industry, trade and commerce of the country. The danger is in the influence of cheap sentiment and agitation which lacks a sound basis. But it is to be assumed that the Government will be prudent and broad in action.

It is not natural or reasonable that our manufacturers be placed under restrictions which will deny them the market value of their product. It has not been established that the manufacturers are responsible for the increased and increasing prices, nor for the scarcity of commodities. The responsibility lies with other agencies. The general shortage had its origin recently in the withdrawal of many men from industrial activities to do service in the war overseas, and also in the wholesale transfer of manufacturing plants to war service work. At present and ever since the cessation of hostilities, industrial enterprise has been hampered by demands for increases of wages to a point hitherto undreamed of, for shorter hours for work, and by strikes and hold-ups. Production at a greatly increased cost has therefore fallen far short of the requirements, and products and commodities to the value of many millions of dollars have been ruined and wasted by the refusal of longshoremen and freight handlers and others to facilitate removal or to work except on their own terms, in their own way and in their own time. The manufacturers are certainly not responsible for such conditions as these; and it is just such conditions that have brought about very largely the high costs, inefficiency in service and scarcity of commodities in nearly all lines.

Restriction on exports may, however, be warranted where the actual necessities of life are involved; and assuredly coal and sugar are necessities. The pressing needs of the people must have first consideration. But it would seem to be farcical to restrict export and at the same time permit, sanction or allow the holdups, strikes and refusals to work—all of which are largely responsible for the present shortage and serious scarcity, or in the total is the chief contributory cause,—to continue to go on with impunity.

To restrict the export of manufactured products is a serious proposition; it is particularly objectionable when the principle of market value is ignored. We have no doubt, however, that the Government, in seeking the authority from Parliament, is preparing to exercise reasonable control in a situation that has become quite serious.

HON. MR. LEMIEUX AND ST. JOHN HARBOR.

The Hon. Mr. Lemieux, a leading Liberal member of Parliament, recently criticized the Federal expenditures made on account of St. John harbor. The St. John press is, perhaps naturally, not pleased. We have no doubt that Mr. Lemieux did not object particularly to the drydock. He probably had in mind the tremendous waste of public money on the general Courtney Bay scheme; and if that be the case, he was absolutely justified in all he said. If St. John is satisfied with the Courtney Bay exploitation, it need not expect to have the support or countenance of the other sections of the province, who have some respect for the fitness of things. St. John West has been practically beggared in harbor facilities because of reckless waste of public moneys on the East side. The difficulties of today are of its own making. The West side has a practical scheme, but naturally the public men of Canada of either and all political parties are not disposed to dump the revenue of the whole country into the harbors of one town. There is no doubt that the opinion of Mr. Lemieux, one of the chief lieutenants of the Liberal party, is largely shared in Parliament.

HARDING AND COOLIDGE.

New York Sun: "In the nomination "of Warren G. Harding of Ohio for "President and Calvin Coolidge of "Massachusetts for Vice-President the "Chicago convention has met perfectly the needs of the situation, the "desires of the Republican party and "the expectations of the country. "Both men are of Presidential stature. They have first rate executive "ability, high ideals of personal honor "and unshaken and unshakable American"icanism to qualify them for the highest posts in the gift of the people.

"As candidates they are strong in "the record of their doings in high "official position. They are strong "in the popular attraction of their "several personalities. Both are men "of courage, honor and good humor, "and these qualities always win the "public favor. Further, they are "singularly free from those enmities "and suspicions which often, even "though unjustly, attend the careers "of political leaders. These two have "none but friends in their party: even "leading men in the Democracy speak "appreciatively of them.

"They are as much superior to any "candidate whom the opposing party "is likely to offer as the Republican "party's platform is to any the Democracy can frame without stultifying its own recent history. They "deserve to be elected. To support "them is a privilege. They will be "elected."

CANADA'S TOTAL TRADE FOR MONTH

The Returns for May Show Satisfactory Increase in Every Line

[Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.]

Ottawa, June 17.—The trade figures for the month of May just issued by the Canadian Department of Customs show a total trade for the month of $193,866,238, compared with $167,811,336 in May, 1919. The imports were $113,447,899, compared with $71,344,816 for May, 1919. The exports of domestic produce were $97,342,578, as compared with $92,258,687 for the preceding year, and the exports were $3,975,761 as against $4,207,833.

SEAMEN OPPOSE RUSSIAN BLOCKADE

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Genoa, June 17.—A conference of the International Seafarers' Federation, to be called at the beginning of August was decided upon at yesterday's session of the International Seamen's Conference. The meeting will probably be at Brussels, as the most accessible place.

The conference, proposed by Italian delegates, adopted a resolution demanding that the blockade against Russia be raised and declaring that in order to abolish warfare competition among the nations must be abolished.

The English delegates opposed the resolution, which was adopted almost unanimously.

"EVERYWOMAN'S" CAST

Prominent Players in Company Which Filmed Morality Play

In these days of widely-heralded all-star motion picture casts that so often fail to materialize on the screen, it is a relief to find a picture like "Everywoman," showing at the Gaiety Theatre during the first part of next week, presenting an array of film favorites that has seldom been duplicated in one picture before. Violet Heming, the charming stage and screen player, has the leading role in this sumptuously produced version of Walter Browne's famous morality play. Theodore Roberts is Wealth, Wanda Hawley is Beauty, and Monte Blue is Love. Bebe Daniels was recruited from the ranks of comedy to play the role of Vice. Others in the company are Margaret Loomis, Mildred Reardon, Raymond Hatton, Noah Beery, Irving Cummings, Charles Ogle, and Tully Marshall. The picture was directed by George H. Melford and is a Paramount-Artcraft picture.

A DISGRACEFUL APPOINTMENT

So Says a Leader of the Presbyterian General Assembly in Session at Ottawa

[Montreal Daily Star, June 10.]

Describing the method of appointment of Presbyterian College professors as "disgraceful and un-Presbyterian," Rev. Dr. Pringle, Sydney, at yesterday afternoon's session of the Presbyterian General Assembly, cited the case of the appointment of the Rev. Dr. Smith, principal of Westminster Hall, Westminster, which, he said, was a disgrace.

He was immediately asked to withdraw by G. F. Gibson, chairman of the Presbytery concerned, but Dr. Pringle refused to do so. "If the Presbytery of Westminster is able to stand up to an investigation on the matter, I am able to do so," he said. "If my statement is proved wrong, I will then be willing to apologize."

CHARGE ILLEGAL SALES OF EXTRACT

St. John Grocers Hailed to Court—Magistrate Says Shoe Polish Next

St. John, June 17.—Representatives of nine leading local wholesale grocery firms appeared in the police court yesterday afternoon to answer to a charge laid against them by Liquor Inspector McAinsh. The charge is that "each of the firms did keep in their respective places or business intoxicating liquor (to wit, lemon extract), for sale, contrary to the provisions of the prohibition act of 1916, in the said City of St. John, on Tuesday, June 15, 1920."

The representatives of the various companies and firms, with the exception of two, pleaded not guilty and the other two decided eventually to plead not guilty to having intoxicating liquor in their places of business, although they admitted keeping lemon extract for sale. They said that they were under the impression that they had been acting entirely within the law and that this was the first intimation they had received that it was illegal to sell lemon extract. The magistrate explained that he had nothing to do with bringing them there but that, according to a decision given in a case by Chief Justice Sir Douglas Hazen, they were all liable under the prohibition act if they kept lemon extract for sale.

"If lemon extract is cut out they will start on shoe polish," said his honor, "and then we will have to analyze shoe polish and if it is over two per cent., we will cut it out. The whole community has been asking, 'Why do you bring up the widows and little fellows? Why don't you get after the others?'"

HORSES RAN AWAY DRIVER WAS KILLED

Bathurst, June 16.—A deplorable accident occurred on the road between Bathurst and Salmon Beach on Saturday evening last. As William Daley was returning to his home in Janeville from the shire town, the train of horses attached to a heavy truck which he was driving took fright and became unmanageable. Mr. Daley was thrown from the truck and instantly killed. A highly respected resident of Janeville, his death will be a source of keen regret to many friends and much sympathy is felt by his bereaved relatives. He is survived by his mother and three small children. He was about 43 years old. Coroner Meahan, who was called to the scene of the accident, considered an inquest unnecessary.

The Stock Market

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York (Wall Street), June 17.—An extreme decline of 5¾ points in Crucible Steel to 138½ on a sale of 1,000 shares was the conspicuous feature at the opening of today's stock market. Changes otherwise were generally toward higher levels, with chemicals, steels and equipments again in the lead. Rails were irregular, Canadian Pacific losing a point. Preliminary quotations in foreign exchange were noteworthy for the marked strength of remittances to London, demand bills approximating four dollars to the pound.

The Noon Report.

Pools ceased their bullish tactics before the end of the first hour, probably because representative shares failed to move forward with speculative issues. Crucible extended its reaction to 7 points and selling of related industrials, also oils, motors, tobaccos and textiles resulted in additional reversals of 1 to 2½ points. Shippings and rails were less susceptible to pressure, their losses being comparatively slight. Several of the chemicals rallied before noon but the general list remained heavy and dull. Call money was freely supplied at 7 per cent.

MUCH RAIN IN ONTARIO

Cobalt, Ont., June 17.—During the past couple of days three times as much rain has fallen as during the whole of the period since the snow went. The result is that the forest fires have been completely smothered and many square miles of timber, which lay directly in the pathway of the several fires burning in this district, have been saved.

FROM THE PEOPLE

HEEDLESS DRIVING

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—In regard to the large number of fatalities in this province due to automobiles, permit me to say that it is about time the province and the cities instituted some regulations adequate to the needs. If there are traffic regulations which are at all sufficient, then they are woefully enforced. I have travelled over the greater part of this country, and in no place which dignifies itself with the name of city have I seen such reckless driving as in Fredericton and in St. John. It is not the "speed" which is reckless, but it is the total disregard of life and the rights of pedestrians. Any day automobiles may be seen passing a standing carriage or wagon, almost grazing it, and it is no uncommon thing to see an automobile run around a car on the wrong side.

The autoist in this city thinks he owns the roadways and all that is necessary is for him to blow his horn, and then the pedestrian must jump. If he is half a block from a pedestrian the autoist blows his horn, does not attempt to slow down and bears directly down on the person on foot. A pedestrian has the right of way if he attempts to cross the street twenty feet in front of a vehicle, and he is not obliged to jump and run just because some one in an automobile blows his horn, and automobiles should be obliged to slow down.

A few days ago an automobile approached me in the middle of a street at a rapid pace. There was no chance for me to go forward because of a string of vehicles before me, nor to turn backward for the same reason behind me, yet the driver of this machine came on with undiminished speed. It appeared to me I was to be run down. I determined to sell myself dearly and leave some mark on the man if I were run down. I had a heavy piece of iron in my hand, and I turned to face the machine, raised the iron as though to throw it through the windshield, and then the driver, seeing himself in danger, brought the machine to a quick stop with the fender against my clothes. Had he not done so I should have thrown the iron, for I believe in self-protection, and he would have had something to show for his act.

This shows that self-fear will curb these fellows, and every person in the city should note the license number of any machine in which the driver violates any regulations and then report him to the police, with a demand for arrest. A few days of this will bring these fellows to reason. Furthermore, the police regulations should be more rigid, and firmly enforced, and then we will have a city in which one may walk with some degree of safety.

Yours,

CITIZEN.

Fredericton, June 16, 1920.

PROFITEERING

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—There was much talk among our soldiers while returning from war-service abroad about the tendency of the French shopkeeper to profiteer. Many of them seemed to be possessed of the idea that when they were back in Canada they would get very much different treatment when it came to purchasing small items. Now most of these boys who knocked the Frenchmen have been back in "civies" for quite a while. They must by this time have been able to compare notes and determine whether the French profiteer had anything on the Canadian profiteer. What do they think now? Do they still cling to the ideas that they had while on the other side?

Yours,

JONES.

Chatham, June 14, 1920.

THE BACKWARD STEP

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I have it on the authority of as famous a writer and as accurate an observer as Gautier that prohibition will put the race one step back in its upward progress from the merely animal. He says: "Le triple et glorieux privilege de boire sans avoir soif de pattre le briquet et de faire l'amour en toutes saisons, ce qui nous distingue de la brute beaucoup plus que l'usage de lire des journaux ou de fabriquer des chartes." He says several other mouthfuls in the same sentence, but what I want to ask is how boire sans avoir soif when you can't get le hooch?

Yours,

L. H. F.

Andover, June 15, 1920.

"WHAT THEY FOUGHT FOR"

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I have just read a letter published in an Eastern Province paper signed Lower Costs. The writer asks. "Did the boys go into service for the money or to beat the 'Hun'? The answer which a great majority must give is that they went in for the simple reason they were called in. The Military Service Act did not give very much leeway to personal desires. Also it is a matter of record that up to the time of the passing of the draft order-in-council the enlistments in some parts of the country were very slim. So it stands to reason that it is entirely fair and just that any man who was compelled to do fighting, training or other military duty should not also be compelled to do it practically for nothing.

Lower Costs also says that 99 per cent. of the men came out of the service 99 per cent. better physically and mentally. This we will leave to the records. The question before the country is not of any other status than financial. No one claims that it cost the average soldier any of his health. But is he out time and money? Is he? And if he is, is it not the duty of those he defended to share his financial loss?

Yours,

A RETURNED MAN.

Events of a Day In Parliament

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Ottawa, June 17.—Yesterday in Parliament:—

House of Commons:

Sir Robert Borden introduced a bill to empower the government to restrict exports of any commodity from Canada as the government finds it necessary.

The bill to place the jurisdiction over electric railways back with the provinces rather than with the Federal government, through the railway commission, was given third reading.

The luxury taxes were adopted by the House and the act putting into force the excise and sales taxation was given a first reading.

The militia estimates were partly considered, a number of amendments aimed at cutting down the appropriations being defeated.

The House adjourned at 12.15 a.m.

In the Senate:

An amendment to the civil service act was presented by Senator Fowler to take the employees and officials of the upper house out of the control of the Civil Service Commission.

One way to get rich is by attending to one's own business—but it is awfully monotonous.

First Entries for Opening Races at the Local Track Have Been Received Today

Singer, 2.15¼, the St. John Pacer, Was the First Horse to Be Entered—Sufficient Horses In Sight to Grade Racing Here, It Is Said Today

Already the first entries for the Fredericton Park Association's "curtain raiser" races on June 30th and July 1st have been received, although they do not close until tonight, and all entries postmarked up to noon tomorrow are eligible.

The first entry to come was from Emmet Burke, the St. John horseman, who entered his pacer Singer, 2.15¼, in the 2.16 class. This entry came in last night's mail and it is understood that entries are being mailed from St. John today for the other horses located there that are ready to race.

This morning the entries of the horses in the stable of L. B. Acker, the Halifax showman, were brought from Halifax and the secretary has telegraphic authority from Dr. D. H. McAllister, of Sussex, upon which to enter his three horses which have been located here in charge of Driver Fred Cameron. Archie Alcorn, of Blackville, who now owns Bill Sharon, 2.16¼, has sent word that the members of his string ready to start will be here and Fred Carvell, whose horses are at Chatham headed by Roy Miller, 2.11¼, has sent word that he will be entered here. There will also be a number of horses from Houlton and probably one or two from Woodstock, in addition to the several strings already located here.

Thus it can be seen that the necessary number of horses to fill up the races are in sight, the six classes being as follows:

Wednesday, June 30.—2.14 trot and pace, purse $300; 2.19 trot, purse $300; 2.24 trot, purse $300.

Thursday, July 1.—Free for all, trot and pace, purse $400; 2.16 trot and pace, purse $300; 2.24 pace, purse $300.

Men's Clothes

Will not be cheaper

Our latest advice from every market is to the effect that prices are going higher, and that the turning point has not yet been reached. Don't put off the purchase of a new suit. The nice clothes we have now will cost much more money next time we buy. We show every new and up-to-date style for young men, and the quieter styles for older men.

New York Outfielder Faces a Charge in Connection With Auto Theft

[Associated Press by Leased Wire]

New York, June 17.—The trial of Benny Kauff, of the New York National League club, on a charge made in connection with the alleged theft of an automobile, has been fixed to follow that of John J. Brady, jr., which is set for July 20. Brady, an attorney, is charged with the theft of an auto.

Two men indicted with Brady for stealing an automobile pleaded guilty and made statements to the district attorney which he expects to use in the trials of Kauff and Brady.

RESOLUTE AND VANITIE READY

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Newport, R. I., June 17.—The crews of the Vanitie and Resolute were ready this morning for the ninth race of the series that will determine which yacht shall represent the United States in the America's Cup contest off Sandy Hook next month.

Today's race will probably be over a triangular course. Yesterday the yachts were held at anchor by a calm, but this morning there is a good breeze blowing.

Charley Hoyt, Jr., 2.14¼, appears to be about the fastest of the English campaigners. He is winning in 2.17, excellent time under the conditions.

Ticket for McLean To Go to Cape Breton

Transportation for Fred McLean, the local baseball and hockey player, to go to Cape Breton arrived here this morning and telegraph messengers were busy trying to locate the big fellow so he could get away today.

For some weeks past managers of ball teams in Cape Breton have been endeavoring to get McLean to give up his intentions of being reinstated as an amateur and go there to play baseball. Recently an announcement was sent out that he was going to join the New Aberdeen team and, if he accepts the transportation offered, he will probably land with that club.

JACK DEMPSEY TO FIGHT CARPENTIER

TRAP SHOOTERS MAKE HIGH SCORES

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Ottawa, June 17. — High scores again featured yesterday's programme of the annual tournament of the Eastern Canada Provincial Trapshooting Association at the Rockcliffe traps, in spite of a shifty north wind, which continued all day.

The two man team championship was carried off by Willie Barnes and George Beattie, of Hamilton, with a possible score of 50, each gunner making a straight score. Incidentally Barnes was the high gun for the day in the sweepstakes, knocking down 147 out of a possible 150, while Sam Vance, Tillsonburg, George Beattie, Hamilton, and W. E. Burke, of Preston, were tied for the runners-up honors with 146 each.

The shooting in yesterday's sweepstakes resulted in several close runs. Extra events were required to decide the winners of the last three bowls. Bob Lewis, of Montreal, annexed the first bowl, after he had turned in perfect cards for the first three events. George Beattie took down the second one and W. E. Burke, Preston, the third.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT

London, June 17.—Play in the London tennis doubles was started yesterday. Several of the English pairs defaulted to the United States combinations in the early rounds. Williams and Garland won their way into the third round by defeating Stoddart and Vareperi, 6-3, 6-2. Johnston and Tilden won from Malmstrom and Vonbraun, 6-1, 6-1 in the second round. Samuel Hardy, manager of the American tennis team, paired with Blackbeard, won from Lovibond and Negritti, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4.

Fred H. Swett, of Haverhill, Mass., has bought the trotting gelding, Pacific Express, 2.20¼, from the estate of the Maine horseman, D. D. Tripp.

L. R. Acker's Handsome New Trotter Here From States

Bingen Worthy Regarded As One of the Best Trotting Prospects That Ever Was Brought Into the Maritime Provinces —Will Start in Opening Meeting Here

Bingen Worthy, the handsome five year old unmarked trotter which was recently purchased by Len R. Acker, the Halifax theatre owner, arrived here last night from Brooklyn, N. Y., and is now at the Fredericton trotting Park in the stable of William Hood, who also has Jessie Frisco, 2.14¼, and Gay Moko, 2.14¾.

Bingen Worthy was raced last year in matinees around New York and is regarded as one of the best trotting prospects ever brought into the Maritime Provinces. He is royally bred and a beautiful appearing stallion. He has not had any fast work this season, but will make his first start at the Fredericton Park Association's "curtain raiser" meeting on June 30th and July 1st.

Belle McGreggor Wins Again.

Truro, N. S., June 16.—One thousand people this afternoon saw Belle McGregor, 2.10¾, the speedy mare recently brought here from Woodstock, New Brunswick, by John T. Fraser, win the free-for-all trot and pace, and incidentally lowered the record of the Truro Speedway, negotiating the third heat in 2.19¾. She won the heat handily and had no trouble in capturing the race. The previous record on the Truro speedway was 2.20 and was held by Cochato Lady owned by C. E. Smith, of Halifax.

Straight Heats at Canton.

Canton, O, June 16.—The racing here today was good, with straight heat wins, however. The summary:

2.17 Pacink, Purse $1,000—Won by Effie Direct, chm (Beck); Plucky Dillard, bs (Palin), second. Best time, 2.09¼.

2.19 Pacing, Purse $700—Won by Teddy Grattan, bg (Berry). Best time, 2.11¼.

2.10 Trotting, Purse $1000—Won by Peter Coley, bg (Valentine); Miss Perfection, bm (McMahon), second. Best time, 2.11.

Lee Tide, the first of the get of Lee Axworthy, 1.58½, to appear in public, sports a record of 2.22¼. Lee Tide is one of the best of the two-year-olds in the Cox stable at Indianapolis. His dam is Emily Ellen, 2.09¼, the dam of Brusiloff, 2.04½, Day Star, 2.10, and Harvest Tide, 2.08¾.

Ninety-one trotters and pacers sold for an average of $231 at the recent Chicago auction, while the average at the New England speed sale last month was a few cents less than $270.

DEERING MOWER

"Cuts Clean Regardless of Conditions"

You buy a mower to cut grass and you expect it to do so under all ordinary conditions without wasting the grass, clogging the mower or putting excessive strain upon the horses. There are reasons why the Deering Mower will cut grass even when conditions are bad, without danger of encountering any of these difficulties.

1. The Deering Mower Wheels with staggered lugs give ample traction.
2. The Deering Mower Wheels are exceptionally strong.
3. The Wheels are adjustable at Hub to take up End Play.
4. The Deering Mower has very LIGHT DRAFT because of Ball and Roller Bearings.
5. The Deering Mower is strong in the Framer where strength is needed.
6. The Deering Mower Crankshaft retains oil and for this reason the Bearings last longer.

B&B 1920

Only for ladies who end corns

Dainty shoes are only for those who end corns.

The way is simple, quick and easy, and is sure. Millions of people employ it.

Apply Blue-jay, the liquid or the plaster. That touch will stop the pain.

Then wait a little and the corn will loosen and come out.

Then why does anybody suffer corns? Just because they don't know. They pare corns and keep them. Or they pad them. Or they use a treatment harsh and ineffective.

Blue-jay is scientific. This world-famed laboratory created it.

Perhaps half the corns that start are now ended by it.

Ask your druggist for Blue-jay. Learn tonight how much it means to you.

IN DAYS OF TERROR

The young woman experienced a sensation of anguish. She examined her inmost thoughts; the sentiments she had endeavored to combat, and which she had hoped to conquer, she feared now more than ever would only die with her; then she felt a moment's despair, for she knew the struggle would become more and more impossible. She slowly bowed her head, imprinted a kiss upon the withered flowers, and wept. Her husband entered at this moment. He, on his side, was too much pre-occupied with his own thoughts to pay any attention to the emotions exhibited by his wife. It is true Genevieve rose quickly to meet him, and in so doing turned her face from the window.

"Well?" said she.

"Well, nothing new; impossible to approach her, impossible to pass her, impossible even to see her."

"What!" cried Genevieve, "with all the noise there has been in Paris."

"It is this very noise which has made the guard redouble their vigilance, from the fear that any one might avail themselves of the general excitement to make an attempt on the Temple, and the very moment when her majesty was about to walk upon the platform, an order was issued by Santerre, that neither the Queen, Madame Royale, nor Madame Elizabeth should go out today."

"The poor chevalier; he would be much annoyed?"

"He was in depair when he saw this chance had thus escaped us, and turned so pale that I trembled lest he should betray himself."

"But," asked Genevieve timidly, "is there not then at the Temple any municipal of your acquaintance?"

"There ought to have been one, but he did not come."

"Who?"

"The citien Maurice Lindey," said Dixmer, in a tone he endeavored to render indifferent.

"And why did he not come?" said Genevieve, in her turn making a similar effort at self-command.

"He was ill."

"He; ill?"

"Yes and seriously so. Patriot as you know him to be, he was obliged to cede his turn to another."

"This is most unfortunate."

"Mon Dieu, Genevieve," replied Dixmer, "if he had been there, as matters now stand, it might have been just the same. Unfriendly as we are at present, he might perhaps have avoided even speaking to me."

"I think, mon ami," replied Genevieve, "you exaggerate the unpleasantness of our situation. Monsieur Maurice may have taken a whim not to come here, but is not on that account our enemy. Coolness does not exclude politeness, and I am convinced on seeing you he would meet you half way.

"Genevieve," replied Dixmer, "what we require from Maurice needs something more than politeness—a firm and attached friendship. This feeling is destroyed; we have nothing further to hope from him."

And Dixmer heaved a heavy sigh, while his usually placid face bore a troubled expression.

"But," said Genevieve, hesitatingly, "if you think that Monsieur Maurice is necesary to your project—"

"That is to ayy," replied Dixmer, "that I despair of being able to succeed without him."

"Well, then, why do you not try some new method with the Citizen Lindey?"

It seemed to her that in speaking of the young man by his surname, her voice sounded less tender than when she called him by his Christian name.

No," replied Dixmer, shaking his head, any new proceeding would appear singular and necessarily awaken suspicion; and then, Genevieve, I see farther than you into this affair; Maurice feels deeply wounded."

Wounded! mon ami. What would you say? Speak."

"You know as well a I do, Genevieve, that in our rupture with the Citizen Lindey there is more than caprice."

To what, then, do you attribute this rupture?"

To pride, perhaps," said Dixmer, quickly.

'To pride!"

"Yes; he did us honor, in his opinion at least, this good Bourgeois of Paris—this demi-Aristocrat de robe—concealing his susceptibilities under his patriotism; he conferred honor upon us, this Republican so powerful in the section, in his club, in the municipality, by according his friendship to a manufacturer of hides. Perhaps we have made too few advances, perhaps we have forgotten ourselves."

"If we had even been guilty of this, I thnk your last step would have redeemed all that," replied Genevieve.

"Yes, supposing the offence came from me; but if, on the contrary, it proceeded from you."

"From me! Do you imagine I have any ill-feeling towards Monsieur Maurice?" said Genevieve, astonished.

"Who knows; in a similar manner did you not at first even accuse him of caprice? I therefore still return to my first opinion, Genevieve; you did very wrong not to write to him."

"Me!" cried Genevieve; 'do you think so?"

'Not only now do I think so, but have done so ever since this rupture of the last three week."

"And?" said Genevieve, timidly.

'I look upon this step as indispensable."

"No, no! Dixmer, do not require this of me."

'You know, Genevieve, I require nothing of you; I only entreat you. Well, listen; I request you to write to the Citien Maurice."

"But—" said Genevieve.

'Hearken!" said Dixmer, interrupting her; "there is between you and Maurice, either some serious cause or quarrel—for, as far as I am concerned, there is no complaint against my proceedings—or it emanates from childish folly."

Genevieve did not reply.

"If this is merely a silly disagreement, it is folly to render it lasting; and if you have serious motives for quarrelling, situated as we are, you ought not even to value your dignity or self-respect. We must not place in the balance the quarrels of young people against objects of high interest. Make one effort; subdue your own feelings, and write one word only to Maurice Lindey, and he will return.

Genevieve reflected for a moment.

"But," said she, "could we not find some means less compromising to renew the friendly intercourse between Monsieur Maurice and yourself?"

'Compromising, do you call it? It appears to me to be the most natural way possible."

"No, not for me, mon ami."

"You are very opinionated, Genevieve."

'Allow me to tell you, it is the first time, at least, that you have discovered it."

Dixmer, who for some time had been crushing his handkerchief between his hands, now wiped the perspiration from his brow.

"Yes," said he, "and it is this increases my astonishment."

'Mon Dieu!" said Genevieve; and is it possible, Dixmer, thtt you do not divine the cause of my resistance, and that you wish to force me to speak?"

And overcome with contending emotions, her head sunk upon her breast, and her arms fell listlessly by her sides. Dixmer appeared to make a strenuous effort to command himself, took Genevieve's hand, compelled her to raise her head, looked into her eyes, and began to laugh, but in a manner so forced and unnatural ,that had Genevieve been less agitated at the moment, it must have been perceptible even to her.

"Small red pimples and blackheads began on my face and my face was badly disfigured. Some of the pimples festered while others scaled over and there were places where the pimples were in blotches. They used to itch and burn terribly.

"I saw an advertisement for Cuticura and I tried them. They stopped the itching and burning and I used four cakes of Soap and three boxes of Ointment which healed me." (Signed) Miss V. A. Hayne, Stormont, N. S., Dec. 26, '18.

WOULD LIBERATE LABOR PRISONERS

Australian Labor Government to Consider Case of Men Convicted of Arson

Sydney, Aus., June 16.—The Labor party having lately come into power in New South Wales, it is proposed by the government to appoint a commission to inquire further into the case of the Industrial Workers of the World who are in the penitentiary for arson and attempted arson committed here several years ago. An inquiry of the kind held not long after the men had begun serving sentences which aggregate many years, resulted adversely to them.

Larkin had some connection with the Industrial Workers' organization in the United States prior to coming to Australia and King is a Canadian by birth. When the war was at its height the men set fire to four big establishments in Sydney, causing losses estimated at $1,250,000 and tried to set fire to other stores and factories. They were convicted of treason.

RECOMMENDATION FOR RELEASES SIGNED

Petitions Favoring Releases Were Signed by Many Prominent Citizens

Ten railroad men who were formerly employed on the Transcontinental Division of the Canadian National Railways at Napudogan, who are now serving sentences of six months each on charges of stealing freight while in transit, will soon be released on ticket of leave.

This morning Charles D. Richards, their solicitor who has been diligently working to effect their release, received a telegram from Col. H. F. McLeod, M. P., from Ottawa advising him that the recommendation for their dismissal from custody had been signed, which means that within a day or two an order will come to Sheriff Hawthorn to release the men from jail.

Nine of the railroad men were charged with stealing liquor from a carload of Kentucky rye whiskey at the Napadogan yards last January, or with receiving some of the liquor knowing it to be stolen, while the tenth man was charged with taking tobacco and boots. All of these ten pleaded guilty, but another man who pleaded not guilty, was tried by a jury and acquitted although there seemed to be no further evidence against the others who, however, had already pleaded guilty and been sentenced.

The men were sentenced on March 12th last and soon afterwards a petition favoring their release was circulated and signed not only by many prominent citizens of Fredericton and York County but also by memberes of the Provincial Government and the Legislature, the House having been in session here at that time. This petition was later taken to Ottawa and presented to the Minister of Justice by Mr. Richards, who set forth the facts in the case, as related in the petition, and drew the attention of the Minister to the portions of the

SEIZED LIQUOR NOW HELD AT EDMUNDSTON

C. N. R. Officials Asked to Have $14,000 Shipment Sent Back to Quebec

The twelve tons of liquor with a value of more than $14,000 seized at the Baker Brook this week by a provincial prohibition inspector has not yet arrived here.

Latest reports regarding the seized liquor are to the effect that it is held up at Edmundston and Rev. W. D. Wilson, chief inspector, said at noon that he was leaving for Edmundston this evening to look into the case.

Inspector McLaughlin is said to have seized the liquor and re-shipped it to Fredericton, the proposal being to place it in the Government vault in the basement of the Departmental Buildings, St. John street. Today Mr. Wilson said the railroad officials reported they had been requested to re-ship the liquor back into the province of Quebec, whence it came. He said he did not believe the liquor could legally be re-shipped to Quebec.

When asked as to particulars of the seizure the Chief Inspector said his advice was that the shipment had been billed to "J. H. Misco" at Baker Brook as fertilizer, but he did not know whether there had actually been any fertilizer shipped or not. He also said he believed the name to be fictitious.

SUGAR UP TODAY

Price is Now $21.23 a Hundred—Canned Goods and Molasses to Advance Very Soon.

Sugar took another upward spurt yesterday, when it was announced that the wholesale price had advanced two cents a pound. This brings the present price of the article up to $21.23 cents a hundred.

It was stated this morning that wholesalers had been advised of an advance in the price of all canned goods because of the increased cost of tin plate. While the notice is given that the advance will take place shortly dealers do not know how much of an advance to expect.

Another article that is showing signs of an advance in the near future is molasses. At present the market is firm but dealers expect that an advance will soon be effected.

TIME CHECKS OF FRASER COMPANIES REPORTED FORGED

Perley Munn, of Hayesville, Is Charged With Forging and Cashing One for $30.

FRED McLAGGAN'S NAME WAS FORGED

Six Other Cases Detected at Time and Restitution Was Then Made

Perley Munn, of Hayesville, charged with forging a time check of the Fraser Companies, Ltd., was arrested by Sheriff J. B. Hawthorne yesterday and brought to this city last evening. He will appear before Sitting Magistrate Allison McKay this afternoon, the Police Magistrate being out of the city.

Munn, it is charged, forged the name of Fred McLaggan, an operator for the Fraser Companies, Ltd., upon a time check last year and having presented it to J. M. Scott, who paid him $30. When the check was shown to McLaggan, he denied all knowledge of it and stated that it was a forgery. Mr. McLaggan stated that Munn was not working for him at all during the period for which the time check was made out. It appears that the system of payment was rather a loose one and that six other checks had been forged by men at camps near Boiestown. These were detected shortly after the money was paid and the offenders were caught and forced to pay back the money they had received.

The information in the case was laid by Mr. Scott, who was out of the city this morning, but was expected back this afternoon. The prisoner claims he is not the man wanted for the offense, so the case was put oven pending the arrival of Mr. Scott to identfy the prisoner.

330 Italian Prisoners Are Shot Down in Cold Blood By Albanians in Revenge

Infuriated at Assassination of Essad Pasha at Paris

MEN TAKEN FROM TRAIN AND SLAIN

D'Annunnzio Wants to Lead Troops Against Albanians.

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Rome, June 18.—Gabriele D'Annunzio desires to hae his legionaries at Fiume replaced by Italion regulars and he wants to go to Avlona, Albania, to lead his Arditi troops there, it is reported here.

ALBANIANS MURDER ITALIAN PRISONERS

Geneva, June 18.—Three huhdred and thirty Italian prisoners have been killed by infuriated Albanians at Tirana, according to a telegram from Belgrade, quoting reports reaching that city.

It is said the Albanians were maddened by news of the assassination of Essad Pasha, former provisional president of Albania, in Paris, early this week, and attributed his death to Italian intrigue. More than a score of Italian prisoners en route to Tirana were taken from a train and killed at Krachar, it is asserted, and anxiety is expressed concerning the fate of more than 2,000 Italian officers and men captured by Albanians in the fighting before Avlona, where the struggle is still going on.

ASK INVESTIGATION PRISON DISMISSALS

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Kingston, Ont., June 18.—With reference to a demand made by Brig. Gen. A. E. Ross for an investigation of dismissals of officials of Portsmouth penitentiary here, Warden Ponsford said yesterday that he would welcome an investigation. Anything he had done, he said, had been done "above board." He denied that he had employed "stool pigeons" in connection with charges leading to dismissals and said he never had taken the word of a convict against that of an official unless the convict's word was corroborated.

Brig. Gen. Ross said yesterday he would go to Ottawa and ask the government for an investigation of the Portsmouth penitentiary dismissals.

Bolshevik Said to Have Evacuated The Persian Port at Enzeli, While The Georgians Make a Protest Over Batum

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

LONDON, June 18—All Russian Bolshevik troops have left Enzeli, the principal Persian port on the coast of the Caspian Sea, according to a despatch to the Herald from Copenhagen, quoting advices from Moscow.

The despatch declares the republic of Georgia has issued a protest to the powers against the action of the British in assuming control at Batum.

British Troops Entrenched On Ismid Peninsula, While Turks Goad Them Into Fight

Turkish Airplanes Are Dropping Bombs Into British Trenches, But It Is the Apparent Policy of the Latter to Avoid As Much Fighting as Possible

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Constantinople, June 18.—British troops, which are confronted by Turkish Nationalist forces on the Ismid peninsula, in Asia Minor, southeast of Constantinople, are well entrenched and well supported by the British fleet in the Gulf of Ismid and in the Bosphorus. For this reason, no apprehension is felt that the Nationalists will attack this city.

Nationalist airplanes are dropping bombs on the British trenches for the evident purpose of goading the British into an engagement, but while the British are sending reinforcements to Ismid, there is apparently a disposition on their part to avoid fighting, if possible. For the past two days, however, there have been skirmishes along the north shore of the Gulf of Ismid, and British wounded are arriving here. Guebda, near the gulf and half way between Constantinople and Ismid, is occupied by nationalist forces, which also hold the mountains north of the gulf but a short distance from Constantinople.

Inmates of the Armenian orphanage at Ismid have been brought to this city on the railway, which is still operating.

A large number of other refugees have also reached Constantinople from the Asian side of the Bosphorous.

Keep Turks from Armenia.

London, June 18.—Negotiations between the Turkish Anatodlian Republic and Armenia are proceeding favorably and an agreement is expected shortly, says a Moscow despatch to the Herald, which says the Russion soviet government is acting as a mediator between the two countries.

The question of guaranteeing Armenia against Turkish attacks will probably be solved, the despatch says, by a clause in the treaty binding Turkey from keeping an army within a specified distance of the Armenian frontier. All Armenia's aspirations relative to boundaries cannot be realized, it is asserted, and a compromise will probably be reached.

REFUSED DEMANDS CLOTHING WORKERS

Manufacturers Say Piece System Must Be Continued to Keep Up Production

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Boston, June 18—The Clothing Manufacturers' Association yesterday refused the demands of the Boston branch of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America for a minimum scale of wages on a week of 44 hours, instead of the present piece work system.

The manufacturers said the demands would mean an average increase of 17.4 for the six thousand clothing workers here. No increase can be granted and the piece system must be continued to keep up production, the association announced.

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

The amendment carried.

He also amended the section so that the rate charged to daily newspapers would be raised to three-quarters of a cent a pound from the present rate of one-quarter cent.

This amendment also carried.

TWO BRIGADES OF BOLSHEVIK CUT TO PIECES

The Soviet Troops Repulsed in Fierce Hand to Hand Fighting Along Beresina

REASON FOR ARREST OF GEN. BRUSILOFF

Bolshevik Thought He Might Utilize Defeat by Poles to Overthrow Soviet

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Paris, June 18.—The repulse of important groups of Bolsheviki on the river Tetereff, which flows into the Dnieper, north of Kiev, is reported in an official Polish communique received here yesterday.

Further north, in the Bobraisk sector, the communique adds, the fifteenth and eighty sixth Bolshevik infantry brigades were completely destroyed. After hand to hand fighting along the Beresina river all the Bolshevik attacks were repulsed.

Gen. Brusiloff's Arrest.

London, June 18.—General Brusiloff's recent arrest was caused by the fear that he would utilize a big defeat on the Polish front to overthrow the soviet and form a new government, acording to a Helsingfors telegram to the Central News, quoting a Russian newspaper as its authority.

A Bolshevik commission, the paper says, was sent to the Polish front, where Brusiloff was commanding soviet troops and ordered him arrested, owing to the failure of his plans for the offensive.

Krassin Met Committee.

London, June 18.—Gregory Krassin, Russian Bolshevik Minister of Trade and Commerce, who has been in London for three weeks, met the permanent committee of the supreme economic council for the first time yesterday. The conference, according to a cryptic official communique issued at its termination, lasted forty five minutes and "certain preliminary questions regarding the opening of trade negotiations were discussed."

League Missed Opportunities.

London, June 18.—That the League of Nations had missed two great opportunities with regard to Russia and Persia was the statement made by Viscount Grey in a speech at Stratford, Essex, a suburb of London, last night. The former Secretary for Foreign Affairs contended that the only policy toward Russia was one of non-intervention, since Russia was too big for even all the Allies together to try to bring order in the country.

The Anglo-Persian agreement, Viscount Grey declared, had given the wrong impression that England was seeking her own interests in Persia. That, he said, had done great harm, and the only remedy now was to submit the agreement to the League of Nations for approval.

His English Bride Made Life Unbearable for P. E. I. Soldier Charged With Her Murder

Counsel for Ellis, on Trial for Murder at Charlottetown, Tells How the Latter Attacked Her Husband With Butcher Knife and Had to Be Locked in Her Room

Charlottetown, P. E. I., June 18.—The crown concluded its case at the Ellis murder trial in Summerside yesterday and the defence opened theirs.

E. N. Strong, counsel for the prisoner, in his address to the jury told of the prisoner's record in the war, where he was wounded. He became acquainted with Marie Brampitti, a nurse in the hospital. They were married in England. When they came out to this country Mrs. Ellis became homesick. The prisoner and his wife went to live with his parents and sister. They treated her well, but she would often fly into a rage. She was not contented on the farm and wanted to leave. The prisoner was to buy an adjoining farm.

A message was given to Mrs. Ellis to tell her husband to go to Summerside and fix up the deal. She did not tell him, and on the morning, January 6th, when he asked her why she did not deliver the message she attacked her husband with a stick and afterwards a knife. He disarmed her, put her into the next room, locked the door and went to Summerside. She went there also, but he came home ahead of her. When she returned at 9 o'clock at night she again flew at him with a butcher knife. After he had again disarmed her, she came to a neighbor's house, stayed till about 8 a. m. and returned home. Prisoner next saw his wife on the morning of the 7th. That was the last time he saw her alive. He was hauling wood all day. He got his dinner about noon and subsequently came in about 3 p. m. to get a drink of water. On neither occasion did he see his wife. It was at six o'clock that he went up to her room and saw her in a kneeling position near the bed. He told the rest of the family that his wife had killed herself or tried to do so. Then he went to a neighbor's house and phoned for a doctor.

The first witness was Evelyn Ellis, sister of the prisoner. She told of the attack on her brother by his wife and swore that he was not near his wife's room all day until six o'clock, when he finished working in the woods. Deceased stayed in her room all day. Witness heard her moving about between 3.30 p. m. and 4 p. m. and getting out of her bed and going over to her trunk. After prisoner had come in in the evening and went to his wife's room, he called to witness, who was in the cellar, and said that Marie had cut her throat.

Miss Ellis, who was on the stand the greater part of the afternoon, was cross-examined at considerable length by the crown counsal. She said that in a signed statement given a detective this spring that she forgot to say that her brother had told her that Marie had cut her throat.

NO STREET RAILWAY STRIKE AT TORONTO

Employees Vote to Allow the Company Until Wednesday to Consider Demands

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Toronto, June 18.—Contrary to all expectations, there is no street railway strike here today. After a mass meeting lasting several hours, the employees about three-thirty this morning voted to give the company until Wednesday next to consider their new demand of an increase from 55 to 66 cents an hour, which latter is paid on the municipally owned system in the outskirts of the city. A previous mass meeting had decided for a strike this morning on this issue.

The directors of the railway company met yesterday, but made no counter offer to the men's demands.

Last week the board of conciliation appointed by the Dominion Government decided that the old agreement for 55 cents an hour should continue till August 31, 1921.

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Toronto, June 18.—Withdrawal of the invitation to Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, to attend the Canadian National Exhibition on Labor Day, may be considered by the directors of the Canadian National Exhibition Association, because of the action of the Federation at Montreal in pressing for the recognition of the Irish republic, according to reports in circulation at the City Hall here.

READY TO SETTLE GERMAN INDEMNITY

The Franco-British Financial Experts Have Decided on a Definite Scheme

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

London, June 18.—Premier Lloyd-George goes to Boulogne on Monday morning, Premier Millerand of France and Marshal Foch proceeding there the night before.

The Premiers' meeting at Boulogne bids fair to blossom into a full sized inter-Allied conference. Premier Lloyd-George and Premier Millerand have decided to invite Italy, Belgium and Japan to attend.

This amplification, it is understood, is due to the progress made by the Franco-British financial experts studying the German indemnity question. They have decided on a definite scheme which will serve as a basis for Monday's conversations at Boulogne.

The first meeting will be held at 10 o'clock on that day, and it is hoped the conference will be concluded by Tuesday night.

TRIO TAKEN INTO CUSTODY BY SHERIFF

Woman Shot at St. Hilaire Last Night After Raid Is Not Likely to Recover

WAR OVER LIQUOR THAT WAS SAVED FROM RAID

Shooting Occurred When the Owners Were Guarding Kegs in Woods

[Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.]

Edmundston, N. B., June 18.—Three arrests were made here this morning by Sheriff Pelletier following the shooting of Mrs. Joseph Gorneau last night at St. Hillaire, eight miles north of here, in what is believed to be the most sensational border rum-running case that has yet ocurred along the New Brunswick and Maine international boundary.

Two of the three men arrested today are: Fred Levesque, of Blue River, and his fatherin-law, Pierre Collin, of the same place, but no further action will be taken in their case until the Sheriff has received instructions from the Attorney General, with whom he is now in communication. They came into town this morning and were quickly arrested by Sheriff Pelletier.

WOMAN'S RECOVERY IS SAID TO BE DOUBTFUL

Mrs. Gorneau was in a critical condition this morning, a bullet having passed into her head above the ear and there is little or no chance for her recovery. Dr. Laporte, of Edmundston, is the attending physician and he said he considered it very doubtful whether she could recover as chances were decidedly slim. Upon whether the woman dies or not will naturally depend the charges to be preferred against the men arrested today; they are charged with the shooting of the woman.

It appears that yesterday Inspector

Dear Lesson in Exchange for Polish Resident of Toronto

One Thousand Polish Marks Which He Wired Through Toronto Bank to Brother in Poland Only Worth Four Dollars When They Were Returned

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Toronto, June 18.—Peter Bernsteck some time ago bought one thousand Polish marks for $34.50 and wired this sum from Toronto to his brother Israel, at Warsaw, Poland. The latter refused to accept the money. It was returned to the local bank through which Peter had sent it, but as the Polish mark in the meantime had depreciate d greatly in value, he received back from the bank only $4 for his $34.50. He sued the bank in the division court and the judge yesterday ruled that the bank was right. His Honor remarked that it was a dear lesson in exchange for "Peter."

A New York Firebug Drives 700 Into Streets in Pajamas

Five Fires Started Within a Circumscribed Area Within a Short Time—In Each Case the Blaze Started in a Wood or Coal Bin

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York, June 18—Five fires, which occurred within a half mile area early today, have started detectives searching for a fire bug whose morning's activities are thought responsible for driving more than 700 scantily dressed tenement dwellers into the streets. In each case the blaze started in a wood or coal bin, and each time the supposed incendiary barely allowed time for one fire to be brought under control before he touched off the next.

OPPOSITION TO MILITIA VOTES

Liberal Members See No Good in Cadet Training and Other Expenditures

Otawa, June 17.—Militia estimates met with strong opposition in the House of Commons today. As item after item was brought forward for approval it was met with suggestions for retrenchment. The attitude of the Opposition members appeared to be that the war was over, the country was saddled with a huge debt and any tendency toward encouraging the militaristic spirit by spending more money should be unhesitatingly frowned upon.

The first item of $390,000 for Cadet Services started the trouble. D. D. McKenzie, of North Cape Breton, expressed the fear that cadet training would give boys an appetite to join militia units later on, and that the country's financial condition did not warrant the proposed expenditure. He thought that Canada could even do without the militia for a few years. A. R. MacMaster, of Brome, dilated upon the evils of militarism, and advocated leaving the military note out of cadet training. He had no objection to physical training for both boys and girls, but he did not want the youth of Canada fired with the spirt which had animated the Prussian during the war.

Government supporters voiced the other side of the argument. Cadet training had proven of enormous value altogether apart from its military significance, declared Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Militia, who was putting through the estimates.

Sir Sam Hughes remarked that Mr. MacMaster's speech reminded him of the "sloppy stuff" which had been served up by certain pacifists prior to the war. He believed in developing the Canadian militia and expressed the opinion that if Great Britain and France had been prepared for war in the year 1914 Germany would have been afraid to tackle them.

The item finally passed without a division, but a vote of $45,670 for contingencies was not so fortunate. Hon. MacKenzie King thought that this was a time when the country could do very well without salutes, escorts and guards of honor, save on special occasions, and he moved an amendment to cut the amount down. The amendment, however, was lost by 41 to 26. Another amendment moved by the leader of the Opposition providing for a decrease of $400,000 in the total vote for the Quebec and Lindsay arsenals, shared the same fate, the vote standing 49 to 39. It was noticeable that the Progressives voted against the government on the estimates.

DUXBURY RECITAL MUCH ENJOYED

Audience Thrilled at Impersonations of Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde

Professor John Duxbury, of London, England, at his recital given last evening in the Fraser Memorial Hall was heard by a large and appreciative audience, who rewarded his efforts with well merited applause.

Professor Duxbury thrilled his listeners with the story of Dr. Jekylll and Mr. Hyde, taking the parts of the two characters and impersonating both in voice and gesture, showing, just as Stevenson has done in his great work, the great difference between the two. Other recitations and character studies formed part of his recital, including the numbers "The Shades Banquet" and a humorous sketch with a splendid finish.

Prof. Duxbury, who is one of England's most eminently successful dramatic readers, is also one of the few men who are able to bring out of a selection the sentiments which inspired the author to write them.

The recital was held under the L. A. Wilmot Mission Band of the Methodist church, and the receipts, which amounted to over $100, will be given to missions.

Prof. Duxbury will leave here for St. John, and from that city he will sail for England.

SILENT POLICEMAN IS AN OBSTRUCTION

"Silent policemen," so-called, used at street intersections for traffic purposes have been deemed traffic obstructions by the Connecticut supreme court of errors in a decision rendered. An automobile driven by an attorney collided with a "sentinel." He and other occupants suffered slight injuries and the machine was damaged. A verdict of $3,500 against the city of New Haven was appealed but was upheld by the highest court.

GASOLENE MONEY NEEDED FOR FOOD

Leroy Parkard, of Eddington was before the municipal court Wednesday on charge of desertion of non-support of his wife. The trouble appeared to have arisen over his purchase of an automobile. Mrs. Parkard asserted the money was needed for the support of the family. The case was continued for sentence after some advice from the court.

Vernon Rafuse, who was seen hanging around the place run by Mrs. DeForrest at 213 Broad street, was adjudged an idle and disorderly person and sentenced to 90 days in jail, mittimus suspended on condition that he get out of town within 24 hours.

NEW GERMAN STATE ECONOMIC COUNCIL

Body Organized to Pass Upon All Important Economic Measures

Berlin, June 17.—A novelty in social legislation is the new German State Economic Council which is gazetted in the official Reichsaneiger. This institution may be designated as a business and professional parliament of experts in all economic branches existing apart from, and side by side with, the regular state legislature.

Its functions are to examine and pass upon all important economic measures, and it may even compile and present laws although neither the Government nor the Reichstag are bound by its decisions.

This newly instituted body consists of 326 members representing agriculture and forestry, industries, trades, banks, insurance, handicrafts, transportation and public enterprises, consumers' leagues, officialdom, fine arts and liberal professions, horticulture, fisheries. To the foregoing are added 12 members appointed by the Reichstag and 12 by the Government.

This new council, which will meet for its first deliberations about the same time as the new Reichstag, viz., early next July, has only a provisional character. It is to pave the way for a permanent Economic Council in accordance with paragraph 165 of the German constitution, which provides that "there shall be created on a legal basis, economic councils for districts and one central state Economic Council, so composed that all trades, vocations and callings shall be represented thereon according to their respective economic and social importance."

TRAIN WENT OVER AN EMBANKMENT

Sixteen Cars Loaded With Lumber Wrecked to North of Lagrange, Maine

Bangor, Me., June 17.—Sixteen freight cars were smashed in a freight wreck two miles north of South Lagrange at 3.45 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The train, regular number 44, running as a freight special, was coming down the line from Houlton when at the point mentioned a wheel broke and the center and rear of the 64 car train was sent over the embankment. The cause of the wreck has not yet been definitely fixed. The line will be tied up for a day or more, although the wrecking crews are on the spot busy in cleaning up the wreckage.

The trouble occurred near the middle of the train. The engine tender and about half of the cars being ahead of the trouble were able to keep on and were brought into Northern Maine Junction on time. There were fortunately no fatalities, nor was anyone injured.

All of the cars were loaded with either lumber, ties, potatoes or other freight. Five cars went over the bank and eleven more were all bunched together, many of them literally telescoping the others. The track was torn up for a long distance, 50 rails and over 500 ties being destroyed. Many of the cars lie deep in the loose sand at the foot of the embankment and many of the trucks on the cars were buried in the sides of the embankment almost to the tops of the wheels.

It is frequently easier to count the cost than it is to pay it.

ROCKLAND SUFFERS DISASTROUS BLAZE

$650,000 Fire Sweeps Business Section—Garage and 180 Automobiles Burned

Rockland, Me., June 17.—Automobiles, buildings, household goods, office furniture and businness stocks to the value of at least $650,000 were destroyed by a fire which swept a section of the east side of Main street.

This was the most disastrous fire Rockland has ever experienced and it was not brought under control until help had arrived from Thomaston, Rockport and Camden and a trying battle of more than four hours.

The alarm for the fire was given at 2.30 in the morning. At that time the blaze was located in the machine shop of the Central Garage. It went beyond control of the local firemen in a flash. The inflammable material in the building quickly rendered it a furnace and hope of saving any portion of the contents vanished.

Inside the garage at the time were 180 automobiles, many of them new, many belonging to travelling salesmen and to summer tourists. The estimated value of these machines is $200,000.

BESSIE BARRISCALE IN "TANGLED THREADS"

HUSBAND SHOT WIFE AND HIMSELF

A Charlotte County Tragedy Over Alleged Indiscretions of Young Wife

St. Stephen, N. B, June 17.—The "Eternal Triangle," a woman and two men, was in evidence out at Honeydale last night. Ivan Little and his young wife a daughter of Jasper McLaughlin of the Scott Settlement near Honeydale lived at McAdam, where the husband, about twenty-one years of age, has been employed with the C. P. R. The wife left her home a few days ago to visit her parents, and soon afterwards somebody wrote the husband of the third party appearing on the scene and advising the young husband to come down and investigate. The husband left McAdam last evening, armed with a revolver and telling his mother that he was going down to endeavor to get his wife back home, and that if she was not willing to return with him he would shoot her.

The Honeydale man was warned of the approach of the husband, and was out of sight when Little reached the place. Just what passed between the husband and the erring wife is not known, but Little suddenly drew the revolver and fired a shot at his wife which passed through her hip without inflicting much damage. Not satisfied with what he had accomplished, he turned the revolver on himself, the bullet entering just below the heart. Physicians were summoned from town and attended him, and tonight he is sufficiently recovered so that he could be brought here on the evening express and taken to Chipman Memorial Hospital.

It is stated that there is but slight hope of his recovery, but the alleged erring wife is not seriously injured.

UNIONIST CAUCUS AT END OF THE WEEK

Premier Expected to Make the Final Decision as to His Intentions for the Future

Ottawa, June 17.—The coming week is expected to be productive of far-reaching political developments. For one thing, it is likely to be decided whether Sir Robert Borden is to remain as Premier, or whether he is to step down and relinquish the task of leading the Unionist party to a younger man. A caucus of the Unionist parliamentary party is expected to meet toward the end of the week, when Sir Robert will probably make a statement regarding his intentions.

If Sir Robert Borden decides to retire, two men will stand in the first rank for his successorship, with one or two dark horses. The two in the first rung are Hon. Arthur Meighen and Sir Thomas White. The dark horses are Sir Henry Drayton and Sir George Foster. If the decision were left solely to the untrammelled vote of the parliamentary party Mr. Meighen would be first, and there would be no formidable second. But there are powerful outside influences at work in favor of Sir Thomas White, and when the decision comes to be made, providing of course Sir Robert goes out, these will be much in evidence. It may be that these influences will not be powerful enough to secure the triumph of their candidate, but they may be strong enough to defeat Mr. Meighen, in which case the choice will be between Sir Henry Drayton and Sir George Foster.

Events of a Day In Parliament

The bill to amend the Naturalization Act was given first reading.

The resignation of W. F. O'Connor, K. C., from the Board of Commerce was tabled.

The coal situation in Canada was discussed on motion of Hon. Mr. Lemieux.

Amendments to Customs Act, providing power for restricting exports of necessary commodities, received second reading and were referred to a special committee.

A motion for Saturday sittings of the House was carried.

Third reading was given the bill respecting the director of coal operations.

The bill to amend the Irrigation Act was given third reading.

The militia estimates were taken up in committee.

Another amendment, limiting the civil service holidays, was carried without division.

COLLECT TAX BY REVENUE STAMPS

Merchants Will Be Required to Affix Necessary Stamps to Articles Sold

Ottawa, June 17.—As collection of luxury taxes under the present method is proving difficult, cumbersome and costly, it has been decided to abandon the whole procedure in favor of collection by means of revenue stamps. These revenue stamps will be ready by July 1, and as soon as they are available for purchase by merchants the sending of duplicates of every sales receipt covering goods which are taxable will cease. That will be a great relief to merchants throughout the country and it will be a great relief as well to Geo. W. Taylor, assistant deputy minister of customs and inland revenue, as he will not have to provide the tremendous personnel which would otherwise have been necessary to deal with collections and accompanying vouchers.

The revenue stamps will be provided in denominations of from one to ten cents inclusive, thirteen cents, fifteen cents and all multiples of ten cents up to one dollar. In addition there will be one, two, three, four, five and ten dollar stamps. If a woman buys a sealskin coat, on which the tax is $20, procedure will be for the salesman to affix two $10 stamps to the sales slip or invoice and collect $20 from the purchaser, the stamps acting as evidence that the tax has been paid. As soon as the tax is paid the stamps all have to be defaced so that they could not possibly be used again as the stamps would have a value equal to that of bank notes or dominion bills for a similar amount.

A great deal of attention is being given to the question of having the stamps so defaced that they cannot be raised or used again. The use of ink may not be considered sufficient, as traces of ink can be removed. Some kind of punch has been considered for the purpose of perforation and experiments have been made as well with indelible pencil marks, which cannot be removed without so injuring the stamp that detection of the fraud would be inevitable. Whatever is used your correspondent is assured that ample precautions will be taken to prevent a fraudulent use of the stamps. The excise tax stamps must in every case be affixed to the sales-slips or invoices at the time of sale and cancelled.

SEERESS IS NAMED IN DIVORCE SUIT

Man of 60 Years Sued by His Wife for Alimony at Poughkeepsie

Poughkeepsie, June 17—Charging that her husband, 60 years old, left her and came to Poughkeepsie only to fall in love with a fortune teller, Mrs. Margaret M. Brown of Kingston, asked Supreme Court Justice Morschauser, sitting in Special Term, to direct her husband to pay her counsel fee and alimony pending the trial of her action for divorce. Mrs. Brown is 52 years old and she and Brown were married about thirty years ago.

The attorney for Brown admitted in court that his client was boarding at the home of the fortune teller, and he further announced that his client did not intend to dispute the charges upon which his wife bases her suit of divorce. The court allowed the wife $250 with which to pay her attorney.

An interesting point of law is raised in this case as the divorce follows a separation agreement entered into by Brown and his wife a few years ago. By the terms of this agreement Brown gave his wife $1,500 and the agreement stipulated that the separation should endure until death. It was drawn by a Kingston Judge.

Brown's attorney set up as his defence in the divorce suit the agreement referred to. He said his client will fight the action in so far as it attempts to force him to pay alimony. He contends that the settlement which he made with his wife when the separation agreement was drawn up made him immune from any further inroads upon his finances by his wife.

Mrs. Brown sets forth that she signed the agreement under duress and while in a weakened physical and mental condition.

Foreign Railways And Rates Today

During December, 1919, and January, 1920, the Italian railways advanced their first-class passenger fares 30 per cent., their second-class fares 60 per cent. and their third-class fares 50 per cent. Both freight and passenger rates already during the war had been advanced 30 to 45 per cent.

The passenger rates of the French railways, two of which are owned by the government and all of which are being operated under government control, were advanced 40 per cent. during the war and the freight rates 30 to 37 per cent. Because of the deficits which have continued to be incurred proposals for further advances have been under consideration.

The advances in rates on the Austrian railways since pre-war days have been enormous. The increase of 30 per cent. made in February, 1920, made the total increases about 330 per cent.

In September, 1919, freight and passenger rates in Belgium had been increased 40 to 50 per cent. since pre-war times. Further increases have been made since then.

In September, 1919, freight and passenger rates in the Netherlands were advanced 50 per cent.

Very much the largest advances reported in any country have been made in Germany, where, it is well known, practically all the railways are owned and operated by the government. Repeated advances were made during the war and still further very great advances have been made since the signing of the armistice. The passenger rates now average about 700 per cent. higher than before the war, and the freight rates about 800 per cent. higher.

Large advances in rates have also had to be made in many countries which were remote from the seat of hostilities. For example, in December, 1919, all freight and passenger rates on the South African Government railways were advanced 25 per cent., while in August, 1919, a raise of 20 per cent. on both freight and passenger rates was made in Brazil, and in October of the same year additional increases were proposed. Even in Australia, which was about as remote from the theatre of hostilities as any part of the world, all the government railways have suffered severely from the effects of the war and have had to make advances in their rates.

The railways of Great Britain were placed under government control at the beginning of the war and are still being thus operated. During the war the passenger rates were advanced 50 per cent., while the freight rates were not advanced at all, and because the increases in expenses greatly exceeded the increases in rates the government incurred a large deficit. To reduce or wipe out this deficit advances in the freight rates of the British railways ranging from 25 to 100 per cent. were made effective on January 15, 1920, and extra charges were added to rates which cover the collection and delivery of freight at stations as well as its transportation. In March, 1920, the demurrage charges imposed for holding a car one day beyond the period of free time were increased 100 per cent., and the charges for subsequent days 200 per cent.

The New Cent.

At local banks today it was said that they had not yet received the new Canadian cent which was to have been put in circulation today. An Ottawa despatch says the mints are working overtime to get a sufficient supply to meet the demands, but it is hardly expected the old cent will be completely replaced for some months. The new cent is about the size of an American cent.

The inventor of the ice cream soda—Robert McCay Green—has just died in Philadelphia. While exhibiting at the Franklin Institute exposition in Philadelphia two years before the centennial, Mr. Green to get ahead of a competitor, conceived the idea of mixing the ice cream with the soda and before the close of the exhibition his receipts were more than $800 a day.

Summer Fiction

Before starting on your summer holidays arm yourself with a good book. Below are some new titles:

"THE MAN WITH THREE NAMES"
By Harold MacGrath

Under one name he had captured the book world; under another he was fighting a human cause against the father of the girl he loved. Under the third—well, read the story—you'll like it.

"THE DARK MIRROR"
By Louis Joseph Vance

Most mystery stories find it hard to escape the accusation of unoriginality. Here is a mystery that will escape that charge. The Dark Mirror is not only startlingly new, it is intensely real and its characters live.

Other good books are:

FIRE PROTECTION SERVICE IN NEW BRUNSWICK.

The recent enormous loss by forest fires within the province establishes the fact quite clearly that the provincial fire protection service is quite inadequate, yet the Department of Lands and Mines has given no assurance that the service will be materially improved. We doubt that this phase of the Department's work has had any consideration. The lack of knowledge of modern requirements, the lack of initiative in anything practical, is all too apparent in the Department's everyday operations; and the Commission or Board, or whatever it may be called, is also it appears serving merely as a figurehead. With the forests our greatest provincial asset, the indifference, apathy, sluggishness or ignorance within the department is positively criminal.

Quebec, with its vast forests, suffered but little loss comparatively. The fishing parties of that province are perhaps not less careless than the fishing parties that go upon the streams and into the woods of our own province, and the sporting element of our neighbors who resort to the woods in the spring season is much more numerous there than here—and it is upon the shoulders of such parties that the responsibility for fires is placed. Yet the loss by forest fires in Quebec was trifling. The Department of Lands of that province, acting in co-operation with all forest rangers, has built up a modern system of protection, a practical system. Quebec, co-operating with Protective Associations, has an airplane service to watch the forests, and this esrvice is of utility, not only in discovering fires in the earlier stages, but in quenching fires when they can be easily handled and before damage is done. This is in striking contrast with New Brunswick's lookout towers, from which fires can be seen only after they blaze widely; and then, nothing of the material with which to extinguish promptly. The government of Quebec gave its support to the formation of four protective associations, namely, the Ottawa River Forest Protective Association, the St. Maurice Forest Protective Association, the Laurentian Forest Protective Association, and the Southern St. Lawrence Forest Protective Association. The fire wardens are appointed by the Government, on the recommendation of the Association, and they work under the managers of the Association. Their work is carried on by means of horses, motor cycles, canoes, gasoline launches, a system of telephone lines, etc.; and the latest device is the airplane.

Some changes within the Department of this province are long overdue. Modern systems are sorely needed. Scientific knowledge is essential. And the Premier would strengthen his Government and do the province a service by placing a strong man, an active man broadly interested in his work, at the head of the Department of Lands and Mines.

OIL, THE WORLD POWER.

The ages have passed when dynasties fought among themselves for control of their respective domains in the world. Political ambitions and ends have made way for economic provisions, and the only use to which the political is now put is to secure economic sovereignty. Coal came as though it had not always existed and changed all that had gone before. Now coal is going. Not that it is so diminished in supply that it could not still provide for the wants of the humanity which it has served, but that economically, and for the many reasons which need not be specified because many are known to all, it is fast slipping into the list of economic discards. Wasteful exploit of resources have resulted in some cases of vast, primeval natural supplies having been exhausted, points out an exchange.

The most powerful voice in modern years which has been raised to preach to its owner's people the inevitability of their sinfulness is that with which James J. Hill warned the people of the United States. He told them they were wasting the very substance upon which their wealth depended. And what has happened? They are almost out of lumber, with more than three-quarters of their habitations built of lumber. Because their newspapers catered, with enormous editions, riotously for circulation, they are out of pulp wood, and threaten Canada. Because they now see the end of their oil sources of supply, they squeeze Mexico. But when you reach the consideration of the oil supply you have entered the next, yes, the present great economic era, in which the power which will be "behind the throne" of all countries, monarchical and democratic, will be, as it is, that of oil.

Some years before the war Great Britain had foreseen that power in the modern world would be determined by oil, and set about getting its fields of supply. Its government made an investment, in behalf of its navy. In the Anglo-Persian Oil Company, which has since the war culminated in the Persian Agreement, the British appear to have gained control in Mesopotamia, and at the San Remo Conference secured to France twenty-five per cent. of the share of the Mosul yield. Competition between Great Britain and the United States became manifest in Mexico before the war. Possibly that is what quickened the efforts of the great oil interests in the United States during the war to bring about a sure and insured supply of oil to them solely from the Mexican resources. For reasons which are not yet made clear to the public the United States oil interests, which may be summed up in Standard Oil, appear to have failed in their purpose.

No reason offers to show that Britain achieved any more effective results; she could hardly anyhow while the war engaged her attention and the energies of those interested in securing her oil supplies. Standard Oil alone seems to have been free to force its issues; but they fell upon a stumbling block in legislation enacted by President Carranza. This may shed another light, deceptive or otherwise, upon the fateful end of that fated president. The Carranza administration declared the petroleum of Mexico to be the inalienable property of the nation. To find itself faced with such a prohibitory enactment was an aggravating situation for a country like the United States, which, as its state department has very recently reported in an official document, estimates that forty per cent. of the oil in the United States already has been brought to the surface. And in consequence of the enormous wastefulness with which the wells have been exploited and the supply used, the deposits may be exhausted in twenty years.

But if Canadians, for the sake of temporary riches and gain, wantonly shear our country of our natural resources, be they oil, lumber, pulp wood, or fertile farm lands, we too shall become as the United States; and because of our wastefulness and lack of prescience, become importers of that of which we now have in abundance. On the other hand, if these resources be conserved for the people of Canada, what must be the logical, the only outcome? Those who have not must come into our country; they will become of us. This country will grow, prosper, and become populous because of a wise and provident thrift, which, when exercised, will raise up Canada as the greatest and most powerful integer in the British commonwealth of nations. The moment is as ominous as it is auspicious. Either in losing that which we have, we squander our country's rightful heritage and growth; or else, in conserving to the benefit and glory of Canadians that which we now have, we as a nation grow exceedingly.

A FAMINE IN MINISTERS.

Toronto Telegram: "Nearly every "denomination reports a shortage of "young men offering for ministerial "work.

"When it is almost impossible to "hire bricklayers and carpenters, "who command the highest wages "and work the shortest hours, it is "not remarkable that there should "threaten a famine in ministers.

"Judged from a worldly standpoint, few callings have less to offer "than the ministerial profession. "That it is possible to fill vacancies "and 'carry on,' is evidence that "there are people who still believe "in laying up treasures in that place "which is proof against thieves."

Rumor calls a caucus of the Government parliamentary party at Ottawa within the next few days, at which Sir Robert Borden "will probably "make a statement regarding his in-"tentions." Unfortunately, Sir Robert's health will not, apparently, permit him to continue longer as Premier. If we are to have a new Government, as appears likely, the biggest men in the public life of Canada, irrespective of political party, should be available for the purpose.

GERMAN MINISTRY STILL IN EMBRYO

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Berlin, June 18.—Constantine Fehrenbach, president of the German National Assembly, has agreed to attempt to form a ministry, following a conference attended by Karl Trimborn, the centrist leader, and President Ebert. This conference followed the refusal of Dr. Mayer Von Kaufbeiren, German Charge at Paris, to accept the chancellorship.

TORONTO SURVEY PRINTING INDUSTRY

Investigation Covering operations of Two Hundred Printing Plants

Dalhousie, N. B., June 17—The main business transacted at the session of the convention this morning was the decision to merge the All-New Brunswick Tourist, Game and Resources League with the New Brunswick Tourist Association.

Hon. P. J. Veniot said that if the New Brunswick Tourist Association was recognized by the convention as the provincial body then it only will get the government aid. It was the government's policy that no branch bodies would get grants. The government received many requests for information that they would be pleased to hand over to somebody. A resolution should go on record as making the New Brunswick Tourist Association the one body.

C. C. Avard moved that the All-New Brunswick Tourist, Game and Resources League be merged with the New Brunswick Tourist Association.

L. P. D. Tilley seconded the motion.

P. M. Shannon thought that the name should be changed to the New Brunswick Tourist and Resources Association.

The resolution was unanimously carried after the name had been changed.

The following committees were appointed: Ways and means, E. A. Schofield, chairman, J. H. B. Storer and P. M. Shannon; resolutions, R. E. Armstrong, chairman, C. C. Avard and T. H. McEvoy; nomination, W. Harry Allen, R. T. Hayes and R. H. Simonds.

At the afternoon session N. R. DesBrisay took the chair, in the absence of C. H. Labillois. The report of the ways and means committee was received. The report recommended that a committee of three, one each from St. John Fredericton and North shore, be appointed to wait on the Provincial Government and ask for a grant of $5,000 for the purpose of carrying on the aims of the association. It was suggested that each county vice-president should start a campaign for funds and get financial aid from different municipalities. It also recommended better protection for game and fish and natural resources. Each vice-president should be granted funds to pay his legitimate expenses.

Mr. Schofield was of opinion that if real efforts to get members were made by the county officers a considerable sum could be raised. It was possible to get 2,000 to 2,500 members at $1 each. Eventually it may not be necessary to ask government aid. The report was adopted.

AFTER GOVERNORSHIP

New York, June 18.—State Senator George Thompson, of Niagara county, announced himself as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor in a statement issued last night.

The Stock Market

New York (Wall Street), June 18.—Gains of 1 to 5 points in special shares and losses of 1 to 2½ points in steels, oils and rails denoted the uneven tone of the stock market in the first few minutes of today's trading. Barrett, Endicott-Johnson and American Express represented the constructive side with popular equipments and food issues. Republic Steel, Virginia Iron, Royal Dutch and Union Pacific featured the reactionary stocks. Trading was light although early quotations in foreign exchange strengthened the impression of impending gold imports.

The Noon Market.

New York (Wall Street, noon), June 18.—Trading became more desultory and irregular with the progress of the session. Intermittent selling in the first hour of shippings, steels and minor specialties at losses of 1 to 4 points, effaced virtually all early gains. A rally led by equipments, food and chemical shares was accompanied by improvement in oils, steels and several of the cheaper motor issues but rails showed no perceptible change. A sale of approximately $1,500,000 Anglo-French five's at 99½ was the feature of the irregular bond market. Call money loaned and renewed into next week at 7 per cent.

The Montreal Market.

Montreal, June 18.—Brompton was again in the spotlight on the local exchange this morning. It opened four points higher than last night's close and ran a somewhat erratic course from 135 to 139. Towards the end of the first hour it settled down fairly steady around 137½. Spanish River was also strong, making a half point gain in the first half hour to 106. Abitibi was steady at 79½. Riordan also gained a half point to 196. Spanish preferred was steady at about 148. Price Brothers gained two points to 366. Other issues were quiet.

Dibbins was dining with some people who were proud of the recent elevation of a member of the family to the House of Lords.

"This," said his hostess, "makes the second of my husband's family in the peerage. Have you any relation in the House of Lords?"

"No!" said Dibbins, "but I've two maiden aunts in the Kingdom of Heaven."

A Compromise.

"Now, Willie, if you promise not to bellow like a calf while your tooth is being pulled, I'll give you a bicycle."

"It won't count, will it, papa, if I roar like a lion?"

A Good Pal.

"Hello, Rivers! You seem to have a bad cold?"

"Worst I ever had, Banks."

"I'm sorry for you, old fellow. Wish I knew of something that would cure you, but I don't."

"Give me your hand, Banks," replied Rivers with tears in his eyes. "You're the only man I've seen for three days that hadn't a certain cure!"

He was one of the much-talked-of New Poor. Still owning a rather shabby motor car, he was forced to drive it himself, since he couldn't afford a chauffeur. One evening he drove his daughter to a party.

The head of the house where the party was held was, for similar reasons, acting as his own butler.

Afterwards, when they were formally introduced, one said:

"I must beg your pardon, sir."

"What is it?"

"You know that night when you drove your daughter to my daughter's party?"

"Yes."

"Well, when I came to open the door I thought you were your chauffeur."

"Oh, that's all right! I thought you were your butler!"

FROM THE PEOPLE

MOTOR SPEEDING

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I was much pleased to read the letter of Citizen published in your People's Column last night directing attention to the heedless and reckless driving of motor cars. There is vastly too much speeding on the streets of Fredericton, and while there have been several serious accidents the wonder is that the number of accidents has not been greater. The speeders and reckless drivers must be known to the police, and in this way there should be no difficulty in abating the evil. I admit that the city bye-law making eight miles an hour the limit is absurd and old-fashioned; but at twelve miles an hour, with careful driving, we can ordinarily be free from the fear of accident. I have seen cars driven up and down street at the rate of twenty-five miles an hour; and that and much less is a rate which involves defiance of the law, and by others than boasting young fellows. The police officers need not be too exacting, as they sometimes are, but where life is in danger they have a duty to perform.

Yours,

ANOTHER CITIZEN.

Fredericton, June 18, 1920.

MODERN DRESS

To the Editor of The Gleaner.

Sir,—I have read with much interest a number of letters in this column on the subject of dresses, freak dresses, which some of the girls are pleased to wear. Most of your correspondents criticize these dresses as displaying vulgar taste and vulgar conceptions, and condemn them as highly improper for the public streets or in public places. I cannot agree entirely with all that has been said by way of criticism of these dresses, for I am free to admit that to me the modern style of a pretty yet sensible girl has some attraction; and to whom has it not, in fact? I would not be truthful, and certainly not human, were I to say that I have not an eye and a heart for the pretty girl modernly dressed. But what of the freakish suits or styles that some of the boys wear and parade the streets in? Not a word of criticism of the freakish pantaloons and the corset-cut coat—all making the figure of a doll or a simpleton; not the trace of a man or manly character. That's what I would kick about. What think you?

Yours,

JOSEPH.

SELFISHNESS AT MOVIES

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Can any of your readers tell me why a man will drag his women folk and children out of a photoplay theatre in the middle of a picture, just when they get interested. I can see no reason for this selfish procedure, excepting, maybe, sometimes there is something in the play that does not agree with his selfish highness' grouch, or else he wants to get home and eat up everything in the ice box.

When will God make a man who considers others besides himself? When will there be a man created who will realize that the greatest happiness comes from forgetting one's self and making others happy?

Yours,

AN OLD MAN.

Fredericton, June 16, 1920.

ARE STENOGRAPHERS UNDERPAID

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I heartily endorse your correspondent's sentiments regarding underpaid stenographers. A union seems to be the only solution, and I feel sure under the leadership of some of our successful business women the younger workers would rapidly and gladly co-operate in organizing a union in an effort to obtain an equitable wage scale. Before the great boom in prices, $15 was the salary of a first class stenographer; today that priced girl should be receiving at least $25—but is she? No. She does not belong to a union.

Yours,

AMANUENSIS.

VIOLET HEMING IN "EVERYWOMAN"

Noted English Actress Has the Chief Role in Film Version of Famous Play

Violet Heming, the beautiful young actress who appears in the title role of the spectacular Paramount-Artcraft picture, "Everywoman," at the Gaiety Theatre, Monday and Tuesday of next week, is only twenty years old and was born in Leeds, England. She came to this country at the age of twelve. Her first stage hit was as the child, Wendy, in "Peter Pan," and later in "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm." Graduating to grown-up parts, she played for two years with George Arliss in "Disraeli" and later with Margaret Illington in "The Lie." Her latest appearance on the stage was in the well-known New York success, "Three Faces East," in which she had the leading feminine role.

Exceptional beauty was one of the chief requisites for each of the twenty or more young women in the cast of "Everywoman" and the company is in this respect unusual. The picture was directed by George Melford and was produced on an elaborate scale.

STILL LIVING IN DANGEROUS TIMES

Field Marshal Wilson Says We Went Into the War to Save Our Skins

London, June 17.—What was called a "straight talk" was given at the annual meeting of the Union Jack Club by Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson who described himself as "an old soldier who knows what he is talking about."

"We have been told," he said, "that we went into the war to end war. We did not. We went into it to save our skins. We were told that after the war we would have peace, but we have not got it. There are at present between 20 and 30 wars, big and little, going on. We were told that the war should end war, but it did not and could not.

"We are living in ticklish and dangerous times, and our command on sea, on land, and in the air is being challenged in various parts of the world."

In laying the main for a sewer on Commercial street, in Bath, Me., the workmen have uncovered big pumpkin pine logs as sound as when they were laid for Staniford's Wharf, some 250 years ago. Some of them are three feet through.

27 ONTARIO PAPERS FACE EXTINCTION

Contracts to Supply Hearst May Force Suspension in Month's Time

Ottawa, June 17.—Because of contracts made with tthe Donnacona Paper Company by the Hearst papers of the United States, and of the demands on the Ontario Paper Company's supply by the Chicago Tribune, one-fourth of the daily papers of Canada are faced with the prospect of extinction in a month. Representatives of twenty-seven papers published in Ontario, interviewed Sir Henry Drayton and Sir Robert Borden on Saturday morning, to ask that measures should be taken to prevent such a calamity happening to the Canadian papers referred to. As a result, the Minister of Finance has asked for representatives of the Donnacona Paper Company and the Ontario Paper Company to come to Ottawa for a conference on the situation Wednesday morning. It is thought that some sort of arrangement can be effected by negotiation in this way.

As a result of the Supreme Court decision regarding Price Brothers, it is stated that the Donnacona Paper Company has given absolute notice that it cannot supply a pound of paper after July 1, because of the demands of the Hearst papers, which now ask that contracts, formerly made with the Donnacona, shall be fulfilled to the letter. The Ontario Paper Company has also notified the publishers that the Chicago Tribune requires the whole output of its mill at Thorold. This mill gets most of its pulp from the Crown lands of Quebec, and it is operated under the direction of a Chicago board for the Tribune.

Among the papers represented here on Saturday were the Toronto World, Belleville Intelligencer, Lindsay Post, St. Catharines Standard, Brantford Expositor, Guelph Herald, Hamilton Times, Kitchener Telegraph, Stratford Herald, Sarnia Observer, London Free Press, London Advertiser, Chatham Planet, and papers at Fort William and Port Arthur.

The Minister was informed that the difficulty of getting newsprint was one of the chief reasons for the St. Catharines Journal being forced out of existence. The Peterboro Review, which suspends today, is also being taken in by the Examiner, mainly because of the difficulty of continuing with an insecure supply of paper. Some of the dailies thus threatened are the only local papers in their districts.

HOME FOR STUDENTS FROM DOMINIONS

Crosby Hall, the Ancient Home of Richard III. to Be Fitted Up For Purpose

London, June 17.—Students from Canada and overseas dominions of the British Empire, studying in the University of London, are likely to have a home in Crosby Hall, the ancient home of Richard III., on the Chelsea Embankment. Plans to utilize the building for that purpose are now being developed by the World Association for Adult Education.

It is proposed to construct residential quarters on the ground adjoining Crosby House for students coming from the British dominions, from India and the United States, together with a proportion from the British Isles so that full interchange of view and experience may be promoted. Crosby Hall itself will be centre of the whole institution and will serve the same purpose as are served by the halls of colleges at Oxford and Cambridge.

An appeal is being issued, supported by the leading lights in the educational world here, for £250,000 wherewith to build and equip residences for about 120 students.

PARIS PRICES DECLINE

Paris, June 17.—Prices of various commodities in every day use continue to decline in this city, and newspapers state that coffee costs less in Paris than in Havre, and less in Havre than in Brazil. Cotton, which for several days was firm, has again undergone an important decline in Havre.

NEW COAL COMPANY FOR CAPE BRETON

Glace Bay, N. S., June 17.—A company headed by J.V. Cavicchi, of Halifax, and Vincent McFadden, of Glace Bay, is being organized to operate the Montgomery Moore coal areas at False By on Mira Bay, C. B. Work on the sinking of a colliery is to be started at once and an output of from 1,000 to 1,500 tons a day is aimed at. Shipment will be made at False Bay Beach, where a good site for a harbor is available.

Mr. McFadden has resigned his position of electrical and construction superintendent with the Dominion Coal Company, to take up the management of the new colliery. The coal is described as of good quality and the seams are estimated to contain 20,000,000 tons of marketable coal.

APPEAL SENTENCE OF I. W. W. WORKERS

Chicago, June 17.—Arguments for appeals in the cases of Wm. D. Haywood and 93 other alloged members of the Industrial Workers of the World, sentenced to from one to twenty years each in federal prisons after being convicted of violating the espionage act, are being presented today before the appelate court.

Haywood and his co-defendants were convicted before Judge Landis in August, 1918.

RENEW FRENCH LOAN

Paris, June 17. — Renewal of the Spanish loan to France of 35,000,000 pesetas has been arranged by a Spanish Bankers' Consortium, according to Madrid despatches quoting gossip in financial circles there. It is said this step was taken with the authority of the Spanish government.

There is no change today in the condition of Mrs. Manford Yeomans, who is seriously ill at her home in Lower St. Marys with typhoid fever.

BANK OF ENGLAND TO BE REBUILT

Inadequacy of Venerable Pile to Meet Present Day Requirements the Reason

London, June 15.—The Bank of England is to be rebuilt. The governors and court of directors of the institution for the past 25 years have considered the advisability of replacing the black one-story "Old Lady of Threadneedle Street" with a more modern and commodious structure. The inadequacy of the venerable pile to meet present day needs has necessitated the establishment, since the beginning of the war, of six outside branch offices in various parts of London to house the bank's growing army of clerks and newly created departments.

Established in 1691, the Bank of England is the oldest national bank in Europe. Millions of people throughout the world know the outside of the low, black building which, for more than two centuries has been the Empire's financial centre. Its central part was erected in 1732-4, but the outer part, which one sees from adjacent streets, dates from 1788.

The present building spreads over four acres of what is perhaps the most valuable real estate in the world, in the heart of London's world training centre. At least once, in December, 1825, it saved the country from bankruptcy. During the Lord George Gordon riots of June, 1780, it withstood a two days' attack by a mob which was driven off by soldiers stationed outside and clerks and bank officials who mounted the walls.

Since that date the bank has been guarded every night by a detachment of 36 soldiers who, commanded by an officer, march down from London Tower and take up their positions on the walls at sundown.

A number of windows, which broke the blank solidarity of the bank's outer walls, were closed with huge blocks of granite after the rioting, but their outline is traced by the remaining sills.

INTERNATIONAL COURT OF JUSTICE

Initial Meeting of Jurists Under League of Nations at The Hague Yesterday

The Hague, June 17.—The conference of jurists invited by the League of Nations to meet in this capital for the organization of a permanent international court of justice opened sessions here yesterday. The conference was inaugurated by Leon Bourgeois, President of the French Association of the Society of Nations. The "terrible lesson of the war," said the French statesman, was necessary to make the people of the world understand that the basic of the peace between nations did not lie in force.

He declared the proposed court would be a really permanent body, not merely a court of arbitration, and that it would render decisions from which there would be no appeal. It would be necessary, he added, to have a strong organization to carry out the decisions which would be made in future by the body to be organized.

A dairy farmer in Whitman, Mass., unable to hire help, bought an electric milker and says all he has to do now is to reach out of bed in the morning and turn a button and the cows are milked.

JURY'S FINDING IN BOILER EXPLOSION

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Toronto, June 18.—The coroner's jury that inquired into the death of John Dick, a stereotyper in the Evening Telegram office, who was killed on June 8 by the explosion of a boiler in the Telegram's stereotyping room, decided last night that the boiler was defectively constituted owing to the fact that no means were provided for the inspection of its interior condition, and the jury recommended that boiler inspection may be taken away from the factory inspector and placed under a more capable and responsible department.

MOTOR CYCLE RACES IN GREAT BRITAIN

London, June 18.—The motor cycle senior tourist trophy race yesterday was won by T. C. Delabny, who averaged 52 miles an hour.

The £580 gold competition at Westward Ho, Devon, was won by George Duncan. The first prize was one hundred pounds and a gold medal. He aggregated 291 for four rounds. Abe Mitchell was second with 298; I. H. Taylor, third, 301; James Braid, fourth, 302.

ARRESTS TODAY IN MADAWASKA

McLaughlin, of the provincial prohibition enforcement staff, seized what was virtually a carload of liquor at a house in St. Hilaire, which is in the same district as Baker Brook, where the same inspector seized $14,000 worth of liquor that had been shipped in as fertilizer earlier in the week and which is generally believed to have been destined for consumption by thirsty New Englanders.

Before the inspector could round up the entire shipment at the particular farm house in St. Hilaire yesterday it appears that some persons removed three kegs of the liquor, each containing 80 gallons, to some woods nearby and it escaped detection by the raiders. However, the fact that the three kegs were in the woods became known and about 8 o'clock last even ing some other parties started towards the woods apparently in search of the liquor. The three persons supposed to have been the owners of the seized liquor were standing guard over the remains of their big shipment, however, armed with rifles, shotguns and clubs.

Mrs. Gorneau is said to have been making a short cut across the field near the woods, some say to warn a relative in the party going to search for the liquor of their danger, when she was suddenly shot down by a bullet from the woods. The shipment of liquor which the inspector seized was one of many coming into this county by the carload from Quebec points and usually held hereabouts for a favorable opportunity to get it across the boundary, whence it is rushed south towards Bangor, Portland and Boston by automobiles. Mrs. Gorneau is about 50 years old and has a grownup family.

Successful Entertainment.

The Nashwaaksis Dramatic Society motored to Stanley last evening and put on the comedy drama, In Plum Valley, before a large and appreciative audience in the Church Hall. Upwards of $100 was realized. Before and after the entertainment the members of the company were entertained by the Methodist ladies. Those who took part in the performance were Misses Hepsy Willis, Irene Hawkins, Verna Staples, Mrs. Harold Staples, Herbert Bailey, Fred Drillen, Harold Staples, Roy Pugh, Byron Evans and Sandy Smith. Miss Bailey was the accompanist.

Married at Stanley.

Early on Wednesday morning, in the presence of the parents and other relatives of the contracting parties, the marriage took place in St. Thomas' church, Stanley, of Frank, son of Thomas Boulter, of Currieburg, to Hattie, daughter of George Thomas, of Tay Creek. The officiating clergyman was the rector, Rev. R. A. Robinson. Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Boulter left by motor for Houlton, Me. On their return they will reside in Currieburg.

Complained to Police.

The police have received several complaints from the Queen's Square section of the city voiced by citizens who state that the youths playing ball in that section trample down their gardens whenever the ball is batted into their yards. Last evening Officer Hartt was sent to investigate and to move the lads to a part of the grounds where they would damage no crops.

Miss Eileen V. Keenan, who has been studying at Havergall Ladies' College, Toronto, returned home yesterday to spend the Summer. She was met at the Junction by her father, W. P. Keenan.

THIRD DISTRICT UNITED BAPTISTS

he has just finished serving a very successful term of nine years as missionary for the Maritime Baptist Convention, gave an illuminating address on his work. The women had a very fine meeting as they always do at the district meeting.

At the opening of the evening service, Rev. Mr. Williams, the new pastor of the Douglas church, conducted an inspiring song service. He and D. Jones sang a duet.

The committee on resolutions reported as follows: Sympathy for Mrs. J. G. A. Belyea in the death of her husband, who for a good many years was one of our faithful and efficient ministers; Thanksgiving for the splendid success of the Forward Movement; thanks to the people of the Douglas church for their unstinted hospitality, and the importance of the prohibition plebiscite on July 10.

The clerk brought in the final report of the nominating committee, which was passed, electing for the committee on pastorless churches, H. T. Brewer, E. Stairs, J. W. Spurden, H. P. Lint, S. J. Hallett.

The first speaker of the evening was Rev J. A. Glendenning, returned misssionary, who gave a vivid picture of conditions in India. Rev. J. A. Archibald, New Glasgow, N. S., spoke a few minutes for the Five Year Programme Committe who propose to make a survey of the Baptist constituency in the Maritime Provinces on September 12, 1920, when every one of the 600 Baptist churches in the Maritime Convention is asked on the same day to make this survey with material supplied by the central committee. The facts obtained will be used for the progress of the denomination. A committee, consisting of the executive of the Third District was appointed to co-operate with the central committee

Rev. W. C. Machum, secretary of the Religious Education in the Maritime Provinces, a native of North Devon, gave an address on religious education; Rev. H. T. DeWolfe, D.D., Principal of Acadia Seminary at Wolfville, N. S., and chairman of the Five Year Programme, gave an address on the work of the Baptist institutions of learning at Wolfville. After singing Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow, the best district meeting in the history of the Third District came to a close.

Regan was last seen last evening about 9 o'clock in Prince William street, when he was in his usual health.

Arguments at St. John Against Inauguration of a Measured Business Telephone Service

M. G. Teed, K. C., Representing the Retail Merchants Association, Opposes the Granting of Request of Company Before Public Utilities Commission

(Special despatch to the Daily Gleaner.)

St. John, N.B., June 18.—Arguments against the inauguration of a measured service for the business telephone stations in St. John were delivered this morning by M. G. Teed, K. C., representing the Retail Merchants' Association, and E. C. Weyman, representing the Wholesale Grocers' Guild, at a special meeting of the New Brunswick Utilities Commission, which met in the Government rooms to resume a discussion upon the application of the New Brunswick Telephone Company to increase their earnings by $300,000.

Arguments by counsel for the business interests were to the effect that the business subscribers should not be discriminated against and a flat rate should be applied for all subscribers, or a measured service inaugurated for all subscribers, rather than the proposed measured service which is intended for the business stations.

In answer to Mr. Teed, Mr. Mildram said that instead of the increase to $43.94 per station asked for by the company, he recommended a rate of $42.80 for the business stations, of which there are 2,789 in operation now. He did not favor a flat rate, even at $96 a year for a master station, as the smaller user would be discriminated against. The increase in the various services were: Resident subscribers, 38.9 per cent.; business subscribers, 52.3 per cent.; private branch exchange, 101 per cent.; all other services, 117. Outside St. John the increase is about 36.4 per cent. for business phones. Under the old rate St. John has been producing 46.1 per cent. of the company's revenue and under the new schedule the same source will produce 48.2 per cent. of the revenue.

Mr. Robinson said the telephone company was not in favor of a measured service, particularly on a distance line such as St. John to Fredericton or St. John to Moncton, but as far as a particular locality was concerned, it was the only method of having a proper charge made for the amount of service received. The flat rate is unjust and too small.

The session adjourned at 1.10, to meet this afternoon, when the arguments will probably be concluded.

C. V. Neghan, of Bermuda, is at the Barker House.

Hal Gentry Very Lame, May Not Fill His Engagements

Pacer Lately Imported From Carolina Said to Have Been Injured

STAKED FOR FALL RACES

Hal Gentry, the star green pacer of the Bathurst Stable, may be unable to take in any of the early racing on the Maritime and Maine Circuit, is was learned last night.

The son of Argot Hal, 2.04¾, is now lame and W. G. Fenwick, his owner, declares the cause has been reported to him as being the result of the pacer having got down in his stall at the Chatham track and badly bruising one of his legs while cast.

Mr. Fenwick said last night that it was questionable how soon Hal Gentry would be able to race, but said he believed it would be some time; in fact it is said it may be necessary to carry him over to next season. Hal Gentry was imported from Carolina early in the spring, is said to have cost a considerable sum and evidently was well thought of by his new owner, as he was staked in the slow races as well as events as fast as 2.18 at various tracks in the New England states for the fall.

The P. E. Island Stables.

Charlottetown Driving Park is the scene of a great deal of horse training at present. Distemper has been very prevalent among the horses this spring, and while it has not resulted in any deaths, it has been the means of putting back many horses that were training.

The horse racing season of 1920 promises to be one of the most interesting for many years. The opening of the P. E. I. circuit will be made at Charlottetown, when the Charlottetown Driving Club hold tthelr matinee races June 23rd. The circuit programme then follows: Summerside, July 1st; Tryon, July 7th; Kensington, July 14th; Kinkora, July 21st; Garfield, July 28th; Montague, August 11th; New Annan, August 18th.

White Sox, 2.03¾, the fast and game daughter of Del Corando, is training nicely for Peter Conroy. She has terrific whiz and we look to see her over 2.08 this year.—Charlottetown Guardian.

Lest We Forget!

For the benefit of some people who have evidently overlooked it, Section 3 of Rule V., of the National Trotting Association rules is quoted:

"All entries not governed by the published conditions shall be void, any proposed deviation from such published conditions shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $50 for each offense, and any nominator who is allowed privileges not in accordance with the published conditions of the race, or which are in conflict with these rules, shall be debarred from winning any portion of the purse; and upon sufficient proof of the fact, he shall refund the amount, if any awarded him, and it shall be awarded to the remaining horses entitled thereto. And the said nominator and the secretary or other persons who allowed such privileges shall be deemed to have been parties to a fraud, and be punished by fine, suspension or expulsion, according to the judgment of the Board of Review."

Plot to Smash the "Curtain Raiser" Races in Fredericton Nipped in Bud Yesterday

Hugh O'Neill Had Plans About Complete to Have McAllister Stable Shipped to Moncton—Offered Inducements for Stable to Leave Fredericton in Lurch.

History seems to be more or less repeating itself in the scramble that is going on for horses for the opening race meetings centred around Dominion Day.

Adioo Guy, 2.00¾, then owned by "Kid" O'Neill, of Halifax, was the horse and the Fredericton and Moncton tracks were the ones fighting for him as an attraction last year; this year the same tracks are engaged in the same kind of a contest, but with the stable of Dr. D. H. McAllister, of Sussex, in dispute.

As was the case last season, the horses now so earnestly sought are located in Fredericton and the Moncton management is trying to pry them away from here; but, as was fortunately not the case last year, the Moncton track now has an active agent operating here in their behalf in the attempt to drag horses away from here and thus prevent, if possible, the races being pulled off.

The person in our midst who is acting in this capacity is none other than Hugh O'Neill, formerly secretary of the local track and who last year had the whole-hearted support of all local horsemen in his "war" with the manager of the Moncton track, when the latter—unable to get anybody here to act in such a capacity—sent an emissary from Halifax to attempt to bluff "Kid" O'Neill into taking Adioo Guy away from here and make him the centre of a gambling orgy, which was to feature the Moncton meeting.

Early this week Dr. D. H. McAllister, who declines to discuss the matter now, came up here from Sussex to look over his racing stable, which, under the direction of his experienced and capable driver, Fred Cameron, proved the sensation of the Maritime and Maine Circuit last season. Before he got out of town he was advised that there wasn't a chance in the world of the local races filling, that it was useless for his horses to stay here and that it would be well for him to ship over to Moncton. The person who provided Dr. McAllister with all this advice was none other than Mr. O'Neill, who, no longer connected with the manager of the Fredericton Park Association, thus for the first time came out boldly in open conflict with the present management.

Car for Shipping Ordered.

Meanwhile Mr. O'Neill was in close touch by telephone with Manager Belliveau of the Moncton track and inducements were offered Dr. McAllister to have his stable go to Moncton. These inducements, it is said by those who declare they know, included free transportation and free entrance—the published conditions were 5 per cent. entrance—and yesterday at one time Mr. O'Neill had so far proceeded with his plans that the horseg were being made ready for shipment, the stable gear was being packed up, a car had even been engaged, and Fred Cameron says Mr. O'Neill ordered a team to haul the rigging to the station. Then Dr. McAllister himself suddenly took a hand in the game. He had agreed to have his horses race here, provided there were classes for them, and there were; the present management of the local track were in close touch with him, and when the Sussex horseman was advised that his driver had received orders to ship his horses he at once got Cameron on the long distance telephone and notified him the horses would remain here and that he was the only person who would give any shipping instructions in so far as his horses were concerned.

In other words, the plot in which Mr. O'Neill was acting as the agent of the Moncton track to take horses away from the Fredericton track in an endeavor to prevent racing here on the holiday had proven a miserable failure.

Entries for the opening meeting at Moncton close today. The Moncton meeting is not advertised as being under the rules of the National Trotting Association, as provided by regulations to be mentioned in conditions, and if it should happen that the Moncton races are not to be under the N. T. A. or a recognized governing association, it will create a serious mixup, as all horses competing at meetings not recognized are thereafter only eligible to start in free for alls, according to this year's rules. Winnings of all stables going to Moncton to race under arrangements other than those in the published conditions—if it is an authorized meeting—will be liable to penalties as well as having their winnings taken away; this section of the N.T.A. rules includes the offering of remission of entrance fees.

Last year, in the controversy over Adioo Guy, the Moncton management threatened to do all kinds of things to "Kid" O'Neill under the provisions of the National Trotting Association rules, claiming that he would be liable for failing to have his horse appear after having entered. The present situation would seem to be an excellent opportunity to illustrate that the National Trotting Association rules must be observed by track managers and their agents equally as rigidly as by the campaigning horsemen.

NEW PACER FOR CHATHAM STABLE

El Cabel Expected to Prove a Fine Addition to the Carvell and McNamara String

El Cabel is the name of a new bay pacing stallion which has lately joined the racing stable of Carvell & McNamara in training at the Chatham track.

El Cabel is a son of Cabel, the stallion which the veteran, Frank Hayden, who campaigned down here some years ago, had in his Pine Tree Stable at Lewiston, Me., and he is expected to be a promising entry in the slow pacing stakes on the Maritime and Maine Circuit.

Roy Miller, 2.11¼, the former member of the champion pole team of America, is now owned by Fred Carvell and should be a formidable starter in the 2.22 trots, to which he is now eligible. Davey Todd, a trotter of promise, and Rose B. Moss, an unmarked pacer that has shown miles right around 2.20 already this season, is in the string, but may be traded or sold.

The Marysville and Y.M.C.A. Teams Making the Race for York County Championship

Old Timers Easy for League Leaders Who Won by 10 to 0 at Marysville

FRED McLEAN STILL REMAINING IN CITY

But He Has Not Resumed Playing for Old Timers—Y. M. C. A. Defeats Devon

The Marysville and Y. M. C. A. teams won again in the York County Baseball League last night and there seems but little doubt that these are the teams which must be counted upon to make the race for the championship.

The Devon team, who surprised the fans by winning from Marysville in their previous game, were comparatively easy for the Y.M.C.A. team, although "Tanker" Hughes has helped the "Brooklyns" a great deal and may convert them into a winning machine before he gets finished.

The Old Timers were virtually swamped at Marysville, the league leaders running up a score of 10 to 0. Fred McLean is sorely missed by the Old Timers and failed to show up again last evening. He has not gone to Cape Breton either and today was undecided whether he would use the transportation which had been sent him or not. He may stay here and take a new position that has been offered him, as he wants to be reinstated as an amateur again rather than play professionally.

Y. M. C. A. WON.

Devon Team beaten by Score of 6 to 1 at the Trotting Park Last Night.

The Devon nine went down to defeat before the Y. M. C. A. team last evening by a score of 6 to 1, after a one-sided seven-inning contest at the Trotting Park.

For the first three innings play was close, no scores being made by either side. Then Shields for Devon allowed two singles and these, mixed with two wild pitches, allowed two runs for the Y.M.C.A. In the fourth and fifth innings two more runs were added to the Y.M.C.A. score, putting their total at six. Devon secured their lone tally in the seventh inning, when Brewer smashed out a two-bagger, coming home on a hit by Hughes, coupled with an error by Bolster at second base for the Y. M. C. A.

EASY FOR LEADERS.

Marysville Batters in Form Again While Old Timers Gave Billy Kenney Poor Support.

Marysville, N. B., June 18.—A fair sized crowd witnessed a very one-sided game between the Old Timers and Marysville teams last evening. The weather was extremely cold but the fans stood it well and watched the local nine pound their opponents at will. Kenney pitched a good game but received poor support. For the home team Earl Macpherson did the twirling most effectively. Amos Macpherson's home run was the feature of the game.

MONTREAL TO TAKE CONTROL OF BOXING

The Bye-Law Proposes Boxing Commission as In New York City

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Montreal, June 18.—A boxing commission to control boxing in Montreal is proposed in a new by-law drafted for the consideration of the city administrative commission and is to consist of the chief of police, a physician and a citizen.

A license of $100 will be charged for each exhibition of boxing in this city. The commission will have power to bring fighters before them for medical examination and to determine weights if the fighters are not equally matched. The commission may also refuse to accept referees.

Rain Stops Bouts.

Philadelphia, June 17.—Rain tonight caused the postponement of the boxing bouts at Shibe Park, the feature of which was to provide an eight-round fight between Johnny Wilson, middleweight champion, and Augie Ratner, New York.

The bouts were called off "until further notice."

Dempsey's Demand.

San Francisco, Cal., June 17.—Georges Carpentier will be given one week to decide whether he wants to fight Jack Dempsey for the world's heavyweight championship on or before Labor Day, and if he does not meet this demand it 'must be taken for granted that he does not want to meet the champion," Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, said here today.

"This putting the match over until he returns from Europe does not satisfy us.

"We will give Carpentier one week to say whether he wants to fight Dempsey on or before Labor Day. If he does not want to fight then Dempsey will start a campaign among the other heavyweights of the world."

Thacher Wants Bout.

Toledo, Ohio, June 18.—Addison Q. Thacher, the Toledo fight promoter who with Tex Rickard brought about the championship ring affair between Jack Dempsey and Jess Willard here last July 4, announced today that he is anxious to secure Dempsey and Carpentier for a championship match here some time during the coming fall.

ENGLAND AS WORLD FINANCIAL CENTRE

Is View of Otto Kahn, One of New York's Leading Bankers

New York, June 17.—All talk about America displacing England as the world's financial centre is idle, Otto H. Kahn, the New York banker and financial expert, said on landing here today from the Steamship Celtic, following an extensive trip in Europe. "England's position," he said, "is the result of geographical, economic and psychological factors, of racial qualities and of the experience and practice of centuries. In saying this I am far from underestimating the leading part which America will play in the world's work and the boundless scope of our opportunities. But we should seek to supplement, not supplant, one another. There is plenty of room to spare in the world for the most intensive activities of both nations. There is plenty of need for the most vigorous enterprise of both.

"England, a few discordant and insignificant voices to the contrary notwithstanding, is conscious of the greatness of the spirit of the action and of the service of America during the war. She is genuinely desirous of a cordial understanding and close and harmonious co-operation between the two nations. No man, not blinded by prejudice, can fail to see how necessary such a relationship is for the peace, prosperity and ordered liberty of the world.

"England realizes fully how greatly that relationship would be furthered by a final settlement of the Irish problem and how warmly, too, her self-governing Dominions and Colonies would welcome such a settlement. If there is anything which the Irish and the friends of the Irish in America can do to bring about a happy ending to that age-long tragedy, they will be rendering a great service to all concerned. But—I say it as an appreciative and sympathetic friend of that brave, gifted and warm-hearted Irish race—anyone who thinks that the British can be moved by threats, intimidated by agitators, or stimulated by pinpricks from foreign sources, does not know the stuff that the British people are made of. And anyone acting on that mistaken notion does more harm than good to the cause he means to serve.

WORLD SCARCITY OF COTTON FEARED

Expert Points Out That Something Should Be Done to Find New Source Supply

Manchester, Eng., June 17.—Prof. J. A. Todd, secretary of the Empire Cotton Growing Committee of the Board of Trade, has just delivered to the Textile Institution a warning of the prospective world scarcity in cotton in the near future and emphasized the need for developing new sources of supply as well as experimenting with cotton substitutes.

After dealing exhaustively with the labor position in the United States cotton growing areas, bad weather and ravages by boll-weevil as well as the acreage position, the Professor said, "it is obvious that we were not going to get 15,000,000 bales of cotton this year." At home it seemed to him the consumers had not yet felt the full weight of the high cost of the raw material. Even in America he did not see much sign of the consumer's intention of doing without cotton fabrics.

The statistics for America's domestic consumption for the first three months of this year were on a basis uncomfortably near to 7,000,000 bales a year. British consumption before the war was nearly 4,000,000 bales and the total American crop last year was only 11,000,000. What was going to happen when the rest of the world—and particularly the continental countries—woke up and began to demand more cotton?

By next year, he said, the continental mills probably would be more active than now and the demand increased and the Oriental demand would also be much higher. So long as the workers and producers of the world were making so much more money than they ever did before, he did not see how the demand for cotton goods was even going to be substantially reduced. The world was not producing sufficient cotton to meet this demand and was not likely to do so unless some way was devised of making use of even the lowest grades.

It was only a question of time, he asserted, when the world would face a scarcity of cotton and it was high time therefore that something was done to develop new sources of supply, for even when they were found they would not be able to afford substantial relief for five or ten years. He was not sure that the time had not come for them to look around for an efficient cotton substitute, for the world was full of textile fibres which had never been exploited.

REBUILDING ERA IN LONDON CITY

Necessity of Providing for Inrushes of Population—The Plans Adopted

London, June 18.—London, which travellers maintain changes more slowly than any other great capital, is yielding to the necessity of providing for continued inrushes of population. There are many indications that the city is on the eve of an unprecedented era of rebuilding.

Instead of stretching further into the beautiful country lying immediately outside its bounds, the predicted building boom is likely to be a process of tightening up and levelling up by better utilization of wasted spaces and acceptance of the American skyscraper idea.

Evidences of the last named influence are to be seen today along London's newest downtown thoroughfare—Kingsway—near the Strand. Here a number of buildings, either built by Americans or designed for American occupancy, are in the process of construction. Shortage of skilled men in the building trades and hindrances due to England's leasehold system are the main handicaps, but the fact remains that London is verging toward marked physical changes.

CATHOLIC WOMEN'S LEAGUE IN CANADA

THE LOSS OF TIME THROUGH STRIKES

A NEW INDUSTRY IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

The Hides of Mud Sharks to Be Tanned and Oil Extracted From Livers

Vancouver, B. C., June 17.—The hide and liver of mud sharks form the basis of a brand new industry in British Columbia to be manned by returned soldiers and aided by provincial Government capital. The skins when tanned make up into a variety of choice leathers, and the huge shark livers are rich in heavy oil, which, when pressed out, brings a high price as a lubricant for heavy machinery. There are four or five skins to the shark; the outer makes leather for suitcases and heavy wear; the inner, leather for fancy goods and automobile trimming.

IN DAYS OF TERROR

"I see how it is," said he; "you are in the right, and I was blind. With your wit and distinction, you have been fearful that Maurice ought not to admire you so much."

Genevieve felt as if an icy chill had penetrated to her heart. This irony on the part of her husband relative to Maurice's affection for her—that love of which, from the knowledge she possessed of the character of the young man, she could estimate the violence, and in which, though she only acknowledged with deep remorse, she participated in the depths of her heart—this irony petrified her. She felt it was utterly impossible to reply.

"I have guessed rightly, have I not?" said Dixmer. "Well, reassure yourself, Genevieve; I know Maurice to be a fierce Republican, whose heart contains no other love than love of country."

"Monsieur," exclaimed Genevieve, "are you certain of what you say?"

"Eh, without doubt," replied Dixmer. "If Maurice loved you, instead of quarrelling with me he would redouble his attentions and civilities to one whom it was his interest to deceive. If Maurice loved you, he would not so easily renounce his title of 'friend' of the family,' generally used to cover these treasons."

"Do I not beseech you," cried Genevieve, "make a jest of these things."

"I do not jest, madame; I only tell you Maurice does not love you, that is all."

'And I—I," said Genevieve, "tell you that you deceive yourself."

"In that case," replied Dixmer, "Maurice, who has had sufficient strength to tear himself away, is an honest man, and as they are rare, Genevieve, one cannot do too much to reclaim them when once lost. Genevieve, you will write to Maurice, will you not?"

"Oh! mon Dieu!" cried the young woman, resting her head between her hands, for he to whom she looked for support in a moment of danger had precipitated instead of restraining her fall.

"Allons chere amie," said he; "no woman's amoure propre. If Maurice wishes to recommence a declaration, laugh at the second as you did at the first. I know you, Genevieve, you have a nble and excellent heart. I can depend on you."

"Oh! mon Dieu!" said the young woman, sinking on her knees, 'who can feel confidence in those who have no confidence in themselves?"

Dixmer turned pale, as if all his blood had retreated back to his heart.

"Genevieve," said he, "I have acted very wrong to cause you so much anguish of mind. I ought to have explained myself, at once. Genevieve we live at an epoch of self-sacrifice. I have devoted myself to the Queen, our benefactress, and not only my arm, not only my head, but my happiness. Others will give their lives; I do more than give her my life, I risk my honor, and if that perishes, only one more tear will fall into the ocean of miseries which are preparing to swallow up France. But my honor runs no risk under the guardianship of such a woman as Genevieve."

For the first time Dixmer had revealed the whole truth. Genevieve raised her head, and fixed her beautiful eyes, full of admiration, upon him; then slowly rose, and presented her face to him to kiss.

"You wish it?" said she.

Dixmer made a sign in the affirmative.

"Dictate, then," and she took up a pen.

"No; it is sufficient to use, not to abuse this worthy young man," said Dixmer; "and when he will reconcile himself to us on receipt of a letter from Genevieve, this letter should be from Genevieve, and not from Monsieur Dixmer."

Then Genevieve tremblingly wrote:

"Citizen Maurice,—You know how much my husband respects you. Three weeks of separation, which to us have appeared an age, have made you forget. Come, we await you; your return will be a real fete.—Genevieve."

CHAPTER XV.

The Goddess Reason.

As Maurice had informed General Santerre the preceding evening, he was seriously ill whilst he kept his chamber. Luuis in his daily visits had made use of every argument to induce him to enter into some amusements; but Maurice continued obstinate. There are some maladies we do not desire to heal. On the 1st of June he arrived towards one o'clock.

"Is there anything particular going on today?" asked Maurice, "that you are so superb?"

Indeed, Louis was most splendidly attired. The "bonnet rouge," the "carmagnole," and the tri-colored girdle, ornamented with two instruments, then called the "cruets of the Abbe Maury," but which before and since have been honestly termed pistols.

"In the first place," said Louis, "it is generally the breaking of the ice of the Bironde which is in train for execution; but the drum beats. At this moment, for example, the 'bonnets rouges' chafe upon La Place du Carrousel; then, in particular, there is a grand solemnity to which I invite you after tomorrow."

"But what is there today? You came to seek me, do you say?"

"Yes; today we have the rehearsal."

"What rehearsal?"

"Why, the rehearsal of this great solemnity.

"Mon cher," said Maurice, 'you know that it is now eight days since I last went out, consequently I am ignorant of everything, and therefore the more require to be fully informed."

"What! Have I not told you?"

"You have told me nothing."

"First, you already know, we had suppressed 'God' for some time past, and have replaced it by the 'Supreme Being.'"

"Yes; I knew all that."

"Eh bien, it seems they have found out one thing; that the Supreme Being' was a Modere, a Rolandist, and, in short, a Girondin."

"Do not make a jest of anything holy, Louis; you know I do not like it."

"What would you have, mon cher? it is necessary to accord with the age. I like the ancient God well enough; first, because I am accustomed to it. As for the 'Supreme Being,' it appears he has been really wrong, and since he has been above, everything has been playing at cross-purposes, consequently our legislators have decreed his downfall." Maurice shrugged his shoulders.

"Shrug your shoulders as much as you please," said Louis, 'but now we are going to worship the 'Goddess Reason.'"

And are you engaged in all these masquerades?" said Maurice.

"Ah, mon ami, if you know the Goddess Reason as I know her, you would be one of her warmest partisans. Listen; I wish you to know her, and will present you to her."

'A truce with all this folly. I am out of spirits, you well know."

"The very thing, morbleu; she will enliven you; she is a nice girl. Ah! but you know the austere goddess whom the Parisians wish to crown with laurels, and promenade about in a gilded paper chair! It is— Guess."

"How can I guess?"

"It is Arthemise."

CHARGE AMENDED IN FORGERY CASE IN POLICE COURT

Hayesville Man Now Faces a Charge of Uttering Forged Cheque

MUNN CLAIMS HE CAN PROVE COMPLETE ALIBI

Declares He Was Not in This City When Cheque Was Cashed Here

Perley Munn, charged with forging a time check on the Fraser Companies, Limited, appeared before Police Magistrate Limerick this morning and pleaded not guilty.

James M. Scott, of this city, and Fred McLaggan, one of the Fraser Companies' operators, were called to give evidence, and the charge was amended to read "uttering a forged check known by him to be forged, during the month of August, 1919." The evidence for the prosecution being completed the case was then adjourned until Monday morning, when Munn's parents will be called to prove the defendant was not here during the month of August, 1919, when the check was uttered.

In his evidence this morning Mr. McLaggan stated that during the year 1919 he had been operating in the Magaguadavic section and that he had not employed Munn during that time and had not made out or signed a time check for him. He knew Munn, as the defendant had worked for him before.

J. M. Scott in his evidence identified the defendant as the man who had given him the time check and stated that he had given him a check for the order presented, which the defendant had cashed later.

Yesterday afternoon after Munn was identified by Mr. Scott he was allowed out on his own recognizance by Sitting Magistrate Allison McKay, but this morning Police Magistrate Limerick stated that this could not be continued in the face of the evidence which had been produced in the court and that he would require two bondsmen for $500 each. Up till noon today bail had not been secured.

SUMMER SERVICE ON THE RAILWAYS

Only Slight Change in C. P. R. Schedule Tomorrow—Daily on Valley After 27th

A change of time will go into effect on the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's lines tomorrow, when the summer schedule will become effective. The only change in the service affecting Fredericton is that the first train in the morning from St. John will arrive here at 9.20 a. m. instead of fifteen minutes earlier, as it has been found the running time is too short at present. There will be two connections daily to St. Andrews from Fredericton under the new schedule, the afternoon connection being by the train leaving here at 4.45 p. m.

The change of time on the C.N.R., which will bring with it a daily express train service on the St. John Valley Railway, will not be effective until June 27th, it was said by C.N.R. officials today. The trains will run on the same schedule as with the present tri-weekly service and there will be a tri-weekly freight service, the run from Centreville to St. John being split at Fredericton with a crew making the run on each side of this city. The new schedule also calls for a daily train service on the Transcontinental Division, making through trains daily via Fredericton from St. John to Quebec. The new service was first told of in a despatch to The Gleaner from Toronto about a month ago.

Third District United Baptists Concluded Its Meetings Last Evening

Pastorless Churches to Be Looked After by Volunteers—Permanent Council for Ordaining Ministers Organized—Women's M. A. Society Met in the Afternoon

The third day of the Baptist District meetings opened with fine weather which had been the fortune of the two previous days. Rev. C. T. Clark gave the fourth and last of his addresses on the Holy Spirit, which were very helpful.

H. T. Brewer gave his report on the pastorless churches. The work of this committee was to provide services in churches which were without pastors. Automobiles are to be provided by volunteers, and speakers, mostly laymen, will go out on Sundays. Discussion was carried on by Rev. Z. L. Fash, Rev. E. S. Mason and Rev. H. H. Ferguson and the plan of getting the laymen to do more religious work in pastorless churches was encouraged.

The matter of the permanent council for the ordination of candidates for the ministry was brought up and the council was organized by electing the chairman and secretary of the district as chairman and secretary of the Permanent Ordaining Council. Later in the session a report was brought in for the Permanent Council to proceed with the calling of a Council to consider the ordination of David Jones, licentiate.

Rev. C. T. Clark gave the digest of the church letters. There had been during the year 181 additions to the churches of the district by baptism and other additions by letter and experience, making a total addition of 210. The digest showed much progress during the year. The report of the Sunday Schools also was very encouraging.

A conference on Temperance was next conducted by Rev. Z. L. Fash. A number of pertinent questions were asked by him and answered by those present. A good deal of important information concerning the coming plebiscite was in this way brought to the attention of the Baptist people of this county.

Then followed a conference on Stewardship, with three ten minute addresses, 1st, Prayers by H. T. Brewer; 2nd, Life, by Rev. J. A. Glendenning; 3rd, Money, by J. W. Spurden.

The ladies had charge of the afternoon session and the Women's Missionary Aid put on a fine programme. Mrs. James Hunter, County President, presided, and gave a brief address at the opening. There were encouraging reports from various committees and from the individual societies, after which Mrs. C. T. Clark read a paper on Baby Bands. Mrs. H. Coy gave an address on Mission Bands. Mrs. W. C. Kierstead gave a missionary address in which she took the audience in imagination to the Baptist Conference in India and also in Bolivia, South America, where Maritime Baptists are carrying on missionary work in benighted South America. Rev. J. A. Glendenning, who has returned from India, where

FIGHT PITCHED STREET BATTLE

Irish Parties in Two Hours' Battle In Londonderry

Several Persons Wounded in Fighting on the Streets

POLICE FORCE POWERLESS

Quiet Was Finally Restored on Arrival of Soldiers.

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Londonderry, Ireland, June 19.—This city spent another night of terror last night as a result of violent pistol and rifle fighting between Nationalists and Unionists.

There was a two-hour pitched battle at the river side. Comparative quiet was finally restored by the soldiery.

MANY EX-SOLDIERS WITH THE UNIONISTS

Many of the Unionists engaged in the hostilities were ex-soldiers.

The small police force in the city was powerless in the face of the violence of the opposing parties and the military ultimately had to be called out. The efforts of the troops resulted in the restoration of comparatively tranquil conditions by midnight, although firing continued several hours

The reports received by the authorities during the morning showed that several men had been wounded in the fighting.

During the fray armed parties of both factions controlled large areas in various parts of the city. These parties stopped all pedestrians, whom they searched for guns.

Irish Americans in Heated Controversy

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

New York, June 19.—The break between Eamonn De Valera, self-styled "President of the Irish Republic," and Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Cohalan, head of the Friends of Irish Freedom, reached formal status last night at an executive session at the National Council of Friends. No conclusion was reached, but it was said that the bedplates were laid of a final test of strength.

The charges made by John Devoy that De Valera and his present advisers had used at Chicago $50,000 of the money subscribed for Irish loan bonds and intended for use in Ireland only, were counterbalanced yesterday by accusations that Justice Cohalan had attempted to drive De Valera from the United States. These accusations were made in the Monitor, official organ of the Roman Catholic church in New Jersey, by the Rev. W. P. Cantwell, of Newark, its editor, in a leading editorial, captioned "Despicable Treachery in a Holy Cause."

SEAMEN MOVE TO ADMIT AMERICANS

An International Conference to Discuss Matter Shortly—Much Opposition

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Genoa, June 19.—A motion for the admission of Uniter States delegates to the International Seamen's conference despite the fact that the United States has not yet declared its adhesion to the League of Nations, was presented to the conference yesterday by Signor Giglio, delegate of the Italian Seamen. It was decided to discuss the motion within the next two days.

The motion also claimed the admission of representative seamen from every nation without permission or participation of their governments, claiming the discussions were of vital importance to the seamen of the whole world and that they therefore were entitled to participate even if their governments failed to send delegates.

The usual calm of the meeting was abruptly shattered when the motion was presented by Signor Giglio. Baron Des Planches, Chairman of the conference, declared participation by representatives of United States Seamen in the conference would be useless unless the Washington government also was represented, as the seamen alone could not make any pledge on behalf of their government.

After a rather heated discussion on points of procedure the representative of the Dutch shipowners proposed closure, which was unanimously approved.

THREATEN TO CLOSE IRISH RAILWAYS

Government Informs Railwaymen It Will Not Submit to Any Coercion

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

London, June 19.—Mr. Lloyd-George yesterday received a deputation of railwaymen in a conference lasting for nearly three hours.

No statment has been given out from the Premier's official residence at Downing street, but James Henry Thomas, general secretary of the Railwaymen's Union, stated after the conference that the government had declined to discontinue sending troops and munitions to Ireland. But, he said, the government is prepared to do everything to prevent provocation and is ready to meet any body of Irish representative men, including representatives of the Sinn Fein organization. This, declared Mr. Thomas, leaves the question of the strike of the Irish rail men untouched, but the government announced that should the strikers still persist in refusing to carry troops and munitions, the government would close the Irish railways, which would lead to a very serious situation.

According to another version, the Premier told the deputation that refusal by the Irish strikers to handle troop trains would lead to their summary dismissal and that if all other railwaymen struck the government would run the railways with the military.

One delegate pointed out that this would paralyze all Irish industries and lead to civil war.

RELAX RULES FOR WIRELESS ON SHIPS

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

London, June 19—Notification has been given ship owners by the Board of Trade that during continuance of the strike of wireless operators the owners of vessels over 1,600 tons, which normally are required to carry wireless operators, will not be proceeded against for breach of regulations if they send their vessels to sea without operators.

ORDER TROOPS TO SHOOT TO KILL

Authorities at Duluth Fear Further Trouble Over the Race Disorders

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

St. Paul, Minn., June 19.—Fearing another outbreak tonight at Duluth, where three negroes were lynched Tuesday night, officials there appealed to Governor Burnquist last night to send troops to patrol the streets. Fourteen negroes are still in jail and threats have been made against them, it is said.

The Governor immediately ordered F. Battery and a machine gun detachment to proceed to Duluth at once

Warnings that troops and officials will "shoot to kill", should any attempt be made to storm the St. Louis County jail at Duluth tonight, were issued by Sheriff Magie and other officials today.

Zionists Plan for Immigration to Begin in Autumn With 3,000 a Month

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York, June 19.—Details for the government of Palestine have been worked out into a definite programme by the British government and the Zionists, according to a London despatch to the Jewish correspondence bureau here.

"The Zionists," says the message, "Will control immigration and will centralize land purchase by acquiring state lands. All inhabitants will have complete internal cultural and judicial autonomy. The Hedjaz railway and the Litany river will form the Palestine boundaries.

"The Zionists plan to raise a big national loan with a budget of £300,000 for next year. Immigration will begin in the autumn at the rate of 3,000 immigrants a month, this number being gradually increased.

"The Jewish assembly in Palestine will be established as the supreme legislative Jewish body."

PROBE ONTARIO BRIBERY CHARGES

Toronto, June 19—Attorney General Raney has written to Andrew Hicks, U.F.O. member for South Huron, and D. M. EFFECT OF SHORTAGE ON STEEL PRODUCTION

Shortage of Cars Said to Be Responsible for the Present Coal Situation

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York, June 19.—The American Gas Association announced last night that an appeal has been sent to Attorney General Palmer to exercise the authority of his office "to bring about an immediate reduction in the volume of coal now being exported beyond the limits of the United States and its possessions."

The appeal asserted "the alarming conditions which now so generally prevail in the matter of the coal supply are of the gravest concern to the gas industry of the United States."

Affect Steel Production.

Washington, June 19.—A coal shortage next winter may curtail production of iron and steel and seriously affect these industries, is foreseen by the United States Federal Reserve Board in its review last night of business, industrial and financial conditions for the month of May. The situation already is acute in some districts according to the board, and production in many lines is being held down.

Production of coal is being curtailed chiefly as a result of shortage of cars, the reserve board reports.

Persistent Rumors That an Attempt Was Made at Doorn To Assassinate the Kaiser

The Former Emperor Said to Have Been Wounded in the Jaw by His Assailant

WOULD-BE ASSASSIN SAID TO BE A GERMAN

The Private Secretary of the Kaiser Denies That Any Attack Was Made on Master

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Doorn, Holland, June 19.—An attempt against the life of former Emperor William of Germany was made at five o'clock Wednesday afternoon, according to persistent rumors here.

Details of the reported attempt to assassinate the former Emperor are veiled in mystery, but it is now asserted that William escaped without injury.

A villager, at first thought to be a Belgian, but later identified as a German, is said to have entered the castle by the use of a false permit and then tried to kill Count Hohenzollern.

M. Pereboom, private secretary to the former Emperor, assured the Associated Press this morning that no attack had been made on William of Hohenzollern.

Despatches received on Thursday night reported a Belgian, who succeeded in gaining admittance to Doorn Castle, the residence of William of Hohenzollern, had attacked the former Emperor and wounded him in the jaw. Since that time the report has been current that an attack had been made, but no confirmation of it has been received. A Berlin despatch received Friday night stated a newspaper at Baden had learned "from a trustworthy source," that Count Hohenzollern was critically ill, but there was no intimation his condition was the result of an attack upon him.

London, June 19.During his visit to London to discuss the execution of the Turkish treaty and the position of the Greek authorities at Smyrna, Greek Premier M. Venizelos, according to the London Times, is believed to have expressed his readiness to place Greek forces at the disposal of the Allies for execution of the treaty. Venizelos, adds the newspaper, is convinced that if the restrictions imposed by the supreme council upon Greece were removed she could very quickly reduce the Turkish Nationalists to reason.

Damad Ferid Pasha, Turkish Grand Vizier and head of the peace delegation from Turkey, has asked the peace conference for an extension of time in presenting obserations on the treaty, according to announcement yesterday.

Halifax, N. S., June 19.—Thomas Brown, 60, of 54 North Bland street, died last night at the Victoria General Hospital of injuries he received when he was struck by the engine of the incoming Halifax and South Western train at Richmond crossing early in the evening. FACE CHARGE OF ATTEMPTING MURDER TODAY

Alfred Levesque and the Two Collins' Arraigned at Edmundston Today

BELIEVED WOMAN WILL NOW RECOVER

Bullet Penetrated Skull But Did Not Reach Brain, It Is Said

[Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.]

Edmundston, N. B., June 19.—Charged with shooting with intent to kill Mrs. Joseph Gorneau, of St. Hilaire, Alfred Levesque, said to be well known as a boundary rum-runner, and his father-in-law, Pierre Collin, and the latter's son, Pierre Collin, Jr., appear before Magistrate Michaud here today.

The latest word from St. Hilaire is that Mrs. Gorneau is somewhat better and it was believed this morning she would recover. The bullet penetrated her head over the right ear and was located last evening by Dr. P. H. Laporte, of Edmundston, embedded in the skull, but it had not reached the brain.

The shooting, following the big liquor seizure, has caused a sensation here. It is believed in some quarters the shooting resulted from one crowd attempting to secure the liquor which the others had secreted in the woods.

BELGIUM ADHERES TO BRITISH PLAN

Favors the Principle of Lifting the Blockade Upon Southern Russia

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Brussels, June 19.—At a cabinet council here it was decided unanimously that Belgium should favor in principle the lifting of the blockade upon Soviet Russia and that an attempt should be made to resume economic relations, with reservations, however, concerning Belgian rights in Russia.

King Albert presided over the session.

News of the decision caused great surprise. Foreign Minister Hymans but a few hours before having officially denied that Belgium would take part in the conversations being held in London with Gregory Krassin, Bolshevik Minister of Trade and Commerce.

It is understood the socialist ministers insisted that Belgium abandon the French point of view on the subject in favor of the British.

Carleton Co. Council Opposed To Issue of Bonds For Roads Not of a Permanent Nature

Recommendation That a Substantial Increase Be Made in the Tax for Road Purposes and That All Work Done Conform to Standard Required by Engineer

[Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.]

Woodstock, June 19.—The semi-annual meeting of the municipality of Carleton was held on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. Warden Melville presided and all the councillors were present but Coun. Watson, of Richmond, who is confined to his home with illness. It was agreed to pay the Fisher Memorial Hospital the sum of $1,500 to pay for a supervisor of nurses, in addition to the grant of $2,000 a year. There was a resolution of condolence passed upon the death of Alex. Bell, a former councillor for Richmond, a resolution calling upon the local government to furnish guide boards at the cross-roads in Carleton county, and the following two important resolutions dealing with Maritime Union and the improvement of the roads by a higher rate of taxation on the citizens:

On motion of Coun. Flemming, seconded by Coun. Phillips, the following resolution was carried unanimously:

"Being mindful of the important position the Maritime Provinces have occupied in Canada's history, both before and since Confederation, and believing that the Maritimes are capable of infinitely greater development in industrial activities as well as expansion and increased production through improved agricultural methods, and believing also that the time is opportune for a concentration of forces, we unhesitatingly affirm that a legislative union of the provinces of N. B., N. S. and P.E.I. should be consummated, and we recommend that a conference of representatives of the three provinces be called at an early date to arrange a basis of union, for in our opinion such a union would be conducive to more efficient, economical and progressive legislation than is now obtained through the autonomy of the three separate provinces."

New Brunswick Road Policy.

On motion of Coun. Flemming, seconded by Coun. Morgan, the following resolution was unanimously carried:

"Realizing that good roads are an important asset in the development of a country and are of particular value to outlying districts, we express our appreciation of the efforts that are being made in the province for the improvement of our highways at a time when operating expenses and cost of materials are unprecedently high; but we desire to place ourselves on record as being opposed to the issuing of bonds by the provincial government for the purpose of constructing or repairing roads that are not of a permanent nature; and we hereby recommend that a substantial increase be made in the tax for road purposes, provided all road expenditures, whether made by road supervisors or others, be in accordance with plans and specifications furnished by a competent road engineer and we further recommend that no person be allowed to construct or repair highways or expend money for the repairing or construction of highways unless the work will conform to the standard required by the provincial engineer or other competent engineer.

Woodstock Golfers.

George E. Balmain, secretary of the Woodstock Golf Club, has received notice of the meeting of the Maritime Golf Association matches which will be held on the Riverside links at Rothesay on July 27th to 30th. Gordon Sharpe, of Pembroke, secretary of the United Farmers of New Brunswick, to Annie Augusta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Sharp, of Grafton, which will take place on Wednesday, June 23rd.

At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. McGibbon, on Tuesday, June 15, by Rev. Frank Baird, Lorne T. Joudry, of Campbellton, was united in marriage to Mrs. Carrie Gertrude West, of Grand Falls. They left for their future home in Campbellton on Thursday.

On the train leaving St. John for Woodstock on Tuesday evening, just before the roof of the Union depot car sheds collapsed, were Miss Ruth Flemming, H. G. Noble and Samuel Coulthard, of Woodstock, and they have been since congratulating their lucky stars that their train got away at the time it did.

Mrs. A. M. Fisher, who has been visiting Mrs. George Lutz in Moncton, returned home on Wednesday.

Presented with Wrist Watch.

A very pleasant event took place on Thursday evening at the residence of Mrs. T. W. Baker, when Mrs. Frank Baird, who is shortly to leave town, was presented with a wrist watch by the ladies of St. Paul's Presbyterian church. Mrs. Baird made a feeling reply.

Two priests of the Dominican Order of New York, Rev. Fathers Higgins and Healey, commenced on Sunday morning a mission in St. Gertrude's Catholic church, of which Rev. F. M. Lockary is pastor, and it is being continued all week. These priests have been almost continually on mission work for 17 years, are fluent speakers and have always done wonderful work.

The rebuilt Baptist church at Meductic was dedicated last Sunday. Many attended from Woodstock. Rev. L. E. Ackland, of Woodstock, was one of the principal speakers.

At the executive meeting of the N. B. Branch of the King's Daughters, Mrs. W. D. Rankin was appointed a member of the board of directors for the aged people's home in Fredericton.

Held Memorial Service.

Hartland Branch, G. W. V. A. will have their annual memorial service on next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The service will be in the United Baptist church at Hartland. Rev. E. Bertram Hooper, the war chaplain of the Fighting 26th Battalion, has consented to conduct the service on that day.

Miss Alice Karnes, who has been absent in New York and Washington for some years, is visiting her father, William Karnes.

The town has decided to spend $30,000 on permanent sidewalks this summer and have them ready before the fall exhibition. Town Manager R. F. Armstrong commenced work on the sidewalks this week. The east side of Main street and the corner of Main and King streets will be completed first.

Stanley McBride, of Lindsay, who has been ill several weeks at the Fisher Memorial Hospital with typhoid fever, was able to return to his home this week.

SINN FEIN CONTROL OF LAND MOVEMENT

Machinery Set Up for Secret Arbitrament of the Claims Throughout Ireland

Dublin, June 18.—In several of the western counties of Ireland, disturbances are now more agrarian than political. Sinn Fein seeks to control the land movement and prevent it getting out of hand. It has been decided that nobody shall be attacked or his cattle driven to make him sell part of his land unless he possesses more than 500 acres. This is a very exceptional amount for any tenant to hold so that the agitation in future will be directed solely against landlords and ranchers.

Proclamations have been issued in the disturbed counties in the names of their Parliamentary representatives forbidding claimants to land to act in the name of the republic. They point out that many of the claims which have been made are without foundation, and only serve to create ill feeling between those who ought to be friends and comrades, which is another way of saying that even good Sinn Feiners are being squeezed.

Machinery is set up for the arbitrament of claims, which in future are to be sent to the registrars of district courts set up under the authority of the Dail Eireann. Courts on these lines, though without the formal authority of the Dail Eireann, have for some time been functioning in Galway and other counties. There decisions have not infrequently been in favor of the owner of the land against the claimants.

In some cases such decisions were defied. Thereupon the recalcitrant parties were promptly placed under arrest and conveyed by Sinn Feiners to unknown destinations. Such arrests by Sinn Feiners, in pursuance of a policy of endeavoring to maintain public order in property and social matters, are not uncommon. Nobody knows where the prisoners are or what happens to them, but the arrests tend to strengthen popular dependence on Sinn Fein power.

The application of martial law which is so often talked of, is a simple matter. Under the Defence of the Realm Act, still in force, it can be applied to any extent anywhere in Ireland. Its general application to the whole country in all its completeness is, I believe, not contemplated. But nearly all districts have had it partially applied in some form, and some districts have had it fully applied. At the moment it is only in partial application anywhere.

In Dublin it is manifested principally in the curfew law which has had but little effect on the life of the city. But its drastic application in certain districts is a possibility of the immediate future. When applied a couple of years ago in Clare it reduced the whole area to an apparent quiet, and disturbance only became possible after its removal. All activity was dependent on the permission of the military commander, and the whole business of buying and selling at fairs and markets was controlled, and in some cases entirely stopped. Any fresh application of martial law is likely to be of this kind, and to be confined to particular areas.

FLAG WAS SIGNAL TO WIFE'S LOVER

Husband Finally Learned Portland Woman's Code to Her Lover

Portland, Me., June 18—An American flag removed from a window was the signal of a Portland woman that her husband was away and that Eugene F. Bean, now of Boston, would be welcome. Such was a feature of the testimony of his wife, Mrs. Minola Bean, in the divorce hearing before Judge Sanborn today in which she charges infidelity. A flag was displayed in each of two front windows of the home where his wife says he was a welcome visitor when the other woman was alone.

The suspicious husband, she said, noted the circumstances, formed himself into the sole committee on reception one day, greeted Mr. Bean at the door and the latter's visit was brief on that occasion. Bean was employed a time last year by the American Railway Express Company and was convicted of larceny of packages, serving a jail term.

STEELE ATTACKS THE NEWSPAPERS

Heated Discussion Over Post Office Act in the House This Morning

[Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.]

Ottawa, June 19.—It was a strange melange of bitterness, narrowness and picayune politics which Dr. Steele, member for South Perth, served up to the members of the House of Commons in the small hours of this morning, when he undertook to seek revenge on the press gallery for opposing the increased indemnity scheme and criticizing the parliamentary restaurant under present management by urging that the postal rates for the carrying of newspapers should be heavily increased.

Some cleverer members of the House might have accomplished the end Dr. Steele sought in a more adroit manner, but his purpose was so apparent that it failed to impress the government or the members and even drew protests from members of each of the three parties in the House.

Dr. Steele began his speech by a bitter attack on the city daily newspapers on numerous counts, and he coupled it with the most profuse adulation of country weeklies and small town dailies. There is no city daily in his constituency. Having finished his attack on the city dailies for opposing the increased indemnity, he went on without a break to point out the punishment for the crime. He pleaded earnestly for an increase in rates even beyond the limits proposed by the Post Office Department, and even after the Minister in charge of the bill had announced the government's intention of making the increase of 300 per cent. in the present rates Dr. Steele returned to the fray and urged that this should be reconsidered and a higher rate imposed.

The personal pique in Dr. Steele's attitude was so apparent that it aroused the antagonism of those who heard it and brought Mr. Rimfret from the opposition and Mr. Reid from the Farmers' party to their feet in opposition to his proposals. Members of the Farmers' party characterized it this morning as a lamentable performance.

It was two-thirty this morning before the clause in the bill amending the post office act relating to the curtailment of the franking privilege was reached, and the House was half asleep, but the suggestion that the revenue of the postal department should be increased by curtailing franking aroused the House. So strenuous was the opposition from all quarters that Mr. Martin Burrell, who was steering the bill through the House, took cover, protested that it was not in his bill and surrendered at discretion after the House had agreed to a sort of vicarious sacrifice by cutting off the franking privilege of provincial legislatures.

DOMED BUILDING AS WAR MEMORIAL

Memorial Building to be Erected at Ottawa for Collection of Paintings

Ottawa, June 18.—Canada's war memorial at Ottawa will take the form of a domed building, symmetrical in its construction, so as to present the same aspect from all four points of the compass, if the design prepared by Mr. E. A. Rickards, architect of the Central Hall, Westminster, is accepted.

The Canadian war memorial committee, which was formed in 1917, had this plan prepared for a building to house adequately the great collection of paintings collected or made under its guidance and forwarded it, with its annual report, to Ottawa as a part of the gift being made to Canada. This domed building, in the architect's conception, is to be surrounded by a garden with terraces and water to relieve the severe simplicity of the building itself.

Inside there will be great scope for pictorial decoration in a series of halls, so arranged in their vistas and communications as to open one into another. A great symbolical picture, forty feet long and twelve feet high, conceived by Augustus John, is to close the vista, facing the entrance, and around the central hall will be arranged pictures showing the principal events connected with Canada's part in the Great War.

Crooks might look better dressed in strait-jackets.

TURKISH WOMEN COMING INTO OWN

No Longer the Veiled Creatures Who Passed Their Time in Seclusion

Constantinople, June 18. — Turkish women are no longer the shy veiled creatures who passed their time in the seclusion of the harem and were never seen by foreign men. They still cling to the veil. But the streets in Constantinople and other larger Turkish cities are filled with women who have their veils thrown back from their faces. They are highly ornamental and becoming. Most Turkish women don't want to abandon them in favor of hats. But there are many sorts of veils and the smart, black silk veils which some of the women wear are very fetching when draped artistically over their hair.

In the railway and street cars there are special seats for women, but the flimsy curtains which are supposed to screen them from the gaze of men are usually drawn back and it is not uncommon to see men standing in the compartments for women. Only very old men, however, are rash enough to sit down in the same seat with a Turkish woman. Turkish women seldom go to a theatre where there are men. Special matinees and evening performances are arranged for women only.

The war has done much to break down the barrier between Turkish men and women. The women were needed so badly as nurses and relief workers that the government had to avail itself of their services. And now it is regarded as quite proper for men and women to be associated in all sorts of charitable and educational works. Consequently many women who were formerly forced to content themselves with seclusion in a home where fancy work and French novels were the only diversions are devoting their time to hospitals, orphanages and other philanthropic institutions.

Women who have been educated abroad or in the foreign schools in Turkey are the leaders in this movement for greater freedom for their sex. Their broad experience in war work has interested many women in politics and they have openly played a great part in the nationalist movement. In the Constantinople American Woman's College the Turkisn girls take great interest in basketball and other athletic games and the effect upon women who have come under foreign influence is making the old life of seclusion and inactivity unattractive to younger Turkish women.

COUGHLIN RANSOM PAID, BUT NO BABY

Parents of Child Turn to Police for Aid—Twelve Thousand Dollars Wasted

Norristown, Penn., June 18.—Revenge, not ransom, probably was the motive for the kidnaping of Blakeley Coughlin, the 14-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Coughlin, who was stolen from his crib two weeks ago, according to a statement tonight by Maj. C. T. Larzelere, attorney for the family.

Mr. Coughlin announced tonight that he had been defrauded out of $12,000 by the writer of the letters signed "The Crank" and asked the police to help him recover the money. He told the authorities he felt so confident the writer was the abductor of his child that on Monday night he placed the money at a spot designated in one of the letters. "The Crank" assured him, he said, the baby would be restored within 24 hours. When the child was not returned last night, Coughlin became suspicious and upon investigation today found the money had disappeared.

Developments today, Maj. Larzelere said, have led the parents of the missing child to abandon their efforts to buy their baby's freedom and turn again to the police for aid.

Charles Eller, chief of the Norristown police, after a conference at the Coughlin home late today, said the police now have a definite clew and that results are expected within 24 hours.

The letters signed "The Crank" and demanding $12,000 ransom, which Mr. Coughlin for a time believed to be from the kidnapers, were turned over to the postal authorities today.

A MATTER OF REGULATION

The Moral Issue of Temperance vs. Intemperance, Drunkenness vs. Sobriety is not at Stake in the coming Referendum.

In the first place Prohibition in itself is Intemperance, "Be Temperate in All Things," writes the Apostle.

In the second place, the Prohibitory Act as we have had it in New Brunswick has bred crime rather than suppressed it, created lawlessness and brought misery and poverty to many homes.

Private liquor interests are not interested in the present campaign; they have no come-back whatever happens.

The sale of Wine and Beer under Government control; the distribution of the stronger liquors through Government agencies with the Government taking the profit for use in meeting the heavy provincial expenditures.

This is the programme forecasted in the official announcement of Premier Foster. Read it in another column.

Let us have a change in the system.

(ADVERTISEMENT.)

NO RETURN TO THE OPEN BAR

Defeat of Present Prohibition Act Means New System of Government Control

"Whatever may be the result with respect to either of the questions submitted, there shall be no return to the old system of the open bar."—Premier Foster.

"What does this mean? It means that the voters on July 10 will have an opportunity to replace the present most unsatisfactory prohibition Act with a System of Government Regulation which will do away with Bootlegging, the drinking of lemon extract and the building up of private fortunes at the expense of people ill able to afford it.

"Premier Foster further said in his official announcement:

"Should the first question be answered in the negative and a vote recorded for the repeal of the Act, it will devolve upon the Government to substitute some system to give expression to the will of the people in this regard, by making the necessary and proper regulations for the sale through Government agencies, of liquors of all kinds for consumption in the homes of the people who desire its use in this way."

Note the words "Government Agencies."—adv.

Allied Conference Has Most Serious Matters to Consider At the Forthcoming Meeting

The Situation in Turkey Now Amounts to Almost the Outbreak of a New War, With the Allied Forces Too Small to Cope With Antagonists

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

London, June 19.—A conference between Premier Lloyd-George and Premier Millerand of France has been arranged for this afternoon and Sunday at Hythe, the watering place in Kent, which was the scene of the notable conference between the two Prime Ministers in May over the German indemnity terms.

The Hythe meeting is preliminary to the conference at Boulogne on Monday, at which not only France and Great Britain, but Italy, Japan, Belgium and Greece will be represented. From Hythe the Premiers will proceed early on Monday for Boulogne.

Newspapers of London, calling attention to the serious issues affecting the relations of the Allies with Russia, Turkey, Germany, Hungary and Poland, remark the state of the world is more perilous than it was two years ago, and call for "clear decisions based on singleness of purpose and free from individual self-seeking."

The menace of the Turkish Nationalists in Anatolia exceeds for the moment, in the view of editors here, other dangers, the situation amounting, according to seeral estimates, to the outbreak of a new war.

Mustapha Kemal Pasha, leader of the Nationalists, is said to completely control Anatolia, with the exception of a small area held by the British in the neighborhood of Ismid and some territory around Smyrna controlled by Greece. His forces comprise 37,000 fighting men, who are well supplied with munitions and have abundant available reinforcements. What remains of the Turkish Government is declared to be helples, and its troops, which are reported to be utterly untrustworthy, have been recalled from the Ismid Peninsula.

Additional anxiety over the situation has been caused by the belief that Mustapha Kemal is acting in accordance with the Russian Bolshevik Government, although there have not been as yet any reports of cooperation.

$100,000 Loss Incurred in Fire at Le Francois Lumber Yards at Quebec

WILSON IDEALS IMPRACTICABLE

With the United States Hanging Back the International Police Force Too Small

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

London, June 19.—The official report of the interview which Mr. Lloyd-George had on Wednesday with delegates of the "League to Abolish War" shows the deputation received cold comfort. The Premier, assisted by Arthur J. Balfour, president of the council, and Earl Curzon, secretary for foreign affairs, subjected the deputation, individually and collectively to a severe questioning. He endeavored to learn from them down to the smallest detail what they desired done, with a view to showing its impossibility.

Mr. Lloyd-George's argument was that the great powers, except the United States, already had too many entanglements to be able to supply forces to the League to create an international police force large enough to coerce, for instance, Russia or Poland.

He admitted the ideas of Viscount Grey and President Wilson for an international force were possible ideals, but said they were impracticable at the present time. They might, he added, become more practicable if the United States later decided to enter, but it is idle to go into discussion with the United States now.

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Paris, June 19.—The council of Ambassadors today went on record in favor of putting the treaty of St. Germain (the peace treaty with Austria) into effect as soon as possible. This is held to be necessary because the uncertainty of the present situation is working hardships upon those affected, it was explained.

The council approved a note to be sent to Germany protesting against her making commercial discriminations in dealing with other nations.

NEARING END PEEL TRIAL AT AMHERST

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Amherst, N. S., June 19.—The famous Peel trial is now drawing to a close. Today the evidence for the defence is being finished up. In yesterday's session His Worship instructed the jury to return a verdict of "not guilty" on the count of "arson." It is too soon yet to predict the result of the other two charges of manslaughter and negligence. The case may possibly be finished up at this afternoon's session of the court.

The Pensions Committee of House Recommend Greatly Increased Soldiers' Pensions

Pensions Recommended Estimated to Amount to $10,000,000 a Year—A Special Bonus to Men Suffering From Disability to Meet High Cost of Living

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Ottawa, June 19.—After considering for a period of two months the question of pensions and other problems of soldiers' civil reestablishment, the report of the pensions committee was tabled in the House last night by Hume Cronyn, M. P. for London, chairman of the committee. It is a somewhat oluminous document, but goes into different points of the matter in detail. The betterments which are proposed on the existing system are calculated to involve an increase of 10 millions per year, if including vocational pay and treatment, or eight millions apart from these features.

While the committee adheres to the principle laid down at the start of granting no bonuses or gratuities to returned men who have suffered no disability, those who are now receiving pensions are granted a special bonus designed to meet the high cost of living. This bonus of fifty per cent., not of the pension they are receiving, but fifty per cent. of the standard rate of 1918, which is adopted as a basis, applies only to residents of Canada. Those receiving pensions and residing outside Canada will receive as heretofore a twenty per cent. bonus.

The bonus is granted for the period of twelve months, but the understanding is that it will be renewable until such time as conditions return to normal, if ever. The committe also recommends that dependents of the war dead shall be entitled to that share of the war service gratuity they would have received had the soldier survived. Each dependent will be paid the same gratuity figured on a basis of three years' service. There are numerous features to the report by way of changes, the totally disabled man, for example, is increased to one hundred dollars a month, while his wife is added as a recipient and the children get an increased pension.

A special allowance for the helpless is provided and in that connection the total paralytic is treated as the worst case, and secures the largest amount. A notable change is that in respect of widowed mothers. Heretofore if she owned her own home or had a little income the amount was deducted from her pension. Now there will be no reduction in the income unless it is over twenty dollars per month. For example, if her private income equals twenty five dollars per month, five dollars will be deducted from her pension. Where a deceased soldier left two dependents, as for example a father and mother one will receive the full pension and the other fifteen dollars a month, if he left a widow, she will retain the full pension and the parents will receive fifteen dollars a month each.

The committee has turned down flatly repeated suggestions for sums of general loans to aid in re-establishment in lines outside of land settlement, as throwing the door open to endless applications. Another departure is the establishment of a system of state insurance, for which any returned soldier, sailor or nurse is eligible. The amount for which they can secure insurance is from five hundred to five thousand dollars and the scale is said to be below the lowest of any non-participating policy of the regular companies. No medical examination is necessary. The insurance would not be paid in a lump sum, but one fifth on death and remainder according to various options. If, however, on the death of an insured person the pensions board decided that death was the result of service, the insurance will not be paid, but the premiums, with interest at four per cent. will be returned and the beneficiaries of the policy will then be entitled to the same pension as if the deceased had died on service. If death is the result of accident or natural causes, the insurance will not be effected.

While the report is signed by all the committee, it is expected that some members will bring up in the House the question of granting loans to fishermen and others.

WHERE THE BLAME WILL REST.

The Iron Age, of New York, the great authority on the steel industry in America, notes a shading in price in favor of the purchaser in some large transactions in the Pittsburg district, and also that activity in the automobile industry is being curtailed. The former may be due to changing trade conditions; behind the latter there is, at least in part, the strike. Railway transport is still hindered by the going out of some of the workers in April, and difficulty in obtaining coal and coke cripples the foundries. The automobile industry is suffering. At Detroit men have been laid off, and are reported to be seeking work in the steel plants in the Chicago district. Some of the unemployment at the great centre of auto production may be due to a more or less enforced practice of economy, as it is said there is a falling off in demand for cars of higher standard and price. In agreement with this is the statement of the Iron Age that there are indications that in certain central western districts some of the unemployment recently reported is due to a slowing of business apart from that caused by the railroad strike. This, as a contemporary says, may be the beginning of the reduction in trade activity, which has prevailed since the end of the war, and which many have anticipated; or it may be but a temporary check, which the reaping of a good harvest will end. The hope has been that the return to a more reasonable cost of necessities would come gradually and without the accompaniment of serious unemployment or industrial disturbance. If the hope is not realized, some of the blame will rest on the strike makers, whose efforts, producing local or sectional restriction of trade and transportation, affect interests widely spread throughout the country, and none more than those of other workers.

SIX-HOUR DAYS.

The declaration of the American Federation of Labor in favor of a six-hour working day follows almost automatically on the recent almost general establishment of the day of eight hours' work. This replaced the ten-hour day of a generation ago. The new proposal follows the precedent of lopping two off the established working hours and asking the old pay for the diminished service. What will the Federation do when it shall have obtained the two-hour day with full pay? A firm demand for the no-hour day at the old wages will constitute the only strictly logical course.

It may be true in connection with the merits of the new demand that the workers can produce in six hours' daily attendance upon our machinery of production, or even in much less than six, all that the country needs to maintain a decent minimum standard of living: true on condition that this machinery goes on doing its work. The machinery represents the unspent earnings of billions of yesterdays, retained in public service in order to reduce the current task of production. If the performers of present labor cut down the ratio of toil to pay for themselves, they compel the bosses to cut down the ratio of pay to service rendered, due on capital, that is on the improvements effected with past labor.

Supplied to the community on trust, these improvements, these labor-saving installations, will go on working only as long as they have hope of collecting a moderate yearly percentage of return. The recent history of the United States railroads shows what comes of an effort to despoil capital in a single field. By doing only three-fourths of the present work per man in all fields, yet requiring just as much of the product, the Federation would appropriate from that part of the product which now goes to capital. Labor in that case would commit the folly of drinking its own blood in order to avoid the exertions of its muscles.

IN THE "NEW WORLD."

One of the most interesting features of the new civilization which our "new world" is enjoying is the influence of women now present in large numbers in many public avenues of life (as they avow it) upon a footing of complete equality with men. The detailed results of this sudden increase in the number of separate individuals in public places are too many and perplexing for brief comment.

It may be worth while, however, to note an unusual incident of a recent poker game in one of the larger cities, where only ladies were present. The fact that they were playing poker —"just like men"—is made interesting by the curiously different reaction of the ladies to be ruled by impulses and to disregard possible unforeseen consequences of arbitrary action by one member of a group behaving as if her individuality bore no duty to the group. Biologists and students of history have long recognized that no lapse in human conduct is so surely and swiftly punished as is a disregard of the interests or of the implicit social importance of the group.

The ladies who played poker at the gathering referred to were probably no greater students of race-ways than many other ladies now faring free and frisky through the new world. But, although poker is of course a game in which infinite variety can be looked for certain traditions of playing it have become so crystallized that suddenly to shatter one of them, as the lady did when she left the table and went to her hostess' boudoir "to powder her nose," proved an unfortunate bit of individualism. The loss of a piece of jewelry and the resulting embarrassment to the lady who lacked such tenacity to a seat at the poker table as men usually consider an unwritten rule of the game, while it lasts, has pointed an unusually sharp moral for all the ladies present on that occasion.

The well known fact that ladies are particularly prejudiced against all "rules," written or unwritten, which traverse their own personal convenience does not, as yet, protect them against the natural consequences of breaking natural rules at will. Doubtless the ladies will be able to correct all this after they shall have had a little longer time in which to recast the world's hitherto accepted code.

BUSINESS PROFITS TAX.

The amendment to the Business Profits Tax Act, which has received approval of the Commons, does more than mitigate the levy. As the Montreal Gazette says, this class of taxation has invariably been applied with apologies in Great Britain, in the United States, in Canada, and has had few defenders, for the very obvious reason that it discourages the employment of capital in industry and trade, and if pushed far would defeat its purpose. In business of whatever kind there must be reserves of profits against the sure contingency of hard times, and in order to permit of development in periods of prosperity; and if Government steps in to take all earnings in good years above a reasonable return to investors, the latter will naturally seek other employment for their capital. And for this reason, our contemporary continues, the Finance Minister has reduced the rate of taxation on business profits to an appreciable extent, and holds out the hope, as did Sir Thomas White, that ere very long he will be able to remove altogether this discouragement of business enterprise.

The amendment made this year by the Finance Minister is aimed at mergers, and reads as follows:

"In the case of two or more incorporated companies merged or consolidated at any time after the first day of January, nineteen hundred and sixteen, for the purposes of this Act the capital employed in the business of the company into which such other company or companies are merged or consolidated, or of the company created on such merger or consolidation, shall not exceed the capital of the companies so merged or consolidated as the same existed before such merger or consolidation together with any additional capital that may have been invested in such business in cash at the time of such merger or consolidation or thereafter."

The effect of this clause is to prevent evasion of the business profits tax by mergers which make increase of capital stock without producing new capital investment. It is a very proper and always timely provision in a period in which the inflation of nominal capital has wide currency. Hereafter should two or more companies combine, their capital for taxation purposes will be taken as the sum of their separate capital before the merger, plus only such new cash as may have been put into the business. Watered stock or bonus stock will be disregarded when the tax levy is made, the calculation of profits being upon the real investment previous to the amalgamation.

RESTRICTIONS ON PRICE OF SUGAR

Board Sets a Five Per Cent. Spread Between Refinery and Retail Prices

Ottawa, June 18—The handling of granulated sugar by any other middleman than the wholesaler or retailer is declared unlawful in Canada by an order of the Board of Commerce issued today, a spread of five per cent. between refiners' and retailers' prices is ordered as the maximum, refiners are forbidden to increase their prices without the consent of the Board, and the resale of raw sugar by refiners except to other refiners is forbidden. Refiners are restrained from increasing prices on their stocks to conform to increases in market prices.

Two cents per pound over refiners' prices at Montreal, Chatham or Vancouver, central points for the three districts of the Dominion, is declared to be the maximum profit. With the refiners' price now standing at 21 cents or under, a retail price of more than 23 cents per pound is declared to be an unfair profit-taking on general sales, and in cases where the sale of one-pound lots may involve a loss to the dealer a special price of 23 1-4 cents per pound may be charged, or the dealer may refuse to sell less than four pounds at a time and may charge not more than 93 cents for the four pounds, or may require the purchase of two pounds, charging 47 cents therefore. In special cases where a spread on refiners' prices may necessitate higher prices, a maximum price of 95 cents for four pounds is fixed. Wholesalers are restrained from charging a percentage higher than refiners' prices which will prevent retailers from selling at the prescribed 5 per cent. profit.

All these prices refer to granulated sugar, icing sugar, lump sugar or sugar in cartons is excepted.

Drastic regulations are made for the handling of raw sugar. The Canadian refineries are forbidden to sell raw sugars acquired up to September 30th next except to another refinery or with special permit from the Board of Commerce.

Refiners are also restrained from increasing their price on granulated sugar without the consent of the Board, which means that until such consent is obtained the retail price to the consumer stands at 23 cents a pound.

The order is made a regulation under section 26 of the Board of Commerce Act and persons indicted under this regulation will be prosecuted by the Attorney-General of the Province in which the offence is committed.

The First Function of Insurance Selling
As we figure it, so many policies sold to so many persons each month, is not all there is to the insurance business. If these policies are not right, are not sold on the right basis, at right rates, we will be the losers.

Taking Precautions

He was lunching in a downtown restaurant after the noonday rush was over, and being the only diner thought that he would have quick service.

A half hour elapsed and still no sign of food. He watched the clock and when the hands pointed to three o'clock he could stand it no longer.

"Waiter," he called, "what time does this place close?"

"We are open until midnight,' 'the waiter replied.

In a voice of much concern the diner then asked:

"Will you be careful not to lock me in?"

Quite Well, Thank You.

A young Scottish recruit was put on guard outside the general's tent.

"Mrs. Ayres has great gifts of imagination, hasn't she?"

"I don't know. Why do you think so?"

"I heard her speaking of the flat they live in as 'our town house.'"

Precisely the Reason.

FROM THE PEOPLE

THE OUTLOOK GLOOMY

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—The question has been asked, "Why, if there are not more people in Fredericton now than ten years ago, should rents be so much higher?" There are many reasons, it seems to me.

Where a man or woman occupied two or three rooms ten years ago, today each man and woman wants exclusive use of two and three rooms and a bath. Thus nearly three times as much space is used up for one person as was used up ten years ago, and naturally the cost is three times greater for the one man or woman; or for that matter, for the family. Besides, it seems that the best investment today is bathrooms.

The demand for accommodation is therefore greater than ever; people have learned not to value money, but instead to make a show. The scarcity gave the landlord an opportunity to feel that there has been an increase in the market value of his property, and he has not been slow to take advantage of the opportunity.

We have killed the goose that laid our golden eggs, the profiteering landlords being among the offenders. People never learn without sad experience.

Yours,

ONE OF THE OLD SCHOOL.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Being a constant reader of your People's Column and agreeing with some of the views expressed and disagreeing with others, I am asking for a short space in which to give my views on the system of "cramming" which prevails in the schools today.

I am the mother of two boys, one thirteen and the other eight, and every night for about two hours these children sit studying, trying to make their brain absorb something which is too much for them. It is only reasonable to expect that this imposition of studies, which in some instances do not seem to be of any benefit just now or have the look of being of any benefit in the future, must be a strain on the brain of the growing children, and in a few years, if not in the immediate future, their health will be impaired.

About thirty years ago, when some of the best scholars of the present day were pupils at school, there was none of the useless "cramming" that is in existence today. Did they lose anything by not being made to make their brains absorb something that was too deep for them at that tender age? I do not think so.

Not only the children are made to feel the effects of this nerve wrack of "cramming," but the parents who have to assist them with the home lessons. Is it not time that some of these useless subjects were cut out of the school curriculum and children given lessons according to their ability to absorb them.

Yours,

A PARENT.

MAN'S SOMBRE APPAREL

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—In regard to your correspondent's question in your People's column, "Why should the spirit of man shroud itself in the same standardized garb?" I should like to state my point of view. Your correspondent evidently has artistic taste, but it certainly may not be applied to the garb of a male.

From the beginning of time to the end of time there always existed and will exist a love of variety, color and beauty for the female sex. Nature has equally bestowed upon both sexes many variating qualities. To the man she has given as the chief of these qualities strength and love of its proofs, such as prize fights, but to man she has never given (to quote the words of your correspondent) love for "something colorful or imaginative" about his garments. In a similar manner, Nature has endowed woman with beauty and appreciation of the things which emphasize this beauty. Therefore, femininity flutters about in the variegated hue of the butterfly. Your correspondent, if he so desires, may be the first to change the rule of standardized apparel by merely appearing in the street decked in the costume which gratifies his taste. He would see the result.

Yours,

MY VIEW.

Woodstock, June 16, 1920.

CASE OF REV. DR. SPEER

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—A man who casts aspersions on the Government should weigh his words well and be ready to stand by the consequences of their interpretation. What a sad thing it was to hear the Rev. Dr. Speer trying in his panic to wriggle out from under the avalanche caused by his "half dozen sentences," uttered at a church meeting in Toronto. Torn between the fear of the Governmental rod and the lash of the press, regardless of the dignity of his own party, he is willing to swallow the whole affair, hook, line and sinker. What flashed through the mind of Sir Robert Borden and roused his righteous ire could be the only interpretation of such scandalous statements. The poor gambler learns to play the game even when losing, and the Rev. Dr. could do with a lesson along the same lines. The affair would be delightfully amusing if it did not throw such a light on the inner workings of such people whose object in life is to legislate for everything in Canada except freedom.

Yours,

MODERATION.

QUEBEC POLITICAL CHANGES IMPEND

Local Rumor Says Hon. L. A. Taschereau Will Succeed Gouin

Montreal, June 18.—Rumors of impending political changes in the provincial cabinet were current in court and political circles yesterday. The gist of the gossip was that now it is practically certain that Sir Lomer Gouin will resign forthwith—some said he had already done so but that the resignation would be kept secret until the end of the fiscal year, on June 30 instant—a mild upheaval will follow.

The Hon. H. Mercier, Minister of Lands, would abandon his post to succeed Judge Choquet as judge of the court of the Sessions of the Peace, extradition commissioner and license commissioner. Judge Choquet, the story went, would retire on pension but would be offered to remain as president of the Juvenile Court, if he so desired.

The Hon. J. A. Tessier, Minister of Roads, and M. L. A. for Three Rivers, would also resign on account of illness. He would then be appointed to a seat in the Legislative Council, which is still vacant since the appointment of the Hon. Jules Allard as prothonotary for the district of Montreal.

The Hon. Napoleon Seguin, minister without portfolio, would also resign and become governor of the Bordeaux jail to succeed the present incumbent; Capt. Landriault, who would become chief inspector for the forestry department of the province.

Adrien Beaudry, M. L. A. for Vercheres county, would replace the Hon. J. A. Tessier, as Minister of Roads, and the place left vacant by the Hon. J. A. Tessier would be filled by a former M. L. A., now holding an important position in the civil service.

As to Hon. Nap. Seguin's successor, the name of the Hon. J. L. Perron, M. L. C., is most prominently mentioned, but owing to the extensive legal practice this gentleman enjoys, it was wondered if he would accept the post, although that of a minister without portfolio would not in any way disturb him in the practice of his profession.

It is considered that in the event of Sir Lomer Gouin's retirement the Hon. L. A. Taschereau, Attorney General, and Sir Lomer's oldest colleague in the cabinet, will succeed him, at least temporarily.

TORONTO SURVEY PRINTING INDUSTRY

Figures Covering Operations of Two Hundred Establishments in That City

Toronto, June 18.—The results of a survey of the printing industry of Toronto, which has been conducted by representatives of the United Typothetae of America, were made known at a dinner of the Master Printers' Association here last night. The figures covered the operations of two hundred printing plants, the total profits of which were shown to have been $2,111,491 for the year, with a loss in profits aggregating $1,304,594 through faulty methods of operation.

Of the 200 firms, 167 were reported to have operated their business without the standard cost system. These showed a profit of 3.07 per cent. The other 33 firms had the standard system installed and their profit was 15.02 per cent.

The mechanical pay roll of the 200 firms which were surveyed showed a total of $3,125,364, the overhead expense was $3,110,318. The purchased material cost $3,628,672. The total product sold at $10,975,845.

The survey howed that the average salary of a master printer doing a business of ten thousand dollars a year or less was $1,413. The average salary of a proprietor of a print shop doing a business of $200,000 is $9,365.

HART FACES SECOND ENGAGEMENT SUIT

Nashua, N. H., June 18.—Mrs. Emma Chase, of Antrim, today brought suit for $30,000 for alleged breach of promise against John D. Hart, of Derry. She alleges that she was engaged to marry Hart, at that time being in Derry, when he was sued by Mrs. Phoebe Ballew, of Derry, for breach of promise. Mrs. Chase alleges Hart induced her to return to her home in Antrim, promising her that when he got the Ballew breach of promise suit settled he would marry her. Mrs. Chase's friends wrote her that Hart and Mrs. Ballew settled the first breach of promise suit by getting married at Epping, May 26. Mrs. Chase then returned and after investigations began the second suit against Hart for breach of promise. All the parties are of middle age.

New England Lumber Market

Boston, June 18—There is news this week but it is not of a pleasant sort. For dimension spruce there is very little demand and price cutting, already fashionable, threatens to increase. Some of the well known financially strong manufacturers in a large way of business have still on their books lots of orders and continue to quote $65, but there are others in sore need of business who are not even trying to get so much. There are, in fact, producers that can ship with great expedition who are quoting $62 and $63 for frames and who for yard orders about which there is no especial hurry are sometimes willing to take $60. The retailers are noting with attention all these happenings and their caution is increasing appreciably. They seem to think that the conciliating salesman who happens to be talking to them at any given time will be succeeded by another who will quote even less. There never was and never will be a more urgent need of stabilizing quotations, but some wise men think that any efforts along this line would surely prove abortive.

The retailers would do well perhaps to remember that the indications are not all for a further reduction in price. At no distant date the railroads will undoubtedly receive the requisite authority to advance their freight rates, and, while it is impossible at the moment to be sure of the exact extent of the increase, no one thinks that it will be less than 25 per cent., while a good many people look for more.

Then, too, it would seem only reasonable, or less of a spurt in building some time before the winter as the shortage in houses, acute for months past, is rapidly becoming intolerable.

Random.

The market for random was bad a week ago but it is worse today. It is harder to induce the yardmen to buy, although they are offered lumber at figures that not many days ago would have been deemed veritable bargain prices.

A salesman who can secure at this writing more than $51 for any narrow random, however desirable, is a remarkable person with persuasive powers that might almost be called hypnotic. He is, in fact, in the cracker-jacker class, for his trade is being offered Provincial 2x3, 2x4, 2x6 and 2x7 at $50 and once in a while less and lots of even Maine random at $50. Every up-todate lumber merchant knows that this is true, although all may not be quite willing to admit it.

For 2x8 there are different prices. Some of the closest wholesale buyers have managed to secure some at $54 less their commissions, but this is as yet, and perhaps will continue to be, an unusually low price.

In 2x10 and 2x12 business continues of very limited volume and the market for these sizes is far from strong.

Boards.

In this as in other branches of the market there is an attempt to stimulate the demand by letting down the price, but up to this time it has not proved successful.

Random spruce covering boards, 5 inches and up wide, 8 feet and up long and planed on one side are being offered as low as $52, and $53 is probably as much as anyone can hope to get in these unsettled times when both sellers and buyers vacillate so in their views of value. For 4 inches and up as little as $50 is quoted. Sales are few.

For matched spruce boards 5 inches and up wide and clipped, the top price is quoted. There is no anxiety to buy even at the most modest figures.

Clipped hemlock boards are moving slowly, even when a salesman asks no more than $50, which sometimes happens.

Laths.

As the situation was last week so it is now, which amounts to saying that it bristles with peculiarities unheard of at any time in the history of the trade.

The differences in the prices at which 1½ laths are being sold are truly remarkable. There have been transactions in New York at $14.50, $14.75 and $15 Boston rate. The local retail trade at the moment would hesitate before bidding $10. There have been sales here at $9.

For 1⅝ inch lath it is difficult to give the range. There is no doubt, however, that retailers here are being quoted $13. It is by no means certain that a bid of $12 would be turned down.

Furring.

Everyone admits that the demand is quiet, but about the reports of current prices there is some confusion. It is said that there has been business in 2-inch at as little as $52 and as much as $54. It is questionable perhaps if a buyer could be found today willing to pay even $52.

Shingles.

The demand for all sorts of shingles lags, a fact that does not surprise in the least those who have been watching vigilantly the trend of trade in other directions.

For the white cedars prices remain as they were. To get more than the lower figures quoted would not today however be easy.

The red cedars do not seem to have much demand, and business continues very quiet.

Spruce Clapboards.

No wholesale merchant knows where he can find any and there is nothing definite to be said about the price.

Box Boards.

The aspect of this branch of the trade is encouraging. The prospect for business is bright and the sentiment about prices is very firm.

The prices for lumber immediately following are those at which retailers can buy of the wholesale trade. Spruce prices refer to lumber 8 to 20 feet in length. For every two feet or fraction when the sale is of dimension lumber.

LUMBER VALUED AT $100,000 BURNED

Yards of Mason Manufacturing Co. at South Paris Are Swept by Fire

South Paris, Me., June 18.—Lumber valued at $100,000 was destroyed here Monday by a fire which started in the yards of the Mason Manufacturing Co., and the big plant itself, in which toys and small wooden articles are made, was saved with difficulty.

Lewiston was unable to send help and so a call was sent to the Portland department as the wind was carrying sparks toward the factory but within a short time the South Paris and Norway hose companies got the flames under control and the call to Portland was cancelled. A spark from a Grand Trunk engine is believed to have caused the fire.

A COLLECTION OF GALILEO RELICS

Rome, June 18.—A movement has been started to make the house at Arcetri, called "Jewel," where Galileo lived from 1631 to 1642, a national monument and to collect there all Galileo relics. While Galileo lived at Arcetri he was called to Rome to answer a charge of heresy before the inquisition.

On his return he witnessed the death of his daughter who was a nun. In this particular house he dictated "dialouges of new sciences" which he considered was his masterpiece. It was there also that he received the poet Milton and was presented by Holland with a golden chain in acknowledgment of his services to science.

Why hens go on a strike!

The feed elements that make whites of eggs are entirely different from those that make yolks. When hens aren't fed both the white and yolk making elements, they can't lay.

Missouri Experiment Station tests prove that 100 lbs. of wheat, corn, oats, barley and kaffir corn make (above bodily maintenance) an average of 224 yolks to 154 whites. Based on data from the same experiments, Purina formulas produce, (above bodily maintenance), as follows:

Purina Scratch Feed	247.49 yolks	142.11 whites
Purina Chicken Chowder	182.05 yolks	282.55 whites
Combined Ration	429.54 yolks	424.66 whites

These Purina feeds not only make a practically equal number of whites and yolks but more of both than ordinary feeds.

Note that Purina Chicken Chowder contains the necessary white-forming elements to balance up the yolk-making grain ration. That's why it makes hens lay so heavily. Instead of the yolks being absorbed by the hen's system, Purina Chicken Chowder makes the whites to complete the eggs and they are laid. Thus we can absolutely guarantee

more eggs or money back

on Purina Chicken Chowder if fed with Purina Scratch Feed as directed. You take no risk.

RUMANIA NEVER MORE PROSPEROUS

The Old Era of Wine and Song, of Laughter and Levity, Is Coming Back

Bucharest, June 18—If ever Rumania felt she was poorly compensated for her part in the war, the feeling must now be removed. Not in many years has the country been so prosperous. One must go back to the days of old King Carol and Carmen Sylva to find a parallel to the present conditions of material welfare among the people.

The scenes of gayety, animation and prosperity in Bucharest can find their counterpart only along the boulevards of Paris. The habitues of the gay metropolis—the artists, sculptors, students and savants that gave it so much of its Bohemian atmosphere in days gone by—have come back. With them have come strange faces from the newly-acquired provinces and from Austria and Germany.

The streets of Bucharest are crowded with flashily-dressed men and sumptuously attired women, just as in pre-war days. The stores display great stocks of pastries, confections, cosmetics, perfumes, silk stockings, expensive lingerie, rich jewels and other luxuries. The fashionable restaurants and cafes are always full. The theatres are taxed to capacity.

The old era of wine and song, of laughter and levity, of powder and paint, is coming back. Bucharest is trying hard not only to live up to its former reputation, but to justify its claim to be called "the Paris of the Balkans."

The sacrifices the little Latin country made during the war have been forgotten in the acquisition of the rich territories of Transylvania, Bessarabia and Bukovina. These fertile areas have brought tremendous wealth to the country. In crops, cattle, forests and mineral products they will easily treble Rumania's national wealth.

In normal times these marvellously productive countries have yielded enough to feed the whole of Europe. The wheat fields of Transylvania and Bessarabia are among the greatest in the world. The country contains also great herds of cattle and sheep.

Of Rumania's 10,000,000 hectares of cultivable land, more than 83 per cent. is given over to the growing of cereals, the largest per cent. of any country in the world except Russia, Serbia and the South African Union. Wheat is the largest crop. More than half the annual yield is exported.

When it is understood that 85 per cent. of Rumania's population is supported by agriculture and that the present crops promise to be the greatest in history, the reason for the country's prosperity and well-being will become apparent.

TROTZKY SHOWS NO SIGNS OF STRAIN

Soviet War Minister Declines to Discuss Situation at Present Time

Moscow, June 18. — Leon Trotzky, the Soviet war minister, is often his own messenger. While he was carrying important despatches to one of his colleagues, the Associated Press correspondent had a fleeting interview with him in the Kremlin the other day.

Replying to a question as to whether he would appoint a time to discuss with the correspondent the activities of the working army, he said: "This is a time of momentous decisions in Russia and until party politics for the coming year are determined I cannot talk for publication."

Meanwhile he was taking such long steps as to render it difficult for the correspondent to keep up with him. Crossing the big square of Kremlin he was saluted by the numerous soldiers who recognized him, despite the fact he wa swearing the regulation uniform, no different than that of his enlisted men.

As Trotzky walked his wiry person seemed vibrant with energy, showing no signs of the strain of the past three years. Reaching the cavalry barracks he disappeared up the steps, two at a bound, with the parting words, "Call me up later when I have more time."

The will also provides for the division of the principal among the three children on Mrs. Leifauf's death, and concludes: "It is my wish that my children meet each year at my grave, shake hands, and make up all their grievances."

OUTLAW PLAYERS CAUSE OF TROUBLE

Tom Seaton and Casey Smith, Dropped by 'Frisco for Gambling, Turn Up

Atlanta, Ga., June 19.—When members of the Little Rock baseball team arrived at the Southern Association grounds here yesterday for the scheduled game with Atlanta they found the gates locked against them.

The mangement of the Atlanta club, together with officials of the Mobile and Chattanooga teams, had announced earlier in the day that no games would be played with Little Rock as long as Casey Smith and Tom Seaton, formerly of the San Francisco, Pacific Coast League, club appeared in the Little Rock line-up.

The two players against whom protests have been made to Southern Association officials were signed by Little Rock after they had been released by San Francisco for alleged unsuportsmanlike conduct. The Little Rock manager had announced that Smith would appear in the pitcher's box today.

Umpires Kerin and Roth, who were to have officiated at today's game and who appeared at the park with the Little Rock players, announced that the game would stand "not played," instead of being forfeited to the Little Rock club. The umpires ruled that both teams must be on the ground to have the game forfeited. The Atlanta players were not at the park.

"The charges against the players are all hearsay evidence," Manager Elberfeld of the Little Rock club declared today. "In spite of our written requests to the San Francisco club officials for full information as to full details in the case, we have received no reply. In justice to these players the charges should be investigated thoroughly. If they are proved true, both men should be barred from baseball; but if unfounded, as they seem to be, Smith and Seaton have been done an injustice."

For Good of Baseball.

San Francisco, June 19. — Casey Smith and Tom Seaton, formerly pitchers of the San Francisco club of the Pacific Coast League, reported today as involved in a Southern Association controversy, were dropped a month ago from the San Francisco team "for the good baseball," President Charles Graham of the club announced.

Their release came during an investigation of alleged gambling at the baseball park, but Graham's statement at the time said they were not directly connected with the gambling charges.

The Racing Season Will be Opened Here Dominion Day

Three Races Arranged for the Holiday at the Trotting Park

THE McALLISTER STABLE TO STAY

One of Best Day's Racing Ever Offered Public at Local Track.

The Fredericton Park Association directors at a meeting yesterday afternoon decided to consolidate their "curtain raiser" programme and to have but one day's racing here to open the season. This will be on Dominion Day, July 1st, and there will be three purse races with the possibility of an additional race for green horses being also arranged.

This action was taken when word was received that the stables which were expected to come from Houlton would not be here for the "curtain raiser," thus cutting down the number of horses available. However, the management determined to go on with racing on the holiday, and there is believed to be every indication of one of the best day's racing that has ever been seen on the local track.

The three classes which are on the new programme are: Free for all, 2.15 trot and pace and 2.17 trot. The horses which will be racing here will include Dr. D. H. McAllister's stable from Susex, the horses in training at St. John that are ready to race, the stable being campaigned by L. R. Acker, the Halifax theatre owner, and the stables of Harry C. Jewett, Bert Lint and other horsemen located at the local track.

The Sure Starters.

The sure starters in the free for all are Fern Hal, 2.05¼, Roy Volo, 2.13¼, and The Exposer, 2.06, the champion trotter of the Maritime Provinces and holder of the record for trotting stallions on a half mile track in Canada. It is also hoped that Peter Farren, 2.07½, the St. John favorite, will be ready to start in this race. The 2.15 class will have a lively field, including the two St. John pacers, King Wilkes, 2.09¼, and Singer, 2.15¼, while the others will be Jennie Frisco, 2.14¼, and Jennie Penn, 2.14¼, which Fred Cameron expects to be one of the most formidable pacers out this season in the East.

The 2.17 trot is expected to be one of the best straight trots ever seen in the East. The sure starters are Gay Moko, 2.16¼, which arrived here this week from Cape Breton in Driver Billy Hood's stable, Victoria, 2.15¼, the McAllister stable reliable veteran which surprised the racegoers so often last season, and Harry Jewett's two trotters, Border Prince, 2.18¼, and Harvest Hope, 2.22½. There is also a possibility of Roy Miller, 2.11¼, being here for this race; he was entered for the original programme but will probably go to Moncton, where the slow class horses in the stable can start.

If a fourth race is added to the programme it will be for 2.27 class trotters and pacers and would probably attract quite a number of horses who would put up a lively race. The playgrounds committee have suggested putting on some track sports between heats, and the York County Baseball League have a baseball game scheduled for the afternoon at the park while the races are on. It is therefore expected that the holiday sports programme in Fredericton will be attractive from all standpoints.

Outside Stables Coming

The Maritime and Maine Circuit will evidently attract a good many outside stables this season and the latest campaigner who has announced his intention of coming down the M. & M. line is W. S. Sinnickson, of Salem, N. J.

Frank P. Fox, of Boston, is now at Houlton, Me., and will make his first start there at the opening meeting of the circuit on July 5th and 6th. Harry T. Hayes, of Rochester, N. H., and another New Hampshire campaigner, as well as Irving Pottle, of Portland, Me., will all join the circuit during July, as well as several stables from Northern Maine.

There are a number of applications already respecting nominations in the stakes for the fall meetings, indicating there will be no scarcity of horses.

Star Trotters of 1920

THE TROTTING TURF'S TALL TIMBER, THE SUBJECT OF AN INTERESTING ARTICLE BY W. H. GOCHER, SECRETARY OF THE NATIONAL TROTTING ASSOCIATION—ROYAL MACK BECOMES A SADDLE HORSE—ANTE GUY'S MOST FORMIDABLE RIVAL THIS YEAR IS EXPECTED TO BE McGREGOR THE GREAT—EARLY DREAMS ON DOUBTFUL LIST.

[By W. H. Gocher, Secretary of the National Trotting Association.]

A big cut was made in the tall timber of the trotting turf when C. K. G. Billings added Royal Mack to the group of trotters which he uses under the saddle. For four years the Royal McKinney gelding has been busy on the Grand Circuit tracks. While he did not win all of his engagements, he could always be depended on to carry the battle to the fastest horses in training.

Murphy added Royal Mack to his stable during the September meeting at Columbus in 1916. At that time he gave but slight evidence of the reliable racing qualities which he afterwards exhibited in three trips over all of the Grand Circuit tracks. His card also shows that he was charged with but two breaks in all of his races, one being made at Toledo where he was distanced and the other at Lexington last fall when Prince Loree bumped into his sulky in the first heat of the Transylvania.

Royal Mack is the only horse that started in three renewals of the Transylvania. He also won second money in each of them. In 1917 he put up a two day battle with Ross B., Early Dreams and Ima Jay, the last named winning after seven desperately contested heats in the fastest time on record. Two years ago he was the contending horse with Binland and forced him out in 2.03¾. Last season a run of bad racing placed him second to Prince Loree.

With Royal Mack's stall vacant, Murphy will depend this year on Ante Guy in the fast events with Charley Rex in reserve if the Guy Axworthy mare mets with a mishap similar to the one which put her on the retired list last year.

Ante Guy's Prospects.

Ante Guy has been rated as a two minute trotter for two seasons. In her two year old form, she showed sufficient speed to be rated among champions. Very little was done with her as a three year old, while in her four year old form she was overshadowed by Chilcoot until he went amiss after winning the Charter Oak $10,000 purse at Hartford. The following week she finished second to Prince Loree in the Empire State $10,000 purse at Syracuse. Her greatest flight of speed, however, was in the Walnut Hall Cup at Lexington, where she won from Lotta Watts in 2.03½.

Last year Lu Princeton and Ante Guy met in a special at the second Cleveland meeting. The latter won in 2.03¼. She also struck herself in one of the heats and as the bruise did not yield to treatment, her owners shipped her home from Hartford.

At present Ante Guy is showing all of her old time flight of sped. She will be ready to meet the first flight of trotters when the season opens at Cleveland in July, and while the field is rather small at present, it includes such sterling material as McGregor the Great, Early Dreams, Baron Cegantle, and Don de Lopez at points where Geers will be unable to secure class race engagments for the black Spaniard.

McGregor the Great is Ante Guy's most formidable rival. If all of the associations offer 2.04 classes and let the races go with two or three starters, they will be very apt to duplicate the series made by Mabel Trask and St. Frisco. The Peter the Great colt it now in his five year old form. He won all of his engagements last year except at the first Cleveland meeting and Readville. Mariondale finished in front of him in both. McGregor the Great's most brilliant race was trotted at Syracuse where he won the $10,000 purse from a field of thirteen and made his record of 2.03¼ in the first heat.

Early Dreams Doubtful.

Reports from the Indianapolis training camp state that Early Dreams is again on the doubtful list. This is to be regretted as this splendid gelding after having a query mark after his name almost all of 1919 came out at Lexington, after trotting two indifferent races at Columbus and won in 2.03¾, 2.03¼, 2.03¾, the fastest race of the year, with Charley Rex in the place.

Early Dreams is an Indiana product. After being raced over the half-mile tracks for a number of years his owner in 1917 plunged into mile track society. McDonald took a mount behind Early Dreams at Cleveland, where he finished second to Royal Mack and won a heat in 2.09¼. The following week he won with him from Lu Princeton at Detroit in 2.07¼. This prompted McDonald to buy the horse. At the end of the season, Early Dreams stood at the top of the money winning column with $23,745 to his credit.

In 1918 Early Dreams failed to get to the races. Last year after a few backsets he won the fastest event of the season. The same week his stable companion, Baron Cegantle, won a division of the Walnut Hall Cup in 2.05¾. The latter is by Cegantle out of the dam of Harvest Gale. He is the same age as McGregor the Great, while Ante Guy is six. Early Dreams and Royal Mack were both foaled in 1908, and Charley Rex is a year younger.

Lucky Guy is the name John Farnum has given to the son of Guy Axworthy, 2.08¾, and Lucky Clover, 2.09¾.

St. Louis Cardinals Beaten After Winning 13 Out of 14

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

New York, June 19—In the American League yesterday Ayres for Detroit let Boston down in great style and the former won.

Timely hitting by New York coupled with a walk and a wild pitch won the game for them against Chicago.

Cleveland knocked Walter Johnson of Washington out of the box and won easily.

St. Louis trailed Philadelphia for eight innings, then recovered and won.

Stengel's one hand jumping catch saved the game for Philadelphia and broke St. Louis streak of luck.

On May 31 the Cardinals were in sixth place, with 17 won and 22 lost. This morning they are crowding the leaders with 30 victories and 24 defeats—in other words, they have won 13 of their last 15 games.

They started June 1, against Pittsburg, and took two straight; the Cubs were trimmed three in a row, Brooklyn three out of four, the Giants four straight and have split even with the Phillies in the first two games of the series.

Bay State Circuit's Opening Called Off

Boston, Mass., June 19.—The opening meeting of the Bay State Circuit, scheduled for this week at Combination Park, has been called off.

Rain fell so heavily Tuesday night and yesterday that the Medford course was a sea of mud and, weather conditions being anything but favorable, Manager Allen decided to call off the meet altogether.

The move to Woonsocket was started at noon, Harry Brusie sending three head by truck. The other trainers will get away today and hope to find a better brand of weather in Rhode Island, where the second meeting of the circuit opens next Tuesday.

NEW HORSES AT WOODSTOCK TRACK

Alice Homeland, 2.19¼, Now There—Sis Peters Has Been Sold Again

(Special despatch to the Daily Gleaner.)

Woodstock, June 19.—The latest arrival at the parlor track is Alice Homeland, 2.19¼, pacer, owned by Dr. McIntosh, of Hartland. The genial doctor has sold his other horse, Jeffrey, 2.16¼, to Carol Hanson, of Presque Isle, and is now negotiating for another speedy one.

H. M. DeWitt, who sold his pet pacing mare, Belle McGregor, 2.10¼, could not live long without a speeder and has bought the pacing mare Sis Peters from James W. Gallagher.

Oro Fino, 2.03¼, is working very nicely, and his driver, "Red" Hanafin, is well pleased with the way he is coming along. Owing to the rush of horses at the parlor track Driver Hanafin has his brother here from Boston assisting him with his string.

SISLER'S BATTING STREAK A FEATURE

St. Louis First Baseman Has Hammered His Way to the Top of the List

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

Chicago, June 19.—George Sisler, star of the St. Louis club, today is blazing the trail for the batters of the American League, according to averages, including games of Wednesday, released today.

The St. Louis first baseman, second to Tris Speaker of Cleveland a week ago, shot into first place, while Speaker fell into second place. Joe Jackson, the hard hitting outfielder with Chicago, is third. Sisler's remarkable batting streak came into bloom a week ago. He connected with 18 hits in seven games.

With the season a third finished, "Babe" Ruth, champion home run hitter, seems certain of establishing a new record, as he is only ten behind the mark of twenty-nine he set up last year. Ruth drove out his 19th circuit smash during the second game of the Chicago-New York series, driving the ball over the right field bleachers. He is far ahead of his 1919 performance, when he attained his eighteenth homer on August 16th.

Speaker is leading Ruth by one as a run-getter. Rice, of Washington, continues to show the way to the base stealers, his 22 thefts remaining high.

"THE STANDARD of EXCELLENCE"

Save Your Potato Crop

BY USING WATSON'S SOLUBLE ARSENOID WITH BORDEAUX MIXTURE

WATSON'S SOLUBLE ARSENOID has come to be recognized as the most effective insecticide for potatoes. It kills the bugs at all times and under all kinds of conditions and being very adhesive it does not wash off, as many of the other insecticides such as Paris Green. It clings to the foliage and will kill the bugs not only the day it is applied but for many days after.

In Aroostook County, which is one of the largest, if not the largest potato producing section in North America, WATSON'S SOLUBLE ARSENOID is used exclusively by the best and largest potato raisers in that famous section. During years past many imitations of this famous poison have been placed on the market, but so far all have failed to come anywhere near the standard of WATSON'S SOLUBLE ARSENOID.

BORDEAUX MIXTURE

Copper Sulphate (Blue Vitriol) .....5 Lbs.
Fresh Stone Lime .....5 Lbs.
Water .....50 Gals.
WATSON'S SOLUBLE ARSENOID .....1 Lb.

Dissolve the Blue Vitriol by pouring on hot water so that it is just covered. Use an earthern or wooden vessel. Add the lime and enough water to make 50 gallons. It is then ready for immediate use. Watson's Soluble Arsenoid must not be used alone.

Try a 2 lb. can of WATSON'S SOLUBLE ARSENOID.

CITY PROHIBITS SUNDAY FLYING

Airplanes Must Stay Up 2,000 Feet Over Huntington, Virginia

Huntington, W. a., June 18.—Huntington is known to the rest of the State as "The Holy City." It gained the appellation through the rigid enforcement of the Sunday blue laws by Mayor Campbell.

Campbell has taken the pep out of the Sabbath, as it were. Airplanes are forbidden from coming nearer than 2,000 feet while flying over the city on Sunday.

The courts may take a hand in the matter. Ivan Davis, druggist, was censured by the Mayor for advertising he would give away ice cream and soft drinks on Sunday. Campbell insists that no store has a right to remain open on the Sabbath. He placed a ban on soft drink shops, peanut stands, shoe shining parlors, gasolene stations, movies and other like enterprises and amusements.

AUSTRALIA MINTS SQUARE PENNIES

Sydney, Aus., June 18.—Australia is about to mint square pennies and half pennies of nickel. These will go into circulation concurrently with the present copper coinage of which, it is understood, no more will be minted.

So far the only peoples to attempt to use square coins are those of British dominions. India has had a square 2-anna piece since 1918, Ceylon, a square 5-cent piece since 1910 and the Straits Settlements a square cent since last year. The action of the Melbourne mint officials is probably dictated by the fact that square coins leave less metal in the sheets from which they are cut and they pack better when boxed.

A crank is a man whose head is more or less turned.

FLOODS OF WHISKEY POUR OVER BORDER

United States Blockade Apparently Lifted, for Smugglers Get In With Ease

Bangor, Me., June 18.—Co-incident with the decision of the United States Supreme Court that the eighteenth amendment of the Constitution and the Volstead Act providing for the enforcement of nation-wide prohibition both are constitutional, the enterprising smugglers who spirit medical supplies over the border from New Brunswick into Maine have developed an amazing streak of industry, with the result that the dust has been effectually laid in Bangor and vicinity, while on Sunday twelve citizens who were overcome by the flood slumbered in the Bangor police station.

On Friday, it is said, no fewer than five motor trucks, all heavily laden with Canadian whiskey and alcohol, managed to run the blockade that the federal officials are supposed to maintain on the northern border, and most of all their freight reached Bangor, causing a sharp break in quotations. Whiskey that sold quickly at $10 to $12 a little while ago now can be had at $8 or $9 by the single bottle, occasionally at $7, while the case price is $84. Down in New Brunswick this stuff cost the runners about $32 a case, so that on every dozen bottles that gets through there is a profit of about $50. A good-sized car can carry twenty to thirty cases, which makes the profit on a cargo that gets by anywhere from $1,000 to $1,500, enough to warrant the risk and make up for all losses by seizure.

General surprise is expressed at the ease with which the rum runners are getting their stuff over the border, but it is said that there is nothing so wonderful about it—that of late the federal officers have been for the most part withdrawn from the frontier, whether temporarily or permanently does not appear, so that anyone can bring in a load of liquor without much chance of capture.

Once over the border, the rum cars follow various routes to Bangor, and it would bankrupt Penobscot county to police all the roads they are likely to travel to reach this city. As the situation stands, the federal authorities seem to have almost entirely ceased their vigil for rum smugglers, and the entire burden of catching them is thrown upon the sheriff of Penobscot county, who has not enough men on his staff to maintain a blockade for all northern and eastern Maine.

The rum runners have a system of signals and signs corresponding with that used by hobos, various legends, symbols and devices appearing on gate posts, trees and bridges along the roads from the border to Bangor to inform the fraternity of the movements of officers and the chances of getting through.

It is said that there are half a dozen men in Bangor who are making more money now out of Candian whiskey than ever they were able to make out of American goods in the widest open days.

IN DAYS OF TERROR

"Arthemise!" said Maurice, taxing his memory in vain to recollect the name.

"Yes; a handsome brunette, with whom I formed an acquaintance last year at the ball at the Opera; by the same token, you came to sup with us, and made her tipsy."

"Ah! yes," said Maurice. "I remember now. It is her; is it?"

"She has the best chance. I presented her to the concourse. All the Thermopyles have promised me their votes. In three days the general election will take place. Today we enjoy the preparatory dinner, today we spill the wine of Champagne, perhaps after tomorrow we may spill blood! Let them spill what they like, Arthemise shall be goddess, or may the devil carry me away! Allons, come, we will help to put on her tunic."

"Thanks; but I have always entertained a repugnance for things of this sort."

"To robe goddesses? Peste! mon cher, you are difficult to please. Let me see; if that does not suit you, I will put it on, and you shall take it off."

"Louis, I am ill, and not only out of spirits, but the gaiety of others makes me miserable."

"Ah! that is it! You frighten me, Maurice; you neither laugh nor fight. Are you by any chance engaged in some plot?"

"Me? Would to God!"

"You ought o say, Would to the Goddess Reason!"

"Leave me, Louis; I cannot, and will not, go out. I am in bed, and there let me rest in peace."

Louis scratched his ear.

"Well," said he, "I see how it is."

"What do you see?"

"That you wait for the goddess Reason."

"Corbleu!" cried Maurise, "spiritual friends are very troublesome. Go, or I shall utter a few imprecations on you and your goddess."

"Charge!—Charge!"

Maurice raised his hand to curse him, when he was interrupted by his official, who at this moment entered, bearing in his hand a letter for the citizen his brother. "Citizen Agricola," said Louis, "you enter at an unfortunate moment. Your master was about to become superb." Maurice let fall his hand, which he listlessly extended for the letter; but the instant he had touched it he started; and having eagerly examined both the seal and handwriting, grew very pale in the anticipation of bad tidings, and broke the seal instantly.

'Oh! our interest is awakened at last," said Louis, "it seems to me."

Maurice heard him not; his whole soul was merged in the four lines of Genevieve. He read and reread them three or four times over; and then raising his head gazed at Louis like a man quite stupified.

"Diable!" said Louis; 'the sight of a letter, it appears, makes all fierce feeling subside."

Maurice read the letter for the fifth time, and a hue of vermilion suffused his face, the moisture disappeared from his eyes, and a deep sigh relieved his breast; then forgetting at once his illness and attendant weakness, he leapt from his bed.

'My clothes!" cried he to the astonished official; "my clothes, my dear Agricola. Oh, my dear Louis—my poor Louis, I will attend you every day. Indeed I did not expect or hope for this. Here; my white trousers or frilled shirt, that they may dress my hair and shave me."

The official hastened to execute the orders of Maurice.

"Ah, Louis!" cried the young man "I never till this moment knew what happiness meant."

"My poor Maurice,' said Louis, 'I think you require the visit I recommended to you."

"Oh! my dear friend, pardon me; for truly reason has forsaken me."

"Then I offer you mine," said Louis, laughing at his own execrable pun.

The most surpassing thing was, Maurice laughed also. His present happiness rendered this easy.

This was not all. "Wait," said he, cutting some orange blossom from a tree in full bloom; "present this from me to the worthy widow of Mansole."

"A la bonne heure!" said Louis; "in consideration of your gallantry, I pardon you. Then it appears to me you are absolutely in love, and I always feel profound respect for its unfortunate victims."

"Yes, I am in love," said Maurice, and his heart dilated with joy. 'I am in love; and now, since she loves me, I may declare it; for since she has recalled me, she must not love me, Louis?"

'Doubtless," complacently replied the adorer of the goddess Reason; "but take care, Maurice, for the fashion in which you take this makes me fear you."

'Bravo, bravo!" cried Maurice, clapping his hands; then taking to his heels, he descended the stairs four at once, and directed his steps towards the well-known old Rue Saint Jacques.

"He is worse than I thought him," said Louis, in his turn descending the staircase in rather a calmer mood. Aristheme was not Genevieve.

Hardly had Louis and his orange blossom arrived at La Rue Saint Honore, when a crowd of young citizens, to whom he had been accustomed to administer either kicks or halfpence, according to the humor he happened to be in, respectfully followed him—mistaking him, no doubt, for one of those virtuous individuals to whom St. Just had proposed they should offer the white robe and a bunch of orange blossoms. As the cortege every moment increased in numbers—for even at this epoch a virtuous man was a rare sight to behold—there were several thousand young citizens present when the bouquet was offered to Arthemise, a homage which made several other "Reason" who had joined the ranks very ill with sick headache next day. It was on the same evening the famous song was circulated through Paris—

"Long life to Goddess Reason—
The pure, clear dawn of day."

And as it has arrived thus far without any knowledge of the author—a fact which has exceedingly exercised the sagacity of the revolutionary historian—we have almost the audacity to affirm it was composed for la belle Arthemise by our poetical friend, Hyacinthe Louis.

CHAPTER XVI.

The Prodigal Child.

Maurice could not have been quicker, had he even possessed wings. The streets were crowded, but Maurice only remarked the crowd as it retarded his course; it was said everywhere that the convention was sitting; that the majesty of the people was offended through the representatives, whom they prevented from coming out; and of this there seemed some probability, as the tingling of the tocsin was heard, and the thunder of the cannon sounding an alarm. But what at this moment, to Maurice, mattered either the tocsin or the cannon? What cared he whether the deputies were or were not able to come out, when the prohibition did not extend to him? So he quickened his pace, that was all. While running, he pictured to himself Genevieve waiting at the little window overlooking the garden, in order to see him, and that she would perceive him far off; and then her smile, more than ever charming, would welcome him back again. Dixmer also was no doubt informed of this happy return, and would tender him his coarse large hand, so frank and loyal in its greetings. He loved Dixmer; now, even his love almost extended to Morand, with his black locks and his green spectacles, behind which he fancied he could see the glitter of his brilliant but saturnine eyes. He loved the whole world, for he was happy and would willingy have showered flowers on the heads of all mankind that they might be as happy as himself. But for once he was deceived. Poor Maurice! he deceived himself, as a man generally does when he reckons according to his wishes.

A pie supper and ice cream social held in the school house on Tuesday evening, June 1st, under the auspices of an efficient committee was a decided success both socially and financially. Every one reports the most enjoyable time ever held in the school house. Dancing was enjoyed by both young and old. The tidy sum of $85 was realized clear of expenses. The money was turned over to our school teacher Miss Freeda Woodman, to be used for the benefit of the school house.

James Craft, an express agent, drove up to the railway station at Lincoln, Me., with a truck on which he had two dressed hogs, weighing about 300 pounds apiece. In the crowd waiting for the Bangor train were Senator George W. Thombs and Representative Artemus Weatherbee. Somebody suggested to Mr. Croft that he could get them to help him, and the two legislators promptly took hold with the express agent and hoisted the hogs.

During the intermission for refreshments four little girls, Miss Helen Crowe, Margaret McMurray, Constance Deedes and Minnie Black, dressed in Highland costumes, delighted the spectators with their Highland dances, while Miss Marquetta Deedes in peasant costume danced the Irish jig and had to respond to several encores. Mrs. G. C. VanWart, Mrs. J. H. Hawthorn and Mrs. George Howie were the chaperones.

APPLE CROP IN NEW BRUNSWICK NOT HURT BY FROST

Too Far Advanced to Suffer Injury by June Frosts This Week

RAIN WILL HELP THE STRAWBERRY CROP

Plants Just Blossoming In Many Cases and Need Moisture Now

Provincial Horticulturist A. G. Turney stated today that the apple crop in the various parts of New Brunswick had advanced so far at the present time that it is now in practically no danger of injury by the June frosts this week. If they had occurred two weeks ago, however, they would have severely injured the blossoms and diminished the apple crop throughout the province for the coming season.

Strawberries, he stated, had been in danger from the prolonged drought in various sections of the province, as the need for rain was acute. The plants were in many cases just blossoming and without rain would suffer heavily.

Instead of more frost last night, as was feared, there has been a change in the weather and much needed rain is falling today.

To Go to Court For The Seized Liquor

Rev. W. D. Wilson, chief prohibition enforcement inspector, left Edmundston last night for his home here after interviewing Canadian National Railways officials respecting the $14,000 worth of liquor seized at Baker Brook this week and later held at Edmundston by the railway officials after having been reshipped to the Government warehouse here.

The chief inspector declared that he would take legal proceedings to enforce the C. N. R. to deliver the seized liquor to him at Fredericton and to prevent the railway returning the stuff to the province of Quebec. The liquor was seized when it arrived at Baker Brook with a number of bags of fertilizer, all billed as fertilizer contrary to law.

BOY SCOUTS WORK UNDERWAY AGAIN

Enthusiastic Meetings Here This Week—New Patrols To Be Organized

H. O. Eaman, the assistant provincial commissioner for the Boy Scouts' Association in New Brunswick, has been in Fredericton the last few days in conference with John D. Tothill, the Boy Scout commissioner for the district of Fredericton.

Mr. Eaman has just returned from the annual meeting of the Association at Ottawa, and reports that the movement is in a most flourishing condition throughout Canada, there being an increase of over 5,000 members during the past year. A great many new troops are being organized in New Brunswick and the established troops are showing a marked increase in efficiency.

The Boy Scouts of Fredericton have been carrying on during the past few months under the direction of their patrol leaders in a very efficient manner and steps are under way now for the organization of several additional patrols in the fall. At a meeting held in St. Anne's Parish Hall on Thursday evening several new members were invested and awarded their Tenderfoot Badges, and two reels of moving pictures taken in England were shown to the boys assembled there.

A provincial Boy Scout camp will be held this summer, and quite a number of the Fredericton boys will attend.

Mr. Eaman and Mr. Tothill visited Marysville and a Boy Scout troop will be organized there.

HIGH SCHOOL ENTRANCE

Examination Papers Will Be Written at Sixty Stations in Province

The High School entrance examinations will be held in sixty different stations throughout the province this year, beginning on Monday next. Of the sixty schools that have applied for the examinations, fifteen are Grammar and the remainder Superior Schools. The examinations in this city will be held in the Assembly Room of the Provincial Normal School under the supervision of Dr. B. C. Foster, principal of the Fredericton High School, and Charles A. Sampson, secretary of the Board of School Trustees.

It is expected that between eighty and ninety students will write the examinations here, or about the same number as last year.

Tractor Demonstration.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock a special demonstration of the Chase tractor will be given at the Experimental Farm in order that all farmers and others who are interested in up-to-date farming may see the value of this machine. The distributors for the tractor are the Fredericton Motor Sales Co., Ltd. and any information concerning the machine will be given to parties interested at the company's offices on Queen street.

POLLING BOOTHS TO BE INCREASED FOR PLEBISCITE

Additional Election Machinery Required to Accommodate Women Voters

OVER 15,300 NAMES ON THE VOTERS' LIST

Proclamations Already Posted In About All Parishes of York County

Proclamations for the Prohibition plebiscite on July 10th will have been posted in all sections of York County by the middle of next week.

Sheriff Hawthorn is now on a tour and when he returns tonight the whole country will have been covered with the exception of the parishes of Canterbury and North Lake, where he plans to visit early next week.

There will be the same number of polling districts in this election as in the past with the exception that one has been divided in the Parish of Kingsclear, where there will now be polling places at the Temperance Hall, McGinley's Ferry, as well as at Hammondville. How many polling booths there will be nobody knows, but Sheriff Hawthorn believes there will be about double the number required in the past needed this time.

The inclusion of women voters has more than doubled the number of names on the voters' lists and it is said there are now more than 15,300 persons in York County eligible to vote, with a considerable number of women's names likely to be added in the city of Fredericton where the number who registered during the original period being comparatively small. The expectation is that there will be about sixty polling booths in the county and ten or more in Fredericton. Returned soldiers are all allowed to vote under the special Provincial Act in this election.

Franco-British Troops Concentrate With Fleet To Protect Constantinople

Mustapha Kemal's Nationalist Forces Reach Dardanelles

GREEKS GIVEN A FREE HAND

To Take Necessary Military Measures Against the Turks.

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Boulogne, June 21—Greece was given a free hand in the military measures in Turkey which were decided upon at the Hythe conference yesterday, according to information here today.

FRENCH AND BRITISH TO HOLD CONSTANTINOPLE

The Premiers and their advisers found these measures were required immediately, because of the grave situation resulting from Mustapha Kamel's nationalist forces reaching the Dardanelles.

French and British troops and the British fleet will be concentrated for the defence of Constantinople and the Straits.

The delegates to the Hythe conference, it is declared, were of the opinion that the taking of these measures would be sufficient to deal with the situation.

KILL TWO WHITES IN A RACE RIOT

Several Negroes Were Also Wounded in Disorders in the Chicago Black Belt

Chicago, June 21.—Two white men were killed and several negroes, including a negro policeman, were wounded last night in a riot in the heart of the south side "black belt," following the reported burning of an American flag by a band of negroes who were said to hae paraded in the interests of a "back to Africa" movement.

The trouble occurred at Thirty-fifth street and Indian avenue, near the scene of last year's race riot, in which more than thirty whites and blacks were killed and hundreds injured.

NOMINATION OF MAINE OFFICIALS

August, Me., June 21.—Maine Republicans and Democrats voted in the state primaries today for candidates for the nomination of governor, congressmen and state and county officials. Governor Milliken is seeking nomination by the Republicans for a third term. He has two opponents. On the Democratic Ticket there is no opposition to the nomination of Bertrand G. McIntyre for Governor. The polls opened at noon and will be closed at 9 o'clock tonight.

German Reparations to be Paid in Form of Annuities

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, June 21—Referring to the discussion of German reparations between Premiers Lloyd-George and Millerand at Hythe, the London Times, in a late edition this morning, says the basis accepted by the former Hythe conference regarding the inter-dependence of the payment of German reparations and the reimbursement of Allied debts could not be maintained owing to the refusal of the United States to accept it.

British financial representatives declared themselves unable in this condition to adhere to the former plan, inasmuch as Great Britain will have to bear the weight of her debt to the United States, it is said. On the other hand, it was agreed Germany should be called upon to pay reparations in the form of annuities, which would be extensible in accordance to Germany's capacity to pay.

Conference of Allied Premiers Today to Consider Important Matter of Hun Reparations

The Two Most Difficult Problems to Come Before the Conference Relate to German Reparations and the Situation Created by Bolshevik Activities

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Boulogne, June 21—Premiers Lloyd-George and Millerand, accompanied by Marshal Foch and Frederic Francois-Marsal, French Minister of Finance, arrived here this morning at 10.30 by special boat from Folkestone. In the party was Premier Venizelos of Greece.

The arrival of the two Premiers completes the delegations which will participate in the conversations here today and tomorrow, the Italian and Belgian representatives having arrived during the night.

Immediately after their arrival the delegates were driven to a hotel reserved for them, where a short preliminary conference was held before luncheon. M. Venizelos will participate in the sessions of the conference at which questions of Turkey and Armenia are to be discussed.

Some Difficult Problems.

Questions relative to reparations and Russia are expected to be the two most difficult problems of the conference, and may prolong the sessions to Wednesday or Thursday. British delegates still maintain a strong attitude regarding the manner in which the Allies should deal with Germany on reparations.

The only clause involved in execution of the treaty of Versailles on which all the Allies come to the conference in perfect agreement is that relative to the disarmament of Germany.

Premier Venizelos will formally offer in the name of Greece, to take the mandate for Armenia, and he will participate largely in all other discussions of Turkish questions.

The Demands of Italy.

Count Carlo Sforza, Italian Foreign Minister, will ask on behalf of Italy for twenty per cent. of the reparations to be paid by Germany.

At the luncheon served immediately after the arrival of Mr. Lloyd-George and M. Millerand, the programme for this afternoon was decided upon. It is understood it was agreed that the first subject to be discussed would be reparations, on which the two Premiers, according to best information, failed to agree at the Hythe conference on Saturday.

Both the French Premier and M. Francois-Marsal, however, expressed upon their arrival, perfect satisfaction with the results of the Hythe conference, contradicting general rumors. They said a complete accord between France and Great Britain had been reached at Hythe as to reparations and disarmament. They added that France has every reason to be satisfied.

TO RECLOTHE THE ARMY IN SCARLET

The British Under Fire in the House for Alleged Extravagance

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

London, June 21.—The government this week is likely to sustain a somewhat rough handling in the House of Commons regarding expenditure. Wednesday the operations in Mesopotamia will be criticized, also the cost of the proposal to reclothe the army in scarlet.

The Lord Northcliffe group of papers for some time has been making a dead-set against Austen Chamberlain, the Chancellor of the Exchequer. They are not being joined by other anti-government journals, who do not often find themselves much in agreement.

It is asserted that the coalitionists are averse to the scarlet uniform proposal and have been officially warned that a vote against the proposal will be interpreted as a vote for a change of government.

Ex-Premier Asquith, speaking on Saturday, made a strong attack on the government's alleged extravagance.

GERMANS SHIP WAR MATERIALS TO REDS

The Bolshevik Said to Have Crossed the Dnieper in the Region of Ratchitsa

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Warsaw, June 21.—The Bolshevik are reported to have assigned fifty divisions for the mid-summer drive against Poland, which military observers consider to be now in full swing, the Reds attacking at various points along a 1,200 kilometre front.

Owing to the repeated shipping by the Germans of war material and ammunitions through the neck of the Polish territory, reaching the Baltic Sea, the Poles are holding up all shipments across the railroad corridor of East Prussia. In retaliation the Germans are holding up explosives for Polish mines. The question of what material Germany will be allowed to send will probably be referred to the supreme council for settlement.

Poles Being Driven Back.

London, June 21.—Russian Bolshevik troops have crossed the Dnieper river in the region of Retchitsa, where the movement is strongly developing, and the Poles are being driven back in the region of Knorsten, according to a wireless despatch received here quoting an official statement issued at Moscow yesterday. A Polish attack southwest of Polotsk has been repulsed, the statement declared.

The Bolshevik Success.

London, June 21.—The Bolshevik, in a communication issued Sunday, claims to have flung the Poles across the Dnieper river to the east of Rezhitsa and to be driving them back towards Keresten and Ovrutch and in the direction of Proskurov (southeast of Lemberg).

Along the left bank of the Dnieper the Bolshevik say they have broken the enemy's resistance and are advancing toward Kamenta.

ARREST ST. CROIX SUGAR RUNNERS

Two Men Charged With Taking Six Tons of Sugar Across in Motor Boat

Calais, Maine, June 21.—Federal officials began an investigation here yesterday of alleged sugar running from New Brunwick across the international line into this state, as a result of the arrest Saturday night of two men charged with bringing six tons of sugar in a motor boat from St. Stephen, N. B., to this port. According to officials the men had not complied with United States customs regulations and had violated an embargo placed on refined sugar in Canada.

The practice has developed, according to officials, because of the low price charged for sugar in Canada. An alleged attempt to run sugar across the international bridge at Milltown, N. B., last Friday night caused some disturbance among the residents who, officials said, have objected to the practice. The men arrested here last night, Harry Hill, owner of the boat, and Don Smith, were later released on their recognizance.

ARREST OF EIGHT CHICAGO NEGROES

Chicago, June 21.—Grover C. Redding, who claims to be a native of Abyssinia, and seven other negroes, said to have been leaders in yesterday's parade, were arrested today. Redding was caught at a railroad station just after he had purchased a ticket for St. Louis.

Londonderry Riots Were Resumed This Morning and There is Fierce Fighting

Outlook For Ireland Now Alarmingly Grave

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

LONDON, June 21—The situation in Ireland is so tense that there is something more than the possibility of serious outbreaks and disorder, says the London Times Dublin' correspondent in a despatch dated Sunday. The position from an executive point of view, he adds, has become almost impossible and the outlook is very grave.

Unionists Drove Sinn Feiners To Own Quarter of City After A Warm Exchange of Bullets

Several Persons Seeking Safety in Doorways Shot in Melee—Occupants of Automobiles Dragged From Cars and Searched—Shops Raided

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Londonderry, June 21.—During the rioting Saturday night, in which five persons were killed and ten seriously injured, McVeigh, a laborer, was on his way to a butcher's stop when, reaching the end of Long Tower street, a bullet struck him in the throat. He struggled in a dying condition toward a public house nearby, where he fell. Owing to the fierce fusilade it was impossible to go to his assistance, but eventually a man rushed through the shower of bullets and dragged him to shelter. No ambulance was available and an attempt was made to carry him to an infirmary on a shutter. He died on the way.

Farren, the other man killed, was standing in the doorway of his lodging when struck by two bullets. One entered his stomach, proving fatal almost immediately.

Chased by Angry Mob.

In the midst of the melee, a man who knocked down a small boy was chased by an angry mob of men and women. He sought shelter in the City Club. Insistent demands for his ejection being ignored, the mob stoned the club.

A large crowd assembled in the non-residential quarter of the city, where fierce fighting occurred. Two girls were among the combatants there. Armed police on duty were compelled to telephone for military assistance. But before reinforcements arrived the riot flared to greater intensity and the firing by Unionists became so hot that people who had been seeking shelter in doorways were seen to be crawling along the ground to places of safety.

Unionists Gain Control.

Gradually then Unionists gained control of the entire district in the centre of the city, chasing the Nationalists into their own locality. In their retreat, the latter fired volleys into the Masonic Hall, the windows of which were broken. The Unionists posted small groups at vantage points and kept up a continuous fire. It was here Price was killed as he entered the doorway of the Diamond Hotel, where he lived. The bullet entered his abdomen, pierced a two-inch door and finally became embedded in a wall.

Price served with an ambulance corps in the Ulster division throughout the war, having come from America to enlist. He was waiting an opportunity to return.

Arrival of the Troops.

The military arrived in the centre of the city at about 11 o'clock and an armored car moved to Bishop's Gate, whereupon the rioting subsided, although occasional shots were still heard. The Unionists left the neighborhood singing and cheering.

There were scenes of wild disorder also in Waterloo Place, a Protestant quarter, where Nationalists for a couple of hours stopped and examined all persons who attempted to pass. Many shots were fired indiscriminately and several persons were injured. Automobiles were also stopped and the occupants were dragged from the cars and searched.

Wreck and Pilfer Shops.

This mob wrecked a number of shops and appropriated their contents. Flames burst from the drapery store of James Moore, a Unionist. The fire brigade arrived with a number of volunteers, some of whom were held up and relieved of their revolvers.

It is not known how McLaughlin met his fate. He was brought to an infirmary in a donkey cart and died soon after admission.

In the Waterside area, brawls and firing of extensive scale continued from 6 o'clock in the evening until midnight. The troops were withdrawn from the streets at 4.30 Sunday morning. It was after their departure that Doherty was shot. He was leaving the house where Farren lay dead about 5.30 in the morning, when he was struck in the abdomen with a bullet from the direction of Fountain street.

John Halbraith, a Unionist workman, was standing at the door of his home when two men from Bridge street fired point blank at him. He was struck by three bullets and lies in an infirmary in a critical condition.

Manitoba Government Using Two Planes to Carry Speakers About the Province

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Winnipeg, Man. June 21.—Unique aeropaine advertising method will feature the Norris Government's election campaign in the province.

Prominent speakers will be taken from town to town by air. This method of conducting electioneering by aeroplane is new in the annals of political campaigns and is claimed by party officials to be the first attempt to use it in the world. Two machines are already engaged in the enterprise. They will touch at least one town in every constituency. Campaign literature will be dropped from the plane as it circles over the town. After landing the Government supporter in the machine will address the crowd that gathers to meet the machine.

Rifle and Revolver Firing is Going on Continuously

MOB OPENLY FIRE ON TROOPS

One Man Killed and Two Wounded in Fighting This Morning.

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

Londonderry, June 21—Rioting was renewed in this city this morning and resulted in one person being mortally wounded and two seriously hurt.

Rifle and revolver firing was almost continuous, and as the people feared to venture out to work, business was at a standstill.

LONDONDERRY MOB FIRES ON THE TROOPS

The mob this morning openly fired on the troops. At one o'clock this afternoon the rioting was still in progress.

John Gallagher, one of the men wounded in yesterday's fighting, between Unionists and Nationalists, died today, bringing the number of deaths for the present outbreak of party strife up to six.

The Authorities Powerless.

London, June 21.—Civil war conditions prevail in Londonderry and the authorities are powerless, it is declared in an exchange telegraph despatch from Londonderry this afternoon. Several additional persons were killed in this morning's rioting here, according to this message.

The firing is being maintained with desperate intensity. Business is suspended and the postmen are declining to deliver mail.

When the troops stop the fighting in one zone, the despatch adds, firing breaks out in another.

Story Proved Untrue

London, June 21—Consular investigation of a report that Irish police had seized the personal arms of an officer on the American ship Milwaukee Bridge at Dublin has proved the story was not true.

The captain of the ship told the American Consul at Dublin that the police had boarded the vessel and had asked if any arms other than those owned by the officers personally were on the ship. He was told there were not.

Police Forced to Raid Shop To Obtain Food Supplies

In Accordance with the Sinn Fein Boycott the Shop Keepers Refused to Sell Anything to the Constables and They Took What They Required

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

London, June 21—A sergeant and six constables raided shops at Carrick-on-Shannon, County Leitrim, for food supplies Saturday, after they were refused permission to make purchases, in accordance with the Sinn Fein boycott against the militia. Informed by shopkeepers that the Irish republican order could not be violated, the police served themselves with meat and milk and paid for them. They departed followed by a hostile crowd and succeeded in avoiding a collision only by rapid flight in motor cars.

TORONTO WOMAN ON PROHIBITION

Alderman and Editor Calls on Women to Concentrate in Plebiscite

At the Opera House last evening Mrs. L. A. Hamilton, an alderman of Toronto and a member of the National Council of Women, now meeting at St. John, addressed a large audience at a meeting in the interests of prohibition. Special music was provided, including a trio by Mrs. F. A. Good, Miss Eva Brewer and C. D. Holder, and solos by Miss Edna Baird and Dr. Leslie, of Toronto. Dr. C. C. Jones acted as chairman, introducing Mrs. Hamilton, who proved an experienced public speaker.

Mrs. Hamilton at first said she had been born in England and came to Canada in 1887. She stated that when she first heard of the National Council of Women she observed what good they were doing for their country and resolved to associate herself with the movement. For a large part of her time, as a member of the Council, she studied juvenile court work and social work in Toronto, where she had learned much of the true conditions of the poorer class of the people which were not seen outside of their homes.

The evils of alcohol as seen by her were alarming and she stated that the child destruction caused by this evil was enormous. Drunkenness only could be contended with by observation. Alcoholism was one of the plague spots of the nation and had to be cleared up. The speaker stated that in her girlish days in England the great temperance wave had not spread over the people and she herself was addicted to the use of wines. This habit, she stated, she carried with her to Canada but at the outbreak of the war she gave up this habit, stating that she had learned that she could sacrifice a habit easily because the great war was demanding of the youth of their country of their very lives. She stated that while she was deliberating giving up her habit, the broken homes and broken hearts she had seen in the trail of alcoholism had swayed her to make the decision. To take away the use of alcohol was putting the nation under a heavy responsibility, as when alcohol had been removed the vacancy caused by its extermination would have to be filled up. Recreation, she stated, should be supplied for all, the city governments and citizens uniting for this purpose. Canada was associated with other nations in the League of Nations and she was being looked up to. It was up to the women of the country to concentrate on the extermination of the greatest evil in history so they could learn the meaning of peace. Too many people busied themselves with lesser questions and spent all their time on these. Some people, she stated, claimed that drunkenness resulted from discomfort, but she stated conditions were just the opposite, discomfort was a result of drunkenness. In closing, she urged the women to stand together on the question as, she stated, prohibition in many sections where she had observed it acting had put a cleaner aspect on conditions.

At the close of her address a vote of thanks, moved by J. M. Lemont and seconded by H. T. Brewer, was extended to the speaker for her excellent address. This was tendered by Dr. Jones and the meeting closed with a prayer by Rev. Z. L. Fash.

BRITISH PASTOR RAPS PROHIBITION

Hospitality Inherited Instinct of Nation—Barter Away the Nation's Freedom

The 116th anniversary festival of the Licensed Victuallers' School was celebrated with the customary banquet at the Connaught rooms, says the London Daily Telegraph.

Proposing the toast of the "Imperial Forces, the Rev. B. G. Bourchier, whose recent protest against prohibition at a meeting at the Hampstead Garden Suburb, attracted a good deal of attention, said that at this critical moment of our national history, there was an obvious danger that we might barter away the freedom won at so great a cost. He had ventured to take a tiny stand on behalf of one of our greatest liberties.

Prohibition was a determined and considered attempt to destroy one of the most cherished liberties of a free-born people. The national character, of which we were so proud, had at its roots, surely, in good cheer and convivial company. Generous hospitality was an inherited instinct of the British people, and he could conceive no greater injury to our nation at this critical time than the introduction of a measure against the will of the people, which was bound to embitter and divide the nation, and he had been charged by his opponents with having said that prohibition played into the hands of the Bolshevist and agitator. He repeated that charge. (Cheers). To introduce a prohibitionist measure when we were harassed by economic and political problems of unprecedented magnitude would be to the dead an intolerable wrong. Our national indebtedness stood at £7,000,000. What was the good of trying to stir up the working man to do his utmost for the country, and then to take from him that which was first his right, and secondly not only his drink but his food? (Cheers). He had not lived in centres of industry for nothing, and he felt that it was contemptible to try to take away from the workers that which he believed was essential if they were to do their utmost. "We may have our faults and habits that need to be corrected," said Mr. Bourchier, "but if they are to be revised and corrected, by God! only Britons shall do it." Cheers). He urged them to use all the means in their power to defeat this soul-destoying tyranny.

AUTO SPEEDING AT MARYSVILLE

Car Drivers Evidently Don't Believe in Signs—Wedding This Week

(Special despatch to The Daily Gleaner.)

Marysville, N. B. June 21.—A very interesting event will take place on Wednesday in which a popular Nashwaak young lady and a returned soldier will be the principals.

Mrs. Hayward Brown, who was operated on at the Victoria Hospital for serious internal trouble, is doing as well as can be expected.

Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Leaver, Mr. and Mrs. Reid and Miss Reid, of Leaver Settlement, Charlotte county, are spending a few days with D. P. Reid. They made the trip by auto.

Miss Annie Hanson leaves today for Millinocket, Me. where she will spend a few weeks with friends.

C. D. Clayton, P. G. Long, Harrison W. Enp and W. N. Brown have returned from a successful fishing trip to the Bartholomew River.

A very successful basket and pie social was held at Penniac on Saturday evening. A goodly sum was realized, which will be used for repairs on the Methodist church. A number of people from Marysville attended.

Postmaster James S. Inch, who has been confined to his room for the past week with illness, is somewhat improved.

Frank C. Miller met a painful accident a few days ago, when he stepped on a rusty nail, which entered his foot, causing a painful wound. He is now able to be out again.

Mr. and Mrs. William O'Danes spent the week-end at Gagetown.

A number of scholars from Miss Z. V. Hallett's room will try the High School entrance examinations this week.

Dr. B. M. Mullin, of North Devon, has concluded his medical examinations of the students of the public schools here. Quite a number of the scholars will have to undergo minor operations for nose and throat trouble during the holidays.

Miss Mattie Pond's conditions is improving as rapidly as can be expected. Johnstone's Orchestra gave an enjoyable social dance at the Dawson Club Assembly Rooms, Friday evening.

The work of remodelling the Old Hotel on the western side of the river is progressing rapidly, and when completed will present a very attractive appearance. It will be used as a Boarding House for men only.

"Go Slow" signs, which the Police Committee have posted around the town to caution auto parties seem so far not to have the desired effect, as car drivers still continue to drive at furious rate of speed through the town. Two citizens had a narrow escape from being run down Sunday evening at the corner of Bridge and Water streets by an auto coming off the bridge. The driver did not blow his horn or slacken his speed in the least in turning the corner.

What about the Memorial to our departed soldiers? Is it not nearly time that further action was taken in the matter?

SUPERANNUATION IN CIVIL SERVICE

Measure Brought Down In the House to Provide for Superannuation of 43 Persons

Ottawa, June 20.—A measure to provide superannuation for forty-three members of the civil service occupied the attention of the House of Commons during the greater part of the first Saturday sitting this session. Estimates of the justice department, militia pensions, customs and excise estimates were put through committee before the House rose at 7 p. m., and a bill to provide for cash payment for grain delivered to country elevators was introduced. The superannuation bill met with a good deal of opposition.

J. J. Denis (Jolliette) urged the government to grant increases to judges of the Superior Court in Quebec.

E. W. Nesbitt, Oxford North, agreed that judges were not being paid enough.

Jacques Bureau, Three Rivers, said that if judges were entitled to an increase he thought members of Parliament, who belonged to the highest court in the land, should also be granted one.

Edmond Proulx, Prescott, opposed any increase in sessional indemnity to members of Parliament, and he also thought judges should be able to get on with their present salaries. The soldiers had fought overseas for $1.10 a day. The financial condition of the country, he said, did not warrant increases, especially if it was impossible to grant bonuses to soldiers.

Hon. T. A. Crerar also urged that judges should be paid higher salaries.

Estimates of $39,833 for administration of justice were then passed and the committee took up votes totalling $1,069,600 for penitentiaries. Votes passed rapidly. Within a few moments the committee passed the penitentiary estimates and further adopted votes of $27,081,736 for pensions. Of the latter $5,825,676 were for active militia pensions and for pensions arising out of the war. Customs estimates for $5,150,000 were then passed and the vote of $1,403,108 for excise also carried.

Just before adjournment nine divorce bills were adopted in five minutes. It was announced that the Franchise bill would be taken up on Monday. The House adjourned at 7 o'clock.

WIFE GETS CARE OF LITTLE CHILD

Husband Tells of Life in New England Home—Wife Says He Drank His Share

Boston, June 19—Judge Fox, in the equity motion session yesterday, granted Mrs. Sarah F. McDonough, 26, Federal Reserve Bank employee, the custody of her 6 year old daughter pending trial of her suit for divorce against James H. McDonough, retired chief machinist of the navy, 45 years old. The decision came after a long and spirited court hearing, in which a dreadnought explosion, stenography and liquor bottles appeared in the evidence.

Mrs. McDonough admitted that life with her husband had become so intolerable that she had secretly taken up the study of shorthand in order to become independent of him.

She said her husband left the house where they were living in Quincy. "He told me I was not brought up, but dragged up," she added. "He said he was sick and tired of the house and that he would get out. I have been obliged to earn my own living since he left."

She said her little girl was now living with McDonough at the home of Miss Katherine Moriarty at 99 Francis street, and whenever she went to see her, her husband would insist that Miss Moriarty be present. The girl, she said, was being taught to call Miss Moriarty's mother, "grandmother."

She denied her mother had ever said to McDonough, "to hell with you and your child."

She was asked on cross-examination if there had not been much drinking at the home of her mother at Hough's Neck and she replied that, if there had been, Mr. McDonough had done his share.

McDonough said the cause of their disagreement was his wife's entering a school of stenography without his knowledge. He had always provided for them both, he said, and was well able to do so, as he was receiving a pension of $1700 a year.

He said that while the child was at the home of his wife's mother in Quincy it had heard much profanity and was allowed to use it. He said he had seen the child with cigarettes and also passing whiskey about.

On cross-examination he admitted that he drank, as all sailors did. He did not know how many bottles he left at the Quincy home when he left, but he believed it was not 99, as suggested by Charles D. Driscol, counsel for his wife, and he was positive that he never left more than one at a time.

After the hearing, members of the Moriarty family and Mrs. McDonough and some members of her family adjourned to the corridor outside and continued the hearing in an informal way. This was adjourned also after Miss Moriarty had walked up to Mrs. McDonough and snapped her fingers under her nose.

The divorce case will probably be heard in the fall.

USE HELIUM GAS FOR AIR SERVICE

Harvard Professor Believes That the Airplane Has a Wonderful Future

Cambridge, Mass., June 19—A dirigible airship line to engage in regular passenger service between New York and San Francisco is a project in which War Department officials would like to interest capital, with a view to having an air fleet immediately available in case of war, according to Prof. Harvey N. Davis, of Harvard Uniersity.

Prof. Davis is engaged in expert work on helium gas for the department and is designing a plant to be built at Langley Field, Va., where the expensive gas, after use in the military lighter-than-air craft, may be washed free of impurities and used again. Estimates by Col. William N. Hensley, of the War Department, indicate that it will be possible for passengers to go by airship overland at a cost of about five cents a mile, at a speed of 68 to 70 miles an hour.

"The advent of the airship as a regular passenger carrier is much nearer than many persons in this country realize," said Mr. Davis. "I shall be surprised if the coming summer does not see a line of airships in operation by an English firm between the United States and the British isles, and I have no doubt whatever that a year from now will see regular weekly sailings.

"By the use of helium all danger of disaster from explosions such as have wrecked big balloons filled with hydrogen will be averted. There will be no fear of ignition of the gas by bullets, lightning or sparks from the engine. In fact, it is pointed out that the engines may be placed inside the outer shell of the dirigible, and that except for observation purposes no car need be carried outside the big bag."

While the present cost of producing helium is about ten times that of hydrogen, Prof. Davis believes that development of its manufacture will result in a cheaper product. Helium will be used to furnish the lifting power in the $2,500,000 dirigible which the Navy Department expects to obtain from an English manufacturer soon.

SCHOOL HOUSE BURNED

MILKMAN HELD UP NEAR NAUWIGEWAUK

The Contents of the Milk Cans Dumped Into the Ditch—Three Men in Attack

St. John, June 21.—The first act of violence in the strike of the southern Kings county milk and cream producers occurred on Saturday night, when a motor truck with forty cans of milk, coming towards the city, was held up by a party of three men near Nauwigewauk, about 10 o'clock, and all the milk was emptied on the road. Many of the local dealers, since the milk producers refused to send milk by the Sussex train, have been sending trucks to bring in their supply, and it was said that the persons who held up the truck knowing that it was carrying a supply of milk, built up a barricade at a spot where the driver had no alternative but to stop.

Not content that the dairymen had stopped shipments by rail to the city, where anxious mothers are fearing that they may soon be unable to get sufficient milk for their children, these men, it is alleged, wantonly spilled the whole contents of the truck on the road, and boasted that they would soon bring St. John to heel. After this had been accomplished they allowed the driver to proceed to the city with his empty cans.

EVELYN THAW SETS OUT AFTER RIVALS

Files Counter Suit for Divorce—Will Put Women Out of Husband's Camp

New York, June 19—Evelyn Nesbit, once the wife of Harry K. Thaw, began today a counter suit for divorce against her husband, Virgil James Montagni, better known on the stage as Jack Clifford. Montagni, or Clifford, served Miss Nesbit in a divorce action not long ago.

Miss Nesbit told a reporter tonight the complaint was signed late in the afternoon in the office of House, Grossman & Vorhaus, 115 Broadway, and she supposed it had been filed in the County Court. If the clerk's office was closed, she said, the papers would be filed tomorrow.

The plaintiff in the cross suit, like her husband, named a corespondent. In fact, Miss Nesbit named two. Both are well known moving picture stars. They are generally regarded as being exceptionally handsome women.

Miss Nesbit said that one of the corespondents is now at the Clifford Summer camp at Merrill, in the Adirondacks. She said she went there last week to look after property interests. She owns part of the camp, having invested much of her money in the property.

"This woman," said Miss Nesbit, "was at Oliver Young's Hotel across the lake from the camp, and I would have had a nice little talk with her, but she didn't seem to want to meet me. She hid in her room. She was not in the camp for the reason that it is bereft of furniture."

Miss Nesbit said she took a deputy sheriff with her as she was bent upon getting hold of some of her belongings, but when they got to the boat landing Clifford was there with a gun. The sheriff didn't ask him what he purposed to do with the weapon. He simply refused to go any further.

"You can go to the camp if you want to, but I think I'll stay at the hotel," Miss Nesbit reports him as saying.

There wasn't a motor boat to be had so Miss Nesbit got into a canoe and unaccompanied she rowed three miles to the camp, where she met and talked with Clifford. The conversation was quite lively, she said.

"I am going back there and if I find either of the women I named in my suit I will put her off the premises," declared Miss Nesbit. "I won't stand for her being there. It's a scandal. Everyone in the summer colony knows all about it."

RETURNED MEN AND KIN IN MAJORITY

Leader of Veterans In Manitoba Says They Will Insist on Men of Character

Winnipeg, Man., June 19—A majority of the registered voters of Manitoba are returned men or their kins, according to Leo Warde, president of the Manitoba command of the Great War Veterans' Association, who bases his statements on reports received from all parts of the province. The returned men control fifty-six per cent. of the voters, and they will insist that men of character be nominated by the different parties. Only those whose platform and character meet with approval will be favored by the returned men, Mr. Warde states. He says: "We are not out to run the country, but we do intend to direct its policy. We have now the power to put the right people in office, and we shall take advantage of our opportunity or forever hold our peace!"

AVA PEEL SENTENCED

Amherst, June 20.—The Ava Peel case finished Saturday noon and went to the jury in the afternoon, who returned the following verdict: Guilty on the second charge of arson and acquitted on the first and third charges of manslaughter and negligence. His Honor Judge Ritchie then sentenced Peel to four years in Dorchester penitentiary.

MASONS ATTENDED DIVINE SERVICE

Largest Masonic Parade Seen in Fredericton for Many Years

Members of Hiram Lodge, F. and A. M., attended the service at St. Paul's Presbyterian church last evening as part of their annual observance of St. John's Day and listened to a sermon by the pastor, Rev. J. S. Sutherland.

The Fredericton Brass Band headed the parade and there was the largest turn-out seen in a Masonic parade in Fredericton for many years. A special service was held at the church, including appropriate musical numbers. Miss Edna Baird took the solo in the anthem, the Devon quartette provided a selection and Dr. Leslie, of Toronto, sang a solo which was much enjoyed.

Rev. J. S. Sutherland chose as his text the third verse of the first chapter of Genesis: And God said, Let there be light, and there was light. He referred to the fitness of the words at the present time when the forces which threatened the foundation of the Christian world were at work. The weight of iniquity in the world which had to be overcome was steadily increasing, and while people were looking for comfort which they could not find they would be led to it if they sought for it in the Good Book.

Continuing, he referred to the words of John Milton, England's greatest epic poet, and stated that it was impossible to realize what light was unless we could place ourselves in the midst of such conditions as inspired Milton to write the words. God said let there be light and there was light. Each time He spoke the word through the ages the light became clearer. The pastor referred to the life of Arthur Henry Hallam as portrayed by Tennyson and stated that the light which came from love and strength of heart was seen in the words of Tennyson, which showed the experiences which he passed through. He referred to the first Christian martyr, Peter, stating that while he was dying the light of understanding of God awoke in his heart and showed in holy radiance on his face. At the crucifixion of Christ the Saviour's last words were: Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit. The light sent from heaven illumined His face and confounded His foes. He knew the truth of God and this showed in His countenance.

The clearer our perception of the truth and the fuller our vision of God, the clearer we could see the light. "In our Masonic ritual," he stated, "we are taught to look to the east for light and guidance, and we learn the lesson that only when we turn toward the source of light shall it be given us. All darkness of sin and heathenism is cleared by the light of God until we have the perfect understanding with God and man."

God has many ways of showing His power. When he asked for light it was given by his words showing that through his words and plans he would send light and guidance to the world. In order to have the true light faith and perception were required of mankind that they would follow out the instructions of the Master. Duty pointed the way to the light, and for every duty neglected the light was obscured until it became dim. The duty given us by convention should be second place to that given us by the highest and best achievements of fellow mortals, the highest hopes which made us men.

"As Free Masons we are not only climbers but builders according to the law of God," declared the pastor, and he urged upon his hearers to be sure and pick the foundation of their lives from the light of God. He referred to Ruskin's seven principles of architecture, stating that of these sacrifice meant the giving not of the least but of the best in us for the true temple of God. He stated that the spirit of sacrifice was that which led out nation in all ages of the past and which gave us the victory in the great world war. Another lamp that guided nations to the path of duty was power. To show power all battalions should be massed in the defence of right. "Then if we fail," the pastor said, "it is not from lack of material but from the lack of perceiving what we should do."

ST. GEORGE SCHOONER IN A BAD PLIGHT

Newport, R. I., June 20.—Two submarine chasers went out Friday to the assistance of the three-masted schooner Florence and Lillian, leaking badly and unmanageable off Seaconnet Point. One of the chasers returned tonight to try to get the services of a tug to tow the schooner into port, while the other stood by and its crew assisted at the pumps.

Capt. Murphy reported that the schooner, bound from St. George, N. B., to Norwalk, Conn., had been leaking for two or three days. This morning the water was entering so fast that he tried to make harbor at Seaconnet, but in the northeast storm the schooner lost some of her sails and he could not work her in.

TO ERECT GREAT SAWMILL

Nelson, B. C., June 12—Capitalized at one million dollars the British Columbia Spruce Mills, Ltd., of Wattsburg, is actively engaged on preliminary construction work on a sawmill and planing mill that will be the largest in the interior, having a capacity of 250,000 feet per day, or 35,000,000 to 40,000,000 feet per year.

Mrs. A. C. Woodward of Los Angeles, has a nice green "lawn" that does not need the care of watering, mowing or weeding and is absolutely "gopher proof." The lawn is of cement, with boarders of real flowers. It requires a new coat of green paint but once a year.

The man who boasts of having money to burn will soon have ashes to throw away.

TOURIST TRAVEL.

There are so many attractions for our holiday makers in our beautiful country that, in the selection of the objective, choice is embarrassing. The railways and shipping people predict a great volume of tourist travel. Money seems plentiful in spite of the high cost of living. With leisure and a well-lined pocket, the urge to travel is pressing, points out an exchange. Many of our Canadian people do not know their country as well as their neighbors to the south, and, in particular, comparatively few have troubled to enjoy the beauties of the St. John river. The North Shore and Charlotte county have also many beauty spots that should entice the holiday seeker.

Enterprise has still to provide adequate accommodation for the holiday folk who would invade the pleasant scenes which the St. John river offers, if they could be assured of the creature comforts, which are quite as necessary as poetic sentiment. There are many villages full of charm and which would be most attractive if they possessed modern hotels or boarding houses. Unfortunately, the recognition of the need has not expressed itself in the providing of the remedy to any extent.

If public spirit and enterprise could marry financial backing to such extent as to offer the summer tourists reasonable comforts and conveniences, the villages along the St. John would reap a golden harvest, the most delightful spots in New Brunswick would become widely known; and large numbers would benefit, both physically and aesthetically, from contact with scenes as engaging as any that could be found on this continent.

THE PERSIAN QUESTION.

In St. James' Palace at London, gathered about a table, the Council of the League of Nations has just received from the representative of Persia the report of Bolshevik aggressions there. In return, it has given Persia, according to a current despatch, "assurances of deep sympathy" and slight hope of effective action later on. The whole proceeding is redolent of old-fashioned, pompous, dissembling diplomatic finesse.

At a first glance it may seem that the British Foreign Office sets the pace in these proceedings. Persia lay, for a number of years prior to the war, under British influence as to the southern half of the country and under Russian in the north. Later developments have furnished the British a chance to gain economic control of the whole region. It would give the British a freer hand if the League should evince inability or unwillingness to act as a unit for the Persians' support.

When the French, after the war of 1870, would not and could not buy any of the Khedive's shares in the Suez Canal the British accommodated him and acquired a predominating interest. When the French failed to protect Egypt against the Mahdi, English measures overthrew him and ultimately made of Egypt a protectorate. On this model, the policy of today might first wait for the League to fail and then apply to Persia the methods of the British imperial policy.

The case of Poland more than anything else disturbs the reasoning which would attribute the promotion of the Persian question to King George's advisers. Between Poland and Persia there is an analogy. Each of these countries has to face the menace of the Bolsheviki. Each has attempted negotiations without success. The Persian authorities seem to want what the Poles did obtain, a measure of outside aid to strengthen their power of resistance. The cases differ in that Poland is a European Power with republican tendencies and an absolute resolution to maintain independence. They differ finally in that the British attitude toward the Polish effort to clear the frontier of active Bolshevik armies has been unsympathetic.

England, after facing in turn the menaces of Continental empire in Germanized Spain, in France and Germany, holds more than ever the resolve that no Power in Western Europe shall again attain domination. The formation of a League of Nations has not in the least lessened her apparent anxiety on that point. And since it is hard to see more than one apparition at a time, the nearer apparition of French aggrandizement has for the moment shut out in some minds those of Russian renascence and of German recovery. Just as surely as the policy of supplanting Russian or other influence with British in Persia smacks of shrewd good sense, that of trammelling Poland or any other European nation or group in its efforts toward peaceful security and betterment betrays a judgment warped by undue dread.

LOWER INFANT DEATH RATE.

Only a steady increase or decrease over a term of years can be counted as very significant in any part of the field of vital statistics. Too often episodes of one sort or another, affecting the health of a section or even of an entire country, are taken as a generalizing basis. But it is not necessary to discount the latest figures on infant mortality sent out by the Census Bureau of the United States.

Infant mortality in American cities has decreased notably. In New York the gain is 11 per cent. for children under one year. It should be added that 1919 figures were 18 per cent. lower than those of 1915, which indicates progressive rather than sporadic advance. The gain in Philadelphia of 33 per cent. is too large to be all included in general progress.

But it is impossible to lay the widespread decrease of deaths among babies to any temporary or local cause. Doubtless the presence or absence of epidemics had some relation to the figures. But some of the worst losses were divided between 1918 and 1919. And the improvement, as compared with 1915, must be remembered. On the whole, results give reason for congratulation to all the forces working for better standards of national health.

The request from Montreal by a representative of the Federation of Labor to address the Provincial Teachers' Institute of this province, which is to meet in this city next week, has suggestions that may have some interest to the taxpayers and to the people generally.

BUYING SHARES IN APARTMENT HOUSES

New York Tenants Taking Advantage of "Own Your Own Apartment" Movement

New York, June 19.—An "own your own apartment" movement is in full swing here. Two late evidences of its growing strength are the purchase by the tenants for $2,500,000 of an apartment house on Fifth avenue and the starting of construction on a co operative apartment on Park avenue, which is to cost $4,000,000.

Just the other day it was announced that Woodrow Court, an apartment house occupying the entire block front on upper Broadway, between 169th and 170th streets had been sold for $600,000 to the 53 families residing in the structure. This is said to be the first deal of such magnitude to be 100 per cent. co-operative and in which tenants of moderate means have participated. In this deal each tenant only put up a few thousand dollars in cash. In the Fifth avenue transaction each tenant was called upon for $150,000 in cash.

Starting about eight months ago the transactions in co-operative buying of apartments have mounted in volume until they are presently a fixture of realty dealings and all of the larger real estate agencies maintain special departments in which the employees do nothing else but handle the sales of apartment houses to tenants. This is generally a profitable transaction for the owner, for tenants are willing to pay more to retain their homes than speculators or investors would pay, and it is said to be profitable for the tenants in that they assure themselves of homes at a cost of only about seven years average rentals.

Tenants are approached both individually and through mass meetings when agents have apartment houses to offer. The tenants are given a certain length of time to decide, and if they wish to take the property the agents form a company to own the building to which only tenants may subscribe to stock. The purchaser of the stock gets a 99-year lease.

The shortage of office and commercial space has been only second to that for housing purposes in New York and co-operative purchasing of office and loft buildings by tenants has begun, although it has not as yet reached the proportions of apartment purchasing by tenants. Transactions in business buildings differ from apartment sales in that while co-operative buying is done it is seldom 100 per cent. so, the usual deal involving the purchase by a club of a half dozen or so business tenants, who apportion the space among themselves and then lease the remainder. The management in both cases is generally vested in some well known agent under the direction of the tenant-owners.

TOO FAT TO WALK

Lexington, Ky., June —Charles Mason, believed to be the largest 17 year old boy in the United States, is dead. He was a son of Abraham Mason, overseer of a farm at Valley Station near here. The boy weighed 385 pounds a month ago, but since then gained so many pounds that he was unable to walk. Death was caused by bronchial pneumonia.

HIDE AND WOOL MARKETS BROKEN

Green Salted Hides Selling at 12 Cents and Wool Offered at 25 Cents

Oklahoma City, Okla., June 19.—Hide dealers declare the bottom has fallen out of the hide and wool markets and are predicting $2.50 shoes within the near future.

Green salted hides which were selling for 18 cents a pound recently dropped to 12. N. B. LaBryer, manager of a hide company here, says the price will go lower, adding that the same condition exists in all the markets of the country. Calf hides which six months ago brought a dollar a pound have been offered lately at 25 cents, Mr. LaBryer continued, and then can get no buyer.

The decline in prices is due to the inability of tanners to ship their goods because of railway congestion and because of the fear of a credit stringency, Mr. LaBryer declared. Big stocks of high priced leather purchased several months ago are still on hand and they want to get rid of it before buying more. Mr. LaBryer also asserted that many tanneries have closed down entirely and others running half time.

The wool market shows an even worse state of demoralization, according to Mr. LaBryer. Wool which a year ago ranged from fifty to fifty-five cents a pound, is now virtually impossible to get twenty-five cents for, he states. The demand for wool is so slight, he said, that no dealers are making purchases except where they get an opportunity to buy at such low prices that they are willing to take a chance.

The recent attempt of the Wool Growers' Association to hold a wool sale at Enid which was called off because there were no buyers, was cited by Mr. LaBryer as an illustration of the present day wool market situation. A single buyer offered 20 cents for the best grade of Shropshire wool if he could get a carload lot

TOOK THE PLACE OF TWIN SISTER

San Francisco, Calif., June 19.—His English bride, 18 years old, told him she was not his wife at all, but was the twin sister of the woman he married while with the American Expeditionary Forces abroad, Arthur J. Eller set forth in a suit for divorce he filed here recently.

Eller's complaint stated that he married in Liverpool, Nellie Lenehan, a hospital worker whom he met in France. He returned to the United States with his contingent and his supposed bride followed. Soon after joining him here, he alleged, she told him her twin sister was his real wife.

AWAIT RETURN OF AUTO BURGLARS

New York, June 19.—Thomas Jenkins, manager of R. W. Bennett & Co., haberdashers, is still awaiting the return of three gentlemen who visited the firm's store at 106 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn. Suddenly displaying revolvers, they ransacked the establishment, took money and valuables from a salesman, a customer, and a letter carrier, and made off in an automobile, leaving a sign in the front window which read "Back in ten minutes." The police are inclined to doubt that they really intended to return.

Fess Whittaker, jailer of Letcher county, Ind., got into a fight and was sent by County Judge Collins to his own jail. Having a key to the jail, he let himself out, and later was indicted on a charge of breaking jail, and was sentenced to serve six months. Gov. Morrow has refused to remit the sentence.

The Stock Market

(Associated Press by Leased Wire.)

New York, (Wall St.) June 21.—The deficit in actual loans and discounts reported by the clearing house banks last Saturday and latest developments in the eastern European situation furnished a pretext for a moderate selling movement at the opening of today's market. Pressure was most evident in several of the recent favorites, especially Barrett, Studebaker and Crucible, which yielded one to one and one half points. The few features of strength comprised the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, Vanadium and Famous Players at gains of 1 to 2 points. Firmness was shown in the preliminary quotations for exchange on London, although reports of a gold movement from that center still lacked confirmation.

The Noon Market.

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York, (Wall St., Noon)—Dealings during the morning were somewhat in excess of the recent average, but this was partly at the expense of quoted values. Resumption of the insurgent railroad strike in the Philadelphia-Baltimore district directed renewed attention to the unfavorable transportation situation east of Chicago. Shares of the road most affected by this unexpected situation were not materially changed, however, while Lackawanna extended its rise to 12 points, making a total of 20 since last Friday. Shipings, Textiles and sugars were one to two points higher, but steels and oils reacted. The adverse bank statement caused no alteration in call money rates, which opened at 7 per cent.

The Montreal Market.

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

Montreal, June 21.—The local market was quiet at its opening this morning. What little activity there was during the first hour was shown in Quebec Railway, which held its recent advance at 28½. Other issues were quoted at about Saturday's close with sales very limited. There was evidence at the opening of a firm tone with investors cautious.

"The Investment Marketplace"

The Logic Of Buying Bonds

"The logic that is impelling foresighted investors to place their investment funds in Bonds and Good Preferred Stocks is now quite well known. Briefly the theory—and it has worked out in practice over a number of years—is that when commodity prices and interest rates come down from their present heights the return sought by investors on fixed interest-bearing securities will become less. That means the investor will be willing to pay more for Bonds and Preferred Stocks, and quotations will rise in consequence."—Forbes Magazine, New York.

Didn't Want Ducks.

In a village in Staffordshire a lady started a poultry farm with one hen and thirteen eggs. Not having had the least experience in keeping poultry, she inquired of a friend how long eggs generally took to hatch. She received the reply: "Three weeks for chickens and four for ducks." The old lady met her friends some time later, and on being asked how the poultry farm was going, replied:

'Oh, I've finished. At the end of three weeks there were no chickens, so I took the hen off, as I didn't want ducks."

To His Sorrow.

"Indeed!" said the affable passenger, as he cast an admiring glance at the man who sat in the corner of the compartment facing him. "So you're a music hall artist, are you? Dear, dear! That's very interesting! D'you know, I'm a banker, and it must be at least twenty years since I was last in a music hall."

"Ah!" sighed the other, gazing wistfully through the window at the panorama changing quickly as the train thundered along the metals. "And d'you know, sir, it must be at least twenty years since I was in a bank."

Tell Them Both One.

As Mrs. Lushington tossed to and fro one night the clock struck three, and the voice of a little child came plaintively from a crib.

"Mamma!" it said.

"Yes, love."

"Mamma, I can't sleep. Won't you please tell me a fairy story, mamma dear?"

"Wait, my love," said Mrs. Lushington. "Your father will soon be home now, and he will tell us both one."

An Exception.

It was a model prison, and the warden was talking with his latest "guest."

"Now, my man," he said, kindly, "have you a trade, or are you skilled in any line?"

"Why, yes," the man replied.

"Good! We always put men to work at their specialty. I'll do so with you."

"I am afraid you won't sir," the man replied regretfully.

"Oh, yes, we will. What are you?"

"Aviator, sir."

Deceiving Wretch.

Edith—"You say Mr. Godfrey deceived Maud dreadfully about his age?"

Gladys—"Yes, poor girl! After they were married he confessed that he was only 60 instead of 75."

Candid Small Brother.

"Edward," said the young man to his prospective brotherin-law, aged 5, "will you be sorry when I marry your sister?"

"Yes," answered the little fellow. "I'll be sorry for you."

Could Learn.

Miss Primm—Does this parrot swear?

Dealer—No, ma'am. But he's a bright bird, ma'am. Wouldn't take 'im long to learn.

Mostly Sound.

"Don't you consider my views on the question sound?"

"Well—yes; mostly sound."

Safe.

FROM THE PEOPLE

A DOMESTIC PROBLEM

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—For some time I have been reading the questions and answers in your From the People column with the greatest interest and find it the source of solution of many problems, etc.

I would consider it a great favor if I could get the opinions of a few of the intelligent contributors to this column on the following question:

Is it right for a girl to tell her husband that her mother comes ahead of him and is entitled to more love than he is, considering that the husband thinks the world of his wife and puts her first in everything?

I am extremely anxious to know whether I am jealous or perhaps right in thinking her wrong to take this attitude. Yours,

THREE'S A CROWD

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—Will some one of your many readers of the From the People column explain to a puzzled young man why it is that the ladies always refuse to go out with him unless they have another girl come along. The other day I asked a very good friend of mine to go to a show, and she said she'd go if her friend went. This morning I asked a friend to come to a party and she said she'd go if her chum accompanied us.

My character, I might say, is of the highest order, and in fact I have known these ladies for years, but I still can't understand why they refuse to go alone. Will some one please enlighten me on the subject?

Yours,

PUZZLED.

DESTROY THE BUGS

To the Editor of The Gleaner,

Sir,—I have just been going over a few potatoes in my garden—five rows about fifty feet in length—killing the bugs. It takes about one hour—a backaching job—but I claim this "stitch in time will save nine," as the young progeny has not yet hatched out to eat the leaves. This going over the plants before the eggs hatch out is important, because the Paris green is only applied when the young are consuming the leaves and thus taking away the life of the plant. I go over each plant carefully, look under the leaves, kill not only the old bugs but the eggs, which are ingeniously fastened in groups to the underside of the leaf, of a yellow color. This can be done quickly with the thumb and fingers. And that is the only right way. Go over the ground twice a week, and to those who have only a few rows the pleasantest part of the day is in the cool of the evening, when the foliage is dry.

In regard to successful gardening, it depends upon the land, what shape it is in, how much labor and knowledge is put into the cultivation, favorable weather, etc. There are some persons who start all right, but think that is all that is needed. There is often neglect to thin to proper distances and also to maintain a loose, clean surface with the hoe and rake. Of course, I have reference to the garden, not the farm, where the horse and cultivator are used. Also spraying must be done on the potatoes, not hand picking. If the cutworms are cutting the cabbage and cauliflowers off, scratch out the ground where they are hiding and kill them. They feed at night, for darkness suits their purpose best, when man sleeps. Yours,

OLD GARDENER.

DISPOSITION OF ALAND ISLANDS

Majority of Inhabitants Wish to Reunite With Sweden, It Is Said

New York, June 19.—The natives of the Aland Islands which lie between Sweden and Finland, at the mouth of the Gulf of Bothnia, are engaged in a lively agitation for reunion with Sweden, according to the advices received by representatives of the Swedish government in this country. The population of the islands is about 12,000. Formerly the islands were held by Sweden but they were taken over by Russia 120 years ago. After the world war a delegation from the Aland Islands presented to the Peace Conference a claim for annexation to Finland. A commission was appointed by the conference which recommended that the archipelago be neutralized under a guarantee of the League of Nations.

Apparently this delegation did not faithfully represent the attitude of all the islanders for other Alanders have been agitating for self-determination and permission to join with Sweden since the beginning of 1918.

The Swedish government has taken up the subject with the Powers and has asked the government of Finland to submit the question by refereadum to the natives of the Aland Islands.

According to a statement drawn up by a Swedish premier, efforts to settle the matter between Finland and Sweden have failed and the Swedish government has appealed to the Peace Conference in support of the demands of those Alanders who desire to be annexed to Sweden.

On June 1, a delegation of the County Council at Aland, empowered by 96 per cent. of the population of the islands, visited Stockholm and was received by King Gustave. This delegation presented the demands of the islanders for their right of self-determination and their intention to reunite with Sweden, declaring that their failure to receive these rights was causing impatience and that if they were withheld while being granted to others would cause great apprehension with the Aland population.

The King assured them that Sweden was making all possible efforts to obtain a decision which would be based on the vote of the islanders themselves.

FRENCH GALLANTRY A DEAD LETTER

Paris, June 19.—So bad have the travelling conditions become on the tubes here that the women workers, including the midinettes and modistes of the fashionable shops have demanded that a special carriage on each train be reserved for women.

They protest indignantly against the pushing to which they are subjected. "The traditional gallantry of France is a dead letter," said one typical business girl. "Travelling on the metro at certain hours of the day has become nothing more or less than a battle in which the weak have no chance against the strong."

Not Subject to Double Tax.

Montreal, June 21.—Word was received by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association that goods imported for use in manufacture in Canada would not be subject to double sales tax, amounting to two per cent., but only to importers' sale tax of one per cent. The ruling has particular importance to Canadian railways, steamships and utilities companies, which import enormous quantities of material.

SHIFT IN TRADE OF NEWFOUNDLAND

St. John's, Nfld., June 19. — The steady shifting of Newfoundland imports from Great Britain to Canada and the United States is shown in foreign trade figures just made public here. Imports from Great Britain in 1909 were valued at $2,493,670 and in 1919 at 2,399,853. In the same period imports from Canada increased from $3,937,009 to $12,777,684 and from the United States from $4,332,680 to $16,569,236.

The climate of Newfoundland is so severe that all of its food supplies, except fish, a few farm products and a small quantity of meat, have to be imported. Practically all clothing, furniture and household goods also come from abroad. Until about 20 years ago these imports were divided almost equally between Great Britain, Canada and the United States, but since then the tendency each year has been to buy less from the Mother Country and more from the nearer neighbors.

As the value of articles imported has doubled since the beginning of the war, the falling off in bulk of imports from Great Britain is much greater than indicated in the figures of value. Although the difficulties of transport across the Atlantic, especially during the war, have had much to do with this, it is very largely attributed to the activities of American and Canadian commercial travellers.

Business interests here have been informed that British traders are trying to set up machinery to re-establish trade with various portions of the Empire which was disrupted by the war and are expected to give first attention to Newfoundland. Dealers in this city are sending buyers to the British Isles this summer and say that they are prepared to fill their requirement there to the greatest extent possible, if they can be assured of delivery.

A man's credit may be good, but his cash is always better.

KIPLING TALKS ON 'OLD ENGLAND'

Like Well Built Gunbarrel, of One Temper, of Different Material

Boston, June 19.—Mr. Rurvard Kipling presided at the Connaught Rooms at the festival dinner of the Royal Society of St. George, and his well-known lines entitled "If" were reproduced on the menu card, says the London Times of April 23.

Mr. Kipling proposing "England," said that the Englishman, like a built-up gun barrel, was all one temper, though welded of different material and had strong powers of resistance. Roman, Norman, Papist, Cromwellian, Stuart, Hollander, Hanoverian, aristocracy, middle class and democracy in turn through a thousand years' experimented on him and tried to make him to their own liking. He met them in turn with a large silent toleration which they each in turn mistook for native stupidity. He gave them in each case a fair trial, and, when he had quite finished with them, a fair dismissal. As an additional safeguard he built up a social system divided into water tight compartments so arranged that neither the water of public panic nor the fire of private revenge should sweep his ship of state from end to end. And if, in spite of all this, the domestic situation became too much for him, he could always go to sea and there seek or impose a peace which the Papal legate, the medieval trade union, or a profligate chancellor of the exchequer denied him at home.

Thus—not in a fit of absence of mind—was the Empire born. It was the outcome of the relaxations of persecuted specialists—men who, for one cause or another, were unfit for the rough and tumble of home life. The strength of the English lay in that they had behind them the continuity of immensely varied race experience and race memory running through every class back to the very dawn of our dawn, which unconsciously imposed upon them, even while they derided it, standards of achievement and comparison, hard it might be and a little unsympathetic, but not low, and, as all earth was witness, not easily lowered; and now, "We and our kin after the great years are sick, shaken, and dizzy—like all convalescents a little inclined to live on invalids' slops as long as possible, and more than a little inclined to mistake the hysteria of convalescence for signs of new life and thought.

"But here, also, instinct tells us that our national life has dowered us with a sufficiency of ballast to navigate through whatever storms or brain storm may be ahead. We are assailed with several. One school of thought, Muscovite in origin, holds, as the Danes did, 1,200 years ago, that rapine and scientific torture will elevate our ideals, which up to the present only taught us our duty to God and to our neighbors. Others, again, are content to work for the organized bankruptcy of all things that are of good report, as well as for the systematic betrayal of our friends, very much, indeed, on the same lines as people used to panic after a crusade or a visitation of the plague. We are further promised an unparalleled outbreak of education, guaranteed to produce a standardized state-aided mind. The church evolved a parallel system in the middle ages which, much to her surprise, produced the reformation. Lastly, lest we should ever again lapse into pathetic contentment, the breed—which, organized at a week's notice, achieved the impossible and achieved it by earth, sea and air—is as a reward to be ruthlessly reorganized in every detail of its daily life, walk and conduct.

"What will the Englishman do in the future? We know that England is crippled by the loss or wastage of a whole generation. Her position from the civil point of view is that of our armies in the worst days of the war—that is to say, all leave is stopped for every man who can standup to his job, no matter how sick or stale he may be, and there is undreamed of promotion for untried men who, merely because they are not dead, will have to face heavier responsibility, longer hours, and criticism that will certainly not grow milder as the years pass. But no miracles have occurred. This world, which some of us, in our zeal to do better than good, have created and which we must all inherit, is no new world, but the old grown harder. The wheel has come full circle. The whole weight of that world at the present moment lies again, as it used to lie in the days of our fathers, upon two nations—England and France. The sole force which, under God's good Providence, can meet this turn of our fate is, not temperament, not opportunism, nor any attempt to do better than good—but character, and again character—such mere ingrained commonsense, hand-hammered loyal strength of character, as one may humbly dare to hope 1,500 years of equality of experience have given to us. If this hope be true, as, because we know the breed, we feel it to be true, our children's children, looking back through the luminous years to where we here stumble and falter, may say, "Was it posible that the English of that age did not know, could not see, dared not even guess, to what height of strength, wisdom, and enduring honor they had lifted their land?"

Only a busy man can employ his spare time advantageously.

NEW WOOL GRADING SYSTEM A SUCCESS

Expert Crawford Believes It Will Benefit and Encourage Sheep Raising in Maine

Augusta, Me., June 19—C. H. Crawford, of Dexter, the sheep expert connected with the Maine department of agriculture, has declared that the new system of co-operative work in grading and selling wool for the farmers is meeting with great favor and he believed that the idea would be a success.

"We started the work of grading, bagging and shipping wool for the members of the Sheep and Wool Growers' Association June 7, in Farmington, I being in charge and having C. M. White, agent in marketing, and Joseph Hanson, expert wool grader from the United States bureau of markets, with me," said Mr. Crawford. "The wool graded last week was as follows: Farmington, June 7, 1,202 pounds; Wilton, June 8, from growers in Wilton, North Jay, East Dixfield, Weld and Dryden, 3,203 pounds; Rangeley, June 9, 5,133 pounds; Gardiner, June 11, 1,350 pounds.

This work of grading wool is considered an educational feature, as Mr. Hanson takes much pains in explaining to the growers what constitutes the different grades and the qualities of the wool. While in a few cases the growers have been somewhat disappointed after seeing the work done and having it explained, they have been wholly satisfied.

"In some cases the wool was tied with sisal twine, which the wool manufacturers seriously object to, as the fibres get into the wool and the only way to remove it is by hand, a very expensive operation. These fibres have to be removed before the wool can be manufactured as they will not take the dye, and if left in the wool will injure the quality of the fabric.

"Mr. Hanson says that on the whole the wool thus far brought in for grading has been very good in quality and he is much gratified to find the growers delivering such a large percentage of clean and marketable wool.

"The grading in Washington county will be during the week of June 21, as follows, all hours being standard time: Tuesday, June 22, 9 a. m., at Harrington; Wednesday, June 23, 9 a. m., Machias; Thursday, June 24, 9 a. m., Trescott; Friday, June 25, 9 a.m., Perry.

"The following week will be given to cleaning up the scattering sections, including Waterville, South China and Jay, and we expect to do some in Jefferson.

"The officers of the association feel that the grading in the presence of the farmers cannot fail to have a far-reaching influence in building up the sheep industry and establishing a standard of quality for the wool produced in Maine. In all cases where the growers have been shown that they had a low quality of wool they have invariably been able to tell which sheep produced it and each one says he will sell that sheep and replace it with one of a higher grade.

"The men in charge of the grading have taken pains to explain the way that the quality of wool can best be improved through the use of pure-bred sires and more careful selection of the ewe lambs for breeding purposes. By adopting these methods the quality of wool in Maine can surely be much improved. All of which means more profit to the owners. It was often found that some of the lower qualities of wool brought in to be graded came from sheep infected with parasitic diseases, which in many cases could be easily eliminated. The men in charge take great pains to explain all these matters to the growers.

"We expect that Dr. L. S. Cleaves of the University of Maine will be with us to assist in the work in Piscataquis and Washington counties."

BRITAIN KEEPS WORLD MARKETS

British Bankers Plan to Rehabilitate Industries of Southeastern Europe

New York, June 19—The determination of Great Britain to extend her control in all world markets leading to the East is evidenced by the plans of her bankers to rehabilitate the industries of southeastern Europe, according to a statement made by the Guarantee Trust Company in a trade review just issued. It adds that "with the world suffering from under production, and at the same time from the enforced idleness of factories throughout Europe, the British method of setting the machinery in motion is not only constructive and farsighted, but of world-wide significance."

The group of British bankers who are to undertake this task is to be known as the Anglo Danubian Association, its purpose being "to furnish the raw materials which those countries need under an arrangement which will insure their transformation into finished goods in the least possible time, thus shortening the term of necessary credit extensions."

"It is in grappling boldly with problems such as these raised by the dismemberment of Austria," says the review, "that British ability to organize foreign trade stands pre-eminent. The initial capital to be employed is not great, but the method is sound. Moreover it is applicable not only to territories formerly Austrian, but to all parts of the world temporarily prostrate. It amounts in essence to shipping raw material to any point where manufacturing facilities are lying idle, retaining full control of this raw material through each stage of transformation and deducting from the final sale price of the article a sum which might aptly be called a manufacturing commission, payable to the factories which have assisted in the work."

FINE COLLECTION OF JAPANESE ART

A British Columbia Collector Brings Back Prints of Hiroshigo With Him

New York, June 19. — A Canadian collector has just shown New York what the critics declare to have been the most important collection of prints of Hiroshigo, the master of Japanese landscape art, ever seen here. He is Col. H. Appleton, of Victoria, B. C., one of the leading art collectors of the Dominion.

Col. Appleton's collection of Hiroshigo prints was placed on exhibition recently at the Walpole Galleries here. It attracted widespread attention in art circles and high prices were obtained at the sale held at the conclusion of the exhibition. The collection included many rare impressions of the famous Japanese artist's work, the most notable probably being those of thte "Yodo Neisho Hyakkai," or hundred views of Yeddo. Experts here have agreed that this group is unequalled by anything in the United States. In addtion to the Japanese prints Col. Appleton also exhibited an interesting group of Thibetan art, silks, bronzes and lacquers of old Chinese, Burmese and Keorean objects and old Viking silver.

Col. Appleton spent the early years of his life in India and the Orient and then settled in London, where his collection of Japanese prints was a noted one among connoisseurs. About ten years ago he went to Canada and his first collection was disposed of at Sotheby's. Col. Appleton settled in Victoria and immediately began a collection of perfect prints of the great Japanese landscape artist, and the success of his efforts in this work is attested by the verdict given by New York art circles upon the collection shown here.

PARENTS ON STAND IN FORGERY CASE

Declare Perley Munn Was at Home Haying During All of August, 1919

The case of Perley Munn of Hayesville, charged with forging a time check of the Fraser Companies Limited, was continued this morning in the Police Court when evidence for the defence was taken. Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Munn were called to the stand and each stated that they were prepared to swear that Perley Munn was in Hayesville haying throughout the month of August and that he had not been away from his home.

The witnesses were cross examined by R. B. Hanson, K. C., for the prosecution, who brought out in the evidence that during the month of August 1919 Perley Munn had been at his own home engaged in haying on his father's land which took him the greater part of the month. The evidence of the three witnesses corresponded as to the whereabouts of the defendant during the month of August and that of his mother in particular showed that he had not left home during the month in question. Further questions produced the fact that during the month of July the defendant had been engaged in peeling pulp with his brother.

E. Allison McKay appeared for the defendant. At the close of the evidence of Benjamin Munn, the case was adjourned until this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

Council of Women Receive Report on the Equal Moral Standard for Both Sexes

The Report Advocates the Woman's Court, the Woman Magistrate and the Women Policemen—Claims Disastrous Results Follow Present Practice

[Canadian Press by Leased Wire.]

St. John, June 21.—A pleasing feature of this morning's session of the convention of the National Council of Women was the presentation by Mrs. A. H. McCready, of the Sackville local council, to Mrs. Samford, the National President, of a handsome bouquet of roses, with the compliments of the Sackville local council.

The corresponding secretary read a letter from Alfred Fitzpatrick, of the Frontier College, Toronto, enclosing a copy of a pamphlet, "Our New Canadians." It was decided to send a letter of commendation of the work being carried on by the College.

The report of the committee on equal moral standards and prevention of traffic in women was read by Mrs. W. C. Godd, of St. John, and the following resolutions presented.

Whereas, in the present practice of law, women offenders are arrested by men, before men, and

Whereas, in many cases disastrous results follow, which easily might have been averted by contact with women officials, and

Whereas, this committee is of the opinion that the ideals for which it stands would be more quickly attained if these agencies were more generally available, namely, the woman's court, woman's magistrate and policewomen; therefore

This committee recommends that the Council advocates the establishment of these valuable moral agencies in every community where they do not already exist.

A resolution was passed providing for payment of an annual fee of $5 to the national council by each local council and the contribution of council aid to the national council equivalent to $1 for each society federated with local councils.

It was decided to make the amount of council aid $2 from each federated society.

It was decided that the exhibiting of deformed or freak children be prohibited and that a copy of this resolution be sent to the Mayor of each city.

WARNS OF PLAN TO WAR ON TOBACCO

Association Officer Tells of the "Reformers' Threats" on the Weed

Atlantic City, N. J., June 21.—"Threats" by "reformers" to legislate tobacco out of the country were reported to the convention of the Tobacco Association of the United States here today by G. E. Webb, secretary-treasurer. He said it did not constitute being an alarmist to realize that a serious danger confronts the tobacco trade.

"The professional reformers must have employment, and now they have elected to attack tobacco," he said, calling upon his colleagues to fight the anti-tobacco movement before it is too late. This, he said, should be done by counteracting propaganda designed to prejudice the public against the use of the weed.

CLAIRVOYANT GAVE THE TRICK AWAY

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 21.—Mrs. Margaret N. Brown, of Kingston, in a suit for divorce brought against her sixty-year-old husband, alleges that her husband was untrue. She engaged a detective to follow her husband, and the sleuth made a report as a result of which Mrs. Brown names the clairvoyant as corespondent. Neither the wife nor the fortune teller knew the identity of the other. Brown has entered no defense.

DID NOT FIND WHISKEY

Sacramento, Calif., June 21.—When burglars ransacked the cellar at the A. Van Phinney home, in an exclusive residential section here, a barrel of whiskey was not included in the loot the police have announced. Phinney had placed it in his bedroom for safe keeping, they say.

BELGIAN RECOVERY MOST REMARKABLE

The Production of Coal Mines in Excess of Pre-War Figures—Exports Extended

New York, June 21.—The remarkable recovery which Belgium is making is described in reports received by the Guarantee Trust Company of New York from its correspondents in that country. The little country which was so ruthlessly laid waste by the Germans, according to these reports is now rapidly assuming a place in the forefront of producing and commercial nations.

Here is a summary of Belgium's position at the end of the war:

One-third of the factories destroyed; 2,000 kilometres of railways, 1,300 bridges, 600 kilometres of canals, and practically the entire telephone and telegraph systems rendered useless; 60,000 railway cars and 2,500 locomotives had been taken; the public administration had been disorganized; the State Treasury was empty.

The factories are operating in percentages of pre-war production ranging from 40 per cent. in the steel mills to 80 per cent. in textiles and totality in wool.

The railways are hauling 80 per cent. of the normal pre-war freight trains and 60 per cent. of the normal pre-war passenger trains.

Exports to Holland exceed by 40,000,000 francs the imports from that country; the exports to France are 20,000,000 in excess of the imports, and progress is being made toward equalization of trade with England and Italy. It is only with countries such as Canada, the United States, and Argentine, where the Belgians are purchasing food, that the commercial balance is heavy against them.

The production of the coal mines is in excess of that of 1912.

WORKS OF ART WERE CLUMSY COPIES

New York, June 21.—At the outbreak of the war John T. Milliken, a St. Louis millionaire, was advised by a friend in France that he had found a bargain in old masters. It was a collection of works of art gathered by a Lille merchant whose widow was almost ready to "give it away" rather than let it fall into the hands of the Germans. Mr. Milliken sent $100,000 to the friend, who bought the collection. The pictures could not be shipped from France during the war, and Mr. Milliken died in meantime. At the Anderson galleries here the other day the collection was sold by the order of the executors. It brought exactly $6,253.00. It was discovered that most of the alleged masterpieces were clumsy copies.

Many a thing is done well that isn't worth doing.

ORGANIZED LABOR WANTS TEACHERS

licenses in this province there have been several invitations thrown out by the Federation of Labor of New Brunswick to the N. B. T. A. to become affiliated with that body, but so far no action in that connection has been taken by the teachers' organization.

The latest advances have been made by Charles Stillman, of Chicago, President of the American Federation of Teachers, who has written from Montreal, where he has been attending the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, suggesting that he would be pleased to address the New Brunswick Teachers Association when they meet here next week in conection with the New Brunswick Educational Institute convention, which will be in session here for three days and will be attended by probably 700 teachers.

While no definite intimation has been received by A. S. McFarlane, of this city, secretary of the N. B. T. A., as to the subject to be discussed by Mr. Stillman, it seems to be taken for granted that his suggestion having been accepted, he will advocate affiliation with the American Federation of Labor and will point out the advantages of making the organization in this province part of the controlling labor organization of this continent.

BLOOD WARMER IS SCARCE IN ICELAND

New York, June 21.—Iceland is not a good place to go for a holiday trip, testifies Edward J. Curry, a British manufacturer, who has just reached New York after a year spent in that country.

"In Iceland they have everything you don't want," he declared. "In the first place, it's very cold there. You need a drop of something to make your blood tingle. But you can't get it often enough to produce a sufficient tingle. It's as scarce there as a psalm singer among the Hopi Indians."

Week End Auto Parties.

A large number of car parties were in the city yesterday and Saturday from the various parts of the province and from the United States. Those at the Barker House were Mrs. Luther Buber, Lawrence Buber, Juanita Buber, Madeline McGinney and Maud Fraser, of Berlin, New Hampshire; Miss Paxson, of Philadelphia, Miss Gilman, of Cambridge, Mass. and George Freda, of Chester; George Folkins, Mrs. Cogan, Harry Thompson, Frank Monk and Robert Mullin, of Houlton, Maine. A party including Ald. Mrs. L. A. Hamilton, Frank J. Lindsay, Jessie C. Ivor, of Toronto, Lillie C. Woodhall, of Calgary, Alta., May C. Carpenter, of Hamilton, Ont., Mrs. W. R. Jackon, Mrs. J. Bertram, of Toronto, and Ald. Mrs. Clara W. Twidale, of Niagara Falls, P. Jarvis and H. Moore, of Toronto, the ladies of which have been attending the National Council of Women at St. John, motored to this city yesterday accompanying Ald. Mrs. Hamilton, who spoke last evening at the Opera House on prohibition. Other parties at the Barker House over the week end were Mr. and Mrs. N. R. William, of Moncton, Mr. and Mrs. W. Amey, of Newcastle and I. C. Burpee and R. F. Silver, of Boston, Mass. The parties registered at the Queen Hotel over the week end were Mr. and Mrs. S. Bond and Mr. and Mrs. S. Moore, of Perth, J. M. Robertson, R. W. Sadleir and J. B. Currie, of St. John.

Charles Behrens, found guilty at Zion of swearing in the presence of a Zion man and his wife, was given the alternative of paying $50 a week fine or working for 45 days on the roads. He chose to do the work, at about $1.11 a day. Ordinarily he gets $8 a day as a tanner.

Miss Gertrude Pinder spent the week-end at Hoyt Station, the guest of Miss Hallstone.

QUEBEC PROSPEROUS AND LAW-ABIDING

Wealthy Summer Visitors Already Finding Way to the Pleasure Resorts

Quebec has the reputation of being the best regulated province in the Dominion, and, in many respects, is the most progressive. The acreage of farm lands under cultivation during the years 1914 to 1919 showed a larger gain in Quebec than any other province, and permanent road-making was first adopted as a government policy by Quebec. It is also a notable fact that the rural population is most prosperous and law-abiding.

And yet Quebec was the last Canadian Province to adopt Prohibition, and still maintains under Government control, the sale of light wines and beer, the people declaring by a vote of ten to one that they preferred this system rather than Bone-Dry Prohibition. Summer visitors are already flocking to Quebec from all parts of the continent; the Montreal hotels are filled to overflowing at all seasons. Is New Brunswick not to have a share of this wealthy summer traffic?—Adv.

A Medical Authority

"The use of light wines and beer . . . has much to recommend it in preference to the adulterated and poisonous liquors which are obtainable at present."—Dr. J. S. Bentley, President of the N. B. Medical Society in an address delivered at last yearly convention.

Dr. Bentley further said: "But after all is not Education still the most important factor in promoting temperance? The training of the young, the encouragement of healthful sports and athletics, the providing of better living conditions and amusement centres for the working man and his family will do more to supersede intemperance than all the legislation that can ever be passed."

THE WORLD OF SPORT

ALL THE NEWS — AND REVIEWS.

P. H. Reed Died Suddenly From a Paralytic Stroke

Fort Fairfield Patron of Harness Racing Was Prominent Figure

WELL KNOWN IN BUSINESS

Word reached here yesterday that P. H. Reed, of Fort Fairfield, Me., one of the best known men in Aroostook county, had died suddenly on Saturday night following a paralytic stroke a few hours before his death.

At first the news could scarcely be credited, but a party of Houlton men who arrived here by automobile declared the news had reached Houlton before they left there late Saturday night and afterwards The Gleaner received a message confirming it.

The late Mr. Reed was best known in the Maritime Provinces through being the owner of the Reed stable which has been raced on the Maritime Circuit almost every year for a dozen or so years under the skilful guiding hand of Driver G. W. ("Mont") Gerow. He had associated with him in the ownership of the stable his son, George W. Reed, who has occasionally done some of the driving and proven an artful amateur reinsman.

Little Anna S., 2.12¼, and Bravas, 2.15¾, were the stars of the Reed stable last year and they, with five unmarked trotters and three pacers, the latter including an expensive Direct pacer imported a few weeks ago from Pennsylvania, made up this year's stable which was being fitted to open the campaign at Caribou, Me., with a schedule which brought them to the Maritime and Maine circuit somewhat later in the season than usual.

A Creditable Career.

Mr. Reed was one of those wealthy business men interested in horses whose presence as being identified with harness racing has meant a great deal in keeping up the sport. His whole career in racing was without blemish and his passing is a sad blow to the sport, leaving as it does a vacancy which it will be difficult to fill. His son, George, will doubtless maintain the stable which was his father's pride, and it is believed that, as would have been his father's wish, there will be little change made in the racing programme which had been mapped out for the horses.

The late Mr. Reed was one of the best known men in the potato trade in Northern Maine. He was a big grower, maintaining a tremendous farm, and he also bought and sold tubers as well as seed. His other business interests had included a magnificently equipped commercial garage, but he recently disposed of that building for a reported price of $125,000. Mr. Reed was between 55 and 60 years old, and besides his widow is survived by four sons and two daughters. His estate will be worth, it is said, more than half a million dollars.

Horsemen all over the Maritime Provinces will join in sympathy to the bereaved family and will learn with deep regret of the death of P. H. Reed.—J. D. B.

Zom Q. 209 1-4, Being Sold To Man Who Will Bet $2000

Zom Q., 2.09 1-4, the pacer that has raced so sensationally in Maine the past few seasons for Harry Nevers, the Houlton trainer, is in the process of being sold.

Already a half interest in the son of Dan Q. has been sold by Nevers to Fred Bishop, a well-to-do farmer who lives near Houlton, and it is said the wealthy potato grower has a friend who will soon become his partner in the complete ownership of the brown pacer.

It is said that the real object of Bishop in acquiring control of Zom Q. is to match him against The Problem, 2.04 1-2, now under the direction of Bud Tingley, of Houlton, but really owned by Ira Carpenter, the well known lumberman and horseman, of Patten, Me. The pair will meet at Houlton at the opening meeting of the Maritime & Maine Circuit on July 5th and 6th, and word has reached here that Zom Q. will go to the wire in that meeting with his new owner ready to wager any part of $2,000 that he will beat the brown son of Cochato.

Zom Q. got his mark of 2.09 1-4 over the Houlton track at the Fair last fall, when he beat Fern Hal, 2.05 1-4, in what was said to be the fastest race ever paced in Aroostook County. The son of Dan Q. has done practically all his racing in Maine, while The Problem was formerly on the Grand Circuit.—J. D. B.

Fredericton Still To Have Eight Days Horse Racing

Will Be Four Days Meeting Here in September With Programme of Twelve Purses and Stakes—Double Stable of Eleven Horses Coming From New Hampshire

The fact that the Fredericton Park Association's opening meeting has been reduced from two days to one will likely make it a more profitable undertaking than the longer meeting, as there should be a bumper crowd on the holiday to see the three events already arranged.

President P. S. Watson is organizing a named race which will be a matinee event and should prove an attraction, particularly from a local standpoint. Committees will take charge of the other features of the afternoon's programme and those who spend the holiday in Fredericton will find plenty to entertain them.

The curtailment of the opening meeting will not affect the volume of racing for the season here, as the management will go through with their original intention to give eight days' racing. This will be done by increasing the fall meeting on the Maritime and Maine Circuit from three to four days and offering a programme of twelve races, of which seven will be stakes.

Entry blanks for both circuit meetings in Fredericton will be sent out tomorrow or Wednesday and promise to have some surprises for campaigning horsemen. There is every indication of a larger number of horses being seen on the Maritime and Maine Circuit this season than ever before, although the local meetings in Aroostook county will probably keep a good many of the Maine trainers at home.

A Big Double Stable.

Definite word was received by the secretary of the Fredericton Park Association that as a result of correspondence that has been carried on Harry T. Hayes, a well known trainer located at Rochester, N. H., will come to the Maritime and Maine Circuit the middle of July with another driver and their combined string will consist of eleven horses, the list being made up as follows: Pacers—Crafts Pointer, 2.16¼; Valley Forbes, 2.20¼; Billy Buck, 2.21¼; Myra Bingen, 2.18¾; Little Glencoe, Wilkes Brino and Madeline Bogash, unmarked; trotters—Ed Jolla, Brouze Belle, Bensol, Jr., and Miss Arion.

No announcement has yet been made as to the entries for the opening meeting at Moncton on July 1st, 2nd and 3rd, but in view of the inducements that have been offered to stables to go there it is expected there should be enough horses available to fill the various races, if the stables expected from Prince Edward Island show up.

LEADERS KEEPING CONTENDERS AT BAY

Cincinnati and Cleveland Beat Eastern Rivals in Inter-Sectional Series

[Associated Press by Leased Wire.]

New York, June 21.—The ability of the Cincinnati Nationals and the Cleveland Americans to maintain a winning pace against the eastern teams in the present inter-sectional series has enabled them to retain the leadership of their leagues. Each disposed of its chief eastern rival, the Brooklyn Nationals and the New York Americans respectively, last week. Rain interfered with the schedule of both league leaders.

The Brooklyn Nationals' pitchers have been unable to check the western visitors, losing series to Cincinnati, St. Louis and Chicago. St. Louis' spectacular climb, which started in the west, met with a surprising interruption in Philadelphia, where the Quakers won three out of four. Both Chicago and Pittsburg have recovered from their losing slumps.

The Cubs, who won their fifth straight game yesterday, have hopes of getting back into the leadership scramble before returning west this week. New York appears to be headed for last place, as the Giant pitchers are not meeting with much success, while Philadelphia has now a fair combination of effective batting and steady pitching.

In the American League, Cleveland was outslugged and defeated yesterday by Boston, whose pitchers engaged in close low-scoring battles with Detroit last week. New York broke the winning streak of St. Louis yesterday after the Browns had won ten straight victories through splendid batting.

Chicago has been able to maintain only an even pace and apparently has little chance of joining in the fight for first place for some time. High scores are being made on the Washington twirlers, but the Senators managed to outbat Detroit yesterday. The Tigers made their best weekly showing last week. Philadelphia lost its 13th straight game yesterday, tying the present major season record set by Detroit.

"Babe" Ruth, the New York Americans' premier long distance hitter, brought his home run total up to 19 with three circuit hits last week.

Babe Ruth Knocked Out.

Chicago, June 20.—Babe Ruth was knocked unconscious for five minutes during the second inning at White Sox Park Saturday afternoon, when he was hit on the head by a ball. He refused to leave the game after being revived.

Ruth opened the second inning with a single. Meusel grounded to Weaver who touched second, forcing Ruth and then attempted to double Meusel at first. The ball struck Ruth on the side of the head.

Ruth continued playing until the fourth inning, when he became unsteady while in the field. After he had missed a fly ball Manager Huggins took him out of the game.

Appeal Not Allowed.

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 20.—United States District Judge Peck on Saturday over-ruled a motion for a new trial in the suit of Lee Magee against the Chicago National League Baseball Club for $9,500 for salary and possible bonuses in 1920. A jury recently decided against Magee. His attorney said that the case will be taken to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.
