Highland Tea Is Pure Tea

Grand Mogul teas are the products of the highlands in Ceylon.

Q They are the real mountain dew of the Orient.

Q Nature put into these Highland teas a high percentage of theine (flavoring) and a low percentage of tannin (bitters).

Q Grand Mogul teas are a nerve tonic, a pure food and an aid to life.

Q Nervous people prefer them to medicine.

Q Healthy people regard them as the beverage of good health.

Q Prepared by machinery from plantation to teapot.

Grand Mogul Tea

Q Sold only in packages at 25c, 30c, 40c and 50c per pound in black, green or mixed. Look for the premium coupon and premium list in each package. The cost of the coupons is not taken out of the tea, but is simply a part of the advertising appropriation.

Our Lady of Nerves.

The woman who is nervous from ill health, overwork, anaemia or other physical ailment merits the warmest sympathy. But it is the pensive woman who is "afraid" to walk a square at night when masculine escort is available, yet who would walk a mile if sufficient lure was at the other end and it was to go alone or not to get it—it is to this descendant of the agitated female of fifty years ago that sympathy is due. She thinks it ladylike to be timid, not realizing that cowardice, either in man or woman, is a miserable, a despicable flaw. Could some one take this great grow-up baby and tell her after suitable old fashioned punishment that what she called nervousness was nothing but temper, selfishness and a determination to have her own way it might bring about a sharp but lasting cure.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Delicate Cake.

From a new cook book this recipe for old fashioned white cake or delicate cake is taken: Cream together a cupful of butter and two of sugar; then add slowly a cupful of sweet milk and the whites of eight eggs beaten to a stiff froth. Finally mix in three cupfuls of sifted flour in which have been mixed three teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Stir as little as possible. Flavor with a teaspoonful of almond extract and chopped almonds is added at the last. When such a cake is iced and decorated with whole blanched almonds an orthodox christening cake is produced.

THE RUINS OF NIPPUR.

Archaeologists Disagree Over Professor Hilprecht's Discoveries.

Scientists and students of archaeology are taking much interest in the controversy over statements of Professor Herman V. Hilprecht as to his discoveries in Assyria. Professor Hilprecht is curator of the collection of antiquities possessed by the University of Pennsylvania and head of the Assyriological section of that institution. This university has contributed much to historical and archaeological lore by explorations of ancient cities conducted under its supervision. Five such expeditions have been organized for exploration and excavation upon the site of the ancient city of Nippur.

PROFESSOR HERMAN V. HILPRECHT.

and several of the later expeditions have been under charge of Professor Hilprecht.

The first expedition was directed by the Rev. Dr. John P. Peters, then a professor of the University of Pennsylvania, but now rector of an Episcopal church in New York. One of Dr. Peters' assistants in this expedition was Dr. J. D. Prince, now professor of archaeology at Columbia university. Dr. Peters and Dr. Prince and other experts in archaeology have criticized Hilprecht's statements as to tablets said to have been taken from the library of the temple of Bel, or Babel, representing facts and with lack of scientific good faith. Much importance attaches to this question of Professor Hilprecht's accuracy in describing his discoveries, as he claims to have unearthed tablets in the ruins of Nippur that carry the history of the race back to a period earlier by some centuries than of which other known records tell.

The professor has as yet deciphered but comparatively few of the tablets found. In interpreting one inscription he relates that he was aided by a remarkable dream, in which a priest of Bel, who died thousands of years ago, seemed to appear to him and conducted him to a buried portion of the temple. There the priest revealed to him the mystery. When the professor awoke he found that the priest had told him the truth.

THE POWER OF LOVE.

To Love One's Neighbor in the Truest

Sense is to Love All That Is Best and Purest in Man.

Maurice Maeterlinck, German author and thinker, writes: "It is well that men should be reminded that the very humblest of them has the power of fashion, after a divine model, that he chooses not, a great moral personality composed in equal parts of himself and the ideal."

It is only in the depths of life that this great moral personality can be carried out, and only by means of the ceasing revelations of the divine can we add to the sources of the ideal we require.

To every man it is given to attain in spirit to the heights of virtuous life and to know at all times what the conduct should be would he act like hero or a saint. But more than this is needed. It is essential that the spiritual atmosphere about us should be transformed to such a degree that it ends by resembling the atmosphere of Swedenborg's beautiful countries of the age of gold, wherein the air permitted not a falsehood to leave the lips.

An instant comes then when the smallest ill that man would commit falls at our feet like a leaden ball upon a disk of bronze, when everything changes, though we know it not.

Into beauty, love or truth.

But this atmosphere envelops those only who have been heedful to ventilate their lives sufficiently by at times flinging open the gates of the other world. It is when we are near to those gates that we love, for to love one's neighbor does not mean only to give oneself to him, to serve, help and sustain others. We may possibly be neither good nor noble nor beautiful even in the midst of the greatest sacrifices.

The nurse who dies by the bedside of a typhoid patient may perhaps have a mean, rancorous, miserable soul.

To love one's neighbor in the inmovable depths means to love in others that which is eternal, for one's neighbor in the truest sense of the term is that which approaches the nearest to God—in other words, all that is best and purest in man—and it is only by ever lingering near the gates I spoke of that you can discover the divine in the soul. Then will you be able to say with the great Jean Paul, "When I desire to love most tenderly one who is dear to me and wish to forgive him everything, I have but to look at him for a few minutes in silence."

To learn to love one must first learn to see.

"I lived for twenty years by my sister's side," said a friend to me one day, "and I saw her for the first time at the moment of our mother's death. Here, too, it had been necessary that I should violently fling open an eternal gate so that two souls might behold each other in a ray of the primal light. In there one among us who has not learned to love one has never seen
