

ILLUSTRATIONS

"At that sound the Ottawa and the other chiefs sprang to their feet."	Frontispiece
Portrait of the Author	v
"Choking up the gateway . . . a dense mass of dusky Indians were to be seen."	192
"The soldiery, . . . collected along the line of rampart in front, were watching the progress of the ball-players."	268
"During the whole of that day the cousins had continued on deck, clasped in each other's arms."	309
"Wacajusta began his descent, not as before by adhering to the staff but by the rope."	442