OCTOBER.

Upon the brown and far off hills
The haze lies soft and blue,
While nuts are dropping thick and fast
Where Summer wild flowers grew.

The maple's gold and crimson leaves
Like blood stained banners gleam,
And purple asters ope their bloom
Beside each purple stream.

The woods like some grand temple stand
Beneath the glowing skies,
While down the long, dim aisles the have
Like slumbering incense lies.

No organ's deep, majestic notes
Come pealing on the air,
No choral strain triumphant floats
Along those arches fair.

No voice is heard—no sound, save but
The brooklet's ripling flow,
Or whistling quail in covert thick
Where scarlet berries grow.

Perchance some frightened rabbit's tread
May wake an echo there,
Or drowsy hum of honey-bee
Fall on the dreamy air.

The sunflower and the golden rod
Their gaudy hues unfold,
And seem as if some Midas' touch
Had changed them into gold.

The grapes in purple clusters hang
Upon the clinging vine,
And in the orchard, 'mid the leaves,
The ruby apples shine.

But through the forests, o'er the hills,
A voice came whispering low—
It murmurs of the wintry winds
And of the falling snow.

The crimsoned leaves to earth must fall,
And breezes o'er them sigh—
Oh! sad it seems, that aught so fair,
Should ever fade or die.

We read on every falling leaf
This lesson most sublime,
That resurrection's holy power
Shall triumph over time.

For though the Summer flowers must fade,
The Spring with sun and rain
Shall call them from the hill and dale
To bud and bloom again.

☞ To Save Potatoes.—The Gazette des Campagne says the following method never fails to save potatoes that are in danger of rotting. As soon as the disease appears, take them up, and after leaving them dry on the ground, put them into the cellar as follows: Place a layer of potatoes and dust over them a slight coat of lime, and so on till all are covered. The lime absorbs all moisture, and preserves the potatoes; and a barrel of lime, which costs 3s., will serve in this way for 200 bushels of potatoes.

☞ A brother of Charles Dickens died in Chicago on Friday.

'My son,' said an astronomer, the other day, 'you will see the earth turn over on its axis, and makes one revolution round the sun each year.' 'Then, pa, does France turn on its axis when it makes its revolutions?' 'No, my son, not exactly, it turns on its bayonets.'

AINLEYVILLE.

The Fall Show of the Ainleyville Branch Agricultural Society was held in the Village of Ainleyville on Friday the 12th Oct. inst., the day was everything that could be desired, and the inhabitants of the surrounding neighborhood availed themselves of the opportunity of combining pleasure with business, by pouring into the Village in well-dressed crowds from an early hour in the day, forming the largest Fair, so far as numbers are concerned, which ever attended our agricultural fair. A Fair for the sale of cattle was held in our Village the same day, thus, together with different stock for exhibition, gave an air of business, not usually seen in the back Townships. Much of the Stock exhibited, showed, if not superior breeding, at least, superior feeding and care by the owners; the sheep were indeed, beyond common, a pleasing circumstance, as no pains should be spared in the encouragement of that most useful and profitable description of stock. Hogs and small pigs were exhibited which showed attention by their breeders, to the best class of the "unclean animal." A carriage horse was exhibited by Amos W. Richards, and for which a first prize was awarded, would command admiration in any show, for symmetry, action and blood. The large Hall in the North American Hotel lent for that purpose by the most obliging landlord Wm. Armstrong Esq. was well filled with the produce of the field, the Garden and Orchard, the Dairy as well as the other departments, particularly the lady's, were also well represented, in fact it is the peculiar boast of Grey and Morris, that the best butter is here and the best made shirts, worn, of any other place in the country.

Thomas Kelly Esq., of Morris, had in the Hall several large bunches of grapes of different varieties, not second to any exhibited at the Provincial shows. The business done in the Hotels and saloons was such as to gratify, if not satisfy, those polite and accommodating caterers for the hungry and thirsty on such occasions. The different general Merchants, of the village had an opportunity of showing the superiority and cheapness of their goods, as was fully proved, (we hope, to their satisfaction,) by the large amount of goods purchased during the day.

The Judges of stock, were, Wm. Chesney, Esq., of Tuckersmith; Samuel Black, Esq. Wm. Douglas, Esq., Turnbury. Judges of manufacturers, &c., Thomas Hill, Esq., Egmondville; Alex. Gibson, Esq., Wroxeter; and John Fowler, Esq., Turnbury. Judges for Domestics and fine arts, Wm. Laurie, Esq., Wroxeter; Richard Miller, Esq., Morris; and John Moyer, Esq., Binevale.

I am happy to say, that those gentlemen, by the urbanity of their manner and correctness of their judgement, performed the almost unprecedented task of giving satisfaction to all parties.

STANLEY.

AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITION AT ZURICH.

[From our own Correspondent.]

The second exhibition of this Society came off to-day, Friday, October 5, at the Village of Zurich. The weather was delightful, all that could be desired for an occasion of the kind. We have had ten days of splendid weather. The roads have got good again, and we are fast making up for the long spell of dreary wet and mud, which we have had this season. The show to-day has been a perfect success; a credit to the Township, and to all concerned; the gathering of people far larger than last year; the show of stock also better, and the inside of the town hall nearly all that could be desired. The success to-day is a fine example of what indomitable perseverance can accomplish. But two years ago the society started in a comparatively new country, among German people who were supposed to know little about such things, and care less. It has had to fight its way with a rival, who has so far been able to keep it back from legal recognition, and deprive it of its share of Government money, yet, notwithstanding all this, friend and foe alike have acknowledged that the show to-day exceeded all that they ever expected.

They cannot do things in the usual routine in Zurich; they must have something odd. Last year a preacher held forth in the street, this year a large room fronting the street is rugged out for a ball room, where a band of musicians has discoursed sweet music all day to all who wish to enjoy a trip on the "light fantastic toe." During the few minutes I watched this scene I saw fantastic toes enough, but plenty of them were anything but light. It served a good purpose, however, on the occasion, by interesting the youngsters, and was a decided improvement, I think, on the preaching. The large turn out of people from other localities almost neutralized the German element of the population of Hay, and unless you had been watching very closely for a "paw" or a "we gauze," you would scarcely have known that the exhibition was being held in a German Village. I am informed by the Secretary, Mr. Vauthier, that there are nearly three hundred entries. It was nearly 12 o'clock before the judges got commenced to their labors. The judges outside were James Pickard, Esq., of Exeter; John Bleam, Esq., of Stanley, and Richard Sweet, of Stephen. On taking a ramble through the show ground I find a very good turn out of horses, a pair of fine greys owned by Jas. White of Hay, are deservedly admired, a few good brood mares and foals are to be seen, and some good colts are shown by Messrs. Thomsom, Ferguson, Petty and Nickolson. A few good cows and heifers are to be seen, but the horned cattle does not come up to the mark either as to quantity or quality, and does not at all, I think, represent the Township. The sheep are middling, and the pigs indifferent, with the exception of some Berkshires owned by the Messrs. Brown of Zurich. Two waggons are shown by Mr. George McLeod, of Rodgerville; they are of very excellent workmanship, and Mr. McLeod has no reason to be ashamed of his handiwork. Upon the whole, the outside does not come up to the average of the Township shows in the county, but at the rate of progress made since last year, it will soon come all right. The judges inside were Jas. Doubler, Esq., of Rodgerville; Jas. Anderson, Esq., of Stanley, and Joseph Case, Esq., of Usborne. Being one of the privileged few, I was allowed to examine the contents of the Town Hall, while the judges were at work and before the general public were admitted. Everything was tastefully fitted up, and looked nice indeed. The first thing that struck me was the fine display of quilts, coverlets, counterpanes and table covers, some of them displaying rare workmanship, and all of them comfortable and substantial looking. It is almost invidious to make distinctions where all did so well, but I cannot omit to mention the names of the Misses Wilson, the Misses Patterson, and Mrs. Wm. Lehman, in connection with the ladies' department.

The show of grain next attracted attention. It was really excellent; far better than could have been expected for the season. There was nearly a dozen bags of fall wheat, and it must have puzzled the judges some to decide which was the best. The spring wheat shown was first rate; friend Turnbull of the Lake Shore, carried off the first prize, it was a beautiful sample. It is something peculiar that the best samples of our spring wheat this season came from the Lake Shore, it must be that the midge and other vermin have a wholesome dread of going too near a watery grave. I had no idea of seeing this year of wet such clear-skinned barley as was shown by Messrs. Patterson and Zellar. And the oats shown by Messrs. Arbuckle and Love were capital; they were of the "Tartarian" variety, and, I am informed, will weigh nearly 42 pounds to the bushel. The show of vegetables, from the inevitable monstrous pumpkin to the less pretentious but more useful potatoe, was all that could be desired at a Township exhibition. From the show of roots and vegetables one would have expected a keener competition in dairy produce. What was shown, however, was very good; the cheese by Thomson proved what even an 'auld wife' can do, independent of cheese factories. Of the display of fruits I cannot speak too highly; it was well selected and well arranged, and set off to the very best advantage. They appear to understand this sort of thing in Zurich. The peaches and grapes were very tempting to look at. I would like to dilate a little on the honey shown by Messrs. Petty and Turnbull, the flax by Turnbull, and the flax yarn by Bloch, but I am afraid I am extending this beyond the limits of a newspaper article. I wish to remark again that if the two pieces of shows, or rather the two agricultural societies, that at present exist in the Township of Hay, would get together and all hands work with the same ardor that the Zurich society has done during the past year, they would get up an exhibition that need fear no competition in the County of Huron.

In telling what I saw out of doors, I forgot to say that I came across a gentleman trying to sell a lot of shooting irons, rigged with a stabber, warranted to shoot, stick or scare a Fenian at any distance, all for the low charge of from three to five dollars each. Who will go without a tool in time of danger after this? A would be purchaser, rather verdant looking, proposed testing a piece by loading and firing it off, but your correspondent did not wait the result of the experiment, being rather afraid of the consequences. The day's proceedings were wound up by the judges, the officers of the society, and a few of the directors, sitting down to a substantial dinner, got up in friend Vauthier's best style; that Vauthier knows how to get up a dinner, all who sat at his table can testify. Why so many of the directors were missing at the dinner I do not know; they had no reason that I know off either to be ashamed of the exhibition or afraid of the dinner, and an acknowledgement and thanks to the judges is the very least that they are entitled to. The secretary furnished me with the annexed prize list, for which, on your behalf, I returned thanks:

Best brood mare, John B. Geiger; 2nd, Robert Broderick. Best foal, John B. Geiger; 2nd; John Melick, jr. Best 2 year old filly, William Buchanan; 2nd, Godfrey Nicholson. Best yearling filly, George Petty; 2nd, George Petty. Best yearling colt, John Melick, jr; 2nd, Richard Sturgeon. Best two year old col; Peter Wiedemane; William Wilson. ## Further Particulars of the Great Quebec Fire.

18,000 People made Homeless!

LOSS BETWEEN TWO AND THREE MILLIONS DOLLARS.

INSURANCES $376,000!

[From the Leader's Quebec special Telegram.]

Quebec has to deplore one of the greatest calamities that ever befel it. Nearly one half of the suburbs of the city is in ashes. All conflagrations that have taken place of late years pale before this last terrible scourge. Even the great fires of 1845, which destroyed nearly the whole of the St. Roch's and St. John's suburbs, cannot be considered equal in extent to the terrible conflagration of yesterday, while from the circumstances in which the population then were placed compared with the present, the suffering and misery will be far greater. The fires of 1845 took place on the 28th of May and 28th of June, at the commencement of the working season. The poor creatures had the summer before them, and a prospect of retrieving the disaster before the cold weather set in. Now, the winter being almost upon us, the poor laboring classes who resided in the burnt district, after a dull summer, have but little provision made to face the dreary winter months, but this little has in less than one short day been swept away. They are thrown upon the cold charity of the world, and unless the benevolent, the rich and the humane come promptly to their aid, suffering, and want, and disease from exposure, must necessarily be the case in very many instances. There are not less than one thousand families who require prompt relief. They cannot be left to famish for want of bread and shelter.

About five o'clock on Sunday morning, an alarm of fire was heard through the streets of St. Roch's, and on proceeding to the locality it was discovered to have originated in the house of Mr. Trudel, grocer, St. Joseph street, three doors beyond the Jacques Cartier market. The fire originated in consequence of the prolongation of orgies of carousing and drunkenness far into the night at Trudel's store, where numbers of low characters were in the habit of resorting at night for drinking and card-playing. On Saturday night, a number of them had congregated there and, notwithstanding the civil regulation for the closing of such places at midnight, Trudel, it is said, allowed them to continue their carouse far into the Sabbath morning.

Owing to the early hour in the morning, there were few persons about. The wind, which had blown half a gale from the eastward all night, had slightly abated; but still it raged with such fury as to cause the most serious apprehensions, which unfortunately, were afterwards but too sadly realized. By the time the fire brigade reached the spot, Trudel's house was enveloped in flames. The "Sapeurs" were already there, but there was some delay in laying the hose and getting force enough. The delays, which were not remedied for nearly an hour, enabled the fire to make rapid progress. There was now some ten or a dozen houses on fire, and lumber and wooden sheds, on all sides, had ignited. By half past five o'clock, more than 80 houses, all wooden, were in a blaze, and the flames, driven by the wind, were spreading in all directions.

The Royal Artillery were the first military on the ground, arriving about nine o'clock, accompanied by the Colonels, the mayor, captains and lieutenants. They speedily commenced to work with a will, energetically aided by town-major Pope, who was mounted, and thereby able to visit and promptly report from time to time to the superior officers, the several exposed streets where the devouring element was gaining ground. Immediately after the arrival of the Royal Artillery two companies of the Rifle Brigade, under command of Lord Alex. Russell and Lieut-Col. Warren, Lieut. Johnson, Adjutant Sir A. Palmer, and other officers, arrived, and zealously began to work in tearing down wooden fences, haggards and houses in exposed positions to stop the progress of the fire. The artillery brought a quantity of powder with them for the same purpose, and an attempt was made to check the flames, at the request of the mayor, by blowing up, in the direction of Crown street, at different times during the morning, some eight or ten houses, but it proved ineffectual.

The gallant tars of H. M. ship Aurora, with long coils of strong rope, came through the upper town. They were under the command of Lieut. Douglass, and were proceeded by the Rev. Mr. Baillagh driving in a cart to indicate the nearest way to the scene. By this time the fire had made rapid headway, having communicated to the adjoining houses on the western side, and was burning with great fury, helped on by the north easterly gale blowing at the time, and the total absence of water. For fully an hour it did not come, and by that time the fire, driven before a heavy wind, spread to the wooden outhouses and buildings in the rear of Trudel's house. When the water did arrive, the flames had obtained too strong a headway in every quarter to save any of the buildings already attacked; and the attention of the fire-brigade and their assistants, the "Sapeurs" and other fire companies, was turned to the prevention of the further spread, if possible, of the devouring element, by pulling down some of the houses in the district ahead of the fire in rear of Jacques Cartier hall. Their praiseworthy efforts in this way were effectually frustrated for a time by the acts of some unknown ruffians, who diabolically cut the hose with axes, their intention being doubtless to prevent, as far as possible, any attempt to arrest the progress of the flames, in order to give themselves ample opportunity to rob and plunder. It is a pity that they were not caught. The penitentiary for life would be scarcely an adequate punishment.

The wind increasing at 11 o'clock and blowing in gusts from every direction, three separ

GODERICH, OCT. 25, 1866.

The Goderich Salt Well.

OPERATIONS COMMENCED!!!

The Brine up to 80 degrees.

The Goderich Salt Well may now be said to be in active operation. The building for manufacturing the salt is just about completed. It is a very large structure, 66 feet wide by 125 feet long, arranged for the accommodation of two blocks of kettles (52 in each) one of which is ready for operation, and 20 bins, to contain the manufactured article, ten feet square, with every convenience for barreling, &c. There are to be two tanks of equal size for containing the precious fluid, one of which is finished, and the other under way. That completed has a capacity of 22,000 gallons or 116 tons. The brine is being pumped into this tank, as we write, fully 80 per cent. in strength, and in a volume, it is believed, quite sufficient to keep the block going. The brine that trickles out underneath the tank has already coated the timbers with pure salt, and in fact a week's operations must give the place quite a salty appearance for some distance around.

The cost of boring the well was $3000, and of the large manufactory $4000, so that everything when paid will come very nearly up to $10,000. The contractors complain that they will lose heavily on their contracts. One thing is certain that no one viewing the amount of work can doubt for a moment that the utmost economy has been used. The building was superintended by Mr. David Runciman, who seems to have discharged his duties faithfully and well.

Boiling operations will be commenced in the latter part of this week or beginning of next, and we hope very soon to be able to announce that a capital article of salt is ready for market. Then Goderich will take a start in earnest, and we shall begin to think of The Daily Signal.

THE FENIAN PRISONERS.

On Friday last seven of the Fenians captured between Ridgeway and Fort Erie were arraigned before Mr. Justice John Wilson at Toronto. They all wished for time to procure witnesses, and some of them had the audacity to ask that two Fenian leaders at Ridgeway should be allowed to give evidence in their favor and be protected in doing so. To this request the learned Judge very properly replied that said leaders might come forward with their evidence at their own risk. Every reasonable delay was, however, granted. M. C. Cameron, Q. C. is retained to defend some three or four of the prisoners. On Saturday last, when one of the Fenians was arraigned, Mr. Thurston U. S. Consul stated that he had received instructions to procure counsel for such of the prisoners as were American citizens. This most extraordinary announcement has created both astonishment and disgust, but it is, we think, in perfect keeping with the conduct of American officials throughout. No doubt the prisoners will be dealt with according to British law, regardless of consequences.

THE PRICES OF BREADSTUFFS.

Notwithstanding the duty of 20 per cent upon wheat exported from Canada to the United States, it is a fact that our prices for breadstuffs are far in advance of those of any year since the Crimean war. To ascribe the rise to over speculation, is we think, simple nonsense.—Over-speculation, there may be, in ordinary seasons, but those who watch the markets carefully know perfectly well that the inflation thus caused are of the most ephemeral character, and that trade invariably finds its true level. We must look for the cause of the high prices being realized by our farmers in the exceptional circumstances attending the recent harvest. The weather for ripening and gathering in grain here was bad enough, but it was even worse in the Western States, the great granary of America.—The corn crop failed in many sections, and the export supply of wheat will be millions of bushels less than the average of former years. If evidence of this fact is wanted we have only to look at Buffalo, the first receiving port in the Union for transhipping grain. There hundreds of men hitherto busily engagedin discharging vessels are out of employment, barges are lying idle, and signs of a general stagnation are visible on every hand. Prices at the seaboard are high enough to preclude the possibility of grain being held over in large quantities at Chicago for purposes of mere speculation, and hence we think it is obvious that the Western crops are much shorter than was anticipated. Although Canada suffered severely from the effects of wet weather in harvest, an immense surplus of grain will find its way to market, and the prices realized must bring a large amount of money into the country. The prices paid in Goderich on the 19th October 1865, were for fall wheat $1.18 to $1.20 per bushel, and for spring wheat $1.02 per bush. Even at the reduced prices of this week, what a difference there has been in the prices paid this fall. The average, exactly struck, is $1.40 for fall, and $1.20 for spring. At these rates many thousands of bushels of wheat have been sold, and the country is richer by the difference, which, could we ascertain the aggregate would be found to amount to a very large sum. Just now, the indications are that prices will come down a little, but that there will be a regular tumble, as some prediet, we think hardly possible. On the whole, barring the potato rot, Canada has every reason to be thankful and rejoice.

British and Foreign Bible Society.

The annual meeting in connection with the Goderich Branch of the above institution was held in the Wesleyan Church on Wednesday evening last, Mayor Detlor in the chair. The report as read by the Secretary, showed that subscriptions to the funds of the Society were below those collected at such places as Bayfield, and only one-sixth of what was raised in villages no larger than Elora. This was attributed to an unfortunate maladministration of the affairs of the society, and to the fact that the Annual Meeting was held earlier than usual, but it was hoped that the incoming year would be one of prosperity. The meeting was ably addressed by the Chairman, and Rev'ds. Messrs. Elwood, Shaw, Brookman, and others. The following office-bearers were elected for the ensuing year:—

We are requested to state that books may be obtained at cost price at Mr. Moorhouse's, and that destitute persons will receive them gratuitously by applying to any member of the committee.

DOWN ON THE CONDUCTORS.

The Grand Trunk Railway authorities have caused the arrest of nearly all the conductors engaged on the Buffalo and Lake Huron branch of the line, on charges of peculation. It was known about a week ago that something was in the wind, 'ticket pickers' having been put on, but the storm did not fully burst until about the middle of last week, when each express conductor was arrested on his arrival at Brantford. Mr. Saunders, of this town, Mr. Long, and another gave bail, but not knowing what kind of treatment was in store for them others refused to return west with their trains, Mr. Kimball telegraphed from Detroit that the general manager might go to—Jericho with his train, and Mr. House refused to start from Buffalo with that under his charge. The trial of those actually arrested will take place at Brantford at the Assizes held this week. Messrs. House and Saunders were residents of Goderich, and regarded by our citizens as most orderly, respectable and trustworthy men.

Terrible and Fatal Accident.

Yesterday (Monday), a man named Thos. Crane, of the 7th concession, Wawanosh, met with an awful accident, resulting in his death. It appears that about noon Crane, Jas. Hunter, and P. Donohue were on the market with double wagons containing about 50 bushels of fall wheat respectively. The three loads were bought for Mr. Platt, and a sudden rise of five cents having somewhat excited the men, they started off towards the mill by way of North st., as fast as their horses could run with heavy loads, the object being to see which should unload first.—The wagons of Crane and Hunter were quite close together at the start, and when the former was turning into North street the wheels struck a small pile of bricks, throwing the unfortunate man between the two wagons. He was dragged between them for a distance of about 30 feet, when he fell and the two wheels of his own wagon passed over his body lengthwise, breaking the right collar bone, dislocating the shoulder, inflicting serious internal injuries, crushing the right leg to pieces, and otherwise wounding him.—He was conveyed to J. Donogh's Hotel, and Dr. McDougall called in at once, but he was beyond the reach of medical skill, death supervening about midnight.—Deceased was a married man, about 50 years of age, and was much respected.—His sorrowing wife reached a town at 8 o'clock in the afternoon, at which time he was perfectly conscious. No blame, we believe, attaches to any one as to the cause of the accident, beyond the foolish practice of running teams against each other.

ANOTHER ACCIDENT.—While engaged in threshing yesterday (Monday), on the Montgomery farm, 5th con. Goderich township, one Gilbert Turner narrowly escaped instant death. The heavy barn door was blown inwards off its hinges by the gale then raging, struck him on the head and would certainly have crushed him to death but for a block of wood which kept the weight off his body. It is expected that the injured man will recover.

Help for the Homeless.

We observe that nearly every place of note in the Province is doing something to relieve those who were rendered houseless and homeless by the recent awful fire at Quebec. Goderich should throw in her mite. What is the best move to be made?—The calling of a public meeting?

Going Abroad for News of Home.

The Leader in its 'Provincial Item' column says that "Dr. John Near, the American consul at Goderich, has been dismissed to make room for a supporter of President Johnson." Pretty good, especially as the name of Dr. Near was never heard here before, but not worse than the slapsus of another city contemporary, who gravely informs his readers that one Innes was recently arrested at Detroit for stealing Mr. Wm Shoebottom's mare!

THE 'ROTHSAY CASTLE.'

A vigorous effort is being made here, through the instrumentality of Capt. A. M. McGregor, to secure this magnificent boat by purchase for the Saginaw route next season. The Rothsay Castle was built in Britain expressly for running the blockade during the American war and made a number of very successful trips. She is built of iron, fitted with machinery which gives her great speed, has a very light draft,—to enable her to run into the inlets of the Southern coast—and, in fact, is considered the finest boat on the Lakes. It is believed that she could ascend the Saginaw river with great ease, and if so, wou'd be just what we want. Such a boat would be a great acquisition to the trade of Goderich, and would no doubt, be a paying institution. The Capt. thinks that if half the amount of stock is subscribed in Goderich, the balance will be taken in Saginaw. Our men of capital should come forward liberally especially as the vessel can now be purchased for a tithe of her original cost of $120,000. We may mention that the G. T. R'y authorities show the scheme every favor.

The Pay of Volunteers.

Major Coleman, of Seaforth, wishes us to state that the balance of money due his Company for billets and drill, being the amount due for the last five days spent by the men in Goderich, on service, has not been received by him yet, but that as soon as the paymaster remits funds the accounts will be cleared off. The Major cannot, certainly, be expected to pay such accounts out of his own pocket, and no blame can reasonably attach to him.

☞ Mr. C. Ferguson, the celebrated piper, was in town this week, but was not able to give a concert at the request of his friends, on account of the shortness of his stay. He hopes however, to be able to gratify the music-loving public ere long.

☞ John S. Rarey, the noted horse-tamer, died suddenly at Cleveland on the 4th inst. He was born in Franklin County, Ohio, in 1828.

☞ The attention of the public is called to the new advertisement of the Trust and Loan Company, they have received a large amount of fresh funds from England to invest here, and have reduced their charges on new loans.

☞ Mr. Wm Campbell, nursery agent, East street, Goderich, has received, in addition to his fine stock of fruit trees, a fine assortment of shrubs, ornamental trees, &c.

☞ We beg to call the attention of our readers to the important sale of farm stock &c. of Mrs. Elliott, lot 5, 4th con., Goderich tp., which takes place on Tuesday, 6th November next.

☞ Read the adv. of E. L. Johnson, photographic artist, who has added largely to his accommodations and stock, engaged a first class artist, and is now prepared for any number o orders.

☞ Messrs. Acheson & Smith advertise furs, &c., good and cheap. Call and see them.

☞ Messrs. J. C. Detlor & Co., have just received a splendid stock of furs ranging from $40.00 to $5,00, and suitable to every taste.

THE CRAFTSMAN.—Bros. T. & R. White, of Hamilton, have just commenced the publication of "The Craftsman," a Masonic journal, which is got up in excellent style and contains matter deeply interesting to members of the craft. It contains 16 large pages of reading matter, and only costs $1.50 per year. It should have a large circulation.

☞ The Goderich Commercial Academy is designed to impart to the young of both sexes a thorough business education. In it the student is thoroughly drilled in the various departments of the science of accounts, by means of a system of actual Business Training, commencing with the simplest and proceeding gradually to the most intricate entries met with in the counting house. A person who knows nothing of book-keeping can in a short time become qualified to discharge the duties of a Book-keeper with satisfaction to himself and the utmost safety to his employer. Such a knowledge is surely worth tuition fee, and it will be well for many to avail themselves of the advantages held forth in the Academy.

Chicago Correspondence.

DEAR SIGNAL,—I am sorry to have to inform your readers that the cholera is making considerable havoc here, principally amongst the Irish and Germans in the low quarters about the canals. Duncan Gooding resides here now, having, in connection with one or two others, established a large wood yard. The old Niagara runs between this place and Muskegan, a port on lake Michigan. The only Goderich man I know aboard is Frank Tronch, who is just as quiet as ever. The mate of the Niagara kicked a nigger overboard a few days ago, and the poor wretch was drowned. D. L. Sills is running a boarding house, and his old friends in Huron may be glad to hear that he is doing well. Yeomans, the lawyer, was here a few days ago. He said he was on his way to Texas to hunt bears, an employment that will, no doubt, suit him to a 'knock down,' by which, of course, I do not refer to his famous trip to Lucknow. James Stewart, of the Nile, has also passed through here, on his way to Iowa. Perhaps he will do better there than in Colborne. The weather during the latter part of the summer has been very bad, and the corn crop is very much injured.

GODERICH.

☞ The Buffalo Express says that "from all sides we receive accounts of a calable and terrible increase of cholera in Chicago, and though the papers of that city say very little about the matter, merely publishing essays on the danger of fear, it is hardly to be doubted that the dread scourge is afflicting the city with lamentable violence. Two of the leading physicians, three distinguished lawyers, and several members of the board of trade have already fallen victims, and a passenger who arrived yesterday informs us that upwards of one hundred fresh cases were reported on Thursday last."

THE LUCKNOW EXHIBITION.

On Tuesday the 16th inst., we had the pleasure of attending the first exhibition of the Branch Agricultural Society established by the energy of a few Lucknow gentlemen, and formed by the union of the four adjacent townships—Wawanosh, Ashfield, Kinloss and Huron. The day was a glorious one for such a purpose, and the crowd of spectators was greater than we have seen at any exhibition in the County. On arriving in the village, the first thing that struck us was the rapid growth it has made during the past few months, and the thriving appearance of every place of business—from the stores of Messrs. Campbell, Secord, &c. to the smallest blacksmith shop. Determined to take time by the forelock, we at once elbowed our way up Main street to the office of friend Somerville the gentlemanly Secy. of the Soc'y. who although "up to the eyes" in business, offered us every facility for obtaining necessary information. The entries we found to be nearly 400 in number—a splendid commencement, certainly. A visit to the cattle and other out door departments convinced us that there was a good display of cattle of the commoner sorts, a few young heifers showing the Durham and Devon blood, a poor show of Swine, but a splendid collection of sheep of the most approved breeds. The team horses were superb and the competition very keen.

Mr. Runciman, through Mr. Campbell his Lucknow agent, showed quite a number of his celebrated iron and wooden ploughs and cultivators, which were appreciated to such an extent that he sold most of them on the spot at fair prices.—Mr. Fraser of Teeswater also exhibited a splendid iron plough. He has, we learn, taken prizes at the Provincial Exhibition with implements of the same pattern.—J. & O. McClary of London also showed ploughs, but they were very common as compared with those above mentioned. A highly finished and beautifully proportioned farmers' wagon was exhibited by Mr C McLean of Lucknow.

A visit to the inside department was well worth the trouble. The show of wheat was in advance of anything of the kind we have witnessed in the Counties this season, and we have attended most of the exhibitions. There were fifteen samples of fall wheat of really splendid quality, and thirteen of superior spring wheat. The oats, barley and peas were also very superior. The butter was good, although we noticed some samples in which sugar had been a little too glaringly used,—a fact which was soon discovered by the judges. There were several nice cheeses and a number of the very worst description, apparently of the butter-milk persuasion. The ladies had on exhibition some passable quilts, mittens, socks, fine shirts, &c., good berlin wool work, and stout, serviceable domestic cloth. Amongst several articles of furniture we particularly admired a dining table made of bird's-eye maple. Excepting carrots and potatoes the vegetables were not worthy of more than a passing notice.

During the afternoon several trotting races were got up by the owners of fast nags from Goderich and other places, but as far we could learn, a little French pony whipped the whole course. Perhaps there was some jockeying done. At all events small sums of money changed hands in a short space of time.

We could not help thinking that the majority of the spectators regarded the affair as a sort of holiday, rather than as a means of agricultural improvement, for in the afternoon the great majority seemed to devote their attention to gazing at a youth walking the rope, the races, consuming forty-rod and (in the case of the younger persons) flirtation. The last operation as carried on in the backwoods is something to astonish the prudes of conventional society. The young man sits with their buxom, laughing Dulcinas on their knees with one brawny, labor-tanned hand about their waists while the other is left free for the handling of motto 'kisses,' apples, and other delectable morsels which seem to be all the rage.—Well, they certainly think no harm of such exhibitions, and why should we, however much we may laugh. We may mention that nothing occurred during the day to mar the proceedings in any respect. Taken altogether the Lucknow Fair was a splendid success, and augurs well for the future.

The Judges were:—

For Horses—John Moor, Thomas Laurence, A M Polley.

Sheep & Cattle,—Robt Scott, Francis Hurren, Jno Taylor.

Implements—Jno Haigh, Chas Girvin, Jas Ramage.

Roots, Fruits, Dairy and Ladies Work,—Malcolm Campbell, Chas Secord, Alex Murray.

The Judges recommended a Spinning wheel of Wm McCalls for a special prize, a plough of Jas Fraser of Teeswater do.

There was on exhibition a splendid sample of oatmeal from Gordon's oatmeal mill in Kinloss second to none in Canada, a Henry bee hive, movable frame; which was ably explained by Jno Jewitt, an enthusiastic bee keeper, a plan of a Truss Bridge by Jas Warren P L S, and a fine specimen of green kale and leeks. Mr Buxton of Goderich with his usual liberality presented the treasurer with five dollars in aid of the funds of the new Society.

An Ingenious Defence.

In the police court at Chicago, a few weeks since, a wife thus ingeniously explained away serious charges of harsh treatment of her poor husband:—"One day when she was running across the room, with a fork in her hand, he jumped in the way and struck his wrist against the fork, wrenching it from her grip by the tines, which he ran into his wrist. Then he undertook to strike her, but she held up a pan of hot dishwater between them, and he spilled it all over his head. Then he got still more angry at this accident and started to jump at her, but his head came against her hand and he fell down. She took hold of his hair to raise him up, and the hair was moistened by the hot water so that it came off. Then she saw it was no use to reason with him any longer, and she left the house."

More Gunboats.

An English paper says the Admiralty have ordered the immediate construction of sixty gunboats. If this report be correct it would indicate that active naval operations are thought not unlikely in some quarter of the world. Which is it?

☞ These Western men were rough; "so were their bears." They were returned from far migrations, whether women or children had not accompanied them. Their western life was significently reported by one of their number, who being at a theatre where a baby was crying, and the orchestra trying to drown its little voice, rose in the pit and exclaimed, "Stop them noisy fiddles and let the baby cry; I hain't heard such music this three year!"

☞ The warden of Perth has called a special meeting of the County Council to consider the subject of the erection of a new jail, the present one being defective and insufficient.

☞ A boy named Isaac Wilson was drowned in a well on Thursday, in the Township of Tilbury East. While attempting to dip a pail of water he fell into the well and lost his life.

Our Irish Letter.

From our Irish Correspondent:

We so often hear of the grievances of Ireland, and find so many of them imaginary, that when we meet a real one, we are inclined to pass it over, and scarcely bestow upon it one thoughtful reflection, or sympathising sigh. Among this class may be reckoned the case of the teachers of National Schools. Now as a class these men are the hardest wrought and worst paid in Ireland. After spending the greater portion of their lives, up to 20 years of age, often at great expense to their parents, who are sometimes ill able to afford it, in going through the necessary course of study, requisite to fill the situation of teacher, and after passing a rigorous examination in the most abstruse subjects, they are rewarded by a liberal encouraging government, with the munificent sum of £24 a year, with the insignificant consideration of plenty of hard hard work. But out of this allowance the teacher must keep himself respectably clothed, nor is this left to his own sense of decency, but it is strictly enjoined that he shall be a model of cleanliness and neatness. Of course the poor teacher, spite of rules or regulations must support himself, and as the cheapest boarding houses charge nine shillings per week for accommodation; it follows that the National School Teacher must get odds and ends, and purchase clothing out of the extravagant allowance of one shilling per week. But the teacher may be married, and may have a family, of say four, and how he contrives to support and clothe them on the moiety of five pence each per day, I will leave to the imagination of your readers, for it is beyond my power to describe it. And yet these are the men on whom so grave a responsibility rests, as the training and bringing up of the future generation. Surely it is no stretch to say, that it is an insult to offer these men of learning and intelligence wages which a coal porter would reject with indignation.

An instance of the way in which the commercial prosperity of Ireland is retarded occured the other day. Some time ago a gentleman bought a large district of mountain in the county Down, for the purpose of working a granite quarry, the stone being found to be of a superior quality. Large quantities were disposed of and orders for more were flowing in so fast, that the lessee of the quarry had a traction engine built, at a cost of £300, for the purpose of conveying the blocks to their destination, when the enterprising scheme was put a stop to by the County Surveyor summoning the owner, for compensation for an alleged injury done to an already broken down bridge, by the locomotive. Happily the magistrates who tried the case were not so narrow minded as the surveyor who instituted the proceedings, and dismissed the case, ordering the sum of £15 to be expended in repairing the bridge. I may mention in connection with the case, that the granite is of so good a quality that it is used in erecting the memorial to the late Prince Consort in Hyde Park, and it is not improbable that other quarries equally good, will soon be opened in Ireland.

The agricultural statistics of Ireland have just been published. The total acreage under crops has decreased this year to the extent of 128,725. The crops which diminished are: oats 47,580 acres, barley 26,564, bere and rye 89, beans and peas 2,118, potatoes 15,841, turnips 17,091, meadow and clover 77,998, against this we have an increase in wheat of 33,500 acres, mangel cabbage 5,740, cabbage 2,824, carrots, &c., 2,661, vetches, &c., 1,630, and flax 12,226. The total area under each crop is as follows: wheat 300 000 acres, oats 1,697,648, barley 150,536, bere and rye 9,992, beans and peas 14.781, potatoes 1,050,419, turnips 317,121, mangel and beet 20,218, cabbage 36,446, carrots, &c., 26,791, vetches, &c., 31,096, making a grand total of 3,655,524 acres.—The unoccupied bog this year amounts to 1,386,003 acres, and the extent under grass 210,425 acres.

The returns of live stock give the following numbers: horses 535,931, cattle 3,742,932, sheep 4,270,027, and pigs 1,493,523, showing an increase in the number of cattle of 245,384, of sheep 575,671, of pigs 187,570, and a decrease in horses of 12,708. The total estimate of the live stock of Ireland is £35,178,040. being an increase of above £2,000,000, as compared with 1865.

The report states the number of emigrants from the several Irish ports, during the first seven months of the present year were 74,195, being an increase of 11,933 on last year. Of these 1,116 were from the Province of Leinster, 2,629 from Munster, 1,657 from Connaught and 8,713 from Ulster. Though reading these figures is rather dry work, I am sure my Irish friends will grant me ready pardon, especially as they show the actual state of the prosperity of "ould Ireland."

There is very little to say about the Fenians on this side the atlantic at present. The latest is, that Messrs. F N Kavanagh, J Byrne, E O'Donovan, D Brien, J O'Gorman, and J Heanly, lately released from Mountjoy Prison, have just embarked for America, and "left their country for their country's good."

MELANCHOLY ACCIDENT.—A melancholy accident occurred last Saturday evening on Lake Simcoe, by which four persons lost their lives. George Doolittle, with his wife and two children and a young man named Alexander, were in the schooner Matilda, making for Bell Ewart. When off Fox island, Mr. Doolittle steering, the boat was found to be sinking. Mrs. Doolittle brought the youngest child to her husband and ran back to the cabin for the other. Meantime, Mr. Doolittle was bringing a small boat, which was towing behind, alongside, but before the mother got back the schooner went down. Something, probably the mainsail, struck Mr. Doolittle and knocked the child from his arms. He got into the boat and endeavoured to save the others, but could see nothing of them. Alex. was walking aft when the vessel went down, and was heard to cry out; the mother and eldest child probably went down in the cabin. Doolittle gained Snake Island by using a small piece of board which he found in his boat. On Sunday morning the body of one of the children, a boy of three years, drifted on shore.

Affairs in Mexico.

News has been received confirmatory of that published some days since, to the effect that the liberals had suffered a severe reverse. General Mejia, in command of a French force, had advanced on Monterey, and defeated the main liberal army under Escobedo, completely routing and pursuing it towards Matamoras. The expectation was that an engagement would ensue at the latter point, and it probably took place on the 10th inst. The force of Mejia was much larger than that of the liberal commander, and the second battle doubtless resulted like the first. The defeat of Escobedo and the occupation of Monterey and Matamoras is an important gain to the French, as it will give them complete control of the line of the Rio Grande, from which Mejia was lately driven, and also possession of one of the most important seaports of the country.

Filial Revenge.

In one of the many plots which were formed against the life and government of Peter the Great, there was among the number of those seized, a soldier belonging to his own regiment of guards. Peter being told by the officers that this man had always behaved extremely well, had a curiosity to see him and learn from his own mouth what had been his inducement to be concerned in a plot against him. To this purpose he dressed himself in plain clothes, that he might not be known by the man, and went to the prison where he was confined. After some conversation, Peter added:

"I should be glad to hear, friend, what were your reasons for being concerned in any attempt against the emperor, your master, as I am certain he never did you any injury; on the contrary, he has a regard for you as a brave soldier, and a man who always did his duty in the field; if you were therefore to show the least remorse for what you have done, the emperor would, I am persuaded, forgive you; but before I interest myself in your behalf, you must tell me by what motive you were induced to join the mutineers, and I say again, that the emperor, who is naturally good and compassionate, will give you your pardon."

"I know nothing of the emperor," replied the soldier, "for I never saw him but at a distance; but he caused my father's head to be cut off, some time ago, for being engaged in a former rebellion, and it is the duty of a son to revenge his father's death, by the death of the person who took away his life. If, then the emperor is so good and merciful as you have represented him to be, advise him for his own safety not to pardon me, for were he to restore me to my liberty the first use I would make of it would be to engage in some new attempt against his life; nor should I ever rest until I had accomplished my design. The securest method, therefore which he can take, will be to order my head to be struck off immediately, without this, his life is in danger."

The Czar used in vain all the argument that he could think of to set before this desperado the folly and injustice of such sentiments. He still persisted in what he had declared, and Peter departed greatly chagrined at the bad success of his visit, and gave orders for the execution of this man with the rest of his accomplices.

Lovers in a Fix.

Night before last, as the moon rose over the hill and treetop, gilding the spires of our beautiful city with her silvery rays, there might have been seen upon the roof of an Egyptian cottage, which is flat and covered with pure white gravel and pitch, a couple of lovers seated, enjoying the beauty of the scene.

The sun during the day had been very warm, and thus they met to spend the fading hours of twilight, enjoying the pleasant breeze that floated up from the magnolia garden beneath, and interchanging their soulloangings and warm affections. Near each other the lovers sat—with one arm he encircled the waist of the beautiful creature at his side, and all passed quietly and lovingly until the bell tolled the midnight hour.

The tolling of the bell reminded them that "tired nature's sweet restorer" was requisite for lovers as well as others. Still seated near each other, the plighted vows were again and again exchanged, and sealed with kisses, like "linked sweetness long drawn out."

At length, after many vain attempts to sever their pleasant pleasures, the transported lovers found that they were bound to each other by more sticking bonds than lover's vows. The hot sun had melted the pitch, and after sitting so long, and the night having cooled the resinous matter they found they were both "stuck fast." The young gentleman first attempted to disengage himself, but found like Aunt Jemima's plaster, "the more you try to pull it off the more it sticks the faster." The young lady then attempted to get up, which she did, minus the skirt of her dress, and all her underclothes as far as the waist. In this plight she tried to relieve her disconsolate partner, but it was of no use. He couldn't come. After some parley, he come to the conclusion that he could manage it by slipping out of his pants. Accordingly he asked of his companion if she could lend him a pair of pants until he could go home. She thought her pa's would do if they were not too long. With this information he slipped off his boots, and loosening his suspenders, drew himself out of his pants as easily as possible, and the disconsolate couple took themselves down stairs in a very blushing manner, and looking very much like our first parents when they discovered that they were human. A pair of pa's pants were procured as quickly as possible, and run into pretty suddenly, and the Adonis decamped with his pants rolled up about six inches. The joke was too good to keep; by little and little it leaked out, until the truth had to come to exculpate the happy innocents.—[Memphis Appeal.

Horrible Parricide.

A day or two since we had the brief details of the murder of Jesse Rose, by his son, James Rose, aged about nineteen years, and the further fact that the young man had confessed the parricide and implicated his mother in the crime. The following are the particulars: It appears that the father, Jesse Rose, had been in the habit of drawing the money his sons had earned by their labor in the neighborhood, and said he was going to draw $45 due the eldest son—who is 19 years old—on Friday last. His son told him if he did he would kill him.

The father went to a spelling school on that day, but it appears did not get the money. The son, however, supposing he had got it, by his mother's instigation, and accompanied by the younger brother, he hid behind a stump, near some bushes, by which his father would return. Before his father arrived the younger brother became frightened at the deed they contemplated, and fled. As Rose passed the stump the eldest son struck him with the axe he had with him, knocking out his brains, and then cut his throat with a butcher knife, leaving the body laying till morning, when he gave the alarm to the neighbors, who found the body on Saturday morning, some 300 yards from the house. Upon searching the house bloody clothes were found, with some of the brains on them; also the axe with which the deed was done. They arrested the mother and both sons, when the eldest immediately confessed the deed. Rose was a lazy, shiftless sort of a fellow, and the mother has not borne a good name for some time. The above facts are all that have so far been elicited.

Searching for Bullets.

The Lancet contains an interesting record of observation in the military hospitals of Dresden, by Dr. Bruce, of University College, London. There was ample opportunity of observing the effects of the different bullets employed by the three armies, and after a careful examination Dr. Bruce says he can not agree with the generally entertained opinion, that the bullet of the Prussian needle-gun produces a less serious wound than that of the Austrian Minnie rifle. The Prussian soldiers fired at short ranges; the Austrians and Saxons at long ones. The doctor continues:—"The search after bullets and their extraction was a source of the greatest interest both to surgeons and patients. It often proved a matter of the greatest difficulty to determine whether a bullet was lodged in the body or not; frequently the men would positively assert that the ball had been abstracted on the field, when it subsequently proved not to have been the case. The excitement produced in some men by the sight of the bullet was most astonishing. An Italian seized his bullet, bit it violently, and cursed it so furiously that it had to be taken from him to prevent him injuring himself. A Prussian soldier apparently by no means an excitable fellow, on seeing the ball which had been removed from his thigh, burst into tears, and shaking hands with us all round, divided his attention between blessing us and cursing the bullet. The men always kept them as valuable relics, and would not have parted with them at any price. The 'Garibaldi sonde,' as it is called after the illustrious hero for whose sake M. Nelaton invented it, proved of the greatest service. I have known a bullet, buried at a depth of four inches in the fleshy part of the thigh, recognized by a faint streak of lead left on the unglazed porcelain at the end of the probe. By its aid it was easy to determine between a piece of fractured bone and bullet. Of the instruments used for extraction, the ordinary bullet-screw and long forceps were perhaps the two most commonly employed; but the new American bullet forceps were very highly spoken of. With regard to the apertures of entry and exit, there was, as a rule, very little difference to be observed between them; they were often of the same size, and presented very much the same character. I frequently observed that the supposed aperture of exit healed more rapidly than the other. The account of the patient could rarely be trusted; and I found the holes in the clothing to be the best guides, as here the aperture of the exit was invariably the larger and more irregular of the two. In one case in which a bullet had penetrated both thighs, it was only by examining the trousers that we could determine the direction it had taken, the patient's account proving incorrect."

Conjugal Infidelity.

TWO GAY LOTHARIOS CAUGHT BY AN INJURED HUSBAND.

One of these sad instances of conjugal infidelity, by which the peace of a family has been blasted, a woman's reputation ruined, a young family disgraced, and a fond husband crushed with shame, was yesterday published to the world.

It appears that the young mother of three children, residing on or near the Grand River Road, became smitten with the attractions of a young gentleman living near her, and taking advantage of the absence of her husband, about a week since sent him, by the hand of one of her children, an invitation to make her an evening call. The gentleman did so, and received such a cordial welcome that the visit was repeated several times. The intimacy became of a very criminal character. Although managed with great circumspection, the intrigue was detected by a person who shall be designated as Mr. X. Mr. X. approaching the fair frail one with threats of exposure, induced her consent to add one more to her infidelities and receive his nocturnal visits. Thursday night Mr. X. paid his charmer a visit, and which in her room was surprised, and his escape cut off by the unexpected visit of the other favored lover. It was but the work of a moment for the siren to conceal him in a closet, and then to receive his rival. At this juncture the husband of the dame made his appearance, having returned to his home sooner than he expected, and succeeded in surprising himself as well as his wife. The young Lothario stood not upon the order of his going, but went at once, through the back window, without going through the formality of resuming his cumbersome attire, which he had laid aside. The husband followed him, and Mr. X. thinking the opportunity of escape a good one, made a third in the chase, only to come to grief, for the husband, returning to his dishonored home, met him coming out, and proceeded to administer personal chastisement, which all must acknowledge was well deserved.

This affair has resulted in the abandonment of the sinning wife and her little children by the injured husband, who has gone or intends to go to California to live, leaving to Providence and her own conscience the punishment of his faithless spouse.

☞ In going on board a Mississippi steamboat the other day, Mr. Jones met Mr. Smith, and asked—'Which way are you going, Smith, up or down?' 'That depends upon circumstances. If I sleep over the boiler, up; if in the cabin, down.'

New York, Oct. 17.—The Turco Egyptian army was severely defeated by the Christians in engagements already reported.

It is said that Russia is rapidly removing troops from Poland and marching them towards the Danube, and that agents of the Czar are recruiting volunteers in Greece for the Turkish campaign. Officers of the King of Greece are engaged in a similar duty.

France is reported very much irritated against Prussia, and it is stated that there is every probability of a war between the two countries.

Berlin journals treat the Napoleon foreign office circular in a very calm and easy manner, thanking the Emperor for his exhibition of pacific and most excellent intentions.

St. Louis, Oct. 17.—Head Centre Stephens arrived in this city last evening, and was most cordially received by the Fenians, who escorted him to the Southern Hotel, where he made a warlike speech to an immense crowd. Mr. Stephens declared that the battle for Irish Independence would commence before the close of the year. New Year's day would find the Irish people fighting on Irish soil for the independence of their country.

New York, Oct. 17.—A fire occurred last night in the ship chandlery warehouse of J. C. Baxter & Son, West street, destroying property to the amount of $300,000.

There was not a single case of cholera here yesterday.

Santa Anna denies the reported purchase by him of 10,000 enfield rifles.

The Herald says.—283 men, the nucleus of guerilla parties in the interest of Santa Anna, left within a week for New Orleans and Havana. It is expected more will leave during the coming week.

☞ A day or two since, says the New Bedford Mercury, two ladies dropped into a hardware store, where agricultural implements are sold. They had read advertisements, and therefore innocently inquired for cradles. The store-keeper said it was rather late in the season for the article, and he had sold all he purchased. The ladies looked at each other wonderingly.

☞ Upon the beautiful island of Barbadoe there is not a vacant spade enough for a picnic. It is all cultivated.

Prince of Wales.—The Prince of Wales will now, thanks to the skilful and vigilent management of his father, enter into the enjoyment of an income of $250,000 a year, and a half million of ready money from the revenues of the Dutchy of Cornwall.

This is a nice little sum of money for an annual dividend, but with all this vast amount of money which will be under his control, it will not go far to relieve rheumatism, pains in the side and back, tooth ache, burns, bruises, frost-bites, &c., as a bottle of the "Canadian Pain Destroyer," which is sold by all Medicine Dealers, at the low price of 25 cts per bottle.

Married.

By the Rev. R. Whiting, in this town, on the 17th inst., Mr. John McClay to Miss Ellen Nelson, both of McKillop.

At the residence of the bride's father, Frankfort, Herkener County, State of New York, Oct. 16th, 1866, Mr. William Finlay, of the Township of Huron, County of Bruce, U. C., to Miss Adelade M. Breadon, of the former place.

Died.

On the 21st inst., in the Township of Colborne, Farbis, eldest son of Robert Sallows, aged 2 years and 7 months.

ARE YOU A MASON?

The Rev. Mr. Magill, rector of St. Paul's Church Peru, Illinois being asked the above question by a lady, responded as follows:—

I am one of the band
Who will faithfully stand
In the bonds of affection and love;
I have knocked at the door,
Once wretched and poor,
And there for admission I strove.

By the help of a friend,
Who assistance did lend,
I succeeded an entrance to gain,
Was received in the West,
By command from the East,
But not without feeling some pain.

Here my conscience was taught,
With a moral quite fraught,
With sentiments holy and true;
Then outward I travelled,
To see it unravelled,
What Hiram intended to do.

Very soon to the East
I made known my request,
And "light" by command did attend;
When, lo! I perceived,
In due form revealed,
A Master, and Brother, and Friend.

Thus far I have stated,
And simply related,
What happened when I was made free;
But I've "passed" since then,
And was "raised" up again,
To a sublime and ancient degree.

Then onward I marched,
That I might be "Arch'd,"
And to find out those treasures long lost;
When, behold! a bright flame,
From the midst of which came
A voice which my ears did accost.

Through the "vails" I then went,
And succeeded at length
The "Sanctum Sanctorum" to find;
By the "Signet" I gained,
And quickly obtained
Employment which suited my mind.

In the depths I then wrought,
And most carefully sought,
For treasures so long hidden there;
And by labor and toil,
I discovered rich soil,
Which are kept by the craft with due care.

Having thus far arrived,
I further contrived,
Among valiant Knights to appear;
And as Pilgrim and Knight,
I stood ready to fight,
No recreant foe did I fear.

For the widow distressed,
There's a word in my breast,
For the helpless and orphan I feel;
And my sword I could draw,
To maintain the pure law,
Which the duty of Masons reveal.

Thus have I revealed,
(Yet wisely concealed)
What the "free and accepted" well know;
I am one of the band,
Who will faithfully stand,
As a brother, wherever I go.

A MAD OX.

The village of Alma was thrown into excitement on Tuesday morning, by the announcement that a "mad ox" was blockading the gravel road northward. It appears that a steer, purchased by Mr. Kinnear, and being driven along with others, began to "cut up rough" about a mile above Alma. The drover went to the village for help, taking back with him two men to assist in driving his steeship to town. The infuriated animal rushed at them, and scattered them in double quick time. So thoroughly were they "demoralized" that it was deemed advisable to send word to the citizens of Alma to prepare for the coming raid and set their houses in order. Mr. James Graham volunteered to act as messenger, taking with him the drover's buggy so as to expedite his movements. But the enemy was in the path. The ox stood between Mr. Graham and Alma. Nothing daunted Mr. G. put on the gad, and his horse made a voilent rush for the south pole. The steer calculated that he would not stand that sort of thing, and made a rush at the buggy. His aim was perfect. Striking at the front wheel he sent it to smithereenes, and capsized the vehicle and Mr. Graham. Fortunately the horse was set loose, and Mr. G. making a jump, landed on the back of his trusty steed, and put. Arriving in Alma, a good shot with a true rifle, was soon procured, and reinforced Mr. G returned to the fray. A good aim was taken, and the steer was speedily biting the dust. It was well that parties concerned acted with such promptitude, or several lives might have been taken by the maddened animal. Mr. Graham, we are sorry to add, was considerably bruised and cut on the arm, when thrown from the buggy, but his wound was dressed by Dr. Wallace, and we hope that he will be all right in a few days.—Elora Observer.

A SHORT SERMON TO GIRLS.—There is more force of truth, then elegance of language in the following which is taken from an American paper; Ladies—caged birds of beautiful plumage, but sickly looks—pale pets of the parlour, who vegetate in an unhealthy atmosphere like the potato germinating in a dark cellar, why do you not go out into the open air and warm sunshine, and get lustre to your eyes, and bloom to your cheeks, and elasticity to your steps, and vigor to your frames? Take morning exercise, let loose your corset strings and run up the hill on a wager, and down again for fun; roam the fields, climb the fences, leap the ditches, wade the brooks, and after a day of exhilarating exercise and unrestrained liberty, go home with an appetite acquired by hearty enployment. The blooming and beautiful young lady—rose-cheeked and bright eyed—who can darn stockings, mend her own frocks, command a regiment of pots and kettles, feed the pigs, milk the cows, and be a lady when required, is the girl that young men are in quest of for a wife. But you pining, dried up wasp wasted, doll dressed, consumption mortgaged, music murdering, and novel-devouring daughter of fasion and idleness—you are no more fit for matrimony than a pullet is to look after a brood of fourteen chickens. The truth is, my dear girls, you want less fashionable restraint and more liberty of action, more kitchen and less parlor, more leg exercise and less sofa, more pudding and less piano, more frankness and less mock modesty.—Loosen your waist strings and breath the pure atmosphere, and become something as good and beautiful as nature designed.

A CAUTION TO MAGISTRATES.—At the recent court of assize for the county of Hastings, held at Belleville, was tried an action brought by one Graham against three respectable justices of the peace named Crowtey, Chisholm and Parley, for neglecting to make a return of a conviction against the plaintiff to the clerk of the peace, within the time specified by law. The dereliction of duty was substantially proven, and the defendants were stuck in for a verdict of $80 against each of them, cr conjointly against all for $240. The magistrates are very liable to commit themselves in neglecting to file convictions immediately, and this case, as well as any other not exactly of the same description, but one of a much similar character, tried at the last county court for Frontenac, resulting in favor of the plaintiff, should prove a warning to them to conform strictly to the law in future.—Kingston Whig.
