IN SUPPORT OF MR. STEAD.

CARDINAL MANNING EXPRESSES HIMSELF STRONGLY.

The Pall Mall Gazette has Done What can Only Bring About Much Needed Legislation on a Scandalous Evil.

Special Cable Despatch to The World.

LONDON, July 15.—The committee of investigation into the exposures of the Pall Mall Gazette to-day sat from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Cardinal Manning gave the Pall Mall Gazette the strongest support.

"I know Mr. Stead," Cardinal Manning said, "and have perfect confidence in his intentions and integrity. What he has done has been done in combination with a number of trustworthy persons, and with legal advisers, so that his evidence depends not on hearsay, but on direct personal knowledge. The extent of the evil now exposed has long been indistinctly known, but it has been impossible to obtain legal proof. Mr. Stead is the first person who has ventured at great personal sacrifice and endurance to obtain this legal proof. The evidence is certain. In publishing statements so detailed and often so vivid he will encounter, as he has done, a great deal of obloquy, but on the other hand he has the fullest support of a very large number of men of all classes and of the highest influence in England. It should be easy to criticise articles of such a nature for all those who desire to hush up so atrocious an evil. I find expressions and narratives on which to fasten, but it would be ungenerous, cowardly and cruel to assail a man who has sacrificed himself to expose in the hope of checking, if not extirpating, an evil of such portentous magnitude. It is to be further remembered that since 1881 every attempt to obtain a needed legal enactment has been continually and vexatiously defeated. Yet in 1881 a committee of the house of lords published a folio blue book detailing in the minutest particulars with irrefragable proof the enormities of this abominable traffic. Year after year the bill proposed to parliament has been weakened, defeated or talked out. The patience of those who know the truth has been justly exhausted. Nothing short of this last righteous and resolute action could in my opinion have enforced and ensured the enactment of further laws to supplement our most defective statute on this terrible subject."

Prof. Jas. Bruce, who has consented to sit on the committee of investigation, expressed the opinion yesterday that the difficulties of passing any opposed legislation like this bill through the commons are such as nothing but the pressure of a thoroughly aroused popular sentiment can overcome.

Political Effect of the Pall Mall Exposures.

From the New York Sun.

The progress of radicalism cannot fail to be signally promoted by the revelation of the iniquities committed by the British aristocracy in the indulgence of their appetites.

Although Mr. Chamberlain and Sir Charles Dilke are too cautious to avow the full scope of their wishes and intentions, it is no secret that the program of their more uncompromising followers includes the abolition of the peerage, the compulsory parcellation of estates, the disestablishment and disendowment of the Anglican church, and the suppression of the throne. For that monstrous excrescence on the polity of a country professing to be free, the hereditary legislator, there is really nothing to be said, and nothing but the general impression that the house of lords was at least inoffensive has saved it from demolition. But the peers can no longer shelter themselve behind a reputation for harmlessness, provided a large majority of them can be justly accused of the revolting practices laid bare by a London newspaper.

The Gazette Charged with Plagiarism.

NEW YORK, July 15.—The Herald's London cable says that the Pall Mall Gazette's purported discoveries turn out to a skilful rehash from old reports from the society for the prevention of juvenile prostitution, and the books of doctors Ryan, Talbot and Acton on the same subject, and principally worked up fancifully from chapters of the elaborate history of London prostitution and the interview to be found in the extra volume of Henry Mayhew's London poor, printed in 1861. On page 211 of the latter book, in extracts from the report made in 1835 by the London society for the protection of young females and the prevention of juvenile prostitution, will appear the entire premises of the Gazette's story. On pages especially 213 and 216 appear interviews with girls in the exact style of those recently published in the same paper.

REPULSED BY THE POLICE.

Terrific Encounter With Strikers at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, O., July 15.—The anticipated collision between strikers and police occurred this afternoon at 4 o'clock. The meeting was held in Newburgh, and several reporters who entered were savagely thrown out. After the meeting 700 men, mostly Poles and Bohemians, formed into line and marched to the plate mill, which was in operation. The men in the plate mills were opposed to stopping work but were forced out finally by the foreigners and remained idle until yesterday, when the mill resumed operations. The mob increased in numbers as it progressed, and when it arrived at the mill it aggregated at least 1000 men. The strikers were armed with clubs studded with nails, pieces of iron and large stones. The fifty policemen on duty were supplied with maces twenty-two inches long and self-acting revolvers. Thirty-four additional policemen were scattered in the mill. At 3.45 the patrolmen were ordered home to rest, preparatory to going on duty to-night. They started down Ætna street and met the strikers. They turned and double-quicked it to the mill. They were hooted and stoned by the strikers. Deputy Superintendent McMahon gave the order to fall in and a line was formed about thirty feet from the mill gate. The mob approached and McMahon asked what was wanted. One of the leaders replied that they were determined to close the mill. The police officers argued with them, but to no purpose. The men in the rear ranks began to throw stones. There was considerable hard talk, a push forward and then a rush. The police advanced and the two forces met. The strikers threw stones, slag and cinders, and flourished their clubs. The policemen used their maces and drove the strikers back inch by inch. The strikers fell by the score or reeled away with blood streaming down their faces. They poured a terrific shower of stones, however, into the police, but could not use their clubs to any advantage. Finally they fell back rapidly, and the police seeing the opportunity charged on a run, yelling as they went. The whack of their maces could be heard for a long distance. Fallen strikers lined Ætna street and their wives and sweethearts bore them away as fast as possible. The mob broke and ran, but the police kept up an unfiring whack, until every striker was driven out of sight of the mill.

Six policemen and thirty-five strikers were wounded, some fatally. Only seven arrests were made.

BRUSHING UP THE RECEPTION.

All the Committees at Work—A Probable Shortage of Funds.

It is now very possible that the volunteers will reach home on Sunday afternoon next. The minister of militia has been communicated with to see if this arrangement could not be altered so that the men would reach the city on Monday. This would necessitate a day's sojourn in Owen Sound. The address to be presented to the men will be written by Prof. Goldwin Smith. Telegrams have been received from several points outside the city asking for timely notice of the arrival, so that it is expected that large numbers of people from a distance will be in town to join in the welcome. If the railroads would run excursion trains there is no doubt but that thousands of our neighbors would be in Toronto from Saturday till Monday or Tuesday.

At a meeting of the barricade committee yesterday a proposition to have the public school children take part in the volunteer reception was received from the executive committee, with the request that the scheme be carried out if possible. The committee had to refer the matter back as no funds had been provided for the purpose of erecting a platform in Market square for the girls. A hope was expressed, however, that Ald. Defoe, chairman of the executive committee, would see his way clear to provide funds for this commendable object. The proposition to have the drilled senior class of boys to take part in the reception was accepted, and they will be placed in position with the troops. These boys are requested to meet at their respective schools on Saturday at 2 o'clock for the purpose of getting their rifles and thence proceeding to Queen's park for drill. Directions will be given them as to parading on the day of the arrival.

The ladies' volunteer supply committee met yesterday morning and decided to meet the troops at the depot and present each man with a bouquet. Florists and citizens who can contribute flowers are asked to do so. Notice of time and place to receive them will be given immediately when time of arrival of troops is known.

The ex-members of the Queen's Own Rifles meet to-night in the drill shed at 8 o'clock. All ex members are expected to be present.

The music and decoration committee (Ald Steiner, chairman) met at the city hall last night. The committee decided that its appropriation, $500, was insufficient to carry out its work of decorations and furnishing music, and will ask the executive committee for $250 more.

W. E. Dobson, cigar manufacturer, has dedicated a brand to "Our Brave Boys," and in a letter to City Clerk Blevins says he will send him 1000 of the new brand for distribution among the boys.

WILL THE CHINAMAN GO?

He Will if it is Left to the Workingmen of Canada.

The question of Chinese immigration was discussed before a small audience at St. Andrew's hall last night. Mayor Manning occupied the chair. Speeches were made by a number of gentlemen against the influx of Chinese into the country on the ground that it was impossible for Canadians to compete with them, and because they were a people of hirsute habits. D. J. O'Donoghue offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That it has been clearly demonstrated that the struggle against the further admission of Chinese is that of labor against the aggression of capital, and enters deeply into the material and moral prosperity of the whole people; that the Chinese come to Canada with no intention of making their home; that they avoid all the responsibilities of citizens when possible; that they are virtually slaves, being altogether subject to the edicts of Chinese companies, whose mandates are their recognized law; that they aid no charitable institution; that they are not christian; that they take no interest in the advancement of the dominion, that they treat our civilization with contempt, are utterly alien to us in race and social and domestic habits; that they bring no women but those who are brought for the most vile purposes, and spread the most foul diseases among the young; that they have no respect for the oath administered in our courts of law, and have no conception of the enormity of perjury; that they supplant all our men in nearly all vocations whether mechanical or manual, and also girls in every department from cook to chambermaid, not because of superior physical and mental ability, but because of accepting a rate of wages upon which our race cannot exist; and as a consequence their further admission into Canada should be rigidly excluded.

Mr. O'Donoghue and Mr. Rooney, in moving and seconding the resolution, said there was a universal protest among the laboring men against the further admission of Chinese into the country, and hoped the bill for their exclusion from the country would pass the senate. The resolution was unanimously carried. A. F. Jury, in moving a resolution, the purport of which was to express the hope of the meeting that the senate would make the act regarding Chinese immigration, which had passed the commons, law, said one good way to protect the working classes was to prohibit the immigration of Chinamen. They could live on very little, and their civilization was degraded. Phillips Thompson said he was in favor of the exclusion of the Chinese, because it was impossible for a Caucasian to compete with them. Mr. Hicks and Mr. Potter each made brief speeches, in which they expressed their endorsation of the sentiment that the Chinese must go, and the resolution was carried without dissent.

Sarah Bernhardt's Last Freak.

LONDON, July 16.—Sarah Bernhardt, during her present engagement in London is living at a select hotel in Richmond and goes by rail from London to Richmond every night after the performance at the Gaiety theatre. Last Saturday she missed the last train and hired a cab to take her home. The cabman lost his way in a suburb of London and after driving about for a long time refused to proceed further. Ultimately they met a steam fire engine returning from a fire and the actress hired the apparatus to take her home. The engine dashed to the hotel with Mme. Bernhart seated on it and the inmates of the house were awakened at 4 a.m. by shouts of fire and the noise of the bells and steam whistle. The actress paid the stipulated fare for her novel vehicle and also paid for refreshments for the firemen.

CABLE NOTES.

It is expected that parliament will be prorogued on Aug. 7.

The warlike news regarding Russian movements yesterday caused a fall of 7-16 in the price of consols.

The soldier who bayonetted a man at Waterford, Ireland, on Sunday, has been committed for trial on a charge of murder.

The London Telegraph believes that the government has received sufficient assurances from Germany and other powers, and will within a few days issue an Egyptian loan of £900,000.

In the house of lords on Tuesday night Lord Northbrook said Sir Michael Hicks Beach's charges that blunders had been made in the naval estimates were founded on a misconception of the facts.

ON THE ADVANCE AGAIN.

RUSSIA THREATENING TO ATTACK HERAT.

Hasty Movement of the British Boundary Commission — The Afghans Summon Colonels Peacock and Yate to Their Aid.

LONDON, July 15.—The remaining members of the British Afghan frontier commission, with their military escort, have suddenly struck their tents and are marching rapidly toward Herat. The reason for their hasty retirement is unknown, and the news has caused much uneasiness. It is thought that the commission must have reasons for leaving the cool hills for the heated valley.

The Times has received a despatch from Jagdorabaten via Meshed, July 11, which says that it is rumored that the Russians have advanced in force to Zulfikar pass, and that they are occupying Persian territory as though it was Russian. The despatch also says that the British frontier commission is moving nearer Herat.

Reinforcements are arriving at Askabad. The advance of the Russians has made the Afghans anxious, but they are determined resolutely to resist any attempt to seize their territory. They are puzzled at these warlike preparations of the Russians under the cover of pacific assurances.

It is believed that Gen. Alikanhof, the commander of the Russian advances, is determined to force on war, and that he is deceiving the czar in regard to his real intentions.

The Situation Again Critical.

LONDON, July 16.—The Daily Telegraph says the negotiations between England and Russia regarding the Afghan frontier question have become serious. Russia is preferring new claims, and refuses to yield to Lord Salisbury, whose tone, although studiously friendly, is firm. The Standard declares England will never condone a second edition of the Penjdeh outrage.

The Advance Confirmed.

LONDON, July 15.—In the commons this afternoon Lord Randolph Churchill, replying to a question in regard to the reported Russian advance in Afghanistan, stated that the government had heard of the movement. Speaking of the hasty retirement of the members of the British Afghan commission in the direction of Herat, Lord Randolph said that the Heratis, fearing that the Russians contemplated a descent on Herat, had invited Colonels Yate and Peacock to enter the city, and the request had been complied with.

The Great Hat Prize Sale won't last forever. Don't miss it at the Bon Marche, 7 and 9 King street east.

WITHIN THREE DAYS OF HOME.

Arrival of All the Troops at Winnipeg Yesterday.

WINNIPEG, July 15—The troops arrived at Selkirk at 9 a.m. Winnipeg is in a state of great excitement. The Montreal Garrison artillery have arrived from Regina, and passed up Main street to camp amid thousands of spectators. There are three regiments now under canvas—Halifax, 9th Voltigeurs and Garrison artillery. The York and Simcoe battalions and the Governor-General's Body Guards also arrived this morning. The Winnipeg field battery and the Seventh Fusiliers are expected to-night, the latter having reached Moosejaw from Clark's Crossing this morning.

A message from Selkirk says all the troops, including the Queen's Own and Grenadiers, will visit this city. Winnipeg is gay with arches and flags and illuminations. Thousands of visitors, many from a distance, from Minnesota, are in town and the excitement is something thrilling.

Begging for Riel.

QUEBEC, July 15.—Charles Langelier, J. Martin, and A. Fontaine are going about the end of this week to the centres of French Canadian populations in the United States to solicit assistance from their compatriots for the defence of Riel. It is likely Gabriel Dumont will accompany the party on their mission.

The Troops at Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, July 15.—The troops under Gen. Middleton, comprising the Queen's Own, the Grenadiers, 65th battalion, Midlands, 90th and 92nd, reached Selkirk at 10 o'clock to-day and were met at the wharf by Mayor Colcleugh, who presented Gen. Middleton with an address of welcome, to which the latter responded, paying a high eulogium upon the troops under his command. Lieut.-Gov. Aikins and Mrs. Aikins, Mrs. Middleton, the Misses Aikins, Hon. Messrs. Norquay and Brown and other leading citizens of Winnipeg met the troops at Selkirk. A splendid collation was served the troops under the trees on the river bank, Selkirk ladies officiating.

A special train with Gen. Middleton and staff and others left for Winnipeg at 1.45 and arrived here at 3 p. m. The general was escorted to government house by the Halifax battalion, the Montreal garrison artillery and the 9th battalion of Quebec.

The troops embarked at 5.30 for Winnipeg and reached the city at 7.30. The Midlands and 65th battalion have gone home from Selkirk via Port Arthur. All the others came to Winnipeg. The York Rangers and Simcoe Foresters and Governor General's body guard, under Col. Denison, reached the city by rail from the west just as Gen. Middleton arrived from Selkirk.

The city is illuminated to-night. Civic holiday to-morrow, when a review of all the troops will be held by Gen. Middleton.

Hard Times and the Railways.

From the Chicago News.

The pressure of hard times begins to tell most emphatically upon the railroad interest of the country. Even the great New York Central could barely squeeze out one-half of 1 per cent. as its last dividend. At the same time rates on the trunk lines have come down to a point at which even the bankrupt roads, which are operated so as to merely meet their running expenses, cannot afford to any longer go on. That which most troubles the managers of the trunk lines at the present time is that, while they are doing a large business, as respects quantities carried, they fail to make any profit thereon on account of the extremely low rates. It now, with them, has come to the simple question "How long can we continue the present system without a total suspension of dividends?" One important fact connected with this threatened suspension of dividends is that it will make railway securities, heretofore considered first-class, almost altogether unavailable as collateral for loans by bankers and trust companies. This would most unfavorably affect not only the money market but the status of some of our strongest moneyed institutions.

THOSE ALLEGED STOLEN BONDS.

The Report That is Being Circulated Abroad.

Notwithstanding that the finance department officials at Ottawa emphatically deny that any bonds have been stolen or illegally issued, or that anything whatever is wrong, unprincipled correspondents are vigorously sending the story broadcast, as witness the following, which under the heading of "special to the World" appears in Tuesday's edition of the New York World:

MONTREAL, July 13.—The redemption of the Canadian loan, which has just been arranged by Sir Leonard Tilley, Canadian finance minister in London, will bring to light some startling revelations as to the manner in which a considerable number of the bonds representing the debt have been placed upon the market by dishonest employes. It is believed this amount will exceed half a million. Last year a bond of the 1860 issue for £1000 was negotiated in London, England, after having been stolen from the government vaults by a trusted official, since dead, who forged the signature of the government representative authorized to sign it. It has now been discovered that a number of these bonds have disappeared from the government vaults, and there is little doubt that they are in circulation, and will come in for redemption within a few months.

It has further leaked out that during the recent investigation into the management of the finance department a defalcation of $12,000 was discovered in the accounts of a trusted official. Departmental circles in Ottawa are greatly agitated, as it is uncertain where the next discoveries will be made or upon whom suspicion may fall. Charges of loose management of several departments have been freely made of late, and appear to be justified by circumstances. Until recently bonds to the value of over one million dollars, all signed ready for issue, are said to have lain in a vault to which every officer of the treasury department had access without any check. As a result of a defalcation in the assistant receiver general's office at Halifax last year, the government have now to make good $24,000 to the bank of Montreal, which had made advances to the dishonest officials.

CRIME AND WHISKY.

Proposed Increase in the Price of the Latter—A Highway Robbery.

HAMILTON, July 15.—John McLaughlin appeared before the magistrate this morning, charged with highway robbery by Robert C. O. Benjamin, a young colored barrister of Richmond, Va. Benjamin testified that the prisoner claimed to be a member of the Salvation army, and when he had enticed him to a dark quarter of the city, by the assistance of two accomplices robbed him of $16 and his gold repeater. The magistrate, after hearing the various witnesses and after reading the prisoner's record, showing that he had served several terms for like offences, found him guilty. Sentence was deferred till to-morrow.

The vaccination business at the city hall is exceedingly dull. The public evidently don't care about enduring the pain of vaccination until smallpox is their next door neighbor.

The Salvation army is all resplendent in a bran new captain, Joe Ludgate, who, with his pretty young wife, will in future look after the salvationists' interests.

The meeting of the licensed victuallers yesterday afternoon was not sufficiently representative of the trade to raise the price of whisky to ten cents a glass. All who were present favored the increase, and in all probability the others who did not attend the meeting, when interviewed will agree to the increase.

An Octogenarian Killed.

TRENTON, Ont., July 15.—This morning as Mrs. Ellis was walking on the Central Ontario railway track here looking for some fine sand for the canaries, she was struck by the rear end of the northern passenger train, which was backing down to the town station, and almost instantly killed. The deceased was eighty years of age, and being somewhat deaf did not hear the train approaching. She was horribly mangled, having both legs severed from the body and her head and arms badly cut up.

The Waters of Canada.

NEW RICHMOND, Que., July 15.—Ex-President Arthur, accompanied by his son, has had rare good luck in salmon fishing on the river of R. G. Dun, whose guest he is on the Cascapediac. In three days the party caught 300 pounds of salmon, Mr. Dun securing nine which averaged 25 pounds each. The party on their way back to New York will stay over a few days at the Restigouche Salmon club at Metamedia, where the fishing is now particularly good.

Murder on a Race Track.

PITTSBURG, July 15.—In a quarrel at Homewood driving park this afternoon, James Kelly, the driver of Rich-ball, was shot and killed by a colored hostler named John Bunch, of Louisville. The affair arose out of a dispute respecting the relative merits of certain horses. Bunch was arrested and hurried from the scene, as threats of lynching were made by the murdered man's companions.

Help for the Irish Cause.

MONTREAL, July 15.—The Montreal branch of the Irish National league has decided to issue a manifesto to the Irishmen of Canada, calling upon them for support and subscriptions towards a national parliamentary fund for the payment of Irish members in the imperial parliament, and to defray their expenses in the coming elections.

A Bad Law.

From London Truth.

At Edgeware sessions last week a schoolmaster named Clissold was sent to prison for a month with hard labor for allowing his wife and children to become chargeable to Hendon union. The man pleaded in vain that he was trying to get work, and that he had written over 250 letters of application for all sorts of situations. The poor law certainly works great hardship in such cases as this, for had Clissold gone in to the workhouse with his family he would have escaped scot free; but because he seeks for work he is sentenced to hard labor.

DOMINION DASHES.

According to the Winnipeg Spectator some pretty lively games of poker are played in the Prairie city.

Exports of produce and cattle from Montreal this season show a great increase over those of last year.

Seventeen recruits for the mounted police were obtained at Belleville. They left for the west Monday night in charge of Capt. Moody.

It is stated that the minister of customs has given a decision in the Ayer & Co. great medicine seizure by fining the firm fifty per cent. of the whole duty.

The coffins which a young man from Detroit was trying to smuggle across the river a few weeks ago have been identified by an Amherstburg undertaker as some that were stolen from his rooms last June. Somebody was evidently hard up for something to steal.

UNITED STATES NEWS.

A number of mills around Utica, N.Y., will shut down during August, throwing over a thousand people out of work.

The world's exposition plant, buildings and machinery at New Orleans were sold at auction on Monday and bought by the new exposition company for $175,000. This sale ensures the reopening of the exhibition next month.

THE GREAT FREE FOR ALL

OPENING OF THE NEW YORK STATE PARK AT THE FALLS.

Immense Gathering—Speeches of the Governors of New York and Ontario—A Canadian Park to Follow—Dufferin's Dream Partly Realized.

The New York state reservation set aside on the American side of the Falls as a national park free and forever was dedicated to the use of the people yesterday. It was fittingly blazoned forth in letters of blue: New York's imperial gift to the world. There must have been thirty or forty thousand strangers on the American side. They came from Buffalo and all parts of the state as far east as Albany, from Pennsylvania and from Ohio, while the province of Ontario was represented by thousands. Governor Hill of New York was there with a brilliant staff, and extended a royal welcome to Governor Robinson, Attorney-General Mowat and Provincial Secretary Hardy, who were fitting representatives of Ontario. The feature of the celebration was the announcement that an Ontario commission consisting of Col. Growski (chairman), J. W. Langmuir, Judge Sinclair, G. R. Patullo (secretary) was making inquiry into the feasibility of creating a similar public park on the Canadian side.

The New York reservation dedicated yesterday cost $1,500,000, and its completion was only secured by the exercise of much diplomacy and hard labor on the part of the commission, of which Hon. Wm. Dorsheimer is chairman.

After prayer by Bishop Coxe and the singing of "My Country 'Tis of Thee," Mr. Dorsheimer handed over the park to the governor of the state.

Governor Hill, who greatly resembles B. B. Osler, Toronto's lawyer, accepted the gift in a rather funereal speech. He spoke well of the honesty with which Mr. Dorsheimer and his colleagues had administered their trust.

The orator of the day was Hon. James Carter of New York city. He said if the Greeks had lived by the falls they would have paid them divine honors, and said that this great natural wonder and the park just dedicated alongside constituted a fitting pledge of everlasting amity between the great republic and its powerful and monarchical neighbor.

Governor Robinson of Ontario then followed in a speech that was eloquent and witty and in good contrast to his sober predecessors. He congratulated the citizens of the great state of New York on the event of the day, and hoped to see the day when a similar celebration would take place on his side of the river—unless, indeed, before that time Ontario had annexed New York. He pointed out in happy terms the difference that existed between himself and Gov. Hill—the latter had all the power, the real Governor of Ontario was his attorney-general, Mr. Mowat, who was with them.

Mr. Mowat said if he did not know he was in New York he would imagine himself addressing a Canadian audience. He committed himself to the desirability of a Canadian national park on the other side, and hinted that it might soon be. Other speeches and exercises followed, after which the crowds dispersed to witness the military review or look at the sights.

The ladies like the Bon Marche, and why shouldn't they?

IN THE FLOWER KINGDOM.

An Enchanting Bower of Beauty at the Horticultural Gardens Pavilion.

Plants and flowers of every description, from the modest pansy to the stately fan palm, blooming roses and graceful ferns, elegant floral designs and luscious fruits, among all of which glided fair ladies in gay summer attire. Such was the scene which the floor of the Horticultural gardens pavilion, brilliantly lighted, presented last night at the flower show. The view from the gallery was enchanting. The Grenadier band furnished music very acceptably. Upwards of 1200 people were present during the day, a number by no means proportionate to the merit of the exhibition. The number of entries was large and the contests were close, but the judges, by getting to work early, managed to get through by about 5 o'clock. The judges were: F. G. Foster, Hamilton; Jas. Forsyth, Guelph; E. J. Townsend, Hamilton; J. McP. Ross, Jno. Chambers and Col. Gray of Toronto.

The principal prize-takers in classes 1 and 2 (plants and flowers and cut flowers), are Sir David Macpherson, Government house and the Horticultural gardens. Sir David takes 20 first prizes, 3 seconds, and 2 thirds; Government house takes 7 firsts, 12 seconds and 2 thirds, and the Gardens captured 9 firsts, 5 seconds and 4 thirds. In class 4, plants grown in windows, open to amateurs only, W. Bradford and Mrs. Finlay took the greatest number of prizes. The other important prize-takers are: Manton & Co., North Toronto; H. Slight, Toronto; D. McLean, Toronto; Geo. Murray, Deer Park; N. Sunley, Guelph; Joseph Graham, of the asylum; C. Scott, Melville Cross; Jas. Wright, Parkdale, and Jas. Paxton, Davenport.

The prizes for the most tastefully arranged tables of flowers in pots were awarded to the owner of Chestnut park, Manton & Co., and the Horticultural gardens. The displays of geraniums, of cut roses and pansies, of exotic ferns, and of funeral emblems, are particularly fine. The show, which will be continued to-day, is well worth a visit, and the small admission of ten cents is within everyone's reach.

Water Works Affairs.

The waterworks committee met yesterday afternoon, the members present being Ald. Walker, Hunter, Barton, Sheppard, Saunders, Hall and Lamb. Inglis & Hunter urged the committee to push preparations for the new engines through, so as to enable them to start the pumping machinery as soon as possible. Superintendent Hamilton said that everything would be ready the week after next. The committee decided not to allow Kennedy of Montreal his expenses in connection with the report on the pumping engine plans. In his report, Superintendent Hamilton said that 900 new water services had been put in since the beginning of the year. A new hydrant has been placed at the house of providence. The work on the new tank for the pumping house well is to be completed this week. On the advice of the superintendent it was decided to place new mains on Coatsworth's lane, Brownsville's lane, Massey street and sections of College avenue and Adelaide street west.

A Present-Day Fraud.

Editor World: I wish to let you know something about one "Hallelujah Doctor" regarding his faith healing. He says he cures by faith, but likes to get the deed of your property before beginning. He is a fiddler and minstrel as well, so he must have a good deal of faith to have three professions. We think that Christianity is getting very low to let a man like him preach the gospel.

C. R. H., OF THE SALVATIONIST ARMY.

Toronto, July 15.

ALD. SHAW'S ROMANCE.

A Bright-eyed Little Stranger That Found an Unexpected Home.

During the late illness of Mayor Manning it fell to the lot of the suave Ald. John Shaw, of St. John's ward, to fill his worship's shoes, attached to which was the high-sounding title of "Acting Mayor." Shortly after Mayor Shaw took his seat at the official desk he was confronted by a middle-aged woman, rather poorly clad, and two beautiful bright eyed children. The woman related a tale of suffering to his extemporized worship. Her husband was in the central prison for stealing chickens, and had two months to serve. She could find work herself, but she had no one to look after her children; would his worship be so kind as to provide for the little ones until the husband's release, when all would be well. The kind-hearted Ald. John consoled the poor woman by promising to do what he could for her. He gave an order for one for admission to the infants' home in St. Mary's street, and to the other to the orphans' home. The latter institution would not accept the child, it being not eligible for admission by virtue of the youngster having both a father and mother, and therefore no orphan. The other child, however, was received at the infants' home. Tuesday last the woman sought out Mr. Shaw once more. She told him there were plenty of people in the city who would adopt the little one, but she only wanted it looked after until her husband's release from prison. Under these circumstances the warm hearted alderman told the anxious mother that he himself would take care of the 2-year-old darling. Baby was sent to the aldermanic residence in St. Paul's, given a good bath, neatly attired and made as happy as a cherub by Mrs. Shaw. She made herself perfectly at home from the moment she entered her new place of abode. Early yesterday morning a winsome little face, which was made further angelic by a pair of dancing, bright black eyes, looked up into the face of Ald. John, clapped its little hands and murmured something like "Papa, papa."

Death of Patrick Conlin.

There died at his residence, 400. Parliament street, yesterday morning, Patrick Conlin, one of the oldest residents of the city. Deceased was in his 86th year, and immigrated to this country from the county of Fermanagh, Ireland, where he was born, seventy years ago. He was a resident of the city for sixty-four years, and represented St. Andrew's ward in the city council for a number of years. He was also a member of the old York pioneers, and that society will attend his funeral in a body to-morrow morning from his late residence to St. Michael's cemetery.

Along the Docks.

The propeller Armenia is expected from Chicago this morning.

All the men doing business along the docks concede this is a season of inordinat letharcy. The passenger business by no means compares with last year, and there is but little business done in freights.

The Barbers' Brotherhood Prosperous.

About ninety members of the Barbers, Brotherhood assembled at McKay's hall, King and Sherbourne streets, last night to attend to the business of the union. The regular meetings of the brotherhood will hereafter be held the first and third Monday of each month at Albert hall. The rule of closing up at 8 o'clock every evening except on Saturday is being strictly adhered to by all the leading shops.

The Capable Cat.

At the recent public school examinations, in answer to the question: "Write three sentences containing 'heavy,' 'ill' and 'capable,' first in the positive degree, second in the comparative, and third in the superlative," a pupil wrote the following: "1. The man ran away with a heavy cat, which was capable of breaking his window; it afterwards became ill. 2. The cat became more capable and grew heavier as it grew worse. 3. At last it was the heaviest, worst and most capable cat you ever saw."

GIVE ME MY HUSBAND.

PATHETIC SCENE IN THE HOUSE AT OTTAWA.

A Woman Breaks on to the Floor and Accuses Sir John Macdonald of having Killed Her Poor Albert.

OTTAWA, July 15.—Shortly after the house reassembled at eight o'clock to-night a tall handsome woman wearing a fashionable black satin dress hurried past the doorkeeper on duty at the entrance to the eastern corridor, and walked quickly to the door of the commons' chamber, facing the speaker's chair, or what is known as the main entrance. Ere Doorkeeper Harris could interpose to prevent her further progress, the woman, throwing aside the baize-covered door within, stood on the floor of the house. She made a quick motion as if to go further, but the doorkeeper, who had by this time recovered his wits, bolted after the intruder and stepping on the long train of her dress brought her to a standstill. A sharp struggle ensued and finding herself overpowered, she shrieked out, "Sir John Macdonald killed my husband. Let me go! let me go!" By this time she was pushed back into the corridor, and here it became evident that the woman was suffering from hysteria. Her shrieks as she was led down the main corridors rang along the halls and echoed sharply through the commons' chamber, where the startled legislators for the moment forgot the business before the house and wondered what it all meant. "They've killed my poor Albert. Give me back my husband," she wailed piteously, as she was taken away, and in one of the adjacent committee rooms a small knot of compassionate members and attendants gathered around the now pacified woman and soon all indications of violence ceased. She became gradually more composed, and was driven to her lodgings in a covered carriage.

Some time in 1880 an accident occurred on the Prince Edward Island railway and among the passengers aboard the wrecked train was Capt. Albert McInnes. Shortly after McInnes died and his widow, an English lady by birth, entered an action against the government for $10,000. In the session of 1883 the sum of $2500 was given her, and in the following spring she sailed for England. Since her return she has frequently visited the capital, and during the present session has been several times in the parliament building. It is supposed that in a fit of nervous excitement arising from the death of her husband, who left her in a rather unprotected condition, she came to the house this evening, and eluding the doorkeepers rushed into the commons chamber as stated. The affair caused no little commotion in the house. Mrs. McInnes is a pretty woman of good address and dresses elegantly.

Ontario, Mother of Men.

Mr. Blue, the energetic secretary of the Ontario bureau of industries, attended a recent conference of statisticians held at Boston. Mr. Blue, as became his modesty, put in a good word for his province, backing up his statements with a wheelbarrow of figures. After showing, and quoting David A. Wells in support of his view, that Ontario has the climatic conditions which especially fit it to grow men, and claiming that, other circumstances being equal, the odds are on the side of the best breeds of men in the rivalries of nations, he wound up with the somewhat athletic and able-bodied assertion that there were in every village amateur Hanlans, and Wallace Rosses in the potential were on every limb. There is no doubt that the sons of Ontario are strapping chaps, and when that little army, tanned and hardy, returns from the Northwest in a few days the proof of our statement may be seen in an accentuated form. But it is down in the county of Glengarry that Ontario has surpassed herself in the size and vigor of her sons. They are to be found all over Canada, all over the United States, these Glengarry men of giant build, of indomitable energy. But besides the quality of her men Ontario has many other advantages that make and ought to make her the finest province or state on the continent.

Again Rumors of War.

We would not too readily accept as true the revived war rumors which are now coming from Persia and Afghanistan. As far as the public are permitted to know, recent exchanges between London and St. Petersburg have been of a peaceful character. But the most disturbing part of the news is that the Russian commander, General Alikanhoff, is determined to force on a war, and that he is even deceiving the Czar as to what is actually going on. This story may be an invention, but there is nothing intrinsically improbable in it. For it has happened ere now that the army and the war party at Moscow and St. Petersburg together have proved stronger than the nominal autocrat of all the Russians, and have carried their point against all opposing influences. And again—who knows?—it may be that the czar is willing to be deceived, and to allow some frontier accident or "incident" to do what should be done only by grave and diplomatic deliverance from the foreign office. It is conceivable that the czar, oppressed as he is with heavy responsibilities, and the terrors of nihilism to boot, may consult his own ease and safety chiefly, and simply allow things to drift. In which case Komaroff and Alikanhoff may be depended upon to make the drift go in their own desired channel—that is, towards war.

It is becoming more and more evident that it has been a grand mistake all along to regard Russia as a really civilized power—as a power sufficiently amenable to the requirements of civilized diplomacy to pay respect to formal agreements. Suppose that such an agreement as that recently made with Russia had been made with either France or Germany instead. We might feel quite sure that no French general, or German general either, as the case might be, would so far presume as to break the agreement by an act of war without express orders from his superiors at the capital of his nation. But this is exactly what we cannot depend upon when Russian generals are concerned. When the fit is on them they do as they please, and next the Russian foreign minister of the day writes diplomatically about an incident—the "Penjdeh incident," for example. The real truth is that Russia at is best only a half-civilized power; and that as such she ought to be treated by all Western Europe, until she has better shown her fitness to bear the character she assumes. At bottom she is more than half-Tartar, and her outside French polish of diplomacy fails to conceal the savage nature underneath. Let us hope that Britain's new government will be well prepared for every turn of her crooked ways.

The American Financial Volcano.

The stock market of Wall street is an edifice built upon a volcano foundation; and not upon what Disraeli might have called an extinct volcano, either. Beneath the seemingly solid crust there are glowing fires, which may any day break forth above, and light up the sky with lurid glare. During some decades past, but especially since the end of the civil war, a vast financial structure of shares and bonds has been building up, the whole real value of which is not one-third or one-half of nominal quotations. The owners, or alleged owners, of this gigantic structure of many wings and section's labor day and night, with the stock exchange, the telegraph, and a great portion of the press at their back, to uphold fictitious values, and that in the face of what everybody sees to be a falling market. A writer in a New York paper says that it has become absolutely useless to argue or attempt to draw any conclusions from existing facts. The investor does not want to hear of Wall street. Nine-tenths of the speculators know that stocks are not worth anything like the prices they are selling at. Yet prices advance as if a general revival of business had set in; as if magnificent crops had been assured, and an immense export demand for them created. Nothing of the kind has occurred, however, and the market is being put up on the prospective settlement of the differences between the managers of two railroad corporations—the New York Central and the Pennsylvania. The speculators believe that if these differences are settled all the other competing lines will be whipped into a brotherly pool, which will be able to establish extortionate rates for transportation and to secure brilliant profits to the holders of stocks. But as long as there is not traffic enough for all the roads no brotherly pool is possible, and an advance of rates can certainly not increase the traffic. Wall street, however, does not care about that. The speculators buy stocks because they believe that prices will be made to advance and that there will always be ample time to jump out with profits. So far they have been right. But as the short interest must be very nearly eliminated by this time, and as the outside public is less than ever disposed to bring its money to Wall street, it is very difficult to see how prices can be sustained any longer unless all the banks and bankers of the country are going to make even the most worthless Wall street securities their only investment.

Some day, most inevitably, the volcano will burst forth, the foundations will give way and the whole gigantic structure of fictitious values will come tumbling about the ears of those who happen to be "there" at the unlucky moment. Then it will be seen how much better absence of body (of one's substance invested) is than any degree of presence of mind; and Punch's dictum with regard to railway accidents will get another though not altogether a new application. But as it was in the old days, so probably it will be again. Before the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah the people took things right merrily—they bought, they sold, they planted, they builded, up to the very day of the catastrophe. Let Canadians be well advised to "stand from under."

The Return of the Troops.

Editor World: I do not advocate the secularization of the Sabbath, but if in the natural course of events Sunday should be the day on which the volunteers could reach the city, I should say they ought to come in on that day. Rather than hold the troops over to enable excursionists to come in and see them on Monday I would support the running of excursion trains to the city on Sunday. All could then see the men without losing a day and the volunteers would be among their friends at the earliest possible moment. CITIZEN.

The Skiff Had the Right of Way.

Editor World: As a member of the new skiff club I would like to know whether the Island ferries have the right of way in crossing the bay. As an instance, last evening as I was sailing across to the Island, the Luella was coming in the opposite direction, and as she got near me she turned her rudder to get ahead of me; I kept on my course, as I thought I had the right of way, but when I was about twenty feet from her she gave another turn, causing me to "let off," and the steamer coming close beside me caused my sail to gibe, almost upsetting me. Now, as I was alone and had no oars or anything to help me along I would like to hear the opinion of others on this subject, as, if the Luella or any other boat ever upset me I will bring it into court and have the matter sifted.

Licenses for the Island.

Editor World: I am surprised at your allowing a man, so illy-informed as to the facts as your correspondent, J. T., of this morning shows himself to be, to write on this question. The west end of the Island, known as Hanlan's point, where nine-tenths of the people go, is not a public park. It is private property for which I pay a rental of $2500 a year. The wharves are mine, and so are the sidewalks, all the seats, band stand, lights, etc. The music and all the other attractions are supplied by Mr. Doty and myself. It costs us $60 a month to keep the place in shape. Men like J. T. come over there with five cents worth of peanuts in their pockets; all I get from them is that I have to pay for cleaning up the mess. Before J. T. can make his contention good he will have to show that things were disorderly at the Island last year, when a license was in force. To bring the thing down to a dollar and cent basis it is a fact that if our patrons—the masses of the city—are deprived of getting even a glass of lager beer on the island the custom will leave us, we will have to abandon our improvements, and the trade will go places like Victoria park, Lorne park and the Humber, where no such unjust and unfair restrictions obtain. We would close up now hotel, wharves and three-fourths of the ferries had we not some hope of this arbitrary treatment to which we have been subjected being abandoned next season. The majority of the people are in favor of our having a license, and when J. T. can show that such is not the case then I am willing to give in to him and his party.

July 15. JAMES H. MACKIE.

The Religious Press on the Modern Babylon.

From the Christian Guardian, July 15.

Brutal and vile as the facts stated by the Gazette are, they are probably true. Rev. Mr. Spurgeon is not apt to speak rashly or to write unadvisedly, but he published over his own signature in the Monthly Review of June 27 an article which a despatch from London says has produced a profound sensation. In this article he gives in detail the story of the death last year of Justice Williams in a brothel and the disclosures brought out in the recent Jeffries case. He makes these examples from high official life the basis of a denunciation of English immorality, and he says: "Sodom in its most putrid days could scarce exceed London for vice." To our infinite disgust and horror the names of the greatest in the land are openly mentioned in connection with the filthiest debauchery and the most hideous evil that drags in the wake of vice. These things are alleged to be the chosen luxury of certain hereditary legislators and rulers in England. Woe unto thee, England, when thy great ones love the harlot's housetop!

From the Canadian Presbyterian, July 15.

Two classes are strongly opposed to the action of the Gazette—good men who think that the end does not justify the means, and immoral men who love the deeds of darkness on which such an awful glare of light has been thrown. It seems to us there is but one question to solve: Is the good that is undoubtedly being accomplished by exposure greater than the evil caused by exposure? If so, then exposure is a duty, a terrible duty it may be, but still a duty. The charge that the Pall Mall Gazette is merely getting up a sensation to increase its sale is not worth considering. That may be and very likely is true; but it does not affect the horrible facts revealed.

AN ACTOR'S ALLEGED DEATH.

Said to Have Been Killed in the Northwest Rebellion.

From the New York World.

In the early part of June, and while the Riel rebellion was still in progress, this despatch from Winnipeg was published in The World:

Among the party of scouts conveying a train of ammunition wagons who were massacred by Riel's troops was an actor whose name is unknown.

Investigation quite conclusively shows that the name of the actor was Mason Mitchell. The story of his life, ended by this tragic death—if he is indeed dead—in the Canadian wilderness, is only now beginning to be known in the theatrical profession. Mitchell was at one time connected with the Mary Anderson company. He played as leading gentleman in the Minnie Maddern company, and was also a member of the McKee Rankin stock organization at the Third Avenue theatre. He was first heard of in New York five or six years ago. He came here from his home in Rochester, where he had been admitted to the bar.

When Mary Anderson sailed for England Mr. Abbey engaged Mitchell to support her. It was understood that he was to have a leading part, but American actors, Mr. Abbey feared, had not been particularly magnetic on British boards, and it was decided to change former plans and have Miss Anderson supported almost entirely by English actors and actresses. So at the first rehearsal of "Ingomar" Mitchell, instead of being cast for a fair part, found that he was to appear as one of Ingomar's barbarians. He promptly resigned and entered the Augustus Harris company at the Drury Lane Theatre. In this, it is said, he was so successful that a tour of the provinces was made, Mitchell taking Harris' own part.

After his return from this tour Mitchell met Miss Sophia Eyre, the lady who was once selected by Mr. Wallack to supersede Rose Coghlan. They were together on the ship coming over, and it was understood in the profession on their arrival that they were engaged to be married. Reaching New York Miss Eyre took quarters at the Victoria hotel, but for various reasons did not appear at Wallack's. Mitchell joined the Minnie Maddern company.

A few months ago Mitchell picked up a newspaper and read therein that Miss Eyre had married a wealthy young gentleman from Cincinnati. There had been some opposition in the bridegroom's family, but her beauty and agreeable qualities smoothed all difficulties, and to day she is to all appearances a devoted and happy wife.

The affair, his friends say, preyed on Mitchell's mind. During his stay in New York—he was of a frugal turn and had saved money—he lived in a private hotel on Fifth avenue, and gradually disappeared from the usual haunts of actors about town. One of his friends advised him to try hunting. He did so, and spent several months in the Dismal Swamp of Virginia. On his return, and in April last, Mitchell left the city to play the leading juvenile part in Kate Claxton's company. The tour lay through Wisconsin and Manitoba.

Charles Stevenson, the manager of the company, was sitting in his office just after the first performance, when Mitchell entered, said that he had grown tired of theatricals and was going to enlist with the Canadian troops, then marching to the attack on Riel. Both the actress and Mr. Stevenson endeavored to dissuade him from this purpose and he said he would think it over. From the theatre, however, he went directly to a lawyer, had his will drawn, bequeathing his few effects to his relatives at Syracuse, and on returning handed the will to Mr. Stevenson for safe keeping. A few days later he left the company and enlisted, and it was to him that the despatch above quoted referred. Since that time nothing, so far as can be definitely learned, has been heard of him, although an uncle, Wilbur W. Brown of Syracuse, has made inquiries in every direction concerning him.

LOVE AND LEARNING.

A Story With a Moral Concealed on the Premises.

EPISODE II.

SHE DOES NOT LOVE HIM.

"And do you never feel a longing for something deeper, sweeter, stronger than all this array of cold, scientific facts?"

"I do not see how anything could be deeper or stronger, and if by your peculiar use of the comparative term 'sweeter' you mean to indicate dearer, I must reply that to every well-regulated mind science is the dearest thing on earth."

"I am afraid I do not understand you."

"And I am quite sure I do not understand you."

That was the way Hypatia Green and Alfred Swinburne Cottle talked after a month's acquaintance. The young poet's vacation had stretched out from two weeks to seven. He had met Hypatia, had gazed into her wonderful eyes, and had been less able than ever to fathom their secrets. He loved her deeply, distractedly; he would not have been a poet if he had not done that. But when he talked like a poet to her she did not appear to comprehend him at all. She took all his metaphors seriously, and was utterly unable to grasp an analogy. If he used an argument, however, she could spring to its logical results long before he could. She was a puzzle to him and he was to her. Hypatia had never met a man like this before; she did not understand all his talk about beauty and the value of art. Once he praised her face, and that really astonished her.

"Why, Mr. Cottle, what do you mean?"

"I mean that your face is beautiful; don't you know what beauty is?"

"No; what is it?"

"Perfection of appearance."

"But appearances are of so little consequence."

"Can you not understand the delight that one feels in gazing upon a field of waving grain?"

"Yes, of course, one naturally feels delighted to see the rich results of rational labor."

Cottle groaned. It was enough to make any man groan. Here was a woman with the face and form of a Greek goddess who could not be made to understand that she was beautiful. From that time forth Cottle never again talked of beauty. He talked of love. He tried to find the silent chord within her heart that passion might awaken; but all his efforts seemed useless. The conversation with which this chapter opens occurred as they were on their way to a wedding. He thought that the beautiful ceremony might touch her heart; he was again doomed to disappointment and dismay. The town of Noesis had a wedding service of its own, and this was what Cottle heard:

"Will you take this woman to be your lawful wedded wife, to have and to hold and to protect in sickness or in health, until death you shall part? Will you provide her with a properly constructed home wherein the laws of rational sanitation are strictly complied with, and will you see that she is provided with food and clothing scientifically prepared? And will you provide her with such books and periodicals as may be necessary for the proper pursuit of her studies? And will you agree to provide for such children as you may have nurses who shall take care of them while this woman is engaged in scientific experiments?"

"I will."

"Will you take this man to be your lawful wedded husband, to have and to hold and to obey, save when his commands are contrary to the laws of science? And will you promise to aid and assist him in all scientific works, even until the end of your life?"

"I will."

The word "love" was not mentioned in the ceremony. Cottle began to fear that it was not known in Noesis.

"Tell me," he said to Hypatia as they left the church, "do you know what love is?"

"Of course I do."

"Love is the affection one has for one's parents and brothers and sisters."

Cottle's heart fell again with great force.

"But did you never hear," said he, "of love for one who was not a relative?"

"Oh yes," she answered, "for we are told in that part of the bible which science permits us to believe that we must love our neighbors as ourselves, and I suppose we all do to a certain extent. That is, I don't think much about it myself; but I have no objections to any one who does not interfere with my work."

"Do I interfere with your work?"

"Not in the least."

"Then you have no objection to me?"

"No, I can't say that I have any objection to you."

"Do you think you ever will have?"

"No, I think not."

"Do you think that you could always be happy in my presence?"

"Why, how strangely you talk!"

"Hypatia, it is useless for me to conceal it longer—I love you. Will you be my wife?"

"What for?"

"Because I love you madly, desperately. I cannot live without you."

"Is that what you call poetry?"

"No, no, it is the solemn truth."

"Oh, no, it is not. You can live very well without me. Of course I am a good cook, but you can find others."

"Oh, why will you not understand me?"

"I cannot, Mr. Cottle. I can comprehend why you should wish to marry me, but you do not seem to comprehend it yourself. I am the best cook in Noesis, and all the young men are trying to get me for life; but you do not seem to care anything about that, and insist on talking nonsense about my face. I cannot discover any reason why I should want you. If you were a great scientist, you might have some claim, but all you can do is to write that jingling nonsense which you call poetry. We don't marry men in Noesis for such causes as that."

"Then you refuse?"

"Of course."

Cottle walked in silence by her side until they had reached her dwelling. He could not comprehend her utter want of sentiment, nor could she find any solution for his poetry. At the door he turned to her once more and said:

"Miss Green, is there no hope for me?"

"I am afraid not," she answered, "as long as you cling to poetry."

"Then farewell."

He turned upon his heel and left her. The light had gone out of his life, and he bitterly lamented the day he had first seen the town of Noesis. Stunned by the blow which had just fallen upon him, he wandered, not knowing whither he went, far beyond the limits of the town. Out into the soft green fields he went like one bereft of sense. The sweet scent of the clover blossoms, and the twittering of the birds, and the soft murmur of the wind among the boughs of the trees smote upon his senses, not with the joyous melody of old, but with a new ring of pain. The voices of nature failed to speak to him as they had done in days gone by. Yet the soothing influence of solitude and beauty could not altogether be lost upon him.

"What," he meditated, "would the world be without sentiment and poetry? Could man live without them?"

Then he smiled as he thought of the vanity of his inquiry. Men lived without them in Noesis, and women too. And they appeared to be healthy and happy. Could he bring himself to such a state of mind? Could he dissect the tender fancies of poetry with the cruel scalpel of fact? Could he analyze an idea as Hypatia had done when he quoted to her, "Roll on, thou deep and dark blue ocean, roll!"

"What is the use," she asked, "of telling the ocean to roll on? Of course it will roll on. It always has rolled on, and will continue to do so until its waters are evaporated by the heat of the sun. 'Ten thousand fleets sweep over thee in vain.' What nonsense! Of course they sweep over it in vain. They couldn't possibly do the ocean any harm, could they? Now, if your poet had stated the fact that each ship immersed in the 'dark blue' ocean—which every scientist knows is green—lost a portion of its weight equal to the weight of liquid displaced, he would have said something sensible."

As these thoughts were coursing through Cottle's heated and bewildered brain, in the midst of the beautiful fields, he came upon the only thing needed to drive him to utter distraction—a class of girls from the Noesis high school engaged in the practical study of botany.

"Monocotyledon! monocotyledonous!"

That was what the girls were chanting in a nasal chorus.

"Enough! enough!" shrieked Cottle, as he rushed away.

His brain was in a mad whirl and the blood was coursing through his veins like a torrent of fire. Across the country he rushed like a maniac, never pausing till he reached the door of his lodging house. He sprang up the stairs three steps at a time and dashed into his room. In the solitary moment of consciousness that remained there floated through his mind the dim remembrance of a stanza written by a poet whom he loved and imitated:

"We had grown as gods, as the gods above,
Filled from the heart to the lips with love,
Held fast in his hands, clothed warm with his wings,
O love, my love, had you loved but me!"

And then the four walls of his room faded away, and in another moment Alfred Swinburne Cottle had fallen prone upon the floor. His good landlady, running up at the sound of the fall, found him there, laughing wildly. Physicians were summoned in hot haste, and shook their heads ominously as they muttered. "Brain fever."

EPISODE III.

SHE LOVES HIM.

One morning Alfred Swinburne Cottle, considerably to his own surprise, found himself in a condition of self-consciousness. He opened his eyes and looked at the bed wonderingly. Then he gazed around the room. He did not understand why he was in bed. He tried to raise his head, but, much to his astonishment, found that he was too weak. His eyes fell upon the medicine bottles on the table beside him.

"I wonder what is in those bottles," he thought.

By an effort he reached one and conveyed it to his nose.

"It smells like—I don't know what kind of a drug. Oh, I should like to know so much!"

In a short time the physician came. He smiled when he saw that his patient was conscious.

"Have I been ill long?" inquired Cottle.

"Yes, but you're going to be well soon."

"Doctor, what is in that bottle?"

"Nitrate of silver."

"Is that a compound chemical?"

"Yes, but you must not ask any questions now; you must rest."

"Only one more: who is the authority on chemistry here?"

"Professor Nitrogenes Pennyweight, of the high school."

Cottle lapsed into a thoughtful silence. Day by day he improved, and was soon convalescent. His landlady was kindness itself, and he owed his speedy advancement to her attentions. One day when he was sitting by the window she entered the room and said:

"Mr. Cottle, you must be lonely. Shall I read something to you?"

"Yes, if you like," he answered, smiling.

She went to his bookshelf and took down a volume. Then seating herself on the side of the bed she began to read:

"There lived a singer in France of old,
By the tideless, dolorous, midland sea;
In a land of sand and ruin and gold
There shone one woman and none but she."—

"Stop! stop!" exclaimed Swinburne; "what on earth are you reading?"

"That's poetry."

"It's rubbish," he said, emphatically. "Put away that book; I don't want to hear any more such nonsense as that."

"Why, Mr. Cottle," ejaculated the good woman, "you love poetry. You're a poet yourself. Here's some of your own poetry."

And seizing another volume she read as follows:

"Oh, take me to thy crystal breast,
And bear me hence a myriad miles,
Till this year dieth in the west,
And next year in the orient smiles."

"Who wrote that stuff?" he asked.

"You did, sir."

"Oh, nonsense! I never knew any one with a crystal breast."

"Why, it means the ocean."

"Pshaw! The ocean is water, not crystal; and it hasn't any breast at all. If there's any more such stuff there, I want you to take it down to the kitchen, apply a lighted match to it, and convert it into oxide of poetry."

"You mean to burn it?" gasped the landlady.

"I do," was the reply.

In utter astonishment the good woman gathered together his once loved volumes of poetry and bore them away. The brain fever had done its fatal work. Poetry was dead in Alfred Swinburne Cottle, and in its stead there was a great hunger and thirst after chemistry. Day by day the appetite grew upon him. He watched the simplest chemical processes of nature with intense interest, and yearned to understand them. He cared naught for poetry; he hated the very sound of a rhyme. His first movement, when he was able to leave the house, was to go straight to Professor Nitrogenes Pennyweight.

"Sir," said he, "I am oxidizing with a desire to know chemistry. I have an affinity for it. I am not a boy, but I know how to be a student. Will you accept me as a pupil?"

TO BE CONTINUED.

—"Yes; I shall break the engagement,' she said, folding her arms and looking defiant; "it is really too much trouble to converse with him; he's as deaf as a post, and talks like he had a mouthful of mush. Besides, the way he hawks and spits is disgusting." "Don't break the engagement for that; tell him to take Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It will cure him completely." "Well, I'll tell him. I do hate to break it off, for in all other respects he's quite too charming." Of course, it cured his catarrh.

The Best Yet.

—There is no preparation before the people to day that commands their confidence more, or meets with a better sale, than does Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry—the infallible remedy for all forms of summer complaints. 246

—Mr. John Magwood, Victoria Road, writes: "Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure is a splendid medicine. My customers say they never used anything so effectual. Good results immediately follow its use. I know its value from personal experience, having been troubled for nine or ten years with dyspepsia, and since using it digestion goes on without that depressing feeling so well known to dyspeptics. I have no hesitation in recommending it in any case of indigestion, constipation, heartburn or troubles arising from a disordered stomach."

—The rock on which many a constitution goes to pieces is dyspepsia. The loss of vigor which this disease involves, the maladies which accompany it, or which are aggravated by it, the mental despondency which it entails, are terribly exhaustive of vital stamina. Its true specific is Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, which likewise overcomes bilious maladies, female ailments, and those coupled with impurity of the blood.

A Good Filter.

—Pure water is indispensable to health, the least impurity should be removed by a good filter. Pure blood is also indispensable; there can be no perfect health without it. The liver filters the blood. Regulate the liver with Burdock Blood Bitters and make pure blood. 246

—Mrs. E. H. Perkins, Creek Centre, Warren Co., N.Y., writes: She has been troubled with asthma for four years, had to sit up night after night with it. She has taken two bottles of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and is perfectly cured. She strongly recommends it, and wishes to act as agent among her neighbors.

—Ayer's Sarsaparilla, operating through the blood, radically cures every scrofulous taint or infection.

—West Toronto Junction is within a few minutes walk of the Union station by the trains of either the Ontario and Quebec and the Grand Trunk or the Northern. Real estate in the neighborhood has steadily risen in value and promises to advance still more rapidly. Some of the best lots in West Toronto are to be had from Geo. Clarke, 295 Yonge street.

—A. Maybee, merchant, Warkworth, writes: I have sold some hundreds of bottles of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and it is pronounced by the public "one of the best medicines they have ever used;" it has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, sore throats, etc., and is worthy of the greatest confidence.

—Mrs. George Simpson, Toronto, says: "I have suffered severely with corns, and was unable to get relief from treatment of any kind until I was recommended to try Holloway's Corn Cure. After applying it for a few days I was enabled to remove the corn, root and branch—no pain whatever, and no inconvenience in using it. I can heartily recommend it to all suffering from corns."

—Much distress and sickness in children is caused by worms. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator gives relief by removing the cause. Try it and make the improvement in your child.

—For a family medicine Ayer's Sugar Coated Pills are unrivaled. They root out disease, as if by magic.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

Is a highly concentrated extract of Sarsaparilla and other blood-purifying roots, combined with Iodide of Potassium and Iron, and is the safest, most reliable, and most economical blood-purifier that can be used. It invariably expels all blood poisons from the system, enriches and renews the blood, and restores its vitalizing power. It is the best known remedy for Scrofula and all Scrofulous Complaints, Erysipelas, Eczema, Ringworm, Blotches, Sores, Boils, Tumors, and Eruptions of the Skin, as also for all disorders caused by a thin and impoverished, or corrupted, condition of the blood, such as Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Rheumatic Gout, General Debility, and Scrofulous Catarrh.

$200 IN CASH As Extra Prizes

THE LI-QUOR TEA CO. of Canada (Geo. Clarke, Proprietor) have determined to offer the following PRIZES, viz.:

1st Prize - - $100 in cash.
2nd Prize - - $50 in cash.
3rd Prize - - $25 in cash.
4th Prize - - $25 in cash.

To the person sending in before September 1st, 1885, the longest list of words made from the letters composing the following:

The Li-Quor Tea Co.

In this phrase, as it stands above, there are ELEVEN DIFFERENT letters, five of them vowels, and many words can certainly be found in such a combination with ease. The prize will, however, probably find its way to one of the enterprising readers of these lines who goes beyond the obvious words. There is a chance for every industrious mind, as mere cleverness will not go for so much in this competition as perseverance. Boys and girls may occupy themselves with this problem as well as their elders, and there is no limit to the number of lists which may be sent from one family.

Any patron of the Li-Quor Tea Co. is free to mail us his list, and it is to be hoped that many will be heard from, one having as good a chance as another in this competition. Those not already customers may become eligible to compete by sending with their lists six Half-pound Vouchers taken from our packets of tea at either 50 cents, 60 cents, 70 cents, or 80 cents per lb., for which they may select as usual the books or bonuses to which they are entitled.

Rules of the Competition.

1. The words as printed above must be used as they stand. "Co." is intended to go for but TWO letters, and may not be expanded into "Company."
2. No letter may be used in one word more frequently than it occurs in the phrase Li-Quor Tea Co." O and E, for instance, may be employed twice, but L only once.
3. Proper names are excluded, but any word found in Webster's Dictionary (not a proper name) will be allowed, the actual words of the phrase excepted.
4. Words must be neatly written in columns and numbered thus—

1 Ace	4 Queer
2 Ache	5 Other
3 Lie	6 Rat
	—Total..6

The total must invariably be set down.

5. Envelopes containing lists (which should reach the office of the Li-Quor Tea Co., 295 Yonge street, not later than noon Sept. 1st), should be endorsed "Li-Quor Tea Co. Prize Competition," and directly beneath must be written the number of words on the enclosed list. The list itself must bear at the top the name and full address of the sender. An accompanying letter is unnecessary. The names and addresses of the successful competitors will be published in the Evening Telegram on Thursday, Sept. 3rd.
6. TO EVERY list must be pinned six half-pound vouchers for our tea, for which the usual bonuses may be selected.

Failure to comply with one of the three first rules will result only in the cancellation of words gained by offending against them, but we cannot promise attention to lists not made out and sent in in accordance with rules 4, 5 and 6.

THEIR NINTH VICTORY.

THE TORONTOS BEAT THE CLIPPERS BY SIX TO FOUR.

Robert Bonner's Method of Shoeing Maud S.—Pete Wood's First Essay with the Buffalos—National League Games Yesterday.

Yesterday was the second ladies' day of the Toronto baseball club, and the oases their pretty costumes made in the ordinary sombreness of the grand stand on the Jarvis street grounds not only lent grace to the picture but must have been most gratifying to the managerial heart. A week ago yesterday the Primroses kicked, and it was feared the result would be that "the better part of creation" would lose their new-born interest. Such, however, was not the case, and more of the tyrants were present yesterday than on any former occasion. Unfortunately there was nearly another calamity and with another Hamilton club. John Flynn of the Ambitious City was referee, and whether it was that he was nervous or unduly sensitive owing to its being his first appearance in the role it is impossible to say, but the fact remains that he exhibited an exceptional degree of pettishness by going off the field because the crowd hooted and Manager Spence disputed his decision. Mr. Flynn must understand that it is one of the unpleasantries of the position to which he was subjected. If he wishes to be a good umpire he must laugh at outside remarks and confine himself to strict and impartial decisions.

The game opened with the Clippers at the bat. Thanks mainly to McKinley their first innings was productive of one run. In the Toronto first, Smith sent a crackling fly beyond centre to the fence, but although he got second the innings proved a blank. Wilson, Nelson, Pope retired on two strikes-out and a fly in the second of the Clippers. Spence got first on balls for the Torontos and went to second on a little fly to right from Sheffler, Wilson, the Clipper fielder, trying for double play and missing both. Macklin and Wade both struck out. Right here came in the grand kick. McKinley hit to Nelson at centre. That individual backed to catch and Spence in running to third slightly collided with him. He could even then have caught the ball, but preferred to bluff the umpire, to whom he appealed, and that individual gave the manager out. Mr. Spence protested and the crowd yelled. Mr. Flynn humped his back and left the field, but was persuaded to return. After that, although several of his rulings were very close, everything went on satisfactorily. Again the Clippers retired in one, two, three order, McKinley atoning for his error by admirably fielding a hot 'un from Andrus. The Torontos scored in the latter half and "one all" was the cry. Reid sent a beauty between the bases and got first. Second he took on a passed ball, third he made on Stemmyer's safety hit, which being badly fielded gave him an opportunity to reach the plate. The fourth innings of the Clippers yielded another single. Chamberlain struck safely to centre, secured second because he could travel faster than a ball thrown by Smith, and came home on Croghan's hit. Stapleton was struck out. Wilson hit to right. It went high, but Spence backed, and jumping high captured the ball when everybody thought it was safe. On the instant he threw to third, and Croghan was also out. It was the finest bit of play of the match. Sheffler, Macklin and Wade resumed their seats in order of succession. Three ciphers bore testimony mainly to Stemmyer's efficiency in the box in the fifth, sixth and seventh innings of the Clippers. The Torontos meantime scored five, increasing their tally to the even half-dozen. In the fifth McKinley got to first on catcher's error and stole second, coming home on O'Rourke's hit to pitcher. O'Rourke also got home on a series of muffs. In the sixth Sheffler got first on balls, stole second and third, and got to the plate on a base hit by Macklin. In the seventh Reid and O'Rourke both got bases on balls and both came home on a rattling lift by Smith to centre, aided by an erratic throw of Chamberlain. The eighth innings of the Clippers brought their score up to a quartette. Pope hit to left and stole second. Rainey sent a grounder to Reid, who muffed it, and Wade following suit, it was left for Sheffler to throw in. The latter did his best but Pope arrived home and Rainey got to third, from which position a wild pitch enabled him to reach the terminus. The eighth of the Torontos was noted for quick despatch. Nelson got to second in the ninth of the Clippers but he was caught stealing the third, and Stapleton and Wilson having previously struck out, the Torontos proved the winners without taking their ninth innings.

League Games Yesterday.

BUFFALO, N.Y., July 15.—Buffalo was treated to a very pleasant surprise to-day. Rumors that the ball club was about to disband and that the more prominent players would go to Boston and St. Louis were denied, and to add to the pleasure felt at this announcement by lovers of the game came a second tid-bit which was in the nature of a surprise. Peter Woods, the young Hamilton pitcher, made his first bow to a Buffalo crowd and pitched a wonderful game. With one exception all of the Chicago batsmen, the champion batting club of the league, were struck out one or more times, and Dalrymple, the leader, dropped three times. But seven hits were made off Wood, and the record would have been five if Crane had been able to field a high fly which lameness prevented his getting, and another, an error juggled by the Buffalos. The third baseman of the Chicagos earned two of the four runs made off Wood, while Buffalo earned an equal number off Clarkson, the Bisons losing by the superior fielding of their opponents and through their having bunched their hits at opportune moments, when the Buffalos' errors aided them.

At New York—Providence 6 r., 10 b. h., 5 e.; New York 7 r., 11 b. h., 3 e.; ten innings.

At Detroit—Detroit 3 r., 7 b. h., 2 e.; St. Louis no runs, 5 b. h., 4 e.

Maud S. and Her Shoes.

A charge was made by one of the owners of Belmont park, Philadelphia, where Maud S. put in three months before going to Cleveland, that Robert Bonner was ruining the mare's feet by too frequently shoeing her. Mr. Bonner was interviewed regarding the matter and then said:

"I will give you a little bit of information concerning the mare that the public does not know. On the day that she was delivered to Mr. Vanderbilt in her four-year-old form she was lame. Carl Burr, her trainer, told me that, while he handled her, during the period of her five-year-old form, with the exception of about five weeks, she was lame. She was lame at Hartford in August, 1880, when she was going to trot there, and they had to withdraw her. She was very lame in Cincinnati in May, 1884. She was lame at Fleetwood in June, 1884. I saw her lame there myself. The fact is the mare has to be shod frequently to keep her feet properly balanced."

Here Mr. Bonner produced the coffin, pastern and navicular bones of a horse.

"She grows," he said, tapping the bones with his forefinger, "faster on one side of the hoof than on the other, and if that excessive growth is not reduced it unbalances the lower pastern bone where it rests on the coffin bone and strains the ligaments that bind it one side. In other words, the growth elevates the coffin bone on one side of the foot and depresses it on the other. She was lame the day she was delivered in my stable, August 19, 1884, and her trainer, Bair, said no veterinary surgeon could cure her. She had been in that condition for five years. Two weeks after Bair had said that no surgeon could cure her, he admitted to me that he was wrong. When he saw her going perfectly sound on that foot he said: 'I give it all up.'

"The statements about her repeated shoeing are all false. She has to be shod often. She ought to be shod about once in two weeks. If a shoe becomes unbalanced, she should be shod once a week.

"I moved her shoe last Tuesday, and to show you that she is in excellent condition now, here is a despatch just received from Bair, her trainer:

'CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 11.

'Robert Bonner, New York Ledger:

'Maud S. is splendid. Mile forty-seven and mile twenty-seven. W. W. BAIR.'

"That shows that the moving of her shoe on Tuesday did not hurt her any. Her hoof has a greater growth on the outside than on the inside, thus elevating the coffin bone on one side and depressing it on the other, straining the ligaments. The tendency is to put the bone out of the socket.

"There are many things about the mare which the trainer and manager did not tell Mr. Vanderbilt. I have paid more personal attention to her than Mr. Vanderbilt did, and I quickly discovered the defects. I find no fault with Mr. Vanderbilt because she was lame when I got her. I am bound to say that he acted most liberally and gentlemanly in the transaction. I consider the mare to-day worth double what I paid for her."

"Are you going to try to beat her record this summer?"

"We are going to try to beat her record, and that trial will be in Cleveland. I have made a conditional promise that if the mare is all right in the latter part of July we will try to beat her record there."

"How often have you driven her yourself?"

"Never but once. I turned her over to Bair after I got her."

"Was she lame when you drove her?"

"She would limp on the off hind foot, and then warm out of it; but after three days she never showed a particle of lameness in that foot, notwithstanding she had been in that condition for five years."

"Had she been shod under your supervision before you drove her?"

"Certainly. I would not allow her to go out of my stable until she had been re-shod. The lameness passed off in three days after she was shod, and the foot became perfectly balanced."

"What do you suppose Bair thinks of your method of treatment?"

"He has over and over again stated that the mare was greatly improved, and her old groom, Grant, said to a number of gentlemen: 'If Mr. Bonner had had her three or four years ago she would be trotting in 2.05 or 2.06 now.'"

"Do you always superintend her shoeing?"

"Yes; and after I began to superintend her shoeing she made her great trot of 2.09¼, which is the fastest mile that she or any other horse ever trotted, without showing a particle of lameness or soreness."

Sports at Hamilton.

HAMILTON, July 15.—A cricket match will be played here to-morrow between the home eleven and the Trinity college Rovers. The following will constitute the Hamilton team: Kennedy, Woolverton, Cummings, Gillespie, Park, Stinson, Mulligan, Patterson, Dixon and Harvie.

The Clippers will play in Newcastle on Thursday and with the Londons on Saturday.

At the meeting of the regatta committee of the Canadian association of amateur oarsmen held last night it was decided to give as prizes, in the senior four, four gold watches in addition to the $600 challenge cup.

Trotting at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, July 15.—Second day of the Homewood park meeting. First race, free for all, trotting—Harry Wilkes 3 1 1 1, Trinket 1 5 5 3, Clammie G 4 2 3 2, Phyllis 2 4 2 5, Jerome Turner 5 3 4 4; time 2.17¾, 2.26¼, 2.15¼, 2.16. Second race, 2.30 class—James H 1 1 1, Harry Roberts 2 2 4, Willette 3 4 2, Bay Tom 4 5 6, Little Joe 5 6 7, Pieret 6 7 5. Frank Ellis 7 3 3; time 2.22¼, 2.22¼, 2.21¼. Third race, 2.20 class, pacing—Gossip 1 5 1 1, Marlow 2 1 2 5, Jordan 5 3 3 2, Little Em 3 2 4 3, Palsy Clinky 4 4 5 4, Juliet 6 6 7 6, Gurgle 7 7 6 7; time 2.17¼, 2.20, 2.18¼, 2.23.

General Notes.

Collie dogs are used at the cape of Good Hope to herd ostriches.

The American association will forsake the guarantee plan and next season play on the percentage of gate receipts principle.

The prize pointer dog Meteor, owned by Col. W. E. Hughes, and valued at $10,000, died at Dallas, Texas, on Tuesday of abscess of the liver.

James R. Wilcox, of Romeo, Mich., offers to match an unknown to jump any man in America for $1000 or $2000 a side. George Hamilton must be home on a vacation.

John Teemer signed articles yesterday for a double-scull race with Gaudaur as mate, against Wallace Ross and a mate not yet named. The race will be for $500 a side and will take place at Oak Point between Aug. 1 and 5.

Following the Canadian versus United States match in this city on August 4, and 6, the Canadian I Zingari will play Pittsburg on the 7th and 8th at Toronto, and the Toronto club will play Pittsburg in the 11th and 12th.

The race for the Liverpool cup was run yesterday and won by the Duke of Westminster's ch. f. Sandiway, 4 yrs., by Doncaster—Clemence, with Lord Cawdor's b. c. The General, 3 yrs., by Childeric—Coturnix second, Lord Bradford's b. h. Quicklime, 6 yrs., by Wenlock—Duvernay, third.

The Waterbury, Conn., club, who were after Stemmyer, are evidently hard to please. They have had forty-six players this season, and are not satisfied yet. Stemmyer, who by the way struck out eleven men yesterday, is now booked for the season.

The Clippers have another pitcher. His name is Wm. Nelson, and he comes from Terre Haute, Ind. It is said his record makes him out a better man than the elongated gentleman who delivers balls for the Torontos.—Hamilton Spectator. How sad it must be to reflect that he was not given a trial yesterday.

At a baseball match between the Brantford Telegram and Expositor printers, Sears, the pitcher for the Telegram, in stopping a ball from Copeland's bat, suffered a dislocation of the first joint of his left thumb, the bone bursting through the flesh, ligaments and tendons, and protruding so that the joint was plainly visible. The game was not finished.

If by any good luck the Torontos should beat the Londons to-morrow, they will stand at the head of the league. At present the score stands: Londons won 9, lost 3; Torontos won 9, lost 4; Clippers won 10, lost 5; Maple Leafs won 4, lost 10; Primroses won 3, lost 12. The Hamilton papers will kindly make note of the fact that just now the race for the pennant appears to be between the Londons and the Torontos.

James Galvin, the released Buffalo pitcher, has joined the Pittsburg club. It is said that his being allowed to go is the first step in the disbandment of the Buffalo club, who, it is thought, will be succeeded in the league by Cincinnati. Pete Wood evidently has his hands full. If he succeeds in winning some games for the unlucky Bisons his income will be increased and his fame made. May luck go with him, but he mustn't kick.

A good story is told of an old settler n Muskoka who had never killed a deer but was fortunate enough to entrap one in a snare. "Now," said he to his wife, "I'll have it to say that I killed one deer." So he tied a rope about the animal's horns and fastened it to a tree. Carefully loading his big-bored rifle, he stepped off a few paces and aimed deliberately at the buck's head. Bang went the gun, the dust flew from the rope, and the deer bounded off, free and unfettered, to enjoy the pleasures of his haunts in the greenwood. The bullet had cut the rope in twain.

These who have been arguing that Bradley is not blacklisted will be interested in an answer to A. L. F., New York, given in the Philadelphia Sporting Life, the acknowledged baseball authority of the United States. The Sporting Life gives a complete list of blacklisted players as follows: Atkisson, Bechtel, W. J. Burke, Geo. Bradley, W. H. Craver, F. Cunliffe, Tom Dolan, E. H. Decker, H. Doescher, Jas. Eagan, J. Gleason, J. Harris, J. Healy, R. Higham, G. Lane, J. Keenan, J. D. McLaughlin, A. H. Nichols, H. E. Oyerbeck, D. E. Rowe, E. T. Scharff, J. Sullivan, T. W. Weaver.

A couple of weeks ago Mr. Clow's famous pointer, Bend Or, stepped on a broken bottle and badly cut his foot. A piece of glass was taken out and the wound was seemingly doing well. Yesterday, however, while he was exercising at Eglington the cut re-opened and a vet. had to be called in. This gentleman took another piece of glass out and gave Mr. Clow a certificate to the effect that Bend Or could not possibly run, and consequently the proposed race with Robert the Devil, to have been decided to-morrow, will have to be declared off. It is needless to say Mr. Clow is greatly disappointed, for he has been looking forward to the meeting with a vast deal of interest and Bend Or appeared in the finest possible condition.

A Reception to Bishop and Mrs. Stevens.

The ladies of Christ church (R. E.) last night tendered a reception to Bishop and Mrs. Stevens in the lecture room of the edifice. The late pastor of the church, Rev. Bishop Wilson, will rest for a couple of years to recruit his health, and the spiritual welfare of the congregation will be looked after by Bishop Stevens, who belongs to Charleston, S. C. John Matthews, senior warden of the church, occupied the chair and introduced the new pastor to those present. The latter made a suitable address, in which he hoped his ministrations would be mutually beneficial. Rev. Dr. Wild also delivered an address, and the choir furnished several musical selections. The ladies served refreshments.

General Middleton.

—This gallant old hero will arrive in Toronto in a few days at the head of the brave little army he has so lately led against the rebels of the Northwest. He should have a grand welcome, and he will have it. In order to appear in good form at his reception you should buy a new hat at Dineen's, Toronto's only hatter.

A Waif from Niagara.

When the Chicora arrived last evening a little girl, aged about 10, was handed over to the police. At headquarters she said she had been put on board the boat at Niagara by two strange men, who then left her. The police, however, think she ran away from Miss Rye's home. The little one was taken care of by Mrs. Woods, the housekeeper at headquarters.

He Acted Wisely.

—"I am so weak I can hardly move, all run down with a chronic summer complaint," said one gentleman to another on our street the other day. "Now, take my advice," replied his friend, "go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. I never have known it to fail in curing any kind of summer complaints." 246

On Strike.

—We will not pass judgment on the wisdom of strikes—they may be right or they may be wrong. One thing is certain, that during a strike the wives and daughters of those out of employment have not much cash to spend on dress. Alive to meet an emergency, Mr. McKendry has slashed down the prices of dry goods in all departments, so that during July $2 spent at the Waterloo House will go as far as $3 spent elsewhere. 246

Facts For the Ladies.

—This week there is a double attraction at the Bon Marche. New goods from Montreal, just the thing for this season of the year, at low prices. Big bargains are to be had in these lovely and attractive goods. The great hat prize sale is a success. The hats are going off rapidly. A good straw hat is given with every dollar's worth of goods.

TAXES. 1885.

THURSDAY, 13th AUGUST.
THURSDAY, 10th SEPTEMBER.
THURSDAY, 8th OCTOBER.

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to a By-law No. 1589, passed on the 9th day of July that provision is therein made for the payment of taxes for the current year in manner following, that is to say:

(1.) The taxes for the year 1885 are payable from and after the day of passing the said By-law, subject nevertheless to extension of time being given in the interest and convenience of the citizens for the collection of the same by instalments or otherwise, and on the days and times hereinafter mentioned.

(2.) The collection of items of taxation under five dollars, and rates or assessments under the head of Local Improvements, or for Statute Labor or Dog Tax, which shall not be liable to sub-division, may be deferred to the 10th day of September, 1885, the day named for the collection of the second instalment of divisible taxation.

(3.) The payment of all other taxes for 1885, save and except items thereof under five dollars and rates or assessments under the head of Local Improvements, or for Statute Labor or Dog Tax, as in the preceding section mentioned, may be deferred and collected by instalments in manner following, that is to say: The amount of each item of taxation shall be sub-divided into three instalments in manner in the said By-law provided, and on the punctual payment of the first of such instalments on or before the 13th day of August, but not otherwise, a further extension of time may be given for the payment of the second instalment to the 10th day of September, and on the punctual payment of the said second instalment on or before the said 10th day of September, but not otherwise, a further extension of time may be given for the payment of the third instalment to the 8th of October, 1885.

(4.) Payment of taxes secondly above named may be made to the collectors of the several wards of the said city at any time before the said 10th day of September without any addition thereto; and payment of taxes thirdly above named may be made to the said collectors at any time before the said 13th day of August, without any addition thereto, and subject to the proviso that on the punctual payment of the first instalment of the same on the 13th day of August, but not otherwise, an extension of time may be given for the payment of the second instalment to the 10th day of September; and on the punctual payment of the said second instalment on the 10th day of September, but not otherwise, an extension of time may be given for the payment of the third instalment to the 8th day of October, 1885, without any addition thereto; and an addition of five per cent. shall be made to every tax rate or assessment remaining unpaid after the said several days named for the payment thereof; in the event of parties availing themselves of the proviso in that behalf, to any remaining instalment of the same unpaid on either of the days on which the same may be paid as aforesaid; and it shall be the duty of the collectors, immediately after the said several days named for payment as aforesaid, to collect at once in their respective wards, by distress or otherwise, under the provisions of the statutes in that behalf, all such taxes, or instalments of taxes, rates and assessments as have not been paid on or before the said several days named for payment as aforesaid, together with the said percentage charge of 5 per cent. upon the amount of every such unpaid tax, rate or assessment.

(5.) Ratepayers who may not desire to avail themselves of the principle of divisional payment but prefer paying their taxes in bulk on or before the 13th day of August, shall be entitled to a reduction of two per cent. on the payment of both or either of the two instalments which might be deferred to the 10th day of September and the 8th day of October respectively.
