MAKING EASY MONEY. MUD

THE SLEEPING CAR PORTER TELLS ABOUT HIS TIPS.

Passengers That Even a Man of Experience May Not Judge Aright. Bridal Couples Are Good, but Stateroom Parties Are Not.

"I've tried about all lines, and I'm go ing back to railroading," said Jim.

Jim was the big man among the door keepers. He stood outside the old man's door, and none might enter until Jim had passed upon his credentials. Jim bossed the other doorkeepers, the messengers, the minor clerks and almost the assistan manager. He was the diplomat who ar ranged methods of escape for his superiors when cranks beset them. He it was who lured an enthusiastic poet bent on reciting some of his productions to the old man into an elevator going up so that the old man might escape in an elevator going down. Jim was a man of great ex perience, and his decision to go back to railroading was the result of long thought.

"You see," continued Jim, "a handy man has a chance railroading that he don't have in any other business. A good man bught to make $15 a trip on a sleeper. I've made $20 and sometimes $30. But $15 is the lowest that any good man should make and that without much work. A porter on a sleeper has the easiest time and makes his money with less work than anybody else in the world. So I'm going back to railroading.

"There's two kinds of porters. One is the kind that works for the pay he gets from the company—that's $20 a month on a sleeper and $25 on a chair car. He is satisfied to take what is coming to him, and he don't make any cracks to draw money from 'em. The other kind is different. They are the porters that are out for the passengers. The passengers like them better.

"A porter has a lot of experiences. Now, you take me. I think I can spot a good man as quick as any one. But I've been fooled. I was running on the Pennsylvania's fast Chicago train six years ago. The first people to get around one night staggered me. There was an old man with powhide boots and a paintbrush beard at the head of a parade of six kids. There was seven berths gone, and I said to my-self, 'Not a cent in sight.' 'Well,' I said to myself, 'you're up against it. Half the car a kindergarten, with a jayhawker for the teacher. I see your finish.' Golly,

"I took the checks and showed the old man the berths. I made up my mind at wasn't worth while to bother with that outfit, and I didn't. The old man put the nursery to bed and dressed them in the morning. No help did I give! Not me. I was too busy. I "Well, we got into Chicago, and I was brushing my passengers off. The old man got the kids in shape and paid no attention to me. He was kneeling down but-toning the leggings on one when I went through. I had my brush; 'Will you let me take that broom?' he said. I handed it over. Well, he brushed every one of 'em. I took the brush then and dusted himnot much, but just a little. Well, the old man went down in his jeans, and he pulled out a roll, and he knocked me down a fiver. Yes, sir! He was the best man on the train, and there I had been abusing I'm all the trip!

"Now, women are queer. They don't tip, you know, and a carful of women is Now, I ran on the Southwestern Lim ited once, and I remember a woman. She was an old maid, I judge. She got aboard at St. Louis, and she had bundles till you couldn't rest. She was little and fussy. She began to ask questions at once. She was a terror. Every time we stopped she said, 'What town is this, porter?' I'd tell her, mighty short. I got out of doing everything she asked. I never done a thing for her. I had her sized up-oh, yes, I

"Well, she got nervous at Yonkers and began to bother worse than ever. When we got into the shed, she was first off, and her bundles weren't all there. I got them at last. And then she said: 'Porter, you've been very kind to me. Very kind, indeed, porter, and I want to thank you. Now, porter, this is for you, and she showed a bill to me. Well, I hadn't expected to get anything, and I was glad: I thanked her and shoved the bill in my pocket. When she got away, I looked at

it. It was a ten.
"A buffet is the thing. When man drinks alone, he gives up a dime for every drink and maybe a quarter. When there's more than one, it's a quarter most surely. A bridal couple! They're the stuff! Say, the bride wants everything she wants a drink of water. 'Porter,' says he, 'a glass of water.' That's a quarter. He wants to show off. Then she'll send a telegram home. 'Porter,' says he, 'a telegraph blank.' That's another the she'll know one.

other quarter, maybe fifty. I know one couple that netted me three-fifty in a day. "Stateroom parties are apt to be no good. They may be folks with a pull or something like that, and they demand at-tention. I made a run once and only got a dime out of a crowded stateroom, and the kept me on the jump all the time.

"But the main thing is that railroading is the best business. It's easy money. All a man has to do is to be lively and be on hand and not in the way. Then he'll get along. I'm going back to railroading.'

Reeder will no doubt be of much interest: She was born in England in 1825 and came to For-onto at the age of ten, with her par-ents and brothers and sisters, where she resided for a number of years. She learned the dressmaking trade and afterwards came to Chatham, where she overed a show which she where she opened a shop which she very successfully managed. It was here that she met with her husband, the late Wm. Reeder. After their marriage they moved to Detroit, in which place they resided for a num-ber of years, until growing weary of city life they bought a farm near Ridgetown, upon which they lived for some time. They came to Florence some time. They came to Florence about nine years ago and settled on the Kerby farm. One son was born, Wm. Reeder, of this place. About eight years ago the husband and father was taken away by the grim hand of death. DAWN MILLS.

Last Friday night we had something a little out of the ordinary in our little hamlet. The Methodist people actually undertook to bring here for an evening Mr. Spafford, the American cartoonist. Considerable trouble and expense was incurred and it was hoped the people would turn out en masse when they realized the effort being put forth to provide a high class entertainment and at the same time raise some money for the church, half of what it would have been had the night been fine. There were many more present, however, than was ex-pected, considering the night was so wet and stormy. A Ray of Light

For woman's guidance is found in the fact that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures female weakness and the diseases of the delicate womanly organs which darken the lives of so many women with suffering and sorrow. That ray of light has penetrated many darkened chambers where women moaned in misery, and has guided them out to health and happiness. "Favorite Prescription" is not a tonic, not a palliative, but a positive cure for the diseases which are itive cure for the diseases which peculiar to women. It gives vigor and vitality. It banishes nervousness, headache, and all the aches which come from a diseased condition of the womanly organs. A temperance medicine, it con-tains neither alcohol nor narcotics.

"I was troubled for three years with ulceration and female weakness and my doctor gave me but little relief," writes Mrs. Lulu Hunter, of Allenton, St. Louis Co., Mo. "I saw an advertisement in the paper of Dr. Pierce's Pavorite Prescription. L began the use of it about a year ago. I took five bottles of it, and one bottle of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and my health is better now than it was for years. I have also recommended these medicines to some of my friends, who suffered from female weakness, and good results have followed."
