Dog Caused Excitement on King Street East.

It Bit Harold McQueen and Was Destroyed,

But Gave the Police a Good Deal of Trouble.

A dog supposed to be mad created quite a stir yesterday. Harold McQueen riding a wheel down King east, when the dog bit The police weer notified street fied and so also was Ald. Allan, acting Mayor. One of the constables was sent down to destroy the animal, which be longed at 901 King street east. The po man remarked to the owner that the dog did not look mad, but as there was no possible way of closing up the yard so that it would not be able to get out the best way to shoot it would be to tie it up to a post in the yard. The owner attempted to do so, but the ani-mal would not remain quiet long enough for him to get the rope on it, and it snapped at him until he became uneasy. He then suggested to the policeman that as he was a guardian of the law, proba-bly the dog would respect him and allow the rope to be put on it. The offer, un-daunted, endeavored to do so. The dog was no respecter of persons, and seem dog did not look mad, but as there was

As soon as it grabbed him there was confusion, for, tried to pull a piece out. As soon as it grabbed him there was confusion, for, rather than let it have a second grab, he began to fire. Two shots were fired and oue struck the dog in the leg and that served the purpose, as far as saving the policeman was concerned, for it could only yelp and run. It was left for a time, but when P. C. Gillespie, one of the new men, went down to try his luck and gain a name for himself, he was also unable to get the drop on it. Con-stable Brown, a good shot, was the next to try his luck. By the time he arrived the people had the dog in the cellar and all he had to do was to peep around the corner and let fly, but the plans did not work as had been intended, for the edg could not be seen. The next plan was to have another person go into the cellar to try and chase the dog out, and, as it passed, he was to shoot it. But the brute bolted through a window in-stead of the door. But the P. C. was too good a shot to let it get away un-tonched. He fired and struck it and the dog started to roll. The constable gave chase and managed to strike it again.

tonched. He fired and struck it and the dog started to roll. The constable gave chase and managed to strike it again. He then departed and reported that it would give no further trouble. The ani-mal evidently must have had something of the cat nature, for the constable had hardly got away before it was back in the yard, covered with blood. A hurrycall for a policeman was again sent No. 3 and this time P. C. Thompson was dispatched. He met Brown coming buck and the two of them returned and finished the work. Ald. Allan said that the head would be sent to the Government analyst at Ottawa

ANOTHER ONE TO-DAY.

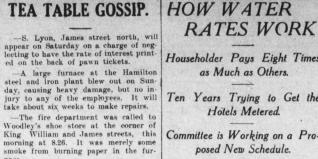

ANOTHER ONE TO-DAY. A second scare was created in the southeast this morning. A tramp bull-dog was seen in the alleway between Wentworth street and Grant avenue, and it was frothing at the mouth and acting peculiarly. It tried to bite a number of persons. A policeman was notified and tried to corner the animal notified and tried to corner the animal. It was driven into a back yard, but, escaped down Delaware avenue, and through a field towards Sanford avenue. A little boy, in trying to turn the dog narrowly escaped being bitten. The chase continued up Sanford avenue for some distance before the policeman could again get another shot at him, but the second one ended its career.

Committee is Working on a Proposed New Schedule.

To-night the Fire and Water subwill meet to thresh out this proposed new schedule of rates in con ction with the revised waterworks nection with the revised waterworks by-law, which has occupied the attention of the aldermen for the past two years, and the outcome will be watched with interest by the ratepayers who have been complaining about the way the eity soaks them for water, while big concerns, well able to pay, get their supply for a more trifle. City Engineer Macallun, who is an earnest advocate of a revi-sion and readjustment, has had the offi-cials of the department prepare a com-plete statement of the amount of water used by the big consumers, and this will be laid before the aldermen to-night. Mr. Macallum expressed the opinion this morning that while the meter charges in many cases were bad enough, the eity was being robbed on the flat rate ar-rangement.
