"WITHIN REACH OF ALL."—You can now procure for fifty cents from any druggist in Goderich a bottle of "Lumsden & Wilson's Royal Glycerated Halsam of Fir," the great remedy for cougha, colds, sore throat, and incipient consumption. The superior virtues alone of this preparation have already produced a constant demand from all the principal cities of the Dominion. Do not let the fact that it does not emanate from the laboratory of some enterprising foreigner deter you from giving it a trial.

BASE BALL. —Our crack junior baseball club, the Actives, is getting ready for the season, and expects to make a good record. This club has about fifty members, and has the material for a more than one good "nine." The Actives are now open to receive a challenge from any junior club in the county, for a silver cup, the game to be played at Goderich. The club will begin at once a course of vigorous practice, and all the members sted to turn in and take a hand. Wally Black, secretary, is prepared to receive communications from other clubs, regarding matches.

CLEVER STUDENTS.—At the close of the session of Knox College J. McGillivray, B. A., was bracketed for the scholarships in Exegetics, and in the best average, besides winning the Smith's prize for the best essay on "The Love of God in Relation to His Justice." D. McGillivray, M. A., stood first in Exegetics, Apologetica, Church History, Bible History, but was debarred from holding a scholarship, owing to his being the winner of the Prince of Wale's prize for the best essay on "The Doctrine of for the best essay on "The Doctrine Evolution in Relation to Theology Merala." THE OCONTO STELL AFLOAT. -On Tuesday last the steamer Oconto, which went ashere on Little Charity, Island, on Satunday, Dec. 5th, was sighted off Bayport, Mich. The vessel now lies between North and Heisterman Islands, about four miles from the former, and has evidently grounded on a bar. She is surrounded by ice and it is impossible to reach her in any direction. The gale which placed the Oconto en the shore of the Little Charity in December last was the most severe of the season of 1885; the storm that lifted the beat from her winter retreat was the worst of the pre-sent season. The Oconto drifted nearly 20 miles to where she new lies. Tha the vessel withstood the storm of last fall, the shock of being thrown on the island, four months in the ice, and her latest cruise without captain or engineer, would indicate that it was of the bea construction and is yet in good condition. -[Saginaw Courier.

Rev. Mr. McCoy, of Egmondville, preached in Knox church on Sunday evening. His sermon was on the text, "Blessed are they who hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled." The preacher gave an excellent discourse, in which he drew in serious ing language the close analogy between physical hunger and thirst and spiritual. The sermon left a very good impression on the congregation. In his reading of ent discourse, in which he drew in strik ments. H. R. McQuarrie's is a "British Challenge," and J. E. Lasham's, a "Matchless." With the robins singing gaily, and the doctor and the other members of the biercal ship of the bierc bers of the bicycle club curvetting around the square on the mazy wheel, it does not need a poet to tell us that spring is

For men whose business it is to read in public, clergymen, as a rule, make a poor showing as natural and pleasing readers. Some of those who are good speakers, too, are the greatest offenders ing the scriptures or a hymn in public.

KNOX CHUPCH S. S. ENTERTAINMENT. -There was not a large attendance at the musical and literary entertainment held in Knox church lecture room on Friday last in aid of the Sunday school. The program was a rather pleasing one. Miss Macara, who played exceedingly well, gave a piano solo, and Miss Bella Wilson made her first appear-ance in public in a piano solo of pleasing Scotch airs. Misses Trueman and Ache son in their piano duett were good. Readings were given by Thos. McGifli-cuddy and James Mitchell, and recitations by Miss Gracie Johnston and Thos. McGillicuddy. J. Hyslop and W. Hyslop each gave a solo, and sang a duett together. These brothers, with more practise, should prove very acceptable in their solos and duetts, Misses Ida Wilkinson and Emma Ellard sang a duett very sweetly, and were warmly received.
A quartette by Miss Maggie McKay,
(solo) Miss Meldrum and Messrs. W.
Hyslop and Jos. Porter was well rendered, Miss McKay leading in good voice.
The choir also assisted. Rev. T. E.
