Worth Sanctioning.

A news item in the London Daily Mail of the 21st ult. states that the joint committee, which has charge of the Trafalgar Day Appeal for the sick and wounded has offered the opinion that there is no more pressing need than the extension of Red Cross Work in Gallipoli. Now this is the war zone that Newfoundland is more especially interested in as our own gallant Regiment is now fighting and meeting with casualties in this region. It is possible, however, that our regiment may be transferred to the Balkan peninsula, and with the extension of British operations to the new zones, Red Cross work must also be extended. With a view to meet this pressing need those responsible for the collections in Scotland have decided that all collections in Scotland should be earmarked specially for the help of our wounded in Gallipoli and the Near East. It might be well if the committee in charge of the Newfoundland collections should take this matter in consideration, and if after full deliberation on the matter, they decide that the precedent is worth following by Newfoundland, they could make it known throughout the Island that at least the money raised on Trafalgar Day would be earmarked for the help of the wounded in the Near East, where our own Newfoundland boys are facing sickness and wounds. This we think would tend to bring home to us more clearly the pressing need of an extension of Red Cross Work in the Near East.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Fund, at 1 p.m. to-day, it was decided to recommend to the general committee that unless subscribers object the fund should be earmarked for Red Cross Work in the Near East where there is a special need of extending the work and where our own Regiment is fighting.

A Break in the Coalition Ministry

It is deplorable that a break has been made in the Coalition Ministry, formed on a National basis, to carry on the great war on behalf of a united nation. At the time of writing there is still no authoritative statement as to the cause or causes which led Sir Edward Carson to tender his resignation. There are only surmises of newspapers and these surmises by no means agree. On the one hand it is alleged that he has resigned on account of differences of the content of the coalition issue. Others allege that the Cabinet has not been considering the conscription question lately, and that their time has been occupied in deliberating on the Balkan problem, and that he has resigned because he differs with his colleagues on the Balkan policy. Others again allege that the difference arises from decisions being taken by an inner cabinet in whose confidence he is not taken. The wide difference in these allegations emphasize the point that nothing is really known as to the cause of the break. It is to be hoped, however, that the break will not spread. There has been far too much political quarrelling and bickering to suit a coalition government, the formation of which was to unite the nation to carry out a national policy.

Obituary.

SIR THOMAS B. BOWRING.

We note with regret the demise of Sir Thomas Benjamin Bowring, notification of the sad event having been received by Sir Edgar Bowring yesterday and referred to in to-day's public despatch. He had been suffering from heart trouble the past two years and death was not unexpected. Deceased, who was head of the London firm, was a son of the late Edward Bowring, one of the pioneers who founded the Bowring firm. Sir Thomas was a Newfoundlander by birth and left here when very young with his parents for the Old Country, where he finished his education and got his business training. Subsequently he moved to New York and became head of the Bowring branch there, and remained in that capacity some 20 years. He married Miss Annie Howe, of Brooklyn. Later he went to London and took charge of the business there, residing there ever since. He was 67 years of age and was one of the three principals of the Bowring firm to enjoy a knighthood, which he received two years ago. The first was Sir William Bowring, of Liverpool, a baronet; then the deceased, Sir Thomas; and the third, Sir Edgar, the head of the Newfoundland branch. Deceased is survived by a widow, two sisters and two brothers. To the bereaved family the Telegram offers its sincere sympathy.

McMurdo's Store News

TUESDAY, Oct. 19th, 1915.

If you want a nice cool feeling on the face after shaving, rub gently a little Massatha or Field Violets Talcum on immediately after finishing your shave. You would never believe, without trying it, what a difference it makes, especially during the cold weather months. Many people blame their razor or shaving soap for what could easily be remedied by the use of a little talcum powder. And among all the Talcum Powders there are not to pass and few to equal Massatha Field Iollets Talcum. Price 25c. a tin. McMurdo's Nutative Hypophosphites, in 50c. and $1 bottles is a tonic without alcohol. The dose is small, the results of a course of this medicine are often very marked in increasing the appetite and strengthening the nerves and digestive organs. The dose is from half to a teaspoonful in water.

Household Notes.

It is a good idea to put a heavy Turkish towel on the bottom of the dishpan when washing fine china or glass.

When a fruit jar is difficult to open, slip a knife under the rubber and pull it out; the jar will then open easily. Salt sniffed into the nose in the early morning and the mouth then washed out with warm water, cures catarrh.

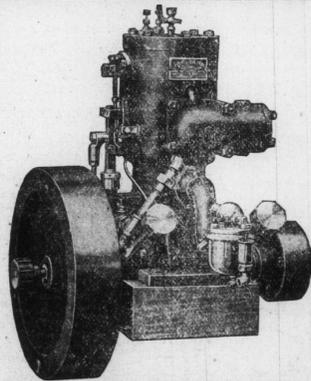

In hot weather one of the prettiest centerpiece for the dining table is made with green and white flowers or ferns alone.

To prevent taking cold after washing the hair rub a little eau-de-cologne into the scalp as soon as the hair is dry.

If you are having cold meat, cut slices from the joint, and garnish them with a little parsley; don't bring the joint to the table.

Salt and water will prevent the red borders in towels, etc., from running if the towels are steeped in it for twenty-four hours.

Bedroom can be stored in a dry dark shed, with no covering. The skin must be unbroken in "lifting," and the leaves twisted off an inch from the top.

Motor Engines on easy terms.
