Lally Light is a complete unit—pump and engine—only 150 lbs. weight. It supplies water for light, water pump, washing machine, power, even separator, laundry, etc., etc.

Less Danger of Fire

Lally-Light brings to the farm all the safety of electric light.

It eliminates the danger of fire that even the greatest care with lamps and lanterns cannot avoid.

Moreover, it is a better light—bright and steady—at low cost.

The plant has ample capacity for all the lights you will want in the house, barn and outbuildings. And it furnishes power to run your water pump, your churn, separator, and so on.

Let us show, by actual free demonstration, how Lally-Light will improve conditions on your farm.

Memorial Service.

AT ST. SWITHUN'S CHURCH, WOODBURY.

The ancient church of St. Swithun, Woodbury, Devonshire, England, is well known to many people in St. John's, and these will be interested in learning that on the last Sunday in June there was held in the sacred structure "a festival of proud sorrow" for the Woodbury parishioners, the village having contributed its full share to the striving and sacrifice which made victory in the late war possible. "Sunday, June 27th," says the Devon and Exeter Daily Gazette, "was the day fixed for the dedication by the Lord Bishop of Exeter of the memorial organ, tablet, and screen set up in the parish church of St. Swithun to commemorate the sacrifice of over 30 lives of the village who laid down their lives. The organ is a two-manned instrument of five tone, built by Messrs. Brindley and Foster, of Sheffield, while the screen is of very handsome design, beautifully carved in Devon grown oak, and in harmony with the date of the north aisle, in which it is placed. On a centre panel in gold lettering appear the names of the fallen, with a laurel wreath overhead, while on either side stands an angel bearing the palm of victory and the symbol of prayer. Along the cornice are carved angelic figures with varied instruments of music, those over the doorway being singers. Above this is the oak carving to the organ front. Mr. J. B. Hunt, of Plymouth, has interpreted in a masterly way the designs of the architect, Mr. Harbottle Reed, M.B.E., F.R.I.B.A., of Exeter. The cost of the work, about £1,060, has been raised by the people of the parish.

The robed clergy present, in addition to the Lord Bishop, were the Vicar (the Rev. R. H. Neely), the Revs. H. B. Clark (Rural Dean), R. Lewis (Woodbury Salterton), and A. Bishop (Topham). Mr. H. T. Gilberthorpe, F.R.C.O., L. Mus., T.C.L. (organist of St. Sidwell, Exeter) presided at the organ, and the singing of the choir was very effective and beautiful. There was a large congregation, which included many relatives of the fallen, who were accommodated in the north aisle, while the considerable body of ex-Servicemen present were in command of Col. Mardon, with whom was Col. Massfield, C.B. Several handsome floral tributes were arranged on the chancel screen, the church decorated with greenery, and the pillars draped with flags.

The service, which consisted of a shortened Evensong, opened with the appropriate hymn "Hark, hark, my soul, angelic songs are swelling." Psalms 23 and 150 were sung, while the first Lesson (Wisdom III, 1-6) was read by the Rev. A. Bishop, and the second Lesson (Rev. XXI.) by the Vicar. The hymn "Glorious things of Thee are spoken" preceded the sermon, after which the Lord Bishop unveiled the tablet, and the "Last Post" and "Reveille" was impressively sounded by four trumpeters of the R.G.A. from Topham Barracks. The solo "O rest in the Lord" was sung by a member of the choir of Exeter Cathedral, and other hymns sung were "Ye holy angels bright" and "Oh, what the joy and the glory must be." After the Blessing, the National Anthem was sung, and Mr. Gilberthorpe gave a fine rendering of the "Hallelujah Chorus."

The inscription on the tablet is as follows:—"With grateful hearts, and praying that the names on this memorial organ and screen in honour of their men who served and died in the Great War, 1914-1919 for the defence of us, our Church, and homes. 'We praise Thee, O God.'"

During the war 250 Woodbury men served with the Colours, and the village subscribed the sum of over £10,000 to the War Loan."

Crimes That Made History.

Most of the great crimes in history have been committed in the sacred name of Law and Justice!

Had Julius Caesar not been the victim of his friends' envy, the whole course of modern history might have been changed.

Had the poor little princes not been murdered in the Tower, another line of kings might have governed England.

A particularly unjust execution was that of Sir Walter Raleigh. He was a charming and accomplished man, endowed with many gifts. He was unjustly convicted of treason and sent to the Tower, after being relieved at the last moment. He spent close on fourteen years in captivity, and was then released. Then he went on an expedition to Guiana, and on his return was summarily beheaded.

The tragic story of Anne Boleyn is surely one of the most poignant crimes in history. When she became the wife of Henry VIII, she was universally acclaimed. For only three years did she enjoy her popularity. She was executed on Tower Green, for alleged unfaithfulness, but in reality because the king had tired of her. Nothing was ever proved against her, and on the day after her death Henry married Jane Seymour.

Although the French Revolution was for the ultimate good of the people, much cruelty and injustice took place, and many terrible crimes were committed in the name of Freedom.

The execution of Marie Antoinette was unnecessarily brutal. This beautiful woman went to the scaffold followed by jeers and cries of derision. She behaved courageously and with dignity to the last.

Napoleon was responsible for the murder of the Duke of Enghien. This man was arrested outside French territory and executed after an irregular trial. It is supposed that the Emperor brought about his death to satisfy the personal enmity of some of his Corsican followers.

An unnecessary crime was the shooting of Marshal Ney, who has been called "the bravest of the brave."

Ney had taken the oath of allegiance to Louis XVIII, but when Napoleon escaped from captivity on the island of Elba, he deserted to return to his old chief. He was taken prisoner after Waterloo, and was shot as a traitor by a firing-party chosen from his own regiment.

In the last thirty years there have been a good many crowned heads murdered, mostly by anarchists for political reasons.

King Humbert of Italy, a man much beloved of his people, was assassinated in 1900. The King and Queen of Serbia were done to death in the most dastardly fashion by officers of their own army.

There is no need to give the details of the murder of the Crown Prince of Austria and his consort at Sarajevo. It is still fresh in all our minds. This was the greatest of historic crimes, the most far-reaching and incalculable in its terrible results—for it was the crime that caused the Great War.

"Don't's" for Tennis Players.

Don't wear a tie. It's uncomfortable, and exceedingly bad form.

Don't "foot fault." This is the commonest mistake made by beginners. When serving, both feet must be behind the back line. One foot, however, may be lifted.

Don't leave balls by the net. In a mixed doubles the men should send them back to the server. When all men are playing it is usual for the server's partner to do this.

Don't have the net below the correct height. It may be easier to get the balls over, but it will spoil your chances of becoming a player. The length plus the width of a racket is approximately the correct height.

Don't wear a brilliantly-coloured belt. An old silk tie is a good thing to go round your waist.

Don't "poach." Stick to your own court, and you'll have quite enough to do without looking after your partner's as well.

Don't throw your racket after a seemingly hopeless ball. It may look funny, but it's far better to try to return the shot. And it is very bad for the racket.

Don't, when you play a brilliant stroke, imagine that it has beaten your opponent. You must assume that every shot, however good, will be returned.

Don't despise a weak return. If you can possibly get the ball over the net, do so. It may be so simple that your opponent, in his eagerness to kill it, will send it into the net.

Costs of Civic Government.

The people of every city no doubt believe themselves the most highly taxed of any city in the world. This being the case it is interesting to peruse a publication called "Canadian Citizenship," of the date of July 14th, one page of which is taken up with a table of Victoria, British Columbia, in 1918, had a per capita expenditure of $39.52, which was thirty-eight cents less than Vancouver's record. Edmonton in the same year paid for its government at the rate of $31.30. This was the highest record in Canada, and certainly is a high one. Regina and Winnipeg had the per capita expenditure of $67.71 and $62.44 respectively, while "Toronto the good" made a record of $71.90.

The cities of London and Hamilton get along with $54.58 and $54.26 respectively, and Ottawa, the National Capital only goes them one dollar better. In spite of the savory reputation of Montreal for loose expenditure—that city manages to get along at a per capita expenditure of $59.25—a rate considerably lower than that of Western cities or than Toronto. Halifax, strange to say, ranks among the lowest cities of the Nation—our rate being $48.77. Only two cities are quoted at a rate below this—St. John and Charlottetown—the rate of the former being $47.62 and the latter $38.81. The thing of interest in all this is the fact that in spite of our grumbling and fault-finding about the cost of governing our city, when we make comparisons with other cities of the nation, we find we have nothing to grumble about. Halifax is in fact peculiarly blessed in this regard—although of course the rate is high enough.—Acadian Recorder.
