Ground which is FERTILIZED will produce more vegetables than sterile ground.
Good Fertilizer properly used will convert poor ground into good ground.
Good Seed put into good ground will yield goodly crop of potatoes.
A couple of extra barrels of potatoes will repay the cost of fertilizing.

Farmers,
Read this Carefully!

This year, acting on the advice of Agricultural Experts, we have imported Fertilizers of higher grade and greater strength than were imported during the past decade of years.

The Fertilizers we now offer, are of more value than last year's importations and are guaranteed to give even better results.

Although our prices this year figure higher per pound, the cost per unit of fertilizing value is considerably less.

Putting Fertilizer into your ground is like putting money into savings bank.

You can rely on getting more out, than you put in.—it pays to fertilize.

NOTICE!--Our fertilizers are not adulterated with spentslag or rock dust.

Historic Prison to be Torn Down.

The St. Lazare prison for women, which is both famous and notorious in the annals of French history, has been ordered torn down by the municipality of Paris. When the walls of the prison have been replaced by a smiling garden there will have disappeared one of the most remarkable buildings of France, from the point of view of historic associations.

Founded in 1110 as a leper house, five centuries later it was taken in charge by the monks of the Order of St. Victor, who abolished the leper house feature and used the building as a monastery. Then for 30 years it was used as a political prison, and with the coming of the French Revolution, in July, 1789, during the famine, the place was broken into by the mob, looted for food and set on fire. St. Lazare again became a prison, mostly for the detention of men and women of prominence previous to their execution. Shortly after that time the building was converted into a woman's prison.

THE EASY WAY.

When I was young and not so fat I argued that the earth was a flat and that I kept it long hours away; this caused me many kinds of grief, for in support of my belief I'd scrap with any jay. Ben Batt, who kept the village pound, insisted that the earth was round, and so we wildly jawed; we'd argue till we both were sick, and he called me a lunatic, and I called him a fraud. And now and then we came to blows, and he would seek me in the nose, and I would spoil his ear; and still, as by its maker planned, in business at the same old stand, rolled on this gorgeous sphere. Ben Batt and I are old and bent and now we do not care a cent for things that made us fuss; and if the earth be round or flat, or heliow as an am' / wat, it cuts no ice with us. It is a bully good old earth and we agree it's surely worth whatever it has cost; and it is vain to waste an hour in musty arguments and sour that fret us and exhaust. When our brief day is waxing late we see the folly of debate, of fuss and fret and fight, of argument that's stale and bare, that never gets us anywhere, or proves that we are right.

THE VAUDEVILLE OF LIFE.

Life is a vaudeville show. A good act now and then. The dancers come and go. And then the juggling men! A dreary turn and slow. With nothing new or bright. The star with eyes aglow. And at the last "good night."

So we from day to day Along the stretch of years Live out life's changing play From happy mirth to tears. Success with all its thrill. Leads but a little while. Now tedious seems the bill And far-fetched every smile.

Now life but dull appears. Dreary and commonplace. Then sorrow brings the tears Or laughter lights the face; But still the good act lives After the curtain's fall. And what was splendid gives Rich beauty to it all.

To Wash Paint Work.

First dust the paint, using a soft brush to remove the dust from crevices and mouldings. Next make a soap lather with household yellow or carbolic soap and warm water and place some clean warm water in another basin.

Wring out a soft flannel in the soapy water and wash the paint gently, rinse it with a sponge or cloth wrung out in the clean warm water and wipe it with a dry, soft cloth, giving a final rub with a clean cloth or chamois leather.

Dirty marks on white paint can be quickly removed with a flannel dipped in a little precipitated whiting. Rinse with clean water. Varnished paint should be washed with tepid water only.

Never use soda or strong soaps. Never use too hot water. Do not wet too large a surface of the paint at once, as if not dried quickly it looks streaky.

Household Notes

Try serving baked ham polished with spiced peach preserves and accompanied with sauce.

An excellent Sunday night is a cold baked ham, stuffed cloven, and a sweet potato.

Attach a wire basket to the invalid's bed. It is useful for holding magazines and work.

A good top dressing of soil should be given the strawberry when the winter mulch has moved.

Less shortening is required in chocolate if used in a cake, as a deal of fat is contained in the nuts.

Fillet of sole is served on a number of potatoes, covered with a sauce flavored with curry and onion.

WRIGLEYS

What we have eaten and how it agrees with us makes all the difference in the world.

In work or play, WRIGLEY gives the poise and steadiness that mean success.

It not only helps digestion but allays thirst, keeping the mouth cool and moist, the throat muscles relaxed and pliant and the nerves at ease.

WRIGLEY'S is the best that can be made and comes you wax-wrapped and sealed to keep it good.

SHRINKAGE AS THE YEARS PASS.

How things do shrink as years pass by. Not only the undershirts of the famous babies whose mother neglected to use the right kind of soap, but of ever so many things that you wouldn't think could possibly shrink from the nature of their making.

Pythons, for instance. For it was pythons that brought that familiar but not always recognized truth into my mind and into the conversation, and hence by a natural transition into my talk with you.

Thirty Feet to Six Inches.

We were talking about travelling and seeing strange lands, and I was hoping before I died that I might go to South America and see pythons such as I had seen in the snake house at the zoo, hanging from the branches, in their natural habitat, that is if I could be quite sure that they would stay hanging on the branches and not feel moved to make our acquaintance a closer one.

A question as to the size of the python came up, and I averred that they were as long as the room (30 ft. long) and as round as this—meaning the circumference my arms would enclose.

Everyone laughed at that. I was told that a six-inch circumference was a large python. And when I countered with the pythons I had seen at the zoo when I was a child, which were certainly as big as I had claimed, I was reminded that things one sees as a child are apt to have shrunk if one goes to see them again as a grown-up.

Niagara Falls and Apple Trees.

"Like Niagara Falls," said the Authorman, "I saw it when I was a little boy and it was just as big and wonderful as I had thought it would be. Lots of things don't measure up, but that did. And then a while ago I was on a business trip out that way and I went and saw it again. And the whole outfit had shrunk. Why, it wasn't half the size it was when I was a boy. I wished I hadn't gone again."

PAIN

Minard's penetrates to the root of the trouble and gives quick relief. Splendid for sore muscles, sprains, bruises. A good thing—rube it in.

That same day it happened—just as it happens when you see a word that you haven't seen before, and then find you are seeing it everywhere—that the same train of thought repeated itself in the afternoon. We were looking at an orchard of apple trees and how they seemed the most friendly trees, the most individual and personal and especially the most climbable trees. "Only," I said, "those apple trees aren't as large as the one we had in our yard. Why, we used to climb way up to a seat that was terribly high. I wonder why those trees are so small."

The Contented Frame of Mind.

"Probably," suggested the Authorman, "for the same reason that pythons don't come as large as they did when you were a child."

"And that Niagara Falls has shrunk," I said.

"Exactly," said he. "And then we both sighed. But after all, I don't know why we should sigh that pythons and apple trees and Niagara Falls have shrunk instead of being glad that they were once so big. Might you as well be glad that thorns have roses as that roses have thorns.

House Party to Cost $30,000.

Tom L. Burnett, millionaire ranchman, is laying plans for the biggest outdoor celebration on his Triangle ranch, 17 miles north of Wichita, Texas, that was ever held in the Southwest. It will be held the last week in April and will last four days. The cost of the celebration will be more than $30,000. It is stated, and all of it will be borne by Mr. Burnett.

It will be in the nature of a house party with entertainment features for 10,000 guests. Burnett is organizing the greatest rodeo ever given in this country. He expects contestants for the different prizes from all over the West and Southwest. The whole affair will be a round-up of typical ranchmen and cowboys, with town guests as onlookers.
