FOOTBALL.

A PRACTICE GAME.

The local intermediate Rugby team is after the championship this year, and their chances are good. The team was to have faced the Queen's University giants on Saturday for the final tussle, but the association executive postponed the match for a week. This did not suit the London boys very well, but they decided to fill in the gap with a practice game on Saturday. The juniors joined in, and to equalize the strength of the teams the senior forwards and junior halves formed one team and the junior forwards and senior halves the other. The teams as they lined up at 3 o'clock were:

FIRST TEAM.	POSITION.	SECOND TEAM.
Nixon	Back	Widder
Walker	Half	Clayton
Held	Quarter	Bella
Land	Quarter	Grayson
Stringer	Scrimmage	Sorenson
Pumphrey	Scrimmage	Parsons
Mihlinick	Scrimmage	Burwell
A. Sipp	Wings	McKee
G. Sipp	Wings	McKee
Mills	Wings	McKee
Skay	Wings	McKee
Evans	Wings	McKee
Gillespie	Wings	McKee
Sharp	Wings	McKee

The game throughout lacked the interest of a championship contest, but the playing was good, though somewhat loose, on both sides. The second team had two extra men, and they needed them, too, especially when it came to tackling, for London's intermediate scrum and half-backs have outdone all competitors in this respect. Good kicks and runs were in order and several clever plays were made. Result: First team, 27; second team, 19.

Houses in Mexico Levelled by Earthquake Shocks.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 4.—At 6:30 Friday night the strongest earthquake shocks ever felt in Mexico occurred here, lasting over five minutes. Many houses and walls fell. The streets were full of fleeing people. Many were wounded, and a number have died. The electric and other lights went out, leaving the city in darkness. All traffic was suspended. The streets were filled with screaming, crying, praying people. The scene was indescribable. People in the theaters, which were all running at the time, were terribly frightened, and panics were averted only by the police. At Orrin Theater "Juna Tenorio" was being given, and just as the graveyard scene was being presented the people, naturally superstitious, saw the statues move, and they screamed and fled. People in all trains were the most frightened of all. All telephonic connections were interrupted. The shocks were felt in the surrounding towns, but the details are not received yet. It is reported that three persons were killed and ten wounded by the shock in this city, so far as known.

NOW FOR THE BALLOT.

Close of an Exciting Campaign Across the Border.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—The campaign of 1894 is at an end. It has been a stirring one in many states and the American people are aroused as seldom before in a year in which the presidency is not at stake. Issues of importance have been presented, and the verdict of the people at the polls on Tuesday is expected to practically determine which will be the dominant party in 1896. Forty-one of the 44 states in the Union elect representatives to the Fifty-fourth Congress and 21 states elect legislatures which choose United States senators. Besides this, 21 states elect governors, 9 elect minor state officers and 3 states, New York, California and South Carolina, vote upon important constitutional amendments.

All eyes are on the Empire State. The Republicans are confident of winning. Chas. W. Hacketh, chairman of the State committee, predicts Morton's election by 50,000. Thos. C. Platt says: "I am entirely confident of the election of Mr. Morton." The betting is in favor of Morton of odds of 10 to 4, and many heavy wagers have been laid that Morton's plurality will exceed 25,000.

The Democratic managers declare themselves satisfied the Hill will be elected. Claims of a 10,000 to 20,000 plurality are made. The Democrats say they will hold their present number of representatives in Congress and gain the one in New York City, which was carried by Lemuel E. Quigg, Republican, last year. The Republicans claim they will gain three in this city, three in Brooklyn and five up the state. The Republicans also expect to elect a Republican Legislature and to carry the constitutional amendments framed by the constitutional convention.

In this city Tammany Hall has one of the hottest fights in its long history on its hands. The revelations of the Lexow investigating committee have been used by the Republicans, the committee of 70, and all the other anti-Tammany organizations to down the local machine. Col. W. L. Strong, the anti-Tammany nominee, has had the support of the ministers, the press, with only two or three exceptions, and the reformers.

Ex-Mayor Grant, the Tammany champion, says he is confident of winning by 10,000 to 20,000, but the betting is in favor of Strong at odds.

Who Discovered the Diphtheria Serum?

LONDON, Nov. 4.—A young American doctor named Nuttall, formerly a professor at the Johns Hopkins University, at Baltimore, who for the last two years has been studying in this city, has advanced a claim to being the real discoverer of the diphtheria serum of which Dr. Behring is considered to be the discoverer. Dr. Nuttall asserts that he discovered the curative properties of the serum while studying in Dr. Behring's laboratory, and he asserts that in his graduating thesis at the university, before Dr. Behring made public his statements, he gave clearly and succinctly the same facts that Dr. Behring subsequently gave to the medical congress at Buda-Pest in full form.

Broke the Barriers.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The Empire Music Hall, which was closed after the London County Council refused to grant a license for its bars unless the promenade at the back of the auditorium, which it was claimed was a resort for immoral women, was closed, reopened Saturday night. The bar in the auditorium was closed and barriers had been erected in front of them by order of the county council. A large crowd was present, and the sight of the barriers caused great indignation among certain of the spectators. A crowd attacked the barriers which were soon torn down and broken into bits. Amid the uproar there could be heard cries and yells of "Down with the Council," "Let us live the Empire," "Lady Ormiston Chant was the leader of the crusade against the establishment."

Pleases the Teutons.

BERLIN, Nov. 4.—The anxiety which prevailed here during the last stages of the illness of the Czar of Russia has been succeeded by a feeling of satisfaction at the news of the new Czar's proclamation. The terms in which this first official utterance of Nicholas II. were couched have produced the best impression. This is especially the case in regard to the assurance of the young Emperor that he would endeavor to promote the pacific development of the country he had been elected to rule. The firm, almost buoyant tone, with which the Czar, always sensitive to the least piece of unfavorable political news from Russia, received the announcement of the death of the Czar and the subsequent proclamation and accession of the new Czar, reflect the general feeling of security with which the German financial and commercial world regards the political outlook. The fact that the Czar personally telegraphed to Emperor William the news of his father's death has dispelled any doubts regarding the friendly personal relations of the heads of the two great empires. This is especially the case when viewed side by side with the unsympathetic attitude of the German Emperor towards the Russian Czar, which was the subject of his recent speech at Stettin on receipt of the Czar's dispatch communicating the news of the death of his father.

A Nail in His Shoe Killed Him.

TORONTO, Nov. 4.—Parker Ferrier, 40 years of age, a few weeks ago got a small wound in his heel from the effects of a nail in his shoe. Symptoms of lockjaw caused friends of the lad to send him to the hospital. He was subsequently discharged, the danger being believed to be over. It, however, developed anew, and the lad died last night.

His Rubber Coat Saved Him.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Nov. 4.—A heavy wind and rain storm, which raged in this section Saturday, caused a large sign on a four-story building to be blown down. It broke the telephone and trolley wires, and while a lively rig was being driven through the street later on the live wire touched the horse and killed it instantly. It also touched the driver, but his life was saved by a rubber coat which he was wearing, and he escaped uninjured.

Dear Wilde's Advice to a Fellow.

The Bookman tells us an amusing story of Mr. Oscar Wilde and a certain poet, who shall be nameless. The bard explained to the aesthete that a book of his had been practically ignored by certain critics. "There is a conspiracy of silence against my book!" he said. "What should you do if you were I?" "Join it," was the answer.

A Domestic Jewel.

Rev. Dr. Berle, of Boston, says that he had a Swedish girl doing housework in his family, and she announced not long ago that she wished to return on a visit to her native land.

"And will you work for me when you come back?"

"The girl did not seem to understand, and said: 'Are you dissatisfied with me?'"

"Why, no," replied the clergyman. "I only thought that you might not want to come back, and that I might have to engage some one else."

"I have always been taught," was the reply, "that when a girl goes to work in a family she is to remain there until she is married."

AT FORBACH, in Alsace-Lorraine, a portable Gallo-Roman sundial was recently dug up. The mechanism consists of a flattened tube supported by a small chain, with a conical opening to face the sun. Fastened to the bottom of this opening is a movable hand or needle, which could be adjusted according to the season to correspond with the inclination of the solar rays. The instrument also marked the latitude.

The Manchester Canal is still far from being a financial or commercial success. Its earnings in September were only $29,315, a trifle more than in August, although the tonnage increased from 85,302 to 90,243 tons. Rates on "merchandise in seagoing vessels" dropped 17½ per cent. At present figures the canal would have to carry 4,600,000 tons a year to acquire sufficient revenue to meet debenture interest alone.

SEVERAL interesting articles and geological formations have been found during work in the tunnel under the Thames from Greenwich to Blackwell. At a depth of 70 feet below the surface is a stratum of rocks composed entirely of sea shells and shells. The presence of oyster shells at the same depth shows that the bed of the river was once 70 feet below its present level. On the south side, about 150 yards from the river, a few lignites and iron pyrites were found at the bottom of the clay strata. Elephants' tusks and human and animal bones have also been among the "finds."

LAST May Queen Victoria visited Manchester for three hours to open the new ship canal. The bills for the celebration, amounting to $50,000, are being now investigated. Among the items is one of $7,000 for badges for the city council. At the banquet they ate strawberries at $1.40 a pound, asparagus at $1 a bunch, and pineapples at $3 apiece. It cost $110 to look after the Queen's horses and carriages. The auditor reported that it looked as though something else had been opened besides the canal.

ON THE site of the great palace of the kings of Babylon, where Belshazzar held his feast, a black basalt statue, covered with fine inscriptions, has been found by Arab diggers and sent to Constantinople. The finds of the French and American explorers in Southern Babylonia all belong to the Imperial Ottoman Museum at Constantinople, where there are now no less than 50,000 newly discovered inscribed objects from Sippara, where the Turks themselves are excavating; from Tel-ich, where the French are, and from Niffir, the American field. At Tel-ich, lately, after M. Sarzac, the French agent left, the Arabs employed by him came upon a large chamber filled with inscribed clay tablets, most of which they sold to Armenian, Syrian, and Jewish brokers, who succeeded in getting a part of the collection to London and Paris. The remainder was seized by the authorities at Bagdad.

Waited-for opportunities are usually more or less frazzled at the edges.
