A PRISONER

Latter May Have Been an Accomplice of Texas.

STORY OF RIDOUT ST. WOMAN moderate.

No Trace of the Desperado Has Been Obtained by the County Authorities Yet.

The officers of the law who were en aged in the pursuit of "Texas" are not inclined to believe that the des perado was seen near Nilestown yesterday. They still cling to the belief that the last authentic report of the crook's whereabouts came from Engineer Simmie at Springbank, and that possibly he was seen on Brick street later on. The police do not believe that "Texas" was seen hatless and coatless near Nilestown, because in the first place they think that he would have been fully clothed before reaching that place. Further, they state, it is a very unlikely thing that "Texas" would make his way through at least ten miles of muddy roads. If he com-menced to double his tracks when he reached Springbank he would have to go fully that distance before he reached Nilestown. Besides, it would necessary for him to make a considerable detour to avoid the city. It is improbable that he would attempt to make his way "cross country" through the fields. One officer says he does not believe 'Texas' was at Nilestown, nor does ne think he was any great distance from the city. "It would be no advantage for him to go to Nilestown, which is a considerable distance from a railway." he said. "You can rely upon it that wherever "Texas" is, it is not far from some railway. His plans may be to lay low around the city for a time and then after the hue and cry has ceased to take a train."

PARCEL THROWN IN. A story was told this morning that | points strongly to the fact that it is very likely "Texas" had an accomplice among the other prisoners at the
