Everybody who being fine, the streets were filled with well-dressed crowds. Everybody who owned a fur cap or a fur jacket had it on yesterday. Mighty stylish and comfortable they looked, too, by comparison with those who had not. One might have thought, so far as the ladies were concerned, that the predominant style of large sleeves and ripple skirts, which tended to raise the price of fur jackets, would have caused them to be little worn this season. Then there is the added difficulty of getting a jacket properly on over big puff sleeves without the aid of a male puff sleeves without the aid of a male escort, and male escorts have not learned the accomplishment of "tucking in" yet. They don't seem to mind learning, however, and instead of all these things however, and instead of all these things however.

Our relations with Great Britain, always intimate and important, have demanded during the past year even a greater share of consideration than is usual. Several vexatious questions were left undetermined by the decision of the Behring Sea arbitration tribunal. The application of the principles laid down by that august body has not been followed by the results they were intended to accomplish.

Much correspondence has been exchanged between the two Governments on the subject of preventing the exterminating slaughter of seals. The need of an effective enforcement of existing regulations, as well as the adoption of such regulations as experience has shown to be absolutely necessary to carry out the intent of the award, has been earnestly urged upon the British Government, but thus far without effective results. In the meantime the depletion of the seal herds by means of hunting has so alarmingly progressed that unless their slaughter is at once effectively checked their extinction within a few years seems to be a matter of absolute certainty.
