Build Concrete Crib Floors and Supports

THEY keep the rats, squirrels and other rodents from carrying away your profits. Millions of dollars are lost to farmers each year through the ravages of rodents in cribs and granaries. Part of this loss is paid by every farmer whose crib floor isn't built of concrete.

Concrete crib floors and supports stop the waste because

They Protect Your Grain

Concrete is strong, durable and clean. It never wears out and needs practically no repairs. It is the cheapest of all materials for cribs and granaries.

Write for this free book "What the Farmer can do with Concrete." It tells all about the uses of concrete and will help every farmer to have better buildings and save money.

Are Your Hands Tied?

by a chronic disease common to woman-kind? You feel dull—headache? Back-ache, pains here and there—dizziness or perhaps hot flashes? There's nothing you can accomplish—nothing you can enjoy! There's no good reason for it—because you can find permanent relief in

DR. PIERCE'S Favorite Prescription

Mrs. Fannie H. Brent, of Bryant, Nelson Co., Va., writes: "I believe I had every pain and ache a woman could have, my back was weak, and I suffered with nervousness and could not sleep at night. Suffered with soreness in my right hip, and every month would have spells and have to stay in bed. I have taken eight bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' and one vial of your 'Pleasant Pellets'. Can now do my work for six in family, and feel like a new woman. I think it is the best medicine in the world for women. I recommend it to all my friends and many of them have been greatly benefited by it."

VANITY'S VAGARIES.

Sport coats have broad, soft collars. Shirring seems to be popular. For hair ornaments peacock feathers are worn.

Butterflies are worn on evening gowns and on hats. The high Henry II. and renaissance collars of lace or mousseline appear on all classes of costumes.

Taffeta and crape dresses are trimmed with collars and cuffs of ecru batiste, embroidered. Sealing wax red is a new shade.

Handkerchief linen blouses are made in colors—green, rose, pink, maize. Some have white organdie frillings.

The silk petticoats with yokes are new. Coat buttons are of metal, bone or wood.

Sleeves grow less and less and very sheer.

BUYING A REFRIGERATOR.

The Selection Should Be Based on Common Sense.

The summer refrigerator or ice chest is the most important item of the kitchen outfit. A refrigerator should not be kept in the cellar. If there is no other place for it the cellar must be very dry, the floor level and a place found near a window so that light and air will be at hand.

A shed or outer kitchen is the best place for a refrigerator. Here it is within convenient reach and well ventilated.

Select an oak or white pine exterior. These are more durable even than ash, and oak is superior to any casting unless one feels like providing real white porcelain.

It is possible to buy a good sized oak refrigerator for $15 upward which contains a separate ice chamber within convenient reach. Some models have the ice chamber at the top reached by a lid, so that it is necessary for the average woman to stand on tiptoe to look inside and remove the interior support for cleansing purposes.

With such an arrangement it is often necessary to remove the entire interior arrangement to get at the drain, and anything so awkward and complicated must be avoided, even if its care is not to be intrusted to the maid. In such a case the old fashioned ice chest is easier to handle, but the advantage of the ice chest is that while cheaper it is all practically one compartment, whereas the up to date refrigerator has its chambers all separate, with a well regulated system of cold air drafts reaching down from the ice chamber and outside air currents passing behind the side walls to give proper circulation.

TABLE NOVELTIES.

One of These is the Bluebird China Whose Beauty Makes For Happiness.

Manufacturers of china are giving us more attractive table ware than ever before. Who could fail to feel happy partaking of luncheon or tea from one of these bluebird china sets, specimens of which are illustrated here? Even the heaviest food should taste better served in such dishes.

Useful and attractive are the new English breakfast sets. A silver plated waiter, some sixteen inches long, is fitted to a pair of U shaped legs, which because of their very shape stand satisfactorily on a bed, making an excellent table for an invalid. When not in use the legs fold under. Two sets of pretty china go with each tray. If one set becomes chipped or broken the second one is there to replace it.

In these sets come a small individual coffeepot fitted with a silver lid, as also are the marmalade and jelly jars. The sugar bowl is an open one and is only large enough to hold three blocks of sugar. It is quite complete with tiny sugar tongs, the cream jug is cute and pretty, while the combination bread and butter plate, with fitted toast rack above, is both attractive and novel. Another combination piece is the egg holder, which has tiny salt and pepper shakers inset into silver rims at each side. A coffee cup and breakfast plate complete this little breakfast set.

Home Helps.

Discolored bronze should be thoroughly cleaned of dust, then apply a mixture of two parts warm water and one part muriatic acid. Wipe dry with a chamomis skin.

A velvet hat can be kept in good condition by wiping it with a piece of black stocking after brushing.

RUIN IN A CHINA SHOP.

A Crash That Spelled Agony For the London Curio Dealer.

George Robey, the comedian, frequently drops in for a chat with a dealer in London. In the outer room are vases and jars, cups, groups and sets of pieces valued at anything from 50 to 500 guineas. Inside is the proprietor's private apartment. To reach him you gingerly pick your way through the thousands of pounds' worth of valuable china.

"One day not long ago," Robey says, "I had been chatting within, and a friend was waiting for me in the outer room. As I bade the dealer 'Good morning' and was about to pass into the outer room there came a dreadful crashing of broken china. My friend turned upon me an eye glassy with anguish. Never shall I forget the proprietor's expression of supreme horror as he rushed from his sanctum and saw my friend and myself standing amid the debris of broken chinaware which lay strewn around our feet. He was speechless—choking.

"Legal proceedings? Five thousand pounds? In a word, what was the damage, you inquire. Well, I am sorry to have to confess it, for the proprietor was in bed for a week as the result of the shock, but it was a gag prearranged. For my friend, who had brought with him a couple of dozen cheap soap plates, had, at a given signal from me, dropped them in a heap upon the floor."—London Answers.

FLYING FOXES OF INDIA.

During the Day They Sleep in Trees, Hanging Head Downward.

People who have lived in India are familiar with the long strings of flying foxes which can often be seen vending their way in single file from their sleeping places in remote trees to the fruit gardens upon which they prey.

These curious creatures, says a writer in the Wide World Magazine, sometimes measure as much as four feet across the wings and have reddish brown fur and mole colored wings. After their nocturnal depredations they fly away with the dawn to a tree in some isolated place and there rest during the day, hanging head downward from the boughs in the manner of bats, clutching the branch with their feet.

As the flying foxes gather on the tree selected there is a tremendous commotion, for each newcomer is vigorously driven off from one place after another until he eventually manages to secure a perch for himself. Those on the tree meanwhile keep up an incessant wrangling, each endeavoring to secure the highest and best place to rest on. Sometimes many hundreds of these destructive creatures may be seen hanging from the branches of a large tree.

When opportunity offers they are often shot, and some of the natives consider their flesh a delicacy, though it hardly appeals to Europeans.

A Personal Preference.

A well known magazine writer moved not so very long ago from Brooklyn to California. On the day before the family started west he went for a walk through the neighborhood with his four-year-old son.

"I suppose," said the father, "that you'll be sorry to leave all your little chums here?"

The youngster thought he would. At that he did not seem to show much emotion at the prospect of parting from all his friends.

"Which one will you miss the most?" inquired the parent.

The boy was not sure.

"Now," pressed his father, "which little boy of all the little boys you know do you like the best?"

The little chap considered a minute before answering.

"Well," he said at last, "I guess I like myself pretty well!"—Saturday Evening Post.

Wretched from Asthma. Strength of body and vigor of mind are inevitably impaired by the visitations of asthma. Who can live under the cloud of recurring attacks and keep body and mind at their full efficiency? Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy dissipates the cloud by removing the cause. It does relieve.
