Do You Want To Go?

Thanks From Mr. and Mrs. Low
To the Editor of the Monitor.
Sir,—Kindly allow us space in your valuable paper to express our appreciation of the kindness extended to us during the ten years we have had the charge of the Alma House at Bridgetown. We feel sorry the time has come for us to retire, but we have become very much attached to the institution. We have always endeavored to keep the interest and welfare of the country in view by practicing economy, as far as it was consistent with the comfort of the unfortunate class under our care. We have always received the greatest possible consideration and the most kindly treatment at the hands of the committee on tenders and public property and we take this opportunity to thank them sincerely for the same. We desire to extend our heartfelt thanks to the many friends who have so kindly remembered us by giving us so many valuable presents on the eve of our departure from Bridgetown. In closing permit us to say that we cannot find words to express our kindly feelings toward the people of Bridgetown and vicinity.

Sincerely yours,
MR. AND MRS. J. LOWE.

THE MAIL ORDER EVIL
The Monitor in company with many others has expressed regret at different times that our country people should pass over the heads of our local merchants and order supplies from Toronto firms. The general trend of sympathy seems to be with the merchant and the blame to the purchaser, and the fact of any culpability resting with the former being seemingly out of the question now. I am perfectly aware that the editor has the power of the last word as well as the suppression of those that would interfere with his prestige or welfare so this is the only notice that will be taken of the current lamentations.
It is not surprising that the local newspaper should speak the merchant's language since it is the advertising of the latter that makes the printing of the paper profitable or even possible. The editor's opinion is not that of a disinterested person.
The Toronto department store at a local greater distance and more courteous treatment than that of the provincial merchant, and while you cannot get the goods on the same amount of ordering them, a person of ordinary foresight will order long enough ahead to have them shipped in being able, with a full descriptive catalogue, to do as much shopping in one day as in two days at the local stores. The same quality of goods are necessarily cheaper at the department store since a large business for obvious reasons than the small ones of our towns. It is an amusing fact that one of our merchants who has a catalogue of goods for sale at a price that is not as cheap as the Toronto store, has a customer believe that he was selling a certain article cheaper than the Toronto store. A subsequent comparison revealed the fact that the quality of the article was much poorer than the Toronto store's.
The above reasons are not the strongest ones why the purchaser should place his cash orders where he pleases. The fact that in most cases the local merchant makes little for the effort to make a market for the country's produce, is a sufficient excuse for the latter to order where he can get the most value for his money.
If the local merchant can get better terms for his goods from P. E. Leason than from Toronto, how long will he be around here, how long will he be in business in going on?
I am sure every community producer of goods, around Bridgetown, at some time or other, been disappointed by some Toronto merchant ordering his supplies from outside. I do not see what the farmers can be blamed for. The local merchant ordering his supplies not only expect cash instead of a long time to come, but he also expect the farmers to lower the price for that produce. In the last few years the merchants of Bridgetown have made about $100,000,000 of my produce. Who then is to blame for the mail order business of purchasing household supplies?

St. James Church Tea
The twenty-five cent tea and sale of work under the auspices of the ladies of St. James church, held in their school room on Wednesday last, was an unqualified success in every way. Many willing hands contributed towards this and where all worked so well comparisons would be invidious. On the platform of the display of useful and fancy articles was good and a brisk trade was done. There was also a corner on this table for the sale of home cooking, a new departure and very successful. Next in line was a small table most tastefully fitted up for booth fashion and supplied by the work of Mrs. H. Shippy's Sunday school class, and these young misses must have been highly gratified both with the very effective appearance of their stall and the financial result. The body of the room was given up to the home-made hand and fancy articles, and in the center with three very tastefully decorated tea tables ranged along the sides. At the close of the proceedings very little was left on hand and as a result the very creditable sum of $65.00 was netted. This has since been augmented by private contributions so that the ladies now have enough to accomplish the work they undertook, and the re-education of the church, and they hereby desire to thank all who in anyway contributed to this successful issue, particularly Mrs. Weyland Brown to whom they feel much indebted for great kindness in many ways.
