WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.-The President is much shocked at the intelligence of Mr. Arthur's death, and indited the following telegram of sympathy to Mrs. McElroy, the ex-President's sister :-

"Accept my heartfelt sympatny in your personal grief and the expression of my sor row for the death of one who was my kind and considerate friend. The people of the country will sincerely moura the loss of a citizen who served them well in their highest trust, and won their affection by the exhibition of the best traits of true American character."

After Yes, I did it; I shot him; but, father, let thim who his graduation as a B A, from Union college Mr. Arthur studied law and began practice in 1850 in New York city, where he resided prior to and after his occupation of the presidecay. On finally a Whig, Mr. Arthur joined the Republican party on its formation, and soon became a prominent leader in New York politics. At the outbreak of the civil war he was instructed by Governor Morgan with the arming and substituting of the troops in New York, and was successively made engin erin-chief, inspector-general and quarter master-general, equipping and senting to the nels a xiy-eight regiments of in mutry, six battaions and ten becomes in the space of four mouths. In 1871 he was appointed by North North North which post he held ustil 1878, when he was removed by President Hayes. When dissensions arose in the Republican party, Mr. Arthur placed nimself on what was known as the St-Iwa: t side. At the National Republican lican convention at Chicago, in 1880, the anti-Stalwart party was su cessful in preventing the nomination of General Grant to the presidency and in securing that of General Gasheld. Mr. Arthur was then nominated as vice-president in order that both wings of the party might he represented on the ticket. The Rapublicans were successful in the election is the following November, and the assassination of President Garbeld, within six months of his inauguration, by Charles J. Guiteau, raised Mr. Arthur to the presidency on September 19, 1883. His administration of public affairs was very successful; indeed, it may be said that he was the first vice president called to the head of the nation's affairs who was fortunate in his administration of the office. At the Chierge Republican convention in 1880, Mr. Arthur nearly secured re-nomination, being, however, defeated by James G. Blaine, who was in turn rejected by the popular vote in favor of President Cleveland,

MURDERED TO SAVE A DOG. THE SLAIN GAME WABDENS—AN ARREST AND A STORY OF THE CRIME.

MACHIAS, Me., Nov. 16.—An arrest has been made in connection with the killing of Game Wardens Niles and Hill, near Fletcher's Brook, a week or more ago. As James McFarland, a Yankee hunter who has the reputation of being a peacher and a smuggler, was attempting last evening to home in Hancock he was nahbed. He has since told his story of the tragedy. His companion, Graves, did the killing, he says. He did it to protect his hound. The arrested man claims to have been merely a terrified spectator. The statement that the killing was done in defence of a dog, strange to say, influences public opinion in favor of Graves. In the thinly settled townships a good hound is considered a mem-ber of the family and its owner will not sell it at any price. As fox skins are not worth the taking at this time of the year it is presumptive evidence that when a hound is out on a track followed by huntsmen he is after door, and the wardens have made a practice of shooting them at sight. In order to save the life of his dog Graves, according to McFarland's story, shot the two wardens. The prisoner was brought here to jail to day, and in spite of the great crime to which he is supposed to be an accessor, the people turned out and gave him a reception that was flattering to a man under arest for murder. He says that Graves is in

CARDINAL TASCHEREAU'S WARNING.

The following is a copy of the circular referred to in our despatches yesterday as having been forw arded by Cardinal Taschercan to the clargy of the archdicese against Mr. Arthur Baies' publication: Arthur Baies' publication: -

Mossieur Le Cube: I learn that in come parishes there is sold or distributed a pamphiet entitled La Lanterne, by Arthur Bulss. This is a new edition of a paper edited in 1868 and 1869, I tutok I am obliged to warn you against it as being most objectionable, On page 105 the author mocks at those who said of him that he would be converted on his death ted. "Thope," he saye, "that these persons will not be right." Some years ugo he pretended to convert himself; some persons believed in his sincerity; but he was bound to verify his expressed hope.

The pamphlet is a confused mixture of blusphemies, attacks against the Catholic of the three children were then disposed of Church, its blerarchy, its works, its teachings and its institutions.

According to him Sacred History is but a stupid compendium of the most ridiculous

Marriage should become in Canada what it is in the United States, a free contract, ex clusively civil and private; as in France and in Spain the property of the Church should be stolen.

In his rage of biting everyone, governors, ministers, members of the House, . . . he insults all his Freuch-Canadian compatriots, who, according to him, are becoming less and less civilized, know nothing of their own ignorance, and therefore feeling no necessity of educating themselves, thus perpetuating the enslavement of the intelligence in a country in which liberty universally shines.

He boasts of having been expelled from three colleges, and says it is impossible that science should be taught in them...and accuses of ignorance our professional men and those called the educated classes.

It is not astonishing after this that he cites with price the approbation c nferred upon his writings by a Protestant and by two implous papers, one in New Orleans and the other in New York.

If it should come to your knowledge, Monsieur le Caré, that the said pamphiot, called La Lanterne, by Arthur Buics, new edition of 1884, is to be found in your parish, you will put your parishioners on guard against the doctrines it contains, and will prohibit its being read. It goes without saying that the first edition is also prohibited. Receive the assurance, Mr. le Curé, of my sincere attachment. E. A. CARD. TASCHEREAU. Aichbishop of Quebec.

> A FAMILY SLAUGHTERED. SIX PERSONS SUTCHERED AT WHITE RIVER,

ONT. WHITE RIVER, Out., Nov. 16 - For some weeks a large number of employes have been ngaged should here in preparing the railroad track for the winter. Among this force was one Richard K. O'Brier, a hundsome young fellow about thirty years of age. When he first came here to work he met Mrs. Charles Williams, the wife of a country storekeeper, and from his acquaintance he tresposed Williams were the father and mother of the husband, as well as three small children of the wife. For the last six weeks Williams had snaperted his wife of infidelity, and laid a trap to catch her. Taking the main Sunday for Chaplean, Ont., he left word that he would be absent over night, hat instead of going to his destination be took the return train from a way station and so arrived home in the night. Going to his house he found his wife in company with O'Brien. He sinted a blow at the latter with heavy tick. O'Brien quickly recovered nimself, drow's revolver, and shot Williams dead. The noise attracted the other occupants of the house, and to shield his crime O'Brien shot the father as he was entering the room partially uressed. Having no more cartridges, as the old lady put in an appear ance and screamed, startled by the sight of her husband lying weltering in his life's blood, the murderer seized a heavy chair and struck a cruel blow which laid her senseless before him, To conclude the work he best her until her head was reduced to a pulp with a heavy stick of stove wood procured from an adjoining room. Two with the same club which ended the existence of the old lady. The little boy, the youngest, and only 18 months old, was spared, a he could beer no evidence against the murderer. The wretch then stabled his paramour four times about the region of the heart and left her for dead. He then fired the house and left hurriedly. Attracted by the flames neighbors came to the relief, and succeeded in removing the bodies of the killed and Mrs. Williams and the infant from the burning building. Mrs. Williams lived long enough to make a statement of the sifair to the authorities and then expired. The officers of the law were quickly in search of the assassin, and he was arrested about twenty-five miles from the scene of the tragedy. He denied the crime, and claims to be able to prove an alibi There are, however, many circumstances against him, and it is more than likely that he will be Walpolo, writing in 1775, says of Land Lyttleton :-"This hapeful young man, who, on being refused a place, spoke for the Ameriagainst them, being reproached with such precipitate changes, that with his fortune nobody could suppose that he thought of the value of a salary." During the reign ment. It was a common practice to carry an election by splitting up one freshold into ten, thus multiplying tenfold the influence of the local magnate. Lord Melville, during the first quarter of this contury, was able to return thirty-nine out of forty-live members for Scotland. Herace Walpole, in commenting on the death of Lord Clive, in 1774, writes with the utmost naivette: "He had just named ten members for the new Parliament." -- Quarterly Review.

SHOCKING AFFAIR IN TORONTO, CAUSED BY INDULGENCE IN DRINK. TORONTO, November 17 .-- A shocking affair oc, arred in Borden street this forenoon, A few months ago Charles A. McAulay, tinsmith, of Nassau street, brought his father and mother from Ireland and kopt them in his own house. Last night, owing to continued quarrelling between them, the old man left the son's house on Berden street. They were accompanied by their daughter-inlaw. About 10 this morning the sen called et the old couple's house and demanded his wife. This led to a quarrel between the father and son, resulting in a fight. The old mon was kicked in the abdomen and head in a brutal insuner, so much so that he died about 2 o'clock. He made an ante-morten statement to the doctor, implicating his son, and charging him directly with inflicting the injuries that terminated in his death. Both father and son were addicted to drink, and were under the influence of liquor. This morning McAulay was arrested, and his wife is also under arrest pending the result of an inquest to be held to-morrow night. The prisoner is about 40 years of age and has four children,

JAMES.

HISTORICAL FACTS AND ANECDOTES CONNECTED WITH THE NAME. Spain, however, is the great home and centre of the Jameses; thence they have radiated as Jagos and Jaymes over the whole circle of the civilized world. St. James the Apostle, it appears, preached in Spain before the date of his martyrdom at Jerusalem. His authentic relies were duly deposited by miraculous agency on the Calician coast. The shrine that arose around the final resting place of the canonized benes was dedicated the word "Sancto Jacobo Apostolo," Peninsular tongues soon converted the word apostle into the name of the town he inhabited, and the place was ever afterward known to fame as Santiago de Compostella. Very remarkable miracles used to take place there. The aid given by Santiago to the Christian Spaniards against their Mocrish enemies-m one occasion he even fed the victorious army in person on a white horse -made him by for the most popular saint in the whole kingdom. Pilgrims flocked from all the world to the shine of Compostella, with St. Jomes' scallop shel!the pecton Jacobaus--fixed in their hats as origin of the somewhat obscure connection between St. James and oysters, typified by the fact that on St. James' day, July 25, old style, the oyster season used to be gin. Happy times when an oyster supper was regarded in the light of a devotional exercise. Nowadays it is regarded as next door to a crime. I'he change of calendar put on the date to August 4, when the scason now begins without thyme or reason. The little grattos of oyster shells which London children formerly built on St. James' day, and ufter ward on the transierced date, were the last relic of the scallop decked shrines of St. James of Compostella. From Santiago in Galici the name of Santiago spread to numberless other towns in a'l parts of the wide Spanish dominions. Your conqui-stador, though a triffe bloodthirsty, was undeniably devout. Like his Norman prototypes, he combined the practice of filibustering and religion. If he burned the Indian's body it was for the good of his soul; if he killed him with hard work in the gold and silver mines he took care to biptize him in the true faith before finally destroying him. The "pious founder" of the Spanish colonics was very particular by what titles he christened his towns and islands. Ascension and Vera Cruz, Dominica and Sin Salvader, sufficiently attest the orthodox devotion of the Spanish mariner Even the men of war were christened by such grotesquely inappropriate names as "Li Santisma Trinidad;" white Conception, Asuncion and Fé show their ardent desire to prove the entire catholicity of their faith in the mirest details of local nomenclature. But Sautiago came in above all other saints or dogmas or abstractions for the nuncupatory homage of the Spanish mind. There is a Santiago in Chili, and another in Cuba, a third is in Mexico and a fourth in La Plata. The Californian specimen varies the type s little, and comes out in the alternative form of San Diego. At least one British colony has inherited an example, and that is Jamesica. The old capital of the island must still be described in all official or legal documents as Santiago de la Vega, but the name is too long winded to eit comfortably upon the British throat, and conversation knows it only nowadays as Spanish Town.—Cornhill.
