The Mark Lane Express of October 31, in its weekly review of wheat, says: "Low prices current are greatly affecting the market deliveries of wheat, farmers having 15 per cent. less and delivering 30 per cent. less. Millers are bidding low for imported wheat, knowing that the greater part of the American surplus of 40,000,000 bushels will come to Great Britain, as France will need only one fifth and Holland only one third of what they needed in 1891, while the Australian surplus promises to be double that of 1892. Barley, oats and corn were firm during the week. Damp wheat of poor quality fetched at rare intervals 30s. Foreign wheat unchanged, owing to the small imports."
