LOCAL FRUIT MARKET. Trade on the wholesale market yesterday was practically demoralized, considering that the berry season has only just begun. Comparatively heavy receipts, coupled with the ur seasonable weather and added to all the fact that the great bulk of housewives nave not yet seriously considered the prescrying question, may fairly be held to be responsible for the slump. A leading dealer on the market yesterday said: "This is the worst week in the trade and prices may not again touch lower figures." The geteral range of values yesterday was from 5c to 10c per basket, the latter price for fancy stock. DIVIDEND INCREASES AND WALL-STREET.

Two highly favorable announcements were made on the New York stock market to-day, one an increase in the dividend of Baltimore and Ohio from 5 per cent. to 6 per cent., and the other in an initial declaration on American Locomotive common stock of 1 1-4 per cent. for the quarter, placing the stock on a 5 per cent. dividend basis. Considering these favorable announcements, the market gave every evidence of being difficult to bull. The specially interested issues were firm. B. & O made a small advance on Tuesday's high price, but, with to-day's gain, is less than ten points above the average price of the stock as a 5 per cent. dividend issue, and practically no higher than it was four years ago. Locomotive has been talked about as a dividend-payer for over a year. In 1905, the stock sold up to 78 1-2, while to-day's best figure was 72 3-4. The under-surface of Wall-street is troubled with numerous cross-currents that are not in the interests of buoyancy. Stocks are concentrated, but are awaiting distribution, and are unloaded with every outside purchasing wave. Even with all the good news to-day, and that of the Pennsylvania flotation on Tuesday, the average level of prices was well below that of a week ago. The dragging elements in the markets are crop fears, European World Office, June 20. The dragging elements in the markets are crop fears, European unrest occasioned by Russian troubles, and some tightening up in time money rates. The bulls are hopeful of an increase in speculation, with the distribution of the July dividend disbursements, but this is figuring on a very uncertain quantity, Herbert H Ball.
