A DINNER PILL. - Many persons suffer excruciating agony after par-taking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healing nutriment, it becomes a poison to the system. Rov. Dr. Johnston Was an Eye-Witness of Saturday's Disturbances.

And Was Astonished at the Calling Out of the Militia-He Deprecates the Display of Military Force-Authorities Showed Lack of Prudence

Rev. Dr. Johnston, when interviewed this morning regarding the disturbances Saturday, and the calling out of the militia, said that absence of discussion or criticism was probably most desirable at this juncture until men's minds were calmer. Speaking, however, from what he had himself observed on Saturday, when on two occasions at 4 and again at 10 o'clock he had happened to pass through the crowd he was astonished beyond measure to hear next morning that extreme measures had been resorted to. The crowd, cited to acts of violence.

Dr. Johnston feared that the calling out of the militia had had the effect of unduly exaggerating the unhappy situation, and he regarded it as a measure, perhaps hastily decided upon by the authorities without a due consideration of the effects that would be produced.

"Any display of military authority at this time," said Dr. Johnston, "when the city is as quiet as a village, and there is no appearance of violence, can only produce a feeling of resentment. exaggerate law and authority is quite as great an evil as to be lax in its auministration."

"The worst effect of the whole matter," Dr. Johnston added, "is that a sentiment is being created and developed in our city that is separating classes, and from which the city will not free itself in many years; it is too bad that the closing months of the century should be marked by such scenes scenes which prudence and firmness on the part of those in positions of authority should have prevented."

THE MAYOR'S WEAKNESS.

[Woodstock Express.] Mr. James Carrie, of Runians, Gray, Carrie Company, of London, and for-merly of Woodstock, told an Express reporter yesterday that the business men of London viewed with great alarm the prospect of a protraction of the street railway strike into the fall season. He explained that the loss had already been very great, and that the big military camp this season had been of little benefit to the city, as, on account of the strike, the soldiers and camp visitors did not get down into the city to do any business. Mr. Carrie, in common with most of the prominent merchants of the city, strongly condemned the bringing of outside troops the additions to the city's forces that could possibly be required. Both sides were wrong to a certain extent, and the weakness and vacillation of the mayor had done as much as anything else to bring about the present trouble.

TWO MORE STREET CAR CASES

Shotted Cartridges Used in a "Wild West" Show-Three Persons Injured.

Rochester, N. Y., July 14.--During the performance at Summerville on Lake Ontario last night, the Tuscarora Indians, who have been giving a 'Wild West' entertainment there dur ing the week, fired into the crowd that had assembled to watch their antics, and wounded three people.

The injured are: Joseph E. Marcill, seven shot wounds in right leg and two in left. Raymond Brotsch, 9 years old, several shot wounds in right thigh.

Miss Helen Williamson, wounded in the body and limbs.

That part of the programme during which the Indians fire on a log cabin and are fired on by the occupants, was carried out without a hitch, but when the cabin was fired and the whites were obliged to fight the attacking party in the open, the trouble began. Suddenly Miss Williamson uttered a scream and fell to the ground. Marcill went down before another charge from a gun in the hands of the Indians. then young Brotsch toppled over. excitement prevailed for a few minutes. None of the injured were seriously hurt, but the wounds are extremely painful. The shooting was entirely accidental, the loaded cartridges be-coming mixed by mistake with the regular blanks used at the performance. No arrests were made

The Calling In of the Militia Ridiculed and Condemned.

Outside Press Say Arbitration Is the Remedy-the Head That Was Lost and the Leg That Was Pulled.

[Hamilton Spectator.] In London the Little they are making a tremendous fuss about a very small matter. The streets are full of militiamen, and gatling guns rumble over the pavement, all because there was a small row between striking street car men and their "scab" successors in office. Half a dozen policemen could have controlled the "mob" at its worst, and there was not the slightest necessity to import an army of militia from other cities and towns. Somebody in authority lost his head. Or, perchance, he had no head to lose.

[Kingston Whig.]

Peace and amity are not to be restored in London by pistols, clubs and rotten eggs. What's the matter with the people? Have they all lost their heads over the street railway strike? The difficulty is one for arbitration. It cannot be settled by the police and military with batons and bayonets.

(Stratford Herald.]

Some esteemed Londoners are lamenting the ill effects of the strike upon the commercial interests of the city, and are pointing lugubrious morals about the wickedness of labor organizations. They miss another point which may be quite as material, that is, as to the folly of a Canadian municipality like London bargaining away a valuable franchise like the street railway to millionaire foreigners for a mess of pottage. Is it correct, or it is not, that the controlling power of the London Street Railway is a Cleveland millionaire, who cares nothing for London except as a source of tribute? The troublous street car strike in Cleveland having occurred under the same ownership, the presumption is just as reasonable that the management in both places is harsh and grinding, as that the employes are a bad lot. It is not much of a sign of loyalty on the part of some Londoners to display eagerness to lay all fault upon Canadian fellowcitizens, and play into the hands of United States millionaires and their hired men. At this distance it is far from clear that the fault is chiefly with the street car employes, whilst the frantic resort to martial law—at which the whole of Western Ontario is laughing-invites loud suspicion as to the blameworthiness of the street car authorities and the weak civic head who has allowed his leg to be pulled so absurdly.

[Dresden Times.]

The mayor of London, Ont., may or may not have been justified in calling out the militia on Saturday last. In the light of subsequent events he was not right in alarming the whole western portion of the province by calling militiamen from all portions of it to quell an incipient riot like that which occurred in London. If the city London, and every other city, and the provincial and federal governments would compel corporations like the London Street Railway Company to adjust differences with their employes through an arbitration board, no necessity would exist for such scenes as London has witnessed of late. How-ever, it is creditable to the union men that they were not the cause of the little riot.

[Toronto News.] Street cars manned by policemen are about as profitable as a theater filled with deadheads.

[Windsor Record.]

The mayor of London has made himself and his city ridiculous by calling in the aid of outside militia. has been called a riot turns out to have been a very small affair, and could have been dealt with by the city police and the Canadian regulars located in London. The calling in of outside militia gave a prominence to the disturbance which its importance did not warrant, and will do injury to that city.
