Suit For $10,000 Against Miss DesBrisay of a Boston Hospital—Alleged That Sponge Was Left in Patient's Body

Yesterday's Boston Post has brought suit for $10,000 damages against Lucy L. DesBrisay, proprietor of the DesBrisay Hospital, 88 Newbury street, Back Bay. It is alleged by Miss Bisbee that on Oct. 15, 1914, she was ill and went to the DesBrisay Hospital for an operation. She was there eight weeks following the operation, which was per-nurse, Miss Bisbee says in her declaration to the Suffolk Superior Court, in which the suit was filed yesterday, and the nurse was reported to be skilled at surgical operations. This nurse, she says, was charged with the duty to furnish to the operating surgeon certain gauze sponges to be used in the cavity made by the surgeon in the plaintiff's body during the operation. She was also charged with the duty of keeping a correct account, further says the declaration, "of the sponges so used, so at the close of the operation none of them would remain in the patient's body but would be recovered and accounted for, and the said employee did so carefully and negligently perform her duty that she carelessly reported to the surgeon in charge that all the sponges had been removed from the plaintiff's body after the operation, whereas in truth and in fact one gauze sponge, thirty-four inches in length, had been allowed to remain in the plaintiff's body."

The Man In The Street

Well, the streets look cleaner, anyhow. That's one reason why we should be thankful for the rain, but say, wasn't it a treat to see the sun this a.m.?

Watchful Waiting And still we haven't learned the names of that assessment commission. The clasp at the next desk whispers that we'll know soon enough.

Meanwhile we have until the 14th to settle this year's tax bill.

Do you know what to do with a day like this when it comes on a half holiday? Well, rather.

But do your plans include an excursion to Little River by the street car line?

Looks as if that extension will be ready for use just in time to cope with the winter snow storms.

Which would you rather do, work for your living or get a job as deputy receiver general?

And what do they want of electric lights in the customs house, surely no one ever works there after dark.

Did it ever strike a large number of our citizens that the coppers they pay for a certain newspaper from across the border are aiding, indirectly, the German papers published by the same concern?

Lots of interest now in what is going to happen to the vacant seat in the legislature.

There is more than one citizen willing to sacrifice himself for the benefit of the Conservative party.

But, strange to say, the Tory leaders seem willing to lose the seat rather than see it won by a certain candidate for the nomination.

Sloven: "How Dry-y-y-I-am!"

The Anti-saloon league in the states plan to raise a fund of $5,000,000 to elect a "dry" president. Usually it's those extra ciphers that make a man forget to be dry—to say nothing of the siphons.

And No Insurance

Two men fined in the police court for smoking in the country market. That's one time their money went up in smoke.

Reasons are easy to find for most anything, but the logic of preventing a freeman from enjoying a "wee draw" in his own place of business is hardly perceptible.

At any rate, North Market street has become a favorite open-air smoking emporium.

But what's a fellow gonna do in winter?

August Last, Frinastance

Dr. MacDonald of the Toronto Globe has uttered a condemnation of "Alliances and the Balance of Power" as conducive to strife, but such things are often handy in a close corner.

Easy Pickin's

It has been said that to be the only man at a seashore resort has been to feel that the fair sex, at least, worshipped him, but a local man who attended a Sunday school picnic this week up the river, feels that he has a few honors also. He is able to display at home to-day three nice, attractive souvenirs which he won at the picnic in games of skill, he will proudly tell you; but, just on the spot, if you wish to retain his friendship, don't ask him how many were entered in the contests—he was the only one.

Scenic Grandeur

A Bermuda traveler in this city week said that "The beauties of St. John should be advertised more widely." But when we're doing it, let's try to forget about Victoria Square, Queen street, sidewalk, Main street roadway from Douglas avenue to the bridge, and a few other places that probably need no more advertising than they've already got.

By the way, has Commissioner Potts shown you those pictures of that Indian town section of Main street?

AFTER THIRTY YEARS

Former School Master Hears From Pupils

The Davies Boys of Sussex Corner, in Re-union in West, Talk Over Old Times and One Tells Boyhood Teacher About It

Thirty years ago in the school at Sussex Corner, were five brothers, Lew, Jack, Will, Harry and Barry Davies. On Friday, to the man who was principal of that school came a letter from Newton Station, B.C., with the heading Lew Davies & Co., real estate brokers, agents for Vancouver Island Fruit and Farm Lands Co., and the British Pacific Coal Co. The letter said:

"We were talking about you the other day, Jack, Will and Barry called on me, and Doctor Perry of Sussex was spending a few weeks with me. We had a delightful talk over old times. Will is a doctor at Chilliwack. Jack has been manager for the American Express Co. in Montreal and this is his first trip west. Harry is a Baptist minister. He is out here with us. He has taken three degrees at college. Barry is head of the Barry Davies Oil Co. of New Westminster."

"I had a letter from Frank Whiteside (another of the pupils at the Sussex Corner school thirty years ago), formed by a competent surgeon, for the relief of her ailment."

"The defendant furnished a trained as a result of this neglect, the handkerchief caused septicaemia, for which she had to be operated upon for relief."

This will be of interest to several St. John homes at quite a number of St. John nurses trained under Miss DesBrisay in the Melrose, Mass., hospital when she was the popular and efficient matron there. Later she opened a private hospital in Boston and some St. John nurses have been with her there.

HE WAS IN THE STORMING PARTY AT SEBASTOPOL

Thos. M. Wisted, Local Veteran of Crimea and Indian Mutiny

STIRRING TIMES RECALLED

Chat With Empire Soldier Timely in View of Recruiting Campaign and His Being Invited to Take Part in Next Tuesday's Parade Here

In the children's parade next Tuesday afternoon, Thomas M. Wisted, of St. Patrick street, a veteran of the Crimean war and the Indian Mutiny, will be asked to take a place in one of the automobiles. If twenty-one years' service in the British army, during which time he helped carry his flag to victory in the two historical periods mentioned is a qualification, then there is no one in the city who is more worthy to ask young men to follow his example and lend the empire a hand in the present crisis. Mr. Wisted's history is a most interesting one.

He was born in Tipperary, Ireland, in 1838. He moved to Dublin when a lad of twelve and remained there until 1862 when he joined the army. He accompanied the 73rd Regiment to Bristol and from there to Jersey, one of the Channel islands. In 1864, at the outbreak of the Crimean war, he volunteered from the 73rd to the 97th regiment for active service. In May of that year he left London with the first expeditionary force which had been ordered to Greece to protect King Otto. He remained there for six months and then started for the scene of hostilities.

Arriving before Sebastopol he entered the trenches with his comrades in arms and fought there for the entire period of the war. At the fall of Sebastopol on September 8, 1855, he was one of the storming party and assisted in carrying one of the ladders used for the purpose of scaling the walls. There were sixteen ladders in his company before the charge, but when the men eventually reached the walls only two remained intact. During the charge Mr. Wisted was wounded in the left leg, but the injury was not serious enough to place him hors-de-combat and he continued to fight side by side with his comrades.

Major Welsford, in whose memory a monument was erected in Halifax, was killed during the engagement while fighting a few feet away from Mr. Wisted. On March 22, 1856, Captain Hedley Vicars, who was commanding the trenches in which Mr. Wisted was fighting, was killed during a sortie made by the Russians.

The March to Lucknow

In August, 1856, after peace had been declared, the regiment in which Mr. Wisted served returned to England. One year later they sailed for Calcutta, India and arrived there after 112 days on board ship. In December they started on their memorable march to Lucknow, a distance of 1,286 miles, to quell the mutiny, and arrived there three months later. After a sieging of eight months they succeeded in ransacking their enemy.

Mr. Wisted narrated an interesting experience of his while serving during the Indian mutiny. Once, while in action, his rifle became clogged and, being unable, he asked permission to return to camp to procure another. He was allowed to go and while enroute there got mixed up at cross roads and almost walked right into a band of Sepoys. Fortunately, he realized his mistake in time and although he was pursued he evaded his followers by dodging from tree to tree and arrived safely back in his own lines. He says that he never ran so hard in his life as he did when the Sepoys were after him.

After serving ten years in various parts of India, Mr. Wisted returned to England in 1868. In the year 1873 he received honorable discharge from the army after twenty-one years of faithful service. He still retains the old red coat which he wore during several years of service. On one sleeve there are six stripes, two specifying his rank as corporal and four for conduct. On the other sleeve is a special decoration which was given only to sharpshooters.

Mr. Wisted came to this city in April, 1873, and has since resided here. He will be eighty years old in October, but is still hale and hearty, possesses a remarkable memory, and is in every way a good citizen.

BROTHER IN ST. JOHN

The death of Patrick Barry occurred at his home, 61 Newbury street, Bangor, on Thursday, after a long illness. Mr. Barry received an injury affecting his spine, about seven years ago and since that time had been in ill health. He was born in New Brunswick, but moved to Bangor several years ago. He was a long time in the employ of the Maine Central as a section man. He was well known and highly respected for honesty, industry and good citizenship and his many friends will learn with regret of his death. Mr. Barry is survived by his wife, two sons and two daughters, Edward J., William J., and Mrs. William D. Cowan of Bangor, and Mrs. George E. Libby of Orono. Four brothers also survive, John of St. John, N.B.; Edward of Peterville, N.B.; William of Minneapolis and Thomas of Bangor.

with a photo of his office. He is editor of a paper at Castor, in Alberta. Walter and Ed. Whiteside both have stock ranches in Alberta. Their sister Mattie is married and lives close to them. We fellows are showing our age. We are all getting gray, but we feel young, and after all we are no older than we feel."

Mr. Davies has a kindly reference to Mr. Justice White as an old friend of their family, and closes with the assurance of a warm welcome for the old Sussex Corner teacher from his scholars in the west, if he should ever journey so far.

Friends of the members of the Davies and Whiteside families in New Brunswick will be glad to learn of their success in the west. There was a thought thirty years ago of such development as has taken place in the west, or that it would be shared in by so many of the scholars in the quiet school at Sussex Corner.
