APPEAL IN NEVINS WILL CASE DROPPED

Definite This Morning That
It Will Not be Taken to England.

The last of the celebrated Nevins will case has been heard, insofar as the courts are concerned, it was said this morning by one of the parties interested in the case. It was added that there will not be any appeal to the Privy Council from the judgment of the Supreme Court of Canada, where four of the justices ruled in favor of the will and annulment of the same.

Daniel Mullin, K. C., when asked about the matter this morning said that he understood the appeal was not to be proceeded with but he had no knowledge of any terms of any settlement if there was one. In another quarter The Times-Star was told this morning that the heirs and Miss Susie Smith had agreed on a compromise by which the court costs were to be about equally divided between the parties to the suit and each was to pay for its own legal advice, and the distribution will be as under the will.

Later in the day J. F. H. Teed, counsel for Miss Smith, the beneficiary under the will, was communicated with and he confirmed the report that the appeal had been dropped. He said that following an arrangement entered into in regard to the payment of the costs it had been agreed to drop the appeal.

PARACHUTE DROP AT EXHIBITION

Bonnette to Come Here for
St. John Fair—Other Features.

A balloon ascension daily with a spectacular parachute drop and a complete wild west show, will head the list of free attractions at St. John's Exhibition, August 30 to September 6, according to an announcement this morning by Horace A. Porter, general manager. Mr. Porter says that Bonnette, a noted balloonist who was here two years ago, will return and give his great act daily, while the wild west show will include broncho "busting," cattle roping and other thrills of a western rodeo. A western show of this kind is one of the big attractions at the British Empire exhibition at Wembley.

Daily Feature.

Practically all of the exhibitors who took space last year will be on hand again for this year's show, Mr. Porter says. In previous years, the directors specialized on a special exhibit of poultry, but this year something different will be the way of a big dairy exhibit will be attempted with the co-operation of the leading dairy companies in the city. The various branches of the dairy industry, including pasteurization of milk, bottling, cheese and butter making, etc., will be shown in detail. The exhibit will be placed in the basement of the main building, according to tentative plans, Mr. Porter says.

Workmen are now engaged in effecting repairs to the various buildings of the association. The big building next to the headquarters practically has been remodelled and will be used for laboratory and storehouse purposes. The grandstand is in fairly good condition and will need only slight repairs.

A Suggestion

Respecting the entrance off the continuation of Carmarthen street, Mr. Porter has a suggestion which he will place before the military authorities and the Common Council. It will be recalled that as a result of agitation by people living on this continuation against maintenance of a board fence there, shutting off the street, that the fence was torn down. A barn must be placed there during the Exhibition, and Mr. Porter's idea is to erect a sort of permanent archway there with fences on both sides and a wide gateway in the centre to permit of passage. This could be gaily decorated for the exhibition and would not cut off the street after the big fair. He says he believes the militia will bear one-third the expense. The Exhibition Association is willing to bear one-third, and if the Common Council will take one-third the cost, the idea will be put into execution.

WRIT ISSUED BUT NOT YET SERVED

Stephen-O'Brien Matter Progresses—Service Awaits
Councillor's Return.

The writ issued against Councillor John T. O'Brien in the libel proceedings being brought against him by Thomas Stephen had not been served up to noon today as Mr. O'Brien was still out of the city. The writ was issued yesterday afternoon on the application of Messrs. Teed and Teed by Mr. Stephen's solicitors as to the amount they were suing for. This statement does not have to be filed until later in the proceedings.

In cases of this kind the defendant has ten days for appearance after the service of the writ, following which the plaintiff's attorney may apply to the judge for directions. The judge then orders the plaintiff to file his statement of claim for damages after which time is given the defence to answer by the court. After the pleadings are in issue the plaintiff's attorney has the right to decide the sitting of the court at which the case will be tried, but fourteen days notice must be given the defendant. If the case does not come to trial after two regular terms of the court the defence can bring the case to trial by giving the usual fourteen days to the plaintiff.

Premier Makes Statement—
Convention Called Here
—Sackville Rally

A statement by Premier P. J. Veniot at the annual dinner of the Canadian Good Roads Association last evening in St. Andrews, a provincial convention call of Government supporters to be held in St. John, and the announcement of a meeting in Sackville on July 2, at which the Premier will speak, are regarded today as significant in the provincial political situation.

Responding to the toast of "Our Governments" at last evening's dinner in St. Andrews, Hon. Mr. Veniot said: "Governments go and governments come; governments are good and governments are bad—it is up to the people to make the choice. Before long in this province a choice will have to be made—I will leave it to them."

Asked after the dinner if this statement had any connection with the provincial convention advertised in yesterday's papers, the Premier said that he had nothing to say beyond the fact that the convention was for organization purposes. He would not say if his statement meant action this year.

The convention is called for 10 a.m. on July 16 in the Pythian Hall in St. John. The call is issued by Hon. Mr. Veniot and sets out that "the object of the convention is to lay the foundation for a permanent provincial organization and to discuss questions of vital importance to the province."

Sackville Meeting.

A political meeting will be held at the Imperial Theatre, Sackville, on Wednesday evening, July 2, when the Hon. Mr. Veniot will address the electors of Sackville and the surrounding parishes. Addresses will also be delivered by Hon. Fred Magee, M. L. A., Reid McManus, M. L. A., and Fred L. Estabrook, M. L. A. His Worship Mayor Cameron will take the chair at 8 p.m. At 7:30 o'clock a preliminary meeting of the supporters of the Government will be held in the hall over Fawcett Bros. store, Sackville, to choose delegates to attend the convention in St. John on July 16.

A Chatham View.

The Chatham World says of the election outlook: "Many people see in the call of Premier Veniot for a convention of supporters next month an important sign that the general provincial elections will be held in the near future. A gentleman who has frequently read political signs with some degree of accuracy, in talking to the World, said: 'The call for a convention does not necessarily mean an early general election, though in this case it might. With governments all over the world, the Premier Veniot would not hide his time and it would not be surprising if the general elections were not called on until some time next year. One thing is about certain and that is if the election does not take place before the end of November, the New Brunswick Premier is on record as declaring against provincial elections in the winter time.'"

SEWERAGE WORK.

Good progress with the Forest street sewer was reported this morning by Commissioner Wigmore. Today the connection with the sewer which drains the West and Winter street sections of the city and the new work is being made. The Commissioner said he would call for tenders for the pipe needed for the extension to East St. John at once in order to be in a position to proceed with the work just so soon as the Municipal Council had authorized the building of the sewerage system.

As Hiram Sees It

"Hiram," said the Times reporter to Mr. Hiram Hornbeam, "the call of summer found me responsive. I went out to Renforth last evening."

"That's a nice place," said Hiram.

"You should have seen me," said the reporter, "in a dinghy, on the river, with just breeze enough to keep us moving idly about and enjoying the scenery. The declining sun was warm, and its gleaming track on the rippled surface moved with our boat as we tacked to get the breeze. The wooded shores, the pretty cottages nestling among the trees on the hillside, the broad reach of the river toward Clifton, the hills behind the island—all these charmed the eye and conveyed a restful message."

"I agree," said Hiram, "you seen the bathing gals."

"I did," said the reporter. "I saw the bathing gals in the water and the drapery preparing a bonfire by the wooded shore. I saw groups in canoes. I heard the cheers from the tennis court beside the shore. I saw the flashing motor cars on the highway—and I saw the Tut. There is nothing about her to suggest the lotus but her name. She has airplane engines and is said to travel forty miles an hour. After seeing her leap out of the water a few times as she sped forward I am not disposed to dispute the claim. And then there was the sunset—just a calm and lovely sunset, yet with enough of cloud to make the horizon change from crimson to purple, and into a cool gray sky. Hiram, it was wonderful. Of course there was companionship, of the understanding sort, and a great bunch of lilies to bring home. That was after a couple of games of auction in the pavilion, under which the racing shells are shining in new paint and varnish. Look you, Hiram, I have not had as much diversion in three or four hours for an age. It was the 'call of summer.' 'Look-a-here!' said Hiram, 'you haven't left a blamed thing for me to say today—By Hen!'"
