Now, while the defendants admit in said paragraph that the ship was in danger, they set up that she "was not in a hopecondition, and that even if she had not been rescued by the Vermont they would have been able to save the said ship from actual loss." On this point I am adthem, that the ship was in such a danger that, having regard to the season of the ment that the Finnish colony established year, the unsettled weather, and to the currents, she would have helplessly drifted ashore on that dangerous part of the coast and in the manner indicated by Captain Walbran, and that this could only have been avoided by the happening of extraor-dinary events which there is no ground for believing would have happened. And, Electric, wrote desiring to submit proposals for the lighting of the city by his company, and asking information recompany, and asking information remade did not work successfully. One trouble after another followed in fast trouble after another followed in fast succession, until finally the want of finances completed the disintegration of the Abby Palmer regarding the alleged eight mile drift backward, and his position, and otherwise, is unreliable.
