[FOR THE CHRONICLE]

FALL OF THAT GREAT CITY—BAGYULON

Some future events—so some in deep repose—
The time for your return is come,
To visit us again; this City is awful down!

Terrible, lightning, and volcanic fire!

When all—imploded in one dead hour of woe—
Shall sink, and mingled bones quiet below!

The world is in the hands of Men now;

We no longer, possess a hold on Heaven or Hell;

To reward the violent foes of God and man,

Provide all—the rest of sin begin;

Then we fall of Babylon the Great;

And with the subjects of Immensee's care,

To flee from wrath, stand alone—for fear!

The present, past and future—all are still

In strict accordance with the Saviour's will;

He who made all, is still the same;

And men have lost more than mortal might;

To hurl to sought the tyrant—impious Cen-

TR impious cause of bloody war!

To lurking Sons' savage hosts away;

And daily prey to our Millions—ay,

No man safe, nor sound—no man secure,

Disturb our Sow's peace with clam-toss war!

Fair smiling Peace shall I each cottage store—

Nation shall learn the art of no more,

God has given me a mind that All'd ame,

To crush the ev'ry tyrant—down his arms;

Then let us join the Great Angel Host,

"Glory to Father, Son, and Holy Ghost!"

God save and bless Great Britain Queen!

Long may she live, for Sion's sake no night,

QUADS AND OYSTERS.—Among the first classes

restaurans in Albany is the Marble Pillar, located near the Museum, and kept by "BHY WINE,"

a gentleman who is a son of the author of

"the Pillar." Among the visitors who entered the "Pillar" on Tuesday last was a semi-clerical

looking gentleman, who orders a broad quail

and a dozen oysters. While discussing these waiter to send the quail to him, he was interrupted,

and in a few moments afterwards the semi-clerical looking gentleman was in a cosy corner with Mr. Wine, about matters and things in general.

"By the way, Mr. Wine, what was the trouble with that young fellow I saw you in alteration with on Friday evening last?"

"I contracted a bill to the amount of eighteen dollars, which I refused to pay up."

"What did you do with him?"

"Crushed him out doors."

"Nothing else?"

"No—going to law don't pay. To have obtained eighty shillings worth of money by means of litigation, would have consumed ten dollars' worth of time."

"Then all you do is to check them out, as you say?"

"Well, that may be a wise plan, but I don't.

By the way, what kind of wine have you got?"

"A good sample of Heidelberg, which you can find in this city. Will you have a bottle?"

"One condition, and that is, that you will join me in a glass."

"With pleasure, sir."

The bell was soon tinkled—a white jacket

appeared in the door-way—the white jacket vanished. In a moment the white jacket re-appeared, bringing in a silver top on a juvenile sal-

ver. The boy had just come in, and had been disposed of. In a few moments the boy had been brought to the bar-room, and when last seen was at the rate of fourteen miles an hour. Should he stop this side of Canada we shall issue an execution.

GENIUS, TALENT, CLEVERNESS.—Genius rushes

like a whirlwind; talent marches like a cavalcade

of men and horses; cleverness skims like a swallow in a summer evening, with a sharp still noise,

and sudden dashes.

The man of genius dwells in his study; but the man of talent, and the man of cleverness, both dwells with nature; the man of talent in steamer or first-class sailing-vessel;

To pass from Europe to America, or to any part

of North America, or in any place in South America,

or to the waters of the Mississippi River.

VACATIONS.—They will also, if not easyly provided for, be allowed, without any extra charge.

To cross and recross the Atlantic Ocean, in steamers or first-class sailing-vessels;

To pass from Europe to America, or to any part

of North America, or in any place in South America,

or to the waters of the Mississippi River.
