REV. MR. LANG LOSES WALLET AND MONEY

Rev. David Lang, M. A., B. D., pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, in Montreal this week, had been riding in a street car during the evening. Next morning he discovered the loss of his pocket book containing $26 and checks payable to his order amounting to upwards of $150.

Mr. Lang at once telephoned the bank at which the checks were payable, and was pleased to find that they had not been presented. This was of course good news to Mr. Lang as his loss would have been much more serious had the checks been cashed before the bank heard from him.

Mr. Lang is at present enjoying his vacation away from St. John.

AN EXAMPLE FOR STUDENTS WHO CAN SEE

Grover Livingstone, of Harcourt, was in the city yesterday. This young man is a graduate of the Halifax School for the Blind, and has completed his third year in the arts course of Dalhousie University.

He comes of a family of journalists and expects to take up newspaper work after he receives his degree. Mr. Livingstone has done a good deal of reporting for the Halifax Herald, and succeeded in overcoming what appears to be a great disadvantage. He remarks that he has not found college work more difficult than it appears to be to his classmates, and that he has no trouble in reporting lectures, sermons or addresses, taking full notes and writing them out afterward with the typewriter or by hand.

He is a nephew of the late John Livingstone.
