The Weekly Tribune.

VOL. II-NO. 39

THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE, PUBLISHED EVERY TUESDAY.

OFFICE-51 PRINCE WILLTAM STREET,

Weekly Tribune. WITH SUPPLEMENT. ST. JOHN, N. B., MARCH 31, 1874.

LEGISLATURE OF NEW BRUNSWICK.

HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY. FREDERICTON, March 23. On motion of the Attorney General the rder of the day, Gough's resolution, was proceeded with.

Mr. Maher said he did not affirm that any member had been corrupted as an individual, but he solemuly believed that if the Government continued to dispose of the public money as it had done it was inevitable that corruption would follow. The acts done by members are not to be taken as affecting their private character, but their representative character. Certain acts which were to his mind clearly a violation of the spirit of the law have a violation of the spirit of the law have been charged on certain honorable mem-bers, and the Government does not deny it but attempts to set up a justification. Repeal.

The religious papers have been indulging in considerable flowery rhetoric on the school question. Every issue of the denominational organs has bristled with exclamation points. Protestant with exclamation points. Protestant the second of the points and affirm that these acts are unwise and calculated to corrupt the people's representatives. He confessed that he believed Girouard had honestly expended the money, but the accounts did not show such to be the feet and each that sum of $700, was from

SAINT JOHN, TUESDAY, MARCH 31, 1874.

and said a petition his doesn brought by him to the Surveyor General, asking that the surveyor General, asking that the surveyor General subject to the surveyor General subject to the surveyor General subject to the surveyor General would take no nonce a proposed to the surveyor General would not no notice a proposed of the surveyor General would not no notice a proposed of the surveyor General would not not not such that the surveyor General would not not not such that the surveyor General would not not not such that the surveyor General would not not not such that the surveyor General would not not not such that the surveyor General would not not not such that the surveyor General would not not close the law and therefore he did not wast it conditions to do as it had done, as set in the name of Mr. Theriana surveyor General would not a gree with the surveyor General would not not close the desire of the General would not not close the following of the surveyor General would not not close the following of the surveyor General would not close the following of the surveyor General would not would have survey or General would not not close the following of the survey of the surveyor General would not close the following he will be surveyed to get the matter of Howard Smithar and the survey of the survey of

$1.00 per Year

Mr. Beckwith as his spectacled friend, and the latter said if the House did not protect him from Gough's procedure.

accounts also. Mr. Gough referred to Mr. Beckwith as his spectacled friend, and the latter said if the House did not protect him from Gough's unparliamentary language he would protect himself. Gough said he was here to protect the people, notwithstanding the charge that he used Billingsgate, which, by the way, had grown to be a name hon members applied to all language used in showing them up. Mr. Beckwith was about going above seeking an asylum (not Dr. Waddell's) in the Upper House—the asylum for played-out politicians—he would not vote for the resolution because he wished to secure the continuation of favors to his relatives. He said eleven of these were stowed away snugly in the public offices in Fredericton and adjacent Counties, while, with the last throw of an expiring Government's lasso, the old man himself was to be jerked into the Upper House. Referring to Napier he said he just got telegrams from Gloucester informing him that Mr. Cole's claim had been paid by the Government since the Gough to vote against it on the ground that it would be a vote of want of confime you did: Gough to vote against it on the ground that it would be a vote of want of confidence.

Mr. Gough—Mr. Lindsay's plea of a long and unsullied career would not do. He had talked with pious cant about leaving the Government because he wished to see the Executive reduced to five, when the fact was he saw the ship was sinking and, like any other rat, he left it. Now he comes and talks about his honorable career, and yet he has taken $810 for laying out $1900 in constructing a bridge, or sixteen and two-thirds per cent of its whole cost.

Mr. Lindsay—That is untrue. The whole amount, as shown by check to Wm. Craig, and to me to pay for the work, was $3100.

Mr. Gough —Would the country ever have faith in such a man's sincerity. But he, too, he had heard, was to be sent to the same refuge as Beckwith. He meant to have referred particularly also to Willis, but time would not allow. He, however, briefly referred to that gentleman's case, claiming that he was a remarkable example of political inconsistency. Referring to the Surveyor-Generative and two-thirds per cent of its whole cost.

Mr. Lindsay—That is untrue. The whole amount, as shown by check to wm. Craig, and to me to pay for the work, was $3100.

Mr. Gough—Would the country ever have faith in such a man's sincerity. But he, too, he had heard, was to be sent to the same refuge as Beckwith. He mean, to the vance refuge as Beckwith. He mean, to the same refuge as