But the sulky chicken was not hungry. He let the worm twist itself along, until it almost got away into a hole in the earth; but just then old Daddy Rooster, with a loud crow, jumped from the barnyard fence and gulped the worm down himself.

"What's the matter down here?" he demanded in a loud voice, which made the little chickens shake, for Daddy Rooster, with his shining red comb and great, curling tail feathers, seemed very grand to them.

"Oh, Dicky Chick is sulky!" said Mother Hen. "He wants to go with the duck family on their picnic to-day to the old red bridge.

FRENCH BETTER FOKKERS.

New Aeroplane Said to Outclass German Machine.

The Paris Journal announces The Paris Journal announces the doom of the Fokker, the fast German battleplane, which by its superior speed has caused some mischief in the ranks of the allied airmen.

According to the Journal a new aeroplane, fitted with a motor of new design, has twice beaten all world records for speed and the record for military machines in peace time. The latest French fast flying scout ma-chines, it adds, will easily get the bet-ter of the Germans and leave their machines far behind.

C. G. Grey, editor of the Aeroplane, in an interview threw some light on the achievements both of the French and the British in combating the latest German attempt to secure ascend-ency in the air.

"The Fokker," he said, "is only a very bad copy of a French machine, the Morane, with a very big engine. But we have had in this country for about eight months privately built machines which outclass the Fökker in every way, not only in speed, but in climbing and weight lifting power.
