SPRING BANK HOLSTEINS AND OXFORDS.

Another visit to Spring Bank Stock Farm, the property of Wm. Barnett & Sons, by "The Farmer's Advocate" representative, found their Holstein cattle and Oxford Down sheep looking their best, the result of rich, luxuriant pasturage. This splendid farm lies in the County of Wellington, five miles from Fergus, and quite near the village of Living Springs, which is the firm's post office. The Holsteins are headed by Sir Faforit Poseh, a son of that most richly-bred bull, Cornelius Poseh, and his dam, Faforit Butter Girl, while never officially tested, has given, on ordinary feed, 13,000 lbs. of milk during the milking season between freshenings. The females of the herd are typical of the breed, and give evidence of being producers, although never having been officially tested. For sale are two young bulls, one of them six months old, the other two months; a snap for anyone wanting a bull to improve the dairy qualities of their herd.

The large flock of Oxford Down sheep are showing up well, and the year has been a most profitable one in the matter of lamb production, the youngsters being a most uniform lot, and already showing ideal covering and type, part of them are sired by an imported Horlick-bred ram, the others by a home-bred ram. Representatives of this flock have been shipped practically all over the country with entire satisfaction to the buyer in every case. Orders are now being booked for fall delivery, and satisfaction guaranteed. The farm is contacted by long-distance Bell 'phone from Fergus.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Veterinary.

FATALITY IN FOAL.

Heavy mare produced a rather weak foal after 11½ months of gestation. It would not nurse, so I fed it out of a pan. It drank the milk greedily. The excretions appeared to be normal, but it died in ten days. There were lumps the size of small hen eggs in throat. Did these lumps kill the foal? Several horses in this district have similar lumps. What causes them, and how can I prevent mares from producing foals with them?

J. W. D.

Ans.—The lumps were enlarged thyroid glands. The condition is called goitre, or bronchocele. They did not kill the foal. They can be reduced by rubbing daily with iodine ointment, but usually disappear in colts without treatment. They are supposed to be caused by horses drinking water largely impregnated with lime. We cannot prevent the occasional production of young animals with them. The glands are always large during foetal life, and, occasionally, for some time after birth, but except occasionally in lambs, are not supposed to endanger life. Your foal was born weak, and not nursing, did not receive nourishment in the proper proportions, and at proper intervals and simply died from want of nutrition.

War.

War I abhor,

And yet how sweet

The sound along the marching street

Of drum and life, and I forget

Broken old mothers, and the whole

Dark butchery without a soul.

Without a soul—save this bright drunk

Of heady music, sweet as hell;

And even my peace-abiding feet

Go marching with the marching feet.

For yonder goes the life.

And what care I for human life!

The tears fill my astonished eyes,

And my full heart is like to break,

And yet 'tis all enlivened lies,

A dream those drummers make.

O, it is wickedness to clothe

Yon hideous, grinning thing that stalks

Hidden in music, like a queen

That in a garden of glory walks,

Till good men love the thing they loathe

Art, thou hast many infamies,

But not an infamy like this.

O, snap the life and still the drum,

And show the monster as she is.

—Richard Le Gallienne.
