in anasacian services and a services of the se public mind in Canada, as in all other Colonies, is towards democratic principles—distruct and apprehensi in always agitated the 'masses whenever the Representative of the Crown assumed a prominent share in the tegislation—and the struggle has ever been to wreet from the Crown, and impart to the people, those privileges which the experience of the adjoining Republic has consecrated as a necessity and a duty. We still believe now, and we stated them, that the accurations laid to Lord Metealfe's charge, by a welfah, treacherous, and mendacious Ministry, were absolutely destitute of foundation, and that he did not in any wise interfers, according to the cent of the day, with the Idelous Ministry, were absolutely destitute of conduction, and that he did not in any wise interfers, according to the cant of the dey, with the weil anderstood wishes of the people. The events of that period have passed away, and if we rake up the remains, and commence a process of analyzation and investigation, it is that we may satisfactorily prove that those who then pinned their faith on Lafontains and his accomplices, were erregiously deceived—and that Laf stains, under the gart of a reformer, instead of enlarging the public liberty, has systematically been completed in engrafting upon this Colony a scheme of Government which deserves no milder name than an airosis the fountsin of honor, and the disperser of patronage vested in the Soversign is entrusted to the people. In Ca. ada we have neith rone form nor the other—we have a bustard form, which may he spitly styled Lafontainism. It is robberty, plunder, fraud, treachery and falchood combined. The people have no share in the Government, and the Governor has dwindled, since Lord Whether he could have resisted the surrender of every attribute of power, may be questioned—he may be a victim and a dupe, or he may be a falctim and a dupe, or he may be a victim of every attribute of power, may be questioned—he may be a rictim and a dupe, or he may be a know. The curtain of the Cabinet oursula him from view, and he is only paraded when some expecial act of iniquity is to be perpetrated. That he is absolutely powerless, except to antesion with the name of his Severeige some great wrang, is almost the vannt of the Ministry. That their varion of his services is correct, neems to be insplied by his over-attrained economy, and the certainty of his recall should be provuke a rupture with his keepers. But, turning from the question of the Governor's private failings, or personal feelings, as subjects exempt from ordinary criticism—it is turn that the people should ascertain what they gained by agraphizing with and auctaining Lafontaine in the Metalle conflict. Have they realized any one of their aspirations, are they conficious of enjoying any new powers or privateges before dealed,—has commerce, agriculture, or adu-

J. W. Hogg, H. L. Corry, E. Cardwell, and Sir J. Thesiget. R must not be lost sight oi, that, although Cobden and Bright voted sgainst Ministers, W. Ewart, Colonel Thompson, G. Thompson, Joseph Brotherton, and all the chiefs of the Pence party, voted for Mr. Roebsuck's Resolution, and consequently in opposition to their own principles, for Lord Palmerston's is certainly not a passe policy. Considering the state of parties in the House of Commons, there can be no doubt that 46 is a decisive majority for Government. The effect of it will, in all probability, be to keep the Whigs in office, at least until 1891. The open severence, however, of the Peelites from Government, which has received a real and a still greater moral support from the chief leaders of the party apon many severe trials of strength, occasions a breach in the ranks of the auxiliaries of the Government, which it will be most difficult to heal. A lamentable occurrence too, to which I shall presently refer, will lead Sir J. Graham, Mr. Gladstone, and other aspirants to power, to form new combinations, and make fresh attempts to dislodge the Russel Ministry from office. So that perhaps after all I am not justified in predicting that the present Government will be in offices in 1851.

The last Parliamentary week having closed triumphantly in a vote of confidence in Ministres, on Monday the ordinary business of the country was resumed. In the House of Lords, the Irish Franchies Bill has been discussed. Earl St. Garmains, after a debute, withdrew his motion to substitute 412 as the voter's qualification, instead without transacting business, out of respect to the decased Baronet.

There are now two seats vacant in the House Commons—Tamworth and Mayo—the latter through the death of Mr. R. Dillon Browne, whom I mentioned some time since as a claimant to the Earldonn of Roscommon.

Dr. Jackson proceeds to the estilement of Canterbery, New Zealand, as Titular Bishop of Christ Church, being the fifteenth Prolate for whom provision has been made through the medium of the Colonial Bishopric at Montreal have just been completed—henceforth that city will constitute a See perfectly distinct from the Diocese of Quebec.

A life of Robert Flumer Ward has just been published in E. gland, in which it is stated that the success of his first novel, "Tremaine," was so great that, in six weeks, fitteen hundred copies were sold, and pursons of the highest rank busied themselves in trying to ascertain who was the author.

A meeting has been held in support of the great Industrial Enhibition in the royal forest of Dean. In no part of England does the pride of easte belray itself with more distinctness than on the right bank of the Severa, among the miners and foreste a of the grown, land; within the memory of the oldest resident, no public meeting of the whole district bad ever before been held. land's Park, Kensington, has passed off with great calat this year.

The Corn Market is firmer, but no alteration in prices has taken place. Supplies continue small, and a triffling rise in prices is deemed not improbable.

The Quarterly Revenue Returns, which will be made up this evening, are likely to be of a satisfactory nature. The Customs and other leading branches of Revenue will, it is suid, show a considerable increase.

The famed Hol-i-noor Diamond arrived in England on Saturday in H. M. S. Medes, from India. This gens weights 29 carate; its original weight was 800 carate, but it was greatly reduced by one Hortensis. Borgis, an Italian, who was employed by Sheft Jehaun to cert it—see annoyed was that
