LABOR DEMONSTRATION IS A GREAT SUCCESS

ONE THOUSAND MOOSE JAW AND REGINA TRADES UNIONISTS PARADE THROUGH CITY—SPEECHES IN RAILWAY PARK BY MAYOR SMITH, JAMES SUMMERVILLE AND J. F. BOLE—BIG PROGRAMME OF SPORTS—REGINA WINS BALL GAME AND MOOSE JAW PARADE PRIZE—FIREMEN'S PRIZES.

gins, but their organizations had done their best. (Applause). He agreed with Mayor Smith's later remark that it is now the size of Regina in the West, could they have paraded on so many streets and kept out of the mud. They never saw any mud till they approached the park. (Laughter). A year hence, they expected to hold a Labor day demonstration at Moose Jaw. They were trying in conjunction with other labor organization of the province to have a provincial Labor day for Saskatchewan, and this was the beginning. An excellent beginning, too. (Hear, hear). Mr. Summerville repeated attempts to make bad feeling between competing towns. The aims of unionism, he said, were international, they meant a world wide brotherhood of workmen.

Everywhere, and always, labor is a capital stove against you another. Some people would tell them the two interests were identical. He thought that was merely a myth. Labor must organize to hold its own. Both labor and capital were trying to do the best for themselves, and how could they have an identity of interests? Labor everywhere had got to fight for itself. Mr. Summerville had seen that the foundations of unionism in this province were being well laid. When they met next year at Moose Jaw he hoped their feeling of comradeship would be greater than ever. (Applause).

Government's Fair Wage Clause. J. F. Bole, M. L. A., said he thought that when the Government set aside a day in the year, on which labor should be recognized, they did not contemplate that it should be spent in idleness, but that people should come together at various places for a joyous holiday. If the coming year, they would see greater improvements than had been already made. They would see under construction the Parliament buildings, in the contracts for which, he understood, a fair wage clause would be inserted to protect the workingmen. (Applause). Apart from the material advantage of having the day of trades unionism, he congratulated himself on having come together for the sake of the cause itself. His opinion of trades unions was that they were doing a noble work. He thought no one who read the history of the struggle between labor and capital and the rise of trades unions could come to any other conclusion than that the union had benefited the public as well as their members. He thought that the labor organizations had not yet gone by. Some of the finest men living were leaders of labor organizations, and the members of their ranks evinced the effects of their work. (Applause).

Unionism and Efficiency. Through in Canada conditions were less advanced than in some other countries, there was good reason for the existence of unions. He did not believe that anywhere in the world was labor on such a sound and businesslike basis as in this young country. (Applause).

CLARK'S PORK AND BEANS. Don't take ANY Pork and Beans. We guarantee ours—We stand behind them. It appeared to try. (Applause). The result of organization should be to make the laborer more comfortable, to ensure for him a just share of the profits of his labor, and the speaker did not believe that at the present time such justice could be obtained without unity of effort on the part of the workers. He closed with a word of warning. He thought the unions should be careful and exclude the dishonest, the idle and the incompetent. When the labor societies were in such a perfect state of organization that the ticket of membership of any union was a badge of competency, the individual would get the highest wages and the public respect would be won. For it would be recognized that the laborer was not merely a benefit to his members, but to the nation at large. (Loud applause).

The secretary remarked the progress of unionism in Regina, and said that the great strides which had been made in the last two years should be an incentive to further effort. His stirring speech was very favorably received.

After cheers for the Mayor, the Government and the Moose Jaw contingent the company parted for lunch.

Races and Other Competitions. The racing was entered into with zest, notwithstanding the heat of the afternoon and the programme proved to be a good drawing card, as the attendance of about 1,500 included 1,200 who paid for admission, and a very large number of spectators. Arrangements, which, in spite of a strong disposition on the part of the crowd to break bounds, appeared to be fairly effective, were supervised by a number of Labor Day officials. The sub-committee at that moment when Mr. Deans and Mr. McClure were discussing the matter that the bridge collapsed. Had it held out for twenty-four hours later the awful disaster or at least the terrible loss of life might have been avoided.

New York dispatch quotes Mr. Cooper as saying that he had a message from Engineer Hoare, saying that an examination had shown that the piers were in good condition and that the fault lay in the superstructure. Mr. Hoare reported that the entire construction had collapsed vertically, and that made, in Mr. Cooper's opinion, appear as if the fault lay near the main post. Mr. Cooper declined to say specifically what his inspector had reported to him, and that report did not cause him to believe that there was any imminent danger. It only created the impression in his mind that it would be well before proceeding further.

The officials of the Phoenixville company say that Mr. Cooper's telegram did not appear to call for immediate action, and that anyway it was too late to order the men off the bridge, for it would have been impossible owing to the delay due to the telegrapher's strike to get a message to Quebec before the men had quit work for the day.

Indian Victims Buried. MONTREAL, Sept. 2.—The funeral of eight of the Caughnawaga Indians who perished in the Quebec bridge disaster took place this afternoon. Archbishop Bruchesi attended, as well as a large number of priests including Father Forbes. He translated the remarks of the Archbishop into Innuits. All the deceased were buried in one grave in a Canadian cemetery. Forty-four children have been rendered orphans.

MONTREAL, Sept. 2.—The first lioner to pass up the river since the bridge disaster was the Allan lioner Tunisian, arriving last night. Captain Braes found the ship damaged perfectly salvageable. The funerals of several of the victims took place at St. Romuald and Quebec today. The occasion was very affecting. Several engineers have arrived at Quebec from different parts of Canada and the United States and a searching investigation will be conducted by the government board. There is little doubt that the bridge company will proceed at once with the completion of the bridge.

BRIDGE DISASTER; STRANGE EVIDENCE. ENGINEER SENT TELEGRAM ORDERING WORKMEN OFF—WAS NOT RECEIVED. MONTREAL, Sept. 2.—Sensational developments in connection with the Quebec bridge disaster, in the telegram that Theodore Cooper of New York, who is the consulting engineer of the bridge, announced that he had sent, ordering the workmen off the bridge. Last night the Hon. S. N. Parent, president of the Bridge company, made a statement that no such telegram had been received and that Mr. Cooper had never sent such a message. In this Mr. Parent was in error. As a matter of fact, Mr. Cooper did send this telegram, but it was to the chief engineer of the Phoenix company at Phoenixville, Pa., and not to the engineer in charge at the bridge as it was taken, for granted it had been. The telegram was sent on Thursday and practically read "Do not come to work on the Quebec bridge at present; better look into it at once." This message reached Phoenixville on Thursday afternoon. John S. Deans, the company's chief engineer was out and the telegram remained on his desk until five o'clock when he returned. A few minutes later N. R. McClure, the engineer who made the inspection of the bridge for Mr. Cooper, and upon whose report the telegram was sent by Mr. Cooper was based, arrived at Mr. Deans's office with full information as to the meaning of the telegram. Strangely enough, it was
