CUTICURA CURES IN TWO WEEKS AT COST OF 75c.

"I feel it my duty to parents of other poor suffering babies to bell you what Cuticura has done for my little daughter. She broke out all over her body with a humor, and we used everything recommended, but without results. I called in three doctors, they all claimed they could help her, but she continued to grow worse. Her body was a mass of sores, and her little face was being eaten away. Her ears looked as if they would drop off. Neighbors advised me to get Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and before I had used half of the cake of Soap and box of Ointment the sores had all healed, and my little one's face and body were as clear as a new-born babe's. I would not be without it again if it cost us to cure our baby, after spending many dollars on doctors and medicines without any benefit whatever. Mrs. George J. LACROSSE IN AUSTRALIA.

The Adelaide Advertiser in a recent

The Adelaide Advertiser in a recent issue, says:

The Canadian lacrosse team sailed for Western Australia on Saturday after the third test match on the Adelaide oval. For some reasons it is just as well they are gone, for if there remained further contests to be fought here the arcoedingly bad temper manifested on Saturday might have developed into bitter feeling, and if in the meantime the peacemaker had not intervened the public would have attended the next match in expectation of seeing a series of fights instead of an interesting international contest on the lacrosse field. The Canadians are assustomed to a rough style of play, but some of them in the field on Saturday behaved with inexcasable brushity.

Unpleasant Incidents,
A number of unpleasant incidents happened during the game for which the oversea team were responsible. During the first quarter Camplin was punished by being ordered off the ground for five minutes for a most deliberate break of the rules hitting an opponent on the head with his lacrosse. Immediately after Camplin left the ground, Grace, another Camadian, caught the ball and threw it right amongst the crowd in the southern stand, as if to manifest his disagreement with the decision of the referee, Mr. R. W. Sellars, in penalizing Camplin. It is evident that rough play is a feature of Canadian lacrosse, for the members of the team all wear padded caps, padded jerseys, and gloves, but in Australia followers of the pastime find it possible to enjoy the game without introducing such roughness, as to necessitate padding for protection.

The Unruly Canadian.
In the second half Camplin again distinguished himself by coming into sollision with Kell, and the latter had to defend himself sections the unruly with the control of the control costinguished himself by coming into collision with Kell, and the latter had to defend himself against the unruly Canadian. Still later Camplin gave a display which ended in his disqualification for the remainder of the match, and unfortunately Noblett was involved, so that he had to pay the same penalty. The Canadian purposely pushed his lacroses against the jaw of Humphris, and Noblett, who was close by remonstrated with him, saying. "Play the game, Gamplin; none of that. Camplin replied. "I'll hit you, tos," and he did so. In the circumstances Noblett could not be blamed for retalisting, and in a few seconds the two players, locked in each other's arms, fell to the ground. The umpire whistled "cease play," the players crowded round the fighters, and two troopers cantered up to the spot, but the services of the mounted men were not required, as Camplin and Noblett were separated. The referee immediately ordered the men off the field, and they retired to their dressing-reoms.

Not Work of Gentlemen.

Not Work of Gentlemen.

These were the only incidents which the public were aware of, but the Australians made no secret of threats which were made during the play by members of the Canadian team and the unfair way in which W. Hanley obstructed Humphris when there was not the slightest occasion to do so was enough to provoke strong action on the part of Humphris, who however, bore the annoyance bravely. Other Australians were subjected to similar treatment, but they did not lose their temper. It is hard to reconcile the rough play of some of the Canadians with the behavior of gentlemen. To their credit it can be said that some of them played the game. Others forgot the game and played "the man" or "the fool" as a great many of the onlookers remarked. Not Work of Gentlemen.

Ralsuli Threatens to Retaliate For French Interference

Tangier, Oct. 22.—The first conflict between the forces of the rival Sultans, Abd-el-Aziz and Mulai Hafid, between the forces of the rival Sultans, Abd-el-Aziz and Mulai Hafid, occurred Oct. 17 near Hettat, between Shawla and Mequinez, according to reliable reports received here from Mazagan with the result that a detachment of troops fighting with Mulai Hafid, the Sultan of the South, and consisting of eight regiments under Mulai Rachid and known as the first division, defeated the forces of Abd-el-Aziz, the Sultan of the North, and captured Kaid Bushta Bagdani, the commander-in-chief of all Abd-el-Aziz's forces in the field, who had with him eight pieces of modern field artillery. The favorable effect of this yictory to the standing of Mulai Hafid is incalculable.

During the night of Oct. 17 some of Mulai Hafid's men made a third raid on the custom house at Mazagan and seized 100,000 cartridges, and on the following night they made a fourth raid on the same place and captured 300,000 more cartridges.

The first division of the Imperial troops, consisting of 800 men, destined for Mogador, arrived at Tangler yesterday. Communication with Mogador is interrupted.

Some of Raisuli's followers have deserted him and come to Tangler. The native report of the occurrence gives as a reason for the desertion that Raisuli in retaliation for the French interference in the steps taken to secure the release of Kaid Sir Harry MacLean, "intends to kill MacLean by inches."

Stander Suit Failed.

Orangeville, Oct. 22.—The Assizes opened yesterday afternoon, with Justice Magee presiding. As there were no criminal cases on the docket, the judge was presented with the customary pair of white gloves.

The civil suit of John A. White and his wife, against John Lusty, farmer, of Melancthon, for alleged slander, was heard by a jury. Mrs. White, who is not 20 years of age, was at one time housekeeper for Lusty during his wife's illness, and it was alleged he had accused her of theft of some quitts at the time of her marriage. The jury, after being out half an hour, gave a verdict for the defendant. W. H. Wright of Owen Sound was counsel for plaintiffs, and G. H. Wetson, K. C., and G. M. Vance of Shelburne for the defendant.

The British Sailors' Society's annual report refers appreciatively to Lord Strathcona's gift of £10,000 towards offering to every school in Canada a Nelson shield made from the copper of Nelson's flagship. Earl Grey and the Duke of Argyll wrote, expressing hearty approval of the object.

Must Not Chew Gum. Must Net Chew Gum.

Ottawa, Oct. 22.—The chewing gum habit was handled without gloves Sunday night by Rev. G. I. Campbell in a stirrinf sermon in Bell street Methodist Church. The habit was declared by the preacher to be almost as great an evil as the tobacco habit. In some respects it was worse, for while the tobacco-user could indulge his appetite only in certain places, the gumchewer was omnipresent, being seen even in the house of God.

Train Wrecked Bridge. Toronto, Oct. 22.—A peculiar accident occurred on the Grand Trunk tracks at Lorne Park yesterday morning. An overhead bridge crosses the track at this point and when a C.P.R. treight train was passing some badly loaded iron pipes on a car caught the centre abutment and totally wrecked the bridge.

The Vote That Beat Him When He Ran For Congress.

AMERICA'S GREATEST JURIST

The Famous Chief Justice Was a Great Lawyer With a Short Political Career — Washington's Snub and Subsequent Frank Apology.

Judge Marshall was not only a great lawyer, but he was a fighter and militant to the last degree. Some insight into his character may be gained from his letters, one of which, dated March 27, 1794, is in the possession of his granddaughters. It was addressed to Archibald Shuart, a lawyer of Statuston, Va., and a friend of Marshall. The second was with England, which did not actively begin until 1812, was already brewing, and it was no small tribute to Marshall's prescience that he was able to detect trouble so far in advance.

"Seriously," he wrote, "there appears to me every day to be more folly, envy, malice and damned rascality in the world than there was the day before, and I do verily begin to think that plain, downright honesty and unintriguing integrity will be kicked out of doors. We fear and not without reason a war. The man does not live who wishes for peace more than I do, but the outrages committed without reason a war. The man does not live who wishes for peace more than I do, but the outrages committed upon us are beyond human bearing."

The chief justice, like General Washington, was an aristocrat by birth and breeding, and he kept a retinue of colored servants, who were housed in a long, rectangular brick building, which is still standing at the rear of the Marshall home. Jim Actor was a character, but his position with the Marshall family was eclipsed by that of Robin Spudlock, the chief justice's body servant, who wore livery and long, fine stockings of brilliant color and traveled around with his master. His appearance was so unique that once in Philadelphia when he was walking alone with an air of considera-ble importance a mob gathered and threatened him with violence, as a black and liveried valet was quite unusual in those parts. No more faithful body servant ever lived, however, and the chief justice included in his will a bequest for his trusty valet, who was to have a room in the servants' build-ing on Marshall street all his life and a woman to wait on him when he should become old and feeble.

Once John Marshall was induced to undertake a political career, and it proved the most bitter experience of his life. In 1798, the year before Gen-eral Washington died, he summoned Marshall to Mount Vernon. Washing-ton knew Marshall net only as a man of wonderful ability, but also as a Federalist in politics. Washington was anxious to strengthen the Federalist party in congress, and his purpose in inviting Marshall to Mount Vernon was inviting Marshall to Mount Vernon was to ask him to run for the house of representatives as the Federalist candidate from the Richmond district. Marshall was opposed to the idea, and they argued the proposition antil late at night without either bending his strong will to the other. At last Washington with conviderable heat abrund ington, with considerable heat, abrupt-ly bade Marshall good night. At sun-rise the next morning Marshall arose, rise the next morning Marshall arose, intending to make his way to the Mount Vérnon stables and ride off, trusting to time to heal the breach. Out in the gardens he met General Washington, who had divined his purpose. The general begged his pardon for treating him so abruptly the night before and smilingly asked him what he was going to do.

"Do?" said Marshall. "Why, sir, I'm

He returned to Richmond and began his canvass. The Republicans (now the Democrats) nominated John Clopgoing to congress."

He returned to Richmond and began ton on a state rights platform. In those days the formality of voting was quite different from the latter day proeedure. A citizen would walk up to the election sheriff in full view and hearing of everybody, shake hands with him and say: "I vote for John Marshall" or "I vote

"I vote for John Marshall" or "I vote for John Clopton," as the case might be. There were two persons in Richmond in whom the people had great confidence. They were Parson Blair and Parson Buchanan. Neither had been in the habit of voting or taking any part in politics, but Parson Blair, who was a stanch friend of Marshall, persuaded Parson Buchanan to go to the polis with him, assuming, as a matter of course, that his fellow parson agreed with him, as to choice of candidates. Parson Blair cast his vote for Marshall. Then Parson Buchanan stepped up, saluted the sheriff and said:
"I vote for John Clopton."

"I vote for John Clopton."

There was a numerous family here then whose surname was Enroughty. Just as Parson Buchanan pronounced Clopton his choice a large delegation of the Enroughtys put in their appearance.

"What is good for the parson is good for us," they declared, and all of them voted for Clopton. This elected Clopton and defeated Marshall. The two parsons were never very good friends after that.

A Knocker That Meant Life.
So cruel were some of the punishments meted out to criminals in England centuries ago that it was small wonder the poor wretches claimed the "right of sanctuary." If they reached a church or some other privileged place the law could not touch them. A curious relic in connection with this custom exists today in the form of the quaint knocker on the door of Durham cathedral. The applicant having hammered at the portal, one of the priests inside would inspect him through the eyes of the copper mask above the knocker and after due parkey would admit the frightened criminal. Public Life In Canada.

Dr. Theodore Barth, who has been touring Canada and the United States during the past six months, and has recently returned to Berlin, in summing up his impressions of public life in Canada, says he has been most struck by its obviously live character. That there existed corruption he supposed nobody would be likely to deny, but it is not the corruption of decay or stagnation. Amongst the personalities in Canada, Dr. Barth appears to have been most impressed by Sir Wiltrid Laurier, whose acquaintance he made and whom he describes as "a whole man."

CHURCH THIEF CONFESSES.

Limoges, France, Oct. 22.—Antoine Thomas, the Frenchman who conducted the series of thefts of religious works of art from churches in France, the discovery of which a foringht ago aroused such astonishment throughout this country, has written a letter to the judge by whom he will be examined to-day, detailing the extent of his thefts, disclosing the extent of his accomplices furnishing dates, and indicating witnesses. He tells the magistrate also that he threw a Eucharistic dove, one of the missing treasures, into the River Seine, near the Font des Arts, the day before he surrendered.

The examining magistrate has received from London a package from an unknown sender, containing the statue stolen from the church at Sauvetat. Thomas has declared that he received a commission of $500 for this statue, which subsequently was said to have been sold in the United States by a Paris dealer.
