When It Snows.

Then the ground is thickly covered With a carpeting of snow, is then the frisky urchin Seeks, the place where considers go oon its side the's defity guiding Down the steep and glastening trand the fun is compensating.

For the toil of hauling back. When the roads are fit for sleighing it is then the charming girl a most plainly intimating. That she'd like to take a whirl in a natty little cutter. She goes gliding o'er the snow, the enjoys it, never caring. What the outing costs her beau,

When around the home suburban Snow is lying inches deep, And the wifey is declaring That a path she campot sweep, It is then the wearled hubby, Trying hard to hide his wrath, Flercely struggies with the shovel Till at last he clears a path.

When it snows the city dweller Suffers humbly of his pride As he ventures on a sidewalk Where the kids have made a slide Wildly at the air he clutches, Then upon the snow he sprawls, And there's chuckling mong the Who are seeing fun in falls.

There's a mixture of emotions
When there comes a fall of snow;
Some are in it finding pleasure,
Some denounce it to their wee.
But there's only one opinion
When the snow goes with a rush,
For they're all alike disgusted,
As they wad through grimy slush,

The Slippery Pronoun,

The Slippery Pronoun.

Many are the circumlocutions which have been devised by civilized races in order to avoid the bluntness of direct address. In fact, it may be said that at the moment when a nation standardizes its language it begins to have trouble with its pronouns.

"Thou" has, of course, became obsolete, except in prayer, although it flourishes colloquially in the North of England. The second person plural is substituted. In parts of the south "you-all" is heard, a further step toward refined elusiveness.

In France and Germany "thou" has been retained in familiar or semi-contemptuous speech. In Spain and Italy, on the other hand, the third person is substituted habitually in place of it.— Harper's Weekly.

A GOOD TIME AT THE CENTRAL Y. M. C. A.

Y. M. C. A.

To the Editor of the Times:
Sir.—The Young Men's Christian Association will hold a closing reception on Friday evening, 29th inst. It is expected that about 500 ladies and gentlemen and other good citizens will be present, and the building will be en fete for the occasion. Various booths, gaily decorated, will be provided, where homemade candy, ice cream, flowers, fruit, lemonade, etc., will be sold.

A limelight entertainment will be given in the public hall upstairs, and the young men will perform some of their best exercises in the gymnasium. Music will be provided by a first-class orchestra at frequent intervals during the evening, and everybody expects to have

Sale of Pineapples.

To-morrow is pineapples as in the Stanley Mills grootery section.

This firm has sold more pineapples this season than ever before, and have sold only the very finest grades obtainable.

Pineapples are at their best for preserving now, and Stanley Mills & Co, have purchased a big quantity to sell at special prices to-morrow. This will undoubtedly be the largest and most important pineapple event of the season, and housekeepers should take advantage of the offerings and buy liberally.

Two lots will be on sale Large, choice full, ripe, juicy fruit. One lot at $1.39 dozen, the other lot, in larger size, at $1.89 dozen.

$1.89 dozen.

The best granulated sugar will be offered during the day only at 19 lbs. for $1.00. Shop early and secure the best choice of the pines.
