Why should I buy a roofing that needs to be painted every little while to keep it tight, when for the same money or less, I can buy AMATITE which needs no painting?

The outer surface is composed of real mineral matter, which makes painting unnecessary.

With an Amatite Roof on your building you end your roofing troubles. When you buy a roofing that requires frequent painting you begin them.

Smooth roofings that require painting are a nuisance and an expense. When you buy them, you buy trouble—not protection.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By MUTE CAMERON

To plan your life instead of letting everything just happen; to row your existence with your eye firmly fixed on some definite goal, instead of just drifting it is wise.

But to keep your plans to yourself is a pity; you are very nearly ready to execute them; not to do too much talking about that definite goal is, to say the least,—expedient.

A young girl in our neighbourhood bought an automobile recently. Most of her friends were vastly surprised.

Why? Because Elaine had never mentioned her intention of owning a machine. Quite to the contrary.

Because she had mentioned it so often and talked about it for so long a time that we had quite gotten over expecting her to really do it.

There are people who can't conceive a plan without being fired with an uncontrollable desire to communicate it to the public.

The houses they are going to build, the trips they are going to take, the courses of study they are going to pursue, the wonderful things they are going to buy, form the chief topics of their conversation. And then—well everybody knows the classic little boy who cried "wolf, wolf" when there was no wolf, and what happened when the wolf really came.

Someday when by some strange chance, our friend of the much pressed plans does build the house or go abroad, or buy the horse or take a course in botany, we can scarcely believe that the thing has actually been done.

Some day when by some strange chance, our friend of the much pressed plans does build the house or go abroad, or buy the horse or take a course in botany, we can scarcely believe that the thing has actually been done.

Let your acts speak their own prologues and write their own introductions and you will find yourself with a much more attentive audience than words will ever bring you.

What Ails You?

Do you feel weak, tired, despondent, have frequent headaches, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in morning, "heart-burn," belching of gas, acid rising in throat after eating, stomach distress or burn, food not assimilated, poor or variable appetite, nausea at times and kindred symptoms?

If you have any considerable number of the above symptoms you are suffering from biliousness, torpid liver with indigestion, or dyspepsia. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made up of the most valuable medicinal principles known to medical science for the permanent cure of such abnormal conditions. It is a most efficient liver invigorator, stomach tonic, bowel regulator and nerve strengthener.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is not a patent medicine or secret nostrum, a full list of its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. A glass of these will show that it contains no alcohol, or harmful habit-forming drugs. It is a fluid extract made with pure, triple-refined glycerine, of proper strength, from the roots of native American medicinal forest plants. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Frapp., Buffalo, N. Y.

Household Notes.

Never leave medicines, drink or food uncovered in the sick room.

A drop of kerosene on the hinge of a door will stop its squeaking.

To cover the pan in which fish is cooking will make the fish soft.

Never let a stiff sock in order to clean it. Use a comb nail brush.

Oxalic acid and javelle water are excellent for removing ink stains.

A clam shell placed inside the kettle will prevent the formation of lime.

Green window shades should provide darkness for baby's daytime naps.

Embroideries and colored garments should be ironed on the wrong side.

Clean tiles with soap and whiting, rubbed on with a piece of flannel.

One of the very best health guards is the drinking of a great deal of water.

Large red apples, when served whole upon the table, are polished with olive oil.

Odd bits of soap, when gathered up and boiled, make a splendid shampoo jelly.

To revive dying plants, pour a desiccationful of castor oil about the roots.

Marble should be washed with ammonia and water rather than soap and water.

Take the pile out of the pan as soon as it is done to prevent the crust from being soggy.

Before gliding your slippers again put them on shoe trees and rub in a little banana oil.

A few drops of rose water added to almonds will prevent their oiling when chopped.

When cleaning silver use gin with the whiting instead of water. It will give a brighter polish.

To decorate a luncheon table no flowers may be used with more charming effect than the pansy.

A cold-boiled potato may be used as a paste substitute for fastening back bits of torn wall paper.

In making a cake grease the tin with sweet lard rather than butter, sift a little dry flour over it.

When making a steamed or boiled pudding, place it in the cloth at the top to allow the pudding to swell.

When heating eggs observe that there is no grease on the whisk, as it will prevent the eggs from frothing.

The soft brushes used for polishing hardwood floors may be washed most thoroughly by the use of kerosene.

A glazier's knife will be found an excellent thing with which to scrape and clean the bottoms of tins and kettles.

A teaspoonful of lemon juice to a quart of water will make rice very white and keep the grains separate when boiling.

To cool an oven while baking, never leave the door open, but cool it by the drafts, or removing one of the plates over the oven.

The best way to rest is to lie down, relax every muscle, lie as limp as a rag, and banish from the mind all thought of work or care.

Beattie Found Guilty of Murder.

Chesterfield Court House, Va., Sept. 8.—Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., to-night was found guilty of murder in the first degree. The jury had been out 55 minutes when it came into court with a verdict of guilty. No degree of guilt was specified, however, and Judge Watson directed that the jury return to consider that matter.

It seemed but a minute or two that the jury was gone.

When they reentered the foreman announced that the jury held Beattie to be guilty of first degree murder in putting his wife to death on the night of July 18 last. The penalty is electrocution.

Under the Virginia law, every murder is presumed to be murder in the second degree unless otherwise specified, and it is incumbent upon the defence to reduce it to manslaughter.

The prisoner stood rigidly at the bar as he heard the verdict, his face flushed and his cheeks twitching nervously. When he heard the conviction he sank into his chair and held his head into his hands.

For several minutes he did not speak and his father beside him also covered his face with his hands. The foreman's announcement rang out in the quiet court room, the other eleven jurymen simultaneously fairly shouting "guilty."

Counsel for the defence moved to set aside the verdict on the grounds of being contrary to the law and evidence, and of misdirection by the court, and because of various rulings on the evidence objected to by the defence. The court overruled the motion for a new trial. Judge Watson stated that the trial consisted almost entirely of questions of law entered materially into the decision of the jury.

The defence asked for ninety days to file a petition for a writ of error to the Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia. Attorney Wendenburg, for the State asked that the defence be restricted to within a few days of the meeting of the Supreme Court in November. Judge Watson decided that in view of the fact that there had been little delay in the actual trial of the case the request of counsel for the State was reasonable, and granted a stay of execution for ninety days.

Judge Watson sentenced Beattie to be electrocuted at Richmond on November 24.

Asked if he had anything to say why he should not be sentenced, the prisoner replied: "I have nothing to say."

To friends Beattie said: "I have not just yet."

Uncle Walt THE POET PHILOSOPHER.

Old Wax and I lived side by side and never had a row, until one day he lammed the hide of my old brindle cow. He said she ate a suit of clothes that hung upon his line, and so I luffed him on the nose and he GOING soaked me on mine. We owned our homes, were out of debt, TO LAW had money in the bank, that day he lammed my brindle pet, and I gave him a spank. While we stood around and cursed and wagged the fluent jaw, until, surcharged with deep disgust, we turned and went to law. Oh, that was bum and beastly sport! Our lawyers, smooth and deft, conveyed the case from court to court, and taxed us right and left. Now at the poor-farm Wax and I put in our fading years; I lean on him and leave a sigh and he bursts into tears. Sometimes we ramble up the road, where once we did our bit; a lawyer lives in my abode, another lives in his. Then to the pothouse back we go and seek our couch of straw, and think of joys we used to know before we went to law.
