Within Sound

of Bow Bells

To be a real cockney it is essential to have been born within the sound of Bow Bells. An interesting account of The Disarmament Council of the given among the gossiping history Catholic Memories," by Canon Edwin

The apprentice boys of Cheapside wore a distinctive dress, consisting of white broadcloth breeches and stockings, with a blue cloak in summer and a blue gown in winter.

The old church of St. Mary-le-Boy Twenty men, entombed early to-day had its vicissitudes. No sooner was bert, who fortified and provisioned it for a siege, and who was only dislodged when the steeple had been set on fire. In 1271 the steeple crashed into Cheapside, killing many people. When it was rebuilt it contained five "lanthorns," in which lights were burned at night to serve as a guide to travellers approaching the city.

Among other interesting traditions recalled by Canon Burton is that of Ben Johnson in early life working as a bricklayer on Lincoln's Inn Gateway, "when having a trowel in one hand he had a book in his pocket." The part of Cornhill which westwards from Birchin Lane was occupied by dealers in old apparel and second-hand household stuff. They were known as "fripperers," and occasionally dealt in stolen property, a fact recorded in John Lydgate's lampoon:

Then into Corn-Hyl anon I rode, Where was mutch stolen gere amonge. I saw where honge myne owne hoode That I had lost amonge the thronge.

Going through Cannon Street, then called Canwick Street, he was pursued by dealers of every sort:

Drapers much cloth offered anon, Then comes me one cried: "Hot sheep's feet!" One cried "Mackerel!" "Rushes green!" another gan greet.

From the extracts given it will be apparent that Canon Burton's book has plenty of matter for the general reader, apart from the undoubted interest of his main theme recording old

Del Fontaine, of Winnipeg, middleweight knocked out Maurice Farley, of Quebec, in the second round of a our-round preliminary bout.
