A Great Surprise. The news of Mr. Bennett's resignation will come as a surprise to the theatregoing public of the various Canadian cities and towns where his name has become almost a household by word, and also to the theatrical profession the world over, among whom he is well known, and to Londoners in particular on account of his popularity

Mr. Bennett was seen by The Ad vertiser in his office in the Bank Toronto chambers, and upon being asked regarding the cause of his move stated that it was a personal matter involving a business move, and that he had plans of his own in which the public would not be interested, and these being private, he did not wish
