There was a long session of the council last night, but the debates were rather tame, a number of important questions being decided without much discussion.

The recommendation of No. 2 committee, that a bylaw be submitted to set aside $39,000 for a bridge over the Thames in West London, was sent back for further consideration. This means it will not be submitted to the ratepayers this year, as it will be impossible to give it sufficient advertising to comply with the law. The reason for its being sent back was the fact that definite information could

Ald. Rose objected to the bylaws regarding the retiring of Building Inspector Graydon, and they were laid over. Ald. Richter declared that this action would do no good, as the passing of the bylaws was a mere formality.

A number of bylaws were given their readings, including the one for fixed assessment, and one creating nine new polling sub-divisions.

Those present were Mayor Beattie, Ald. Richter, Eckert, Underwood, Stevenson, Ashplant, Jeffries, Fitzgerald, Rose, Morgan, Pocock and Tancock, and City Clerk Baker.

Ald. Rose objected to this, saying the authority one declared Ald. Richter, and the political prejudice of the House of Lords, and the noticeable claim of six hundred aristocommittee to look after this work.

"I move that the whole council be on the committee," declared Ald. Richter, Eckert, Underwood, Stevenson, Ashplant, Jeffries, Fitzgerald, Rose, Morgan, Pocock and Tancock, and City Clerk Baker.
