A BRILLIANT DISPLAY.

nd Hall-One of Yonge Street's Hand There is a keen rivalry just now between King and Yonge streets as to which makes the best display of handsome stores. Prominent among the latter is Diamond Hall, No. 148 Younge street, into which Mr. James Venn, jeweler, has recently removed. Mr. Venn formerly carried on business next door, and finding that his trade required increased accommodation, the present build-ing was erected epecially for him, the in-terior of the store being fitted out under his derior of the store being fitted out under his directiors. The show-case behind the counter, used for displaying the electroplate, reaches nearly the length of the store, and is a most artistic piece of workmanship. It is made of chestnut, faced with walnut, with a large mirror in the centre extending nearly to the floor. Along the upper portion of the case are four ruby panes on which are cut the names of the different compartments, and between these are three rows of fancy tile work, on these are three rows of fancy tile work, on which are paintings illustrating scenes from Shakespeare's plays. This tile work, which is a rarety in Canada, was imported direct from Minton's china works at Stoke-on-Trent. The counter is made of the same material as the show case, with a file fitting into each panel. The counter cases which contain a dazzling display of jewelery, are made of a superior style of plate glass surrounded by delicately finished beads or mouldings of polished ebonized wood, braced with silver at each corner and braced with silver at each corner and braced with silver at each corner and side. same material as the show case, with a tile wood, braced with silver at each corner and side. Facing the counter, and surmounted by another large mirror, is an elegantly finished clock shelf of the same material as the counter, and so arranged as to contain a large assortment of clocks without occupying too much space. A handsome screen made of chestnut, oil finished, divides the store from the workshop, and in the door is a large window of shop, and in the door is a large window of tinted glass in the centre of which is the proprietors monogram, while along the top are the words, "Diamond Hall." The inare the words, "Diamond Hall." The inside window is divided off by three pains of frosted glass. On the upper part of each pane are ornamental designs, wheel cut, and representing necklets, pendants and other jewelery, elegantly designed pieces and two large enhances the appearance of this handsome enhance the appearance of this handsome

A handsome store, however, goes for nothing unless the stock is in keeping; and acting on this principle, Mr. Venn upon entering his new premises, seld out the greater part of his old stock, and expended a large sum in purchasing the best and most novel designs of jewelery and electro-plate, until he had perhaps the finest stock in the city. By importing direct and paying cash he is enabled to offer his customers the benefit of a heavy discount. In the workshop all the manufacturing and repairing is done by skilled workmen under the supervision of Mr. Venn.

LEAGUE OFFICERS ELECTED.

The Chicago national base ball league yesterday decided on uniforms for the various clubs. W. A. Hurlbert was reelected president. Josiah Jewett, Buffalo, Wm. G. Thompson, Detroit, A. L. Prize-fighting in England is not such a "great crime" as people imagine. The result-of the trial of Ainold and others for being concerned in the manslaughter of Plant may be regarded as fairly satisfactory. Six months for Arnold, and from one to three months each for the others, according to rank, cannot be considered exceptionally harsh treatment of men who had been more or less actively engaged in a fight which ended fatally.

GYMNASTIC EXHIBITION.

About three hundred persons assembled at the Toronto gymnasium last nightto witness a complimentary entertainment by the managers and their pupils. The program consisted of feats on the parallel program consisted of feats on the parallel and horizontal bars, club swinging, high leaping and kicking, &c. W. G. Hurst and F. C. Hurst distinguished themselves by their daring acts on the trapeze. These young men together with Geo. Dawson, Wm. Peacock, J. McCutcheon and A. Pelow, exaibited great skill and strength in their many acts on the parallel and horizontal bars, tumbling, &c. The grace and skilful manner in which C. Bennetto swung the the Indian clubs was very creditable for an amateur. Messrs. Johnston and Macdonald wound up the performance by giving a grand exhibition on the bars, and also showed themselves to advantage in vaulting, high leaping and kicking. The managers intend these performances to take place monthy, until the close of the season. The terms for the gymnasium are reasonable.
