NOVA SCOTIA PROSPECTS.

(The London Standard.)

The Agent-General for Nova Scotia informs us that the reports from that Province continue to be of a most satisfactory nature, and indicate prolonged prosperity.

There are numerous openings for farmers, fruit growers, and men used to an agricultural life. Improved farms with comfortable houses may be acquired on easy terms. The local markets for all kinds of farm produce are strong, and remunerative prices are obtained. With its healthy and bracing climate, beautiful scenery, accessibility from this country, and home-like social conditions, Nova Scotia offers advantages to the man wishing to establish a home "over-seas" which are not surpassed by any of our Colonies.

In this connection it may not be inopportune to quote the words of Earl Grey, Governor-General of Canada, during his visit to Nova Scotia last year: "It is with great regret that I leave the shores of your beautiful Province. The prosperous and comfortable homesteads, the soft and refreshing air, the evidence of general well-being, and the absence of any sign of hardship or poverty caused me to realize more vividly than I had ever had occasion to realize before how great are the privileges enjoyed by the people of Nova Scotia, and what desirable attractions your Province offers to those who, coming from across the seas, seek to create a new home under the free and happy flag of Britain on this side of the Atlantic."

THE CITIZEN'S DUTY. (Toronto Globe.) Every citizen is bound by the very fact of his citizenship to take an active and intelligent part in the politics of his country. Politics is the science and the art of government. In Canada government is founded upon the opinions and convictions and ideals of the people—"based upon the people's will." The opinions of the people in a democratic country find representation and expression in public men and public institutions. If the Parliament of Canada, or the Legislature of any of the Provinces does not reflect public opinion on any great issue in public life it is because the people, and especially the informed and representative people, have not done their duty as citizens in relation to the controversies and conflicts of the political campaign.

There are few things more discouraging or more threatening to the public good than the disregard of their political duties on the part of a very large number of intelligent and influential citizens. College-bred men of power and effectiveness in business or the professions, and many other men who by force have made their merits known in other walks of life, not only repudiate their own political obligations as citizens but scoff at those of their fellows who sacrifice time and comfort and personal interest in the seemingly vain endeavor of redeeming politics from the curse of corruption and graft. The day is coming when men of that ilk will be known for the snobs they are, and when in the just estimates of public opinion their affectation of superiority will be held as ignorant selfishness and as treason to the State.

The man who is always making excuses for mistakes may not get the opportunity to do the right thing next time. Don't drift on the tide. Paddle your own canoe. If you drift, you will presently get saying the river has ceased to flow.

Crusade Against Profanity

A correspondent writes to the Montreal Star as follows:—

Sir,—Being lately with a certain class of workmen, I had occasion to hear their conversation, and in some cases it seemed as though every fourth or fifth word were an oath, or a profane use of the name of God or of Jesus Christ. Unfortunately this habit is not confined to the class of workmen referred to, but is common with others. Cannot something be done to abate this vice of unclean language? I do not advise legislative action, but the ministers of religion and their congregation might take the matter up, and speak against it. It might even be well to form a "clean language league," especially to combat this evil. Do not suggest that Canadians, as a whole, are addicted to this bad habit, for I believe they are not; nor do I say that Canada is worse than other countries, for probably the habit is even more common in the States, but apart from that, I would appeal to all right minded people to oppose such amount of this vice as exists among us.

(St. Louis Post Dispatch) Section 1538, municipal code, prohibits profanity and obscenity in public places where women might be shocked. Such offence is classed as a misdemeanor and is punishable by a fine of not less than $5 nor more than $50.

Undesirable language is to be "kidded" by the police Chief Creecy Tuesday called attention of the district commanders to a recent order issued from headquarters and practically told the captains that the order was not issued in a spirit of jest. Profanity in public, the chief says, must go as did the Sunday saloon.

"The reckless use of profanity in public is, in my estimation, the worst form of peace disturbance," said Chief Creecy. "It is becoming quite a fad for men to voice their simplest thoughts in the vilest of language."

"Many of them are getting so that they cannot talk without using profanity. Women are continually subjected to nervous shocks by the indiscriminate use of "cuss" words, and it's about time to put a stop to it."

Judge William Jefferson Pollard, of the Dayton street police court, said:

"I always find defendants brought before me for swearing in street cars when the evidence shows them guilty. There is no excuse for using Billingsgate or profanity in a public conveyance. It is as much an assault on the ears of passengers as a blow would be."

UNWISE LEADERSHIP.

After a struggle which involved them in much hardship and loss of wages, the men employed in the shipbuilding trade have accepted the employers' terms and returned to work. The strike was a failure. In Montreal the bricklayers' strike has been broken. The Springfield mines dispute has been decided against the men, by the board of conciliation. It is clear that labor organizations suffer much from unwise leadership.

HOME COMING OF NOVA SCOTIANS.

Anyone watching the incoming trains at Truro, says an exchange, these days must be struck by the appearance of the passengers and at the crowds of them. Young men and women throng the platform when the train from Boston stops.

Who are they? They are Nova Scotians returning from the United States, coming back to their own land, because they have found that hard times across the line are far from pleasant and profitable. They are home to stay—most of them say.

This is a good thing for Nova Scotia, and a good thing for the people themselves. For men and women able and willing to work no country offers better rewards than Nova Scotia, and this province needs the people.

KILLED BY SODA-WATER CYLINDER EXPLODING.

Glouce Bay, May 28.—Mrs. Philip Ein was killed this evening by the explosion of a soda-water cylinder in her husband's shop. The cylinder was leaking and the woman decided to move it against the advice of her mother-in-law, who was leaving the shop. A few minutes after an explosion was heard and people rushing in found the unfortunate woman on the floor with her face literally crushed in. Deceased was a native of New York and twenty-four years old.

Obituary.

MRS. ALICE SHAW. (Berwick Register.) The death occurred on the evening of Monday last, at the home of her son, Rev. H. S. Shaw, of Mrs. Alice Shaw, widow of Deacon William C. Shaw, of Berwick, and daughter of the late Mr. Enoch Parker, formerly of Brooklya Street, Cornwallis. Mrs. Shaw was, before her marriage, a teacher in the public schools of this county. For many years she has been a much respected resident of Berwick and the news of her death will be heard with sorrow by a wide circle of friends. Her removal, following so soon the tragic death of her brother Mr. David A. Parker, of Woodville, will be especially felt by the doubly bereaved brother and sisters, for whom, with the children of the deceased, the most sincere sympathy will be felt.

SIX YEAR OLD SAVES HIS BABY SISTER.

London, May 21.—Hartlepool has a six-year-old hero in Leonard Wolkenberg, the son of the Rev. R. L. Wolkenberg, curate of the parish of Holy Trinity, who has distinguished himself by saving his baby sister Marjorie from being burned to death. Marjorie, aged seventeen months, had been put to bed in the afternoon when Mr. and Mrs. Wolkenberg were out, and Leonard and a servant were downstairs. Hearing the baby cry, the servant ran upstairs, to find the baby's cot on fire and the bedroom full of smoke. She returned downstairs for clothes to put round her head before entering the room, but in the meantime Leonard ran to the bedroom, lifted his little sister from her cot, and carried her safely down stairs. Part of the baby's clothing was burned, but her only injury was a slight burn at the back of the neck. The cot and bed-clothing were destroyed.

ANDREW CAMPS.

Andrew Camps, one of the few colored Grand Army men of this city, says a Lynn paper, passed away Monday morning, at 7:30 o'clock, at the Soldiers' Home, Chelsea, where he had been living since December 26th last, and from which place he was due to return to Lynn next month.

Andrew Camps was born at Bridgetown, N. S., 32 years ago, and lived there a number of years as a farmer. He came to Lynn 56 years ago and entered the stone mason employment. He was a trusted workman for numerous local contracting firms. He enlisted twice during the Civil War. The first time he entered the navy and served about 18 months aboard the Colorado. At the expiration of his enlistment he re-entered his country's service as a member of Co. G, Fifth Cavalry, and served the last 18 months of the war.

He was married to Nancy Harris at his native place and she died two years ago next April. His nearest relative is an adopted daughter, Mrs. Hattie Fowler, of 200 Fayette St. He leaves one niece, Belle Peters, and a nephew, Nathan Camps.

Andrew Camps was one of the oldest surviving members of Gen. Lander Post, Grand Army, having been enrolled on its list for a quarter of a century.
