The question of clothing is another matter upon which a great amount of ignorance is displayed. People think they are warmly clothed when they are wearing leavey outer wraps of cloth, fur, &c., they seem to think the question of underclothing is of littleor on importance. This is another mistake, it is not the the outer but the inner clothing which retains the heat of the body. Flaund should always be worn next the skin from head to foot in winter, it is the best possible one-conductor of heat. It is also absorbent and provents the rapid ovaporation of porspiration which causes a lowering of bodily temperature. A good many people say: "Oh, that is old womens talk, I don't believe in coddling myself up, i never wear flaunch and it doesn't hunt me to go without." Perhaps not, for a time, but there will come a day when you will be doubled up with rhemantism, and then you will not flaunatism, and then you will not shutting the sable doer after the horse is stelon. "An ounce of provention is worth a pound of cure."

I must inform correspondents that time is necessary to get the department in good working order, and owing to the paper going to press early in the week. I cannot promise replies in the issue which follows the date of receiving the letter. Important questions which reach the office not later than Thursday norming will be answered it nessible in the next week's issue, but I cannot guarantee this in all cases.

If it were permitted to a graphic writor to enter into the underground dens of filth uncleanuess and drunken abominations that exist in the large cities of the old and now worlds, what rovelations of crime, murder, lust and inhuman horror his pen could disclose, but these deeds of darkness in their foulest aspect may never be known until the great day of retribution and judgment. In the small provincial towns and cities, where overy nook and cor nor are under the oyo of the public preservors of decency, law and order, the revolting crimes of drunkness and its kindred ovils are mitigated or kept under courte to some extent, but even the foundation of the country of the c

Some years age a worthy and succerc Canadian Catholic statesman, Hon. It.

W. Scott, Q.C., Ll.D., the present Secretary of State, of Canada, conceived and passed through the Dominion parliament, a wise, remedial Act, known popularly as the "Scott Act," its intent and purpose was to regulate and confine the traffic in drink under certain conditions and provisions, which, if duty accepted and applied, would certainly have greatly remedied the crying ovil. But what was the spirit in which the well-conceived law was received and applied. Every toper in the land rose up in arms against it, and the foulest and most iniquitous devices were invented to thwart and defear it.

Its protended corecive features were direussed on every bar-room lounge in the land, and its salutary clauses were set down as so many tyranical fetters to infringe the liberties of the citizen. These old confirmed habitues of the saloud directive want a helping-head ont of their degraded state. Verily, the attempt to reform would appear to be as longoless and fruitless as an effort to purity Scolou and Gonorran. It is for this reason that the Catholic Clurch in the plenitude of her saving power and wisdom, takes an especial care to pour into the poutliful Catholic soul the imporative need and duty of soberity, chastily and purity, and for the same good reason the vonerable Bishops oxtract from the young candidates for the sacred rite of Confirmation, the solerant pledge to obtain at least from all forms of intextenting drinks until they attain the age of 21 years.
