

lentor and son to my wife, and I am now and have been in constant contact with her and my wife, and we are in full agreement in our desire to do away with the present system of taxation on wages and salaries, and to provide for more rapid and substantial increases in the Holiday Fund, so that no employed or unemployed person can be compelled to give up his entitlement to a holiday if he is required to go on long hours overtime or other work which is likely to result in double pay. We are also prepared to take up any use of machinery or equipment which might be of assistance in reducing the cost of production and in making the Holiday Fund available to all citizens.

Proposed O.C.T.

Let both sides of the argument come out in a frank manner. If you are not satisfied with the present system then let us change it. If you are not satisfied with the existing or proposed legislation, let us change it. Let us start from scratch, let us start from the bottom to build a huge, solid, well-constructed building, and let us not put anything in that building which will not stand the test of time. Let us not put anything in that building which will not stand the test of time. Let us not put anything in that building which will not stand the test of time. Let us not put anything in that building which will not stand the test of time. Let us not put anything in that building which will not stand the test of time. Let us not put anything in that building which will not stand the test of time.

What I am trying to do is to open up a new and different ground of discussion, and to bring about that of our own accord, and to bring about that of our own accord, so that to a certain extent you may say that there is no room for compromise, and to a certain extent you may say that there is no room for compromise. But I am not so foolish as to think that there is no room for compromise. There is no room for compromise.
