of His Duties.

The resignation of Dr. Gilbert

Tweedie, medical superintendent of the isolation hospital, was accepted

by the local board of health yesterday.

Dr. Tweddie has held the post continufor the present hospital, which was opened in 1893. Advanced years and feebleness are given as the cause of retirement. Dr. W. J. Bryans, who is acting superincendent at present, while

OBITUARY.

JOHN KELLS INGRAM DEAD.

DUBLIN, May 1 .- John Kells Ingram

LL.D., the political economist, is dead.

He was born in County Donegal, Ire land, in 1823. He was a member of the commission for publication of ancient laws and institutes of Ireland and was connected permanently with various Irish societies and movements.

He published, in 1888, a history of political economy, which has been translated into Japanese and into nine European languages. Other works of a similar character have been widely read.

Edward Fawcett.

Edward Fawcett, for many years a merchant tailor on Yonge-street, died yesterday aged 81. He was one of the first members of the Army and Navy Veterans' Association. He was taken suddenly ill on Sunday night. The following sons and daughters survive:
