The Passing Show of Straight Lined Suits

THE latest issue of Vogue reflects the ascending success of the Two-piece Suit. Tiny clustered tuckings now vie with hand embroidery and beading in subtlety of trimming, the touches are simple but it is in the way they are placed that effect is won.

A Grey Tricotine that really deserves a new color name shows Red beading at the cuff edges and along the top of the pentagon pocket with rows of Steel beads striping down. They combine again on the collar and the story is skinned over by mentioning that it is a straight line model with narrow tie belt. Satin lined $34.75.

A Mandarin type in Sand Tricotine—here the fine tucking is allied with strong hand-embroidery on the collar, on the cuffs and at back, lending some accent to the even straight lines. A Sphinx buckling catches the belt. $47.75.

Very fine tucks on this Navy Polart are pointed at back by band embroidered shields in Cedar and Navy, which appear also on the collar and front cuffs. Satin lined and $34.75. A straight tailored Black Tricotine at $49.75 has clustered tucks and is lined in Grey Crepe de Chine. A Three-piece Tailleur with Blouse Coat has a Jade Blouse and lining. Fine tuckings of its own sort and belt with fancy buckles. All these and related models have come in since those Camel Hair Suits spoken of Saturday.

The spice of variety is surely selling our Coats, Capes and Wraps. The soft pile of the new-er cloths and the run of wood shades, large and shadow plaids and the variations of Loyalty and French Blues presents an array that tells but half of the tale. Add to this the price range down to $19.75 and every factor of popular favor is well met. By the way, a later Cape is a stunner. In Navy Tricotine wide wing-like panels, pointed half way down from the shoulders, have been heavily embroidered by hand in Black Silk and Braid. See them along with the Suits.
