LONDON, March 31 .-- The suffragettes resumed their meetings in Hyde Park and Hampstead Heath yesterday afternoon, and while they were sub-jected to continuous interruptions, the erowds were good tempered and there was no repetition of the scenes of vio-lence which occurred a fortnight ago. In Hyde Park a strong force of po-lice was present to protect the women, who also had an escort of stalwart dockers.

All the speakers were greeted with the ronotonous chant, "Sit down." "Enough of you," and when one of the women announced that one of the women announced that one of the delegates to the international conference to be held in Budapest in June would be a woman member of the Chinese Parliament, there continued shouts of "Ching, ching," which broke up, the meeting gees, It Is Feared, Has Been Burn-With All Its Occupants-City Is Under Martial Law and Heroic Rescuers Are Doing Everything to Aid the Refugees.

DAYTON, March 27.—Flames that destroyed eight buildings in Dayton's submerged business section yesterday cast a red weird glow over the floodcast a red weird glow over the flood-stricken city that added to the fears of thousands of refugees and marooned persons and led to apprehension that there may have been many of the water's prisoners in the burned build-water's prisoners in the burned build-ings.

At the outset he explained the cause for increase in the naval expenditure.

The reasons were, the increases in ships to meet the new German navy law; the increase in men and rate of nav: the increase in size, speed, arma-ings.

That the flames had destroyed the Beckel House, where there was supposed to be more than 200 flood rejuees, was the consensus of opinion of gees, was the consensus of opinion of scores of watchers atop the National Cash Register building, nearly two miles from the scene of the flames. Investigation of the fire at close range was utterly impossible. More than a mile of flood water intervened

BIG HOTEL IS DESTROYED BRITAIN NOT IN DANGER LEAVES IT TO DOMINION

Empire Is Riding Safely Ahead of the Other Powers In Naval Matters-Dominions Free To Choose Their Own Methods of Extending Aid to the Empire.

LONDON, March 27 .- Rt. Hon. Win ston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, introduced in the Commons last evening the estimates for the international objects. There is happily a way open, and which will remain open, whereby the peoples of the world could obtain almost instantaneous mitigation of the happy of the Dayton disaster—the number of dead. Late last night the arrival of motor boats gave hope that by to-night the northern section of the city, now cut off by the Big Maimi's impassable barrier, may be penetrated, and then may be learned the fate of hundreds imprisoned by the torrent that poured down from the broken reservoir.

The list of dead was added to yesterday afternoon by the death of a refugee. It was reported late last night that a number of dead had been found in houses at Fifth and Eagle streets, but when rescuers worked their way into the partially submerged buildings they found a number of the flood's prisoners who were weak from fright and hunger.

Already over-burdened victims of the flood's prisoners who were weak from fright and hunger.

Already over-burdened victims of the water's wrath were compelled to suffer again yesterday in a cold. Brite that appeared to threaten the Jusiness section last night was confined to the block bounded by Second and Third streets and Jefferson and St. Clair streets. In the block ganization or naval increase. It imposes no check upon the development of true naval efficiency. The finances of every country would obtain relief; no navy would sustain the slightest injury.

"This is no appeal of weakness panting behind which we make, but of strength striding on in front. It is an appeal which we address to all nations."

Mr. Churchill then turned to British construction. He was glad to say that nothing had happened during the year to alter the numerical programs ganization or naval increase. It im appeared to have about burned itself out, and it was not believed it would spread to other blocks.

It was impossible to ascertain, even approximately, the number of persons who might have been marooned in this section, and who died after being trapped by flood and fire. Nevertheless rescue work went steadily on, and about 3,000 persons were housed in places of refuge last night, the majority of them in buildings of the National Cash Register Co. At least $65,000 persons are imprisoned in their homes and in business buildings. It is feared their two-days' confinement, have caused tremendous sufferings. The flood came with such suddenness that food supplies in homes were whisked away by the torrent that reached to second floors in almost the flash of an eye. Skiffs skirted the edge of the flooded district, attempting to take food to those whom it was impossible to carry off, but the fierce current discouragingly retarded this work.

A report that the dam above Dayton threatened to break added to the city's terror last night. If the dam breaks it will pour in a flood that will hold up rescue work for days.

Messages from the flood's prisoners in the business section said children were crying for milk while their elders suffered from thirst that grew hourly. Volunteers were called for to-day in an attempt to get food to the suffering.

Which they are to be given and accepted.

"I will now examine three subsidiary objections which may, with some show of plausibility, be urged from different parts of the House," continued Mr. Churchill. "First, there is the obvious dilemma about colonial ships. 'Either,' it is said, 'our standard of sixty per cent. is sufficient for the time being, or it is not. If it is not, give us your proof, and if we are convinced we will increase it. If it is sufficient, then colonial ships are redundant, and from that very fact is, in my opinion, a false dilemma. The people of these islands cannot-be expected to go on indefinitely bearing the Government whips time to get the whole burden of Imperial naval defence. We are confronted with great precequence of which we are making naval preparations hitherto unequals of the making the formation of the suffering.

preoccupation in European waters, in consequence of which we are making naval preparations hitherto unequalled in peace time. The maintenance of the strongest navy at the decisive theatre is itself the main safeguard for the peace and security of the whole British Empire.

"We have also now and in the immediate future the power, by making special arrangements, to send powerful squadrons to any part of the Empire which may be locally threatened. It is evident, however, that were the pressure indecisive, and the theatre to grow continually, our power to detach local reinforcements would gradually be diminished. It behooves the overseas dominions to make exertion for their own and the common security, whether by the provision of local navices or by what is more effectual, making additions to the Imperial navy, which will preserve, restore or increase the world-wide mobility of its squadrons.

"It could not be supposed however.

"It could not be supposed, however, that the naval development of the dominions could be restricted on ac dominions could be restricted on account of any European standard. They, too, like us, must be absolutely free. It is for them to choose the method of their naval development. It is also for them to choose whether their naval forces shall be additional to the British standard or whether they shall be a contribution to aid the heavy burdens of the British taxpayer."

"There is, I fear, no prospect of avoiding large and continuing increases in the naval estimates of future years," said the First Lord, "unless the period of acute rivalries, of rapid scientific expansion through which we are passing, comes to an end. Of all the nations of the world we are perhaps best able to bear, such a strain if it should continue. Yet the evil and the insensate folly of what is now taking place here and all over the world is so patent to the meanest intelligence that concerted effort to arrest it should surely be the first of international objects.
