FISHERMAN DROWNED

Goes Down With His Boat While Sons Are Saved.

Halifax, June 4.—(Special).—News of a drowning accident attended with particularly sad circumstances, was brought to the city this morning. William Pelham, of Herring Cove, one of the best known deep sea fishermen on the western shore, perished in the waves, about eight miles from his home, last night. It was just beginning to grow dark, and as a rain squall set in, accompanied by tricky squalls of wind. At an early hour yesterday morning he and his two sons, James and George, set out on a trip to the fishing grounds in a white boat.

They just reached the grounds at dark. They had on arriving at the grounds lowered the jib and foresail of their craft, but left the mainsail up till they lowered their anchor. Just as the younger son was hoisting the anchor, a heavy squall sprang up, filling the mainsail and careening the white boat over. She took in so much water that she sank immediately.

In some way the father got entangled in some rigging and before he could extricate himself, he sank.

The younger one of the sons was also precipitated into the water, but the senior cut loose the dory and rescued his brother, but in an exhausted condition they roved to Portuguese Cove, 12 miles, whence they walked home to break the news to their aged mother and grown up sisters and brothers.

William Pelham was 60 years of age and highly respected as the western shore he leaves a widow and half a dozen grown up sons and daughters.

Word was received yesterday from Ottawa to the effect that the Duke and Duchess of York would not come to Halifax until about leaving Canada. This has rendered useless the efforts about being made to have the city extend an invitation to the Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts to visit Halifax in September. The idea was to have the Massachusetts men, who have visited England and on most friendly terms with the artillery company of London here at the time of the landing of their highnesses. It was also hoped that the landing here would have been the means of bringing a couple of United States warships or, perhaps, a fleet to Halifax.

The city committee on reception have done little far, owing to the uncertainty of the date of their visit. But now that it appears to be settled that they will come here in October, the committee will plan accordingly. October is not a month favorable to decorative work or outside display of any kind. The display will not, therefore, be anything like the one which has been planned for the landing here or come here not later than September.

The marriage took place today in Christ Church, Dartmouth, of Lena Milson, only daughter of Dr. Thos. Milson, to H. Dixon Romans, eldest son of Alderman Romans.

JEALOUS MAN'S FRENZY.
Two Months Wedded and Cuts Up His Bride's Clothing.

New Haven, June 5.—Richard Pender, a young mechanic, was arraigned in the police court today on the charge of having destroyed his wife's trousseau.

The technical case against him was non-support. But when the case came to trial it was developed that Pender is a fit of jealousy took a large bowie knife and cut all his wife's clothes into shreds so that she had nothing left in which she could appear on the street. He even cut up her shoes, stockings and underclothing.

Judge Dow, Pender admitted his folly, but said somehow that he felt just like tearing things and exercised that manner upon his wife's wedding apparel. He expressed his penitence and stated that if the court would let him off this time he would amend in the future.

"You are a fool," said the judge, "tearing up your wife's clothes. Don't you know you've got to buy new clothes for her? The support of a wife does not consist merely in giving her food to eat. You must provide her with a decent wardrobe. You are a young man but two months married. Now I'm going to continue your case until June 29, and if there is any more trouble of this kind between you and your wife I'll cause you to remember once in a while."

Pender thanked the court and admitted that he had been a fool. His friends say he is madly jealous of his pretty young wife.

THE LIBEL SUIT AGAINST MRS. EDDY.
Student of Plaintiff on the Stand—Continued Until Tomorrow.

Boston, June 4.—Mrs. Helen M. Winchester, of Maine, a very intelligent, progressive young woman who had been a student under Mrs. Woodbury, was the last witness in the trial of the $150,000 libel suit brought by Mrs. Josephine C. Woodbury against Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, in the superior court today.

She testified that she bought a Herald of June 5, 1899, containing an alleged libelous message, but could not remember whether she did this of her own volition or at the suggestion of the plaintiff. She had instantly an idea to whom it referred.

Here the witness excused the jury for the day and said she would hear Mr. Peabody in the morning.

Mr. Fielding continued his argument saying: "I do not know how the prosecution will endeavor to prove that the defendant authorized the publication in the newspaper. Certainly the publication of those words, copyright article would not be such proof as is required here. As to the Christian Science journal, the Christian Science Monitor, the ownership and control of these periodicals had passed from the hands of the defendant. The deed of trust of those papers distinctly declared that she had no personality in them and was still a trustee. Adjustment was taken until tomorrow."

FORMED HUMAN CHAIN.

New York, June 6.—Thirty men linked together by a rope swung themselves over the face of a precipice at the mouth of the Hudson river, and rescued the body of an unidentified boy who had fallen 100 feet from the ledge and had his head crushed out. His body now lies in Pardon's morgue, in Hoboken.

Margaret Anglin.
"I don't think that question is difficult to answer. My favorite actress, I think, will answer. My favorite actress is the one who have to give up the greater portion of their time to business of any kind. I would rather be at home with my mother and two brothers, and look after my household duties than do anything I can imagine."

It has so happened that I never have had a chance to make a permanent home anywhere since I went on the stage, and these seasons I am just what I always wanted. My father was a member of the Canadian parliament and for a number of years in addition to his own personal tastes, we entertained a great deal. Many and many a time I have been invited to transfer them to my own home in Kingston, Ontario, Hamilton, even some times to the United States.

I thought about the folks at home and how very much better dinner they were going to have than the one that I was eating. I would not have any one think that I devote a great deal of thought to going to the theatre, but I do regard the theatre as an important adjunct of a well appointed home.

In the evening I arranged that I should sweep through the drawing rooms of a baronial mansion, and that I should be surrounded by a host of admirers, and that I should be able to wear a new dress and enter into a number of dances with some of the most eligible bachelors in the city.
